W. R. Breeding Asks Re-election

W. R. Breeding this week authorized The Wellington Leader to announce his candidacy for re-election as Commissioner of Precinct 4, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary.

"In asking for my second term I would like to say that Collingsworth county has been operated on a cash basis and has made some $100,000 worth of improvements in the last three years.

"I have appreciated the cooperation of the court and other county officials and taxpayers in making progress the last year, and I believe that much more progress can be made in Collingsworth county by cooperation.

"Collingsworth county cannot stand still. If we do not progress, we will go backward. I believe that we can move forward by depending on these five things:

1. Sound financial operation of the county;
2. Cooperation with other government agencies;
3. Better roads;
4. Better schools;
5. Development of our water resources to the end that we will have improved irrigation possibilities as well as recreational facilities.

"I pledge myself to support all of these means of progress so that Collingsworth county will be a better place to live in as long as they are operated on a sound financial basis.

"A lot of traffic but everything was driving pretty reasonably," Highway Patrolman Bobby Chaffin described the traffic picture in this area over the New Year's holiday.

Chaffin said patrolmen worked less in Collingsworth than in other counties with heavier traffic during the period.

B&B Sets Open House at New Home Sunday

B&B Town and Country Homes will hold Open House at its newly completed home in the Bratten Addition Sunday, Jan. 7, from 2 to 6 p.m. Lucian Bearden and Quenton Brewer, owners, have announced.

owners' lots, with only the interior finishing and plumbing to be done.

Not all Town and Country homes are pre-built, for the owner may have one completely built on his lots. This is done through an affiliate company located in Plainview.

The new home in which open house will be held Sunday is a three-bedroom model with a large living room, a birch-paneled kitchen-dining room, and one bath.

The public is invited to visit this home throughout the afternoon.

noon, and Saturday evening the Wellington and Clarendon girls will play at 7 p.m. and the championship finals in the boys bracket are slated for 8:15.

If a girls team wins all three games, it will be declared winner; if no team wins all three, the total points will determine the first place, and in case of a tie for second place, total points will determine the winner.

Two of the three officials have been named: Red Kirby and Bill Starr of Altus.

The announcement follows: Rep. McIlhenny is 43, married, a graduate of the University of Texas with degrees in law and business, and is a veteran of World War II. He is the owner of a small department store in Wheeler and is a stock farmer.

Most of this property is submerged land on the Gulf Coast which has great mineral value.

School Census Under Way in January

The annual school census is under way through January for all schools of the county, B. W. Beard, county superintendent, has announced.

Mrs. G. L. Jones is in charge of the census for the Wellington Independent School District; Mrs. S. A. Motesbocker, Dodson Independent School District; Supt. Herman Moseley, Quail Rural high school district; and Mrs. J. L. Alexander, Samnorwood rural high school district.

All children from 6 to 18 years, inclusive, are to be enumerated.

Beard emphasized that every child is needed in the census. Each one missed means a loss of $73 to the school district in which he lives.

Any parent who is missed is asked to contact the census enumerator of his district, or call at Beard's office in the court house.

The four schools in the county this year have a scholastic count of 1,469 students. The census will continue through the month of January, it was pointed out.

Elect 2 Water Board Directors on Tuesday

Two directors of the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District will be named in the election Tuesday, Jan. 9, John Coleman, chairman, reminded this week.

There are three candidates for the two places. G. L. Roberts of Rolla is asking reelection, and the other candidates are Dan Henard, Wellington rancher, and Steve Owens, local landowner and business man.

Outgoing directors are Rob-

The new directors will be elected for two year terms. There will be two polling places: Wellington and Samnorwood.

Any voter who paid his 1961 poll tax may vote in this election. There is no property requirement.

A good turnout in this vote is urged, since the coming few years are probably the crucial ones in the county's water development program.

Voting Box No. 1 will care for voters living south of Salt Fork River, and will be the county court room. Voting here will be residents of South and North Wellington, Dodson, Quail, and Marella voting precincts.

Mrs. Joe Terry will be the election judge and Mrs. Chas. Allen and Mrs. Peck White the clerks.

Voting Box No. 2, at Samnorwood school, will take care of the county north of Salt Fork River, which includes Lucie, Dozier and Samnorwood voting precincts.

Mrs. J. D. Aaron authorized The Wellington Leader to announce her candidacy for re-election as county treasurer with the following statement: "In seeking re-election, I have only my past record as County Treasurer to offer and assure you of being a better official in the future, as experience is a major factor in this office.

"It has been your friendship, support and cooperation that has enabled me to make the success of my office, for which I am deeply grateful. As most of you know, the county finances are in better shape at this time than they have been in the history of the county.

"I give each of you a personal invitation to come by my office at any time and discuss any county finances and/or check any records which I have.

When you go to the polls on May 5, 1962, if you are pleased with me as your present county treasurer, I ask for your vote and support for the coming term.

This Is Free Enterprise

The Assn. of American Physicians and Surgeons recently sponsored an essay contest for high school students on the subject "What Is Free Enterprise?" The winner of the $1,000 first prize was Herschel Mills, a 17-year-old student who lives in Angleton, Texas. His opening paragraph reads: "The greatest monument I have ever seen to free enterprise is the modern American supermarket. On a single shelf may be found one product under fifteen different labels, every one of those labels proclaiming its product to be the best made. Fifteen manufacturers, each trying to convince the public that only he can produce green peas capable of satisfying hunger. This is free enterprise."

There is, obviously, a great deal more to free enterprise than a supermarket or any other kind of enterprise. But young Harschel Mills did pick a first-class example. The retail store, whether it deals in food or clothes or variety goods or appliances or anything else, is the showcase of the American system. That system demands the most intense kind of competition, both on the part of the producers whose wares are displayed and on the part of the stores themselves. A manufacturer may put out a bad product, claim the world for it, and survive for a time—but it will be a short time. A store may be derelict in its advertising and its standards of courtesy and service, and it too will survive for a time—but it will be a short time. Consumers reward the producers and distributors who serve them best.

And that is one big reason why your living standards are the highest on earth.

Stand Up and Holler

"Stand up and holler" if you want changes in governmental policies. This statement may be rather crudely put, but it is expressive.

