Hundred Armed Citizens And Officers Begin Man Hunt At Brownsville; Cordon Is Thrown About City

Crowds Gather About Police Station And All Roads Are Blocked; Girl Seized While Kneeling Over Grave

(By The Associated Press)

BROWNSVILLE, Jan. 22. — Seized as she knelt over her mother's grave, a young white girl was brutally attacked by a negro here this afternoon.

In an histerical condition, the girl went to a nearby house and tried to talk to its Mexican inhabitants, but because of her strange actions she was at first refused admission. Later she was taken to her home, in an exclusive residential section, and officers were notified.

A hundred armed officers and private citizens quickly threw a cordon about the city, blocking all roads, and began a man hunt. Feeling ran high, and crowds gathered around the police station and in other places.

Officers said they believed the negro would be caught, because of the few outlets from Brownsville and the small negro population. The man was described as of large statute, and having a disfigured nose.

Two Swindled Of Thousands

Wealthy Board Of Review Member Loses $50,000 Given Women Internal Revenue Collector; Plays Faro

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—A swindle in which Edward R. Litsinger, wealthy member of the board of review, lost $50,000 advanced in cash to Mrs. Myrtle Tanier Blacklidge, collector of internal revenue at Chicago, became public today with charges by Litsinger that the woman was to blame for his loss.

Mrs. Blacklidge, admitting she had procured the money from Litsinger, retorted that she had been bilked of the borrowed cash and papin winnings of $207,000 by three men in a faro game at a Springfield, Ill., hotel and averred she was as much a victim of the swindlers as her political friend.

Litsinger declared in a long statement he knew nothing of any faro game, but had advanced the money to help her obtain $90,000 due from associates of her late husband in a confidential business.

Mrs. Blacklidge asserted Litsinger knew she had won the stakes in faro and was lending her the money to make good a check used as stakes in the game so she could collect her winnings.

Mrs. Blacklidge was free tonight in Springfield after examination by the state's attorney while Litsinger had offered $2,000 reward for the capture of any of the three bunco men into whose clutches his money had been placed a tthe behest of the woman.

Litsinger announced he would prosecute "everyone involved in this crime."

Cerf is the son of L. N. Cerf wealthy banker. He was picked up on a street here by several men in an automobile and confined for a short time in a house near Dallas.

Lubbock Will Observe Day Of Fast Today With Funds To Go To Charity

TODAY has been designated a day of fast in Lubbock.

With the support of business and professional men, civic leaders, college officials and the public in general pledged to the plan, Lubbock will observe what is believed to be the first city-wide fast ever held for the poor.

The movement is a voluntary one. No one has been asked to go without food, but those who participate will voluntarily go without all or a part of their meals, giving the money which otherwise would have been spent for food to the poor.

Persons in close touch with the plan estimated yesterday that anywhere from $1,000 to $3,000 might be received, with a possibility of the amount nearing $5,000. Such a figure is possible, if the adult population of the city will average 50 cents each in donations.

Population of Lubbock is in excess of 20,000, of which one-fourth is children in school. Probably nearly as many are below school age, leaving around 10,000 adults.

According to Rev. W. P. Jennings yesterday, an average of 50 cents is believed possible from most of those who will voluntarily observe the day.

"We will not use any of the money for salaries or expenses—all will be used to buy food for the poor and needy," the minister, who is connected with the United Charities, explained. "We are placing bottles or boxes in all banks, drug stores and other places downtown. On Sunday we will have boxes in the vestibules of the churches.

No one is to be asked to fast. It is all purely voluntary. Those who do so are asked to drop the money in one of the bottles.

"There will be many old people who will want their toast and coffee for breakfast. But they can observe the rest of the day. It will be hard for children to fast all day, but many I am sure, will be willing to miss lunch," Rev. Jennings said.

The plan was suggested by Dr John C. Granbery, member of the faculty of Texas Technological college, who submitted it to the ministerial association. That body endorsed the plan, as did a number of other groups. City officials also gave their approval.

As far as has been learned here, no other city has tried the fast day in a city-wide way. The only group plan known here is one from the University of Boston where 300 students in observing the plan, contributed around $150.

Arson Reward Offered Here By City Dads

City Commission Will Post $1,000 For Conviction On Arson Charge; Creation Of Fire Prevention Board Up

A $1,000 reward will be posted by the city for inforamtion leading to the arrest and conviction of any person found guilty of arson, the city commission decided at its meeting Thursday afternoon at city hall.

Posting of a $1,000 arson reward had been recommended by T. F. Justiss, inspector for the state fire insurance commission, who recently investigated several conflagrations here and conferred with Lubbock insurance agents.

May Create Board

Creation of a fire prevention board also was disclosed Thursday by the commission, although no action was taken on the proposal. J. W. Deweese, state fire insurance commisisoner, had suggested that such a board be formed.

Third reading of an ordinance closing the alley of block 4, Merrill addition, at the request of Magnolia Petroleum company, was held. The city reserved the right to construct utilities through the alley and held the Magnolia company liable for damages which might acrue as a result of closing of the alley. The petroleum company has announced that a warehouse, filling station and storage tanks will be erected in the block. Third reading of the ordinance was necessitated by new insertions.

Grasping an opportunity to take up City of Lubbock six-per cent warrants aggregating $22,000, the commission moved to do so with money available for that purpose in the sinking fund. A total of $20,-

Drouth Aid Plan Told To Farmers

ABILENE, Jan. 22. (AP)—Several hundred West Texas farmers, county agents, bankers and others, in Abilene today, heard O. B. Martin and his associates from the Texas A. & M. extension service outline the regulations covering the $45,000,000 federal fund for drouth relief. The Texas allotment is computed at about $3,750,000 and to date 32 West Texas counties have been certified by the secretary of agriculture as eligible to participate.

There will be other certifications, Martin said. He has, in fact, certified to the secretary six adidtional counties—Archer, Brown, Comanche, Erath, Floyd and McCulloch—but these have not been officially designated as eligible to participate in the fund.

Chamber Of Deputies Defeats French Premier And His Cabinet On Wheat Stabilization Movement

PARIS, Jan. 22 (AP)—The French chamber of deputies tonight overthrew the government of Premier Theodore Steeg, thereby serving notice that France is not going to pay $2 a bushel for wheat when it is selling for 80 cents in Chicago and around 60 in Winnipeg.

The cabinet fell by a vote of 293 against 283, after an existence of five and one half weeks and straight away prepared its resignation.

Fireworks Started

A government plan to stabilize the price of wheat at $2 a bushel started the fireworks. When the opposition began gunning for Victor-Boret, the minister of agriculture, Premier Steeg staked the life of the entire government in defense and lost the narrow margin of ten ballots after scenes which were tumultuous even for the French chamber.

Louis Buyat, a fiery left centrist, opened on the government this morning, giving notice of an interpellation on "persistent and public disagreements in the ministry which favors speculation harmful alike to farmers and consumers."

Charles Coombes, President Of WTCC Opposes Appointment Of Waco Editor On The State Education Board

(By The Associated Press)

ABILENE, Jan. 22. — Asserting that the appointment "will be intolerable to the people of West Texas" Charles E. Coombes, of Stamford, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, tonight told the Morninw News that a referendum will be asked among directors of the organization on whether the W. T. C. C. shall protest confirmation of the appointment of Frank Baldwin, Waco editor, as a member of the state board of education. He asked that members of the executive board say whether he, as president, shall file the protest in the name of the organization.

Editorial Recalled

Recalling the front page editorial in an August issue of that Waco Times-Herald, of which Baldwin is editor, Coombes said his statements and actions "reflect on all West Texas."

"We are arraigned for starting a movement for drouth relief," the statement continues, "for having asked and secured reduction in the price of over-valued school land; for the pink boll worm situation; and for having located in our borders the Texas Technological college. He criticized the college, which is still in its infancy, for having not produced a world expert on textiles.

"He also shows that he belongs to that political faith whe believes in disrupting land titles, and accuses West Texas of sectionalism and having a desire to divide the state.

"All in all, Mr. Baldwin is so ignorant concerning 132 counties of this state, and his opinion of its people is so prejudiced, that he needs quite a lot of education before he would be qualified as a

Man Thought Slain Reported Walking; Now Being Sought On Liquor Charges

(By Associated Press)

OWINGSVILLE, Ky., Jan. 22. Coroner S. C. Alexander went to Caney Creek near Salt Like today to hold an inquest in the death of a man reported slain in a federal dry raid but was informed the "corpus delicti" had been seen shortly before walking along a mountain road.

While county officers believed Richard Williams, 35, the supposed victim, alive at his home in the hills they were attempting to serve a warrant on him on a liquor charge.

Coroner Alexander said Pinkard Elley, mailcarrier at Yale, had seen Williams this morning walking about "with only a small knot on his head." Walker Horseman, undertaker at Salt Lick, also reported seeing Williams alive.

U. G. McFarland, investigator assigned here to investigate the case by the prohibition office at Lexington, said he was "satisfied" Williams was alive. He said he was tryings to get in direct touch with Williams.

De Boe's Jury Is Deadlocked

Jury Sent Back For Further Deliberation After Telling Judge It Is Unable To Make Decision; Crowds In Court

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22.—Ending twenty-five and one-half hours' deliberation, the jury considering the case of Daisy De Boe told the court at 4:30 p. m., today it had been unable to reach a verdict. Judge William Doran told the talesmen to retire for further deliberation.

Meanwhile a crowded court room awaited patiently for the verdict. Surrounded constantly by friends, Miss De Boe, former secretary of Miss Bow, and Alfred Mathes, her "boy friend," remained in the court room near the witness chair where only a short time before she told her story about the actress and Hollywood.

Of the group none was outwardly less concerned with the possibilities of the verdict than Miss De Boe. She joked and laughed with friends, expressed her confidence in acquittal and posed good naturedly a score of times for the picture hunting camera men.

Her light heartedness was offset, however, by the uneasy demeanor of her counsel, Nathan O. Freedman, who expressed his fear a verdict of acquittal was not likely but saw in the lengthy deliberations a chance of disagreement. The state merely remarked it would retry the case if the jury failed to agree.

Tom Mix Is Again In Court

ERIE, Pa., Jan. 22. (AP)—The thrills of Tom Mix's movies were missing from the Erie county court room today, but there was plenty of other action during a three hour cross examination of Mix in the trial of a $325,000 breach of contract suit filed against him by Col. Zack Miller, owner of the 101 ranch show. Mix, right, and his attorney, P. V. Gifford, are shown above.

Mix denied he made any definite agreement with Col. Miller to join the 101 ranch show as a circus cowboy. He said he had negotiated with the plaintiff, but no agreement was reached.

