The Gay Philosopher

By J. W. S.

IF WE HAD been the attractive T&P Eagle — the deluxe passenger train due here daily during the noon hour — we would have been embarrassed Tuesday. The crack train was some three hours late here due to a coupling break 50 miles or so east, we understand. And they had to call in a local welder at some little station before they could proceed.

THE MAIL BRINGS the results of a survey into the dishwashing habits of the male. And here are some of the findings:

82% of the men help with the dishes.
35% demand hot water.
25% know and prefer soap powders.
46% prefer dish cloths and washing tools.
19% feel they are smarter than their wives.

46% had no suggestions for improving dishwashing techniques.
3.3% prescribed their wife as the best labor saver.

It occurs to us that this will be good information for one and all to have around the house.

THE RAINS and the rising water level at Lake Cisco are definitely not damaging the outlook for the small boating business locally. For example, Mr. Jess Himmelsbach, a navigator for airplanes of the Lee Geophysical Company here, is on the verge of beginning construction work on two inboard motor boats. Jess is an old boating man who hails from the deep lake country of Oregon.

For several weeks now, he has been buying supplies and the two boats will be built by Jess and Shorty Lane at the Lane Cabinet Shop. Jess will spend what spare time he has there.

WAS UP AT the City Hall the other day and watched Mr. Norman Burrows, the city water superintendent, test a water meter. And he tells us they have found some 400 dead meters in tests during the past year or so.

And revenue from the water system has gone up rather sharply as the faulty meters were weeded out. They have a modern testing machine.

LOOKING AROUND at Lake Cisco yesterday, we see that Mr. Burrows has finally erected a pretty high water marker. Recent rains have kept covering up his measuring marker. The lake certainly looks good.

A FELLOW TOLD us yesterday about his experience in baiting fishing holes. He and a friend bought a bale of alfalfa hay to sink in the lake. It was to attract fish so fishing would be good over that spot. They took the hay out to the lake and picked a spot, and dropped the bale in. But it floated. So they took it back and tied rocks to it. After two hours of diligent effort, they finally sunk it.

Net results were: one sprained ankle, a torn fingernail, and they haven't caught one fish at the spot.

OUR FISHING calendar indicates that fishing should get better every day from now through the 15th of August, after which it begins slackening off. After the 20th of August — through the 31st — you may as well stay at home.

Mrs. Carrel Smith and daughters, Mary Ann and Beth, spent the weekend at Dublin where they visited relatives. While there the girls were honored at a canasta party given by their cousin, Virginia Ruth Wheatley. Three tables of players enjoyed the game that evening. Mrs. Smith accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Clarkson, to Fort Worth Sunday for Mr. Clarkson to have a checkup at Harris Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. George Irvine spent several days last week at Longview where she visited friends and transacted business.

Wave Reservists Sought by Navy

NEW ORLEANS, August 2 — Four naval activities have been named by the Eighth Naval District to process and give medical examinations to enlisted Wave reservists who volunteer for active duty.

They are the naval station here, naval air stations at Dallas and Corpus Christi and the naval station at Orange, Texas.

Waves belonging to organized or volunteer units were asked to apply for active duty through their commanding officers. Others should apply by letter directly to the district commandant, district headquarters announced.

Volunteers must have at least one year's obligated service remaining in their enlistments. Accepted volunteers will be ordered to one of the three Texas examining activities or to the naval station here.

Qualified applicants will then be sent to Corpus Christi for outfitting and to await permanent assignment by the Bureau of Naval Personnel.

National Guard Unit Needs 60 Men, 4 Officers

The Cisco Company of the National Guard — Battery A of the 648th Field Artillery Battalion — has openings for four officers of 1st or 2nd lieutenants and 60 enlisted men, Captain Frank Sayre, commanding officer, reported today.

The unit desires to fill all of its vacancies in the immediate future, and anyone desiring to join has been invited to contact the armory in person or by telephone. The battery meets at 8 p. m. every Thursday night for a two-hour drill.

Members of the unit receive regular Army pay at the rate of a day for each drill they attend. The unit currently has one officer and 39 men, most of whom returned Sunday from two weeks of active duty at Fort Hood.

"Our outfit gave a good account of itself at camp and came through in excellent shape," Capt. Sayre said.

Lake Cisco Has Three Inches Of Water From Rain

The Lake Cisco water level was up some three inches at noon today as the result of rain showers that measured from 1.3 to 1.7 inches in the area. Lake Birnie was running over the spillway into the big reservoir.

