By Postal Unions...

Strike Threatened Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of two large postal unions declared today there will be a nationwide mail strike at midnight if the Postal Service refuses to "change its attitude" about a new three-year contract covering a half-million workers.

"If the postmaster general persists in instructing his surrogates (at the bargaining table) to continue this course of action they have set, there is no conclusion anyone can reach but that there will be a national work stoppage," said Vincent Sombrotto, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers.

Moe Biller, head of the American Postal Workers

Union, said the 500,000 union members "are committed to uphold the dignity of postal workers" despite the consequences.

A strike by postal workers is illegal, and Postmaster General William F. Bolger has warned that any people participating in such a walkout would be fired immediately.

Assistant Postmaster General Walter E. Duka said today Postal Service officials "anticipate it will be business as usual on Tuesday" even if there is a strike and said Americans should not put off sending mail.

Postal Service contingency plans include using the military to sort and deliver mail and allowing private companies to deliver letters, which normally is illegal.

Duka disagreed with the union leaders' assessment of the negotiations.

"I think the fact that the talks continue ... is a healthy sign." And he said that while no articles of a new contract have been disposed of, the negotiations "have narrowed their differences on some."

Strike Effect Is Uncertain

Effects on Snyder service of a Postal Service workers strike would depend on who is striking and where, Postmaster Jack Tilson said this morning.

There has been no indication that local Postal Service workers in this area would be active in a strike. However, Tilson reminded that local personnel can only handle mail that is made available here. If workers in some of the large terminals go out on strike, it likely will mean that incoming mail will diminish.

"We would distribute any mail that we get as matters now stand," said Tilson.

Reagan Urged To Begin Arms Talks

MONTEBELLO, Quebec (AP) — America's principal allies are urging President Reagan to begin arms control talks with the Soviets and to lower U.S. interest rates before they trigger "profound impact" around the globe.

But Reagan, in his first major venture in international summitry, is standing firm on his present policy, challenging the allies to limit their trade ties with the Soviet bloc and saying he hopes to begin arms talks in November or December.

Meeting with leaders of the world's six other richest democracies at a heavily protected forest retreat here, the president defended his foreign and economic policies while expressing optimism that near-record interest rates in the United States might come down soon.

Fund Set Up For Patient

A special medical fund to assist Wesley Hines, a cancer patient in Lubbock's Methodist Hospital, has been opened at all three Snyder banks.

Donations can be made to the Wesley Hines Special Fund. Hines is an employee of Concrete, Inc.

Ask Us

Q.—Why doesn't Snyder or Scurry County have anyone entered in the Miss Texas pageant each year?

A.—For several years in the fifties and early sixties, a Miss Snyder was entered in the state pageant. It was discontinued due to a lack of interest, not only by the sponsors, but also by contestants. Not enough young women wanted to devote a big portion of their summer to preparing for and appearing in a local and state pageant.

He added, "It has been our feeling that there is no sentiment for any illegal action on the part of the vast majority" of postal workers.

Both Biller and Sombrotto reiterated that they would be willing to continue discussions past the deadline — but only if the Postal Service backs away from its demand that workers accept a freeze on general wage increases over the next three years.

The Postal Service is asking to settle for retention of the existing cost-of-living formula, which would give workers approximately $3,000 over the next three years if the current rate of inflation held steady.

Shipments To Be Halted

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Texas agriculture authorities say they will halt shipments of California produce today that have not been certified free of infestation by the destructive Mediterranean fruit fly.

But lawyers for a group of California growers said they would ask a federal court in Dallas today for an injunction that would prohibit Texas from imposing the quarantine.

Texas was one of five Southern states that announced it would begin a quarantine today of California produce that could host the fast-breeding medfly. The other states are Florida, Mississippi, Alabama and South Carolina.

Harrelson Hunger Strike

HOUSTON (AP) — Charles Harrelson, a key target of the investigation into the assassination of a federal judge, will undergo a doctor's examination to determine the validity of his claim to be on a hunger strike, Harris County authorities say.

Joann Starr Harrelson said her husband, who is being held on state firearms and narcotics charges, has refused all food since eating ice cream Wednesday night.

But Harris County sheriff's officers remained dubious about the claim Sunday night.

"You can never tell about these things," said sheriff's department Maj. Robert Duncan. "He may have sneaked in some cookies or something like that and been eating those all along. A doctor will determine if he has or not."

Doesn't Object To Pageant

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Donald Wildmon, head of the Coalition for Better Television, has no objection to tonight's Miss Universe Pageant. He says it's wholesome family entertainment.

"Our children stay up to watch it," said the minister from Tupelo, Miss., "It's one of their favorite shows."

Denise Fuge, president of the New York chapter of the National Organization for Women, has been protesting beauty pageants since 1969. She considers the Miss Universe pageant and others like it demeaning to women and a potentially damaging influence on children.

"Children are taught that women are to be valued by the shape of their bottoms and ankles," she said. "It has nothing to do with them being real human beings. This attitude is reflective of the mistreatment of women and contributes to their being victims of violent crime and rape."

Attempted Assassination

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Habibollah Asgarowadi Musulman, one of the four candidates in Iran's July 24 presidential election, was slightly wounded today in an assassination attempt in Tehran, Iran's official Pars news agency reported.

Musulman "received a minor injury and is reported in good condition in hospital," Pars said. One of his bodyguards also was wounded, the agency said.

One of the three alleged assassins was killed and another was wounded, Pars said, adding, the two survivors were arrested. None was identified.

WTC Budget Due Final OK Tonight

Scurry County Junior College District Trustees are scheduled to take final action on the 1981-82 budget for Western Texas College at a meeting this evening.

The meeting is set for 6 p. m. in the conference room of the WTC administration building.

The board also is due to get a report from D. D. Shelburne and a representative of Parker-Croston Associates concerning a student housing project.

Bids for an additional wing on the dormitory complex were rejected earlier, but the architects and Shelburne were authorized to look into the possibility of the college district employing a construction manager and handling the project itself.

The board tentatively approved a $4.2 million budget for 1981-82 at its June meeting, and a hearing will be held on the budget at the outset of tonight's meeting.

Bids will be considered for some equipment in the cosmetology department, for a mower, for music equipment and for a minicomputer.

The board also is due to consider a contract for WTC to operate the Diamond M Museum. The college and the Diamond M Foundation agreed in principle to such a contract several weeks ago.

For Screening...

