

Mutiny In Army

18 Britons Are Killed

LONDON (AP) — The British government's plans to leave Aden and the South Arabian Federation in January were threatened today by a mutiny in the South Arabian army and the Aden police which resulted in death of 18 Britons and an undetermined number of Arabs.

Twenty-three Britons also were wounded before calm was reported restored Tuesday night to the Aden area in the southwest corner of the Arabian Peninsula.

Curfew Call

A curfew was in force in the little Aden section today, with British families ordered to remain in their homes and schools closed.

The protectorate was reported generally quiet, but a general strike was under way and there was considerable tension.

The belief was widespread in London that British government would have to take a new look at its plans, announced Monday, to give independence about Jan. 9 to the federation made up of Aden State and 16 sultanates and sheikhdoms strung along the southwest coast of Arabia.

Naval Force

Foreign Secretary George Brown told the House of Commons Monday that Britain would keep a strong naval force in South Arabian waters and a force of bombers within easy reach for six months after independence to guard the federation against aggression. But the government counted on the native army it is training and equipping to preserve order within the federation.

The Foreign Office attributed the mutiny to disputes in the 8,500-man army over "conditions of service and intertribal rivalries." The discontent apparently was brought to a head by the suspension four days ago of four colonels for unexplained "disciplinary reasons."

Prisoners Freed

Although the Foreign Office refused to amplify its statement, it was believed the rivalry stemmed from the recent merger of the former federal army trained by Britain since 1961, in which British officers have been steadily replaced by Arab officers who worked their way up, and the federal guard made up of former police units and personal troops of the various sheikhs.

Trouble broke out first at the Lake Line barracks in the Sheikh Othman district, where young apprentice soldiers rioted, set fire to some buildings, freed prisoners and prevented British officers from entering the camp.

Weapons Seized

Arab officers broke up that mob, but the trouble spread to the Champion Lines camp in the same area. There rebellious soldiers sacked the armory and seized its weapons.

The federation government called on British troops to help quell the revolt, and violence erupted in the Crater district, a hotbed of Arab nationalism.

Fighting raged throughout the day. Officials said 17 of the 18 British dead and 22 of the 23 wound were soldiers. The other two were civilians.

Hot Prelude

If it's hot today and hotter tomorrow, don't be surprised.

At 8:23 p.m., ordinary or garden variety Central Time for 7:23 p.m. (DST) spring retreats from the weather stage and summer moves to center stage.

What we are endeavoring to say — today is the last day of the vernal equinox and the summer solstice takes over tonight.

Big Spring 'Cool'

On Tuesday, Presidio demonstrated that summer is near by scoring 105 degrees and Brownwood was able to muster a sizzling 103.

Big Spring, on the other hand, was a cool 96. Today, as the eve of summer, held out promise of living up to its name. At 8 a.m. the temperature was 77 degrees and the low for the night was a warm 75 degrees.

Summer, which undoubtedly will gather warmth from the lack of moisture which has prevailed here so long, will be around officially until Sept. 23, when the autumnal equinox will usher in fall. Happy sweating, everyone!

Signing Up The Cowboys

Tonight's Rodeo Shapes As Champion Cavalcade

This evening's 8 o'clock performance of the 34th annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo shapes up as a cavalcade of champions with 142 cowboys entered.

Larry Mahan, Brooks, Ore., cowboy who shattered all records by winning the all-around title last year, is entered and will ride in the bareback bronc event tonight. Mahan, with $26,027 to his credit, is almost double his nearest competitor for the all-around title this year and is running well ahead of his historic 1966 race.

TOP ROPER

Earlier, Jim Bob Altizer, Del Rio, who is nearly $2,500 ahead in the current calf roping title chase, has entered. Altizer, termed by many the most consistent roper of them all, has been in the top 10 for the last 15 years with few exceptions. He won the title in 1959, placed second in 1953, fourth in 1956, and fifth in 1961 and 1966. He was runnerup for the all-around title in 1959. Altizer is on tonight's program.

Myrtis Dightman, Houston, the only Negro cowboy ever to be in contention for a major crown, also is entered and will be in the bull riding event this evening. Dightman is only $400 off the pace in championship standings.

TALENTED HAND

Ronny Sewall, Chico, who was sixth in all-around standings in 1964, third in calf roping last year and fourth in 1965, was among the entries. Last year he finished less than a thousand dollars behind Junior Garrison, Marlow, Okla., the roping champ, and the great Dean Oliver, who fell short by less than a hundred dollars on his bid for an unprecedented eighth title.

TOOTS TO ROPE

But to local fans, one of the brightest spots will be the appearance today of their own Toots Mansfield, seven times the world champion calf roper and in 1948 the first roper ever to win the all-around title. Mansfield, who broke into the game from Bandera and was one of the contestants in the early days of the Big Spring show, won world titles in roping in 1939, 1940, 1941, 1943, 1945, 1948 and 1950. He was runnerup in 1946 and 1947, finished fourth in 1949 and third in 1955, the last year he made a serious try for the roping title.

Bill Kornell, Clarksville, rookie of the year in 1963 and the youngest at 19 to ever win a national riding championship, is on hand along with the old pro, Harry Tompkins, Dublin. In 1948, 1949, 1950, 1952, 1960, Tompkins won the bull riding

Britain Raps Israel's Plan

U.S. Sources Call Israeli Claims False

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Britain challenged today Israel's determination to keep all Jerusalem and warned that, in keeping the conquered old city sector, the Israelis will isolate themselves from world opinion and lose the support they might have.

Britain's foreign secretary, George Brown, opening the day's debate in the special emergency session of the General Assembly on the Middle East, said, "War should not lead to territorial aggrandizement." This had the look of important support from the West to a Soviet stand that Israel should not gain territory from her lightning defeat of the Arabs in five days of war early this month.

ISRAEL BLAMED

In Paris, President Charles de Gaulle of France, for the first time, directly blamed Israel for starting the Middle East war June 5.

Mahmoud Fawzi of Egypt, President Gamal Abdel Nasser's deputy prime minister, rejected a U.S. resolution which called on Israel and the Arabs, "with appropriate third party assistance" to negotiate a settlement between them.

At the same time he accepted a Soviet resolution, presented by Premier Alexei N. Kosygin Monday, which demanded punishment of Israel and its expulsion from conquered territories.

KOSYGIN ABSENT

Kosygin was not present as Fawzi spoke, nor was Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, who have been huddling with Communist bloc delegates.

Fawzi called the Soviet draft resolution "both just and constructive."

Fawzi reflected Arab pessimism that this emergency assembly session can do anything to force Israel to surrender all she gained in the war. He recalled that Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban had been quoted in Jerusalem as saying that even should the assembly vote 121-1 to order Israel back to armistice lines, "Israel would refuse to comply with that decision."

LBJ GIGGED

The Egyptian accused President Johnson, Eban and some other Western leaders of having "naïvely and repeatedly criticized" U.N. Secretary-General U Thant for his decision to withdraw U.N. peace forces from Egypt in advance of the war.

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence information indicates Communist European nations have sent Egypt about 50 MIG jet fighters since the Israeli smashed Egypt's air force in the recent Mideast war.

American sources also said replacement of Egyptian tanks has been relatively slight so far.

They disputed claims of Israeli military sources here that the Soviet Union and other Communist countries have been pouring in equipment and supplies to replace Egypt's staggering losses in the brief Sinai campaign and the lightning Israeli air strikes that preceded it.

IN SIX MONTHS

Israeli military sources told a reporter the Soviets, Czechs and other Communist European countries have sent 150 to 200 MIGs to Egypt by direct flight or by ship.

"They'll be on their feet in six months," said one Israeli officer.

But U.S. sources said the resupply flow was considerably less than pictured by the Israelis.

These sources said it appeared some Communist European MIGs might have been sent to Egypt as a kind of loan to provide security for the country, virtually stripped of its air power in the early hours of the war when the Israeli air force smashed hundreds of Egyptian planes on the ground.

TONS OF SUPPLIES

The Americans said there were about 100 MIGs which survived the Israeli air strikes.

Israeli military sources said hundreds of tons of Communist supplies have been landed in Egypt. They said the total included a shipment of tanks from Algeria.

American officers said a check of the reported shipload of tanks resulted in the conclusion there were only five of the armored vehicles delivered by the Algerian vessel to Egypt.

The Americans did not challenge the claim that supplies and equipment were entering the country, but they said the volume was not especially large and could be a carry-over of material en route before the war started June 5.

DUMMIES IGNORED

U.S. officers said in the past that Israeli claims of damage inflicted on the Arabs in the fighting proved quite accurate. They also voiced admiration for Israeli intelligence which permitted Israeli pilots to ignore dummy airplanes standing on the Egyptian air strips and to concentrate their fire on the real MIGs.

Israel has claimed to have destroyed 451 Arab aircraft, including 357 Egyptian planes.

The Israelis claimed to have destroyed or captured some 600 of Egypt's 900 tanks, some of which they used when they moved against the Syrians late in the six-day war.

Gunman Attempts To Gain Entrance To Soviet Mission

NEW YORK (AP) — Police arrested a man carrying a loaded .32-caliber revolver and a hunting knife today as he attempted to gain entrance to the Soviet United Nations mission here. Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin was inside at the time.

The man, identified as Michael Rocco Natale, 40, was arrested about noon after he walked through police barriers in front of the mission rang the doorbell and tried to talk his way in.

Natale was carrying a small blue bag containing the weapons.

LUCI NUGENT MOTHER OF 8-POUND BOY

'What A Beautiful Baby I Have'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Luci Johnson Nugent gave birth today to a healthy 8 pound, 10 ounce boy that her husband jubilantly described as "an elephant."

Cigars and candy in hand, Patrick J. Nugent announced to reporters at Seton Hospital that "Luci's fine." He chuckled over the dimensions of his first born, grandchild No. 1 for President and Mrs. Johnson. He had the figures on weight and also length—21 inches.

PARENTS' DELIGHT

The proud 23-year-old father said his wife had already seen the child, and he quoted her: "What a beautiful baby I have."

The young parents' delight was shared by the presidential grandparents and the father's parents as well.

Mrs. Johnson, who had accompanied her daughter to the hospital and stood by during the labor time of just under six hours, said she was "happy and relieved." She commented with a laugh that it was a surprisingly big baby "for such a little girl" as Luci.

'VERY THANKFUL'

Relating that she had notified the President as soon as she knew the baby was a boy and all had gone well, Mrs. Johnson said "he sort of laughed in a happy way and said something about grandma."

In Washington the new grandfather said he and Mrs. Johnson "are very thankful" that Luci and the baby are well. He sent his daughter a telegram.

In Waukegan, Ill., Gerard Nugent said little beyond admitting that it feels fine to be a grandfather. The elder Nugents have been publicity-shy since their son married into the White House family.

The 19-year-old mother was admitted to the hospital at 1 a.m. and the baby was born just under six hours later.