Too many persons spend time lamenting about this of that policy of the government—from the national level on down to our city government. The remarks that the public can't do anything about bad government is aimless babble.

One of the great rights of being an American is that of being able to speak out against policies with which one differs. There is, however, the chance that the right may be eventually lost unless the people make more use of it.

A letter, telegram, or a telephone call can be directed to the top, when one wants to make his views known. And don't think for a minute that it doesn't get to the top. In both government and business the top brass have an ear to the ground to try and hear what the public is saying and thinking.

The American public can accomplish momentous reforms if they will quit complaining about policies, take up their pen or their telephone and not be afraid to speak up. We know it's easier to complain than to take aggressive action, but that's like waiting for "the government to do something for you."

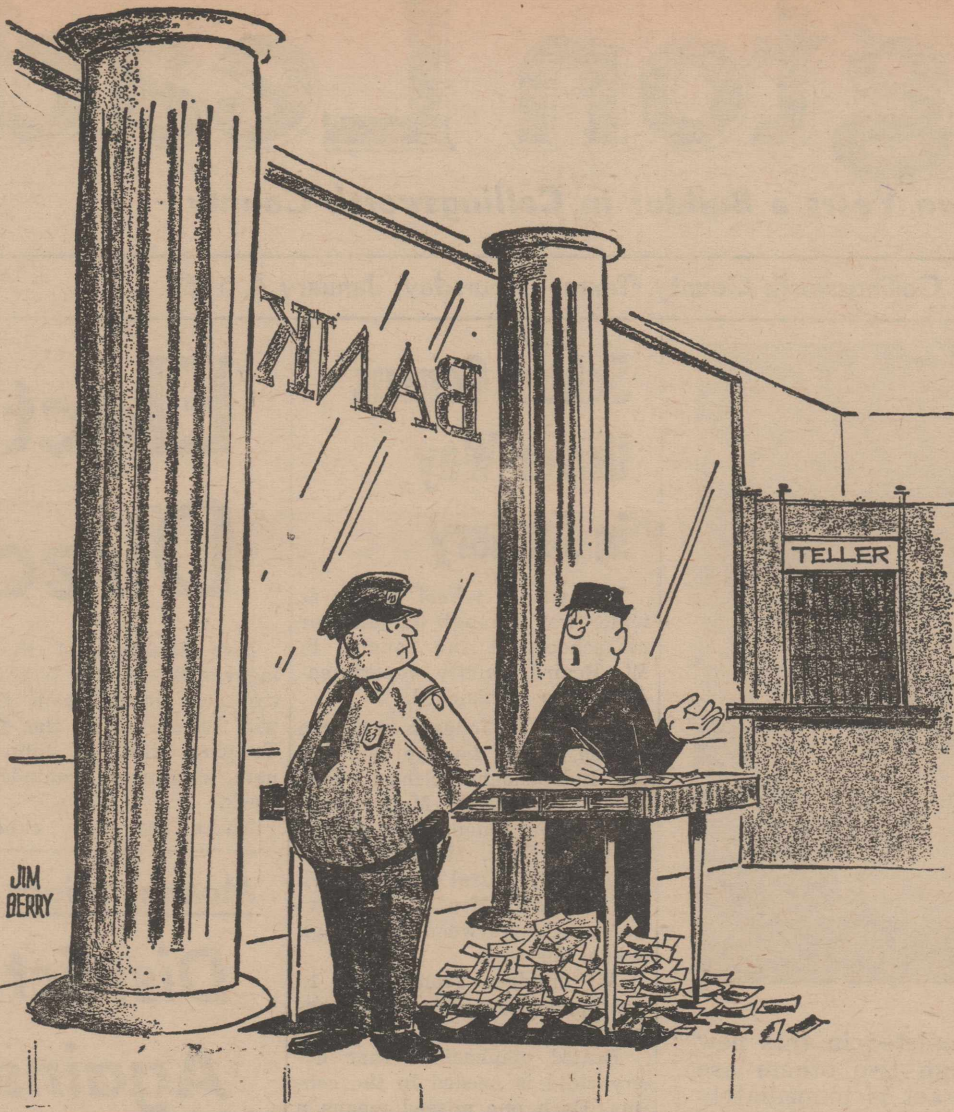

Individual action, aggressive and constructive, can do more.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I note that India attached Goa here the other day, after letting the Portuguese think they owned it for 450 years.

This move of course was based on the new Progressive World Order theory that any piece of land you once owned is still yours by Divine Right if you are big enough to take it.

Which is a whole lot like the Old World theory except for the quibble about previous ownership, and shows that even under U.N. brotherhood, the other fellow's conscience is no substitute for high clobberability.

I see where ex-President Eisenhower says federal government is overrunning the country because the state and local governments are not doing their jobs good enough.

My intoxicated neighbor says this is a dilly of a system, having a Big Daddy government with extrasensory perception about loose ends, and itching to gather them up.

Says in time this will simplify our whole lives; like if a man keeping his TV watched is too busy to fix a drippy faucet, the Federals can rush out a Faucet Corps to fix it for him.

I see where there is talk of setting up a big public works program to furnish more jobs, if unemployment gets much worse.

My near-fetched neighbor says this sounds like a fine, vote-getting idea, but he is wondering what type of public works we might get crafted up by, say, a crew of unemployed yo-yo makers.

Says he expects, though, a skilled coal miner could lay bricks or paint a postoffice mural about as good as a career soap maker can perpetrate foreign policy.

I see where New York electricians are wanting a five-day, 20-hour week, at $8.25 per hour.

My technicalous neighbor says thus dawns the revolt of the mechanics who set up and troubleshoot our pushbutton age, and get less pay for their work than second-rate encyclopedia salesmen or instant African experts.

Says the time is coming when a citizen can't afford to own a car, TV set, indoor plumbing, etc., unless he can service same himself, or has got a wife who is handy with a hairpin.

I see where Labor Secretary Goldberg has arbitrated more pay for Metropolitan Opera orchestra members, although the Met is already losing money every year.

Seems that the Secretary is aiming to cover the bigger deficit with a shot of Federal cure-all, as he don't want to see any Art die out just because people won't buy it.

My on-pitch neighbor says he reckons he is in favor of a government subsidy to keep opera alive, on account of its performers seem like try very hard, and sometimes do produce noises that sound a little like music.

