TEC Reconsidering

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - With Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker threatening a lawsuit, the Democratic-controlled Tennessee Election Commission decided to reconsider its decision today to bar Baker from the ballot. He is running for his third term.

The name of the nation's highest ranking Republican official was omitted from the ballot Thursday after Democratic officials disputed the senator's signature on his qualifying petitions. Baker said the signature was genuine.

A 1980 presidential prospect, Baker said "we're going to take whatever steps we have to do" to get back on - and that will include going to court.

Texas In Line

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two Texas water projects costing $27 million are among 30 projects the Carter Administration is expected to announce today, administration officials said.

The White House advised Sen. Lloyd Bentsen that Texas was in line for the projects.

The 30 projects across the nation are those the administration wants Congress to approve. The request represents an adminstration turnaround from an earlier insistence that some water projects be killed.

Cheaper Hamburger

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter says his decision to ease beef import restrictions will save Americans $500 million this year in cheaper hamburger, but the government still thinks the overall cost of beef will average up to 23 percent higher than last year.

Carter's plan - announced on Thursday - will allow an additional 200 million pounds of hamburger and other low-grade beef into the country by renegotiating meat-import agreements with 13 countries, principally Australia and New Zealand.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland predicted the larger supply would trim hamburger prices from what they might have been by a nickel or slightly more during the height of the late summer outdoor cooking season. What the "otherwise-might-be price" would have been, Bergland would not say.

Little Extradited

NEW YORK (AP) - Joan Little, who had said she would rather die than return to her home state, was extradited to North Carolina today to complete a prison term for breaking and entering.

Orlin Brewer of the Vernon Record says that sometimes typographical errors are so obvious---and so devastating---that corrections are either ill-advised or impossible.

He says a Vernon reader called his attention to a blooper in another publication that from the very first everybody had to know was a misprint:

"The coach returned to practice with his players after two days in bed with a bad coed."

How would you, a day later, explain that "bad coed" should have been "bad cold" and what good would it do if you did, Brewer asks.

We have known some who leaped at the opportunity to capitalize upon typographical errors. A major department store in a neighboring city once offered the home town paper a bonus if it would repeat an ad that had a glaring typographical error that attracted community-wide attention. The store manager said they never had more response from a single ad.

But for the most part, typos are nightmares and the quicker they can be forgotten the better.

Weekend Maneuvers Ahead Of Schedule...

Skylab Responds To Orders

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) - The orbiting Skylab laboratory responded quickly today to ground commands aimed at prolonging the life of the 84-ton vehicle abandoned in space in 1973.

Spokesmen at the Johnson Space Center said the response to the commands transmitted from tracking stations on Bermuda and near Madrid placed the planned weekend maneuvers hours ahead of schedule.

"We hadn't anticipated so much success so quickly," said spokesman Bob Gordon. "But we still have adjustment maneuvers to execute Saturday morning."

The maneuvers were planned to prolong the life of Skylab at least six to 12 months so that astronauts on a shuttle space mission next year can remotely fire a small set of rockets they will attach to the laboratory and raise its orbit some 60 miles.

Engineers originally had predicted Skylab could remain in space until 1985 but the laboratory in recent months gradually began re-entering the Earth's atmosphere. The current maneuvers then were plotted with hopes of either prolonging Skylab's life or, if necessary, adjusting its attitude so it would re-enter for a safe splashdown.

On Friday, the space station's two remaining gyroscopes were turned on successfully. When spinning, the gyros provide a means of controlling the position of the vehicle.

Early today, Skylab received a series of commands which stopped its erratic motion and aligned its solar panels with the sun.

"We didn't anticipate locking on so quickly," Gordon said. "The sun sensors locked on right away. The flight controllers were very pleased."

Commands then were transmitted ordering that the small end of Skylab turn forward and horizontal to Earth, a maneuver designed to reduce the drag on the craft and improve Skylab's chances of maintaining its approximate 242-mile high orbit.

"Skylab now is gradually turning around," Gordon said. "We had anticipated execution of these commands would require most of today but we are now several hours ahead of schedule."

Scientists have said Skylab began descending sooner than anticipated because increased activity on the sun had heated the Earth's atmosphere and made it more dense.

Israel Attacks Palestinian Base

AAQBIYE, Lebanon (AP) - Israeli commandos striking before dawn from the air and sea attacked a Palestinian base at this southern Lebanon fishing village today, killing five guerrillas and wounding seven others, Palestinians here reported.

The Israeli military command in Tel Aviv said two Israeli lieutenants were killed and eight of its soldiers were wounded in the surprise assault by seaborne commandos and paratroopers.

It said the strike destroyed a guerrilla naval base and there was evidence the seacoast compound was being used to prepare for terrorist attacks on Israel "in the near future."

An Israeli military spokesman said the raiders counted eight Palestinian bodies, and he claimed none of the estimated 30 to 40 defenders escaped before the Israeli raiders dynamited the base.

Guerrillas said they killed 8 to 10 Israelis in the two-hour clash.

Western correspondents who drove down from Beirut to this village 26 miles north of the Israeli border saw signs of a major firefight.

Abu Jihad, the Al Fatah guerrilla group's top military commander in Lebanon, toured the blood-stained site at mid-morning. He denied the base was used to train guerrillas for seaborne attacks into Israel.

He said 19 guerrillas were manning the garrison when it was hit by a force of at least 150 Israelis, landed by rubber boats and helicopters. He admitted the base was caught off guard.

Abu Jihad is No. 3 in the heirarchy of Al Fatah, largest guerrilla group in Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization.

"This is not a major base at all," Abu Jihad told reporters. "We have people here just as we have them scattered all around the area."

Inexplicably, Israel reported the attack was on Dahar el Bouj, about one mile inland and northeast of Aaqbiye. The area is six miles south of Sidon and 20 miles north of the Israeli-occupied zone of southern Lebanon.

The attack was the deepest Israeli penetration north of the Litani River since Israel invaded and occupied 500 square miles of southern Lebanon in March.

Screwworm Case Found In Scurry

Scurry County livestock producers should watch their herds closely for any sign of screwworms and spray stock as necessary to control flies, County Agent Billy Roach warned today following discovery of a case of screwworms in the south part of the county.

It is the first confirmed case of screwworms in Scurry County in two years. Mission Laboratory notified the extension office here Thursday that larvae of screwworms had been sent in from a producer half a mile north and four miles east of Dunn.

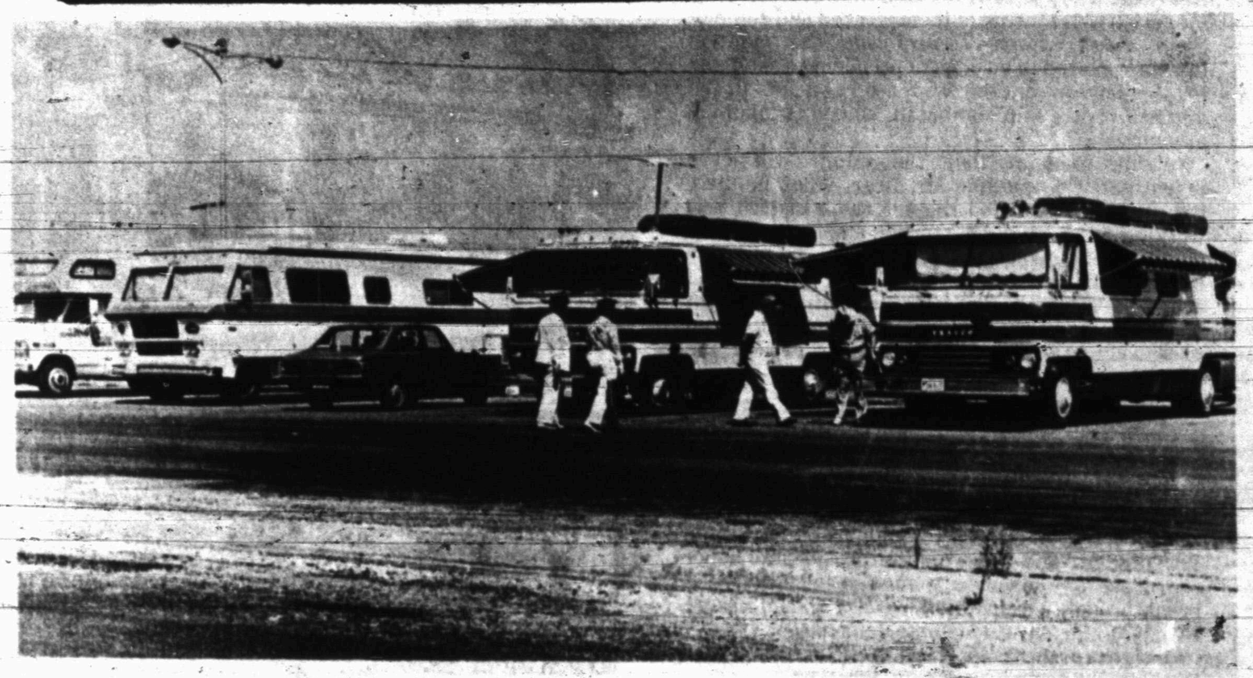

Other confirmed cases of screwworms have been reported in Coleman, Kent and Mitchell Counties.

