Wichita Falls' 200—
No Cause For Delay—
Not An "Oil Town"—
Week's Bank Figures—

CHIEF OF POLICE FRANK BURNS announces that some 200 warrants are now on file in his department for "average and usually law abiding" citizens who have failed to heed traffic summons to the corporation court.

The number of such warrants has doubled in the last week or so, yet the police chief seems to feel some regret at the apparent necessity of arresting the violators in a last effort to get them into court.

IF TRAFFIC rules are to be enforced, if violators are really to be fined, The Record News sees no reason why police officials should delay longer in bringing into court those against whom complaints are held. Certainly, the "average and law abiding" citizens who do answer police summons and go up and pay fines should be able to feel that at least their treatment is no more severe than accorded others.

While there are doubtless more serious infractions of the laws of the city than traffic violations, once a police summons has been issued for such a breach of city ordinances, the police department can do little else than vigorously press the charge.

Allowing 200 or more citizens to disregard such complaints, or to break verbal promises to appear in court, lends no additional dignity to the police department, and must lead sooner or later to an entire lack of respect for the law and its officers.

Traffic violators should either be brought promptly into court or allowed to go their way without any interference whatsoever.

ROY MINTON of Dallas, representative of the King Features syndicate in this district, reports there is less evidence of depression because of the slump in oil prices in Wichita Falls than any other so-called "oil town" which he has observed.

The explanation is that Wichita Falls is no longer just an "oil town." The development of the various manufacturing industries of the city, and the increased agricultural prosperity of the area, is carrying Wichita Falls over the slack period with an ease that is surprising to even those closely in touch with local conditions.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, in its weekly compilation of bank clearings and debits, finds only five cities in the entire district with gains. Dallas debits for the week ending May 25 dropped $6,430,000 during the week and clearings $6,142,924, while debits in Fort Worth showed a decline of more than $3,500,000.

In comparison with these cities, Wichita Falls debits for the week showed a decline of only $298,000 from the high figure of the previous week. Roughly, this trend has been borne out fairly well during the year, another indication of the solidarity of Wichita Falls building and prosperity.

FIRST "new" potatoes from the Wichita area moved to market this week, with indications that the harvest will be well under way by the end of the present week. The potato crop in Wichita county is not yet as large as it gives promise of being, but the movement to market, along with considerable other truck, is an encouraging indication to farmers and business men.

With wheat already being harvested and ready to ship, production from agricultural Wichita county is swinging under way, with the result that more money will be in circulation, and business will show a new and steadier tone. Hail storms and fires, which swept certain sections of Northwest Texas during the last few days, while very severe in their local results, do not appear to have been widespread enough to produce a general effect over the area.

114 LIVES FLOOD TOLL

NEW ORLEANS, May 28. (AP)—One hundred and fourteen persons have lost their lives thus far in the Mississippi flood, the American Red Cross reported today.

Quality Used Cars
80c Worth for 50c

As an easy explanation, let's say all the miles of satisfying service built into a new car are worth $1. The original purchaser ordinarily drives out less than 15 or 20 cents worth of those miles. The subsequent purchaser enjoys nearly 80 cents worth of that car's mileage for 50 cents or less. Read the offer on classified page. Make your selection and then call the dealer who has the car advertised, they will be glad to give you a demonstration.

Blistering Texas Sun Sets Heat Record For May

Wichita Falls Is Warmest Spot in Texas With Temperature Reading of 107 Degrees

Off came the hats; then the coats; then some ties; then collars—that's all the law allowed—but if there hadn't been a law the cannibals would have had nothing on Wichita Falls citizens Saturday afternoon, because—

It was the hottest spot in Texas.

The mercury climbed to the 107 mark and stayed there for several hours during mid-day and even at 5 p. m. when "Old Sol" was beginning to do a fade-out the thermometer bell was ringing at 105.

The hot stuff wasn't funny but one of the few laughs gleaned during the equatorial presentation in the city was a statement that egressed from Fort Worth claimed the "hottest day in Texas championship" with a record of 105. When Wichitans became cool enough to notify the Panthers relative to their error, the citizens of Cow town were content to assume second place in the hot weather league.

ENTIRE STATE IN GRIP OF WITHERING WEATHER

DALLAS, May 28. (AP)—A heat blanket covered Texas today from the Panhandle to below San Antonio, bringing the hottest May in the recorded weather history of the state.

A number of cases of illness were attributed to the heat, three falling victim to the torridity in Dallas.

Even in far north Amarillo, the thermometer went to 94. In San Antonio it was 103, the highest for May in history, and a hot wind was blowing. Dallas also had breezes but they were like the air from a desert.

The towns on and near the gulf seemed to have escaped the worst elements of the heat. Port Arthur and Beaumont reported 88, and the latter said a mild southwest breeze was blowing. Both cities reported fair weather, as "pleasant."

Galveston reported that a cool south breeze "kept Galvestonians comfortable, the mercury staying around 82 to 84, and indications for Sunday were that there would be no change."

C. A. Tucker, who drove to Dallas from Longview today, Mrs. Susie Favors, 64, and an aged negro were overcome by the heat. The negro is critically ill in a hospital. Tucker was overcome at a filling station, Mrs. Favors was overcome in her home and taken to an emergency hospital station, but revived, and Mrs. Fa[illegible] tal.

100 DEGREES IN SHADE AT CISCO SATURDAY

CISCO, May 28. (AP)—The temperature reached 100 degrees in the shade here Saturday, setting a new record for May.

WACO RECORDS HIGH OF 97 DEGREES

WACO, May 28. (AP)—The maximum temperature here Saturday was 97 at 3 p. m. The weather was clear.

FORT WORTH RECORDS 107 DEGREES AT 4:30

FORT WORTH, May 28. (AP)—Weather records went by the board here Saturday as the mercury, mounting steadily through the day reached a peak of 107 degrees at 4:30 p. m. according to D. S. Landis, United Sattes weather observer.

The highest previous May mark, records dating back to 1889, show was in 1911 when the thermometer registered 103.

At 11 a. m. Stauarday the temperature was 100 degrees, at noon it was 101, and at 1:30 a new record was established when the red bulb shot up to 104.2.

DEVOL BRIDGE MAN HELD ON ARSON CHARGE

M. L. Harris Charged With Arson in Burning Of Tollway

A charge of arson in connection with the burning of the Devol Bridge, connecting Texas and Oklahoma, across the Red river, was filed Saturday against M. L. Harris, one of the owners of the bridge in Walters, Okla., C. O. Hooper, sheriff of Cotton county, Okla., said Saturday afternoon in long distance communication with The Record-News.

Following the arrest, which was made by Sheriff Hooper, Harris was released on a $2,500 bond.

Harris was taken into custody in Devol, of which town he is a resident. He denied being implicated in the burning of the bridge, which was located at a point a short distance north of Burkburnett, according to Sheriff Hooper.

The Devol bridge was totally destroyed by fire several weeks ago. Since the conflagration an investigation, which resulted in the arrest of Harris, has been conducted by Cotton county officials, Sheriff Hooper said.

BETTER HOMES PAGEANT OPENS HERE JULY 11

Real Estate Board and The Record News Join In Exposition

ORIENTAL GARDEN

Lake Wichita Pavilion Scene Of Six-Day Homes Pageant

Every person has a vision of a real home. Within the heart of each man, woman and child is that ideal of restfulness, comfort, convenience and the perfect setting for the things they possess, whether it be toys or antiques for [illegible] books or fishing tackle.

And for six days beginning July 11 every one in Wichita Falls is going to be given the opportunity to see every type of modern home and everything that goes to make it in a setting never equaled in attractiveness and beauty.

Finest Merchandise

The Better Homes Pageant in connection with a mammoth exposition of all the home owner could desire is to be staged at the Lake Wichita pavilion by the Wichita Falls Real Estate board, and is being sponsored by The Record News. The event will embrace the exhibits of the finest merchandise of the city, arranged in decorative settings along the walks of the pavilion, with the pavilion proper transformed into an Oriental garden.

The fragrance of flowers—green ferns blowing in the cool breeze—colored lights—music—all this and more will go to make up the most bizarre and lovely effect it is possible to give.

Elaborate Entertainment

Special entertainment, consisting of orchestra music and vaudeville acts, will be given at 1:30 o'clock each afternoon and continuously from 7 o'clock in the evening until midnight. Dancing will be permitted after 9:30 o'clock, with a special orchestra booked for the exposition to furnish the music.

Entertainment for all — and in such a wealth of beauty and luxury as has never been surpassed in the city of Wichita Falls.

Many Souvenirs

Thousands of samples of pure foods will be distributed free to visitors every afternoon and evening with every exhibit featuring quality merchandise, shown by special demonstrators who are to come here for the week. Commodities used in the construction of the better homes will be displayed in booths along the winding walks of the improvised garden.

Guests to the exposition will see demonstrations of pianos, furniture, foods, radio, phonographs, bottled beverages, ice cream, electrical refrigeration, [illegible] draperies, silverware, [illegible] automobiles, women's [illegible] wear, beauty preparations, [illegible] roofing, paints, [illegible] and hundreds of other [illegible] home construction [illegible] foods, furnishings and [illegible] transportation.

WICHITA MAN ENDS OWN LIFE

Charge From Shotgun Kills W. A. Soule

W. A. Soule, 50, was instantly killed Saturday morning shortly before 8 o'clock when he shot himself after tying a shot gun on the fence of the back yard of his home, 2107 Ninth street. A verdict of suicide by gunshot was the coroner's verdict of Justice of the Peace O. L. Gibbs.

The body is being held at the Merkle Undertaking company pending funeral arrangements which will be made on the arrival of relatives.

Mr. Soule had lived in Wichita Falls 16 years and was a painter and paper hanger. He was a member of the local union of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, No. 302.

Mr. Soule was said to have borrowed the gun used. After tying the gun to the fence he released the hammer with a stick, receiving the charge just below the heart. He has been in ill health for several months and recently had worried considerably, according to friends.

Besides his widow, Mr. Soule is survived by three daughters [illegible] and Dorothy Soule and Mrs. W[illegible] Scofield who married here [illegible] Sunday and left for St. Paul, Minn. Two sisters reside in Mississippi.

CITY COUNCIL FIGHT BRINGS COURT ACTION

District Judge Issues Writ In Favor of J. T. Taylor

ORDINANCE CITED

Removal of Police Chief Contrary to Electra City Law, Claim

Temporary injunction, restraining the city council of Electra from removing Jones T. Taylor as chief of police and fire marshal, was issued Saturday by Judge W. W. Cook in the 78th district court.

Taylor, according to an order of the council, was to vacate his office Wednesday, June 1. However, the injunction continues him as chief of police and fire marshal at least until a hearing for a permanent injunction is held.

Date of Hearing

A permanent injunction hearing cannot be held until [illegible] after a petition is filed for the hearing, Judge Cook said.

The petition for the injunction set out that Taylor was removed without cause by the council and also in violation of an Electra city ordinance.

The ordinance, according to the petition, sets out that an officer of the city government cannot be removed from office during the term for which he has been appointed without all members of the council casting a unanimous vote for the removal.

The plaintiff alleges that the council vote was three for removal and two for Taylor's retention.

Taylor was appointed as chief of police and fire marshal in December for a two-year term and according to the petition he can only be removed from office during the term by a unanimous vote of the council.

RANGERS JAIL TWO OF ROBBER BAND IN BORGER

Four More Are Arrested By Officers In Oklahoma

LEADERS STILL FREE

Matthew Kimes Believed Hiding In Ozark Mountains

OKMULGEE, Okla., May 28. (AP)—Six persons, five men and a woman, are under arrest charged with murder in connection with operations of the Kimes-Terrell robber gang, Sheriff John Russell revealed here today.

Three of the six are alleged to have participated in the holdup of two Beggs, Okla., banks, May 18, when Chief of Police W. J. McAnally was shot to death and $[illegible] was taken.

Two of the three, Blackie Wilson and Owen Edwards, were arrested yesterday in Borger, Texas, by Texas rangers. Deputy sheriffs have been dispatched to Borger to return them to Okmulgee.

The third, Roy Brandon, 32, who was apprehended last Monday, was brought to Okmulgee Wednesday, together with the remainder of the sextet. The others are John Brandon, 65, Roy's father, Hugh Hess, 25, Roy's brother-in-law, and Ruth Browning, 16, who officers said was the sweetheart of a man thought to be a member of the gang.

Russell said Wilson and Edwards had been identified positively as two of the men who took part in the robbery.

Roy Brandon, his father and brother-in-law, and the woman were arrested last Monday when Roy was taken at the farm five miles east of Boston. The sheriff said the woman drove up to the farm in an automobile similar to that used by the Beggs robbers.

A large force of Okmulgee county officers spent all of today in a search of Osage county looking for Matthew Kimes and Ray Terrell, sometimes known as "the most escaped convict in Oklahoma." The officers said they had received positive information that the two gangsters were hidden there.

New District School Board

Cashion-Bacon Leaders Named

Seven trustees for the new Cashion-Bacon school district were appointed Saturday by the County School board in session in the offices of Burl Bryant, county school superintendent in the court house.

The members of the board appointed were: E. W. Marrs, M. W. Wolff, W. A. Holly, B. E. Underwood, G. W. Bailey, J. P. Turner and J. H. Shaw.

The county board in making the appointments recommended that any new members to the district board should be residents of the Bacon district.

The county board appointed John Nitsche as a member of the Cobb district school board to fill the unexpired term of A. A. Anderson, resigned.

Mr. Nische and the members of the Cashion-Bacon board will hold office until the next school election which will be held in April, 1928.

Beggar's Hard Luck Tale Wins Bed—In City Jail

A pathetic tale of misfortune, preceded by a genteel sweep of the hat as it was removed from the head of a man well past 50, touched the heart of a number of persons Saturday by the union station but L. D. Louthian, special Katy agent, demanded more detailed information about the man and a youth accompanying him with the result that both landed in the city jail.

The man was telling his "woes" to the Travellers Aid secretary when Mr. Louthian approached and asked to see the youth's arm which the man had explained was broken. The youth was presented as the man's son.

At the city hall, however, the youth confessed that he had joined the man in Fort Worth a few days ago and that they had bandaged the arm as a ruse to be used in "mooching." When officers searched the pair, the youth had 15 cents and the man several dollars.

"Ice Cream Time" As Mercury Hits 107

New Plant Formally Opened This Week

When the heat sizzles from the pavements and the thermometers break one by one—when collars melt down and dispositions go on a summertime strike—and when food tastes flat and unappetizing, then is the time when a big plate of ice cream saves the day, the disposition, and even seems to change the weather.

Open This Week.

Such is the belief of a man who recently placed Wichita Falls among the headliners in the ice cream industry by establishing a plant that is equal to any within a radius of 500 miles, E. B. Lehrack Ice Cream company. And during the coming week, the citizens of Wichita Falls are to be invited to visit this latest addition to the city's boasted points of interest when a formal opening is to be held.

Quality Products.

Mr. Lehrack has been connected with the world's largest manufacturers of ice cream and creamery products for the past eight years, and comes to Wichita Falls qualified to establish the best possible plant. He has utilized experience gained in building nearly 100 ice cream plants over the southwest in equipping Lehracks with the most modern machinery available, where quality of equipment is excelled only by the quality of the products put out.

With "Double X," the feature ice cream, all products from the Lehrack plant, are made of the purest products money can buy. Only pure, fresh, sweet cream is used, some of it coming from the prize dairy herds of this section, and the unusual combinations in flavor, the texture and smoothness place it in first rank of the better ice cream, it is stated.

Mr. Lehrack states that it is the wish of the management to contact that rare discrimination in the public that recognizes quality and demands the best, "a discrimination that is common to all, he said.

The official opening the latter part of this week is to be held for the purpose of introducing the plant and the owners to Wichita Falls, and to show the standard of sanitation and quality to the public it is to benefit. Approximately 20 dealers are handling the product at present.

"King of Ivories" Thanks Radio Fans For Freedom and "New Start" In Life

Harry M. Snodgrass, the famous "King of the Ivories" whose WOS radio fans are numbered by thousands, is here in Wichita Falls "and glad of it in spite of the heat," according to Harry himself.

With his same radio announcer, J. M. Witten, announcing the numbers from Jefferson City, Mo., that sent numberless listeners-in into ecstacies, Mr. Snodgrass is playing all the favorites and the new ones at the Majestic theater Sunday and Monday. And through The Record News he wished to tell all those who do not hear him in person of his gratitude for the popularity that won his freedom and "new start" in life.

"Tell my friends in Wichita Falls that words cannot express my thanks, and tell them I am going to play for them every time I get near a broadcasting station," he said.

"Harry," as he was always announced, doesn't like the stage as well as he did broadcasting—but he "guesses" he'll stay with the stage.

"It's hard work, without the telegrams and letters of appreciation," he told The Record News reporter, adding that "you don't know how the radio performer appreciates those expressions of thanks."

When Mr. Snodgrass finally won freedom from the Missouri prison he was showered with gifts and cash donations from every state in the union, Canada, Mexico and several foreign countries.

"Some of those gifts came from Wichita Falls, and again I wish to thank every one who has helped me in this city," he said.

New Citizens

A set of twins made appearance in Wichita Falls during the past week, according to a birth report issued Saturday by the city health department.

The twins were born to Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Crane, 210 East Sixth street, May 21, and both here boys.

Twenty births were reported in the report as follows: Mr. and Mrs J. Kaufman, 508 Broad, May 18, girl, Marguerette. Mr. and Mrs. J. B Bell, 2205 Jones, May 17, boy, Joe Hailey. Mr. and Mrs. C. McKee, 2407 Avenue Q, May 5, girl, Katherine; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ward, 204 Cliff, May 20, girl, Letha Elizabeth, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Albritten, 568 Scott, May 23, boy. J. L. Jr. Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Schaffer, 102 Patterson, girl, May 26. Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Parmer, 1308 Eighth, May 23, girl, Frances Irene; Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Sanderlin, 1802 Grace, May 19, girl, Evelyn. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Collins, 1711 Pearl, May 15, girl, Zane Gray.

Criminal Court Faces Heavy Docket Monday

First case on the criminal docket to be called Monday in the 89th district court, before Judge P. A. Martin, will be that of L. B. Price, charged with the burglary of a residence.

Other cases set for Monday are: C. R. Calloway, burglary; Mrs. Pauline Miller, five cases of forgery; Everett Horn, two cases of possession of liquor; Clyde Jackson, possession of liquor; J. H. Simmons, driving an automobile while intoxicated; Jack Turner, transporting liquor. B. A. Kilgore, possession of liquor; Virgil Gant, transporting liquor; Willie Webb and Earl Webb, theft.

Cases set for Wednesday are: J. A. Finley, possession of liquor and C. E. Chapman, possession of liquor.

W. R. Wilson, charged in three cases for embezzlement of money form a local creamery, will be arraigned Friday.

The cases will be prosecuted by Ben Allred, district attorney, and E. F. Fructche and Sam Spence, assistant district attorneys.

LEGION MEET OPENS TODAY

Parrish Chief Speaker At District Parley

Principal address at the 13th district American Legion convention which will be held Sunday in Wichita Falls will be made by J. Frank Parrish, of Honey Grove, Texas, prominent legionnaire and candidate for state commander of the legion.

300 Expected

Approximately 300 members of the legion in the 13th district are expected to attend the convention. The district is composed of the following posts: Decatur, Wichita Falls, Burkburnett, Gainesville, Graham, Bowie, St. Jo, Denton, Electra, Archer City, Seymour, Vernon, Alvord and Olney.

Attendants at the convention will assemble at 10:15 a. m. Sunday at the Holt hotel and from there march to the Grace Methodist church, headed by the Olney legion band.

At 11 a. m. in the church the Rev. L. Miller will deliver a memorial address.

Barbecue at Park

A barbecue at Haven park will be given for the visiting legionnaires starting at 1:30 p. m. Following the bargecue a business session will be held during which Mr. Parish will deliver an address.

Mr. Parrish is at present commander of the first division of the Texas American Legion. He has served on the legion national legislative committee at Omaha, Neb., and is a former chairman of the Texas legislative committee.

He is the originator of division conventions for the American Legion in Texas and presided over the first division convention ever held in Texas, at Greenville in December, 1926.

Following the address by Mr. Parrish and the selection of the next convention city, the convention will adjourn.

Warrants For 200 Held By City Officers On Traffic Charges

The average law-abiding citizen of Wichita Falls is presenting one of the most perplexing problems with which the police department has to deal, Police Chief Frank Burns declared Friday.

Disregard for notices pertaining to traffic violations by citizens who otherwise obey the laws presents an enigma that daily grows more puzzling, according to Chief Burns. The traffic department now has about 200 warrants of arrest in traffic cases, the bulk of which have been served by telephone.

Persons considered entirely reliable will promise to appear in police court under traffic charges and then never appear, Chief Burns said.

"It is a different matter from dealing with criminals, but we shall have to find a way to collect these fines." Chief Burns said, adding that when officers have to be sent after violators it will more than double the fines.

Pictures of Ex-Hubby Save $70 For Woman

Two small kodak pictures saved a woman about $70 and led to the arrest of two men whom she claimed had robbed her at her home here Staurday afternoon, according to Officer F. E. Summers, who made the arrests.

The woman told officers that her former husband and another man called at her home and then when the former husband called her into a room away from the other man, the money was taken from a trunk.

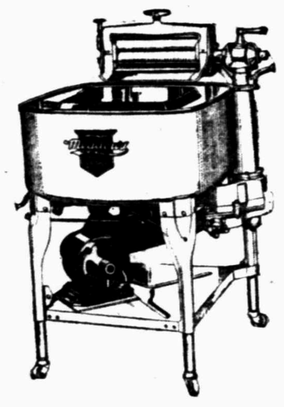

Discovering the loss shortly after the men had left, the woman rushed to the police station with the kodak pictures and Officer Summers arrested the men as they were boarding an outgoing bus.

RESIDENCE BURNS.

A residence at 509 Texas street was destroyed by fire shortly before 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The house was occupied by Ira Brown, negro, and was owned by Dora Frances, who carried insurance of $150 on the property. Practically all of the contents was destroyed.

Slight damage was done to a vacant residence at 202 Plum street about 5 o'clock when fire broke out in the roof.

McCONNELL BROTHERS Removal SALE

Removal Sale!

Broadcasting Is Not Always Done by Radio

McConnell Brothers Entire Stock

To Be Placed On the Market And Sold for What It Will Bring

—literally speaking, this is just what we are going to do. We've set out to make a "quick turnover" of our entire stock and we've priced everything accordingly. We want you to come expecting more from us than from anyone else. You will not be disappointed.

Notice to the Public

We think most everybody in Wcihita Falls and round-about towns know the business reputation of McConnell Brothers. You all know the quality of furniture and the kind of rugs and floor coverings we have been selling for the past eighteen years. Nothing but reliable furniture.

You all know that we seldom promote sales but when we do, it means something. To the best of our knowledge, this removal sale is our third sale in eighteen years. That's not many sales, is it?

Those who know us best, know our word has always been as good as our bond. So when McConnell Brothers make a statement over their signature like the one here today, you, the public, may well believe this Removal Sale will be one of the kind that seldom occurs in any community. We want you to come from many miles around. We will make it well worth your while. We are

At Your Service,
McCONNELL BROTHERS

Out of Town People Take Notice

We've planned this sale, so everybody can take advantage of this opportunity. Not only will the benefits of this sale go to people living inside the city limits of Wichita Falls, but we want you to come from one hundreds miles around. We give you the same service we give right here in town—we will sell you at the same prices, same terms and deliver your purchase right to your front door with our motor trucks—free of charge,

Tune In On This One 'Too Good To Miss

This Is Not DX
This Is Local—Right Here in Wichita Falls.

It Starts Tomorrow Morning

MONDAY, MAY 30th

This Is the Story Briefly Told

Pretty soon now, we will be in our new building, just a little further down the street. And we've set out to open our new store with everything new; we want to have everything in keeping, so to speak.

This Is the Reason Why We Are Promoting This Removal Sale—

We don't want to move a dollar's worth of furniture, not a rug, not a yard of floor covering, not a gas range, not a refrigerator, not a dollar's worth of merchandise of any kind into our new store. And we fully realize what this means. It means nothing but prices and terms. Prices and terms much out of the ordinary—we stand ready to do our part—we are going to pass the savings on to the people of Wichita Falls and all around about town—we're going to give everybody, rich and poor alike, an opportunity to take advantage of this sale. If you have the money or not, we want you to come. We stand ready to finance the deal for you—so you see, it will be your own fault if you miss this chance.

You'll Notice We Are Not Quoting Prices Today

This would be almost useless for we will have a tremendous rush with spirited buying on the part of the public, and what you see on our floors one hour may be gone the next.

You all know everything in our store will be priced for clearance. We repeat, we want to make a "quick turnover" of the entire stock.

You will find everything marked in plain figures on special sale tags so you can practically wait on yourself. We think this the better way—in fact, the only way. Come in and look around. Try and get down early. We want you to help yourself, so to speak.

AIR ACE SEES BIG FUTURE

Long Distance Air Travel Seen As Certain

By COL. WILLIAM MITCHELL
Former Assistant Chief of the U. S. Army Air Service
Written Expressly for Universal Service
(Copyright, 1927, by Universal Service)

MIDDLEBURG, Va., May 28.—Captain Lindbergh's flight must make the thoughtful American pause and think.

It means that the air, instead of being a barrier to transportation and communication, is the greatest highway the world has ever known. It is the road which covers the whole earth, 10 miles thick, and which never need repairing. Through it aircraft can go in any direction.

They are not confined to concrete highways like the automobile, nor to steel rails like the railroads. They do not have to search for passes through the mountains or bridges across rivers. They do not have to confine themselves, as do steamships, to open waters free of ice, or to deep-water harbors, for operating.

Planes Defy Clines

Modern aerial navigation instruments make it possible for airplanes to fly through any kind of weather, storms, sleet, fog and snow. They can operate on temperatures of 60 degrees below zero in the Arctic or of 130 or 140 in the tropics.

Lindbergh's little plane, 60 days after construction was started on it, had hopped across the North American continent and flown the Atlantic from New York to Paris in 33 1-2 hours.

Take a string and lay it on your map or globe, with one end resting on New York and the other end at Paris. Lay off this same length from New York toward Asia and you will find that it reaches to the Bering straits, the threshold of Asia, and one of the future highways between the Far East and the Far West.

It is undoubtedly through Alaska that the first people traveled who came to the North American continent. Even in the last century, it was through there that the Russians came, first to Alaska, then clear down the coast, almost to San Francisco, and were only pushed back by the Spaniards, who established missions along the California coast for the express purpose of repelling the Russian invasion.

65 Hours Distance

Lay the same distance off again from Bering straits in the direction of Peking, China, and you will find that 3600 miles carries one away beyond Peking and into the center of the most populous country in the world. China. New York is only 65 hours away from Peking, and this at the rate of flight of Captain Lindbergh's plane, which is only about 100 miles an hour.

Today we can build airplans that will go 300 miles an hour, or three times as fast as Captain Lindbergh's plane. Not only is it possible to do so, but it is a practical proposition, with present engines and structures. This means that Captain Lindbergh's time can be cut down one-third, that Paris can be brought within from 10 to 15 hours of New York and Peking within 20 to 25 hours.

Flying Is Safe

The safety of these flights with modern instruments and equipment is much greater than was ocean travel from Europe to America 100 years ago. In spite of all this talk about the danger of transoceanic flight, the only crews that have been lost have been with the two French airplans which left Europe and Africa respectively, unequipped with means of rescue or arrangement for calling assistance in case of trouble.

Naturally the equipment used by these pioneers of long distance flying does not contain the safety devices which passenger planes and military planes will possess in the future, but Lindbergh's instruments were sufficient to navigate the oceans with accuracy.

He Used Indicators

I used the gyroscopic turn indicators for flying in fogs for the first time in the service during the bombardment of the battleships in 1921, which were anchored 100 miles off the coast. Each week my men flew with me over the water for distances as far as from Chesapeake bay to Scotland. The airplanes we used were all practically the leavings from the war in Europe, entirely unsuitable for the work in hand. Still I lost not one man at sea.

Aircraft that are used for commercial and economic purposes are just as great an asset for national defense, because we can change them in an hour from passenger and freight ships to carriers of torpedoes, bombs and gases.

Lindbergh's flight shows that the air torpedo, which is an airplane guided and controlled by a gyroscopic pilot, can be launched in Asia or Europe and aimed to hit New York or any city in America.

War Via Air

Airplanes can fly across oceans and seize islands and defend them. All they have to fear are hostile air forces. When control of the air can be kept, these bases can be pushed all around the world. They can be supplied by submarines or airships. A submarine vessel, fitted out as an oil tanker, can lay its nose up near the beach of an island, put out a pipe which may be laid along the ground and from which 100 airplanes at one time can draw their gasoline and oil.

In the north, airdromes and landing fields can be made on the ice, a hole made through it to the water and submarines can navigate under the ice, guided by subaqueous radio to the desired place, come up through the hole and supply the air forces.

As far as national defense is concerned, sea power today is merely an auxiliary of air power. Its principal use will be to supply aircraft which operate over the water, just as automobiles or railroads supply air forces operating over land.

One significent fact engages our attention, now that air power is the controlling factor in international relations. It is that the great industrial nations of Europe and America are the only ones in the world, with the exception of Japan, able to construct aeronautical material. Without well organized factories and raw materials and mechanics to operate them, air power cannot be produced.

U. S. In Lead.

The United States is the best equipped nation in the world to develop air power, but so long as our aeronautics remain tied to the loadstone of the army and navy, it cannot and will not progress.

The great lesson to Americans from this flight is that aeronautics in the United States should be constituted into a department separate and distinct from the army and navy, where it can be developed as a major project, instead of a little auxiliary of the army and navy, like the ail of a dog.

All That's Left of the TC-10-243

The army dirigible fell in front of the hangar at Brooks Field, San Antonio, Texas. The picture shows the wreckage, with the collapsed bag and the remains of the gondola, which was broken in two places. The ship was commanded by Maj. H. A Strauss, who was also in command of the C-2, burned on almost the same spot in 1922.

CONCERN WILL AID SCIENTISTS

Navy Commander Resigns To Head Unique Work

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Commander Fitzhugh Green, U. S. N., author, explorer and naval officer, resigned today from the United States navy to establish a new and unheard-of business. "Explorations, ltd." would be a fair name for the new firm. Commander Green has been a contributor to Universal Service for years.

In company with a group of other well-known explorers he is establishing a unit for the guidance and general business assistance of any expedition or enterprise, ashore or afloat or aloft, bound to any spot on the globe. Treasure hunts, polar dashes, big game, cannibals and deep sea mysteries are all in the official catalogue.

To Aid Explorers

"The modern explorer faces the most difficult problem in the world," said Commander Green. "He has to be a military leader, a business executive, writer, technician and publicist.

"At the same time he is often temperamentally a genius. And genius is usually impractical. Only mediocrity is altogether practical.

Corns
Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit. Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.—Adv.

"The modern expedition, whether it be to Persia or to Patagonia, rarely gets away without an expenditure of from $50,000 to $500,000. While we hope to make exploration less expensive than it has ever been, the problems alone of equipment, radio, press and magazine stories, syndicated features or articles, and personnel and legal items, are enough to crush the average business executive."

Commander Green is just finishing his 22nd year in the naval service which took him to all parts of the world. He graduated from Annapolis in 1909 and has specialized in ordinance in addition to taking postgraduate work in explosive chemistry, terrestrial physics and natural science.

He spent nearly four years in the Polar regions and with McMillan he penetrated the unknown area of the Polar sea in 1914. He is the author of 16 books dealing with the navy, exploration and biography. He is the official biographer of Admiral Peary, discoverer of the North Pole.

Crippled Ship Towed Into New York Harbor

NEW YORK, May 28. (AP)—The new Matson liner Malolo, which was crippled in a collision with the lightship on the first day of her trial cruise last Wednesday, was towed into the harbor today by wrecking tugs.

The Malolo will be dry docked at the Todd Ship Building yards in Brooklyn and repairs made. A large hole was torn in the side of the liner and her boiler room flooded in the crash.

CORN CLIMBS OVER BUYING

Reports of Wet Weather Boost Price

CHICAGO, May 28. (AP) — Continued reports that weather over the corn belt is "all wet," caused another frenzied session of buying on the Chicago Board of Trade today and the short day ended with King Corn enthroned on new high levels for the crop.

With delayed deliveries of corn well over the dollar mark, other grains also went skyrocketing, partly in sympathy with corn, and all deliveries of grain except May rye, scored new high prices for the crop in the early trading, with corn and oats holding the major parts of their advances.

Wheat, which went on a rampage yesterday with a gain of 5 cents recorded, rose higher during early trading, but lost some of its advantage during the last few minutes, when the advance attracted extensive realizing sales by longs, who dumped in their grain and took their profits, forcing the closing prices down slightly over the high marks for the day.

With a double holiday coming, and only one more day of trading in May, figures tonight showed corn was up from 26 to 30 cents over the low point of about six weeks ago, while wheat has advanced during the same period from 22 to 25 cents.

September corn showed the biggest advance today, winding up with a closing advance of more than 4 cents. The closing was $1.04 3-4. July corn ended at $1.01 3-8 to $1.01 1-2, a raise of more than 3 cents, and May corn was up almost 3 cents, closing at 98 1-4 cents.

Wheat, after touching high marks closed a fraction of a cent lower. May at $1.53 1-2 July at $1.49 3-8, and September at $1.46 7-8, while oats advanced about a cent.

TEXAS GRAIN CROP IN GOOD CONDITION.

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, May 28.—Tom F. Connally of Clarendon and veteran grain dealer of the Panhandle has returned to Clarendon after several weeks of travel over the entire Panhandle, parts of New Mexico and as far north as Liberal, Kansas, where he has been in the interests of his firm inspecting and looking into grain supplies for the present season.

Mr. Connally the first president of the Panhandle grain dealers association and later president of the State association, reports crops in the different sections as follows. On the Rock Island from Tucumcari, N. M., to Dalhart, Stratford, Texhoma, Texas, Guymon, to Hooker, Okla., to Liberal, Kan., wheat is very short and farmers will not make enough for next year's seed, mainly due to dry weather conditions. In the Spearman, Perryton country conditions are somewhat better and about a one-third normal crop will be harvested.

