Economist forecasts 'good times ahead'

WASHINGTON (AP — Orders to U.S. factories for "big ticket" durable goods jumped 4.3 percent in July for the biggest one-month gain since 1984, the government said Friday.

However, analysts suggested the news wasn't as promising for the sluggish national economy as it might have seemed at first glance.

On the positive side, Douglas Handler, an economist with the Philadelphia forecasting firm Wharton Econometrics, said: "In these figures, perhaps we might be seeing signs of the good times ahead that economists have been forecasting for six or eight months."

But Michael Evans, president of Evans Economics in Washington, said details in the report disappointed him after his first reaction of "Oh boy!" when he saw the total increase for durable goods, which are those expected to last three years or longer.

And Gordon Richards, director of economic analysis for the National Association of Manufacturers, said bluntly, "These figures look better than they actually are."

Much of the report, compiled by the Commerce Department, did look good. It said:

■ Overall orders climbed to $107.2 billion in July. The 4.3 percent gain over June, the biggest since 8.2 percent in November 1984, came on the heels of a tiny 0.1 percent increase in June and declines the previous three months.

■ Military orders, a historically volatile category, soared 46.6 percent in July, accounting for much of the general gain.

■ Non-military orders were up 1.1 percent, about the same as their 1.4 percent June rise.

■ Orders for non-defense capital goods, which are closely watched for signals of industry plans to expand production, rose 3.8 percent after increasing 1.1 percent in June.

The problem, according to analysts Evans and Richards, was that the gains were concentrated in military hardware and in a 22.9 percent increase for transportation equipment, both military and civilian. Excluding transportation, in fact, durables orders for the month would have been down 1.2 percent.

The government doesn't break down the figures into great detail, but Evans said he suspected much of the transportation increase was in civilian aircraft orders from overseas — a big help to a few U.S. companies but not a broad boost for manufacturing.

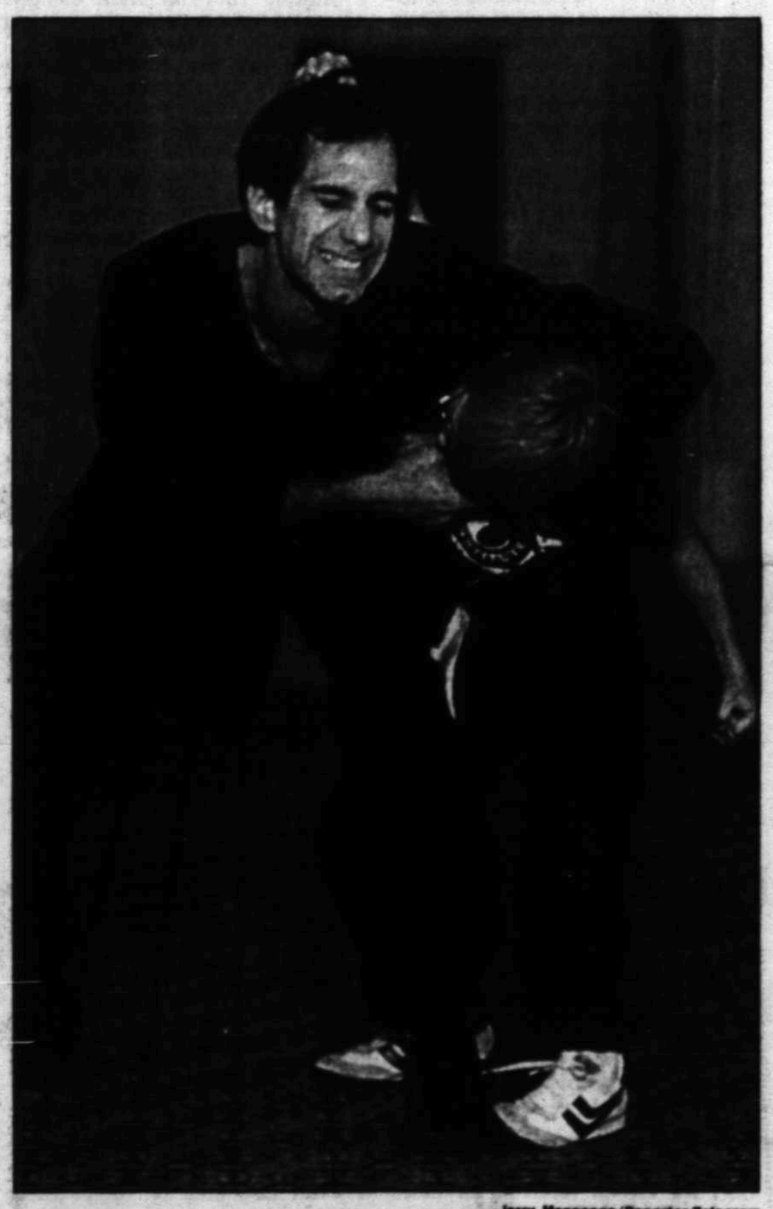

Richards said, "The increase in transportation orders is not a sign of economic revival."

"Rather, in view of the fact that tax reform is likely to substantially reduce depreciation deductions, businessmen are front-loading orders for transportation equipment in order to be able to take advantage of accelerated depreciation write-offs while they are still available," he said.

"In this respect, a jump in orders in late 1986 will only be followed by a steeper decline in 1987."

There were also declines for two other specific categories — 1.6 percent for machinery and 2.7 percent for primary metals.

Groups confident ruling will stand

By RAMONA NYE
Staff Writer

Minority representatives say they are confident U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton will stand by his ruling for seven single-member school board districts, despite an order to reconsider the case.

League of Latin American Citizens President Edia Hernandez says evidence presented Friday by the Midland Independent School District against seven single-member districts was "irrelevant."

Attorneys for the district used a MISD survey to show the city's minority population was not politically cohesive.

"I feel that their testimony was irrelevant. They surveyed 500 some people. That's a very small precentage, but they based all their testimony on these few people," Ms. Hernandez says.

LULAC and the Black Advisory Council are suing the district for seven single-member districts, while the school district has proposed a compromise of four single-member districts and three at-large districts.

In testimony Friday, MISD attorney Charles Tighe presented as evidence a July MISD survey of 530 Midlanders' opinion about the school district.

"There are very few differences between blacks, Hispanics and Anglos. This study clearly shows no particular cohesion on issues affecting the school district," said University of Texas urban researcher Delbert Taebel.

The district used the responses to two questions to demonstrate a lack of political cohesiveness.

Because the district received a wide diversity of responses to the questions of "What grade would you give the Midland public schools and school boards," Taebel said there was a "large degree of unanmity" in Midland accross racial lines and "very few differences between blacks, Hispanics and Anglos."

About 18 percent of the Anglos gave the schools an "A," while 31 percent of the Hispanics and 28 percent of the blacks gave the schools an "A."

The school board received an "A" from 8 percent of the Anglos, 15 percent of the Hispanics and 18 percent of the blacks.

Restraining order rejected in TECAT suit

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — With the help of top state officials, an Austin judge Friday evening rejected a last-minute attempt to save the jobs of 1,199 Texas teachers who twice failed the controversial TECAT test.

District Judge Joe Hart denied a request for a temporary restraining order from an Austin lawyer in a class-action suit on behalf of all the teachers who failed both the March 10 and June 28 administrations of the Texas Examination of Current Administrators and Teachers. The decision means those educators may keep their jobs only if Education Commissioner William Kirby rules that their school districts can find no acceptable replacements.

The Legislature created the reading-and-writing test as part of the 1984 school reform package. The law required all teachers and administrators to pass the test by June 30, 1986 to keep their jobs.

Austin attorney Jay Brim argued that the state did not give the 5,903 teachers who flunked the March 10 test enough time to study for the June 28 re-test. The Texas Education Agency notified the failing teachers in early May and provided them with study material to help them improve on their weak points.

"Five to six weeks to remediate on basic skills is an unreasonable presumption on the part of the state," Brim said.

"The teachers will suffer irreparable harm from the loss of their teaching positions. They will be stigmatized. They will become known as incompetent or illiterate individuals."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, chairman of the Legislative Education Board, testified that he took the TECAT and

Mourners attend postal workers' funerals

EDMOND, Okla. (AP) — Postal workers, many in uniform and some wearing black armbands, joined more than a thousand other mourners at funerals Friday for five of their 14 fellow workers who were shot dead in a rampage at the post office.

The services, the first for the victims of the Wednesday slayings by a part-time postal worker, are to be followed by more funerals over the weekend and a citywide memorial service Sunday.

Also Friday, officials confirmed the pistols that National Guard member Patrick Henry Sherrill, used to kill the workers and himself were checked out from a guard center. National guard officials in Washington, D.C., ordered a review of security procedures.

At the first funeral, held in Lawton for Patti Lou Welch, the Rev. Del Hamm told 350 mourners that, "We are realizing now, as we never have before, how great a gift we have in life."

In Oklahoma City, uniformed postal workers wearing black armbands escorted the casket of Richard Charles Esser Jr., a postal supervisor, from the St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church.

In Edmond, an estimated 200 people were on hand for the funeral of Jonna Gragert Hamilton. About 500 people attended services in Wellston for Patricia Chambers, 41, and in Yukon for Bill Miller, 30.

Five of the six postal employees wounded in the massacre remained hospitalized Friday, all in stable condition.

An initial autopsy report released late Friday by Dr. Fred Jordan, the state medical examiner, indicated there were no traces of alcohol or drugs in Sherrill's system other than a trace of a chemical normally found in over-the-counter antihistamines.

The report said Sherrill died of a gunshot wound that caused extensive skull fracturing and lacerations

House committee OKs bill legalizing parimutuel bettting

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Heading out of the starting gate just one day after the Senate, a House committee Friday approved a bill legalizing parimutuel wagering on horse and greyhound racing.

House Speaker Pro Tem Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi and sponsor of the bill, said he hopes to schedule House debate on the measure sometime next week. The full Senate will consider an identical bill Monday afternoon. A Senate committee approved it Thursday.

"If we voted on that today, we've got the votes to pass it," Berlanga said, claiming he has the support of "upwards of 80" of the 150 House members.

Berlanga said he believes the bill contains the three provisions Gov. Mark White has said he needs before he would sign a racing law:

— A statewide referendum — voters would decide the issue as part of the Nov. 4 general election. "What a better time to do it than doing it this November, when we're going to be maximizing voter participation," Berlanga said.

— Local option, where voters in each county would decide whether they want a track. Only Galveston, Nueces and Cameron counties could have a dog track.

— Sufficient protection from organized crime. "The type of regulation, the type of licensing that's going to be required from the popcorn vendor on through the jockey stewards is significant," Berlanga said.

Although Berlanga is counting on the state's financial straits to help move the bill past the finish line, he admitted that no tracks could come on line to affect this fiscal year's $3.5 billion deficit. "It won't help us now, but it'll definitely alleviate the budget restraints that we'll have for the bienniums after that," he said.

The bill sets aside 5 percent of the betting pool for the state. "I think we're looking at probably close to $200 million (per year for the state) once we're in operation," Berlanga said.

The bill contains none of the provisions that has doomed it in the House since 1983: it sends the state money directly to general revenue rather than dedicating it to specific purposes such as schools or welfare; it contains no requirements for minimum minority participation in track construction, ownership or employment.

"This is a clean, straight, tough-regulation bill, and I'm pleased with it," Berlanga said. "I'm confident that because of what has transpired (in the economy) over the last six months, we'll be able to succeed this time."

Senate panel reduces cuts for colleges, universities

By JIM WARREN
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Higher education officials won a partial victory Friday when the Senate Finance Committee drastically reduced the House-approved cuts for public colleges and universities.

The House went deep into higher education, cutting 13.5 percent and eliciting protests from business and academic leaders. But the Senate panel, to the pleasure of university officials packed in the hearing room, endorsed much smaller reductions.

The committee took $146 million — 7 percent — from higher education but gave back $20 million to be divided among schools that received less tuition money than expected because of decreased enrollment. With the $20 million, the cuts amounted to 6 percent. The cuts come from the two-year budget cycle, which started Sept. 1, 1985, and ends August 31, 1987.

Also, universities already have voluntarily offered $72 million in reductions, leaving just $54 million in real cuts. Some of the $72 million that individual universities cut — in response to Gov. Mark White's request that all agencies drop 13 percent from their budgets — would be restored, however, if their specific reductions exceeded 7 percent.

Some senators on the committee favored even smaller reductions. Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville, offered a plan to cut 4 percent from fiscal 1987, which begins Sept. 1. The Finance Committee approved the 4-percent cutback, then reconsidered it and adopted the two-year, 7-percent reduction.

Like several other committee members, Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan, opposed any major cuts in higher education, which includes all four-year institutions, junior colleges, medical and dental schools and the College and University System Coordinating Board.

"I don't think we should engage in damage control" by making smaller cuts than the House, Caperton said. "We're sending a message to the rest of the nation: Do we believe in higher education or don't we?"

Jess Hay, chairman of the University of Texas System board of regents, said the Senate plan "is just dramatically better" than the House bill. "It's very gratifying to see the Senate Finance Committee act with a great deal more responsibility than the House," he said.

The Senate committee approved $6 million in public education program cuts, with the money coming from two programs — community education and state-paid sick leave for teachers. House public school cuts totaled $145,000.

The Senate, like the House, did cut deeply into human service and health programs. The panel took away more than $81 million from the Department of Human Services and $9 million from the Department of Health.

Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, continued with his plan that he thinks will force House members to look at a tax increase, which most Senate leaders favor to bridge the state's estimated $3.5 billion shortfall.

Earlier in the week, Farabee introduced his Budget-Balancing Act of 1986 — known around the Capitol as Texas' Gramm-Rudman — that would make the comptroller certify that any cuts, appropriations or transfers of money will keep the state from going into a deficit.

Farabee's plan, he and other senate sponsors acknowledge, is designed to keep the House from simply making cuts that partially address the budget shortfall and adjourning without raising taxes to make up the entire deficit.

During deliberations Friday, Farabee attached a part of that bill to the Senate's appropriations bill. That will require Comptroller Bob Bullock to certify the budget after lawmakers finish their work in this special session.

of the brain. It said no other significant pathology was encountered.

A full autopsy will take about two weeks, the medical examiner's office said.

Sherrill, 44, was a top marksman in the Oklahoma National Guard and had checked out the two Colt .45-caliber pistols used in the shooting from the Oklahoma City guard center, officials said.

Maj. Gen. Robert Morgan, adjutant general for the Oklahoma National Guard, said Sherrill was a member of the guard's marksmanship team and was to compete later this month in a national contest in Little Rock, Ark.

Morgan said Sherrill competed last Saturday in a National Rifle Association match near Edmond. He checked out 200 rounds of ammunition for that competition and also was issued 300 rounds on Sunday evening for practice in preparation for the national competition, Morgan said.

