

ABM Okayed, Junk Draft Next Target

WASHINGTON (AP) — With unsuccessful efforts to curb the Safeguard antimissile system out of the way, the Senate is plunging into a new controversy over replacing the draft with an all-volunteer Army.

Leaders of an unusual coalition seeking to junk the draft say debate will be extensive. And unless they get an agreement permitting a straight yes or no vote on merits of the question, they say they just might keep on talking.

The Safeguard issue was laid to rest Wednesday when the Senate voted 53-45 against an amendment by Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., that would have barred ABM expansion to two new sites and used the $322 million saved to bolster defenses at the two sites authorized last year.

Then, on an 87-2 roll call, it crushed an amendment by Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., that would have required governors to obtain presidential permission before issuing weapons and live ammunition to National Guard troops in civil disorders.

Only Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., voted with McCarthy for the amendment which was triggered by criticism of the role of Ohio National Guard troops in the killing of four students at Kent State University last May.

Beginning with a squabble over time to be allotted, the Senate then began consideration of the volunteer Army amendment by Sens. Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Barry Goldwater of Arizona, two Republicans found on opposite sides of many issues.

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., of the Armed Services Committee declared both the White House and Pentagon have said they oppose the move, at least for the moment and certainly as an amendment to the pending $19.2 billion military procurement bill.

Stennis said it would be the height of irresponsibility to adopt the Hatfield-Goldwater amendment and added: "Nothing would be more damaging to our national security."

Hatfield explained his amendment is a legislative bid to adopt the recommendations of the Gates Commission on the draft, which includes abolishing it in favor of inducements designed to provide a sufficient number of volunteers.

He emphasized it would not immediately stop inductions and declared: "It would not jeopardize the internal security of our country nor would it threaten our external security by not being able to maintain needed manpower for our armed forces."

"Is military service to be equated with a jail sentence?" Goldwater asked.

"Or will it be seen as an honorable profession for which people will be willing to volunteer if they are offered a decent salary with fringe benefits similar to civilian opportunities?"

Stennis said Laird estimated implementation of the amendment would cost at least $4 billion a year.

Did it rain, or didn't it? Some Howard Countians are still wondering whether that was really water falling from the skies early this morning or merely mass hallucination.

The U.S. Experiment Station on the north side of Big Spring recorded no rain at all, however, residents on the south side reported light rain for about 45 minutes, although the amount of rain was not gauged.

The Colorado River Municipal Water District recorded .75 inches at the Big Spring-Odessa pump station and .95 at the Snyder pump station, giving Lake J. B. Thomas approximately two inches of rain and run-off water.

Both Coahoma east of town and Forsan south of town reported no rain at all; however, the TESCO switching station east of town near the IS 20 and FM 700 intersection recorded .60 inches of rain between 6 and 7 a.m. today. Knott, north of Big Spring reported a light shower Wednesday night and a sprinkle of rain today.

TRIAL PROGRAM

Military Drugs Amnesty

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pentagon task force recommended today establishment of a trial program to grant amnesty to U.S. servicemen who voluntarily stop using illegal drugs and seek help in kicking the habit.

The massive report, made public as it was submitted to a Senate subcommittee probing the extent of drug abuse in the armed services, stressed the trial nature of the program which already has been instituted in parts of South Vietnam where it is reported "having a salutary and beneficial effect."

DRUG PROBLEM
"The task force deliberated long and hard on this recommendation," said Vice Adm. William P. Mack, head of the group, "because there must be a balancing of seeking to rehabilitate an individual with the equally important and necessary precept of military life which is discipline."

In testimony prepared for the subcommittee, Mack said the country's drug abuse problem "has grown radically... in the last few years, and particularly in the high school age group from where the majority of armed forces recruits and draftees are obtained."

The extent of such abuse in the armed forces, he added, probably is "not more widespread than in the civilian population." It can be "characterized as very serious," he said, but does not currently endanger the nation's military readiness.

Suspected Of Raping Six Young Girls

HOUSTON (AP) — Police are hunting for a thug suspected of raping six young girls in Houston and Pasadena.

Four of the victims were 5-year-olds, one was 6 and one was 10, officers said.

Each assault occurred in neighborhoods where the children lived. One child was abducted from her own front yard. All of the attacks took place in daylight when children are normally playing outside their houses.

Police described the man as in his middle 20s and dark complexioned.

Dangerous Dorothy

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical Storm Dorothy, her winds hitting 70 miles an hour around the eye, whirled west-northwest today toward a midday landfall in the chain of islands at the east end of the Caribbean Sea.

The Weather Bureau forecast the storm would reach hurricane force as it strikes across the French islands of Martinique in the Windward chain.

Island residents from St. Lucia in the Windwards northward to Guadeloupe in the Leewards were warned to batten down immediately for heavy wind and rain and above normal tides flooding low-lying coastal sections.

Elderly Man Missing In Texarkana Waters Flooding Strikes Number Of Homes

By The Associated Press

What a police dispatcher described as serious flooding struck Texarkana today, putting water in an undetermined number of homes and blocking major traffic arteries.

The flooding occurred on the heels of a nightlong rain, measured at 4.67 inches in slightly more than 12 hours at the Texarkana municipal airport. It was still raining this morning but appeared to be slackening by around 7:30 a.m.

SEVERAL TRAPPED
The flooding occurred after nightlong rain described as extremely heavy. No measurement was available at once.

Police reported rescues of several persons trapped in their homes by the rising water, which climbed a foot deep or more in some dwellings. Officers removed a number of motorists from cars stalled in the muddy torrents which filled underpasses and flowed through many streets.

Most of the flooding apparently was in lower sections on the Texas side of Texarkana, which lies astride the Texas-Arkansas line, officials said.

Underpasses on U.S. 67-82 and on College Drive and West 49th streets, all major thoroughfares, were among those which police said were blocked.

Officers received word that an elderly man, not identified at once, was missing from a nursing home in a flooded neighborhood.

The Texarkana downpour fell as thunderstorms and showers moved along the Texas-Louisiana line and in parts of North and West Texas.

In most other localities, the moisture heightened the already oppressive humidity without doing much to offset the simmering heat. Amounts generally were not heavy.

No injury was reported at Texarkana, authorities said, but property damage was expected to be considerable.

Much of the flooding came from Swamp Poodle Creek, which runs through the Texas side of the city and comes within four blocks of the downtown area.

WATER ROARS
Several motorists were found in their cars with water nearly up to the windows. Some motor vehicles were covered by water at underpasses.

"You could hear the water roar like a river" down one of the streets, a witness said.

Tourists were stranded in at least one downtown motel.

Police said that high winds uprooted a few trees and caused minor damage in some areas.

At nearby Hope, Ark., authorities said minor street flooding occurred about midnight but no damage was reported.

Threatening turbulence caused the Weather Bureau at Abilene to put Taylor County under a severe thunderstorm warning for an hour as dark clouds boiled in an area stretching northward around Childress and Wichita Falls in early morning.

Similar alerts went out previously because of storms near Silverton and Tahoka, but all the warnings expired without word of damage.

Showers mixed with occasional thunderstorms also moved across North Texas between Paris and Texarkana, and down the state's east side along the Texas-Louisiana line.

AREA NEARLY SIZE OF NEW YORK CITY

AEC's Nevada Test Site Contaminated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two hundred-fifty square miles of the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada test site—or an area nearly the size of New York City—are contaminated with plutonium, a radioactive element which can linger 24,000 years or more.

In addition, 49 separate areas on the site have been fenced off because the radiation level is too high to permit human access. These so-called RADEX or radiation exclusion areas total 12 square miles.

The extent of contamination left by 19 years of tests is disclosed in a draft submission to the Environmental Quality Council.

HARMFUL IF...
The plutonium is harmful only if it is inhaled into the lungs or if it gets into the bloodstream through an open wound. The amount of element picked up by the wind and blown around is not dangerous, the AEC says. Contaminated areas comprise about one-fifth of the desert test site 65 miles northwest of Las Vegas.

The AEC's environmental statement notes that radiation levels over most of the facility remain quite low, about double normal background levels.

The statement said there are 49 areas where the radiation level is high. But an AEC spokesman said the number of these RADEX areas can vary, depending on the type of tests being conducted and the life of the radioactive material involved.

LONGER LIFE
Radioactive elements have life spans that range from minutes to years, with plutonium having one of the longer life spans.

Since the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty was signed in 1963, all 210 announced explosions at Nevada have been underground and designed to be fully contained.

According to the environmental statement, about one in 12 has leaked radioactivity detectable beyond the boundaries of the test site.

But in no case, the AEC said, have dangerous levels of radioactivity gone beyond the site boundaries.

The plutonium scattered over 250 square miles within the Nevada facility was left from tests conducted in 1958 to make certain that the crash of a U.S. bomber would not trigger a nuclear explosion.

Nuclear bombs carried on Air Force planes are unarmed. Unless the electronic steps are taken to arm a weapon, its high explosive charge will simply destroy the bomb—without triggering a nuclear explosion. This is what happened in the 1958 tests, scattering the plutonium on the desert.

Using Gas Treaty To Scuttle Hopes?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senator who hopes to outlaw the use of defoliants in Vietnam says President Nixon may be using a 45-year-old treaty barring gas and germ warfare to scuttle his proposal.

Administration officials said Wednesday that use of defoliants, tear gas and napalm would be permitted under the 1925 Geneva Protocol.

President Nixon sent the treaty to Senate for ratification on Wednesday. Most observers expect it to be approved.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said his amendment to ban the use of herbicides may be the reason the President acted this week—nine months after he announced he would seek Senate ratification of the treaty.

NOT COVERED
"I think their point is to get an administration position in opposition to the amendment," the Wisconsin Democrat said. "They want to exert the pressure of having their position clearly delineated."

Although he favors the treaty, Nelson took sharp exception to the administration view stated by Secretary of State William P. Rogers, in a letter accompanying Nixon's message, that tear gas and defoliants could still be used in Vietnam.

"It is the United States understanding of the Protocol that it does not prohibit the use in war of riot-control agents and chemical herbicides," Rogers said. "Smoke, flame and napalm are also not covered by the Protocol."

'I DISAGREE'
Officials said the administration takes the position that last year's General Assembly 80-3 vote declaring tear gas and herbicides are covered by the Protocol is without standing in international law.

"The standing is that everyone in the world wants it that way," Nelson said. "If that is their interpretation, I disagree with it."

Portugal, Australia and the United States opposed the General Assembly action.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said he sees no reason why the Foreign Relations Committee can't hold hearings and approve the treaty next month.

The President asked for one reservation to the protocol permitting the retaliatory—but not first-strike—use by United States of chemical weapons and agents. Biological weapons would be barred entirely.

The treaty was originally sent to the Senate in 1925 but never approved and returned to the White House in 1947 during a general housecleaning of old documents at the Foreign Relations Committee. There are 85 parties to it and Nixon noted in his message that "the United States has always observed the principles and objectives of this Protocol."

CHURCHES AID BIBLE FUND

While the Bible Class Fund made a sharp gain today, this was represented largely in a gift from the East Fourth Baptist Church Mission Fund. Most churches participating in the Howard County Ministerial Fellowship have budgeted sums to help keep this class going, but their gifts must be supplemented by those from individuals.

Considerable more aid is needed to assure success of the training program in High School this year — one which permits students who choose it, to study the BIBLE FOR ITS BIBLE for its historical, literary and moral significance.

Others are invited to support this program. Checks should be made to "Bible Fund" and mailed to The Herald for acknowledgment.

NIXON, ORDAZ TO DISCUSS BORDER PROBLEMS

Bound For Mexico Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon flew to the Mexican resort village of Puerto Vallarta today to discuss border problems with President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz of Mexico.

Air Force One, the presidential jet, took off from Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland at 9:05 a.m., EDT, for the 4½-hour flight.

Accompanying the President and Mrs. Nixon were several presidential advisers and their wives. They will travel with the Nixons from Mexico to the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif., Friday.

Puerto Vallarta, a Pacific coast town of 6,000, has become a popular resort since "Night of the Iguana," starring Richard Burton and Ava Gardner, was filmed there.

The trip has been described by the White House as a working visit which will include discussions ranging from foreign policy to narcotics.

The two presidents will entertain each other and their parties at formal lunches today and Friday, with their private talks scheduled this afternoon in a second-floor conference room of the oceanfront Hotel Delfin.

RIO BOUNDARY
Some administration sources indicate agreements may be announced afterword on the shifting Rio Grande River boundary between the two countries and the troubling salination of Colorado River waters that both neighbors use.

Another chief topic listed by Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, is the continuing "Operation Cooperation," an effort to halt the flow of marijuana, heroin and other dangerous drugs from Mexico into the United States.

SECOND MEETING
It is Nixon's second meeting with President Diaz Ordaz. They met last September to dedicate Amistad Dam near Del Rio, Tex.

This time, Diaz Ordaz is winding up his presidential affairs to turn them over Dec. 1 to President-elect Luis Echeverria Alvarez.

The Nixons, who came to Mexico 30 years ago on their honeymoon, will be staying overnight at an oceanfront private home, "Quinta Laura," which the White House said is owned by a Mexican corporation.

President Nixon said he wanted to return to Mexico this year to celebrate his wedding anniversary.

Although there are a number of free hours on his schedule tonight and Saturday morning, the White House staff insists there is no special celebration planned. They would disclose no schedule for President and Mrs. Nixon between the time the presidential meetings end late this afternoon and the Nixons' luncheon for President Diaz Ordaz at 2 p.m. Friday.

Director Receives Master's Degree

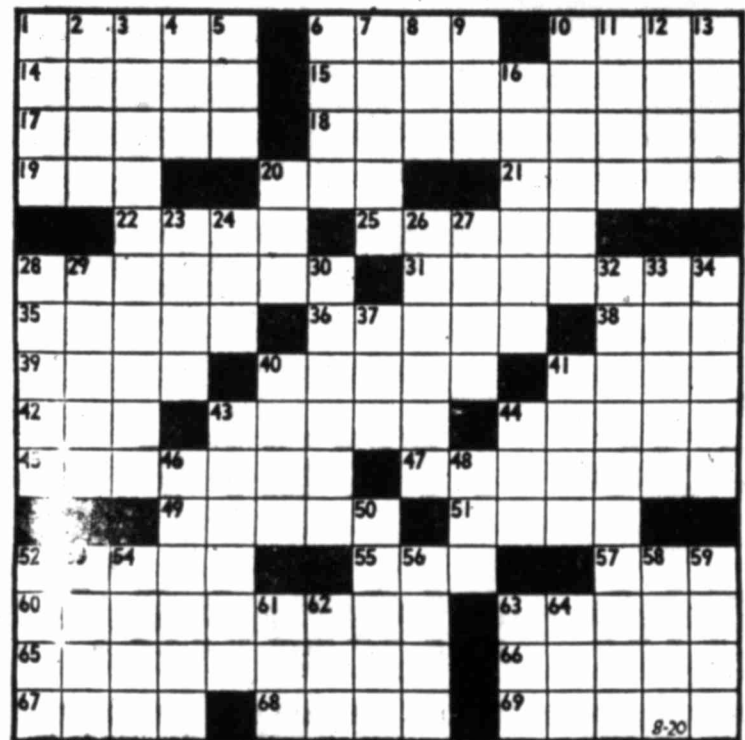

Kenny Sheppard, choral director at Big Spring High School, is to receive his master's degree in music education Saturday from Texas Tech University in Lubbock.

Sheppard holds a bachelor of music degree from Hardin-Simmons University, and before coming to teach here three years ago taught choral music at Crockett Junior High in Odessa. He was also assistant conductor of the Midland-Odessa Choral for two years.

CHILDREN PRIME VICTIMS OF DIPHTHERIA

55,000 Persons Inoculated

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — School age children are the prime victims of a mounting diphtheria epidemic here that has drawn more than 55,000 persons to inoculation centers in the past 10 days.

Two new cases were confirmed Wednesday—a 9-year-old boy and a 10-year-old girl. The total stands at 54 patients for the year. Officials listed eight suspected cases.

CHILDREN DIE
Dr. William Ross, local health district director, said 37 of the confirmed cases, or 68.5 percent, are school age children.

Two children have died from the throat infection. The outbreak took an upswing late last month and health officials said there is no indication how long this city of about 700,000, third largest in Texas, will be in an epidemic stage.

Most of the cases are reported in the predominantly poor, Mexican-American areas of the city.

Ross said his office has urged school districts here to adopt more stringent immunization requirements for all pupils.

Some of the 15 districts in the area recently adopted stricter policies, he said. Each Texas school district decides its own immunization requirements.