National Labor Relations Board says the use of firearms by an employer is unfair labor practice, and has also ordered a union local to cease from shooting at workers crossing picket lines.

This new-born deploremont of gunsmoke in labor strife is maybe due to government intermeddlers in this field not wishing to get caught in any crossfire.

But anybody who watches TV knows that considerable firing off of guns can take place with hardly anybody getting seriously shot unless he needs it.

WTU HAS SAID...

"The Center of the Southwest faces Growth Unlimited"

We believe this to be a fact because the Southwest is growing 25% faster than the Nation, and our service area is the heart of the region.

What's more, we are convinced this growth will continue, because expansion of commercial, industrial and agricultural activities all point that way.

On our part we are backing up this belief in coming growth with a multi-million-dollar expansion program. Our service facilities are being increased today, to serve more people, more businesses, more industries tomorrow.

Yes, for all of us, there's GROWTH UNLIMITED ahead.

NEWS LETTER

from Congressman
WALTER ROGERS

THINGS TO COME

In the closing days of the year 1960 I wrote a newsletter entitled "1961" and pointed up two of the major problems that would be facing the first session.

These were Federal aid to education and medical care to the aged. That newsletter could be reprinted today and point up two of the major problems that will face the Congress in 1962.

Hence, it would appear that the advocates of Federal aid to education, as well as the advocates of Federal medical aid to the aged have not yet been successful in these two undertakings.

It can be expected that much effort will be expended during this last session of the 87th Congress to push these measures along. However, I think past experience would indicate that very little headway will be made in either area during the coming session of Congress and that these two issues will still be pending in 1963, unless completely dead.

Much of the time of the next Congress will be taken up on the subject of Foreign Trade. This will originate in the treatment of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act which will be up for extension and revision.

However, in addition, it can be expected that there will be many problems in the field of foreign trade and in our relations with foreign governments on other subjects that will be time consuming. As I pointed out in a previous news letter, the Soviet Bloc is becoming quite active in world markets, and it is difficult to tell just what course the Reds will follow.

There is no question but they are vigorously opposed to the European Common Market scheme. They do not want strong economic ties among the European countries, or between the European countries and this country. They realize that a strong economic development along the lines of the Common Market can lead to a strong political alignment, which would mean greater expansion of military strength in the whole structure. It will be most interesting to watch the developments during the year 1962 and the means by which the Reds undertake to undermine the Common Market.

The actions of this country on the Reciprocal Trade question will be watched with eager eyes by countries all over the world.

There are a number of Bills still pending in the Congress which passed one of the Houses, but not the other.

One of these, H.R. 5751, amends the Subversive Activities Act to make it possible to deal more effectively in controlling Communist and other foreign propaganda, and also requires registration of domestic organizations or combinations directed or financed by a foreign country or foreign political party. This measure passed the House and was favorably reported by the Senate. It can be most helpful in the fight against Communism.

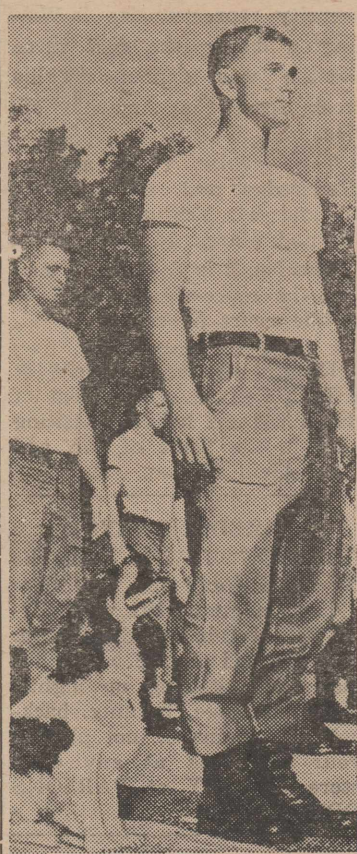

Another measure that will be of great help is H.R. 8465 which prohibits shipment in interstate or foreign commerce of articles imported to the U.S. from Cuba. This would effectively prevent any trade with Cuba, and would be in keeping with the general feeling of the people of this country as to doing business with Castro.

Extensive hearings were held on this measure before the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, of which I am a member. These hearings were most interesting and pointed up the need for this type of legislation. This measure passed the House of Representatives but has not yet been reported in the Senate. It is hoped that early action will be had.

Another measure that has passed the House of Representatives and is presently pending in the Senate is H.R. 8603 which requires public disclosures of identical bids on government contracts. You will, no doubt, recall the exposures in the past two years of some of our major industrial concerns engaging in price fixing activities. Price fixing by the government is abhorrent in the free enterprise system. Likewise, price fixing by the producers of goods that are supposed to be sold on a competitive basis is equally abhorrent, if not more so.

The defense structure of the nation requires extensive contracting with private enterprise industrial concerns under competitive bidding practices. When these organizations conspire to fix prices and the result is imposition upon the American taxpayer, firm and prompt prosecution is in order. Hence, this particular measure could be most important in seeing that fair competition is maintained under our free enterprise system and that the taxpayers are not victimized by the greed of the few.

We can also expect much attention to be paid in the next Congress to the problem of taxation. It is a continuing and ardent task to see that the tax structure is fair and that the burden is equally distributed. This can change from day to day; hence the need for continued re-evaluation.

Exhaustive studies have already been made with relation to the basic tax structure, and it is hoped that effective action will be forthcoming in the near future from which tax relief may flow.

J. C. Randel, manager of the West Texas Utilities Quantah District will temporarily assume the managerial duties of the Childress District. Randel will divide his time between the two district offices.

This move, announced by Cal Young, West Texas Utilities president, was made necessary by the death of Allan Shanhan on Dec. 25. Randel will continue to live in Quantah, but will divide his time between the Childress and Quantah districts.

Work of Soil Testing Lab is Explained

COLLEGE STATION.— The increasing interest in soil testing, as the foundation for soil improving programs and the resulting increase in the number of soil samples submitted to the State Laboratory, has necessitated expansion of the facilities, said Dr. R. E. Patterson, Dean of Agriculture at Texas A&M College.

