COMPROMISE IN STRIKE ISSUE RECOMMENDED

Hoover Emergency Arbitrators Turn in Voluminous Report

EMPLOYES UPHELD

Caboose Agreement And Length of 'Run' In Texas Decided

WASHINGTON, April 24. (AP)—The emergency board of inquiry investigating the threatened strike on the Texas and Pacific railway recommended to President Hoover today that losses incurred by employes through removal of their homes due to a change in terminals be borne equally by the carrier and its workers.

This recommendation was contained in a voluminous report of the findings of the board made public at the White House after it had been inspected by the chief executive.

Dispute Over Move

It set forth that one of the prime causes of the dispute had been occasioned by removal of the road's terminals from Longview Junction to Mineola and from Marshall to Shreveport, making it necessary that the homes of the workers be also transferred.

These changes, the board reported, "will result in a substantial saving for the carrier," adding that the board did not think it fair that "the carrier reap the entire benefit and that the employes be compelled to bear the entire loss."

With respect to three other disputed points, the board found as follows:

That an agreement between the carrier and the employes prohibiting the pooling of cabooses, except in emergencies, was in force, despite the claim of the railroad that it had not been authorized.

Run Too Long

That a run of 249 miles between Fort Worth and Texarkana is excessive, as asserted by the employes, and should be abolished.

That all matters of dispute between employes of lines subsidiary to the Texas and Pacific and these carriers be settl I between themselves without invoking agreements between the Texas and Pacific and its workers. On this point the carriers were sustained.

PRYOR WINS TRIAL DELAY

30-Day Continuance Given By Montgomery

Upon a motion urging the physical inability of Mrs. Pryor to make necessary depositions, Judge Allan D. Montgomery Wednesday morning granted a 30-day continuance to Ed Pryor, former Electra constable, charged with robbery with firearms in connection with the holdup of J. B. Early, Jefferson hotel employee, last summer. The case was immediately transferred to the 89th district court, where Judge P. A. Martin signed an order for 150 special veniremen for service on May 27.

The continuance was granted after a physician's affidavit, stating that Mrs. Pryor was still in a nervous condition following an operation several weeks ago, had been presented to the court. Shields Heyser, attorney for the defendant, said the testimony of Mrs. Pryor was essential to the establishment of an alibi which is to be the basis of the defense.

OIL INDUSTRY LINES UP WITH FEDERAL PLAN

American Petroleum Institute Adopts Policy of Co-Operating on Curb

MOODY IN ACCORD

Texas Governor Sends Word He's Ready To Help Solve Problem

NEW YORK, April 24. (AP)—The American Petroleum institute today fell into step with the federal oil conservation board's program of conservation.

Directors of the institute voted unanimously to cooperate with the board in the promulgation of an interstate compact to limit production by controlling drilling.

In adopting the board's program the institute abandoned a plan of voluntary curtailment which had met with a suggestion from Attorney General Mitchell that it was in violation of the anti-trust laws.

Long Time Effect

The immediate need of the oil industry, members of the institute said, was to curtail 1929 production to the 1928 level, but in abandoning the voluntary curtailment plan it was thought that any interstate compact secured would be lasting enough for production to be limited over a period of at least three, and possibly, six years.

In view of the possible adoption of its plan the conservation board already had sent Dr. George Otis Smith, director of the geological survey, to obtain opinions from the governors of various oil producing states on the type of legislation necessary. The institute learned today that Governor Moody of Texas has promised Dr. Smith his cooperation and has said he would recommend any changes in the present drilling laws of the state necessary to meet the requirements of an interstate compact.

Methods Discussed

Today's meeting lasted more than four hours. Discussion centered principally around methods which the industry would use in cooperating with the federal government. There was some discussion, directors said, of going ahead with a voluntary curtailment and facing any court action the government wished to take. Others said such a course would handicap conservation and that since the institute had

TWISTERS RAKE TWO VILLAGES IN EAST TEXAS

Ten Known Dead at Slocum and Center As Tornadoes Strike

HOSPITALS FILLED

Children Rush From Play To School House Just As Gale Hits

PALESTINE, Texas, April 24. (AP)—A tornado that shattered the little community of Slocum, 15 miles from here, at the noon hour today took seven lives, injured a score of persons seriously and did more than $200,000 damage, a careful check-up revealed tonight.

At least two other communities felt the force of the swirling winds. Four miles east of Slocum the twister dipped again and wiped out the little hamlet of Benson Springs, destroying five residences, a gin and a store. No one was reported injured.

75 Made Homeless

Seventy-five persons were reported made homeless and one woman injured in the Janes community, four miles north of Center and near the Louisiana line. The Janes school house was leveled, but there were no children in the building.

The dead in the Slocum catastrophe are: P. E. McDaniels, about 50; Mrs. P. E. McDaniels, about 50; Mrs. Ben Kirkwood, about 30, and her two sons, 4 and 7; Mrs. Edna Gatlin, 30; and Claude McIver, about 9.

As relief parties penetrated the last of the shambles left by the swirling wind in its mile-wide path through the farming community, several persons believed killed were found to have survived. Among these was Charles Fay Turner, who received serious injuries. The fact that relief parties were working from several cities made it difficult to check the fatalities.

Injured in Hospitals

The injured in local hospitals tonight included Bud Gatlin and small son; Harry Duham and Elvis Dunham, school children; Henry Kirkwood, 58; L. E. McIver; Ben Kirkwood; Nellie Tucker, 10; Nolan Dickey; Eunice Miller; Emma Betsill; Jack Vickery; J. W. Vickery; Charles Fay Turner; Lloyd Taylor; James Vickery; Wynne McDaniel; Raymon Raines; Maudie Kirkwood; J. C. McIver; Carl Kirkwood. Most of these were said to be in a serious condition and several were not expected to live through the night.

Many persons were treated at the scene of the storm and returned to their homes, or what was left of them. The local Red Cross was administering aid to the stricken community and most of the homeless were cared for tonight.

Livestock Killed

The two-mile strip struck by the tornado was a scene of destruction. Dead livestock littered the roads and fields and parts of frame buildings were scattered as far as the eye could reach. Two hundred or more persons who escaped injury had everything they owned swept away, with only the clothing on their backs left to them. Relief committees were being formed in all surrounding towns.

O. H. David, postmaster at Slocum, described the damage wrought by the tornado, one of the worst ever felt in this section of the state.

One House Escapes

David said that but one small structure escaped the terrific wind, which razed two schools, two churches, seven store buildings and nine dwellings.

Approximately 150 school children were playing on the campus when the tornado appeared suddenly from dark clouds, he added.

Frenzied, the children rushed into the building for shelter. At least two were killed and many were believed seriously injured.

"The tornado appeared very suddenly," David said. "I was in my store and I did not realize what

Gotham Police Suspect Kidnaping In Disappearance of Wealthy Doctor

NEW YORK, April 23. (UP)—Dr. Charles Brancati, wealthy Italian physician, who owned and lived in the famous old Gouveneur Morris mansion in New York, has dropped from sight and with his disappearance as unusual a mystery as any fiction writer could concoct, has arisen to harass the New York police.

Dr. Brancati was last seen at 8 a. m. Nov. 19 when he left the mansion where he and his brother maintained bachelor apartments, saying he had been called to visit a friend. Since that day, investigation has revealed, at least $225,000 has been drawn by a man who held papers empowering him to act for Dr. Brancati, from his half million dollar account with the brokerage firm of Hardy and company. But today, after two weeks of secret search, detectives admitted they had as little idea where the man who drew the money might be as they did of the whereabouts of Dr. Brancati himself.

The physician, who was in his forties, was a leading practitioner among the wealthy Italians in New York. After building his prosperous medical practice, he had invested in real estate, holding some 20 valuable parcels of New York prop-

Hoover 'Dared' to Veto Farm Bill By Brookhart, Who Aided Election

WASHINGTON, April 24. (AP)—A three-hour attack on the farm relief legislative program generally considered to have the endorsement of President Hoover was delivered in the senate today by Snator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, while the house moved toward a final vote on its bill and defeated attempts to amend it.

The Iowa senator's address was punctuated with flourishes of pamphlets containing the speeches he had made for Hoover in the campaign. He had described the chief executive during that contest as "the best friend the farmer ever had." Brookhart said that Prior to election Mr. Hoover had given every indication that he would "actually bring equality to agriculture."

"On that basis I supported him," he shouted. "But when his message came to congress we found the statement that 'the agricultural problems must be solved' changed to the statement that 'it cannot be done in a day.'"

Congress has the power to solve this question even over a veto," said Brookhart.

He declared that he "would like to see some vetoes" and then watch congress vote after them, because he for one had not "surrendered his seat in the senate to the White House."

On adjournment, the house had finished consideration of two-thirds of the measure and had rejected more than a score of amendments.

WAGGONER OIL SUIT ARGUED

Supreme Court Hears Case Against Sigler

Special to The Record News

AUSTIN, April 24.—In the supreme court Wednesday was submitted on oral argument, the oil case of the W. T. Waggoner estate against the Sigler Oil company, from Wilbarger county.

The suit was brought by the Waggoner estate against the Sigler Oil company for the cancellation of a lease on approximately 2,500 acres of land acquired by the oil company by assignment. The lease was for a period of five years for which the oil company paid cash $100,000 in addition to rental of the land at about $1 an acre which, it was estimated, would also amount to more than $100,000.

Five Holes Drilled

The oil company drilled two wells and three dry holes within the five year period. The suit was instituted by the Waggoner estate at the expiration of the five-year period to have the lease abrogated on the ground that the oil company had not sufficiently complied with the implied obligation to reasonably develop the premises.

The case was tried in district court and a jury held in favor of the Waggoner estate, that the oil company had not complied with the implied obligation to develop the premises.

The district court also entered judgment ordering the oil company to drill certain other wells or surrender the lease.

Oral Argument Heard

The commission of appeals held with the trial court, that the lease had terminated for failure of the oil company to reasonably develop the lease. The commission did not grant the alternative that the company should drill additional wells. The supreme court, before the commission's decision became effective, withdrew the case from the commission of appeals and the court decided to hear oral argument of the case.

The oil company was represented by John B. King of the firm of Humphreys, Bullington and King of Wichita Falls; Judge F. A. Williams, Galveston; Charles L. Black, Austin, and Judge J. H. Carrigan, Wichita Falls.

The Waggoner estate was represented by Judge J. H. Barwise and George Thompson of the firm of Barwise and Thompson of Fort Worth. Submission of the case consumed the entire afternoon and was not concluded until 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The court took the case under advisement and a decision may be reached before the court takes its summer vacation.

Neglected Children 'Saddest Things In Life,' Pastor Says at Revival

"Men cannot find happiness in liquor or debauchery, in the swills of the sewer or by eating the forbidden fruit," Rev. Patrick Dacus Moreland, pastor of the Grant Street Methodist church, told his congregation at the church's fourth revival meeting Wednesday night.

"I think two of the saddest things in life are little girls with dancing, bridge playing mothers and little boys with fathers who are too busy to take care of them.

"I think the saddest and most terrible word in the English, or any other language, is the word 'lost.' The soul that is lost, crying in the darkness toward the silent heavens, is without hope.

"When a man has lost the confidence of his boy, that man is an utter, tragic failure.

"If you have lost happiness, you can find it in God's temple and at his altars. A soul will never be satisfied while it is forced to live on the food and drink that some people feed it."

Another full house was present for the meeting in spite of the sand storm which made driving an automobile highly unpleasant. The special musical number was a duet by T. H. Browning and Mrs. H. G. Holcomb.

It was announced that both cottage prayer meeting groups would meet at the home of Mrs. H. A. Baker, 2808 Avenue S, Thursday afternoon. A. B. Tarr will conduct the general prayer meeting at the church at 7:15 p. m. Thursday. Revival services are held at 7:45 each evening.

Kirby of Arlington, chairman of the "Condition of Our Colored People" division of the department of public welfare, presented the principal of the colored school of Arlington who played the accompaniment of negro spirituals sung by two small pupils of the school.

The Junior club department of the first district, of which Mrs. Steve Lillard Jr. of Decatur, is chairman, was featured in the morning session of the convention and reports were heard from three junior clubs, the Junior Woman's Forum of Wichita Falls, the Fort Worth Junior club, and the Junior Shakespeare club of Arlington. Following the reports, Miss Mary Tancred of Wichita Falls, representing the Junior Forum, spoke on the subject, "Through the Eyes of a Junior," and Mrs. Charles Nash of Fort Worth, representing the Fort Worth Junior club, spoke on "A Junior Speaks."

Miss Robbie Castleberry of Vernon, chairman of the credentials committee, reported that a total of 208 state officers, district officers, delegates and visitors registered during the entire session.

TEMPLE OPENS PASSOVER RITE

Wichita Falls Jews Observe Festival

Almost 100 persons were present at Temple Israel Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock for the opening service of the Festival of the Passover, which is now being celebrated by Jewish peoples.

The brief service of prayer and song was followed by the usual elaborate Passover dinner, served at 7 o'clock, in connection with which the service of Hagadeh was observed. This portion of Jewish worship is a recital of the exodus of the Hebrew peoples from Egypt, and the first organization of a free government "of and for the governed." The reading of the historical account of those events was interspersed with readings and songs in embellishment of the story. Following the dinner, the blessing was asked by Rabbi S. J. Schwab, followed by the singing of songs of liberty, and a ceremony commemorating the crossing of the Red Sea.

The regular Passover morning service will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. The account of the command received by Moses to go before the Egyptian Pharaoh to demand the freedom of the Hebrew tribes, and his final compliance, comprise the subject for the service.

