Law Says "Ha Ha" To Ho Ho In Court

ROCKFORD, Ill., Oct. 1 (AP)—In a manner of speaking, the law said "Ha, ha," to Ho Ho yesterday.

Ho Ho, who claims to be a Cherokee Indian from Oklahoma was acquitted in Winnebago county on a charge of practicing medicine without a license, following which his feminine patients pushed one another aside in their haste to get to his side to shower him with kisses, money and a cake.

Smiling broadly, Ho Ho, surrounded by his women patients, marched proudly out of the court building, followed by two men who served a warrant on him alleging he practiced medicine without a license in Stephenson county. He was taken to Freeport and locked up in jail.

LEGAL BEER TO BE OPPOSED

NATIONAL GRANGE IN FIGHT; SAYS BEER WOULD HURT U. S.

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—Legalization of beer as a healthful brew for ailing agriculture is seen by the National Grange as a "tragic" prescription which it will oppose.

Instead of producing a tonic for the farmer, the Grange predicts resumption of brewing would be detrimental to agriculture through harm done the dairy, poultry, soft drinks and confectionery industries.

Statement Issued

A statement by Louis J. Taber national master, gave the position of the Grange which counts upwards of 800,000 members from every state.

In the meantime, the agriculture department, dedicated to helping the farmer, dug into the economics of legalized beer.

The investigation, which Secretary Hyde said had no connection with the White House, was actively begun by Nils A. Olsen, chief of the department's economics bureau and a corps of assistants.

What the farmer has done since prohibition will be sought by Olsen. Some assistance will be asked from the prohibition bureau.

RED RIVER MIASURE IS BEING CROVDED FROM LIMELKHT

By The Associated Press

AUSTIN, Oct. 1—Congressional redistricting, a controversial subject in the regular and first called sessions of the legislature, today threatened to crowd the river bed bill from the limelight.

The house was bearing down on the river bed bill, passage of which Governor Ross S. Sterling believed would reclaim millions of barrels of oil for the state to enrich an impoverished treasury. The house had resolved itself into a committee of the whole to discuss it.

To Push Bill

Senator W. R. Poage of Waco put the senate on notice this morning he intended to [illegible] redistricting bill in an effort to [illegible] through before adjournment. [illegible] succeeded in having it set for special order at 11:30 a. m. today, after Senator Carl Hardin of Stephenville raised strenuous objections.

The senate passed the bill authorizing the state to drill for oil in river beds after this special session was extended four days. Governor Sterling threatened to call another session if the extension was not voted to consider the river bill.

Protest against drilling the river beds because of the danger of pollution was made to the house by Charles Butler, member of the Beaumont city council. Butler said he feared drilling the bed would pollute the river and endanger the water supply of several cities. He declared the bill should be amended to permit only river beds in proven oil territory to be developed. This would confine the provisions of the bill to the Sabine river at present.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 1 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor, William Green, national president, said here today, will "emphatically reaffirm" its stand for modification of the Volstead act to permit manufacture and sale of 2.75 per cent beer, in its 51st annual convention in Vancouver, B. C., next week.

Green paused here briefly before continuing to Vancouver, where the convention will open Monday.

The federation will attack the unemployment situation.

INDIAN SUMMER DAY GREETS CROWDS AT ST. LOUIS TODAY

BY EDWARD J. NEIL,
Associated Press Sports Writer

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 1.—Bright and early, filled with hope and optimism, the vanguard of almost 40,000 of baseball's fortunate fandom moved in on the ball yard of the St. Louis Cardinals today for the opening game of the 1931 world series.

Scarcely had the gates opened this morning before the center field bleacher customers, the patrons who had to wait long hours in line, then rush and struggle for their seats, were storming into their places. Long before the National league champions, or their highly favored opponents, the world champion Philadelphia Athletics, filtered out for batting practice, seats in center field were filled.

Crowds Colorful

They formed a colorful picture, these thousands of vociferous rooters, cheering, waving, singing and beating time to a brass band which took up its station on the grass beyond second base.

The day was hazy and warm, without much sun, and the mass of humanity in the centerfield seats melted into a gay picture.

Gabby Street, old sergeant of the Cardinals, nominated his giant rookie, Paul Derringer, to do his pitching today in the crucial opening game. The big right hander, only first year man in the history of the game ever to start the first game of a world series, has a fine fast ball and a curve he keeps down around the batter's knees.

Grove To Hurl

Against this background, too, Lefty Grove, the people's choice even though Connie Mack still kept his pitching counsel right up to the final minute, can heave his fast balls as well as Derringer is, the great left hander is faster, so the Athletics welcomed the colorful background as much as the home players. The situation is not new to the A's for the Browns, in their own league, campaign in sportsman's park during the regular season.

A balmy, perfect Indian summer

TWO SUSPECTS BEING HELD

FATHER AND SON ARE BEING QUESTIONED IN COLLINGS CASE

(By The Associated Press)

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Oct. 1.—A father and son were held today for questioning in connection with the Benjamin P. Collings murder off Long Island, New York.

Police who arrested L. D. Ritchie, [illegible] and William E. Ritchie, 23, yesterday declined to reveal what information, if any, was obtained in preliminary questioning of the two.

Body Furnishes Clue

Ritchie, a veterinarian in South Norwalk, Conn., formerly lived, police understood, with William Smith, whose body was washed ashore by the waters of Long Island sound Tuesday not far from the place where the Collings murder occurred. New York authorities think Smith may have been the "wounded man" mentioned by Mrs. Collings in her story of her husband's murder by "an elderly man and a youth" on board their yacht.

FLAY MARKETS FOR SHORT SELLING

SAFEGUARDS AGAINST EXCHANGE PRACTICE SEEN BY WATSON

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—Unless the stock exchanges themselves act, Senator Watson of Indiana believes congress will legislate safeguards against short selling by speculators who seek profits through depression of security values.

The Republican leader of the senate yesterday warned the exchanges that members of congress were convinced these transactions were retarding recovery from the depression and stood ready to inquire into the practice.

Reflects Views

Because of his position as administration pilot on Capitol Hill, it was believed here Senator Watson reflected also the view of high government officials toward the recent bear raids in the stock market.

Certain it is that he speaks with some authority and his prediction that "a thorough and searching investigation of this method of dealing with stocks will be made by a senate committee" is being given serious attention here.

Many stock prices have fallen to new lows in recent days. The situation has led one New York exchange house to announce it will not loan money to those who intend to use it in selling stocks short.

On the other hand, a defense of "short selling" has been made by Richard Whitney, president of the New York stock exchange. He said a ban against it would necessarily "revolutionize the financial, commercial, and industrial laws of the whole country."

Loudspeaker Case Settled Here Today

Radio loudspeakers at the Rainbow Sandwich shop and the Calf stand, both on Avenue Q, will not be used from 10:30 p. m. to 7:30 a. m., operators of the two places agreed this morning, Jess Levens, assistant city attorney, said.

Stanley Noah and Dewey Cravens met with complaining citizens and Assistant City Attorney Levens, City Attorney E. L. Klett, and Chief of Police John Lemond before 10 a. m., when Noah and Cravens were to appear in corporation court on charges of disturbing the peace.

The assistant city attorney said the charges would stand until it was determined whether the defendants would not use the loudspeakers in the designated quiet period and otherwise would not permit "sounds any louder than necessary."

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Oct. 1 (AP)—The schooner Philippine with 11 persons aboard appeared off the local breakwater today after being tossed around all night by a severe southeast storm.

A few minutes later the schooner dropped anchor in the roadstead.

The coast guard had expressed fears for the safety of the ship when the storm started, but did not put out because of the heavy running seas.

Accomplices Named In Borger Robbery

DETAILS OF FICTITIOUS KIDNAPING BARED BY TELLER OF BORGER BANK; THREE ARE HELD

(By The Associated Press)

BORGER, Oct. 1.—The Borger Daily Herald says Rowland Rugeley, bank teller, has named Arthur H. Cornett as one of the accomplices in a fictitious kidnaping Sunday night to create the impression Rugeley was forced to participate in the robbery of the Borger State bank.

The paper says Rugeley pointed out Cornett at the Amarillo county jail, where he was placed under arrest last night, as the man who captured him and three companions on the highway near Borger. Rugeley, immediately after the $8,100 robbery, told police he had been forced to go to the bank with a man and open the safe. He said his companions were tied hand and foot and held prisoner at a deserted spot until the robbery was affected.

County Attorney Henry Meyers and Deputy Sheriff Burt Bryan continued their questioning of Cornutt at Amarillo today. Cornett, a convicted bootlegger, was arrested to serve a 30-day federal liquor sentence and pay or serve out a $500 fine.

Borger officials said today they had been unable to recover the $4,200 in cash Rugeley admitted taking from the bank with the assistance of Cornett and Lewis Crim, a rooming house proprietor, also under arrest at Amarillo.

In a statement to officers yesterday, Rugeley said he already had been $3,200 short in his accounts when he entered the conspiracy to rob the bank at which he was employed. He refused to tell how he had concealed the losses from bank officials or where the money was. He simply claimed he had given it all away the night of the robbery.

Law Of Averages Favors Democrats In Congress

Lights, Convicts Go Out Together

CANON CITY, Colo., Oct. 1 (AP)—The lights of the Colorado state penitentiary and Ted Cole and Ray Little, convicts, went out about the same time last night. The two, were electricians, pulled fuses in the prison lighting system, and fled over the wall in darkness. They still were at large today.

PRISONER TRIES TO SUICIDE HERE

B. H. Dildey, 31, convicted of forgery at the last term of district court here, today attempted to take his own life in the city jail by stabbing himself in the left side.

Waiting to be transferred to the state penitentiary at Huntsville, the prisoner jammed the rusty blade of a knife just below his heart. Officers said he hammered the knife with his fist, driving it in to the handle. Dildey then turned to a fellow prisoner and told him to pull the knife out.

Physicians said Dildey's condition was not serious. He was returned to jail after emergency treatment at a local hospital.

Officers said Dildey told them he tried to take his own life in an effort to escape his prison sentence of two years.

Young Communist Subsidiary Bared

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1 (AP)—Police dispersed 41 public school students at the Boyle heights communist headquarters last night and announced seizure of documents indicating the existence in the schools here of an organization known as the "Young Pioneers—communist children's subsidiary."

The police report said that in the confiscated material were books listing the names of boys and girls from 8 years old up as communist organizers in the grade, junior high and high schools.

Jury Selection In Trial Starts Today

AMARILLO, Oct. 1 (AP)—Selection of a jury for the trial of John F. Williams, disabled war veteran, charged with murder in connection with the slaying of B. O. "Bura" Stanley, Donley county farmer, was under way in criminal district court today.

Stanley was shot to death on the evening of August 22, when he went to Williams home to visit his estranged wife, who was employed by Williams as housekeeper. A special venire of 50 was being examined for jury service.

TWO PARTIES ARE NOW EVEN; DEMOCRATS' HOPES HIGH

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—The law of averages favors the Democrats organizing the next house.

Over a long period of years the death rate of Republican and Democratic members averages about the same. The annual number of deaths more than a dozen.

Of the eleven representatives elected to the seventy-second congress who have died, seven were Democrats and four Republicans.

Parties Now Even

The Democrats have filled all but two of the vacancies normally Democratic, while the Republicans still have four vacant. As a result of the Democratic victory in the seventh Missouri district yesterday, both the Republican and Democratic parties have 214 seats. The Farmer Labor party has one.

If the law of averages prevails, the death rate in the Republican membership may nip the advantage the administration party has maintained since last November elections. Then the count was: Republicans 218; Democrats 216; Farmer-Labor 1.

With only two months before congress convenes, it would be difficult for Republicans to fill additional vacancies.

The attention of the nation will be centered particularly on the first Ohio district. There the Democrats claim more than a fair chance to defeat the Republican candidate nominated to succeed the late Nicholas Longworth.

Defense Rests In Trial Of Hunter

ANSON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Defense for Cecil Hunter, on trial in district court here on a charge of murder in the slaying of Ralph Shirley, rested yesterday.

Hunter, from the witness stand, admitted striking Shirley with a single-tree. He said they engaged in a fight before the killing in which his throat was slashed.

Court officials expected the case to go to the jury tomorrow.

SPECIAL DAYS DRAW PLAINS VISITORS

GROUPS HERE TODAY FROM BROWNFIELD AND FLOYDADA

With two of th largest towns on the South Plains, Brownfield and Floydada, sending large delegations to the eighteenth annual Panhandle-South Plains fair today, officials this afternoon were anticipating a good attendance.

Besides Brownfield and Floydada, Lockney, Tulia and Silverton were also to send big delegations.

Others Represented

In addition to these towns, Meadow, Plains, Matador and Idalou were well represented. The out-of-towners began arriving shortly before noon and by mid-afternoon, just before the football game, there was a steady flow of visitors through the gates.

Locally, there seemed to be early in the morning a "morning after the night before" feeling, as Lubbockites and exhibitors and concession people failed to arrive early.

Exhibitors were all pepped up over yesterday's attendance, which had passed the 24,000 mark. There was a general attitude of optimism because of the fact that the business was considerably more than that of the first and second days of the fair.

Increase Shown

By noon the attendance had shown a marked increase. Parked car space was filling up rapidly.

Brownfield and Floydada high school teams will meet in the fourth daily gridiron classic. There is considerable rivalry between the two teams, both seeking honors in their class race in the district.

Concession people stated that their receipts were far in excess of expectations. More money was spent Wednesday than had been anticipated.

"Our attendance looks good and I believe we will have more people the last three days than the first three," Prsident Homer D. Grant said. "Everywhere I hear people praise the fair and I know that it is a better exposition than heretofore."

