"Use the Right we are Defending for the Future that we Guard."

Be SURE to Vote Election Day Tuesday, November 7, 1944.

The man you choose as President will carry the heaviest responsibilities in history. He will be clothed with vast, if strictly limited, powers. He will be, constitutionally, the supreme military commander of a nation in arms. In the councils of nations he will represent the might and majesty of the American people. His will be the task of winning a great war—of helping to write a lasting peace—of meeting the perplexing post-war problems of demobilization, reconversion, re-employment; it will be his job to relax the disciplines of the war, surrender wartime controls, balance the federal budget—and to do all these things without jeopardy to the nation.

The duty of choosing the man who must perform these tasks is not given to a few so-called "wise men." It is left to the collective wisdom of the People of the United States and that means you and Americans like you.

And so, between now and Election Day, consider the great issues. Try to look beyond yourself and your own personal problems. Heed but don't be over-swayed by obvious partisan propaganda.

You're the Boss. You're Judge and Jury. At the moment when you cast your ballot, you're the Supreme Arbitrator of the destinies of the United States of America. Cast your vote, therefore, in a spirit of mingled humility and pride. Cast it in a spirit of consecration. It is a sacrament.

Cast it only after careful thought, meditation—and prayer.

Miss Richard Looby of O'Donnell spent the week end here with her aunt, Mrs. Minnie Fairbairn. Mrs. Fairbairn returned with her and is spending this week there.

Mrs. Myrtle Turner of Cisco, and Mrs. E. D. Hagar of Sweetwater were guests in the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hock, Sunday and Monday.

SCHOOL WILL OPEN NEXT MONDAY After two weeks of holidays so that the pupils could help in harvesting the crops, the Loraine school will resume work again next Monday morning, according to Supt. C. W. Parfsh.

The board of trustees urges all patrons to cooperate in getting the children back to school so that the law can be met regarding daily attendance or the school cannot receive the money from the state as state aid.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ison and Mr. Jeff Ison were business visitors in Abilene last Friday.

Cotton Purchase Program Out Soon

Full parity price to farmers for their 1944 crop of upland cotton is assured under the new Commodity Credit Corporation purchase program regardless of whether or not it is under a government loan, F. W. Beight, Chairman of the Mitchell County AAA Committee, said today.

The CCC will purchase all upland cotton for which a loan rate schedule has been announced, offered to it up to June 30, 1945. The cotton will be purchased at the following prices: (1944 crop) Middling 15.16 inch, basis gross weight flat cotton at Memphis, Tenn.) October, 21.95 cents per pound; November, 21.95; December, 22.00; January, 22.05; February, 22.10; March, 22.15; April, 22.20; May, 22.25; and June, 22.25.

The five-point increase per month has been added to the price as allowance to the farmer for storage and carrying charges. Other highlights of the purchase program are: 1. Premiums and discounts are the same as those of 1944 loan program, based on Middling 15.16 purchase rates, gross weight.

2. Location differentials for warehouse points will be based on freight rates to the Group B mill area of the Carolinas except in eastern Mississippi, eastern Tennessee, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and Alabama where a zone system will be in effect as under the loan program.

3. Purchasing agents, mostly local banks and warehousemen, will be approved by CCC. 4. Purchasing agents will buy at CCC prices if warehouse receipts and sales agreement are turned over to them within 10 days after issuance. Agent's fee of 50 cents per bale will be paid by CCC.

5. Purchases will be made only from farmers who produced cotton in 1944. Cotton must be stored in CCC-approved warehouses. 6. Farmers with cotton in loan may sell it to CCC by repaying their loan. The CCC is making these purchases to carry out provisions of legislation enacted by Congress directing the president to take "all lawful action" to assure producers parity prices for their cotton.

Cotton Ginning Report

Census report shows that 5,114 bales of cotton were ginned in Mitchell County from the crop of 1944 prior to October 18, as compared with 9,459 bales for the crop of 1943.

Early Thursday morning the Loraine gins reported a total of 3,970 bales ginned locally.

Colorado-Loraine Game Here Friday

The annual grudge battle between the Loraine Bulldogs and the Colorado City Wolves will be played on the local gridiron Friday night of this week. The kickoff will be at 8 o'clock.

Although the Wolves are doped to win the Bulldogs will probably put up their hardest fight of the year—that is a tradition that has existed since the two towns have been rivals on the football field.

The Bulldogs were thoroughly thrashed last Friday night by the Baird Bears at Baird, 34 to 7. The Bears is a team the Bulldogs should have defeated but cotton picking and football training interfered with each other and the cotton picking won. This week will be another that the Bulldogs will go into the game out of training.

Gift Shower Honors Recent Bride

Mmes. Harold Martin, S. E. Meadows, J. J. Land, Floyd Richey and Earl Hallmark were joint hostesses at a gift shower honoring Mrs. Olen Griffith, the former Margaret Bennett, in the home of Mrs. Martin Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock.

