

Dennis Picks Up Strength

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical storm Dennis moved into the warm waters of the Atlantic Ocean just off Florida's northeast coast today where forecasters said it could pick up enough strength to become a hurricane by nightfall.

Gale warnings went up along the East Coast from the northern tip of Florida through Georgia and South Carolina coasts.

The storm that dumped flood rains for three days on south Florida, was moving northward at about 10 mph with winds of about 50 mph. It was expected to slow down later today.

Lost Will Arguments

HOUSTON (AP) — No one knows what key No. 47 opens. It belonged to Howard Hughes, and some would like to think it could unlock the "Lost Will" they believe the eccentric billionaire left when he died.

The so-called Lost Will is one of at least 40 documents to surface since Hughes died April 5, 1976, on an emergency medical flight from Mexico to Houston. Most of them already have been thrown out by various courts.

Beneficiaries of the Lost Will — which purportedly leaves the bulk of the vast estate to the Florida-based Howard Hughes Medical Institute — admit they have not located an original copy.

Criminal Negligence Charged

GROESBECK, Texas (AP) — A state grand jury has accused two deputies and a probation officer of criminally negligent homicide in the drownings of three black teen-agers packed into a small boat that had no life jackets or running lights.

The misdemeanor indictment was handed down Tuesday against Limestone County Deputy Sheriff Kenny Elliott, reserve deputy Kenneth Archie, both 23, and Limestone County probation officer David Drummond, 32.

State District Judge P.K. Reiter said he would set bond for the three men today. If convicted, each man faces a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $2,000 fine.

The officers were indicted in the June 19 deaths of Carl Baker, 19, and Anthony Freeman, 18, both of Mexico, and Steve Booker, 19, of Dallas.

Exchange Student Arrives Thursday

Monica Couto, Snyder High School's foreign exchange student for 1981-82, is scheduled to arrive Thursday afternoon and she will be honored with a reception at 4:30 p. m. at city hall.

Officials of the local American Field Service Chapter, which sponsors the exchange student program here, said everyone interested is invited to the informal reception, which they hope will be an exciting event for Miss Couto.

The exchange student is coming here from her home city, Ribeirao Preto, Sao Paulo, Brazil.

While attending Snyder High School, she will live in the home of Mrs. Dorothy Wolfe and daughter, Penny.

Miss Couto will be the first exchange student to come here in two years. Last year was the first time since the late fifties that Snyder did not have a foreign exchange student.

Roy and Rita Carter, who have been active in the AFS Snyder program for a number of years, greeted Miss Couto in her home while visiting a former exchange student in Brazil earlier this year.

NEW AFS STUDENT—Monica Couto, center, is shown with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carter of Snyder during a visit the Carters made to Brazil earlier this summer. Miss Couto, who will be the foreign exchange student in Snyder High School this fall, will be honored at an informal reception at 4:30 p. m. Thursday at city hall.

After 'Unprovoked Attack'...

F-14s Shoot Down Libyan Fighters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two U.S. F-14 jet fighters shot down a pair of Soviet-built Libyan SU-22 fighter planes over the Mediterranean early today in a one-minute clash about 60 nautical miles off the Libyan coast after an "unprovoked attack" by the Libyans, the Defense Department said.

None of the Americans in the two-man F-14s were hurt, officials said. One Libyan pilot was seen parachuting from his stricken plane.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger told a news conference the attack was clearly over international waters and was unanticipated. Libya, however, considers that its territorial rights extend 200 miles to sea.

Weinberger said the United States planned no retaliation as a result of the attack, but that the naval force to which the planes are assigned would finish its planned exercise Wednesday afternoon on schedule.

The Pentagon announced the 1:20 a.m. EDT incident before dawn and Weinberger appeared at the hastily called news conference later to read the official statement, which said:

"Two U.S. Navy F-14 aircraft involved in a previously announced routine exercise in international air space over international waters in the south central Mediterranean were attacked by two Libyan SU-22 fighter aircraft.

"After being fired upon, the F-14s from the aircraft carrier Nimitz took action in response and shot down both Libyan aircraft."

"The U.S. government is protesting through diplomatic channels this unprovoked attack, which occurred in international air space over 60 nautical miles from the nearest land."

City Seeks

New Site

For Landfill

The City of Snyder has filed application with the Texas Department of Health for a permit to operate a sanitary landfill east of town and a public hearing on the application has been set for 9 a. m. Sept. 29. The hearing will be held in the council room at city hall.

The proposed site already has been approved as satisfactory by the health department and the city has taken an option on the land involved. It is some 4.2 miles east of town and about 100 yards off U. S. Highway 84.

The present landfill site south of town is nearing its capacity, and the new site of 148½ acres is expected to take care of the landfill needs for a number of years.

Ask Us

Q.—Is Snyder the permanent site of the American Junior Rodeo Association's National Finals Rodeo?

A.—No "permanent" designation has been made, but it has been held here six years in a row and the latest word is that it will return for No. 7 in 1982.

Since the United States and Libya do not have direct diplomatic relations, Weinberger said the U.S. protest would be channeled to the Libyan government through the Belgian government.

At the State Department, officials said the administration may seek a meeting of the U.N. Security Council to denounce the Libyan action.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said council members were informed of the incident this morning through the council president. U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim also was notified.

Sources in Brussels, meanwhile, quoted senior NATO officials as saying the North Atlantic Council, made up of representatives of the 15 alliance nations, will meet at the request of the United States to discuss the incident.

Weinberger praised the performance of the F-14 crews, saying "I think they carried out their mission extremely well."

Air Force Lt. Gen. Philip C. Gast, operations director under the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said the mission of the F-14s was to fly patrol over the fleet, which includes two aircraft carrier battle groups and their escorts. The second carrier is the Forrestal.

Military officials said that such patrols are normal procedure and that one of their purposes, in addition to guarding the fleet, is to warn unwary aircraft from possibly wandering into an area where missile firing exercises are being held.

Weinberger and Gast both said the pilots of the F-14s were acting under rules permitting them to defend themselves.

"If an enemy aircraft conducts a hostile act, the (U.S.) aircraft commander has the right to defend himself," said Gast.

Libya has claimed jurisdiction over air space and waters reaching out some 200 miles. The United States does not recognize that claim but has generally regarded international waters and air space as extending out three miles.

Weinberger did not address the three mile question at the news conference but noted that the incident occurred about 60 nautical miles at sea and said "there isn't a basis to any claim that these were national waters."

both men are confined to wheelchairs their cycles are specially modified to allow them to pilot the crafts. While en route to Lubbock Monday they stopped briefly in Snyder. (SDN Photo By Shirley A. Gorman)

Wheelchair Confinement Is No Detriment To Cycle Enthusiasts

By Shirley A. Gorman

Jim Parker and Mickey Chapman, both of Austin, were passing through Snyder Monday afternoon when they stopped for a bite to eat at a local restaurant. The two motorcycle enthusiasts caused quite a stir as word spread of their brief stop in the city. A call was even placed to the newspaper with a request to take their picture.

Why? Neither Parker nor Chapman are world famous motorcycle race champions nor are they likely to be. But they are champions of a different, perhaps even greater breed for they are both handicapped and yet they pilot their specially adapted cycles as if they were born behind the steering wheel.

Though handicapped in body they are not handicapped in spirit. The two Austin men departed in the early a.m. hours from Austin Sunday en route to Lubbock to visit Chapman's mother.

Chapman, a native of Lubbock, was born with a birth defect which confines his miniature body to a wheelchair. Parker, ironically enough, was injured playing football in Snyder. At the time he lived in San Angelo and as a junior varsity player he tackled a member of the host team sustaining a neck-spinal cord injury which has also confined him to a wheelchair and limited his hand coordination.

For 12 years Parker was a journalist and is now a free lance writer. Chapman works for Texas Instruments, designing, building, and testing equipment.

But their dream is to start their own business, making things like motorcycle adaptations for the handicapped. They also want to employ handicapped people since they feel that they can best generate ideas about what handicapped people need.

Chapman and Parker met in 1978 in San Antonio during a statewide coalition of Texans for Disability.

Chapman acquired his motorcycle in November after viewing them at a Houston show for the disabled. The special sidecar and other modifications cost approximately $2,000 more than the price of the motorcycle. Parker got his cycle in January after going with Chapman to pick his up.

Both men have added additional modifications which cost approximately $1,500. Each has mechanical know-how so they can do some of the minor repair work themselves. In fact after Chapman bought his cycle he discovered that his engine didn't have enough power so he switched to a higher powered one and was able to do a lot of the work himself.

The motorcycles have sidecars which allows both Parker and Chapman to position their wheelchairs inside. The steering wheel etc. has been attached to the sidecar so they can maneuver from that position.

The SDN Column

The first inclination is to ask any visitor from abroad what he or she thinks about this country.

The Englishman didn't have to be asked.