Hilton C. Lambert Dies Here Today

Hilton C. Lambert, 68, Scurry County Democratic Party Chairman and a retired postal service employee, died at 7 a.m. today in Cogdell Memorial Hospital. He had been in ill health for some time and had been hospitalized for about 10 days.

Burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home. Postal Service employees will be pallbearers.

A native of Copperas Cove, he had lived here since 1928. He was a 32nd degree Mason and a Shriner. He had received 24 consecutive safety awards from the postal service while serving as a rural mail carrier from 1931 to 1969. He was a member of the United Methodist Church, was a past commander of the local American Legion Post, past District Legion Commander and had served as a vice commander of the American Legion Department of Texas. He had recently been elected as delegate-at-large to the Texas Democratic Party's State Convention to be held next September and in the primary election on May 6 had been re-elected county Democratic Party Chairman for Scurry County.

He was married on June 15, 1963, to Mary Ann Casstevens, who survives. Also surviving are three sisters, Mary Edna Barnett of Victoria, Ella Gross and Morene Hayes, both of New Braunfels, and two nieces.

Q - Does Snyder have a city manager and assistant city manager, and if so, what are their duties?

A - Snyder has had a city manager since 1952 when it adopted the council-manager form of municipal government. The city manager is the chief operating executive of city government, being employed by and responsible to the city council, which, in turn, is elected by city voters. Snyder does not have an assistant city manager.

School Ponders Budget Hike Of Less Than 4%

Snyder Independent School District Trustees spent three hours Thursday night looking over budget proposals totaling some $6,469,100.

The over-all figure represents an increase of slightly less than four per cent over the 1977-78 budget, although the proposals for some schools in the system are under the past year's figures.

The budget proposal for the senior high school, for example, amounts to $1,314,888, some $36,000 less than the 1977-78 total. Also down are proposals for the junior high by approximately $10,000, and West Elementary School by a little over $5,000.

Another area where proposals for the coming year are less than the past year's budget is food service. The total proposed for 1978-79 is down by $9,000 from the past year, despite the fact that a breakfast program is mandated for inauguration this fall. School officials attributed this to the staffing system introduced a year ago by Charles Ketchum, school food service director. The food service subsidy expenditure from local funds was approximately $50,000 less than projected for the past year.

Among biggest increases anticipated for the coming year are transportation costs, expected to be up by about $40,000, due mostly to purchase of some new buses, and health insurance, which will be up by more than $30,000. Fuel costs are expected to rise by $10,000.

No general salary increase is under consideration, although there will be an over-all increase due to normal increments. Half a dozen adjustments have been proposed for specialized positions to put them in line with their job classifications.

No action was taken by the board and board members will continue to study the detailed proposals from the various schools and departments.

lesson from lear

William P. Lear, who died of leukemia recently at the age of 75, was not the first person to prove that the legendary American success story is more than a legend. He quit school after the eighth grade, joined the Navy at 16 and learned about radios, and went on to shower the electronic and aviation industries with one invention after another - making a name for himself and a small fortune.

What impresses us about Mr. Lear's career, however, is that it extended well into an era when the inventive mind is said to be victim of something called "corporate thinking." The fields in which Mr. Lear operated are dominated - so we're told - by corporations which squelch innovation for the sake of taking a course considered safe in the eyes of accountants, board members and stockholders.

Maybe there's some truth in that, but it didn't stop Bill Lear, who gambled his take time and again on maverick ideas. Some of them worked and some of them didn't. Twenty years ago the aviation industry scoffed at his idea of producing a jet plane for the private market. With 800 Lear Jets in the air, and orders still coming in, no one is laughing anymore.

We'd like to believe that "the system" will never defeat gutsy people like Mr. Lear. When he died, the man who invented the car radio in 1926 was working on an all-plastic airplane and maybe one day it will fly. Whether it does or not, he leaves a message for youngsters tinkering in garages and school labs today: You need more than a bright idea. You need the nerve to stick with it when everybody else is saying it'll never get off the ground.

a win and a loss

You win some and you lose some.

Equal rights has scored a highly visible victory in Washington. The ranks of the presidental honor guard are now open to women servicepeople, a breakthrough which if nothing else should assure Rosalynn Carter of a footnote in history.

What goes at the White House does not for the Fire Department in New York City, however.

For the first time women were admitted to the physical fitness test for applicant firefighters. All 81 women flunked while 7,847 men passed what the department admitted was the most arduous testing of endurance and agility ever administered.

Among other feats, applicants were required to carry a 120-pound dummy up and down a flight of stairs, perform a standing broad jump of at least 6 feet 2 inches, run a mile in less than 7.5 minutes and walk a 2.5 inch wide 30-foot wall while carrying a 26-pound backpack.

One of the women is appealing her failing grade on grounds, among others, that the requirements of the physical test discriminated against women and there was no woman among her judges.

If at first you don't succeed, take it to court.

growing older

I recently had the harrowing experience of giving artificial resuscitation to a neighbor until the rescue squad arrived.

When the paramedics appeared — the squad was on the scene within minutes — they asked the name of the patient's doctor as well as what medicine she might have been taking.

I couldn't answer those questions.

But the experience prompted me to suggest that my wife and I post such information in a conspicuous spot in our apartment for just such an eventuality.

But what would happen if one of us was away when the other needed emergency treatment? Would the rescuers find the pertinent medical information? In times of crisis, seconds can be important.

I have since learned of a program, VIAL OF LIFE, which is sweeping the country. It is the brainchild of Richard Marsh, a Michigan deputy sheriff, who noticed that emergency rescue teams often couldn't find out vital information about unconscious people.

The VIAL OF LIFE is a plastic tube, 1 inch by 3 inches, which resembles a pill container. The vial is always taped beneath the top shelf of the person's refrigerator, on the right side.

A doctor or rescuer can quickly locate the vials if ill or injured people cannot provide the medical information themselves.

More than one million Americans have these vials in their refrigerators. Forms are being distributed at police, fire and recreation departments across the country. The individual fills in the form with information on his or her doctor, allergies, medications, etc.

The American Association of Retired Persons and other senior groups have endorsed the program. But the idea should not be confined to the elderly.

A person of any age can become the victim of serious illness or accident. The vial could save his or her life.

My own city of Hallandale, Fla., is setting up a public meeting on VIAL OF LIFE. My wife and I will attend to represent our apartment building. Then we will be able to alert our neighbors to the program. Of course, it's essential that this be a community-wide project.

The best part of the program is that it is inexpensive to put into operation. The result can be better emergency treatment — and possibly the saving of lives.

If such a program does not exist in your community, why not start one? Imagine how good you will feel to have saved someone's life with so little effort. Or how good you will feel to have had your own life saved by a tiny vial.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

My best friend, Mayva, is a grandmother.

She called me yesterday to tell me the news. "I'm not going to be one of those grandmothers who bore you to death, but honestly, she does not look like a newborn baby."

(I got a mental picture of a baby with a full set of teeth sitting under a hair dryer drinking milk from an old-fashioned glass.)

"And she's alert! You would not believe how she follows you around the room with her eyes." (Probably saying in perfect English, "You seem restless. Could I offer you a drink?")

"And good! You have never seen a child so respectful with such regard for people's feelings." (I could imagine a phone ringing and the baby saying, "I'll get it.")

Just when I thought I had taken all the happiness my system could absorb, she paused and said, "I'm old."

"Nonsense," I said. "You're not old, you're just getting more adept at lying."

"Don't kid around," she snapped. "I never realized how having a baby has changed. I couldn't relate to anything. I never realized how out-of-touch I am."

"Like how?"

"They breathe them out now. Everything is natural and your husband is with you throughout the birth, helping. Remember how it was with us?"

"Do I ever!" I said. "I became hysterical, frightened, and begged for sedation!"

"And that was at your initial pre-natal visit."

"Be fair," I said. "You'd have been upset too if your doctor has just completed a pelvic examination and wandered around mumbling, 'Has anyone seen my fountain pen?'"

"It's still a new ballgame," she sighed. "Super-absorbent throwaways, shoulder slings to carry them around, no bottles to fiddle with and it's a new relaxed atmosphere that babies are born into."

"You're overreacting," I giggled. "Surely women having babies today still have their hair done on the way to the labor room. I mean who would deliver with greasy hair?"

"I don't think she thought one minute about her hair."

"Next thing you know you'll tell me she isn't going to stay in bed 30 days to get her strength back! Mayva! Mayva! You there?"

Judge Takes Good Story

ASHBURN, Ga. (AP) - The moon was shining, the music was playing and the Northern woman's mind just wandered from watching her speedometer on Interstate 75.

Her story was good enough for Probate Judge Jim Denham to declare a temporary truce in his war against speeders on the freeway to Florida.

"I have fought the Civil War with the Yankees on 75 for 20 years," the 70-year-old south Georgia judge said. "I have heard all kinds of excuses from dysentery up."

But the excuse given by the young woman won him over.

"It was such a good story, I had to let her off," he said.