Morgan would not speculate whether the estimated 50 rounds fired inside the Edmond Post Office were from those checked out by Sherrill.

Pat Scully, Oklahoma National Guard spokesman, said it was only because Sherrill was a member of the marksmanship team that he was able to have the pistols issued to him.

Randy Welch, husband of slain postal office employee Patti Welch, is comforted by his mother, Kim, after funeral services Friday in Lawton, Okla.

"We're very, very security-conscious when it comes to issuing weapons," Scully said.

"There had been no reports, including medical, that would have precluded him from serving in the Guard or from being a member of the marksmanship program," Morgan said.

"He was a quiet person, but he served the military well," Morgan said.

Don Donahue, the civilian public affairs director at National Guard headquarters in Washington, said the National Guard head, Lt. Gen Herbert Temple Jr., ordered a review of security procedures for issuing and storing weapons.

Sherrill silently walked through the post office about 7 a.m. Wednesday. Authorities said he first killed two supervisors, then a man who fled out the back door of the building, before returning to walk through the main offices, killing 11 others before shooting himself in the head.

In Lawton, family members and friends of Mrs. Welch were joined at the First Baptist Church by scores of postal workers, many wearing their blue uniforms.

Mrs. Welch, 27, was the daughter of Pat Ford, the director of customer service at the Lawton Post Office.

"There's a great deal of respect for Pat," said Kinley McClure, postmaster of the Lawton office. "Several of our carriers took about 45 minutes leave to attend. One person told me they wanted to go but preferred not to because it tore him up so."

Hamm, pastor of the Hillcrest Christian Church in Oklahoma City, where Mrs. Welch and her husband, Randy, were about to become members, told the mourners, "She is not dead. She lives forever in our memories and in her faith."

The brightly lighted altar was adorned with more than three dozen blue, red, white, yellow and peach-colored flowers.

Esser, 38, is believed to be one of the first killed in the slaughter. At his funeral Mass, the congregation sang of abiding in the shadows of God.

Mrs. Hamilton, 28, was eulogized as a woman with a warm personality whose smile was the first thing people noticed when they met her.

"I predict that Edmond, Okla., is going to be stronger as a result of this nightmare, this catastrophe, and will be united as never before," Dr. Alan Day of the First Baptist Church of Edmond told the congregation.

Edmond postal officials said most employees attended funerals Friday. The office was run by employees from Oklahoma City and the surrounding area.

In addition to Friday's five funerals, seven services were scheduled today and one each were set for Sunday and Monday. The services were taking place in 10 different communities, including Marietta, Ga., and St. John, Kan.

Services were pending for Sherrill, whose body was to be cremated.

As the funerals began, residents — greeting their own letter carriers with newfound appreciation and decorating mailboxes and telephone poles with yellow ribbons — banded together to try to cope with the tragedy. Counseling sessions were scheduled for survivors and victims' families.

Trinity church to show family films

From Staff Reports

Over 50 million parents have been inspired by Dr. James Dobson's "Focus on the Family" film series, according to a Trinity Presbyterian Church press release.

Now, building on that nationwide groundswell of interest, Word Publishing and Focus on the Family, Inc. have released "Turn Your Heart Toward Home."

In this new film series, "America's most trusted family life expert brings his vast experience to bear on one of society's most pressing challenges, the protecting and strengthening of family relationships," according to the press release.

The first film of this six-part series, "A Father Looks Back," will be shown at Trinity Presbyterian Church on Wednesday, September 3, at 6:30 p.m.

The remaining five films will be shown weekly Sunday, September 7 through Sunday, October 5 at 9:30 a.m.

Engine fire causes evacuation of jet

DENVER (AP) — An engine fire that forced the 339 people aboard a TWA jumbo jet to evacuate, causing minor injuries to 14 passengers who slid down escape chutes, probably was sparked by pooling of fuel, federal officials said Friday.

"It's not uncommon," said Greg Feith, a National Transportation Safety Board spokesmman. "It's sort of like a carburetor fire in your car."

The fire flared shortly after the plane, a Tristar ending a flight from St. Louis, landed at Stapleton International Airport Thursday evening.

Control tower personnel spotted the fire, and the plane's 228 passengers and 11 crew members were evacuated. The 14 passengers who suffered minor injuries while sliding the chutes were treated at hospitals and released.

Airport firefighters extinguished the blaze within minutes.

Some passengers on the plane said the order to evacuate caused a brief panic.

"The stewardess told us not to panic...(but) everybody was so terrified, so frightened, that we were laughing," passenger J.J. McCormick of Dublin, Ireland, said. "Everybody was jumping from like three different chutes off the plane."

"People were coming off the plane like bats out of hell," said passenger Mabel Texerira, 68, of San Diego.

Feith said the craft was found to be airworthy and able to carry passengers after an inspection Friday morning. TWA crews in Kansas City planned a closer examination of the aircraft after it was flown there.

Asked what caused the engine fire, Feith said, "It's hard to tell. We know there was a pooling of fuel. That's not an uncommon occurrence...Flight crews are trained to handle it."

"There was nothing serious. We looked at the engine and the airframe and everything else," he said.

Mayor justifies officer's shooting

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The slaying of a suspended San Antonio policeman by a fellow officer may have prevented a bloodbath of multiple killings, Mayor Henry Cisneros says.

The mayor said the killing of suspended Patrolman Stephen Smith may have saved the city from a multiple murder like that which occurred earlier this week in Edmond, Okla.

Cisneros said it is apparent that Smith, who was shot and killed by his longtime friend, Patrolman Farrell Tucker, wasn't a well man.

"Maybe we were spared a multiple murder," the mayor said, referring to the killing of 14 people in the Edmond, Okla., post office on Wednesday.

"One has to wonder where this thing might have gone. It is a sad turn of events," Cisneros said.

City Manager Lou Fox, describing Smith as "crazed," agreed. He also said he believes the killing was justified based on information gathered to date.

Some city council members, however, expressed concern over the incident after receiving a briefing Thursday from City Attorney Lowell Denton.

Councilwoman Maria Berriozabal told the San Antonio Express-News the shooting apparently was a police-sanctioned operation, yet the officer involved was technically off duty.

Denton said that while Tucker was off duty, a police officer also is on the job 24 hours a day.

Denton also said that information gathered by the city links Smith to "vigilante justice — to taking the law into his own hands."

Denton said the shooting wasn't planned. Rather, he said, Tucker kept an appointment requested by Smith after having been advised by Smith's wife that Smith was involved in other incidents.

Tucker went to that meeting wearing a concealed tape recorder that had been bought for him by District Attorney Sam Millsap. The tape, however, ran out before the shooting occurred, the Express-News reported.

ECONOMY

Economists tend to discount military orders when looking at the durable goods report because big orders for planes, tanks or other equipment tend to make the defense figure bounce up and down out of proportion to its impact on the nation's overall economic health.

Still, Handler said, military orders count, too, in actually contributing billions of dollars to the companies involved.

There have been few optimistic economic signs for the past half-year, and the government reported only this week that the overall economy grew at a barely discernible 0.6 percent annual rate in the spring quarter of the year.

Both Handler and Evans said that pace is undoubtedly picking up in the current July-September quarter, but neither was predicting second-half growth as brisk as the 4 percent rate the Reagan administration is forecasting.

Shipments of durable goods increased 1 percent to $105.6 billion in July after rising 0.8 percent in June, Friday's report said.

All of the figures were adjusted to discount for normal seasonal variations due to such factors as weather and production schedules.

Cassette tapes, wallet taken from car

From Staff Reports

A tape case containing cassette tapes and a wallet were stolen Friday from a vehicle parked at 501 W. Louisiana Ave., according to police reports.

Sabrina Moody, address unavailable, told police the burglary occurred about 1:16 a.m.

Police are looking for an Anglo man, between 15 and 18 years old, wearing a plaid shirt and blue jean in connection with the incident.

In other complaints, Jeanette Henry, address unavailable, reported an air conditioner and cassette stereo were stolen Friday during a burglary at 410 S. Madison.

Police reports said the burglary occurred about 3:10 a.m.

Also, a 1976 Buick Regal was stolen either Thursday or Friday while it was parked at the Pamela Cural residence, 3403 W. Cuthbert, police reports said.

The car, valued at $2,500, was stolen between 8 p.m. Thursday and 9 a.m Friday, reports said.

RULING

To show political cohesiveness, there should have been a large difference between the way minorities and Anglos graded the district, Taebel said.

"If you could show Mexican-Americans and blacks have a different attitude than whites on school issues than you'd have a coalition."

However, BAC President Charlie Jackson said after testimony Friday that Midland's minority community is politically cohesive.

"I feel real good about the Hispanic and black communities working together. We've shown we can work together on the issues."

MISD officials say they think Bunton will be "fair" in his ruling.

"I think the evidence that was presented was in our favor and I think he'll be fair, " says MISD President Bill Jackson.

School Superintendent Joseph Baressi says he felt good about the district's case after testimony Friday.

"I felt good about our position from the preponderance of evidence that supported our position.

"There's something to be said that the Fifth Circuit referred the case back to Bunton. If we didn't have any merit then they should have ruled there."

In early August, the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans "vacated" Bunton's ruling for seven single-member districts.

The appeal court ordered Bunton to "reconsider" his ruling in light of the Supreme Court opinion in the case Thornburg v. Gingles.

Tighe, citing the case in testimony Friday, said three points needed for seven single-member districts have not been shown including:

— an insulation or compactness among minority groups.

— a political cohesiveness among minority groups.

— a white group using a voting bloc to prevent minorities from electing a candidate of their choice.

However, LULAC and BAC attorney Rolando Rios said in testimony Friday that the city's minority community has shown political cohesiveness by working to elect minorities to the city council and to the school board.

Bunton said he expects to reach a decision in on the case within the next 10 days.

TECAT

found it too easy.

"I can't imagine what preparation beyond a junior high school education would be necessary to pass that test," Hobby said. "I can't imagine what good remediation would do."

Most teachers across the state are expected to report for in-service programs Monday, and districts have already hired replacements for those that did not pass the TECAT. If Hart approved the restraining order, Kirby said, "We'd certainly have a chaotic condition on Monday with two sets of people reporting to work."

Hobby and Kirby both testified that the test was designed to remove from the classroom teachers who lacked basic reading and writing skills. "The idea of a teacher who flunked that test is an appalling one, and the harm that teacher would cause by continuing to teach would be irreparable," Hobby said.

Marvin Vaselka, assistant education commissioner for assessment, explained to the judge that teachers who failed the first administration received study guides and televised instruction to help them pass the second time around. Almost 80 percent of those who flunked the March 10 test passed the June 28 re-test.

Brim said he would continue the fight before the teachers' individual school boards, who must take the final action to dismiss them.

Two suits questioning the constitutionality of the test itself are pending before the state Supreme Court.

More than 99 percent of the 202,084 educators who took the TECAT March 10 eventually passed it.

Later in the day, when lawmakers took out a provision for a state-employee pay raise — due to take effect at the beginning of next month — Farabee made the removal of the pay raise contingent on the House's approving his budget-balancing bill.

Farabee said that will give the Senate negotiating strength when members of both chambers iron out differences in the two appropriation bills in conference committee.

State employees were scheduled to receive a 3-percent raise in September, but both the House and Senate took away that planned pay increase. However, the president of the Texas Public Employees Association, Gary Hughes, noted that state employees avoided a rollback in the raise they received last year.

Nephew of diplomat not indicted for assault

HOUSTON (AP) — The nephew of a Bolivian diplomat was cleared by a grand jury of charges he assaulted a Houston police officer outside his suburban home.

The grand jury declined to indict Roman Gonzales, 20, on the felony charge Thursday after hearing testimony from two police officers and four members of his family.

His uncle, Luis Fernando Poppe Valdez, 45, is charged with hindering the arrest of the 20-year-old, a misdemeanor, during the July 21 incident.

Valdez maintains the two officers assaulted him, his nephew and his brother-in-law Tony Gonzales, who also faces a charge of hindering apprehension.

FBI and Houston police are investigating Valdez' complaints.

Valdez, a former diplomat to Brazil who was in the United States representing his country at an international Lion's Club meeting, does not have diplomatic immunity from his misdemeanor charge, the State Department recently informed Houston officials.

Hightower: Safeway to help market Texas goods

STATE

HOUSTON (AP) — State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said Friday that Safeway Stores Inc. will work with state and local officials to provide a market for Texas food products — a move he said will help the state's battered economy.

In a news conference, Hightower also offered details of a $1 billion food processing complex that the Galveston-Alvin-Pearland Corridor Association, a non-profit group, will start building in Hitchcock in October.

The 121 stores in Safeway's Houston division will advertise and display state grown and processed food products as part of his department's Taste of Texas program, Hightower said.

Safeway's efforts will bring into Texas millions of dollars with increased food products sales and will help diversify the economy, Hightower predicted.

"It is important for Safeway to see the economy of Texas stronger," said Max Raydon, marketing operations manager in the company's Houston division. "We're all better off."

Other supermarket chains have joined in the state's efforts to promote Texas agricultural products but Safeway's plan is more ambitious, Hightower said.

Safeway officials also are advising the Galveston-Alvin-Pearland Corridor what products to grow and process locally, said Tom Bowman, founder and president of the the non-profit economic development organization.

For example, Safeway is encouraging the growing of Oriental vegetables, Raydon said.

Safeway also agreed to sell locally made eggrolls and wontons, as well as processed Texas rice that the Corridor promoted, Bowman said.

Hightower added that Gulf Coast shrimp should be processed in the area since two-thirds of the fish is processed out-of-state.

Initial plans call for establishing a distribution center, which will involve importing fresh fruits and vegetables through the ports of Galveston and Freeport, Bowman said.

Cremation may replace pauper burials in Denton

DENTON (AP) — Officials in this North Central Texas city say burying the poor is getting so expensive they may have to replace pauper burials with cremation.

Denton County commissioners asked their purchasing agent to compare the costs of cremation vs burial. The county paid $10,500 for four pauper burials this fiscal year, which ends Sept. 30, said county auditor James Wells.

The bill was $6,500 last fiscal year and $9,500 the previous year.

"When we started receiving bills for pauper burials in excess of $3,000, I felt like it was time to do some research," said Commissioner Sandy Jacobs. "When I came on the court four years ago, they (pauper burials) were in the $500 to $700 range."

State law requires counties to pay for the burial of people who died destitute and without relatives who can afford to pay for the burial.

Denton County purchasing agent Jerry Romine is checking the costs of cremation as part of preparing new bid specifications for the preliminary $26 million county budget.

"We are looking for the most economical and proper burial," Romine said.

Cremations sometimes are ordered, but only if a relative gives permission, said County Judge Buddy Cole, whose office handles the pauper burials.

