Red Rover Still Rolls Over Moon

BOCHUM, Germany (AP) — The director of the West German Space Observatory said today that the Soviet mobile moon laboratory may keep operating indefinitely and explore a wide area of the moon's surface.

Heinz Kaminski, the director of the Bochum Institute, said such robot modules are the most economical means of exploring the moon and do the job without risking human lives.

He said a rough analysis of the data, collected by his radio telescopes from the Robot, Lunokhod 1, shows it has another two to three days of sunlight to work in before lunar night sets in and the moon's temperature sinks to about minus 238 degrees Fahrenheit. This lunar night will last about 14 days.

"Lunokhod 1 is surely designed to survive this extremely low temperature for a fortnight with its batteries keeping the inside working temperature. After sunrise, its activities can then continue," Kaminski said.

After that, Lunokhod 1 could start a permanent mobile exploration of the Sea of Rains and the adjoining Sea of Storms, in all a distance of about 1,500 kilometers, or 940 miles.

The Russians have given no indication of the extent of Lunokhod's mission.

'Manson Is Furious'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The defense in the Sharon Tate murder trial starts today with arguments for dismissal of charges against Charles Manson and three women.

"These defendants think that the prosecution has failed to even raise suspicion of their guilt," asserts lawyer Paul Fitzgerald, spokesman for the four-lawyer defense team. "They feel that the prosecution case is totally absurd and preposterous. They laugh about it."

"Manson is furious," said Fitzgerald. "He really feels that he's the only one who can adequately put on his defense."

Want To Quiz Bank Robber

DALLAS (AP) — Police disclosed Wednesday they want to question an escaped bank robber from New Orleans about a holdup at the Citizens National Bank of Dallas.

They identified him as Jay Dennis Gould, 25, who was convicted of a March 17 robbery at the Bank of Louisiana in New Orleans.

Detective Tom Sewell said Gould, escaped from a psychiatric observation center there while waiting to be sentenced and since has been sought for questioning about a July 13 raid on a bank in Reno, Nev.

YOU MEAN WE'VE GOT SIX MORE?!

Big Springers watched the skies today as dust from this year's 22nd sandstorm covered the area. Records kept since 1952 at the Big Spring Experiment Station show that Big Spring averages about 28 such storms a year.

This year, Donald Fryrear, superintendent of the experiment station, said, there wasn't much sandstorm activity in the spring, but there has been more than average this fall.

Fryrear said the sandstorm could result in cotton farmers receiving lower prices for their crop if the dust gets into the cotton fiber. "It doesn't hurt the quality of the cotton, but the dust does tend to discolor the fiber, and result in slightly lower cotton prices," he said.

Estimates are that slightly more than half of the area's cotton has already been harvested.

A sandstorm is created when three conditions exist, Fryrear said. "We have to have a dry soil, a relatively high wind and no surface cover before the dust becomes a sandstorm."

New Insurance Rate Mixing To Cost Texas Car Owners

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Insurance Board announced today a new approach to auto insurance rate-making that will include profits from investments but will raise the cost of insurance to policyholders.

The board said at a news conference it would set rates that will give insurance companies a rate of return "comparable with" the 10-year average rate of return of industrial firms.

Chairman Ned Price said the 10-year Standard & Poors industrial average, which will be used as the guideline, was 11.56 per cent of net worth after taxes, counting all sources of income.

'BLUE' MONDAY

Board members were quick to point out that they would not necessarily set car insurance rates that would guarantee insurors an average of 11.56 per cent profit from their investments and underwriting.

"If there were no change in rates indicated this year by underwriting, would this approach require an increase in rates?" the board was asked.

"We haven't seen those figures yet, but, yes it would," replied Price.

The board declined to give any information on indicated changes in car insurance rates, saying all this would come out at the annual auto insurance rate hearing Monday.

'EXPENSE' ITEM

The board did say rates definitely would rise, although not above 25 per cent—the board's long-standing ceiling on any rate increase.

The new rating formula will include taxes as an "expense' item for the first time, rather than lumping it in with profit.

For many years the board has used a formula that allows 5 cents out of every premium dollar for profits, taxes and "contingencies."

Price said this was "confiscatory," since for years companies have failed to make this amount and have had to rely on their investments to make a profit on car insurance.

'FAIR RATE'

In issuing the "fair rate of return" policy, the board also declared it will expect each company seeking a new or renewal license to do business in Texas "to provide a broad automobile insurance market for all insurable risks falling within the classes the company is authorized to underwrite.

"This is considered an absolute must by the board," he said.

The board has been concerned with policy cancellations and refusal of companies to write new car insurance policies for acceptable risks.

In its official notice, the board commented that organized labor, some public officials and a number of citizen groups have advocated for years that investment income should be considered in setting rates.

OPPOSITION

The argument has been that by recognizing insurance company profits from investment policyholders' premiums, the board could lower rates.

A special committee appointed last year by Gov. Preston Smith recommended that investment income should be included in the rate-making formula.

After years of staunch opposition, most of the insurance industry agreed at a board hearing in October that investment income should be considered.

An industry advisory committee recommended "fair rate of return" of 4.7 per cent from underwriting and 7 per cent on investments, both after taxes, as "an absolute minimum."

Mitchell Says He Shot No One In Viet Hamlet

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — With tears glistening on his cheeks, S. Sgt. David Mitchell testified today he shot no one in a South Vietnamese hamlet during an alleged massacre in 1968, and he saw no one shot.

Ossie Brown, Mitchell's lawyer, asked him one question: "Did you shoot any Vietnamese people . . .?"

'NO, SIR'

"No, sir . . ." Mitchell interrupted.

". . . in a ditch at My Lai 4 on March 16, 1968?"

"No, sir, Mr. Brown, I did not."

"I tender the witness," Brown said.

Under cross-examination by Capt. Michael Swan, Mitchell said he helped gather up approximately 30 Vietnamese civilians.

He said he took the civilians to a ditch outside My Lai, left them there in the custody of Paul Meadlo, Terre Haute, Ind., and then set up a perimeter 50 or 60 meters beyond the ditch with his squad.

Mitchell said 1st Lt. William L. Calley Jr. later ordered him to go back into the village "to check it out."

"Did you see anybody shot that day?" Swan asked.

"No, sir, I didn't," Mitchell replied.

The defense rested after Mitchell's testimony.

The seven-officer jury requested that the testimony of the three prosecution witnesses be read over to them. This was scheduled for Thursday afternoon.

FINAL ARGUMENTS

Final arguments are expected Friday morning, with the case going to the jury the same afternoon.

Mitchell admitted he could not recall the whereabouts of each member of his squad that day. He could not recall seeing some of them the entire day, he said. He said he saw Lt. Calley only twice and his platoon sergeant not at all.

HOW STRANGE

Swan asked him if it was "standard operating procedure to have so little contact with his superiors during a combat mission. "Isn't it a little unusual?" Swan asked.

"Yes, sir, it is," Mitchell answered.

Swan asked him if he could explain why other witnesses saw civilians shot that day and he did not.

"No, sir, I cannot," Mitchell said.

Mitchell said Calley ordered him to go back into the village and that he did so.

"You did as you were instructed?" Swan asked.

"Yes, sir."

"And if Lt. Calley ordered you to shoot people in the ditch, you would have shot them?"

"No, sir, I would have questioned it."

I DID NOT

"He ordered you to finish them off, didn't he?"

"No, sir, he didn't."

Mitchell wiped his eyes repeatedly with a handkerchief.

Regarding his failure to recall all incidents of that day, he said in a breaking voice: "I've been thinking about it for a year and a half and I'm still not sure . . . I'm positive I shot at no one."

Swan asked how he could be positive about that when he could not be about other matters.

"Sir, I know what I did, and I can state what I didn't do."

Mitchell said he fired his M16 rifle that day but only to kill animals in the village.

The only time he was near the ditch was when he crossed it on three occasions, he said.

"You made no inquiry about the firing (he heard)?" Swan asked.

"No, sir, I did not."

Brown also said he had given up on getting the testimony of 1st. Lt. William L. Calley Jr. who is being court-martialed at Ft. Benning, Ga., on charges of murdering 102 South Vietnamese civilians at My Lai.

Clean Story For Readers

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — The Ecology Club at Saguaro High School, to promote antilittering, had urged students for three days to deliberately spread litter in the school courtyard near a snack bar. The idea was to demonstrate the result if everyone was careless.

The club had planned a clean-up after classes Wednesday.

But when the pickup team arrived, accompanied by newsmen, it found that a small, energetic band of freshman girls who couldn't stand it any longer had sneaked out during the early afternoon and cleaned up the mess themselves.

Head Start Woes Continue To Soar

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite President Nixon's commitment to promote the welfare of preschool children, administration and congressional budget cutting may turn away an estimated 10,000 youngsters from the Head Start program.

With the House paring funds for the preschool program to $321 million, Dr. Edward F. Sigler, director of Health, Education and Welfare's Office of Child Development, has told regional Head Start officials to plan for a money reduction averaging between 7 and 10 per cent for the fiscal year ending next June 21.

KICKING KIDS

Head Start officials say a $321 million appropriation would result in at least 10,000 children being turned away from the program.

The fund cut "will mean different things in different communities," Sigler said in an interview. "In some it will mean cutting out lightly-attended programs, in others cutting back summer programs; and in some kicking children out of ongoing full-year programs that stretch over two years.

"The one thing I absolutely refuse to do, however, is sacrifice quality by offering reduced services to the same number of children," he said.

Head Start officials estimate $350 million is required to finance the education, nutrition, and health services now offered the 263,000 children in full year programs and 209,000 children in summer programs for the disadvantaged.

PROTESTS

President Nixon—who promised in February, 1969, "to provide all American children an opportunity for healthful and stimulating development during the first five years of life"—requested $339 million for Head Start.

The administration, however, did not ask Congress for more after it became clear $350 million was required to maintain the program at present levels.

And the House then cut the figure to $321 million.

The prospective cutback, however, has produced protests from parents and Head Start organizations, a last-minute legislative push in the Senate and an indefinite offer of help from HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson.

Led by New York Republican Jacob K. Javits, a group of senators hopes to boost the figure to $398 million.

Patsy Hurts 300, Kills 11 In Manila

MANILA (AP) — Typhoon Patsy cut across Manila today, killing 11 persons, injuring more than 300 and flooding thousands out of their homes in the city of three million.

Casualty reports poured in after winds of up to 137 miles an hour roared through thickly populated districts.

Hundreds of uprooted trees blocked traffic on the boulevard along Manila Bay.

Rain continued and water was knee-deep along many sections of the boulevard, which passes the major hotels, foreign embassies and nightclubs.

Communications were out in many areas and there were no reports from the outlying provinces.

The weather bureau said the full force of the storm hit just north of Manila and ripped across Luzon Island, forcing schools and businesses to close. The eye of the storm passed over about noon.

Black Panthers Stand Pat Against Orders To Vacate

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Black militants who clashed with police in a shootout two months ago and later commandeered a city-owned apartment building for their new headquarters stood pat today against orders to vacate the premises.

The Housing Authority of New Orleans, after working three weeks for a peaceful eviction, asked police to "take every step necessary" to remove the squatters.

Police officials had privately expressed reluctance to risk an armed confrontation over violation of a state trespassing law which has a maximum penalty of a $50 fine.

They said they had been trying to persuade the squatters to move through "every available means."

A spokesman for the militants, however, asserted: "We don't negotiate with pigs."

The militants are members of the National Committee to Combat Fascism (NCCF), a recruiting arm for the Black Panthers. They took over the vacant two-story building low-rent Desire Street Housing Project on Oct. 25 after they were evicted from their old headquarters around the corner.

The eviction followed a Sept. 14 shootout with police who went to the building when two undercover agents were discovered and beaten and a policeman was shot and wounded.

Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison said his office had determined that the NCCF was violating state trespass law by occupying the second building.

"We feel that the projects are for the people. The people want us here and we're going to stay here," was the reply by one of the militants.

"We offered to pay rent when we moved here and they would not take it. So we took it to the higher authority, to the people."

'No Tickee–No Laundlee' Wong?

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The West Virginia attorney general's office has based an opinion on the "words of wisdom" of the "noted Chinese philosopher Wong Chin."

The West Virginia Racing Commission asked for the opinion involving a claim of $710 from Louise Kitt of Hillside, Md. She said she accidentally destroyed 10 winning $10 exacta tickets for a race in 1969 at the Charles Town, Turf Club which were worth $71k.

But Dennis R. Vaughan Jr., an assistant state attorney general, said state law requires conclusive proof of purchase, adding:

"In 1849, in the gold fields of California, there were uttered words of wisdom by the noted Chinese philosopher Wong Chin, who gave to the legal world that immortal maxim, 'No tickee—no laundlee.' Or, he said, in this case: "No tickee—no money."

Boss Of SBA Is Resigning

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Hilary Sandoval Jr. said Wednesday night he is resigning as head of the Small Business Administration, effective Jan. 1, 1971.

Sandoval cited failing health as the sole reason for his resignation. He has been undergoing tests for a heart condition in an El Paso hospital.

He was appointed to the post by President Nixon in February of 1969.

Under his direction the SBA granted more than 32,000 loans and slashed its uncollectable loan rate from eight per cent to five per cent. It more than tripled the number of loans to minority groups.

In a letter to Nixon, Sandoval said, "While I sincerely wish I were able to serve through what will certainly be the two terms of your administration, recent consultations with my physicians make such a course unrealistic."

JUDGE TO RULE IN MIDLAND

Nichol's Family Tree Shows History Of Mental Illness

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — The judge was to rule today whether a close friend of defendant William B. Nichols can give his opinion of Nichols' sanity three days before the slaying of Nichols' wife.

Attorney Jim Boldrick, a close friend of Nichols, was asked Wednesday to tell the court his opinion of Nichols' sanity three days before the slaying of Diane Nichols, 30.

Dist. Judge Perry Pickett recessed the trial until Thursday morning to rule on the objection by Nichols' attorney that Boldrick could answer about his current opinion but not his opinion at the time of the slaying.

Most of Wednesday's testimony came from Mrs. Leonard Nichols of Dallas, mother of the defendant.

She testified that Nichols was her son by a previous marriage and introduced a family tree showing a history of mental illness.

She testified she had been concerned about her son's mental health since 1965 when she said he began to suffer blackouts.

She told the court that the week before the slaying, she had taken her son to Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., for what she called an evaluation "because he wasn't acting normally for a 31-year old boy."

Billy Walsh, Nichols' defense attorney, told the court in his opening statement that the defense expected to show his client was "crazy at the time Diane Nichols was killed" and that he "has been deteriorating since 1965."

No Leads On Gunman

LAMESA — Police said this morning that they have no leads in their investigation of a Wednesday morning armed robbery of the Piggly Wiggly store here.

Police said Rodney Peterson, the store's assistant manager, called at 6:40 a.m. Wednesday to report that as he was opening the store a gunman forced him to open the store and then the safe. Peterson said the gunman, who appeared to be about 25 years old and about 5-feet-9, took seven money bags from the safe and fled from the store. The amount of money taken has not been determined by the store's officials.

The gunman was wearing blue slacks, a brown jacket, black shoes and a light-colored straw hat, Peterson said. He could not give police a description of the gunman's car.

