For wheat irrigation, if one irrigation is applied, it should be delayed until the boot or early heading stage so that moisture will be available during the peak use period.

If there are two applications, the first should be made at the jointing to early boot stage and the second, at the heading stage, says J. K. Adams, Bailey County Agent.

For those wheat producers planning three spring irrigations, the first may be made at jointing, the second at the late boot to early stage and the third at the milk to soft dough stage.

Maximum yields from wheat will require a total of 27 to 30 inches of moisture during the entire growing season, Adams pointed out.

The number of irrigations applied should be based on expected yields.

One man among the crowd said, "We thought sure for a long time last year that he had missed his forecast for sure... but sure enough, after conditions went along so good for awhile, they took an about face and there went the prediction coming through as usual."

In 1966, Crim predicted a "poor" crop for dryland farmers and about the same for 1967.

"The thing isn't going to change much this year, either," Crim said.

MAIF Board Sets First Annual Meet April 7

Muleshoe Area Industrial Foundation board of directors met at 8 p.m. at the First National Bank Wednesday.

The first annual meeting of the Muleshoe Industrial Foundation (MAIF) was scheduled for Friday, April 7, 8 p.m. in the Muleshoe high school cafeteria.

The membership is urged by the board to attend this meeting for a complete financial report and an up-to-date review of the progress and the current status of the Texas A & M Industrial survey being conducted here.

The long-range plan after completion of the survey and how to make the plans work for the Muleshoe area will be discussed.

Approximately 2,500 brochures concerning Muleshoe have been distributed and the board announced that an additional 2,000 will be available shortly. The Art Loft, school students and other groups going on various trips have distributed a number of the brochures.

"The number of brochures distributed in this short time indicates people are definitely interested in the Muleshoe area," a board member said.

The Agriculture Committee of Muleshoe Area Industrial Foundation is working with our Washington representative, Congressman Bob Price and have invited him to meet with the Agriculture Committee, members of MAIF and all interested persons to discuss agriculture problems. This meeting has been tentatively set for May 20. Further details concerning the date and place will be announced.

Prior to Price's visit, the local MAIF Agriculture Committee will meet to outline items to be included in the agenda.

Congressman Price has expressed his interest in industry and agri-related industry locating in this area.

The Agriculture Committee feels that it is important to everyone to keep information of this industrial planning.

Joe S. Clark, head of Industrial Development for Santa Fe Railway said "the building sites and related data furnished by MAIF should be compiled and in the hands of MAIF within the next 10 days. This material will be incorporated in the Industrial Facts Book."

A list of individually owned sites that have industrial trackage will be placed with the Santa Fe Railway Industrial Department and all industrial allies including the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Texas Industrial Commission and utility companies.

All this has been made possible through the united effort of the MAIF organization.

The board also discussed the possibility of printing an agriculture brochure to be distributed which will point out the agriculture potential in this area, in relation to agribusiness industry.

The Texas A & M Industrial Survey is proceeding according to schedule and contract. The first phase is almost complete and will be reviewed by the MAIF board of directors. The second phase will be the Industrial Development Plan for the Muleshoe area.

The labor survey requested by MAIF thru the A & M Survey is now in progress and is being concluded by the Texas Industrial Commission.

The results are to be included in the MAIF Facts Book.

Signals From Ceremonial Fire Sends Up Adverse Signs

CEREMONIAL FIRE--'Indian' John Crim points to the smoke from a ceremonial fire which predicts the outcome of the dry land crops, according to Indian lore. Smoke indicated adverse conditions again this year as in previous years.

A hush fell on the crowd who had gathered during the dawn hour at 'Indian' John Crim's ceremonial Fire Wednesday, March 22, to listen to predictions of the dry land crop forecast as he studied and read the smoke signs and the tell-tale crackle of the burning wood.

As the smoke spiraled from the teepee-shaped fire of posts, Crim peered toward the fire, watching and calling the men as he saw the smoke trend off in directions indicating "fair to poor" yield.

