Mohammad Reza Pahlavi

Shah undergoes surgery in Cairo

By MAGDA EL-SANGA
Associated Press Writer

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The deposed Shah of Iran underwent surgery today to remove water and pus that have built up in his lungs because of pneumonia.

A reliable source, who declined to be identified, said the operation at the Maadi military hospital in suburban Cairo lasted about one hour and was performed by a team of French and Egyptian doctors.

A source close to the family said ex-Iranian monarch Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was "all right" after the surgery and hoped to leave the hospital in a few days. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat had said the operation would be of a "minor" nature.

The hospital issued no official announcement, but in New York a spokeswoman for Pahlavi confirmed that the operation had taken place.

The semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al Ahrum reported earlier that the surgery would involve insertion of a tube at the base of the lung to draw out the fluid.

The 60-year-old Pahlavi was readmitted to the hospital Friday, three months after a team of doctors there removed his cancerous spleen shortly after his arrival from Panama.

Following the splenectomy, doctors said the lymphatic cancer from which he has suffered for years had spread to his liver and would be treated with chemotherapy.

But Al Ahrum said the doctors recently suspended the anti-cancer drug treatments because they believed it weakened his resistance to infection and led to the onset of pneumonia two weeks ago.

Pneumonia is a common side effect while undergoing chemotherapy, according to one prominent Egyptian doctor. He said the anti-cancer drugs lower the blood's count of white cells — the body's chief defense against infection.

The presence of water and pus in the lungs was a further complication of pneumonia, Al Ahrum said.

The Al Ahrum report earlier today said two French doctors who arrived Sunday recommended the operation be postponed for at least 48 hours so they could make further tests on Pahlavi. The newspaper said an American chemotherapy specialist, identified only as Dr. Coleman, also arrived in Cairo to assist in the treatment of the former monarch.

Sadat paid a visit to Pahlavi Sunday and later told reporters his condition had shown "great improvement." He said Pahlavi was strong enough to talk with him for an hour.

The Egyptian leader cut short a visit to Alexandria, on the Mediterranean Sea, to fly to Cairo and see the shah after being told Saturday that his condition was "very serious."

"As I stated yesterday I had great concern. Today, thank God, there is great improvement," Sadat said. "A team of French and Egyptian doctors are seeing to it that everything is under control."

The shah's wife, Empress Farah Diba, and three of the couple's four children have been keeping vigil at the hospital and have not returned to their residence since he was hospitalized. The Pahlavi family has been living in the Kubbeh Palace, a presidential guesthouse in a Cairo suburb.

Killer heat wave continues

At least 52 deaths blamed on weather

By the Associated Press

Southwest got no relief today from a week-long heat wave blamed for at least 52 deaths, heavy losses to farmers and aggravating fires that have charred tens of thousands of acres of timber and brushland.

The triple-digit heat killed millions of chickens at Arkansas poultry farms, and farmers were predicting losses as high as $3 million. Dairy cattle in Wichita County, Texas, reportedly were giving less milk.

Peaches dried on the trees in Texas, and as the sun scorched pastureland, some farmers were rushing to cut hay early.

More than 25,000 acres was blazing in Arizona brush fires, and firefighters from Oregon, California and Montana joined forces in Colorado to battle an uncontrolled fire on 9,600 acres — largest in that state's history.

Aerial tankers were brought in today from New Mexico.

"It's starting to look a little tense," Jack DeGolia, a spokesman for the U.S. Bureau of Land Management in Arizona said today. "All the aerial tankers in Arizona are committed." Kansas had a score of brush fires over the weekend and fire officials were pleading with people to forgo Fourth of July fireworks after a long dry spell and seven straight days of 100-plus temperatures.

Fourth of July fireworks after a long dry spell and seven straight days of 100-plus temperatures.

In Texas on Sunday, temperatures soared to new records across the sun-baked state. Wichita Falls's 112-degree reading shattered a 56-year-old record by six degrees. The mercury soared to 108 degrees at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, 106 at El Paso, 104 in Lubbock and Abilene and 103 in Waco.

Texas medical examiners say heat stroke has claimed 10 victims and the deaths of 34 other people may be related to the heat.

In the Texas heat wave of July 1978, 24 people died of heat-related causes.

In Arkansas and Oklahoma, at least four people died in each state over the weekend because of the heat.

The scorching temperatures pose the greatest threat to the elderly and poor, health officials say. But in Dallas County, a 6-month-old child was among those who fell victim to the heat.

Texasans were urged to stay out of the blazing sun and keep their air conditioners or fans going. And Dallas Power & Light Co. said people who need air conditioning to stay healthy should not turn off the cooling units to save on electric bills. Spokeswoman Joan Hunter said the company wasn't encouraging "an electric-free-for-all" but would work out special payment plans.

Three "heat relief" centers that had been opened for elderly people without air conditioning were closed because few people showed up.

Texasans were advised to curb outdoor activities, and officials in Wichita Falls were considering calling off a summertime boys' baseball program because of the heat.

In Wichita County, sizzling temperatures were wilting crops in the field. "Rain and irrigation is the only thing that will save us now," said county agent Don Decker. "Fruit crops are severely damaged and peaches especially are turning into little knots."

In Arkansas, more than 2.2 million broilers and 185,000 breeder hens had died, and as many as 5 million broilers and 500,000 hens could succumb, said Don Allen, executive vice president of the Arkansas Poultry Federation.

Groups want PUC to stop cut-offs of people's power

AUSTIN (AP) — Two consumers' organizations say they will ask the Public Utility Commission to ban power shut-offs when such action would be harmful to health, like during this week's blistering heat wave.

"One-hundred degree plus temperatures throughout the state this month brings home the reality that electric service is a necessity and, in many cases, is vital to a healthful environment," said a joint statement from Texas Association of Community Organizations for Reform Now (ACORN) and Texas Consumers Union.

"We want to ensure that no one goes without electric services during times like these just because someone is too poor to pay his or her entire bill."

The organizations said they would file a petition with the commission on Tuesday requesting it adopt rules which would prohibit electric utilities from cutting service to customers under certain conditions.

Dallas Power & Light said Friday, when temperatures there reached 112 degrees, customers with heavy bills will be allowed to pay them off in installments.

Carol M. Barger, attorney for the Consumers Union Southwest regional office, said the rules being asked are based on standards recommended by the U.S. Department of Energy.

She said the proposed rules also provide: — All customers be provided with a statement of their rights as customers.

— Customers be given the opportunity to pay their bills on a deferred payment plan if their bills are delinquent and they are unable to pay the entire bill.

— Utility service may not be terminated until the customer has been given prior notice.

— Any customer requesting the opportunity to dispute termination of service shall be given a hearing before an impartial judge.

Housing program gets county's nod

Preliminary stages for a $50 million housing program, mostly in rural Midland County, were unanimously approved this morning by the Midland County Commissioners' Court.

The panel met as a board of directors of the Midland County Housing Authority.

Directors approved the scope of the project, which would allow for construction of about 900 single-family dwellings, excluding apartments, in the $50,000 range. The program would be for low- and moderate-income families.

The directors also approved The First National Mortgage Co., a subsidiary of The First National Bank of Little Rock, Ark., as administrator of the program but "subject to future financial considerations," noted Durd Wright, and authorized a "full-blown" feasibility study of the program by Plan-Tec of Jacksonville, Fla.

The program would be similar to a $35 million project set up by the Midland Housing Finance Corp. in 1979. That project permitted financing for about 600 housing units in Midland's corporate limits, according to Fred Kester, board member of the Midland Housing Finance Corp. and executive director of the Midland Housing Authority.

Mortgage rate on the county program would be at 10 1/2 to 10 3/4 percent, suggested Fred Baker, president of Fred Baker & Associates, a San Antonio investment banking firm.

"Interest rates have not come down dramatically," Baker said in advising the board. "I'm not sure...how much money is being put on the street at 10 1/2 or 10 3/4 percent," he said.

By contrast, money was lent to borrowers at 9 1/4 percent under the Midland Housing Finance Corp.

The county-operated program would make money available for single-family dwellings, duplexes and condominiums in the rural areas and, with the approval of the Midland City Council, within the municipal limits.

"We could come in the city, but the city couldn't come in the county," noted Midland County Judge Bill Ahlers.

The city sold $35 million in bonds to finance housing at relatively low interest rates. However, as Commissioner Charlie Welch noted, "It (city's housing program) didn't even scratch the surface as far as need."

Welch even suggested that the county board exceed the $50 million

Brezhnev meets Schmidt at Moscow's airport

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev, in a diplomatic surprise, personally welcomed Chancellor Helmut Schmidt at Moscow airport today as the West German leader arrived for two days of talks at which he planned to urge new U.S.-Soviet talks to reduce medium-range missiles in Europe.

West German sources interpreted Brezhnev's unexpected presence as an indication of the importance Moscow has placed on the Schmidt visit, first by a major Western leader since the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan last December.

Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, who normally would be expected to head the reception party, also was at Vnukov Airport as Schmidt flew in.

Brezhnev and Schmidt rode together from the airport to the guesthouse in the Lenin Hills overlooking Moscow where the chancellor was to stay. Later, they began their formal talks at the Kremlin, the Tass news agency reported.

Schmidt believes that setting into motion a new round of Soviet-American talks on missile reduction is the "most important" objective in his talks with the 73-year-old Soviet president and Communist party chief, West German government sources said.

The Soviets have already begun installing medium-range SS20 nuclear missiles in Central Europe that can hit anywhere in Western Europe with multiple warheads. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization countered last December by voting to station 572 new U.S. medium-range nuclear missiles in Western Europe by 1983, provoking a storm of Soviet protest that the action would spur the arms race.

"Unfortunately, we can't guarantee that everyone who completes their program will be able to get a job," said Harrison. "Our purpose is to give the participant the tools he needs in order to find a job."

Federal job program employs 194 in Midland

By SUSAN BAKER
Staff Writer

Congress is often blamed for a lot of this country's problems, but one of its measures designed to ease the unemployment situation has certainly been a success in Midland.

Thanks to the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA), 194 Midlanders are now receiving job experience and on-the-job training opportunities they may never have had otherwise.

The program is funded through grants from the U.S. Department of Labor.

According to Donna Harrison, assistant manpower director for the Manpower-CETA Regional Office in Midland, CETA is designed for those persons who are economically disadvantaged, unemployed, inexperienced or otherwise handicapped in the job market.

Lack of education is one barrier that many CETA applicants claim. "A lot of our participants don't have high school diplomas," said Harrison.

"The real purpose of CETA is to get participants into unsubsidized employment by giving them the skills they need to get a job," she said.

Financial need and unemployment are the two criteria considered when applicants are reviewed for the program.

Persons from about 14 years old are accepted for the program, Harrison said. There is no upper age limit.

"We work with several public agencies, private businesses and local training groups such as Midland College. The program consists of either vocational training in a classroom or on-the-job training in a worksite," she said.

Participants are placed in jobs either with private firms or non-profit public service groups. CETA provides the salaries (minimum wage) for participants in public service jobs, while salaries for workers in private businesses are paid by the businesses themselves, with reimbursement from CETA of about half the expense.

Some public service groups who hire CETA workers include the Midland Center for Mental Health and Mental Retardation, Big Brothers-Big Sisters, United Way, Casa de Amigos, Multiple Sclerosis Foundation, the Texas Employment Commission, Department of Human Resources, and the Midland County Library.

"Participants receive training in all kinds of fields — clerical work, auto mechanics, nursing, welding, machine work, cosmetology, and drafting are just a few," Harrison said.

Upon enrollment, participants are assigned to counselors who assess their needs and abilities and work out training plans for them, while at the same time developing jobs for them to enter when the program is completed.

"Unfortunately, we can't guarantee that everyone who completes their program will be able to get a job," said Harrison. "Our purpose is to give the participant the tools he needs in order to find a job."

Arizona, Colorado fight to control forest fires

By The Associated Press
Fire-retardant chemicals rained down with little effect on brush fires raging over 25,000 acres in central Arizona, and firefighters from four states battled Colorado's biggest fire ever, a 9,600-acre six-day blaze in the central Rockies.

A 540-acre fire was burning in Colorado's Arapaho National Forest, but a 700-acre blaze in Gunnison National Forest was nearing containment Sunday night, Forest Service spokesmen said.

In Arizona, state firefighters called on New Mexico to help with airplanes and fresh crews.

"It's starting to look a little tense," said Jack DeGolla, spokesman for the U.S. Bureau of Land Management. "All the aerial tankers in Arizona are committed."

The tankers sprayed fire-retardant chemicals on a fire that began Sunday some 40 miles northeast of Phoenix in the Tonto National Forest. But the blaze quickly spread over 1,500 acres, approaching some desert homes north of Apache Junction.

"We lost control and the fire started spreading south on us," said Mitzi Heydt, Tonto National Forest spokesman. "There are several homes in that area. I'm sure they're out trying to save their homes."

Aerial tankers from New Mexico also were called in to fight a 600-acre fire started by lightning near Aravaipa Canyon in eastern Arizona.