Roadblocks thrown up around Lamesa Wednesday morning failed to turn up a suspect.

The dedication was held in connection with the fall meeting of the pharmaceutical association.

Arab-Israeli Negotiations May Resume

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The decision of Middle East peace mediator Gunnar V. Jarring to return to his regular post in Moscow came as U.S. officials were expressing hope that Arab- Israeli negotiations might resume in a few weeks.

The American hopes were based mainly on recent statements by Israeli Premier Golda Meir and Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

Mrs. Meir told her parliament Monday that the U.S. and Israeli governments are looking for a new formula that will permit resumption of the indirect Israeli - Egyptian - Jordanian talks with Jarring as go-between. This indicated a retreat from Israel's insistence that she could not return to the talks until Egypt pulled back the antiaircraft missiles allegedly moved closer to the Suez Canal since the cease-fire in August.

Other reports from Tel Aviv said Israeli leaders feel that new U.S. planes and other weapons being supplied Israel offset the threat of the missiles.

Dayan on Nov. 7 said the Jarring talks were the only means of reaching a settlement and he was "very much in favor" of resuming them.

Jarring, Sweden's ambassador to the Soviet Union, has been marking time at U.N. headquarters since Israel quit the talks on Sept. 6. Along with the announcement that he was going back to Moscow, a spokesman said he would return to U.N. headquarters "within a matter of hours" if the situation required it.

The Washington Post reported today that Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said in an interview that Israel now has three major requirements the U.S. government must fulfill before it will return to the peace negotiations: continued U.S. military support of Israel, continued U.S. financial support for Isareli arms buying and abandonment of attempts to force Israel back to the borders it had before the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Eban met with Secretary of State William P. Rogers in Washington Wednesday. The Post said the Israeli official took exception to a map circulated by the State Department limiting Israel to "minor modifications" in its prewar frontiers.

Pol Leaders Deny Extortion

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — Longtime Hudson County political leader John V. Kenny and Mayor Thomas Whelan of Jersey City pleaded innocent Wednesday to federal charges of extortion, conspiracy and false income tax filing.

The two were indicted Monday with 10 other Hudson County, Jersey City and Democratic party officials on two counts of conspiracy and 32 counts of extortion in an alleged kickback scheme against contractors who worked for the city and county. Kenny and Whelan were also served in separate tax indictments.

Both Kenny, 77, and Whelan were released in $25,000 personal recognizance bond by U.S. District Court Judge Robert Shaw before whom they entered their pleas.

The indictment charged the 12 defendants with conspiring to extort and with extorting almost $182,000 from three companies that worked for the county and city.

TEXAS ENTERS TAX TUSSLE

AUSTIN (AP) — Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has filed suit against the federal government for allegedly coercing the state into taxing itself.

The federal suit alleges congress unconstitutionally imposed a tax on the state this year when it amended the federal unemployment tax act.

The act requires employers to pay toward unemployment compensation, which in Texas goes into a special fund to pay jobless benefits.

The complaint says the 1970 amendment includes state government agencies as employers who must support the unemployment fund. The amendment takes effect in January 1972.

Heredity Pain

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Preliminary results from a survey indicate that muscular dystrophy is more prevalent among Kentucky children than anywhere else in the nation. State health officials said the only theory so far involves heredity.

Barnes Plugs Crude Oil Price Hikes

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes has given his support to crude oil price increases which have resulted in boosts in the prices motorists pay for gasoline.

He made his position known Wednesday in a letter to Gen. George Lincoln, director of the U.S. Office of Emergency Preparedness.

Barnes said he favored increases in the prices two major oil companies—unnamed in his letter—pay producers for crude oil. Several companies, however, have announced increases in crude prices and-or gasoline prices.

"The announcement by two of the nation's major oil companies of their intention to increase the price of crude oil by 25 cents per barrel is most encouraging," Barnes said.

"Such an increase is mandatory if we are to hope to increase the crucially important oil reserves of the United States."

He said he was confident that the Office of Emergency Preparedness would "give every consideration to rendering the conclusion that crude oil price increases are justified."

Gulf, Atlantic Richfield, Skelly and American Oil all announced increases of 25 cents per barrel in the price paid for crude and .7 cent per gallon in the wholesale price charged for gasoline.

Continental boosted crude prices on a selective basis ranging from 15 to 25 cents a barrel and also boosted gasoline prices.

Phillips raised gasoline prices but said it was taking no immediate action on crude prices.

Novelist Ford Asks For Help After Shooting

HUMBOLDT, Tenn. (AP) — Novelist Jesse Hill Ford has been charged with homicide in the shooting death of a 21-year-old soldier.

He was released on $20,000 bond and his lawyers entered a request for police protection for him.

Ford is the author of "The Liberation of Lord Byron Jones," which was made into the movie "Liberation of L. B. Jones."

Ford's novels, based on the South and dealing heavily with racial interplay, frequently have alienated both blacks and whites.

He told reporters he fired the rifle shot that killed George Henry Doaks, a Negro, out of fear for the safety of his family.

Relatives of the dead youth said he was home on leave from Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.

Ford, who is white, said his home recently had been the target of prowlers and the family had received obscene telephone calls, especially since the movie.

Jealous Lover

SUNDERLAND, England (AP) — Charles Lancaster was so jealous of the number of visits his girl friend paid to a psychiatrist he vented his spleen by smashing the doctor's car windows.

Summoned to court, Lancaster, 20, explained he and the girl planned to marry the following Saturday. "The only wedding present we can give you is a heavy bill — 60 pounds ($144) toward the damage," replied the magistrate.

Steelworkers List Goals, Will Strike If Necessary

PITTSBURGH (AP) — United Steelworkers President I. W. Abel has taken the wraps off major 1971 contract demands and left little doubt his 1.2 million-member union would strike if necessary to back them up.

Although a "substantial wage increase" will be a major issue in the bargaining, Abel said, priority goes to a cost-of-living escalator.

"We waived this in 1959, and as a result the membership has suffered ever since," he said.

Abel spoke Wednesday at a news conference where a 14-page list of union demands was unveiled.

WAGE DEMANDS

Cost-of-living wage escalators usually provide for automatic wage hikes if government surveys indicate price increases.

Other demands disclosed by Abel include cutting the five-day, eight-hour work week to four days and improved pension-health benefits.

The major demands were hammered out during a two-day session of the wage policy committee, made up of 163 elected local union representatives.

Asked the mood of the steelworkers, Abel said: "The attitude and frame of mind of our wage policy committee these last two days indicate they would strike to gain the equity they feel they have lost these past three years.

NO QUESTION

"There is no question in my mind that my men will strike . . . if necessary.

"However," he added, "we hope to avoid a strike."

But Abel said the union will not push to eliminate its present no-strike agreement with the industry while noting there was considerable pressure in some union quarters to have it stricken from the 1971 contract.

The clause stipulates complaints must be submitted and settled through grievance channels.

The last strike in the basic steel industry was a 116-day shutdown in 1959.

Abel declined to disclose just how much money the union would ask for in its bargaining with the can, aluminum, nonferrous and basic steel industries.

The union's first contract deadline is Feb. 15, for 40,000 workers in the can industry, where contract talks are under way.

White House Diary

SATURDAY, August 10, 1968

LBJ Ranch

Secretary Rusk, Dick Helms, and Cy Vance came down by plane early this morning for the briefing with the new Republican candidates and sat on the lawn with Lyndon and talked. About noon Mr. Nixon arrived, cordial and confident, with Spiro Agnew descending the plane behind him.

I had called Pat Nixon when I'd heard the men were coming to invite her and Mrs. Agnew to come to lunch. Pat said she had better not, because one of the girls had a sore throat and fever, and she should stay in the hotel room with her. But she did say: "I've always wanted to see your Ranch." We would have had a lot to talk about with all our mutual years in the Senate ladies and I was sorry she didn't come.

Lyndon was courteous and affable — even warm —and both Nixon and Agnew were the same way. I could see that Lyndon had considerable sympathy for Agnew, augmented, I am sure, as was mine, by the cruel treatment the press has been giving him. In our case I find that it is quite easy to be around former adversaries. There is no barrier of venom or rancor — no abrasiveness, for we both know a bit of what it's like. Alas, it is much easier to let your temperature rise when you are dealing with sometime friends, members of the same party or even members of the same Administration!

The men worked for about an hour and a half; then I took them in to lunch, with Dean Rusk on my right, and Spiro Agnew on my left, and Mr. Nixon on Lyndon's right. We had planned a delicious lunch — steak and fresh corn. We wanted to put our best foot forward. It was impossible not to wonder whether we were looking at the next President of the United States today, or if we had been looking at him yesterday when Hubert was here. I asked them to sign the guest book on the page with Hubert's and Muriel's names.

TUESDAY, August 27,

LBJ Ranch

Today, Lyndon's 60th birthday, was probably as strange and dramatic and, in a way, as sad a birthday as any he will ever have. For me this whole week has been a sort of suspended-in-space time. The decision not to run had been made irrevocably on March 31, but there was a special saying good-bye this week to our whole political life.

The Convention would be choosing from among others, and for us it was really over —no matter that it was over by choice. Sometime ago there had been talk about Lyndon's going to the Convention to make a valedictory speech, to receive good wishes on his birthday. As the days passed, my betting odds were more and more that we would not go. When the Convention virtually erupted on Monday, the likelihood of our making the trip seemed to me to dwindle to almost nothing.

The Convention had grown so exciting Monday night that I had stayed up until 3 — I, who love to go to bed early! When some contingents had had the presumption to contest the seating of the Texas delegation, I couldn't possibly go to bed until John Connally had won that fight!

And so on Lyndon's 60th birthday I woke to a sense of void and yet excitement. I called Mrs. Dick Daley to thank her for her invitation to a luncheon and to say that we had no plans to be there.

BIRTHDAY PICTURE

I walked down to the birthplace house for exercise and to be alone. I came back to find that the press was intent on getting a birthday picture of Lyndon and that he thought we would fly into Austin, go by Luci's house, and let them take their pictures there with the four of us cutting the birthday cake. With all vestige of possible trip to Chicago ruled out, I began to call some close friends, all of whom were standing by, to come on over and celebrate Lyndon's birthday tonight.

Liz called from Chicago to report that there had been a wonderful women's luncheon and style show with Abigail, Muriel, and Mrs. McGovern all seated at the head table, and Bess Abell looking darling in the role of Dolley Madison. Even Liz sounded glad that we were not in Chicago, however. From afar the Convention seemed like a seething cauldron of emotions and striving cliques — of every stripe of Democrat — and hippies and yippies and police standing by. If I could have been there without being me, I would have liked very much to watch what was looming up as one of the spectacles of our time!

WILD SCENE

Then the Convention news started and with all three TV sets going in the living room we stopped to greet all our good friends and then to turn our faces back to television — to the wildness of the scene in Chicago. More than 20 of us congregated in the living room and we simply couldn't break it up for dinner. Finally I had Mary put the dinner out on the buffet in the dining room and, as we could tear ourselves away, we filed in, filled our plates, rushed back and took our seats and watched the spectacle.

It was a three-ring circus! There was a Stop Humphrey movement by McCarthy and McGovern and a Draft Teddy Kennedy movement, with the TV commentators running in a circle from one Kennedy supporter to another, trying to stoke the fires under it. You would have thought there were no delegations to the Convention except those from New York, California, and Wisconsin. Finally the forces of the South moved in and favorite son delegations began releasing their delegates for Humphrey. . .first Texas, then South Carolina, and then Tennessee. The Convention moved on toward the bitterest fight of all, the crucial Vietnam plank in the platform. And so, in spite of all the hell raised on the floor and in the city, the work of the Convention did go forward. Thus this strange day came to an end.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 6, 1968

The day after the election was like a continuation of election night. I had gone to bed a little past midnight, with Hubert running neck and neck with Nixon — a surprising, pour-on-the-steam, magnificent race, with a come-from-behind climax to an outcome too close to be certain for hours and hours. Occasionally, during the night, I drifted to consciousness and could hear Lyndon's TV set still going.

The next morning, before 8, I went into Lyndon's room. He had been awake, off and on, all night, and the results now were fairly firm — victory for Nixon. That is, by the electoral college count; the popular vote was still neck and neck — 43 point something for Nixon, 43 point something for Hubert, with Wallace's votes making the difference. Texas had gone for Hubert, and that was of primary concern to us.

Jim Cain called and told me that Luci's father - in - law, Mr. Nugent, had had a back operation for disc trouble which had been serious. My reflex reaction, barely restrained, was to say, "did he vote absentee?" rather than, "How is he?" Jim assured me Mr. Nugent would be all right.

We called Muriel and Hubert. Lyndon talked to both of them, and I to both. I wished I could have poured across the wire the pride and respect and admiration I felt for them and the race they had run. Hubert's speech of concession was gallant and warm and looked to the future. It was a healing speech. And I thought Nixon's speech was also wise and hopeful.

NEXT: The return to the ranch.

DALLAS (AP) — Teachers, who are more accustomed to giving out grades than getting them will be handed report cards of their own in Dallas schools starting this month.

The new performance rating forms handed out by principals are part of an evaluation plan designed to give early warning to any of the city's 6,700 teachers who might face non-renewal of their contracts for unsatisfactory work.

Nixon Seeks Extra $1 Billion In Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has asked Congress to supply swiftly $155 million in military and economic aid to Cambodia, a proposal likely to rekindle Senate debate about his policy in Southeast Asia.

The funds for Cambodia, and $65 million for South Vietnam, were part of a $1-billion boost in foreign aid that Nixon asked Congress to enact this year.

About half the total, some $500 million, would go to help Israel build her military strength.

URGENT NEEDS

But even Republicans acknowledged it might be difficult, despite "urgent needs" Nixon cited in his special aid message, to win enactment of the package during the current, lame-duck session of Congress.

Sen. Gordon Allot of Colorado, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, said he had some doubts that action would come this year.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and a leading critic of Southeast Asian policies, wouldn't guess at a timetable.

Nixon briefed Senate leaders on his proposal at the White House Wednesday. At a separate background briefing for newsmen a high administration official outlined the administration's rationale, saying past aid to Cambodia already has helped the Vietnam war effort.

The official told newsmen three North Vietnamese divisions have been pulled out of South Vietnam and into Cambodia, and another was withdrawn from South Vietnam into south Laos.

TROUBLE AHEAD

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, said after talking with Nixon he was willing to consider the President's proposal provided it would help speed withdrawal of American troops.

Fulbright said the Cambodia proposal looked to him like only the first installment of an aid program.

"It is essential that we supplement Cambodia's own efforts by providing resources which are critically needed to enable it to continue to defend itself," Nixon said. "Its ability to do so is a vital element in the continued success of Vietnamization."

The President asked for $70 million in economic support and $85 million in military assistance "to meet Cambodia's urgent needs" between now and next June 30.

Nixon also asked for $100 million to restore aid he said had been diverted to Cambodia from such accounts as Greece, Turkey and Taiwan.

About $52 million of the transfers had not been disclosed before.

The President asked for $65 million in additional aid for South Vietnam, saying it was needed to help maintain stability in an economy markedly affected by U.S. troop reductions.

Mrs. Don Swinney, campaign director, will give highlights of a meeting in Dallas for volunteers, and Mrs. H. H. Stephens, executive secretary, will lead a discussion on rubella and the RH factor vaccine.

