Dirksen, Ike Defend New Target Policy

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen joins former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in defending President Johnson's decision to bomb North Vietnam targets only 10 miles from Red China.

Eisenhower, commander of allied military forces in Europe in World War II, and Dirksen said separately but in almost identical words that military targets were involved and the air attacks should be continued.

The White House, meanwhile, declined any comment on the latest U.S. air assaults.

Eisenhower and Dirksen said they do not believe such near-border raids risk bringing Red China into the conflict—a contention made in the Senate Monday by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and echoed by Republican Sens. Charles H. Percy of Illinois and John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky. In the face of this split of Republican opinion, Eisenhower told a news conference as he left Walter Reed Army Hospital after a 10-day stay, he hopes the conduct of the war does not become an issue in next year's presidential campaign. He said he doesn't want to be among those who might make it one.

"What do politicans know about conducting a war?" he asked. "We must use force and get done with it."

Eisenhower said he believes the war should be pursued, "with the idea of winning it." He added: "You should get everything you can, and use it as fast as you can, and get it over with as quickly as possible because war is a nasty thing."

Dirksen said in an interview he is satisfied legitimate military targets were hit in the raids to within 10 miles of the Red Chinese border. He said he is certain American fliers have been instructed thoroughly in avoiding Red Chinese air space.

"I think it's necessary and I don't think it's dangerous," he said. "I haven't heard of any protest from China."

Mansfield called the bombing raids "a very dangerous extension of the war." He said they "bring us that much closer to the brink of a possible confrontation with China."

Endorsing this contention, Cooper called for a move toward de-escalation and new efforts to get peace negotiations.

Percy said in a statement that by approving the air attacks, Johnson "not only has escalated the war but he has risked a widening of the war which could result in tens of thousands of additional casualties" by inviting Communist Chinese intervention.

Reconnaissance Plane Lost To Red Guns

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that the North Vietnamese shot down a U.S. Navy reconnaissance plane Sunday, apparently while it was photographing damage from a raid only 10 miles from Red China's border.

The RA5C Vigilante's two-man crew was listed as missing. The plane was the 642nd U.S. warplane announced as lost over the North so far in the war.

Navy planes raided the Lang Son railroad and highway bridge Sunday in what were the closest raids to Red China in the Vietnam war. They followed up with raids on nearby targets Monday.

U.S. B52 bombers raided the southern half of the demilitarized zone today, for the second time in three days and dumped tons of explosives on what the command described as extensive North Vietnamese artillery and antiaircraft positions.

The stepped up raids by the eight-engine Stratofortresses, each capable of carrying up to 50,000 pounds of bombs, indicated that the Communists may be building up for another sustained drive on U.S. Marine outposts at Con hien and Dong Ha just south of the zone.

Both outposts were heavily shelled in June and the first week of July, but shellings have been infrequent since tactical fighter-bombers gave the area a going over.

Monday's raids near the Chinese border were among 134 missions over North Vietnam logged by Air Force and carrier- based Navy fighter-bombers. The other strikes included a number on rail sidings, highway bridges, surface-to-air missile sites and fuel storage areas in the Hanoi-Haiphong areas.

The strikes around the North's two major cities were somewhat limited because of heavy thundershowers.

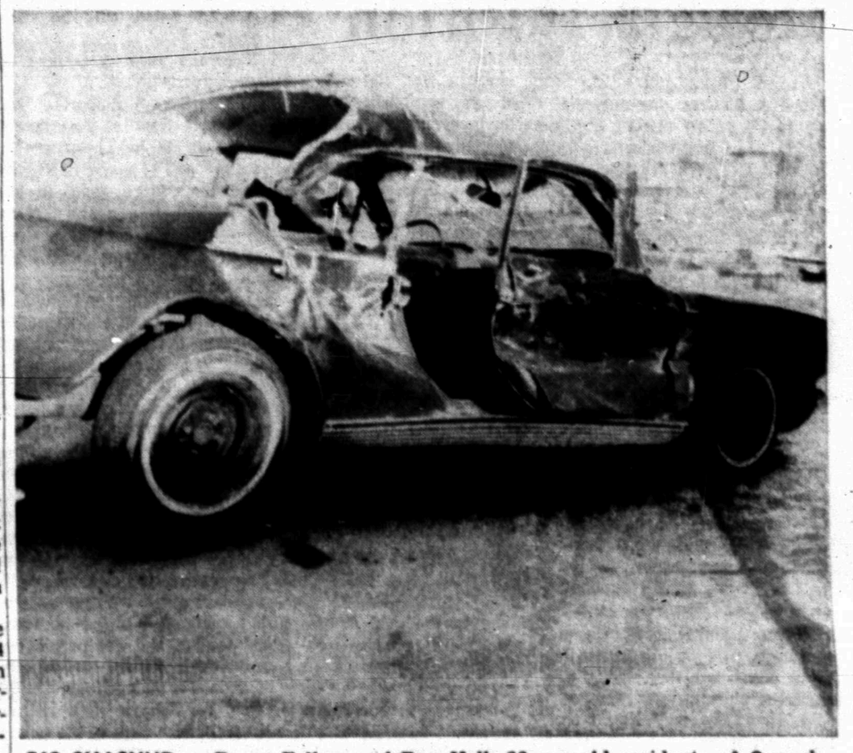

Ground action in South Vietnam was virtually at a standstill. The U.S. Command said there were no significant contacts reported in 34 allied operations of battalion size or larger. These included the newly announced "Operation Portland," a multibattalion search and destroy operation by elements of the U.S. Army's 1st Division about 70 miles north of Saigon. The operation began Saturday, but was not announced until today for security reasons. No contact with the enemy has been reported so far.

The B52 raids in the southern half of the DMZ also were aimed at Communist troop concentrations, bunkers, and assembly areas.

The three raids were in areas 2-4 miles northeast of the Marine outpost at Con Thien. Intelligence reports indicate that there are elements of three North Vietnames divisions—perhaps 35,000 men or more—operating in and around the demilitarized zone.

The B52s mounted three raids in the zone Sunday—two in the southern half of the six-mile wide buffer zone and the third in the northern section. Targets included troop concentrations, assembly areas, artillery and antiaircraft positions, trenches and bunkers.

In Monday's strikes by tactical fighter-bombers, Navy A6 Intruders blasted for the second day in a row the Na Phuc railroad yard 16 miles south of Communist China's border. Pilots reported ripping up tracks in three different places.

BIG SMASHUP — Roger Fellers and Roy Hall, 22-year-old residents of Quanah, received minor injuries in a two-vehicle smashup at the intersection of Avenue E and the East Highway early this morning. They were taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Snyder Ambulance Service. Both were passengers in this 1963 Chevrolet Corvair driven by Charles Lynn Lee, 21, also of Quanah.

Tax Increase Faces Fight

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the House Ways and Means Committee told administration officials today they still have not made a case for the 10 per cent income tax surcharge President Johnson seeks.

During their second day of testimony before the tax-writing committee, Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Budget Director Charles L. Schultze and Chairman Gardner Ackley of the Council of Economic Advisers were pressed for an explanation that would make sense to the voters.

"We're going to have to satisfy the people on two counts," Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., said. He said taxpayers will have to be convinced that they are better off now than they were five years ago and that even after the surcharge is added they will pay less tax than they had before the 1964 tax reduction.

Ullman said that, taking into account increases in state and local taxes, he is not sure this would be the case.

"My judgment is that a tax increase is justified, but I believe I am in a minority on this committee," Ullman added.

Joining Ullman in predicting a tough fight for the bill was Rep. James A. Burke, D-Mass., who said, "I doubt that any members of this committee are committed to it and many of us have many reservations about it."

Republicans planned to press Johnson's first-string fiscal team about the extent of administration budget-cutting Congress can expect if it approves the surcharge.

Sign-Up Is Scheduled In DE, ICT

All Snyder High School juniors interested in preparing for careers in business or industry through the distributive education (DE) or industrial cooperative training (ICT) programs at SHS during the 1967-68 school year should contact Wallace Combest or Claude Donaldson at the high school now.

The DE and ICT programs are designed for students to receive on-the-job training with cooperating business firms. The students receive high school credits for the part-time work which are as acceptable for college entrance as for high school graduation.

Two types of students stand to gain the most benefit from this type of study, it was pointed out. These include students who intend to go to work immediately after high school graduation. They can get a two-year head start by enrolling in DE or ICT. Also, a college-bound student who might need to pay a portion of his college expenses can gain a sellable skill through the two training programs.