GAMING CONCESSIONS ARE CLOSED AT FAIR

County authorities closed four gaming concessions Wednesday at the Panhandle-South Plains fairgrounds and Tony Martinez and R. E. Tillery were fined $1 and $22.40 costs each in county court after pleading guilty of operating a gam-

Seeking To Change Charges Of Murder

RENO, Nev., Oct. 1. (AP)—Attorneys for Dr. Carl P. Andre, 29-year-old dentist held in the death of Mrs. Martha Hutchinson, young Fairmount, W. Va., widow, have centered their efforts on an attempt to have the charge reduced from murder to manslaughter.

Testimony that Dr. Andre dragged Mrs. Mutchinson from a party at the Dude ranch of Cornelius Vanderbilt, jr., only three hours before she fell to death from the dentist's motor car Sept. 13, was in the record of the preliminary hearing today.

COFFEE, COFFEE EVERYWHERE AND NOT A DROP TO DRINK, IS TESTERS' FATE

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—Hectic days these for the coffee tasters. The farm board recently swapped 25,000,000 bushels of American wheat for 1,050,000 bags of Brazilian coffee. The first 120,000 bags have arrived, and the tasters are busy tasting. It is the regular method of grading the beverage bean.

Coffee tasting is a case of coffee, coffee everywhere and not a drop to drink; for the tasters never swallow it.

Experts of the coffee exchange sit around a table which may be revolved as required.

Before them are the samples to be graded. The ground coffee is put into cups, different samples in each, and boiling water is added.

Each taster sniffs expertly at the cup before him. He lifts a spoonful to his mouth. Then he spits it out. The table is revolved, and the tasters try another sample.

After each has sniffed and tasted, opinions are exchanged.

CABINET SHOP FLAMES TRAP CRAFTSMAN

FRANK ATCHESON, SR., IS VICTIM OF BLAZE HERE TODAY

Caught by flames which gutted his small shop at 2208 19th street shortly after 10 o'clock this morning, Frank Atcheson, sr., 51-year-old carpenter and cabinet maker, died of burns at 2:30 this afternoon in Lubbock sanitarium.

Mr. Atcheson was alone, working in the shop at the time the fire began and information concerning the accident is scant. Neighboring workmen and merchants advanced the theory that some sort of an explosion, probably spontaneous combustion of lacquer paint, brought on the fire which practically demolished the workshop.

Four Men Aid

Four men working across the street had their attention drawn to the Atcheson shop when they heard an outcry for help. The men, C. A. Gibson, W. T. Sinclair, W. F. Daniels and A. D. Stanley, rushed from the Gibson vegetable store, where they had gathered, to the fire directly opposite. Just as they got there the cabinet maker reached the door of the shop and collapsed just inside the portal. They pulled him from inside the building, his clothing a mass of flames, and gave first aid.

By the time a Rix ambulance reached the scene the rescuers had removed the charred clothing and Mr. Atcheson was taken to the sanitarium where members of his family quickly gathered.

Head Is Gashed

With the exception of a small part of one leg, near the knee, the accident victim was badly burned. His hair was burned away, he was badly burned about the face and throat and, in some manner, he sustained a severe laceration at the back of the head.

He was in a semi-conscious condition when placed upon the operating table and never regained consciousness.

Family Here Six Years

The Atcheson family, residing at 2219 9th street, moved here in the late summer of 1925 in order that six children in the family could attend or prepare to attend Texas Technological college. Mrs. Atcheson has since operated a popular dormitory for Tech men students

Much of the material is free; for some there is a nominal charge to cover all or part of the cost of printing and distribution. In writing these agencies, since they are non-profit making institutions, it would be a courteous thing to do, to send a letter enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Those who write me for a personal reply would be very considerate if they would be so kind as to enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope. For one person to address and stamp one letter is not much of a burden, but to address and stamp hundreds of them become costly. Whereas I have said I should not answer a letter not properly sent, I do not have the heart to neglect any of them.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Two pamphlets by Dr. Myers may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Garry C. Accompanied through the maze of booths and buildings by George Samson, secretary of the Post Chamber of Commerce, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Slaughter and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Power of Garza county visited the 18th annual Panhandle-South Plains fair here Wednesday.

Mr. Slaughter, with his mother, Mrs. John B. Slaughter, is operating the U-Lazy-S ranch in Garza county, one of the finest of West Texas ranches, and Mr. Slaughter was particularly interested in the livestock department.

Mr. and Mrs. Power, like Mr. Slaughter, have resided in Post and the Garza county country for more than a score of years. Mr. Power has been city marshal in Post for a number of years but with Mrs. Power will soon leave for Abilene, where he will engage in the oil business.

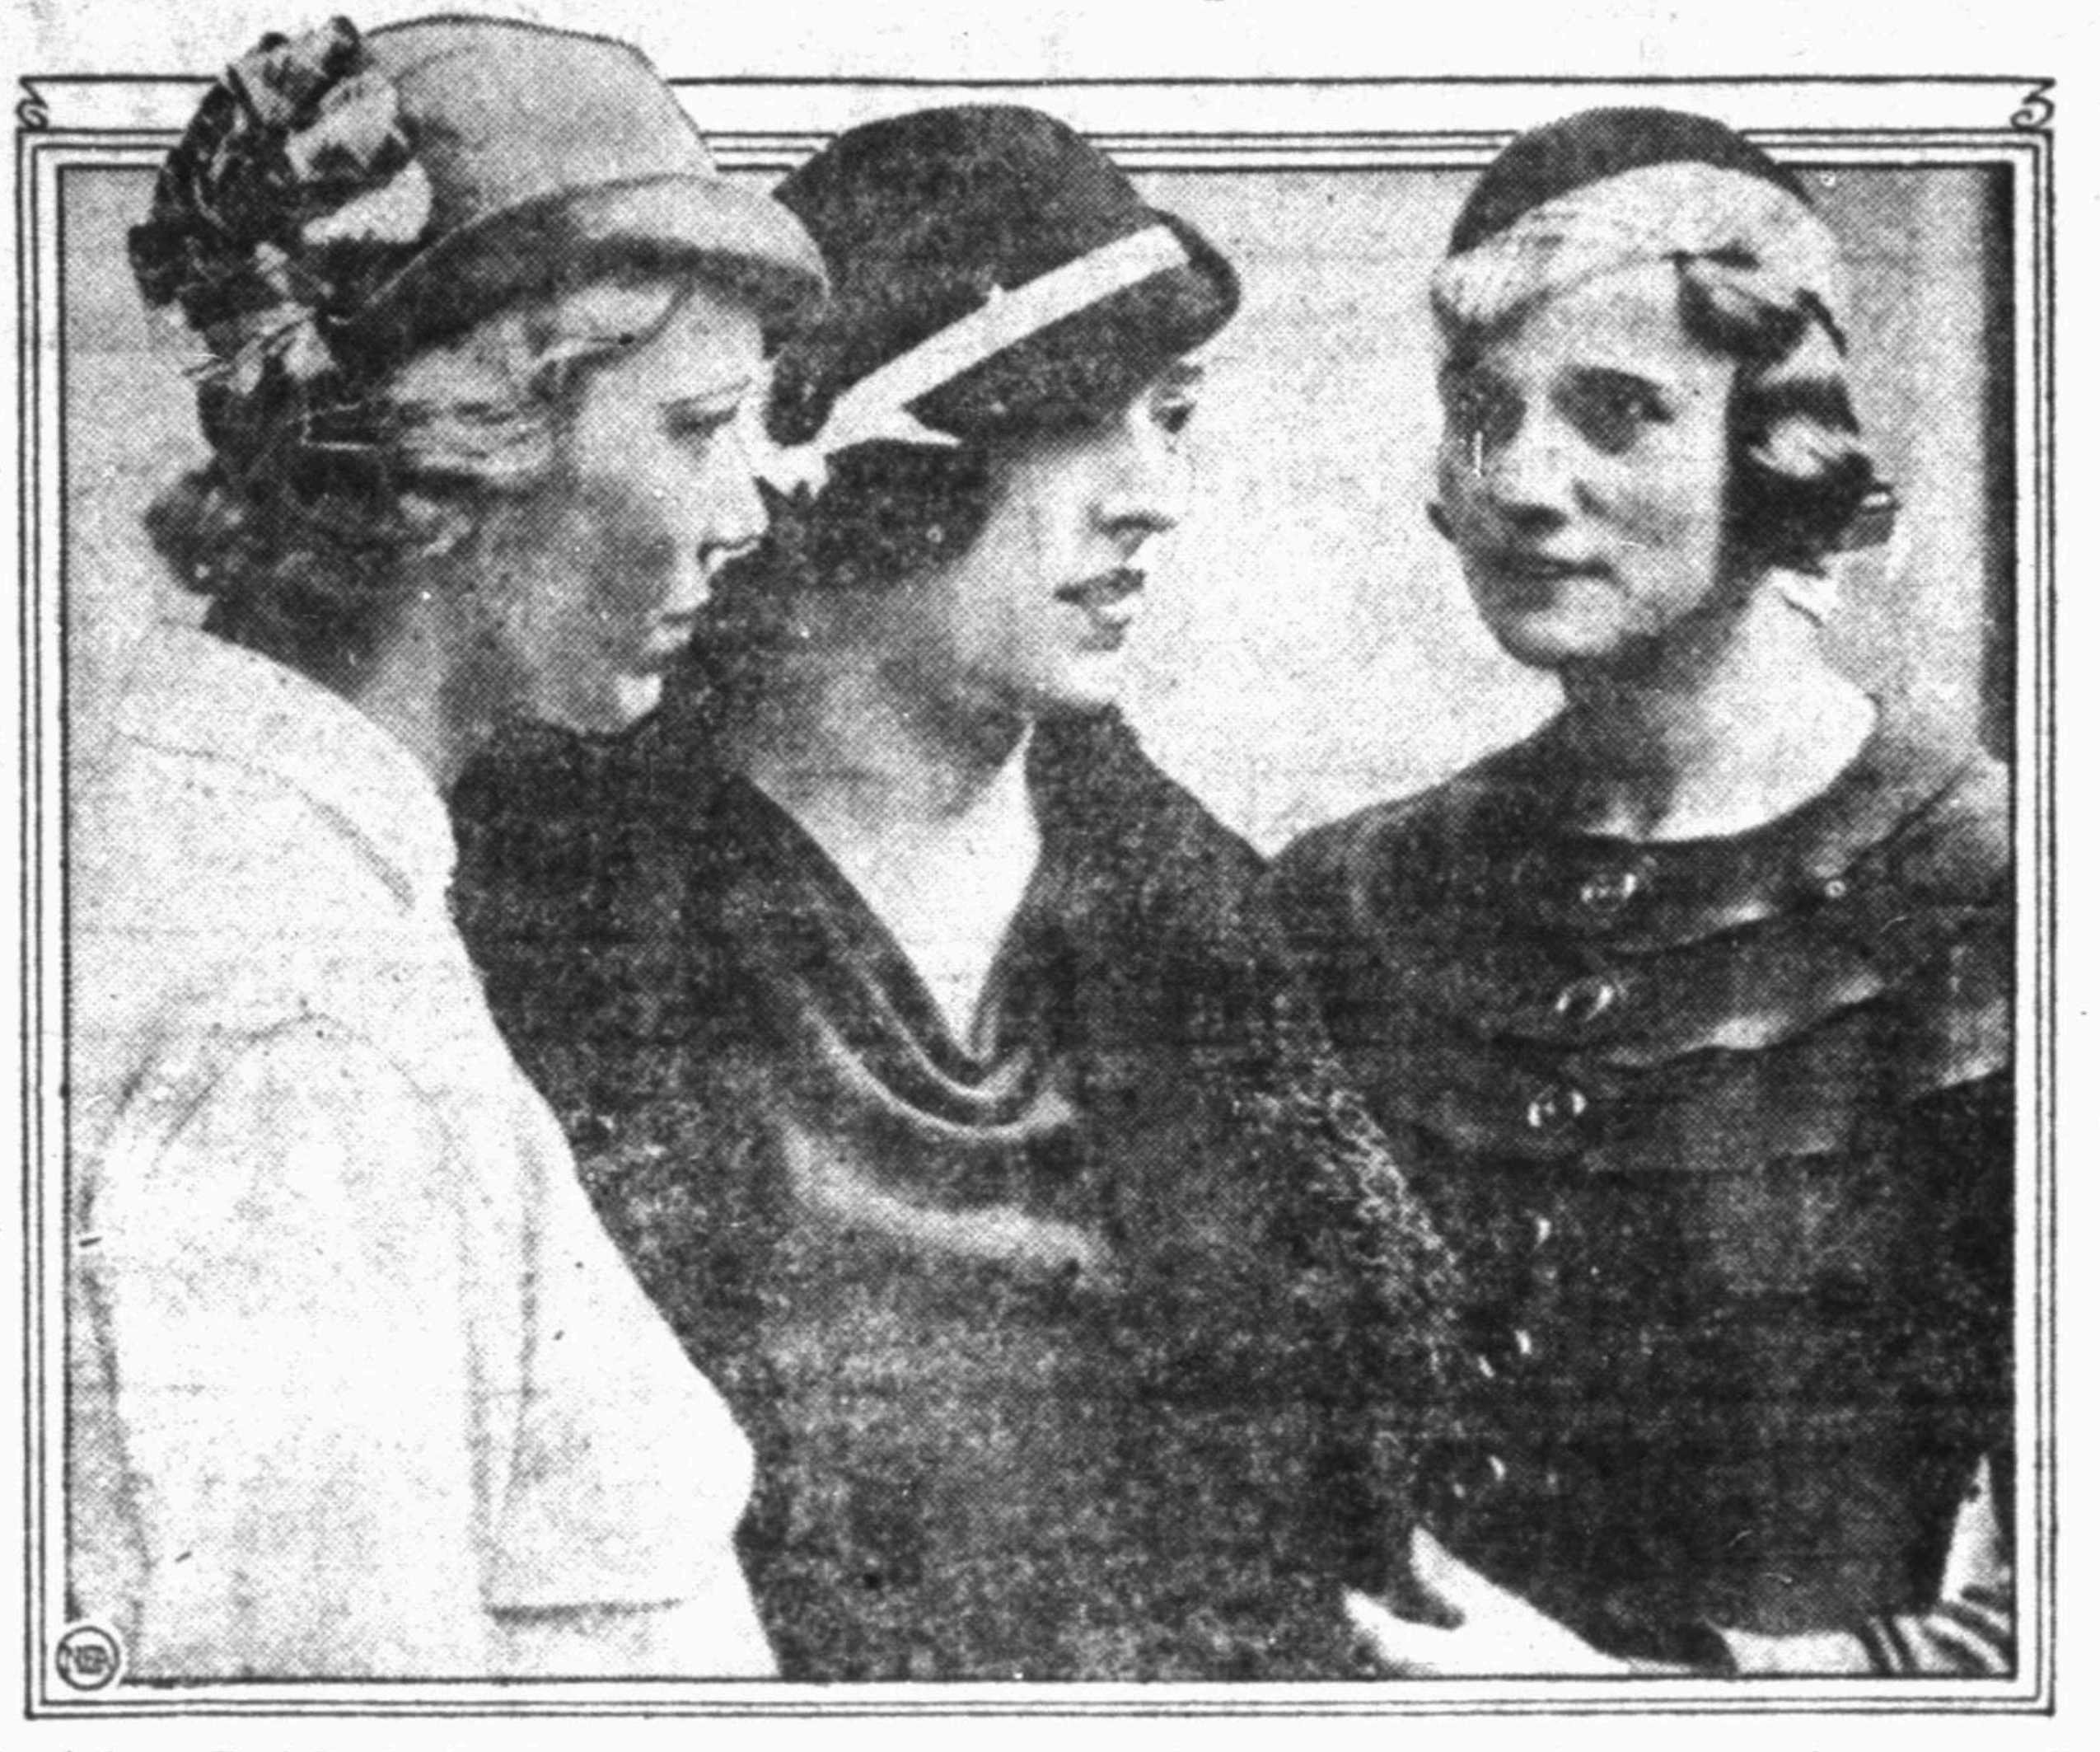
From Old London Comes This Top O' The Morning Mode



