Tribe Loses Regional, 21-0

The 1979 football season ended abruptly last Friday night for the Haskell Indians when they fell, 21-0 to the Seagraves Eagles.

Nothing went right for the Tribe during the game and nothing went wrong for the Eagles.

Monday morning, Indian Head Coach Don Flippin said, "We didn't play well". He added that Haskell didn't get the breaks of the game and that the Indians didn't block and tackle as good as they had in some games. Commenting on the performance of Seagraves, he said, "They played very well and were extremely physical."

He also said, "We (the coaching staff) are very proud of our athletes, they had a fine season and have nothing to be ashamed of."

To say nothing went right for the Tribe is almost an understatement. The Indians fumbled on the third play from scrimmage and the loss was one of five turnovers during the game. The Indians managed four first downs during the game and only 130 yards total offense.

During the entire first half, the Tribe could muster only one first down and then lost the ball on a fumble on the next play.

The Eagles scored their first TD with 1:46 left in the first quarter and came back to score again on their next possession, early in the second quarter.

The Tribe threatened to score mid-way in the first quarter when they moved the ball to the nine yard line. The drive was halted on a fumble. The possession was the only time during the game when the Indians had the ball in the Seagraves end of the field.

The Eagles final score of the game came with 6:54 left in the third quarter.

Seagraves threatened to score again about mid-way in the final period but the drive was halted on the four yard line with a fumble.

Lewis Trial Underway

The aggravated assault trial of Gary Lee Lewis got underway Tuesday morning in the 39th Judicial District Courtroom.

Lewis is charged in connection with the stabbing of Don Hise of Rule. The incident occurred at Allsup's in Rule on April 7.

The trial began Tuesday morning with jury selection.

Prosecuting attorney for the State is Joseph Thigpen, District Attorney. Representing Lewis is Davis Scarbrough of Abilene and presiding is District Judge Joe Williams.

A pre-trial motion was heard Monday morning. The motion requested a change of venue. District Judge Williams denied the motion.

Dear Editor;

Thank you for having let us communicate with the people of the Rule Area before may we impose on your graciousness once more.

We have made excellent progress on readying Mr. Ed Cloud's "History of Rule" manuscript for the publisher. Our November 1st deadline has past and we found enough last minute response to make us realize that we aren't in as much a hurry as we sometimes think. We now want to extend the deadline for receiving material for including in the History until February 1st with the idea in mind to have the book ready for distribution at "homecoming" time (November, 1980).

We encourage those who have "intended" to contribute their family or other community sketches, pictures, trivia, etc. to do so shortly. It is asked that the sketches be in third person form so as to conform with Mr. Cloud's format. More pictures of early Rule and its people are needed to make the story complete. The family sketches we have received that are in addition to the original will add so much, but there is still a number of families who aren't represented in the book which should be included.

Stenholm Approved

Congressman Charles W. Stenholm Thursday (November 29) was approved by the Democratic Policy and Steering Committee for membership on the Small Business Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Stenholm's appointment to the committee must still be confirmed by the full Democratic Caucus, which is currently scheduled to meet December 12.

Stenholm, who has served as a member of the House Agriculture Committee and the Post Office and Civil Service Committee since coming to Congress in January, said the Small Business Committee had originally been his second choice selection.

"Due to the importance of agriculture in the 17th District, the Ag Committee was my first selection," Stenholm said. "But, as a predominantly rural area with over 8,000 small businesses and over 12,000 farms, I have always felt that I could make a real contribution to the Small Business Committee. The Small Business Administration, which makes operating loans to both businesses and farms, is administered by the Committee."

All legislation regarding the welfare of small businesses and their participation in Federal programs and contracts is referred to this committee prior to full House consideration.

Stenholm would be filling a position vacated by Congressman Marty Russo of Illinois, who has stepped down to become a member of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Thank you again for your help in furthering the publication of "History of Rule." Pictures needed for the History of Rule: Mr. and Mrs. T.J. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Foster, Dr. and Mrs. J.B. Dear Editor:

In 1961 state government turned to the sales tax as a means of getting out of the property tax business.

The tax has proven to be a strong backbone for state government's financial operations. It can continue to be our strong suit so long as we don't abandon the state's right and ability to turn to it when needed.

But we will abandon that right and that ability if we let the cities, the schools and the counties saddle the sales tax with every increase and every new sales tax proposal they are making.

As Mike Kingston said in the Dallas Morning News, we would be facing the highest sales tax in the nation. I am enclosing a copy of Mr. Kingston's article.

Even if you ignore the schools and the counties, a city sales tax of three percent as proposed by the Texas Municipal League (along with the state's four and the transit authorities' one) would put us at eight percent—a number matched only by that financial genius New York City.

At that rate we lose forever the ability of the state to turn again to the sales tax, and we lost the ability of Texas business to compete with our neighboring states, the rest of the Sunbelt and all other major industrial states—all of whom have lower sales taxes.

Should that come about, there is no doubt that we would ultimately be looking at a state income tax. It has already happened in 45 other states.

Our neighbor Louisiana is a good example. Louisiana's local governments depend on their three percent sales tax for 42 percent of their local tax income. By comparison, Texas cities get 8.8 percent of their local tax income from the sales tax. Hand-in-hand, the state of Louisiana has an income tax and leans on it for 19 percent of the state's tax income.

But most of all, I can't believe the taxpayers of Texas are willing to take on such a drastic increase in the sales tax. Business pays some 58 percent of all sales tax and I don't believe the business community wants such a tremendous increase.

And I certainly don't believe that 350,000 people who collect the sales tax from their customers want any more responsibility in this area for the meager one percent handling fee they get.

The state can be a helpmate to the cities, but it can't be everyone's Sugar Daddy with the sales tax. There are other options open to the cities, hard though the decisions may be.

The sales tax may look like an easy way out, but it is a shortsighted solution. We would be trading short-term benefit for long-term damage in a state throttled with an income tax and unable to compete in the national marketplace.

