DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE TO HELP HARDING

George White, Chairman of National Organization, Says Party Leaders Will Work With President.

Is Pleased That New Administration Has Endorsed Policies Advocated by Former Enemies.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—George White, chairman of the democratic national committee, who is conferring with the democratic leaders in the senate and house on the eve of the new congress, announced today that aside from purely organization activity the efforts of the national committee would be intended to be helpful to President Harding. He added that he was sure the administration "with its manifold and conflicting obligations" would need the help of all.

"I am deeply gratified," said Mr. White, "at the record which has thus far been made by our late political enemies, now chiefs of the nation, in that they have by act endorsed policies of the preceding administration which formerly they so bitterly assailed by words."

"To express the gratitude we renew our pledge to refrain from partisan machinations to harrass and obstruct, and reassert our purpose to aid in every proper effort for the nation's welfare. The minority in congress will help build constructive legislation, but will, of course, resist attempts to destroy good laws simply because they had democratic inception."

Mr. White said that for the time being, activity of the democratic committee would be confined to mobilization of democratic forces, men and women, in every state, adding that the record made in congress would establish the basis for future political contests and that when time came, the democrats would be ready to lay before the voters "an intelligent array of facts."

Resume Drilling in River Area

City Officials May Reduce Own Salaries As Economy Measure

All officials and employes of the city face a possible reduction in wages, according to a city official, who said Saturday that as soon as the council reorganized he intended bringing the matter up.

He further said that he believed reductions could be made in the salaries of the council members themselves and in the pay of some of the heads of departments, probably at a higher rate than those not drawing so much pay.

He called attention to the fact that the policemen were receiving $125 per month as a minimum on a basis of eight hours and said that he thought it probable that there might be a readjustment in these salaries and some readjustment of salaries in the fire department.

A thorough investigation into the wages paid in the city departments will be made, he said, and no definite action would be taken until the matter had been worked out in detail.

This will probably be one of the first important things to come to the attention of the council upon reorganization, which is expected to be perfected Monday.

IMPROVED OIL MARKET HELPS DEVELOPMENT

Ten Wells Being Drilled on Delano Receivership Section and Will Be Completed Soon.

W. Hamilton, active head here of the receivership operations.

Ten wells that have been drilled to the sand depth will now be completed. Mr. Hamilton also announced that the active development campaign outlined and gotten under way before crude oil dropped to the $1.75 quotation would be resumed.

The receivership area came through the flood waters of last week in the Red river with a property loss of less than $200 and without the shut down of a well either in the river bed or south shore area.

Pass Severe Test

Local oil men interested as claimants in the field now under control of the federal receiver and men who have been acquainted with development in the area during the last few months have spoken highly during the last week of the methods used to overcome the flood waters, which during the last few days have gone through a severe test.

With the water three inches higher than at any time since the area was taken over by the receiver, the bridges running out to the wells in the bed of the river have held so that there has been no shut-down of operations, the daily production from the wells being the same as under normal conditions. The half mile levee or "wing dam" constructed along the south water edge in

WILLIAMS IS GUILTY OF MURDER

Thetrial was the first one arising from accusations that Williams caused the killing of eleven negro hands after department of justice agents had started to investigate alleged peonage charges on his farm Feb. 18 last. MINERS AGREE TO MEET WITH OWNERS ON WAGE PROPOSAL

By Associated Press.

LONDON, April 9. — The strike of the coal miners, which threatened to carry with it a general strike of the railway men and transport workers, seems now to be in a fair way of settlement through negotiation.

The dispute throughout has been fruitful of surprises, and another one was sprung tonight when after conferences and interviews between the parties concerned lasting all day long, and when it was supposed that all efforts to move the miners had proved ineffectual, it was suddenly announced that the miners had yielded and that a conference with the coal owners had been convened for Monday to discuss the questions involved, while notices were sent to mining districts urging abstention from any action that would interfere with necessary measures for safety of the mines.

The only explanation yet available as to what inducements were offered to the miners to remove their rooted objection to assenting to steps assuring the safety of the mine owners' property is the somewhat cryptic statement of Frank Hodges, secretary of the miners' union—"The conference was arranged unconditionally."

Whether rumors that the government is willing that the wage question should be adjusted on a national basis may be held to explain the change in the situation is unknown. If, as Mr. Hodges suggests, the government and mine owners have really agreed to an unconditional conference, that nearly would be sufficient to induce the miners to yield the pumping point. In any case the unexpected agreement gives the liveliest hope that the struggle, which would have swept the country will be settled.

Lloyd George Confident.

Arthur Henderson, the labor leader, who is in close touch with all the negotiations, although not personally concerned in today's meetings with Premier Lloyd George, was tonight full of confidence that there will be no general strike Tuesday.

Base Contention on Old Patent Granted to Tribe During Administration of President Van Buren.

By B. N. TIMMONS.

Record News Staff Bureau.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—The suit, threatened for several days by John Taylor, representing the Cherokee tribe of Indians, was filed today in the United States supreme court. Fourteen million acres of land are claimed for the Cherokee tribe. The land includes such cities as Tulsa and Oklahoma City in Oklahoma and Amarillo and Wichita Falls in Texas and practically all of the Burkburnett and a large part of the Osage oil fields.

Taylor claims that the lands belongs to the Cherokees under a government patent issued by President Van Buren. He asks permission to intervene in the Red River case and have his suit settled along with that.

DRAWS LAUGH HERE.

Scant attention was attracted here Saturday among attorneys and operators interested in the boundary litigation to a scream from Washington which conveyed the information that 14,000,000 acres of land in Tennessee, Oklahoma, including practically the entire Burkburnett oil field, was being claimed by the "Cherokee Nation under a grant by President Van Buren, under date of 1838.

Claims in Texas.

"As far as claiming any land in Texas under a grant by the United States at any time," said one local attorney, "any Texas school boy would know better. Under the treaty of annexation by which the Republic of Texas became a part of the United States in 1845, all public domain was distinctly reserved to the state.

Previous to that time the State of Texas had been under various sovereignties—it was independent in 1836—and had never prior to 1845 been a part of the United States. So a president, or any other power of the federal government, could not give

Union Official Relates Recent Deportation

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, April 9.—Deportation of the railroad brotherhood heads from Harrison, Ark., where they were directing a strike on the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad, was described in a signed statement here today by Joseph L. Saxe, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, and one of the deported men.

Saxe in his statement said: "This was not the first attempt to order us out of that city. On March 22, delegates were sent to the city of Harrison where a meeting was held and a committee was appointed to ask us to leave but failed to notify us after coming to the hotel for that purpose.

"On April 5 an attempt was made to gather a mob together at Harrison, this mob being selected by an official of the railroad company who visited several towns along the line. The mob surrounded the hotel and tried to force their way inside but were prevented from doing so by the proprietor of the hotel and a committee was selected to call upon us and notified us that if we would not agree to leave town peaceably that this committee could not speak for the actions of the mob as they had no control over them as they were determined that we leave the state.

"We left the hotel in automobiles unprotected and without an escort with the exception of the two citizens of Harrison, one of whom was a member of one of our organizations and the other a chauffeur employed by a taxicab company."

dians or anyone else that which ...belong to the United States.

"In case the claimaints are simply trying to get the part which the United States and Oklahoma are after, they are not trying to get practically the entire Burkburnett field—for only a small part is involved through the wildest claims advanced by the United States and Oklahoma.

Oklahoma Claims.

"As far as their claim in Oklahoma is concerned, which is said to include the present cities of Tulsa and Oklahoma City, I don't think any more than I do of the claims to Texas land.

"First, they would be hit by the statute of limitations, and on top of that I believe would be estopped from setting up any claim through having stood and watched the development of the land by someone else. Added to this is the fact that the Cherokee nation, as Attorney General Breeding of Oklahoma points out, has no legal status, and it would be almost impossible to bring about concerted action by descendants of the Cherokees to fight for this petition. "All around, it looks pretty weak to me, and I don't see how any one could for a moment give it serious consideration."

EXPECT DECISION MONDAY

Disappointed some weeks ago in their expectation of a decision by the Supreme Court of the United States in the first phase of the Texas-Oklahoma buondary litigation, in which the Federal government is intervenor, attorneys both here and in Oklahoma and Washington are again confident that the decision will be handed down by the court on Monday, which is an opinion date, it was learned Saturday.

Texas attorneys, and attorneys whose clients are claiming under Texas titles continue to be confident, as from the time of the presentation of the case to the court, that the decision will be in their favor. If this so, the case is closed without further litigation.

Phase Now Considered

The phase of the case now to be decided is whether the decision handed down in the Greer county case fixed the southern bank of the stream as the boundary, which the Texans contend that it did not; and, with the Greer county decision not applying, whether the Spanish treaty of 1819 and the subsequent treaties with the Republics of Mexico and Texas, bounded thereon, did not fix the boundary contest again is not the case.

Another strong point in the Texas case was through the statute of limitations, it being pointed out that the middle of the present stream has always been considered the boundary by all parties concerned.

The South Bank

In case the decision on the first phase goes against Texas, and the court holds that the boundary is not the middle of the stream, but on the south bank, a much more complicated question will be raised—and one which will bring the owners of patented lands into the case, in addition to operators in the river bed—the question being where, in fact, the south bank is.

Claims here range from the claim that it is the south bank of the running stream, by the river bed operators, to the claim that it is marked by the south bluff line on the river bed, more than a mile inland in places advanced by the Oklahomans.