Direct from Paris? No. London sponsors these new "top o' the morning" hats, for wear on forenoon walks in the crisp autumn air. They're Victorian in execution. The model on the right hints of bag-pipes and kilts—it's much the same as the glengarry worn in some Scotch regiments. The other two are felt, one in black and the other in beige, with tip-tilted brims not unlike the Empress Eugenie mode.

TRUCK LAW IS HELD VOID

THREE OTHERS UPHELD BY A THREE-JUDGE FEDERAL COURT

HOUSTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—A three-judge federal court yesterday voided one section of house bill 336, one of the truck laws enacted by the present legislature. The rest of the law was upheld. The provision invalidated was that fixing a limit of 7,000 pounds on certain loads.

An interlocutory injunction was granted restraining the state from enforcing the annulled section. That portion limited truck loads composed of boxed, baled or bundled units containing more than 30 cubic feet and weighing more than 500 pounds to 14 such units and to a total weight of 7,000 pounds. It was declared by the court to be discriminatory against uncompressed cotton.

The opinion was written by Jurge T. M. Kennerly of Houston, and concurred in by Circuit Judge J. C. Hutcheson, jr., of New Orleans and Judge Duval West of San Antonio.

Wins Verdict

W. T. Stevens, who intervened in the suit brought by Ed Sproles of Fort Worth to enjoin enforcement of the law was the only one of the many attackers of the measure to win a verdict. Stevens alleged he has a contract to transport uncompressed cotton and the load limit section of the law would abrogate it.

Judge Kennerly wrote in part: "That this act, insofar as it regulates, or seeks to regulate, the size of vehicles and loads, the speed thereof, and makes provisions for the safety of the public and the protection of the highways, exemptions and other provisions complained of, is well within the power of the legislature, we need not stop to discuss."

Considerable discussion of the section voided by the court was contained in the opinion, the court pointing out that whereas uncompressed cotton loads would be limited to 7,000 pounds, loads of compressed cotton might weigh as much as 24,000 pounds and still be carried over the highways without violation of the law.

"It is certain," the court held, "that the transporation of a load of one weight of packages containing more than 30 cubic feet and weighing more than 500 pounds, is no more injurious to the highways, or persons and property thereon, than the same weight load containing a miscellaneous assortment with packages of less cubic feet content or less weight. One is reminded of a catch question, frequently propounded in childhood ways, of which is the heavier, a pound of lead or a pound of feathers."

The court's decision probably will be appealed.

Damage Suit Filed Against Santa Fe

P. M. Jeffcoat of Lubbock asks damages totaling $5,040 in a suit filed Wednesday in 72nd district court here against the Panhandle & Santa Fe railway. Jeffcoat alleges he was permanently disabled when he fell from a string of boxcars here last July.

Jeffcoat in his petition said that he was climbing through a string of box cars on a siding near the Santa Fe station here to join a party of railroad employes when the cars were violently jarred, causing him to fall from the coupling. His right arm was injured in the fall. The member is now paralyzed, he said. The plaintiff said he was trying to find the foreman of the crew to obtain employment. He said none of the railroad employes attempted to warn him when the locomotive was approaching the cars.

The plaintiff asks $5,000 actual damages and $40 for medical attention.

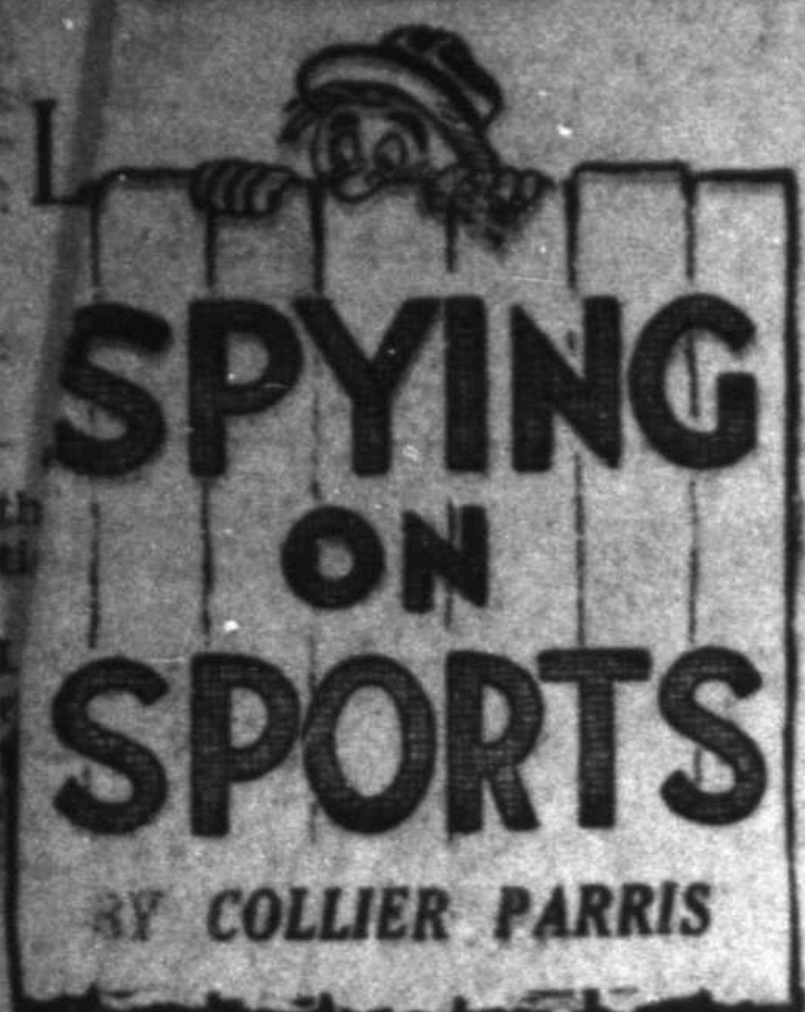
URTAIN TO PART TODAY ON OPENING GAME OF WORLD SERIES

BROWNFIELD, FLOYDADA WILL PLAY AT FAIR



SPYING ON SPORTS

BY COLLIER PARRIS

Tech's Matadors are off early tomorrow by special bus for Las Cruces, N. M., to meet the New Mexico Aggies in what is scheduled as a football game. It has been rumored that the Aggie school has solicited the services of several professional gridsters and that half the Haskell Institute team has joined forces to help the Aggies, but such rumors are not to be taken seriously, even if eligibility rules are enforced about as rigidly as No Parking regulations in the Sahara.

Dizzy Dean once verbally dragged Branch Rickey across the coals without knowing he was talking to Rickey; Calvin Coolidge was once mistaken for a fisherman, and other identities have been juggled. The other day a young lady in this office who is a graduate of Lubbock High school and Texas Tech, otherwise a native of Lubbock, who is still so attached to college traditions that she has her shoes re-heeled at the campus shop, happened to notice the picture of a familiar acquaintance decorating the wall of the shop on the last visit.

The attendant, who knew his half-soles better than newspaper attaches whose names appear over stories at regular intervals, rushed over with the enlightening information that "that is Jack Durham, the captain of the Texas Tech football team. This is Texas Tech you see across the street. Durham plays football. He is not so handsome, as you may be able to see, but he is a whiz of a football player. He was captain last year, too. He weighs about 161 pounds and plays guard. He played center last year." And so on, for an elaborate description of the Matador captain whom the young lady has known as a class mate for lo! these many years. They're even in the same Sunday school class.

And at this moment a distinguished looking visitor approaches. He is distinguished. For two years he wore the world's lightweight wrestling championship belt, but he looks more like a welter now. He is Dutch Marlin, and seeks a wrestling match here. Says he will meet any welterweight or light heavyweight who wants him. It is a slack season in wrestling, though Marlin, who hails originally from Livingston, Montana, has had his hands about full this summer up in the middle western states. Says he heard that Lubbock was getting along in wrestling, that the city had received publicity for hundreds of miles around because of the Golden Gloves amateur tournament, spiked with professional wrestling matches, and he came here for the purpose of appearing in one.

Marlin has made no permanent connection here, and left yesterday afternoon for Amarillo on business. It is likely that he will talk Cal Farley into coming here for a match soon. Says he will meet Farley or anybody else, and said he thought the town ripe for an outstanding wrestle show. He wants to meet Dutch Mantell here. Marlin held the world's championship in 1923 and 1924. He has clippings from outstanding newspapers in several states of this country as well as from papers of Canada, China, Japan, South America and several European countries bearing testimony to his popularity in those points.

Brownfield and Floydada play football at the Fair Park gridiron this p. m. The game is scheduled to begin at 4 o'clock, but if conditions are ripe it may begin at 3:45.

Damon Runyon, one of the nation's best sport experts and our favorite short story writer, puts little faith in the psychological reasoning of the thing and picks the team rather than the time to win the World Series. Cornelius McGillicuddy's Philadelphia Athletics are his choice, for the following reasons:

"It appears that many of our most eminent experts are picking the St. Louis Cardinals to give the Athletics a sound belting around in the impending World Series," says Damon.

"I do not quite comprehend the logic of this reasoning.

"Mr. Cornelius McGillicuddy seems to have about as good a baseball club as has been mobilized in any town in many years. It may be one of our all-time great clubs.

"Therefore, I expect to see Mr. McGillicuddy's outfit give the Cardinals a whipping in the ... fair we call baseball's 'an- ... classic,' though it is not ... ntly anything but. That ... g but classic.

SPORTSMAN PARK TO BE SCENE OF INITIAL COMBAT BETWEEN ATHLETICS AND CARDINALS

PHILADELPHIA'S WORLD CHAMPIONS FAVORED TO WIN THIRD STRAIGHT SERIES; GROVE AND DERRINGER SELECTED TO PITCH

BY EDWARD J. NEIL,
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1.—The curtain parted today, conjecture ended and argument ceased, and on the great stage of baseball was thrown once more the annual drama of the world series.

All the statistics diamond scientists could muster were tossed into wastebasket. All the prediction, all the brave declaration of hope and confidence slipped into the background. And on the battlefield of flag-decked Sportsmans park the world champion Philadelphia Athletics faced the St. Louis Cardinals in actual conflict, the first game of the 1931 world series.

Mack After Record

For two straight years the Philadelphia Athletics, champions of the American league and one of the most powerful ball clubs ever assembled, have maced into subjection the champions of the National circuit. At their head rides Connie Mack, 68 years old, tall, stately, time-ridden, striving to attain before the curtain falls on his own colorful career, a record no other pilot ever has attained—three straight world championships.

But against this background of history making possibilities, there stood out the possibility of individual drama overshadowing all else.

For instead of pinning his faith on grizzled Burleigh Grimes, the embattled spit-ball hurler who lost two tough games to the A's last fall, or depending for the all-important 'jump" in the brief seven game fray on his veterans, Lefty Bill Hallahan, Flint Rhem, Sylvester Johnson, or Jim Lindsey, all with world series experience, the old sergeant, Gabby Street, sent out a rookie to carry the load of a man.

He was Paul Derringer, 6 feet, 2 inches of yearling, but with one of the finest first year records ever compiled in the National league. Never before had a world series manager ever gambled in the starting game of the classic with such inexperienced material.

To climax the pitching drama and bring out the widest possible pitching contrasts on the two clubs, the experts selected Grove as the Athletics' opening hurler.

The big Lefty is everything that Derringer is not. A veteran now, cunning, tireless, the swiftest hurler of the day, Grove broke all modern southpaw records by winning 31 games for his club during the American league season.

Cardinal injuries, plus the all-around impotency of the National league champions in recent series, have aided in marking the Athletics an 8 to 5 favorite to make history in the present classic.

All the series games—today and Friday here, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in Philadelphia, the Friday and Saturday here again if more are necessary—start at 1:30 p. m. C. S. T., in St. Louis, E. S. T. in Philadelphia.