The morning session, presided over by A. P. Duggan, vice president of the West Texas body, was featured with talks from Judge J. D. Hamlin, Farwell, on "This Great Country of Ours," the speaker portraying the plains as a great empire of undeveloped agricultural resources.

Andy Bourland, president of the regional body, emphasized the need of co-operative effort between towns of West Texas and plead for doing away with petty jealousies between neighboring towns and cities.

Romance and inspiration was the topic of R. A. Baldwin's talk just before noon. The Tahoka Boys Glee club furnished several numbers on the program.

Mr. Duggan outlined work done by the organization in advertising West Texas, securing lower freight rates, assisting in establishment of Tech college and other projects.

G. H. Nelson, county attorney, of Lynn county, welcomed the visitors and was responded to by M. C. Tainter, secretary at Crosbyton.

Registered delegates at a noon luncheon held in a large garage building totaled 827 which was said by Homer D. Wade, manager of West Texas Chamber of Commerce, to be the largest number ever registered at any regional convention in West Texas.

W. A. Wilson, Lamesa secretary, presided over the luncheon program. Rev. Johnson, Lamesa, pronounced the invocation.

JURORS SIFT ARSON CASE

City Clerk and Wife Held In Hot Springs Jail

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 24. (UP)—The Garland county grand jury was called into special session today to investigate a fire which Tuesday partially destroyed the city hall and resulted in the arrest of City Clerk F. W. Fowler and his wife.

Fowler and his wife were arrested and placed in jail last night without charges and were held for investigation by the grand jury. Mrs. Fowler had been arrested and released earlier in the day on charges of shooting at Mrs. Henry Terry and wounding Nettie Connelly.

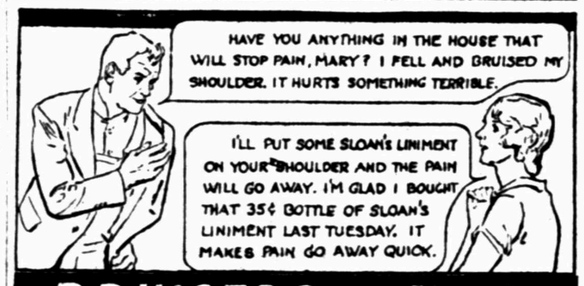

Investigation showed the fire originated in a store room adjoining the city clerks office. An audit of Fowler's books was being made today on orders from Mayor McLaughlin after a special meeting of the city council. The clerk, in a statement published after his arrest, claimed he and his wife were in Little Rock at the time of the fire and denied any connection with it.

Mrs. Fowler also was to be given a preliminary hearing today on charges she shot at Mrs. Terry, wife of a policeman, Monday after a political argument. Police said she missed the policeman's wife but that the bullet shattered a plate glass window and that flying glass cut Mrs. Connelly, proprietor of a printing establishment.

WILLIAMS COLLEGE Editor thought OG's couldn't win!
But look what happened when a third of the student body compared the four leading cigarettes with names concealed

THE WILLIAMS RECORD, TUESDAY, MARCH 26, 19
'OLD GOLD' CHALLENGES AND WINS IN CIGARETTE 'TEST'
Challenging the statement appearing in the columns of THE RECORD of February 26 that Williams men have a distinct preference for ——— cigarettes as proven by the fact that that brand outsells competitors in local shops, the Old Gold company last Friday afternoon conducted one of its famous "concealed name tests" at Williams. As a result, Williams has joined the growing list of colleges and universities which have given Old Gold a plurality in such a contest, for out of the 234 votes cast, the challenging brand received 66 first choices, while two other leading makes could do no more than tie for second place with 59 votes apiece, and a fourth prominent brand received 50 preferences.
To admit no unfairness into the test, each brand of cigarette was denoted by one of five possible numbers, stamped on the black band concealing the name, so that comparison of numbers among those taking the test would have been difficult. The results of the voting, done entirely by number, were checked up by Seeley '29, and A. Clark '30, Business Manager and Assistant Business Manager of THE RECORD.
As a result of the try-outs held last Friday
The four leading cigarette brands . . . "masked" to conceal their brand names.

CLERIC SPEAKS OUT ON BOOZE

Bishop Cannon Back From Tour on Wet Ship

NEW YORK, April 24. (INS)—Bishop James R. Cannon, of the Methodist Episcopal church South and chairman of the board of temperance and social service of that church did not answer directly the wireless sent him by Congressman Fiorello H. LaGuardia, which demanded to know "why he traveled on a wet ship instead of a dry one."

But the cleric, returning on the Olympic of the White Star line, from a winter cruise to the Mediterranean, did speak his mind on the prohibition situation abroad, on the question of American ships being wet, on the president's speech of yesterday on respect for law, on Milwaukee's beer and other matters.

Bishop Cannon, known as the leader of the southern drys, first characterized the La Guardia message as "an attempt to achieve the spectacular," adding that he didn't know whether he should make a reply or not.

The bishop declared that a man's choice of a ship on which to travel was of little import, but that if it were a case of leaving port on a wet ship or a dry one, he would naturally prefer a dry ship. He refused to comment on the decision of the United States lines to adopt a wet westbound passage.

"I should say," he stated, "that Americans accepting the protection of the flag, should be subjected to the law of the flag on sea as well as on land."

Referring to President Hoover's speech he said the chief executive was "doing the very thing he must do if he is to get results."

The recent Wisconsin referendum in which the state dry law was recalled he characterized as "no surprise to me."

"Milwaukee has always prided itself on a product which the 18th amendment doesn't permit to be manufactured," he said. "They want beer and their habits are not easily changed."

Wandering Youth Faces Robbery Case

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 24. (UP)—The mysterious roving of Clarence William Chase Jr., son of a prominent Leavenworth, Kan., miller, was ended today with his return to California to face a charge of bank robbery.

Young Chase was ordered extradited on a charge of complicity in the robbery of the Pacific National bank, Los Angeles, in 1926. Lately, Chase had been known as an oil man of Tulsa, Okla., but disappeared from there several weeks ago.

Later officers said he wrote a despondent letter to his father from St. Louis. He returned to his father's home in Leavenworth and was arrested there by a Los Angeles detective, who brought him to the jail here pending extradition proceedings. Governor Clyde Reed granted the requisition.

NEURITIS YIELDS READILY TO NEW SARGON, HE SAYS

"Several years ago I became a victim to neuritis, nervousness and indigestion, and a general giving away of my health. My appetite left me, and I became weak and lost weight. I was tired, listless and worn out and my sleep was restless. I tried a number of different medicines, but the most they ever did for me was to give me slight temporary relief, and in the long run did me more harm than good.

"Then I decided to try the Sargon treatment, and I could hardly realize the quick and wonderful results it gave me. Almost with beginning it I commenced to eat heartily and enjoy my meals, without the slightest trace of indigestion. Then, I slept soundly at nights, felt greatly benefited and refreshed in the morning, and every sign of nervousness left me—but better than everything else—every neuritis pain is gone! I have taken four bottles, have gained 11 pounds, my color is healthy, I feel strong and well and 100 per cent better than I have felt in years.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills stimulated my liver, regulated my bowels without griping, and I don't believe any other medicine on earth could have done as much for me in such a short time."

The above statement was made recently by C. E. Williamson, 860 Pearl street, Beaumont, one of the best known and most popular hotel clerks in that city.

Sargon may be obtained in Wichita Falls from the Renfro Drug Co., Eighth and Scott streets, No. 1 main store, and Seventh and Indiana, No. 2; in Electra from Lough's Drug store; and in Burkburnett from Burkburnett Pharmacy.—Adv.

J. Barleycorn's Corpse Is Quite Hale And Hearty, Say Triumphant Liberals

MADISON, Wis., April 24. (UP)—The state of Wisconsin apparently is going "liberal."

Legislation pending or enacted in the present session of the Badger general assembly gives the state strong claim of being the "cradle of personal liberty." It also indicates that citizens of the state want their whisky unpoisoned, their movies uncensored, their cigarets untaxed, private detectives licensed and regulated, and the eighteenth amendment abolished.

As Senator Thomas W. Duncan, Socialist and Liberal leader, puts it, Wisconsin has discovered that the corpse of John Barleycorn is a live one, and after quickstepping to his funeral has reversed and is marching back.

After moving to repeal the state prohibition law and demanding of congress a constitutional convention to repeal the eighteenth amendment the legislature now comes out for reepal of the ancient blue laws against Sunday amusement. The law provides that being present at any dancing or public diversion, show or entertainment, or taking part in any sport game or play on the first day of the week shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $10.

"Enforce it and Wisconsin could pay the national debt," says Assemblyman John Grobschmidt, 80-year-old Milwaukeean.

He is also the author of the dry law repeal bill which has passed the assembly and appears to be assured of similar action in the senate.

Senator Howard Teasdale, veteran reform leader, startled the senate with the introduction of a bill to repeal the state "dry" law, abolish state prohibition enforcement department and leave control of the liquor problem to federal forces and county option.

Although Teasdale has proposed a bill to ban sale of malt syrups, Wisconsin citizens still can perform chemical experiments in their cellars with malt as far as the state is concerned.

Senator Bernard Gettleman blames "war hysteria" for prohibition and the senate has passed his resolution asking congress to call a constitutional convention to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

"Wisconsin legislators went from a saloon to the capitol, ratified that amendmnet and went back to their drinking and laughed about it," Gettleman recalled.

BOMBARDMENT BY AIR UPHELD

Germany's Proposal Voted Down at Geneva

GENEVA, April 24. (INS)—Germany's proposal that bombing by airplanes be forbidden in future warfare was rejected today by the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission. The vote was 23 to five.

While the commission continues to take up various suggestions of the powers the conference is still dominated by the speech of the American diplomat, Hugh Gibson, calling upon the nations to cut down their navies.

It was reported that a brand new formula for naval reduction may be put forward by the Japanese to supplement the proposals already offered by the United States.

If a sea parley is arranged later this year it probably would include America, England, Japan, France and Italy, as those are the world powers with the biggest navies. There would probably be four and possibly five sets of suggestions before the conference upon which to work out a common treaty.

FRANCE LAUNCHES MAN OF WAR "FOCH"

BREST, France, April 24. (INS)—The magic name of Foch, that carried the allied armies to victory in 1918, today went down to the sea on the bow of a 10,000-ton cruiser. The launching of this man of war brings France's navy to virtually her pre-war strength.

This naval fighting machine represents the seventh unit added to the fleet during the month of April.

BRITON HOPES FOR DISARMING

Lord of Admirality Pleased With Gibson Speech

(Copyright, 1929, by United Press)

LONDON, April 24.—Perhaps the highest tribute which has yet been paid to Hugh S. Gibson for the clear and frank manner in which he outlined America's position on the disarmament question came from a little white haired gentleman in Whitehall, who likes to squat informally in his big red chair and who insists on his pipe.

As the gentleman's name is William C. Bridgeman and he is the first lord of the British admiralty, the tribute is of the highest significance. The head of the greatest navy in the world told the United Press today that Gibson's speech outlined a clear policy which made for the solution to the important problem of naval disarmament.

Speech Pleases Him

Small of stature, white of hair and moustache, squatting comfortably, if not formally, in a huge leather chair, and puffing vigorously at his pipe, jumping up from his chair and pacing up and down the room nervously, as if in search of words to make himself clearer on what he was trying to emphasize, Bridgeman said he liked everything about the Gibson speech—tone, matter and spirit.

"Above all I liked the tone," he said. "I feel that if the speech is generally received in a spirit similar to that in which I received it, the prospects for disarmament are most hopeful."

He hoped, he said, that it held out a line on which agreement can be reached if properly handled. He paced the room as he developed on the theme, and puffed away at his pipe.

"The tone seemed to me to be sympathetic with what I said before the house of commons recently when I presented the naval estimates. Indeed, I have repeatedly stated my belief that two great countries like the United States and England, neither of which desires war, are bound to agree if they only can trust one another and not build great navies against each other.

"Confidence makes these things easier than mathematical tables."

Bridgeman put much emphasis on that point. He made the statement with precision, as if he had thought it over long before he made it.

Parity Unquestioned

"It seems preposterous to bind nations to figures," he continued. "The possible changes must be taken into consideration. I always felt that the less tight one draws a formula the better the chance for argument. I sometimes think it is difficult to make the United States understand that we British never contested the question of parity with America.

"Without in any way wishing to appear pessimistic, I personally think it is more likely that the Gibson proposals will succeed if we do not try to force the pace too much at this particular moment. Ever since I went to Geneva the more I thought of it the more I felt the danger of an elaborate formula, to which it is extremely difficult to secure the agreement of the numerous nations without creating an unhealthy atmosphere of suspicion, whereby each nation watches the others like a cat watches a mouse."

More Time Needed

Here he suggested that the United States and Great Britain wait a while before starting negotiations for a naval agreement. He said:

"I am not suggesting too long a delay. Indeed, I think that would be fatal. What I mean is that we must realize that British soon will be in the throes of an election, which means a number of things. First it is difficult to get the right people together to discuss the proposals seriously. Second, the present British government has only a few more weeks of existence—at least until the elections."

Sets Record

ELINOR SMITH REGAINS HONOR

Wisecracking Maid Adds Four Hours to Mark

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., April 24. (UP)—A 17-year-old school girl who flips wisecracks even as she flies, today set a new sustained flight record for women by remaining in the air more than four hours over the former mark.

Elinor Smith, who once held the record, only to see two other women, both older than herself, break it, landed at Roosevelt field this afternoon and grinned when an admiring group congratulated her on remaining aloft more than 26 hours.