Should the Oklahomans be able to substantiate this latter claim, they would take a nice chunk out of the north part of the Northwest extension and would be in a position to rip a mile or two of river bed bounding that part off the south part of Tract No. 1 Childress county, Texas.

KENTUCKIAN WINS SOCIETY AIR DERBY IN SOUTH

The newest thrill staged for the benefit of the bored society folk who flock south the winter to amuse themselves, is the air derby. The first one was staged recently at Bellesir, near Clearwater, Fla. Such famous machines as Spads, Nieutports and De Havilands were entered. Many of the pilots are nationally known, and thousand persons watched the race. Lieut. Victor D. H. Strahm of Bowling Green Ky., won the race, a one-hundred mile event. He drove his De Haviland plane around the 100-mile course in 57 minutes, which means that his average speed was 119.6 miles per hour.

What thrill will be dug up next to while away the hours for the folk who winter in the south? Flying is now a commonplace for society folk themselves, for every daring miss has gone a... in the skies and many of the younger men own planes.

board of trade Monday to discuss the question in dispute between the two parties, and second, the miners federation shall tonight issue notices to the federation's branches, urging the miners to abstain from any action interfering with measures necessary for insuring the safety of the mines or necessitating the use of force by the government."

Negotiations Accepted.

The statement was issued by Mr. Hodges and J. H. Thomas, secretary of the national union of railwaymen, and Dr. Thomas, in an interview said it was the result of negotiations between the railwaymen, transport workers and the government and had been accepted by the miners.

The triple alliance will remain in permanent session during the negotiations in order if necessary to give effect to their previous decisions.

Concerning probability of a settlement, the press association says:

"There is definite hope that the negotiations will proceed smoothly and that not only will active intervention by the railwaymen and transport workers be averted, but that the miners stoppage will be ended. The early return of the pump men is possible."

Throughout the day representatives of the triple alliance continued efforts to bring about negotiations between the miners and the government. After the third interview between a deputation of railwaymen and transport workers with the premier at Downing street, J. H. Thomas and Harry Gosling, leaders of the transport workers, reported that the deputation was going to discuss matters again with the miners, but would not see the premier again until tomorrow.

Minister Confers With King.

At this conference Sir Eric Geddes, Lord Birkinhead, Sir Robert S. Horne, Austen Chamberlain and other members of the government were present. After this conference the prime minister went to Buckingham Palace and had an audience with the king.

During the course of the day, it was reported that ,provided the pumping difficulty could be surmounted the government was not adverse to negotiating the wage question on a national basis, as claimed by the miners. It is not absolutely certain, however, that the government will go that far with respect to wages.

The cabinet today sanctioned measures to insure the safety of the mines and hatches of naval ratings were sent to Wales and Scotland to probable volunteers and pumpers, together with additional troops to aid the civil authorities in maintaining public order and essential national service.

The war office announced that Lieutenant General, the Earl of Cavan, has been appointed to the chief command of the London and Aldershot district.

order to protect 18 producing wells along the south shore, has also served its purpose, the high waters of last week not causing any trouble in the operations of the wells.

Sharp Contrast.

The situation is in contrast with that existing at other high water periods previous to the installing of the flood preventative methods under the receivership plans. In August of last year, following heavy rains, the river bed and south bank areas were covered with water, resulting in a heavy damage to drilling and operation equipment. The production of the area at that time dropped from 6,000 barrels daily to 1,800 barrels and it was several weeks before the production was gotten back to normal.

The completing of additional wells at this time is in line with the policy recently announced by the receiver that he would not actually complete any more wells in the area until the crude oil market improved. Previous to the time crude oil made its series of sensational drops the first of the year three rigs had been kept in operation in the receivership area and an average of three wells were being completed a month.

When the posted price dropped to $1.75 a barrel Mr. Delano held that the completion of additional wells was not justified and the wells were only drilled to the sand depth to be completed later when the market was more favorable.

The oil from the area is again being sold at a premium as is now being done by a majority of local operators and this fact accounts for the resumption of the active drilling campaign in the receivership area.

It has been the policy of the receiver to sell oil where premiums over the posted price could be febtained, instead of selling to the larger companies at the posted price.

TWO NEW LOCATIONS NEAR TEXHOMA STRIKE

Two new locations were made on Friday last on the Netherton ranch in the neighborhood of the new Texhoma well in Archer county.

One of these was made by B. J. Shaw, D. S. Donovan, et al., in the northeast corner of the southwest quarter of S. P. R. R. survey, Abstract 411, and the other by LeCroix Kaiser in the northeast corner of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter of Section 92, American New Tribune Colony lands.

The latter will be a deep cable tool test and as both of these tests are to be drilled by experienced oil men, the result will be watched with interest.

The material for both rigs is now being placed on the ground and with favorable weather conditions drilling should start within ten days or two weeks.

RIGA, Letvia, April 9.—Peasant riots in western Siberia are reported in advices received here from Moscow today. The peasants have revived the so-called green army and have occupied Tobolsk, cutting off the town from the trans-Siberian railroad, the advices say.

The green army recently destroyed nearly 100,000 kilograms of grain requisitioned by soviet agents and destined for cities in central Russia, the advices said, as a consequence there is nothing left to requisition. Beware Your Perfumery, Advice Of Hotel Keepers, for Bell Hops Prowl for It Again This Day

The toilet water and the perfumes whose exotic odor lends enchantment to the guests of various popular hotels is of an effervescent quality according to reports received from numerous hostelries of the city, for the choice Parisian perfumes disappear just the same as do the more common liquids, and the guests say its its bell boys and chamber maids who make way with it. But it is also said by drug stores in the vicinity of some of the hotels that the perfume and toilet water trade has grown to considerable proportions since the Volstead law became effective.

Nor alone are the guests of the hotels complainants, there are chambermaids and bell boys, porters and trash carriers who say it's a hard matter to take care of the empties, and that though thrown in a waste basket or packed carefully away behind the soiled linen hamper still they have to be taken away and what's "good for Thomas Jefferson is good for Mary Ann."

The Grocer Too.

And again comes the complaint from citizens of the town that a certain favorite brand of Vanilla is hard to get. The reason a grocer said was that it contained a fair per cent of alcohol and was being purchased for such use by the dipsomaniacs of the town. He went so far as to say that where he had formerly stored a popular brand of lemon extract in a hidden corner of the store, he now had it in the front window because every now and then whole dozens of bottles disappeared.

But it wasn't till the Billious Bald Headed Beau came on the scene that the real story came to light and its nothing more nor less than that there is a conspiracy on foot to wreck the trade of the honest bootleggers who sell poison ivy at six dollars per and have to take the chance of setting the kitchen afire when they distill Sweet Spirits of Nitre.

Framed Us.

"They framed us, they framed us, good and proper. They make us take all the chances in the world and give the licensed manufacturers of port wine—for that brand of vanilla extract is nothing less, only with more kick—the right to go ahead.

"I'm sick of it. I'm going to start me an extract manufacturing plant. Sell shares, get out prospectus and everything, place a stock of certificate for one share around each bottle of the extract manufactured and get rich, charge the suckers what they'll pay—they'll bite fast enough.

"Listen, did 'you know that one share of stock in the Ford Motor Company purchased in—."

And the Bilious Bald-headed Beau trailed off into incoherence for he espied the shivering shad approaching from an alley entrance with some thing that looked suspiciously like glassware in his breast pocket.

Fads and Fancies

"They come to me with all sorts of fancies. One man the other day wanted me to cut the finger nails on his left hand. His wife had left him and he didn't have the price of a manicure. Another fellow wanted to know if 40 was too old to marry 18 and a frivolous little thing had the nerve to ask me to set her up in the rooming house business, like I'd cut my own throat in any such manner.

Another Thing.

"Another thing, since the hang out for the gang has disappeared, I'm the goat on these two and three dollar loans, 'just till pay day' you know the kind. They come to me now and yes, I let 'em have it. Sure they always pay it back but there's a seeming irristible impulse on their part to go broke every week and month before pay day.

"No., it ain't what it used to be, but the rooms are not so much trouble to keep clean and I believe I'll take it back, its better to have prohibtion and them telling me their troubles than to have the saloons and them sober only occasionally."

Come Again Ye Olden Days When "Diamond Dick" Thrilled Boys

Here's news:

"Secret Service," "Pluck and Luck," "Fame and Fortune" and "Work and Win" are again with the reading populace of the city.

Current issues of these publications were found at one news stand in Wichita Falls and in one only. They deal with handsome heroes, fairy, frivolous and frenzied heroines and relentless enemies.

During the war and after they disappeared from the market but with glaring covers and all are being put on sale again—the stories being reprints from those which had such a vogue when Frank Merriwell was in his prime.

Here's the Joke.

And the joke of the matter is that the kids are not buying them The purchasers are sedate business men who, perhaps, seek a trip to boyhood by the persual of these famous weeklies and recall the time when the bottom of the little dime savings bank was prized open with sister's hat pin that the current issues of these weeklies could be obtained.

"The first one I've seen in years" said Representative B. F. Johnson when shown a copy of "Secret Service" with this caption, "The Bradys and the Chink Smugglers! or the Hurry Call of Canada."

"Sure I used to read them, read them by the stacks, but never was really addicted to Old King Brady. Frank Meriwell was my favorite. what was yours?"

The Old Favorite.

Walter Curlee, a commissioner of the city, admitted that he had a sneaking preference for Nick Carter and G. A. Hawkins of the city detective force, admired Diamond Dick.

Dil you ever read them, chief?" Chief Detective Boyd was asked.