CLASS PRESIDENT

Students of Texas Technological college evidently believe in Jack Durham, below, of Hamilton. Besides being captain of the football team for the past season and leading them again this season, Durham is now president of the senior class. He was elected in annual class elections Wednesday.

SIDELIGHTS ON WORLD SERIES OPENER TODAY

SCALPERS ACTIVE

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1. (AP)—Scalpers were asking from $8.50 to $15 for a $5.50 reserved seat for today's game between the Athletics and Cardinals. Seats priced at $8.50 were located beyond the first and third base lines. Internal revenue agents were circulating through hotel lobbies, cigar stores and other places where tickets might be sold to see that only registered scalpers were dealing in them.

ATHLETICS FAVORED

The world champion Athletics were quoted at 1 to 2 favorites to defeat the Cardinals by Tom Kearney, St. Louis betting commissioner. The Athletics also were held by Kearney as 3 to 5 to win any one game and 6 to 1 on four straight.

KLEM HEADS UMPIRES

William Klem of the National league is umpire-in-chief of the world series. Klem is entering his fifteenth series, a record unequaled by any other umpire.

Balls Differ

Since the two major leagues use baseballs that are slightly different, the National league ball will be in play in the games at St. Louis and the American League ball at Philadelphia. Unlike 1930, both baseballs have "raised seams." The national baseball also has a slightly thicker cover than in 1930, whereas the American league cover is similar to a year ago.

MUST HIT HARD

If Al Simmons chooses to hit a home run he will be obliged to drive the ball 450 feet into the centerfield bleachers. The distance from home plate to left field is 360 feet and to right field is 320 feet. There is a screen, however, in right field, and he will have to clear it. Babe Ruth cleared the screen twice three years ago, once driving a home run through a plate glass window across the street.

BATTING ORDER

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1 (AP)—The probable batting order for the opening world series game today:

Athletics	Cardinals
Bishop, 2b	Adams or High, 3b
Haas, cf	Roettger, rf
Cochrane, c	Frisch 2b
Simmons, lf	Bottomley, 1b
Foxx, 1b	Hafey, lf
Miller rf	Martin, cf
Dykes, 3b	Wilson, c
Williams, ss	Gelbert, ss
Grove, p	Derringer, p

A $65,000 school building has been recently completed at Perryton.

ONLY FIFTEEN ARE DRAFTED

HIGHER PRICE FOR AA AND A PLAYERS CUTS DOWN ON SALES

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1. (AP)—The higher draft price for class AA and A players and business conditions in general have caused major league club owners to select only 15 players, the smallest number in recent years, from the minors this season.

The draft price for class AA leagues—the American association, International league and Pacific Coast league, is $7,500 under the new agreement, while $3,000 must be laid down for players from class A leagues such as the Southern association, Texas league and Eastern league. The old prices were $5,000 and $3,000.

Of the fifteen players culled in the 1931 draft meeting last night, only three will have trials with American league teams next season, and of the remaining 12, the Boston Braves got four. Six pitchers, four infielders, three catchers, one outfielder and a combination pitcher-outfielder were selected.

In the American league, the Chicago White Sox obtained infielder Carey Selph, once a wearer of the St. Louis Cardinal uniform, from the Houston club of the Texas league, a Cardinal farm. Selph had a batting mark of .323 this season.

The Phillies picked up catcher Al Todd from Dallas of the Texas league. Todd's hitting mark was .270.

ATHLETIC BIG GUNS BARK AGAIN IN DEFENSE OF TITLE

* * * * * * * * * * * * * * * *

Old familiar faces—and what nightmares they caused the St. Louis Cardinals in the world's series last year! They are on hand for the 1931 classic between the clubs, starting today—Al Simmons, left fielder, and Mickey Cochrane, catcher, game-wrecking home run clouters and Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw, hurlers who together won the four games that captured the last series.

Matadors Invade New Mexico For Aggie Contest Saturday

WESTERNERS PRIMED FOR TILT WITH LAMESA HIGH

Texas Tech's Matadors are off early tomorrow for El Paso, where they will spend the night before invading New Mexico Saturday for a game with the New Mexico Aggies at Las Cruces.

Out at the junior high school practice field, the Lubbock High school Westerners were preparing yesterday for a tough scrimmage this weekend with the Lamesa Golden Turnadoes. The game will be played tomorrow afternoon at Lamesa. While they are not taking the game lightly, Coach Chapman's men are not stretching themselves this week, are doing general practice and getting in lots of passing, kicking and signal drill. They open the district race here next Friday against the Slaton Tigers.

Coach Pete Cawthon was not certain yesterday just who nor how many would make up the roll for the trip, choosing to wait until after today's workout to make a final decision. It is likely that about 17 linemen and seven backs will make the trip, the first of the season. Cawthon intimated that he would start practically the same "shock troops" that played the first quarter against the Canyon Buffs, which means that Barton will play at center, Baker and Ayers at guards, Langford and Young at tackles and Howell and Fauks at ends. In the backfield, McAdams, Sollis, Butts, and Nichols will get the call.

Line Coach Dutchey Smith will have Teal, Hitchcock, and Cowan ready to send in at ends, McWilliams and Owen at tackles, Captain Durham and Harris at guards and Tribble at center. Cawthon will probably use his five best men in O'Leary, France, Crites, Close and Price. Close, for the past workout or so, has been proving worthy of first team consideration, and his showing against Canyon last Friday night warranted him an opportunity in later contests.

COACH DANA X. BIBLE DEVELOPING ALERT GRID STRATEGY AT NEBRASKA

BY T. M. METZGER

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 1.—(AP)—A type of football strategy devised to keep the most alert gridster on his toes has been developed by Head Coach Dana X. Bible and gives promise of reaching near perfection when the University of Nebraska settles into its 1931 nine-game campaign.

It is the brand of football featured in the past with success by Bible-coached teams—a deceptive lateral, forward and triple passing game.

Built around a nucleus of sophomore backfield candidates who made football history at Lincoln High school, where they played three years together, the Bible method demonstrated its effectiveness in a 44 to 6 victory over the University of South Dakota here last Saturday.

Teams Versatile

While Husker teams of the past excelled in "power plays," teams of the Bible regime, and this is his third year at Nebraska, have been drilled in versatility. Power House plays have not been neglected, either, but they have given way largely to the more cunning brand of football.

Believing that football palyers must "love the game" to play it successfully, Coach Bible has placed much emphasis on the mental condition of his squad.

Nebraska schedule: Oct. 3—Northwestern at Evanston; Oct. 10—Oklahoma at Lincoln; Oct. 24—Kansas at Lincoln; Oct. 31—Missouri at Columbia; Nov. 7—Iowa at Lincoln; Nov. 14—Kansas Aggies at Manhattan; Nov. 21—Iowa State at Lincoln; Nov. 26—Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

Quarter-Finals In Tennis Meet Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1 (AP)—High ranking stars were paired off against formidable opponents today in the men's singles quarter-finals matches of the Pacific coast tennis championships while semi-final tilts brought together survivors in the women's singles.

George Lot of Philadelphia, defending champoin, opposed Gerald Stratford of San Francisco. Another favorite, Sidney Wood of New York, English singles title holder, drew Edward Chandler of San Francisco as his opponent.

Women's semi-finals brought together Mrs. Anna Harper, of Oakland, No. 1 national ranking player in 1930, and Miss Dorothy Weisel, Sacramento girl who was rated America's third best performer last year.

St. Paul To Meet Rochester Today

LEXINGTON PARK, St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 1. (AP)—Another pitching contest between righthanders was in prospect today as Rochester sought to come abreast of St. Paul in the junior world series of baseball.

Manager Bill Southworth of the International league club, which took a 4 to 0 trimming yesterday after a home run with bases loaded broke up the game, selected Herman Bell to do the flinging.

For St. Paul, participating in the inter-league competition for the first time since 1924, Manager Lefty Leifield selected John Murphy, who goes to the New York Yankees next season.

Yesterday's opening game was a twirler's battle between Carmen Hill and Walter (Lucky) Betts.

BEST GAME OF WEEK THUS FAR SEEN

HALE CENTER WINNER OVER MULESHOE IN WEDNESDAY GAME

Appearing in what is expected to be the best game of the week thus far Coach Marlin Hayhurst's Brownfield High school Cubs meet the Whirlwinds of Floydada High school coached by L. T. Barksdale in the fourth football contest on the Panhandle-South Plains fair program.

Today's game will start at 3:45 o'clock though carded for 4 o'clock in the official program. Matchmaker Gamet Reeves hopes to start the game immediately after the free show on the sidelines.

Hale Center Wins

Yesterday afternoon saw Coach Denton Underwood's Hale Center team defeat the Muleshoe club, 25 to 0, in a rough and tumble exhibition at Fair Park. The contest was featured by the sprinting of Halfback Nicholson from one end of the field to the other several times for touchdowns. Coach Fred Bryant's Muleshoe club did its best but was hardly an equal to the smashing backs and well-trained line presented by Hale Center.

The largest crowd of the week so far witnessed yesterday's game. Attendance was estimated at around 2,500 fans, each team having been accompanied to the field of battle by strong delegates of rooters.

Eckle and Burkhead were offensive stars for Muleshoe, with Burgess and Massey, fullback and quarterback respectively doing nice work with Nicholson for Hale Center.

White Sox One Up In Chicago Series

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—There was great joy and shouting in the camp of Donie Bush's oft manhandled White Sox today for a change. They They were one up on their northside rivals, the Cubs, in the battle for the Chicago city series championship.

Clicking like champions, the White Sox staggered the Cubs, 8 to 0, yesterday in the opening battle for the title and were smiling for the first time this year.

"Red" Faber, 43-year-old veteran of the southtown pitching staff, was the hero of the first game. Faber held the National leaguers to five scattered hits. Blanketed by Root in a charity game recently, the White Sox bats exploded so loudly and effectively in the sixth that they blew Root off the mound with seven runs. They added two more in the seventh.

Sport Palace Is To Be Opened In Paris

PARIS, Oct. 1, (AP)—The Parisian imitation of New York's Madison Square Garden will open here tomorrow.

Built by an American, the Promoter Jeff Dickson, the new 'Palais Du Sport" will run a string of sporting events the year round and throw in a few art shows, banquet and theatrical performances. The first attraction for the costly sport palace is to be an ice hockey match between the French racing club and the London Grosvenor house Canadians. That will be tomorrow night.

On Saturday, Frankie Genaro, the American flyweight champion, will defend his title against Young Perez and Pete Nebo, the Florida Indian, will fight Henri Dewancker.

Basketball League To Be Talked Here

Delegates from several South Plains towns are to meet tonight at o'clock at Lubbock hotel to discuss plans for a semi-pro basketball league, a schedule for which will be drawn up provided a sufficient number of delegates are present to justify the organization.

All teams in surrounding towns interested in entering into a league are expected to send representatives to the meeting tonight. It is likely that delegates from Lubbock, Slaton, Petersburgh, Wolfforth, Brownfield, Ropes, Levelland, Littlefield Meadow and other towns of the Plains will be represented.

Boats owned by the government now outnumber private craft in Poland.

How Greta Garbo Eclipsed the Nine Men Who Heard Her Say, "I Love You"

She helped him to the top . . . Robert Montgomery, who achieved stardom soon after appearing opposite Greta Garbo in "Inspiration."

A scene from Garbo's first American picture, "The Torrent," with Ricardo Cortez . . . who is coming back after a descent into oblivion.

A scene from "Wild Orchids" in which Nils Asther was Garbo's leading man.

When the screen's most famous romance was hitting on all six. . . . John Gilbert and Greta Garbo in "Flesh and the Devil."

Kisses from screenland's famous lovers helped make her a star, but now conditions are changed and she brings fame to the lucky men who are chosen to play opposite her

Garbo and Charles Bickford (above) in a scene from "Anna Christie." . . . Below, Garbo and the late Lars Hansen in "The Divine Woman."

Greta Garbo and Antonio Moreno in "The Temptress," her second American picture. . . . While Garbo went up, Moreno dropped.

Gavin Gordon and Greta Garbo in "Romance" . . . which helped Gordon up the ladder.

By DAN THOMAS

SINCE the day six years ago when Greta Garbo arrived in Hollywood wearing a checkered suit and possessing a very scanty English vocabulary, nine men have heard her say "I love you."

Eight of these men heard her say those words only to the accompaniment of grinding cameras and glaring studio lights. Only one, John Gilbert, ever heard them off-stage. But all nine have had diverse adventures since their days opposite the exotic Swedish actress.

The nine can be grouped into three classes. The early ones were chosen to lend their prestige to the building of a new star. They were famous when she was unknown, although today she outshines them all.

In the middle group were actors who traveled along with her on an equal plane, rising with her. And the third group is made up of newcomers to whom playing opposite Garbo was an important step upward in their screen careers.

Of the nine, only two or three have any great popularity in the movies today. Garbo has kept steadily on her course, eclipsing them all. And Hollywood, to this day, does not quite understand how she did it.

Ricardo Cortez holds the distinction of playing opposite the Swedish actress in her first American picture, "The Torrent," made six years ago when he was at the peak of his success.

Cortez was a veteran on the screen at that time. He had made love to filmland's loveliest girls and was tremendously popular. Studio executives chose him because they knew that even should Greta fail to "click" with American audiences, his name would put the film over.

IN those days Greta was very young and somewhat bewildered by the glamour of Hollywood. But even in that state she managed to match the Cortez suavity with a sophisticated grace even greater than his. That first picture, "The Torrent," removed all doubt as to how America would receive this newcomer from across the Atlantic. She was an instant hit.

A few months later Garbo began work on "The Temptress." Since the Latin-Swedish combination had been so successful in her first film, Antonio Moreno was selected as her leading man for her second appearance on the silver screen. Although possessing an entirely different personality, Moreno was, like Cortez, one of the most popular male stars in movieland at that time.

These men, Cortez and Moreno, served to introduce Garbo. Their names meant more than hers and their swarthiness contrasted beautifully with the Garbo whiteness. They paved the way for John Gilbert.