"What's the big idea?" Mix shouted once as he was being cross examined, "trying to make a liar out of me?"

Ohio On Watch For Six Men; Masked, Armed Robbers Use Boldness Of Old Time Outlaws To Get $3,670

(By The Associated Press)

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio, Jan. 22. —Every community in this section was on watch tonight for trace of six bandits who shot one passenger and robbed five other on a big four pullman car as the train sped between Carey, Ohio, and here early today.

Fired with a spirit of boldness reminiscent of the outlaws of another day, the robbers, masked and heavily armed, roused the passengers from their bearths about 3 a. m. and made away with valuables worth $3,670.

They shot Edwin K. Nelson, jr., of Tampa, Fla., to silence him when he awakened from his sleep screaming. As the train pulled into Bellefontaine at a slackening pace they dropped off the coach, leaving three women and two men passengers herded into a drawing room and the wounded man near death in his berth.

Nelson, taken to a hospital here, was said to have little chance to recover. The bullet had pierced his chest.

The bandits confined their operations to a single pullman, of which there were several on the train. The engine crew and conductors of the train made the forty mile run without an inkling of what was going on in the second coach from the rear. No one else knew except the six victimized passengers of the raided car and the porter, two flagmen and a brakeman who were held by the bandits.

Milady To Change From Black Frame Of Mind To Brown One, Says Fashion

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. — The style warnings of late January indicate that women are going to change their present black frame of mind for a brown one when spring comes.

There will be blue days, too, and pastel hours and multi-colored nights.

Simplicity and individualism by day and glamour with elegance by night are spring-time essentials.

We have heard almost the last of ensemble costumes for the street.

There you have the gist of spring styles as New York is turning them out.

Coats are to be dark, frequently seven-eighths or a little shorter. Long ones will be of the general utility type. They will be cut on present semi-flared lines and belted.

Scarves play a big part in the spring scheme. On coats they may be detachable flat fur affairs, or the coat may be furn-

WEST TEXAS—Generally fair Friday and Saturday, not much change in temperature.

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

THE OTHER evening a style show was given in Hotel Astor in New York and the world learned what to wear and not to wear during the forthcoming season.

• • •

For one thing, pajamas are good any time of the day and on almost any occasion. Of course, I really think that a lot of us are going to keep on wearing dresses to work, but if we should happen to decide to come down some morning in our pajamas, there is little the higher-ups can do about it. Styles are still styles.

• • •

We're going to have to put another ruffle on our last season dresses, too, if we expect to keep wearing them—as most of us do. Dresses in the show were an inch or two longer than last fall, coats followed suit, and the tendencies show that hemlines are steadily dropping. Frocks for afternoon wear were seven or eight inches off the ground and dance and dinner frocks touched or barely cleared the floor, the toes of evening slippers peeped from beneath ruffled flounces or clinging drapery of chiffon.

• • •

We're going back to cotton materials—probably due somewhat to the campaigns that have been waged during the last few months in an effort to use the cottoon we produce. Red and white terry cloth, blue and white stripe duck and flowered stuff are in vogue. Gingham frocks are once more up-to-date.

• • •

There is good news for the brunet, too, as red is an outstanding color for sports wear.

FOR TEXAS

AMERICA'S most distinguished sculptor, Gutzon Borglum, working in co-operation with the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, has set some standards for that organization to work toward in their campaign to "Make Texas Beautiful—Keep what we have and add."

• • •

This plan is fostered in an effort to awaken Texans to the possibilities of the state and Mr. Borglum has given some worthy recommendations.

• • •

"Texas must face two facts," he says; "She must create interest for the great transient public in play or they will not linger with her, or she must develop her place in history, her own history and create for herself in the fine arts what Italy has done.

• • •

"My recommendations are," he continued, "that Texas develop a comprehensive wise and beautiful plan for a road system; that she develop her Gulf front the entire length; that she develop her flora and particularly her tropic and semi-tropic plant life. Texas should remember that she's a summerland and a potential rival to California and Florida."

• • •

The sculptor recommends that activities in these subjects be taken up by the Texas Federation of Women's clubs. I agree with him, knowing, as I do that what the women's clubs sponsor is likely to be fulfilled.

• • •

There is no stronger organization among women in the state than the Texas Federation of Women's clubs and when the members make a concerted effort to gain a point they usually get the desired results. I do not know the membership of the state body, but in the seventh district alone, of which Lubbock is a part, there is a membership of about 5,000 individuals, representing about 159 clubs.

TO REMOVE WRINKLES

IF YOU hang your velvet frock or coat in the bathroom, far enough from the tub so it won't get wet, and turn on the hot water and shut the door, the steam arising will remove the wrinkles. The garment needs time to dry before it is worn. This same process can be used for most silks, too.

MORE ON STYLE

RECENTLY, I was reading an essay on styles of two years ago and how much less beautiful they were than the ones of today. I was reminded that any past styles are usually odd when compared with current ones as we automatically admire the fashionable thing.

• • •

However, I do feel justified in saying that styles today are more beautiful than the ones two or three years ago. Even at that time, the current thing was not altogether liked. Lines which do not flatter the average figure — and the box-like lines of dresses then did not—cannot enjoy any lasting popularity. The long lines of frocks now are more flattering.

• • •

This isn't the first time that this type of thing has been fashionable. Styles go in cycles and have done so for as many centuries as we have any records. There are ages which we remember as having been times of beautiful clothing and others when the fads were intrinsically unlovely.

Miss N. Earle Sends Letter

School of Charm Here Next Week Is Anticipated By Miss Nancy Earle, Who Will Be Daily Lecturer

Coincident with inquiries that have been received at the Avalanche-Journal concerning a Miss Nancy Earle and the charm school that she is to conduct here next week, a letter was received at the newspaper office from Miss Earle anticipating her visit here.

The school, which is the second annual one to be fostered by the Avalanche-Journal publishing company, is to open Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Uptown Dance Palace and will continue through Friday with lectures daily. This school is open to any men and women who may wish to attend Miss Earle writes:

The Letter.

"It is with great delight, but with an even greater sense of responsibility that I am looking forward to the Avalanche-Journal Charm school in Lubbock from January 26 to 30.

"It will be a distinct pleasure to meet the women of Lubbock and to have the opportunity of widening the circle of my friends from their ranks.

"My delight is predicated, too, on the assurance you have given me that nothing will be left undone by the newspaper to make the Charm School an outstanding success. May I begin thanking you now for your splendid cooperation?

"As for my sense of responsibility," Miss Earle continues, "this arises from my desire that every woman who attends even one of the talks may derive some substantial aid in her quest for more vigorous health, more alluring charm and a happier and more colorful life.

Charm's Qualities.

"Charm, you know, is not just a matter of well-powdered noses and subtle perfumes. It means, rather, a full harmonious expression of oneself. And in this little phrase many needs, many desires, many problems are involved which require not only technical knowledge for their solution, but also a broad and penetrating understanding of this business of being a woman.

"I attempt so much, you see, in my efforts to elevate my listeners to a higher degree of self realization in body, mind and spirit, and I know so well what these things may mean in the life of a woman, that I do approach each lecture with this earnest sense of responsibility."

To those who have not heard Miss Earle this may sound somewhat frighteningly serious, although it should not to anyone who has read her "Charm Chats" in this newspaper and detected in them her happy and humorous views on life and the task of keeping oneself equipped for it.

Miss Earle's sprightly talks include every subject relating to womankind's attempt to be more lovely, more interesting and to wrest more happiness from life. A pleasant entertaining hour, packed with practical and useful suggestions, is promised her listeners at the Uptown Dance Palace each day of her visit in Lubbock from Monday to Friday of next week.

CHARM CHATS

by Nancy Earle

Noted Authority and Writer on Health, Charm and Beauty.

(Miss Earle will be in Lubbock January 26 to 29)

Shall I suggest a sample program of exercises? Perhaps a little assortment arranged upon the shelf and labeled as to purpose and function so that you can make a selection of this for this and that for that, and thus assemble a system of your own to be followed regularly each day.

The first exercise in any system you adopt, however, should be a breathing exercise. This should be out-of-doors if possible, or at least before an open window.

Here is my own favorite. Hook the thumbs together, palms wide, fingers together, hand hanging in front of body. Inhale vigorously as the arms are slowly lifted until they point directly overhead. Keep the arms close to the head at all times. Then turn palms outward and bring slowly down to the sides, elbows straight, with wide circular movement, as the breath is exhaled.

The chief thing to remember in this exercise is that the arms must be kept close to the head. Also that the breath is vigorously inhaled. The lungs should be assaulted with a volume of fresh life-giving oxygen, and the old stale air which accumulates in the lungs expelled. Draw the breath in slowly but with a decided vim that registers as a diminutive steamengine effect. And when the lungs seem full, just as the arms point skyward, draw in another little gasp of breath for good measure. As some from Rumpus Ridge expressed it, "Draw in that-air air!"

This exercise should be accompained with music in waltz tempo. All exercises should be done to music.

Then an exercise which acts as a gentle tonic to all the vital organs, and acts as a stepping-stone to the more vigorous exercises. Stand with hands on hips. Bend the body forward from the waist, keeping the backbone straight, until it describes a right angle. Then swing rhythmically to right and left. A waltz for this also.

This may be followed by a spicy arm movement which not only exercises the arms but also stimulates the circulation and tones the entire system. Extend arms horizontally. Then, keeping elbows rigid, swing both arms toward the body, and out again to former position, rhythmically. The arms should alternate, first the right above as they cross, then the left. The arms should almost lie flat across the chest as they swing in that direction and should swing far back until the shoulder blade muscles feel the stress.

By this time we are ready for some more vigorous exercise which requires the coordinated effort of the entire body. Rope skipping is excellent, or skipping without the dramatic assistance of the rope. The skipping can be done without moving from the one spot where one stands. It resolves itself into a two step bounce first on one foot and then on the other. A fox-trot number should accompany this.

Another very efficient exercise is as follows. Stand with arms at sides. If necessary at first, brace the body by resting a hand on a chair placed at the side. If the left hand rests on the chair, then lift the right leg and the right arm simultaneously straight outward from the side as high as you comfortably can. Be sure that the leg goes straight outward to the side. This is performed rythmically to a waltz tempo.

Another of my most favorite favorites is a sort of rhythmic boxing movement. The feet are slightly apart. Then rhythmically to a saucy foxtrot one then the other arm is swung around and strikes soundly at some invisible foe. The right hand swings around and forward and strikes toward the left front of the body. And conversely, the left swings around and forward and strikes toward the right front of the body.