"If it is a John Doe or if there is no family, then we don't cremate. It could be opening us up to some sort of litigation," Cole said. "It's just not worth it when you consider the total amount as compared to our budget. It is not exactly a monumental item."

In Fort Worth, Tarrant County has a similar policy of allowing cremation if a relative has signed a release, said Donna Chesser of the county's human services department.

In Dallas County, bodies of paupers either are buried or donated to the State Anatomical Board, said Millie Odell of the Institute of Forensic Science.

Pan Am agrees to pay $1.95 million fine

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pan American World Airways, the country's sixth largest airline, agreed Friday to pay nearly $2 million in penalties for safety violations uncovered by government inspectors earlier this year.

The Federal Aviation Administration said the agency and Pan Am settled on the fine after Pan Am reorganized and strengthened its maintenance operation where most of the violations were concentrated.

FAA Administrator Donald Engen said Pan Am has taken prompt action to correct the deficiencies, including expanding its maintenance force by about 200 people. He said the airline is operating safely.

Pan Am spokesman James Arey said about half the fine already has been paid.

The FAA earlier this month notified Pan Am that it would seek $3.9 million in fines because of violations of federal air safety regulations found during a two-month inspection that began last March 10.

But, according to FAA officials, the fine was reduced to $1.95 million after Pan Am representatives produced new information concerning the nature of some violations and the circumstances surrounding them.

"We did not renegotiate the fine," said FAA spokesman Bob Buckhorn. "The airline came in and provided us with added information that led us to re-evaluate the fine."

Buckhorn said payment of the fine closes the enforcement action.

According to FAA officials, the inspectors who examined Pan Am's operations last spring found hundreds of safety violations, most of them in the way Pan Am was conducting its maintenance and internal inspection programs.

Among the violations, according to agency inspectors were that Pan Am:

■ Operated planes that were not considered airworthy. For example, a Boeing 747 was flown 18 times although its aileron, a part on the wing surface that provides lateral control, was out of alignment.

■ Installed aircraft parts that had gone beyond their approved service life. In one case a plane was flown 37 times after a landing gear should have been overhauled.

■ Operated aircraft with parts that needed repair and made some repairs without using approved technical information.

The inspectors also found the airline did not make inspections within required time limits and failed to keep adequate maintenance records or an accurate list of people authorized to perform maintenance.

Engen said that after the inspection was concluded May 9 the airline quickly moved to improve its maintenance operation and that the agency "is assured the airline continues to operate in a safe manner."

"Pan American has revamped and expanded its quality-control organization, reorganized planning and production control, reorganized its maintenance organization and increased its engineering staff," Engen added.

While calling these actions "very positive," he said the fine was levied because "the public expects full accountability for an air carrier's failure to comply with the federal aviation regulations."

The settlement with Pan Am produced one the largest fines ever paid in connection with federal safety violations by a major airline.

Last year, American Airlines agreed to pay $1.5 million in connection with maintenance discrepancies found at that airline during a similar in-depth inspection.

Both figures, however, are dwarfed by the contested enforcement action the FAA still has underway against Eastern Airlines.

The FAA has demanded that Eastern pay $9.5 million because of thousands of safety violations.

Controllers being investigated for alleged drug use

PALMDALE, Calif. (AP) — Officials investigating alleged drug use by air traffic controllers at a regional center have removed 38 controllers from their radar screens and placed them in desk jobs, union officials said Friday.

The allegations stem from a sheriff's raid on a party attended by controllers about a month ago, said John Thornton, who is with a union trying to organize controllers nationwide.

The union hasn't heard if the Federal Aviation Administration suspects the controllers of using drugs on duty, Thornton said from the Washington, D.C., headquarters of the National Air Traffic Controllers Association.

FAA officials refused to discuss the investigation.

Los Angeles County Sheriff's Deputy Jim Bauder said the local investigation was turned over to the FAA and referred all questions to that agency.

The controllers are among about 140 who work at the Los Angeles Air Route Traffic Control Center, which directs flights in an area stretching from Bakersfield 225 miles south to the Mexican border and into Nevada and Arizona. Palmdale is at the edge of the Mojave Desert, 40 miles north of Los Angeles.

Six controllers were put on desk duty Thursday and the rest of those under investigation were ordered removed from control duties Friday, Thornton said. They were to be given urinalysis tests for drug use and face possible dismissal, he said.

"We don't condone drug use by air traffic controllers or by anyone," Thornton said. "The problem with the FAA, however, is that what they use as just cause (to put controllers on administrative duty) is kind of vague."

"We're in a situation where these controllers are going to be branded guilty until they're proved innocent, and that really doesn't seem to be the American way," Thornton said.

No drug-related arrests made during blockade of harbor

NEW YORK (AP) — The crackdown on crack prompted the first blockade of New York Harbor since the War of 1812, but federal agents who halted scores of vessels recovered no illegal drugs and made just one unrelated arrest, a spokesman said Friday.

"I can tell you, anyone trying to bring drugs into New York will be arrested," said Coast Guard Capt. Arthur Henn, who headed Operation Glass Eye. "We're out to catch those people bringing drugs into the port and poisoning our children."

But the blockade produced just one suspect from the first 78 ships boarded. Thomas Hall, 27, of Asbury Park, N.J., was arrested when a computer check turned up an outstanding warrant for armed robbery. Despite 45-minute stem to stern searches of pleasure boats and commercial vessels, no drugs were found.

In two years, the Coast Guard has made only five drug-related arrests in the New York harbor, said Guard spokesman Loren Bullard.

Mayor Edward Koch blamed publicity for the lack of results.

The search "wasn't a very well kept secret on the part of the Coast Guard, because everybody I met Thursday told me about it," Koch said. "That's no way to run an operation. That's got to be done very quietly."

Bullard said the blockade was merely the start of intensified efforts to stop drugs from coming into the harbor. He said random searches and blockades would occur in the future.

"The primary focus of this operation is to let people know that we're going to be out there looking for them and they won't know where or when," he said. "We may not get you tomorrow, but we're going to get you."

Fifteen Coast Guard boats and cutters, joined by four city police boats and two from U.S. Customs, stopped each boat as it entered the harbor through the Verrazano Narrows between the boroughs of Staten Island and Brooklyn. Searches were conducted at Coast Guard piers on Staten Island.

The program started about 8:45 p.m. Thursday, and was to continue until sundown Friday.

"On a day-to-day basis, Coast Guard boats are out in the harbor making random boardings," Henn said. "So people never know when they'll be stopped."

Hall was arrested aboard the fishing vessel Savage, which ignored signals to steer to the pier. The 75-foot boat ran aground as a Coast Guard cutter headed toward it and had to be brought in by a tugboat, said Petty Officer Richard Schnurr, a Coast Guard spokesman.

The harbor blockade, the first since the British blocked off the waters in 1815, was the latest effort in the city's battle against drugs, particularly crack, the highly potent, inexpensive cocaine derivative.

On Thursday, police teams went through 200 retail outlets and seized 40,000 crack pipes, and prosecutors announced the establishment of a special "crack court," created to handle only cases involving the drug.

Energy company to settle with Silkwood estate

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Kerr-McGee Corp. agreed Friday to pay the estate of Karen Silkwood $1.38 million, settling a 10-year-old nuclear contamination lawsuit in which a jury award of $10.5 million for her heirs was overturned on appeal.

The agreement, announced by the defendant and attorneys for the estate of the late nuclear industry activist, was termed fair and just by both sides.

"I feel pretty good about it," said Bill Silkwood of Nederland, Texas, Ms. Silkwood's father. "It's been a long 12 years for me."

Ms. Silkwood, a lab analyst at the Kerr-McGee Cimarron Plutonium Plant near Crescent, died in an auto accident Nov. 13, 1974. The 28-year-old employee was on her way to meet with a New York Times reporter to discuss alleged safety problems at the plant. She had been contaminated by plutonium several days earlier.

Jim Ikard, chief attorney for the Silkwood estate, said about $500,000 of the settlement will be divided equally among Ms. Silkwood's three children, Beverly Kristine "Kristy" Meadows, 19; Michael Earl Meadows, 17, and Dawn Elaine Meadows, 15, of Ardmore. The rest will go for attorneys' fees and expenses, including about $70,000 to Silkwood as co-administrator of the estate, he said.

As for his daughter, Silkwood said: "She did what she had to do. I think people remember her as a person who didn't give up...We proved through the courts that what she said was true."

Rick Pereles, director of corporate communications for Kerr-McGee, said the Oklahoma City energy company in no way accepted blame for alleged plutonium contamination of Ms. Silkwood and in fact "believe we would have prevailed" in a new trial.

But Pereles said Kerr-McGee felt it was to its economic benefit to settle out of court and get the case behind it.

Ikard agreed the company "never accepted any blame." But, he added, "We nailed them in a big way."

Ikard said the settlement left several important court-set nuclear industry guidelines intact. He said these included a decision affirmed by the U.S. Supreme Court that a state court jury may award punitive damages against the holder of a federal nuclear license.

Courts also held during the lengthy proceedings that strict liability — liability without fault — applies to the holder of a nuclear license and that Ms. Silkwood was not responsible for her own plutonium contamination, Ikard said.

Teen fatally stabs grandmother

MIAMI (AP) — A teen-ager who told police he thought his grandmother was the devil fatally stabbed her Friday when she interrupted him while he was reading the Bible, police said.

Alejandro Martinez, an 18-year-old high school student, was charged with first-degree murder and booked into the Dade County jail, where he was held in the psychiatric wing.

He is accused of stabbing Amada Vasquez, 66, several times in the chest with a four-inch kitchen knife.

Police said the teen spent 15 days at Jackson Memorial Hospital's crisis center after a similiar incident a year ago.

The youth had been reading the Bible aloud before attacking his grandmother and told police he believed she was the devil, police said.

Illinois lawmaker, aides undergoing drug tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Alan J. Dixon, D-Ill., and his top aides have joined the growing list of Capitol Hill officials undergoing tests for illegal drug use, the senator's office said Friday.

Dixon became the second Illinois congressional delegation member to launch such testing. At least five lawmakers, including Dixon and Illinois Republican Rep. Lynn Martin, have instituted voluntary or mandatory drug testing among their staffs, and others are said to be considering it.

Wade Nelson, Dixon's press secretary, denied that the voluntary testing in Dixon's office, which started about two weeks ago, was tied to the senator's fall re-election campaign. Nelson said Dixon believed limited tests should be performed in light of growing public concern over drug use.

"This is a public office and we're public people," Nelson said. "And a lot of people have some concerns about drug use among public employees as well as others."

Symphony going bankrupt

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Oakland Symphony Association has filed for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy law, a move officials say is a step toward a curtailed season.

The association's board of directors, beset by a decade of deficits, has asked musicians to take a 30 percent pay cut.

Unless a meeting with musicians' representatives can be arranged over the weekend, the association said it will ask the bankruptcy court for permission to cancel the current contract.

The board also has announced it would cancel 37 concerts and attempt to put on a season with only 26 performances.

"We regard these as highly positive efforts to put the Oakland Symphony on a sound footing and to assure the successful completion of next season," said board chairman Jean R. Wente.

People wrongly collect tabs

WASHINGTON (AP) — People in several states have been collecting pull tabs from beverage cans under the wrong assumption the tabs can be redeemed to help kidney disease patients, the Aluminum Association says.

There's no truth to what seems to be a persistent rumor that the tabs can be used to buy treatments for kidney patients on dialysis machines, association president John C. Bard said in a news release distributed Friday.

Groups have collected hundreds of thousands of pull tabs, Bard said, but those people were victims of "an unfortunate myth."

"We have no idea how it gets started or how it's perpetuated," he said. "We only know that a lot of well-meaning people are left unhappy and embarrassed."

He said no aluminum company has ever sponsored such a program.

UAW leader concerned about prisoners' treatment

Bieber

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — An American labor leader said Friday that unionists released from South African prisons told him of torture, jailed children and interrogations about their labor activities.

Owen Bieber, president of the United Auto Workers, claimed that most of the thousands of people detained under the 10-week-old state of emergency are union members. He said he was particularly concerned that "without exception, the line of questioning certainly went to their union work."

"Several people I talked to said the implication was that their efforts and success in negotiating higher wages somehow contributed to the problems here," Bieber after a six-day visit to South Africa.

The Bureau of Prisons was asked for comment on the allegations, but there was no immediate reply.

Bieber sent a telex Tuesday to the office of the national police commissioner asking to visit Moses Mayekiso, general secretary of the Metal and Allied Workers Union, but the request was denied. Bieber is a board member of the International Metal Federation.

"He is a top official of a union we regard as our counterpart," Bieber said. "He is kept in a cell with lights on 24 hours a day and TV cameras monitoring him at all times and has been denied basic necessities such as reading material, other than the Bible."

Bieber said Mayekiso was being held at John Vorster Square, the police headquarters in Johannesburg, but has not been given reasons for his detention or allowed visits from his attorneys or family. He was arrested June 28 under the Internal Security Act, which is separate from the state of emergency imposed June 12.

At a news conference before flying home to report to other U.S. labor leaders, Bieber showed the answer he received Friday from the commissioner's office.

It said: "The present status of Moses Mayekiso does not relate in any way whatsoever to the fact that (he) is the general secretary of the Metal and Allied Workers Union...and the activities of the said union is not an issue in this case."

The UAW chief said he learned of one man who was subjected to electric shock by interrogators, stripped naked and made to perform Zulu dances and swim in a river "to show how, according to his captors, the African National Congress infiltrates the country."

WORLD

"Time and again, I was informed that these union detainees had been denied access to lawyers," Bieber said. "Although questioned, and some beaten and tortured, none were ever charged with any crime."

Bieber said he was told prisoners were fed gruel, sometimes coffee and bread, "hardly an acceptable diet by an humane standard."

Detainees also reported that boys aged 8 and 9 were detained with adults, he said.

His tour of the country took Bieber to Johannesburg, Pretoria, Cape Town and Port Elizabeth.

Unions in Port Elizabeth, an industrial center on the southern coast, demand that auto companies such as General Motors and Volkswagen provide full pay to detained workers while they are in jail. The companies have offered partial payments.