Rain began falling Tuesday afternoon and continued intermittently through the afternoon and night. Several showers fell in the area Wednesday morning. Lake Cisco's rain gauge measured 1.5 inches for Tuesday and Tuesday night. The fall was slightly less in the city.

The showers accompanied a cool frontal weather condition that prevailed over much of West Texas. The weather man promised more showers for Wednesday night with clearing weather scheduled for Thursday.

Methodist Young People Plan Party

The young people of the First Methodist Church have planned a party to be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday on the church lawn.

Folk games have been planned and refreshments will be served to those who attend. The young people of other churches in the city were invited to attend.

The games will be directed by Johnny Lightfoot and Jerro Westfall.

Oil Field Accident Injures Former Ciscoan

Word was received in Cisco today that Raymond Barnhill, former Cisco resident, had been seriously burned in an oil field accident near Pampa Tuesday.

Young Barnhill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Barnhill of Pampa and nephew of Oscar and Oliver Barnhill of Cisco, was in a Pampa hospital Wednesday where his condition was reported as serious. He received burns about the head, arms and upper part of the body.

The accident occurred when he and three other men were working on a well. An explosion occurred and burned the four men.

Police Investigating Wednesday Burglary

Chief of Police Perdue today was investigating the burglary of the Bill Brecheen Gulf Service Station which was believed to have occurred earlier in the morning.

Thieves entered the building by breaking a glass in the front door and opening the night lock. A small amount of cash was taken by the burglars, who left the door ajar.

1100 Avenue I, has become Cisco's first casualty of the Korean war, according to reports here today.

Young Posey suffered a back injury in the Korean fighting recently, according to a letter received by his parents. He wrote that he was in a hospital but had not been seen by a doctor. The seriousness of his injury was not learned.

He joined the army—an infantry outfit—nearly two years ago and has been in the Japanese occupation army until the beginning of the Korean war. He attended Cisco High School, finishing in 1946 at Annona, Texas.

Dallas Operator Plans to Drill On Smith Land

Another operator entered the oil play in the new Lake sand area northeast of Cisco today with the announcement that B. F. Phillips of Dallas will drill the No. 1 V. M. Smith as a wildcat three and a half miles northeast of Cisco.

The Phillips location, which is west of Bankline Oil Company's flush Lake production, was given as 1,320 feet from the north and 330 feet from the west lines of the northeast quarter of Section 60, Block 4, H&TC Survey.

Permit calls for a 4,000-foot test with rotary equipment.

Muddy roads were hampering operations of Cheate Drilling Co. on Bankline leases today. Bankline's No. 3 A. V. Clark was rigging up to drill. Completion work was scheduled to begin on the No. 1 Clark, which offsets production on the Owens leases.

A potential test had been run on the No. 4 Briggs Owens and it flowed at the rate of 228 barrels per day through a 12/64ths inch choke. Production was from 80 perforations at 3,256-76 feet. Total depth was 3,333 feet, and casing was set to 3,333 feet. Flowing pressure was 750 pounds.

Misses Rhonda Reed and Flora Jean Fletcher are visiting relatives in Snyder this week.

Bluestem Pastures Proving Their Worth Under Proper Management

Good bluestem pastures can be compared favorably with vetch and rye in grazing per acre when managed properly, according to results this year.

Donations to a fund to help finance the new Cisco Independent School District gymnasium building were nearing the $7,000 mark today, and Chairman George Boyd of the campaign committee made a report on the progress at the regular semi-monthly meeting of Chamber of Commerce directors Tuesday.

Cash donations paid in amounting to $4,263 and pledged were $2,400. Boyd pointed out that less than half of the 16 drive teams had completed their work. Directors of the civic body, holding a luncheon meeting at the Victor Hotel Coffee Shop, were confident that the goal of $10,000 would be reached.

Directors passed a resolution to be sent to Congressmen in opposition of federal annexation of the Texas tidelands.

Manager B. A. Butler reported that plans were being made for a school to be held here soon under Chamber of Commerce auspices for the benefit of anyone interested in producing No. 1 eggs for sale to a new market here. Details of the school are being worked out by County Agent J. M. Coper.

Several committee reports were made and approved.

Attending the luncheon were: President W. P. Guinn, A. R. Westfall, E. L. Jackson, Anton White, J. W. Sittion, O. L. Stamey, Edward Lee, J. J. Calloway, John Speir, Glen Boyd, A. G. Sander, Dr. C. M. Cleveland, Don Collins, and B. A. Butler.

