Rain-Drenched U. S. Troops Push Onward

Japan's Sea Losses Mount; Estimated 35,000 Are Killed

BY LEONARD MILLIMAN
Associated Press War Editor

Typhoon - drenched American troops slogged toward the first potential major land engagement of their Philippines re-invasion today as Japan's disastrous sea losses mounted to 60 warships sunk or damaged and an estimated 35,000 men killed.

An additional 24,000 casualties were suffered by Nipponese ground forces opposing Gen. Douglas MacArthur's conquest of Leyte and Samar islands. American casualties were 3,221, including 706 killed, 2,245 wounded and 270 missing. Both figures are for the first ten days of the invasion.

18 JAP SHIPS DESTROYED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Destruction of 18 additional Japanese vessels, including one destroyer, by American submarines, was announced by the Navy today.

Attack On Manila Renewed

U. S. carrier planes, returning to the attack on Manila, accounted for most of 96 more Japanese planes reported wiped out, and dropped 1,000 pound bombs squarely on three fugitive cruisers in Manila bay. One, previously damaged, probably sank. Seven enemy tankers or freighters were sunk or damaged in Philippine waters.

A Japanese Imperial communique asserted that naval planes sank five American warships and damaged 14 in a carrier task force operating about 100 miles east of Manila and in sea squadrons in Leyte gulf supporting MacArthur's men.

May Last Two Years

Possibility of a major engagement on northern Leyte developed as Prime Minister Churchill told the British House of Commons the war against Japan may last for another two years—or longer.

Japanese rear guards were fighting a delaying action in Leyte valley, apparently to permit their retreating comrades and reinforcements ferried in from Luzon island to gather for a full-scale battle on the northern shores of the American-dominated island.

Land mines, booby traps and a raging typhoon with drenching rains and 70 mile-an-hour winds, delayed U. S. 24th division infantrymen pushing northward from captured Jaro—the last im-

Stilwell's Recall Climaxes Stormy Situation In China

BY PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI, Oct. 31 — The removal of General Joseph T. Stilwell as commander in the China-India-Burma theater, it can be reported today, resulted from a combination of strategy and diplomacy such as could arise only in the Orient.

It is possible only today to get further details passed through censorship.

Started Two Months Ago

The abrupt new shaping of the whole American position in this part of the world war front began with the arrival in Chungking two months ago of Maj. Gen. Patrick Hurley and Donald M. Nelson, both carrying vast powers designed to get from China some solid commitments for increased cooperation with America in the war against Japan.

The Associated Press is informed that the commitments were given virtually under threat of American withdrawal of her support of Chiang's government.

Was Face-Saving Gesture

In turn, the Associated Press was informed under circumstances leaving no doubt as to its accuracy, a last minute softening in the American attitude resulted in an agreement for the withdrawal of Stilwell as supreme commander in the CBI theater as a face-saving and pacifying gesture demanded by the generalissimo.

So large are official "leaks" in Chungking and other Chinese political and military circles that major portions of the story of this strange shakeup in the war against Japan were known within hours after the events occurred. As related to the Associated Press Hurley and Nelson explained to Chiang that there was much disappointment over the failure of the central government to come to an agreement with the Communists in the north so that both they and the central government troops now blockading them could be brought against the Japanese in China.

Reorganization Demanded

Among the requests were:

First, that Chiang should reorganize his cabinet and eliminate reactionary obstructionists and anti-foreign members.

Second, that an American general be placed in command of Chinese operations not only in Burma but elsewhere in major

U. S. High Command Favors Cleavage

Three Theaters Believed New Strategy In Far East Sector

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Withdrawal of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell from his triple command in Asia apparently means a clean breakup of the fronts against Japan into British, Chinese and American theaters.

Eventually it is expected that the British will seek to join forces and commands on the American side of the long battle line. But it can be stated flatly that in high military and haval quarters here there is powerful opposition to any such move. Every effort will be made to preserve the cleavage which has now been effected.

Based On Two Points

This attitude within the American high command is based on two points primarily:

(1) Under the leadership of Nimitz, MacArthur, Halsey and others, American forces have campaigned with spectacular success and any basic change in the plan of leadership might be for the worse.

(2). The war against Japan on the Pacific front is peculiarly an American war and leaders here hope that as a contribution to future peace it may be brought home to the Japs that it was American armed might which finally crushed them.

Chiang In Direct Command

At present Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek has direct command of the China theater. It joins the British area in North Burma. The British have South Burma, the Bengal bay area and presumably the Dutch East Indies and Malaya into the Singapore-Borneo area. From there north through the Philippines to the Aleutians it is an American command area, although Allied troops, notably Australian and New Zealand, have contributed much to the fighting.

At the moment the British are understood to be interested primarily in possible operations in the Bengal bay area. Their interests center in such places as Rangoon and Singapore — striking away from China by amphi-

By-Passed Jap Troops Present Knotty Problem

Big Enemy Force May Attempt To Colonize Islands

BY LYLE C WILSON
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Well over 500,000 Japanese soldiers and camp followers have been bypassed in the Pacific campaign and left behind to subsist, breed and colonize if they can, a fact which today is beginning to pose the United Nations some tough and disputable questions.

The questions are who is going to root them out and whether they are to be permitted by breeding for some years to over-run the areas which they entered as conquerors and potential slave masters.

More specifically, some thought is being given here to the probability that the American people would balk at any long, bloody and costly back-tracking operations. Such would be involved if the United States Army, Navy and Air forces were assigned the job of clearing out the Japanese from Pacific areas, most of which formerly were Dutch or British colonies, after the Japanese homeland is licked.

Others Consider Problem

Americans are not the only ones thinking about this problem of the by-passed Japanese. Sir Thomas Blamey, commander-in-chief of Australian military forces, told a Sydney press conference yesterday that the Pacific war would not be over until the last of the Japanese were cleaned out of by - passed areas. He said these isolated enemy troops already were undertaking to colonize some areas, beginning the cultivation of rice and collection of livestock.

There has been some thinking here, accompanied by some persuasive expressions of view, that it would be up to the Dutch, the British and others with colonial interests in the Pacific to assume that bloody post-war obligation. There may have been intimations from London and perhaps the Dutch government that American help in those operations is expected. The number of by-passed Japanese is not precisely known. Gen. Douglas MacArthur said on

Russians Enter Fourth Largest Hungarian City

Reds Are Driving Toward Budapest; Climax Nearing

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 31 — Russian troops have broken into Kecskemet, fourth largest Hungarian city 50 miles southeast of Budapest, in their offensive aimed at the capital, the Berlin radio said today.

However the troops were declared driven out.

"The battle between the Danube and lower Tiza rivers is nearing a climax," the official German news agency DNB said. "Although superior enemy forces have succeeded in squeezing back Hungarian lines, they were nowhere able to tear up the front."

The Germans asserted that nine Russian and three Romanian infantry divisions, a motorized corps and several tank brigades were attacking — perhaps upwards of 225,000 men.

City Of 83,000

Pecskemet is a straggling city of 83,000 in the center of a great agricultural region. It lies virtually in the center of Hungary and 20-odd miles west of the Tisza river, last water barrier before Budapest.

Berlin said also that the Russians between Warsaw and East Prussia resumed their attacks along the entire Narew river front, with the heaviest fighting north and south of the Polish river town of Pultusk, 40 miles south of the East Prussian frontier. This indicated another wide breach of German defenses along the river, already crossed at Senock and Rozan.

Intense Russian attacks in the Latvian pocket southeast of the Baltic port of Liepaja were reported by Berlin. The Russians were said to have thrown fresh infantry and air formations into the fray and "two major enemy penetrations" were acknowledged.

Red Trops Said Weakened

The Germans said the "battle of East Prussia may be regarded as terminated," because attacks of 35 Russian infantry divisions and several tank corps had been weakened in 14 days of violent combat in which 1,066 tanks, and 337 cannon were destroyed or captured. "Many thousands of dead Bolsheviks litter the battlefield" before forces commanded by Gen. Hossbach, Berlin said.

The Soviet communique did not mention the Hungarian drive, but the Moscow radio broadcast a Geneva report that the pro-Nazi Hungarian premier, Ferenc Szalasi, had hurried to Adolf Hitler's headquarters "to present a plan to remove the seat of the Hungarian government from imperilled Bulapest to Berlin."

Budapest Defenses Erected

Thousands of civilians were reported erecting breastworks outside Budapest.

British Advance To Maas River Near Tilburg

Highways Black With Retreating German Vehicles; Imminent Opening Of Antwerp Port Due To Speed Invasion Of Reich

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 31. — British troops chasing the Germans from southwestern Holland reached the Maas river today, and speared within half a mile of the Geertruidenberg bridge, one of the main spans of the enemy's fog-shrouded escape over the river.

The British wing struck to the Maas due north of Tilburg, while Canadian forces westward nearer the coast lost contact with the Germans fleeing to the river and the Hollandsch Diep.

Highways below the river were black with German transports, and motor columns six to 12 miles long had formed up at the Moerdijk and Willemstad bridge and ferry crossing 10 and 18 miles west of Geertruidenberg. Fog saved them from a lashing by Allied planes.

See-Saw Fighting Rages

Heavy, see-saw fighting raged on the eastern flank in Holland, where strong German armored blows had been halted. Allied troops had regained part of Lieseel, one of two towns lost to the German drive.

Canadians fought on the causeway to Walcheren island, last barrier to opening Antwerp harbor, after taking 2,500 prisoners in seizing the adjoining Schelde estuary island of South Beveland.

Two victorious Allied armies harried the retreat as the battle of the Dutch coastal corner and the related Schelde estuary action reached the mop-up stage. The German defeat means the Allies soon will get the use of the great Belgian port of Antwerp for the flood of supplies to feed the coming drives into the heart of Germany.

A front dispatch said it was estimated that perhaps only 10,000 to 20,000 Germans had been left below the Maas river line to attempt to slow up the pursuit of the victorious Canadian First and British Second armies. A British spokesman has said that the bulk of the enemy forces probably would escape across the water barrier.

Nazi Thrust Repulsed

East of Eindhoven, the strongest German counterattack yet launched on the west front "made no headway" yesterday, supreme headquarters announced, and failed to blunt the offensive north of Antwerp.

All of the Schelde island of South Veveland now is in the hands of British and Canadian troops, who are poised at the narrow causeway leading to the trapped enemy garrison on flooded Walcheren island. A few enemy guns remaining on Walcheren island bar the passage of Allied ships from the long water approach to Antwerp.

Below the Maas and its seaward outlet, the Hollandsch Diep, converging British and Polish columns sweeping up from Breda and Tilburg met in Oosterhout, driving forward and captured Raamsdonk less than two miles from one of the main bridges over the Maas near Geertruidenberg.

Nazis Flee Roosendaal

Farther west, Roosendaal was abandoned yesterday by its German garrison, and Allied troops dashed beyond it to the vicinity of Oud' Gastel. North of Bergen Op Zoom, the Canadian forces neared Steenbergen.

The roads leading to the bridges and ferries over the Maas and the Hollandsch Diep were black for miles with columns of German transport.

A spokesman at British Second army headquarters, however, said there still was no sign of German rout. It is an orderly withdrawal, he said, screened by extensive use of mines and booby traps, as well as elements of five or six enemy divisions acting as rearguards.

Yanks Regain Ground

On the east flank of the Allies' Holland salient American troops regained some of the ground taken by the German thrust in the Maas bulge, but the enemy was hanging on to the town of Liessel despite Allied attempts to recapture it.

On American sectors of the western front, the French city of Maizieres-Les-Metz, six miles north of Metz, was cleared after three weeks of bitter street fighting.

Farther south the villages of

FDR To Speak Thursday Night

(By The Associated Press)

President Roosevelt stepped up the tempo of his fourth term bid today.

His press secretary, Stephen Early, told reporters the chief executive will deliver a radio address from the White House Thursday night and make three New England appearances before his final major vote plea in Boston Saturday night.

This development came as Democratic cries of "don't take out the winning team" met Republican retorts that America's war successes can't be chalked up to the fourth term team.

Subject Not Disclosed

Early said he did not know the subject of Mr. Roosevelt's Thursday speech nor which networks will carry it. At the same time he said the President's Boston speech will be at 8 p. m. (CWT) and probably from Fenway park.

En route to Boston the chief executive will speak at Bridgeport, and Hartford, Conn., and Springfield, Mass.

The schedule outlined today virtually precludes an Ohio appearance by Mr. Roosevelt, already discounted by Early after persistent reports that it was in the wind.

Exchanges on the victory abroad phase of the presidential campaign came hotly as Governor Dewey traveled to Buffalo for his 15th speech on the contest tonight (8 p. m., CWT, over NBC).

School Children's Parade Due To Cut Hallowe'en Mischief

Lubbock residents will know where their Hallowe'en witches and goblins are tonight, until 9:30 o'clock at least.

Because that's how long the big parade of Lubbock school children, beginning a 7:30 o'clock from Central Ward school, is scheduled to last. Although police don't expect much mischief because of the parade, the department has served stern warning that funmaking bordering on rowdyism and vandalism won't be tolerated.

Officers On Alert

Officers in patrol cars will be on the double alert tonight, Chief of Police Don Reeder has said.

Entertainment proposed after the parade includes the teen-age dance at the youth center, Sixteenth and Ave. J, and a community party at Hub homes. Neighborhood units for the parade will meet with their sponsors at 6:45 o'clock at these points: Junior High school students at the school, Optimist club, sponsor; Pioneer park, Rotary club; Wagner, Carlisle and Burns parks at McCrummen park, Nineteenth, Junior Chamber of Commerce; Mackenzie park area at park entrance, Kiwanis club; Boys club at the club, American Business club; High School students at McCrummen park, Altrusa club; Boy Scouts at Junior High school, Lions club; all others not near neighborhood park, on south side of 1600 block on Thirteenth St., American Legion; Guadalupe at Mexican park, Capa y Espada; and Booker T. Washington at the park, negro recreation council.

The procession, after leaving Central Ward school, will proceed toward the downtown district on Thirteenth, to Broadway on Ave. N, making a look in the business area and returning to the starting point.

New Oil Test For County Announced

Announcement of a new oil test for Lubbock county was made in Midland this morning by Seaboard Oil Co. of Delaware.

The derrick has been completed for the test, which is 660 feet from the north and west lines of section 25, block A—diagnoally across the quarter section from L. C. Harrison's No. 1 Nairn, Lubbock pool's discovery well in the southeast corner of the section.

Drilling is not expected before probably two months, when a rig is skidded in from Seaboard's No. 1 Cravens test in section 16, block D, L&SV survey, Lubbock county.

Seaboard said its No. 1 Cravens had set 7⅝ inch casing at 5,451 feet, 400 sacks of cement having been used. Drilling will be resumed at 5,768 feet. Preparations were under way to drill ahead. The well was shut down several days ago when it was bottomed at 5,768 feet in lime.

Rowan Drilling company, driller of the Cravens test, will drill the new well, Seaboard said. Contract depth has not been decided, Seaboard said.

U. S. Heavies Breach Canal In Germany

LONDON, Oct. 31. (AP)—A communique from the United States Strategic Air forces in Europe:

Reconnaissance pictures reveal that the Mitelland canal at Minden, Germany, was breached by bombers from B-24 Liberators of the U. S. Eighth Air force 2nd bombardment division under adverse weather conditions on Oct. 26.

Eighty-five feet of the canal wall was destroyed by a direct hit. Near hits weakened the wall at other points and damaged a nearby barge repair works.

Water rushing through the breach drained the canal dry for about three miles, leaving at least 30 barge and tugboats stranded.