Haitian Refugees Taken To Big Spring Prison

BIG SPRING, Texas (AP) — Haitian refugees flown to Texas to relieve overcrowding and health problems at a federal processing center in Florida begin a series of medical screenings and interviews here today while federal officials ponder where to send them next.

The 90 refugees who arrived here Saturday were among 286 Haitians transferred to relieve the congestion at the Miami federal processing center, a Immigration and Naturalization Service official said.

All the Haitians were tested for tuberculosis and placed in the Sunset dormitory, where they are separated from inmates at the minimum security federal prison here, an INS official said.

Assistant Warden Jerome Edwards said Big Spring officials were assured by the INS that the Haitians were "not sentenced prisoners."

"I want to allay the fears of the public," Allman said. "These are not dangerous people. They are not known for violence in their backgrounds."

Four French-speaking Big Spring residents were brought to the prison to communicate with the refugees, who did not appear distressed when they learned they had been taken to a prison, said prison superintendent John Allman.

The Haitians told interpreters they thought they were coming to Texas to find jobs and that they were surprised when they were herded into the federal prison here.

"They thought they (federal authorities) were bringing them here to work — for jobs," said one observer who talked to a refugee. "They didn't understand it was a screening process."

Allman said the Haitians would not be released into the community. But he said he did not know what plans INS officials had for the Haitians after the screening process was completed.

However, Allman said the refugees would be kept under maximum security to ensure they could not "wander away from" the minimum security facility.

Five additional guards from other Texas and Oklahoma prisons have been assigned to the camp to handle the larger population.

Edwards said Big Spring was chosen because it has space for 250 additional inmates.

"But it will fill us up. And when you are going at a daily basis of 250 (people), we, of course, will have to do additional planning," he said.

Marvin Mandel Is Out Of Jail

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Marvin Mandel was back in his old booth at Chic & Ruth's Dilly in Annapolis after spending more than a year at a federal prison in Florida.

The former governor returned to Maryland Saturday on a five-day furlough from the prison at Eglin Air Force Base near Pensacola, Fla.

Tax Cut Debate Still Going On

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, trying to outbid the White House for support, says he would accept a third-year tax cut targeted to middle-income Americans and triggered by the Reagan administration's optimistic economic forecast.

An administration spokesman, however, says that would defeat the purpose of President Reagan's unconditional three-year proposal, designed to increase saving and investment.

The idea was advanced Sunday by Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., as both the Ways and Means Committee and the full Senate prepared to pass differing tax-cut bills this week.

Neither plan is what Reagan originally wanted.

The Senate bill comes closest, with a 25 percent cut in personal tax rates over 33 months, but several other provisions have been added over administration reservations.

Man Loses Leg In Accident

A man who suffered a traumatic amputation of his left leg Sunday at 3 p. m. in an accident 19 miles west of Snyder on Hwy. 180 is in stable condition at Cogdell Memorial Hospital today.

Kenneth McBride of Midland, 27, a passenger in a late model Ford pickup, was believed to have had his leg dangling out the window when the driver veered to the right and hit a "Climbing Lane Ahead" sign and severing McBride's leg below the knee. McBride underwent surgery Sunday night.

His uncle, driver of the pickup, was in the Scurry County Jail this morning, being charged with driving while intoxicated, then was taken back to Gail by the Borden County Sheriff as the accident occurred in Borden County. The uncle was initially brought to Snyder because Texas Highway Patrolmen out of Snyder are investigating the wreck.

Man Killed In Cycle Mishap

James David Martin, 21, who lived at 504 28th St., was killed Thursday when the motorcycle he was riding crashed as it failed make a turn in the road near the Lake J. B. Thomas dam 20 miles southwest of Snyder.

An employee of Dresser Titan, Inc., he had left an outing of fellow workers at the lake shortly before the mishap occurred at the intersection of FM 2805 and a county road. He was thrown some 60 feet through the air.

He was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Scurry County EMS. Personnel of the ambulance company performed CPR on the way to the hospital, but efforts to revive Martin were unsuccessful.

He was pronounced dead by Justice of the Peace Lanette Patterson. Martin had moved here recently from Van and the body was taken to Hilliard Funeral Home in Van, where funeral arrangements were to be made.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Martin of Van.

For Shooting Pope, Two Women...

Agca Trial Is Underway

ROME (AP) — Turkish terrorist Mehmet Ali Agca today admitted he shot Pope John Paul II, but contested the right of an Italian court to try him and claimed in a courtroom outburst he had been tortured by his Italian jailers.

On the opening day of his trial, the 23-year-old defendant said his life had been threatened in Italian jails and that he had been subjected to "inhuman" conditions since his arrest for the May 13 shooting of the pope and two American women in St. Peter's Square.

In a statement translated from Turkish to Italian, Agca said: "On May 13, I was inside the confines of the Vatican when I shot the chief of state of the Vatican. I don't agree to be tried by an Italian court."

Agca, who has grown a full black beard during his confinement, addressed the court after the chief judge rejected a defense motion claiming Italy had no jurisdiction in the case.

Earlier, Agca had shouted from a bulletproof glass booth inside the courtroom that his jailers "have tortured me." After a 10-minute recess, he was allowed to address the court.

"I have lived for 60 days in inhuman conditions," Agca said. "I don't know if I am in a medieval jail or a jail of a democratic country."

He appeared in good health as he was led into the courtroom handcuffed to a police officer. Before the outburst, he stood impassively as scores of photographers snapped photos and yelled out his name, scuffling with courtroom guards who tried to push them back.

Agca's fate is in the hands of a jury of two women and four men. Both the prosecution and defense have predicted he will be sentenced to life imprisonment.

In addition to the protective glass booth for Agca, the 200 journalists covering the trial had to show special passes and then walk through metal detectors.

Agca's court-appointed lawyer, Pietro D'Ovidio, said before the trial that his client confessed to the shooting. He said he did not plan to plead insanity because there was no evidence to support such a plea, and he predicted Agca would be convicted and would get the maximum sentence.

Agca, described by police as a cool, self-disciplined gunman who had ties to right-wing groups in his native

Turkey, insists he acted alone in the May 13 attack in St. Peter's Square.

Prosecutors say they have no evidence of a conspiracy. But police say they are convinced someone helped Agca, perhaps by financing his travels around Europe and North Africa after he escaped from a Turkish jail in 1979.

State prosecutor Nicola Amato said he would call about 30 witnesses after Agca finished testifying. Most of the witnesses were in the square during the shooting.

The pope, who is still hospitalized, has not been asked to appear as a witness or to give a deposition, legal sources said. He is recovering from a virus doctors say may have been contracted from the massive blood transfusions given him after the shooting.

paul harvey

The most cruelly misused segment of our nation's population has no voice.