Study Finds Athletes Need Special Bras

RENO, Nev. (AP)-A university study has concluded that women athletes should wear special suppoft bras to prevent a strain on breast tissue caused by running and jumping. Researchers at the University of Oklahoma used female athletes to test athletic therapist Joan Gillette's theory that custom-fitted bras would significantly reduce strain.

The women ran and jumped without bras, with ordinary bras and with custom-fitted bras, Ms. Gillette said Wednesday, and the custom-fitted bras "don't ride up, slip or allow breast tissue to overflow as sometimes happens with traditional bras."

WASHINGTON (NEA)- Recent events in Africa, and the administration's response to them, have left the impression that ties imposed by congressional Lilliputians have transformed the president into a helpless Gulliver in the conduct of foreign policy.

The impression, which was initially encouraged by the White House itself, is both unfortunate and unwarranted at least in terms of President Carter's ability to respond to any immediate crisis in Africa or elsewhere in the world.

And by raising the issue at all, the White House aroused damaging suspicions on Capitol Hill about Carter's motivations in challenging so vocally the Cuban and Soviet involvement in Africa.

House Democratic Whip John Brademas, D-Ind., no bleeding heart leftist, publicly brooded about the possibility that Carter might be saber-rattling in Africa in an effort to shore up his sagging poll ratings at home.

"That's a very dangerous game to play," Brademas observed. "If he's doing this for political reasons, he'll pay a fearful price."

At his Chicago press conference May 25, Carter went to some pains to clarify the nature of his concerns about various legal restrictions which Congress, during and after the Vietnam experience, has placed on executive branch commitments of U.S. money, arms or military manpower abroad.

By Carter's own analysis, which was carefully prepared in advance of his press conference, many of these limitations "continue to be entirely appropriate and advisable today." And the ones which "may be outmoded" do not, generally speaking, pertain to the immediate situation in Africa.

One notable exception is the so-called Clark amendment, named after Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, banning any U.S. involvement whatever in Angola. This is probably the most rigid foreign policy restriction imposed by Congress to date, but it is not one Carter seeks to challenge. "I have no present intention of seeking its modification..." he said in Chicago. "I have no intention of getting involved in any conflict in Angola."

Most other restrictions on U.S. military lor economic aid contain more loophole than law since they may be waived by the president if he reports to the Congress that providing the assistance in question would "further the foreign policy interests of the United States."

This is not to say that all congressional limitations are wise or reasonable. Some, like the continuing embargo on U.S. arms sales to Turkey, have more to do with domestic political considerations than sober foreign policy objectives.

Others, like restrictions on economic aid or arms sales to nations like Chile, Brazil, Argentina and Uruguay accused of human rights infractions, make it difficult for the U.S. to reward progress and respond to changing circumstances.

The State Department is now compiling a list - said to exceed 50 pages-of every string Congress has attached to executive branch foreign policy conduct. And Carter has begged Congress not to add to the list when it acts on pending foreign aid legislation.

A joint review of the existing restrictions and a cooperative effort to weed out those which do more harm than good is well worthwhile. But it should be done calmly, and not in an atmosphere of accusation and hand-wringing.

Carter can do whatever he thinks necessary in foreign policy under existing laws, up to and including the commitment of American troops abroad, if he consults with the Congress first.

And as Vietnam surely proved, no U.S. president can reasonably hope to conduct foreign policy successfully without the consent and support of Congress.

zones aid communities

WASHINGTON (AP) - Within a few days it is likely that a foreign-trade zone will be approved in the township of Mount Olive, Morris County, New Jersey, bringing to 37 the number of such sites in the United States.

Within that zone, imported components for electronic items, watches, textiles, farm machinery and other goods may be stored, processed, assembled and exhibited without immediate payment of customs duties.

For Uncle Sam it means less customs revenue. For importers it could mean the difference between profits and loss. For the local community it means jobs, and the related economic benefits that jobs bring.

John DaPonte Jr., executive secretary of the Foreign-Trade Zones Board, expects more than 40 zones and subzones by the end of the year. They are "simply a more rational way of paying duty," he says.

For customs purposes, each of the zones, some measuring only a few acres, is a little foreign territory, even though future sites might be in such heartland places as Boonville, Mo., and Brook Park, Ohio.

A typical situation: An electronics company assembles components from foreign countries. Components from foreign countries. Component imports often carry heavier duties than finished goods. But while in the zone no duty is levied.

The components are assembled into the finished product. If the product is reshipped abroad, no duty at all is charged. If it is shipped within the United States, the levy is at the finished goods rate.

The latter rate not only might be lower, but it is assessed closer to the actual sale. When customs are applied to components, the process conceivably could tie up a company's money for many months more.

Bell Locked Out By Guards

WASHINGTON (AP) - With about 75 members of the National People's Action of Chicago staging a noisy demonstration outside his office, Attorney General Griffin B. Bell was left outside the Justice Department building because security guards locked the doors.

The demonstrators appeared Monday to argue for more federal aid for police foot patrolmen. An obviously miffed Bell, cooling his heels at the curb, got on his car telephone to tell aides, "The best I can figure out is all you've done is lock in 75 demonstrators."

Today's hand helped Dr. John Fisher of Dallas and Del Parker of Austin win the Swiss team at the recent Gatlinburg regionals.

John's five-spade bid was a variation of the grand slam force we have been discussing all week. He couldn't bid six of any new suit except spades and he didn't want to get past six unless his partner held two of the three top heart honors. Del did hold those two top honors and bid seven hearts in spite of his rather minimum hand.

Del was careful to win the first spade in his own hand. He noted the fall of the queen from East and decided if anyone held four trumps, East would be the man. Then he cashed his ace and dummy's king of hearts and saw West show out.

His next step was to cash dummy's ace of clubs. He came to his hand with the jack of diomonds, ruffed a club with dummy's 10 of hearts, led the seven of hearts and finessed his nine. He then cashed the queen of hearts while discarding the last low spade from dummy and claimed his contract.

The hand was what experts call a lay down in that it was a cinch provided Del made every correct play from trick one on.

Leadership Lab For 4-H Clubs

LEVELLAND—Nearly 200 young leaders from 4-H clubs in 20 South Plains counties will participate in a district teen leadership lab June 13-15.

The site of the three-day summer workshop will be South Plains College here, said Billy C. Gunter and Mrs. Catherine B. Crawford, district Extension agents with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

A team of older teenagers will assist in conducting sessions throughout the training workshop.

Participants, supervised by 4-H adult leaders and agent, will take part in a variety of activities ranging from group learning and discussion sessions to game tournaments and special morning and evening ceremonies. Emphasis will be on teen leader training for cake decorating, grooming, expressive crafts, gardening, photography, leathercraft, recreation and camp cooking.

Activities will be geared toward helping the young leaders learn to assess themselves and their ideas, and to develop solutions to problems through group processes. Time for relaxation and fun will provide the teen with opportunities to make new friends.

The annual teen leadership lab helps 4-H youth to develop skills for working with younger club members and provides opportunity for them to broaden their friendships and develop leadership qualities.

If you would like to attend some camps like this contact the Scurry County Extension Office at 573-5423.

Storm Windows Help In-Summer

YORK, Pa. (AP) - You can help save energy and lower the cost of cooling your home this summer by using the same storm windows that helped keep your house warm last winter.

"When storm windows are left on windows not needed for ventilation, they help keep cool air in a home and warm air out," says John P. Farrell, York heating and air conditioning specialist. "By doing this, you ease the amount of work your air conditioner must do and lower operating costs.

Wise use of shades and drapes to block summer sun also helps reduce cooling energy and costs."

Space Agency Trying To Catch Falling Skylab

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Skylab is falling and the space agency is trying to catch it.

On Saturday morning, scientists in Houston will attempt a crucial maneuver to alter the huge, 85-ton space station's position and extend its orbital life for perhaps another year.

If the maneuver fails, Skylab could plunge to its destruction as early as next January, breaking up in the atmosphere and possibly scattering large chunks of debris over a 3,000-mile swath of the earth.

The fear is that some of the pieces could hit populated areas, although space officials say that chance is remote.

"Can you imagine a 300-pound piece of metal plunging out of space into the Super Bowl?" asked one observer.

Scientists have been making a major effort this week to extend the life of Skylab, the world's largest man-made satellite which the United States launched five years ago.

They have been sending a series of commands to turn on heaters and gyroscopes and to point the station's battery charging solar panels at the sun.

These have been preludes to the big maneuver planned for Saturday, which key members of Congress will be watching.

At 7:12 a.m. in Houston, a team of 15 men led by flight controller Bill Peters will send a radio signal to Skylab from the same control center that was a hub of activity during the historic Apollo moon flights and when Skylab was inhabited by three different astronaut crews in 1973 and 1974.

If all goes well Saturday, the radio signal will fire small steering rockets to tip the cylinder-shaped station so that instead of orbiting with its nose up, it will fly parallel to the earth, small end forward. If the signal doesn't work, there will be no further attempts to prolong the station's flight.

There will be a few hours of tense waiting to see if the maneuver works. If it does, there will be a collective sign of relief throughout the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, for it would reduce the atmospheric drag slowly pulling Skylab toward earth and could add as much as a year to its life in orbit.