From Clarendon north to Groom, Pampa and Miami, conditions are about normal and among the best found. From Amarillo on the Rock Island to San Jon, N. Mex., the crop is a complete failure. On the Amarillo to Coleman division of the Santa Fe the crop will average about 15 per cent of last year's crop. In the Plainview district about a 50 per cent normal crop is predicted, while in the Tulia, Silverton country the crop will be normal or better the only other section reported as high as normal.

In the Lockney, Floydada district about 75 per cent of the yield last year will be harvested due mainly to increased acreage and not acre yields. In the section from Crowell to Abilene, Brackenridge, Seymour and Stamford, Mr. Connally reports about a one-third crop. According to Connally weather conditions are not wholly to blame for the low yields as in several places bugs and rust have made considerable inroads on the stand.

Alamo School Summer Term to Open Monday

Registrations for summer school for pupils of the primary and intermediate grades will begin at the Alamo buding Monday morning. The term will be for six weeks and six days each week. The school is for students behind in their work, but children wishing to advance may enter upon recommendation from their teacher, according to the announcement.

R. A. Jarrett, principal of the San Jacinto school will be in charge, and will be assisted by W. E. Walker, principal of the Bowie school, Mrs. R. E. Virgus of the Alamo school and Miss Walker Riddle of the Crockett school. More teachers will be added if required, it was announced.

Pupils in the first to sixth grades will be enrolled and the term price for enrollment will be $5 for one subject or $10 for two or more. Classes will begin at 8 o'clock in the morning and continue until 12:30.

City and County Split Over $5000 Cost of Joint Disease Colony

Two interpretations of a contract made in 1917 between the city council and the county commissioners court relative to the upkeep of the joint city and county contagious disease colony has resulted in a dispute between the two governments over the payment of $5,032.62, which is alleged by the commissioners to be due the county by the city.

The situation was revealed Friday to The Record News by Mayor R. E. Shepherd and County Judge E. W. Nicholson.

Mayor Shepherd asserted that so far as he could interpret the contract the city does not owe the county the money and Judge Nicholson declared that his interpretation is that the city owes the money.

Contract Drawn.

The dispute is hinged on the construction of a sentence relative to the building of the houses in the colony. In setting out the distribution of cost between city and county the contract states that the city shall be liable for one-half of the cost of "construction and maintenance, therof."

The city officials construe the sentence as meaning that the city shall be liable for one half the maintenance of the buildings and not the cost of caring for the inmates.

The county officials' construction is that the city shall be liable for one half of the cost of caring for the inmates in addition to the maintenance of the buildings.

Getting into the fine points of law, Mayor Shepherd cited the fact that as the word "maintenance" was connected to the word "construction" by the conjunction "and" that the only inference to be derived was that "maintenance" was only in reference to the construction and upkeep of the buildings.

County Statement.

The county commissioners court at the May 16 meeting passed an order authorizing the sending of a statement to the city council for $5,032.62, which is, according to the court, one half the cost of caring for the inmates, from December 31, 1922 to date.

On Dec. 31, 1922 the city made a payment to the county for colony purposes, however, according to Mayor Shepherd the payment was for one half the cost of maintaining the buildings and not the inmates.

The contract between the city and county was consumated May 14, 1917. At that time the county deeded to the city one half interest in the colony.

That the city is only liable for the cost of maintaining the buildings has been the understanding for several years by city officials, Mayor Shepherd asserted, while, according to Judge Nicholson, the county has always been of the opinion that the city was also liable for one half the cost of maintaining the inmates.

The order of the county commissioners court asking the city for the payment was received several days ago by the city and will be presented to the city council for consideration at the next meeting, Monday night.

ALUMNAE MEETING

The annual Academy Mary Immaculate alumnae meeting will be held Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the school. All members are cordially invited to attend and Sisters of St. Mary of the academy announce that they will be glad to welcome several former students who live in the city at this meeting and as many from out of town as can possibly come.

MEXICO HOLDS 100,000 ALIENS

Foreigners Register Under Residence Law

By Universal Service.

MEXICO CITY, May 28.—Mexico's population, estimated variously at from 10,000,000 to 14,000,000 persons, includes approximately 100,000 foreigners registered in accordance with the law, according to preliminary compilations made by the department of gobernacion.

More than one-third of the 100,000 are Guatemalans, and a large fraction of the remainder are Syrians and Armenians, who came to Mexico after the United States put up the immigration bars.

About 40,000 foreigners reside in the federal district, which includes Mexico City.

The government's calculations are based upon registrations made in compliance with the order of the federal authorities in July of each year.

The figures on Americans resident in Mexico are not yet available, but it is believed that the American colony is only a small part of what it was in 1910, at the outbreak of the revolution.

SARTIN TALKS TO GRADUATES

Holliday School Closes Year's Work

Special to The Record News.

HOLLIDAY, May 28.—The final curtain was rung down on the most successful year in the history of the Holliday public schools when the final commencement exercises were held in the auditorium Friday night. The graduating class composed of Lura Carter, Erma Lee Little, Mrs. Alene Clark Palmer, and Jack McGaughey, was addressed by Judge B. D. Sartin, well-known attorney of Wichita Falls. He used as his subject "Success," telling his audience that it is a difficult thing to define and that if you were to ask a number of persons their idea of success you would be given a diversity of answers limited only by the number of people questioned.

"There are a number of things that go to the making of a successful man, and a number of qualities which a successful man will possess.

"The first of these qualites is confidence," Judge Sartin said.

"Show me the man who has lost all confidence in himself and I will show you a hopeless case. A man is never defeated until he himself admits it. . . . I want to tell you young people who are going out of this building tonight as the first graduating class of the Holliday high school, that there is always a job ready for the person who is ready and qualified to fill it. It was Abraham Lincoln, I believe, who said 'I will work and study hard and someday my chance will come.' Another element of success is education," the speaker went on, "and if you tell me that a person does not necessarily have to have an education to become a success, I will admit it. But the chances are almost a thousand to one against him if he does not have it."

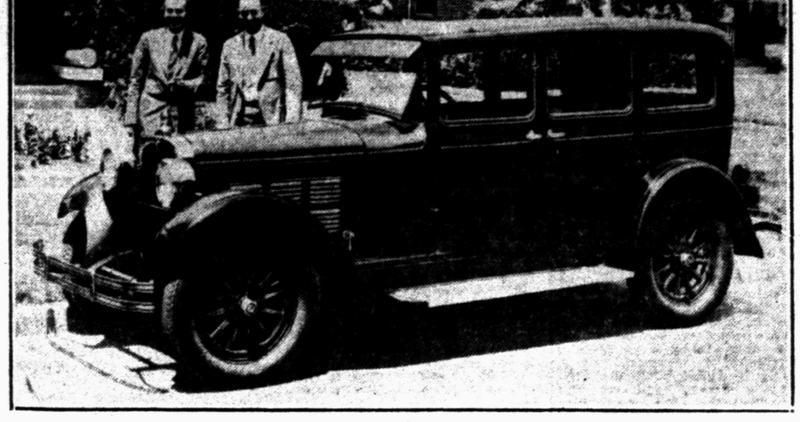

Judge Sartin said that the real test of any one's character is his conduct under hardships, and quoted that old adage "The man worth while is the man who can smile when everything goes dead wrong." "Success," he concluded, "is doing your job the best you can. Do your chosen work to the best of your ability, and you have done all that can be humanly expected of you."

Certificates for being neither absent nor tardy throughout the session were given to Florine Turner, Willie Mahan, Erdene Smith, Clinton Laudamy, Leoda Barnes, R. A. Brand, J. C. Thomas, Howard Williars, Maridean Laudamy, Ruby Oldham, Estelle Carson, H. J. Sparks, Ernestine Bennett and Belle Thurlkill.

Those receiving grammar school diplomas entitling them to admission to the high school were Perry Davis, Jack Dykes, R. A. Brand, Anton Holly, Edgar Little, Catherine Hawley, Lora and Marion Winlinger, Mattie Sue Rankin, Faye Carson, Ruby Nell Brooks, and Mildred Parker.

The full program is given: Invocation, Rev. S. M. Dunham; piano solo, Mrs. Beatrice Parrish; valedictory, Jack McGauhey; salutatory, Alene Clark Palmer; class prophecy, Erma Lee Little, the commencement address, Judge B. D. Sartin, awarding of certificates and diplomas, Supt. A. F. Ligon; awarding of scholarships, Principal C. C. Miller; benediction, Rev. D. S. Ligon.

New Dodge Model On Display Here Today

This is the new Dodge Brothers "Six" sedan, one of the models of the "Senior Line," just received in Wichita Falls, on display today in the show rooms of McFall Brothers. In the picture is Ira L. Brown, office manager, and Bob Cornelison, general manager, McFall Brothers.

Mr. Cornelison has arranged for a special display of this car and is also showing a new body type of the present four-cylinder lines which is one of Dodge Brothers' latest creations.

There is also in addition to this a unique parts display board, another idea of Mr. Cornelison, displaying the many advantages of the important units of the motor car. This board shows all of Dodge Brothers recent improvements as compared with old parts of the same unit.

BETTER DAIRY MOVEMENT ON

Wilbarger County Business Men Boost Idea

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, May 28. — Distribution of several hundred head of dairy cattle and high bred bulls among the farmers of Wilbarger county during a three-year dairy improvement program has been planned by the agricultural committee of the Vernon Chamber of Commerce and representatives of each of the local banks.

It was decided to send a committee to other counties where a dairy program is sponsored in order that the advantages of the various programs may be studied. The committee will be composed of A. M. Bourland, vice president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce; a representative from each Vernon bank; County Agent R. E. L. Patillo, and Grady Shipp, manager of the Vernon Chamber of Commerce.

Itinerary Later

This committee will leave Vernon next week, but no definite plans as to what counties they will visit have been announced. Representatives of other lines of business will be invited to make the trip, Mr. Shipp has announced.

The three-year program will place between 1200 and 1500 purebred dairy cattle in Wilbarger county in the next three years, including the increase, according to preliminary estimates. Definite plans for financing the project have not been decided upon, although it was decided that the farmers would be permitted to pay for the cows out of the receipts of the dairy products.

One plan for financing the project is to create a revolving fund of not less than $10,000 or more than $20,000, to be raised among the business men of Vernon. Another outlined arrangement for having the banks of Vernon handle the notes of farmers who desire to buy the cattle, but do not have the money.

Big Butter Output

Grady Shipp, manager of the chamber of commerce, estimates that during 1926 approximately $20,000 worth of butter was shipped into Vernon. During the past winter local dairymen shipped more than 100 gallons of milk into Vernon daily in orde rto meet the local demand. Mr. Shipp said. "This means that money is being sent out of Vernon and Wilbarger county for dairy products when it could be kept here." Mr. Shipp declared. "Last year $50,000 was spent out of Vernon that should be here now."

Byrd Granted Bail At Northwest Church

HASKELL SOCIETY

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, May 28.—On last Friday afternoon the Harmony club honored one of their members, Miss Aura Lee Tucker, who will become the bride of Kenneth Thornton, also of Haskell, on Wednesday, June 1, with a "42" announcement shower party. This was at the Magazine Club library and the interior was made to resemble a bowery dell with myraids of bowls, baskets and vases of larkspur and sweet peas. Mrs. D. L. Cummins met the guests on arriving and Mesdames Vaughn Bailey, W. C. Williams and Harry Stalcup took the gifts; little Miss Gene Connor, dressed as cupid passed out hand bills, resembling picture show advertisments, announcing that on June 1 there would be a love-sick comedy, Aura Lee Tucker and Kenneth Thornton in wedding bells. Mrs. C. L. Lewis presided at the punch bowl and served guests on their arriving and all through the afternoon. The receiving line was composed of Mrs. J. G. Foster, Miss Aura Lee Tucker, Mrs. M. E. Thornton, mother of the groom-to-be, Mrs. O. E. Patterson, Mrs. H. D. Neff, Misses Manley, Eunice Huckabee, Elaine Mills, Maybelle Taylor; Mrs. Tom French presided at the bride's book. Mrs. Leo Southern assisted the guests in finding their places at the "42" tables. Mrs. Wayne Koonce sang two appropriate numbers and Miss Elaine Mills read Maud Muller as she raked the gifts beneath a minature hay stack. High score at "42" was made by Mrs. Clyde Grisson and she was given the honor of escorting the bride-to-be to the seat of honor where she could best see the many beautiful and useful gifts. Brick cream and cake were served to: Misses Minnie Ellis, Earline Mask, Mary Couch, Ermone Daugherty, Lela Welsh, Nettie McCollum, Ruth Clough, Maybelle Taylor, Elaine Mills, Eunice Huckabee, Grace Martin and Messrs J. G. Foster, D. L. Cummins, M. E. Thornton, O. E. Patterson, H. D. Neff, C. L. Lewis, Clay Smith, Elmer Irwin, Owen Fouts, Courtney Hunt, T. A. Pinkerton, Wayne Koonce, W. P. Trice, O. E. Crow, Tom French, W. E. Vaughn, Scott Green and Marlin Wilson of Rule.

On last Saturday night Misses Maybelle Taylor and Bernice Mask entertained the graduating class most delightfully with a Gipsy party. The class of 34 with their sponsor, Mrs. Ed Sprowles, superintendent and Mrs. H. D. Neff and the hostesses, met at the high school and "piled" into trucks and with all kinds of stringed instruments, invaded the downtown districts playing, singing and giving their senior yell. They then went to Hemphill Lake, where a large camp fire and Gipsy fortune teller's tent awaited them. After telling fortunes and reminiscencing of the past four years of their Haskell high school days, the hostesses passed out individual lunches, in many colored cheese cloth bags and a cup for drinking a beverage from a large dinner pot near the fire. On arriving at the high school the truck lights were thrown on the senior banner floating above the school, and this caused more school yells. Each member was given a good-luck ring in senior colors, green and white. They are: Fave Akins, Stella Mae Coburn, Gladys Connor, Jerene Cooner, Agnes Fields, Hazel Flenniken, Jessie Maud Hajs, Mary Sue Hester, Vivian Johnson, Ruby Martin, Earline Mask, Kathryn Rike, Maurine Shook, Loreda Sloan, Lonnie Stoker, Iola Taylor, Dessie Wolf, James Alvis, Burwell Cox, Marion Felker, Orville Graham, Charles Grissom, Joe Guest, Horace O'Neal, L. D. Ratliff, Earnest Wright, Lewis Sherman, Lewis Smith, Elmore Smith, Willie Stoker, Haskell Stone, Marvin Vaughn, Mark Wadzeck, Bill Whiteker.

The Haskell Federated Missionary societies will meet Monday, May 30 in their regular fifth Monday meeting at the Methodist church. Subject, "What Is Christian Citizenship?" Mrs. S. E. Rike, president of the Methodist Missionary society, director, will give the devotional, prayer, Mrs. C. M. Kaigler; "Obedience to Law," Mrs. J. B. Post; "Obedience to God's Law," Mrs. R. J. Reynolds, two numbers by the Harmony club, (a) "Calvary," (b) "Praise Ye the Father," Hatred of Mob Rule," Mrs. R. [illegible] "Cleaning Up Wrongs," Mrs. Virgil Meadows, vocal solo, Miss Winnie Wiggs, song leader for the Methodist revival meeting now in progress. Miss Wigg's home is in Paris, Texas. Election of officers at this meeting.

Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Vaughn, the former was pastor of the Methodist church, Haskell, were Stamford visitors Tuesday of this week.

Mrs. Thomas Powell of Ft. Smith, Ark., and Mrs. Jim Mundy of Madill, Okla., are guests of their mother, Mrs. T. J. Wright and sister, Mrs. J. E. Bernard.

Mrs. Emmett Loe and son Isam of Rochester were guests in the home of their daughter and sister, Judge and Mrs. J. G. Foster last week.

Tom Williams, son of Dave Williams who owned and operated a sheep ranch in Haskell county on Miller creek many years ago, of Delrio, is visiting relatives and old friends in Haskell.

Miss Patsy Lou Koonce of Cammel, Texas and Mrs. Pete Cooper of Holliday and children are the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Koonce.

Mrs. J. L. Rogers, mother and Miss Mary Jane Rogers, niece of T. C. Rogers, returned to their home in Morgan, Wednesday night, after a visit to Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Rogers and other relatives in Haskell.

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, May 27.—Last Friday at the noon hour a luncheon honoring Charles Brandon Booth was given at the Tonkawa Coffee Shop, when covers were laid for 60. O. E. Patterson of the Haskell National Bank was the toastmaster. Mrs. Clayburn Payne sang "Texas, My Texas." Rev. R. G. Forrester, pastor of the Christian church, made a splendid complimentary address on the class work done by Mr. Booth, piano solo, "Eisentraum" by Satter, Mrs. John W. Pace. Mr. Patterson then introduced Mrs. J. J. Fields, state president of the Federation of Women's clubs, through whose influence this national speaker was brought to Texas and to Haskell. Mrs. Fields presented Mr. Booth, who spoke on the Big Brotherhood and Big Sisterhood Movement. Those present follow: Mr. Charles Brandon Booth, New York city, Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Fields, Mr. O. E. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Hunt, Judge and Mrs. W. H. Murchison, Messrs and Mesdames C. V. Payne, A. C. Pierson, R. C. Couch, A. H. Alexander, Wallace Cox, J. L. Southern, R. R. English, M. H. ### Charles Brandon Booth Lectures

On last Friday evening at the First Christian church in Haskell, Charles Brandon Booth, of the Big Brotherhood and Big Sisterhood Movement, spoke to a large audience on the subject of the boy and girl problem. Mr. Booth was brought to Haskell by the Magazine club and the lecture was free to the public. Judge W. H. Murchison introduced the speaker in a comparison of the nations in the past that have builded themselves on fame, art, literature and music, conquest of the weaker nations, money power, with the Christian Era, and paid a fitting tribute to Mr. Booth and his world renowned father and family. Mrs. Wayne Koonce sang two numbers.

NOCONA SOCIETY

NOCONA, May 28.—Announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Laura Bratcher to Edward Clarence Hall was made at a very pretty miscellaneous shower given the bride-elect last Saturday by Mrs. A. A. Stripling. Miss Bratcher has been a protege and friend of Mrs. Stripling for the past eight years and the wedding will be a sunrise wedding on the lawn of Dr. and Mrs. Stripling's home June the 4th.

At the shower, a clever pink cupid basket presided over by little Miss Charlotte Cone stood at the door to receive the gifts, as little Charlotte raised the lid on the under side was seen a large ring in the center of which was two loving cupids named "Laura and Buddy" with the date of the wedding on the ring.

For 30 minutes guests hemmed cup towels—Mrs. Adams of Dallas, and Mrs. Don Peterson tied for the best hemmed towel. During the sewing a clever little book called "Dont's for brides" was passed. Each guest wrote a pointed "don't" signing her name to it.

Next came a cross word puzzle to be solved. This centered around the bride and groom's names and ten guests successfully solved it. Miss Gladys Troxell drawing out as winner.

Then came the opening of the cupids basket by Miss Bratcher displaying the many kind and lovely gifts. Finally the guests were served with a plate on which was brick cream in orchid and pink, white cake and orchid and pink mints, on each plate was a hand decorated announcement card containing the same ring used in the cupid's basket.

There was a lovely toast to the bride by Mrs. Don Peterson, a very clever one also one to the groom by Miss Lucile Morgan and one to the bride's mother by Mrs. J. A. Foosher, also one to the girls left behind by Miss [illegible] and Miss Bratcher's response to the toast.

Senior Class Play

"Seventeen" was written by Booth Tarkington and considered one of his best plays. It is a comedy of high-class, full of wholesome humor and true to life. W. T. Humphries, as William Sylvanus Baxter, "seventeen" was the star and played the part well.

Other characters were Mrs. Baxter, mother of the boy, Inez Francis, Mr. Baxter, the father, George Mickey; Johnnie Watson, Richard Morris, Jane Baxter, Imogene Ballew, Mary Parcher, Harriett Allison; Lola Pratt, Maurice Hammers; Genesis colored, John Moellett; Joe Bullitt, Cleveland Brown; Mr. Parcher, Charles Morris; George Cooper, Jarrell Davis; Ethel Bake, Adah Lois Fancher; Wollie Banks, Neil Foster; Mary Brooks, Iva Mae Ward.

The receipts of the evening were about $200. This will be used for expenses of the class and for the gift the senior class is leaving the high school, a trophy case which was presented to the studentbody on Friday morning in the senior class-day program by the president of the class, Richard Morris. The trophy case has been much needed as Seymour high has won a number of different trophies in scholastic meets the last few years. The play, "Seventeen" was directed by Miss Maurinne Taylor, teacher of public speaking in the high school and Mrs. W. A. Baker, the sponsor of the senior class.

Seniors Get Diplomas

Bounding Russian Tackles British Columbian

THE CARD

Ivan Zarynoff, the Russian count and heavyweight grapster, who gave fandom a large and different kind of a kick here last week by his speed, agility and aggressiveness, abetted by sensational acrobatic ability in match with the hefty Dick Schikat, returns Tuesday night at the Ross arena in finish match with the British Columbian, Link Decker, a newcomer to this section.

The matchmaker declares that Decker is a rough and ready sort of battler, who should prove a good match for the bounding Russia. Both men will weigh in the vicinity of 195 pounds, according to Promoter Ross.

Zarynoff, by his exhibition against Schikat built up a clientele that will back him to the limit against a man his weight. His sportsmanship and pep, willingness to keep boring in won the Count almost a 100 per cent backing here last week.

Yaqui Joe, the old welter favorite, returns with another newcomer in Bill Bain. Bain is said to be a speedster, also.

Negro Fighters Tangle June 8

WAGGONER WINS

ELECTRA, May 28.—The Waggoner Refinery defeated the M. B. A. in the last game scheduled for the first half of the season Friday by a 10 to 5 score.

The M. B. A. used three hurlers, but none of them were effective, the Refiners gathering nine hits.

The second inning netted the winners six of their runs when they bunched five hits and took advantage of three M. B. A. errors to score the tallies.

Early, Maxwell, Eubanks and Starks each collected two bingles.

SAND LOT SLANTS

GAMES TODAY

Twilight League, Katy park, Panhandle vs. Conocos.

City League, Jalonic street park, Scotland Plumbers vs. Muny Gas.

• • •

Both the City and Twilight leagues seem to have narrowed down to one team in each for the first half championship of their races. The American Eagles under Larry Williams appear to be under the Twilight league wire and the Scotland Pumbers look like a cinch for the City league leadership.

• • •

But there is many a slip betwixt the cup and lip, and both teams still have some tough battles before them at the present time. There is several chances of both of them getting slipped up on.

• • •

Only two teams stand between the Eagles and the first half championship. The Panhandle Longhorns and the Conocos are yet to meet them and this pair will be putting out everything that they have to stop them. One victory in this brace of games will mean the championship.

• • •

The Eagles hold a three-game lead over their nearest rival, the Longhorns, and have two more to play. The Longhorns have four games left in this half and will have to win all four to have a hope to tie the Eagles. One loss for the Panhandle nine and the Americans are under the wire.

• • •

This afternoon the Panhandle club meets the Conocos for their first game of their last four. On June 1 they play the Electrics. On June 5 they meet the Eagles themselves and on June 8 they face the Electrics again.

• • •

Ronnie Glidewell and Smoke Luphor are the two men who are likely to take the hill for the Americans in the last two games with the hope of putting the team high and dry under the wire.

• • •

As far as winning the championship is concerned for the first half of the Twilight league, the Electrics and the Conocos are out of the race, but they are both in a position to cause much worry to the two leaders. The Americans must play the Panhandle and Conocos in their two last games. The Panhandle nine must face not only the Americans, but the Conocos and the Electrics twice.

• • •

As far as breaks of the game go, the Eagles are about to face a problem that will be hard to overcome. Friday was about the last time that Slim Lewis will be seen in the line-up for the Eagles. He has been a great factor in keeping them in the race with his hitting and base running. He is the leader of the the loop in stolen bases at the present time and may have set a new mark for the league, but for his departure.

• • •

No matter how the first half of the race may end, the second half will be one merry chase for the championship. The Twilight leaguers have four fast teams forming for the final half of the drive and each should be in the thick of the fight all the way.

• • •

The Conocos will be almost a different team when they go into into the battle for the second half. They have added many new players who will make them a contender all the way with any fair amount of the breaks. They have the fighting spirit and the punch.

• • •

In Gerard Boone the Conocos have a man who can step into the game almost any time and any place and make the grade. Should an injury come up they can put Boone in the outfield, on second, at short or third and never weaken the team in any way.

• • •

Boone is too short to play first base and may not be such a noise as a batterman, but he can handle the other positions with plenty of hustle and fight. With a few more men like Boone they would have a fighting team that would overcome any of their other handicaps.

• • •

His lay-off last year seems to have done Frank Ramsey great good, if one can judge from the way he is playing ball this season. Ramsey is hitting the ball at a lively clip and at present is one of the best outfielders in the league. His batting average is not sensational, but he gets his daily hit and is the league leader in two-base knocks.

• • •

Jack Prince is another man like Boone, only maybe a little better in the all-around playing, for Prince can not only step over the places that Boone can, but he has plenty of size for first base, can pitch or catch.

• • •

Whatley, Taylor and Harris are three old timers in the Twilight league who have looked bad through the early stages of the race, but have come to the front in great style lately and seem to be started at last on the right road. If the Conocos' new men can keep the case as set by the present crew this is one team that can't be counted out on any side.

• • •

If the Texas Electric team will keep its fight and pep that it displayed while giving the Eagles their first defeat of the year Friday afternoon, they will be more than hard to stop. For all around ability on paper this is one team that looks great.

• • •

Skipper Charley Spragins over at the Texas Electric company is silent on the personnel of his team for the last half of the Twilight league race, but he declares his team will be in, fighting all the way.

• • •

Spragins has the best looking infield in the loop right now, and a good outfield. His catching has been handled by Vernie Ross, while he has a good pitching staff in the making. Ross is a smart catcher, but has not been hitting the ball.

• • •

Cox at first base for the Electrics is one who will bow his head to no man in the league in fielding. Maurice not only fields 1.000 at the present time, but has fielded that on some very hard balls to handle. In the six games played by the Electrics thus far Cox has handled an even 68 chances. For six games, Cox's box score records is as follows.

| | AB | R | H | PO | A | E |
| Cox, 1b | 29 | 4 | 4 | 64 | 4 | 0 |

Cox is only hitting .200 in the Twilight league, but he has been worth his weight in gold on that infield for the team. He has held down the scores of opposition.

• • •

The steady improvement of Doc Allen on short and the sensational work of Francis and Miller has made the Electrics a well oiled machine.

• • •

One word for the umps in both leagues. These two men have been giving all that they have and they have been doing some good work. Both Nealie Vaught and Charley Hefner have been getting their share of the razzes that their jobs call for. Both men are handling the job better than one could expect and outside of very few times they have pleased all the players in spite of the hard words passed on them by some fans.

• • •

Vaught is the best umpire that the Twilight league has had in years and they have had some good ones. C. P. Mosley was the last umpire for the league who did have lots of trouble with the fans and some of the hot tempered players.

• • •

It is a hard job for one man to cover the whole field and call them to suit everyone. Every manager in the league says that they are more than well satisfied with the work of Vaught and the Jackson Tire nine alone seems to be dissatisfied with Hefner in the city league.

• • •

Attendance at the Twilight games have been pleasing for the first month of the season. In the 12 games played thus far the official attendance is 914 paid admissions with players season passes for the games numbering 50 over 11 games. The twelfth game was the day that Assistant Treasurer Horn was absent and Hugh Cotner failed to keep a check on the season passes that went through the gate.

Amateur Biffers Battle Thursday

Simon-Pures Put On Benefit Card at Ross Arena

The amateurs come into their own in Wichita Falls with the assuming of the fistic reins by Barney Morgan. As result, an all-amateur boxing card is billed for the Ross Stadium next Thursday night with the lightweights, Batling Cossey of Wichita Falls and Cyclone Hall of Childress in the leading role. The program is to be a Lions club boys' band benefit affair. The boxers are to receive no pay other than expenses.

Olen Hearn tackles Spike Stewart in a six-rounder, also. The men are welterweights.

Martin Thrasher and the heavy-hitting little Leo Voss tangle in a four-rounder, according to Morgan. These boys are bantams.

FARRELL TOPS NAT'L HITTERS

Miller and Goslin Wallop In American

CHICAGO, May 28. (AP)—Eddie Farrell, boy shortstop with the New York Giants has climbed to the front as the leading batter of the National league.

The sensational young collegian, by consistent hitting since the start of the season, today finds himself looking down on some well established sluggers, including the renowned Rogers Hornsby. Farrell has a mark of .412 attained in 32 games in which he made 49 hits for a total of 67 bases, having three homers and nine doubles.

Within a week Terrell raised his average from .393 as the result of getting seven hits in six games. The figures are base on games including Wednesday and are of players who participated in 25 or more games.

One the heels of the New Yorker is "Pie" Traynor of Pittsburgh, who boosted his average 51 per cent from .340 to .391 and is ranking next to Farrell. Hornsby, who dropped down a week ago, raised his mark a point during the week and has .377 for fourth place. George Harper, also of the Giants, is third with .379.

The veteran, "Cy" Williams, of the Phillies, by clouting three homers moved to the front as the leading home run hitter with a total of nine. "Hack" Wilson and Earl Webb of the Cubs, with Hornsby, are tied with seven.

Hazen Cuyler, fleet foot fly chaser, of the Pirates, is setting a merry pace among the base stealers with 14, a gain of four since a week ago. Frankie Frisch of the Cardinals is his closest rival with 10 thefts.

Pirates Bat .306

The Pirates replaced the Giants in team batting with an average of .306, the Giants having dropped to second place with .300 while the Phillies continue to hold down third place with .289.

Other leading batters: P. Waner, Pittsburgh, .360; High, Boston, .343; Wright, Pittsburgh, .341; Frisch, St. Louis, .339; Hafey, St. Louis, .339; Burrus, Boston, .338; Lindstrom, New York, .338; Southworth, St. Louis, .333.

"Bing" Miller of St. Louis made another threat during the week to cause a lot of American league sluggers plenty of worry. He continued his marvelous socking, bagging seven hits in six games, and really is the leader of the league with an average of .417, although Wallie Schang, a teammate, is two points above him, although he did not appear in any game during the week.

Miller has performed in 32 games and been at bat 96 times and made 40 hits to compile his hefty average. Lou Gehrig, star first baseman with the Yankees, who was leading a week ago with .426, dropped down to third place with .408. "Goose" Goslin of the Senators returned to the Ty Cobb is blazing the trail for the Athletics with .402, giving him fourth place among the leading swatters of the league.

Lou Pushes Bam

Gehrig is forcing Babe "Ruth" to step a spirited pace to keep out in front in home runs. Ruth by connecting with a pair, has a total of 11, with Gehrig next with 10.

"Little Boy" Blue swiped one base and tied Goslin and Al Simmons of the Athletics, who failed to add to their totals. The trio deadlocked with seven a piece.

Ruth is making it hot for Gehrig and his teamate, Earl Combs, to keep pace with him in crossing the plate. The "Big Boy" has scored 36 times, while his two rivals both have crossed the plate 34 times.

There was no change in position among the three leading clubs in team hitting although each suffered a falling off. New York tops the list with .306, Philadelphia is next with .302, St. Louis htird with .299.

Old Buddies Are Chums Once More

We caught them at it again. Joe Sewell, Tris Speaker and Luke Sewell were great pals when they raced around the lot for the Cleveland Indians. Upon Tris' arrival for his first game in Cleveland the photographer found them sitting it out on the same old roost and discussing affairs in the same old manner as in the days when Tris managed the Cleveland club. "My only trouble in playing in Cleveland," says Tris, "is that I'm liable to step to the plate in my old batting position."

SPUDDERS TO BE HONORED AT FREE VAUDEVILEE WEDNESDAY

Wichita Falls' traveling baseball team returns home Tuesday with the Dallas Steers. Both clubs will be guests of the wrestlers at Tuesday night's mat card in the Ross stadium, according to Matchmaker Ross, but the real homecoming feature is to be staged the following night.

For the Spudders are to receive a regular Lions' club welcome and be feted at a free vaudeville show in the Ross stadium Wednesday night at which time each Spudder will be introduced to the fans and a number of professional and amateur acts will be knocked off.

It's to be a first class show, says Ross who is handling the heavy end for the Lions club, and the top feature of it all is the Wichita Falls public is invited to attend free of charge.

Show starts at 8 o'clock.

Stanford Takes College Crown

Carr of Yale Breaks Pole Vault Record

FRANKLIN FIELD, PHILADELPHIA, May 28. (AP)—A small but powerful band of 12 stalwart athletes swept Leland Stanford university to its first intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track and field championship today, but it remained for an agile young man from Dubuque, Iowa, to supply the chief thrills.

Sabin Carr of Yale, as well as Dubuque, lifted himself to international fame by clearing 14 feet in the pole vault and smashing the world's record held by the slim Norwegian, Charley Hoff, who is now a professional. It was only by a scant margin that Carr eclipsed Hoff's figure of 13 feet, 11 13-16 inches.

Carr was extended all the way by Lee Barnes of Southern California, the Olympic champion. Leaving Carr's former I. C. A. A. A. A. record of 13 feet 2 inches far behind, Barnes kept pace with the Yale ace up to 13 feet, 9 1-2 inches.

Four Records Fall

Four records fell altogether as Stanford's squad, in workmanlike fashion, went about the task of piling up their winning total of 36 1-2 points, enough to decisively outstrip rivals and displace Southern California as the holder of the team trophy.

Carr's was the only world's record but intercollegiate marks were shattered in the javelin by Creth Hines of Georgetown, with a heave of 205 feet, 7 5-8 inches, by Aldred Bates of Penn State in the broad jump with a leap of 24 feet, 8 1-2 inches and by Charley Borah, Southern California flash, who ran the 220-yard dash in 20 9-10 seconds to compete a sweep of the sprints, the only double triumph of the finals.

Win Only One First Place

Stanford withstood all upsets and beat off all challenges. The Cardinals captured only one first place, that by "Buff" Hoffman in the discus throw, but they scored heavily in seven other events—mile run, high hurdles, pole vault, javelin, broad jump, high jump and shot put—to reach their total of 36 1-2 points, the highest winning mark since 1923.