It can scream—but not loud enough.

It can bleed—but it can't vote.

The "kill box" where thousands of innocents are put to death is like nothing since Dachau and Auschwitz and Buchenwald.

For our nation's only utterly silent majority—won't somebody speak?

My bedtime reading since my earliest recollection were the Albert Payson Terhune books about his collie dogs.

On my nightstand even now are the most recent animal stories by lovable veterinary doctor James Herriot.

Our family has never been without pets—dogs, cats.

My writer son frequently sits at the typewriter with a kitten on his lap and another draped around his neck.

I confess to a lifelong affection and respect for animals.

And while there is no way to prove that human cruelty toward humans begins with indifference to the suffering of animals, some respected philosophers are beginning to think so.

Recently 400 of them assembled for a conference at Michigan State University where Philosophy Professor Martin Benjamin said,

"Animals have been viewed as edible, disposable or cuddly—with no regard for their moral and ethical rights."

"Dumb animal means only that they are without voice, not that they are without feelings."

"And the way we maltreat animals has inevitable implications in human relations."

I hesitate to delineate an indictment.

Movie animals strangled, shot, tormented, crushed.

In one big city pound which disposes of 20,000 animals each year, the "kill box" is usually overloaded. Before the carbon monoxide can be effective, puppies are trampled or suffocated.

Animals are hosed down with detergent water and puppies drown in open sewers.

Cats and smaller dogs, thrown into the same cage with vicious street dogs are torn to pieces.

Some dogs are surreptitiously sold for fighting.

And there is callous indifference to suffering in some commercial manhandling of chickens and vealers and pets used in theatrical magic performances.

The logical response suggests greater penalties for animal abusers. That's the least we can do, I hope not the most we can do.

I'm as guilty as anybody of usually looking the other way from a situation that's too shameful and too painful. I don't speak for this silent majority as I should.

But unless we are all to slip backward into the slime from whence we came, God help us help these most dependent and least demanding.

DIET CENTER

Diet facts & fallacies

When a special group of volunteers at the Mayo Clinic were fed a diet deprived of vitamin B-1 (thiamine), their personalities began to change within a week. According to one medical report, the experiment had to be called off at the end of the twenty-first week because the volunteers became so irritable, depressed, quarrelsome and uncooperative. When thiamine was reintroduced into their diets, all were back to normal within a week.

Often referred to as the "morale vitamin," because of its relationship to a healthy nervous system and its beneficial effects on mental attitude, thiamine is also linked with improving the capacity of an individual's learning.

It is especially essential to children, as it is necessary for consistent growth and for the improvement of muscle tone in the stomach, intestines, and heart. By improving foods' assimilation and digestion, particularly that of starches, sugars, and alcohol, thiamine is also essential in stabilizing the appetite.

Just as thiamine is essential, each vitamin and mineral is necessary for some specific bodily functions. That is why at Diet Center we suggest your eating a variety of foods, choosing from fresh fruits, vegetables, lean meats, and unprocessed grains, all of which have a vast store of nutrients.

Bill Fuqua Earns Living Doing Nothing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Don't just stand there — do nothing!" is Bill Fuqua's motto.

Fuqua, 36, does nothing for a living and supports himself quite well at it, getting up to $1,300 an hour.

This man without a move is paid to stand in department store windows and make like a mannequin. Passersby do double-takes, and Fuqua takes an average $300 an hour. His higher fees, up to $1,300 per hour, are for private parties and conventions.

It began in Fort Worth, Texas, when he was 14, and he "was out in front of this house where all these elaborate Christmas decorations were because they gave door prizes for the best display," he said.

"I just stopped and stood in front of the lights like a dummy. And cars started stopping. One lady got out of her car and stared at me for a while and then went back to the car saying to her husband, 'It's OK honey, it's not a real boy.'"

Thus, a career was launched, and he went on to claim the Guinness Book of World Records motionless standing title 13 years ago. When he heard that an Australian had bettered his mark with a 7-hour, 2-minute time, Fuqua didn't just stand there — he did nothing.

Saturday, astride a fake horse, in the window of a Glendale department store, dressed like an Indian, he stood still for eight straight hours.

Every 60 feet down, the earth's temperature increases about one degree.

Small Fare Is Publicity Gag

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Two bits and four pennies would have gotten you to Washington and back by air had you spent the night in line at Newark International Airport.

In a publicity gag, New York Air offered the 29-cent fares to the first 1,000 people lined up at its ticket counters Sunday. The fare corresponds to the usual pleasure-class rate — $29.

About 500 people were in queue when the counter opened, some having camped out for the night at the airport. The last ticket was sold just 90 minutes after the first. The fare is good until Oct. 24 when proposed regulations governing access to National Airport could bring a halt to New York Air service there, the airline said.

The world annually produces about 3.4 billion pounds of sesame seed, most of which is turned into oil.

Grass Fire

Snyder firefighters and five boys from Big Spring extinguished a grass fire near Lake J.B. Thomas Sunday. The Fire Department responded to the call at 5:44 p.m.

A pickup fire was extinguished at 1:15 a.m. today one mile north of the Ponderosa Motel. The pickup, a 1981 Ford, was owned by Benjamin A. Mitchell.

Dear Abby

Graduation Presents Require A Diplomatic Acceptance

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Please help settle a disagreement we are having in our family. My grandson sent out his high-school graduation announcements before he knew that he didn't have enough credits to graduate.

He received many lovely graduation gifts, including some nice checks from relatives. I say all the gifts (and of course the checks) should be returned because he didn't really graduate. His mother (my daughter) insists that he is entitled to keep the gifts because he completed 12 years of schooling.

Do you think my daughter is right, and I should butt out?
ILLINOIS GRANNY

DEAR GRANNY: Your grandson should keep the gifts and send thank-you notes explaining that he did not graduate with his class, but he plans to make up the deficient credits and earn his diploma eventually — if indeed he intends to do so. Otherwise, he should return the gifts.

DEAR ABBY: My son, Allen, who is 18, has been going with Anna Marie for three years. She's also 18. They have been engaged since last Christmas, but no wedding date has been set. Allen lives at home and just started working at a bank. Anna Marie works there too. This bank has a great benefit package, which includes a $50,000 life insurance policy. Allen told me he made Anna Marie his beneficiary. I was very hurt. I told him that after they are married, Anna Marie should be the beneficiary, but until then, if, God forbid, something should happen to him, I should be the beneficiary of his policy.