That would give astronauts a chance to fly up to the abandoned spacecraft late next year and attach a small rocket to it. The rocket could be used to boost Skylab into a higher orbit, where it would stay several years, and perhaps be reinhabited. Or it could be used to guide the station to an atmospheric re-entry, breaking up over a remote ocean area.

The astronauts can't make the rescue attempt before October, 1979, because the space shuttle, the new reuseable manned spaceship, won't be ready for such a journey until then. The shuttle is slated for its maiden orbital flight in June next year.

Even if Saturday's maneuver is successful, Skylab's two gyroscopes must continue to operate if it is to remain in its new position. If not, the craft would shift in relation to the earth and its death plunge would be hastened.

Members of the House Appropriations Committee will be following the activity in Houston to see if they should approve the $20.5 million needed to develop the rocket the astronauts would attach to Skylab.

The committee recently rejected the financing, saying it did not believe the shuttle could be ready in time to accomplish its mission. But members said they might change their minds if Saturday's maneuver works.

What concerns NASA is Skylab's size. It is 118 feet long and 22 feet in diameter, with the volume of a three-bedroom house. While much of its aluminum skin and other soft metal parts would burn up frm atmospheric friction during re-entry, scientists say the fuel tanks and structural girders of steel and titanium might partially survive and strike the earth.

Computer calculations indicate that when Skylab dives into the atmosphere it could spew pieces over a track 3,000 miles long and 100 miles wide.

Possibly as many as 400 pieces, some weighing as much as 300 pounds, might survive the searing heat of re-entry and strike earth at a speed of about 200 miles per hour.

Youth Is Hero For ThirdTime

SAN ANTONIO (AP)- Ten-year-old Frankie Cruz has never had any formal swimming lessons, much less a life saving course. But he was credited Thursday for the third time with saving a youngster from drowning.

Thursday's incident began when 2-year-old Jonnas Rodriguez fell into an apartment complex pool, said Cruz' mother, Florence Cruz Fitueroa.

Cruz leaped in, but encountered difficulty. "I found myself going under with the little boy and tried hard to keep both of us afloat," said Cruz, whose uncle, 14-year-old Anthony Barajas, then jumped in to help pull the two out.

When he was 5 years old, Cruz was credited with saving a 2-year-old girl from drowning in a neighborhood pool. "I just know that someone had to save her, so I did my best to pull her from under the water because no one else was around," he said.

Three weeks ago, Cruz pulled a 5-year-old boy from deep water in the same apartment complex pool, his mother said.

"It's wonderful to know that my boy is saving people and that his effort makes the difference on whether a person lives or dies," said Mrs. Fitueroa.

Two Thefts Under Probe

Two reported thefts and two minor traffic accidents were investigated Thursday by police.

Raymond Leak told officers his $300 lawnmower had been taken from his 900 28th St. home. He reported the theft to police at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, and said the theft apparently occurred during the previous 24 hours.

A lesser loss was reported to Gorden Tinnow who told officers he was missing $50 from his motel room. The incident was reported shortly before 10 p.m.

Two cars were involved in an accident in the 2300 block of O'Neil St. yesterday shortly after 4 p.m.

Involved in the collision were a 1973 Oldsmobile driven by Lana Long of Hermleigh and a parked 1976 Chevrolet owned by Sherry Srevus.

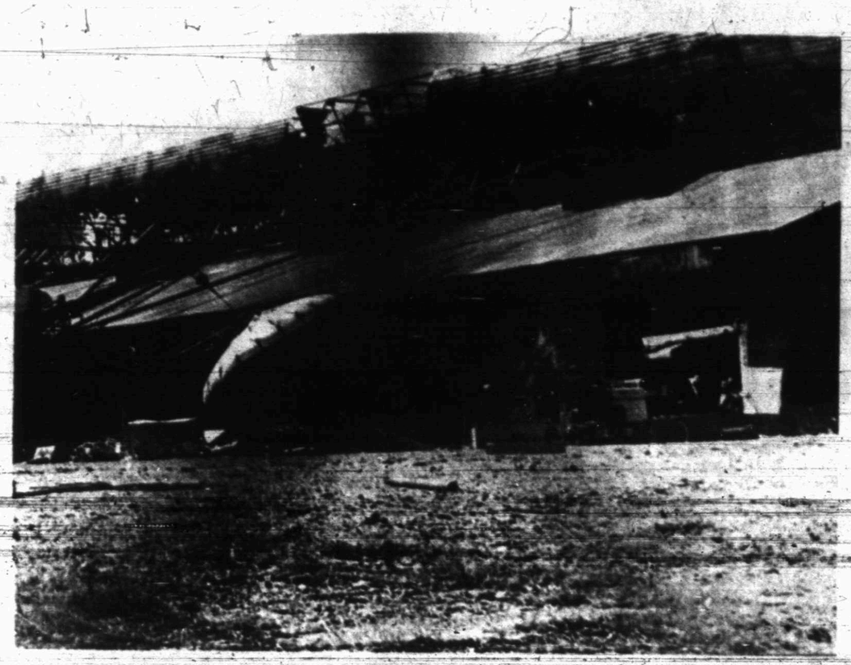

A traffic accident that occurred May 16 was reported to police yesterday.

Reports indicate that a 1974 Ford driven by Edna Brooks was in collision with a 1977 Datsun driven by Patricia Vineyard. The mishap took place at the College Ave. Dairy Queen.

NYC Aid Bill Clears House

By MILLER BONNER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - New York City cleared a major hurdle in its race against bankruptcy when the New York City Financial Assistance Act cleared the House, fueled by an emotional speech by Majority Leader Jim Wright.

Wright, noting that the New York delegation had consistently come to the aid of "any part of our big American family that has been smitten by disaster," urged his counterparts on Thursday to pass the bill calling for $2 billion in longterm bond guarantees for the financially beleaguered Big Apple.

Without congressional backing, New York City officials estimated their city would slip into bankruptcy by July.

Following his fierce, five-minute speech, the Fort Worth Democrat received enthusiastic applause. Afterwards, the House voted 247-155 in favor of the bill. The controversial measure now goes before the Senate where it faces an uncertain future.

Despite Wright's efforts and backing of the measure by the Carter Administration, the 24-member Texas delegation as a whole shunned the bill.

Texans voted against New York City aid, 16-5, with three members not voting. Wright was joined by fellow Democrats Barbara Jordan, Charles Wilson, Henry B. Gonzalez and Bob Eckhardt in casting "yea" votes. Reps. John Young, "Tiger" Teague and Ray Roberts did not vote.

Dallas Republican James Collins was one of the most vocal opponents of the bill, recalling the 1975 plea by New York that was meant to be a "one-time-only bond guarantee, yet New York City is back again begging for more."

In 1975, only two Texans - Wright and Jordan - voted for New York City assistance.

Collins had compared New York City spending with that of three Texas cities - Dallas, San Antonio and Houston - and had drawn the conclusion that New York City has three times more employees per 1,000 residents than Dallas.

He said New York employees receive inflated salaries plus extravagant fringe benefits. The city's leadership, continued Collins, refuses to implement money-saving measures and "has opted instead for what is in the short run more politically profitable, but in the long run is financial suicide."

Wright countered by calling the House's attention to a recently-released poll that showed 85 percent of the country favored legislation aimed at saving New York City from fiscal disaster.

"If air was leaking out of a tire, would it be the act of a friend to pump a little more air in the tire so you could go three more miles?" asked Wright in reference to a soon-to-be defeated floor amendment calling for short-term bond guarantees.

Wright said New York City had laid off 61,000 employees, closed hospitals, upped subway and bus fares plus increased its sales and income taxes in instituting "very impressive self-help measures ... New York is not looking for a hand-out but a hand up."

Should Congress not respond to New York City's plea, added Wright, "shock waves would be sent throughout the entire economy ... the municipal bond market would be shot to Hades."

Joan Prefers Stronger ERA

SEATTLE (AP) - The Equal Rights Amendment doesn't go far enough in ending discrimination against women, says Joan Mondale, wife of Vice President Walter Mondale President Walter Mondale.

Mrs. Mondale said Thursday she preferred an even stronger amendment to the U.S. Constitution, but added that such a measure would have even more trouble winning approval than the current proposal.

At a press conference, Mrs. Mondale said that to opponents, ERA "has come to symbolize change, all change, and many people who are very basically threatened by change feel threatened by this."

Carter Losing A Campaigner

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter is gaining another grandchild but is losing a campaigner.

Judy Carter, wife of Carter's oldest son, Jack, is expecting her second child in December. The couple, who live in Calhoun, Ga., have a 3-year-old son, Jason.

Ms. Carter, who has been active in the battle for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment, has told friends that she will not take an active role in the upcoming election campaign because of the pregnancy.

The president's other grandchild, James Earl Carter IV, who is 1 year old, lives at the White House with his parents, Chip and Caron Carter.

Meriwether Lewis and William Clark left St. Louis with 40 men in 1804 to explore the U.S. government's Louisiana Purchase.

The Rev. Johnny Guzman, Templo Bautista pastor, introduced the candidates and led in prayer. Scripture reading was by the Rev. Joe Stansell, pastor of Avenue D Baptist Church, while the Rev. J.R. Reedy questioned the candidates. Joe Silva of Colorado City directed music and the Rev. Hector Gonzales, pastor of the United Methodist Mission, was the pianist. The Rev. George Flores of Colorado City led the ordination prayer, the benediction was led by Eloy Hill. Other deacons present for the ordination were Dwain Williams and Derald Lambert.