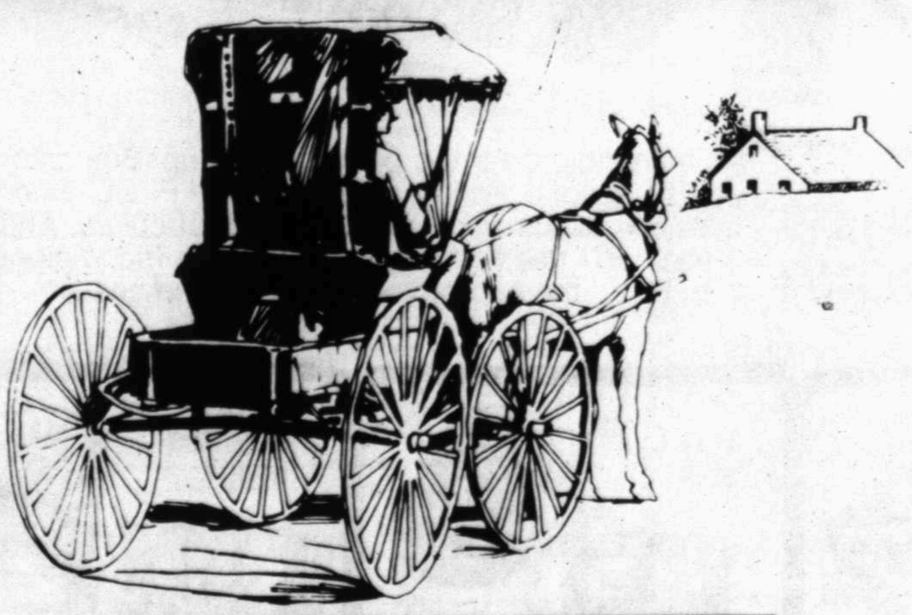

"That's one of those things that was pointed out to me, which I intend to communicate to those (American) companies I have contact with," Bieber said. He indicated that his union supports international economic sanctions against South Africa and said: "Every union leader I met with here told me the situation is such that pressures must be brought about to change them...It will not be easy for these union leaders or for anyone."

Tonight will be mostly cloudy, with a 40 percent chance of thunderstorms and the low near 70.

Sunday will be partly cloudy, with a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms. The high will be in the upper 80s.

STATE

Showers and a smattering of thunderstorms wet Central and East Texas between Dallas, Lufkin and Waco Friday, while other showers were scattered over parts of the Edwards Plateau and South Texas.

Meanwhile, haze continued to keep the visibility down below seven miles in many locations across North, Central and East Texas, the National Weather Service reported. Otherwise, partly cloudy to mostly cloudy skies prevailed.

East and southeast winds breezed across most of the state at speeds generally in the 5 to 15 mph range.

The Texas forecast called for partly cloudy to mostly cloudy skies with scattered showers and thunderstorms becoming more numerous on Saturday.

NATION

Much of the nation had sunny, tranquil weather Friday, while scattered showers and thundershowers were found in parts of the Plains and Rockies, and in Florida and the lower Gulf Coast region.

Fair skies prevailed from New England into the Southeast, and also to parts of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys.

Clouds and a few showers moved into the central and northern Plains. But sunny weather stretched from Montana across the northern Rockies and the Pacific Northwest into interior parts of California.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were found in the central and southern Rockies, across the Great Basin and the southern Plateau region.

Tom Jager surprises Mark Biondi

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Six weeks after his wedding, the honeymoon began for American freestyler Tom Jager, when he became the first-ever world champion for the shortest competitive distance.

The 22-year-old from Collinsville, Ill., upset countryman Matt Biondi, the fastest swimmer in the world, to win the 50-meter freestyle in the World Swimming Championships.

Meanwhile, the East German women went into the final day of competition having won 12 of the 13 races held so far.

Only American Betsy Mitchell's victory in the 100-meter backstroke has prevented an East Germans sweep. The 20-year-old Marietta, Ohio, swimmer was hoping to complete a double in the 200-meter backstroke.

Jager's wife, Becky, hugged and kissed her husband minutes after his victory, and she gripped his hand proudly during the press interview that followed.

He said that, since the wedding, he had been concentrating on training. But now, he said, he and his wife will go to the Spanish resort of Palma for a proper honeymoon.

Biondi said he knew Jager was capable of a very fast time, but added that two false starts, one involving Jager, upset his concentration.

Jager posted 22.49, setting a championship record that is guaranteed to be next to his name for at least another four years, despite what Biondi can achieve in other competitions.

Among the other finals scheduled today, the last day of competition, was the first women's 50-meter freestyle, in which East Germany's Kristin Otto was chasing her fifth gold medal of the championships.

The 20-year-old from Leipzig already holds gold in the 100-meter freestyle and the 200-meter individual medley and also anchored two relay teams to victory.

World champion Alex Baumann of Canada was going for his first world title in the men's 200-meter individual medley.

Hammond leads Series

By BOB GREEN

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Donnie Hammond birdied the 18th hole and took sole control of the lead Friday after the second round of the $700,000 NEC World Series of Golf.

Hammond's 15-foot putt on the final hole finished off a 2-under-par 68 and enabled him to complete two trips over the Firestone Country Club course at 6-under-par, 134.

That's one in front of Dan Pohl, who consistently turned potential trouble into birdies in a 4-under-par 66 that put him at 135.

"I'm fortunate to be in this position. I turned a couple of pars into birdies and bogeys into pars and you don't do that all the time.

"I'm going to have to start driving it better or I won't be around the lead this weekend," said Pohl, who chipped in for one birdie, got another from a fairway bunker and still another after driving into the wrong fairway.

Lanny Wadkins, a former winner of this elite event, salvaged a 68 despite a double bogey 7 on the 16th — "just a dumb mistake," he said — and was only two shots back at 136.

John Mahaffey and Joey Sindelar each had a 66 and were at 137.

Bernhard Langer of West Germany, Massy Kuramoto of Japan and Hawaiian David Ishii followed at 138, four strokes back at the tournament's halfway point. Langer and Ishii each were one over par at 71 and Kuramoto had a 70.

Australian Greg Norman, the British Open champion, slipped to a 71 and was at 139.

Masters title-holder Jack Nicklaus, a five-time winner of this event under various formats, had a 69 and was at par 140.

U.S. Open champ Ray Floyd, one of three tied for the first-round lead, made double bogey on the fifth hole for the second straight day and drifted back to 140 after a 74. Mark Wiebe, also tied for the first-round lead, was one higher at 75-141.

Bob Tway, the recent winner of the PGA, shot 72 and was well back at 146.

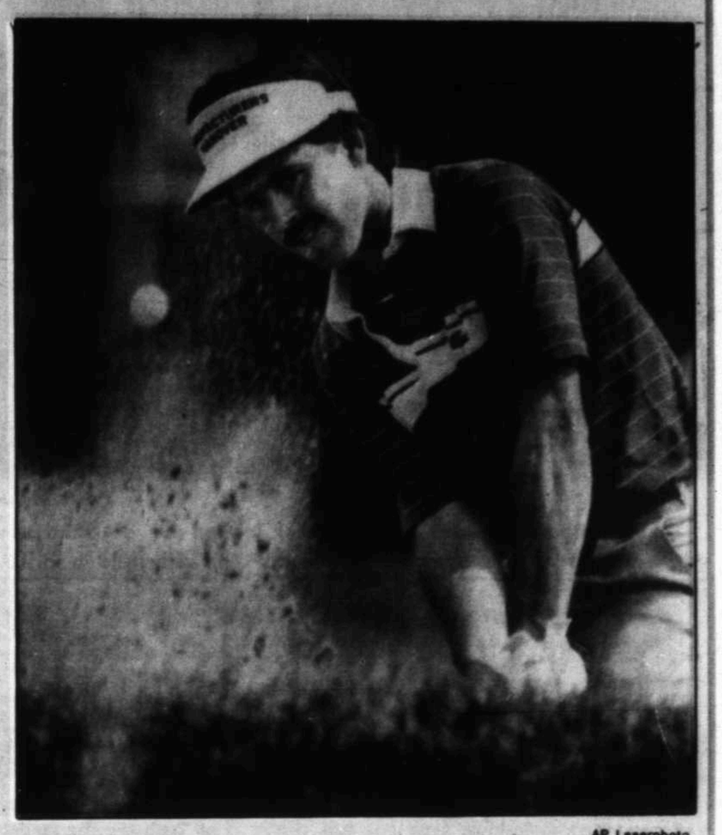

After an opening bogey, Hammond reeled off three consecutive birdies, begginning with a two-putt birdie-4 on the second.

On the next two, he hit irons less than a foot from the cup. A 9-iron second shot came to rest four inches from the hole on the third and he stroked a 3-iron approach — "probably the best shot I've hit this year," he said — that stopped about nine inches from the cup.

He bogeyed the 15th, pulling a 4-iron into a bunker, and was one stroke behind when Pohl turned a potential bogey into a birdie on the 17th.

Off the 17th tee, Pohl drove into the adjacent 18th fairway, hit his second high over trees on to the 17th green and then made an 18-foot putt.

But Pohl 3-putted for bogey on the 18th and Hammond, playing behind him, took the lead alone with the 15-foot birdie putt on the final hole.

Tudor stymies Astros for Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — John Tudor scattered nine hits over seven innings and drove in two runs with a pair of singles to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 6-5 victory over the Houston Astros Friday night.

Tudor, 13-6, struck out seven and allowed one earned run in helping the Cardinals snap a four-game losing streak. Todd Worrell earned his 28th save by stopping the Astros, despite allowing a three-run pinch homer to Denny Walling in the ninth.

A wild Nolan Ryan, 8-8, was unable to earn his 250th career victory. He struck out six in 5 1-3 innings, but walked five and had three wild pitches.

An error by St. Louis third baseman Terry Pendleton led to an unearned run in the first inning. Billy Hatcher reached on Pendleton's throwing error and scored on Glenn Davis' RBI double.

The Astros added a run in the fourth as Jose Cruz blooped a two-out double to short left field and Alan Ashby followed with a run-scoring single.

Tom Herr led off the Cards' fourth with a double to center and Andy Van Slyke singled to right to score Herr. Later, with runners on second and third and two outs, Ryan intentionally walked Mike LaValliere to pitch to Tudor.

Greenwood better than expected

From Staff Reports

The Greenwood Rangers may have come out on the short end of the score Friday night in a controlled-scrimmage against the Seminole Indians — four touchdowns to two — but they played better than first-year head coach Maurice Hodges expected.

"Actually, we executed a little better than we anticipated. Our offense executed pretty well," said Hodges, who is instituting a new system for the Rangers, who are not only playing in a new district but at a new level as well.

The Rangers have made a rapid rise from the ranks of Class A football two years ago to 3A football this year. Greenwood will be playing in District 4-3A and, against Seminole, they found out things can get tough on the field. But, that too, is good.

"Competition breeds better play," said Hodges. "The better your opponent, the better you're going to play."

Greenwood came up with two touchdowns in the scrimmage, one a long cut-against-the-grain run by Steve Popham. Steve Groeschel scored the other.

"Seminole has a very polished football team with eight offensive and eight defensive starters back from last year's team and they played like they've got a lot of experience," said Hodges.

"Our kids are still learning how to play our defense," he said. "Another week and we'll be reacting better to situations. Now, the kids still have to think about it instead of reacting and if you have to think about what to do, it's to late.

"Overall, I think both teams executed well and both teams were trying real hard. It's hard to get specific about things until we look at the films. From a general observance, I was pleased."

From an injury standpoint, the Rangers survived the scrimmage with the usual bumps and bruises. The most serious injury was a bruised shoulder to backup center Richard Kinsey, who isn't expected to miss much time, if any.

Next Friday, the Rangers will play their second scrimmage of the fall when they host Coahoma at 6 and 8 p.m. Greenwood opens the season on Sept., 4 with the junior varsity hosting McCamey at 6 p.m. On Sept., 5, the Rangers travel to McCamey for the varsity matchup at 8 p.m.

Dallas loses to Steelers

By ALAN SAYRE

IRVING (AP) — Bryan Hinkle returned a blocked field goal 65 yards for a touchdown and Rick Woods scored on a 22-yard interception return as the Pittsburgh Steelers defeated the Dallas Cowboys 41-28 in an NFL preseason game Friday night.

The victory was the first in three exhibition games for the Steelers while the Cowboys fell to 0-4.

Hinkle picked up the blocked kick by rookie Max Zendejas, who is trying to unseat veteran Dallas placekicker Rafael Septien, and ran untouched into the end zone 58 seconds before halftime.

Woods earlier picked off a pass by Dallas quarterback Danny White and scored as time ran out in the first quarter.

White hit Tony Hill with a 77-yard scoring strike in the second quarter.

Veteran Dallas tailback Tony Dorsett, who said he wants to be traded because of the signing of former USFL star Herschel Walker, ran 22 yards for a first-quarter touchdown.

Walker began practicing with the Cowboys this week but didn't suit up for the nationally televised game.

Dorsett, greeted by a loud chorus of boos when introduced to the Texas Stadium crowd of 54,299, set up the Steelers' first score when he fumbled at the Dallas 22.

After Dorsett's miscue, Steelers quarterback Mark Malone hit John Stallworth for a 18-yard gain, setting up Steve Morse's 1-yard touchdown run. John Anderson kicked field goals of 39 and 20 yards for Pittsburgh.

January-Claar rally to take lead in Seniors

JEREMY RANCH, Utah (AP) — Don January and Brian Claar came from 5 shots back to take a two-shot lead after two rounds of the $450,000 Showdown Classic Senior PGA Golf Tournament here Friday.

The pair birdied nine of the first 10 holes in the 72-hole best-ball tournament being played at the Jeremy Ranch about 30 miles east of Salt Lake City. They then added three more birdies to take the lead at 20-under-par, 124, in the round, delayed 55 minutes when a lightning storm passed over the area.

Thursday's leaders, Bobby Nichols and Curt Byrum, were tied for second at 18-under-par 126 with Gary and Wayne Player and Bob Goalby and Jay Haas. Each team has a PGA Senior player.

Claar was a last-minute replacement as January's partner.

"It's a pretty good fit so far," said January, the senior of the two golfers. "We could have been a little better. Both missed putts of three to four feet on the 16th hole, and Brian missed an eagle putt on No. 3."

Angels lose

EL PASO— The Midland Angels lost to El Paso's pennant bound Diablos, 8-7, here Friday night to fall behind in the series 2-0. The Texas League West Division rivals meet again tonight in a single game and play a doubleheader Sunday at Dudley Field.

TED BATTLES

Our readers always write

Come on now, Battles. Mountain climbing in Western Delaware? What do you take us for, a bunch of rubes who don't know what goes on in the rest of the world? It so happens we all know Delaware is the state with the lowest high point in the U.S., 60 feet above-sea-level...and you are going mountain climbing there?

Answer: That's the way I am. It doesn't matter how high the mountain may be. It's the challenge that counts.

In last week's Sports Illustrated they did an article on how baseball is bugged. Did that really happen in Midland, a game called because of grass hoppers?:

Answer: SI's John Gerrity was in Midland last summer verifying the details on the 1972 incident in Midland. The first game of the doubleheader was played without incident and when someone asked, as I came out of the locker room and headed for the press box for the second game, "Do you think they will call it?" I suspected they were selling loco weed at the concessions. It was a beautifully clear night with nary the sign of a cloud.

The grasshoppers were already making their assault by the time I arrived in the press box and the game was called in the first inning. The next night, another doubleheader, the grasshoppers were spotted marshalling their forces at the foot of the fence in the outfield for another dusk attack, but a spray stopped them.