High school juniors interested in either of the programs are asked to contact Combest or Donaldson at the high school (HI 3-6301) for further information. Classes for 1967-68 already are half full and there are only two weeks left to schedule DE or ICT.

Light Rains Pepper State

Showers and occasional thunderstorms dotted parts of Texas and temperatures headed upward again today.

Dalhart measured .19 inch of rain late Monday and added .05 before dawn as thunderstorm activity moved southward near the Texas-New Mexico line.

Plainview received .08 inch Monday night, after which the mercury dived to a chilly overnight low of 55 degrees.

Numerous light showers were scattered through the Red River Valley in areas from Wichita Falls to Archer City, Mineral Wells to Jacksboro, near Bowie to Gainesville and around Childress.

Another broad belt of shower activity developed in the Gulf of Mexico and moved northward toward the Galveston, Houston and Beaumont areas, extending also along the coast as far as New Orleans.

Early morning temperatures sank to 63 degrees at Lubbock and Texarkana, and to 64 at Dalhart. Readings elsewhere ran as high as 74 at Victoria and Waco.

Monday's top marks ranged from 99 at Presidio down to 84 at Alpine.

Forecasts called for further shower activity in the Panhandle, other parts of West Texas and near the middle and upper Texas coast.

Tired Of New Pet

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Three months after Joseph Zeugim, 15, gave $10 and two tropical fish to a pet shop for a boa constrictor, Joseph decided to sell the snake for $10 and no fish. "It's not that I didn't like him," he said. "It's just that I don't like feeding him live mice."

House Ready To Pass Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, fresh from pushing through legislation aimed at preventing riots and punishing some riot leaders, now appears poised to move toward protection of Negroes' civil rights.

A civil rights measure, part of the rights bill which last year passed the House but died in the Senate, comes up in the House today with strong bipartisan support. Sponsors predicted passage by late in the day.

Major controversy may center on a states rights amendment to be offered by Rep. Basil Whitener, D-N.C. It would specify that nothing in the bill would pre-empt state laws, so long as the state laws do not conflict with federal law.

The bill provides federal criminal penalties of up to life imprisonment for persons convicted of interfering with citizens exercising specified actions protected by federal law.

Antiriot legislation, attached last year by the House to this part of the civil rights bill, already has been passed by the House this year. And further antiriot provisions were added last week when the House rewrote President Johnson's anticrime bill.

Members of the House Judiciary Committee said enactment of these measures make unnecessary addition of further antiriot provisions to the new bill, which faces an uncertain future in the Senate if passed by the House.

The bill is intended to strengthen the government's ability to meet civil rights violence in such areas as voting, public accommodations, public education, public services, employment, jury service, use of common carriers and participation in federally assisted programs.

Any person convicted of interfering with such activities could face maximum penalties of a $1,000 fine and one year in prison. If injury results, the penalties could go up to $10,000 and 10 years and, in the event of death, could reach life imprisonment.

Arabian Oil Ban Said Ineffectual

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Western oil companies are circumventing the Arab oil ban against the West and making it all but useless, informed oil sources said today.

The ban, decreed during the Arab-Israeli war in June, is significantly hurting neither the Arab oil producing countries nor Britain; the United States and West Germany, against which it was directed, the sources said.

But if it continues and if it is efficiently enforced, both sides may suffer.

The sources, in close contact with the oil industry in the Middle East, said some Arab oil is still reaching markets it is not supposed to reach. They mentioned Britain in particular, which imported 68 per cent of its oil supplies from the Arab countries before the war.

The sources said an undisclosed quantity of embargoed oil is reaching Britain through "third party" deals that do not break the rules of the Arab boycott and do not expose the oil companies to retaliatory measures.

In the case of Britain, increases in oil production in Iran, Venezuela and the United States following the war did not cover all of Britain's needs. Yet Britain is not lacking in oil.

The oil ban rules bind the captain of an oil tanker calling at an Arab port to sign a declaration saying all his oil cargo will be delivered to its destination. Consignee countries or companies pledge the oil will not find its way to "aggressor countries". Meaning the United States and Britain.

On the second day of the June war, Arab countries decided to stop oil shipments to Britain and the United States for their alleged support of Israel. Outright bans were announced by Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Algeria, Egypt, Qatar, Bahrein and Abu Dhabi.

Two Injured In Collision Here Today

Two young men from Quanah received minor injuries in a two-vehicle collision at Avenue E and the East Highway at 7:53 a.m. today.

Taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital by Snyder Ambulance Service were Roger Fellers and Roy Hall, both 22. Fellers received a lacerated scalp, and Hall sustained lacerations on the ear and arm. Hospital authorities this morning described their condition as being good.

They were passengers in a 1963 Model Chevrolet Corvair driven by Charles Lynn Lee, 21, also of Quanah. Lee received minor bruises, but was not admitted to the hospital. Damage to his car was estimated at $1,000.

Driver of the other vehicle, a 1965 Model Chevrolet pickup was identified as Mrs. Ben (Erma) Weemes Lenoir, Box 619, Snyder. Damage to the pickup was placed at $600. She was not injured.

The investigating officer was Police Patrolman Kirt Reed. The car apparently was going east on the East Highway while the pickup was traveling north prior to the accident. The front of the pickup was in collision with the right front of the car.

Officers also investigated a two-car mishap at Twenty-fifth Street and Avenue R at 10:55 p.m. Monday.

Involved were the 1965 Model Ford Mustang of Sheron Wyvonne Gray, Ira, and the 1964 Model Chevrolet of Dewitt Roach, 208 Hill. Damage to Roach's car was set at $350, and damage to the other car was placed at $400.

The mishap was investigated by Police Sergeant H. E. Woolsey.

Tallies Riot Damage

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—P. Bernard Nortman, chief of the city's Office of Economic Development, said in a television interview Wednesday that $9.7 million in damage loss was incurred in Newark riots last month.

Freeman Says Farmers Shy 'Muscle In Market Place'

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman told Utah farmers Monday they should organize into union-like associations with "bargaining power" at the market place.

To put some teeth into this power, he said, they should be allowed to withhold commodities the same way a working man is allowed to strike.

At the request of Gov. Calvin Rampton, Freeman held a shirt-sleeve question-and-answer session before 200 of the state's farmers and agriculture leaders.

Freeman said farmers "don't have any muscle in the market place," and "they get what's left over of the consumer dollar."

He asked, why can't farmers gather together into powerful bargaining associations that could put a squeeze on the market and force prices up?

"I don't know of any other way farmers are going to get their fair share," he added.

Freeman cautioned grain growers to "market their wheat wisely and prudently" this year because of the expected bumper crop.

"This is no time for scare tactics," he said. "Any time we have a big crop, we have the danger of farmers dumping on the market and pushing prices down.

"Hold your grain. Don't be forced to sell it at such a low price."

Freeman said wheat acreage was being cut back next year to offset the expected oversupply. He told the farmers there was

Vietnam Candidate Charges Harassment By Military

By BARRY KRAMER

SAIGON (AP) — Tran Van Huong, considered the leading civilian candidate for president of South Vietnam, implied today that soldiers would be able to vote twice for his military opponents—once at their bases and once at home.

At a news conference, the former premier charged that soldiers had been issued voting cards from both their home district and their base district.

He also charged the current military regime with intimidating his representatives in the provinces and said unless his warning led to reform, "we shall be compelled to reconsider our participation in the election."

But he said he would be with the other nine civilian candidates when they go to nearby Bien Hoa to start a campaign tour for the Sept. 3 election in which the military ticket—Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu for president and Premier Nguyen Cao Ky for vice president—is expected to win.

"We view this election as a contract between ourselves and the nation to see if democracy will be established," Huong said. "For that reason we will make every effort to continue to campaign and we shall only adopt a different attitude when we are completely convinced there is no other way out."

Huong's news conference included statements from persons he said were his representatives in the provinces. Some told of "friends of friends" who supported Huong but allegedly had been warned to support Thieu and Ky instead.

One said he had been asked to report to the deputy chief of police in his area but declined to go, apparently afraid he was going to be intimidated.

Neither Thieu nor Ky was immediately available for comment on the charges, but a spokesman for them said, "I am sure the government will answer the charges."

The representatives at Huong's news conference refused to give their names because, they said, their lives would be in danger.

Negro Mayor To Resign Position

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Mayor Floyd J. McCree, the only Negro in the nation heading a city of 200,000 or larger, declares he is resigning because the city commission has rejected an open occupancy housing law.

"I'm not going to sit up here any longer and live in equal opportunity hell," the 43-year-old mayor said Monday night after the commission voted down the law, 5-3.

The auto plant foreman, elected in November 1965, said he will resign Monday.