Mrs. W. C. Clements Is Circle Hostess In Home Tuesday

Mrs. W. C. Clements was hostess when Circle Five of the First Baptist WMU met Tuesday afternoon in her home for the regular meeting. Mrs. E. H. Cheves, chairman, presided and called the meeting to order with prayer by Mrs. Otis Strickland. Minutes of the last meeting were omitted due to absence of Mrs. C. W. Reed, secretary.

Mrs. I. J. Davis was presented for the devotion after which the lesson from the Royal Society Magazine entitled "The Lord Is My Shepherd," was brought by Mrs. Strickland.

Refreshments were passed during the social hour to Mrs. I. J. Davis, Mrs. E. H. Cheves, Mrs. M. P. Farnsworth, Mrs. W. L. Hussey, Mrs. R. R. Jones, Mrs. Otis Strickland and the hostess.

the brush was pushed in 1947, and killed by goats in 1948, followed by a deferment in the summer of 1949, Cecil Shults grazed 17 heifers and 20 hogs for three and a half months and followed these with 32 head of cows for a week. This would be equal to a cow to each two acres for five and a half months.

Cecil plans to defer the pasture until after frost, in order to mature a seed crop, and establish a thicker stand, as well as maintain the vigor of the present plants. He thinks that by seeding an adjoining field to vetch and rye his cows can get green grazing from it while they get their needed hay from the bluestem. Then in the spring months, between the periods of vetch grazing and Johnson grass grazing, he can get green grazing from the bluestem.

W. I. Brooks of the Dan Horn Soil Conservation group found his 20-acre pasture which he had bulldozed and goated in 1948 and deferred in the summer of 1949, furnished grazing for seven cows for five months, and 17 cows for two more months during the winter and spring. He is deferring the pasture again this summer in order to increase its vigor and have grazing for next winter and spring.

Mrs. Cecil Adams and three sons and her mother, Mrs. C. N. Wagley, enjoyed a trip to Carlsbad Cavern recently; and went on to Quemado, where they visited Mrs. Wagley's sisters, Mrs. G. A. Love and Mrs. E. F. Sanders and their families.

THE SAME OLD WEAPONS

In the light of current events, it is interesting to look back about a year, to the time when the headlines were largely occupied with the debate over what kind of weapons we needed, and how the next war would be fought. The star of the Air Force was then in its ascendancy, and its more extreme partisans were arguing passionately that the airplane - and most especially jet fighters and the huge intercontinental bombers - could do practically all of the job. The Navy, the argument ran, would in the future be only a minor, auxiliary service, and should be deprived of most, possibly all, of its own planes and carriers. The tank was obsolete, or nearly so, because new weapons had made it practically as vulnerable to fire as a jeep. And the role of the foot soldier, always paramount in past wars, would be a relatively minor one next time.

This is what prompted U. S. News & World Report, in an article on military planning and strategy, to say: "War (in Korea) is putting U. S. military ideas, new weapons, and strategy plans to the test of experience. On the basis of the record to date, the report card on first performance can be marked: 'Flunked.'" For our experience in Korea has certainly proven that, in this particular kind of "small" war at least, the new weapons and new ideas have not worked the expected wonders.

In this war, the biggest bombers have not been used, nor are they likely to be used to any extent. They are adapted to global, all-out war, in which they would carry A-bombs to vital enemy targets thousands of miles away from their bases.

The Air Force has performed

splendidly in Korea, and has inflicted heavy damage on Red forces. But reports from the front have said time and again that the jet planes, in this type of campaign, have been a disappointment. Valuable as they are in air combat, they are too fast, and too limited in the time they can stay aloft, to operate as well in close support of troops as piston-engined planes.

Navy air, once written off as an obsolete weapon, has proven enormously vital. The carrier planes operate in support of the ground troops, and are a major defense against amphibious landings. A traditional Navy dominates the sea lanes and the harbors.

The most dramatic example of the worth of an old weapon is found in the tank. The Russian tanks which the Red troops use apparently have been superior to ours in fire power and armor.

Finally, the role of the foot soldier has again been all-important. Despite all the new and revolutionary concepts yet uttered, the "poor, bloody infantry" has been the queen of battles in Korea.

It may be that in the future, and in another kind of war, if it comes, those new concepts may find some justification. They have not so far, and it is evident that it would be a disastrous folly to accept them at theoretical value.

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Rendall and children, Bob and Mary Jane, accompanied by Mrs. Rendall's mother, Mrs. W. Z. Latch visited in Abilene Friday night after receiving word that their brother and son, Bill Latch, had been transferred to Lamar, Colo. Mr. and Mrs. Latch and their two babies left Saturday for their new home there.