"No, I never did. I've never been able to pull through a detective story in my life. I've been at it a long time and the yarns are so lacking in realism that to me they're insipid and spiritless. Detecting crime is a trade just like laying brick or printing. There's tricks to the trade and these a detective has to know. Some of the mbaterial used in the stories as they have been related to me is good and is used in every day detective work, but measuring tracks and judging a criminal's heighth from the kind of tobacco ash he spills, well—I've put in a life at it, almost, and I can't see it.

"Confidence in the operatives is what spells the success of a detective department. Sources well known and not so well known are where the real information comes from."

Through Demons Paths.

But avast and avaunt—don't pay any attention to real detective stories, go with King Brady, Young King Brady and Alice—isn't the name Alice, into the opium reeking dens of China town; Watch Fred Fearnot with his partner Barney, somebody track the Wall street brokers to their lairs and then make them shed tears of remorse and don't forget that "The Liberty Boys of Seventy-Six" are still holding rendezvoius in chilly Maine caverns.

Hitch on to an old time "thriller" and be in good company for it is known that some of the most famous judges in the country are nickle novel addicts—they cost 7 cents now—that ex-President Wilson occasionally slipped one from his desk drawer and begat Utopian thoughts.

In the Loft.

The delight and thrills from one of these "weeklies" don't come so much from the context but from the environment. To be properly enjoyed, said one who confessed that he had palled with Young Wild West in his youth, one should be in a hay loft, barely enough light shining through the cracks to enable one to read, a coffee or grape leaf cigarette in hand and an anxious mien scanning the horizon, waiting for one to come back from the store with a package of Faultless starch.

Secret Sorrow No Longer Gets Usual "Airing"

Young men with "secret sorrows" and old men with love's vision impaled in their breast are up against it in these days when there's no glittering foot rail to shine that part of the shoe neglected by darky shine boys and no paid by the week car in which they can make known the "secret sorrow" and confide as to what "she says to me," according to the landlady at one of the popular rooming houses in the city.

"I've been a prohibitionist all my life," declared the landlady but I don't know but what I'd like to see saloons back. Formerly when the roomers waxed confidential they told it to the bartender in the early part of the evening and to the judge at the police court next morning, but now I'm it.

BATTERY MEN FOLLOW RULES

"Every storage battery service station should have a certain standard to go by, especially in the examination of battery plates," declares Ed Shepherd, of Shepherd & Foster, USL Service Station representatives for this section. He says:

"The work of the service station man should be divided into a number of definite steps and he should make it a rule to follow these steps implicitly. The man who has a different method for every battery will never be a success. He had better go into some other business.

"In the preliminary examination of plates it would be well to determine first whether they can be used again, or must be discarded. If discarded the positive and negative groups should be cut off and new groups, preferably machine-pasted plates—burned on the plate strap.

"If only some of the plates are to be discarded the battery should be given a preliminary charge before the work of examination proceeds. Fully charged plates are in better condition for handling. In fact, it should be an unalterable rule that the whole battery should be charged even though one cell is in bad condition.

LAD SAVES CHUM FROM DROWNING

Robert, a few days ago, saved 15-year-old Norman Parsel, son of Frank Parsel, of Bucyrus from drowning.

Young Parsel was one of a half dozen young fellows who made some canoes. They were navigating the back waters of the Sandusky river during the high waters when one of the lads gave Parsel's boat a shove just as Parsel stepped into the frail craft.

The canoe shot into deep water, sidewise to the current and capsized.

Seeing Parsel struggling in water over his head, Ebert plunged after him, getting Parsel to shore after considerable difficulty.

Both young men were so exhausted that they had to be pulled out of the water.

OMAHA CLUB FAILS TO SHOW CLASS IN WEIRD GAME AT SPUDDER PARK

With the spectators bundled in overcoats and leaving the stands for the more sheltered portions of left field and the players shivering on the wind-swept field, the Spudders finished in the lead of a 6 to 5 score against the visiting Omaha Western League club Saturday afternoon.

The game was far from being a classic of the national pastime for after the fourth inning, the players were so cold as to make them seem to lose all interest in the game. As in Friday's game, the Omaha club failed to show the class expected of a pennant contending class "A" organization and it is predicted by those who have seen the visitors perform, that Barney Burch will be lucky if his aggregation finishes higher than sixth in the Western League race.

The Spudders lived up to their hitting ability, slamming out the run-getting kind when they were needed and would probably scored another half dozen runs had they tried. Although the visitors made ten hits from Mangum, the hurler Salm obtained from the Pirates, the youngster kept them well scattered and was never in much danger of losing the contest. Leo slammed out a nest double during the game showing Manager Salm that the Spudders had a real slugging pitcher.

Only twice during the contest was the youngster in real danger and that was in the fourth and seventh innings when several hard hit balls got away from the infield and went for hits. Leo issued five passes and struck out like number during the fray.

"Biff" Bischoff, the Spudder's popular little catcher proved to the few local fans gracing the outfield and the grandstand that he was a slugger of no mean ability when he slammed two doubles and a single in four times at bat. One of the two-ply wallops was a fluke but the other two hits were hard hit balls and had the wind been blowing the other direction, might have went for triples or home-runs.

Gilason of the visitors made the first homerun inside the park of the season. His vicious slam through second bounced out of Miller's reach and continued on to the fence. Miller and McElwee both raced for the ball but the fleet-footed second baseman rounded third and beat the ball to the home station by a small margin.

The Spudders scored two in the first inning. Rothfuss first up hit to Gilason and was out at first. Tanner slammed a single through short and went to second on McDonald's single to right. Tanner went to third but Clark was out at second when Clark hit to short. Works singled to right and Clark and Tanner counted. The visitors were cut short by a fast double play McDonald to Clark to Works when they opened the game.

Doubles by Bieschoff and Mangum accounted for the third Spudder score in the second inning. The Omaha club managed to fill the bases with a double, single and walk but Leo Mangum was equal to the occasion and struck out Lingle and Daniels ending the inning.

Mangum went into deep trouble in the fourth, the visitors taking eight games at bat but only scoring two runs. A hit batsman, two singles and a error by Clark paved the way for the duo of counters.

Salm's crew came back in the fifth with two scores and added another in the sixth, the last inning the gamlites were able to count. The seventh and eight were a duplication of the Spudder's fifth and sixth games, the visitors getting two and three. The ninth was uneventful.

Several overthrows and boots were made by both for the visitors and the homelings, Lingle making some poor throws to second and Danny Clark getting a couple getting through him for hits. Although errors marred the game somewhat, brilliantly executed plays were made during the fracas. Lex McDonald perhaps made the most difficult pickup seen on the local diamond this spring jumping back from third and grabbing a hard hit bounder and throwing to first while almost laying on the ground. Miller made a wonderful run into left field for a liner that he grabbed with an extra exertion and Platte made several catches that would have ordinarily gone for hits.

The two clubs play the third and last game of the series this afternoon. Pitcher Burch, former Spudder will probably hurl part of the game.

MERRIMAN WINS GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

PINEHURST, N. C., April 9.—B. P. Merriman of Waterbury, won the north and south amateur golf championship here today, defeating Gardiner White of New York 9 up and 8 to play, in the thirty six hole final round.

Merriman has played the sand greens here better than any other amateur this season and in this match today he seldom failed to get down in two from off the edge of the greens. He rolled his approach shots up close with a putter, whereas White attempted to pitch it to the pin and could not get near the cup. He also pushed a number of putts off the line, failing to calculate the slopes of the greens and the wind.

Glancin' 'Round The Sport World

WITH VAN

"The tallest man ever in organized baseball," is the title given to a pitcher working out with the Galveston Sandcrabs this spring. His name is Dan McGrew and he is said to stand an even seven feet in his stocking tootsies.

This bird McGrew is not only the tallest stringbean in baseball, but is said to be a world beater as a curve artist. His speed is said to rival that of Walter Johnson's. The "tallest" youngster worked 11 innings in games between the Sandcrabs and visiting major league teams this spring and just TWO hits were made from his delivery. What he'll do to the Texas League clubs during the coming campaign would seem to be plenty.

Walter Salm and Barney Burch should come to some sort of an agreement as to Burch's status with the Spudders, now that Barney is here with his newly acquired Omaha Buffaloes. According to Billy Bee of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Salm is credited with saying Burch would not be allowed to wear a Omaha uniform this year unless Barney paid for his release.

Burch sent Pitcher McClelland and Outfielder Hazen to the local club and Billy drew the conclusion that the two players were assigned to the Spudders in payment for Burch's release. However, that is not supposed to be the case.

When Salm saw the story by Billy Bee he immediately went literally up in the air. The Spudder manager was especially displeased because Bee had said Burch refused several offers to sign up with other clubs because Barney wanted to help Salm out when the latter needed pitchers badly last summer.

"Burch signed with me, Salm said, because he would get more money than he would with any of the other clubs who might have offered him a contract. As far as the story that Burch wouldn't have played baseball last year had I not needed pitchers, the fact that I gave $1,500 to San Antonio in January, 1920 for him, is proof enough that he belonged to me and that he did not step into "the intimated breach."

Of all the crop of rookies up in the majors this spring for tryouts, Toporcer, the St. Louis Nationals goggled second baseman and Joe Tierney, the Pirates' young keystone sucker are said to be the best looking of the bunch. Local fans have not had the opportunity to see the youngster with the glasses, but have had a good look at the Pirates' new star. Tierney worked here in both games of the series with the Pittsburg club and while his work at second was not extraordinary, his hitting drew plenty of comment. Joe walloped the ball safely five times out of 10 times at the bat, two of his hits being doubles.

LUCK OF THE GAME.