He said no, that if something should happen to him tomorrow, he'd want his girlfriend to collect on his policy. What is your opinion?
ALLEN'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I'm with you. Until Allen and Anna Marie are married (unless, God forbid, she's pregnant), Allen's beneficiary should be his mother.

DEAR ABBY: I've seen a lot of letters in your column from people who have no children but they're very content. I have one child and I'm satisfied to keep it that way.

My problem is relatives and close friends who keep coming up with stupid remarks like, "You have to have another one so Johnny will have someone to play with."

My sister, who has never been married and has no kids, is always on my case about the selfishness of raising one child. Worse yet, she keeps prodding my son, "Tell your mom you want a little sister." Now my son asks me every day when his sister is coming.

Abby, I am at the end of my rope with these people. I've tried long speeches on why I want only one child, and I've even told them I'm doing my part to curb the population explosion, but nothing helps.

Can you give me a good answer the next time a person asks, "When are you going to have another one?"
ONE'S ENOUGH IN WORCESTER, MASS.

DEAR ONE'S ENOUGH: You don't have to answer a question simply because someone had the nerve to ask it. And you need not apologize for refusing to answer.

DEAR ABBY: I cried when I read about the poor 11-year-old kid who still wets the bed, so his parents made him wear a diaper and put him out in the front yard where all his friends could see him.

Instead of writing to you about it, that neighbor should have called the proper authorities and had those parents arrested for child abuse!

They may not know it now, but they have lost their son. He will never forgive them to his dying day.

Brooklyn Man Is Dead After Dive

NEW YORK (AP) — A 39-year-old Brooklyn man, attempting to cool off from the night's heat, was killed after he dove into two inches of water in a closed city swimming pool that had been emptied for cleaning, police said.

Just after midnight Sunday, police said James Hopkins, of the East New York section, scaled the fence surrounding the pool in Baisley Park in Jamaica, Queens.

Police said that Hopkins, a regular at the pool, apparently was unaware that 20-by-40 foot above ground pool had been drained when he dove into it.

He was pronounced dead at the scene. Ambulance attendants said Hopkins, who was clad only in his bathing suit, had broken his neck upon impact.

According to police, Hopkins was visiting relatives who lived near the pool when he decided to go for a late night swim to escape the sweltering heat.

On Apartheid...

Book Does Not Pull Any Punches

KLOOF, South Africa (AP) — Alan Paton, who at 78 might be called the critic emeritus of apartheid, has just finished his first novel in 28 years and says it pulls no punches in relating the deep racial divisions in his country.

Explaining the long gap between novels, the author of the South African classic "Cry the Beloved Country" said in an interview, "I had become very impatient of novels. I didn't even like to read them."

But poring over the proofs of his latest work, his bushy white eyebrows furrowed in concentration, Paton clearly was proud of the new work "Ah But Your Land Is Beautiful."

"I follow an Indian family and a white Afrikaner and an African family," he said. "It's a pretty thorough account of what South Africa was like from 1952 to 1958 and doesn't pull any punches."

Paton has focused his new book on the time when the edifice of apartheid, official racial segregation, was erected by the Afrikaner Nationalists. Laughing aloud, the author noted that his book depicts "good Afrikaners" as well as bad ones.

"You see, that's the thing you must do," he said. "If you paint all Afrikaners bad, then naturally your book is likely to be banned. But I put in quite a lot of good ones."

Paton said it should be noted that de facto apartheid existed under British colonial rule long before the Dutch-descended Afrikaners took power in the 1948 election and legalized racial separation.

But he added: "I have no doubt whatever that the Afrikaner has intensified the suffering, and they certainly have intensified the alienation of blacks. I think it has only dawned on them in the last three, four, five years that they really have done a terrible thing with their power."

Paton said the title of his book is a stock phrase frequently used by visitors to skirt the question of what they think of South Africa: "Ah, but your land is beautiful."

"The general subject is the land itself, and it works up to a climax in 1958 when Verwoerd became prime minister," Paton said. Hendrik Verwoerd, assassinated by a deranged white man in 1966, was the architect of sweeping policies aimed at keeping racial groups apart at all costs.

Ironically, "Cry the Beloved Country," written in hotel rooms in Europe and the United States while Paton was on a study tour of penal institutions, was published and became a huge success the year the National Party took power. It earned him the enmity of the Afrikaners, who make up 58 percent of the white minority of 5 million.

Paton said that at a premiere of the movie of "Cry the Beloved Country," he sat next to Nationalist Prime Minister D.F. Malan and his wife.

"Mrs. Malan. Oh, she hated it," Paton recalled. "She said to me: 'Do you really think the country's like that?'...I said, 'Mrs. Malan, I'm in charge of a reformatory and all my boys come from places like that.'"

"Cry the Beloved Country" was the story of a black minister who left the hills of Zululand to search for his son in Johannesburg. The minister found that his brother had become a black-power agitator, his sister a prostitute and his son was about to hang for murdering a white.

The story was not at all provocative, Paton said, "But the Afrikaner Nationalist, a patriotic one, doesn't want even that to be shown. You might have ulcers and all that sort of thing, but you wrap them up and hide them from public gaze. You don't go and display them in the street. They hate you for doing that."

Paton's second novel was "Too Late the Phalarope," published in 1953. Racial divisions again set the tone.

Paton, recipient of the 1960 American Freedom Award, then turned to politics, founding the ill-fated Liberal Party, which favored universal suffrage in a nation where only whites may vote. It was disbanded in 1968 when multiracial parties were outlawed.

Paton himself was threatened with banning. His passport was withdrawn for 10 years.

But he continued to write — political treatises, magazine columns and other pieces critical of apartheid.

It's clear that his 13 years as head of Diepkloof Reformatory, his years as a teacher and his upbringing as one of four children of a pacifist Scottish father still characterize the man.

He said he allows himself four whiskeys and four cigarettes daily — all at night. He explained that while at the Johannesburg Reformatory, which had 650 black prisoners, he allowed no smoking during the day and "I didn't want to smoke while they couldn't."

Asked what changes he would like to see before he dies, the crusty reformer said he would like to see poverty reduced.

"I've always said the one factor which would above all prevent us from being any kind of united country is the terrible disparity in wealth," Paton said. "It's true we have a beautiful country, but all the beautiful parts are white."

Symptoms to look for in Quintuplets To Start School

DALLAS (AP) — Texas' first quintuplets turned six Saturday, but they celebrated a day early with cake, balloons and family friends.