STATEMENT OF J. F. (Frank) TUCKER

CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF

I am before you as a candidate for Sheriff in the run-off primary and will appreciate any consideration you may give me in this race. I am 55 years of age; was born, raised and have lived all my life (except when temporarily away at work elsewhere) ten miles southwest of Eastland; have never run for office until this time; have been an active member of the Baptist Church since I was fifteen years old.

Because of persistent rumors that I have promised to appoint certain men as my deputies in case I am elected, I declare on my honor that such rumors are untrue. I have not agreed, and shall never agree, to appoint anyone as my deputy unless and until after I am elected your sheriff. If elected I shall then select from my political friends only such men for my deputies as I shall decide are best suited for these important positions.

ARMER OF THE WEEK....

Luck Myrick Makes Good In Big Way As One Of Best "City Farmers"

A complete financial failure at age of 65 would break the spirit of most any man, but it failed to daunt the courage and determination of Cisco's city farmer, Luck Myrick, who with the aid of his equally courageous wife, Edna, has come back and now at the age of 80 and 76, respectively, are financially on easy street.

The elderly couple combined a lot of hard work and thriftiness in staging an almost unbelievable success story. In 1931 they left their home in a borrowed car for a farm near Moran and in 11 short years had a grocery store in Clyde which was debt free and had some $600 in cash.

Born in Alabama in 1870, Mr. Myrick came to Texas at the age of 18 and went to work for his future father-in-law for 50 cents a week. After their marriage, Mr. Myrick moved to a farm near Moran and were hailed out their first effort. They moved on there to Staff where they stayed a year before moving back to Gorman. In Gorman they operated a livery stable before purchasing a run-down grocery business.

The business flourished and soon grew to be the largest in town but a liberal credit forced them out of business. When he was forced to close he had in excess of $12,000 out on accounts, the majority of which is still out.

From Gorman the Myricks moved to a farm near Moran and stayed there until 1915 when they moved to Cisco. When he first came here he sold cream separators during the week and farmed a place near Moran on the weekends. Soon after coming to Cisco the Myricks traded for a farm just south of town and he mixed selling separators with farming and raising.

In 1924 he started his first dairy business and built it up to the largest business between Fort Worth and El Paso. The barn, which is still standing, was equipped to care for 140 dairy cows, and he kept it going at full strength until 1931 when the depression and, again, too liberal credit terms forced him out of business. When he went broke at the age of 65 he had some $15,000 out in Cisco in bad accounts.

At the age of 65 and 61 Mr. and Mrs. Myrick had to begin all over again on their Moran farm. To 14 in the financial comeback Mr. Myrick sold milk, produce, but and eggs from house to house near Moran, Cisco and Albany. After 11 years they went to Clyde and paid cash for a grocery business and had a bank account that went into five figures. They stayed in the grocery business for two years and Mr. Myrick said that they averaged more than $100 a month each, above expenses.

In 1944 the couple retired and moved back to Cisco and purchased a home on a block of land on West 15th. They soon traded that place for one across the avenue east.

It is on that property that Mr. and Mrs. Myrick earned the title of "city farmers." For two people who have retired they have worked hard to show what can be done with a small piece of property and a desire to work. The careful observer can see that there is not an inch of space wasted on the "city farm."

About half of the block is planted to grain for grazing the two to three milk cows the couple keep to furnish more than a dozen Cisco families with milk. To supplement the grazing Mr. Myrick plants a small patch of sudan for winter hay and gets from three to six cuttings a year. He cuts the hay by hand and uses the stalks to tie the bundles.

The remainder of the place, except for the yard, is planted in garden and fruit which goes into a huge frozen food box in the house or to the many satisfied customers in the town. As soon as one crop is through they plant another and they can furnish produce to customers almost on a 12 months basis. In addition to the small dairy and garden they have chickens coming on all the time and furnish many tables with fried chicken.

The yard is a thing of beauty with a constant array of color. The flowers are Mrs. Myrick's pride and joy and what little spare time she has is spent in working with them. The remarkable part of the story is their ability to work from daylight to dark at the age of 80 and 76. Almost any time during the day passers-by can see them both working at some place on the city farm. Their life is an inspiration to all who know them.

The couple has four living children. They are A. Z. Myrick, Cisco; Sylvester Myrick, Moran; Porter Myrick, Beaumont; and Mrs. Grace O'Brien, Oklahoma City.