The fire was lighted a few minutes before official sunrise, 6:49 a.m., this year, in front of the Crim home located one mile west and one mile north of Clay's Corner in Farmer County as it has been for the past 42 years.

Crim saw little difference in this years smoke story that last year with the exception that rains would be more general over the area and that storms, with wind and hail, could be expected in May and June... and of course the signs of sand storms appeared. "We couldn't do without sand storms, tho," the quiet little grey-haired man quipped. The tones of the snap and sputter of the burning wood indicates the storms and their severe or less severe condition.

Is Crim right in his predictions? Friends and neighbors who have continuously attended this annual ceremony says definitely "Yes, he is right!"

A check of material collected from back-dated papers and the memory of those who have watched the predictions closely before they became a public event in 1925 show that just about 42 years out of 42 years the outcome of the reading of the smoke has been all or the majority of the prediction correct.

One man among the crowd said, "We thought sure for a long time last year that he had missed his forecast for sure... but sure enough, after conditions went along so good for awhile, they took an about face and there went the prediction coming through as usual."

In 1966, Crim predicted a "poor" crop for dryland farmers and about the same for 1967.

"The thing isn't going to change much this year, either," Crim said.

This annual gathering of the Crim family and friends has been a custom long before the present John Crim began his practice of this old Indian legend.

He was taught the reading of the smoke signs by his father who learned from the original tors of the forecasting, the Indians themselves.

Crim's father came to live in this area when the Redman was an inhabitant, along about 1887 and worked on the Southern Pacific Railroad. It was during these years that he became curious about the fires scattered over the prairie at dawn each March 22. Asking questions, he learned that it was an Indian custom or practice to forecast the weather in order to prepare for the times ahead of them.

In this section of Texas, he learned from the Indians how to read the signs in the smoke and passed the information to the present day 'Indian' John Crim.

The legend is that a fire burning at sunrise on March 22 will give signals for a good or bad crop year in wind direction and the way the smoke carries. If the wind is from the north or northeast and carries the smoke south or southwest, the crop will be average, but wind from the west, south or southwest, means a "very poor" crop. A bumper crop is indicated by the smoke carrying west or southwest.

"This forecast could only be for dryland farmers, nowadays," Crim said. "The Indians, when they practiced this custom did not have the irrigation wells we have today to substitute for rain. Only the water from above could be depended on for assurance of prosperity."

The Crim children all congregate for the forecast whenever possible, bringing the "prophecies" grandchildren who enjoy being up before dawn and helping to gather the wood and get the fire going for the big event.

So again for this year, with the wind blowing slightly from the southwest... "maybe a mile more from the south"... rainfall will not be in abundance, neither will a bumper crop.

The forecast was made under heavy cloudy skies early that morning but the hidden sun and threatening rain did not cause a waiver in the voice of the predictor.

Care of the Sewing Machine

If you expect your sewing machine to give you the greatest service and satisfaction, you must not neglect to give it proper care. To guarantee perfect operation, it is necessary to clean, oil, and lubricate your machine periodically. Refer to the instructions for specific care information and always for motor care instruction.

After you have completed a garment, remove lint and fluff from the take-up lever, thread guides, tension discs, bobbin case and machine surface with a soft clean cloth. If necessary, dampen the cloth to clean the machine surface, but do not use a detergent.

Then with a lint brush clean the feed dog and hook or thread handling areas under the throat and slide plates. After each cleaning apply a drop of sewing machine oil to these areas. For specific oiling points, refer to the machine instruction areas. For specific oiling points, refer to the machine instruction book. After oiling, always sew a few lines of stitching on a scrap of material to remove the excess oil. Every few months clean the area behind the face plate and oil the top and bottom of the machine in the oil holes.

If the machine is to be stored, clean all exposed parts and areas behind the face plate. Keep a small piece of fabric under the pressure foot with the needle down through it to protect the foot and feed from damage. When the pressure foot is down, the pressure spring is released and its life prolonged. Also excess oil will be carried into the fabric by the needle.