"This is great," he declared. "We enjoyed New Orleans, and there are many interesting things to see in Washington, D. C., but this is the best we have seen," he continued with a sweeping gesture that seemed to take in all of San Antonio's Brackenridge Park.

We had seen this group of Britons arrive on one of those tour buses. The man who volunteered the information was from London. A woman who joined in with some comments was from Australia. They had flown from their respective homelands to Toronto where they began their tour of America. They had spent five hours the previous evening at the Texas Folklife Festival and planned another visit there before leaving San Antonio.

The Britons were not impressed with New York City, but found Miami interesting.

"But San Antonio and New Orleans are great," said the Londoner.

What about Houston?

"You can take Houston and press it together, turn it sideways and stuff it," the Londoner said as his tour bus horn sounded, calling the Britons to move along to their next stop.

We also found that you don't have to ask most Texans how they feel about such things as the air controllers' strike.

"It's clear-cut," said one South Texan. "Reagan had no choice. It's too bad they fell for a union leader's line and now have to pay the penalty."

Then, we were interested in comments around Dallas on a public housing facility that has fallen into disrepair. A TV station had shown scenes of filth and debris, with residents sitting around in apparent despair, while raising the question, "What can be done to get these people who have seen their once-desirable apartments fall into such a sad state back into decent housing?"

Whereupon some Dallasites raised a question of their own: "Who has been living in these units and allowed them to fall into such a state, and why are these people sitting around in filth doing nothing to clean up their surroundings?"

New Theory Works...

Imagery Aids Cancer Patients

Ms. Matthews-Simonton and her associate, Fort Worth radiation oncologist Dr. O. Carl Simonton, began to suspect 10 years ago that psychological factors influence a person's susceptibility to cancer.

"We asked ourselves, 'If we intervene emotionally, can we turn that susceptibility around?'"

Biofeedback researchers had already discovered that people could exercise limited control over certain aspects of the human physiology, such as heart rate and blood pressure.

But in biofeedback, a major tool was the heart rate monitor, a mechanical means of allowing a patient to check his success. No such device existed for monitoring a patient's control over his immune system, a crucial part of the body's defense against cancer. Oncologists believe a person's susceptibility to cancer increases when the body's immune system fails to function or is overcome by unknown factors.

One of those factors, Ms. Matthews-Simonton believes, is the psyche. She decided to use X-rays of the affected tumor as a monitor by which the patient could follow his progress.

Most of her early research was conducted at the University of Oregon Medical Center in Portland. There, her first patient, a 61-year-old man with terminal throat cancer, was asked to use imagery three times a day as part of his six-week radiation therapy. Picturing them as a pack of starving dogs, the man unleashed his "hungry" white blood cells on a chunk of raw ground beef — the tumor in his throat.

The man's life expectancy was short — less than a year. Near the end of the therapy, however, his physicians noticed that the normal side effects of heavy radiation were absent. The patient's life expectancy was increased. He asked his doctors to administer the radiation earlier in the day so he could spend his afternoons fishing.

"I suppose if he hadn't responded, we might have dropped the theory right there," said Ms. Matthews-Simonton.

But the notion that one can affect the outcome of cancer — that cancer may be partly the result of a person giving up on life and thus weakening his body's immune responses — is often a difficult one to swallow, she said.

Imagine the feeling among family members who are told that Grandma Emma's cancer stems in part from her will to die. "No one wants to admit that they might be part of the reason for her inability to cope," said Ms. Matthews-Simonton.

Yet, she said those who struggle with their disease, refusing to accept death as inevitable, are also those who respond best to imagery therapy. Ironically, physicians frequently describe this kind of cantankerous patient as ill-adjusted to his fate.

"The sweet, nice, giving person is the one who has the most difficulty overcoming the disease," she said.

Frequently, she said, the will to live subsides after a person suffers a major trauma, such as the loss of a loved one, a perceived failure to reach career goals, or a divorce. This is especially true among people who fit a "cancer profile" produced 10 years ago in a study at Johns Hopkins University Medical School in Baltimore, Matthews-Simonton said.

Typically, the profiled patient perceived a lack of closeness to his parents as a child. The patient reacted to the problem by becoming docile in an effort to become a model child. As an adult, the patient tends to fixate upon one primary love object — symbolic of his mother, Matthews-Simonton believes — whether that object is a mate or another loved one or even a career.

A study of 250 patients who underwent Matthews-Simonton's therapy at the Cancer Counseling and Research Center in Fort Worth showed an average life expectancy of twice the normal prognosis, she said. That is, if a patient was expected to live no more than two years at the outset of therapy, he usually lived for four years after the use of imagery.

Matthews-Simonton's work has attracted interest from groups such as the American Cancer Society and has spawned at least one other, similar cancer treatment center at Denver's Presbyterian Medical Center.

The American Cancer Society has invited her and Simonton to present their work to a gathering of medical writers. The Denver hospital consulted with them extensively before setting up its "Cancer Self-Help Center."

Ms. Matthews-Simonton said the therapy isn't for everyone.

"Taking responsibility for your life on a physical level is too much for some people to handle," she said. "Cancer is a disease of our society. One of its components is a person's inability to cope."

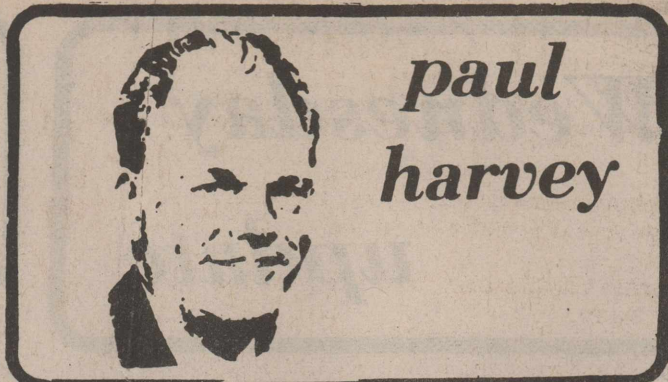

Report Of Car Solves Crimes

RICHARDSON, Texas (AP) — A report of a suspicious car has led to the solution of 42 house burglaries, 27 car burglaries, three rapes and one case of sexual assault of a child, police say.

An off-duty Dallas police officer, R.L. Dorsey, called Richardson police last week to report a strange car parked across from his house.

The Richardson officer who responded to the call saw two young men run up to the car carrying several small items, including a purse, said public information officer Kathy Laws.

Police discovered the items had been stolen from two Garland homes, she said.

We're almost too close to the first half-year of President Reagan fully to appreciate its historic significance.

At the moment, neither Tip O'Neill, the air traffic controllers, nor Washington newsmen seem to know what hit them.

The psychological influence of strong leadership has an inevitable impact on the numbers.

It is less because of anything he has done than because of the confidence he has inspired that Americans are betting on themselves again.

One year ago unemployment was 7.6 percent with 8 million people idle.

One year later only 7 percent are unemployed, only 7.5 million idle.

A year ago oil supplies were tight and prices high, today oil is plentiful and prices coming down.

Soaring food prices have stabilized.

High interest rates did not cause our economy to collapse, did knock some cents back into our dollar. The American dollar is relatively worth more than ever before compared to most European currencies.

This audit is not intended to justify Reaganomics, but to recognize that Reagan, as president, is doing all the things he has promised he would do since the beginning of his public life—and it's working!

He promised a woman and a constructionist on the Supreme Court and he gave us both in one.

He was and remains opposed to limitless government spending, high taxes and labor unions thumbing their noses at the public interest.

Until Reagan it was inconceivable that we could have severe recessions in both houses and cars and not crash.

It was inconceivable that a president could discipline a union and still retain public support.

It's as though we the people are catching up with where Ron Reagan has been all along—reflecting an attitude which Vermont Royster has called "enough is enough."

No president since FDR has so strengthened that office, so rallied the electorate to influence the Congress.

And as a bonus which makes us all stand taller, the impeccable example of our First Family begets new respect worldwide and renewed dignity stateside.

Mr. President—lead on!

Try to establish some type of program for saving this coming year. Tuck a little away each week. You'll be amazed at how much you can accumulate by year's end.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Once you set your mind on a specific goal your chances for success are very good today. However, you're apt to waste a great deal of time getting motivated. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Avoid making impulsive decisions in your business dealings today. They could prove expensive. When you take time to size things up, you'll do well.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Timing is extremely important today where your goals are concerned. Failure is likely if you're too impulsive, but success is assured when you're patient and persistent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't make decisions today based upon emotional premises. They could go awry. Judgments derived from practical analysis won't.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unexpected changes could temporarily throw you off course today. Fortunately, you adjust well to shifting conditions and you'll quickly get back on track.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're very adroit today at managing situations which associates find too complex. There's a good chance your talents will be required.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your initial assessment of a situation at work today could be erroneous. After you take a hard second look, however, you'll uncover the flaws.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Once you settle down to the tasks at hand today you'll be quite productive. Unfortunately, you may waste more time than you should before getting started.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your possibilities for material gains today are promising, but they are not apt to be too large, considering the energy and effort you'll expend.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Unfortunately, you may not find reliable helpers today to assist you with a small but significant task. Proceed, rather than wait for aid.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Word very carefully financial commitments you make to others today. You may have one amount in mind, while they'll be thinking of a larger sum.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Normally you're the type who treats others as generously as they treat you. Today you could uncharacteristically surprise them by being tightfisted.