Sincerely,
Bob Bullock

Versatile Holiday Recipe

The holiday season always calls for at least a few special treats from the kitchen, even if you're not planning on entertaining with a party. It's so nice to have decorated butter cookies, fruitcake, or cheese snacks on hand for special friends who may drop by, or for gifts that say "love from our house to yours."

Dairy Council, Inc. home economists offer this recipe for Versatile Cheese Ball as the answer to all such occasions. The mixture may be shaped into small balls and rolled in sesame seeds, finely chopped parsley or finely chopped smoked sliced beef. The bite-sized balls make perfect snacks or appetizers. The mixture is a good stuffing for celery, making that vegetable a nutritious snack, or dinner accompaniment. Or, best of all, it makes into an attractive and festive holiday treat.

VERSATILE CHEESE BALL
Yield: 2 Cups
2 cups (8 oz) shredded Cheddar cheese
1 cup (4 oz.) crumbled Blue cheese
1/2 cup shredded Provolone cheese
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
1 tablespoon milk
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 cup toasted sesame seed
In a large mixing bowl beat together Cheddar, Blue, Provolone and cream cheeses until smooth. Blend in milk, onion, Worcestershire sauce, mustard, paprika, garlic and celery salts. Chill for ease in handling. Shape into a ball; roll in sesame seed or chopped nuts. Wrap in protective wrapping; chill.

1/2 Of Cotton Grown In Texas In 16 Counties

AUSTIN—Nearly half of the state's projected 5.7 million bale cotton harvest this year is being reaped in 16 southern High Plains counties, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has announced.

Bailey, Lamb, Cochran, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Gaines, Dawson, Andrews, Martin, Howard, Midland and Glasscock counties are expected to produce 2.6 million bales of cotton, a regional increase of more than one million over last year's harvest. The 1979 production is expected to be the biggest statewide in 30 years.

County yields should average 404 pounds per acre, up from 259 last year. More than 3 million acres are anticipated for harvest.

According to Commissioner Brown, the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service sees this year's crop as 50 percent higher than last year's and four percent above 1977's. If figures are realized, the 1979 crop will be the largest since the 1949 production of 6.04 million bales.

Department Of Defense Looking For Nuclear Test Participants

According to C.H. Herren, Service Officer for Haskell County, the U.S. Department of Defense has for more than a year been trying to identify former military and civilian Defense personnel who participated in the atmospheric nuclear tests conducted from 1945 to 1962. The Defense Nuclear Agency is the Executive Agent for this program.

If you participated in these tests, which were held largely in Nevada and at Bikini and Eniwetok atolls in the Pacific, you are urged to contact the Defense Nuclear Agency if you have not already done so. The Agency is attempting to reconstruct a complete history of the atmospheric nuclear test program, including names of participants and any radiation doses they received. One of the purposes of this effort is to enable the National Academy of Sciences and other scientific organizations to determine if there are health hazards resulting from participation in the tests.

tude of this risk.

If you were a participant in the atmospheric nuclear tests program, and you have not already done so, you are urged to contact the Defense Nuclear Agency at toll-free number 800-336-3068 if you reside in Texas. If you prefer to write, address your letter to Defense Nuclear Agency, Washington, D.C. 20305.

Based upon research to date, it is believed that radiation exposures were low. While medical science has no proof that exposure to radiation levels as low as these is hazardous to health, it is generally assumed by scientists that even low levels can carry some slight risks. There is, however, some disagreement within the scientific community about the magnitude of this risk.

Texas has a wet summer

COLLEGE STATION — Texas' image of dry, dusty summers was dented this year, according to figures from the State Climatologist's Office at Texas A&M University.

Of the state's 15 weather-reporting regions, only the Panhandle's western and northern expanses recorded rainfall below the 30-year average for June, July and August.

The remainder of the state had above-normal readings, some as much as 70 and 80 percent over average.

CONSERVATION PLAN-NING: What's your farm or ranch worth-one hundred thousand-five hundred thousand-a million dollars?

You can afford to farm or ranch without a conservation plan?

You can't build a house without a plan. The same goes for soil. You can't build soil without a conservation plan.

Care Gives Holiday Gift

Each of us has something to be grateful for this holiday season. As we think of this blessing, let's remember people overseas who are not so fortunate. For millions of needy people in developing countries this holiday season will be just an extension of their daily struggle to survive.

Your contribution to Care will be used in programs that help these people to pull themselves out of poverty. But first they need the strength to help themselves. Food is the basic part of Care's multi-pronged attack on poverty. In this year's Holiday Food Crusade the organization hopes to raise $6,500,000 to provide supplemental food to approximately 32 million destitute people.

Care has a tradition of successfully bringing people out of the depths of despair. The famous original Care package in 1946 was food, and eventually also included such items as clothing materials, carpentry tools, and baby articles. The Care "package" today is an overall program for individual and community improvement. This program includes training for farmers to grow more food; construction of sanitary water systems, schools, sturdy homes, health clinics; income-generating activities for women; training for medical personnel through Care Medico and disaster aid followed by long-term reconstruction.

Care conducts these programs in more than 35 developing countries throughout Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East. For each dollar donated by the public last year Care provided almost $10 in aid. This was possible by Care's thrifty management, shared project costs with host governments and contributions of food from the U.S. Government. Your contribution may be sent to Care, 109 N. Akard Street, Suite 917, Dallas, Texas 75201.

Texas has a wet summer

COLLEGE STATION — Texas' image of dry, dusty summers was dented this year, according to figures from the State Climatologist's Office at Texas A&M University.

Of the state's 15 weather-reporting regions, only the Panhandle's western and northern expanses recorded rainfall below the 30-year average for June, July and August.

The remainder of the state had above-normal readings, some as much as 70 and 80 percent over average.

Cotton competition continues to develop new markets as evidenced by two recent happenings. One has been the successful development of flame-retardant cottons as highlighted last year when New York City Fire Commissioner John T. O'Hagan announced that all New York firemen will start wearing "Fire Stop" uniforms (100% cotton). That decision came after nearly a year of testing the cotton material against synthetic products. Second development involves current research at the Southern Regional Research Lab in New Orleans where scientists have produced glass from cotton. Cotton glass has a good chance for extensive use since it has the unique ability to bond together other glasses of different composition. Although product possibilities include nearly everything made from glass, most immediate use will probably be scientific glassware.