About 400 firefighters had just finished a two-day battle in 113-degree heat to contain a 7,000-acre blaze Sunday near Bartlett Lake, 25 miles north of the Apache Junction fire.

A three-day old fire that destroyed 15,200 acres near Wickenburg was contained Sunday.

"We've also got 17 new lightning fires," Heydt said. "We're almost drained but we'll handle it."

Daily lightning storms moving into Arizona from Mexico's Gulf of California have been igniting desert brush and grass that is tinder-dry after nearly a month of 100-degree temperatures.

In Colorado, a planned 600-acre burnout jumped firelines Sunday on the southwest corner of the 9,600-acre fire near Emerald Lake in White River National Forest. The sudden 100-yard breach of the line forced firefighters to rush to a hilltop for safety.

Semi-trailer disappears

A semi-trailer full of marble flooring is missing, but Midland police say they aren't sure it was stolen or if it's even gone.

The possible theft was reported to police about 4:30 p.m. Sunday from the parking lot of the new Midland Park Mall, FM 868 and Midkiff Road, by Pete Garza of Smithville. Apparently, however, police aren't certain whether the trailer and floor covering were stolen or whether the flooring was unloaded by workers and the truck returned to the owner, Texas Storage Rental of Odessa.

According to a police spokesman, thieves would have had to have hooked up a truck to the semi-trailer to have hauled it away. The flooring, he noted, would have been extremely heavy.

An estimated value of the flooring wasn't given, although a police spokesman said it would be expensive.

Meanwhile, police are in the process of attempting to determine whether a theft did occur and, if so, whether any clues exist to the disappearance of the semi-trailer and marble flooring.

Hostage's mother returns to U.S.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Barbara Timm, mother of the youngest American hostage in Iran, criticized the State Department when she returned home after abandoning a second trip to Tehran.

The trip was canceled in Paris because the State Department refused to allow her and attorney Carl McAfee of Norton, Va., to present a resolution seeking a discussion of the hostage issue between the Iranian parliament and the U.S. Congress, she said Sunday.

In Iran, the Foreign Ministry said that Mrs. Timm, 41, had been denied a visa to visit her son. No reason was given, but a ministry spokesman said McAfee would be allowed to visit Tehran.

He stressed that Iranian officials had given them clearance to come to Iran, but their decision to return home was based solely on the State Department restrictions. He did not elaborate.

In April, Mrs. Timm, her husband, Kenneth Timm, and McAfee defied President Carter's ban on American travel to Iran. Mrs. Timm visited her 20-year-old son, Marine Sgt. Kevin Hermening, youngest of the 53 American hostages, for nearly an hour. She is the only hostage relative to be allowed to visit with the captives.

The Carter administration declined to prosecute the Timms following their return, even though Mrs. Timm caused a storm of controversy by apologizing to the Iranian people for the aborted hostage rescue mission the United States mounted.

Mrs. Timm said she and McAfee had hoped it would be possible to make the latest trip without discussing the resolution. But she said they were not willing to risk the consequences if the Iranians brought up the issue.

However, they were told that under no circumstances could they discuss the resolution, she said. Fifty members of Congress have reportedly signed the resolution.

"We don't understand the reason why that restriction was put on," she said. "We were told our government wants to solve this hostage crisis."

The State Department did not give any reason for imposing the restriction, she said. U.S. citizens, though, are prohibited by law from conducting negotiations with foreign governments on behalf of their country.

She also objected to a restriction prohibiting McAfee from going to Iran without her. He called that an "unusual travel restraint."

Mrs. Timm left for Paris Thursday night after the Carter administration granted her a waiver from its 2-month-old ban on travel to Iran.

State Department officials said

Volcano belches steam following nearby quake

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — The strongest earthquake in several days has rocked an area northwest of Mount St. Helens, and minutes later the volcano belched a 12,000 foot plume of steam, scientists reported.

An earthquake registering more than 3 on the Richter scale occurred at 10:42 p.m. Sunday northwest of the mountain, said Steven Bryant, spokesman for the University of Washington seismology laboratory in Seattle.

The quake was picked up by earthquake monitoring stations across the state, said Bill Coble.

Housing program gets county's nod

program proposed by the county.

"It would appear to me that this figure would be very low, considering the growth in Midland County," Welch said.

Baker, however, said he was comfortable with the $50 million proposal.

"We would recommend the $50 million (for the county) to get the bond attorneys to go along," he said. At higher proposals, the attorneys might "say you were trying to abuse the privilege."

Baker discouraged setting the proposal any higher.

"The economy in Midland is such that I don't think the demand for housing is as great" as it previously was, Baker said.

Too, he noted that the deposit base of Midland savings and loan associations, which are the primary lenders of housing money, "deteriorated in 1979 and they didn't have the available funds" to finance new housing. That situation spawned creation of the Midland Housing Financial Corp.

The county's involvement in housing is contingent on a Senate resolution, which would allow the county, via a housing board, to get into the housing-financial realm.

Midland woman injured in two-vehicle mishap

A 51-year-old Midland woman is in fair condition at Midland Memorial Hospital where she is being treated for a broken leg suffered in a two-vehicle accident Sunday.

Rosel S. Brinkley, an auditor who resides at Route 3, Box 349, was injured about 3:30 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of County Road 111 and Cottonflat Road when the car she was driving was involved in a collision with a pickup driven by John H. Findley, no address available.

Ms. Brinkley's vehicle was northbound on County Road 1203 at the time and was attempting to turn west onto County Road 111. Findley's vehicle was eastbound on County Road 111.

According to Department of Public Safety reports, Findley apparently was not injured.

The mishap was investigated by DPS trooper Hilan Priddy of Midland.

.357 magnum reported stolen

Midland police are investigating the reported theft of a .357 magnum pistol valued at $400.

Johnny Biggs of 1003 S. Midkiff Road, Apartment No. 122, told police early today that the pistol was taken from a table at the end of the couch in his apartment between 3:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. Sunday.

According to police reports, Biggs said he and his wife left the apartment about 3:30 p.m. The door was locked at that time, he said. About 4 p.m. Biggs' brother-in-law, Jerry Vodron, came to the apartment and found the door unlocked and the pistol missing.

Federal job program gives 194 Midlanders job experience has been employed in the Midland United Way office since June 12.

"I do everything — general office work such as filing, typing and running errands. I guess you could call me a girl Friday," she said.

Sheree discovered CETA while looking for a job at the Texas Employment Commission. "I was having trouble getting a job because I don't have any job experience. CETA appealed to me because of that, as well as for financial reasons.

"I was given a choice of worksites, and CETA set up the interview for me," she said.

Sheree, who has no high school diploma, said CETA will pay for her to get her GED certificate upon completion of her program. "They'll also pay for my first year at Midland College," she said.

Continued hot weather remains in the Tall City forecast for Tuesday, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

The weatherman is predicting the high for Tuesday should be near 102 degrees which is little relief for most Midlanders. However, tonight's low should be in the low 70s providing some relief from daytime temperatures.

Comparatively speaking, Sunday's high of 102 degrees was hot but it did not replace the record of 109 degrees set in 1947. Also, the 1954 low of 60 degrees remains in the record book even though this morning's low was a cool 69 degrees.

Winds tonight should be southerly, moving between 10-20 mph.

As one might have guessed there was no precipitation recorded in the last 24 hours. The monthly total for June should wind up at 1.59 inches with the yearly total remaining at 5.08 inches.

The tie that binds

The need to cut the United States' dependence on imported oil is vital if you'll just recall for a moment the unpleasantness experienced during the Arab oil embargo of 1973.

That was before "out of gas" signs became commonplace and long before the price of fuel was calculated by the half-gallon.

Things have changed a lot during the seven-year interim. But the nation's long-awaited conversion to coal really is beginning.

We all realize, no doubt, the importance of making that conversion. It will not diminish the importance of oil. Neither will it undermine the oil-based economy of the Midland area. Oil is going to be a precious, albeit expensive, commodity for a long time to come.

It's notable that Texas — one of the nation's leading energy-producing states — already has required its power plants to convert to coal.

But that's about as far as any state in the nation has gone. Environmentalists have been successful in swaying the members of Congress away from the inevitable.

In battling the conversion plan, they have raised fears of "acid rain" falling out of coal emissions. Their fears may be based in logic. They also may be unfounded. At this point we don't know.

But the United States Senate showed wisdom recently when it sidestepped the environmental concerns and approved legislation which would require some 80 power plants, most of them located in the Northeast, to convert from oil to coal as boiler fuel.

The bill now goes to the House of Representatives for action. The Senate's action was less than President Carter had asked for. He had wanted to save some 400,000 barrels of oil per day by forcing the conversion of 107 power plants.

The measure as passed by the Senate would save an estimated 200,000 to 300,000 barrels of oil per day.

We aren't saying that the members of Congress should begin to ignore environmental concerns any more than we're saying they should not move rapidly toward conversion to coal.

What we are saying is that it's always important to choose the lesser of two evils. In this instance that appears to be the decision to take a chance on the environment as a means of severing our bonds with imported oil.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today is Monday, June 30, the 182nd day of 1980. There are 184 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: In 1777, the British evacuated New Jersey in the Revolutionary War, fleeing across Staten Island to their stronghold in New York.

On this date: In 1834, the Indian territory was created by an act of Congress.

In 1934, Adolf Hitler began a purge in Germany, getting rid of hundreds of political and military opponents.

In 1950, President Harry Truman revealed he had ordered American troops stationed in Japan to help the Republic of Korea repel North Korean invaders.

In 1971, three Soviet cosmonauts, in space for more than three weeks, were found dead when their spacecraft landed.

Ten years ago, Britain sent more soldiers to Northern Ireland to quell bitter rioting, bringing the number of troops stationed there to 11,000.

Five years ago, government radio in Lebanon reported a new cabinet of prominent Muslims and Christians had been formed to end the country's worst violence in 20 years.

Last year, after three weeks without pay, independent truckers began calling for a return to work in response to the government's six-point plan to end their nationwide shutdown.

INSIDE REPORT:

Democratic platform writers danced in 'Fantasyland'

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The Democratic Platform Committee's journey into fantasyland neared ludicrous heights when committee member Mary Ann Neville of Delaware argued emotionally against draft registration on grounds that "the armed forces are now at 98.5 percent of their authorized strength."

Not one of the committee's 176 other members rose to instruct Ms. Neville that the Senate Armed Services Committee 10 days earlier voted to reduce the Army's authorized strength by 25,000 because of too few recruits to fill the ranks. Ms. Neville's assault on draft registration, which she claimed would "alienate our youth from the political system," did not pass. But her effort displayed the make-believe mood of party activists who drafted the platform.

That mood fostered much of President Carter's failed foreign and defense policy but it is now on the verge of popular rejection. However, popular sentiment could not control the Platform Committee's deliberations at Washington's Mayflower Hotel. Thanks to the rigorous reforms of the past decade, vital organs of the party are insulated from the public will.

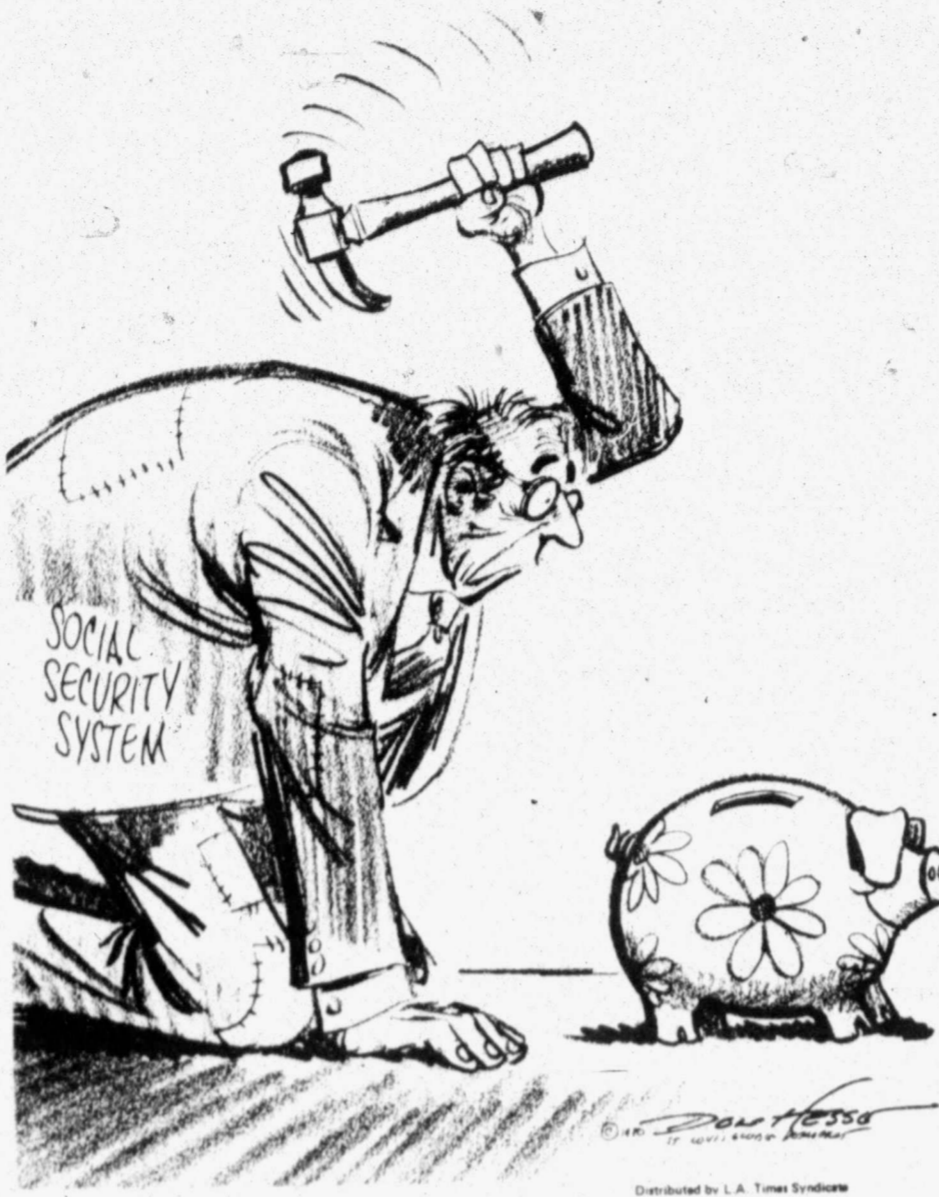

"Reality is not this committee's strongest point," a senior White House aide told us. Top Carter aides Stuart Eizenstat and Zbigniew Brzezinski worked manfully to stem the lunacy. But with even Carter-pledged delegates addicted to make-believe, it was often a case of "left" vs. "left." Hence, the Monday night session, which lasted until almost 4 a.m., approved the first homosexual rights plank ever wedged into a major party platform.