McCree said he also will resign as commissioner of Flint's heavily-Negro third ward. He had represented the third ward for eight years when he was elected mayor by his fellow commissioners. About 25 per cent of Flint's 200,000 residents are Negroes.

"I can no longer serve in good conscience on a commission which does not represent the needs of all citizens," McCree said. He is the only Negro on the commission.

He has been an avid supporter of the proposed open occupancy law since it was proposed last year.

Commissioners rushed to prepare a final draft of the ordinance last week, just two weeks after violence spread to Flint and a number of other Michigan cities after Detroit erupted in the worst civil outbreak in recent American history. Flint is 60 miles northwest of Detroit.

The ordinance would have banned discrimination in housing and home financing. It would have established machinery for investigation of discrimination complaints.

Some opponents of the open occupancy measure asserted they thought the ordinance was unconstitutional. One opponent, Commissioner Alton C. Smith, said if it was passed the measure would be brought to a referendum. He said such a citywide vote would alienate whites and Negroes.

Burns Are Fatal To Beatty Child

Gerald Beatty Jr., young son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Beatty Sr. 1309 East Fifty - second Street, Odessa, died Monday afternoon in a Galveston hospital.

The child had been taken to Galveston for treatment after suffering severe burns July 7 in a mishap at Jal, N. M. The child was the stepgrandson of Mrs. Henry Whitehurst of Snyder. The parents are former Snyder residents.

Funeral arrangements are pending. The service will be held in Odessa probably Friday. It was reported this morning.

Divers Search Cold Depths For Pollution

By PHILIP WECHSLER

AVON-BY-THE-SEA, N. J. (AP) — Deep sea divers are descending to the cold depths of the Atlantic Ocean in hope of unravelling a 25-year-old mystery of whether sunken oil tankers are seeping their cargoes to the surface.

President Johnson ordered the pilot project undertaken to determine whether any of the 103 tankers sunk off American shores — most of them victims of German submarines during World War II — pose an oil pollution threat to the coastline.

Divers, using underwater television cameras, went 90 feet to the ocean bottom Monday to examine the Gulftrade, a tanker sliced in two by a German torpedo in 1942. It sank with a loss of 18 lives and carried 4 million gallons of oil to the bottom.

Coast Guard officials said there was no apparent trace of oil. Today the divers investigate the R.P. Resor, which also was torpedoed off the South Jersey shore in 1942. Both ships are within 14 miles of the coastline.

If any oil is discovered, officials said, it will be siphoned off.

Little is known about what happened to the ships and their cargoes during their years at the bottom of the sea, said Donald G. Agger of the U.S. Department of Transportation which is supervising the project with the Coast Guard.

This venture, he said, is in many ways a mystery story.

Officials were unable to say if all 103 sunken tankers will be investigated.

Authorities speculated oil oozing from the tankers may have caused the oil pollution to Cape Cod beaches in Massachusetts and killed 6,000 wild sea ducks off the South Jersey coast.

Both incidents occurred last April, shortly after the tanker Torrey Canyon ran aground near Cornwall, England, leaving a slick of millions of gallons of thick black oil that coated British shores.

Burglary Probed

Burglars stole two black bags and 10 stereo tapes from two cars parked at Bill Wilson's residence 2707 Thirty - third Street, sometime within the past couple of days.

Police Sergeant H. E. Woolsey investigated the complaint.

Appears In Court

Earvel James of Snyder received a legal warning in County Court Monday morning when he appeared on charges of possession of intoxicating beverages and selling intoxicating beverages. The possession charge allegedly occurred Aug. 5 while the selling charge reportedly occurred June 17. Bond was set at $500.

Freeman made utterances on these subjects:

U.S. farm supports—"The market is freer of government now than it has been for 30 years and nearer supply-demand balance than it has been for half a century. 'New era' programs are not perfect, but I think we can make them work."

Imports—"You can't build a wall around Utah and expect to sell everything out and not buy anything in. It's the same in the nation. A 200,000-pound cut in red meat imports isn't going to make that much difference... Sometimes by cutting imports we lose exports and cut off our noses to spite our faces."

Overproduction—"The farmer is going to have to fight the overproduction problem for as long in the future as I can see."

Urbanization—"We've got to do something to utilize our rural countryside and get people out of the cities... If the current rate of urbanization continues, in 30 years we'll have riots in our streets that will make the recent outbreaks look like pink tea parties."

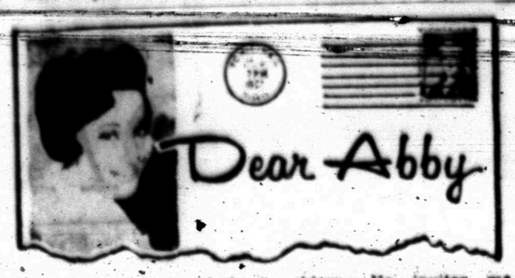

Grazing Forest Service land—Growing recreational use of the national forests is not jeopardizing the multiple-use concept, and livestock grazing rights will continue unhampered.

Theft Reported Near Fluvanna

Thieves stole several tools from a tool house three miles north of Fluvanna sometime between noon Saturday and Monday morning, according to Sheriff's Authorities. They asked that anyone having any information concerning the burglary contact them at the Sheriff's office.

Taken in the breakin were a cutting torch, gauges and hoses, a battery charger, an electric drill and an electric impact wrench. Owner of the property is Pat Ainsworth.

DEAR ABBY: I've read about a lot of strange characters in your column, but I think my husband takes the prize.

He gets a lot of pleasure out of going around looking like a hobo. Why? Because of all the sympathy he gets from his friends who think the poor man's wife is neglecting him. I know all his tricks.

Abby, my husband is a millionaire! You heard me. He paid taxes on an income of 175,000 last year. He wears his suits for 2 months without cleaning or pressing them. He will wear a white shirt for 3 and 4 days. He buys the cheapest sox, underwear, shoes and clothing because they get to looking shabby faster. If I don't patch and mend he goes around with holes! Now, what would you do with a problem like mine?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I'd throw a butterfly net over him. And fast. Next thing you know he might think it would be nice if people felt sorry for him because he "lost" his wife. And then he might think up ways to "lose" her.

DEAR ABBY: Our son wanted to enlist in the navy, so he went down for his physical and he didn't pass it. He felt so ashamed and hurt because all his buddies made it, and he didn't. He's not going to college, so he feels sort of alone and blue.

The problem is the people around here. They are very inquisitive. Someone is always asking him how come he's not in service. He's ashamed to tell them he couldn't past the physical. Is there something else he can say when he's asked?

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: He should tell them the truth. There are many reasons why a young man can be "4-F," ranging all the way from a heart murmer he didn't know he had, to a bum knee suffered in a football game.

If your son is letting something like this bother him, he has a battle at home he'd better start working on.

DEAR ABBY: I am employed as a secretary in a large office. One of the senior partners is semi-retired and comes in only a few days a week for 2 or 3 hours.

Last winter he came in just before noon and asked me to type a letter for him, which I gladly did. Then out of the blue he asked me to have lunch with him. I was surprised because none of the bosses has ever taken any of us girls to [illegible] accepted.

I don't know what I did to charm this man, but he certainly seemed to enjoy my company. Don't misunderstand me, he didn't make any out-of-the-way advances to me, he just told me about his early life, which I found fascinating. I am 29, unmarried, and he is over 65, with an invalid wife. My problem: He invites me to lunch frequently now. But he leaves envelopes with 50 and 100 bills enclosed for "extra." Now, I know it's no financial strain on him as he is very wealthy, but I am adequately paid for any work I do at the office, and I feel guilty accepting this money. Am I taking advantage of an elderly man by accepting his gifts and giving him nothing but a smile and a pleasant lunch hour by just listening?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDDRING: As long as he asks nothing, and you promise nothing, you have no reason to feel guilty. (P. S. But don't accept any more money, just in case.)

Carr Hints Of Fling At Politics

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr says he might take another fling at active politics next year.

Fresh from a defeat by U. S. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., in last year's U. S. Senate election, Carr declined to indicate what office he might seek.

His statement was prompted, he said, "Because I was made a 'whipping boy' by Father Antonio Gonzalez at this weekend's convention of the Political Association of Spanish Speaking Organizations (PASO)."

Gonzalez, a leader of last summer's Rio Grande Valley farm workers' march on Austin, said at the convention that Carr was "washed up" and that Mexican-Americans "were not bluffing" in the Senate election. Mexican-American voters gave Tower one of the biggest votes they ever presented a Republican candidate, but the total was far short of a majority of such voters."