Her official landing time was 2:04 p. m., which would have made her flight 26 hours, 23 minutes and 16 seconds.

The former record was held by Mrs. Louise McPhetridge Thaden of Oakland, Calif., at 22 hours, 3 minutes and 12 seconds.

Harry Both, secretary of the National Aeronautic association, announced that the new record officially was 26 hours, 21 minutes and 32 seconds.

"My clothes budget had dropped to zero but . . ."

"My husband says I'm now a real partner in his new business! This is why . . . A year ago he left a good position to go into business for himself. To help, I dismissed the maid and did all my own work, including washing my nice things—and I invariably used Lux.

"What surprised me was how long I could keep clothes like new by always using Lux. Going over accounts the other day, I showed my husband that I hadn't had any new clothes for a whole year! He couldn't believe my clothes budget had dropped to zero! When I justly gave most of the credit to Lux for keeping things new looking so much longer, he said, 'Here goes Lux at the top of our economy budget.'" MRS. S. D. THAYER, *9 Ashland Ave., Buffalo, N. Junior Travel Club Wins Prize In District Meet at Arlington

Two honors were carried off by the Junior Travel club in the first district meeting of the Federation of Women's clubs of Texas at Arlington, according to word received here Wednesday.

The Junior Travel club sponsored an industrial art exhibit which carried off the art prize of $10. The poster accompanying it read "Sponsored by Junior Travel Club; Made in Wichita." Mrs. Grover C. Johnson had the display in charge. Mrs. Johnson went to the federation to represent her sister, Mrs. Joe Benton of Nocona, who is chairman of scholarship and loans.

The Woman's Wednesday club of Fort Worth offers annually a $25 prize to the best essay on club life as it will help women. The prize always goes to the club to which the writer belongs. It was announced Wednesday afternoon that Mrs. Grover C. Johnson's essay had again won.

The subject handled by the essayist was "Club Activities That Will Enrich the Life of All Humanity." Her introduction declares "Women as teachers and mothers of men are constantly working with raw materials, out of which good citizens or bad are made."

She then recounts ways in which women may enrich humanity the world over, in trying to abolish war; by passing a resolution endorsing America's signing the multilateral Kellogg peace pact; in creating a scholarship and loan fund; in encouraging children to become interested in a library; in organizing a junior club; a campaign for better equipped homes; in observance of Arbor day; sponsoring a safety council; supporting a little theater; urging tobacco concerns to cease using the American girl and woman on the billboard; observing a "Better American Speech Week" and to stress the need of a family budget in every home.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

Brides Under Twenty

DEAR MISS BRAINERD: I am 17 and engaged to a boy I've known all my life. My parents think I'm too young, that no girl should marry before she's at least 19. That's their only objection and I don't think it's a very sound one.

"I've finished high school and my father doesn't want me to work so I can't see any sense to just sitting around and waiting until I'm two years older. My mother was 18 when she was married and I can't understand how she can object to my following her example, can you?"

If I were you I should pay more attention to your mother's advice just because she has had the experience and knows what she is talking about.

She knows that marriage, no matter how happy or desirable, brings responsibilities and cares, which put an end forever to the play-time of a girl's life.

THE gay, go-as-you-please days are over the moment you have become a wife. Housekeeping, servant problems, financial worries, the coming of children all take their toll of youth and your mother knowing this, objects because she wishes you to have your play-time last as long as possible.

It is not that she would deprive you of the experiences that are your's and every woman's due, but she would prefer that you first drink deeply of the cup of youth—drink your fill so that never will you sigh for the return of that golden age and never wistfully look back upon a freedom which terminated too soon.

THE more civilization advances the more do early marriages decline. And there is a reason for this in the lengthening span of human life. Today we live longer than the ancients did—we have more time in which to savor a life's experiences. We have learned that the more knowledge and the more preparation we bring, the more richly are we benefited by those experiences.

The best gifts are those which are worth waiting for. The waiting need not be just a "sitting around." There are myriads of things a girl must know if her marriage is to be successful. She must be an astounding medley of financial expert, trained servant, home doctor, nurse, vamp and pedagogue.

Spend your time in fitting yourself for the career you have selected and, believe me, sometimes mother does know best.

Betty Brainerd will be glad to help her readers with their problems. Send a self-addressed stamped envelope to her in care of this paper.

1922 Study Club Entertained at Luncheon

Mrs. T. A. Bradley, 1903 Tilden, was hostess in an all-day meeting and luncheon to the 1922 Study club Wednesday afternoon.

The table was beautiful with an abundance of roses and other spring flowers and after lunch, a most beautiful address on "Words" was made by Miss Verna Sellers, who was the honor guest of the day.

Covers were laid for Mesdames E. E. Fisher, N. W. Gaut, Phil Lesh, R. A. Lincoln, W. H. Newell, George A. Patterson, F. H. Rider, J. M. Spoonts, Jack Dale and two guests, Mrs. R. T. Willis and Miss Verna Sellers.

Reader's Club Has Clever Review At Wednesday Meet

An amusing dramatic resume featured the morning meeting of the Reader's club Wednesday. The play drawn at random was "The Minuet" and the players selected by the drawing of their names, were Mesdames John Thomas, A. D. Duck and John B. Rhea. These three ladies used wit and imagination to produce a most interesting "Minuet."

Mrs. Claude Ruffner was leader of the meeting and Mrs. A. D. Duck gave a reading of James Whitcomb Riley's "Bud's Fairy Tale." There was a business session in which plans were completed for the play "The Wonder Hat" which is to be given on May 10 under the direction of Mrs. Oakes.

Members present were Mesdames E. F. Bohmfalk, Sterling Crumpler, Overton Abernathy, Homer Karrenbrock, Harry Myers, Porter Oakes, A. D. Duck, W. F. Pagan, Cecil Putty, John B. Rhea, Claude Ruffner, John Thomas, Misses Dorothy Nolen and Ella Merle Mathis and Mrs. Gertrude Patton, the guest of Mrs. John B. Rhea.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, April 24. (US)—They can send men and women to jail for other crimes, but not for nagging. But the nagger is always in jail no matter where he is, so perhaps as far as he is concerned it doesn't matter. But the people about him—they'd be so much happier if he were in jail.

A mother dragging her child along the aisles of a department store. The child's arm must have ached from the strain, and he was crying softly. "Johnnie, take your finger out of your mouth." "Johnnie, hurry up." "Johnnie, stop that crying or I'll slap you." "Johnnie, take your finger out of your mouth." "Johnnie, put your hat on straight." "Johnnie—"

I wanted to kidnap the child, rush him to the country some place—the day was warm—let him sit on a little knoll and rest his elongated arm. Let him have the joy of a little silence. I wanted to see the grin on his pretty little face when a bird in a tree up above chirped down something sassy.

A husband doggedly trying to do his stretch and not knowing how many years it was going to be—walking beside a nervous woman with a wagging tongue, whose head shook ominously every time she yipped out something. It couldn't have been anything agreeable because she looked so mad and the man looked so frightfully harassed.

What a life!

And a mother in the juvenile court jawing at her child who had run away, and looking as if she were in no way responsible. That injured look that indolent, no good mothers assume when the children they don't train to do the right thing, suddenly do the wrong thing.

The child, her head hung low, feeling as if she would much prefer to die than tell her story.

But you can't fool those juvenile judges. They know why girls with nagging mothers get into trouble.

A foreign mother nagging her sons because they didn't bring home every penny. The 18-year-old daughter listening, and wondering if her mother will find out she got a raise two months ago, and find out that in the locker at the factory she has the most delightful array of face powder and rouge and lip stick that it takes her but a few minutes to use when she gets there, but makes her whole day brighter.

A husband nagging the wife because she is late from work. Late from work, mind you, and she keeping house and bringing home her money to make his life easier! He gets there first because he has a car and the wife's office isn't in the direct line between his office and home so he won't call for her. She hangs to a strap to get there.

Women nagging men because the neighbors have better clothes, and so do their children. Why can't he buy them better clothes?

The frail, pretty girl being nagged into practicing the piano when she plays like a machine. No music in her. She is a tom-boy at heart who wants fresh air and needs it. But mother wants here to be a concert pianist. She never will, and she will be nagged about it till she becomes a disagreeable, unhappy child.

These new schools of self-expression that find out what children like and want to be, what their inclinations and talents are and help them, are not a bad idea. No one ever nags a child in such a school.

If you are nagging anybody, have a heart. You haven't the right to administer their hell a little in advance of the rest of us.

"Wouldn't Take $1000 for Good Orgatone Did My Wife" Says Wichita Man

She Suffered for Seventeen Long Years and Despaired of Ever Seeing Well Day Again

"I simply cannot find words to express my appreciation for the benefits my wife derived from Orgatone," said J. C. Short of 1204 Clark, Wichita Falls, a retired ranchman.

"If any one were to offer me a thousand dollars in cold cash, for the good it did her, I wouldn't take it, for Orgatone has helped her more than anything she has ever taken. She thinks so much of it, she has persuaded several of her friends to try it.

"For seventeen years, my wife has suffered from a severe case of indigestion. She had to be very careful of what she ate, and then what little she did force down, would sour on her stomach and she would suffer from gas something awful. She had bilious and dizzy spells, and was in a very weak and run down condition. She had a bad case of constipation and had to take strong laxatives. She never got a night's rest, but would roll and tumble all night long.

"Orgatone was recommended so highly, we decided that she should try it. You should just see her now. She sleeps fine, and has gained in strength and can now eat just anything, and best of all, she doesn't have those nervous, bilious and dizzy spells any more. Her nerves are perfectly quiet now, and her improvement is wonderful. We want to say a good word for Orgatone, because it has done so much for her. My wife is enjoying better health now than she has in years."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment and is sold in Wichita Falls, exclusively by Allison's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. Other agencies are the City Drug Store, Burkburnett; the Tarlton Drug Co., Electra, and the Vernon Drug Co., at Vernon, Texas.—Adv.

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

Miss Dix Advises Puzzled Wife To Go Back to Her Husband at Sacrifice

Better to Eat Humble Pie Than Not to Eat at All—How to Acquire a Girl Friend—When the Woman Is the Elder, Is It Wise to Risk Matrimony?

Dear Miss Dix—I left my husband five months ago. It was the fourth time I had done so, and for no other reason except just a foolish argument. Each time I just put on my hat and walked out and went to some of my relatives. My husband is a good man who gives me all of his salary. He loves me and is willing to take me back, but I am ashamed to return to that neighborhood and ashamed to let my people know I want to go back to him, because in order to justify myself I have lied about the way my husband treated me.

Now I am with a brother, but he will not be willing to support me and my 8-year-old son much longer, and I am untrained and have no way to make a living for us. Just what would do you?

—J. MAC Q.

Answer—Well, Mrs. Mac Q., my earnest advice to you is to go back to your husband and eat humble pie while there is still a chance to do it and henceforward to try to conduct yourself like an intelligent, grown-up woman instead of a petulant, spoiled baby.

Doubtless you think you make a fine gesture of independence when you slam the door behind you and walk out on your husband whenever you have a disagreement with him, but in reality you only proclaim yourself a quitter and show how little appreciation you have of the binding nature of a contract and the seriousness of the obligations of a wife and mother.

According to your own showing you have not really tried to make a go of your marriage. You not only have not attempted to keep your home together, you have done your best to wreck it. You have exercised no self-restraint. You have never controlled your temper. On the contrary, as soon as you encountered the slightest difficulty and you couldn't have your own way in everything, even to the last say in an argument, you scrapped all the vows you took at the altar and ran away from such a minor unpleasantness as a family spat.

A pretty poor sport you are. Doesn't it make you feel ashamed of yourself when you look about you and see the women who have had the courage and the steadfastness to endure marriages that were earthly purgatories for the sake of their children and because their own self-respect would not permit them to force other people to pay for the mistake they made in marriage?

I often wonder that the ladies who rush so gayly and with so little provocation to the divorce courts never stop to consider how unfair they are to their unfortunate families. For when Mary decides that she has lost her taste for her husband or becomes green-eyed over her husband's having a pretty stenographer and picks up her children and goes back home, it is her relatives who have to pay the bill for her matrimonial grievances.

She and her children have to be supported, and it comes pretty hard on those who have about all they can do to take care of themselves in these times of the high cost of living. All of us know fathers and mothers whose old age is deprived of every comfort and made hard and poverty-stricked because their pittance of an income has to be divided with a divorced daughter and her youngsters. All of us know brothers and sisters whose own families have been almost wrecked by having a divorced sister and her brood foisted upon them.

So it seems only fair, before a woman l aves her husband, for her to consider whether she is able to support herself and her children or not, and if she is not whether she had not better put up with a good deal of unpleasantness from friend husband rather than hang herself like a millstone around the neck of her afflicted family. For, after all, it isn't their fault that she doesn't get along with her husband.

Think this over, Mrs. Mac Q. Realize how unwelcome you are at your brothers and in your other relatives' houses and perhaps it will make you decide that it is better to be mistress in your own house than a forced guest in somebody else's house.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Can you tell me what to do about my inability to make friends with girls? I am a law student, in fair financial circumstances, like a good time, am good enough looking, yet since all the maidens seem to avoid me it must be my fault. My loneliness has almost driven me to desperation.

—SYDNEY.

Answer—Girls often suffer from datelessness because they have to wait to be asked, but I can imagine no reason for a man not having a girl to step out with unless he is too lazy to hunt one up or too bashful to give one the high sign.

For the world is full of girls of every variety and description—tall ones and short ones, demure ones and bold one, plump ones and slim ones, morons and highbrows, chatterboxes and Dumb Doras, brunets and blondes, and they all have the come-hither-look in the eyes for any personable man, and they don't have to be shanghaied in order to get them to a dance or into a restaurant or to take a joyride.