AUTUMN VEGETABLE TREAT--Some like 'em hot and some like 'em cold. This applies to green or bell peppers, not just the nursery Thyme. Green peppers are available year round, but nothing can match the crisp, bright favorites that come from local farms and gardens. To select green peppers, look for the dark green glossy, firm, and fresh feeling peppers that are sturdy and thick walled. They should be free from cracks and breaks or bruises that mark the beginnings of decay.

AAUW Hears Chief Of Police, Harold White

The American Association of University Women met in the Community Room of the Bailey County Electric Cooperative Building Monday night.

Mrs. John Watson, president, introduced the speaker, the Chief of Police of Muleshoe Harold White. Mr. White is a graduate of Lazbuddie High School. He attended West Texas University for 2 1/2 years and attended the Department of Public Patrol School at Austin before his assignment with the Texas Highway Patrol. White was with the Texas Highway Patrol for four years and has been with the Muleshoe Police Department three years.

Mr. White spoke on "The Chief of Police and the Community". He said there was always one policeman or more Mrs. White, the Chief's wife read the poem "Because I'm a Cop."

Because I'm a cop, I'm expected to have the "Wisdom of Solomon". To enable me to answer the many questions asked daily, To know when to act to save a life, To be able to match my wits with a cunning criminal.

To present my case in court without the help of a college trained attorney

Because I'm a cop, I'm expected to have the "Courage of David".

To continue on when odds are against me, not to show fear or panic in the face of an emergency crisis.

To show no emotion in times of stress or trouble.

Because I'm a cop, I'm expected to have the "Strength of Sampson".

To perform almost inhuman feats to rescue someone from a wrecked auto, or burning building.

To direct traffic in any weather without faltering.

To get involved in human combat when necessary, sometimes against a person much stronger than I, or a person full of hate and resentment to our society.

Because I'm a cop, I'm expected to have the "Patience of Job".

To assist a small child, or to listen to someone's troubles, when I may be troubled with my own.

To be patient with the many drivers that feel that I'm picking on them only.

Because I'm a cop, I'm expected to have the "Leadership of Moses".

To always be an example in public, never to make a mistake, so as to bring criticism to my honorable profession.

To lead people in time of need for their safety, to lead people when they stray into lawless ways.

Because I'm a cop, I'm expected to have the "Kindness of the Samaritan".

To treat all races, colors and creeds with kindness and respect. Even to the hardest most vicious criminal.

To help those that can't help themselves even though they curse for that help.

Because I'm a cop, I'm expected to have the "Strategy of Alexander".

To enable me to act immediately when a situation arises.

To know the solution when traffic is snarled.

To be able to prevent crime before it happens.

Because I'm a cop, I'm expected to have the "Faith of Joseph".

Faith in myself that I can do the job that I'm sent to do, Faith in superiors that guide and train me.

Faith in the people that run our great city, that they keep ever present the problems of the city first and foremost in their minds.

Faith in the citizens I've sworn an oath to protect.

Because I'm a cop, I'm expected to have the "Diplomacy of Lincoln".

To be able to calm heated tempers.

To assist man and wife in settling their family arguments.

To satisfy an irate citizen in his many demands on the Police Department.

Department.

Because I'm a cop, I'm expected to have the "Tolerance of Confucius".

To be able to smile when criticized by the public, newspaper and even friends.

To laugh at jokes about cops, when to a cop they are not funny.

To tolerate the perfect citizen that is never wrong.

But, because I'm also a Human Being, I sometimes fail in what is expected of me, and because I'm a Human Being, I often wonder why those I serve criticize so severely when I make a human mistake.

Get hostile when I get a little sort of temper.

Call me a dumb cop when I sometimes fail to know the answer.

Because I'm a human and have the same problems, the same pleasures, the same desires, the same sorrows, and pay the same bills, and taxes as the humans I serve, I sometimes wonder, is it worth it?