"If I announce for public office next year, and I may well do that, I will be honored to have the active opposition of any of those who advocate violence and rioting in our streets, including Father Gonzalez," Carr said.

Gonzalez told the PASO meeting that "I respect you because you don't throw bricks and start riots. But I also respect some of those who do."

Carr said that "as a man who has worked with our Mexican-American citizens for 20 years, I find it hard to accept such politically inspired attacks from a man who was missing from our common efforts in the early days."

Losses Heavy In Air Base Blaze

WACO, Tex. (AP) — One of the largest fires ever reported at the James Connally Air Force base Monday afternoon destroyed a print shop and technical center of the James Connally Tech Institute.

Twelve fire units answered the call to the fire, and had it under control in about three hours. Four firemen were overcome by smoke and hospitalized.

Firemen Called

City Firemen answered a call to a car fire at the intersection of Avenue E and the East Highway at 2 p.m. Monday. Minor damage resulted to the 1956 Model Buick of Emma Wells.

Picasso Sculpture Unveiled

CHICAGO (AP) — Today was Picasso day in Chicago.

Mayor Richard J. Daley made the designation in honor of Pablo Picasso, who gave to the city the design for a five-story sculpture for the plaza in front of the new civic center.

Even before the unveiling in ceremonies today, the work was the center of controversy.

Art lovers termed it another masterpiece from the hands of the 85-year-old artist, long considered the leader of the avant garde of the art world.

Other labeled the 160-ton, 50-foot abstraction in rusty steel a $300,000 piece of junk.

Gwendolyn Brooks, Pulitzer Prize - winning poet, wrote a poem to commemorate the occasion in which she takes note of the controversy. The poem begins:

"Does man love art? Man visits art, but squirms.

'Art hurts. Art urges Voyages—

"And it is easier to stay at home.

"The nice beer ready...."

As with so much of Picasso's work, it the "what is it?" that has stirred up speculation and controversy—and ever anger.

The sculpture has been likened to a woman's head, the head of a long-eared dog, a child's ski glide, a Trojan dove, an ape and a baboon. Usually it is referred to as Chicago'spicasso.

In parts of northern Chile, rain may not fall for five or 10 successive years.

VICTIMS OF BEARS — Michele Koons, left, of San Diego, Calif., and Julie Helgeson, center, of Albert Lea, Minn., both 19, were killed by grizzly bears in Montana's Glacier National Park. They were killed in separate incidents 20 miles apart as they slept in sleeping bags. Roy Ducat, right, 18, of Perrysville, Ohio, was seriously injured by the same bear that killed Miss Helgeson. All three were employed for the summer at park hotels and were on outings on their days off. (AP Wirephoto)

Survivors Describe Attack Of Marauding Girizzly Bear

WEST GLACIER, Mont. (AP) — Four terror-stricken young people who saw one of their friends killed by a grizzly bear in a Glacier National Park say they tried everything they knew to drive away the marauding animal.

They built a bonfire, but it didn't scare the bear.

They lay motionless in their sleeping bags, but the bear attacked anyway.

One youth even punched the bear with his fist, he said, but the grizzly kept coming.

Paul R. Dunn, 16, a high school junior from Edina, Minn. screamed: "He's got her in the sleeping bag and he's dragging her up the hill!"

The students, who had come to the scenic park for a working vacation, told their story Monday after escaping from the maddened bear, which threatened them for hours before finally attacking and killing Michele Koons, 19, of San Diego, Calif., early Sunday.

Twenty miles from the campsite where Michele died, another 19-year-old girl, Julie Helgeson of Albert Lea, Minn., was killed in her sleeping bag by another park bear during the same night. One of her companions, Roy Ducat, 18, of Perrysburg, Ohio, was seriously injured.

A hunt continued today for the killer bears after park rangers shot and killed two grizzlies Monday in the area where Miss Helgeson was slain. Tests were being made on those bears to try to determine whether one was the killer.

With Dunn and Miss Koons were Denise Huckle, 19, of San Manuel, Calif., and a junior at the University of Arizona and Ronald A. Noseck, 21, and his brother, Ray T. 23, both of Oracle, Ariz. The Nosecks are dental students at the University of Louisville.

They had to hike to Trout Yake in a wild area in the western part of the park for a campout.

Two campers they met on the trail told of being chased up a tree by a grizzly.

They pitched camp and caught some fish. Then while cooking hot dogs, the wind blew their campsite smoke into the trees and Michele said, "there's a bear."

The bear invaded the camp and the four ran 50 yards down the lakefront. It ate their food and left with Michel's travel bag in its teeth.

"We discussed whether to stay where we were or try to go back," Dunn said. "It was dark and we weren't sure of the trail, so we built a big bonfire."

They they saw the bear again standing on a logjam in the lake.

"None of us really slept," Ray Noseck said. "We just kept putting wood on the fire."

"About two o'clock my little dog, Squirt, started growling and I heard something in the water," Denise Huckle said. "I knew there was a bear near us."

"We stayed real close to the fire," Dunn said. "My feet really got hot."

"A couple of times the bear came very close to the fire," Dunn said. They got in their sleeping bags and covered their heads with blankets.

Between 2 a.m. and 4:30 a.m. the bear stayed at the edge of the area lit by the campfire, moving about in the brush.

"When the attack started, I was the first to see the bear," Miss Huckle said. "Squirt started to squeal. I looked over a log and the bear was loping straight toward the camp. The fire was big and I could see his face and the upper half of his body. Then about four or five feet from me, he stopped.

"By that time I was back under the covers," she said. 'All of a sudden he grabbed one of the packs and we could hear him ripping the pack. Then he stopped and could hear him breathing. I kept Squirt very quiet."

"Then he came toward me," Dunn said. "I could hear him come. I remained perfectly still and he just sniffed. It was kind of hard because I could hear him right above me, breathing. Then I heard a crunch into my sleeping bag. He bit half my shirt right off. I lifted up the covers and hit him. He reared back on his hind legs. I climbed a tree 30 feet high in 10 seconds.

I saw the bear turn toward Ron."

"I yelled to Denise that we had to get out of there," Ron said.

"No, I can't," she replied. "I've got to undo the collar around Squirt's neck." The dog was tied in the sleeping bag with her.

"I kept watching," Ron said, "and the bear took several steps back and started for Michele. Denise and I jumped out of our bags and ran 50 yards down the beach."

"Ron shoved me up a tree," Denise said, "and tried to throw the dog up. I finally caught him."

Paul Dunn, who was in the tree, said: "All of a sudden Michele yelled, 'He's ripping my arm.' By that time, Ray had run down the beach but Michele couldn't get out of her bag. I heard something being dragged down the beach and I realized the bear had the sleeping bag.

"I said "Michele, get out of your bag, run, climb a tree," and she said, "I can't he's got the zipper.'

'Then she screamed, 'Oh my God, I'm dead!'"

TAX ANSWERS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q — I disagree with what your agent proposes as a result of my audit. Is there any way I can have someone else review the case without making a court case out of it? The amount involved is only several hundred dollars.

A — You should inform the examining agent that you do not agree with his proposed adjustments and desire a district conference. A conferee will consider your side of the story as well as the examining agent's and attempt to reach an agreement on the basis of the facts and law involved.

No formal or written protest need be made to obtain such a conference where the amount of the tax liability in question is up to $2,500. The previous limit was $1,000.

Q — I plan to sell some property I inherited from my grandmother. How do I tell whether I have any profit to report?

A — The basis to use is the fair market value at the time you inherited it. If you obtain more than this value when you sell, then you will have to report the difference as income. Don't forget, however, that you may deduct expenses you have in connection with the sale to determine whether you have a gain or loss. The treatment of gains and losses from the sale or exchange of both business and nonbusiness property is explained in IRS Document No. 5048. For a free copy send a post card to your district director.

Q — My teenager has earned almost $600 this summer. If he goes over that figure will we lose our exemption for him?

A — No you won't if he is under 19 or is a full-time student. The other dependency tests must still be met, however.

Your son will have to file a tax return if his income does reach $600 or if taxes have been withheld from his wages and he wants to obtain a refund.

Q — Is there any difference between a pension from the government and one from a private company when it comes to taxes?

A — If the government pension is from Social Security it will not be taxable. Civil Service pensions and those from private companies will be taxable depending on how long it takes to recover the amount of your contributions to them.

This subject is covered in IRS Document No. 5018, Retirement Income and Credit. Send a post card to your district director to obtain a free copy.

Q — I got a letter asking for my Social Security Number. Where should I send it?