A spokesman for San Antonio schools, with 75,000 pupils, said immunization against diphtheria, smallpox, polio and tetanus now is required for all pre-school, kindergarten and first graders entering the district for the first time.

One smallpox vaccination was required previously, he said. The policy, adopted earlier this year, goes into effect with registration for the new school term next week. The spokesman could not elaborate on why the stricter policy was not adopted before this year.

He said diphtheria immunization clinics will be held by the district next week.

WAR ON POVERTY
More than 14,500 children and adults flocked to inoculation centers Wednesday as a mass immunization campaign continued. Officials reported 55,000 persons now have received shots. The drive began Aug. 10.

Scores of nurses, doctors and medical school faculty members have given their time to administer shots and 20 Army medics have been on duty at inoculation stations since Tuesday.

The Navy recruiting station in Dallas said Wednesday that seven corpsmen and a nurse were en route to San Antonio to help give shots.

Spokesman for a War on Poverty agency here said they had received approval from federal officials in Austin to spend $15,000 setting up emergency immunization programs in various sections of the city.

A concert scheduled Sunday by the Led Zeppelin rock group was cancelled Wednesday because of potential health hazards, sponsors said.

Kremlin Cholera: What It Is

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1893, just 10 days after his great work, the Pathétique Symphony, was performed for the first time, Peter Ilich Tchaikovsky was dead at the age of 53. He died of cholera.

The Russian composer died at the height of his artistic powers to a disease that has taken untold lives in repeated waves around the world in the 19th and 20th centuries.

Now cholera has returned to the Soviet Union, striking resort areas on the Black Caspian seas. A number of cities there, and in the Volga River basin, have been closed.

Cholera seems to have originated in India, in the Ganges River delta and in lower Bengal, and probably was present there in the deep past.

But the first great epidemic, called a pandemic, was recorded in 1817, when the cholera bacteria burst out of India and followed land and sea routes to China, the Philippines, Russia and elsewhere.

In 1826, another pandemic began, following the same course, but spreading farther, to Europe, Britain, and North America.

That pandemic reached Canada in 1832, moved south to the Chicago area and down the Mississippi valley. It spread to Boston and New York and by 1836 throughout most of the nation, before disappearing in 1838. There haven't been any cases of naturally acquired cholera in the United States since 1911.

Tchaikovsky died in the pandemic of 1891, also from India, one of seven global pandemics recorded before this latest began apparently in 1935 in the Celebes Islands of Indonesia.

The wiggling, comma-shaped bacterium, called vibrio comma, spreads in primitive conditions of poor sanitation, in contaminated water and food.

Michio, 22, said she thought of pretending to be a woman in labor pain — she is neither married nor pregnant — and began moaning. Texan Killed In 'Valley Of The Shadow Of Death'

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — "I am in the Valley of the Shadow of Death, but it isn't like in the Scripture—I feel evil all around," Army 1st Lt. Franklin K. Nelson wrote from Vietnam.

His parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Franklin T. Nelson of Arlington, learned a few days later that he was killed Aug. 14 as a mine exploded under a military vehicle.

Lt. Nelson, 24, commanded Co. C, 1st Battalion, 11th Brigade in the Americal Division.

"In that letter about finding the Valley of the Shadow of Death he also mentioned a great weariness which had settled over him recently," his mother recalled Wednesday night.

SO WEARY
"I'm so tired . . . so weary," he wrote. "The mental strain is so great and the morale of my men is fading. . . . But when I feel like throwing up my hands and quitting, I give myself a kick in the seat of the pants and remember all that depends on us over here and carry on."

Mrs. Nelson said the lieutenant, who joined the Army in February of 1969 after graduation from the University of Utah, volunteered for duty in Vietnam.

"I love my country and I want to defend it," he explained to his parents. "Bless his heart, he never stopped believing in what he was doing although he felt that all the men in Vietnam and on America's college campuses would have reacted better if this had been a declared war," Mrs. Nelson said.

Nelson was born May 6, 1946, in Houston.

GET OUT
He attended elementary and junior high schools in Arlington before the family moved to Utah, where his father was pastor of Assembly of God churches.

The Rev. Mr. Nelson now is associate pastor of Hillcrest Assembly of God Church in Arlington.

Younger brother David, 22, preceded Frank to Vietnam. He has returned to Arlington after combat duty in which he was wounded.

David Wednesday night was bittered, he said, over his brother's death.

"The guys I knew in Vietnam felt the only reason they were fighting was to save their own hides and get out, and doubted what good we could do there," David said.

Mrs. Nelson insisted, however, that her son Frank "felt like he was fighting for a just cause and never once doubted that cause."

Indians Nix Mixed Schools

PEMBROKE, N.C. (AP) — Some Lumbee Indians in Robeson County would like to see the southeastern North Carolina county's school desegregation plan abolished. They say it will rob them of their traditionally Indian schools.

Lou Barton, a Lumbee who is a free lance writer, said some Lumbees fear their children will lose their identity as Indians—"which we have clung to so tenaciously"—if they are sent to mixed schools outside their neighborhoods.

OH, HAPPY DAY!!!

Man To Rule Workless, War-Free World Soon?

HONOLULU (AP) — By the year 2009, Man may rule a workless, war-free world served by computers and humanoid slaves.

He will live in a home without waterpipes, drains or wires. Closed-cycle ecology will make farms obsolete. And there will be no smog, water pollution or population problems.

"The future isn't what it used to be," Arthur C. Clarke told delegates to the recent Governor's Conference on the Year 2000.

Clarke, the British scientist and science fiction writer, said Man's major problem in 30 years will be finding something to do in an era of total unemployment.

Clarke, who was writing about communication satellites in space as early as 1945, forecast instant global communications with every man a neighbor.

Homes will have communication centers for telephone and television, as well as push-button access to all news and knowledge through a global electronic library.

"With all men being neighbors," Clarke said, "world population may be reduced to something like 100,000 people. That's the maximum number of neighbors one can manage to meet in a lifetime."

The motto of this chummy

Golden Age of Technology, he said, will be "Don't Commute—Communicate!"

Farms will no longer produce food. Protein will come from oil instead of steak. Man's waste will be recycled for his next dinner.

Biological manipulation may create humanlike forms of life to serve as uncomplaining slaves.

But Clarke said new amusements will be needed to spare mankind an existence of grinding boredom.

Opening lead: Ace of ♥
West engaged in a high level duel of wits with the declarer in defending against South's four spade contract and it required a nimble performance by the latter to expose his opponents' tactics.

It may appear to the reader that West was in an experimental frame of mind when he chose to open the ace of hearts, inasmuch as the prescribed lead from a holding including the ace-king of a suit is the king.

His selection was deliberate. West could take only three tricks on his own. In order to defeat the contract, therefore, it is necessary for East to hold some key high card. It was to protect his partner's holding from declarer's scrutiny that influenced West to embark on a deceptive course.

He reasoned that in the normal course of play, his own high cards could be quickly identified. Once it was revealed to the declarer that he held ace-king, ace, South was apt to place any other missing high cards with East inasmuch as West failed to open the bidding as dealer. When the dummy was spread, West observed that a heart continuation was not attractive and in order to further mask his strength, he shifted to the deuce of diamonds. South won the trick in his hand with the king.

The loss of two hearts and one club appeared inevitable. The fate of the contract, therefore, hinged on the location of the king of spades. Holding 10 cards of a suit, the percentage play is to finesse for the missing honor. South decided to do a little detective work first before he made a play in spades. There appeared to be little risk involved and the location of the other high cards might provide some additional clue.

The king of clubs was led at trick three and West played the ace. He now feared that if he did not cash his high heart, declarer might obtain a discard on North's clubs. West, therefore, played the king of hearts and then shifted back to diamonds.

The cat was now out of the bag. West had shown up with 11 high card points. If he had the king of spades in addition, he could hardly have failed to open the bidding. Since the high trump appeared to be clearly marked in East's hand, the finesse could not succeed. South, therefore, led over to the ace of spades. When the king dropped, the contest was over and declarer had earned a well deserved triumph.

Guild Asking Top Of $238

BROCKTON, Mass. (AP) — Eighty-two members of the American Newspaper Guild struck the Brockton Enterprise in a contract dispute over wages and other benefits.

A union spokesman said the employees, who include photographers, advertising men and clerical workers, have been without a contract since April 24.

The old contract had a top minimum of $100.50 for experienced employees. The guild said it was asking a top of $238 over a two-year period.

Publisher Charles A. Fuller said the federal Mediation and Conciliation Service has been asked to assist in negotiations.

The company offered wage increases in three steps—a 7.5 per cent raise retroactive to April 24, 7 per cent next December and another 7 per cent in August, 1971.

McMurry Hires New Manager

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — McMurry College President Thomas K. Kim announced the appointment today of a Brownwood man, Billy Pat Phillips, as new business manager for McMurry.

Phillips is head of the accounting department for the Herman Bennett Co. of Brownwood.

Phillips was formerly head of the accounting department and office manager for H. A. Padgett Jr., building contractor in Lubbock. He moved from Lubbock to Brownwood in March.

Phillips will succeed Richard Link, who resigned to take a position in Pennsylvania.

DEAR ABBY: I am 23, married with a five-year-old son. My husband brings home Playboy magazine, which is not unusual for a man, but yesterday I saw our son sitting quietly, looking at the pictures.

I didn't yank the book away from him, I just told him that the book was "new" and his father hadn't read it yet, so he had better give it to me, which he did, but reluctantly. (He said he liked looking at the pictures.)

Abby, I am not old fashioned. When my son asks a question about sex, I try to answer him the best I can for his age with the truth. This is hard for me to do because I never heard one word from my mother about sex.

I know some women don't like for their husbands to look at Playboy, but I really don't see anything wrong with it. But how about my son? WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: I can't see anything wrong with a five-year-old boy looking at Playboy. It could, however, lead to disappointment and frustration when he reaches manhood and discovers all girls are not built like those he has seen in the centerfold.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is shy about disrobing in front of me. He covers up fast if he hears me coming. He sleeps in the altogether, but he never takes all his clothes off until the lights are out. I have never seen all of him, except for an occasional accidental glimpse. We have been married for 19 years, and believe it or not, we have a family.

After so long, I wonder if there is something wrong with him for being that way? Or is there something wrong with me for wondering? CURIOUS nudity. It's the way he was reared, no doubt. Since it doesn't seem to hamper your relationship, don't let it both you. Maybe he's saving "all of himself" for your 25th wedding anniversary.

DEAR CURIOUS: The only thing "wrong" with your husband is his attitude about

DEAR ABBY: Here is one secretary who really saw red when she came across that letter from "THE BOSS" WIFE" who was "jealous" because her husband "honored" his secretary during National Secretary Week.

She said the bosses send their secretaries flowers and take them out for lunch and dinner. Where did this happen? I didn't get any flowers, and as for the lunch and dinner treat — my boss didn't take me, I took him along with about 30 other secretaries who took their bosses. And by the way it was a luncheon for secretaries who wanted to honor their bosses. And it came out of our pockets, not theirs.

So if you want to be jealous, all I can say is, "Eat your heart out" . . . if you have one.

SCRANTON, PA. SECRETARY

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Irwin Gets Nixon 'Plum'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will name New York lawyer John N. Irwin II as under secretary of state, succeeding Elliot Richardson, the White House announced Wednesday.

Irwin, 56, a Republican, has been with the law firm of Patterson, Belknap, and Webb for the two past decades and has also held a number of foreign affairs assignments.

As the $42,500-a-year under secretary of state, he will be the State Department's top officer under Secretary William P. Rogers. Nixon appointed his predecessor Richardson, as secretary of health, education and welfare earlier this summer.

Men Invited If . . .

NEW YORK (AP) — Coordinators of the Aug. 26 Women's Strike for Equality say rallies are planned in New York, Syracuse, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Betty Friedan, originator of the strike called for the 50th anniversary of the constitutional amendment giving women the right to vote, said, "The men are invited but they will discuss what we want to discuss on our terms."

Black Manager Of TEC Named

HOUSTON (AP) — Jack Motley, 43, will become the first black manager of a Texas Employment Commission office Sept. 1, officials said.

Motley, an eight-year veteran with the TEC, has been named to head a service-labor office opening here next month.

Jap Turned Down On Refinery Job

FUKUYAMA, Japan (AP) — A major Japanese producer of aluminum metal has been refused permission to build a new refinery and a thermal power plant because they might make air pollution worse.

Showa Denko Co. wanted to build a plant to produce 300,000 tons of aluminum a year and a power station that would supply the plant with 300,000 kilowatts of electricity. The Hiroshima State government turned down the application, and the Fukuyama City government concurred.

Andy Appointed

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Actor Andy Griffith, a native of Mount Airy, N.C., has been appointed the first member of the advisory board of the North Carolina Zoo Authority.

The authority is studying where to locate a state-operated zoo.

LA To Las Vegas Air-Cushion Ride

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A 300-mile-an-hour air-cushion transit system from Los Angeles to Las Vegas, Nev., could be operational by 1980, a study shows.

The 285-mile-long operation could start making money five years later, said the study released by state Sen. Lawrence Walsh of Los Angeles.

Walsh said he believes gambling and hotel entrepreneurs in Nevada should finance the system.

Horoscope

TOMORROW
—CARROL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when you would be wise to avoid any heavy expenditures. Also avoid new responsibilities since they take too long a time to achieve the purposes for which you became involved. Accept difficulties as opportunities to solve them sensibly.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Although you may feel a financial pinch, think objectively and you will be able to handle affairs more intelligently. Get your practical affairs handled well tonight also. Your mate will help you.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Show associates you are not demanding with others, although you are inclined to be that way. Taking time to improve appearance is wise. Put your best foot forward with others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You hardly know what to do first since you are loaded down with work. If you handle the important first, all is well. Assist those who need your help. Get advice from an expert on how to get ahead.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Pals are not acting in their usual manner and don't seem interested in your affairs, but they are busy so do not worry. Go out socially by yourself. Make new acquaintances.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Strange conditions of a mundane nature face you, but stand your own ground and you will succeed. Quietly watch what is happening, then you know just what to do. Show that you have ability.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study every angle of what concerns you most and use caution in handling. A new contact could try to talk you out of something that belongs to you. Make sure that your home is neat and clean.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Don't feel depressed because you have so much to do since you are well able to handle all very efficiently and benefit thereby. Do not argue with mate. Show reason and all is fine.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try not to force associate to do what you desire, since the plan is not ready to put in operation. Give your attention to a public affair that is vital now. Put a curb on your temper.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have so much work ahead of you that it is best to postpone fun for the moment and carry through in a most efficient manner. Fellow workers are not very cooperative. Forget them and force ahead.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You want a good time at all costs, but it is best to be economical now and handle important duties. Be sure you show interest in loved one instead of feeling so adored and showing it. Improve your diet.

