MANSFIELD BOOK

JFK Got Warnings On Dallas

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK (AP) — President John F. Kennedy was trying to patch up what he considered a petty dispute between Texas politicians when he met his death in Dallas, William Manchester reports in his book "The Death of a President" — itself a subject of dispute.

The feud indirectly involved Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, Manchester asserts.

Describing Kennedy's feelings about the three-day tour of Texas in November, 1963, Manchester writes:

"The prospect was unappetizing and vexing to the chief executive. It appeared to him that Johnson ought to be able to resolve this petty dispute himself; the trip seemed to be an imposition."

Manchester also writes that five highly placed Democrats advised Kennedy — some in strongly worded warnings — not to go to Dallas on the tour. "The atmosphere in Dallas had become highly charged with inflammatory statements" against Kennedy, the book asserts.

'Dallas A Very Dangerous Place'

Manchester quotes one of the five, Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas as saying to Kennedy:

"Dallas is a very dangerous place. I wouldn't go there. Don't you go."

The others who urged Kennedy to bypass Dallas, the book says, were Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, House Whip Hale Boggs of Louisiana, Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and Texas National Committeeman Byron Skelton.

Look magazine is serializing "The Death of a President" and these reports appear in the first of four installments, totaling 60,000 words. The magazine is scheduled to reach news stands next Tuesday morning.

The first installment reports that an altercation of some kind flared between Kennedy and Johnson in Houston.

It took place in a hotel room adjoining Mrs. Kennedy's and she heard "raised voices," Manchester writes.

Johnson's Expression 'Furious'

"He, Johnson, did not define the nature of the discussion," the book says. "Precisely what was said is unknown . . . Johnson controlled his celebrated temper in his chief's presence, but in the words of one man on duty outside, 'He left that suite like a pistol.' " Another described Johnson's expression as "furious."

Mrs. Kennedy, the report of the episode continues, remarked that the vice president "sounded mad" and she asked her husband what the discussion had been about.

"That's just Lyndon," Manchester says Kennedy replied. "but he's in trouble."

In that period, November 1963, the book describes Johnson as a political "cipher." It says he had heard the "groundless but persistent" rumors that Kennedy might drop him from the ticket in the presidential election of 1964.

As evidence of Johnson's alleged unimportance in Washington, Manchester says that when the vice president wanted to use an airplane, he had to apply to Brig. Gen. Godfrey McHugh, Kennedy's Air Force aide. "And sometimes — mortifying to a man of his extreme sensitivity, the request was denied."

LBJ Complimented By Mansfield

In Washington Saturday, the White House declined any comment on the Look installment.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Johnson has "conducted himself with dignity and decorum" with respect to assertions made regarding the Texas tour and its aftermath.

"As time goes on, there will be a lot of stories, some true and some not, reflecting on that tragic period," Mansfield said. "I think we will have to leave it to history to form its own judgment . . . "

Highly conflicting versions have circulated about the events at Love Field, Dallas, after the assassination, Nov. 22, 1963, and on the flight back to Washington. They probably reflect the loyalties of the members of Kennedy's and Johnson's parties under great emotional stress.

Manchester's book shows that much of his information came from admirers of the assassinated president. It therefore is subject to their memories of the tragedy in Dallas and immediately before.

Three Sites Had Been Considered

The book brings to light a tragic fact — that Kennedy's motorcade in Dallas might never have passed the Texas Book Depository Building, where Lee Harvey Oswald had positioned himself.

Three sites originally were considered for the luncheon to be given in Kennedy's honor in Dallas, the Women's Building, Market Hall and the Trade Mart. Each presented problems of security for the Dallas police and the Secret Service.

Eventually, the Trade Mart was chosen. And the route followed by Kennedy's motorcade took him past the Book Depository Building, where Oswald worked. The motorcade route had been published.

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

Yes, Virginia, that was a sand storm Friday, and don't let the natives tell you that they come a lot worse. Our photographer, Frank Brandon, took a picture through the wall of sand, and the Settles Hotel was discernable as a shadowy figure. But by the time it went through the engraving and printing processes, the Settles disappeared. We should have had a foot note that "it's worse than we thought." Maybe there is some consolation in the origin of some of the soil, which must have come from the irrigated area around Lubbock, so maybe we got some pre-fertilized dirt. Luckily, there were no serious traffic pileups here—just too bad to be about.

Lamesa lost little time in chalking up its first traffic fatality of 1967. At 3 a.m. on New Year's Day Albert Sanchez, 37, had his car get out of control, hit a utility pole and was pinned beneath. He was dead when he reached a hospital. Two hours later, we were adding our first life in Howard County when Alfonso Martinez Gamboa was born here as the first baby of the New Year.

Bank deposits stood at $43,991,979 at the end of the year, a decline of $786,750 from the same time a year ago. There were two reasons. The principle one is that many producers held back until after Jan. 1 to sell their bumper cotton crop, because it doesn't become income until marketed. The other was that the big end of the school master plan bonds and HCJC construction bonds was paid out for buildings during the year.

Liberals Planning To Oust Powell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some influential House liberals will ask that Rep. Adam Clayton Powell be removed as a committee chairman Monday but that he be allowed to remain in Congress.

The attempt to strip Powell of the chairmanship of the Education and Labor Committee will be one of two attacks on the House's almost sacrosanct seniority system at the Democratic party caucus a day in advance of the opening of Congress.

RULES TOO

The liberals will try also to prevent Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., a conservative, from moving into the vacant chairmanship of the important House Rules Committee.

The precaucus strategy has been worked out by leaders of the Democratic Study Group, which, with a claimed membership of 145, represents a majority of the 248 Democratic House members.

In their effort to topple two chairmen, the liberals will be going against the wishes of Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., who regards the seniority system as a cornerstone of congressional organization. If it succeeds, the study group will have achieved a goal long sought by advocates of congressional reforms.

Although the study group has officially taken no stand on the Powell issue, a motion to take the important chairmanship away from him will be made by a leader of the group, Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz.

WANTS PERKINS

Udall said he will ask the Democratic Committee on Committees, which assigns members to committees and designates chairmen, to name Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., chairman of the committee now headed by Powell, a Negro Democrat from New York. Perkins now is second in seniority behind Powell, whose new ranking would be left to the Democratic Committee on Committees.

"I will then vote to seat Powell," Udall told newsmen, "on the grounds his constituents, knowing all the circumstances about him, elected him and would undoubtedly continue to elect him.

"Powell probably won't agree with me, but I think I'm doing him a favor. This is probably the only thing that could save his seat."

DENY SEAT

A move to deny Powell his seat at the opening of the 90th Congress on Tuesday will be made by Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif. It is the view of study group leaders that if the Democrats fail to discipline Powell Monday, the move to unseat him probably will succeed.

"And I feel this would be a dangerous thing to do in a democracy," said a study group spokesman. "People are entitled to a representative of their own choosing and the electorate in Powell's district is under no illusions about him.

"But Powell's constituents did not elect him as a committee chairman. That's done by the House, and his record as chairman is not one to justify the House continuing him in that capacity."

NOT SUFFICIENT

Proposals to tighten House control over committee travel and payroll expenses and the action of Powell's committee last session in reducing his powers are not sufficient, the spokesman said.

Powell is in trouble over a contempt of court sentence hanging over him in New York and because of his methods of running his committee. He asserts the whole effort against him is racially inspired.

Bloody Year Promised In Newest Phase

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. Marines struggled through waist-deep, vehicle-miring swamps Saturday in the opening phase of an American campaign in the Mekong River delta that could make this the bloodiest year of the Vietnamese war.

HIGH POPULATION

The heavily populated delta, with mangrove thickets and rice paddies laced by 25,000 nagivable miles of waterways, has been out of the martial mainstream because of the prospect that sharp action against indigenous Viet Cong bands would mean heavy civilian casualties. It's hard for even a native to distinguish guerrillas from peaceful pajama-clad peasants.

But the delta has been a heartland of the Communists for 20 years and now Americans are joining Vietnamese troops in an effort to crush guerrilla bands estimated to total 100,000 men. Vietnamese efforts over the years had led but to a stalemate negating hard-won gains farther north.

FEEDS CONG

The Viet Cong's extensive delta organization feeds large quantities of men, supplies and money to Red units in other parts of the country. The rice harvest is on now in the delta and Viet Cong tax agents are levying grain from the peasants in areas the Communists control.

Swamp mud and water initially proved a greater obstacle than the Viet Cong for the American Marines who, in company with Vietnamese marines, are making the first big American thrust into the delta. Eight vehicles had to be towed out.

LITTLE RESISTANCE

Enemy resistance to the 4,000-man task force, which stormed ashore by landing craft and helicopters on White Beach Friday from a flotilla of 12 U.S. Navy ships, was reported limited to scattered sniper fire. The operation, called Deckhouse Five, centers 55 miles south of Saigon.

From the air the delta looks like a picture postcard land. But Vietnamese troops regularly assigned there have found campaigning ugly business. It was with reluctance that U.S. military planners decided American units, with the fantastic firepower of heavy artillery and fighter-bombers, should move in to help.

TAG

Their fear was — and is — that an aggressive military stance among the seven million or so delta dwellers might label U.S. forces a colonialist army. That is a tag avoided so far because the Americans have been deployed where there were fewer people and more room to maneuver.

Experts figure a full infantry division, 15,000 or so men, is the minimum needed to really start carving through the stalemate. They estimate the initial cost of deployment of such a division and its supporting units at a billion dollars. The call for helicopters, light armored vehicles and river craft would be larger than normal in a region of firmer ground.

Las Vegas Motel Destroyed By Apparent Suicidal Blast

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A three-story motel was virtually destroyed Saturday by an apparently suicidal blast that killed six persons and injured eight.

The downtown area was rocked at 1:25 a.m. by an explosion police believe was touched off by someone firing a bullet into dynamite.

HOLLYWOOD COUPLE

Police said the blast centered in room 214 of the Orbit Inn, registered to a Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Paris of Hollywood, Calif. They were driving a car with Florida license plates.

Dist. Atty. George Franklin Jr. said a charred .25 caliber automatic pistol was found in the alley behind the motel close to a severed human hand. He said two rounds of ammunition of the same caliber were found in the Florida car.

Authorities said a wallet with identification cards issued to R. J. Paris — and containing an Arizona permit to carry explosives — were found in what remained of room 214. The wallet also contained a California driver's license, they said.

Franklin said it appeared someone had fired the gun into the dynamite taken to the motel room.

Detective Lt. Paul Gulas said however, that no suicide note had been found.

Police found wires in the back seat of the Florida car which they could not explain.

Franklin said this was an indication someone had planned a suicide "probably right in the middle of downtown," then decided to detonate the dynamite in the motel.

If true, this would be the most spectacular suicide yet in this famed gambling resort.

The 73-unit motel, virtually demolished by the blast, is four blocks from a cluster of downtown casinos and two miles from the lavish Las Vegas Strip of gambling resorts.

The dead were not identified immediately.

INJURED

Injured were Lewis Palmer, 60, and his wife Laura, 66, Preston, Idaho; Steve Merich, 70, and his wife Katie, 57, San Pedro, Calif.; James Mahon, 24, and his wife Bobbie, 22, Las Vegas; and Charles Pearce, 73, and his wife Essie, Bishop, Calif.

Palmer underwent surgery. The Pearces were treated for minor injuries and released.

Three bodies were found in one room, two in another and one in a third. Thirty rooms were occupied at the time and about 60 persons were in the motel.

Plane Crashes During Duster

WACO, Tex. (AP)— Investigators said Saturday that weather might have been a factor in the two-fatality crash Friday night of a light plane that tumbled into thick woods some 50 yards from an open pasture.

Dead in the crash were David Gillespie, 34, and Alton Jones, 41, both of Lafayette, La.

"We don't feel anything was wrong with the airplane," said Menzies Turner of the Dallas office of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA). Turner said the high winds and low visibility due to wind-borne dust might have caused the crash.

The investigation was to continue.

The crash occurred near Hallsburg, five miles east of Waco and some distance from the airport. The pilot talked to the tower at 6:41 p.m., saying he was seeking the airport and asking for instructions. Nothing more was heard from the plane. The pilot said nothing about plane trouble.

Another 50 yards and they would hve reached a pasture where landing would have been easy. Winds were strongly gusty at the time and light was very poor.

Bodies Found In Reservoir

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The bodies of a woman and five of eight children missing since Tuesday morning were recovered Saturday from a car which had plunged into the 30-foot depths of Hoover Reservoir just north of the city.

Search for the bodies of the other three children was suspended temporarily Saturday afternoon due to the depth of the water, low temperature and gusts of 40 m.p.h. winds.

The victims were listed by authorities as Mary Helen Rutherford, 41, of Delaware; her four children, Delores Ann, 18; Bertie Marie, 15; Steven Franklin, 12; Mary Jane, 5, and her two sets of twin nieces, Karen Sue and Sharon Lou, 20 months, and Lisa Ann and Teresa Lynn, 10 months.

The nieces were daughters of Mrs. Rutherford's brother-in-law, Leonard Rutherford of Charleston, W.Va., and had been visiting in Delaware.

Mrs. Rutherford and the children were last seen Tuesday morning when they left for Columbus, where she planned to buy shoes for the children.

The 1962 sedan was pulled to the bank of the reservoir at 12:30 p.m. Saturday. The windshield was broken.

Mrs. Rutherford's husband, Charles, reported them missing early Wednesday. But it was not until Thursday that engineers discovered the broken guardrail beside a country road about 30 feet east of a bridge over the reservoir.

They also noticed skid marks going down a steep rock bank and an oil slick on the ice. The investigation and search of the water followed.

The highway patrol, which began its investigation Friday night, also discovered some black paint marks along the guardrail.

Police theorized the car struck the north side of the bridge, slid across the road about 30 feet east of the bridge, went through the guardrail and traveled down the rocky bank into the reservoir.

Legislature Begins Search For Tax Millions Tuesday

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas' 60th Legislature begins a $100 million search for new taxes Tuesday at noon.

New arrivals predict it will take all of a 140-day regular session and maybe a 30-day special session.

STRUGGLES

In addition to the $100 million need for new revenue—as forecast by Gov. John Connally—there will be secondary struggles to:

Give public school teachers a $138 million pay raise;

And let Texas cities levy a $70 million a year local option sales tax to ease their many money tangles.

Preliminaries of the session begin at mid-morning Tuesday when senators meet in a closed-door caucus to iron out organizational details they will announce later in open session. Sen. William N. (Bill) Patman, 38, Ganado, who came to the Senate in 1961, is scheduled to be named president pro tempore, a mostly honorary position that lets him preside over the Senate when Lt. Gov. Preston Smith is absent.

FRESHMEN

Ten freshmen senators will be sworn in, including the first Negro Senator since Reconstruction, Miss Barbara Jordan, Houston, and the first Republican senator since 1927, Henry Grover, Houston, who served in the House as a Democrat before he switched parties.

The house will be called to order by Secretary of State John L. Hill and 58 new House members sworn in. The rookies include the first Negro House members for the 20th Century, Curtis Graves, Houston, and Joseph E. Lockridge, Dallas, both Democrats.

There will be two other Republican House members to join Rep. Frank Cahoon, Midland, who was the lonesome GOP minority throughout the 59th Legislature.

NO WOMEN

For the first time since 1937 there will be no women state representatives.

After the House swearing-in ceremonies there comes the formality of electing Speaker Ben Barnes to a second term. With no opposition in sight, only half a dozen laudatory nominating speeches stand between Barnes and the session's duties.

Both Houses are expected to hold business to brief routine sessions, with a long weekend recess, until the inauguration of Connally and Smith on Tuesday, Jan. 17. One of the pre-inauguration duties will be to canvass ballots from the Nov. 8 election to be sure the two top state officials really got re-elected.

Although there will be little legislative floor action, there will be plenty of developments around them to attract their interest.

Monday morning Connally meets with a delegation of Texas mayors in what has been billed as a last-minute bargaining session over a proposed local option city sales tax. Connally has held back on supporting the mayors' pleas up to now but Friday said he was "weakening" in his opposition. He indicated he may recommend the optional city levy when he tells a joint session of senators and representatives on Jan. 18 or 19 what his other tax plans are.

Connally has drawn up a budget calling for $911 million in state spending from general revenue in 1968-69, with only $847 million state income expected. He has predicted still other appropriations will have the legislature looking for more than $100 million in new money.

The Legislative Budget Board, a Senate-House budget study group, has recommended a budget that exactly fits the forecast $487 million income.

Crash Victim Is Identified

KENEDY, Tex. (AP) — The victim of a crash of two planes in the air near here Friday has been identified as Michael Stark, 24, a veteran of Vietnam.

A student in another AF9 Cougar jet in the collision parachuted. He is Ensign James Earl Esco, 23, of New Orleans.

Two Killed In Head-On Crash

ZAVALLA, Tex. (AP) — Two persons died and three others were gravely injured Saturday in a head-on car-truck collision on a rain and sleet-swept highway near Zavalla.

Dead in the US 69 collision were H. Hunt, 52, and his wife, Carrie Lee Hunt, 46, of the Brookeland community in South Texas.

Carl Wayne Hunt, 5, son of the dead couple; Mrs. Bessie Phone, 52, of Brookeland, and Caroline Griffin, 19, of Jasper.

The boy and the Jasper woman were at St. Elizabeth Hospital in Beaumont in critical condition. Mrs. Phone was in serious condition at a Jasper hospital.

WINGS

Young Pilot Has Three Ratings

One of the youngest pilots around, Don Loyd, has passed another milestone in his flying career. At 18, he may be the youngest instructor pilot in West Texas.

DON LOYD

Last week — Tuesday — he passed the flying test at Lubbock qualifying him to be an instructor pilot. Under the guidance of his dad, Howard Loyd, Don made his first solo flight July 25, 1964 at the age of 16. He completed his flight work and became a qualified private pilot at age 17 on Nov. 24, 1965.

In less than a year, he took his next step — passing the many tests necessary to become a commercial pilot. He cleared that hurdle on Oct. 7, 1966.

With some 235 flying hours in his log book, Don may have scored some new record in acquiring so many pilot proficiencies in so short a time, all before he is eligible to vote.

He works with his dad in operation of Big Spring Aircraft at Howard County Airport. A graduate of Big Spring High School, he is a student at Howard County Junior College and plans to continue his studies at Texas Tech, majoring in business administration.

He took all his flying tests in a Cherokee 140, one of the better known and most often seen airplanes at the airport.

* * *

Two students of Ken Bates reported flying progress last week. Jerry Jordan made his first solo flight and appropriately lost his shirt tail. Jimmy Simmons qualified for his private pilot's license in a check ride with Howard Loyd, FAA examiner here.

* * *

Jerry Jordan kept the Cherokee 140 of Big Spring Aircraft humming much of the time during the week, going up four times. The two flying clubs reported little activity, despite relatively good weather until the dust storm blew in Friday.

Big Spring Flying Club members up were Mollie Neefe, Hunka Stewart, Jack Little and Bob Brock. Howard County Flying Club members aloft were Everett Vaughn, Byron Orand, Keith Swim, and Sam Dennis.

* * *

Infant Beating Count Returned

HOUSTON (AP) — A Harris County Grand Jury has indicted Hershel Gene Joseph, 32, on a charge of murder in the beating death of the infant son of his girl friend.

Dist. Judge Dan Walton denied Joseph bond.

The indictment was returned Thursday, one day after Miss Ruth Miner, 20, testified at an examining trial that Joseph beat the child in a fit of rage Christmas Eve night.

An autopsy report showed three-month old Ricky Lee Joseph, who had been given Joseph's last name, died of a fractured skull.

SMOKEY THE AFGHAN GOING ALL THE WAY TO S. AFRICA

Smokey, an 8-months old pedigreed Afghan hound, bred by the Conway Kennels in Big Spring, is on his way by air to Johannesburg, South Africa.

It cost $200 to fly Smokey, who weighs 40 pounds, to the far off African city.

Smokey's new owner, E. J. Melhuinh, a South African industrialist, bought Smokey from Mrs. Martha Conway, his owner, by mail.

For some reason the South African wanted a black Afghan. He had trouble finding one. A friend of Mrs. Conway contacted her and asked if she had a black pup.

"I really didn't plan to sell Smokey," said Mrs. Conway. "However, I had to accept the offer made by the buyer after an exchange of letters and after I had sent him photographs of Smokey."

Smokey is one of 16 Afghans on the Conway place at Sand Springs. He has a pedigree comparable to one of New York's famous 400 and his mamma and papa are top Afghans in this part of the world.

Mrs. Conway said she understood Melhuinh intends to show Smokey in African dog shows. When Smokey is grown he will weigh in at around 60 pounds, Mrs. Conway said.

Capt. Walter Moore Cited For Attack By Helicopter

While serving as commander of an armed helicopter on a combat mission near Cu Chi, Vietnam, Army Capt. Walter Bruce Moore sighted Viet Cong activity near an American ground unit.

As he flew down to identify the activity, his aircraft received a heavy volley of Viet Cong fire. Locating the exact locations, he returned the fire, and returned for a direct frontal assault on the encampment.

Capt. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Moore, 109 Jefferson, Big Spring, earned the Distinguished Flying Cross for his courageous actions that July day, receiving it in Dec. 15 ceremonies at Phu Loi, Vietnam.

Although his copter was hit several times, the captain continued making passes over the position until his ammunition was gone. At this time the ammunition box on the craft caught fire from an enemy round. He calmly directed the crew as they extinguished the blaze.

At the same time, the copter began to vibrate violently. In spite of the danger, Capt. Moore made one more pass over the enemy dropping smoke markers for the other armed aircraft flying in. He then piloted his crippled helicopter to a safe area and landed.

Capt. Moore, assistant supply officer, assigned to headquarters detachment, 11th Aviation Battalion, entered on active duty in 1962 and arrived overseas in March 1966.