Who were the managers that night?

Answer: Al Spangler was the manager of the Midland team and Denny Sommers, who was to manage Midland in 1976, was the manager of the Amarillo club.

I notice you made a reference to a six-pack of "Cool Aid" in a recent column. I'm sure you meant "Koolaid".

Answer: Brand names are not used friviously in the MRT, hence the reference to Cool Aid. In a graphic by Susan Conder, recently, a blimp was pictured and she was warned against using Goodyear on the side of the blimp. So she used Goodrich.

A recent reference indicated you wrote a story about the founding of the New York franchise of the American Football League. Why would someone in Texas write a story about the founding of a New York team in a New York paper?

Answer: The New York Jets (nee Titans) indeed came into being in Midland. Midlanders Don O'Shaughnessy, still here; Nash Dowdle, living in Vancouver; and Harry Wismer, well-known network radio broadcaster in those days, drew up the articles of organization at Midland Country Club. I guess if we had been as aggressive in claiming our rights over the years, Midland would have the team now instead of New Jersey.

An NFL draft at the Reporter-Telegram. I don't understand? What is it?

Answer: NFL leagues apparently aren't that unusual. "Team owners", who pay a princely sum for the privilege, in this case 12, draft skill-position players from the NFL player pool. From a 15-man roster, seven players are picked each Sunday by the team's coach, who also is the owner, to play on Sunday. A regular season schedule, shortened so that the real "Super Bowl" is played on the last day of the season, provides six matchups each weekend.

Points scored—six for TDs on passes, receptions, rushes and kicking points—by your team against those of your opponent that week determine the winner.

Since I had the very first draft pick, everyone is trying to make a trade for my quarerback Dan Marino. I'm doing my best, but some of the propositions are difficult to re-

Red Sox edge Cleveland, 4-3

Associated Press

CLEVELAND — Bill Buckner's two-run single in the seventh inning put the Boston Red Sox ahead 4-3 and they went on to defeat Cleveland 6-3 Friday night, giving them victories in all eight contests against the Indians this season.

The Red Sox routed Cleveland 24-5 Thursday night and have defeated the Indians in 11 consecutive contests over two seasons.

Bruce Hurst, 8-6, gained the victory as he yielded three runs, two of them earned, in 6 1-3 innings.

Calvin Schiraldi gained his sixth save with 2 2-3 innings of one-hit relief, retiring the final eight batters he faced. Schiraldi has five saves and one win in his last six appearances.

With Cleveland ahead 3-2, Wade Boggs singled leading off the seventh and moved to second on Marty Barrett's sacrifice. Losing pitcher Ken Schrom, 11-5, then hit Jim Rice with a pitch.

After Don Baylor flied out, Dwight Evans walked to load the bases. Scott Bailes relieved Schrom and Buckner lined an 0-2 pitch into right field for the tying and winning runs.

The Indians took a 2-1 lead in the bottom of the inning on an RBI double by Julio Franco and a run-scoring single by Joe Carter.

Jacoby singled in another Cleveland run in the fourth, but the Red Sox pulled to within 3-2 in the fifth on an RBI single by Baylor.

Boston added an insurance run in the eighth and Baylor homered to make it 6-3 in the ninth.

Yankees 3, A's 2

NEW YORK — Willie Randolph's eighth-inning single knocked in Rickey Henderson with the winning run, settling a pitching duel between Dennis Rasmussen, 13-4, and Joaquin Andujar, 7-6.

Henderson led off the eighth by reaching safely on a fielding error by A's first baseman Carney Lansford. Henderson stole second and, after bluffing a move to third, was balked to third by Andujar. Henderson scored when Randolph hit an opposite-field bloop single.

Dave Righetti pitched the ninth and became the first in the majors with 30 saves this season. Righetti retired Jose Canseco on a pop-up for the final out, extending his hitless streak to 0-for-37.

Andujar, who has lost four of his last five, gave up seven hits, walked three and struck out four.

After Mike Pagliarulo homered to lead off the third inning Joaquin Andujar, the A's went ahead 2-1 on a two-run homer by Lansford in the fourth.

Lenn Sakata singled before Lansford homered off Rasmussen, who has given up eight homers in his last seven games.

Orioles 8, Angels 7

BALTIMORE — Fred Lynn's run-scoring double off the glove of third baseman Doug DeCinces capped Baltimore's five-run rally in the eighth inning Friday night as the Orioles snapped a four-game losing streak.

Eddie Murray singled to open the inning and Jim Traber, who earlier had driven in a pair of runs, followed with a single to chase California reliever Gary Lucas.

Angels relief ace Donnie Moore, 2-5, yielded a pinch single to Juan Beniquez and consecutive two-run doubles to Floyd Rayford and pinch-hitter Jim Dwyer to tie the score 7-7.

Rich Bordi, 5-2, pitched 1 1-3 innings for the victory. Don Aase got his 30th save by pitching the ninth.

Brian Downing's 13th homer of the year and first since July 31 gave the Angels a 4-3 lead in the sixth.

Baltimore starter Mike Boddicker pitched hitless ball through the first four innings. But Downing walked to open the fifth and came around to score on singles by Bobby Grich and Dick Schofield.

The Angels added a run in the seventh on Bob Boone's third homer in four games and seventh of the year. The Oriole comeback denied California right-hander Don Sutton the 307th victory of his career.

Royals 4, Brewers 2

MILWAUKEE — Danny Jackson scattered four singles over 8 2-3 innings, and Hal McRae homered to start a three-run fourth.

Jackson, 9-8, struck out five and walked five in his second complete game. Dan Quisenberry got the final out for his 11th save.

McRae hit his sixth home run leading off the fourth. Two outs later Jim Sundberg walked and Darryl Motley singled. Angel Salazar then doubled to right, scoring Sundberg and Motley to give Kansas City a 3-0 lead.

Tigers 4, Mariners 1

DETROIT — John Grubb and Darnell Coles had RBI singles in Detroit's two-run fifth inning and rookie Eric King pitched a four-hitter.

King, 9-3 for the season and 5-0 in Tiger Stadium, walked two and struck out four en route to his third complete game. He retired the last 14 batters after hitting Phil Bradley with a pitch in the fifth inning.

Mike Morgan, 9-13, allowed three runs on five hits in 4 2-3 innings for Seattle.

Allen Trammell made it 4-1 with his 13th home run leading off the seventh, a shot off the facing of the second deck in left field off Seattle reliever Bill Swift.

Texas Ranger shortstop Scott Fletcher makes tag on attempted steal, but it's obvious from his expression that he paid a price.

Ward, Russell, spark Rangers

ARLINGTON (AP) — Gary Ward broke a fourth-inning tie with a two-run double and reliever Jeff Russell shut out Chicago on one hit for four innings as the Texas Rangers beat the White Sox 11-3 Friday night.

It was the seventh win without a loss for Texas against Chicago this season.

Ward's double, which snapped a 2-2 tie, made a loser of Chicago left-hander Floyd Bannister, 7-10, who lasted only 3 2-3 innings.

Russell, 5-2, replaced starter Mike Mason in the fifth after the Rangers' starter had given up consecutive singles to Tim Hulett, Harold Baines and George Foster with no outs, cutting Texas' lead to 4-3.

Russell got Carlton Fisk to hit into a double play and retired Russ Morman on a grounder to end the rally. Russell blanked the White Sox from the fifth through the eighth innings.

Foster, playing in his seventh game for the White Sox, ha two hits and drove in two runs.

Chicago got a run in the first an RBI single by Fisk, but Texas went ahead 2-1 in the second on the first of three Pete Incaviglia singles, a walk to Ward, an RBI single by Larry Parrish and Don Slaught's double-play grounder.

SWC not 'ideal' college setting

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Football Writer

Probation, indictments, illegal payments, rules and recruiting violations, drug charges.

Hardly the stuff of college athletics, except in the Southeastern and Southwest Conferences.

Since January 1985, seven of the 10 schools in the SEC and seven of the nine in the SWC have been faced or charged with some sort of impropriety.

Does that make them the cheatingest conferences?

Robert M. Barrett, a former FBI agent who now is the SEC's assistant commissioner for institutional relations, says flatly, "Absolutely not and I'll go to war on that one."

"I'm tired of us being picked out as the cheatingest conference when we are doing something about it and maybe they (other conferences) aren't. At least it's not come to light that they are."

THE SWC'S problems started in August 1985 when Southern Methodist University was hit with a stiff three-year probation for recruiting violations. The penalty included a record reduction of 45 scholarships over a two-year period, including the loss of all 30 this year.

That same month the NCAA ruled that high school basketball star Tito Horford could not compete for the University of Houston because of recruiting violations.

And then:

—September 1985, Texas Christian football Coach Jim Wacker drops seven players, including All-American running back Kenneth Davis, after it was learned that they received cash payments from boosters (in May, TCU is hit with a three-year probation for football violations).

—Also that month: Texas, Texas A&M and Texas Tech are the targets of investigations regarding illegal recruiting.

—December 1985, the Dallas Times Herald reports that Texas A&M had committed scores of violations since 1979. One former said he was paid $20,000 by a Dallas banker. Coach Jackie Sherrill said an internal investigation found no improprieties in the program.

—January 1986, Baylor's basketball program goes on probation for recruiting violations. Coach Jim Haller resigns a year earlier amid charges that he gave a player money for car payments.

"The SWC may be a little bit tougher than the SEC simply because of the close proximity of the schools," said one coach who has worked in both leagues but spoke on the condition he would not be identified.

"In the SWC, you have seven schools within 250 miles or so of each other. And everybody's program, except Rice, is good enough so they're all going to recruit the same kids.

"The alumni get after each other because it's a personal testimonial to them if they can outrecruit the other guy. I'd go to recruit a kid and some alumnus would ask, 'How much money is it going to take to get him?'

"SMU and TCU have a lot of oilmen as alumni and it got to the point where neither school could control what was going on. It was a personal vendetta for TCU to outrecruit SMU, and vice versa."

The severity of its probation, which also included a sharp reduction in scholarships, stunned TCU because the school thought its action in suspending the players and reporting the violations and cooperating with the NCAA would earn it some leniency.

"I thought it was a tremendously unwise move on the part of the NCAA, but it will not dim our approach to this problem," the SEC's Barrett said. "I've disagreed with them many times before, and I thoroughly disagree with that because here was a school that came forward and here was a coach who took immediate action.

"He has to be one of the gutsiest people that ever walked. I have the highest regard for Wacker. I think he should be president of the United States for that action. What he did was outstanding and he got slapped right in the face for it.

"Other schools are going to look at that. I've had schools tell me, 'Why should we do it? If we do it and we end up like them, what have we gained? Let them come find us.' That doesn't solve the problem. The problem is the violations," Barrett said.

THE SEC'S string of problems started with Georgia's football team being placed on probation by the NCAA for recruiting violations by boosters.

That same month, January 1985, the NCAA Council upheld a three-year probation against the University of Florida's football program for 59 rules violations. In May 1985, the SEC stripped the school of its 1984 championship.

Red Sox edge Cleveland, 4-3

Associated Press

CLEVELAND — Bill Buckner's two-run single in the seventh inning put the Boston Red Sox ahead 4-3 and they went on to defeat Cleveland 6-3 Friday night, giving them victories in all eight contests against the Indians this season.

The Red Sox routed Cleveland 24-5 Thursday night and have defeated the Indians in 11 consecutive contests over two seasons.

Bruce Hurst, 8-6, gained the victory as he yielded three runs, two of them earned, in 6 1-3 innings.

Calvin Schiraldi gained his sixth save with 2 2-3 innings of one-hit relief, retiring the final eight batters he faced. Schiraldi has five saves and one win in his last six appearances.

With Cleveland ahead 3-2, Wade Boggs singled leading off the seventh and moved to second on Marty Barrett's sacrifice. Losing pitcher Ken Schrom, 11-5, then hit Jim Rice with a pitch.

After Don Baylor flied out, Dwight Evans walked to load the bases. Scott Bailes relieved Schrom and Buckner lined an 0-2 pitch into right field for the tying and winning runs.

The Indians took a 2-1 lead in the bottom of the inning on an RBI double by Julio Franco and a run-scoring single by Joe Carter.

Jacoby singled in another Cleveland run in the fourth, but the Red Sox pulled to within 3-2 in the fifth on an RBI single by Baylor.

Boston added an insurance run in the eighth and Baylor homered to make it 6-3 in the ninth.

Yankees 3, A's 2

NEW YORK — Willie Randolph's eighth-inning single knocked in Rickey Henderson with the winning run, settling a pitching duel between Dennis Rasmussen, 13-4, and Joaquin Andujar, 7-6.

Henderson led off the eighth by reaching safely on a fielding error by A's first baseman Carney Lansford. Henderson stole second and, after bluffing a move to third, was balked to third by Andujar. Henderson scored when Randolph hit an opposite-field bloop single.

Dave Righetti pitched the ninth and became the first in the majors with 30 saves this season. Righetti retired Jose Canseco on a pop-up for the final out, extending his hitless streak to 0-for-37.

Andujar, who has lost four of his last five, gave up seven hits, walked three and struck out four.

After Mike Pagliarulo homered to lead off the third inning Joaquin Andujar, the A's went ahead 2-1 on a two-run homer by Lansford in the fourth.

Lenn Sakata singled before Lansford homered off Rasmussen, who has given up eight homers in his last seven games.

Orioles 8, Angels 7

BALTIMORE — Fred Lynn's run-scoring double off the glove of third baseman Doug DeCinces capped Baltimore's five-run rally in the eighth inning Friday night as the Orioles snapped a four-game losing streak.

Eddie Murray singled to open the inning and Jim Traber, who earlier had driven in a pair of runs, followed with a single to chase California reliever Gary Lucas.

Angels relief ace Donnie Moore, 2-5, yielded a pinch single to Juan Beniquez and consecutive two-run doubles to Floyd Rayford and pinch-hitter Jim Dwyer to tie the score 7-7.

Rich Bordi, 5-2, pitched 1 1-3 innings for the victory. Don Aase got his 30th save by pitching the ninth.

Brian Downing's 13th homer of the year and first since July 31 gave the Angels a 4-3 lead in the sixth.

Baltimore starter Mike Boddicker pitched hitless ball through the first four innings. But Downing walked to open the fifth and came around to score on singles by Bobby Grich and Dick Schofield.

The Angels added a run in the seventh on Bob Boone's third homer in four games and seventh of the year. The Oriole comeback denied California right-hander Don Sutton the 307th victory of his career.

Royals 4, Brewers 2

MILWAUKEE — Danny Jackson scattered four singles over 8 2-3 innings, and Hal McRae homered to start a three-run fourth.

Jackson, 9-8, struck out five and walked five in his second complete game. Dan Quisenberry got the final out for his 11th save.