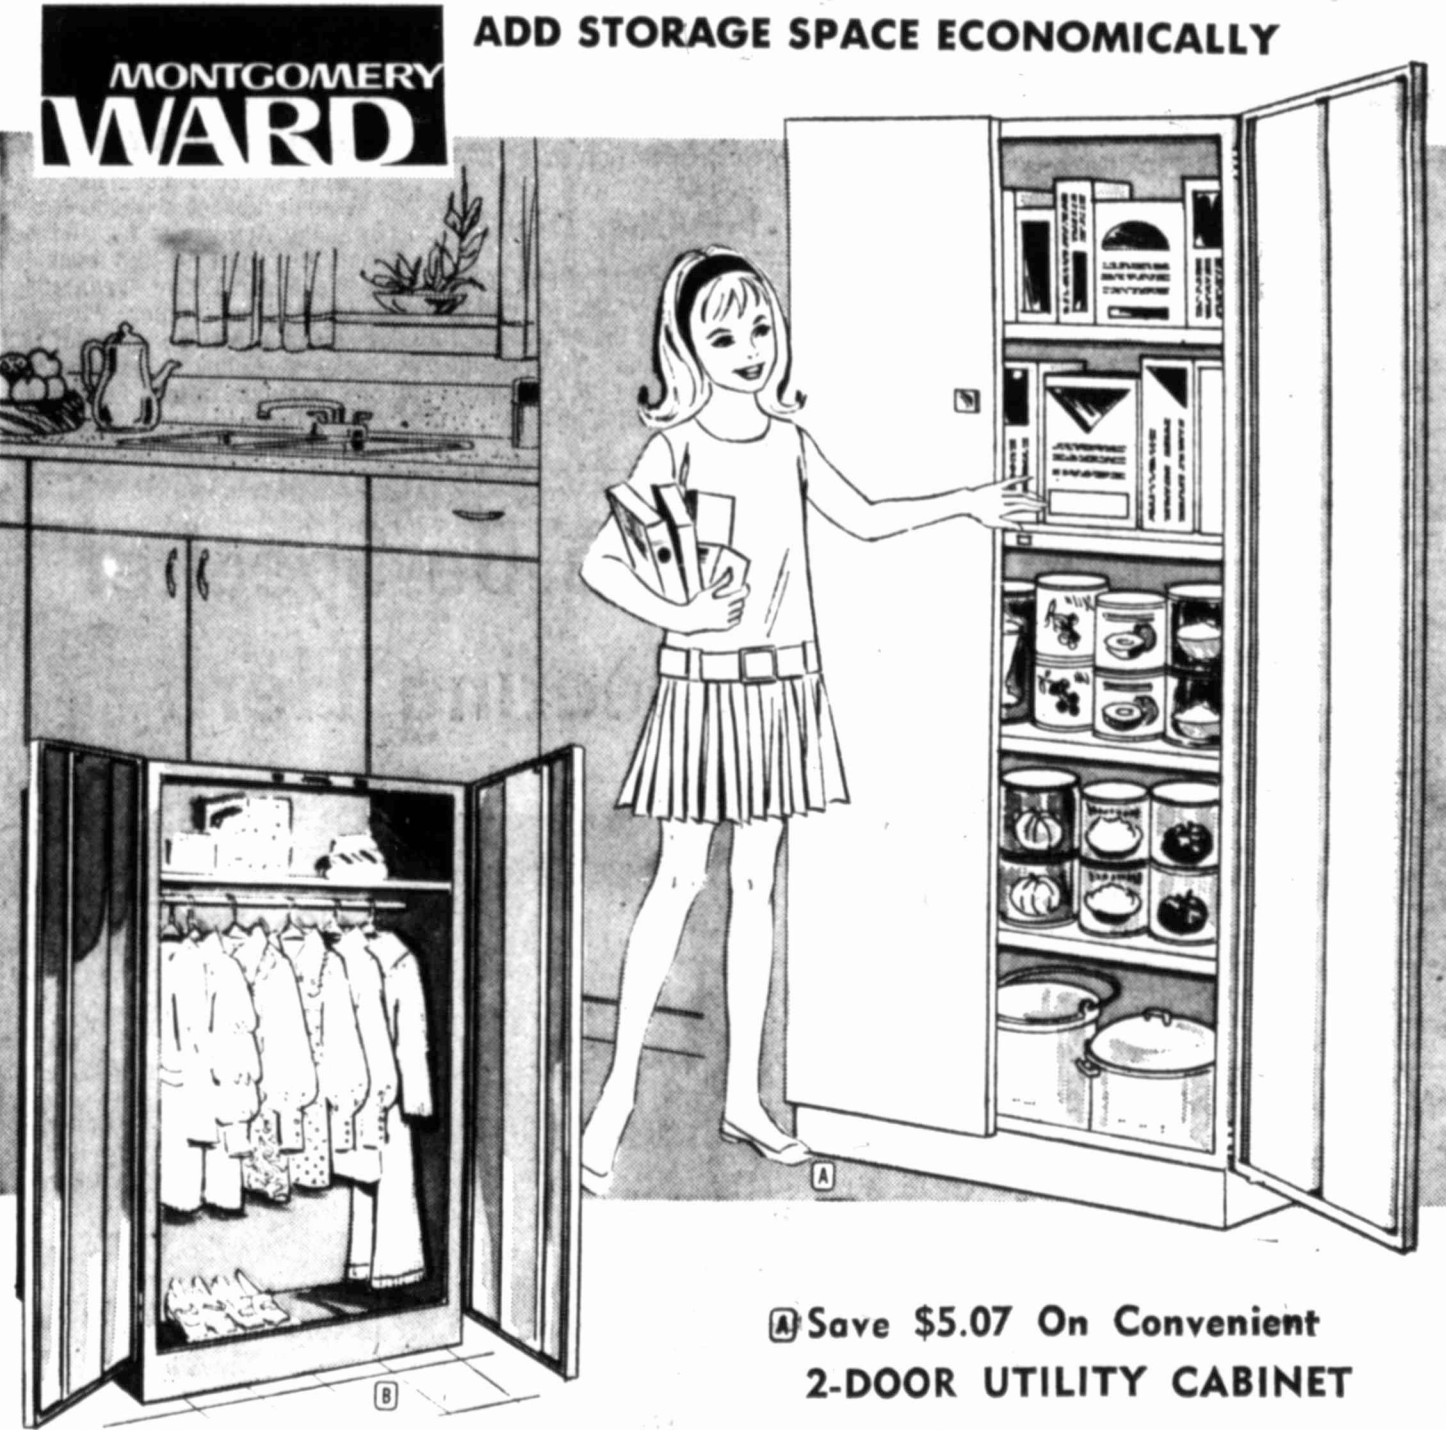

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get busy on duties of home and make it more inviting. Do not pick on others. Eliminate whatever is causing trouble. Don't permit outsiders to interfere in home matters.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Take extreme caution in travel. Being efficient in daily routines is also important. Evening can be a very happy time with the one you love.

WEBB AFB AWARDS — SMSgt. Robert W. Brumett (left), SSgt. John W. Zimmerman and AIC Gregory A. Yankovsky display the awards presented them Tuesday by Col. Anderson W. Atkinson as senior noncommissioned officers, noncommissioned officer and airmen of the quarter. Wing junior officer of the quarter, 2nd Lt. Percy Joubert Jr., was unable to be present to accept his award.

Quarterly Awards Given To Webb AFB Personnel

Quarterly awards for the wing junior officer, senior noncommissioned officer, noncommissioned officer and airman were presented by Col. Anderson W. Atkinson, commander, 3560th Pilot Training Wing, Tuesday at Webb AFB.

Those selected were 2nd Lt. Percy Joubert Jr., SM Sgt. Robert W. Brumett, SSgt. John W. Zimmerman and AIC Gregory A. Yankovsky. Maj. Thomas R. Mullen, wing maintenance control officer accepted the trophy on behalf of Lt. Joubert, administrative officer of the 3560th Field Maintenance Squadron.

Lt. Joubert received his bachelor of science degree in pre-medicine from the University of Southwestern Louisiana along with his Air Force commission from the Reserve Officers Training Corps in January, 1970. Presently he is responsible to the squadron commander for the over-all administrative functions of a squadron of approximately 500 personnel, and for establishing procedures for records maintenance and distribution and also insuring establishment of controls for fire, security and squadron funds.

SM Sgt. Brumett, a veteran of 18½ years of active duty started his military career at Lackland AFB, Tex., and was then transferred to several bases within the country until his overseas assignment to the Philippines. He has been stationed in the Philippines twice and once in Thailand. Flight line chief for the Northrop T-38 Talon trainers, he is a native of Sheppardville, Ky., and a graduate of Simpsonville High School.

SSgt. Zimmerman works for the flight simulators and is currently the noncommissioned officer in charge of the T-7 standardization evaluation team. A native of Birmingham, Mich., the sergeant considers Big Spring his home because of his extended stay in the area. SSgt. Zimmerman entered the Air Force following his graduation from the Ernest W. Seaholm High School in 1961 and underwent basic military training at Lackland. Following technical training at Chanute AFB, Ill., SSgt. Zimmerman was assigned to Webb where he has remained for five and a half years.

AIC Yankovsky currently assigned to the public information office came to Webb following technical training at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind. He is a graduate of Stanford University, Calif., and married to former Kristine Holmquist of Woodside, Calif.

Man 'Spent Money Like There's No Tomorrow'

ANGLETON, Tex. (AP) — The defense in the murder trial of Charles Harrison used a private detective's notebook Wednesday to portray slain Alan Berg as a gambler, a friend of criminals and a man who "spent money like there's no tomorrow."

The defense lawyer read the descriptions from the notebook of Robert Leonard of Houston, an investigator hired by Berg's father after Berg disappeared in May of 1968.

Harrison is charged with killing Berg after kidnapping him from a night club parking lot. Berg's skeletal remains were found in November of 1968.

Car Burgled

The car of Aaron Waldrop, Abilene, was broken into while parked Wednesday night outside the Starlight Club, 703 W. 3rd, and clothing, jewelry, and luggage valued at $500 to $1,000 stolen. Waldrop reported missing items included five to seven suits, two pieces of luggage, two pairs of shoes, and a diamond ring.

MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — Tams Bixby Jr., 79, editor and publisher of the Muskogee Daily Phoenix and Times-Democrat and president of the Oklahoma Press Publishing Co., died Wednesday.

Judge Orders Two Released

Arthur Frank Ingle, 20, and Randy Redwine Starnes, 17, both of Pawnee, Okla., were released from custody in county jail Wednesday by order of District Judge Ralph W. Caton.

In the petition for a writ of habeas corpus, it was alleged that the two were being illegally restrained based on complaints that were filed "unjustly and without probable cause."

According to attorney Bob Moore, the prisoners' vehicle was searched without a warrant and that officers could not show probable cause for the search. Judge Caton ruled that the evidence discovered in the search could not be used against the pair. The charges of possession of marijuana and dangerous drugs against Ingle and Starnes were dropped, and the pair was ordered released.

Starnes and Ingle were arrested July 29 by city police officers and charged with possession of marijuana and dangerous drugs in Justice of the Peace Walter Grice's court. Judge Grice set bond at $15,000 each.

It Didn't Take Long To Convict

HOUSTON (AP) — A 21-year-old man was convicted of a $15,148 bank robbery after a federal jury deliberated only 30 minutes.

Convicted was Russell E. Merritt.

He was convicted of robbing the South Park National Bank in March, 1969.

Another man, Donald J. Hall, 23, was convicted of the robbery in June and sentenced to 12 years in prison.

While Hall's trial was in progress, the bank was robbed by two men again, but bank President T.R. Burridge, 63, wounded the bandits with a shotgun blast and the pair was captured.

Burridge, ironically, was among the venemans named for jury service during Merritt's trial. Burridge disqualified himself from service.

Merritt and Hall were arrested six days after the 1969 robbery, riding in a new car.

Soldier AWOL

A man absent without leave from the Army was transferred from city jail to the custody of Webb Air Police Wednesday evening. The soldier was arrested at a residence in the 600 block of Lancaster where he was staying after failing to report for transfer to his next duty station in Germany.

CONGRATULATIONS — The Rev. Joseph Duffey, upset winner in Wednesday's three-way Democratic U.S. Senate primary in Connecticut, gets a vigorous congratulatory from a campaign stalwart, Mrs. Anne Wexler of Westport, who directed much of the Protestant minister's campaign. The two have been close political allies since the 1968 presidential campaign of Eugene J. McCarthy, which Duffey led on a state level and in which Mrs. Wexler was active nationally.

Concentration Camps Law Praised By Solon

MIAMI (AP) — A law which authorizes creation of federal concentration camps under crisis conditions was praised today by the chairman of a committee considering its repeal.

Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., said the statute might have prevented—rather than allowed—the detention of 112,000 Japanese-Americans during World War II, an episode viewed by many historians as unwarranted.

Ichord's Committee on Internal Security began hearings five months ago on a Senate-passed repeal for the law, the Emergency Detention Act, which provides for rounding up subversives in time of war or insurrection.

PROTECTION

"Frankly, I would prefer to see the Congress consider perfecting amendments which would put to rest the fears of those most sincerely critical—namely the Japanese-Americans," Ichord said.

His remarks were prepared for the Veterans of Foreign Wars 71st national convention. "But I am something less than anxious," he continued, "to grant some of its other critics—such as the Communist Party—satisfaction of having stripped our country of any appropriate and constitutional

Kindergarten, Head Start Registration Set Friday

Kindergarten and Head Start registration will be held all day Friday, according to Keith Swim, director of kindergarten and Head Start.

Head Start youngsters will register at Kate Morrison Elementary and kindergarten youngsters will register at Boydston, Bauer, Lakeview, Cedar Crest, and Airport elementary.

Youngsters whose birthdays come on or between the dates of Sept. 2, 1964, and April 1, 1965, are eligible for kindergarten enrollment, if they meet other specifications as set by the state. Youngsters whose birthdays come on or between the dates of Sept. 2, 1965, and April 1, 1966, are eligible for Head Start.

Children who are 4 years old Sept. 1 may be accepted into the Head Start program on a waiting list basis, to be allowed to attend if the enrollment figure of 200 is not filled by children in the age group previously specified.

According to Keith Swim, it is advised that each child present a birth certificate when he is registered. If no birth certificate is available, the child can be pre-registered but a certificate must be presented for final acceptance, said Swim.

"We'd like to urge early enrollment in both kindergarten and Head Start. Classes begin Monday for both groups," said Swim.

Ten teachers and 11 aides have been employed for the Head Start program and one kindergarten teacher, said Swim. A substitute kindergarten teacher has also been hired, and an additional teacher will be hired if the enrollment figures warrant it, according to Swim.

Late-Night Fire Burns Grassland

Fire destroyed 140 acres of grassland Wednesday on the J. M. Sterling and Bobby Cathey ranches 23 miles northeast on SH 350 and approximately three and one-half miles southeast of the roadway. The fire was reported at 11:30 p.m. and brought under control at 1:15 a.m.

Lightning was the apparent cause of the blaze. The Sand Springs and the Coahoma fire units battled the blaze, and a road grader was requested from the county. Commissioner Bill Tune and a member of the road and bridge department brought the grader to the scene and operated it, according to Sheriff A. N. Standard.

Furniture Burns

Fire caused extensive damage to furniture stored in two units of a former motel at D & C Trailer Sales, 3910 West US 80, reported at 4:39 p.m. Wednesday. Firemen worked for about an hour to control the blaze, and reported that most of the damage was to the furniture rather than to the building. No cause of the fire had been determined.

Breakfast Meet

Over breakfast this morning members of the Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors Club discussed plans for promoting a convention attractions and facilities in Big Spring. A proposal was drafted to have the Ambassadors become the official convention attraction committee, to be carried before the Chamber Board of Directors at their Sept. 14 meeting by Red Coat president George Zachariah.

Demonstrating Houk Yields In Argument

By The Associated Press

Ralph Houk was kicking up a dust storm. Ralph Houk was flailing his arms. Ralph Houk was, well, mad.

What's it all about, Ralphie?

"I hope somebody got a picture of the tag," the New York Yankees' skipper snapped after Minnesota's Killebrew was called safe on a critical bang-bang play at home Wednesday night.

See, Houk thought he was out — and let umpire Larry Napp know about it demonstratively.

To no avail, though. The Twins followed with another run and later added an insurance tally to take a 3-0 victory behind Jim Perry's four-hitter.

The triumph was the third straight for the Twins after a nine-game tailspin and jumped their American League West Division lead to 5½ games over California, which lost 2-0 to Cleveland.

TIGERS ROUTED
Third-place Oakland kept within six games of the front-running Twins by blistering Detroit 7-0; East Division leader Baltimore turned back Milwaukee 3-2; Chicago ripped Boston 13-5 and Kansas City downed Washington 2-1.

Although Houk praised Perry's performance that cooled the Yankee bats, he was still hot after the fourth-inning play at home that broke a scoreless tie.

With two out, Killebrew raced home from second on Rich Reese's two-out single. As Napp waved the safe sign, catcher Jake Gibbs and Houk argued heatedly that the throw from right had beaten the Killer.

"When the catcher turned to make the tag, his glove was behind the plate," said Napp. "The runner slid across the plate and into the glove. I call them like I see them."

"I think that's ridiculous," said Houk. "An easy-going guy like Jake doesn't get that mad about every play. You could see the slide marks where he didn't make it."

And Killebrew? "I was safe ... I was in there," said Charmin Harmon. That opened the door for another run on Leo Cardenas' RBI single. And the Twins shut off all post-game debates when Killebrew doubled to score Danny Thompson with an insurance run in the eighth.

HAND BAILED OUT
Dennis Higgins bailed Rich Hand out of a wobbly eighth inning and pinch-hitter Chuck Hinton delivered a run-scoring double in Cleveland's victory over California. It was Hand's fifth victory of the year, and his third straight over the Angels.

Diego Segui mystified Detroit on four hits as the A's halted a four-game slide that had dropped them from second to third in the West. Don Mincher hit a two-run homer, his 21st, for the winners.

Merv Rettenmund rifled a two-out, run-scoring single in the eighth to snap a 2-2 tie and give the Orioles their victory over the Brewers. It made an 18-game winner of Mike Cuellar and boosted Baltimore's East lead to 11 games over New York.