Capt. Moore is a 1958 graduate of Big Spring High School and received his commission through the Reserve Officers' Training Corps program at Texas Agricultural and Mechanical University in College Station, where he received a BS degree in 1962. His wife, Susan, lives at 1701 Yale.

He has received 16 awards of the Air Medal, two with "V" for heroism.

Scout Membership Gains For Year

The Lone Star district of the Buffalo Trail Council is one of the few in the area to complete the past year with a membership gain. It is setting its sights higher for 1967.

William S. Crooker Jr., chairman of organization and extension, reported at the district meeting Thursday evening that the district had 1,584 boys on the roll at the end of the year, an all - time high. This was an increase of 23 over 1965. This included 738 Cubs, an increase of 53; 664 Scouts, a decrease of two; and 182 Explorers (seniors), a decrease of 28.

During this year, said Don Lovelady, who will succeed Crooker, the goal is for 735 Cubs, 695 Scouts and 220 Explorers, a net increase of 66 boys. The committee hopes to add four new units in the process.

EXPOSITION PLANNED

Plans are taking shape rapidly for the Exposition of scouting skills and crafts on Feb. 11 as a highlight of Boy Scout Week, Frosty Robison, camping and activities chairman, said. Henry Stewart is general chairman of this special activity, and Bill Bradford is ticket sale and publicity chairman. The affair will be held on the mall at Highland Center. Cub, Scout and Explorer units will sell tickets at 50 cents to finance the exhibits and raise funds.

After a lapse of a decade, the traditional council Roundup will be revived here May 5, and this should attract 1,500 to 1,800 scouts, Robison said.

MORE ADVANCEMENT

Donald Van Meter, advancement chairman, said this phase of work would be intensified. One application already is on hand toward a goal of at least six Eagle Scouts in 1967. Dick Ream, finance chairman, said a sustaining membership effort would be undertaken in February to enlist aid of those with a plus interest in the scouting program. The usual district first aid contest will be set back to later in the year due to the Exposition, said Paul Soldan, health and safety chairman. His committee will work with the Exposition staff and also will support the Roundup and long-term summer camp plans. Twenty committeemen took part in the monthly meeting led by R. L. Tollett, district chairman.

Knott Community Meet Thursday

KNOTT (SC) — The next meeting of the Knott Community Center organization will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Plans will be made to complete the beautification program that is now under way.

Newly - elected officers are Claude Nichols, president; J. E. Peugh, vice president; Henry Sample, secretary; and Morris Barnes, treasurer. They will be installed at the meeting.

Bids Asked

Work in Howard, Borden, Scurry and Mitchell Counties is included in the 263.24 miles of seal coating to be covered in bids set for Jan. 27 at Austin, according to J. C. Roberts, district engineer for the Texas Highway Department.

A city grows up on the prairie.

"When I look off toward Signal Mountain or out to the prairies and remember how it used to be — the bald, open stretches reached for mile on mile. The herds of antelope, the wild burros, the coyotes, the rattlesnakes and the wolves were the principal part of the scenery. I remember how Big Spring used to be — a sleepy little cowtown, which sprawled up and down both sides of the railroad track, surrounded by a prairie wilderness with no cotton, grain, oil or anything in fact but cattle — and not enough of them unless it rained.

I look at it now — a modern city with skyscrapers, fine homes, stores, office buildings and even some trees we planted that are doing pretty well — it makes me feel good. It makes me feel like I had a real part in the building of America."*

Horoscope Forecast

SUNDAY

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Most everyone is in a highly aggravated frame of mind and much trouble can result if you add any fuel to the present flames of discord and you could have a personal atomic flareup unless you use real care and caution to sidestep anything of a contentious nature that arises. Stick close to the proven, formal.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Make sure to live the Golden Rule now and you will find it easy to carry through with constructive plans you have made. Do nothing to jeopardize fine reputation you have long built up. Be considerate of others.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A day for planning to get your obligations nicely discharged, so sit down early and do just that. Budget assets properly. Try not to resort to jealousy where some close tie is concerned.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your allies, family could be in some sort of a dither this day, so do not irritate but soothe. Find out what the trouble is and then help. Show that you are both intelligent and devoted.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Some time spent helping others instead of feeling imposed upon brings very worthwhile results. Later be sure you plan new week well so that you accomplish the maximum in the minimum of time. Be adroit in dealing with others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Concentrate today on how to make your entertainment bill much smaller in the days ahead. Be more altruistic in helping others a swell as thinking of own personal needs. Show that you are a prince among men.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If some uncomplimentary remark comes to your lips, swallow it and show gratitude for loyalty shown you instead. Be sure you do nothing to jeopardize present security you enjoy. Don't make things hard for yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have to look out for the other person when driving or there could be some serious accident today...and care in motion of all kind is also wise. Your spiritual needs are great. Go to right sources.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) There may be some evil influences around who make you feel you are not so well off as you actually are. Avoid them. Forget talking with some financial expert who is under some tension. Carry through on your own and all is well.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure to control your temper since you are apt to strike out with unkind remarks in your zeal to get matters straightened out everywhere around you. Quietly do your work. Be diplomatic in dealing with others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Instead of fuming and fussing over the unavoidable, get to work and all is righted quickly. You know exactly how to restore order now. Once you have the incentive, all goes very smoothly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Others are feeling quite upset, so don't add to their burdens by unburdening yourself or being unkind. Show that you have a charitable heart. Don't be put out by those who want to get ahead socially, though they have very little.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Do not irk those who have power over your affairs or you get in real trouble. You can improve your credit because of what comes up quite unexpectedly. Show that you are on the alert for good opportunities.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he, or she, will be one of those fascinating people who will seem to be able to gain from adversity, difficult conditions when others are feeling dejected all over the place, so be sure to early teach your precocious youngster to be patient and not criticize others so readily. Give spiritual training to overcome that tendency to lose temper so easily. Much dynamism here, success comes easily.

MONDAY

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Much angling by everyone is fine now because practical awareness of the best means by which to gain the good will of others is a natural this interesting day, but it is wisest to utilize today and tonight to wind up unfinished matters in a very down-to-earth fashion. Show your good common sense.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Ideal day to discuss with expert in business how to improve your own operations. Be sure also to handle those civic duties that are most important at this time. Show that you have ability and integrity.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Forget that humdrum work and get out to bigger and better things. There are wonderful opportunities all around you and much is possible for you now that was not ere this. Others are in a mood to give you a boost forward.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Before you carry through with agreements, be sure you understand just how to go about doing so to please all concerned. Higher-ups will then assist you to get ahead faster. Be very devoted to loved one in p.m.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Policy matters should be handled without further ado instead of conveniently forgetting about them. Your partners are pretty critical, so do nothing to irk them. Come to a true meeting of minds.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get right at that work that needs to be done conscientiously and show others your fine ability. Cooperate subtly and well with coworkers for best results. You can increase output appreciably.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Congenials are ripe for some real show of affection from you, so don't be so precise and standoffish. Show that you are a warm-hearted person. Tense problems soon vanish into thin air.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Concentrate on how you can truly please kin and make life more harmonious from now on. Be more practical also and increase security for the days ahead. Find some new outlet that can be quite lucrative.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are thinking very clearly and can now come up with right answers with alacrity re any puzzling problems at hand. Rise above limitations. Get daily routines working properly and show you are efficient.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Whether you find a way to increase income or decrease expenses, you can now plan for more security in the days ahead. Get in touch with that organizer who has fine ideas. Follow them and get good results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Concentrate more on the personal and the social today since you look and feel charming and can make big headway. Do what will gain you prestige among higher-ups. Make your mark in the social whirl.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Instead of assisting others so much, get busy bettering your own position in life and get ahead as you should. Be sure to plan something romantic for the evening. Relax and be at your best with loved one.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Getting out socially some is good since you can be introduced to some very worthwhile individuals. Let your friends know you are out in circulation again. Fine things can thus happen in the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN tomorrow ... he, or she will be one of those little persons who goes about with a sad face most of the time. Make sure the diet is right so that a smiling exterior can bring more popularity. A secure structure is important to your progeny so be certain you maintain just that and by your example, a real success can be achieved in this promising chart. Teach not to scrap so much either.

TONGUES CUT OUT

Chinese Workers Fight Red Guards

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China's Red Guards fought bloody battles in Nanking for three days last week against workers who poured into the eastern Chinese city to wipe out the Red Guard movement, dispatches from Peking reported Saturday. They said the city 530 miles southeast of Peking is in the grip of terror.

A Czechoslovak dispatch told of 60,000 captives on both sides in the fighting who underwent torture.

"Their fingers, noses and ears were chopped off, their tongues cut out," said a report of the news agency CTK to Prague.

Japan's Kyodo news service said Red Guard wall posters in Peking reported 54 persons killed, 900 wounded and 6,000 arrested in clashes Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

Reports of the clashes came amid accounts that a showdown was imminent between Communist party chairman Mao Tse-tung and a faction lead by President Liu Shao-chi. Liu is accused of being a "black commander of the bourgeois class."

Kyodo's correspondent in Peking quoted the Red Guard posters as saying the clash last Tuesday tied up rail service in Nanking for two days. CTK said Nanking's transport was in a state of paralysis and that telephone connections were cut off.

The Czechoslovak dispatch said workers and students poured into Nanking from neighboring Anhwei Province, Shanghai and other cities of Kiangsu Province, which includes Nanking. Shanghai is 170 miles southeast of Nanking.

The CTK dispatch placed the workers' force at half a million. It quoted Red Guard leaflets as saying the workers' aim was to liquidate the Red Guard organization.

Kyodo gave this account which it said was pieced together from the Red Guard posters in Peking:

—On Tuesday, 100,000 members of the "workers Red Corps" attacked the Nanking Red Guards organization. Fourteen persons were killed and 400 were seriously wounded. The workers' uprising on this day was led by Li Su-ying, described as a Kiangsu Province Communist party secretary.

—On Thursday and Friday, clashes broke out again and 40 persons were killed, 500 wounded and 6,000 arrested. It did not make clear who made the arrests. Those arrested were not identified. These uprisings were blamed by the Red Guards on Hsu Chi-chun, another provincial party secretary. The wall posters contended Deputy Premier Tao Chu, party propaganda chief, was behind the clashes.

Tao Chu's name appeared at the same time on a new Red Guard list of persons described as followers of President Liu. Others were the party Secretary-General Teng Hsiao-ping; Li Hsueh-feng, first secretary of the Peking City Communist party and the capital's mayor; Li Ching-chuan, former associate of Mao; and Ulanfu, minister of nationality affairs.

A dispatch of the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug from Peking said Mao and his chief lieutenant in the purge of anti-Maoists, Marshal Lin Piao, appear ready now to deliver their final blows against the Liu faction. The dispatch noted that Mao and Lin themselves had publicly assailed Liu and Teng.

Kremlin Is Taking New China View

MOSCOW (AP) — An important shift in Soviet policy has occurred. Signs indicate it means an increasingly serious view of possible danger from China.

Secrecy so far veils the new policy line. But things here and there — newspaper articles and words from Communist sources — show that China is preying on Kremlin minds as a potential threat.

And as China gets more attention, Vietnam gets less. Vietnam is a relatively static problem some distance away, China an explosively turbid problem along the Soviet Union's longest border.

The fact of an important shift in policy by the Soviet Communist party, which sets the government's policies, was published Saturday in the party newspaper Pravda in an indirect way.

Pravda reported that in recent days seven party leaders had briefed regional party officials across European Russia and into Siberia and a China border region of Soviet Central Asia. Earlier, two top party men, Leonid I. Brezhnev and Mikhail A. Suslov, gave briefings in Moscow and Leningrad.

The subject was the Dec. 12-13 secret meetings of the party's Central Committee and the speech Brezhnev made to it.

The speech was not made public after the meeting, meaning it was a hot item politically. The committee resolution following it, however, said the great power "anti-Soviet policy of Mao Tse-tung and his group has entered a new, dangerous stage." It said the meeting had found it necessary to expose the wayward course "of the present Chinese leaders, to step up the struggle in defense of Marxism-Leninism."

Details of the danger, of how to expose and to step up the struggle, were not given publicly. They are the underlying policy.

In fact, non-Communist analysts here say, a shift on China became apparent in a Pravda editorial Nov. 27. It was the strongest denunciation of Mao's group in years. It held out for the first time the suggestion that the Soviet Union was backing Mao's opponents in the Chinese power struggle.

About the same time, informed sources said, semipublic meetings were being held to spread the party word about tensions on the China border. The meetings were intended to alert the public to the existence of a possible future enemy.

On Dec. 29 the Defense Ministry newspaper Red Star revealed the other side of this coin. It published a long editorial saying the Chinese army was being taught that the Soviet Union was the enemy.

New Realtor President

Harold Talbot (center) Friday night was installed as new president of the Big Spring Board of Realtors, succeeding Jeff Brown (right). Conducting the installation was Ervin Luedtke (left), of Austin, executive vice president of the Texas Real Estate Association. The change-over in officers occurred at the local Board's annual dinner, attended by members and their wives and husbands, and held at the Cosden Country Club. Taking office with Talbot were Barbara Eisler, vice president; Mrs. Lee Hans, secretary; and Thelma Montgomery, treasurer.

Heart Drug Fatal To Cancer Victims

CHARLEROI, Belgium (AP) —A heart drug mistakenly administered to cancer sufferers in a Charleroi hospital has caused patient deaths, the hospital announced Saturday.

It did not say how many deaths there were but the Belgian news agency Belga said "the number of victims appears to be rather high" and the Brussels newspaper Derniere Heure quoted unofficial reports as saying there were 20 dead.

A communique of the Arthur Gailly Medicochirurgical Institute in Charleroi said the drug digitalin was mistakenly labeled by a Belgian pharmaceutical firm and doctors used it on their patients in the belief it was a drug containing hormone for treatment of prostate cancer. It normally is used as a tonic for cardiac patients.

Normal dosage of digitalin is one to three milligrams a day. The hormone preparation is administered at the rate of up to 10 milligrams three times a day.

Said the hospital communique: "doctors progressively noticed a coincidence between the condition of some patients and absorption of a drug supplied by a big Brussels pharmaceutical firm and delivered by the drug service of the hospital.

"These clinical presumptions led doctors to suspend administration of the drug. Since then, investigations established that the supplier had made a mistake with fatal consequences."

The firm was not identified. Informed sources said the drug was used from March 1965 to last April.

Two Children Burn To Death

HOUSTON (AP) — Two children burned to death at Houston Saturday when fire swept a two-story garage apartment.

They were Antonio Manuel Cavasos Jr., 3, and Rafael Cavasos, 4.

A neighbor, Hester Ragan, said he heard the mother, Consuela, screaming: "Save my children. Save my children."

She was on the roof of the first floor portion, and he used a ladder to rescue her.

The 32-year-old father received burns trying repeatedly to save the children. He did manage to save one, 5-month-old Hector.

The neighbor said he broke a window on the second floor to try to rescue the youngsters, but flames drove him back.

Determined Officer Stops Man Considered Robber

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP)— A determined young policeman forced a fleeing man identified as a bank robber to crash into his patrol car and thus abruptly ended one of South Texas' most spectacular manhunts.

When officers reached the fleeing man's car Friday, they found him shot through the head. Justice of the Peace Keith Bray ruled death by self-inflicted wounds after the justice consulted with pathologists.

Patrolman Melvin Green, 23 years old and nine months on the force, said he careened his car from side to side Friday "to let him know he wasn't going to pass me."

The fleeing car, which crashed through a barricade and past other shooting officers, struck young Green's automobile, knocking it 200 feet. The man's car rolled into the roadside ditch from the impact. Green was not injured.

When officers reached the wrecked car, the driver had a bullet hole through his right temple. The bullet made its exit through the top of his head.

He was identified as David Ruben Cutie, 23, of Dallas who had been released from prison after a 1962 robbery conviction and at the moment was sought as a parole violator.

Officials at the Westmont National Bank at Houston, robbed earlier in the day, identified the dead man from pictures as the robber.

The gunman robbing the bank fired a shot at a young woman teller and ordered Vice President G. D. Davidson to fill a paper sack with money.

Davidson complied. The teller, Miss Sarah Fitzhugh, dropped to the floor as the gunman fired, apparently at her.

Found on Cutie was $18,000 in a paper sack and bills in a money belt to bring the total to $26,654.05.

The gunman apparently escaped in a sports car, but Highway Patrolman Marx Howell of Robstown radioed police in Kingsville that he was chasing a suspect.

Kingsville officers set up a hasty roadblock on US 77 just north of Kingsville, but the driver smashed through the barricade while exchanging fire with officers.

Patrolman Joe Murphy tried to shoot the tires while Police Sgt. Paul D. Hulsey hit the radiator with shotgun pellets.

Proposes National Test For College Education Majors

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Board of Education took under advisement Saturday a proposal to require college education majors to take the national teacher examinations.

The proposal was unanimously recommended by the Texas Education Agency, which experimented with the test last year. TEA's Dr. Milo Kearney told the board 5,482 of 9,719 graduating students at "selected institutions" took the test and scored generally 10 per cent below the national average.

It wasn't a good sampling, however, Kearney said, because one school, for example, graduated 118 education majors and only one took the test.

TEA recommends that the test be required after September 1967, but that the colleges determine individually what they consider a passing grade and use that standard as an aid in selecting which students to recommend for a provisional teacher's certificate.

"Nobody passes or fails this test as far as we state education officials are concerned," Kearney said.

Texas students averaged 585 on the test compared with the national average score of 607. Of all students, 99.9 per cent scored 850 or below.

Texas students planning to become English teachers consistently scored above the national average, Kearney said. Other prospective teachers such as those majoring in agriculture or health and physical education consistently scored below the national average.

The board postponed a hearing on an appeal by a Lufkin teacher, Mrs. Lottie Belle Collins, who was not rehired for the 1966-67 school year after, she contends, she was promised she would be.

The case involves two alleged incidents in which Mrs. Collins armed herself with a hammer when under attack by three parents and the alleged assault by her husband on the principal of the school for not defending Mrs. Collins.

Poster Boy Named For MOD Drive

Michael Joseph Geiser was named last week the 1967 Poster Boy for the March of Dimes campaign this month in Howard and Glasscock counties, as the annual program to support the battle against birth defects was launched.

Wade Choate, chairman of the two-county chapter, said every effort would be made to bring the serious problem of birth defects to the attention of area residents. The campaign has a two-fold purpose, he reminded. First prospective mothers are encouraged to see a doctor regularly during pregnancy, in order to prevent as much as possible, the arrival of a child with birth defects. Second, the National Foundation is seeking ways to solve the results of birth defects.

The March of Dimes organization is the only national association that has solved its primary goal. This was done when a vaccine was found for polio. The organization then levied its sights against another crippler of young people.

To bring the problem into focus, the local chapter has acquired a color film which will be shown to service clubs and women's clubs during the month. Persons interested in having the film for a program are urged to call Clyde McMahon Jr.

Letters to residents of the county will be mailed Tuesday, after young people at the YMCA stuff them Monday evening. Students in the schools have been typing addresses on the envelopes during the last few weeks.

Michael Joseph Geiser and his mother, Mrs. Jerry Geiser

One of the highlights of the month will be the annual Mother's March for contributions. Mrs. Roy Watkins and Mrs. R. E. Ray, cochairmen of this effort, held an organizational meeting last week to bring the importance of this phase of the project to mothers throughout the city. It will be staged Jan. 17.

Police officers have agreed to distribute and collect the coin collectors in restaurants of the city. These will be put to work this week, according to Leo Hull, assistant chief.

Mrs. Frances Glenn, Howard County Treasurer, has agreed to organize the annual bowling tournament for the campaign. Dates will be announced.

Bruce Frazier is making plans to stage the popular "penny parade" for youngsters on local KWAB-TV, on a date to be announced.

An air-lift at Howard County Airport; Coffee Day at the local restaurants; teenage activities; and a ROAD-E-O are in the planning stages.

A two-day telethon, featuring local talent, is gathering impetus at KWAB-TV, according to Bob Galbraith, station manager. Dale Robertson, star of TV and films, will be the headliner, and Galbraith said local talent entries are calling in for auditions. This show will be held Jan. 21-22.

The 1967 poster boy is the son of Sgt. and Mrs. Jerry Geiser. The sergeant is stationed at Webb and has received orders to leave for Vietnam.

The boy was born with a double harelip and a bilateral cleft palate. His orthodontial work has included dental and plastic surgery, including three major operations and two skin grafts.

He has gone to San Antonio for the medical work and the local chapter has helped pay expenses. Without this help, Mrs. Geiser said, "we could not have made it." The poster boy will represent the chapter throughout the campaign this month.

Beef Production Short Course Due At Coahoma

COAHOMA (SC) — A beef production short course for adult farmers will be held Feb. 20-23 under the sponsorship of the Coahoma High School vocational agriculture department, according to W. A. Wilson, superintendent, and Gerald Oakes, teacher of vocational agriculture.

W. W. (Bill) Holtzapple, beef production specialist with the vocational agriculture division of the Texas Education Agency and the department of animal science at Texas A&M University, will be the instructor for the course.

Holtzapple taught vocational agriculture at Hearne, for one year, and then served as agriculture agent for nine years in San Augustine County. This is his third year with the specialist program.

BILL HOLTZAPPLE

The short course at Coahoma High is scheduled to begin Feb. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the vocational agriculture building. Other meetings in the series of four will be held Feb. 21, 22, 23.

During the dates the short course is in progress, Holtzapple will be available to assist cattlemen with individual problems and to provide on-the-farm instruction, according to Oakes.

Cattlemen interested in attending the course should write or call the teacher of vocational agriculture, Gerald Oakes. An entry fee of $2 will be charged.

Beef production short course certificates will be presented to each cattleman who attends all the training sessions.

Holtzapple said that the field of beef cattle production must take a close look at efficiency of production in the future. With land prices, feed and taxes rising, the producer is meeting more and more competition for the consumers' dollar at the meat counter. From the economic view of the beef cattle business, there is every indication that in comparing the producer of yesteryear and the producer of tomorrow, beef must be produced to sell cheaper in order to be a profit - making business.