Credit Card Loss Protection

Protect against credit card loss to avoid problems and financial burdens.

Millions of credit cards are lost or stolen each year with millions of dollars of unauthorized purchases made on these cards, says Claudia Kerbel, a consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

Consumers are partially protected against financial losses when credit cards are lost or stolen. The federal Truth-in-Lending Act provides that the maximum liability of a credit card holder is $50 for unauthorized charges made on a credit card.

However, many consumers carry a number of credit cards and if, for example, they lose 10 cards, they are liable for $500, the specialist points out. To avoid problems and financial burdens of credit card loss, follow these tips:

- 1) Cut up and throw away all cards not needed or used regularly.
- 2) Maintain in a safe place a list of all credit cards and their numbers.
- 3) Keep a list of the toll-free numbers to contact if cards are lost.

Most companies that provide credit cards will provide a postage-paid postcard to send in the event that the credit card is lost or stolen. Keep this in a safe place because it usually shows the credit card number as well as a toll-free number to call.

- 4) Notify the issuer of a lost card immediately.
- 5) Upon receiving a new card, sign it immediately.

6) Never loan a credit card to anyone who hasn't been authorized to use it by the issuer—this is a violation of contract.

To recognize the possible signs of credit card theft, check the monthly bill closely, Mrs. Kerbel advises.

If an expected monthly bill doesn't arrive, someone may have stolen the card and sent in an address change.

Wind Farms May Appear In Texas

A new kind of farm may appear on the Texas High Plains by the mid-1980's, farms that have giant egg beaters producing electrical power from the wind.

The wind turbine farms, as they are called, could produce up to 10 percent of the power that goes into a utility grid, according to a Texas Tech University mechanical engineer, Dr. James H. Strickland.

Strickland and his graduate students have been researching various aspects of producing electrical power from Darrieus turbines, shaped like egg beaters.

Funds for his research were provided by the university's Center for Energy Research and Sandia Laboratories, Albuquerque.

"Development of technology for wind energy will taper off during the next five years as most of the knowledge is now available and emphasis will shift to the commercial aspects of producing electrical power from turbine farms," Strickland said.

Basic questions about power output, aerodynamics, vibration and stress have been solved through the research efforts of university and government experts. Current research is focusing on aesthetics, spacing between turbines and other issues, Strickland explained.

Wind energy, he said, is not expected to produce more than 10 percent of the power that goes into a utility grid, "and to that extent it will not solve the energy crisis, but it will make a significant contribution."

The ten percent figure could go up if a technological breakthrough is achieved in storing electrical energy. The need to store energy is essential because wind produces fluctuating amounts of power, depending on wind speed, and if the energy can be stored then higher uniform amounts can be used.

At present wind power can produce electrical energy at about 12c per kilowatt hour (kwh). Conventional sources produce the same amount of power for about three to four cents, "but efficient production from wind can be achieved to reduce the price to a competitive figure."

Five egg beater turbines, each about 150-feet tall, can produce about one megawatt of electrical power at peak production. Each unit would cost around $200,000. One megawatt of electrical power would be more than 25 percent of Crosbyton's needs, or other towns with population up to 2,500, but only when the egg beater was producing at peak capacity.

The life span of a wind turbine would be around 25 years, Strickland said.

Snow or rain, unless it is in excessive amounts, is not expected to damage blades of the turbine. The blades will create a small amount of noise like that of a helicopter.

Besides wind turbines, Strickland and his graduate students are also working on other projects such as effects of wind on solar collectors and solar towers.

TERRY CHAPMAN

Local Cowboy At NFR

Some people can accomplish whatever they set out to do, no matter what the odds. Haskell's Terry Chapman has done this by reaching his latest goal to compete in the National Finals Rodeo in 1979.

When Terry began riding in amateur rodeos while still in Haskell High School, few people would have expected to see him in the National Finals. However, those who have followed Terry's college rodeo progress and watched him win three Regional Intercollegiate Championships in saddle bronc riding probably realized that he had the ability and determination to be among the top 15 saddle bronc riders in the nation.

In order to finish the season in this position and win $22,199.00, Terry has traveled from Florida to California's Cow Palace in one week-end. He began his successful season by winning $5,000 in the Houston Show in March. From there he began hitting as many rodeos as possible, while holding a full-time job as a livestock marketing representative. You might find him at Reno, North Platte, Cheyenne, Greeley, Colorado Springs or in Washington, Oregon, or Idaho one night and back at Mesquite, Texas the next.

Only the last week in November, Terry placed 3rd in the Lone Star Circuit Finals (Texas top 15 finals) which were held in Abilene and attended by many friends and relatives.

A number of Terry's family and friends will be traveling to Oklahoma City this week to encourage and support him during the ten saddle bronc rides he will be making. His most loyal fan is his fiancée, Ruth Walker of Richmond, who now lives in Norman, Oklahoma.

If you can't be at the National Finals in person, set aside the night of Dec. 12th for the Hesston Telecast of the finals and perhaps you will see this local cowboy.

Rice Springs News

As the song says, it's beginning to look a lot like Christmas. Not only is downtown Haskell getting all spruced up for the holiday season, but so is Rice Springs. The halls and rooms everywhere are beginning to take on a cheery Christmas look. I also noticed a big Christmas tree had appeared in the front living room while I was off for the week-end. We will be having our home Christmas Party on Friday, December 21, at 2 p.m. We want our residents' families to be sure and remember this date and to try their best to come out and help them have a good time on that day. Some of our residents have already begun to receive Christmas presents through the mail and I know they will all be looking forward to getting to open all their gifts on the 21st. I guess no matter how young or old you are, you always enjoy the thrill of opening presents and knowing that loved ones and friends still show that they care.

With all the extra cards, letters, and presents that all our residents will be receiving between now and Christmas, we will need volunteers to help separate and hand out mail. Anyone wishing to do this, please contact Rice Springs.