Vases of fall flowers were decorations for the party rooms. Mrs. K. L. Taylor directed a musical program for the afternoon. Jeannine Martin and Melba Mahon played piano numbers. Mrs. Taylor and Melba played piano duets, and Mrs. Bruce Johnson gave two readings, "A Cup of Tea" and "For Goodness Sake."

In the absence of the bride Mrs. Meadows presented the gifts to her mother, Mrs. Joe Bennett.

Mrs. John Johnson registered gifts in the white satin bride's book which was a gift from Mrs. Glen Coon. 90 gifts were registered.

SCHOOL CHILDREN ARE PICKING COTTON

School was dismissed again this week so the children could further assist in harvesting the cotton crop. This will probably be the last week school will be turned out completely.

OPA Gasoline Rulings Announced

In order to comply with O. P. A. regulations, the Gasoline Panel of the Mitchell County Ration Board adopted the following resolutions at their last meeting and earnestly solicit the cooperation of the public to that end:

1. That all non-highway applications for gasoline must be certified by the Farm Transportation Committee at the A. A. A. office.

2. All applications for gasoline must be either mailed or brought in to the office and no approval will be made on any application outside of the regular Board meetings, Monday and Thursday nights, except in cases of extreme emergency which include only sickness and death.

3. Any emergency application in regard to going to a hospital or doctor must be accompanied by a statement from the attending physician including in his statement the number of required trips.

This should work no hardship on those making renewal applications for gasoline since these applications can be made as much as ten days before the old allotment expires.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Major Battles Shape As Enemy Attempts to Hold Philippines; Shake Nazis' Grip on Holland

Released by Western Newspaper Union

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.

With superfortresses operating from China (1) and U. S. carrier forces ranging in Philippine waters (2), important Jap supply line indicated by heavy broken arrow is threatened. Smaller arrows mark ports through which enemy moves material for shipment to homeland to keep war effort going and to supply his troops operating in the far-flung Asiatic theater.

EUROPE: Holland Battleground

While U. S. forces continued to hit the Germans hard on the central and southern sectors of the 460 mile western front, Canadian and British troops were pressed to clear the Nazis from southwestern Holland and open up the big port of Antwerp for Allied military traffic.

Bitterest fighting in Holland centered about the mouth of the Schelde river, which leads to Antwerp. Here, the enemy occupied two strategic positions, one along the south bank of the Schelde, the other on the islands blocking the entrance to the waterway.

As long as the enemy could hold these positions, so long could he train his big guns on Allied ships trying to move down the Schelde to Antwerp, to unload the vital materials needed by the British forces for their drive around Kleve, at the northern gateway to the industrial Ruhr valley.

Overcoming bitter German resistance, the Canadians gradually wore down the Nazis on the south bank of the Schelde, while Allied bombers joined in the attack on enemy emplacements on the islands, partially flooded from ruptured dikes.

While the Canadians slowly narrowed the German pocket south of the Schelde, the British 2nd army opened a drive to the northeast in an attempt to smash through Nazi lines, race to the sea and cut off the enemy from the rear.

On the central sector of the western front, Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's 3rd army pushed to the south of the ring of forts guarding the city of Metz, key to the coal-laden Saar basin, while on the southern end of the battle-line, Lieut. Gen. Alexander Patch's 7th army pushed onward against strong prepared enemy positions on the slopes of the Vosges mountains, blocking entrance to Bavaria.

East of fallen Aachen, Lieut. Gen. Courtney Hodges 1st army grinded for a smash at the Rhineland, 25 miles distant.

Drive Into East Prussia

In East Prussia, powerful Russian forces massed along an 87 mile front chewed deep into the northern and eastern regions of the province, home of the notorious German military Junkers.

As the Germans fell back before the concentrated might of the Red army, they sought to hold up their lines in the wooded lake country, which von Hindenburg had successfully defended against Russian troops in World War I.

Forced to bring powerful forces into play to guard the southern gateway to Austria, the Germans slowed the Russian ste-mroller through Hungary as the Reds smashed within 50 miles of Budapest.

News Briefs . . .

One billion dollars in fuel could be saved each year in the existing dwellings of the United States, according to an estimate in the Bureau of Mines Information Circular. Such measures include caulking of cracks and other openings with modern caulking compounds, insulation, storm windows, weatherstrips, and other means.

Southern coastal waters support a greater variety of fish and shellfish than elsewhere in the U. S.

PACIFIC: Major Battle

After bitter, but minor, battles in the Japs' Pacific outposts, a major engagement shaped in the Philippines, with the enemy throwing in strong aerial and naval forces to back up his ground troops resisting the U. S. invasion of the islands.

Principal land fighting centered on Leyte island, where General MacArthur's forces overran three airfields and sought to bottle up the enemy in the broad Leyte valley lying inland from the coast.

