EMBARGOES ON CRUDE AND REFINED OILS ASKED

Murray Says His Enemies Plan Assassination

EDITORS TOLD OF EFFORTS TO 'GET' GOVERNOR

'Alfalfa Bill' Refuses To Name Foes in Talk To Newspapermen

ANARCHY PREVENTED

Murray Describes Recent Peril of Revolt By Oil Workers

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 16. (UP)—Gov. W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, newly-inaugurated Oklahoma state executive, will be assassinated by an "enemy group if attempts to impeach him fail," he told 200 state newspaper editors here late today.

"The enemy group first will try to gain their ends with me in the governor's chair and then will try impeachment when they find I can't be bought," Murray said.

"If they can't impeach me, and I have no fear of that, I happen to know they will try to assassinate me."

Refuses Names

Murray, speaking to the midwinter meeting of the Oklahoma Press association, refused to name the "enemy group." He said, however, he had organized a spy system which was reporting to him details of the plans being made against his holding office and his life.

Murray was inaugurated governor last Tuesday. He is an Oklahoma pioneer, having aided in framing of the state's constitution 24 years ago. He was elected governor by one of the largest majorities ever given a Democratic candidate last fall on his platform of tax reduction and a fight against capitalism.

"I have lived strong and healthy for 61 years trying my best to honestly help people and I know that when my time comes I will go," he said.

"I have no fear of bullets.

Has "Saved State"

"I feel I have saved this state from anarchy. I nipped insurrection in the bud and thus prevented calling out national guardsmen against our own citizens."

He revealed that a spokesman for 25,000 oil field workers, employed by a large company in the Mid-Continent field that planned to lay them off, came to him shortly before Christmas.

This man told me those workers planned to get together an army of 100,000 and use dynamite and fire. He wanted to know whether I would call out the national guardsmen.

"I wrote a warning to the oil company and the men were not laid off," Murray said. "Otherwise we'd have had a near civil war right here."

TWO WOMEN DIE IN HOME FIRES

Nocona Man's Aged Mother Perishes in Blaze

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Jan. 16.—Mrs. Sam Powers, 85-year-old mother of J. C. Powers, well known Montague county farmer, was burned to death in her home near Savoy in Fannin county Thursday night, according to word received here today by her son.

The aged woman lived alone and perished when her home went up in flames. Mr. Powers left here early Friday morning for Savoy. The origin of the fire was not determined and an investigation is under way.

BURNS FATAL TO CORSICANA WOMAN

CORSICANA, Texas, Jan. 16. (INS)—Miss Kate O'Neal, a stenographer, was burned to death today when the W. M. Wilson home, where she was a roomer, was destroyed by fire.

Leaking gas was believed to have caused the blaze. When Miss O'Neal arose this morning and lit the gas stove in her room, there was an explosion and shortly the entire house was in flames. The girl was believed to have been knocked unconscious by the explosion and rendered unable to escape.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. O'Neal, of Emhouse, Texas.

Corsicana Insurance Man Shoots Self to Death

CORSICANA, Texas, Jan. 16. (INS)—After telling his wife how he wanted to be buried "if anything happened to him," J. B. Haines, 57-year-old insurance agent, took his life in the bathroom of his home here today.

After instructing Mrs. Haines, he walked into the bathroom nearby, placed a revolver to the back of his head and fired. He died instantly.

The Haines had been married for three years, and had one child. Mrs. Haines said her husband had had no financial troubles, was in good health, and she could not assign a cause for his act.

New Earthquake Brings Terror to Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 16. (UP)—An earthquake, the second in three days, again frightened the people of Mexico City this morning.

Three slight tremors were perceptible. They caused no damage or additional casualties, but spread terror among the populace, still uneasy after the strong quake which rocked the capital and most of Central Mexico on Wednesday evening.

Police Halt 'Hunger March' With Tear Bombs

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 16. (AP)—A "hunger march" of several hundred persons on city hall, as a demonstration against unemployment, resulted late today in arrest of seven men and two women and dispersal of the crowd by police with use of tear gas bombs.

DAISY TELLS LIQUOR AND POKER SECRETS

Secretary Claims She Paid Clara's Whisky Accounts

GIFTS DESCRIBED

Actress Refused to Look At Expenditures, Says Witness

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16. (US)—Clara Bow's poker debt and liquor bills were spattered liberally over the court record late today at the trial of Daisy DeVoe, the film red head's former secretary and "Pal."

The spattering was done with a free hand by Miss DeVoe herself shortly after she took the witness stand in her own defense on charges of misappropriating some $16,000 of the "It" girl's funds.

She began by a rather dull recitation of her history previous to January, 1929, when she assumed the position of secretary and companion to Clara. But thereafter her story became much more intriguing as she responded to the questions of her attorney, Nathan Freedman.

She explained that she had been authorized by Clara to pay virtually every bill of any kind contracted by the star. Among those bills she listed those for liquor, for salaries, groceries, the automobile and finally the losses of her employer at the poker table.

Bought Whisky

"Did you ever buy any liquor for Clara?" asked Freedman.

"Yes, quite often," was the prompt response of the witness.

"How much was the greatest sum you spent at one time to pay a liquor bill?"

"Oh, about $275," was the quick rejoiner of Miss DeVoe.

"Did you do that on more than one occasion?" the attorney asked.

"Yes," said the quiet and entirely calm Miss DeVoe, "on many more than one occasion."

Poker Debts

Then, unexpectedly, Freedman shifted to the poker stage of the questioning.

"Did you ever pay any poker debts?" he asked.

"Yes," Miss DeVoe replied, "many times."

"Where?"

"At Miss Bow's home."

"Can you state in a year how many times you paid such debts?"

"Well, that, I believe, would be impossible. Clara played poker almost every night. Miss Bow liked to play poker and we stayed at home to play it at least six times a week. Often breaking other engagements so that Miss Bow could play poker."

Amount Vague

As to Clara's winnings or losses at the gaming table DeVoe was not certain.

"The poker debts that I paid ranged all the way from $4 or $5 to $300," she said.

"She never paid. I always paid these poker debts at her request.

"Miss Bow never had any money. She always looked to me to pay all her bills. I paid the taxes, the theater tickets, I bought articles at the drug store for her, and I paid any debt out of the city."

"Where out of the city do you mean?" inquired the attorney.

"Well, I paid at New York, I

Red Cross Heads Claim Congress Relief Plan 'Embarrasses' Campaign

By H. O. THOMPSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (UP)—The drive for a $25,000,000 federal appropriation for drouth and unemployment sufferers gathered strength in the senate today and its enactment was seen as the price the administration probably will have to pay to avoid a special session of congress.

While Red Cross officials complained to President Hoover that senate relief discussion was hindering their campaign for a $10,000,000 fund, the reply was made in the senate that the Red Cross, on its side, was attempting to "embarrass" legislative relief measures.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic floor leader, answered the Red Cross complaint after the senate had overwhelmingly supported the administration's program for modernizing three battleships.

"In an effort to embarrass its passage," Robinson said of his proposal to add a $25,000,000 appropriation to the interior department bill, "the statement is sent forth that it will hamper the Red Cross in its effort to collect relief funds.

Danger and Despair

"Millions of persons have been brought to a condition of danger and despair. While we differ regarding the agencies and methods of relief, men, women and little children are suffering privations."

The officials who visited the White House were Chairman John Barton Payne, Secretary of Commerce Lamont, Under-Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills and Assistant Treasury Secretary Walter Hope. They reported that Red Cross workers soliciting relief funds were being met by the question:

"What is the use of giving you money when congress is going to make a direct relief appropriation from the federal treasury?"

It was announced contributions received by the Red Cross up to last night totalled $391,000.

The total Red Cross expenditure on drouth relief to noon yesterday was $1,392,640.

Cleveland Quoted

Republican Floor Leader Tilson of the house of representatives, issued a copy of a veto message by Democratic President Grover Cleveland as an argument against the appropriation proposed by Robinson.

The present drive is "a far departure from the principle laid down and so strongly enunciated by one of the greatest leaders of their party," Tilson commented.

The Cleveland veto found "no warrant" for an appropriation to make a special distribution of seeds to drouth areas in Texas and added the federal government should not use its power to relieve "individual suffering which is in no manner properly related to the public service or benefit."

Republican leaders, without any word from the president on the Robinson proposal, were prepared to have the senate pass the $25,000,000 item. Some foresaw that enactment of it would be the price of avoiding a special session of congress. Several senators aside from the Democrats backing Robinson have received word from their districts that cities generally are too burdened with their own relief problems to aid the Red Cross.

"I think you will find these conditions exist generally over the country," said Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, after Senator Wesley Jones, Republican, Washington, had introduced messages to this effect from Tacoma and Spokane.

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 16.—The local fire department did not receive one fire alarm during the first 15 days of 1931, according to T. E. (Red) Lewis of the fire department. During the first 11 days of 1930 eleven calls were made.

TRUCK STRIKES WOMAN HERE

Mrs. Eva Lynn in Critical Condition

Mrs. Eva Lynn, 411 Scott avenue, was in a critical condition at the Wichita General hospital Friday night as a result of a severe head injury sustained when she was struck by a Orient Petroleum company truck driven by A. A. Rollins at the Seventh and Burnett streets intersection.

The accident occurred, according to witnesses, when Mrs. Lynn, who was crossing Burnett street from the west, stepped behind a passing car into the path of the truck as she carried an open umbrella before her.

Rollins called an Albert's Funeral home ambulance, in which the injured woman was carried to the hospital. Attendants said that Mrs. Lynn's condition was very grave and that possibly internal injuries also had been sustained, although whether there were injuries other than to the head can not be determined until an X-ray picture is made.

The accident occurred shortly after 6 o'clock.

MAN'S INJURIES FAIL TO PROVE SERIOUS

Injuries sustained by Sid Braley, 58, when he was struck down by an automobile at the Brook and Ninth street intersection Thursday night, consisted of a fractured ankle, cuts and bruises, according to the report Friday of attendants at the Wichita General hospital. Following the accident it was feared for a time that the man had also suffered a fractured skull. Braley resides at 2014 Kemp boulevard.

Useless Arm Drives Gun Victim to Suicide

TEXARKANA, Texas, Jan. 16. (UP)—Despondent because he was unable to use his arm, R. P. Wright, 50, shot himself to death as he stood talking to his daughter at his home near here today.

He had been crippled since he was shot by Johnnie Orr, several years ago. Orr now is serving a term in the Arkansas penitentiary for larceny.

Members of the family said Wright had threatened to destroy himself several times lately. He was talking to his daughter late today and reached for a gun and fired as the woman ran screaming from the house.

Coroner G. M. Orr returned a verdict of suicide.

Power Commission Puts King Back on Job

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—The power commission today reinstated William V. King as chief accountant but refused to reemploy Charles A. Russell, who was dismissed last month as solicitor.

Dismissal of the two men last month precipitated an attack in the senate on the power commission and led to a resolution asking President Hoover to resubmit the nominations of three of the commissioners. The president declined.

Senators charged the action of Chairman Smith and Commissioners Draper and Garsaud indicated they were dominated by "power interests."

FISH TELLS OF SOVIET PERIL TO INDUSTRY

Senator Nye Preparing To Call for Probe Of Petroleum

WILBUR ASSAILED

Capt. J. F. Lucey Belittles Secretary's Knowledge Of Situation

By FULTON LEWIS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (US)—The demand of 200 militant independent oil men for immediate tariff protection against foreign competition was further pressed today when Representative Hamilton Fish of New York told the group that Soviet Russia is preparing to wreck world oil markets, that of the United States included.

Meanwhile, Senator Gerald P. Nye, Republican of North Dakota, disclosed that he is preparing to introduce a senate resolution calling for a general investigation of the oil industry. It is understood to be sponsored by small operators and directed at large national concerns.

Fish's declaration came at a dramatic climax today while Secretary of Interior Wilbur, in a prepared address, was attempting to pacify the gathering concerning his much attacked conservation policy. He avoided any reference for or against the demanded tariff, but reiterated his claim that national oil resources should be preserved.

Soviet Dumping

Fish told the gathering that Soviet Russia is now throwing into world markets increasing exports of crude oil at cut-throat prices. In a short time the American export demand will be completely wiped out, he said, adding:

"The Soviet can deliver oil products at this country at less than it costs the American producer for refining alone. Last year they exported 80,000,000 metric tons, this year it is 125,000,000 and next year it will be 200,000,000. They can undersell American oil anywhere, at any time.

"Russia is unquestionably a menace. Antagonists to oil tariff say the foreign markets will be lost if a tariff is put on oil. The truth is the foreign market is lost, anyway, to Russia."

Industry in Danger

Fish stated that unless a tariff is put on foreign oil, this country's oil industry will shortly be destroyed by the Russian dumping.

Wilbur, who was bitterly attacked in the conference yesterday because of the recent quotation attributed to him opposing an oil tariff, this afternoon told the gathering that "brains, not emotions" must be used in solving the present situation.

He made no mention of foreign competition, confining himself to urging a compact between oil producing states looking to conservation of the national supply. At the conclusion of his address Capt. J. T. Lucey, of Texas, said:

Lucey Replies

"The oil industry was practicing these very policies of conservation before Secretary Wilbur knew there was an oil industry. The problems that confront us now are the terrific unemployment problem throughout the oil regions; how we are going to keep going in the face of foreign competition; what we can do to keep our heads above water.

"I have long been a campaigner for the Republican party. That party has given protection to other industries, and stands for protection. There is no reason why protection should be denied us."

Lucey is regional director of the president's emergency employment committee for the southern central section of the country.

Suspect Resembling Jack Quinn Is Held

FORT SMITH, Ark., Jan. 16. (AP)—A description of Earl Quinn, ex-convict sent from the Missouri state prison at Jefferson City, tallies closely with that of a man held here under the name of Al Stearn, police officials said today.

Quinn is sought in connection with the slaying last month of Jessie and Zexia Griffith, Blackwell school teachers, near Tonkawa.

Until proofs of Quinn's finger prints are received and compared with those of Stearn, no announcement as to identification will be made by Fort Smith authorities, they said.

24 Indictments Name Six Robbery Suspects

CONROE, Texas, Jan. 16. (UP)—Twenty-four indictments were returned against six persons here late today in the robbery of the First State bank of Montgomery Sunday night.

Each of the six, who were arrested in Houston within two hours after the discovery of the robbery, is charged with burglary, felony theft, arson and receiving and concealing stolen property.

Trial was set for Tuesday.

The six are M. F. Ammons and wife; William Quinn, J. E. Elg, J. W. Gaddis and J. H. McDonough.

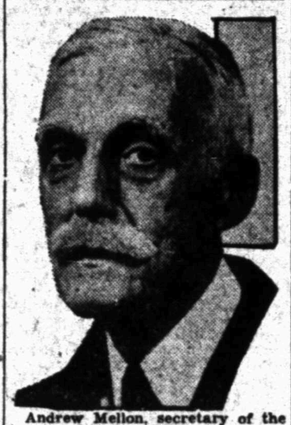

Officers Investigate Shooting of Young Man

NACOGDOCHES, Texas, Jan. 16. (AP)—Rambey Humphreys, 20, was shot twice with a double-barreled shotgun near the Woden community in this county today. His condition was serious. Officers made an arrest in connection with the case, but no charges had been filed.

Two Bandits Raid Bank at Dover, Okla.

DOVER, Okla., Jan. 16. (UP)—Two banits robbed the Dover State bank here late today and escaped with $1,400. Cashier A. L. Fash was locked in the vault. He was the only employe present. The bandits abandoned their car three miles north of here.

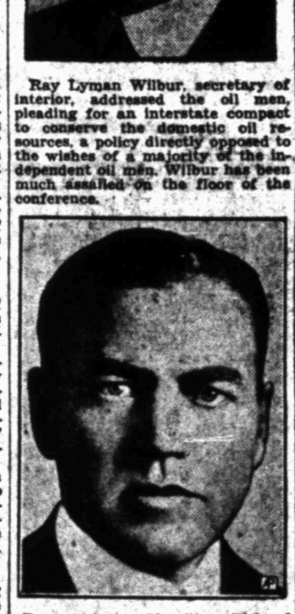

Figures in Oil Men's Discussions

Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, was assailed by several independent oil men at the Washington governors' conference yesterday. Tom Cranfill of Dallas was especially caustic in his reference to Mellon, claiming the cabinet member, as head of the Gulf Oil company, a leading importer, was blocking a tariff.

Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of interior, addressed the oil men, pleading for an interstate compact to conserve the domestic oil resources, a policy directly opposed to the wishes of a majority of the independent oil men. Wilbur has been much assailed on the floor of the conference.

Representative Hamilton Fish of New York told the oil conference that Soviet Russia already has captured the foreign oil business and is dumping petroleum in this country at prices lower than the cost of production in American fields. He strongly advocated a tariff.

Senator Gerald P. Nye of Nevada revealed during Friday's session of the oil conference that he plans to introduce a resolution calling for a thorough investigation of the oil industry by a senate committee.

Judges Would Make Gas Tax Pay Road Bills

AUSTIN, Jan. 16. (AP)—The county judges of Texas would lift the burden of road building off the farms and homes of the state and place it on gasoline users, Judge N. H. Hunt of Zavalla county, president of the Texas County Judges association, said here today.

Judge Hunt said he awaited the arrival of Judge J. G. Strong of Panola county before announcing any definite steps toward obtaining legislation of that kind.

Executive offices of the organization has announced that it favored a five cent gasoline tax, two cents of which would be used for building lateral roads in the counties.

PARTIAL BAN FOR RAW OIL UP TO CONGRESS

Independents Adopt Tariff As Secondary Item In Campaign

PETITION IS FRAMED

Permanent Committee For Work in Washington Appointed

By DON J. KIRKLEY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—Congress will be asked by independent oil producers of America to place a partial embargo on crude petroleum and ban refined products.

As a secondary campaign, to be pursued following the drive for the exclusion and limitation of foreign oil, the governors' oil relief conference urged a tariff.

A petition, adopted shortly before the conference adjourned late today, will be presented to congress by the executive committee within a short time.

Another resolution adopted urged the congressional delegations of 20 states to make every effort to obtain "relief from foreign competition" at this session.