The lack of reality showed most not on the social issues that debilitated the party in its reform spurge of the 1970s. This time, left-wing platform architects concentrated on President Carter's current foreign crisis, partly made by the left's own anti-defense dogma.

Outside the Platform Committee, that dogma is crumbling under the hammer blows of political facts. Sen. George McGovern, one of the Senate's foremost defense-cutters, suddenly favors a new strategic bomber. The ambitious Sen. Joseph Biden told a closed-door meeting of arms control experts on June 18: "I'm damned if I'm going to ride the wrong horse (the new SALT treaty) into the swamp again and sink with it." National strength, Biden said, must come first.

But a careful reading of the party's new platform reveals no such acceptance of reality. The preamble blithely takes credit for a nation "at peace"

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Second 'influence peddling' warning heeded

WASHINGTON — Twice within a year, the White House was explicitly warned that it is a crime to buy political support with the taxpayers' money. The first admonition was ignored, the second was quietly heeded.

I've already detailed the way Jimmy Carter played Lady Bountiful with federal grants to key states and localities shortly before crucial primaries and caucuses. This deliberate use of government largesse to beat back Ted Kennedy's challenge came despite a clear warning in March 1979, from White House Counsel Robert Lipshutz that such grantsmanship was illegal.

It is a crime, Lipshutz wrote in a memo to the White House staff, for "anyone with grant-making authority to use that authority in order to affect the nomination or election of a candidate." In the same memo, Lipshutz wrote: "It is also a crime for anyone to promise employment ... in return for political support for a particular candidate."

The latter part of the warning was so openly brushed aside in the parceling out of Census jobs this year that even Justice Department attorneys became alarmed. They informally warned the White House and the Census Bureau last March that their systematic politicizing of the Census recruitment process might violate the criminal code. The hiring procedure was then quietly modified.

What caught the Justice Department's eye was the White House system for doling out temporary census-taking jobs. One Census Bureau memo, dispatched to all the bureau's regional directors last Jan. 25, stated baldly: "Throughout the recruiting process, preference will be given to candidates recommended by the political party of the incumbent Admin-

This blatant battle cry for a return to the spoils system was followed by specific instructions. The memo indicated the specific government form on which "all recommendations from Democratic sources should be listed," and reminded the regional directors that they were responsible for "seeing that applicants who were recommended" were clearly identified.

Justice Department investigators found that job applicants with political referrals were indeed given preference in the scheduling of job interviews after initial tests were passed. The interviews were often mere formalities; putting politically referred applicants at the head of the line meant that they were virtually assured of landing one of the limited number of jobs.

In mid-March, the Census Bureau revised its Jan. 25 memo, deleting the offensive paragraph and the other references to political preference. The agency also modified the way in which job interviews were scheduled.

A White House attorney told my associate Tony Capaccio the Census Bureau "decided to make the change out of an abundance of caution" to "show that it was operating within all the applicable laws."

cy which took advantage of the peoples of the Third World." That word "imperialist," parroting one of Soviet propaganda's favored charges against the U.S., was too much for the Platform Committee, which rejected it.

Also rejected (and replaced by an ambiguous compromise) was a total ban on nuclear power plants. On the morning of the Platform Committee's final work last Tuesday, committee member Elinor Guggenheimer from New York complained that while the Democratic Platform Committee was condemning dependence on nuclear power, the Democratic president was over in Venice agreeing that "the role of nuclear energy has to be increased."

Were it not for the agitated world situation, such travels in fantasyland by platform writers might pass without notice. Today, however, voters sense the storm rising in the East. They may note that their alarm was ignored by the Democratic platform.

CHARLEY REESE

Soviet Union respects force, show of courage

One of the questions every American must now answer is, how do we live with an aggressive, hostile Soviet Union which is more powerful than we are?

The debate over this question has already begun. In the summer issue of "Foreign Policy," one of two influential quarterlies on foreign policy matters, Earl C. Ravenal, a former defense department official and professor at Georgetown University offers one proposal.

Hunker down, come home, and be careful not to offend them.

While Ravenal dresses his proposals in sophisticated academic jargon (de-couple and compartmentalize conflicts), they amount in plain language to abandoning Western Europe, the Middle East and Africa to the Soviet Union. Then he wants us to sign SALT II and unilaterally abandon the mobile missile and the long-range cruise missile. To Ravenal, not much in this world is worth risking your life for.

He attacks another article by another man in which the appeasement of Hitler in the 1930s is compared to the present appeasement of the Soviet Union. He snorts irritably:

"Imagine Hitler with nuclear weapons. Who would fight and who would negotiate? Who would be the villains and who the heroes? Who would be ready to put 125 million of his fellow citizens' lives on the line to defend his values?"

It's been a long time since I've seen a more morally disgusting statement than this. Obviously, Ravenal would have discovered, virtue in Nazism in proportion to its power. It's a good thing he wasn't the Prime Minister of Great Britain in 1941 when Hitler appeared unstoppable.

Good and evil have nothing to do with power. Hitler was evil when Germany was weak and he was evil when Germany was strong. The Soviet Union is as evil today as it was when it was weak.

Ravenal cleverly does not extend his article to the consequences of his proposals. He doesn't say what we would do once the Soviet Union dominated Western Europe, the Middle East and Africa. I suspect, if you pressed him, he'd say what George Kennan now says: rather red than dead. In other words, surrender for we would surely be in no position to fight.

Actually, our best hope lies on the opposite point of the compass. The only proper way to confront the Soviet Union today, both morally and strategically, is to make it clear that we are willing to die for our values.

Governments are controlled by human beings and therefore the decisive factor in the affairs of nations is human nature which has not changed in 5,000 years.

Academics like Ravenal either don't know this or don't know much about human nature. I suppose that's why our greatest diplomat remains Benjamin Franklin who was a printer not a foreign policy expert. When Franklin went to France, he went as a shrewd observer of human nature, not as an expert in Anglo-French relations.

So, if you know how to deal with a bully, you know how to deal with the Soviet Union. A person who automatically values force more than reason respects only force. Fear invites his attack; defiance discourages him.

To survive the 1980s will require leaders, backed by the resolve of the American people, who can convince the Soviet Union's leaders that while we may be destroyed, we cannot be defeated or forced to surrender.

In short, the watchword of the 1980s, must be — not Kennan's rather red than dead — but Patrick Henry's, "Give me liberty or give me death."

MARK RUSSELL SAYS

Most of those voting this fall will be much older than the national average age. This means that many choosing Ronald Reagan will do so even though they believe he is too young to be President.

Jimmy Carter keeps refusing to appear with Teddy Kennedy wherever the two are invited to speak. The White House may issue an order preventing Kennedy from being on the same side of the Mississippi River as Carter.

For President Carter, being in Europe is just like the good old days — nobody over there ever heard of John Anderson.

The Carter people, thinking John Anderson's chances to be a "fantasy," are spending a quarter of a million dollars to keep him off the ballot. How much would they spend if they thought Anderson really existed?

Carter still opposed to tax cut

President said against 'hasty' action

NEW YORK (AP) — Treasury Secretary G. William Miller says the Carter administration remains opposed to a tax cut this year despite pressure from Democrats and Republicans in Congress.

Miller's statement, made Sunday on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" program, came amid renewed evidence of the recession's effect and a call from the head of the Ford Motor Co. to curb auto imports.

The National Association of Purchasing Management released a survey showing that 58 percent of its corporate managers reported a decline of new orders in June. In addition, 47 percent reported a decline in overall production.

School trustees to meet

A special session of the school district trustees will be conducted at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the school administration's Board Room at 702 North N St. The informal meeting is designed to gather public input regarding improvement of discipline in schools, implementation of minimum competency standards for graduation, coordination of school objectives with Objectives for Midland, and improvement of school facilities among others.

Miller said Carter is opposed to any "hasty" action on tax cuts because he believes they should be decided "outside the heat of an election year."

The treasury secretary said he believed it is "unlikely" that congress would pass an acceptable tax reduction measure in the months remaining in the legislative session.

Instead, he said, the Carter administration's first priority is to hold down government spending and minimize the budget gap, steps viewed as necessary to fight inflation.

His statement was the most explicit to date from an administration official on the subject of a tax cut.

survey began. In addition, the number of managers reporting lower employment climbed to 40 percent from the previous month's 39 percent, the highest in five years.

"When the final tally is in," the report concluded, "the second quarter should be a real loser."

With that note echoing as a reminder, President Carter is to consider a report from the Department of Transportation sometime this week on steps to be taken to revive the ailing American auto industry, which has now laid off about a third of its workers.

Phillip Caldwell, chairman of Ford Motor Co., has asked that the first step taken should be to limit Japanese imports to less than what they were in 1979. Currently, imports account for about 28 percent of the much-depressed market, with Japanese cars being about 80 percent of that figure — leaving the possibility that actual Japanese sales in 1980 could be about the same as in 1979.

Crippled oil tanker reaches port after spilling its cargo

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — The crippled oil barge Domar 118 was tied safely to a fuel dock at Port Manatee today, three days after it spilled 1,600 gallons of oil into Tampa Bay.

The 350-foot barge had been refloated late Saturday from a sandbar where it was intentionally grounded after a leak was discovered Friday. It was anchored for the night, then accidentally ran aground again Sunday morning while under tow.

No oil was spilled in the second incident, said Lt. J. Don Zelazny, a Coast Guard spokesman.

Much of the oil that washed ashore wound up along St. Petersburg Beach, where up to 70 workers spent most of Sunday piling up the goo and hauling it a landfill dump.

A Coast Guard anti-pollution team had to unload some of the Domar 118's oil cargo — originally about 3½ million gallons — to free the barge.

Sunday ushered the barge to its dock at the Belcher Oil Co. facility at Port Manatee, near Bradenton on the south side of Tampa Bay.

The barge first ran aground on the edge of the busy Tampa Bay shipping channel, closing the port to shipping for the third time this year. The channel was cleared when the barge was refloated late Saturday.

The channel was blocked for several weeks beginning in late January when the Coast Guard Cutter Blackthorn sank with 23 crewmen after colliding with the tanker Capricorn.

It closed again in early May when the phosphate carrier Summit Venture slammed into the Sunshine Skyway, a bridge that soars over the mouth of the bay.

Pat Walker's really works for a working woman like me. I lost 51 pounds!

Ray Barnwell's True Story:

Running an auto supply store means being on the job six days a week, doing everything from selling to handling the books. At home, I have two children and a husband to take care of. So I don't have much time to think about myself. Maybe that's why I hadn't done anything worthwhile about my weight problem. I'm embarrassed to admit that I weighed 167 pounds (I'm 5'5").

A friend of mine—who was always going on fad diets with me—decided to try Pat Walker's. When she began to see results, I thought I'd try it, too. Luckily, I could go before or after work, and I didn't even have to change clothes to use the Symmetricon passive exercise unit.

The counselors at Pat Walker's are so encouraging, and they have a great plan for eating right that's a lot more flexible than those strict diets I'd tried. Within a month, I could see that Pat Walker's was working for me. And now I've lost about 10 inches from my waist, 7 inches from my tummy, and a total of 51 pounds! So you see, even if you're as busy as I am, you can still look as good as you should. Pat Walker's is the secret.

Make an appointment now for a free, no-obligation consultation at Pat Walker's. We'll explain how our program works, from the no-muss, no-fuss passive exercise treatments to our belief in your right to privacy. We'll tell you how much you need to lose, how long it will take, and the total cost of your complete figure correction, based on four dollars per thirty-minute treatment.