Be criticized, ignored, used in political issues, honored, or thanked.

We are underpaid, undertrained and undermanned.

Because I'm a cop, I'll always be proud and someday when the Perfect Cop calls me to His Precinct, I pray to Him that He will say "Well Done."

Label Clearance For Disulfoton

COLLEGE STATION--Disulfoton (Di-Syston), a systemic insecticide, has received a new label clearance for cotton seed following the Pesticides Regulation Branch, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

John G. Thomas, Texas A&M University Extension entomologist, said the prior label clearance permitted a maximum rate of 4 ounces per 100 pounds of cotton seed.

Thomas said the new label clearance would provide for cotton seed treatment at a rate of 8 ounces per 100 pounds of delinted cotton seed, an increase of 4 ounces of insecticide. At the old rate, the length control period was not satisfactory.

A systemic insecticide is a chemical that is applied to any part of the plant and is translocated throughout the plant in sufficient quantities to result in an insect kill.

The entomologist said pre-treated planting seed can be purchased or the grower can have his own seed custom treated.

Di-Syston custom treatment is available at Pecos, Brownsville, Lubbock, Wall, Stanford, Fairlie, Hallsboro, Lamesa, Rockwall, Ralls, Morton, Seagraves, Shallowater, Plainview and Tahoka.

Costs of disulfoton at the 8-ounce rate is 3 1/2 cents per pound of planting seed, Thomas said.

Although Di-Syston seed treatment is a new clearance, Phorate may also be used for pre-treating seed, the entomologist added. Di-Syston and Phorate can be applied in granular form in-furrow at planting time. The application rate should be 5 to 10 pounds per acre of the 10 percent granular form.

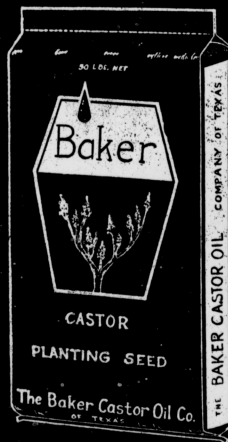

For further information on use of systemic insecticides, producers are urged to contact their county extension agent and obtain a copy of "Texas Guide for Controlling Cotton Insects."

"I am the resurrection, and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live."—John 11:25

HAPPY EASTER DAY -- Mrs. J. Pat Wagon and daughters, Tyree and Deborah plan a happy Easter day with their family starting the day by attending services at the First Christian Church.

"In the end of the sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre. And, behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it. His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow: And for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men. And the angel answered and said unto the women, Fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified. He is not here: for he is risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay. And go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead; and, behold, he goeth before you into Galilee; there shall ye see him: lo, I have told you. And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy; and did run to bring his disciples word." (Matthew 28:1-8)

On the darkest day that ever dawned in all history, the Lord Jesus Christ was crucified. A little more than thirty-three years the son of God had trodden the ways of the world, yet He had never been contaminated by the sin of the world. His life was doing good, giving sight to the blind, speech to the dumb, hearing to the deaf, a new body to the cripple and life to the dead. The ears of His followers had heard the world's greatest sermons from His lips. He did more than preach those sermons He practiced all that He preached. His life was a great light that lighted the world like the sun lights the earth. His life inspired men to rise up from the lowly depths and do great things for God. His life influenced men as no other life has ever influenced mankind. He was the perfect example of all that is good and high and noble and useful and godly.

Jesus Christ the most noble, most useful and most godly the world has ever known was crucified between two thieves. They crucified Him thinking they could silence Him forever. Everything he said and everything He did rebuked the selfish, sinful leaders of His day. Yes, they crucified Him, but they did not know all of God's plans. The crucifixion of Jesus was simply carrying out God's great Eternal purpose for the world. It was God's purpose to give His only Begotten Son as an atonement for the sins of the whole world. God used those who crucified Jesus as instruments in His great plan.