It's baseball luck, when you need just one hit,
To lead the League, and you try hard for it,
And swing full force upon the leather—just to see
Some rattled youngster reach a wavering mitt
And stab that ball. That's when you try to speak,
And all your voice becomes a gibbering squeak—
You know the words, but couldn't say them if You had ten tongues, and tried to talk a week!
It's baseball luck, when in a furious fray,
You make a scoop, to start a double play,
And the blamed ball strikes on a pebble, then
Hops past your glove and throws the game away!
Then is the time, when, could your heart's desire,
Concerning eloquence be yours, entire,
The language you would use would blight the earth,
Destroy the sun, and set the park on fire!

Getting almost time for a Boston club to win a pennant again. The old world's series doesn't seem natural unless we can hear that Boston bunch sing "Tessie" now and then.

Playing first base at Pittsburgh has been an unpleasant task for a dozen years, and now it is, more than ever, a Grimm reality.

All some people seem to want in this world is an excuse to quarrel.

Something has been wrong with minor league baseball for the past few years. League after league has sprung up, and George Tebeau hasn't had an interest in any of them.

With the Pugs

The fifteen-round bout between Bob Roper, Chicago and Al Roberts, New York, scheduled for April 13, at New York, has been postponed two weeks, owing to the slight illness of Roberts. In the meantime negotiations are under way for Roper to box Bob Martin. St. Louis and Brooklyn want this match. It is possible that Roper will finish his Saginaw fight with Chuck Wiggins before going east.

Joe Welling will box Pete Hartley in New York April 19, and is matched with Rocky Kansas. Bids for the latter match are still open.

George Adams, Chicago bantam weight, after stopping one of Pete Herman's right-handers in New York recently, has returned home. Adams says he got careless with the former champion, and thinks that with another chance he will show that it was a fluke win.

Tommy Walsh, Chicago fight manager, will shortly introduce Bud Dempsey, the Southern bantamweight sensation, to the Chicago boxing fans. Dempsey is anxious to show his wares.

PRESIDENT ROBERTS COMPLETES UMP STAFF

DALLAS, April 9.—President Doak Roberts of the Texas league today announced completion of the umpire staff with the appointment of Hunter Hill, former player and manager of various teams in the circuit.

Paul Sentell, chief of staff, will officiate alone in the opening game at Galveston. The remaining six umpires will appear as follows:

G. A. Schaeffer and Hunter Hill, San Antonio; Harry Kane and Tom Erwin, Wichita Falls; E. L. Goes and Tom Daly, Fort Worth.

The biggest thing that can be done now to spread the gospel of "Wichita Falls" and let the world at large know what an active set of citizens we have here is to win the attendance cup offered to the city, showing the greatest number of people present at the opening game of the Texas League baseball season, declared Ben Neal, secretary of the Kiwanis club Saturday as he mailed notices to fellow Kiwanians advising them of the club luncheon to be held Monday at noon at the Kemp hotel.

He pointed out that in this competition, Wichita Falls carried off second honors last year and can, with concerted effort on the part of the entire citizenship, win the cup this year if all show the proper spirit of patriotism and civic pride. In this, Wichita Falls is competing with cities that have populations ranging from 100,000 to 150,000 and to score the largest attendance all must turn loose from business and help the city by spending a pleasant afternoon watching Wichita Falls take the hide off Dallas in the opening ball game of the season, he said.

Half Holiday

Progress of the effort to obtain a partial half holiday on the afternoon of the opening game to enable all employees of the city, county, business houses and other establishments to attend the game will be reported at the luncheon Monday. This committee, consisting of Carter McGregor, W. S. Curlee and Harry Baum were appointed at a directors meeting held at the office of Dr. M. W. Hoover, president of the Kiwanis club.

They have held conferences with Mayor Cline, the city council, the Chamber of Commerce and with the Retail Merchants Association and feel warranted are hopeful that the committee will report a unanimous vote for the ball game and the attendance cup for Wichita Falls.

Strong Competition

Mr. Neal said that reports show that every city on the circuit is putting every thing they have into an effort to score the record attendance and that we can not expect to win without extraordinary effort.

Temporary stands to care for crowds have been erected at the park and no one need fear that they will be turned away from the gate or even forced to stand, according to Mr. Neal.

Kiwanian Salm and fifteen of his penant contenders will attend the Monday luncheon, according to the announcement mailed to each Kiwanian.

Other features of the program, included in the announcement, under the heading of "other facts" are: Jonette Bonner, chairman; Fred Weeks, speaker of the day; Louis Pink, silent boost (Telegrafo Cigar); Joe Art, attendance prize, (Sterling Silver Belt Buckle); Miss Dean and Miss Roger, vocal entertainment; Drs. Collard, Lowry, Peterson, Coleman and Kiel, grand handers.

An important announcement, concerning Kiwanis activities will be made at the luncheon, the communication said.

The Strand Theater wishes to announce to its patrons, beginning Monday, April 11th, a change in prices: matinees 15 and 25 cents, evenings 20 and 35 cents.—Adv.

VERNON WINS GAME AFTER 13 HARD INNINGS

For the second successive year, the Wicita Falls High school baseball team went into extra innings playing Vernon High school, yesterday's game counting as a loss to the local boys 1 to 0 after thirteen innings of hard play. The feature of the game was the superb hurling of McAbee and Baird, the former striking out 16 of the visitors and the latter 14 of the homelings.

As inning after inning rolled by, the some three hundred spectators waited for either side to break into the scoring column but in vain. Players and spectators reminded each other of the game played last year when the two teams battled for sixteen innings to a 6 to 6 tie, the game being called on account of darkness and wondered if history was to repeat itself. However, in the thirteenth the break came and it favored the visitors. Dalmasco had struck out, Smith singled and was sacrificed to second by Hiatt and scored when Parr lined through second.

JERSEY CITY HAS JUMP FOR CHAMP BATTLE

NEW YORK, April 9.—With the long awaited official announcement today that the Dempsey-Carpentier heavyweight championship bout would be fought in the state of New Jersey on the afternoon of July 2, interest among local ring followers turned to the probable place of the contest and the training plans of the principals. Efforts to obtain a definite statement from Promoter Tex Rickard as to the site of the contest were without success.

He refused to commit himself as to Newark, Atlantic City or Jersey City, the three sites mentioned in his announcement.

He said he had received favorable offers from all three cities and would personally inspect the locations suggested before he would be in a position to make a final decision. It is expected he will devote the coming week to an examination of the plots offered and announce his selection within the next ten days.

Near Population Center.

While there has been nothing official upon which to base the report, it appears to be the general opinion among those who have followed the match negotiations that Jersey City will be the ultimate choice, all conditions and advantages being equal. This is based upon Rickard's repeated assertions that he desired to stage the bout in or as near to New York city as possible owing to the large population from which to draw his patronage. Between Newark and Jersey City there is little choice in either time or travel conditions, but the distance to Atlantic City and the fact that accommodations may be hard to get over the Fourth of July holidays may militate against the seashore resort.

It was this desire to locate the bout close to a large center of population which caused the ultimate turning down of several excellent offers from points in Canada, Maryland and western states. The decision to hold the contest in New Jersey, however, develops several interesting points which are already causing discussion among boxing authorities.

No Decision Permitted.

Consequently, the only way in which Carpentier could win the world's title would be to knock out Dempsey inside the stipulated twelve rounds permitted under the state code, or for the champion to lose his title by a foul. No matter how much Carpentier might batter Dempsey around during the entire twelve rounds, if the latter were on his feet at the close of the thirty-six minutes of actual boxing, he would still be champion from a technical ring standpoint.

As the New Jersey legislature has adjourned and cannot be reconvened except upon call by the governor no changes in the regulations are likely.

While Rickard refused to make any comparison of the fighting ability of the two pugilists, he said he did not think the inability to render an official decision, as would have been the case had the bout been held in New York state, would have the slightest effect on the attendance. He confidently predicted the attendance would be the largest that ever witnessed a championship ring battle.

Many Apply For Seats.

Applications for seats have been accumulating for some weeks without regard to the possible site for the ring, which Rickard attributes to the extraordinary interest aroused in the first real international heavyweight bout in several decades.

ELKS DEFEAT POND'S LAUNDRY

In the first game of the league season the Elks gave the Pond Laundry aggregation a decisive trimming the score being 12 to 0. Judging by the terrific attack and the good pitching staff of the Elk Club outfit, and the practice games played thus far, they are going to be a hard bunch to stop. Mike Jones displayed his usual good form and allowed but 3 scratch hits.

High School and Academy Athletes Compete at Rice

HOUSTON, Tex., April 9.—High school and academy athletes who have accepted invitations to compete in the first annual inter-scholastic track meet of Rice Institute in Houston next Friday and Saturday, may open the eyes of some of their elders and at the same time lay the ground work for startling athletic careers at college in later years. As host to the school boys who will begin arriving in Houston next Thursday, Rice is leaving nothing undone. Head Coach Arbuckle has anticipated all the needs of the youngsters and has arranged a plan and a program that will make next Friday and Saturday banner days in the careers of those who will come.

The Rice meet differs in one large essential point from some of the others that are given in the spring by colleges to schoolboys in that the individual must have equaled certain specifications. Such a stipulation will tend to provide a faster field in all the events, for it weeds out those who have no chance of winning a first, second or third place.

In addition to his duties as head coach at Rice, Phil Arbuckle is manager of the interscholastic department, a department designed to bring Rice Institute and high school boys of Texas in closer touch with one another. While figuring out minimum standard of proficiency for entrance in the events set for the meet. Mr. Arbuckle has put the time for the 100-yard dash at 11 2-5 seconds. As a result all the boys who toe the mark in this event will be boys who have equaled or bettered that time for the century. To qualify in the 220 a boy must have accomplished this dash in 32 seconds.