Pope on 12-day visit to Brazil

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — Pope John Paul II flew to Brazil today for a 12-day visit to the world's largest Roman Catholic country and a society divided by the political activism of the Brazilian bishops and their priests.

The pontiff was due in Brasilia, the capital, at noon (11 a.m. EDT) after an 11-hour flight from Rome. Making the first papal visit to Brazil in history, he was to tour 13 cities, open a national Eucharistic Congress of the 318 Brazilian bishops and celebrate masses attended by as many as 20 million of the country's 100 million Catholics, with many millions more watching on television.

It is John Paul's seventh foreign trip since he became pope 21 months ago and his longest — more than 7,500 miles — and most grueling journey.

The National Council of Bishops, which directs one of the most progressive churches in Latin America, expressed conviction that the pope would support its program of social and economic reforms for the millions of impoverished Brazilians. But the military-backed government and its conservative supporters in the upper and middle classes hoped he would forcefully restate the opposition to political action by the clergy which was one of his principal themes during his visit to Mexico 17 months ago.

The pope during that visit called repeatedly for improvement in the lot of Latin America's downtrodden and said church leaders should continue to fight for more equitable distribution of wealth and for human rights. But he repudiated politically militant priests, saying the clergy must stay out of the political arena and seek social justice through spiritual action.

The duties of the church, the pope said then, are "to preach, to educate individuals and collectivities, to form public opinion and to offer orientations."

The Brazilian church increased its struggle on behalf of the poor and oppressed after the army seized power in 1964. Since then the generals have defended a system which has produced rapid economic growth but which has also increased the power of the rich and reduced the economic share of the poor.

The Brazilian church has responded with vigorous support for the poor. It has organized tens of thousands of small grass-roots groups called base communities to educate and politicalize the peasants and workers. Catholic leaders supported striking metalworkers this year. The bishops produced several major position papers criticizing government policies and outlining alternatives.

Bishop Ivo Lorscheiter, the president of the National Council of Bishops, told a news conference the pope's visit was "proof of his support for the work" of the council. A major papal pronouncement was expected July 9 in Fortaleza, at the opening of the Eucharistic Congress. The congress is to focus this year on the plight of the millions of indigent peasants who move from subsistence living in the rural interior to the urban squalor of slum shanties, called favelas, in the coastal cities.

Another significant event on the pope's tour will be his visit to Archbishop Heider Camara in the northern city of Recife. Camara is an internationally known supporter of human rights and a champion of the poor whose name was banned from the Brazilian news media until recently by the government.

Other cities on the pope's itinerary include Rio de Janeiro, where he will celebrate mass in the huge Maracana soccer stadium.

Jean Posey, Midland ceramist and fiber artist, has had a woven wall hanging, "Water's Edge," accepted for exhibition in the second annual Iowa State University Alumni exhibit in Ames, Iowa. The show represents works by 54 artists from 20 states and was on display through the month of June.

Mrs. Posey recently returned to Midland after a one-woman show of her ceramics and fiber pieces in Fort Dodge, Iowa.

D'NAE JONES, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Jones, 715 S. Clay, and Justin Forrest Curry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Curry, 4512 Parkdale, recently participated in a "Tom Thumb" wedding as a fund-raiser for Lucy's Rock-a-Bye Nursery in Midland.

They were "united in friendship" June 28 at 6 p.m. at Greater St. Luke's Methodist Church.

Serving as maid of honor was Tara McClain. Bridesmaids were Lisa Rodriguez and Vivian McClain. Flower girl was Teira Jones.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was Freddie Stricklin. Groomsman were Warren Burnett and Mitchell Weisenhart. Candelighters were Warren Stricklin and Brandon Curry. Ring bearer was Sean Burnett.

Serving in the houseparty were Mrs. Tom Kuykendall, Dee Ann Forrest, Mrs. Flynn Terry, Maxine Dusan and Teresa Dusan.

DEWEY BAUCUM, 707 Spraberry Drive, and president-elect of the Kiwanis Club of Midland-Village, attended the 65th annual Kiwanis International convention June 22-25, in Anaheim, Calif.

SEVERAL MIDLANDERS made the dean's honor list at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin.

The College of Arts and Education named the following students: Barbara Jean Bolden, Pamela Kay Buckley, James Edwards, Janie Cheryl Hill, Deborah Lashford, Julia Lynn Jackson, Mary Carol Layman and Jean A. Schwisow.

Midlanders in the College of Management's listing were Brenda J. Eldridge, Peggy M. Holdridge, Susan S. Kerr, Curtis F. Price Jr., Joan K. Werner, Stephen J. Croy, Larry Dean Hagler and David Frances Dixon.

Those named to the College of Science and Engineering dean's honor list are Joseph V. Moore, Kimberly Ann Morris, Sandra V. Sandlin, Duane Adams, Bonnie L. Cooper, Elizabeth J. Martin and Patricia King.

PERMIAN BASIN GIRL SCOUT COUNCIL announces that four girls, including one from Midland, have been accepted for National and International Girl Scout Opportunities. They are Kathy Hubnik, Odessa; Shannon Myers, Odessa; Lois Hall, Midland; and Angela Partain, Andrews. Each girl will be attending different opportunities.

Lois, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hall of Midland, will be attending "Paint the West", July 23-Aug. 6 at the National Center West in Jackson Hole, Wyo. This two week session will focus on western art.

She will be meeting and working with western artists, as well as sketching and painting the beautiful scenery. Visiting galleries and museums are also on her schedule.

Miss Hall is a Senior scout in Troop No. 64, lead by Mrs. Joan O'Grady. She is also a First Class Scout (Girl Scouting's highest award) and has been registered for eight years. This fall Lois will be a sophomore at Lee High School. She is a member of the track team and is involved in the Puppet Ministry of Grace Lutheran Church.

The Permian Basin Council will be honoring all four girls at a reception Aug. 25.

ACTIVITIES SCHEDULED this week at the Senior Citizens Center, First Christian Church, are Stitches With Bernice from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesday and 1 p.m. table games, also on Tuesday; the Wednesday luncheon at 11:45 a.m., with guest speaker Gayle Dodson speaking on "God Bless America," and 1 p.m. table games; and 9:30 a.m. Pleasure Painters on Thursday. The center will close Friday in observance of Independence Day.

book perfect content, the Gold Link Educational award and third place for educational programs. Ms. Cooper was named runner-up for outstanding state educational director and was appointed state service chairman by incoming state president Bernice Bail. (Staff Photo)

Plenty can go amiss while filling list on grocery junket

By JIMMY THORNTON
Copley News Service

Why do so many things go wrong in a grocery store? Maybe it's because we spend so much time in them. There is plenty of time for things to go wrong.

But if you don't go to the grocers, bad things will happen to you. You will starve, for example.

Now it's not the fault of the grocer all the time. But some of the time it is his, or at least his suppliers.

Once bought a box of noodles that had healthy, little bugs holding a miniature version of the Olympics inside. Another time, six half-gallon containers of milk spoiled in one day (the day I bought them) — and the yogurt I took home was full of green mold, which seemed to enjoy the low-fat diet (the store's refrigeration system had broken down for a brief heat wave).

That's not as bad as what happened to one shopper. She found a small mouse sandwiched in the corn tortillas she purchased, and she wasn't at Disneyland.

Of course, it is only fair to mention lots of things go right in grocery stores. But they are supposed to.

Chances are, if you shop long enough, one of the following will happen to you at the supermarket.

You will find the only parking space within 100 yards of the entrance is full of empty cars.

And speaking of carts, the odds are 2-to-1 you will get one with a bumpy wheel, a squeaky (fingernails on blackboard-type) wheel, a wobbly wheel or poor wheel alignment (you push it west and it slants east, usually into a stack of something breakable).

Or the handle of your cart will be sticky.

Back to parking. If you see an empty parking space 3 miles away in a mass of Detroit specials, when you get there you will find it filled with a small foreign moped.

And at least once a month you will be caught behind two shoppers in cars (one a man, the other a woman) who are positioning bumper to bumper for a space soon to be vacated by another shopper. And at least once a year, the battle will fizzle when the shopper in the parked car will suddenly remember something that he or she left in the store.

If you follow a shopper down a long line of filled parking spaces, the person will invariably lead you in slow motion to the end of the row, then cut across two rows of cars, where someone else gets the spot.

There seems to be no end to what can go wrong.

The population of children in a store increases in direct proportion, it seems, to how little time you have to shop.

Kids, mind you, are great — in their place.

However, some of them are a problem. If there are three, they will play tag. If there is only one, he will be aged 9, big for his age and hyperactive. And he will be reliving the raid on Pearl Harbor with his kamikaze shopping cart.

At least once in your shopping lifetime, you will leap to the rescue of a baby falling headfirst from a cart while the parent is looking for a bargain in mustard three aisles up.

Too, you will find that families often shop together. And, once a year, usually around Thanksgiving or Christmas, two families who haven't seen each other in 10 years will suddenly see each other at the meat counter and hold an instant reunion — right in front of the hamburger you want.

It may not be true, but it seems true. Short people will find most of the things they want on the top shelf.

Tall people will find most of what they want on the bottom shelf — right in front of the short person who is stretching to reach a giant jar of dill pickles.

Many things in a supermarket happen in slow motion.

When the register tape runs out in front of you, it takes what seems to be half an hour to replace, and usually the person manning the register is new on the job and has to call in reinforcements.

The shopper in front of you will wait until $53 worth of items are rung up, then ask the clerk:

"May I borrow your pen?"

When the person in front of you writes out a check, at least, once every three months it will be an out-of-town check, and the store manager will be called in for deliberations that usually last two hours (15 minutes real time).

If there is any kind of dispute, a checker will stop everything until it is settled. Example: If the customer insists that an unmarked item is 99 cents and the clerk doesn't know, the clerk will first hold the item up and ask every other clerk the price. None, of course, knows, 50 percent of the time. And nothing advances until the price is checked, usually by a stock clerk who was hired 24 hours earlier.

Finally, if you cheat and go through the express line (10 items or less) with 13 things, everyone behind you will have only one medicinal item to buy and at least one will be discussing your questionable parentage.

Anti-abortionists urged to work in elections

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Right-to-lifers winding up a four-day conference marked by some internal dissension were urged to work for the election of anti-abortion candidates in November.

The National Right to Life Convention closed Sunday with incoming president Dr. J.C. Willke, a Cincinnati physician and family counselor, calling for the formation of committees which would screen legislative candidates for their views on abortion.

"Support them if they're goodies," Willke told the 1,500 persons attending the annual meeting. "If they're bad guys, picket their meetings and ask those questions on abortion."

Willke reminded the audience that one goal of the organization is for the adoption of an anti-abortion amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

He added the power and influence of the president of the United States where the abortion issue is concerned cannot "in any remote way" be underestimated.

Although Willke said his group was not endorsing any political party, he wore a 3-inch red badge that read "Pro-Lifers for Reagan."

Ronald Reagan, who has all but secured the Republican presidential nomination, supports a constitutional amendment to "restore protection of the unborn child's right to life."

The internal dissension at the meeting was triggered by another anti-abortion group's filing of a federal suit Friday against all 170 Catholic bishops in the United States.

The Life Amendment Political Action Committee lawsuit seeks to force the bishops to allow anti-abortionists to solicit signatures and hand out literature on church property.

But a spokesman for the National Right to Life group denounced the suit Saturday, saying it was divisive of pro-life forces.

DEAR ABBY

Minister objects to fancy weddings

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: May I comment on the letter from the Dallas woman who was upset because the tapes of her wedding were ruined when a baby cried?

I am a clergyman who has officiated at over 500 church weddings, and the lengths to which some people will go to put on a theatrical production in a house of worship for a simple exchange of marriage vows are appalling!

I once tied the knot at a wedding where $20,000 was spent for flowers alone. I later learned the bill for the entire wedding came to $100,000. (Incidentally, the knot didn't hold; the couple divorced three years later.)

I've officiated at weddings where cameras and sound equipment were so intrusive that I felt more like an actor playing a role than a minister. (At one point I was asked to "stop and start over again" because the audio wasn't working properly.)

I can understand wanting to preserve the beauty of an occasion with pictures, and I have no objections to movies taken outside the church, but to perform for the camera is, in my opinion, making a mockery of a sacred ceremony.

If you print this, please don't use my name, as I do not wish to be prematurely retired.—STILL PREACHING IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR ABBY: I ache for the young woman who wrote to say that a crying baby ruined her wedding. The baby couldn't help it. It should have been carried out as soon as it started to whimper.

What disturbed me was the bride's unforgiving attitude. She wrote: "I find it hard to look at that child today—much less his mother. To make matters worse, they are now a part of our family, and I will be reminded of that episode every time I look at them."