'WONDERFUL'

Mrs. Johnson was in the hospital with her daughter. Earlier she had notified the President at the White House that Luci had gone there.

Pat, wearing a blue shirt with no tie and dark slacks pointed out that his voice cracked afterward, smiling and showing no signs of weariness from the hours of waiting.

Asked how his wife was, he said, "wonderful."

LBJ CALLED

Asked if his father-in-law knew the baby had been born, Pat said "yes," and explained that Mrs. Johnson had called the President to inform him.

There was no indication of when the President might come to this Texas capital to have a look at his grandchild.

Pat said he and Luci had decided on a name for their baby, but he wasn't ready to announce it yet.

LADY BIRD HAPPY

Mrs. Johnson said she was "happy and relieved."

Mrs. Johnson said she had notified the President as soon as she knew it was a boy and that both Luci and the baby were fine.

As for the grandfather's reaction, Mrs. Johnson said "he sort of laughed in a happy way and said something about grandma."

She said she had called the President even before she knew what the baby weighed, and then was on the phone to daughter Lynda, who she said was in New York City, and then to Pat's mother, Mrs. Gerard P. Nugent, in Waukegan, Ill.

As for being a grandmother, Mrs. Johnson said "I'm looking forward to a whole new prospect of experiences."

Luci was described by her mother as in "excellent spirits" when she got to the hospital.

The nation's First Lady was relaying information to the press from the fourth-floor maternity wing through a member of her White House staff, Simone Poulain.

SECRECY

Miss Poulain gave reporters their first briefing around 2:15 a.m. Even then they were maintaining secrecy concerning the names of the doctors attending the President's daughter.

Tooth Death Probe Asked By Lawmaker

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional investigation has been sought in the death of Spec. 4 Eddie Vela Jr., a soldier who survived a tour in Vietnam but died at Ft. Gordon, Ga., from infection after a wisdom tooth was extracted.

Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Tex., said he received a letter from Eddie Vela, a Bexar County sheriff's deputy and father of the dead soldier.

Vela said his son had been hospitalized after an infection set in but had been dismissed and was in a barracks. Vela said his son was given only aspirin and that he and his wife had to perform nursing duties.

DISCHARGE DUE

Gonzalez said his information was that Vela was due for discharge from the Army in September. Vela died last week at Ft. Gordon.

"The father described the conditions at the base hospital as entirely inadequate, unsanitary and appalling," Gonzalez said. "He said that when he told the colonel there (Ft. Gordon) he wanted his son removed to San Antonio or to Walter Reed Army Hospital here in Washington, the colonel had replied that they were doing all for the boy possible, and that not even the President of the United States was going to have him removed," Gonzalez said.

"MEDICAL JARGON"

"I have just received a preliminary report from the department," Gonzalez said. "In two pages of medical jargon and verbiage they say that the boy died of infection following an impacted wisdom tooth extraction. And that's about all."

"The report is very disturbing and very unsatisfactory. Perhaps there is something to the father's complaint of neglect and indifference."

Gonzalez said he has asked the House Armed Services Committee to investigate.

"It will be little comfort to the parents of young Vela, but it might prevent a recurrence of such an incident."

Fisher Attends Austin Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fisher spent last week in Austin at a Central Office Personnel Conference for Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Fisher, the personnel officer at the Big Spring State Hospital, met with officers from sections of departments all over the state to discuss problems pertaining to state systems and problems encountered in personnel work.

The keynote speaker of the conference was Dr. V. J. Kinross-Wright, commissioner of mental health in Texas.

The four-day meet was held in a lodge on Lake Austin with facilities provided for families of the officers.

North's decision to support hearts instead of bidding two no trump was, perhaps, not well judged in view of his completely even distribution. Observe that, if he held a doubleton spade and three hearts, the prospects for the slam contract would have been considerably improved.

When North apparently confirmed a fit by bidding three hearts, South proceeded to a small slam after first checking for aces and kings. West opened the queen of diamonds and the ace was played from dummy, so that declarer could try the spade

State Legislatures Taking Bigger Tax Bites

CHICAGO (AP) — State legislatures are taking bigger and bigger tax bites either through tapping new sources of funds or by increasing rates, a survey showed today.

The survey was made by Commerce Clearing House, a private agency that reports to its subscribers on tax and business law. It summarized major tax changes enacted so far in 1967 thus:

Nebraska has levied both a corporate and personal income tax, effective for income earned or received on or after Jan. 1, 1968, with rates to be set annually by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

INCOME TAXES

West Virginia will begin levying a 6 per cent corporate net income tax, effective July 1, 1967.

Corporate income taxes have been boosted in three states—in Maryland from 5 per cent to 5½ per cent, in Montana from 5½ per cent to 5½ per cent, and in Tennessee from 4 per cent to 5 per cent.

Minnesota has hiked the basic income tax rates on corporations from 7½ per cent to 8½ per cent, and on banks from 9½ per cent to 10½ per cent. North Dakota also boosted the tax on banks from 4 per cent to 5 per cent. Vermont levied a 5 per cent franchise tax on financial institutions.

COMBINATION

Maryland imposed a graduated income tax based on the federal law replacing the classified tax on ordinary and investment income.

Vermont now levies its personal income tax as a percentage of federal tax liability, with adjustments, and in Montana a combination of increased personal income tax rates and a 5 per cent tax credit carries the effect of boosting the tax in the lower and highest brackets and decreasing the tax in some intermediate brackets.

North Carolina cut income taxes by increasing exemptions.

SURTAXES ON BANKS

While Kansas has lowered its personal income tax on the first $2,000 of taxable income, from 2½ to 2 per cent, Minnesota has extended its boosted individual income tax rates presently in effect as well as the additional

Ruby's Suit Sold To Wax Museum

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—George Senator, Jack Ruby's roommate when the chunky Dallas strip joint operator gunned down Lee Harvey Oswald, has sold one of Ruby's suits to a wax museum for $300.

Senator said Ruby gave him the suit three weeks before he lurched from a crowd and shot Oswald Nov. 24, 1963. Oswald was the man the Warren Commission identified as President Kennedy's assassin.

Senator said he sold the suit to the Wax Museum on the grounds of the State Fair of Texas because he needed the money and has had trouble getting a job.

A museum spokesman said the suit is not now on display. "We have no plans for it right now," the spokesman said.

tract of Columbia now levy these revenue producers.

Nebraska's 2½ per cent tax became effective June 1. Minnesota will begin imposing a 3 per cent tax to replace the expired 2½ per cent sales tax and former 2½ per cent use tax.

TEXAS ACTION

Sales and use tax increases were enacted in Rhode Island—4 per cent to 5 per cent; Washington—4.2 per cent to 4½ per cent; and in Wyoming—2½ per cent to 3 per cent.

Texas has authorized local sales and use taxes of 1 per cent which would apply to the same property and allow the same exemptions as the 2 per cent state tax. Nevada has also imposed a mandatory 1 per cent county sales and use tax similar to the 2 per cent tax.

Minnesota and New Mexico have increased their gasoline tax rates from six cents to seven cents.

COSTLY SMOKERS

The same increase is awaiting the governor's approval in Oregon.

Montana has raised its tax a half-penny to 6½ cents. Washington increased its rate from 7½ cents to eight cents a gallon.

Tennessee and Wyoming both increased their cigarette tax rates to eight cents a pack this year. The Tennessee rate marked a penny increase, while Wyoming doubled its old rate. New Hampshire hiked its tobacco products tax from 21 per cent to 30 per cent of retail value.

YMCA Budget For 1968 Set At $54,578

A budget for 1968 of $54,578 was approved by directors of the YMCA in a meeting Tuesday afternoon. The figure compares with $51,592.50 for the current year, and practically all the increase is in leadership in the expanding youth program.

Curt Mullins, executive secretary, said that part-time help in this field must be provided, since volunteer leadership is not available, as it has been in the past.

Proposed expenditures call for $20,485 in administration, $11,511 for physical education, $7,402 for the youth program and $15,180 for building. Income items include $31,668 for administration, $11,375 under physical education, $10,435 from the youth program and $1,100 from building services.

The organization will request $21,113 from the United Fund for the next year. It proposes $9,200 in sustaining memberships, $9,300 in adult and family memberships, and $5,700 in youth memberships.

The Lakeview YMCA budget was set at $9,867, as compared with $8,420 for the current year, with most of the increase being represented in salaries. This unit will request $7,342 from the United Fund, and will seek $750 in youth, adult and family memberships. It expects $1,500 income from its nursery operation.

Sharing The Excitement

Miss Sue Knox, first runner-up in the 1967 "Miss Wool of Texas" pageant and contest, shares some of the experiences with her mother, Mrs. John B. Knox. The six-day event in Dallas was a whirl of activity she will long remember, but Miss Knox is saying "no" to other contests for the present while she continues her studies at Texas Tech where she is majoring in interior design.

Big Spring Beauty Brings Home Honors

By JO BRIGHT

The contest is really not yet over for Miss Knox, for if for any reason, the first place winner, Miss Sherill Reagan of Fort Worth, should be unable to resume her duties, Miss Knox would automatically become the official representative of the wool industry and wear the beauty crown.

The pageant, which has grown in scope each year, is a showcase for wool and mohair garments and is sponsored by the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association, through the cooperation of the Texas Fashion Creators Association.

How does a beauty queen get that way? When Miss Knox, a student at Texas Tech, was home during the Easter holiday, someone sent her a brochure and application for the Miss Wool competition. On impulse, she put in the mail several full face and profile photographs along with information requested on the application. The first news she had of being among the 15 finalists was when she read the story in the Tech paper.

Two weeks of correspondence followed, and Miss Knox, who is an interior design major, had to arrange to take her final exams early in order to prepare for the week-long activities in Dallas which preceded the colorful pageant.

Bulletins had kept the contestants informed on what they could expect to attend in Dallas, so Miss Knox had selected a wardrobe suitable for occasions such as breakfast with the judges, rehearsals, dinner, touring and informal interviews. Once in Dallas, chaperones were provided for the young women who were housed three to a room at the Baker Hotel, pageant headquarters. Next came the sessions of instruction on modeling the three garments each was to show, along with professional advice on makeup. And all the time — flash bulbs popping.

Miss Knox said the modeling sessions were both serious and funny to break the tensions all the girls were feeling at this point. Among the techniques demonstrated for them were the "haughty image," "French walk," "Vogue slouch," "brisk British" and "Manhattan slant." The contestants used them all, singularly or in combination, before they were through.

Miss Knox will be returning to Tech this fall, but is occupying her time this summer working at Webb Air Force Base. She is a talented artist, and the future looks bright for this lovely girl who personifies the new generation of beauties — with brains.

Let Pork Star As Meat Course

No matter what the dinner occasion, pork can star as the meat course. If it's to be a satisfying, flavorful meal just for the family, choose hearty pork hocks.