The teaming of Gilbert and Garbo for "Flesh and the Devil" served to introduce one of the most fascinating romantic teams ever seen on the American screen.

Gilbert then was virtually sitting on top of the cinema world. He still was riding the wave which started with "The Big Parade." But he relinquished his rights to individual stardom in order to be co-starred with the Swedish actress of whom he knew little, but who intrigued him considerably.

"Flesh and the Devil" was a sensational hit at the box office. It completed the build-up necessary to make Garbo and Gilbert two of the biggest stars in the history of motion pictures. Everyone talked about the love scenes in this film. Garbo had displayed emotion before, but never anything that compared to her passion for Gilbert.

IT was not long before Greta scarcely ever was seen outside of the studio except when accompanied by Gilbert. He was the only one, before or since, who was able to pull her out of the seclusion which has made her the most mysterious of our screen personages. For months this romance flourished and was talked about more than any other movie romance.

Some months after "Flesh and the Devil" was finished and while the Gilbert-Garbo romance was sizzling hot, they were teamed again in "Love," a picture designed to capitalize on their private love affair—which wasn't so very private. By that time all Hollywood was wondering when the couple would be married.

Then, for some reason never explained, the fireworks commenced. And less than a month later Gilbert and Ina Claire skipped off to Nevada and were married without anyone knowing that they were more than casual friends.

But they never lived together very long. Ina returned to New York and the legitimate stage shortly afterwards and when she returned to Hollywood she took up a separate residence—after startling nearly everyone by announcing that she would rather have Gilbert as a lover than as a husband. And it is said that Jack's only love is for Garbo.

Following her vacation—given to her after each picture—after "Love," Garbo started production on "The Divine Woman." Gilbert still was her sweetheart in private life. But studio executives picked Lars Hansen, who had played an important role in "Flesh and the Devil," for her screen lover in this film.

THEN came Conrad Nagel, popular and a perfect foil for the Garbo wiles. He was the leading man in "The Mysterious Lady." Nagel was still a different type than any leading man Greta ever had had, having more of the solid business man characteristics.

After Nagel came another fellow countryman, Nils Asther. He came from Greta's own city, Stockholm. These two were so well matched in "The Single Standard" that Asther again was cast opposite Garbo in "Wild Orchids."

Asther was just getting his start in the cinema world. He was absolutely an unknown quantity when he stepped into "The Single Standard." But after completing two films with the great Garbo he found himself high on the ladder of cinema fame, popular and affluent.

At this time Gilbert stepped back into the picture again. Studio executives had found it more profitable to star these two independently, as their combined salaries placed a terrific load on any one picture. However, they were brought together again for "A Woman of Affairs."

This move, it would seem, was an unfortunate one as the picture fell far below the standard set by their two previous productions, thereby robbing the fans of some of the illusions they had treasured.

The talkies finally took complete possession of Hollywood. Garbo had to make a talkie. Nor was she unwilling to do so. She had been studying faithfully and while she had not rid herself of her accent, she could speak fairly distinctly. And her voice, naturally low, was found to record remarkably well. Charles Bickford, homely, red-headed and one of the new arrivals from Broadway's legitimate stage, was picked to play opposite the Swedish star in this production. Bickford brought to Garbo's first talkie, "Anna Christie," a ruggedness never before seen in a Garbo film. And he rose to sudden popularity along with Garbo's increased popularity.

GAVIN GORDON, another importation from the stage, came next as the minister lover in "Romance." At the time he was entirely new as far as screen audiences were concerned. The one picture with Garbo lifted him temporarily into the spotlight and then he disappeared as quietly as he had come, to be forgotten by the fans.

Then came the last of the nine leading men this great actress has had during her career in the United States, young and handsome Robert Montgomery. Bob had been in pictures for just about a year when he was given his assignment opposite Greta. The Garbo film, "Inspiration," completed his "build-up."

And what of the nine lucky men who played opposite her? What happened to them? Cortez sank from sight. For nearly two years nobody would give him a job. About a year ago he began to come back. One picture was good. Another followed that and Cortez began an ascension that has carried him almost to the position he held once before.

Antonio Moreno has practically disappeared from the screen. One of the nine, Lars Hansen, is dead.

John Gilbert was well on the road to oblivion as a result of the talkies. But he has staged a comeback in his last two films which probably will keep him in the running for some time yet. Conrad Nagel never has attained stardom, but he has maintained a steady pace.

Asther, like Gilbert, nearly lost out when the talkies came in. M-G-M released him from his contract and all other studios were "cold" on him. But a few months ago he was signed again and now shows promise of staging a comeback. Charles Bickford, still a beginner when he was with Garbo, has steadily advanced. Gavin Gordon still is working, but seldom is heard of. Montgomery has forged steadily ahead and now is enjoying stardom.

Leadership

At a time when most Americans are looking around hopefully for a leader who can lead their country through its perplexing maze of difficulties, it is interesting to find Governor Wilbur Cross of Connecticut reminding us that even the discovery of such a leader won't necessarily solve the problem.

Writing in the autumn number of the Yale Review, Governor Cross remarks:

"If we have learned anything from the war experience, it should be that leadership is not enough . . . A citizen of a democracy such as ours cannot with a clear conscience delegate his authority to the expert in times of prosperity and hide behind him in times of trouble. The present period of adversity will have its uses if it recalls people in all walks of life to the elementary rights and duties of citizenship."

That paragraph goes straight to the roots of a good many of the troubles of the present moment.

For a number of years we have been content to put ourselves in the hands of others. We have fondly trusted that these others were wiser than we, but we haven't worried about it greatly.

The nation at large used to take its politics seriously. It used to get excited about the trends in business and economics. It was jealous of its rights. The country store, where farmers gathered around the cracker box to settle the affairs of the nation, wasn't quite as funny an institution as we like to pretend.

Recently we suffered a change. We let politicians run governmental affairs about as they pleased, asking only that they didn't worry us over them. We were too busy to bother about developments in finance and industry, leaving all such things to the square-jawed men in the front office. We gave up a measure of our old independence, and asked only to be led in something approximately the right direction.

Now we are getting precisely what we asked for. Corruption in city affair, inefficiency in state capitals, a mounting federal deficit, industrial stagnation, unemployment—we refused to worry about any of them until times got hard.

Good leadership, of course, is needed. But it isn't enough by itself.

Governor Cross is dead right in pointing out that the rank and file in a democracy have got to think for themselves.

Petticoats

Nothing in all of the stories about the British naval mutiny has been more interesting than the following little paragraph, taken from a cable dispatch from London.

"The men will be granted week-end leave and will have a chance to talk over the recent events with their wives, who are blamed by many officers in naval circles as the real originators of the strike."

This provides an unsuspected angle from which to view the whole affair. Navy Jack is apt to be a married man these days. He isn't the carefree, roistering rover of the old days. When his pay is cut the little woman will call it to his attention just as she would if he were a factory hand.

The British government, one imagines, may have a tough time smoothing its "naval unrest" down if it fails to take the wives into account.

BEFORE the fair is over it is no more than right that tribute be paid to the men who annually contribute a great deal toward the exposition's success. With that idea in mind, The Plainsman will here and now pay public respects to the gentlemen who come from near and far with livestock and fill the livestock division with many people as well as with many cattle, hogs and horses.

One of the strongest divisions of the Panhandle-South Plains fair is that of livestock. Also, it is one of the most interesting and educational of all divisions.

Without the hogs, the horses and mules, the beef and dairy cattle, the fair here would be nothing more or less than a pumpkin show.

HUNDREDS and hundreds of dollars are spent each year by the exhibitors of livestock and the sad part about it is that only a fraction of fair crowds ever bother themselves with going through the barns.

They look at the industrial booths, the women's department, the agricultural exhibits and the carnival—and that's all well and good. But they're missing something when they sidestep the livestock.

There isn't a man or a woman in Lubbock or these environs who can't be interested in the row after row of fine cattle, hogs and horses. They may think—a lot of them—that they aren't interested, but they'd know better if they'd just give the well known 'double-o' to the sections of the fair housing livestock exhibitions.

The Plainsman considers himself an average fair patron—and he discovered several years ago that he had been missing a big feature by not hanging around the barns a little more.

THE most outstanding thing about our fair is the livestock division. Cowmen, horse breeders, sheep raisers and dairymen will tell you that the quality of these exhibits is of the highest—that even the big State fair at Dallas has nothing on the Panhandle-South Plains fair in this respect.

Take a tip from these people who know—from these men who travel miles and miles and miles each year to see these exhibits.

The animals may not remind milady of a bridge luncheon but she'll admit, when her husband gets her home, that she didn't have any idea of the worth of this angle of the fair.

BY the time these lines reach their destination Thomas A. Edison may be dead. At any rate, he will still be a sick man with the Grim Reaper, like a buzzard, standing at his shoulder ready to strike.

It is a sad situation but it is symbolical of life.

Even if Mr. Edison does not die as a result of his present illness, he can't last many years longer.

Doubtless he dislikes to shuffle off this mortal soil, very much as any one of us would dislike it. But it is interesting to contemplate his probable feeling toward death.

THERE may be a living man who has contributed more to human life and comfort than Thomas A. Edison, but if there is such a man The Plainsman cannot call his name. "The Wizard of Menlo Park" stands by himself as the greatest inventive genius our nation—and perhaps the world—has ever known.

That being the case, does he feel any better about dying than we ordinary mortals who move casually through a work-a-day world and finally reach the end of the trail?

Sitting in calm judgment of another man's case, The Plainsman would say that Mr. Edison should be able to face the last barrier much more calmly, much more resigned than most of the rest of us. The reason, of course, is that his life has been filled with successful efforts to improve things as he found them.

On a basis of accomplishment, Mr. Edison should be ready to go.

AFTER all, lives are not best measured by the number of their years, but instead, upon what they have accomplished.

If Mr. Edison is able to apply that yardstick to his own life, as we who view it coldly and impersonally can do, he is probably ready to go.

At least he should be. His reward is earned.

CALIFORNIAITIS

A tourist was enjoying the wonders of California as pointed out by a native.

"What a beautiful grapefruit!" he said, as they passed through a grove of citrus trees.

"Oh, those lemons are a bit small; owing to a comparatively bad season," explained the Californian.

"And what are those enormous blossoms?" asked the tourist.

"Just a patch of dandelions," said the Californian.

Presently they reached the Sacramento river.

"Ah," said the tourist, grasping the idea, "somebody's radiator is leaking!"

Hoover Couldn't Restore Wine, Beer If He Wanted To, But Executive Order Would Mark Turning Point From Pro

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—Lots of people judging from inquiries, are not sure whether President Hoover could restore beer and wine to the country by a mere executive order.

Of course he can't and only an act of Congress could make beer legal.

DUTCHER

But the wide attention being directed at the president in connection with the beer speculation is based on the fact that a strong declaration from him at this time would carry tremendous weight in Congress and through the country and might definitely mark the turning point away from prohibition.

Neither house of Congress will pass any beer legislation during the next session unless Hoover demands it, and he is not expected to do so. Even if the president did come out for beer and urge Congress to restore it there is some room for doubt whether the House and Senate would fall over themselves in a rush to comply. The point is that White House intervention is the only thing that might cause legislative action in the near future.

The Volstead act could be modified by a majority vote, but each house is still regarded as approximately three-fourths dry. A call for beer from Hoover, because of the presidential influence and the fact that beer is now being demanded as an important step toward relieving depression, would be likely to whittle down the dry majorities considerably, although one can only guess as to how many votes it would affect. Members of Congress will vote for beer when they dare and not before.

A mere intimation that the president would be willing to sign a three per cent bill probably would have little if any effect on Capitol Hill. It would be necessary for Hoover, if he espoused the beer cause and sought to get anywhere with it this winter, to mobilize sentiment through the country to help him and to announce his conversion in emphatic tones. There is plenty of pro-beer sentiment, but there is also still plenty of anti-beer sentiment and no one has yet been able to tempt Hoover to defy the latter.

Thus the likelihood is that all this beer talk as well as all the efforts to persuade the president will come to nothing.

There has been no similar situation in the history of prohibition, however, and one is bound to suspect a significance in the persistent beer agitation, which has appeared to become gradually stronger. The theory that beer would help bring back prosperity has been widely adopted and because everyone is looking for a quick and easy way out of the depression it will be held and often echoed as long as the depression lasts.

Wet sentiment has become more tangible and even solidified, it is being demonstrated. The lack of that sort of thing has previously been one of the most hopeless phases of the situation from the wet standpoint.

Now it is reported that a majority of Hoover's own cabinet members are sold on the idea of three per cent beer and it is known that a considerable number of his friends and advisers have been trying to make him see their point. It is true that many hard-headed Republican politicians have been telling him that his best political bet is to stay right on the dry side and that this view has thus far been taken by Hoover, but never before has there been anything like this recent showing of wet sympathy in the ranks of the administration.

Republican politicians who have been working fo ra moister attitude on the part of both the president and the party are mostly in populous states where they have learned the difficulty of defeating wet Democratic candidates. Wet leanings have strengthened among them and the same thing is claimed to have been true among business men. The active wet campaign of labor leaders, increasing agitation among veterans an dthe recent emphasis placed by the American Bar association on its two to one referendum in favor of repealing the 18th amendment are among other developments indicating that in this time of depression the wets are in a stronger position than they have been before—even though they may not be within range of victory.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1—Pie is suddenly staging a tremendous comeback in Manhattan.

Whatever tears may have been shed over the much-discussed depression, it seems to me that some lusty cheers should be let loose over the renaissance of good old plebian pie.

Elsewhere in the land, pie may have held its own with other dishes on the menu. But in those days when everyone had easy money in his jeans, desserts went suddenly ritzy. I have wandered into one place after another and called plaintively for pie, only to have my appetite insulted by some soggy looking mess for which I had to pay from two-bits up.

You know the sort of pie I mean: that undernourished variety with the uppercrust caved in at the chest and leaning on the undercrust for support.