Penn State's squad leading the eastern defense captured three first places and was runner-up to Stanford with 27 points. Yale scoring in seven events, amassed 23 1-2 points, just enough to nose out the two time champions, Southern California, which finished fourth with 23.

These four stood out well above the rest of the field of 21 colleges that got into the point scoring column. Dartmouth finished fifth with 16 points and Georgetown sixth with 14 points, leading such other aggregations as California with 10 1-2, Syracuse with 10, Cornell and Pennsylvania with 8 each.

Wichita Falls Athletes Earn Varsity Letters

Two Wichita Falls athletes were included in the Texas university letter award quota recently made, Curtis Beaty, former junior college star, earning a baseball reserve letter, and Hubert Stringer getting a track letter.

Both Beaty and Stringer ranked high in Varsity athletic circles. They look for Beaty tomake his mark next season in football and then in basketball, also.

R. Trigg of Childress was among the freshmen baseball letter men.

CITY NETSTERS MEET MONDAY

Tennis Men to Organize For Tournament Play

Wichita Falls tennis men will answer the first call to arms Monday night at the Landon-Hill sporting goods store, according to announcement Saturday by Preston Beck, Wichita Falls tennis representative to the Texas amateur athletic federation.

Netsters will meet with Beck and William Ward, the latter city recreation head, for the purpose of organization and discussion of tournament plans.

Ward has arranged for 16 courts on which to play, says Beck, and hopes to obtain four more very soon. Bids are out, also, according to Beck, for construction of three asphalt courts.

Ward intends to line up a municipal tennis association and arrange tournament play by sections with the winners scrapping it out in a later tourney for city honors, Beck said.

The meeting Monday night is called for 7:30 o'clock.

REESE TO QUIT ELECTRA HIGH

Long Jim Signs Contract At Grenville School

Long Jim Reese, king of Texas cinder paths and holder of the world's intercollegiate mile record, coaches no more at Electra high school where he has been the past two seasons.

Reese announced during the week that he has signed to coach at Greenville high school the next scholastic year. Greenville high at one time was coached by Clyde Littlefield, Texas university track mentor and the coach who developed Reese.

Reese enjoyed a highly successful regime at Electra high school. His track team put Tiger athletics high in Texas interscolastic circles and just a few short weeks ago, Long Jim led the Electric squad to the state meet at Austin and captured the Texas championship.

Reese's football squads, although handicapped severely by lack of material, made themselves feared in this section.

Harvey Stanford, Howard Payne athlete, has been selected to succeed Reese as head of the high school athletic department. Stanford will coach football and track, according to D. N. Dinsmore, superintendent of schools, but an assistant to Stanford is yet to be selected. The assistant will coach basketball, Dinsmore said.

BUFFS WIN ANOTHER

BEAUMONT, May 28. (AP)—Loose pitching and looser fielding cost the Exporters the first game of the short Buff series today, Houston having no difficulty in winning 13 to 5. Holzhauser was knocked from the mound in the third inning, Lefty Darrough in the sixth. Manager Galloway got himself kicked out of the game in the sixth after Barr had called him out at third base. Dunning got his third home run in four days.

By Blondy Cross.

THE ANSWER.

What we need is for our pitchers and hitters to get together. When one is weak, let the other be strong. Our artillery takes spells these days. It sharpshoots enough in one game to win several were the blows spread out, and then falls off something terribly in the next couple.

• • •

But them are the breaks: Our throwers throw good ball when we don't need it and then don't when we do, if you gather the inference. The ditto may be remarked about our hitters; they hit when hits don't matter so much and don't when they do.

They're bound to meet in the middle some of these days and then we'll be off again.

• • •

TOO TRUE

The unusual in sports: A little guy who doesn't think he's tough, doesn't spout off most the time, doesn't wear a chip on his shoulder and, yet, really is pretty tough and pretty clever at his chosen game. Illustrations of the unusual; Petey Turgeon and Dickie Griffin.

• • •

Clyde Hull apparently has perfected that knockout wallop to stay. The Fort Worth phantom, you recall, surprised everybody by slapping Bernie Irvine cold here a couple of weeks ago. The other night at Fort Worth he kicked over the tough Walter Varner in eight rounds.

• • •

Hull, we have come to the belief, absolutely is no flash in the pan, as some thought him after the lacing he gave Latzo in Dallas merely to come back with a poor fight in the east. That eastern trip was marred for Hull by a touch of tonsilitis and ensuing attack of influenza. After a short rest and careful span of training, Hull returned to the ring and bowled both Irvine and Varner over, indicating that Hull of the Latzo mill and the Hull of that eastern jaunt were two different fighters entirely.

• • •

Questions and answers:
Dear sir, what constitutes a champion in baseball?
Answer: Any team that can lose as many as we have and still cling to the league leadership.
Dear sir, where is the guy who still predicts a summerless 1927 in the face of 108 degrees in the shade here Saturday?
Answer: [illegible]

• • •

Breezy Guy Airey, the wandering bookkeeper of Spudville, has been watching the work of other Texas league team secretaries and business managers while on the present road jaunt with the Spudders. Guy has picked up several unique pointers about the business end of baseball, probably the most interesting of which has to do with the attendance in San Antonio where a hefty portion of the population is Mexican. Spudder fans are acquainted with Lee (Alanis) Najo, Mexican outfielder in the Bear line-up. Najo was quite a sensation last season, but came up one day with a broken leg. Since the injury, Najo has slowed up a bit but has not lost his popularity with the Mexican fans.

Because he is not as fast as he was Najo does not start every game and this is not a pleasing feature of baseball with the Mexican customers. When Najo is out of the lineup they have no interest in the game, says Guy.

A few times the Mexicans had their afternoon spoiled when, on paying admission fee, they discovered Najo was not in the game, writes Airey.

• • •

To prevent a recurrence of this disappointment the Mexicans hit upon a scheme. Each afternoon they assemble near the ball park. Then they name a scout. The scout's duty is to pay his way into the bleachers and wait for the game to start. If Najo is in the line-up he goes to the top row of seats and waves a signal to the Mexicans, assembled outside the park. As soon as this signal is flashed the Mexicans (sometimes numbering a thousand) make a dash for the box office and buy admission tickets, but if no signal is flashed after the game starts then they all depart, declares Airey.

• • •

CATS CLUB STEERS

DALLAS, May 28. (AP)—To make the home coming of the Steers as sad looking as a wake, Fort Worth Cats Saturday took the herd to ingorious defeat by the score of 9 to 4. The bats of the Atzmen largely accounted for the victory. Seventeen safe hits, including home runs by Wachtel and Sweeney, bounced off the willows from Fort Worth.

Russ Pence lasted five innings under the pounding and Slim Love took it the remainder of the way. In the meantime, Paul Wachtel was given away hits rather freely under torrid sun. Hack Miller collected his 15th home run of the season as his mates ran up a total of nine other safe swats.

Spudders Lead League At Bat With .310 Figure

Turgeon Slugs Apple at .399 Clip; Two Pitchers And Eight Regulars Wallop Within Charmed Circle

Wichita Falls willow wielders were leading the league in batting through games of May 20, according to release of averages this week from the Texas league statistical bureau, with a mark of .310. Fort Worth was second with a team average of .299.

West of Waco was the individual batting leader with an average of .422 amassed over a 33-game span. Eddington of Beaumont ran second with a .414 figure. Turgeon, Wichita Falls' mighty midget, was just under the .400 circle, slamming the ball at a .399 clip.

Eight Wichita Falls batters, including Turgeon but overlooking White and Estell, the pitchers who had pounded at a .400 and .353 clip respectively, were batting within the charmed circle.

Wichita Falls' .300 hitters were: Turgeon .399, Fitzgerald .369, Jenkins .336, Lamb .333, Benton .333, Lapan .330, Tobin .321 and LaFayette .312.

Wichita Falls led in runs with 259 and in hits with 405 for a total base mark of 565, also the league high mark for the period.

Cellar Habitues Get Rough By 6-4 Score

SHREVEPORT, May 28.—The Sports celebrated their return home by trouncing the Wichita Falls Spudders, 6 to 4. Moore's two-bagger that hit against the centerfield fence on a line drive in the fifth inning put the home club in the lead after a poor start and they added two more runs to their count. Blankenship was in rare form after the second inning.

The Spudders started strong and leaped off to a two-run lead in the first inning. LaFayette and Mann singled in succession and both men moved up on Fitzgerald's sacrifice. LaFayette scored and Mann went to third on Lamb's sacrifice fly to center. Mann scored on a wild pitch.

The Spudders scored one more in the second. Benton opened the round with a double. Lapan hit to third and was safe when Woehrs threw wild, Benton taking third. Benton scored a moment later on LaFayette's infield out.

The Sports scored their first run in the second. Singles by Williams, Kilduff and Woehrs filled the bases and a sacrifice fly scored Williams.

The Sports made another in the third inning, when Taylor doubled to left. After two men had popped up, Taylor stole third as Williams walked. On an attempted double steal Roberts balked and Taylor was permitted to score.

Shreveport scored three times in the fifth inning. Distel walked and Harris' hopper to Turgeon took a bad hop and went for a single. Moore doubled to center, scoring Distel and Harris. Kilduff singled to center, scoring Moore.

Again in the sixth inning the Sports scored a run. [illegible] singled past first. Blankenship attempted to sacrifice and popped to Benton, who threw wild to first and Ritchie went to second. [illegible] sacrificed, Ritchie to third. Cobb then hit a wild streak and walked Taylor, Harris and Moore, forcing in Ritchie before Williams fanned for the last out.

Wichita Falls scored again in the ninth. Lamb beat out an infield hit to the box and went on to third when Blankenship threw wild to first. Jenkins rolled out to second, and Lamb scored.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF SAVING STROKES

Champion Bobby Jones Blasting His Way Out of a Sand Trap

National Open, British Open, and Southern Open Champion

Starting the third round in the recent southern open tournament I hooked my initial too shot to a difficult position behind some trees at the edge of the lake. My ball being placed so that I had reasonably large opening through which to play to the green, I hesitated some while, wondering if I should take the risk. In an informal match only a few days previous I had reached the green through the trees from almost the same spot, but with some reluctance I turned my back on the flag and chipped to a safe place in the fairway. From there I was able to play comfortably to the green for a five—not so god as a four, it is true, but better, both for my score and for my mental composure, than a seven or eight.

Easier to Save Strokes Than Regain Lost Ones

In my early days of competitive golf when I was foolish enough to regard golf as a simple pastime, I should have scorned even to consider that unambitious chip to safety. But several years of tournament play will chasten the adventurous spirit of any young golfer, who fancies himself as a miracle worker, even as they have chastened mine, and will teach him that strokes are far easier to save than to get back after they are once lost.

Only last year in the open championship I made the mistake of attempting a too daring shot from a nasty place. After a very loosely played around, byt dint of some good putting and plenty of luck, I reached the eighteenth tee with four left for a 76, which I figured with my 70 of the day before would be just good enough to keep me in the running. So when my drive was sliced weakly to the long rough, I could not abandon hope for the four I wanted. By using a strong iron from the rough, I expected to carry a bunker on the right of the fairway, which done, my ball would roll up near the green, leaving a chip and one putt for the four. So I took the gamble. My first iron shot travelled no more than five yards and lay still in the long grass. Now I had to go for it. The next one went across the fairway into the rough on that side. In the end the hole cost me a terrible seven, where a conservative [illegible] pitch to the fairway would have netted an easy five. Two strokes lost in an effort to save one.

Play For Center of Green When Pin Is In Dangerous Position

Back in 1921 at Washington, I came close to eliminating myself from the tournament on the very first hole of the qualifying round. That was the year the Golf association tried out the abominable 18-hole qualification play, when one bad hole meant almost certain destruction. I started my round with a weird hook off the first tee, the ball disappearing into veritable jungle on the left. I found it lying on a bare spot about a dozen feet behind a large log, which was the only obstruction between my ball and the green 170 yards away. Being young and very foolish, I decided I could reach the green without a great deal of trouble. But as I came down on the ball I thought of the log. [illegible] I flinched, half-topped the shot, and the ball striking the log bounded back into the depths of the woods. [illegible]

... when the hole is in a dangerous position close to the edge of the green that extreme caution is advisable and then it should be remembered that par is nearly always good enough to win.

Beware of Taking Chances

Even in match play I have found it good practice to be wary of taking chances. I remember particularly the fourth at Oakmont as one hole I could never summon enough courage to try for in two. The front of the green was very narrow and guarded by a severe bunker. I invariably played short, relying on a run-up and one putt to secure a four. I think the only time these tactics lost the hole for me was against Watts Gunn in the final. Watts failed to see anything terrifying about those bunkers. His iron second was a beauty, bringing up six feet from the hole, and he holed the putt for an eagle three.

Reckless Play Does Not Win In Long Run

But in the long run reckless play does not win. The first thing to remember in golf is that some shots must be ... [illegible] who play in the 18 fail to do better because they allow one bad shot to cost them several strokes. The average man is said to ... a stroke when he gets into trouble and to play the next one safely out. [illegible] the shot comes off, [illegible] will still yield the par.

NORTH TEXAS FIELDS GAIN OUTPUT DESPITE QUIET WEEK

ARCHER AREA HAS INTEREST

Important Tests Fail to Pay Off

By TOM TRULY

While the entire Mid-Continent field was slumping in the number of operations, if not in the amount of oil produced, the Wichita Falls district was likewise experiencing one of the quietest weeks in its recent history, although pipeline runs gained heavily from producers brought in prior to the opening of the week.

Archer county operations probably held the attention of more operators than any other, but the end of the week had seen several of the more interesting tests fade into bitter memories.

Archer Activity

North of the Hutchinson pool and in block 117, A. T. N. C. L. survey, L. T. Burns drilled his No. 1 L. F. Wilson to contract depth without so much as striking enough oil to lubricate a watch stem. This was probably one of the biggest disappointments of the week, as the well was looked upon as having better than even chances to pay off.

C. B. Long's No. 1 Mrs. Tabor, near Holliday, was another failure, although it tested out a sand showing a small amount of oil.

East of Holliday and in block 16 of the Denton county school land survey, Lyon & Maxwell opened up some new shallow territory at their No. 1 F. M. Hughes, which was estimated good for 30 barrels from a sand at 580 feet.

Thomas Test Fails

Consolidated Oil company failed to extend the Thomas pool in its No. 1 Thomas, located in lot 1 of the N. Thomas survey. This well tested a dry sand at 1138 feet, and is now tearing down, to seek other land to test.

The Consolidated, which constantly is testing out structures while many other concerns are practically shut down, with its associates completed two nice producers.

Consolidated and Apple and Brandeberry made the Ancell pool southwest of Electra look more promising than ever, by completing their No. 2, swabbing 275 barrels in 18 hours. This test hit the pay six feet high, and two offsets are to be drilled immediately. In Wilbarger county, Cosden and Consolidated placed No. 4 Waggoner on the pump at 50 barrels per day.

Roxana Petroleum company drilled in its No. 9 Scott in South Young county and got an 8,000,000 foot gasser but, being an offset to Pitzer & West's No. 2 John Boozer, it is hoped that it will blow itself into an oil producer like the latter well.

Cooke County Quiet

Cooke county, although mounting to new heights in daily pipeline runs, was comparatively quiet during the week. Between the Chapman pool and the Hooser pool the Pure Oil company may form a connection with its No. 1 Embry, which is testing out the 1200-foot sand.

While the Roxana Petroleum corporation was successful in bringing in its first producer in the Muenster pool, the Sun Oil company ran into misfortune when it drilled too deep at No. 1 Hacker, with the result that salt water was found. The well is to be plugged back, and it is thought will make an average producer.

The Woodson pool of South Throckmorton now threatens to spread across the Young county line, with R. W. Painter's No. 1 Donnell drilling into the pay with 100 feet of oil in the hole, after scratching the lime at 3804 feet. This test is located in section 2371, T. E. & L., and just east of the county line.

A new shallow pool for northeast Young is practically assured in Holbrook & No. 1 Davis, which has considerable oil in the hole from sand at 891 feet.

Stafford Test Adds New Shallow Territory

More territory is being added to the shallow field in northeast Young county by Stafford's No. 1 F. Dyer, a wildcat located three miles southeast of Farmer and in the W. Stroud survey, abstract 1767.

From two feet of the pay which was topped at 598 feet this test is standing with the hole full of oil while pipe is being set. It will be completed within a week.

Conoco Makes Good Time On New Pipeline

Rapid progress is reported from the 53-mile pipeline being put down by the Continental Oil company from its plant in Wichita Falls to the Nocona field of Montague county.

Crews are working from each end of the line and pipe laying should be completed within 20 days. The pumping stations to boost the first oil run from Nocona to a Wichita Falls refinery are being assembled and oil may be running within a month.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 28. Private Yeager was killed. Lieutenant D. M. Bridget, pilot, was seriously injured.

Cooke County Climbs To New Peak Of 3660 Barrels During Past Week

Oil from the Texas company and Kewanee Oil and Gas company wells, added to the climbing output of the Muenster townsite pool of Cooke county, combined to push Cooke county pipe line runs to a new peak and far above the previous high mark of 2900 barrels, the county the past week being credited with a daily yield of 3660 barrels.

Young county, due largely to the Roxana Petroleum company's mammoth completion on its Ford lease as well as a steadily mounting production in the shallow pools of the north part of the county, gained 1635 barrels to register a daily average of 13,170.

Archer, Wilbarger and Wichita counties, the three leaders slipped and although Wichita and Archer still hold first and second places by wide margins, Wilbarger was replaced in the third rung by Young county.

OBSTACLES MET IN SHUT DOWN

Fee Owners Retard Reduction of Drilling

AMARILLO, May 28.—Talk of shutting down the Seminole in central Oklahoma, so that the oil industry may be saved from a prolonged era of over-production and consequent low prices, appear to be encountering new tumbling blocks, according to personal investigations that Panhandle oil men are making on their own acount.

The fee owners in the Seminole field are not in harmony with efforts to shut down wells, and they are threatening legal redress, if operators fail to use "due diligence" in the development and protection of offsets. The courts at different times have ruled that an operator must protect the interests of the fee and royalty owners.

Big Leases Lost

The Sinclair Oil and Gas company at Garber, and the Prairie Oil and Gas company at Wewoka, were penalized quite severely for failure to drill tests and both lost valuable leases as a consequence.

This may account for the Seminole climbing back towards 360,000 barrels a day, after it had once dropped to around 320,000 barrels. Word yesterday gave the field's output at 358,202 barrels, saying the Bowlegs pool 1 n8-6, had made a new peak of 123,148 barrels. Seminole proper, in 9-6, fell to 136,519 barrels.

A letter from an Amarillo oil man, now in Oklahoma, anent the Seminole situation, says in part:

"A trip or two through the Greater Seminole field makes me feel that it is growing bigger and bigger. The Bowlegs area alone convinces one that it will cause the Seminole output to attain another 100,000 barrels a day in a short time.

No Estimate Made

"I was in conversation with the production superintendent for one of the largest operators in the field, and he advises me that due to the air lift, there has been no attempt made to estimate the ultimate recovery per acre in the field. Also that a number of unusual things were happening there. Take a well which would be dead, so far as producing natural is concerned, and put the air to it and it would become a gusher and that the decline under air pressure, no far does not seem to be so very rapid when one takes into consideration that they will not produce natural. I was informed that 90 per cent of the wells in that field are producing artificially. It remains to be seen how much oil is to be produced from the Wilcox sand by artificial means, but it looks like the recovery is going to be a great deal greater than by the usual ordinary means of lifting oil.

Air Lift Spreads

"While the air lift is a comparatively new thing in the Mid-Continent, I believe that since it has proven so highly successful in the Seminole field that it is going to be applied generally to the lifting of oil and that if it doubles the ultimate recovery, or whatever increases is made, then the oil business generally has got to adjust itself to a new basis.

"While I know that producers are storing a large volume of crude oil and are looking forward to a condition that prevailed at one time during the boom days of the Cushing field, yet it seems to me that it is going to be a long storage program.

"There is no question but what the Seminole field is the key to the whole situation at present and it seems to me that the production methods and field and operating conditions in the Seminole field should be studied very carefully."

Oil Yield Gains In Panhandle

AMARILLO, May 28.—Panhandle field this week averaged 137,432 barrels of oil daily, a gain of 3333 barrels. There were 14 new wells during the week and the field now has 1246 producers. Hutchinson leads with 546 wells making 107,373. Gray is second with 435 wells doing 13,944; Carson has 131 wells doing 13,226; Wheeler, 32 wells for 2854 barrels; Potter one for 35. Moore's solitary well is again temporarily off.

Oil Buyers Meet At Tulsa On June 6 to 9

The Oil Guyers' group of the National Association of Purchasing Agents, at their national convention at Grand Rapids, Mich., June 6 to 9, will discuss the work of the American Petroleum Institute as it pertains to the standardization of oil field equipment.

Four principal questions will come before the group, as follows:

What application has been made of the standard specifications for material set up by the American Petroleum Institute?

What can be done to promote more general use of these specifications?

What difficulties have been encountered in applying these specifications?

What may be done to overcome these difficulties?

Two group sessions will be held. One on Monday afternoon, June 6, another on Thursday morning June 9.

G. A. Thompson, president of the Purchasing Agents association of Tulsa and purchasing agent for the Empire companies, is chairman of the Oil Buyers' Group and will preside over the group sessions.

Analysis of Seminole Shows 109 Wells Making Water; 78 Are Dead

Bowlegs Pool, 8-6.

| | This Week | Last Week |
|---|---|---|
| Wells on air | 76 | 75 |
| Wells flowing | 12 | 11 |
| Wells on swab | 14 | 11 |
| Wells off production | 12 | 13 |
| Total | 54 | 51 |

Production Saturday, 122,886 barrels.
This week there are six wells making water, the last week four were making water.

Earlsboro Pool, 9-5.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Wells on air | 9 | 6 |
| Wells flowing | 29 | 29 |
| Wells on pump | 9 | 12 |
| Wells on swab | 5 | 1 |
| Wells off production | 12 | 13 |
| Total | 62 | 61 |

Production, 63,629 barrels.
There are nine wells making water this week, whereas last week there were 10 making water.

Seminole Pool Proper, 9-6.

|---|---|---|
| Wells on air or gas | 141 | 142 |
| Wells flowing | 27 | 27 |
| Wells on pump | 43 | 42 |
| Wells on swab | 24 | 22 |
| Wells off production | 51 | 42 |
| Total | 285 | 276 |

Production, 122,658 barrels.
There are 83 wells making water this week, compared with 79 last week.

Searight Pool, 10-6.

|---|---|---|
| Wells on air or gas | 15 | 15 |
| Wells flowing | 19 | 17 |
| Wells on pump | 2 | 1 |
| Wells on swab | 2 | 2 |
| Wells off production | 2 | 3 |
| Total | 39 | 38 |

Production, 35,649 barrels.
There are 11 wells making water this week, which is the same number that made water last week.

Totals for Four Pools

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Wells on air or gas | 260 | 185 |
| Wells flowing natural | 88 | 88 |
| Wells on pump | 56 | 55 |
| Wells on swab | 33 | 36 |
| Wells off production | 73 | 72 |
| Total | 460 | 436 |

This week there are 109 wells making water while last week there were 104 making water.
The grand total production this week is 358,222 barrels.

Memorial Against War

Many monuments have been erected comemmorating the various phases of the World War, but this one, unveiled recently at Levallois-Perret, near Paris, is the first to be dedicated to the cause of no more wars. The inscription reads "This Must Not Be Repeated."

MANY EXPERTS ON GEOLOGY

University Class Hears 30 Lectures in Year

AUSTIN, May 28.—Value of the courses in petroleum geology offered at the University of Texas has been greatly enhanced this year by the many lectures which have been delivered on the campus by eminent men in the field of oil geology, according to Dr. F. W. Simonds, professor of geology in that institution. He regards the list as an unusual gathering of distinguished men from the point of view of the students who have heard the lectures. Dr. Simonds states that these men, some of them among the best known geologists in the country, have discussed the phases of the subject with which they are most familiar. About 30 lectures in all have been given by the six men who have been included in the series.

Among the men who have been here to lecture during the year was Charles L. Baker, whose subject was geology of the petroleum fields of Mexico. Baker is chief geologist of the Rio Bravo Oil company of Houston. Dr J. W. Beede, consulting geologist of the Dixie Oil company of San Angelo, discussed petroleum productions from the permian formations of West Texas. F. B. Plummer, chief geologist of the Amerada Oil company of Dallas, lectured on petroleum production from the Pennsylvanian formations of Texas. Wallace E. Pratt, chief geologist of the Humble Oil company of Holston, talked to the students on the salt domes of the Gulf coastal plain. Dr. Donald C. Barton, chief geologist for the Geophysical Corporation of Houston, lectured on geophysical methods. W. M. Wrather, consulting geologist of Fort Worth, discussed petroleum production in the Mid-Continent fields of Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas. Wrather is now completing his series of six lectures.

This plan of correllating lectures by men in the field with the class instruction of students of geology at the university has been found very successful, according to faculty members of the department.

Lea County Test Hits Salt Higher Than Llano

TULSA, May 28.—The Texas Co. No. 1 Rhodes, nw corner of 22-26-37, Lea county, N. M., found the base of the salt 32 feet higher than the Llano well in Winkler county, Texas, to the southeast. The Lea county test had the bottom of the salt at 2790 feet where the eight-inch casing is being run.

Panhandle Gets Two Shallow Producers

Panhandle Refining company is completing a pair of shallow producers on Bs Matthews lease in southeast Archer which will have a combined production of 60 barrels when completed. No 8 Matthews has the sand at 723-40 feet and No. 10 at 715-39 feet. No. 4 Matthews which has been producing more than a month, is still making 55 barrels per day, having drilled 60 feet of sand.

MAKE DOUGH?

Oil Town Needs Bread Maker to Feed Its Workers

WICKETT, May 28.—Some one ought to clean up in the laundry business in this, the newest oil town in Texas, and some one else ought to make plenty of dough with a good bakery.

This is the word sent out of Wickett by T. J. Kellis, secretary of the newly formed chamber of commerce. At present there is neither a laundry nor bakery in the little town to clean clothes or make bread for the crew of oil field workers that have been building the Southern Crude tank farm here or working in the nearby Winkler county oil field, according to Kellis.

Kellis expects to get word of Wickett having been given a postoffice within the next few days, as the inspector has approved the petition for same.

GAS WASTE IS EVIL OF TRADE

Unit Operation Looms As Next Legislation

By EDWIN J. CLAPP.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, May 28.—Hugh S. Taylor, professor of physical chemistry at Princeton university, and chairman of the Central Petroleum committee of the national research council, describes the oil business in such form that any high school child can understand it. He does it in a 16-page pamphlet, "The ABC of Science in Oil Recovery", distributed by the American Petroleum institute.

A bottle of soda water is like the virgin oil in the ground. The soda water is "charged" with carbonic acid gas under pressure. Shake the bottle, remove the cork and the gas will rush out, driving half the contents of the bottle with it.

Explains "Gusher."

This is what a "gusher" oil well does. The oil underground is charged with natural gas under pressure. Some of the gas is dissolved in oil, and some of it free, occupying the same pool with the oil. Sinking a well into this pool is like taking a cork out of a soda bottle. Out rush gas and oil.

In the Texas Panhandle last fall they were producing 40,000 barrels of oil a day, and letting 5,000,000 cubic feet of gas escape into the air. This gas was equivalent in heat value to 85,000 barrels of oil.

If the gas in the pool is not allowed to escape, it can be used as a motive power to lift the oil above ground. It is just like drawing up the soda water in a siphon bottle. As the siphon is opened, the gas pressure on the space above the liquor forces the water up the siphon tube. The oil well is just a siphon.

Gas Is Wasted.

Of course, if we let every owner of an acre sink a well and blow off gas before he gets his well under control, we waste lots of gas, valuable for fuel. Also we lose the gas as a lifting power, which, when present underground, drives the oil to the bottom of the siphon tube and up the tube.

In any case gas escapes from each well along with the lifted oil. The evil of multiple wells, most flagrant in the town lot pools in California, is a great waste of the common supply of gas, both when the superfluous wells "come in" and also during their entire life of operation.

One Well to 10 Acres.

What do we mean by superfluous wells? In general we need one well for every 10 acres, to drain a pool properly. In Santa Fe Springs, California, a town lot field of only 1400 acres altogether, they dug 340 more wells than needed. The oil sand was deep and the wells cost $100,000 each, so the capital waste was $34,000,000.

Nobody will ever know the loss of oil we have left in the ground because of dissipating the gas pressure that might have raised it. Experts figure that, as a rule, our present methods leave 10 barrels of oil in the ground for every barrel extracted.

Professor Taylor explains further: The scientists know that under normal underground pressure, natural gas goes into solution with crude oil. The result is that the crude oil is rendered liquid gasoline, not similar to the thick molasses-like crude we see in tanks, after the natural gas has escaped from solution.

So the waste of gas pressure by our present operating methods also destroys the fluidity of the oil in a virgin pool. It becomes thick and heavy and can hardly be shoved through the sand to the well by the diminishing gas pressure.

Parts That Flash.

Now it is understandable why gusher fields flash up and then drop to a few hundred barrels a day. Where there is single ownership and "unit operation" of a pool, it goes on producing for years. The Federal Oil Conservation board in its report tells of the Cabin Creek field in West Virginia, owned by a single company, which has been a steady producer for over 10 years. The board contrats that field with the more, spectacular Wortham, Texas, field, whose control was vested in 91 competitive blocks and which reached its peak one and a half months after discovery, then rapidly declined.

In no other field of business life is competition so widely wasteful. In the interests of the nation and of the oil companies themselves, the competition must be stopped and must be replaced by unit operation of all pools. If the operators do not come to this voluntarily, it will probably be forced upon them by statute.

In 16 pages Professor Taylor has written the best book on oil conservation that has yet appeared in the country.

Skelly Official Dies At Amarillo Saturday

AMARILLO, May 28.—John E. Ring, 52, head of the Panhandle-New Mexico division of the Skelly Oil company, died here today of an undetermined malady. He served the Sun Oil company in Mexico for 13 years. His body will be taken to Bellaire, Ohio, for interment

WATCHORN IN OIL SPOTLIGHT

Deep Test Makes Third Head While Drilling

Special to The Record News.

JACKSBORO, May 28. — The spotlight of the oil activity of Jack county has been focussed on the Watchorn Oil and Gas company Williams No. 1, B. S. & F. Co. survey, abstract 98, during the past week. Drilling in a hard lime at 4540 feet, the second pay is expected to be reached in the next few days. Yesterday this well flowed by heads and put 45 barrels of oil in the flow tank within fifteen minutes' time. This is the third time it has flowed since the first sand at 4467 feet was encountered.

A new shallow sand was encountered just north of Jerymn and west of Jacksboro, in the Dick Wynn-Millett No. 1, J. W. Williams survey, abstract 887, at 520 feet. The hole filled with fluid and preparations are being made to drill this well in.

Shaw & Rathke are about ready to spud their J. W. Cullers No. 1, south offset to Leidecker Holman No. 1, J. J. Cullers survey, abstract 2188. While the Buttram Petroleum corporation has made a location just east of the Leidecker, on the J. A. Jones section, S. P. R. R. Co. survey, abstract 550.

Location for the Leidecker Holman No. 2 has been made north of the discovery well, and offset No. 3 has been made west of the discovery well.

H. Lee Burton, Tulsa, Okla., is assembling a large drilling block six miles northwest of Jacksboro, and a test will be started just as soon as the titles and abstracts have been passed on.

A. E. F. STARTED 10 YEARS AGO

General Pershing Recalls Narrow Escape

WASHINGTON, May 28 (AP)—Ten years ago today 200 men clothed as civilians but distinguished by an ineffacable military hearing, began memorable movement out of New York City.

They constituted the general staff of the American expeditionary force, with its retinue of assistants and clerks, they formed the spearhead of an American army of nearly 3,000,000 men, which was to turn the tide of battle in France, and at their head was Gen. John J. Pershing.

Supposedly secure secrecy guarded the departure of the group. By tug boat and ferry and by various routes they coverged upon Governors Island. A dark morning and windblown rains seemed to add their cloaks of obscurity to the movement but members of the party recalled today how two important slips set at naught the whole machinery of secrecy.

Baggage Betrays

Baggage of some of the officers was piled at a pier and awaiting a tug. It resembled any other casual luggage until suddenly there arrived several pieces boldly stenciled with the name of a high-ranking officer and the information "in care of Gen. Pershing's headquarters, American Expeditionary Forces, Paris."

The secret was definitely out a few moments later when a younger officer arrived in uniform in violation of the injunction to wear civilian garb.

The fact of the staff's departure never was published by American newspapers, but the war department, fearing a repetition of the sinking of Lord Kitchener's ship in the Irish Sea, explained the situation to Pershing by wireless, suggesting a change of ships at Halifax but leaving the matter to his own judgment.

Pershing's judgment was to continue on, stopping at Halifax only long enough to pick up a British naval escort.

Safe Voyage

The voyage was without incident, but it was made generally known today for perhaps the first time that for the space of a split second the life of General Pershing hung by a thread before he ever boarded his ship off Governors Island. His own quick thinking and ability at that moment saved him.

Pershing's tug had arrived off the island to await a larger boat to take his party to the steamer. When the second tug arrived it could come no closer than three or four feet because of the rough water. To change boats the party had to climb to the rail of the first tug and jump into the other through an opening in its hull, about the size of a small doorway, directly opposite.

Leading the way, Pershing balanced himself on the rail and made the leap. As he did so his tug rose on a wave crest and the other dropped into the trough. The general, in mid air, drew up his legs and ducked his head, landed asprawl squarely in the doorway, but its descending top missed his head by only a graction of an inch.

Baltic Society

The ship that carried the Pershing staff to France was the S. S. Baltic, which has given its name to the Baltic society, founded by members of the party. Its membership roll disregards rank, being arranged alphabetically with Pershing far down on the list. At its top is Capt. George E. Adamson, secretary to Pershing then and now.

BORGLUM AT AUSTIN

AUSTIN, Texas, May 28. (AP)—Gutzon Borglum, world renowned sculptor, will open a studio at the University of Texas here and will give lectures to the students and to the public, it was announced today.

