Nixon Launching 'Mail Campaign'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today the postman will deliver a mail-order pitch from President Nixon to Spanish-speaking voters in California.

"Al fin, un amigo en la Casa Blanca," it reads. Translated: "At last a friend in the White House."

This special appeal to Spanish-Americans, primarily those of Mexican, Puerto Rican and Cuban origin, is part of a sophisticated, multimillion-dollar fusillade of letters Nixon has aimed at a few carefully selected segments of voters in larger states.

The targets include not only Spanish-Americans but elderly Republicans, urban and suburban Republicans and other groups thought ripe for special appeals.

Tuesday, 9.3 million letters were sent to hand-picked lists of voters in California, New Jersey, Illinois and Pennsylvania.

Eventually, the direct-mail campaign will spread to a total of 10 states as letters to out to New York, Ohio, Michigan, Texas, Maryland and Connecticut—a Nixon campaign spokesman said.

Together, these 10 states, where Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern generally is concentrating his own personal appearances, account for 246 of the 270 electoral votes required to win the Nov. 7 election.

Nixon campaign officials say the letters' purpose is to squeeze out a vote increase of 2 per cent or more in these key states by making subtly different appeals to the different kinds of voters to which they're addressed.

Campaign officials have so far been reluctant to discuss the direct-mail campaign in much detail. But one official, at the request of The Associated Press, has made public samples of three different letters intended for use in California.

One letter begins "Dear Fellow Republican" and appears aimed at GOP registrants in general. It puts drug addiction, the economy and the Vietnam war at the top of a list of important issues.

Another also is addressed to Republicans, but is pitched to concerns of the elderly. It stresses issues of Social Security.

The House-passed bill, written by the conservative coalition, would keep the minimum at $1.60 for teen-agers but would raise the basic rate to $1.80 (two months from now and to $2 a year later).

The Senate bill would raise the rate to $2 two months from now and to $2.20 two years later, with no differential for teen-agers. It would bring eight million new workers under coverage of the minimum wage.

Since the vote last August, Dent and other supporters of a strong bill have been working for a compromise that would swing enough Southern votes to permit a conference. They thought they had an agreement last week, Dent said, but it fell apart.

Welfare Reform Plan Fails To Pass Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has rejected a liberalized version of President Nixon's welfare-reform plan, virtually assuring that this Congress will enact no far-reaching changes in the welfare system.

By a 52-34 vote Tuesday, the Senate rejected Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's proposal based on Nixon's family-assistance plan but enlarging its benefits.

Still another variation of the plan is expected to be called up by Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., as debate continues today on the big Social Security welfare bill. But it appears to have little chance of passage.

The bill has been before the Senate for a week, but repeated interruptions for other business have delayed action on it. The floor manager, Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said he still hopes for passage by the end of the week.

The Ribicoff amendment was killed on a tabling motion made by Long.

Ribicoff, D-Conn., first introduced his proposal a year ago with widespread support ity and health care, crime and taxes in that order.

The third letter, addressed "Dear Fellow American" goes on: "Spanish-Americans have traditionally voted Democratic. This year we are not." It bears the printed signature of Latin movie star Cesar Romero. The other two letters are signed by California's Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Minimum Wage Bill Deadlocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — An increase in the federal minimum wage appears doomed. The House has refused for the second time to hold a conference with the Senate to work out a compromise.

Republicans and Southern Democrats, who want assurances the Senate bill will be scaled down before they agree to a conference, teamed up to defeat the motion for a conference, 196 to 188.

Last Aug. 1 the conservative coalition triumphed by the same eight-vote margin, 196 to 190. Rep. John H. Dent, D-Pa., manager of the bill, says he will not try again this session.

Besides leaving the minimum wage at $1.60 an hour, the vote drove a wedge between urban and rural congressmen that could make it hard to pass farm legislation in the future.

Just before the vote was taken, Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., head of a bloc of liberal Northern Democrats, reminded Farm Belt congressmen that major crop legislation will expire next year.

If the minimum-wage legislation fails, Burton said, "it will be difficult to get members from the big cities to see and vote for the interests of the rural areas."

Farm opposition was centered on provisions in the Senate bill that would require food and agricultural processors to pay overtime to employees. Most of their work is of a seasonal nature and they are now exempt from overtime pay.

The chief aim of the conservatives is to assure that the final version of the legislation contains a lower wage for workers under 18 than for other full-time employees.

The House-passed bill, written by the conservative coalition, would keep the minimum at $1.60 for teen-agers but would raise the basic rate to $1.80 (two months from now and to $2 a year later).

The Senate bill would raise the rate to $2 two months from now and to $2.20 two years later, with no differential for teen-agers. It would bring eight million new workers under coverage of the minimum wage.

Since the vote last August, Dent and other supporters of a strong bill have been working for a compromise that would swing enough Southern votes to permit a conference. They thought they had an agreement last week, Dent said, but it fell apart.

Nader offered the over-all conclusion that the people could lobby Congress if they would lobby more vigorously, vote against lethargic and unrepresentative lawmakers and back the conscientious ones more fervently.

Nader also described the Nixon administration as more corrupt than those of Ulysses S. Grant and Warren G. Harding. "It is easily the most corrupt administration, because they have more to be corrupt about," he said at a news conference.

But he said he wasn't taking sides in the election and added he didn't think any candidate can "make the changes I think are necessary."

The book says Congress has become "the broken branch" and has handed over its powers one by one to President Nixon.

As examples, it says Nixon has made law by regulation, has been given a free hand in foreign affairs, has used executive orders to write laws, refuses to spend the money Congress has appropriated and has made 4,000 executive agreements that are, in effect, treaties.

Long declared that both the Ribicoff and Nixon proposals would perpetuate defects in the present welfare system.

Nader Blasts Congress, President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress does not truly represent the people but is controlled by the president and special-interest groups, especially big business, according to Ralph Nader's $200,000 study of the federal government's law-making branch.

The White House and the president are emerging in the United States as a new kind of monarchy, said the gadfly of government at a news conference Tuesday heralding the release of the first part of his encyclopedic report on the machinations of Congress and the personalities of lawmakers.

His first release in the planned series of 20 to 30 volumes is a $1.95 paperback entitled "Who Runs Congress—the President, Big Business or You?"

The remainder of the series includes profiles of 488 senators and congressmen, all except those who are retiring or were defeated in primary elections. Also planned for release before the November election are a series of 11 reports on such topics as restricting campaign fund-raising and party organization in Congress; 13 studies of Capitol Hill committees; and two other paperbacks—a citizen's handbook and a congressman's handbook. The latter is designed to aid the lawmakers in becoming more representative of their constituents.

In meeting with reporters today, Friedheim acknowledged however that "they did not fly combat sorties for a couple of days there."

He later said he meant the period between Thursday and today. Part of the problem, Friedheim said, was the weather but added that he didn't know if Gen. John Vot, U.S. Air Force Commander in Vietnam, "had other reasons for it."

McGovern Claims He Has Plan To Settle Viet War

IRS Eyes Donation Loopholes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says it is studying whether to close a loophole through which big contributors to this year's presidential campaign have managed to escape paying taxes on gifts of stock.

But the IRS added that any new restrictions in this area would not apply to past contributions.

Officials conceded that both political parties have gained from the loophole, which has permitted contributors to escape paying both gift taxes and capital-gains taxes.

Some large donors have managed to avoid taxes—and so have the two major parties—by making their contributions in stock which has increased in value since purchased.

The stock is divided up into small blocks worth less than $3,000 each and funneled through dummy political corporations into the political coffers. The party of campaign committee then sells the stock at the higher price and nobody pays any tax on the transaction.

The gift-tax law allows a contributor to give $3,000 a year before taxes are paid after a $30,000 lifetime exemption has been exhausted. Setting up a number of dummy organizations and dividing up the blocks of stock permits avoidance of the gift tax.

The capital-gains tax is avoided because political parties have never had to file income tax returns.

"It appears that this practice had its inception and was continued in the belief that virtually all of the receipts of (political) parties were from gifts and that the parties would not have taxable income," the IRS said.

F111 Fighters' Withdrawal Confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon acknowledged today that the swing-wing F111 fighter-bombers were pulled from combat after the loss of one of the planes Thursday, but said the jets returned to action today.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim said a formal announcement of new air strikes over North Vietnam in which F111s participated will be made later by the U.S. Command in Saigon.

Until now U.S. officials both in Washington and Saigon had refused to confirm or deny reports that the F111s had been restricted from combat missions. Friedheim said Tuesday that they would be available for operations in Southeast Asia but would not state whether they actually flew into combat since the disappearance of one F111 Thursday.

In meeting with reporters today, Friedheim acknowledged however that "they did not fly combat sorties for a couple of days there."