Japanese resistance was ferocious as doughboys, paced by medicos tanks, worked through the heavy underbrush to strike into the southern part of the valley at San Pablo, while others regaled enemy counterattacks farther north to push into the valley beyond Palo.

Having routed the Japs from the principal part of Tacloban in the southeastern section of the island, doughboys fought their way up the coast along the San Juanico straits, and reportedly jumped the narrow waters to land on the big island of Samar.

As doughboys battered forward through the heat and mire on Leyte, important sea battles developed, with U. S. carrier planes taking a heavy toll of Japanese warships seeking to move in western Philippine waters to bombard American land positions. In an effort to disrupt reinforcements, the Japs sent squadrons of bombers after units of the huge convoy supplying MacArthur's liberating troops.

CIVILIAN GOODS: Allot Production

Nearly 800 plants with available facilities and manpower have been authorized to manufacture $132,441,000 of civilian goods within the next year, the War Production board announced.

Included in the list of articles to be produced are automotive parts, building materials, plumbing and heating items, harvesting machinery, insectum cleaners, household aluminum, lawn mowers, electric irons, bicycles, silverware, furniture, electric lamps and church supplies.

Use of 44,270 tons of carbon steel, 512 tons of alloy steel, 902,154 pounds of brass, mill products, 140,379 pounds of wire mill products, 450,148 pounds of foundry products, and 17,395,563 pounds of aluminum has been approved for the output covered by the report.

Textile Control

Primarily because of short production, WPB will have to maintain textile controls after the defeat of Germany, Chairman J. A. Krug announced. Due principally to manpower difficulties, cotton textile output slumped from 11,200,000,000 yards in 1942 to an estimated 9,900,000,000 yards this year.

At the same time, Krug revealed, already lowered inventories of rationed shoes will be further depleted with production down 73,000,000 pairs from estimated needs of 349,000,000.

In an order relating to domestic cooking appliances and heating stoves, WPB permitted manufacture of oven thermostats and burner valves.

Island Paradise

With a population of nearly 17,000,000, the Philippines consist of more than 7,000 islands, big and little, says the National Geographic society.

In all, the area amounts to more than 115,000 square miles—a tropical spread of luxuriant vegetation and extensive forests, with mountains (many of them active volcanoes) reaching up some 9,000 feet, above the surrounding countryside.

Ernie Pyle's Slant on the War:

Arabs Profit by Yanks Liberal Trading Policy

Infantry the Underdogs of African Battles Carried on Without Fanfare

By Ernie Pyle

(Editor's Note): Pyle relates some of his experiences while he was with the doughboys during the African campaign. He is now taking a long-needed rest in New Mexico.

NORTHERN TUNISIA.—One night at Kairouan three of us correspondents, finding the newly taken town filled with newly arrived British and American troops, just drove out of town into the country and camped for the night. We didn't put up a tent. We just slept in the open.

The mosquitoes were fierce, and we draped netting over our heads. We were in a sort of big ditch right alongside an Arab graveyard. But neither the graves nor the mosquitoes bothered us that night, for we were tired and windburned, and before we knew it morning had come and a hot sun was beaming down into our squinting eyes.

And what should those sleepy eyes behold but two Arab boys standing right over our bedrolls, holding out eggs. It was practically like a New Yorker cartoon. For all I know they may have been standing there all night.

At any rate they had come to the right place, for we were definitely in the market for eggs. Now and then one of our larder box and got four eggs in trade for three little cellophane packets of hard candy. Then we started all over again and got four more eggs for a pack of cigarettes.

We thought it a good trade, but found later that the trading ratio which the Germans had set up ahead of us was one cigarette for one egg. We Americans have to ruin everything, of course. But as one tough-looking soldier said:

"If I want to give $50 for an egg it's my business and my $50. And from all I've seen of Arabs an extra franc or two ain't gonna hurt them any."

All this transpired before we had got out of our bedrolls. But the youthful traders didn't leave. As we were putting on our pants each boy whisked a shoeshining box from under his burmose and went after our shoes. Then when we started a fire and were feeding it with sticks, one of the boys got down and blew on the flame to make it burn better. It was easy to see that we had acquired a couple of body servants.

The boys were herding about two dozen goats in some nearby clearing. Now and then one of them would run over and chase the goats back nearer to our camp. We called our boy Mohammed and the other Abdullah, seemed to tickle them. They were good-natured, happy boys of about 15.

One of them tried on my goggles. He seemed to imagine that he looked wonderful in them, and giggled and made poses. He didn't know the goggles were upside down. Also he didn't know that I was hoping fervently his eyes weren't as diseased as they looked.

The boys told us in French that the Germans had made them work at an airport, opening gas cans and doing general flunk work. They said the Germans paid them 20 francs a day, which is above the local scale, but it turned out they were German-printed francs, which of course are now absolutely worthless.