The entire body participates in this movement, springing lightly on the feet, and bringing the force of the whole body to bear upon the striking gesture. The fists should be doubled up in thoroughly businesslike fashion.

And this one is very good, after sufficient practice of the others have built strength and tone enough into the arms, shoulders and abdominal muscles to warrant its performance.

Lie flat on the stomach. Place palms on floor close to shoulders, elbows raised. Support the body thus by the arms and the toes, so that it is raised from the floor. Keep the body rigid. Guard against sagging in the middle. Elevate the body until the arms are straight, then return to former position, except that the body should not rest its weight upon the floor. Report with a slow rythm.

Hospitals specify Kotex
—so should you!

THE outstanding hospitals of America make it a point to specify Kotex for their women patients. They use Kotex absorbent for dozens of important surgical cases. No approval could be more important to you.

Kotex is preferred because it absorbs correctly—over a large surface, not just in one concentrated spot; because it deodorizes; because it is hygienically safe.

And you can wear Kotex on either side in perfect safety.

Kotex softness is not a mere deceptive surface softness that soon packs into chafing discomfort. It stays soft and comfortable for hours. And so easily disposed of!

Tech Band Is To Make Tour

Several States To Be Toured By Organization In Concert Trip After Close Of Year, Newell Hughes Announces

A concert tour of several states by the Texas Technological college band is being planned, according to Newell Hughes, publicity manager of the organization. The tour would be made after the close of the school year.

"It is possible," Hughes said, "that we will get back from the eastern tour in time to make a trip through a number of the western states."

The band will play a concert at the Lindsey theater about the middle of February and the following week will present another at the Palace theater. Plans are being outlined to have the band go to Albuquerque, N. M., and El Paso with the basketball team.

WORST COUGH CURBED OVERNIGHT BY NEW REMEDY

Three well-known specialists have recently perfected a marvelous new remedy for coughs, which stops the severest spells almost instantly, and often clears up a stubborn, deep cough overnight. People who have hardly been able to sleep at night for coughing, rest all night without a break, after the first few doses.

The new discovery is known as Mentodene, and is based upon a new way of taking menthol internally in a pleasant-tasting liquid. Everybody knows how menthol, even when just inhaled, "clears out the pipes," soothes rawness, loosens phlegm, relieves congestion and kills a cough quickly. When taken internally in this new combination with other healing ingredients—coming in direct contact with the irritated and congested throat lining—it is 10 times more effective than when used merely as a spray, inhaler or ointment.

Furthermore, Mentodene at once works its way all though the system, clearing out from the inside the cough, cold, bronchitis poisons that cause that miserable headache, fever, etc., and toning up the entire system. The result is that a cough that has hung on for weeks goes in a short time.

Make this amazing overnight test yourself without risking a penny. Get a bottle of Mentodene today from your druggist and take as directed. No matter how severe your cough or how long you have had it, if you do not have a thoroughly comfortable and cough-free night, and if you don't feel 100% better in the morning, manufacturer refunds your money. Be sure to start today. Adv.

Students To Name 'Man Of The Year'

A "Man of the Year" will be chosen by Texas Technological college students at a general election, January 29 and 30, it was announced by attaches of the college Thursday. A full page will be devoted to the "Man of the Year" in La Ventana, college yearbook.

Staff of La Ventana explained that due to the fact that three-fourths of the school's enrollment is made up of boys, they should be given more recognition than has been accorded in the past. Members of the staff hope the plan will become a tradition at the local institution.

No nominees will be named for the honor, it was said. Students will cast their votes for the man they think is the best all-around man on the campus. Voting will not be done on a ballot but on a blank sheet of paper. Name of the man to be chosen will be written on the sheet under which signature of the voter must be attached. No unsigned votes will be counted.

Ballot boxes are to be placed in the east rotunda of the administration building and in the engineering building. Every man and woman student on the campus is urged to vote in the election.

OPINIONS ARE ASKED

Attitude Of Lubbock Men On Reorganization Sought

What is the attitude of Lubbock citizens toward reorganization of a congressional district, and in what proposed district would they desire to be included?

Lubbock attorneys have been asked by J. A. Thomas, prominent San Angelo attorney, to obtain answers to that question and send them to him.

Mr. Thomas asks whether a majority of Lubbock people would rather be combined in a district with Big Spring and San Angelo or would it be their preference to be in a district with El Paso.

Opinions on the matter are to be mailed to Mr. Thomas, First National bank building, at San Angelo.

Today Is A Fast Day

ONE of the cardinal activities of the Boy Scout movement is the "do a good turn each day" plan that has worked so effectively in making the boys of the organization feel that they are more or less responsible for a brother.

The doing of a good turn regularly is a habit that is not easily broken. The world today needs more of these kindly, brotherly acts rather than the great heroic deeds so often widely heralded but which are often somewhat perfunctory performed or done with an intent to show.

It is the act of brightening the pathway of some one else—some one who perhaps will not be able to return the kindness—that causes a warm glow upon the left side of the chest, in that particular region known as the heart. How often do we do those spontaneous things that bring more satisfaction than those which are carefully thought out and planned ahead of time.

Lubbock today will have the opportunity of doing that very thing—a good turn. Not for the show, but for the reason of helping some one else.

Business men, civic leaders, ministers, city officials and others, have set aside today as a day of fasting; the money that usually is spent on food to be contributed to the feeding of those who are in actual need. This is not to be done as charity, or as a duty, or because you are urged to do so. Rather, it should be done with the realization that those who receive it are just as much free born, sovereign citizens, as you.

There will be placed in convenient stores throughout the business section, milk bottles or boxes, in which the money is to be placed. These will be so marked that there will be no mistake in knowing that you are putting the money in the right place.

Forget that urge today for a big meal, taper off or else cut it off short. Start the day right in the home, then follow it up without the noon meal or the evening meal. You will go to bed tonight feeling much the better for having done so. Both from a physical and a moral, as well as a spiritual standpoint, you will be the better man or the better woman.

Every cent that is so contributed, will be used directly for the purchase of food for worthy families.

Practical Health Problems

CLEAN AIR IS IMPORTANT IN TREATING BRONCHITIS

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

The air that is inhaled through the nose and through the mouth, preferably the former, passes by means of the trachea or windpipe to some larger tubes known as bronchi, which then divide up into still smaller branches, from which the air passes into the cells of the lungs. The smaller branches are called bronchioles.

The suffix "itis" at the end of any word means an inflammation. Therefore, bronchitis is inflammation of the larger tubes, bronchiolitis is inflammation of the smaller ones.

When the air enters the nose it is warmed and otherwise modified. Thus solid particles which it contains, including carbon, dust, bacteria or other materials, adhere to the moist surfaces of the cavities through which the air passes.

The walls of the bronchial tubes are constantly covered with mucus and the whole respiratory tract has little hairs or cilia which wave in such a manner as to force foreign substances outward. When these substances reach the sensitive portions of the breathing tract, the coughing mechanism helps to throw the foreign substance outward. There are cases, of course, in which the bacteria are not thrown out or in which their virulence is so great that they promptly infect the tissues.

Damage to the surface of the tubes may result by constantly inhaling dirty air, dust or gases. Inflammation of the surface may result from poisonous substances. Very large substances may actually tear the surface in the attempt of the tissues to get rid of them. When these things happen the germs cause an infection and the result is an acute form of bronchitis or inflammation which may through persistence become chronic.

A person with chronic bronchitis coughs constantly, particularly during the night when he is lying down the mucus tends to accumulate. This mucus may be stained by carbon if the person lives in a smoky atmosphere, or if there is a considerable amount of pus, the mucus may be yellow or green.

A person with chronic bronchitis is usually tired and depressed. He may get out of breath because of the interference with his breathing and in association with the absorption of the bacterial poisons there may be fever and a general reaction of the body.

Because of the difficulty in coughing, changes take place in the lungs whereby they become constantly partially distended with air. This brings about further difficulty of breathing and more wear on the heart because it is harder to get the proper amount of oxygen into the blood.

Obviously the treatment of bronchitis depends on many factors. A good climate is important since in this way the patient is relieved from the smoke and the fumes and the dust which keep his tissues constantly irritated.

Infections in the nose, throat and teeth as well as in the sinuses should be cleared up because they act to pour germs constantly into the lungs. There are various drugs which are eliminated by means of the respiratory mucus membranes when taken internally. These drugs have the value of combating the germs which may be on the surface of the mucus membranes.

There are other drugs which aid a free flow of mucus, thus serving to wash the surfaces of the mucus membranes free from the irritating materials. It is exceedingly important that the patient get plenty of rest and the attending physician can prescribe drugs which will be of great service in aiding sleep.

"Distress Underestimated"

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
(Central Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—Disasters generally are exaggerated at first. This time was an exception.

America's present disaster of combined industrial and farm distress has been "played down" (to use a journalistic expression) right along.

Probably nothing is gained by taking an alarmist's view of a bad situation. However, an optimistic view has its drawbacks, if it keeps relief measures persistently lagging behind urgent requirements for them.

It is of just such a policy of hopefulness, until rather too late in the day, that there is so much complaint in Washington today, in connection with the federal government's attitude toward unemployment in the cities, and the rural areas' reported state of near starvation.

Illustratively, many critics say it seems to them impossible that President Hoover and Chairman John Barton Payne of the American Red Cross could have realized the seriousness of agriculture's straits on January 6, when Chairman Payne, speaking for himself and the president, told a congressional committee that the Red Cross was fully able to cope with them, with the $4,000,000 which he said it then had on hand—because on January 10 he and the president were agreed on the necessity for an additional $10,000,000 Red Cross appeal to the public, to help the farmers.

Captious folk insist that the pinch can hardly have grown that much worse in four days; they venture the alternative guess that Mr. Hoover and Chairman Payne had just discovered its real proportions.

The truth is that, although Chairman Payne is regarded by everyone as an exceedingly well-meaning relief administrator, his judgment is beginning to be called very harshly in question, with the accumulation of evidence of conditions verging on out-and-out famine in several of the agricultural states.

* * *

How definite a form these protests are taking was indicated immediately following the presidential call for an increased relief fund, by unqualified attacks on the Red Cross management, put out in statements sponsored by the People's Lobby (a liberal organization headed by Prof. John Dewey of Columbia) and the People's Legislative Service (supported by most senators included in the progressive group on Capitol Hill.)

The latter, indeed, promises to result in a congressional inquiry. Senators already have begun a bombardment.