Conservationists Attend Meeting

Two local conservationists were in Brownfield yesterday attending the South Plains Association of Soil and Water Conservation District Directors meeting.

Walter Stirl, vice chairman, Upper Colorado Soil and water Conservation District, and Erwin Pavlik, district conservationist for the Snyder Field Office of the Soil Conservation Service, represented Scurry and Borden Counties.

Some 50 conservation leaders from 14 soil and water conservation districts heard Dr. Wayland Bennett, associate dean of the Texas Tech School of Agricultural Sciences, discuss the tight cost-price squeeze affecting agriculture.

Stirl was appointed to the nominating committee to select a slate of officers for 1982. The winter meeting will be held in February at Crosbyton.

Check With Admissions This Week

Adults planning to enroll at Western Texas College for fall semester classes can save time by visiting the admissions office this week, Dr. Duane Hood, dean of student services, said.

The admissions office is in the administration building and prospective students can secure the required admissions forms and any information they will need for registration there. The office is open from 8 a. m. to 12 noon and from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Thursday, and 8 a. m. to noon and 1 p. m. to 4 p. m. on Friday.

Chef's Duties Have Hazards

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cooking for the president of the United States is no small matter for Raimund Hofmeister. First there is the special menu, then the personal shopping and finally the equivalent of the presidential food tasters.

And sometimes it all goes for naught.

Take, for example, the stuffed quail dinner for 1,500 at a California Republican fund-raising dinner in April, at which President Reagan was to be the star attraction.

The 32-year-old Hofmeister, chief chef at Los Angeles' Century Plaza Hotel, spent six days preparing the dinner, but Reagan was unable to attend after being wounded in assassination attempt March 30.

"All these quails you had to bone and take the bones out, and fill them and sew them out," Hofmeister said in an interview in the kitchen of the hotel where Reagan has been staying this week. "We went all out to really impress him and then he didn't show up. But we impressed all his friends."

Reagan, who makes a practice of staying in the large, two-bedroom, $750-a-night presidential suite when he is in Los Angeles, returned in June and Hofmeister set out to prepare another feast for 1,500. This time the entre was steak.

"We tried to cook special for him," Hofmeister said. "We put it on a special plate and made it extra nice for him, went to a lot of trouble to make sure he gets the right center cuts. Everything first-class."

10 YEARS GO

Congressman Omar Burleson of the 17th District, who was to become Scurry County's Congressman as a result of redistricting, addressed a joint meeting of Snyder service clubs.

The Snyder City Council passed on first reading an ordinance annexing property including the campus of Western Texas College.

Ronald Tharp, 1971 graduate of Snyder High School, was awarded a band scholarship to Sam Houston State University.

The Texas Railroad Commission cut the oil production allowable for the 5th month in a row, setting it at 65.1 percent of potential for September.

Western Texas College's first faculty held its first meeting at Trinity United Methodist Church.

15 YEARS AGO

The Snyder School Board approved a $3 million budget and set the tax rate at $1.50 per $100 valuation.

Dr. Nancy Boze of Texas Tech was conducting a workshop here for public school English teachers.

A group of young people from Northside Baptist Church attended a National Youth Encampment at Bogg Springs, Ark. Di'Ann Amonett was top girl camper and Larry Stokes was top boy camper.

20 YEARS AGO

The government approved a new oral polio vaccine, but production was not expected to be sufficient to make it available immediately.

An extensive investigation was launched following a fire which inflicted heavy damage to three rooms in the Stanfield Elementary School building.

Bill Lillard, Brunswick Advisory Star, put on a bowling exhibition at Tiger Bowl.

25 YEARS AGO

Earl Stubbs, Scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 27, sponsored by First Methodist Church, was one of 12 scout leaders in the Buffalo Trail Council selected to attend the Scout Jamboree in 1957.

Representing the Scurry County Farm Bureau at a district police planning session at Big Spring were C. H. Stahl, president; M. W. Bavousett, vice president; M. L. Andress, secretary-treasurer, and John Layne, director.

More than 1,000 season tickets to Snyder High School football games had been sold, reported Art Nicholas, school business manager.

30 YEARS AGO

The last of five prisoners who escaped from the Scurry County Jail on March 28 was returned here after he was recaptured in California.

Attending the state American Legion Convention in San Antonio were Hilton Lambert, commander of the local post, George Killam, Claude Ingram, James Stewart, J. F. Lammert, George Webb, Jack Caperton, Junior Duke and Harold Kruse.

Five Scurry County men were inducted into the U. S. Army. They included Mack Andrew Graham and William Beecher McCormick of Snyder, Allen E. Cavitt of Camp Springs, Ray Herring of Dermott, and Douglas Leland Moffett of Hermleigh.

Scurry County voters rejected bond issue proposals of $950,000 for development of a 200-acre park and $850,000 for an annex to the courthouse by votes of 788 to 657 and 811 to 648, respectively.

Vietnamese Want To Sell Fishing Boats

KEMAH, Texas (AP) — Vietnamese refugee shrimpers would like to leave this area of the Texas coast despite several months of peace with the Ku Klux Klan and American-born fishermen, a refugee leader said Tuesday.

"We are still willing to sell our boats and leave," said Nguyen Van Nam, head of the Vietnamese Fishermen's Association. "We don't make any good money shrimping. We would like to sell our boats but we can't find a buyer."

Nguyen's comments referred to a promise the refugees made in February to try to sell their boats and leave the Kemah-Seabrook area.

U.S. District Judge Gabrielle McDonald this week made permanent a preliminary injunction she issued against the Klan in May in an attempt to end violence and intimidation against Vietnamese fishermen.

The order forbids armed people from appearing within view of the Vietnamese fishermen to intimidate them. It also prohibits cross burnings, boat burnings and armed boat patrols.

The Vietnamese shrimp boat fleet in the Galveston Bay area has been reduced by six since the refugees made their offer to leave, Nguyen said. He said about 40 of the 65 Vietnamese boats remain up for sale.

Dallas Seeking Trolleys Return

BOSTON (AP) — The city of Dallas isn't exactly going back to the horse and buggy days, but officials there are looking for some 1945-era trolley cars to use in a downtown historical development, or for transportation to a fair grounds.

The dozen trolley cars that Dallas city official Rodney Kelly has his eye on originally came from Dallas, but were sold to Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority 20 years ago for $3,500 each when Dallas switched to buses only.

The MBTA has the 36-year-old Presidential Conference Cars in storage and might not put them back into service when a high-speed trolley line is constructed.

Kelly had hoped to pick up the cars for $1 each, but Paul DiNatale, spokesman for the impoverished transportation system, said, "We're not about to give them away for $1 apiece."

He said several other parties have expressed an interest in the cars, including a local scrap dealer who wants the whole lot.

"Some people think because they are old they don't have any value, but it's not true," DiNatale said after he welcomed Kelly to town Tuesday. "It would cost $750,000 just to build a replacement for one of them."

Kelly said the cars can be refurbished and put back into service, but that bids would have to be taken to get an idea of the total cost — purchase price, transportation to Texas and refinishing costs.

"It'll all boil down to what the bottom line cost is and what we can afford," said Kelly, an aide to Dallas' city manager. But he added, "We're certainly still very much interested."

Mrs. Greene Is Recognized

Laura Greene has recently received international recognition by being selected for honorable mention in the 1981 Beta Sigma Phi International Poetry Contest. Mrs. Greene's name, along with other literary contest winners appeared in the August, 1981 edition of "Torch," the organization's publication.

The "Torch" is sent monthly to Beta Sigma Phi members in 10,000 chapters located in 32 countries.

RECEIVES HONORABLE MENTION—Laura Greene, local member of the Lambda Kappa chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, is shown holding the August, 1981 issue of "Torch" magazine in which her name appears. She received honorable mention for her poem, "For Debra from Your Teacher." She is also displaying the achievement certificate and letter from the editor which she received.

The poem, entitled "For Debra from Your Teacher" was one of eight winning poetry entries among thousands submitted by chapter members throughout the world.

Mrs. Greene is an active member in her local chapter, Lambda Kappa, and is an English teacher at Snyder Junior High. The award is the second international recognition for her, having had an article published in the "Torch" earlier entitled "What Beta Sigma Phi Means to Me."