GIVING 'EM WHAT THEY WANT

BY JAMES J. MONTAGUE

"What makes me worth' more money than all the other birds in the business put together," said the producer, "is my imagination. I got creative imagination, and that's the kind that is good for gold dollars. Now take this here picture I'm making. It's bound to be a knock out. It's got live interest in it, and that is always sure fire if it's handled right. It's got sea stuff, and that goes big, especially in the sticks where they never see anything bigger than a naill pond. And besides that it's got animals, and if everything else flops animals is always good. Plenty of animals its got, every kind of an animal there is. If you can beat that you can go take Griffith's job away from him tomorrow, and let him try to help hisself if he can.

"I got the idea the other day when a young fellow came in here and got to talking about Noah. Everybody knows about Noah. He was the bird that had to get out of the country on account of the big flood, and take all the animals with them so they could keep on repopulating the earth each after its own kind. You remember the story. It's in the Bible somewhere. But of course it's too sketchy for a picture the way it is wrote. Not enough human interest, and not any love interest at all. Put on the way it happened it wouldn't be any good. That's where I come in.

"I done a lot of thinking after that young fellow made the suggestion that maybe Noah and his boat could be made the setting for a picture. I'm anxious to elevate th epublic, and to kill all this talk about nothing but the rough stuff getting on the screen. I want to educate the people and uplift 'em and at the same time give 'em what they want and will pay for, so as I say I jumped into my pajamas one hot night, lit a cigar and began to do some heavy thinking.

"The tough job was to get in the love interest and the adventure. The piece about Noah in the Bible hasn't got any love interest and there ain't a suggestion of adventure. But after I'd smoked a couple of cigars and had the boys play me some soft music the idea hit me, and it's getting into shape out in the lot right now. And it will be a wow when it's done, if I know anything about the business, and I wouldn't be one of the the biggest men in it if I didn't.

"Of course I had to work out the story, and to make some changes in it, but nobody will notice that if the pictures are interesting. Instead of having Noah an old married man with a lot of sons and daughters, I had him a nice young fellow who done the right thing by everybody, but at the same time kept a bright lookout for Mr. Noah as everybody has to do if he expects to get along in this world. He had met a girl in Jerusalem or one of those Bible cities while he was down there at a Rotary club meeting and he fell for her hard the first time h esaw her riding on a pet camel her father had given her for a graduation present. He managed to scrape up an introduction, and after a little chat he found out she lived on a place called Mt. Ararat, which was un in the high country about a hundred miles away. He asked permission to call on her and she said she would be delighted, so he kissed his hand to her as she rode away.

"Well, a couple of days later, it began to rain, and it rained good time all the rivers was up to their and plenty for 40 days. By that there was floods everywhere, and houses was floating away. Noah had a houseboat that was in pretty good condition, having bought it when it first began to rain, and parked it on a hill where the water couldn't wash it away. He had invited a lot of his friends to share it with him, but they all laughed at the idea that the rain wouldn't stop pretty soon, and while they were still laughing they were drowned in their houses, so Noah was the only human being left around those parts.

"Having made a search all around to see if there was anybody he could rescue he set out in his boat for the mountains. On the way he would come to a tree with a couple of lions in the branches, away from the high water, and would land them with a lasso and bring them aboard. Then on a ridge of sand would be a couple of camels, and he would get them, knowing the girl was fond of camels. And as he went along he grabbed off pretty near every kind of an animal and its wife that there was, having an exciting battle with every one of them till he had got them on board and fed them. Then they seen that he was only trying to help them and got docile and kindly right away.

"Well pretty soon he sees a big mountain with trees and a house on it that was only about half way under water, and that was Mt. Ararat. But the girl's father, who lived there was up on the top of it watching out for young fellows who might be coming to steal the girl, and he had the place protected with a whole lot of pet lions and tigers and elephants of his own for use in just such emergency as this.

"Noah hailed him civilly through a megaphone and asked him if he and the girl didn't want to be rescued, but the old man just said "Keep off," and drew up his wild animals in battle formation along the shore.

"You can see the possibilities of the rest of it, with the two sets of animals fighting each other, and Noah and the girl waving their fond affection to each other from behind them. All we got to do now is to get the two sets of animals to put up a good fight together, and that is the only thing that is giving me trouble, for when you turn a whole mob of these brutes on the lot all they do is to crouch down and look mean, or wait for somebody to come and give them meat. But we got some bully single combat stuff that was took by the telephotoes in the jungle, and if we can't get a general scrimmage they will do.

"The big scene is where one of Noah's elephants picks up the girl's father and is holding him under the water with his trunk to drown him when Noah dives in and rescues him. Of course that goes big with the girl, and she throws her arms around the hero's neck and says she is his forever.

"So the two of them stock the jungles and deserts with their animals and live happy forever after, while the old man is made head zoo keeper, and gives them his blessing. I'm just giving you the bare outlines, but you can see that this will be the biggest picture I've ever made and of course, that means that anybody has ever made."

FIRST "NEW CROP" POTATOES FROM WICHITA REACH MARKET

LOCAL TRUCK ALSO MOVES

Poultry and Butter Prices In Slight Slump

Initial potato receipts from Wichita county growers for the present season featured the past week's buying by local produce houses. Bunch vegetables gained momentum and are expected to come in in large quantity for the next several weeks.

The annual potato harvest of Wichita county was begun this week when workers on the Marcus Brothers Model farm unearthed the first of the season, with prospects of a good yield.

One hundred and fifty bushels to the acre will be the approximate maximum yield this year, O. K. Barnes, agricultural commissioner of the chamber of commerce, believes.

Prices Good

Local potatoes, the first of which were received Friday, are bringing 5 cents per pound here from wholesalers.

Bunch vegetables grown in this territory, which are now being distributed, include turnips, mustard, radishes, carrots, beets and onions, and each is reported plentiful at the present time.

With the depletion of the South Texas tomato crop, incoming shipments of East Texas tomatoes, considered the best quality received here, are now arriving. The present supply of tomatoes is coming from the Jacksonville area and are bringing from $1.75 to $1.85 per lug, in wholesale quantities. Local tomatoes will start coming in later. The local supply is limited and does not care for local demands.

Beans Scarce

Green beans are scarce and command fancy prices, local wholesalers say.

Fruits are found to be cheaper at the end of the week, although the lemon market is strong, because of hot weather and a short crop. There are 20 buyers for each car out of California of this product, it is reported.

Cranberries and blackberries were struck from the lists the past week, while strawberries are plentiful, the Arkansas and Missouri crops now being received. Two cars of strawberries were received in Wichita Falls Friday from those states, and the price is lower.

Butter consumers note with a certain degree of pleasures, and producers with regret, that the price of that article dropped slightly. Creameries are now paying 38 cents and 39 cents, as compared with 40 cents and 41 cents previously. Cream butter fat stands at 33 to 39 cents per pound and milk butter fat at 55 cents per pound.

Poultry Receipts Heavy

With poultry receipts increasing daily local dealers have lowered the prices in all of the regular classes of fowls. Broilers weighing one and one-half pounds and up are distributed to retailers at 22 cents per pound, while Leghorn broilers are 4 cents cheaper.

The following prices are those quoted by the Wichita Falls wholesalers to retail dealers. Unless otherwise indicated the prices are subject to continual changes:

Vegetables.

| | |
|---|---|
| Beans green | 10c |
| Radishes per dozen bunches | 75c |
| White potatoes | 5c |
| Colorado potatoes | 5c |
| Onions, Texas white wax, crate | $2.50 |
| Carrots | 90c |
| Beets | 90c |
| Bell pepper | 20c |
| Turnips, dozen bunches | $1 |
| Turnips, per lb. | 4c |
| Cabbage | 5, 7½ and 8c |
| Onions, per dozen bunches | 75c |
| New crop strawberries, crate | $4.50 |
| Texas cucumbers | 10c |
| Tomatoes, lug | $1.75 to $1.85 |
| Mustard, per doz. bunches | 90c |
| Yams, crate | $1.50 and $2.00 |
| Cauliflower | 17½c |
| Spinach | 8c |

Fruits.

| | |
|---|---|
| Bananas | 6½ to 7c |
| Oranges, per box | $4.00 to $4.50 |
| Lemons, per box | $6.50 |
| Apples, Delicious, per box | $3.75 |
| Grapefruit, box | $6.50 to $7.00 |

Milk and Cream.

| | |
|---|---|
| Butter | 38c to 39c |
| Cream, per lb. butter fat | 33c to 39c |
| Milk, per lb. butter fat | 55c |

Poultry and Eggs.

| | |
|---|---|
| Hens, 4 lbs. and over | 17c |
| Hens, under 4 lbs. | 14c |
| Broilers, 1½ lbs. and up (colored) | 22c |
| Leghorn broilers | 18c |
| Old roosters | 5c |
| Ducks | 15c |
| Geese | 15c |

WELLINGTON NOTES

Special to The Record News.

WELLINGTON, May 28.—Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Johnson and family of Hollis, Okla., visited friends in Wellington Sunday.

E. L. Winn of Amarillo spent the week end here visiting friends.

Wade Arnold was in Wichita Falls last week as representative of Wellington for the Knights of Pythias convention held at that place.

Mrs. A. C. Muncie and daughter Clema left last week for Norman, Okla., where Mrs. Muncie will visit with relatives and Miss Clema will attend the Oklahoma university.

Mrs. C. C. Small and daughter Winnifred visited in Childress several days last week.

Mrs. Jack Deahl left Monday for a trip to Oklahoma City and Shawnee after which she will visit her parents in Idabel.

Mrs. W. O. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Richards, Mrs. Sam Lain and Miss Mittie Lee Royal went to Hobert, Okla., last week.

Miss Annie D. Howell of Amarillo visited friends in Wellington Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Thomas left last Friday for Mineral Wells where they will spend a month in the interest of Mrs. Thomas' health.

Mrs. E. N. Lewis and daughter Patti Lee left Monday for a visit with friends in Altus, Okla.

Mrs. A. R. West left Wednesday for Tioga, Texas, to attend the funeral of her brother, S. H. Wilson who was found dead in a bath tub. Death was due to heart trouble.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Cummings of Borger were guests in the home of his sister, Miss Otho Cummings last week.

Scully Doolen of Mangum, Joe Hemphill, Marjorie Berry and Miss Irene Moore went to Wichita Falls last Sunday.

Mrs. Bob Lyle and Mrs. Fred Lederer spent last week in Oklahoma City.

Rev. and Mrs. B. J. Osborn and daughter Miss Juanita, have returned after a week's visit in Munday, Texas, with their son and brother Alvin Osborn and family.

B. F. Wood and S. E. Cowan, of Sadler, Texas, were in Wellington a short while Sunday morning on their return from Panhandle City where they had been on a business trip. NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 28.(AP)—Although many traders were disposed to limit their commitments on the eve of the holiday, another wave of buying swept over the stock market today, carrying a long list of railroad and industrial stocks into new high record territory. Expectations of easin gcredit conditions after the recess, and considerable short covering encouraged operators for the advance to push up their favorites.

Railroads which have been associated with merger reports were easily bid up into new high figures.

Strength of motor shares was a feature of the industrial division, gains of a point or more being attained by Shrysler, General Motors and Hudson.

A seven-point pump by Norwegian kroner to 25.93 cents featured the foreign exchange market, in which demand sterling ruled around $4.85 7-16 and French francs below 3.92 cents.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 29.(AP)—All deliveries soared to new highs in today's cotton market on the day weather and hot winds in Texas and official forecast for continued dry weather in that state over Sunday. The market was on the upgrade most of the day, despite lower Liverpool cables and the holiday in New York. The high points were reached right at the end and the market closed steady at net advances of 28 to 32 points.

Although Liverpool cables were 3 to 6 penny points lower than due the market here opened 2 to 9 points up and continued on the advance until by the end of the first hour July traded at 16.65, October 16.98, and December 17.20, 20 to 22 points above the previous close.

After a recession of a few points on realizing and week-end liquidation the market started on the upgrade in the later trading and near the end July reached 16.74, October 17.07, and December 17.32, 29 to 34 points net up.

These levels attracted some selling and the market eased off a few points but closed steady near the top.

MYRT'S POWDER PUFF PUTS JUDGE IN HUFF

JERSEY CITY. — Miss Myrtle Moss is a handsome gal, as pretty as can be. Her teeth, her eyes, her bobbed blonde hair, make her a sight to see: and being up to date as well, wherever Myrtle goes, she takes along her powder puff to powder up her nose. One day it chanced that Myrtle found her pretty self in court, not as a principal, of course, she's not at all that sort, but just to pass the time away as anyone might be, and while on a front seat she sat, she, quite unthinkingly took out her vanity and then before the judge's stare began to kalsomine her lips, and pull and pat her hair. The judge, a stern and upright man, his gavel pounded loud; "Cease, woman, do not primp in here before this courtroom crowd." he cried, "what do you think this is? A beauty shop, or what? It is disgraceful thus to act, it makes me feel quite hot, and if another dame I catch within this court of mine, displaying rouge or powder, I'll just say 'ten dollars fine'." The men all tittered loudly at the unexpected scene, but all the women just whispered, "Well, my goodness, ain't he mean?"

Texas Land Trust Stock Goes Up On Reports of Good Oil Strikes Near West Texas Land

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 28.—The departure of a number of traders and brokers for an extended week-end holiday failed to have any influence on the stock market in today's half session for the rails and industrials continued their climb as demand held up the average of preceding sessions. Trading cenered largely around those comparatively few favorites which are influenced by special individual developments such as General Refractories and Texas Land Trust. Leading wire houses reported that profit-taking for the account of the "public" was large and this selling was absorbed in a manner that indicated that the strongest interests were standing behind the market. Foreign exchange was very quiet and firm. Grain options added slightly to their previous day's advance while the cotton exchange was closed.

Another increase is expected in brokerage loans in report to be issued by the federal reserve bank. In discussing the brokerage borrowings bankers here declared that comparisons made by officials of the exchange with the total amount of securities listed in endeavor to show the conservatism of such loans is entirely misleading. The banks point out that more than 75 per cent of the loans are made on account of margin speculation in less than 5 per cent of the total stocks listed on the big board. The safety of loans, the bankers emphasize, do not rest on their percentage to total listed stocks nor on any certain total but is entirely dependent upon how much business conditions warrant stock prices and the condition of the money market.

International Business Machines and General Refractories climbed to new high records on comparatively light turnover. The former has been quietly climbing for several weeks now as a result of very quiet absorption. There have been whispers of plans that would prove of benefit to stockholders but those connected with the company scoff at such reports and regard the strength of the stock as due to recognition of the strengthened financial position of the company and increased earning power. Refractories buying is credited to the interests connected with the most powerful independent steel organization.

Bush Terminal, National Distillers common, Western Maryland, and Pittsburgh coal were among the recent favorites to dip slightly as a result of profit taking. Those who have been active in the buying operations for all these stocks, however, maintained that constructive operations were not ended and pointed to the manner in which sales were taken as evidence thereof. National Distillers preferred soared as buying came through the same southern wires as did orders for the common in Friday's trading. Texas Land Trust repsonded to report that part of its holdings include a good sized acreage in West Texas and have been rendered more valuable by bringing in of oil wells on adjacent leases.

TEXAS VEGETABLES

SAN ANTONIO, May 28—Potatoes and tomatoes continued to move out of the state in considerable volume today along with watermelons which reached a new high total for the season with 23 cars. Today's shipments consisted of 84 cars of potatoes, 60 cars of tomatoes, 19 cars of mixed vegetables, four cars of onions, two cars of cucumbers and one car of canteloupes.

Firmness continued to prevail in potato shipping point markets today with carlot sales at San Antonio around $3.50 for cobblers and as high as $3.60 for best stock of triumphs at Wharton.

Tomatoes were steady at Brownsville at 90 cents for four-basket crates of unwrapped turnings, and $1.75 and $1.90 for lugs of wrapped greens.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, May 28. (AP)—Advancing at the rate of a nickel a day for every bushel, corn sped along today in a hurricane of buying. Reaching as high as $1.05 per bushel, for September, the market wavered a little and the fate of the country's corn crop apparently depending on weather developments in the immediate future.

Wheat, rye and oats as well as corn swept upward to beyond all previous top prices for this season, but big profit taking sales forced a reaction in wheat. Closing quotations for wheat were nervous at ⅛ cent to ⅜ cent net decline, with oats ⅝ cent to 1⅛ cents up and provisions at 17 cents to 45 cents gain.

Selling to realize profits dominated the wheat market most of time. Meanwhile reports from the southwest told of the wheat crop continuing o deteriorate, and weather conditions in Canada were again reported adverse.

Buying of oats was on a much larger scale than has been witnessed for some time. Indications that oats acreage this season has been materially curtailed was emphasized as a bullish factor.

Provisions ranged upward with corn and hogs.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN.

FORT WORTH, May 28. (AP)—Grain sorghums nominally at the peak prices for the crop on the cash grain market Saturday, but dealers reported a very dull market at the high values. There was practically no export demand for wheat and dealers refused to make bids. Corn and milling wheat unchanged while old oats were a cent up.

RADICALS HIGH HAT THE KING

GLASGOW, Scotland.—The king of England is perfectly willing to lunch with the Socialist city councillors of Glasgow, but the Socialist city councillors will have none of his company. This unusual situation has developed because of Socialist and Labor opposition to a public luncheon to be tendered King George when he comes here in July to dedicate the new Clyde bridge. The Socialist argument is that the ceremony is an unnecessary expenditure of public funds, and they recently voted 25 to 11 to refuse participation in any function associated with the royal visit.

GRAINS RIDE ON PRICE GAIN

But Wheat Unable To Hold Advance

BY CHARLES J. LEYDEN.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAG, May 28.—New high prices for the season were established for all grains in the local market today. Wheat failed to hold the advance, reacting sharply under a big volume of profit taking by longs, and showed a loss for the day.

General buying of corn took care of the realizing sales and sent prices to sharply higher levels. Investment demand for oats was active and the market showed much strength. Rye reacted and lost the early gain.

May wheat opened at $1.55½@1.56¼, dropped to $1.53¼ and closed at $1.53⅛@1.53⅜. July opened at $1.50@1.50⅜, climbed to $1.51½, reacted to $1.49⅛ and closed at $1.49⅜@1.49⅜. July corn opened at 99c to $1.00½, advanced to $1.02 and closed at $1.02⅜@1.01½.

Export business in grain at the seaboard was reported as small. It was stated that bids from abroad did not follow the advance in prices. Liverpool wheat closed 2@2⅜ pence higher.

The Liverpool market was affected by the smaller shipments this week from surplus countries, by the Canadian weather and crop news and by unseasonably cold weather in Europe.

Locally, wheat closed ⅛@⅜c lower for the day, corn was 2⅞@4⅛c higher, oats ⅜@2⅛c higher and rye ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher. For the week, wheat shows a gain of 9⅛@9⅜c, corn an advance of 9⅝@10⅝c, oats 3⅛@5⅝c and rye 8⅝@9⅛c.

The volume of buying in the corn market was heavy. A lot of selling was done by longs in way of securing profits, but this corn was readily absorbed and the market closed only ½@⅜c away from the top level.

General demand has been stimulated by the action of other grains and the unfavorable new crop outlook. Selling was in way of realizing by longs.

Rye made an early advance but reacted later with wheat. A leading house bought July nd sold September rye rather persistently. Investment demand for the latter was good. Considerable realizing by longs. Export trade quiet.

PRINCE O. K.'S RUBBER ROSES

LONDON.—Boutonniers of white and colored rubber are getting to be all the rage in England. The Prince of Wales is responsible, since whatever he does the young Britisher faithfully copies, and recently at a rubber goods show he permitted himself to be decorated with a waterproof rose. The vogue has spread rapidly, and now it is quite the thing to "walk down Picadilly with a poppy or a lily" made of rubber, in one's buttonhole. The rubber manufacturers are delighted, but the florists are fit to be tied.

GAS FIRE TOLL MAY ADD TWO

Injured in Sanford Well Fire Are Dying

BORGER, May 28. (AP)—Two men were burned severely tonight when Cochrill-McIlroy well No. 2, located about eight miles south of Borger, set fire following an explosion. Flames are sweeping McIlroy camp and have already totally destroyed a grocery store and half a dozen camp buildings. The fire is similar to that of the blaze at Sanford, which was extinguished Friday night after it had caused eight deaths.

By Universal Service.

SANFORD, May 28.—Sanford moved back home today, the flaming geyser, which had been in its midst since an explosion fired the McMillan No. 1 oil well early Thursday with a loss of eight lives, tamed by a squatty well-shooter and sixty-five quarts of nitroglycerin.

"Tex" Thornton, explosives expert, reduced the roaring pillar of flame to a purring flow of oil with a well placed torpedo and a battery of high pressure steam hose.

Thornton's first two attempts to snuff out the column of fire were unsuccessful. He said the explosives weren't placed quite right.

So with the third torpedo tucked under his arm, the squatty well-shooter, clad in a fire proof suit, walked through the seething mass of flames again.

Steam Soaks Ground.

The ground around the well for 200 feet had been thoroughly saturated with moisture from four streams of sizzling steam to prevent a premature explosion of the nitroglycerin.

The asbestos covered torpedo was placed about two feet from the bore of the blazing well. An electric battery set it off.

There was a deafening roar. The crest of the towering flame fell to within a few feet of the ground. Immediately streams of live steam were played across the mouth of the well. The well was tamed.

Later a thorough search of the crater was made for signs of four roustabouts who were on the floor of the derrick at the time of the explosion and are still unaccounted for.

The death toll of the explosion and fire still remains at eighth tonight although surgeons at the Borger hospital, where the six seriously burned workmen were taken, say two can not live.

Buildings Moved.

Frame buildings which were hurriedly hauled away from the danger zone on skids were returned to their original foundations this afternoon.

Coolidge Has Fishing Goal

He's Got to Hook Record Trout This Summer

By Universal Service.

RAPID CITY, Black Hills, S. D., May 28.—If President Coolidge breaks a record as a fisherman in the mountain streams here he will have to land a trout weighing nearly 15 pounds. A Lochleven of 14 1-2 pounds is the record catch.

City of Custer—Oldest town in the hills, named after Gen. Geo. A. Custer, whose expedition discovered gold in 1874. He later lost his life in the Custer massacre in the battle of the Little Big Horn, just across the state line in Montana.

Homestake mine—One of the richest gold mines in the world, having produced $200,000,000 in gold since 1874.

Bad lands—Geological formation from bones of pre-historic camels, elephants, rhinocerous and hippopotamus have been recovered.

BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS

AUSTIN, May 28. (AP)—With Attorney General Claude Pollard delivering the baccalaureate address St. Edwards' university will close its school year Sunday with exercises in both the morning and the afternoon.

With the exception of a few offices in the courthouse and the banks in Wichita Falls, which will close Monday, Memorial Day, business will function in the city the same as usual.

All of the courts will be in session with the exception of the county commissioners' court, which will convene Tuesday for its regular weekly meeting. The city council will meet as usual Monday night.

The offices in the courthouse that will be closed are: County clerk, county tax collector and county tax assessor. All city offices will be open and, according to officials of the Retail Merchants association, the stores in the city will be open for business as usual.

Dan Moody Honors Kansas Requisition

By Universal Service.

AUSTIN, May 28.—Gov. Dan Moody today honored requisition papers from the governor of Kansas and ordered the return of Willard E. Taylor, now being held in jail at Pampa, Gray county, to Kansas where he is charged with kidnaping Nellie Loraine Taylor, 6, from her step mother on April 11.

Rio Grande Valley Reaps Riches From Sale of Its Onion Crop

By Universal Service.

SAN ANTONIO, May 28.—Onion hungry United States and a few foreign countries during the two months from the middle of March to the middle of May, poured $1-[illegible] into the coffers of farmers in the lower Rio Grande valley for almost [illegible] cars of onions.

This was the information brought here today from Laredo by G. D. Clark, market news specialist of the state and federal agricultural departments, who has been in charge of the news service for the Texas onion season which is just drawing to a close.

The figures are still more impressive when the deal is figured in crates, Mr. Clark pointed out. Figuring on the basis of 560 crates to a car, approximately 2,128,000 crates of onions, bringing an average price of more than $1 [illegible] per box, were shipped to all parts of the United States and a number of foreign countries, which included Canada, Cuba, Porto Rico and Mexico.

All but three states in the Union received carlot shipments.

Although this year's acreage was decreased about 15 per cent, the quality of the stock was unusually good and the demand and prices excellent.

Prices held up well despite the fact that the imports of Egyptian onions were greater than last year. This stock from the Nile valley was the principal source of competition for Texas stock, particularly in Eastern cities, Mr. Clark explained.

Five Deadly Poisons Invented in War To Eliminate Cotton Boll Enemies

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—Five poisons have been found more deadly than calcium arsenate against the boll weevil, pest of the cotton fields, the American Chemical society reported today.

The astounding resistance of the insect, however, in refusing to bat an eye under most of the infernal compounds, amazed the chemists. The boll weevil would grow fat in the house of a Lucreia Borgia, they said.

One thousand kinds of poisons were tried out on 150,000 lusty weevils by H. W. Walker and J. E. Mills of the chemical warfare division at Edgewood arsenal. "Not one definitely attracted or repelled the boll weevil or irritated it sufficiently to make it fly," they reported.

They tried gassing the weevil but found that the insect could get along all right without breathing for hours in a poison gas chamber. They tried making the common poison, calcium arsenate, more pleasing to the boll weevil taste by adding oils and what not to no effect. They tried to irritate the bugs.

"When the most powerful irritants known to man were tried, in the hope they might make it fly, they caused practically no signs of irritation or excitement," said the report. "Some of the poisons tried were more harmful to the cotton than to the weevils.

The five poisons found most deadly are sodium fluosilicate, barium fluosilicate, a special calcium arsenate, barium fluoride and cryolite.

GOSE REUNION OPENS MONDAY

Descendants of Pioneers Meet at Decatur

An annual reunion of the Gose family, pioneers of Wise county, will be held at the old home on the farm four miles from Decatur Monday. Among the relatives attending from Wichita Falls will be Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Waggoner and sons, T. J. Jr., and Gose, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Jones and children, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Waggoner and children, Mr. and Mrs. John Waggoner, Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Richardson and baby, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harding, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barton and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Gose, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Harvey and children, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Sellars, Dr. and Mrs. Austin Leach and children, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gose and children, Mrs. G. N. Walker and son, James Neal, and Miss Minneola Harding.

Settled In 1859.

There are now seven children of the Gose family living, who together with their wives, husbands, children and grandchildren attend this reunion each year at the old home place. The family first settled on this farm four miles north of Decatur, in the year of 1859 when the parents, Stephen and Mary, Frances Gose, with their two oldest children, came from their native state, Missouri. The trip which required three months, was made in an ox wagon and the younger children were all born on the farm, as were some of the grandchildren.

It is expected that between 80 and 100 will attend this reunion on Monday when they will gather at the farm early in the morning and have dinner under the shade trees.

Many To Attend.

Some of the party plan to arrive in Decatur Sunday in time to attend services at the Methodist church which was organized many years ago on the Gose farm where services were held for two or three years in the log home before a church was built. Stephen and Mary Frances Gose, were charter members of this church.

Besides those going from Wichita Falls, Dr. Joe Gose and family, and Mrs. Henrietta Perrin and family of Haskell, and others from various sections of Texas well meet there.

Payne Opens Parking And Service Station

Basing his judgment on the fact that a fast growing city needs more automobile parking space, Grady Payne, local automobile man and former owner of the City Service station, has announced the opening of Payne's Auto Storage company, 805 Lamar street.

Unkept Hands Spoil Entire Effect

Every woman should have soft, white, youthful hands to complete the picture of daintiness expected of her.

While eating, dancing, playing cards, in fact, whatever you do, your hands are noticed as much as your complexion. You can't neglect them without spoiling the impression you make by being well groomed in every other detail.

The easiest way to keep your hands soft, white and firm is to massage them with the dainty lotion you can make by simply squeezing the juice of two lemons into a bottle of Orchard White, which you can get from your nearest dealer. It clears and refines the skin, making toil-worn and stained hands look like a queen's. —Adv.

SUMMER TERM OPENS MONDAY

Full Courses Offered In New Classes

Summer school work of the 1927 session of the Wichita Falls public schools will open Monday morning at 9 o'clock at the Junior college building, according to A. K. Presson, director of the summer school. Registration of students will take place Monday morning, beginning at 9 o'clock and will then continue throughout the week. Classes are to begin Tuesday.

Director Presson urged all parents to send their children from the first day of the school, if possible, in order that they may not fall behind in their work. Absences will be counted strictly from the first class-day, Tuesday.

Long session standards will prevail in all work. Fully accredited courses will be offered in the Junior college, the senior high school, and the junior high school in the standard subjects.

In the high school division, both junior and senior high school, all courses will be offered in English, history and mathematics and several courses will be open in Spanish.

In the college division courses will be offered in English history, mathematics, education and psychology, the exact courses to be offered depending on the demand for particular subjects. All courses are fully affiliated with senior college and also with the state department of education for teacher's certificates.

Faculty members are chosen from the regular long session faculty of the junior and senior high schools and the Junior college.

College Senior Class Holds Midnight Frolic

A toast from Isadore Cohen, president of the class, opened the program. Short talks were made by each of the 40 members of the class present, recounting to the students the many interesting happenings of their careers. Class officers reviewed the work of the year. Talks were also made by A. F. Edwards, Miss Verna Sellers and R. O. Jonas, guests. John Ebner, a member of the class of 1926, presented the plan of the alumni association whose reunion date has been set for December 23 as a perpetual date.

Other numbers on the program included a group of songs by Hazel Champion, accompanied by Mary Beth Martin, and a group of piano selections by Edward Smith and Mary Beth Martin.

June Brides—
Active Social Week—
Spring Recitals—
And June Graduates—
In Musical Circles—
School Workers Busy—

MY mind is a jumble of June brides, graduates, musicales and folks going a-traveling. And for a busy person, Kitty, you just want to gaze upon "yrs. truly," as all that the brides and graduates have had to do was to fit and flit, music pupils to practice and rehearse for their recitals, and the travelers to buy clothes and pack them; while poor little me has had attention divided betwixt and between every one of them, each quite sure their business is the most important thing in life.

The spring was not so very prolific in marital affairs, but June promises to make up for April and May's poor harvest, so in the month of brides and roses we are going to send out quite a few who will step out upon life's highway full of hope, imbued with the one idea of making "hubby" happy. But in doing this they will not have to work very hard in the home only see that the car is always in good order, for I hear that the old motto, "Home Sweet Home," that used to hang on the wall, has been moved and now swings in front of the automobile.

• • •

SPEAKING of college graduates this is the month when parents and friends are made glad by seeing their boys and girls walk up to receive their diplomas from college and high school both near and from afar. That reminds me that on Friday night a veritable host of these parents and friends were made glad, for at the Junior College almost 200 young people were presented their "sheepskins."

And education these days is as it should be, the training for real life work. Training for the art of living. And this is probably better exemplified in the departments of

Zundelowitz P.-T.A. Finds Parents And Teachers Eager To Aid Students

By MRS. WALTER S. CURLEE.
President Zundelowitz P.-T. A.

Bursting forth like the blossom of the new rose, the Zundelowitz P.-T. A. came into existence in late November, 1926, less than one short month after doors of the commodious new Zundelowitz High school were formally opened with an evening program. The school which bears the name of a former Wichitan whose love for the youth of the "City that faith built," culminated in his gift of $30,000 toward the erection of the building is located in the heart of the Floral Heights residential section.

The new school, with the P.-T. A. is a twin, so to speak, of the Reagan Junior high as the two proudly date their birth from November, 1926.

Mrs. Silk in Charge

In the organization meeting the Zundelowitz P.-T. A. launched out on its life of youthfulness and service with a splendid attendance of one hundred parents and teachers who were eager to do their bit to make the school a better place in which to train the child.

Mrs. W. W. Silk, member of the board of education, was in charge of the devotional at our first meeting and talked on "courage."

In order to have a closer touch between teachers and parents in this great P.-T. A. work, we ask the different departments of the school to furnish the programs for the year which has proven a splendid plan, giving us better programs and an insight into the training given our children.

The first month the Girl Reserves gave a beautiful Christmas program, giving to the mothers an idea of the wonderful foundation, being implanted in the hearts of the mothers of tomorrow. The history department furnished the next program in the form of a pageant in costumes, each representing a period in American history dating from the fifteenth century to the present day. The English department's program was a debate using the children of that department which helped every mother to know the wonderful training that was given in the English course. A special Texas Day program was given by the Lone Star Chapter of the U. D. C. and presented the school with a beautiful picture of Robert E. Lee. Mrs. R. E. Lee also presented a picture from the Floral Heights Baptist ladies.

Teachers Help

The teachers of the school have co-operated faithfully with parents and pupils in putting on programs of high class entertainment and the club spirit has been one of unity and harmony.

The club sponsored a spring frolic in May that netted the treasury $175, while furnishings secured for the school, through organized effort and individual gifts to the club, includes two lovely stage palms, two U. S. flags, 30 framed pictures, 19 book stands for a like number of class rooms, a beautifully furnished rest room, a black velour stage curtain monogramed and gold fringed, and thte gift of $3,000 from the Civic League to purchase and endow a library for the school.

Budget Plan.

The budget plan to finance the school activities for this year was put over by the sponsors, and at the close of the drive a beautiful St. Patrick's luncheon was given the executive board and sponsors at the cafeteria and $354.90 was realized.

Among the out-of-town speakers who appeared before the school were Mrs. Maddox, state P.-T. A. president, and Mr. Alvis of the state department of education. Mrs. J. W. Cantwell and Mrs. H. A. Glass were elected to honorary membership in the club.

The officers for 1926 and 1927 are as follows: Mrs. W. S. Curlee, president; Mrs. Fred Schimman, first vice president; Mrs. E. P. Bass, second vice president; Mrs. B. M. Hester, third vice president; Miss Ruth Stayton, secretary; Mrs. C. D. Shamburger, treasurer; Mrs. W. A. McGee, publicity chairman. Principal H. A. Glass, member of executive board.

In summing up, if we were asked to state the secret of the successful working of the organization, we would say "It has been that fine spirit manifested by the parents, teachers and pupils which seem to say, our work, it must not fail."

"An angel passing in his onward flight
With the seed of love, truth and light
And he cried "Oh where may this seed be sown
To bear most fruit when it is grown."