Broadcast over the signature of its director, Mercer G. Johnson, the Legislative Service's account is to the effect that the Red Cross has available a $38,000,000 reserve, which Director Johnson assumes it could tap if Chairman Payne deemed the emergency grave enough. Director Johnston considers that it is, and argues that the Red Cross head vastly under-rates it in failing to act accordingly.

Chairman Payne, to be sure, denies that his organization has any such sum, but Director Johnson maintains that he means it is non-existent merely for present purposes.

Without an investigation, there is no way of arriving at a conclusion concerning the merits of the controversy which does, however, furnish an idea of the developing bitterness of feeling over the administration's handling of conditions growing out of last summer's drouth and the still-continuing commercial depression.

The People's Lobby's charges, less specific than the Legislative Service's, are to the general purport that the Red Cross actually has prevented much-needed congressional assistance of agriculture by making what the Lobby insists are unfounded claims of its own aid's adequacy.

Simultaneously with the laments of agriculture's spokesmen that the farmers' distress was permitted to reach so acute a stage, representatives of the industrial areas are denouncing governmental delay in admitting the extent of unemployment in the cities.

Farmers' spokesmen point resentfully to an issue of no longer ago than December, of the Red Cross Courier (the organization's official publication) as having appeared without a reference to any farm problem. Congressmen from industrial areas are stressing a remark since the holidays by Acting Treasury Architect James A. Wetmore, answering a congressional inquiry, to the effect that "dirt can be flying in 60 days" on the government's 1931 $115,000,000 public building program.

The farmers' $10,000,000 ought to have been raised much sooner, comes the cry from the country. Sixty days hence is not soon enough for a workman who already is in the breadline, echo the cities.

GRAFT

Dismissal of four Indiana postmasters because their appointments are alleged to have been bought and paid for is encouraging. It is something to know that corruption and graft are no longer to go unnoticed and unpunished. It is not so much corruption as public and governmental tolerance of corruption that nations must fear.

Indiana is not the only state in which postmasterships have been purchased from congressmen, or from political bosses who make congressmen and dictate their appointments. Nor are postmasterships the only public posts thus bartered.

The guilty congressman merits impeachment, but is he more guilty than political parties which sell ambassadorships, cabinet seats and other high public appointments for war-chest contributions? It has often been said that only a wealthy man can afford to be an American ambassador. Both the first cost and the running expenses are high.

The Indiana outrage—Indiana politics is either rotten or undergoing a thorough cleaning-up—centers public attention upon a weakness in the system of filling elective and appointive offices. Here money invariably talks. Political organizations must have money or die. Therefore, money rather than qualification for office usually decides the ticket; which does not mean that all public officials are unqualified, but only that the system often bars better men and women from public service.

"Jobless men may restore prosperity by selling apples." Can it be the apple is filled with contrition for ejecting man from Paradise?

Murder At Bridge

BEGIN HERE TODAY

In the murder of JUANITA SELDM, there are six suspects, all guests at her bridge party: JUDGE MARSHALL, owner of the gun and silencer with which she was shot; JOHN DRAKE, FLORA MILES who says she was in Nita's closet at the time of the murder, reading a note; CLIVE HAMMOND and POLLY BEALE, who say they were in the solarium together, and JANET RAYMOND.

LYDIA CARR, Nita's maid and heir; DEXTER SPRAGUE and RALPH HAMMOND are practically cleared. DUNDEE'S theory is that Nita, seeing in a group picture someone she recognized, came down to blackmail them, accounting for the $10,000 she received since her arrival and he warns Sprague, whom he thinks she summoned to help her, not to go on with the scheme.

Nita's will and the fact that she had Sprague contrive a bell near her bed, ringing in Lydia's room show she feared death. CAPTAIN STRAWN thinks that Nita was killed by a New York gunman. Dundee thinks that the murderer will return, to look for papers, which Nita had burned, intending to drop the scheme in order to marry Hammond.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXV

"Hello, Penny!" Dundee greeted the district attorney's private secretary Thursday morning at five minutes after nine. "Any news from Sanderson?"

"Yes," Penny Crain answered listlessly. "A night letter. He says his mother is still very low and that we're to wire him at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Chicago if anything turns up."

"Then I suppose I can reach him there by long distance," and Dundee lifted the telephone from Penny's desk to put in the call.

"What's happened?" Penny demanded, her brown eyes wide and startled.

"And hurry it up, will you, please?" Dundee urged the long-distance operator before answering Penny's question. "That's just the trouble—nothing's happened, and nothing is very likely to happen here. I'm determined to go to New York and work on this pesky case from that end—which is where it all started."

"Then you've come around to Captain Strawn's theory that it was a New York gunman?" Penny asked hopefully.

"Not by a jugful! But what's the matter with you this morning, young woman? You're looking less like a new penny and more like one that has been too much in circulation."

"Thanks!" Penny retorted sarcastically, then she grinned wryly, "You are right, as a matter of fact, I was up late last night—bridge at the Mileses'."

"Bridge!" Dundee ejaculated incredulously. "So the bridge party did take place, in spite of the society editor's discreet announcement yesterday that 'owing to the tragic death of Mrs. Selim, the regular every-other-Wednesday dinner-bridge of the Forsythe Alumnae association will not be held this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tracey Miles, as scheduled.'"

"It wasn't a 'dinner-bridge' and it really wasn't intended to be a party," Penny corrected him. "It just sort of happened, and of all the ghastly evenings—"

"Tell me about it," Dundee suggested. "Knowing this town's telephone service as I do, I'll have plenty of time to listen, and you don't know how all-agog I am for inside gossip on Hamilton's upper crust."

* * *

"Idiot!" Penny flung at him scornfully. "You know 'society' would bore you to death, but I don't think you would have been exactly bored last night, knowing, as I do, your opinion of Dexter Sprague."

"Sprague? Good Lord! Was he there? This does promise to be interesting! Tell me all!"

"Give me time!" Penny snapped. "Ralph called me up last night at dinner time, and asked me if I felt equal to playing bridge again. He said that he, Clive, Tracey and Johnny Drake had launched together yesterday—as they frequently do—at the Athletic Club, and that Judge Marshall, who had been lunching there at another table with his friend, Attorney Sampson, stopped at their table and suggested a bridge game at his home for last night. Hugo said he wanted to coax Karen into playing again, so she would get over her hysterical aversion to the game since she had to replay that awful 'death hand.' You see," Penny explained parenthetically, "Hugo is a regular bridge fiend, and naturally he doesn't want to be kept out of his game."

"Brute!" Dundee cried disgustedly. "Why couldn't he give the poor girl a few days more?"

"That's what I thought," Penny acknowledged. "But I didn't get any inhabitation against bridge, and the idea rather appealed to me personally. The last few days haven't been particularly cheerful ones, so I told Ralph I'd be glad to go. Tracey had suggested his house, instead of Hugo's, because Betty wasn't well yesterday and Flora wouldn't want to leave her for a whole evening. Well, Ralph and I—"

"Are you going to marry Ralph Hammond, Penny?" Dundee interrupted, as if prompted by casual interest.

Penny's pale face flushed vividly. "No, I'm not in love with him, and I'm sure he realizes I'm not and won't ask me again. But I had to say yes Sunday! I simply couldn't let you walk in on us, after I'd permitted you to eavesdrop while he was talking, without first saying the one thing that would convince him that I believed in his innocence and hadn't set a trap for him."

"I see!" Dundee acknowledged

Woman Injured By Masked Men

Arrests Expected Soon After Pair Enters Home In Oklahoma; Start Shooting As Woman Obtains Gun

CHICKASHA, Okla., Jan. 22. (AP) Officers here said today they expected to make arrests soon in connection with the shooting last night of Mrs. Homer Cherry at her home one mile east of Tuttle.

A bullet, fired by one of two masked men who entered the Cherry home, struck Mrs. Cherry in the right side. She is expected to recover.

Husband Wounded.

Her husband, who was slightly wounded in the affray, was to appear in district court here today as defendant in an action in which Ottis Brum, of Maude, is suing him for $30,000 for alleged alienation of his wife's affections. Brum's wife is a former wife of Cherry. The case likely will not come to trial this week.

Cherry told officers today that the two men came to the door and asked for gasoline.

Then they thrust pistols against his side, commanding him to walk across the room and face the light near where his wife and daughter were seated.

Seeing the men Mrs. Cherry screamed and ran into an adjoining room secured a pistol and entered the living room behind the two men.

One of the men turned, saw her and fired just as the oil light was blown out.

Several shots were fired in the darkened house, one grazing Cherry's hand, after which the men fled to an automobile and drove away.

Science Studies Pow-Wowing

Jacob Zellers . . . the big charm and spell man from York . . . administering a cure for erysipelas. . . . Many "patients" attest the success of his methods in curing and helping them.

Killing five people by witchcraft was but one of the startling things scientists heard about from Jacob Zellers, brought down to Washington from his Pennsylvania home to explain his charms, cures and curses

Zellers takes a stone from running water . . . and makes three series of passes with it . . . over the afflicted horse that has the "sweeny." . . . Then he mutters a charm, replaces the stone in the stream from which it came, and goodby "sweeny."

The "patient" was stretched at full length on a table. . . . With a string measurements were made. . . . "Now," said the witch-doctor, "I wind this string aroung an egg, and put it in the fire. . . . The patient will then get well."

By CLARA LOUISE LESLIE

"I MYSELF have killed five people!"

The witch doctor was quite matter-of-fact as he made the statement. He was a matter-of-fact person, not at all the sort of man you would connect with 20th century witchcraft. Evidently a hard worker, he was a sturdy little Pennsylvanian of German ancestry, and plainly very much in earnest. But he was one of the greatest witch doctors in the country today.

Three deep, a semi-circle of listeners leaned forward eagerly around a big table in the Graduate School of American University at Washington, D. C. A student, Edwin R. Danner, of York, Pa., famous for its recent "hex murder," had brought Jacob Zellers to tell of his first-hand knowledge of how the "black arts" are practiced today.

The audience, all advanced students and educators working under Dr. Walton Colcord John, watched Zellers closely as he stood behind the table and talked on.

His countenance reflected nothing of the mysterious or occult. With flashing eyes, good humor, and in phraseology and accent so unique that it brought a smile to the faces of his learned audience, he regaled his hearers for three hours with pointers on his craft, leaning forward over the table, thoroughly engrossed in telling "how he did it." When questions began coming too fast, however, he warned the class that "beyond a certain point I will not reveal my secrecy."

"I have been powwowing for 27 years," he declared. "The laws of Pennsylvania forbid it, but I turn out for no doctor or church or lawyer." He then emphasized seriously that he has never charged a cent for any of his services to the bewitched people of his country. "Sometimes," he said, "a 'spy' comes to get 'cured,' but since I present him with no bill, what can he do?"