Bright-eyed beauty

Here are some quick tricks for looking great in the evening after a long, hard day. To add color and sparkle to your appearance, stroke pink blush around your hairline, along your chin and cheekbones, and at the tip of your nose. A bright pink or deep rose lipstick will add a dash of color. Put a tiny dot of white highlighter at the outer corners of your eyes and then brush eyebrows up and out. That'll make you look wide awake. Complete the transformation by setting your make-up with an iridescent, translucent powder. The result—a new, vibrant you!

We have not seen Generous George in action for some time, but here he is back with us again. He studied the hand a while before playing from dummy and played a small heart. He ruffed in his hand; proceeded to lead a small spade and remarked, "I'm going to let you make your king of spades."

West ducked. He knew he would score his king later on and didn't want any part of George's generosity.

Now George was in dummy. He ruffed dummy's last low heart with his ace of trumps and led his last trump. West could take his king then or later but George was going to get to dummy to discard his four small diamonds on the last two trumps and the ace-king of hearts to come to 12 tricks with five spades, two hearts, two diamonds and three clubs.

There are other ways for South to make his slam, but George was playing in a team match. The other South lacked George's generosity. He tried to make seven and managed to make only five.

Q. — I am a widow who never had to worry about fixing things until a year ago when my husband died. I thought I could have a repairman come in and take care of things, but I guess I haven't kept up on the cost of having things done by outside help. I now have a problem that I would like to be able to solve myself with your help. When you walk over a certain area in our living room, there is a squeak from the wooden floor, even though the floor is covered by a rug which is not wall-to-wall. It has about a foot border on each side. Is there some simple way I can fix the squeak? I read about squeaky floors in a book, but it tells how to eliminate the noise from below and you can't get at this floor that way.

A. — What constitutes a "simple way" is difficult to define. Make your own analysis after you read what to do. Roll up the rug so that the section of the floor in the area of the squeak is visible. Step on the floor several times until you locate exactly which board is causing the noise. Take a finishing nail about 2 or 3 inches long and, using a hammer, drive it into the floor at an angle.

If there is strong resistance or the nail bends, drill a pilot hole for the nail. It should be of a smaller diameter than the nail. If you have never used an electric drill, it's about time to learn how, since it will prove to be of great value in the future. After one nail is in place, drive another nail, also at an angle, about 2 inches away, so that the ends of the two nails almost meet.

Elrod's Tigers Set To Defend Crown

By BILL MCCLELLAN
Snyder's Tigers are revving up again, and if Coach Joyce Elrod can find someone to come through in the middle blocking slot, the Felines will make another run at the District 2-4A volleyball championship.

Elrod welcomes back four senior starters from last year's class 4A state championship squad, which sprinted through the season with a near perfect 33-1 record. She'll add five juniors from a 23-3 junior varsity team to fill the gaps.

Graduated from the team were all-state selection Sherry Mayes, who signed a letter with Southwest Texas State University, Kerstin Selmon and Shauna Pate.

Lisa Cobb, a two-time all-state choice and a senior this year, is the only eligible member of the state championship team who has not attended preseason workouts.

The returnees include all-district team members Kathy Northcott and Toni Elrod. Northcott, 5-5, is a two-year starter for the Tigers who was also named all-region. Toni Elrod, 5-3, was named honorable mention all-region.

The others include Shana Koonsman, a strong backline defensive player at 5-2, and setter-hitter Sherri Rich, 5-7.

Rich is one of several Tigers who came into two-a-days recuperating from injuries. She had knee surgery over the summer and has been able to start jumping for the first time only this week.

Also back to work with the team is second-year manager-statistician Lynne Maxwell, a senior.

The juniors include the tallest members of the team, 5-10 Sabrina Robinson, and 5-9 Becky Harrell, both setter-hitters. Also coming up from the junior varsity are Susi Lee, a 5-6 hitter, Lisa Waller, a 5-3 hitter and Becky Pylant, a 5-4 hitter.

With four players off of the state championship team and five junior varsity starters moving up, Elrod can count experience as a major asset for the 1981 season, which officially begins Saturday when San Angelo Central and Seminole come to the local gym for a series of matches. Earlier this week, Thursday, the Tigers scrimmage at Lamesa.

The first district game for Elrod's troops is Sept. 1 when Pecos comes to call at 7:30 p.m.

"I think we've got more experience back than we usually have," said Elrod, who has coached Snyder High School to six district titles and two state championships in eight years. "We've got four back who have had playoff experience, so that will help."

"Our setting is very strong this year. We've got four girls who are setters (including '80 starter Toni Elrod) and that will help us offensively."

"Everyone of our hitters can jump and hit consistently so we're in good shape there, and defensively we've got a lot of quickness and determination."

Elrod also noted serving was probably improved over what she saw at this time last year, and four seniors should provide strong leadership - leaving the team with good, solid bases to build towards a sixth consecutive district championship.

"Most of our inexperience comes from the middle blocking position. We'll have more height there than in the past, but we won't have the varsity experience we had," she added. "We're trying several girls at the middle position and I won't know who we'll start with until after Thursday. Even then, we may make some changes later. We haven't determined starters (for any position) yet... but we have more depth than we've ever had. Our kids on the bench are going to be very strong skill-wise."

Patty Grimmer will again serve as varsity assistant for the volleyball program. She will also direct the freshman team.

Rangers Split With Brewers

Keyed by Bill Stein's two-run bloop single that landed fair by inches, the Texas Rangers batted around in the sixth inning, scored six runs and beat the Milwaukee Brewers 8-6 in the second game of a doubleheader Tuesday night.

Ben Oglivie, who had blasted a three-run homer in the first game to give Milwaukee a 3-1 victory, singled in the sixth inning of the nightcap for his 1,000th career hit.

In the nightcap, starter Pete Vuckovich, 8-3, gave up six walks and struck out one in five innings for the Brewers. Steve Comer, 5-1, got the win in relief of Ferguson Jenkins.

In the opener, Moose Haas, 7-4, got his first win over Texas since 1979. Rollie Fingers recorded his 16th save of the year.

Jon Matlack, 3-6, was the loser for Texas.

Astros Rob Expos 4-2 In Astrodome

Southpaw pitcher Bob Knepper says he used a little reverse psychology when he studied the Montreal Expos lineup - noted for its effectiveness against left-handers.

Simply put, says Knepper, a .300 hitter is out 70 percent of the time.

"You take Andre Dawson, one of the best hitters in the game today," Knepper said after tossing an eight-hitter Tuesday night in Houston's 4-2 win over the Expos in the Astrodome.

"He's still a .300 hitter," Knepper said. "That means he's going to be put out 70 percent of the time."

To get psyched out (because Dawson hits .300) just makes him an .800 hitter."

Knepper's logic is a bit more compelling than his math, to wit: it was a .205 hitter who ruined Knepper's bid for a fifth shutout en route to his sixth win against two losses.

Larry Parrish rapped a two-run homer in the ninth to give the Expos their only run.

"I just nibbled too much with Parrish," Knepper said. "In that situation, you should be aggressive, but you don't want to get too fine. If you walk him, that's really stupid. I just got it up in the strike zone a little bit."

Union Nixes Proposal

NEW YORK (AP) - Marvin Miller said Tuesday night that baseball's hierarchy had proposed a revised plan for deciding winners in the second half of the season, but the union found the new format "favorable only in part."

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, American League President Lee MacPhail and National League counterpart Chub Feeney met Tuesday, but did not announce a new format for the split season. A spokesman for the commissioner hoped he would be able to release something today.

Miller said he was given a "piece of paper" by Ray Grebey, the owners' chief negotiator, Monday afternoon, outlining a proposed new format for the second half of the season.

"We found it acceptable only in part. We're still talking," Miller said. He did not reveal the contents of the proposals.

Grebey said the proposals he gave Miller were not final.

Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, said the union would have to approve any change in the second season format "because we are dealing

The 1960 American Olympic champion basketball team won eight straight games in the competition at Rome and its smallest margin of victory was 24 points.

Dear Abby

Busy Husband Takes Time for His Affairs

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My husband's job requires him to be out of town quite a bit. Everything was going fine with our marriage until last month when he telephoned long distance to say that his company physician had advised him to spend a month away from his work and without any contact with his family!

I tried to reach the company physician to ask him about his advice, but his office informed me that the doctor will not be back until the end of the summer! I suspect my husband is having an affair.

Abby, would a doctor make such a suggestion? Do you think a man of good conscience would follow such a suggestion? I need your opinion.

URGENT AND ANXIOUS

DEAR URGENT: You give me very few facts to go on, but if you suspect your husband of having an affair, you must have good reasons. The whole thing smells fishy to me, too. Every responsible physician has a substitute doctor covering for him in his absence. The only "covering" I see here is the company physician covering for a pal who needs an excuse to disappear for a month.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 10½ years old, and my problem is a neighbor boy I'll call "Mike." He's 4. Mike keeps coming to my house and he rings our doorbell about 15 times! Then he'll ask if I'm home. If I am, I have to go out and play with him, and if I'm not home he just sits out in front and waits for me.