Delegates have been invited from Scurry, Gaines, Mitchell, Martin, Glasscock, Borden and Dawson counties.

Parents Meet

Parents with children in local learning diabilities programs will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center to hear administrators and teachers in the program explain what's coming in learning disabilities programs on the local level.

END OF A LONG CLIMB — Rock climbers Warren Harding, left, and Dean Caldwell show the toll of their hazardous climb after completing the conquest of the southeast face of El Capitan. The two ended the 3,000-foot climb after spending 27 days on the side of the granite rock in Yosemite National Park.

Ky Starts Tour Of Texas Bases

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — South Vietnam's vice president, Nguyen Cao Ky, arrived here today to military fanfare on the first stop of his Texas tour.

As at other stops on his U.S. visit, security was strict.

Lt. Gen. George Simler, a personal friend, welcomed Ky to San Antonio. Simler, commander of the Air Training Command here, knew Ky when he served as director of operations for the 7th Air Force in Saigon in 1965-1966.

Ky toured the Defense Language Institute at Lackland. He landed at Kelly Air Force Base.

Ky has shunned newsmen during his 17-day tour, but in an exchange at Colorado Springs Wednesday he was asked when U.S. troops could be withdrawn from Vietnam.

The vice president said he anticipated removal "completely by the end of 1971" and moved on before he could be questioned further on that subject.

Ky also was asked if he thought the United States would keep troops in Vietnam after the fighting subsides, as was done in Korea.

NOT NECESSARY

"No, it will not be necessary to keep troops there," he said. "We have or will have an army of 1,100,000 men of our own..."

Asked about an announcement that Thailand will withdraw its troops from his country, Ky simply replied, "Okay, I accept it."

Traveling with Ky were his attractive wife and the Vietnamese ambassador to the United States, Bui Diem.

After visiting with about 360 Vietnamese students under training in San Antonio, Ky and his party were to leave early this afternoon for Carswell Air Force Base at Fort Worth.

They also will visit Ft. Wolters at Mineral Wells, the No. 1 helicopter training center for Vietnamese troops.

The vice president will visit former President Lyndon B. Johnson at the LBJ Ranch later this month.

Ky spent Wednesday touring the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs and Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

Officials said the press would not be able to question Ky during his visit to Lackland, where he was to receive a briefing on the English language program at the Defense Language Institute.

NEWSMEN BARRED

Ky also was to be briefed on Lackland Military Training Center, the only U.S. Air Force basic training installation, and lunch with the Vietnamese students before addressing them at a base theater.

Newsmen were to be barred from those activities.

The Vietnamese students include 255 in training at the language institute, 90 in basic flight training here at Randolph Air Force Base, and a dozen women in nurses' training at Incarnate Word College in San Antonio.

After spending the night at Ft. Wolters, Ky will return to Carswell Friday morning to continue on his tour of U.S. military installations.

There were rumors and speculation that Ky might relent and grant a news conference, possibly at Ft. Wolters.

Gen. Robert Mackinnon, commanding officer at Ft. Wolters, said, however, that Ky "made the decision that while he is touring the defense installations he would not hold a news conference."

Texan Living His Life In Stages

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Cliff James is living his life in stages. The one nearest his heart has four wheels and is pulled by horses.

"I've had this baby for 21 years," he says, patting the stage coach that looked as if it rolled out of history or a western movie.

James is one of the last of the professional stage coach drivers. He is cracking the whip throughout the various cities in East Texas.

The rides are a new career for James, but he has been a stagecoach driver for years.

"I guess it all started 21 years ago while I was a disc jockey in California," he said. "I casually mentioned if anyone had a stagecoach I would buy it. An old man took me up on it.

"As a youngster I used to drive teams of four on construction wagons," he said. That experience, plus the fact he had a coach available, launched another business and another stage.

"One day a movie company needed a stage driver and I was elected," he said.

James appeared in a cloud of dust in a number of westerns, some of which can still be seen on the late, late show.

It also put him on speaking terms with such well-known movie cowboys as Gene Autry and Tim McCoy.

Upon returning to Texas, James thought his driving days were over.

But when the city of Longview held its recent centennial, James was asked to appear with his stagecoach.

Soon he found himself back in the stagecoach business, this time driving through towns in the pineywoods area.

His new job doesn't have the glamor of the movies, but it's satisfying, said James.

"I love kids. And this work lets me deal with them," he said.

Jurors Award Cook Damages

Jurors Wednesday awarded James Cook the $10,500 he sought in workman's compensation from the Charter Oak Fire Insurance Co.

Cook, an employe of Cosden Oil & Chemical Co., sustained an injury in April, 1967, which necessitated surgery and several weeks away from the job.

Despite the fact that the defense alleged that part of Cook's disability resulted from a prior injury, the jury decided that the injury had resulted in a permanent disability and awarded Cook compensation.

The jury for this term in 118th District Court was dismissed Wednesday afternoon by District Judge Ralph W. Caton.

Drug Session Reports Sifted

School administration officials in charge of the student drug labs are today beginning to work with information gathered from the high school drug lab Wednesday.

Although they say its too early to tell whether the high school lab was a success, preliminary indications are that the information will be of value in planning drug education programs next year.

"We have just spot-checked the results, and so far have noticed almost every response imaginable," Lynn Hise, assistant superintendent for instruction and coordinator of the drug lab, said.

"It will take a while to sift through the information to get results useful in planning a drug education program, but already we've noticed the difference of what students of different grade levels tell us they know and want to know about drugs."

At the high school this morning there was a stack of survey forms and discussion reports six inches high, and yards and yards of paper which was used as a blackboard as students discussed drugs. The paper was used so the administration could see what was listed, rather than having it listed on a blackboard and accidently erased.

The piles of information will grow taller this afternoon, when reports of the drug labs held today on the junior high and 5th and 6th grade levels are turned in.

"So far," Hise said, "It looks to me like we've gathered invaluable information from the students. Now our problem will be in planning a program to meet their needs and knowledge."

Only One Case Left

"Of the cases set for trial this week, the one undisposed case has been reset for Dec. 1 at 9 a.m. All other defendants have either pleaded guilty or indicated that this is their intentions," said County Attorney Bill Eyssen.

The one remaining case involves a driving while intoxicated charge.

Wednesday, J. W. Nations, 50, of 902 N. 7th, Lamesa and P. L. Lucas, 48, Wyoming Hotel, entered pleas of guilty in Howard County Court.

Nations pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of dangerous drugs, and was fined $25 and court costs. According to Eyssen, Nations was alleged to have pep pills or "Bennies" in his possession at the time of his arrest.

Joe P. Kennedy Had Only $100 Worth Of Clothes

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Joseph P. Kennedy's fortune once was estimated at $500 million, but the late ambassador's will says he had only $100 worth of clothes.

Although a majority of the Kennedy dollars are tied up in trusts, his tangible assets announced Wednesday were estimated in excess of $1 million.

Kennedy died Nov. 18, 1969, at the age of 81 exactly a year before the inventory was released. When the will was written in 1955 and updated in 1959, the elder Kennedy listed his three surviving sons as executors of the massive estate.

Since that time, John F. Kennedy was killed by an assassin in Dallas while serving as president and Robert F. Kennedy, his brother's attorney general, was shot to death in Los Angeles while campaigning for the presidency.

The filing of tangible assets Wednesday was another step in the twice-delayed probating of the will. When the former ambassador to Great Britain died, he was left with one executor for his estate, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Kennedy left about $1 million to his widow, Rose, and about $25,000 apiece to two sisters. The remainder goes to the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation, named for a fourth son who died on a World War II flying mission.

Much of the fortune was thrown into trusts for Mrs. Kennedy, Edward, four married daughters and 13 grandchildren.

The largest asset on the Wednesday list was a $250,000 mansion that sits on the ocean at Palm Beach.

Personal items listed for the late Kennedy includes $100 worth of clothing.

Worried? Get A Pet

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Worried? Get a pet, advises an animal expert.

The family dog, cat, bird or even a snake "is a cure for worry that's worth a fortune," asserts Wesley. A. Young, retired director of the Los Angeles Zoo.

Pets "relieve anxiety and act as stabilizers because of the way they unconditionally accept you," Young said at a seminar sponsored by a human relations consulting firm and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The show is co-sponsored by the Sweetwater Chamber of Commerce and Appaloosa horse clubs.

The Wardell family lived in Big Spring until approximately 13 years ago when they moved to Dallas. They recently were transferred to Houston. They were members of the First Methodist Church here, and Mrs. Wardell was a member of The Woman's Forum.

Frazier Wins But He Is Still Pretender

DETROIT (AP) — Joe Frazier is a deadly puncher like such great heavyweights as Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano but until he beats Muhammad Ali he will be a pretender rather than a king to boxing fans.

Frazier put his skills on display Wednesday night and was impressive as he knocked out light heavyweight champion Bob Foster in two rounds in his first title defense since he knocked out Jimmy Ellis last February.

But lacking was the daily increase in tension and the howling mob that usually makes attendance at a heavyweight championship fight a memorable experience.

FAME APPROACH

Never did the fight excite the sporting public as did a fight like Marciano-Jersey Joe Walcott or Ali's return to the ring against Jerry Quarry.

And a crowd of only 6,300—second to the Ali-Sonny Liston fight in Lewiston, Me., in 1965 as the smallest heavyweight title turnout in modern history—showed up at 12,500-seat Cobo Arena for the feature half of the closed-circuit television doubleheader. Unbeaten heavyweight George Foreman stopped Boone Kirkman in two rounds in the opener in New York's Madison Square Garden.

But the Frazier victory cleared another block to a fight that has surpassed the boundaries of the sports world in catching the fancy of people—a fight with Ali.

When asked if he considered the Foster fight a tune-up for Ali, also known as Cassius Clay, Frazier said:

"I was ready for Foster as I would have been for Ma-Ma (a reference to Ali)."

"I'm not talking about any fights for about three weeks," said Frazier's manager, Yank Durham, who then mentioned New York, Houston and Philadelphia as possible sites for a Frazier-Ali fight which could be in February.

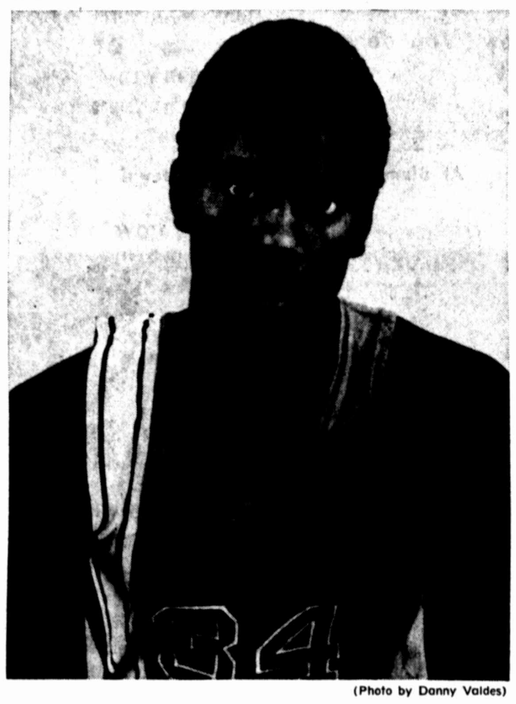

"We will get together and talk," said Durham who added, "He might want more money than I want and then there wouldn't be any fight."

"I want Joe Frazier," Ali shouted after watching the bout on closed circuit television in Atlanta where he defeated Quarry last month in his first fight since he was stripped of his heavyweight title for refusing induction into the Army.

"Clay's not gonna take the pressure that Joe's gonna put on him," said Foster.

Promoters feel that people want so much to see whether Ali can take Frazier's pressure or whether Frazier really is what his title says that a fight between the two would be the most lucrative in history—grossing up to $10 million.

The next block to the dream fight is Oscar Bonavena, the brawling Argentine who will fight Ali Dec. 7 in Madison Square Garden.

IN STEER LINEUP FRIDAY NIGHT — When the Big Spring Steers open their 1970-71 basketball season here Friday night against Amarillo Palo Duro, Mike Randle (above) will be one of the three lettermen available to new coach Ron Plumlee. Randle is a 6-3 junior with fine potential.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Far from downcast over the fact that their football team failed to have its collective hand raised once in victory the past season, the Stanton booster club has set about to raise $7,500 toward construction of a fieldhouse.

The friends of football in Stanton have been told that the school board will put up an equal amount toward construction of such quarters if the boosters will meet their objective. It proved to be a challenge too good to pass up.

At the present time, the Stanton teams are dressing in cramped quarters adjoining the high school gym. The area might be big enough for two cats on a jello diet to pass in the middle of the floor but it's doubtful.

The boosters plan to make a run at their objective through personal solicitation, cake sales and other projects.

With 19 lettermen back, Stanton may be on the verge of something big in football. They have one of the finest young coaches around in Bill Young. A new fieldhouse might form part of a parlay too good to pass up.

* * * *

Knute Rockne, who set coaching standards at Notre Dame that his successors always feel obliged to live up to, turned the job of running the club over to assistants in the Carnegie Tech game in 1926 in order to watch the Army-Navy struggle. He lived to rue the day.

Rockne sat frozen in the pressbox near the end of the game, his cigar as dead as Notre Dame's hopes for an unbeaten season, when he heard that Carnegie Tech had chewed up his Irish, 19-0.

Carnegie Tech was no patsy that year, but its inconsistency hurt at times. The Tartans had beaten Pitt, West Virginia and Detroit but had lost to Washington and Jefferson and New York University. In Rockne's 13 seasons at Notre Dame, the Irish suffered only 12 defeats but that probably was the most galling one for him.

Carnegie Tech was led that day by a young quarterback named Howard Harpster, who later was to coach with distinction at Carnegie. Harpster dropkicked a 40-yard field goal against the Irish.

Not too many three-pointers have been made that way anywhere since that time.

* * * *

I don't know about you but I think the field goal is becoming too automatic in pro football, too easy to come by.

Some friend of the game has suggested that the ball be placed on the 50 (and given to the opposition) after a missed field goal.

Kickers like Tom Dempsey of New Orleans, Mac Percival of Chicago and Jan Stenerud of Kansas City hoot at the suggestion. Dempsey says the idea is senseless because the fellow is talking about change when the greatest football ever is being played.

The game is at its all-time best, as far as kickers are concerned. They are paid good money for putting the ball between the uprights. They don't block, they don't tackle and they don't carry the ball and rules forbidding onrushing linemen to crash into them once they have executed their kicks prove very cozy.

* * * *

Only time will tell who got the better of the trade between the St. Louis Cardinals and the Houston Oilers, which found Big Spring's Charley Johnson moving to Houston.

Houston is happy and Charley, of course, is ecstatic.

It might have been an arrangement which worked to everyone's advantage, however.

Jim Hart seems to be better than a journeyman quarterback, now that he no longer has to share time at the spot with Johnson. Fact is, he's largely responsible for the championship threat the Cards are offering in their division at the present time.

Pete Beathard, roundly criticized in Houston for his off-the-field deportment, was shunted to St. Louis, too, in the deal and he's doing nicely as the second banana for the Birds. Pete knew his days were numbered in Houston last year when club owner Bud Adams — using extremely poor taste — blasted him after the Oilers were taken apart by Oakland in the playoffs, 56-7.

