POSSE, HELD AT BAY FOR TWO HOURS, FINALLY GET MAN

BANKRUPT GROCER WAS HOLDING WHOLESALER FOR RANSOM

ASKED FOR $1,500

FATAL SHOTS ARE FIRED THROUGH DOOR OF HOUSE

By United Press.
COALGATE, Okla., June 26.—After holding a posse of 40 armed men at bay for more than two hours tonight, Emmet Bales, former grocer at Turley, Okla., was shot and killed by members of the posse.
Early in the day, Bales kidnapped John Simpson, manager of a wholesale grocery here, and held him captive in a house on the outskirts of Coalgate.
Simpson's nine year old son, Henry, escaped during the kidnaping, which occurred on a lonely road north of here, and made his way to Coalgate where he notified authorities.
Bales did not fire a shot during the hours he held the posse at bay, according to Sheriff Fred Sherman.
When Bales appeared at the door of the house carrying a pistol in each hand to talk with the sheriff, all members of the posse lowered their guns momentarily at the request of the sheriff. When Bales went back into the house, members of the posse fired through the door, two bullets striking the fugitive killing him instantly.
Simpson said Bales demanded $1,500 and attempted to force him to write a check for that amount while holding him captive.
Bales recently failed in business and Simpson was named trustee of the failed business. Bales is said to have been bitter against Simpson since his failure, charging that Simpson owed him $1,500.

FLOOD WATER RECEDES AT LEON

By United Press.
LEON, Guanajuato, Mexico, June 26.—Receding flood waters of the Gomez river tonight revealed many bodies caught in the muddy debris flushed down into the town Sunday day when the crest of the water swept through.
So far 387 bodies have been recovered and appalling though the loss of life must be the total of dead is not expected to amount to the 1,000 mark at first expected. A week probably will be required to ascertain the number of deaths and the extent of damage as a result of one of the worst floods in the history of this region.
Prompt relief measures gradually made themselves felt. Railway communication has been restored and troops moved into the stricken area to assist those whose homes and places of work were destroyed. Money is being raised to supply food during the emergency.

Inch Rain Stops Houston Traffic

By United Press.
HOUSTON, June 26.—Lawrence H. Dainzerfeld, in charge of the weather bureau, in conversation over the telephone from his residence here tonight said while he had no information on the rainfall it was his opinion that more than an inch of rain fell within an hour.
Mr. Dainzerfeld expressed the opinion that the rain was only "local thunder showers" and not general over the state.
For a time during the rain, local taxicab concerns refused to make trips across the city except for "regular customers" so great was the precipitation. Street car traffic was tied up in many parts of the city for almost an hour.

Say Blind Man Killed Father

By United Press.
PITTSBURGH, Kans., June 26.—Blind and one-armed, Roy Atkinson, 31, was held in jail here today following the slaying of his step father, John W. Buffington, 50.
According to Atkinson's story, Buffington attacked him with a razor. Atkinson was armed with a window weight. Buffington was beaten to death in the fight which resulted, according to Atkinson, after Buffington became angry over a speech Atkinson made here last night.

EGYPT SHIMMIES

Police Get Hundreds of Bottles of Beer

SIX MEN HELD CITIZENS COME TO BUY BEER DURING RAID, SAYS MAY

Six Mexicans were last night locked in the county jail after city and county officers had raided five houses in Little Juarez here. A barrel of beer was poured out, and at least five hundred bottles of beer confiscated, Police Chief T. E. May said last night.
Chief May said he was going to charge the men with selling beer. He issued a warning that the officers were out to arrest everybody, black, white or brown, rich or poor, found selling beer.
Policemen Lemand and Hardy and Deputy Sheriffs Ford, Roberts, and Bundy, participated with Chief May in the raid.
Chief May said he had not counted the bottles of beer, but that three cars were loaded full. There might be a thousand, he said. They were locked in Sheriff Johnston's vault. Several hundred empty bottles and bottling machines were also confiscated.
During the hour in which the officers were searching the Mexican premises, at least fifty Lubbock citizens drove up to the houses, Chief May said, and some of them admitted, he said, that they had come to buy beer. A number of young women were in the cars, he said.
Chief May said that if he found any beer in any Lubbock cars, he would file charges against the owner of the car for transporting liquor.

TOTAL ENROLLMENT FOR SUMMER SCHOOL AT TECH COLLEGE IS NOW 321, INCLUDING OVER 200 TEACHERS

In making a survey of the Tech summer school and comparing it with that of other schools over the State, it is found that the Tech is making another record in the field of education. Important work in all branches of the college is being followed this summer and there are over 200 teachers alone who are working on their permanent certificate at the Tech.
In addition to this number, there are also a number of students who are doing regular work on their degrees. The total enrollment for the summer school is 321. Several students are planning to enter in the last three weeks and finish some incomplete work. Of this 321 students, there may be found residents of nearly every section of the state. Records in the registrar's office show that students in summer school live in Spearman, the extreme northern part of the state, Corpus Christi, the extreme southern part, Athens, the extreme eastern part and Midland, the extreme western part. Students are from Oklahoma, New Mexico, Oregon and other states.
There are several interesting courses offered above the regular work of the college. Miss Lelia Hammett of the Houston Public Schools is teaching a very valuable course in penmanship and public school art. She has a very interesting display in the laboratory and the teachers are instructed in all phases of primary work. This is very valuable to students who are preparing for primary and intermediate work.

OFFICERS BEAT FUGITIVE TO DRAW IN OKLAHOMA

GAINES COUNTY MAN WAS CONVICTED OF KILLING SPECIAL OFFICERS HE HAD ESCAPED WENT TO CANADA HE SAYS BUT DIDN'T LIKE IT THERE

Milt Good, Gaines County ranchman, who escaped from the Texas State Penitentiary at Huntsville with Tom Ross, his companion in the murder of Horace Allison and W. D. Robertson cattle inspectors at Seminole on April 1, 1923, is being held at Antlers, Oklahoma, according to information received here this afternoon.
Ross and Good escaped from the penitentiary on the night of November 28th by overpowering their guards and scaling the walls of the penitentiary.
Identification of Good was made by descriptions and pictures received from the Bureau of criminal identification and investigation of Oklahoma. Good had a 45 Colt's automatic which he tried to use, but Sheriff Kirkpatrick and special officer Lee Pollock quickly overpowered him. Good was under an assumed name, going by the name of Kyle which was his wife's maiden name. He has a brother about forty miles east of Antlers in the mountains, the sheriff has been shadowing him. He is thought to have been near Antlers for 2 or 3 weeks. Good says that since he escaped he has traveled through the northwest and mentions Washington and the Dominion of Canada. When asked why he came back he said that they were a different kind of people up there to what he was. He was captured at five o'clock in the morning by Sheriff Kirkpatrick and special officer Lee Pollock, and Deputy Sam Thornton while returning from a wolf hunt.
Good was serving a term of fifty years for his part in the killing of the inspectors, while Ross was serving a term of 55 years. Their escape from the penitentiary revived the high interest that prevailed in the cases during the lengthy trial in the 72nd Judicial District Court here in 1923 and at Abilene.
Ross and Good were at Seminole to appear before the District Court of Gaines county on charges of cattle theft cases when the killing occurred. According to testimony presented in the little trials of the cases here and at Abilene, they walked into the little frame building that was Seminole's only hotel and starting firing as they caught sight of Allison and Robertson, whose work as special officers for the Texas Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association, had resulted in investigations of Ross and Good on cattle theft cases.
The grand jury was in session at the time of the killing and on April 2nd, following the killing of the inspectors at 9 o'clock on the night before, indictments and lodged in jail where they were held until June 18th, 1923, when the trial of their cases opened in the District Court here before Judge Mullican. The men were indicted jointly but were tried separately, each being convicted for the murder of each of the inspectors.
Sheriff Johnston and others interested believe that the arrest of Good will lead to the arrest of Tom Ross, his companion in the killings of the inspectors, as it was reported by guards at the penitentiary that the two prisoners were unkindly one to another during their long confinement in the penitentiary.
Sheriff Johnston said last night he would probably not go to Oklahoma after the prisoners, although the sheriff at Antlers had wired that he was being held for Johnston.

DR. HORN OFF TO AUSTIN MEETING

TECH REGENTS MEET TUESDAY WITH BOARD OF CONTROL

The board of directors of the Tech will meet with the state board of control at Austin, Tuesday, June 29. Matters pertaining to the budget of the school will be the main topic under discussion and settlement. Matters of further buildings and plants for the school will also be put up before the board.

Dr. Paul W. Horn left last night for the meeting and H. T. Kimbro and R. M. Chitwood will leave today.

The board of control have taken unusual interest in the Tech and it is likely that it will receive a great deal of assistance in the next biennium. R. B. Walthall, chairman of the board and one of the members of the estimates committee was here visiting the Tech in the winter term and appeared favorably for the school in its building.

It is the hope of the officials of the Tech to start work on the completion of the quadrangle of the administration building. This will be one of the first building projects which will be placed before the board of control.

Fashion Notes

NEW YORK, June 26—"Fifty years from now the skirt, as an article of women's apparel, will have disappeared entirely," says Booth Tarkington, the novelist.

Mr. Tarkington continues to say that the short, scant skirt which is worn by women today is merely a relic, a vestige. He believes that there is no real reason why it should continue to exist, and he expects to see the time when all women will wear garments similar to those now worn by men.

Perhaps Mr. Tarkington is right although most women will be unwilling to agree with him at present. Still, 200 years ago men were the gayly dressed birds of humanity. They far outdressed women in finery. Coats, velvet, satins, laces, silk stockings and silver shoe buckles were included in their ensemble. The clothing of a man of wealth afforded yearly work for a dozen or more poor people.

The first display of women's independence came when women began to outdress their menfolk. In time women's clothes became so ornate and so costly that men ceased to compete with them.

Modesty, which consists in conformity to accepted rules, kept women on the war hunt for fine feathers, for many years. Today, however, modesty doesn't enter into the game of dressing. Women dress for comfort and convenience in defiance of former custom. Any woman who has known the comfort of outgambles knows that trousers are more comfortable than skirts since they are less hindrance to activity. Who knows but that some day in the near future we shall accept trousers as our lower covering? It is very possible.

Women will always combine vanity with comfort, however, and it is safe to say that they will never accept the shirt, stiff collar and heavy coat which men wear. As long as necks and arms are beautiful women will want to display them. Still, there are a good many smart girls in modern society who are wearing men's tuxedos for evening occasions. This, in itself, proves a basis for Mr. Tarkington's argument on women's future garb.

Sesqui's High Street Dedicated by Women

PHILADELPHIA, June 26—High Street of 1776, the picturesque thoroughfare of Revolutionary War days which now is Philadelphia's busy Market Street, has been dedicated at the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition at Philadelphia as the major contribution of the Women's Board.

Women from eighteen foreign countries, and every state in the Union, as well as scores of visiting members of the National Federation of Women's Clubs, attended the ceremonies. The key of the "Town Hall" which imposes its memory-awakening facade across one end of the street was presented to Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick of Philadelphia, by Mrs. J. Willis Martin, chairman of the board. Accepting the symbol, Mayor Kendrick voiced warm appreciation of the encouragement, advice and practical aid given by the women to the Sesqui-Centennial Exhibition Association, which he heads, and Exposition officials generally.

Tribute likewise was paid to Miss Sarah B. Lowrie, who conceived the idea of building the street, and all who supported her. The Colonial Dames of America presented a flag for the Town Hall.

Color and life was lent the occasion when three men, caparisoned as the trio in the famous picture, "The Spirit of '76", led a procession of women singers and workers garbed in Colonial quaintness to form a square back of the speaker's stand.

Dr. William Harvey of the Society of Friends, added an historic note when he uttered William Penn's prayer for the City of Philadelphia. A detachment of men of Co. K, Twelfth United States Infantry, supplied the military air.

The street comprises 22 separate structures, embodying the forgotten picturesqueness of other days, including a market house to contain thirty booths where women will sell attractive articles to visitors. Mrs. Henriques Crawford will have charge for the summer.

May Reduce Bond In Ramsey Mystery

BEEVILLE, Texas, June 26.—H. G. Leahy's bond may be reduced from $60,500 to a "reasonable amount" as a result of Judge T. M. Cox's ruling here today in his habeas corpus hearing. Judge Cox refused the plea of the district attorney that the hearing be recessed to allow time for investigation of clues that are expected to connect Leahy with the disappearance of Dr. J. A. Ramsey, Mathis, Texas, physician. Leahy is held under four charges in connection with the case, one of which is that he is a fugitive from justice. Electric curling irons made in this country are popular in the United Kingdom. ## IMPORTANT MEETING OF TEXAS HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION IS SET FOR JULY FIFTH AND SIXTH AT GALVESTON

One of the most important annual meetings in the history of the Texas Highway Association will convene in Galveston, July 5 and 6, at the Galveston Hotel.

The activities and accomplishment of the association since its organization in 1922 will be outlined by W. E. Lea of Orange, president of the association. Following this Wm. T. Wheeler of Fort Worth, Secretary-Treasurer, will make his report.

According to the large number of letters received at the association's headquarters, the meeting will be largely attended and much good is expected to result from actions taken at the convention.

The Texas Highway Association inaugurated the movement to validate outstanding district road bonds last March which has resulted in several important meetings out of which committees were formed that have conducted a state wide campaign urging the Governor to call a special session of the Legislature for the purpose of passing validating legislation. J. A. Kemp of Wichita Falls and Mayor H. C. Meacham of Fort Worth will lead the discussion on the bond muddle. Mayor H. C. Meacham, who with the two men mentioned above was a member on the validation committee of the association, will also speak on this subject and on the importance of a connected system of highway maintained by the state.

Ten years of Federal highway aid will be discussed by A. R. Lash, Fort Worth, Federal district engineer.

Among the resolutions that will be presented to the legislative committee will be one for the adoption of civil service regulation. This suggestion will come as part of the address of J. C. McVea of Houston, president of the Texas Division, American Society of Civil Engineers. Such a law is now in effect in several states, among them New York and California; and has long been in operation in the Federal government.

A. P. Duggan of Littlefield, new president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and Homer D. Wade, the new general manager, will speak in general terms on behalf of the good roads program of the association. Mr. Wade will speak also on legislative and revenue problems with reference to state highways.

R. M. Kelley, president of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, and W. N. Blanton, manager, both of Longview, will speak especially on needed highway laws and their effect on agricultural development.

What good highways mean to society in general and especially to the mothers in rural communities in sending their children to school and in lightening their burdens, will be one of the points stressed in a talk by Mrs. J. U. Fields of Haskell, president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Fields is one of the outstanding women in the Southwest and heads over 800 women clubs in Texas.

Hal Moseley chairman of the State Highway Commission, and A. C. Love, State Highway Engineer, will speak to the convention on the functioning of the department, its financial needs, and other matters of importance.

On the evening of the first day a banquet will be held, over which Robert J. Potts of Waco, will preside as toastmaster. Mr. Potts will discuss highway building and maintenance problems from several angles and will then call on others for remarks of a general nature.

The legislative committee of the association, headed by Leonard Tilton of Sealey, will present resolutions to the board of directors who meet at noon of the last day to formulate their recommendations to the convention.

W. A. Williamson of San Antonio, chairman of the Road, Bridges, and Ferries Committee of the House during the Thirty-ninth session of the Legislature will lead the discussion on resolutions.

Sugar is Extracted From Byproduct in Waste of Dextrose

WASHINGTON, June 26.—An extremely rare sugar known as "gentiobiose" has been extracted at the laboratories of the Bureau of Standards from the liquid byproduct obtained in the manufacture of crystalline corn sugar, or dextrose. It was announced on June 21, Bureau officials, however, said they consider this discovery of no great commercial significance at this time.

Heretofore, it was pointed out, this waste liquor, called "hydrol" has been the source of concern on the part of the dextrose makers because of its quantity and because of the undesirable influence it exerts upon the duration of the manufacturing process and the yield of the sugar. Many attempts have been made in the past by the bureau to break down and identify this byproduct.

The successful effort of the Bureau of Standards was accomplished by means of a chemical known as acetylation. This rare sugar was named "gentiobiose," it was explained, because, to date, gentian root was its only known source.

In a description of its discovery the bureau explains that hydrol contains approximately 6 per cent of a saccharine material. It closely resembles, in its physical and chemical properties, a saccharine product known in sugar chemistry as "isomaltose." This latter is a synthetic substance first prepared in Germany in 1889 by Emil Fischer, and was thus called by him because of its characteristic properties indicating that it possessed the same chemical composition as maltose, or malt sugar.

Since the synthetic product "isomaltose" is set forth, so close to resembles the byproduct of corn sugar manufacture, the bureau believes it is logical to assume that isomaltose also contains gentiobiose and is, therefore, a mixture and not a definite sugar.

The discovery of this rare sugar contained in the complex mass of hydrol, says the bureau is of importance and value from a scientific standpoint because it furnishes some definite knowledge of the hitherto unknown byproduct and will throw light upon certain problems concerning the process of manufacturing corn sugar.

BOLIVIAN RANCHERS SEEK AMERICAN FARM MACHINERY

As a result of the display of machinery at the Centennial exposition in Bolivia, Centennial exposition, last year, greater interest is being shown in the merican implements and 200 American plows recently were imported, states a report to the department of commerce from Consul Stewart E. McMillan at LaPaz.

It is stated that a market seems to have been created for American implements as a result of one firm's activities in importing various implements which it expects to distribute among hacienda owners.

Southern California Mission Bungalow

CHARMING DESIGN FOR EIGHT ROOMS

The original and interesting treatment of this bungalow's design makes a distinct appeal to those who are endeavoring to avoid the commonplace. Pleasing touches of Mission style in its general profiles testify to its California origin, but the house will grace any site. For the exterior wall covering, portland cement stucco was chosen because of its special adaptability to this architectural style. Applied on walls of concrete masonry, the fitted stucco harmonizes completely with the brightly colored tile roof. Such construction assures an even temperature throughout the entire interior, for the hollow concrete units provide desirable insulation. The entrance to this charming home is through a terrace into a small hallway leading to the exceptionally large living room. The right side of the home is given over to two good-sized bedrooms with bath between and a library with

GOVERNMENT ON TRIAL

One of the truest things Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, ever said was that parliamentary government is on trial today throughout the world. In every country there are movements tending to overthrow the existing representative governments and substitute dictatorships, communism, anarchism and socialism. In every part of the world these forces are working day by day and night by night to undermine confidence in the republic, in the limited monarchy, and to substitute a desire on the part of the people to try new forms of government, warranted to cure all the social and economic evils of the age. "We have got to prove our right to existence or else give way to communism and fascism," says Dr. Butler. "We all are put to it to improve our forms of government or else yield to our critics." In other words, we must be active, not passive, advocates and enthusiasts for the republican form of government as we know it today. If we are merely passive there is no wall consciously erected against the insidious propaganda of the advocates of these other governments. What Dr. Butler is of course pointing out to us is the fact that we are criminally negligent of the responsibilities which we owe our government. For instance, every time there is an election and you do not vote, you have voluntarily relinquished your only direct voice in the conduct of your public affairs. Men have fought and died for that vote. Women have worked for decades for it. Yet what a small proportion of people use it. They are disenfranchising themselves. They are saying, by what very negligence, "Well, I don't care. What does my vote matter?" What difference is there between that and having the vote taken from you by another form of government. We need not fear revolution and social unrest if we each accept our responsibility and perform our duties conscientiously.

THE GOLDEN TIDE

The most striking business fact in the country today is its vast volume of credit. That means much in cause and effect. Besides all the billions in gold piled up in American treasury and bank vaults since the year, there is a golden tide still rolling in. A financial observer says we receive a billion dollars a year from abroad to pay principal and interest on foreign loans, public and private. Along with this, there is a big excess of current income at home. Both of these great funds are calling for new employment. Money has to be put to work. Not long ago Americans were reinvesting a great deal of the national income abroad. But now with foreign affairs so uncertain and with more money than ever available for investment, cautious Americans are afraid to send it abroad. So the big growing surplus is being reinvested at home. That doubtless is one of the important factors in the new rise of American securities. It tends to lower interest rates. It makes money easier than money usually is in this favored land, and immensely easier than money is in any other land today. Hardly any legitimate enterprise need go now without necessary funds, if its case is properly presented in the right quarters. The strange thing about it all is that with this enormous volume of money and credit there is so far little inflation. Also, oddly enough, what inflation exists seems to be found mainly at the bottom of economic system rather than the top; it is the great expansion of installment buying.

For some generations there has been increasingly competent provision for the physical health of students, in spite of which many ills continue; also, in spite of every precaution taken to insure the highest mental and moral health of students, many delinquencies have prevailed. Colleges are turning to a deeper study of the individual in the hope of remedying both evils and availing themselves of the services of psychiatrists to investigate the mental and emotional disturbances to which students are subject. This is a wise step. We should take the advantage of all science has to offer and the study of the human mind becomes increasingly important.

WHAT MAKES CITIES AND COUNTIES

We have just finished reading an article by James Z. George, who is one of the members of the company of that name, who are industrial engineers. This man is a city builder, and is interested in things that build cities and communities. One would naturally expect that he would turn his mind entirely to the industrial side of the question, but here is what this man has to say in regard to the things that go to make cities and develop the country:

work as such to search out the things which underlie and which promote good and stable business. My interest is more largely with those things which make good business than with the mere fact of prosperity and production.

"After many years of this sort of study and the contacts it has made, I am more and more of the opinion that it is not the available raw materials, credits and markets which make stability, but the outlook behind it all. It is the people that make great cities, great states and great countries, and a progressive and lasting civilization—including business."

"If this be a fact, then why do not business men more generally acknowledge a deep interest in the moral and religious ideals and practices of men and women? The general impression is that business does not recognize these elements in life at all. And yet thinking business men, when questioned individually, do recognize them fully."

FRIENDLESS ROYALTY

The national referendum on confiscation of the property of the Hohenzollerns and the kingly and princely families of the various states formerly making up the German empire are safe and lucky. But anyone who wants to grasp what is going on in Germany should not let the menace to German royalty in that same referendum. The confiscation proposal failed merely because not enough people voted. A majority of registered voters was required. Less than half voted. But the actual vote was nearly 15,000,000 for confiscation to only 542,000 against. That is about 25 to one against the kings and princes, in favor of a democratic proposal so radical that with all our traditional opposition to monarchy it shocked American opinion. If that vote comes anywhere near representing public opinion in Germany it is clear that the Germans are done with kings, and all the monarchist talk and plots are as vain in Germany as in France. Moreover the vote is not necessarily final. There may be other referendums along the same line, and if those anti-monarchist leaders get out the vote royal Germans may yet lose their estates. Even so, they will be better off than royal French families when France went republican. The latter lost their heads.