The Rev. Johnny Guzman, pastor, presented Mrs. Romero with a plaque. Mrs. Romero is moving to Schulenburg to reside with her family. Following the presentation and worship service, the congregation had a barbecue meal.

ALC Officials Set Deadline

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)-Officials of the American Lutheran Church have given the denomination's largest congregation, the 1,750-member Central Lutheran Church, 60 days to regularize its pastoral leadership or be suspended from the denomination.

Its North Pacific District executive committee ruled that two of the congregation's assistant pastors had not met requirements for clergy credentials, were ineligible to serve and unless their status was changed, the congregation would be dropped Aug. 5 from the denomination.

The senior pastor, the Rev. Rueben Redal, affiliated with a group which says the ALC has strayed from its historic doctrines, says he's uncertain what will be done about the matter by the congregation, which can appeal the ruling.

Graham To Visit Poland Oct. 6-16

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)-Evangelist Billy Graham has set Oct. 6-16 for his forthcoming visit to Poland, his second preaching mission in a Soviet bloc country. He expects to preach in five or six major cities, including Warsaw, both in church and at open-air meetings.

The arrangements were worked out in a recent visit to Warsaw by a Graham aide, following an invitation to the evangelist from the Baptist Union of Poland. Last September, Graham preached in Hungary for a week, his first such mission in a Soviet country.

Catholics Lax In Porno Fight

BOSTON (AP)-A Jesuit priest says American Catholics have been lax in fighting the growing tide of public obscenity and pornography.

The Rev. Paul J. Murphy, a Holy Cross College theologian and president of Morality in Media of Massachusetts, writes in Homiletic and Pastoral Review that "too few Catholics as citizens are standing up in public to confront the frightful foulness. Catholic pulpits are largely silent about it all."

Exxon Corp. Is Named In Suit

By H. Josef Hebert
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-The United States, accusing the world's largest petroleum producer of overcharging crude oil customers $183 million over a three-year period, is suing Exxon Corp. for the money and interest.

The suit was filed Thursday in U.S. District Court here and is a followup to a probable violation notice issued against the Houston-based corporation by the Energy Department six months ago.

Paul L. Bloom, a department attorney, said the government decided to go into the courts now instead of proceeding along administrative lines to achieve "the earliest possible resolution" of the case.

Presumably, he said, the company would have appealed an administrative decision to the courts at any rate. The suit is the result of an audit of Exxon records for the period running from late 1973 through 1976.

Exxon officials were not available for comment on the suit.

When the government's notice was issued last January, Exxon denied the overcharges. The company claimed the government was trying to apply price ceilings retroactively using "standards not in effect when our decision and commitments were made."

The Exxon suit involves the sale of crude oil after the government established a two-tier pricing system to protect against windfall profits and promote domestic oil development after the 1973 Arab oil embargo.

Under the tier system current crude oil production was divided into "old" oil and "new" oil. New oil is the quantity drilled which exceeds production capabilities before the tier system was established. The barrel price of new oil was $11.28 when the alleged violation occurred. That price was about $6 higher than what could have been charged for "old" oil.

The Energy Department alleged that Exxon at its Hawkins Field in Wood County, Texas shut down a number of wells and then shifted the production of those wells to a smaller number of new wells, using gas injections into the oil field.

Playday Set For Saturday

A District 4 Playday has been scheduled for Saturday at the Sundowners' arena.

Contestants will begin registering at 1 p.m. and the playday events will begin at 2 p.m., weather permitting.

A special feature will be an open barrel race at 5 p.m.

Sterility in men

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I need to know at what age a man becomes sterile if ever, or is his sperm always able to produce children. I'm in my change of life and my [illegible] husband is 53. I'd like to know if I need to take anything at this stage. I'd rather not raise any more children.

DEAR READER — There is no specific cut-off date for men that can apply to all cases. The Russians claim that one of the men that they have studied for aging was still potent and produced viable sperm cells at age 116.

To give you more information on this I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-7, Perpetual Youth, Aging. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Since many older men do father children I would suggest that you use precautions until you are certain you yourself are no longer able to become pregnant. That usually means at least one year after you have stopped having menstrual periods after your menopause; some suggest two years for even greater security.

You can check with your doctor in your individual case to make sure that you have completed the menopause and are no longer apt to get pregnant before you throw caution to the wind.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About two years ago my wife and I started having a "staph infection." The infection appears as boils and they interchange their position from one arm pit to the other. The boils do come and go about every six weeks. We have done all we can do within our power to control it. No medications seem to work.

Now my wife, who has a tendency to blame me for anything that goes wrong and not to praise me for anything that goes right, says that she really hates me and that she gets the boils from me. She worsened the whole situation by saying without shame that there would be no more sex because having sex with me would bring on the boils. I nearly committed suicide. I do not know how we can have a baby without sex. That's also one of our problems. Can you tell me what causes these infections and what we can use to cure it?

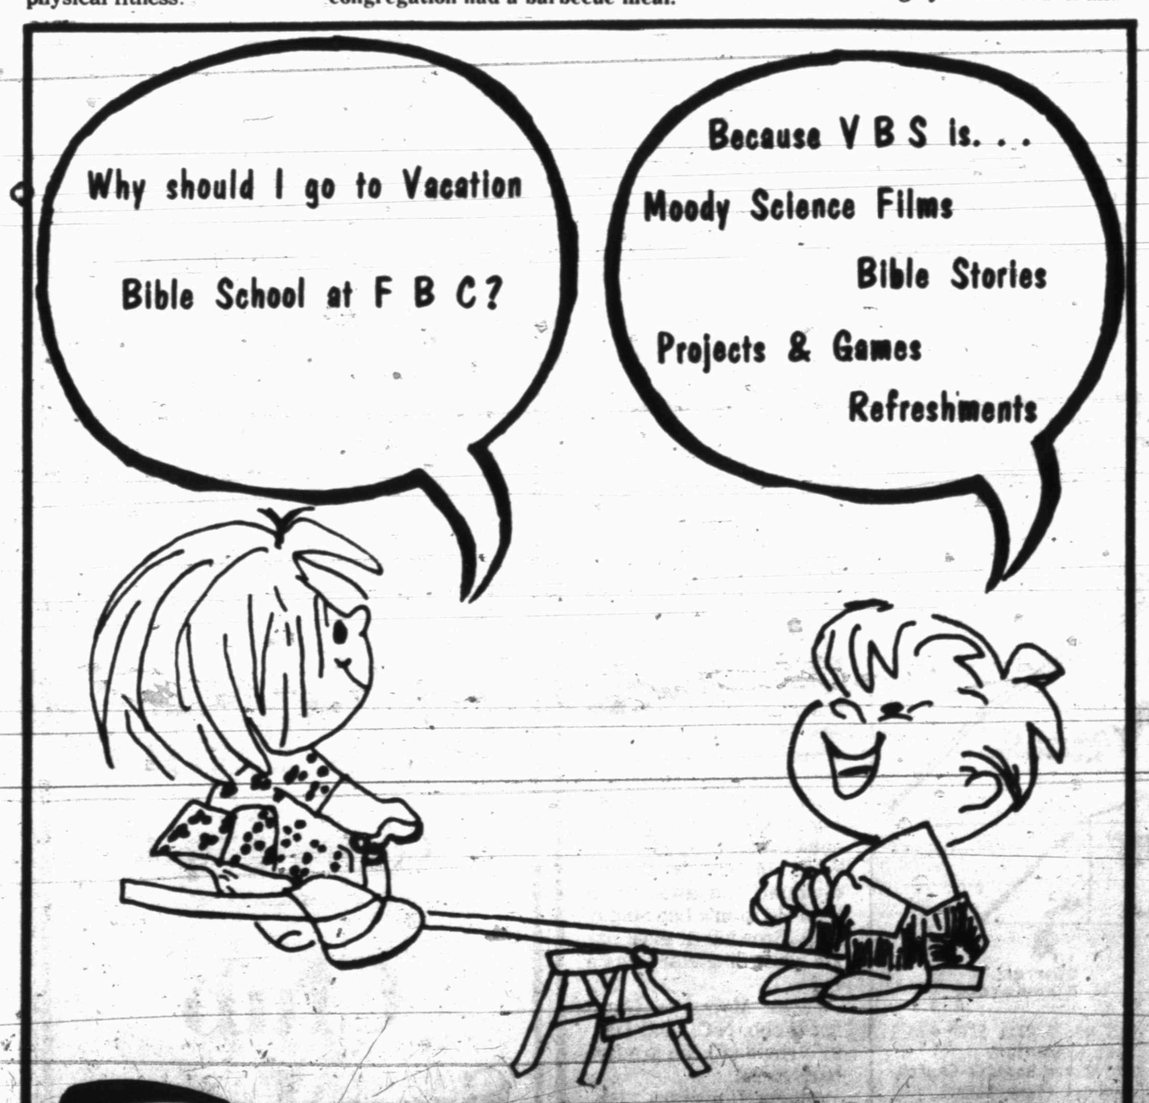

DEAR READER — Staph infections are caused by the staphylococcal bacteria. These bacteria invade the root of the hair and start a little infection which turns into a boil. You will need medical guidance to help control it because once a staph infection has invaded a home it persists.