Sometimes Mike will go in our backyard and play on my swing set without asking anybody. If I tell him he can't swing on my swing without permission, he says he can because his mother said so. What should I do?

POOPED WITH PESTS

DEAR POOPED: You may need some cooperation from your mother and Mike's on this one. First explain to Mike that you can't play with him whenever he feels like it. If he rings your bell when you're not in the mood to play with him, say so. Then have your mother tell his mother that your swings should not be used without supervision. Better yet, they should be locked up, because if anyone is injured on them, the owner could be sued.

DEAR ABBY: When we have houseguests, we give them their own room, bath, house key and our extra car. We figure it's their vacation, and they should feel free to get up, eat, sleep and come and go as they please.

The question: When friends and relatives invite our houseguests to dinner or whatever, I don't think they should feel obligated to invite us, too.

My sister disagrees with me. What do you think?

FIRST-TIME WRITER

DEAR WRITER: It depends on what the invitation is for. If it's a larger party to honor your houseguests, you should be invited. But you need not be invited to accompany them to every coffee klatch, tea, beer bust, tour of the city, shopping tour, zoo, art gallery and museum. There is no "rule." And where no rule exists, common sense should prevail.

DEAR ABBY: I can sure feel for PATTY IN TACOMA, who's 25 and looks like 17. I've got the same problem, although I'm only 13 and get treated like I'm 9.

When I walk into a restaurant, I'm handed a "kiddie menu." Please don't tell me I'll appreciate looking young eventually. I've heard that so many times I could scream! And please ask your readers not to ask us small, thin people if we have "anorexia." We're perfectly healthy — we're just small.

There are advantages to being small, however. How many 6-footers do you know who can crawl under a locked bathroom door in the airport and unlock it for all those little old ladies who forgot to bring their dimes?

SMALL BUT USEFUL IN TUCSON

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (35 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, 12060 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 5000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250.

One lizard species is called the glass snake because at one time some people thought the reptile would shatter if attacked. Actually, a glass snake may shed its tail when grabbed.

Charles Harrelson...

Ends Hunger Strike

HOUSTON (AP) — Asking for a hamburger, onion rings, fries, a malt and "lots of catsup," convicted hit man Charles Harrelson ended a month-long hunger strike in the Harris County jail, his attorney said.

Don Ervin said his client had fasted since July 17 to protest "harassment" of his family by investigators probing the 1979 sniper slaying of U.S. District Judge John Wood Jr. Harrelson is a suspect in Wood's death.

Harrelson took his advice and ended the hunger strike Monday night, Ervin said.

Sheriff's Major R. W. Duncan said Harrelson had lost no weight since August 10, leading jail officials to believe other inmates had slipped Harrelson food.

Ervin said Harrelson was in poor condition and looked like "somebody just about to die."

But Duncan said a medical examination Tuesday showed Harrelson to be in good health.

Harrelson is being held in the jail on charges of gun possession and possession of cocaine.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Low weight may be cause

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am interested in knowing some of the possible reasons (other than pregnancy) why women don't menstruate as they should. I began menstruation when I was 16 and was normal until I started to college two years later. I menstruated the day school began and the following January. That was the last time I menstruated on my own.

A year later I had tests and was treated with Provera until I menstruated. I have missed periods since when not taking the medicine and am not regular.

I am 20 now, 5-foot-2 and weigh 95 pounds. I weighed 105 before I went to college but due to lots of exercise and little eating, I weighed 90 pounds at the end of the first year.

I don't eat very much meat and almost no eggs. I do eat cheese, peanut butter, vegetables, cereal and drink milk. I jump rope about 500 steps a day. My doctor told me I would do better if I gained 20 pounds. I don't want to gain unless I have to. Do you think I'll ever return to normal?

DEAR READER — It depends upon what is causing your menstrual irregularities. The tests you've had taken may help answer that question. There is a good chance your problems are related to being too thin. Many women athletes and ballet dancers have this problem. There is much speculation about the mechanism but absence of sufficient body fat seems to be a factor. Fat is an endocrine organ and plays a role in creating certain forms of estrogen. In general, a little fat tends to raise a woman's level of some fractions of estrogen.

The normal menstrual cycle and some information about irregularity is included in The Health Letter number 17-2, Female Reproductive Function, which I am sending you.

Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

When insufficient body fat stores are the problem, regaining normal fat deposits for a female will restore her normal function. So it is not a permanent problem. I am struck with the number of letters from young girls wanting to be thin and the number having menstrual troubles. Women cannot expect to have normal hormone functions if they eat improperly or get too thin.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you tell my husband if there is any danger in spraying salt water in his nostrils nearly every night and sometimes three or four times a day? He says it cures his sinus but he has a snoring-like sound constantly.

By the way, he smokes a lot — about three or four packs a day. He has a deep down cough and has a lot of phlegm in the mornings. He will not go to a doctor.

DEAR READER — If he has had that cough very long, he had better see a doctor. At the least he prob-

Salt water will not cure any infection he has in his sinuses. The most he can be doing is irrigating his main nasal passages — which are not the sinuses anyway. If he wants to do something for his sinuses, he should stop smoking.

If he smokes as much as you say and has symptoms already, he has a significantly increased risk of lung cancer. After all, it is the leading cause of cancer deaths in men and about 90 percent of lung cancers are associated with cigarette smoking.

Bank Officer Pleads Guilty

HOUSTON (AP) — W. Darrell Wiggins faces up to 30 years in prison and a $30,000 fine after pleading guilty to charges he embezzled nearly $17 million from the bank he worked for.

The former Allied Bank of Texas senior vice president entered the plea Tuesday before U.S. District Judge Ross N. Sterling.

Sterling set sentencing for September 29.

Wiggins, an 11-year employee of the bank, told the judge he became involved in a scheme 10 years ago to sell unauthorized negotiable securities to help bank customers whose loan applications were turned down by Allied. He maintained he did not personally profit from the illegal transactions.

The bank filed suit to regain its losses from Wiggins' holdings, which included vast ranching properties in Texas and Colorado.

Wiggins was accused of siphoning amounts ranging from $875,000 to $7.2 million from the bank between December 9, 1980 and January 2, 1981.

He resigned his post in January after the bank discovered the $17 million loss.

To Appear In Court...

Controllers Indicted

FORTH WORTH, Texas (AP) — Six air traffic controllers indicted by a federal grand jury for violating a law which prohibits strikes by government employees will be arraigned next week.

U.S. District Judge David Belew Jr. ordered the six members of the striking Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization to appear in federal court Aug. 28 where they will be arraigned and bonds will be set.

Charles J. Phillips, Gary P. Laws, Harry L. Grant, Gary Greene, Ronald A. May and Sam Anselm were indicted but not arrested Tuesday.

All six are accused of unlawfully walking off their jobs Aug. 3 when when a nation-wide PATCO strike began.

"I really don't know what to say," said May, who added the indictment "gives me some cause for concern, but it is nothing I have not expected."

Assistant U.S. Attorney Ron Eddins said the charge is a felony with a maximum penalty of up to a year and a day in jail and a $1,000 fine.

"We definitely intend to prosecute them," Eddins said.

Government officials said they believe the indictments mark the first time grand jurors have charged controllers with violating a federal law making it illegal for government employees to strike.

About 10,000 of the nation's 13,000 air traffic controllers walked off their jobs Aug. 3 when contract negotiations broke down.

Mixed Drinks Sales Are Up

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Comptroller Bob Bullock said Tuesday that sales of mixed drinks in Texas were 28 percent higher in the second quarter of 1981 than they were a year ago.

Bullock said collections of the 10 percent mixed drink tax in April, May and June totaled $30.3 million, compared with $23.6 million during the second quarter of 1980.

Mixed drink taxes yielded $58.9 million between Jan. 1 and June 30, Bullock said.

Shuttle Gets Delayed Again

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space Shuttle Columbia's rollout to the launch pad has been pushed back four days, Kennedy Space Center officials said.

"There are no big problems, just a lot of little things," space center spokesman Dick Young said late Tuesday. He said the rollout had been postponed from Aug. 27 to Aug. 31.

There were a variety of reasons for the delay, Young said, including problems in loading a computer onto the Columbia.

The Columbia's September 30 launch date "is being assessed," Young said, "to see whether the current delays will affect it."

Elephant Likes To Water Ski

MARINA DEL REY, Calif. (AP) — The three-ton mass of gray streaking by on bright pink water skis could never be mistaken for a bathing beauty. But her water skiing prowess did turn heads.

Bubbles has been water skiing for only a year now, but she outdoes anyone in her class — the pachyderm class, that is.

Bubbles is a 14-year-old Indian elephant that stepped onto a pair of 22-foot water skis Tuesday and breezed around the main channel of this Los Angeles community at a modest 15 mph.

Local residents wondered if they were seeing what they thought they were seeing, and the harbor patrol reported getting many phone calls.