A girl to be popular with boys has to be good-looking and well dressed and peppy and carry a winning line of jolly and know how to dance, but girls aren't so particular about boys, and almost any youth can be a riot with them if he is fairly pleasing in personal appearance and neat and if he doesn't step on their feet when he dances and if he is willing to spend a little money on them.

Usually when a boy isn't popular with girls it is for one of three reasons. It may be because he is so conceited that he bores them to death talking about himself. Girls are pretty patient about that and will stand a lot of hearing about how great and wonderful a fellow thinks he is and what a marvelous car he has and how people tell him he looks just like Valentino and so on and on. But after a while this monologuing about himself gets on a girl's nerves and she decides that having to listen to it for a couple of hours on a stretch is too high a price to pay for being taken to the movies.

The second thing that queers a boy with a girl is for him to patronize her and act as if he thought she should be down on her knees in gratitude to him for noticing her and condescending to take her out. Girls loathe this grand sheik pose, and a little of it goes a long way with them. Also, it makes a girl mad through and through for a man always to be gibing at her sex and making her feel that he considers every woman a fool.

The third thing that makes a boy persona non grata with girls is for him to be a tightwad. This is the case with girls who are not golddiggers either. It is just that all girls feel that a man should be willing to pay something for the pleasure of their company, and they just naturally despise the chap who shows up regularly around mealtime and eats mother's good cooking and then thinks it is so much pleasanter to sit in the parlor and listen to the radio than it is to go out and burn up a few gallons of gasoline or to go to the theater.

So, Sydney, if you are not conceited or insolent or stingy, there is no reason for you to lack a sweetie.

PAINS IN HER BACK AND HEAD

Lady Took Cardui and Was Surprised at How Soon She Began to Feel Better.

Wellston, Mo.—Mrs. Henry Rick, of 6253 St. Louis avenue, this city, gives the following account of how she suffered several years ago:

"I was very much run-down, and my health was giving away. This alarmed me, because after trying several things I was no better. I suffered with bad headaches, and often had severe backache until I would have to lie down, and as it was so weak I could not stand long.

"One day, Cardui was recommended to me as a reliable tonic, so I thought I would get a bottle and try it. This I did, and I was very much surprised to find myself improving in just a short time. I began to pick up almost at once. I gained some in weight, but more in strength.

"My health began to mend steadily. I was delighted with the results, so I continued taking Cardui for some months and my general health continued to improve until I was feeling quite like my former self. In fact, I was better than I had been in years."

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

"Innocence" or a Night Club Hostess

Q.—Now, then, was liquor sold in your club?

A.—What was the word again, please?

Q.—Liquor.

A.—How do you spell it?

Q.—L-I-Q-U-O-R.

A.—It's a kind of sandwich isn't it?

Q.—Do you mean to sit there and tell the court you do not know what liquor is?

PHILLIPS

A.—I haven't the least idea. If it isn't a sandwich it's a kind of salad, isn't it?

Q.—Certainly not.

A.—Oh, I know now; it's a jelly. I remember hearing somebody speak of it.

Q.—Don't you know very well that liquor is a liquid and comes in a bottle?

A.—Really, I don't know anything about it. I have never seen any in my whole life. All I know about such things is hearsay.

Q.—How about wine?

A.—I have a slight idea what wine is: it's a crying noise made by a dog.

Q.—I'm talking about champagne. You know what champagne is, do you not?

A.—When I was a very little girl I remember seeing the word in a dictionary and asking my dear old mother, bless her, what it was.

Q.—Did she tell you?

A.—Certainly. She said it was Slovakian for olive oil.

Judge (interrupting)—What we are trying to determine is whether people ever drank intoxicating beverages in your place. Was there ever any drunkenness there?

A.—Drunkenness in a New York night club? Why, I never heard of such a thing!

Judge—You don't mind my asking the question?

A.—Well, it wasn't very gentlemanly and I think you should apologize.

Judge—Will it be all right if we all apologize?

A.—Yes.

Judge, Prosecuting Attorney and Court Attendants—We respectfully apologize for bringing up the question of liquor and for even intimating that there would be any intoxication in a night club. It was quite rude of us to ask. Do you accept the apology?

A.—Yes, but don't let it happen again.

Quite a few of the newspapers have referred to the new Mrs. Babe Ruth as an actress. The fact is she is a former Follies beauty.

The Comedy at Geneva

THE MEETINGS of the disarmament commission in Geneva, reported daily in all the papers at greater or less length, would be highly amusing if there was not such a grim, tragic overtone to them.

We have the spectacle, you see, of delegates from the great nations of Europe spending day after day and week after week trying to find some way to reduce their armaments, when all the while none of them really intends to do anything of the kind.

If you don't believe it, look at what happens whenever someone proposes a plan that would abolish red tape and delays and provide for a real reduction in national armies, navies and air forces.

The Russians, for instance, proposed the other day that every nation, without further ado, cut its armaments in half.

Now the motives of the Soviet delegates, quite possibly, are open to suspicion. But that suggestion for a forthright 50 per cent reduction would seem, on the face of it, to be quite reasonable. It would leave the relative positions of all nations the same; those that now have preeminence would still have it, and those that are outclassed by their rivals would be no worse off than before. And there would be real reductions.

And yet, in the face of all that, noobdy needs to be told that the Russian suggestion will be allowed to die of malnutrition in the very near future.

The whole spectacle almost makes one suspect that the delegates are trying, not so much to reduce armaments, as to find ways and means of escaping doing it.

That would be quite funny, considering the intense gravity, not to say pomposity, that attends their activities, if it were not for the tragic background to the whole thing.

The fact that the disarmament sessions are being held at all shows that every government on earth knows that its people want no more war. There are in the world too many millions of families that were thinned by the last war, too many millions of men who served in that war and are determined that such things shall not happen again.

These people, having eyes, see that the stage is being set for a new holocaust. They are striving, frantically, to avert it. The only way that occurs to them is to cut down the size of armies and navies. Hence every government is under pressure. Hence the disarmament sessions at Geneva, where the old game of international politics and intrigue has been complicated by the announcement of the plain people that they don't want to play it any more.

The spectacle would be rather funny—if it were not that many, many lives may be lost if no solution is found.

The Luckless Umpire

THE OPENING of the new baseball season brings up for study one of the most interesting of American phenomena—the almost religious fervor with which the average citizen, seated in a baseball stand, will hurl vocal abuse at the umpires.

Everybody knows that the umpires are earnest, conscientious men, chosen because they are able and honest. Everybody knows that they can see what happens on the field far better than the man in the stands. Why, then, should they be the targets for so much criticism?

The psychologist, perhaps, could explain it easily. He would suggest, we believe, that the average man is under too much repression. At home, at the shop or office, in his automobile—everywhere, he is compelled to hold his tongue and refrain from "talking back"—whether it be to his wife, his boss, or the traffic cop.

At the ball park these repressions vanish. He can take it all out on the umpire. The accumulated soreness of a week or more can be relieved by the simple process of yelling, "Kill the big bum!"

This may be hard on the umpires, but it is probably very good for the average man's soul.

"The Heathen Chinee"

Herbert Kaufman's Daily Editorial

THE later centuries have been thunder-thieves, shamelessly robbing ancient intelligence of its distinguished dues.

If this generation is the most efficient in history, no little part of the credit for its thoroughness and resource belongs to the Chinese—those "heathens" whom missionary societies so zealously patronize and labor to enlighten.

Bigotry is herewith advised that tolerance and religious freedom flourished in Cathay when Europe was still torturing heretics and confiscating non-conformist property for tupenny infractions of the Commandments.

Under Kubial Khan, Christianity, Mohammedanism and Buddhism enjoyed equal rights and shared identical privileges.

Socialism was preached, tried there and found wanting two thousand five hundred years ago.

Surplus crop legislation, so vociferously touted as the most advanced step agricultural economics has ever taken, is a time-worn tale in the Flowry Kingdom, where relief for sufferers from drought and flood was a governmental obligation before Columbus went sailing—including the distribution of free seeds to devastated areas.

China has had its fling at the single tax and the income tax. She manufactured asbestos products and wove the world's best textiles while Britons were wearing woad tattooing for waistcoats.

Her people can hardly remember when they devised currency.

HAD Alexander completed his eastward march, he would have met better highways than Rome ever built, inns at every journey break, a net-work of canals throughout the empire, tree plantations along all roads, paved streets, drainage, and commissioners wandering about the country instructing the husbandmen how to destroy pests and vermin.

Even then, there were stoves in homes and coal in the stoves. Kerosene burned in their lamps. Apothecaries stocked petrolatum. Grocers dispensed dried milk. Fruit-raisers were practicing most of the stunts that later made Burbank famous. And breeders boasted of their blooded strains and specialized in pedigreed cattle whose lineage reached back to Apocrypha.

Mongol servants covered nose and mouth to prevent breathing upon food. Physicians not only inoculated for smallpox, but were aware of "invisible insects." They had no microscopes to perceive germs, but they knew the air was filled with microbes and prescribed sanitary caution accordingly.

The Celestials gave us paper, printing and the mariner's compass—introduced the arrangement of data, first compounded gunpowder, knew more about etiquette than Emily Post ever heard of—and endowed posterity with philosophies, poetry and porcelains before which western culture still kow-tows in awed obeisance.

Everything modern isn't new—and everything Caucasian isn't best—despite the contrary opinion of immigration acts.

FOONERVILLE FOLKS By Fontaine Fox

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, April 24.—One of the most popular men about town, and certainly one of the most modest, is Capt. "Bob" Bartlett, who has been skipper of practically every arctic expedition from the United States since he and Admiral Peary sailed to the north pole.

He is in demand at public dinners, at lectures and at parties. He suffers, it must be said, the appearance of an inferiority complex, although in truth no man who has dared what he has dared, who has faced and overcome the difficulties and mysteries of things beyond the pale of civilization, can rightly be termed as inferior conscious.

But when he gets up to speak, or to make any public appearance, there is always about him a reticence akin to fear. While the public at large knows little of him in comparison with our modern adventurers, because of the latter day increase in publicity, he remains one of the greatest of modern adventurers and explorers.

And speaking of adventurers there is another man practically unknown to the public—known, in fact, only to that exclusive group of leading explorers. He is A. A. Anderson, whose gifts and diversions are truly remarkable.

I met him first while covering, for a New York newspaper, a dinner he gave in his magnificent and unusual studio atop the Beaux Arts building, in Fortieth street, which he designed and owns. At that dinner were present the foremost adventurers of our time (let me say, parenthically, it was before the name Lindbergh was written in dazzling letters across the sky.)

Among the guests were Captain Bartlett, Roald Amundsen, just back from his historic flight in a dirigible over the north pole, Commander Byrd, Chamberlain, George Palmer Putnam and a host of hunters and sportsmen. It was on that occasion, and largely through Anderson's help, that the old bitterness between Captain Bartlett and Amundsen, dating back to the Peary exploration, was healed. And I imagine, now that Amundsen died so heroically, that Captain "Bob" is grateful to Mr. Anderson for the chance he gave these two men to meet in friendly handclasp before it was too late.

Mr. Anderson is now close to the four-score mark and his life has been one of extraordinary activity and achievements. He is a famous painter, having been awarded prizes in Paris, where his work is better known than it is in America; he has hunted extensively, one boast being that he killed 40 bears in his day; he was foremost in inducing President Roosevelt to create a public park of Yellowstone and he is an expert bridge player, organ player and connisseur of old world architecture.

With all the talk about aviation, it is forgotten that Anderson was among the first to advocate national air routes, who financed and laid out air fields and who has done much in general for aviation. I dilate at length upon his work because he is but one example of the scores of quiet individuals living in New York who are little known in spite of their big achievements.

Olga Petrova is well known as an actress, little known as an author. Her one ambition has been to be a successful writer. She never became extremely excited about the stage. She wrote "The White Peacock," "Hurricane" and "The Black Virgin," all failures.

One phenomenon I've seldom seen in Broadway is the individual in formal afternoon dress, cutaway, high silk hat, monocle and all. In the movies this individual frequently appears—never, it seemed to me, in real life. The other day my dream was realized. There came along a man, all doiled up even to a well trimmed beard—the most pompous and lordly individual I've ever put my eyes on. I turned to gape at him admiringly as he passed. On his back was a sign: "See 'Raging Love,' a Drama of Intrigue and Fierce Passions, at the——Theater."

Reginald Townsend, by the way, is about the nearest approach to the typical New Yorker. He is thoroughly urbane, in fact and in appearance. He could almost wear a monocle without being stared at. But the fact is he is editor of Country Life Magazine!

A new automatic braking device for railroad trains has been invented by a Frenchman.

Automotive importations by Cuba from the United States last year amounted to $3,350,391.

DEATHS AT SEA ARE EXPLAINED

No Contagious Disease on Liner Atholl

LONDON, April 24. (INS)—The manager of the offices of the Canadian Pacific Steamship company here today admitted that six deaths occurred during the four months' cruise of the liner Duchess of Atholl in South American and African waters.

Of the six who died, four were passengers who succumbed to malaria, the official stated, while the other two were members of the crew who were victims of other maladies which were not contageous. Three of the four passengers who died were Americans.

Previous to the Canadian Pacific manager's admission, the company had maintained that only four deaths occurred. According to the earlier statement which denied the presence of any contageous disease aboard the ship, all four who died were passengers, two of whom died from malaria, the other two from sun-stroke.