If there's a party in the planning and you want something special, choose everybody's favorite — pork chops — and glamorize them with a filling of savory bread or corn stuffing.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

Strain is the name of the game I've been playing with my thinking apparatus since TOMMY JORDAN brought out of its hiding place a South Ward annual from the 1922 or there about. I was in the second grade, and Miss Jewel Thompson was the school principal, and I thought she was beautiful.

Upper classmen, the fourth graders, who were standouts in the school were CHRISTINE LITTLE (Mrs. Bernie Coughlin of Odessa) was the prettiest girl, TOMMY JORDAN was class president, BERT SHIVE was most popular boy and MARIE VICK (Mrs. Dan Inglish) was the most popular girl. RICHARD HUGHES was the class monkey. The third grade's most popular girl and boy were CLARA BAILEY (Mrs. R. W. Hallbrook) and TOMMIE LEE LOVELACE. The prettiest girl was DOROTHY DRIVER. From the best of my thinking it seems CECIL HARWOOD was the class monkey and the prexy I can't recall.

The second grade voted a boy named Williams and LOUISE HAYES (Mrs. Ernie Keefer of Malibu, Calif.) as their most popular two and little ALICE HUGHES was the prettiest girl. HOWARD BUNKER was the president and DURWARD PATTERSON was the class cutup. ANITA DAVIS was the prettiest girl in the first grade.

The reason it's so hard to remember the names is that for some reason known only to those who put the little book together, Miss Thompson's name is the only one in the whole book. There are several class group pictures and shots of the girls basketball team and the boys baseball teams and if one had a strong magnifying glass he might be able to make out some more of the faces. Anyway it was fun to look over them again.

MR. and MRS. AL MOORE and their children of Fort Worth spent the weekend with her father, J. A. COFFEY.

The AUBREY ARMISTEAD children, Sheila, Jesse and Janie, are back from Burnet where they have been visiting their grandparents. MR. and MRS. ALFRED COLLINS, Three other Collins grandchildren, the children of DR. and MRS. REED COLLINS of Midland, were also there during the local children's visit.

From Bakersfield, Calif., MR. and MRS. JIM BRIGHAM SR. came by to visit friends. They had been in Gall with relatives then were going to Dallas, and then return to California. Three decades ago, as Pauline Cantrell, she was the first Howard County superintendent, retiring to become a house wife. Their children now have families of their own. Jim Jr. heads a savings and loan association near Los Angeles; Don, a major, is a pilot in the Marines and has 125 missions to his credit out of Da Nang, Vietnam; Sylvia (Dimizian) is a music instructor in the new San Francisco College.

Many people here had more than a passing interest in a picture and a story in a recent issue of the Fort Worth Star Telegram. The picture included MISS KITTY WINGO, who is service chairman of the Alpha Delta chapter of Delta Rho Delta. Miss Wingo was for a number of years a teacher in the Big Spring schools. Her brother, Claud Wingo, was pastor of the First Christian Church.

Water Babies Beg For Instant Reducing

By MARY SUE MILLER

Now that the swim-suit season is on the upswing, it seems many lovelies have become extra figure-conscious. Letters from them are packed with reducing questions. Among those asked, five recurred many times. They are recapped and answered below, for the benefit of all would-be reducers. You, maybe!

Do you advise 800 - calorie diets? No, not even when a woman is desperate to lose weight in a hurry - before her July vacation, let's say. The safe allotment is 1,200 to 1,500 calories a day. Diets with fewer calories must be supervised by a doctor.

How much weight can be lost per week by following a 1,200 calorie diet? Two pounds, up to 10 pounds in a month. Losing less, a dieter is either snitching or should see a doctor.

Would cutting out bread and potatoes speed reducing? Let's look at it this way: Reducers need some carbohydrates to maintain energy - the energy to diet. Consequently, approved regimens call for three potatoes per week and two slices of bread daily. Enriched, whole-grain breads supply many vital nutrients, notably protein and vitamin B.

Just how many calories does frying add to food? Up to a third, or more. 'Nough said!

Are there any calorie-free foods? Foods, no. Drinks, yes - water, plain tea, black coffee and no-cal colas.

Q.E.D.: There's no such thing as instant reducing. It takes some time and a lot of know-how.

LEANER, LOVELIER

Here's a painless way for teens and adults to reduce! Just send for my booklet, "Leaner, Lighter and Lovelier." It includes menus for delicious meals and snacks; Calorie Counter and Nutrition Chart; Diet Shortcuts; Spot Reducers. For your copy write to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin.

Dear "Lovelier You,"

INSTANT reducing - that's what I need.

Fast Verdict Shakes Clay

HOUSTON (AP) — Lawyers for heavyweight champion Cassius Clay had an appeal motion ready today in the boxer's conviction on criminal charges of refusing induction for military service. They predicted eventual victory and said that jail is 18 months away at worst.

It took one day of testimony and motions and 21 minutes of jury deliberation for the verdict Tuesday. U.S. Dist. Judge John Ingram imposed the maximum sentence, five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Clay said he had expected the worst, but he and his lawyers appeared shaken by the quickness of it all.

POSTS BOND

He walked from the courtroom free under the same $5,000 bond posted after his indictment in May for refusing to take the one step forward into the Army with other draftees.

In two court rulings Ingram had destroyed the intended defense: that Clay, as a Negro, is discriminated against by the racial composition of draft boards, and that Clay, as Muhammad Ali, traveling bishop for the Black Muslims, is entitled to ministerial exemption from military duty.

Chief defense lawyer Hayden Covington of New York, said he saw a "better than even chance" for reversal of the conviction.

CRATES OF FILES

The appeal initiated today will be argued before the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans. Covington estimated it would be December or January before the panel could hear the case, which involved crates of files.

Covington said a decision would not be forthcoming from the Appellate Court until sometime next spring, and if the decision is against Clay the case would go to the Supreme Court three months later. He said the high court's decision, if it agreed to hear the case, could not be expected before late in 1968.

SLOW ROAD

Clay will remain free under bond until the matter is heard by the highest court. If a new

Motorist Fails To Stop After Killing Child

DALLAS (AP) — A car struck a mother and two children in West Dallas, killing one of the children, and sped on without stopping Tuesday night, police reported.

They jailed a Negro man, 63, several hours later and said he would be charged with negligent homicide.

Two Are Fined In County Court

Windfred W. Glass, charged with DWI, was fined $100, sentenced to jail for three days, and ordered to pay costs in the case when he entered a guilty plea in the Howard County court on Tuesday.

Sharon Worthington, charged with writing a worthless check, drew a fine of $25 and costs when she entered a plea of guilty.

Chuck Wagon Meal Planned For Meet

'WORK-IN' STAGED Welfare Recipients Attack Case Workers

NEW YORK (AP) — Angry welfare recipients have attacked case workers and threats have been made on the life of the city welfare commissioner as a "work-in" by the case workers enters its third day.

About 175 Welfare Department employees were suspended Tuesday for alleged harassment and intimidation of other employees trying to work.

Police assigned a round-the-clock guard to Commissioner Mitchell Ginsberg after two telephone callers threatened his life.

FREE-FOR-ALL

At the West 31st st. welfare center a free-for-all broke out when welfare recipients over long waits—attacked case workers. At least two persons were injured in the scuffle which police broke up.

"We're doing everything we can to maintain essential services," said Ginsberg. "If anyone interferes with these essential services, we are and will take disciplinary action."

2,000 ABSENTEES

The Social Service Employees Union has called a "work-in" under which some case workers have reported to welfare centers but have not performed their regular duties. Instead, they have held what they say are seminars and training programs among themselves.

The union charges the city failed to submit unresolved issues in a new contract to arbitration. The old pact expired Dec. 31 and a tentative new agreement was reached in January.

The Welfare Department said about 35 per cent of the case workers reporting to work were doing their assigned jobs. However there were 2,000 absentees among the 5,600 workers the department said.

Barbecue Is Ready To Eat

Eighteen hundred pounds of selected beef which began its slow cooking at 11 p.m. Tuesday will be ready for serving at 5 p.m. today for the annual Rodeo Barbecue to be presented and served by the Big Spring Kiwanis Club.

Crews of Kiwanians began work at 4 p.m. Tuesday preparing the food when the fire was lit. The meat was started barbecuing at 11 p.m. For the first two hours, the big chunks of choice beef were turned regularly each 15 minutes. As the fire dwindled in intensity the cooking intervals between turnings was lengthened. Huge caldrons of beans were cooking at the same time.

The Kiwanis club will serve the special guests of the rodeo association at the Rodeo Bowl just ahead of the tonight's opening rodeo show. The general public is invited to dine at the City Park where the barbecue is being cooked. Tickets (available at the park) are $1.25 each.

All profits derived from these annual events go to the Kiwanis work with needy children of the community.

IN $300 MILLION SUIT

Massive Documentary Evidence Is Offered

SARITA, Tex. (AP) — Moving like a glacier, the court hearing to determine the beneficiaries of Sarita Kennedy East's $300 million estate absorbed a chunk of the documents Tuesday trying to produce a former Trappist monk as a conspirator to gain the vast South Texas holdings.

Lee J. Lytton Jr., county judge of Kennedy County, put into evidence his own 96-page deposition and 28 letters trying to show that Brother Leo, or Christopher Gregory, conspired with a New York millionaire to produce Mrs. East's final will.

Lytton is himself a major beneficiary of Mrs. East's estate.

LEGAL JUMBLE

Five years ago, when it became evident that the will would develop into a legal jumble, Gov. Price Daniel appointed Corpus Christi lawyer William R. Edwards as a special probate judge in the case.

Lytton's documents—shorter than some yet to be presented—came on the second day of the proceedings. The trial has drawn 100 contestants, all of whom claim to be distant descendants of the late cattle and oil baron, Capt. Mifflyn Kennedy.

CANCER VICTIM

Mrs. East, Capt. Kennedy's granddaughter, died of cancer Feb. 11, 1961, at the age of 71.

Lytton, a second cousin of Mrs. East, said he found the 28 letters at her palatial home—some large Mrs. East liked to tell visitors she never could remember how many rooms it had—after she died. He said some were signed by Christopher Gregory, 50, a former Trappist monk known as "Brother Leo."

Lytton said some of the other letters were signed by J. Peter Grace of New York, a shipping magnate.

Lytton said Gregory and Grace "conspired" to induce Mrs. East to draw up a 1960 will in such a way as to leave the majority of her oil and cattle rich estate to a charitable religious foundation. Grace and Gregory were to be two of the foundation's three directors.

Texan Might Beg For Life

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Gerald Eaton of Buckholts, Tex., a condemned killer who was part of a quartet that terrorized a Central Texas family in 1963, may go before Gov. Lurleen Wallace Tuesday to plead for his life.

Eaton is one of four former carnival workers sentenced to die for the slaying of Leonard Culpepper, an elderly salesman. Culpepper was shot to death and his body dumped in a well at his home near Cuba, Ala., Dec. 13, 1963.

Culpepper's wife was beaten and thrown into the well with her husband in the attack, but recovered.