The elephant took to her skis to promote a new film "Honky Tonk Freeway."

Bubbles' manager, Hubert Wells of Animal Actors, said the elephant can ski for as long as an hour and a half, but Tuesday's outing was confined to 20 minutes.

Bubbles, however, does have to use all four legs. There are two-foot wells on each ski the same size as her feet.

"The rope that pulls her is attached to the skis and the boat," said Michele Reese of Universal Studios. "All she has to do is keep her balance."

It took five weeks to train her.

"Mainly we had to gain her confidence," Ms. Wells said. "Once we established that, it was easy. We first put her on a pair of skis on dry land. Then we pulled her around on a tractor. Once she was used to that we put her in the water."

Not only is Bubbles the only elephant of her size that can ski, she perhaps is the only living soul to get the Los Angeles County board of supervisors to act quickly: the board Tuesday swiftly granted emergency approval for Bubbles to be towed around Marina del Rey.

Bergey Placed On Injured Reserve

By The Associated Press
The Philadelphia Eagles may have some doubts about Bill Bergey's ailing left knee. He doesn't, though.

Bergey, for many seasons one of the premier middle linebackers in the National Football League, was placed on the four-week injured reserve list by the Eagles Tuesday as last season's Super Bowl finalists reached the NFL's mandatory 60-man roster limit.

He's not just physically

Area Gridders To Scrimmage

Area 2-A six-man schools scrimmage outside opponents this weekend; two weeks before the kickoff of the 1981 season.

Ira, under the direction of Tom Pierson, will entertain Blackwell at 6 p.m. Thursday. Coach Clarence Spieker's Hermleigh Cardinals entertain Benjamin at 6:30 Thursday. Randy Roemisch's Borden County (Gail) Coyotes trek to Loop, also at 6:30 Thursday.

Snyder High School, district 2-A member, will scrimmage Vernon at 7 p.m. Friday in Stamford.

ready to play," said Eagles Head Coach Dick Vermeil, who added he made the decision reluctantly.

It was one Bergey wasn't ready to swallow.

"I thought I played well Saturday (against Pittsburgh) until I saw the

Tigers Check Progress In Scrimmage Friday

Local football fans can get their first look at the 1981 Snyder High School varsity football team at 7 p.m. Friday as the Tigers challenge Vernon in scrimmage action at Stamford.

It will be the first test for the Tigers, under a new coaching staff this season.

Snyder will also scrimmage the following weekend before opening regular season play at Big Spring on Sept. 4. The Tigers host Brownfield in workout gear 7 p.m. Aug. 28 here. The action will be preceded by a junior varsity scrimmage at 6, also here against Brownfield.

A number of NFL players, including a number of Bergey's former teammates, had the same feeling after Tuesday's cutdowns.

The Eagles waived 10 players Tuesday, including six-year fullback Mike Hogan and fifth-year wide receiver Luther Blue.

Other big names who were told to turn in their play books were veteran running backs Don Hardeman of the New Orleans Saints, Bubba Bean of the Atlanta Falcons and Boobie Clark of the Buffalo Bills.

Veteran Steve Furness was given a different send-off by the Pittsburgh Steelers, who traded the defensive lineman to the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Hardeman was one of Houston's first-round draft picks in 1975 after starring as both a running back and linebacker at Texas A&I. He never gained the fame that many top-round selections enjoy, and ultimately became expendable when Earl Campbell joined the Oilers in 1978.

He was traded from Houston to Tampa Bay to Baltimore before the 1978 season and last year went to Denver. When the Broncos cut him he joined the Saints as a linebacker, but it did not pan out.

Bean was the Falcons' first-round draft choice out of Texas A&M in 1976. He gained 428 yards as a rookie, missing his second season with a knee injury, rushed for 707 yards in 1978, then reinjured his knee and sat out most of 1979 and all of 1980.

each losing to the Dallas Cowboys in the playoffs.

Each should face a tougher task from the other two West members, the San Francisco 49ers and the New Orleans Saints.

The 49ers, who went 6-10 last year, must improve defensively to reach the .500 level for the first time since 1976, but will enter the season with Joe Montana established from the start as the quarterback.

The Saints, who struggled through a miserable 1-15 season last year, still rely on Archie Manning to trigger the attack, but two newcomers should play a vital role - Coach Bum Phillips and Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers, the running back from South Carolina who was the No. 1 choice in last season's NFL draft.

Placed Lester Mickens, wide receiver; Hokie Gajan, running back; and Paul Ryzek, center, on the injured reserve list. Categorized Tinker Owens, wide receiver, as physically unable to play.

ATLANTA FALCONS—Coach Bear Bryant of perennial power Alabama can count on one setback before the 1981 college football season begins.

"I wish everyone would forget about it," Bryant says of a wish that won't be granted.

Bryant, trying to steer the Crimson Tide to its eighth Southeastern Conference title in 10 years, says he'd prefer that fans and members of the news media forget about his chase of the all-time record for coaching victories.

Bryant enters the campaign with 306, eight shy of the record held by the legendary Amos Alonzo Stagg.

Much to his dismay, that chase will overshadow the battles for conference championships and independent supremacy in the South this year.

Alabama, as usual, is favored to win the SEC and Dick Crum's North Carolina Tar Heels are a solid pick to repeat in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The area's top individual performer is a mere sophomore - All-American tailback Herschel Walker of defending national champion Georgia.

Walker smashed the NCAA record for yards rushing by a freshman last fall when he dashed for 1,616 in the regular season and added another 150 in the Bulldogs' Sugar Bowl victory over Notre Dame, leaving Georgia with college football's only perfect record, 12-0.

The Kansas City Royals as a team had 5,714 at bat in 1980, an American League record.

Atlanta Favored In West Division

ATLANTA (AP) - Five years have elapsed since Leeman Bennett last went into a National Football League campaign with a division favorite.

He's in that position again, however, and he likes it.

"I think it's quite an honor for us," said Bennett, who begins his fifth season in charge of the Atlanta Falcons since leaving an assistant coach's post with the Los Angeles Rams, the dominating force in the National Conference West Division.

Riding the strong right arm of quarterback Steve Bartkowski, the Falcons captured the NFC West title last season, ending an NFL record string of seven straight division crowns for the Rams. Atlanta had a 12-4 record and Los Angeles an 11-5 mark, with each losing to the Dallas Cowboys in the playoffs.

Each should face a tougher task from the other two West members, the San Francisco 49ers and the New Orleans Saints.

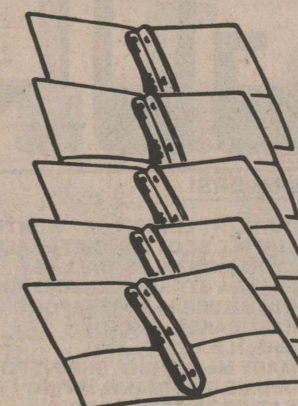

The 49ers, who went 6-10 last year, must improve defensively to reach the .500 level for the first time since 1976, but will enter the season with Joe Montana established from the start as the quarterback.

The Saints, who struggled through a miserable 1-15 season last year, still rely on Archie Manning to trigger the attack, but two newcomers should play a vital role - Coach Bum Phillips and Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers, the running back from South Carolina who was the No. 1 choice in last season's NFL draft.

Hinckley Moved From N.C. Prison To Brig

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government transferred accused presidential assailant John W. Hinckley Jr. from a federal prison in North Carolina today, Justice Department spokesman Tom DeCair said.

DeCair said Hinckley, charged with wounding President Reagan and a Secret Service agent March 30 in Washington,

Drill Stolen From Company

A Black and Decker 3/4" reversing drill was reported stolen from the brick plant Monday. Employees told the sheriff's department they had been using the drill in the morning but when they came back from dinner it was gone. Value was set at $250.

A theft that occurred Saturday at Lake J.B. Thomas was reported Monday to the department. Jackie Sildham said he had gone skiing and when he returned to his pickup, his toolbox and tools were missing. Value of the items was $700.

The Suez Canal was officially opened in 1869.

was being moved to the brig at the Marine Corps' Quantico, Va., training base.

Justice Department sources who asked not to be named said they expected a federal grand jury in Washington to return an indictment later this week in the attack on Reagan.

DeCair said that Hinckley was moved because psychiatric tests ordered by a federal judge had been completed and because defense lawyers wanted easier access to Hinckley.

A court-ordered psychiatric report prepared by the medical staff at the Federal Correctional Institution at Butner, N.C., was submitted to a federal judge here on Aug. 1 and sealed by the judge.

Published reports have said that the tests found Hinckley was competent to stand trial and was sane at the time of the attack.

DeCair said tests were continuing by four private psychiatric experts hired by Charles F.C. Ruff, U.S. attorney for the District of Columbia, who has been presenting the government's case against Hinckley to the grand jury.

The FBI announced

recently that an intensive investigation had concluded that Hinckley acted alone in the pistol attack on the president outside a Washington hotel.