With Mittelland canal is the most important east-west internal waterway in Germany, linking central and eastern Germany with the Ruhr valley and the Rhineland.

Each Party Hopes To Control Congress

Demo Senate, GOP House Indicated By Election Outlook

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 — The next Congress may consist of a Democratic Senate and a Republican House, as most forecasts have it today.

But the Democrats believe they will retain and strengthen their slim House control because it's a presidential election year, and the Republicans say they have a fighting chance to win a Senate majority.

Ballots are to be marked next Tuesday for 1,025 candidates running for 35 Senate and 432 House seats. (There are 435 House members, but three — all Republicans —were reelected in Maine Sept. 12.)

Candidates Number 919

Candidates for the House number 919, including 422 Democrats and 374 Republicans, with the remainder wearing minor party labels. Fifty-one Democratic, six Republican, and one American Labor candidates are unopposed.

There are 106 senatorial nominees for the 32 full six-year terms and three unexpired terms. Thirty-five of them are Democrats and 33 Republicans. One, Senator George (D-Ga) is unopposed.

The present House is made up of 214 Democrats and 212 Republicans, with five vacancies in seats formerly held by Democrats, and four minor party members. A numerical majority is 218.

GOP Has Gained

Republicans have made net gains of 80 and 44 in the off-year elections of 1938 and 1942, respectively, but they lost seven to the Democrats in the presidential election year of 1940. That's why administration leaders predict an increase in Democratic seats this time.

But Republicans point out that all they need to do is hold their present strength and pick up six seats more to control and organize the new House.

Rep. Halleck, of Indiana, chairman of the committee campaigning for House GOP candidates, thinks his party may pick up a net of 60 seats. He says he sees chances to take over 75 memberships now held by Democrats, while "no more than 12 or 15 Republican House members seem

Modern 'Witches' Will Get You If You Don't Watch Out; 'Charms' Still Good Money-Makers

BY ARLENE WOLF

Not all witches ride broomsticks and wait until Hallowe'en for witches' night out. Many ride the buses and streetcars every day of the week without anyone being the wiser.

They're the modern species of the, hobgoblin and you can bet your best cauldron they'll get you —if you don't watch out!

Today's witches are strictly commercial. Their best money makers are witches' brews just as mysterious as the kind the broomstick riders cook up every Oct. 31. Got a headache, backache, or spots before your eyes? Are you suffering from an inferiority indigo? A bottle of 1944 witches' brew will fix you up fast, and the leftovers will combat the family cold, coughs and other assorted ailments.

"Dog Fat" For TB

A few years ago, the New York Board of Health discovered people were using dog fat as a tuberculosis preventive. About the same time, a policewoman bought two packages of love powder guaranteed to cure heartache. Even more recently, a man was fined $500 for advertising dragon's blood, which actually was composed of an engraving chemical, as an aid to the lovelorn.

Any ancient witch's brew would have a hard time matching a prescription recommended in London in the 1600's. It called for blood, fat, bile, bones, teeth, hoofs, claws, insect eggs, scorpion feathers isinglass, bone marrow, cock's comb, spiderweb, cast-off snakeskin, saliva from a fasting man and bones from a criminal's skull.

Presidential Race Closest Since 1916

BY ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Presidential preference polls and analyses by most political observers indicate that the Roosevelt-Dewey contest will be the closest in 28 years. It may be the hottest race since the famous Hayes-Tilden dispute 68 years ago.

There hasn't been a really close contest for the presidency since Woodrow Wilson nosed out Charles Evans Hughes in 1916 by a margin of 23 electoral votes. (It is the electors who technically receive the votes. They in turn name the president). Early returns indicated Hughes had a substantial lead. The morning after election day New York newspapers had headlines reading "Sweeping Victory for Hughes."

The Associated Press, however, withheld its announcement of the result until votes in California and other far western states, where President Wilson was running surprisingly strong, were completely tabulated. Belated returns showed Wilson carried California and many other western states, and on the third day after voting his election was generally known.

California Was Key State

If Hughes had carried California, normally a Republican state in those days, he would have won the presidency. He did carry such big-electoral-vote states as New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Massachusetts and Michigan but Wilson's capture of many western states, plus the Solid South and border states, put him over.

Presidential candidates have had a plurality of popular votes but have been defeated because their opponents received a larger number of electoral votes. That could happen this year if, for example, either Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Dewey carried certain states by big majorities and lost a large number of other states by slender margins.

Regardless of how slender the margin, all the electoral candidates of the party receiving the majority of votes are elected. The second-best party gets no electors at all.

Won More Votes But Lost

In the Hayes-Tilden contest of 1876, Tilden had a lead of 250,000 popular votes but the Republicans claimed Hayes had a majority of one electoral vote. Conflicting returns, however, were sent in from four states—South Carolina, Florida, Louisiana and Oregon. A bitter battle developed and Congress finally referred the disputed returns to an Electoral commission.

The commission was composed of five senators, five representatives and five Supreme Court judges. This commission by a strict party vote of eight Republicans to seven Democrats voted in every case in favor of the Republican candidate, so Hayes was declared elected.

Harrison Defeated Cleveland

In 1888, Grover Cleveland polled a larger popular vote than Benjamin Harrison but Harrison won the election with a majority of electoral votes.

In 1880, James A. Garfield led Winfield Hancock by a scant 7,000 votes out of a total of over 9,000,000, but Garfield's electoral vote was 214 to Hancock's 155.

Franklin D. Roosevelt smashed electoral vote records in 1936 when he won all but two states and collected 523 out of 531 electoral votes. Republican Warren Harding, however, holds the record for getting the largest percentage of the popular vote.

Harding received 63.8 per cent of the total vote of the two major parties in 1920, getting 16,152,000 ballots to 9,147,000 for James A. Cox. In 1936, Roosevelt received 62.2 per cent of the two-party vote when he defeated Landon by 27,476,000 to 16,679,000 ballots.

Woman Takes Child To Replace Another

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31 (AP)—Mrs. Anna Helen Cooke, 22, testified today at a magistrate's court that she took seven-months-old Nancy Allen to Pittsburgh because she was afraid that her husband, a sailor serving in the southwest Pacific, would kill himself if he found out their child had died at birth.

Magistrate E. J. Connor ordered her held without bail for court trial on a kidnaping charge.

Mrs. Cooke is charged with having taken the daughter of Mrs. Mary Allen on Sept. 6 when the child was left in her care.

Mrs. Allen, also a sailor's wife, reported the child's disappearance to naval intelligence and the baby was located in Pittsburgh through information supplied by Josephn Ritchie, 30, who was held today as a material witness.

Detectives returned the child to Mrs. Allen Friday night.

Approximately 10,000,000, radio receivers of all types, were sold in the United States during 1939, with a retail value of about $300,000,000.

GOP Candidate Flays New Deal

DETROIT, Oct. 31 (AP) — Gov John Bricker, seeking to show a tieup between the New Deal and a "foreign influence," declared last night that a secretary to President Roosevelt was listed among federal employes with "subversive records."

The Republican nominee for vice president named seven such persons in a recitation of "facts" which he said "conclusively prove that Franklin Roosevelt and the New Deal are in the hands of the radicals and the Communists."

Ends Western Campaign

The Ohio governor, concluding a 10,000-mile western campaign tour which has taken him into 22 states since Oct. 1, picked this area of strong labor organizations to analyze what he called "the actual working relationship between PAC (Political Action committee) and the Communists on one hand and the federal government on the other."

"Evidence presented to the Dies committee," he said, "showed that at least 82 leaders of the PAC have been affiliated with organizations listed by Attorney General Biddle as Communist front organizations."

Relating that Chairman Martin Dies of the congressional committee investigating un-American activities had supplied the attorney general with names of 1124 federal employes "who were members of subversive organizations," Bricker listed these as "typical examples:"

"Gene Mangion, information specialist, immigration and naturalization service; Lauchlin Currie, secretary to the President; Gregory Silvermaste, economist selected by the Treasury department as envoy to the Bretton Woods conference;

"Craig Vincent, chief, manning division, War Shipping administration; Arthur Goldschmidt, assistant chief of power, Interior department; Robin Kinkead, Office of War information in San Francisco, and Thomas I. Merson, counsel, Office of Price administration."

At the end of 1939 the financial stake of Europe in the United States amounted to approximately $6,698,000,000.

SEATTLE, Oct. 31 (AP)—Work on the first well in the Navy's 35,000 square miles of oil reserves in Alaska—about 175 miles east of Point Barrow—will start in April, Rear Admiral C. A. Trexel announced at a press conference here today.

He advised caution in accepting reports that the entire reserve is potential oil land.

FOR MEN ONLY

Scientists have now found that men who are run down, and no longer have the ability to enjoy life as they once did, may be suffering from a deficiency of certain essential vitamins and hormones. Middle-aged men especially may be the victims of this embarrassing condition. Tremone, the new medical discovery, combines the necessary vitamins and hormones that may make it possible for you to get a kick out of life again. If taken in sufficient quantities, to make up your vitamin-hormone deficiency Tremone may stimulate your vitality give you the verve and zest of a much younger man. Added years may no longer deprive you of desired enjoyments once you begin to use Tremone. Note: follow directions on label. Tremone for sale at Bowen's Drug Store and druggists everywhere. Adv

Re-Election Of FDR Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes asserted last night the election of Thomas E. Dewey "would inevitably delay the winning of the war."

The Republican party in Congress, he said in an address prepared for an NBC and Blue network broadcast, cannot be relied upon to help bring about a lasting peace. The advance text of the speech was released through the White House.

Byrnes urged his listeners "not to vote for a change in administration which would inevitably delay the winning of the war and jeopardize the peace for which our boys are fighting and dying."

To Affect War And Peace

The war mobilization director, making his first political speech of the campaign, said he thought he had "given up politics forever," but, he went on, the forthcoming election will affect the course of war and peace, and he decided to enter this campaign because its issues make participation in the presidential debate "a solemn duty of citizenship."

"Whoever heard of taking out of the box in the ninth inning of a baseball game a winning pitcher who is striking out batter after batter?" he asked.

Important Facts Unknown

"The Republican candidate may honestly believe that in these fateful hours he could become commander-in-chief and do a better job than the President, but do we know that? And do our Allies know that? I do not know of any experience he has had with such problems as are daily decided by the commander-in-chief . . .

"You and I know that Hitler and Hirohito are praying for something that will disturb the existing unity and harmony of the United Nations and you and I know the defeat of Roosevelt would revive their fading hopes, stiffen their opposition and delay the ending of the war."

Mass Burial Planned For Victims Of Fire

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31 (AP) — Seventy-three unidentified bodies of victims of the East Ohio Gas Co. explosions and fire will be given mass burial, Mayor Frank J. Lausche and Coroner S. R. Gerber announced today.

Dr. Gerber reported members of the local casket manufacturers and undertakers association would provide caskets and vehicles for the ceremonies without charge. Burial probably will be in a non-denominational cemetery, he added. No date has been set for the services.

The toll of known dead stood at 136.

PENTAGON COST A PRETTY PENNY—The pictograph above shows the Army's gigantic Pentagon building across the Potomac from Washington, with figures indicating the difference between the cost as originally estimated and the actual expense involved. The building, whose five sides extend almost a mile, houses some 36,000 workers.

Everything Measured In Acres In Army's Giant Pentagon Building; 'Distant Mists' Blur Halls

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. —. — I don't know why I'm writing this; you're not going to believe it. I'm in the Pentagon today and, friends, I don't believe it myself.

Thirty-six thousand people work in here for the War department. They spend their spare time making jokes about the Pentagon. Mostly the jokes are funny, but dirty, and they indicate that once you get into the Pentagon, the odds are against your getting out.

The corridors are so long you can't see to the ends because of the distant mists. Messengers whiz by on tricycles with coast brakes for use on the ramps. I have it on good authority that Gen. Hap Arnold sputters around on a gasoline scooter, but I didn't actually see him myself.

Three Acres of Washrooms

Before I attempt to describe the place, or even clean up the jokes, I'd better bludgeon you with some statistics: The Pentagon contains three acres of wash rooms, six acres of kitchens, two acres of garages, 200 acres of corridors and stairs and 143 acres of offices, about half of which have windows. There are 32 restaurants, including one with table cloths for the use of brigadier generals and up. I had the 40-cent hamburger steak in cafeteria number eight on floor A, circle four, corridor C., and it wasn't bad.

So much for statistics. The bus stop is in a tunnel under the building and, so help me, the lobby looks like the grand central station would look if its roof were upheld by red posts. There is a department store which sells dresses and hosiery, a bank which has at this writing a line of people three quarters of a mile long waiting to cash their paychecks, a book store full of lieutenants looking for something to read, a drugstore, laundry and shoe repair shop.

"Guide Got Us Lost"

You can't get in without a pass. You can't get a pass without a guide. My guide turned out to be a first lieutenant, who got us both lost while giving me a spiel about how easy it was to find your way around. We rode on the escalators, visited a couple of movie theaters with easy chairs, inspected an acre of WACS at their typewriters, had a look at the flag that was used to cover Abraham Lincoln's coffin, and got briefed by a one-star general.

This briefing is something. Every day the general calls in the press to tell how the war is going. He has a room with maps covering the four walls; veteran reporters say his lectures are helpful; I got a crick in the neck.

Harrowing Experience

The denizens of the press room were recovering from a harrowing experience. Two workmen came into their sanctum a while back with a stepladder. They unscrewed a plate in the ceiling and one of them crawled in.

After 20 minutes the other climbed up, stuck his head in the hole and cried, "hey, Bill, you there?" Getting no answer, he screwed the plate back on the ceiling, walked out with the ladder, and never returned. Bill has not been seen since.

An Army corporal a while back found life too complicated and leaped to his death from the fifth floor. One of the 700 janitors once found a newborn baby in a wastebasket, or at least so said my guide.

And since I've just run out of space, I can't tell you any of those Pentagon jokes. This is just as well. Scrubbed, they aren't so funny.

Prisoners' Relatives Get Word Of Comfort

ATLANTA, Oct. 31 (AP) — Relatives of American soldiers held prisoner by the Japanese had this message of comfort today from a man who survived the infamous "March of Death" in the Philippines:

"The first seven months on Bataan were the worst. If your loved one lived through that period, my guess is that he stands a good chance of living through the rest of it. At any rate, unless you've received definite word that he is dead, then you have good reason to hope for the best."

The speaker, Maj. Samuel C. Grashio, told the Philippine-American club yesterday that since the tide of war turned against them, the Japanese have improved conditions in their prison camps.

Major Grashio, Geiger field, Wash., was one of 10 men who escaped from the Philippines with Col. William Dyess.

Texas Service Voting Slow

(By The Associated Press)

A survey of 31 Texas counties with a potential of 834,209 votes in this year's presidential election shows them receiving a comparative trickle of ballots from service men and women.

To this group, sampled from Potter county in the Panhandle to Hidalgo and Cameron in the lower Rio Grande valley, have gone 7,600 of the 16,138 short form federal war ballots received to date for the entire state. County clerks in these counties sent 7,242 absentee ballots to service personnel; 837 have been returned.

Trickle Could Increase

But this trickle could increase. The deadline for receiving regular absentee ballots (cast by those who have paid poll taxes) is not until Nov. 3 and the war ballots will be taken by election judges up to the time the polls close Nov. 7.

War ballots come in to the secretary of state, who forwards them to county clerks. Of the 16,138 which have reached his desk he already has passed along 15,737.

The federal ballots will be tabulated with the regular vote, and none of them will be counted after Nov. 7.