Now when Jesus died, the hearts of His disciples were broken with sorrow. They had followed Him for about three and one-half years, they had enjoyed His fellowship, they had been blessed by every contact with Him. They loved Him with a surpassing love. Actually the disciples did not fully understand what Jesus meant when He said, "After three days I will rise again." (Matthew 27:63) But now their hopes have died, all of their dreams have been crushed. But on the first day of the week, He came back to life. He had conquered death and the grave, and He came back to live forevermore. Their shadows were turned into sunshine, their gloom into glory and their grief into gladness. He came to teach them that He would live forever, that He would walk down every pathway with them. Inspired by the fact of His resurrection and the fact that He would always be with them, they went out and gave their lives away for His sake.

The resurrection of Christ gives vitality to life. Without the fact that Christ rose from the dead, life would be dull, flat and meaningless; there would be no more value to human life than there is to brute life. The eternal dream of man became a reality when Jesus Christ arose from the dead.

If Christ had not arisen from the dead, the whole plan of redemption would have collapsed. A religion based upon a dead Savior would be in vain. After His death, His disciples, not understanding the Scriptures relative to His resurrection, were very sorrowful and deeply grieved because they thought it was all over; but with evidence of his resurrection, their hope soared high again. The gospel is based upon the fact of the resurrection. Paul and other pioneer preachers first had to convince the people that Christ had risen. It was common that men die. They could understand that. But the mystery was in His resurrection.

Nineteen centuries have gone by. We need to remember that He still loves us. We who love Him are never alone. As we face life and its hardships, we can hear Him saying, "And, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matthew 28:20)

Curriculum Guide

A STATEMENT ON BIOLOGY

Biology is a study of ourselves and the other living things about us. We learn about ourselves by studying the chemical and physical structure of cells, tissues, organs and systems of plants and animals. This is a progressive study from the simple to the more complex. How they function, live and reproduce by carrying out all the life processes, first as individuals then as a part of all life. Ecology, a part of modern Biology is concerned with how each organism finds a successful place in the "balance of nature". A problem for man.

CHEMISTRY

In the study of Chemistry, a knowledge of the broad concepts and models upon which modern chemistry rests, as well as enough of the pertinent facts of the traditional course in high school chemistry, is presented to the student. Among the basic generalizations which are stressed, the meaning of and application of the theories of the chemical bond, the periodicity of the elements, the energy concept of the atom, the mechanics of chemical reaction, and study of molecular structure are presented to the student. After these laws have been fully presented, a more detailed study of the elements, the atom, and chemical reactions is undertaken. Along with lecture study, laboratory experiments completed by the student for the purpose of familiarizing the student with laboratory equipment, and at the same time, impressing the fundamental concepts more deeply in the student's mind.

GENERAL SCIENCE

General Science is classified as a survey course. The purpose of the course is to familiarize the student with the general concepts in several broad subdivisions in the field of science. Because of the present day emphasis on space and space travel, the studies of the earth and space under the classification of astronomy and the study of energy mass relation under the classification of atomic and nuclear physics are stressed. Some time is devoted to familiarizing the student with the earth's weather, communication, light, and food production. During the entire course, accurate measurements and accurate use of mathematics are stressed. The student continually encounters the use of the metric system of measurement in the working of problems in each of the major fields. General Science is devoted to the study of broad concepts rather than the study of specifics.

PHYSICS

Physics is designed to introduce to the student the several basic physical laws that we encounter in everyday life. Some time is spent on the familiarization of the student with Newton's Laws and their influence and effect on everyday life. Some time is spent on the introduction and study of the general field of electronics and nucleonics. The remainder of the course is devoted to the general topics of light, heat, sound, and electricity. One of the standard teaching procedures is the experimental study by the student in the laboratory, which is devoted to the actual proving of certain fundamental laws. Many mathematical problems are

Time is running out for teenagers entering an essay-writing contest on "American Citizenship -- What It Means to Me."