House Organization Asked

It also asked for "an organization" of the next house "and in particular a speaker and a ways and means committee which will give the American oil industry an immediate and fair hearing on tariff protection or some other regulation and restriction on the importation of foreign crude oil and its refined products."

Copies of the latter resolution were directed to be sent the congressional delegations of Indiana, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Illinois, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Montana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas, West Virginia, Wyoming, New York, Michigan, Tennessee and Mississippi.

The petition for a tariff or embargo will be presented to congress by the executive committee within a short time.

20 Per Cent Cut Asked

The petition asks that imports of crude petroleum be limited to 20 per cent of the 1928 imports, and that all refined products from foreign countries be excluded.

By this method, the oil men said, the independent oil world would find relief from what the delegations from the 13 states represented pictured as attempts of the big companies to drive out of existence the smaller operators.

They argued immediate relief would be provided, dire distress in the oil states overcome and a pressing unemployment problem be done away with.

"Big Four" Blamed

Imports of four large companies were blamed by the independents for their own plight. They named the Standard of Indiana, Standard of New Jersey, the Gulf Oil company and the Royal Dutch Shell as the importers.

Speakers said these companies were forcing out the smaller operators and had told the independent producers there was no place in the oil world for them. They declared these companies and other larger corporations controlled the oil from the time it left the ground until it went to the consumer.

Committee Named

An executive committee, appointed by Wirt Franklin, president of the Independent Petroleum association and chairman of the conference, will carry on its work. Representatives from the state delegations were named to remain in Washington to work with the executive committee.

The committee will lay the petition before congress and is expected to call upon President Hoover to state the position of the independent operators.

A proposal that oil producing states agree on a compact limiting production to demand was put before the conference by Secretary Wilbur, chairman of the oil conservation board, following an address in which he appealed for conservation. The producers throughout their meeting have attacked the conservation program.

Urges Compact

Wilbur said he saw no lasting remedy for the distress in the oil industry except a compact, "approved by congress, so that there will be fair play, reasonable and sensible planning, unit operation wherever possible, and proper protection of established fields in contact with flush fields."

The conference saw vigorous attacks on Secretaries Mellon and

Gentle Rains Over Section Bring Benefit to Small Grain Fields

Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma drank in a gentle, drizzling rain, akin to that which fell in Wichita Falls, all day Friday and clouded skies indicated that the night would add to the precipitation. The general rain was nowhere heavy, only .22 of an inch being recorded here.

With the rain came rising temperatures. No freezes were reported through the territory and the mercury in Wichita Falls climbed to a maximum of 42 degrees during the day. The Denver road reported light rainfall all the way from Childress to Fort Worth, and on the Katy the mists were general through Altus, Elk City and Forgan, Okla., and in Texas as far east as Whitesboro, the road terminal.

G. C. McGown, Wichita county farm agent, said the mild rain would be of benefit to small grains, although the ground is already well-seasoned and no immediate need of rain had been felt in this section.

Murray's Man Wins Confidence Vote Over 'Silk Stocking' Charge

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 16. (UP)—A rift that broke in the Oklahoma house of representatives late today ended in an overwhelming vote of confidence in Speaker Carlton Weaver, staunch supporter of Gov. W. H. Murray.

The confidence vote was 82 to 1 with nine absent and two excused.

The dissenting vote was cast by Representative Otto Strickland, Pontotoc county, who charged Weaver had double-crossed him in appointing Allen Street, Oklahoma county, chairman of the appropriations committee.

In a scalping attack on Weaver, Strickland assailed Street as the leader of the "Oklahoma City silk stocking cliques."

"I attended the caucus in the dead of night on Blue river near Tishomingo where his companions plotted Murray's downfall to elect his opponent, Frank Buttram, wealthy Oklahoma City oilman," Strickland said. He claimed he was an original Murray man and that Street would betray the administration to get the pie for the state institutions and Oklahoma City."

Murray refused to take part in the controversy.

The senate adopted a resolution ordering the attorney general to investigate "the high retail price of gasoline." The resolution was introduced by Senator Otjen, Enid, shortly before the senate adjourned until Monday.

OIL EMBARGO TO BE SOUGHT

Tariff Made Secondary In Relief Battle

Wilbur. Several state chairmen assailed Mellon as the leading director of the Gulf Oil company.

They said the Gulf company and other importing companies largely were responsible for the crisis in the independent oil industry.

Senator-elect Gore of Oklahoma and Representative-elect McGugin, of Kansas, said a tariff had been placed on aluminum but none had been enacted for oil.

Gore advised the state delegations to urge their members of congress to threaten an extra session unless a tariff be passed.

Others Invited

The conference adjourned this afternoon after voting to invite the states of Michigan, Illinois, Tennessee, Mississippi, New York and Indiana to take part in the campaign for the embargo and a tariff.

Wirt Franklin, president of the Independent Petroleum association and chairman of the governor's oil relief conference, was to return to Oklahoma City tonight.

A special committee headed by Franklin which was supposed to call on President Hoover, failed to do so this afternoon, Franklin said, but he added that his departure from the city would not interfere with the committee's plans. He said the group would visit the White House.

Partial Remedy

Franklin, in proposing his plan to the conference that imports be curtailed, declared "that is not a complete remedy, but it will hold until permanent relief through a tariff is provided."

Thomas E. Cranfill, of Dallas, Texas, said independent producers of Texas would ask the Texas legislature to attempt to provide relief by tightening up anti-trust laws. He declined to elaborate on this plan, which he said was under discussion by the Texas independent producers now.

W. S. Halliman of Charleston, W Va., a member of the executive committee named by Franklin, said West Virginia would join in the campaign for a tariff. He said the West Virginia coal industry was supporting the oil tariff fight.

The executive committee was enlarged late today to include J. I. Cromwell of Muskogee, Okla.; J. Edward Jones of New York; W. B. Harrison of Wichita, Kan.

Since the conference opened, there had been a demand from all of the state delegations that congress be asked to enact immediately a tariff, but at the closing session today, this was changed.

Embargo as Alternative

The petition calling on congress to authorize a partial embargo on crude oil and complete exclusion of finished petroleum products, also asks a tariff, but proposes the embargo plan as an alternative for immediate action.

With imports curtailed, the producers said, it would be possible to get immediate relief. They intend however, to continue their campaign for the tariff, although it will be secondary to the fight to limit imports of crude and ban refined oil.

The petition points out the dire distress in the oil industry, and says that 200,000 wells now are producing oil for sale at prices below the cost of production, but that gasoline had not declined in like ratio.

Wells Abandoned

The petition continued that thousands of small wells have been abandoned and that unless the price of crude oil can be bolstered, many more of the 300,000 small wells will be abandoned.

This, the petition said, would result in their destruction through encroachment of salt water.

The effect closing of the wells would have on employment was set forth as a reason for congress to provide relief. Thousands would be forced out of work.

Full protection of the petroleum industry was demanded in the petition, which was to be presented to congressional delegations from each of the oil producing states and to congressional committees.

The formal wording of the tariff and embargo plea follows:

"For the above reasons we, the representatives of the petroleum industry, the business interests and the farmers and laborers of the oil producing states . . . do hereby solemnly petition and urge congress to enact without delay a law placing an adequate tariff on imports of crude petroleum and its refined products.

Curb Imports

"Or, in the alternative, we pray that the congress enact without delay a law limiting the importation of crude petroleum to 20 per cent of the amount imported during the calendar year 1928, and that in the interest of American labor, the law absolutely prohibit the importation of any of the refined products of petroleum. . . ."

Six other states were asked today to join the campaign. Barton A. Holl, of Logan, Ohio, moved that Michigan, Illinois, Tennessee, Mississippi, New York and Indiana producers be invited, along with their governors, to take part.

The conference, which was called by former Governor Holloway of Oklahoma and Governor Reed of Kansas, immediately approved the plan. States represented included: Texas, California, Colorado, Kansas, Kentucky, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Montana, New Mexico, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Wyoming and West Virginia.

State Chairmen

Chairmen of the state's delegations were: California, J. R. Dorsey, Bakersfield; Colorado, F. W. Freeman, Denver; Kansas, A. M. Landon, Independence; Kentucky, W. R. Jillson, Frankfort; Louisiana, R. L. Gay Zwalle; Montana, W. M. Fulton, Conrad; New Mexico, V. S. Welch, Artesia; Ohio, I. C. Grimm, Woodsfield; Oklahoma, Wirt Franklin, Ardmore; Pennsylvania, W. J. Brendred, Oil City; Texas, Tom E. Cranfill, Dallas; Wyoming, John G. Marvel, Cheyenne; West Virginia, W. S. Halliman, Charleston.

Orville Bullington, Wichita Falls, Texas; W. B. Harrison, Wichita, Kan.; J. I. Cromwell, Muskogee, Okla.; J. Edward Jones, New York City, and Halliman were named as members of the executive committee.

Secretary Wilbur, chairman of the oil conservation board, whom the independent producers have attacked repeatedly at the conference, appeared before them this afternoon and pleaded with them to follow a program of conservation.

Conservation Attacked

The conservation program of the government and the states was subjected to a bitter onslaught during the conference.

Wilbur declared that an interstate compact between the oil producing states was the most likely remedy for the ills of the industry.

He submitted to them revised copies of the suggestions for a compact presented at the Colorado Springs conference called in 1929 by President Hoover, which was attended by Wilbur and Mark Requa as representatives of the president.

The compact provides for uniformity of conservation laws among the states; uniformity of enforcement and rigid regulation on wise grounds; stability of conservation and production to guarantee an orderly development program.

Frank Creighton Quits Post As Wichita Boy Scout Executive

Board Postpones Action on Official's Resignation; Salary Cut Declined by Veteran Leader

The official resignation of Frank B. Creighton, for seven years executive secretary of the local Boy Scout organization, was presented at a meeting of the board of directors of the organization held at the Y. W. C. A. Friday at noon.

The resignation which will take effect Feb. 15, came as a result of a cut in the official's salary from $350 to $150 per month by members of the budget committee of the community chest at a meeting held last fall at which time the appropriations of all three character-building organizations were reduced. Definite action on the resignation was postponed and members were urged to do everything possible to work out a plan whereby Mr. Creighton could be induced to continue in his present capacity here.

Mr. Creighton, who came here from Fort Worth in 1923 has been in the Boy Scout work for the past 19 years. At the time he came here there were two troops with 52 scouts and at the present time there are 37 troops including 789 scouts. During his activities here he has developed the Wichita Area council in which the membership totals approximately 800 scouts. According to the report read at the meeting Friday, more scouts have received merit badges this week than in any one week since he has been with the organization.

A unanimous expression of regret at the resignation was extended by members of the board and talks of appreciation of Mr. Creighton's work here were made by J. N. Sherrill, Lester Jones, Dr. Austin F. Leach, Leon Deaton, Sam Kruger, J. H. Allison and R. E. Shepherd. Mr. Creighton said he had not decided on definite plans for the immediate future.

All the present officers were re-elected for the new year. They include: President, R. E. Shepherd; first vice president, John F. O'Donohoe; second vice president, George D. Fox; treasurer, N. M. Clifford; commissioner, Ralph Hyer.

Those present at the meeting were: R. E. Shepherd, Dr. Charles R. Hartsook, Walter Taylor, Sam Kruger, George D. Fox, J. H. Allison, Lester Jones, Leon Deaton, J. N. Sherrill, T. J. Waggoner Jr., Everett McCullough, Ralph Fidler, Dr. Austin F. Leach and Mr. Creighton.

Resigns

Frank B. Creighton, executive of the local Boy Scout organization, tendered his resignation Friday.

DISTRICT NO. 2 ASKS DRAINAGE

Petition Calls on Board To Take Action

A committee of six landowners of the Wichita county water improvement district No. 2 will circulate a petition in the district asking that the board of directors proceed with the calling of an election or whatever may be necessary to provide funds for the drainage of water logged lands in the district, according to a decision reached at a mass meeting of landowners in the council chamber at the Memorial auditorium Friday afternoon.

The proposal to prepare petitions to the board followed talks of A. H. Britain and G. A. Remington, general manager of districts 1 and 2, urging the necessity of action in the drainage of lands in district 2. Considerable discussion ensued before the motion was made asking the circulation of a petition.

The committee to circulate the request is to be appointed from landowners from the north and south sides of the Wichita river, three representatives to each side.

A vote taken on the matter of drainage resulted in 17 favorable ballots cast of the 26 land owners present, who represented 7,500 acres of land in the district.

Landowners present at the meeting were:

Jno. C. Kay, J. C. Straus, R. F. Abernathy, H. B. Patterson, R. O. Harvey, G. A. Remington, C. C. Burrows, W. L. Hodges, W. L. Lawler, John Hirschl, M. D. Rowe, W. T. Johnson, W. L. Warren, J. C. Two men arrested Thursday night as suspects in the case were released to face charges of drunkenness in the county court at law, it was stated. The burned car was found Friday morning about seven miles out on the Seymour road.

LUCAS LETTERS DRAW ATTACKS

G. O. P. Head Accused Of Using U. S. Workers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—Republican leaders were called on in the senate today by Senator Cutting, Republican, New Mexico, to "repudiate" Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, for activities he described as "disgraceful and outrageous."

The New Mexico senator assailed Lucas for sending a letter to his former subordinates in the internal revenue bureau asking them to keep him informed of political conditions.

Senators Johnson, of California, and Couzens, of Michigan, joined Cutting in describing this action as an attempt to control politics "by virtue of taxation and control of the income tax returns."

Collectors Mostly Demos

Senator Kean, Republican, New Jersey, interposed that the internal revenue collectors in the administration of President Harding were mostly Democrats.

Cutting asserted that Lucas was "obviously" prompting the candidacy of President Hoover for renomination by his letter to precinct committee workers in December urging them to defend the president. He again assailed Lucas for his activities against Senator Norris of Nebraska.

The New Mexico senator denounced Senator Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee, for issuing a statement through the committee in criticism of Senator Couzens on the railroad merger dispute.

Fess Attacked

He said Senator Fess had no right to use the national committee for a personal attack upon another Republican, regardless of the merits of the dispute. He also demanded that Fess take a stand on "this clear issue of right and wrong" involving Lucas.

Cutting read a letter which he said Lucas wrote on national committee stationery to former employes in the internal revenue bureau shortly after he had resigned as commissioner of internal revenue asking them to keep him informed "of political conditions in your section."

Cutting demanded a "square deal" for Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential nominee in 1928 who has demanded an apology from Lucas and the Republican national committee for distributing a barroom cartoon attributing a "false" quotation to Smith.

Paving of Highway Strip in City Of Bowie Assured at Final Hearing

Special to The Record News.

BOWIE, Texas, Jan. 16.—The last technicality which might have delayed paving of the three-quarter-mile strip on Wise street, completing the Fort Worth-Wichita Falls highway, was removed Friday night when a public hearing held by the city council failed to develop any opposition to the assessments levied against tax payers. With the way legally cleared, construction is expected to begin by Feb. 1 unless bad weather intervenes.

The council called the open meeting to hear any protests against the assessments made upon owners of property in the two blocks of the business section where the paving is to measure 54 feet. The remainder of the road, to be financed by warrants, will be 18 feet wide.

Instead of protests, the council met with enthusiastic approval, and the General Construction company of Fort Worth, holders of the $22,000 contract, said road building equipment will be on hand within the next two weeks.

Veterans of Spanish War Hold Reunion; New Officers Installed

More than 120 Spanish war veterans and members of their families gathered here Friday night for the annual reunion of the David C. McCaleb camp 33 years after the first call for volunteers was sent out following the sinking of the Maine.

John Terrill, retiring camp commander, turned over the reins of leadership to Mike Newman, newly elected commander of the local camp. An imposing installation ceremony was staged by W. R. Duke, past department commander and long a leader in activities of the veterans' organization.

The reunion was held in the basement of the Grace Methodist church at Seventh and Lamar and the banquet was served by the women of the congregation. Dr. C. E. DeWitt, pastor, pronounced the benediction.

Leach Gives Talk

Dr. Austin F. Leach, commander of Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion, was a guest at the dinner and assured the older veterans of the Legion's support.

He announced that the local Legion post now numbers 708 members and is probably the largest post in Texas and the entire South. Officials of the post expect, however, to reach a goal of 1,000 members before summer.

Dr. Leach said that Pat Carrigan post was preparing to place 100 new chairs and a piano in the veterans room at the Memorial auditorium which is jointly occupied by the Legion and the Spanish war veterans.

Mr. Duke, who was toastmaster, spoke briefly on the reports of Communist propaganda in America and urged the veterans to help prevent the spread of Red doctrines. W. S. Langford, also a past department commander, made a brief talk.

The outgoing commander told of the work done by the veterans organization during the past year in an effort to obtain favorable legislation in congress.

Musical Program

The new commander made a short talk in which he expressed gratitude for the honor paid him by the veterans and assured the members of his ernest effort to promote the camp's best interests during 1931.

The musical program was arranged by George H. Hodgins, well known in Wichita Falls as a radio and minstrel entertainer. The first feature was a piano solo, "The Stars and Stripes Forever," by Miss Pauline Fulcher. Several stringed instrument numbers were presented by Dave and Jack, Hawaiian duo. Jiggs and Mike rendered a series of accordion and tap dance specialties.

New officers installed at the meeting included the following: Mike Newman, commander; Dr. A. F. Luzzi, senior vice commander; James Akin, Henrietta, junior vice commander; W. L. Dalton, adjutant; J. A. Giddings, quartermaster; W. L. Dalton, trustee; Stonewall Bailey, Vernon, patriotic instructor; J. O. Bradshaw, historian; Dr. H. D. Fillmore, camp surgeon; Louis H. Gould, chaplain; Sam Turner, officer of the day; Henry Morgan, officer of the guard; J. C. Martin, sergeant major; L. D. Woodyard, quartermaster sergeant; Bud Tatom, senior color sergeant; Sam Wisdom, junior color sergeant; V. S. Frazier, chief musician.

Last Services Held For Miss Hamilton

Funeral services for Miss Margaret M. Hamilton, 78, for 42 years a resident of Wichita county, were held at the Beaver Creek school Friday afternoon, with the Rev. C. C. Davis of Iowa Park officiating. Burial was in the Beaver Creek cemetery.