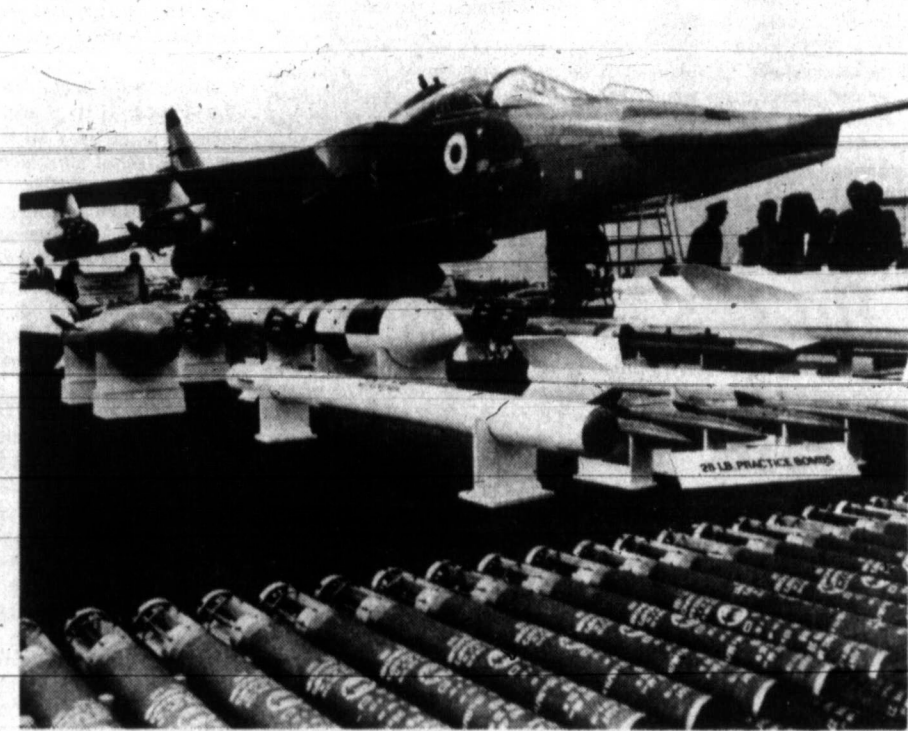

He later said he meant the period between Thursday and today. Part of the problem, Friedheim said, was the weather but added that he didn't know if Gen. John Vot, U.S. Air Force Commander in Vietnam, "had other reasons for it."

B52 Bombers Step Up Raids On Enemy Targets In South

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. command ordered a stepped-up B52 bombing campaign in the Saigon region today to counter Communist plans for a wave of attacks timed to influence the U.S. presidential elections next month, senior officials said.

Thirty B52 bombers struck enemy targets on four sides of Saigon. U.S. officers said the strikes were aimed primarily at new stockpiles of war materials and were ordered intensified after earlier raids proved successful.

Meanwhile, the Command disclosed in a delayed report that three American helicopters supporting South Vietnamese troops were hit by enemy ground fire within an hour of each other Monday near the district town of Ben Cat, 25 miles north of Saigon.

The Command said two of the helicopters sustained light damage and returned safely to their bases, while the third made a crash-landing and was destroyed. A total of three crewmen were wounded in the three incidents, the Command said.

Senior officers reported that South Vietnamese field commanders had shifted their forces closer to Saigon to defend major installations near the South Vietnamese capital, including the big base at Bien Hoa and Long Binh where hundreds of American support troops and airmen are still stationed.

Over North Vietnam, Typhoon Lorna sharply curtailed U.S. air operations, military sources said. The U.S. Command reported only 120 fighter-bomber strikes over the North Tuesday.

The U.S. 7th Fleet reported the Enterprise, the world's only nuclear-powered aircraft carrier, returned to the war zone Tuesday and some of its 75 jets flew missions against enemy targets in South Vietnam. The 90,000-ton carrier replaces the Hancock, leaving the strength of the 7th fleet at six carriers.

Military sources said the controversial F111 swing-wing fighter-bombers remained out of combat after one of the jets mysteriously vanished with two crewmen aboard Thursday night.

Typhoon Lorna crossed the North Vietnamese coast near Vinh, 145 miles above the demilitarized zone, shortly after midnight. Its course was northwesterly into the northern handle of North Vietnam where it was reported dissipating.

Red China Criticizes U.S.-Soviet Accords

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — China's first policy speech in the U.N. General Assembly hit the Soviet Union, the United States and their newly ratified strategic arms limitation agreements, but it was harder on the Russians than the Americans.

Chinese Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua told the 132-nation assembly Tuesday that the pacts were not "a step towards nuclear disarmament" but "the beginning of a new state in the Soviet-U.S. nuclear arms race" because they neither limited the quality nor required the destruction of such arms.

He spoke the same day President Nixon and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, in Washington formalities, brought into force two pacts signed in Moscow May 26 — a treaty limiting each country to 500 defensive missiles and an executive agreement putting a five-year freeze on offensive missile stocks.

Chiao's 65-minute speech in the assembly's general debate was the first since the Chinese Communists replaced the Chinese Nationalists in the United Nations last year.

He alleged there was "Soviet-U.S. collaboration for world domination" and said that for the United Nations to regain its prestige, it must "free itself from the manipulation and control by the big powers."

Announcement Set Oct. 10, Says O'Brien

Associated Press Writer
Sen. George McGovern will announce on Oct. 10 a plan to end the Indochina war, his campaign aides say. It will be part of an intensive antiwar campaign by his supporters during the Columbus Day weekend.

McGovern "will tell America what Richard Nixon cannot: how a president of the United States can bring all of our servicemen out of Vietnam and back to America," said Lawrence O'Brien, chairman of McGovern's Democratic presidential campaign.

But Vice President Spiro T. Agnew hinted that the Nixon administration may have some peace developments of its own to announce. There are "some things I can't relate" concerning attempts to settle the war, he told newsmen in Great Falls, Mont., Tuesday.

McGovern, who planned appearances in Buffalo and New York City today, criticized Nixon administration spending policies, saying Nixon is trying to escape responsibility for "the mammoth budget deficit projected for 1973."

He said the total deficit during Nixon's first term may exceed $100 billion and accused the administration of conducting a "political con game" in its demands for a $250 billion ceiling on federal spending.

McGovern's running mate, Sargent Shriver, appealed for the labor vote in Columbus, Ohio, telling a labor group: "In every state in his career Richard Nixon has said no to programs designed to benefit the workers of this country."

"Any labor leader who tells you to vote for Richard Nixon is telling you to vote against your own interests—to slash your own throats—to vote against the labor movement," he said.

President Nixon has not scheduled any campaign appearances this week. Vice President Agnew campaigned for the ticket in Indiana and Montana. He planned to go today to South Dakota. McGovern's home state, and to Nebraska.

In Great Falls, he praised the administration's initiatives in farm exports, saying they meant "cash in the pockets of American farmers."

The Nixon campaign organization Tuesday began dispatching 9.3 million letters to lists of voters in California, New Jersey, Illinois and Pennsylvania. A spokesman said the goal is to increase the Nixon vote by 2 per cent over what it would otherwise be.

Smith Adds 16 More Subjects For Special Meet Discussion

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A special session that lawmakers seemed to want had a full-blown agenda today thanks to Gov. Preston Smith who controls the flow of topics to the lawmakers.

He piled on 16 more subjects Tuesday, which makes a total of 27, even though the 30-day session has less than two weeks to go.

It is obviously rubbing some of the wrong way. Sen. O.H. "Ike" Harris interrupted a witness at a Senate committee hearing on insurance by exclaiming, "It's difficult to focus your attention when the governor continues to open the call."

The witness, Larry Teaver, ex-chairman of the State Board of Insurance, declined to respond to Harris. Teaver reportedly strongly urged the governor to call the special session to enact a bill setting up competitive rates for automobile and homeowner insurance in place of rates set by the three-member board.

Teaver told the Economic Development Committee Tuesday that insurance companies and their salesmen are charging $165 million too much a year in auto and homeowner policies at the expense of the public.

Competitive rates, Teaver said, "are the answer to 99 per cent of our problems."

Teaver said the insurance lobby "works around the clock 365 days a year with the State Board of Insurance to see that the decisions that the appointees are called upon to render are craftedly weighed in favor of the industry."

"It is utterly ridiculous to assume," he added, "that three political appointees are free of industry influence when called upon to price over $1.5 billion in insurance premiums annually."

Teaver was on the board for 10 months while the Legislature was cut out of session, but the Senate rejected his appointment by the governor in a July special session.

Most of Smith's new topics for the Legislature are local or non-controversial, but the list includes a request for $3 million to build a new state school for the mentally retarded at Fort Worth and higher hunting and fishing license fees.

Other proposals would: —Lower the age at which girls could be tried as adults in criminal courts from 18 to 17, or the same age at which boys may be tried as adults.

Young Woman Found Hanging In Borger Jail

A young Borger woman was found hanging in a jail cell in Borger Monday afternoon after turning herself in to the police as a suspect in a destruction of property case.

Mrs. Linda Robinson, 22, was found by her mother and a police officer late Monday afternoon less than an hour after she had turned herself in to the police.

She had been placed in the jail cell after failing to post a $1,000 bond.

Mrs. Robinson had shown signs of life when she was taken out of the mattress-covered noose attached to the iron-work on the top bed of a three-tiered bunk. She was pronounced dead on arrival at North Plains Hospital at 6:14 p.m.

Hutchinson County Justice of the Peace G.H. Turpin has ordered an autopsy. Results are expected to be announced in a few days.

Funeral services were set for 2 p.m. today at Ed Brown and Sons Chapel of the Fountains in Borger, with the Rev. Leonard Forsythe, pastor of Bible Baptist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Highland Park Cemetery.

A lifetime resident of Borger, Mrs. Robinson was a member of the First Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband, Jack Earl; a son, Jack E. Robinson, Jr., and two daughters, Tomonya Deon and Bobbie June, all of the home; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Gilchrist of Borger; three brothers, Cecil Gilchrist of Denver, Colo., and Bobby and Timmy Gilchrist, both of Borger; and both grandmothers, Mrs. Bessie Martin of Clarendon and Mrs. Dora Gilchrist, address unavailable.

Over 4,000 Bales Of Cotton Ruined

ENNIS, Tex. (AP) — About 4,000 bales of cotton were destroyed by a fire Tuesday at the Ennis Compress Co.