We still have several residents who are not feeling so well. As I was writing the news, we got word that one of our residents, Martin Letz had just passed away in the Haskell Hospital. We wish to extend our sympathy to his family at this time.

One of our residents, Mary Liles, celebrated her 89th birthday on Dec. 1.

HERE COME DE JUDGE—

Plans for a sprawling, new roller coaster to be named "Judge Roy Scream" have been announced by Six Flags Over Texas. The two million dollar ride will be built along the shore of the theme park's entrance lake. It is the first phase of a program which will bring the entire lake into the park's entertainment area in future years.

Six Flags Plans New Ride

A sprawling, two million dollar, wooden roller coaster will be the centerpiece of a major expansion program announced today by Six Flags Over Texas.

The theme park's general manager, Ray Williams, said the huge ride will occupy a 7.4 acre site on the shore of park's entrance lake.

"It is the largest addition, in terms of land area, in the park's history," Williams said. "And, it's the first phase of a long-term program which will ultimately bring the entire lake area into the entertainment complex."

Construction of the coaster, which will be called "Judge Roy Scream," is already underway with completion scheduled for the opening day of Six Flags' twentieth season, March 1.

Williams said the new coaster will feature a first plunge of 65 feet at a 50 degree angle. "That first drop will be so steep that you will have the sensation of falling straight down," he said. "The top speed will be 50 miles an hour, and the entire ride, from drop to stop, will last 59 seconds. In that time riders will cover 2,500 feet of track."

"The capacity of the ride will be about 1,200 passengers per hour," he added. "That is double the capacity of The Big Bend coaster which has been phased out because of low capacity and long lines."

"Judge Roy Scream is a name we've already had a lot of fun with," Williams commented. "Each of 'Judges' two trains will carry 24 passengers and we're seriously considering calling them 'Law' and 'Order' or, perhaps, 'Jersey' and 'Lilly'." Williams said access to the new ride will be through an 80-foot-long tunnel which will begin inside the present park boundaries and extend to the new addition.

In addition to the coaster, Williams said Six Flags will make major modifications of the park's Caddo Indian Canoe lake area to accommodate a fireworks spectacular.

The canoe ride will remain, he explained, but one of the islands in the lake will be removed to make room for a ground-level fireworks display and the walkway along the lake shore will be expanded to provide a viewing area for up to 5,000 persons.

Williams said the fireworks shows will be staged nightly from late May until Labor Day, and will feature both ground and aerial pyrotechnics.

Produced by Pyro Spectaculars of Los Angeles, the show will require a staff of six technicians to rig the colorful devices used in each night's presentation.

Cost of the production will be in excess of $100,000.

Former Resident Publishes Book

The 217 page hardback is entitled "The Multiple Secondary System For Winning Football." Publisher is Parker Publishing Company of New York, a branch of Prentice Hall Publishing, Inc.

The book describes the techniques used by Rexrode's secondary during the 1975, 1976 and 1977 seasons when Sherman won 25 straight games. Rexrode was asked to write the book by Jack Leach, Sports Editor at Parker.

He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. M.D. Rexrode of Irving, formerly of Haskell.

Safety Starts At Home

Home sweet home is hitting some sour notes with proponents of safer living in America.

It's estimated that 20 million people are injured every year in accidents involving products used in and around the home, with 110,000 suffering permanent disabilities and 30,000 dying of their injuries. The toll in medical bills is astronomical, and there is no way to measure the human suffering that is involved.

The Federal Consumer Product Safety Commission reports that stairs, ramps and ladders pose the greatest risks in the home, accounting for more than 600,000 injuries every year.

Nails, carpet tacks, screws and thumbtacks—their swallowing and other misuse thereof—send more than 260,000 Americans to hospital emergency rooms every year. The annual toll in mishaps involving floors and flooring materials—carpets, linoleum, polishes, cleansers, etc.—is more than 200,000.

Accidents involving tables and glass doors, windows and panels have injured many thousands, while cuts from broken bottles and jars injure nearly 120,000 a year. Slips with knives and other cutlery involve more than 100,000.

Concern about the booby-trapping of the American home has prompted the Department of Safety and Research of the Combined American Insurance Company to urge every family to establish its own safety program. Combined's safety experts recommend that a household have a "safety chairman" to list all the hazards, to recommend preventative measures for everyone in the family and to monitor safe practices on a regular basis.

Toys should be picked up. Poisons should be safely stored. Skat boards and skates should be used with caution. Appliances and tools should be kept in good condition.

Those are just a few steps towards controlling the use of some of the most dangerous items in and around the home.

Combined safety educators recommend that a comprehensive home-safety program start with the kitchen, the most dangerous room in the house. Ask yourself some questions: Are electric cords frayed? Are plugs placed where little hands can reach them? Is the floor kept clean and skidless? Are poisonous substances stored safely away from where children can get to them and in containers that are clearly marked? Are knives kept sharp and used properly? Is a first-aid kit close at hand?

Now move through the rest of the house, inspecting everything closely. Note whether carpet edges are lying flat or are curled, poised to trip the next person who walks by. Does the fireplace have a firescreen? Has the chimney been cleaned recently? Are stairways well lighted and equipped with railings? Are the family smokers careful about extinguishing their pipes, cigars and cigarettes? Are medicines properly labeled and stored and are all outdated prescriptions regularly thrown out?

In the family workshop, are saws, drills and other electric tools properly stored and maintained? Are they used carefully according to manufacturers' instructions? Are children in the family forbidden to use them, as well as lawn mowers, snow blowers and other outdoor electrical equipment such as clippers and pruners? Are sidewalks kept clear of debris?