THE FOOLKILLER

The foolkiller is abroad in the land. He works all year of course but the summer is really his busy season. His aim is sure and fatal. There is only one way to avoid him: Don't be a fool. To take only one instance out of a day's news, three girls and three boys set out in a little punt on the St. Mary's river the other day. One of the boys started to demonstrate how he won a charleston contest. One of the six was rescued. In the first place six people are too many for a small boat. Three are enough for the average rowboat. In the second place monkey business in small boats is one of the foolkiller's most deadly weapons. Why people should think it funny to rock small boats is one of the unsolved mysteries of human nature. It isn't funny to drown or to come close to drowning and be rescued. Nor is it really funny to endanger the lives of one's friends. It isn't really funny to venture out into water beyond one's depth when one can not swim enough to have a generous margin of safety. It isn't really funny to show how fast one can drive—and end in a hospital. It isn't funny to hug the road just to be smart—and sideswipe oneself, one's friends and the stronger on meets down the hill and into the morgue. There is something about the good old summer time which let's loose all the silly desire to show off that is latent in human nature. The foolkiller is always waiting. But he doesn't bother quiet, sensible people much. The smart Alec is his chosen game.

GERMANY PAYS

Germany made her payments during the past winter with difficulty because of unemployment and business failures—but she paid. Seymour Gilbert, the American agent general whose job it is to collect and distribute German reparation money under the Dawes plan, pays Germany a sincere compliment. During the first nine months of the second year under that plan ending June 31, reports Germany paid more than any conquered nation before ever repaid her victors, meeting all her obligations and meeting them entirely out of her own resources. It was not such a great sum judged by American standards, but it seems great for Germany, everything considered. It amounted to 821,000,000 gold marks, over $200,000,000. That sum is divided among eleven countries—Germany's war creditors—and the thing of particular interest in America is that our country gets part of it. The American portion is small, only $7,000,000. Yet it is something to cheer about when America gets anything at all out of Germany, after all the billions the kaiser and his crowd forced his country to spend in making the seas safe for Americans and world safe for—well, whatever it was that we made it safe for. Sometimes, observing all these dictatorships and censorships and one thing and another, we're not quite sure about it.

DEATH BY FIREWORKS

July the fourth, the anniversary of the American Declaration of Independence, will soon be here, making the passage of one hundred and fifty years since that historic event. This day is usually celebrated widely but unfortunately the celebration usually takes a large toll of life as a result of carelessness in the handling of fireworks.

One hundred and eleven persons were killed and 1,030 injured by fireworks as a result of the celebrations last year, according to figures of the United States public health service. Of those injured it was reported that 148 would lose their sight of one of both eyes. These casualties were reported from 36 states, leaving 12 states without any reports as to similar accidents.

The useless death of so many people is to be deplored. It is not necessary at all for the proper memorial of our national birthday.

So Think We

We think there must be a lot of inequality in this nation. It is said that if the money of the country was equally divided that every man, woman and child would have $41.84. And as about ninety per cent of the people you meet do not have more than a dime in their pocket, there must not be a very efficient distributing system in operation.

We can remember when all the work had to be done up Saturday so that there would not be much to do on Sunday, now it is different. Everything is put off until Sunday.

We think a person can travel a long way before they find anything remarkable, but at the same time are many really remarkable things about yourself that you have never even figured out. For instance it is remarkable that you do not know a great many things that you think you do.

We think there will probably be some forest fires on some of the vacant lots in Lubbock if the weeds are not chopped down. Some of them are almost as large as some trees in the forest.

We think the women of the country can make more gentlemen than any thing else in the world. They can demand certain things of men and their demands will be granted, but first the women must be ladies themselves.

We think our forefathers would blush with shame, and the old mothers would die of horror if they were to see how the present generation act and dress.

We think there should be no Sunday base ball games, and the church people could stop them if they had the nerve and backbone to do it. The trouble is too many of the church people are silent partners with the devil, and of course cannot say much about it.

We think when a fellow buys at home you pay for what you get, and not just what they send you.

We think you might begin today to make arrangements to go to Sunday school and church. You begin more than a week ahead some time to make a fishing trip and very often figure to start on Sunday morning. That is a good time to start to church, too.

We think that no man should be elected to office who is running for the express reason of representing one class of people to the detriment of the others.

We think a lot of folks are not willing for criminals to be punished for their crimes, but they are perfectly willing for criminals to be turned out on the general public to enter into other things and do more devilment. The present administration seems to have this idea of state government.

We think we would enjoy a good political speech if the speaker would not get off so to bet that before any of them gets through that they will pull some kind of old stuff, if it is nothing more than they will fill the office without fear or favor to anyone. This is possibly the oldest joke of all of them.

We think that Sunday is getting to be about as bad as the Fourth of July for accidents. Every Sunday brings a long list of casualties from the various cities and highways.

We think that Lubbock needs to clean up a lot or two. Some of them have weeds shoulder high, and as thick as hair on a dog's back.

We think that where two or at the top of the ladder, but one day they are talking politics.

We think there is always room at the top of the ladder, but one needs to be careful if they do not fall even after getting to the top.

We think Lubbock might be more sanitary. The large number of flies this year, we believe is the result of too many unclean places around the city.

It Is Reported

That a new building boom is threatening Lubbock. Several new brick business houses are to begin construction in a short time, if Madame Rumor has the correct dope.

That the paving program of this city is to be revived within a few weeks. This is a splendid idea, and we believe this is the proper spirit and a wise idea.

That Lubbock is to have a weather signal bureau soon. That's the dope. Watch for the weather flags when the new telephone building is open and in operation.

That Miss Mercury is standing high in Lubbock these days. She is extra popular with owners of cold drink stands, electric fan dealers, and with the farmers who have growing crops.

That by the aid of a new invention the telephone companies can put five or six calls over the same wire at the same time with much success. We have many times heard that many people trying to talk over the same line, but we never did think it was very successful.

That the Ferguson claim that Texas does not owe her road bonds. That may not be but we must have had some mighty bum traders down there looking after our business if we do not owe them.

WORLD TOPICS

MILLIONS IN PENNIES

Over twenty-one million pennies were coined by the mints in May, according to an announcement by the Treasury Department. The month's production also included thirty thousand double eagles, sixteen thousand sesquicentennial quarter eagles, nearly two million silver dollars, over one-half million sesquicentennial half dollars and over two million dimes. The total value of these coins amounted to over three million dollars.

THE COMMON COLD

The seven thousand hospitals and the four hundred universities in this county are to be enlisted in the effort to conquer the bacteria. The common cold is said to be the most persistent and harmful enemy of mankind, causing more deaths and greater economic waste than any other disease.

The Chemical Foundation contends that the task of conquering disease is no longer that of the physician alone, but of the chemist, the physiologist, the pharmacist and the bacteriologist as well. The common cold is a disease that challenges not only the scientist but the business man and the parent.

According to figures available, the ravages of the common cold are far beyond anything imagined by those who suffer from the disease without paying much attention to it. It compels every man, woman and child to abstain from work for several days every year—some estimates run as high as seven days. It paves the way for other diseases. It imperils and causes the postment of surgical operations.

More than half of the expenditure of the hospitals of the country goes toward combating the effects of the common cold. From 60 to 80 per cent of the physicians practice deals with ailments attributable to the same cause. The lion's share of the nation's $500,000,000 drug bill is spent for cold remedies. Of this amount three-fifths is aid for some of the 45,000 patent medicines alone, most of which are sold as cold alleviatives.

STEADY PROSPERITY

Custom receipts coming into the Treasury indicates sustained prosperity in buying power throughout the country. They show considerable importation of raw material and finished products. Hope has been expressed at the White House that the present conditions continue as it would make it easier for the Government to refinance the five billion dollars of debt which will come due within the next two years, including the Third Liberty Loan.

In spite of wartime bread cards and coal cards, restriction of the use of automobiles to reduce gasoline consumption. The value of the French franc steadily decreases. The situation now is that of a man who, having borrowed from everybody willing to extend him credit, begins to realize that he cannot live forever on loans from others.

A Little Talk on Thrift

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift

There are few persons who have not at some time shown themselves able to save money. The trouble has been that a considerable portion of these persons have been unwilling to continue these thrifty practices.

Saving must be continuous. The person who pinches and saves every penny for a short time and then gives up and quits, will never reach the goal of independence or success. It is well always to have in mind the matter of moderation. Saving a reasonable amount, regularly grows increasing stabilization and strength. There is such a thing as being carried away by enthusiasm. The miser is an example of this.

Goethe observed that, "enthusiasm is of the greatest value, when we are not carried away by it." This can be applied to saving money as well as to everything else in life.

Being thrifty does not mean that we must be an extremist in the matter of saving money or in giving up beneficial pleasures. Cultivate moderation. Do not save to the point of being a miser or to the exclusion of the various uplifting elements that have a rightful place in our lives.

On the other hand, we must use moderation in the matter of pleasure and out of our earnings make sure that we are providing for the lean days that are sure to come.

Plan your savings along sensible lines.

Adjust them to your income and to the conditions of life as they surround you.

Do not try to save too much because it is far better to put away money systematically and persistently than to save intensively for a while and then give it up.

Even in thrift there is harm in over-enthusiasm.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

CHILDREN'S PRATTLE

When 3-year-olds begin to chatter,
Words are such a simple matter.
How they tumble from the lip,
How they seem to roll and slip,
Fall and follow, helter-skelter!
Just like drops of rain which pelt
Roofs and window panes and grasses,
Out comes one, another passes,
Rushing without hesitation
In one flood of conversation.

When little three-year tongues start wagging
There is talk which knows no flagging.
No embarrassing delay,
Wondering if it's right to say.
Out the words come, rolling reeling,
All that youthful mind revealing.
No false modesty about it,
If they think it, out they shout it;
Sham or tact or careless error
Never stays those lips in terror.

Little girls and boys will never
Make an effort to be clever;
Lacking wisdom of their betters,
On their tongues they have no fetters
They will shock you and surprise you
Openly they'll criticize you,
Boldly tell the things they shouldn't,
Which their parents thought they wouldn't.

For when little tongues start running
They are free from grown-up cunning.

When three-year-olds begin to chatter
Words are such a simple matter;
Every syllable they've learned
Lingo magic speech is turned.
Though a short word or a long word
Or the right word or the wrong word,
Out it comes, let grief or laughter
Very quickly follow after.
Lips so innocent and youthful
Have not learned to be untruthful.

HUBBERS DROP SECOND GAME OF SERIES TO LAMESA, AS SKIPPER ALLEN GETS BEANED BY BALL

In a very interesting game the Hubbers dropped the second game of the three game series being played here at the Lamesa club yesterday afternoon at the Merrill Park, before a good crowd by a score of 5 to 4. The Hubbers staged a rally in the last session and scored two of the four runs for the afternoon tilt.

Unfortunately the Hubbers, for the first time in the history of the club were forced to finish the game without the fatherly advice of their Skipper, when he was hit by a fast pitched ball in the fifth frame and was knocked in a semi-conscious manner; but at a late hour last evening he was feeling good and in all probability will be on the bench for this afternoon's tilt.

The pitching of Adams was starting to get hold of his fast balls, which in the usual game is meat for the Hubbers; but Adams set them down with 8 scattered hits, getting only two until the seventh inning from him. He held the Hubbers scoreless until the eighth and ninth frames when the Hubbers counted two runs in each session.

This afternoon's game will end the series with the Lamesa nine for this time. They will return to Lubbock for the first of the July play here on the 3rd, 4th and 5th of next month.

National Open Is On Difficult Course this Year

By United Press.
COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 26.—Golfers, familiar with the course at the Scioto Country Club, where the 1926 National Open Tournament is to be held, July 8, 9 and 10, are willing to wager several notes on the first nine will go a long way towards deciding the successor to Willie McFarlane, the present title-holder.

The most difficult holes at Scioto, in the opinion of George Sargent, pro, are numbers 2, 3, 6 and 8. This quartet he says, may make or break more than one player who has hopes for the title. The first two are par 4 and the last par 5.

A hog-back fairway, one of the most exciting holes on the course, features Hole No. 2. Of a necessity, therefore, the tee shot must be absolutely firm and accurate, and must carry close to 200 yards, or the ball will bump ignominiously into severe and disappointing rough.

No. 3 likewise may be said to be a score wrecker. It consists of a putting green on the platform type. The player must approach it from the left hand side of the fairway and if he slices his tee shot west into him, for he has to approach the green at such an angle as to make it extremely hard to stay on the green.

The hole is 350 yards long. "Savage in aspect" is the way Sargent describes the tee shot from No. 6, one of the two 550-yard holes on the course. This shot calls for a 175-yard carry. The fairway dog-legs to the left, with a bend guarded by trees. A player must accomplish two fine wooden club shots to beat par 5 for this hole. Falling in this, he will again find himself in heavy rough and trees, and will have to chop his way out.

One of the best holes on the course is No. 8. Just 480 yards in length, the hole calls for a good long tee shot to get on the green in two. The green is sand-trapped on the right and left and has water hazards in front and rear.

DETROIT TAKES TWO IN DOUBLE HEADER

By United Press.
DETROIT, Mich., June 26.—Detroit made a bid for a first division position in the American league today by taking both games of a double header from Cleveland, 5 to 0, and 7 to 2.

The first game was pitched by Ed Wells, Tiger post silder who turned in his fourth shut out of the year. Gibson, who kept eleven Cleveland hits effectively scattered in the second game went the full route for the Tigers for the first time this season.

Slow Day at Wimbledon Nets

By United Press.
WIMBLEDON, England, June 26.—Amid several delays and postponements the latter brought about by the illness of Elizabeth Ryan of California and "Didi" Vlasto of France, the Wimbledon tennis champions proceeded at a dull rate today.

Suzanne Lenglen again occasioned the tournament directors some harassing moments when she arrived an hour late for a mixed double match. Jess Borotra, had passed the boiling point when Suzanne finally arrived and pleaded continued illness for her tardiness. She consented to play, however, and she and Borotra defeated Miss B. C. Brown and H. I. P. Aitken of England, 6-1, 6-0.

Miss Ryan was confined to her hotel room. Her temperature was reported above normal but hope was held out that she would be able to play Monday.

Richards and Kinsey won easily, 6-1, 6-2.

One of the few surprises of the day came when the American women doubles pair, Mrs. Molla Malory and Mrs. Marion Z. Jessup, were defeated by Miss Jean Fry and Mrs. A. W. Hazel of England, 6-3, 6-2.

Princess Mary Is Royal Race Fan
LONDON, June 26.—With the flat racing season now well under way, it is apparent that the Princess Mary will again lead the members of the royal family this year in faithful attendance upon the turf.

For the Princess, it is increasingly apparent, is the only one hundred per cent race-goer in the House of Windsor.

She has not only taken in this year the major events, like the classic Two Thousand Guineas, One Thousand Guineas, the Derby, and the Oaks, but she has frequently motored from Goldsborough Hall to minor events, obviously from sheer enjoyment of the "sport of kings."

The Prince of Wales gets a great kick out of steeplechase racing but he is said to find flat racing very flat indeed. He is seldom seen at any except the more fashionable and significant meets.

The Duke of York, with a growing family on his hands, never shows up in the big pavilion except under the firmest royal pressure or, perhaps, from a sense of public duty.

Queen Mary is frankly bored with it all; it is said that she once sat through a great race at Ascot in the tiny private drawing room behind the Royal Box and never even asked the name of the winner.

His Majesty seems to care less for Britain's favorite diversion.

MAYS HURLS REDS TO ANOTHER WIN

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 26.
Carl Mays, submarine hurler, pitched the Cincinnati Reds to a 9 to 1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates today. Lee Meadows' winning record of eight straight was broken when the visitors knocked him out of the box in the fifth inning. Songer was hit hard, but the veteran Babe Adams went in and stopped the Reds' slugfest. The score:

Harvest Wheat

In Morning, Eat It That Evening

LYONS, Kans., June 26.—Farm hands who harvested wheat on the farm of Jean L. Gray, near here, were served some of the same wheat in the form of bread at their evening meal. This is believed to be a speed record in Kansas in transferring standing wheat into bread. A combine harvester was moved into the Gray wheat field, flour baked into bread and served the same day. Test loaves were said to be perfect in every respect. Greece is pushing construction in its new railway development program.

GOOD PAINTS ARE CHEAP!

And the most expensive paints are sometimes the most costly in that durability of those same paints is not satisfactory to the buyer who has been encouraged to buy them on the argument that higher prices are coincident with the BEST. Let us prove to you that GOOD paints are CHEAP.

HOT WEATHER COMFORT

Enjoy warm weather in the shade of one of our Awnings. Equip your sun-exposed windows with them and keep the house cool and comfortable on the hottest day.

Invitingly Cool!

The atmosphere of the home may sometimes be cool without the aid of an electric fan but you cannot deny the fact that they are needed in weather like this. We maintain that no greater nor more satisfactory necessity can be afforded the home than ARTIFICIAL BREEZES from one of our FANS!

Before You Tell The Home Folks Farewell Be Sure of Your Equipment

To insure a cool night's rest, why not prevent the scorching rays of old Sol from shining into your bed-room during the afternoon with an Awning that is both useful and attractive.

YOU CAN MAKE MONEY IN THE VARIETY STORE BUSINESS

The Variety Store business is growing each year. Many successful independent variety store merchants are making money. If you wish to forge ahead and become a successful store owner why not consider this fascinating and profit-paying business. We know of many locations in Texas and Southern Oklahoma that represent splendid openings for independent variety stores. We were the originators of the Variety Store business and have been the recognized leaders in the Variety field ever since. We can tell you every detail of variety store opening and operation. We can instruct you in each succeeding step. Finding the town, the location in the town, remodeling the store building, installing standard fixtures, selection of stock, opening the store, stock control and store management, and so on until the entire subject is covered. If you have the initiative, a will to work, and have from $1500.00 to $6,000.00 to invest, you can own and operate a business that offers the maximum safety for your investment and one that ought to insure you a satisfactory return. TELLS OF ALLEGED EXPENDITURE OF THREE MILLION DOLLARS IN ILLINOIS SENATORIAL PRIMARY

By PAUL R. MALLON United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, June 26—A tale of $3,000,000 allegedly spent in the Illinois senatorial primary tonight climaxed a hectic day of developments in the senate's rapidly extending inquiry into campaign expenditures.

Senator Thaddeus Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, charged in a speech on the floor of the senate that Senator Klarn Klarn spent $1,000,000 and Frankator William B. McKinley, the victor, $2,000,000 in the Illinois senatorial race.

Caraway charged that Smith had used his position as chairman of the state public utilities commission to obtain contributions from public utilities; that Samuel Insull, electrical magnate, contributed a half million dollars; that foreign language newspapers were persuaded to back Smith because $100,000 was given them in advertising; that a $20,000,000 public utility property deal engineered by E. H. Rollins and Sons, bankers, netted the Smith campaign fund $100,000.

Other developments of the day included: Submission to the committee account books for the New York, New Jersey and Ohio state anti-saloon league organization showing $1,927,060 was spent in New York, $882,397 in Ohio and $407,874 in New Jersey since 1920.

Decision of the senate rules committee to appoint next week a subcommittee to rush through the La Follette resolution limiting senatorial candidates in the future to spending only three cents for each vote and in no case more than $25,000.

Announcement by Chairman Reed that William H. Stayton, head of the Association against the Prohibition Amendment, would be called to produce records of receipts and expenditures of his organization.

A statement by Senator King, Democrat, Utah, member of the investigating committee, said he would move subpoena officials of the Klarn Klarn if reports now in the hands of the committee as to political activities of the Klarn are verified.

No testimony was taken by the committee today because Wayne B. Wheeler, agent of the anti-saloon league, called as witness, did not have the necessary books of his organization ready. Woodruff and

Candidates Ask Recount in Chicago

By United Press. CHICAGO, June 26.—Candidates supported by United States Senator Deneen who were defeated in the April primaries today demanded a thorough investigation and in one case the throwing out of all ballots cast in one precinct.

"Brazen vote fraud" are charged by the candidates who made their demands in a petition to County Judge Jarecki. Amazing differences in the votes gained have already been revealed by the recount now in progress.

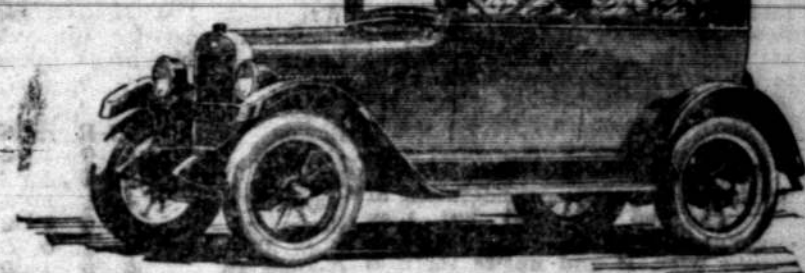

Should the ballots be thrown out in the precinct named by Deneen party, it is estimated the candidates sponsored by state's attorney Crowe and former Mayor William Hale Thompson, will suffer losses averaging about 700 votes each.

DECLARE WAR ON COOLIDGE PLAN

PRESIDENT FARM RELIEF MEASURE DUE FOR DESTRUCTION

WASHINGTON, June 26.—With the Haugen bill defeated, the senate farm bloc tonight laid plans to kill President Coolidge's farm relief proposal in the senate next week and to adjourn as possible without passing any farm legislation except the unopposed co-operative marketing bill.

The farm bloc capitulated to the president to permit consideration of the plan he endorsed but they simultaneously planned a vigorous attack upon it and unless there is something akin to an upheaval in the senate the measure will be overwhelming defeated.

The Dawes-Watson-McNary group gave in to prevent an open break with the white house in the subtle rebellion conducted against the administration farm relief program.

Senator James Watson, republican, Indiana, briefly announced to his motion of Friday to quit all farm the senate that he would withdraw debate for this session because the president had issued a statement urging the senate to act on the Fess amendment to the pending co-operative marketing bill.

"I did not know at the time I made the motion that the president favored the Fess amendment," Watson said. "Although I am opposed to that amendment I have no objection to its being brought to a vote."

Mr. Coolidge had informed house leaders a month ago that he favored the Tincher bill, virtually identical with the Fess amendment. It would appropriate $100,000,000 for loans to co-operative marketing association, through a federal loan board of seven members appointed by the president.

The farm bloc has opposed the bill on the ground that it would offer no worth while aid to the farmer.

The senate is to take up the Fess amendment Monday and several day's debate is expected to be required before a final vote, thus delaying adjournment of congress, probably until mid July.

A statement issued by the People's Reconstruction league tonight urged support of the Collier house bill materially to reduce duties on cotton manufacturers.

"It is significant evidence of the sincerity of leading democrats who have asserted that tariff reduction is essential to the secure prosperity for the farmers," the statement said.