Miss Tamilton died Thursday night at the home of a niece, Mrs. Lula Dean, 1301 Monroe street, after a brief illness. She moved to the Beaver Creek community 42 years ago and had since been actively engaged in the affairs of the neighborhood and in the Methodist church.

Surviving are a brother, W. F. Hamilton of Wichita Falls, and several nieces and nephews.

County Asks Property Owners for Renditions

As a means of aiding in the speedy rendition of all local citizens' property for taxation, County Tax Assessor Max Shumake Friday suggested that all persons such as jurymen, witnesses, etc., and those coming to the courthouse to pay for automobile licenses render their property while there.

Mr. Shumake stated that many citizens of the county are coming to his office to make their property renditions, and that 951 tax assessment notices have been sent to non-resident property owners for their returns.

Driver of Truck Goes Merrily on as His Machine Burns

Damage of $100 was caused by fire to a truck owned by the Humble Pipe Line company Friday afternoon while the driver of the machine proceeded on Tenth street unaware of the blaze.

An alarm was turned in when P. A. Payne, the driver, failed to notice attempts to attract his attention. Equipment from the Buchanan street station overtook the truck in the 3100 block on Tenth, where a passerby succeeded in gaining his attention and informed him of the fire.

TRUCKSTERS NAME HEADS

Montague Growers For Association

Special to The Record News.

BOWIE, Texas, Jan. 16.—C. C. Williams of Sunset was elected president of a Truck Growers association organized here Thursday when 150 farmers of Montague and neighboring counties assembled at the call of the Bowie Chamber of Commerce. H. C. Gadberry of the Lone Star community was elected vice president, and Jim Hogan of Mallard, secretary and treasurer.

Representatives of 14 communities from which delegations attended were formed into a committee to name local leaders who, in turn, will meet again in a special session called for Saturday, Jan. 24.

The association was formed to encourage truck farming and to develop cooperative growing and marketing plans, especially in Montague county. The production of tomatoes, cantaloupes and watermelons, along with other garden crops is urged. An educational program is planned to determine the best species for planting and the most effective cooperative marketing system.

Already 125 acres have been pledged to tomatoes, 150 to watermelons, and 200 to cantaloupes.

Hiesermann Estate Divided Under Will

Four children of the late Will G. Hiesermann are made equal beneficiaries of an estate valued at more than $40,000 according to the terms of a will filed in the county court Friday for probate.

Property of the deceased includes 1,360 acres of land in this county, and a residence at 1923 Ninth street in Wichita Falls. The will was made on June 7, 1930. Ed and William F. Hiesermann, Mrs. Minnie Weeth, and Mrs. Anna Snow are the four children named in the will as beneficiaries.

PARIS.—The French Council of National Museums has distributed its year's purchases of relics to different museums. The Louvre's share includes a number of ancient Chinese vases, Mesopotamian pottery and a collection of small Japanese statuary and enamels.

KEEP COOL PLEASE!

IF YOU notice that your hands are not staying as smooth as they might, ask yourself the cause. The answer is that washing in hot water is the greatest single destroyer of skin beauty in existence.

Of course, if you use ordinary soap, you won't get clothes and dishes clean without hot water. But with White King Granulated Soap, made from pure vegetable and nut oils, you can get complete and thorough cleansing in lukewarm water. It will spare your hands, and, at the same time, save your colored ginghams and prints from an untimely end.

White King is economical too. Because it's condensed, a little goes a long, long way. It's the safest and yet the most effective soap you can buy. And it's ideal for hard water. Try it today. At your grocer's.

Clara's Former Secretary Talks Freely

paid down in Texas, and I paid debts at Calneva."

"Out of your own money?"

"Yes, out of my own money," she responded.

Not "Important"

"Did you endeavor at any time to show Miss Bow the checks and the expenditures?"

"Yes," said Miss DeVoe, "I did that repeatedly, but she would refuse to look at them. In fact, when she would come home from work, and find me working over the canceled checks and stubs, she would grow very angry, and exclaim, 'I told you, Daisy, not to bother with these checks. I don't want you working on them. There are a lot of other things that are much more important for you to do.'"

Then as a sort of climax, to her recitation, and as court was about to adjourn for the day, Miss DeVoe shifted her point of attack to Clara's purchases of jewelry for her "boy friends." She revealed that the flame-haired actress had purchased a watch, locket, and chain, costing $4,000, for Dr. Earl Pierson, who was linked very closely to Clara at one time.

Bought Right

Lothar Mendez, a director, also was a recipient of a gift from the liberal Clara, Miss DeVoe testified.

She presented him with a sapphire ring whose value was not given, the witness stated.

To top this off, Miss DeVoe testified that Clara bought herself an engagement ring which cost her "about $10,000."

The ring was worn by Miss Bow, her former secretary said, as the gift from one of her male admirers, but just who this was, Miss DeVoe did not say.

However, she did say that Harry Richman, who at one time was reported engaged to the screen star, received a $2,000 gold watch from her.

That virtually completed Miss DeVoe's testimony for the day. She will resume her story of Clara's activities, expenditures, and affairs of the heart when court reconvenes Monday.

The state, represented by Deputy District Attorney Dave Clark, closed its case late in the afternoon, with the testimony of George Armstrong, the auditor for the district attorney's office.

Charge of Auto Theft Filed Against Wichitan

Alleged efforts on the part of Ralph Abercrombie to trade to a local automobile dealer an automobile reported recently as stolen at Graham resulted in his arrest on charges of theft over $50, and of receiving and concealing stolen property over $50, according to Sam B. Spence, district attorney.

Abercrombie was arrested Friday afternoon by city officers and placed in the Wichita county jail, it was said. According to Mr. Spence, the car in question was stolen on Dec. 1 at Graham from T. J. Moody of Fort Worth. The charges against Abercrombie will be prosecuted here, Mr. Spence said.

BOY HELD FOR THEFT

A 17-year-old boy was placed in the city jail Friday afternoon after the owner had identified an overcoat that was stolen several days ago, according to Frank Burns, chief of police.

The owner of the garment saw a man wearing the coat downtown Friday and called police, who traced the several transactions in which it had been involved since having disappeared from a parked automobile, to the youth, who could not give satisfactory explanation of where he obtained the coat.

Senior Class Wins Degrees

Students Give Program At Graduation

Commencement exercises at the high school and Junior college Friday evening were presented in a unique way by the 1931 mid-year graduates, omitting entirely the usual commencement address and substituting a student program.

Miss Minnie Thom, class president, gave a tribute to Wichita Falls High school and all city schools. A brief talk, telling interesting facts about the individual members of the class, was given by Robert Van Houten. Joyce Evelyn Cahstain and Bill Box talked on two phases of education, "Education—A Practical Thing," and "Education for Leisure Time."

Miss Thom was named as valedictorian and salutatory honors were presented to Glenn Wharton. S. H. Rider, high school principal, made the awards. William McKenney gave the invocation. The benediction was said by Gordon Ellis.

Diplomas were presented by Dr. J. W. Cantwell, city superintendent of schools, to William James Allen, Bernard Wesley Baxter, Nobia Bedingfield, Helen Mae Box, William James Box, Mildred Ernestine Burge, Samuel Lawson Caldwell, Joyce Evelyn Cahstain, Dorothy Marguerite Clark, Cleis Ernest Corder, Martha Eleanor Cowart, Alta Jane Ellis, Gordon E. Hashed Meat in Parsnip Ring

Scrub from 10 to 12 large-sized parsnips; scrape, trim, and cook in boiling salted water for from one-half to a whole hour, depending on the age and size. Mash by pressing through a ricer or colander, and season while hot with one-fourth teaspoonful of paprika, and one egg, beaten with two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. If the parsnips are not hot enough to set the egg, heat the whole in a sauce pan over the fire, stirring constantly.

Arrange on a hot platter, in the form of a mound, and with a spoon press a hollow in the center, widening it out into a ring five inches in diameter, and roughening the outside with a fork. Fill the ring with a meat or fine hash of any kind, and garnish with parsley.

Raised Cornmeal Muffins

One cake compressed yeast.
Two cupfuls scalded and cooled milk.
Two tablespoonfuls light brown sugar.
Four tablespoonfuls lard or butter, melted.
Two eggs well beaten.
Two and one-half cupfuls corn meal.
One cupful sifted bread flour.
One teaspoonful salt.

Dissolve yeast and sugar in lukewarm milk. Add lard or butter, corn meal, flour, eggs and salt. Beat well. Fill well-greased muffin pans two-thirds full. Set to rise in a warm place, free from draft, until light—about one hour. Bake in a hot oven 20 minutes. This recipe makes a dozen muffins.

For over night, use one-fourth cake of yeast and an extra half teaspoonful salt. After beating, cover and keep in a cool place. Place in muffin pans and allow them to rise about one and one-half hours in a warm place.

For corn bread, use same recipe. Bake 20 minutes in a well-greased, shallow pan, instead of muffin tins.

Grapefruit Stars

Section the pulp by first peeling the fruit until the pulp is exposed, then cutting with a sharp knife on each side of dividing membranes. Arrange these in a star shape on a becoming plate with a mound or pyramid of powdered sugar in the center.

Chicken With Rice
(Arroz con Pollo)

Chicken with rice is a popular dish in every land. In Spain it is particularly good. Arroz con pollo it is called over there, which makes it sound very mysterious to American ears. Parboil a plump chicken in just enough water to cover it, adding salt and pepper when nearly finished, then set it away to cool. Chop two green peppers fine, first removing all seeds. Chop also two medium sized onions. Slice a small bottle of stuffed olives fine, and add one tablespoonful capers. Try out two tablespoonfuls of fat salt pork and add two tablespoonfuls finely chopped raw ham, with the onions, peppers, olives, and capers and cook all to a nice brown, then add one-half cupful of well-washed and dried rice. Stir constantly for a few minutes, then leave to brown while you cut the chicken in pieces for serving. Add chicken and the broth to the ham and vegetables with one cupful of canned tomatoes and two pimentos cut in pieces. Cover and cook slowly for one hour or longer, adding more water if necessary. Season nicely and serve garnished with olives.

Cranberry Salad

Cook together two pounds of cranberries and one quart of water until the cranberries are soft throughout. Rub through a sieve, add four cups of sugar, and cook until the sugar is completely dissolved. Pour into a ring mold or Mary Ann pans and let remain in the refrigerator overnight. Unmold by dipping carefully into a large panful of warm water. Loosen jelly at the edges, then shake gently to be sure it is loose. Invert a platter upon the mold and hold tight with both hands against the ring mold; then reverse and carefully lift the mold from the jelly. Fill the center with diced celery, and rosy red apples, diced with the skins left on, tossed together with mayonnaise. Place green cherries or emeraldettes on top. Decorate with tender celery leaves.

Marshmallow Pies

Put in a saucepan two cupfuls sugar and three-fourths cupful water. Let boil until a thread is formed when a little is dropped from a spoon, then beat in 16 marshmallows. Pour this gradually over beaten whites of four eggs. Add one cupful nuts and one teaspoonful vanilla. Put in cooked pastry shell and set in oven to brown. This recipe makes two pies.

Curried Eggs, Poulet

Five or six hard cooked eggs.
Two tablespoonfuls melted butter.
Few grains pepper.
One-half cupful water.
Buttered bread crumbs.
One and one-half cups (one can) chicken soup with rice.
Two tablespoonfuls flour.
One-half teaspoonful curry powder.
One tablespoonful chopped parsley.

Cut eggs in halves, scoop out yolks and mash with a fork, adding butter and pepper. Refill egg whites. Bring chicken soup and water to a boil. Mix flour and curry powder, adding enough cold water to make a smooth paste, then thicken soup with this mixture. Place eggs in a greased shallow baking dish and pour over them the curried chicken soup. Cover generously with fine, buttered crumbs mixed with chopped parsley. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) until well browned.

Orange Queens, Royal

Beat one-fourth a cup of butter to a cream; beat in one-half a cup of sugar and the grated rind of one orange; add the beaten yolks of two eggs, two tablespoonfuls of orange juice, and one tablespoonful of lemon juice. Sift together two-thirds a cupful of sifted flour and one-eighth a teaspoonful of soda, and add to the first mixture. Fold in the whites of two eggs, beaten light. Thoroughly grease seven cup-cake pans, then dredge lightly with granulated sugar, turn in the batter and let bake in a moderate oven about 20 minutes. When cold, cover the top and upper edge of the cakes with seven-minute frosting, and roll the upper edge of the cakes in chopped nuts.

Winter Vegetables

Vegetables are as important a part of the winter dietary as of the summer. The season for the more delicate ones is past but there remains many to lend variety and spice to every-day meals.

Leaf and root vegetables are plentiful and are reasonably priced: beets, carrots, parsnips, turnips and even radishes are about as low as they ever go; cabbage, spinach, turnip greens, lettuce, celery, eggplant, squash and onions are temptingly low priced.

This is the month for regular orgies of onions, not only because they are low in price but also because of their dietetic excellence. Even though raw and fried onions are disastrous to breath, soft cooked onions sweeten the breath and clear up the complexion. Onions are, like spinach, scavengers of the stomach. In French convents, preparatory to visits from parents, or any other occasion when a girl should look her best, the nuns see to it that the main feature of her diet are a little wine, a little meat, and a great deal of onion soup.

Onions in winter are an aid in the resistance of winter colds and a thick, hot puree of onions at bed time beats the usual glass of hot lemonade as a remedy for a freshly caught cold.

Onions are also good for the nerves and if eaten freely will prove a specific for nervous irritability and lack of control.

Onions are a remedy for sleeplessness when prepared in an easily digested form, such as a soup or puree or when soft boiled.

Onions have a low caloric value; they have not much to boast of as to vitamins or minerals, but they are really healthful.

Onions may be prepared without a tear if one of the following precautions is used:

1. Stick a piece of crumb from a fresh loaf of bread on the point of the vegetable knife and peel away fearlessly.
2. Wear a pair of motor goggles while preparing onions.
3. Let a slender trickle of water run from the sink faucet, hold the onion root end up under the trickle and peel from the rot toward the stem. This is the favored method as it not only keeps down the tears, but keeps the finger tips from smelling of onion.

Onions should be cooked in an open kettle in a large quantity of water for the shortest time possible for tenderness. The large amount of water removes some of the strong flavor and the short cooking prevents them from losing too much of this flavor and becoming flat and insipid.

RECIPES

Glazed Onions

Peel small silver skinned onions, and cook in boiling water for 15 minutes. Drain, dry on cheesecloth, put in a buttered baking-dish, add highly seasoned brown stock to cover bottom of dish, sprinkle with sugar, and bake until soft, basting with stock in pan.

Stuffed Onions

Remove skins from onions, and parboil 10 minutes in boiling salted water to cover. Turn upside down to cool, and remove part of centers. Fill cavities with equal parts of finely chopped cooked chicken, soft bread crumbs, and finely chopped onion which was removed, seasoned with salt and pepper, and moistened with cream or melted butter. Place in buttered shallow baking-pan, sprinkle with buttered crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven until onions are soft.

Orange and Onion Salad

Arrange on nests of lettuce leaves alternate slices of Bermuda onions cut very thin, and orange cut one-half inch thick. Sprinkle with chopped olives or pimolas, garnish with watercress, and serve with French dressing. An excellent salad to serve with broiled steak.

Milton Onions

Cook until tender in boiling salted water a dozen or so small white onions; drain well and place them in a buttered baking dish, the bottom of which has been sprinkled lightly with crumbs. Sprinkle with grated American cheese, using about three tablespoonfuls; cover with another layer of the crumbs, using altogether for this number of onions about one-fourth cupful; dot with a tablespoonful of butter. Pour on thin white sauce to just cover—about three-fourths cupfuls—and brown in a hot oven—400 degrees F. If more onions are used make two layers.

Beefsteak and Onions

1. Beefsteak and onions are a tremendously popular dish; the steak may be selected from the sirloin, porterhouse or club, and the onions may be any variety that is preferred. Broil the steak; peel and slice the onions an eighth of an inch thick, and separate them into rings; cover with boiling salted water and cook in an uncovered skillet until tender; drain and return to the fire to dry; add a tablespoonful of butter and cook to a delicate brown. Season with salt and pepper to taste and arrange over the broiled and seasoned steak.
2. Beefsteak with French fried onions calls for a large well-broiled steak; the onions are sliced a quarter of an inch thick and separated into rings, then soaked in milk for half an hour, drained, and dipped in flour. Finally, they are placed in a frying basket and immersed in deep boiling fat. In a very few minutes they will become a crisp, golden brown, then they must be drained on paper, dusted with salt and pepper and served atop a perfectly cooked steak.

Spinach Molds

Wash four pounds of spinach and steam 25 minutes in a small amount of water. Drain and chop very fine. Then add two tablespoonfuls of butter, two tablespoonfuls of cream, one tablespoonful of grated onion, and salt and pepper to taste. Pack in individual molds. Place molds in a pan of water and bake for 15 minutes in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.). Turn nut molds on a platter and wrap each with a strip of broiled bacon. Garnish with parsley and deviled eggs, cut in quarters.

Stamford Club Names Leaders for Coming Year

Special to The Record News.

STAMFORD, Texas, Jan. 16.—Mrs. L. F. Metz, prominent young woman in club and social life of this city, was elected to serve as president of the Pierian club at the regular meeting held on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Metz is supported by a strong executive committee composed of Mrs. Floyd Johnson, first vice president; Mrs. Margery Malley, second vice president; Mrs. Clay Randel, recording secretary; Mrs. George Pryor, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. H. Rutherford, treasurer; Mrs. E. V. Hardwick, parliamentarian and critic, and Mrs. C. F. Upshaw, reporter.

The membership committee of the club is also elected by ballot and is composed of Mesdames George Pryor, R. E. McDonald, J. W. Puckett, W. V. Keith and Miss Maude Cooze. These officers will be installed at the last meeting of the club year, which will be held on April 23, and will take office at the president's day meeting held in October.

This club was organized in 1906 and federated in 1908. The club roll has held many well known club women of the state. Mrs. L. P. Cunningham, who now lives in Houston, was the first president of the club, being followed by Mrs. S. C. Clark, who was later prominent in club work in Graham before moving to San Antonio. The third president of the club was Mrs. Homer D. Wade, who now makes her home in Dallas. Mrs. George Zachary is president this year.