Dean Patterson added farmers and ranchmen have found that crop and pasture yields can be increased by following recommendations supplied by the Laboratory Soil test that determine the proper amounts and kinds of fertilizers, and limestone required for profitable production.

The new laboratory, located on the second floor of the College's Old Creamery building, was put into operation immediately after the move on Oct. 26. It will continue to be operated by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service with Extension Soil Chemist W. F. Bennett in charge.

In commenting on the new facility, Extension Director John E. Hutchison said, "the new laboratory will enable us to provide better service to the agriculturists of the state. The new quarters will provide additional space and increase the capacity of the laboratory."

In addition to the State Laboratory, the Extension Service also operates facilities at Seymour and Lubbock. During the past year, September 1960 August 1961, the three labs handled 13,987 soil samples.

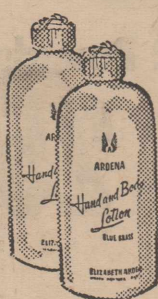

Harris county was high with 702 samples submitted. Castro, Parmer, Lamb, Hale and Wilbarger counties followed in that order. Samples were also received and tested from seven other states and from Mexico, Brazil, Argentina, The Bahamas and the Virgin Islands. The High Plains Laboratory at Lubbock began operations last November, which is under the supervision of J. H. Valentine. Baylor County Agent R. L. McClung is in charge of the Seymour facility.

Mrs. Otis Brookman of Hols spent Wednesday night, Dec. 27, with Mrs. Lula Turner. They have been friends since girlhood.

Reception Honors Mr., Mrs. Mack Saied on Their Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Saied, who have been a vital part of Wellington's business and community life for almost 35 years, observed their golden wedding anniversary Friday, Dec. 29 when they children were hosts at a reception.

This was one of two events given for the couple, and it was here that friends from Wellington and the surrounding area called to honor Mr. and Mrs. Saied.

The reception was held in the club room of the community building, and their six children, with their children-in-law, who were hosts included Mr. and Mrs. Mack Saied Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred Saied, Dr. and Mrs. V. C. Saied of Wichita Falls, Mr. and Mrs. George Farris of Shamrock, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Taylor of Quanah, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Massad of Spearman.

Guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Saied and their sons and daughters. For the occasion Mrs. Saied wore a gold lame dress, with harmonizing accessories and her corsage was an orchid.

Mrs. Chas. B. Jones was at the register.

Gold flowers were used in profusion to decorate the entertaining room. Bouquets, the gifts of friends, in pedestal holders, were used at regular intervals about the room and other arrangements in low bowls were on the gift tables which were covered with gold cloths. Extending across the back of the principal gift table was a row of lighted tapers in wrought iron candelabras, and other tables were to the side of this.

The tiered wedding cake was at the center of the gold-covered reception table, and on either side were candles in three-branched silver holders. Appointments were of milk glass and silver. Mrs. V. C.

Who's New in the Wellington Area

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Cary of Hollis are the parents of a daughter, Belinda Renee, born in St. Joseph's Hospital December 27. Her weight was seven pounds, nine and one-half ounces.

A daughter, Dotty DeAnn, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Bruton of Lutie December 28, in St. Joseph's Hospital. She weighed seven pounds.

A son, James Lee, was born to Mrs. Sammie Yarrington of Mangum, Oklahoma, in St. Joseph's Hospital December 30. His weight was seven pounds and thirteen ounces. The baby's father is the late Bobby Gene Yarrington.

The first baby born in 1962 was Cristy Gay Moseley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Moseley. She was born January 2, in St. Joseph's Hospital and weighed eight pounds and two ounces. She is their first child. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Gabe Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Moseley.

Saied of Wichita Falls, a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Camal Dakil of Dumas, a granddaughter, and Mrs. Fred Saied, a daughter-in-law, served.

The couple's grandchildren and other members of the family assisted in the house party.

Here to join the couple in the observance of their anniversary were Mrs. Saied's sister, Mrs. Mary Abdour of Stretator, Ill., and his brother, Ben Saied of Childress.

Guests called between the hours of seven and nine.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Saied were born in Syria, but came with their families to the United States while they were young.

They were married in Henryetta, Okla., Dec. 31, 1911.

Mr. Saied did not at first own his own dry goods store, but traveled as a salesman. A few years later, however, he entered into business for himself. For a number of years he and Mrs. Saied operated their store in Healdton, Okla., but he saw in West Texas a section of greater opportunity.

In 1927 they moved with their children to Wellington and opened The Leader Store in a 25-foot building on the east side of the square, now part of Sullivan Hardware and Furniture. From this, Mr. and Mrs. Saied developed the business into one of the largest department stores in the southeast Panhandle.

After a few years, Mr. Saied moved The Leader to the west side of the square, in what is now The Fair Store. The next move was to the north side, when the business moved into a home double the size of its former location.

As his oldest and youngest sons, Mack Saied Jr. and Fred Saied, completed their work at Texas Technological College, they joined their father in the business, and after several years of work under him Mr. Saied turned the business over to these two young men. This did not mean he left the store, for he remains a vital part, not only of this family business, but the business life of the community.

Mr. Saied has been generous to Wellington, and an active participant in many civic activities. He was a long-time member of the Wellington Kiwanis Club.

Mrs. Saied joined her husband in the active management of their business, but at the same time she devoted herself to their family.

Mr. and Mrs. Saied have kept many of the fine traditions and customs of their native land. Notable among these is the hospitality for which the Saied home is widely known, and which they have shared with the community of Wellington.

Relatives and Close Friends Honor Mr. and Mrs. Saied at Dinner Sun.

The second major event honoring Mr. and Mrs. Mack Saied on their golden wedding anniversary was the luncheon Sunday, Dec. 31, for relatives and close friends, many of whom came from points through Texas and Oklahoma.

This was followed by an afternoon of visiting and reminiscing at the Veterans of Foreign Wars building.

Gifts received from friends throughout the country were displayed on tables covered with gold cloths and decorated with bouquets of gold and silver flowers.

Gold net covered the central table, which was centered with the large tiered wedding cake. Lighted tapers burned in silver candelabras on either side.

Guests were seated at long tables, and along these were set bouquets of all shades of gold, and all of them gifts from friends.