In the house, Representative Tincher, republican, Kansas, made a wonderful plea for the president's plan, asserting that the executive was entitled to a chance to administer such a law.

PHILLIES WIN FROM BRAVES

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 26.—The Phillies ended a brief but profitable stay at home today when they grabbed a twin bill from the Braves and moved past the Bancroft tribe into seventh place in the National league race. Philadelphia took the first game by a score of 5 to 4, by a rally in the eighth inning when they scored four runs and then won the final game, 7 to 5, again from behind to win. Home runs by Wrightston and Mokane played a prominent part in the victories, were ten doubles in the opener. The scores:

France Delays In Debt Funding

BY A. L. BRADFORD

United Press Staff Correspondent PARIS, June 26.—France is reported to have moved today for delay in making the Berenger-Mellon debt funding agreement operative.

It is understood that the French charge d'affaires in Washington was instructed to inform the United States government that Premier Briand and Joseph Caillaux are not opposed in principle to ratification of the funding agreement but that it is desired, to give parliament time in which to study the agreement.

Senator Henri Berenger, the French Ambassador and Andrew W. Mellon, the secretary of the treasury agreed on a funding scheme for the $4,200,000,000 debt after other negotiators, notably Caillaux himself, had failed.

The request for delay is interpreted as a preface to a possible protest in parliament against unconditional ratification which in turn might result in an attempt to modify some articles of the agreement.

Caillaux is influenced by two major factors in his attitude toward the Berenger government. First he recognizes the necessity of settling the question of foreign debts. This is a prerequisite to any permanent solution of the domestic financial problem.

The other factor relates to the agreement itself. Caillaux would have signed a funding agreement in Washington last autumn if the American commission had accepted his safeguard clause. This clause stipulated that in the event the French capacity to pay changed in the future the funding terms automatically would become subject to revision.

When he framed this safeguard clause, Caillaux had in mind the possibility that German reparations payment might not continue. Germany might default intentionally or the Dawes plan might fail for reasons not now apparent. The Americans would not accept the safeguard clause and Caillaux went home.

Berenger's agreement contains no safeguard clause. While Caillaux seeks delay in meeting the foreign debt problem, he is moving quietly to effectuate his plan for domestic financial rehabilitation.

RUSSELL SCOTT FOUND SANE

SLAYER OF DRUGGIST, OFTEN REPRIEVED, MUST DIE, IS VERDICT

By United Press CHICAGO, June 26.—Russell Scott former Canadian millionaire, must pay the death penalty for murdering Joseph Maurer, during a drug store hold up, a jury testing his sanity ruled late this afternoon.

The jury was out two hours. The verdict came as the culmination of more than two years of legal wrangling in which Scott has employed every available method of escaping the noose.

He was sentenced to die approximately eighteen months ago but three times was saved from the gallows by either executive or court rulings.

The last time Scott escaped the noose by less than an hour when a judge issued a writ which enabled the young slayer to obtain a sanity hearing.

At this hearing Scott was found to be insane and sentenced to serve the rest of his life in the hospital for the criminal insane at Chester, Illinois, provided he never regained his sanity.

A few months ago, a commission appointed by the state examined Scott and reported him to be sane. Then he was brought back here and Williams Scott Stewart, his attorney, demanded another insanity hearing.

During the present hearing numerous witnesses have testified both for the state and defense. Most of those who know Scott at Chester, adjudged his sane in their testimony to the jury.

This verdict this afternoon means that Scott is to die under the old sentence and that he will obtain no new trial. The formal proceedings for Judge Kavanaugh before whom today's proceedings were held, will be to set a date for sentence.

Under the law when Scott was sent to Chester, he did not escape sentence. It merely was a legal point which postponed an insane man that allowed him to go to the hospital.

Immediately after the verdict was brought in tonight, Attorney Stewart filed motion for a new hearing and Judge Kavanaugh said that he will hear the motion next Saturday.

The verdict means that Scott, once more, will go back to the Cook county jail to await execution.

In a cell not far away is his brother, Herbert, awaiting trial for the same murder. Robert was brought back here a few months ago and since has been convicted on a robbery charge.

He was found in San Quentin penitentiary. Russell has contended all along that it was Robert who fired the shot which killed Maurer.

Connie Mack Is Still Confident

By BERT M. DEMBY

(United Press Staff Correspondent) CHICAGO, June 26.—Whatever anyone else may have to say about those Philadelphia Athletics, there's one man who isn't going to say anything until they either have the pennant clinched or are definitely out of it.

That man is Connie Mack, the one who, if anyone does, really has the right to say something. Mack has a stereotyped statement, that doesn't mean a thing that he gives in answer to all queries as to where the Macks will finish.

It is this: "They will win the pennant if they win more games and lose less than any other team in the league."

Connie, having profited somewhat by his sixty odd years of lifetime experience is making no predictions as to what will happen to the 1926 edition of the "used to be" White Elephants.

Perhaps Connie is remembering that awful tumble last year his team took when everything seemed to indicate the Athletics would win.

Maybe Mack remembers alone about last August 15 when his team was in first place, two games ahead of the Washington Senators. At the time the Philadelphia were going smoothly and Washington didn't seem to be doing anything in particular that would rate them higher than the Athletics.

Then the real truth of the race came out. The eastern teams came west, Washington played real baseball and Philadelphia played something else.

When September 7 rolled around—just three weeks from the day that they had been in first place by two games—the Macks were trailing the Senators by nine full games.

Baseball never before had witnessed such a reversal of form. "It isn't quite conceivable that the Athletics would do such a thing this year. At the time it happened last year, most everyone was wont to lay it to the fact that the Macks were a young team that had cracked."

This year they have an additional year of "big time" experience and there seems to be one thing that the team has acquired. That is the nerve to stand up and fight against odds.

VALUATION REPORTS ARE MADE ON THREE RAILROAD BY I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Final valuation reports were issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission on June 21 finding the final value for rate-making purposes of the carrier property owned and used by the Maxton, Alma & Southbound Railroad to be $132,435 as of 1918 and that of the Brownston & Middletown Railroad to be $70,378 as of 1917.

The commission also issued a tentative report placing the final value for rate-making purposes of the Houston East & West Texas Railway at $4,352,000 as of 1918.

Home Dressmaking

By JEANNE BOLAND (Copyright 1924 by Pen-Art Service, Inc.)

Pajamas Are Smartly Designed

As Paris Designs Them

In the newest of Paris these pajamas employ embroidery and bands of plain ribbon for their decoration. Figured cotton crepe forms the background.

The small girl will enjoy her bedtime story more if she is attired in these dainty pajamas, and the larger sister will be fully conscious of the smart effect of her sleeping garment. The pajamas call for 2 1/2 yards of cotton crepe 36 inches wide and 3/4 yard of ribbon. Be sure to select linear ribbon that is guaranteed to launder.

The lower edge of the jacket, which is a slip-over model, the sleeves and the lower edges of the trousers are trimmed with the ribbon, which is put on with blanket stitch embroidery. The upper edge of trousers may either be hemmed or turned under and a facing added, through which an elastic band may be slipped, as shown in Fig. I.

To make the blanket stitch, featured in Fig. II, begin at the left-hand side of the work, a little distance up from the edge, holding the thread down with the left thumb, in the form of a loop. Draw the needle through under the edge of the material and through the loop, and again hold the thread down with the thumb.

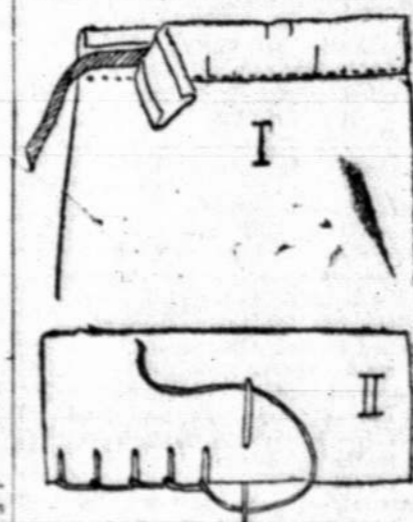

Fig. I.—Casing for top of trousers. Fig. II.—Blanket stitch.

Place the needle a little distance from the first stitch and again bring it down through the loop. Continue with these stitches until the work is finished. The front of the jacket is slanted and bound with the plain material. The jacket is held in at the waistline with a narrow ribbon each which calls for another 2 1/2 yards of ribbon or mercerized lace.

These pajamas No. 1927, cut in sizes 6 to 12 years will mail, postpaid, upon receipt of 15 cents. Be sure to give our number and size of pajamas desired when ordering. Write name and address plainly. Send orders to Pattern Editor, this newspaper.

MARY HELM AUXILIARY MEETS MONDAY AFTERNOON

The Mary Helm Auxiliary of the Methodist Church will meet at four o'clock at the Methodist Church. A business and social meeting will be held and a program given.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Ouida Buzbee, of Slaton, who was visiting Mrs. Lyda Griffith returned to her home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Logan, Misses Cornelia Estiff and Ruth Henry returned Friday from Pampa, where they visited a few days. Miss Henry will visit in the home of her sister, Mrs. Howard Logan, for a few days.

Miss Irene McCrery will leave today for her home in Dallas. She has been visiting here sister, Miss Jennie McCrery, of the Tech, for the past two weeks.

Mrs. John Spikes and little daughter, are leaving today for Goodnight, where they will visit friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Walker, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Whitlow, returned Saturday to their home in Arlington.

Miss Laura Street will return tonight from Marshall where she has been visiting for several weeks. She will be accompanied by Miss Juanita Sawyer, of Lone Oak, who will be her guest.

Miss Irma Dalrymple returned to her home here after visiting various cities in South Texas since she left St. Mary's College, Dallas, at the close of the spring term.

Mrs. John A. Porter is expected to return to her home in a few days after visiting Mrs. Lon L. Smith, in Brownwood. Mrs. Smith visited Mrs. Porter here about ten days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Rix left Friday for an extended trip to New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Montreal, and Quebec.

Mrs. Roscoe Wilson, Mrs. Flint McGregor, and Miss Della McGregor arrived in Lubbock Saturday from Grand Canyon where they spent the past ten days.

Rev. J. T. Upchurch of Arlington left Lubbock Friday for Sweetwater, where he and his band appeared Saturday evening.

Miss Frances Hoyt Ford, county librarian for Lubbock county, is very enthusiastic about her work, and finds things for the library progressing nicely. An average of 200 new books per month are being added to the libraries of the county, and 3242 books were read in the county in May, 2895 of these being read in the city of Lubbock. The number of books read in the county in April was 1997, showing a gain of 1245 books for the month.

At the present time there are four libraries in the county, Lubbock, Slaton, Shallowater and Idolon. Miss Ford states that in the fall, stations for books will be established in some of the schools of the county so that more people may be reached during the long winter months.

Four new non-fiction books have been added to the library, in addition to the numerous books of fiction. One is "These Twelve," a study of the temperament and the lives of nine of the disciples of Christ, by Charles R. Brown, dean of the divinity school of Yale University, and Barnabas, Paul and Jesus. The Century Company has this to say of the book:

The aim of this study in temperament is to show that in the Kingdom of God there is room for "all sorts and conditions of men." Nine of his twelve types are taken from the ranks of the original Apostles. For the other three Apostles, about whom so little is known, Barnabas, Paul and Jesus are substituted.

You cannot read this book without being impressed with the spirit of patient sympathy and tolerance with which Dean Brown looks upon the weaknesses of men and the patient understanding with which he seeks out their virtues.

"Yes, Lady Sahib," is another of the books of non-fiction. This is written by Grace Thompson Seton, and is a description of India, its people and customs.

Mrs. Slaton gives far beyond a mere description of what she saw. She has revealed the full charm and thrill of the country; the inner meaning and probable outcome of various movements and of the religious stirrings among the Mohammedans and Hindus. Immensely interesting, uncertain, powerful, the whole country comes to life for the reader.

The third of the number is "Edge of the Jungle," by William Beebe, who is the director of the Tropical Research Station of the New York Zoological Society. This is another book added to an already famous books on like subjects by the same author.

The last book of the four under discussion is Bob Benchley's "Love Conquers All," one of the best comedies he has ever written, and Stephen Leacock says, "His work seems to me to represent the most typical and the best American Humor."

Misses Wilbanks Are Honored With Party

Misses Jewel Branch and Kathrine Wilbanks entertained Thursday evening with a surprise party for Miss Dorothy and Nellie Mae Wilbanks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Branch 1903 5th Street. Mrs. W. O. Stevens Lubbock county chairman of the women's "Moody for Governor" organization, stated Saturday that she had met with great enthusiasm in her work over the county in Moody's behalf. "I am receiving wonderful co-operation and I am sure we shall be successful," Mrs. Stevens said. "I want to urge the women to get busy in behalf of Moody in order that Texas may have a clean government the next administration. All women should line up in this time of crisis in the politics of our state and make this last month before the primaries count."

Mrs. Stevens has visited several towns and communities in the county and three chairmen have definitely promised to work. These are Mrs. K. L. Riggs, Lubbock; Mrs. Hershall Beatty, Monro; and Mrs. Mary Erwin, Slaton. Dan Moody literature posters and car stickers are being distributed in these communities and Mrs. Stevens hoped to cover the entire county in the next ten days.

First Methodist Church

Broadway and Avenue M—E. E. White, Pastor

There is no more interesting character in the New Testament than the Apostle Peter. The reason is that he was a man, and yet bore such marks of possible strength that the Master liked to keep him near by in the most trying hours of his life. Tonight and next Sunday night the sermon subjects will deal with this fisherman of Galilee. "Steps Which Lead to Peter's Fall," will be the subject for tonight. You will need this message and insight into the life of this man. It should give you added strength for the journey of life.

"Life's Clear Call," is to be the subject at the morning hour. There is always a voice which speaks true upon every subject and at every crisis in life. There are times though when it is difficult for us to hear that voice. That may be true of you at this hour, and yet it is very important. Just now, that you hear that voice. A cordial welcome awaits you at the First Methodist Church today.

Sunday School at 9:30 each Sunday morning. Epworth League in the evening before regular preaching service.

Christian Science Society

The regular Sunday service is held at 11:00 A. M. and the Wednesday evening service at 8:00 P. M.; Sunday school at 9:45 A. M. for pupils under the age of twenty.

The subject of the lesson for today is "Christian Science" and the Golden Text is from Galatians 1:11. "I certify you, brethren, that the gospel which was preached of me is not after man. For I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it, but by the revelation of Jesus Christ."

A Reading Room is maintained at 1517 Seventeenth Street and is open on Tuesdays and Fridays from 2 P. M. to 4 P. M. where all authorized Christian Science literature may be read free, purchased or borrowed.

The public is cordially invited to the services and to enjoy the reading room.

First Presbyterian Church

Corner 14th and Avenue N—Jack M. Lewis, Pastor

Important services have been planned for this church for Sunday. We would be very glad indeed to have the visitors in our city attend any of these services.

Sunday School at 9:45 at which time interesting studies for all ages will be entered into. This hour will prove a blessing to all who attend.

The morning service will begin at 11:00 promptly. The pastor will continue the thought of the sermon of last Sunday using as his subject "Why Keep the Lord's Day Holy?"

In these sermons we are facing conditions just as they exist and attempting to bring wholesome criticism and helpful suggestions. During this service a quartette composed of Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Blocker, Lewis and Messrs. Blocker and Woods will sing "Sweet Is Thy Mercy."

Evening service begins at 8:30. Dean J. M. Gordon will have charge of the song and prayer service preceding the sermon.

Inspirational singing of the great old songs will be enjoyed by all. The pastor will bring a brief message on the subject "Opposite Types." In this sermon there will be portrayed two types of characters diametrically opposed to each other. No doubt there will be some of both types in the congregation.

The boys and girls and young people are urged to attend the meetings of their respective Christian Endeavor Societies. The Juniors meet at 2:30 and the Seniors at 7:30.

PRESBYTERIAN AUXILIARY MEETS IN CIRCLES MONDAY

The Woman's Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian Church will meet in circles Monday afternoon all meeting at the hour of four. The places are as follows:

Circle 1, Mrs. H. A. Davidson, 2011 10th St.

Circle 2, Mrs. H. E. Miller, 1616 16th St.

Circle 3, Mrs. R. E. Overstreet, 2104 16th St.

Circle 4, Mrs. Rab Kimmel, 1511 10th St.

First Christian Church

Every one who can should go to church here are at least three reasons why you should go to church. Every person ought to go to church to get away from himself. Every one ought to go to church to get closer to folks. Every one ought to go to church to learn of God. Public worship humanizes us. It mellows us. It quickens the brain, it sweetens the heart, it lightens the load, it smooths the way. It brightens the sky. You will find a welcome at the churches today. Our Bible school begins at 9:45 A. M. At the 11 o'clock hour the pastor will have for his sermon the text "What Humanity Needs." The three Endeavor Societies will meet at 7:30 P. M. At 8:30

South Side Missionary Baptist Church

D. W. SIMPSON, Pastor

The revival is still growing in interest. Everyone enjoyed the sermon Thursday night on the subject: "Who is on the Lord's Side?" All present were greatly stirred. The text for Sunday morning will be, "What will it profit a man if he gains the whole world and loses his soul." Matt. 16:26.

The text for Sunday evening will be, "Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord; though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be like wool." Isa. 1:18.

Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m. B. Y. P. U. 7:45 p. m. Preaching after B. Y. P. U. Come and bring your friends.

Cumberland Presbyterian Church

SOCIAL HAPPENINGS AT BROWNFIELD

MRS. HENRY ALEXANDER ENTERTAINS WITH LOVELY PARTY WEDNESDAY AT 9:00 A. M.

One of the most enjoyable and attractive parties of the summer season was that of Wednesday morning, at 9:00 o'clock, when Mrs. Henry Alexander entertained with four tables of "Forty-two."

The hostess's plans were charmingly carried out, with the natural result—"a lovely party."

The guests were: Mrs. A. A. Sawyer, Mrs. Brothers, Mrs. W. H. Dallas, Mrs. R. M. Kendrick, Mrs. Arnett Bynum, Mrs. W. B. Downing, Mrs. George Bragg, Mrs. John L. Randall, Mrs. A. M. McBurnett, Mrs. Glenn Harris, Mrs. H. E. Winston, Mrs. J. E. Michie, Mrs. W. R. McDuffie, Mrs. Baldwin, Mrs. E. McElington.

A delicious plate of congealed fruit and nuts on lettuce leaves, olives, sandwiches, iced tea, served with a tiny basket of mints, in a beautiful yellow as plate favors. Mrs. Alexander was assisted in the service by Mrs. McDuffie.

The high cut prize, a colonial lady, costumed in pink taffeta and lace, a boudoir accessory, was drawn by Mrs. Glenn Harris. The pretty door-stop, in delft blue, went to Mrs. Monte Winston, for low.

MRS. COLLIER HOSTESS AT A PRETTY SOCIAL EVENT HONORING LITTLE DAUGHTER

Mrs. Roy Collier entertained a number of little girls, in honor of little Miss Laverne Collier's fourth birthday, on June 16th. The tiny tots engaged heartily in various kinds of games; each guest doing her part in celebration of this wonderful event in the life of the little daughter.

The daintily stirred afternoon guests were served appropriate refreshments and enjoyed them, the goodies included angel food cake and iced drinks. About thirty little friends responded to the invitation.

MRS. McDONALD IS ENTERTAINING OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS THIS WEEK

Mrs. and Mrs. S. L. McDonald are having for their guests this week Mrs. George McDonald and little daughter, Geraldine of Lamesa.

MRS. GEORGE SCHULTZ OF ABILENE HAS BROWNFIELD VISITOR

Miss Danna Welch has been the guest in the home of her sister, Mrs. George Schultz in Abilene, Texas, for several weeks and will probably remain for the next ten days. Mrs. Schultz was until her recent marriage, Miss Lerah Welch of Brownfield.

BROWNFIELD VISITORS IN VERNON, TEXAS

Mrs. and Mrs. Roy Collier with their little daughter, Laverne, and son, are guests of relatives in Vernon, Texas. The Colliers will be away for two weeks or more.

SIMON HOLGATE AND FAMILY ARE DUE IN BROWNFIELD

Mrs. and Mrs. S. H. Holgate with their daughters, Misses Voucile and

Church of Nazarene

Services at the church of the Nazarene over Sunday, June 27, will be at the usual hours, Sunday School at 9:45 and Preaching at 11 a. m. and Junior Society at 5:30 and Young Peoples Society at 7 p. m. and preaching about 8:30. You are invited to come and worship with us in all of these services.

There seems to be a spirit of indifference on the part of some about stirring out these warm days, but we have been going over the one hundred mark, and let each of us try to get some one else to come, and let us make it run to one hundred and fifty by the time for our revival meeting.

Rev. W. E. Ellis if Dodsonville will hold our revival for us the first two Sundays in August, and we want to begin now to pray and work for a great revival indeed, the Lord is depending upon us to help bring it to pass, and let each of us be true to our calling.

We are very much in hopes that we can get some of our much needed improvement done on our organ before the meeting, that we might be able to accommodate a good choir, and go in for some good singing, and we are earnestly praying that we may make some progress along several lines before this assembly year closes, we believe one of the best ways to dry up, and become useless, and helpless, and die, is to sit down and do nothing. God does not want His people to be slothful in business, but hot in spirit serving the Lord, and any thing that gets very hot either moves or gets up steam enough to move something else, so let each of us try to get our working spirits up to fervent heat in the service of the Lord.

Come, and worship with us, and get blessed and be a blessing to some one else.

S. L. WOOD, Pastor.

Kathrine, and son, Barney, are due to arrive home from a fishing and camping trip in South Texas.

White away the family will visit a while in Weslaco, Texas, with a sister, Mrs. Chappell, whose former home was in Dublin.

BAPTIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY HAS ENTERTAINING PROGRAM

In response to extremely clever invitations issued by the Baptist Women's Missionary Society "Circle C," many of the Brownfield church ladies of the different churches assembled in the auditorium of the First Baptist church at four-thirty hursday afternoon. Guests were welcomed by a short address by Mrs. W. F. Markham, chairman of the First Baptist church at four-program, tiny aprons, contain pockets, were sent to the guests with a cupping verse; pennies were placed in the pockets, representing waist measure. A nice contribution was placed in the baskets when pockets were emptied and aprons returned.

The program follows: Song: "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." Prayer—Mrs. G. S. Webber. Reading—Hall Wilson. Solo—Orlean Adams.

Reading: "It wasn't me that fell!"—Wilma Frank Dunn.

Vocal Solo—Mrs. J. L. Cruce, accompanied by Miss Lois Adams.

Reading—Shirley Bond.

"Saved by Grace"—Mrs. W. W. Price, alto, and Mrs. J. L. Cruce, soprano.