All Rice Institute's advantage's will be placed at the disposal of the school track teams, and individuals who will be here. The Thursday arrivals will have the benefit of limbering up on the new quarter-mile track and accustoming themselves to the "feel" of the field.

Good Marks Expected.

While it is hardly reasonable to expect of the school athletes as good time or distance as accomplished by collegians, local conditions will go a long ways toward the creation of excellent marks. Instead of having to scatter to the downtown hotels, the visitors will be guests for the nights in excellently appointed dormitories, and will take their meals with the students.

The eligibility rules laid down by Rice include: Entrant shall not have played on any college or university team; he shall not have graduated from any four-year high school course or its equivalent; he shall be doing passing work in at least 10 hours per week; he shall, unless he be entering upon secondary work for the first time, have credit on the school work for the previous term.

The field and track events set for the interscholastic meet are: 100 220 and 440 yard dashes; half-mile run, mile run, 220 low and 120 high hurdles, running high jump, javelin, running broad jump, pole vault, 12 pound shot, throwing 4 1-2-pound discus, relay race, (four men to team).

Much Entertainment.

It will not be all work for the visitors next Thursday. Friday and Saturday, for they will be spectators at interesting athletic events each day of their stay. On the afternoons of the first two days Rice meets Baylor in baseball on Rice Field, and Saturday the Owl track team will engage in a dual meet with Louisiana State University. Coach Arbuckle has worked out a Saturday afternoon program by which the finals in the interscholastic meet will immediately follow the finals in the intercollegiate affair. Such an arrangement means a double-header meet, something not often heard of in this realm of sport.

A nice feature to the Rice meet is that $10 in cash will be rebated to all contestants finishing first and second, the money to apply on their railroad fare to Houston and return. Acceptance of such a rebate will in no way involve the amateur status of the boys.

The prizes to be given by Rice Institute are:

Banner to second team.

Individual medals, gold for first, silver for second, bronze for third, and ribbons for fourth place in each event.

Scoring of points, 5, 3, 2, 1.

Racqueteers Plan to Make Sport Popular

Plans to make tennis the popular sports in Wichita Falls during the coming months and to encourage it as the game in which every one can take a part featured the organization meeting of the Wichita Falls Tennis association held Saturday for the purpose of electing officers.

H. B. Spencer was elected president, M. A. Ellis secretary-treasurer and J. P. Colman, vice-president.

A high school tournament to be played within the next few days was announced immediately with a spring tournament to which every one will be eligible.

Mr. Ellis said that the association is contemplating sending representatives to the state meet at Austin an dto the Southwestern meet when it is held and desires to have as many entrants begin practice at once as possible.

Committees were appointed as follows:

Membership committee—H. S. Rogers, C. O. Gallenkamp and S. H. Rider.

LOCAL GOLF CLUB APPROVES BUYING ADDITIONAL ACREAGE

Enthusiastic aproval for the section of the directors in purchasing the aditional 80-acre tract lying south of the golf course, and the preliminary work done in the building of an 18-hole course, was unanimously voted by the members of the Wichita Falls Golf Club at their annual meeting Saturday night, at which directors for the coming year were elected.

The action taken by the directors and the plans for the future, which includes an increase of the membership to 350, was outlined in a brief talk by A. H. Britain, president of the club.

"I have played on about every golf course between Montana and Chicago, and have nowhere seen more possibilities than in this tract," declared John Paskins, in charge of the work, who discussed the work briefly.

Inspect New Course

Prior to the meeting the members of the club, on invitation of the directors, inspected the new tract at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and all expressed themselves as carried away with the possibilities afforded.

A buffet luncheon was served by the club preceding the meeting.

The directors elected include: A. H. Britain, C. E. McCutcheon, F. T. Couper, Frank Collier, W. E. Norton, W. W. Gardner, T. P. Adams, M. D. Rowe, Horace Robbins, E. G. Hill and A. R. Cotton, the last five being new members of the board.

The directors will meet and elect officers for the year at an early meeting.

Tournament Play.

One of the tightest matches played on the local course during the present tournament was reeled off Saturday when Dud Golding beat A. H. Britain on the nineteenth green in the second flight for the Joe Art cup. This cup goes to the winner of the present tournament.

Three matches in the second flight for the Art cup, which must be won three times to become a permanent possession, were played Saturday. W. E. Norton defeated H. F. Weldon 4 up and 2; John Paskins beat H. L. Hunter 3 up and 2; and Greg Rowe won from Leslie Stringer 1 up.

Ladies Tournament.

Keen interest is being shown in the women's tournament, played for a cup also presented by J. L. Art. Mrs. F. T. Couper, Mrs. G. W. Hampshire, Mrs. H. F. Weldon and Mrs. F. E. Van Wormer are the survivors in this tournament, the next matches being between Mesdames Couper and Hampshire and Weldon and Van Wormer, respectively.

The Caddies.

The qualifying round in the caddies tournament was played Saturday morning and some surprisingly low scores were turned in by these keen followers of the game. Match play will start next Saturday, with the eight making the lowest scores Saturday in the play. The prize list in this tournament is a substantial one.

The following scores were turned in Saturday: Polly Gabert 49; Bill Gabert 51; Eric Gabert 51; Gerald Downing 54; Morris Norton 55; Earl Ritten 55; Earnest Gabert 50; Horace Dowsing 51; John Duke 60; Ralph Walker 45; Lehan Rhine 50; O. C. Moody 55; Tracey Zimmerman 63; John Edwards 51; Albert Johnson 52.

BERGIN SAYS FORD MUST GO PRETTY QUICK

"The Ford will be given away the first of the week" declared Tom Bergin, in charge of the affair, who has just recovered from an illess of a couple of weeks with small pox.

This news is calculated to be pleasing both to the friends of Mr. Bergin who are glad to see him back at his old haunts and also the shareholders of the Ford which is to be given away for the benefit of the starving children's relief fund.

Tom says he is his old self with the exception of some trouble with his eyesight and is sure the future owner of the staple brand of locomotion will be decided the first of the week.

The exact date and time will be given out later.

NEW YORK, April 9.—No further changes were reported in the local raw sugar market today and while the committee made no change from their five cent level for Cuban, cost and freight, equal to 6.02 for centrifugal, uncontrolled sugars are offered in pretty fair volume at 1-4c below.

There was no improvement in demand for refined sugar nor any change in quotations which range from 7.75 to 8.00 for fine granulated. There was only a small volume of business in sugar futures but prices were easier under selling by commission houses promptly by the unsettled feeling in the spot market. Closing prices were 8 to 12 points net lower. Final bids: May, 4.90; July 4.90; September, 4.52.

NEW YORK COFFEE

NEW YORK, April 9.—Yesterday's advances were followed by weakness in the market for coffee futures owing to failure of Brazilian markets to show any increased strength as a result of the reported government buying. Connaly Declares Republican Honeymoon Over and That G. O. P. Faces Biggest Problem of Time

Record News Staff Bureau.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19.—What are the Republicans going to do about the tariff?

That was the question being asked here tonight 36 hours before the special session of Congress convened to whip into legislation the policies of the Harding administration.

Congressmen Reyburn, Connelly, Summers, Box, Lanham, and Buchanan, all of Texas and others of the staunch opponents of a protective tariff were especially interested in the question.

"The Republican honeymoon is over!" said Congressman Connally. "We now shall see whether they are going to attempt to pay their debt to the special interests who raised their immense campaign fund last fall by putting up a tariff wall for the benefit of the manufacturers."

Other Texas members, including Congressman Box, also predicted that if the Republicans put on a tariff such as Chairman Fordney of the Ways and Means committee proposes, the country will rebuke the G. O. P. by returning the Democrats to power.

Republicans Warn Fordney.

Nor were the Democrats the only party to predict that the Republicans could not stand a high protective tariff. Republicans warned Fordney that such a tariff would split the Republican party wide open.

Senator Irvine L. Lenroot, Republican, of Wisconsin, broke in on G. O. P. self-satisfaction with a carefully prepared statement in which he said that he would favor a protective tarif only for the dye industry.

Not content with choking the foundation of Republican self-satisfaction by coming out against a protective tariff on all the commodities manufactured by the interests which raised the Republican campaign fund, Lenroot went further firing a broadside at the United States Steel corporation for keeping up prices.

Problem Difficult.

"The tariff question is more difficult at the present time than at any period in our history," Senator Lenroot said. "Ordinarily when the Republicans came into power and a Republican protective tariff law was to be enacted, there was but one primary consideration in the making of tariff rates, and that was what rates were necessary to maintain an existing industry and establish new ones. The contention within the Republican party was always whether the proposed rates were sufficient or whether they were too high for that purpose, and in attempting to arrive at a conclusion conditions at home and abroad then normal were taken into consideration.

"Today we have a very different situation. There are no normal conditions either at home or abroad. Everything is abnormal and chaotic. Prices are fluctuating, and there is no way of determining differences in cost of prodution of any commodity at home or abroad. In addition in the past there was no difficulty in establishing foreign credits here because the balance of trade was usually gainst us. Today, one of the greatest problems we have is with the balance of trade enormously in our favor to establish foreign credits here so that there may be found a market for our surplus commodities, especially agricultural products.

Credits Impossible.