The Duchess of Atholl was scheduled to end its cruise today with a call at Cherbourg before finally docking at Southampton. The Canadian Pacific manager said that no one would be allowed to board the ship at Cherbourg.

NIGHT SESSIONS IN HARDY CASE

Impeachment Trial Will Be Speeded Up

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 24. (INS)—Impeachment proceedings against Judge Carlos S. Hardy, accused of obstructing justice in connection with the Aimee Semple McPherson kidnaping case, will be speeded up by night sessions, it was announced today. The night sessions will begin when closing arguments are started; it is expected the trial will come to an end this week.

Judge Hardy took the stand in his own defense yesterday and made a sweeping denial of charges lodged against him. He denied that he ever asked Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sellaff to produce a "Miss X" to pose as the occupant of a Carmel cottage, or that he had accepted a $2,500 check from the Angelus temple for legal services.

Mrs. Sellaff charged that the "Miss X" was to divert suspicion from Mrs. McPherson, who, it is claimed, was at Carmel when the world believed she had been drowned. The evangelist reappeared some weeks later and stated that she had been kidnaped from the beach at Ocean park and held captive in Mexico by her abductors.

In explaining his acceptance of the check, Judge Hardy said he told Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, Mrs. McPherson's mother:

"I have never given you any legal services; if there is any idea I gave you such, I cannot accept it. You told me you wished to tender me a gift in appreciation of what I have done for the temple. As such I would accept it; as an appreciation of friendship."

Lawton Asked to Aid People in Storm Area

Special to The Record News

LAWTON, Okla., April 24.—The Lawton Chamber of Commerce today received an appeal from Carnegie for help for the storm-stricken district in and around Carnegie and Mountain Park. Relief work has been organized at Carnegie and an appeal sent to the Red Cross. Bedding, cooking, utensils, dishes and funds are needed, the appeal states.

The storm cut a path half a mile wide and 20 miles long through a fine farming country, leaving shattered homes behind.

One out of every five of our presidents have been vice presidents who come to office through the death of the president.

Health And Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

(Copyright 1929 by The Bell Syndicate Inc.)

Protein Added to the Diet

Starting with tomorrow, your diet will be changed so as to add a certain amount of protein in the form of eggs. A good way to start adding this protein to your diet is to make a change in your breakfast, eliminating the non-starchy vegetables at this meal and substituting a breakfast made up of one or two eggs, melba toast, and stewed fruit. The eggs may be prepared in any manner except by frying. Here are some ways to prepare eggs besides the usual boiling and poaching to which you have been accustomed:

Some Recipes

Coddled Eggs—Place the unbroken eggs in a deep pan which is not standing on the fire, and pour boiling hot water over them. At least one quart of hot water should be used to each two eggs. Allow to stand from 5 to 10 minutes. When broken open the egg should have a jelly-like consistency, but should at the same time be so well cooked that there is no transparent albumen which has not been coagulated. If the pan is covered, less will be required to get the same effect, but it is possibly more desirable to have the eggs congeal very slowly for perhaps 8 or 10 minutes, as in this way they are cooked through more thoroughly.

French Omelet—To two ounces of milk add one egg. Put in a dry frying pan over a slow fire, and beat the milk and eggs together. Stir and beat constantly so that it does not stick to the pan, and continue this until the mixture assumes a jelly-like consistency. Do not fail to keep on stirring the mixture even after it has been taken from the fire, as the frying pan will retain a good deal of heat which will continue to cook the egg. Serve in sauce dishes or egg cups. You will find that one egg prepared with two ounces of milk in this way will serve one person, and exactly fill the large end of an egg cup.

Baked Egg—Cut with a small biscuit cutter rounds of white bread from slices one-quarter of an inch thick. Toast these round pieces until browned all the way through. Place one in the bottom of each muffin tin, moisten slightly with sweet milk, and break one egg into each tin. Bake in slow oven until eggs have become firm and all transparent albumen has coagulated, being careful not to overcook them. Dot each egg with butter when ready to serve.

The melba toast is prepared in the following manner: Cut all of the crust from an ordinary loaf of white bread and slice the entire loaf one-quarter of an inch thick. Allow these to dry at least overnight, and preferably longer. When thoroughly dry they should then be put into a moderately hot oven and toasted so that the heat will entirely penetrate the dried bread until it is a golden brown all the way through. It should be buttered fresh as it is being eaten.

Stewed fruits are best if cooked after thorough soaking. In their dried form they should be well washed and soaked overnight in enough water to cover them. They should then be cooked slowly in the same water for as long as possible in order to bring out the sweet, palatable flavor. No sugar should be added, as the slow cooking will bring out the fruit sugar which will make them taste more delicious than if commercial sugar is used.

The lunch and dinner are to remain the same as you have been using, choosing a selection of the non-starchy vegetables both cooked and raw.

Your daily regime tomorrow will be this: Upon arising, brush your teeth vigorously for five minutes, take breathing exercises before an open window, then your morning enema, followed by a shower bath.

Breakfast—One or two eggs, prepared according to above recipes. Three or four slices of melba toast. A small dish of stewed fruit from the following list: Prunes, figs, raisins, apples, apricots or berries.

Luncheon and Dinner—A selection of one or more of the following vegetables: Celery, spinach, small string beans, asparagus, small parsnips, small turnips, pumpkin, lettuce, okra, chayotes, oyster plant (salsify), mallow, kale, parsley, endive, alligator pear, ripe olives. These may be used either cooked or raw, but I suggest that you use one or two cooked and one raw at each meal.

Before retiring, take your usual enema, shower bath and clean your teeth by vigorously brushing for at least five minutes, with a stiff truthbrush and a good dentifrice.

Look for tomorrow's paper with instructions for the following day.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Metallic Taste

Question—Mrs. W. W. asks: "Will you please tell me the cause of a metallic taste in one's mouth—especially so after eating fruit?"

Answer—Sometimes the metallic taste is caused from the effect of the acids of fruit upon fillings in the teeth. This is especially true with those having amalgam or silver fillings. Changing to gold inlays or pivot teeth will correct this.

STAPLETON AND BENTON LEAD SPUDDERS TO 13-9 VICTORY

BUD HAMMERS TWO HOMERS

Has Perfect Day; Rabbit Continues Great Streak

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Our spudders and Shreveport's Sports yesterday engaged in one of those free-hitting pastimes so pleasing to Mr. Average Fan. Played under the adverse conditions, a high wind that handicapped the pitchers, the contest out at the lot early resolved into a slugfest, and it continued that way to its conclusion at the end of two hours and 31 minutes of play, with the Spudders finally winning by the football score of 13 to 9.

Mighty hitting by Rabbitt Benton and Bud Stapleton led Galloway's gallopers to victory. Benton clouted a double and two singles and was passed twice in six times at bat. With his record of four hits and a walk in five times at bat in Tuesday's game, Rabbit maintained his streak yesterday of hitting safely or being passed for 10 consecutive times in the two tilts here. In his last time at bat yesterday, Rabbitt reached first but it was an error by Hutson.

Benton accounted for six of the Spudders' 13 tallies yesterday, driving home two and scoring four runs himself.

First Homers Here

Stapleton clouted two home runs, the first circuit drives of the 1929 championship season here. His first four-ply clout was in the second inning and was over the center field wall with a comrade on base. His second homer was in the sixth with lines unoccupied. It was over the right field fence.

Bud had a perfect day at bat, hitting a single and walking twice in his other two trips to the plate. He figured in the scoring of five runs, driving home one and counting four himself.

The Spudders hammered George "Grandpa" Wood, a former Rice institute pitcher and up from Texarkana of the Lone Star league, off the mound in a big first ninng, and they continued their bombardment of Williamson. In that first round, 11 of the 12 Spudders at bat hit safely or walked or sacrificed. Benton was up twice in the first round, walking and hitting a single. Three hits, six bases on balls and two sacrifices gave the Spudders six tallies in the opening frame.

Wood gave up two hits and six runs and Williamson yielded five tallies and seven knocks until he went out of the game in the seventh for a pinch hitter. Sis Hopkins, the veteran rookie, with a peculiar delivery finished and he gave up the remaining brace of runs and five hits.

Harold Wiltse Unsteady

Harold Wiltse was wild and unsteady and when the Sports came to within a run of tying the score in the sixth, with four runs that trailed 10-9, he was replaced by George Payne, with two out. George struck out the first batter opposing him and gave up only one hit and passed one in the next three innings. Wiltse allowed nine hits.

The Spudders hammered 14 blows, with every one of them except Wiltse getting at least one clout. Bennett had two hits and was the only other home athlete to get more than one blow.

Dick Cox whaled three knocks and Holman and Stewart two each to lead the Sport offensive.

Fifteen bases on balls were issued nine by the Sport hurlers.

The Weird Details

The Sports started as in Tuesday's game by tallying one in the first inning yesterday. Whelan walked, but was forced by Hutson, Wiltse to Benton. McClanahan filed to Sullivan. Holman was passed. Cox singled to center, scoring Hutson. Devivieros forced Cox on a tap to Swenson.

Benton and Turgeon strolled to start the Spuds' half and advanced on Fitzgerald's sacrifice. Bennett doubled to the right field wall, scoring Benton and Turgeon. Swenson walked. Sullivan's hoist to Cox sent Bennett to third. Stapleton was passed, filling the bases. Lapan mingled to left, scoring Bennett and Swenson. Wiltse walked, again populating all the base lines. Williamson replaced Wood. Benton singled to center, scoring Stapleton and Lapan; Wiltse stopping at second. Turgeon walked. Williamson tossed out Fitzgerald.

Stewart led off in the second with a hit to center and advanced to second and third on infield outs by Stack and Williamson. Fitzgerald dropped Whelan's high, short lift, Stewart scoring. Hutson struck out.

Bud Clouts First Homer

Sullivan singled to right after the two were out and the kid, with his usual heads-up baseball, took advantage of Williamson and ambled to second on the pitcher's balk. Stapleton hit over the center field wall, scoring Sullivan ahead of him. Lapan walked. Wiltse forced Lapan.

Holman doubled to right after one was out in the third and scored on Cox's two-base drive to center. Dick hurt his left foot stepping on the second but there was nothing wrong with his right; he kicked the bag viciously. So they tied the old cushion down and resumed play. Deviveros hoisted to Fitzgerald, sending Cox to third. Stewart singled to center, scoring Cox. Wiltse tossed out Stack.

Benton walked again to start the Spuds' half. Turgeon struck out and Benton stole second and continued to third on Stack's poor throw. Fitzgerald's lift to McClanahan scored Benton. Hutson took Bennett's fly.

Williamson walked in the fourth and went to second on Whelan's single to left. Hutson forced Whelan, Swenson to Turgeon, Williamson going to third. McClanahan forced Hutson, Turgeon to Benton, Williamson scoring. Holman fanned.

The Spudders didn't score in their half, though Swenson singled. Sullivan and Lapan sacrificed and Stapleton walked.

Shreveport failed to tally in the fifth, though Benton's wild throw on Cox's grounder let Dick get to second to start the inning. Cox went to third while Stapleton retired Deviveros, unassisted. Cox was run down on Stewart's bounder to Wiltse. Turgeon roamed far to his left for Stack's grounder.

Benton led off for the third time and got his second single, a hit to center. He moved to second while Holman was throwing out Turgeon. Fitzgerald singled sharply to right, scoring Benton, and Howard continued to second on Cox's boot. Bennett and Swenson grounded out.

Shreveport counted four in the sixth and came within a run of tying the score. Williamson strolled and was forced by Whelan, Benton unassisted. Hutson walked. McClanahan fanned. Holman hit through Swenson, scoring Whelan and Hutson. Cox singled to right. Deviveros doubled to right, tallying Holman and Cox. Payne relieved Wiltse and struck out Stewart.

Stapleton clouted his second homer over right field barrier in the sixth.

The Sports were retired in order in the seventh.

Rabbit Clouts Double

Benton again led off, in the seventh, and again hit, this a double that rattled the center field two-by-fours. Turgeon beat out a roller to Hopkins, advancing Benton to third. Fitzgerald fouled to Holman. Bennett was safe on a deep bounder to Holman, scoring Benton. Stewart converted Swenson's liner into a double play.

McClanahan doubled in the eighth after one was out but he was left stranded at second.

Stapleton whaled his third hit, a single to left, after one was out. Hutson made a catch off the fence on Lapan's smash. Payne slashed a single to right, Stapleton stopping at second. Hutson dropped Benton's fly, Stapleton scoring and and Payne going to second. It was an error by Hutson and stopped the Rabbit's streak of consecutive hitting. Turgeon grounded to Whelan.

Bennett went back for Devivieros' lift in the ninth. Turgeon took Stewart's pop. Hopkins struck out.

NOTES OF THE GAME

Russell Cromer, the righthander or Chick Galeria, the southpaw, will be named by Skipper Jim to hurl today's third and rubber contest of the series with the Sports.

Chief Wilkins, the very good right hand chucker, probably will be Foreman Art Phelan's selection.

Several prizes for "firsts" were won yesterday by the Spudders. Bud Stapleton gets a military brush set from the Trickett Trunk and Bag company for hitting the first homer over the right field fence; a Dobbs straw hat from the W. B. McClurkan and company for hitting the first homer over the center field fence, and a Goodrich Silvertown cord tire from the Service Tire company for clouting the first circuit smash.

Rabbit Benton will receive a Borsalino straw hat from the P. B. M. company for the first stolen base.

Howard Fitzgerald earned a shirt from the Loeb-Liepold company for the first sacrifice.

Harold Wiltse gets a Willard battery from the Serivce Tire company for being the first pitcher to win at home.