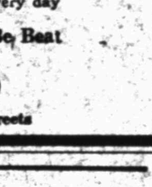

Athletic Club Meets In Iowa Park Jan. 20

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Jan. 16.—The Athletic club will hold an athletic meeting next Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 20, with Mrs. J. C. Murphres, athletic director in charge. The games to be played will be determined by the weather.

CONSTIPATION BRINGS MANY ILLS

Did you know that constipation often brings despondency? Poisons spread through the system. You lack pep. Headaches become frequent. No wonder you have the "blues."

Yet constipation can be overcome by having sufficient roughage in your diet. A pleasant way to obtain this roughage is through eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

You will enjoy this delicious cereal. And how much better for you than taking habit-forming laxatives.

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN, eaten daily, will relieve and prevent both temporary and recurring constipation.

ALL-BRAN also contains needed iron to build up the blood. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

The Slavery Racket Going Strong in Liberia Dr. Wynne's Warning A War by Radio

By EMILE GAUVREAU

American negro freedmen who went to Liberia in 1822 to escape the fear of bondage and to establish a black republic have fared worse there, it is now revealed, than they have in America. Horrors of slavery and conscript labor, torture, shanghai, raids, outrages on natives are just as common as they were in the old days, according to a report of the international commission, although as late as last year Liberia ratified the League of Nations declaration that all domestic slaves of the native tribes had been declared free.

The worst feature is that high officials—high up as the vice president of the republic—are criminally involved in the slave trade. The spectacle of freed negroes engaged in a traffic to enslave their brothers in a black republic is another drama for the world to ponder and despair over. Over half a million white men gave their lives in the civil war to accomplish what the blacks themselves are now trying to undo. If there is any spectacle more disheartening it has not yet been revealed.

Warning against "shotgun" cures that serve only to menace the health, Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, health commissioner of New York, urges a number of precautions for combating common colds, which are apt to develop into pneumonia and influenza. The increase of influenza cases the first week of the new year makes his recommendations imperative:

Drink plenty of water. (Like air, because it's free, people are prone to high-hat it.)

Bathe frequently. (Cold weather is no excuse for dirt).

Sleep at least 8 hours in every 24. (We're not all Edisons).

Dress according to the weather. (An ounce of clothes under a fur coat may be sufficient for fat women, but not for lean).

Eat regularly of simple nourishing food. Include milk and vegetables. (It is preferable to be called a milk-sop than to die of beefsteak indigestion).

Thanks to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's propaganda, sports at the colleges—at Columbia, anyway—is to be taken out of the field of commercialism and professionalism and put back in its proper place, as a recreational function of students for students and their friends, not as exhibition for profit or glory. To that end, the alumni of Columbia votes a $50,000 fund for the endowment of Columbia college athletics.

If other colleges and universities would follow suit, young men might begin to think more of their alma mater as an institution of learning rather than as a passport to gridiron fame. And the summa cum laude student might come in for some of the applause that usually goes to the gorilla who maims two or three of his opponents before he scores a touchdown.

New times, new wars. New instruments, new kinds of attacks.

In the past, propaganda was carried on by the distribution of broadsides, lectures, publications, newspapers. Newspapers remain, but the other media are being gradually replaced by radio. The Soviet, as modern as old Russia was ancient, is reported to be the first nation about to exploit radio in a $45,000,0000 network for the dissemination of its political and moral philosophy.

Russia, in a word, has declared war by radio. Germany already is up in arms to withstand the first assault over the air waves. The rest of Europe will inevitably become embroiled. A fight for the control of the air waves might be the cause of our next great war. Our generals then would be announcers, not soldiers!

It is said that the first American novel was published in 1789 and written by Sarah W. Morton under the title of "Power of Sympathy."

Silent air pistols were found recently on Chicago gangsters. Now we know what reports mean which say underworld activities are quieter.

'Lost With All Hands'

THERE is a grim fascination to the mental picture which arises whenever an airplane vanishes on an ocean flight. One pictures a dark and empty ocean, with mile-long waves throwing up white crests to gleam in the blackness; a frail airplane, soaring above, faltering suddenly, dipping down, plowing into the water—and then, after a moment, not a ripple or a bit of wreckage to show what has happened. The picture is unpleasant, but it sticks in one's mind.

Probably it is the loneliness of it that fascinates us. We all nourish the hope that when our time comes to go we can go decently, surrounded by people we love; as if, perhaps, the infinite loneliness of a man who is stepping out of this world could be mitigated a little by the presence of those who must stay behind. And to think of going alone, in mid-ocean, with only the storm-clouds for witnesses—it is a dark picture.

But human beings, who are afraid of death, are also adventurous; and as the years pass there will be many airplanes lost at sea, with eternal mystery to cover the fate of their occupants. And this will be true, no matter how nearly perfect the airplane becomes; for the sea is cruel, and from the days of the Phoenicians has given many, many men lonely burials.

Indeed, if it is morbidly fascinating to think of the disappearance of one airplane in mid-ocean, how much more so is it to think of the long, long list of ships that have gone to sea and have never made a landfall. There is a whole picture gallery there, of endless length, done in the manner of Dore.

That phrase, "Lost with all hands," is the caption for most of these pictures. Perhaps the gallery begins with Ulysses, who got into his galley to sail beyond the sunset, and who was never seen again; and the early Roman merchants, who crept out beyond Gibraltar to sail up to Britain for tin, lacking charts and compass, must have contributed many pictures. Then, in a later age, there were the Venetians, who sent clumsy caravels to Constantinople and Egypt to tap the Oriental trade routes and the Vikings, who colonized Greenland and sailed down the American coastline to Chesapeake bay; and, a little later, the Portuguese coasting down Africa and doubling the Cape of Good Hope, and the Spaniards, learning how treacherous and destructive were the sudden hurricanes of the Caribbean; and then the Dutch, who took round-bowed ships past Java Head, and the English, who hunted out the Northwest Passage, and sent sea-rovers out to harry the Spaniard.

The gallery is a long one. And when a white monoplane sails off over the ocean and is never seen again, we are simply getting another dark picture, fit for uncomfortable dreams, late at night, to add to a series that began long ages ago.

Nathan Straus

THERE are two ways of judging a rich man. One is to assay the manner in which he got his wealth; another is to judge the manner in which he disposed of it. Probably it is the latter method that gives us the best indication of the man's character; and the late Nathan Straus passes the test with flying colors.

No one knows just how many young men and women are alive and in good health today who would have died in infancy if it had not been for Mr. Straus. The number must be well up in the thousands. His distribution of milk to the poor children of New York, while not as spectacular as some charities, was assuredly one of the most useful bits of kindness ever undertaken by any man.

The man needs no epitaph and no eulogy. The mere statement of what he did is enough. He saved many, many children from dying, or from life-long ill-health. Isn't that about as fine a statement as anyone could wish for his gravestone?

No 'Stunt' Flight

IN PAYING a final tribute to Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieutenant William MacLaren, who disappeared on a flight from Bermuda to the Azores, it is well to point out that this flight was not just another useless "stunt." It was designed as an experiment of real value to aviation.

These two flyers were trying to test the feasibility of the transatlantic route they were following for a regular commercial air line. That was why they carried several hundred pounds of "pay load." That was why they made the flight in mid-winter and refused to wait for storms to give way to calm; for a commercial air line would have to take the weather as it came, and they wanted to see just what such a line would be up against.

Evidently they have paid for this knowledge with their lives; and they deserve a high tribute for their daring and their service. They were not headline hunters, or stunters.

The Question of Power

THERE is one very encouraging thing about the present dispute in Washington over the acts of the new members of the Federal Power commission; it is at least bringing the whole question of the attitude we ought to take toward the "power trust" out into the open and impressing the seriousness of the problem on every citizen's mind.

Sooner or later, we shall have to make up our minds, once and for all, how this power question is to be handled. It is an extremely important question; but thus far it has not been a thing over which the public would get excited. If it is dramatized, now, by a spectacular fight between the White House and the senate, it should get people stirred up and set them thinking.

In the past we have been indifferent toward it. The present squabble—regardless of who is in the right—ought to help awaken us.

THE LOVELY LIAR : BY ROB EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Poppy Prior, young and romantic, is jilted by Ted Allison, with whom she had secretly planned to run away to New York. Leaving a note for her mother and sister, telling them she was already married, Poppy finds that Ted had gone off without her.

CHAPTER III

Poppy was always sorry she did not go into the house that night. Didn't face the music then. She knew, later, she'd been a coward, or she could have gone. And Poppy hated cowards.

The discreet rap of the chambermaid the next day didn't awaken Poppy. But the click of her key in the lock did. She started up from her bed in alarm.

"Oh, I didn't know you were sleeping, Miss," the chambermaid apologized and backed out. "You didn't answer my knock so I came in to clean." The door closed after her, and the girl sat up in bed and yawned.

Miserable night. Beastly. She didn't feel rested at all, and it was so hot. . . .

A bath would feel good. So she took a quick, cold shower to brighten herself up.

She remembered when she slipped into her clothes that she had tossed for hours and hours last night before she could sleep. And Poppy usually found sleep as soon as her head touched the pillow.

Well, as soon as she dressed, and had breakfast, she'd go home and see mother and Grace. She wasn't hungry. The mere thought of having to go home and explain had chased what desire she had for food away.

She was snapping on her wrist watch when she noticed the time. Two-thirty! In the afternoon. She couldn't have slept on and on like that! Two-thirty—why at home she got up regularly every morning at 8 o'clock with Grace and Mrs. Prior, except of course on Sundays when she could sleep later. Grace always called her in the morning. . . .

A frown cut her smooth forehead, and a panicky feeling came over her. She had planned to go home early. Get up about 8, and be home by 8:30. Her head ached, too. Rather badly!—It had started as soon as the thought had come that she had to go home. Some coffee would help.

She'd have her breakfast in her room. There was a small coffee shop in the hotel she knew, so she called and ordered some toast and coffee.

It was a quarter of three before a waiter appeared with a tray, containing the coffee, the toast, and an afternoon newspaper, folded beside the cup.

Where Is Ted?

Did hotels always do this? Send papers up with your meals? Poppy didn't know much about hotels, but she thought it was rather nice. Read while you eat.

The hot coffee tasted good. That was what she needed. Her headache was caused by hunger. It was gone after she had nibbled a few pieces from the toast.

Ted? Where was he now? New York. And she had thought that by this time today she would be married to him. They were to have gone right to the license bureau from the train.

"I can't live without you, Poppy," Ted had pleaded.

Well, he had, and was probably doing very well. Poppy didn't feel so bitter this morning. She was glad now it had happened as it had. She couldn't have loved Ted or she wouldn't feel this way. She should be heartbroken, and she wasn't. Sort of a feeling of escape. It would have been nicer, though, if she hadn't gone to the Chandler, and hadn't found his note. Then she would have been jilting him, not Ted jilting her.

No, she couldn't have loved him. Last night, she had been humiliated, that was all. Terribly hurt at what he had done. It was a shock, when you were going to marry someone and that someone didn't show up.

How had she been so foolish anyway? It couldn't have been all Ted. It must have been partly because she wanted to get away from home, and Ted offered a good escape.

Poppy read over the story time and time again.

She put down the coffee cup. The coffee which had been so good, seemed bitter now. She wouldn't drink any more of it. She still had to go home. Still had to face mother and Grace. Frowning, she picked up the paper, and glanced through the front page, not really seeing any of the news, so absorbed was she in her worry at facing Mrs. Prior.

If it were only Grace, it wouldn't be so bad. Grace without Mrs. Prior was all right. It was only when they were together—

She mustn't go on like this. She couldn't.

Because she wanted to get her mind off the coming interview, she turned to the society page. The names she saw there were mostly familiar to her. That was the joy of living in a small town.

You knew nearly everybody. Mrs. Daventry's party next week. Her mother wouldn't be going. Evelyn Moss was going to California. Jimmy Daventry had a house guest—some schoolmate. Probably terrible if he accepted Jimmy's invitation—

The Announcement

Then her face stiffened, and her throat grew dry as she caught another item. Something happened to her eyes, and the print was all blurry.

"Mrs. Maude Prior announces—" What was that? She couldn't see it. . . .

"Mrs. Maude Prior announces the marriage of her daughter, Poppy, to Mr. Theodore Allison of New York. The wedding, which was a quiet one, took place last evening at the home of the bride's mother. The couple will make their home in New York where Mr. Allison is in business.

"Mrs. Allison is a popular Ashland girl. She graduated from the East Ashland High school last June. Mr. and Mrs. Allison have already left on their honeymoon."

Poppy read over the story time and time again, fearing something was the matter with her. That she was crazy, mad. That her eyes had deceived her. They hadn't. She was quite sure by the time she had gone over the thing half a dozen times that her eyesight was quite clear, and that she wasn't exactly mad.

She was calm when she laid the paper down on the small night table where she had had her breakfast. There wasn't a tremor in her fingers as she picked up the coffee pot and poured herself another cup of lukewarm coffee, draining it slowly, as if it were very good.

Of course. Her mother had phoned in the article to the Herald. It was quite the proper thing to do. And Mrs. Prior always did the proper thing. She and Grace must have talked it over, and decided to call the paper the first thing in the morning. The Herald was the only afternoon paper in Ashland, and Mrs. Prior knew the society editor. She called her up occasionally with a bit of news. She very seldom gave stories to the society editor of the Morning Times. She didn't like the Times.

This morning, she had called Miss Blessington, with Grace at her side and told her that Poppy was married. She hadn't mentioned the note, nor that Poppy had run away. Nothing like that. She told Miss Blessington as if Poppy married at home—rather hurriedly to be sure—but married at home. Mrs. Prior would insist on that.

"The wedding was a quiet one—." A smile touched the girl's face, but passed away almost as soon as it came. She mustn't smile. This was serious. Here the paper had her married to Ted, on her honeymoon, and she wasn't married at all. She was having a cup of coffee in the Grant hotel, and it was three o'clock in the afternoon, and Ted was in New York, having jilted her.

This was serious. . . .

"Where Mr. Allison is in business—." He wasn't in business. He was only a press agent for a theatrical troupe but Mrs. Prior didn't know that, and she was covering up, as if she knew all about Ted.

Poppy thought of her friends calling up after they read the item, calling in surprise, asking Grace. Her mother explaining. What would

The resources of our free information bureau are at your service. You are invited to call upon it as often as you please. It is being maintained solely to serve you. What question can we answer for you? There is no charge at all except two cents in coin or stamps for return postage. Address your letter to The Record News Information bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C.

Q.—What is pragmatism?—B. D.

A.—It is the philosophical doctrine that the only test of the truth of human cognitions or philosophical principles is their practical results, that is, their workableness. The word was introduced in this connection about 1875 by the American logician, C. S. Peirce, and was popularized by William James whose "Pragmatism" was published in 1907.

Q.—Was Halloween ever considered the last day of the year?—H. G.

A.—In the old Celtic calendar, October 31 was the last day of the year, its night being the time that witches were abroad. On the introduction of Christianity, it became the Eve of All Hallows or All Saints.

Q.—Was Elmer Oliphant a four-letter man?—W. P. P.

A.—Elmer Oliphant, according to Who's Who in American Sports, is the only four-letter man in the history of Purdue and West Point. From 1907 to 1909 he was captain of the Washington football, basket ball and track teams. The following year he was a member of the Linton football, basket ball and track teams. The following year he was a member of the Linton football, basket ball and track teams; 1910-11 he was a member of the Purdue freshman football, basket ball and track teams. For the next three years he was a member of the Purdue varsity football, basket ball, baseball, track and gymnasium teams. He held the high record in diving in the gymnasium. In 1914 he went to West Point.

Q.—Where was the first concrete pavement laid in the United States?—F. G.

A.—It is believed to be that constructed in Bellefontaine, Ohio, in 1892. This was a narrow strip along the hitching rack along one side of the courthouse square. In 1865 there was a concrete road to Good's station in Inverness, Scotland.

Q.—What people were the first to use skates?—G. O. G.

A.—The earliest form of skate known was that of the bone "runners" worn by the primitive Norsemen. The early development of skating was due principally to the Norsemen, Swedes, Danes, Finns, and the Dutch. It is not known at what period the use of metal runners was introduced.

Q.—Just what is "public opinion?"—O. M.

A.—Public opinion has been defined as the prevailing moral sense, manners, conventions, desires and ideals of the community.

Q.—Does a person say "he died of pneumonia" or "from pneumonia?"—F. B.

A.—One dies of a disease, from hunger, by violence, for another, or for one's country.

Q.—What is the meaning of recusant?—C. F. G.

A.—Recusant, from the Latin word meaning to refuse, was the name given in the 16th and 17th centuries to persons, particularly of the Roman faith, who persisted in refusing to attend services of the English church and became thereby liable to prosecution and penalties.

Q.—Where is the grave of L'Enfant, who helped plan the city of Washington?—B. N.

A.—His body has been reinterred in Arlington cemetery. Pierre Charles L'Enfant was born in Paris, Aug. 2, 1755, and died at Chilham Castle Manor, Prince Georges county, Maryland, June 14, 1825.

Q.—What is time money?—E. A. H.

A.—It is money that is borrowed for a stipulated time, at a specified rate, usually for four, six or 12 months, and is payable at the expiration of the specified time.

A.—Reno lies at an altitude of 4,500 feet at the foot of the Sierra Nevada mountains. It is noted for its bracing air and abundant sunshine.

Q.—Who coined the expression, mutual admiration society?—F. B.

A.—Probably Oliver Wendell Holmes. The phrase appears in the Autocrat of the Breakfast Table.

Q.—Did Roosevelt send federal troops into the coal fields at the time of the famous anthracite strike?—N. B. V.

A.—Roosevelt planned to send in the troops under General Schofield and to have the general dispossess the operators and run the mines, if necessary, but the strike was settled without resort to such measures.

Little Miss Nobody

CHAPTER XLVI

Yet it was not the image of Patricia Hamilton, which rose before the girl who read the letter but that of her mother.

Tender-voiced, sweet! Pat's confession had described Dolores' last living moment.

"Oh Mother!" Celeste cried letting the letter fall at her feet.