Eaton will die in Kilby Prison's electric chair June 30 unless Gov. Wallace commutes his sentence to life imprisonment, or unless courts grant a stay of execution.

Eaton and the other three men were captured in Alabama. In Buckholts they beat and bound a farmer and his wife before fleeing.

Fiddlin', Shufflin' Sound On Streets

Square dancing, expert calling and loud fiddlin' kicked off the 34th annual Big Spring Rodeo Tuesday night with a street dance downtown on Main between Third and Fourth.

Several hundred people gathered around the seven squares, and lined the streets and covered the courthouse lawn to watch square dance clubs in action.

Representatives from clubs in Colorado City, Garden City, Snyder, and Stanton joined the Big Spring clubs, the Big Spring Squares and the Huff 'n' Puff Square Dance Club, for the gala affair.

The clubs began dancing at 8 p.m. to the calling of Joe Conley, A. V. Lewis, Roger Fleckenstein, Curtis Thompson, James Moore and Major Brown.

Providing the music for the myriad of colorful dresses and bright shirts was the "Western Royals" band. This group, from the Big Spring area, is led by Pete Jensen from Sand Springs.

Jensen said that the group had been playing together for about three years. They perform only locally, and play mainly for enjoyment. Jensen plays the piano and

Oil Cut-Off Plan Drafted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. oil industry has drafted a plan aimed at making sure a prolonged oil cut-off from the Middle East doesn't catch Western European nations short-handed.

Industry representatives submitted Tuesday to the Interior and Justice departments a program which would allow maximum cooperation among domestic oil firms without fear of antitrust prosecution.

A similar plan was recommended by the industry in the 1956 Arab-Israeli crisis, when Egypt blockaded the Suez Canal. It came under fire from the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee.

Interior Department officials, who participated in the meetings with oil men, said the question raised by the Senate panel in 1956 had been taken into account in offering the new plan.

The industry spokesmen, meeting as the U.S. Foreign Petroleum Supply Committee, said action soon must be taken because of the latest closure of the Suez Canal and two pipelines that carried five million barrels of oil a day to Western Europe—about half that area's requirements.

Generals Woo Negro Voters

Seeking Votes

Directors of drives to woo Negro voters for the 1968 presidential election are Clarence Townes Jr., above, head of the Republican National Committee, and Louis Martin, below, deputy chairman of the Democratic National Committee. (AP WIREPHOTO).

Truck Rolls Over Tot, Babysitter

PLAINVIEW (AP) — Officers said a pickup truck ran over and killed 15-month-old Pete Vaquera Jr. and his babysitter late Tuesday.

They reported the accident happened near the southwest edge of Plainview while Julio Jimenez, 13, was pushing the infant in a stroller on a dirt road near the southwest edge of Plainview.

The two deaths were the first in Hale County traffic this year.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The field generals — each a Negro — of Democratic and Republican efforts to woo Negro voters for 1968 already are crisscrossing the country.

With a close presidential election in prospect, these two politicians are intensively seeking to strengthen organization in their competition for ballots of Negroes.

Ask Democrat Louis Martin if he will be in town next day and he is apt to reply, "No, I've got to go to Cleveland and then I'm going on to Chicago."

CRUCIAL CITIES

Drop into the office of Republican Clarence Townes Jr., and he probably is tied up for the moment on a long-distance telephone call — perhaps to Cleveland or Chicago.

Ask Townes where he expects Negro voting to be most crucial and he ticks off: "New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and California," adding as an afterthought, "Then there's New Jersey, Maryland and Missouri."

The first six states are among the seven most populous and together have 185 of the 270 electoral votes needed to win the presidency.

99 PER CENT

All went to Lyndon B. Johnson in the 1964 election but, except for Illinois, all now have Republican governors.

The Negro vote which could be pivotal in these states is largely concentrated in big cities.

From the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt, these votes have been heavily Democratic.

In 1964, some Negro precincts ran as high as 99 per cent for Johnson over Republican Barry Goldwater.

The Republican National Committee's figures claim the GOP got about 4 per cent of the Negro vote in 1964 but came back in the 1966 congressional and gubernatorial elections, capturing about 14 per cent.

PERCY SCORES

Republican Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois cut into the normally Democratic Negro vote in Chicago. Gov. George Romney and Sen. Robert P. Griffin, scoring Republican victories in Michigan, got better than expected support among Detroit Negroes.

Townes' goal is to get 30 per cent of the Negro vote for his party in 1968.

Martin professes no concern that many Negro Democrats might heed Republican blandishments.

"The Negro electorate," he said, "is about as sophisticated as any segment of American society. They know where their best interest is. They recognize who is doing what."

Martin said it is true that some Democratic programs aimed at poverty and Negro problems have not accomplished all that was hoped.

"However imperfect these programs are, there is no alternative," he continued.

"The big point is that we started them."

"The GOP is the party of fine rhetoric but no action."

"The President has demonstrated where he stands. He named the first Negroes to the Cabinet and the Supreme Court."

Republican Townes is aiming particularly at younger Negroes.

"Since 1964," he said in an interview, "you have got almost a brand new Negro attitude, and it is being propelled by the young Negro."

'NEW NEGRO'

"There is a new Negro in America who considers himself, and is becoming, a sophisticated human being. These Negroes seek to participate as any other group."

"The young Negro is realizing the value of two-party government. The Republicans liberate him from one-party captivity."

Townes described the Democratic approach to the Negro voter as "that of the welfare man — where you control the poor and the ignorant."

"Our party is based on the philosophy of the dignity of the individual," he said.

Townes, 39, is one of the new breed of younger Negroes. A native of Richmond, Va., he attended Virginia Union University and got into Republican politics a decade ago to fight the state Democratic organization's policy of resistance to school desegregation.

Younger Dies

Rep. J. Arthur Younger, an eight-term Republican from San Mateo, Calif., died last night in Washington at age 74. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Solon Dies Of Leukemia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. J. Arthur Younger, R-Calif., who represented San Mateo County, Calif., in Congress for 15 years, died of leukemia Tuesday night at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. He was 74.

Younger's illness was diagnosed after he entered the hospital last April 18. He was able to leave the hospital and appeared briefly in the House last month.

He announced June 1 that he would not seek re-election in 1968 but hoped to serve out his eighth term in the House.

Two Republicans have publicly announced they would seek election to Younger's seat. They are Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore and Paul N. McCloskey, a Palo Alto lawyer.

Gov. Ronald Reagan has authority to call a special election to fill the vacancy.

In Congress, Younger was the second-ranking Republican on the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

Younger first was elected in 1952 after he had served 15 years as executive vice president of a San Francisco savings and loan firm.

Younger is survived by his widow, Norma.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

$40 Million Rat Measure Advances

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Housing subcommittee approved Tuesday a two-year, $40 million program for eradicating rats.

The measure would put up two-thirds of the cost—with local government supplying the remainder—for rat extermination projects.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Although associates are acting somewhat erratic right now, do not sever any connections. Find out what is causing this. Conditions may not be exactly ideal, but patience solves all.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Keep busy at work ahead of you and curb tendency to be preoccupied with day-dreaming. You are somewhat nervous and require a bit of diversion. Reading would be fine or some kind, gentle friend to talk to.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you have to go through a lot of tammyratt just to have a good time, give it up. Get busy practicing with some talent you possess. This could prove to be something very worthwhile and profitable for you in the days ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Doing whatever will make your family happier is wise, although it may tax your patience somewhat. It is important that you remove causes of dissension. Harmony at this time will lead to greater success in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Particular care is vital whether in driving or dealing with other persons. Even in small talk. Precision where reports are concerned is also important, since some error could prove most expensive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You feel you need to raise your income for beyond your actual needs and could be very forceful in so doing, so be careful. Pay more attention to getting property in better order. Don't spend too much.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) In your desire for personal pleasure you could be very demanding and this could alienate your finest friends. Show consideration instead. Await a better time to give them the benefit of your ideas.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get busy on small tasks ahead of you instead of getting into fascinating personal outlets that are busy left alone right now. Be of real service to those who are in trouble. Be cool, collected.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Pals and rough time now, so steer clear of some and get busy with work at hand. Know what if you desire from others. Own labors bring right results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN tomorrow Or, or, the, will be one of those individuals who desires order in all things and will have a great flair for organizing, but there is a tendency to be quite suspicious, so teach diplomacy early and that a kind word gets for better results with others. Ideal chart for business or government placements. Be gentle.

Urges Support Of Boys Ranch

Annual campaign to raise the funds for the maintenance and operation of the West Texas Boy's Ranch near San Angelo is now under way. Jimmy Taylor, with the First National Bank, is the wagon boss for Howard County.

The drive extends June 19 through June 23 and Taylor is pushing to raise $850 — the county's quota — for 1967-68.

Two Howard County boys are residents at the ranch, and since 1947 when the ranch was created, there have been 11 other local youngsters who have found a home there, said Taylor.

At the present time there are 96 boys resident at the ranch. In 1947, the project began with one boy and one couple in charge. Over the years the ranch has earned a reputation for transforming youths into up-right and self-supporting citizens.

Taylor has sent out scores of letters to leading citizens of the county asking their help in accomplishing the quota set for this county. Response so far has been anything but exciting.

Less than an eighth of the quota has been raised, and only two days remain in which to make the goal.

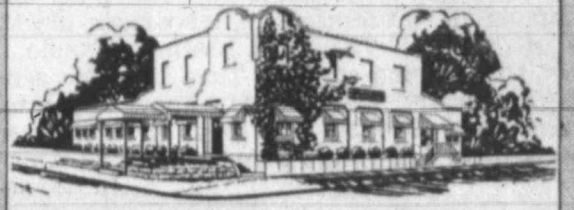

A plan is followed by which the quota of a county for the support of the organization is based on the number of head of livestock in the county. Howard County has a total of 17,012 animal units and at five cents per head donation — which Taylor feels is a very reasonable contribution to the ranch — the quota is $850.60.

Ranchers or others can donate an animal — a calf for example — to the fund, he said. These animals are picked up and delivered to an auction ring in San Angelo where they are sold to the highest bidder. All money derived goes to the ranch fund.

Taylor urged those wishing to contribute to send a check to the bank at once. The amount is not important — although Taylor urges everyone give as generously as possible to the project. He also said if any cattleman has a calf or steer he will donate to call him.

Cycle Crash Kills

Have All Questions Been Answered On The KENNEDY ASSASSINATION?

Ever since the Warren Commission issued its report on the assassination of President Kennedy a violent debate has raged over its findings. Critics of the report have been many and vocal. Their charges have brought a doubt of uneasiness over a subject which was once thought closed.

For the last six months, Associated Press special writers, Bernard Gavor and Sid Moody, analyzed the report and its 23 supporting volumes, interviewing the Commission staff, reading papers in the National Archives. They have written their conclusions in a history-making, 25,000-word report—

The Lingering Shadow; The Warren Report And Its Critics

The Herald will produce this report in its entirety next Sunday, June 25, in a special tabloid format, so that it can be kept for future reading and for permanent keeping. The production is made possible through the sponsorship of the Cap Rock Electric Cooperative and the Wes-Tex Telephone Cooperative.