With prizes of $100 and $50 U. S. Savings bonds, or their cash equivalent sent to colleges of the winners' choice, plus 20 Honorable Mention Citations, the contest is open to all young Texans, 15 to 19 years of age, inclusively.

The sponsoring Texas Knights of Columbus' rules limit the essays to 300 words and point out the final judging will be performed by an interfaith panel composed of members of the Protestant, Catholic and Jewish faiths.

Essays must be mailed at latest by March 31 to the Essay Contest Committee, c/o Knights of Columbus, IIII Majestic Building, San Antonio, Texas 78205.

"Youngsters of all races, colors and creeds are invited to enter the annual competition which, in the past, has been won by students residing in cities and rural areas throughout the state," said Willard Green of Temple, head of the Knights of Columbus, a Catholic, fraternal order of men with 35,000 members in Texas.

"Essays must be signed by the writers with their full names, ages, schools, classes and cities of their residence, as well as the same information on their parents or guardians, and their school principals," he said.

Green added that previous years' winners have resided in small and large cities, including Whiteface, Rowena, Galveston, Benavides, Seymour, Port Arthur, Alpine, Corpus Christi, Amarillo, Gonzales, Schulenburg, Poth, Gainesville, San Antonio, O'Donnell, Dalhart, Fort Worth, Ennis and Wichita Falls.

worked by the student both in laboratory and lecture sessions. For this reason, physics is frequently classified as a mathematics course; and at the same time, it is classified as a physical science course.

Southwest Educational Lab Gets Fund Grant

The Southwest Educational Development Laboratory has received a nine-month $1,050,000 funding commitment and a 21-month contract from the U. S. Office of Education for the operation of programs to improve educational practices and opportunities in Texas and Louisiana.

The Southwest Educational Development Laboratory, with headquarters in Austin, Texas, is one of only eight regional laboratories to receive 21-month contracts. Eight other laboratories received 15-month contracts; two, nine-month contracts.

Builder Links Stone Age

THE OUTCASTS. By Stephen Becker. Athenaeum. As a narrative, Becker's novel is a tale about a world-wandering engineer who thinks wishfully -- but he has found a peaceful haven in a forgotten corner of the world. But has he?

The overtones of the story are concerned with the ideological clash between the overdeveloped countries -- the centers of power -- and the underdeveloped areas.

The scene is an unnamed country in the sweltering tropics, presumably a former Dutch colony, where there are Europeans, blacks, Orientals, Indians, Amerindians and Portuguese. (The clue is that the author once lived in the Guianas.)

Engineer Morrison, an American, has been sent to build a bridge over a gorge. Professionally, he has always wanted to build a bridge, having built ever since. Personally, he is intrigued at first with the idea that the bridge doesn't seem to lead anywhere, except toward a vague border.

Then he discovers on the other side of the gorge a little village of naked natives, practically Stone Age. Morrison succumbs to the old fallacy of the "noble savage" and dreams of settling down in the jungle, far away from neurotic civilization -- where, as they say, he hasn't achieved too much personal fulfillment.

While the bridge is being completed, there is a drumfire of conflict between white inter-racial dominance and the fierce sense of black independence and psychological rising expectations. This dialogue is carried on between Morrison and his black assistant Phillips.

Because it is written with exceptional skill, the story stands up well as an adventure, both physical and psychological, because it has an added impact because it is a vivid sketch of the frictions between light and dark skins and between science and primitive aspirations.

tracts and the status of the other two is undecided.

Dr. Edwin Hindsman, executive director of the Southwest Educational Development Laboratory, said the Laboratory's Board of Directors will meet this month to study the operational budget and make decisions about program emphases during the next nine months.

"The 21-month contract clearly is a vote of confidence in our Laboratory and in the institutions in this two-state area that are working together in new arrangements to solve educational problems in the region," said Dr. Hindsman. "Our Laboratory is the only one of the eight receiving 21-month contracts located away from the East on the West Coast. This demonstrates the capabilities of the educational institutions of Texas and Louisiana to work together in new ways to develop the best of educational opportunities for our boys and girls."