The NCAA Committee on Competitive Safeguards and Medical Aspects of Sports has branded sparring, the technique of blocking and tackling with the head, as a "dangerous and unhealthy practice."

The committee points out that the head and neck were not constructed to be used as battering rams, and any coach who teaches butt blocking, sparring or helmeting the numbers is endangering athletes under him and should be condemned.

When Bill Narrell, the new coaching aide here, was at Hereford, he worked under the highly successful Larry Wartes, who used to be the head basketball coach at Stanton High School and who later was coach at Stamford.

The GAMCO people here are marketing a new stop-action movie camera which already has the football people beating a path to their door. A University of Texas coach called recently to ask if two of the machines could be delivered to them soon. Harold Davis and Delnor Poss of the company showed the projector during the recent coaching school in Houston.

Some of the San Francisco 49ers football fans are pessimistic souls. They're using bumper stickers which read "The 49ers in '80."

The 49ers have never won a professional football championship. They started out in the old All-American Conference.

In ten years time ending with the 1969 season, according to a story released by the National Collegiate Sports Services, college teams ran 19 per cent more plays (on the average), did 36 per cent more scoring and played to 41 per cent more spectators.

Hawaii hopes to have a team in the major baseball leagues by 1976, when it will have a stadium seating 34,000. That will be about the time baseball will be ready to embrace Tokyo and Mexico City as member clubs.

When Jim Bouton wrote his baseball book, "Ball Four," he hoped to earn about $13,000. Now it appears his take will be at least ten times that. When baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn mildly chided Bouton about the tome, it meant another $100,000 in commissions for him.

Sportsmen in Great Britain and America must feel very close to each other. One of them has our golf championship. One of us has theirs.

UCLA won no fewer than four NCAA team championships the past school year — in basketball, tennis, volleyball and water polo.

The school recruits heavily in all sports.

One of the avenging cowboys in the movie now showing at the Ritz Theatre, "The Cheyenne Social Club," exhibited fine running form in trying to get at Jimmy Stewart, who was barricaded in a house at the time.

He comes by his athletic bent naturally. He is Dean Smith, a 220 sprinter in the ABC Relays here 20 years ago, while attending Graham High School. Dean is better known as a stunt man in Hollywood.

Carlen Lacks Patience, He Confesses

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Texas Tech's new head football coach Jim Carlen, one of the straightest shooters ever to hit these parts, readily confesses patience is not one of his virtues. "I'm more impatient than the fans," Carlen said in peering forward to his goal of putting Tech "up there" with Texas and Arkansas in the Southwest Conference football dynasty.

Carlen zipped into Lubbock last January like a blue Texas norther after a successful 10-1 campaign at West Virginia and, despite a late start in recruiting, hauled in an impressive group of freshman athletes.

NOT ENOUGH
But Carlen, in his true tell-it-like-it-is manner, says it's not enough.

"We're going to need another couple of fine recruiting years to get up there on the top rung with Arkansas and Texas and those people," he said.

"I don't think we have any super players on the team right now. I don't think we have a boy who qualifies as an All-American."

Carlen is quick to praise his first offensive and defensive units but after that, he feels the Raiders are hurting.

"I feel if our first kids can stay healthy, we can have a good football team," Carlen said. "But some of those sophomores are going to have to come through for us."

And high on the Raiders' trouble list is quarterback, although Carlen feels starter Charles Napper is a good man for the job.

"I think Napper is a good college quarterback," Carlen said, but adds bluntly, "I shudder to think what would happen if he should get hurt. We don't have a No. 2 quarterback right now. The others haven't shown enough to even fill in at quarterback."

The Raiders' starting offensive lineup should be steady enough with nine starters returning from last year's 5-5 finish. However, some of the regulars are at new positions.

Napper, a parttime starter as a sophomore last season, joins returning running backs Danny Hardaway, Tech's leading rusher, and Miles Langenhennig along with Robbie Best, the No. 2 tight end last year, at flanker.

Voges, Henson On Cat Staff
SAN ANGELO — Harry Voges, an assistant coach at Alice the past four years, has been named head swimming coach at San Angelo Central High School.

He succeeds Phil Brougner, who moved to Tulsa. Ronnie Henson, one-time star athlete for Central, has been named junior varsity basketball coach at San Angelo Central and will help in basketball.

Ken Bode and Roland Mullins have joined the San Angelo Lake View staff.

Bode, formerly a coach at Sherman, will be the line coach under head mentor Chuck Smith. Mullins, an assistant at Lamesa the past four years, will be the Chiefs' chief assistant in football and the head basketball coach.

Sweeney Returns; Shaw Signs Pact

By The Associated Press

Walt Sweeney might have returned to the San Diego Chargers empty-handed, but at least he has a job waiting for him. Dennis Shaw, on the other hand, comes to the Buffalo Bills with a fist full of dollars and only a seat on the bench assured.

Shaw, who had been asking a reported $375,000 to sign with the Bills, finally settled Wednesday for a reported $100,000 in salary and bonuses over three years. That assured him a place on the team, and probably on the bench.

Buffalo, desperately in need of a good and healthy quarterback, has five of them now from which to select — Jim Harris, Dan Darrah, Tom Sherman, Virgil Carter and Shaw.

LOSES CASE
Sweeney, however, lost his case for retirement and came back to the Chargers without the no-cut clause in his contract he was demanding.

"I need protection in case I would go and break my leg and couldn't play again," he had argued, the eight-year veteran and All-Pro guard ended his two-day retirement, although he still has yet to sign his pact.

"I made a rather hasty and emotional decision," Sweeney said, expressing regret at his brief retirement. "I was acting selfishly without thinking of my family or my teammates."

However, he was fined an unknown amount by General Manager Sid Gillman, and then returned to his starting position on the offensive line.

There were several other retirements Wednesday that could stick longer than Sweeney's. Fringe players Paul Feldhausen, an offensive tackle with Boston, and George Youngblood, a defensive back with the Chicago Bears, announced they were leaving football.

OTHERS SWITCH

A few others switched teams. New Orleans picked up guard-place kicker Justin Canale, a five-year veteran, on waivers from Buffalo, and Minnesota obtained defensive back Seth Miller on waivers from Atlanta.

Shaw, scheduled to arrive in Buffalo from San Diego today, has been working out with San Diego State the past three weeks, but was not expected to see action in Buffalo's exhibition game Friday night against Philadelphia. In fact, he might not see too much action this season.

New York was leading 2-0 in the third when two singles and a walk loaded the bases with two out. Norm Cledenon booted Don Miller's easy bounce for one run and Denis Menke's fly ball eluded Ken Singleton in right field for a triple and three more runs.

An inning later, Singleton misjudged Jesus Alou's hit and the ball scooted past him for a two-run triple. That's the kind of day it was for Seaver and most of the Mets ... but not Harrelson.

Ticket Sales Inching Up
Sale of season tickets to home games of the Big Spring Steers mounted to 390 late Wednesday. The tickets are good for five home games and sell for $10 each.

Only a little more than one day remains for people who had seat locations last year for the home games to renew them through the School Business Office.

Starting next week, the ducats will be made available to the general public.

The season ticket holder not only has assurance of sitting in the same place for all games here but gets first call on tickets to out-of-town games involving the Steers.

Big Spring opens its home season Sept. 18 against Ysleta Bel Air.

QBC Barbecue Starts At 7

Football buffs will flock to Comanche Trail Park this evening, where the Quarterback Club stages its annual barbecue for 1970 Steer players and coaches.

Only price of admission to the party will be a $5 membership ticket, which admits a man and his wife.

Children attending the function will pay 50 cents each for the privilege. The kids get a break, since it costs the club about 85 cents each to dish out the food.

This function annually gets the booster club off and winging on its 1970-71 program. If it supposed well by the friends of football, the club will be able to tackle most of the projects it has planned.

Lack of funds can seriously hamper the organization, however. This year's slate of officers has undertaken to sell the community on a Gold Rush '70 campaign, which emphasizes pride in BSHS athletics and serves to solidify team spirit.

Chief speaker of the evening will be Grant Teaff, head coach at Angelo State University. Teaff spoke to players here last year and was warmly received. A man who believes there is no substitute for flaming spirit, Teaff spices his talks with humor.

Trevino Ready To Make Run At AVCO Trophy

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Lee Trevino, his slump snapped and his game back in gear, took aim on Jack Nicklaus' leading money-winning spot today.

"I've had my vacation and Jack has to skip a week here and there," Trevino said before setting out in the first round of the $160,000 Avco Golf Classic.

The flamboyant Mexican-American was shut out in his quest of a major championship this year and obviously wants the consolation of the No. 1 spot on the money-winning list.

He won two titles, the Tucson and National Airlines opens, early this year and topped the money list most of the season until Nicklaus caught him last month.

Trevino has about $122,000 and trails Nicklaus by about $8,000. But Nicklaus, along with Arnold Palmer, is skipping this tournament and Trevino is one of the favorites for the $32,000 first prize.

Trevino snapped a mild slump last week when he fired a course record-matching 65 in the final round of the PGA National Championship.

He hadn't played well for some time before that, and his troubles reached a peak when he withdrew at Philadelphia and then was disqualified from the Westchester Classic when he overslept and missed his tee time.

Lee took a couple of weeks off for a vacation in Acapulco before returning last week. He started poorly, then finished with a charge.

"I don't know what it is," he said. "But I've had a slump every summer for the past three years. I just don't play good in the summer."

"The way I was hitting them for a while, why it would take five people to find the ball. I didn't have any idea where it was going."

"But I've got it all back together now. I'm making the ball do what I want it to do. I'm ready to go out and play some golf now."

Trevino said he planned to play through the rest of the American tournaments this year, plus the Alcan in Ireland, the Piccadilly in England and a tournament in Australia, and will team with new PGA champion Dave Stockton to represent the United States in the World Cup competition in Argentina in November.

Tennison Is Big Winner In Races

ODESSA — For two weeks in a row L. B. Tennison has won the 25-lap feature at the Odessa Speedbowl. He will be trying for three in a row this week. At this time he is leading in the point race for the season championship.

With just three weeks to go, competition will be getting harder. This week the stock cars, minibikes and motorcycles will return to the Speedbowl.

Final race of the year will be on September 4. It will be a special championship night with a 50-lap feature. Next year's auto racing will start in March, with a new class of cars. Rules are now being drawn up.

Met Sets Mark In 9-4 Loss

NEW YORK (AP) — It was last week in Atlanta when someone sidled up to Bud Harrelson, the slick shortstop of the New York Mets, and asked him if he knew about the record he was approaching.

"I knew right away," laughed Harrelson, "that it wasn't the home run record."

Harrelson, who weighs 145 pounds and owns two career homers, guessed pretty quickly that the record was for consecutive errorless games by a shortstop in a single season.

The mark is 54 games set by Chicago's Don Kessinger last year and Harrelson equaled it Wednesday in an otherwise dismal 9-4 loss to Houston.

Harrelson handled nine more chances flawlessly against the Astros—something his teammates weren't able to do. The Mets committed four recorded errors—and two or three others that weren't marked down.

"It was one of the worst days we've had in the field," said Manager Gil Hodges. "I can't remember much worse, but I do have a short memory."

He'd need a long one to remember the last time Wade Blasingame, Houston's winning pitcher, managed a major league victory. It was April 15, 1968, when he pitched the final three innings of Houston's 1-0, 24-inning marathon victory over the Mets.

Blasingame spent this season in Oklahoma City until the Astros called him up Aug. 1. He worked five innings against the Mets—"the poorest he's pitched since he rejoined us," said Manager Harry Walker—and was the beneficiary of the sloppy Met fielding that beat Tom Seaver.

New York was leading 2-0 in the third when two singles and a walk loaded the bases with two out. Norm Cledenon booted Don Miller's easy bounce for one run and Denis Menke's fly ball eluded Ken Singleton in right field for a triple and three more runs.

An inning later, Singleton misjudged Jesus Alou's hit and the ball scooted past him for a two-run triple. That's the kind of day it was for Seaver and most of the Mets ... but not Harrelson.

Texas Senators' Divide Vote

WASHINGTON (AP)—Texas senators were divided Wednesday on a roll call vote by which the Senate rejected an amendment to limit expansion of the Safeguard antiballistic missile system.

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., voted against the measure and Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., voted for it.

The Senate rejected the amendment 53-45. It was introduced by Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass.

Fed, School Agree On Desegregation

DALLAS (AP)—The Ferris Independent School District and the federal government reached agreement Wednesday on an acceptable plan to desegregate the city's schools.

Dist. Judge William M. Taylor Jr. put the agreement into effect by signing a court order that granted a one-week postponement of school opening to allow necessary arrangements to be made.

The understanding between Ferris school lawyers and federal officials came after a two-hour private discussion in the jury room of Judge Taylor's court.

Ferris school superintendent Cal P. Wester said the one-year consolidation of all pupils was not what the school district sought, "but it's something we can live with."

The plan involves a shift of all 325 pupils from nearly all black Dunbar school to Ferris school, which is mainly white.

The 1,100 students at Ferris will attend the one school for the coming year. Construction on a new school is slated to begin next week, and the school will be used for grades 1 through 6 when it is completed by the start of the 1971-72 school year.

Any overload resulting in split sessions at the Ferris school for the coming term must be restricted to the fourth, fifth and sixth grades, the court said.

The ruling, which moved the school's opening date back to August 31, also directed that a bi-racial watchdog committee be formed.

The panel, composed of an equal number of black and white representatives from the Ferris community, will file twice-yearly reports to the court, showing how many students there are of each race in the school district and where they have been assigned.

Reaching agreement at the conference were Warwick Jenkins of Waxahachie, school board lawyer; Grover James of the Ferris schools; John Conroy of the Justice Department; and Eldon Mahon, U.S. attorney for this district.

Jenkins pointed out that "Ferris has not been fighting integration and has not been fighting the government. A great deal of work has been done to reverse public opinion in this matter."

Five other Texas school districts were directed Tuesday by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans to hold preliminary conferences on desegregation before school starts this fall.

Richardson is scheduled for a hearing Thursday. Garland, San Angelo and Lubbock will appear Friday and Wichita Falls is set for next Tuesday.

Dutch, Scotch, Irish And Angry

NEW YORK (AP)—"I'm Dutch and I'm stubborn, I'm Scotch and tight, and I'm Irish and angry," Mayor John V. Lindsay says.

The combination, he adds, "is the worst possible mixture you can imagine at the helm of this city."

Lindsay cited his ancestry

Wednesday as qualification for presiding over Brooklyn ceremonies marking the start of restoration of the 225-year-old Pieter Claesen Wyckoff farmhouse, which was built on land bought from the Canarsie Indians in 1636 by a Netherland administrator.

The house, a sagging, steep-roofed Dutch colonial still has some of its hand-hewn cedar shingles. The restoration will include removing plumbing and other modern fixtures—including a television antenna.

Son Of Wealthy Oilman Refused

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A Superior Court judge has refused to award Gordon P. Getty, son of wealthy oilman J. Paul Getty, a $7.4 million share of the $400 million Getty Trust Fund.

Gordon Getty, 36, in a suit filed in September, 1966, asked $7.4 million as his share of stock dividends and splits from the trust funds.

Judge Charles Perry ruled Wednesday that only cash received by the trust could be distributed as income.

He said the trust was set up "to maintain family control of the underlying corporate assets... and to preserve and protect the fund in its entirety."

J. Paul Getty's mother, Sarah, established the trust in 1934 with $3.5 million. J. Paul Getty built it up to more than $400 million.

(AP WIREPHOTO)

SHE WANTS MANSON TO SEEK FORGIVENESS — Alternately relaxed and serious, Linda Kasabian answers questions during a press conference in Los Angeles Wednesday at the end of 18 days of testimony as the state's star witness in the Sharon Tate murder case. She said she would like to see Charles Manson and three girl defendants "fall down on their knees and seek forgiveness."

State's Major Witness Ends Days Of Testimony

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I'd like to go into the wilderness with my children and get down to nature and closer to God," said Linda Kasabian, pale but smiling as she ended 18 days as the state's key witness in the Sharon Tate murder trial.

But no matter where she goes, the petite blonde said she'll always remember the murders. "It is deep within my heart what happened and I could never forget it."

BEG ON KNEES

Speaking softly, Mrs. Kasabian made her remarks at a news conference an hour after she left the witness stand.

Asked what she now thinks of Charles M. Manson and his three women followers on trial for the slayings, Mrs. Kasabian said: "I'd like to see them fall down on their knees and beg forgiveness."