Service men's absentee ballots accounted for in the survey were contained in 14,053 such ballots sent out in the 31 counties, and 3,398 thus far returned.

The state's heaviest centers of population, and its cities which have been swollen since the 1940 general election with war workers, were touched in the survey. Reports were obtained from Harris, Tarrant, Dallas, Bexar, Travis, Jefferson, Galveston, Gray, Grayson, Nueces, Hidalgo, Gregg, Hale, Lubbock, Tom Green, Ector, Harrison, Cooke, Wichita, McLennan, Cameron, Howard, Bowie, Lamar, Navarro, Potter, Taylor, Midland, Hutchinson, Wilbarger, and Anderson.

ABSENTEEISM CUT

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (U.P.) — Through a policy of permitting a group of fellow workers to review cases of persons failing to report for work without reasonable excuses, absenteeism at the Belmont Radio Corp. plant has been cut in half.

Man Can't Remember About Lost Automobile

Police were informed Monday afternoon a man's automobile had been stolen.

They called the sheriff, so his department too might be on lookout.

But J. A. Wright and Raymond Land, deputies sheriff, had the answer:

"His car wasn't stolen; he got out in it Sunday and drove it off a culvert just this side of Shallowater. A soldier who pulled him out and drove him to Lubbock said he was drinking. When the soldier stopped at a wrecker service and made arrangements for a wrecker to accompany the man to the wreck scene, the man ran off."

Police accosted him with the story.

"I don't remember," the man said. He was sober then.

No charge was filed.

Catering to hobbies unique, odd, or just plain interesting, the first annual Lubbock Army Air field hobby show, sponsored by the special services department, will open Wednesday on the post. The show will be displayed in the LAAF Enlisted Men's Service lounge and will offer three grand prizes of $5, $3 and $1. All officers, WACs, enlisted men and aviation cadets are being urged to bring their hobbies out for public inspection.

Lubbock Salvation Army will open a financial drive for $10,000 with a "kick-off" breakfast for campaigners at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning in Hilton hotel. Maj. B. C. Morris, public relations secretary from Dallas, will speak on "What the Salvation Army Does During Wartime."

Seven more days, and the general election. Absentee voting this morning stood as follows, said County Clerk Ed D. Allen: 433 regular Texas ballots mailed to servicemen in the States, and 54 returned to his office; 298 mailed to civilians, of which 66 had been returned; 389 requests from overseas for the regular ballot: 141 federal (bobtail) ballots mailed from overseas to the Texas secretary of state and thence to Allen's office; 144 votes cast "in person" in his office. That accounts for a total of 405 ballots voted, out of 1,120 requested.

S/1c Joseph Y. Boyd, jr., 21, whose parents live at 2705 Twenty-second, expects to leave Wednesday night and report at expiration of his leave on the west coast. He is an airplane mechanic's mate. He arrived here a week ago. He was a junior student of engineering and mechanical drawing in Texas Tech when inducted His father is county auditor.

Old time tunes were played by Police Chief Don Reeder on the guitar, and Clyde Jones, fiddler, at the Optimist club luncheon today in Lubbock hotel. Plans for a campaign to increase the club membership to 100 in the next three weeks were outlined by J. W. Chapman, campaign chairman. Lloyd Sanders, U. S. Coast Guard, was a guest.

T. Y. Young of route 1 Plainview asked KGZW, police short-wave radio station here, to broadcast a description of his 14-year-old son who last was seen Oct. 23 when he and a youth of similar age left, presumably for California. "Foul play" was suggested by the parent. Transportation will be furnished to the father's home from any point where the youth might be detained, police were authorized to say.

Deputy Sheriff Raymond Land this morning left for Gatesville, with a juvenile boy in his custody. The youth must serve a term in a reform institution.

Theft of a coat from the automobile of Earnest Thomas of Jayton was reported to police. The machine was parked near Broadway at Ave. M. A radio was taken from a residence at 2218 Thirteenth. A suspect was described.

Judge J. E. Vickers of the 99th judicial district this morning called civil dockets and ordered a jury to report the week of Nov. 15 for several cases.

Morris Givens, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Givens of 1926 Twenty-fourth, suffered a fractured left leg below the knee Monday night when he ran into the side of a moving car near his home. Patrolmen investigating said the youngster dashed past a parked car and struck a car driven by Mrs. C. L. Tanner of Clovis, N. M. The boy is in Lubbock General hospital.

Lions club members heard a varied program at their luncheon today noon at the Hilton hotel which was climaxed in a series of stunts performed by several club members. Mrs. O. L. Byrd spoke briefly on Girl Scout week; Major Bernard C. Morris of Dallas talked on the Salvation Army financial drive; and C. W. Finney gave the club an outline of requirements for successful staging of the Passion play which the Lions are sponsoring here Nov. 18-21. Out-of-town guests at the luncheon were: Wm. J. Kent, Dallas; J. D. McPhaul, Lamesa; Tommie Hopkins, Houston; Seamen Joseph Boyd and Bill Dodson of the Navy and Lts. Jack Giles and Tom Lemond of the Army Air forces. Dr. Fred G. Harbaugh was program chairman.

Area's Masons To Hear Allen

James G. Allen, dean of men at Texas Technological college, will be principal speaker here tomorrow night when Scottish Rite Masons and their guests assemble for their annual observance of the Feast of the Tabernacles.

DeWitt (Judge) Landis, president of the South Plains Scottish Rite club, said this morning that a complete program had been arranged for the meeting, which will be preceded by a dinner and will be held at Hotel Lubbock beginning at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

Reservations Necessary

Landis pointed out that all Lubbock and South Plains members of the Scottish Rite of Free Masonry, of the 18th degree, or greater, are eligible to attend the meeting and to bring as guests their friends among Master Masons. He issued a special invitation to members of the order stationed at Lubbock and South Plains Army Air Fields and urged that reservations be made before noon Wednesday with the club's secretary, Ed D. Parker. Parker may be reached at the general offices of the West Texas Gas company, phone 6321.

The South Plains Scottish Rite club has been active in this area for more than 20 years. Twice annually, members from over 15 neighboring counties meet here—in the fall for the Feast of the Tabernacles and in the spring for Maundy Thursday—for ritualistic observances.

Bowen Buses Apply For Two-Way Radios

DALLAS, Oct. 31 (U.P.)—Bowen trailways announced today that it had filed with the Federal Communications commission in Washington application for permit to install two-way radio systems on its buses.

Bowen asserted that the revolutionary move was the first among the nation's major transportation lines to call for radio contact between major terminals and its 400 buses, on 3,600 miles of highways, thus offering additional safety and smoother operating schedules.

First installation was planned on the Fort Worth-Dallas-Houston route, Bowen said, but eventually terminals at Corpus Christi, Wichita Falls, Amarillo, San Angelo and San Antonio would be used should the permit be granted.

Boy Grief-Stricken After Loss Of Dog

AUSTIN, Oct. 31. (U.P.)—If Mimi, a reddish-brown cocker spaniel, is not found soon, Lt. Vike Francis, stationed at Randolph field, near San Antonio, fears his small son will be dangerously ill.

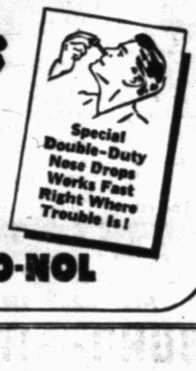

The child has grieved since the dog, disappeared from the lieutenant's automobile when he visited Austin. Local police were aiding the search for Mimi today, on an appeal from the child's parents.

Pimples Disappeared Over Night

Yes, it is true, there is a safe harmless medicated liquid called Kleerex that dries up pimples over night. Those who followed simple directions and applied Kleerex upon retiring were amazingly surprised when they found their pimples had disappeared. These users enthusiastically praise Kleerex and claim they are no longer embarrassed and are now happy with their clear complexions. Don't take our word for it, use Kleerex tonight. Only 50c. Truman Asks Endorsement

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 31 (AP)—Senator Harry S. Truman carried his vice presidential campaign into Rhode Island last night with a plea for voter endorsement of what he called President Roosevelt's "superb leadership" after asserting he had hope of "reform" for Senator Walsh (D-Mass) to whom he attributed an "isolationist" record.

In a prepared speech to a Democratic rally in the Pawtucket stadium, the Democratic vice presidential candidate declared:

Cannot Take A Chance

"You cannot take a chance on inexperienced leadership in the midst of a great war when the lives of our fighting men and the future of the nation are at stake."

At an earlier press conference Truman told Joseph H. Short, a reporter for the Baltimore Sun, that Walsh, whose endorsement of the national Democratic ticket Truman accepted yesterday at Lawrence, Mass., had a record as "an isolationist."

Short had asked Truman "the difference between the isolationist record of Senator Walsh, and that of the eight Republican senators" Truman has asked Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican standard bearer, to "repudiate."

Walsh To Speak Thursday

"No difference," Truman replied, "except that Senator Walsh has two years to serve and we have a chance to reform him." Later, he added that "from the cordiality of Senator Walsh's introduction, I think we have a very good chance." He said Walsh would speak for himself over the radio Thursday.

In his speech last night, Truman asserted that President Roosevelt "has co-ordinated our efforts with those of our Allies, so that the heaviest hammer-like blows can be struck at our enemies," and added:

"The Republican party asks you to elect to high office two men, neither of whom ever had any experience in military affairs and neither of whom ever had any experience in either national or international affairs."

Japs Concoct Food From Rotten Wood

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31 (AP)—The German Transocean news agency told today of a "wonderful new food, concocted of rotten wood, sawdust and starch, seasoned with sunshine," which has been created by Japanese chemists.

The news agency dispatch, recorded by the Federal Communications commission, described the process as follows:

"The mould spreading on rotting wood is planted in sawdust. Later, a little starch is added, and the whole mass is steamed for a while. When it has gone into fermentation, it is dried in the sun. The product is edible and can be mixed with flour to make noodles."

Two Mayors Duel For Governor's Post In Ohio

(By The Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Oct. 31—The battle of two mayors who want to be governor—Republican James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati and Democrat Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland—has injected a warm issue into presidential-year campaigning in Ohio. One will succeed Gov. John W. Bricker, the GOP vice presidential nominee.

Both are emphasizing their mayorality records. Stewart, big and friendly, has served five consecutive two-year terms. Lausche, medium-sized, with a mop of black hair and a big grin, has served two terms.

J. G. Stewart F. J. Lausche

Their popularity in their home environs—and they definitely are popular — will be an important factor. Lausche will receive strong support in the northern industrial section of the state, chiefly on his endorsement by labor, while Stewart is known widely in Cincinnati and throughout the southern and western agricultural section.

Strictly Party Man

While Stewart is strictly a party man, Lausche goes along with the Democratic organization only when it is going his way. He lacked regular organization support in his two successful bids for mayor, and was pretty much on his own in the primary last May when he won the gubernatorial nomination.

In their campaigns, the principal bone of contention probably is what to do with a treasury surplus that should reach $100,000,000 by the end of the year. Stewart wants it touched only for permanent postwar development; Lausche and his party advocate a more generous allocation to municipalities.

Both men are proud of humble beginnings. Stewart was born in Springfield, Ohio, in 1880, worked his way through law school and was among the first ten in his class. Lausche, 49, is the son of an immigrant Slovenian steelworker. He turned down a professional baseball career to practice law.

SPAAF Promotions Announced Monday

Thirty enlisted men and women at South Plains Army Air field, including three Lubbock men and five others from Texas, have received promotions, field officials announced Monday afternoon.

Included in the promotions were, from corporal to sergeant, Lomer H. Nelson, of 2011 Fifteenth street, from private first class to corporal, Herbert T. Bramblett of 2332 Nineteenth street, and L. D. Crone of 320 Temple Avenue. Others from Texas include, from corporal to sergeant, Fred C. Meinzer of Waco, and Ramiro D. Salinas of Benavides, from private first class to corporal, Ellery B. Ballou of Pottsboro; and from private to private first class, Jessie C. Hobbs of Quitaque, Almer J. Sanders of Pilots Point.

Promoted from sergeant to staff sergeant, Harold B. Kurzin of Chicago, Ill.; from corporal to sergeant, Frank M. Weister of Takoma Park, Md.; Robert M. Race of Mansfield, Ohio; Lawrence H. Warnke of Lynch, Neb.; James H. Williar of Amboy, Ill.; Priscilla Famous of Webster, N. Y., William H. Norton, of Aberdeen, S. D.; and Leonard Hill of DeQueen, Ark.

Advanced from private first class to corporal were John C. Hansen of Wymore, Neb.; Clyde M. Buchwalter of Stockton, Calif.; Roy W. Rogers of Sebring, Fla.; and Anastasia Geogeou of Lowell, Mass.; and Richard R. Jurich of Tacoma, Wash., boosted from private.

The following were promoted from private to private first class: Mortimer F. Whiteman of Wilmington, Calif.; Glenn W. Woodard of Omaha, Neb.; Roscoe W. George of Barberton, Ohio; Ethel Larsen of Anita, Iowa; David R. Jones of Oakland, Calif.; Paul R. Wright of Youngstown, Ohio; Margaret Parassi of Joliet, Ill.; Dorothy Heck of Junedale, Pa.; and Louis J. Malanga of Newark, N. J.

Farmers Of Area To Meet Here Thursday

Issues of vital importance will be discussed at a meeting of farmers of this area Thursday in Lubbock hotel.

Announcement of the meeting was made by W. R. Tilson of Meadow, director for the Lubbock district of the Texas Farm Bureau federation, sponsor of the meeting.

Among problems to be discussed will be the effort of agriculturists to obtain recognition of agriculture as a war industry.

The meeting will start at 10 o'clock Thursday morning.

Jap Fleet Reduced To A Naval 'Runt', Halsey Declares

ABOARD FLAGSHIP, American Third Fleet, Oct. 26 (Delayed) (AP)—(Via Navy Radio) — The Japanese fleet has become a naval runt and will remain a runt in spite of everything the Japanese can do to recover from its newest defeats, Adm. William F. Halsey, jr., said today.

"The best information we have," the admiral told a press conference, "is that their ship repair facilities were taxed to the utmost before this catastrophic beating they took.

"How or when they can repair the damaged ships of their navy that may eventually reach port will be a very serious problem to solve. There's many a headache in Japan today. I am extremely glad I am not a senior officer in the Japanese navy. And I don't mean this merely because I don't like Japs."

Halsey's staff estimated that out of 55 ships that attempted a pincers movement against the Third and Seventh American fleets in the Philippines at least 30 were sunk and most of the remainder severely damaged.

In a single prewar year, the United States imported more than three million pounds of paprika from Hungary.

'Closed Shop' Issue In Three States

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31. — Should a worker be forced to join a union—where there is a union or "closed" shop — in order to get a job?

This is the heart of a bitter fight now in Arkansas, California and Florida. Its results may be far-reaching for organized labor in this country.

In each of those states the voters on Nov. 7 will ballot on a proposed amendment to the state constitution. The amendments are practically identical. They say in effect:

No worker should be compelled to join a union in order to get or hold a job.

CIO, AFL Fighting Proposal

The AFL and CIO are fighting the amendments. They say their purpose — and net effect — is to smash the closed shop and unions themselves.

They say that if these amendments pass similar amendments will be offered in other states.

A closed — or union — shop is a place where none but union members may work, an arrangement arrived at by a collective bargaining contract between a union and a boss.

This is what supporters of the amendment say, an argument that has been raised often and with repeated emphasis in the past few years:

A worker should be free to earn a living — that is, getting a job should not depend on whether he belongs to a union — but no law protects that freedom.