A — Send the information to the office requesting it. Most of these inquiries originate from the service center and the information should be sent there.

Check to see if a preaddressed envelope came with the request. One is normally enclosed.

Q — I was reimbursed for travel and hotel expenses by a company which wanted to hire me. I didn't take the job, however. Will I have to declare this expense money as income?

A — The reimbursement will not have to be declared as income unless it exceeds your actual expenses. In that case, the excess should be reported as income when you file your 1967 return. If your expenses exceed the reimbursement they are not deductible.

TECHNICAL EXCHANGE

Soviet Scientist At Space Center

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Aerospace Writer

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — A graying, soft spoken Soviet mathematician has expressed support for a long-sought technical exchange between United States and Soviet scientists.

After delivering a technical paper here Monday before 400 scientists Dr. Alex M. Letov remarked: "I am hopeful that maybe I have initiated some steps in this area of exchange."

Indicating his appearance here might have been a trial balloon, he said: "I am completely satisfied with my presentation and the response of the American scientists. In my report I will reflect this."

Letov is one of the world's leading authorities on spacecraft guidance and control and is chairman of the committee on automatic control of the Soviet Aademy of Sciences.

His paper was one of the most important ever presented by a Russian scientist at a technical meeting in the United States.

To come to Huntsville, Letov received special permission from the State Department. This is the home for the space agency's Marshall Space Flight Center and the Army's Redstone arsenal. Normally it is off limits to Soviet travellers.

Letov was not permitted to visit either installations, but for several days, he has had private discussions with officials of both.

It is this type of personal contact, he said, that promotes better understanding among the scientists of the world.

In his presentation to a conference of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, Letov outlined a complex theory for stabilizing a large manned space station.

The Americans praised the talk, and a guidance and control expert, commenting on its technical significance, said, "It shows the Russians are working on theories for large space station motion. U.S. scientist are mainly concentrating on smaller motions. We also have theories on large motion and we have a long way to go. It appears the Russians do too."

Letov told a news conference later that he could not speak as an official of the U.S.S.R., "but in my viewpoint as a private person, appreciate very much exchanges with those who are students, engineers or technicians in the scientific field."

Average Allowable Up 5,073 Barrels

AUSTIN (AP) — Average total calendar day oil production allowable for Texas wells is 4,075,231 today, the Railroad Commission reports.

This is an increase of 5,073 barrels per day over the Aug. 1 total average allowable of 4,070,158 barrels.

Bankruptcy Hearing Set

DALLAS (AP)—Federal bankruptcy referee Elmore Whitehurst Monday set Sept. 19 as a tentative hearing date for creditors of the bankrupt Associated Merchants of America, Inc.

The big retail discount store filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition last week. AMA has principal offices in Dallas and operates in several cities in Texas, Arizona and Nevada.

Court documents show the action followed a special meeting of the firm's board of directors Aug. 8. Executives agreed to file a petition under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy law, which permits reorganization under court protection and guidance.

A summary of the firm's financial condition, on file with the bankruptcy court clerk here, lists assets of 1.23 million and liabilities of 1,187,500.

The firm does business as AMA Super Stores, Texam Enterprises Inc., AMA Super Store of Nevada and AMA Super Stores of Arizona. Its stores are in Tucson, Ariz.; Las Vegas and Reno, Nev.; and Beaumont, Wichita Falls and Longview.

Year Rugged For Financial Experts

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — This has been a rugged year for the forecasters, most of whom have been kept busy updating, correcting, painfully readjusting and, in the U.S. Treasury's case, revising downward.

The errors are so widespread—and generally on the low side when measuring anticipated revenues—that mankind has a right to wonder if the electronic computer is his friend, or at least as reliable as a friend should be.

The computer, and its tendency to look unemotionally into the future, is the machine that has made us so dependent, so reliant not just on the present but on what is yet to come.

Among the recent statisticala revisions are federal income tax revenue, the death rate, state lottery returns, retail sales, the stock market.

The list is literally endless, but it is most painful and treacherous when it includes forecasts of revenue much higher than produced in reality.

New York State established a lottery this year to raise $198 million annually for schools. But revenue through July trickled in so slowly that it appears as little as $60 million will be raised.

Early this year the Johnson administration anticipated tax collections fully $7 billion higher than the rate at which they are now arriving at the Treasury.

These two examples illustrate the most common error, the same one that plagues households—the anticipation of more money than turns out to be the case.

But all the errors are not misreadings of the future. Sometimes the past is revised also.

Early this month the Commerce Department reduced its estimate of homebuilding activity during June. In fact, it lowered housing figures for the past 4½ years because they did not conform to reality.

The new figures for June show housing starts at an annual rate of 1,209,000 units instead of 1,302,000 under the original figures. The new estimates, the government said, are based on improved calculations.

Nor are all the statistics bad news.

Again looking backward, statisticians this month revised the June figures for retail sales. Counting the dollar signs again, the government lifted the June sales figure $400 million to $26.5 billion. These statistical and forecasting mistakes come at a time when computers, theoretically, have been making it much easier for man to project himself into the future.

We have been able to create a synthetic future but reality often cannot match it.

Barred From DAR Hall, Singer Throws Free Show

By DICK BARNES

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I want to thank the DAR for all the publicity," folksinger Joan Baez told an estimated 30,000 persons she entertained free at the grounds of the Washington Monument Monday night.

Then she sang songs of her antiwar philosophy which the Daughters of the American Revolution had attacked in banning her from their nearby Constitution Hall.

U.S. Park Police set the crowd size at 30,000—ten times Constitution Hall's capacity.

There was a scattering of beards and bare feet, but mostly it was a casually dressed, well-mannered crowd that could as well have been at a Fourth of July celebration.

Thousands who sprawled over the grass on a hill leading to the monument couldn't even see Miss Baez in her above-the-knee, gold and orange flower print dress. But that didn't keep them from shouting song requests or joining in an impromptu hand-clapping, body-swaying rendition of the civil rights song "We Shall Overcome."

Miss Baez would have been guaranteed her standard $10,000 for the concert at Constitution Hall. But the DAR barred her, saying there were reports she had refused to pay part of her income taxes as an anti-Vietnam war protest. So she announced the free program.

The women's group asked Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall to bar her use of the monument grounds. But he refused, saying the long-haired singer had not been charged, indicted or convicted of evading federal income tax laws.

And he said "We've made this facility available for a whole variety of people of all shades of opinion."

"The main point where the DAR and myself differ," Miss Baez told the crowd, "is they think the nation comes above all. But there are 123 nations who think the same thing."

A&M Clipper Ends Voyage

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Clipper, a seagoing school from land-locked Texas A&M University, ended its summer cruise of 11,400 miles Monday.

Several hundred relatives and friends of the 155 students who make up the Clipper's crew were waiting at the dock to welcome the group back to Texas.

The students have been operating the 15,000-ton converted oceanliner at sea since June 17. The vessel made stops at Port of Spain, Trinidad; Rio de Janeiro and Recife, Brazil; and other South American ports.

The crew of the Clipper is made up of recent high school graduates and college freshmen enrolled in what A&M calls "Summer School at Sea." The students took college credit courses in addition to performing duties on the ship.

The rest of the students are cadets at the Texas Maritime Academy, a division of the Texas A&M System. For the cadets the summer cruise was part of their special four-year college course leading to bachelor of science degrees in marine engineering or marine transportation.

The Maritime Academy is here. The parent school is at Bryan, more than a hundred miles to the north.

Policy Of Marking Time Losing Popularity For LBJ

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those were President Johnson's golden days, 1965. This summer of 1967 is hot but for him they are the cold days, getting colder. If he pays attention to public opinion, and he does, it's enough to make him shiver.

Starting out in 1965 he had it all his own way, thanks to the 1964 elections. In Congress his Democrats swamped the Republicans, with 295 to 140 seats in the House, and 67 to 33 seats in the Senate, a two-thirds edge.

No wonder then, with these majorities and his ceaseless prodding, the Democratic-run Congress produced the most remarkable legislative year in history. And he had time for prodding in those days. The Vietnam war was in babyhood.

He had just begun the U.S. military buildup in 1965, with only 165,000 Americans there by the end of the year. He was criticized for being involved in the war at all, but his standing with the voters was high.

In the first six months of 1965, for example, when it was clear the troop buildup had begun in earnest, the Gallup poll showed public approval of the way he handled his job dropped from 71 to 64 per cent.

But by June public approval was back up to 70 percent. This couldn't last unless Congress was able to repeat its amazing performance in 1966 or unless the war somehow could be brought to a quick victorious end. Neither happened.