Mrs. Kasabian, 21, once a member of Manson's hippie-style "family," was charged with murder-conspiracy in the killings of Miss Tate, and six others but was granted immunity from prosecution for her testimony. She told how Manson ordered his followers to kill. She said she went along as lookout on two murder missions, but did not enter the houses where victims were slain.

'MY OWN THING'

Of her future, she said, "I want to do my own thing." She said she doesn't plan to live with her husband Robert, although they'll "always be together" spiritually. She said she does not plan to live with her mother, who has been caring for her children in Milford, N.H. But she said she'll take the children—Tanya, 2, and Angel, 5 months—with her. She declined to say where she will live.

Asked if she feared reprisals from Manson's followers, she paused, then said: "I'm not going to worry about it."

In the last moments of her testimony, Mrs. Kasabian said she fled to New Mexico to see her husband after the killings in August, 1969, and told him: "Charlie flipped out and had a whole bunch of people killed." But she said she did not consider telling police.

NEXT WITNESS

The next witness called by the prosecution was Timothy Leland, who was a counselor at a day camp near the actress' home. He said he heard a man's screams for about 15 seconds the night of the slayings.

He said that after the screams at about 12:40 a.m. He drove around the neighborhood but saw nothing and went to sleep without calling police.

Rudolf Weber—who lived in a house at the bottom of Benedict

Canyon, an area near the Tate residence—said he was awakened about 1 a.m. on the murder night by the sound of running water. He said he saw a young man and three young women washing themselves with a hose.

RECALLS NUMBER

Mrs. Kasabian had testified that members of the murder party were spotted by a man as they stopped at a home to wash blood off their bodies and clothes. Weber said he made a note of the license number of the group's car, but did not report it to police.

Later, he said, he threw away the note but he remembered the number when police contacted him in December. It was, he said GYV-435, the plate number which the state says was on the car used on the murder missions.

Old School Bus Proves Death Trap

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — An old school bus converted into a travel home proved a death trap when a propane gas tank exploded and burned the vehicle to the ground, taking six lives, the highway patrol said.

Four other persons were burned seriously Wednesday in what Patrolman John Dorn called "a real holocaust."

David Paul Bruce, 22, of San Bernardino, Calif., said he was traveling east toward Indio on Interstate 10 when "this old bus came over the hill with fire pouring out all its windows."

The emergency exit was useless, he said, because a motorcycle was strapped securely across the rear of the vehicle. "One woman flew out a window and landed on the highway with her clothes afire," said Bruce. "Five other people got out of the other side of the bus, screaming and yelling. Other people who arrived at the scene started ripping off the clothes of the lady in the roadway."

Dead at the scene were Edna Davis, 15, and her sister Drucilla, 13, both of El Paso, Tex.; Jimmy Cottrill, 15, and his stepbrother, Jon-Jom Scott, 19 months, both of Toledo, Ohio.

Two others succumbed later at Desert Hospital here. They were Clifford Tandy, 61, of Toledo, grandfather of the Cottrill and Scott youngsters, and Dorothy Davis, 49, mother of the Davis girls.

Under treatment at the hospital for serious burns, but reported in fair condition, were Myron Davis, 50, father of the Texas children and driver of the bus; two other Davis children, Patricia, 14, and Mike, 15; and Barbara Scott, 38, of Toledo, mother of Jon-Jom Scott and stepmother of the Cottrill boy. Investigators said the 10 persons were en route from El Paso to Los Angeles when the propane tank, mounted under the bus floor, exploded.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

NAB FEM, 'HOT' GEMS

MEXICO CITY (AP) — An Austrian woman residing in Mexico was arrested with 1,200 karats of contraband diamonds, it was reported today.

Paula Rosenberg Fuch was arrested Tuesday at the Mexico City airport by federal police agents who had been alerted to watch for her. She arrived on a flight from New York.

The diamonds reportedly were found in her purse in 23 packages. Police said their value could not be determined immediately because "many are large and of fine quality and others have flaws."

Mrs. Rosenberg reportedly told police that she frequently traveled to the United States, Europe and the Middle East to buy precious stones for well-known Mexico City jewelers.

Response To Raps Nets Faint Praise From Israel

By The Associated Press

Artillery fire from Lebanon killed two Israeli soldiers and wounded four others Wednesday night at the eastern end of the Lebanese-Israeli frontier, the Israeli command announced today.

The Israelis said their forces and Arab guerrillas duelled for an hour at the foot of Mt. Hermon. The Israeli command had no information on Arab casualties.

OPEN FIRE

The Israelis said the Arabs opened fire first.

Arab fire also was reported from Jordan, with the town of Beit Shean, south of the Sea of Galilee, one of the targets. It has been shelled frequently; this time the Israeli command said there were no casualties and only slight damage.

The Israelis said Arabs inside Jordan also fired on Israeli army patrols and military positions along the Jordan River, and the Israelis returned the fire.

On the diplomatic-political front, the U.S. response to Israel's charges of Egyptian cease-fire violations was met with faint praise in some Israeli quarters, harsh words in others and a rebuke from Egypt.

HARD LINE

The Jerusalem Post, which usually echoes the Foreign Ministry's thinking, said the Washington statement "can only give the Arabs cause for satisfaction." It said the Egyptian missile threat "should be removed before any measure of good can result."

But the semi official newspaper Davar said "one should not belittle the reiterated emphasis" in the statement on maintenance of the arms balance in the Middle East.

The Religious party's newspaper Hatsofeh took a hard line, saying, "The U.S. reaction will merely encourage the aggressive tendency of the Soviet Union and Egypt."

There was speculation that Israel now would be willing to go ahead with the indirect peace talks which it has been delaying. But meanwhile the Israelis made public aerial photographs they claimed proved their government's charges of new Egyptian missile deployment close to the Suez Canal.

SENT TO CAIRO

Israeli officials said the U.S. government showed a "serious attitude" in relaying to Cairo and Moscow the charge that Egypt violated the terms of the 90-day cease-fire by setting up anti-aircraft missiles within 30 miles of the canal after the standstill hour.

One official said Washington's action amounted to American acknowledgment of the "sincerity of Israel's concern" about the missiles and contradicted assumptions by the Israeli press that Jerusalem was "merely antagonizing the U.S. government without Washington being impressed by Israel's concern."

Egypt's official Middle East News Agency said the American stand "exposed the weakness of the U.S. government toward Zionist pressures." It quoted a "responsible source" as saying Egypt will continue to ignore Israel's allegations about Egyptian missile movements.

There was no new comment from the Soviet Union, which provided Egypt with SAM anti-aircraft missiles and crews to man them. But earlier Wednesday Pravda said the Israeli charges were false and were an attempt to prevent a Middle East political settlement.

State Department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey outlined the U.S. response to the Israeli charges in a statement Wednesday. He said the U.S. government has concluded "that there was forward movement of surface-to-air missiles into and within the zone west of the Suez Canal around the time the cease-fire went into effect at midnight Aug. 7."

"There is some evidence that this was continued beyond the cease-fire deadline," he added, "although our evidence of this is not conclusive."

Shortly after McCloskey's statement, the Israeli military command in Tel Aviv displayed pictures it called "conclusive proof" that the missile deployment extended past the cease-fire deadline.

A senior officer showed newsmen aerial photographs he said were of four SAM2 batteries between the Great Bitter Lake and the area just south of Ismailia, all within 18.6 miles of the canal.

All four sites are "completely operational" now, the officer said.

In all, the officer said, "more than six and less than 15 missile batteries" have been moved during the truce. He refused to be specific, but said the missiles give the Egyptians a covering range of about 12 miles into Israeli-held territory east of the canal in the central sector.

Moon Journey

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Apollo 14 astronauts Alan Shepherd, Edgar Mitchell and Stuart Roosa will be at the spaceport the rest of this week and next rehearsing for their Jan. 31 journey to the moon.

The men climb into their space suits today for a simulated altitude run in their Apollo spacecraft.

Wednesday, the men practiced maneuvers in the Apollo and lunar module spacecraft simulators.

Ship With Explosives Drags To Resting Place

EARLE, N.J. (AP) — A ship loaded with 5,000 tons of explosives was en route today to its final resting place, the sea bottom 7,200 feet deep and 133 miles off the Maryland coast.

The vessel, in tow of a tugboat, left Sandy Hook Wednesday and was to be sunk on arrival at the selected spot.

U.S. Navy officials said sea valves would be opened allowing water to pour into the vessel for the sinking.

The Navy switched the site of the sinking Tuesday. The original site, 150 miles off Barnegat Light, was less than a mile from where a ship filled with obsolete mustard gas and contaminated gas canisters was sunk in May, 1967.

A Navy spokesman said that there was "no danger" that any accidental explosion during the sinking would rupture containers of mustard gas but that the Navy decided to change the site because of "public opinion."

The new site is 111 miles southeast of Barnegat Light and 88 miles southwest of the ship containing mustard gas, the spokesman said.

The Naval spokesman said the "conventional type" explosives had come from Army installations across the country.

No explosion is expected, a Navy spokesman said, but added that some of the explosives might be detonated by increased water pressure.

Cong Forces Push Close To Capital

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Heavily armed Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces overran the Cambodian defenders of a village nine miles from Phnom Penh today and pushed to within six miles of the capital.

Air strikes continued as an estimated three enemy battalions pushed southward from the village of Prek Tameak, which is northeast of the capital and on the other side of the Mekong River.

HOLDING OUT

One reinforced Cambodian battalion was reported holding out on the Prek Tameak side of the river. A spokesman in Phnom Penh said fighting was continuing at Prek Tameak with heavy casualties on both sides. But newsmen who drove to a point across the river from the village found everything quiet.

Troops in the area said a large number of Cambodian soldiers left Prek Tameak by boat Wednesday night, taking their wounded with them. Cambodian and South Vietnamese gunboats were positioned on the river to provide covering fire during the night.

At least two villagers were wounded during the night by what they said was unprovoked fire from the gunboats, but a Cambodian captain on the scene said the villagers were hit by Viet Cong fire from across the river, which at that point is nearly a mile wide.

Prek Tameak, a village of thatched houses and a few Chinese shops, has been attacked three times. Once the Viet Cong held it for three days.

HEAVY RAIDS

The Cambodian command has long feared enemy attempts to secure positions in the wooded lands just across the river from Phnom Penh. From there they could harass the capital with rocket and mortar fire.

In Saigon, the U.S. Command would neither confirm nor deny that American bombers were supporting the Cambodians. An American spokesman said "interdiction" raids are flown in Cambodia every day, but "we don't discuss specific locations or targets."

In the northern part of South Vietnam, some Americans were killed and some wounded in a mortar attack on a night camp of troops of the 101st Airborne Division one mile north of Fire Base Barnett and 16 miles southwest of the provincial capital of Quang Tri. The U.S. Command said American casualties were light.

South Vietnamese troops clashed with enemy forces farther north, near Fire Base Fuller, and reported killing eight of the enemy. One government soldier was reported wounded.

U.S. Strategic Air Command B52 bombers began their eighth week of heavy raids in border areas of Laos and South Vietnam. About 40 of the big Stratofortresses dropped 1,200 tons of bombs on both sides of the border.

ZSA ZSA GABOR

Zsa Zsa Posts Huge Reward For Jewelry

NEW YORK (AP) — Zsa Zsa Gabor is offering a $30,000 reward for the return of a 38-carat diamond ring worth $500,000 that was stolen from her in a Waldorf Towers elevator.

"I'll never wear real jewelry again," the actress told newsmen Wednesday as she described how earlier in the morning two men had taken the ring, a $100,000 pair of earrings and a $30,000 turquoise ring.

Miss Gabor, who is starring on Broadway in the comedy "Forty Carats," said none of the jewelry was insured because "rates for actresses are prohibitive."

Banks In Line For Prexy; Junior Law Men Planned

At a directors meeting of the Law Enforcement Officers Association of Texas last weekend in Mineral Wells, Big Spring Chief of Police Jay Banks was elected first vice-president, qualifying him to replace Hamlin Chief of Police Bryan Wasson Jr. as board president next year.

Also at the meeting a proposal was presented for the creation of a youth group to be called the Junior Law Officers of Texas. No plans for the establishment of such an organization will be completed until public interest in such a project can be gauged.

The first draft proposal states that such an organization would help promote good citizenship, provide a nucleus for future law officers for Texas, help "wayward" children who have run afoul of the law, and promote respect for law and order.

Junior Lawmen would be from 10 to 15 years old and would meet in groups of 10 to 25 members under the guidance of a law enforcement officer and his assistant. These two men would also be aided by a troop leader and two assistant troop leaders in the 15 to 17 age bracket, much as in a Boy Scout troop, recruited from members and past members.

They would wear distinctive caps and poplin jackets sporting a specially designed Junior Lawmen emblem, and would be entitled to promotion insignias after various periods of good attendance at meetings and good behavior.

The activities such a group would engage in are for the most part like those of Boy Scouts, Indian Guides, and other groups. Camping and group projects would be included as the organization became established, as well as attendance at fairs, ushering at football games, or engaging in money-making projects like cutting lawns, washing windows, and babysitting.

In addition, Junior Lawmen could help governmental agencies deal with the problem of other "wayward" children whose source of trouble was either parental neglect or poor environment. The courts could assign children between the ages of 10 and 14 to the supervisory custody of the law officer in charge of a troop of Junior Lawmen, and the youngsters could be accepted as provisional Junior Law Officers for a six-month trial period.

It is felt that by spending a weekend at the home of a

Junior Law Officer, a youthful offender could be made to lose his hostility toward the law and society, and through association could be salvaged and guided into the path of a useful citizen instead of a vandal or a criminal.

It has also been proposed that the organization publish a magazine, and recognize outstanding leadership and character with a Junior Lawman of the Month award, as well as choosing by newspaper and magazine ballot a Junior Lawman of the Year.

Alleged Massacre Charges Dropped

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — The Army says it has dropped charges against S. Sgt. Kenneth L. Hodges in connection with the alleged massacre at My Lai because "available evidence was insufficient" to bring him to trial.

The action, taken after the Army's equivalent of a grand jury investigation, reduced to 11 the number of men charged in connection with the incident.

Five have been ordered to court-martial.

Hodges, 25, had been charged with rape and assault with intent to murder in connection with events at or near Son My in South Vietnam in March 1968. My Lai was a village in the area of Son My.

Hodges, assigned to a headquarters unit at Ft. McPherson, was the second soldier to have charges against him dropped in the case. The first was Thomas K. Williamson, 25 of Allenhurst, N.J.

Hodges entered the Army in June 1963 and was a member of an infantry company commanded in Vietnam by Capt. Ernest Medina, one of the 11 still charged.

In Hodges' home town of Dublin, Ga., his mother, Mrs. Pauline Hodges, said her son's current Army enlistment ends in April 1975. Hodges is not married.

Westbrook Party

WESTBROOK (SC) — High school students Friday night will host a "welcome" party for freshmen class members beginning at 8 p.m. Registration for students was to be today.

Classes will begin Monday morning with the buses making their regularly scheduled runs. Teachers reported Monday for five days of inservice training prior to the beginning of school.

(AP Wirephoto) 'A MOST HAPPY FELLA' — Baritone Eddie Fisher, who has filed a bankruptcy petition in Puerto Rico, is shown in happier days with actress Elizabeth Taylor in Las Vegas just before their wedding on May 12, 1959. Fisher was at the peak of success. During the next three years his career lapsed.

Eddie Fisher Files Bankruptcy Papers

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A former aide estimates that Eddie Fisher made more than $700,000 annually in his peak years. Now the belting baritone has filed a bankruptcy petition in Puerto Rico. What happened?

Longtime Fisher watchers and associates speculate: "I don't think he's kept his repertoire as up to date as Sinatra does. Or Andy Williams, who has kept developing with the times."

"The public got tired of him. He was the former Mr. Elizabeth Taylor too long."

"Eddie's always been a giver. Any time you admired anything of his he gave it to you. More people are wearing old Eddie Fisher suits than any other entertainer's."

"The pressure of debt kept him from caring about how good he can be. The bankruptcy may help him put his mind to his career again."

In the petition the 42-year-old singer listed debts of nearly $1 million against assets of $40,000. The debt total of $916,300 includes $41,069 in U.S. taxes, $43,327 to the state of California, $58,000 to Paramount Pictures, $34,000 to Bank of America and $40,980 to a jeweler.