The quints weighed a total of 13 pounds and were given survival odds of less than 50-50 when they were born July 18, 1975, to Debbie and Jerry Davis.

Now Casey, Chanda, Charla, Chelsa and Christa are preparing to enter public school in Lewisville, just north of Dallas.

They celebrated their latest birthday Friday with a party at the University of Texas Health Science Center where Dr. Jack Pritchard, who led the 10-man team who delivered the quints, is on the faculty.

Cut Glass Bowl Is America's Wedding Gift

NEW YORK (AP) — A cut-glass bowl will be America's official wedding gift to Prince Charles and Lady Diana.

A spokeswoman for the Steuben glass company, who was not identified, told New York magazine a bowl that was supposed to cost $75,000 was sold to first lady Nancy Reagan for a mere $8,000 as the gift for the couple, who are to wed July 29.

"We offer handsome discounts to the government," the spokeswoman said.

The bowl will be engraved with a king, nobles and crusaders before being offered to the couple, the magazine said.

Mrs. Reagan, meanwhile, was in New York Sunday to attend the Broadway show of Duke Ellington's "Sophisticated Ladies" with her son Ron and daughter-in-law Doria.

Band Entertains At Senior Center

Senior citizens were recently entertained at the Senior Center by the Stonewall Senior Citizens Rhythm Band from Aspermont, Texas.

The group performed a variety of melodies from their repertoire of over 200 tunes. The group has been organized for approximately two years and has performed in the Paramount opera in Abilene and Spur coliseum among their many appearances.

Their purpose is to entertain senior citizens around the state, said Charles Abernathy, leader of the group who's members are mostly in their 70's. There are 21 members in the band and they perform at least twice a month.

Alan: "Here is an old-time hand in modern dress. West could defeat this contract by leading a club at trick two, but he continues diamonds."

Oswald: "East chucks a low spade. South ruffs and pulls trumps. Then he cashes his ace and king of spades and leads a club toward dummy. If West holds the club ace, South will make an overtrick. But East has that card and South comes up one trick short of his contract."

Alan: "Now let's go back to the play. Note that we have been careful to give declarer the deuce of trumps. So he only takes three trump tricks. Then he cashes the ace and king of spades and notes that West has dropped the jack. Now he leads his deuce of trumps and East is on lead. If East leads a club, declarer scores dummy's king of clubs and queen of spades. If East leads a spade, declarer gets two spade tricks. Either way he makes his contract."

Oswald: "This was a perfect safety play. Suppose that West holds that ace of clubs. He still makes it, but South is going to make his contract. He will have given up an overtrick, but he can certainly afford that 30 point loss."

Texas Governor Attends Ceremony...

Submarine USS Dallas Is Christened

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — At commissioning ceremonies for the nuclear-powered submarine USS Dallas, Texas Gov. William Clements, a Republican and former deputy defense secretary, called national security "the most important issue before us in America."

But Clements also drew a laugh when he told the crowd that he is pleased to see the "U.S.-Texas Navy" growing.

The Navy has named two other submarines after cities in the state, the Houston and the Corpus Christi.

"I only hope the Navy will have good judgment and add the San Antonio, El Paso and Fort Worth," he said during Saturday's ceremony.

Clements stressed that he is confident the Reagan administration will maintain a strong military as its top priority.

The Dallas and the Navy's other Angeles-class fast-attack submarines are primarily anti-submarine weapons. They have four torpedo tubes capable of launching submarine rockets and Mark 48 torpedoes against surface ships and other submarines.

The Dallas is the third fast-attack submarine to be turned over to the Navy in nine weeks by Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp.

Electric Boat General Manager P. Takis Veliotis called that record an unprecedented accomplishment and had a warning for the Navy.

"Contracts must be awarded in a timely manner," Veliotis said, referring to the government's recent withholding of work from EB.

The Navy and the shipyard have had a long-running dispute over cost overruns and delays in the construction of nuclear-powered submarines. In March, Navy Secretary John Lehman awarded contracts for three 688-class submarines like the Dallas to EB's only competitor. EB has subsequently laid off 1,000 workers.

"We are committed and determined to providing six fast-attack submarines by the end of the year," Veliotis told the 500 people attending the ceremony in the bright sunshine at the Navy's submarine base in Groton.

The EB official added that the nation's first ballistic missile-firing Trident submarine, the USS Ohio, has returned from its second sea trials that he called "totally successful." Veliotis said EB would turn the Ohio over to the Navy this fall.

But if EB is to maintain the production schedule it wants to, "it is imperative that its work force be fully utilized" through the regular awarding of Navy contracts.

The Dallas, which is the 13th of its class to join the fleet, was nearly five years in the making at the Electric Boat shipyard.

The keel of the 360-foot long Dallas was laid Oct. 9, 1976 with its launching nearly three years later, April 28, 1979. Displacing 6,900 tons, the Dallas carries a crew of 127 officers and enlisted men. Commanded by Capt. Donald

R. Ferrier of Taunton, Mass., the submarine will have Groton as its homeport.

It is the second naval warship to bear the name of the Texas city. The first USS Dallas was a destroyer that served during both world wars.

Man Charged In Death Of Child

HOUSTON (AP) - A 22-year-old man has been named on a capital murder charge alleging he suffocated a 5-year-old girl by pushing her face into dirt.

James John Munoz earlier had been charged with attempted murder in the Friday disappearance of Monica Alvarez whose body was found Sunday in Greens Bayou.

Munoz is being held in the Harris County jail without bond.

More than 100 persons, including divers and deputies on horseback, had participated in the search after the Alvarez family reported a man had broken into their home early Friday and abducted the girl.

Jailhouse 'Statesman' Wants Out Of Prison

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Dwight D. Moore turned 61 in prison a month ago — and now, the jailhouse elder statesman says he wants to make it on the outside because being in prison in 1981 just isn't the same as it was in the good old days of the 1930s and '40s.

"I'm ready to retire," the inmate from Oklahoma City told the state Pardon and Parole Board on Sunday. "This new generation of people coming in, I just don't know how to handle them."

Moore, whose record includes no fewer than 18 felony convictions since his first brush with the law at 17, has been out of jail for a total of 10 years — made up of a year or two here and a month or two there.

"In the old days, the people you did time with had some principles, there was some principles among thieves. These guys now, they don't even respect each other. I'm ready to go out and die on the outside. I don't want to die in here," Moore said, as the board room fell quiet.

Inmates now "don't know how to do time. In the old days, a man came in and he had time to do, he did it and minded his own business. You knew if you'd mess with anybody, he'd kill you. And if a man told you something, his word was good."