UTTERLY sincere, he went on to explain that powwowing is the good influence with which to oppose witchcraft and hexing, the evil influence. If the case is serious enough to demand it, magic of a kind to kill is inflicted upon the caster of the evil spell. It was in this way that Zellers said he had "already killed five people." A "hex" is a spell cast by an enemy, usually from a jealous motive. It is black magic.

"To place a 'hex,'" it was explained, "all a person has to do is to obtain an object from the subject and chant prayers from the sixth and seventh books of Moses. These books are not now included in the Bible, but you can get them.

"Moses," said the witch doctor, "used the prayers in the books for a good purpose, while his descendants used them for evil. By praying before a personal object once owned by the person to be 'hexed,' an intense hatred is projected from the 'hexer' to the 'hexed.'" Zellers mentioned having once seen a woman with a fork she had borrowed or obtained, chopping it against the rafters in the barn, 'hexing' her rival with it.

"I don't know where I get my power," he replied to a question. "This was taught me by a famous witch doctor on his deathbed. A teacher of the art looses his own power as soon as he has taught it or transferred it to another. When I first realized I had the power, it frightened me and I told my old aunt not to tell anybody that I had it."

THOROUGHLY aware of the intellectual gap between himself and his listeners, he said, "I admit you know more than I do, and you'll laugh at some of the things I tell you." Then, from little folded notes which he took from his pocket and referred to occasionally through big gold-rimmed spectacles, he proceeded to cite instances of some of his cures, giving the names and addresses of his "patients."

"If a patient comes to me who hasn't been to a doctor first, I make him go, so the authorities can't hold anything against me. The kind of patients I like best are the ones who have already been to three or four doctors who have failed to help them. Then I take them."

Hemorrhages of all kinds yield readily to Zeller's magic, the class was told. "Suppose you cut an artery in your arm—accidentally, not on purpose to try me. I could stop the blood. I breathe on the patient and say the Lord's Prayer till I get to the words 'Thy will be done on earth.' There I stop! I do this three different times and then the bleeding will stop!" A number of healings of this type were described in detail.

A boy having 72 warts came and asked to have them removed. Zellers said he removed them without difficulty by his magic. "It is necessary for one to ask for what he wants," the witch doctor insisted.

"A woman who came from Fort Wayne, Indiana, for me to cure her had been 'hexed' by another woman and had gotten so fat that she couldn't get through doors.

Children are often brought by their parents . . . for treatment by Zellers and other powwow-doctors . . . and in many instances astonishing results are claimed.

"She weighed 560 pounds," he added. Due to his influence, he said, she reduced to about 150 pounds. "The last I heard she was back in Fort Wayne, a normal woman."

"Don't you think there is a fortune for a man with such remarkable weight-reducing process?"

"I don't sell this for money," was the rather abrupt reply.

ONCE Zellers was called, he related, to the home of a farmer whose house and whose barns, also, had become tenanted to an amazing degree with bedbugs. "Your boy has the sixth and seventh Books of Moses around here," warned the witch doctor, "and this plague is the result. 'Hunt for those books and get them out of your possession.' Sure enough, the farmer found them, he destroyed them and was soon rid of the bugs."

An account was then given of a woman who threw a "hex" on her son's wife, so that the latter was seized with a strange illness which "four or five doctors could not diagnose." Then Zellers was called in.

He found that the mother-in-law was casting the spell. In the case of strongly-projected hatred, the "hexer," according to Zellers, can be "seen" by looking into a crystal, into clear water, or into a fire.

Applying secret remedies, Zellers drove the evil spirit away. Part of his prescription in "unhexing" a person is to forbid the loaning or giving of anything from the patient's house for nine days. According to witchcraft authority, when an evil influence or spell has been broken by a witch doctor, the original witch will seek to borrow something from the afflicted person in order to relieve his or her own agony which has resulted concomitant to the thwarting of his or her own desires by some outside agent or witch practitioner.

In this case, the mother-in-law used trickery and ruined the cure. So Zellers was forced to use stronger magic, knowing, as he said, that it would result in death for the witch. Zellers fixed his deadly magic, the daughter-in-law began to grow strong and the evil "hex" was "driven back to its source." The mother-in-law died of a mysterious malady within nine days.

"Were you ever questioned in regard to the five deaths you claim to have been responsible for?"

"No! If a person gets sick from some strange illness that no doctor can diagnose and dies of it and I'm five miles away, what can they do to me? But the victim dies just the same! If I did wrong I hope God judges me, but if it's a life for a life, what would you do? Anyhow, it's they that kill themselves, because if the 'hex' hadn't belonged to them it wouldn't have come back."

WHEN from among this professional group Zellers chose a "victim" to demonstrate some of his methods for treating disease, the spectators were unable to restrain merriment. The "patient" was to be measured with a string, which was one of the powwow doctor's methods for diagnosing and curing disease. The "patient" was asked to stretch himself full length, face downward, on the large table in front of the class. "I should do this on your bare skin," said the "doctor." He began at the crown of the professor's head.

Down the "patient's" neck, down his spine, went the string until it had been pressed to the limit of the heel. The man's length was then noted. "Now stand up," he was ordered. The string was next held to the man's forehead. "Now put your finger on your navel if you can find out where it's at." Measurements from the forehead to the navel completed the operations.

"Now," said the witch doctor, holding up the string quite as earnestly as though he had performed a serious operation, "I take this and wind it around an egg and put the egg in the fire. The egg will burn to a cinder, but the string will not burn—and the patient will get well!"

Pernicious anemia, erysipelas, headache, rash, fits, nervous disorders, fever and gangrene were subjects of some of the other cures described. Most of these cures, just as Zellers related them, had already been witnessed through Mr. Danner, who had personally interviewed 125 people in and around York for the purpose of substantiating the witchcraft stories.

"How many people in Pennsylvania take stock in this?" Zellers was asked.

"Oh, about seven out of eight," confidently.

"Hexing," it was declared, may even be extended to livestock. One of the strangest stories Zellers told was about the bewitched pigs. A farmer who raised hogs for a living refused to sell one to a certain neighbor woman. Immediately he was pursued with bad luck in his hog raising. The pigs acquired freakish habits, drooped and died. Finally there remained a litter of nine so weak that "they couldn't live and they couldn't die."

In the case of strongly-projected hatred . . . the "hexer" may be seen by looking into a fire.

WHEN the farmer came for help, Zellers told him to make a brush pile and with straw to make nine beds in the pile. The brush was saturated with kerosene and the pigs that "couldn't live and couldn't die" were placed in the beds. A fire was lighted. Eight pigs ran out, but one stayed in and was burned to death. A neighbor woman ran out crying, "My God! I am in that fire," and immediately dropped dead. The eight pigs lived, and from then on the farmer had no more trouble with his hog raising. "If the ninth pig had ran out of the fire," Zellers explained, "the woman would not have done that and the spell would not have been broken."

A farmer known as "Ben," with two span of mules hitched to a wagon, could not get his mules to pull on level ground.

"I told him," said Zellers, "that he was bewitched." The mules pulled as hard as they could and were unable to budge the load, he said. Then the farmer took down an ax from his wagon. He was just about to chop a spoke out of a rear wheel of the wagon when an old man behind a tree nearby cried out in a loud voice, "Ben, don't cut!" The spell was removed and then the mules easily pulled the wagon, Zellers said. It is claimed that cutting a spoke in the wheel would more than likely have killed the old man who was casting the spell. That old man, Zellers said, had spellbound the mules, but the threat of the ax broke the spell.

The witch doctor did "reveal his secrecy" to the extent of telling how he cures the "sweeny" (a severe ailment in horses). He takes a stone from running water and makes three series of passes with it over the afflicted flesh, saying German words that mean in effect, "Flesh and blood, bones and marrow, no more than this stone shall you have pain." The stone must then be returned to the running water and the sweeny will disappear.

"What do you think brought about the cures at the priest's grave in Boston a few months ago?" Zellers was asked.

"That was faith. They went there and believed that if they prayed at his grave they would get well, and so they did."

ZELLERS quoted the Bible freely and referred to the miracles of Christ and Moses as proof of some of his own claims. "You've got to be conscientious," he emphasized. "It's no use for anyone to do something just on purpose to try me. That is mocking. When a person does that he doesn't believe."

"How can a cow be conscientious?"

"It's the person who owns the cow that makes the difference. He believes or he wouldn't come with the cow."

"Do you think any of your power comes to you through those who have departed from this life?"

"I don't know anything about that. But people who have been bothered by those kind of things have come to me and I've fixed them." (Zellers' expressions for treating a patient were invariably "I did for her," or "I fixed her.")

"Often people who are under 'hexes' see thought forms that represent these 'hexes.' Sometimes they see them in the form of snakes or devils or pigs, or sometimes cats. One woman would see a devil come through the keyhole, with a small devil after that one, and a snake following the two devils. She put salt on them, but that only made them fly at her. But I fixed her," he added.

"Could a person be 'hexed' at a distance?"

"Yes, if you get in contact with them in some way."

"Any person, man or woman, who casts a spell is a 'witch.' It's the women that get mixed up most in this 'hexing.' Men don't have so much time alone to think.

"This power is given to me," he said, modestly. "I have a son 24 years old, but I cannot tell whether I will be able to teach him this."

IN a modest house in the workingman's district of York lives Jacob Zellers, his retiring little wife and a goodly brood of children. One or two healthy tow-heads may be seen peeping around doors at visitors. "We're just common folks," the witch doctor apologizes. You look around and feel that at least he is not exploiting his powers, whatever they are, for personal gain.

On the dining table under a big square, old-fashioned light dome lay a "chain letter," probably waiting to be copied nine times and sent traveling again. In his own home you feel more than ever that in Zellers' personality lies a great deal of his power to influence or affect those who may come to him for help. He has a clear brain, shrewd, concentrated gaze and full solar plexus development which is usually associated with personal magnetism. And above all he is kindly. Zellers, in addition to powwowing, works steadily at his trade of auto painting.

That results do sometimes follow powwowing and witchcraft seems to be an undisputed fact.

The question is, "What is the power underlying witchcraft?" Is it purely suggestion, and if so, how and under what circumstances does it work?

Simmons Cowboys Here In Game With Tech Tonight

Matadors Seek Revenge After Recent Defeat

Game To Start At 8 At Tech Gymnasium; Preceded At 6 By Game Between Picadors And Childress High

The Cowboys of Simmons University, Abilene, come to Lubbock once or twice every year and each time they are greeted by one of the largest crowds to see college athletic events here. They were here on Thanksgiving Day in the role of football players, and defeated the Lubbock collegians before the largest crowd to see a college game here last season.