All the cruel agony of the original shock was suffered over again. It was a long time before she became calm enough to realize that the letter had forced a decision upon her. The pride of the Hamilton family rested in her hands. The possession of this confession could bring them to her feet, whipped and humiliated. Pat's parents would be only too willing to make any concession, even recognize as Dale's wife the girl whose mother had not only shared their daughter's lover but had been murderd by her on his account.

"It's for you to decide," Pat had written. All the cards were Celeste's to play if she chose. The letter turned over to the Los Angeles police department would be ample revenge for everything the Hamiltons had done.

Shown to them privately it would be like a gun pointed continually at their hearts. But what would anything gained at such a price be worth to Celeste? The confession made public could not bring her mother to life. No amount of recognition from his parents could make up to her for the fact that Dale had not been strong enough to stand by the marriage he had begged her to make. All she desired was that he might be man enough to return of his own accord.

Except to solve the tragedy in her own mind, Pat's confession was no help. She could not use the weapon deliberately placed in her hands. Could not shame the family of the man she loved, even though they did everything possible to humiliate her.

And, since she would not tell them, there was no one else she dared tell. No single other soul to whom the letter might be read. The fear that she might weaken and do so at some future time made her tear the incriminating proof into shreds.

Her face was pale as she did this. Her heart knocked violently against her breast. But her decision made, there could be no turning back. Whatever happened, there must be no chance of Pat's confession falling into other hands.

She cut the green handkerchief into ribbons, and burned both chiffon and paper in the kitchen sink. She tossed the charred, blackened ashes into a wastebasket and scrubbed the discolored porcelain. Too late to change her mind now. Let them have the marriage annulled. Let Dale marry the other girl. Celeste had decided as she knew her mother would have wished. Revenge had played no part in Dolores' Grahm's romantic life. It should not do so in her death. Her daughter was unconsciously following a deeply rooted inherited instinct. She was burning Pat's confession as Dolores had burned her letters.

It was the inner conviction of her mother's approval which gave her strength to face the new day, during which she waited, in an agony of hope and fear, for some sign from her husband.

The account of Pat's suicide was in the morning papers. Despondency over poor health was given as the cause.

Before noon Mr. Clayton had telephoned.

"Is Dale with you?" he asked.

"No!"

"Have you seen him?"

"Only for a moment."

"Is there anything I can do, Celeste? Do you want to come back to the office?"

"Not until after the funeral," she insisted. "If you haven't any one by then . . ."

She knew he would not hire anyone else if he thought there was a chance of her returning. Perhaps it was taking advantage of R. R. C.'s unfailing kindness, but she had to give Dale a chance. When the grim business of Pat's burial was completed and he had had time to think he might feel differently.

She wrote him a brief little note telling him how sorry she was, with the information that she had left Mr. Clayton's office less than an hour after he was there. It brought no response. So there was nothing to do but wait. Something would have to happen.

What happened was the appearance of Dale's father, accompanied by the family lawyer. Less than 24 hours after Pat's funeral they came to Celeste's apartment.

Mr. Hamilton Sr. was an older, more cautious Dale, without Dale's charm. His mouth twitched nervously. His blue eyes silently accused the bride his impulsive son had married. Without wasting any time on the diplomatic approach one might have expected under such circumstances, he came directly to the point and demanded Celeste's idea of a cash settlement before the marriage was annulled.

Her young face was as cold; her voice as hard as his when she replied. There would be no kow-towing or false modesty on her part again.

"Does my husband wish the marriage to be annulled?"

"Dale has asked me to see you about it. I am willing to be reasonably generous, but you understand my son has no money of his own."

Celeste lifted her sad, blue eyes. "I shan't contest it."

The lawyer Mr. Hamilton had brought said suavely, "That's very sensible of you. Now if you'll just give Mr. Hamilton some idea of what you expect in return."

"I don't expect anything," Celeste said quietly.

GERARD DENIES RASKOB 'RULE'

Former Ambassador Replies To Chairman's Critics

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany and treasurer of the Democratic national committee, was quoted today by the New York Evening Post in a copyrighted interview as calling "ridiculous" any statement that John J. Raskob, Democratic chairman, "owned" the party.

As to the Democrats' national debt, which Frank R. Kent of the Baltimore Sun declared recently is owed in part to Mr. Raskob, Gerard said Raskob had advanced moneys to the party to "keep it going" until some city bids for the convention in 1932.

Mr. Gerard told the Post that he personally would urge the Democratic presidential candidate in 1932 to retain Mr. Raskob as chairman.

"I became chairman of the finance committee of the Democratic national party in 1920 . . . " Mr. Gerard was quoted, "and I think I know something of the party's finances. I have always thought it a defect in our party management that the chairman of the national committee, always named by the candidate for the presidency, could run the party into debt and then disappear from the scene . . .

"Mr. Raskob after the election stood nobly by his guns and has advanced moneys to keep the party going until some city should bid for the convention and until the prospect of a new election shall induce the people interested in party success to come forward with contributions.

"It is absurd to say he owns the party, because in accordance with immemorial custom the next presidential candidate will name his own chairman of the national committee. If I have any influence with the next candidate I shall certainly urge him to pick Mr. Raskob.

"The party is indeed grateful to Mr. Raskob . . . but all he has contributed gives him no hold upon the party and he must give way to any one when the next candidate picks his successor."

Survey Director Addresses Lions

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, Jan. 16.—Judge V. T. Stone of Lander, Wyo., who is in charge of an industrial survey of the South with Chicago as his headquarters, was the principal speaker at the luncheon of the Lions club Thursday. The subject of Judge Stone's discourse was "Character of Pioneering." He discussed the relation of government ownership and the public, the importance of individual effort, and co-operation in community enterprises. "The people must be taught that individual responsibility is best for all for safe, efficient management of a business or corporation, and depends after all on the individual," he said.

A. C. Rippey, vice president, presided over the meeting which opened with the song, "The Eyes of Texas" and was followed with the invocation by F. M. Baker. C. W. Coffey who was in charge of the entertainment features presented Miss Letrice Wofford in song numbers.

Special guests of the club were C. D. Bailey, B. M. Dinsmore, Gordon Griffitts, E. W. Barr, W. R. Martin, W. D. Taylor, John Heuser, C. P. Engelking, J. G. B. Totten, Bill Stephens, H. J. H. Harris, R. E. Scheurer, O. L. Ely, George Jennings, Mesdames C. P. Engelking and J. N. Fulcher.

she explain? Knowing Mrs. Prior she knew she wouldn't say anything about the note.

Everybody would call . . .

—I should have gone in last night —she thought a little savagely.

Scandal

Now what could she do? Go home, tell her mother it was all a mistake, that she wasn't married at all? Face millions of explanations? She'd have to explain to all her friends, too. They'd ask.

It was then that the enormity of her act at going to the Grant came to her. People would think—no, that was too awful, it wasn't true! But still they would think that, and her mother would be humiliated, and Grace, too. Even Roy . . .

Nobody would even believe the truth—that Ted had jilted her before they'd even had a chance to get to New York.

She took up the paper, and read the story again. It was the same.

It always would be the same, because it was down in black and white. "Mrs. Allison—"

In a big city, people might forget, but in a city the size of Ashland . . . They remembered things for years and years and years. Poppy knew. She'd heard tales of women who had daughters as old as she was. Ashland folks had tenacious memories . . .

She could never expect to live this thing down here. Besides it wasn't fair to mother. To Grace. They'd come in on the gossip, too. No, she'd have to go away, and stay away. Never come back to Ashland. Some day she'd tell mother and Grace, but not now. It would be too hard for them now that they had announced her wedding in the papers.

Where could she go?

New York? Ted was there. But New York was a big place, she'd never see him. She didn't want to see him. She'd heard people say that you could live in New York for years and years, a lifetime, and never see people you knew.

Nobody from Ashland need ever know she hadn't married Ted. She wanted to go to New York anyway. Always had wanted to. Now she was going.

There was a slow train at 6. She'd stay in the hotel until then, locked up so nobody could see her, then she'd take a taxi from the side door just in time to jump on the train. Buy her ticket on the train. That was the way.

Money? She'd have enough to pay her hotel bill here, buy her ticket if she sat in the day coach all night, and have a few dollars left when she got to New York. Just a few dollars, though, maybe not even that. She would get a job right away . . .

The plans seemed glorious then. She had forgotten Ted, and his letter which she had torn into tiny bits and thrown in the waste basket.

Resolution Bars House's Hiring Of Department Aides

AUSTIN, Jan. 16. (AP)—A resolution prohibiting persons regularly employed in state departments from becoming employes of the house of representatives was adopted today. It was offered by G. J. Cox of Paris. The resolution made an exception of elective offices of the house.

Department heads were instructed to refuse leaves of absence to employes seeking to serve in the house and were ordered to declare the positions vacant if employes took legislative jobs. The resolution also prohibited re-employment of persons leaving regular jobs for two years.

Cox described the practice as pernicious, as detrimental to the efficiency of the departments, and unfair to unemployed persons seeking employment during legislative sessions.

The Other Side of the Bed

"We peddled rumors, wild rumors of unemployment, of bread lines, of failures, of panic. We talk of 130,000 skilled automobile mechanics out of work in Detroit, when in peak times there were less than 100,000 on the job at one time. We laid off 700 employes in a big department store, and the correction that there is a net addition of seventy finds us cold. The nation is a composite individual. It acts as an average man acts. You can talk an individual into the hospital; you can talk him out of the hospital. We talked ourselves into this mess a year ago.

"Mr. Average Man is afraid; he is full of fear. He doesn't know what the future holds. He is not acting normally. But some morning he will get out of bed on the right side and he will say, 'Life is too short. I am going to take a chance again. I am going to do the job; I am tired of waiting around for something to happen.' Then things will happen."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Nephritis

Question — Mrs. W. G. asks: "Should a woman over 60 who has albumin use eggs in any form? Should she use cream of tartar in the drinking water, and is sugar harmful in this complaint? She has been advised to drink a tea made from the digitalis plant. Is it good for her?"

Answer—The albumin found in eggs while similar to the albumin found in the urine is not the same and has no special bearing upon nephritis—the usual cause of albumin in the urine. I do not advise cream of tartar in the drinking water, nor sugar, for this condition. Digitalis is a poison and a tea made from it could not be beneficial in nephritis. The best thing for you to do would be to send me your name and address on a large stamped envelope so I can send you my articles on the subject, with complete instructions.

Milk and Stewed Fruit

Question—Mrs. R. D. H. asks: "Does milk combine with raisins, dates and figs, and is banana squash as starchy as the Hubbard squash?"

Answer—Milk combines well with dates, raisins, figs, or, in fact, any other fruit. Banana squash is practically as starchy as the Hubbard squash.

Stinging Tongue

Question—R. H. writes: "I have been troubled with a stinging in my tongue for a long time. It is getting on my nerves until I can't stand it much longer. I have tried the best doctors and they can't help me, so they told me to write to you."

Answer—There may a number of causes for the stinging sensation in your tongue. I appreciate the expression of confidence from your doctors and if you will send me their diagnosis of your case I will be very pleased to give you my advice.

Missouri Pacific Granted Cancellation of Trains

AUSTIN, Jan. 16. (AP)—The Missouri Pacific railroad today was authorized to discontinue several trains between Houston and Brownsville, Harlingen and Mission and Raymondville, Endinburg and San Juan.

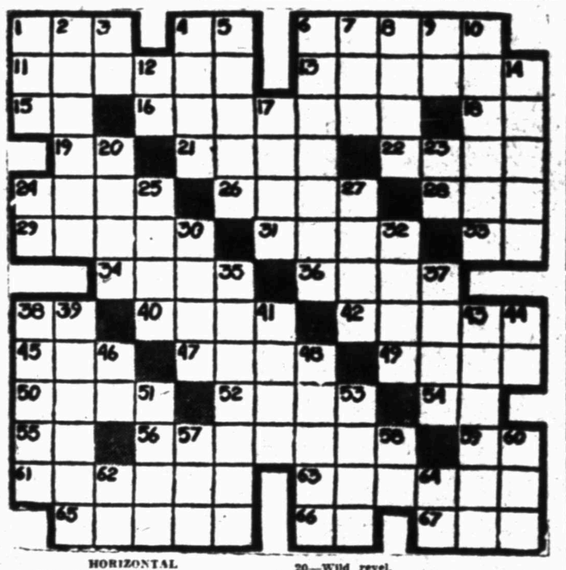

The railroad commission order provided that the substitute service proposed be inaugurated simultaneously with the discontinuances. The order becomes effective Sunday.

Indian Commissioner Arrives to Make Survey

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Jan. 16. (AP)—Charles H. Berry, a representative of the commissioner of Indian affairs, arrived here today to survey Indian relief needs.

About 75 per cent of the Indians of Adair county need help, he said, adding that only 12,000 Indians are wards of the federal government of this state, while 78,000 are not.

Today's Scoop

A person, or persons, in Houston is, or are, negotiating for the purchase of the Shreveport baseball club.

Fraternity Notes

Ray Andrews, former Spudder shortstop, hopes to sign either with a Pacific Coast league or New York-Penn outfit this year. Andrews reported here in 1926 but was shipped to Abilene. There he showed promise, but in the spring of '29 was sent to Tulsa. He didn't play professionally last year, except for semi-pro games in and near San Francisco. He was a discovery of Milton Steengrafe, who, it is reported, is giving the boy a recommendation to the New York-Penn.

Joe Cobb, of the Spudder catching staff of 1927, the year the . . . well, you know, THE YEAR . . . will manage the Harrisburg club of the New York-Penn this year.

Harry Kane, dean of the umps—a real umpire and gentleman if there ever was one—is anxious for the "grass to push through the roots," as Prexy Gardner says. Kane is in El Paso, his home.

Dick Florrid, promising hurler of last year, but skinny, has gained 15 pounds this winter, according to reports received by Guy Airey from Atlanta, Ga., Florrid's winter home.

Pete Turgeon, former Spudder infield ace, now a Brewer of Milwaukee, will be journeying to the frothy city about the middle of next month and start training; and Hal Wiltse, whom I last saw at the Olney-Slaton football game weeks ago, had better start packing soon, for he's due at the camp of the Phils about the same time.

The Spudder secretary is in receipt of a letter from Jack "Jasper" Crouch, a catcher Spudderland will be long forgetting.

Since last September Crouch has been here and there. Augusta and Atlanta, Ga., and Memphis, Tenn., among other places. In Atlanta he visited Florrid. In Memphis he visited Larry Bettencourt and John Illis, the latter of whom, remember, was with the Spuds the first part of last season. Bettencourt, said Jasper, was the talk of Memphis during the football season for the big slugger, coaching a professional football team, went further and played with his outfit. And, said Crouch, he certainly could wedge huge holes in the line, as of old when he was all-American center for St. Mary's.

Jasper said, among other things: "I enjoyed the past season more than any I have played so far. Everyone was on good terms with the other fellow, and hustling for the team. . . . In St. Louis I saw lots of major league pitching, and from what I saw I think I can hit it. . . . I intend to give somebody a battle for a catching job this year . . . "

New Pitcher Signed

Still another left-hander has been signed, the Spudder offices announced Friday. The latest is Dick Davis, rookie of Pond Creek, Okla., who was obtained on the recommendation of Buck Friel, manager of the Topeka club of the Western league. The Topekans trained in Ponca City last year, and Davis came under Friel's glance.

Thursday Prexy Huff announced acquisition of Doyle Taylor, southpaw prospect, from the Springfield, Mo., club, former Brown subsidiary. He was a whizz in the California winter leagues this year, it was said.

And so we have three southpaws to open up with, Wallace Herbert, the last of the trio, having been obtained from Topeka two weeks ago.

Another Argument

Every time my nose becomes visible around this corner it get's snapped at. The latest row is over a basket ball game Reagan Junior high played with Archer City some time last month. A few days ago an Archer City fan wrote stating the Archer City team had not been given proper credit in the news story of the game appearing in these columns, and we published the communication. Now a Reagan student, who does not sign his name, fires back. Meanwhile the Rambler steps aside and lets the warring tribes fight it out. I was out of the city at the time the game was played, out of the city when the news story in question appeared, and I hereby wash my hands of the matter. The Reagan student's letter, which we are glad to publish, follows:

Dear Rambler:

I read a letter that you published in your column last week that was written by a citizen of Archer City. In this letter the writer severely criticised a story for Reagan when they beat the Archer City Juniors 28-0.

The Reagan players certainly deserved the praise in spite of the fact that the Archer City booster thought that the Archer City team should have had more praise, although they didn't score a point.

I was a spectator at the game and happened to see the whole affair. The Archer City team played some boys equally as large as the Reagan players and not as small as the whiskers on a mosquito as one would think by reading the Archer City fan's letter. The Wildcats have the pick of material from the first to the ninth grade inclusive, which is a very large field, but the Reagan team can only pick from the seventh and eighth grades.

Therefore I say, Mr. Rambler, that the praise be given to the Reagan team instead of the team that couldn't score a point. I wouldn't call it "fairness" to give the laurels to a team that couldn't hit a barn door with a handful of rock salt. In defense of Reagan they deserve all the honors; because they won them with superior style of play, and the Archer City team certainly doesn't deserve any credit for failing to score in a basket ball game.

'WIFFY' SETS COURSE RECORD

Brooklyn Pro's Score Of 218 Sets Pace

By BRIAN BELL

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 16. (AP)—Wilfred H. (Wiffy) Cox, good natured Brooklyn professional, leaped into the lead of the $25,000 Agua Caliente open golf tournament by unloosing a sensational 69 on the classy field for a three-round total of 218.

The straight shooting and sure putting Wiffy was in the last threesome to leave the first tee, but he served notice on the crowd he might dislodge the serene John Golden from the temporary throne, when he covered the first nine holes in 34, where par is 36.

The smiling pro needed a par four at the home hole for a 68 which would have given him a two-stroke advantage. However, he pushed his brassie a bit and failed to reach the green in two, getting down in five.

Sets New Record

His 69 not only gave him the lead for the first 54 holes but established a new competitive record for the course. Gene Sarazen finished the big money competition last year with an amazing 68 to win first prize, but par then was 71. The course has been lengthened since then and par increased to 72.