The course will deal with methods of producing beef at a lower cost and the ways of producing the kind of beef that the homemaker wants to buy. It will deal with the meat - type steer, selecting bulls and replacement heifers, proper range use, and supplemental winter feeding.

Tax Help At IRS Office Gets Started

Residents needing help with their annual income tax reports will find expert advice and assistance available each Monday from now until April 17 at the Internal Revenue Service office, 1011 S. Gregg, according to Joe Gordon, agent-in-charge here.

Taxpayer Assistance Days begin tomorrow and the office will be open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The agents urge residents to use the telephone where practical—AM 7-2612. One call might save the taxpayer time in making a trip to the office. However, for involved problems, the taxpayer should make plans to visit the office.

In addition to tax information assistance, the agents can supply any income tax forms needed, as well as informational documents that are available on various income tax matters.

Opens Fourth New Factory

GAINESVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Gov. John Connally attended the opening of Gainesville's fourth new factory in a year Saturday and cited the addition of 34,000 new manufacturing jobs in the state last year.

The biggest increase, 23,000 jobs, came in factories making durable goods, especially the transportation-equipment industry, which grew by 15,000 new positions, Connally said.

Texas gained fewer new plants in 1966 than it did in 1965 —309 compared with 327—and had fewer plant expansions—437 compared with 485—"but these figures are abundantly offset by the employment factor," Connally said. "The industries and expansions we are getting are employing more people, and that's what we're after."

The state added only 25,400 new manufacturing jobs in 1965.

Yearend figures of the Texas Industrial Commission indicate a labor force of 4,080,000 employes, of whom 618,000 are in manufacturing, Connally said.

State Badly Needing Rain

By The Associated Press

Texas was dusty and cold Saturday.

Another cold night was forecast before a warming trend begins in North Texas Sunday.

The blustery new norther, the offshoot of a blizzard spreading deep snow in the Northern Plains, brought desperately dry Texas no moisture of consequence.

The whole state needed a general rain, if only to prevent massive dusters like the one which begrimed the whole state Friday, and to halt an epidemic of grass fires, becoming more numerous every day.

Rain also was needed critically for grain crops, some of which were dusted in and others which hadn't had a chance to make a good stand.

A few showers fell along the coast, and that was all.

Considerable dust still was suspended in the air over Texas, but winds had died down and no new dust was lofted. The winds Friday reached 72 miles an hour at Farwell and created one of the worst dust storms the state has had in a year or more.

West and North Central Texas were partly cloudy or clear. East and South Central Texas were mostly cloudy.

Lows in the upper Panhandle were expected to reach seven degrees at dawn Sunday.

Sleet and rain fell near Zavalla in Angelina County in far East Texas Saturday.

The slick highway caused by the moisture was blamed for the death of two persons and injuries to three others.

Critic Says Conservative Republican Can Beat LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas critic of President Johnson says a conservative Republican candidate could defeat Johnson if he runs for re-election in 1968.

The prediction was made at a board of policy meeting of the Liberty Lobby, right-wing political action organization, by J. Evetts Haley of Canyon, Tex. Haley is author of the book "A Texan Looks at Lyndon: A Study in Illegitimate Power," published during the 1964 campaign.

In a keynote address Friday night, Haley said that "America's stature abroad and economic and political stability at home are dangerously deteriorating."

He said the 1966 election outcome "was primarily a conservative reaction against the administration and its socialistic, suicidal policies.

"The grass roots and the boondocks generally are still restive if not in near rebellion," he added.

During the next two years, Haley said, the Johnson administration "faces a frustrating and terrifying dilemma: Continued, senseless war, obviously necessary to sustain our shaky economy . . . or a negotiated peace, which at its best will savor of surrender . . ."

He said the administration apparently will not take what he called "the one sensible and honorable recourse of quick and decisive victory by unleashing America's might to crush the enemy preparatory to bringing our boys home."

He predicted Johnson could be beaten in 1968 by a Republican ticket headed by California's new Gov. Ronald Reagan, with Ohio Gov. James Rhodes or perhaps Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina in the second spot.

The Wall Came Tumbling Down

A sheath wall of concrete masonry, forming the facade of the McAdams Building at 12th and Gregg Streets, collapsed Friday. It was not determined if the day's blustery winds were a contributing cause. The pile of debris shown here reveals the original wooden frame structure.

School Census Begins Monday

The Big Spring Independent School District is again conducting the annual school census in accordance with the regulations outlined by the Texas Education Agency.

The entire month of January has been set aside to conduct this census. Census blanks in Big Spring are sent home with elementary, junior high and senior high students. Not all students will receive a blank since all children with the same family surname will be listed on the same census blank.

Students whose birthdates fall between Sept. 1, 1949, and Sept. 2, 1961, will be included in the scholastic census.

Parents having no children in school but have a child with a birthdate prior to Sept. 1, 1961, are encouraged to sign a census blank at the school nearest to their residence. If unable to do this, they are asked to call AM 7-8245 for a census blank or come to the administration office at 100 E. 10th St.

The purpose of this census is to find out how many children of scholastic age live in this area, and how many will be six years of age on or before Sept. 1, 1967. This census also includes all children attending a private or a parochial school whose age is within the dates stated. This census does not register a child for school in the fall but is strictly a scholastic counting of students residing in the Big Spring area, said Noel Reed, census trustee for the Big Spring district.

AT WTCC TOURIST PARLEY

Marker-Sign Placement Announced By Shepperd

COLORADO CITY (SC) — More freedom may come about in the placing of special highway markers pointing toward lakes, other points of recreation and historical sites, it was announced here Friday afternoon as the WTCC first annual tourist development conference terminated.

John Ben Shepperd, WTCC president, attended the afternoon sessions and announced that the State Highway Department had agreed to a policy change which permits district engineers to have the authority in placing such signs. Previously, clearance had to come from Austin.

The regional chamber has as one objective the better marking of tourist-interest spots.

Some 250 persons attended the Friday conference here, and enthusiastic response indicated that it will be repeated in subsequent years.

Following a general session Friday morning, the afternoon was given over to divisional workshops. At one of these, Charles Woodburn of Amarillo, president of the Historical Survey Committee, stressed the importance of developing outstanding sites of local historical value to attract tourist interest.

Other workshop topics dealt with the planning, financing and distribution of brochures, the WTCC's "Operation Sparkle"; developing man-made and natural tourist attractions, and the general accommodation of tourists.

THE WEEK

Spring trustees let a contract for $410,000 of Runnels Junior High renovations. Possibly another $400,000 will be let during the year. Postmaster Frank Hardesty said he had been notified that General Services Administration may seek bids on the new Big Spring post office before March 30. If let, this would be nearly a million more.

* * *

Postal receipts reflected brisk business in December. The total volume was $58,881, which was $2,422 more than for December a year ago. During the month, the office handled 3,113,944 pieces of mail.

* * *

After one bumpy start, the Community House appeared off to an auspicious start last week. This intermediary step between the Big Spring State Hospital and a confident resumption of a place in society was opened with four residents in the former Alamo Motel at 900 W. 3rd. This may be increased 10 fold as other recovered individuals take up residence in the home and resume normal living under normal circumstances.

* * *

The Colorado River Municipal Water District experienced a record year in production during 1966. The district delivered 11.7 billion gallons of water. Big Spring was the only city to show an increase in demand, and this in the face of a summer with far more than usual moisture. That knocked about .6 of a cent a gallon off the actual rate to the city, but then it also increased the city's share of total fixed charges, so rates likely will go up some this year.

* * *

It's time to do something about your vote for 1967 if you haven't done so yet. All you have to do is make application to the tax assessor - collector's office—no fees to pay. Surely you can swap a few minutes' time this week for the right to vote all year.

* * *

The Air Training Command announced last week that it will seek to turn out 487 additional pilots. Randolph Field is being reactivated as an undergraduate training point, and existing stations, like Webb AFB, are stepping up the sizes of their classes. Already, our classes are running some 20-25 per cent larger than a year ago.

* * *

Location was staked for Craft Thompson No. 1 R. S. Satterwhite, a Clear Fork wildcat six miles northeast of Big Spring. This will be watched with more than usual interest because there is no production from this zone anywhere in the general area.

* * *

After several months of good record, Big Spring had a relatively expensive fire during the week when Stop and Shop Supermarket and the Circus Club were hit by flames. That got us off to a bad start for 1967. Nor was this the only fire, because flames burned off 400 acres of grassland on the Shroyer ranch. Not long before several hundred acres burned off at Vincent. This ought to be reminder enough to everyone never to throw a cigarette, cigar or match from a car during this dry season. Grass is like a tinder box.

* * *

Clarence E. Shive was honored by the Carpenters' Union Thursday when he received his 50-year pin. Only three or four others have achieved this distinction here in the chapter that is the second oldest in the state.

* * *

Both the Big Spring High School Steers, who have produced one pleasant surprise after another this season, and the Howard County Junior College Hawks came through with a pair of conference victories last week. Fans couldn't ask any better effort than that.

Airman Named In Car Thefts

Clyde Smith, a Webb AFB airman, has been charged with the theft of two cars here, said Leo Hull, assistant police chief, Saturday.

Bond of $1,500 was set for the airman by Jess Slaughter, justice of the peace, and he was moved to the county jail. Detective Jack Jones and Sherrill Farmer arrested the man following an anonymous tip.

The man was named in stealing one car from Pollard Chevrolet Co. in December and another from Charles Hastings in November. Both vehicles were taken to the Possum Kingdom Lake area and stripped, Hull said.

New Rules Would Arm The Members

AUSTIN (AP) — New House and joint legislative rules that advocates say would "strengthen the hand of the individual member" were recommended Saturday by a five-man House committee.

Speaker Ben Barnes said at a news conference that he approves the rule changes, which the House will vote on after the legislature convenes Tuesday.

Joint rules, which govern dealings between the House and Senate, require a majority vote in each chamber.

It is questionable whether the Senate, which traditionally considers itself the "upper house" will buy joint rules recommended by a House Interim Study Committee.

Barnes said he plans to discuss the rules proposal with Lt. Gov. Preston Smith, Senate presiding officer, Monday.

Among the proposed joint rules are rigid limitations on the power of the 10-man conference committees which usually hammer out the final form of major legislation after the two houses have passed differing versions.

In essence, the restriction would prohibit addition of matter not included in the version of a bill passed by one house or another. Exceptions to the rule could be made by resolutions jointly adopted by the two houses.

This is the most important proposal.

Gov. John Connally, Barnes and a number of legislators have complained publicly because conference committees, particularly those on appropriations, have deleted items approved by both houses and added material not included by either chamber.

Smith has said present rules, if enforced, would adequately deal with the problem.

The joint rule proposal also provides for joint House-Senate hearings on appropriations requests and a joint committee on administration to oversee printing.

Suggested conference committee rules lay down specific restrictions for such specialized legislation as appropriations, tax, reapportionment and codification bills.

Barnes also indicated he has no objection to opening hitherto secret conference committee meetings to the public. This is not in the rules proposal.

Suggested House rules, which Barnes intends to bring to a vote late next week, include revolutionary changes in committees and in scheduling bills for debate—both crucial items in deciding the fate of legislation.

The number of standing committees would be reduced from 43 to 25, effective at the end of the regular session. They would take on most of the postsession studies now assigned to special interim committees.

Once a member is appointed to one of the 25 committees, he would remain on it for the duration of his legislative career, unless he resigned. Barnes said he felt that in practice a member would quit a committee if the speaker desired. The speaker still would appoint committee chairmen and vice chairmen, and Barnes said he would not be bound by seniority or committee incumbency in picking them.

Alert Ambulance Appears To Have Troubles Settled

The Odessa office of the wage and hour division of the Department of Labor has given Alert Ambulance, Inc. permission to operate indefinitely under a dual payroll arrangement. Alert officials said Saturday this would permit them to continue emergency ambulance service in keeping with terms of the contracts with the city and county.

Previously, the department had challenged the Alert plan of permitting Bennett House employes to double in brass for emergency runs. This would have meant maintaining a separate force for the ambulances and Bruce Frazier, president of the company estimated that the cost per run would have approximated a prohibitive $75 each.

Under the arrangement now approved, Bennett House employes may also serve as ambulance personnel, but they go on a different scale payroll for the runs and are subject to overtime pay if this puts them beyond the 40-hour week. All Bennett House personnel who normally operate the ambulances will be put on a 44-hour week.

Since Dec. 1 when the service was started primarily to handle emergency calls, 76 runs have been made. Officials said that they believed life might have been at stake in getting three of these patients to medical aid immediately.

Work On Dam Is Progressing

Good progress is being made on construction of the dam across the Colorado River at Robert Lee.

O. H. Ivie, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, said that the contractor, Clement Bros., Inc. of Hickory, N. C., has completed core trench excavation at the river and will soon complete the backfill. Most of the excavation for the service spillway is complete. Some excavation of core trench is being pressed south of the river now.

Clement has sub-let the concrete spillway construction to Terry Construction Co. of Greenville, S. C., and forming is expected to begin around March 1 on this massive structure. The concrete work has been let by Terry to Ready-mix of Dallas, but Clement will furnish the aggregate.

The district has completed additional core drilling below the spillway and found nothing but good foundation for a depth of 100 feet, said Ivie. Other cores are being taken along the core trench length to verify previous data that the core trench will shut off any underflow from gravel or gyp laminations.

Ivie and S. W. Freese, Fort Worth, consulting engineer, have been conferring with Texas Highway Department officials concerning the rerouting of the Robert Lee - Sterling City and the Robert Lee - Water Valley highway around the spillway at the south end of the lake sites. They are hopeful that a decision can be reached soon.

Action Team Meeting Set

Annual meeting of the Howard County-Big Spring Community Action Team has been called for Thursday evening at 7:30 p.m. The session will be in the county courtroom.

The Rev. James A. Puckett, chairman, said the agenda will include election of officers. A nominating committee which will make a report consists of the Rev. Melvin Montgomery, Roy Watkins and Arnold Marshall.

The Community Action Team was set up last year as a local entity to sponsor whatever projects could be developed through the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity program.

Steps have been made toward application for a development grant (so that funds could be used to study community needs), but Puckett said OEO has advised that this application cannot be granted at this time.

McNair To Head Hardin-Simmons Journalism Dept.

ABILENE—Sherwyn McNair, news editor of the Abilene Reporter-News, an employe of the newspaper since November, 1948, has been named head of the journalism program at Hardin-Simmons University effective the spring semester.

Dr. Elwin L. Skiles, H-SU president, and Dr. Zane Mason, acting dean, announced McNair's selection. He succeeds the late Fred C. Kendrick who died November 29, 1966.

McNair, 43, will serve as acting head of the journalism department and head of student publications, the president said. He will serve as an advisor to the campus weekly, "The Brand," and the yearbook, "The Broncho" in addition to classroom teaching. McNair was named news editor of the Abilene Reporter-News Sept. 30, 1962. Prior to being named news editor he served as oil editor and in other news capacities.

Judge Orders Cross Removed

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — A 50-foot concrete cross in a city park must be removed, a judge has ruled.

The decision Thursday by William Fort, Lane County circuit judge, ended more than two years of litigation.

Opponents of the cross on Skinner's Butte, a hill overlooking the city, said it violated constitutional guarantees of separation of church and state.

Fort did not rule on the constitutional question but said the cross violates a city charter by being a religious symbol on public property.

Dr. Judah Bierman, chairman of the American Civil Liberties Union of Oregon, said the decision was a victory for freedom of religion.

Fort said the cross must be removed by the city and Eugene Sand and Gravel Co. within 10 days.

It was the sand and gravel president, John Alltucker, who erected the neon-lighted cross Nov. 28, 1964, setting off the bitter controversy.

INCREASES IN BUDGET

Court Will Fix County Salaries

Howard County commissioners court meets Monday to peg salaries of deputies and officials for the new year.

Insofar as is known, only the wage hikes and car allowance increases approved in the budget last fall will be put in effect. There may be special applications from officials for pay increases for deputies from some offices but the commissioners court is said to plan no increases beyond those already earmarked in the 1967 budget.

Increases which are slated will include hikes of $15 a month across the board for all county road and bridge crew department workers; $25 a month increase for male deputies on the staff of A. N. Standard, sheriff; a small raise for Mrs. Catherine Crawford, county home demonstration agent and a $10 a month raise for Mrs. Delia Jones, county agent's secretary.

A car allowance of $75 a month will be granted to Lee Porter, county judge. Porter has not been given a car allowance prior to this year. It was held by the commissioners in approving the budget that he should be allowed the same car expense money as a commissioner, since he performs much the same duties as the other members of the court.

The two Big Spring justices of the peace, Walter Grice and Jess Slaughter, will each be allowed a $25 a month increase in car allowance under the new budget. This will make their allowances $50 per month.

The commissioners, it may be noted, are not bound to go along with the budget. There have been instances in the past where changes were made in wages of officials and workers at these meetings which had not been scheduled in the budget.

Porter said he knew of no plans for any other wage increase proposals.

CAPTAIN JIM BURIED AGAIN

NIXON, Nev. (AP) — They had a funeral in this Indian village Thursday for Captain Jim. Then they buried him — again.

Captain Jim might have been hanged unjustly 75 years ago as a renegade, deputies think. But they can't be sure.

A letter found with his remains, printed on U.S. Indian Service stationary and dated May 16, 1891, reads, "The bearer of this Capt. Jim is one of our reservation and a worthy Indian. He is in search of some lost horses (signed) C. C. Wanners, U.S. Indian Agent."

He was originally laid to rest in a shallow grave south of Gerlach, Nev., and there he stayed until three hikers found him last year. Sheriff's deputies said one of his neck vertebrae was broken.

Speaker Ben Barnes To Be Y Banquet Speaker

Rep. Ben Barnes, speaker of the Texas House of Representatives and one of the more prominent younger figures on the state's governmental scene, will address the annual YMCA membership banquet in Big Spring.

Date for the affair is Saturday, Feb. 25, and it will be in the Student Union Building of Howard County Junior College beginning at 7 p.m.

Mrs. E. C. Bell is general chairman of arrangements, and has started preparations for the affair, expected to draw a large crowd. Announcement of ticket distribution will be made soon.

Barnes, 28, is from De Leon represents the 64th legislative district. He was named to the House Speakership when Byron Tunnell resigned, and has moved steadily into positions of importance and prestige in handling of the state's affairs.

Second Husband Lost In Viet War

GRAND FORKS, N.D. (AP) — Viet Cong in South Vietnam and vehicles in North Dakota twice have widowed a Grand Forks mother of five in less than three years.

Darlene Strandberg was notified by the Defense Department that her husband, Sgt. Irvin Strandberg, 29, died Tuesday after he was struck by shrapnel from an exploding mine.

Mrs. Strandberg lost her first husband, Ray Skari, 34, in a truck-car collision April 6, 1964, in a heavy snowfall near Grandin, N.D.

Plans Are Laid For Y Drive

The natives are being stirred up on the YMCA reservation in anticipation of its annual membership enlistment.

Most team captains (chiefs) have been chosen by the chiefs of the various Indian nations, said Frank (Great Wind) Hardesty, the heap big chief of the participating division. In turn, chiefs are securing four braves for their tribes.

Mrs. Edna Womack is heading up the sustaining membership division.

This is the way the wampum is shaping up for the big war path: Mrs. Jack (Little Fawn) Cathey has Mrs. E. C. Bell, Mrs. H. B. Duncan, Mrs. W. D. Broughton and Mrs. R. C. Bortner; Jack (Tall Pine) Price has Fern Cox, W. D. Broughton, Dr. Charles Warren and Pat Nelson; Ralph (Running Turtle) McLaughlin has Harold Davis, R. L. Heith, Lowell Jones and Wally Slate; J. W. (Two Sons) Dickens has Reeves Moren and is rounding out his other recruits.

The campaign will be staged the latter part of this month.

Mao's Third Wife Directing Purge?

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung's wife and his former political secretary seem to be directing the purge in Peking while Mao and his heir apparent, Defense Minister Lin Piao, spend the winter in Shanghai, Japanese correspondents in Peking said today.

Mao's third wife, a former movie actress who uses the name Chiang Ching, was an obscure figure until last summer when the Red Guards suddenly appeared on the scene.

She is now vice chairman of the cultural revolution purge committee headed by Chen Pota, Mao's former secretary.

Japanese newsmen reported that with Mrs. Mao and Chen at the helm, Peking appears to be in a state of shock and bloody clashes between Red Guards and workers are on the increase throughout the country.

The most recent, and unexpected target of the pair was vice premier and party propaganda chief Tao Chu who had shot to prominence as one of Mao's closest aides in the cultural revolution.

Tao Chu was widely considered the regime's No. 4 man, next in influence to Mao, Lin Piao, and Premier Chou En-lai. His downfall from Mao's inner group is now almost definite, Japanese reporters said.

Grimm Ignites North To 35-13 Victory

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) —Explosive Bob Grimm of Oregon State grabbed a 43-yard scoring pass and set up two other touchdowns with long runs Saturday, igniting the North to a 35-13 victory over the South in the Senior Bowl.

The victory was the first since 1960 for the North, which was helped by the power running by Nebraska's Harry Wilson and Idaho's Ray McDonald, and the passing of Virgil Carter of Brigham Young and Corey Colehour of North Dakota.

McDonald scored on a three-yard burst to open the scoring, and Wilson clinched the triumph in the fourth quarter with a 16-yard touchdown sprint.

Carter threw the 43-yard touchdown pass to Grimm in the second quarter which sent the North in front to stay, and hit on a 16-yard scoring pitch to Pete Tatman of Nebraska. Colehour tossed a 25-yard touchdown strike to Iowa State's Eppie Barney in the third period.

Grimm, however, was the offensive standout, catching a 33-yard pass to set up his touchdown catch, running 35 yards to move the North into scoring range before Barney's grab, and cracking a 22-yard burst to set up the fourth score.