Abby, some time ago you said that the person who cannot forgive but continues to bear a grudge harms only himself, for "hate is like acid eating away at the vessel that contains it."—MONTANA READER

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the bride who complained because a crying baby ruined her wedding reminded me of my own wedding. Only there was no crying baby—it was my mother-in-law! She cried and sobbed throughout the entire ceremony as though her heart were breaking. You could hear her all over the church. One would have thought her son was being sentenced to life in prison with no chance of parole.—ANOTHER WEDDING RUINED

DEAR ABBY: Our wedding wasn't "ruined" because of a crying baby, but it was sure the talk of the town. It was OUR baby.—BETTER LATE IN HAGERSTOWN, MD.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the bride who said her wedding was ruined because a baby cried brings up two disturbing points.

One: She needs to stop viewing her wedding day as the high point in her life. Weddings are great, but they are only symbols, rites of passage—not the peak of the mountain with everything else going downhill thereafter. If it isn't a perfectly staged production, so what?

Nearly 30 years ago we had a lovely church wedding. My nephews, ages 2 and 3, got into a fight under the pews—brief, but noisy enough to create a disturbance. My bridegroom started me as we walked up the chancel steps for vows by showing me that our pet rubber alligator was with us!

Secondly, to harbor resentment against the mother and the crying baby who spoiled her big day is damaging to her. While she hangs onto her anger she will be unable to receive happiness and love. I wish her all the best.—MILDRED IN MORGANTOWN, W. VA.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, in care of this newspaper.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Allow mate, spouse adequate time to explain ideas fully. An artistic talent can help you earn more money. Persevere! A dispute may be resolved due to the intervention of a neutral outsider.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Ignore the depressing, negative comments of a "know-it-all." Greater personal effort will impress an influential acquaintance. Creative project could prove to be source of extra revenue.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Try not to get bogged down in details, trivia. Money earned on the side will come in handy. Offer your services to friends, neighbors. Affairs of the heart are apt to be somewhat tricky today.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Know where you stand with mate, romantic partner. Candid talk regarding finances may reveal new options, alternatives. Lecture or museum visit could lead to an unusual hobby.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Write important letters. Flattery can be a two-edged sword. Use diplomacy to overcome some family opposition. Emphasis is on knowing what you really want out of life.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take advantage of a financial proposition offered by a friend. Situation involving a younger person could require your personal intervention. Be willing to make concessions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Profits can be increased if you will keep your eyes and ears open! Close associates are exceptionally talkative now. Be diplomatic when discussing obligations.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your energy is at its highest level in late morning. Work matters should flow smoothly. Follow through on a travel idea that has an unusual slant. Be careful not to make any snap decisions regarding romance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): An excellent day for finalizing negotiations and signing contracts, forming a new partnership. A financial matter will soon be settled satisfactorily.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Seek advice of an expert when it comes to investments. Short trips are likely to be successful. Get the jump on competitors by completing assignment ahead of the deadline.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Attend to investments, stock portfolio. Family members will come up with some interesting vacation ideas. Issue spur-of-the-moment invitation to gentle, attractive new comer.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Two heads are much better than one just now! Discuss finances, career with romantic partner.

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF

GOREN BRIDGE

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
3 ♣ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Blackwood is probably the most misused convention, but not on this hand! Since partner must have at least two aces for his opening bid and jump raise, you are safe in investigating slam possibilities via four no trump. If partner shows three aces, settle for six hearts. We would go all the way, however, if he shows four.

Q.5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AK5 ♥KQJ105 ♦AKJ105
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
2 ♥ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 ♦ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
4 ♣ Pass 4 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—You have not yet agreed upon a suit, so partner's bid of four no trump is not ac-asking! It is natural, and should show a reasonably good club suit, a spade stopper (probably Q J x) and no particular support for either of your suits. If this is the case, you are as high as you want to go. Pass!

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AJ ♥KJ6 ♦KQ5 ♣AQ762
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ 2 ♥ 3 ♦ ?
What do you bid now?
A.—This truth shall be self-evident—West is lying through his teeth. There just aren't enough points in the deck for everyone to be honest, and partner surely isn't fooling around at this vulnerability. To make a small slam, partner needs no more than a decent heart suit and an outside card. Bid six hearts or, if you prefer a more scientific approach, cue-bid four spades to cater to the possibility that you might have a grand slam.

Answer On Market Page

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠9832 ♥KS ♦7 ♣AKQ572
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass
2 NT Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—If you rebid three clubs, you probably need some tutoring—that shows a sub-minimum two-over-one response and asks partner to pass. Ditto if you chose to jump to four clubs, because you cannot be sure that you can make an eleven-trick contract. In the modern style, partner's rebid of two no trump shows a balanced hand that doesn't qualify for a one no trump opening, so your action is clear. Raise to three no trump.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J1074 ♥QJ92 ♦AQ5 ♣Q8
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 3 ♥ Pass
3 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—You have arrived. Partner knows you have four-card support, yet he has chosen three no trump over four spades. You have stoppers in every suit and your values are "soft"—queens and jacks rather than aces and kings—and so are ideally suited to no trump play. Pass with alacrity.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠QJ1076 ♥8 ♦762 ♣Q652
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass 1 ♠ Dble. Pass
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—By first doubling and then bidding a suit, partner has shown a fairly strong hand. Don't punish him for that by leaving him to struggle in what is probably an inferior contract. Bid two spades. No, this does not announce extra values. It simply shows a distaste for hearts and a reasonably good five-card suit of your own. At hearts your hand might not produce a single trick; at spades it's good for three or four.

Shroud dates to Christ, new evidence indicates

CHICAGO (AP) — A Loyola University researcher says he has new evidence — the possibility of coins placed over the eyes of Jesus — to support a claim that the Shroud of Turin was Christ's burial cloth.

The Rev. Francis L. Filas, in a copyright pamphlet released Monday, says several tiny marks on the shroud have been almost positively identified as the impressions of a coin minted during the reign of Pontius Pilate, Roman governor of Palestine, around 30 A.D. Biblical scholars believe Christ was crucified at about that time — after being sentenced by Pilate.

The shroud is an ancient burial cloth, about 14 feet by 3½ feet, which has been kept in a cathedral in Turin, Italy, since 1578. The cloth bears the sepia-colored outline of a man, and a set of what appear to be blood stains near the figure's head, side, hands and feet.

According to Filas, photographic negatives of the shroud show that over the figure's right eye, there appear marks resembling a small staff and four Greek letters, part of the inscription "Of Tiberias Caesar." Coin experts say the staff, called a "lituus," appears only on coins minted during Pilate's reign.

"I don't see any hole in the evidence," Filas said. "I think this is as good a test of authenticity as we could hope for."

With the help of a Chicago-area coin dealer, Filas matched the markings on the shroud with a type of coin minted only between 30 A.D. and 32 A.D. In addition, Filas says, a curved outline near the markings matches the clipped edge of an almost identical existing coin from the reign of Pilate.

He speculated that the coins were placed over the body's eyes to keep them closed in death. He said this theory is supported by the findings of a group of scientists who examined the shroud in 1978. The scientists, in the June issue of National Geographic, reported that two three-dimensional "bumps" appeared to have been placed over the eyes of the body that was wrapped in the shroud.

They concluded that the imprint on the cloth was the impression of a three-dimensional figure that had been wrapped in the cloth. The scientists said they could not determine exactly how the imprint was made.

Other scientists have sought to use a method known as Carbon 14 dating to determine the shroud's age. However, church officials have refused to allow such a test because it would destroy a small fragment of the shroud.

Filas said he is not involved in efforts to test the shroud with the Carbon 14 method. "I think what we've got here with the coins is better than any Carbon 14 tests."

Pryor may not require skin grafts on his face

SHERMAN OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Comedian Richard Pryor, listed in serious but stable condition, may not have to have skin grafted to his face after all.

Doctors for the comedian, who was critically burned in a freak accident at his Northridge home June 9, say his face is healing well without skin graft surgery, Sherman Oaks Community Hospital spokesman Leonard Lebow said Sunday.

But the 39-year-old entertainer's ears are still badly burned and he experiences pain intermittently, although he is alert and watches some television, Lebow said Sunday. Pryor also is able to look at some of the approximately 1,000 getwell cards and letters that pour into the hospital each day.

Congress pondering radio deregulation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional committee has begun grappling with a bill that would radically revise the law governing the nation's broadcasters and cable TV operators.

If adopted, the measure would extend the license terms for radio and TV stations from three years to five; substantially deregulate the cable TV industry; encourage deregulation of radio; and allow the Federal Communications Commission to explore new means of awarding broadcast licenses, including lotteries.

The proposal, part of a bipartisan compromise bill to deregulate the telephone industry, was introduced two weeks ago by six senators. It was moving toward a vote in the full Senate Commerce Committee last week until a dispute over the telephone provisions forced a delay.

Although members of the Senate panel have long stated their conviction that the entire Communications Act of 1934 should be rewritten all at once, few broadcasters or public interest groups expected such a bill would be introduced this late in the 96th session of Congress.

The House communications subcommittee, leery of a major battle with such groups in an election year, decided the telephone provisions of the act were in the greatest need of updating. Those sections of the law covering broadcasters were left for another day when the panel approved its bill two weeks ago.

Because of that House decision and the lack of time before Congress adjourns this fall, it still appears doubtful the Senate bill could become law this year.

But groups like the National Association of Broadcasters, the National Education Association, the National League of Cities and the National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting aren't taking any chances. For very different reasons, they have mounted lobbying campaigns to make sure broadcast deregulation is not considered right now.

The NWB, the broadcast industry's largest trade group, is mounting an all-out challenge to sections of the bill which would prevent the FCC from imposing limits on the number of distant TV signals that a cable operator can import.

The League of Cities, meantime, is concerned with another section which would prohibit city governments from requiring any cable company competing for a franchise to offer local access channels or channels for exclusive government use. League officials agree that most cable companies are offering local access and government channels anyway to improve their competitive chances.

Tot plunges 11 stories to death

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 22-month-old boy climbed to his bedroom window while his mother thought he was napping and plunged 11 stories to his death, police said.

Tyrell Samuel Lewis fell after he slipped from the grasp of a 4-year-old girl who was trying to save the youngster, authorities said Sunday.

Tyrell had climbed up heating pipes to reach the window in the 14-story apartment building. The girl tried to hold on to the child's legs, but he slipped through her fingers.

PUT CRYSTAL IN YOUR FUTURE

We are a rapidly expanding independent energy company involved in petroleum exploration and production, crude oil refining and natural gas processing. Immediate opportunities exist for the following professionals:

RESERVOIR ENGINEER: Requires a degree in Petroleum Engineering and proven ability to perform a wide range of reservoir engineering activities. Responsibilities include conducting fluid injection feasibility, performance evaluation and improvement studies. You will also be involved with expansion and economic feasibilities of reservoirs and determination of oil and gas reserves.

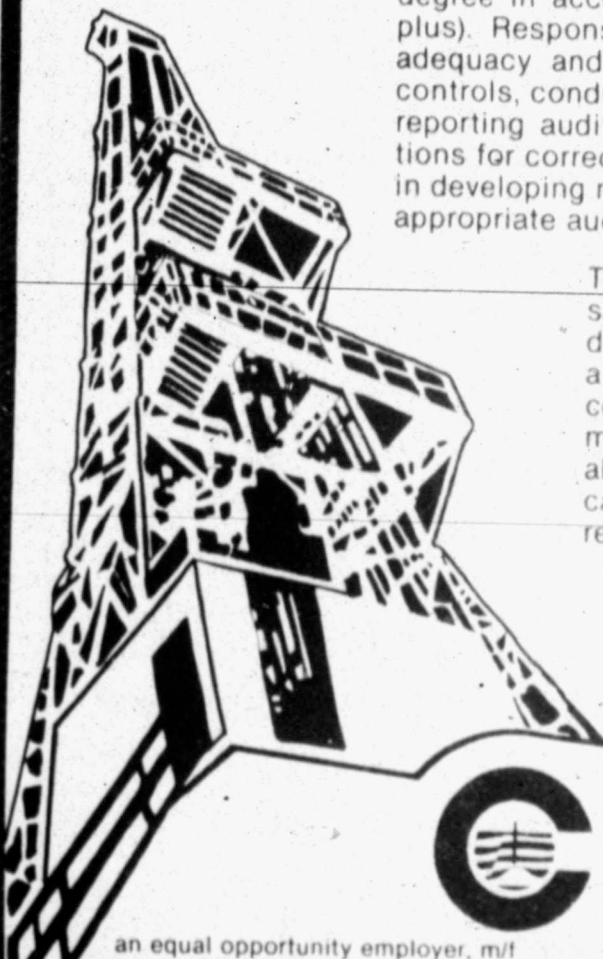

PROGRAMMER: Requires a minimum of two years programming experience with knowledge of Digital equipment (commercial applications). This opportunity is in Data Processing, operating an in-house, on-line system under RSTS/E. Responsibilities include writing programs for accounting/finance and human resources. Basic language preferred, but not required.

DRILLING AND PRODUCTION SUPERVISORS: Requires two to three years experience as a drilling and/or production foreman. A complete knowledge of drilling completion and workover operations, coupled with good exposure to casing operations is essential. Responsibilities will include evaluating down hole problems as well as bringing wells on stream, and supervising a number of rigs at the same time.