Needless to say, Beathard got a large measure of satisfaction when the Cardinals recently barbecued the Oilers, 44-0. He had a small hand in the win, having thrown a 58-yard touchdown pass to Dave Williams.

Beatherd's passing leaves something to be desired (Adams was acid in his criticism of Pete in the playoff game, maintaining he could not deliver the ball to the open man down field) but Pete will run, if the opportunity presents itself.

Jayhawks, Cochise Collide At 4:00

Having successfully passed their shakedown cruise, the Howard County JC Jayhawks plunge into tournament action in the annual South Plains meet at Levelland at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The Big Spring collegians, 91-86 winners over Christian College of the Southwest here earlier this week, challenge tall and talented Cochise, Ariz., in the first round at Levelland.

Other first round games and starting times include:

Cisco vs. New Mexico JC, 2 p.m.; Ranger vs. Odessa, 7 p.m.; South Plains vs. Schreiner Institute, 9 p.m.

The Hawks are in the same bracket with South Plains and Schreiner. Should they win, they would probably meet South Plains in semifinal action at 9 p.m. Friday. A loss would have them playing again at 4 p.m. tomorrow.

South Plains and New Mexico JC are favored to reach the 9 p.m. finals Saturday.

Howard County is gaining traction under its new coach, Harold Wilder, who came here from Abilene High School.

Buddy Travis, the former HC mentor, is now the South Plains mentor and is doubling as tournament director.

South Plains beat Ranger handily in its opener. Three of the Texans' top players are 6-5 Gene Perry, Fort Worth; 6-3 Albert Moore, also of Fort Worth; and 6-5 Bruce Mundy, Dallas.

Moore averaged 18.1 points a game in high school last year. Perry hit an 18.5 norm in high school.

Odessa is opening its season in the tournament. Coach Larry McColloch had nine outstanding freshmen lined up for this season, replacing a veteran crew which tied HCJC for the Western Conference championship a year ago.

However, 6-7 Ron Johnson of Louisiana then told McColloch he was going to school in California. Then 6-4 Fred Haywood of Detroit, a brother to famed Spencer Haywood, revealed he would check in at Trinidad, Colo., rather than Odessa.

McColloch added another Detroit product, Allen Carter, but suffered additional losses when 6-2 Wayne Bufkin of Mundy left school suddenly and Mitch D'Arbonne, 6-2, all-state guard from Opelousas, La., got homesick and left school without bothering to withdraw.

One outstanding player with Odessa is 6-8 Mike Pearl of Crane. Another is 6-5 Quincy Wallace of Odessa Ector. Mike Steinkoenig, 6-5 Borger flash, is back with the Wranglers, along with 5-10 Byron England, Odessa Permian; 6-2 Rudy Aredondo, Lamesa; and Robert Smith, 5-10, Odessa Ector.

Juvenile Speedsters Set To Go In Track's Trials

SUNLAND PARK, N.M. — Sunland Park's Friday night card will be enhanced by the presence of 22 juvenile speedsters which will go postward in three divisions of the Sunland Fall Quarter Horse Futurity Trials over 400 yards.

The 10 fastest qualifiers from the trials will advance to the finals to be held Sunday. With 22 passing entry, the race is expected to gross in the neighborhood of $45,000.

The three trial events were carded as the sixth, seventh and eighth events on the 10-race card. There will be quiniela wagering offered on each division.

Heading the first division, which contains eight head, is the locally successful Joe Virgil, owned by Patricia Swindler. He is unbeaten in two Sunland appearances and previously held a similar record at Albuquerque where he was victorious in the Juvenile Handicap.

Jerry Burgess, who won the Fall Derby here Sunday with Go Moon, will return to handle Joe Virgil Friday. Jim Orr, also a talented quarter horse pilot, will arrive to guide Anthony Buford's Tony B Deck. He was third to Rocket Wrangler and Bunny Bid in the All American Futurity at Ruidoso and will be making his first local start.

Heading the second trial division will be Rocket Wrangler, who, in addition to his All American score, also accounted for the Ruidoso Rainbow Futurity. Jerry Nicodemus will guide J. R. Adams' outstanding colt against a formidable field which includes Ralph Grounds' My Roman Indian and Helen Mathieson's highly promising Jetaranda.

The eighth and final division is headed by Tom Neff's See Him Go, fourth finisher in the All American and victor in the New Mexico Futurity at Albuquerque in track record time He is also the winner of his only start of the season and is to be ridden by Jerry Nicodemus.

Set to oppose See Him Go are Roger Hafner's nine-time winner Sugar Lancer and Bess Fish's Rainbow Consolation winner Class Rockette.

Post time for the 10-race card will be 7:30 p.m. As a special attraction, a color TV set will be given away, courtesy of the Malooly Brothers, who will be honored in the winner's circle following the eighth race.

Post time for Saturday and Sunday action is 1:30 p.m. Sunday's feature will be the $4,000-added Herald-Post handicap matching three-year-olds and older at one and one-sixteenth miles.

Monterey Mauls Rebels, 75-61

LUBBOCK — Lubbock Monterey manhandled Midland Lee, 75-61, in the opening basketball game for both teams here Tuesday night. Lee did not have a player in double figures.

Paul Shelburne led the Rebels with nine points.

Lions Reach Top In AAA Ratings

By The Associated Press

The Brownwood Lions' football philosophy has won many a horse race.

The Lions tend to lay off the pace at the start of the season, perhaps losing a game or two in the early going. Then they build up steam and by the time they reach the stretch, they are streaking.

Like last season when they lost three of their first five games then came back with eight straight to cap the state Class AAA championship.

And this season the makings of the same philosophy are beginning to unfold.

The Lions of coach Gordon Wood lost their opener to Abilene Cooper 32-6 this season, then they won eight straight and Wednesday they nudged ahead of Ennis into No. 1 in the final Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll.

"We don't plan it that way, it just seems to work out that way," explained Wood, who has won more state championships —six—than any other Texas high school coach.

Albany made it to the top in Class A on the final week of the poll, replacing the Poth Pirates, who lost to Three Rivers in their district shootout last Friday.

But the two powerhouses of Wichita County—Wichita Falls in Class AAAA and Iowa Park in Class AA—retained the No. 1 spots.

Although Brownwood has won 16 of its last 17 games and is a favorite in its district showdown with Burkburnett Friday, Wood isn't looking past the weekend.

"But we can't afford to look any further than Friday night right now," said Wood. "They've (Burkburnett) only given up two touchdowns in district play."

Brownwood can boast the same record and one of the TDs against the Lions was on a kickoff return.

The big game this week, however, will be at Wichita Falls where they may be playing the state championship game in the first round. Top rated Wichita Falls meets No. 2 ranked Odessa Permian in the bi-district match.

CLEAN-UP PROGRAM STARTS — A load of approximately 12,000 aluminum cans is being compacted for shipment back to Warrick, Ind., for recycling into aluminum can sheets at this scrap metal plant in Dallas. The Aluminum Company of America started the campaign in the Dallas-Fort Worth area reclaiming used aluminum cans at one-half cent each at various collection spots. The company launched the campaign in an effort to eliminate some of the cities' solid waste.

Evolution Revolting For Couple

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Two pupils who object to being taught the theory of evolution is a fact filed suit in federal court naming the Houston School District and the Texas Education Agency as defendants.

However only one of the girls, Rita Wright, 18, attends a Houston district school.

The other girl, Judy Parker, 17, attends the 11th grade at Northshore High in the Houston area Galena Park District.

Miss Wright's adult sponsor in the suit is Leona Weber, director of the Solid Rock Refuge, a religious-oriented home for girls. Miss Parker's mother, Polly, is a plaintiff with her minor daughter.

They claim in the suit that high school biology teachers and textbooks present evolution as a fact, while the girls are taught the biblical creation theory in church and home.

The suit asks that U. S. Dist. Judge Woodrow Seals either forbid the teaching of evolution as a fact or require that it be offered along with critiques and with other theories.

Thousands Of Survivors Still In Grave Danger

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP) — The delivery of relief supplies to stricken areas of East Pakistan gets a small boost today with air drops from one plane and the arrival of six U.S. helicopters. But the operation is lagging badly because of the absence of Pakistani air force helicopters.

Anisuzzaman told a news conference Wednesday that many thousands of survivors of the cyclone and tidal waves that struck Friday are still in grave danger because they have not received help. He said there are still "very inaccessible places with which we have not yet had contact."

HOSTILE INDIA

The Pakistani air force has some helicopters, but most are in West Pakistan and would have to cross hostile India. Three times during the news conference Anisuzzaman refused to answer questions about the failure of the military to provide more aircraft.

Other relief officials said there also had been a delay in the arrival of U.S. helicopters because the Pakistani government tried to specify that its pilots fly them. When the United States refused, the Pakistanis backed down.

Two American helicopters were due today from Nepal. Four others expected tonight will not be ready to fly again before Saturday. Britain also is sending two helicopters.

Otherwise Anisuzzaman's air force consists of a military C130 Hercules freighter which was to start drops today, one military helicopter which had to be grounded for maintenance after 14 hours aloft, one short-takeoff-and-landing plane, and the only seaplane in East Pakistan.

ONLY AVENUE

The air is the only feasible avenue for delivery of supplies to many of the stricken areas of the Bay of Bengal coast and the islands at the mouth of the Ganges River because all normal transport facilities were swept away by the winds and waves. Helicopters are particularly needed because many sections are still flooded, and drops from fixed-wing planes probably would miss the dry spots and be lost in the water.

Anisuzzaman said the official death toll now stands at 39,809, with 3,136 missing, but this "may shoot up like anything." The government announced several days ago an official figure of 55,000 dead, and unofficial estimates range from 300,000 to 650,000.

Dacca newspapers today accused the government of mishandling the relief operation and the East Pakistan Observer said the situation is so bad that either the entire population of the disaster region should be evacuated or strong army units rushed in to bury the dead and clear up the debris.

BIG CALAMITY

"Unless the areas are cleared and disinfected immediately there will be no one to receive the promised relief," it said.

Other newspapers criticized the government's refusal to declare a national disaster, treating it instead as "a major calamity on the southern coast."

Three persons were arrested Wednesday night for saying the scheduled general elections should not be held now and that the government had suppressed reports giving a correct assessment of the disaster.

Reports from the devastated areas put the number of persons who survived the storm at more than two million, but said they are suffering from hunger and disease and that many are dying.

Pioneer Gas Sees Increase In Earnings

HOUSTON — Pioneer Natural Gas Company anticipates that earnings for 1970 will be somewhere between 97 cents and $1.03 per share according to a statement made by Burton P. Smith, president of Pioneer, speaking before the Houston Society of Financial Analysts.

Smith said earnings for the first nine months of the year were up 6 cents per share — 75 cents compared to 69 cents — over the first nine months of last year.

Four executives of Pioneer appeared before the Houston analysts. In addition to Smith, the company was represented by K. B. Watson executive vice president, A. F. Cox, executive vice president and C. J. Gholson, vice president.

In his remarks to the group Watson stated that the rate increase to Pioneer's West Texas system general service customers has been approved by all cities involved and was effective as of November 15, 1970. Based on 1969 gas consumption, the new rate will produce in excess of $1.8 million additional annual revenue. He also pointed out to the analysts that the new rate has a provision for yearly adjustments based on the average cost of gas to the company.

This may be your last chance to get up off your big fat complacency.

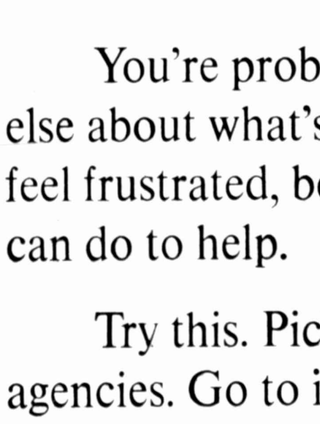

Maybe you've heard this before. But think it over for a moment, anyhow.

You're probably just as worried as everyone else about what's happening here in town. And you feel frustrated, because you don't know what you can do to help.

Try this. Pick out one of our United Way agencies. Go to it. Go out into the field with its workers. See for yourself the very real needs of the people it serves. The new and growing urgency of their problems.

Take a good hard look at the new things that the agency is doing to solve these problems. The new approaches. The new programs. The new money they take.

Then, when you pledge your Fair Share, you're bound to make it bigger. You will remember the faces and voices of those you are helping. You will know what must be done.

If you don't do it, it won't get done.

Water District Lets Contract

SWEETWATER — The V. J. Jones Construction Co. of Abilene Tuesday afternoon won the contract for phase two of the Bitter Creek Water Supply District (BCWSD) with a bid of $230,501.

Before construction begins the bid must be approved by the Federal Home Administration. Phase two of the project will supply water to approximately 109 families between Sweetwater and Roby in Fisher County. It includes 43.5 miles of territory west of SH 70. The entire water project covers an area of 181 miles of water line and a total estimated cost of $975,000.

J. Paul Turner, president of the BCWSD, said the second phase of the project will include families in the Longworth Community and most of the phase will be built in Fisher County.

Construction and laying of pipe south of Lake Sweetwater has already begun for the first phase which includes water for 24 customers at a bid price of $229,267. It is located southeast and north of Sweetwater in Nolan County and is being built by Clouse Fourton, Abilene.

Callback Notices To 5,500 At GM

DETROIT (AP) — Workers at one strikebound General Motors plant were due to report to their jobs today for the first time in nine weeks, but the United Auto Workers international vetoed a back-to-work move at a second plant.

GM gave callback notices to the 3,000 hourly rated employes at a Fisher Body Division plant at Kalamazoo, Mich., and to 2,500 at a Fisher Body plant in Grand Blanc, Mich.

But the union ordered workers at the Grand Blanc plant, near Flint, not to report to work until Monday, when a tentative national contract currently being voted on is expected to go into effect.

NO WORD

It could not be learned why the union gave apparently contradictory orders. Union locals at both plants have approved both the national contract and plant level agreements.

Don Ellis, UAW regional director for the Flint area, said "orders came down from the international" that no one was to report for work until the national contract is ratified.

Spokesmen for the local at Kalamazoo said Wednesday they had received no such orders.