Our self-appointed helpers hunted sticks for us, poured water out of our big can and helped us wash our mess kits. They kept blowing in the fire, they cleaned up all the scraps around our bivouac, they lifted our heavy bedrolls into the jeep for us, and just as we were ready to leave they gave our shoes a final brushing.

We paid them with three cigarettes and two sticks of gum each, and they were delighted. When we were ready to go we shook hands all around, au-revoired, smiled and saluted. And then one of the boys asked apologetically if we could give them one more thing maybe. We asked what it was they wanted. You'd never guess. He wanted an empty tin can for his goats to chew on. We gave him one.

"Hadji" is the Arab word used in place of "Sir" before the name of anybody who has journeyed to Mecca and become holy. Seven journeys to Kairouan equal one to Mecca, so we correspondents now go around calling each other Hadji, since most of us have crossed the city line more than seven times.

Another word we've adopted is "djebel." It's Arabic for hill or mountain. On the maps every knob you see is Djebel This or Djebel That. So we also call each other Djebel. And if you think that's silly, well, we have to have something to laugh at.

We're now with an infantry outfit that has battled ceaselessly for four days and nights. This northern warfare has been on the mountains. You don't ride much any more. It is walking and climbing and crawling country. The mountains aren't big, but they are constant. They are largely treeless. They are easy to defend and bitter to take. But we are taking them.

The Germans lie on the back slope of every ridge, deeply dug into foxholes. In front of them the fields and pastures are hideous with thousands of hidden mines. The forward slopes are left open, unattended, and if the Americans tried to scale these slopes they would be murdered wholesale in an inferno of machine-gun crossfire plus mortars and grenades.

Consequently we don't do it that way. We have fallen back to the old warfare of first pulverizing the enemy with artillery, then sweeping around the ends of the hill with infantry and taking them from the sides and behind.

Our artillery has really been sensational. For once we have enough of something and at the right time. Officers tell me they actually have more guns than they know what to do with.

All the guns in any one sector can be centered to shoot at one spot. And when we lay the whole business on a German hill the whole slope seems to erupt. It becomes an unbelievable cauldron of fire and smoke and dirt. Veteran German soldiers say they have never been through anything like it.

I love the infantry because they are the underdogs. They are the mud-rain-frost-and-wind boys. They have no comforts, and they even learn to live without the necessities. And in the end they are the guys that wars can't be won without.

I wish you could see just one of the ineradicable pictures I have in my mind today. In this particular picture I am sitting among clumps of sword-grass on a steep and rocky hillside that we have just taken. We are looking out over a vast rolling country to the rear.

A narrow path comes like a ribbon over a hill miles away, down a long slope, across a creek, up a slope and over another hill. All along the length of this ribbon there is now a thin line of men. For four days and nights they have fought hard, eaten little, washed none, and slept hardly at all. Their nights have been violent with attack, fright, butchery, and their days sleepless and miserable with the crash of artillery.

The men are walking. They are 50 feet apart, for dispersal. Their walk is slow, for they are dead weary, as you can tell even when looking at them from behind. Every line and sag of their bodies speaks their inhuman exhaustion. On their shoulders and backs they carry heavy steel tripods, machine-gun barrels, leaden boxes of ammunition. Their feet seem to sink into the ground from the overload they are bearing.

They don't slouch. It is the terrible deliberation of each step that spells out their appalling tiredness. Their faces are black and unshaven. They are young men, but the grime and whiskers and exhaustion makes them look middle-aged. In their eyes as they pass is not hatred, not excitement, not despair, not the tonic of their victory—there is just the simple expression of being here as though they had been here doing this forever, and nothing else.

Avalanche of Prisoners Arrive

The thing that Americans in Africa had fought and worked six months to get came today. When it did come, it was an avalanche almost impossible to describe. The flood of prisoners choked the roads. I'll try to tell you what the spirit of the day was like. It was a holiday, though every body kept on working. Everybody felt suddenly free inside, as though personal worry had been lifted. It was like the way we used to feel as children on the farm, when parents surprised us by saying work was finished and we were going to the state fair for a day. And when you have looked, goggle-eyed, all day at more Germans than you ever expect to see in your life, you really feel as if you have been to a fair.

GOD IS MY CO-PILOT Col. Robert L. Scott

The story thus far: After graduating from West Point as a second lieutenant Robert Scott wins his wings at Kelly Field and takes up pursuit flying. When the war breaks out he is an instructor in California and told he is too old for combat flying. He appeals to several Generals for a chance to fly a combat plane, and finally the opportunity comes. He says goodbye to his wife and child and flies a bomber to India, where he becomes a ferry pilot, which does not appeal to him. He visits General Chennault and is promised a Kittyhawk, and soon he is flying the skies over Burma. He gets his first Jap bomber, burns up enemy trucks and cuts a Jap battalion to bits.