Song (in unison): "Baby's Prayer"—Ruth and Theo Adams; Miss Lois Adams accompanied.

Benediction—Mrs. Price.

Guests were served lovely angel food cake in pink and white, with brick cream in same colors. About seventy-five church workers attended and enjoyed this contact of a social nature, which always proves beneficial. For we grow broader more generous and more charitable, when working together for the same cause. This charming service rendered by Circle C, of the B. W. M. S. will long be remembered by those attending.

MISS NORMA MATHIS OF LUBBOCK GUEST OF RELATIVES

Miss Norma Mathis of Lubbock returned to her home Thursday afternoon after having been the guest

MRS. BELL AND MRS. SHELTON ENTERTAIN FOR MRS. SMITH

Mrs. W. A. Bell's beautiful home was never prettier nor more inviting than it was Thursday afternoon when Mrs. J. E. Shelton and the hostess entertained for Mrs. Victor Smith of Henderson, Texas. A usual round of plans had its part in this lovely party, for perfect harmony reigned. The guests who played bridge were Mesdames E. G. Alexander, Henry Alexander, Victor Smith, R. L. Bowers, Morgan Copeland, A. K. Brownfield, A. Brownfield, Albert Anderson, C. G. McGowan, McBurnett, McKinney, McDuffie, Miller, Fred Smith, King, Wingred, Misses McDonald, Margaret Bell, Mary Ann Bell, High score was given Mrs. Henry Alexander, Low score Mrs. James D. Miller, Guest prize, a lovely cut glass bowl, Mrs. Victor Smith. Delicious sherbet and Angel food was served.

MRS. ENDERSON COMPLIMENTS OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

A Sunday dinner was greatly enjoyed at the Enderson home, June 26th, when Mrs. Enderson entertained a group of out-of-town guests in compliment to her guest, Miss Marie Rutherford of Crosbyton, and Randolph Rutherford. Other out-of-town guests at dinner were, Miss Mae Snodgrass and brother Arthur of Snyder, Texas.

MISS HAMILTON RETURNS FROM VACATION

Miss Ame Hamilton, of the Jones Dry Goods Company, came home recently from a much needed rest and recreation trip. She was in Amarillo, Cisco and Breckenridge.

VERNAL BROTHERS CELEBRATE SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

Vernal Pat Brothers was a happy host on Monday afternoon, June 21, morning regarding becomingness and appropriateness in women's apparel and millinery. She gave advice and repleted to queries concerning canning vegetables. Our ladies should avail themselves of every opportunity possible in having efficient demonstrators.

MRS. VICTOR SMITH OF HENDERSON, TEXAS, HONORED AT BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. Henry Alexander, one of our most delightful entertainers among our young matrons, entertained with a charming bridge party, Tuesday afternoon in compliment to Mrs. Victor Smith, of Henderson, Texas, a house guest of her sister, Mrs. Earl G. Alexander. Mrs. Smith is remembered by many as Miss Lucille Lang-when he assisted his mother and sister in his seventh birthday party. The little invited guests were equally as delighted at Vernal; and arrived exactly on time for a two hours frolic. Many little gifts were heartily given, for this little boy is a general favorite among his playmates.

The refreshments consisted of the things so dear to a boy's heart, including, cake, crackerjack, lemonade and all day suckers.

Under The Capitol Dome

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 27.—

Two months ago the Democrats were crying for issues for the congressional campaign.

Scantling no break in administration policies which would afford a hearty campaign, they even trotted out old tariff issue with the purpose of linking it up with agricultural relief to stir up a furor. It did not have immediately the desired effect.

But their issue came where they least expected it—in a Republican senatorial campaign in Pennsylvania.

After Senator Truman H. Newberry of Michigan had been ousted by the Republican party in 1922 even though he had spent $195,000 in a primary campaign, the Democrats seized upon that as one of their big issues.

They chided the Republican party for adopting a senatorial resolution which said $195,000 was too much to be spent in a primary campaign and in the same resolution awarding Newberry a seat.

They rejoiced even as late as a month ago in publishing the list of the Republicans who had voted to seat Newberry and in pointing out how few were left in the senate.

Then came the Pennsylvania primary with confessed expenditures which show Newberry spent only a fraction of what was spent by Geo. Wharton Pepper, defeated administration candidate in the Republican senatorial race.

Even Gifford Pinchot, who ran third in the senatorial contest, admitted on the witness stand that he believed all his organizations spent within a few thousand dollars of what Newberry spent.

The Democrats blamed for that evidence and their leaders now say it will be one of their points in the clash with Republicans at the polls in November—and in much the same manner in which the Teapot Dome scandals investigation was used in 1924.

It was peculiar how they came upon the issue.

Senator Jim Reed, Democrat, Missouri, who has been against Democratic policies at least as often as he has been for them, heard reports of large expenditures in Pennsylvania and Illinois in the Republican primary contests which were hotly contested in both states.

Prohibition was the big issue in Pennsylvania. Two of the Republican candidates were said to have had the support of the Anti-Saloon league. One of these candidates was known to have spent the most money.

Reed is a wet and energetic opponent of the Anti-Saloon League. Here he is credited with thinking, was a good chance to investigate the Anti-Saloon League.

The world court was the big issue in Illinois. Reed has been trying to find out for years where propaganda for the world court emanated. He believed vast sums were being spent in the propaganda. Here was a good chance to see who spent the money and how much for the world court candidate.

So even though the Democratic party was for the court and nationally refusing to tamper with prohibition, Reed succeeded in getting through the senate his resolution for a primary expenditures inquiry by a senate committee.

And to what he got was an issue for the Democratic party.

"If you can't beat a man get him on your side—that's the best rule of politics I know."

A mid-western leader in the Republican party gave that statement several years ago as the reason he had welcomed one of his younger opponents of his own party to his own organization.

And that's why politicians here generally are for the first time in some days congratulating Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Chairman Butler of the Republican national committee for apparently declaring peace respectively with William S. Vare of Pennsylvania and Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa.

Vare won over Mellon's opposition in the Pennsylvania primary and his victory was considered something of a jolt for the administration.

Brookhart was ousted from the party because he refused to go along with the organization upon many matters and the ousting was done chiefly by Butler. More recently Butler was instrumental in having the open belt insurance voted out of his seat in the United States senate. Then Brookhart went to Iowa and defeated the administration Senator Cummins for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Now Mellon has declared peace, Vare and together they have organized a joint control of the Republican party in Pennsylvania.

Indications likewise are that Butler has ended his war on Brookhart, that the insurgents may have at least his tacit support in the November election (something he has never had before) and that if elected he will be seated in the senate again as a Republican, with all privileges of the party—just as if nothing had happened.

A leader of the Democratic party after the Madison Square Garden convention expressed the wisdom of following the course of welcoming your enemies to your own ranks if they can beat you.

"The Democratic party is recent years has never been able to bury its own differences to work for the party as a whole," this man said.

"This fight we have had in Madison Square Garden over the Klan issue will be heard from for years after the Republican party has forgotten it."

"The Republican party has its own battles but when they are through getting each other, they join wholeheartedly to fight us."

"That is a lesson the Democratic party must learn."

LIQUOR RULING SPLITS COURT

SUPREME BENCH DIVIDED ON REVERSAL OF SAWYER DECISION

AUSTIN, Texas, June 26.—Judges of the court of criminal appeals were divided in an opinion disposing of a liquor case today. With Judge O. S. Lattimore dissenting the court granted appellant's second motion for rehearing in the case of L. L. Sawyer, convicted in Hill county of possessing liquor for sale and sentenced to one year, and reversed and remanded the case for another trial.

Admission of testimony of a witness for whom Sawyer appeared to have acted as agent in securing a quart of liquor was regarded by majority of the court as constituting error, the higher court holding that the trial judge was not authorized to assume that it was a sale.

If Sawyer was the witness' agent in securing the whiskey, even in his act was free from criminal wrong and had no significance as throwing light upon the subsequent transaction which he was prosecuted, the opinion held.

Judge Lattimore in dissenting admitted that conviction under circumstantial evidence, but it was his opinion there were no grounds to reversal of judgment.

Stunt Show for Students at C.I.A.

DENTON, Texas, June 26.—As a part of the program for offering diversions from the routine of class work during the summer session, students and faculty members of the College of Industrial Arts were entertained last Wednesday evening on the college campus with a series of stunts directed by members of the student body, followed by a watermelon feast.

The program for the evening included silhouettes of the faculty, directed by Miss Kathryn English of Bonham; "Old Japan", directed by Miss Catherine Carrow of Henrietta; and a humorous dramatization of "Lochner", directed by Miss Elouise Haley of Cross Plains. Following the show, a score pad, was given to Mrs. J. E. Shelton.

Invitations were issued by Misses Vivian Winston and Robbie Hardin complimenting their visitor, Miss Dorothy Shy, for Thursday evening, June 24th 8 o'clock. The form of entertainment being a "Hearts Party". These charming young hostesses are successful entertainers and many friends gladly accept an invitation.

lowing these stunts the audience was led in the singing of college songs by Miss Lurline Gentry of Houston, college yell leader this past year and Miss Mary Henderson of Galvest, yell leader elected for next year.

This program was given to carry out the plan of the college of entertaining the summer school students with a surprise each week. During the past two weeks a lawn party and a picnic in the woods were given. A movie is shown each Saturday night in the auditorium.

The swimming pool in the gymnasium has been opened to faculty members and their families on Monday and Thursday evenings of each week to offer further diversion during the respite from the classroom.

Colbert Gives Cow to College

R. V. Colbert and son of Stamford made a donation of a fine Hereford cow to the Tech this week. The delivery was made Friday. This is one of the finest gifts made to the Tech herd this year and will add greatly to the breeding stock.

Colbert had intended to give a fine calf but when the other gifts of calves were made, he decided to give a cow. Colbert and son are breeders of fine Herefords and their record stock is known all over the southwest. The cow which was given to the college is of pure anxiety breed.

She will be placed with the college foundation herd.

TO OUR FRIENDS
We are happy to announce to our friends that Mrs. Patterson is now at home, much improved from the two weeks illness at the Ellwood Hospital, having been operated on for appendicitis. We feel that her improvement is all that could be expected. We thank all our friends for every deed of kindness and friendship contributed to her recovery. We are grateful to the members of the hospital, and clinic staff, for the courteous and attentive services rendered her while there. Neither are we unmindful of the gratitude we owe Dr. Cross for the efficiency of the operation which was akin to marvelous, it being done with a local anesthetic.

SMITH'S NAME GOES ON TICKET

BLANTON'S PROTEST UNAVAILABLE AS TO OPPONENTS ENTRANCE

AUSTIN, June 26.—The name of J. R. Smith, candidate for congress from the 17th district, will appear on the ticket despite the protest of Congressman Thomas L. Blanton, according to the latest ruling of the attorney general. In a letter to J. R. Smith, of Coleman, representative of Judge Smith and who was in Austin Saturday, signed by Assistant Attorney General L. C. Sutton, it is held that the members of the District executive committee is composed of the chairmen of the county executive committees in the district and that they select their own chairman who must, as a matter of course, be a member of the body over which he is to preside. The protest against Smith's name being placed on the ticket was made by Congressman Blanton on the ground that Fred Cockerell, of Abilene, was the district chairman and Cockerell certified the name of Blanton to the different counties as a candidate, signing the certificate as district chairman. Cockerell is not a county chairman and under the ruling of the attorney general cannot be the district chairman.

Adding to Aggie College Equipment

COLLEGE STATION, June 26.—Building projects to further increase the equipment and facilities of the A. & M. College of Texas are now under construction under the direction of B. D. Marburger, superintendent of the department of buildings and College utilities. Numerous improvements of various nature were made during the past scholastic year and additions and repairs are now being made in preparation of the opening of the fall session early in September.

Twelve dormitories are being repaired and renovated at a cost of approximately $25,000. The work includes painting of inside woodwork, cleaning, and rebuilding and repairing where needed.

Ground has been broken for the erection of a new test barn or the dairy husbandry department, to be built at a cost of approximately $12,000.

A belt conveyor costing $22,000 will be installed by the department of buildings and college utilities on the spur track which will be erected by the L. & G. N. Railroad company just east of the power plant.

Construction of the new Mess hall annex, at a cost of approximately $85,000, is going ahead rapidly. The building will accommodate 700 persons, and in addition will furnish offices for the subsistence department of the College, two private dining rooms, and servants' dining room and quarters.

During the past year an arid pond was completed at a cost of $7500, for the purpose of purifying and cooling the College water supply. It takes the water from three wells at present, and will shortly take over the flow from the fourth well. All water used on the Campus will then be subjected to the purifying process.

Students Make Trips To Historic Points

AUSTIN, Texas, June 26.—That the excursions conducted during the summer session of the University of Texas to points of educational interest in this part of the state have a real practical benefit for the students, who are largely school teachers, will be shown when these teachers return to their work next fall, according to Mrs. C. J. Moore, chief of the bureau of visual instruction, who is in charge of the out of town trips.

During a recent excursion to San Antonio, over 100 students visited the places of historic interest in the city. History, for instance, can be made more vivid and realistic when the teacher, if not the pupils, has visited the scenes she describes. Mrs. Moore pointed out, for many making the trip, it was their first visit to the Alamo, known as "the cradle of Texas Liberty." The famous old missions about San Antonio which played an important part in the early history of the state were also visited. With the aid of notes taken during the trip, pictures and curios obtained, the school pupils will have created for them a more definite description of these landmarks of history than before, Mrs. Moore explained.

Because such excursions are so closely related with the idea of visual instruction work sponsored by the University of Texas, they are under the direction of Mrs. Moore, who is in charge of the work. The next out-of-town excursion arranged for the summer students at the University will be a trip to Fredericksburg, one of the oldest towns in Texas.

FRANCHISE TO FURNISH AMARILLO GAS TO LUBBOCK WILL BECOME EFFECTIVE AFTER THIRTY DAYS

Within thirty days, the time during publication of the city ordinance granting a gas franchise to A. J. McMahan and George R. Broadwell, of Oklahoma City and R. A. Tipton, of Amarillo, will be made, the franchise becomes effective and the capitalists will be at liberty to start such construction program as they might elect to give natural gas service to Lubbock.

The franchise is to be in effect during a period of twenty years, with the owners holding an option to renege the franchise for such additional period of time as can be satisfactorily agreed upon.

The franchise cities that the holders of the franchise will be privileged to sell natural gas in Lubbock for light, power and heat.

The grantees are to have the right to lay mains, pipes and equipment as is necessary to sell or lease it to the people of Lubbock.

The franchise cities that the holders to furnish the gas to the people at a price not to exceed 67 1/2 cents per thousand cubic feet for domestic use and the maximum rate for industrial gas to be 45 cents per thousand for the first 50,000 cubic feet used per month down to 15 cents per M for 120,000,000 cubic feet used. All gas is to be furnished through a meter only and company or grantees are to furnish meters of standard make for each customer. That bills shall be presented and payable monthly and within ten days after rendered.

The grantees are to have the gas kept at a reasonable temperature and that the city will have right to make scientific tests at any points in the city. Each customer will install and maintain suitable piping and fixtures except meters within his property lines subject to the approval of the city commission.

The city will reserve the right to lay and permit to be laid electric conduits, water and other pipe lines or cables in the alleys, streets or other public places occupied by the grantees. The grantees shall construct any new mains or lines along alleys and not in the streets so as to protect the lines and cables permitted by the city.

The city commission shall have the right to install a meter at a point where all the gas of the city will pass through. A distant gauge shall be installed by the grantees in the city hall or the offices of the city engineer.

The grantees shall make a report not oftener than six months to the city secretary showing the gross amount received from the business. After the gas distribution system shall have been constructed and equipped and in operation, if grantees fail to comply with the conditions of the franchise the city shall have the right to forfeit the franchise with sixty days notice in writing. For each and every breach and violation of any of the provisions of the ordinance the grantees shall be liable to a penalty of twenty five dollars to be recovered in any court by suit.

The grantees are to adopt and use all reasonable safeguards to provide for the protection of persons and property against injury or damage growing out of the use of the gas. They are to maintain their lines and pipes in good order and not to be liable to damages which are caused by unavoidable conditions.

The grantees state that similar franchises have been granted to the cities of Canyon, Plainview, Tulia, Lockney, Sinton and Floydada and each franchise provides for the sale of gas at the same price and payment on the same terms.

The grantees shall also in good faith begin the construction of their main lines and distributing systems.

By September 15, 1926 and shall complete such main lines by December 1, 1926 and shall be prepared to serve gas to consumers on or before January 1, 1927.

Ruling Favors State Hay Dealers

COLLEGE STATION, June 26.—Texas hay dealers will benefit through adoption by the state of government hay inspection grades which become effective on July 1, according to E. O. Pollock, associate professor of agronomy at the A. & M. College of Texas.

A cooperative agreement between the state department of agriculture and the federal bureau of agriculture and federal inspection has been signed by George B. Terrell, state commissioner of agriculture. With this arrangement completed the government hay grades will become effective in the state and will be under both state and federal supervision.

The San Antonio Hay and Grain Exchange and the Houston Merchants' Exchange have had inspectors trained and licensed by the federal bureau and are buying and selling hay on the basis of U. S. grades. Other terminal markets have made application for the service and will have inspectors trained and licensed as soon as arrangements can be completed with the state department and the federal bureau.

It is the opinion of Professor Pollock that the hay trade in the South and West will be interested to learn that the War Department and all other government agencies will purchase their hay on the basis of U. S. grades and subject to federal inspection in the future. The Army has had a large number of veterinary officers trained by the federal bureau and these men will inspect all hay received by the Army. Proposals will be received on July 1 by the Quartermaster Supply Officer of the 8th Corps Area, Fort Sam Houston, for the first contracts to be let on the basis of U. S. grades for hay.

The federal bureau will furnish the various government agencies a list of the hay dealers so that the War Department circular proposals will be widely distributed to give everyone the opportunity to bid on government contracts.

MURRAY SMITH TO TEACH AT TEXAS LAW SCHOOL

AUSTIN, June 26.—Another former student of the University of Texas will return next fall as adjunct professor in the School of Law. Murray G. Smyth, formerly of Uvalde, will be a member of that faculty during 1926-27. Smyth received the bachelor of arts degree in 1921, and the bachelor of law in June, 1925, from the University, making an unusually excellent record, according to faculty members. He will receive the degree of master of law from Harvard University this month.

Former Sultan Mulai-Abd-el-Hafid of Morocco, weary of inspecting hundreds of candidates for his harem, yet faced with the rule that no other man should look upon the sultan's wives actual or prospective, appointed a blind official to make the preliminary selections. ### LYNCH ANSWERS HOGG BROTHERS

SAYS DAN-JIM FIGHT IS SMOKE SCREEN FOR BOOZE CROWD

PARIS, June 26.—Lynch Davidson issued a statement here today replying to that of Hogg Brothers of Houston, which they published in Friday newspapers attacking Davidson's candidacy for Governor. Davidson said: "Hogg Brothers are having Dan Moody put up a smoke screen of anti-Ferguson oratory while they and the Standard Oil and the whiskey gang with which they are associated, carry on the real business of their campaign, which is to snipe at me. Dan is the knight on the white horse cavaliaring against Ferguson, but the heavy work is being done by Hogg Brothers, the Houston Post-Dispatch, Oscar Colquitt, and others of the Standard Oil-whiskey group; while Dan is attacking bond repudiation, it is well to remember that the Humble company a Standard Oil subsidiary, is being taxed to pay the taxes for these bonds, and that the newspaper backing Moody's candidacy most fanatically is the Houston Post-Dispatch, owned by R. S. Sterling, former President of the Humble, and still closely associated with it." Davidson asked readers to "compare the Moody supporters' statements that 'Davidson is a pig in this race' with their own attacks on Davidson, and exhibit such violent opposition is made to Davidson, if Davidson runs so poorly. He quotes gramin from several sections State to the effect that he is ing the race and gaining victory day."

"The Standard Oil company tested the sweets of the which is gained by passage of Bill No. 180" said Davidson has already been enabled the price of gasoline seven gallon, which means an added $35,000,000, taken out of the of Texas gasoline users. The Standard sent Dan M. Greenville to use that young man to turn its subsidy Magnolia, free from the horse Attorney General Looney he ed upon it. Hogg Brothers Standard interests are spent told sums on behalf of Moody didacy, and now Hogg Brothers making a personal campaign Moody. They say it is to go Fergusonism, but they are more anxious to get rid of I have announced that I am to stop this hold-up the State staging in Texas, and I will attempt the whiskey make, like that which they fully made in Pennsylvania their choice in high public. Replying to questions a Hogg Brothers in regard to campaign funds, Davidson said: "Davidson asked readers to 'compare the Moody supporters' statements that he is expected to be a small fraction of being sent for. In answer to he had the su who have know son said: 'I know me well. hope that they ting this State domination, on tion.'" that he is expending only a very small fraction of the sums which are being sent for Moody.

In answer to the question whether he had the support of the people who have known him longest, Davidson said: "Hogg Brothers have known me a long time, and they know me well enough to give up any hope that they can use me for putting this State under Standard Oil domination, or whiskey domination."

Replying to Hogg's query as to bill Davidson introduced in the Legislature, Davidson said that the only bill which he pushed in the Legislature with reference to the anti-trust laws was a change in those laws which would have allowed outside corporations to come into Texas bringing suit against the officers of the county in which they expected to do business, where to burden of proof would have been on the corporation to show that it had no intention of violating the anti-trust laws. He says that he still approves such legislation, and that while his opponents have attacked him on this legislation, they have refused to print his answers. "I dare them to publish that legislation, a copy of the act which I furnished them," he said. "Their refusal to print it shows the weakness of their attack and the desperation of their forces in the face of my rapidly growing strength."

Turning to the recent statement of Senator Murphy in defense of Senate Bill No. 180 Davidson said: "Senator Murphy claims to be the author of that bill, but it was in fact written by other attorneys, and Senator Murphy merely put his name on the dotted line. He said that "I have offered to the news papers which published Senator Murphy's defense, a complete legal opinion by Honorable N. B. Williams of Waco, one of the state's ablest lawyers, and for many years a member of the Legislature. Mr. Williams' opinion conclusively refutes every statement of Senator Murphy, and shows that Senate Bill 180 is a complete repeal of our anti-trust laws with reference to monopoly. The Standard controlled newspapers have refused to print Mr. Williams' opinion in whole or in part. Such a procedure can be interpreted in but one way. They are afraid to trust the people with the facts in the case, just as they are afraid to trust them with the facts in the case regarding legislation which I introduced. They prefer to print their own side only, charge me with what you please, and refuse to print my answer. My cause is just, it is vital to the people of Texas; but even if my cause were weak the tactics pursued by my opponents would win success for me, because the people of this State resent and will always resent action by large interests and large newspapers, in combination to smother free discussion of public questions. Davidson added that "I am waging my campaign on a platform which will reduce the burden of taxes, now at the highest point in Texas history. Homes are being sold over the heads of their owners for delinquent taxes. Yet it is a fact that if a competent business man were given authority to manage the state's business assets, as I managed the state railroad, he could practically eliminate state taxes. Taxes assets could make her government self-supporting instead of an almost unbearable burden to the people. While I am making this fight, the Standard Oil interests are raising gasoline prices seven cents a gallon, cutting the independent dealers profits in half, and spending enormous sums to elect as Governor of Texas a young man with no business experience, and no proven ability. They are shooting down with Fergusonism, but they are shooting at Davidson."