INTERNAL AUDITOR: Requires a minimum of 3 years experience in EDP auditing plus a college degree in accounting (minor in data processing a plus). Responsibilities will include evaluating the adequacy and effectiveness of computer activity controls, conducting reviews of computer activities, reporting audit findings and making recommendations for corrective action. You will also be involved in developing new EDP systems and recommending appropriate auditing procedures.

The above positions provide excellent salaries and benefits coupled with the decided advantage of living and raising a family in the heart of Ark-La-Tex country, with its quiet lifestyle, minimal traffic and outstanding recreational facilities. Qualified and interested candidates are invited to call or send resume to:

Borg begins stretch run for 5th in a row

Lee Trevino

By WILL GRIMSLEY
WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — "When you play against Bjorn Borg," said the dour, sinister-looking bulk of a man with the beetle brows and Fu Manchu mustache, "you don't play a man, you play an institution."
 Ion Tiriac, who came from the same Romanian village that produced Count Dracula, might as well have been talking about the pyramids, the Sphinx or the Rock of Gibraltar.
 After all, Borg, the implacable, 24-year-old Swede who goes after his fifth straight Wimbledon tennis championship this week, might fit any or all of these unmovable, unemotional landmarks.
 "He is not invincible — Borg," Tiriac added. "There just seems to be no one with the steel, the stamina and patience to take him.

 "If you hit 20 balls at him, he will hit the 21st. If you hit 40, he will hit 41. The man is amazing the way he can break you with persistence."
 As the ancient All England Championships move into their climactic phase this week, Borg's perennial challengers — young John McEnroe, Jimmy Connors, Vitas Gerulaitis and Roscoe Tanner — again are making threatening gestures.
 London's legal bookmakers, who don't thrive on bad judgments, have made the solid Swede the short-odds favorite at 8-11. McEnroe is 3-1, Connors 6-1, Tanner 14-1 and Gerulaitis 20-1.
 Tiriac, 40, — former star of the Romanian Davis Cup team and longtime partner of the fiery Ilie Nastase, can lean back in one of the old green stadium's wooden seats and observe Wimbledon developments dispassionately.

 His protege, Argentina's Guillermo Vilas, having been stricken with appendicitis in Paris, is now recuperating in Monte Carlo after an operation.
 Whenever the talented Vilas took the court, Tiriac could be seen in the background, giving hand signals and encouragement. They call him Guillermo's Svengali.
 "Only Vilas has beaten Borg since the U.S. Open last September," Tiriac reminded, "but that was on clay in the Nation's Cup in Germany. Vilas does not beat Borg often. Nobody does who dares stay in the backcourt and try to slug it out with him."
 "Bjorn — he always hits the last ball."

Tiriac's interest was quickened as he watched a rejuvenated Connors win his third round match Saturday against a hard-serving young Swiss, Heinz Gunthardt.
 "Jimmy is better now that he realizes he does not control the game," Ion said. "He must claw his way back. Marriage and the kid have changed his personal life."
 "For some, that may be good. For others, worse. I am interested to see how marriage affects Borg. It shouldn't right away because Bjorn and Mariana (Simionescu) have been traveling together for three years. But if they have a child, then what?"
 The crafty Romanian ran his fingers through the list of other title threats.
 "Tanner has the big service — a fast court helps him but he is no John Newcombe," Tiriac added. "Gerulaitis? Very quick and a fighter but tell me what single great shot does he have."

 "McEnroe, now that's something else. He can beat anybody. He has all the tools — quickness, instinct, great service, confidence. He came too fast."
 "If he were smart, he would not be thinking automatically he is No. 1. He will be No. 1 soon enough. If he loses, he should just say, 'Okay, I'll get him next time.'"
 "Borg is one of the greatest athletes ever. The only way to beat him is to serve-volley, overpower him. Remember, in a rally, Borg always hits the last ball."

Astros find a way against Reds

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
HOUSTON (AP) — Houston pitcher Nolan Ryan never could find the strike zone used by home plate umpire Lanny Harris Sunday, but the Astros finally discovered a way to defeat Cincinnati 12-10 in a hard-fought, emotional series finale.
 Joe Morgan put the Astros ahead for good in the seventh inning with a two-run, pinch-hit double. But by that time, both Ryan and Astros Manager Bill Virdon were out of the game following discussions with Harris concerning the strike zone.
 Ryan complained about Harris' calls periodically during the early innings. Then, in the fifth inning, Harris pointed his finger at Ryan and told him to go back to the mound. "I asked him where the pitch was and he wouldn't tell me," said Ryan, who did not figure in the decision. "I asked him again and he said something I didn't understand."
 Harris said later that he had seen Ryan pitch several times before and he always complained of calls. "He tried to show me up by asking all the time," Harris said. "I made up my mind I wasn't going to put up with it."

 Later in the fifth inning, Virdon came to the mound to remove Ryan from the game and Harris almost immediately headed for the mound. After a brief discussion, Harris ousted Virdon.
 "He said something about balls and strikes," Harris said. "That's all there was to it. He was out of there."
 Virdon said he intentionally waited for Harris to come to the mound.
 "I was waiting for him to come out because I wanted him to find out that I thought he was doing a very bad job on this particular night," Virdon said. "I said something about balls and strikes and he didn't like it so he threw me out."
 By the time the Astros got out of the fifth inning, they were trailing the Reds 6-5 in a see-saw battle. Cincinnati took a 2-0 first inning lead on a triple of Dave Concepcion, the first of four runs batted in, and a sacrifice fly by Dan Driessen.

 Houston rallied against Charlie Liebrandt in the second with five runs on a two-run triple by Craig Reynolds and single runs on hits by Rafael Landestoy, Luis Pujols and Ryan.
 The Reds, trying desperately to gain ground on the Western Division leading Astros, took an 8-5 lead with four runs in the fifth and two more in the sixth. Concepcion highlighted the two-inning spree with three RBIs.
 But then the new-found Astros resilience took over. Pinchhitter Denny Walling hit a two-run home run after Reynolds had singled in the sixth. Art Howe drove home one run in the seventh and Enos Cabell singled before Morgan put the Astros back on top for good.
 Joe Nolan's seventh inning sacrifice fly and a wild pitch by Frank LaCorte in the ninth gave the Reds their final two runs.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Trevino wins
 Memphis golf;
 Nancy is back

GOLF— Lee Trevino rallied for a 3-under-par 69 and a 1-shot victory in the $300,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic. Trevino acquired his second title of the year and 24th of his PGA tour career with a 272 total, 16 shots under par, for a prize of $54,000. Roberto de Vicenzo registered a final-round 70 and won the inaugural U.S. Senior Open with a 1-over-par 285 at the Winged Foot Golf Club. He won first prize of $20,000. Bill Campbell had a 69 to finish second, 4 strokes off the pace.
 Nancy Lopez-Melton outduelled Pat Bradley in a torrid 18 holes, posting a 2-under-par 71 to win a $125,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association event with a 72-hole total of 283. The triumph was worth $18,750.

AUTO RACING— Rob McFarlin and Hurley Haywood combined to drive a Datsun 200-SX to an easy victory in the $38,500 Six-Hour Endurance Challenge for racing stock sedans at Daytona International Speedway. The winners averaged 95.895 mph as they finished 150 laps, or 576 miles, one lap short of the record set last year by the team of Dennis Shaw and Don Whittington.
 Australian Alan Jones, driving a Williams, won the 66th French Grand Prix, crossing the finish line just 4.5 seconds ahead of France's Didier Pironi in a Ligier. Jones' winning time was 1 hour, 32 minutes, 43.42 seconds at an average speed of 126.072 mph.

TRACK AND FIELD— Steve Scott, the top ranked 1,500-meter runner in the United States, ran the fastest time in the world this year, clocking 3:35.15 on the final day of the U.S. Olympic Trials. Scott's performance bettered the previous 1980 best of 3:35.3 turned in by Steve Ovett of Britain this past week and was the third fastest ever by an American. Henry Marsh slashed more than three seconds off the American record in winning the 3,000-meter steeplechase in 8 minutes 15.68 seconds. Rod Ewaliko hurled the javelin 291 feet, the longest 1980 throw in the nation, in winning the event. The win made him the No. 2 performer in the world this year, behind Ferenc Paragi of Hungary.
 In the women's 1,500, Mary Decker led all the way, pulling away from Julie Brown with 200 meters left and speeding across the finish line in 4:04.91.
 Thierry Vigneron of France equaled his world pole vault record of 18 feet, 10 1/2 inches in the Franch National championships.
 Rod Milburn, a 1972 Olympic champion, scored the only American victory in an international meet with a 13.6 clocking for the 110-meter hurdles.

GYMNASTICS— James Hartung of the United States and West Germany's Volker Rohrvick tied for the men's overall title in a dual meet between gymnasts from the two countries. The U.S. men, missing stars Bart Connor and Kurt Thomas, beat the West Germans 284.20-279.50 and the U.S. women downed the West Germans 187.80-179.

HORSE RACING— Saturday's Races—Tyrnavos won by a length over Prince Bee in the $328,000 Irish Sweeps Derby at Curragh Track... Sunday's Races—Topline won by a length over Marribo in the 71st Danish Derby at Klampenborg Race Track... Jorky defeated Mustard by 1 1/4 lengths in the $100,000 Lowlands Race... Tiller, $4, sprinted to a 2 1/4-length triumph over Scythian Gold in the $57,000 Tidal Handicap.

Semall three-hits Amarillo for Cubs

AMARILLO—Paul Semall pitched a route-going three-hitter as the Midland Cubs ignored close to 100-degree afternoon heat to beat Amarillo's Gold Sox, 5-1, here Sunday, squaring the series at 1-1.
 The third inning run off Semall, 2-1, was unearned, coming as catcher Tom Vessy doubled, moved to third on a passed ball and scored on a ground-er to third.

Niatross maintains unbeaten status
YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Pacers like Niatross don't come around too often. There was the Dan Patch, the great turn of the century horse, and Bret Hanover in the 1960s. "I think everyone dreams of having a horse like this," said Clint Galbraith, who drove unbeaten Niatross to his 18th and 19th victories Saturday night in the $321,365 Cane Pace at Yonkers Raceway.

The 26th Cane, first leg of pacing's Triple Crown for 3-year-olds, was split into two divisions with the top four finishers returning for the final.
 Niatross posted easy triumphs in both races, leading all the way in the final. For his night's work, Niatross collected $112,477 and boosted his lifetime earnings to $829,877, putting the son of Albatross 10th on the all-time money-winning list for pacers.

Antonio here.

The Cubs gave Semall his winning margin in the first. After Scott Fletcher walked, Jesus Alfaro singled and Randy La Vigne tripled off starter Mark Thurmond, 5-6. Jared Martin had singled to open the game, but was caught stealing.
 In the fifth, Martin singled, Fletcher tripled, Alfaro walked and La Vigne grounded into a double play as the run scored. The Cubs other run came in the sixth when Joe Hicks singled and Mike Shepston, who has a seven-game hitting streak going, doubled in the run. LaVigne's first inning triple stretched his hitting streak to eight games.
 The Cubs take a 4-3 second half record into tonight's game with Randy Clark, 5-3, scheduled to hurl for interim manager Les Moss, filling in as Randy Hundley recovers from surgery. The Cubs return home Thursday to open a five-game July 4 weekend series with San Antonio.

Astros' manager Bill Virdon, right, and umpire Lanny Harris go mouth-to-mouth in what could be a breath test commercial, but, in this case, it was a debate over balls-and-strikes which ended with Virdon's premature departure from the premises. (AP Laserphoto).

Soothsayers await inevitable

Soothsayers of impending doom continue to twiddle their thumbs while waiting for the day of reckoning. And you don't have to be a prophet to be surprised that the volatile Billy Martin and dictatorial Charles O. Finley, that telephone strategist, haven't had a falling out by now.
 When the controversial pair with the flare for the explosive joined forces just before spring training began, fans rubbed their palms in anticipation of that first run-in in late March, April? Well, at worst, by early May.

After all, this was a match, if not made in Hades, then certainly on the Isle of Elbe. Martin was a manager fired by Minnesota, Detroit, Texas, New York once and New York again. Each time for something akin to insubordination. The American League, meanwhile, has been trying to drum Finley out of the owners' fraternity since he built that Yankee Stadium home-run-porch in the old ball park at Kansas City and turned his mules loose to graze in the outfield. And who could forgive him for introducing those garrish softball uniforms.

The dubious duo is in charge of baseball's forgotten franchise, run on a shoestring and seemingly dedicated to keeping the fans home and uninformed. Finley virtually eliminated promotions and his efforts to get the club's games on the radio were noteworthy only for the fact that they wound up once on a college station in Berkeley, which some said couldn't even be heard in Oakland.

TED BATTLES

 It was 1939 Germany-France, Germany-Britain all over again. So what went wrong?
 The halfway point of the season is upon us and Martin's only confrontations of record have come with American League umpires, not Finley.
 Instead of disaster, what has evolved has been the success story of the year. Maybe they aren't the Joe Rudi, Rollie Fingers, Reggie Jackson, Vida Blue, Jim Hunter, Ken Holtzman, Sal Bando, Gene Tenace, Campy Campaneris A's of the mid-1970s, but neither are the A's the automatic outs of recent years.
 Oakland could hit a million fans this year, even without promotions. They recently drew an Oakland record 141,364 for a three-game series with the Yankees, eclipsing the old high of 81,512 back in 1971.
 Last year, 306,763 fans got lost and found themselves in Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum, low in the majors. This year, the A's already have attracted 410,075.