"If we shall put up tariff bars indiscriminately it would be impossible to establish such credits for there are only two ways of paying for American goods sold abroad; in gold and in goods. Gold cannot be paid to us for we now have about two-thirds of all the available gold in the world. Goods cannot be sent to us, if we shall put substantial tariffs upon all importations. The tariff problem, therefore, is very different today from what it has ever been.

"Upon the one hand we must recognize the certainty that with present tariff rates Europe will soon be able to flood our country with goods produced at starvation wages, as against American standards of labor and living, the highest the world has ever known.

"As against this we must permit the importation of certain commodities if we hope to sell abroad our own surplus of commodities. I believe therefore that in the revision of tariff rates the aim should be not to establish new industries through protective tariffs—with one or two exceptions, like the dye industry—but the rates should only be high enough to maintain existing industries at a labor wage that will maintain American standards of living."

Attacks U. S. Steel.

Senator Lenroot attacked the United States Steel corporation for what he called artificially maintaining prices proportionally higher than the general level.

"This corporation announces that there will be no important reduction and we read in the press that the independent companies which a few weeks ago cut their prices are now restoring them in accord with the policy of the United States Steel corporation," he said.

"Unless the prices of this product shall be lowered to correspond with the general fall of prices there is only one remedy, and that is to establish such tariff rates as will promote such importations as will compel the steel industry to make the same corresponding reduction that every other industry had made and is making."

The attitude of Senator Lenroot and other Republican leaders has given the Democrats hope. They do not believe the country is in any position to stand a protective tariff. Therefore, these Democrats are hoping that out of the complications that have arisen, threatening the harmony of the Republican party, may come a situation that the Democrats can take advantage of. The Underwood tariff bill which would neither accept the Republican doctrine of tariff for protection nor reject the Democrat idea of tariff for revenue only.

Desire Merchant Marine.

The trouble confronting the Republicans, outside of the administrative problems, lies between those who want old-time protection and those who are anxious to sell their surplus manufactured or raw products in world markets. This division was indicated by President Harding in his inaugural address when he stated the desirability of an American merchant marine that could prosper. Democrats who heard the tariff hearings in January and February point out that a great many important industries—among them steel and automobiles—made no appearance in advocacy of a high protective tariff. These and other industries have been planning to get into the markets of South America, Europe and Asia, and they fear that retaliatory measures will be set up in the countries whose markets are promising. These have been threatened by Argentine and other South American countries and Canada. They intend to do their buying in Europe if their raw products are discriminated against.

Those who desire to enter foreign markets in answer to the argument that protection of American industries will keep American labor employed and permit good wages, contend that conditions will be much more favorable for labor by a thriving foreign trade, and that prices of necessaries will not be boosted so high as under a protective tariff.

RAILS UNDER PRESSURE IN HALF SESSION

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The two-hour session of the stock market today calls for no extended comment dealings, failing to nominal proportions. Such changes as occurred were without importance and resulted mainly from week-end covering on short contracts.

Rails of the more acceptable type and several of the prominent industrials and food issues were again under moderate pressure, notably Pennsylvania, which registered a new low record for many years at 32 5-8.

Oils and a few affiliated issues also motors and equipments were relatively firm but the movement was exceedingly contracted, many popular issues remaining unquoted.

The bond market reflected the sluggish course of stocks, and irregular tone prevailing among Liberty issues and most other domestic bonds. International issues were featureless.

Noteworthy features of the weekly clearing house report included an actual decrease of slightly more than $30,000,000 in holdings of members at the federal reserve bank and a contraction of nearly $90,000,000 in net demand deposits. MAN, 97, TEETHING.

AUGUSTA, Me., April 9.—Wm. J. Crane of South China, 12 miles from here, who is 97 years of age, is "teething" for the third time in his life. Healthy, white teeth are gradually working up through the gums, with four teeth already in sight.

Every rural preacher should have a car! This is the subject of an editorial that appeared in a recent issue of a prominent religious publication. It said: "The minister's efficiency is doubled, trebled and even quadrupled by the use of the four-wheeled chariot of the apocalypse. Desert places are beginning to rejice and the wilderness is becoming glad y the herald of the cross in his automobile."

RECEIPTS OF STOCK SMALL AT FT. WORTH

FORT WORTH, April 9.—Receipts of cattle today were small and the trade was not tested as to its tone. Around 1,600 head of cattle and 150 calves were yarded, but of that number close to 900 head were cattle enroute to pastures. The few cars offered for sale were of a mixed sort.

In the hog division prices were quotably unchanged, only 600 head being on offer. No choice hogs arrived, but some of a fairly useful type went at $8.50. Most deals ranged from $8 to $8.40.

Such sales of sheep and lambs as were made were quoted steady, but about half of the offering failed to find an outlet. Receipts amounted to 250 head. Quotations:

North Side's Sewer System Complete May 1

May 1 should see the sewage system on the north side ready for use according to City Engineer Montgomery who said that this portion of the sewer system was practically constructed and the time of its being ready for use depended upon the construction of the sewer outlet which he thought could be completed by May 1.

The system on the south side should be completed by the first of June Mr. Montgomery said provided there were no unlooked for hitches in this work.

A total of fourteen miles of sewer has been laid since work on the system started he said and in March the city completed 4.18 miles, including all sizes. Laterals were placed on the north side, the thirty six inch main was laid and laterals were placed in Floral Heights.

The entire system contemplated embraced twenty five miles of sewage pipe, and is being constructed at a cost of about $700,000.

STEADINESS IS SHOWN ON ENGLISH NEWS

NEW ORLEANS, April 9.—Pronounced steadiness was shown by the cotton market today in face of the unfavorable strike news from England. In the early trading the tendency was to sag gently but at the lowest the more active months were only 6 to 7 points under the close yesterday. For a while Liverpool did more or less selling here and after this ceased shorts went to taking profits and their demand caused a quick recovery and rise which carried the market ten to thirteen points higher than the last quotations of yesterday. The close was at net gain of 1 to 14 points.

Some of the latest steadiness was due to the fear that the cold wave no werossing the country might bring low enough temperatures to the southern portions of the belt to injure cotton already up. Late in the session reported were received from southern Texas stating that very heavy rains during the last few days, amounting to as much as 13 1-2 inches, in some localities, had done considerable damage to young cotton. Some points reported that the crop had been completely wiped out.

N. Y. COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The cotton market was extremely quiet today with traders waiting for further developments in the British labor situation. There was very little selling, however, and toward the close prices advanced on covering and some trade buying.

Th market opened steady at a decline of 3 to 6 points under some further scattering liquidation, but offerings were light enough to suggest that the market had been well liquidated earlier in the week.

Closing prices were at about the best point of the day. Manchester cables said some orders were still being booked for India during the week, although business for forward delivery was restricted by the labor uncertainty.

There were also reports of an improved inquiry cotton yarns in the domestic markets but mill curtailments at Fall River for the week was estimated at 120,000 pieces, which showed no improvement, and print cloths were reported a shade easier.

Reports from the southwest complain of too much rainfall and it is said that replanting will be necessary in some sections of Texas.

Strongest Market is Evident

—Recent reports convince us that there is a decided stiffening of the lumber market and that the trend of prices will be upward in the near future.

—There has been a slight increase already on certain grades of lumber. This with business conditions as we see them lead us to say that the bottom has been reached and that lumber is bound to go up.

FREIGHT RATES HIGHER

—Regardless of what the price may be at the mill, lumber yards are finding it impossible to replace their stock at prevailing prices. Since the inauguration of the new freight rates we cannot deliver lumber to you at the present prices, even though the mill price might remain the same. Capitalize on the situation and buy your lumber out of the stock now on hand. If you are in the market for lumber—contemplate building or making repairs—buy now and save money.

OLDEN DAYS OF PLAINS WILL BE RECALLED IN APPEARANCE OF INDIANS DURING ROUND-UP

Tom L. Burnett, manager of the Round Up, which will be staged here April 28, 29 and 30, will reproduce some of the scenes of his early childhood in connection with the Round Up, with the aid of 75 old-time, full-blood reservation Indians, for whom he has secured permission of government officials to attend the Round Up, according to a Saturday announcement.

In the early days of this section of the country, Mr. Burnett was one of the principle cowboys of the "Four Six ranch, which was owned by his father, S. B. (Burk) Burnett.

This ranch extended from west of Iowa Park to within six miles of Lawton, Okla., and Mr. Burnett remembers many incidents during that time when the Indians befriended him in many ways. His policy was always fair treatment to the Indians and instead of having any trouble with the red men, the Burnetts held the friendship of every Indian in this section of the country.

It will be a great pleasure to Mr. Burnett to entertain the Indians at the Round Up here, he says, and they in turn will, without doubt, take pleasure in entertaining his guests and the patrons of the Round Up. It is considered a foregone conclusion that these Indians, through the friendship they bear for Mr. Burnett, will pull many stunts never seen at other Round Ups, or with any traveling circus or wild west shows. One of these will be a real Buffalo and Indian race, exciting in the extreme and something that has not been produced in this country in years.

The coming of the Indians is the cause of Mr. Burnett securing several head of buffalo, and Guy Shultz of Bliss, Okla., the only cowboy in the world who ever bull-dogged a full grown, wild buffalo, will attempt the feat here at the Round Up. This stunt of Shultz was the sensation that electrified 50,000 spectators at the world's champion contest of cowboy sports staged as the entertaining feature of the Elks National Convention in Chicago last July. Shultz still carries two ugly scars as the result of his encounter with the wild bison, but his courage is not impaired and he will again attempt the feat.