Unions charge dues but no one against his will should be compelled to pay any organization for the right to work, particularly returning war veterans.

Nor should anyone be denied a job because a union refuses him membership. A person, in order to hold a job, shouldn't be forced to remain in a union even when its leadership has been "discredited."

Collective bargaining has been established by federal law but a closed shop is not necessary to collective bargaining. A closed shop infringes upon an employe's right to hire any one he wishes.

To which labor says:

When banded together in a union, which can always strike, workers get more benefits than when they try to deal individually with a boss; through organized union bargaining salaries and working conditions are improved; unions obtain a closed shop through bargaining with an employer, they have never sought to force a closed shop by law, and therefore there should be no law compelling an open shop; if there is a law against a closed shop, then a boss can smash a union by hiring non-union or anti-union men until they are in a majority; and, once a union is destroyed, wages go down because the workers then are at the boss' mercy.

And labor people argue further: Unions obtain benefits for their members by constant effort; in order to carry on their work they need money; that money comes from the dues paid by members; since all the workers in a shop share in the benefits won by a union, then all workers in a shop should be willing to carry their share of the expense by joining the union and paying dues.

Course In Therapy Is Offered At Tech

For the first time at Texas Tech courses in occupational therapy, treatment of the sick and disabled begun during World War I, are being offered in the division of home economics.

As a pre-professional course, it enables a student, on receiving a BA degree from the college to go immediately to an accredited school for theoretical study and clinical practice. Since purposes of occupational therapy are to regenerate injured limbs and muscles and to divert the mind from the stagnation of invalidism, the curriculum of the student therapist, in the three-year course required by the American Medical association, includes medical and social science diseases, and occupations.

Curative Exercises

Art, handicrafts, recreational, social, and educational activities serve as curative exercises and mental stimulation. The registered therapist, guided by the patients interest and following the prescription of a doctor in the amount and object of treatment, decides what occupation will give the result sought by the doctor.

Before becoming registered occupational therapists, students are required by AMA to complete practice work in general, mental, orthopedic, children's hospitals, and tuberculosis sanatoriums. For advanced study in this course, scholarships and scholarship loans may be obtained.

Personality and training are required for entrance in schools of occupational therapy, according to Miss Martye Poindexter, head professor of applied arts. Interviews with a prospective student must show she possesses tact, cheerfulness, personal adjustment, and ingenuity.

College graduates are preferred, although high school graduates with one or two years of college work may be accepted, Miss Poindexter said.

MAY MOVE GOVERNMENT

"So Help Me God!"

By Ray Dudley, Editor The Oil Weekly

I stood in the blazing sun at Ellington Field, in Texas, last Monday and watched the cadets file by, fine manly chaps, watched them come into the hall in which they were to receive their wings as commissioned officers in the United States Army Air Force. My third and last boy, a lad of 19, was among them.

Two years ago his mother and I had seen a similar group file into the chapel at Ellington to receive their wings, and our second boy was among them. Today he and his elder brother, who had chosen Navy Air, are memories, precious memories, it is true, but boys to be spoken of in hushed tones as boys who would have made good citizens, two boys whose memories will never be dimmed in the eyes of their father and mother. They, with thousands of others, have made the supreme sacrifice for America as they knew it and loved it.

Then Monday we heard again the prospective officers take the oath necessary to their commissions: "I do solemnly swear that I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign or domestic, that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion; and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office upon which I am about to enter: SO HELP ME GOD."

For a moment my thoughts drifted from the son whose burned body lies somewhere in France and from the other son who lies in native soil. . . .

Our forefathers who wrote the Constitution knew that they were giving to future generations a document so precious that it would be worth the loss of American lives to preserve . . . and they knew that there would arise enemies to it, domestic as well as foreign.

Then my mind went back to a time nearly three years ago, when my first two boys volunteered, and the pledge I made them then:

"To the best of my meager ability I shall do all I can to defend against foes at home the institutions you boys have enlisted to uphold . . . and I shall do that without fear of sacrifice if it costs me everything I have, including my life: SO HELP ME GOD."

It was not necessary that I pledge them my fullest efforts to help prosecute the war . . . they could have expected no less of me as an American and a father.

The casualty lists over the country name thousands of parents whose boys have been lost and whose sons are as precious to them as mine were to me. I claim no distinction as the parent of boys who have died in the service. I can only claim to be among those to whom this war is a deadly serious thing, and I wish my claim to be listed among those who resent with every atom of their being the efforts which are being made by the Hillmans, the Browders, the Murrays and others, including our President, to nullify the sacrifices of thousands of American boys.

As I heard the oath to defend the Constitution repeated by the young men at Ellington, I could not but remember the remarks which have been made about it by Americans of foreign birth who would seek to destroy it . . . "a scrap of paper . . . an outmoded document . . . a bill of property rights rather than a bill of human rights." And these are the men who are asking that we trust our country to them.

The situation under which the Communist Front in America is trying to wield control over our country through the capture of one of our great political parties, is so preposterous as to be almost incredible. But make no mistake—the threat is a real one. That a Russian-born radical, with all of the class hate of his native land, should aspire to control this country is so fantastic that many cannot believe it. But it is true.

That he and his fellows have openly boasted that their organization, the CIO, is raising millions as a war chest to help keep Roosevelt in power, indicates a blatant confidence in their victory. That this money should be extracted from hundreds of thousands of members whose membership was forced on them, is a disgrace. That they get away with it is a shameful tribute to the close association they have with our Department of Justice.

Who was it who climbed the stairs, hat in hand, to Hillman's suite in a Chicago hotel to learn the wishes of the boss as to who would be Democratic candidate for the vice-presidency? It was our United States Department of Justice head—the man sworn to uphold our laws (including the Smith-Connally act which makes it a felony for a labor union, or a corporation, to contribute to a political party). Yes, it was Attorney General Biddle, and the man with him was the person who later was named by Hillman as the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, Harry Truman.

With Hillman and Browder and their ilk as arrogant as they are now, what will their attitude be if they succeed in re-electing Franklin D. Roosevelt? Where will their power end? What will happen to the rights guaranteed under our Constitution? If our interests should ultimately clash with those of Russia at what point will these men make up their minds as to where their first loyalty shall lie? If England's interests should clash with those of Russia, will our country's armed forces be thrown against a nation whose kinship to us derives from a common parenthood?

This is a long way from the ceremony at Ellington last Monday. The field has widened until the lives of a large group of fine boys seem but a drop in a great ocean.

But it is not a long way from the pledge I made my boys.

Churchill Sees No Early Peace

LONDON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill told Commons today that Germany's defeat might not come before early summer and that it might take at least 18 months after Hitler's downfall to beat Japan.

Urging qualified extension of Britain's nine-year Parliament for another year, he said that "roughly speaking there is no likelihood of a general election for from seven to nine months from now," and warned that "those who force such a disaster would take upon themselves immense responsibility."

"It seems to me," said Churchill, "that unless all political parties resolve to maintain the present coalition until the Japanese are defeated, we must look to the termination of the war against Nazism as a pointer which will fix the date of the general election."

Only A Guess

"Any attempt to estimate the date when the war with Germany can be officially declared over can be no more than a guess," said Churchill.

"I do not place any dependence on a political uprising in Germany.

"I certainly could not predict—still less guarantee—the end of the German war before the end of spring or even before we reach early summer. It may come earlier, and no one will rejoice more than I if it should."

Some More Hopeful

"On military grounds," he said, "it seems difficult to believe that the war could be ended before Christmas or even before Easter, although many high military authorities with every means of forming an accurate judgment have expressed themselves more hopefully."

Bluntly he told Commons that "I have no hesitation in declaring that it would be a wrongful act, unworthy of our country's fame, to break up the present governing instrument before we know where we are with Hitler's Germany."

He added, however, that he was "thankful to say that there is no sign of any such desire in any responsible quarters."

M. T. Easter Dies At Home Of Sister Here

Morris T. Easter, 58, of Ropesville, formerly of Lorenzo, died this morning at the home of a sister, Miss Elizabeth Easter, 820 Ave. K. Death followed a heart attack. He had been ill only a few days.

He is survived by a son, Morris T. Easter, jr., serving with the armed forces overseas; two other sisters, Mrs. C. M. Mays, Sulphur, Okla.; and Mrs. Clara Abney, Lubbock, and one brother, Jake Easter, Lubbock.

Funeral services will be in Davis, Okla., at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Burial will be in Davis cemetery. The body will be sent to Davis Wednesday morning, it was announced by Rix Funeral home, in charge of arrangements. Easter came to Lorenzo from Davis in 1937.

Britain To Issue New War Security

LONDON, Oct. 31 (AP) — The sale of British national war bonds will be discontinued after Nov. 6 and in their place will be offered a new security known as the one and three-quarter per cent exchequer bond 1950, Sir John Anderson announced today.

The chancellor of the exchequer told Commons that the bond was to be issued at par and repayable at par Feb. 15, 1950.

He said Britain's total expenditures during five years of the war up to Sept. 2 were $96,000,000,000, of which war services totalled $80,000,000,000.

Of the total expenditures, $44,936,000,000 was raised by taxation and other revenue, and the remainder by borrowing.

The total national debt as of Sept. 30, he said, was approximately $84,800,000,000, an increase of $51,200,000,000 since the beginning of the war.

Nazi Stronghold At Forli Is Threatened

ROME, Oct. 31 (AP) — Indian troops of the Eighth army increased the threat to the German stronghold of Forli astride the Rimini-Bologna highway today by throwing a bridgehead across the Ronco river near Meldola, seven miles to the south.

Allied headquarters announced the foothold was quickly consolidated and extended to a depth of half a mile.

Less than five miles to the southwest Polish troops, who captured the mountain town of predappio two days ago, ran into strong German positions at Caminato in the hills to the north in the direction of Forli.

Elsewhere on the Italian front activities yesterday were largely limited to local actions.

Along the Adriatic, Eighth army forces were advancing against only light opposition. The Germans apparently were swinging their line north to a more advantageous anchor somewhere north of Ravenna.

Legislature To Have 'Cash'

AUSTIN, Oct. 31 (U.P) — The new Texas legislature to convene in January will have an estimated $3,341,207 is cash to start with in contrast with past legislatures that have faced deficit spending, State Auditor C. H. Cavness reported today in a 53-page financial statement.

The statement was prepared for state budgeting purposes. It was filed with Gov. Coke R. Stevenson for his assistance in submitting a two-year budget to the legislators.

Deficit Spending Curbed

The new legislature's appropriations, other than those for emergencies, will become effective Sept. 1, 1945. It is at that time that auditor Cavness estimates there will be more than $3,000,000 in the general revenue fund, which has been overdrawn when new legislatures since 1931 began their spending.

A recent constitutional amendment prohibits deficit spending except on four-fifths vote of the legislators.

During the fiscal year starting Sept. 1, 1945, Cavness advised the governor the state will have an income of approximately $75,000,000 for general purposes. For 1946, he estimates $70,000,000 but he expects a drop in 1947 to $68,000,000.

"Any estimate of anticipated revenues must of course take into consideration the progress of the war," Cavness said. "A large portion of the current increase in general revenue income is from the gross production tax on oil. We conferred with departments connected directly with the oil industry and have made the following estimates for the next three years (on oil production tax:) 1945 — $33,499,000; 1946 — $30,119,000; 1947 — $26,999,000."

'Big Inch' Visualized Flowing In Reverse

AUSTIN, Oct. 31 (U.P) — The famous "Big Inch" pipeline—built as a wartime emergency to carry Texas petroleum to the oil-impoverished eastern seaboard—was visualized here today as operating in reverse, bringing Arabian oil to Texas.

The "coal to Newcastle" idea was put forward by Texas Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson — who protested the Anglo-American petroleum treaty now pending in the U. S. Senate.

Said Thompson:

"It could be possible that Arabian oil would be shipped to New York in tankers and the 'Big Inch' pipeline flow reversed and this Arabian oil delivered to East Texas while the East Texas field was shut down for posterity."

The commissioner added that the treaty provides for a "super world allocation and price-fixing plan for oil."

He will speak to the combined civic clubs in Longview tomorrow and in Marshall on Thursday.

Raiders Scrimmage For Rice Tussle

Lengthy Drill Held On Aerial Attack

With the Rice Owls, the hottest football team in the Southwest conference, as the next step on their rugged eleven game schedule, the Texas Tech Red Raiders lost no time in getting into hard work this week, and the usual "light Monday" was dropped as the club held a lengthy scrimmage session.

The club scrimmaged until it was too dark to see the ball, and even then Coach Dell Morgan sent the boys to the showers with a show of reluctance.

The third stringers weathered the storm throughout the long game condition scrimmage, while the first and second stringers alternated all through the session.

Design Pass Attack

A lengthy workout on pass offense took up the early part of the afternoon, and the squad showed a much improved passing game during the workout. Several new pass plays were designed, then were used freely during the scrimmage session.

The scrubs were the first to score, but the regulars "saved face" by coming back several minutes later to score with Billy Whitehead scoring on straight power smashes through the line.

The scrubs scored when Bobby Barron took a punt on the regulars' 40, reversed his field sharply and ran over for the touchdown.

The "scrubs" had the advantage throughout most of the scrimmage session, and only some great goal line stands by the regulars stayed them off in the early minutes.

Jim Cooper's long pass to Bud Davis pushed the regulars back on their heels shortly after the scrimmage session started. But a great goal line stand, led by John Birdwell, Otis Turner and Homer Lawson bogged down the scrubs inside the five yard line.

A few minutes later, the regulars fumbled and the Scrubs were given another chance. There was another great stand by the regulars to keep down the scoring, and this stand was led by Bobby Hayes, Floyd Lawhorn and Billy Joe Snodgrass.

It was after the second goal line stand that Barron romped back with the punt.

The regulars began to click a few minutes later, and a 35 yard sneaker play by Ernest Hawkins carried the veterans to the scrubs 19 yard line. There Don Orr, Buddy Boles and Don Grove led another goal line stand, but in trying to carry back lost the ball on downs when a fourth down pass gamble failed. A few minutes later, Whitehead scored on two power smashes into the line.

The Red Raiders tasted victory last week for the first time this season, but are given little chance by the critics in the Southwest to stop the Rice Owls this week. It is the second of four Southwest Conference foes on the tough schedule of the Red Raiders.

Six Share Prizes In 'Blind Bogie' Event

Six players shared honors in the top prizes of the blind bogie sweepstakes held Sunday afternoon at the Lubbock Country Club course. No. 74 was the lucky number, and was registered by Raymond Marshall, Ben Smith, Lewis Kerr, I. Bishop, George Soash and Sid Oglesby.

A total of 79 golfers took part in the sweepstakes, an exceptionally large list for this time of the year. Merchandise prizes from Pro Schroeder's golf shop went to the winners.

Second prize score of 70 was won by Ben Caswell.

Dr. W. A. Schaal, Amos Howard, H. L. McLarty, Mrs. A. A. Foster, J. H. Brock and W. L. Stingel shared third prize honors with 76's.

Alvin Allison, with an 81, won fourth prize. Al Townsend with a 86 won fifth prize. A score of 71 brought another sharing of the prizes for sixth place, with Dr. D. C. Williams, John Crisler, Jack Parsons, Harry Durham, Nick Carter, J. A. Raley, jr., and Dr. J. H. Stiles sharing the honors.

More than 3,650,000 men and women now comprise the U. S. Navy.

Army Replaces Notre Dame As No. 1 Grid Team Of Nation

BY HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 — Army is the top football team in the country by vote of 101 sports writers polled by the Associated Press and Randolph field ranks first among the service teams.