"The Savior heard and said as he smiled,
Plant it for me in the heart of a child."

home economics and manual training than in any other of the school. In the home economics department of the high school and Junior College, a suite of housekeeping rooms is kept by the pupils, who are also taught to prepare and serve perfect meals, as well as how to act as hostesses at parties and make the sandwiches and ices. These girls at a tender age know more about the proper care of a home than did their mothers when they were married. They are also experts at sewing and hat making, and the lingerie, morning and evening dresses completed during the school term are the envy of many an older matron who has not yet mastered the art of clever needlework.

Every phase of home making is taught now in the public schools of Wichita Falls, and the girls are not only trained in the art of cooking and sewing, but are given wonderful ideas concerning interior decoration, and it is safe to say when they are owners of a home that the furnishings will be chosen with an artistic eye to detail.

* * *

IT is just too warm now for formal entertaining. That was the general concensus of opinion as expressed at a luncheon the past week. "Where are you going to spend your vacation this summer? Are you expecting summer visitors?" These were the kind of questions that passed among the crowd.

There was not the usual enthusiastic interest in discussions of recent activities or coming events. Everybody seemed tired and expressed themselves that now that the convention is over everybody could rest. Conversation centered around "Can't the window be raised slightly higher? Look how the candles are melting and toppling over. It is interesting to note how the candles in the center of a room melt much quicker than those at the side where there is a draft, isn't it? This iced tea is ever so refreshing. And this strawebrry pie, topped with ice cream, isn't it just the best thing you ever tasted?"

* * *

QUITE a pleasant bit of news has come to my ears this week concerning Frances Ann Saunders, one of the rosebud juniors at Wellesley college, who instead of coming home to spend her vacation will sail out of New York about the middle of June with three other school mates for a tour of Europe. The girls will be chaperoned by one of the teachers of Miss Hockaday's school at Dallas where Frances Ann went last year, and the trip is being looked forward to with great enthusiasm.

* * *

THIS season has been a memorable one for music students and teachers; and as my mind is so filled with graduates and the doings of the school set, I must take a little time off to tell you of others outside of this crowd who are doing as much as any one of these. One in particular that I have in mind is Josephine Fisk. Endowed with a lovely flute-like voice, Josephine, while a busy girl in charge of the advertising interests of one of the largest department stores in the city, has yet had time to cultivate her musical talent until at last she will be presented in a lovely program by her instructor, Miss Adele Ray, at the First Methodist church on Tuesday evening. Music lovers who have heard Josephine sing in the numerous Spanish skits which have brought fame to her as a local entertainer, will be interested in the development of her voice and will no doubt come out in large numbers to hear her Tuesday. Mrs. J. W. Akin, Jr., well-known pianist and organist, will play accompaniments and give a group of numbers, and she will also be assisted by Marguerite Fisher, talented reader.

And then on Monday evening, another musical event is the "Rose and Nature" program arranged by Mrs. Lois Parker, voice teacher. Mrs. Parker, who has a group of talented artists under her instruction will present them in one of the most unusual and original programs ever attempted here. Every group of songs will have themes centering around the rose. These songs will also be favorites and will include among them, "Mighty Lak a Rose," "Under the Rose," "A Bowl of Roses," "The Last Rose of Summer," "In the Time of Roses" and "Rose of My Heart."

* * *

AND on we go jumping from one thing to another with the school idea always uppermost in our minds, until now that sessions have ceased for the summer and children will be free for three months to enjoy themselves as they wish you would think that our thoughts would be turning into other channels. But after the active term really is over, there is yet work to be done with the pre-school children. And pre-school conferences are everyday occurrences at the various buildings, where hundreds of little folk are being examined by competent physicians and dentists, making suggestions and corrections that young Wichitans may begin the next term with healthy bodies enabling all to be equal physically.

But this is the way we do things down here, Kitty. So here's me for a Wichita Falls booster. Know my name? 'Tis

Adventures In the Shops

As Told By

MANY women these days are looking for lingerie suitable for travel — something dainty, serviceable and moderately priced, which can be easily washed out by hand. P. B. M. Company has foreseen these travel needs and offers, among other pieces, a dainty, new bit of lingerie comfort, which we may call either step-in or underskirt, as it serves for both, priced at $3.95. Voile and net gowns (beautifully made) also look cool and serviceable — they prove that net with voile need not be fussy, but may be well tailored at a very reasonable price.

Those looking for the finer undies will find that P. B. M. offers something different. Imported Japanese pajamas, in rich oriental colors, are unusually distinctive, and the French lingerie, with hand-made laces, proclaims at a glance the names on the labels.

Go to P. B. M. for convenient or luxurious lingerie.

IF YOU are making a canvass of who and where and what price is best on permanent waves, you probably already have had the Peacock Salon recommended. The comfort and beauty of the waves given there bring more and more women to 909 Bluff as the thermometer mounts higher and higher.

HOT weather makes housework by the old methods a perfect drudgery, but the Texas Electric Service Company now offers the world famous Premier Duplex Electric Vacuum Cleaner on special campaign terms at $2.50 down and $5 a month, with a liberal allowance on your old inefficient cleaner.

This life-saver to the housewife is offered on these extraordinarily easy terms for only a limited time, so don't delay, but call for a free demonstration now—this places you under no obligation.

P. S. They say a woman's postscript is most important. The Premier Duplex requires no oiling and has double action.

"THE NOTORIOUS LADY," a brilliant drama of Africa, is showing at the Olympic theater this week. Lewis Stone has the feature role and is supported by pretty Barbara Bedford. Gerald Grove, technical director, was for 14 years an officer in the British military service in Africa and has recreated the atmosphere of the Dark Continent. The story is of a man who goes to Africa to forget women, and there in the land of wild beasts and savages, finds one who helps him back to love and life.

TUB SILKS—If it's "the touch that tells,' tub silks reign supreme among washables! Whether you plan to spend this summer at home or abroad, you'll want one or two of these cool and dainty dresses, and at Miller-Ferguson's a variety of styles, colors and sizes will be found priced from $7.50 to $19.75.

All of the pastel shades, solid white, and peppermint stripes are shown in both tailored and softly feminine models in Miller-Ferguson's smart tub silks.

EACH year a larger section of our country recognizes Memorial Day as the time to decorate not only the graves of soldiers, but of all dear ones. It is hoped that tomorrow there will not be one neglected spot in the cemeteries of Wichita Falls. Friends and relatives in a moment's reflection will comprehend the real spirit of Decoration Day — not to select those alone who died in the uniform of their country, but to honor on this day with a beautiful floral offering all of those who have passed from this earth, but still receive its love and remembrance.

TRADE YOUR OLD CLEANER IN ON A NEW PREMIER

$2.50 Down
IT LOOKS NEW
—IT'S CLEAN

GET all the dirt from your rug and it looks new. Keep it always clean—and it stays new. For dirt does more than make a rug show age. It actually ages it.

One kind of dirt discolors. Another kind destroys. The Premier Duplex gets them both. Its powerful double action—that is, motor-driven brush and strong suction—cleans fast and thoroughly. The brush sweeps up untidy threads. It loosens discoloring soot and cutting grit. Then suction bags all.

And the Priemier Duplex keeps its own youthful efficiency through long years. The lubricant-packed ball bearings in both motor and brush save you the responsibility of oiling. With a Premier Duplex you can easily keep your home fresh through the year.

By MME. COBINA WRIGHT

(Copyright, 1927, By Universal Service)

NEW YORK, May 28.—Just before she sailed for Europe I bade farewell to Mrs. John McCormack, wife of the distinguished and well beloved tenor. It occurred to me at the time that in discussing the wives of famous artists, here indeed is an example of wifely devotion and tenderness, and knowing Mrs. McCormack one can well understand that the noted tenor has never been known to give a second glance in any other direction.

She is young and pretty, and it is difficult to believe that she is the mother of two grown up children. Moreover, she has that priceless possession, real Irish wit, and no one who knows her has ever seen her out of temper. She is intensely musical, though playing no instrument herself, it is her one great joy to preside over her husband's home with that womanly tact and consideration which is characteristic of her.

THE McCormacks have a charming home on Park avenue, and in it you will find a valuable collection of art objects, paintings and furniture, and though it is a veritable museum in itself, the art treasures merely serve as a background for a genuinely comfortable home Mrs. McCormick runs for the express purpose of providing comfortable quarters for the famous singer during his leisure hours. It is a beautiful setting for the many parties and gatherings in which the McCormacks delight for they are genial and hospitable and love to have their friends about them.

Mr. McCormack has a great love of painting and is one of the few singers who is a connoisseur of the fine arts having expended vast sums on the canvasses of some of the great masters.

A feeling of peace and contentment is noticeable the moment you enter the McCormack household—an atmosphere of old fashioned solidity and calm. Mrs. McCormack is not a woman to trot off idly with a new beau or go off on a tangent with new fangled fads and notions.

SEEMINGLY scarcely older than her son and daughter Cyril and Gwen, she has brought them up beautifully. They are neither empty-headed nor frivolous and their good manners and breeding are a credit to their parents, who are devoted to their accomplished children. The boy is now at school in England and Gwen, who came out last year, is her mother's constant companion. Here are two specimens of the younger generation who really know something and care about worth-while things.

Mrs. McCormack tells me that one of the saddest moments in the life of herself and her husband was the first leavetaking of their children—then little tots. When McCormack was coming to America for the first time I believe, it was decided to leave the children at home, while Mrs. McCormack would accompany her husband on his travels.

"I remember," says Mrs. McCormack, "how each persuaded the other what a simple matter it was to leave the children behind for a few months while John followed his career. On the deck of the steamer thinking I might feel blue, John said, 'why it's nothing, we'll be back with them in no time'; and I, feeling John might be blue, said 'we'll be back soon and the time will fly,' but our attempts to bolster each other up were of little avail for after a while we each stole a look at the other, and John was crying, and I was crying, and then we both began to cry unrestrainedly, lamenting our decision to go to America, and to leave the children, and finally the fact that we had any children at all if 'this is the way we had to treat them'."

At the conference of the Association Opposed to Trite Expressions, it was resolved to give these old friends a deserved rest: "So much has been said on the subject." "We have with us tonight." "Far be it from me." "I am in the hands of my friends." "It ill behooves me." "It is not the cost, it's the upkeep." "More to be pitied than censured." "There ought to be a law on it." "Prohibition is a failure." "Prohibition is a success." "I believe in the enforcement of the law, but—." "The captain said it was the worst storm he ever was in." "Saloons are running wide open there, just as in the old days." "I am no orator." "These tires have gone 22,000 miles." Indefinite leave of absence was granted to these: "Sweetie," "boy friend," "sheik," "service," "propaganda," "gold digger," "psychological moment," "super-car," "super-picture," "super" anything.

Her Canine's Voice

WINSTED, Conn—Mrs. Clarence Jones went to a party one afternoon leaving no one at home except a 16-year-old dog. After she had gone the signal was given in the central telephone office which told the hello girl some one was calling from the Jones home. After trying repeatedly to get the number she heard what seemed to be heavy breathing and, alarmed got into touch with Mr. Jones, who went home post haste. On the floor by the over-turned phone, and panting heavily into the mouthpiece, lay the family pet.

Too Proud to Die

SAN FRANCISCO.—Dr. Frank Price of Nanking Theological seminary, a refugee here, escaped death at the hands of the Chinese only because of his refusal to kneel. The Chinese, with a characteristic love of ceremony, refused to execute him unless he would get down on his knees with his head on the ground, the proper position for an execution. For eight hours he was a prisoner, and seven times he refused to kneel, to the disappointment of his hosts. Finally he escaped with the aid of a Chinese lieutenant, leaving his captors highly indignant over his perversity.

Man's Pride and Salvation In Work Is The Theme of Fine New Novel

"Bread and Fire," by Charles Rumford Walker, published by Houghton, Mifflin Co., is the book of the week.

BY BURTON RASCOE

Of this exceptionally good first novel, the author has said: "It is a story. All my interests, economic industrial and sociological, are subordinated to the artistic problem of presenting a young man's adventures in the post-war world—adventures intellectual, physical and economic."

And that is what "Bread and Fire" is. We have had novels by young men, back from war, who were not able to adjust themselves to civilian life or who were not able to forget the horror and disillusion of war. We have had novels of futility by young men who have imagined that life could be one continuous round of such adventures as might befall a young lieutenant from Yale or Princeton on a week's leave from the front in Paris or London. And we have had novels in which none of the characters had any visible means of support and spent their days and nights drinking themselves into hysteria, fights and disgust in the cafes of Paris and the night clubs of New York.

Here is a novel in which the hero goes to work. That is almost enough to make it unique among novels by the younger intelligentsia. But it is unique in more than that respect. It is a novel in which manual laborers take a creative pride in their work and to whom work is not a drug or a species of salvation, but a satisfaction, and a salvation of their souls.

That the railroad engineer often has a deep personal affection for his engine; that the carpenter is jealously proud of his tools; that the garage mechanic is able to feel a certain superiority over the car-owner who brings in a disabled car and wants to know what is the matter with it; that an electrician, a steam-fitter, a lathe-tender, a steel furnace blastman realize that he himself is able to do at least one thing better than anyone else not in that particular line of work and takes pride in this fact—these are commonplaces of human experience.

But, in recent years, this creative satisfaction of the worker has not been taken into account by the novelists. The novels of the industrial world have mostly been written by sentimentalists, poetizing the woe of the worker from the outside. These novelists have pictured the workers as unhappy victims of the machines. Their novels have been full of propaganda and pity. And in this pity there has been a certain condescension.

Charles Rumford Walker, a young man who has been a third assistant before the open hearth of a steel mill, has not this pitying condescension. The sweat-covered furnace tender, to him, has just as much fun out of life and just as much creative satisfaction—if not more—than your Greenwich Village radical who does nothing all day and talks futilities all night. Walker knows, because he has been a furnace tender. Moreover, so great is the thrill of manual labor to him that, although he is now the editor of a weekly magazine, he says: "I am constantly tempted to return to industry. But my main job is writing, and I will write about industrial America."

And you can bet that he will write about it in a way that it has never been written about before. Work, he says in effect in this novel, is the cure for the malaise of modern youth. And if it is manual work, so much the better. The manual laborer has, usually, because of the very nature of his work, the greatest asset in life—that of health; and when his mind is free of worries and distress, the manual laborer feels a thrill and exultation with the dawn that the sedentary man can scarcely ever feel. It is a feeling of the enjoyment of living.

There are the drawbacks, which make the drama of life. There are unprogressive or greedy heads of corporations, whose economic sense is blunted to the fact that their employes' welfare is indissoluably bound up with their own. And there are strike agitators who care nothing about the misery caused by the overthrowing the thousands of men out of work, so long as they can experience their own power and persuasion.

It is this conflict in industry that "Bread and Fire" depicts. It depicts it unsentimentally and with a certain gusto, as if it were a novel harking back to things as they were a century, two centuries or three centuries ago. In this novel we meet very red radicals, rich liberals, parlor communists, capitalists, and workers. And the workers stand out as the persons most worthy of our admiration.

As the novel opens, the hero, young Harris Burnham, has returned to a quiet New England town to witness the wedding of his cousin. There life runs smoothly, all is ordered convention, all is placid and serene, as compared with the hectic life that Burnham has known. An accident, in which the sleeve of his cut-away catches, causes him to meditate upon his past and from that we have not only his past, but this novel. It is a novel in the first person, about a young man who came from France with no object in life before him and who decided to learn the "steel business from the ground up," because his people had been steel people.

From tending a furnace in a steel mill, Burnham goes to New York with a determination to become an editor. There he meets, while living in a hall bedroom, a group of radical writers and thinkers. He becomes associated with the S. P. G. (Social Policy Group) man whose riches are derived from an organization subsidized by a man whose riches are derived from the industrial system, and who supports a great many enemies of that system out of a misplaced philantrophy. In time, Burnham falls in love with Olga Barnard, who is quite free and independent, and this affords a refreshingly beautiful love passage in the novel. But Burnham at length cannot stand the perpetual ratiocination of the parlor socialists and the communists who are so individualistic in demanding altruistic reforms, and so he leaves New York to get a job in the copper mills of Connecticut. Olga, who has a romantic streak, breaks her engagement with Burnham, and marries the highly disillusioned Haviland and Burnham returns to the copper mills.

In the course of this novel we meet with a number of characters, perfectly limbed, who are products of the industrial chaos of the times. There is Harris, the educated sentimentalist, who feels more for the workers than the workers feel for themselves; Haviland, the cynical and dashing Don Quixote of industrialism; Rakofsky, the real worker with a fear of persecution; Kenwick, an employment clerk, who is a timid soul, afraid of his job, and Dirty Reed, perhaps the most vital person in the novel, who likes his work and does not give a cuss about anything.

There is pathos in this novel, but it is implicit rather than defined. It is explained that men who are heads of families of four draw $30 a week, and that when the economic screws are put on them they begin to "think differently about themselves, and their jobs and their president" and so become malleable clay in the hands of agitators. When a strike follows it means misery to the worker.

Like almost all first novels this novel has the faults of the beginner, who feels that he must put all of his emotions and most of his experience into print before he forgets them; but Mr. Walker has an amicable and healthy point of view toward life, and his novel perhaps is the herald of a new sort of fiction, which celebrates and enjoys, rather than denigrates and criticizes, American life.

The Fable of Uncle Silas — By Ade

The Old Man Just S aid "Keep Off."

By GEORGE ADE.

The Matrimonial Game.

Uncle Silas was a County-Seat Oracle. When he backed up to the Soft Coal Stove in the Grocery Store and parted his Coat-tails and began to breathe Wisdom, every one else sang Low.

He would give the National Administration a sharp Calling Down every few Days and if the City Council ordered any Improvements that did not suit him, he spoke of the Body as a Passel of Lunkheads. He knew how to cure Stringhalt and Chilblains or make a Flax-Seed Poultice or persuade a Hen to Lay or get the Wiggle-Tails out of Rain-Water.

Uncle Silas could guess how many Hands high a Horse was and knew what kind of Bait to use for Goggle-Eyes and that Corn ought to be Planted in the Dark of the Moon. As a Weather Prophet he was Old Lightning. Uncle Sile was just as Spry as a Sparrow and Sharp as any Steel Trap.

A good many Young Folks came and squatted at the feet of Uncle Silas so as to get Truth in the Original Package. The Younger and more sappy the Listeners the more elaborate was his Discourse. Among those who came to the Free Dispensary to get the benefit of Uncle Silas' vast Experience was a certain He-Belle who had been Girling for five or six Years and was about ready to, do something Desperate.

"I want your Advice," he said. "I think I can support a Wife in the Style to which she has been accustomed providing she has not been accustomed to very much, but before Shutting my Eyes and doing the Plunge, I thought I would get your Opinion as to the Move. Do you consider it a Wise Play?"

Uncle Silas looked at the Young Man out of the Corner of his Eye and Chortled Knowingly.

"The Smooth Citizen never gives Advice on Family Matters," said the Sage. "I am ready to Gas Freely on most Topics, but when it comes to a Question of committing Matrimony, that is where I begin to Back and Fill.

Si Fears Grave Markings.

"I am like my old friend Ben Franklin who told the Inquirer that every Man sooner or later comes to the Parting of the Ways. He must choose between the broad and easy Path that leads to Single Misery and the straight and narrow Road that leads to Married Unhappiness. As Ben expressed it, no matter which Way the poor Mush heads he will be Sore, now and then, that he did not take a Chance on the other Route. Every Married Man at some time or other has a sneaking Desire to be Free, and every case-hardened Bachelor occasionally runs into a lonesome Streak when he feels that he would willingly give 10 Years of his misspent Life to have just one chubby Darling to call him Dada.

"Matrimony is such a long Contract and has so many Ups and Downs that sometimes it seems a sure Winner to those on the Outside and again it is enveloped in a blue Fog for those who have to Put Up with it.

"If I get behind you and give you a hard Shove toward the Married State, you will be kept Guessing for Years as to whether I meant it as a Good Turn or was trying to crab your Career. Let us suppose that some Day 15 or 20 Years from now you come Home to find that the Furnace has flickered, the Cook has done the Vanishing Lady Act, two of the Children have the Scarlet Rash and the Better Half is Weeping Softly and seems to think that you are to blame for all the Tribulation.

"You escape to the Cellar and throw Hard Coal at yourself for a while and then suddenly you remember that it was I who advised you to Marry and Settle down. Thereupon you hurry to a Hardware Store and you buy one of these Carpenter Pencils, that makes a wide Mark, and you go out to the Grave-Yard and write Insulting Remarks all over my white Head-Stone. And it would be just as bad if I advised you not to take the Fatal Step.

"The Time surely would come when you would be laid up in some Oatmeal Dispensary, suffering from Indigestion and Hotel Melancholy, and then you would moan something about 'Of all Sad Words of Tongue of Pen' and say, 'Ah, I might have been cozily domiciled in a Cheery Cot, reading Ghost Stories to my own little Kiddies this very Night, if it had not been for that hoary old Fraud, who steered me away from getting Married.'

You Can Get Used to Anything.

"So you see I have an Elegant Chance to satisfy you, no matter what I tell you to do. The trouble is that we have off days, whether we are Married or Single. A man can not get up every Morning and strike Concert Pitch the first Pull across the Strings, no matter how desirous he may be to keep in Harmony. Again, after a Man has Tied Up for a while, he begins to recall the Bright Spots in his Career as a Bachelor and he is prone to imagine that all the Unmarried Boys are having one long Crimson Jollification.

"On the other hand, the male Hold-Over occasionally gets a Flash of Domestic Bliss under the most favorable Conditions, and goes back to his substitute for a Home feeling that a Bachelor Existence is a Dog's Life at the best."

"Then a Man can not be Happy, no matter what Programme he undertakes?" asked the Young man, in a discouraged Tone.

"Legal Ceremonies and a change of Boarding Houses do not greatly modify our Ratio," replied Uncle Silas. "You see, every Man has about so many Kicks coming and he has to use them up, whether he is Married or Single. When we are slightly Off our Feed, we are likely to imagine that what we haven't got and can't get is the One Desirable Thing. Thus we have the diverting Picture of the Benedicts, sitting around in Envy of the Bachelors, while those who are playing Lone Hands feel that they would be much better off with Partners.

"I couldn't rig up a Policy for you that would not cause me to be disliked. I think you had better go out and Shake Dice with yourself to find out what you want to do. But no matter what your Course may be, you want to remember that there are Cloudy Days in all Latitudes.

"Perhaps I had better go it Blind," suggested the Bachelor.

"Most People do," said Uncle Silas. "A Leap in the Dark may land you in a Patch of Canadian Thistles or a Bed of Roses, but no matter where you Bring Up, you will get used to it."

MORAL: Always advise a Friend to do that which you are sure he is not going to do. Then, if his Venture fails, you will receive credit for having warned him. If it succeeds, he will be happy in the Opportunity to tell you that you were dead Wrong.

WELLINGTON NEWS

Special to The Record News.

WELLINGTON, May 28.—The final edition of "The Sage" publication of the Wellington high school was off the press and ready for delivery Monday morning. It is a full size number and gives complete reviews of all the major activities which have taken place in the institution during the school year which has just closed. It is unusually well illustrated, carrying cuts on every page, which includes pictures of superintendent, the high school building, the East and West Ward school builds, four football players who were lost by graduation, the retiring captain and the captain elect of the Skyrockets football team, class representative Alex Haywood, Oral Chastain, cheer leader; Mildred Scruggs, cheer leader; the entire Skyrocket squad, Robert F. Devin, athletic director, Virginia Copeland, football sponsor, Mary Manzer, a popular student, the girls basket ball team and their coach, Clara Leach, Inez McDonald valedictorian of 1927, Floy Kesler, salutatorian of 1927.

The editorial staff of "The Sage" for the year was composed of Gerald Manzer, editor, Wynne Dickerson, associate editor, Raymond Powell, sports editor, Logan S. Dryden, humor editor, Leon White, business manager, Nadyne West, senior reporter, Annie Mae Pinkston, junior reporter, Norma Wildman, sophomore reporter, and Julia Slough, freshman reporter.

Wellington schools have enjoyed the most progressive year in their history during the term which has just closed. More interest has been shown by the students and the teachers in athletics and in all outside activities. But the academic work has by no means been neglected. The home economics department with Miss Stella Archer at the head has made great advancement.

The Wellington contestants made a good showing at the state clothing meet which was held in Waco.

The work in English has been enlarged and carefully detailed under the management of Miss Doris Leggitt and Mrs. Howard Bryant. Two teachers and two rooms were given over to the teaching of history alone. Miss Clara Leach and Miss Ruby McDonald of the work on history. The Spanish and Latin departments have been under the supervision of Miss Louise Harle and Mrs. Lillie Steelman Fuller.

The science department, which is well equipped and affiliated, was under the direction of Miss Edna Martin.

Robert F. Devin and W. M. Boston, principal, have had charge of the mathematics department.

The high school orchestra which was organized and directed by Mrs. Aubrey Dobbs, has been one of the feature organizations of the year.

Both boys and girls had a very successful year in athletics. The girls basket ball team lost only one game during the season. Wellington's football and basket ball teams have made an exceptional showing and although not much attempt was made to develop track and baseball teams, these phrases of athletics were not overlooked.

Plans are made whereby the local schools will enjoy an even better year next term, with the installation of several new departments and the enlargement of the other ones.

Mrs. Jones Hostess to Bridge Club.

On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. N. L. Jones was hostess to the members of the Round Dozen Bridge club, and several guests. At bridge, Mrs. Vernon Morris held high score and Miss Bess Royal was consoled for low. Delicious refreshments were served to Mesdames Morris, Crawford, French, Moseley, Manzer, Moss, Henry, Jones, Goodgen, Langmack, Lisle and Miss Bess Royal.

Pinkston Entertain Dinner Bridge.

Members of the dinner bridge enjoyed a lovely affair on Thursday evening when Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Pinkston entertained. Mrs. C. C. Small held high score for ladies and Doctor W. R. Orr for the gentlemen. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Small, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Baker, Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Orr, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Lewis.

Hostess for Breakfast.

Honoring the 19-4 Study club Mrs. R. R. Martin entertained with a lovely breakfast at her home on Thursday morning. The rooms were lovely for the occasion. Dorothy Perkins roses were used profusely, centering the table in a long cut glass basket. A delicious breakfast in four courses was served. Mrs. Moss toasted the retiring president, Mrs. Lynn the guest of honor, who was Mrs. McCarroll, a former member. Mrs. Harper toasted the new president and Mrs. Wall toasted the program committee for the past year. Mrs. Gribble toasted the hostess, who most charmingly responded with a toast to her guest. Mrs. Henry read a poem of her own composition and at the close of the breakfast the guest repaired to the living room where the last club program of the year was given. Those who enjoyed this delightful affair were Mesdames E. W. Moss, E. W. Alley, S. G. Henry, John Harper, L. E. Gribble, Fred Watkins, W. H. Lynn, Wall, S. A. McCarroll and the hostess.

City Federation Meets.

The city federation met on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. E. Henge. Mrs. C. C. Small the newly elected president presided. A number of matters came before the body and were disposed of. Representatives present were Mesdames Stover, Orr, O'Neil, Henry, Harper and Henge.

Return to Wellington.

Mr and Mrs. Henry Deakins Wells returned to Wellington Sunday afternoon from their honeymoon trip, after spending several days in Dallas and other points in Texas.

The marriage ceremony occurred in Wichita Falls on Monday, May 16, at 10 o'clock. The Rev. J. T. Cabe of the first Christian church of Wichita Falls performed the ceremony. Miss Marjorie Berry of Hollis, Okla., and Miss Irene Moore of Wellington were bridesmaids at the wedding and the groom was attended by Budge Harle of this city and Skully Glenwood Doolen of Mangum. Immediately following the ceremony, the couple left Wichita Falls for their honeymoon trip.

The bride who was Miss Marian Atkins, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Temple Atkins of Ramsdell, Texas, and a grand daughter of Judge and Mrs. E. H. Small of Shamrock. She attended school at the West Texas State Teachers College in Canyon, and later studied aesthetic dancing in Oklahoma City and Chicago. Mrs. Wells is quite prominent in social circles in Oklahoma City and Amarillo, as well as in Wellington. She has been conducting a school of dancing in Wellington since February at which time she came to this city.

Mr. Wells is the son of Mrs. Lucy A. Wells of this city. He is an ex-student of West Texas State Teachers College; a graduate of the University of Texas where he took his B. A. and B. J. degrees, a member of the Phi Kappa Psi social fraternity; a member of the Wellington Masonic lodge; vice president of the Panhandle Press association and is editor and manager of the Wellington Leader, which position he has held for the past two years.

This young couple will make their home in Wellington.

HIGHLAND HEIGHTS CHRISTIAN CHURCH
Opposite Junior College
Dr. Paul Henry Packard, Minister

Today is Memorial day, appropriately set apart throughout the nation as a day for refreshing our mind with the debt we owe those who have paid the price. We shall observe the day and add our tribute to the memory of our worthy dead.

Our Bible school meets at 9:30, in charge of Judge B. D. Sartin. The men's Bible class meets in the main auditorium of the church under the cooling breezes of electric fans, and will be taught today by Dr. Packard. We are urging every man in the church and out of the church to attend the class this morning, helping to build up a great men's department.

We have large classes, with efficient teachers for all ages, and invite visitors and new members to any department.

Communion and divine worship at 10:50, with sermon by Dr. Packard on the subject, "The Price We Have Paid." Mrs. Ray and Mr. Sartin will sing at the morning service.

Christian Endeavor societies will meet at 6:45, with special programs in each society.

At 8 o'clock Dr. Packard will speak on "The Mastry of Jesus." This is a special sermon prepared by Dr. Packard, showing how Christ met the adversities of life, how he faced the world with its hatred, bitterness, jealousy and condemnation, and came out victorious. If the world seems cold, heartless and bitter in its judgments, hear this sermon.

Prayer meeting Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. Our district convention meets at Haskell next Thursday and Friday. A number of automobiles are going and all who can are urged to make the trip.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
Tenth and Travis Streets
Dr. Floyd Allan Bash, Pastor
R. E. Shepherd, Superintendent

Memorial Sunday program will be given at the morning church service hour, 10:45, when veterans of three wars and their families will be special guests. A quartet will sing, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," and Mrs Dr W. L. Parker will sing "In My Father's House Are Many Mansions" (McDermid). Mr. Mike Newman will offer the Memorial prayer. Memorial tokens will be placed, honoring deceased veterans of three wars, by J. B. Hanchett, W. R. Duke, R. J. Gaines and Walter Caldwell. The pastor will speak on "The Message of the Fallen Warriors."

Excellent music will feature the evening service at 7:45. Miss Claudine McCarty will give a violin number, "Mazurka de Concert" (Ovide Musin) accompanied by Miss Rona McCarty at the piano. The offertory number is "Largo" (Handel), by Mrs. Strange at organ, Mrs. H. G. England at piano, and Miss Monterey Lewis, violin. Tenor solo, "The Holy City" (Adams), by Mr. Tom McCarty. Sermon, "Will We Know Our Loved Ones In Heaven?" by the pastor. This is the concluding sermon in the series on "The Future Life."

Bible school at 9:50 a. m., and Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p. m.

A brief memorial service honoring Dr F. E. Clark, founder of Christian Endeavor, will be a part of the Young People's Christian Endeavor program.

Hornets and Benefactors

"MEN who have vision, who are benefactors, who give time and means and thought toward correcting existing evils in the economic system of our public life should not be termed stormy petrels and hornets," writes C. C. Hudson of Iowa Park, in the state of Texas. Why not hornets? In the family of stingers the hornet is the king. He lets the enemy know that he is in the land of the living. He lets the enemy feel that he can fight as well as buzz. He is ever prepared for swift action. He is the cock of the walk in the domain of the stinging tribe. He is to the stinging tribe that which the eagle is to the feathered tribe.

This newspaper has been battling for court reform in Texas for a long time. Honied words are all right, but it requires more than honied words to get the people out of their trance and to educate them to a realization of what should take place in the halls of legislation in the state of Texas and elsewhere.

Court costs should be minimized. Judges should be on the job most of the time if not all the time. Speedy trials should be given criminals. This is one of the reasons why the people should vote for the amendment providing for a Supreme Court of nine members. There has been considerable court reform legislation. There are bills pending in both houses of the fortieth Legislature. If these measures are enacted into law, the bandage will be partially removed from the eyes of the Goddess of Justice under the skies of Texas.

Hornets are necessary. Their stingers are necessary. They produce direct as well as quick action. This for the gentlemen from Iowa Park. All the reformers of all the ages have been stormy petrels. Most of them have been hornets. When the Creator made them he must have made them for an excellent purpose. On with the battle for all legitimate reform, court and otherwise.

More power to the stingers of the hornets, if the stingers are intelligent stingers.

Lindbergh Plans Another Jump

CAPT. CHARLES A. LINDBERGH has planned another jump. His next hop-off may carry him from San Francisco to Melbourne in new South Wales. Commodore Richard Byrd of Virginia has thrown away his program. He may fly to the Arctic, or the Antartic or across the Pacific.

This boy who was born on a Minnesota farm destroyed all the programs of the pets of the armies and navies of the world. He was a dub, a commercial flier. He sold himself to Captain Charles A. Lindbergh first and then to a little coterie of Missourians. When he lit at Paris he had sold himself to the world.

No, he is not going to fly home. An imperial ocean liner will carry him from France to America. He was broken in pocket when he hopped from New York; if he cares to sign them, he will carry contracts in his pockets that will win for him a million dollars in a single year. It must be true that he travels fastest who travels alone.

Speaking of the Auto Age

FACTS and figures of the automobile industry are interesting. This is the big parade for 1926: Total wholesale value of motor vehicles and parts, $4,696,945,000.-000; number of persons employed directly in the industry, 3,365,000; number of motors exported including assemblies abroad, 487,000; motor vehicle taxes, $712,000,000; per cent of car production closed models, 72 per cent; number of motor vehicles in United States, 52,992; per cent of iron and steel output used by motor industries, 14 per cent; per cent of plate glass production sold by motor business, 50 per cent; per cent of upholstery leather output bought by automobile industries, 62 per cent; number of farm owned motor vehicles, 4,528,000; rank of automobile industries among industries of United States based on wholesale value of product first; state with largest number of motor vehicle registration, Florida; state with largest number of motor vehicles to population, or one to every three persons, California; state having largest numerical increase during 1926, New York; number of states having more than one million motor vehicle registration, seven, including Texas. Now what will the big parade of 1927 show at the close of the year.