NEW SERIES WESTERNS PLANNED BY FILM FIRM

By United Press
NEW YORK, June 26—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer announced today that it will make and release a series of six hair raising old fashioned Western pictures for the new film year.

Four of the lot will be picturizations of Peter B. Kyne stories recently bought for the purpose. The first picture will be released in August.

Tim McCoy, rancher, adventurer, soldier, friend of the Indians, and noted character of the West, will make his screen debut in them. The four original stories of Kyne known everywhere to readers of adventure fiction, are "Silver Threads Amongst The Gold," "Big Tim Meagher" Little Casino" and "A Desert Odyssey."

Summer Longhorns Include 36 Smiths

AUSTIN, Texas, June 26—What family name has the most representatives in the University of Texas summer school? The Smith's, with 36 of that name attending the summer session, take the lead. Moreover, they also maintained the lead during the past long session with 55 enrolled. Strangely, however, the Jones' and Brown's do not follow next in order as might generally be expected. For the Miller's, with 17 of that clan, take second place. Second place during the long session was held by the 34 Johnson's in school. Now, however, the Johnson's with the Brown's and Moore's can lay claim to only fourth place, for there are thirteen persons of each of these family names in the University this summer.

UPHOLD FLOOD WATER RULING

SUPREME COURT REVERSES APPEALS COURT, SUSTAINS TRIAL JUDGE

AUSTIN, Texas, June 28—The Supreme court today in deciding a case which had been pending over four years held valid all statutes for appropriation of water for irrigation purposes, beginning with that of 1889 and down to and including the act of 1917 in so far as they authorized the appropriation of storm and flood waters and other waters without violation of riparian rights. Those sections of the act providing for the issuance of permits to appropriate waters subject to appropriation were also held valid.

The case was styled Charles G. Mott et al vs. R. W. Boyd et al, from Tom Green county. The court of Civil Appeals is reversed and the district court affirmed. The opinion, written by Chief Justice C. M. Cureton, contained fifty-one typewritten pages.

CHAPTER I
Several thinkers had made Clifford Dudley reluctantly take to the road that hot summer. In those days, whenever you thought of Clifford Dudley, you thought at once of "The Artist," that seductive play of fifteenth century Italian morals or lack of morals, which had won for him his first starring sign on Broadway, and his first big type in the theatrical columns. Even Clifford Dudley, after a year of six nights and two matinees weekly of "The Artist," found it hard to dissociate himself from the part. He manager, a smart, if factitious Irishman, said of him that he walked in his street clothes as if they were the doublet and hose of his role in the theatre. But never to Clifford's face. Mr. Dugan was tactful. To Dudley's face in the second spring of "The Artist," Mr. Dugan said as follows:
"Now, Cliff, my boy, we'll have to be giving up the ship here. Which is a good thing, for if you don't go out and show yourself to the sticks soon, my boy, the number of women deserting their husbands to come to New York and see the Great Lover'll be so large that the population of these United States will be set back I don't know how many million. And we can't have that, Cliff, my boy. As patriotic Americans, we gotta guard against that at all costs!"
This, said with Mr. Dugan's yielding Irish smile, which completely belied the round, hard eyes of the tribe of theatrical managers, eyes like two small blue marbles, had its effect on Clifford, especially when backed by further arguments. Did not Clifford want his fame as a Great Lover to penetrate to the farthest reaches of these United States? Seeing him, would not the people clamor for him in motion pictures, and, if so, would it not mean the part of "The Artist" in the moving picture version, with emotions not to be despised?

Besides, there was what might be called a personal reason. There was a little matter, in fact, of a breach of promise suit against Clifford Dudley by a chorus girl of no importance whatever, whom Clifford had known and wooed and won when he was of not so much importance either. Mr. Dugan, "his boy's" interests closely at heart, had advised him shrewdly:
"If you go and stay away all summer and the case gets put off and put off by your lawyers, this girl being probably out of a job in the summer season, is going to get mighty hard up, and then your lawyer comes along with an offer to settle say for two thousand, and this girl is going to accept. That's what they all do. You can get into all the messes you want later on, Cliff, my boy, when you're the cat's pajamas, but at the present moment, take my advice and lay low. You gotta keep the matinee ladies falling for you and you can't do that by getting married or engaged right away, or letting the public know you gave a girl the air. Even a chorus girl. See?"
Clifford saw. And this was why, on the late August evening, he found himself, not at one of the cool Lemoor Island resorts, where the smart semi-society of New York which goes in for well-known actors, had made shift to entertain him last summer.
He found himself, instead, yawning behind the busy curtain of the musty Winesville Opera House, where church quartettes "entertained" in winter, where high school boys and girls tripped awkwardly in their annual performances of "something from Shakespeare," where one-night stand musical comedy shows went waltzing through their paces, and where many a trained seal and dancing bear had catered to the artistic sensibilities of Winesville. Once Edwin Booth, as the mad Prince, had collected a report audience in Winesville, and ever since to the play, when there was a play. It was known in theatrical parlance as a "good show town."

"Why in the h— did they here?" said Clifford Dudley, the Great Lover, bethinking himself of the sleepy Main Street seen from the train, as the company scuttled out before theatre time.
He never finished the sentence. For just then a piece of chewing gum, parked in the sweet long ago of one of the high school lassies, fastened itself to the Florentine extremities of "The Artist." He sat down on a property chair, not yet set in its place exactly for the scene, and jerked. But the chewing gum used by high school lassies is noted for its sticking quality.

With what would have been a yell of wrath anywhere but back stage, the Great Lover sprang from his chair, and, hopping on one foot, pounced upon the manager in the wings.
"Scene No. 1," said the manager under his breath.
"What the blank, blank, blank," cried "The Artist," working himself up to his most effective passion, "do you mean, Williams, by hooking me in a hick house that's coated with chewing gum? And you expect me to give my usual performance here, do you? DO YOU? Put on my understudy, if you will. I leave town tonight."

"The Great Dad's" having another tantrum, sighed the old character actor to the grease paint in his dressing room.
"The Kid Himself is cutting a rough again," said Sally Short, "The Artist's" model, to the character woman who was helping her into her draperies.
The company calmly went on dressing. Williams, the manager, calmly took out his knife, and, jerking the Great Lover's foot to his knee, neatly sliced off the gum.

"Sorry," he said peacefully. "You know these towns. No booze but plenty of gum. If you don't feel like going on, I'll put in D'Alvino. He can't touch you, I think, but the company thinks he's a wow! House's sold out."

He ambled away. The Great Lover sighed a sigh of relinquishment and his head dropped to his heavy chest, displayed to great advantage by his short Florentine jacket.
"Well, if that's the case," he said sadly, "I must go on in spite of everything. We can't disappoint the public, can we, Williams? We artists!"
"Uh-huh," mumbled Williams. Stepping carefully to avoid possible further deposits of prehistoric chewing gum, Clifford went back to his vantage point. He remembered he had been about to look through the peephole and see what the house held.
"Yokels," he muttered under his breath. And true enough, the population of Winesville, dressed for the occasion in its best hats imported by the Ross Department Store from the quarries of Paris, which was Pittsburgh, rustling its best summer dresses (not indeed of organdy and calico, but of highly over-decorated silks) with the too light-fitting suits of its sporting men, did not look very inviting to a pair of eyes trained to the panorama of Times Square and Fifth Avenue.

However, a gleam came into Clifford's eyes. There, in the front row, sat a really pretty girl next to a blond yokel who wore a pair of not too clean white flannel trousers. She sat very next to him indeed. Their shoulders touched. She was deliciously round, with a round, demure face, bobbed and wavy chestnut hair, and eyes of the kind known as melting. At this moment they were melting into the blue eyes of the boy next to her. She had a decided dimple. Clifford saw it when she took a candy with two coy fingers from the box on her lap and set it daintily into the mouth of the blond boy.

THOUSANDS GREET MRS. M'PHERSON

THROUGH OF 50,000 WELCOME RETURNED PASTOR TO LOS ANGELES

By United Press
LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 26.—A reception as impressive and joyous as those given to returning kings and presidents was accepted by Los Angeles to Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist and founder of Angelus Temple, on her return to this city this afternoon.

Officials estimated that 100,000 persons turned out to welcome the evangelist on her triumphant home coming, six weeks after her republican death from drowning in the sea. It was the largest throng ever gathered here to pay tribute to a public personage.

Scores of special police aided in controlling the station and street crowds, which extended in a solid phalanx from the Southern Pacific depot to the woman pastor's million dollar tabernacle.

The Lord has taken care of me and I have come back forever," she said. "And once more I want to say 'Amen, praise the Lord!'"

All along the line from Douglas to the Temple the evangelist delivered her "Lord's message" to thousands who turned out to greet her.

As the train pulled into the Southern Pacific station an airplane sailed over head and dropped flowers on her special coach, already strewn with orchids and rose buds. Whistles and sirens shrieked her arrival.

On the station platform were hundreds of her rejoicing converts, singing "Hallelu," "Praise the Lord" and other hymns of praise and thanksgiving.

The picturesque pastor stood on the observation platform as her car was shunted to a siding. Her personality was radiant and she waved at all the throngs.

When the train came to a halt she made a few brief remarks in which she told of her happiness at being home again and how warmly she appreciated the welcome.

Each expression was greeted with cheers by the assembled masses and above the din of the shouting the evangelist's voice was heard saying: "Praise the Lord! Praise the Lord!"

Mrs. McPherson was lifted off the train in a flower-decked chair and borne by four firemen through a solid lane of officers to her rose-covered automobile. Her pathway from train to automobile was strewn with rose also. A group of twenty cowboys on horses, followed by motorcycle police and the Angelus Temple silver band, led the pastor's party up a main thoroughfare in triumphal procession to her tabernacle.

Surrounding the returning rival officers, her mother, Mrs. Minnie Est at all times was a bodyguard of Kennedy, and Mrs. McPherson's son, Rolf, eleven, and daughter, Roberta.

Cheering thousands were on both sides of the two-mile march to the Temple—unbroken lines of humanity.

Arriving at the Temple the evangelist was carried to her pulpit, which had been draped in mourning until she was reported miraculously alive in Douglas, Ariz., Wednesday morning.

Mrs. McPherson acknowledged the ovation of her congregation with a brief speech of gratitude. At 7 p. m. she repeated her "Lord's message" over the radio from the Temple.

Tomorrow she will preside at the regular Sunday service at the tabernacle.

"Then I must take a long rest," she said. "After that I will come back to you, never to leave you again."

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 24.—Greeted by thousands of her converts and many thousands of curious men, women and children, Aimee Semple McPherson, noted evangelist, arrived at the Southern Pacific station today at 2:45 p. m.

One of the biggest ovations ever accorded an individual in Los Angeles was given Mrs. McPherson when she arrived in her special coach attached to the Golden State from Douglas, Ariz.

It was one of the greatest throngs ever seen in, numbering upwards of 50,000 persons.

The crowd included thousands of her followers, who sang and shouted praise and thanksgiving. Evangelist came back to them as if "risen from the dead."

To Use Butterfly Slides In Teaching

AUSTIN, June 26.—At the gorgeous colors of the many different Texas butterflies will be reproduced in a set of slides now being prepared by the bureau of visual instruction of the University of Texas, according to Mrs. Charles J. Moore, in charge of the work.

About 75 slides will be included in the set to be called "Butterflies That Flutter By," she stated. That the school pupils will be enabled to recognize the various butterflies, the common name as well as the technical will be given. The slides will also record the life history of the butterfly through its several stages. Specimens used as models for the slides are not killed, but are picked up after their short span is completed, Mrs. Moore explained. This set of slides will be available to the schools of the state in September when the fall term begins.

LANGHORNE CASE IS PASSED OVER

APPEAL OF THE LA GRANGE YOUTH NOT ACTED UPON THIS TERM

By United Press
AUSTIN, June 26.—During the term of the court of criminal appeals which ended today 790 cases were filed, an increase of approximately 100 over cases filed during the preceding term. A majority of the cases resulted from prosecutions under the liquor law, known as the Dean act. In comparison with cases of this class filed during the preceding term there was a material falling off.

Original opinions written during the term just ended numbered 912 and 374 opinions were written on motions for rehearing. Cases submitted and undisposed of at time of adjournment totaled 139. Eighteen motions for rehearing were undisposed of; 64 cases and 32 motions for rehearing were filed too late for submission.

Important cases which are passed over to the next term included W. H. Langhorne, Jr., from Fayette county, given the death penalty for murder of a La Grange high school girl, and Mrs. W. H. Collier, wife of former Mayor Collier of Wichita Falls, sentenced to 10 years for manslaughter in connection with the killing of her son-in-law. Collier is now serving a sentence in connection with the same transaction.

AMONG NEW PLAYS

By ALICE BOME (Written for the United Press)

NEW YORK, June 26.—Now that George White's Scandals has surpassed in this eighth version, any of its predecessors it looks as though the summer theatre goes are in for a diverting time.

The Great Temptations set the whirl of revues ago with the lavishness of its stage settings, the beauty of its girls, the artistic elimination of costumes, the dazzle of its dances.

Then came The Merry World giving full measure of humour in addition to splendid sets and diverting dances. Its real achievement is in its subtle and also broad comedy, shown up, par excellence, in the numerous short sketches. This is all, of course, quite English in tone. The Merry World with the versatile Morris Harvey is one of the best laugh provoking theatre attractions in town. The Shuberts have spared nothing so far as abandon in production goes in either of these revues.

At the Garrick the Gaieties, named for that Theatre, holds forth with considerable fun. While down at the Neighborhood Playhouse the Grand Street ollies have burst forth full of the distinguished fun and satire which this little theatre knows so peculiarly well how to do.

Already Zeigfeld's Palm Beach Girl is arousing his Oh's and Ah's which this connoisseur in feminine pulchritude always calls forth. This year however with all the other beives of beauty, Zeigfeld has had to look to his laurels—which he will admit he has done.

George White's Scandals have made a decided hit for many reasons. The first eight brought offers of $55 for seats and thousands were turned away. Of course the cast in itself is sensational. There is Ann Pennington and her knees and a new dace which is guaranteed to outrival the Charleston. Then there is that fine dancer, rumba White the inimitable Charleston dancer, who says quite plainly with her feet that Ann Pennington just can't supplant this popular dance. Eugene and Willie Howard, Tom Estricola, Harry Richmond, Buster West, the airbanks Twins, the McCarthy Sisters, Tamara and a bevy of lovely coryphees surely a riot of entertainment. Besides this the humour is contagious and there is plenty of it.

Election Judges Named at Tahoka

By WILLIAM J. FAGAN (United Press Radio News Editor)

TAHOKA, June 26.—The Democratic Executive Committee of this county have appointed the election judges to preside over the various voting precincts in the July election.

Routine Saturday morning inspections in the Army are said to have originated by Baron Von Steuben, famed general of the Revolutionary War. His innovation has been responsible for much profanity among fighting men during these 150 years.

Indignation must have been felt by countless listeners to WEAF when the switch-back to the studio was made. The Gypsies, excellent as they may be, provided anaemic fare with their sirupy Victor Herbert and "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise" nonentities. What radio broadcasting needs is more indignation.

The sponsors of the Gypsies would have made countless friends had they relinquished their hour on the air, or, better still, if "good-will publicity" must be considered not too lightly, sponsoring the balance of the Goldman concert through the occasion. WEAF broadcast the opening concert played on the campus of New York University. Opening at 8:30 the concert was cut off at 9 o'clock to permit broadcasting of a commercial feature which occupied the schedules of the WEAF look-up for the succeeding hour each Monday.

Now, if the national anthem, a march, an overture and an operatic aria constitute a band concert, then "Marcheta" is a classic.

WEAF network. The Everybody hour performed a similar friendly service for their listeners in 1925, when the concert of the Associated Glee Clubs at the Metropolitan Opera House was broadcast throughout the east and middlewest under its auspices.

TEN GREAT NEW BUILDINGS TO HOUSE FEDERAL WORKERS TO BE PUT UP IN FIVE YEARS

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Ten great new buildings to house thousands of government workers, who now labor here in flimsy, ramshackle temporary war-time structures are to be built in the next five years. Fifty million dollars has been made available for it in the $156,000,000 public buildings bill passed by congress and Sen. Reed Smoot, Republican, Utah, chairman of the public buildings commission, today promised it would bring a more beautiful capital city.

Smoot expects construction to start with in a year, and if he is re-elected to the Senate, he will see them all completed before the end of his next term.

Due to a provision that not more than $1,000,000 can be spent in a single year on one building, it is expected that several will be under construction at the same time. A maximum of $10,000,000 may be spent in the District of Columbia each year.

Smoot's commission has made no promises as to which departments will have the right-of-way on construction, but the departments of justice, commerce, agriculture, and building for government archives, especially the important state department records, are considered to have preference, and sites have been tentatively decided on.

All the new buildings, with the exception of the proposed U. S. supreme court building, additions to the government printing office and some warehouses, will be built south of Pennsylvania avenue, in the "ellipse" district, carrying out as far as possible the plans of Major Charles Peter L'Enfant, the Frenchman who laid out the capital for George Washington.

The commerce and justice departments, both of which are now housed in leased apartment buildings at high rents, will be in this district. The justice department will face Pennsylvania avenue across the street from the great treasury building. The commerce department will be a neighbor. The agriculture department is to have a modern building on its hilltop site a stone's throw from the Washington Monument. The government owns these three sites already, although a theater and several business houses will be eliminated to make room for them.

The archives building will be placed near the National Museum, about half way down Pennsylvania avenue from the treasury to the capitol. A site must be acquired.

Launch New Fight For Farm Relief

DES MOINES, Ia., June 26.—The Middle West is going to attempt to educate the East to the fact that farmers need relief, Governor John Hammill, of Iowa, announced tonight.

With the defeat of Haugen bill, the measure which farmers of eleven states would be invited to attend another agricultural conference in an attempt to plan legislation which will be suitable to congress.

Hope of securing relief at this session of congress virtually has been abandoned, Hammill said.

Hammill is now conferring with farm leaders and farm organization leaders of the Middle West in an attempt to decide on a date for the next agricultural conference. At this conference the educational campaign will be outlined and the legislation decided upon.

Popular songs in Europe are appearing with titles and words almost as poetic as some of our own. The prevailing hit in Spain is entitled, as translated: "Oh please don't set the piano on fire." It was suggested, it is said, by the act of a dance hall keeper, who poured gasoline over the piano of a rival, set it on fire and burned the place to the ground.

FAMOUS STAGE COMEDY IS "THE PRINCE OF PILSEN"

It is probable that no musical comedy in the annals of the American stage took so firm a hold on the theatre-going public as "The Prince of Pilsen," delightfully written by Frank Pixley and Gustav Luders. The constant inquiry of Hans Wagner, its central character—"Was you effer in Zinzinnati?"—became a byword throughout the country, and it was firmly fixed in the mind of the public that it still serves to preserve the memory of "the comedy with the funny old German who fell in the fountain."

"The Prince of Pilsen"—fountain and all—has now been made into a lavish produced motion picture with Al Stewart and George Sidney in the featured roles, and a supporting cast which includes Myrtle Stedman, Allan Forrest, Rose Tany and other film favorites. It will be shown at the Lyric theatre Monday and Tuesday, a distinct novelty in that it combines an elaborate background of the pomp and ceremony of European court life, with an uproarious farce comedy centering around the character of Hans Wagner, a Cincinnati brewer who visits the scene of his childhood's mistaking for the Prince of Pilsen and goes through a series of adventures which nearly brought about the dissolution of two kingdoms.

"The Prince of Pilsen" was produced by A. H. Sebastian for Belasco Productions, Inc., under the direction of Paul Powell and is leased by Producers Distributing Corporation.

LONGHORNS WILL HAVE GOLF COURSE

AUSTIN, June 26.—If possible a miniature golf course will be laid out on near the University of Texas campus, according to tentative plans of L. Theo. Belmont, director of athletics. Golf was admitted last year as a minor sport of men at the University, and has become decidedly popular. The proposed course would be available for both the men and women's physical training departments, it is said.

Sewell Paint House Doing Big Business

The Sewell Paint Company which maintains at Dallas, the largest paint factory south of St. Louis, is enjoying liberal patronage in the large Lubbock territory since the establishment of a wholesale distributing point in Lubbock the first of this year, according to C. R. Truett, local representative of the company.

The Sewell Paint Company has been in business in Texas during the past fifty years, and it was after their business had expanded to such extent that new trade territories had to be developed to take care of the factory output that they elected Lubbock as the home of one of their largest distributing houses.

A great deal of development work is being done in Texas by the company along advertising lines and this effort is especially noticeable in the Lubbock territory.

Advertising the Sewell paints and varnishes, manufactured at Dallas and Kansas City, T. Stanley is stopping here this week with his giant Graham Brothers demonstration car. A most unique method of showing the Sewell products is followed in the miniature display house and breakfast room set behind a glass case in the right side of the car. The small house is painted a deep ivory and trimmed in white with the roof stained maple leaf red, and the porch covered with gray Col-o-var floor enamel.

To rival the house at the rear of the show case is the breakfast room at the front. The breakfast room set is yellow trimmed in purple. A gray floor, and pink wall with decorative designs, complete the colorful setting.

In the center of the case tacked to the side 55 different colors of paints, enamels, varnishes, stains, etc., are displayed.

The car is not a day car only, but can be operated as effectively at night as an advertising medium since it is provided throughout with electric bulbs, measuring 22 feet 9 inches in length, the truck is the largest painting advertising car in the world, and the only one in Texas. It was built especially for the use which is being made of it, and, according to its driver, was constructed at a cost of about $4,000.

Stanley has been here with the car since Saturday but will probably continue on his tour of the state Tuesday, his next stops being Vernon and Wichita Falls, and some of the intermediate points.

Mr. Stanley is visiting the Whaley and Bowman Lumber Companies, Myrick Hardware and Hilton's Paint Store, retailers in Sewell products.