Manager Roy McBrayer said the cotton, valued at about $750,000, was lost despite the efforts of firemen from Ennis, Corsicana, Waxahatchie, Ferris and other nearby communities. The fire blazed for several hours before it was contained, although firemen said the fire would burn for several days before it is completely extinguished.

McBrayer said some 24,000 bales of cotton were housed in the compress building, which was about one-third destroyed.

Coin's Value Enhanced By Trip Into Space

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A 179-year-old U.S. coin secreted on board the Gemini 7 spacecraft in 1965 was sold recently for $15,000, but could now be worth as much as $100,000. The Associated-Press learned Tuesday.

The coin is a 1793 large cent which normally sells in numismatic circles for about $2,000.

A space agency spokesman, in response to a query from The AP, admitted that the coin had been slipped aboard Gemini 7, the 14-day earth orbit space mission in 1965. The spokesman claimed that no one connected with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, including astronauts Frank Borman and James Lovell, profited from the transaction.

In a prepared statement, the space agency said, "The coin was placed in the in-flight medical kit by Dr. Howard Minners, a flight surgeon who left NASA several years ago."

The coin, said the statement, was the property of William Ulrich, a coin dealer then living in Minneapolis, Minn. NASA said that after the mission Minners and Gemini 7 astronauts Borman and Lovell signed a letter certifying the coin had been in space and then returned it to Ulrich.

Ulrich sold the coin two months ago to William Fox Steinberg, a long-time coin dealer in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Contacted at his home in the Bahamas Islands, Ulrich, now retired, said he sold the coin for $5,000 in cash, plus a $10,000 lot located next to the Lucaya golf course on Grand Bahama Island.

Ulrich said he now regretted the sale.

"I wouldn't even consider selling it if I had it today," he said. "That coin could be worth today anything up to $100,000."

Ulrich refused to answer questions about any participation in the profits of the coin sale by Borman, Lovell or Minners.

Ulrich said he had originally tried to get a rare 1854 gold dollar—one of only four made in Charlotte, N.C.—aboard the spacecraft.

Borman, he said, declined to take the coin because it was "too valuable a coin to be lost to the world," should something happen to the spacecraft.

Instead, Ulrich submitted the penny and it was flown.

Ulrich said he knew Minners well and at that time talked to him frequently by telephone.

Minners, contacted at his Bethesda, Md. home, however, tells a different story of the coin that went into space.

The doctor said he put the coin aboard the spacecraft as a favor to a man he had never met.

"This fellow wrote to me and asked if it was possible," said Minners, now with the National Institute of Health. "It wasn't anything spectacular at that time... to me, this was just one more public relations type of thing done in the space program."

Minners said he slipped the coin into the Gemini 7 in-flight edge of Borman and Lovell. He removed the coin on the recovery ship USS Wasp, after the space flight, and showed it to the astronauts. Later, he said, they all three signed a letter and sent it with the coin back to Ulrich.

"I'm a coin collector and I never thought it was worthwhile," he said. "I had a 1793 cent at that time. I wouldn't want to take the chance of sending it up into space. I perceived it as a risk."

Minners stated emphatically: "There was no financial consideration to myself or to the astronauts."

At that time, said Minners, "It wasn't that much of a big deal," and he doesn't recall then reading any regulations forbidding it.

New NASA regulations controlling such items were handed down recently after it was revealed the Apollo 15 astronauts arranged to profit by $7,000 a piece from stamp covers carried by them into space. They later declined the money, but were reprimanded.

NASA has since also revealed other profiteering schemes by astronauts, including the selling of autographs and the unauthorized carrying into space of wrist watches. The new regulations limit to 12 the items astronauts may carry into space and strictly forbids profiteering.

"Foxy" Steinberg, the Fort Lauderdale man who bought the Gemini 7 coin, said he doesn't plan to "commercialize" with the old penny, but did say: "It really belongs in the Smithsonian. The first big man who comes along who wants to buy it for a museum, we'll be glad to part with it."

The sale would not, however, he said, be "to anyone who would demean the space program."

Steinberg declined to speculate on the coin's worth, but said the value was significantly enhanced by its trip into space.

"This is the only coin ever taken into space and there probably will never be another," he said.

The Gemini 7 astronauts have both left the spaceman's corps. Borman is now an executive with an airlines in Florida. Lovell is still with the space program, but as an executive.

NASA said no disciplinary action over the Gemini 7 coin was anticipated.

Wheat Expected To Be Sent To Russia By U.S. Vessels

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor sources say the government soon will announce an agreement guaranteeing that one-third of the 400 million tons of U.S. grain sold to Russia will be shipped in American flag vessels.

"It will mean a real shot in the arm to the American merchant marine," said one union official.

The agreement, expected to come from the Commerce Department and its Maritime Administration, will provide that another one-third of the $750 million worth of American grain going to the Soviet Union over the next three years will be shipped in Soviet vessels and the remaining one-third in other foreign-flag ships.

The sources said the agreement marks a success for President Paul Hall of the AFL-CIO Seafarers' International Union, who argued for a guaranteed share.

The Seafarers was one of several U.S. maritime unions which boycotted the sale of four million tons of wheat to the Soviets in 1964. The boycott halted shipments for nine days and ended when the unions won U.S.

assurance that American ships would get at least half of the cargoes.

In the 1964 controversy, the Soviets balked at shipping grain in American vessels because costs were several dollars higher per ton. But, this time, the Soviets have agreed on the equal division among American, Soviet and other foreign vessels.

The Seafarers reportedly are satisfied that a one-third share of the current grain shipments will keep all available American ships busy shuttling the grain to Russia.

The labor sources said Seafarers officials were worried that the Soviet Union's original agreement to take one-third of the grain in American ships might not materialize without a U.S. guarantee as well.

'Entering' And Thefts Reported

Mrs. Sammy McPherson, 504 Naida, reported to police this morning the theft of a four-roller dolly from the back of her pickup truck.

The dolly is both expensive and unusual in that it is a four-roller affair and should be easily spotted if the thieves tried to sell it.

In other police activity over the past 24 hours, two Pampa residences had strange visitors. In the 800 blk. of Brunow St., a drunk got in the wrong house and had suffered several blows at the hands of the owner when police arrived.

In the 300 blk. Gillespie St., a resident reported being awakened by an intruder described as in his late teens and rather wild as though under the influence of drugs. The owner got him from the house before calling police.

Score: one drunken intruder in jail and one young intruder still at large. Officers believe they can locate him from the detailed description given.

Oilfield Worker Dies From Shock

A Midland oilfield worker employed by Drilco, a Pampa oilfield service firm, apparently died from electrical shock Tuesday while working on a drill collar about 10 miles west of Higgins.

Bill Sitko, 25, apparently came into contact with a black light drawing 220 volts of current. He was found shortly after the accident by members of a field crew about 1:30 p.m.

Sitko had been alone at the time of the incident. Efforts made to revive the man by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation failed.

He was pronounced dead on arrival at Newman Memorial Hospital in Shattuck, Okla. He was taken there by Mason Funeral Home ambulance service.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-H. V. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I live in Salem, Ore., and here is my complaint. The government gives me food stamps for which I can get anything I want to eat. They even let me have chewing gum. But they won't give me soap or toilet paper! This doesn't make any sense to me, and I would like you to please find out how come, because those items are a lot more important than chewing gum. Thank you.

MRS. C. IN OREGON

DEAR MRS. C.: It didn't make any sense to me either, so I referred your complaint to your very able senator, Mark O. Hatfield. He replied: "Congress sought to get food into the stomachs of the truly needy, so by law, only FOOD can be obtained with food stamps. Not only is cleanliness next to Godliness, it is as essential to good health as food, I agree, poor people need soap more than they need gum. Now you've given ME something to chew on, and I am going to do all I can to improve the situation."

DEAR ABBY: I just read about the woman who is humiliated because her husband gawks at women with big bosoms. The explanation was that such men are little boys still looking for "Mommy."

Well, I have a husband who likes to look, too, but the girls he looks at in no way resemble his "Mommy." They are usually teen-agers. When he sees a young girl in a miniskirt and a nice figure he forgets where he is and whom he's with. He gets as close as he can to her, and just stares and stares. And the look on his face is frightening at times.

My husband is 50 and so am I. I have a figure my married daughters envy and I keep my hair nice and dress well.

Don't tell me to talk to my pastor. He is my pastor. I honestly think this man is sick in the head. What do you think?

WORRIED IN FLORIDA

DEAR WORRIED: I think you ought to get him to a doctor. A man of the cloth can't afford to sully his reputation, and he surely will if he doesn't quit this unbecoming behavior. Pastors are not saints. Pastors are people, and they are susceptible to the same illnesses (and weaknesses) as the rest of us.

DEAR ABBY: I think I have an even more touche' reply for the person who says, "I'll tell you something very confidential if you promise not to repeat it."

Say, "Don't tell me. You know I can't keep my mouth shut any better than you can."

Your Horoscope

By Jeanne Dixon

THURSDAY, OCT. 5

Your birthday-today: The year's activity brings much excitement, many valuable lessons, and experience. By the end of the year, however, things are left just about where they were to begin with. Today's natives have modern, progressive ideas, mixed luck in personal happiness.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Whatever was already started keeps rolling. Innovations fail or are misunderstood. It's your responsibility to stick to schedule.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Difficult people, unforeseen circumstances upset your work—not much is lost, as little is new to constructive uses now.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: See this relatively un-stressed day as a detour from your regular life experience; make a holiday-vacation sort of mood of it.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Make the most of a mixture of conflicting trends, coincidence, in which un-sound ventures falter or turn in un-planned directions.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: You can have a touch of passing glory today if you leave the material side out of it going and coming. Travel is not productive.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Not as much comes of current activity as you expect. Experimental procedures are out of line with the needs of the day. Pray this evening.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Cautious poking will show you the weak spots and what to do about them. Not so serious a mood gets you through the day.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Fewer demands on friends and family are in order. Avoid beginning any significant new venture or making any promise of participation.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Follow an orthodox path. Friends are edgy, leave them alone. Take yourself off when and where you can for solitary experience.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Some delay is normal for today, but not an exaggerated reaction to waiting. Trifles offer irritation you needn't adopt.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: You cannot keep secrets today. The ways most people think do not agree with your best welfare. Think problems out for yourself.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Care with money is standard operating procedure. The small events of the day are tokens, signals of more important matters.