So This Is Texas

A MAGAZINE in Georgia tells its readers that in Texas, visitors will see a state covering around 8 per cent of the nation's area and about one-half of one per cent of the land area of the world. It tells its readers that Texas is a leading producer of raw materials and that if Texas' cotton, oil and beef were subtracted from the world's supply calamity would result. It tells its readers that Texas produces one-third of the nation's cotton, ranks first in beef production and one-half of the nation's oil is produced within overnight travel of Dallas.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, May 25 (EFS).—A young New York Italian was agitating the soil in his back yard the other day, when he turned up some clay that gleamed and glistened.

"Gold!" he shouted, rushing into the chateau to assemble his wife, his father, three brothers, two sisters-in-law, three sons, one niece and numerous nephews who share the chateau with him.

They spent the remainder of the day digging and next morning hastened to the United States assay office with some specimen clay that was immediately diagnosed as "decayed mica."

It's just as well it turned out as it did. If it had been gold, discord would have reared its ugly head around the crowded radiator. The family would have split and everyone of them would have been miserable, whereas now they can linger long over the vesper spaghetti swapping pipe dreams on what they'd done, and how kind and generous each would have been to each other, had it really been gold.

ON THE TRAIL OF ROMANCE WITH KIT CARSON!

Carson's great rides across country from California. Carries dispatches to Washington from General Kearney and Colonel Fremont during the war with Mexico. Is forced to make his own trails through country infested with warlike Indians. His devotion to duty, in the face of the senate's refusal to confirm his appointment as lieutenant. Finds himself a popular figure at Washington and St. Louis. Refusal to desert a comrade nearly costs his life on the Santa Fe Trail.

By ARTHUR CHAPMAN.

CHAPTER IX.

AS a dispatch bearer, in time of Indian troubles and during the war with Mexico, Kit Carson performed feats of endurance in the saddle which confirmed Colonel Fremont's judgment of him as the finest horseman in the West.

Accompanied by small escorts, Carson made two cross-country rides from California which caught the imagination of the public and established him more firmly than ever a popular hero. Previous to the outbreak of the war, he had made a ride on the Santa Fe Trail, with dispatches to General Armijo at Santa Fe, under such dangerous conditions that no other man among the hard characters of the frontier would so much as consider making the attempt.

Kit Carson's rides were undertaken at a time when the West was a wilderness. There were no great highways to California. Gold had not yet been discovered there. The Mormons had not yet started their trek from the Middle West, which resulted in the settlement of Utah. The Old Spanish Trail from Taos through the Southwest was without a white settlement of any sort. It was little better than a faintly marked trace across the desert, through a country infested with unfriendly Indians.

The Pony Express had not even been thought of. A trans-continental stage line was beyond the dreams of the most far-sighted, and any sponsor of a railroad through the Great American Desert, as the country west of the Missouri had been called in Congress, would have been set down as insane.

Under such conditions, Carson was called upon to carry dispatches to and from Washington, having important bearing on the fate of California. Provided with a small escort, in each case he was called upon to make his way as best he could through the hunting grounds of at least six tribes of Indians ranging from uncertain in disposition to downright warlike. Carson and his escorts on these expeditions always "traveled light"—that is, their supplies were reduced to a minimum, so the pack animals could be pushed through at top speed. Sometimes, in fording rivers, supplies and even horses were swept away. The country through which these ventures were made was generally barren and yielded little game. Besides, Carson allowed no time to hunt, and often he and his men were reduced to the necessity of living on parched corn secured from friendly Indians.

A Shrewd Night Plan.

On these rides, which considering the circumstances governing them, are without anything comparable in western frontier history, Carson always set the pace. Small of stature, but wiry and apparently incapable of feeling fatigue, Carson led the way through the roughest country, frequently being far in advance of his men. At night, when the other riders would throw themselves on the ground, literarly too exhausted to stir, Carson would busy himself about the camp, always taking precautionary measures against any surprise by Indians. When the others were sleeping, Carson would roll out of his blankets and make the rounds, seeing that sentries were not asleep.

The choice of routes on these expeditions was always up to Carson, whose wonderful memory for the topography of any country made him invaluable as a guide. Often he chose routes which apparently were circuitous, this being done to avoid certain places which he knew as favorite camping spots for Indians. When Indians were met, Carson either "bluffed" matters through, and perhaps actually succeeded in inducing unfriendly and suspicious tribes to trade fresh horses for the wornout steeds of his command, or if the savages were on the warpath, opened fire and settled matters at the first vigorous attack.

Actually Carson is to be credited with three overland trips from California under these conditions, which were the most grim and unpromising ever faced by any dispatch rider. His first ride, as bearer of information concerning the campaign in California, was undertaken at the request of Colonel Fremont, as described in the preceding installment of this series. Carson had promised to make the trip in sixty days, and would have done so, he averred, if he had not been persuaded to turn back as General Kearney's guide. When Carson met Kearney in New Mexico, the daring rider had already covered the most dangerous and difficult part of the route, at a speed which was phenomenal under the circumstances.

After Carson and Lieutenant Beale had penetrated the surrounding Mexican lines and had brought the American forces at San Diego to the rescue of Kearney's shattered forces, as previously described, Carson took part in the successful attack on Los Angeles, and soon afterward was taking orders from his comrade and fellow explorer, Colonel Fremont.

Carson was not long to remain off the trail. He was selected to carry dispatches to the War Department, and in March, 1847, with an escort of fifteen men, set out toward Washington. With him was Lieutenant Beale, who was carrying dispatches to the Navy Department. Beale had not yet recovered from the effects of his nerve-shattering trip with Carson to bring aid to Kearney. A great fondness had grown up between these two men who had shared such a hazard. For the first twenty days on the journey with dispatches, Carson lifted Beale on and off his horse and cared for him like a brother.

On the Gila river Carson's party was attacked, but was saved by the scout's shrewd tactics. Confident that they were being watched by Indians, and feeling certain that an attack would come at night, Carson ordered his men to halt while there was still daylight. Supper was eaten and more or less elaborate preparations were made to camp. Then, as soon as darkness had fallen, Carson ordered that the camp be moved very quietly to a point nearly a mile away. The pack saddles were arranged as defenses against arrows, and Carson ordered his men not to fire and not to speak, as the flash of guns or sound of voices would betray their position. If the Indians charged upon the camp, the soldiers were to use their clubbed guns as weapons.

Soon there was a yell of rage as the Indians discovered the ruse that had been played upon them. Finding the real position of the white men, the Indians shot arrows into the camp, but Carson's orders were carried out to the letter and nobody fired in reply. The Indians surrounded the camp and shot arrows at random all night, but no one was injured, and by dawn the savages had disappeared, unwilling to risk a daylight attack against the better armed white men.

This journey meant a horseback trip of 2,000 miles to St. Louis. Carson and Beale continuing to Pittsburgh by boat. From Pittsburgh there was a journey of 125 miles by stage to Cumberland, and from that point to Washington the trip was completed by rail, the dispatch bearers arriving June 15.

Carson was amazed, and was made to feel not a little uncomfortable, at the reception accorded him in St. Louis and Washington as a popular hero. His exploits as an Indian fighter, trapper and explorer had been filling the press, all unknown to Carson himself. Fremont, in his journals of exploration, which had been avidly read because they gave the first adequate description of much of the West, had been generous in according credit to Carson. Always the most modest of men, Carson shrank from the publicity that resulted.

Instead of Shaking Carson's Proffered Hand, the Chief Seized the Scout's Rifle and Tried to Wrest It From Him.

It was long before the days of the Wild West show, or there is no doubt that Carson would have been besieged with offers which would have made him wealthy. As it was, he remained in Washington only long enough to receive from President Polk an appointment as lieutenant, and then started back to California, with dispatches for Kearney and Fremont. Lieutenant Beale started back with him, but was compelled to return from St. Louis on account of illness.

As the Pawnees were at war, Carson was furnished an escort of fifty men at Fort Leavenworth for the trip to Santa Fe. While in camp near Pawnee Rock, close to a detachment of volunteers on their way to New Mexico, Carson heard the commotion as a large war party made a sudden descent on the soldier camp and drove off the horses and oxen belonging to the command. By making a sudden charge with a few men, as the Indians approached his camp, Carson recovered all the oxen and some of the horses which the soldiers had given up for lost.

At Santa Fe, Carson, reduced his escort to sixteen men and started westward across the desert. At the Virgen river in present-day Utah, near the Grand Canyon, 300 Indians menaced Carson and his men. Instantly realizing that the Indians were bent on mischief, and that conciliatory measures were useless, Carson rode forward and "talked strong" to the savages. He told them that they were treacherous, that he knew of their killing a party of seven white men a few months before, and that if they did not leave at once he would fire upon them.

This was bold talk from the leader of seventeen men addressing three hundred, but Carson was never disposed to tell an Indian anything he did not mean. As the Indians were not disposed to go, Carson ordered his men to fire. One Indian fell dead and the others lost no time in escaping, nor did they bother the dispatch bearers again.

Danger From Texans.

The following spring, after having spent most of the winter guarding Tejon Pass, to prevent the escape of Indians with stolen horses, Carson was again sent on the long trail from California to Washington with dispatches. This time he took a more northern route, on account of the seriousness of Indian troubles in the Southwest. In rafting across the Grand river (now the Colorado, in the state of that name) a raft was was lost with several rifles and riding and pack saddles. This made it necessary for some of the men to ride bareback till they reached Taos, New Mexico.

Just before reaching Taos, Carson and his men were menaced by several hundred Utes and Apaches. Taking up a position in some brush, Carson would not permit the Indians to approach within a certain distance. He explained that some of his men were without saddles and that some, in fact were nearly naked. They had nothing worth stealing and it would profit the Indians nothing to take their scalps, as they would surely kill many if an attack were made. This talk so impressed the Indians that they departed peaceably enough.

Carson learned that the Comanches were still on the warpath, with parties of from two to three hundred watching every road. Keeping only ten of his escort, Carson struck northward for the Bijou country (in what is now Colorado) and traveled down it to within twenty-five miles of the south fork of the Platte. Then he struck for the Platte and traveled down that stream to Fort Kearney, thence striking for the fork of the Republican and to Fort Leavenworth.

This ability to make a new trail when it was dangerous to travel the generally used routes was one of the faculties that made Carson supreme. On this trip he traveled hundreds of miles out of his way, and succeeded in avoiding hostile Indian country, yet he led his escort with such certainty and speed that he reached St. Louis in record time.

At Santa Fe, in the course of this adventurous trip, Carson was informed that the Senate, which was violently opposed to president Polk's policies, had refused to confirm his appointment as lieutenant. Friends urged him to give up the trip, but Carson made a characteristic reply which showed how much higher he placed duty than any personal reward for his services. He said that, as long as he had been chosen as the person most competent to carry dispatches for the government, he would go on and carry them through, and that he did not wish to forfeit the good opinion of his countrymen if the senate did not see fit to confirm his appointment to an office which he had never sought.

Any account of Carson's record as a dispatch rider would be incomplete without reference to a courageous exploit which he performed on the Santa Fe trail, in 1843, when Texans and the Mexican forces under Governor Armijo of New Mexico were in conflict.

Carson was hunter with the wagon train of Messrs. Bent and St. Vrain, enroute from Bent's Fort to St. Louis. A captain of dragoons met the Bent train at Walnut Creek, with the information that a large force of Texans was in waiting for a wagon train headed for Santa Fe, in charge of one hundred Mexicans sent out by Armijo. The Texans were waiting to attack this train as soon as it crossed the Arkansas, which then divided the United States from Mexican territory. The dragoons could protect the Mexicans only as far as the Arkansas, and it was desired to have word sent to Armijo, in order that he could send men to guard the train during the remainder of the journey.

A Back to Back Stand for Life.

Carson was sought out as the one man to make the trip. Warlike Indians swarmed along the trail to Santa Fe, but Carson started out. At Bent's Fort, Colonel Bent provided Carson with a good horse. Traveling by night and remaining hidden by day, as Indians were always within sight, Carson reached Santa Fe. He found that Armijo had sent 100 soldiers to support the wagon train, but this detachment had been met by the Texans and killed almost to the last man. Carrying a message from Armijo to those in charge of the wagon train, Carson started back, accompanied by a Mexican youth.

When they were several days out on the trail, Carson saw Indians approaching. They were Utes, on the warpath. The Mexican urged Carson to mount his fleet horse and escape. The heroism of the youth touched Carson's heart. Vowing that they would remain together and die together if need be, Carson stood beside the Mexican and awaited the arrival of the Indians.

The chief, who was described by Carson as "a wily old rascal," came up and held out his hand. Then, instead of shaking Carson's proffered hand, the chief seized the scout's rifle and tried to wrest it from him. What Carson described as "a wrestling match" followed, and it can be imagined that the wiry plainsman soon bested his opponent.

Carson and the Mexican then stood back to back, while the Indians circled about them with yells and threatening gestures, endeavoring to catch them off their guard. This was kept up for half an hour, the Indians endeavoring by every means to induce Carson and his companion to change their positions, so the savages might fire without danger of receiving any shots in return. Determined to kill the first Indian who raised his rifle, Carson and the Mexican maintained such a determined front that the Utes finally left, knowing that if an attack were made at least two of their war party would fall.

Carson and the brave Mexican youth reached Fort Bent without further incident and learned there that the dragoons had captured the Texans, leaving the way open for Armijo's train to proceed. Carson declared that in all his career he never was nearer to death than in this adventure as a dispatch bearer on the Santa Fe Trail.

HEALTH --and Diet

By Dr. Frank McCoy

From Earache to Mastoiditis

The Mastoid Process is a collection of hollow cells located in the bone behind each ear. It is in close proximity to the ear and any inflamation in the inner ear may easily extend over into the Mastoid Process.

If an earache develops with either a child or an adult, it a safe plan to stop all food for a day or two, until you are sure that the inner ear has emptied itself of any catarrhal mucus which may have accumulated. If everyone would do this at first sign of ear trouble, there would be few cases of mastoiditis.

Physicians always fear that an earache may lead to mastoiditis and operate upon their patients many times before nature has a chance to cure the trouble in the inner ear.

A few weeks ago I received a a long distance call from a mother whose child had just had her ear drum lanced to let out the puss. All arrangements had been made for an operation to be performed on the child's mastoid the next morning. The mother chanced that afternoon to read an article which I had written, telling about the cure of mastoiditis. She was so cheered in the hope that her child could avoid an operation that she called me long distance for some advice.

I told her that all that she needed to do was tot begin fasting the child at once, using at the same time hot applications on the outside of the ear and on the side of the neck. This she proceeded to do. She telephoned me next day that the pain had entirely disappeared.

In a day or two more, the ear had stopped discharging and the child had apparently completely recovered. The mother was delighted but surprised at such a rapid cure and took her child back to the ear specialist, who pronounced the case entirely cured.

She now has other children on the same kind of a diet regime which I recommended after the fast.

This case is cited to show how easily a child responds to the proper treatment, even in such a serious trouble as mastoiditis, which may of course, be very dangerous if improperly treated.

If your child has a persistent pain in the ear, or in any other part of the body, it is a wise thing to play safe by starting it on a fast at once; at the same time using all other eliminative measurees you know of, such as enemas, hot packs and plenty of skin bathing to keep up elimination through the pores of the skin.

Keep studying these daily articles and learn how easy it is to control all of the common disorders. At the same time, you will learn how to take care of yourself and the rest of the family, so as to avoid sickness in the future.

QUESTION: Jake S. writes: "Quite often I am troubled with a twitching in my hips and the calves of my legs. I simply cannot control it, and sometimes it nearly upsets my balance. I have been told that I jump and twitch in my sleep. I am wondering if some form of diet would help overcome this condition. I would also be interested in knowing what causes electricity in the body. Apparently I am full of it for when I remove either outer or under garments they crack and snap as if alive. If I run a comb through my hair it snaps and cracks.

ANSWER: You are no doubt suffering from some form of chorea, and can be cured by the proper hygenic regime. Your question about electricity is a big one. We know many ways by which it may be generated and rubbing a comb through the hair is one of them. It is a similar process to that used where the friction in a dynamo creates electricity. The effect which you notice has nothing to do with your nerves.

Let's Soap So

NEW YORK.—Has a tired husban, who works nights, a right to beat his wife if she wakes him by inserting two handfuls of soapsuds into his somnolent mouth? Judge Adolph Carsten, of Hoboken, disposed of the question by placing Theodore Lappas on probation for a year. Mrs. Lappas runs a boarding house. Theodore came home on a Monday morning and found his own room unfitted for sleep because his wife was washing. He went to the star boarder's room and was awakened by a double fistful of soapsuds, rich and creamy. He punched her in the nose and she called the cop. The cop called the judge, his honor called the probation officer. Selah!

LON CHANEY'S NEXT PICTURE WILL BE "THE WANDERING JEW"

GLORIA TO BE IN NEW ROLE

'Sadie Thompson' Will Be Her Next Film

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.
Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, May 28. — "Sadie Thompson" one of the most colorful characters in fiction, made famous by Somerset Maugham both in story and on the stage has been purchased for Gloria Swanson, by United Artists. Gloria was as excited and thrilled as a youngster when she told me that "Sadie Thompson" will be her next heroine and that Raoul Walsh is to direct her. I think I should make the distinction that "Sadie Thompson" and "Rain" are not one and the same although they are both based on Maugham's famous character. "Rain" in which Jeanne Eagels made such a hit on the stage is a dramatization of "Sadie Thompson" but it was decidedly censorable. "Sadie Thompson" in the movies will stick closely to the text of the orinigal story.

Raoul Walsh has been barrowed from Fox through the courtesy of Winfield Sheehan. Before Winnie left for Europe he practically suspended production at the Fox studio. They have been working there day and night for the last few months and as I understand it, are ahead of production schedule. Most of the people not under contract were let out and those who were under contract were loaned to other companies.

Gloria made it emphatic that Albert Parker would direct "The Woman and the Puppet," her picture following "Sadie Thompson." He will work on this scenario while she is engaged in making "Sadie Thompson" and is still in the employ of United Artists.

What a screen vehicle for Lon Chaney "The Wandering Jew" will make. Eugene Sue's novel is filled with possibilities and with Lon Chaney in that role it should be a knockout in the movies. As I remember it "The Wandering Jew" was made several years ago by an English company but never with a production worthy of such a great story. M-G-M realizes that Lon Chaney is one of their best actors from a financial standpoint and are going to make this a big production. J. Robert Rubin, M-G-M lawyer, engineered the arrangements for the privilege of screening the story and yesterday word was received saying that it had been successfully negotiated.

I don't know why we should consider it incongruous for John Barrymore to make a modern production. Certainly he is a fine actor and a double and hose effect is not absolutely essential to his screen success. Yet when definite word came that he would be starred in "Tempest" a story of modern Russian life by Fred de Gresac I admit I was surprised. I shouldn't have been surprised for Mr. Barrymore said he would make a modern story before he would back out. Barrymore's leading lady will be an unknown. At least a test was made yesterday and it looks as if the stranger will get the job. Barrymore wears the dress of a cossack so of course he will not be without his picturesque costume.

Garden Presents "30 Below Zero"

Equipped with a gripping story and surrounded by an excellent cast, Buck Jones opens a two-day run at the Garden theater Sunday in "30 Below Zero." Fox Films version of John Stone's dramatic story of the north woods.

"30 Below Zero," directed by Bob Kerr, has been called the best offering of the kind ever brought to the silver sheet. The story opens in New York and has a smashing climax in the snow-country, where Buck performs some of the most hair-raising stunts of his career.

Bryan Man Champion Of Potato Producers

BRYAN, May 28.(AP)—John Babo, county commissioner of Brazos county, is the champion Irish potato grower of this section.

He recently brought six potatoes to town that weighed in at six and one-half pounds from his one-fifth acre tract. Potatoes are selling locally for $ 1-2c a pound, which is at the rate of $2.10 per bushel, counting 60 pounds to the bushel. Mr. Sabo states he will gather 40 bushels from his tract. At this yields, the gross value of an acre of Irish potatoes would be $425.

Lions Will Send Band To Convention

BRYAN, May 28.(AP)—The Allen Academy band, the official Lions' club band of Texas, will leave Bryan June 12 for Miami, Fla., to play at the national convention of Lions' clubs. It was recently voted on the floor of the state's convention at McAllen to send this band to the national meeting to assist El Paso in its fight to secure the 1928 convention, and an assessment of $1 per member was voted on the clubs of the state.

FAMOUS STAR IN GARDEN FILM

Chaney Appears In "When Bearcat Went Dry"

Lon Chaney, star of "The Penalty," "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," "The Phantom of the Opera," "The Road to Mandalay," and innumberable other tremendously successful productions comes to us now in "When Bearcat Went Dry," a fighting romance of the Kentucky hills, which will be on display at the Garden theater Thursday.

"When Bearcat Went Dry" was made several years ago, and registered a triumphant success. That it is still one of the greatest pictures the screen has ever known will be enthusiastically attested to by all those who see it during its forthcoming engagement. It presents, as we have said, Lon Chaney in one of his strangest and strongest characterizations and it offers an all-artist cast which includes, besides Mr. Chaney, Virginia Valentine, Wade Hall, Walt Whitman, Bertrand Dunning, Ed Brady and Lydia Knott.

The story—published originally under the title of "Bearcat"—is by Charles Neville Buck, than whom literature knows today no more prolific nor fascinating writer. And while the picture was made, as we have said, many years ago, the technical work is absolutely on a par with the best efforts of the present time.

Will Rogers Supports Dorothy Gish In Majestic Film

Three of the world's most famous entertainers are holding forth at the Majestic theater Sunday and Monday where the screen version of "Tip Toes," the Broadway stage success, produced in London and imported by Paramount, is the featured photoplay. Dorothy Gish, supported by none other than Will Rogers and Nelson Keys, romps through the hilarious dramatization of the semi-comic adventures of a down and out Yankee vaudeville team's efforts to storm the twin citadels of the English sense of humor and aristocracy. It is when Al and Hen's threadbare gags are received in the stony silence that only the English are capable of, that the troubles of the "Three Keys" start. The subsequent efforts of the two ham actors to marry their dainty dancing partner "Tip Toes" to love-sick Lord William Montgomery, under the pretext that she is a wealthy American heiress and themselves her uncles, lead them into a series of misadventures in high society, which Lenks them to Scotland Yard, the very threshold of each, which Natural Feelings, but growing ill

OLYMPIC FILM ONE OF LOVE

Lewis Stone Stars In "The Notorious Lady"

The love interest, the intrigue and adventure are sustained; the photoplay does not lag a moment from the opening scene to the flash "The End" and it affords genuine entertainment throughout its duration.

Mr. Stone whose abilities needs no press agentry to praise audiences has an opportunity to show why he is one of the screen's leading actors. Barbara Bedford, in the title role, is remembered for her work with Mr. Stone in old Lewis and New ("The Desert Healer") another Rork production through First National. Ann Rork, a newcomer to the screen, recently featured in "The Family Secret" has a big part as Kennedy's baby sister Betty. In "The Notorious Lady" Miss Rork shows the slight perkiness of a newcomer before the camera has disappeared, she is at home now under the studio lights and she is headed for stardom.

In the supporting cast are a number of well known players. Earl Metcalfe, Francis McDonald, Grace Cunard, J. Thomas Davis and Ned Jones are all good in their roles.

Some of the backgrounds of "The Notorious Lady" are scenic wonders. The story, adapted from Patrick Hastings' stage success "The River," obviously calls for river scenes. The river is in Africa, where most of the adventure is staged, and Producer Bork, according to advance information, selected the desert-mountain stretches along the Colorado river, 28 miles from Needles, Arizona, for the exteriors.

"Take it for granted that all brides are beautiful," the city editor instructed the new society reporter. "The newspaper theory is that a man would no more marry a homely woman than Cal Coolidge would buy a parrot."

Thrilling Story On Gem Screen

A thrilling tale of love and romance wherein Caroline Wells, a wealthy girl who is having a vacation in the mountain country meets one Edward Hurley who makes violent love to her and she is most carried off her feet by him, she thinks that he is somewhat easy to look at and is about half way in love with him, but she uses caution and writes to her attorneys in the city to investigate for her and find out if this Mr. Hurley is all that he had represented himself to be, the firm sends out a young man who is not connected with the firm, to investigate this Mr. Hurley, the latter wishing to be a hero in the eye's of the girl plans to have her kidnaped, that he might make a hero of himself by rescuing her, but his plan goes astray, and our would be hero loses out, for Bud Steele is the man who does the rescuing much to the humiliation of the bunk would be hero Hurley, the latter then frames up Bud on a murder charge and through perjured evidence, Bud's life is placed in jeopardy and in the nick of time aided by the girl he escapes, and later there is a most happy union. Buddy Roosevelt who plays Bud Steele is at his best in "Easy Going," at the Gem today.

KISSING A LA MEXICO

MEXICO CITY—Kissing in public has not been encouraged in Mexico since the days of Cortes and his conquistadores of the sixteenth century. It has now received official vindication at the hands of the federal authorities, all because a charming young wife would not believe that a public demonstration of her affections for her husband was wrong. She appealed to Juan Correa Nieto, federal prosecutor, and he decreed the public kiss "not only legitimate, but sublime," and sounded a warning to the police who would interfere with the operation.

"I now understand," said the sad-eyed man after he had been properly "laid out" by the other half of the sketch, "why marriage is referred to as a matrimonial 'bark.'"

The season rapidly is approaching when everybody will take a vacation except installment collectors.

Galloping Action In 'Blazing Days'

Featuring Fred Humes, one of the most popular of cowboy screen stars, "Blazing Days" a Universal western, now showing at the Mission theater has a wealth of exciting comedy, galloping action and heart throbs.

"Blazing Days" is a photoplay based on George Bversons story, "A Two-Fisted Bo-Peep," which appeared in Ledies Weekly and was scenarized by Robert Hill and George H. Plympton. A typical tale of the west, it introduces a new angle hitherto not treated in a screen play.

Back of the plot is the age-old enmity of the cattleman and the "sport" as the sheepherders were known to riders of the range. A relentless war was waged against the encroachment of the sheepmen on the huge land holdings of the early ranchers. Conditions became so critical that the government stepped in to halt the hostilities. The issue was not fought out by words, argument or gentle persuasion. It was settled by the forces of law and order through the medium of barking guns, hangings and imprisonment.

In a way the cattlemen had a real grievance against the "nesters" because they cut down the area of free range for his cattle. However, the sheepman finally won out by sheer persistency and force of numbers until finally the huge empires of the cattle kings were broken up.

CHEMIST VISITS CAR FACTORY

Chrysler Plant Inspected By German Owner

Among all the throngs who have visited the Chrysler plants during the spring of 1927 none has been more interested in the marvels of mechanical and engineering achievements to be seen there than Dr. Otto Kauffmann, manufacturing chemist of Neidersedlitz, Dresden, Germany. Dr. Kauffmann came 4700 miles to Detroit to make this visit. He is an original European Chrysler fan and owns a Chrysler "70" that was one of the first ten Chryslers imported into Germany. He bought it in December, 1924.

"My Chrysler has given me more than 25,000 miles of satisfaction already," he told J. W. Frazer, Chrysler sales manager while making a tour of the factory in Detroit.

"That is an unusual mileage for Europe," he went on to explain. "The price of gasoline on our side of the Atlantic does not encourage the use of automobiles much, you know, and only cars with exceptionally low operating cost find many buyers. That is why one sees so many Chryslers on the continent. I have naturally been interested in watching for them on our roads and I am convinced there are more Chryslers driven in Europe than cars of any other American make.

"My Chrysler '70' has been such a constant source of pleasure to me that I have been eager to see the factory where it was made ever sincee I bought it. We hear very much in Germany about the efficiency and the wonderful methods of your American automobile plants, and I came here with high expectations. I must admit that that the reality has far surpassed anything I expected to see. The marvelous speed and precision combined in Chrysler manufacturing processes have been a revelation. We pride ourselves in Germany upon our industries but we have a great deal to learn from the United States and especially from automobile plants over here."

GRAHAM TRUCK MAKES RECORD

Record Business Reported During May

Retail sales of Graham Brothers trucks and commercial cars together with overseas shipments during the first two weeks of May broke all previous records for the year, according to figures just released by the company. The record figure for this period of 12 working days is a total of 2957 units—2354 retail deliveries to customers by dealers in the United States and Canada and 603 shipped overseas.

Graham Brothers truck sales throughout the world have shown increasing volume since the first of the year which demonstrates the growing popular demand for high quality transportation equipment of the speedy, pneumatic-tired type with medium load capacity. This trend also is indicated by National Automobile Chamber of Commerce figures just released which show that 91.9 per cent of all trucks produced in the United States and Canada during 1926 were of 3-4, 1, 1 1-2 and 2 ton capacities. These are exactly the same capacities in which Graham Brothers trucks are built.

AUSTIN, May 28.(AP)—Dr. A. C. Perrin, professor of psychology in Texas university here, will head the psychology department of the international university cruise around the world beginning September 21 and ending May 15, 1928.

Perrin, having been granted leave of absence, will return to the university after the "floating university" tour is finished.

COLQUITT SEES LIVELY TILTS

Governor And Senate Races To Be Thrillers

AUSTIN, May 28. (AP)—Texas is to be wooed in 1928 with as hearty a political campaign as has ever been made, in the opinion of Former Gov. O. B. Colquitt of Dallas.

Colquitt, who frequently drops in at the state capitol to act as chairman of the Texas tax survey commission, say at least four prominent men are contemplating the guberatorial race.

From what he learned, he said, they are R. L. Bobbitt of Laredo, speaker of the house of representatives; Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller of Dallas, Senator Thomas B. Love of Dallas and Clarence E. Gilmore, chairman of the state railroad commission.

All these, the former governor believes, will run if Gov. Dan Moody elects to try for the United States senate or in any other manner fails to seek re-election.

Moody Is Doubtful.

Colquitt, who campaigned for Governor Moody and is conceded to be close to him, is doubtful as to Moody's course of action.

The governor, he said, "might and he might not."

"However, this much I have learned from a reliable source: Former Gov. James E. Ferguson, has said that he will run for the United States senate if Moody does.

His predictions provoked much speculative interest about capitol especially since United States Senator Earle B. Mayfield of Austin, already is campaigning of re-election and Congressman Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene virtually has entered the ring for the same place.

The possibility of Love, Miller, Bobbitt, Gilmore race all drew comments from those who claim to know political ramifications. Love and Miller, both from Dallas, are "right in geography," the experts believe.

On the other hand, "Bobbitt's geography is all wrong," but in a showdown, administration leader and friend that he has been, he might secure at least Governor Moody's unofficial endorsement.

Gilmore Dark Horse.

He likely would not have endorsement, but likewise he probably would not have the administration to fight.

There also is a possibility of a fifth candidate in Charles O. Austin who has said he may enter the race under certain conditions.

Nor does Senator Jim Reed of Missouri, fill the bill. "I think," Colquitt said, "I'd like to see Governor Donahue of Ohio get the nomination.

Argentinian Woman Barred From America

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Mme. Dolores de Casares, English wife of an Argentina citizen, must leave this country by the first of June, the department of labor announced today.

Mme. Casares has made repeated efforts to secure permission to remain in the United States, since she was refused permission to land in England, despite her British birth. The British government contended that she had forfeited her rights to British citizenship when she married an Argentenian.

Drives Golf Ball From Top Of Moving Studebaker Car

Tee-box tourists of Northwestern University campus have many firm and steadfast ideas about the royal and ancient game of golf. One of these was that a perfect drive can only be made from a stationary tee. Your feet must be on solid ground, it was said.

Louis A. Shultz, acting captain of the Northwestern links team, contended that he could drive a ball from the top of a moving automobile. A campus wager resulted.

A friend offered the loan of a Studebaker President sedan for the stunt. The car was driven to an unfrequented street and Shultz climbed aboard. He made a tee on the president's roof, took his stance and signalled the chauffeur to drive ahead.

When the car attained a speed of 15 miles an hour, Shultz took two practice swings. A moment later he made a real stroke. The club head met the ball squarely and the sphere sailed away for a straight 250-yard drive. Then to give double proof, Shultz drove a second ball from the top of the moving car.

While Shultz's stunt was done to win a wager, it also served to demonstrate the strength of the Studebaker President's welded steel body and the smoothness of its operation.

Chevrolet Sets Production Record During April

Spurred on by the greatest demand in its history, Chevrolet in April again set up a new production record with a total output for the month of 111,937 units. This exceeds by 4037 units the best previous monthly performance in the history of the company and establishes an all-time record for the monthly production of gear-shift cars.

Equally as spectacular as the remarkable monthly production feat and dividing the spotlight with it was the mark established April 29, when in the short space of a day's working hours, the factories built 5347 Chevrolet cars and trucks. This was 272 units in excess of the best previous day's record.

It was particularly fitting that the record day happened to be the same one that Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of the General Motors corporation, chose for a visit to the Flint plant. Mr. Sloan, with C. S. Mott, vice president of the General Motors corporation, arrived at the factory early in the day as guests of W. S. Knudsen, president, and C. F. Barth, vice president of the Chevrolet Motor company.

Before Mr. Sloan had completed his inspection of the big Flint plant, where men and machinery were combining to build the eight types of Chevrolet cars now available, it was evident that a new production record was in sight.

Mr. Sloan waited for number 5347 to come off the line, congratulated Mr. Knudsen on the remarkable showing being made by the Chevrolet Motor company and its product and rode off the line in the epoch-marking model which again happened to be a coach.

West Texan Toots Way To Riches On Brass Horn In Cowboy Band

PADUCAH, May 28.(AP)—Ability to toot a horn tunefully sometimes is a substantial business asset.

It was even so with E. A. Curlock, one-time printer-bandman, whose ability to toot set his feet on the road to prosperity and aided him in his eventual transformation from leader of a cowboy band to the proprietor of the Paducah Post with a business rating of approximately $90,000.

He tooted two nights a week with the cowboys and worked as a printer the rest of the time. He began in a 14 by 16 shack with considerable less type enough to adequately do business and an old Washington handpress but today he has a two-story brick business building and modern machinery.