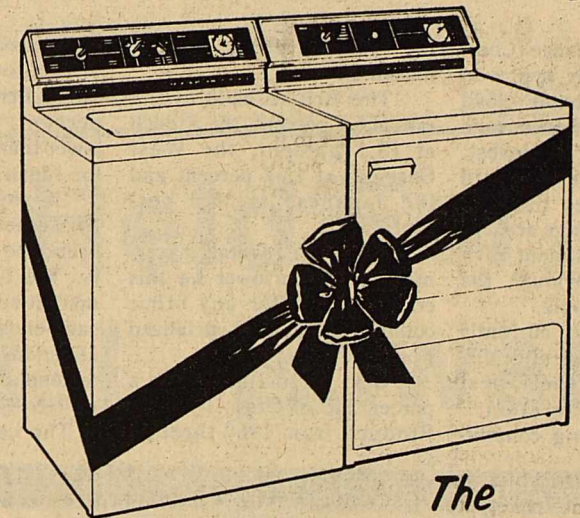

Combined safety experts recommend that every family sit down and discuss all the potential safety hazards in the house and what should be done to eliminate them. A checklist should be made and reviewed regularly. Fire drills should be conducted at least once or twice a year so that everyone knows the fastest route to safety. Emergency numbers should be posted on every telephone, with each member of the family assigned a specific duty in case of fire, flood, tornado or other disaster.

It's all pretty basic, the experts said, but it is obvious that most people do not take adequate steps to deal with safety basics; they are not equipped to deal with accidents when they happen. More important, they do not seem to be able to prevent many accidents.

"The old saying that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure is especially appropriate when it comes to safety," a Combined safety adviser declared. "And there certainly is no place like home to start an accident prevention program."

Info For Organ Donors

Modern science has made life possible where there was little hope before. Operations like kidney transplants and cornea transplants enable some very ill people to lead new lives. If you've ever thought about donating your body or a part of your body to someone who needs a transplant after your death, you'll want to know the facts first. A free booklet from the National Institutes of Health explains what you must do and includes donor cards you can fill out. For your free copy of "How to Donate the Body or Its Organs," just send a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 580G, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

According to the National Institutes of Health, in most states the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act governs how you can become a donor. Usually, after discussing your wishes with your family, you fill out, sign, and carry with you a Uniform Donor Card. You can find out from your state department of motor vehicles if there is a place on your driver's license to designate that you are an organ donor.

But just filling out a card does not mean that you will automatically become a donor. Medical personnel are hesitant to proceed unless your next of kin agrees as well. So it makes sense to let your close relatives know about your decision, perhaps even in writing.

You may want to find a specialist or hospital that will accept your donation. You can start by asking your own doctor for a referral, or call the Surgery Department at the nearest medical school or hospital. For donating the entire body, contact the Anatomy Department at a medical or dental school.

Remember, you don't need to have perfect eyes or perfect health to be a donor. And for helping scientists discover new ways to save lives in the future, an elderly person is as valuable a donor as a younger person.

Now, how can you get a Uniform Donor Card? Two cards are included in the free booklet from the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 580G, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

When you order a copy of "How to Donate the Body or Its Organs" (free), you'll also receive a copy of the free "Consumer Information Catalog." It lists more than 200 selected free or low-cost publications from the federal government. The Catalog is published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the General Services Administration.

Committee Approves Bentson Bill

The Senate Finance Committee on Thursday approved a proposal by Senator Lloyd Bentson that would encourage Americans to save and invest.

The Bentson bill would exempt from taxes the first $200 a year in savings account interest and investment dividends for an individual, the first $400 for a couple.

"Americans are currently saving only 4.1 percent of disposable income, the lowest figure in a generation," Bentson said during committee consideration of the measure.

"The British save at the rate of 6.6 percent, the French at 13.1 percent, the West Germans at 13.2 percent and the Japanese at 25.3 percent."

"In addition, overall investment has been lower for this country than for any other country in the industrialized world."

"U.S. investment as a percentage of Gross National Product, from 1960 through 1973, was only 17.5 percent. That's lower even than the rate of Britain, which was 18.5 percent, and is alarmingly lower than the 35 percent rate for Japan."

"If you are looking for a fundamental reason for our economic difficulties, there it is. We have become a free market economy that does not save enough, does not generate enough capital investment to keep the system functioning efficiently," Bentson said.

The committee approved the Bentson proposal, 15 to 2, and recommended that it be attached to the oil excise, or "windfall Profits" tax now before the Senate.

The measure is a modified version of legislation originally introduced by Bentson early in 1979 that would have exempted the first $500 for an individual, the first $1,000 for a couple, in savings account interest only.

"It is apparent that this investment incentive amendment will be an economic bonanza for America," Bentson said.

"It will serve the individual interests of millions of small investors and savers who see their assets ravaged by inflation. And it will serve our overriding national interests by providing incentives for savings and investment at precisely the time they are most urgently required if we are to manage the problems of the present and prosper in the future," Senator Bentson said.

WHAT NOW

Haskell Indian Head Coach, Don Flippin, discusses with quarterback Jim Harris what play might get the Tribe on the scoreboard late in the first half. The Tribe was facing a fourth and six situation with 44 seconds left in the half and were trailing Seagraves 14-0. The Tribe lost the Regional clash, 21-0, to end the 1979 season.

Cotton Activity Slowing

Sales activity slowed somewhat on local cotton markets last week, according to Garland Dye, Officer In Charge of the Munday Classing Office. Grower offerings were off slightly as prices were lower early in the week. Reported prices were around 9½ cents over loan values at midweek, but by the end of the week were back around 10 cents above the loan. Demand was weak for cotton with micronaire readings below

3.5. Discounts ranged from 2 cents off for cotton miking 3.3 to 3.4 to 6½ cents off for cotton miking 2.9 and below. Cottonseed prices were from 105 to 110 dollars per ton. Cotton classed at the Munday Office continued to be mostly White grades. Fifty-six percent was Grade 31 and 29 percent was Grade 41. Light Spotted grades accounted for only 11 percent. Staple length was mostly Staple 32 and Staple 33. Staple 32 made up 53 percent of the total and Staple 33 made up 27 percent. Staple 31 was 17 percent. Micronaire readings were mostly in the preferred range of 3.5 to 4.9. Eighty-one percent fell in this range. The remaining 19 percent was 3.4 and below.