A Devotional For The Day

Unto the upright there ariseth light in the darkness. (Psalm 112:4, AV)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the example of our forefathers, who knew the strength gained in fellowship with Thee. We bless Thy name because Thou art found of all who come to Thee in every generation. Grant us seeking hearts, that we may know Thy leading in our lives. Pardon our sins by Thy great mercy granted us through Jesus Christ, in whose name we pray. Amen.

Restrained Optimism

The other day the National Safety Council's statisticians came up with a mighty interesting figure: In April, they said, U.S. traffic deaths were 10 per cent less than in April a year ago. The comparison for the first four months, though less sensational, also was encouraging: Fatalities down 20 per cent from 1966.

This is fine, but the data thus far are not yet much cause for celebrating. The edge is taken off the April figure by the fact that the toll in April, 1966, was 19 per cent higher than that in the previous year. Also, what pleasure might be drawn from that decline the first four months of this year is tainted by an upward revision of the 1966 total: The Council now believes that not 52,500, but 53,000, were killed in traffic accidents last year. A kind of restrained optimism is justified, but not much more than that.

Odd Situation

Overshadowed by events in Vietnam and the Middle East, the riddle of Communist-inspired disorders in Hong Kong remains unexplained. Did Red China really believe that Hong Kong could be humiliated and its British government made impotent according to the earlier example of Portuguese Macao? If so, the Chinese have failed to read their history, much less British history.

The Chinese do, after all, need a window to the West. They have some business to transact with the West, such as negotiations for wheat from Canada. As long as they do not violate the relatively liberal laws of the Crown Colony, they are free to engage in trade, industry and banking as Communists. There are no needlessly restrictive limitations on travel from Canton Province into the New Territories, Kowloon, or Victoria Island.

The biggest bank in Hong Kong, the Bank of China, is owned by Communists. Many stores, factories and buildings are owned by Communists. The colony provides mainland China with an estimated $750 million a year in hard currency, mostly converted into British pounds before transfer to Peking.

Why should China want to disturb this profitable relationship? The answer is as uncertain as the key to the recent disorders on the mainland itself, the phenomenon of the so-called cultural revolution.

The Chinese can take Hong Kong by force, but not by threats. But why they should want to disturb the situation is a question that defies rational analysis.

Big Bill Like Juggler On Banana Peel

NEW YORK (AP) — The slow agony continues for Big Bill Zeckendorf, the man who showed how money could be borrowed at high rates and more money made with it in the real estate market as long as real estate remained strong.

But this amiable bear of a man was like a juggler who stepped on a banana peel. Everything came crashing down when hotel receipts slowed, real estate prices slipped, and a few other factors interfered.

ZECKENDORF is no ordinary man by any measure.

In physique he is more than six feet tall, and he weighs far more than 200 pounds.

In real estate he was the biggest. His empire was in the hundreds of millions of dollars. He helped arrange the deal for the United Nations site. He owned skyscrapers, shopping centers, hotels, in cities such as Los Angeles, Denver, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Chicago.

AND in financial matters, nothing came down with more splinters, dust and grinding chaos than Webb & Knapp Inc., the vehicle of the Zeckendorf fortune. And now the prospects look even dimmer this week.

Forced into bankruptcy in May, 1965, Webb & Knapp is now in the hands of a trustee in bankruptcy, Mortimer M. Caplin. As former Internal Revenue commissioner, Caplin may be the man ideally suited for the complex job of trying to find who owes what and to whom.

CAPLIN THIS week reported to a federal judge that the hope of continuing the company, rather than liquidating it, "is at this time not very bright." In addition, he is suing Zeckendorf for mismanagement.

And so the barbs continue to be fired into the hide of this huge but surprisingly sensitive fellow, who has been forced over the past few years to admit to a humiliating string of reverses.

LATER, HE lost control of some of his properties because he couldn't pay the bills. And some of his subsidiaries went into bankruptcy.

Finally, Zeckendorf smothered his pride and held a public auction of various New York parcels that he desperately needed to turn into cash.

Throughout, he publicly expressed his faith. If creditors are patient, he said, "the company will be on the road to a renaissance of first-rate scale."

WHAT OTHERS SAY

There is a discernible trend in American political thought to shift emphasis back to the local governmental level. This is apparent in both Washington and Austin — the problem is to make local government capable of meeting the challenge.

In Washington, the problems of cities are demanding an ever larger share of Congress' attention. Air and water pollution, crime, anti-poverty measures, civil rights — all are being recognized as essentially local problems most receptive to local solution.

In Austin, the legislature soon shall have before it measures which would ease the financial strain on the cities and call upon those cities and the state's counties to take a larger role in an expanding range of services.

The pendulum has swung the other way for a long time as government became ever more centralized. Now, however, spokesmen for both parties — although differing on methods — are recommending that local governments be given the responsibility for local problems, with higher level financial and technical assistance made available.

But in order for this new trend to flower, local government — both counties and cities — must be revitalized.

In Texas, a move is under way to modernize county and city governments, and make them more compatible with modern life. Too, the trend to governmental cooperation and new, more efficient forms — such as the council of governments idea still unrealized here — must be extended.

Citizens on their part must recognize the importance of electing men to local government offices who are aware of these problems and are willing to labor for solutions. This means that issues must be debated and the electorate provided with a serious discussion on which to base their choices.

Distortion Routine In U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was like a Western with the guys in the white hats and the guys in the black hats. Just who was wearing which hat at any given moment depended upon who was talking.

This was the condition at the end of the second day of debate on the Israeli-Arab war at the U.N. General Assembly.

Discussion reached the intellectual level of "you're another." Reason departed. Blame was the common language. Distortion became routine. Diplomats used bad manners and childishness to make an impression.

IF ANY earnest and sensible effort is being made to reach a peaceful settlement, it must be going on behind the scenes. There what the delegates say to one another doesn't have to have any connection with what they say in the open.

In public they go through a predictable dance, like characters in a ballet.

SOVIET Premier Alexei N. Kosygin is a good example. His purpose was clear before he began: Moscow wants to regain the goodwill of the Arabs whom they let down when the war with Israel began.

So he denounced Israel, asking the assembly to condemn it as an aggressor and tell it to give back the land it seized from the Arabs. He denounced the United States, too, but more mildly.

It was a tired kind of speech, full of the usual Communist clichés about "Western imperialism." He reached a peak of bad taste in making a comparison between the tactics of Israel and Hitler.

IT WAS A one-sided speech, too, all on the side of the Arabs, ignoring any virtue Israel might have had on its side, and always calculated to endear the Arabs to Moscow.

But the Israeli foreign minister, Abba Eban who answered Kosygin brilliantly, made a one-sided speech, too. In addition, he denounced Kosygin for the Israeli-Hitler comparison and accused him of untruths.

But U Thant, the U.N. secretary general, also accused Eban of untruths.

THIS WAS after Eban criticized Thant for acting too fast in pulling the U.N. peacekeeping troops out of Egypt, where they had been stationed 10 years, when Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser told him so.

The usually docile Thant was angry Tuesday when he opened the session with an attack on Eban.

Then came the tactics which have become typical among diplomats who, to show their contempt for an opponent, get up and walk out in the middle of his speech. They apparently consider this a mature rebuke without ever thinking it may look childish.

ONE OF THE Arab leaders, Syrian President Nouraddin Atassi, was in the midst of a denunciation of Israel Tuesday when Eban walked out.

And when Eban made another talk Tuesday top-level Soviet bloc delegates and Arab leaders got up and walked out on him, which is what Kosygin did Monday while Eban was talking.

To nobody's surprise, for they couldn't do otherwise after Kosygin had laid down the Communist line, the premiers of Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia also made speeches attacking Israel.

Border Crossing Blues

NEW YORK (AP) — Border crossings are often controversial. They have been throughout history.

But the most controversial border today isn't a political border. The one that most people are anxious about isn't even on any map—it's the borderline between youth and middle age.

Many who have crossed it deny that they have; others cross it without ever realizing it.

HOW THEN can one tell reliably if one is middle-aged? Well, actions speak louder than prose. Here is a tentative guide, based on actual conduct. You're probably middle-aged if:

When a new neighbor moves in next door, you automatically assume he'll be worse than the one who just moved away.

You find yourself muttering to all who will listen, "I don't want any more trouble. All I want is a little peace and quiet."

WHEN YOU yawn in public, you no longer bother to apologize. You realize that a public yawn is about the most honest act a man does in life.

You have forgotten the name of the red-haired girl who turned you down for a date in high school, but you can name to the hour and day just how far away you are from a pension.

Anytime you are served a piece of meat the first thing you do is cut the fat off it.

IT'S HARD for you to make up your mind which you hate more, the alarm clock or the telephone.

Instead of pretending you don't have prejudices, you tend to brag about them. You feel they are a sign of courage and character.

You dislike buying a new pair of shoes because it takes so long to break them in.

AT BREAKFAST you and your wife now always start the day by asking each other, "Did you sleep well?" Each then gives a 10-minute summary about how restless a night he or she spent, and the probable reason.

At the office the only fellow workers younger than you that you really like are those who come to you for advice. Those who solve their own problems without your help, you feel, are smart alecks.

DURING church services it annoys you if the congregation is called upon to sing a new hymn. What's wrong with the good old hymns you always sang before?

Your grandchildren seem ever so much nicer than your own children were at the same age, and you glumly wonder if, perhaps, it's because the grandchildren had better parents.

That's middle age, and you've crossed the border.

Old Sugar Loaf Is Melting Away

Old Sugar Loaf is melting away. It might be more precise to say that it is being nibbled away, which is what is happening to that one-time landmark in eastern Big Spring. City crews are excavating the last remnants of what once was a steep hillock which overlooked that end of town. Already the hump is practically gone from the block bounded by Fifth and Sixth Streets and by Austin and Benton.

ONE OLD TIMER lamented: "There goes the last barrier between Panther Draw and Cannibal Draw." These terms were applied years ago to the east siders, the former to those who dwelled below the Birdwell Dam and the latter to those in the far reaches beyond Benton and State.

Of all the stories about Sugar Loaf (or Flat Top, as some unimaginative souls called it), I don't recall hearing one about how the top of this geological pimple came to be sliced off. Undoubtedly, someone must have planned on it as a building site, but even from its shallower slope on the west side it was relatively inaccessible.

SUGAR LOAF was a favorite spot for the young folk to go for a camp fire. It also was a first class location for kite fliers, as well as a hairy test for coaster wagons and bicycles.