Chance led him to Paducah about 19 years ago. He read an advertisement that a leader was wanted for a cowboy band here. He arrived, he said, penniless. He found a town of 300, six business houses and a run-down newspaper. It looked like a "poor go," Mr. Curlock said, but he found cowboy hospitality overwhelming and he decided to stay. The cowboys came in from all parts of the section for rehearsals. They wore their chaps and spurs and tied their instruments on the saddle horns with their lassoes. They seemed to like Curlock very much and when he decided to buy the newspaper they loaned him $150 of the purchase price of $600.

Within 18 months after Curlock settled here a railroad came, business picked up and Paducah boomed. Seven lumber yards and 18 real estate men located there and in 14 months the proprietor of the Post thrived. A cowboy banker took a chance on the publisher, as he expressed it, and a larger building was erected, a cylinder press was installed and needed type bought. When the boom collapsed, the account with the bank had been lowered to a safe margin.

The march of progress since has brought to the point of adding typesetting machines and a two-story brick building to house his business, to say nothing of the farm of 700 acres of fine cotton land.

Girls Hold All Important Posts On Staff Of Texas School Paper

SAN ANTONIO, May 28.(AP)—Every important position except that of the sporting editor on the "Huisache" Main avenue high school students newspaper, will be held next year by feminine journalists.

In the announcement of the staff for next year 12 girls were given places while only four boys succeeded in winning jobs. The "Huisache" has won many state contests for the best high school paper. Next year it will be managed and most of its reading matter will be written by girls. Boys will handle the sports columns and take care of the proof reading.

Miss Betty Wendover will act as managing editor, Mary June Church, as assistant editor, Sylvia Roseman as news editor, Dorothy Gray as her assistant, Eleanor and Ethel Niggli as exchange editors, Hametia Fielder as club editor, and Claire McCowan, as typist.

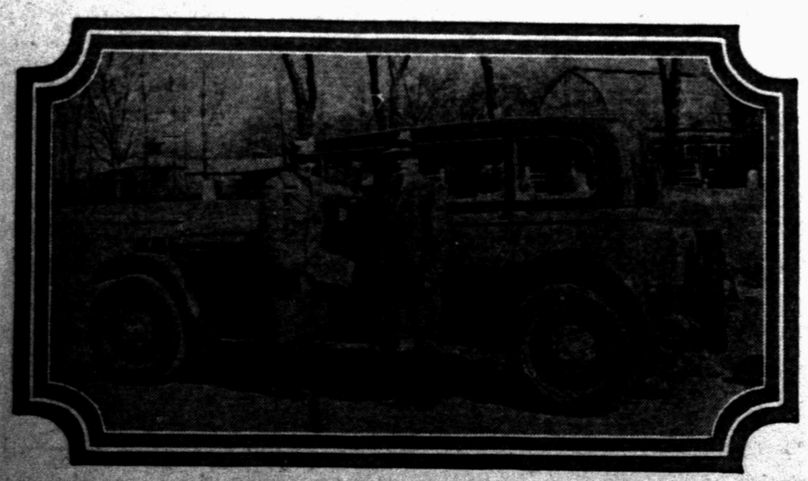

Frank Falkstein and Edward Folbre will take care of the sport department and Edwin Harnett will serve as columnist and proof reader with Edward Barbee to help him in the latter capacity. In taking over a majority of the responsibility of the paper the girls gave up their traditional jobs as proof readers and for the first time in history that work will be taken over by boys.

FOURTH PLACE
in four great markets with four great lines of cars

Today, as always, America is swift to recognize outstanding merit, ingenuity and progressiveness, as evidenced by the startling readjustment in the automobile industry since last July.

Witness the way public opinion—in three short years—has shot Chrysler forward from twenty-seventh to fourth place in actual dollar sales—ahead of twenty-three notably good cars, some of them representing successes historic in the industry.

The reason is obvious: Walter P. Chrysler and Chrysler engineers have been in the very heart of things since the business began—he behind the scenes toiling and planning, dreaming the dream which has come so gloriously true.

Functioning at the head of his own company—unhampered by engineering and manufacturing traditions or obsolete equipment—giving initiative and vision a free hand—Chrysler has presented to the American public, in the four Chrysler cars, revelations in brilliant performance, mastery of sparkling speed and power, ease of handling, riding comfort, motoring luxury.

Actuated by a manufacturing principle which for the first time standardized quality—not merely quanity—Chrysler has given the people motor-car values so indisputable as to make a decision in favor of Chrysler a foregone conclusion.

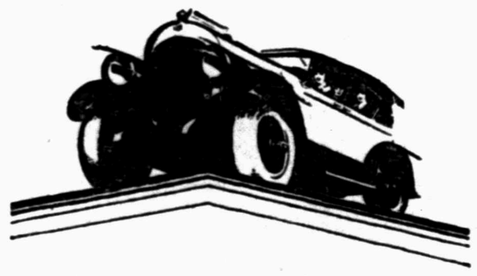

The dash, smartness, speed, power, beauty and long life of Chrysler cars—breathing the very spirit of American life—have won overwhelming preference in four great markets.

With the result that today motor-car sales records show conclusively that where others have declined Chrysler has gained; and where others have gained, Chrysler has gained still more.

NEW FACTORY FOR PONTIAC

Three Large Buildings Compose Car Plant

PONTIAC, Mich. — Pronounced "The Last Word" in high quality motor car manufacturing methods, the three great buildings comprising the Oakland Motor Car company's new Pontiac six division are now running at full capacity, following their completion in the record time of less than seven months and stand as a wonder industrial achievement in automotive plant construction and efficient layout.

The motor manufacturing plant, assembly plant, and car storage building, all now in use, comprise the major part of Oakland's $15,000,000 expansion program. Their construction was the largest automotive project ever undertaken at one time as well as the largest factory construction contract awarded in the United States during 1926.

Fully equal to the buildings' mammoth proportions, in point of interest, is the noticeable care with which they were designed for one dominating purpose, the systematic unhampered production of quality motor cars. Even to the lay visitor, it is obvious that the layout engineers took into consideration every detail in car manufacture, plotting the numerous tributary operations in such a manner that they lead progressively to the assembly lines.

Raw Materials Routed.

The routing of raw materials, in their gradual transformation into motor cars, is strikingly like a great river system, in which tiny rivulets merge, flow on, and unite with similarly-augmented brooks, gaining volume as they go, and finally pouring their waters into the great main stream. In remote corners of the plant, far from the assembly lines, the smallest individual parts are fabricated and started on their journey. They attach themselves to other parts, along this carefully worked-out route, and thus arrive eventually at the lines, not as isolated parts but as assembled units—motors, or axle assemblies, perhaps—converging from all directions, and each delivered to the precise point where workmen wait to assemble it to the growing chassis.

The details of location, as well as those of interior arrangement and mechanical equipment, were worked out with a view to obtaining the greatest efficiency with the least interference from traffic congestion, weather conditions and other causes. All loading docks and sidings are under roof, integral parts of the plant itself. Underground passages connect the three units, part of them intended for the workers' convenience, and one, between the assembly plant and the car storage building, making transfer of completed cars independent of weather conditions. An enclosed overhead conveyor, a quarter-mile in length, connects the assembly building with the plant of the Fisher Body corporation nearby, assuring uninterrupted flow of bodies to the assembly lines.

The motor manufacturing building is of single-story monitor type steel frame construction, 530 feet wide by 880 feet long. Besides the machinery for producing motors, it has facilities for testing 240 of them at one time, "running them in" to insure smoothness of operation and long life. The assembly building is three stories high, 180 feet wide and 1,260 feet long, the various floor levels being omitted in the high center section for the sake of light and ventilation. The car storage building, 432 feet wide and 760 feet long, is also of monitor construction and embodies a new type of truss design introduced recently by Austin company engineers.

Four Progressive Conveyors.

The mechanical equipment of the new factory includes not only the machinery transferred hither from the Oakland division, where the Pontiac six was first produced but also a quantity of new equipment, all of the most modern type. Here on one floor is a huge battery of 800 electrically-driven machine units, many of them automatic, devoted to the manufacture, finish and assembly of the parts of the Pontiac six engine. Four progressive conveyors of almost superhuman dexterity handle parts of the growing engines so smoothly and efficiently as to perform for a few cents what would cost ten times as much by less advanced methods.

Facilities for conveying materials expeditiously include six electric overhead traveling-bridge cranes, each of 10-ton capacity, six high speed freight elevators, each of five-ton capacity, and an elaborate system of endless conveyors.

The main assembly lines, occupying most of the assembly building's great length are the main stream toward which all the parts of the Pontiac six converge. Starting at the eastern end of the lines, with the bare frame as a nucleus, the assembly hands add unit by unit with a precision born of experience and heightened by the unusually favorable conditions under which they work. The extreme length of the assembly lines gives each workman more than adequate space in which to perform his operation, assuring even the most trivial items their due share of attention and at the same time relieving the worker from nervous tension. Heavy assemblies, such as motors, transmissions and bodies are lowered from above, from their storage bays on the various floor levels at either side of the large main area way. Wheels, fenders and batteries are brought to the lines by power conveyors which deliver them just where they are needed.

Passageway Problem Solved.

The problem of providing a passageway across the assembly lines, and thus avoiding a long haul around them in passing from one side of the plant to the other, has been solved ingeniously by "humping" the lines just beyond the duco spraying booth where cross members are lacquered. The hump forms an arch under which workers and trucks may pass, and at the same time gives the newly-sprayed chassis time to dry. It also makes it possible to store the delicate enameled parts on the higher level, safe from accidental damage. The chassis follows its conveyor, slowly over the hump, running board and fenders being attached enroute by workers stationed on the level above, where these are stored. Instead of bringing these cumbersome materials to the assembly line, the engineers have carried the line to them.

The chassis moves steadily down the line, increasing in size and in resemblance to an automobile as it goes. Finally when the last bolt is in place, the motor is started and the car rolls away under its own power. After testing, it is driven through the tunnel to the car storage plant, where it is made ready for shipment.

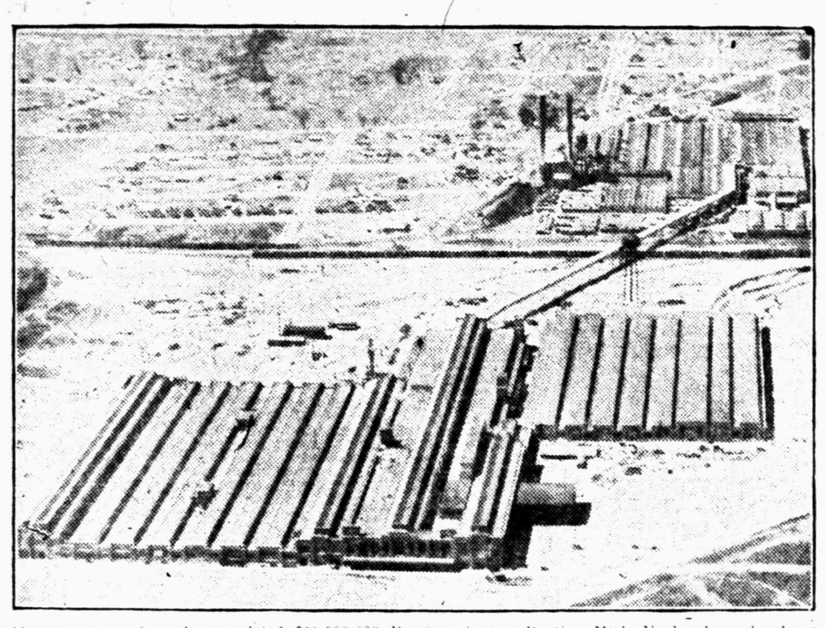

The working conditions provided in the Pontiac six division are among its most remarkable features. Wide aisles and spacious bays afford room to move about safely.

Mile of Glass Skylights.

A mile of glass skylights keeps the working space flooded with natural light, assuring the highest type of accurate workmanship. Heating and ventilation are of the best, as are washroom and locker facilities.

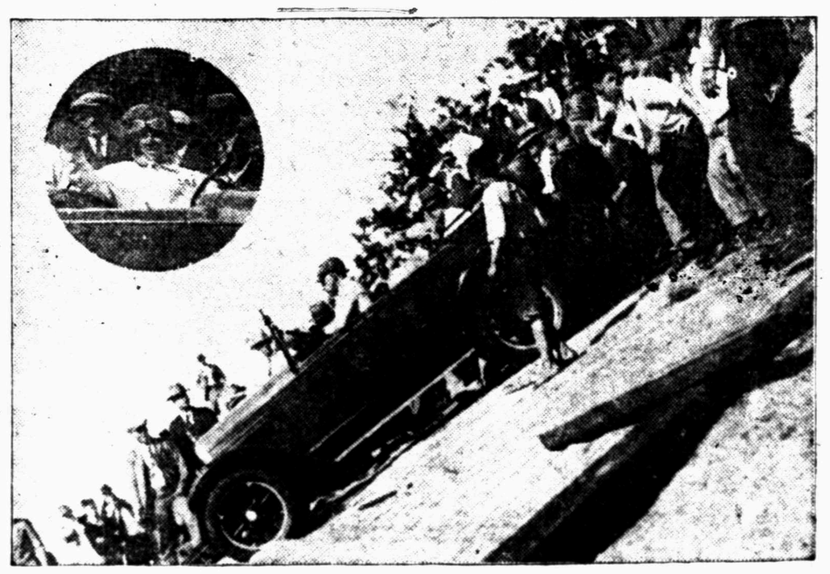

The new Pontiac division is located on the Grand Trunk railway. It has 10 miles of track on its premises, and storage space for 500 freight cars. There are 35 acres of floor space within the plant, six miles of sewers, and four miles of vitrified sewer pipe and drains. The largest steel sash order in history, and the largest cement roofing order, were placed to provide these materials for the plant. More than half a million feet of glass make up the miles of skylights. Yet the job, for all its superlatives, required less than seven months for completion, figured from the time the grading commenced until production was actually started in the new buildings.

Whippet Conquers Mountain

After climbing the perilous slopes of Stone Mountain, near Atlanta, Ga., breaking the record by 7 minutes and 44 seconds, Chick Murray in a Whippet stock touring car turned around on the sumit of the steep mountain and drove down to the base under its own power.

WHIPPET IN HILL RECORD

Perilous Stone Mountain Grade Is Conquered

Shattering the previous time record by seven minutes, 44 seconds, a Whippet stock touring car, with Chick Murray at the wheel, conquered the almost impassable, roadless climb up the side of the famous Stone Mountain, near Atlanta, a few days ago with a crowd of nearly 10,000 Georgians lining the steep slopes. the Whippet made the climb in nine minutes, 16 seconds and gained the distinction of being the only car of small piston displacement, to ever reach the summit of this steep mountain under its own power.

Not only did the Whippet set a remarkable record in its climb up the mountain, which is nothing more than a solid rock with no roadway, but the efficiency of the four-wheel brake equipment on the Whippet was proved when Murray turned the car around on the summit and began the perilous descent. Several times Murray brought the Whippet to a complete stop selecting the steepest slopes for this exhibition.

Thousands who saw the remarkable performance of the Whippet agreed that it was one of the most unusual accomplishments in automotive annals inasmuch as the car had no road or trail to follow other than the pedestrian path which winds up the mountain side over boulders and numerous crevices and ruts.

Despite the amazing speed with which the car assayed the climb, the record would have been considerably lower had no over-anxious spectators crowded the path upon two occasions compelling Murray to bring the Whippet to a dead stop on the steep slopes.

The Whippet was the third car that ever climbed Stone Mountain and returned to the bottom under its own power.

The official time of the climb was caught by Al S. Jones, representative of the Atlanta Automobile association, affiliated with the American Automobile association.

The Whippet used by Murray in the record breaking climb was the same car he used two weeks previous in smashing the record from Atlanta to Macon, making the trip in one hour, 55 minutes, beating the crack Dixie Flier, one of the best trains in the South. A week later the same car and driver established a new world's record for stock car performance on a dirt track by traveling 225 miles on the Lakewood track at Atlanta for an average of 47 miles an hour.

He carelessly flicked his cigaret butt into the air (it fell to earth, he knew not where) as he hurried into the hall. Three quarters of an hour later someone informed the musician that his car was smoking and the dancers had an impromptu intermission while Mr. Merrill visited the firehouse with his Ford.

Chryslers Score Triumphs In Finland and Sweden Races

The remarkable gains in Chrysler export business which have been a consistent feature of the company's reports for months past and have recently been increasing faster than ever are due, officials believe, to the fact that at its price Chrysler quality surpasses foreign standards of motor car perfection, just as the same qualities account for the phenomenal success the company has registered in the United States.

Outstanding records in racing and endurance contests, which have been made by Chrysler cars in all parts of the world, are especially responsible for the appeal these cars make to sport-loving peoples abroad the officials declare.

Among the most interesting of many such sport records reported to the Chrysler corporation in recent weeks are the detailed certificates regarding ice races held in Finland and Sweden during the past winter.

The Finland races were held in Helsingfors under the auspices of the Finnish Automobile club. Eight Chryslers started in these races and seven won first places with the eighth finishing second in its event.

In the one kilometer distance races at Helsingfors, Chryslers won first place in classes 6, 5 2nd 4 of Group A and class 5 and 4 of Group B.

In the 20 kilometer distance races Chrysler won first place in classes 6 and 5 and second place in class 4.

In Sweden Chrysler "70" touring cars won all of the first five places in the three to four liter class races; a Chrysler "60" was first in the two to three liter class and Chrysler Imperial "80" cars finished first and second in the four to five liter class.

"Particularly noteworthy was the uniform high speed of the Chrysler car. In the three to four liter class four Chrysler cars took the first four places. There was a difference of only 8-10 of a second between the first and the fourth. These results speak for themselves and are proof of the uniformity of quality as well as the excellence of performance which are the principal fundamentals of the buyer's requirements—that is, in the acquisition of a car of guaranteed value and class."

Chrysler cars have been signally successful in a long series of sporting events in Scandinavian countries. During 1926 they captured first place in no fewer than 60 races in Sweden alone.

ANNOUNCING
The Senior Line

A REMARKABLE NEW SIX
by DODGE BROTHERS

A new line of Sixes by Dodge Brothers is presented to the public today.

It has been rumored, and hoped, for years that Dodge Brothers would ultimately produce such a line—more refined and, of course, higher in cost than their present car.

To combine the sturdy worth of Dodge Brothers standard product with those refinements which greater cost permits, could not fail, it was conceded, to produce a motor car of unique distinction and fineness.

The Senior Line is Dodge Brothers answer to this demand—and Dodge Brothers have answered well.

These are remarkable cars. Brilliantly vital and alive—surprisingly quiet—impressively smart. And built, like all Dodge Brothers motor cars, for years of dependable service.

See one and drive it and you will marvel that performance of this quality and character could be provided at a price so low.

NATIONAL DAY FOR LINDBERGH

Dec. 18 May Be Set Out In Flier's Honor

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS JR.
Editor of Universal Service

WASHINGTON, May 28.—When Captain Lindbergh comes home from the arms of the old world to the heart of the new the government of the United States intends to give him a welcome home that will be the outward and visible sign of the inward and spiritual feeling of his native land toward this conquering hero of the air of "divine genius and simple courage."

President Coolidge, Vice-President Dawes and Speaker Longworth will see to that. In fact they have already begun to see to it. The official program for Lindbergh's official welcome home will be personally surpervised by President Coolidge. The proposals that the new congress will be called upon to adopt in his honor will have the approval in advance of Vice-President Dawes and Speaker Longworth.

Guest of Nation.

It has been propsed that Captain Lindbergh shall continue to be the guest of the nation from the time he sets foot again on American soil until he completes his triumphal pilgrimage through the country and has received at the hands of the president the distinguished flying cross. This initial decoration to be followed later in the year by another will probably be conferred at the Summer White House in the Black Hills of South Dakota. For President Coolidge will have left Washington before Captain Lindbergh has sailed for home.

Meantime, whether he returns on the Leviathan, largest of the government's ships, or on a man of war, Lindbergh will be met at New York by representatives of the president and a national salute will be fired in the young hero's honor from every man of war in American waters and from every army post and naval station under the flag. This would have been done last Saturday afternoon if anybody in authority had thought of it in time.

He's Ambassador.

If Lindbergh will accept it, the government intends to offer him a special car of the sort that a foreign ambassador would be given if he came to the United States on a special mission. For in Washington today Lindbergh is hailed in high places as the most successful American ambassador that the United States has been blessed with since the days of Benjamin Franklin.

When the new congress meets next December a resolution will be introduced setting aside December 18 as Lindbergh day. That is the birthday of the airplane—the twenty-fourth anniversary of the first flight of the Wright brothers at Kitty Hawk, N. C. On that day next December, if the joint resolution is adopted, the senate and the house of representatives will meet in joint session to receive young Lindbergh and tender him the thanks of congress and such other awards as the president may recommend in his annual message and the congress adopt. These are expected to include the congressional medal of honor and a majority or lieutenant colonelcy on the retired list of the United States army flying corps. This would leave Lindbergh free to continue his wonderful work in his own way to advance the cause of aviation.

Coolidge Elated.

President Coolidge meant what he said when he told Lindbergh in his telegram of congratulations that his flight across the Atlantic was "the crowning achievement of aviation" and the new congress, it is believed, can be counted upon to make its award square with that achievement.

Already the department of state has cabled instructions to its ambassadors and ministers in Europe to receive Lindbergh as the guest of his home government. When he returns it is expected that the department of state will take the lead in the plans of the several states and their chief cities to give Lindbergh a welcome that even that of the old world in general and France in particular will not surpass.

Accurate Compass Biggest Factor In Lindbergh's Flight To France

By COMMANDER FITZHUGH GREEN, U. S. NAVY.
Written Especially for Universal Service
Copyright, 1927, by Universal Service

NEW YORK, May 28.—After the first gasp of relief and admiration for Charlie Lindbergh's historic flight to Paris everyone asked:

"But how was it possible for him to find his way through all one night and two long days without navigating?"

This question has been especially strong from seafaring men who are used to finding their way across the ocean wastes by industriously taking sights of the sun and moon and stars with their complicated instruments. They know that Lindbergh not only did not have any instruments with him for taking sights; but that he wouldn't have known how to use them had he carried them.

Efficient Compass.

It is just beginning to leak out that the answer to this puzzle lay in Lindbergh's compass which, like a guardian angel, guided the lone man through darkness and fog sleet. This compass and its demonstration form the flight's outstanding contribution to the science of aviation.

Lindbergh's compass was quite new, although the principle of it has been known for more than a century.

To understand it one must know roughly the principles of the ordinary compass. The latter consists of a magnetized needle pivoted at its center so that it can turn freely. Our earth is a great magnet with two powerful poles or centers of attraction, the north and south magnetic pole.

These two poles are not the geographical ones which Peary and Amundsen reached, but are located in the Arctic and Antarctic many hundreds of miles from the other two. Charts are made out for the geographical poles. So when we say "north" we mean towards the north geographical pole. As a result it is possible to be traveling "south" by compass on one's way to the north pole when one is on the line between the magnetic and geographic poles.

Confusing Facts

This sounds very confusing. It is confusing. But it throws light on the complexity of the navigational problem faced by the transoceanic traveler, whether by air or by water.

"Lucky" Lindbergh justified his name not only by the good weather and engine endurance that graced his flight, but by the fact that an inventor turned up with a compass which was simple, accurate and eminently effective in taking the plane 3,700 miles true as the crow flies.

The principle of this compass is easily described. It is the same as the principle of the sailboat going up a river against the current. If the wind is just strong enough to hold the boat against the current the boat stands still.

In Lindbergh's compass the pointer or needle on a small dial in front of him corresponds to the boat in the river. The earth's magnetism tries to pull this little pointer in one direction just as the river current tries to push the boat downstream.

Windmill on Plane

At the same time a little electric generator, run by wind on a tiny windmill under the plane, is grinding out electricity that works on the pointer and tries to pull it in the opposite direction. This corresponds to the wind pushing the boat upstream.

Now if the earth's magnetism and the generated electricity act equally upon the pointer it stands still just as the boat in the river did.

Once this principle was established, the rest was just a matter of design. The generator under the plane was made just large enough so that the electric force it produced would neatly balance the earth's magnetism. The "brushes" or magnetic terminals of the generator were made moveable so that no matter in what position the plane was heading the needle could be kept fixed in one position by the combined effect of the two forces acting on it.

Brush Controller

Now Lindbergh had a chart on which were laid out the courses he must steer. The first course was roughly northeast. By what was known as a "controller" he swung the a "brushes" around until when his plane headed northeast the pointer was right on zero of its dial. If he deviated, the two forces didn't balance any more. The needle promptly hopped off its zero and warned Charlie to get back to the correct heading. And son on.

Such a compass would be accurate enough aboard ship, but it would have to be supplemented by sun sights at sea and soundings near shore. A ship takes so long crossing the ocean that she would drift wide of her destination even though she might be on the correct course all the way over.

Lindbergh's compass would probabaly not be effective in the polar regions where the earth's magnetism is much weaker than down here. It does not dispose of either the theories or practice of navigation for the reason given above: A ship or plane in the air for a considerable time may be swept far from her supposed position by a cross current or wind.

Wind Is Factor

Had Lindbefgh been caught by a stiff north wind instead of a favoring breeze he might have hit the south of France instead of Ireland, even though he steered a correct course all the time. It's just a matter of "leeway" as the sailors call it.

His astounding landfall in Ireland and his steering show the reliability of the compass under favorable conditions, but do not in the least mean that a pilot can reach his goal with compass alone if he has to cope with drift.

NEW HOSPITAL AT KNOX CITY

$60,000 Spent To Erect Modern Plant

Special to The Record News.

KNOX CITY, May 28.—The Knox County hospital located at Knox City, Texas, contracted and built by Chas. M. Bialkowski, building contractor of Wichita Falls is being finished up this week and will be turned over to the county within the next few days.

This hospital was built at a cost of approximately $60,000, and it is one of the best equipped sanitariums in West Texas. The equipment is the best that money could buy for this size sanitarium. There are 25 rooms, the building is two stories high built with all of the latest sanitary equipment, fireproof throughout. The operating rooms are well lighted with the best of operating equipment.

Dr. T. S. Edwards, who has been conducting a private sanitarium, will be connected with the new hospital, and his private sanitarium will be closed so as to give all of his attention to the work to be conducted in the new building. Dr. Edwards has been a very successful physician and surgeon at Knox City for the past 17 years. All of his life work has been at this place and few surgeons have been more successful, many patients coming from many miles to have him attend them.

Chas. M. Bialkowski, contractor of Wichita Falls has given his best attention to the erection of this building and has given the people of Knox county a very nice job, according to officials.

Ground is being broken today for the erection of two new brick business houses to replace the last of the frame buildings in the main business district of this city.

The new business houses are being erected by the Jamieson-Clonts Hardware company and H. M. Thompson grocery.

B. O. Howell, contractor of Wichita Falls, has been awarded the contract for both of these buildings.

Man Killed, Woman Hurt In Oil Field Affray

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, May 28.—The body of Sam McClendon, who died late Tuesday from the effects of knife wounds received in a fight with Charles Byrd at the Rock Crossing oil field Monday night, was Wednesday night shipped to Melissa for burial. Funeral services were held there Thursday afternoon.

McClendon is survived by three sons, two living in California and one at Melissa.

Byrd, who is charged with murder in connection with the killing of McClendon and with assault with intent to kill Mrs. Byrd, is still held in jail pending examining trial. Mrs. Byrd was struck on the head by a club or gun in the affray. She is still in a hospital here, but her condition is not serious.

Florabel Flutter's Abroad

Verses By Berton Braley
Drawings By George F. Kerr

1

MISS FLORABEL FLUTTER was frightfully busy,
With shopping and shopping she'd made herself dizzy
(If she was excited it wasn't so queer,
You don't go to Europe each day in the year,
And she was so thrilled at the thought of her trip,

2

OF friends she had many a different set,
And each one that Florrie encountered or met
Was told of her trip and the date she'd embark;
To which nearly all of these friends would remark,
And "Oh, I'd just love it," fair Florrie would cry

3

THE night before sailing the telephone rang.
"We're coming around," said a voice, "with the gang."
The phone rang again with a sound that was loud—
"We're coming around," said a voice, "with the crowd."
The phone kept on ringing, the line was just humming
With voices announcing, "The whole bunch is coming.

4

The traffic was blocked and the house overflowed.
The show Florrie'd played in, the shop where she'd modeled,
The girls and the boys she had known since she toddled,
The folks she had worked with on all sorts of jobs,
Were all represented by bunches and mobs!

5

RESERVES were called out when the whole mighty flock
Accompanied Florabel down to the dock.
Though poor Mrs. Flutter was shocked out of breath,
Her daughter was radiant, tickled to death.
And these were the words that the mob heard her utter,

How Deadly Waves May Be Used to Destroy Silently All Life.

The Apparatus Perfected by Prof. Robert W. Wood, of Johns Hopkins University, That Generates Inaudible Sounds, Which, It Is Claimed, Will Annihilate All Living Matter, Plant or Animal. The Deadly Sound Waves Are Produced by a Piece of Quartz Which Is Caused to Expand and Contract.

DEADLY silence and not the roar of giant artillery may be the marked characteristic of future warfare. Prof. Robert W. Wood, of Johns Hopkins University, has perfected a device which generates destructive sound waves so far above the audible pitch that no human ear can detect them. These death sounds may instantly annihilate ships, drive submarines from the ocean and destroy armies, for, according to the inventor, all living matter, both plant and animal, will perish when placed in the path of the invisible but deadly waves. At present passage of the death sounds is restricted to two mediums, solid or liquid, but further experiments may enable scientists to discover some method of hurling the waves through the air so they can be used as an all-destructive force against armies or for annihilating cities. Since the sound waves can now be made to pass readily through water and then through the solid hull of a submarine, their development may prevent the submersibles from ever again being a threat against peace.

"Sound, light and radio," a scientific authority explains in Popular Mechanics, "are all alike in that they consist of waves. Some of the sound and light waves are audible and visible, but, just as there are ultra-violet and infra-red rays, which the eye cannot see, there are sound waves which the ear cannot hear. The audible range of the average ear covers a band of from sixteen to about 15,000 cycles. Dr. Wood uses vibrations of 350,000 to 400,000 cycles a second. With them he has killed fish in tanks of water and mice and other small animals, as well as plants.

"Research since the war has begun to delve into the mysteries of the inaudible and invisible sound and light rays at both ends of the scale, those above and those below the bands that are audible or visible. Infra-red and ultra-violet light rays are being used by astronomers in taking celestial photographs, in a new English television apparatus, in a camera developed by the Japanese for taking photographs at night without knowledge of the enemy, and for many other purposes.

"Radio manufacturers are studying sound waves at the extreme lower end of the audible band in an effort to improve loud speakers, which have always been notoriously weak on deep bass notes, and in France a fog-signal has been erected to broadcast an inaudible sound which will not disturb people on land but can be picked up by ships at sea, and, with special apparatus, converted into an inaudible note.

"The loud-speaker problem centres around the fact that the lower range of the average ear ends at about sixteen cycles a second, a sound produced by some organs, while the piano scale ends at twenty-seven cycles. But below the lower audible notes on the organ there are other notes, in themselves inaudible, but whose overtones play an essential part in faithful reproduction of the music. An inaudible note of eight cycles a second can be felt as a vibration.

"The fog-horn did not take a specially high vibration rate, as it was only necessary to get above the 15,000 limit of the ear, and at a rate of 20,000 to 25,000 was not hard to attain with existing apparatus.

"In Prof. Wood's experiments, however, he had to develop entirely new apparatus to produce from 350,000 to 400,000 vibrations per second, a rate that corresponds in sound to the high-frequency currents produced electrically by a Tesla coil. Unlike the high-frequency, high-voltage electrical currents, however, which are so harmless that several hundred thousand volts can be passed through the body without being felt, the inaudible sound waves have proved very dangerous. In the laboratory experiments the apparatus used was not large enough to endanger human life, but a finger immersed in the tank of water through which the waves were traveling received a distinct tingling sensation."

Development of a "death ray" was one of the problems tackled by inventors during the war, and, though several have since claimed success, none of their efforts proved fully successful when tried by experts. The latest report is a new ray produced in France, for which complete success is claimed, that was tested recently in the engineers' barracks at Montpelier before French army officers. The tests were guarded with great secrecy, but details that leaked out indicated that neither wireless nor any form of electric current was used. The inventor, a French officer, is said to claim that he can touch off mines at any distance and light or extinguish fires.

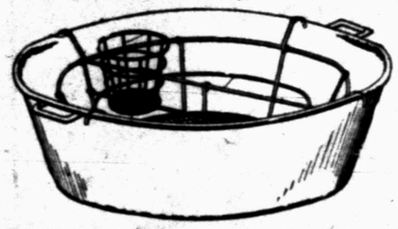

Prof. Wood's apparatus is unique in the manner employed to generate the sound waves. A high-frequency current, of 350,000 or more cycles a second, is passed through a piece of quartz, which contracts and expands as the current reverses its direction, giving the same effect as though the quartz were breathing. The expansion and contraction, while so slight as to be invisible, are sufficient to produce a sound, and, as they occur at such a high rate, the sound is inaudible. The quartz is immersed in a bath of insulating oil, from which the vibrations are transmitted to an adjoining tank of water.

Drainer for Dishes

A DISH DRAINER whereby dishes may be cleaned and dried without the use of a dishcloth, thereby saving labor and getting rid of the more or less insanitary rag, is the invention of Minnie E. Hatcher, of Tyler, Ala.

The contrivance is a wire basket that is meant to be set in an empty dishpan—not the pan used for washing the dishes—and suspended from the rim by four hooks that engage slots in the latter. By this means it is held securely stationary.

The basket is of such depth that its bottom, of wire mesh, is upheld a little distance above the bottom of the dishpan, thus allowing for the drainage of dishes placed in it.

The Dishes Are First Washed in Hot Water and Then Placed in the Wire Rack Set Within the Pan and Allowed to Dry.

The basket is divided by bracing rods into two compartments, one for plates and platters, and the other for cups, saucers, and small dishes. The bracing rods incidentally provide supports against which the platters and plates may rest when set on edge, thus facilitating the draining and drying.

Supported by the bracing rods is a conical wire rack for spoons, forks, and knives. One of the rods, running through it half way between top and bottom, divides it into two compartments, one for the knives and forks, and the other for the spoons. The bottom of the rack being of wire mesh, the water from the spoons, etc., drains off into the pan.

The articles thus disposed of, after being washed with hot water, quickly dry upon draining, and, without wiping, are ready to be put away.