DeCair said Hinckley will be kept in a single cell segregated from other prisoners at the Quantico brig.

DeCair said Hinckley left Butner at 12:20 p.m. EDT aboard a Marine Corps helicopter and in the custody of U.S. marshals.

From Murder Charge...

Author's Protege Flees

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Henry Abbott was the toast of the town's literary set just a month ago, an untrained writer who'd parlayed a hellish lifetime behind bars into an acclaimed new book and a promising new life.

Today Abbott is on the run, possibly in Mexico, trying to dodge a murder charge, trying to hide the letters J, A, C, K that are tattooed on the four fingers of his left hand.

His writing since mid-July seems to have been limited to two letters mailed to his sister in Salt Lake City, naming her recipient of royalties from "In the Belly of the Beast," a vivid collection of letters Abbott wrote to author Norman Mailer about prison life.

Police say that on July 18, six weeks after he was moved from a Utah prison to a Manhattan halfway house, Abbott argued with a waiter. They stepped out to the sidewalk, where the waiter was knifed and killed.

Since then, Mailer, the Man Survives

HOUSTON (AP) — A 38-year-old amateur stunt pilot who lay injured 13 hours after his homemade bi-plane crashed in a sand pit said Monday he survived the accident by "talking and praying to himself all night."

William K. Graves, a Baytown electrician, was in serious condition at Hermann Hospital, suffering from broken jaw and back, multiple fractures and an injury to his left eye.

Graves, the father of three children, told federal investigators he lost fuel pressure before the blue-and-white experimental craft plunged into a Chambers County sand pit Saturday night.

He was found the next morning by Mike Dunaway, foreman at the Baytown Sand & Clay Co.

"I just ran across him when I came by the place," Dunaway said. "The plane was in a pit on level ground. He had crawled out and was lying there near the wing. His leg was messed up pretty bad."

His wife, Shirley, said she worried about her missing husband throughout the night. "I prayed a lot," she said.

man who discovered Abbott, helped him get his letters published, wrote a letter to his parole board and gave him a job in New York has refused to discuss the case.

Mailer is "still unwilling to talk about it. I think that unwillingness will be permanent," Scott Meredith, literary agent for Mailer and Abbott, said Monday.

"He's just heart sick. He's so distressed about how this turned out," Meredith said of the Pulitzer Prize-winning writer, who is spending August in Maine.

Mailer has been alternately criticized for ignoring or glamorizing Abbott's record of violence, which began with reform school at age 14 and culminated with a conviction in 1966 for killing a fellow inmate.

"The press is mad at Norman because he won't talk about this," said an associate who asked not to be identified. "And they have a right to be. He shouldn't have crawled into a cocoon like this, especially since he's usually so open."

The detective supervising the manhunt said Abbott would be caught eventually. He has spent all but 10 months of his life since age 14 in custody, and "he is fundamentally incapable of coping in free society," said Detective William Majeski.

"He's a survivor," Majeski conceded. "But that was in prison. In New York he had trouble from the start."

Majeski said that although Abbott never showed signs of paranoia or violence to Mailer or Meredith, he was unable to deal with routine matters.

Meredith said he was shocked by the knifing.

"Even when we had small business disagreements he was mild, pleasant and gentle. There was never the slightest indication of a tendency toward violence," he said. "I would have walked down any street with Jack, and I can't say that for all my clients."

When Abbott was in prison, Meredith, Mailer and Random House editor Eroll McDonald wrote letters to his parole board, praising his writing. But others say that was not why he was granted parole, effective Aug. 25, and moved to a halfway house in the interim.

Lawyers with the Prisoners' Rights Project at the federal prison in Marion, Ill. say Abbott made a deal: in return for criticizing prisoners' lawyers at Marion and recanting a story about being tortured by guards there, he would be sent back to Utah state prison, where he could seek parole on state charges.

The prison lawyers imply — and federal officials deny — Abbott was released early because he charged the lawyers with encouraging an inmate work strike.

"You'll have to draw your own conclusions, but until he talked to them, he was not getting out," said Jacqueline Abel, a staff lawyer who had represented Abbott.

Capt. Thomas Bona, director of the maximum security unit at the Utah prison, told a reporter he opposed Abbott's release. "Abbott was a dangerous individual who should be given a re-hearing (for parole) in two years," Bona said of his feelings at the time. "His attitude, his demeanor indicated psychosis."

"In the Belly of the Beast" has gone into its third printing and should earn its author at least $250,000 when foreign sales are included, Meredith said. Abbott had been paid about $16,000, most of which went for lawyers' fees.

Meredith said it was too early to determine the crime's effect on sales.

"People have said this is great publicity, but we're very nervous about that. It could be people will walk away from the book," he said.

On whether he remains Abbott's agent, Meredith said, "Well, I'd like to hear his side before I answer. But I suppose I am."

"I think he's gone for good. He won't come back. He can't. He's a great talent, but it was a horrible crime."

Hijacked Iranian Gunboat... Threaten To Blow-Up

MARSEILLE, France (AP) — Anti-Khomeini commandos threatened to blow up a hijacked Iranian gunboat if French authorities refuse it fuel and food at this Mediterranean port, informed sources said today.

French government officials, while not confirming the threat, said they refused demands to refuel the boat and told the commandos they must leave French territorial waters as soon as the original crew is taken off.

The French-built Tabarzin, captured last week off the coast of Spain, streamed into French territorial waters earlier today, the French government said.

French authorities refused their demand for fuel, the communique said. "Meanwhile, a certain number of Iranian sailors, apparently crew members of the boat, asked that they be collected by the French Navy so that they could return to their country."

Authorities said 22 people aboard the Tabarzin already had been transferred to a French Navy high-speed patrol boat.

"As soon as the transfer is finished, the French government demands that the Iranian gunboat leave French territorial waters," the government communique said.

The gunboat was believed to have a 31-member crew when it was captured. A spokesman for Azadegan, the group that claimed responsibility for hijacking the vessel, at first denied the boat was off Marseille. "Our boat is in the Atlantic Ocean cruising in international waters," the spokesman said.

In Madrid, an Iranian foreign ministry representative sent to discuss the hijacking said the United States and Morocco were responsible for the seizure.

Baroness Likes Musical Of Her Life

LONDON (AP) — Baroness Maria von Trapp received a standing ovation from the first-night audience at "The Sound of Music," the most expensive musical ever presented in the British capital. The 74-year-old baroness, whose book about her real-life escape from the Nazis during World War II inspired the musical, walked onto the stage Monday night.

Locals Attend Convention

Several Snyder Jaycees and Jayceettes attended the Five Outstanding Young Texans Ceremony this past weekend in Tyler. The annual occasion is sponsored by the Texas Jaycees.

This year's recipients were Earl Campbell, running back for the Houston Oilers; Larry Gatlin, recording entertainer formerly from Odessa; Rufus Cormier, Jr., prominent attorney from Houston; Mark Wayne Stiles, corporate executive from Beaumont; and John Campbell Schweitzer business executive from El Paso.

The presentations of awards to these outstanding individuals continues the Jaycee tradition to recognize the service of an individual to his community, his profession and his fellow man. It is concrete evidence that success in our free enterprise system is still attainable to young men who strive to achieve.

The Snyder Jaycees and Jayceettes have been an active organization for over 30 years and have been recognized by the Texas Jaycees and the U. S. Jaycees for outstanding service to their community.

Search For British Ship...

Dream Of Finding Wrecks

EDITOR'S NOTE — Many have dreamed about recovering the wrecks of sunken ships, from the Titanic to the Andrea Doria. Some have tried. But perhaps a more fascinating attempt is being made in the Arctic Circle, where cold-water divers are going after a British ship lost more than 100 years ago.

By CHARLES J. HANEY

Associated Press Writer
TORONTO (AP) — The vision that obsesses Joe MacInnis lies 300 feet beneath the ice at the top of the world, a ship asleep in the Arctic deep since the days when Queen Victoria was young.

MacInnis, a Toronto physician who is one of the world's premier cold-water divers, is going after the long-lost wreck of the HMS Breadalbane in a science spectacular that will make vicarious adventurers shiver in the warmth of their easy chairs.

The British bark sank suddenly Aug. 21, 1853, in ice-choked waters 500 miles north of the Arctic Circle. It was not seen again until last August, when MacInnis and his fellow explorers found it through sophisticated sonar techniques. It showed as a ghostly silhouette on their sonar recorder.

A new MacInnis expedition will return in September to the site between Devon and Baffin islands in Canada's far north, to take more remote-control pictures. Then next spring he and two dozen other scientists, divers and photographers will try to take a personal fish-eye look at the sunken ship, using a mini-sub and some of the most advanced underwater exploration and photographic equipment available.

MacInnis, who searched for the Breadalbane for five years, believes it may be the best-preserved shipwreck ever found in the world's oceans, thanks to the 29-degree waters of Lancaster Sound, its grave.