The West Point Cadets garnered 41 first place votes and collected an aggregate of 898 points, exactly 100 more than corralled by Notre Dame. The Irish were marked No. 1 on 15 ballots but were unable to retain their first place rank, a position they had held through 13 consecutive tabulations starting with the first of 1943.

In the over-all poll, in which both college and service teams were ranked, the two leaders were followed by Ohio State, Randolph field, Georgia Tech, Navy, Iowa Pre-Flight, North Carolina Pre-Flight, Illinois and Michigan. Ohio State was first on 17 tickets and Randolph on 18, each thus surpassing Notre Dame in that department.

Notre Dame Second

A strictly collegiate first ten, however, would be made up of Army, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Georgia Tech, Navy, Illinois, Michigan, Southern California, Indiana and Tennessee. The unbeaten but tied Volunteers are in sixteenth place in the over-all tabulation.

Randolph field heads a service ten that has Iowa Pre-Flight, North Carolina Pre-Flight, Fourth Air force, Bainbridge, Md., Naval, Great Lakes, Norman, Okla., Navy, Second Air force, Third Air force and Camp Peary as members.

Fort Pierce (Fla) Navy, an unbeaten and untied eleven, was the only other service club to draw votes in the fourth poll of the 1944 season.

A second college ten has Wake Forest, also unbeaten and untied, as the leader and followed by Mississippi State, Alabama, Oklahoma A. & M., Pennsylvania, Tulsa, Virginia, Washington, Yale and Duke.

Notre Dame's narrow squeak over Illinois apparently cost the Irish much of their popularity. A week ago they were on top.

Mmes. Helwig, Mosher Win Golf Matches

Mrs. W. F. Helwig and Mrs. R. O. Mosher were named Monday as winners in the first flight and nine hole match, respectively, in the women's golf tournament at the Lubbock Country club. Mrs. Willie Akey won the championship flight last week.

Mrs. J. H. Stiles, who was medalists of the tournament, won the consolation finals over Mrs. Cliff Widener, 2 and 1, in the championship flight.

Mrs. Helwig had little trouble in breezing to a 9 and 7 victory over Rose Mary Crawford in the first flight finals, and Mrs. F. L. McRee won the consolation prize with a 7 and 5 victory over Nora Brown.

Mrs. Mosher won the nine hole title by beating Mrs. Sam Camp 5 and 3 in the finals. Mrs. Powell McWhirter won the consolation finals over Mrs. R. R. Shoop, one up.

Boxer Is Disclosed As Having Glass Eye

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31 (AP) — The disclosure that Luther (Slugger) White has a glass eye is being investigated by the State Athletic commission, that agency has announced.

Rr. A. E. Edgerton, commission physician, discovered the artificial right orb of the Baltimore negro boxer during a checkup in San Francisco last Thursday. The commission immediately cancelled White's participation in a fight with Willie Joyce scheduled for last night in San Francisco.

Lubbock Drills For Brownfield

Westerners Polish Blocking, Tackling

In an effort to overcome the evident weakness in blocking and tackling that showed up in the last two games of the Lubbock Westerners, Coaches J. Mule Davis and Dixie White called for a full menu of blocks and tackles Monday afternoon as the squad started working for Friday's conference game at Brownfield.

Last Ditch Stand

The Westerners will face a tough week of drills this week to get into shape for the Brownfield battle, which will be a "last ditch" stand for both teams as far as conference warfare is concerned.

Both clubs lost openers last week, the first defeat for the Cubs, and any chances for the loser next Friday to gain the conference tilt will be gone.

A number of the Westerners, many of them first stringers, missed the Monday workout, but Coaches hope to have the squad at full strength for the rest of the week's drills.

There were a number of minor injuries suffered by the club in the Plainview battle last week, but none of them are expected to keep men out of the game at Brownfield.

Other District Tilts

For the first time this season, the Westerners are out of the spotlight in the schoolboy football picture, and the long heralded clash at Amarillo Saturday between the Sandies and the Pampa Harvesters has taken the center of the stage in the District 1-AA race.

The Sandies have spent almost a year getting the stage set for this battle, hoping to reap revenge for last year's 7-0 victory scored by the Harvesters over the Sandies, to win the District 1-AA championship.

Plainview, winner over the Westerners last year, will play the Borger Bulldogs Friday at Plainview in the remaining game on the district schedule.

Transfers Shake Up Southwestern Team

GEORGETOWN, Oct. 31 (AP) Three and possibly four starters on the Southwestern university football team that has won five of seven games this season will report for resumption of practice tomorrow.

There is a two-day lay-off in grid training due to registration at the college, and meanwhile some 30 members of the squad will be leaving in Navy and Marine transfers.

Coach R. M. Medley will have Ted Bare, end; Ed Blodzinski, guard, and Bob McDonald, fullback, back from his starting lineup and there is a possibility that Tackle George Blomquist will remain. His orders for transfer are not effective as yet.

Southwestern will get some transfers of its own, including Cholly Howard and Freddie Brechtel, Rice linemen. There also will be some likely looking Navy freshmen including H. K. Allen of Austin and Frank Means of San Antonio.

Friday night the Pirates play the Winged Commandos of South Plains Army Air field here.

T.C.U. Loses Eight Gridders; Buck Sheffield To Leave Rice

(By The Associated Press)

Coach Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian university could well be glad today that his team has an open date Saturday — an extra week could conceivably ease Meyer's pain in losing eight players.

Scholastic ineligibility hit the Frogs yesterday, removing three linesmen, two regulars and one reserve, after Navy transfers, military induction and injuries had taken five players in seven days.

Tech Next For Frogs

The Frogs play their next game Saturday, Nov. 11 when they meet Texas Tech in Fort Worth.

Rice, who meets Texas Tech at Houston next Saturday, also has its troubles. The conference leader loses Morris (Buck) Sheffield, 200-pound fullback who last Saturday threw the pass which beat the University of Texas squad. Sheffield's name was among naval trainees posted yesterday for transfer from Rice to a service training center.

Meanwhile, Texas A. & M. limbered up for a meeting at College Station Saturday with the Arkansas Razorbacks. At Dallas the Southern Methodist university Mustangs were glad to see R. O. McWilliams return to practice as first-string center as they prepared for Saturday's game with the University of Texas Longhorns in Austin.

Charlie Parker To Be Inducted Nov. 17

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 31 (U.P.) — Charlie Parker, the national schoolboy sprint champion who hasn't lost a dash in the last four years, will be inducted into the armed forces on Nov. 17.

Parker won the National AAU title recently in New York, and is undefeated in his last 52 starts. The Jefferson High school runner's specialties are the 100 yard and 220 yard dashes.

Fenimore Seen As All-America

Oklahoma Aggie Is All-Around Ace

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 31. (UP) —The full flood tide of Bobby Fenimore's all-American candidacy sweeps against the second unbeaten barrier in a week next Saturday when Coach Jim Lookabaugh sends his Oklahoma Aggies against the powerful Norman Naval Air station Zoomers.

Right now, Fenimore is the standout player of the midlands, the Paul Bunyan of the gridirons in an area where all the good teams were concentrated in the one state of Oklahoma.

But next Saturday is another day — and another big test for the Aggie ace and his mates. The Zoomers have won four straight, knocking off the Second Air force team Sunday by a 13-6 score.

Outstanding Candidate

From the smoke and debris of that notable 46-40 upset victory of the Aggies over Tulsa university's mighty Hurricane Saturday, Fenimore emerged as the outstanding candidate in these parts for the all-American pledging season.

Back in Stillwater today, where the shouting and the tumult still echoed, Coach Lookabaugh marveled at the way the 188-pound sophomore from Woodward, Okla., performed Saturday.

"He is one of the Southwest's greatest," Lookabaugh declared. "There is nothing which he cannot do."

The figures prove that Lookabaugh was not overstating his case for Fenimore. So far this year he has scored 59 points, crossing the double stripe nine times and scoring five conversions.

Gained 658 Yards

He has carried the ball 87 times in rushing to gain 658 yards, an average of seven and one-half yards per try. He has completed 29 out of 44 passes for a total of 576 yards. He possesses a punting average at this stage of the season of 38.4 yards per boot.

Against Tulsa, Fenimore was at his best. He picked up 108 yards running against the mighty Hurricane and completed the remarkable record of 10 out of 14 passes, two of them for touchdowns. He personally lugged the ball over for two more scores.

"His football future will be something to watch," Lookabaugh commented. "He can make it just about whatever he wants to make it. He is a tremendous competitor."

Pete Cawthon Quits As Tigers' Coach

BROOKLYN, Oct. 31 (AP) — Pete Cawthon, of Houston, resigned yesterday as coach of the Brooklyn Tigers in the national pro football league, 24 hours after the winless Tigers had lost their fifth straight game and 13th of 15 in two years. Cawthon, who won fame as head coach at Texas Tech, said the club had made a satisfactory financial settlement on his contract.

Tom Gallery, general manager of the Tigers, declared "we have the second most expensive club in the league and although we can't always win we should give the fans a show for their money. This we failed to do and hence the change even at midseason." Frank Bridges, end coach, and Ed Kubale, line coach, will be in charge until a successor is chosen.

During the 19th century, the value of opals was depressed by the widespread belief that they brought bad luck to the wearers.

Wilson Eleven Wins Over Guadalupe, 41-0

Wilson Wranglers stamped themselves as a threat in the grade school touch football conference Monday afternoon with a show of potent power as they romped over the Guadalupe Sombreros, 41 to 0.

The most potent weapon shown by the Wranglers was the passing combination of Delwin Dean to Don Dean, and clicked for four touchdowns and two extra points. Frank Ford ran one over, then passed to Don Dean for the extra point. Ray Holton featured in the rest of the scoring when he spilled Louis Chavez behind the goal line for a safety, then intercepted a pass and ran 25 yards for another score.

Cotton Harvesting In West Texas
IS OUR PROBLEM TOO!

Providing adequate transportation for essential workers into West Texas to harvest the Nation's most important cotton crop is a responsibility that we are proud to accept and handle with all the skill and knowledge gained through twenty years experience in passenger traffic.

We are proud of our job in helping provide this labor and assure these workers that transportation facilities will be available when they are ready to return to their homes this winter.

Youthful Captain Dubbed Unofficial Mayor Of Aachen

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

AACHEN, Germany, Oct. 18. (Delayed)—Unofficial "mayor of Aachen" is a 26-year-old American captain, who daily toured this wrecked city to see that doughboys got supporting fire in prodding German defenders from attic and basement shelters.

Whenever Nazis holed up for a last-ditch defense, you could look around and find Capt. Gilbert H. Fuller of Ludlow, Vt., calmly twirling a borrowed enemy cane and calling up mortars and machineguns to blast them out.

Ask Fuller what he did before entering the Army, and he will first say, "my memory isn't that good," and then he'll add, "I guess I was just a playboy."

He is one of the most popular junior officers along the front. His men like him because he came up from the ranks during his four years service, and hasn't got officer's complex.

The troops like him, too, because he fights gaily. No matter how the enemy mortar or artillery fire showers down, they always can glance around and see him grinning cheerfully. It causes their own unconscious fear of death to ebb.

He is one of the few men in this nasty, house-to-house cleanup who actually seems to enjoy the job. He has a boy's love of battle, and one positive theory of street fighting:

"Just throw around all the firepower you can—and the rest isn't so hard. Make a lot of noise in the streets and you can scare the enemy. They run down into cellars, and then you teach them to be good with a grenade—if they haven't already had enough."

So his heavy machineguns and mortars have kept up an almost continuous barrage ahead of advancing doughboys who have to do the actual flushing out of the enemy. Since he went to work, every day has been Fourth of July in Aachen.

Blond hair reacts to humidity, contracting and expanding, but the reaction of red and brown hair is barely noticeable.

DEPT. of It's A Small World: In the far-away China-Burma-India theater of war recently, Lt. W. H. Craig, former assistant to Manager Arnold Maas at Montgomery Ward here, was reading the Lubbock Evening Journal. To Capt. Sid Groom, of Bristow, Okla., he read an item from this column which happened to tickle his funnybone. Result—Lt. Craig discovered that Capt. Groom and The Plainsman lived in the same fraternity house at University of Oklahoma, played on the same baseball team . . . From 1st. Sgt. T. L. Patterson of Lubbock, now serving in the European theater of war, K. N. Clapp received a letter thanking him for sending various clippings of news from Avalanche-Journal papers. Sgt. Patterson reports there are several ex-Tech students and residents of West Texas in his outfit and they are planning to have a big celebration when they completed 200 air missions against what he calls the "Ratzis." He says, too that he recently got the West Texans together, had a picture made and is sending it to us for publication . . . From Chaplain Isadore Garsek, on leave as rabbi of Temple Shaareth Israel here, the word that he's getting along nicely at his present station at Hampton Roads Port of Embarkation at Newport News, Va. When in training at Harvard, he became chummy with Dr. Carl Coleman Seltzer, a professor of physical anthropology, who represented the Cambridge school in a joint Tech-Harvard expedition into the Yaqui Indian country of Sonora, Mex., in 1934. Said expedition was led by Dr. William Curry Holden, of Tech. . . . From Somewhere in Italy, V-mail letter from Cpl. Matty Zorko, former star second baseman of the old Lubbock Hubbers in the West Texas-New Mexico league. Matty reports that he recently ran across Ray Sparr, who played shortstop and outfield on the same team, who is now a first sergeant in the Army and managed one of the teams in the "GI World Series" in Italy. The series was still in progress when Matty wrote his letter, so we don't know how Ray's team came out.

REV. ALSIE H. CARLETON, the personable young pastor of St. John's Methodist church here, believes civilian pastors should train themselves to act as counsellors and advisors, just as Army and Navy chaplains are trained.

He points out that much of every preacher's work is advising people on all sorts of personal problems, including domestic troubles of every description and he thinks only by careful study can the men of the cloth perform the best of service.

The Plainsman believes Mr. Carleton "has something." In fact, about a month ago we were discussing with Rev. William F. Blakeslee, pastor of St. Elizabeth's Catholic church, a very similar subject.

We suggested to "Father Bill" that the young men of all faiths who will someday fill civilian pulpits after service as Army and Navy chaplains will be able to serve humanity much better than they could have without their war training and experiences. The padre agreed.

The average preacher, it seems to us, of necessity lives a sheltered sort of life, from the time he first starts studying for the ministry until he becomes a super-annuate.

Because his calling prohibits his mixing and mingling with his fellow beings on the same plane, he cannot be expected to understand human foibles, and what prompts men and women sometimes to give way to various sorts of temptation.

Lack of understanding, we believe, is a handicap to the preacher who is called upon to counsel with and advise the troubled or the erring.

BUT the preachers of tomorrow—those who will come to our civilian churches from service in the Army and Navy—will have had anything but sheltered living.

They are seeing, both at home and abroad, "life in the raw," or, perhaps better expressed, "life as it is lived."

They are going to be able to be practical in their counsel, fully equipped to advise. And, we believe, they will be slow to condemn.

Service as a chaplain is certain to enable many of our future preachers to make a great contribution to their communities and to the members of their flocks.

The experience they're getting now—and the tolerance they're learning the hard way—will pay off some day in national moral dividends.

"Why," he said, "if I had no other reason for being for Roosevelt, I'd be for him on account of Tom Dewey's dog! That great Dane of Dewey's is as big as a yearlin' comin' two and it would cost the taxpayers a small fortune to feed him, compared to what it costs to feed the President's Scottie, Fala."