The Munday Classing Office classed 12,600 samples last week bringing the season's total to 72,000. An additional 16,000 samples of Munday cotton was classed early in the season in Abilene.

PHILPOT'S SUPPLY & SERVICE CENTER

For Fast Return on Investment

Philpot's Service & Supply at 402 N. First in Haskell has a great way for you to save energy and cut down on your fuel bills this winter. By installing the Honeywell Chronotherm Clock Thermostat, (a set back thermostat) you can really save.

This newly designed thermostat sells installed for under $100.00 and will save you as much as 27% of the fuel cost for heating. This 27% amounts to a return on your investment of about three months for the average home.

The energy-saving device is capable of two setbacks per day (temperature changes) and can also be used to set up the cooling temperature. It helps you cut heating and cooling costs with wintertime night setback and summertime day setup...and the family stays comfortable all year 'round.

In cool weather, the clock mechanism automatically triggers lower temperatures according to your nightly schedule, and raises them again in the morning to your daytime setting. The great beauty of the device is that it can be programmed by you. The thermostat is not pre-set.

According to Bob Philpot, the Honeywell Automatic Setback Thermostat can be installed on any conventional heating and air conditioning system.

This energy saver may also be used in commercial applications. Philpot's Service & Supply has an electronic setback thermostat that will save even more because it has shut off and override features. This device is especially good for businesses that close on week-ends. The owner can set the thermostat to shut the system off and skip a day, as on week-ends when the business isn't in operation.

With the commercial thermostat, which sells installed for about $200.00, one need not rely on people to regulate the thermostat, or to make sure it gets turned off. It is self-regulating so there's no worry about anyone forgetting and thus wasting fuel.

There is also a safety override feature that would keep the building from freezing.

As an added convenience, Philpot's Service & Supply has the locking thermostat covers available for these remarkable devices. These insure the maintenance of a secure temperature setting, very important in these days when businesses are required by law to comply with the ordinance of the Department of Energy.

Whether you use the Honeywell Clock Thermostat in a commercial application or in your home, Philpot's Service & Supply can install the locking cover on your existing thermostat or on a new one; nothing needs to be changed.

Philpot's Service & Supply has other energy saving equipment available from Day and Night for heating and air conditioning systems using all types of fuel.

With the recent dust storms, one way to improve your indoor environment is by adding an electronic air cleaner. This will improve your filtration from approximately 5% to a high of 80%. "We can improve your filtration from 75%-90% over your existing system," says Philpot.

For home-owners using electric heat the answer to high-operating costs is the Day and Night High-Efficiency Heat Pump. This is an all electric device that will reduce your operating cost as much as 50% and is available at Philpot's Service & Supply. Philpot's Service & Supply is Solar Certified with Day and Night and is Heat Pump certified with Day and Night and also with the National Education Society for all brands of heat pumps, service and application design.

With such qualifications, the trained staff is well able to take care of whatever your heating or air conditioning needs might be. Call 864-3010 or drop by at 402 N. First, Haskell. They'll be glad to help you improve your operating cost.

Labor Department Reviewing Gins

The National Cotton Council has received a letter from officials of the U.S. Labor Department stating that cotton ginner temporarily will not be cited under provisions of the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act.

The Council earlier had objected to Labor Department enforcement of the new law, because farmers, ginner, and certain other employers are exempt.

Herbert J. Cohen, assistant administrator of the Labor Department's wage and hour division, said in the letter that certain sections of the law were under review. "Based on this review, it has been decided to restudy the department's position and to issue a clear opinion on these sections of the act."

He added, "Until such time as the department issues the opinion, enforcement activity under the act will be suspended in the cotton gin industry."

Cohen's letter also said advice and assistance from ginner will be sought by the department during the course of the study. He indicated that the Labor Department plans to meet with ginner "to facilitate achieving maximum voluntary compliance with the act."

After numerous ginner were cited for failing to register, the Council urged the Senate to intervene and 52 Senators signed a letter to Labor Secretary Ray Marshall expressing their concern over enforcement activities against exempt employers.

The Council said it will continue to monitor developments and will work with Labor Department officials to seek permanent relief for ginner and other agricultural employers.

Congressman

Charles W. Stenholm

Congressional Comment

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A $1.5 billion stamp of approval of poor management practices and non-competitive wage increases is currently being pushed through Congress.

Supported by the Administration and carefully marshalled by a powerful — and expensive — lobbying effort, the Chrysler "bailout" sets an unwise, open-ended precedent, and is, in my opinion, a classic government "boondoggle."

There is no doubt that the mammoth manufacturer is in trouble. And both management and labor have to take their share of the blame for those problems. Poor management practices will put the firm in the red to the tune of nearly $700 on every vehicle it sells this year. Yet, the company's cash registers have racked up sales of $65 billion since 1974, with a cumulative net loss of $665 million. That, to me, suggests that major surgery is necessary, such as dropping some product lines, closing inefficient plants or development of a new, more selective, competitive marketing strategy.

These are precisely the kinds of drastic steps that other failing firms are forced to undertake every day. Are we in essence saying that henceforth any company and its workforce big enough and capable of mounting a strong enough lobbying campaign can be exempted from competition and can avoid the pain and inconvenience of reorganization when costs get out of hand, products don't sell, or large losses mount up?

On the other side of the Chrysler see-saw, the United Auto Workers (UAW) did the firm the "big favor" of limiting their pay increases to a cost-of-living allowance that will give the average assembly line worker at least a $10,000 raise during the next three years and, if inflation continues at the present 13 percent rate, an increase of $13,500.

I know of very few people in the 17th Congressional District that are going to be looking at a 30 percent-plus increase in wages in the next three years, yet this is what the UAW are saying that they are sacrificing and this is why we in the Congress should vote to give $1.5 billion of taxpayer's money to Chrysler.

One of the strongest arguments in favor of the bailout is the reported loss of 400,000 to 600,000 jobs. But these numbers reflect merely a gross inventory of existing payroll at Chrysler, its dealers and suppliers and secondarily related firms.