The South, a five-point favorite, couldn't get untracked against the North's defenses led by burly All-America Bubba Smith of Michigan State, voted the game's most valuable player.

Terry Southall of Baylor kept the South in contention in the first half, hitting on a 32-yard touchdown pass to Alabama's Ray Perkins. Southall tossed 10 yards to Dick Reding of Northwest Louisiana State in the fourth quarter for the South's only other touchdown.

The South's last hope for a comeback died when Jim Flanagan of Pittsburgh intercepted a Southall pass on the North 15 late in the final quarter.

Hawks Moving To N. Orleans

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A tentative agreement to sell the National Basketball Association St. Louis Hawks to a New Orleans group for $3.8 million was reached Saturday afternoon.

The sale is subject to the approval of the NBA team's sole owner, Ben Kerner. Kerner announced Tuesday that the Hawks were for sale because he is suffering from an arthiritic condition.

Michael J. Aubuchon, Hawk attorney, said that if the New Orleans Professional Basketball Association buys the Hawks they plan to move the team to New Orleans.

Kerner said that unless an offer was made to match the New Orleans offer by 5 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 18, by a St. Louis group or an organization that would keep the team in St. Louis he would accept the New Orleans offer.

"I would like to keep the team in St. Louis," said Kerner. "That is why I have set the Wednesday deadline in an effort to allow a St. Louis group to meet the New Orleans price."

Levias Plans Stay At SMU

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jerry Levias, Southern Methodist's Negro star split end who was reported considering leaving school because of hate letters and telephone calls during the football season, said Saturday he expects to return to SMU next semester and continue his education there.

"In all probability I'll be back to register Jan. 17 or so," Levias was quoted by the Dallas Times Herald from his Beaumont, Tex., home, where he went following the Cotton Bowl game of Dec. 31.

Levias' parents had been considering having him transfer to another college because of the racial slurs.

"My parents are still talking about the possibility of another school, but if all of the calls and letters and things don't flare up again, then I imagine everything will be all right for me to come back to SMU," Levias said.

No Cause For Contention

A scrap seems to be going on here for the basketball but Larry Linder (54) of HCJC backed off to let a team-mate, Jack Hosley (50) have it. The action occurred during the Friday night thriller with Lubbock Christian College here, won by the resident Jayhawks. Roy Still (24) of LCC is immediately behind the play. No. 51 is Jack Thompson, HCJC. Story of game on 2-B. (Photo by Frank Brandon)

Wayland Wins Fem Tourney

Wayland College's Queen Bees of Plainview won the HCJC Women's Basketball tournament here Saturday night by defeating the host team in the finals, 53-50.

Linda Gaff, deadly at the free throw line, led the Bees in scoring with 27 points while Jodie Dodd paced HCJC with 16.

The Jayhawk Queens pulled to within a point of the Wayland team several times in the last few minutes but had to foul to get the ball, when the Bees went into a stall.

The defeat was only the second of the season for HCJC, which defeated Weatherford and West Texas State in that order to attain the finals. Wayland had measured HSU's Cowgirls in its semifinal contest.

Rice Turns Back Baylor Bruins

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Rice won its first Southwest Conference basketball game under new head coach Don Knodel, defeating Baylor 65-56 Saturday night in a game marred by 42 turnovers by both teams.

Baylor, losing its second conference game of the season, led only twice—11-9 and 21-20. The Owls led by 11 points at one point in the first half and were in front 40-31 at halftime.

Playing a slow, deliberate offense, Rice stretched its lead to 12 points twice midway of the second half. Baylor cut the lead to three points 57-54 with 1:48 remaining, but the Bears could get only one basket the remainder of the way as Rice put in eight points.

Bill Doty of Rice, who led the scoring with 20 points, could get only one basket in the second half. Jimmy Turner of Baylor, the conference's leading scorer with a 21 points per game average, scored only nine before fouling out in the second half.

Unitas, Colts Are Miami Favorites

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — With Johnny Unitas healthy, the Baltimore Colts are favored to beat the Philadelphia Eagles by a touchdown Sunday in the National Football League's Pro Playoff Bowl.

In good passing form in Miami workouts, the veteran Unitas appeared to have shaken off the effects of a sore shoulder incurred in a Nov. 13 game with Atlanta and rib bruises inflicted by Green Bay Dec. 10.

With Unitas as the top drawing card, the game which has broken attendance records four years in a row, could be a sell-out for the first time in the 72,000-seat Orange Bowl. It came close last year when 65,569 watched Baltimore beat Dallas 35-3.

The rapid growth of the game's popularity has pleasantly surprised the NFL and the co-sponsoring Orange Bowl Committee in view of the fact that it is played by second-place teams.

It is supposed to determine the third best team in the NFL, but doesn't necessarily do so. Philadelphia tied Cleveland for second in the eastern division and got the Miami trip only because Cleveland took it last.

The Colts and Eagles both finished with 9-5 records, but followed opposite routes during the season.

The comeback of the Eagles was perhaps the biggest surprise of the NFL season. Bombed in succession by St. Louis 41-10 and Dallas 56-7, they retaliated by winning their last four games and seven of the last nine.

By contrast, the Colts were in the thick of the Western Division battle early. They had won seven of nine and five straight when Unitas came up with his shoulder injury.

Below par the following week, Unitas was pulled in the first half as the Colts lost to Detroit. Gary Cuozzo finished the game, then started the next one against Los Angeles which the Colts also lost.

Baltimore's title hopes were dead when Unitas returned to lead them over the Chicago Bears.

Willie Richardson will open at flanker for the Colts in place of Jimmy Orr, sidelined with a broken collarbone.

The game, played for the benefit of the NFL player pension fund, has produced more than $600,000 for that purpose and will add close to $200,000 from this game. It will be televised by CBS with the kickoff at 1 p.m. (Big Spring time).

Frogs Beat Press And Texas, 96-82

FORT WORTH (AP) — Texas Christian ran through a Texas zone press in the late minutes Saturday to defeat the Longhorns 96-82, the most points the Frogs have ever scored in this series.

The Frogs, led by Wayne Kreis and Carey Sloan, scored 14 straight points in the first half to mount a 15-point margin, and held a 52-36 lead at halftime.

Texas switched from a man-for-man defense to a zone at the start of the second half and with 5:14 left, had whittled TCU's 16-point edge to just six.

A steal by junior college transfer John Ed White ignited the Frogs again and they had their largest lead of 19 points with 42 seconds left when Buster Brannon cleared his bench.

The victory was TCU's second straight in the Southwest Conference play. Texas is now 1-1.

Texas outshot TCU 47.5 to 44.3, but TCU had a 51-42 rebound edge with junior Mickey McCarty sweeping off 14 and sophomore James Cash getting 12.

Wayne Kreis, hitting 8 of 14 from the field and 7 of 8 free throws, led TCU as six Frogs finished in double figures. Noel Stout also had 23 points, missing only two of eight field goals and having a perfect 11 of 11 charity show.

Matson To Enter Meet At Dallas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — World shot put champion Randy Matson of Texas A&M will return to the February Dallas Indoor Track Meet Feb. 11 after a year's absence.

Towers Collapse At Tech Stadium

LUBBOCK — Three light towers at Texas Tech's Jones Stadium crashed on six cars in a student parking lot in a wind storm Friday morning and the damage may run as high as $100,000.

The towers, each 159 feet tall, toppled under pressure from the wind, which officially gusted at 65 miles per hour.

College officials said the towers were built to withstand winds up to 100 MPH.

Porkers Roar Past Raiders

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) —David Self scored 10 points in the final 10 minutes Saturday and led Arkansas to a 70-65 Southwest Conference basketball victory over Texas Tech.

The Red Raiders had led most of the way until Arkansas erased a five-point halftime deficit midway through the final half.

Tommy Rowland put the Razorbacks ahead to stay 49-48 on two free throws with 10:55 remaining.

Arkansas built a 63-59 lead with 3:23 remaining but Tech rallied to strip that lead to four points before Self's two layups in the final minute clinched the game.

Rowland had 20 points and self 19 for Arkansas. Billy Tapp led Tech with eight.

The victory left Arkansas at 3-8 over-all and 1-1 in the SWC. Tech is 1-10 for the year and 0-2 in the league.

Ponies Decision Aggie Quintet

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Southern Methodist had five players in double figures Saturday night in beating Texas A&M 80-67 for its second straight victory in the Southwest Conference basketball race.

Denny Homan led the charge with 20 points and was backed by 15 each from Bill Voight and Charley Beasley.

SMU once held an 18-point lead but the Aggies rallied in the last half to cut the margin but not to an alarming extent.

Ronnie Peret led the Aggies with 14.

It was the first loss for the Aggies and left Southern Methodist and Texas Christian tied for the conference lead with 2-0 records each.

Hawks Win, 74-60, Over Chapparals

By TOMMY HART

Lubbock Christian brought coals to Newcastle Friday night and came close to pulling off the "sale" of the year.

Host HCJC defeated the Chapparals, 74-60, but not before the invaders had forced the Hawks into changing offenses a couple of times and firming up the chinks in their defensive armor.

LCC came to play and several times in the first half managed to take the lead. Shortly before the half ended, the Hawks built a five - point advantage and made it stand up the rest of the way.

Three of the Chapparals were banished on fouls. Otherwise, the outcome might have been much closer. LCC simply seemed a little more prepared to play basketball than did HC.

Lubbock's biggest advantage was 15-12, achieved with about eight minutes to play in the first half.

The Big Springers, for a while, could not make the first free toss on a one-and-one situation, missing five in a row after the second half began.

HCJC's biggest margin was 49-33, achieved with 11 minutes to play in the game.

LCC pulled to within nine points of a deadlock, at 62-53, with 2:42 to go but Marvin Levels joined Roy Still in the penalty box at that time and the Chapparals' chances to climb back into contention went out the window.

Diminutive James Meeks was deadly from outside for the visitors. He wound up with 21 points and hit most of them from 25 feet or more away.

Bill Sinches never lost his cool during the brannigan, although LCC resorted to a full-court press much of the last half, and it was a good thing for HCJC he kept a strong hand in the game.

Sinches led the Hawks in scoring with 22 points but, more important still, kept the locals from falling apart. He's an expert at maintaining possession of the ball, even when surrounded by the opposition.

The locals had three other players in double figures. Jack Hosley settled for 19 while Leon Smith (who didn't get a point the first half) and Lee Leonard each had ten.

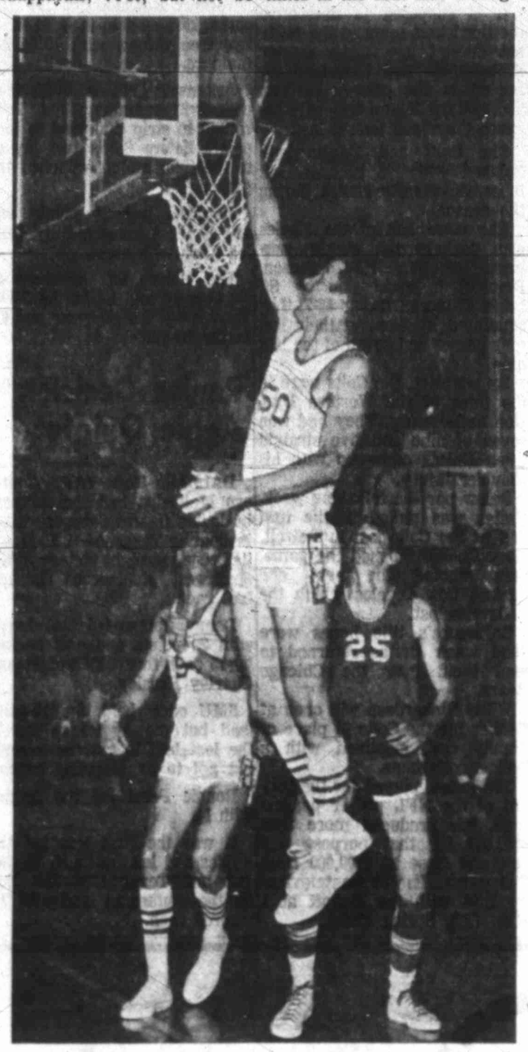

Jerry Johnson zeroed in for 12 of LCC's points while Still counted ten before he departed.

The win was the 12th in 17 starts for HCJC and their third without a defeat within the Western Conference. Lubbock is 5-11 overall and 0-2 within the league.

HC won't see action again in the league until Jan. 27, at which time the locals will be at home to Odessa. The Hawks venture to Dallas Tuesday to tangle with powerful Dallas Baptist. They play host to Cameron College of Oklahoma in their next home game Jan. 21.

One Sweeny Boy Named All-State

By The Associated Press

Sweeny's state Class AA football champions apparently were a team of unsung heroes.

The 1966 schoolboy champions landed only one player, end Elmo Wright, on the all-state Class AA first team named Friday by the Texas Sports Writers Association. They had two on the second team and one on the third unit.

Granbury, beaten 29-7 by Sweeny in the title game, had three first-team selections and Iowa Park was accorded two, including the two top vote getters in the balloting.

End Harry Price received 207 points and guard Mickey Patterson had 187. Wright was third with 176 points.

The writers picked quarterback Jim Tidwell, halfback James Hodges and tackle Harold Ames from the Granbury team.

Only one junior, fullback Mark Hatley of Phillips, made the first team. The others were seniors.

Halfback Bucky Allshouse of Randolph Field rounded out the first team backfield. The other linemen were center John Nelson of Round Rock, guard Jimmy Sartain of Rusk and tackle Kenneth Davis of Plano.

Fickle Fate Frowned On Gentleman John

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Baseball played an unkind trick on Johnny Keane — permitting him to achieve a 30-year dream as a successful major league manager and then kicking him into discard — but close friends say he never once let his bitterness show.

"He was a gentleman to the end," one associate said Saturday. "He had every right to be hurt and bitter. If he was, he kept it to himself, even around those nearest him. He never complained."

HEART PLAYED OUT

Keane died unexpectedly of a massive heart attack at his home here Friday night, thus ending one of baseball's most unusual and tragic careers.

The mild, soft-spoken leader, who never played a minute of major league baseball, led the St. Louis Cardinals to the National League pennant and a 4-3 World Series victory over the New York Yankees in 1964.

Manager of the Year, hailed and honored on every side, he was on top of the world.

In a sensational turnabout, he quit the Cardinals and became manager of the Yankees in 1965, succeeding the ousted Yogi Berra. Eighteen months later he was fired — his Yankees hopelessly mired in 10th place in the American League.

"It is their right to make a change when they see fit," Keane commented of the Yankee action later. "Things like this happen in baseball. You do your best, and that's all you can do."

Keane was 55. He had spent 30 years in the Cardinal chain with one driving aim — to be a manager. When death came, he had fallen back to the obscure position of special scout for the Los Angeles Angels.

MAN OF SKILL

Baseball paid tribute to him Saturday as a manager of skill and integrity and a gentleman of the highest personal dignity.

One of the most moving accolades came from Michael Burke, the new Yankees president and an executive of the Columbia Broadcasting System which dictated Keane's ouster.

"Johnny won everybody's respect not only for his professional abilities but because his own self-respect and quiet sense of personal dignity was never compromised," Burke said. "It is good to remember that he did achieve the ultimate in baseball success with St. Louis in 1964. And equally regrettable that his fortunes with the Yankees were less happy for many reasons beyond his control."

Bob Fishel, director of Yankee publicity, called him a "marvelous human being," and Bing Devine, who as general manager of the Cardinals was responsible for making Keane a manager, said, "Johnny was like one of the family."

Bill DeWitt, former owner of the Cincinnati Reds who had long been associated with Keene in the Cardinal organization, commented: "He was a real gentleman and a real asset to any organization."

National League President Warren Giles said: "I knew Johnny for a long time both as a player and as a manager and I had great respect for him as both — and also as a gentleman."

Keane was a lean, wiry man of 5 feet 10½ and 165 pounds, renowned as an astute organizer. He was known for his impeccable manners and graciousness and rarely used strong language in the dugouts. Players said, however, he could be tough when the situation warranted.

He lacked the color of Stengel, the militancy of Ralph Houk and the warmth of Berra but he was always respected as a fine judge of talent and a smart tactician.

"He's a dad-blamed good manager," Branch Rickey once said of him.

POOR HANDLER

Critics contended that Keane's downfall at New York was the result of failure to handle such super stars as Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris and Whitey Ford.

There were rumors of feuds between the quiet manager and his high-salaried aces, but they were vigorously denied on both sides.

Keane resented the suggestion that he was too soft.

"I can be tough," he once said. "I don't mind the players having an occasional beer or a cocktail before dinner. But if they start to go overboard, the situation will be different."

Keane, born nov. 3, 1911 in St. Louis, considered a career as a Catholic priest but instead broke into baseball as a shortstop with Globe of the Arizona League in 1929.

He moved to Houston in 1935 and appeared headed for the majors when he was struck by a pitched ball. He lay in a coma near death for six weeks. He made an attempt to come back but never successfully. Then he turned to managing.

He managed Albany, Cardinal farm club in the Georgia-Florida League in 1938, returned to Houston as manager in 1946 and spent periods at Rochester, Minn., Columbus, Ohio, and Omaha, Neb., in the Cardinal organization.

Ex-Baseballer Golf Champ

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Former baseball pitcher Vic Lombardi shot a 73 Saturday and won the seventh annual National Lefthanded Open Golf championship with a 293 total.

Lombardi, of Visalia, Calif., had four birdies in edging defending champion Ross Collins of Dallas, Tex., and Thorn Wood of Asheboro, N. C. Each finished at 295.

Collins had a 71 on the final round and for a while looked as if he might successfully defend his title. But it was a nightmare for Wood, the leader going into the round, who ballooned to 77.

Fourth was Alvin Odom, Galveston, Tex., at 296. Bill Flynn of Danvers, Mass., was fifth at 297.

Lombardi once played for the Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League.

Tar Heels Surge By Blue Devils

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Larry Miller's driving layup with five seconds to go broke a tie and gave the third-ranked North Carolina basketball team a 59-56 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over Duke Saturday afternoon.

Duke, which had trailed by 10 points with just over six minutes to play, called time out after Miller's basket but was charged with a technical foul because it already had reached the timeout limit.

Bob Lewis converted the foul to seal the Blue Devils' fate, and North Carolina retained possession of the ball the remaining three seconds.

The victory left once-beaten North Carolina atop the conference with a 3-0 record.

Packers Given 13-Point Edge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Next week bring's the biggest confrontation in the history of professional football, the clash between the champions of the National and American Leagues in the Super Bowl next Sunday.

One-half of the prestige-bathed rivalry, the Kansas City Chiefs, are on the scene. They arrived in midweek and went into secret — super secret, of course — practice at nearby Long Beach.

The picture will be completed with the arrival Sunday of the Green Bay Packers, the reigning kings of the NFL. They'll go into the final week of drills on the campus of the University of California at Santa Barbara, 120 miles to the north.

Sunday's super showdown in Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum will get under way at 3 p.m. CST. Both CBS and NBC networks will televise the game nationally.

The Packers, who have won four championship playoffs in the NFL since Vince Lombardi took charge as head coach, are favored.

Las Vegas' legal gambling sources quote Green Bay by 13 points.

Sunny weather in the 60s has been the case since Kansas City flew in from Missouri. The same was predicted for Green Bay's arrival.

Los Angeles generally has ideal weather in January. But it is not guaranteed.

Speculation at this relatively early stage continues on whether the game will be a sellout, with 93,000 jammed into the stadium.

Andrews Succeeds

ANDREWS—Andrews won its third District 3-AAA basketball game by kayoing Kermit, 76-62, here Friday night.

Perkins Assumes Santa Fe Post

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP) — Dallas Cowboys fullback Don Perkins will become director of the New Mexico Department of Courtesy and Information, Gov. David F. Cargo announced Friday.

Cargo also said he plans to use Perkins as a speaker and representative of the state in areas of possible tourist and industrial promotion and to attract Olympics training teams to New Mexico.

New Mexico's altitude is similar to that of 7,000-foot Mexico City, where the 1968 Olympics will be held.

Perkins, a former University of New Mexico football player, has said he probably will retire from the National Football League Cowboys at the end of this season. He is to play in the Pro Bowl game at Los Angeles Jan. 22.

Perkins' salary will be $950 a month.

Jimmy Jasper Is Ordered To Report To Military

Jimmy Jasper, star sprinter for the Howard County Junior College track and field team, has been ordered to report for a military physical examination Jan. 30.

Jasper, a sophomore from Dallas, had been expecting such a summons but held out hope that he would be able to complete his track eligibility with the local school.

There is a possibility the Dallas star will get to run in an indoor meet at Lubbock next Saturday.

Coach L. L. (Red) Lewis of HCJC had entered Jasper, William Walker, Robert Lindsey and Jim Fletcher in the Lubbock meet.

Jasper was being heavily counted upon to score for the Hawks in all meets this spring and perhaps lead the locals back to the National Juco championship.

The outlook isn't all bad for Lewis and the Jayhawks. The coach revealed he had received a phone call from Linwood Wright, a sprinter in school here last year, indicating that he would re-enroll in school at midterm.

Wright, who has done the 100 in 9.5, has been helping his father in New Jersey during the fall term.

Biggest Road Show In Sports Opens

By WILL GRIMSLEY
By The Associated Press

Sport's biggest road show—the pro golf tour—opens another season in San Diego, Calif., next week with a record $4.5 on the line for Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Bill Casper and their fellow followers of the sun.

The kickoff tournament is the San Diego Open at the Stardust Country Club Jan. 12-15—the first of between 40 and 45 to be played during the year. The purse is $60,000.

Golf has the longest competitive run of major sports, going the 12-month scale from January through December, and many of the leading players contend it is much too demanding.

"You can't play 12 months and maintain an edge," says Nicklaus, the Masters and British Open champion. "I have set a schedule of 27 tournaments—I'll probably play less."