McRae hit his sixth home run leading off the fourth. Two outs later Jim Sundberg walked and Darryl Motley singled. Angel Salazar then doubled to right, scoring Sundberg and Motley to give Kansas City a 3-0 lead.

Tigers 4, Mariners 1

DETROIT — John Grubb and Darnell Coles had RBI singles in Detroit's two-run fifth inning and rookie Eric King pitched a four-hitter.

King, 9-3 for the season and 5-0 in Tiger Stadium, walked two and struck out four en route to his third complete game. He retired the last 14 batters after hitting Phil Bradley with a pitch in the fifth inning.

Mike Morgan, 9-13, allowed three runs on five hits in 4 2-3 innings for Seattle.

Allen Trammell made it 4-1 with his 13th home run leading off the seventh, a shot off the facing of the second deck in left field off Seattle reliever Bill Swift.

Ward, Russell, spark Rangers

ARLINGTON (AP) — Gary Ward broke a fourth-inning tie with a two-run double and reliever Jeff Russell shut out Chicago on one hit for four innings as the Texas Rangers beat the White Sox 11-3 Friday night.

It was the seventh win without a loss for Texas against Chicago this season.

Ward's double, which snapped a 2-2 tie, made a loser of Chicago left-hander Floyd Bannister, 7-10, who lasted only 3 2-3 innings.

Russell, 5-2, replaced starter Mike Mason in the fifth after the Rangers' starter had given up consecutive singles to Tim Hulett, Harold Baines and George Foster with no outs, cutting Texas' lead to 4-3.

Russell got Carlton Fisk to hit into a double play and retired Russ Morman on a grounder to end the rally. Russell blanked the White Sox from the fifth through the eighth innings.

Foster, playing in his seventh game for the White Sox, ha two hits and drove in two runs.

Chicago got a run in the first on an RBI single by Fisk, but Texas went ahead 2-1 in the second on the first of three Pete Incaviglia singles, a walk to Ward, an RBI single by Larry Parrish and Don Slaught's double-play grounder.

SWC not 'ideal' college setting

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Football Writer

Probation, indictments, illegal payments, rules and recruiting violations, drug charges.

Hardly the stuff of college athletics, except in the Southeastern and Southwest Conferences.

Since January 1985, seven of the 10 schools in the SEC and seven of the nine in the SWC have been faced or charged with some sort of impropriety.

Does that make them the cheatingest conferences?

Robert M. Barrett, a former FBI agent who now is the SEC's assistant commissioner for institutional relations, says flatly, "Absolutely not and I'll go to war on that one."

"I'm tired of us being picked out as the cheatingest conference when we are doing something about it and maybe they (other conferences) aren't. At least it's not come to light that they are."

THE SWC'S problems started in August 1985 when Southern Methodist University was hit with a stiff three-year probation for recruiting violations. The penalty included a record reduction of 45 scholarships over a two-year period, including the loss of all 30 this year.

That same month the NCAA ruled that high school basketball star Tito Horford could not compete for the University of Houston because of recruiting violations.

And then:

—September 1985, Texas Christian football Coach Jim Wacker drops seven players, including All-American running back Kenneth Davis, after it was learned that they received cash payments from boosters (in May, TCU is hit with a three-year probation for football violations).

—Also that month: Texas, Texas A&M and Texas Tech are the targets of investigations regarding illegal recruiting.

—December 1985, the Dallas Times Herald reports that Texas A&M had committed scores of violations since 1979. One former said he was paid $20,000 by a Dallas banker. Coach Jackie Sherrill said an internal investigation found no improprieties in the program.

—January 1986, Baylor's basketball program goes on probation for recruiting violations. Coach Jim Haller resigns a year earlier amid charges that he gave a player money for car payments.

"The SWC may be a little bit tougher than the SEC simply because of the close proximity of the schools," said one coach who has worked in both leagues but spoke on the condition he would not be identified.

"In the SWC, you have seven schools within 250 miles or so of each other. And everybody's program, except Rice, is good enough so they're all going to recruit the same kids.

"The alumni get after each other because it's a personal testimonial to them if they can outrecruit the other guy. I'd go to recruit a kid and some alumnus would ask, 'How much money is it going to take to get him?'

"SMU and TCU have a lot of oilmen as alumni and it got to the point where neither school could control what was going on. It was a personal vendetta for TCU to outrecruit SMU, and vice versa."

The severity of its probation, which also included a sharp reduction in scholarships, stunned TCU because the school thought its action in suspending the players and reporting the violations and cooperating with the NCAA would earn it some leniency.

"I thought it was a tremendously unwise move on the part of the NCAA, but it will not dim our approach to this problem," the SEC's Barrett said. "I've disagreed with them many times before, and I thoroughly disagree with that because here was a school that came forward and here was a coach who took immediate action.

"He has to be one of the gutsiest people that ever walked. I have the highest regard for Wacker. I think he should be president of the United States for that action. What he did was outstanding and he got slapped right in the face for it.

"Other schools are going to look at that. I've had schools tell me, 'Why should we do it? If we do it and we end up like them, what have we gained? Let them come find us.' That doesn't solve the problem. The problem is the violations," Barrett said.

THE SEC'S string of problems started with Georgia's football team being placed on probation by the NCAA for recruiting violations by boosters.

That same month, January 1985, the NCAA Council upheld a three-year probation against the University of Florida's football program for 59 rules violations. In May 1985, the SEC stripped the school of its 1984 championship.

Guns aren't to be taken for granted

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Texas hunting season starts Sept. 1 and, unfortunately, there will be shooting accidents. Many Texans think they know all about gun safety, but it takes only one careless second for an accident to occur. Texas AP Sports Editor Denne Freeman found that out the hard way.

By DENNE H. FREEMAN

RICHARDSON (AP) — A gun accident was something that was never going to happen to me.

I started hunting when I was 10 years old and considered myself the safest person with guns I knew. Anyone who didn't respect guns was headed for trouble, and I told them so if I saw them violating safety fundamentals on a hunting trip. I never hunted a second time with anyone I considered careless.

I had read too many stories about hunting accidents. I had seen a hunter splattered with buckshot by a companion who had one too many beers, and read about pitching great Monty Stratton losing a leg when he crossed a fence with a loaded shotgun.

Nothing like that was ever going to happen to me.

Then it did, in one stupid second on a Saturday afternoon in the hallway of my home.

With a fishing trip and some target plinking planned, I got busy loading the pickup truck for an hour's drive. I decided at the last second to take along a two-shot, .22-caliber derringer I kept under the bed for protection against burglars.

I had talked myself into keeping it loaded because it was zipped in a case that would have to be removed before it ever could be fired.

But I failed to zip it all the way around.

As I walked through the entry hall to the door, the single-action pistol slipped from the case and landed hammer first on a hard brick floor, narrowly missing a rug that would have cushioned its fall.

The gun fired upward, the bullet passing up and through my leg and striking the ceiling. It's now a family joke that things could have been worse because it just missed a chandelier by inches.

Quick work by my wife, Judy, who always keeps emergency numbers on the refrigerator door, got the paramedics there in good order.

I'm on the mend, thanks to treatment by Dr. Walter Knight, an orthopedic surgeon who also has the Dallas Cowboys for a client; Dr. Phillip Williams, a neurosurgeon who retired Roger Staubach in 1979; and Dr. Bill Zedlitz, an old hunting buddy who was absolutely shocked at what I'd done to myself.

"I'd believe it of anybody but Denne," was the quote from Dr. Z's wife, Pat.

While in the hospital, others made confessions to me of gun-handling rules they had violated: Williams once had fired an "unloaded" deer rifle into the floor of his living room. Dr. Z had set down a shotgun and it fired a shot near his head.

Mike Massad, my next-door neighbor in Presbyterian Hospital, shuffled from his room to console me. He once made a different kind of hole-in-one: sinking a four-iron shot in a Pro-Am playing with former President Gerald Ford, Bob Hope and Ray Floyd.

"You're still luckier than I was," Massad said, trying to make me feel better.

However, what I had done was inexcusable. I had violated the oldest rule of gun handling: don't load a gun until you intend to use it.

If anything, I hope this column makes thousands of Texas hunters think twice about safety before dove season opens Sept. 1.

Don't ever think an accident won't find you if you make a mistake.

It found me.

Baptist Temple exhibits punch

Midland Baptist Temple had a little trouble in its scrimmage Thursday, hosting the tough defense of the Marathon Mustangs in a 30-6 loss.

Marathon opened the scoring with a 20-yard run by Pete Martinez, who added a second score in the second half of the game.

The MBT Eagles tied the score at 6-6 when Heath Kuhlmann hauled in a 30-yard pass from quarterback Josh Wasson.

In the second half, Marathon's Matthew Estrada scored three touchdowns for the final margin. It could have been closer, but the Eagles had one TD called back.

Defensively, Midland's Eli Kuhlmann led the way with eight tackles.

The Eagles will open their six-man season on Sept. 5, hosting Northeast Christian Academy of El Paso.

McCallister's 68 good for title

THE WOODLANDS (AP) — PGA Tour player Blaine McCallister fired a final-round 4-under-par 68 Friday to win the $28,000 Texas State Open Golf Championship by one shot.

McCallister, of Fort Stockton offset one double bogey and two bogies with eight birdies on the 7,042-yard Tournament Players Course. His winnings total $3,500.

The former University of Houston standout, who shot 72-70 the first two rounds, finished with a 210 total. He trailed second-round leader Gary Krueger of Sugar Land by two shots going into Friday's final round.

Week 3: It's time to worry

Reeves puts pressure on

Associated Press

It's Week Three of the NFL exhibition season, time for the veterans to start worrying. Just ask Dave Studdard and Paul Howard of the Denver Broncos.

When the Broncos play the San Francisco 49ers at Mile High Stadium Saturday night, Studdard and Howard will be on the bench watching rookie Jim Juriga and fourth-year man Mark Cooper in their jobs at left tackle and right guard.

"I want to see how they handle starting jobs," Denver Coach Dan Reeves said of his younger players. But he has also asked his two veterans they'd be willing to to accept demotions to backup status.

Most NFL coaches approach this week's games the same way as Reeves.

If the first two weeks were to weed out marginal rookies and free agents and next week as a final tuneup for the team that will start the season, the third week is to determine starting positions and the last five spots on the roster. A lot of veterans are vulnerable.

"We'll attack San Francisco a little more than we would a normal preseason opponent," Reeves said. "But it's still important for us to look at people and to work on things we want to use in the regular season."

THE 49ERS' hot seat belongs to Jeff Kemp and Mike Moroski, who will share the quarterback position in their continuing battle to back up Joe Montana, who will sit out the game with an ankle injury. "This will be a critical game for both Jeff and Mike," said San Francisco Bill Walsh, "although we don't exclude the possibility of carrying three quarterbacks."

NFL

Walsh also said rookies Tim McKyer will start at cornerback, where the 49ers are without the injured Eric Wright and the waived Dwight Hicks. Second-year man Tory Nixon and former USFL player Derrick Martin started there last week.

The other games Saturday include Washington at Tampa Bay; Green Bay at Cincinnati; Miami at Philadelphia; Cleveland at Atlanta; the New York Jets at the New York Giants; Detroit at Indianapolis; Buffalo at Kansas City; New Orleans at Houston; St. Louis at Chicago; San Francisco at Denver, and San Diego at the Los Angeles Rams.

ANOTHER veteran who will be tested Saturday is Cleveland quarterback Gary Danielson, who may test his arm against Atlanta for the first time since he had shoulder surgery last January. But Browns' Coach Marty Schottenheimer says he won't decide until the last minute whether to use Danielson, who missed most of 1985 because of the injury.

Schottenheimer, like the other coaches, is also using the game to make important decisions.

"At wide receiver we have quite a bit of competition," Schottenheimer said. "At that position, frankly, we've had difficulty evaluating players because we've been playing so many people that not many of them have had a lot of playing time."

The Jets, meanwhile, will use Freeman McNeil for the first time in their "Battle for New York" against the Giants. McNeil, the brilliant but brittle running back, was held out of the first two games to keep him fresh for the season.

"Freeman is itching to get in there and we need to get him some work," says Coach Joe Walton said. "He's such an important part of our offense and he needs to get going with the ball."

The Giants are still going without Joe Morris, who gained a team record 1,336 yards but is holding out in a contract dispute. He is being replaced by Lee Rouson, a second-year man.

Still, the game doesn't have the aura it had back in the days when the Jets were the newcomer from the American Football League.

"The fans take it more seriously than we do," Giants linebacker Andy Headen said. "Both teams play in New Jersey and there are bragging rights. But to us, it's just a preseason game. Maybe in the regular season, it would be different."

Wilander, Edberg in semis

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Top-seeded Mats Wilander and third-seeded Stefan Edberg, both of Sweden, survived tough matches Friday to reach the semifinals of the $375,000 Association of Tennis Professionals Championship in southwest Ohio.

Wilander edged Emilia Sanchez of Spain 6-4, 7-6, and Edberg needed two tiebreakers to beat Tim Wilkison of Ashville, N.C., 7-6, 7-6.

Wilander and Edberg will play a semifinal match Saturday.

In a later match Friday, fifth-seeded Mikael Pernfors of Sweden had an easy time bumping Kevin Curren of Austin, Texas, 6-1, 6-0.

Second-seed Jimmy Connors of Sanabel Harbor, Fla., was matched against Kent Carlsson of Sweden to decide Pernfors' opponent for the other semifinal on Saturday.

Edberg couldn't take control of his match with Wilkison, who lost to the Swede 6-3, 6-4 one week ago in Canada.

Edberg won the first-set tie-breaker 7-5, then forced the second set into another tiebreaker. He won the second one, 7-2.

Wilander won easily won his second-set tie-breaker 7-1 to advance to the semi-finals. Wilander lost last year's ATP Championship match to Boris Becker, who didn't play in this year's tournament.

Palmer big hit in underwear

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Former major league pitcher Jim Palmer, now pitching a brand of underwear, drew more than requests for autographs Friday during a promotional visit to a department store.

"What would you like me to write?" the 40-year-old Palmer asked one women who requested his autograph.

"Your phone number would be fine," she answered. "I know your name."

Palmer smiled. And signed his name.

He autographed giveaway T-shirts and Jockey for Her underwear that the company he represents is marketing.

Also free were a poster of Palmer dressed only in underwear and a photograph of him in his Baltimore Orioles uniform.

Sprinkled through the crowd of about 300, mostly women, were people holding baseballs. Some mothers got Palmer to autograph the baseball poster for their sons. Lingerie departments and underwear posters embarrass their sons, they said.

A 25-year-old man brought in four baseball cards of Palmer, including his rookie card.

"That's worth $38," said Palmer, now a sportscaster for ABC. The card lists him incorrectly as a left-hander.