LITTLE KID

The shocked-haired, 5-foot-8½, "little kid with the big voice" reached a popularity and money peak in the first half of the 1950s. Eddie Cantor had discovered the Philadelphia-born Fisher singing at a Catskill resort and introduced him on a tour and on radio.

In a newspaper contest, Eddie outdistanced Frank Sinatra and Perry Como as "King of the Baritone."

For RCA-Victor he recorded 23 straight hits, including the million-plus sellers "Any Time," "I'm Walking Behind You," "Oh, Mein Papa" and "I Need You Now."

For five years he had his own television shows. He starred in two movies—"Bundle of Joy," with Debbie Reynolds, when she was his wife, and "Butterfield 8" with Elizabeth Taylor, while married to her.

AT HER BEDSIDE

His third wife, actress Connie Stevens, divorced him in June 1969. They had two daughters.

Miss Reynolds and Fisher were married in 1955 and had two children. Tearfully divorcing Eddie in 1959, Debbie testified, "My husband became interested in another woman."

Fisher married Miss Taylor and during the next three years his career lapsed. He sang little, devoting his time to being her companion. He was at her bedside when she nearly died of pneumonia in London in 1961.

She began seeing British actor Richard Burton as they co-starred in "Cleopatra."

In 1964 Liz obtained a Mexican divorce and was married to Burton.

Ted's Story 'Sells' Mom Of Mary Jo

NEW YORK (AP) — The mother of Mary Jo Kopechne has questioned the behavior of two friends of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy after the accident that took her daughters' life last summer.

Writing in the current issue of McCall's Magazine, Mrs. Kopechne also said she believed Kennedy's story that he was driving Mary Jo to the ferry on Chappaquiddick Island when he took a wrong turn and his car plunged off a wooden bridge. Mrs. Kopechne drowned. Kennedy escaped serious injury but did not report the accident to authorities for several hours.

Mrs. Kopechne was highly critical of the inquiry into the accident. Referring to Judge James A. Boyle's statement that he believed Kennedy had lied about his destination, she wrote:

"This conclusion, by a man who didn't know Mary Jo, leaves a bad taste in our mouths and we absolutely reject it and any implications that flow from it."

The behavior of Kennedy's two friends, Joseph Gargan and Paul Markham, is inexplicable and was not explained at the inquest, Mrs. Kopechne said. She asked why they did not call authorities when Kennedy, having escaped from the submerged car, summoned them to help him try to rescue Mary Jo.

LETTER Says Income Is First In City Budget

To the Editor:

I would refer our City Manager and City Commissioners to the word "budget" as defined in Webster's Dictionary:

"A financial statement of estimated income... a plan for financing a government based on such a statement."

Which certainly, by any stretch of the imagination, could not mean that you first prepare a budget, inclusive of anything and everything you think you might want or need, and then set about to get the money necessary to cover all such expenses by raising the ad valorem taxes or increasing the cost of city services, at the ultimate expense of the citizens, for whom, presumably, such budget is necessary.

Succinctly, to budget means to first determine how much money you're going to have, and then to decide the best manner in which it can be spent for the benefit of all concerned — with ad valorem tax increase, and no increase in cost for city services — just as the family on a fixed income must do.

Inflation does pose problems — for the citizens as well as the City government — and it would be well if the city officials would bear this in mind when they're all sitting around with their heads together trying to justify new ways to pinch the pocketbook of the citizen to balance their so-called "budget."

Lamesa 4-H'ers Plan Two Tours

LAMESA (SC) — Dawson County agents and 4-H Club members are preparing for the annual county 4-H tour Friday covering the northern part of the county. Agents and adult leaders will leave the courthouse at 8 a.m. with 4-H members and return to the courthouse when the tour is completed.

Also the 4-H agenda this month is a tour from 7:30 a.m. to noon of the Lubbock Experiment Station Aug. 29. Bill Braden, area information specialist, will direct the tour of the station.

HCJC Choice Of Most Students

WESTBROOK (SC) — Howard County Junior College seems to be the favorite for Westbrook's college-bound students this fall.

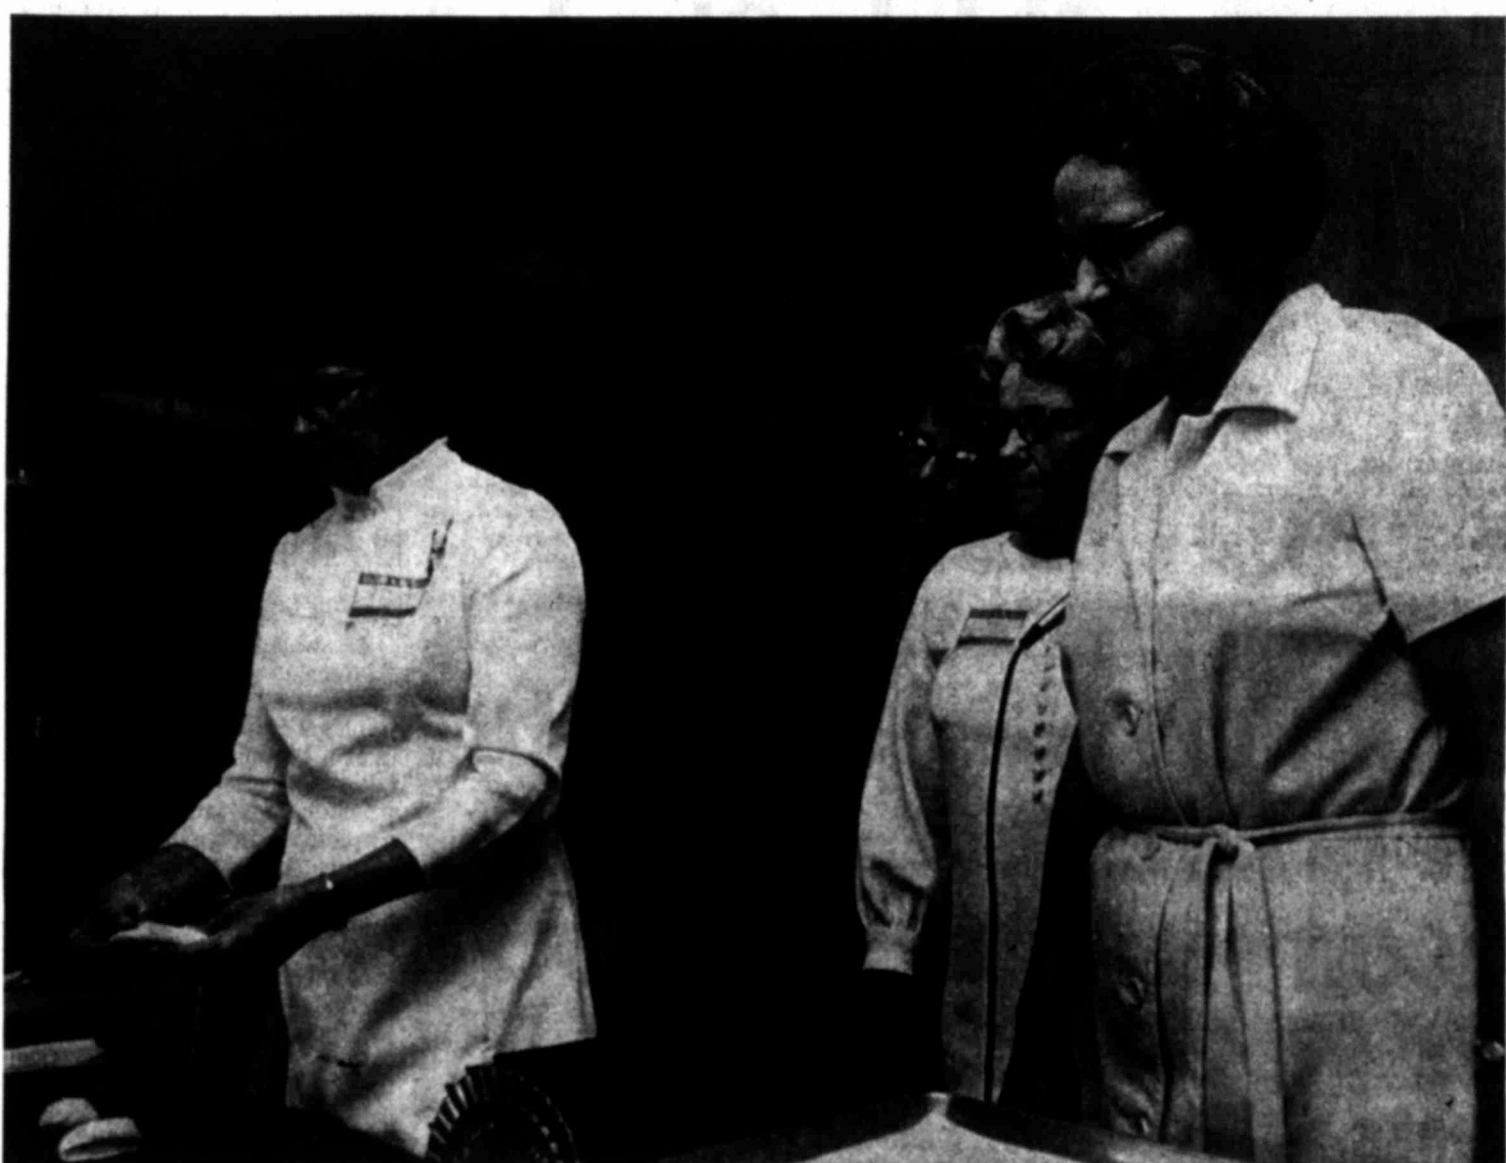

Those attending HCJC are Junior Oden, George Sweat, John Ritchey, John Sweat, Robert Jackson and Mrs. Maxey Ware. Students going to North Texas State University are Vee Iglehart, Sue Bell, Eddie Ranne and Gary Matlock. Patricia Bell is attending Howard Payne.

EQUIPMENT — Not found in the average kitchen is the automatic grinder used by Mrs. E. R. (Hattie) Williamson to make a pinto bean paste for filling burritos. Observing the procedure is Ray Lawlis, director of Big Spring School Food Service.

BREAD-MAKING is demonstrated to West Texas cooks by Mrs. Allene Landess, director of food services, Brownfield. She shows how the dough is prepared, rolled and cut by a paddlewheel device to make huge batches of hot rolls.

Watching the demonstration are Mrs. Gertrude Whittenburg, director of food services, Brownfield; Mrs. J. B. Whitlow, director, Winters; and Miss Edna Spinks, consultant, school lunch program, Big Spring.

School Cafeterias Preparing For 5,000 Hungry Students

By MARILYN NEVELS

Imagine serving lunch to 4,000 hungry students ranging from elementary to high school age with about 4,000 different tastes.

The five school cafeterias in Big Spring serve that many students every school day, plus the 750 students who eat daily at the high school snack bar. Ray Lawlis, director of Big Spring School Food Service, supervises 110 employees who plan, prepare, dish-out, deliver — and clean-up after — the more than 4,000 lunches a day.

To tackle such a task, the schools have the newest equipment, mostly machinery not found in the average home kitchen, like a carrot stick cutter and a cole slaw machine which whizzes out 300 portions of slaw in 30 seconds.

How to operate modern, large-scale kitchen equipment, to deal with recipes and measurements and the problems of nutrition were studied by more than 200 West Texas school food service employees Monday through Wednesday at Big Spring High School. The group included 60 from Big Spring. The school lunch workshop, held annually for the benefit of cooks and supervisors, includes seminars for cooks in food preparation, menus and recipes, weighing and measuring, kitchen equipment, safety, and canned foods. For cafeteria directors, there are seminars dealing with paper work, supervision, work scheduling and personnel.

"Most United States Department of Agriculture recipes are based on 100 portions," Lawlis said. "Therefore, we weigh most of the dry ingredients and measure the liquids. Weight is more accurate. For example, our recipe for rolls calls for 20 pounds of flour."

"We use the USDA recipe file plus some of our own, and some of our women develop their own recipes which we add to the file," he explained.

LEFT-OVERS

Left-overs are not a problem at the high school. The cooks know from experience what foods are popular and how much will be eaten. What is left over is served in the "seconds" line where students with big appetites can go back for more. High school students pay 40 cents and elementary through junior high students pay 35 cents per meal.

"We spend 40 cents on each student," Lawlis said. "Costs have been going up, and we expect to lose money this year. But we have a little surplus left in our fund. Last year we broke even. The year before we came out a little ahead, and the year before that, we came out more ahead. It is becoming harder each year to make ends meet. We get approximately 30 per cent or less from government commodities."

Commodity foods include flour, cornmeal, lard, butter, peanut butter, rice, beans, powdered milk, some meat such as turkey and ground beef and a little canned pork and beef.

"Our high school kids favor chicken fried steak, fried chicken and pizza and elementary kids like hamburgers," Lawlis said. "Students like potatoes, green beans and corn. They don't like spinach, broccoli, leafy greens or sweet potatoes very well. They wonder why we serve things like spinach and broccoli, but we have to meet 'Type A' school lunch requirement of vitamin A and C in each meal. Foods like prunes and raisins we usually don't serve alone. We put prunes in cake and chop the raisins up in cookies or cake."

The "Type A" lunch requires a minimum of two ounces of meat or protein substitute. According to Lawlis, that is as much as elementary students will eat, but the high school students are given about four ounces, including a choice of two different kinds. Also required are three-fourths cup of fruit or vegetable, a slice of bread, milk and one teaspoon of butter. The schools add daily desserts.

Freshness Test

If you are in doubt about eggs, you can test them for freshness.

Place them in a pan of cold water. One that floats is unfit for use. One that stands on end is getting stale and should be discarded. One that lies at an angle is medium, and the ones that lie on the bottom are strictly fresh.

Nutrition was discussed during the workshop by one of the dozen guest speakers, Harold Bryson of Dallas. He is the chief of the Southwest Area, Public Service Information Division, Food and Nutrition Service, USDA. Bryson discussed the conference on nutrition and health held this spring at the White House.

POOREST FED

"We are unquestionably the poorest fed people, because we don't make good use of what we produce, though we are the world's largest producers," Bryson declared.

"During the Depression, the 'Blue Plate Special' was invented to satisfy people's hunger cheaply. It usually consisted of breaded veal cutlet, lots of white sauce, mashed potatoes, cabbage and a couple slices of bread — all carbohydrates. This was okay then, when people were more active and burned up the carbohydrates, but we lead a sedentary life now. Do you realize that 80 per cent of the people in this nation still eat the 'Blue Plate Special' type of meal?"

In discussing the country's state of nutrition, Bryson cited teenage girls as being the poorest fed of all, and he noted that they are the young wives who are having babies, who will likewise be poorly-nourished and prone to poor development.

Holding up a two-inch thick book of conclusions and recommendations reached by the White House conference on nutrition, Bryson said, "The school lunch program was the number one tool named to change the food and eating habits in the United States."

Almond Rice Adds Gourmet's Touch

A novel way to fix rice when company comes to dinner.

ALMOND RICE

1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup blanched whole almonds
1 cup converted-type rice
1 small onion, finely chopped
1 green pepper, finely diced
1 1/2 tps. salt
2 1/2 cups boiling water
In a 10-inch skillet melt the butter. Add almonds, rice and onion; over moderately low heat, stirring often, cook until rice and onions are browned. Stir in green pepper, salt and water. Bring to a vigorous boil; turn heat very low; cover tightly and cook until rice is tender and water has evaporated 20 to 25 minutes. With a fork, stir over low heat for a few minutes to fluff rice. Makes six servings.

Cole Slaw Is Good Side Dish

Men especially enjoy this coleslaw with corned beef.
JUST-RIGHT COLE SLAW
1 head (about 2 1/4 lbs.) green cabbage
1/4 cup cider vinegar
1/4 cup real mayonnaise
3 tbsps. sugar
1 tsp. salt
Remove heavy outer dark green leaves from cabbage; cut in half lengthwise through core. With a long sharp knife, slice the green part into long shreds that are as thin as possible; cut enough cabbage to make six cups firmly packed. Use the green part only for the slaw; the thick white part can be used for cooking.

With a fork, gradually stir vinegar into mayonnaise, keeping smooth. Add sugar and salt; mix well. Pour over cabbage and mix thoroughly. Refrigerate until chilled and flavors blend from three hours to overnight. (Cabbage stays pleasantly crisp even when slaw is kept overnight.) Makes eight servings.

CALLING ALL HOME MAKERS

By Ted Hatfield
IDEAS FOR AN IMPORTANT PART OF YOUR HOME

Here are some tips for you on decorating one part of your home that's often neglected — the entrance area. This is an important area because it is here that a visitor gets the first impression of your home.