 It may all blow up eventually. Martin's track record indicates it is inevitable. Still, Finley doesn't meddle in baseball affairs like he did back in the days of Dick Williams, Bobby Winkles, Bob Kennedy and the rest. In fact, last year's manager, Jim Marshall, never heard from Finley during the season. Even Martin isn't accustomed to that kind of freedom from front office interference.
 They say Martin has a built-in mechanism to self destruct after early successes. What usually happens is that Billy, buoyed by success, becomes too big for the franchise and departs in a spray of name-calling shouting matches.
 Fans alternately love Billy and hate Billy, but he defies the old theory that baseball managers don't win games, at least not more than three or four a season.

Right now Billy is at his most likeable scuffling, underdog-inspiring best. He has the A's on the move, creating excitement and interest in a baseball town that usually could be mistaken for Hiroshima after the bomb in the summer.
 After four success-failure stories, perhaps Martin has learned to stay away from marshmallow salesmen and shoulder-clip-carrying sports-writers who would rather have a fight than a story. Maybe this time Billy can make it.

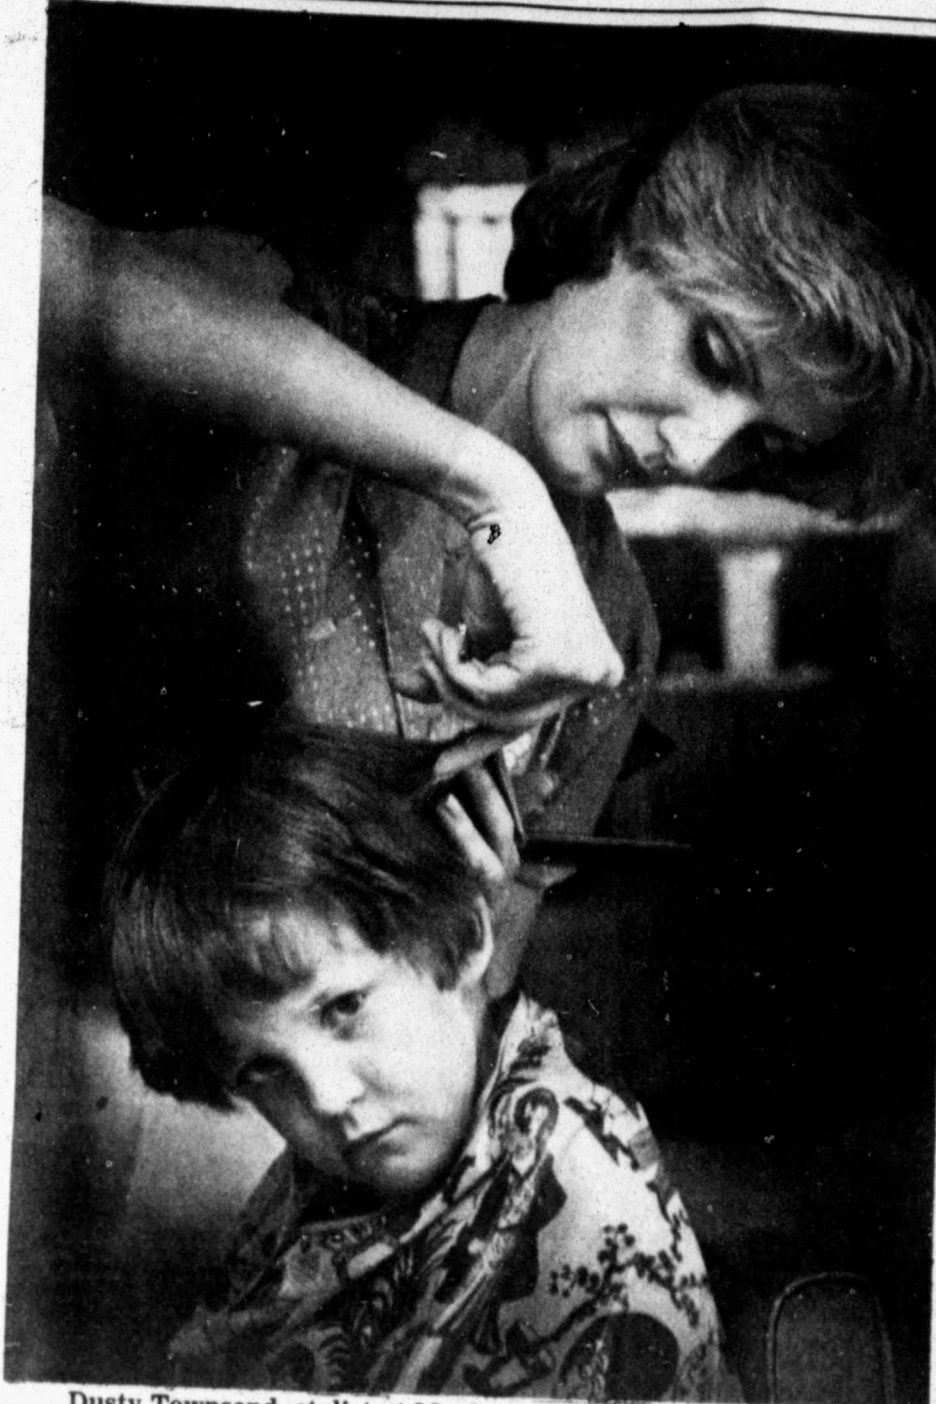

Twins' Mauch reaches 1,500th victory plateau

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Gene Mauch's 1,500th victory as a major league manager came only after a battle.
 "It was no laughter. Not when they keep sending those big strong dudes up to the plate," Mauch said after Minnesota defeated the Texas Rangers, 5-3, Sunday night.
 The Twins took a 4-0 lead behind the strong early pitching of Roger Erickson, who picked up his second victory in seven decisions. Buddy Bell blasted a two-run homer in the fifth, as the Ranger bats came alive late in the game, but Doug Corbett kept putting out the fires and got his sixth save.
 Mauch, in his 21st year at the helm of a major league club, said the first he knew of hitting the 1,500th victory milestone was from sportswriters after the game.
 "What (Rob) Wilfong did tonight means more to me than that 1,500th victory, I can assure you of that," said Mauch. Only nine managers have won more games than Mauch.
 Wilfong, Minnesota's second baseman, hit four singles and laid down a sacrifice bunt in five trips to the plate.
 Shortstop Roy Smally went two-for-five and drove in two runs and Hosken Powell singled twice and scored three runs for the Twins, who rapped Texas starter Doc Medich, 7-4, for nine hits before chasing him in the fifth.

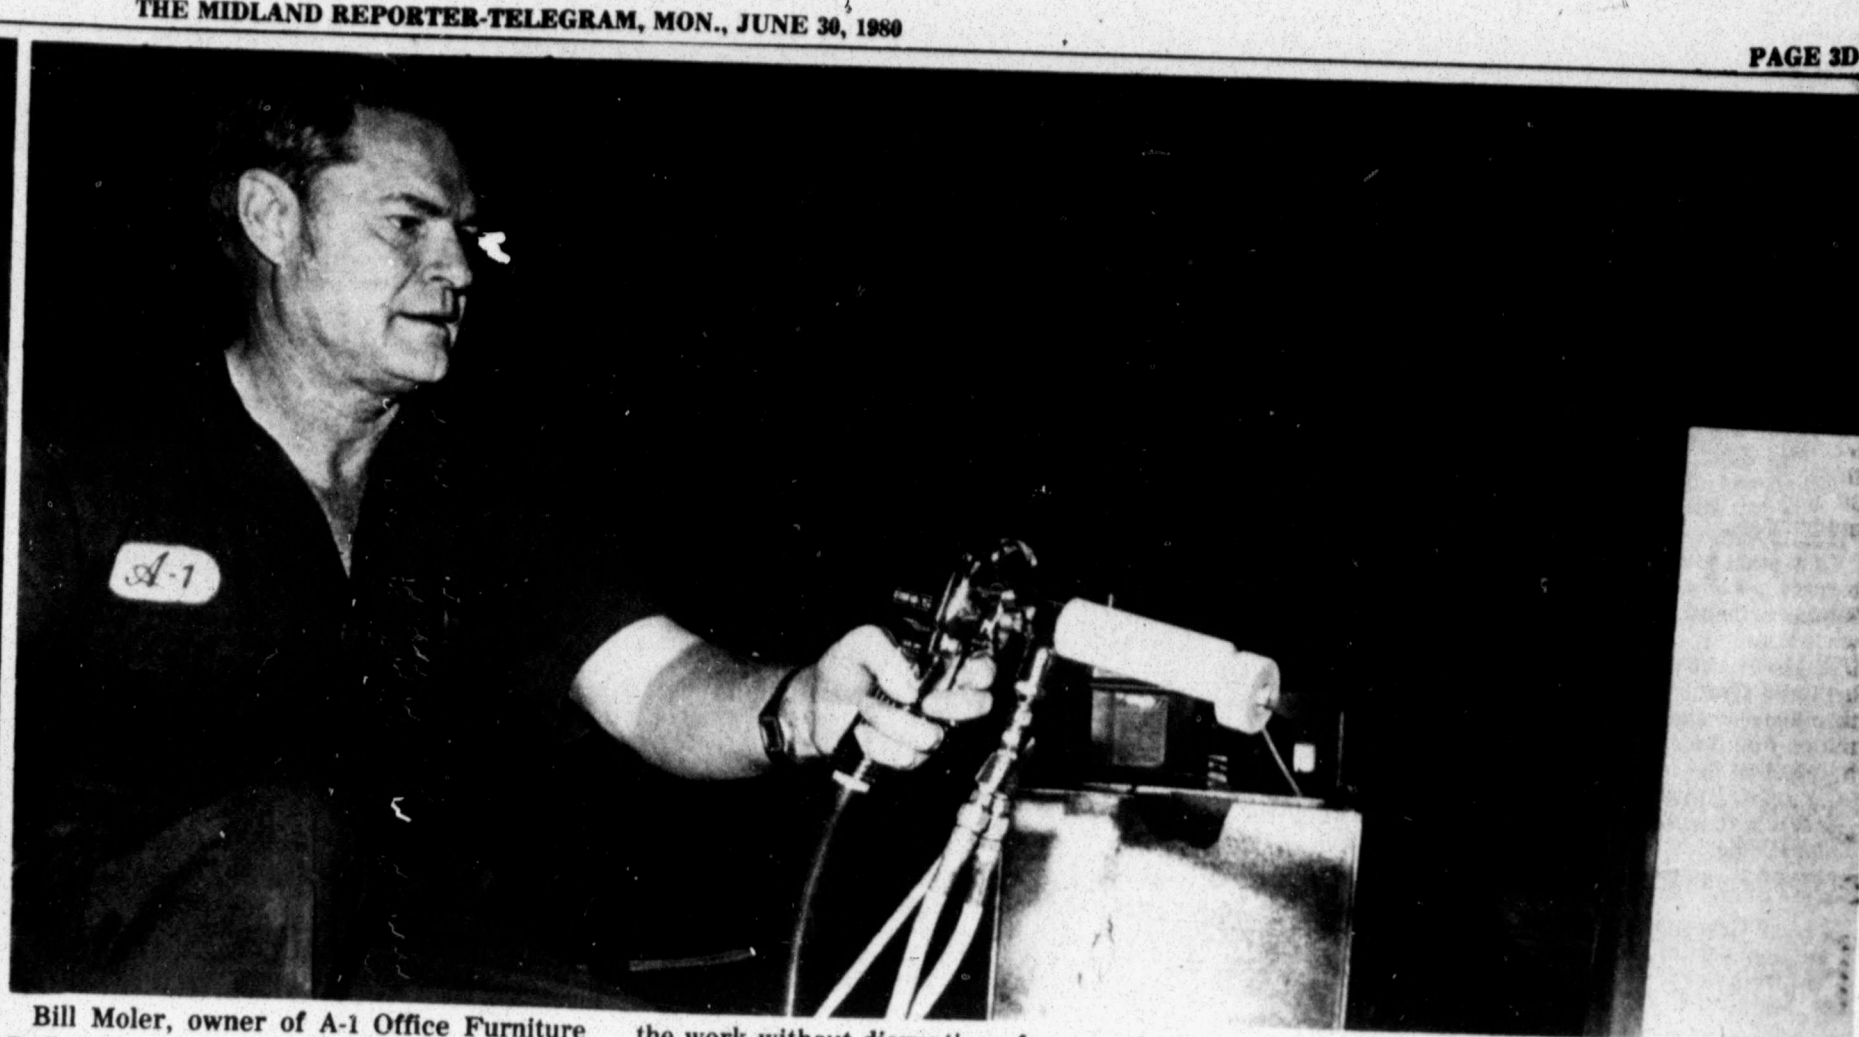

Lindsay defends Cascade title

PORTLAND, Ore. — Herb Lindsay of Boulder, Colo., defended his title in the 15-kilometer Cascade Run Off road race Sunday with a clocking of 43:49.6.
 Lindsay, who broke the U.S. record for a 10-mile run this spring, was among 5,000 participants in the race, which is 9.32 miles.
 Runner-up by just more than 19 seconds was Paul Williams, who was clocked at 43:50.7.
 Patti Lyons-Catalano was the top woman's finisher with a 49:42.5. She finished comfortably ahead of Jacqueline Gareau, who had a time of 51:15.7.
 Former Olympic gold medalist Frank Shorter finished 15th with a 45:14.4. Shorter won the 1972 marathon in Munich.