CHAPTER XIII Word had come now that the AVG, with General Chennault as Commander, was to be inducted into the Army Air Corps. Chennault, then a General in the Chinese Army but a retired Captain in the U. S. Army, was to be given the rank of Brigadier General to head the China Air Task Force. But from what I had gathered from the few newspapers we had received and from rumors that filtered through, I knew that not many of the AVG were going to accept induction.

There were officious men around the China-Burma-India theater who thought the AVG were unruly and undisciplined. To these statements I always remarked that I wished we had ten such undisciplined groups—for they would have destroyed some three to four thousand enemy air planes, and that would certainly have hindered the Japanese. There were others who claimed that the fighters of the AVG fought for the high salaries and the extra bonus of five hundred dollars for each enemy plane they shot down. That made me laugh, for I had seen the AVG fight, and later on I was to fly with them against the enemy. I knew those great pilots—I knew that they were great American adventurers who would have fought just as hard for peanuts or Confederate money—as long as they were fighting for General Chennault and were flying those beloved P-40's.

As it stood now: after long hours of combat the men were tired; they had been out of the United States under the most trying conditions for nearly a year. They were all showing combat fatigue and needed a rest. Some of them were combat-weary and ought never to be risked in combat again.

Furthermore, the induction of the AVG had hit a snag, for poor judgment on the part of one man. It seems that someone had lined the boys up for a fight-talk on the glamour of induction into the Army, and had used very little tact. He recited newspaper stories intimating that the AVG fought for the high pay of Camco—between $600 to $750 a month, depending on whether or not the pilot was a wing man or a squadron leader. This salesman went on to state that he sincerely hoped the AVG would accept induction, because if they didn't, and when their contracts with Camco expired, they would probably find their draft boards waiting for them when they stepped off the boat that carried them back to the United States. In that case, they would of course be inducted as privates rather than commissioned as officers.

A large percentage of the AVG are reported to have got up and walked out on the speech. After all, they were high-strung fighter pilots who had fought one of the greatest battles against superior odds that has ever been reported. In this case, they were being threatened without complete knowledge of all the facts involved. I know from that day on they taught the Chinaman as well as the American that they were not to be trifled with. The gas-truck cooie would religiously meet every C-47 and with bland countenance would repeat the sentence. Most of the AVG used to make sure that he never reached the transport unloading the right man, but several times it took the best of American flying tactics to stop him in time.

Handled in another way, I believe that every one of the AVG who was physically able would have stayed. As it was, only five pilots remained, and some thirty ground-crew men. We had wanted to divide them into two groups—those who from a physical standpoint badly needed rest in the United States, and those who could stay out in China for six months longer without impairing their health. We were to permit the first group to go home on July Fourth (the day their contracts with Camco terminated) and to remain there on leave for no less than a month, after which they were to come back to China. It is my opinion that at least ninety per cent of the AVG would have accepted this offer. But as it was, five of the greatest pilots in the world stayed with the group when their contracts expired. And those five were enough.

I went back to India and continued my single-ship raids on the Japs. After my flights with the AVG, the burning of the train in Indo-China, and the news of my one-man war in Burma, the story got to the war correspondents. I began to hear from home in the States that I had been written up as "The One-Man Air Force." From an egotistical standpoint I felt the thrill that a normal person would, but by this time I was beginning to realize that one man and one ship in this type of warfare meant very little.

In the days that followed I sank barges filled with enemy soldiers, bombed enemy columns and strafed enemy soldiers swimming in the water from the barges I had sunk. But when I went back next day there were more and more Japs surging northward into upper Burma towards India. No, the title was an empty one—for even I, with my egotistical sense of combat, knew by now that one man could make no real mark on this enemy that we were fighting. I had the satisfaction, however, of knowing that I was learning things. I had the experience of ten years of military flying, and I knew I was a good pilot. The day was going to come when that knowledge of mine, learned the hard way, would help train the new units that would come from home. There is no substitute for combat. You've got to shoot at people while you're being shot at yourself.

For the time being, though, there was just the one ship, and I nursed it like a baby. Flying it constantly, I had begun to feel a part of it. Sometimes at night I'd think of my wife and little girl, but never in combat. Sometimes, coming home after striking the enemy, I'd think of them and they seemed far, far away. Towards the last of May, after I'd flown just about two hundred hours in combat and had gathered about a hundred holes in my ship, I think I must have wondered if I'd ever see them again. I carried a Tommy gun with me in the cockpit of the ship, for at straining altitude there would probably be no time to bail out with the chute anyway, and I knew that prisoners taken by the Japs receive very harsh treatment, especially those who have been straggling the capturing troops when shot down.