Fred Nayfa of Sweetwater gave the invocation and the guests were welcomed by Mack Saied Jr., oldest son of the honor guests.

Following the dinner, guests went to the VFW building. Children as well as adults attended and joined in the festivities. As the group was made up altogether of relatives and friends gained during the half century of the couple's married life, much of the evening was devoted to reminiscing and to many rich memories that bind this close-knit group.

Music was provided by an orchestra which included two sons, Fred Saied of Wellington and Dr. V. C. Saied of Wichita Falls. Vocal selections were given by a granddaughter, Miss Jennie Lynn Massad of Spearman, who last spring received her degree in music from West Texas State College.

During the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Saied were persuaded to give some of the dances of their native Syria—dances familiar to elder members of the group, but new and quickly picked up by the youngsters.

The six children of Mr. and Mrs. Saied, with their families, were hosts, and these included Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Taylor, Debbie and Becky, of Quanah; Dr. and Mrs. V. C. Saied, Vick and Andy, of Wichita Falls; Mr. and Mrs. George Farris and George Jr., of Shamrock; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Massad, Jenny Lynn Massad and Pat Massad, of Spearman; Mr. and Mrs. Mack Saied Jr., Mary, Robert, Cindy and Jimmy, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Saied, Sharon and Alan of Wellington.

Others registered at Sunday's event were Mr. and Mrs. K. Haddad, Mrs. Bob Toma and son, and Miss Nadia Shaheen, of Mangum; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Saied and Celia, of Oklahoma City; Mr. and Mrs. George Saied and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Saied and family, of Perryton;

Norman Farris, Woodrow Farris, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Arbogast and Linda, of Oklahoma City; Mr. and Mrs. Camal Dakil of Dumas; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Farris and family of Snyder, Okla.; Dr. and Mrs. Fred Taylor of Wichita Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Friends Honor Mr. and Mrs. L. W. McClure on Golden Wedding Dec. 24

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. McClure observed their golden wedding anniversary with an open house at the community building on Christmas eve, when a large group of friends joined them in the celebration. This event came two days before the anniversary date, December 26.

Four of the couple's six children were here and were hosts at the open house: Mrs. Rudolph Miller of Wichita Falls, Arvel McClure of Whiteface, Roy McClure of Memphis, and Billy McClure of Panhandle. Unable to attend were Gene McClure and Dick McClure of Tulare, Calif.

Flowers in shades of gold, most of them gifts from their friends, decorated the club room and the gift table, covered in a white cloth, accented with a gold stripe.

White net covered the registration table, set with an arrangement of gold flowers and a tall candle, surrounded by golden leaves.

The serving table was laid with a net cloth over white satin, marked with golden bows at the corners. Bronze chrysanthemums and gold leaves formed the centerpiece and crystal appointments were used. Miss Lynda John Norman served the wedding cake, and Mrs. Athen Lowrie of Weatherford, Okla., poured. Others in the house party were Mrs. McClure's twin sister, Mrs. Pat Dickey, who was married to the late Mr. Dickey on the same day as Mr. and Mrs. McClure; Mrs. Billy McClure, Mrs. Roy McClure, Mrs. Paul Brewer, and Mrs. J. E. Norman. The latter are daughters-in-law and nieces.

Mrs. McClure before her marriage was Miss Selestia Wilson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Wilson, and was born in Itawamba county, Miss., Sept. 13, 1891. She grew up there and came with her family to Collingsworth county in 1910.

Mr. McClure was born in Independence county, Arkansas, near Batesville, Oct. 4, 1889. He also grew up in his native state, and came here in 1909 to live with his uncle, the late Mr. Dickey.

The two couples, L. W. McClure and Selestia Wilson, and Pat Dickey and Sederia Wilson, were married by a Min. Armstrong, a Church of Christ minister, as they sat in their buggies in front of his home four miles east of Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickey lived here continuously, but Mr. and Mrs. McClure returned to Arkansas during the first year of their marriage, but two years later, came back to Collingsworth county. In 1924 they moved to Hart, and three years later to Springlake, where they

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Fulcher of 1300 Fort Worth street were honored with an open house on their sixty-seventh wedding anniversary — an anniversary which few Collingsworth county couples are privileged to celebrate.

The celebration was held on Sunday, Dec. 24 at the home of their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Eva Fulcher. Mrs. David Peters assisted her with hostess duties.

Receiving the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fulcher, Mrs. Eva Fulcher, a daughter, Mrs. Ettie Walker, and three of their granddaughters, Mrs. James Lewis of Chillicothe, Mrs. Don Hyden and Mrs. Loyd Robertson of Amarillo.

Mrs. Kenyard Poteet and Mrs. Peters registered the guests and displayed the gifts.

The serving table was centered with a white Christmas tree, trimmed with gold ornaments and gold lettering. Members of the house party alternated at serving the cake and pouring. The three-tiered wedding cake was a gift from Mrs. Peters.

Guests called between the hours of two and four.

Mr. and Mrs. Fulcher moved to Collingsworth county in 1912, living in the Cottonwood community until they moved to town. They have lived on Fort Worth street for 30 years.

Mr. Fulcher, known as Uncle John, was born April 7, 1876, in Hamilton county. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fulcher and one of nine children.

Mrs. Fulcher was born Susie Malone on May 8, 1880, at

Face Flies a New Pest for Stock Owners

If you see flies clustering around the sunny sides of gates and fenceposts and the faces of cattle, it's safe to guess these are face flies, says a Farm Quarterly writer in a recent report.

When face flies attack, cattle tend to huddle together and toss their heads a great deal.

The face fly looks no different from the housefly, may be slightly larger and darker, until you see it under a magnifying glass.

The male of the species is harmless. He hangs around fenceposts and feeds on a few grains of pollen.

The female is the pest that feeds on tears from the eyes of an animal and on mucus from its nose and mouth. Face flies will stick their mouths right into a cow's eye to bring on more tears.

Blood is a treat to them. Though they don't bite, they take leftover blood from the bites of horseflies and other insects and will flock to any bloody scratch. They are opportunists who take their meals where they can.

One of the worst examples of this was a calf dropped on pasture. Within minutes the calf was absolutely blackened by thousands of face flies sponging up the fluids covering it.