But wandering along the streets these days, you'll see the side street restaurants and the front street cafes fairly screeching with signs advertising pie for "five cents per cut." And ten cents, if you get it a la mode. And the samples shown in neat glass cases reveal a grand old puffy hunk. Even the swankier places, where all the desserts appeared in French, Italian and way languages, have swung into line.

And when New York goes back to pie, it seems to me there's some hope for the land.

The sudden discovery of show-stopping young hoofers who have been hiding away somewhere in these United States is one of the sensational features of the Broadway season.

The manner in which these youngsters have stepped on stage, without previous fan-fare, and tied up some big-league show with their nimble feet is nothing short of spectacular.

To date, there have been three such discoveries, and there are a couple more I've heard about but haven't had time to look in upon. Thus, Flo Ziegfeld started things off by introducing Hal Le Roy, the Cincinnati lad, into the company of Ruth Etting, Harry Richman and other stars. Yet, despite his "spot" on the program, the youngster became the talk of the show.

It was then whispered that George White would have something to write home about. He trotted out Ray Bolger, who has been about the stage for some time, but somehow never got the big break. Well, whatever the Scandals may or may not have this season, it certainly has Ray Bolger.

Now old Mons. Shubert heard about all this and went ferreting around. Out of his sleeve he pulled another young man with little or no Broadway reputation—one Tom Harty. And Harty threatens to give Le Roy plenty of competition.

It's rivalry of this sort that puts the sporting and thrill element into show going. Sport writers tell of the bencher who knocked the home run or came down the field with the pigskin. Of course, the play-by-play idea has never seemed possible on the stage.

Yet the fans who make the Broadway rounds season after season, become lusty rooters when some newcomer wins the big street game with some sensationally good stunt. In a way, it's all out of the same bag, I suppose.

On the other side of the theater ledger must be written the annoying numbr of tasteless acts that have bobbed up since Chick Sale's booklet had its phenomenal sale. Three or four music revues, including the very smart "Band Wagon," have had sketches devoted to plumbing shops and such.

TAX PAYER DENOUNCES GAMBLING AT FAIR

Dear Plainsman: I presume you were at the Fair Tuesday. I would like to ask the Fair association and the chief of police if the Fair is run by a lot of thieves?

If you attended Tuesday, I suppose you noticed that the concessions had all the strong points in the world with plenty of strong armed men on the outside stringing the public up to the gamblers to be stung.

I am a citizen and tax payer, and when our city has to go to the extreme to fleece the public, then it is time to stop the fair. I noticed several of our citizens roosting on several of the gamblers tables. I think it is about time the Fair association should look into this, also the chief of police and see if the officers have been fixed to let these games run.

Yours,
A Citizen and Tax Payer.

(Editor's Note: People demand games of chance at a carnival and fair; they know they haven't an even chance to win when they patronize them but like to have the fun of trying.

The city has no part in these concessions, hence cannot be charged as having to go to the "extreme to fleece the public."

No one is forced to patronize such games. Anyone who does, patronizes at his own will and knowing full well that he's being 'gyped.' I have no sympathy for patrons of such concessions but can't get excited over the proposition. The Plainsman.)

The boats seemed they would be eal sport, with large sails of a real ucer sort, One tall mast 'rose up the air to hold the monstrous ail. Right now the sails were lled up tight and shortly Scouty inymite said, "My, they look too g to stand the pressure of a gale."

"Oh, no," replied the Travel Man. hen to one of the boats he ran. 'I'll ask the man to spread his sail. ou'll see it's strong," said he. The an, who turned out very kind, aid, "Certainly! I do not mind." nd, as the big sail was unrolled, it as a sight to see.

The man then asked the boys if ey would like to sail out on the y. "Oh, sure," they loudly shouted. Take us right now, if you please. e'll sit as quiet as can be. Just y us out and you will see." Then oppy said, "It should be fine, ause there's a real nice breeze."

"Hop in," exclaimed the man. And ey were shortly on their merry ay. The sailboat smoothly skimmed along and didn't [illegible]. They rode for 'bout an hour and then slipped right by to the shore again. "We thank you," cried the Tinymites, as they jumped to the dock.

A walking merchant came their way and Clowny loudy shouted, "Say, what are those things he's carrying? Why, each one has a face." "They're cocoanuts, carved very neat. He sells them all along the street," replied the friendly Travel Man. "You'll see him every place."

The man then held one out and said, "How's that for qite a funny head?" One Tiny tok it in his hand and answered, "Go, it's rare! It's real enough to start to talk. With legs, I'll bet that it could walk. How grand 'twould be for hallow'een, to give all kids a scare."

(The Tinymites have some more fun in the next story.)

AGGIES ARE TO NAME QUEEN

STUDENTS TO VOTE ON CO-ED TO REIGN AT ANNUAL RODEO

Texas Technological college students Monday and Tuesday will cast ballots for queen of the 1931 annual Tech Aggie rodeo, B. E. Snyder, manager of the western sports event, has announced. The rodeo will be held October 9 and 10.

Ballot boxes will be placed in the administration building and every registered student in the college will be entitled to one vote, election officials have announced.

To Write Names

No nominations will be made, but each student will write the name of his candidate on the ballot as he votes. Last fall four coeds were nominated, Miss Kathleen Harman of Lampassas being elected.

Coronation of the winner will be the opening of the attraction, it was said last night. It is probable that other coeds will assist the queen during the two-day event. Last year the queen had three ladies-in-waiting.

Winner Announced Wednesday

Votes will be counted and the winner will be announced the following morning after the election. The queen will lead the parade down town both days and will assist in the two-day event.

POULTRY JUDGE LAUDS EXHIBITS

"I have watched the poultry show at the Panhandle-South Plains fair for the last three years and it is growing, year by year," Walter Burton, poultry judge, said.

"It has increased in interest every year. Not only that but the quality of the birds has increased. In many shows there are a lot of birds at first, but as the better birds get the prizes, the other drop out until you do not have so many.

"This is not true here. As the show has progressed there has developed more interest on the part of farmers and poultry men in better type birds.

One thing has been true this year. It takes quite a lot of work to make decisions. I have had in many instances to get all of the entries in a class down on the floor and make a minute inspection of each one several times in order to make my final decisions."

Mr. Burton said he had just returned from a month in California where he judged at four big shows, including the state fair.

New Health Nurse Assumes Her Duties

Miss Nelle Ayers, new health nurse in this district, assumed her duties this morning. She came to Lubbock from Plainview, where she had been headquartered as Hale county nurse nearly six years.

Succeeding Miss Evelyn Richter, Miss Ayers will conduct a school health inspection Friday morning at the Y-L community in Bailey county and attend a meeting of the Bailey county health committee Friday afternoon at Muleshoe. She will meet with the Lamb county home demonstration council Saturday at Olton at 2:30 p. m.

Miss Richter today became executive secretary of the County-City Welfare association.

Exhibitors were present from Plainview, Hart, Turkey, Canyon, Arlington, Dublin, Canadian, San Antonio, Amarillo, and Hale Center.

Sudan Co-Op Given Charter In Texas

The Sudan Grass Seed Growers cooperative association of West Texas and New Mexico has received a Texas charter, D. F. Eaton, Lubbock county farm agent, said.

Arthur P. Duggan, secretary, of Littlefield, and Fred W. Manglesdorf, organization committee chairman, of Plainview, filed articles of incorporation at Austin.

Seven temporary directors of the association, as named in the charter, are: Charles Goeth of Lubbock, Duggan, Dean Pattison of Clovis, N. M., J. Frank Triplett of Plainview, Roy E. Haberer of Muleshoe, [illegible] Griffiths of Muleshoe, and [illegible] L. Albracht of Nazareth.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 1. (AP)—Cotton opened steady today. Liverpool cables were lower than due owing, it was reported, to higher sterling, but the market here started unchanged to one point up. Later, prices eased off 3 points to 5.98 for December and 6.07 for January, new lows for the season, but soon rallied one point on trade buying on the scale down.

While there was some hedge selling, the market developed strong resistance on every point decline.

At the end of the first hour the market was steady and near the opening prices.

The market was fairly active all morning. Prices gradually eased off under moderate pressure from hedge selling and in sympathy with some softness in stocks. The market was supported however by fair trade buying on the scale down and by some investment or speculative buying. Nevertheless, December eased to 5.92 and January to 6.02, down 8 to 9 points from the opening highs, and 7 to 8 points under yesterday's close.

At noon, the market was barely steady and at the lows.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Cotton opened steady today, [illegible] 4 points under a renewal of selling which early carried December contracts to 5.96. March sold at 6.26, making new low records and net declines of about 5 to 6 points. The south was a seller here and there probably was some local selling in anticipation of increased hedging toward the week end or on the continued good weather for the picking and movement of cotton in the south. However, the new low prices brought in trade buying and the market was steady at rallies of 2 or 3 points from the lowest at the end of the first half hour. Liverpool was lower but the decline there was attributed partially to the fluctuation in sterling exchange. Liverpool cable advices reported hedging and continental selling absorbed by trade at the decline and [illegible] home trade in cotton goods was quieter.

Slight rallies from the opening decline were checked by continued southern selling and there was a little local selling later in the morning which was probably encouraged by the action of the stock market. Prices worked off to 5.95 for December and 6.23 for March or about 7 points net lower and the market at midday was quiet and barely steady at net declines of 5 to 7 points.

NEW ORLEANS OPEN

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 1 (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady today: Oct. 5.83-bid; Dec. 6.00; Jan. 6.10; March 6.29; May 6.47; July 6.66.

NEW YORK OPEN

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady today: Oct. 5.82; Dec. 6.00; Jan 6.10; March 6.28; May 6.46; July 6.64.

Floods have caused food shortages in parts of Burma.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—Stocks backed up today after again following an early rise in the rails.

Gains of a point or more in representative industrials and utilities were more than lost when the trend reversed, and selling became lively on the decline. Rails, several of which had sold 2 to 3 higher, reduced their advances.

U. S. Steel sank to a new low after rising 1 3-8. North American, Consolidated gas, Detroit Edison, Allied Chemical and American Telephone lost 2 or more. U. S. Steel preferred dropped 4 and Bethlehem preferred 3.

Call money renewed at 1 1-2 per cent.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—Steadiness characterized grain prices early today. October unofficial domestic crop estimates were not immediately available and Liverpool reported large deliveries of wheat there had gone into strong hands. Opening unchanged to 1-8 cent off, wheat afterward held near the initial figures. Corn started at 1-8 decline to 1-4 advance and later fluctuated but little.

WORLD SERIES

day was at hand for the first game. The sun was shining brightly and the temperature hovered near the eighties.

Hotels Crowded

With hotels crowded, the throngs here for the series were out early today and long lines formed at the park waiting for the gates to open. The turnstiles started clicking at 11 a. m., and the fans began early filling the 40,000 seats and standing room places and getting settled for the start of the game at 1:30 p. m., C.S.T.

Pangborn, Herndon Poised For Flight

SAMUSHIRO, Japan, Oct. 1 (AP)—Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, jr., poised to take off on a non-stop flight to the United States with the arrival of good weather, said today they planned to follow a great circle course somewhat north of steamship lanes.

They expect to parallel the Kurile islands for 700 miles and then skirt the Aleutian chain to Dutch Harbor, Alaska.

The fliers expect to pass the Dutch Harbor region in from 21 to 22 hours after taking off and the Puget Sound district in 38 to 40 hours. They hope to fly as far as Salt Lake City without landing.

Argument Blamed In Farmers Death

LEONARD, Oct. 1 (AP)—An argument over the turn-out of cotton taken to a Leonard gin was blamed for the death of Walter Gibson, 45, farmer, shot to death last night. Two pistol bullets pierced his body.

Nolan Maxwell, about 23, gin hand, was charged with murder. The men were said to have quarreled yesterday.

To Jail Each Night

Each evening at 7 o'clock, Donato Sisto of Los Angeles arrives at the county jail to pass the night. At 6 a. m. he departs for his office to conduct his business. Sisto was involved in a traffic accident and the judge imposed a jail sentence of four months. Through an appeal that his business would be handicapped and that his family depended upon him, his jail term was changed to be served only at night.

HUNT IS MADE FOR LOOT

BORGER TELLER TELLS OF SUNDAY ROBBERY; ADMITS SHORTAGE

BORGER, Oct. 1 (AP)—Hutchinson and Borger city authorities continued searching today for approximately $4,200 which Rowland Rugeley, bank teller, charged in connection with the robbery of the Borger State bank, told officers he gave away.

The bank was robbed of $8,100 Sunday night. Rugeley stated about $3,200 of the missing money was accounted for in shortage of his books.

Statement Discredited

J. T. Peyton, bank cashier, discredited Rugeley's statement, saying all of the teller's accounts recently checked out satisfactorily.

W. L. McConnell, district attorney, came from Canadian to Borger today to work with local officers on the case.

"The money was taken from the bank about 6 o'clock Sunday night and was in my car at the time of the hijacking. I took the money from the safe," Rugeley's statement read.

Lewis Crim, charged with Rugeley and a third man with theft over $50, was taken to the Stinnet county jail from Amarillo yesterday. Crim refused to talk, officers said. They believed the third man would be captured soon.

FROGS, AGGIES EMBARK TONIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

Texas Christian and Texas A. and M. football teams will embark tonight for Tulsa and New Orleans for intersectional games Saturday.

Texas Christian spent yesterday perfecting an offense for Tulsa university. Another workout will be held today. J. W. Townsend, regular T. C. U. center who was injured in the Louisiana game last week, may be able to start against Tulsa.

A hard workout yesterday left Texas A. and M. ready for their battle with Tulane. Tulane won this annual game last year but will meet a stronger and more versatile team this season.

Dissatisfied with his team's running attack last week against Simmons, Coach Littlefield at Texas university ordered secret practice yesterday. Littlefield drilled his men on ground plays to use Saturday against Missouri in Texas' first major game this season.