Mr. Burnett is sparing no expense in making the Round-Up this year one of the greatest ever staged in the state, and has secured Ray H. McKinley, assistant manager of the Southwest Exposition and Fat Stock Show and one of the most capable men in the matter of handling big crowds, conventions, pageants, etc., in the state in an advisory capacity, and he will give to Mr. Burnett the benefit of seventeen years experience with the Fat Stock Show and other big events staged in this state.

One feature that will be presented at the Round-Up here is one that places the Wichita Falls Round-Up in a class by itself, the appearance and work of Mrs. Lucille (Mulhall) Burnett, world's champion woman roper who retired from the arena three years ago, and who would not appear in any contest except one in which Mr. Burnett was interested.

The entry of George Weir, of Monument, New Mexico, member of the famous Weir family of ropers, has upset the dope in the calf roping contest and will make it an idteresting one from start to finish.

Although only about half of the entries are yet in there are now entered in the calf roping contest: Eddie Burgis of Shulter, Okla., the famous Indian roper; Fred Beeson of Arkansas City, Kan.; Scout Mash of Tulsa, Okla.; Bright Bagley of Tucumcari, New Mexico; Ed McCarthy of Cheyenne, Wyo.; Tommie Grimes of Hollywood, Calif., and Leonard Stroud of Rockford, Colo., nine of the fastest calf ropers of the entire West, who are sure to make the contest fast and exciting.

DAN ESCAPES FROM GENERAL HOSPITAL

G. Naughnin, 25, who was recently removed from the county jail to the Wichita General hospital, suffering from the effects of mercury poisoning, escaped from the hospital early Sunday morning, according to reports made to the police. Attendants feared that he was wearing no clothing when he escaped, police said.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY A HOME

—One of the fundamental laws of business is to buy when prices are down and to sell when they are high.
—If you fortunately happen to have a little ready money—here is your chance to "cash in" during this temporary financial depression.
—Prices will go no lower. Factories throughout the country are reporting nearer capacity production than for some time—conditions are returning to normal. Furthermore it will take years of redoubled building to meet the shortage in housing. Supply governs demand and the combined two govern price—in a short time when conditions are again normal, your investment will prove to be a most profitable one. In the meantime statistics prove that real estate is regarded as one of the foremost safe investments.
—Unfortunately there are some who find it imperative to sell at a sacrifice and we have a number of such listed.
—We need not dwell with you on the advisability of OWNING YOUR OWN HOME. If you are in the market for a good buy at good terms listed below are a few of our bargains.
—A beautiful new East front house on Buchanan, 5 extra large rooms and breakfast room. This is one of the best built homes of its size in the city. Nicely finished hardwood floors, extra fine bath fixtures with tile floor. Price $10,500. Small cash payment, good terms on balance.
—Huff street home to go at only $8,500. You can't beat it. Corner lot, driveway, double garage. This is without a doubt one of the best locations in the city. Have to hurry if you get a look.
—Nice five room residence in Highland Heights Addition. Never been occupied. Nice location. All built-in features and modern in every respect. $4,500. Small cash payment and good terms.
—Monroe street, 7,500 buys one of the nicest five room homes with extra nice breakfast rooms, in the city. Large living room with fire place, hard wood floors, French doors, all built-in features. This is a real bargain. Let us show you.

AMERICANISM TEACHES RIGHT, HONOR, PURITY OF LIFE AND THOUGHT, M'MURRAY SAYS

"Americanism" was the subject of a ringing, patriotic address by De Witt McMurray, of Dallas, 33rd degree Mason, well known writer and worker in Masonic circles, before a large attendance Saturday at the weekly luncheon of the Shriners at the Kemp hotel. Mr. McMurray was introduced by J. A. Kemp. Throughout his talk the interest with which his remarks was received showed the deep impression that the thoughts made and a tremendous ovation was given the visitor upon the conclusion of his address. H. O. Cravens presided as toastmaster.

A definition of "Americanism" Mr. McMurray said, could be found in the simple words "Patriotism-Plus." The American brand of patriotism teaches right, honor, purity of life and thought, the speaker declared, and the "plus" of the definition is found in the support of the government.

Immigration Dangerous

Some of the dangers of too free immigration were brought out by the speaker. "The United States is truly a melting pot," he declared, "and the growth of the communist and red movement in this country has shown up the dross among the gold." Not that there are not good citizens from among the immigrants" he continued, "for some of the best Americans came to these shores to escape persecution, but it is the ignorant, anarchistic, kind that should be barred."

The fact that congress has recently passed legislation limiting immigration for the next 15 months to 3 percent of the peoples of each nation now in this country was taken as a good sign by Mr. McMurray that the nation is waking up to the dangers.

"A half patriot is worse than an enemy" he declared, "like a half truth is worse than a lie." "The man who goes about always criticising the government without any just cause has about as much patriotism as a jack rabbit" he added.

Advocates Education.

Education of immigrants was advocated by the speaker as the surest way of instilling patriotism into this character. The man who can not read good American English and who does not care enough about the privileges of citizenship to learn enough to understand some of the language should not be granted the right, the speaker said.

Glancing behind him at a large American flag, Mr. McMurray gave a beautiful and expressive exemplification of what the "Star Spangled Banner" stands for. Deference to the inspiration that caused Frances Scott Key to write the song and what the flag has stood for and what it shall stand for as long as true red-blooded Americans live, caused repeated and prolonged applause from the auditors.

"Let it never be said that that grand old flag which has never trailed in dishonor, nor furled in defeat, shall ever float over the "land of the fool and home of the knave," the speaker said.

The Struggle Maintains Liberty.

As it took a struggle to secure liberty, so it takes even more of a struggle to maintain the American government, and the adage that "eternal viligence is the price of liberty" is surely true, was emphasized by the speaker. Mr. McMurray quoted Henry Van Dyke's famous poem, written when his eyes were turned home after a tour of Europe. The theme of the poem was that, although the crumbly castles, dreamy scenes of historical beauty, were good to look upon, America was the only place to live.

"Democracy carried to the extreme is anarchy; centralized government in the extreme means socialism. These things being true, the ideal government rests at a point somewhere between, Mr. McMurray said. The American form, he added, is the acme of human government.

In his closing remarks, Mr. McMurray said: "You ask me what our flag stands for. It is the national emblem of the United States of America, the greatest government that God has ever let be founded, because it was developed in His way. What does it represent? It represents the United States government and its people and it represents God, truth and honor. Masonry teaches patriotism, beneficience, charity, sublime truth and it teaches patriotic instruction from the first to the last."

Shad Shivers As He Croons To Waitress

Huddling a little closer in his overcoat the Shivering Shad spoke to the Winsome Waitress—the Handsome Masher had just gone up the street.

The day was a little bleak for April, it was drizzling rain and an overcoat over a shirt is conductive to warmth, wether it be in the heighth of fashion or not.

They were standing at a local bank corner.

Said the Shad: "I hate this place. It's an abomination, its death and destruction to the coming generation, it pollutes the atmosphere of a freedom gained at the expense of, well——"

"Ain't it so,' said the Winsome Waitress.

Iniquitous Menace

"I tell you," said the Shad, "Its a menace to the community, it is. Take this iniquitious saving account system they're pushing. The wife never gets a spare cent less she puts it in that blankety-blank looking little cast steel book. What chance have I got I'd like to know, me out of a job, too."

"Ain't it so," replied the Winsom Whitress as she pushed her scant skirt below her bare knees.

"Training up bank robbers, that's what that bunch in there's doing. Making pure and innocent little children learn to crack safes, and eevrything, listen——

"I generally uses a hair pin," said the Winsome Waitress.

"Yeah, you got one, but how about me. I don't put nothing in it. I need my money. Bills, too, not just coppers and dimes, bills. Why I liked to of got arrested the other day—borrowed a cold chisel offen a friend of mine to get into it and they asked me what I wanted it for.

"Its this way," said the Shad, "pennies I'll stand for, dimes ain't so bad if there ain't too many of them, but bills, well believe me I sure went to the mat with the missis.'

"How did you get 'em out," asked the Winsome W. with a sparkle of interest in her eyes.

A Cold Chisel.

"First tried tweezers, then asked the 'oman for the key, she didn't have it—keep it right here—" he pointed to the doors of the bank,—"shows they ain't got no confidence in us people; keep the key t hemselves. Finally I got the cold chisel and the cops got me.

"Ain't it a shame," said the Winsome Waitress as she cast a lingering glance at a fur overcoated pilgrim.

"Yeh, its just that. Training up bank robbers, teaching the infants to break safes, capitalistic, hypocrits anyhow.

"Say Winnie, ain't got a quarter round you anywhere, have you?"

MAY THIS SERVE AS WARNING TO FATHERS

COLUMBUS, Ohio., April 9.—Bill "Blank," a student at Ohio State university, rushing into the university jewelry shop, asked the proprietor why his watch wouldn't run.

"Well, I'll tell you," said the jeweler. "It has three small pictures of girls, two long blonde hairs, one brunette hair, not quite so long, a little talcum powder in the differentials, a wee piece of ribbon and the remains of a powder puff."

The jeweler exhibited the lovelorn articles to Bill.

"Gee, I don't know how they got there. I just received the watch from my dad."

Women of the present day demand banking service equal to that maintained for the accommodation of men. The City National Bank of Commerce is favored with the accounts of hundreds of West Texas women who appreciate the careful and courteous service extended to them by this institution.—Adv.

No Greater Love Hath Man Than This, That He Go to Jail for Pal

"No greater love hash any man dan he goesh to shail with a friend," warbled a drunk before Night Chief Humphries Wednesday night.