My greatest bombing day came late in the month of May, when I dropped four 500-pound bombs at Homalin, down on the Chindwin, where the Japs seemed to be concentrating. Early in the morning I headed South with the heavy yellow bomb, slowly climbing over the Naga Hills and through the overcast, topping out at 15,000 feet. I continued South on the course to where the Uyu met the Chindwin River, the clouds lowered but the overcast remained solid. In one hour, computing that I had made the 180 miles to Homalin, I let down through the overcast, hoping that the mountains were behind me. Luck was with me, as it usually was in my single-ship war, and I found the overcast barely a hundred feet thick. I couldn't see Homalin and my target area, but I kept right up against the cloud ceiling and circled warily. I knew that I was in luck; I could drop the bomb and then climb right back into the overcast, no matter how many Jap fighters came to intercept.

Soon I saw my target—and sure enough, there were loaded barges coming out of the broad Chindwin and heading for the docks of Homalin. I continued circling against the clouds at 11,000 feet. For I had a plan. Dive-bombing from a P-40 is not the most accurate in the world; you can't dive very steeply or the bomb might hit the propeller, and also in too steep a dive it's hard to recover in the high speeds that are built up. It seemed to me that the type of bombing one had to do in order to keep the prop under control and to miss the prop, was more in the nature of glide-bombing. Most beginners, however, are always short with their bombs. That is to say, the projectile strikes before it gets to the target on the line of approach, rather than over it. From my practice bombings on the Brahmaputra, I had developed a rule of thumb: I would dive at some forty-five degrees; then, as the target in my gunsight passed under the nose of my

Planes Drop Rescue Ships Equipped for 36 People

When survivors of torpedoed ships and ditched planes cannot be rescued in other ways, a United States AAF plane now drops to them, by parachute, a boat called the Flying Dutchman, says Col. J. H. "Slim" Morgan, a pilot. Weighing 3,000 pounds and holding about 36 people, this boat carries food, clothing, radio, water still, fishing tackle and blood plasma; also sails, two engines and a large supply of gasoline. When the Flying Dutchman hits the water, a mechanism sets off smokepots to mark its location and fires rockets which carry long buoy lines to assist survivors in reaching the boat.

One of the reasons why I read so many state extension bulletins is because I always find a way to do a job with less effort. If there's any way of making more money with less work, I want to know about it. And I usually find a lot of good suggestions and reminders in the bulletins.

Take the matter of cleaning cows. The extension folks point out that it is well nigh impossible to produce good milk if the cows are dirty at milking time. And then they come up with a labor-saving idea that appears to me.

They suggest turning barber every so often and giving the cows a "hair-cut" around the flanks and udder. That means a little extra work, once in a while, but look at all the hard work it saves. For you know from experience what a lot of elbow grease it takes to brush dirt out of long hair.

Naturally, clipping and brushing should be done far enough ahead of milking time to permit the dust and hair to settle. If you like the suggestion and need a couple of good bulletins on it, write Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., for a copy of Leaflet 186, and the University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., for Extension Circular 283.

The Extension Service at the University of Minnesota published a leaflet recently on "Faster Milking," which explains in pictures and brief discussions, how and why you should get into this all-important method. I suggest you write for a copy of Extension Folder 119.

It doesn't make much difference to most of us just what time of year our birthday comes around, but it seems to be important to a calf, and to its mother. Records kept by the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington, show that the fall is the best time for a calf to have its birthday.

There's a good discussion of this in Farmers' Bulletin 1470. The USDA got together records from 120,000 cows, to find out the differences in production which resulted when cows freshened at different times of the year.

More milk and more butterfat was produced by cows which freshened in the fall. Such cows averaged 8,238 pounds of milk and 330 pounds of fat. Averages for cows which freshened at other seasons were: Spring, 7,792 lbs. of milk, 313 lbs. of fat; summer 7,618 lbs. of milk, 306 lbs. of fat; winter 7,990 lbs. of milk, 325 lbs. of fat.

A cow which calves in the fall usually will produce well during the winter. While the tendency is for these cows to drop in production in the spring, at that time spring pastures increase milk flow.

Fall calves seem to get off to a better start in life. They are easier to raise and usually less subject to disease. So if you want to give your calves a good start and take advantage of best production possibilities, it would be a good idea now to locate the best available bull in your neighborhood, with a view to breeding in January or February.

There isn't much point in putting out hard-earned cash for a fine piece of machinery if you don't get the full benefit from it. Milking machines are great labor savers and are the most sanitary way to produce milk, but you can make trouble for yourself by neglecting them.

A milking machine will pay dividends on your investment if you give it thorough cleaning. If you don't, it may result in some of your milk being rejected. Milk which is allowed to cling to parts of the machine provides a breeding place for bacteria, and you know what that means. Idaho University offers a good booklet on the proper cleaning of milking machines. It is War Circular No. 1, which you can get from the Extension Service, at Moscow, Idaho. Another source of information on the same subject is the book which came with the machine.