We all have some forms of staphylococcal organisms on our skin but fortunately our skin has sufficient protective barriers to help us out and they're often not the kind that set up an infection.

It's absolutely essential that in the presence of a staph infection that you do not exchange towels or washcloths. These can easily become contaminated with the bacteria. Your doctor should be able to culture the bacteria and find out which antibiotics will help control it. With proper skin care and antibiotics you may be able to control the infection.

Infection has no relationship to sexual activity. The problem here, as suggested by your letter, is your basic relationship with your wife. To resolve these problems you may need some help from a marriage counselor.

Rangers Grab Twin-Bill From LA...

Texas Double-Dares Royals

ARLINGTON (AP) - Third base coach Pat Corrales didn't think Bobby Bonds' fly ball to shallow right field in the 13th inning was deep enough for Bump Wills to risk trying to tag at third and go for the winning run.

As Al Cowens made the catch, Corrales yelled "No" and Wills hesitated at first as if to stay where he was, then thought better of it and set sail.

Wills collided safe at home with catcher Darrell Porter, and the run gave the Texas Rangers a 3-2 victory over Kansas City and a sweep of a doubleheader that began seven hours earlier.

The victory, combined with a 5-4 victory in the opener, pushed the Rangers past the Royals into second place 2½ games behind Oakland in the American League west.

"The ball didn't go far enough to beat us. We should still be playing. It's a tough way to lose," Royals manager Whitey Herzog said.

A drained Porter, after playing 22 innings, sat stretched out before his locker in the dressing room.

"I don't know if the throw was good or not. I'm too tired to know," he said. "It got there before he (Wills) did, and if I catch the ball we get him. I guess I just missed it. I felt the ball hit the end of my glove, but I never did tag him."

Ranger Richie Zisk had spoiled rookie righthander Rich Gale's no-hit bid in the seventh with a single to left field after Mike Hargrove had walked for the third straight time.

Bonds came within a few feet of hammering a three-run homer a few moments later, but his shot landed up in the bleachers, just to the left of the left field foul pole.

Bonds walked on a 3-2 pitch, and Texas catcher Jim Sundberg, the American League's second-leading hitter, pushed a base hit between third base and shortstop to score two runs and tie the game at 2 all.

"I knew I had a no-hitter going, but I was trying hard not to think about it," Gale said. "My biggest concentration was to win it."

Walks led to Gale's downfall. He gave up two of them in the first inning and let them advance to second and third with one out by heaving a wild pitch past Porter. He then settled down and retired the next 17 batters before walking Hargrove in the seventh. Hargrove drew a walk in the fourth but was cut down on a double play.

WTC Shooting For Third To Eighth

CHAPEL HILL, Tenn.- Western Texas College may have to settle for less than the best at the NJCAA National Golf Tournament which was to conclude today.

The Westerners, in second place after the initial 18 holes Tuesday, fell to fifth Wednesday and fired a 306 to work their way back to fourth yesterday. However, WTC stood 20 strokes behind leader and defending champion Brevard of Florida, which shot a stunning 291.

Brevard, a two-time winner in the National Tournament, was in good shape with a three day total of 889. McLennan, leading the field until yesterday's drop of 304, was second with a total of 896. Alexander City held third with a 901, followed by WTC with a 909.

Yesterday's first nine holes were played in rain before skies cleared. Today's forecast called for fair weather.

According to Coach Bob O'Day, the Westerners had a chance at finishing between third and eighth, and to place two individuals on the All-American team going into today's final 18 holes. The top 24 golfers will make the elite squad, and WTC's Ron Koerth currently sits 14th while teammate Terry Kendrick is 15th.

Individually for the Snyder-based school, Koerth shot a 73 yesterday. Other scores were Kendrick 77, Miller Scott 78, Chris Brown 78 and Steve Wise 86.

Bordley Gets Wish As USC Downs ASU

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)- Many baseball players admit to boyhood dreams of pitching in a World Series game, but Bill Bordley is probably one of the few who thought about winning the College World Series.

"I've always wanted to be the winning pitcher in this," Bordley said after Southern California's 10-3 victory over Arizona State that gave the Trojans the NCAA baseball title Thursday night. "It's been since I was 14 or 15."

Bordley, 12-2, silenced one of the strongest hitting teams in college baseball to make his boyhood wish come true.

Johnny Kerr played in 844 consecutive National Basketball Association games.

NBA Draft Hopes For 'Rough' Gem

NEW YORK (AP)- National Basketball Association club owners searched for the new Jabbars today as the player draft opened at NBA headquarters here.

The NBA draft lasted eight rounds last year. Of the players chosen below the first two rounds, Indiana's James Edwards was by far the most successful, but there were others who lasted to make the pro ranks.

Edwards replaced Kareem Abdul-Jabbar at Los Angeles early this past season and did well until Abdul-Jabbar returned to the lineup. Edwards was traded to Indiana, where he's expected to make a major contribution next year.

From the third round last year, guards Eddie Johnson of Atlanta, John Kuester of Kansas City and Mike Bratz of Phoenix all made the grade. In round four, Phoenix' Greg Griffin was on the Suns' roster for much of the year and Los Angeles' pick, Tony Robertson, caught on with Atlanta after being dropped by the Lakers.

Phoenix' seventh-round pick, Alvin Socott, played in 81 games and was the club's seventh leading scorer. And Golden State's eighth-round choice, guard Ricky Marsh, was actually a starter for a couple of months despite being the 165th player selected out of a total of 170.

In their first 16 years, 1962 through 1977, no New York Met pitcher posted a no-hit game.

Morley Sets Memphis Pace

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)- Mike Morley fired a 6-under-par 66 to take a 1-stroke lead over Barry Jaeckel in the storm-delayed first round of the $250,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic.

Lee Trevino, with a 68, was tied for third place with Severiano Ballesteros of Spain and Allen Miller, who scored a hole-in-one with a 4-iron shot on the 200-yard 15th hole.

Title Challenge Aired Tonight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Ken Norton battles undefeated Larry Holmes tonight for one of the boxing's heavyweight championships.

The 32-year-old ex-Marine was given the title by the World Boxing Council when Leon Spinks signed to give Muhammad Ali, rather than Norton, a return match in New Orleans next Sept. 15.

Never before has the heavyweight crown been awarded outside the ring, but Norton says he deserves it even though he would rather have fought Spinks in the fight the WBC had wanted.

Norton goes against Holmes, who was the challenger named by the WBC to fight Norton in his first title defense.

"I'll fight anybody, and I'd like to fight Spinks," said Norton. And Holmes echoed the view, saying he would also like to fight the winner of the Spinks-Ali rematch.

Norton and Holmes dislike each other heartily, but nevertheless Holmes stood up for Norton, saying the WBC made the right decision in stripping the title from Spinks when he would not fight Norton in his first title defense.

Affirmed Races For Triple Crown

NEW YORK (AP) - Affirmed will try to add another winning beat to the Triple Crown parade of the 1970s Saturday when he carries Boy Wonder Steve Cauthen over the 1½ miles of the Belmont Stakes against four other 3-year-olds, including Alydar.

Of the first eight winners of the Triple Crown - the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont - three were in the 1930s and four were in the 1940s. Then after Citation won in 1948 there was not another Triple Crown champion until Secretariat in 1973.

Affirmed is the early 3-5 favorite to succeed, but the Harbor View Farm colt is not expected to have nearly as easy a time as Secretariat and Seattle Slew, who were dominating winners of the Belmont.

Although Affirmed has beaten Alydar in six of eight meetings - including the Derby, by 1½ lengths, and the Preakness, by a neck - Alydar's trainer, John Veitch, said the Calumet Farm colt will be no broken-hearted challenger in the Belmont.

"Horses aren't like human athletes," said Veitch. "They don't psyche themselves out. He doesn't even think Alydar will recognize Affirmed as the horse who beat him in the Derby and Preakness."

Cats Lead NAIA Tilt

HUNTSVILLE (AP) - Host Sam Houston State enters today's final 18-hole round of the NAIA national golf championships with a three-stroke lead after 54 holes at the Elkins Lake course near here.

The Bearkats carded a third round 304 Thursday.

Elon College of North Carolina is second with a 909. Sam Houston was five strokes ahead of Elon before Thursday's round.

Greg Brown of Point Loma, Calif., fired his second consecutive one-under 71 to wrestle the individual lead away from Sam Houston's Lee Singletary. Brown is at even par 216 while Singletary has a 217.

Wayne Myers of Gardner-Webb, N.C., and Danny Arnold of Elon are five back at 221.

Indiana University, Pa., is third in the team race with a 923, while Texas Wesleyan and Troy State, Ala., are tied for fourth at 925. Texas Wesleyan had Thursday's best team score, a 301.

Mormon Will Ruled Fraud

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)- The handwritten words that would have made a gas station attendant a millionaire have been rendered worthless because a jury concluded that Howard Hughes didn't write them.