Cattle are affected the most. Horsemen have some difficulty, but dogs and sheep seem to be only slightly affected. Direct loss from face flies is measured in dollars, not in pennies. One New York dairy farmer figured the 75 to 100 flies he counted per head caused a slump of 20% in milk production.

Indirect loss may be as great. A flareup of pink eye may accompany the arrival of face flies. This can cause total or partial blindness.

Preparations are on the market to give cows protection on pasture and the newest thing is an electric-eye spray applicator mounted on the entrance to the barn door.

The ultimate answer to the face fly problem most likely is not in killing the adult but in eliminating the larvae.

The female deposits her eggs only in cow droppings less than one hour old. They will not use squashed or dried manure.

Specialists are now working on a larvicide feed additive that would not harm the cow or show up in the milk, yet would pass out in manure strong enough to kill larvae. Several substances already look promising. Still, larvae control will not mean the end of every stockman's face fly problem. All stockmen in an area must cooperate to wipe out face flies or they will merely leave one pasture and pass to another.

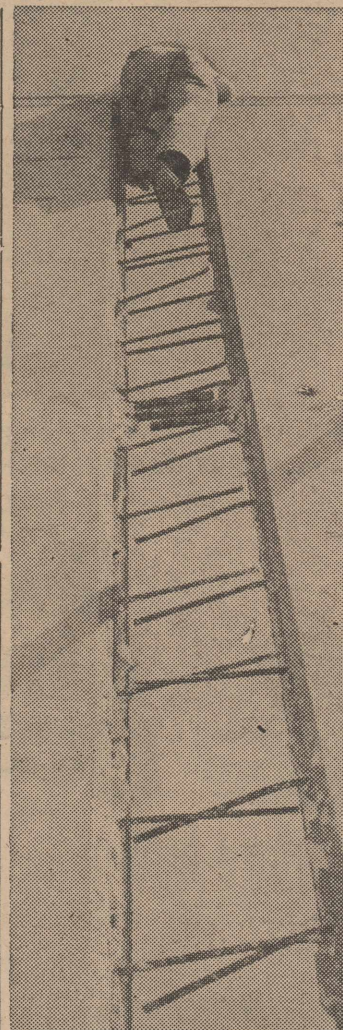

Number Hunters and Fishermen on Increase

"It is interesting to note that both in Texas and nationally there is a definite increase in the number of hunters and fishermen, the number of hours they spend in hunting or sports fishing, and their expenditure on equipment.

Last year was a good year in the main for both hunting and fishing, and there is every indication that this year will be much better. The 208,000 deer kill in Texas in 1960 reported in this survey, was slightly higher than our own estimate. Based on this total, however, the 1961 harvest should be considerably more. For instance, in the Edwards Plateau alone this year, 71,000 permits have been issued for taking of antlerless deer. This number is greater than the total harvest of deer only a few years ago when only bucks were permitted.

It is also significant that these surveys continue to show an increase in the number of women who hunt and fish.

Plan Personal Record Guide for Family

Why not write out a personal record for those who must settle your estate after you are gone? This, over and above your will. One man sat down in front of a microphone and made a tape for the advice of his family.

Well, however you do it, list the names, addresses, birth dates of yourself, your wife or husband, your children, father, and mother.

Tell them the names of your trusted friends who can advise them.

Write in clear detail where to find:

Your will, your executor's name, and the banker who knows your business affairs;

Your certificates of birth, marriage, veterans' discharge and such papers;

Your deposit box and its key;

The amount and beneficiary of each of your insurance policies, your insurance agents and their addresses;

Details about your mortgage, papers, notes, contracts, financial agreements, plus any stocks, bonds, and the like and your broker's name and address;

Facts on your Social Security—your card number, its location, and your employer's name and address;

Your tax records;

Your debtors, creditors, and what is owed;

Your lawyer's name, address and telephone, and papers in his safe-keeping;

The name and address of anyone who has your power of attorney;

Your pension arrangements; The names of organizations to which you belong and any benefits which may be coming to your family from them; Funeral arrangements you prefer;

Names and addresses of relations or friends you wish notified;

Facts about your children's health record, facts they might find hard to get without your help;

A list of your personal belongings;

Include other facts that may seem important.

Then, having completed this guide for your family, put it in a safe place—but not in your safe deposit box. Tell your family or closest friend where to find the list.

Fishing Without A License Still Violation of Law

AUSTIN.—Fishing without a license continued to be the major game law violation in the latter part of 1961, according to a report of J. B. Phillips, law enforcement coordinator of the Game and Fish Commission.

Wardens charged 114 persons with fishing without a license in October. There were 23 hunters also charged with hunting without a license.

Hunting from an automobile, and hunting in closed season, were next high on the list, with 25 violations in each category.

Ten persons were arrested for killing doves in closed season, 11 for killing quail, and 13 for killing squirrels.

In all, wardens made 295 arrests and fines and court costs amounted to $7,987.01. Five hunters paid fines ranging from $50 to $200 for deer violations. Their licenses also were revoked.

Plan Feed Handling on The Farm

COLLEGE STATION.—Every farm feeding and feed processing installation has its own problems, says W. S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer. Feed handling systems, he adds, must usually be engineered for a specific operation.

Whether old facilities are used in the installation or a completely new system put in, certain basic decisions must be made. These are based on the present needs and should allow also for future expansion.

Facts must be determined on quantity of material to be handled (based on feed requirements of the type and the number of livestock on the farm), the kind of materials being fed, location of present or proposed facilities, type and amount of equipment needed to give the required capacity, and the desired product to be fed.

Also to be considered are the storage of required products for later processing; conveying equipment sizes, layout, types; and preparation of a flow diagram to show the simplest and most efficient ways of doing the job.

Some materials handling principles will help guide in the planning, says Allen. Move materials as little as possible, let livestock help as much as is feasible, provide for continuous flow and eliminate unnecessary operations. Mechanize those operations that can be done so effectively.

Professional assistance is available to Texas farmers from agricultural engineers with power suppliers and from consulting engineers.

County agents have access to the resources of the agricultural engineers at Texas A&M College who can offer help in the design and layout of feed processing and handling systems. They have available B-972, "Farm Feed Processing Equipment Planning and Design" that will provide design assistance for planning such systems.