During the Laboratory's developmental period, the staff and 12 regional committees have been engaged in intensive program planning activities in five areas of major educational concern -- education of the Mexican-American, education of the Negro-American, curriculum adaptation and development, applications of technology in education, and interdisciplinary studies in intercultural education.

The Board of Directors at its Jan. 31 - Feb. 1 meeting in Dallas heard reports on each of the proposed programs, but delayed budget decisions until the operational contract was signed with the U. S. Office of Education.

In a letter to Victor Bussie, chairman of the Laboratory's Board of Directors, U. S. Commissioner of Education Harold Howe II said that the 21-month contracts were negotiated with those eight laboratories "having the office perceives as having considerable potential for significant performance in the near future."

Howe said the 20 regional laboratories will be supported at a level of $15 million for the nine-month period of March 1 to November 30, 1967. Besides the Southwest Educational Development Laboratory, the other seven regional laboratories with 21-month contracts are: The Center for Urban Education (New York City), the Southwest Regional Educational Laboratory (Los Angeles), Research for Better Schools (Philadelphia), the Northwest Regional Educational Laboratory (Portland, Ore.), the Appalachia Educational Laboratory (Charleston, W. Va.), The Far West Regional Educational Laboratory (Berkeley, Calif.), and the Eastern Regional Institute for Education (Syracuse, N.Y.).

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN, Tex.-- First big public debate over the Legislature's spotlight issue -- sale of liquor by the drink -- was scheduled this week.

House Revenue and Taxation Committee set Tuesday afternoon hearing on the proposal to legalize mixed drink sales under five-cents-a-shot-tax, stiff retailers' fees and strict regulation.

One of this session's biggest crowds was on hand for the House Committee session. Dry forces were lined up in depth for opposition testimony. Citizens Committee for Tourism and the Regulated Sale of Mixed Drinks announced formation of a key support group -- an advisory board of 37.

Liquor legislation already has been subject of these actions:

House passed a bill setting 10 a.m. - 9 p.m. hours (instead of present 9 a.m. - 10 p.m.) for liquor package stores and ordering the stores to close Christmas but permitting them to remain open on primary and general election days.

Representatives killed the bill to permit private clubs in areas voted "wet" for any purpose (beer, wine or whiskey sales) to operate under the "pool" instead of the old "locker" system by which each member must replenish his own supply.

Bill allowing beer distributors to continue supplying legal retailers although areas in which warehouses are located vote "dry" was signed into law, effective next August.

Rep. J. M. Simpson of Amarillo introduced a bill to put in all the strong enforcement measures advocated in the liquor-by-the-drink bill plus a $5,000 annual tax on private clubs, but not to legalize "liquor by the jugger." It's being called the "jigger without the liquor" bill.

REDISTRICTING STUDY
BEGINS

All state representatives and some of their constituents will be called on for advice as to how to draw new federal court-directed state House and congressional district boundaries.

Rep. Gus Mutscher of Brenham, chairman of House District Committee, said sub-committee will conduct an intensive four-week study in an effort to produce bills acceptable to the lawmakers which also meet the court's one-man-one-vote yardstick.

Two principal congressional appointments heard by the Committee were offered by Republicans and liberal Democrats at its first hearing. GOP-backed measure would pit only one pair of incumbent congressmen against each other -- Reps. Abraham Kazen of Wichita Falls and Omar Burleson of Anson.

Bill backed by Reps. Jake Johnson and R. L. Vale of San Antonio would throw Cong. Abraham Katzen of Laredo into the same Rio Grande Valley District with Cong. Eligio de la Garza of Mission; and Cong. John Dowdy of Athens into the district with Cong. Olin Teague of College Station.