"These kids, a lot of them that come in now are so burned out on drugs they don't know where they're going, or where they're coming from ... I stay as far away from them as I can," he said.

"They've done more to rehabilitate me in the last five years, the new breed, than all the lawmen have done in the last 40."

Hit, Run Knocks Out Radio Power

A hit and run in the 1400 block of Ave. T at 10:47 a.m. Saturday caused a loss of electrical power to the police department radio tower, temporarily knocking out radio communications.

An unknown vehicle was reported to have hit a guy wire and a telephone pole, knocking the pole down and causing another one to snap. Jay Huckabee was notified of the problem and put the emergency generator into service for the police department. Texas Electric SCAT, and Southwestern Bell were also notified as lines from all three were down. Officer Robert Harbin took the report.

At 11:12 a.m., a disturbance was reported at 2609 Ave. Y in which a subject was said to have kicked in the door of a residence. Police reports indicate a struggle ensued in which two shots were fired from a .12 gauge shotgun, one into the floor and one into the ceiling. When the subject left the residence, he shot into a car that was parked in front. Taking the report was officer Buddy

Kinney.

A minor accident occurred at 2400 25th at 4:15 p.m. Saturday. Involved was a 1973 Chevrolet driven by Joe Don Guynes and a 1979 Oldsmobile driven by Lisa Rena Lee. Officer Richard McCulley worked that wreck.

Five minutes later, another accident occurred, this one at 1900 Park Ave. Involved was a 1976 Mercury driven by James Kimberly Gay and a 1978 Oldsmobile driven by Marilyn Byrd Pace. There was only minor damage to the Oldsmobile but moderate damage to the Mercury. Taking the report was officer Don Cheek.

At 6:44 p.m., a man told police that another man had exposed himself to the first man's wife and children. Officers Cheek and McCulley responded to the call.

Sunday morning, at 1:38 a.m., officer Tony Pantoja took a 20 year-old woman into custody at Ave. A and East Highway for driving while intoxicated.

A 19 year-old man was taken into custody at Allsup's at 4:31 a.m. by officer Keith Ward for driving while intoxicated.

At 7:23 a.m., police received a report of a man lying in the street at 1607 28th next to his car. Officer Kinney took an 18 year-old man into custody for public intoxication.

One man filed assault charges at the police department following a fight at 509 35th at 1 p.m. Sunday. In that, one man was reported to have been taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by private vehicle.

Thomas Leiva told police someone had stolen a brown bicycle from 806 24th sometime between 10 p.m. Saturday and 3 p.m. Sunday. The theft was reported at 3:15 p.m.

Funerals Slated Today...

Probe Into Hotel Tragedy Begins

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—As funerals began, engineers poked through tons of concrete and twisted metal for clues in the collapse of two suspended walkways at the Hyatt Regency Hotel. The death toll stood at 113, with 186 injured.

The first funerals following Friday's tragedy were scheduled today in Topeka, Kan. for four young members of the Mariachi Estrella Band who were at the Hyatt to entertain a Fuller Brush Co. convention.

Meanwhile, the owner of the luxurious hotel said it might be reopened within two weeks, and the sky bridges might be replaced. There was still no official explanation for the collapse, although investigators were looking into the possibility that it might have been caused by people dancing or swaying on the spans.

The six young women in the mariachi band were heading across the crowded Hyatt lobby to a room to change into their costumes Friday night, when the second- and fourth-floor walkways above them collapsed, crushing people in the debris. Four of the band members perished, and Rachel Galvan and Theresa Cuevas were hospitalized.

Miss Galvan was in critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital in Kansas City on Sunday, but Mrs. Cuevas had been released.

A joint funeral was being held today for Connie Alcala, Dolores Carmona, Linda Louis Schurlock and Dolores Galvan, sister of Rachel Galvan.

Of the injured, 90 remained hospitalized Sunday, 23 reportedly in critical condition or in intensive care units. Two of the injured died Sunday, boosting the death toll to 113.

The first investigators—hired by the hotel's architects from Failure Analysis Associates of Palo Alto, Calif.—were on the scene Sunday. Four other investigations also were announced—by the hotel owners, the hotel managers, the contractor and the city.

"We are at work to find the most qualified team," said Donald Hall, president of Hallmark Cards Inc. "It will be a very thorough investigation." Hall said the company was contacting engineering firms across the country to put together a team of investigators.

Hallmark is the parent of Crown Center Redevelopment Co., which owns the hotel. The hotel is managed by Hyatt Corp.

Among the engineers contacted by Crown

Center was James Stratta of Menlo Park, Calif., who was hired by Kansas City to learn the cause of the collapse of the Kemper Arena roof here in 1979.

"The first thing you have to do is determine, did something let go or did something break?" Stratta said. He said it must also be determined whether people dancing or swaying contributed to the collapse.

Crown Center President James McClune said the hotel might be open for business in a week or two.

"Reopening depends on what the engineers tell us," McClune said. "If there has not been any structural damage to the hotel, we can reopen without doing anything about replacing the bridges and we will as soon as it is safe."

"I don't know if we will replace the bridges," McClune added. "It is a design we like. We have to look at what happened, correct it and get back in operation."

Mayor Richard Berkley and his wife, Sandy, spent five hours visiting the injured in three hospitals. He promised the city would investigate because "we have to bend over backwards to make sure there is (public) confidence." City Attorney

Aaron Wilson said later, however, that the city's legal authority to probe the collapse was limited because it occurred on private property.

Witnesses differed in accounts of what happened in the seconds before and during the disaster. Some said as many as 300 people were on the second-level walkway watching a dance below in the lobby. Several were seen dancing and swaying to the music from below.

"It (the walkway) wasn't swaying. There were people who told us you could see it bouncing," fire department spokesman Harold Knabe said. "The people were swaying on it like they were dancing to the music."

"People who walked across it said you could feel it bouncing and moving up and down. They weren't on it at the time it fell."

Some witnesses said the fourth-story walkway fell first and crashed onto a second-floor span. Knabe said other witnesses believed the second-floor walkway fell first and pulled the top one down.

"From what we've been able to determine, the two sections were suspended together," he said.

A consortium of three architectural firms designed the building, and a St. Louis firm, Gillum Colaco, did the structural engineering.

Eldridge & Son Construction Co. was the general contractor. McClune said he was aware the company, which was described as "dormant," had encountered financial difficulties recently.