These jobs would be threatened only in the event of a complete and total liquidation, which is only a risk, not a certainty. Automotive industry jobs are likely to shift, not disappear, however. Even if Chrysler fails completely, the total number of U.S. vehicle sales is not likely to decline measurably, meaning no net loss of jobs downstream of the factory gate — truckers, dealers, mechanics and so forth — which represent better than 20 percent of the total.

In short, the advocates are confusing the possibility of temporary employment turnover with permanent net job losses. If the free enterprise system is to work, you must preserve the right to fail as well as succeed. My vote on the Chrysler bailout is "NO."

Letters To The Editor

(EDITORS NOTE: The Haskell Free Press will publish letters to the Editor dealing with any subject. All letters must be signed but names will be withheld by request. All letters are subject to editing for length and liability.)

Dear Editor:

I am seeking information about the introduction of highway cattle guards onto the roads of range country. My research thus far show that railroad cattle guards were in use as early as 1836, and that a wooden-board guard for horse-drawn vehicles was in use near Medicine Lodge, Kansas, in the 1890s. The earliest cattle guards intended for automotive traffic seem to date from Texas in 1913 and North Dakota in 1914. I would like to receive information on any cattle guard built before 1925.

I would also be interested in receiving stories of readers' experiences with cattle guards, of methods used to make cattle guards work more efficiently, of other kinds of devices used to replace gates, of other names by which cattle guards are known, etc. The results of my study will be published in book form, probably in 1981. Please send information, or names and addresses of those who might have information, to J.F. Hoy, Professor of English, Emporia State University, Emporia, Kansas 66801.

Sincerely,
James F. Hoy
Professor of English

REGULATORY MADNESS

Rep. Dan Quayle, R-Ind. noted that 84,700 persons are now on the federal payroll for the purpose of writing regulations. If each of them produced just one regulation in a 40-hour week, there would be 4,394,400 new mandatory guidelines in a year's time. Since 1940, federal regulations have occupied 1.2 million pages in the federal registry.

WATCH OUT!

"Pa," said Hector, looking up from the book he was reading, "what is meant by 'diplomatic phraseology'?"

"Well," replied Pa, "if you were to say to a homely girl, 'Your face would stop the clock,' that would be stupidity, but if you said to her, 'When I look into your eyes, time stands still,' what would be diplomatic phraseology?"

Leisure Lodge News Fish Fry To Honor Charles Finnell

With Christmas just around the corner all of us at Leisure Lodge have been getting busy for the Holidays. Saturday all of us felt like it trimmed our Christmas trees mostly with homemade ornaments reminding us all of past Christmases. Mrs. Medford's daughter-in-law came and decorated up her room with such beautiful Christmas decor just adding to the Christmas spirit here at the Lodge. One decoration in particular is a small Christmas tree with visiting magi underneath. Mrs. Medford's granddaughter said that that was one of her lasting memories was the magi under the Christmas tree. Mrs. Ray spent Saturday busy with her brothers and sisters annual Christmas party. Some time ago all the immediate brothers and sisters decided to have an annual Christmas party without any of the children and every year since then they have celebrated Christmas in this special way. This year all nine of the brothers and sisters were together including one sister from California. The oldest one present was 82 years old and the youngest was 62. All of the brothers and sisters are still alive which added to this special event. We again want to thank Eastside Baptist congregation for ministering in the home for the month of November. We had some out of town visitors this week but not as much as usual because of the recent Holiday.

Mrs. Lynn Gray of Lufkin visited Mrs. Mary Smith. Mrs. Massie's son visited this week. Mr. James R. Massie of Euless and Mr. Brantley Massie of Langster, Penn.

From Abilene Mr. and Mrs. Chuck, Kevin and Micael visited Mrs. Mary Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Bob Shaw and girls visited Mrs. Molly Jarred.

From Anson Tommy Coker visited Mrs. Molly Jarred.

We had several from around Haskell and are always thankful for them. From Rule, Cynthia Sorrel and Bobby Hunt visited Mrs. Florene Sorrels and Lummie Westmoreland. Mr. and Mrs.

Walter Rinehart, Ella Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Vernon. Mrs. George Sorrels, Mrs. A.B. Arnett and Mrs. Minnie Dickey visited Mrs. Lummie Westmoreland. Amy Sorrels visited Mrs. Florene Sorrels.

Also Mrs. Anna Lee Cook, Gladys Dyckes visited Mrs. Edith McDaniels. From Rochester Mrs. Sam Basden visited Mrs. Myrtle Russel. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rinehart visited Mrs. Dora Long and Georgia Turnbow visited Mrs. Florene Sorrels.

We had several go out visiting. Mrs. Elsie Norman spent a few days with her daughter. Mrs. Elsie Mitchell visited her sister-in-law, Mrs. Hazell Nolan, and friend, Grosie Ledbetter. Mrs. Ima Friep went out Sunday to help trim the Family Christmas Tree. We hope all of you have pleasant Holidays. Remember, there are only twenty more days until Christmas. Happy Holidays.

"Good Job, Charles Finnell" will be the theme of the fundraiser at the Holiday High School Cafeteria tonight honoring State Representative Charles Finnell. Benning at 7:30 p.m., plans and hard work will become a reality when friends of the Holiday businessman and attorney, including Speaker of the Texas House of Representatives Bill Clayton, Railroad Commission Chairman John Poerner and Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown gather to participate in a salute to the 53rd District legislator.

Honoring Finnell for his 12 years of public service to the people of Archer, Clay, Young and Wichita Counties, the casual Fish Fry is sponsored by the Committee for Responsible Representation. Admission at the door is $10 per person.

"Charles Finnell has devoted himself unselfishly to the citizens of this district and to the state of Texas. This Fish Fry shows our appreciation for a man who truly loves working for the people." Committee treasurer Don Talley said.

Brown, and Poerner, who served in the House with

Area Gins Recognized By Pioneer

Paymaster Gin, Weinert and Farmers Co-op Society #1, Haskell were honored recently for outstanding sales achievement in 1979 as dealers for PIONEER® brand seeds. And to mark the occasion, both received a specially designed Silver Dollar Award from Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc.