OLNEY OIL FIELD IS ONE OF LARGEST IN STATE AND IS LESS KNOWN OF THAN ANY IN THE STATE; COVERS LARGE AREA

OLNEY, Texas, June 26.—An oil field, 30 miles wide and 15 miles long, with a daily production of nearly 20,000 barrels from shallow sands. An oil field that, in area, well-high rivals the famous Panhandle and Big Lake fields and, in the ease and speed with which the rich oil level is reached, is as alluring as either. And yet it is perhaps less widely known than any other field of real size in Texas. This is the Olney field with its 1,350 producers, with 75 wells now drilling.

Geography is chiefly to blame for Olney's plight in being largely unknown to fame. There was a widow, who for nearly 5 years, had lived near the boundary line dividing Missouri from Ark. She had always paid the taxes on her farm to the Missouri authorities. But one day a party of surveyors came along and, in running the line, found that her farmhouse was just inside the Arkansas boundary. When the good lady learned that her home was in Arkansas, she exclaimed: "I'm going to move. I wouldn't live in that unhealthy state for a million dollars."

Olney is in the northern edge of Young county but the Olney oil field without any regard for boundaries, is to be found both in northern Young and southern Archer counties, the major portion of the field being in the latter county. The production figures are divided between the two counties and, officially, there is no Olney field whatever.

But when one gazes upon the thronged streets, the million dollars worth of improvement constructed last year, the million dollar building program in full swing for 1926, the doubled bank deposits of the past year and the 100 per cent gain in postal receipts in the last 12 months, it is readily seen that Olney is the center of a great oil district.

As production is found at from 550 to 1,500 feet, instead of the 3,000-foot level of the Big Lake and Panhandle fields, wells here can be drilled in far less time. The biggest well in the history of the Olney district came in for 2,000 barrels at 1,200 feet and was drilled in five days. It paid for itself within a week. Wells of from 100 to 500 barrels have been completed within the past three weeks in considerable numbers. The story of the Olney oil field is a dramatic one.

The first wells in the history of this territory, drilled in 1911, came in as small producers and are still pumping after 15 years. But the oil history of Olney really ydates from April 13, 1923—Friday the 13th—when the Swastika Oil Company, which derived its name from the Oriental emblem signifying good luck, drilled in a 125-barrel well at 1,381 feet, nine miles northwest of Olney.

Upon how slender a thread of times hangs the destiny of nations and oil fields is the fact that one location from the Swastika discovery well, a dry hole was drilled. Had that location been drilled originally, doubtless Olney would still be unheard of as an oil center.

The well that launched the Olney boom was begun to Lowry, McLain & Weldon, handicapped by lack of finances and several unlooked-for difficulties, the three partners found affairs at a crisis with the drilling halted. One of the trio knew a man in Seattle whom he believed he could interest in the proposition so Lowry and McLain made the long journey only to find that their man would be out of the city for weeks.

As they stood irresolutely across the hallway in the office building, they noticed a sign "Clark Davis, mining and petroleum." Acting on a hunch, they called on Mr. Davis, interested him in their proposition and he provided the funds to complete the well.

The discovery well brought a rush and production of the field reached a peak of 28,000 barrels daily some 15 months ago, and, while activities are not as great as during the boom period, production is holding up well for a three year old field. Production is 19,000 barrels a day; in the last few weeks, two new pools have been opened up and drilling permits at the rate of 75 a week are being issued.

First Car of Wheat Shipped From Hereford

HEREFORD, June 26.—E. W. Harrison, local grain dealer, shipped the first car load of wheat from Hereford Thursday. Wheat harvest started the first part of the week, and indications point to a bumper yield, where the wheat was not damaged by hail. The acreage in this section is light, but a lot of the wheat will average around forty bushels per acre. Mr Harrison is just completing a 50,000 bushel capacity elevator here to take the place of his elevator that collapsed last Christmas.

REPUBLICAN PARTY ANNOUNCES FULL BALLOT AT HEREFORD

HEREFORD, June 26.—An unique political column was announced in the Hereford Brand last week, and it is creating a great deal of comment here. For the first time in the history of this county the Republican party announces a full political column with candidates for a number of the state and county offices.

Local Republican are full of fight and are busy pushing their candidates for the Republican Primary. Those who announced in the local paper are: For governor: H. H. Haines, of Harris County and E. P. Scott, of Nueces county. For lieutenant governor: W. H. Holmes, of Potter county. For congressman, 18th district: S. E. Fish of Potter county. For district and county clerk: Glenn Snyder. For sheriff and tax collector: A. Frisbie and W. S. (Sherm) Williams. For tax assessor: D. F. Ashbrook. For county judge: L. Baskin. For county treasurer: A. W. Gregg. For public weigher: J. B. Jones. For commissioner Prec. No. 1: Ray Hershey and H. H. Boardman. For commissioner, Prec. No. 2: L. F. Boyd and E. L. Donner.

SCOUT FUNDS COME IN SLOW

MURRAY SAYS CITIZENS OF PLAINS NEGLECTING SUBSCRIPTION

The donations to the scout fund are coming in rather slow according to R. J. Murray who is in charge of the fund here. He stated that the citizens of Lubbock and the south plains are neglecting one of the most beneficial units of the life of the future manhood of this section.

The collections are not coming in as they should and the officials think that more of them should be made right away. The camp will benefit the boys of 13 counties of this section and a donation three times the amount needed should easily be raised. The city of Plainview alone, raised $4500 for a recreational play ground for the children of their town.

A great jubilee and dedication will be held at the camp Tuesday. Fifteen hundred invitations have been sent out and large crowd is expected to be present. The program of the day will include addresses by Amon G. Carter of Fort Worth, Regional Scout Executive, J. P. Fitch, Senator W. H. Bledsoe, Dr. Elliott of Colorado, Mrs. Phoebe K. Warner, and others. Mrs. Hamilton and Montgomery of New York City, heirs of the estate will be guests of honor.

It is hoped that a great portion of the fund can be raised for this meeting. All those who have been asked to contribute to the fund should get in a portion of their donation by that time if at all possible. The construction on the camp has started and funds will be needed to meet the pay roll.

Additional contributions to the fund during the past week are: Chas. O'Neal, V. O. Key, Lamesa, and Minter-Gamel. Each gave $100. The fund of $5,000 must be raised soon and it is up to the South Plains to give for the coming generation. Up till now only $2085 have been raised.

A Lubbock delegation is leaving early Tuesday morning for the dedication jubilee. They will leave at

Live at Home Slogan Adopted By Hereford Man

HEREFORD, June 26.—Clarence Smith, former postmaster at Hereford, and now farming just south of town, lately adopted the live-at-home plan with the cow, sow and hen, playing a part in the program, and he finds this style of farming very profitable. This is just another case of an "old timer" learning to solve the problem of making money by farming in Deaf Smith county, and his story contributes to the county's list of successful farmers.

Mr. Smith milks eleven cows, sells the cream and then feeds the skimmed milk to his Duroc hogs. He recently sold G. W. Brumley, local hog buyer, fourteen hogs, seven of which were two days under six months old, and the other seven were seven days over six months old. These hogs had run on pasture had all the skim milk they wanted and had eaten just a little less than 170 bushels of maize. They weighed 2840 pounds, an average of nearly 205 pounds each, and brought $13.60 per hundred, or a total of $236.25.

This man has another pen of young hogs coming on all the time. He says there is money in the hog business in the Hereford country when they are handled in conjunction with dairy cows.

NEW UNIT OF AFFILIATION FOR LUBBOCK HIGH SCHOOL JUST ANNOUNCED; TEACHERS TAKE SPECIAL WORK IN SUMMER SCHOOL

Word has just been received by Supt. M. H. Duncan that the Lubbock High School has been reaccepted in Advanced Arithmetic. This subject was introduced into the local school last year and made a requirement for graduation. Now every one who graduates from the Lubbock High School must complete one-half year's work in Advanced Arithmetic. It is the plan next year to make grammar a requirement for graduation and everyone finishing in the local school must have had one-half year in Advanced Grammar of the old fashion type. It is believed by the superintendent of our schools that our graduates are too weak in this subject.

Fifty-one of the Teachers of the Lubbock Public schools are enrolled for work in the Tech this summer. The following are the teachers in the Tech this summer to better prepare themselves for their work:

Mrs. Cassie Adair, Mrs. T. H. Arnold, Geo. N. Atkinson, Mrs. O. M. Broughton, Mrs. J. C. Brown, Mrs. Mar O. Burford, Mrs. Fred Childers, Miss Frances Conley, C. C. Cor, J. W. Crowlev, Miss Katie B. Crump, Mrs. Ruth Dunn, Mrs. M. M. Dupre, Mrs. C. D. Eaves, Miss Blanche Fann, Mrs. Isabel Garrison, R. T. Groves, Mrs. R. T. Groves, Miss Fern Hitch, Miss Cora Johnson, Miss Lula Jones, Miss Eupha Lemon, Mrs. D. T. Lindley, Miss Zula M. Logan, E. J. Lowery, Mrs. Minnie L. McClain, F. B. McMath, R. W. Matthews, Mrs. R. W. Matthews, Miss Ethel Palmer, Mrs. Agnes Priddy, Miss Gladys Pryor, J. W. Reid, Miss Dimple Rhea, M. M. Slagle, Mrs. Ruth Smallwood, Mrs. Epie Sowder, Miss Beulah Starnes, Miss Mildred Street, Miss Helen Thomas, Carroll Thompson, Miss Margaret Turner, Mrs. L. J. von Tungerlin, L. J. von Tungerlin, Mrs. J. K. Westler, Mrs. J. J. Wilhelm, Ivy Witt, Miss Lula B. Rushing, Mrs. Guy L. Trow, Mrs. T. H. Carter.

A very large number of the local teachers are also attending school in other places, and those who are not attending school are doing special study at home, better preparing themselves for the work next year. Supt. Duncan stated that he had never seen a finer spirit of co-operation among teachers in a school system and that each was doing his or her best to become informed as to the latest, best and most scientific methods of school room procedure.

BEAUX ARTS COMMENTS ON WORK OUT TEXAS UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

AUSTIN, June 26.—In a recent Beaux Arts Competition, the judging of which was held in New York City, the following students from the department of architecture of the University of Texas received recognition in the form of what is known as "mentions."

The problem in the junior class was a small library. Fred Nagle of Austin received "first mention" which is the highest mention given for this type of problem. A. B. Benson, Austin; Miss Hazel Clinger, Austin; Fred Cohen, Austin; Lewis Homby, Austin; Charles Holloway, Bremond; Conway Noren, Austin; Charles Reyonids, Houston, and Chester Seekatz, Austin; received "second mention."

The sophomore problem was a paladian window for which the following received "second mention": Mike Mebane, Trinity; Miss Grace Meyer, Flatonia; Charlie Milhouse, Austin; Twitt Murchison, Austin; Miss Louise Roessler, Dallas; J. Roy White, Crowley, La.; and O. L. Wylie, Cleburne.

The Story Spreads

The most powerful motor of its size

500 more sold today. Study the trend

It has: Speed between 60 and 70 honest miles an hour.
Extraordinarily long sustained high speed.
Power on any hill to pass most cars in high.
Quick as a cat—acceleration 5 to 25 miles in 7 1/2 seconds.
Powerful four-wheel mechanical brakes, the last word in safety.
54 horsepower, long stroke motor, rated at 20.
The tax saving is only part of its economy.

The motor of the new "70" Willys-Knight Six requires no carbon-cleaning... It has no valves to grind... It has no springs to weaken.

It is practically fool-proof and wear-proof... So far as we know, no Willys-Knight motor has ever worn out.

Sales prove this new "70" Willys-Knight Six is the most suitable car for most families. Please ride in it. You will find it the most economical and continuously satisfactory car you can drive.

The new Willys Finance Plan means less money down, smaller monthly payments, and the lowest credit-cost in the industry.
"70" Willys-Knight Six from $1295 to $1495; Willys-Knight Great Six, a luxury car as superior in its class as the "70", from $1750 to $3995. Prices f. o. b. factory. We reserve the right to change prices and specifications without notice. Willys-Overland, Inc., Toledo, Ohio.

"LIKE a comet."
This is the way the new "70" Willys-Knight Six burst across America's motor-car firmament. The evidence is conclusive. Only 6 months old—yet 30,000 sold in the past 90 days. This new "70" Willys-Knight Six is admittedly the most up-to-date car in America. It has the most powerful standard motor of its size so far produced in this country. Tests prove it the most efficient automobile built—and the most active.

The motor of the new "70" Willys-Knight Six is an exclusive feature—the famous Knight sleeve-valve motor, patented—which other manufacturers would give millions to get.

Quieter, more powerful, more efficient than any other motor of its size when new, the Knight sleeve-valve motor grows smoother, more powerful, more efficient with every mile.

PATENTS GRANTED TO TEXAS FOLKS

Of 904 patents issued in the last week, Texas inventors obtained 19. That these inventions are worth while is attested by the number of patents that already have been assigned for manufacture and sale.

the novel arrangements and construction thereof. Gregory Penn, of Dallas, Garment Hanger. Further objects of this invention are that the hanger is of comparatively few parts, may be economically constructed and is very strong and durable, being constructed entirely of steel or other strong metal.

STOCKHOLM, June 26.—The Swedish Waiters' Union has declared war on the tipping system and in its agitation for fixed wages instead of tips, it has discovered a which declares that the compensation of those serving liquors should under no circumstances be dependent on the amount of alcohol sold.

MONKEYS REANIMATED BY NEW GLASS ROOF

LONDON, June 26.—Monkeys no longer mope in the London Zoo since they have had installed over their quarters a roof made of special glass which lets in the ultra-violet rays. According to Dr. Chalmers Mitchell, director of the Zoo, the ultra-violet rays which are excluded by the ordinary windowglass, are just what the simians crave and they have responded automatically to the stimulus. They chatter, and swing, and hurl their cocoanuts around with twice the abandon they showed before.

mens came from the same locality and are apparently all parts of the same skeleton according to Dr. Lonsdale. The material at hand it would be possible to at least reconstruct the animal as it existed, he said. The collections of the Bureau of Economic Geology contain many other specimens of great interest and scientific value. It is unfortunate that no place exists where these collections can be properly exhibited to the public.

GERMAN REPUBLIC TO RESTORE MEDALS

BERLIN June 26.—Bestowal of medals, titles, ribbons and other insignia of distinction in Germany, abolished by the revolution of 1918 is soon to be restored. The revival of this custom, practiced lavishly by the ex-kaiser, will now require an amendment of the German republican constitution. In resuscitating the distribution of medals for heroic deeds and public services, the German government is motivated less by a wish to return to customs of the defunct monarchy than by a desire to save money, since decorations are regarded as the cheapest and most valuable gifts that the government can bestow.

"The Truth Is Out" --- WITCHER

Chief Hoskins of the Government Veterans' Hospital tells you WHERE R. E. Lindley is NOW, when he was accepted, what he is being TREATED for!

Johnston and Garrett's Statement about Lindley repudiated.

I am taking the liberty to reproduce a portion of H. L. Johnston's recent advertisement: Here it is: "You will notice below the statement of Dr. Wm. L. Baugh, the County Health Officer, whose duty it is to inspect the sanitary conditions of the County Jail and to treat the ailments of the prisoners therein retained, and of Tom Garrett, a citizen who has lived here for many years. The statements TOTALLY AND FINALLY DISPROVE THE AFFIDAVIT OF ONE OF WITCHER'S CRIMINAL FRIENDS UPON WHOM HE MOST RELIES, AND WHO IS NOT CONFINED IN A GOVERNMENT HOSPITAL, AS STATED BY WITCHER, but who is now in the oil fields of Pioneer, Texas. If this criminal has lied in his affidavit is there any reason to believe that the others have told the truth?"

DR. BAUGH'S STATEMENT

"This is to certify that I examined R. E. Lindley while confined in jail and that at that time he was going under the name of Neal Whit, and that at time he had no evidence of tuberculosis but did have a syphilitic infection that might be contagious; that he was given an immunizing dose of medicine and ordered isolated. "Also that I have examined the jail at least twice a week and outside of minor conditions that were temporary and unavoidable have always found jail as sanitary as its plumbing would permit. (Signed) WM. L. BAUGH, M.D."

EXCERPTS FROM TOM GARRETT'S STATEMENT

"Affiant says that the said R. E. Lindley is at this time at Pioneer, an oil town near Cross Plains, or at least he was there about a week ago." "Subscribed, and sworn to-by Tom Garrett the 19th day of June, before Notary Public, J. M. Mailman.

AND HERE ARE THE FACTS Western Union Telegram Ft. Bayard, N. M., June 24, 1926 W. C. Witcher District Attorney Lubbock, Texas Robert E. Lindley being treated this hospital for tuberculosis since admission June 5th this year. HOSKINS. Ft. Bayard U. S. Veteran Hospital

To more fully appreciate the above statements as compared to the facts given by Government Officer it is necessary to watch dates given by all parties. And remember Lindley is an ex-soldier, served 90 days in Lubbock jail dark cell.

This advertisement is published not only to give the voters of this District the facts contained BUT TO IMPRESS UPON THEM THE CHARACTER OF OPPOSITION I AM FORCED TO MEET.

The character of the political fight being waged against me, conceived in sin and brought forth in iniquity—is, from every angle as wholly false as the above, which speaks for itself, and however obnoxious and repulsive the political situation may be, it is not and cannot be as obnoxious and repulsive as the conditions which made it my duty to expose.

AGAIN I SAY: "THE TRUTH WILL OUT." I certainly appreciate the many hundreds of expressions being received daily from the good people of this district, many of whom I have never met before. They inspire, encourage and spur me on to a greater determination to forever abolish the black jack, the bludgeon and cartridge-belt-brutality that has existed in the Lubbock County jail.

BOBBY JONES, ATLANTA, NOT ONLY WORLD'S GREATEST GOLFER BUT ONE OF MOST POPULAR CHAMPS

ST. ANNES, Eng., June 26.—Robert T. Jones, of Atlanta, Ga., at the age of 24 has become not only the greatest golfer in the world at medal play but one of the most personable and popular champions the game has known.

Year in, year out, Jones' medal scores in important tournaments outranked those of any other golfer of the past decade, not excepting the great Walter Hagen, whom many believe to be Bobby's master at match play.

It is 16 years since the Atlanta, at the age of 8, won his first championship, a special event for children at his home course. At 10, Bobby had added the junior championship of the club to his list, and at 14 was the equal of any adult golfer in the South.

During the early years, however, Jones acted too frequently like a spoiled child, hurrying his club away in disgust after a poor shot, and exercising other displeasing prerogatives of a prodigy. A hasty temper affected his game and kept him from being a really great golfer.

With maturity, Bobby Jones has become the most gracious and unaffected of champions, courteous to opponents, considerate of the gallery, a golfer whose personal charm caused the British to hail his victory at St. Annes as the next best thing to a national triumph.

"We are certainly glad that if a Britisher could win, it was Mr. Jones who did," said Ted Ray, the hard hitting English pro, after the championship.

Jones made his first important bid for amateur golfing honors in his own country at the age of 19, when he was a finalist, losing to David Herron. In that year, Bobby beat the veteran Bill Fownes, Rudy Knapper, Bob Gardner, and Jimmy Manion.

In 1921, the Atlanta finished fifth in the national open championship and in 1922 was second to Gene Sarazen.

The year 1923 saw Bobby crowned national open champion, and in the two succeeding years he annexed the amateur title, a record far surpassing that of any amateur played in recent years.

Although he plays golf all the year around, Jones has steadfastly refused to make the game his profession, thereby turning down prodigious salaries which have been offered to him by promoters everywhere. Bobby is far from independent financially, but he has insisted that he will not turn pro.

"I want to prove to myself that I can do something besides play golf for a living," he said recently, refusing a small fortune offered by a Florida realtor.

Danish women want a common title, analogous to that of Mister for men, which shall not disclose whether they are married or unmarried. Recently there was an agitation to compel married men to wear wedding rings. In these days of equal rights there is no telling what may happen.

Angora will have a wireless station.

Recently greatness was thrust upon one Ignatz Moseicki, engineer and inventor of a synthetic fertilizer, Polish-born but naturalized Swiss, when he was suddenly elected president of the Polish Republic. The new president had never been prominent politically, did not possess a dress shirt in which to be inaugurated, though one was obtained in time for the ceremony—but he was a friend of the victorious General Pilsudski, who dictated his election.

Leonard H. Denton, 9-year-old son of E. Denton, of Muleshoe, died late Friday night in a local sanitarium. His body was taken to the Rix Undertaking Parlor where it was prepared for burial. He will be buried today in Muleshoe.

SHREWD MOSCOW THIEVES STEAL WHAT THEY SELL

MOSCOW—Ventilators are scarce in Moscow. Two ingenious mechanics named Fogashov and Mironov took advantage of this fact to carry out an elaborate and prolonged scheme of robbery.

Having constructed two or three ventilators, they announced themselves as a "ventilator trust" and solicited orders, which soon began to pour in from factories and offices. The mechanics installed a ventilator took a careful view of the lay of the land, and on first convenient dark night came back and stole it.

They then repaired it and resold it, sometimes to the same institution from which it was stolen. In one month they rolled up a record of sixty-four thefts before they were collected by the criminal police.

HIGH SCHOOL ATTENDANCE INVOLVES DIFFICULTIES

Of 1,046 town pupils attending Winfield (Kans.) High School, 931 walk from 1 to 30 blocks going to and returning from school, 43 use bicycles, 14 travel by street car, and 58 by auto. This does not include 103 pupils from surrounding territory who travel an average of 5.2 miles five days a week to attend this high school. Exclusive of pupils who live on farms and have daily chores to perform at home, 183 pupils of the school work at different occupations in out-of-school hours, earning an average of $4 per week. Ten out-of-town girls work for their room and board in Winfield.

SPECIAL TRAINING FOR CAMP LEADERS

Courses for training councilors in organized summer camps for boys and girls are available in many institutions. Nine colleges and universities in seven States and the District of Columbia provide courses in theory and methods of camping; and in nine special schools of physical education in addition to training courses, students are required to spend from 6 to 16 weeks in actual camp life. Special courses in camp administration for leaders are provided for Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts organizations, and the National Association of Directors of Summer Camps offers each year a short course in camp methods.

REVOLUTIONARY LEADERS WERE WELL EDUCATED

Twenty-three of the 56 signers of the Declaration of Independence were college-bred men, nearly all of them graduates, according to School Life, a publication of the Department of the Interior, Bureau of Education. Harvard was represented by 8; William and Mary by 3; Yale, 3; Cambridge (England), 3; Princeton, 2; "Philadelphia," 2; Edinburgh, 1; Jesuit College at Rheims, 1. Sixteen others received "excellent" or "classical" education, one of them at Westminster School, London. Two obtained all their formal instruction from tutors; and 16, including Franklin, Wythe, Roger Sherman, and Robert Morris, had but little schooling.