Now they come again, wearing the abbriviated clothing that signifies basketball players. They will be here for only one night, meeting the Matadors of Texas Tech on the Tech gymnasium court tonight at 8 o'clock. They and their coach, the genial Les Cranfill, arrived in Lubbock early today, and probably will work out at the Tech gymnasium this afternoon.

CRANFILL

The Cowboys and the Matadors offer Lubbock fans tonight one of the potentially best games of the season. The Simmons outfit is the most popular club left on the home schedule, since the Canyon Buffaloes will be played at Canyon next time.

Texas Conference Champs

The Texas Conference has known the Cowboys as champions in basketball for a given number of years, and this season promises to be no exception. In defeating Southwestern and St. Edwards early this week the Simmons team started the conference chase in a great way, knocking over their most serious opponents. Crip Golightly, Matador skipper, who saw the Cowboys outshoot his team last Saturday night also saw the Punchers defeat Southwestern University's Pirates Monday night, and reports that he believes he saw the Texas Conference championship game then. The Cowboys had little trouble in knocking over the Saints from Austin.

Featuring the McCollum brothers, Bob and Gene, the 1931 Simmons outfit is one of the smoothest cage teams prancing West Texas painted courts. Bob is center for the Punchers and Brother Gene is one of the best guards that ever wore rubber-soled shoes on the Simmons floor. The rest of Cranfill's lineup consist of Seed and Neely at forward and Uncle Joe Smith at guard. Smith, remembered here for his work on local grid for Simmons last fall, is another guard now to be under estimated.

Coach Golightly brought his Matadors back from Abilene after meeting all of the college teams of that city and says they will be ready to go tonight. They went down before Simmons, but rallied to soundly thrash the McMurry College Indians and the Abilene Christian College Wildcats on Monday and Tuesday nights. They looked some better in the last two games, showing a decided improvement over previous games this season. Captain Hodges hit his old time stride Tuesday night to hog scoring honors and Fisher looked better than at any time this season. Tadlock played consistently and Dunn was up to standard. Little Haden Moody was a scrapper and promises to do great things for Tech before his eligibility is lost by graduation.

Freshmen Meet Childress

As a preliminary to tonight's major tussle and to keep the crowd entertained as it congregated the Picadors, coached by Del Morgan, will meet the Childress High school Bobcats, powerful Class A team, in a full-sized game. The semi-final starts at 6 o'clock and will be played in 8-minute quarters.

On Saturday night at the local gym the Childress team will meet the Lubbock High Westerners. This contest starts at 7:30.

New York Golfers Defeat Chicagoans

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 22. (AP)—New York state golfers repulsed the bid of Chicagoans today and went into the finals of the Glenn Curtiss amateur trophy tournament with Lee Chase of Buffalo, and Jack Ryerson, Cooperstown, to meet over the 36-hole route tomorrow.

Chase, veteran campaigner, pulled his match with Jack Vilas, Chicago, out of the fire to win on the 19th green of the Miami Springs municipal course. Vilas was one up at the turn and gained another on the homeward trip, but Chase turned in par scores on the 17th and 18th to square the match.

Ryerson surprised with a comparatively easy victory over Winfield Day, jr., young Chicago school boy, five and four.

COMMANDER DIES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—Captain Aubrey Kirk Shoup, 50, commander of the South China patrol, died today at the royal naval hospital, Hongkong, China. His residence was in New York City. Captain Shoup was awarded the navy cross for services rendered in laying the mine barrage in the North Sea during the World war.

Campbell And Racer Arrive In U.S.

Driver And Car In Which He Hopes To Do 250 M. P. M.

The whine, something like that of a passing bullet, of a fin-shaped motor car will be heard on the sands of Daytona Beach, Fla., early in February, weather and disposal of preliminaries permitting.

The wail will be created by a 12-cylinder Campbell-Napier motor and wind swirling with cyclonic velocity around the streamlined body of "Bluebird II" traveling, if the hopes of Capt. Malcolm Campbell are to be fulfilled, faster than 231 miles an hour.

British Racer And Blue Bird Ready For Try

"I'm A Fatalist; You Never Go Before Your Time," And Nervy Sportsman Prepares To Set Speed Record

BY FOSTER HAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. — Capt. Malcolm Campbell, soft - spoken British racing driver, and his slim, streamline machine, named for a blue bird but more powerful than a thousand horses, arrived in the United States today for an assault on the world's automobile speed record.

Some time after February 1, Captain Campbell will hurl his blue bullet along the sands of Daytona Beach, Fla., at a speed he hopes will take him over a measured mile in less than 15 seconds.

The 1,450 horsepower harnessed in the motor of his Blue Bird II must carry him past the mile markers twice at that speed if he is to break the record of 231 miles an hour set on the same course in 1929 by the late Sir Henry Segrave, fellow Englishman.

Will he do it?

Does Not Commit Self.

Captain Campbell himself would not say today on his arrival on the liner Homeric.

"I really don't know what my machine will do," he said. "I've had no opportunity to test it. The margin is so small that no one can say they are going to break a record. The difference between Sir Henry's record of 231 miles an hour and 240 is only two-fifths of a second. That's not very much, you know. No, I wouldn't want to say what my Blue Bird will do."

And then he added:

"My tires are tested for 300 miles an hour."

Captain Campbell was asked if he didn't hesitate some times because of the danger involved; he had just said Mrs. Campbell had not accompanied him because she "didn't feel quite up to it."

Is a Fatalist.

"I've seen 'it' in front of me so many times," he answered, his face grave. "I'm a fatalist. You never go before your time. If my time is up I'm ready to go, there's no use grousing."

Captain Campbell has been driving one kind or another of a racing machine since 1905 when he won his first gold medal in a motorcycle race in England. He built an airplane and flew it in 1909. During the war he was in the royal flying corps. He is the only man living who has driven an automobile faster than 200 miles an hour. The others—Segrave, Keech, Lockhart—already have gone to the racing driver's Valhalla, gone as Captain Campbell would like to go when his time comes, in full flight, the tingle of great speed in their veins, the whine of an open throttled engine in their ears. He is 46 and probably the oldest of the front rank drivers.

During 1929 22,588,572 tons of waterborne commerce, valued at $1,102,986,560, passed through the port of New Orleans.

BASKETBALL PLAYS and PLAYERS

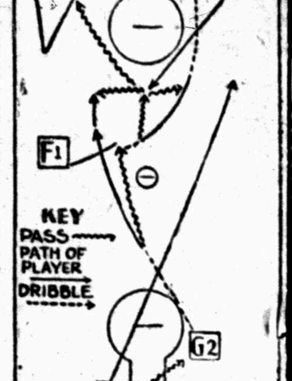

An offensive formation that is particularly good for high school basketball teams in one successfully employed by Ohio State and Indiana University quintets. It is strong defensively, and just as strong offensively, for the spread formation makes for an open style of play. Incidentially, there are many variations from this play, all to be used against set defenses.

With the ball out-of-bounds in the defensive end, the back guard (G1) may pass in to the floor guard (G2) who advances the ball by dribbling to the front line defense. Here the forward (F1) breaks toward the center ring, receiving a pass from (G2); (G2) then follows up his pass, reaching for the ball as he runs past (F1), who fakes the pass but pivots in the opposite direction and passes to (F2) breaking to the foul ring sector.

In this strategic spot (F2) can pass to (F1) breaking past his left to the basket, to the center breaking on his right or to (G2) who will be in good shooting position.

(G1) advances to the open section on the right side of the court.

Mustangs Lead Southwest On Painted Court; Frogs Strong

Victory Over Baylor Makes Methodists Favorites In Eyes Of Many Critics; Race May Be Decided Soon

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Jan. 22.—Thanks to the sensational goaling of their two marksmen, Rhea Williams and Jake Reynolds, and superb guarding by Bill Skeeters and Ettis McLaughlin, the Southern Methodist University Mustangs find themselves pacing the Southwest Conference basketball pack as the race swings into the January stretch.

By turning back the Baylor Bears, 47 to 37, here Tuesday night, the Ponies marked up their third straight victory and went a step ahead of the Texas Christian Horned Frogs, who have recorded two wins in as many starts. They were the only undefeated units in the chase, four of the remaining five having received at least two setbacks.

Just how long the Methodists will occupy the top depends upon the outcome of the impending "big" series at Fort Worth between the unbeaten Horned Frogs and the University of Arkansas Razorbacks, five-time champions. They clash tomorrow and Saturday nights in the Frog field house, with the title perhaps hinging on the result. Should the Christians stop the Ozarkians both nights, as they are favored to do by a majority of critics, they will take over the pinnacle and become ever heavier favorites for the crown.

Should Attract Big Crowd

Due to the crucial nature of the series, the two tilts at Fort Worth were expected to attract the biggest crowds of the season. Texas fans, long accustomed to seeing their teams trampled by the tall Arkansas, relish the prospect of watching Arkansas do an about-face.

By the manner in which they polished off Baylor here in the only conference tilt played so far this week, the Southern Methodist cagers left no doubt of their status in the race. The consensus was that the Mustangs would finish no worse than second, and there were numbers of critics ready to give them an even chance against T. C. U. The Mustangs will be idle until February 2, when they meet the Frogs here.

Williams, Methodist forward, took over the individual scoring leadership with 55 points in three games when he tossed 14 against Baylor. Jake Reynolds, center, scored 21 against the Bears to run his total to 52 and occupy second place. Of 53 field goals credited to the Mustangs so far, Williams and Reynolds have accounted for 43. Reynolds was an all-state center for Athens High school three years ago, but Williams was "discovered" by Coach Jimmy St. Clair while playing intramural basketball early last season. They make a wicked pair.

The long passing game used with such success by Southern Methodist on the football field has been transplanted to the basketball court with almost startling effect. The Mustangs repeatedly whiz the ball the length of the court, catching opposing guards off balance and giving Reynolds or Williams perfect "setups" for baskets.

Two contests of apparently minor import complete the week's conference schedule. Baylor and Texas, rather definitely out of the race, meet Saturday night at Austin. The Texas Aggies, who got off to a promising start by splitting with Arkansas last week at Fayetteville, entertain the lowly Rice Owls at College Station.

The standing:

	Won	Lost	Pct
Southern Methodist	3	0	1.000
Texas Christian	3	0	1.000
Arkansas	4	2	.667
Texas A. & M.	1	1	.500
Texas	1	3	.250
Rice	1	4	.200
Baylor	0	2	.000

Hitchcock Heads Poloists In 1931 Handicap Ratings

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (AP)—With Tommy Hitchcock, the world's only 10-goal player, once again heading the list, the United States polo association today officially recognized the brilliant international play of Winston Guest of New York and Eric Pedley of Los Angeles in announcing the 1931 handicap ratings.