"Only 15 to 16 percent of the approximate 800 Pioneer dealers eligible for this award will qualify each year," Jim Lindsey, president of the Plainview based company, noted in announcing this year's honorees. "And we're particularly proud of Paymaster Gin because they have qualified in their first full year as a Pioneer dealer."

To make this kind of achievement requires considerable individual effort, Lindsey continued. And he noted that the most vital ingredient for the success of Pioneer is people like those at Paymaster Gin and the approximate 100 other 1979 award winners.

Pioneer markets planting seed in the Southwest for sorghum, corn, cotton, wheat and alfalfa through dealers in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. The Plainview based firm is a division of Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., Des Moines, Iowa.

Finnell, will touch on the issues of agriculture, energy and transportation, subjects close to the hearts and pocketbooks of many area citizens.

Clayton stated, "I am pleased that I will have the opportunity to visit in Holliday and join with other friends of Charles Finnell in paying a well-deserved tribute to him."

"Charles Finnell has proven experience in the legislative process pays off for the people of Texas. His capacity to serve is reflected in the high caliber of service he has rendered the 53rd District. I am proud that I can take a part in honoring him for his devotion to his job," the Speaker continued.

Ranking in the top 10 percent in seniority among 150 House members, Finnell serves on the Appropriations Committee and is Vice-Chairman for Appropriate Matters on the Transportation Committee.

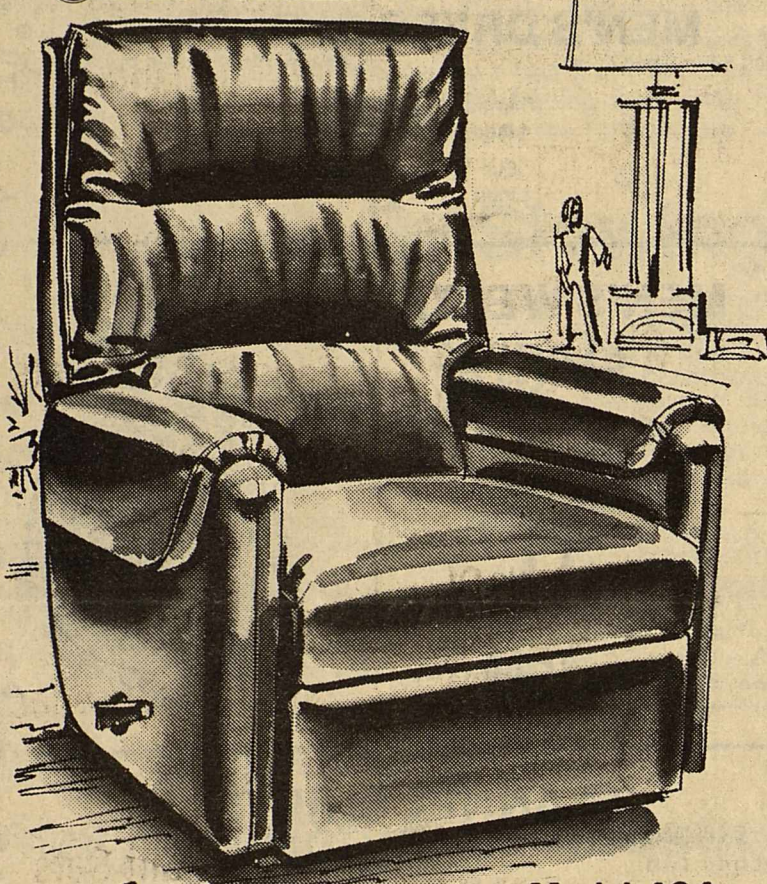

Catfish will be prepared and served by the Iowa Park Muleskinners. Judge R.L. "Pee Wee" Stewart and his western band will provide entertainment, in addition to a talented young group of musicians from Holliday.

Fight Inflation At Home

Feel poorer in spite of earning the highest income of your life?

You're not alone—and there is something you can do about it, says Nancy Granovsky, a family resource management specialist.

Mrs. Granovsky is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

One reason we feel poorer comes from the tax squeeze, she says.

"Inflation has helped push our incomes to higher levels, but because of the way our tax system works, our wage-increase dollars are taxed at a higher rate than our pre-wage-increase dollars," she explains.

"And changes in the social security laws also take a bigger bite than they did before."

Controlling personal inflation involves choice-making, Mrs. Granovsky says.

How we spend our after-tax dollars is the key, she stresses.

FIGHT INFLATION RATES
One thing we can do is fight the rate of inflation.

For example, if prices increase at the rate of 1.1 percent each month, consumers can:

- 1) Cut back spending by 1.1 percent.
- 2) Substitute for or change the mix of things you buy so your total bill is 1.1 percent less.
- 3) Don't change anything, but pay 1.1 percent less through careful buying.
- 4) Find alternative, non-economic means of satisfying your needs.

'IMPACT' STEPS
Fighting the rate of inflation will take specific "impact" steps, Mrs. Granovsky says.

Here are five "impact" steps to accomplish some of the four plans listed above:

Kick The Credit Habit—Use credit prudently, not for spreading out the cost of everyday living.

Unpaid charge accounts take an added 1.5 percent per month from your spending money.

Get Discounts—Some merchants may be willing to give a five-to-seven percent discount to cash-paying customers.

Save Five Cents—Save five cents on every dollar you spend for a total five percent savings.

Coupons for food purchases can save money if the price does not exceed that for another product of similar quality.

Shop Sales—Buying on sales can show dramatic results, if the items meet real needs, not imagined needs.

A 20 percent markdown can mean important savings.

Save Gasoline—Drive fewer miles for sure savings on gasoline.

Carpool with someone to cut gas bills.

Plan shopping trips carefully before driving to cut down total miles. Set realistic personal goals for trimming down the miles you drive.

KEEP QUALITY OF LIFE

"Economizing doesn't mean sacrificing our quality of life," Mrs. Granovsky stresses.

"It simply means more effective use of the resources we already have."