Along with price increases in most everything else, except farm products this year, there can be expected a rise in ginning rates, hauling, picking and most things a farmer must pay for. The increase in his take never comes in-til later, often much later. Current rises in meat prices, for instance, is not reflected in market prices of livestock.

The senate agriculture committee will get a new chairman come next January, as veteran Oklahoma Senator Elmer Thomas was defeated for his seat by Congressman Mike Monroney. Thomas has always championed administration farm policies.

At the Greenville U. S. Cotton Experiment Station last week, when Superintendent Dalton Hootenput on four field days in a row, the best cotton yields shown were an average of 905 pounds of seed cotton to the acre over the ten years of the test of cotton following hairy vetch in a rotation of corn, oats, and cotton, in that order.

Ginners are distributing books of safety matches to cotton pickers in many places now because of fires that are believed caused by cotton bales after the "kitchen" type matches drop out of hatbands into cotton sacks, and are ignited when they come in contact with gin saws.

Such fires are usually not detected until days afterward when they finally eat through the bale. Over 700,000 such books of safety matches have been sold to Texas ginners already. They don't strike on anything except where they're supposed to.

this county was surveyed in most part by the railroads into uniform and regular blocks and tracts. Tracts not so surveyed are usually irregular in size and description and are far more difficult to abstract and more expensive. But whether your property be a ranch spreading across the hills or a cottage by the side of the road, we find it by a system of abstracting unexcelled in this area. ON EMBATTLED MUD FLATS IN KOREA—American mortar crew amid monsoon rains fires on Communist North Korean invaders near Cochiwon, Korea.

SENDING MESSAGES UNDER FIRE—U. S. Army communications center on the Korean battlefield is established in a jeep parked in a roadside thicket near the city of Cochiwon, Korea.

SITUATION IN KOREA

When military forces of the Communist government of North Korea invaded the new Republic of Korea on Sunday morning, June 25, people of peace-loving nations saw their negotiations to establish Korean independence burst in the flames of war.

Within hours after the attack, the United Nations, through its security council, resolved for an immediate end of the fighting, asking members to give every assistance to the United Nations toward this result.

The next day President Truman, in support of this request, ordered United States Air and Sea forces to give cover and support to Korean government troops. Later in the day the United Nations Security Council called upon all United Nations members to apply military sanctions against the aggressor.

Battle and bloodshed continues.

Korea's history goes back more than 2,000 years. She was a civilized country in the days of the Roman Empire.

They have their own spoken and written language and an excellent, simple alphabet. Movable type was used in Korea 50 years before its invention in Europe by Gutenberg.

The Korean peninsula, which juts out from the Asiatic mainland southeast of Manchuria, is 600 miles long, about 135 miles wide, and has an area of slightly more than 85,000 square miles, comparable to our state of Minnesota.

North Korea—that portion of the peninsula north of the 38th parallel—contains 48,468 square miles but only one-third of the 30,000,000 total Korean population.

Korea's climate is similar to that of the eastern seaboard of the United States between Maine and South Carolina. (In this region the 38th parallel is near the latitude of Richmond, Virginia).

South Korea produces rice and is potentially rich in other food-stuffs. It has comparatively few industries.

North Korea is depended upon for chemical fertilizer, power and coal. Its industry is supported by mineral deposits and has well-developed hydroelectric power plants.

Historically, Korea has been a high road to war and peace. The Japanese first invaded it with a large army in 1892, but were thrown out by Korean and Chinese forces.

Until the latter part of the nineteenth century Korea was largely under the political and cultural influence of China. In 1894-95 Japan eliminated Chinese influence by force of arms.

Rivalry between Japan and Russia over control of Korea climaxed in the Russo-Japanese War of 1904-05. Japan emerged the victor. From 1910 until the Japanese surrender on September 2, 1945, Korea was an integral part of the Japanese Empire.

At Cairo (1943), United States, China, and Great Britain promised that Korea would be free and independent.

The Soviet Union agreed to it when it entered the Pacific War against Japan in August 1945.

When Japan surrendered, it was agreed that for military convenience the U. S. S. R. would accept surrender of Japanese forces north of the 38th parallel; and the United States, south.

But after the surrender, the Soviet Union began to block off northern Korea at the 38th parallel, finally establishing a virtual "iron curtain."

FLAG OF THE UNITED NATIONS UNFURLED IN KOREA—This is the official emblem of the United Nations which is displayed along with the flags of the United States and other nations actively engaged in the defense of the Republic of Korea—Great Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and The Netherlands. The United Nations flag is a white world globe, viewed from above the north pole, and enclosed in two olive branches, resting on a field of light blue.