Later, as car makers began to pump more horsepower into motors, the steep east slope which extended almost to the contrail that passed for Benton became the acid test for performance of automobiles. Finally, there came the day when one of them made the top in high, and everyone agreed that the ultimate had been reached. Before that, there was a charge up that slope, burning rubber and spewing pebbles and dirt, to prove that new-fangled, four-wheel brakes could set the car down on the proverbial dime.

THE HILL was so convenient that it was a favorite observation point. If the fire siren wailed, those nearby climbed to the top of Sugar Loaf to see where the blaze might be. When word came that the Shenandoah, that dirigible that was regarded as the miracle of the air age, would fly over Big Spring, people by the scores flocked to the summit of Sugar Loaf to peer into the east. It seemed like some sect looking for the Second Coming.

The late Dr. Charlie Deats remembered how some boys in his day conceived the idea of detonating a charge of dynamite atop the hill. They well knew that they would be suspect, and if seen scurrying away, they would be sure targets of the law. So they obtained a long, long fuse, and one dark night they smuggled the dynamite and all to the top, buried it in a hole, lit the fuse and then went back to downtown where a cafe was open.

INSIDE WAS the sheriff, so they invited themselves to sit down beside him and have coffee and a leisurely visit. When the charge went off with a boom that shook and rattled and even cracked a few windows, they had an iron clad alibi. It's a wonder Sugar Loaf hadn't been leveled then without waiting for latter day earth movers. —JOE PICKLE

Putting An End To Rioting

WASHINGTON — The most pressing problem that faces the American people is not the friction in the Middle East but the friction inside the United States — the violence in the streets of many cities involving personal injury, bombings and destruction of private property.

More than 90 bills have been introduced in Congress designed to make it a federal crime for persons to travel from state to state for the purpose of fomenting disorders. But up to now proposed legislation has not been acted upon, though within the last few days efforts have been made to get a bill before the House of Representatives for action.

ONE OF THE principal reasons for delay is the attitude of the administration and some of the Democratic leaders in Congress. Their feeling is that such legislation might be misused by local authorities to interfere with legitimate protest. This excuse could be applied as a barrier to almost any legislative proposal. The whole judicial system, however, was established to differentiate between abuse of the law and its proper enforcement.

THE ISSUE is not as fuzzy as some of the procrastinators in Congress would have the people of the country believe. For the Supreme Court of the United States has plainly stated again and again in many an opinion that it is a crime to incite to violence.

There are, of course, plenty of places for orderly demonstrations, not only in auditoriums and stadiums but also through properly conducted parades or marches. The key to the current trouble is the tendency of the agitators to harangue crowds, fling insults and accusations, and too often this results in physical clashes and violence of all kinds.

DOES "FREE SPEECH" immunize from punishment a person who incites others to maim or kill or riot? While the laws of all states prohibit disorder, can it be argued that incitement to violence cannot be punished because "free speech" is impaired?

Last year the House of Representatives, by a vote of 358 to 25, approved a measure sponsored by William C. Cramer, Republican of Florida, which would make it a federal crime to travel between states, or use interstate facilities, with the purpose of inciting riots, violence, arson, bombing, or any other felony under a state or federal law. This was an amendment to a civil-rights bill which later died in the Senate. Similar proposals have since been pigeonholed in the House Judiciary Committee, with the approval, of course, of the administration.

WHEN WILL Congress act? The states have been struggling with the problem, and occasionally have to use their National Guard to intervene and prevent further violence. But the issue is whether the states and cities should be obliged to wait until a riot breaks out or whether the federal government will step in to investigate the plots and conspiracies when groups meet to select "target" cities for "demonstrations" which inevitably lead to outbreaks of violence.

The federal government, through its machinery of investigation, could quickly put its finger on the individuals who are responsible for "demonstrations" that lead to disorder.

CONGRESS, therefore, is the starting point for corrective action. Once a federal law is enacted making it possible to arrest and punish individuals who incite others to violence, it may be anticipated that those who wish to express themselves freely on controversial questions will find ways of doing it in an orderly fashion. LBJ's Tactics With The Supreme Court

WASHINGTON — It was D-Day in Washington, June 13, the morning that the Senate opened the session on Sen. Dodd (D., Conn.). All the news indicators pointed to Capitol Hill, but that was because we momentarily took our eyes off the Tall Tacitician at the White House.

What with D-Day and the Mid East crisis, we didn't put much significance in the fact that on D-minus-one Justice Tom Clark resigned from the Supreme Court and accepted the Presidential assignment to make a goodwill trip around the world. The resignation was expected, but the timing of it was a master stroke of news management and wheel-and-deal.

AT MID-MORNING with Sen. Stennis opening the case against Dodd, and sprinkling it with embarrassing mention of the President's name, the President walked into a Rose Garden party for some kids. The President announced the appointment of the first Negro to the Supreme Court.

Thurgood Marshall and Lyndon Johnson, not Senators Dodd and Stennis, were thrust upon the nation's attention. The President had blurred the developing picture of himself in the Dodd story. He had made a move to foreshorten the long, hot summer of dreaded racial violence. He had warmed up the cooling hearts of his liberal followers.

SUCH MASTER strokes, however, are longer in the making than LBJ's countrymen often comprehend. When for instance, did he begin the planning that would revamp the Supreme Court into a structure of his own architecture? Was it when Adlai Stevenson dropped dead on a London street? Soon afterwards, July 23, 1965, the President nominated his friend and personal lawyer, Abe Fortas, to the high bench — but this opening occurred only because Justice Arthur Goldberg was persuaded to take Stevenson's place as UN Ambassador.

WAS THERE another, an additional starting point, in the President's Court-building plans? It could have been Sept. 3, 1964, when Bob Kennedy resigned as attorney general and set off to run for the Senate as the adoptive son of New York State. The key figure in the manipulations that eventually moved Thurgood Marshall into the Supreme Court was not Tom Clark but Ramsey Clark. The younger Clark was theoretically situated in the Department of Justice, but he was spending much time at the White House as a special and unpublicized assistant. He was moved up a notch and made deputy attorney general, while Nicholas Katzenbach became acting attorney general.

KATZENBACH served as attorney general less than 20 months, and the President out-foxed all guessers by moving him to the State Department as Under Secretary, Oct. 3, 1966.

There was a reason for all this. Now, at last Ramsey Clark could be moved up to the job of attorney general, making it mandatory that his father vacate the Supreme Court seat which on D-Day was filled by Judge Marshall. LBJ had completed a long, complicated maneuver.

Presidents, ere now, have built the Supreme Court to their liking, but LBJ's adroitness is fascinating to watch. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

They Earn Trophies Here

Pictured here are four of the prize winners in the Big Spring Junior Invitational Golf tournament, a one-day event staged at the Munny course Tuesday. From the left, they are Tinker Nolan, Seminole, winner in the 14-15 age bracket; Scott Stegner, Odessa, runner-up in the 16-17-18 group; Andy Rowe, Wink, champion of the 12-13 classification; and Jimmy Rosson, Lamesa, runner-up in the same group. (Photo by Frank Brandon)

One Local Youth Is Among Links Champs

Big Spring's Ronnie Broadrick, a rare visitor to the city-owned course, made a shambles of the 18-hole layout Tuesday in winning the 16-17-18 age bracket of the first annual Big Spring Junior Invitational Golf Tournament at the Municipal layout with a five-under-par 68.

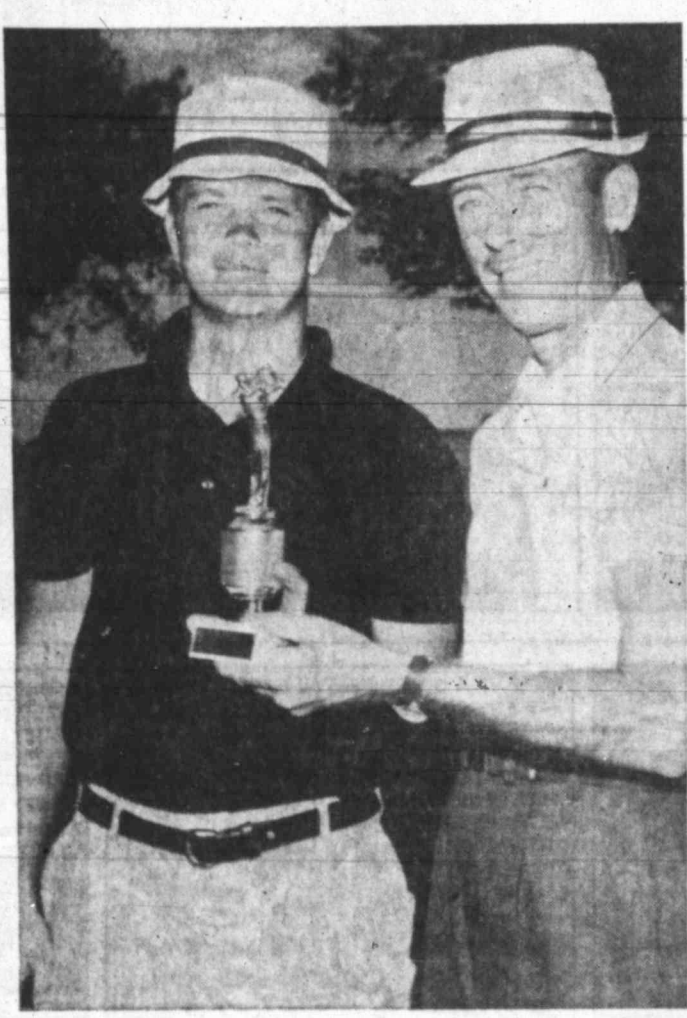

Ronnie thus qualified for the Tournament of Champions, site and time of which will be determined at a later date by the sponsoring organization, the West Texas chapter of the PGA. The sturdy-built Broadrick, who hits the ball the proverbial mile, was one of three titlists crowned here yesterday. The others were Andy Rowe of Wink, winner in the 12-13 age group, who finished with an 81; and Tinker Nolan of Seminole, who fashioned a torrid 70.

Both winners and runners-up earned trophies supplied by the PGA chapter. Runner-up in the 12-13 bracket was Jim Rosson of Lamesa. He was tied with Howard Stewart of Big Spring at the end of 18, each with an 83, then won the spot on the second extra hole.

Loraine's Tim Hamilton was runner-up in the 14-15 age group with a 76 while Scott Stegner of Odessa finished one shot off Broadrick's pace in the 16-17-18 bracket with a 69.

The turnout of 66 players was considered remarkable by Munny pro J. B. Wetzel, who handed out the awards. Last week in Pampa, a similar meet was held and it attracted only 13 players.

Broadrick birdied the last four holes to pull ahead of Stegner. He also had birds on the first, second, fourth and 13th holes to offset a bogie he shot on five and a double bogie on 11.

RON BROADRICK WITH PRO J. B. WETSEL
Red-hot 68 won him title trophy

Ronnie pieced together a six-hole 66 at his home course, the Country Club, here a couple of weeks ago — his best round ever.

One girl, Toyua Jones of Andrews, was in the field as an entry in the 12-13 bracket and finished 91.