Golf Is to Scots What Baseball Is to America

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, June 26.—Baseball became the leading American pastime, in the opinion of those financially interested in the game, because the kids played it and grew up with it. Golf, for the same reason beyond doubt, is the national game of Scotland and always will be and for that same reason may some day become the most generally played game in the United States.

All the tourist can hear talked in Scotland and see played there is golf. The villages all over the countryside have greens in the public places where even the farm hands, truck drivers and storekeepers practice putting at night.

Little tots, hardly able to walk and not able to talk beyond the limit of "trotter around with toy putters in their hands and approach a rubber ball like they knew just what it was all about.

An indication of the respect in which golf is held in Scotland was found at the Muirfield course where the British amateur golf championship, won by Jess Sweetser, was held. The best source of low-down information upon the ability of various British players was not the secretary of the Honourable Club, the guide book, which gave the "Who's Who" on every prominent player in the world, or the traveling caddies who live and sleep on golf courses.

The fact that they were able to go out and play nine holes of golf at nine o'clock at night explains another reason why golf goes so big in Scotland.

No kids, juniors or seniors, even with daylight saving time could start a game of baseball, golf or tennis at nine o'clock, but the day lasts so long in Scotland and the sun lingers so late that a business man, a clerk or a laborer can finish his day's work, eat his heavy meal and then walk around the corner to a golf course that seems to be always immediate, and play his desired number of rounds.

And there is another reason for golf in Scotland—there is nothing else to do in the villages.

The first snag struck by the preparatory disarmament commission at Geneva was its attempt to define "armaments." Each nation represented having its own interpretation of the meaning of the term. Just now it appears that no practical agreement can be reached, because of the complex nature of the problem. It looks as though peace in future may be secured as in the past—by being ready to fight for it.

Two days later he said: "I put two pounds on Sweetser last night." He also cashed in a bet of two pounds that Bobby Jones would beat Bob Harris, the former champion.

The stewards in the tent worked like stevedores for nine or ten hours each day but when the day's labor was finished they went out for their nine holes of golf.

They considered that the gods had been with them because they were permitted to go on the course. One of the maids that through the influence of one of the Americans they had been allowed to violate all traditions by playing on a championship course during a championship tournament.

"Tradesmen like we are," he explained, "are never supposed to walk on the same ground with an amateur golfer."

FORTY PER CENT OF CENTRAL EUROPE RISKS ITS SAVINGS YEARLY ON GOVERNMENT LOTTERIES, IS CLAIM

By ROBERT BEST
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

VIENNA, June 26.—More than one-third of the population of Central Europe are gamblers. Each year nearly forty per cent of the adult population risk their savings with the hope, which is sometimes, though rarely realized, of winning enough money to buy a home or perhaps to quit work.

Republics may come, monarchies may go, but gambling in Central Europe goes on forever. Austria, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia, Hungary and most of the other countries in this part of the world have lotteries of one kind and another.

Most of the lotteries are run directly by the respective governments through sometimes churches and welfare organizations with the special permission of their governments use the lottery system to raise money. In a lottery millions of dollars are poured each year; rich and poor buy tickets and store them away until the days when the drawings are made.

Every possible method is used to encourage participation in the lotteries. Generally speaking, though the practice varies in different countries, every postoffice, every telegraph office, every tobacco store (government institutions in Europe) tries to sell a lottery ticket to each customer. Tickets are thrust at everyone who ventures to buy a postage stamp or to send a telegram.

The lotteries are of two kinds: "class lotteries" and "ordinary lotteries." The ordinary lotteries are similar to those which once were countenanced in the western world. The class lotteries are more or less a Central European specialty; one buys a ticket for a certain sum. If this ticket does not win in the first drawing he may renew it for the next period or "class" which is to be called by making another payment. If it doesn't win in the second, third, or fourth he may still continue to renew it by more payments. Inasmuch as the payments are slightly reduced each time whereas the prizes are increased in value there is a very strong psychological appeal to each participant to make the necessary payment and so "hold on for good luck."

The "lottery idea" has become so deeply ingrained in the Central European mind that no one ever questions its morality. At least, no one was ever known to raise his voice against it. If a church needs repairs or if a congregation wishes to buy a new bell, a Bible, or an altar cloth a request is sent to the government for permission to hold a small lottery. If a hospital needs new equipment similar action is taken. Such requests are usually granted if responsible authorities are back of them.

The first lottery in Central Europe was that established for the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy by Maria Theresa in the year 1751. For some time this lottery was leased out to a private company; but the government soon realized the lottery's value as a source of income for the state and so declared it to be a state monopoly. Decision to grant the right of holding private lotteries to hospitals, churches, and other charity organizations in order to silence possible opposition was an afterthought of some shrewd nineteenth century Minister of Finance.

When the old Hapsburg Monarchy was broken up by the war the newer states declared their independence from Austrian political and economic domination; but they carried with them the Hapsburg idea of state lotteries. Even before they had entered into diplomatic relations with foreign powers through the establishment of legations and consulates each of the new states began to print lottery tickets.

Some idea of the grip which the lottery idea has on the popular mind may be gleaned from figures. In the years 1921 and 1922, when the Austrian currency was plunging down by leaps and bounds and when the little Austrian republic itself was on the very verge of collapse the state lottery continued to do business just as it had also done during the four dark years of war, 1914-1918. Prizes amounting to more than half a million dollars were distributed during those two years. In 1923, although Austria was still having a stiff uphill fight for her existence $625,000 were distributed in prizes. In 1924, the figure reached $1,139,800, and last year it was $2,377,100.

The amount of profit which the Austrian Government derived from the lotteries is unknown—only the amount of the prizes is ever published in any country. Making the usual allowance of 40 per cent for profits and 10 per cent for overhead charges in connection with printing and selling of tickets, etc., one can see that even when short of bread the Central Europeans never "went short" on buying "lottery stock."

Only the various governments themselves know what sums change hands in the Central European lotteries each year. Any estimate of the total could at best be only a guess. A safe guess, however, probably would be around thirty million dollars.

Suzanne Lenglen Gets Bawled Out

WIMBLEDON, England, June 25.—Suzanne Lenglen's discovery of a sudden indisposition which prevented her from playing in a singles match Wednesday, when Queen Mary had come to Wimbledon for the express purpose of watching Mme. Lenglen perform, now is attributed by authorities source to pique. When the French Ambassador learned that it was difficulties of this nature, rather than physical inability, which prevented Mme. Lenglen from appearing, he is understood to have given Suzanne what is known as a severe "bawling out" for her alleged discourtesy to the queen.

HOLLYWOOD PERMANENT FILM CAPITAL

HOLLYWOOD, June 26.—Hollywood is firmly established as the world's motion-picture capital in the opinion of foremost film producers.

What New York is to finance, and Detroit into the automobile industry, Hollywood is to the world of the cinema.

Hollywood, in the screen cosmos, means Southern California, as actual production is being scattered about the city's environs.

"Pictures will always be made elsewhere, but Hollywood is so predominant, and so deeply entrenched behind its mechanical and technical bulwarks, there is no chance of supplanting it," declared B. P. Schulberg, production chief at the Famous Players-Lasky west coast studio.

"A certain number of pictures will always be made in New York. Certain types of pictures require settings which are best found there and Paramount maintains a large studio at Astoria, Long Island, for this purpose.

"However, our schedule calls for the making of seven pictures in California for every three made in the east.

"Practically all of our biggest pictures, either have been or will be made with the Hollywood studio as the base of operations."

Hollywood originally became the world's film center because of the year around sunlight in Southern California. Sunlight was a vital factor in filming 10 to 15 years ago. Even interior scenes were filmed in sunlight.

"In Hollywood and its surrounding towns and cities there are many millions invested in studios, buildings land and standing sets," continued Schulberg, in a United Press interview.

"Thousands of stars, players, directors, writers, carpenters, electricians cameramen and specialized workmen, not to mention the professional extras and big players, own homes in Southern California.

"Hollywood is also the ideal center for locations. You can have sea, mountains, snow and hot desert sand-dunes, all within a few hours' ride."

Pictures will always be made abroad to some extent, according to Schulberg, by both American and foreign producers.

"We have purchased several UFA, German-made pictures, this year," he said and when a foreign locale is desired, we make our own films

Care Used In Assembling Engines

THE many parts which make up the Buick engine are shown being assembled. Each has passed through many operations and undergone exacting tests before being declared fit to go into assembly.

The pistons have been ground to limits of one thousandth of an inch and have been graded into three classes, according to whether they are a fraction above perfection, a fraction below it, or just about right.

The cylinder bores have also been accurately finished and graded in the same manner. During the assembly operation the workmen will fit certain grades of pistons to certain grades of cylinder bores, in order to get as perfect a fit as possible. This is but one example of the care taken in assembling the engine.

When completely assembled, the engines undergo a block running test of several hours duration. They are then taken to a silent room, where expert testers listen intently for any noises that would indicate imperfection at any point. Having passed these tests successfully, the engines are then moved by conveyor to another part of the factory for assembly into a car.

abroad."

Other big companies make the great bulk of their pictures in Southern California. Most of them produce here exclusively.

Fox and Warner Brothers have enormous studios in the heart of Hollywood. Fox will soon move into a larger studio in Westwood, adjoining Beverly Hills.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has its entire plant at Culver City, six miles from Hollywood. Cecil B. DeMille and Hal Roach also produce their pictures exclusively at Culver City. Metropolitan, Producers Distributing Corporation, Christie-Comedies, and F. B. O. produce all their releases in Hollywood.

Richard Barthelmess, long a New York stand-by, recently moved his entire production unit to Hollywood and is making his permanent home here.

First National makes a number of its big productions in New York. However, this company is now erecting a gigantic new plant in Burbank, near Hollywood, and will hereafter produce nearly all of its films in Southern California.

All but one of the United Artists stars produce in Hollywood. Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Charles Chaplin, Buster Keaton, Rudolph Valentino and John Barrymore all work here. Gloria Swanson, the sole exception, makes her pictures in New York.

Producing costs in New York are comparatively excessive, according to the producers. Stages are built like office buildings and are hard and expensive to heat in winter.

In addition, it is explained, there is a greater selection among supporting actors, and better technical facilities in Hollywood.

The health of the family is one of great interest to the housewife. There is no food which is so healthful as plenty of milk according to those best informed on that question. And there is no other food so easily contaminated as milk—no other food which is so affected by temperature.

To keep good milk good—use plenty of ice in your refrigerator. If you use chipped ice in glass be sure that the ice you use is of pure water and doesn't spoil the taste of the milk.

Too, it is a mistake to buy only enough ice one day to do until the next delivery. A full refrigerator makes refrigeration better and does not increase the cost of ice in the long run.

WHITES AND INDIANS MEET ON SITE OF CUSTER'S STAND TO PLEDGE RENEWED PEACE

BILLINGS, Mont. June 26.—The Seventh U. S. cavalry today rode up Little Rosebud valley and down the ridge where 50 years ago today Gen. George A. Custer and his 207 men dashed to their death.

And from the opposite of the ridge came 3,000 Sioux and Cheyennes, the two forces to meet on the battlefield of Little Big Horn not as foes, but as friends.

Fifty thousand are expected to gather at Crow agency, three miles from where General Custer and his men gave their lives to the last man, to commemorate the intrepid white warrior, and give equal tribute to the picturesque Chief Galt, who paid too dear a price for his victory since it was for the Red Man the beginning of the end that came within 15 months.

The anniversary will see further progress in peace, for not only will the white men and the Indians reaffirm their pledges, but two tribes, the Crow and Sioux, between whom down the ages has come a bitter enmity, plan today for the first time to smoke the pipe of peace.

A reunion of the veterans of all Indian wars took place yesterday. In the limelight stood the few surviving veterans of the command of Major Reno and Captain Benteen who campaigned with Custer, and their old Indian adversaries who participated in the actual engagement in which Custer and his entire command lost their lives.

Four troops and the regimental band of the Seventh Cavalry from Fort Bliss today traveled the route that Custer rode, to meet on the battlefield the Indians approaching from the opposite direction, chanting ancestral death hymns for their departed. In the latter group were some feeble old men, returning to the scene for the first time since 1876.

As the two groups meet by Custer's monument, they will salute, give the peace pipe, and ride in column 4½ miles to the site of the Indian Wars Veterans' national cemetery.

There a monument will be dedicated and an old brave will hand to Major General E. S. Godfrey, retired, of Crookston, N. Y., a symbolic hatchet to be buried in the base stone of the monument.

White-Man-Runs-Him, a Crow, will give the peace pipe to a Sioux chieftain and these tribes will smoke forever the old hatreds.

General Godfrey is chairman of the national committee in charge of the celebration. Heading the list of members are: Mrs. George A. Custer, New York; Mrs. Nina Sturgis Dousman, New York; relative of Lieutenant Jack Sturgis, who fell with General Custer; Mrs. Francis M. Gibson; Mary Roberts Rinehart, U. S. Senators and Congressmen of Montana and Wyoming; Gov. A. G. Sordlie, North Dakota; Gov. J. E. Erickson, Montana; Mrs. Nellie T. Ross, Governor of Wyoming, presidents of leading Northwest railroads; Gen. S. W. Fountain, commander of the Order of Indian Wars; Haverford, Conn.; Hon. Luther Larker, national commander National Veterans Indian Wars; Clay Center, Kans.; Hon. John H. Brandt, Los Angeles; Hon. John B. Inman, commander-in-chief G. A. R.; Springfield, Ill.; Hon. Carmi Thompson, commander in U. S. S. W. V.; Hon. John Mahan, national commander disabled American Veterans, Helena, Mont.; Col. John McElroy, editor National Tribune, Washington; George W. Webb, editor "Winners of the West" St. Joseph, Mo.; and Col. George Keohn, editor "Veteran" Portland, Ore.

Among others present were D. F. Barry of Superior, Wis., pioneer photographer of the Dakotas, whose galleries contain portraits of all the noted Indians of the Northwest and who forty years ago listed to Chief Galt describe the Custer battle, Pawnee Bill, and Joe Partello.

North Dakotans who cannot come to Crow agency will observe the day at Fort Abraham Lincoln near Mandan, N. D., from whence Custer and his gallant horsemen started on their fatal trip, gaily singing "The Girl I Left Behind Me." There Mrs. Custer and the families of the first received on July 6 the first definite word of the disaster when Captain Marsh brought his "The Far West" into port, loaded with the dead and wounded of the battles that followed the Custer fight.

There will be no harsh note towards the Indians in the celebration. Fifty years have done much to obliterate prejudice and enable the Northwest to view impartially the Indian uprisings. Published accounts in connection with the celebration have avoided use of the phrase "Custer Massacre." Recognition is given to the fact that the Indians strove against unequal odds to retain the land that was theirs by priority of settlement.

Men who knew Chief Galt, long after the Battle of Little Big Horn when years of reservation life had failed to break his spirit, honor his bravery. The late Major James A. McLaughlin, pioneer Indian agent in the Dakotas and later superintendent of all Indian agencies, has written the story of the Custer battle from the Indian standpoint, getting his material and atmosphere from Mrs. Spotted Horn Bull, educated Indian woman, and relative of Sitting Bull, the Medicine Chief, who was with Chief Galt when the attack was made on Custer.

"BOBBED HAIR A NUISANCE" SAYS LEATRICE JOY

Bobbed hair is all right, if one isn't a movie star, in the opinion of Letatrice Joy, star of the Cecil B. DeMille supervised production, "Hell's Highroad," which opens Monday for a two nights run at the Palace Theatre.

Miss Joy, who is shingled as becomes the mode, declares that there is so little with which to work when one's hair is cut that new coiffures are difficult to achieve. And when Letatrice found that her journey over "Hell's Highroad" required her to appear in five different hair dresses she had to do a lot of experimenting. However, the results are entirely satisfactory. She is first seen with her hair uncut, has it in a simple bob in the next sequence, and as the picture progresses her coiffures become more elaborate and even more becoming, the "zig-zag part" being the climax of this series of interesting coiffures.

Rupe's Julian, who directs "Hell's Highroad" under DeMille's supervision, has a long list of successful productions to his credit. Supporting Miss Joy are Edmund Burns, Julia Faye, Robert Edeson and a list of other prominent screen celebrities. "Hell's Highroad" is released through Producers Distribution Corporation.

SYSTEMATIC STUDY OF MUSIC BY RADIO

Intensive advance study of musical programs to be given by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra is made by children in public and parochial schools of Detroit, Mich., and suburban towns. The study culminates in a music memory contest held each spring, when themes of the selections previously given are played by the orchestra, followed by examination of the children. Programs for next year, with analytical notes, will be published in advance in order that pupils may be thoroughly prepared for the contests. Arrangements have been completed by the State department of education for the broadcasting next session of the entire series of concerts, which are held in the afternoon, so that all Michigan children may have the advantage of this popular course in music memory and appreciation.

SAYS DAN GAMBLER WITH LOADED DICE

ROLLING BONES FOR PUBLIC TRUST WITH FERGUSON SAYS DAVIDSON

BELLS, Texas, June 26.—Cheers and laughter greeted Lynch Davidson here this afternoon at the big Grayson County Picnic when he declared the governor's race was a "Jim-Dandy for the first furlong, but nobody ever expected a couple of quarter horses to win a two-mile heat." Davidson was in excellent spirits and optimistic as to the outcome of the campaign. He declared that Ferguson and Moody have "finally run out of mud and rocks and can't find anything more to throw. So they just stand and puff and glare at each other."

"Pick up any newspaper and scan the Moody-Ferguson political news," Davidson urged his audience. "The headlines are all alike. 'Jim scores Dan' and 'Dan skins Jim.' Read the account under the headline. It's the same old story that was printed last month, last week, yesterday and will come out again tomorrow. The public knows it by heart. Jim challenges Dan to a comic supplement duel and Dan accepts. Jim insults Dan by calling him Jiggs Moody. Dan gets madder than ever and calls Jim Andy Gump Ferguson. The voters laughed the first time snickered the second time, but, now it doesn't even provoke a sickly grin. Meanwhile the office boy is running the attorney general's office and Ma Ferguson is having the first real chance to act as governor since she was elected." Davidson then switched to a more serious vein. He declared that neither of his opponents have offered anything constructive for state government. "Each bases his claim for office on his personal hatred of the other and appeals only to the passions and prejudices of the voters," he said. "Meanwhile Texas is held up to ridicule in the eyes of the nation. This state is notorious for good business and bad government. Jim Ferguson rolls a pair of loaded dice at Dan Moody and the attorney general picks them up and gambles away his public trust. Ferguson bids for public favor by suggesting that Texas repudiate their honest debts and because the supreme court has ruled the road bonds technically illegal. He can only attract those few people who lack the moral fiber of honesty. This one act should brand him as a pariah in the eyes of respectable citizens. Texas can and will find the way to make these bonds good and restore to good name of the state throughout the world."

"The voters of Texas realize the peril of another two years of Fergusonism. They are determined to rid the state of its parasitic government, but they have come to realize that Dan Moody, who stabs at Fergusonism and then descends to the same level with it, is not the man to eliminate the proxy governor. If Moody should win a place in the final primary against Ferguson, Farmer Jim will have won another victory. He wants Moody for his opponent because he knows he can defeat Moody. Ferguson does not want to face me in the run-off because he knows I will ignore his one weapon—personal abuse."

"The campaign of hate was started too early in the race. It has burned itself out. It is time now to consider the welfare of Texas."

York Cup Race On Thames Today

By United Press

LONDON, June 26.—Two boats flying the colors of the United States and one under the Canadian flag Sunday will compete on the Thames for the Duke of York Trophy, the first time in the history of the race that overseas speed boats have been entered.

Charles F. Chapman and Howard W. Lyon will pilot the 11-2 Hter boats which are to represent the United States. The owners are Carl G. Fisher and D. P. Davis. The Canadian entry is owned by Commodore Harry B. Greening of the Royal Hamilton Yacht Club.

The American craft, 18-footers, have attained a speed of 50 miles an hour in practice runs, and the race was won last year with an average of nearer 40 miles.

In addition to the American invaders boats from England, Germany and France will compete.

The course is 20 miles in length requiring four complete round trips of the Thames between Chiswick and Putney Bridge. It is a thrilling test for drivers since the course is anything but a straightaway, forming an almost perfect "U" shape.

According to the rules of the Duke of York Trophy the nation first to win two races takes the cup. Hence tomorrow's victor will not necessarily receive the trophy. Another race will be run Monday and one each day following until one nation has won two heats.

Presentation probably will be made in person by the Duke of York.

PRESIDENT'S SUMMER HOME LUXURIOUS

By JOHN MONTGOMERY (United Press Staff Correspondent) WASHINGTON, D. C. June 26.—White Pine Camp, the estate of Irvin E. Kirkwood, where President and Mrs. Coolidge will spend the summer, is a veritable palace, despite its appellation and is known as "the finest camp in the Adirondacks."

It occupies 35 acres of heavily wooded land almost surrounding beautiful Lake Osgood, between two mountain ridges. The nearest village, in the form of a tiny resort town, Gabriels, N. Y., is four miles distant. The camp is 14 miles from Saranac Lake and 20 miles from Lake Placid.

The camp consists of several "cabins" grouped close to the lake. The master cabin will be occupied by President and Mrs. Coolidge, while the White House personnel doubtless will occupy the other buildings.

The master cabin is a lodge of two large rooms and two separate suites. One suite consists of a living room, bed room, dressing room, sewing room, bed room and a maid's room. This suite is to be occupied by Mrs. Coolidge. The other suite includes a living room, bed room and bath. The cabin has the usual butler's pantry, kitchen, servant's dining room and butler's room.

The house has been elaborately furnished. Portieres drap the walls, falling to a floor covered with deep Oriental rugs, furniture is in period style. Paneling, flooring and exposed woodwork is expensive and lightly polished.

The exterior of this cabin is of untrimmed boards giving it a camp appearance. But the interior is luxurious.

Articles and Local News about South-Plains Farmers; Prepared by Welton Winn, Practical Farmer

Geo. B. Terrell, Commissioner of Agriculture, Talks to West Texas C. of C.

AMARILLO, June 21.—Geo. B. Terrell, Commissioner of Agriculture, addressed the West Texas Chamber of Commerce today on the subject of "A Menace to the Cotton Industry." He spoke in part as follows:

Geo. B. Terrell, Com. of Agriculture, Austin Texas

At the request of your assistant manager I am here to talk to you upon a subject of vital importance to the cotton country and all of West Texas. I am glad to be here to meet and mingle with the citizens of the great northwest, the empire builders of this wonderful section of Texas. Every time I come here and breathe the pure air of the plains, I feel invigorated as if I had drunk from the fountain of youth. Before I begin my subject, I must say that the people of the plains are the biggest boosters and best advertisers I ever saw.

When he has finished and got a chance to ask Uncle Silas he liked the sermon, the old darkey said: "Mars John, the sermon was just fine. I don't see how you learned to preach so well, being as this is the first sermon you ever preached."