The unanimous decision showed the jurors did not believe the strange story told by Melvin Dummar, the once obscure Utah man who said he met Hughes as a hitchhiker, helped him out and won a bequest of some $10 million.

The five men and three women of the jury, who heard seven months of testimony in the complex trial, spent 11 hours in deliberations before reaching their decision Thursday night.

In a hushed, packed courtroom, the verdict was unsealed and read:

"We the jury...find that certain three-page document written on lined, legal paper dated March 19, 1968...was not entirely written, dated and signed by the hand of the decedent, Howard Robard Hughes Jr. himself."

There were gasps.

Los Angeles attorney Harold Rhoden, who invested two years and thousands of dollars in seeking to prove the will authentic, appeared shocked.

"Well, fellas, that's it," Rhoden said, turning to his team of lawyers.

Outside court, he said he would not appeal the verdict.

"The jury has spoken, and that's it," he said. "There's nothing more to be said."

Rhoden said he still believes the crudely scrawled will is authentic, "but I sure didn't convince the jury that it was."

Rhoden represented Noah Dietrich, a former Hughes aide who was named executor in the strange document delivered mysteriously to Mormon Church headquarters shortly after Hughes died.

It came to be known as the "Mormon will."

Dummar, now a beer truck driver, was playing with a band at a country-western dance in Ogden, Utah, when the jury returned its decision.

"I would have hoped it would have gone in my favor," he said. "I was not in control of it so there's not much I can do about it. So I'm just planning to go on working like I have been."

ASTRO-GRAPH

Your Birthday

June 10, 1978

Many interesting changes are in store for you this coming year, but they will not be in your work or career. The status quo is best here, but a metamorphosis of your social life and new friends will add welcome diversion.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't concentrate on the mundane tasks that must be done, because you can't cut it in that area today. Lofty theoretical discussion is more your forte. Find out more of what lies ahead for you by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

CANCER (June 12-July 22) Your financial prospects look rather promising today, but not in those ventures involving elements of chance or risk. Don't take flyers.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be well-received today. Most of those around you will enjoy your company. Unfortunately, in-laws may find little nit-picking faults in your performance.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Underplay your role in any career matters or negotiations today. Stand back. Let others get their share of the limelight before seeking credit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In your anxiety to please friends and influence people today, you might be too much of a check-grabber for your own good. Ask yourself if it's worth it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Early in the day you could go off on unproductive tangents. Once you stop to analyze your moves in advance, your success is assured.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There are days when your hunches or insights can be trusted and followed. This is not one of them. Stick to logic and reason.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The greatest possibilities for you to do something profitable today lie in joint ventures. Deal only with those involved. Permit no hangers-on.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Spur-of-the-moment decisions today could return to haunt you. Take time to think out your moves and there should be no fear of future problems.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It may take you a little extra time to get organized today, but once you get all your tools laid out and plans made, you'll be very productive.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You are adept at things that require mental agility today. This is most effective in tWe social realm.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Play a lone hand in commercial enterprises today. Partners may not be as dedicated as you are. A lackadaisical associate will offset your enthusiasm.

Cartoonist In Red To IRS

YOLO COUNTY, Calif. (AP) - The creator of such counter-culture cartoon characters as Fritz the Cat, Keep On Truckin' and Mr. Natural has drawn his way into the red.

"This is hard for people to understand - it's hard for the IRS to understand - but having to deal with economics and numbers and financial haggling takes so much out of me," Robert Crumb said from a tiny town in Yolo County which he asked to remain unnamed.

The 34-year-old underground cartoonist owes the Internal Revenue Service more than $25,000 in back taxes. Despite the sale of millions of "zany comix" he penned, Crumb said he has no money to pay the IRS.

To raise money, Crumb sold his secluded Yolo County home, more than 100 miles southeast of San Francisco, and placed a magazine ad to sell all his possessions, including records, comics and original artwork, for $35,000.

There have been no takers, but about $2,700 in gift donations have poured in, including $100 from Jules Feiffer.

Crumb said he lost track of how he spent his earnings and forgot to pay taxes. Now, immobilized by the tax hassle, Crumb's output has dropped significantly.

The tax problem stem indirectly from his 1967 "Keep on Truckin'" cartoon that captured the imagination of both the public and counter-cluture entrepreneurs, who plastered the image - without Crumb's permission - on everything from T-shirts to trucks.

Crumb won more than 100 lawsuits or out-of-court copyright infringement settlements. He said he assumed that a share of the money was going to the IRS. It was not.

Dear Abby

Get Off This Ride And Start Anew!

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have been receiving financial help from a married man. (He's my boss, I work in his office.) He is also my No. 1 boyfriend. He says he loves me, and that the only difference between our relationship and marriage is that he has to get up and go home.

I love him in a way, but a girl gets awfully tired hiding all the time. I would like to be able to get dressed up and go out with my man where I can see people and they can see me. And I would eventually like to be married.

Other men have asked me out, but I don't dare accept because it might get back to my boss.

What can I do? Am I destined to be stuck with this man behind closed doors for the rest of my life because I have accepted financial help from him? How does a woman get off this kind of merry-go-round?

TRAPPED IN TACOMA

DEAR TRAPPED: She walks out of his office and out of his life and finds another job. Then she supports herself without "help," like millions of other self-respecting women do. And if she's wise, she moves out of the city and leaves no forwarding address.

All you can expect from the kind of merry-go-round you're on is a brass ring. Try for a gold one.

DEAR ABBY: A famous British novelist who was known to be a singularly unlovable man, presented an interesting problem in etiquette for which perhaps you can provide a solution.

It was reported that at a dinner party he was seated beside an American woman who, in a effort to initiate some pleasant conversation, praised his most recent novel.

His response was, "I thought it was quite good, but now that I know that a common, vulgar American woman such as you likes it, I'm not so sure."

The question: If I were the lady's husband, or escort, what should I do? Dueling is out, for obvious reasons. Should I ignore the remark? Complain to the hostess? Leave the premises, taking the lady with me? Call him an unmannerly swine? Or empty my soup bowl over his head?

VILLANOVA, PA.

DEAR VILL: Your question suggests that you are still living in the days when dueling was "in." Today, women do not need men to protect them in social situations.

If I were the lady in question, I would assume that the man was either very drunk, an ill-mannered snob, or both. And I'd have given him the back of my head for the duration of the dinner. (P.S. Just because a dog barks, doesn't mean you have to answer him.)

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for the kind words you had for short people. My husband is short. Years ago, I came upon one of our sons and his young friend just as the friend taunted, "My Daddy is taller than your Daddy!"

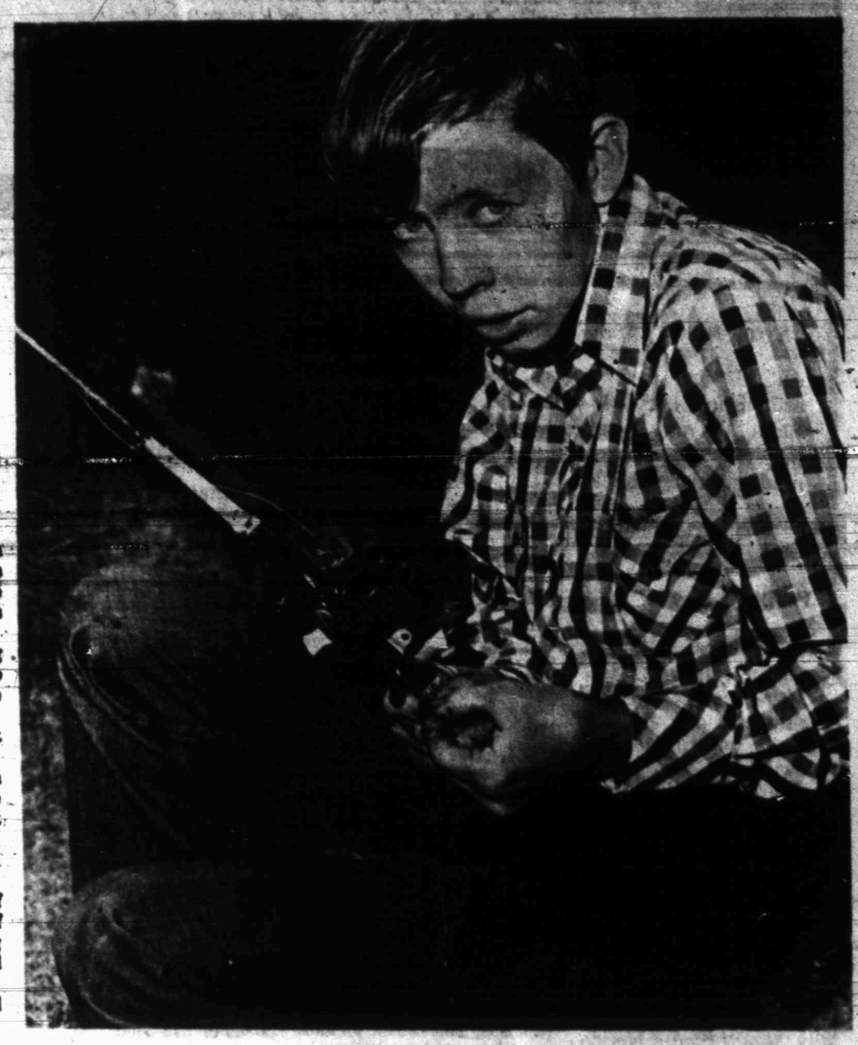

Without batting an eyelash, our son replied, "My Daddy is tall enough."