Meado No. 1-10 TT is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 10, block 8, H&TC survey, and 25 miles northeast of Barnhart.

It is one location southwest of oil production in the Andrew A (Canyon oil and gas) field and one mile west of the pool's gas production. The field produces at 7,390 feet.

RUNNELS TRY

Donald G. Holland of Midland will try to reopen Goen oil production in the Norton, East field of Runnels County at his No. 1 W. L. McWilliams, 4,350-foot wildcat in Runnels County, three miles east of Norton.

Location is 375 feet from north and 880 feet from west lines of Thomas M. Fowler survey No. 439, abstract 189. Ground elevation is 1,797 feet.

PECOS OPENER

C. F. Lawrence & Associates Inc. of Midland No. 1 McComb has been completed as a Grayburg gas discovery in Pecos County, 14 miles southwest of Fort Stockton.

The operator reported a calculated absolute open flow potential of 3,809,073 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations from 3,156 to 3,160 feet.

The pay was acidized with 500 gallons and fractured with 15,000 gallons.

Total depth is 3,257 feet, 5.5-inch casing is set on bottom and hole is plugged back to 3,220 feet.

The Grayburg was topped at 3,116 feet. Other tops include the King sand, 2,800 feet; Palo Pinto, 4,170 feet; Goen lime, 4,620 feet; Gardner sand, 4,920 feet and Caddo lime, 5,100 feet.

Wellsite is 2,393 feet from southeast and 1,400 feet from northeast lines of John Early survey No. 449 and one mile southwest of Wingate.

The well is 5/8 mile northeast of the Deike (Fry and Goen) field.

Total depth of No. 1 Robinson is 5,033 feet, 4.5-inch casing is set on bottom and hole is plugged back to 4,900 feet.

SCHLEICHER SITE

Transcontinental Oil Corp. announced location for an 8,200-foot project in the University 53 (Canyon and Ellenburger) field of Schleicher County, 20 miles northwest of Eldorado.

It is No. 1-22 University "A", 660 feet from north and 1,830 feet from east lines of section 22, block 53 University Lands survey.

UPTON AREA

Energy Reserves Group Inc. of Midland No. 2 Rosa H. Barnett "F" has been spotted 1/2 mile west of the Amacker-Tippett (Strawn) pool of Upton County, 12 miles northwest of Rankin.

Scheduled to test the Strawn, the project is contracted to 10,500 feet and will be drilled 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 6"78, block Y, GC&SF survey.

STONEWALL AREA

Laneer Resources Co. of Abilene No. 2 Alexander Estate is to be dug as a 4,850-foot project 1,500 feet north of the only well in the Alexander, South (lower Canyon) field of Stonewall County, 10 miles southeast of Aspermont.

Location is 3,940 feet from south and 800 feet from west lines of section 6, Austin & Williams survey No. 348.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

Location on ground elevation of 3,000 feet.

Other tops are: Tansil, 1,920 feet; Yates, 2,112 feet, and Queen, 2,616 feet.

Wellsite is 1,167 feet from south and west lines of section 14, block 132, T&S survey and 1/2 mile east of Queen gas production in the Fort Stockton, South field.

RUNNELS OPENER

Lifestyle Energy Corp. of Richardson No. 1 Robinson, reported earlier this month by the operator as being plugged at 4,767 feet in Runnels County, has been completed as a Fry sand oil discovery.

On 24-hour potential test, the strike finished for a daily flow of 55 barrels of 45-gravity oil and no water, with a gas-oil ratio of 3441-1.

Production was gauged through a 12/64-inch choke and perforations from 4,492 to 4,496 feet after 1,000 gallons of acid and 5,000 gallons of fracture solution.

The Fry sand was topped at 4,456 feet on ground elevation of 1,987.7

Fortune Production Co. of San Angelo No. 1 University is to be dug one location west of one of the two oil wells in the University 54 (Ellenburger oil and gas) pool of Schleicher county.

It is 19 miles northwest of Eldorado and contracted to 8,200 feet. Ground elevation is 2,520 feet.

Drillsite is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 7, block 54, University Lands survey.

Mitchell Energy Corp. of Houston will drill an 8,500-foot Canyon project in the Schleicher County portion of the Kama (Canyon and Strawn) gas field.

It is No. 2-12 Lauffer, 17 miles northeast of Ozona and 1,347 feet from south and 933 feet from east lines of section 12, block 2, GC&SF survey.

CROCKETT PROJECTS

Mitchell Energy Corp. also will drill No. 2 Childress in the Crockett County portion of the Kama (Canyon and Strawn) gas field.

Scheduled for tests of the Canyon, it is contracted to 8,700 feet.

Drillsite is 15 miles northeast of Ozona and 5/8 mile north of production. It also is 933 feet from north and west lines of section 15, GC&SF survey, abstract 2,478.

Harrison Interests Ltd. of Houston No. 10 John W. Henderson III will be drilled one location northeast of Strawn production and two miles north of Canyon production in the Ozona, Southwest multiphase pool of Crockett County approximately 18 miles southwest of Ozona.

Scheduled on an 11,000-foot contract, it is 660 feet from south and 1,610 feet from east lines of section 6, block SL, T&S survey. Ground elevation is 2,235 feet.

NOLAN LOCATION

Frost Oil Co., Inc. of San Antonio No. 1-289 Maruene Stuart has been spotted one location south of one of the two wells in the White Hat, Southeast (Cisno oil) pool of Nolan County, five miles west of Blackwell.

Slated to 4,700 feet, it is 330 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 269, block 1-A, H&TC survey, abstract 316.

TOM GREEN WELLS

A pair of wells, the fourth and fifth, have been completed in the Christoval, North (Swastika) field of Tom Green County, 4.5 miles northeast of Christoval.

The No. 5 Johnson, one location northwest of other Swastika production completed for a daily pumping potential of 41 barrels of 36-gravity oil and 12 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 1,220-1.

Completion was through perforations from 3,396 to 3,400 feet after 500 gallons of mud acid.

Scheduled as a wildcat, it is bottomed at 3,500 feet, 4.5-inch pipe is set on bottom and hole is plugged back to 3,449 feet.

Location is 1,842 feet from south and 2,100 feet from west lines of John Craddock survey No. 1.

Texaco No. 9 Johnson, one location northeast of other Swastika production, finished on the pump for 139.02 barrels of 36-gravity oil and 14 barrels of water with a gas-oil ratio of 1,295-1. Completion was natural through perforations from 3,376 to 3,381 feet.

Total depth is 3,300 feet, 4.5-inch pipe is set on bottom and hole is plugged back to 3,457 feet.

Wellsite is 150 feet from southwest and 1,850 feet from southeast lines of J. Heinrich survey No. 537.

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — So Delta Flight 604 out of Atlanta landed at MacDill Air Force Base instead of the Tampa, Fla., commercial airport.

And one of the passengers jumped up and yelled, "Hey, this guy's going to the wrong airport." But the stewardess told him to sit down and shut up and fasten his seat belt.

Well, those things can happen. In fact, I know from personal experience that they do happen. Probably another 49-cent computer component freaked out and blipped the wrong information, like that erroneous Russian missile alert a few weeks back.

That Delta pilot is lucky he didn't land on the wrong aircraft carrier, as sometimes used to happen with the U.S. 7th fleet off Vietnam.

THEN THE PLANE pushers in the blue sweatshirts and the ammo handlers in the red sweatshirts and the mechanics in the green sweatshirts and all those other war-bored deckhands on Vultures Row, as they called the business side of the flight deck, would have rushed out with cans of paint and buckets of grease and scrawled obscenities and insults and all sorts of crude calling cards on the pristine aluminum cabin and fuselage of his 727 Jet.

Guilty graffiti was the price one paid for picking out the wrong flight deck in the South China Sea. Mistakes sometimes happened. Despite all that electronic surveillance overhead and those radar consoles five decks below in CCA, carrier control approach, and all the efforts of Willie Phud.

Or was it Willie Fud? Anyhow, Willie was an ugly looking bird with a mushroom dome of radar stuff on its back that hovered up there somewhere during all air sorties and acted as an electronic marshaling yard, directing the bombers and the fighters back to their different carriers.

As I said, sometimes one of the fly boys did land on the wrong carrier, but never on an enemy one because the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese didn't have any.

Court declares Vance in wrong

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appeals court says former Secretary of State Cyrus Vance was wrong in taking away the passport of Phillip Agee, a critic of the Central Intelligence Agency.

In a 2-1 decision, the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia upheld a lower federal court ruling that Vance overstepped his authority. Agee, a former CIA agent who now lives in West Germany, has openly conducted a campaign since the early 1970s to disrupt the U.S. intelligence services by such means as publicly identifying covert agents.

Hippo House becomes haven for zoo visitors

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Hippo House at the Baltimore Zoo proved to be a hardy haven for a few frightening minutes as some 4,000 people scattered when a fierce summer storm battered the zoo's children's section.

"If we hadn't been blown into the Hippo House, we'd be in the morgue now," Carol K. House said after an apparent tornado touched down in the midst of a large crowd at the zoo Sunday.

The 27-year-old Baltimore woman, her two children and a niece were among the spectators jammed into the Druid Hill Park zoo for the conclusion of a week of special activities. Then the sky suddenly turned black.

"We saw the wind coming and tree limbs and bark were swirling around. I sent the kids into the Hippo House, and ran after my son's hat. That's when I got hit in the head by a tree branch," Ms. House said.

Her auto, which she was unable to reach with the children, was demolished by a falling tree.

The twister left five people at the zoo injured, including one child struck by flying glass from the Hippopotamus House. State officials say at least 34 people were injured by the sudden summer storm.

No animals escaped from the zoo, but the zoo's director, Steve Graham, said several birds in the zoo's collection were killed when a tree fell on top of them.

The zoo is located in Druid Hill Park. Immediately after the storm, police cleared the park, where the streets were covered with fallen trees and branches. About an hour later, however, when the skies cleared, city residents began to flock back to the park, despite the fallen trees and partially blocked streets.

Storms, tornadoes rock Maryland

BALTIMORE (AP) — A sudden storm at the end of a sultry afternoon spawned a tornado in Baltimore's crowded children's zoo, capsized boats in Chesapeake Bay, injured dozens of people and left thousands of homes and businesses without electricity.

Five people were reported missing in boating accidents after the Sunday storm, including two who had been on a rubber raft that capsized. A search was not resumed today, and officials would not say that the missing were presumed dead.

Officials said at least 34 people were injured across the state.

About 4,000 people were crowded into the Baltimore Zoo for special ceremonies when the tornado touched down in their midst at closing time.

"It got dark all of a sudden and then it hit," said Peggy Clement, a city resident who was among those sent scurrying for shelter by the violent weather.

Carol K. House said it was fortunate that she and the three children with her couldn't reach her auto. "If we hadn't been blown into the Hippo House, we'd be in the morgue now," the 27-year-old Baltimore woman said after learning that her car had been demolished when a tree fell on it.

A larger than usual crowd was at the zoo in Druid Hill Park because of a widely publicized appearance by the comic book character "Spiderman."

Five people were injured at the zoo, including one child struck by flying glass. Zoo director Steve Graham said no animals escaped, but several birds were killed when a tree fell on top of them.

Hospitals in Baltimore reported at least 22 injured, including eight hit by debris from an overturned stage at a German festival in the city's waterfront area.

Also on the waterfront, high winds toppled a large crane at the Dundalk Marine Terminal, but no injuries were reported.

About 50 miles north of Baltimore, 10 people were injured when a tornado lashed through a trailer park at Aberdeen Proving Ground, a government installation, according to state police.

On Chesapeake Bay, Maryland Marine Police searched for the missing on Sunday. Police said two of the raft which capsized near Fort Smallwood in Baltimore County.

Marine Police Communications Operator John Harbold said he thought the responsibility for many of the capsized boats rested with boaters who did not heed weather bulletins and darkening skies.

"Anyone with any sense took shelter," he said.

William Clark, state police spokesman, said three tornadoes reportedly touched down in St. Marys County in the southern part of the state. No injuries were reported, but police said there was heavy structural damage and scattered power outages.

Clark also said a tornado struck a farm in Bushwood, scattering "tobacco and barns ... over 500 feet."

In addition, the state police spokesman said damage was estimated at $200,000 at a marina in Chestertown where another tornado touched down.

Baltimore Gas & Electric Co. spokesman Charles Franklin said 52,000 customers were without power late Sunday and employees worked through the night until power was restored.