In 1976, he and eight other athletes, including Pete Rose, were featured in a Jockey ad with the headline, "Take away their uniform and who are they?" The company got so many letters about Palmer that they decided to use him as the sole endorser.

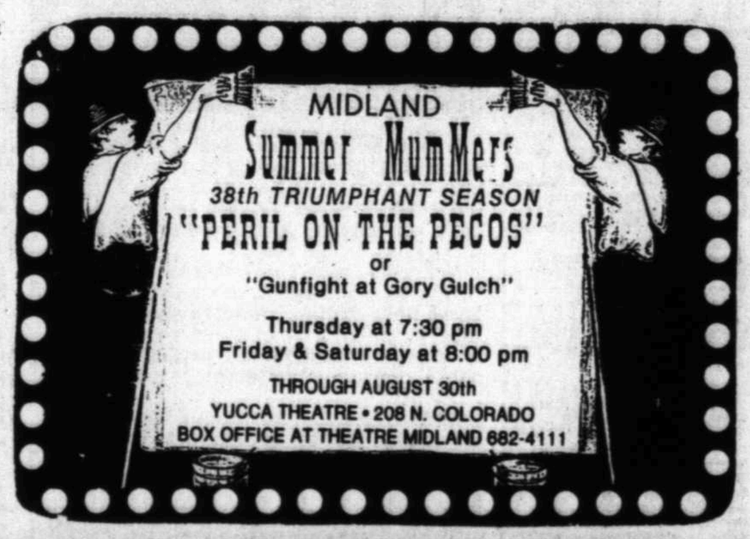

Five Longhorns holding breaths

AUSTIN (AP) — The University of Texas Longhorns upperclassmen have reported to practice for the first time this fall, but they were without five players who are waiting for summer school grades to see if they will be eligible.

The eligibility status of tailbacks Edwin Simmons and Eric Metcalf, tight end William Harris, defensive tackle Mike Finn and fullback Emanuel Limbrick should be known soon, Coach Fred Akers said.

Two players who needed summer school to be eligible were cleared. Wideout Everett Gay practiced twice Thursday, and defensive end Thomas Aldridge was cleared in time for the afternoon workout, UT said.

Akers said he was impressed with how much of the new offense the veterans had retained from the spring.

Juli Inkster leads on run of birdies

GALLOWAY TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Juli Inkster made three consecutive birdies Friday to produce a 4-under par 67 and a two-shot lead after one round of the $225,000 Atlantic City LPGA Classic at Marriott's Seaview CC.

Jane Geddes, Ayako Okamoto, Judy Dickinson, Penny Pulz and rookie Deb Richard all were tied for second place at 69.

Inkster, who is second on the LPGA earnings list this year with $241,524, rolled home a 4-foot birdie on the sixth hole, sank a 5-iron chip on the seventh and tapped home a 1-foot birdie on the eighth. She had made the turn at 1-under-33 after starting on the back nine of the 6,005-yard Bay course.

Richard was even par after 13 holes and came within one shot of the lead with a birdie on the eighth hole. However, she bogeyed the nine, her final hole of the day, and fell into a tie for second place.

"I played steady," said Richard, who had three birdies and one bogey.

Val Skinner, ranked No. 9 in this year's earnings, was tied with Patti Rizzo, Beth Daniel and Cathy Morse at 1-under-par 70.

Hall-of-Famer Kathy Whitworth and Amy Alcott both had 76s, while Jan Stephenson withdrew from the tournament early Friday because of mental fatigue.

Pat Bradley and Nancy Lopez are not in the 54-hole tournament, which concludes Sunday.

1943 — The Philadelphia Athletics lost their 20th straight game by dropping the opener of a double-header against the Chicago White Sox, but snapped the streak by winning the nightcap 8-1.

1971 — Ernie Banks hit the 512th and final home run of his career as the Chicago Cubs beat the Cincinnati Reds 5-4. Banks' homer came off Jim McGlothin in the first inning.

1975 — Ed Halicki of San Francisco hurled a 6-0 no-hitter against the New York Mets to lead the Giants to a sweep of a double-header. On the same day, Dave Lopes of Los Angeles stole his 38th consecutive base in the seventh inning against the Montreal Expos. Lopes' streak was snapped in the 12th inning when catcher Gary Carter threw him out. The Expos won 5-3 in 14 innings.

UT okays study center

AUSTIN (AP) — The men's Athletics Council at the University of Texas voted Friday to spend all that was asked for and a little extra to open a study center for Longhorn athletes.

A proposal approved by the council also calls for monitoring class attendance and makes it clear that head coaches must bear a large share of the burden for improving athletes' grades.

The council specifically voted to reaffirm the last paragraph of a memorandum from Athletic Director DeLoss Dodds to all head coaches, which states:

"The Athletics Council has considerable interest in the progress of our Academic Counseling Program. They will be kept apprised of our programs' progress and of our head coaches' involvement."

Council member Howard Richards, an Austin lawyer, said in the past that trying to convince certain coaches to help with academic programs had been "like wind through a tunnel."

Dodds said he had talked to all head coaches and they supported the renewed push for academics "100 percent."

Leon Black, assistant athletic director for student affairs, said, "We cannot conduct a program with results that will be satisfactory, the way we would like for them to be, unless we get maximum support from our coaches."

Catching Freedom . . .

"No river runs deep," so goes the saying, "until it finds its banks."

That has all sorts of meaning for families wanting to give meanings to children. Granting freedom to children so they can develop their native gifts and special individuality does not mean giving them the license to follow their immaturity to its logical end.

Lessons of limits are important for children to learn. They never will hit something in life by aiming at everything.

Life, to be deep, must be limited. And if life is real, it must have its limits respected. "No river runs deep until it finds its banks." And no child develops a deep and responsible life until the limits of life are learned and experienced on both small and large scales.

Of course, this respect for limits that grants ultimate freedom is more CAUGHT from parents than TAUGHT.

Baptist convention's board 'on verge' of takeover

RELIGION

New York Times News Service

ATLANTA — For eight years, fundamentalists in the Southern Baptist Convention have elected one of their own as the convention's president. Now, in 1986, they are finally strong enough to start exorcising the demon they call liberalism from America's largest Protestant denomination.

A recent independent survey shows that fundamentalists — who believe the Bible is the literal, indisputable word of God — are on the verge of gaining absolute control over the convention's key governing boards.

When they do, they will have the power to put a fiercely and almost indelibly conservative stamp on their denomination, because they will control its six seminaries that teach 12,000 ministerial students each year; its 7,000 missionaries who preach the gospel in the U.S. and abroad; and the thousands of books and pamphlets that reach millions of Southern Baptist readers.

"The national convention, for all intents and purposes, has been taken away from us," said the Rev. Al Wright of nearby Duluth, who is Georgia state coordinator of Concerned Southern Baptists, a group representing the moderates, the denomination's loosely organized opposition.

Like other moderates — who believe the Bible is open to interpretation — Wright fears the fundamentalists, once in control, will do what some of them have long advocated: require seminary professors, missionaries and Sunday School books to preach that the Bible is literally true, or face dismissal.

If this happens, it will be because for eight years, fundamentalist presidents have made ample use of their one real power, the right to appoint a handful of trustees each year to the boards that run the Southern Baptist national agencies.

According to the survey, which reflects the views of both sides in the fight, committed fundamentalists now control more than one-third of the seats on:

— The Sunday School Board, which oversees the world's largest religious publishing house;

— The Home and Foreign Mission boards, which together supervise an army of domestic and foreign missionaries, more than any other American denomination.

— The Christian Life Commission, the body that decides the denomination's official stands on moral and social issues;

— The boards that oversee three of the denomination's six seminaries and have ultimate authority over the careers of the professors and administrators there.

— The Executive Committee, which controls the purse strings for these and other groups.

What will fundamentalist control of these boards mean?

The Rev. Robert Tenery, a North Carolina fundamentalist who sits on the 83-member Sunday School Board, offers an answer: "I think you're going to see some policy changes. I think all through Southern Baptist life, the policies of the past have lost institutions for us."

Taking as an example the Sunday School Board, which publishes books and materials for Baptists around the world, Tenery said fundamentalists will not support any writings that do not take the Bible literally, from the divine creation of the world through the miracles of the New Testament.

"You're going to see more care exercised in the selection of writers to make sure that Sunday School literature stays in that mainstream of the Southern Baptist Convention, which is now conservative." Future Sunday School literature, Tenery said, "will have an exciting, distinctly conservative flavor to it."

It's talk like that that alarms Southern Baptist moderates, who say fundamentalists are rejecting an historic spirit of diversity and toleration within the 14.5 million member denomination.

"Religious liberty," said the Rev. Jim Strickland, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Cartersville. "That has been the hallmark of Southern Baptists and that is what's in danger."

In response, fundamentalists argue that they represent the denomination's emerging majority. They maintain they are infusing Southern Baptist life with the energy of renewal, rescuing the denomination from the decline experienced by other religious groups which they say have succumbed to the enervating spirit of liberalism.

The survey of Southern Baptist boards was taken by the Rev. Larry Coleman, a moderate pastor from North Syracuse, N.Y., who researched the presidents' appointments, checking on the theological leanings of each new trustee through people who know them.

With this information, Coleman divided the trustees into fundamentalists, moderates and swing voters — who would vote with one side, then the other, depending on the issue. On almost all the boards, he found fundamentalists to be stronger than moderates, with plenty of evidence that the conservative tide is gaining with each year's appointments.

To get the view from the fundamentalist side, The Atlanta Journal and The Atlanta Constitution sought comment from the Rev. Paige Patterson and Judge Paul Pressler, two Texans who are considered the architects of the current string of fundamentalist victories. Both men generally agreed with Coleman's findings.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

'Old Fashion Days' begin at Goodwill Baptist church

"The Days of Old Fashion" is the appropriately titled program that will be held on the grounds of the Goodwill Baptist Church, Sunday at 1508 S. Main.

"It's a celebration like Thanksgiving," said a church spokesman of the day of worship, singing, food, and fellowship.

"The Byrd family of Big Spring will be on hand to share their talent, as well as the Mt. Rose Choir from Sweetwater," said the spokesman. Services will be 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The Senior Mission Society of the Goodwill Baptist Church, sponsors of The Days of Old Fashion, and the Rev. M.A. Brown, pastor, invites the public to the day-long celebration.

Music for this and the Park Rally will be provided by the Midland-Odessa Enlightment Choir, United Spiritual Singers today and the Light of Praise Sunday. All choirs are being directed by Curtis Butler, Mt. Rose Baptist Church.

Chairpersons of this event are Linda Bailey, St. Paul CME Church, and Wanda McGrew, Macedonia Baptist Church. Other sponsors include the Rev. B. Ashely, B. Brazell and A. Gilbert, all of Macedonia Baptist Church; T. Powell and S. Holland, both of New Jerusalem Baptist Church; R. Brown of Mt. Carmel Baptist Church; the Rev. R. Lathan, pastor of Mt. Calvary Baptist Church; R. Christian and Ms. Sanders of St. Martthews Baptist Church, Odessa; D. Nelson and the Rev. R. McNeil, St. James Baptist Church, Odessa; and the Rev. D. Flinn, pastor of Freedom Baptist Church, Odessa.

All youth are invited to participate by calling any of the sponsoring churches.

Speaker talks to fellowship

ODESSA — Women's Aglow Fellowship of Odessa will hear featured speaker, Betty McNerlin of Midland, 10 a.m. Sept. 3 at the Roadway Inn, South Grant and Interstate 20 in Odessa.

Mrs. McNerlin and her husband, Glen, longtime pastors in Midland, have ministered extensively as speakers, counselors, and in radio broadcasts throughout the Permian Basin.

All area women are invited to attend the meeting.

There is no charge and nursery facilities will be by reservation.

For nursery arrangements, call Melba at 362-4764.

Youth rally ends Sunday

"Youth Pressing Toward the Mark," the second annual Youth Enlightment Rally, ends Sunday at the New Jerusalem Baptist Church, 1801 N. Carver St.

The rally is for youth in the 7th through 12th grades.

"The purpose of the event is to provide Christian awareness in the daily lives of today's youth, to encorage youth to make Christ a part of their active daily lives, to further culminate fellowship among denominations and to bring the Christian community together in a spirit of fellowship as well as the opportunity to plan and work together," said a rally spokesman.

Activities will culminate at 3 p.m. Sunday with a special service. Guest speaker will be the Rev. O.J. Archie, pastor of Macedonia Baptist Church.

Youth get outdoor service

Jim Hayes

Jim Hayes, pastor of Calvary Tabernacle, 1201 Tejas in Midland, has announced an outdoor service for the youth department.

It will be called "Youth Alive," and is slated for 8 to 10 p.m. Aug. 29 on the parking lot of the Town and Country shopping center, corner of Midkiff and Andrews Highway.

The youth will be singing gospel. The public is invited.

Mother's Day Out offered

The Kelview Heights Baptist Church is offering a Mother's Day Out Program Thursdays, beginning in September.

The program will be for church families as well as non-church families and is for children up to 5 years old.

In addition, Kelview Heights is starting a Ladies Bible Study from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m. Tuesdays, beginning Sept. 2.

For more information on these programs call 682-3842 or go by the church office at 402 W. Scharbauer Drive.

Computerized Bible index: 'The Word Processor'

AUSTIN (AP) — Bible Research Systems of Austin isn't a garage-shop operation anymore.

In just over four years, the little computer software house has acquired a solid grasp on the international market for a speciality product: a $199.95 computerized concordance of the Bible for ministers, Sunday school teachers, high-tech missionaries and independent scholars dubbed The Word Processor.

Since its beginnings in 1982 in the Northwest Austin home of co-owner Bert Brown, Bible Research has shipped more than 15,000 copies of its hit program worldwide.

And it has moved into new quarters at 2013 Wells Branch Parkway.

"My wife got tired of the phone at home ringing all night long," Brown explained.

These days, Brown's biggest problems are remembering to put plain, brown wrappers on programs shipped to customers in the Islamic Middle East, where Christian religious material is frowned on, and trying to satisfy South African patrons whose government prohibits transfer of money out of a nation embroiled in a civil war.

"Someone there cannot just mail us a check," Brown said. "It takes many, many phone calls and letters to get government approval. So we no longer initiate sales there."

Bible Research does most of its assembly and shipping of The Word Processor from its new office near the Wells Branch subdivision. The company also has assembly facilities in Australia and it used to have them in England.

"We stopped assembling in England after we found out that the royal family charges a manufacturing tax on the King James version of the Bible on which they consider themselves to hold the copyright," Brown said with a smile.

But The Word Processor doesn't just come in the King James version of the world's first bestseller and still its most popular book. After almost five years of negotiation with the International Bible Society, Bible Research now offers its Bible concordance in both the 400-year-old King James translation and the modern New International Version as well.

"To my knowledge," Brown said, "we are the first computer version of that translation to be authorized by the publisher."