Congress coasted in 1966 and there were no victories in Vietnam. The war became a nightmare. The troop buildup went on. There was more discontent at home.

This was reflected in the 1966 elections, giving back to the Republicans 48 House seats, three Senate seats. The Johnson breeze in Congress died away. He prodded less as he became more preoccupied by the war.

Congress dawdled this year, just as it did in 1966. he war criticism piled up on Johnson. The doves were still complaining. But so were the hawks now. They wanted Johnson to make the war tougher.

He began talking of a war dragging on indefinitely. The American death toll in Vietnam went up from 1,365 at the end of 1965 to over 12,500 now. And already there is a bad odor from the upcoming elections in Vietnam.

They were supposed to have been a shining symbol of how the United States, which claimed it was fighting the war to assure the South Vietnamese of self-determination, was helping the people establish a democratic society.

On top of the empty basket from Congress, the endless war, and Johnson's realization that he had to ask for a tax boost to pay for the war, he was drenched in the summer of 1967 with riots, the worst in history.

Few can doubt he wants to be re-elected in 1968 but the Gallup and Harris polls over the weekend must have chilled his blood. Both reported that now only 39 per cent of those quizzed approved the way he handles the presidency.

Perhaps a major reason for his sour public reaction is lack of forceful leadership. Johnson and the country, instead of giving a sense of movement, seem to be marking time.

One example: he was criticized for not sending U.S. troops fast enough into Detroit to crush the riot although it still is not clear wheher he or Michigan's Gov. George Romney was responsible for the delay.

But Johnson was far from forceful when he went on television to explain—he did the explaining at midnight—why he sent the troops at all. And he has not been forceful about the riots since.

He set up a commission to study riot problems with instructions not to make its final report until next summer.

Junior Editors Quiz on SPARK PLUGS

QUESTION: How does a spark plug make power to run an engine?

ANSWER: A spark plug, just by itself, does not provide power for an engine. What it does is to provide a spark inside the cylinder of a gasoline engine. A mixture of air and gasoline is drawn into the engine's cylinder and is compressed by the up-stroke of the piston to a point where it is very explosive. Just at this point, the spark plug is timed to produce its spark. This sets the air-gasoline mixture afire. The burning gases expand violently, and this expansion pushes the piston down (upper right) and provides power to operate the engine. How does a spark plug in a car produce a spark? An electric current leads from one pole of the car's battery. Its voltage is increased and it flows by a wire into the top of the spark plug (upper left). The current passes through the plug by an insulated metal electrode which sticks out at the bottom. Another electrode comes out close by, but does not touch the first one; it is connected with the other pole of the battery. When electricity is sent to the plug, the current jumps the gap between the two electrodes; this makes the spark. 8-15

WATCH DRILLS — Three interested observers among those watching the Tiger gridiron hopefuls work out Monday were, from left to right, Ray Kizer, Leslie Brown and Billy Stewart. The three are Tiger exes who soon will be drilling for collegiate action. Ray, a Sophomore who was "red-shirted" last season, is a "monster back" for Southwest Texas State at San Marcos. Leslie, a junior, is a starting wingback for TCU at Fort Worth. Billy figures prominently in the linebacking plans of Arlington State at Arlington. He is a junior in eligibility.

Sun Greets Grid Candidates Today

Nature smiled on the Snyder Tiger football candidates again late yesterday afternoon. A cloud hid the sun throughout the second lengthy drill of the day as the young athletes donned pads again for another head-knocking session.

All phases of the game except kicking came in for review, although most of the work was done on fundamentals — blocking and tackling. Some running plays were tried with different backfield combinations as Coach Wayne Tyrone seeks to find adequate replacements for last year's starting unit.

Several sophomores participated in the drills, including Eddie McClain, Ricky Glasscock and Lee McNair.

The first drill today began with the sun bearing down in full force. Many of the boys were nursing sore muscles and minor bruises, but there were no casualties serious enough to prevent participation in the drills.

More of the same hard work was on tap this afternoon as the twice daily workouts were to continue until the opening of school.

Coach Tyrone said the opening tilt at Andrews is set for 8:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 8. The later opening date was set up by Andrews school officials because Daylight Saving Time still will be in effect until October. A district meeting will be held in the near future to discuss the possibility of changing the "kick-off" time for district games from 7:30 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Dinner Given For Hagen

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — "You're only here for a short visit. Don't hurry. Don't worry. And be sure to smell the flowers along the way."

Exactly when golfing great Walter Hagen made that statement is lost in the mists of time.

But to Hagen, now 75 and muted by three operations for throat cancer, the flowers probably never smelled sweeter than Monday night.

Some 250 pepole, including Arnold Palmer and former Masters and U.S. Open champion Cary Middlecoff turned this remote, northern lower Michigan resort into the golf capital of the world, attending a testimonial dinner for "The Haig."

And despite the fact that Hagen, father of modern professional golf and only man ever to win five PGA titles and four British Opens, could not amuse them with the antics and tales that made him as famous off the links as on, he obviously enjoyed himself.

A good bit of the praise for Hagen, who has lived in this area for some 10 years, was good natured ribbing that concentrated not so much on how he became the first man in history to win $1 million swinging a club, but how he spent it.

Hagen, besides being the only man to ever to win five PGA titles, is also the only one ever to have won four of them in a row. He quit playing competitive golf in 1939 and stopped playing social golf in 1945.

Physicals Set At Junior High Schools

Football candidates for the Junior High School teams at Travis Junior High School were asked to report for their physicals at the field house according to the following schedule: 7th grade, Tuesday, Aug. 22; 8th grade, Wednesday, Aug. 23; and, 9th grade, Thursday, Aug. 24th.

Coach Bill Herrington said the physicals will be given at 7:30 p.m. during each of the respective nights.

Candidates for the Lamar Junior High School teams were asked to report to the Lamar gym at 7:30 a.m. Friday morning.

Coach Tommy Echols said the 9th grade candidates would receive their physicals first, followed by the 8th grade and then the 7th grade.

ARDUOUS DRILLS — Candidates for the 1967 Snyder High School football team wasted no time preparing for the season opener Sept. 8 at Andrews. They donned full pads and engaged in two lengthy drills during the first day of practice Monday. Workouts will continue twice daily until the beginning of school.

Twins Tip California 2-1 To Widen American Lead

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Outside the stadium it said Baseball Tonight, but inside the Twins and Angels were involved in something Abner Doubleday never dreamed of.

Minnesota's 2-1 victory over California was a game in which the Twins didn't score when they should have and did score when they shouldn't have. A game where the losing pitcher went all the way and only allowed seven hits.

A game that had only three runs scored but took three hours and 12 minutes to play. A game that even Bill Rigney's brand new Moose from El Paso couldn't change.

In the only other American League game Monday, New York beat Baltimore 5-4.

In the Naional League, t. Louis edged Chicago 6-5, Pittsburgh nudged Cincinnati 4-3, San Francisco beat Atlanta 6-2 and New York took Philadelphia 8-3. Los Angeles and Houston were idle.

But to begin at the beginning of this California-Minnesota business, the outcome of which put the Twins a full game ahead of Chicago in the American League pennant race. The beginning was the top of the seventh inning.

Dave Boswell of the Twins and George Brunet of the Angels were locked in a scoreless battle and Minnesota had managed only one hit. Suddenly, however, the bases were loaded with none out on three singles—one legitimate, one a bad hop and one a bunt. Surely the Twins would score.

Surely, not. Zoilo Versalles hit a shallow fly to right. Cesar Tovar hit a shallow fly to left Tony Oliva hit a line drive, at least, but Roger Repoz caught it.

We retire now to the bottom of the seventh. Short and sweet. Repoz hit one out of the park. 1-0, Angels.

The Twins' eighth began quietly enough. Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison flied out meekly. And when Hank Izquierdo hit a gentle grounder to short, the inning appeared ended.

But hold. Jim Fregosi threw the ball over the first baseman's head and there was Hank on second. A single by Jackie Hernandez, a double by Ted Uhlaender and the Twins were up by one. But it wasn't over yet.

Two singles by the Angels in the bottom of the ninth with one out made things tense for the Twins. Jim Kaat, normally a starter, came in for Boswell and got Bubba Morton to line out. Al Worthington, a battle-hardened reliever, came in for Kaat. Larry Stubing hit for Bobby Knoop.

Larry Stubing? Why sure, bought only three days ago from El Paso. This was his first time up in the majors. They call him Moose for physical reasons.

A passed ball. Men on second and third. Your big chance, Moose. A decent single could win the game.

But a called third strike ended that dream and, mercifully, the game. Brunet, 11-14, took the loss, despite his fine performance.