There still remains to be won a pair of Thompson shoes donated by the Montgomery company for the first home run over the left field fence, and a hat offered by Loeb-Liepold for the first Spudder pitching a three-hit or less game.

Another feature of that hectic first inning was that Turgeon was walked in both times up. Incidentally, the maintaining of 1,000 or .000 marks by the first 11 athletes at bat in that round probably constitutes a record in baseball.

WOMEN'S TICKETS

Women's season tickets, good for all Spudder games except on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays and selling at $5, may be obtained at the baseball office on the sixth floor of the Harvey-Snider building daily, and after 3 o'clock at the baseball park.

The price of $5 per ticket is less than nine cents for a game.

Derby Candidate

Blue Larkspur of the E. R. Bradley stable is the principal concern of turfmen as time draws near for the annual running of the Kentucky derby at Louisville. This son of Black Servant is held at smaller odds than any other entry.

Adams Gets K. O. Over Kid Murdock

Duke Tramel Refuses To Meet Varner

Henry Adams, young Wichita Falls lightweight, advanced quite a step in his boxing career last night by knocking out Kid Murdock, the Sulphur, Okla., veteran, in the second round of their scheduled six-round bout at the Palace theater. Adams showed lots of class in scoring a speedy k. o.

Duke Tramel, the Fort Worth welterweight, declined to go through with his 10-round feature mill with Walter Varner, giving his reason that the gate was insufficient.

Jack Doherty failed to show up for his eight-round semi-windup with Rudy Hodge. Varner and Hodge boxed exhibitions with other boys.

Jack Betts knocked out Martin Craig in the first round and Jack Smith outpointed Jack Box in four rounds in other bouts.

NEWMAN LEADS SANTONE TEAM

Pat Succeeds Bill Alexander As Indian Chief

SAN ANTONIO, April 24. (AP)—William S. Alexander, manager of the San Antonio Indians, tendered his resignation today.

Alexander's resignation became effective at once, and Pat Newnam, assistant manager, was put in charge of the club.

Alexander said he had been out of the game too long to stage a comeback.

BASEBALL enthusiasts of the Wichita Falls territory showed by their attendance opening day here that they retain interest in the old game and appreciate the winning ball club provided by J. Alvin Gardner. Although the attendance at Tuesday's game was short about 1,000 from the figure at last year's opener, it was eminently satisfactory. Indeed, officials of the Spudders were gratified by the attendance of more than 7,500 at the Wichita Falls inaugural this season.

A road trek that was creditable in view of conditions, which mainly concerned ineffective pitching, but from the standpoint of the fans probably was disappointing, and a day made unpleasant by a high wind, did not indicate propitious signs for a huge gathering Tuesday.

But the good fans of this vicinity like their baseball and they know the Spudders will be up there in the race soon.

IT DIDN'T require Bill Alexander many days to discover he had been out of baseball too long to carry the managerial burden of the San Antonio Indians. But the resignation of Alexander as skipper of the Tribe probably was prompted by the failure of his club to strike a winning gait as much by his unfamiliarity with the pastime, from which he had been absent as an active figure for 16 years.

The Indians had won only two and lost six games before yesterday's game, when Alexander advised officials of the San Antonio club that he had had enough. The future doubtless looked dark to old Bill, what with a team of little apparent power. Running a ball club is a tough job at the best and there is no position fraught with worry and grief as that of piloting a losing nine.

PAT NEWNAM probably won't land the Indians higher than seventh or eighth. But he will inject a lot of fight into his athletes—or they will be supplemented by others who at least will be in there giving opposing clubs a battle.

Newnam was one of the most pugnacious players and managers who ever was chased by an umpire in the Texas league, and while passing years may have mellowed Pat, they doubtless haven't taken from him the old will to win.

The oldtimers are like that. And sometimes when I see some of the boys handshaking with athletes of opposing clubs out on the field, I would that some of the fight and fire of the old days be returned. Baseball players drank more liquor in those days, perhaps, and they weren't as erudite as the athletes of today. But they played the game with a dash and spirit that seems lacking in many of the toilers today.

WILLIAM ARTHUR SALMON is a new Spudder fan. Seven pounds and 14 ounces he weighs, and he was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Salmon. Proud papa Arthur, the big chili and root beer man, was receiving congratulations yesterday from his many friends. Mrs. Salmon and Bill are in excellent health and will be ready to receive visitors in a day or two.

The youngster is named William after "Five Yards" Mitchell, the famous football player and enthusiast.

Golf Gallery

William Mehlhorn, called "the wild un" by those who recall his astonishing reversals of form at crucial moments, is one of golf's most colorful figures.

Willie-the-wild has led great fields and won important tournaments, but the grand prizes have fluttered just beyond his reach. An unlucky third round has cost him at least two nationals. But he is undoubtedly one of golf's sturdiest medal players.

Built like a blacksmith, he handles his heavy clubs like elm switches. And if his form is not orthodox, it is effective. He likes color combinations not too subdued, wears a glove on his left hand and possesses one of the most startling collection of hats seen on a golf course.

He now is in England trying for the British open.

Old Partners of Jim Coffroth Revolt Against Tia Juana Rule

Rebel Faction Plans Track at Agua Caliente and Fight for Control of Situation Is Launched

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, April 24.—In the racing domain of the old Hidalgo of Tia Juana, "Sunny Jim" Coffroth, way out yonder in Lower California, rise rumors of insurrection against the crown. It appears that a group of blokes who are not satisfied with the way "Sunny Jim" conducts the racing at Tia Juana have been holding meetings in secret arroyas, and have commenced to mutter:

"Down with the Hidalgo of Tia Juana!"

The revolutionists announce that they will immediately build a new track at Agua Caliente, the seat of one of the biggest gambling joints on the North American continent, about three miles west of the present Tia Juana plant, while "Sunny Jim" asserts that he will be doing business as usual at the old stand.

Thus there may be two tracks running at the same time at Tia Juana, and, my amigos, that's more than the traffic will stand. Go and bet on it. One or the other plant must succumb, or break the operators. It isn't in the cards that the racing racket in California can support two tracks when it hasn't been doing any too well by one.

But when old friends fall out they start reaching for the snickers-nees without reckoning the consequences, and the revolutionists against the reign of the Hidalgo of Tia Juana, and the Hidalgo and his following, were once all little pals together. I mean to say they were one mob. Most of them got rich through their association in the original racing plant at Tia Juana, and its attendant "traps," which are said to have included the gambling concessions in oldtown, or Tia Juana proper.

They Coined Money

Headed by "Sunny Jim," the coterie comprised the good Baron Long, who once owned the famous Vernon Country club outside Los Angeles, a combination road house, and night club, and who is now a wealthy hotel man in San Diego; Jack Atkins, noted old time racing man; Marvin Allen, Charley Withington, Fred C. Beyers, called "Boose," Wirt G. Bowman, Gregory Mitchell, Jim Crofton, and a number of others.

They made money hand-over-fist. Withington, who was accounted the big power in the border gambling, died. Jack Atkins pulled out as general manager of the Tia Juana track a year ago, and Gene Normile, a close friend of Coffroth, took his place. Normile was Jack Dempsey's manager for the first Tunney fight.

A row blew up some time ago that resulted in the elimination of "Booze" Beyers and Marvin Allen, and several others, leaving "Sunny Jim," Baron Long, Wirt G. Bowman, Gregory Mitchell, Normile and Jim Crofton still associated, but looking occasional daggers at each other.

Now, it is said, Long, Bowman and Crofton have cut away from the old crowd, and they are the ones who are talking of the new plant, with the Wirt G. Bowman handicap with $100,000 added, as the star feature of a racing meet this fall, to offset "Sunny Jim's" famous Coffroth handicap, the richest of all the turf stakes.

Opened Agua Caliente Resort

The Long-Bowman-Crofton combination went down to Agua Caliente, a Hot Spring not far from Oldtown, and the Tia Juana track, a couple of years ago and built a palatial hotel, a gambling casino and a dog track. I have been told that it is a beautiful and lively spot, to which the members of the Hollywood movie colony flit in droves in airplanes each week-end.

Whether "Sunny Jim" and the loyal Greg Mitchell and Normile ever had an interest in this institution I do not know. Apparently not. "Sunny Jim's" chief concern has always been the racing at Tia Juana, rather than the gambling in Oldtown, though whether racing at Tia Juana could have succeeded without the gambling concession is something of a question.

Still, the gambling probably wouldn't have been enormously successful without the races. It is doubtful if the mere privilege of gambling would lure as many clients below the border as go there when the racing is on. That is before the hotel and Casino at Agua Caliente were built. There wasn't much to interest a wayfarer in Lower California prior to that event.

The course the combination that will probably win the war at Tia Juana is the combination that stands in best with the Mexican officials and politicians. They can put the kibosh on anyone they don't like down there. Which goes for officials and politicians anywhere else, for that matter.

The Hidalgo of Tia Juana has always seemed to have the friendship of the Mexican officials and politicians. But you never can tell about officials and politicians, Mexican or otherwise. Perhaps the political rulers of the province will decide that two tracks mean more money than one track, and let the lads battle it out to the death.

WHITE OWL is literally bought by the billion ... So we can afford to take less profit, put the money into Extra Value, and reap greater reward in the long run ... Max-Paolino Go Plans Progress

Milk Fund Show June 27 Is Apparently Assured

NEW YORK, April 24. (UP)—Plans for matching Max Schmeling, of Germany, and Paolino Uzcudun, of Spain, in a heavyweight battle for an American charity, June 27, are progressing smoothly here and unless unforeseen obstacles arise, the two title contenders will feature the annual milk fund show on that date.

Joe Jacobs, New York promoter, who owns an interest in the German, was notified by long distance telephone today that Schmeling, now in Berlin, would sail for America next Monday or Tuesday from Hamburg to conclude negotiations for the bout.

Schmeling plans to land at Montreal for a two-day visit with relatives, he informed Jacobs, arriving in New York about May 10. This is taken to mean that he will go through with the milk fund bout despite the fact that contracts must be approved by Arthur Bulow, his recognized manager, under whose direction Schmeling has vowed never to fight.

With Paolino and Schmeling in the feature bout, and K. O. Christner and Otto von Porat in the semi-final, the milk fund show may develop into one of the greatest heavyweight productions since the retirement of Gene Tunney, critics here believe.

Aspirant for Derby Wins the Paumonok

NEW YORK, April 24. (AP)—Mel Foo, candidate for the Preakness and Kentucky Derby, carried the silks of the Rancocas stable of Harry Sinclair to its fourth win in the Paumonok handicap today as the metropolitan racing season opened at Jamaica before a crowd of 10,000.

Making his first start of the season the chestnut son of Kaisang won handily, sweeping aside the threats of Byrd and Extreme as the eight starters for the rich turf and award came into the stretch, to win by two lengths. Byrd, 5-year-old son of Peter Pan, was second, beating out the Dorwood stable entry, Extreme, by a length. The race was worth $6,650 to the owner of Mel Foo and the time was 1:14.

A Sporting Epic

The invasion of British golf by the American Ryder cup team recalls the big change that has taken place in the last 15 years.

In the last six years, for example, the British open has been won five times by two American home-bred—Hagen and Jones.

But 15 years ago, back in 1914, British golf was at least supreme upon its home turf. It was about that time that golf was added to the Olympic games, to be held in Berlin in 1916—games that were suddenly broken off by a more somber series of contests that began at the borders of Belgium.

But the contest that Great Britain felt in her golfers 15 years ago was shown after the Olympic games announcement by the following set of verses that appeared in "Punch" under the title:

The Last Stand

Fetters of sloth hang round and hobble us,
Swiftly the webs are spun:
Scarce have we-time ere the spiders gobble us
To utter "Jack Robinson."
Chief of our shames, we have lost our claims
To excel the world at Olympic games;
We are heirs no more to the old Discobolus;
We can neither leap nor run.

Where, ah, where, shall we seek asylum?
How shall we gild again,
Fallen and tarnished deep, the whilom
Coronals? Frank and Dane
Filch from our brows the olive boughs
Sprinters we have, but they halt like cows;
And as for our chess and our chuckling the pilum—
Ah! stop! It is too much pain.

Thus did I muse and my heart debated
Sadly about Berlin;
Here, I thought, shall the lease undated
Of Albion's pride fall in!
We shall gain no goal, I said to my soul,
We shall fall at the foot of the greased Pole,
We shall bow our heads to the Czech, checkmated,
We shall yield the palm to the Finn.

When lo! like a sunburst seen through vapor
As a three days' fog clears off;
I found this par in my morning's paper,
"Hellas embraces golf!"
German and Yank you may keep your swank
With the quivering lath and the diver's tank,
But who shall best o'er the bunker caper,
And joust in the sand filled trough?

None, I think, but the loved of heaven
Whose path is the ancient green,
Whose hearts are buoyed with the seadogs' leaven,
Whose brand is the iron keen;
Only the race with the brassie face
That follow the spheres in a long, stern chase,
That still putt out as the tars of Devon
Put out to the Spaniard's teen.

Here (so carry our drives, O Castor, Pollux our chip shots eke)
I will wager a crown to a mere piastre
That Teuton and Gaul and Greek
And the faraway Japs and the sledge horne Lapps
Shall fall to our plus-four handicaps,
And the gods shall fasten the oleaster
To the blade of the British cleek.

The Big Change

These verses were written when Vardon, Taylor and Braid were still winning—when Hagen was just 21—When Bobby Jones was only 12.

There has been a vast change since the war. Havers has been the only home living British golfer to win the British open since the brilliant Duncan won in 1920.

And in place of taking the present American invasion lightly, British golfers have gone into training for the team matches that shortly get underway at Leeds. If there are any odds they now belong on the American side when these Ryder cup matches start, and the same is true of the British open early in May.