Adventures in Sewing

Choose Fabric That's 'Right'

Third in a Series.)

By Mabel S. Obenchain

Hey there! You with the stars in your eyes and that brand new sewing machine. The stores are full of tempting fabrics that will make your fingers itch to start sewing. Nature's fibers are well represented in wools, linens, silks and cottons in many weaves, finishes and colors.

New fabrics of man-made fibers are appearing every day and it takes an expert to identify the many synthetic fibers and blends that are now available. Some of these wonder fabrics make sewing easier while some of them require special techniques. Always check the hand tag on the bolt of material of any fabric you purchase and ask for any special sewing directions the manufacturer may have supplied.

Since many of the synthetic and processed fabrics do not have what is called "ease," the selection of the proper design is important. A kimono or raglan sleeve, since it does not have to be "eased" into the armhole, will give much better results with a synthetic or resin treated drip dry fabric. The kind of thread and the stitch setting on your sewing machine must also be considered.

Following are some road signs for you as you travel from pattern to fabric to finished garment.

Bonded Fabrics—smooth road ahead.

Bonded fabrics come in many materials from heavy suitings to knits to sheer laces. They have a tricot backing fused to the outer fabric which gives it body and serves as a lining. And they are easy to handle, saving time and labor.

Before purchasing a bonded fabric, look carefully to gles to the selvage. The backing may be off grain as it is tricot and has give in all directions.

No seam finish is necessary as bonding prevents fraying. If an interfacing is indicated, use a lightweight one to avoid bulk. When pressing, use a steam iron, remember the tricot backing is heat sensitive. Stitches for the hem will not show as they are made into the tricot backing.

Bonded Fabrics—warning. The newest in bonded fabrics is the double bonded fabric. This is a wool on wool — two fabrics of the same type. These fabrics are very tricky to handle. They have no give, so a simple pattern design is indicated. Since they are used mostly for reversible coats and jackets, a flat stitched seam is necessary so that both sides will be finished properly.

Stretch Fabrics—curve ahead.

Stretch fabrics are a blend of natural, synthetic and textured yarns that result in a fabric that can expand and return to its original shape. Stretch fabrics can be cotton and Dacron, denim, and even velvet and brocade. No special pattern is needed but it is important when planning your garment to plan which way you need the ease. In slacks and shorts the stretch must be up and down; in skirts and jackets the stretch should be from side to side. Some stretch fabrics have stretch both lengthwise and crosswise while others have it in one direction only. Garments made from stretch can be fitted closer to the body because of the extra give.

When laying out your pattern and cutting, avoid stretching the fabric so that your pieces will be true.

Set the machine for 14-15 stitches per inch. (It is wise to practice on a sample piece to adjust the stitch and tension, for you want the seam to stretch with the fabric.) Use nylon thread; feed the fabric evenly through the machine — avoid undue pulling or pushing as you sew — let it glide beneath the presser foot.

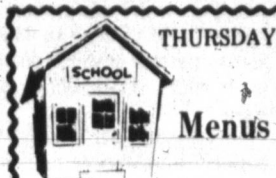

A smooth hem will result if you pink or overcast the raw edges, turn up and hem by hand with a loose enough

Perryton Hosts Exhibit Of Pampan's Art Work

By JANE KADINGO

A Pampa artist, Mrs. Billie Osborne, south of city, was to be in Perryton today for the opening of her one-woman art show at the Perryton library. The show will continue until the end of the month.

Mrs. Osborne will give a talk on art to the sponsoring club, the Perryton Sorosis Club, at the library for the opening of the exhibit, which includes 34 paintings in oil or pastel, of landscapes, still-life, portraits and abstract works. She is exhibiting, also, four pieces of wood sculpture.

A tea, from 2 until 5 p.m. Sunday at the Perryton library, will honor Mrs. Osborne. The event is open to the public, friends and guests.

A student of Dord Fitz for five years, Mrs. Osborne has studied, also, under such New York artists as Kestutis Zapkus, Elaine D'Kooning and Louise Nevels, considered one of today's leading wood sculptors.

Other art instructors include Mary Lee Garrett of Clovis, N.M., and Gladys Adams of Pampa.

She began painting as a child, and began taking some instruction 14 years ago, although her serious study began under Dord Fitz.

Although she seldom enters contests, she did win some and second and third place ribbons in a Federated Women's Club contest. Her biggest thrill she said, was in high school when she won first and second place ribbons in a 39-county regional contest, held at Hardin-Simmons University.

Two of her paintings, she related, are in Austria, taken there by two women visiting this country who wanted to take back something from the United States.

One-half of all books published in Norway have appeared since 1935.

HEW Survey Shows Nation's Emergency Care Program Inadequate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Doctors were alarmed when they saw the burned and battered 17-year-old youth wheeled into the hospital emergency room.

On a bet he had climbed a utility pole in rural Georgia. The electrical jolt at the top burned his shirt off. The 30-foot fall broke his back and some ribs. One lung was punctured.

But the doctors' alarm multiplied when the ambulance driver boasted how by himself he had handled the emergency. He dragged the youth 50 yards to the ambulance, then rushed to the hospital without immobilizing the victim on a back board to spare possible aggravation from broken bones grinding and cutting within the youth's body.

The youth was relatively fortunate. He lost an arm to the electrical burn, but his other injuries mended without crippling damage.

But another 60,000 persons were not so fortunate last year. That's the number of heart attacks, accidents and other victims of sudden illness who could have lived if given proper emergency care, according to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"Emergency medical service is one of the weakest links in the delivery of health care in the nation," said the National Academy of Sciences in a March study.

The conclusion is echoed repeatedly in government reports and testimony before Congress.

The academy estimated more than 20,000 of the 25,000 ambulances in the country are of the hearse, limousine or station wagon type "inadequate in space and equipment." The Department of Transportation estimated that 53 per cent of the nation's ambulances don't have equipment specified in American College of Surgeons standards.

An HEW survey showed five per cent of the nation's ambulance attendants have no training in first aid. And while almost two-thirds of the attendants have completed the equivalent of an advanced first aid course, the most recent survey showed only about five per cent of all attendants measured up to the more stringent requirements proposed by the federal government.

The survey found that once in a while, a patient's vital signs.

Less than 7 per cent of the nation's ambulances can communicate with hospitals, according to HEW.

And once at the hospital, there is no guarantee of prompt, top-notch care. The American Hospital Association reported that about half the nation's hospitals do not have a basic capability for emergency care.

The American College of Surgeons' suggested standards for emergency departments call for every patient to be seen by a doctor within 15 minutes. The standards also suggest that every emergency department be open 24 hours a day and that a doctor see every patient.

But the American Hospital Association found that only 17 per cent of the hospitals with emergency rooms are staffed by a doctor on duty 24 hours a day.

Congress is seeking a remedy for the situation. The Senate passed by a 78-0 vote earlier this month a bill which would authorize HEW to set standards for emergency care and spend $300 million over three years to help hospitals and governments which measure up. A similar bill for $255 million in aid is in position for a House vote but isn't scheduled for floor action.

Authorization for $20 million in aid to hospital emergency rooms has been on the books for two years, but Congress has yet to appropriate the money.

The Nixon administration opposes the latest legislation, contending improvement of emergency service is a state and local responsibility.

The American College of Surgeons has praised ambulance service in Seattle, Houston, Los Angeles, Miami and Jacksonville, Fla. The number of deaths per accident victim has dropped by 38 per cent in Jacksonville since the city upgraded its service, which is provided by the fire department.

But nationwide, the Department of Transportation told Congress it has not designated any state as meeting all the standards set for emergency medical services five years ago. On its annual state-by-state report card for compliance with various federal highway safety standards, three states rated zero out of 100 and nine rated 25 or less.

Arkansas, Indiana and West Virginia had the zero ratings. The states rated 25 or less were Alaska, Connecticut, Hawaii, Idaho, Kansas, Michigan, Missouri, New York and Tennessee. DOT can cut off aid to states which don't measure up, but has never used the power.

Paraguayans Making Appeal To Keep U.S. Attached For Three More Years

ASUNCION, Paraguay, (AP) — Instead of "Yankee go home," the slogan in Asuncion is "Wally don't go." The State Department is still the target.

The unusual appeal to keep a diplomat here is being made for Wallace E. Keiderling, cultural affairs officer. He is nearing the end of a three-year assignment and is scheduled to return to Washington about Dec. 1 unless his tour is extended.

At a "demonstration" in the Asuncion Tennis Club more than 100 Paraguayans, including artists and musicians, called on Washington to let Keiderling remain. Petitions with more than 10,000 signatures and some thumbprints of persons who can't write were presented to the U.S. charge d'affaires, Ralph Richardson.

"We sincerely ask that Wally, his wife and family be permitted to stay with us for three more years, nothing more," one speaker said.

The crowd responded with cheers when Keiderling, speaking Guarani, said: "I am very fond of Paraguay and the Paraguayans."