One of the most important jobs for the entrance area is to say "welcome." Therefore, it should be inviting and cheerful.

If you have an attractive entrance area it increases the atmosphere of hospitality in your home. Bright, cheery, warm colors are usually best.

There are practical considerations for this area, too. There usually should be some place to put mail, keys, gloves, etc. If the area is not big enough for a table, you can consider wall shelves that require no floor space.

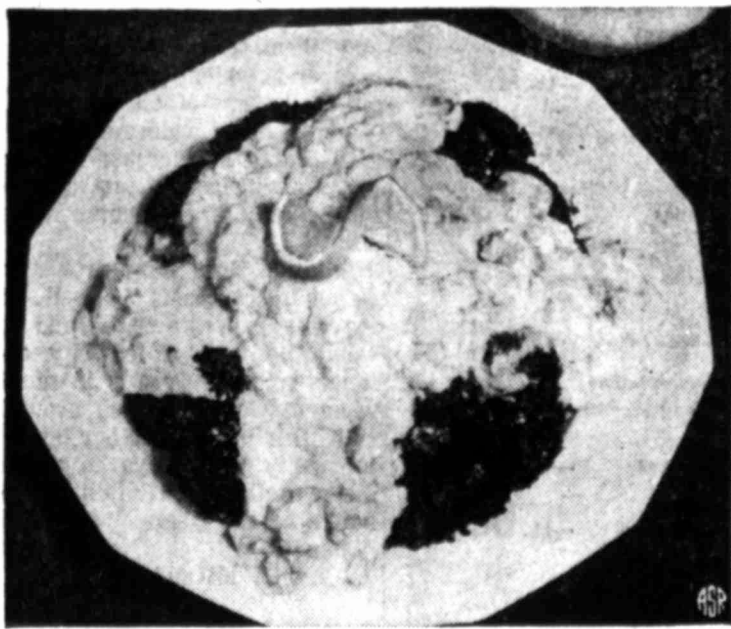

It's usually a good idea to have a mirror in this area. For one thing, a mirror will add depth and make your entrance way seem larger. For another, a mirror is practical for folks who want to take a last check at themselves before going out.

This area should be well-lighted, and if you do use furniture, remember to place it so it will not interfere with free and easy movement.

And here's one last tip for this area. Try some wall planters or floral arrangements. This will add one more bright, lively touch for you and your friends on entering your house.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING

CONTRASTING COLORS — of cauliflower, broccoli and canned salmon combine to make this appealing, edible "flower" arrangement.

Salmon, Vegetables Form Tasty Bouquet

You can't eat too many vegetables! Fortunately for vegetable lovers our markets now are burgeoning with wonderfully fresh, crisp summer crops. Cauliflower and broccoli are two of the most delicious, and they complement each other in both color and flavor. Canned salmon adds a third color, a bright petal touch to the "bouquet," but more important than this is that canned salmon turns a vegetable supper into a well-balanced meal. It contributes vitamins and minerals, and the latest nutritional knowledge points to the fact that fish is the preferred source of essential protein, since it contains more desirable polyunsaturated fats.

SALMON VEGETABLE BOUQUET

3 tbs butter or margarine
3 tbs flour
1 cup hot milk
1/2 tsp salt
1/4 tsp pepper
1/4 cup cream
7 1/2 oz. can salmon
Small head cauliflower
Bunch of broccoli
In saucepan melt butter or margarine. Stir in flour and cook, stirring, until butter, flour mixture is bubbling. Add hot milk, all at once, and stir vigorously until sauce is smooth and thickened. Stir in salt, pepper and cream. Stir in salmon liquid from can. Flake and add salmon. Heat to serving temperature.

Meanwhile, steam cauliflower until just fork tender. Cook broccoli in separate saucepan until tender. Do not overcook the vegetables. Drain and place cauliflower in center of large warm platter. Surround by broccoli and pour the salmon sauce over all. Garnish with twist of lemon. Serves 4.

To Select Potato

Appearance has a lot to do with quality in selecting potatoes. Well-shaped, firm potatoes that are free from blemishes and sunburn — green discoloration under the skin — are best. Avoid potatoes with large cuts or bruises, or shriveled surface.

A Devotion For Today . . .

Be filled with the Spirit, . . . always and for everything give thanks in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ to God the Father. (Ephesians 5:18-20, RSV)

PRAYER: O God, help us to be grateful in all situations, for we know that all things work together for good to them that Love You. Amen.

(From the 'Upper Room')

Crime And The Use Of Firearms

For a week now, the news pages have been telling the story of the increase in crime in the U.S., reporting from a special report issued by the FBI.

Statistics on crime are like those on automobile fatalities—something the average citizen just doesn't want to think about. But all citizens should be thinking about a condition that saw serious crimes increase during the decade of the sixties by 148 per cent. The number of serious crimes per 100,000 population saw an increase of 11 per cent in 1969 over 1968. And the risk of becoming a victim of crime, since 1960, has increased 120 per cent.

The FBI report is long and detailed, but there are segments dealing with a very controversial subject in this country: The control of firearms.

Firearms were used to commit 9,400 murders, 115,000 robberies and 73,000 aggravated assaults during 1969. During the year, a firearm was used to commit 65 per cent of the murder offenses and 24 per cent of the aggravated assaults.

Since 1964, the use of a firearm in the commission of murder has increased 80 per cent and 143 per cent in aggravated assault offenses.

Historically, this nation has permitted its citizens the right to have firearms, and very vigorous elements of the population today are staunchly opposed to any uniform registration or control.

Much is to be said for the viewpoint of the sportsman, or the citizen who looks out for his own safety, or those who handle firearms correctly in normal pursuits.

But the FBI statistics on the use of firearms speak loudly for some method of correction.

Parks Are For Everybody

It is to his credit that Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel, who had written President Nixon that "our kids aren't being heeded," also can assert that they should learn how to behave themselves with a reasonable amount of decency.

The secretary had received a letter from a citizen protesting an incident he said he had witnessed at Yosemite National Park. But it seems that this individual saw only police and park rangers whack and chase out a crowd of hippies, without seeing what led up to it. That included obscene language and acts, dope use, excessive littering, attacks on rangers, interference with campers and violation of park hours.

Mr. Hickel replied to the protestor that officers in the parks will continue to meet force with force when they must protect the rights of all citizens to enjoy the use of the parks.

A recent column on this page by Marquis Childs told how hundreds of hippies had moved into Yosemite, taking over as they wished—until they had to be removed forcibly. Now some of them are calling for 100,000 of their clan to gather at the park over Labor Day and really show their strength. Surely Mr. and Mrs. Hickel will have his people prepared. The parks are for everybody.

The Protective Tariff—New Version

WASHINGTON — A half-century ago, the protective tariff was the key to the strength of the Republican party. Labor sought protection because workers didn't want to see products come into this country at prices that would drive local plants out of business. Big corporations sought high duties on imports so as to save them from competition.

AFTER A SLOW political evolution, the tariff now is back into the game, but this time the House Ways and Means Committee has just approved a bill which seeks to handle the whole problem by passing the responsibility to the President. If a country will not voluntarily impose on itself a quota that the United States deems practical, the President would be authorized to proclaim a tariff duty on the product. In the old days, Congress had to vote on each duty. This resulted in all sorts of coalitions between members from different sections of the country, and sometimes it was hard to get a majority for a tariff rate on a product confined to only a few states.

Under the latest plan, the ball is to be in the President's hands in every case. This is important for many reasons. It gives the State Department a chance to negotiate quotas.

IN THE new bill, the provisions could cover a variety of products and by-products. President Nixon doesn't want this big task. He is ready to undertake the job of dealing with Japanese imports of textiles, but there now are rumors he may veto the measure because of the breadth of its authority over imports from many countries.

As a matter of fact, it is impractical to deal with such negotiating power any other way. The executive branch will have far more influence in bargaining with both European and Asian countries if the right to impose quotas is already delegated than if Congress has to be asked in each case to enact import-quota legislation.

THE WHOLE foreign trade question is far more serious than is generally realized. Many hundreds of millions of dollars of imports come into the United States every month which cut into sales by American producers. Wage scales in Japan, for instance, are very low, and American companies feel they should have some protection against imports from foreign countries which have cheap labor. American unions are as vocal as they always have been in fighting against competition of this kind from abroad.

THE FEAR, of course, at the State Department is that, if the United States starts to impose a series of tariffs on imports, this will lead to countermeasures against American exports, and an entirely different set of domestic industries will in turn be affected. In fact, on Capitol Hill opposition to the passage of the bill approved by the House Ways and Means Committee will come from certain industries which think their own exports may be the victim of retaliatory quotas.

SKILLFUL NEGOTIATORS can do a great deal to avoid the imposition of quotas that foreign countries resent. Tentative compromises have been reached from time to time in discussing "voluntary" quotas with the Japanese, for instance, but the trouble has been that the State Department here had no potential weapons to rely upon. For, if a foreign country declined to make any concessions, nothing further could really be done about it. With authority delegated to the President, however, by Congress to impose tariffs on a wide variety of articles, the American negotiators will have their hands considerably strengthened. It could happen that useful compromises would result.

Arab Handicrafts

TEL AVIV (AP) — Twenty-four Arab women of the occupied West Bank of Jordan have recently formed a handicraft cooperative — the first such venture to be tried by West Bank women.

The women, all trained in sewing and handicrafts in an Israeli Labor Ministry course, have raised enough funds to rent production quarters, and are negotiating with several companies for orders.

Job Security Dips In Importance

NEW YORK (AP) — There's big money in research and advice, judging from the scores of services that publish millions of words a week for business, unions, professionals and government officials, much of it supposedly confidential.

What effect these private sources of information have on the course of the economy has never been thoroughly measured, but it must be great indeed. Some subscribers happily pay thousands of dollars a year for two pages a week of mimeographed advice.

The chief goal of both writer and reader is to get a fix on the future so that plans can be made—spending, investment, production, personnel—presumably with a lot more success than the competition. And while some operations consist of one man, one room, one offset machine, others are huge operations.

The Bureau of National Affairs, Inc., for example, publishes 3 dailies, 10 weeklies and several monthlies, primarily on legal, labor and economic news, mostly from Washington.

Recently the bureau, which is a private, profit-seeking business, told subscribers that American companies are continuing to experience a rising rate of employee turnover, especially among females and the younger half of the work force.

Management personnel, it said, has a lower turnover rate than nonmanagement workers, and production employees have higher rates of job changes than office workers and sales personnel.

One reason for mobility, the bureau states, is that job security is falling in importance for many people. It still ranks high among production workers, but it isn't even a major factor for many other workers.

Meanwhile, the National Industrial Conference Board, a nonprofit education and research organization largely supported by business, is concerned that the Vietnam peace dividend is already being spent or is budgeted.

The dividend, nevertheless, will be substantial, according to a study by Dr. Michael Levy, its director of economy policy research, amounting to perhaps $20 billion to $24 billion.

About one-fifth of the dividend is expected to be snared by the "ratchet effect," which Levy says has followed each of the nation's seven previous armed conflicts. It means that while defense spending declines after cessation of fighting, it never returns to its prewar level. About one-eighth of the potential dividend is likely to be absorbed at first by U.S. commitments for pacification and reconstruction inside Vietnam, says Levy, leaving at most two-thirds of the dividend available for domestic civilian benefits.

Are You Too Anonymous?

NEW YORK (AP) — "Dear Poor Man's Philosopher: 'Recently you wrote about prestige symbols that tell a man he's a success. But anybody can tell when he's ahead.'

"What a man needs to know about are the signs that tell him he's slipping. Can you point out a few?"

"INSECURE."

Certainly, sir, glad to oblige. Your status is deflating and your prestige is at the vanishing point.

The FBI places you eleventh on its ten most-wanted list of fugitives.

Nobody likes to sit at the stool next to you in a diner because when you eat soup you make too many sound effects.

You are afraid to wear one of the new four-inch wide neckties to work for fear the boss might think you are becoming senile.

Whenever you try to tell your psychiatrist why you hated your father and mother as a child, he either stifles a yawn or doodles on a pad with his pencil.

One of your shoelaces is broken, and you tied it back together instead of buying a new pair.

As soon as you arrive at a cocktail party, a dozen people start to leave.

Your teen-age babysitter not only thinks you are a creep but a square creep—the very worst kind.

If you have a secretary, she is the worst speller—and has the poorest looking legs—of any in the office.

When you open your wallet, three generations of moths fly out.

You can't start up a game of touch football, because nobody in the neighborhood who knows you wants to touch you or be touched by you.

When you congratulate the minister on his Sunday sermon, he mistakes you for another member of the congregation.

All the members of the family except your wife call you "stupid." She prefers, even in public, to refer to you as "meat-head."

You are turned down for membership by three chapters of Alcoholics Anonymous—because you are too anonymous.

When you go fishing and start to bait the hook, the worm turns, snarls, and tries to bite your finger.

Yep, if these things are true of you, your prestige is so low you'd better drop out of the rat race. With your status, you'll be lucky if they let you enter a mouse crawl.

Newlyweds In Marine Corps

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Nathan H. Noe and his wife Kathleen said "I do" again Friday and became privates in the Marine Corps.

"After a lot of thought, we decided that it was either enlist or go to school," Nathan said.

By enlisting, added Nathan, 21, "we can go to school and get paid for it. We also can take advantage of the GI bill."

Kathleen, 18, will be assigned a duty station after her recruit training at Parris Island.

When A Baby Lacks Gamma Globulin

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, 22 months old, has low gamma globulin and the doctor said he would have to have four injections four to six weeks apart. Could you explain gamma globulin?

Is this treatment effective for life or will he require more injections in the future? He is subject to frequent high fevers, sore throats, and convulsions.

— Mrs. G.R.L.

Our blood — including a baby's — is a complex substance, and contains, among other things, some proteins called globulins.

These are labelled with Greek-letter prefixes, alpha, beta, and gamma, and have a great deal to do with resistance to infection and the establishment of immunity to many things.

Before birth, the infant creates his own alpha and beta globulins but is dependent on the mother for his gamma globulin. After birth, he begins to make his own, but sometimes a baby does not get enough from the mother, and thus is born with a shortage. Or some do not produce enough.

This condition is called agammaglobulinemia (absence of g.g.) or hypogammaglobulinemia (reduced amount).

Thus these youngsters lack full ability to fight off infections, accounting for the fevers, sore throats, and convulsions in your baby's case.

Giving gamma globulin by injection raises the amount in the blood and substantially increases resistance to infection.

Eventually many of these youngsters start producing more gamma globulin of their own. The length of time over which injections are given depends on how soon and how effectively this self-production develops.

Gamma globulin is effective in resistance to most of the bothersome infections caused by viruses as well as some caused by bacteria. In some instances, later in life, gamma globulin is given when one is known to have been exposed to certain diseases — measles, hepatitis, and others — to prevent the disease from being as severe as otherwise it would be.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If there is a mentally retarded child in a family, is it hereditary? Our son goes with a girl whose twin sister is retarded. So is it or isn't it? — Mrs. H.T.

Some retardation is hereditary; much of it is not but is caused by infection, injury, or some influence that occurred before birth — the so-called "birth defects" which result from illness of the mother, or some other factor, while the fetus is developing. (Birth defects from German measles are an example.)

In the case of twins, one retarded and one not, I would venture the opinion that the cause is not hereditary.

"Bad Breath Can Be Corrected" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet explaining the causes and cure of bad breath. For a copy write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim

A Reporter's Best Friend—

A newsmen (or woman as the case may be) is only as good as his sources, or so the old saying goes, and a number of newsmen have gone to jail rather than reveal their sources.

In my case, I'm not sure about the jail cell. But to reveal my sources might get me in all kinds of trouble. A frequent question from casual acquaintances is: "My goodness, where do you get all that information?" My best source is not the local stool pigeon or the kingpin of the Big Spring underworld — she's my mother.

NOW, SHE'S not my only source, but she's a very good one, now that I've just about got her trained. I remember one morning she called me at work and asked "What's going on out east of town on the IS 20 overpass?" I said "I'll bite, what's going on?" Then she told me sirens were wailing, lights were flashing and people were gathered around a big truck hanging half off the bridge.

SOUNDED LIKE a possible news story to me, so I called the police to ask about it. They were astounded. They had received the report only minutes before that a semi-trailer had jack-knifed in the middle of the bridge, jumped the guard railing and gone down the side of the overpass.