"It pays to get all of the information and assistance you can before making large investments in new equipment for this purpose," says Allen.

Quail Semester Ends Jan. 12

Quail students will begin final examinations Wednesday, Jan. 10, and the first semester will end Friday, Jan. 12, Supt. Herman Moseley announced.

The second semester will begin Monday, January 15. Quail school resumed class work Monday, Jan. 1, following the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Stuckey returned home last week from a week's vacation to points in Texas. They spent part of the Christmas holidays in Comanche, their former home, visiting with friends. From there they went to Houston where they visited his brother, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Stuckey, and at Garland they visited her sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Barnhart and Jimmy.

Mrs. Lula Turner and Bill Turner had as their guests for the Christmas holidays her children, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Turner and son, Marvin, of El Paso; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Turner of Durant, Okla.; a granddaughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Walker, of El Paso, and the Lois Tyson family.

Here to spend the New Year week end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Falk were her sister, Mrs. A. J. McCann and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sterling McCann, all of Stamford.

LOOKING AHEAD

by Dr. George S. Benson

THE "LIBERAL" PRESS

The peculiar sensitivity and impatience of the "liberal" press toward what they are calling anti-Communist programs is not understood by many readers of "liberal" newspapers and periodicals. Readers often write indignant letters to editors who have taken up the anti-anti-Communist cudgel, but it seems doubtful whether these editors ever succeed in explaining the political motivations that direct them into such a policy.

Most of them seem to cherish the memory of every political victory over "big" business since 1932 and to follow whatever policies will disassociate them from the business community of which they are a part.

It has been demonstrated that advertisers rarely can control newspapers, nor do they usually want to. The subscribers, however, can determine the financial health of a journal, for circulation makes possible the sale of advertising space. Does a publisher then direct his appeal to the few, or to the masses?

It takes courage to present unpopular ideas. Some newspapers, therefore, look for a secure economic base by appealing to readers in the manner of the politician who looks for votes where the votes are: in labor unions, for example.

A Matter of Self-Interest

The late E. W. Scripps learned this lesson in Cleveland years ago, when he got his start by attacking business or anything that could be made to look ominous, while wildly supporting the nearest available underdogs, the more numerous the better.

Does this explain why some newspapers are afraid to attack the spending policies of big government? Or denounce trends toward expansion of governmental powers and toward the welfare state that encourages dependency and discourages private initiative, ad infinitum?

It is not too difficult to see where your publisher's interests lie. If your publisher's editor wants everything that is dear to the socialist programs of years past—except the name "socialist"—the election of Norman Thomas as president—then readers need not be surprised when his editorials attack anti-Communists. He has to be consistent. It will make no difference that the Communist Party, U.S.A., is also attacking anti-Communists, by Command of Moscow.

And Avoid Patriotism

Suppose your newspaper opposes (not all do, of course) anything that looks like Americanism indoctrination—in military training, in the public schools, in public seminars. Your newspaper may have forgotten to oppose indoctrination by editorial, but we must overlook that.

The point is that most likely the newspaper has become well-indoctrinated itself: to the left. In this condition, it is quite likely to insist one of these days that nobody can define Americanism, except possibly Senators Morse or Fulbright, so why should anyone bother with indoctrination?

To educate, however, is permissible. One can even study the evils of Communism, as long as it is limited to Communism in the Soviet Union. Attention to domestic policies that lead to Communism must be studiously avoided. And go lightly on the patriotism. Conclusion: to teach socialism is education, but to oppose Communism wherever it is found and declare American principles is indoctrination, a very bad sort of thing that nobody with intelligence can afford to do.

Time to Decide

A dangerous attitude often found among educators is that reaching any sort of definite conclusion is unprofessional or unacademic. Really, perhaps it should be said that if we are too naive to make up our minds about the Communist menace we do not deserve freedom from enslavement.

The facts have been pouring from the front pages of our newspapers (from the liberal ones, too) for years. The facts are in. It's time for the decision.

The Soviets have long counted on America embracing enough socialism to make their job of conquest easy. They are not particular whether it is voted in by the Republicans or the Democrats. It doesn't even matter to them whether it is called something besides socialism. Every little bit helps them. They are glad to have the help of our newspapers, operating under constitutional guarantees of a free press, whether it is a reporter paving the way for Castro's advance to power or an editorial writer lambasting the anti-Communists. Newspapers, like individuals, need to stand up and be counted—for America!

Starkey with Geotechnical

Doolen Starkey began work Tuesday, Jan. 2, as an engineer with the Geotechnical Corporation, whose home office is in Garland.

He will be assigned to field work for the first three to five months of his employment.

Starkey received a bachelor of science degree in physics from the University of Texas in January 1959, and following his Army service, he returned to Austin.

During the Christmas holidays, Starkey visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oran Starkey, and his brother Gary.

Courtney on Cage Trip with CJC

Max Courtney, member of the Clarendon Junior College basketball team, returned with that group on a pre-Christmas trip in which the team played Lamar, Colo., Junior College and Garden City, Kan., Junior College.

They were defeated in both tilts. Ray Debord was high scorer in the Lamar game with 28 points, and Courtney second with 17.

Their next games are slated with Sayre Junior College, Lubbock Christian College, Frank Phillips Junior College at Borger, and Howard County Junior College at Big Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Price had two of their children with them for the Christmas holiday: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Price and children of Clarendon, and a daughter who lives here, Mr. and Mrs. David Baumgardner and family. For New Year's they had another daughter visiting: Mr. and Mrs. C. C. McCulloch and Be-weeda Gail and their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Youngblood, all of Dallas. On Sunday the three couples went to Amarillo to visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bettis.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Gill and family of Pottsboro were here during the holidays visiting her mother, Mrs. R. H. Ball, and with a sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. King and daughters.

Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Wattam left Friday, Dec. 22, for a week to visit with his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Cox of Broken Bow, Okla.

Methodists Begin All Church Mission Study

The church-wide mission study of First Methodist church will begin Sunday evening, Jan. 7 at 6 o'clock with a covered dish supper in fellowship hall, under the leadership of Mmes. Bill Reeves and Wayne Cudd, fellowship co-chairmen for the study. Following the supper, different age groups will meet with their leaders for study of "Latin American Lands in Focus."