Keiderling is the only member of the foreign diplomatic corps to speak the Indian dialect used by most Paraguayans. His determination to learn Guarani and to play the Paraguayan harp, plus a packed schedule of events throughout the country have endeared him to thousands — but some people at the embassy are said to feel that Keiderling is not fitting the proper mold for a career employee and so should return to Washington for retraining.

Keiderling, 42, is not in the normal foreign service pattern. Born in Westfield, N.J., he received his bachelor's degree at Oklahoma State University in 1954. Then for about six years he worked as a lifeguard in Dade County, Fla., or was off touring Europe, Asia or Latin America with a rucksack and his bala uka.

In 1961 he received his master's degree in Florida and joined the U.S. Information Service. In Bolivia he met and married his wife Rosaria. Two daughters were born in Bolivia and a son in the Dominican Republic.

After arriving here Keiderling undertook the complete refurbishing of the Paraguayan-American cultural center, where 1,000 students are studying English.

He expanded one art gallery and added another, doing the panel work himself while his wife sewed the drapes. Occasionally the three children slept in the center while the parents worked late.

Keiderling's boldest venture was renting a train — with approval from the cultural center's six Paraguayan and five U.S. directors.

The six-car musical train with Keiderling and 12 Paraguayan musicians made a four-day tour to 25 towns in the interior.

By estimate, 40,000 persons attended performances given from the flat-car stage. Another trip is scheduled next week to help the town of Luque celebrate its anniversary.

Keiderling wants to remain here, but says he will accept any Washington ruling.

This club unbalance indicated the great desirability of playing East for the queen of diamonds but Arthur wanted a sure thing.

He cashed the last high spade and last high heart and West followed to both.

That accounted for 12 of West's cards. He couldn't have more than one diamond. A diamond to dummy's king picked up West's nine-spot and the proved finesse against East's queen brought in the grand slam.

Easy when you see it here. Arthur made it just as easy at the table.

Arthur Robinson of Philadelphia has been one of the world's greatest players for many years. Here we see him discovering East's queen of diamonds just as surely as Columbus discovered America in 1492.

It was an important team match and Bobby Jordan put Arthur in a slightly optimistic grand slam.

Arthur decided quite properly that he wanted to find the best play for his contract and was not interested in playing safe so as not to go down more than one trick.

He cashed two spades two hearts and two clubs and the second club brought some real information. East showed out!

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Alma's sorority sister lost her fiancé when he found out she'd been a FREE sexual concubine of another college man! So you girls better disregard the stupid talk of Women's Libbers. This is still a man's world and virile males don't like to marry castoff females!

CASE V-509: Alma D., age 20, is a college coed.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "we had a lively sex debate at our sorority house last night."

"For we were trying to analyze the romantic attitudes of men."

"One of our sorority sisters has been living with a boy for several months."

"They planned to get married this fall."

"But he found out that she had also been sleeping with another college student two years ago."

"So he broke their engagement at once and moved out, leaving her crushed."

"She is now back in school and staying at the sorority house."

"But she wonders why her recent fiancé deserted her to marry a young widow, whose husband had been killed in Vietnam."

"For this widow had thus had sex relations with another man, too, so why would my sorority sister be jilted just for doing the same thing?"

MALE SEX PSYCHOLOGY. Men are often fearful of a wedding ceremony, since they regard marriage as a "life sentence."

And they feel they give up far more than does the bride when they march down the center aisle.

That is generally true, though it rankles the Women's Libbers intensely to have me say so!

Thus, the typical male can easily get a half dozen desirable women to say "Yes" to his marriage proposals. No so with women! For men, after the teen-age years, are slow to propose!

For there are an extra 5,000,000 eligible females above the age of 21. And not enough males to go around.

Men realize, therefore, that it is a "buyer's market."

And when they "buy," as by agreeing to marry a girl, they figure they are paying full price for their matrimonial merchandise.

So they doubtly resent learning that a girl has given herself to some other male without requiring the public purchase price, namely, the wedding ceremony!

That's why Alma's sorority sister was ditched in favor of a young widow.

Both had had a sexual affair previously.

But Alma's sorority sister didn't exact the public "purchase price" in the form of a wedding.

Instead, she gave away her intimacy to a man who strolled into her life and then walked out again.

He got the sexual frosting off the cake and for free!

The widow, however, had exacted the public purchase price, so her husband had assumed the financial and social obligations that society prescribes for a married man.

Subsidence Hitting Old Battlefield

Editor's Note: Large chunks of the battleground where Gen. Sam Houston and his Texas Army worked military magic and made Texas free more than 100 years ago is rapidly turning into a lake. Here's a look at the San Jacinto Battleground, a place won by Texas courage and which is slowly being lost to rising water. This is the third in a series.

HOUSTON (AP) — If Gen. Sam Houston fought the battle of San Jacinto today instead of in 1836 he'd probably need the help of a Navy.

The San Jacinto State Park, marking the site where Gen. Houston and the Texas Army won independence from Mexico for the Republic of Texas, is sinking at the rate of almost six inches a year.

As the land sinks, water is advancing steadily on the park from three sides and some areas once trod by Gen. Sam and his boys are now awash.

Park Superintendent James Frantz said five acres of the park have been submerged in the last three years.

Subsidence, of sinking ground, is a widespread phenomenon in the Houston area, but it has hit the San Jacinto park area hardest of all.

Robert Gabrysch of the U.S. Geological Survey said the Houston subsidence is taking the shape of a huge bowl centering on the San Jacinto park.

The effects on the old battleground are dramatic.

One field and a road, near where Mexican Gen. Santa Anna and his troops were camped the day of the battle, now are constantly covered with water. The road is marked only by a sign which reads, "No fishing from the bridge." The bridge is out of sight, under water.

Robert Simons, a Houston resident, said he has been coming to the park since he was a boy and used to fish the channel that once ran under the road.

The water kept getting closer and closer to the road," he recalls, "and now it covers it all the time."

Simons, wading in to catch some crabs recently, carefully obeyed the sign. He didn't fish FROM the bridge. He fished ON the bridge and easily caught a half dozen blue and orange crabs.

Frantz, superintendent at the park for three years, said the encroaching water is killing "a couple of dozen" trees in the park annually. And several roads, he said, are now frequently impassable because of rising water.

He fights a constant battle to save land where possible. State trucks haul in dirt and main roads are occasionally resurfaced to raise them slightly.

The San Jacinto Monument, a stone tower and museum in the center of the park, has suffered no serious damage.

Frantz said the monument is sinking at a uniform rate and the building itself generally is unaffected.

A terrace around the monument base, however, has cracked in a number of places. One side has been shored up with fill and cables installed to hold a terrace wall in place. Frantz said similar work needs to be done on the other side.

In front of the monument is a long reflecting pool. It once was surrounded by a sidewalk reached by a short flight of stairs. Now the water in the pool covers the sidewalk and is lapping the stairs. As the ground sinks, the pool gets larger.

As the top of the pool is the Battleship Texas park area. When spring tides are high, says Frantz, the water invades, sometimes flooding out a concession stand, a parking lot and climbing a foot or so up a nearby war monument.

Frantz said a $1.16 million bulkhead is planned to keep water out of the battleship park area but this will have little effect on the battleground area a mile away.

On the northeast edge of the park grounds are three houses used as "park workers' residences."

These houses, said Frantz, regularly are surrounded by water.

On a tour of the grounds, Frantz pointed to the home of Lee Murphree, his assistant.

"If we get three days of east winds, the water piles in here and that house is surrounded," said Frantz. "Murphree's kids go out into their backyard and catch crabs."

"We need to move those houses," he said. "Another eight years and they'll be under water. A hurricane now will wipe them out."

Frantz said engineering studies are underway on how to protect what is left of the park.

Dunlap's To Observe Anniversary

Dunlap's in Coronado Center will join other Dunlap's stores in observing the 49th anniversary of the chain department store in the Greater Southwest.

Dunlap's in Pampa opened for business in 1954 in the downtown area. The store was one of the first ones to move into the Coronado Center shopping complex about eight years ago.

Featuring nationally branded merchandise, Dunlap's will begin a sale tomorrow, continuing throughout the month of October.

"October belongs to Dunlap's" is the store's motto.

With 18 employees, Dunlap's in Pampa is managed by Ken Plotner, who has been with Dunlap's for 25 years.

The Dunlap's chain, headquartered in Lubbock, has stores in other parts of Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Missouri and California.

Youths Join Pilot Project On Smoking

Pampa student health workers joined those of Wheeler, Sunray and Amarillo today with a pilot training program on smoking and health designed to turn the tide against teenage smoking in the Texas Panhandle.

Members of Pampa's Junior TB-Respiratory Disease Association took part in a workshop sponsored jointly by the Cancer and Heart Division of the state health department and Top of Texas TBRD Association.

Mrs. Cheryl Cortines of Austin showed films and led discussion on relationship between smoking and such diseases as lung cancer, emphysema and heart disease.

"It is important for youngsters to realize the adverse health effects of smoking begins with the very first cigarette," Mrs. Cortines emphasized. "Measurable blood-pressure changes and increased pulse rate, indicating heart strain, are present after only a few puffs."

Over-all purpose of the program is to reduce death and disability related to smoking. Mrs. Cortines said most smoking starts during the 12 to 18-age range, and added that students taking workshop training will conduct anti-smoking programs of their own.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1957, the Space Age began as the Soviet Union put the first spacecraft into orbit around the earth.

On this date:

In 1777, Colonial forces were defeated by the British in the Revolutionary War battle of Germantown, Pa.

In 1824, the Republic of Mexico was proclaimed.