TAX ISSUE NEAR SHOWDOWN

Optimal one-per-cent city sales tax measure was tentatively passed by the Senate last week after weathering filibuster attack. It is expected to pass after one more filibuster this week.

Proposed tax package picked up more opposition in House Committee on Revenue and Taxation hearing. Opponents of the penny boost in gasoline tax, which would channel more funds into the farm-to-market project, said the raise should be accompanied by a ceiling on FM road building and a proportional raise in diesel fuel used by trucks.

Committee sent to sub-committee the section of the tax bill by Rep. Ben Atwell of Dallas to stop the automatic $15,000,000-per-year appropriation to farm-to-market roads.

Good Roads Association insists that FM outlays should be held to about $70,000,000 a year.

Meanwhile, a bill to transfer all the funds now being given for new FM roads into projects to improve city streets was introduced.

WATER RIGHTS

A bill by Sen. George Parkhouse for adjudication of water rights has passed the Senate and is being considered by the House Conservation and Reclamation Committee.

As things stand now, rights to use more river water than actually exists are claimed by Texans. Some have used them. Some have not.

Parkhouse's bill would set a procedure for those who claim water rights to file their claims. Hearings will be held in each river basin. Then the Texas Water Rights Commission will decide who really is entitled to the water.

Those who don't like the decision will have their day in court automatically, for trial under regular procedures.

SULPHUR

West Texas' sulphur mining claim mixup has been cleared by the Legislature.

Gov. John Connally signed into law a bill putting sulphur, lignite, coal and potash under the regular leasing laws like oil and gas, which will give the state school fund 60 per cent of the bonus and royalty received from leasing, and 40 per cent to the landowners.

Fast action came after the courts held that sulphur comes under an old mining claim law, that mining rights can be obtained for as little as $10 an acre.

Unemployment Claims Run Below 1966 Pace

Claims for unemployment insurance in February continued to run well below the pace a year ago as a scarcity of applications came into job placement activities, the Texas Employment Commission announced today.

In February 92,608 payments of weekly benefits totaling $2.8 million were paid to Texas claimants compared to $3.4 million paid out in 111,848 weekly benefit payments in February of 1966. This represents a 16.3% decrease in amount paid under February of 1966. In January the amount paid was 16.3% less than January of 1966, while December and November totals were 22.7% and 31.3%, respectively, under comparable year-earlier months.

TEC offices worked one day less last month than in the comparable month of 1966, which together with an applicant shortage brought about by a tightening labor market -- accounts in part for reductions in all facets of job placement activity. Job openings placed with TEC offices by employers dropped from 55,535 in February of 1966 to 49,623 last month, while job applications placed by job seekers fell from 65,201 to 62,116.

Applications in active files of TEC offices at the end of February numbered 162,219 compared to 188,053 at the end of February, 1966. The state's tightening labor market is reflected in the fact that only 90,263 men's applications were in TEC active files in February compared to 112,872 last February. This 20% decrease in male applicants was accompanied by a 4% decrease in active female job applications.

Referrals of applicants to job openings dropped from 96,702 in February of 1966 to 90,318 last month, while non-farm job placements made by TEC offices slumped from 44,670 to 41,115.

Farm job openings filled by TEC offices held strong at 13,997 in February compared to 14,001 in February of 1966 in spite of a continuing decline in the use of farm labor. Placement of individually-selected farm workers placed by TEC increased by 254 over February of 1966, while the number of farm crews placed decreased from 183 to 136 as mechanization moved farm labor needs toward skilled machine operators and away from crew labor.

ATTENTION CASTOR BEAN GROWERS:

The USDA has announced that farmers can plant mandatory grain sorghum diversion acres by taking a small reduction in grain support payments.

ASC Offices should have the particulars, and are ready to advise you of them.

We invite you to come into the office or visit your cooperative gin manager and discuss planting Castor Beans this year.

Your cooperative offers you the current market price. . . plus. . . your share in the profits of the bean processing, because as a customer you are an owner in this organization.