Golden, who led the first two rounds, lost his chance to hold the position by erratic putting. He missed four short ones during the round and three times found it necessary to take three shots on the green. Big John's best today was 76, for a total of 219.

Ed Dudley also scored 76 today to take third place with a total of 220 a place shared with Horton Smith who had 73 today, and Clarance Clark, the big Tulsa, Okla., pro who contributed a sparkling 71.

Gene Stays at Level

Gene Sarazen, last year's winner, could not better his second round score of 75 and stood at 222 with Mortie Dutra, George von Elm and Ralph Guldahl.

Walter Hagen, the old master, furnished a sensational half round by galloping home in 34 strokes after he had used 39 going out. This 73 left him with a total of 223, tied with MacDonald Smith, who slumped to 77 today.

The score of Ray Mangrum of Dallas was 151—79-230.

Tilden May Be Barred From 'Lending' List

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—Unless the annual meeting of the United States Lawn Tennis association should overrule its ranking committee and reverse a rule it made in 1927, the name of William T. Tilden, 2nd., will be missing from the 1931 list of leading tennis players.

In 1927 the committee listed Vincent Richards, then a professional but who had finished the 1926 season as an amateur, as America's leading tennis player.

He had not turned professional until after the close of the season, the committee reasoned, and therefore was entitled to recognition in any list which purported to show the 1926 standings of the players.

The annual convention, however, overruled the committee, erased Richards' name from the list and passed the following resolution:

"None but amateurs at the time such rankings are officially, approved (which is at the annual meeting) shall be ranked by the committee."

This definitely disposes of "Big Bill" who joined the pro ranks Dec. 30—unless the meeting again should take things in its own hands. The ranking committee, headed by Dr. Philip B. Hawk, is barred by its own rule from considering Tilden in making up its list. The annual meeting of the U. S. L. T. A. will be held Feb. 14.

Megargel Independents Beat Archer City Team

Special to The Record News.

MEGARGEL, Texas, Jan. 16.—The Megargel Independents beat the Archer City Independents Wednesday night in a fast game. The score resulted in a 38 to 28 victory for the Megargelites. The game was heatedly contested throughout and the result was in doubt until the last quarter, when the Megargel team began ringing the basket rather consistently. Taylor and Walker were the outstanding players for Megargel, while Herron was the star for the Archer City squad.

MAX WINS IN THIRD ROUND

Referees Disagree on Count In Wild Confusion

By L. S. CAMERON
United Press Sports Editor

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Jan. 16.—Max Baer, newcomer in big time heavyweight circles, won over Tom Heeney of New Zealand, after one minute of fighting in the third round of their bout tonight when the California boxer unleashed a terrific right-handed smash which caught Heeney full in the face and drove him backward between the ropes entirely out of the ring.

Heeney was counted out as he rested, dazed, on one knee after being helped back through the ropes.

The decision, with Jack Dempsey refereeing, was given in the midst of an uproar of fans, officials and fighters' seconds.

While the decision created considerable confusion, there was no dispute as to the Californian's superiority.

Takes Early Lead

Baer had easily taken a lead in the first two rounds, with the New Zealander showing little against the Californian's offense. Heeney had started brilliantly in the first three minutes, only to fade before the terrific punches of his opponent.

In the third round, Baer tore savagely into Heeney with lefts and rights and after one minute of furious milling found his opening.

Baer's glove caught Heeney with a full smash to the face and the big New Zealander was hurled completely through the ropes.

Heeney sprawled over the tables of the press row and a dozen sports writers reached up to push him back through the ropes.

Meanwhile, Timekeeper Arthur Donovan had begun tolling the seconds and had counted to four, when Dempsey, in the ring, tried to pick up the count with him. Through a mischance in the uproar, Dempsey missed the beat by two. Heeney, in an apparent daze, was attempting to clear his head as he lay on the floor.

Heeney Counted Out

The big New Zealander slowly crawled to his knees, just as Dempsey reached the count of "eight." But here, Timekeeper Donovan, his voice shrilling over the mob, shouted "ten and out."

Pandemonium followed at the ringside. Heeney's seconds accused Dempsey of short counting. Sports writers began animated discussions whether this was a "technical knockout" or an actual one. The decision was that Bear had won the bout—actually and thoroughly, regardless of the count.

The match, coupled with the famous "long count" in the Tunney-Dempsey fight at Chicago and the equally famous event in which Firpo knocked Jack Dempsey through the ropes with one full-handed wallap, provides the third disputed major heavyweight fight in recent years.

The crowd was enthusiastic while the fight lasted and was eager to see it proceed.

As the officials were discussing the decision before their final announcement, the two fighters sat in their corners, laughing merrily. Both would have been able to continue the match if the officials had decided not to declare the bout ended by the knockout.

The fighters started the third round with the crowd hushed in expectancy of heavy action. There was an apparent understanding the Californian was intending to let himself go as they came to the center of the ring.

Heeney, however, pressed the battle at the outset, carrying the attack to Baer with a series of lefts and rights. Both men were badly cut.

Veteran Soon Tires

The Heeney attack was short-lived. The old veteran began to tire after the first brief exchange.

Then Baer took the offensive and opened up a heavy barrage of blows.

He smacked a volley of lefts and rights to the New Zealander's body and then stepped back to look for an opening for a knockout punch.

The opportunity came. Heeney's face was wide open. Baer plunged and drove home a smashing blow that caught Heeney off balance. Heeney fell and did a near parabola through the ropes.

CARNERA, UZCUDUN DENIED ADMISSION TO BOUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (UP)—Primo Carnera, Italy, and Paulino Uzcudun, of Spain, heavyweight boxers, were refused admission at Madison Square garden tonight. They had come to see the bout between Max Baer of California, and Tom Heeney of New Zealand.

They were stopped at the door although they possessed properly purchased admission tickets. The action was taken, it was said, on specific orders of the state boxing commission. The commission was invoking one of its "blue laws," which prohibits a suspended boxer from entering a licensed fight club.

Carnera is under suspension for having taken part in an alleged fixed bout in California. Paulino was suspended after he met Carnera in Barcelona recently. Garden officials professed ignorance of the barring.

The men who refused admission to Carnera and Paulino were said to be agents of the boxing commission, sent to the garden for that purpose.

BOXING BILL PASSED

DOVER, Del. Jan. 16. (UP)—The senate today passed the Delaware boxing bill by a vote of 11 to 4. The measure will go to the house.

The bill would create a state athletic commission of three members to be appointed by the governor.

Seattle Girls in Practice for Indoor Swim Championships

By FRANK GORRIE
Associated Press Sports Writer

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 16—Led by the incomparable Helene Madison, world's greatest woman swimmer, four Seattle girls will invade New York next March for the Women's National Indoor Swimming championships and they figure to establish a new 400-yard relay record.

Racing below the present recognized American mark of 4 minutes 23 4-5 seconds in practice the Seattle team, greatly assisted by the sensational Helene who is clicking off 100 yards in an even 60 seconds, expects to better the unofficial record of 4:19 2-5 made last year at Miami by the New York Women's Association quartet.

The Seattle girls—Babe Gilson, Edna McKibbin, Olive McKeen, and Miss Madison who virtually rewrote the whole women's record book last season when she established 12 world's marks and 26 new American figures—already have reached 4 minutes and 20 seconds. The girls are racing for the new Washington Athletic club.

Ray Daughters, coach of the W. A. C. team and the man who made Helene the greatest woman swimmer of all time, believes that his quartet can do 4:18 by March.

Daughters also figures that his girls may be able to capture the team championship. He plans to enter Miss Madison in the 100, 220 and 500 yard events and she is considered a cinch for first place in each for a total of 15 points. The 400-yard relay would give the Seattle girls another 10 points should they win it.

Helene also will enter the 100-yard backstroke and is being counted upon for either a first or second place. The other three girls will compete in free style events and may pick up a few more points.

Individually the girls have done better than the unofficial mark of 4:19 2-5 in the 400-yard relay but not as a team.

Miss Gilson has covered 100 yards in 1:05, Miss McKibbin has done 1:06 and Miss McKeen has turned in 1:07. These times added to Helene's 60 seconds total 4:18.

The present American record was set by Gertrude Ederle, Aileen Riggin, Adelaide Lambert and Helen Wainwright, of the New York Women's Swimming association in Miami, Feb. 24, 1925.

Last year Eleanor Holm, Lisa Linstrom, Katherine Ames and Adelaide Lambert accomplished 4:19 2-5.

OLIVE McKEEN, EDNA McKIBBIN, BABE GILSON, HELENE MADISON

The recognized American mark for the 400-yard relay already is at the mercy of four Seattle girls training at the Washington Athletic club for the women's national indoor swimming championships to be held in New York in March.

PORKERS WHIP AGGIES, 30-19

Horned Frogs Victorious Over Steers, 40-19

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Jan. 16. (UP)—Arkansas university defeated the Texas Aggies, 30 to 19, here tonight.

Arkansas led throughout the game and the Aggies never threatened. Pickren, with nine points, was high scorer for the Porkers. Marcum led the Aggies with eight. The teams will meet again Saturday.

TOADS HOLD LEAD ENTIRE DISTANCE

FORT WORTH, Jan. 16. (AP)—Leading the hard-fighting Texas university Longhorns all the way, but never far in front, the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs defeated the Steers here tonight, 40 to 19.

"Too Tall" Dietzel, speedy basket shooter from San Antonio, was high point man with 18.

"Bull" Elkins was the high scorer for the Longhorns with eight markers.

Denton Teachers Whip Abilene Christians, 22-11

DENTON, Texas, Jan. 16. (AP)—The Denton Teachers' college Eagles tonight defeated the Abilene Christian college basketeers, 33 to 17, in the first of a two-game series. Taking an early lead, the Eagles led, 22 to 11, at the half and reserves easily maintained the advantage in the final period. Douglas, Denton center, was individual high scorer with 14 points and Cummings, Denton forward, was second with 10 points. Reynolds, Abilene substitute forward, carried most of the offensive burden for his team, making eight points. The two teams will meet again tomorrow night.

Sul Ross Teachers Down McMurry College

ABILENE, Texas, Jan. 16. (AP)—Substitute Johnny Shaddix fired a steady stream of shots through the basket here tonight to defeat McMurry college, 39 to 23, and send the Sul Ross State Teachers from Alpine away on the right foot in the western divisional race of the T. I. A. A. McMurry led, 14 to 13, at the half, but in the second round Shaddix scored 17 points bringing his night's total to 21. Jim McKenzie was the Indians' high man with six field goals.

Art Shires to Sign With Brewers Jan. 21

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 16. (UP)—Art Shires, newly acquired first baseman of the Milwaukee American association baseball club, today notified President Louis M. Nahin he would come here Jan. 21 to sign his 1931 contract. Shires also will appear at a downtown vaudeville house.

Perryton Teams Whip Basketeers of Pampa

Special to The Record News.

PERRYTON, Texas, Jan. 16.—Perryton Rangers and Rangerettes won a double-header basket ball battle in Pampa Thursday evening against the boys and girls of that place. Rangers won 20 to 16 and Rangerettes won decisively, 39 to 26. The local teams defeated Farnsworth boys and girls at that place Wednesday night, 21 to 19 and 26 to 11 before making the trip to Pampa.

Mangum Basketeers Win Double-Header

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Jan. 16.—Mangum High school's powerful basket ball teams added further notches to their victory belts Tuesday night by copping both ends of a double-header on the local hardwood. The Tigers hung up a 22 to 14 victory over Snyder, while the Tigerettes swamped the Bayra lassies to a score of 77 to 16.

Amazing Growth of High School Football Shown in Grid Report

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—Forty thousand persons are banked in a great stadium at Dallas, Texas. Brilliantly dressed cheering sections on either side of the field break the drab greys and browns of the sea of overcoats and hats. On the field two teams of eleven men each rouch, then thud together. The stands roar.

Texas playing Southern Methodist?

No. It's North Dallas and Sunset High schools waging their annual football war.

Similar scenes were enacted at San Francisco last fall when Polytechnic played Lowell High school before a crowd of 30,000 and several schoolboy games in New York City drew over 20,000 through the gates.

Allentown and Bethlehem High schools, in Pennsylvania, play every year before larger crowds than Lehigh and Lafayette draw.

The amazing growth of high school football is shown by figures gathered by Parke H. Davis, sage of Easton, Pa., and statistician to his majesty, the king of inter-collegiate and interscholastic sport, and by the Associated Press.

There are approximately 10,000 high school teams in the United States, Davis estimates, representing about 250,000 players, almost 20 times the number of schools and players of collegiate rank.

In every state except Nevada they are organized much more closely than are most college groups, by river valleys in Massachusetts, by cities and counties in New York state, by arbitrarily defined sectors in Pennsylvania, by some similar method in other states.

High school football is self-sustaining, as is the college sport, and pays the expenses in most instances of its less popular brothers—basket ball, tennis, baseball and track.

The survey made by Davis brought out the interesting fact that only a small proportion of these high school football players continue the sport when they go to college. He interprets this as indicating the youngsters are more interested in scholastic attainments than they are in athletic achievements and finding the college curricula exacting, they voluntarily drop football in order to get the most from their studies.

Farrell Claims Golfers Over-Emphasize Scores

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 16. (AP)—Golf has reached the point where too much attention is paid to tournament scores and not enough to the mechanics of the game, Johnny Farrell, former national open champion, said today.

Farrell related his views along the lines of golfing here as he left for St. Augustine to prepare for defense of his title in the Pensacola open next month.

"I know, and every professional or amateur golfer knows, when the game is right," he said. "You have a feeling when you've hit your stride, and when you know that, you know the play and not the score is the important thing."

Jean Lacoste to Be Back in Tennis Wars

PARIS, Jan. 16. (AP)—Jean Rean Lacoste, 25 years old, builder of motor cars, possessor of what has been described as the world's most perfect tennis technique, is coming back to the tennis wars this year.

Hindered by bronchitis in the 1926 campaign and forced from competition entirely in 1929 by ill health, the slim young Frenchman believes he has recovered sufficiently in body to take out his tennis racket again and match strokes with the great of the courts.

Maryville Outfielder Signs With Red Sox

BOSTON, Jan. 16. (UP)—The Boston Red Sox tonight announced receipt of the signed contract of John C. Lucas of Maryville, Ill., outfielder.

Lucas was purchased last season from the McCook club of the Nebraska State league. During the 1930 season he took part in 111 games and had a batting average of .347.

ATLANTA, Jan. 16.—Turn back the years to Jan. 17, 1921.

The scene is a small, poorly-lighted fight club on a side street here. It's early in the program and the prelims are just starting.

A pair of ambitious young bantamweights are dancing about in their corners. One is Kid Domb, "champeen" of Atlanta's newsies. The other is a slim, 16-year-old, 126-pound blond youngster making his first professional appearance.

In his corner is a rotund, little man, continually chattering. He's a former circus acrobat. The youngster's an acrobat, too. They're a family act and the kid has been fighting his younger brother and also "taking" all comers of weight at the big tent parked in town after town.

First Money Fight

But this is the first money-fight and both are a little nervous. The gong sounded. The youthful acrobat circles Domb, jabbing and slashing away. Domb, using the tactics acquired in his street brawls with the city's newsboys, swings them high and wise.

The final bell. And Young Stribling had won a four-round decision in his first professional fight. Pa Stribling hurried the boy into their car and started for Macon, where the father was then driving a taxicab between the city and Camp Wheeler.

Ten years have passed since that cold, January evening. Years that have seen this young battler pack on weight and advance from one division to another until he grew into a heavyweight. Years that saw him receive the name "king of the canebreakers" as he toured the country with his family, jumping from town to town and fighting as often as three times a week.

Heads Knockout Record

The long stretch saw him gather an all-time record for knockouts, more than 200. Hundreds of fights, here and abroad, most of them victories, some heart-breaking defeats and a scattering of draws. But he was never knocked out.

He has faced two world champions—Michael McTigue, the County Claire Irishman, and Paur Berlenbach.

The scene shifts to New York. It's 1931.

Pa, who has guided W. L. through the long climb, is gabbing with promoters. They argue, concede a few points, and argue some more.

Finally—well, you know the rest. Stribling is to meet the champion, Max Schmeling of Germany, for the world's heavyweight title. The hill has been steep but the top is near. At least, that's the way the Striblings—father and son and "Ma" feel about it.

RUNNERS TO COMPETE

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (UP)—Sera Martin and Paul Keller, French middle distance runners, will compete in alternate meets beginning with the Millrose A. A. on Feb. 7 and ending with the American championships Feb. 28, it was announced today by the Amateur Athletic union.

WACO DEAL IS EXPECTED SOON

Galveston Makes Definite Offer of $23,500

WACO, Texas, Jan. 16. (AP)—C. R. Turner, president of the Waco Baseball club, announced tonight a definite proposition had been received from Galveston interests for purchase of the Waco franchise of the Texas league and that unless somebody in this city met or bettered the proposition tomorrow the offer would be accepted Monday.

The Waco president announced the Galveston offer as $23,500, the same consideration Waco paid Galveston for the franchise when Texas league baseball was last resumed in this city.

President Turner issued a complete financial statement of the operation of the club from March 1, 1925, to Nov. 5, 1930, showing a loss on the operations of $151,122.81 for the six years, offset by $161,536.67 from the sale of players, and making the total six-year profits $10,413.86, or less than $2,000 a year.

Without the sale of ball players, the club went "in the hole" every year, without exception, in sums varying from $18,000 to $31,000. Even with sale of ball players, the club lost money three of the six years, and last year its net loss was $11,513.31.

He called attention to the fact the Waco club was operated at a lower cost than any other club in the Texas league; that Seth Mayfield, secretary and Sam Evans, assistant, draw less salary than those in similar situations, and that he, Turner, as president, has never drawn any salary, although most clubs do pay their president.

He said the financial statement was to show how difficult it had been to maintain ball club in Waco. There has been a tendency, he said, during the past two years to reduce players' salaries and to reduce the expense of conducting teams in the Texas league and the last year "we conducted our club at an expense of $89,000, whereas the usual expenditure in the Texas league runs $100,000 to $150,000."

MOODY EXPECTS TO CLOSE DEAL TODAY

GALVESTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—Shearn Moody, capitalist at the head of a stock company which is attempting to purchase the Waco Texas league franchise expressed confidence tonight the deal would be completed tomorrow.