"The season is too long," adds Palmer. "We should confine ourselves to about 30 top tournaments on good courses." Al Geiberger, the PGA champion, says, "I think we should have at least two months' break."

But the purses are so big—escalating to a point that $100,000 tournaments are normal and $200,000 is the new measure of prestige—that few of the players are willing to prune the schedule.

The cry among the have-nots—as contrasted to such golfing capitalists as Palmer, Nicklaus and Casper—is, "Let's have as many tournaments as possible—and give everybody a break."

The new season opens with questions on everybody's lips:

Can Palmer, who blew a seven-stroke lead in the last nine holes to lose the 1965 Open championship, storm back to win another major crown? His last was the Masters in 1964.

Will television, with increasing monies, move into a more dominant role and dictate the sport's policies as in baseball and pro football?

Can Casper, with new confidence and a relaxed diet, successfully defend his position as pro golfer of the year?

Twenty-four of the tournaments on the schedule have purses of $100,000 and more. The Canadian open at Montreal, starting June 29, has doubled its prize money to $200,000. The new Westchester Classic in Harrsion, N.Y., Aug. 24-27 is offering the biggest purse even for a regular 72-hole event —$250,000. The Carling World in Toronto again is a $200,000 tournament and the PGA team matches at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., will have prize money of $275,000.

The San Diego Open will be followed by the Bing Crosby at Pebble Beach Jan. 19-22 and the Los Angeles Open Jan. 26-29.

Highlighting the year will be the Masters April 6-9, with a purse of at least $152,880; the U. S. Open at Springfield, N.J., June 15-18, with a base of $150,000, and the PGA at Denver, offering at least $150,000.

Casper was not only Open winner last year but also the leading money winner, breaking the Palmer-Nicklaus stranglehold. Palmer, greatest money winner of all time, rallied to lead unofficial earnings.

Keane Dies

Baseball's Johnny Keane, 55, died Friday night in his Houston home of a massive coronary occlusion. The former manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Yankees was under treatment for heart trouble and high blood pressure but had not suffered any previous heart attacks prior to the one which caused his death, his doctor reported. LEVELLAND — South Plains opened defense of its Western Conference basketball title by defeating Frank Phillips College of Borger here Thursday night, 111-79. Over-all, South Plains is 6-6 this season.

Frank Phillips has yet to win in 11 starts this season and is 0-1 in league competition.

Sands Tilts Are Victim Of Storm

ACKERLY — The Sands-Loop basketball games scheduled here Friday night were indefinitely postponed due to the sandstorm that raged earlier in the day.

The Sands team next see action Tuesday night in Klondike. The Sands-Loop games will probably be made up at the end of the season.

Griese Leads North To Win

HONOLULU (AP) — Two touchdown bombs from Bob Griese of Purdue to Dave Williams of Washington in less than a minute of the fourth quarter provided the margin in a 28-27 victory for the North over the South Friday night in the annual Hula Bowl game.

With his team trailing 21-16, Griese hit Williams for a 43-yard touchdown. Fifty-five seconds later, the same combination clicked for a 40-yard touchdown.

Williams was named outstanding lineman of the game.

Elusive Charlie Brown of Missouri who ran for 111 yards, making two touchdowns for the South, was named the outstanding back, even in a losing cause.

Fifty of the country's outstanding college players were on hand for the game, played before a capacity 23,500 crowd and at least a dozen professional coaches and scouts.

The first half was lackadaisical, but the two teams got into the spirit of the thing in the second half and hit for keeps.

Brown provided a running game for the South, but the North team had little ground gained except for a 79-yard burst around left end by Clint Jones of Michigan State for the first touchdown of the game.

Otherwise it was all Griese's passing. He hit for 14 of 21 and 279 yards, and also kicked a field goal.

Two Veterans Are Honored By Writers

By The Associated Press

Two men who devoted more than 40 years to coaching were given the distinguished service award of the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Jess Neely, who retired as coach of Rice, and Odus Mitchell, who stepped down as coach of North Texas State, were accorded these honors under a special award created only this year.

The award will not necessarily be an annual affair but will be presented when there is a worthy recipient.

The sports writers found two very worthy recipients to get things started off.

Neely coached for 40 years, won 206 games and sent teams into a total of 400 games. His influence on collegiate football continues as he becomes athletic director of Vanderbilt University where he started in the game.

Mitchell coached 42 years, during which he won 287 games. His last season was one of his best—8-2.

Neely and Mitchell were not selected solely on the basis of victories or longevity but for their contribution to the game of football.

The Texas Sports Writers Association accorded them unanimous support for the distinguished service award—one of the highest of all.

HC-Exes Aid Jacket Cause

BROWNWOOD—Two former Howard County College basketballers have helped establish the Howard Payne College Yellow Jackets as the team to beat again in the Lone Star Conference.

They are Eddie Nelson, whose hometown is Big Spring, and Tom Carter, who hails from Hobbs, N. M.

Carter, perhaps the most underrated player on coach Glen Whitis' team, is averaging slightly better than 14 points per tilt in 11 contests, while the 6-2 Nelson has about the same average in seven games. Carter, 6-3, has scored 156 points, and Nelson has 102.

The Jackets rolled through their pre-conference slate with nine victories in 11 outings.

As a team, the Jackets are shooting at better than .500 from the field.

Last year the Jackets won the conference with ease, posting a 12-2 standard. And, all starters return from that outfit which also won the District IV NAIA crown. Other starters are Dan Smith, Dan Faubion and Mike Gibbs.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Budding Feud Among Coaches

By TOMMY HART

Only one other head coach in the Southwest Conference (Bo Hagen of Rice) looked in on the SMU-Georgia Cotton Bowl game at Dallas recently . . . One of those missing was Darrell Royal of the University of Texas, who has no great affection for coach Hayden Fry of SMU . . . The story is that Royal was pained no end by some of the reckless charges Fry made after the Mustangs were put on probation for a while and when the story of threats made to SMU's Negro star, Jerry Levias, was bloomed all out of proportion, that proved to be added ammo in the budding feud . . . At any rate, Royal and Fry are not members of the Mutual Admiration Society . . . First draft choice of the football pros may be a San Diego State quarterback named Don Horn rather than Steve Spurrier of Florida, California writers would have you to believe . . . However, it is believed the New York Giants have an agreement with other NFL teams they will get first chance at Spurrier . . . The next head football coach selected here will be the 11th basketball mentor Don McDonald has worked under during his nine years of coaching . . . Incidentally, when McDonald joined the Canyon High School varsity football team as a quarterback, he weighed all of 117 pounds . . . If Danny Clendenin of the Big Spring basketball team improves as much his senior year as he has since this season began, he's sure to become one of the all-time great Steer cagers . . . The HCJC Jayhawks were red-hot the first half in their basketball game with Clarendon here the other night, hitting 13 of 23 shots from the court for 64 per cent . . . Henry Willis had a seige of illness during the Christmas holidays, which is the reason he didn't start for HC against Clarendon . . . In 1932, when Olin Dutra finished either first or second in 11 major PGA tournaments, his total winnings amounted to only $9,300 . . . The Atlanta Braves revealed they netted $991,[illegible] in their baseball operation last season on a gross income of $7,809,699 . . . The Braves' legal fee to a Chicago firm for litigation involving the shifting of the Braves' franchise from Milwaukee to Atlanta was a hefty $233,970.

ARLEN WHITE

* * * *

A responsible college football coach remarked recently: "The Southeastern Conference is the last outpost of great collegiate football" . . . Why not book Alabama against the winner of the Green Bay-Kansas City winner to see just which is the finest football team in the land? . . . A lot of viewers of the Sugar Bowl game came away convinced that the Crimson Tide could handle both Notre Dame and Michigan State in a single afternoon, but it's hard to beat a stuffed ballot box—and an army of writers in the Midwest were determined that the national championship would not again be voted to some southern team . . . The New York Giants made overtures to the San Francisco 49ers recently for quarterback John Brodie, which leads one to think the Giants are up to the same tricks noticed by their baseball counterparts, the Yankees, for years . . . Concessions sales in last year's Rose Bowl game were terrific: 50,766 hot dogs, 52,761 soft drinks, 19,166 cups of coffee and 7,378 candy bars . . . One of the area's premier coaching jobs is that being done by Sands' Arlen White, who never has much height on his basketball teams but who always seems to win . . . The draw play was introduced to Southwest Conference football by the late Blair Cherry, then of Texas, and the first player to run it was Tom Landry, now coach of the Dallas Cowboys . . . DeWitt Weaver, the former Texas Tech mentor, was a visitor in the Cotton Bowl press box and Paul Richards, former general manager of the Houston Astros, fraternized with the writers in press headquarters at the Baker Hotel prior to the game . . . Halfback Kent Lawrence, Georgia star in the Cotton Bowl battle, was a last-minute substitution for Randy Wheeler immediately prior to the opening kickoff . . . Willie Mays, Hank Aaron and Norm Cash were the only big league players to hit home runs in every league park the past season.

Myriad Woes Face Leaders Of Athletics

HOUSTON (AP) — Peace with the AAU and merger of the two major pro football leagues erased two chronic sores but the nation's college athletic leaders go into their 61st annual convention Monday faced with problems of eligibility, grants-in-aid and bowl tampering.

From the public standpoint probably the most interesting issue involves that of bowl sponsors contacting prospective teams well in advance of the end of the season.

NEW PROPOSAL

A proposed amendment to the by-laws would forbid such a contact before noon on the Monday preceding the team's final game or the third Monday in November, whichever comes sooner.

The big bowls have been infringing on the existing rule which spells out no guide-lines. The bowl schedule during the past season was being arranged — and in some cases was already set — early in November.

Now if a sponsor jumps the gun, the bowl can be disenfranchised.

A hot potato is the involved 1.6 legislation which requires member institutions to sign an agreement that no student will be allowed to compete in intercollegiate athletics who does not meet an academic minimum of 1.6 on a 4.0 grading scale.

This by-law has raised the hackles of the staid Ivy League and other institutions in the East which refuse to sign such a apper.

Harvard, Princeton, Yale and the other Ivies insist that their academic requirements surpass the 1.6 mark anyhow and that they don't like a central body telling them who can and cannot play on their athletic teams.

No fewer than six amendments have been offered on the controversial by-law, ranging from tightening the provisions to eliminating the rule altogether.

PUSHES PLAN

The Western Athletic Conference is pushing to permit freshmen eligibility in all sports except football and basketball.

There are other proposals, such as that grants-in-aid be given only on a one-year basis and renewed as desired as long as the athlete meets academic requirements.

Most of these matters will be hammered out at the open convention meeting Wednesday.

Meanwhile, various committees and related groups will tackle myriad other problems.

The television and pro relations committees are seeking federal legislation to prevent the pro leagues from televising games on Friday nights and Saturdays, periods traditionally reserved for the high schools and colleges.

The football rules committee will make suggestions to be forwarded to the football rules committee, which meets at a later date. The track men are talking about the altitude in Mexico and the baseball men are discussing tampering of players by the major leagues.

BIG TURNOUT

The college coaches and organized baseball reached an agreement Friday that would forbid signing a college player until he has played his last game of his fourth year. There are exceptions, such as he is open bait when he reaches 21 years old or when he quits or is thrown out of school.

Some 3,000 officials, administrators and coaches are here for the meetings which will be highlighted by the NCAA's honors luncheon Tuesday.

At that time, General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower will be awarded the first Theodore Roosevelt (Teddy) Award for distinguished service. The former president hopes to accept in person if his doctors okay the trip from California.

A dozen astronauts from Houston's NASA Manned Spacecraft Center who were varsity letter winners also will receive special plaques.

Absence of two old headaches put a mild touch to the sessions. The simmering feud with the Amateur Athletic Union has been resolved by a special vice presidential committee and the matter won't even be brought up. The other old carbunkle — that of the National Football League and American Football League contacting players before their eligibility ended — died when the two leagues merged.

Snyder Shaded By Levelland

LEVELLAND — Levelland remained in a deadlock for first place in District 3-AAA by belting Snyder, 53-47, here Friday night.

Mike Dukes solved Snyder's defenses for 21 of Levelland's points. Mickey Almond had 15 and Tommy Bullard 14 for the Tigers.

Longhorns Decision Cougars, 43 To 39

In a real cliff-hanger that went down to the final 11 seconds, Big Spring pulled out a 43-39 District 2-AAAA basketball victory over Abilene Cooper before a large turnout of fans here Friday night to gain added stature as a championship contender.

Cooper, after building a five-point advantage at the half, led by a score of 39-38 with less than a minute to play.

Richard Green banked one in for the resident Longhorns, however. Danny Clendenin added a free pitch on a one-and-one situation and Robert Jackson put the verdict out of reach with a two-pointer. Cooper brought the ball back down court with 11 seconds showing on the clock but couldn't connect.

Big Spring, tight as a snare-drum most of the way, limited the Cougars to less than ten points in three of the four periods played. Only in the second was Cooper able to open up. The visitors tallied 16 points in that round and went to the dressing room leading by a margin of 23-18.

The Steers cut the margin to one at the end of the third, however, and it was nip and tuck from there on in.

No one fouled out in the spine-tingling contest, although Cooper's Greg Henthorne, leading scorer for the visitors with 12 points, came close with four personals.

The Steers hit only seven of 21 shots from the field the first half for 33 per cent but connected on nine of 19 the final two periods for 47 per cent. That averages out to 40 per cent, not sensational but fairly good.

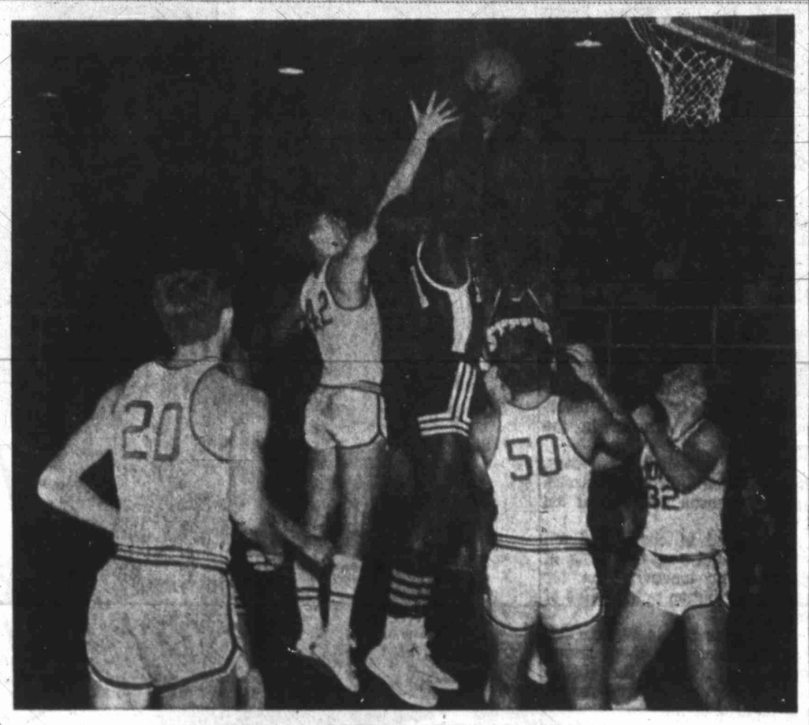

Sixteen fouls were exacted against the Cougars and 11 against Big Spring. However, the Longhorns won the game with their shooting from the court, getting 17 buckets to 15 for the guests.

The win was the second in three league starts for Big Spring while Cooper is now 1-2. Over-all, each team has a 19-3 record.

Jackson was Big Spring's top scorer and rebounder, scoring 15 points and capturing 15 caroms. Clendenin and Wayne Johnson each tallied eight points for the locals while Green came down with nine rebounds.

In the B team game, Cooper rallied in the last half to win 47-34. James Newman paced Big Spring in that one with ten points.

The Steers return to play here Tuesday night, against Odessa Permian, which is gaining strength after a slow start.

Three Olympians On Indoor Card

LUBBOCK (AP) — Three Olympians, including two world record holders, head the list of 111 track athletes who will compete in the Lubbock Indoor Meet Saturday night.

Two of the Olympians, Randy Matson of Texas A&M and Parry O'Brien, will compete against each other in the shot put.

Matson is the current record holder in the event with a 70-7 toss, while O'Brien twice has won gold medals at Olympics and placed in two others. He was the first to break the 60-foot barrier and made his best toss ever, 64-7, this past summer.

The other Olympian is Ralph Boston, the world's greatest broad jumper with a 27-4¾ leap, who will also enter the high hurdles here. Boston won the 1960 gold medal, but finished second in 1964.

Athletes from the University of New Mexico, Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, North Texas, Texas Christian, Baylor, Texas, Texas A&M, Texas Tech, Houston, McMurry, Abilene Christian, Eastern New Mexico and Wayland.

Competing unattached are two Baylor freshmen, sprinter Clyde Peach and hurdler Mike Robins. Peach won the 100 and 220 yard dashes last year at the Golden West Invitational and last week won the 60-yard dash in 6.0, a tenth of a second over the recognized indoor record. Among those he beat were Bernie Rivers and Rene Mattison of New Mexico who will also run here.

Kenny Head of New Mexico, who ran a 45.1 quartermile last year, heads the 600-yard dash field, and that school's George Scott is the top distance runner. He recently finished third at the AAU cross country meet.

The pole vault field has seven who have cleared 15 feet and two, Larry Smith of Oklahoma and Mark King of Texas, have done 16 feet.

Boston won't have an easy time in the broad jump because three others, Bill Miller, a teacher in the Abilene Public Schools, Freddie Fox of McMurry and Clarence Robinson of Mexico all have been over 26 feet.

Ron Tull of Oklahoma has the best high jump mark, 7-1½, but Mike Shrider of Texas A&M, Bary Noble of Texas, Stann Curry of Baylor and George Loughridge of New Mexico have cleared 6-8, and three others have jumped 6-6.

Houston's John Morriss heads the hurdles corps while Peach will have tough competition from Baylor's Wayne Brandt besides the two UNM speedsters. Brandt was runner-up in the Southwest Conference 100-yard dash last spring.

Ralph Higgins, veteran Oklahoma State coach, has been named honorary referee of the meet.

Besides the university - open division, Lubbock Christian, Howard County and Odessa will compete in the junior college class and there will be three women's events.

Worster Tops AAA Elite

Class AAA ALLState
By The Associated Press

Fullback Steve Worster ended three brilliant years of football at Bridge City by being named Saturday to the Class AAA all-state schoolboy team for the third time.

His gridiron exploits have given him a place among the all-time greats of autumn's mightiest legions in Texas.

"He's something else," said Coach Tommy Hudspeth after Worster had wrecked his McKinney team 30-6 in the Class AAA championship game last month.

Worster gained 247 of Bridge City's 306 yards rushing against McKinney. He scored three touchdowns, bringing his three-year total to 70. He rushed for 2,251 yards last fall and scored 38 touchdowns. In three years he gained over 5,000 yards rushing.

"Worster is definitely the best high school back I've ever coached," said H. W. Wilson. "He's an outstanding athlete. He likes to run inside and outside and his size and speed make him a constant threat."

A 210-pounder and a 10.3 sprinter, Worster was picked for the first team on 29 of 30 ballots in the voting by the Texas Sports Writers Association. He was named the outstanding back in Class AAA.

DEAR ABBY Has Right To Entertain

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter ran away to get married when she was 17. Two years later her husband left her and their small baby. The court awarded her sufficient support so that she could maintain her own apartment, which she did, until recently. She decided she wanted to take a practical nursing course at the vocational school, so I agreed to take care of her baby. It simplified matters by having her move in with dad and me.

Before she moved in I made a few rules. One was that she was not to entertain any male guests unless dad or I were home. The other night she had a male friend here, knowing we wouldn't be home. This upset me. Her father claims she is 21 and we should trust her. It is a matter of principle with me. Do you think a 21-year-old divorcee should be allowed to entertain male friends alone?

AGAINST IT

DEAR AGAINST: Yes. She was wrong for having violated a "rule" she agreed to accept. But you were wrong for having made such a rule in the first place. Why offer your daughter a roof over her head and then raise it just because she wants to entertain her friends at home?

Where else should a respectable woman entertain? Either change that rule, mother, or tell daughter to change her address. You'll both be much happier.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My mother has been sickly ever since I can remember. It's either a "splitting headache," a backache, a pain in the stomach, dizziness, or something else. She eats "painkillers" like popcorn. She buys every kind on the market she can get without a prescription.

If the directions say to take two, she takes four. I am afraid that one of these days she is going to take too many and never wake up. I can't convince her that this is dangerous to her health. Maybe you can.

She reads your column every day and thinks you have good sense. By the way, I am not a child who is imagining things or exaggerating. I am a 31-year-old married woman.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: A "pain" is nature's way of telling us that something is wrong. To suppress the pain and ignore the warning, instead of going to a doctor to try to find out what IS wrong and how to remedy it, is foolish, dangerous, and short-sighted.

Postal Receipts For December Up By $2,400

Postal receipts for December — the period extending from Dec. 3 through Dec. 20—showed an increase of $2,422.13 over the same period in 1965, according to Frank Hardesty, postmaster. The total receipts for December were $58,881.34.

The month of December saw the Big Spring post office handling 2,008,334 pieces of incoming and 1,015,610 pieces of outgoing mail. This total of 3,113,944 was 95,016 greater than the mail handled in December, 1965.

Right now the postmen are busy delivering 26,144 Sears Mail Order catalogues to local residents, and to towns extending west to El Paso and into western New Mexico. The poundage of mail involved in this shipment to the Big Spring office is 138,565 pounds. Each catalogue weighs five pounds and three ounces. Big Spring is the distribution center for the entire area.

Hardesty said that local post office receipts for January will be hiked $8,544 as a result of this shipment.

Proud Old Yacht Future Pondered

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A proud old yacht, once the playship of millionaires and a dictator, sits at her mooring at Dodge Island while her new owners ponder her future.