In 1910, Portugal's monarchy ended as King Emanuel fled to escape revolutionaries.

In 1940, during World War II, Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini conferred at the Brenner Pass in the Alps.

In 1945, the premier of the French Vichy government, Pierre Laval, was put on trial in Paris. He later was executed as a traitor.

In 1965, Pope Paul IV made an appeal for peace at the U.N. General Assembly in New York.

Ten years ago: After four years of domination by President Charles de Gaulle, the French National Assembly voted the overthrow of the Gaullist premier, Georges Pompidou.

Five years ago: Three passenger trains piled up in Belgium and 10 persons were killed and 80 injured.

One year ago: President Nixon made a political trip to Delaware and became the first president to visit all 50 states while in office.

Today's birthday: Actor Charlton Heston is 48.

Thought for today: The exploration of outer space has a bright future; it will never run out of space to explore—Anonymous.

Destructive Insect
The boll weevil causes an annual loss of about $200 million in cotton and cotton seed in the south although many sections have switched to other crops. The ravenous insects attack a plant's fruiting buds in the spring and later infest the bolls—unripe pods containing lint and seed.

WHAT AMERICANS THINK

Why Voters Hesitate on McGovern

By Stanley C. Plog, Ph.D.
President, Behavior Science Corp. (BASICO) Los Angeles

© 1972 by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

What kind of man is George McGovern?

We recently explored the beliefs and attitudes of the voters about the man who wants to be the next occupant of the White House and came away with some interesting conclusions.

In general, he is seen as a very warm and sincere person who is dedicated to the causes he believes in. He has developed a very close relationship with his supporters. And, in spite of a considerable degree of press coverage, he is not often described as an extremist or a radical, even by most Republicans.

These conclusions are based on recently completed research by Behavior Science Corporation (BASICO).

The data are based on in-depth psychological studies of the voters, using a variety of research techniques. The sample consists of nearly 450 persons in large and small cities throughout the U.S.

All participants were given a list of personality traits and were told to select as many or few as they wish to describe McGovern. These adjectives were chosen to describe McGovern by 60 per cent or more of his supporters:

Sincere	93%
Intelligent	93
Courageous	82
Honest	79
Dedicated	79
Warm	75
Level-headed	75
Energetic	75
Open-minded	75
Responsible	75
Truthful	68
Ambitious	64

The McGovern personality is viewed as very warm and sincere and he is seen as bringing a considerable de-

THEY'LL PAY FOR A SCARE

LONDON (AP) — Tourist chiefs in the northwest of England have found a priceless asset in the spooks and specters of the region's folklore. The Tourist Board is thinking of drawing up a list of haunted houses, with "star ratings" of the best spots for a spine-chilling stay.

Said board director David Harrold: "Americans, particularly, are keen on antiquities — and ghosts are a part of this."

A BRITISH DEPUTY FOR TOMBSTONE

LONDON (AP) — Wyatt Earp, 22-year-old auto salesman, has been made an honorary deputy marshal of Tombstone, Ariz., for life.

Explained the tall, handsome Heath, near Britain's south coast: "My father went to Texas during the war to train as a pilot and naturally, with the same surname, he became interested in the legend of Wyatt Earp. He found he was a man to admire. So when I was born he christened me Wyatt."

gree of honesty and truthfulness to everything he does. His supporters feel he has the intelligence to handle presidential responsibilities and the courage and dedication to do what he feels is right.

In contrast, President Nixon was described by his supporters in terms of his abilities to handle his office ("experienced," "responsible," "level-headed," etc.) and even they see him as somewhat cold or aloof.

The feelings of warmth that McGovern has developed between himself and those who hope he will be the next president have also caused a greater degree of emotional involvement in the campaign among McGovern supporters. This conclusion is supported by the finding that McGovern's supporters select many more words to describe their man and Mr. Nixon than do Mr. Nixon's supporters in describing their man and McGovern. (The number of words selected from an adjective list is used by BASICO psychologists as a measure of emotional involvement in an issue.)

Views about McGovern by Nixon supporters are amazingly charitable. The only word selected by more than 60 per cent of Nixon's voters is "ambitious." Less than half of the Nixonites consider McGovern to be an "extremist" or a "radical," and very few question his basic truthfulness or personal integrity.

With this degree of personal commitment from McGovernites and lack of deep antagonism from the Nixonites, one wonders why he is currently so far behind in the polls. The answer comes from an analysis of several portions of the research.

We have determined that voters believe three qualities are necessary for a man to become a great President — sincerity, decisiveness and a sense of purpose. Americans view McGovern as strong in two of the three but very weak in the third. His highest rating is for "sincerity" (93 per cent) and he is seen as a man with a sense of mission or purpose. However, friend and foe alike consider him to be indecisive and naive and he is often viewed as a candidate who is not yet ready to be president.

His since-revised $1,000 "give away" plan and his desire for a quick reduction in our armed forces convinced a majority of voters that he does not have the political depth or experience to handle the important problems a president must face day to day.

Further, his difficulties in selecting a vice-presidential candidate and his indecisiveness about Senator Thomas Eagleton detracted from his image.

Examples of some of these statements are:

- "He's a dreamer. He's naive and inconsistent. I don't know how he thinks he could handle the duties of President of the United States."

- "That office (the presidency) is too big for him. He's sincere, but he's wishy-washy and uninformed."

- "The question is whether you want a guy like McGovern who might not be as efficient or perfect as Richard Nixon but who will get people involved." (from a supporter)

The psychologists participating in the study also concluded that Mr. Nixon is vulnerable, not as much because of his policies and programs, but because he still has difficulty in coming across to the voters as a warm and sincere individual who inspires confidence and unites the people. McGovern comes closer to some of these traits than Mr. Nixon does but his actions since his nomination have caused a considerable doubt among the voters.

There is no question that the presidential race would be much closer now if McGovern had not, in the voters' eyes, made mistakes.

All POWs Have A Powerful Desire To Come Home

(Editors Note: AP Special Correspondent Peter Arnett has just returned from a visit to Hanoi, his first trip to the North Vietnamese capital after eight years of reporting from the battle and political fronts of South Vietnam. In the following story he recounts a dramatic, unexpected meeting with seven American prisoners of war only minutes before he was to leave Hanoi.)

By PETER ARNETT
AP Special Correspondent

Seven men. All dressed in simple blue denim prison garb. All crewcut. All American. And they had something else in common: a powerful desire to come home.

I could reach out across the table and touch their hands. Yet the gulf between us was immeasurable. I was a free man, about to board a plane within the hour and wing back to the United States.

Not these men. One of them, Navy Cmdr. Eugene Wilbur, from Columbia Cross Roads, Pa., had sat across that table a dozen times in the past four and one half years, watching faces of free men flit by as he waited for his turn.

Wilbur and the six others were all U.S. pilots shot down over North Vietnam and held in prisoner of war camps. I was with a delegation of four American antiwar activists in Hanoi to escort home three pilots released by the North Vietnamese.

At the last moment of our ten-day visit we were summoned to a Government building in downtown Hanoi. We were ushered into a long room and saw tables crowded with beer bottles and glasses.

A few seconds later they came in, seven men with hands outstretched and faces beaming. They were more eager to see us than any other men I had ever met.

Two North Vietnamese officials sat in the room with us. Reporters and television cameras flooded in for the first five minutes. The affair was obviously carefully orchestrated by the North Vietnamese, the pilots handpicked for the meeting.

It is known that most of the approximately 400 U.S. pilots officially reported held in North Vietnamese prison camps don't wish to meet with visiting journalists and U.S. antiwar activists. Apparently they are fearful of being labeled as collaborators.

The Pentagon, however, says it will not hold pilots responsible for statements made while in prison. And watching these seven men animatedly discussing their letters, and families, and prison life, I felt it would take a hardened heart indeed to condemn them for coming that day.

The antiwar statements the seven made apparently were part of the scenario of the meetings, the price of admission. Some of the 12 American pilots released by the North Vietnamese over the years reversed their antiwar statements after they returned to America. Others didn't.

The antiwar rhetoric came thick and fast. Wilbur has met with other visiting groups and he repeated what he had said then.

"Tell my wife and family you have seen me. Tell her to use every facility, to help you and the antiwar movement," he said. "Tell her I am working at this end."

Lt. Peter Callahan, from Belmore, New York, said, "I don't know how you can talk with my wife without giving her mental anguish in choosing between the peace movement and the government. If there is ever a group of men duped by the government, then here we sit."

Then there were the personal asides. Callahan said he was shot down on June 21 this year, and at the time his wife was nine months pregnant. She has made no reference to it in her letters. "Am I a father or aren't I?" he wanted to know.

Lt. Donald Karl Logan of Northridge, Calif., said, "Tell my wife to stop typing her name at the end of her letters. Tell her to write it out so I know it's her."

"Say hi to Patty for me," said bachelor Air Force Lt. Greg Hanson, from Thousand Oaks, Calif., in a personal message. "Just don't play games with the packages," said Lt. Richard Fulton, from Mesa, Ariz., when told by the visitors of North Vietnamese charges that spying devices were being sent into the camps from America."

Capt. David Hoffman, from San Diego, Calif., mentioned the names of several other POWs and said, "Those people have not received any mail from their families since the day they were shot down."

And all the men bemoaned the continued air war against the north.

"I think we are in more danger from our own aircraft dropping bombs than we are from the North Vietnamese," said Hoffman.

The conversation flowed on. The beer glasses clinked and you could almost forget that these men were prisoners and you were free. But not for long. One of the North Vietnamese officials stood up and announced to the visitors, "You have a plane to catch," and the talk was over. The pilots sucked at the dregs of their beer glasses.