To get rid of the milk which clings to surfaces in the machine after each milking, thorough rinsing, brushing and sterilizing is needed for all the parts. Teat cups require special care, these booklets point out. Once you set up a regular habit of following through on the advice Idaho gives you in its booklet, I know you'll find the job has become easier.

*NOTE: There usually is a 5c charge for pamphlets mailed to non-residents of a state; but possibly your own state has a free pamphlet on the same subject. Ask your county agent.

Check your tire pressure before inflating and save tire mileage and troublesome flats. The Office of Defense Transportation. A passenger car tire that is 3 pounds below the lowest of its running rates can be suspected of having an undetected puncture. Five pounds' variance is allowed in truck tires.

Ordinary statistics are dull, but here are some that are significant when you consider that a 6,000 lb passenger car tire weighs about 22 pounds; there are 60,000 pounds of rubber in a battleship; 55,195 pounds in an aircraft carrier without plane complements; 4,358 pounds in a destroyer; 65,000 pounds in a submarine.

Improved Uniform SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for November 5

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE CHRISTIAN AND THE RACE PROBLEM

LESSON TEXT—Acts 10:15, 34, 35; 17:24-29. GOLDEN TEXT—Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons; but in every nation he that feareth Him, and worketh righteousness, is acceptable to Him.—Acts 10:34, 35.

Now is the time to really face the race problem. It must be met, or America will see more of the regrettable hatred and violence which has already showed itself.

The only satisfactory answer—the only right answer—can be found in the Word of God. On its principles we must build in solving any problem, and that is especially true with regard to the vital matter of human relationships.

How to Solve the Race Problem I. Pray (10:9).

So often we struggle and plan and work, and last of all we pray. That should be the first thing, not the last. It was as Peter prayed that he saw clearly the need of a changed attitude toward the Gentiles.

Doubtless some Gentiles would also have a changed attitude toward the Jews, if they really prayed about it. In fact, all of our prejudices based on race, creed, financial or social position would look cheap and untenable if we prayed.

Conferences, efforts toward mutual understanding, education of children (and grown-ups), tolerance, all these are good; but let us not forget to pray, and to do it first.

II. Listen to God's Word (10:10-16).

Peter had a special vision, an unusual revelation from God. We no longer need such a direct communication of God's plan and purpose, for we have the written Word of God, and the Living Word has come in the person of Christ.

What we need now is to read and to hear the truth of that Word—and then to heed it. Everywhere in the Bible we find the declaration of man's equal rights. We learn that God hates discrimination or prejudice, that no nationality is unclean (v. 15) or unworthy of His grace and of our fellowship.

We know these things are in the Book; why do so many of us fail to listen to its message? We are bound by it whether we listen or not, so had we not better listen and obey?

III. Be Governed by God's Principles (10:34, 35).

"God is no respecter of persons." Why are we? The expression literally means "receiving a man's face," that is, judging or evaluating him not by what he has proved himself to be, but by his outward appearance, the look on his face.

God is interested in man's heart and what is in it (I Sam. 16:7). We should do well to follow His leading and not be controlled by the dress, the race, or the position of a man.

Note the basis of acceptance with God (v. 35), namely, a right attitude toward Him. No matter what a man's color or race may be, the grace of God in Christ Jesus can reach him, and bring him into acceptance with God.

IV. Recognize God's Authority (17:24-29).

God made the world. He rules the world and all that is in it. He is above man, and it is He who gives man the very breath of life.

That being the case, we all stand on the same level—we are equal before Him.

Everything God made was (and is) very good (Gen. 1:31). That means that He knows nothing in His nature of one group being despised and persecuted by another group self-designated as a master race. . . .

All men are of one family (v. 26). It is God's Word. Let us believe it, and be thoughtful and kind toward the members of our own "family." We all know how disgraceful family fights are, and how they hurt. Could it possibly be any different in the family of God? Let's quit the bickering, and together work for God's glory. We can do it—for we may—

V. Count on God's Nearness (17:27, 28).

Sometimes children fight and quarrel because they know father and mother are away and will not hear or punish. Well, God is not far away. He is "nearer to us than breathing, nearer than hands and feet." In Him we (and that means all of us) "live and move and have our being."

He is here; let us not act as though He were far away. But above all, let us recognize His nearness as our life and strength, the One who enables us to live as we should with one another. We need His grace for that purpose. Let us count on it.

"We are all His offspring," that is, by creation. Then by our sin and rebellion we made ourselves the children of disobedience" (Eph. 2:3; Titus 3:3). But we may (and many of us have) become the true children of God by faith in Jesus Christ our Lord (John 1:12). As such, we are all brethren beloved, eager for our fellow's good and for God's glory.

When ribbons need pressing, remove the lid from a hot teakettle, and draw the ribbon back and forth over the steam, holding the ends firmly.