"Yep," we said, seein' he had us, "that's right. It's cost the taxpapers a lot more to feed Dewey's Dane than Franklin's Fala. But don't forget, if Dewey's elected, the taxpayers won't have to feed and house the Harry Hopkins family—so that ought to even up the cost in the long run!"

A NON-POLITICAL organization called Citizens National committee, Inc., and made up of approximately 1,000 individuals, has adopted as its particular task a study of our federal government. In a small (68-page) booklet, it reports to the nation on federal agencies, their number, their employes and the appropriations set up for them for the fiscal year of 1944.

Of interest to all Americans, regardless of their political leanings, is the fact that our national government now supports a total of 428 federal bureaus which are costing, this year alone, in the neighborhood of $106,000,000,000—one hundred six billions of dollars. Employed in the bureaus, more than 50 per cent of which have been established since 1932, are just short of 3,000,000 whose salaries are paid by the taxpayers.

The booklet brought out by the citizens group offers no political propaganda and draws no conclusions. It simply gives the facts regarding the operations of the government, which, better than any descriptive phrases could, mirror the reason for the confusion along the Potomac.

Feminine Viewpoint

BY RUTH MILLETT
(Copyright, 1944, For The Journal)

MILLETT

IN Baton Rouge, La., there is an organization called "Care of Postmaster club" whose membership is limited—as you might surmise — to wives whose husbands are over-seas.

The members feel, and rightly, that they are in a better position to understand each other's problems and their get-togethers do a lot to build up their morale.

It may not have occured to them that when the war is over there is going to be a national "Care of Postmaster club"—which, though probably unorganized, will exist none-theless.

For the men who have served together overseas aren't the only ones who are going to be a group apart. Their wives, who stayed home alone, waiting, are going to feel a strong bond that will hold them together.

No woman who has never had to face life without her husband can understand the particular problems of war wives whose men have been overseas for long periods of time.

But even more important, no wife who has had her husband with her throughout the war is likely to understand the new sets of values war wives are making for themselves.

Mrs. Jones, whose husband hasn't left her side during the war, may go right on through the years believing that a house and possessions and the particular social position she craves are big things in life.

NEW IDEAS

BUT Mrs. Smith who has trailed her husband across the country living in furnished rooms, tourist camps and ramshackle houses and then when he finally sailed, gone home to live alone has a new idea of what things matter and what things aren't worth bothering about.

First of all, she knows that if she only has her husband with her she can live almost anywhere or under any conditions and be reasonably happy.

Secondly, she knows that—difficult and lonely as it is—she can stand on her own two feet.

And thirdly, she knows that time is precious, and ever afterward—given a choice between two such things as buying new furniture or taking a vacation with her husband, she'll take the holiday. For it was her memories of happy times with her husband, not her prized gate leg table, that kept her going while he was away.

Today's Journal Editorial

AGAIN FATE IS KIND TO US AMERICANS

Much of war's heartbreak in England stems directly from the casualty lists—but not all of it.

Some comes as a result of the necessary evacuation of children from huge centers of British population several years ago, when the Nazi blitz was in full swing and more civilians than fighting men daily were under fire.

According to the transatlantic edition of the London Daily Mail, which recently reached these shores, many children removed from their homes and parents and placed with wartime "foster parents" do not want to return to their rightful places and families; and many of the "foster parents" have become so attached to their young guests that they want to keep them. What makes the situation so difficult of solution is the fact that many of the children are better off in their "emergency surroundings" than they ever were before, or are ever likely to be in the future should they be returned to original places.

Picture, if you will, the problem which faces the mother of a child born in the slums, partially reared there but, for the last four years having been in the healthier, more pleasant surroundings of the English countryside. The mother still lives in the slums. She always will live there, or in an atmosphere far less inviting than that into which the fortunes of war thrust her child. The mother sees her youngster happier and healthier than ever; notes that the long period of separation between herself and her child has resulted in the latter's becoming closer to the "foster parents." What shall she do? Shall she insist upon the child's returning to her, or, for the child's own good, shall she leave it in a more desirable spot?

The London Mail quotes British authorities as believing the majority of the youthful evacuees should be left in their new surroundings whenever that is the desire of both the child and the "foster parents." Nothing is said about forcing such a decision and probably nothing will be done along that line. But psychologically, the weight of expert opinion, bolstered by the natural desire of the mother to see her child do better regardless of the cost in grief to her, undoubtedly will be the deciding factor in many an individual case.

As the war continues, we Americans are daily being brought closer to the grief which stems from the casualty lists. Many thousands of our people already have felt the heavy hand of sorrow as the result of telegrams signed by the adjutant general's department.

But one poignant grief which we have been spared has been that of enforced separation of children and parents on a wholesale scale.

For that we should be forever thankful.

Stalin, Churchill Get "Chummy" At Moscow

Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Uncensored diplomatic advices reaching Washington from Moscow reveal that a lot more happened behind the scenes of the Stalin-Churchill conferences to mend United Nations harmony than was generally reported.

No. 1 on the list from the purely Russian viewpoint was the frank agreement with the British that the Soviet Union has every right to guarantee its borders, make certain that it is never again subjected to surprise attack.

Stalin was very blunt on this point. He emphasized to Churchill that the best guarantee of a peaceful Russia was a group of friendly and strong Soviet neighbors on all Russian borders.

PEARSON

Stalin also said while he was willing to make many concessions for the sake of peace, he was also prepared to be tough if the British attempted any finagling.

Despite these blunt remarks, however, best evidence of the success of the conferences was the warm spirit in which Stalin and Churchill concluded their talks.

Stalin was almost glowing in his tributes to the United States and Great Britain, pointed out there were some areas of disagreement, expressed confidence they would be smoothed out.

Churchill was equally enthusiastic.

"We want you to know that all the world realizes it was the Red Army that clawed the guts out of the filthy Nazi war machine," said the British prime minister.

HULL REMEMBERED

DURING the usual many-coursed ornate dinner in the Kremlin, the Soviet premier arose to toast his guests.

"This toast," he said, "is to those who worked for peace at Dumbarton Oaks. Aggressors are always prepared for their evil work. Peace-loving nations are never prepared for war, and this time England, America and Russia were caught unready by the Nazis.

"But these nations must be prepared for peace," continued Stalin solemnly. "That is why I want to drink to those who worked at Dumbarton Oaks. Especially, I want to link this toast with the names of three foreign ministers, Molotoff, Eden and Cordell Hull."

A second later, Stalin turned towards American Ambassador Averell Harriman and said: "You see, I wanted to bring in Mr. Hull. I did it even though roundabout," he added with a smile.

Another happy result of the conferences was the partial diminution of beligerency between the Polish group from London and the Lublin Poles who are backed by Russia. Some of the bitterness remains, of course, but diplomatic observers believe the Moscow meeting made a real start in the right direction.

SELF-INVITED

IT can be disclosed that Churchill had no invitation to go to Moscow. In fact, he asked Stalin if he could come, was then given a formal bid. The last time Churchill was in Moscow was in 1942, when he told Stalin there would be no second front.

At that time they didn't get along at all well. Among other things, Stalin resented the fact that Churchill wore his zipper suit to visit him in the Kremlin. This was the cover-all suit worn by the British when entering underground bomb-proof shelters, and Churchill, perhaps for protection against the cold, wore his zipper suit when he called on Stalin. The Russians felt that when visiting their chief of state, Churchill should have worn formal attire.

Next visit between Stalin and Churchill was at Teheran, where they got along even worse. There they rowed over the second front, Churchill wanting it in the Balkans, or any place but western France.

When the two men parted, Churchill said:

"Well, good-bye, marshal. I'll see you in Berlin."

"Yes," shot back Stalin, "I in a tank, you in a Pullman car."

NOTE—After the latest and much more cordial Moscow meeting, Stalin and Churchill sent President Roosevelt, by Ambassador Harriman, a message of appreciation for his world peace plans and their thanks for his good-neighborly attitude in the cause of the United Nations.

MOSCOW WHIRL

MOSCOW now has its own diplomatic reception house, similar to America's Blair house. . . The huge mansion was formerly owned by a Czarist sugar magnate, has a vast white marble fireplace flanked by two exquisite Italian landscapes . . . For Soviet diplomatic dinners, the Kremlin borrows waiters from the Metropole hotel, has meals served at a huge rectangular table burdened with good food, fine liquor . . . At the recent Moscow conference, Stalin wore his simplest marshal's uniform, Churchill wore no zipper suit but the uniform of a colonel of the Sussex regiment, with four rows of decorations on his chest. . . . Churchill wears the uniform as "Warden of the City Ports" . . . Stalin, who prides himself in being able to hold his liquor, ordered "bottoms up" during several toasts, until some of his weaker stomached guests were groggy.

KNOW HIM NOW

THE gimlet eye of the building guards at WPB seem to dim when Donald Nelson walks by. Correspondent Stanley Cohen of Advertising Age met Nelson in an elevator of the building last week, asked him where his badge was. Everyone in Washington wears a badge in the war agencies, as part of the security precautions.

"Do you have an employe's badge, or a visitor's badge, Mr. Nelson?" Mr. Cohen asked. "Neither, Stanley," Nelson replied. "Although the guards were pretty tough about it while I was working here, they let me in the building now without any badge."

GI's are confused. General Eisenhower wears the four stars of his rank on the left side of his shirt collar, while Generals Bradley and Marshall wear them on the right . . . The reason is that U. S. Army regulations state: "All articles of uniform for wear by the General of the Armies and the Chief of Staff are such as each may prescribe for himself" . . . So Gen. Eisenhower could wear a derby and the four stars on the seat of his pants, if he liked.

When Germans Are Licked, They Stay Licked

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ernie Pyle is resting following his service with frontline troops in Europe and next plans to go to the fighting zones of the Pacific. While he is on leave The Journal will publish here some of Ernie's earlier articles, not previously printed in Lubbock, upon which first was built the mutual esteem between Pyle and "GI Joe.")

BY ERNIE PYLE

TUNISIAN FRONT, May, 1943—The thing that Americans in Africa had fought and worked six months to get came today. When it did come, it was an avalanche almost impossible to describe. The flood of prisoners choked the roads. There were acres of captured materials.

I'll try to tell you what the spirit of the day was like.

It was a holiday, though everybody kept on working. Everybody felt suddenly free inside, as though personal worry had been lifted. It was like the way we used to feel as children on the farm, when parents surprised us by saying work was finished and we were going to the state fair for a day. And when you have looked, goggle-eyed, all day at more Germans than you ever in your life, you really feel as if you have been to a fair.

ERNIE PYLE

Today you saw Germans walking alone along highways. You saw them riding, stacked up in our jeeps, with one lone American driver. You saw them by hundreds, crammed as in a subway in their own trucks, with their own drivers. And in the forward areas our fairgrounds of mile after mile contained more Germans than Americans. Germans were everywhere.

Huns Await Orders

It made you a little light-headed to stand in the center of a crowd, the only American among scores of German soldiers, and not have to feel afraid of them. Their 88s stood abandoned. In the fields dead Germans still lay on the grass. By the roadside scores of tanks and trucks still burned. Dumps flamed, and German command posts lay littered where they had tried to wreck as much as possible before surrendering.

But all those were sideshows—the big show was the mass of men in strange uniform, lining roads, swamping farm yards, blackening fields, waiting for us to tell them where to go.

HIGH German officers were obviously down in the mouth over the tragic end of their campaign. We saw some tears. Officers wept over the ghastly death toll taken of their men during the last few days. Officers were meticulously correct in their military behavior, but otherwise standoffish and silent.

Not so the common soldiers. I mingled with them all day and sensed no sadness among them. Theirs was not the delight of the Italians, but rather an acceptance of defeat in a war well-fought—why be surly about it?

They were friendly, very friendly. Being prisoners, it obviously paid them to be friendly; yet their friendliness seemed genuine. Just as when the French and Americans first met, the Germans started learning English words and teaching us German words.

But circumstances didn't permit much communion between them and our troops. Those Americans who came in direct contact with them gave necessary orders and herded them into trucks. All other Americans just stared curiously as they passed. I saw very little fraternizing with prisoners.

Germans Are Curious

I saw no acts of belligerence and heard neither boos nor cheers. But I did hear a hundred times: "This is the way it should be. Now we can go on from here."

German boys were as curious about us as we were about them. Every time I stopped a crowd would form quickly. In almost every group was one who spoke English. In all honesty I can't say their bearing or personality was a bit different from that of a similar bunch of American prisoners. They gave us their cigarettes and accepted ours. They examined the jeep, and asked questions about our uniforms. If you passed one walking alone, usually he would smile and speak.

One high American officer told me he found himself feeling sorry for them—until he remembered how they had killed so many of his men with their sneaking mines, how they had him pinned down a few days ago with bullets flying; then he hated them.

I AM always a sucker for the guy who loses, but somehow it never occurred to me today to feel sorry for those prisoners. They didn't give you a feeling they needed any sorrowing over. They were loyal to their country and sorry they lost but, now that it was over for them, they personally seemed glad to be out of it.

Tonight they still lounge by thousands in fields along the roads. Our trucks and theirs too, are not sufficient to haul them away. They will just have to wait their turn to be taken off to prison camps. No guards are necessary to keep them from running off into the darkness tonight. They have already done their running and now they await our pleasure, rather humbly and with a curious eagerness to see what comes next for them.

Truce Called As 5,000 Civilians Evacuated

PARIS, Oct. 29. (Delayed) (AP)—Regularly scheduled truces over a five-day period ending yesterday permitted the evacuation of 5,000 civilians by railroad from the besieged port city of St. Nazaire on the French west coast, the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes said today in a dispatch from Nantes.

American, French and German officers conferred together, the paper said, and decided that rail transport was the best manner of handling the evacuation. Allied engineers repaired tracks in their section and the Nazis repaired theirs.

For five days firing ceased from 7 a. m. to 9 a. m. as trains entered the German bastion. Firing again ceased in the afternoon from 3 to 7 p. m. as the loaded cars pulled out.

The evacuation was carried out at the request of the French Red Cross to relieve an acute food shortage in the area, where the Nazis still are holding out.

FDR's Odds Shorter; Dewey's Lengthened

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31 (AP)—Odds on President Roosevelt's reelection have been shortened from 3-1 to 17-5 and the odds on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey lengthened from 1-2½ to 1-3, Betting Commissioner James J. Carroll said today.

Under the new odds bettors must wager $17 to win $5 on President Roosevelt's re-election or wager $1 to win $3 on the election of Gov. Dewey.

Carroll, in releasing his first list of odds by states which show Roosevelt favored to win in 32 and Dewey in 16, said the President is figured to take 370 electoral votes while the states with the Dewey money total 161 electoral votes.

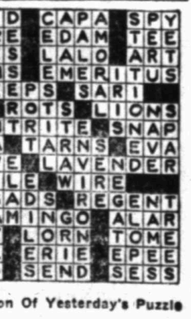

COW HAS TRIPLETS

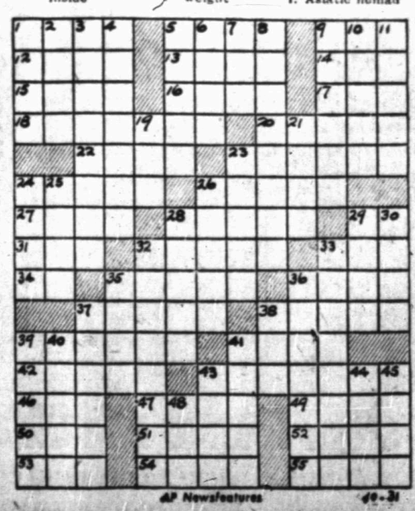

ROSEAU, Minn., Oct. 31 (AP)—A cow owned by Mrs. Elsie Foley has borne seven calves in two and one-half years. The latest offspring are triplets. All of the seven calves are living and of normal size.