These team matches will be played through the schedule of foursome battles, entirely different from four-ball affairs, and eight singles. This means that it will be possible for one side or another to win 12 points. The side winning seven points will leave the losers with only five points. It can happen, but it is hard to imagine a team headed by such golfers as Hagen, Horton Smith, Farrell, Sarazen, etc., losing seven out of 12 matches. Yet Campston, Duncan and Mitchell are all fine match play golfers, and there are others, such as young Cotton, who are capable of setting and holding a fast pace. It is a big mistake to take these team matches for granted on the American side. The American team is the stronger one, day in and day out, under neutral conditions, but golf is a game of quickly changing touch and timing—a game that can be heavily affected by conditions of weather and links, no matter on which side of the Atlantic it is played.

A cold, wind-blown rain can make a big difference to those not accustomed to golf of that sort, just as the sun and the heat has affected more than one British star over here.

The Battle of Moortown should be one of the most interesting ever fought between the homebred golfers of Great Britain and America—no matter what the final result.

Chicago Lauds Rogers Hornsby

Rajah Gets Greatest Acclaim of Career

By ALAN J. GOULD

NEW YORK, April 24. (AP)—Great as he always has been in action on the ball field, Rogers Hornsby nowhere previously in his checkered and roving career has received the popular acclaim that Chicago fans have bestowed upon him this season from the start.

The Rajah is what the boys call a "frigid proposition." He does not mix with the players on or off the field. Neither is he responsive to crowds or of the personal type that arouses much outburst from the fans. He has never been a great personal drawing card such as Ruth or Cobb, though he ranks with either in batting prowess.

"I never pay any attention to the crowds," the Rajah said one day while he was with the Giants. "They can cheer me or give me the razz any time they feel like it. So long as they pay their money at the gate, that's their privilege."

There may be no special change in Hornsby, who always has gone about his work with a detached, cool concentration. But the crowds in Chicago are paying their money to see and cheer him, personally, where the great Rogers failed to inspire much enthusiasm even in St. Louis, his old stand, as well as in New York or Boston, he has become quickly idolized in Chicago as the main cog in a machine that is making a quick start on the road to the pennant.

followed recommendations of the board for four years it would continue to do so. Some directors declared their companies would not participate in any movement which appeared to be a violation of anti-trust laws.

Heads of the various oil producing companies were asked by the institute to begin an immediate study of legislation necessary to effect an interstate compact. The legal staff of the institute also will be asked to confer with the attorneys of the conservation board with a view to working out details of the compact.

"Only Rational Move"

Mark Requa, a member of the institute's board of directors and one of the country's leading conservationists, declared that the action of the institute was "the only rational one it could take."

"In my opinion," Mr. Requa said, "the decision of the institute will have a tremendous effect on the future development of the country. Its influence will not only affect the oil industry, but every phase of American life."

R. C. Holmes of the Texas company, chairman of the committee which drew up the institute's conservation program, said he was "very happy that the oil industry and the government find themselves working side by side toward the same goal—that of properly using one of our great natural resources.

E. B. Reeser, president of the institute also declared he was "highly pleased over the action taken and the fact that the industry and government have found a way to cooperate."

Trapped in Homes

The twister swooped from the sky to bring destruction at an hour when many were eating their noon day meals. Few persons were in the streets of the little community and those in their homes had little chance to escape falling debris.

Slocum is a farming community of not more than 300 inhabitants, and is an important trading center for farmers within a radius of about five miles. Workers late today were attempting to cut through the mass of fallen trees, telephone wires and debris to farm houses where it was feared more dead will be found.

Although communication in near vicinity of the storm was paralyzed telephones were in operation at Elkhart, about seven miles from Slocum. News of the disaster was pushed through the Elkhart exchange as rapidly as lines could be cleared.

SMALL TORNADO DAMAGES HOLLIS

March winds and April showers came at once Wednesday to the Wichita Falls area with both destruction and gain.

Early in the morning, heralded by rumbling thunder and electrical quirks, a heavy, but brief rain fall, totalling little less than a half an inch, and bringing some aid to crops in this vicinity.

But late in the day the wind continued to rise, resulting in a small twister at Hollis, Okla., which tore down 40 racing stables in the process of construction, and injured one workman. The injured man, N. L. Essary, was in a hospital at Hollis Wednesday night.

The twister also unroofed several houses in Hollis, and in the immediate vicinity did much damage to crops, ruining most of the small grains.

Train dispatchers reported no other disturbance of this kind. The slight rain which fell in this region early Wednesday will have to be repeated in heavier volume before crops will be assured of enough moisture, County Agent G. C. McGown said. High winds kept the air filled with dust and sand late Wednesday.

QUINCY, Ill., April 24. (UP)—Three hundred residents of the South Quincy district fled from their homes to higher levels today when a dike along the Mississippi river gave way under the pounding of flood waters.

The swollen river rushed through a gap 100 feet wide and spread out over 5,000 acres of rich garden lands. More than 80 homes were deserted as the water rose above their foundations and first floors.

Vigilance was renewed tonight along a 60-mile waterfront as torrental rains continued to fall. Reports from Hannibal, Mo., to the south, said 50 blocks were under water. At Canton, Mo., 18 miles north of Quincy, 150 homes were flooded.

COURTESY BOX

Curb Mail Container Is Back in Place After Tilt With Truck

The "courtesy box" at the local postoffice was reset in its regular place on the north side of the building Wednesday after being upset from its fastenings by a truck driver late Monday night, according to O. P. Maricle, postmaster.

The driver of the truck had stopped at the box to post a letter and struck it with the rear of his machine as he was driving off, he told postal officials.

He promised to pay for damage done to the mail receptacle and for placing it on its foundations, Mr. Maricle said.

The absence of the box for the past two days caused a great deal of congestion among its patrons and was responsible for a great many inquiries to postal officials, Mr. Maricle asserted.

CITY REDUCES LABOR COSTS

Total Reduction in Wichita Expenses $40,125

The cost of labor for the city of Wichita Falls was decreased $11,607.38 during the fiscal year which closed March 31, according to financial comparison between the two years which was released Wednesday by W. E. McBroom, city clerk.

Labor expenses for last year totaled $341,502.63 while the cost of labor for the previous year was $353,110.01, the report showed.

A decrease of $12,401.41 was shown last year in the purchase of ordinary supplies, while expenses decreases were also registered in practically all of the other divisions.

Slight gains were shown in interest on the city's debt because of large floating debt on the auditorium and in city insurance because of the auditorium building and street improvements.

A total decrease of $40,125.18 was shown in the operating expenses last year, expenses totaling $568,297.37 as compared with an operating cost of $608,422.55 for the previous fiscal year.

The payment of the city manager's salary increased expenses only $88.33 over the salaries paid to the city aldermen, treasurer and mayor of the previous year.

GOTHAM POLICE HUNT DOCTOR

Kidnaping Suspected In Mystery Case

erty, largely in the Bronx. He also had speculated in the stock market with much success, rolling up a fortune believed to run well over a million dollars. The Gouverneur Morris mansion alone was worth $40,000 and his account with his broker involved a half million in cash, stocks and securities.

Departed Suddenly

There had been nothing unusual in his activities immediately preceding his disappearance, according to his friends. They had remarked that he seemed to have left rather suddenly when several of them received telegrams cancelling appointments but for a time little was thought of his absence.

Then a man appeared at the brokerage house with a paper, apparently well authenticated and bearing what was identified as Dr. Bracanti's signature, authorizing the bearer to act for the doctor in financial matters.

The bearer of the paper, after establishing himself with the brokers, began drawing against the account until he had transferred a total of $225,000 from the broker's office to an Italian bank in Mulberry street. At the bank he had given a mid-town address, and had conducted himself in a manner which did not arouse suspicion.

Funds Checked Out

But detectives, tracing this man, found that all of the $225,000 he had deposited in the bank had been checked out excepting $269 which still remains. It had been paid out in amounts of from $10,000 to $25,000 at a time, usually in cash.

Then, detectives who went to the address given at the bank, found the man who had the account had lived there but a few days, having rented a single room. No one knew anything about him nor was it known where he had gone.

Three letters, detectives found, had come here purporting to be from Dr. Brancati. But examination showed they were crudely worded, hardly after the manner of the physician who was well educated both in his profession and in general subjects. The signatures seemed genuine, however. Two of these letters had been mailed in Canada and the third in London.

Attempts to trace these letters have led to nothing in the way of valuable information.

The brother, Ercola, placed the matter in the hands of the police two weeks ago. He had first attempted to solve the mystery himself. Police have worked secretly for a fortnight on the case without result. They suspect the doctor has been kidnaped. Today the first word of it was given to the public.

PETROLIA OIL FIELD GIVEN NEW IMPETUS BY 250 BARREL WELL

CLAY COUNTY AREA PICKS UP

Mid-Continent Holding Corp. Leads Activity

One of the best wells completed in the Petrolia field of Clay county for several years was brought in Monday when the Mid-Continent Holding corporation No. 1 Bates-Evans, located in the southeast corner of block 6, Parker county school lands, came in estimated as a 250-barreler from the sand at 1780 feet. The well is also showing 500,000 cubic feet of gas.

The company, which during the past few months has shown considerable activity in their properties in Clay county, also completed in the last 10 days two other producers. The wells are No. A-2 Stine ranch, in block 7, Parker county school lands, which encountered the sand at 1759 feet, and is making 60 barrels, the oil showing 45 gravity test.

Mid-Continent Holding corporation No. B-1 Stine, in the center of the south line of northwest quarter of block 7, is good for 20 barrels from the 1700-foot pay.

In block 2632, T. E. L. survey, the Mid-Continent Holding corporation No. 5 Wright picked up the sand at 820 feet and is producing 110 barrels per day. Location for No. 6 has been made and it is drilling at 200 feet.

The same company has made location for its No. 8 H. H. Johnson, located in block 42, Parker county school lands. Stine No. A-3, located in the northwest corner of southwest quarter of block 7, Parker county school lands, has spudded in. The company has its North Texas offices in Wichita Falls and is planning to thoroughly develop the properties in the Petrolia fields during the coming summer.

This new activity of Mid-Continent Holding corporation has spurred other operators at Petrolia, the oldest producing area in North Texas.

C. J. Wrightsman Sells Properties to Tom Slick

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., April 24.—Charles J. Wrightsman, president of the Wrightsman Petroleum corporation, has disposed of all of his holdings in the Asher field of southern Pottawatomie county, to the Tom Slick Oil company, headed by Thomas B. Slick. It is reported that $1,200,000 was paid for the Wrightsman acreage in 6-4 and 6-3, part of it in cash and the rest in oil to be produced on the leases so sold.

This is the first big deal that Mr. Wrightsman has made for 1929, and a study of his career shows that he has sold out many times since 1918. He has accumulated a fortune in oil and has achieved a name as a wildcatter in various parts of the mid-continent.

New Showing In Callahan Area

Special to The Record News

ABILENE, Texas, April 24.—Redmond et al's No. 1 Moore in the Dudley area of western Callahan county, has encountered oil in sand at 1,853 feet and has made several flows. The hole is being cleaned out and will be tested during the next few days.

This is the first test that has found oil in the Dudley district for more than a year. It is located in the southeast corner of the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section 9, S. P. R. R. survey No. 6, and is 600 feet west of the discovery well in the Dudley pool, which flowed 60 barrels a day initially several years ago.

The crude from the new well tests 46 degrees gravity, the owners say. Some operators estimate it good for as much as 150 barrels a day. The owners will make no estimates, saying they will wait until the well is cleaned out and given a thorough testing before making any predictions.

HEAVY FEED CROP PLANTED

Big Acreage Here in Grain And Forage

Evidence of the rural districts of Wichita county and surrounding territory producing something more than oil, cotton, poultry, milk and eggs is found in the great variety of feedstuffs for which seed has been sold in large quantities this spring by local dealers.

Besides a vast variety of garden truck, cultivated land in this district has been planted to at least 20 different kinds of row crops and small grain. In the former group, one of the items to which much acreage has been given is the variety of sorghum known as darso. Cane also has been planted in considerable quantities for stock feed. Ribbon cane, with high sugar content for the making of molasses, is being grown by an increasing number, it was stated. The larger portion of the maize to be harvested in this vicinity will be in the areas near the Red river. Feterita and hegari, which is a cross between feterita and kaffir corn, also have been given large acreage in that section, it was reported. Advance reports indicate that a considerable quantity of the white corn known as "June corn" will be planted. This variety matures quickly, and may be planted during the month of June with assurance of sufficient remaining warm weather to mature.

Other field crops to be found in abundance include Egyptian wheat, which produces a very small berry, and is used largely for chicken feed. It grows to a height of from five to six feet, and is stacked so that the fowls may be given the work of scratching out the tiny berries. Yellow dent corn, sudan grass, "surecropper" white corn, millet, oats, wheat, barley, rye, alfalfa and white clover also have been given much ground, according to the sales of seed to residents of this territory.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 24. (AP)—The cotton market was higher today on covering in old and new crop months, on some buying attributed to relatively firm Liverpool cables and on rather a less favorable view of the weather outlook. Highest prices were reached in the late trading when July sold at 19.44 or 31 points net higher. That delivery closed at 19.42 with the general market closing firm at new advances of 26 to 36 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 7 to 11 points.

After showing net gains of about 23 to 25 points, buying tapered off and the market reacted a few points from the best under realizing or renewed liquidation. Offerings were comparatively light, however, and prices firmed up again in the late trading when the covering became more active. May advanced to 20.02 and December to 19.66. At the close May contracts were 56 points over July compared with a difference of 59 points at the close of the previous day.