The Southern Methodist Mustangs got one of their longest and hardest practices yesterday following their weak showing against the North Texas Teachers last Saturday. Coach Morrison made his cohorts rehearse all their running plays, including passes.

Polishing offensive drives and bolstering defensive formations featured practice yesterday at Rice, Baylor and Arkansas.

COFFEE TESTERS

As these men taste, so the coffee is graded. Twelve men are the coffee tasting jury and the youngest among them has been in the business 20 years.

Twenty cups is a day's work. After that the tasters' palates are tired out.

In private life, the tasters drink coffee twice daily—and as long as there is plenty of sugar and cream, they don't much care what kind of coffee it is.

JOHN GIST HAS RECORD OF 27 YEARS AS A REGISTERED HEREFORD BREEDER

Twenty-seven years a registered Hereford breeder is the record of John M. Gist, Odessa, veteran cattleman of West Texas and past president of the Texas Hereford Breeders association, who has an exhibit of his high class cattle at the Panhandle-South Plains fair this year.

"Uncle John," as he is affectionatety known among cattlemen, is one of the oldest breeders in West Texas handling registered lines. He was a breeder of purebred horses before going into the cattle business.

"I worked with Bill Elwood's father here on the Plains, in the 80's," Mr. Gist said. "When I first started in the business I handled stud horses. Then I got into the thoroughbred game. A little over 27 years ago I started with Herefords."

Mr. Gist recalled an experience he had when he was a young man. At a fair he attended a noted phrenologist was present and made readings. He studied the head of young Gist and gave a public reading in which he stated that there were two things that the young man would drop anything he happened to be doing, to look at. "He will quit everything and look at a fine looking horse or a cow," said the phrenologist. The crowd wanted to know what the second thing was, Uncle John said and the "professor" added, "a good looking woman." The crowd laughed.

The veteran has shown Herefords at nearly every show of importance in the past score of years, in Texas, as well as a number of outside shows.

FIRE PREVENTION

able to suffer the deprivation; and,

WHEREAS, fire starts and spreads its swiftly consuming flames where there is the least provision for prevention and protection; and,

WHEREAS, the menace, never abated, is local as well as national, and in Lubbock alone last year the loss and damage amounted approximately to $10 per person:

THEREFORE, I, J. J. Clements, as Mayor of Lubbock, by virtue of the office, hereby appeal to the people of Lubbock to join in the observance of National Fire Prevention Week, October 4th to 10th, inclusive, by having their heating and lighting equipment carefully inspected and repaired, premises cleaned and set in order, and all property provided with such protection as will help prevent fire this fall and winter.

All the 1,000 seats of Ardnamurchan Church at Argyll, Scotland, were occupied during the recent services marking the 100th anniversary of its opening.

FRANK ATCHESON

while her husband engaged in carpentry and cabinet making.

He was regarded as one of the leading craftsmen in his line in Lubbock, having done tedious and painstaking handwork in decoration of Hotel Hilton, the new Senior High school, as well as on other public buildings and private homes. He established his 19th street cabinet shop only several months ago upon completion of his work on the high school building.

Children Are Called

In addition to Mrs. Atcheson, he is survived by six children. They are Barton and James, of San Antonio, employes of an architectural firm in the Alamo City; Miss Wayne Atcheson, employed as an editorial assistant by the Lubbock Avalanche and Journal; Ben, Frank, jr., and Mack, who are in the local schools. The three elder children, Barton, James and Miss Wayne Atcheson, were popular students at Tech college during the first several years the school was in operation. James Atcheson graduated in architectural engineering at Tech last spring.

Out-of-town children have been summoned to Lubbock and Mr. Atcheson's mother, Mrs. Lulu Atcheson, of Graham, former home of the family, has also been called. They are expected to reach Lubbock tonight.

Mr. Atcheson had been a member of the Masonic lodge and Mrs. Atcheson is well known in Eastern Star circles, both here and in the Graham vicinity.

Damage to the cabinet shop was slight in dollars and cents, it having been a small frame structure. Firemen responded to the call and extinguished the internal flames, leaving walls of the building standing.

Gore (left) Democrat, of Oklahoma, and Senator Thomas D. Schall, Republican, of Minnesota, seen here in Washington as they took up their duties as representatives of their home states.

LUBBOCK SCOUTS RETAIN SUPREMACY OF AREA AS EXHIBITS WIN AT FAIR

SIDELIGHTS ON ANNUAL FAIR

EXHIBIT POPULAR

The Texas Utilities booth in the industrial building is one of the biggest single attraction for the younger generation, but judging the crowd around the booth, some of the older folks like it too. The exhibit consists of a complete electric train system, with both passenger and freight trains, depots, sidings, switches, tunnels, etc. The trains are operated by an electric signal system. While the passenger train is at the depot, the freight makes a trip through the tunnel and back. It can switch cars, cut out two and shunt them onto a siding and then couple up and go on with a smaller train. There are always from two or three deep to a completely blocked aisle around the booth.

TINSLEY AT FAIR

J. D. Tinsley, genial agricultural agent of the Santa Fe, who agreed to act as one of the judges in the agricultural department, was forced to cancel his plans and did not reach Lubbock until Wednesday noon. An unexpected trip to Roswell and Clovis Sunday, Monday and Tuesday caused him to change plans at the last minute. The first thing he did on arrival at the fairgrounds was to go to the agricultural building and look over the exhibits. He was very profuse in his praise of all the displays and the arrangements. "You people have much better displays this year than any other year," he stated. "The exhibits are better arranged. This is a wonderful fair and the people of the South Plains are to be congratulated on the showing."

BRING IN KIDDIES

School children of many small towns around Lubbock, were brought to the fair this year by big hearted citizens who wanted the youngsters to have a good time. One of the good samples was Rev. Aubrey Ashley, pastor of two rural churches near Lorenzo. The minister loaded his own children in the family coupe and then opened the back and stowed several neighbor children in it. He then relieved a neighbor who was here and that man returned home to get his own children and some more.

HAS BLACK EYE

A little paint and some rouge goes a long way but it is not able to cover up all of the black eye that pretty Billy Hughes, daring motor cycle rider in the Hippodrome on the midway, sustained in Amarillo last week. She was finishing her ride and the big lion was being put back into his pen when she had a spill and the lion ran over her, severely bruising her. By quick work on the part of show attendants her life was saved from the jaws and claws of the "king of beasts." But this week a beautiful bender appeared on her left optic and she had had hard work to cover it up. The spill did not halt the rider's work, however.

UNOFFICIAL FIGURES

79 truck loads of watermelons brought to Lubbock by farmers and sold to pay expenses at fair.

397 Lubbock boys and girls "lost" daily during the fair and not found until the fair closed.

3,021 "cement" farmers differed with judges on cattle divisions.

5,256 farmers watched the judges make their decisions and kept mental notes on types of cattle, etc.

FAIR CROWDS

ing board there.

The two were "come-on" men for a game in which marbles were used, Assistant County Attorney William H. Evans said.

Arrested this morning by John C. Keller, state highway department inspector, for driving an automobile with only one license plate attached, R. M. Keel faces possibility of a formal charge that he was negotiating for operation of slot machines. The highway inspector said Keel's automobile virtually was filled with slot machines.

Keel and A. H. Warden each was assessed $10 fine and $12.15 costs for operating an automobile bearing only one license plate by Justice of the Peace H. K. Porter. Keel paid the fine and Warden went to jail.

Robbery Reported

One robbery was reported at the fair Thursday. During the night some one entered the booth of the Red and White Grocery company in the industrial building and made away with some merchandise.

Missing articles included two bottles of grapejuice, three large boxes of marshmallows and a box of about 50 gliders.

No clue was obtained. The building is supposed to be under guard at night. There was no indication of how the burglars obtained entry.

Judging Nears End

Judging in the livestock departments at the fair was drawing to a close today, with the work expected to be completed late in the afternoon.

In the cattle department Guernseys and Holsteins were to be inspected, the former in the forenoon and the latter in the afternoon. Charles N. Shepardson was the judge.

Fred Hale, College Station, is to complete judging in the Poland China hog department this afternoon.

George P. Grout, Panhandle, with the Carson county Guernsey herd, won grand, senior and junior bull championships and senior and grand female championships with the animals of the herd. Texas Tech placed first in the junior female championship.

"The entire livestock department and especially the cattle, is the best I have ever seen," Mr. Grout declared. "The South Plains is coming into its own as a dairy and cattle country. The Jersey and Holstein cattle show here are [illegible] that have ever been [illegible] show. There are no[illegible] where."

Lubbock Boy Scouts retained supremacy in the South Plains Area council when troop No. 4, sponsored by the First Presbyterian church here, won the grand championship in scout exhibits at the 18th annual Panhandle South Plains fair with 68 points. Total scores were compiled by 5 points for each first, 3 for each second, and 1 point for each third place.

Lubbock boys winning individual places included: James Baker, first, arrows; Henry Blocker, first, and James Baker, second, leathercraft; John Pierce, second, and Russell Tarrance, third, headwork; M. K. Foster, first, and James Logan, third, woodcarving; M. K. Foster, third, whittling; Clarence Mast, first, pioneering, and Russell Tarrance, first, woodwork.

Troop No. 22 of Lamesa was second in total points with 20 and No. 7 of Lubbock third with 14. Lubbock's seven troops and two from Lamesa, No. 22 and No. 23, competed.

Judges Listed

Judges were K. N. Clapp, commissioner of the South Plains Area council; Marvin J. Paul, executive of the Amarillo council, and L. F. Davis, scoutmaster of Amarillo troop No. 10.

Alsup Incriminated By Barber's Story

WICHITA FALLS, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Gus Boyt, former Fort Worth barber, testified in court here today that he drove two negro bank bandits to the First State bank of Polytechnic in Fort Worth, April 10, 1930, a few minutes before the negroes met their death in the attempted bank robbery.

Boyt said that John Alsup, former Fort Worth police officer on trial for the murder of one of the two negroes, had made arrangements for him to take the negroes to the bank. Boyt testified that Alsup had told him he expected to kill the negroes and collect a reward.

TIGERS, HUSKERS MAKE INVASIONS

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 1 (AP)—The Missouri Tigers and the Nebraska Huskers faced long train journeys today as they prepared to depart for the scenes of Saturday's intersectional tilts.

The Lengal squad, bound for Austin and the University of Texas game, numbered only 27 men the smallest crew Gwinn Henry has taken on a grid invastion since he became coach at Missouri. While his lineup was not announced, Coach Henry indicated only five veterans were sure of berths at the kick-off. They were Captain Bittner, and Johanningmeier, backs; Kerby, tackle; Hartman, guard and Gladden, end.

A slightly larger squad was picked at Nebraska to make the trip to Evanston, where the Huskers will attempt to increase the Big Six prestige against a Big Ten representative—Northwestern.

LIPTON ILL

LONDON, Oct. 1. (AP)—Sir Thomas Lipton, British sportsman, was reported today to be suffering from the effects of a severe chill and his condition was causing grave anxiety.

LAST OF ORIGINAL FLYING WARDS AND WIDOW OF MAN WHO STARTED FAMOUS ACT PERFORMING FOR CROWDS AF FAIR

The last of the original Flying Wards and the widow of the man who started this act is in Lubbock this week performing for crowds at the Panhandle-South Plains fair grounds.

This is Mrs. Mamie Ward one of the six trapeze artists who swings above the fair grounds in afternoon and night performances. The Flying Wards have been in Lubbock before and remember their appearance here at a fair several seasons ago—that is all but one. Young Edward Ward is making his first appearance here since he went on the road following the death of his father about three years ago.

Likes Aviation

Edward who is soon to be 18 isn't particularly interested in his career as a flyer according to his mother. While his stunts are thrilling little boys in the crowd and giving them visions of taking up the life of a trapeze artist his thoughts may be turned to still higher flying as aviation is one of his chief delights. But since his father's death he has been on the road and Mrs. Ward is trying to train him to take the place of her late husband in the act. Before that time, he was in school.

During the summer they have been at their home in Bloomington, Ill. and this was the first time in 25 years that Mrs. Ward has been away from the show for any length of time. Her circus career started at the age of 10 when her widowed mother died and she was sent to some distant relatives to live. These people were in the show business and put their small charge in with them. Until her marriage in 1914, she worked in a troup doing trapeze work, tight-rope walking—almost anything for one must be versatile in the business, Mrs. Ward explained.

Formed New Act

Soon after her marriage, she and her husband, with his sister and [illegible] husband formed the Flying [illegible] act, taking on two other [illegible] that there might be [illegible] troup. Since then the act [illegible] although the sister [illegible] Hagenbeck Circus [illegible] her husband quit [illegible] that. [illegible] act now and [illegible] by the late [illegible] with his [illegible] of Eileen [illegible] husband [illegible] no kin [illegible] Craig [illegible] for in Bloomington to perform here. Now their muscles are a little sore as they did not practice so much during the summer. It was hot, Mrs. Ward explained, and young Edward was having a busy summer with one of his friends who owns an airplane.

"He probably learned a lot about flying this summer," Mrs. Ward believes. "He and his friend were up in the plane, flying over the house often, and I was sure he was at the controls some of the time."

Not To Interfere

If the son goes in for flying seriously, he isn't likely to be deterred by his mother in the future, but right now his place is in the troup. "He isn't particularly interested, but he knows he must stay," his mothr explains.

Playing in Lubbock is fun, the Wards would have us believe. The crowds have been appreciative this week, the work is not particularly hard. There has been some wind, but it has come from the side instead of from the end. The swings are blown crooked, but that isn't much bother to hear Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Larey talk. However, if the wind should change to blow against the ends of the set, it would play havoc with the timing of the swings.

One doesn't count in time the swings in one of these flying acts, Mrs. Ward explains. Through practice, the actor learns when to start, when to turn loose of the rod, when to grasp the hands of another. Sometimes there are spills but that is to be expected and not dreaded.