Barry Given Half Million By ABA Club

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Rick Barry, scoring champion of the National Basketball Association who jumped to the new ABA, "could be the first player ever in pro basketball to lead two major leagues in scoring in consecutive years."

That's Oakland Coach Bruce Hale's welcoming appraisal today of his son-in-law's prospects. Rick jumped to the ABA in the new American Basketball Association Tuesday for a three-year contract estimated worth $500,000.

Barry averaged 35.6 points last season.

Hale predicted Barry could average 45 to 47 points under the ABA's proposed three-point scoring system. That would score a field goal from, probably, 25 feet as three points instead of two.

Rick welcomed his reunion with his father-in-law, who coached him at the University of Miami to All-America status. That's where he met, wooed and wed Hale's daughter, Pam.

"My father-in-law is a great guy; a great coach," Rick told sports writers. "I know I can play for him, I have."

With the Warriors, Barry was Rookie of the Year two seasons ago and the past season was a league All-Star, its scoring champion and the most valuable player of its All-Star Game.

Hale said "Rick adds greatly to the stature of the ABA. I think more NBA stars will jump now."

"We're not contacting any NBA players, but six have contacted us. We expect a few more calls."

The Oaks — they chose that name today — have signed nine collegians.

Hale said Oakland is prepared to defend the suit owner Franklin Muehl of the Warriors threatened to file, charging breach of contract and theft of a valuable property.

"We feel confident the NBA reserve clause won't stand up in court," Hale told sports writers. Tuesday.

The Fishing Was Good

When a Big Spring party, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Grigsby, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Jennings and Mr. and Mrs. Al Carter, vacationed in the Bahama Islands recently, they found the fishing good — better than the weather, as a matter of fact. The group, part of which is pictured here, experienced two days of rain and two of sunshine during their four-day stay.

Foy Shakes Off Misfortunes

By The Associated Press
Joe Foy, unnerved by a near shattering experience two days ago, has pulled himself together in time to take apart the New York Yankees.

Foy arrived in New York in time to lead his parents from their burning house Sunday night, but playing the hero left him plenty shaken up. "I had so much on my mind," it's a good thing we were rained out Monday night," said the Boston Red Sox third baseman. But by Tuesday night, Foy recovered enough to step into the hero's role again 13 blocks away at Yankee Stadium where his grand slam home run helped shatter the New York Yankees 7-1.

In the only other American League games scheduled, Washington splintered the Chicago White Sox 4-2, Detroit nipped California 2-1, and Cleveland topped Kansas City 5-3.

Foy, who stays with his parents when the Red Sox play in New York, found their house in the Bronx on fire and his mother and father struggling through the smoke. He helped them out and then could only watch while the blaze devoured the top two floors and badly damaged the first floor.

He was busy Monday during the rain, relocating his parents with his brother and sister. He pulled himself away long enough to turn his attention back to baseball, further dismissing any Red Sox worries about his recent hitting slump. Foy, entering the game with a 240 average, unloaded against Mel Stottlemyre in the fifth inning after two walks and a hit loaded the bases.

The blast, his second major league slam, gave him five homers and 14 runs batted in since he was benched for two days June 6 with a .192 average.

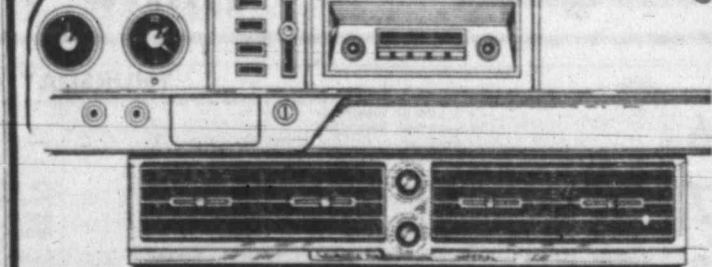

Maxwell Fails In Try At PGA
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Earl Stewart of Dallas, Horace Moore of San Antonio and Bob Goetz of Longview will go to the National PGA Golf Tournament at Denver to represent Texas.

They claimed the three qualifying places Tuesday. Stewart wound up with 139 for 36 holes, Moore shot 142 and Goetz 143.

Stewart, the only player to better par at the long Pecan Valley Country Club course where the National PGA will be held next year, finished with a one-over par 72 but his 67 for the first 18 gave him an easy lead.

Among those failing to get a place was touring pro Billy Maxwell of Abilene. He shot 148.

The PGA will be held July 20-23 at Denver's Columbine Country Club.

Jackson's Mastery Over Mets Endures

By The Associated Press
Larry Jackson has tossed another curve at the law of averages — and the New York Mets are still waiting for it to break their way.

Philadelphia's 36-year-old Met killer, borrowed a pitch from teammate Jim Bunning Tuesday night and beat New York for the 18th time without a loss, firing the second one-hitter of his career as the Phillies breezed to a 4-0 victory.

Jackson's 18-0 record against the Mets is second only to San Francisco's Juan Marichal, who has beaten the expansion club 19 times without a setback.

Marichal, however, is proving he can get along without the Mets. While Jackson was closing in on his anti-Met mark, the Giants' ace became the first 10-game winner in the majors by overwhelming Cincinnati's slumping Reds 5-1 on a five-hitter.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Cubs upended Pittsburgh 5-3; St. Louis whipped Houston 6-2 and Los Angeles nipped Atlanta 3-2 in 11 innings.

Tommy Davis' second inning double — which barely eluded right fielder Johnny Callison's leaping grasp — was the only hit off Jackson, who registered his first victory over the Mets in their April 11, 1962, debut, while he was working for St. Louis.

The crafty right-hander hasn't let the Mets out of his hip pocket since then — but he still doesn't take them for granted. He attributed his one-hitter to a new curve ball he picked up from Bunning.

"I've changed my grip," Jackson said. "I'm choking up on the ball and holding it like Bunning does. He's got such a great curve — and mine never was much."

"Now I wish I'd started throwing it 10 years ago," Jackson pitched his first one-hitter three years ago against Cincinnati. He has hurled 33 career shutouts — six of them against New York.

The Phillies gave him a quick sendoff with three runs in the first inning on Tony Taylor's single, Rich Allen's triple and Don Lock's sixth homer. They added a run in the fourth on Lock's single and a double by Gene Oliver.

Marichal, who missed his last turn because of a pinched nerve in his neck, was clipped for two hits and a run in the first inning but stymied the Reds thereafter while boosting his record to 10-5.

The Giants roughed up Mel Queen, 8-2, for two runs in the second and knocked him out in a two-run sixth. Jim Hart laced a triple and knocked in a pair as the injury-riddled Reds went down to their fourth straight defeat.

Rookie Chuck Hartenstein blanked Pittsburgh over the final 4 2-3 innings as the Cubs ended the Pirates' winning string at three games. Ron Santo and Ted Savage paced Chicago's 14-hit attack with three hits apiece, Santo driving in two runs.

Hartenstein rescued starter Joe Niekro after Donn Clendenon's three-run homer in the fifth lifted the Pirates within one run.

Dal Maxvill drilled a tie-breaking triple in the seventh inning and Orlando Cepeda cracked a three-run homer in the eighth as the Cardinals pulled away from the Astros and increased their league lead over second-place Cincinnati to 1 1/2 games.

Houston's Julio Gotay stroked two hits for a club record of eight in a row before winning pitcher Larry Jaster ended the streak.

Atlanta reliever Claude Raymond filled the bases in the 15th inning with an intentional pass to pinch hitter Ron Fairly, then forced home the winning run by walking John Roseboro.

The Dodgers' second straight one-run nod over the Braves gave them a run of six victories in their last seven games — including four in a row.

The players' main demand was the right to run their own show, a $4-million enterprise which has rich added television benefits. In essence they get this by installing Tuthill, their tour man, in the driver's seat in place of Creasy, a former Washington assistant labor secretary, to whom many of the players had strong objections.

The players also received greater control over television monies which amount to about $800,000 a year, and they feel that they got a break in the make-up of the advisory committee.

"Now when we have a stalemate, we both have to go to the Executive Committee," Sikes said. "We can go to the advisory committee which could include such prominent men as Sen. Smathers of Florida; Bob Goldwater, brother of Barry; Bob Hope and Bing Crosby."

The three members of the Advisory Committee have not been named.

In giving a greater voice in the control of the tour, the PGA retained its veto power which it considers a strong point.

Cards Defeat Braves Twice

The Cardinals swept the boards in a National Little League doubleheader with the Braves here Tuesday night, winning by scores of 11-10 and 15-3.

The first game was actually the continuation of a contest started June 3, which was called after six innings with the score tied.

The Red Birds, by virtue of the sweep, now have won five and lost 12 while the Braves are 3-13.

Bruce Abbe got credit for the mound win in the opener. Jimmy Stewart had clubbed a first inning home run with one on for the Cards in the previous action. Stewart also drove out two doubles and Abbe one in the game.

Corky Burchell got credit for the hill victory in the afterpiece. He limited the Braves to a solitary hit, a double by Robert Lloyd.

Movies Censorship Virtually Quelled

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Movie men tell the story of how films were censored in Kansas in the old days.

The State Board of Review was in Kansas City, Kan., near film distributors, and the only space to be found for showings was in the Fire Department headquarters.

Firemen and off-duty police were invited to watch. When their whoops and catcalls reached a certain pitch, board members decided that the scene should be censored.

BUFFALO BIRTH

Censoring was just as haphazard in other areas. Memphis, which had the strictest censorship of any American city, once banned "The Southerner" because it painted an uncompromising picture of the South. Chicago deleted the birth of a buffalo from Walt Disney's "The Vanishing Prairie."

All that has changed. An Associated Press survey discloses that local and state censorship of movies has all but vanished. Almost from the beginning of the movie medium, censors were in evidence. The first important story film was "The Great Train Robbery." A flood of films about crime followed, moving a Chicago judge to comment: "Those nickelodeons indirectly or directly caused more juvenile crimes coming into this court than all other causes combined."

SEX CONTROLS

Depictions of crime, sex and dope stirred moralists to seek controls over movies. By the mid-1920s, scores of cities and eight states—Pennsylvania, New York, Illinois, Virginia, Kansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Ohio—had film censorship boards. A major reason film makers formed a producers association was to prevent the proliferation of censor boards.

"You have eight state censor boards now; some day you may have 48," warned film czar Will Hays. To help forestall such, he instituted the industry's self-censorship code.

Hays and his successor, Eric Johnston, strove to keep local censorship at a minimum. Then the U.S. Supreme Court came to the rescue.

TEXAS ACTION

New York State censors had banned "The Miracle" because it was "sacrilegious." In 1952, the Supreme Court unanimously overturned the ban and issued a sweeping decree that motion pictures are "included within the free speech and free press guaranty of the First and Fourteenth amendments."