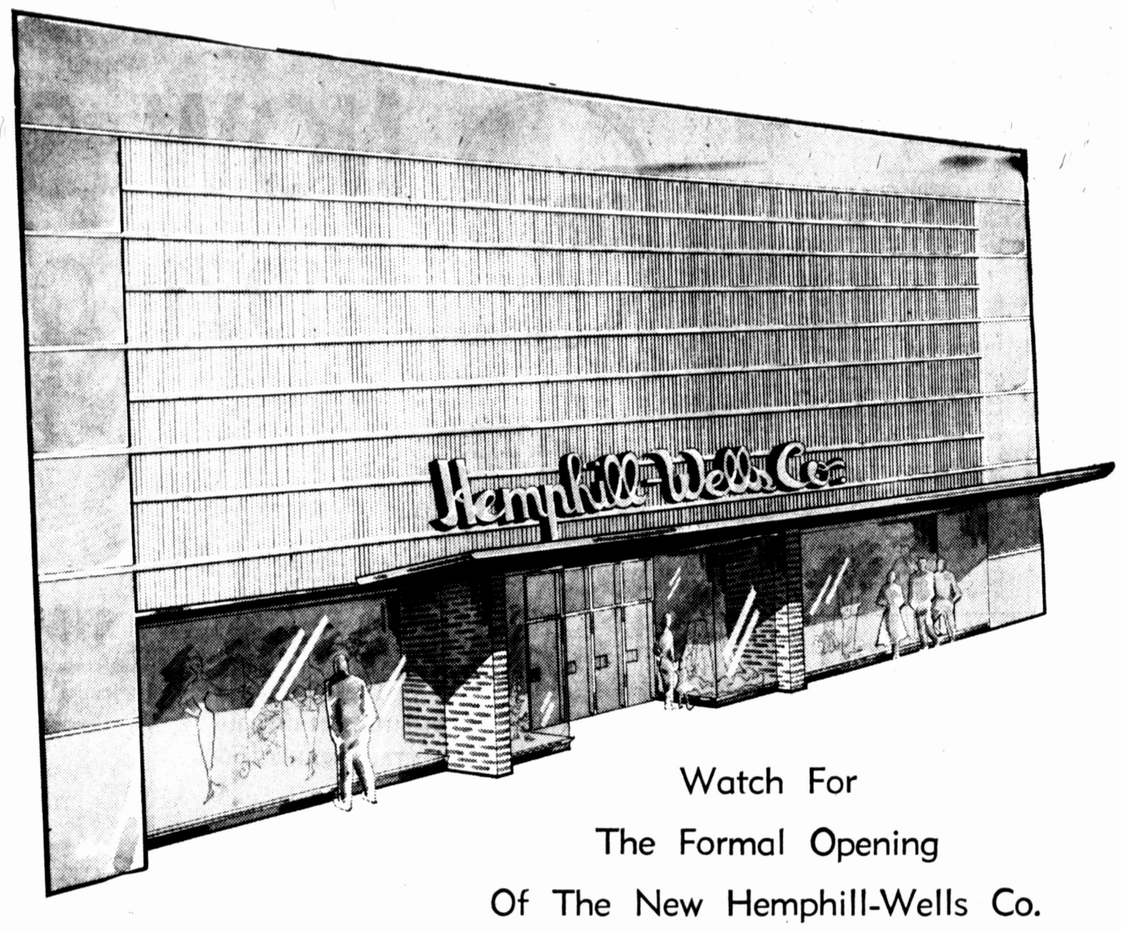

General Motors said it would welcome any workers who wished to return to either plant.

The pace of ratification of the national contract accelerated Wednesday as 27 locals voted approval, bringing the number of units which have ratified to 53 of 155.

FIRST REJECTION

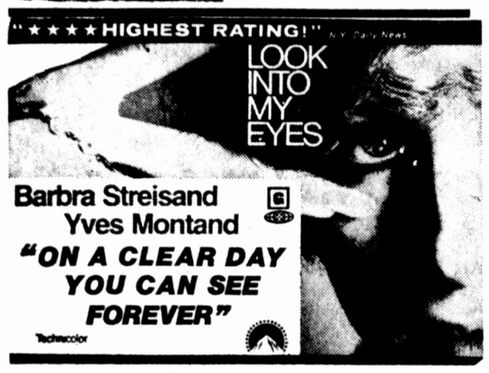

The first rejection of the pact by a bargaining unit, however, was also recorded Wednesday when members of the Technical Center engineering staff in Warren, Mich., voted 44 to 27 not to ratify.

Mustang Island Park Land Tussle

AUSTIN (AP) — A Corpus Christi lawmaker has asked Gov. Preston Smith to get his friend, Pearce Johnson of the Parks and Wildlife Department, to sign an application for a federal grant to buy some 8,000 acres of Mustang Island for a state beach park.

As state liaison officer for federal park aid, only Johnson can sign the application for about $1 million in federal funds.

Mrs. Sam E. Wilson Jr. of Corpus Christi has offered to sell her 7,495 acres on Mustang Island to the state for $1,100 an acre. The other two commission members, Harry Jerzig of San Antonio and L. P. Gilvin of Amarillo, voted to buy as much of the land as the state could afford.

Johnson said he had not decided whether to sign the application for the $1 million federal grant, saying the state's park plans gave no priority to purchase of the site.

He said if the state spends $2 million in state funds and $2 million in federal funds on the land, no state park bond money will be left to buy land in the Houston area, which he said needs a park "a lot worse than" the Corpus Christi area.

Mrs. Farenthold told Smith the Wilson land offers "a unique and singular opportunity" to enrich the state park program.

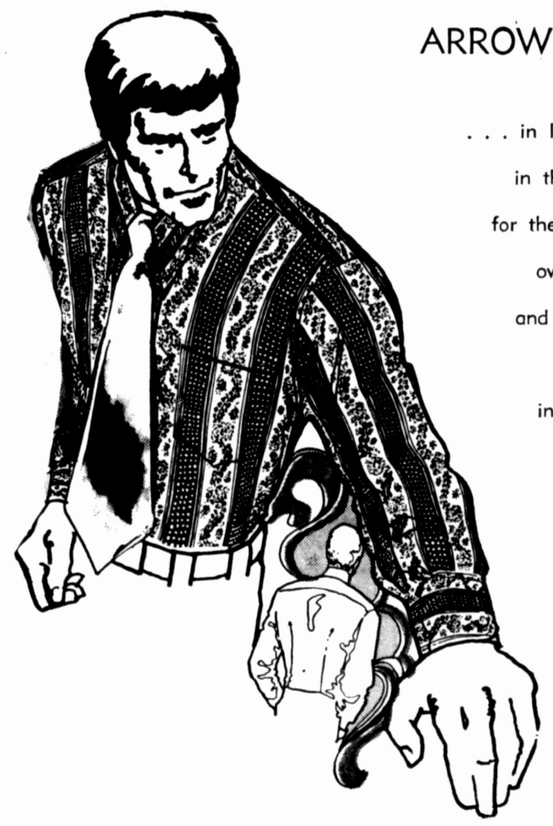

"Neither Mrs. Wilson's generosity, nor the interest manifested by the Department of Interior, nor the vast concern expressed by many Texans both in the public and private sector can make the purchase a reality without the cooperation of Mr. Johnson.

"I ask your help in the solution of this dilemma," she wrote the governor.

'Lifer' Loses His Bid For College Education

HOUSTON (AP) — An inmate of the Texas Department of Corrections lost his bid to get a free college education while serving a life sentence for murder.

U.S. Dist. Judge James Noel dismissed a suit filed by Thomas W. Shaw, 33, convicted of a 1965 murder of a Van Zandt County deputy sheriff.

Shaw has been classified as a Class 3 prisoner ever since a 1967 escape, meaning he has no extra privileges.

The TDC apparently erred last spring when it allowed him to enter Alvin Junior College. The mistake was found and Shaw was allowed to finish the semester but was kept from enrolling this fall.

Noel ruled Shaw did not state a cause of action and that there is no federal statute that requires the state to send him to college.

Miss Beaty Weds Sgt. Mark Meakins

Miss Virginia Kay Beaty and Sgt. Mark Meakins were married Monday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Alderton, 2505 Ann, with Ronnie Sellars, minister of the Carl Street Church of Christ, performing the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are M.Sgt. and Mrs. James M. Harmon, 182-A Fairchild, and the bridegroom, who is stationed at Webb Air Force Base, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Meakins, St. Joseph, Mo.

Vows were exchanged before a fireplace setting enhanced with twin Grecian urns holding white gladioli and greenery. Traditional wedding selections were sung by a choir composed of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Roach, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Eisler, Jack Alderton and Mrs. Ronnie Sellars.

Miss Jan Skinner, the maid of honor, was attired in a hot pink A-line dress with bodice overlaid with chiffon and full chiffon sleeves. Her headpiece was a matching velvet bow with illusion veiling, and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations centered with hot pink roses.

MRS. MARK MEAKINS

The best man was Sgt. Lee Kondo of Webb Air Force Base.

The bride wore a street-length dress of white crepe fashioned with Sabrina neckline, straight front panel and side gathers at the waistline. Lace and seed pearl motifs adorned the neckline and sides of the petal point sleeves. A white crepe Dior bow held her shoulder-length veil of illusion, and her bouquet of white carnations and babies'-breath was showered with satin streamers.

RECEPTION

The reception was held in the home, immediately after the ceremony, with Mrs. Joe Miller and Mrs. Alderton presiding at the refreshment table.

The table was laid with a white cloth overlaid with net, and skirted with pink, also overlaid with net. The tiered cake was separated by columns and topped with a traditional bride and groom. The centerpiece was an arrangement of white gladioli and carnations interspersed with greenery.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. W. T. Rogers of Idalou, grandmother of the bride; and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Beaty of Lamesa, uncle and aunt of the bride.

SCHOOLS

Dear Abby

—ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I help run a very high class nursing home and there is something which puzzles me.

Why is it when a person has spent months and even years in our nursing home, and he dies here, the family doesn't want it mentioned in the obituary that their relative died in a nursing home?

Do you think it is because they are ashamed thet their loved one didn't pass away at home under their family's care?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Some people still suffer some guilt feelings about putting a family member in a nursing home, especially if the nursing home is not regarded as first class. These feelings are quite unnecessary in most cases, of course. The nursing home is becoming more and more a commonplace institution in our society.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a happily married woman with a devoted husband and four, beautiful, school-age children. Money, we have little, but we have been blessed. After struggling with this problem for years I have decided to write to you. Maybe one of your readers can help me.

Nothing will wake me up in the morning. I've tried everything I have ever heard of: Sleeping with the alarm clock next to my ear. Sleeping with the alarm clock clear across the room. Setting two alarm clocks on opposite sides of the room. I have even set one alarm clock in the dishpan.

Before I go to sleep I keep telling myself over and over that I must get up in the morning. The rest of my family is as sleepyheaded as I am and if I don't wake everybody else up, we all oversleep. I hear the alarm, turn it off, and go back to sleep again. Can you help me?

SLEEPYHEAD

DEAR SLEEPYHEAD: First try getting to bed earlier. And earlier and earlier. Then set two alarm clocks on opposite sides of the room, and after you have shut them off, immediately bathe your face and hands (all the way up to your elbows!) in cold water. Another suggestion. Don't let your husband and children depend on you to get them up. Insist that they get themselves up. After they have suffered the consequences of being late for work and school a few times, they'll cure themselves.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Last Sunday, my husband and I drove over to visit his widowed mother.

As we were leaving, my mother-in-law says to my husband, "Next time, come alone so we can talk." (And she didn't whisper it, either.)

Abby, I have bent over backwards to be a good daughter-in-law. Do you blame me for being burned up?

BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED: No. I suspect the poor dear isn't playing with a full deck.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Tell "Young Mother" there is no "right time to tell her adopted child that he is adopted. The time is now!

My wife and I have an adopted son, now three and one-half, and he knows he is adopted and he will tell the world he is. And so will we. God knows we love him, and he knows we love him, and we don't care who knows he's adopted. We are proud of it.

We have three other children born to us, and they know we love them, too. No more because they are our "natural children" — and no less. That's what it's all about. LOVE. Sincerely,

BILL M., CINCINNATI

Weapon To Fight Women Carriers Of Gonorrhea

NEW YORK (AP) — A blood serum test that can detect gonorrhea in most women carriers will soon be available in the United States, Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld says.

Steinfeld said the Public Health Service expects the serologic test to detect 80 per cent of female carriers.

In an address to a meeting of the American Social Health Association— which recently put the 1969 gonorrhea case total at nearly two million—Steinfeld said the disease now ranks first among reportable communicable diseases in the nation.

Of the 164,000 women routinely screened in a variety of clinics last year, he said, one in 10 was found to have the disease.

Syphilis is now the fourth-ranked communicable disease, the surgeon general added.

Rename School For Cardinal

HANOVER, Mass. (AP) — Saint Coletta's School for Exceptional Children, founded by the late Richard Cardinal Cushing who is buried on its grounds, will be renamed in his honor.

The school will be known as Cardinal Cushing School for Exceptional Children, Hanover, when the necessary procedures have been completed, according to Edward O'Keffe, chairman of the board of directors.

Sister Shawn, O.S.F., superintendent of the school, said the school's children gave her the idea for the change "since they remembered so well the cardinal's visits when his health permitted."

The cardinal is buried in a crypt in the Portiuncula Chapel, a location he picked because he wanted to be near the children.

O'Keefe said he had received immediate and enthusiastic approval for the change from Archbishop Humberto Medeiros.

No Cash Idea 'Makes Night Man Feel Safer'

DALLAS (AP) — Lt. R.E. McKinny, of the crimes against persons division of the Dallas Police Department, is worried that the Shell Oil Co.'s experiment of having customers pay with the exact change when making purchases at local service stations may endanger the staff.

Under the new system, started in September, station attendants carry no cash and the money they receive goes directly into a locked floor safe.

This technique could result in a would-be robber using his weapon out of frustration, McKinny thinks.

"Service stations are targets of opportunity for bandits who do not plan their holdups," he explains. "Not having access to the money might even endanger some night operators. Some have killed for lesser reasons."

"We think the experiment is terrific," said operator C. J. O'Rear at a Shell station on Stemmons. "It makes the night man feel much safer."

Mini-Buses Idea Blooms

DALLAS (AP) — A massive reshuffling of office space at City Hall may result in mini-buses being run at 30-minute intervals to link City of Dallas branch offices and provide a shuttle for both city employes and citizens.

Asst. City Managers Dean Vanderbilt and Bob Wright say such a plan is being discussed informally.

As city departments are moved around, Wright thinks there will be "further disruption and confusion on the part of the citizens on where to go for service."

"Confusion is bad enough in the present set-up, floor to floor," he says, "but now we have a geographic element in it."

Threat Of Soviet Seapower Stressed

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Navy Department official says Russian operations in the Mediterranean play a triple role—political, economic and military.

Speaking on the rising threat of Soviet seapower, Rear Adm. F.J. Harlfinger said Wednesday that during and after the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, the Soviet navy increased its Mediterranean fleet from six or eight ships to about 45.

RISK 'WAR'

"This force is of great strategic concern because a Soviet-dominated Mid-East would affect the southern NATO structure," he told the Retired Officers Association meeting here.

"And with regard to the sixth fleet," he said, "there is always the risk of possible direct naval confrontation in connection with further military action between Israel and the Arab states."

Harlfinger is assistant chief of naval operations (intelligence) and commander of the naval intelligence command.

He told the group that the Kremlin could tamper with Western Europe's oil system. "If the Suez Canal were to be opened under Soviet control, they could then apply pressure to practically all of the Middle East by sea," he said.

"When we think of a broader spread of communist influence" through seapower, "the Mediterranean becomes the highway not only to the Middle East but to all of Africa," he said. "The Mediterranean plus the Suez canal then becomes the most practical route to India and all the countries in the Indian Ocean" area.

MUST IMPROVE

Harlfinger said the United States has Russia "licked in strength" but a surprise attack could be damaging.

"Missiles are a threat across the board," he said. "We must improve our own defenses."

The Russians, he said, "are obviously intending to challenge our supremacy of the seas." The emphasis is on development of a fleet of modern warships, equipped with the most advanced weapons and electronic warfare systems, Harlfinger said.