The two internationalists, who teamed with Hitchcock and Earle A. S. Hopping in the defeat of England in the international cup series last September were raised from an eight- to nine-goal rating. Hitchcock, considered the perfect polo player, was left at 10 goals while Hopping continued to hold an eight-goal rating.

The bid of Cecil Smith and H. W. (Rube) Williams, the two Texans for a position on the international quartet was recognized by raising of their handicap rating one goal each. Smith's rating was boosted from seven to eight goals and Williams was made a seven-goal player.

National Guard Beats Santa Fe

The National Guard basketball team of Lubbock defeated the Santa Fe cagers of Slaton, 47 to 33, on the Slaton court Wednesday night. The team was composed of Dean Robertson, center and captain; Stoops Bryant and Varnell Hale forwards; Horace Robertson and Cordell Reeves, guards. Capt. Dean Robertson was high point man for the locals.

The Guardsmen will play Wolfarth at Wolfarth Thursday night, and will be open for games with other teams after that. Any team desiring a game is requested to get in touch with Jim Conner at Conner Battery station here.

The Great Shires Becomes A Brewer

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 22. (AP)—If today can be taken as a precedent, Art Shires, the big "I" man of baseball, should get along well in Milwaukee.

Within three minutes after Louis Nahin, president of the Milwaukee Brewers, handed Shires a contract for the 1931 season, the signature of the "Great One" was on the dotted line. Shires had no argument—he merely read the contract and signed.

Terms were not revealed but President Nahin said Shires' contract called for more money than any Brewer player had ever received.

33 ON BUFF ROSTER

Contracts Signed By Large Body Houston Players

HOUSTON, Jan. 22. (AP)—Thirty-three players now are on the Houston Buff roster, President Fred Ankenman announced today. Practically all of them, and several others, will report here March 1 for spring training.

Ankenman reported the receipt of contracts from Carey Selph, second sacker; Hal Funk, catcher, and Pete Fowler, southpaw recently reinstated.

Dear Sirs:

As a public health officer, I cannot help but recognize the fact that your campaign to eliminate the evils resulting from promiscuous spitting and the spit-tipping method of cigar making is commendable and in line with the health work done by my own department.

I see that you call it a "Crusade of Decency". Certainly insanitary methods in cigar making are indecent. An advertising campaign like yours, which exposes such indecency and points the way to the cleansing of your industry, deserves the support of my department.

While I express no preference for your cigar over any other, I am pleased to inform you that I do endorse your campaign to show the public the advantages of avoiding insanitary practices. You are free to publish that fact or, if you wish, to publish this letter over my signature.

Very truly yours,
Carl T. Pomeroy

Murder At Bridge

by ANNE AUSTIN author of "THE BLACK PIGEON" "THE AVENGING ANGEL" "MURDER BACKSTAGE"

oberly, but his blue eyes shone with udden joy. "Oh! There's long dis-ance! Just a minute, darling! Helo! Hello! Yes, this is Dundee . . .
h! All right! Try again in 15 min-tes, will you?" He hung up the reeiver and explained to Penny:
Sanderson hasn't reached the hosital yet, but is expected soon . . .
o on with your story . . . Who all layed bridge at the Mileses'? You on't mean to say Dexter Sprague
as invited, too!"

Penny's face was still a brilliant ink as she answered: "I refuse to ive my climax spoiled! . . . When aren and I got there at eight, we ound that Peter and Lois had din-d with Tracey and Flora and that ey were delighted at the pros-ect of bridge as a relief from end-ss discussions of the murder. We'd ardly got there before the Mar-lis came, poor little Karen not uspecting that she was going to ave to play. Then came Johnny ake alone, with the news that aralyn was in bed and very misrable with a summer cold. Polly alled over from her house which on the next hill to the right, you now. She said Clive had decided o work late at the office, and had romised to call for her about 11, to ake her home."

"What about Janet Raymond?
as she left out?" Dundee asked.

"I told you it wasn't a planned air," Penny reminded him. "But lora did telephone her, and she id she didn't feel like coming.
he's been moping about like a ick cat ever since Nita's death. We ll knew she was idiocally in love ith Dexter Sprague, and it must ave been an awful blow to her to ear you read aloud that note Nita eceived from Sprague."

"So I noticed," Dundee nodded, ecalling the deathly pallor of the irl's face as Sprague had glibly xplained away that damning note nd all of its implications.

"Well," Penny continued, "Tracy suggested bridge, and at first aren flatly refused to play, but ugo finally persuaded her . . . .
aren would do absolutely any-hing for that ridiculous old hus-and of hers! I simply can't under-tand it—how she can be in love ith him, I mean!"

"I thought you liked Judge Mar-hall," Dundee laughed.

"Oh, I do—in a way . . . . But ey a young girl like Karen bein love with him! . . . Well, way, we all went out to the side
rch, which is kept in readiness summer for bridge. Iron bridge bles, covered with oilcloth, and h oilcloth pouches for the cards score pads, so there's never any her about scurrying things in on unt of rain. It's a roofed, stone-ored porch, right outside the livroom, and under it are the gars, so it's high and cool, with a nd view of Mirror Lake in the eground down below, and of the in the distance."

he sighed, and Dundee knew she was thinking of her own home in Brentwood—the Colo-mansion which had been sacri-d to her father's disastrous rose Meadows venture. Then went on: "I don't know why I telling was so pleasant that we uld have had a much better
e than we did."

"You're an artful minx, Penny!"
ndee chuckled. "You're working suspense for the entrance of villain!"

"Then let me do it justice," Penretorted. "Lois and Peter, lph and I made up one table for dge, and Tracey, Polly, Judge rshall and Karen the other.
a said she didn't want to play, use she wanted to be free to an eye on Betty, although she tested she had perfect faith in die, who, Flora says, is proving be a marvel with the children.
Johnny Drake asked her to anagrams with him, in been trips to the nursery. Johnny a perfect pash for anagrams, is a wow at 'em. So Tracey got box of anagrams out of the phy room—"

"The trophy room?" Dundee re-ted, amused.

"That's what Tracey calls it," nny explained impatiently, bese he has a couple of golf cups
d Flora has an immense silver phy which testifies to the fact she was the 'lady tennis chamn' of the state for one year.
ere are also some mounted fish
d some deer heads with incredie antlers, but the room is really ed as a catch-all for all the sports ings—racquets, golf clubs, skis, ng-pong table, etc. . . . Anyway, acey brought out the box of an-rams, and we were all having a tty good time when, at half-past ht, the butler announced 'Mr.
xter Sprague'!"

"Your tone makes me wish I'd been there," Dundee acknowledged. "What happened?"

"You know how slap-'em-on-the-back Tracey always is?" Penny asked, grinning. "Well, you should have seen him and heard him as he dismissed poor Whitson—the butler—as if he were giving him notice, instead of letting him off for the night! And the icy dignity with which he greeted poor Sprague—"

"Poor Sprague?" Dundee echoed.

"Well, after all, Sprague had been received by all the crowd before Nita's death," Penny retorted. "I think it was rather natural for him to think he'd still be welcome. He began to apologize for his uninvited presence, saying he had felt lonesome and depressed, and had just 'jumped into a taxi' and come along hoping to find the Mileses in. Flora tried to act the lady hostess, but Peter got up from his bridge table and said in tones that were even icier than Tracey's: 'Will you excuse me, Flora? And will you take my place, Drake? . . . I'm going into the library. I don't enjoy the society of murderers!' "

"Good Lord!" Dundee ejaculated, shocked but admiring. "Did Sprague make a quick exit?"

"Not just then," Penny said mysteriously. "Of course everyone was simply stunned, but Sprague retorted cheerfully, 'Neither do I, Dunlap!' Peter stalked on into the living room on his way to the library, Johnny took his place at the bridge table, and Tracey, at an urgent signal from Flora, offered his seat at the other table to Sprague, as if he were making way for a leper. Poor Polly had to be Sprague's partner. Flora, as if she were terrified at what might happen—you know how frightfully tense and nervous she is—made an excuse to run upstairs for a look at Betty."

"And something terrible did happen," Dundee guessed. "You're looking positively ghoulish. Out with it!"

"After about half an hour of playing without pivoting," Penny went on imperturbably, "Hugo bid three spades, Karen raised him—in a trembling voice—to five spades, Hugo of course went to a little slam, and Dexter Sprague, if you can believe me, said: 'Better not leave the table, Karen. A little slam bid in spades has been known to be fatal to the dummy!' "

"No!" Dundee was genuinely shocked, but before he could say more the telephone rang. "Sanderson at last. . . . Hello! Chicago? . . . Oh, hello, Captain Strawn! . . . What's that? . . . Oh, my Lord! Where did you say the body is?"

In 3 Months And Feels Years Younger

"I have been taking Kruschen Salts for nearly 3 months. I have continued taking one teaspoonful in warm water every morning. I then weighed 217 pounds, was always bothered with pains in my back and lower part of abdomen and sides.

"Now I am glad to say I am a well woman, feel much stronger, years younger and my weight is 170 pounds. I do not only feel better but I look better, so all my friends say.

"I shall never be without Kruschen Salts, will never cease taking my daily dose and more than glad to highly recommend it for the great good that is in it." Mrs. S. A. Solomon, New Bern, N. C., Jan. 1930." "P. S. You may think I am exaggerating by writing such a long letter but truly I feel so indebted to you for putting out such wonderful salts that I cannot say enough."

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at Bowen's Drug, Bowen's Hilton Pharmacy, the City Drug, the Lubbock Drug Co., and druggists the world over. Take one half teaspoon in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

Attention to diet will help—cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—the Kruschen way is the safe way to lose fat. Try one bottle and if not joyfully satisfied—money back. Adv.

Cotton Trend Is Upward In Cotton Market Livestock Cattle Trade Is Slow On Thursday Grain Demand For Grain Is Slow Thursday

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 23. (AP)—The cotton market here was much more active today and the price trend was upward. The stimulating influences included much more favorable Liverpool cables than due, a sharp advance in Egyptian futures and a better trade demand. It also was reported that there was more inquiry for spots both here and in the interior.

After opening 9 to 10 points up the market continued to improve throughout the morning until prices showed gains over the previous close of 14 to 18 points. The market was slightly easier in the afternoon and quieted down somewhat, losing 3 to 4 points from the highs.

Trading Active.