The Patria, built in 1931 for General Foods heiress Marjorie Merriweather Post at a cost of $1,225,000, has since served as a World War II convoy vessel and the personal yacht of the late Gen. Rafael Trujillo of the Dominican Republic.

The four-master now belongs to a Miami firm, Operations Sea Cruise, Inc.

Five Injured In Six-Car Pileup

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Five persons were injured, none seriously, in a six car pile-up on highway 208, Friday at 11:30 a.m. three miles south of Colorado City.

The major cause of the accident, according to Highway Patrolman Buddy Hertenberger, was a pall of smoke lying for a quarter of a mile along the highway. The smoke came from burning cotton hulls spread across an adjacent field, and whipped by 50 mph winds and mixed with dust and sand, it dropped visibility to zero.

All six drivers stopped after entering the blind area, but struck other vehicles or were struck by them in the sudden blackout.

Those hospitalized included, Glen Thomason, 50, with head and chest injuries; his son, Dwayne, 25, with a concussion and abrasions; Ather Ellis, 40, with fractured ribs. All three are of Colorado City. Truman Hines, 42, Snyder, suffered from bruises and lacerations.

L. B. Minyard, 52, of Snyder, was examined, given emergency treatment and released.

All five were drivers of separate vehicles. The driver of the sixth vehicle, Ninfa De La Rosa, 33, of San Angelo, was uninjured, as was a woman passenger, who was not identified.

FAMILAR FRIENDS to patients at Cowper Clinic and Hospital are these three nurses who represent three phases of the profession. Mrs. Charles Wright, left, is a student nurse at Howard County Junior College and works at the hospital three hours each day. Mrs. Howard Christianson, RN, is a regular member of the staff as is Mrs. Roger Kendricks, LVN.

PROFESSIONAL PRIDE and the desire to help where they are needed have drawn many nurses, whose husbands have been stationed at Webb AFB, to Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital. They are, back row, Mrs. Charles R. Kaufman, RN, Mrs. Michael B. Evans, LVN, Mrs. Fred D. Baker, LVN, Mrs. David S. Gleeson, RN, and Mrs. Herbert L. Jones, LVN. On the front row are Mrs. Gordon W. Potter, LVN, Mrs. Melvin E. Martin, aide, Mrs. Oscar G. Cochran III, RN, and Mrs. Edmund H. Crandell, RN.

"Webb Women In White"

By JO BRIGHT

While Webb Air Force Base is one symbol of defense against threatening forces, men who are stationed at Webb Air Force Base have brought with them women who personify defense against another enemy—disease. In a town widely-known for its hospital facilities and treatment centers, these Webb wives have offered their time and training to provide nursing care for community residents while their husbands go about the business of providing military defense. These women have gained the gratitude — and friendship of Big Spring.

Photos By Frank Brandon

SINCE SEPTEMBER nursing students at Medical Arts Clinic and Hospital have been attending classes for three hours each day and working in the hospital for half a day. Among the women associated with Webb AFB who are receiving this training are Mrs. Juan Palacios, Mrs. Willie E. Lucas, Mrs. Robert Mitchell and Mrs. Theodore Crosby. Mrs. Crosby, who started the course earlier than the others, will soon take her state exams to be a Licensed Vocational Nurse.

WEBB WOMEN have provided help at local hospitals which sometimes meant the difference in having an adequate staff or being short-handed. These nurses associated with Malone and Hogan Hospital are Mrs. Ronald E. Garner, LVN, Mrs. Richard B. Durant, RN, Mrs. Roy E. Aycock, RN, Mrs. Henry J. Ingram, RN, and Mrs. Thomas H. Kenney, LVN. Mrs. Alfonzia Montgomery was unable to be present for the picture.

FRESH AIR AND SUNSHINE are beneficial to patients who stroll the spacious grounds at the Veterans Administration Hospital, and occasionally, a nurse has a free moment to step outside and enjoy them also. Mrs. Gordon D. Pedlar, RN, and Mrs. Donald W. Neal, RN, are private duty nurses not associated with the hospital, however, Mrs. W. E. Lowman, RN, at right, is a member of the regular staff.

ARE BUYING MENSWEAR

Can't Tell Girl By Her Clothes

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Insomniac favorite Johnny Carson tells a joke about a little boy peering through a knothole of a fence surrounding a nudist camp.

"Are they boys or girls?" asks his companion.

"I can't tell," replies the voyeur, "because they aren't wearing any clothes."

The trouble with that joke is that clothes are no longer any way to determine which sex is which. Although boys don't wear girls' apparel, girls now buy 20 per cent of the menswear for their own wardrobes. A men's style trade journal discovered this fact in a survey.

New York University psychologist Dr. Abraham Korman attributes the trend to a "gradual merging together of the sexes."

Not so, insist girls who enjoy being girls. They raid the men's shops for slacks and shirts because:

Menswear is more practical for the decidedly more active roles women hold today.

The garments are often made of hardier fabrics, are better constructed, and are cheaper.

And, despite the differences in their builds, they insist that men's slacks in many instances fit them better than pants specifically tailored for women's curvier figures.

"Men's slacks have a straight hip construction that holds in my hips and thighs like a girdle. "I look much slimmer in them."

On the other hand, the pretty lady admits that she can't do much bending. There is just not enough slack in the amply filled slacks for that.

"But I don't want to anyway," she says. To appear slim hipped is worth a few sacrifices.

Tall girls sometimes have difficulty getting their men's pants long enough. Men's sizes small enough for a comparatively lean female figure are usually made for short, spare young men.

Getting sweaters, shirts or vests at the haberdashery in women's sizes is not a problem. Small sizes are usually satisfactory for all but the amplest of women.

Ordering trousers in a men's shop is the brow wrinkler for women. Nothing beats trying on the slacks before buying. However, to keep from holding up the dressing rooms all day trying every pair in stock, it is best to have a general idea of the comparable size in women's slacks to menswear.

Martin Miller, vice president of one of the largest and most daring manufacturers of avant garde men's apparel (Contact Slacks), not only caters to the wardrobe wants of females in men's stores but also places his styled - for - men garments in women's specialty shops.

Hip-huggers fit slightly differently.

OWC Luncheon Program Talk Recalls Past Glory Of Greece

The hand-painted programs at Thursday's Officers Wives Club luncheon at Webb Air Force Base proclaimed that it is "June in January," and decorations in the dining room carried out the spring theme. On the tables, small white pots, tied with green ribbon, held pompon flowers of pastel net, and the cloth covering the head table was dotted with the same flowers. The centerpiece was of lavender irises and yellow carnations.

Hostesses were wives whose husbands are assigned to the 3560th Pilot Training Squadron with Mrs. Donna Blum being in charge of the program and Mrs. Jean Hurst as general chairman. She introduced Mrs. Robert T. Deming who presented a program on Greece, showing slides taken during her three-year residence there. The accompanying commentary by Mrs. Deming touched on geography of the country and nearby islands as well as current customs and brief explanations of the colorful history from which has come much of the world's culture. She described the cities as well as the remote villages, noting that life in Greece still moves at a slow pace despite the changes brought about by tourists in recent years. The slides included scenes of ancient ruins, churches, market places, coastal regions and cities that are quaint combinations of the old and new.

Others on the luncheon committee were Mrs. Norma Gardner, Mrs. Gail Banks and Mrs. Carol Lang. Mrs. JoAnna Cofer made the hand-painted menus, and others assisting with decorations were Mrs. Betty Ballasch, Mrs. JoAnn Benson, Mrs. Judy Burry, Mrs. Harriett Casleton, Mrs. Karla Flechsig, Mrs. Bev Flowers, Mrs. Kathy Finfinger, Mrs. Connie Frerichs, Mrs. Marilyn Gieseking, Mrs. Gert Helmich, Mrs. Chris Hiniker, Mrs. Mary Hudgens, Mrs. Hurst, Mrs. Jane Hussey, Mrs. Sammy Lockhart, Mrs. Myrna Moore, Mrs. Vilma Rega, Mrs. Sue Schaffer and Mrs. Jean Turner.

Mrs. T. J. Rowland voiced the invocation, and Mrs. S. G. Flowers, president, introduced the guests. They were Mrs. R. J. Ream, Miss Brita Gohnsen, Mrs. L. J. Piekarski, Mrs. Jim Lemons and Mrs. Jo Bright.

Mrs. R. G. Piland introduced members of the permanent party, Mrs. R. S. Graham and Mrs. Tom Carmichael and wives of new students. They were H. H. Hettrick, Mrs. J. S. Mayfield and Mrs. J. W. Stewart. Farewells and best wishes were extended to Mrs. Smith Swords who will soon be leaving Webb.

It was announced that the next Hi and Bye coffee will be Jan. 26 and the Spring Carnival is slated for April 8. A letter was read from Mrs. Robert Sandner inviting the women and their husbands to attend a benefit dance at Cosden Country Club Feb. 4 sponsored by Beta Sigma Phi. Proceeds will be given to the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

Mrs. Flowers noted that the March luncheon will include an arts and crafts display as well as informal modeling of home-sewn fashions.

Prize winners were Mrs. J. W. Osgood, Mrs. D. M. Booth, Mrs. J. W. Stewart, Mrs. J. B. White and Mrs. Deming.

MRS. CLINTON FRANKLIN HULL JR.

Wedding Solemnized In Methodist Church

Miss Linda Appleton and Clinton Franklin Hull Jr. exchanged wedding vows Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Wesley Methodist Church with the Rev. Jarrel H. Sharp, officiating for the double ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Appleton, 806 E. 13th, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hull Sr., US 80 east.

Miss Dixie Todd, organist, presented a prelude of nuptial selections and accompanied Kenneth Roach as he sang "Whither Thou Goest," "Always" and "Saviour, Like a Shepherd Lead Us." A sunburst arrangement of white chrysanthemums, gladioli and carnations centered the altar, with flanking emerald fern trees. Candelabra holding white tapers lighted the sanctuary, and during prayer, the couple knelt on a white prie dieu.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white peau de soie gown with seed pearl encrusted appliques of lace enhancing the bodice and petal point sleeves. The same motifs were repeated on the hemline of the gown and the chapel train. Her shoulder-length veil of illusion fell from a pearled tiara, and she carried a cascade of Frenched carnations encircling a white orchid and tied with satin picot.

The bride's attendants were her sister, Mrs. Larry Dudash, and Miss Pat Ball. Their street-length dresses were of turquoise peau de soie, the Empire waists accented with velveteen ribbon. Their headpieces were matching peau de soie roses with chiffon leaves, and each carried a nosegay of white feathered chrysanthemums backed with turquoise tulle.

Alan Clanton was best man, and groomsman was Sammy Smith. Serving as ushers were A. E. Clanton, Noel R. Harvell Jr. and Larry Dudash. The flower girls, Pamela Dudash and Janet Hull, wore high-waisted turquoise dresses trimmed with velveteen ribbon. They carried white satin baskets from which they scattered turquoise flower petals. The ring bearers were Gary and Terry Dudash, and the altar taper lighters were Noel Wayne Hull and Jim Bob Coates.

The bride, a Big Spring graduate, is attending Howard County Junior College and works in the college library. The bridegroom graduated from Coahoma High School and is employed by Cosden Oil and Chemical Company.

RECEPTION

The couple was honored with a reception in the church parlor where the parents and feminine attendants joined in receiving guests who were registered by Miss Brenda Ann Butler.

Members of the house party were Mrs. Charlie Smith of Stanton, Mrs. T. W. Butler, Mrs. James Coates, Miss Johnnie Sue Lee, Miss Karen West and Mrs. Charles Gray.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Hull, Kermit; Miss Ivy Bays, Slaton; the Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Butler, Sweetwater; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Flynn and family of Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Firenza, Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Appleton and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hodnett and family, all of Vincent; Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Sealy, Lamesa; and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Smith, Stanton.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride was wearing an ivory and lavender costume and black accessories with the corsage from her bouquet. Mr. and Mrs. Hull will reside at 1603-B Lincoln.

REHEARSAL DINNER

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner Thursday evening at Coker's Restaurant for family members and those in the wedding party. Special guests were the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Britton Hull.

High School Students Speak For Fellowship

Three students at Big Spring Senior High School were guest speakers Thursday evening when the Christian Women's Fellowship of the First Christian Church met at the church.

The program, "Affluence and Poverty" was presented by Mrs. Herman Smith, and the speakers were government class students at the school. Jan Campbell told of the broad scope of poverty, Kay Slate gave economic statistics and Barbara Davidson described the poverty-stricken area of Appalachia.

Mrs. Don Williams presided and reminded the group that the church is to furnish 133 dozen cookies for patients at the state hospital this month. Volunteers were asked to bake several dozen each and deliver them to the church by Jan. 23.

Named to serve with Mrs. H. W. Smith, nominating committee chairman, were Mrs. Alberta Elam, Mrs. Preach Martin and Mrs. Luther Bean.

Mrs. A. A. Marchant gave the devotion, and the Lydia Group hosted the gathering. The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 2, in the church parlor.

Calories Aid Diet Trend

Periodic, acute hunger often defeats efforts at dieting.

So, says a prominent nutritionist, the dieter may make out better if he eats the allotted calories when hungry rather than at traditional meal times.

New research shows there are great variations in the timing and sequence of hunger sensations among different age groups, sexes, and individuals, says Dr. Jean Mayer of Harvard University, who advises that a good reducting diet shouldn't make a person feel

Shower Compliments Miss Donna Wood

Miss Donna Wood, bride-elect of Raymond Wayne Ferry, was complimented Friday evening with a pre-nuptial shower in the home of Mrs. Richard Sidoni, 251-B Langley. Calling hours were from 7 to 10 p.m., and 25 were included on the guest list.

Cohostesses were Miss Frances Wilson, Miss Connie Thompson, Miss Sandy Tonn and Miss Mariam Jolley. They presented the honoree with a peignoir set.

Miss Wood, attired in a blue sheath dress, received a corsage of blue and white carnations, as did her mother, Mrs. Donald D. Wood, who joined her in receiving guests.

White linen covered the refreshment table, and the centerpiece was a bride doll flanked by blue candles in crystal holders. Other appointments were of crystal and china. The cake was decorated in blue and was inscribed with the engaged couple's names. It was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

The couple plans to be married Jan. 21 in the Baptist Temple.

THE PENNEY STORY

"One eye on quality; one on price"

By ROBERTA NASH

More often than not, in a store's newspaper advertising, the emphasis is on the price of merchandise, for this is the news that readers want to know.

But the Penney people want to be sure you understand that this emphasis on price in advertising does not represent the thinking within the Penney organization. The thing that makes Penney wheels go round is value, or what you get for that low price.

"We have to keep one eye on quality and the other on price," one of our buyers said to me. "Every sale we make today is designed to bring the customer back tomorrow."

Plastic Containers Have Second Use

Use those plastic lemons and limes that come filled with juice for all sorts of things. When empty remove the inner stopper and fill with shampoo, hair rinse or hand lotion.

Then replace the stopper and enlarge the hole. Shampoo or rinse goes right along in the tub or shower, never spilling or breaking. The hand lotion lemons are especially attractive in the kitchen. The lemons also make fine creamers for patio or picnics.

Engaged Norwegians Are Reunited Here

By RHODA LEMONS

When Miss Brita Gohnsen accepted the marriage proposal of Lt. Tor Tingberg, the intended bridegroom and his parents went to her parents' home in Oslo, Norway, and following a family dinner the young couple exchanged plain gold bands to be worn on the third finger of the right hand. This ring is never taken off and symbolizes their pledge of devotion to each other. No other ring is given at the wedding ceremony.

Miss Gohnsen, pronounced "Johnson," is a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Ream, 508 Highland, and her fiance, Lt. Tingberg, is stationed at Webb Air Force Base.

Speaking English fluently, the attractive and charming Miss Gohnsen said that, although no definite wedding date has been set, she and her betrothed do plan a summer wedding. She wants a formal ceremony, dressed in heavy, white satin, and she especially emphasized that she wishes to have a long train.

Wedding customs in Norway are somewhat different from here. In that country, the bridegroom goes to the church and walks alone to the altar where he sits on the right side by his mother. When the "Wedding March" begins the bride, on the arm of her father, walks up the aisle where she is joined by the bridegroom and together they approach the altar and kneel for the ceremony. Her father then walks over and sits by the bridegroom's mother. The bride's mother is seated to the left of the church beside the bridegroom's father, thus uniting both families.

When asked how she liked the United States and West Texas, Miss Gohnsen became quite serious and said that it was much too big for her and that she would never want to leave her own country. She added, however, that the people in Big Spring were very friendly and nice and that we have the most beautiful sunsets in the world.

Miss Gohnsen, 19, has one brother, Tom, who is a member of the Norwegian Air Force. He is married and has one child. Her father works in the office of a shipping line which carries cargo and passengers between Norway and England.

She has completed 10 years of schooling and has been employed by the Head Post Office for the past two years. She is returning to Oslo soon and will enter a school in cosmetology, which is a one-year course. She plans to work for a short while after she is married.

MISS BRITA GOHNSEN

New Ink Saves Loss Of Clothes

Do your adhesive or name tapes come off the rainwear and boots? If so, use a dry ink marker. Not only will the name be there to stay—through rain, snow, etc., but the child will soon learn that if he lines his boots up in front of him, and he can read the name of each correctly — they will end up on the right feet! (Provided you have written his name across the back of the boots—near the top, in an inconspicuous place, of course).

These ink markers are also wonderful for many other things such as lunch boxes, tools, toys, etc.

First Graders Go For Heavy Pencil

A special pencil for first graders is on the market, according to the Lead Pencil Manufacturers Association. The big, black lead produces a mark without much muscle pressure and is designed to give the child a sense of achievement.

Incidentally, mothers need not worry about exposing the child to lead if he puts a lead pencil in his mouth: It is graphite that makes a pencil write.

Zella Lerlene Odom Weds Bobby Graves

STANTON (SC) — Miss Zella Lerlene Odom of Stanton and Bobby B. Graves of McCamey were united in marriage during a double ring ceremony at the Lenorah Baptist Church Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garth Odom of Stanton and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Graves of Tarzan.

MRS. BOBBY B. GRAVES

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a white satin gown fashioned with a long sleeved lace jacket featuring a batteau neckline and a chapel train, outlined with rhinestones, was attached at the waistline of the gathered skirt. Her shoulder-length veil was held by a band of white satin trimmed with rhinestones, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations atop a white Bible.

The Rev. Paris A. Barton officiated at the ceremony before a white wrought iron wedding archway, entwined with greenery and emerald fern trees. The altar was centered with a seven-branched candelabrum holding white tapers and flowering emerald fern trees.

Mrs. Jimmie Sawyer and Mrs. G. D. Sawyer sang the wedding selections, "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer." Mike Springer served as organist.

A cousin of the bride, Miss Sandra Rister of Big Spring, was the maid of honor. She wore a blue satin dress and a blue satin headband with circle veil. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Ronnie Graves of Tarzan, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man. Ushers were Eddie Odom of Stanton, brother of the bride, and Vanny Glaze of Tarzan.

Darlene Rister of Big Spring served as flower girl. She wore a blue satin dress with matching headband.

Donnie Wayne Dunn was the ring bearer and Jackie Whisenhunt of Merkel lighted the altar tapers.

For her wedding trip to Carlsbad, N. M., Mrs. Graves chose a gold knit suit with black accessories. The couple will reside at 101 S. 13th, McCamey, where the bridegroom is employed as a teacher in the McCamey schools.

The bride is a graduate of Stanton High School and Hardin-Simmons University. The bridegroom is a graduate of Stanton High School and West Texas State University.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the fellowship hall following the ceremony. Parents of the bride and bridegroom and feminine attendants joined the couple in the receiving line.

Miss Brenda Graves of Lenorah was in charge of the guest register. Other members of the house party were Miss Charlotte Kuhlman, Miss Carolyn Kuhlman, Mrs. Allen Kiser, Mrs. Jimmier Sawyer, Mrs. G. D. Sawyer and Mrs. Bob Thrailkill.

The refreshment table was laid with a white lace cloth over blue, and the bridal bouquet served as the centerpiece. The three-tiered wedding cake completed the decorations.

Soda Cleans Ring Around Bathtub

One way to help banish the bathrub ring is to fill the tub with hot water to just above the ring line. Add a cup of sal soda concentrated and let it stand for a few minutes before draining.

A LOVELIER YOU

Don't Lose Head If Hair Starts Falling

By MARY SUE MILLER

A Lovely writes: My hair is coming out at an alarming rate and I don't know why. I do not tint or curl it. I wear it in a chignon or atop my head, as it is very long. I'd hate to have it cut short but I would if, as I have heard, the step deters loss. May I have your advice?

The Answer: Contrary to popular opinion, cutting the hair neither stops falling nor hastens growth. There is evidence that trimming dry, split ends improves the growth rate.

In dealing with falling hair many factors must be considered. In the first place, fallout is often confused with breakage. Long hair, in particular, breaks off when it becomes dry or when rubber bands and circlets are used to keep it in place. You can tell whether the hair is falling or breaking by inspecting the scalp ends of strands. A bulbous formation on the ends indicates fallout.

Under normal circumstances the scalp sheds 100 strands a day to make room for growth. Loss may become excessive as the result of a scalp disorder, an illness, shock, tension or pregnancy. Too, most heads have molting seasons — early spring and late summer.

Except in the case of a scalp disorder, the head just may return to normal if given good care — massage, gentle brushing and conditioning treatments. But never stretch your luck. Run, don't walk, to a dermatologist when your hair continues to fall for so long a period as a month.

RULE YOUR WAVES

What's your hair problem? You'll find a way to overcome it in my 16-page booklet, "Rule Your Waves." Advice includes: beauty treatments for oily, dry, and normal hair; ways to manage unruly locks; how to add color and highlights; tips on cutting, permanents and styling; grooming tricks. Write Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald for your copy, enclosing a large, self - addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin.