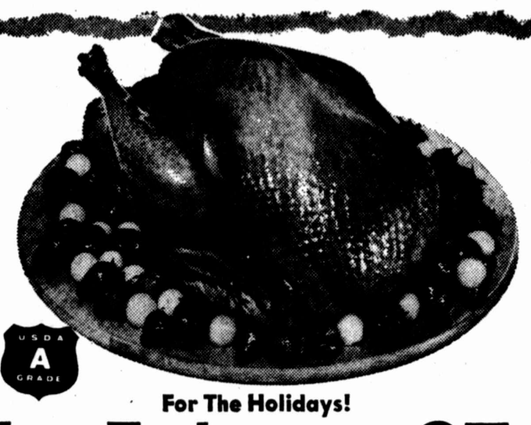

He also warned that the Soviet merchant marine is a "paramilitary force" since it is state-owned and Russia does not rely on merchant shipping to support its economy.

"At the present rate of new construction, they will pass us in the 1971-72 time frame, and their plans are to double that in the 1980s," he said.

He said this "massive merchant fleet" could be used "to create chaos in world shipping" by charging any freight rate the Russians choose and could become a potential political instrument, peddling "influence" as well as cargo."

Lions Hear VA Committee

Downtown Lions Wednesday got a closeup on how the VA Hospital serves a patient.

Members of the "Three R Committee" (recreation, rehabilitation, religion) outlined their procedures on a certain (anonymous) patient who is suffering from a currently incurable ailment which has disabled him.

Outlining their areas of ministry to the patient were Miss Edith F. Wells, R. N. chief of home nursing service; Mrs. Bea Zinn, coordinator of occupational and rehabilitative therapy; Mrs. Lou Whitney, chief of the dietary services; Julian Patterson, social services; Chaplain A. C. Hicks, spiritual services; and Leon Miller, volunteer services.

Every aspect of the patient's life is taken into concern along with his physical needs. Among these are auxilary services like dental and optical work; veterans benefits to supplement family income and minimize worry; visitation; personal hygiene and health instruction; library and record religious services; encouragement to proper eating.

The program was in charge of Ernie Boyd.

ORGANIZING — Dr. Adolph S. Butkys, a crippled Villanova University business professor, has organized the National Students Consumer Protection Council in an effort to help the poor, exploited and uneducated. Butkys, who was inspired by the work of Ralph Nader, wants the crusade to receive grassroot support, especially from young people and college crowd.

Green Chile Casserole Pleases Her Guests

By MARILYN NEVELS

Mr. and Mrs. William Archibald joined the Big Spring community two years ago, and Mrs. Archibald, who is personable and outgoing, now serves as president of the Newcomers Club and the Junior Woman's Forum. She finds the Newcomers Club offers an opportunity to get acquainted and to enjoy her favorite game, bridge. Being enthusiastic, as well as a good organizer, won her the presidency of the Junior Woman's Forum.

As a forum member she takes part in programs and volunteers at Westside Community Center, taking the children to the public library once a month.

"We have a very interesting program for the forum this year, 'Of Minds And Men'," Mrs. Archibald noted. "We are learning about things like palmistry. As a federated club we participate in the March of Dimes, and I receive a lot of federated program materials and business correspondence to study."

(Photo by Danny Valdes)

TALL WOOD CANDLEHOLDERS were handmade by Mrs. Bill Archibald's husband. One of the couple's hobbies is refinishing furniture. Presently they are decorating the home they recently moved into.

CHEMIST

The location of Big Spring was ideal for the Archibalds, being midway between their homes. She is from Haskell and he is from Hobbs, N. M. They met at McMurry College. He is a chemist for Cosden Oil and Chemical Company, and prior to coming to Big Spring, they were stationed with the Army in Virginia.

"We were 20 miles from Washington, D. C., and enjoyed sightseeing, hiking and camping in the Smoky Mountains," Mrs. Archibald recalled. "Being close to a tourist area like Washington, we had a lot of people visiting us. We were there during the Poor People's March on Washington, and went to see 'resurrection city' several times. The people always had some sort of entertainment, singing, and one night we watched a man chopping and carving up a log.

CITY LIFE

"I'm not used to all the people and traffic that you find in Washington, but there were more cultural advantages. However, I think there are a lot of cultural opportunities right here that people overlook. I like living here. In Virginia, I couldn't see the sun set, and I want to live where I can watch the setting sun."

Since their arrival in Big Spring the Archibalds have become a threesome with the addition of Will, who is now 17 months old. One observation Mrs .Archiblad makes about her son is that "having a little boy cuts down on the amount of sleep you get."

"Will is entertaining," she said. "He does so many funny things. He puts on a little show for us now that he talks and loves to play hide and seek. He keeps me busy keeping him out of things. Bill has started him in with football already, and Will has his own little football. Bill can't even shave without having Will underfoot."

HOBBIES

The Archibalds are incorporating his hobby of woodworking and furniture refinishing into the decorating of their new home of 1018 Baylor. He is finishing a dining table, and together, they refinished a highchair for Will and stained it a rich wood tone. They share an interest in camping and "just wandering through the country." Little Will's first camping adventure was to Big Bend National Park last spring. His parents hunt seasonal game, most recently dove in Haskell where Mrs. Archibald had a streak of luck, hitting two doves with one shot, and getting a third for the day.

"I've tried barbecuing dove, but they are better fried," she commented.

RECIPES

Many of her recipes are from her mother. (She likes to try new items, more interesting than meatloaf.) Often Mrs. Archibald will improvise and fashion recipes to fit ingredients on hand, thus eliminating running to the store for last minute ingredients. For company she likes to serve her Green Chili Casserole with corn bread, Spanish rice and refried beans. The Lemon Pecan Cake is another Archibald favorite.

RECOMMENDED RECIPES

Mrs. W. Archibald

CHICKEN JAMBALAYA

2 tbsps. corn oil
2 tbsps. bacon grease
1 large (3 to 4 lb.) frying chicken
1 tbsp. salt
½ tsp. red pepper
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped bell pepper
1 large chopped onion
¼ cup minced green onion with tops
1 clove garlic, minced
¼ cup minced parsley
2 cups uncooked rice
5 cups water
6 chicken bouillon cubes
1 bay leaf
¼ tsp. powdered thyme

Season cut-up chicken with salt and red pepper. Use heavy pot to brown chicken in oil and bacon grease over medium heat. After browning, remove chicken and set aside. Fry onions, celery and bell pepper until wilted, not brown. Add water, bouillion cubes, thyme, garlic and bay leaf. Bring to boil and boil 15 minutes. (Four cups of liquid should remain.) In a casserole dish mix together chicken, parsley, green onion and raw rice with liquid. Cover and bake two hours at 375 degrees the first hour, and 350 degrees the second hour. Remove bay leaf and serve.

GREEN CHILE CASSEROLE

2 lbs. ground meat
1 medium onion
Salt
Pepper
Garlic salt
2 small cans green chiles, chopped, or 1 can chiles and 1 small can tomatoes with spices.
2 cans cream of chicken or mushroom soup
1 pkg. tortillas (12)

FESTIVE CRANBERRY MOLD
Tops a holiday table

A Frosty Feature For Thanksgiving Menus

Just as a real snow-capped peak captures the imagination with its majestic grandeur, Snow Top Cranberry Mold, in all its shimmering splendor, has special appeal for the senses of sight and taste. But there's no mountain of work in preparing this cool, refreshing mold that's an elegant feature for holiday menus.

It's an attractive foil for the festive bird and also the perfect partner for cold meats on the buffet table. The tempting fruit flavors of the mold are set off by the subtly piquant blend of orange juice, lively salad dressing and sour cream forming the smooth, snowy top. This salad is a delight for both diners and holiday hostesses who appreciate the many merits of such a tantalizing treat that can be prepared in advance.

SNOW TOP CRANBERRY MOLD

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
½ cup orange juice
1 cup salad dressing
½ cup dairy sour cream
1 pint or 1 lb. fresh cranberries
1 apple, peeled
2 oranges
½ cup sugar
1 3-oz. pkg. cherry flavored gelatin
1 3-oz. pkg. lemon flavored gelatin
2 cups boiling water
Orange slices
Endive or other salad greens

Soften gelatin in orange juice; dissolve over hot water. Cool. Combine salad dressing, sour cream and gelatin; pour into 1½-quart mold. Chill until firm. Grind together cranberries, apple and oranges. Add sugar; mix well. Dissolve cherry and lemon gelatin in boiling water. Chill until slightly thickened; add fruit mixture. Pour over molded layer; chill until firm.

Unmold; garnish with orange slices and endive. Variation: Substitute one 10-oz. package frozen cranberry relish for cranberries, apple, oranges and sugar.

Sailor's Snack

Sailor's ripe olive snacks are ready in minutes. Roll packaged refrigerated biscuits to 4-inch rounds and top with mayonnaise, canned tuna and a drizzle of lemon juice. Cover with sliced ripe olives and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F) 10 minutes. Serve hot.

'Dine Well' On Roast Duckling

When Thanksgiving arrives, you can make it a "special occasion" by serving Currant Glazed Duckling with Apple Walnut Stuffing.

For your convenience in preparing a special dinner keep a brace of fresh frozen ducklings in your home freezer. Easy to roast in your oven or barbecue on your rotisserie, duckling is a delight. Your guests, savoring every morsel, will mark the occasion as truly memorable.

CURRANT GLAZED DUCKLING WITH APPLE WALNUT STUFFING

1 frozen duckling (4½ to 5 lbs.), defrosted
¾ tsp. salt
1½ cups diced or thinly sliced celery
¼ cup butter or margarine
2 cups chopped peeled cooking apples
2 cups ½-inch bread cubes
½ cup chopped walnuts
2 tbsps. brown sugar
¼ tsp. salt
1 jar (10-oz.) currant jelly
¼ cup red wine vinegar
4 whole cloves
1 3-inch stick of cinnamon

Wash and drain duckling; dry skin gently with paper toweling. Sprinkle body and neck cavities with salt using ½ teaspoon salt. To prepare stuffing, saute celery in butter or margarine until tender but not brown.

Add apples, bread cubes, walnuts, brown sugar and remaining ¼ teaspoon salt; toss gently to mix. Fill neck and body cavities loosely with stuffing. Skewer neck skin to back. Cover opening of body cavity with aluminum foil and tie legs together loosely.

Place on rack in shallow roasting pan. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees) until drumstick meat is tender, about three hours. To make glaze, combine jelly, vinegar and spices. Place over low heat and bring to boil; simmer gently three minutes.

Brush duckling with glaze several times during last 30 minutes of baking time. Serve with duckling the remaining sauce. Yield: 3 to 4 servings.

CALLING ALL HOME MAKERS

By Ted Hatfield

DON'T FURNISH YOUR HOME! DECORATE IT!

Isn't it a thrill to walk into a home that's beautifully decorated?

The decorated home is furnished with ideas — sometimes daring; sometimes conservative, according to taste — but it's done with individuality and imagination.

For some reason, many people are scared to use originality and afraid of color, with the result that so many homes are furnished the same old way, colorless and unimaginative.

Try a white table and chairs with a black lacquer buffet in your dining room with brightly colored Oriental wall accessories over the buffet.

Get away from the same old sofa with a matching pair of end tables and lamps on each side. Perhaps your room will take a pair of love seats or small sofas facing each other with a large marble cocktail table or a group of small snack tables in between.

Use a pair of fruitwood night tables with your white French Provincial bedroom suite. Use contrast in your wood finishes as well as in your color scheme in your living room.