A bag of salt may be used in place of a hot water bottle in a pinch. Heat the salt on a skillet, then pour it back into the bag and use.

Once food has started to boil, turn down the flame. It does not need a large flame to keep it boiling.

A pair of tweezers is a wonderful help in ripping seams in garments. They will pull the shortest threads without hurting the fingers and the job can be done much more quickly.

That long-outdated curling iron makes an excellent gripping rod to use in dyeing garments. You can grip the material firmly and swish it about in the dye bath without its slipping.

When hanging up the wash, hang one pillow slip with the open end up. When taking down wash put all small pieces in that pillow slip, then when sprinkling clothes you will not need to sort out small pieces.

Place brown sugar in a mason jar while it is still soft, and it will keep that way.

Low temperature is the secret of tender eggs. Too high temperature or extended cooking time toughens the protein in the egg.

Blimps Hunt Japs and Fish Off Our West Coast

The blimp patrol off the coast of California hunts fish as well as Japs. It cooperates with fishermen by notifying vessels when schools of fish are sighted on moonlight nights.

In the dark of the moon, echo sounders on submarines tell when fish schools are around. It's all to the aid of the fishing industry which has been asked to produce a million and a quarter more pounds of fish this season than last.

Siam Staged Fish Fights Under Recognized Rules

Before the occupation of Siam by the Japanese, fish fights under recognized rules were attended by large audiences, and large fortunes were sometimes wagered on the results of one of these contests.

A fighting-fish match is conducted by placing the opposing fish in a large bowl suspended from the "stadium" roof, the spectators being seated round the "ring" in circles. The combatants measure no more than five inches in length, and enormous sums are staked on the skill and valor of these small fish.

Prior to the accession to the throne of the late King of Siam, who abolished slavery, a backer would on occasions wager his own liberty on the result of one of these fights, becoming the slave of the taker of the bet in the event of his fish being beaten.

Aerial Gunners Use Various Gloves to Ward Off Cold

To keep their hands from freezing at high altitudes, gunner cameramen use three pairs of gloves—an outer pair for warmth; another, made of chamois, for use while firing a gun or performing less detailed work on the camera; and the third, of finely woven silk, for delicate work.

To oil the lock on your door quickly and easily, dip the key in the oil, and turn it in the lock several times. This accomplishes the oiling with the least mess, and the least effort. But, of course, taking the lock apart and oiling it completely is still the better way.

When it is necessary to send small coins in an envelope, Scotch or adhesive tape is very convenient. Lay coin on paper and put tape over it both ways. Then it cannot slide around or wear its way out of the envelope.

Paraffin used for covering jelly should never be heated to the smoking point. This causes it to shrink from the side of the glass.

If canned molasses is hard to pour in cold weather, heat it for several seconds by placing the can over low heat. The molasses then will run freely. To prevent molasses from sticking to a measuring cup, rinse the cup in warm water just before using it.

Splendid Cough Relief Is Easily Mixed at Home

No Cooking. Makes Big Saving. To get quick and satisfying relief from coughs due to colds, mix this recipe in your kitchen. Once tried, you'll never be without it.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugstore. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is amazing. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. It makes breathing easy, and lets you sleep. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

My shirts look so nice and stay clean so long.' The mother says, 'What an expensive-looking tablecloth! Did someone leave you a fortune?' The son says, 'That's last year's cloth! Mom launders it with Faultless Starch to get that rich look of expensive linen!' The daughter says, 'New nothing! We dyed our old ones and then starched 'em with Faultless Starch to get that fresh new-looking finish.' The father says, 'You don't have to cook it!' The mother says, 'Your time is short? You've much to do? Try Faultless Starch. It's meant for you!' The son says, 'What attractive, crisp new curtains, Stella!' The daughter says, 'Mom's been cooking turkey dinner all day. No wonder she sings about Faultless Starch!' The cartoon is signed 'GRAHAM HUNTER'.

Baptist Church Notes

"Seek those things which are above."—Col. 3:1.

This last week the people from Pleasant Valley did a noble deed when they sold their church and land and bought $1200 worth of bonds and donated them to our building fund. We are all very grateful for this gift to our church. With the bond the Ready Sunday School class gave Sunday we have a total of $6,600 on our building fund. We will have enough for a church some of these days.

Mr. and Mrs. Gale, Allene Angel and Miss Nunn joined Sunday morning by letter. Jim Ed Taylor and Allen Peterson rededicated their lives and Naomi Taylor was converted. Sunday night Mr. and Mrs. Gray Taylor and Deveril joined by letter. Mrs. Ben Bowlin and Naomi Taylor were baptized Sunday night. We are very happy to receive these into our church.

Let us make a special effort to bring our Sunday School attendance up past 175 for Sunday morning.

Next Sunday is Chinese Relief offering day.