Trading became active near the end and prices practically duplicated the earlier highs owing to firmness in stocks and expectations of bullish ginnings tomorrow. The close was a little under the best, being called steady the general market showing net advances for the day of 10 to 13 points.

Liverpool came in 8 to 11 points better than due and private cables said the local trade and the continent bought, shorts covered and the trade called. Manchester cabled that the home trade in cloth improved. First trades here showed gains of 8 to 10 points and the market continued to improve after the start on trade buying and ring shorts covering. March finally trading up to 10.49 and May to 10.72 or 14 to 15 points above the previous close. There was a sale of usually inactive months of February at 10.30.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (AP)—An early advance in cotton met slightly increased offerings today, but they were absorbed on comparatively moderate reactions by continued trade buying and covering. March contracts after selling up to 10.48 early, or nearly $2.00 per bale above the low price of last Tuesday morning, reacted to 10.40 and closed at 10.43. The general market closed steady with old January net unchanged, while other months showed net advances of 8 to 17 points.

Trading in the current January deliveries in the market here ends at noon tomorrow and the fluctuations in January showed the influence of comparatively small orders. There was further switching from near to late months particularly from March into October and December and the late months were relatively firm at the close. Considerable trade buying was again reported, and the advance from the low levels of early this week has been attributed partly to an increased disposition to fix prices.

Coombes' protest follows similar action led by Representative Ray Holder of Dallas in the lower house of the legislature, who has announced that 30 signatures have been secured on a petition of protest.

Baldwin's remarks in his August editorial aroused such a storm of protest in this section that the Waco Chamber of Commerce, and other organizations of that city, made formal disavowal by resolutions.

Stocks Make Decisive Advance; Short Covering Sends Prices Up At Close

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22. (AP) — Stocks kept bonds company in a rather decisive advance today.

Short covering, particularly in the last hour, sent prices up one to two points or more and the market closed strong, showing the best activity of the year during the last hour rally. Sales of 1,860,740 shares were about 450,000 larger than yesterday's. Bonds easily kept their heads above the water, despite $75,000,000 in new issues. Grains lagged, but cottor rallied.

Continued strength of the rails from the opening made the shorts uneasy and bear lines were pulled aboard in all directions.

Inasmuch as stocks had been irregularly higher during the week covered by the brokers' loan report, the drop of $63,000,000 was construed as evidence of investment buying. In some quarters a small advance had been expected on the theory that heavy bond offerings might have prompted considerable borrowing.

Bearish Argentine crop estimates depressed corn a cent. Wheat closed steady to 5-8 lower; apparently the market was little affected by reports that the Farm Board did not plan to support the new crop. Cotton's closing range was 8 to 17 points higher.

General firmness of the foreign exchanges was broken by a drop of several points in the Spanish peseta.

Another Abilene Housewife Talks

"I Feel Better Than I Have For Months, Argotane Is Fine Medicine"

"I was just about down and out from the health stand point, but since taking Argotane, I feel better than I have in months," said Mrs. Wm. Hartshorn, of 1235 N. 17th Street, Abilene, Texas.

"I've suffered for a long time with stomach and kidney trouble. Almost everything I ate would sour on my stomach, and gas would form and I would bloat up and be very uncomfortable for hours afterward. I was severely constipated and for the last six months I've had to take a strong laxative every night and then would have sharp pains and cramping spells, just the same. At times my back and sides would ache something terrible, and I couldn't rest or sleep at night, at all. I was in a very nervous condition. I saw where Argotant was helping so many people and decided to try it.

"I feel like a different person, and now eat just anything I care for and it doesn't hurt me at all. I don't have the gas or bloating spells any more, and best of all don't suffer from constipation. My headaches are all gone, and I rest and sleep fine every night. I'm not nearly as nervous as I was. I feel better than I have in months, and Argotane has certainly helped me. I know that it will help anyone who is suffering as I was, and if they will just try a bottle they will be convinced of its worth as I am.

Genuine Argotane may be purchased in Lubbock at the Bowen Drug Store. Adv.

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 22. (AP)—Cattle trade continued slow at prices unevenly steady to 25 lower. Fed steers and yearlings this week were tendered a jolt of 50-.100 with numerous instances of a 1.00 decline on the in-between grades. Short fed steers and yearlings at the river markets are selling largely from 7.00 @8.00. Chicago realized 12.50 on a short load of yearling steers. Receipts were estimated at 20,900.

The 1st lamb market was uneven with prices at the different markets anywhere from steady to 25 higher. Matured killing classes of sheep were unchanged. Outsiders in Chicago purchased the bulk of choice lambs at 8.75@9.00 while at several of the river markets fed wooled lambs sold up to 8.40. Offerings of sheep were around 43,000.

Lighter weights of hogs, 230 lb. and down, found a steady demand at mostly steady values but trade on strong weight butchers was very irregular. Chicago and St. Louis reported weak to 15 lower prices on weight averages above 220 lbs. while at the other points some strength developed on these weights. St. Louis had a top of 8.30. The supply numbered around 128,000.

Dresses will be more or less independent of wraps. New York costumers are resigned to a breaking up of the ensemble system. The two-color scheme is smarter.

Brown is not the only permissible spring color. Black and white will retain much of their prestige.

Afternoon apparel introduces more gray than usual, with black, dark blue and light and dark browns important. Plain colors are to take the ascendancy over prints, most of the dressmakers say.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Jan. 22. (AP) — Slow demand continued on the Fort Worth cash grain market Thursday with slightly lower prices for some commodities due to the decline in contract values. Number 1 hard wheat of any protein was probably worth 78 1-2@79 1-2c, delivered Texas common points.

Estimated receipts: Wheat, 12 cars; corn, 14; oats, 1, and sorghums, 5.

Quotations on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn: No. 2 mixed 75 1-2@76 1-2c; No. 2 white 77 1-2@78c; No. 3 yellow 77 1-2@78c.

Oats: No. 3 red 44 1-2@46 1-2c.

Barley: No. 3, 60@61c.

Sorghums: No. 2 milo per 100 pounds 1.36@1.50; No. 3 kaffir 1.37@1.39.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 22. (AP)—Staggered by estimates that Argentina would be able to export corn in record breaking volume this season, corn fell almost 2 cents a bushel today. Buenos Aires dispatches said an Argentine corn crop was assured which would furnish 390,000,000 bushels for export, compared with a five-year average of 250,000,000. Stop loss selling here resulted, and subsequent rallies lacked force.

Corn closed nervous 7-8 to 1 1-4 cents below yesterday's finish, what 5-8 off to 1-4 up, oats 1-4 to 3-8 down and provisions unchanged to 10 cents decline.

CORN PRICE DROPS

The drop in corn was from top prices scored on an early bulge that accompanied a transient advance of wheat. Word of further rains in Argentina tended temporarily to life wheat, as 20 per cent of wheat in northern Argentina was reported unthreshed and 30 per cent in southern Argentina, with quality so poor as to promise no financial return for additional labor.

Wheat was unaffected by reports that stabilization operations would end in May. Chairman Legge said the Federal Farm Board had made no decision. Wheat trade in Chicago yesterday was reported as only 6,000,000 bushels, compared with almost 28,000,000 a year ago. Oats traders based operations on the course of other cereals.

thirds vote, a quorum present and voting.

Representative DeWolfe of Goldwaite, minority member of the house committee said this would not be keeping faith with the voters who had adopted the split session amendment to afford the legislature more time in which to deliberate on bills. He argued the house rules would let down the bars and would permit the legislature to be swamped by last-minute introductions.

The senate committee also was opposed to opening the gates.

Report Is Expected.

A report of the conference committee was expected tomorrow.

The house agriculture committee took favorable action on a resolution offered yesterday by Representative Pope of Nueces endorsing the Garrett plan of cotton acreage reduction. Under the plan bankers and merchants would refuse credit to cotton farmers unless they agreed to cut their acreage 25 per cent during the next five years.

Introduction of the resolution yesterday occasioned heated debate, many proponents of cotton acreage reduction arguing against its adoption. Representative McGregor of Austin contended such a plan would work a hardship on the poor cotton farmer and force him to cut his acreage while a rich planter could do as he pleased.

Measure Explained

The judge explained the Patman bill, house resolution No. 3493, introduced by Congressman Patman of the first Texas district, and said that it was among the first measures introduced in the present session o congress relative to cashing adjusted service certificates.

"Congress 'adjusted' the losses railroads sustained during government operation and those of the manufacturers on contracts cancelled when the armistice was signed," Judge Pharr said.

"This was done in cash, so why should the veteran wait 20 years for his financial loss during the war to be adjusted?"

In concluding his address, Judge Pharr appealed to those present to support the legion by paying 1931 dues, and a large number of applications was taken.

Frank Stone and his collegians furnished music and a dance number was presented by Babe Bynum. Following adjournment, coffee and doughnuts were served.

Glean Hess, commander of Allen Brothers post, presided at the meeting.

Federal charges were filed Thursday against Ferman and Everett Sturdivant in connection with circulation of counterfeit coins at Snyder, where they were arrested Wednesday by an agent of the United States department of justice. According to the complaint fifty cent pieces made from Babbitt metal and tin had been passed to W. W. Vaughn, of Snyder, and to W. F. Gibbs, of Hermleigh.

Car Abandoned By Two Bank Bandits Found Near Graham

GRAHAM, Jan. 22. (AP)—A car believed to have been abandoned by two bandits who held up the Loving State bank, near here, and escaped with $1,800 was found in a pasture in the northern part of the county late today by officers.

The bandits entered the bank at noon. Cashier H. G. Millican was busy in the cage, with his back turned to the window. He said he heard someone say: "We've come to get it—stick 'em up." He was covered by a pistol and had to stand with his hands up while one of the two men gathered up loose cash in the safe and drawers.

Doctors Know Best How To Treat Colds

Medical writers agree that the important point in the treatment of a cold, or cough due to a cold, is to relieve the congestion in the nose and throat, thereby preventing serious complications which may follow a neglected cold. To stop this congestion calomel was the accepted and standard remedy until Calotabs, the improved calomel compound tablet was introduced.

Now that science has robbed calomel of its nausea and danger, making it pleasant to take and perfectly safe for general use, over forty million Calotabs are consumed in the U. S. yearly with only the most pleasant and satisfactory results. In millions of homes Calotabs have proven their superiority in the prompt relief of colds and coughs due to colds.

One or two Calotabs at bed-time with a glass of sweet milk or water. No salts necessary. No nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning the congestion has subsided, your cold or cough is relieved, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish,—no danger.

Get a family package of Calotabs, containing full directions, only thirty-five cents. Trial size ten cents. At any drug store. (adv.)