Action Planned To Stem Bolt

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 31 (U.P.)—Gov. Thomas Bailey conferred with Atty. Gen. Greek L. Rice today preparatory to announcing a decision on whether to call a special session of the state legislature to amend election laws of Mississippi to assure President Roosevelt of the state's nine electoral votes.

SOLONS PLEDGE SUPPORT

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 31 (AP) — A majority of Mississippi's legislators pledged, in telegrams to Gov. Thomas L. Bailey today, to vote for a measure which would force presidential electors to vote for their party nominees, Roosevelt and Truman, in the event an extraordinary session is called.

The governor sent telegrams yesterday to members of the house and senate to get their reaction on the passage of a measure permitting Mississippi voters to cast ballots only for electors who will support Democratic party nominees.

Under the present Mississippi election system, voters must decide for all nine electors or his ballot is not valid.

Three Threaten Bolt

Bailey's action followed a declaration Saturday by three of the state's electors that their ballots would be cast in favor of Sen. Harry Byrd, (D., Va.), for president instead of for Mr. Roosevelt.

Today's conference was for the purpose of determining the amount of legal red tape involved in a change of election laws.

Suggested amendments being considered by Democratic party leaders included changing the statutes to disqualify any elector refusing to support the party's candidates, or a measure making it mandatory for all electors to support the nominees. A third suggestion proposed a write-in campaign.

Bailey termed the rift in electors' unity regrettable because "those who want to see the state's nine votes cast for Roosevelt are deprived of that right by virtue of the declaration of these electors."

Far East Strategy

bious warfare in which their far eastern fleet can be advantageously used rather than toward China by hard overland campaigns.

To Reconquest Territories

The British therefore are expected to develop their attacks on the Japanese empire as a reconquest of their own and Dutch territories.

United States strategy, so far as it has been disclosed, evidently runs to two main objectives — an invasion of the China coast and drives into Japan itself.

It is here that ranking officers in Washington, without knowing President Roosevelt's intentions for him, fit Stilwell into the picture. There is a growing belief that the important new assignment in store for him probably be command of an army to invade Japanese occupied China from the sea.

In the United States, a fee of $1 is charged to execute an application of a passport, and a fee of $9 is charged for each passport issued.

MANY LEADERS UNRESPONSIVE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — Prime minister Churchill's forecast of a possibly long war today brought bids for aircrafts, steels and other stocks of companies facing reconversion problems but many market leaders were unresponsive.

At the same time, there was no particular buying rush and top marks of virtually all gainers were reduced near the close.

The list edged forward selectively at the opening and advances ran to 2 points or so in the forenoon. Dealings slowed after a few flurries and transfers for the full stretch were around 700,000 shares.

Peaks for 1944 were posted for Douglas Aircraft, Grumman and Texas Pacific Land Trust. Ahead the greater part of the session were Boeing, Lockheed, Glenn Martin, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Southern Pacific, South Railway, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Eastman Kodak and Texas Co. Intermittent laggards were American Can, Goodrich, Anaconda, J. C. Penney, U. S. Gypsum and Electric Power & Light.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — Cotton futures developed a steady tone late today on aggressive mill buying against textile awards coupled with local covering. Volume was restricted as traders awaited effects of the CCC buying program in cotton. Southern hedge selling depressed the market during the forenoon.

Futures closed 30 cents a bale lower to 5 cents higher.

Sheppard Field Man Is Fatally Beaten

WICHITA FALLS, Oct. 31 (AP)—An investigation was being conducted here today in connection with the death of Tech Sgt. Robert C. Campbell who was fatally beaten on the post streets of Sheppard field here Sunday night.

Col. Joseph H. Davidson, commanding officer of the field, said Campbell, of Dallas, died yesterday, that two of the soldier's companions were beaten, one critically, and that another serviceman was being held for questioning in the case.

Sgt. Julius Bernholtz of Carroll, Iowa, who was with Sergeant Campbell, was reported in a critical condition at the field hospital. Staff Sgt. Jack K. Rose, Campbell's other companion, was said to be less seriously hurt. Sergeant Campbell was the leader of military and dance bands composed of the post's medical enlisted men.

WORDS ARE PROPHETIC

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 31. (U.P.)—William H. Bugher, 68, toppled over dead as he sat reading a detective story magazine in a hotel last night. He was stricken with a heart attack just as he turned a page on which these words were printed in glaring type: "Death Signals."

SEGUIN FIRE COSTLY

SEGUIN, Oct. 31 (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin in the shelling room of the Seguin Peanut company here caused an estimated $15,000 damage early today. Machinery in the plant was a total loss, Hugo Schmitt, secetary-treasurer, reported. There was no damage to the warehouse or power plant, he said.

Bodies Of Three More Babies Found Today

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Oct. 31. (AP)—The bodies of three additional newly-born babies were found by police today in a building originally used as a livery stable, making a total of six infants discovered in the property since yesterday.

Detective Sgt. Benjamin Furlong said one of the bodies was located in a trunk and two others in a bushel basket. Police began a search of the building yesterday after Leroy Grover, who had rented the building and started to clear it preparatory to opening a garage, found a body stuffed in an orange crate. Search led to the discovery of two more yesterday, one in a cardboard box and a third jammed in a trunk.

All six infants apparently were negroes, and appeared to have been dead from several months to a year or more, Furlong said. All were wrapped in rags.

Louis Battise, 57, negro, who died Oct. 17 in Lockport city hospital of a heart ailment, had operated an auto laundry in the building for about eight years, Furlong asserted.

Cologne Gets Another Heavy Load Of Bombs

LONDON, Oct. 31 (AP) — More than 1,000 British and Canadian planes dropped 4,000 tons of bombs last night on Cologne, "the most heavily bombed of German cities," and Mosquitos made two raids on Berlin.

A Canadian communique said a sizable force of RCAF Halifaxes and Lancasters participated in the sixth blasting of Cologne since Saturday. Two planes were lost.

Air fields over a wide area of Germany were attacked.

The Canadian communique for the first time designated the big Rhineland city, now in the direct path of the American First army, as the most heavily bombed city of the Reich. Although it did not go into damage details, the use of this superlative recalled eyewitness descriptions of flattened Hamburg and the terific damage done to other Allied targets.

Congress Outlook

to be having any serious difficulty."

Halleck's opposite number for the Democrats, Rep. Drewry of Virginia, says indications are the Democrats will gain 20 to 40 new seats, while Speaker Rayburn, up for reelection himself as a Texas Democrat, says he expects his party to gain 25 to 40. Rayburn says he bases this partly on the fact that the President is on the ticket this year.

The Senate picture is somewhat different. There the Democrats are in firmer control with 58 seats against 37 for the Republicans and one Progressive. Forty-nine is a majority.

Of the 35 seats to be filled next Tuesday 22 are now held by Democrats and there will be 36 holdovers. Thirteen Republican seats are at stake, with 24 holdovers.

Demos Need Only 13

Thus, the Democrats need only to win 13 of the 35 contests to retain control, or only six outside the Solid South where seven Democratic incumbents are up for reelection.

The Republicans will have to win 25 of the 35 Senate elections to gain a clear majority in the new Senate—49. They might do it with 24 victories provided Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis), not up this year, voted with the Republicans to organize that branch.

Former Senator John G. Townsend, jr., of Delaware, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, says his party will reelect all 13 incumbents on the ballot and take 10 seats from the Democrats, for a total of 23.

Races Are Cited

He says he is "confident" of electing Republican senators to seats now held by Democratic Senators Gillette, Iowa; D. Worth Clark, Idaho; Scott W. Lucas, Illinois; Samuel D. Jackson, Indiana; Elmer Thomas, Oklahoma; Robert F. Wagner, New York; Arthur Walsh, New Jersey; Bennett Champ Clark, Missouri; Elbert D. Thomas, Utah, and Homer T. Bone, Washington. The two Clarks were defeated for renomination, Jackson is candidate for governor in his state, Walsh did not run for the nomination, and Bone has been named to the federal bench.

Townsend says the Republicans also have "excellent chances" of picking up new seats from California, Kentucky, and Maryland, and there is a "possibility" of adding another in a state not designated.

"If the tremendous trend toward the Republican party continues," he asserts, "the Republican party will elect all the Republican incumbents and a sufficient number of others to control the organization of the Senate in January."

Senator O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, head of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, predicts that the Democratic majority will be maintained. He foresees a "tough fight" for reelection of Senator Guy Gillette (D-Iowa), but expects other Democratic incumbents to pull through.

O'Mahoney says the Democrats also have a "good chance" of taking a Republican seat in Wisconsin from Sen. Alexander Wiley and of adding a Democratic seat in Oregon, where two Republican memberships are at stake.

There is a "possibility," he adds, of another Democratic gain in Pennsylvania, where Sen. James J. Davis, Republican, is opposed for reelection by Rep. Francis J. Myers. And, he says, he would not be surprised to see his party pick up an additional seat either in Massachusetts, New Hampshire or Connecticut.

Stanley Gunn Dies Of Bomb Wounds

FORT WORTH, Oct. 31. (AP)—Stanley Gunn, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and Houston Chronicle correspondent in the Philippines, died Monday of wounds sustained during a Japanese bombing attack on Tacloban on Oct. 25, MacArthur headquarters notified his wife Tuesday.

It was only last Friday that a message was received from Gunn himself informing his wife that he, who had been in the Pacific area since last June writing about Texans on the war scene, had suffered a broken leg in the bombing attack which took the life of Asahel Bush, Associated Press war correspondent.

His message at that time said he expected to be home in a few weeks.

Gunn, a native of Texas, was 30. He was accredited to General MacArthur's forces, and with the invasion of the Philippines he landed with the fifth wave of American troops on Leyte.

Gunn received his bachelor of journalism degree from the University of Texas in 1937 and worked on the San Antonio Light and Austin Daily Tribune before joining the Star-Telegram staff in 1943.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Elmer G. Gunn of Austin. His two children are Cathleen and Terry.

STANLEY GUNN FORMERLY LIVED IN LUBBOCK

Stanley Gunn is a former resident of Lubbock and was graduated from Lubbock Senior High school Jan. 1, 1932. The Gunns lived at 2502 Twenty-second, and moved from Lubbock in 1932.

Gunn was here last April to cover the lecture-visit of Sen. Harry S. Truman.

By-Passed Japs

Oct. 20 that 500,000 of them would be cut off without hope of support from the homeland as the Philippine operations developed. Other estimates put the figure higher.

British May Lack Means

Military experts here conceded that the British have not the men or other means to back through the islands after Japan itself is defeated for big-scale, quick cleanup of the by-passed garrisons. But they estimate that the British could do the job in time and there appears to be considerable sentiment here for letting them do it.

Blamey's remarks were significant. Likewise was the Oct. 23 invitation of the French war ministry, in Paris, for all reserve officers and non-commissioned soldiers to volunteer for service in the war against Japan after the defeat of Germany. On the same date, spokesmen for the Netherlands in London said that Dutch troops, including men who lived under German occupation in their homeland for four years, were preparing to join in the far eastern fight against the Japanese.

British To Shift Fleet

And perhaps even more significant was Prime Minister Winston Churchill's surprise Quebec announcement that a large British fleet shortly would be sent into the Pacific. It is possible that such a British force might be more useful right now in the Indian ocean than in the Pacific, where the United States navy is getting the situation well in hand.

But all of these things add up to an eager desire on the part of the weakened colonial empires to make at the very least a token of contribution to the Pacific theater of operations. There is some reason to believe this eagerness is founded either on the hope or expectation that the United States will join in the clean-up of the by-passed areas when the main job is over.

There also is some reason to ponder Sir Thomas' statement that the war will not be over until the isolated Japs are disposed of. Public sentiment here might insist that the Pacific war is over when the Japanese homeland is occupied—and that the boys should then come home.

Changes Announced In Planning Group

AUSTIN, Oct. 31. (U.P.)—Changes in personnel of the Texas Post-War Planning commission were announced here today by Gov. Coke R. Stevenson.

Gibb Gilchrist, new president of A. & M. college, has resigned as chairman of the commission in order to have his time free for his duties at the state college, and R. L. Thornton, Dallas, banker, also has resigned from the commission.

The governor named Andy P. Rollins, Dallas, to succeed Gilchrist, both as member and chairman of the commission. T. B. Doty, Beaumont, was appointed banker member to succeed Thornton, and W. H. Hitzelberger, Dallas, then was named to succeed Doty as representative of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Trading Formula Of Regulars, GOP Told

HILLSBORO, Oct. 31 (AP)—Tom Tyson, chairman of the state Democratic party's speakers' bureau, said last night that the Texas Regulars and the Republicans of the state "finally have found a trading formula."

Tyson offered an oral statement to the press, then reiterated it in a Hill county Democratic rally:

"The Regulars have finally found a trading formula. They closed their bargain, according to reliable information I have, in the office of Karl Crowley of Fort Worth last week. This is the plan —the Republicans are going to instruct the Dewey-Bricker people to vote for the electors of the Regulars. If the Regulars carry the state, their electors will cast their vote for Dewey and Bricker in the electoral college."

Tyson predicted GOP leaders would make such an announcement later in the week.

Tyson spoke at a rally where Fleetwood Richards, former state senator from Lockhart, was the featured speaker.

STATEMENT DENIED

DALLAS, Oct. 31. (AP)—Walter Rogers, director of the Republican persidential campaign in Texas, today described as "pure bunk" a statement by Tom Tyson of Corsicana that Republicans were "going to instruct the Dewey-Bricker people to vote for the electors of the (Texas) Regulars."

Japanese Retreating

They were ten miles from the town of Carigara, toward which a two-mile long column of Japanese were reported retreating from the valley to Carigara. Japanese reinforcements from Luzon were reported landed at Ormoc, 20 miles southwest of the town. U. S. First division cavalrymen withdrew patrols from Carigara and dug in seven miles to the east.

The enemy's naval defeat in the Philippines waters last week was so complete that Rear Adm. Robert Carney, chief of staff to Adm. William F. Halsey, said confidently "there is no such thing as an effective Japanese fleet today."

Jap Officers Dwindling

Unofficial estimates from Pearl Harbor said the 35,000 Japanese killed in Philippine waters undoubtedly included a number of ranking naval officers to add to Nippon's rapidly increasing list of dead admirals.

Adm. Halsey, commander of the Third fleet, said the Mikado's sea lords have only "two or three more units" left which "we can take in our stride" toward the China coast.

The fleet has already broken Japan's control over 15,000,000 square miles of the Pacific ocean. It is now ready to start laying mines in the western Pacific—long a Japanese sea. Rear Adm. Alexander Sharp was named to command mine craft of the Pacific fleet, a new post.

Maj. Gen. Albert Wedemeher, successor to Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell as commander of American forces in China, arived in Chungking today as U. S. planes trapped and strafed a two-mile long column of Japanese in a southeast China canyon.

Japs Near Kweilin

Japanese smashed to within six miles of Kweilin, key to China's defense.

Three Japanese columns driving on Kweilin advanced three or more miles closer to that keystone of China's southeastern defense. The invaders were only six miles distant on the east and northeast, and nine and a half miles away on the southeast.

Chinese harassed Japanese supply lines to the Kweilin front and knocked out all but one strongpoint defending Mangshih, last important Japanese fortress in the China sector of the Burma road.

silent on the Red army offensive in western Latvia, where fresh Soviet gains were reported by Berlin. The only reference to activities on the East Prussian front was a statement that hundreds of Germans were killed in the smashing of two Nazi counterattacks.