Callahan crushed his hand as he went out. "Get us out of here, will you?" he said, and then they were all gone, swallowed up in Hanoi City somewhere.

Let Land Buyer Beware

By CARLTON SMITH

On a recent morning the big Federal Building conference room was packed with witnesses, each waiting to tell a sad tale, or an angry one, of having been "taken" by the hustlers who sell lots—mostly sight-unseen—in the more than 4,000 land developments now being promoted in the United States.

The story told by Mrs. Mildred P. was typical. At a "dinner party," she and her husband had made a down payment on a Florida lot, "near West Palm Beach." They could go look at it, they were told, and if they didn't like it, they'd get their money back.

They went, some weeks later, to look at the beautiful resort community they'd seen in the four-color ads.

The "model houses," Mrs. P. testified, were "flat pieces of wood propped up from behind. Our guided tour ended at a metal fence. Beyond it was nothing but swampland—no roads. They said we'd have to walk two and a half miles to get to our property."

Understandably, they wanted their money back. The local manager asked them to sign a "voucher" for that purpose. Much later, after futile attempts to get action on the refund, they learned they'd signed a statement that they had inspected their property, and had 48 hours to request a refund—the 48 hours having long ago expired.

"They told us," said Mrs. P., "that we'd have to pay off the entire price of the property, and then we could sell it. We'd have to advertise in Florida, and sell it on our own."

And, as witness after witness testified, there's no resale market for such lots, being sold by the tens of thousands to guileless Americans.

The hearing was being conducted in New York by George K. Bernstein, administrator of the federal Office of Interstate Land Sales—which is doing its best (and, Bernstein admits, that's not very good) to police the widespread deception, misrepresentation and outright fraud.

"The 'developers' put the emphasis on buying these lots as an investment," says Bernstein, "and investments they're not. There's absolutely no resale market for most of what's being sold. They tell you the value of your lot will double in a year. But why should someone buy your lot, at twice the price you paid, when the developers still have plenty of swampland to sell at their promoters' prices?"

The truth of it is that the buyer almost never has anything to sell, anyway. He's not buying the land, only entering into an installment contract. He gets no deed, and there's no mortgage, as in conventional land sales. There's only a contract, in which the developer promises to deliver title after payments have been completed—generally over a 10-year period.

"Meanwhile," says Bernstein, "you own nothing. You can't build on 'your property'—you don't even have the right to walk on it. Even if you prepay all the installments, the contract almost always provides for delivery of title after 10 years. The 'developer' doesn't want to—and won't—give you title earlier. In some cases, in fact—and it's perfectly legal—the promoter doesn't even own the land himself."

How do you protect yourself against being "taken" in this billion-dollar business? We'll pass on Bernstein's rules in our next column.

Answers to Employment Questions by Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson

Eight Years As 'Temporary' Is Too Long

M. J. of Utica, New York, writes: I've worked for the same firm for eight years, but am still classified as a temporary employee. My boss says that at age 54, I'm over the age limit for permanent employees. This means I'm not eligible for full-time work or full fringe benefits. I don't even get retirement credit. Is this legal?

Dear M. J.: It sounds to me like a violation of the Age Discrimination in Employment Act, which prohibits its job bias against persons aged 40 to 65. While the act permits employers to observe terms of bona fide seniority systems or employee benefit programs, they cannot legally use these programs as excuses to evade the act's purposes. For further information you may contact the Department of Labor's Wage and Hour Division.

M. S. of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, writes: My son is about to be discharged from the Army and has written his employer to get his old job back. He left his job two weeks before entering the service to get his affairs in order. His boss now claims that he quit his job and is not entitled to his job when he returns. Is there anything we can do about this problem?

Dear M. S.: If your son left a permanent job to enter the service, has served satisfactorily on active duty more than five years, and is qualified to perform the duties of his position, he has a right to reemployment in the position. This reemployment right includes the seniority, status and rate of pay he would enjoy if his employment had not been interrupted by military service. After your son is released from military service, he should apply for reemployment within 90 days. If he is unsuccessful, he should contact the representative of the Labor-Management Service Administration at the U.S. Department of Labor office in your area in regard to his statutory reemployment rights.

C. W. of Medford, Oregon, writes: I'm only 14 years old and am a freshman in high school, but I'd like to work after school. Some employers tell me the law says I'm too young to work. Are there any jobs a 14-year-old can do?

Dear C. W.: Young people aged 14 and 15 can legally work as office clerks, cashiers, grocery baggers, station attendants, car washers, errand and delivery workers and in many other jobs. They cannot, however, work in manufacturing or mining jobs or any other jobs declared hazardous by the secretary of Labor.

Editor's note: If you have a question regarding job training and placement, labor-management relations, job health and safety, equal employment opportunity, wages and hours, employment and unemployment, prices and earnings and other matters involving the U.S. Department of Labor, send it to:

WHERE THEY STAND

THE ISSUES OF THE 1972 CAMPAIGN

Economy

REPUBLICANS

We stand for full employment—a job for everyone willing and able to work in an economy freed of inflation, its vigor not dependent upon war or massive military spending.

We will fight for responsible federal budgets to help assure steady expansion of the economy without inflation.

Remove wage-price controls once the economic distortions spawned in the late 1960s are repaired.

The right of American citizens to buy, hold or sell gold should be re-established as soon as this is feasible.

DEMOCRATS

Eliminate the unfair, bureaucratic Nixon wage and price controls, and seek a truly fair stabilization program which affects profits, investment earnings, executive salaries and prices, as well as wages.

Full employment, with the government as employer of last resort, coupled with a federally-funded family minimum income plan to replace the current welfare system; a $2.50 an hour minimum wage.

Passage of the Mills-Mansfield tax bill.

Creation of a consumer advocacy agency, protection of class action rights in consumer suits, and new labeling laws. Increased antitrust action, especially to deconcentrate shared monopolies such as auto, steel and tire industries.

The positions above were extracted from the official 1972 platforms of the Republican and Democratic Parties.

STOP HOUSE PAINTING

Seven Homeowners in this area will be given an opportunity to have their homes brought to life again with new vinyl siding covering at a very reasonable price.

This siding will be of particular interest to homeowners who are fed up with constant painting and maintenance costs.

It is 40 times the thickness of ordinary paint; carries a 30-year guarantee; and provides 100 per cent insulation in both summer and winter thereby lowering costs of air conditioning and heating.

It can be applied to any type of home.

Homeowners who act now will be offered a special business proposal for helping us get acquainted in this area.

TADA Sets Workshop In Amarillo

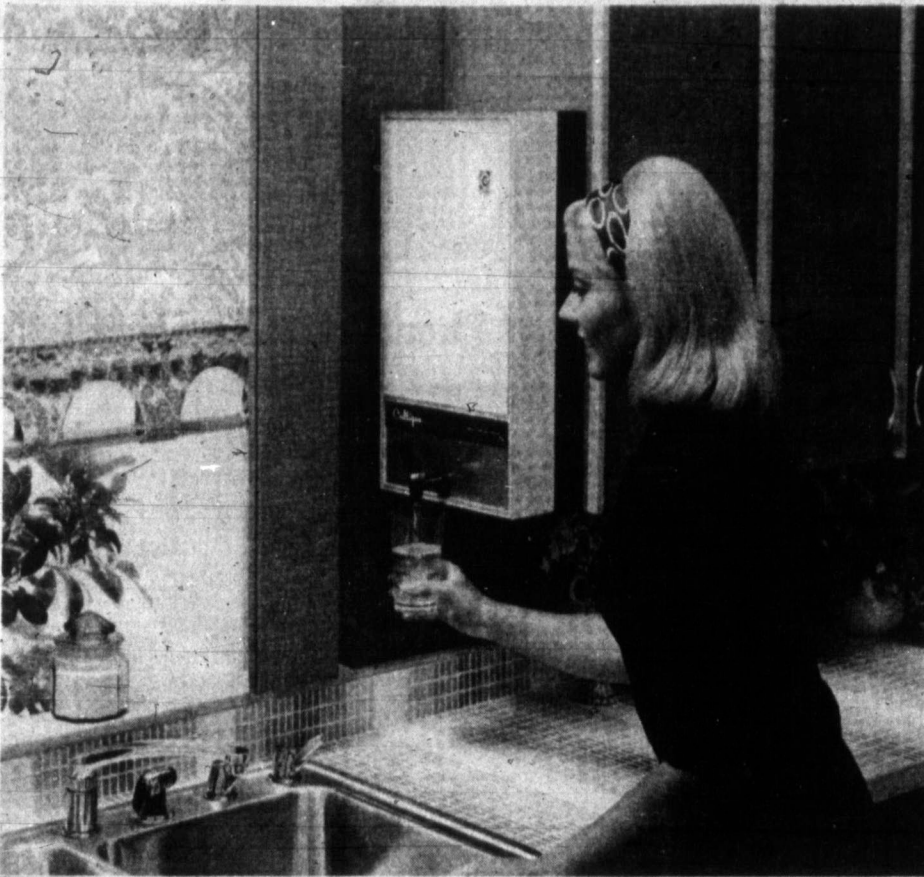

New laws affecting the State's multi-million-dollar automobile business, and new mechanic training programs, will be principal subjects of discussion at the Texas Automobile Dealers Association fall workshop to be held at the Holiday Inn in Amarillo on Tuesday, Oct. 10, says Hall Hall of Plainview, TADA regional vice-president, who will preside at the one-day meeting.

In addition, the latest information will be provided on wage and hour legislation and profit margin limitations.