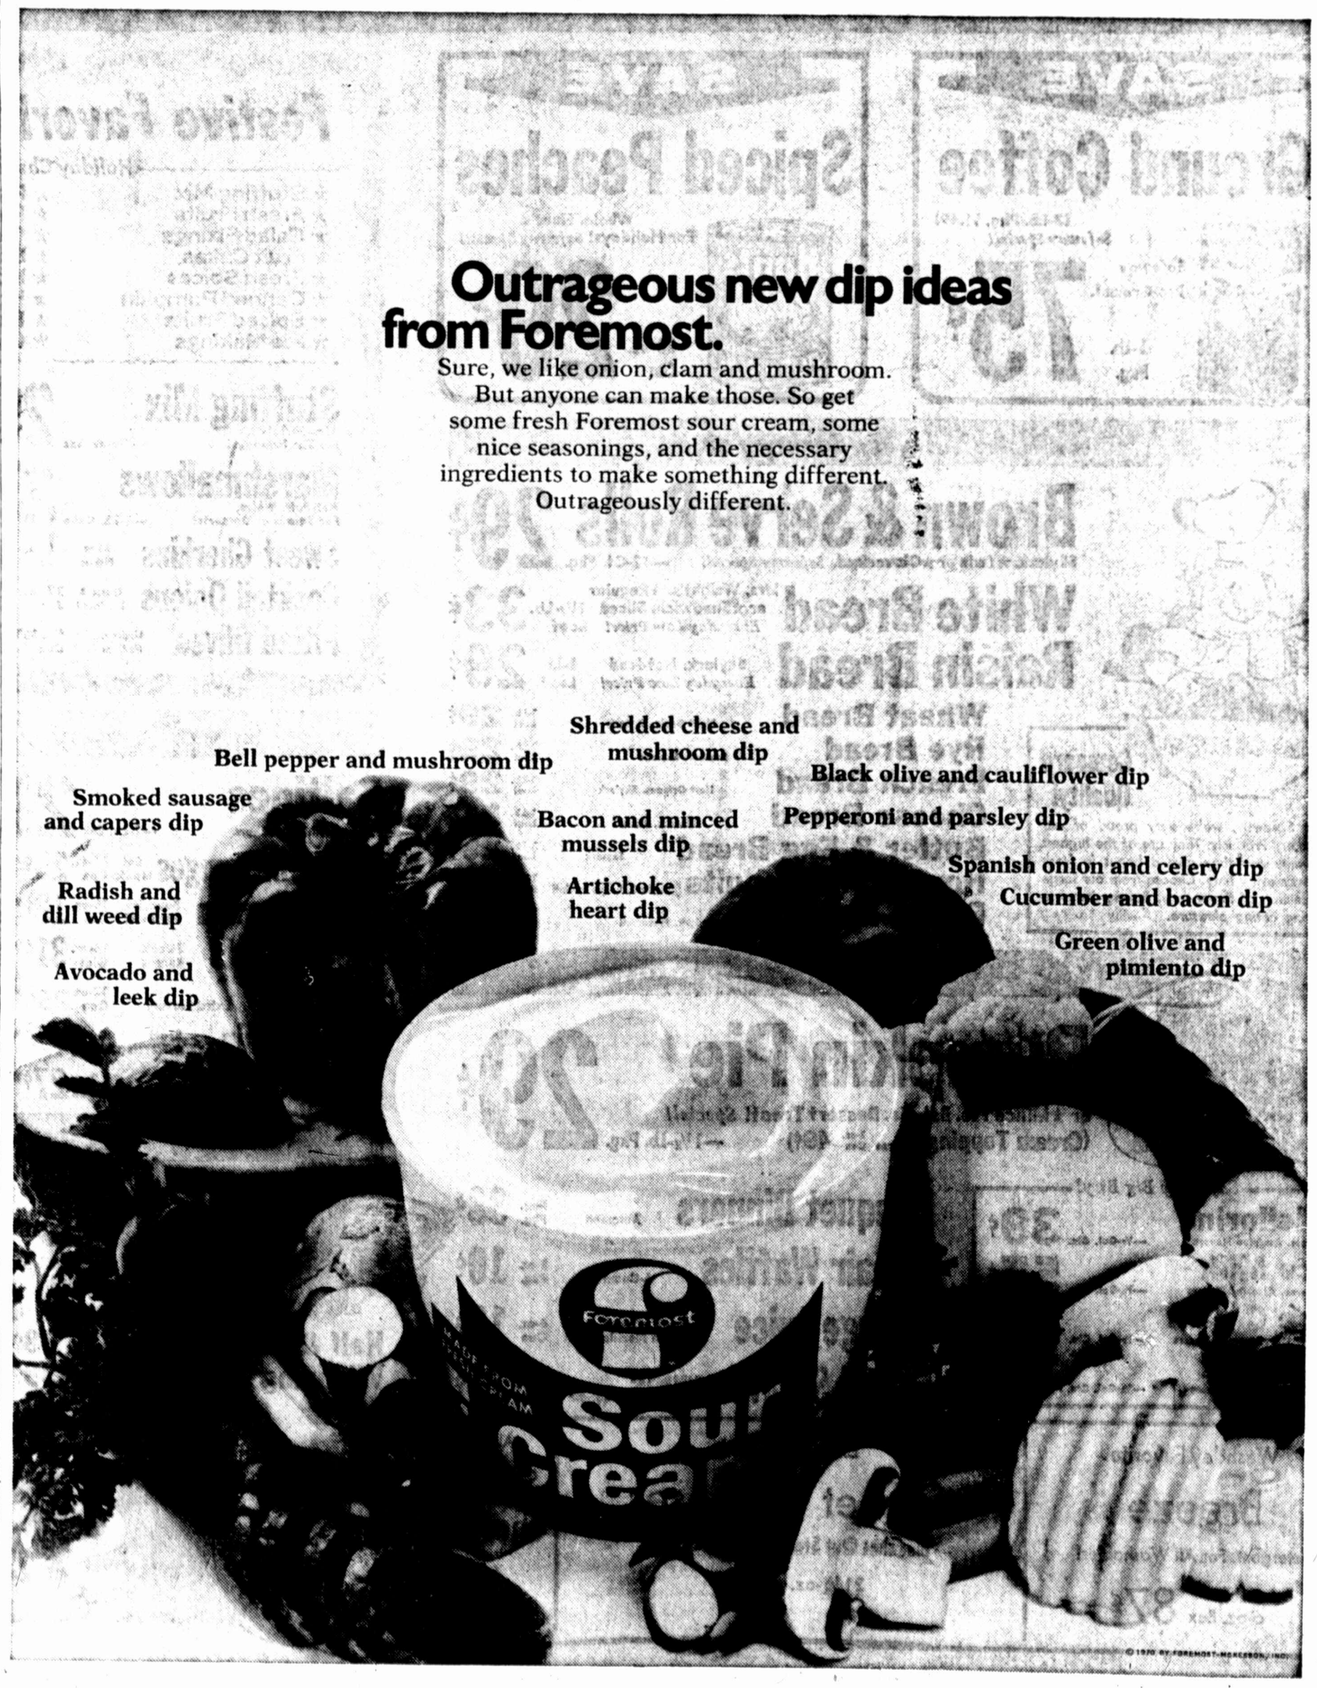

If you have more lamps than you really need in your living room, substitute a colorful group or real or artificial flowers for one of the lamps. That's decorating!

And remember, you have our cordial invitation to come in and visit with us and see some exciting decorating ideas. We look forward to serving you.

A Devotion For Today . . .

I may speak in tongues of men or of angels, but if I am without love, I am a sounding gong or a clanging symbol. (I Corinthians 13:1, NEB)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, give us a portion of the compassion for man which was so much a part of Thee. Let it show in our actions and attitudes toward others. May our language be the language of love. We pray in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

State Looks Good On Taxes

A tax study released by the Texas Research League gives an interesting gauge of comparison on Texas' tax load as related to other states.

It was issued, incidentally, the day after the election, on Nov. 4, so that no political implications could be made concerning it. But it speaks clearly to some points raised in the governor's campaign concerning whether Texas is or is not governed efficiently and economically.

Only Ohio among the 10 leading industrial states places a smaller tax burden on its citizens, the Research League reported.

In 1969, state and local taxes amounted to 8.5 per cent of personal income in Texas, as compared to 8.2 per cent for Ohio.

Neighboring Louisiana and Oklahoma also had higher tax burdens, 19.7 and 9.4 per cent, respectively.

The league also used a comparison of what an "average" family of four in Houston, with an adjusted gross income of $10,000 per year would pay in state and local taxes compared with residents of the biggest cities of other states.

According to the study, the Houston family would have paid $510 in 1968, excluding the city sales tax. The same family would have paid $489 in New Orleans, $545 in Cleveland and $891 in Boston.

"In six of the 11 states compared, the annual tax bill in such a family would have been at least 50 per cent greater than in Texas," the league said.

The league also said that more than 48 per cent of Texas taxes have an initial impact on business, second only to Louisiana among the 12 states studied, all the other states fell within the range of 30-40 per cent of total taxes collected from business.

Several legitimate observations can be made from these facts.

One, Texas has a favorable tax climate which is beneficial to its citizens and represents a plus in its efforts to attract new business and industry.

Second, the comparatively low taxes speak rather eloquently of the collective responsibility and competence of the state's legislatures and governors of recent times. Had there been either waste or reckless extravagance, our tax picture would not be so favorable.

Finally, when one thinks of the excellence of our highway system, the quality and numbers of our state colleges and universities for which spending has been increased considerable in the last half of a decade, and the efforts to improve public schools and teacher salaries, the relatively low tax structure is all the more remarkable.

Jerry Capitulates

Lame duck Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler has capitulated.

Sadler, who caused a small stir early this year by banning sideburns on males and miniskirts on females of his office staff, has now okayed pant suits for the gals.

He might as well have. The pantsuit is appearing everywhere, and some local business establishments have their fetching young ladies appearing in them. It's in the trend of the times, and who can stop such?

All very well and good, since everybody wants the ladies to be stylish.

Males still long for an occasional miniskirt, which is better for a bloodshot eye than the best eyedrops will ever be.

Andrew Tully

When It Comes To Guns—

WASHINGTON — Whispered intelligence has become an open secret in Nixon administration circles that, naturally, the President is too shrewd a politician to make effective control of firearms one of his important projects when a new Congress convenes in January.

This is depressing, but understandable. Despite the nation's raging crime wave, opposition to gun control has increased during the past few years, aided and abetted by the patriots of the National Rifle Association and businesses that specialize in manufacturing murder weapons. And Richard Nixon, who sees all politically, surely noticed that Sen. Joe Tydings of Maryland lost his bid for reelection mostly because he bucked the gun lobby.

IT'S A FUNNY (not ha ha) country we have here. Americans are relatively docile in complying with laws that require licenses to get married, own a dog and operate a motor vehicle. But there is in us a kind of frontier anarchism that vigorously resists efforts to control the firearms racket.

Those brave politicians, never numerous, who believe in control have never pressed for anything more than legislation which would make possession of a handgun illegal unless the owner is licensed by local police. But so-called gun lovers fly into a rage, much of it calculated by the gun lobbyists, whenever the subject is seriously mentioned.

SURELY, A LAW requiring the licensing of handgun owners is no more repressive than those applying to automobile and dog owners. Persons of good reputation would still be able to buy pistols and revolvers, but — as in the case of dog and car owners — the vicious, creepy, careless and irresponsible would be shut out. Americans applaud the revocation of the driving license of an individual found guilty of highway homicide, but seem to take in national stride the crime of shooting some poor cop or a neighbor who erected an unattractive fence.

WELL, COP-KILLING has become virtually a national sport. Nine New York City policemen have been killed by guns so far this year; 46 altogether have been involved in firearms attacks. In Baltimore the other day, Milton S. Eisenhower, chairman of our national Violence Commission, reported that the United States, with 200 million people, averages 50 times as many gun murders annually as England, Japan and Germany, with a combined population of 214 million.

THIS IS, indeed, a funny (meaning barbaric country. In Eisenhower's words, "We lag behind every other civilized nation in the world in failing to have a comprehensive, effective national policy of arms control."

That is putting it mildly. A less polite man than the gentle Eisenhower might have concluded that the United States no longer deserves rank under the heading "civilized." There is nothing civilized inherent in the statistic that more than 90 million firearms — 25 million of them concealable handguns — are privately owned by Amercans.

I BELIEVE President Nixon is utterly sincere in his concern over violent lawlessness in this pathetic country. He dared to come out for law and order when the phrase was a sick joke among many Democratic politicians who later decided to take it seriously. But he will be exposed as a phony if he decides, for political reasons, to stay out of the fight for gun control.

Are conception and birth the "original sins?" Someone told me they were. Is it a sin to give yourself to another before marriage, even if you love them? Can I be forgiven? I am 13 years old, and not a virgin. I want to know God, but can I know Him now? R.D.

Conception and birth are not the original sins. Gold told Adam and Eve to be "fruitful and multiply," and He never commands people to commit sin. The original sin was "disobedience," and had nothing to do with sex.

The Bible teaches that is wrong to have sexual relations before marriage. It says "Marriage is honorable and the bed undefiled," but it says, "Let not fornication be named among you," (Eph. 5:3). From the very beginning God has had a concern for the family, its welfare and its happiness. Marriage was ordained by Him, and sex was restricted to married persons. This is seen in the laws of Moses, and the teachings of Jesus and His apostles. There is not even a hint of sexual promiscuity, anywhere in the Scriptures.

As for you, my child, I regret that at 13 you have had experiences that have brought great guilt to you, and even questioned whether or not you can be God's child. I bring to you the good news that God can forgive you. He loves you, and expressed that love in His Son's death on the cross. He has said, "Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out." There are no restrictions on this promise. Commit your young life to Christ, and He will forgive you and remove the guilt you have harbored.

Confidence In 'Paper' Growing

NEW YORK (AP) — When the Penn Central Transportation Co. sought protection from its creditors in the federal bankruptcy law last June, nobody was more shaken than those who held the big railroad's commercial paper.

Many of them—banks, mutual funds, insurance companies and other corporations—had forgotten that they were taking on an element of risk in purchasing these unsecured notes.

Belatedly, they realized that as professionals they had ignored the elementary lesson they often gave to amateurs, that there is risk in any investment.

Laxness, however, had been creeping into the commercial paper market, which is where corporations lend out their temporarily unneeded cash and where corporations temporarily in need of funds obtain short-term financing, ranging for a few days to a maximum of 270 days.

During the spring, when money was hard to get and interest rates were high, the lender was in the driver's seat. He drove a hard bargain in order to get the very highest return, but in the process, he sometimes forgot about the quality of his loans.

The Penn Central debacle reminded him, and it also destroyed the confidence that must exist between lender and borrower. Lenders suddenly were aware that borrowers, no matter how strong they appeared, might not be safe risks. Money was hoarded rather than circulated.

In fact, a disaster in corporate financing, which could have tumbled large enterprises, might have developed had not the Federal Reserve and large commercial banks quickly opened up lines of bank credit in order to supply funds to corporations temporarily illiquid.

Confidence, which maintains this market, is now growing again. Goldman Sachs and Co., the largest dealer in commercial paper, reports its business up 12 per cent since the runoff last summer. But it isn't the same market by any means.

Among the changes:

—Buyers of commercial paper are now willing to take lower returns in order to obtain a sounder purchase. As Robert Wilson, a Goldman Sachs partner expressed it: "They're not reaching for that extra point now. They'll take AT&T at a lowre rate than another company."

—Finance committees, directors, officers and others in hundreds of corporations that buy and sell commercial paper are, for the first time in years, reviewing their own standards and policies.

—Corporations with less than "single A" credit ratings, and which show an earnings decline or loss, are all but eliminated from the market. Instead, they must borrow at higher rates from the banks.

—Professional ratings, which exist in all other investments, are being instituted.

One Of These Days I'll . . .

NEW YORK (AP) — Daydreams in a rainy hour:

Someone of these days I'll—

Choke an ox with my wallet.

Find a vast pearl in six oysters in a row.

Ride piggyback on the wings of a helpful angel.

Row a boat into the blue grotto of Capri.

Quit flattening my nose against life's window.

Yes, one of these days I'll—

Write a sonnet that Milton couldn't.

Learn again to whistle despite the fact that all my teeth have been permanently bridged at a total cost of $3,700—and how the next generation is going to pay its dental bills is certainly beyond me.

Pass a miracle.

Indeed, for sure, one of these days I'll—

Vow a lifelong silence in defense of free speech.

Invent an ice cube tray which will tamely yield its cubes when simply glared at.

Open Christmas package with something in it worth more than what it is wrapped in.

Pack up all my troubles in my old kit bag, and bury the bag in someone else's back yard.

Yes, you can bet your bottom dollar that one of these days I'll —

Get the hot dog concession at the Taj Mahal.

Sing a duet with Julie Andrews on a surfboard off Waikiki.

Filigree a grace.

Mind my manners.

Spend more time filling my heart than my stomach.

Concoct a pun that does not suffer from fallen archness.

Become, at last, the kind of man my mother always yearned for me to be.

Yes, yes, yes, vassal of time. One of these days . . . one of these very days—maybe even tomorrow.

Thumbs Up

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP) — The accident prevention sub-committee of the Bournemouth Council has turned thumbs-up on a French idea of getting childfen across the road safely. The idea is that drivers would stop if a child gave the thumbs-up signal at the roadside.

Gives Extra

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Ella Milena Villanueve, 20, of the northern city of Trujillo offered to donate one of her kidneys to a person needing a transplant.

Ella pointed out that through a freak of nature, she has three — two on the right and one on the left side.

Harelip And How It Can Be Handled

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have searched for information about a "hair lip" and can find nothing. I am sure there is a scientific term for it which I don't know.

I would appreciate a discussion of cause, effects, etc. I have been told that surgery is completely successful. Statistically how often does it happen and is it hereditary?—Mrs. A.W.

It's hare lip, not "hair," which may have caused you some trouble. The more technical term for it is cleft lip, and there is a companion defect that often goes along with it, cleft palate.

The fetus, or baby to-be, is formed in part from separate sections which subsequently fuse together. This is true of the skull, for example, with four separate bones which fuse and join into a solid bone structure.

Well, tissues of the mouth join together in similar fashion.

If this joining does not occur in the lip, there may be one cleft or two. Some cases may involve only the lip. Some extend up as far as the nose.

The companion fault, cleft palate, is a similar gap or lack of fusion of the roof of the mouth.

Either fault, but especially the latter, can be serious for the baby. With a cleft palate, when he tries to take food, some of it can get up into the nasal passages and cause him all sorts of trouble. A cleft lip can make it difficult for him to eat, the difficulty depending on the size of the fault or cleft.

When he is old enough to talk, or start learning to talk, the cleft palate and harelip interfere very seriously. Indeed, with such defects, a person cannot speak entirely normally.

Appearance also is impaired.

Thus there is every reason to repair such defects as early in life as possible. While the correction can be made later on, and successfully, the final results will not be as good as when the correction is made in infancy — before the second year, and sometimes earlier than that, for cleft palate; at three months or sooner for harelip.