Hall said Hallmark had "full-risk" insurance. "Our insurance is good," Hall said. "There is no question about that."

A spokesman said Missouri Gov. Christopher Bond had toured the site and offered the aid of the National Guard if needed.

Marine Reservists Die In Helicopter Crash

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Four Marine reservists from Pennsylvania have been killed in a helicopter crash aboard the amphibious helicopter ship Guam, the Navy reports.

The CH53 Sea Stallion helicopter crashed and burned on the Guam's flight deck late Sunday afternoon about 35 miles southeast of Morehead City, N.C.

Atlantic Fleet headquarters in Norfolk said four Marines were injured and seven Navy personnel suffered minor injuries. Two other helicopters were destroyed. A Navy spokeswoman said the 5:25 p.m. crash caused a fire that was extinguished within five minutes.

The Navy identified none of the victims pending notification of kin. The dead were listed as members of Marine Reserve Helicopter Squadron 772 out of Willow Grove, Pa. Four of the injured were flown to a hospital on the Marine Corps base at Camp Lejeune, N.C., the spokeswoman said.

She did not say how many of those killed were aboard the helicopter and how many were on the Guam's deck.

At the time of the accident the Guam, with Norfolk as a home port, was taking part in a reserve amphibious exercise. The ship had left Norfolk at noon Saturday and was scheduled to return Thursday.

The crash was the second fatal encounter in two months involving Marine fliers and a Navy ship.

On May 26 off the coast of Florida, a Marine jet attempting to land on the carrier Nimitz skidded across the deck. Fourteen sailors and Marines, including the crew of the Marine EA6B plane, died in the crash and explosion and fire that followed. Forty-eight were injured, and 20 aircraft were destroyed.

The Navy spokeswoman said the Marine reservists aboard the Guam were on two weeks of active training.

Feeling hot, keeping cool

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 60-year-old man and have worked outdoors most of my life, doing such things as construction work. Now when I work out in the hot sun I almost have a heat stroke. I am hot and require air conditioning when everyone around me feels comfortable. Can you suggest some medicine that I can take for being overheated? Would salt tablets help?

DEAR READER—Feeling hot doesn't mean that your body is really any hotter. The sensation of being hot depends upon the circulation through your skin. The nerve endings that sense heat are in the skin and not the internal body. That is why a person may feel hot but when you take his temperature it may be quite normal. Yet when a person has a fever he may be unaware of it because the skin circulation may not have changed that much.

If you were ill and your body temperature was elevated, the circulation through your skin would increase to cool your body, making you feel hot. But, in your case, you may have developed a decreased tolerance to heat exposure.

There is such a thing as becoming acclimated to heat; perhaps it is not as easy for you to do this now. Body weight is a factor, too. If you have excess fat pads they will insulate the body and interfere with loss of body heat.

There isn't any specific medicine to help you. Salt tablets may make matters worse. Individuals who take salt tablets and don't drink enough water are more likely to have a heat stroke.

Individuals who do sweat a lot from heavy labor may lose salt and need to pay attention to salt and water intake. I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-12, Heat Stress: Cramps, Exhaustion, Stroke, to help you sort out these conditions. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. The best way to get the salt you need is in your food. Milk, for example, is a good source.

It is a good idea to keep track of your body weight; weight loss may mean too much water loss, which is a danger sign in terms of heat tolerance. It is important to give your body a chance to cool off, so enjoy the air conditioning.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a lacto-ovarian vegetarian and have been for a number of years. In the last few years I began to use dry beans, peas and lentils very often. Now I have been told that eating legumes often leads to severe mental depression. This got me a little worried. Is this a theory or a fact? I would appreciate your comment.

DEAR READER—Forget it. Beans are fine for most healthy people. There is no reliable evidence that they will cause a mental depression.

As a lacto-ovarian vegetarian you do need to know that your diet may be deficient in vitamin B-12. Otherwise you should be getting all the vitamins you need. The milk and eggs will provide complete protein of good quality to meet your protein requirements.

Vegetarians often do not get enough iron. You can help prevent that by cooking in iron pots and iron skillets. The iron dissolved during the cooking process will boost your iron intake.

Rogers Wins British Open By Four Strokes

SANDWICH, England (AP) - Bill Rogers, the 110th British Open golf champion, strode up the 18th fairway of the Royal St. George's course with 10,000 fans pressing forward and cheering.

"Coming up that fairway was the most unique feeling I have ever had," said the 29-year-old Texan after he had won one of the world's most famous tournaments Sunday with a score of 72-66-67-71 for a 4-under-par total of 276.

For the first time in the

LGA Meet

Snyder Ladies Golf Association will hold its Tuesday partnership at Western Texas College this week.

All members interested in participating should be at the WTC Golf Shop by 8:30 a.m. to be paired.

Spinks Takes

Title Belt

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Shortly after polishing off Eddie Mustafa Muhammad to become the World Boxing Association light-heavyweight champion, Michael Spinks cast his eyes toward a hoped-for bout to unify the title.

Spinks, who scored a unanimous decision over Mustafa Muhammad, said he'd like his next fight to be with Matthew Saad Muhammad, the World Boxing Council's light-heavyweight champion, "if he'll sign."

Saad Muhammad was on hand Saturday as Spinks battered Mustafa Muhammad, closing one eye of the former champion in the 10th round and knocking him down in the 12th.

"I believe very truly that Eddie Mustafa Muhammad won the fight," Saad Muhammad said as he invaded Spinks' postfight news conference.

But, he said, turning to Spinks: "I'll call you champ, champ."

Spinks, in only his 17th professional fight, stepped out of the shadow of his brother, heavyweight Leon, with the victory to become half of what is believed to be the only pair of brothers to have held world boxing titles.

"It feels so good," said the champion, who will turn 25 this week. "This is what I've always wanted."

Michael used a three-punch combination - two lefts and a right - to send Muhammad to the canvas midway through the 12th round, then put him on the ropes and unleashed a barrage of punches as Muhammad covered up.

"The right had him hurt bad. I saw it in his face," Spinks said.

States Win Easily Over British Team

CHICAGO (AP) - If the British thought the numbers looked bad going into the 53rd Wightman Cup championship series, they looked even worse coming out.

Boasting the top three women's tennis players in the world - and fielding its youngest team ever - the United States Sunday completed its sweep of all seven matches without yielding a single set and allowed the British side just two service breaks over the duration.

Talk about numbers. Top-ranked Chris Evert Lloyd won two singles matches to stretch her Wightman Cup record to 20 wins without a loss.