Oh, that all short people had the wisdom of that 4-year-old!

CAROLYN R. IN TUCSON, ARIZ.

DEAR CAROLYN: For those who boast that tall is better, read Francis Bacon: "Wise nature did never put her precious jewels into a garret four stones high."

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

PRETTY HARD WORK — Baiting a slimy worm on a fishing hook is not as easy as it appears, but it does produce results. At day's end Thursday, Darrel Turnbo reported he had caught a perch, catfish, turtle, and snake from the Towle Park pond. (SDN Staff Photo by John Long)

Picnic 'Swept' Away By Tide

KALALOCH, Wash. (AP) - A sunny oceanside picnic turned to terror and tragedy when a slack tide churned into a killer surf, pulling seventh and eighth graders from the beach. Two were swept away and are listed as missing.

"I came pretty close to giving up myself. I was losing my sense of direction and starting to hallucinate," Volkert Volkersz, 27, a music teacher at Lake Quinault School, said Thursday.

"We started hearing kids screaming for help, saw kids pulling other kids out of the water," said Volkersz. "I jumped in and pulled out two." Another teacher rescued one pupil.

But there were two they could not reach, Teresa Case, 14, of Amanda Park and Donald Hale, 13, of Lake Quinault.

"I was all out of strength myself - it just turned into a hopeless case," said Volkersz.

A U.S. Coast Guard cutter and helicopter searched for the missing children until dark.

Three students who suffered hypothermia, abnormally low body temperature, from the chilly surf and a fourth who broke a toe, were taken to Forks General Hospital, said Jefferson County sheriff's Deputy Neil Adams. A hospital spokeswoman said all were released except for one girl with hypothermia.

"The children were playing in the surf at slack tide. The tide changed and started coming in. The surf built up, of course, and started pulling them out and south," said Adams.

The beach is part of Olympic National Park on Washington's northwest coast. Adams said the beach slopes steeply into deep water and when surf begins to build, the waves are high.

Marty Calder, 14, son of principal Robert Calder, was swimming with about 20 other youngsters when the tide began to turn.

"We were just riding in on the waves and stuff, playing around, and kind of a big wave came in and everybody got scooted off the edge," he said. "People started swimming toward shore and calling for help."

Frank Baum, creator of the Wizard of Oz, was born in 1856.

China Sale Decision Reversed

By ROBERT PARRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Carter administration is permitting the sale of $2.8 million in military-related equipment to communist China, reversing a decision made only one month ago.

Administration officials disclosed the reversal Thursday but contended that the action did not reflect a change in U.S. trade policy toward Peking.

The officials, who asked not to be identified, said approval was granted only after the administration was convinced that the equipment's technology would be used for civilian, not military, purposes.

The equipment involves sophisticated airborne infrared scanning devices and high-speed recording devices that can detect potential earthquakes and help locate oil deposits.

The initial export application from Daedulus Enterprises of Ann Arbor, Mich., was rejected early last month on national security grounds.

The administration reportedly was concerned that the Chinese could adapt the equipment to intercept U.S. military signals.

The company criticized the rejection as "absurd," and filed an appeal. A company official argued that the technology was more than 20 years old and that the Chinese could obtain simpler methods for intercepting U.S. military signals.

Commenting on the reversal, one administration official said; "We satisfied ourselves that the equipment would not be diverted for military purposes."

London Tower 900 Years Old

WASHINGTON (AP)- Britain's famed Tower of London is 900 years old this year.

The National Geographic Society says the tower is England's most popular tourist attraction - three million persons visited it in 1977.

Among the things a visitor can see at the tower are: the crown jewels; a chopping block and axes; dungeons and instruments of torture, and suits of armor.

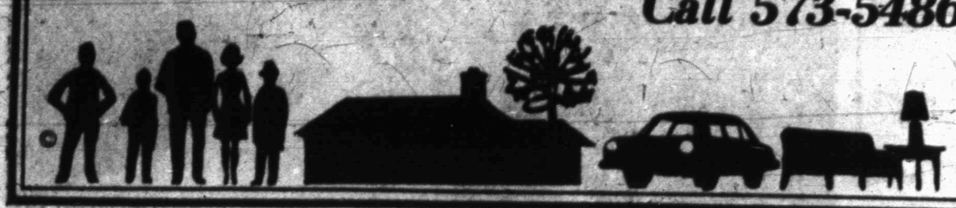

Work on the tower was begun by William the Conqueror in 1078, 12 years after his invasion of England.

"You think it's easy, keeping a jump ahead of the tastemakers and the trend setters?"

Soviets Demand US Pay Damage

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet Union has demanded that the United States pay for damage its investigators did when they broke up Soviet bugging of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said the Americans destroyed a Soviet "protective system" designed to foil U.S. spy gear.

Tass said the Soviet Foreign Ministry filed a protest with the State Department threatening to make public documentary materials about U.S. electronic spying if the Americans continue to publicize the bugging incident.

The protest "contains the demand for the immediate ending by the Americans of the unlawful anti-bugging work and full restoration of caused damage," Tass said. "Otherwise appropriate measures will be taken."

U.S. officials in Washington disclosed last week that a chimney in the Moscow embassy was found to contain monitoring devices, including a large antenna, that were maintained by Soviet technicians who entered the building through a secret tunnel.

Western sources in Moscow said a U.S. Navy Seabee, following wires from the devices through the tunnel to a nearby Soviet apartment building, crawled into a room full of eavesdropping equipment.

Tass said the equipment was a "purely protective measure in connection with intelligence and subversive activities conducted by American special services from the U.S. Embassy building."

It said allegations of Soviet surveillance were a coverup for the destruction of heating equipment in the apartment house and the "protective system."

Solzhenitsyn Criticizes AdoptedHome

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - Alexander Solzhenitsyn, exiled from Russia for criticizing Soviet life, has turned his dissatisfaction toward his adopted home in the West, calling it weak, shallow and cowardly.

In a stinging, abrasive speech to Harvard graduates Thursday, the dissident author chasitised the West for materialism, devotion to human rights, unwillingness to defend itself - even its music.

"After the suffering of decades of violence and oppression, the human soul longs for things higher, warmer and purer than those offered by today's mass living habits, introduced by the revolting invasion of publicity, by TV stupor and by intolerable music," Solzhenitsyn said through an interpreter.

The winner of the 1970 Nobel Prize for literature was Harvard's commencement speaker. In his rare public appearance, he addressed about 18,000 people - 4,474 of them graduates - who sat outside in intermittent showers in Harvard Yard.

Some of Solzhenitsyn's remarks, especially his criticism of American anti-war activists, were met with hisses. The biggest applause greeted his rejection of communism.

He said the West seems unwilling to defend itself against the Communists, who threw him out of the Soviet Union in 1974.

Owner Of Stray Island Is Sought

MONMOUTH, Maine (AP) - There's a stray island parked on Charles Phillips' sandy beach.

It wasn't invited. It's lost and no one seems to know who owns it.

Phillips would like to find out who owns the half acre of reeds that floated onto his property, carrying redwing blackbirds, frogs and turtles on its back.

It's pretty hard for him to toss a fishing line into Annabessacook Lake with a 150-by 100-foot swamp in the way.

A lot of islands pry themselves loose and float around the tranquil lake nestled in the verdant marshland about 10 miles west of Augusta.

"But nothing this large. They've always been fairly small - 10 or 20 feet in diameter. They were nothing compared to this. This is gigantic ... Heck, this is big enough for a house lot," said Thomas Gordon, executive director of the Cobbossee Watershed District.

Furniture Store Has New Owners

Gary and Kathy Landes are the new owners of O'Rear Furniture Co. in Snyder and have named their new business Landes Home Furnishings.

Moving to Snyder from Odessa, Landes has been associated with the furniture business most of his life since his family owns Landes Furniture in Rotan.

While in Odessa Landes was an insurance adjustor and his wife was a speech therapist in the public schools. He is a 1974 graduate of Howard Payne College and she graduated from Texas Tech in 1975.

"We are proud to have the opportunity to be in business in Snyder," he said, "and we hope to continue with the same fine service and friendly atmosphere that Mr. O'Rear established here over the years."

He noted that they will nave a grand opening in August and in the mean time they plan to remodel and add several new brands to their furniture line.

Some of the major brands carried by Landes Home Furnishings now are Tell City, Rivershide, Garrison, Morning Glory, Stratolounger, and Nod-Away baby furniture.

Turning Over A New Leif

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Ivar Christensen, president of the Leif Ericson Society, says his group had a hard time finding someone willing to insure "Ravnen," the society's viking ship.

"The first companies we called just hung up on us," Christensen said.

He finally found a Philadelphia firm to insure the vessel and has come up with a name for the coverage - "Leif insurance."

"The Decorative Designs of Frank Lloyd Wright" are on show at the Renwick Gallery of the National Collection of Fine Arts, Smithsonian Institution, through July 30.