One bright spot of Mrs. Ward's summer was a visit from Alfreda Condona, husband of the late Lillian Leitzel, who did his famous triple somersault act here in 1930 with the Ringling Brothers circus. He and a group of other circus people were in Bloomington and since they were all friends of the Wards, they went out to their home for a visit.

Held Own Show

Condona was interested in the practice shed that the Wards use and wanted to have a workout there. So at midnight, the show people all went out for an impromptu show of their own.

"Mr. Condona wanted me to catch him in his act saying that he had never been caught by a woman," Mrs. Ward explained, "and this was an exceptional honor for me, for he is the best in the world."

Circus people know each other and frequently visit. En route here from Illinois, the Wards stopped in Tulsa to visit with some friends who were performing at a fair. In East Texas, they stopped for a visit with the Sells-Floto circus people. From here they will go to Muskogee, Okla., to play next week. During the winter they will be with an indoor circus, playing they do not know where at this time. Next year they hope to be back under the tents, again a part of the sawdust ring.

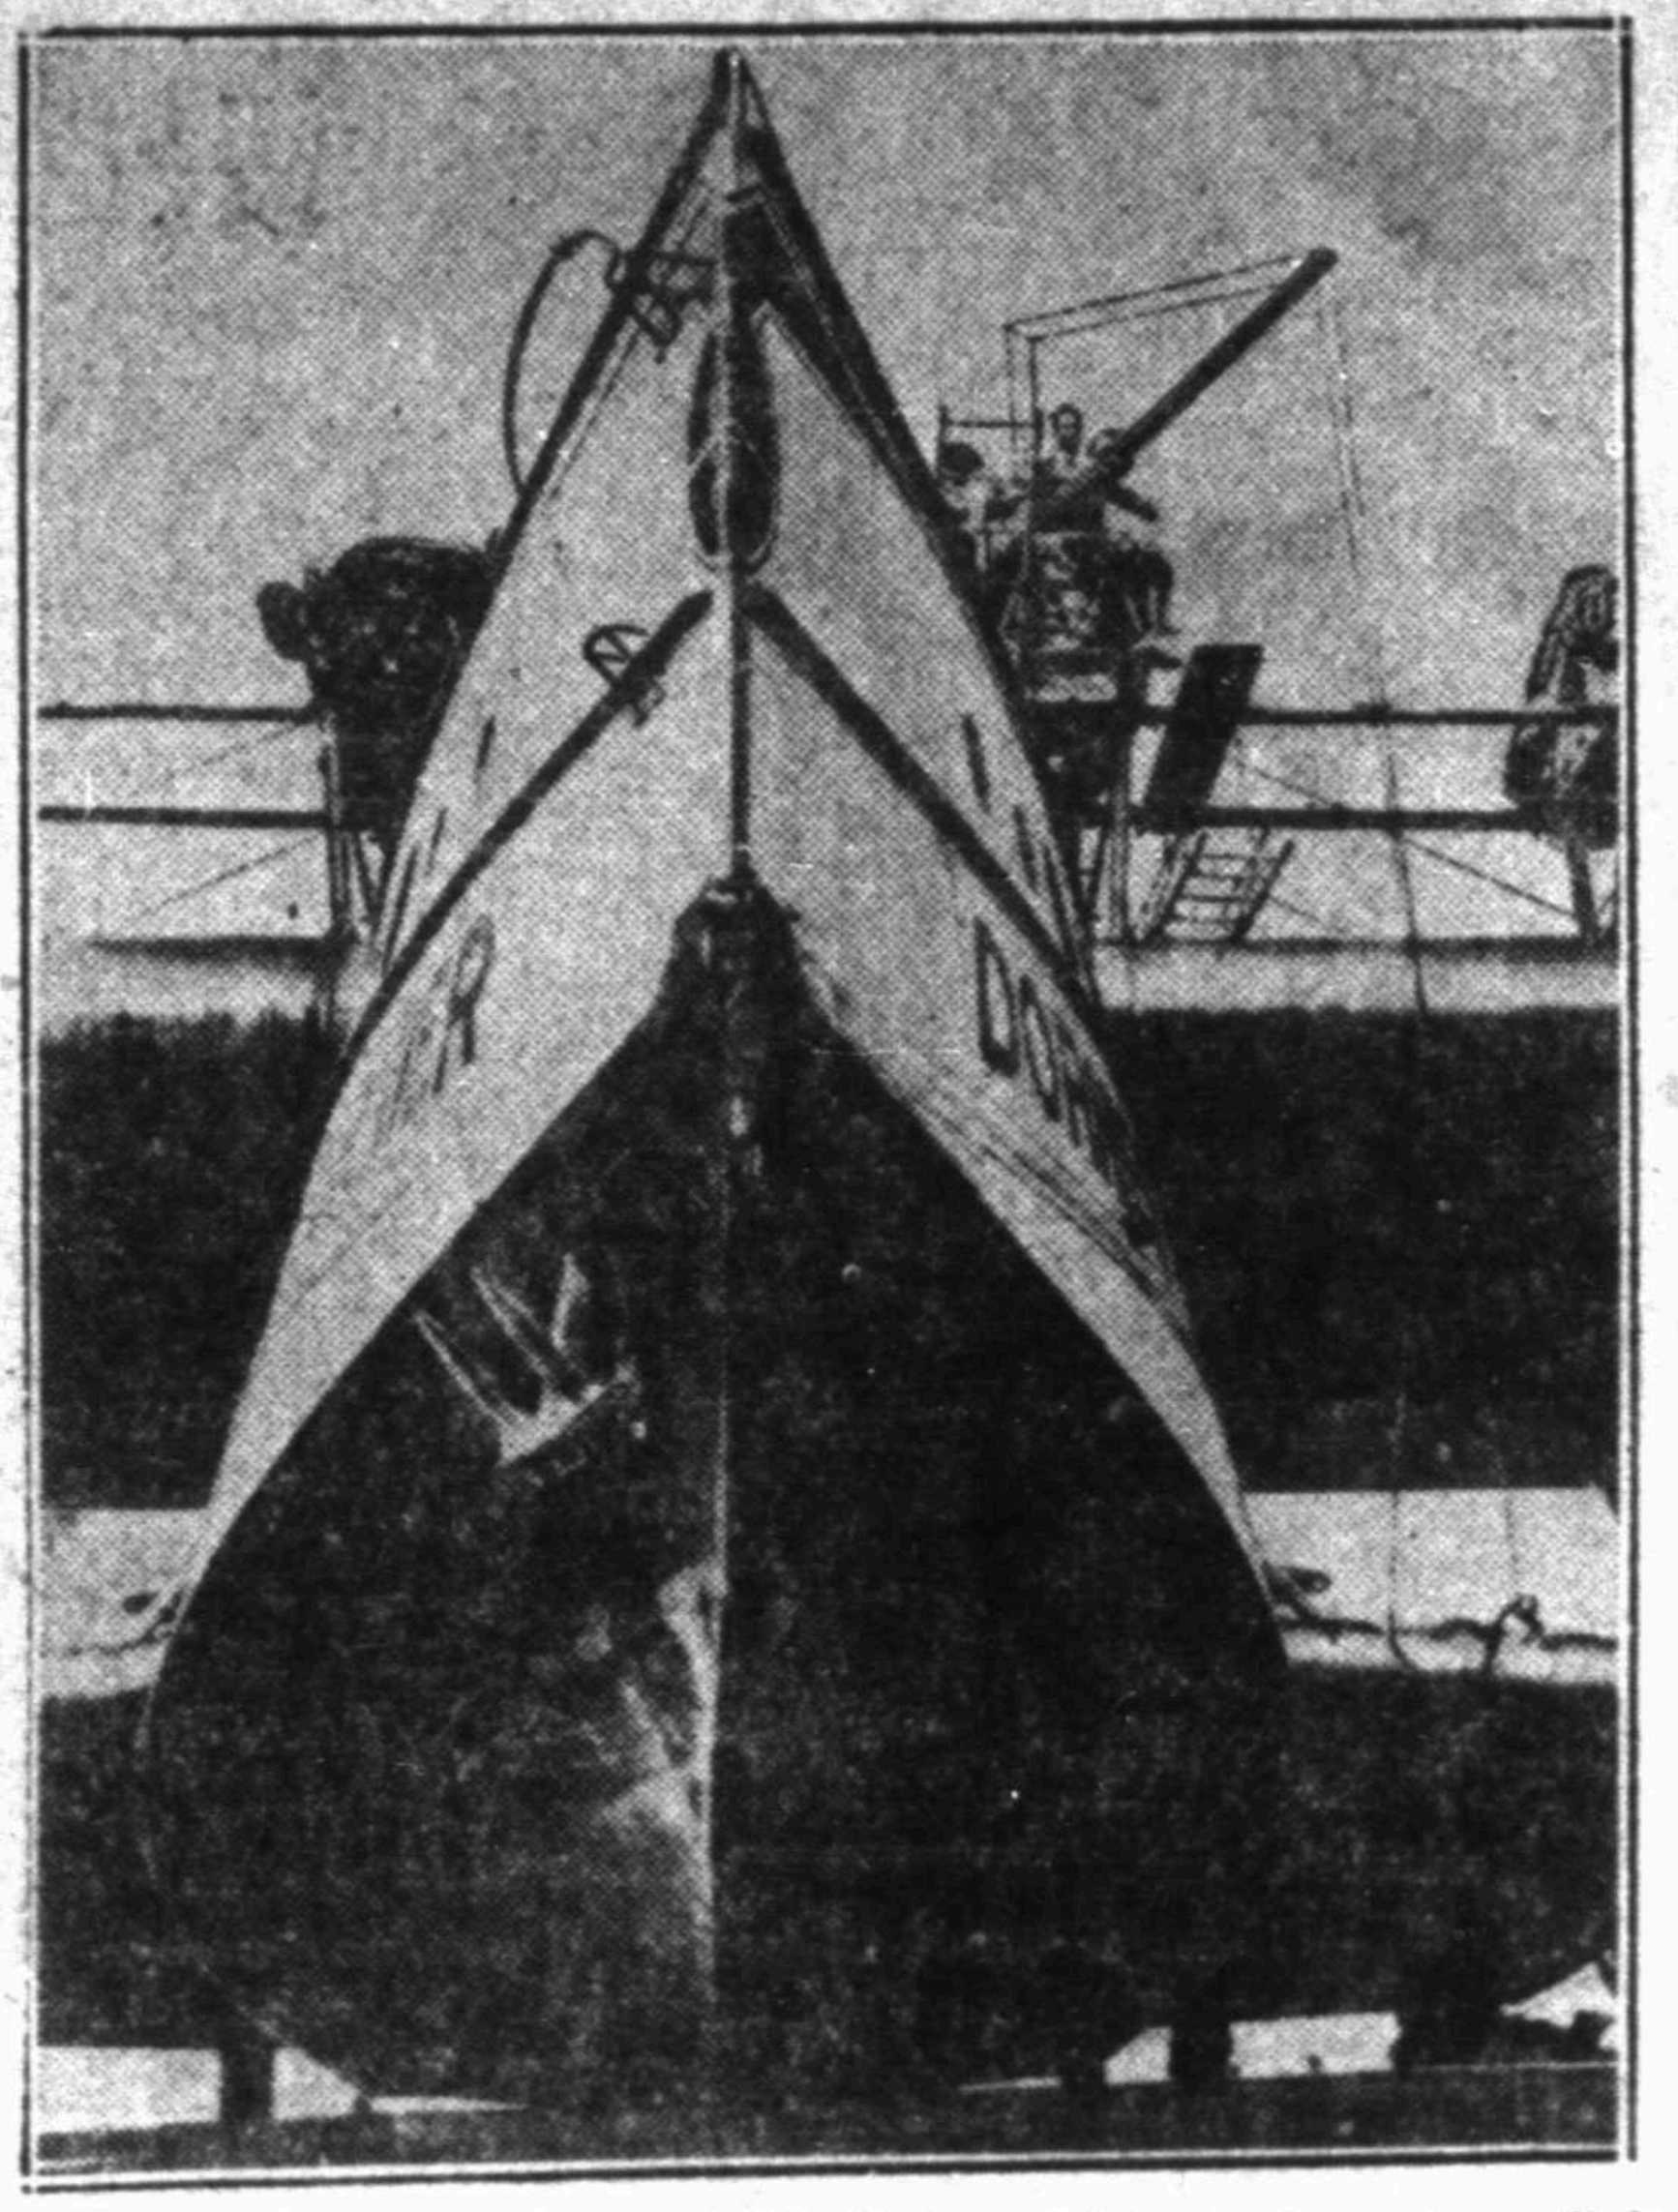
DO-X All Dry and Snooty



This unusual view of the giant DO-X, largest heavier-than-air craft in the world, makes the German flying boat appear to be sticking its nose up in the air with all the snootiness which its class permits. High and very dry, the DO-X is undergoing repairs at North Beach Airport, New York, before its return flight to Germany. The DO-X is drier than many craft out of water, since the bar of the Dornier plane has been closed during its stay within the American 12-mile limit.

HASKELL FARMER IS OUTSTANDING

Paul Zahn of near Haskell, represented by a large display of vegetables at the Panhandle-South Plains fair, is one of Haskell county's outstanding farmers.

Mr. Zahn has been farming near Haskell for 24 years. He goes to the larger fairs, as well as to his own fair, with exhibits. At the Amarillo fair last week he won 13 first places; eleven second places and nine third places.

"I have 600 acres of land and my boys do the farm work," Mr. Zahn said. "I have eight boys and two girls. We all do the work and make our living at home.

"What I have raised has been by dry farming methods. I do not irrigate any, except the flower garden. We have 16 acres in vegetables and we have more than enough canned to take care of our family."

Mr. Zahn is raising more grain sorghums and less cotton of the naif and half variety. He finds the long staple cotton much better, he says.

"My vegetables do not look so good now as they did, for I have had them at the Amarillo fair," the exhibitor said. "I like to do this work. I get a kick out of it."