Moody also announced the site of the Galveston ball park and stated that the island city would have one of the most modern and up to date baseball plants in the South. It will be illuminated for night baseball.

Derrill Pratt, manager of the Cubs, who will come here in the same capacity if the deal is concluded, has gone to Waco to speed completion of the deal there.

Altus Wrestling Champion Injured

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., Jan. 16.—J. W. (Red) Stacy, 18-year-old high school heavyweight wrestling champion, was seriously injured today when he fell from a truck loaded with furniture.

Stacy was helping move equipment into the new high school building and was holding furniture on the heavily loaded truck. When the car went around a corner he lost his balance and fell to the pavement. He suffered possible fracture of the skull, lacerated ear and a broken shoulder.

Stacy, captain of the Altus High school wrestling team, won a quick victory over the Clinton champion in a match last night. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stacy.

A.&M. ATHLETIC MANAGER QUITS

Sullivan Resigns Following Alumni Criticism

DALLAS, Jan. 16. (AP)—The Dallas Morning News said tonight that James Sullivan, for nearly 12 years business manager of athletics at Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college, at College Station, had resigned. He tendered his resignation to the faculty athletic council at a meeting at College Station last night and it was accepted. No reason for his action was given.

Sullivan left College Station for a business trip today and could not be reached for a statement, although he was believed to have gone to Houston. School officials declined to comment.

Alumni Criticism Blamed

It was believed criticism by Aggie alumni prompted him in his decision. Rumors today linked his name with Centenary college at Shreveport, La., and Texas Technological college at Lubbock, as a prospect for a position with one of these institutions similar to that he left at College Station.

He held various secretarial positions at A. & M. before becoming the school's athletic business manager in 1919. The Farmers' Athletic plant, valued at only about $10,000 when he took charge, grew into one of the finest in the Southwest, now including the Kyle field stadium valued at around $350,000. As well as a modern baseball diamond and grandstand and the large A. & M. Memorial gymnasium. During his administration, the Aggies were the only members to win four conference grid championships during that period.

Severed Fair Contract

The real pressure that led to his resignation was believed to have been the outgrowth of his severance of relations with the State Fair association of Texas. Recently, reputedly at his request, A. & M. was released from a contract to play an annual football game at the exposition here. As a result, the Aggies' 1931 appearance here against the University of Iowa will be the Farmers' last appearance at the fair unless a new contract is signed by Sullivan's successor. Southern Methodist university already has assumed the unfinished portion of the A. & M. contract and will appear twice during the exposition.

Although no action was taken by the A. & M. athletic council in naming Sullivan's successor, that was expected to be done as soon as possible.

Walters Gravels Streets of City

Special to The Record News.

WALTERS, Okla., Jan. 16.—Gravel surface has been applied to 23 blocks of street in Walters during the past six weeks. Funds for the work were made available through the collection of street tax within the city. As has been the rule in years past, the taxpayer was given the privilege of paying the tax, working two days or hiring someone else to do the work. This year the work has been given to unemployed citizens of the town and has greatly relieved the unemployment situation here in addition to securing the improvement of several additional streets.

Crowell Trims Paducah, Plays Olney Friday

Special to The Record News.

CROWELL, Texas, Jan. 16.—The Crowell High school basketeers tonight won their 17th game in as many starts this season when they limited the helpless Paducah quintet to one field goal and three free shots to win, 63 to 5. Lanier was the leader of a Crowell scoring spree that was kept up all through the game, the forward ringing up 16 points all by his lonesome. Craig punctured the basket for Paducah's sole field counter in the second period.

Next week will offer Crowell fans a real spectacle when the Olney Cubs, heavy district favorites, play here. Estelline, winner of many honors in past seasons, has already been defeated by Crowell and Childress, and the Cubs offer the biggest hurdle in the district race so far. Crowell is established as a bitter contender, however, and when the two meet next Friday each will be fighting for the rank of favorite.

Tonight's game was a practice affair. Score:

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—Trading in cotton continued comparatively quiet today, with an early advance in response to relatively steady cables followed by partial reactions under realizing which may have been coupled with a little Southern selling. The undertone of the market, however, was generally steady and March contracts, after easing off from 10.24 to 10.15, closed at 10.20, compared with 10.17 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at net advances of 2 to 7 points.

The hope that a general lockout of weavers in the Lancashire district would be averted as a result of recent government intervention in the more looms per weaver disputes, may have contributed to the earlier steadiness. Notices representing about 3,300 bales were reported against new January contracts but there was evidently a demand for the cotton as spot houses bought the near months against sales of later deliveries without much change in the prevailing differences.

Liverpool was slightly higher than due on the New York close of Thursday. Cable advices said the steadiness was due to trade calling and covering and also reported an improved inquiry for cotton cloths from Bombay, but said sales of cotton yarns were below production. Business in the market here included further exchanges or switches from near to late months with the market narrow enough to be influenced by comparatively small orders.

Exports today 22,683, making 4,299,237 so far this season. Port receipts 29,107; U. S. port stocks a4,077,969.

Futures closed steady, 3 to 7 points higher; spot, steady; middling, 10.15.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 16. (AP)—Trading was again extremely moderate in the cotton market here today and long intervals prevailed at times between trades. As Liverpool cables were slightly better than due the market opened 1 to 3 points up and continued to gain slowly in the early trading on reports of a more favorable outlook for the settlement of the Lancashire labor troubles. Prices soon turned somewhat easier owing to lack of buying support and near noon there was an additional small decline on rather bearish weekly statistics, particularly disappointing mill takings.

Prices in the early afternoon showed losses of 8 to 10 points from the early highs. The market rallied some in the late trading recovering 5 to 7 points owing to an advance in the stock market and closed near the highs, the general market being called steady at net gains for the day of 2 to 3 points.

Liverpool came in 1 to 2 penny points better than due and first trades here showed gains of 1 to 3 points. There was a further gain of 4 to 5 points above the previous close in the early trading, March advancing to 10.22 and May to 10.46. Private cables stated the trade called and shorts covered absorbing scattered liquidation. Manchester reported improved cloth inquiry from India but sales of yarns below production. Later March eased off to 10.12 and May to 10.38 or 8 to 10 points below the early highs and 5 to 6 points below the previous close.

The market though continuing quiet in the late trading advanced 5 to 7 points owing to firmness in stocks and shorts covering. March closed at 10.19, up 2 points on the day and October closed at 10.80 up 3 points net. These were the only months active at the end.

Port receipts 42,318. For week 120,806. for season, 1,290,636. Last season 7,264,005; exports 22,683; for week 96,524. For season 4,178,213; last season 4,525,288, port stocks 4,209,042, last year 2,593,399. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 69,985, last year 133,786. Spot sales at southern markets 9,844, last year 16,565.

Futures closed steady at net advance of 2 to 3 points:

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (AP)—Cotton goods held barely steady today, with business developing on blankets more freely. Raw silk advanced in Japan, China, and Italy and sales were more active. Silk goods being pushed hard for spring sale. Additional sales of burlaps for future shipment were consummated. Further orders were received for spring men's wear fabrics. Clothing manufacturers are becoming busier on spring delivery goods.

Short Covering Brings Technical Advance in Closing Trading

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Jan. 16. (US)—The stock market today closed somewhat higher than the preceding day, but the net advances could be attributed almost entirely to short covering which increased in volume in the final hour.

Since nothing appeared to warrant any decided change in the trend, it is fair to assume that the covering was induced primarily by an overcrowded position, for the time being at least, among the shorts. In other words, the market was reflecting almost exclusively its internal, or technical position.

Volume exceeded by small margin the million-share total. During the early trading, prices were inclined to continue the slow drift toward lower levels which had marked recent sessions, but during the extreme mid-day dullness quotations stiffened and then improved.

The market lacked any assistance from commodities, wheat and corn declining. Foreign news was of uncertain tone, with continued discussion regarding Germany's possible early seeking of a moratorium or something tantamount to a moratorium.

Silver provided little cheer, dipping back to its historical low of a week ago.

Bearish pressure seemed to be concentrated against Bethlehem Steel and the issue was forced to within a fraction of its extreme low. Offerings, however, were persistently absorbed and the stock lost less than a point net for the day. It is likely that a good deal of the buying was for short account taking advantage of the heaviness of the stock.

Actually, Bethlehem was the only one of the most active stocks of the day to close lower. This also suggested that considerable covering was proceeding in other parts of the list under cover of the weakness in Bethlehem.

Steel common failed to join Bethlehem in its decline, the premier industrial closing up almost two points net. For one thing, it was evident that it was becoming more difficult for bears to borrow stock. While this very frequently is an unfavorable omen, suggesting artificial stimulus to the market, it quite frequently forces short covering and leads to a rally.

Encouraged by the market's tendency toward dullness following the previous day's setback, numerous pools resumed activities in the hope of attracting public following. This was evident in many stocks. The short covering, which took place chiefly among the leading stocks, furnished the background for the group activities.

Warner Brothers, whose large-scale activity obviously reflects pool activity, gained a fraction as its sponsors continued to talk of favorable developments affecting the company. Even lowly Richfield, expressing relief that the equity receivership has finally developed after months of uncertainty, recovered a half point of its decline. The Alaska-Juneau pool marked up its pet a half point.

American Safety Razor achieved a point gain and closed at its high on renewed activities on the part of interests recently become identified with the stock.

Johns-Manville, which is a favorite of those endeavoring to stabilize the market, was among the first to recover from the early dullness and achieved a net advance of 2½ points. This stock is strongly supported on all setbacks.

Railroad shares were firm throughout the day, on reports of a favorable announcement soon to come from Washington. Well-informed railroad circles are aware of the expected news, which has to do with valuation methods.

Some important railroad people consider the development significant, although not particularly vital in respect to the near-term outlook for the Rails.

The principal problem of the railroads is the lack of traffic, not mergers or valuation methods. The news, however, will mark a further step in the program for rehabilitating the earning power of the railroads.

Money continued extremely easy, while bond prices in the main held within a narrow range except among the U. S. government issues, some of which attained new highs.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Jan. 16. (AP)—Good demand and more optimism prevailed on the cash grain market today with dealers welcoming the slightly increased offerings. Estimated receipts were: Wheat, 17 cars; corn, 4; oats, 3; barley, 1, and sorghums, 4 cars. No. 1 hard wheat of any protein was selling around 80@81½c, basis delivered Texas common points.

Quotations on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn, No. 2 mixed 76½@77½c; No. 2 white 79@80c; No. 2 95 per cent white, 78@79c, and No. 2 yellow 78½@79½c.

Oats, No. 2 red, 45@46c.

Sorghums, No. 2 milo per 100 pounds $1.32@1.35; No. 2 kafir $1.30@1.33.

Dealers quoted No. 3 oats delivered group one at 43½@43¾c, to which add one cent for delivery group three.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 16. (AP)—Wheat underwent a maximum setback of 4⅛ cents a bushel today, compared with yesterday's best level. Selling ascribed to farm board allies accompanied the break, which also was influenced by a fresh decline in Liverpool quotations bringing the Liverpool market down to near its recent low record unparalleled in 350 years. Enlarged shipments from southern hemisphere countries and rains over parts of India were additional bearish factors.

Wheat closed unsettled ⅝@1⅜ cents down, corn ¼@⅝c off, oats at ⅛c decline to ⅛c advance, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents up.

Indications that Argentina and Australia were capturing the lion's share of export business whereas export business from the United States was at an absolute standstill as much commented upon. Besides, the United States wheat visible supply has been increased instead of decreasing as usual at this time of year. Primary receipts were 1,006,000 bushel, an amount greater than last week and more than double that of a year ago.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat. Corn was also affected by word that corn in Argentina had dropped to below 30 cents a bushel.

Provisions reflected a rise in hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, May 82@82⅛c, 82⅞c; July 65⅝@66c, 67⅛@⅝c. Corn, March 67¼c, 68⅝c; May 69⅝@½c, 70⅜@⅞c; July 70½c, 72⅛c.

PIT NOTES

CHICAGO, Jan. 16. (US)—One of the chief deterrents to bullish enthusiasm in corn has been the cheap offerings from Argentine. With the price per bushel in that country below 30c, shippers are offering corn laid down in New York duty paid for around 66 cents a bushel.

This situation has attracted interest toward the movement under way in Washington to embargo importations of grain and dairy products.

The January report on ranges points out that the unusually open winter has resulted in savings of feed in practically all of the range states.

There have been rains in parts of India, but the Punjab continues in need of moisture, cables say.

TEXAS VEGETABLES

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 16. (AP) (U. S. D. A.)—Carlot shipments of fruits and vegetables from Texas Thursday: Spinach, 63; cabbage, 57; carrots, 3; beets, 22; grapefruits, 24; potatoes, 4; greens, 6; turnips, 6; mixed vegetables, 70; sweet potatoes, 4.

The spinach market was fully firm with good demand and inquiry at South Texas shipping points Thursday. Carloads cash track mostly 50c per bushel; usual terms 55@60c with many shippers holding for higher prices. Lower valley points report the cabbage market dull with cash price in carloats from $18@20 per ton. Beets were weaker at $1.15@1.35 per crate f. o. b. Cash track and carrots were also slightly weaker at $1.15@1.25 on the same basis.

Spinach at New York Friday: Firm, Texas bushels $1.00@1.12½. At Chicago firm; Texas bushels 90@95c.

Cabbage at Chicago dull; Texas western crates round type mostly around $1.95. At New York: Texas western crates $2.75@3.00

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 16. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Fat lambs trade around the 11-market circuit was active at firm to unevenly higher prices with late advance of 25@50c at Chicago. On the close, in Chicago packers purchased several loads of choice lambs at $8.75@8.90 while at some of the river markets choice fed wooled offerings reached $8.50. Matured killing classes of sheep ruled steady to strong. The supply approximated 32,800.

There was a reaction on hogs with prices unevenly steady to 25c higher. Trade was especially irregular on strong weight butchers. The top of $8.45 was paid at St. Louis. Total offerings were around 107,000.

Receipts of cattle were estimated at 10,900. Although the supply of killing cattle was quiet to moderate, trade was slow with the week's tone prevailing. Omaha had a top of $12.00 on yearling steers while the bulk of short fed steers at river points cashed from $7.75@10.00. Short fed heifers are selling relatively low as compared with steers, the majority going at $7.00@9.00 and occasional loads reaching the $10.00 mark.

AID ASSURED FARM PEOPLE

Tillman County Relief Plans Drawn

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Jan. 16.—More than 50 members of school boards and numerous other representative citizens from over the county attended a meeting at the court room Wednesday when Dr. J. D. Osborne Jr., chairman of the Tillman County Red Cross, and Mr. Baker of the American Red Cross, explained how this organization is caring for those who need aid because of the recent unprecedented drouth. Osborne estimated fully $60,000 will be required to furnish food, fuel and clothing to the large number of people who have been left penniless.

For the past few years several hundred dollars each year have been sent to the national Red Cross from membership dues in this county. This is the second time that fund have been sent from the national Red Cross to this county, the first being two years ago because of the tornadoes which visited the northwest part of this county and adjacent counties. This is the first time for many years that the national Red Cross has not asked for a membership roll call from Tillman county.

Every school board member is asked to help obtain a survey of the district to find those in need of food, fuel, clothing, medical attention, feed for stock and seed. Several hundred application blanks have been prepared.

Osborne further explained that national officers of the Red Cross had wired him that not only are none of our citizens to suffer for the necessities of life but that none of the stock will starve if instructions for obtaining relief are properly carried out.

Most of those calling for aid are people who picked cotton last fall and did everything else they could find to do. Their present condition was brought about by no fault of their own, Osborne said.

Included in those who are calling for aid are 190 negro families in Frederick alone. They are being aided the same as the whites.

The seriousness of the meeting was interspersed by a little laughter when Osborne, who has been giving hours of his valuable time gratis told of one man who had come to him and because he was not given immediate aid threatened to report Osborne to Murray.

Fire Destroys Hotel At Holdenville, Okla.

Members of the family and guests escaped through windows in their night clothes.

The damage was estimated at $12,500.

War Veteran Meets Pal Of '98 at Breck Meeting

Special to The Record News.

SAGERTON, Texas, Jan. 16.—Dave Guinn, a resident of this section for more than 25 years, attended recently in Breckenridge a district meeting of Spanish-American war veterans, with whom he fought in 1898 in the war that ended Spanish rule in America and caused Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines to pass to the United States. This reunion afforded Guinn the opportunity of meeting again a war comrade, Judge Frank S. Roberts, whom he had not seen in 30 years.

You'd Pay 98 Cents For $20 a Month Income!

A Classified Ad can find someone to live in that extra room that is now vacant in your cozy home. Why not place your ad today for tomorrow's (Sunday) issue of the Daily Times and let it go into practically every home in Wichita Falls.

Probably $20.00 or $25.00 a month can be secured regularly and would be a very nice income for you . . . and the Classified Ad that rents it will probably not cost you but 98 cents for 10 words, if paid in advance, for a three-day run, when you place your ad, or will not cost you over $1.15, if you have the ad charged, to run the same number of days. The prices quoted above include both papers.

WANT AD HEADQUARTERS

Electra News

Members of the Church of Christ gave a surprise party Friday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. Milton Woolard at their home near Electra. Mr. and Mrs. Woolard plan to leave soon and make their home on a farm near Oklaunion. They have been active members of the local congregation for a number of years.

Games, contests and songs were the diversions of the evening. Mrs. C. K. Orr gave a reading after which delicious refreshments were served.

Those present were Messrs. and Mesdames J. T. Peters, Marion Bray, Orville Richardson, Dave Daggs, Harlan Shofner, Byrne Shofner, A. Jacobs, Proffitt, Clifford Robertson, Charlie Horton, Jodie McClinton, Amos Bates, H. K. Davis, Mesdames Charlie Dixon, J. R. Dennington and C. K. Orr.

Demonstration Club

Mrs. P. J. Weaver, reporter for the Beaver Creek Home Demonstration club, will be hostess at the next meeting of the club on Jan. 22 at her home on the Continental Burnett lease. The last meeting of the club was held at the home of Mrs. T. L. Jones on the Lazy J ranch. At noon a bountiful luncheon was served to 16 ladies. In the afternoon the president, Mrs. R. J. Bradley, called the meeting to order. The meeting was opened with the club prayer by all the members and was followed with a song service led by Miss Ethel Luise Webb, home demonstration agent. A short business session preceded the program.