The young man said: "Uncle Silas can't you make some suggestion that would enable me to preach better next time?"

Just as soon as I had accepted an invitation to meet with you upon this occasion I have not been able to get into the Chamber of Commerce. He requested Uncle Silas to notice his sermon carefully and to tell him of any errors he made so that he might improve by his preaching by the criticism of Uncle Silas. The young man and Uncle Silas took a back seat to hear his young master preach his first sermon. The young man had a good delivery and aroused the enthusiasm of his audience. He would say you need not experience any change of heart, just accept the Lord Jesus Christ at his word, and you are saved right now. You need not expect to be stricken down like Saul of Tarsus and see a great light, just accept the Lord at his word and you are saved. There is no such thing as heart felt religion.

Suggested Improvements In Live Stock Marketing

Some six years ago the writer called public attention to the necessity for a better system of marketing live stock for slaughter purposes. Attention was called to the opportunities in economic savings and a better means of protecting public health by the establishment of local slaughter houses.

The establishment of local slaughter houses would create stronger local markets, would give local inspection, which in turn would protect the health and the wholesomeness of our food animals. They would eliminate a great loss in the freight to and from distant large packing concerns and eliminate at least some of the intervening commission charges. They would give some competition in the buying of livestock. They could become the center of creative efforts, especially in the sale of dressed poultry and eggs, for these products could be pooled and held until ready to go into local cars for the big markets of the North and East.

The movement of eggs and dressed poultry in car lots would certainly mean some improvement in prices. Such establishments would not only encourage the growing of poultry, but, combined with curing plants would encourage the growing of cattle, hogs, sheep, etc., on every farm. The best and cheapest time to fatten a hog or lamb, for example, is during the warm months when there is no frost from the garden and the chicken, more succulent feed of all kinds and none of the fat has to be consumed in resisting the cold. Every month in the year these animals could be slaughtered and when one is moved out another could be put in its stead. Farmers could have fresh meat the year round, and of their own growing. There would be no loss because of bad weather or rancid meat because of slaughtering in bulk at only one period of the year. There would be a greater variety of fresh meat because any animal could be used any time it got fat. The farmer could fatten a hog on slop and waste and a sheep on grass and weeds. They would each have a local market and a home use.

There isn't a sound business rule that can be brought against the local slaughter house in any county that has sufficient production and population to sustain one. And because the idea is so wholesome and feasible attention is again being called to it. The other plan which was suggested in the News Bulletin several years ago proposed to apply the principle of standardization and inspection in the sale of animals for slaughter.

In this country with its millions of producers, it is not possible for the grade to accept the responsibility of individual growers. In the handling of perishables and other products this handicap has been met by the establishment of grades and the employment of disinterested inspectors under state and federal control. Surveys are not impracticable to establish livestock standards and employ competent livestock inspectors.

This would not eliminate any tariffs or commissions nor give any competition to the big packers. But it would enable the seller to know exactly what he is going to receive for his stock before he ships them. As it stands now, when a car of livestock is loaded and consigned both the stock and the seller are doomed. Before the stock reaches their destination the market may go all to the bad. It often does. But however bad the market may temporarily be, it is not practical to return them and take the same risk over again. For the ill effects of shipping and the freight and other costs are too great.

What The Farmers Tell Us

Mr. W. J. Roberts, who lives out west in the Canyon community, was in Saturday. He said his crops are as good as he could wish for, his cotton and food are both. He has some corn that is also very fine. He believes in growing in this county and said he made 50 bushels per acre here in 1920. Mr. Roberts said he never fails to grow corn and that last year his corn crop was more valuable than his milk crop which was right along beside the corn.

Last Saturday was a cheerful day for us. We had a feeling of disapproval early in the day but when we met so many good farmers who were in the city on that day and giving such good reports, it made us glad, indeed. That good farmer, Mr. J. B. Potts, who lives in the Canyon community was in and said every thing out his way was in excellent condition. His brother, Mr. E. L. Potts, was also in and gave about the same report of his crops and of the balance of the crops in that section of the county.

Mr. O. L. Atkins, who lives in the Canyon community, was in and was all smiles and said conditions had never been any better since he has lived in the county. Mr. Atkins is a close observer and his testimony is very valuable, so we can all rejoice together over the unparalleled prospects that are before us.

Friday we passed the farm of our friend, J. I. McDonald, who lives north-west near the Virgin Bank. His crop is in excellent condition. He has bought a farm down there but could not get possession this year. Mr. McDonald is putting in some new land and was working on it when we saw him. He has lived in this county for some time and is so well pleased with this county that he has bought and located here permanently. We are glad to know this as Mr. McDonald is a good farmer and when good farmers see this section they usually want to locate here without trying it out for a time.

Mr. B. F. Chatman, who lives out north-west, was in Saturday. He said his crops are all doing nicely, but that between Monroe and Idalou there was a hail that ruined the crops over a small territory; he said they would have to plant the crops over where the hail went but fortunately there was only a small territory visited by the hail.

Mr. M. A. Ash, who lives up near Anton, was in Saturday. He said the farms up his way had their crops all in fine condition; said they were doing most of their cultivation with the harrow and mentioned our plan for more use of the harrow on farms and on the growing crops. He said we were exactly right. He said more men up his way had harrowed their cotton and other crops three times and might go over them again before using other kinds of cultivation. He said he could not understand how any farmer would try to make a good crop without the frequent use of the harrow.

H. H. Speers, who lives near Taboka, was in the city Saturday. He lives between Wilson and Taboka, and said that crops in that part of the country are real good and the farmers have their crops all in fine condition and were all cheerful over the splendid outlook. He said in Lynn county there were some oats sown and that they are fine and about ready to harvest. He said the farmers are trying to grow their own meat and thinks every farmer should grow meat for his own use if no more. Speaking of the cotton reduction he said he had reduced his acreage, but he thought there would be about as much cotton planted this year as last year. Mr. Speers said he had 12 acres in corn that is fine; he thinks there should be much more corn grown in this section than is at present. He said his son, C. C. Speers, is in the club work and has some fine crops coming on. He said the club work is encouraging the boys to better effort and will, without a doubt, do a great deal of good for the boys.

Mr. Chas. Ehlo, who lives southeast, was in Saturday and told us about his crops. He said his crops are fine, both cotton and feed. He said he had 4 acres in corn that really beautiful. He believes in growing corn in this county. He said in 1919 he raised 70 bushels of corn per acre and the same year he had 5 acres in cotton that made 6 bales. He is strong for good seed for planting of all crops, and said with better seed there would be better yields. He said in 1919 when he had the good corn crop, an Indiana man visited his farm and was surprised to see such fine corn and went on to say that was as good corn as they could grow in Indiana, and tried to buy his farm. Mr. Ehlo has been here 12 years.

Mr. W. J. Roberts, who lives out west in the Canyon community, was in Saturday. He said his crops are as good as he could wish for, his cotton and food are both. He has some corn that is also very fine. He believes in growing in this county and said he made 50 bushels per acre here in 1920. Mr. Roberts said he never fails to grow corn and that last year his corn crop was more valuable than his milk crop which was right along beside the corn.

Dean Leidigh and others connected with the department of agriculture of the Texas Technological College have succeeded in leading much to the appearance of the campus thru their program of beautification. Hundreds of trees and shrubs all the varieties of flowers that thrive in this climate and in fact every planting that would add anything to the beauty of the grounds has been well planned. The students in the summer school now in session, are showing more than usual interest in the campus, and have been careful to respect the wishes of those responsible for the grounds by sweeping off the growing lawns.

The Plains Truly A Great Country

We have always been strong for the plains ever since we first saw them, but as we learn more and more about them our faith grows stronger and stronger in them. Saturday our veteran peccan man, Hon. M. E. Merrell, who possibly planted the first peccans that ever were planted in this county was in the office and when asked about his peccans was delighted to tell us that the fine tree at his home which is something near thirty feet tall and never put on any nuts before, was well laden with peccans at present. He has been surprised that this tree did not bear and had Mr. Burkett the peccan specialist of the department of agriculture to look the tree over and Mr. Burkett gave as his idea, that the tree was growing too fast to bear, all were surprised that such a healthy tree did but has grown from the nut and ever the cause was has disappeared and the tree is now loaded with peccans. This tree is only 7 or 8 years old it has grown from the nut and is ideal shade trees and there is no excuse for growing other shades, when the peccan will make as fine shade as any tree on the list and then is a long life tree, besides the fine nuts that they will produce.

The peccan nut has been classed as a luxury nut, but as much certainly can be recognized as a first class food, then the fact that we have to plant and care for any tree in this section until it gets started off in its growth it is highly important that we plant the best trees for future usefulness. There is no other tree we can plant with as much certainty of being a useful tree as the peccan, we hope our people will consider the importance of planting these beautiful and useful trees in abundance. This fall why not form a peccan growing association, and all join and then all work together and cooperate in buying large quantities this fall and plant thousands of them all over these plains. Who will be the first to come in and give their names as charter members of such a useful organization. We will try to urge this kind of organization; what we want is to see these plains in a few years dotted with fine bearing peccan trees.

Other Wonders Still Are Seen
Mr. L. N. Delmont, the veteran horticulturist was in the city Saturday with some specimens of fine peaches, plums, apricots and grapes and cherries grown in his orchard. When asked how he managed to save his fruit from the freeze he said he did this by propagating the kind that would succeed in this part of the plains. We knew he had a nursery at Hobbs, N. M., and was curious to know how he saved his fruit while most of the fruit in this part of the country was damaged by the freeze. He said the samples he was showing were grown 14 miles southeast of Plainview and that he also had some of the same at his Hobbs nursery. He has given lots of study and time to propagating the best varieties for the plains as he has been here and in that work for at least 20 years.

FARMERS SHOULD FILL HOME PORK BARREL

Too many farmers buy a part of all of their supply of meat from local stores and hucksters. Meat, especially pork, can be grown and cured at home for much less than the cost of the purchased meat, to say nothing of a ready market for good country hams, shoulders and sides. In spite of this custom of farmers purchasing cured meats is increasing. It may not be practicable for every farmer butcher and cure his own meat, but in nearly every community a few farmers could do this and make good profits. Farmers who sell concentrated meats have experienced very little difficulty in establishing a permanent trade. To accomplish this one must understand the kind of cured meat his trade demands, and also how it is made. Country-cured meat often carries too much fat and un-

The Wheat Crop And The Price

In looking over the crop reports of our exchanges we see that the state has a good wheat crop and that the harvest is now under way in most of the wheat producing counties. We are always glad to see the harvest start up, the olden time the harvest was a great occasion, the Jews were required to give the first of their wheat to the Lord in what they called a wave offering, and then there were other things they did to show their appreciation to Jehovah for the harvest of the harvest. We think it might not be out of place for us to try to show our appreciation more than we usually do to pass that we would have greater harvest to be thankful for.

Now with the present price of wheat, the average yield that is estimated, the wheat will bring from $20 to $25 per acre this year. We think when it is figured what the cost of cultivation and harvesting the crops will be this will be as profitable and more profitable than will a cotton crop. Then when a man has his grainers filled with good wheat, he can sleep well no matter how low or how high the price of cotton is. We think the farmers of this county should begin right now to plan to plant quite a lot of wheat this fall, we have suggested that where men have large farms it would be a safe plan to follow cultivate part of their land during the spring and be ready to sow when the time comes to plant, but any land that is well cultivated in cotton or feed can be planted to wheat this fall with splendid chances of making a good crop. We have studied the plains lands carefully for the thirteen years we have lived here and we are free to say most any of the land above the cap rock will grow good wheat if given a fair chance. Recent experiments show that by rotation of crops the fertility of the land can be maintained, and if we continue to grow cotton this fall should secure some good seed wheat. The proper thing to do is to rotate the crops, and this fall will be a good time to begin this important work. The farmers who contemplate trying some wheat this fall should secure some good seed wheat right at the threshers, and not wait until planting time to get their seed wheat. It is said that economy is foresight and arrangement.

desirable odors, and it is generally too salty. A well-marbled, juicy, savory piece of meat showing the proper admixture of fat and lean and possessing a good flavor is the kind the consumer desires.

More Light, More Eggs
Stories of increased egg production by hens subjected to artificial light to lengthen their "laying day" frequently have been published, but many persons have no doubt considered the idea in the nature of a joke. But serious experiments, with data carefully recorded, have conclusively demonstrated the fact that hens aroused before daylight in lighted coops will produce more eggs than those "working" only during the natural day.

A test covering two months, held on the farm of R. L. Putze, near Richmond, Va., was most interesting. His flock of 360 White Leghorn hens was divided into two equal groups of 180 hens each, one group being subjected to artificial light and the other being without lights. In the lighted pens, an alarm clock operating a knife switch turned on the lights at 5 o'clock in the morning during the months of February and March. As a result, the hens in the lighted pen laid 6,528 eggs during the two months, while those in the unlighted pen laid only 4,956. The value of the additional 1,572 eggs produced through lighting was $52.48. The expense for electricity used in lighting was only 96 cents. Thus the actual added profit on the flock of 180 hens resulting from early morning lighting of their pen was $51.44.

Dean Leidigh and others connected with the department of agriculture of the Texas Technological College have succeeded in leading much to the appearance of the campus thru their program of beautification. Hundreds of trees and shrubs all the varieties of flowers that thrive in this climate and in fact every planting that would add anything to the beauty of the grounds has been well planned. The students in the summer school now in session, are showing more than usual interest in the campus, and have been careful to respect the wishes of those responsible for the grounds by sweeping off the growing lawns.

these will go god with the water-melons that we are going to raise.

Speaking of vegetables reminds us that Cleve McLean has his truck patch in good shape. You would be agreeably surprised to know just how many tomatoes, sweet potatoes and other vegetable is sold from the irrigated by two windmills.

If you ever stopped to think what two sixteen foot Eclipse mills and a concrete tank will do in making money for the gardener and beautifying the home? Just visit the state experiment station on the western border of our community. Here we find hundreds of locust, mulberry, elm, Arizona Cypress, tamarack, willow, maple and fruit trees, as well as a good sized nursery. In front of the home of the superintendent there is about two acres of Bermuda grass. Then off to the side is five acre truck patch where all kinds of vegetables and feed crops are raised. The experiment station is a state institution and is placed here for the benefit of the farmers of this country. They have found out much valuable information that will be of great benefit to you and we are sure that J. M. Jones, the superintendent will be glad to give you any reasonable information that he can.

Friday night, Misses Ruth and Delia McLean entertained a number of their friends with a party. After a number of unusual games, refreshments were served to Vada Sides, Mrs. Horace Sides, Mrs. James Gamble, Miss Easley, Miss Kennedy, Willie Perry and Mr. B. Sherrod. Mrs. Sides, Mrs. Marie Trotter, and Nellie Owen, Morrow Trotter, Columbus Perry, Horace Sides, Joe Easley, Adolph Sides, Glenn Burgess, B. Sherrod, Tiny Sherrod and several others.

Just about all the people in Canyon community went to hear Dan Moody's speaking at Lubbock Saturday night. If there was any one present that still thinks that we need Mr. Ferguson for our next governor, we would like to see them.

Sunday found many of us watching the French 75's demonstrated on the Canyon north of Slaton. Melba Thompson remarked that they would be very ineffective against any one as the number of times the target was hit was a very low per cent.

We had as our visitors from Lubbock Sunday afternoon, Mr. Shepherd and his B. Y. P. U. crowd. They gave us a snappy program and helped in the re-organization of our Young People's Union. Officers elected were: Eupho Lemon, president; Vada Sides, vice president; Gamine Nix, corresponding secretary; Mary Lou Ammon, secretary; Irene Perry, treasurer; Early Danil, song leader, and Glenn Burgess, quiz master. On account of other duties Eupho Lemon will be unable to serve as president.

On Wednesday night, the newly elected officers of the Young People's Union had their first business meeting. Glenn Burgess was nominated to take the place of Miss Lemon and Mr. Ammon was nominated for Bill quiz master. The Union was divided into two leagues and Miss Willie Perry and Mr. B. Sherrod will be group captains. A program will be rendered at seven-thirty Sunday evening by Miss Perry's group. Now folks this is your organization, and it will amount to just as much as you put into it. Let's go!

Joe Bailey Will Speak In Lubbock

Former Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey will speak in Lubbock for the first time in many years within the next few weeks. A telegram received yesterday by Fred C. Pearce, in response to a telegraphic request signed by Pink Parrish as mayor, by Mr. Pearce and others, said that an account of court engagements Mr. Bailey would not be able to make any definite speaking dates now, but that he would speak in Lubbock sometime during the present campaign, in the interests of Mrs. Miriam Ferguson's candidacy for governor.

THOUSANDS GATHER AT PRAGUE TODAY FOR EIGHTH SAKAE GYM FESTIVAL, HELD EVERY SIX YEARS

PRAGUE, June 24.—The Eighth Sokol Gymnastical Festival, held here every six years, opened today with the most elaborate physical cultural program since its inception more than 60 years ago.

A stadium with a capacity for 150,000 people has been erected to accommodate part of the gathering of more than 400,000 persons, many of whom have come from other continents to participate in the national carnival.

The principal features of the 11 day festival period will be the calisthenic drills, in which more than 14,000 men and 11,000 women will take part in unity. Special ceremonies have been planned for July 4th, in celebration of the anniversary of the American Independence. The 2,000 delegates from the United States, who are members of the American Sokol Society, will be the guests of honor at the celebration.

The Sokol movement was begun more than 60 years ago as an organization designed to throw off the yoke of Austrian rule. The first organized effort to unite the people of Czechoslovakia was made by Dr. Miroslav Tyrš with a view to national emancipation. Natural caution forced Tyrš, however, to hide his intention and he merely gathered his small band of followers together in gymnastic classes.

The movement at the beginning had less than 10,000 members, but as it gradually turned from its original purpose of meeting as a secret army, hoping to free the country, to a social organization for the mental and physical benefit of the nation, its membership has grown to include 226,082 men and 93,412 women, with nearly 200,000 non-members who take part in Sokol activities. Women were first admitted to membership in 1905 when 6,799 were allowed to join the organization. The total membership of women at the present time is 93,412.

The first national festival of the organization was held in 1882 with only 720 participants. It is estimated that the present games will have more than 54,000 participants.

HEREFORD BREEDER CONDITIONING REGISTERED STUFF

HEREFORD, June 26.—Ed East, Deaf Smith county Hereford breeder, is conditioning nine line bred Anxiety 4th Herefords to be shown at the Deaf Smith County Fair in Hereford, September 16-17-18. He will probably show these Herefords in Amarillo and Lubbock. A number of them will probably be consigned to the Texas Hereford Breeders Sale at Sweetwater, and the rest of the lot will be groomed for the Fort Worth Fall Stock Show and Southwestern Exposition next March. Mr. East has a small herd of straight line bred Anxiety 4th Herefords that are just as good as any in the country. He recently sold a three weeks' old calf for $1000.

ACTRESS' ELOPMENT DEFIES FILM RULE

BERLIN.—Something perilously like a general strike of German movie queens is threatened as the result of Dina Gralla's successful defiance of the edict laid down by Ufa. Germany's biggest film concern, that no film actress on their payroll may marry without Ufa's consent or leave German soil without permission.

Miss Gralla, in eloping with the American newspaper correspondent, Lincoln Eyre, succeeded in marrying without their consent and in leaving German soil. However, she has forfeited the contract by which she was to have appeared in their production, "A Modern Daffy."

Now some of the other German actresses declare that the restrictions laid down by Ufa are altogether unreasonable and must be abandoned.

PRESIDENT HILL TO ATTEND NATIONAL ASSOCIATION

CANYON, Tex., June 26.—President J. A. Hill of the West Texas State Teachers College left this morning for Philadelphia where he will attend the annual meeting of the National Education Association. He was accompanied by President H. W. Morelock of the Sul Ross State Teachers College at Alpine.

Both will be gone for two weeks or longer, spending the time at the great educational meeting, vacationing and selecting teachers for their faculties.

Registrar D. A. Shirley is also taking his vacation at this time and with his family is in the vicinity of Fort Worth.

NEW AUTOMATIC LOOM TO HAVE VITAL EFFECT

BERLIN.—The mechanical loom, which unleashed the industrial revolution when it replaced the spinning Jenny eighty years ago, is now itself to be scrapped if a new invention lives up to expectations.

An automatic loom, according to reports from Munich, is soon to be thrown on the markets and promises to spell the end of the mechanical weaving apparatus.

The latest invention dispenses with the weaver's shuttle. The thread, needed for a single day's weaving, is held by four spools, which automatically unravel into the warp and woof of the new-born cloth. The entire mechanism made of iron, weighs about 250 pounds and is equally suitable for weaving cotton, wool, jute, linen, flax and silk.

Among the advantages of this machine are its capacity for working day and night, the safeguarding of the threads, the minimum requirements for energy, protection against accidents and the lack of necessity for laborers.

Even unskilled workers can manipulate the appliance, which has just been installed in several large German industries.

NEW TYPE TRADE SCHOOL TO OPEN IN CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 26.—A trade school, the first of its kind operated by a board of education, will be opened here next fall to function in conjunction with labor unions and employers, and with the co-operation of the Cleveland Board of Education.

The new trade school, the result of a conference between school authorities, the local chamber of commerce employers and union leaders, was announced by Howard L. Briggs, director of vocational training of the board of education.

Courses in the building trades, auto mechanics and machinists trades have already been outlined in the curriculum. Pupils will spend four hours a week in school, for which time they will be paid by their employers at the regular rate of pay, the remainder of the time to be put in "on the job."

Labor unions have agreed to accept diplomas of the school, and will receive graduates into full standing in the respective unions.

REV. BOWEN TO RETURN SOON

Rev. W. A. Bowen, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will return to the city the first part of the week. Brother Bowen has been spending some time on the Llano river and at Christoval. Recent word from him stated that he was getting along fine and would be ready to take up the work the first Sunday in July.

We are glad that his physical condition is such that he will be able to take up his work soon.

MIX'S "TONY" LEADS WILD HORSES IN APACHES' HAUNTS

"Tony Runs Wild," Fox Films latest Tom Mix production, will begin a three days' showing at the Lindsey Theatre beginning next Monday.

The setting for "Tony Runs Wild" is along the Apache trail in Arizona's land of wonderful scenery.

The action of the story carries the picture to the exterior and through the interiors of the ancient Cliff Dwellings, homes of a race that vanished from America centuries ago.

Famous mining properties, one of the most highly developed ranches of Arizona's famous cattle country, and miles of the scenic roads through the district appear in the picture. The final scene is in the celebrated Box Canyon, a natural corral near the Cliff Dwellings.

The seventeen private railways in Switzerland competing with the federal lines, are experiencing losses in profits.