Techniques have been worked out also for using plastic to close the cleft palate, then making the permanent repair with a second operation later on, with the idea of letting growth proceed as normally as possible instead of fusing the cleft solidly to begin with. The decision depends on the individual case.

Whichever course, the answer is yes, surgery is successful. Usually a scar, but often not very noticeable. In palate repair, a plastic surgeon and orthodontist may work together.

Colitis can include a variety of intestinal ailments from serious to merely uncomfortable. For a better understanding of its causes and treatment, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for his booklet, "Colitis and Kindred Complaints," enclosing 25 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim

Those December Birthdays

I have recently become very much in favor of planned parenthood — retroactive if at all possible.

IT WAS NOT speeches or articles about over-populating the world, running out of natural gas or the depletion of the world food supply that convinced me. It was my own family. . .and my pocketbook.

Christmas is coming up and as usual I have neatly drawn up a list of everyone for whom I wish to buy a gift and possible gift suggestions. I have checked catalogs and store advertisements for prices — now all I have to do is run down about the 23rd and 24th and buy them. But the last time I checked the total expense, it was looking similar to my yearly salary.

AND THEN I took another look at my calendar and did a double-take. For some reason my calendar has so many dates circled in red that it looks like its bleeding.

When I checked out those awfully-familiar - looking dates I figured something out. Those are birthdays. My mother, both little brothers (the older one turns 22 in December and henceforth shall be known as my BIG brother), three aunts, four cousins, two friends. . .well you get my point.

MY PARENTS were certainly more sensible when their three daughters were born. I was born in April, another was born in September and the third was born in March.

Needless to say, we don't empty everybody's pocketbooks by having birthdays close to Christmas.

NOT ONLY is it amazing the number of persons who are born within a month of Christmas, but more and more are deciding to get married around Christmas time. Just a word of warning — if you must have a birthday or anniversary around Christmas it better be before Christmas. I won't be responsible for the shape of my finances after the Yule season.

Plenty Of Work For Congress

WASHINGTON — The current session of Congress is called a "lame duck" session because, out of 535 members, 61 are in seats which they either lost in the elections of November 3 or had given up or lost to party associates in primaries.

But there's actually nothing "lame" about it. Each of the two houses is still controlled by a majority from the Democratic party, and the new Congress which begins in January likewise has a Democratic majority in the Senate as well as the House. So there can be no escaping the responsibility which the majority party will bear in the final session of the 91st Congress and the first session of the 92nd that starts next year.

ALREADY IT IS being said that a "lame duck" session cannot accomplish much. But why should this be so when the party in control remains the same and in the new Congress its majority in the House will be even larger, while its margin in the Senate will be only a few seats less?

There are crucial changes to be made in respect to certain imports which now are hurting America industries and causing a loss of jobs. Modifications are pending on social security. A new family assistance plan has been drafted, and there are important appropriation bills to be acted upon, including funds for health. These could cause considerable debate. Controversies may arise over the large defense-appropriations measure, and discussion may be prolonged.

PRESSURE EXISTS for consideration of laws covering revised job safety and health standards, and of legislation to permit victims of consumer fraud to seek redress in group lawsuits. An earlier bill to provide appropriations for the Department of Housing and Urban Development as well as indipendent agencies — which was vetoed by President Nixon as too costly — will be up again.

Will the congestion caused by these bills prevent the Senate from taking up the proposals for constitutional amendments passed by the House to give "equal rights to women" and provide for the "direct election of presidents?" Some of the leaders think this may happen.

THERE ARE NUMEROUS other matters which the administration wants enacted into law — as, for instance, a tax on lead in gasoline, a speek-up in the collection of estate and gift taxes, and an extension of the automobile and telephone excise taxes which are due to expire in January.

All this hardly amounts to an insignificant or secondary program for a "lame duck" session. As a matter of fact, it might well be called an "intermediate, preparatory session." For both parties are going to find it necessary to gird themselves for the political campaign of 1972, and the Republicans are not likely to refrain from speaking out next time against the Democrats on the causes of economic instability.

AT PRESENT, though, there are signs that the trend will be toward harmony rather than dissension and that the lessons of the 1970 campaign will be taken to heart by Republicans and Democrats.

'Gimme A News Fix, Doc!'

WASHINGTON — No one talks about it much but the United States of America has become hooked on bad news. It's gotten so bad that if people don't get their fix of bad news every day, they become anxious, neurotic and even suicidal.

Dr. Felix Hamburger is trying to treat people who have become addicted to bad news, and I visited his clinic the other day.

He told me, in his office, "Our studies indicate that 90 per cent of the population more than 12 years old has an abnormal craving for bad news. This compares to 20 years ago, when only 30 per cent was on the stuff."

"How do you explain it?" I asked.

"THANKS TO television, fast communications and new rotary presses, bad news has become available to everyone. You can find it in any bar, on any school street corner, on your radio at home. All you have to do is buy a newspaper or read a magazine, and you'll get a dose of bad news. The worst part of it is that the human body builds up a tolerance to bad news, and people have to have larger and larger doses to supply their habit.

"THE PUSHERS, everyone from government officials to newspapermen, know this, and vast sums of money are being made now from bad news."

"But why don't they pass legislation outlawing bad news?" I said.

"Because Americans have built up an insatiable appetite for anything that will depress them. You cut off the bad news supply in this country and everyone will go into shock."

As we were talking, a nurse ran into the room.

"Doctor, Doctor, come right away. McCauley is going berserk."

WE RAN DOWN the hall into the ward. Two male attendants were holding McCauley's arms.

"Doc, give me a fix," he was crying. "Please Doc, just one little shot of bad news."

Dr. Hamburger said sternly, "McCauley, when you came here you asked us to cure you. You said you couldn't take any more bad news, that you had had it. We can't cure you if you keep asking for it."

"Doc, a headline. Just give me a headline. Any headline. I promise, tomorrow I won't ask for any more."

DR. HAMBURGER studied McCauley's chart at the end of the bed. "All right," he said to the nurse, "give him the country's unemployment figures for October."

The nurse went to the medicine cabinet and took out a newspaper clipping and let McCauley read it. He started to relax; he didn't fight the attendants any more. Greedily, he took in every word. "Oh, my! Oh, my!" he cried. "It feels so good."

We left McCauley reading and rereading the clipping.

"AS YOU CAN see," said Dr. Hamburger, "we don't have as much success as we'd like to. The trouble in this country is that if we just had to deal with the problem of genuine bad news, we would be all right. But, obviously, there is not enough genuine bad news to go around, so the dealers have been manufacturing synthetic bad news and mixing it with the genuine stuff. Most Americans have become so dependent on bad news that they can't tell the difference between the two."

"What's the danger?"

"The synthetic bad news can really give someone a bad trip. Bad news has a mysterious chemical reaction, and anyone who becomes exposed to enough of it can become bad news himself."

What Others Say

Radio Hanoi throws some light on what possibly could motivate American soldiers to shoot Vietnamese women and children.

In a broadcast monitored in Hong Kong, it speaks of Ro Cham Khung, describing him as a "little boy so small he could hardly carry a rifle" when he became a Communist sniper at the age of 12.

It tells of the decoration he received for killing 15 American soldiers, saying he shot down a United States helicopter and planted a road mine that blew up an American amphibious truck. It says all aboard the helicopter and the truck were killed.

How much credence this particular broadcast deserves is anybody's guess. But it's common knowledge that American troops have been sniped at, booby-trapped and mined by women and children throughout the Vietnam war. The victims were just as dead as though they had been killed by adult males.

IF YOU CAN'T LICK 'EM . . .

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Faced with the tongue-tiring task of licking 235,000 postage stamps, the Salt Lake County Commission has decided to buy a postage machine.

County Assessor Earl Baker appealed for help saying his employes were faced with putting 235,000 postage stamps on automobile, boat and trailer tax notices.

"We can't make them lick all those stamps," commissioner Philip Blomquist agreed. They told Baker to buy the $1,200 machine.

Phone Rates Fuss Sparks Agency Plan

DALLAS (AP) — Controversy over a proposed boost in Dallas telephone rates appears to be reenforcing a campaign by State Sen. Charles Wilson of Lufkin for a state commission to regulate utilities, he said.

He said the dispute also is likely to help keep the Dallas telephone charges lower than if it had not developed.

Wilson spoke at a luncheon meeting of the Democratic Women of Dallas County.

He told his audience that when Joe Nall resigned as city utilities director here, "we decided to come to Dallas and see how big a stink we could raise."

Nall, in leaving his post, complained that despite his recommendation on the proposed rates, City Manager Scott McDonald had delayed action in order to consult further with officials of the telephone company.

Appearing with Wilson were reporters Carolyn Barta of the Dallas News and John Tackett of Station KERA-TV, who are assigned to city hall. They reviewed various requests and recommendations that have been laid before the city council.

Betty McKool, a vice president of the women's group, said the two reporters substituted for Wallace Brunworth of the Dallas branch of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. and acting city utilities director Thomas E. Taylor. She said Brunworth and Taylor declined invitations to be present.

REPORT FROM EUROPE

NATO Takes On New Task: Environmental Studies

(Another in a series of articles by a young Texan doing graduate journalism research in Europe).

By FRED DuBOSE JR.

BRUSSELS — The problem of man's use of the environment has been embraced with fervor by a world badly in need of something to agree on. For once, nations, politicians, youth, and all silent majorities are united over a single issue.

That everyone is getting into the act is witnessed by the odd, but commendable, fact that a military alliance — the North Atlantic Treaty Organization — has jumped headlong into environmental studies. The move has been greeted with applause by some and wonder by others. (Some observers see the move as mere opportunism — a way to soften criticism of those who see NATO as an outmoded pastime for cold warriors.)

Opportunistic or not, NATO's Committee on Challenges of Modern Society (CCMS) seems headed for success as it begins its second year of studies on environmental pollution, road safety, disaster assistance, and social problems.

THIRD DIMENSION

CCMS was formed after President Richard M. Nixon, speaking in Washington in April of last year, when NATO celebrated its twentieth anniversary, called for a "third dimension to deal with our concern for the quality of life in this final third of the twentieth century . . . The Western nations," the president said, "are sharing the benefits and the gathering torments of a rapidly advancing industrial technology." He added that NATO should take a role in "helping make the world fit for mankind."

While some Western allies thought Nixon's initiative misplaced in a military alliance, it was recognized that a strong NATO would have more weight in the study of environmental questions than would, for instance, the United Nations or the Organization of European Cooperation and Development (OECD).

EIGHT ISSUES

The committee — or more accurately, various committees headed by volunteer nations — is studying eight issues: air pollution, open water pollution, inland water pollution, disaster assistance, road safety, and three more obscure fields — "geographic strategy of environment," "individual and group motivation," and "scientific knowledge and decision making."

Each volunteer country provides staffs and funds for its projects; NATO itself is merely an overseer. Belgium, for example, heads the project on offshore water pollution, assisted by France, Canada and Portugal. The countries, at their own expense, are conducting scientific research in the North Sea off Belgium's coast, and hopefully will arrive at combative measures for oil spills and other coastal pollution.

OIL SPILLS

Oil spills, in fact, have provided the issue that has gotten CCMS rolling. The U.S. joined Belgium in the fight early this month when John A. Volpe, U.S. secretary of transportation, spoke in Brussels and proposed that oil spills in the sea should be eliminated by the mid-1970's. Volpe pointed out that ships deliberately pumping oily bilge and ballast back into the sea account for 3.5 million tons of pollution each year. (Accidental spills account for an estimated one million tons.)

Eliminating deliberate spills would require the spending of hundreds of millions of dollars. Oil companies, after reviewing CCMS's studies on the problem, would be expected to shoulder the cost of shore equipment to remove the oily water that tankers use as ballast.

ROAD SAFETY

In another field, a series of countries is taking on the problem of road safety: France is concerned with the identification of road hazards, West Germany with the question of vehicle inspections, Canada with drunken driving and effective counter measures, Italy with "emergency medical response systems," and the Netherlands with accident investigations.

CCMS met in Brussels in October to review its first year and to spur future action. Significant progress was recorded in studies of road safety and air pollution: The U.S., West Germany, France, and Italy have agreed to start work on an experimental safety vehicle; and scientific stations have been set up in Ankara, Turkey, Frankfurt, West Germany, and St. Louis, Mo., to study air pollution.

JOINT EFFORTS

NATO's "third dimension," then, is a success in having promoted joint efforts to combat environmental problems.

"NATO couldn't have ignored Nixon's urgings to form CCMS," says one of the staff of Belgium's project team, "because environment has become the 'international pin-up girl.' NATO countries have the resources, so it's natural that they should band together to try to solve problems."

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ◇	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♠

A clever false card by an alert defender induced South, the declarer at three no trump, to dig his own grave.

West opened the four of spades and declarer won the trick in his hand with the king. He had seven top winners—three spades, two hearts and two clubs. South decided that the diamond suit offered the best prospect for developing the additional tricks he required. He accordingly led the nine of diamonds from his hand and played the five from dummy.

East had been doing some thinking on his own and he resolved to paint a false picture for the declarer in the hope that the latter might be induced to proceed incautiously. Instead of playing the jack of diamonds, East won the trick with the king. He then exited with a spade, placing the lead in dummy.

South was delighted with the apparent success of his diamond play and in order to repeat the finesse against the jack, he hastened to reenter his hand with the king of clubs to put the seven of diamonds thru. This time East produced the jack and promptly returned the queen of clubs to dislodge declarer's ace. When East got in with the ace of diamonds, he cashed the jack and nine of clubs to send his opponent down to defeat.

If East had won the first diamond trick with the jack, declarer would have had no reason to open up another suit, and by continuing to play diamonds from the dummy, he would have had time to establish the suit before the defense could develop the setting trick.

WORKED WITHOUT PAY

No Questions Asked At This Med Center

HOUSTON (AP) — In a run-down area of Houston is a medical clinic with a unique system.

It's the only clinic in Houston which takes any patient, no questions asked, demands no fee and sends no bills.

The clinic is called The Kennedy Bros., after John F. and Robert F. Kennedy.

BILLS NEVER SENT

"We have a standard, moderate fee for everything," says its administrator, Dr. Robert M. Eckert. "When a patient leaves. He's asked how much he can pay. Some people pay $1. Bills are never sent."

The clinic is able to stay in business because medicare and medicaid reinburses it for elderly patients and those on welfare and because persons other than poor also use it.

Even with federal assistance, many of the poor give something from their own pockets "so they feel that they are supporting it," said Eckert.

The poor in Houston can get aid at the local charity hospital, Eckert, a physician, points out. But these services bill patients on a sliding scale and patients must meet tests.

"Patients have to show their welfare checks, tell the number of children they have," he said. "The poor didn't mind because it's the way it's always been done. But in recent years the outspoken have said it's degrading."

POVERTY AREA

When the clinic started a year and a half ago, Eckert and his supporters asked residents of the poverty area in which it is located what they wanted.

"We found out people wanted a single clinic they could come to all the time, with the same doctor, so they wouldn't have to go from one doctor to the other with each visit as at the larger clinics."

The idea for the clinic started when the Harris County Community Action Agency, a war on poverty group, approached Eckert.

"I gave them a full-time clinic," he said. "The first four months I worked without pay to get it going. I gifted it to the neighborhood."