Tracy Austin, at 18 the world's No. 2-ranked player, also captured a pair of singles victories and said after trouncing 36-year-old British captain Virginia Wade on Sunday: "I hope I'm in that great shape when I reach that age."

And No. 3 Andrea

four-day tournament the crowd got out of control at the 18th green, and Rogers had to push his way through.

Rogers won by four strokes over Bernhard Langer of Germany, a surprise runnerup. Raymond Floyd and Britain's Mark James were another three strokes behind in third place.

Rogers began the final round five strokes ahead of Langer and James, and eight strokes ahead of Floyd.

He stayed ahead all day but at one point Langer crept to within a stroke. This was after Rogers had bogeyed the fifth and double-bogeyed the 529-yard seventh.

Rogers shook off any threat by making birdies at the ninth and 10th, then kept steady with par golf all the way to the finish.

He won $50,000. Langer, the first German ever to make an impact on international golf, won a second prize of $35,000. Floyd and James each picked up $23,500.

Rogers was rated a 25-1 longshot by British bookies before the tournament, and at one stage considered not coming over.

In Little League Playoffs...

Rotan Eliminates Snyder, 8-6

ROTAN -- Rotan's All-Stars rallied from behind twice, then scored two runs in the top of the sixth to eliminate Snyder here Saturday in championship action of the area Little League Tournament, 8-6.

Snyder opened in strong fashion as Steven Mack, Michael Long and Mark Velasquez all rapped base hits and Casey Hale reached on an error in the first inning. The charge was good enough for three runs and earned Snyder the early lead in the ballgame.

Neither team scored in the second, but Rotan came up with four hits in the third to switch leadership of the contest temporarily. Stacky Tucker led off with a double and Freddie Perales singled. An error also put Jerry Carter aboard, and two outs later George Reyes and Rodney Greene followed with a single and a double respectively to make it 4-3.

Snyder answered the challenge in the bottom of the stanza. Long opened with a single and Hale drew a walk. Both later scored as Kyle Guerry and Albert Zamora walked and David Martinez singled, 5-4.

But Rotan pitcher Jeffrey Perales stymied the visitors in the fourth inn-

Barr Conquers Quad Cities Field

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (AP) - In this case, David Barr's conservative approach to golf playoffs was the right one.

"I wasn't going for the pins. I was shooting for the center of the greens. I didn't want to get too bold," said the 29-year-old Canadian, savoring his first American tour victory in four years.

Barr sank a 3-foot putt for par on the eighth sudden death hole to beat Woody Blackburn for the $200,000 Quad Cities Open crown.

Barr and Blackburn had matched pars for six ing, and relief hurler Jeff Branson allowed Snyder only one more run. Snyder did get a single from Mike Risenhoover and a walk from Hale in the fourth, but to no avail.

Likewise, Snyder reliever Zamora fanned the Rotan side in the fourth and notched two straight strikeouts in the fifth before plans went awry.

With two outs, Zamora walked Reyes, and next up Greene doubled through to centerfield. Donnie Gruber also singled, putting Rotan back on top 6-5 before Zamora buzzed three pitches past Ray Hargrove for the final out.

Snyder again got going in the fifth as Danny Gambol singled and Zamora walked. Mack was hit by a pitch and with the bags loaded and only one out recorded, Rotan coaches pulled Perales for Branson. Branson struck out Risenhoover for the second out and Long hit into a fielder's choice to retire the side.

Rotan added insurance in the top of the sixth when Tucker walked, Carter reached on an error and both scored on passed balls, 8-5.

In the bottom of the inning, Snyder suffered two quick outs before Cotton Merrett reached on a fielder's choice. Kenneth Pickering, Gambol and Zamora all walked to push in one run and load the bases, but Mack's long fly ball was nabbed by centerfielder Tucker to end the game.

Rotan 8: AB-29, H-9, R-4, BB-3, SO-10. Snyder 6: AB-29, H-7, R-4, BB-8, SO-8. WP- Perales, 4th inn. rel. by Branson, 1 1/2 inn., Hargrove catch (Rotan). LP- Zamora, 3 1/2 inn. in rel. of Guerry, 2 1/2 inn., Long catch (Snyder). DOW- Tucker, Greene (2) for Rotan; Long for Snyder.

Teenagers Host Trio On Tuesday At Moffett Field

Snyder Junior and Senior Teenage League teams will host Colorado City and Sweetwater at Moffett Field Tuesday to raise funds for playoff expenses.

The three-game agenda is to begin at 5 with the Junior Teenage League champion Oilers taking on Colorado City. Immediately following, Snyder's Senior League Black team will entertain Colorado City. A third game, pitting the Oilers and Sweetwater, will follow the second.

The Oilers will host the District Junior Teenage League playoffs beginning July 27. The state meet will be held in Killeen. The Oilers are the defending state champs.

Snyder Senior League team will compete in the Senior District Tournament, also beginning July 27, in Merkel. The senior state meet will be held in Ranger this year.

Negotiations Resume Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) - Baseball returned today to this capital city that it haunts like a summer ghost, to be talked about rather than played but with stakes as big as any ever contested by Walter Johnson or Harmon Killebrew.

Negotiations to end the major league players' strike over the issue of free-agent compensation were to resume at 2 p.m. EDT in the offices of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Today's session was to be the first since negotiations broke down last Thursday. The players' union that night proposed sending the case to binding arbitration, a plan the owners' negotiators promptly turned down.

The next day, Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan asked the two sides in the 39-day-old strike to shift the negotiations to Washington from New York, where they had been held in an atmosphere federal mediator Kenneth Moffett called a "goldfish bowl."

Donovan, who also met with the two sides in New York last Wednesday, said the talks here were "a last ditch" effort to end the strike and save the rest of the season. Through today, the walkout had canceled 462 games, or 22 percent of the 2,106-game campaign.

"The American people want baseball, and they want a World Series," Donovan said.

But negotiators for the players were not sure that a change in venue would bring a settlement.

"I don't believe in magic," said Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association. "However, at this point, we're certainly willing to try anything that has the slightest hope of resolving this problem."

Mark Belanger, the Baltimore Orioles' player representative who attended most of the New York negotiations, added to the pessimism.

"If we go to Washington and the same thing prevails there, there will not be any smiling," he said, adding: "I wouldn't be surprised if in 1981 there is no more baseball."

But Belanger, like Miller interviewed on NBC Radio's "Sports At Large" Saturday night, said the players had acceded to Donovan's request "because we want to make an agreement. We will do anything we can to get an agreement, short of throwing in the towel."