A private report estimating the increase in acreage at 5 per cent and the area likely to be planted at 49,652,000 acres, appeared to be without much effect on the immediate market.

Exports today, 8,258, making 7,242,189 so far this season. Port receipts, 12,992. U. S. port stocks 1,468,838.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 24. (AP)—Prospects for unfavorable weather in the belt caused cotton prices to work higher today despite the impending first notice day for May deliveries. In the late trading October advanced to 19.38 and closed at 19.36, 28 points net up. The general market closed steady at net gains of 25 to 31 points.

The market opened steady, 6 to 11 points higher in response to relatively firm Liverpool cables. The weekly weather and crop report, however, was construed as bearish and resulted in some liquidation and realizing which was sufficient to carry prices off 2 to 5 points from the highs. At these levels July traded at 19.13, October 19.15 and December 19.23.

Highs of the day were made in final trading when May sold at 19.27, July 19.33, October 19.38 and December 19.46, or 25 to 32 points above yesterday's close. Final prices were at near the top.

Infertile Egg Sales Urged

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, April 24.—It is wise for poultry raisers to begin now to look for markets that will pay a premium for infertile eggs, for with the coming of warm weather next month farm eggs will likely be discriminated against in price because of the wide prevalence of fertile eggs. Producers who follow the good management method of selling off most of the roosters now and penning the remainder will be repaid, provided they make arrangements to dispose of fresh infertile eggs for extra prices. It is usually possible to do this, either individually or through egg circles or associations, for the public demands good eggs and is willing to pay extra to get them.

In suggesting such a course of action, E. N. Holmgreen, poultry specialist in the extension service of A. & M. college, calls attention to the great increase in recent years of cooperative selling of fresh, infertile eggs in Texas. Last year alone groups of farmers and farm women in more than 100 counties sold eggs for premiums ranging from two cents to seven cents per dozen. In most cases local merchants handled these quality eggs on a small margin or bought them outright for re-sale.

"Summer poultry success," says Mr. Holmgreen, "depends on keeping up production and getting premiums on infertile eggs. With the coming of warm weather broodiness increases and production falls off unless something is done about it. Put the broody hens into coops in order to break up broodiness and maintain high production so necessary to profits."

Expectation of Increase in Brokers' Loans Holds Stock Market Back

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, April 24. (US)—Profit taking in anticipation of further increase in brokers' loans held the stock market back somewhat, today, but further advance in favored specialties gave the list a firm appearance throughout.

General Motors was the outstanding leader but succumbed to the afternoon selling wave and closed 1⅛ lower, but Yellow Truck gained three points for the session, General Refractories 3⅛, Trico Products 1¾.

Allis Chalmers soared 15¼ points further into new high record price territory.

Increase in its dividend by the Pennsylvania caused a three point advance, but other rails simply backed and filled in narrow price range.

Simms continued to be turned over in big volume but the Oils as a whole labored under the burden of a further increase in crude production for the past week. Coppers remained irregular. Money appeared in good supply but the call rate held at eight per cent while the turnover stayed at the 4,000,000 share level.

That the federal reserve will report another increase in brokers' loans for the past week seems certain. If the gain is less than $50,000,000 it will not make much difference unless the call money rate is jacked higher. Those in touch with the money market did not expect any further advance and told of some accommodations, today at 7½ per cent on the outside.

All manner of guesses are made as to what the loans will show but they are all guesses. Around 2:30 tomorrow afternoon, if happenings of past weeks are repeated, there will be very close "guesses" made as to what the reserve will announce in the statement that is officially made at 4 o'clock. When these "guesses" reached the street from Washington in past weeks the market has shown immediate reflection.

United Corporation is the investment trust formed by Morgan interests. It now holds a big block of United Gas Improvement and is planning to acquire interest in other companies. Both United Corporation and United Gas Improvement are expected to be listed on the big board in the not distant future. About the same time the Commonwealth Power split up of stock is likely to be announced.

Steel shares met support coincident with issuance of another highly favorable report of conditions in the industry by the Iron Age which told of sustained operations at a peak rate and prospects for continued betterment.

Bethlehem Steel met profit taking because of fear that the directors might decide to postpone declaration of extra or increased dividend. Up until the last few days it was thought the directors would take such action at tomorrow's meeting. Earnings report of Bethelehem to be issued tomorrow afternoon will show that a higher payment is warranted. If Bethelehem directors make a larger payment, there will be hope that the Steel directors will do likewise when they meet next Tuesday.

However, whole Steel earned more than sufficient in the first quarter to pay a $1 or so extra, the directors are likely to wait until after retirement of bonds is taken care of before authorizing such payment.

The most pewrful interests of the "Big Ten" were most responsible for the early strength in General Motors as well as the further advance in Yellow Truck and Trico. General Motors report of earnings for the first quarter should be issued almost any time how. That statement will be made public after the close next Tuesday. There was a rumor that the General Motors officials would comment upon the improved earnings of Yellow Truck and outline plans for adding to the business of that subsidiary.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, April 24. (AP)—North American wheat export business estimated as high as 4,500,000 bushels in the last 48 hours gave grain values a new upturn today. Purchasing of wheat for Spain alone was said to equal four months requirements.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at ⅝c to 2⅛c net advance. Corn finished 1c to 1⅛c higher, oats ⅝c to ⅞c up, and provisions varying from 10c decline to a rise of 12c.

Corn, oats and rye sympathized with the advance of wheat. Besides, yesterday's unusual selling pressure on corn had subsided and rains were threatening today to hamper plowing and planting, already late in some sections of the corn belt, notably Iowa. Talk was current that oats acreage would be curtailed as a result of delays to seeding.

Provisions averaged higher. Packers buying more than counterbalanced lower quotations on pigs.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, April 24. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—A broad demand for the better grades of fed steers and yearlings featured trade on cattle around the 11-Market circuit. Although slight strength developed on good to choice offerings, no material gains were effected. Chicago scored $14.95 on long yearlings and obtained $14.90 for choice heavy steers. Choice yearling heifers in St. Louis brought $15.00. The in-between grades of steers found a less active outlet and at some markets packers were able to shave prices to a slight extent. Chicago realized $17.25 on fed wooled lambs and received $16.35 for best clippers. Arizona spring lambs in Kansas City stopped at $18.75. Wilcox Test Finds Unexpected Oil Deposit

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., April 24.—The possibility of the Pampa pool, the Lefors pool and the Bowers pool, all of Gray county, the Panhandle field of Northwest Texas, eventually being united appears as a result of the H. F. Wilcox Oil and Gas company's No. 5 Coombs Worley, in the northeast corner of the west half of the southeast of section 37, block 3 of I. & G. N. survey, finding the sandy lime unexpectedly at 2754 to 2760 feet for 2,000,000 feet of gas and two flows of oil.

The drillers were not expecting any oil until 2819 feet, when the granite wash was expected. They are now preparing to test.

The new well is southeast of the Pampa pool, northeast of the Bowers pool and northwest of the Lefors pool and assures Wilcox company of potential production on the bulk of its ranch lease.

Treasury to Turn Thumbs Down on Hundreds of Airport of Entry Bids

WASHINGTON, April 24. (INS)—Several hundred applications of airports of entry will be turned down by the treasury department, it was learned today. Virtually every city in the country boasting of a first class airport has asked the treasury to provide customs facilities that passengers and freight, express or mail be landed directly from abroad.

So far nine airports of entry have been created. Key West, Miami, Brownsville, Texas, San Diego, Los Angeles, St. Paul, Albany, and Newark, N. J.

A number of new airports of entry will be authorized by the treasury, but officials explained that none would be created until real necessity arose—that is, where an established traffic with foreign countries had been built up.

Most of the applications are based upon a desire of cities to increase the prestige of their airport facilities and not on a real requirement for customs facilities. Officials said that it would be impossible to approve that class of application because of the limited funds available for the establishment of customs sub-ports.

NOTED CAST IN PASSION PLAY

Leaders of Stage Here In Shrine Production

Artists chosen from the legitimate stage for the principal roles, and a chorus of more than 100 voices chosen from local church choirs, will be used in the production of the Passion Play at the Memorial auditorium on May 1, 2 and 3, under the auspices of the local Shrine.

Among the well known figures from the modern stage who will interpret leading parts in the story of the Christ are Miss Maude Fealy, who will portray Mary Magdalene, and Beresford Lovett, cast as Christus. The numerous other roles of the disciples, the priests, the Roman authorities, and others, are to be enacted by artists equally competent in the portrayal of the many characters entering into the action of Christ's last week in Jerusalem.

The musical score being prepared for the event includes the overture to the opera "Parsifal," by Wagner, a Bach chorale, "See the Conquering Hero Comes," and the tumultuous "Hallelujah Chorus," from Handers "Messiah."

In the Passion Play, as it will be presented here, an effort is made to present a realistic, living picture of the life and ultimate sacrifice of Jesus of Nazareth.

Bids on buildings in that vicinity were closed last Thursday and the location which is recommended by Mr. Page must be sent to the postoffice department in Washington for approval, Mr. Maricle said.

It is the plan of federal authorities here to open the sub-postoffice about July 1. All branches of postal service will be provided from the station.

GRAND JURY MEETS TODAY

Brief Session Expected To End Term's Work

More than two dozen Wichita Falls householders will appear before the 30th district grand jury when it reconvenes here Thursday morning to consider evidence gathered in the course of a two weeks investigation of recent burglaries.

Of five suspects arrested since the recovery of several thousand dollars worth of loot in a raid on a local apartment, three are in the Wichita county jail under burglary charges. H. H. Adcock, arrested in Fort Worth last Saturday charged with receiving and concealing stolen property, has been released, and a suspect held in Memphis, Texas, over the week-end has also been freed, it was revealed by officials here Wednesday. O. T. Cagl and Mrs. T. O. Hart, arrested here at the time of the raid, and C. A. Wright, arrested in Oklahoma Tuesday night, are the prisoners held here.

Sam Spence, district attorney, said Wednesday afternoon that evidence completed in several other cases will also be offered the investigators Thursday. He expects the grand jury to adjourn for the term before the end of the day. Any indictments brought in Thursday will probably result in trials in the 89th district court during the second week in May, he declared.

Two Singers Present Lions Club Program

Mrs. Wayne J. Holmes, soprano, and Mrs. M. M. Garrett, contralto, presented a group of solo numbers before the weekly meeting of the Lions club Wednesday noon at the Y. W. C. A., the remainder of the hour being given to a business session. Mrs. F. R. Collard accompanied both the singers.

Plans were made for the entertainment of John Erhard of Dallas, state governor of Lions clubs, at breakfast in the Y. W. C. A. dining room Thursday morning. Mr. Erhard will arrive by train at 7 a. m., it was announced, and will be shown through the business district in a brief parade, headed by the Lions club band.

Lunacy Law Unconstitutional In Opinion of County Attorney Here

Jurors Paid 50 Cents for Convicting Accused of Insanity, and Collect Nothing for Acquittal

The present lunacy law which makes the payment of jurors in insanity hearings contingent upon a conviction is subject to the same attacks already successfully made against the fee system in the justice courts, according to an opinion from Wayne Somerville, county attorney, announced Wednesday after an investigation of every aspect of the law as it is applied in Wichita county.

The present law provides that each juror shall be paid 50 cents only upon a conviction of lunacy, and with that provision becomes liable to the same plea of unconstitutionality which brought about the abolition of the justice court fee system under a ruling of the attorney general's office, Mr. Somerville explained. Jurors who return a verdict of not guilty in insanity trials get nothing for their pains, it was explained. The old fee system was thrown out on a plea that the constitution was violated in allowing court officials or jurors to have a financial interest in conviction, the attorney said, and the same legal objections will hold against the lunacy provisions still in effect.

Mr. Somerville said he believed the farmers of the present law merely allowed a slip in the wording of the statute which says that the jury and officers trying insanity cases are to be paid upon conviction just as they are paid in the justice courts.

But the words "upon conviction" are nevertheless included in the 1920 bill and make up the governing phrase here, according to M. F. Yeager, clerk of the court, whose duty it is to pay the jurors at the end of their service.

The fee allowed the officers of the court meaning, in this case, the county attorney, has not been collected at any time during his term of office, Mr. Somerville said.

All insanity hearings are tried before Judge John P. Marrs in the county court. According to the procedure usually followed here, a deputy sheriff is sent to "pick up" a jury for the hearing, it was explained, the officer calling to jury duty any six qualified voters he can find unoccupied. Each of these men is paid 50 cents if the defendant is found guilty; nothing if he is freed.

In discussing the problem arising from the law as it now stands, Mr. Somerville explained that the county must go on the present system until the statute is contested, some case taken through the higher courts, and a ruling from the supreme court handed down for the guidance of the county officials. By no other authority can the procedure be altered, he explained.

Judge John P. Marrs has been studying the lunacy laws and methods since he took the county court bench last January, and is engaged in research work for materials from which he plans to construct a model lunacy law for presentation to the legislature at its next session.

WHAT chicks get in their feed will have a lot to do with keeping them alive and growing. More than 2,500 hatcheries say, "Feed Purina Chick Startena." There's a reason.
Every ingredient that goes into Startena is carefully chosen and tested. Startena is rich in life-giving and growth-producing vitamins, proteins and minerals. Every ingredient in Startena has its job to do. Every ingredient does its part in keeping chicks alive and growing.
Start your chicks on Purina... keep them on Purina...you'll get more grown-up chicks and have more money left after all chick raising costs are paid. Tell us how many bags of Startena you need right now.