The Word Processor is more than printed text translation to a digital format on floppie disks for reading on a video screen. The program is a concordance — a reference of words or phrases in a book — that can analyse the intersections of concepts such as "faith" and "love" anywhere in the text.

Users of more than 60 brands of personal computers — half of them the IBM PC and its clones — can use the program to search the entire Bible for intersections of a word or phrase in about 45 minutes — or the four books of the Gospels in about five minutes.

The program's usefulness is attributed to the expertise of its creators, Brown and his partner Kent Ochel. Both are experienced computer programmers. Brown, 43, helped design the data base management system for the Apollo series of rockets that carried astronauts to the moon. Ochel, 47, is a former president of the systems division of Intel Corp., makers of computer chips and office computers.

Brown and Ochel launched The Word Processor with small ads in computer magazines and, later, two guest appearances on the Christian Broadcasting Network's cable TV program, "The 700 Club." One of their first customers was a 70-year-old Sunday school teacher in California. Sales have climbed steadily ever since.

Bible Research's next move wasn't so successful: a religious computer game. Bible Baseball awarded hits and runs for correct answers in a bible quiz. But few sales were made and, with the concurrent decline in popularity of computer games, the product was dropped.

"I think people are more interestd in tools than toys," Brown said. "So our focus has been more and more into in-depth personal study of the Bible."

Thus, the company has developed several add-on products for its main seller. A Greek transliterator priced at $199.95 was introduced in 1984 and, in March, one in Hebrew for $249.95.

Three country stars to sing together

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singers Emmylou Harris, Dolly Parton and Linda Ronstadt will make a rare public performance together at the Country Music Association awards show Oct. 13 on national television, the CMA says.

The trio will sing the song "Dear Companion," which is on an album they have collaborated on, the association said Thursday.

The album has been in the works for several years and is due for release early next year.

In 1977, the three joined voices to record the Christmas song "Light of the Stable."

CLINTON, Ind. (AP) — Actor Ken Kercheval was along to encourage the bidders as 400 people thronged to his mother's yard for a chance to bid on items that the "Dallas" star had touched.

Kercheval, who plays Cliff Barnes on the television show, worked the auction-day crowd, signing autographs on everything that was shoved in front of him.

"I ate Jell-O out of every one of those...bowls out there," he said, trying to pump more interest into the bidding Tuesday.

He and his mother, Christine Kercheval, needn't have worried. Everything from pitchers with no handles to chairs with no arms was snapped up.

HOUSTON (AP) — Singer David Crosby, recently paroled from a Texas prison on narcotics and weapons charges, joined his former partner, Graham Nash, for an emotional concert reunion at a Houston nightclub.

"Thinking about this is what kept me going," Crosby told the enthusiastic audience Thursday after he came on stage midway through Nash's set.

"I've been waiting for this for almost a year," Nash replied.

Crosby, who gained fame as a member of the Byrds in the mid-1960s, later teamed with Nash as part of another hit group, Crosby, Stills, Nash and Young. They sang several songs from their past.

Crosby also sang a song he composed during his five months in prison. He was convicted in 1983 after being arrested in Dallas on charges of possession of cocaine and possession of a firearm.

"I don't regret any of it," Crosby said told the crowd Thursday.

"But don't do it again," one audience member answered.

"Not as long as I have this," Crosby said.

Crosby was released Friday from a Houston halfway house where he had been staying after California officials granted him permission to return there, Texas officials said.

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — The son of country music star Ricky Skaggs was doing well after a second operation to repair damage from a gunshot wound, Roanoke Memorial Hospitals said.

Seven-year-old Andrew Lee Skaggs was listed in satisfactory condition Friday in the pediatric intensive care unit, and no complications had surfaced from Thursday's surgery to repair the lining of the carotid artery in his neck, said spokeswoman Sally Ramey.

Doctors predicted he will remain in the hospital another five to seven days, she said.

The surgery performed by Dr. Rahmat Seif was the second in five days for the boy, who was brought into the hospital Sunday night with the wound suffered when a trucker allegedly fired a shot through the window of the car in which the youngster was riding with his mother, Brenda Skaggs.

The first operation was to remove the bullet from the boy's throat.

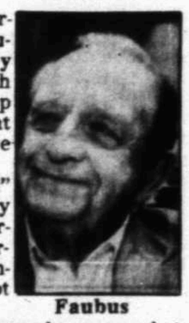

Skaggs joined his first wife at the hospital Thursday during the surgery. Mrs. Skaggs said hospital personnel told her the bullet just missed her son's jugular vein. "It was a miracle that it hit exactly where it did," she said.

Trucker Edward Dean Duehring, 36, of Germantown, Md., was arrested about two hours after the shooting. He is charged with malicious wounding, shooting into an occupied vehicle, possession of a stolen weapon, possession of cocaine, methamphetamine and marijuana, and use of a firearm in the commission of a felony. He is being held on $125,000 bond.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Former Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus writes that John F. Kennedy avoided being photographed with him during a 1960 campaign stop and speculates that if the incident had been publicized it might have cost Kennedy the White House.

Former Faubus aide W.J. "Bill" Smith said Friday that Kennedy avoided a meeting with the governor. Former U.S. Rep. Oren Harris said Friday he only remembered the occasion as an attempt to bring the men together.

Faubus

The incident happened after Kennedy appeared at the Texarkana 4-State Fair on Sept. 13, 1960, Faubus writes in "Down From The Hills-II," the $25-a-copy second volume of his memoirs.

The date was about three years after international publicity about Faubus' decison to use the Arkansas National Guard to block nine black students from entering all-white Little Rock Central High School. Faubus has maintained ever since that the action was necessary to preserve peace. Later in September 1957, President Dwight D. Eisenhower ordered 1,100 soldiers of the 101st Airborne Division into Little Rock to desegregate Central High.

Faubus, who served six terms as governor from 1955-67, said the incident at the Texarkana airport had never been revealed or publicized.

He wrote, "I truly believe that had the occurence become known, it would have cost Kennedy the state and possibly hurt him in others. With the final outcome of the presidential contest so close nationally, the incident might have cost him the presidency."

Faubus wrote that he was accompanied to the Texarkana airport after Kennedy's fair appearance by Smith and the late Pat Mehaffy, then a Democratic national committeeman from Arkansas and later a federal judge. Harris was riding with Kennedy, and the governor's party decided to wait for the presidential nominee.

When Kennedy arrived, he went aboard the plane with Harris without acknowledging the governor's party, Faubus writes, adding that Harris emerged a short time later and came to Faubus' car.

He quotes Harris as saying, "Sen. Kennedy said to tell you that there was a news photographer nearby who wanted to get a picture of him shaking hands with you." Faubus said Harris told him the photograph would be delivered "to a radical Negro group in New York where it would be publicized to turn members of that group against him (Kennedy)."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Dowries outlawed to try and stop bride-burning

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Parliament passed a tough law Friday that outlaws dowries in a bid to stop the practice of burning to death brides who do not bring as much property to their marriage as the groom's family wants.

The bill, which still needs the signature of President Zail Singh to become law, provides for life imprisonment for some dowry offenses and makes some of them non-bailable.

Bride-burning already is considered murder and can be punishable by death, but such killings usually are camouflagued as cooking accidents and rarely are proven.

During debate Friday some members of parliament denounced Indian mothers-in-law as most often responsible for pushing their sons to murder their wives out of dissatisfaction with the dowry.

P.J. Kurien of the governing Congress Party branded the mother-in-law as "the most venomous person" in Indian society, and demanded that they be barred from an advisory board provided by the new law.

Storm on way to Okinawa

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Typhoon Wayne headed towards Okinawa on Friday after it lashed central Taiwan, leaving at least 22 people dead, 110 injured and nine missing, authorities said.

Flooding, collapsing houses and uprooted trees were the main causes of the deaths and injuries, police said.

They said more than 600 boats capsized in the typhoon, including 500 boats in the Pescadores islands 24 miles west of Taiwan.

The Central Weather Bureau reported that Wayne, with winds of up to 82 miles an hour, triggered floods in coastal areas and disrupted land and air traffic. About 500 coastal residents were evacuated, police said.

Police in Chiayi, 140 miles southwest of Taipei, said in a telephone interview that about 300 houses had been flooded and 5,000 acres of rice paddies and fishponds were damaged by floods and heavy rains.

Freed colonel hospitalized

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The army's 62-year-old chief of protocol, released in a cold rain after four days in the hands of leftist guerrilla kidnappers, was under treatment in a hospital Friday for high blood pressure.

The abductors freed Col. Mario Haeberle late Thursday after driving him to a residential section of Santiago. Relatives said Haeberle arrived home and then went to the army hospital to have a heart ailment checked.

Seven gunmen of the communist-led Manuel Rodriguez Patriotic Front, which is waging an armed campaign against military rule in Chile, seized Haeberle from his driveway at home Monday morning and eluded a citywide search by thousands of police and soldiers.

It was the second abduction by the three-year-old urban guerrilla group to publicize its battle against President Augusto Pinochet, the army commander who seized power in a 1973 coup and insists on ruling at least until 1989.

Haeberle wrote to his wife during captivity that he was handcuffed and treated like a prisoner but not tortured. He said he became nauseous for lack of prescribed pills for a heart ailment.

U.S. won't be allowed to train Contras in Honduras

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — The government said Friday it won't allow the United States to use Honduran territory to train Contra rebels fighting neighboring Nicaragua's leftist government.

Foreign Minister Carlos Lopez Contreras announced the decision after attending a meeting of the Honduran Nationa Security Council, which discussed the issue behind closed doors. The council is headed by President Jose Azcona Hoyo.

"My government will not permit the so-called anti-Sandinista Contras to use our territory to be trained by American soldiers. This situation has already been duly clarified with the United States," Lopez Contreras said.

"The decision has already been made by the government...and it will not be modified," he said.

In Washington, Pentagon officials said Thursday they were drafting plans for a training program as part of a $100 million Contra aid package recently approved by Congress.

"The planning is going on but nothing is set in concrete," said a Pentagon official who spoke on condition of anonymity. The official said a decision was expected by the end of September.

The United States has been supporting the Contras, sometimes covertly, during the past four years as part of its policy of pressuring the Sandinistas to cut their close military ties with Cuba and the Soviet Union. The United States considers these ties a threat to Central American security.

American troops regularly are stationed in Honduras and take part in joint exercises with Honduran troops.

CIA-contracted military instructors have trained Contra rebels in the past at isolated camps in Honduras, usually well-guarded and frequently off limits. The Contras operate from just inside the Honduran border.

U.S.S.R. making it hard for family to go to Israel

MOSCOW (AP) — A woman who wants to go to Israel to donate bone marrow to her seriously ill brother said Friday Soviet officials have said she and her family can emigrate.

However, in order to do so, her husband needs a document he can't obtain.

Inessa Flerov said officials' demand for the document, a financial release form from her husband's family, may be an attempt by the Soviet government to divide her family by pressuring her to leave alone.

"My wife is in the most terrible situation," said her husband, Viktor Flerov. "On the one hand, her brother is waiting there (in Israel). On the other hand, she understands that after (she leaves for Israel), we may not see each other again."

Mrs. Flerov's brother, 31-year-old Michael Shirman, emigrated to Israel six years ago and was diagnosed last year as having leukemia. A bone-marrow transplant from a sibling could prolong his life, Israeli doctors have said.

The Flerovs and their two daughters applied to emigrate to Israel together so Mrs. Flerov could make the bone marrow donation. She went on a hunger strike last weekend to protest what she called Soviet delays in giving her family exit visas.

Col. Rudolf Kuznetsov, the head of the Interior Ministry's Department of Visas and Registrations, told the Flerovs on Wednesday that they can leave the Soviet Union, Mrs. Flerov told The Associated Press by telephone. Her husband said she ended the hunger strike then.

But Mrs. Flerov said all potential emigres are required to submit statements from their parents that the departure will not financially harm the remaining family members, and her husband's father refuses to sign such a declaration.

Parents opposed to their adult children's emigration sometimes try to prevent their departure by refusing to sign the financial release.

Kuznetsov told the couple that Mrs. Flerov could leave now, and her husband and daughters could leave later, once the document from Flerov's father is obtained.

"We think this is a bureaucratic maneuver aimed at dividing our family," Mrs. Flerov said.

The Flerovs said they will continue to insist that the family be allowed to leave together.

House OKs branch, interstate banking

By DAVID PLESA
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A House committee Friday approved an interstate banking bill and a plan to legalize branch banking in counties with populations of 250,000 or more.

The House Committee on Financial Institutions voted to send the banking package to the full House to be debated probably late next week, said committee chairman Rep. Bruce Gibson, D-Godley.

The Senate approved a similar banking package Thursday.

An amendment to the branch banking bill by Rep. Stan Schlueter, D-Saledo, would limit branch banking to counties with populations of 250,000 or more. The committee approved the amendment in a 5-4 vote.

Gibson, who voted against the amendment, said the measure would prohibit branch banking in 243 of the 254 counties in the state. Banks in Midland County, with 97,400 people, and Ector County, with 134,000 people, would not be able to branch.

"It denies the rural areas the competition and convenience that urban customers are going to have, Gibson said.

"I'll be looking for support to go back to the original bill or to a much lower (population) number," he said.

Branch banking, which would require a constitutional amendment to become law, would allow banks to operate up to three branches within the same county or city as the main bank office. A branch also could operate two drive-up facilities within 1,000 feet of the branch office.

Interstate banking would allow out-of-state holding companies that meet certain requirements to acquire Texas banks.

Proponents say interstate banking will inject new capital into Texas banks faltering from the bleak economy. Opponents say out-of-state financial groups will drain the state of its capital and make it difficult for Texans to get loans.

The bill requires that no out-of-state holding company can control more than 25 percent of all deposits held by Texas banks. The bill also stipulates that a majority of a bank's board of directors be Texans, and it gives the banking commissioner authority to oversee acquisitions.

The committee voted against an amendment by Brad Wright, R-Houston, that would have restricted the total deposits of all state banks owned by out-of-state holding companies to 50 percent of all deposits in the state.

"This means that half of the deposits will remain in our state," Wright said.

"If we pass this bill as it's drawn, in all likelihood there will not be Texas-controlled banks in the future," he said.

Let's Talk Real Estate...

Joanne Langston

One encouraging factor in Midland's current economic picture is continuing strenght in the local real estate market.

A flurry of July and early August transaction, at lease in our office, seem to be fueled by incoming transferees getting settle prior to the opening of school plus an encouraging number of move-ups and first time home buyers taking advantage 9 1/2-10 1/2% interest rates, and moderating prices on a wide selection of homes.

In fact, as a personal observation, in my 20 years in the business, I have seldom seen so many fine properties for sale in all price ranges! I would certainly encourage would-be buyers to call any of our agents for apreview of today's exceptional market.