It is also believed to be the northernmost shipwreck ever located.

"There are a lot of superlatives involved," says the boyish-looking, 44-year-old MacInnis.

Incredibly, the sonar graph appears to show the canvas sails still preserved and furled around the Breadalbane's masts, just as they were that early Sunday morning 128 years ago when shifting ice crushed the 120-foot-long ship's wooden hull and sent it to the bottom.

It was tragedy that brought the Breadalbane to the frigid Arctic in the first place. It was carrying supplies for Royal Navy ships searching for the lost expedition of Sir John Franklin.

Franklin and 128 men, on two ships, had been missing since 1847, after venturing into the dangerous waters in search of the Northwest Passage linking the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. Franklin's skeleton was finally found in 1859 on King William Island, and the bones of his shipmates continued to be found as late as 1931. After the ice trapped their boats, they had wandered helplessly over the frozen landscape for months.

There was no loss of life on the Breadalbane. As it went down, all 21 crew members scrambled onto the ice and were picked up by a nearby ship. But they left behind a shipload of equipment, personal belongings and cargo — from coal and sheep to casks of ale and rum. MacInnis believes it may amount to a time capsule of the early Victorian age.

Canadian coast guard icebreakers have taken the explorers in on previous expeditions, and one will do so this September, if all goes as planned. But for next spring's climactic mission they will fly in and set up camp on what they hope will be five-foot-thick ice above the Breadalbane.

They will lower a massive array of spotlights and giant flashbulbs through holes in the ice, and then send down cameras, followed by a manned diving bell and miniature submarine, and by a diver in a suit that is, in effect, a submarine built around the human body. Tiny propellers on the British-developed manned suit allow the diver to fly through the water. Depending on the condition of the ship, divers will explore its holds and cabins.

Guild Is Fun Thing...

Remembers German Job

By WILLIAM C. MANN
Associated Press Writer
AALBORG, Denmark (AP) — Not even the members seem to know quite what to make of the curious King Christian IV's Guild.

If the rotund monarch can train his one good eye on the guild's goings-on from the Valhalla of Danish kings, he's surely perplexed. After all, his motto was "Piety Fortifies the Realm," and if there's anything the guild is not, it's pious.

"The guild is as serious as a member wants it to be," said a long-time member from this northern Jutland town. "Some people might consider it a gag now, but you have to remember how it got started."

King Christian IV's Guild began as a silent protest at the Nazi occupation of Germany's northern neighbor, when Aalborg's 80,000 Danes shared their city with 85,000 German troops.

Its clandestine meetings, off limits to Germans, became such a thorn in the side of the occupiers that they bombed its meeting cellar a few months before Denmark was liberated in 1944. The members just bricked in the damaged area, built a secret back door and continued business as usual.

"The guild is now a fun thing, but it was created in the most serious time ever in Denmark," said Jens "Nick" Nicolaisen, founding member No. 67, who for 14 years has been the guild's chief bencher, or head man. "This proves that the Danish sense of humor and the Danish sense of life is strong."

Some rather prominent people have taken the walk through Aalborg's city center, singing "Auld Lang Syne" to the rat-tat-tat of a snare drum, a ritual that signifies guild membership.

One is Ronald Reagan, president of the United States. Another is a Reagan predecessor, Richard M. Nixon, and another Christian IV's descendant, Queen Margrethe II of Denmark.

There are actors Raymond Burr, Danny Kaye and Victor Borge; the late Walt Disney, the late Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota; former Michigan Gov. George Romney, who as a teetotaler passed up the traditional inaugural toast of beer and fiery Aalborg aquavit.

The latest group of inductees included singer Pat Boone. After the ceremony, Boone and the rest, each with a hand on a shoulder of the one in front, made the traditional "Auld Lang Syne" march. As always, Nicolaisen led the march in his scarlet robe and bright blue beret.

Nicolaisen, the guild's third chief bencher, said the guild, formed along the lines of the European trade guilds of the Middle Ages, holds about 18 inductions a year. Starting with about 200 Danes during the occupation, the guild now has about 4,000 members from Denmark, the United States, Britain and many other countries, including the Soviet Union and China.

"It's a non-political thing," Nicolaisen said. "We're absolutely neutral in all respects except the Danish occupation."

There are no German members, despite the tens of thousands of West German tourists who annually spend holidays in northern Jutland. "That's not to keep up a hate, but to keep up a remembrance," Nicolaisen said.

The founding members were among Denmark's 50,000 underground resistance fighters during World War II "or committed in some way" to it, Nicolaisen said. He said the guild as such did not carry out resistance activities. Inductions and the guild's one meeting of the year are held in Jens Bang's Stone House, the history of which is somehow appropriate.

Bang was a rich Danish merchant of questionable virtue during the 60-year reign of Christian IV, remembered mostly for the monumental Dutch Renaissance-style buildings he left behind, as well as his penchant for starting — and losing — wars. He lost an eye during his 30-year war with Sweden.

Always in need of money, the king commonly asked the country's rich for funding for his grandiose ideas. One man who felt his touch was Jens Bang, who asked in return to be elevated to the nobility.

"The king asked the noblemen of Aalborg, and they said no," Nicolaisen said. "They said they didn't want a pirate like that as a nobleman."

Thus spurned, Bang decided to flaunt his wealth by building the stone house, which in that time of half-timbered houses was Scandinavia's largest allstone building.

Caged Bird Doesn't Sing

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — It's the same old story: the six have lost their jobs to automation.

Officials at the Golden Nugget casino hotel say the six tropical birds for which they paid $10,000 weren't singing for their supper.

Thus, the colorful cockatoos and macaws are being donated to the Philadelphia Zoo because they rarely chirped and weren't lively enough for the hotel's Victorian-style lobby, said spokeswoman Muriel Harris.

IF YOU SMELL NATURAL GAS, FOLLOW THESE 3 STEPS TO SAFETY.

The natural gas industry has an excellent safety record.

The fact that you can smell natural gas is because we add a harmless chemical to it as a safety feature. Otherwise, it would be completely odorless. If you detect faint whiffs of what you think may be gas, investigate. It may be something that is as easily and safely corrected as a pilot light that has gone out, or a burner valve that's partially open.

If your equipment seems to be working properly and the odor intensifies and seems to be everywhere, please follow these precautions:

1. Do not switch anything electrical on or off. Do not use the telephone in your own home. Do not strike a match. Do not do anything that might cause a spark.
2. Have everyone leave the house immediately, leaving doors open to help ventilate.
3. Go to a nearby telephone and call Lone Star Gas Company. Wait until we have found the source of the odor to determine whether it's safe for you to return to the house.

You may never have a natural gas leak, but we want you to be informed in case one does occur. Please make sure your family is aware of these precautionary steps. And we suggest that you keep this message for future reference.

SI PERCIBE OLOR A GAS NATURAL OBEDEZCA ESTAS 3 NORMAS DE SEGURIDAD.

La industria del gas natural tiene un récord de seguridad excelente.

El hecho de que Usted pueda percibir el olor a gas natural se debe a que se le ha añadido un producto químico, que no es nocivo. De lo contrario, el gas no olería. Si detecta ciertas ráfagas de olor que cree son producidas por escape de gas, investigue. Es posible que se pueda corregir fácilmente y sin peligro, por tratarse de que una llama-piloto se ha apagado, o que una válvula de algún aparato está parcialmente abierta.

Cuando suceda que a pesar de que su equipo aparentemente funciona bien, pero el olor a gas se intensifica y se percibe en todas partes, entonces siga estas precauciones:

1. No conecte ni desconecte ningún aparato eléctrico. No use el teléfono de su casa. No prenda fósforos. No haga nada que pueda producir chispas.
2. Haga que todos salgan de la casa inmediatamente, dejando las puertas abiertas para que se ventile.
3. Vaya a un teléfono cercano y llame informando a la Compañía Lone Star Gas, y espere hasta que los encargados de la Compañía investiguen las causas y determinen si se puede o no retornar a casa.

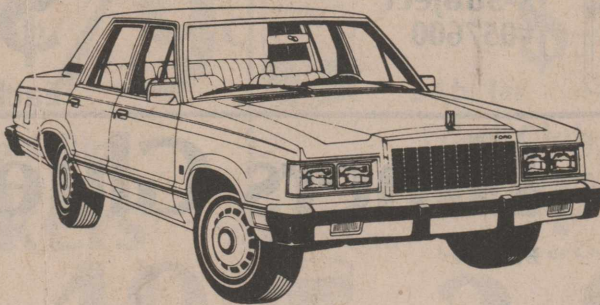

Es muy posible que Usted nunca tenga que enfrentarse con escapes de gas, pero queremos informarle por si acaso le sucede alguna vez. Asegúrese que toda su familia conozca estas normas de seguridad. Le aconsejamos también que guarde este aviso como referencia para el futuro. Gracias.