Miss Webb gave an interesting discussion of plans for a living room and also a demonstration on making braided mats.

Those present were Mesdames Bradley, Richardson, Claer, Everett, Jinks, McAllister, Bingham, Weaver, Jones, Harrington, members, and guests, Mesdames Foset and Scott, and Miss Violette Guthrie.

Bridge Club

Mrs. J. O. O'Pry was hostess to the members and guests of the Primo Bridge club at her home on West Ida Thursday afternoon. Four tables were arranged for the games in which Mrs. C. P. Engelking won high score for the members and Mrs. B. F. Butler high for the guests.

At the conclusion of the games a delicious two course luncheon was served to Mesdames I. K. Williams, J. H. Harris, George Lebus, C. P. Engelking, A. S. Haaf, T. H. Parmley, B. V. Magee, McDannald, members; Mesdames Robert McCann, H. H. Pearlman, M. R. Stipe, George McCann, H. D. Miller, George Williams, B. F. Butler and C. R. Conyers.

HOW FARMERS OBTAIN LOANS

Procedure for Drouth Aid Applicants Explained

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16. (AP)—This is how the farmer in the drouth or storm area may obtain a loan from the $45,000,000 emergency appropriation:

He makes application to the community or county committee set up under the seed loan administration. This committee, usually consisting of three prominent citizens representing farming, banking and business interests, assists him in filling out his application and promissory note.

The committee then sends the collateral paper together with its recommendations to the regional field office of the seed loan bureau. At this office the amount which the farmer may receive is determined.

When the application is approved the farmer is sent a voucher for the amount of his loan or an installment of the total amount, the balance to be paid as needed.

The loan is made on a promissory note bearing 5 per cent interest and is secured by a crop mortgage or lien.

Loans can be made for purposes of buying feed for work stock, seed and fertilizer and for farm machinery fuel for putting in the crop.

In counties where committees have not yet been set up, the work of forming them is proceeding.

Wellington Club Women Name Heads

Special to The Record News

WELLINGTON, Texas, Jan. 16.—Members of the City Federation of Women's clubs held their annual election of officers this week at which time the following were named for service during the new year: Mrs. W. Y. Burden, president; Mrs. Chester Fires, vice president; Mrs. L. C. Hill, secretary treasurer; Mrs. Clark Anderson, reporter; Mrs. S. P. Buster, trustee.

Objectives outlined for work during the new club year by members of the federation are as follows: To further develop a cooperative and cultural community spirit; to delay steps toward the crystallization of the clubhouse building plans for the present time; to add $5 per year per member to the federation treasury; to work toward securing a dean of women for the high school; to mother the county library and the city park; to cooperate with the county home demonstration agent; to assist with the "Better Homes" movement started last year by Mrs. J. B. Castleberry; to place a county history and relic exhibit with the Panhandle-Plains Historical society at Canyon.

Activities of the city federation during the past year were both of a financial and civic improvement nature. A substantial sum of money to the building fund was added to the treasury by various methods, while the civic improvement objectives were directed toward the betterment of the county library and the improvement of Ellison park.

Horticultural Expert Aids Iowa Park Work

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Jan. 16.—Dr. S. H. Yarnell, horticulturalist of the experiment station system, College Station, visited Texas experiment substation, No. 16, Wednesday and Thursday, assisting the superintendent, C. H. McDowell, in outlining horticultural work and activities for the year.

Mr. McDowell stated that planting of nursery stock and pruning of the orchard would start at once. The station is contributing trees to the "Plant-a-Tree" club recently started in Iowa Park, which will be distributed by the officers of the club to those desirous of planting and unable to purchase trees. Mr. McDowell stated that seeding pecans were included in the trees being offered for distribution.

Quiz Due for Study Club in Iowa Park

Special to The Record News.

IOWA PARK, Texas, Jan. 16.—Mrs. B. L. Turner will be hostess to the 23 Study club at her home next Thursday afternoon, Jan. 22, at 2:45. The meeting will be devoted to a parliamentary drill, consisting of 60 questions, half to be asked by the new president, Mrs. C. L. Moody, and half by Mrs. John B. Barbour, the newly elected parliamentarian. Mrs. Moody will ask questions listed under the group, "What Each Club Member Should Know?" Mrs. Marbour will ask from the group, "What Each President and Secretary Should Know?" All members are requested to be present.

STRANG SPEAKS HERE SUNDAY

Dallas Pastor to Talk On Work for Peace

Residents of the Wichita Falls district will be provided the fifth free lecture program of the Wichita Falls Open Forum Sunday afternoon, Jan. 18, when Dr. Max Strang, pastor of the Congregational church at Dallas, will be presented in an address on "Are We Makers of Peace?"

Dr. Strang established himself firmly with members of the Junior chamber of commerce as a dynamic and convincing speaker when he delivered an address at their annual banquet held in December. In addition to the recommendations which they have voiced, Dr. Strang has a reputation gained from a wide experience as a lecturer throughout the country.

His talk here Sunday afternoon will concern itself with possibilities of a permanent peace among the nations, and with weapons which may be utilized by the public to accelerate such a fulfillment of an age-old hope.

Dr. Strang's address will be preceded by a 30-minute musical program to begin at 3 o'clock.

Weather Delays Trip Of Air Line Officials

R. Kenneth Evans, general traffic manager, and other officials of the Western Air Service corporation, failed to arrive in Wichita Falls Friday as planned. The officials were to have been here Friday to complete arrangements for the inauguration of the nation's first north to south air line, between Sioux City, Iowa, and Wichita Falls.

Officials of the company were to have flown from Salina, Kan., where the general offices of the company are located. John Boswell, manager of the chamber of commerce here, expressed the opinion that the failure of their arrival probably was due to adverse flying conditions, and that the official party probably will not be here until next week.

CAMP FIRE PARTY

Camp Fire Girls and their friends will gather in the basement of the First Presbyterian church Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock to have a "fun frolic." Games will be enjoyed until 8 o'clock when progressive bunco will begin. After refreshments are served a singsong and possibly more group games will close the evening's activities. The proceeds will go toward the financing of the guardians institute to be held here in April, to be conducted by Miss Ruby Lattimore of the national field staff. Tickets for the party are 25 cents.

Today

At the Theaters

By ELEANOR FLEMING

STRAND: "The Lash" with Richard Barthelmess, Mary Astor, Rosita Moreno. Short subjects and sound news.

MAJESTIC: Ronald Colman and Kay Francis in "Raffles." George Sidney and Charlie Murray in "Rolling Along." Sound news.

STATE: "The Birth of a Nation," synchronized. Comedy, short novelties and sound news.

GEM: Jose Bohr, Raymond Hatton and Myrna Loy in "Rogue of the Rio Grande." Chapter No. 6 of "Spell of the Circus" and Talkartoon comedy.

"The Lash" is a Mexican and Southern California version of Billy the Kid, with Richard Barthelmess as "El Puma" (Question: Why was the picture not called "El Puma"?)

◇ ◇ ◇

The hero turns his back on the lovely Rosita (played by Mary Astor) to get revenge on the law. It is well done, and those who especially like lots of action and horses and gun fights will be enthusiastic over it.

◇ ◇ ◇

There are two other numbers on this week's bill, however, which merit special attention—the new type of advertising and Charley Chase's best comedy.

◇ ◇ ◇

This column's pet peeve has been the garish, flashy advertising that has ruined theater programs here for years. At the Strand this week, the new era in screen advertising is presented, with the Lysol company paying the bill. It's a cartoon.

◇ ◇ ◇

Humans fight against deadly-looking germs in vain until one of them discovers the potentialities of Lysol as a germ killer. Immediately the Lysol is dropped from the air on the germs and their dying agonies are adequately pictured. The cartoon is the cleverest type, with good sound effects. It is as easy to listen to and as subtle as radio advertising—and will probably be as effective.

◇ ◇ ◇

As for Mr. Chase—due to some new and fantastic ideas (somebody new has come to Hollywood, evidently) and to even newer and more fantastic sound effects, "Thundering Tenors" is excruciatingly funny. Another recommendation: Charley doesn't really sing at all.

◇ ◇ ◇

Those who had doubts as to the ultimate destination of the younger generation should visit the State theater before "The Birth of a Nation" is gone. Somehow all's right with the world when several dozen youngsters who never had seen the picture can split their throats at the sight of the Ku Klux rushing to the rescue and cheer as the Stars and Bars blend into the Stars and Stripes.

Four hundred thousand Frenchmen fell at Verdun during the world war.

Radio Station To Broadcast Play By Mrs. B. G. Oneal

"Inspiration," a one-act play written by Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, published in a recent book of "One Act Plays by Texas Authors," and presented at the Woman's Forum clubhouse in the 1929-30 season before a crowded house, will be broadcast over WBAP Saturday morning at 9:15 o'clock during the Woman's club hour.

Mrs. Oneal's popularity as president of the first district, T. F. W. C., as well as the beauty of the play, will insure the tuning in of many clubwomen at the hour of presentation.

Since the book was published in 1930, requests have come to her daily from clubs over the state for permission to present "Inspiration."

Junior C.-C. Reports Many New Members

Expressions of satisfaction at the results obtained in the preliminary membership campaign of the Junior chamber of commerce which closed Thursday, was voiced Friday by Charles Spragins Jr., chairman of the drive.

A final campaign started Friday in which members of the drive committee will compete individually for points in a contest, the winner of which is to be awarded a suit of clothes or a free trip to the national Junior chamber of commerce convention to be held in Des Moines, Iowa, during the summer.

Especially gratifying, Mr. Spragins said, was the large number of new memberships thus far secured. The new members that have been reported to date are: Guy Airey, A. H. Bedinghaus, Lloyd Bland, J. L. Bledsoe, R. T. Bowen, O. E. Brown, Leon G. Butler, Joe B. Carrigan, J. C. Carson, Edmund J. Coffey, H. R. Cramer, W. R. Cramer, Larry Crites, J. D. Dale, George Dashner Jr., C. K. Dodge, Horace E. Downing, H. B. Dudley, Dr. Otto C. Egdorf, J. R. Farabee, J. Walter Friberg, S. C. Granger, Randle R. Ranks, G. E. Haynes, R. E. Hendricks, Norman P. Hines, H. J. Hughey Jr., Fred Johnson, Walter C. Jones, Waldo E. Karrenbrock, H. I. Kiefer, J. O. Kocher, P. H. Lambert, Van B. Littleton, G. C. McDermott, C. O. McDuffey, Jack Morrow, C. F. O'Hara, Milton E. Price, J. S. Reger, C. W. Ridling, Larry Schwamb, Ernest N. Stayton, Stephen C. West, Bryan W. Womack, H. T. Wood and Hal W. Yeager.

Four Absentee Ballots Cast in Bond Election

Only four absentee ballots had been cast in the city water bond election at 5 o'clock Friday, the last day for absentee voting, according to City Clerk W. E. McBroom. The election will be held Tuesday, January 20.

C-C PRESIDENT VIEWS 1931

Jackson Believes City to Go Forward

J. L. Jackson Jr., recently elected president of the chamber of commerce, voiced the opinion that 1931 will see the solution to many of problems which have confronted Wichita Falls during 1930 and preceding years when he appeared on the Junior chamber of commerce semi-monthly luncheon program Friday.

Bearing out his belief that conditions are taking a turn to the better, the speaker cited the victory meeting of the chamber of commerce membership drive at which prevailed a spirit of enthusiasm characteristic of the manner in which other problems of the new year are being met. "The new year," he said, "finds us in a saner, more earnest mood, prepared to make the best of conditions.

City's Spirit Revived

"The outlook for a bumper crop is particularly bright. Rainfall has put an excellent seasoning into the ground, and even if prices should be low, I expect to see a return to normal buying before the end of the year."

In speaking of the enthusiasm now being shown toward business and affairs in general, Mr. Jackson said: "There has been manifestation of the old time spirit in Wichita Falls. You recall that the motto of the city used to be 'We pull together,' and that is now being done once more."

Other features on the program Friday were an explanation of a bill now in the Texas legislature to provide for the payment of taxes semi-annually, and an outline of aid proposed to be rendered the youth of Wichita Falls who have failed to continue high school with the establishment of a vocational school here.

J. C. Mytinger in speaking of plans for the legalizing of taxes twice a year urged that support be given the measure, which he said was introduced in the legislature as a move for emergency relief for taxes of 1930 and 1931, years which have been extremely hard for the property owner. Unless such a system of tax collection is installed, Mr. Mytinger said, tax payments will be low.

Vocational School

N. S. Hundson of Austin, state director of industrial education, briefly outlined the purpose of the establishment of a vocational school here, describing the success such enterprises have met elsewhere. Through a bill passed by the national congress during the war, the federal government provides a fund yearly for the purpose of industrial education, Mr. Hundson said, providing that each state meet the amount with a similar sum. The appropriation of Texas for this purpose is $312,000. The vocational schools, it was explained, are operated under state educational systems and are designed to give needed education of a technical or business nature to students who have not been equipped to efficiently earn a livelihood.

A number of announcements were made, including that of John Boswell, who stated that Ralph Bradford of Washington, D. C., U. S. Chamber of Commerce executive, is to be the principal speaker at the next Junior chamber of commerce luncheon.

More than 278,665,000 bronze pennies were minted in the United States in 1929.

Salvation Army Giving Aid To Scores, Report of Work Shows

At least 218 meals and 276 beds were given to transients in Wichita Falls by the Salvation Army during the month of December, according to the monthly report compiled by Ensign Shultz, executive of the organization.

One person was given transportation and 691 transients were given relief. The report also showed that 50 visiting families were given groceries while a total of 1,288 garments and 164 pairs of shoes were distributed among unfortunates.

Out of 39 applications for employment, 12 were placed by the organization which also cared for 24 women and children in the dormitory and fed 60 who were confined to beds in the sleeping quarters.

Approximately 360 baskets of food which furnished food for about 2,200 persons were given out during the Christmas holidays and 300 children were remembered with toys and other gifts on Christmas. One person was sent to the hospital by the organization.

Men transients are cared for in the annex at the city hall which has been turned into a dormitory with heat and light furnished. The apartment has been equipped with hot and cold water connections but is minus a hot water heater. Any person who can donate a used water heater that can be repaired is asked to call the Salvation Army. There is also a need for clothing, used cots, bed clothing and old mattresses, Ensign Shultz said. If persons having any of the needed articles will call the army headquarters, 6221, the articles will be called for.

JACKSON ROAD SURVEY STARTS

Nine-Mile Strip Under Preparation

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., Jan. 16.—Survey work on the nine-mile stretch of state highway No. 24 from Altus south to the county base line is now underway and will be completed within about two weeks, according to Felix Carroll, chief of the survey party from the state highway department.

Six men from the highway department are in Altus assisting Carroll with this project.

The right-of-way is being surveyed on a basis of 100 feet in width which is usually secured for a 30-foot road bed by the state department. All work is being done according to state specifications. The right of way now varies from 50 to 60 feet in width, Carroll explained.

Work was completed before the Christmas holidays on the survey of about five miles from the county base line south to the proposed Red river bridge which is to be constructed a short distance east of Elmer.

Aged Man Jailed After Officers Seize Still

C. H. Jeuryens, an aged resident for the past few weeks of the southeastern portion of the city, was arrested Friday afternoon on a charge of possessing equipment for the manufacture of intoxicating liquor, according to District Attorney Sam B. Spence.

An elaborately-equipped still of about 20-gallon capacity, according to Sheriff Perry Browning, was brought to the county jail from the house in which the defendant allegedly carried on his operations. The house is located on Swallow street.

Registration Today For Junior College Students

Second semester registration for courses in the Wichita Falls Junior college will be held Saturday from 8:30 to 4 o'clock, according to Registrar A. K. Presson. Since very few changes from schedules followed in the first semester are necessary, only Saturday will be devoted to registration, although students may sign up all next week by paying a late registration fee.

Sufficient new courses or independent courses are offered to enable students to enter in midyear although they did not go to college in the fall. Such courses will be offered in English, mathematics, education, government, and English history. Double sections have also been arranged in a number of subjects in order to enable students to complete a full course in a subject in half the year.

It is possible to enjoy all the thrills of flying—banking, stalling, spinning, and other aerial "stunts"—in a model airplane which does not leave the ground. It is installed in a London sports club.

RITES SAID FOR TEXAS PIONEER

Mother of Bellevue Mayor Succumbs

Special to The Record News.

BELLEVUE, Texas, Jan. 16.—A delegation from Bellevue attended the funeral in Rockwall of Mrs. J. C. Gaines, 82, mother of Mayor N. T. Gaines here. Rites were conducted at the First Methodist church. Rev. Earl G. Hamilton, pastor, and Rev. C. W. Dennis of Plainview, a former pastor, officiated. Burial was in the Rockwall cemetery.

Mrs. Gaines came to Texas from Virginia 45 years ago, spending practically the entire time since then at Rockwall. Besides Mayor Gaines, she is survived by her husband, two sons and two daughters. R. E. Gaines, grain dealer, and R. A. Gaines, editor at Rockwall are the sons. The daughters are Mrs. M. F. Smith and Mrs. J. W. Thaxton.

Bowl and saucer FREE at your grocer's . . .

when you purchase 2 packages of the new WHOLE BRAN

This charming green glass set is for cereal and many other uses. A limited number have been supplied to your grocer as a special inducement for you to try the delicious new Whole Bran.

You will find that Whole Bran meets the long-felt need for a full strength bran that is appetizing. Two tablespoons a day will, in most cases, overcome constipation due to lack of sufficient bulk food in the diet.

Try Whole Bran with milk or cream—tender little shreds of zestful flavor. And remember, Whole Bran makes simply ravishing muffins, gems, bran bread and griddle cakes. In fact, many people who eat the famous regulator, Post's Bran Flakes as a cereal, use Whole Bran for cooking.

Don't put off buying Whole Bran; not only for your health's sake but so you can be in time to get at least one beautiful bowl and saucer set. Many people will want enough of this attractive glass for the entire family.