In case after case, the courts have since nullified censorship boards. This month a federal court struck down the board in Fort Worth, Tex. Here is a survey of other cities and states, as reported by Associated Press bureaus:

MILWAUKEE — Mayor-appointed Motion Picture Commission screens films and recommends cuts. The commission has no enforcement powers but exhibitors tend to comply.

NO CENSORSHIP

NEW ORLEANS — No official censorship.

CINCINNATI — No official procedure, but police occasionally raid sensational films such as the recent "Mondo Topless."

BOSTON — The haven of censorship retains a censor in the chief of licensing division. Action isn't taken until a complaint is received. Review board includes members of the police vice squad, member of the City Law Department and sometimes the licensing chief. Exhibitors of offending films often withdraw them voluntarily; if not, court action is sought.

ATLANTA — No official censorship.

MEMPHIS — There has been no censorship since the city's long-time censor board was abolished by the courts.

DALLAS — A classification board labels films as "adult" or "general public." Adult films must be so advertised in newspapers and in front of the theater.

STAG-REELS

OKLAHOMA — The state has no official board of censors. The current legislature passed an obscenity law which could be applied to films, although it was aimed at the stag-reel type.

PORTLAND, Ore. — No censorship since the city's film review board was declared unconstitutional in "The Lovers" case. District attorney has twice taken cases to grand jury under state obscenity law.

MARYLAND — The only state censorship board left in the country is headed by Egbert Quinn, 82. All films must get licenses from a three-man board, which must act in 15 days or the applicant can be shown in the state.

TAG SUGGESTED

KANSAS — The State Board of Review, which had operated since 1917, was ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court last year.

DETROIT — The Police Department reviews films and recommends cuts through the obscenity detail of the Liquor License Bureau. "We never ban a film outright," says an officer. Sometimes the tag "recommended for adult patronage only" is suggested.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — No censorship.

CHICAGO — Five mayor-appointed civilians form a film review board, which was upheld by the Supreme Court in 1961. The board may restrict patronage to 18 or older, recommend cuts or reject a film entirely. If rejected, the film can be appealed to a board consisting of civilians from arts, sciences, etc. Last recourse is to the courts.

PORNOGRAPHY

NEW YORK — No state or local censorship. The state's censor board went out of business in 1965 after court decisions riddled the censorship law.

SEATTLE — A review board has power to recommend cuts and to label films in age classifications. However, the ordinances empowering the board have been attacked in the courts, and a Supreme Court decision is awaited.

CHEYENNE — No censorship.

LOS ANGELES — No censorship. No police action, except against "hard-core pornography."

While local and state censorship has virtually been quelled in the United States, occasional outcry for control of film content remains. A longtime advocate of censorship has been Justice Michael A. Musmanno of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

POISON

He argues: "The time has come for Congress and the state legislatures to take up this subject seriously. It used to be that one could go into almost any motion picture theater and see something clean, wholesome and entertaining. Now no family-loving man dares to take his children into a cinema house without first sending out a scout to find out if the picture therein is fit for the eyes of youth."

Science And You
Origin Of The Moon

By DR. LEONAR DREIFFEL
Have you ever wondered why it is that the great sphere of rock men now call the moon orbits majestically around our Earth?

Scientists have pondered this basic question of the origin of the moon for many years. They have created many theories. But no one as yet has a definite answer.

One idea, now fallen from favor among most theorists, is that far back in the Earth's history, when it was still a seething, nearly molten mass, "something" happened which tore a great chunk of rock out of the Pacific Ocean. This huge fragment became the moon.

As we've observed more and more information about the moon and other planets of the solar system, this and other earlier theories have been replaced by better, but still unproved, possibilities.

One clue may lie in the pictures sent to Earth from Mariner IV which gave scientists their first close look at the surface of Mars. The photos were very startling in a number of ways, not the least of which was their revelation that Mars looks very much like the moon. This brought renewed interest to a theory developed almost 10 years ago that the moon and Mars are really sister planets! In other words, once upon a time the moon may have circled in its own orbit around sky.

The Sun just as Mars does now and ultimately was somehow captured by the Earth.

This could easily account for the fact that the surface of the moon and the surface of Mars look so much alike. Both bodies might have been formed at about the same time and under similar circumstances. Compared to Earth, both the moon and Mars are very light for their size. This might be explained if they were formed early in the history of the solar system when there were more light elements like carbon and hydrogen around. By the time the Earth formed out of swirling gas clouds near the Sun the very light elements were probably less abundant, so the Earth was made with a greater proportion of heavier elements.

This theory brings one face-to-face with a big question: If Mars and the moon were independent planets, how is it that the moon is now circulating around Earth? The answer probably is that the Earth captured the moon by coming exceptionally close to it at some time in the far distant past. It isn't at all certain that the moon is really a captured body—a sister planet to Mars which the Earth stole away from the Sun. But someday perhaps we shall prove once and for all that this is the explanation of how the Earth comes to be blessed with that romantic and still mysterious body in the night sky.

South Viet Troops Kill 62 Reds In Two Clashes

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands today reported intensified Communist probes and clashes in the central highlands and the 1st Corps area south of the demilitarized zone—the two current danger points of the Vietnam war.

Particular concern was expressed about the situation in the highlands, where a Communist offensive is expected with the monsoon rains now drenching the jungles.

American forces reported 43 Communists killed in the 1st Corps area Tuesday in a rash of small but stiff firefights. The U.S. Command said American casualties were three killed and 32 wounded.

'VERY LIGHT' TOLL

South Vietnamese infantrymen claimed 62 Viet Cong killed in two clashes 29 miles south of Da Nang. "Very light" South Vietnamese casualties were reported.

Communist rocket and mortar attacks continued against allied posts just below the demilitarized zone, with about 120 rounds hitting U.S. Marine posts at Con Thien and west of Gio Linh and a South Vietnamese district headquarters at Gio Linh. Two Marines were reported killed and eight wounded. The South Vietnamese said they had light casualties.

FRESH TROOPS

Two heavy Communist assaults were reported during the night in the highlands, both in Kontum Province, which is menaced by strong fresh Communist troops using Laos as a haven. Details of both attacks were sketchy.

In one, a Red battalion of about 500 men was reported to have struck American Army forces for five hours before being beaten off at 1 a.m. with the assistance of flareships and

GROUND SWEEPS

The U.S. Command announced 23 major ground sweeps are now under way at various points in South Vietnam.

A total of 124 strike missions were flown against North Vietnam Tuesday. Major targets were the Red River rail line running northwest from Hanoi to Red China and the northern line to the industrial complex at Thai Nguyen about 40 miles above the capital.

The rail lines have been pounded 14 days this month.

The North Vietnamese air force again put up no opposition, U.S. headquarters reported. The MIGs have seldom offered to enter into dogfights this month.

In the south, B52 bombers plastered suspected Communist concentration points with heavy raids in three provinces. One of these was in the highlands of Kontum in support of the menaced U.S. ground troops there.

A Ft. Hood helicopter spotted a boat drifting in the lake matching the description of the missing boat. No one was aboard.

She then notified the Bell County sheriff.

New England Sopping Wet

By The Associated Press

The last spring morning of 1967 was sopping wet in parts of the nation. Drenching rains fell today in the Central Plains and another storm system produced heavy showers in New England.

The first day of summer will begin officially at 10:23 EDT tonight.

Showers developed along a frontal boundary from Colorado to Iowa Tuesday evening and continued into the early morning.

The showers doused Silver City, Iowa, with 5 1/2 inches of rain in less than six hours late Tuesday night and early this morning. There were reports of some flooding in the area and streams and creeks were expected to rise as the rain and runoff continued.

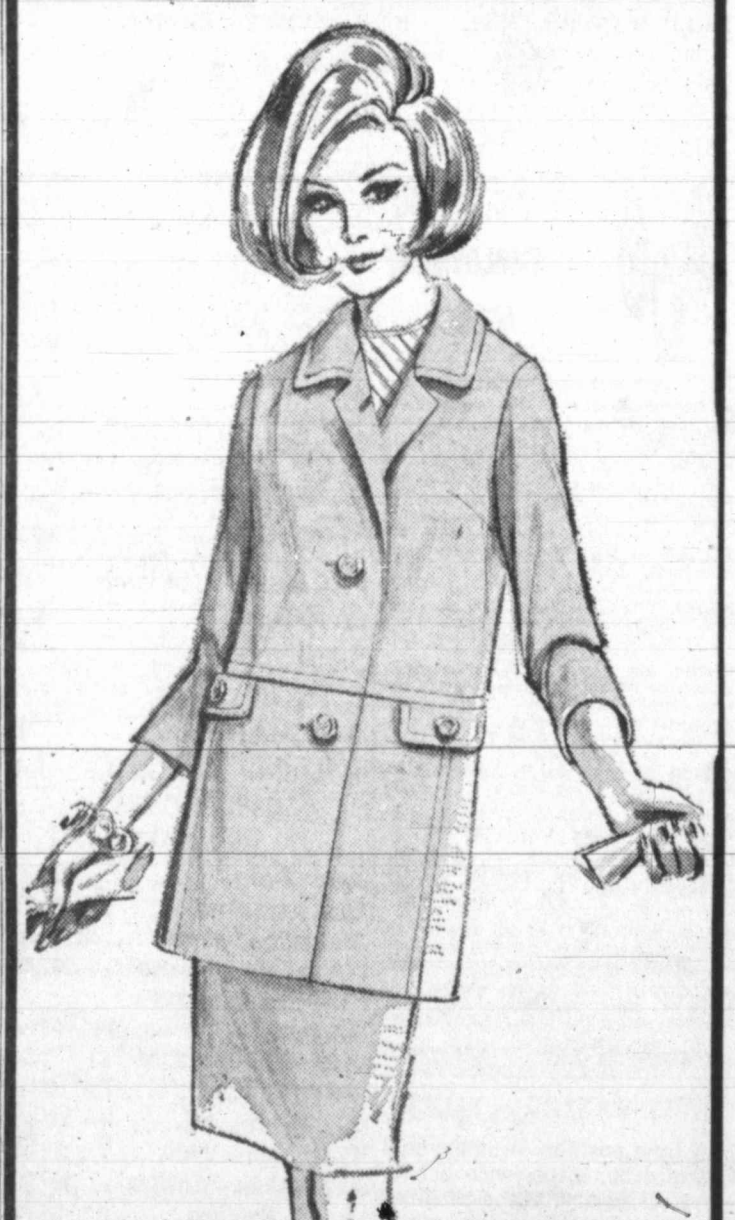

The rains were also heavy in Kansas, with Topeka soaked by 3.03 inches and another 1.76 inches of rain recorded in Emporia. Lincoln and Imperial in Nebraska both reported showers of 1.67 inches in the same period. A small low-pressure system off the southeast New England coast was also responsible for heavy downpours.

The rain measured 2.42 inches within a six-hour period at Portland, Maine.

Rain also fell in the Southeast, the upper Mississippi Valley and the Pacific Northwest today but skies over the remainder of the nation were clear to partly cloudy.