A Moscow dispatch said wintry storms are harassing the long eastern front, miring in the mud the hard-hitting Red army's mechanized attack.

Berlin acknowledged that Soviet Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine army had smashed across the Tisza river at many points, forcing the last natural defense line before Budapest.

Red army forces driving across the northeast corner of Hungary on a 20-mile front captured Guyre, 18 miles south of Csap, the Czechoslovak rail junction taken Sunday, Moscow said.

RUSSIA HOPES FOR 'CLEAN SWEEP' BY NOV. 7

MOSCOW, Oct. 31. (AP)—Despite the handicap of increasingly cold weather, the Russians are striving for complete liberation of every foot of Soviet territory by Nov. 7, the 27th anniversary of the Russian revolution.

Although Latvia and Lithuania are virtually free of the invader, scattered German forces remain in the coastal regions.

Snow has fallen and bitter winds and temperatures are sweeping the front from the Barents sea above the Arctic circle to the Sava river in Yugoslavia.

While the German army has been mauled severly on the eastern front, it is now arrayed behind fortifications and natural defenses.

There is trench warfare in Poland, and East Prussia, temporarily at least, appears to be a gory stalemate.

party workers that "it isn't true that any civilian could teach strategy, tactics and logistics" to such experts.

But, Brownell declared, Mr. Roosevelt has tried to get across the idea that "he personally built every airplane, launched every ship and forged every cannon."

War Mobilizer James F. Byrens noted in a broadcast speech from Washington that the President is commander in chief and asked:

"Who ever heard of changing a quarterback in the closing minutes of a football gamble when his team is only five yards from the goal line and his opponents are demoralized?"

Change Would Delay Victory

Byrnes argued that substituting Dewey for Roosevelt would "delay the end of the war."

A similar thought came from Sen. Harry S. Truman, Democratic vice presidential nominee, at Providence, R. I. "It is always poor policy to send in substitutes when you have a winning team on the field," he said.

The argument that Roosevelt-Truman team isn't even a traditional Democratic party team was reiterated by Gov. John W. Bricker, the Republicans' No. 2 man.

Bricker said in a Detroit speech that "a foreign influence of the most subversive kind is trying to take over our government," linking this to what he called "facts" which "conclusively prove that Franklin Roosevelt and the New Deal are in the hands of the radicals and Communists."

Governor Dewey, signing bills at Albany extending New York voting hours and the period for receiving war ballots, said in a statement: "The bi-partisan support of these bills just a week before a great national election is a tribute to the spirit, teamwork and unity in our state."

James C. Hagerty, Dewey aide, said that Republican leaders at Albany forecast to the nominee that he could expect a majority of at least 115,000 in New York state.

Dewey added a Thursday noon speech in Baltimore to his schedule, traveling there as soon as he finishes his Boston speech tomorrow night.

In Washington, the CIO Political Action committee and the National Citizens PAC reported that they together had spent $883,616 up to Oct. 26.

Local Man Attends Aviation Meeting

AUSTIN, Oct. 31. (U.P.)—After-war aviation in Texas was discussed here today by a sub-committee of the Texas Post-War Planning board with stress laid on a state air control body and use of tax on aviation gasoline for airport construction.

A state aviation commission, organized on lines similar to the state highway commission, was suggested with proposals that it draw on both local and federal aid for construction of a balanced system of airports, just as the highway department has been assisted in building a statewide road system.

Today's discussions were largely preliminary. The sub-committee is to report to a meeting of the post-war planning board here Nov 13.

State Sen. W. E. Stone of Galveston, presided. Others attending included Robt. H. Bean, Lubbock.

CIB Shakeup

operations against the Japanese.

During early conversations, it evidently was assumed on both sides that Gen. Stilwell was to be American commander.

Stilwell Kept Informed

Stilwell was no party to the negotiations although he evidently was kept informed on the major steps.

The terms were put to Chiang very forcefully, in some instances backed by specified messages from President Roosevelt. Some stormy scenes followed. Chiang, as was expected, refused to dissolve or reorganize his cabinet, although he accepted other conditions with the tacit admission that some of his commanders on the major fighting fronts in Central China were not so hot.

Then came an odd change in the proceedings.

Chiang Became Stubborn

Chiang himself became stubborn and it was discovered that H. H. Kung, his finance minister, visiting in the United States, was telegraphing him that the President was not supporting the stern position taken by his two representatives in Chungking.

Usually well informed sources, whose reports the Associated Press believes reliable, stated that Kung telegraphed Chiang that Harry Hopkins had informed him that there was no cause for alarm at the American attitude and that Chiang would hold out determinedly, he would win all points.

Learning of these reports, American negotiators evidently obtained a flat statement from the President in a message that he was not fooling and backed the negotiators at that point fully.

U. S. Could Withdraw

As their part in the bargaining, the Americans had the power to withhold lease lend supplies and to withdraw Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault and his U. S. 14th Air force from China.

Finally, an agreement was reached which included among other things that an American would be given command of Chinese field forces. It was a large pill to swallow, but in the interests of harmony all around, Chiang evidently agreed at one stage to take it and keep the war going at top speed. He agreed to give Stilwell command of Chinese field forces with the comment that he would "give him my full confidence."

Then a reaction set in. To the amazement of all the negotiators, Chiang declared that Stilwell must go. He cited charges. For security reasons the nature of the charges can not be disclosed.

The generalissimo was adamant and the United States representatives were faced with capitulation on this point or a break in the policy of supporting Chiang's government. A few days ago, Stilwell was relieved of his command and left for America. But Chiang was specifically informed that the United States did not accept his charges against Stilwell.

Chiang Gained "Face"

In China, Chiang evidently gained great "face" by the maneuver which is looked upon in many Chinese and American quarters as capitulation.

Generally it is recognized that much time has been lost through the disagreements and that the American hope of close and harmonious relationship with the Chinese central government has been greatly shaken.

Already around Chungking and at air bases there is much discussion of who is to blame for the defeats in Central China. Many Chinese complain that Stilwell and the United States have failed in the delivery of adequate supplies. The old bitterness between Stilwell and Chennault is endlessly reviewed.

Critics of Stilwell insist that if he had turned over to Chennault all the capacity of the "hump" airline Chennault's air force could have kept the Japanese away from advanced American bases in Central China, which recently have fallen to the enemy.

Supporters of Stilwell and some within Chennault's own official family have argued that an air force alone cannot protect bases and that the weak Chinese performance during the past summer has tested Chennault's contention and found it wanting.

Meantime the Japanese have most of the bases and the Americans have most of the dissension and disappointment.

Second Victim Of Shooting Dies Today

LONGVIEW, Oct. 31 (AP)—Mrs. Louis Clinton Howard died today, the second victim of a shooting aboard a Texas Pacific train late yesterday in which two other persons were wounded.

Howard died last night. His young son and his wife's sister, Mrs. Amma Speights, were wounded, the latter being reported in a serious condition.

Divorce proceedings between the Howards had been set for Nov. 20 here. Meanwhile, Mrs. Howard had been granted custody of the child.

The officer said Mrs. Howar and her son and her sister got o the coach of an Arkansas-boun train at union station. Then, the sheriff stated, Howard boarded the coach, and a short time later the incident took place. All the shots were fired from one pistol, the sheriff reported. He added that no arrests were made.

New French Crisis Foretells Future

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

France's fresh crisis, brought about by the De Gaulle government's decree disarming everybody except the regular army and the police — an order directed at Communist partisans who have defied its authority — is symptomatic of the heavy trials she must endure to achieve regeneration.

If the present crisis didn't involve the Communists it would revolve about some other pressing problem. France is plagued politically, economically and physically. General De Gaulle and his provisional government will have to run the gantlet of many and great troubles.

Ill From Collapse

La Belle France is still terribly ill from a complete national collapse. Her debacle in 1940 was due less to Hitler's great strength than to her own weakness resulting from a breakdown both in spirit and in moral stamina among many who had responsibility for the guidance of their country. That came from a dry rot that had been going on for long.

The formal recognition just accorded the provisional government by Washington, London, Moscow and other capitals should have a beneficial effect.

The suggestion is heard in some circles that it might be better for France if the Big Three maintained control there until she got on her feet. The answer to that seems to me to be emphatically in the negative.

Must Master Fate

The French nation must be master of its own fate. De Gaulle's government must pull itself up by its boot-straps. Friendly and sympathetic assistance by other nations is needed, and it can work wonders, but foreign interference would only add to the difficulties which already exist.

General De Gaulle's recognition of this, I take it, accounts for his desire that France take a greater part in the concluding days of the war. One senses an eagerness that his country be given a chance to redeem itself in actual combat, and certainly it seems that this might have a spiritualizing power. The battle-field can be a great cleanser. France must make sacrifices in order to achieve her former position.

Lt. McNeill, Missing Year, Presumed Dead

Reported missing in action since Oct. 17, 1943, 2nd Lt. John D. McNeill, 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McNeill, 2213 Ninth,. is now presumed to be dead, the War department has informed his parents.

Lt. McNeill, a navigator on a Flying Fortress, was reported missing in action after a scheduled mission to Duren, Germany, was recalled because of bad weather and poor visibility and his plane failed to return to its base.

"Full consideration has recently been given to all available information bearing on the absence of your son, including all records, reports and circumstances," the War department letter said. "These have been carefully reviewed and considered. In view of the fact that twelve months have now expired without the receipt of evidence to support a continued presumption of survival, the War department must terminate such absence by a presumptive finding of death."

Lt. McNeill, a graduate of Lubbock High school and holder of bachelor degrees in commercial art and journalism at Texas Tech, was a commercial artist here until his enlistment in the Air Corps. He trained at Randolph field, Ellington field, Hondo Army Air field, all in Texas and at Blythe, Calif. He was commissioned in January, 1943 and went overseas to England in May, 1943.

He was a holder of the Air Medal and one Oak Leaf Cluster at the time of his reported missing in action.

Lt. McNeill's wife and eight-months-old son, John D. McNeill, jr., are residing at Tucson, Ariz.

LAAF Sixth War Loan Quota Is $122,000

Overall quota for the coming Sixth War Loan drive at Lubbock Army Air field have been set at $122,000. Of the total, military personnel are expected to raise $79,000, civilian personnel $43,000.

Although the drive does not officially start until Nov. 20, military installations have been given the privilege of counting all bond sales for the months of November and December.

In the Fifth War Loan drive LAAF went well over a quota of $135,000, with military personnel showing the way. This time LAAF officials have set approximately the same individual quotas and hope to be over the top by Dec. 1.

Figures reflect a drop in total personnel, but no lessening in desire of the field to throw their weight into the balance for final victory.

Major Lemuel Clark will be in charge of the drive as station war bond officer. He has appointed minute men for all civilian and military groups. Special events, war bond booths, dances and bond shows will be announced as soon as final details have been completed.

Dr. Aynesworth Funeral Is Set

WACO, Oct. 31. (AP) — Funeral services were planned here at 5 p.m. today for Dr. K. H. Aynesworth, surgeon, educator, author, archeologist and University of Texas regent, who died of apoplexy yesterday after an illness that had lasted since Feb. 14. He was 71.

Services were to be held at the First Baptist church with Dr. J. M. Dawson officiating. Burial was to be in Oakwood cemetery.

Pallbearers listed included Dr. Homer P. Rainey, president of the University of Texas; Dr. Marion Brown of Mexia, and John McNamara; Dr. W. E. Witte, Dr. Paul Murphey, Pat Neff, president of Baylor university, Dr. Dan Warren, Dr. W. L. Crosthwait, Bruce Duncan and A. R. Wilson, all of Waco.

Regent Since 1933

Since 1933, when he was appointed by Gov. Miriam Ferguson, Dr. Aynesworth had served as a university regent and in 1941 he was elected vice-chairman of the board.

He was the good friend, too, of Baylor university. He was donor of the Texas history library and thousands of archaeological specimens to Baylor. Collecting archaeological specimens was his hobby and he was considered an authority on the history of the Southwest and the archaeology of the early Indian of the Southwest.

Aynesworth was born Feb. 9, 1873 at Florence, Williamson county, Tex., the son of early Texas pioneers. He began his medical study at Baylor in 1892 and seven years later was graduated from the University of Texas medical school. He interned at John Sealy hospital, Galveston, became house surgeon, and in 1900 was appointed superintendent. The following year he was made demonstrator of anatomy but in 1902 he went to Europe to attend three German universities for post-graduate work.

Surgeon Since 1903

Since 1903 he had been a surgeon at Waco. He was a former member of the Waco board of health, the Waco school board, a onetime director of the chamber of commerce and former chairman of the city planning commission.

Aynesworth founded the Texas Surgical society and was an ex-president. He was a member of the county, state and national branches of the medical association and a fellow of the American College of Surgeons and the Southern Surgical society. He was a Mason.

Government Guarantees Loans At Low Interest For Veterans

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 — The government will help war veterans —to buy a home, farm or business—by guaranteeing part of the loans they need for a start. The Veterans administration (VA) does the guaranteeing.

There are two chief benefits to the program:

1. The interest charged the veterans can't be more than 4 per cent. The VA won't guarantee a loan with a higher interest rate.

2. For the first year the veterans will have to pay only part of the total interest.

Business Transaction

This important point should be remembered: When they get the loan it will be as a business transaction like any other business deal.

Any veteran can get the VA's guarantee on part of the loan—provided it's a sound deal—if he has served in the armed forces between Sept. 16, 1940, and the war's end and was honorably discharged.

This is how the program works: The VA will guarantee—up to 50 per cent or up to $2,000—any approved loan obtained by a veteran from a private or government source to buy or operate a farm, home or business.

Procedure May Differ

Here's an example but remember it's only an example for the actual procedure might be somewhat different:

A veteran wants to buy or build a $4,000 home. He goes to a lending institution—like a bank or insurance company—and tells his story.

The bank finds this particular veteran a reliable person and says: "Okay. We'll let you have the $4,000. What kind of security can you give us?"

The veteran says: "You can take a first mortgage on the house." That satisfies the bank. The VA is called. When it, too, is satisfied it says:

"Okay. We'll guarantee this $4,000 loan up to $2,000. That's the highest we can go on a guarantee."

Guarantee Cuts Interest

It's because of this guarantee—the bank's risk in lending $4,000 is cut in half since the government backs $2,000 of it—that the interest rates can be brought down to 4 per cent.

But the VA does more. In that first year the veteran doesn't pay the full 4 per cent interest on the full $4,000. He only pays interest on half of it, or $80. The VA pays the other half.

But this holds true only for the first year. After that the veteran has to pay the full 4 per cent interest on the total loan.

Drawing Up Regulations

The law covering loans was passed by Congress early last summer. Since that time the VA experts have been drawing up regulations covering such loans.

Those regulations will soon be published.

The problem was to try to lay down regulations which will fit in with the 48 states' varying laws on loans. And when the regulations are finished perhaps not all the states' laws will be in harmony with them. Adjustments will have to be made in these cases later.

Because the regulations have not been completed, no veteran has yet been able to obtain a loan although the law covering the loan has been on the books for months.

Daylight saving was adopted by Germany in 1916 as a war measure.

why it makes sense to pay 10c for a razor blade

Yes, a fine blade has got to cost a little more—because of the way it's made. But what an investment it is...in shaving ease and skin health! Look at the difference: —Personna blades are made twice as slowly as "commercial" blades. And inspected 17 times. Hollow-ground, for a flexible super-sharp edge. Leather-stropped, like a barber's razor. Triple-wrapped for protection. In short —Personna is a true, fine, precision instrument. Discover Personna!