In the Yankees' victory, starting pitcher Steve Barber and Joe Pepitone each drove in a pair of runs and reliever Bill Monbouquette helped Barber to his eighth victory of the season.

Astros Call Pitchers From Two Farm Clubs

HOUSTON (AP) — Two pitchers are moving up from farm clubs of the Houston Astros to bolster the National League team.

One is righthander Bruce Von Hoff, 23, who has a 4-2 record this season with Amarillo in the Texas League and was 9-4 last year with Durham, N.C. He may start here tonight against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The other is reliever Tom Dukes, 25, also a righthander, purchased from Oklahoma City in the Pacific Coast League. In 103 innings he has fanned 112 batters and compiled a 3-3 record with a 2.45 earned run average.

Houston asked young righthander Barry Latman to report to Oklahoma City in order to make room for Von Hoff. Latman said he would tell the Astros today whether he'll comply.

Gun Club Winners

Grand aggregate winner in the hunting rifle matches held Sunday at the Canyon Gun Club range was Charles Hough of Friona. He fired a score of 200-14X.

Second place went to Pat Gilstrap of Snyder, who posted a 198-15X. Third place was won by Harry Ward of Snyder, who fired a 198-12X.

BROWNS IN CONFUSION

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

HIRAN, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns' camp has been a headquarters for the Bureau of Missing Persons this summer. The holdout of five veterans and temporary absences of Army personnel have contributed to mass confusion.

When the Browns met Philadelphia in their first exhibition, Coach Blanton Collier had three strange faces in his defensive backfield and secondary personnel at several other key positions.

Leroy Kelly, John Wooten, Sidney Williams and Mike Howell still were holding out. Howell was away at Army camp with Paul Warfield, Ernie Kellerman and Randy Schultz and Ross Fichtner had injured ribs.

Another holdout, John Brown, already had been traded and Williams later was dealt away.

Reserve quarterback Jim Ninowski, later traded to Washington for Dick Shiner, also was holding out.

Frank Ryan, recuperating from surgery on his right elbow, was used sparingly—although he seems to be throwing well—while Collier took a long look at Gary Lane as a backup quarterback.

The holdout of Kelly, who rushed for 1,141 yards last year, gave Collier a solid look at Larry Conjar, the workhorse of Notre Dame's 1966 national champions. On early evidence, he seems to have it made. Kelly is back in harness, although determined to play out his option.

Eventually, Kelly and Ernie Green will be at the running posts, backed by Conjar, Schultz and second-year man Charley Jaraway.

The Browns might have the three top receivers in the National Foooball League in Warfield at split end, Gary Collins at flanker and Milt Morin at tight end. Morin could be the coming tight end in the league. Eppie Barney, fleet rookie flanker from Iowa State, is a fine prospect and Clifton McNeil is available.

The Browns' success in running and protecting the passer last year came from the solid offensive line and tackles Dick Schafrath and Monte Clark, guards Gene Hickerson and Wooten and center Fred Hoaglin will be back. The best looking kids are John Demarie of LSU and Joe Taffoni of U. of Tennessee, Martin Branch.

Defense and a so-so pass rush were the big problems in 1966 and probably will be again with the front line men aging and few replacements available.

Paul Wiggin, 32, and Bill Glass, 32, again man the ends with possible help from rookies Eugene Jackson of Texas Western and Jack Gregory of Chattanooga. Jim Kanicki, Walt Johnson and Frank Parker are the tackles.

Vince Costello, the 35-year-old middle linebacker, might give way to Dale Lindsey, a third year pro from Western Kentucky. Jim Houston and John Brewer will be the outside backer, although Bob Matheson, the No. 1 draft from Duke, could earn a regular job.

Carl Ward, an offensive back at Michigan, is getting a crack at Howell's corner job opposite veteran Erich Ficthner. When Fichtner is healthy he will be at one safety and Kellerman at the other.

One of the most interesting battles has been between field goal kickers Lou Groza, the 43-year-old veteran of 21 pro seasons, and Don Cockroft, the No. 3 draftee from Adams State. Cockroft also is a punter, giving Collins a chance to rest.

Worster, Speyrer Lost To Texas Oil Bowl Team

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — The Texas squad reeled from losses of such stars as Steve Worster, Charles Speyrer and Randy Stout as it prepared today to meet a strong Oklahoma crew in the Oil Bowl Friday night.

Worster, Bridge City's great running back, departed with the statement that the didn't want to play any more fooball right now.

Speyrer, the fleet Port Arthur halfback, suffered a knee injury in the Pennsylvania Big 33 game and will require surgery, and Stout has a hurt shoulder that will keep him out of action here.

While their places will be be filled, the losses and changes put the Texas squad so far behind in its work that even its staunchest backers were predicting that Oklahoma would win.

Oklahoma reached full strength Monday with the arrival of the last player scheduled to report. He is Randy Lawrence, Duncan tackle.

Johnn Robinson, Plano back and Kenneth Davis, Plano tackle, who played in the Big 33 game, reported Monday but Robinson has an injued knee. He is expected to play but hardly can be in top form.

Andy Brewer, Dallas Hillcrest tackle, and Bob Mooney, San Marcos tackle, will fill two of the vacated spots on the Texas squad. A third player is being sought.

Oklahoma looked very good in its workouts. It appeared Texas will go up against a terrific running game and a most dangerous passing attack from the Sooners.

Forb Phillips of Tulsa Hale, Jom Quck of Ardmore and Rick Thompson of Shawnee make the rushing strong. Wayne Ward of Talihina heads an aerial game that clicks because of great receivers like Danny Hardaway of Lawton, who caught 55 passes for 996 yards last season.

Texas isn't deep in quarterbacks but it has one who should stack up with any of them in Karl Douglas of Houston Worthing. However, the running could be weaker than Oklahoma's with Worster and Speyrer absent.

Two Snyder Stars Spark Colt Nine

Hulen Malone and Robert Braziel, both of Snyder, play for the Lubbock Colts baseball team which finished second in its league. Edmondberg took a 7-5 decision over the Colts to grab the title.

Malone was voted the most popular player in the league. Both athletes also play for the Snyder Redlegs. Malone also was named to the All-District team. He resides on Route 2 on the Colorado City Highway. Braziel lives at 1010 Thirty - second Street.

Houston Oilers Hit By Rash Of Injuries

KERRVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A pinched nerve is going to keep seasoned defensive end Gary Cutsinger from playing with the Houston Oilers this season.

Coach Wally Lemm said Monday the chronic condition caused physicians to put the six-year veteran in traction. He had said earlier that Pat Holmes would replace Cutsinger, but added there could be further change.

Two other ailing members of the American Football League club's squad showed up Monday for physical checks—middle linebacker Pete Barnes and fullback Charley Tolar.

Barnes injured a knee in warming up before practice and rehurt it Saturday night against Oakland. Trainer Bobby Brown said an operation may be necessary.

Changes Noted In Houston's Anti-Poverty Organization

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Less affluent Houston residents elected 35 new directors of the city's antipoverty organization Monday while the mayor, two members of Congress and fired employes of the agency criticized its work.

There were 190 candidates for the 35 seats on the 150-member board. About 3,200 of Houston's 370,000 poor voted in the election of the Harris County Community Action Association election.

The outcome left those places in "middle of the road" hands, according to the agency's publicist, Aileen Wall.

Also on the board are 15 "representatives of the poor" selected earlier, plus 50 selected by civic and service agencies, 5 named by County Judge Bill Elliott and 25 picked by Mayor Louie Welch.

Francis Williams, executive director of the HCCAA, called a news conference to explain the assocation's purchases of 16 walkie-talkes and four police-band radios.

He said they were needed for trouble periods such as last week's demonstration, in which 25 pickets blocked the doors of HCCAA headquarters. The pickets protested dismissal of two employes indicted for murder in May rioting at Texas Southern University and a third who made a radio speech without agency permission.

Williams fired 14 more employes Monday. He said they also took part in that demonstration. During the picketing, he used walkie-talkies to speak from his office to policemen and aides of Mayor Welch.

Welch reported purchase of the radios at his own news conference, speculating they were "to find lost children." He was exercised over an HCCAA requisition for seven telescopic rifle sights, explained by agency property director George T. Miller as an effort to obtain free lenses for making classroom microscopes.

The mayor accused Miller, a one-time deputy sheriff, of changing his story and of reading an explanation written by another person. Miller said Sunday the words were his own.

A report on the radio purchases and criticism of the rifle sight order were contained in a letter Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said he sent Sen. John L. McLellan, D-Ark., requesting a Senate probe of the HCCAA.