Time For Change?

On one gloved hand there's a change or token purse; on the other glove there's the time of day, both styles designed by Conte Giorgio de Sant Angelo.

Pointing The Way

The glove with the arrow tells you where to go, just for fun. The other hangs onto keys. Style ideas by Conte Giorgio di Sant Angelo for Crescendoe.

Mini-Gloves? Pretty Handy!

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Gloves should be hand-y.

Suffice it to say that gloves have done their bit preventing digit numbness and sanitizing these dangling extremities.

They have also done their duty for fashion, adding color accents and completing the costumed look.

But they have also been unhandy, getting lost, hiding pretty jewelry, and well just fitting there not doing anything special.

And imaginative Italian born designer, Conte Giorgio de Sant Angelo is all for a higher rate of employment for gloves.

Not an idle man himself, the 25-year-old studied paintings and sculptures with Picasso in Paris. Three years ago he came to New York on his way to work for Walt Disney, stayed and created jewelry, scarves, handbags and now gloves for Crescendoe.

How does he make the gloves work?

They keep each other from being lost. That one hooks onto the fixture on another is a feature of a design.

They keep the door key handy. Still another style design hooks the key to its edge.

They keep change, bus and subway tokens within easy reach, eliminating the need for a change purse. One glove style has its purse stitched to the back of it.

They give you the time of day. Still another design snaps a watch to the outside, removable for glove cleaning and watch repairing. That beats hiding a watch under a glove.

They tell you where to go. Just for fun some styles feature arrows on the finger and the cuff that point the way for those in doubt.

All in all, these flat fingered, sometimes mini gloves, are pretty, fun, and hard working.

Feather Stitch Helps Borders

A double feather stitch in embroidery is very pretty as a border stitch. It is worked in the same manner as the feather stitch except that two stitches are taken in one direction and then two in the other rather than alternating back and forth as in feather stitch.

This is an embroidery stitch that makes a neat appearance on the back of cloth, as it looks like a single stitch from the back.

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

Never have I felt so much like a pot plant leftover from Christmas as I did in the midst of the Friday sand blow. My leaves were shriveled, the bright feeling of the Christmas flower gone and completely surrounded by sand.

Those of us who have gone through with the miserable days of the sandstorms many times are heartened by the fact that when the air does clear, it is beautifully clear, like it's had a thorough cleaning. Take heart if you are new to the territory . . . it doesn't last forever.

Elegant Touch In Family Room

The informal family room is taking on an elegant look.

A building magazine reports that 58 per cent now feature paneling which is attractive, serviceable and easy-to-install. Hardboard panels, for example, which come in wood-grained, embossed or plastic finishes, can be nailed over existing walls or applied with adhesive. The hardboard paneling takes hard abuse and will not crack or splinter.

SECTION D — BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JANUARY 8, 1967 — SECTION D

Dr. Miller Planning On A Lot Of Traveling

By SAM BLACKBURN

Effective Friday at 5 p.m., Dr. Charles H. Miller Jr. became free to do what he has always liked to do—travel on any road he has not traveled before.

"I used to have to limit my explorations to the time I had away from my desk," said the doctor. "Now I'm free to head out any time on any road that may show up. It's a great feeling."

Dr. Miller, chief of the outpatient service at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, has retired after 33 years in the practice of medicine. These 33 years have taken him to half a dozen states, three foreign countries and brought him to Big Spring seven years ago.

HOME BASE HERE

Now that he has left his post, he proposes to make Big Spring his home, and, from that base station, to do a lot of road traveling he has had to pass up previously.

"Look," said the doctor, "I'm map crazy. I have maps everywhere to remind me of the roads I intend to go over now that I have time. Did you ever take that road north of Guadalupe Peak and look at the backside of McKittick Canyon?"

He has set up three items for the start of his retirement.

No. 1 — which he will begin just as soon as he gets word the snow storms have let up a little to the north—will be a visit to Minneapolis, Minn. He and Mrs. Miller have a son there, Dr. Charles H. Miller III. And what is more important, he has a grandson, Charles H. Miller IV, now nearly a year old, whom grandpa hasn't as yet had a chance to visit.

LAST DAY OF 33 YEARS ON THE JOB
Dr. Charles H. Miller Jr., retires from VA Hospital staff

BACK TO CAPITAL

No. 2 is a trip to Washington. Dr. Miller was in Washington with the public health service in 1949 as assistant chief of the diabetic section. This was a program designed to locate unreported diabetic cases and set about saving these victims. He hasn't had a chance to go back to the nation's capital since he left there in 1952.

No. 3 on his agenda is a long leisurely vacation to be spent in Magacdan, Old Mexico—a beautiful old Mexican city on the Gulf of California.

In between and along the way, the Millers will explore any and all sideroads which look interesting.

Born in Chicago, Dr. Miller is the son of a pioneer general practitioner, the late Dr. Charles H. Miller Sr., who practiced in Chicago for 37 years.

He attended schools in Chicago and later was a student at Northwestern, at the University of Tennessee (Medicine) and graduated from Temple University Medical School. He was licensed in 1933.

PRACTICE WITH DAD

He entered private practice with his father.

"There was a depression," he said. "There was not enough practice for two doctors so I enlisted in the U.S. Army and served from 1932 through 1936."

He began private practice in Mowequa, Ill. There he met Ann Snyder, who was the daughter of the small town's weekly newspaper publisher.

Ann worked for the paper.

"In order to have dates with her," says Dr. Miller, "I had to show up at the newspaper office and help wrap and mail out papers."

They were married July 12, 1939.

In 1941, World War II broke out and Dr. Miller, a reservist, was recalled. He served throughout the war, much of the time in the South Pacific. He entered as a captain and came out as a major.

HEALTH SERVICE

Out of the military, he rejoined the Public Health Service and in 1946 joined a Federal Agency then called Institute of Inter-American Affairs. This took him first to Brazil where he stayed five months, and then to Ecuador.

He spent two years in that country — which he loves and which he holds in great admiration. The people, he said, are most cooperative.

"We built hospitals and set up health centers and health programs," he said. He was officially public health officer and chief of party in Ecuador—a post which brought him in close contact with the high officials of the South American Republic.

Back home after his hitch with the governmental agency, he served for Illinois Department of Public Health. Later he became director of County Health Departments in Hidalgo County and Wichita County in Texas and at Lawton, in Comanche County, Okla.

TEXAN NOW

Seven years ago, he moved to Big Spring to take up his duties with the VA hospital here.

"I'm a Texan now," he said. "I like Texas — particularly this part of the state."

The Millers, who reside at 1024 Ridgeroad, have three daughters and two sons. The daughters are Mrs. Richard Houghton, Denver, Colo., Mrs. Thomas Gordon and Mrs. Charles Antonacci, both of whom live in Illinois. Their sons are Dr. Charles H. Miller III in Minneapolis and 1st. Lt. Karl Miller who is now serving in Vietnam in the U.S. Army.

Bid Opening Date Is Fixed For FM 700 West Project

FM 700 rebuilding from Goliad Street west and north to US 80—a project which will cost $1,250,000—is expected to get under way by late February.

Texas State Highway Commission will tabulate bids on the job on Jan. 27. The low bidder should be known and announced that afternoon. The contractor normally has 30 days to get the job going after being awarded a contract.

Joe Smoot, resident engineer, said that all local details are complete. Right of way is all cleared. The engineering is finished.

A feature of the road will be an overpass at the intersection of the present FM road with US 87 at the south edge of town. The plans call for the overpass to serve the US 87 traffic with FM 700 cars passing under the federal road. The overpass will be the principal structure involved in the road project and will cost in excess of $500,000.

FOUR LANES

The new road will be four lanes from Goliad to the connection with US 80 west near the Desert Sands Motel location. The road is three miles long and will involve about a mile of completely new highway. This will be the route cutting off from the present road near the National Guard Armory and angling north and west across the pastureland to US 80.

Smoot said that this particular segment will require much grading and filling due to the numerous ravines and draws over which it will cross.

The money has been set aside by the state for the project and the county has completed acquisition of all right of way. The county voted bonds to finance the purchase of the needed land. The bond issue was for $600,000. The money was used not only for the right of way needed for this new highway job, but also for the right of way on FM 700 north. This road ties the present FM 700 route into SH 350 north of town at the Gail Road intersection and is in use.

COSTLY ROADWAY

Some of the original bond money still remains unspent but there are several right of way appeals pending. Should the appellants be given higher settlements this money will be used.

Much of the right of way needed for the new program was expensive. The land in the area needed for the US 87 overpass was the most costly of any acquired.

FM 700 is one of the heaviest travelled roads in this area. It is much used by workers and service men at Webb AFB and it feeds cars into the Highland Shopping area and shuttles cross-town traffic. The VA hospital is also a point which draws traffic. The road connects with the route to the Big Spring City Park and to Webb Village, Douglass addition and other heavily developed areas in the southwest corner of town.

The project has been under planning for several years.

High Line Used To Go To School

YORK BEACH, Maine (AP) — It's just routine for Rickie Winchester, 7, to go to school by high line.

Rickie's father, David, is in the Coast Guard, stationed at Nubble Light at Cape Neddick — on an island which lies 200 feet off the mainland.

It would be too risky, especially in the winter to cross the water by boat twice a day, so Rickie's father rigged a high wire 50 feet in the air across the water between the island and the mainland.

Each day Rickie boards a large box rigged to a pair of pulleys on the wire. Lighter lines are used to haul the box each way.

On the mainland side he is picked up by the school bus and on his return in the afternoon, reboards the box for the over-the-water trip home.

'A Devotional For The Day

As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, O God. (Psalms 42:1)

PRAYER: Our Father and our God, we pray that we may always be conscious of our dependence upon Thee. In our need teach us to draw nearer to Thee for Thy love and for Thy help. We ask this in the name of our Savior. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Prudent Decision

The Big Spring Independent School District board of trustees has made some exacting and soul-searching appraisals of building needs in view of available funds prior to letting a contract for Runnels Junior High School renovations.

When bids came in over estimates, as might have been expected in view of escalated costs, the board spent six to eight hours of intensive study on all angles, all alternatives, and combinations and possibilities of other modifications. More than this, it weighed these things against other projected programs in the elementary schools and at Goliad Junior High (which considerations were based upon personal observation through an on-site tour). All of this was weighed against potential funds, and against the need of including funds for a service (administrative) center.

While all would have preferred to have taken all added alternates and deleted all the deductions, we are persuaded that the board's final decision was just about the best possible one.

This makes the most of the Runnels project, leaving some things which might be done later or be done by local maintenance forces out of local maintenance funds as they become available. It bears out a policy of making Runnels as functionally equal as possible with Goliad, the other junior high. This means a parity of opportunity, and in turn will reflect itself in the attractiveness of all of the city attendance districts for unimpeded development.

The list of planned work for elementary schools seems to contain the essentials. Goliad was cut back sharply, but it is a relatively new school and not in the same degree of urgency. Finally, some funds were earmarked for the unit sometimes called the administration building. However, this is a misnomer, for this is a service center for the entire school system and as such becomes just as vital as the instructional plants to the accomplishing of the school mission. A business can't operate at full potential if its command post and supply depot is a pile of junk, and neither can a school system. Trustees are doing their best to do something about this, as well as stretching the dollars as far as they can possibly go, and they are due commendation for it.

Worth A Try

Big Spring might well take to heart the advice given Friday at Colorado City when the West Texas Chamber of Commerce held its first tourist development conference.

In substance, it is take inventory; do something about things which might be developed as historical or tourist attractions; promote them with attractively done literature; discover and execute ways of more effective communication with the tourist.

This requires some desire, some initiative, some money, some ingenuity, and some perseverance. Few things we could do will return so great a potential on the investment.

Around The Rim

Special Occasions? We Got 'Em

One way you look at it, there must be at least 450 weeks in the new year. And seven or eight dozen months.

There has come to hand a special calendar which purportedly spells out all the "special" days, weeks and months of the year, and if you're not too busy, you can celebrate any half-dozen or so promotional events at the same time.

HISTORY MAY not record who conceived the first "special" week or month, but whoever did it clammed on to a good idea, because it is now being pushed to the uttermost extremes.

A great many of them are for noble causes (sometimes money-raising), others must simply be to awaken the consciousness of boobus Americanus for a few hours. Still others are blatantly commercial, and some must be for the sheer heck of it.

IT WOULD take a Berkeley beatnik to protest such special occasions as Heart Month, Cancer Month, Red Cross Month; Traffic Safety Week, Music Week, Hospital Week, Boy Scout Week, Crime Prevention Week and Fire Prevention Week.

These are the months, or the weeks, you see, that we good citizens stand up and be counted for What's Right.

WELL, THIS calendar will lead you into a variety of other special occasions, too, if you want to dig into it.

Many people would want to join in Ragweed Control Month, and Fight the Filthy Fly Month. Honest, there are dates for these, although lately it has been mice, not flies, at our house, and I can find no Mutilate the Mouse Week.

One can't really find fault with such concepts as Greeting Card Week, Smile Week, Return the Borrowed Book Week (which reminds me!), but it is doubtful that many of us are going to parade with placards on Weights and Measures Week and Welded Products Week. They're booked for 1967, all right.

THE FOOD processing people have been quick to catch on to the special-occasion gimmick. A quick glance revealed Pickle Week, Macaroni Week, Honey Week, Asparagus Week, Artichoke Week, Root Beer Week, Kraut and Frankfurter Week; there's a whole month for pancakes and hot dogs.

One month, September, looks a little busy, it being simultaneously Better Breakfast Month, Home, Sweet Home Month and Bourbon Month, and if there's any relation there you make the most of it.

IF YOU'RE marking the calendar, there are special days for people other than Mother and Father. Bachelor's Day is Feb. 28, Mother-in-Law Day is May 7, Old Maid's Day is June 4, Grand-dad's Day is Sept. 10, and Expectant Father's Day is Sept. 17. In the last-named occasion, the timing has to be right.

THERE ARE some other weeks which really appeal to me: Dry Air Prevention Week (which West Texas ought to tackle); Measure-Your-Mattress Week (why?); Silent Record Week (put 'em on and let 'em spin, but with zero volume); Back to Work Week (ugh!); Save-the-Horse Week (and high time); Lighthouse Week (to honor those unsung people who labor with the lanterns); Procrastination Week (don't do nothin' you can put off); and Whale-Watching Week (have to be in the right place at the right time).

If the whole calendar affects you the way it might, there is really and truly also an Indigestion Week.

For which, I take it, the symbol is an upraised package of bicarbonate of soda, and the slogan is "Burp, burp."

The Liberals Vs. Powell

(For Marquis Childs, who is on vacation)

WASHINGTON — The long-heralded attempt by angry fellow liberals to bar Rep. Adam Clayton Powell from the House of Representatives is not going anywhere when the showdown falls in the new Congress.

This is exactly as it should be. For when this thing is stripped of an emotionalism that is clearly excessive and of a finger-pointing humanly justified but not relevant, one central truth remains unalterable. This is that the voters deserve precisely the kind of representation they get and it is apparent that in his case Powell's Harlem constituency is perfectly satisfied with him.

MOREOVER, constitutional practice and tradition demand for every member a fair deal. This is easy enough to grant when the man under attack is widely seen as a good fellow. It is not so easy, however, when he is reckoned to be a bad fellow.

Powell's sins — including his contempt for the civil courts in his highly confused financial affairs — are doubtless legion. That he is something of a rogue as well—using this to denote irresponsibility as distinct from guilt—may be strongly argued. But to proceed from this to contend that he has no right to sit in the House, as Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin of California and some others have been doing, is to go altogether too far.

FOR POWELL sits in the House under the repeated choice of his voters, and however unwise that choice may be, it cannot fairly be overturned by excitable colleagues simply because he has for years undoubtedly behaved with a marked lack of decorum—if also a lack of hypocrisy.

To oust him justly would require his conviction of crime in a court of law and not in some pseudo-court of head-wagging at his undeniably imperious and embarrassing conduct. His more violent critics, indeed, would have done well to have done their homework before they set out to expunge Adam Clayton Powell.

FOR WHILE the Constitution does say that Congress alone may, if it wishes, determine who shall be allowed to sit among it, honorable custom also says that a man duly elected is not to be thrown out in the absence of legal proof of wrongdoing of a far more serious sort than has ever been charged to this man.

The truth is that those who have come so late to their conviction of Powell's unworthiness have gone about their job in the wrong way, as, unfortunately, ultra-liberals always do.

MANY YEARS of observance of politics, indeed, long since have convinced this columnist that two matters can never be trusted to ultra-liberals. One, so totally applicable to Powell's case, is even justice. The ultra-liberal mind simply cannot dispense justice to those it regards as nasty or wrong-headed; a curious secular puritanism quite submerges the requirement to be just, even to people one "can't stand."

The other area of the ultra-liberal's muddle-headedness is foreign policy. For his obsession with social reform —and currently for "peace" where there can be no peace with honor— blinds any dispassionate judgment under great, shiny clouds of good intentions in a world where these are something far from enough.

AN ILLUSTRATION of the first point is that Senate ultra-liberals long ago sought to condemn Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, the professional anti-Communist, without so much as a hearing until cooler heads demanded first a proper trial.

An illustration of the second point, apart from its visible proof today in the matter of the Vietnam war, was in the '30s when Hitler was rising. The most famous liberals of that era were isolationist, don't-mix-in-foreign-war types, right up until the bombs fell on Pearl Harbor.

Billy Graham

When I don't get my prayers answered, I'm afraid God is angry with me. Is this the reason our prayers are not answered? M.B.

I will answer your question by asking you one: if a child doesn't get everything it asks for, does this mean that his parents are angry with him? Sometimes we, like little children, want the things that are not for our good. Would it mean that God loves us if He gave us everything we ask for. Sociologists are finding out that the overprivileged child is just as much a problem as the underprivileged child. The children who get everything they ask for, develop all kinds of psychological problems. So, when you ask the Lord for something and He answers with a "no," you can be sure He isn't angry, but that He loves you enough to withhold from you the things that are not for your good.

Anyway, prayers are not just a means of getting what we want. The secret place where we meet God is not a "wishing well." In the model prayer given by our Lord, Jesus said, "Thy will be done on earth, as it is in heaven." Prayer is an exercise in which we commune with our Heavenly Father, and find out His will for our lives. Sometimes He wills things that, for the moment, may be unpleasant. But this doesn't mean He is angry with us. It means that He loves us enough to allow good things and bad, to work together for our good.

350,000 Gypsies

PRAGUE (AP) — There are 200,000 gypsies in Czechoslovakia, 150,000 of them in Slovakia, the news agency C.T.K. reported recently.

C.T.K. said 1,183 gypsy villages were registered in Slovakia and some of the families have up to 20 children.

C.T.K. complained only 66 per cent of the gypsy children attend school and criminal activities were three times as high where gypsies lived, than in other communities.

Economists See Slower But Continued Advance

NEW YORK (AP)—A group of leading economists rang in the new year with predictions that the economy's advance will slow down in 1967.

But they didn't forecast a recession.

The panel of 12 economists made up the 21st annual economic outlook forum of the National Industrial Conference Board, a private nonprofit economic research organization.

The chairman, Martin R. Gainsbrugh, who is vice president and chief economist for the board, said the consensus was that by the second half of 1967 the economy would be in a phase of "consolidation" but "certainly not a recession."

Gainsbrugh said the economic thermometers in terms of the nation's total output of goods and services may still be rising but the economic barometers "already indicate stormy weather ahead."

INDICATORS DOWN

Solomon Fabricant, professor of economics at New York University, was the most pessimistic of the group. He analyzed the performances of the so-called "leading indicators" — those measures of business activity that typically turn down or up—before a change in the state of the general economy.

"The outstanding fact visible at this time," he said, "is that almost all—certainly the majority — of the leading indicators are pointing downward.

"What this adds up to is this: There are signs that the expansion that we have had close to six years may now be coming to an end. These developments are not inconsistent with the appearance of a recession in 1967."

NOT INEVITABLE

But, he added, a recession "is by no means inevitable"—a recession could be avoided "if we fear one and take steps to protect ourselves."

Walter E. Hoadley, senior vice president and chief economist for the Bank of America, said prosperity would be the key word for 1967 but added it would be "a worrisome prosperity."

On a brighter note, Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor reported in the 1967 edition of "United States Industrial Outlook" that industry is optimistic about the outlook for 1967.

The report analyzes the prospects in 78 individual industries, accounting for 60 per cent of manufacturing, all of the construction industry and the wholesale and retail trades, and selected data for all other manufacturing industries.

According to the "Outlook," 14 of 78 industries will grow by more than 10 per cent, 37 anticipate increases between eight and 10 per cent, and 24 are expected to expand by less than five per cent.

The Commerce Department issued new figures showing a 4.5 per cent decline in orders received by factories for durable goods in November. The decline to the lowest level of the year followed a 4.1 per cent drop in October. The fall was centered in the aircraft industry.

Durable goods orders during November totaled $23.15 billion, compared with 24.24 billion in October and $25.27 billion in September.

Consumers increased their installment credit by $444 million during November, up from October's two-year low of $380 million, the Federal Reserve Board reported.

The board said automobiles and personal loans accounted for the bulk of the November growth.

BELOW EARLY AVERAGE

Despite November's rise, the level remained well below the average for the first three quarters of 1966 which ranged between $524 million and $595 million monthly.

The automobile industry's 1966 production was announced as 8,598,929 passenger cars, second only to the record 9,329,091 cars built in 1965.

Output for the week was estimated at 143,400 cars, up 25 per cent from 115,433 the previous week and down 26 per cent from 192,713 a year ago.

Steel production in 1966 reached a record 134,041,000 tons, up from the previous top of 131,462,000 in 1965. Output during the week totaled 2.22 million tons, compared with 2,377,000 the previous week.