Another time, I spent most of my lunch hour trying to find out what happened to a city vehicle pulling a trailer full of gravel. The end result was an accident which hurt the driver, but what caused the accident, or even what exactly happened at the time of the accident, were all unknown factors. Police were busy trying to get their information, and my boss was waiting on my story so the entire paper could go to press.

FINALLY, I managed to get a speculation from an officer that the load of gravel in the truck had shifted, causing the driver to lose control. When I finally got home to lunch, I was telling my parents about the incident.

"Your father was just telling me about it," Mom said. "He was right behind the trailer when the gravel shifted to the back. He helped pull the driver out and then called the police." I should have known to call my mother and ask her about the accident.

AND JUST recently, after Hurricane Celia hit Corpus Christi, Mom called and said: "Did you know two women who rode out the hurricane in Corpus Christi just came into town?" I think the reporter drove in the driveway right behind the two women, who really had just driven into town.

The moral of this tale? Unless you want it in the paper, don't tell my mother.

For Pure Adventure On The Road—

PALERMO — As a distinguished student of European driving habits and their effect on the human heart, I wish to make a statement. Of all the peoples I have studied so far, there are none to compare with the Sicilian drivers. One only has to be on the winding roads of this beautiful country a few hours to understand why so many Sicilians left the island and came to America.

TO COMPREHEND the problems facing a driver in Sicily, one must first take note of what can be found on the Sicilian highway during the course of a day's drive. There are, and not necessarily in this order, four-cylinder Fiat, eight-cylinder Ferraris, 12-cylinder Alfa Romeos, hay trucks, gasoline trucks, motorcycles, motor scooters, bicycles, horse-drawn wagons, donkey carts, hand-drawn carts, dogs, goats, sheep, chickens, children, fishermen, members of the clergy, carabinieri and highway bandits.

THE TRADITIONAL omerta, or conspiracy of silence that Sicilians are known for, does not apply to anything that happens on the road. When one Sicilian passes another, he will shout at him that he is a fool, an idiot and his mother was a goat and, if really angered, that his father was a policeman.

The man passed will retort with words of equal passion, and will, if the wind is right, spit at the other car. Since Sicilians must use their hands when making expressive statements, neither driver has his hands on the wheel when yelling at the other.

THE ONLY PLACE one Sicilian will pass another Sicilian is on a curve. Occasionally a car or truck will be coming the other way, and then the driver faces what is known in Sicily as "the moment of truth." If he swerves to avoid the oncoming car, he will be considered a coward, and his whole family will be in disgrace. He must force the other car to swerve.

The one thing that can slow up a Sicilian driver is a donkey cart. All the donkey carts in Sicily are beautifully painted with pictures of knights in armor and scenes of great battles. Drivers of donkey carts get most of their sleep on the roads of Sicily and the donkeys seem to also.

A DONKEY CART can be found on any side of a Sicilian road, going in any direction. Although the carts themselves only take up one lane, the hay the carts carry is purposely laid horizontally across them, taking up two or sometimes three lanes, thus making it impossible for anyone to see what is happening up ahead.

Donkey drivers are used to the sound of automobile horns and can rarely be waked up by one. The best thing you can do when you're caught behind a donkey cart is to relax and enjoy the painted pictures.

IT IS AN ACCEPTED fact that when a Sicilian car is approaching a village, the driver speeds up and presses his hand on the horn as hard as he can. But instead of frightening the villagers, it has exactly the opposite effect. Children rush out of their houses at the sound of a horn and start playing in the streets, dogs start minding sheep rush into town to find out what is going on and chickens start crossing the road to get to the other side.

I can't tell you how it is possible for a car to get through a village without hitting anything since I've always had my eyes closed when I've gone through one.

Will We Have To Fight Our Allies?

WASHINGTON — "Let's face it," said the general. "Of course we've got to consider the possibility that our men may have to fight their way out of Vietnam."

It was weirdly frightening. The general was not referring to any last-ditch battles with the Communist enemy, but to the unthinkable — the ugly chance that American troops may find their way home impeded by the South Vietnamese ally. What made it scarier was that the general is one of those officially charged with thinking this unthinkable thought and, shockingly, drawing up plans to meet its eventuality.

IN SHORT, the American military at the top level has now been forced to take cognizance of worsening relations between Americans in Vietnam and their native hosts. Good will between the allies has always been superficial, but tension has increased since President Nixon began a phased withdrawal of U. S. troops, and in recent weeks there have been attacks on Americans, not only by Vietnamese civilians but by members of the Vietnamese military forces.

INCIDENTS OF violence, according to the Pentagon, have increased 600 per cent since January of this year. Most disturbing is the involvement of Vietnamese GI's in such incidents and the tendency of their superiors and of civilian authorities to ignore them. Indeed, the American Embassy last month officially warned Americans not to travel alone in Saigon.

As a result, the Pentagon has felt duty-bound to come up with a secret plan to protect both U.S. troops bound for home and those remaining behind. "We can't believe there'll be trouble," says the general. "But we have to be ready if there is."

PRESIDENT NIXON, it is said, is confident that phased withdrawal can be accomplished without serious clashes between host and guest. But he is disturbed by the increasing irritability and intransigence of Vietnam's President Thieu and Vice President Ky on the troop withdrawal issue.

Both have publicly suggested the United States is "deserting" the South Vietnamese after promising to win the war for them. Although his utterances on the subject have been less vigorous than those of General Ky, President Thieu is reported to have encouraged Vietnamese newsmen to criticize the withdrawal.

NIXON OF COURSE anticipated the problem. Without even hinting at trouble between U. S. troops and their allies, he has met the demands for immediate withdrawal of all American forces by noting the difficulties such precipitous action would present. In that respect, he has reflected the view point of President Kennedy as long ago as 1963.

At that time, the U. S. had only 16,000 "military advisers" in Vietnam. But the record shows that when Kennedy was under pressure to recall them, he replied with some irritation, "How do we get them out? People don't realize it takes time and careful planning to do something like that." Richard Nixon inherited an American force of 450,000 men, fighting a full-scale war, in Vietnam.

NOW THE problem Kennedy foresaw, with typical clear-eyed realism, is in Nixon's lap. It is a much bigger problem because there are still many more than 16,000 American troops in Vietnam, and Nixon's policy of a phased withdrawal has put Vietnamese backs up. It is a bigger problem — and if that Pentagon general knows what he's talking about, it could become a dangerous problem.

Offers Women 'Both Worlds'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., who says he wants to give women the best of both worlds, is leading an attack against the House version of a constitutional amendment to guarantee women equal rights with men.

The North Carolina Democrat, considered one of the Senate experts on the Constitution, has no quarrel with the portion of the House-passed amendment that invalidates laws discriminating against women.

But he plans to introduce a substitute that also would retain laws designed to protect women. This provision, for example, would continue to exempt the fairer sex from the draft.

Bride-Elect Is Honored At Slaton

Miss Sandra Ivie was honored Sunday with a miscellaneous bridal shower at Slaton in the home of Mrs. R. L. Smith. Corsages were presented to Miss Ivie, her mother, Mrs. O. H. Ivie, and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Leo Massey. The honoree and Bobby Massey will be married Aug. 29 in the 14th and Main Church of Christ.

The future bride's chosen colors were carried out in a pink and green floral centerpiece, while milk glass and silver appointments completed the setting.

Miss Nancy Ivie presided at the guest registry, and Mrs. James Massey served refreshments.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Frank Massey of Shamrock, the prospective bridegroom's grandmother; and his aunt, Mrs. Ivan Turner of Amarillo.

Heart Association Plans Assembly

A luncheon meeting of the local board of directors of the American Heart Association was held Tuesday at Holiday Inn to hear Dr. J. W. White, president, review a report of the AHA annual meeting and give a treasurer's report. He announced the annual assembly will be in Dallas Sept. 18-20. Local delegates will be Dr. White and Miss Bo Bowen.

Appointed as committee chairmen were Miss Bo Bowen, public education; Dr. R. S. Griffin, professional education; Mrs. Max Coffee, publicity; Dr. C. A. Aagesen, community service; and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pickle, memorials.

A volunteer leadership conference will be at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday in the Holiday Inn Restaurant conducted by Marvin Roberts, area representative of District 2. THA. On the board of directors are Dr. White, Dr. Griffin, Dr. Aagesen, Mrs. Bill M. Sheppard, Mrs. Coffee and Miss Bowen.

A LOVELIER YOU Cover Thin Figure With Flattering Style

By MARY SUE MILLER

When a teen needs to gain weight, she first must upgrade her eating habits. That means an intake of 3000 calories a day, allotted to a proper balance of foods. While awaiting results, the trick is to make an ally of fashion.

Clothes can work wonders to plump a reedy figure. And the variety of styles always allows for a just-right choice. The main principles follow. Wear

- Skirts with moderate fullness, hemmed to just cover knee or to top calf.
- Blouses and bodices with such horizontal detailing as a yoke; with short verticals like tucks from shoulder seams.
- Jackets, easy fit, very short or very long.

- Sweaters, straight cardigans and loose pulis; never snug.
- Pants, roomy but not floppy leglines.
- Dresses with round necks, fullish sleeves, neat belts, flared skirts.
- Coats, princess line or side-wrapped.
- Fabrics, crisp or bodied; avoid clings.
- Colors, light and bright shades; unrelieved darks cut sizes; bold patterns.

Any objections you may offer have been anticipated. Perhaps you think clothing colors should flatter your face. Well, in this instance, it is wiser to use color to enhance your figure and let makeup take care of your face. Or maybe you are mad for slinky jersey. Well, you'd be mad to wear it; go for the "rich peasant" look and all those gorgeous, bulky materials that go with it.

You can't really object to a longer skirt. No, you can't, it's your very own thing.

YOUR GAIN

Are you too, too thin? And you never can gain an ounce? Send for my leaflet, "Your Gain." It shows you how to gain a pound a week by eating the right foods, working with spot-increasing routines and having fun. Plus tips on your most flattering clothes. For your copy, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Mary Sue Miller in care of the Big Spring Herald and 15 cents in coin.

Eastern Star Members Observe Founder's Day

Mrs. Orbin Daily, worthy matron, presided at the Tuesday meeting of Big Spring Chapter 67, Order of Eastern Star, in the Masonic Temple, and Orbin Daily, worthy patron, gave a program on Rob Morris, founder of the OES.

The program is given annually in August to commemorate the founder's birthday, Aug. 31. He founded the OES before the Revolutionary War to provide companionship and mutual protection for women while the men were away. He also intended the OES to be an organization in which both the men and women could join in fellowship, as most organizations were limited to men only. The altar was draped in memory of Mrs. Bessie T. Tomlinson, past grand matron of Texas. Grand officers introduced were Mrs. Steve Baker and C. R. McClenney, both on the Veterans Administration Hospital Volunteer Service committee. Master masons will be honored with a salad supper at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Masonic Temple.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with pink organza and centered with a treasure chest filled with flowers. Serving were Mrs. G. C. Graves, Mrs. George Hall, Mrs. Willie Pyle, Mrs. Stanley Ballou, Mrs. Robert Middleton, Mrs. Elmer Boatler, and Mrs. Delmar Martin. The next meeting will be Sept. 1.

Slender Benders Planning Bazaar

Mrs. Bill Fryrear and Mrs. Tommy McFarland won the TOPS Slender Benders weekly basket of fruit at the Tuesday meeting in Midway School. Nine members reported over a seven pound loss. Following the business meeting members worked on items for their December bazaar.

Dear Heloise:
My father was going to hang a mirror in our front hall. Since we have wallpaper, he did not want to put holes in it, so he took a razor blade and cut a small "door" out of the paper.

Instead of completely removing that square of paper, just cut it on three sides and gently turn it down. Then when you no longer want the mirror (or picture) in that particular spot, change it and you've only got to lift your wallpaper tab and glue it back in place. . . . Libby Kobert, Age 10

Dear Heloise:
I made a huge "night cap" of nylon net with elastic in the hem and slipped it over my dishwasher basket.

Now water pressure doesn't

Dear Heloise:
I do quite a bit of typing in my work. Quite often my fingers get cold — in the winter because of the weather and in the summer because of the air-conditioning. Have you ever tried to type with cold hands? It's almost next to impossible.

I used to try warming them under my sweater, or the collar or pockets of my dress, but now I have found a much quicker way.

I run the hot water faucet until the water gets fairly hot, then put my hands under it. Warms them beautifully in a hurry. . . . Ruth C.

Church Women To Have Luncheon

Church Women United will hold a covered dish salad luncheon at 12 noon Friday in the First Christian Church, after which new officers will be installed. Women of all faiths are invited to attend.

Dear Heloise:
If you have a folding shopping cart, open it and use it for overnight drying of underwear, etc. Makes a fine drying rack set on newspapers or a towel. And it's easy to set up in an unused corner. . . . Nan Bracker

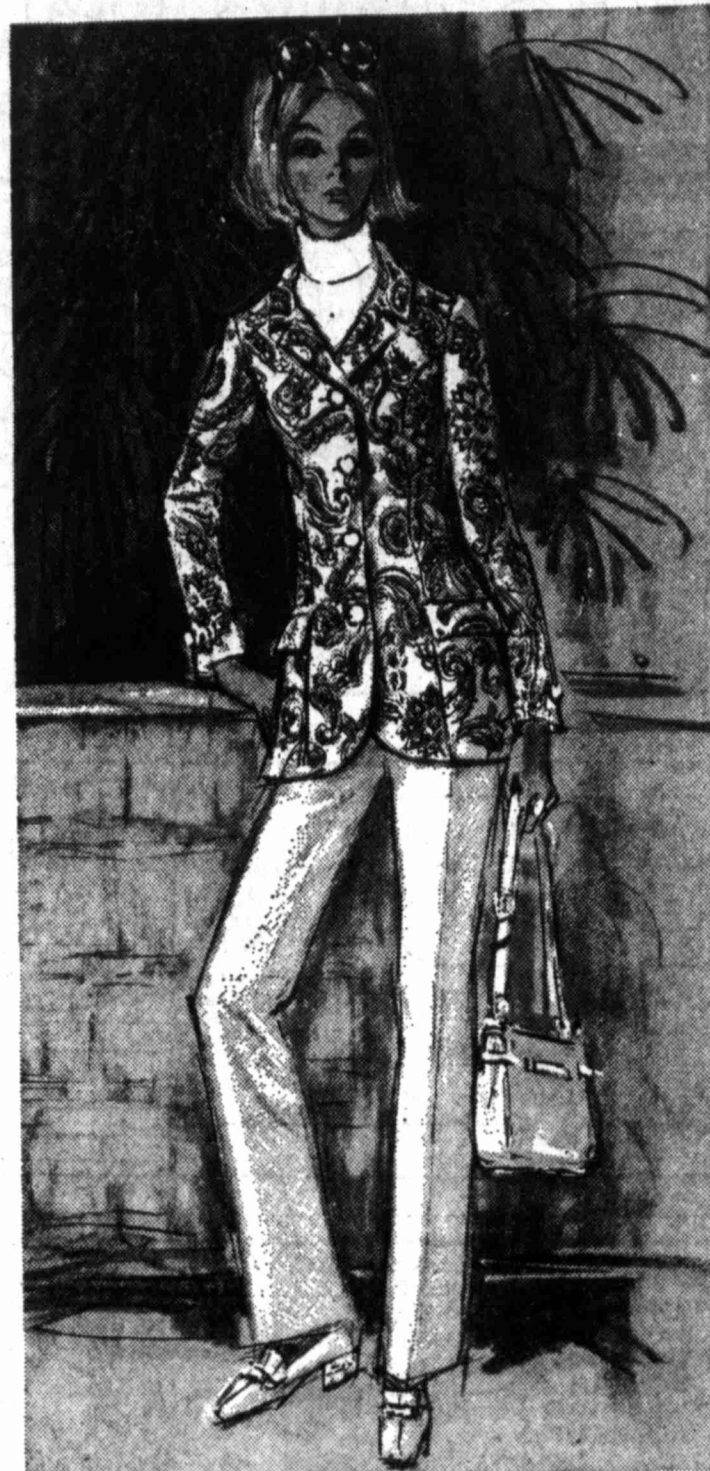

Dear Heloise:
I have found that old-fashioned, round garters make excellent cat collars. They come in three sizes in most dime stores. They're perfectly safe because if the cat gets caught on anything, the collar slips off easily.

It is simple to make an identification tag with your name and phone number by using a laundry marking pen on cloth tape and sewing it to the collar. Bells can also be added.

These garter collars are inexpensive to replace if the kitty does lose one, and you'll have some assurances with the identification tag that the cat might be returned to you if it wanders off. . . . Phyllis Scharff