W.J. Helm, TADA area director and owner of Plains Chevrolet, Inc., in Amarillo, said new car dealers from approximately 30 counties will attend the workshop, one of 11 being held in different areas of Texas.

Of major interest will be a full explanation of the Occupational Safety and Health Act by Walter Martin, director of the Texas Occupational Safety Division.

Bob Townsley, Motor Vehicle Division director at the Texas Highway Department, will discuss anticipated changes in motor vehicle legislation.

ALWAYS HANDY — The Culligan Aqua I Household Water Purifier filters both mineral and organic material from water to provide purer and cleaner water for use in the home. Easily installed, the purifier serves as a three-gallon reservoir for conditioned water.

Want Good, Clean Water? Use Culligan Water Purifier

Breakthrough!
First bottled water available without the bottles.

You use the Culligan Aqua I Household Water Purifier. This can be installed almost anywhere—kitchen, utility room, bar area or laundry room. How the purifier works: it simply connects to your present water supply. No electricity is required. Filters both dissolved and undissolved minerals and organic impurities and permits only purified water to enter a built-in reservoir. It even purifies rusty, brackish, heavily-chlorinated or bad-tasting water.

1. Pre-filter. Water first passes through a porous cellulose filter to prevent turbidity or other foreign matter from clogging the membrane surface.

2. Reverse osmosis membrane. This special semi-permeable membrane of cellulose acetate, spirally wound on a central core, has five square feet of surface area. It has the ability to reject dissolved minerals and organic matter from water, while allowing purified water to pass through. Operates with normal household water pressure.

3. Final filter. This activated carbon filter adds a final "polish" to the purified water.

4. Plastic housing. The highly-styled champagne beige and charcoal decorative housing is made of injection molded plastic. Functions as a three-gallon water reservoir.

The Culligan Water Purifier makes any water better. Some of the most common uses are baby's formula, coffee, tea, all beverages, frozen juice, condensed soup, cooking, low sodium diets, batteries and photography.

A Culligan product is always an extra value because they service what they sell.

Why gamble with an off-brand "bargain product" that may be an orphan tomorrow? You can count on Culligan here to back up a Culligan water conditioner with prompt, efficient factory-authorized service.

Just dial 665-5729 and say, "Hey, Culligan Man!" and you call a man who cares. Or visit them at 314 S. Starkweather.

LOOK AT THAT SHINE — A new product offered by Towles Tile Company can take the chore out of keeping the floor shiny. Neverwax, a plastic floor covering, requires only sweeping and mopping for up to five years. Above is a floor at the Pizza Hut using Neverwax.

(Staff Photo)

Neverwax Provides An End To Waxing

Whether you have a home or a business—or both—you can get tired of all the time and expense that goes into waxing those floors.

Looking for a way out? Try Neverwax, a new product which can bring an end to worrisome waxing of floors.

A liquid plastic produced by Perma Seal of Texas, Inc., Neverwax can be obtained locally from Towles Tile Company.

Providing a tough plastic coating, Neverwax is hailed as an answer to floor protection and maintenance problems for types of flooring normally requiring waxing.

The non-slip coating, guaranteed to maintain 70 per cent of its original gloss for two years—except where subjected to extremely heavy wear—is designed to put a transparent, non-yellowing, very highly abrasion resistant coating on vinyl asbestos, asphalt or rubber tile floors or other surfaces subject to waxing, such as wood, stone, etc.

The coating comes in a clear finish or in a choice of colors. Neverwax is rated ideal for such areas as office buildings, banks, retail stores, beauty parlors, hotels, nursing homes, theaters, restrooms, corridors, laundries, cafeterias or gymnasiums.

A permanent gloss floor finish, it saves up to 70 per cent in maintenance costs. It never needs waxing, buffing, polishing or stripping and is not normally subject to stain, cracking, yellowing or absorption of most foreign elements, including most liquids and chemicals.

A Neverwax floor can be cleaned easily with a wet mop and provides a deep, lustrous finish. Even black heels can't mark it.

For homeowner do-it-yourself installations, there is a choice of two kits, one for coating up to 100 square feet of flooring surface, another for up to 400 square feet. The kit consists of Neverwax cleaner, primer and finish, with easy instructions for use.

The tough finish can last up to five years without having to be waxed. And it totally seals cracks and seams so that dirt and grime cannot collect.

For more information, contact Towles Tile Company.

A CUSTOM-FITTED JOB — Hall Tire Company offers custom-fitting service for seat covers in cars, even those already ready-made. Leonard Hall puts the finishing touches on a set of seat covers prepared for one of the satisfied customers. For a custom-fitted job, visit Hall Tire Co. at 700 W. Foster.

Hall Tire Company Offers Custom-Fitted Seat Covers

Want a custom-fitted job on those seat covers for your car? Hall Tire Co., 700 W. Foster, offers one of the more complete lines of ready-made seat covers in the area.

But they also offer a custom trim service, even for those ready-made covers.

Seat covers can be custom fitted with one-day service on most jobs at Hall Tire, with over 27 years of business to back it up.

In addition to seat-covering and re-upholstering, Hall Tire Co. also features stereo components and accessories for both the home and car, with one of the largest and most complete stocks in the area.

The firm has one of the largest stocks of stereo tapes with a complete price range for ended with July 1972.

eight-track players for both home and automobiles. Hall Tire specializes in custom installation of the stereo equipment, with components and accessories by Channel Master and Audiovox.

In addition, the company also offers other services for the automobile.

If the auto is in need of rubber, the firm offers a full line of automobile and truck tires, with a complete line of glass belted tires at the most popular prices.

The company services everything it sells.

A main specialty of Hall Tire Co. is that it balances wheels electronically. This type of balancing is an expensive and complicated process, with only three or four shops in town offering it, Hall said.

The procedure requires a well-trained man who must have had several months of training to use the machine correctly.

Hall, although he was not born in Pampa, has lived here most of his life and has been in business for better than 27 years.

Visit Hall Tire Company at 700 W. Foster and see for yourself what real service is like.

Slow Price Increase Difficult To Accept

NEW YORK (AP) — The good news concerning a moderation in the rate of price increases is going to be difficult to accept for many Americans who look for more.

The good news is that consumer price rises have now slowed to a rate that, if continued for a year, would result in an increase of only 2.4 per cent in the goods and services used in everyday living.

In fact, that rate was approached in the 12 months that ended with July, when the rise dropped to 2.9 per cent from a 1969-1970 peak of 5.9 per cent.

The rate of price increases has generally been downhill since February 1969, when the consumer price index reached a 6.4 per cent annual rate of increase, a rate that threatened domestic and international stability.

What is difficult to accept is the notion that there should be solace at all in rising prices.

A study by Morgan Guaranty Trust shows not one consumer category in which prices fell in the 12 months that ended with July. And within the various categories, only six products out of 37 declined.

The price of cereals and baking products actually fell 0.3 per cent, mortgage interest declined 0.2, new automobile prices 2.5, used auto prices 0.7, auto insurance rates 1.1, and railroad fares 3.5 per cent.

Besides government intervention in the form of price regulations, Washington's restraining hand—rather than purely economic factors—are involved in some of those declines.

Interest rates, to illustrate, are regulated by the Federal Reserve Board and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. It was government policy during recent months to channel money into the mortgage markets and reduce rates.

The reduction in new auto prices was due almost solely to the elimination of the federal excise tax, which was part of Washington's strategy to stem the tide of imports and stimulate the domestic economy.

It is a fact of modern economic life that the shopper will find few, very few, actual declines in prices. Instead, he must content himself with measuring a price improvement by a slowing in the rate of increase.

Morgan Guaranty demonstrates this by comparing the rate of rise for the 12 months ended February 1970, when the price peak was reached, and the rate of increase for the 12 months that ended with July 1972.

Never again!

Never wax

The permanent liquid plastic covering for any floor you now wax. Seals and protects. Eliminates black heel marks. A damp mopping is all the maintenance required. Lasts for years. Will not crack, yellow or absorb liquids. Low cost.

SO YOU WANT TO BE Police Expect Busy Years

By ERNIE HOOD

State police opportunities are the subject of many queries from readers like Darlene H. Fox Hill, Pleasant Valley, N.Y., who expresses this interest: "Please provide me with information about career openings with state police, notwithstanding the fact I'm a girl!"

Dear Darlene: Employment opportunities for qualified applicants seeking state police jobs are expected to be excellent in the years immediately ahead, but the number of job applicants in many states exceeds the number of job openings. However, it is a matter of fact that many applicants cannot meet civil service and other entry requirements.

Additional troopers, as they are sometimes known, will be needed in criminal investigation work and other road functions, but the increasing need will be principally for highway patrol.

Because law enforcement work is becoming more complex, some specialists also will be needed to work in crime laboratories.

As far as your question about opportunities for women, you'd best inquire there in New York about the entry requirements.

Attention, Alice Lee B. Charlottesville, Va. and Lynn M. Sioux City Ia.: Employment outlook for psychologists who have doctor's degrees are expected to be excellent through the 1970's. Rapid expansion of the profession is expected for at least the next 10 years.

Note to Thomas I. J. Kealakekua, Hawaii: Employment in the insurance industry is expected to rise moderately through the 1970's. Space precludes listing the various occupations within the industry, but reference is made below to availability of an informative U.S. Labor Department Bulletin on the subject.

U.S. Labor Department Bulletins are sources of depth information on career fields. They may be obtained by writing the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. For State Police, ask for Bulletin 1650-66, priced at 15 cents; for Psychologists, Bulletin 1630-42, priced at 10 cents; and for the Insurance industry, Bulletin 1650-125, also priced at a dime.