Rep. George Bush, R-Tex., a Houston resident, made a similar request for congressional probe in a speech Monday on the House floor.

Tower also wrote Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, asking the antipoverty program chief why OEO approved a purchase of rifle sights.

Sen. Ralph Yarborough D-Tex., asserted political motives prompted Tower and Bush to request the investigations. He added that the only probe he considers necessary is one by the OEO.

Yarborough said, "It's high time that people quit nitpicking the poverty program to death."

The OEO said last Friday that it had been investigating the rifle sight order for 10 days along with the FBI and the Air Force.

The Air Force was to have filled the order but Lester Washington, a civilian employe at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio, said he vetoed the requisition because the scopes were not "suitable" for poverty work.

The Houston Post reported today that an unnamed HCCAA official showed one of its reporters a July 27 letter from the Air Force base to the agency stating the scopes were ready for delivery when the HCCAA could pick them up.

An Air Force official said Monday night in San Antonio that Kelly AFB received the order as approved by the General Services Administration and set about filling it normally, sending the pickup letter which the HCCAA official displayed.

The requisition went to Washington's desk for final processing, the official said, and Washington "questioned the validity" of the order. He took it to his superior officer, who, in turn, forwarded it to Col. V. M. Gillum, director of supply and transportation for the San Antonio Air Materiel Area.

Gillum put a hold order on the requisition and asked Air Force security to begin an investigation. The spokesman at Kelly said the order remains on "hold" status.

THE JUDGES WERE COWARDS — A committee of judges in Hollywood couldn't decide whether Karen Sprecht, left, or her twin sister, Beth, should represent Los Angeles in a national "Model of the Year" contest to be staged later this month in Hollywood. They told the girls to flip a coin, and Karen won. The 18-year-old girls have identical measurements of 35-23-35, stand 5'8", and weigh 120 pounds. The contest is for "undiscovered" photogenic girls with some modelling experience. (AP Wirephoto)

Drug May Help Combat Cancer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists for a drug firm believe they have found a new way to prevent viral infection which also could be used to fight any types of cancer found to be of viral origin.

Five researchers for Merck Sharp & Dome said Monday they discovered how to stimulate the human body to produce a natural germ-fighting chemical called interferon. This is a protein produced by the body but sometimes not enough is produced to overcome virus attacks.

A Merck spokesman said if it's established that some types of cancer are of viral origin, the new discovery could have significant implications.

The researhers have used three interferon-inducing substances in animal tests and say the results were promising. They said the medication may be tried on humans.

Interferon slows the spread of infect by preventing viral reproduction in cells and works against several types of viruses. Consequently, if the research is fully successful, the use of a single interferon-inducing medication could replace the variety of vacinations now given to prevent several diseases.

The research team, headed by Dr. Maurice R. Hilleman, plans to publish three reports on its work in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences.

Hilleman, working for the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research during the 190s, was one of those alerting the nation in advance of the first Asian flu outbreak to hit the United States. The others on his team are George P. Lamson and Drs. Alfred A. Tytell, A. Kirk Field and Marjorie Nemes.

Rap Brown Indicted

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — The Dorchester County grand jury, meeting in special session has returned indictments charging Black Power advocate H. Rap Brown with arson and inciting to riot in a racial disturbance in Cambridge July 24.

The grand jury also charged Monday that Brown, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, acted in concert with others "for a disturbance of the public peace."

Brown is presently free on bail after his arrest in Virginia on charges of interstate flight to avoid prosecution in Maryland. An extradition hearing for Brown is scheduled in Richmond Aug. 23.

Thirty-eight witnesses testified before the grand jury before the indictments were handed down against Brown and five other Negroes who are already out on bond. All the charges stem from the July 24 riot.

Annual Fisher Fair Slated Aug. 24-26

ROBY — The 22nd Annual Fisher County Fair opens with judging of the Women's Division of the Fair Aug. 24 and continues through Aug. 26. Mrs. Bill Lee, Superintendent of the Women's Division of the fair, urged all Fisher County people as well as residents of Scurry, Nolan, Jones, Stonewall, and Kent Counties to make plans now to exhibit in the fair. Mrs. Lee reminded that entries should be at the exhibit building on the fair grounds by 5 p. m. Aug. 23. The exception to this is perishables which may be brought to the building by 9 am. August 24.

Assisting Mrs. Lee will be Mrs. O. O. Hollabaugh, Mrs. Joe Miers, Mrs. Lowell Thornburg, Mrs. Carl Schubert, Mrs. J. P. Phillips, Mrs. Fred Waddell, and Mrs. Bill Hardy.

The same rules also apply to the Youth Division of the Fair. Mrs. Howard Whitworth is Superintendent of this division, assisted by Mrs. W. D. Cleveland, Deborah Sue Smith, Peggy Coffman, Mrs. A. A. Smith, Annette Cleveland, Nancy Whitworth, Mrs. Thurman Terry, Marsha Armstrong, and Zanna Beth Anderson.

Anyone who would care for a copy of the fair catalogue may secure one by contacting the office of the county agent in the courthouse in Roby.

LTV Plans Big New Purchase

DALLAS (AP) — Ling-Temco-Vought, Inc. (LTV) Monday proposed to acquire all of the outstanding common shares and preferred stock of Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co.

The LTV offer could total some $590 million, and was made in a telegram to directors of Allis-Chalmers. Earlier it had sought to control the Wisconsin firm by buying about 51 per cent of the stock. The Allis-Chalmers board of directors rejected that offer.

In a telegram Monday, James J. Ling, chairman of LTV, said his company had re-examined the original tender offer and agreed with the Allis-Chalmers board that it would be more appropriate for his company to buy all the outstanding stock of Allis-Chalmers.

Allis - Chalmers Saturday rejected the original LTV offer and announced the company had been holding discussions with General Dynamics Corp. about a possible merger involving an exchange of stock.

General Dynamics, with headquarters in New York, is a diversified aircraft, nuclear - submarine and building materials maker. Allis - Chalmers with headquarters in West Allis, Wis. is a maker of electrical, industrial and agricultural equipment.

Texans Back Lease Bill For Alaska

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rancher from the nation's second largest state told a senate subcommittee Monday that Alaska's rangelands can grow cattle bigger and cheaper than Texas'.

Norman Moser of DeKalb, Tex., and his brother, Otto, urge a Senate Subcommittee to approve a bill sponsored by Alaska Democratic Sens. Ernest Gruening and E.L. Bartlett that would approve long term land leases to encourage greater capital investments.

The bill would allow the Interior Department to issue leases for up to 55 years for livestock gazing on goverment land in Alaska. The present limit is 20 years.

With eight years still left on their present lease, said Norman Moser, they have built the Alaska ranch up to where they now are raising 10,000 head of sheep, 100 head of cattle and 17 horses. They lease 255,000 acres, paying a head unit fee which amounts to 12 cents per sheep a year and five times that on cattle.

"It takes time to build up a ranch, he said, "We're just now beginning to break even. Our investment totals $180,000. We ne to invest more but we can't get the financing unless we've got a long term lease."

Then a senator asked him about Alaska's potential and whether a cow would gain full size there. "I think it would outweigh one of our Texas cattle by 100 to 150 pounds per head, when full grown," Moser replied.

Elaborating on problems that arise on their ranch on Umnak Island 900 miles from Anchorage, Otto Moser said transportation is the biggest cost item.

The sheep are grown strictly for wool, he said. Livestock can graze almost year round, but need some supplemental feed. Because of the remotenss, beef sales are limited largely to airlines. Supplies are brought in once a year by ship.

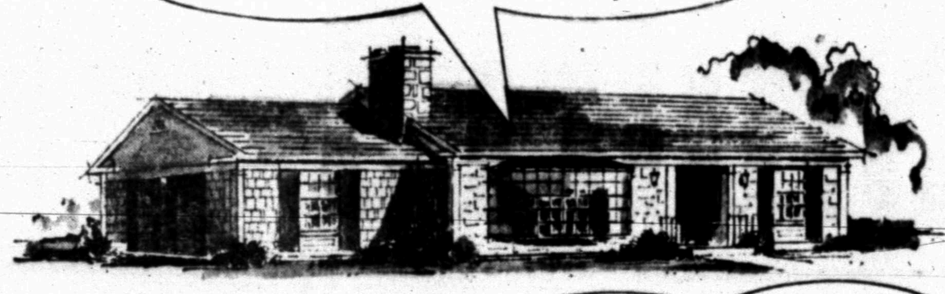

The subcommittee approved the bill.