Interlocking Bricks to Make Buildings Earthquake-Proof

RECENT disastrous earthquakes have stimulated effort on the part of architects and engineers to devise methods of construction whereby buildings may be rendered as far as possible quake-proof. Newest in this line is the idea of Dominick Tambone, of New York, who calls attention to the fact that the cause of most severe damage from earthquakes is the rigid connection usually existing between foundation and superstructure.

He proposes to utilize the shock-absorbing properties of the underlying earth by providing for the building a wide supporting platform that is in effect a monolith; secondly, by making the lower part of the structure much heavier than the upper part, so that its center of gravity may be low, and thirdly, by using for the walls bricks or blocks that interlock.

As conceived by this inventor, the foundation of a properly constructed earthquake-proof building should be a buried platform of reinforced concrete somewhat longer and wider than the building itself. Such a platform would have great strength and resistance to preserve, and the reinforcements of iron or steel, while augmenting its strength, would give it an elasticity helpful to prevent disruption.

On top of this platform there would be placed a layer of loose sand or gravel four to eight inches thick, and upon the gravel or sand would be laid a second platform of reinforced concrete, for the building to rest upon, extending the whole length and width of the building. Thus the upper and lower platforms would be substantially independent of each other, the layer of loose material serving as a cushion between them.

With this arrangement, lateral movements of one platform in relation to the other would be possible in all directions. The lower platform, responding to earth shocks, might follow the undulatory movements of the surrounding earth without transmitting them to the upper platform, and the building supported by the latter. At the same time, shocks in a vertical direction would be but slightly transmitted to the upper structure, owing to the yielding and cushioning effect of the interposed layer of loose material.

The walls of the building should be of bricks or blocks interlocking in such a way as to bind them both lengthwise and crosswise. It is further the idea of the inventor that the lower walls should be solid and the upper walls hollow, so that the center of gravity of the building may be low.

Both platforms should be below the level of the ground, so that the earth surrounding the upper platform shall tend to force the building to follow the lateral movements of the lower platform and underlying earth. For, though a certain independence of movement for the two platforms is desirable, it is important that the building shall not resist the impact of a shock, or series of impacts. It is the resistance offered by a structure assailed by an earthquake that causes it to topple over or collapse.

Mechanical Models to Display Fashions

EUROPEAN fashion shops now employ life-like mechanical figures to display the latest fashions in wearing apparel. They are often so lifelike in appearance and in their various movements and gestures that they perform this difficult work as well as living models. A lay figure of this kind performing in the show window of a store serves to attract crowds of admirers. These unique mechanical figures were a feature of the silk exhibits at the Leipzig Fair this Spring where they were employed for a great variety of work.

The mechanical lady shown in the accompanying photograph, is lifesize, having a height of about five feet six inches. The face and hands are made of wax colored with great skill. The figure, it will be seen, wears an elaborate evening dress and an opera cloak. When wound up the figure opens its arms with a graceful gesture, thus throwing open the cloak and displaying the evening dress. At the same time the head of the figure bows slightly and one eye winks. A moment later the arms are closed and the opera cloak is exhibited. The mechanical figure does the work of a living model with perhaps equal grace and never gets tired.

What Is Xylonite?

XYLONITE—roughly speaking, the X is pronounced as though it were a Z and celluloid are the same thing. The base of the substance is really cellulose, the product of certain vegetable cells taken either in the form of wood, paper, or linen. Treated with nitric and sulphuric acid much in the way of gun-cotton, this becomes what is called nitro-cellulose, and this is mixed with camphor and gives us the material now generally called celluloid.

The precise details of manufacture of xylonite, of course, vary, but under one process the result is a substance harder, denser, and less inflammable than ordinary celluloid, and it is this that is called xylonite, the word really coming from the Greek for the cells of the wood which form its basis.

Ropes of Human Hair

DURING a journey through the heart of Northern Australia, Mr. Michael Terry had many weird and interesting adventures which he relates in his book, "Through a Land of Promise." Among other strange things the author describes is a particularly interesting if somewhat gruesome industry practised at a native camp at Billiluna. This is the making of rope.

The native husband grasps a handful of his wife's hair and without the least concern saws off the tresses with a sharpened stone. Having cut off a fistful of locks he proceeds to work them into a ball; then, holding this loosely in his hand, he draws out a thin thread ready for twisting.

Working like a saddler twining thread, he rolls it on his thigh and twists it into a coarse rope. This he twists round a rough bobbin crudely fashioned of two green twigs, one split to hold the other.

A Great-Grandmother at the Age of 42

WILL there ever be found any great-grandmother younger than Mrs. Ruby Bedoya, of Los Angeles? Impossible, you will exclaim, for Mrs. Bedoya was a mother at 13, a grandmother at 26 and a great-grandmother at 42. Today she is 44, has three great-grandchildren, two grandchildren, two sons and a daughter, and lives in Los Angeles with most of them.

The Bedoya family tree started when Mrs. Bedoya's first child, a daughter, was born when she was 13. The daughter also married when she was 12 and had a daughter at 13. Mrs. Bedoya's grandchild, Ruby Lopez, who is 18 now, has two children, the first born when she was 16. Ruby was married at 15.

Mrs. Bedoya has one other grandchild, Hazel Martello, 17, who has a child, Margaret Evangeline, a year old. The mother of Hazel and Ruby, Jr., is dead.

Mrs. Bedoya has three other children, Molvin, 16, Ralph, 9, and Dolores, 10.

A Home-Made Waterworks System

IN former days it was considered a matter of course that all water for use in the farmhouse or Summer camp should be carried from a distant well in pails. At Mount Vernon, when George Washington lived there, every drop of water required for domestic purposes was drawn from a well and brought into the house in buckets.

Nowadays, however, every up-to-date farmhouse, Summer camp and cottage has many modern conveniences. Of course, undeniably, the most necesary to comfort is running water, which is at least supplied to the kitchen.

For this purpose a satisfactory home-made contrivance recently developed is a tank which, filled with water from a pump, furnishes through suitable pipes a water supply for the kitchen taps. The tanks shown in the picture is a cylinder fastened to the outside of the house by metal straps.

The mistress of the house, operating the pump, is filling the tank through a rubber hose. Ordinarily this is not her job, but her boy is off at school and she needs the water right away.

The Simple Contrivance That Provides Running Water for the Kitchen of a Farmhouse, Summer Camp or Cottage.

New Inventions

AN ingenious door lock works like the combination of a safe. The key is inserted permanently in the lock, which has a set of buttons around its outer edge. It can be turned only when the proper set of buttons has been depressed.

• • •

A new device, invented by a Denver barber, is designed to protect the ears of women and children while having the hair bobbed or marcelled. With the appliance properly put on, the inventor says that it is impossible to burn or cut the ear.

• • •

A bicycle which, it is reported, can be transformed into a small monoplane and fly to a height of 150 feet has been perfected by a young French mechanic. The inventor believes that the successful manufacture of his flying bicycle in large quantities will bring flying within the means of all.

ONE WAY TO PEACE

One way to peace is through world understanding, which can only come through an international medium of communication such as Esperanto. Read this little verse and realize the simplicity of this language, which you should make the world peace tongue.

Hundo krias bow! wow! wow!
Brovido krias coo! coo! coo!
Kolombo krias coo! coo!
Shafido krias baa! baa! baa!
Infano krias waa! waa! waa!

How "Mother" Stoner Would Teach Children Esperanto, the "Universal Language"—a Clipping from One of Her Books.

The fact that his wife had written recipes published the country over for making all manner of household delicacies didn't mean a thing to Hyman, a big hair goods man from Connecticut. "The coffee was awful," he complained, and Hyman liked his coffee right, so he said, and since he had married for companionship, a home and a good cup of coffee every morning, he felt that his marriage had been a dubious hazard.

Having thus had his gustatory and business feelings wounded in one fell swoop, Hyman became rather huffy around the house, Winifred Stoner Hyman charged, and she prepared to regain her freedom. She told him she was dissatisfied with his treatment of her and he agreed to a divorce, so she instituted suit.

It was only upon institution of suit that the public learned of her marriage to Hyman. They had been married in Greenwich, Conn., in 1925, in the same hotel room and by the same justice of the peace who had married the Hyman bride to Count de Bruche.

The secret of the marriage out, Mrs. Hyman explained that she had met Hyman while riding in Central Park and, after knowing him for a year, had become his wife. Her mother, professing ignorance of the union, had refused to confirm it when newspapers, hearing rumors of the event, had inquired at her home.

Now as a child Winifred Stoner had been regarded as a prodigy, one of the foremost child linguists in the United States. As the daughter of Dr. Winifred Sackville Stoner, author of note and called "the perfect mother," she received wide public notice because of her extraordinary mental development and for many years was the center of interested observation by the most celebrated scholars and psychologists both here and abroad.

As she grew up she developed into a writer of skill and devoted her talents to all manner of publicizing. In no small way she wrote on culinary topics and her articles began to be regarded as of high authority by the housewives of the land. She seemed particularly gifted at providing desserts and salads for the ambitious native hausfrau and devoted many of her articles to such dainties.

Her marriage to Count de Bruche was hailed as a great union and the ideal mating. The Count was known as a man of great intellectual attainments and since Winifred had had the "perfect mother," there was every reason why she should have the "perfect husband" to round out a perfect life, said the pleased onlookers.

Outwardly, the de Bruche-Stoner marriage was a happy one and the couple appeared to get much out of life. But the Count's health failed rapidly and he died before the "perfect marriage" had had an opportunity to ripen into maturity.

But let Winifred tell her views on "perfect marriage," and a few things about marriage in general. Her remarks may offer a little enlightenment for those who regard the "perfect parent" and the "perfect husband" as the demanded elements in the "perfect marriage."

"Perfect, perfect, perfect," she exclaimed when interviewed on the subject of the sudden end of her first marriage and collapse of her second marriage. "That's all I've heard. As a child people gawked at me and I was carried around on a velvet cushion as if I had been some destructible thing. I was petted and pampered and told how great the mind was and how bright I was and how I was going to do much for the world, and so forth. And all because I happened to be taught to read and speak seven languages when I was a mere child.

"To be sure, my mother made those things possible for me, and I do not derogate them. But I do say that unless a child can be allowed to develop in a normal way, there is nothing to be gained by super-education and prodigious learning. If she loses the sense of values that should be a part of her learning, then of what use is her learning and her brilliance—if she has any? To be put on exhibition in a circus, no doubt. It would do as much good there as it would hidden under a basket and kept from the sunlight of human contact.

"Then I married Count de Bruche. He was a brilliant man, a very profound man, and I had more and more and more of the highbrow atmosphere. We talked philosophies and languages and literature and dead things from morning till night. We lived on Freud and Kant and Spinoza and Copernicus and Nelzsche and Confucius and a hundred others of their kind, but we never talked of real, live human beings who met and knew other human beings. We never talked of life and the problems of life as they are confronted by the other persons about us and as we should have confronted them. We lived in a Valhalla of dead theories.

"I respected Count de Bruche highly and I made much of his companionship. I suppose that in time I would have come to live a more useful life because of my contact with him, but he died just as our natures were beginning to adjust themselves.

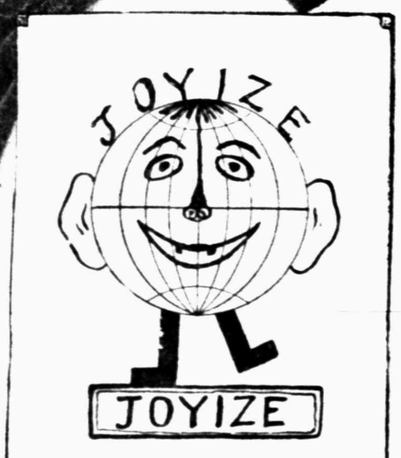

"It was long after this that I met Hyman. These stories about our having known each other but a few weeks and about my having had a dashing romance with him are untrue. I married him on a dare—and I certainly got my fill of dares.

"We had been married only a few days when I realized that I had taken a ridiculous step. Hyman was boresome, frightfully boresome. He wanted to stay at home and have his things served to him. He told me that he married me for a companion, and not for a kitchen drudge. Yet we were hardly in our home when he began railing at me for my inability to do this and do that.

"I became bored with my life and traveled a great deal while he remained at home and grumbled. I sought my amusements elsewhere.

Joy Is the Secret of Keeping the Child Mind Alert and Receptive, Says "Ma" Stoner, Who Offers This Verse to Inspire Her Pupils.

The Beautiful and Brilliant Winifred Stoner Hyman, Whose Recent Divorce Suit Exploded Several Theories About Cookery and Child Education.

Four Bright, Young Proteges of "Mother" Stoner, Who Are Being Educated Along the Same Lines That Made Winifred a Genius.

"Mother" Stoner Instructing Two Girl Pupils in the Intricacies of One of Her Dramatic Games, Used to Stimulate the Juvenile Imagination.

HOW a child prodigy, who attracted international attention by her precocity after she had been educated along lines laid down by her "perfect mother," grew up to revolt against the shackling of her own personality came to light recently when Winifred Stoner Hyman brought suit for divorce against Louis Hyman, her second husband, of New York City.

She had been just plain Winifred Stoner as a tiny tot, but as she developed into a child genius, she became Winifred Sackville Stoner, Jr., and then, after she had achieved world-wide fame because of her brilliant wit, her fine intellectuality and her ability as a writer on many subjects, including kitchen hints, she married Count Charles de Bruche and became Countess de Bruche. Her noble husband died a few years after their marriage.

And then she married Hyman and—don't laugh—he threatened to, and did, leave her because she couldn't make a cup of coffee to suit him!

"It seems that he felt that if I wouldn't work like a drudge in the kitchen when he was adequately able to afford domestic help, I ought to do some sort of lucrative work. Now I am old-fashioned enough to believe that no wife should be self-supporting. I believe that the husband should be the financial prop of the family. Of course, if a husband needs help and a woman has the ability to earn money, that is all right.

"There was another thing that caused discord in my marriage and that was religion. You can say for me that religious differences mean nothing but discord and ultimate divorce. Religion may mean prejudice. No, I am not an atheist, but I am a bit of an agnostic.

"My first husband was an intellectual. My second was worse—he was boresome. I hope my third—for I intend to have a third—will be neither. I want a happy medium and I know there is such a thing. And that happy medium husband will be a bit older and more understanding, not necessarily wealthy, although I admit that would be no handicap.

"Now as for the 'perfect rearing' and 'child prodigy' matter. If ever I have a child I shall send him or her to school and allow him or her to grow up and develop in the normal, healthy manner. None of the sort of mockery I went through with private tutoring and pampering and scientific education. I want a normal child that can grow into a normal man or woman with a chance to be happy in the surroundings intended for human beings, not a showy specimen of museum piece.

"I'll never parade my child around and show it off. I was just about the unhappiest kid in the world, simply because I was able to tell a Maltese cat from a pterodactyl.

"Brains? Bah! I hate brains."

Why We May All Wear Masks in 1940

Fantastic Forecast of Shrouded Faces for Beauties, Bathers, Housecleaners, Miners, Aviators, Actors and Their Children Is Finally Certified by Science, as a World War Aftermath.

Looks Like an Impersonation of the "Little Pig That Went to Market," Doesn't It? But It's a Modern Workman in His Germless Industrial Helmet.

Such Deathlike Facial Shrouds as This Are Donned by Women Striving to Retain Their Beauty. The Vogue Is Increasing Tremendously.

"THE world is false face," a planet inhabited solely by men and women whose features are perpetually shrouded—this is the prospect which, science declares, confronts this earth on which we live.

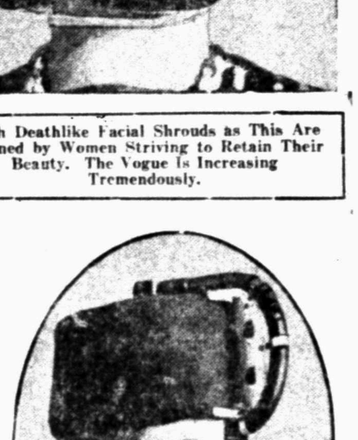

While such a prediction may sound fantastic and in the vein of an early H. G. Wells romance, it is, at base, not illogical. So amazingly has the demand for all manner of masks spread in the last few years—what with household masks, beauty masks, aviation masks, gas masks and a hundred other types of face coverings—that those who have studied the trend announce that within fifteen years the unmasked person will be almost unheard of.

What a chaos that would be! What a haven for transgressors and even downright crooks. And how convenient for those timid married men who now and then have an urge to be a little swanky and "play" the bright lights, but who are forever fearful of meeting "the wife's" relatives! There are manifold possibilities in this mask craze, and the domestic phase is not the least.

The fad is centuries old. Masks first came into being as an agent of civilization among the old Greeks, although prior to the Attic period there had been death masks in early Egypt, Assyria and Phoenicia, especially among the kings and their noblemen. Many of the old masks remain and at least half a dozen were taken from the tomb of King Tut-ankh-Amen. Some were death masks of the king, some of his noble favorites and one proved to be a mold of the face of his mother-in-law, indicating perhaps that even the Alexandrian Pharaohs had their home-life troubles.

The Greeks employed masks for a far different purpose. They made them after the image of men living and dead, and used them in the drama, so that the players might represent with more fidelity the characters they portrayed. Some of these masks were "death masks," having been made from the faces of the deceased, but many were taken from living heroes and used by the players to glorify the deeds of their national idols.

These masks contained a feature that might prove useful to the modern era of the mask. The oral orifice was equipped with a metal sounding device, which could be regulated to amplify or soften the voice of the player. This device also had certain adjustments which made it possible for male voices to appear as feminine and vice versa.

Later, when members of the civilized nations began to invade Africa and the more remote sections of Asia, they found natives wearing fantastic masks as a part of certain religious and political ceremonies. Especially was this true in the Mongolian countries where, after considerable research, it was discovered that these ceremonial masks dated back to the days of Confucius and the birth of his religion. However, instead of being in any wise utilitarian, as are the masks of the present day, these devices were mere "false faces," and it seemed that the more hideous the design, the more efficacious it was in attracting the favorable notice of the gods or political powers whom its wearer desired to please.

Upon the discovery of America, the Indians here were found to have developed the art of making masks to an astonishing degree. Especially were those tribes of Mexico and Peru, the Aztecs and the Incas, adept at this form of art. Many of their ceremonials furnished surprisingly beautiful, as well as shockingly fantastic, designs in masks, and so impressed were the Spanish invaders by the custom that they took many of the false faces back to Spain with them, whereupon they became a great rage in the Spanish court and especially in the embryonic theater of that day.

The European theater at that time was more given to masks than at any time before or since. Many of Shakespeare's dramas were presented in mask costume for many, many years. This was especially true of the historical dramas in which actual characters were depicted. These masks were made to represent as nearly as possible the facial characteristics of the originals. Doubtless such a form of disguise would be more or less wearisome in these days of make-up and costuming, but it was regarded as a most significant development then. The "Scaramouch" mask, basis of the most beloved character in French comedy drama in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, was an outgrowth of this craze for such oddities.

With the development of the mask in the European theater came the popularity of "bal masque," or masquerade ball, a social gesture that has lasted through the centuries to the present time and appears destined to go on idefinitely. The ball was born in the desire of the medieval courts to outdo the professional players of the day in the matter of personal inventiveness and soon became a great vogue in every court.

Like many other things, the birth of the mask craze can be attributed in part to the World War. When gas warfare first was used, the Allies found it necessary to devise some means of saving lives that were being sacrificed wholesale to this sinister weapon. Gas-masks came into being. The first were clumsy and heavy, so much so that the fighters frequently threw them away and faced the fumes unprotected rather than endure the discomfort.

Progress in their development was rapid, however, and before the war was a year old, a light, easily-donned and highly effective mask had been developed and was in general use. This mask proved that its wearer could pass safely through the most perilous gas attack without so much as a touch of the poisonous vapor, and from this discovery came a new era in inhalator development.

Masks of a similar type were made a part of the equipment of every coal miner in the standardized fields. Later the development was carried further, and the greater part of the face covering which had been designed to protect the soldiers from the irritating influence of the wartime gases on the skin was eliminated.

Housewives, Attention! This Singular-Looking Lady, Beating a Rug on the Steps of Her Home, Will Probably Be as Common a Sight in 1940 as a Flivver or a Black Bottom Were in 1927.

The miner's mask came to be a fur cap with a small nose attachment which ran through the cap to a concentrated oxygen tank on the back.

Firemen's masks were developed from the wartime mask. They were so effectively constructed that closed-in blazes lost their terrors for the fire-fighters, and the matter of making rescues was greatly facilitated. Furthermore, they made it possible to combat the fires with greater speed, inasmuch as it was no longer necessary to let air into tightly-pocketed blazes, as had been done before to afford firemen an opportunity to move about, thus adding fuel to the flames.

Divers' masks were the next development. By applying what they had learned from the Great War, manufacturers of this type of mask discovered that divers could be so equipped as to make it possible for them to remain under water for hours, whereas prior to the war their time had been limited to a few minutes at each descent.

Now comes the housekeeper's mask, a hooded contrivance by which the housewife may do her Spring cleaning without contracting hay fever or any of the various diseases that lurk in the dusty parlor rug or the dandelions that have reposed in the dining-room vase for many months. These house-cleaning masks, physicians say, have, when employed, reduced the percentage of colds and similar ailments among house-cleaning folk to a minimum.

Out of the Housekeeping theory has come the industrial mask. Workmen, who formerly labored over lathes where fine particles of dust flew through the air constantly and in the natural order of things were taken into their lungs, now wear masks by means of which all these impurities are eliminated and they breathe clean, sterilized air all day long. All manner of factories have adopted these masks. Some are of strange and startling design, but they are effective, and economists declare that they have speeded up production to a marked extent.

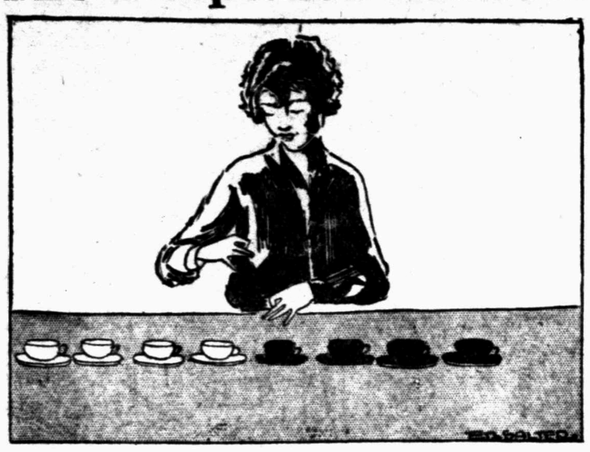

Last, but not least by any means, if popularity is to be taken as a criterion, is the beauty mask. Women whose complexions are not all that they believe complexions should be now hie themselves to a beauty specialist and, by dint of donning a weird-looking mask for three or four hours a day, emerge from the "magic room" with the bloom of youth fresh on their faces.

In the face of this steady development of the mask vogue and industry, these predictions of a masked world by 1940 seem quite within the range of possibility, or, those who have studied the trend claim, the range or probability.

A Problem in Ages

THE combined ages of the Smith family is 300 years. As they are now grouped each row adds up the same in age. If the women were all in one row and the men in another, the combined ages of the women would be one-eighth less than that of the men. And the men would add up one-seventh more than the women.

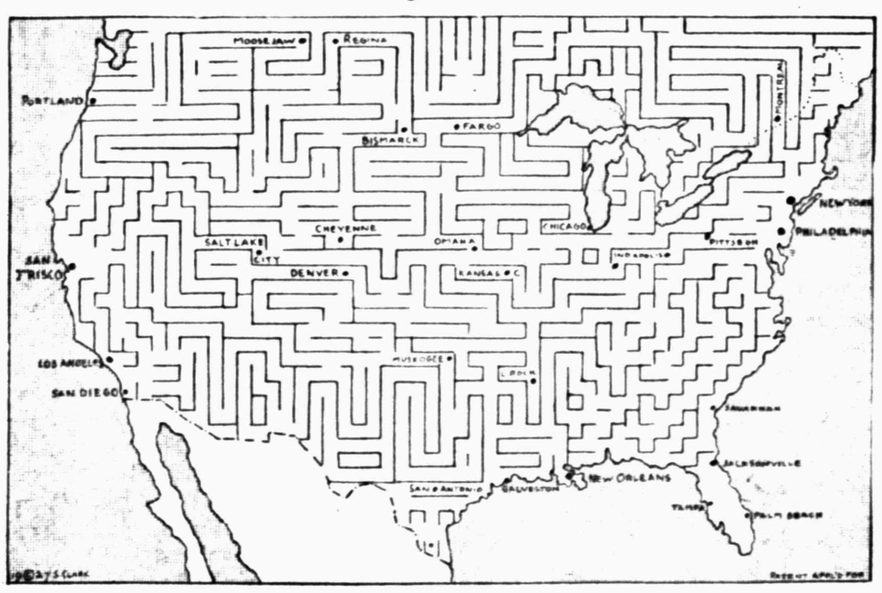

What is the age of each, remembering that each age is divisible by 5?

A Cross-Country Motor Car Race

THREE motorists left New York for San Francisco. Each one said that he knew the quickest way to get there, so they arranged a transcontinental race. One declared for the Canadian route, another for the Southern route, while the third said that the Lincoln Highway was the most direct.

Trace on the accompanying map the route followed by each motorist and find out which one reached San Francisco first and in what order they arrived.

Racing Drops of Water

RUNNING a race with drops of water is a novel stunt to add to your collection of tricks. It is very easy to perform and the apparatus necessary is very simple.

Procure a strip of smooth heavy paper four inches wide and two feet long. One side of the paper must be coated with soot. This is easily done by using the method of blackening a piece of window glass to view a solar eclipse. Hold the sheet of paper close to the burning match until one side becomes thoroughly blackened. Take care not to burn the paper and apply the soot evenly.

Now place three tubes of heavy cardboard, graduated in size, as shown in the accompanying drawing, two or three inches apart, and put a small weight inside of each one to hold it firmly in position.

Now lay the strip of paper, sooted side up, over the tubes, so that it dips between the tubes in the form of a wave.

To start the racing drops on the run up and down hill the performer fills a medicine dropper with water and lets it fall drop by drop onto the strip at its higher end. The drops race over the sooted surface of the paper and are caught in a dish placed at the lower end where the race ends.

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

IF Marion Harlowe was bitter at all over the deal that life had portioned out to her, she was bitter in behalf of her little daughter Mercedes, who was forced by exigencies, both while her father lived and after his death when she was five, to knock around from pillar to post, in boarding-house rooms, temporary quarters in furnished flats and—when a run of luck lasted long enough—now and then in fashionable suites in fashionable hotels.

But for the most part, particularly after Harry's death, when Marion was obliged to shift for herself, the Harlowes quartered in furnished rooms. Sometimes none too fastidious ones.

Truth of the matter was, one year after Marion had married Harold Harlowe, she was to learn the flabbergasting truth that his somewhat obscure "business interests" had turned out to be following the horse races. In fact, just one month after Mercedes was born the truth came out.

From that time on, up to his death, Marion's life with Harry was a matter of following the "ponies", as he called them, from New Orleans to Latonia, from Latonia to Belmont Park, and so on, and so on, and so on.

Marion was not the type to bend her neck to defeat. She took her medicine and made it her business to reconcile herself to the dreary deception Harry had practiced upon her when he married her out of the tranquil environment of a small town. Insofar as she was able, she aided and abetted Harry in his precarious business of earning a living following the horses.

When Mercedes was a tot of three, her parents found her a sunny corner in the grand stand of this or that town, and her earliest memories were of her mother, standing shouting on the seat, tugging for the victory of the horse whose success might mean their next week's board bill.

Of course the inevitable happened. Marion, who had never in her life seen a horse race until after her marriage, developed a passion for the sport. The beautiful, fleet beasts tilting around a race course, could bring the light to her eye and the color to her cheeks. The smell of the turf, the swaying of the hundreds of grandstand figures, the flutter of flags, the little bang of the starter's pistol, the "They're Off" and the subsequent roar and climax, became bread and meat to her.

When Harry sickened and died, all in a week, leaving the young Marion and the four-year-old child Mercedes with two hundred and fifty dollars assets, it was with two hundred of that sum that Marion turned her energies and her vitality to carrying on the precarious earning of a living by means of the race course.

And so it came about that the first eighteen years of Mercedes' life were spent going from race course to race course, from boarding house to boarding house, from New Orleans to New York, from Latonia to Louisville.

There were some pretty lean years, there were some pretty fat years. There were years when little Mercedes had tutors and French governesses, pony phaetons and toy automobiles of perfect mechanical construction. Then there were years when Marion did all the tutoring, evenings, when her eyes were dead tired from the glare and the dust of the race course, and when little Mercedes herself could scarcely hold her head up from the fatigue of having sat out in the gay and banner-hung grandstand all the bright afternoon.

But nothing could interfere with little Mercedes' schooling. Marion saw to that. No expense, when there was money, was spared. No effort on her part. No easing of vigilance.

It is true that in Marion's heart was the feeling of sometimes being ashamed to meet her daughter's clear young gaze. In the watches of the night, lying in bed beside the child, hot bitter tears would spurt from Marion's eyes.

Her child—the lovely Mercedes—a child of the race tracks. For six months Marion even tried clerking in a department store in Cleveland, but the long hours, the confinement, the routine, told upon her health to such an extent that doctors prescribed out-of-doors as the most imperative requirement for cure.

And so, as Marion explained it to herself, fate had assigned that her lot fall within the hectic confines of the race course.

Poor little Mercedes! Child of the track. The only playmates she knew the rough fellows around the course or the children of women who, like Marion, brought their offspring to the hot and dusty courses. The curious sporty whirl of bookmakers, jockeys, gamblers, was the world in which Mercedes spent her early girlhood.

That for the practical purpose of making enough for herself and her adored Mercedes to live on. Shamedly, persistently, stubbornly, Marion followed the ponies.

Marion gaze upon this offspring of hers without a sense of her obligation to atone to her daughter for the environment which surrounded her. In every possible way Marion sought to offset it. Every spare moment of Marion's time was spent endowing this daughter of hers with the open sesame to culture. The best books found their way to her reading table. Whatever city they were in Marion sought out the best music, the best museums, the best galleries for their spare time recreation. Nothing cheap or tawdry was ever permitted to creep into Mercedes' life. Lecture courses, even though they had to be taken by correspondence, were entered into by both of them because, when Mercedes' enthusiasm waned, Marion bolstered it by attempting the same work herself. And bitterly hard it was, too, with Marion's poor head a whirl of the activities of the race course. Every night it was necessary that she pore for hours over the morrow's racing form. Studying odds. Sizing up the situation. Telephoning around to friends for "tips", observing the weather. Checking up the entries. It was tiring and nerve-splitting to use up the edge of her vitality studying then with Mercedes. Playing duets with her. Reading or attending a lecture or a theatre with her.

But Marion had a debt to Mercedes. In the eyes of her daughter Marion felt she must be guilty. And so it was that never was the most sheltered young girl imaginable brought up with more taste, more discretion, and more alluring culture than this daughter of the race course.

Drenched in the ideals that her mother demanded of her, surrounded by the best intellectual stimulus, educated by tutors, pandered, shielded, protected, Mercedes at eighteen might easily have been the frail and lovely product of almost any esoteric environment instead of the brassy vulgar one of the track.

And yet it was when she was eighteen that her mother's actual pain and torment set in. What chance had Mercedes? By that time Marion, a tired, rather dusty-looking woman whom every book-maker and most of the jockeys knew by sight, was well known on every course in America. She was one of the "regulars". Not that any one knew much about her except that for years she and her "kid" had been knocking from course to course. Following the horses, even after certain mandates of the law made the business a precarious one. Out in rain or shine. Oh, yes, Marion was a "regular", all right. And so by implication, if not fact, was Mercedes.

That was what cut so. That was what figuratively at least kept Marion on her knees to Mercedes. Marion was to blame for her lovely daughter's social ostracism. What of the fine things of life, that Marion so demanded for Mercedes, could she hope for as the daughter of a race track follower?

It was when Mercedes was eighteen-and-a-half, that she met at the Opera in New York one night, quite by chance, and in a manner too complicated to relate here, a doctor Blakely Wayne, probably the foremost neurologist of the New York of that period.

The morning following their brief meeting over the matter of a misplaced opera wrap which had by a curious string of coincidences found its way into Dr. Wayne's car, a hamper of five dozen white roses arrived at the fairly good hotel which Marion happened to be able to afford at that time.

The incredible had happened. Of course Marion knew Dr. Wayne by name and fame. There followed a three-weeks' whirlwind courtship, the lovely Mercedes under his wooing blooming like the white rose to which he was always to liken her.

What fear, what sickness, what dread, burned in Marion's heart those weeks, only she will ever know. Sooner or later, of course, he must come to find out! As far as possible, she absented herself upon all his calls and kept herself, to Mercedes' distress, meticulously out of the picture.

Mercedes herself, so lovely, so spiritual, so un-self-conscious, entirely unaware of the perilousness of her position.

How much did Dr. Wayne know? How much was the great man willing to know? Great black circles came out beneath Marion's eyes. More than ever she babied and petted and indulged Mercedes. More than ever she dreaded and feared and prayed for her.

"Mrs. Harlowe," said Dr. Wayne, in a rather old-fashioned stilted way, even before she had time to take off her hat, "I'm terribly in love with Mercedes. I want to marry her."

"Why—why—"

"Mother," said Mercedes, standing swaying like the white rose she seemed, "I want to marry Blake."

"But—"

"Does he know me? What I am? What that makes you?"

"What you are, Mother? I've tried to tell him, but I wonder if even Blake can ever know—the real wonder of the beauty of you in mind and soul and spirit. . . ."

"No, no. I mean does he know—the race-horse part—the—the kind of life—our life—what we are?"

"Of course I know that, Mrs. Harlowe. And what I also know is that this daughter of yours is the loveliest white rose of a creature I ever dreamed could exist. In what hot house did you rear her?"

"I—I guess in the hot house of my heart."

"If I am—Mother—all the lovely things that Blake, silly darling, seems to think I am, he knows I am those things because I grew up in the shadow of you."

"Only beauty could beget such beauty as Mercedes has, and is," said Dr. Wayne, stooping to kiss Marion's hand, and then to take Marion's daughter into his arms, and kiss her.