There will be directed activities for the younger children. The nursery will be open for the wee ones.

"This study is family-wide—let us cooperate with our commission on Missions by including every member of the family in our Sunday evening plans for church attendance these next few weeks. Through this study we hope to reach the mind and spirit of the entire congregation, and to keep the church informed about missionary progress, missionary needs and missionary opportunities," the Rev. Davis Edens, pastor, said.

Study books may be obtained from Jack Davis. "It will be helpful if you can get your book in time to read it before Sunday night," the pastor said.

Mrs. Jerry Nix, adult leader, will give the introduction to the study of the adults on Sunday evening in the sanctuary.

Mrs. A. J. Fires, youth leader, urges all MYF members, both senior and junior high, to be present for the first session, Sunday evening in the chapel.

Mrs. John Holton, leader of the children, announces that the first session, Sunday evening, will be a "get acquainted" period. The children will meet in their regular Sunday school rooms, with teachers for each age group. This will be truly an adventure for the children as they learn about children in Latin America through their study and play periods.

Mrs. Henry Vaughan is the chairman of the commission on missions for the church, and the Rev. Mr. Edens is a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Belew had all of their children visiting them during the holidays, including Mrs. Doyle Winegeart and children of Pampa, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Grisson of Wichita, Kan., Tom Belew of Liberal, Kan., and their four children who live here, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Jarvis and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Belew and family, Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Belew and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Langford and daughter, also her sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

Former Major General Edwin A. Walker will make a speech in Amarillo Friday of this week in case you want to hear this controversial figure. Here are some quotes from a recent speech he made in Dallas:

"The declaration of war in the Congo by the UN is the most devastating precedent in our history. It is the most flagrant refutation of our Constitutional Republic."

"We helped Nassar take the Suez Canal, humiliating the British and French, which pleased the Kremlin. In Korea in 1950-53 and at Suez in 1956 the only winner was the Kremlin."

Zook Thomas came by to discuss the comments of last week on the banks here closing on Saturday. "We do this partly on account of the wage and hour law; but our main purpose is to provide the greatest service at the lowest possible cost to our customers. WE DO NOT MAKE A NUMBER OF THE SERVICE CHARGES USED BY BANKS IN OTHER TOWNS. We have quite a number of out of town accounts that have come to us because we do not make these service charges," he said. "Furthermore we have repeatedly told our customers that if they needed cash on Saturday that we would get it for them."

Rep. Grainger McIlhany of Wheeler came by the office last week to announce his candidacy for re-election on the Democratic ticket. He cheerfully predicted that he would have one and perhaps two opponents for the nomination. If I am nominated, he said, I presume that I will be campaigning until next November, for I am sure the Republicans will have a candidate for the general election.

Rep. McIlhany was on his way to Austin to attend the third special session of the 57th Legislature. The only subject submitted so far is escheat legislation on dormant or abandoned bank accounts; but it is expected that loan sharks, farm to market roads will also be considered.

I fear that I do not know enough about the proposed escheat law to be writing about it; but I have been thinking on it, as the Buck Creek philosopher used to say in this paper. The reason is that my wife has a dormant account in the bank as a result of her modest savings from many years as a school teacher. (She once made $75 a month teaching at Ella.) I have been toying with the notion of mentioning the dire consequences of the escheat law and seeing if I can't get her to use part of it to pay our income tax this spring.

They took down the Christmas lights right after New Year; but something should be said about their beauty this past season. Just before Christmas I came down town while it was quite dark. A full moon was setting in the west and the lights around the square and the full moon made a memorable picture. The home lighting was the best in years. People called the extension of Childress street on which Quenton Brewer, Hurschel Tyler, Sam Thompson and others live "the blue street." It was a remarkable sight.

mount of hustle and desire to win, nevertheless lack height. As in football, they are playing teams that outclass them, Coach Stavenhagen said, but he is optimistic over the improvement the Rockets have shown and which he feels they will continue to show.

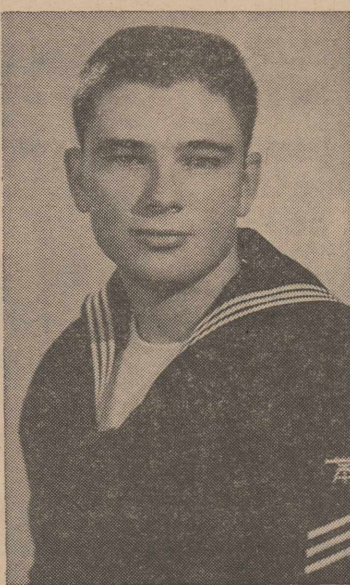

Christmas holidays have meant practice as usual for both boys and girls teams.

This is the first time the Rockettes have met the Draughton's Business College team, who have as one of their star players a former Wellington girl, Cozetta McNabb, said Coach Stavenhagen.

All conference games will begin half an hour earlier, at 6:30 p.m., due to the distance the teams will have to travel.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wolf during the holidays was their daughter, Miss Doris Wolf, and Roger Stanley of Lubbock, and their son, A/3c John Wolf, who is stationed at Amarillo Air Force Base.

News of Men in Service

The son of Mrs. George Hutchins, now of Palestine, Harris attended school here through his sophomore year, and was graduated from Palestine high school this year. He is the grandson of Mrs. R. L. Tenison.

Grass Burns Near Lillie

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed between 60 and 70 acres of grass on land owned by John Coffee and Claude Smith north of Lillie Sunday evening, Dec. 31, Fire Chief Richard Bailey reported.

The blaze was reported by Russell Yates, who owns land in that same area.

No firefighting equipment was available to fight the blaze, since the tank and other equipment is in the process of being changed from the old to the new rural trucks.

Six or eight firemen, along with several men of the community fought the fire with sacks and Carl Wischkaemper brought his tractor and plowed a strip to stop the fire from spreading, Bailey said.

The blaze was out in approximately 45 minutes, he added.

The fire was on soil bank land, according to Fire Marshal Troy Marsh.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Neubauer and baby son, Del West, of Turtle Lake, N.D., are here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie West. Mrs. Neubauer is the former Edlaene West.

Karen and Fran Taylor, of Brownfield, spent the Christmas holidays here with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Taylor. They returned home Tuesday for the reopening of school.