WORRISOME PROSPERITY

- One dissenter says signs are down but break not inevitable
- One fifth of business will grow 10 pct.; one half 8-10 pct.
- Department of Commerce says durable goods orders off
- Installment credit grows again in November after let up
- Auto and steel output great in 1966; slightly off for week

India's Income Down

NEW DELHI (AP) — India's per capita national income fell by 59 per cent in the 1965-66 fiscal year, planning minister Ashoka Mehta announced.

He said a major factor was the drouth which crippled crop production and that there also was a decline in the growth of mining and manufacturing.

Just Get On One Mailing List—

WASHINGTON — The United States post office from all reports is going broke and I think I know the reason why. There is so much junk mail being sent out these days that the post office can't handle it. And the taxpayer who doesn't want the junk mail in the first place may have to pay more for his postage to make up the deficit.

I'm a reasonable man and I don't mind what the junk mail people do to me, but when they start flooding my kids with the stuff I get slightly upset.

THERE WAS A time when I came home at night and after going through the mail I would say to my 10-year-old daughter, Jennifer, "There's a letter here for you."

But now when I come home at night it is Jennifer who says to me, "There's a letter here for you somewhere." And she keeps the rest.

If memory serves me right it all started about three years ago when Jennifer sent away for a free sample of Yak complexion butter advertised in a comic book. For only 25 cents (to handle the cost of mailing) Jennifer received a nickel's worth of Yak butter and a catalogue advertising everything from soy bean bracelets to oyster shell roller skate keys.

UNBEKNOWNST to me the Yak complexion butter people sold Jennifer's name and address to the Teen-Age War Surplus Company, who sent Jennifer a letter offering her a set of kamikaze knives made from World War II Japanese bayonets.

Although Jennifer did not reply to this offer, it mattered little to the Teen-Age War Surplus Company. They made their profit by selling her name and address to the Marquis de Sade Children's Book Club.

PRETTY SOON Jennifer was being flooded with offers of free illustrated books in color of the Marquis de Sade's works, if she would buy the complete Lapland Encyclopedia for $180, payable at 25 cents a week.

After a terrible fight in which Jennifer accused me of retarding her education, we tore up the offers, which mattered not a bit to the Marquis de Sade Children's Book Club because they sold Jennifer's name and address to the Bach, Blues and Beatle Record Club.

WITHOUT MY knowledge Jennifer became a B.B. and B. Club member and pretty soon she was getting bills for records that she couldn't pay for. I tried to cancel her club membership but was warned if I tried, the company would take our house away ("see fine print, chapter three, paragraph four").

I guess I wouldn't have minded so much if the B.B. and B. Record Club hadn't passed on Jennifer's name and address to the Cereal of the Month Club which offered to send Jennifer a different cereal each month with a prize inside. Since there was a self-addressed envelope with the offer, Jennifer naturally joined without my consent.

THE CEREAL of the Month Club then sold Jennifer's name and address to the Frankenstein Mutual Fund set up especially for children.

From here on out I lost track of how many companies were corresponding with Jennifer. I do know it has got out of hand though, because just the other day Jennifer said she was thinking of hiring a secretary to help answer her mail.

To Your Good Health

Can Retardation Be Predicted?

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: We have a healthy 2-year-old daughter and want another child very much. The problem is that I have four sisters. Each has had two healthy children but each also has had an abnormal child (one microcephalic, one mongoloid and two retarded.) I have a brother with two healthy children.

Would it be safe for us to have another child? How much of this could be due to heredity? —E.M.

As I wrote to another reader sometime ago, not all retardation is heredity, but the greater proportion of it is.

Sometimes a child, born normal, becomes retarded later because of illness or injury, but these are in the minority.

When a child is born retarded without illness or accident to account for it, one must begin to take heed. When a parent or brother or sister has such a child, the risk of having an abnormal child becomes very much greater because the heredity factor must be respected.

It is also possible for a retarded child to be born into a family in which no indication of retardation can be discovered. Rarely is there any absolute way to predict that a child will or will not be retarded.

We can say only that the RISK of it happening is vastly multiplied when retardation appears in the branches of the family tree.

Rather than try to tell you, E.M., that you should or should not take this risk, I'd prefer that you seek the advice of people skilled in genetic counseling. Such service is available in university or other major medical centers. They are better qualified to estimate the probabilities.

If they advised not having more children, but you did and the next youngster was normal, it would not prove the counselors to be wrong. It would rather be a case of "beating the odds."

A further thought is this: Even assuming other children to be normal, that would not eliminate the risk of the trait still being passed on to future generations.

I cannot encourage you, but I respect your courage in being willing to face the situation.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can diet pills be harmful if you take them only as prescribed by the doctor? I have taken one every morning for two years. If I miss a day I eat constantly. I just don't seem to have any will power.—MRS. L.D.R.

The reason for insisting that such pills be taken only under medical supervision is, first, to prescribe a reasonable dosage, and second to watch for signs, if and when they appear, that indicate that it is time to stop using the drug. Thus any real harm can be averted.

An inherent weakness of using drugs to reduce is that sooner or later you have to stop them. It is important that you begin developing some will power, and some new eating habits, so you will be able to control your weight when you stop using the drugs.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Hanoi Premier Talks Of Peace

WASHINGTON — North Vietnam is beginning to feel the pinch and is ready to negotiate peace. This is the conclusion that may logically be drawn from the fact that the Hanoi government invited a New York Times correspondent to come to the capital and talk about peace in a specially arranged interview with the premier.

Undoubtedly North Vietnam has been badly hurt by the recent bombings and knows that a continuance of the destruction could result in internal revolution.

NATURALLY, the premier didn't speak in a crestfallen manner but, on the contrary, sought to give an impression of forcefulness and strength. Reading between the lines, however, one can see that there has been a turn of the tide.

AN ANALYSIS of the comments made to Harrison Salisbury, an assistant managing editor of the New York Times, shows that, even while discussing the four main points which hitherto have been regarded as prerequisites for peace, Premier Dong indicated ways by which concessions could be made. Thus, for instance, he recognized that it would be difficult for the United States to accept the idea of dealing with the Communist-led "National Liberation Front," which is the political arm of the Vietcong in South Vietnam. He said that this is a subject for "discussion," and that actual reunification in Vietnam could not be expected to be a sudden process.

THE IMPLICATION is that, once the United States and its allies withdraw, reunification would come after the natural pressures between sections and groups inside Vietnam are exerted. It is clearly evident that the North Vietnamese premier is anxious to get American forces out of Vietnam as soon as possible and is willing to make concessions to accomplish this purpose.

JUST WHY would the premier of North Vietnam be willing to give such an interview to one of the important newspapers in the United States when he could readily pass on his thoughts in private through diplomatic channels? The answer is that he believed it would be a better means of influencing world opinion and would furnish at least a way of rebutting the unfavorable impression that has developed because of the official rejection by Hanoi of the proposals for peace talks made by the British prime minister a few days ago.

NORTH VIETNAM wants peace — but on its own terms. This doesn't, however, mean that some formula for settlement would not be accepted. As a matter of fact, the coming four-day truce later this month—which might even become a seven-day truce—affords an opportunity for the very kind of discussion the premier was talking about in his newspaper interview.

The upshot of it all could be a Korean-type of cease-fire or armistice. Many people have forgotten that there was no peace treaty in Korea and that only an armistice was put into effect, with either side free to resume the fighting at will. Though nearly 14 years have elapsed since the Korean cease-fire, no peace agreement or treaty has ever been consummated.

THERE SEEMS no doubt Secretary-General Thant of the United Nations is also active in pressing for a peace conference. While the peace climate blows hot and cold, there are signs that North Vietnam is feeling the devastating effects of the war being waged by the armed forces of the United States and its allies.

OFF THE BEATEN TRAIL

Was Steinheimer's Silver Cache A Fact Or A Hoax?

By ED SYERS

Because treasure-hunting has long troubled her, she'll be Mrs. Jones' boss at the farm home, southeast of Waco. For 30 years now, she's wrestled whether her family land hides the legendary fortune of an extraordinary early adventurer, Karl Steinheimer.

Steinheimer's obscure saga, often recalled and — as often — ridiculed, depicts an early-1800 German youth, a runaway to successive careers as a Lafitte-known pirate off Galvez-town, and then 20 years as silver miner in Mexico's northern Sierra Marde.

When Texas finally became a Republic, Steinheimer started north for new life there; he'd fetch a wife-to-be down from St. Louis. A new life and good! His small, trusted party packed 10 jackloads of silver. Half across Texas, Indians hit, were beaten off. A badly-wounded Steinheimer dispatched a courier, hard-riding north.

"If no word followed, he was dead; the treasure, hers . . . and hidden carefully, just so."

In due time from St. Louis came the treasure hunters; the lady sought her legacy. They never found it but left a century of legend to taunt many a search of the Little River bottoms east of Belton. Somehow, that legend persisted that the treasure already had been found, moved, hidden again . . . perhaps not too distant.

STIMULATED SEARCH

"Perhaps not too distant" brings us to Mrs. Jones, who sends—along with much detail—a tracing of a crude, lead-plated map. "In 1936," she reports, "farm work's (soil turning) found enough to start a family's search.

"At depths of three to 10 feet, we found a carved-rock map, Austrian and Mexican coins minted 1804 and earlier, diary notes (protectively-sealed), also Indian artifacts.

"Seems on this farm was a camp for renegade Indians; with these Indians lived a German." The diary notes came years later, suggesting others had moved in and, one by one, killed the original treasure-hiders, then perhaps each other. Two caves had been dug. The smaller one, "for provisions," was found by the searching Jones family—empty.

The 1874 diary ends grimly: "Cannot get to cave to get money he watch it to close . . . Let him have it . . . leave tomorrow."

At first, this family felt they'd found Steinheimer's or his killers' last camp. After 30 years' hunting, record-searching (far as Germany), and finding "only what we called junk," this redoubtable lady admits "many believe that this is all a hoax."

She asks two things. One, understandably, is anonymity for name and homeplace. The other?

"What do you think, hoax or not?"

I think, Mrs. Jones, that — perhaps like Steinheimer—legends die hard.

For Lubbock's treasure-hunting Mrs. Emily Johnson, seeking a Howard County spring near a willow tree, Plainview's geologist W. F. I mapped the area and wrote my thesis regarding the Spring, Howard County."

San Antonio's Thomas G. Wilbanks ponders a different treasure, possibly lost: "In a recent OBT, you mentioned that 1966 might be the last for the scenic road through (scarlet-mapled) Sabinal Canyon . . . I believe there is state-level interest in possibility of preservation of the canyon as a state park . . . that if more people knew the Sabinal Canyon was to be closed, real concern would be expressed." Lubbock's Mrs. K. A. Bean: ". . . would appreciate information regarding Austin's 'Treaty Oak' that stands (just up from the Colorado). I can find little about it."

Austin's Leo E. Konz: ". . . what's known of the town of Cedar Mills, once near the east edge of Burnet County? The townsite was on a small creek near what is now Oatmeal: no buildings left and few ruined remains . . . some pieces of old Millstones."

Freak Reception Gains Free Talk

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Through a freak in radio reception, Air Force Capt. Richard L. Bowers got to talk to his wife in Lincoln, Neb., while he was flying a mission in Vietnam recently.

Allen G. Bowers, a retired Navy commander from Overland Park, Kan., a Kansas City suburb, said his son was returning to Saigon from a photo mission over North Vietnam when he made a freak radio contact with Hamilton Air Force Base, San Francisco.

Hamilton men quickly got Mrs. Bowers on the telephone at Lincoln and patched up a radio-telephone connection.

It was the first time Mrs. Bowers had talked to her husband since he went to Vietnam in August.

Air Explorers Seek Recruits

This is a switch, but Air Squadron 236 is looking for members.

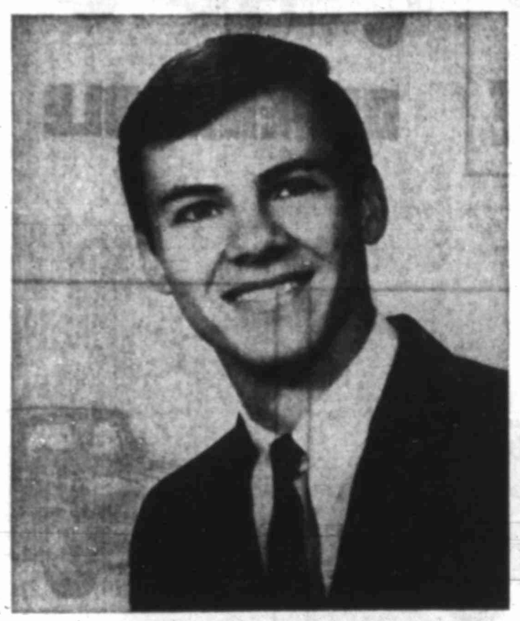

Explorer units sometime have difficulty in securing adult leadership to devote time to boys, but it's the other way around for the squadron sponsored by Cosden Oil & Chemical Company. It has an advisor and assistant advisor, plus a meeting place, but few boys.

The reason is that the squadron has only recently reorganized after a period of inactivity. All boys 14 years and older, interested in joining an Explorer post specializing in aviation are asked to call Jack Gulley at his home or at Cosden. In addition to the regular program of training at the Cosden hangar, there will be a field trip by air.

When Kathy prays

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

When Kathy prays I can almost hear angel wings flutter. Her simple conversations with God are so full of trust and confidence, I feel as though I am standing at the doorstep of heaven.

After prayers, I tuck her into bed, turn out the light and go downstairs. And I find myself continuing the conversation she has started. My prayer is always the same . . . that as she grows, and her needs and wishes change, my little girl will continue to develop her understanding and love of God.

How grateful I am for my church. It has been a constant source of inspiration for my own religious growth. I know it will be ready to help me answer Kathy's questions. It is wonderful to know that I do not have to tackle the religious education of my daughter alone.

Attend your church. Let it help you as you guide your child's religious thinking.

'QUEEN OF BLOOD'
Florence Marly and Dennis Hopper

Actress Is Speechless In Midnight Show Film

Newest starring role for actress Florence Marly and one of the biggest of her career has her on the screen for more than half of the picture—all without uttering a single word!

It's the title part in "Queen of Blood" which also stars John Saxon, Basil Rathbone, Judi Meredith, and Dennis Hopper. The terror thriller, plays Friday at the Ritz Theatre, in color.

Miss Marly plays the mysterious ambassador from a far off planet sent to establish relations with Earth, but revealed as subsisting vampire-like, solely on human blood. Her eyebrowless face and hair are painted green and she wears a skin-tight leotard, showing off her whistle-provoking figure, to complete the picture of a mysterious out-of-this-world being.

She carries off her part of the story with amazingly expressive eyes and facial expressions, and utters not a single line of dialogue at any time.

The Czech - born actress moved to Paris as a teenager to study art, literature and philosophy at the French capital's famed Sorbonne University. Her beauty and acting talents, however, won her an important first film role in "Alibi" which starred Eric von Stroheim and Louis Jouvet.

Then followed a succession of important French films including Rene Clement's "Les Maudits" (The Cursed Ones) in which she played the Nazi woman, a role which won her many nominations as "best actress." It was this part which also won her a Paramount screen test and a part opposite Ray Milland in "Sealed Verdict."

She then made other Hollywood films including "Tokyo Joe" with Humphrey Bogart, and then returned home to France. When the war broke out she fled to South America where she also made many films.

She recently returned to Hollywood and has starred in the stage production of Sartre's "Kean," plus many television guest star appearances on shows like "The Man from U.N.C.L.E."

Miss Marly also is a talented songwriter and has had numerous compositions published.

Holden Prefers Location Filming

On William Holden's first day off from location filming on "Alvarez Kelly," near Baton Rouge, La., he hopped in a car and drove to New Orleans, 80 miles away. After a short tour around town, Holden turned the car around and headed back to Baton Rouge—all without stopping the motor, getting out to eat or to get gas. It was his non-stop itch to be some place else.

That's just part of William Holden's wanderlust, and it has taken him to almost every corner of the globe.

He far prefers to film pictures on distant locations than on studio sets. Before "Alvarez Kelly," in which he stars with Richard Widmark at the Ritz Theatre in Panavision and color, Holden made "The 7th Dawn" in the jungles of Malaysia. In the new film, a Sol C. Siegel production, Holden plays a renegade adventurer, who tangles with a reckless colonel, over women and war.

"It doesn't matter where the location is," Holden says of his film work. "I know I'm going to like it because there are new experiences, new people and new ideas—new to me, that is."

He finds America just as interesting a place to make movies as anywhere else in the world, particularly if it is far from Southern California, which no longer holds surprises for him.

By coincidence, he found himself in Louisiana on "Alvarez Kelly" for the second time. Several years ago, Holden filmed "Horse Soldiers," in the same state, but in an entirely different section of it. He didn't consider "Alvarez Kelly" a repeat, although it, too, is a Civil War adventure drama.

Holden has no favorite places in which to make films. "A location is a location," he says succinctly, and he prefers it to be where he has never visited before.

Suspense Thriller Opening At Ritz

"Gambit," a suspense thriller in Technicolor set against the exotic backgrounds and intrigue of Hong Kong and the Middle East opens today at the Ritz Theatre with a cast topped by Shirley MacLaine, Michael Caine and Herbert Lom.

Miss MacLaine, a three-time Oscar nominee, portrays a Eurasian beauty who becomes involved in the theft of a fabulously valuable bust of the Empress Lissu, an art treasure unearthed by Marco Polo in China. By coincidence, the modern Eurasian girl is the exact likeness of the ancient Eastern queen. She served as the model for the remarkable replica of Indian-Iranian art fashioned for the picture by noted sculptor Alex Rosenfeld.

The actress wears a stunning array of Oriental chenongsams, designed by Jean - Louis and made from hand - woven brocades and embroidered silks imported from Damascus, Marrakech and Istanbul. In the early part of the film, as a cafe entertainer, she sings "I'm Gonna Spread My Wings."

Caine, who soared to international fame in "The Ipcress File," made his Hollywood film debut in "Gambit." Hailed as a British successor to Clark Gable, Caine combines rugged good looks with histrionic skill and is considered the potential number one matinee idol of the day.

Lom, a character actor of international note, appears as Ahmad Shahbandar, richest man in the world. An Easterner educated at Eton, Shahbandar blends the sophistication of the West with the guile of the Levant. He pits his wits against the game played by Miss MacLaine and Caine and is relentless in his efforts to protect his art treasure.

Ronald Neame, an illustrious name in British and Hollywood film circles, brought all of his redoubtable skill to the direction of "Gambit." Connected with such highly - acclaimed motion pictures as "In Which We Serve," "This Happy Breed," "Brief Encounter," "Tunes of Glory," and "The Chalk Garden," Neame is noted for his imagination, cinematic style and consumate taste in the creation of motion pictures.

'PEOPLE WANT FUN'

Zanuck Gambles High Stakes On Top Films

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

Last of five articles on the revival of 20th Century-Fox.

NEW YORK (AP) — Six months after taking over as president of 20th Century-Fox and closing its Hollywood studio, Darryl F. Zanuck was ready to swing the film company back into action.

He had reorganized personnel and slashed expenses. Now he was reaching the bottom of the barrel of unreleased movies and needed to resume production. He started making deals.

"It wasn't easy at first," admits Richard Zanuck, his father's production chief. "Nobody wanted to talk to us; with the studio shut down, we were kind of poison in the industry."

Young Zanuck began staffing the studio again, rehiring 75 per cent of the workers previously released. Production resumed with such films as "Move Over, Darling," "What a Way to Go," "Rio Conchos" and "Goodbye, Charlie." The television division was revitalized, and four series were sold, including "Peyton Place."

DISMAL REVIEWS

Money began pumping through the corporative veins, thanks in large part to the release of Darryl's own "The Longest Day" which brought $17 million in its first year. Million-dollar advances from theaters for expected rentals of "Cleopatra" helped the financial picture. The epic opened to dismal reviews, but business was good, especially after 30 minutes was cut from the running time.

The big change came with "The Sound of Music."

Rights to that musical had been bought for $1,250,000 but Fox couldn't make the film until the Broadway run was concluded. That time was approaching, and the Zanucks assigned Ernest Lehman to write a script. William Wyler was hired as producer-director, but he dropped out, declaring, "It's not my cup of tea." Darryl Zanuck estimates Wyler thus did himself out of $6½ million.

PROSPERITY

Robert Wise replaced him, and the movie was filmed for $8.2 million with Julie Andrews as the joyful Maria.

It was at the New York premiere of "The Sound of Music" that Darryl Zanuck realized he had succeeded in restoring 20th Century-Fox to prosperity.

After 91 weeks in U.S. release, the film had played 290 theaters and was still in 281 of them. The latest world gross is $69 million, by far the highest for any movie, and the film can still play at least 5,000 more important theaters in this country alone. It has sold more tickets than the populations of 20 American cities where it has played.

4,000 WORKERS

Other films, notably "Those Magnificent Men in Their Flying Machines," "Our Man Flint" and "Fantastic Voyage," have helped bring the sound of money to 20th Century-Fox. The television division is so successful — 10 full network hours this season — that the entire Desilu Culver studio had to be rented for the production overflow.

Employment is at an all-time high: 4,000. So is the company's gross income: $211,854,000 — $15 million higher than any other film company. Profits for the last fiscal year: $12,199,000.

The secret of the Zanuck operation? It appears to be the canniness of an old-time showman in guessing what the public wants to see, plus the readiness to gamble high stakes on top-notch attractions.

"People want fun when they go to the theater," says Richard Zanuck, interpreting his father's philosophy. "We intend to give them fun."

Wants To Read, Write At 109

STEELTON, Pa. (AP) — At the age of approximately 109, Sara Bridges has decided it is time she learned to read and write.

"I've been here such a long time, and if I learn to read and write, I'm going to thank the Lord," she said.

"I'm tired of depending on people to write letters for me. I see a child reading a paper and I wonder what's that child reading about." She says her parents were slaves and that she came to Steelton 63 years ago. She raised 14 children.