He had followed the friend who had been arrested in what officers say was a highly intoxicated condition, and made his appeal to Chief Humphries, declaring that jail to him was a haven of refuge with his friend there—he talked of the incomparable bliss of friendship and the ties that abound in it and was promptly put where he had asked to be, in jail—but the Night Chief, the mean thing—

He put the first drunk up stairs in the jail and he ordered the second on the ground floor.

Though the voices are said to have been husky with the kiss of John Barleycorn and the tunes were of no known scale, a Romeo and Juliette balcony scene came on the boards.

"Jawn, Jawn, what they done to you?"

"Jawn, don't you think if we phone Mayor Cline he'll have us let out."

"Don't know him."

"Neisher does I, but we ought to phone him."

John was becoming soberer by this time.

"Whatcher griping about anyway? Got a private room aintchar, got a telephone in room too, aintchar, go phone him."

"Well, I wish I could have nother drink," he warbled, and then perhaps went to sleep.

Training Camps Will Be Opened Early in June

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—The War Department is about to launch a campaign to interest the young men of the United States in the Citizens' Military Training Camps, which will open in July and August in each of the various Corps Areas. Though courses of instruction will be available for persons between the ages of sixteen and forty-five, efforts will be concentrated upon the recruiting of youths from sixteen to nineteen years of age, who will be eligible for training in the so-called "Red" camps, and eventual service in the organized "reserve" of the American forces.

The training camps will be located as follows

First Corps Area—Camp Devens, Mass.

Second Corps Area—Camp Dix, N. J., or Plattsburg, N. Y., or both.

Third Corps Area—Camp Meade, Maryland.

Fourth Corps Area—Camp Jackson, South Carolina.

Fifth Corps Area—Camp Knox, Ky., or Camp Sherman, Ohio, or both.

Sixth Corps Area—Camp Grant, Ill., or Fort Sheridan, Ill., or both.

Ninth Corps Area—Presidio, San Francisco, Cal., and Camp Lewis, Wash.

Under plans worked out by the general staff, the courses of instruction will be divided into three classes, to be known respectively as the Red, White and Blue courses.

The Red Course.

Physically fit male citizens between the ages of sixteen and forty-five of average general intelligence and good moral character, are eligible for the Red course. Those accepted will be given elementary military training, which will include the duties of the private, small arms rifle practice, guard duty, camping and marching, individual cooking, personal hygiene, physical development, discipline and morale.

The object of the Red course is to bring together young men of all types, both native and foreign born, to develop closer national and social unity, to teach the privileges, duties and responsibilities of American citizenship, and to stimulate the interest of the youth of the country in the importance of military training asa benefit to the individual, taking such training and as an asset vital in the problem of national defense.

The White Course.

Any physically fit enlisted man of the Organized Reserves who has passed his nineteenth birthday and is not over forty-five years of age is eligible for admission to the White course. The object of this course is to qualify selected privates of the Organized Reserves as non-commissioned officers, so that they will be capable of training recruits in the duties of privates and in leading them in active service. Graduates of the White course will be eligible to compete for commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps. The course is also intended to provide further military training for civilians who have had the Red course or its equivalent.

The Blue Course.

To the Blue course will be admitted civilians, warrant or non-commissioned officers of the Regular Army, National Guard, or enlisted Reserve Corps who will attain the age of twenty-one years before graduation and who have the required educational qualifications. All candidates must have completed the training prescribed for the Red course and the White course, or the equivalent thereof.

Expenses Paid.

The Government will pay all charges for transportation and subsistence, clothing, equipment, laundry and medical attention, and members of the National Guard, Regular Army or Reserve Corps ordered to the camps will receive pay at the rate authorized by law. Civilians authorized to attend camps will not receive pay.

RECIPTS FOR A DAY.

Shortcake Dough—Sift together two cups of flour—pastry flour is best— a half teaspoon of salt, four level teaspoon butter and a cup of rich milk. Mix, then press the dough into two buttered layer-cake pans and bake in a brisk oven 15 to 20 minutes.

Turn one layer unside down, butter well, cover with a generous layer of the filling, lay on the other layer, butter it, spread with filling and turn over some of the gravy.

Chicken Shortcake—Select young tender boiling chicken, short and thick through, have the sinews drawn from the legs, singe, draw and wash the chicken thoroughly in lukewarm water. Joint the fowl and boil until tender, adding to the water an onion, a stalk of celery and a bunch of herbs.

When tender lift the chicken and remove the meat from the bones, cutting the chicken up coarsely. Put the bones back into the water and cook down one-half. Season, thicken slightly and strain. Put enough of the gravy over the chicken to cover it. The rest is to serve in the gravy boat.

When ready to assemble the cake have the chicken hot and proceed with pineapple slices that have been dipped in egg, then in seasoned crumbs and fried.

Apricot Fluff—One cup cooked apricots, one teaspoon pineapple or other preferred flavoring, two cups whipping cream, one-third cup of powdered sugar. Drain the cooked apricots of all the juice, then mash to a pulp. Whip cream until firm, but not too stiff; add sugar and flavoring, then fold in the apricot pulp. Line sherbet glasses with split lady fingers and fill with mixture; garnish with maraschino cherries. Chill before serving.

SALADS FOR SPRING.

Pour mayonnaise over mixture. Serve on lettuce leaf.

Prune and Apple Salad.—One cup prunes cooked until almost tender, then chopped; one-half cup English walnuts, one-half cup apples diced. Mix with salad or mayonnaise dressing.

Raisin Salad—One-half cup of plumped raisins, two good sized apples, one-half cup nut meats, one stalk celery, one-half cup marshmallows. Pare and core the apples and cut into small strips, chop the celery fine and quarter the marshmallows. Toss all together and serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing.

TASTY SAUCES.

Maple Sauce—Boil two cupfuls of maple syrup until it is thick and pour it over some finely chopped nut meats.

Molasses Sauce—Melt two tablespoons of butter in one cup of molasses; boil slowly for five minutes. Then add one tablespoon of vinegar and two tablespoons of lemon juice.

Our weekly DON'T.—Don't neglect your steering mechanism. A car whose direction can not be controlled is dangerous. While adjusting steering mechanisms it is best to turn wheels to extreme right. Parts are worn less at this position than when straight ahead. Never turn the steering wheel while the car is standing still. This puts severe strain on all steering gear parts and is hard on the tires. Careful drivers will inspect frequently.

Increased railroad passenger fares now in effect have caused many travelers to desert the railroads in favor of motor transportation. A Virginia railroad, 50 miles in length, in asking permission to discontinue its passenger service states that motor travel on improved highways paralleling its line has so seriously affected its passenger traffic that it is no longer profitable.

Convenient location is but one of the many advantages characterizing the service offered to the public by the City National Bank of Commerce. Its modern quarters, complete facilities and efficient organization make possible the utmost promptness and efficiency in the handling of all business entrusted to to the bank.—Adv.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH CORNER NINTH AND BURNETT

A great congregation heard Dr. F. Brown speak at the First Baptist church last night on the "Detective who never lost a trail." He took for his text the scripture: "Be sure your sins will find you out," and brought them face to face with the awful and universal sin. He said that the text showed, not that our sins would be found out, while that is true, but that our sins would find us out. There were three great thoughts impressed. He said sin is personal. That sin was a detective, and it would find us out in our bodies, in our conscience, in our children, in death and in the judgment. The speaker closed by presenting Jesus as the great Delivered from sin. At the close of the service there were 13 additions.

Dr. Brown will speak at 7:45 tonight, and his subject will be "What must I do to be saved?" Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock hour his subject will be "The Glorious Gospel." Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock Dr. Brown will speak to a mass meeting of men only on "Contrary Winds." Dr. Brown is a man of striking personality, with a helpful message. We cordially invite all the pastors and the men of their churches to attend these services. At 7:45 Sunday evening the Subject will be "Self Discovery."

O. L. POWERS, Pastor.

Business Men Shy Away From Government Jobs

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Republican senators engaged in sorting out members of President Harding's cabinet on "patronage plums" are being informed that the administration is encountering considerable difficulty in finding the right kind of men for the places it is seeking to fill.

In the scramble of job-hunters it was stated, there is a plentitude of $1,000 a year men looking for $5,000 a year jobs, but a deplorable scarcity of $10,000 or $5,000 a year men willing to take $5,000 jobs.

The high cost of living and rents have not been conducive to the "dollar-a-year" men who served here during the war, returning for further service under the new administration, much as certain cabinet officers and bureau chiefs would like to persuade some of them to do so.

The department of commerce is but one where Secretary Hoover and his chiefs are finding it a difficult problem to find the right kind of men for jobs which require office holders of ability and experience in the kind of work that must be performed in the right kind of way if the government machinery is not to become clogged with incompetency and ignorance.

In another department two senators, both from a certain western state, sought recently to place a man in a $5,000 job, who proved to be worthy of nothing better than a $1,000 one. They are still trying to persuade the head of that department that he would be an ideal man for the job.

Men of real business ability and unusual attainments are not flocking to Washington for jobs may prove, it was further explained. In the first place, the army of war workers, now returned to their homes, took back with them clear ideas as to the undesirability of overcrowded and profiteering living conditions at the national capital. In the second place apartments are scarce and high and even a $5,000 job is hardly sufficient to meet the high cost of base necessities, not to mention the "flivver" and other perquisites enjoyed "back home."

The happy occasion was a farewell courtesy tendered little Miss Elva McCoy who is leaving for her new home in Duncan, Oklahoma. Bright games indoor and out were enjoyed, with a treat of good things to eat the close.

The Get-Acquainted Party at the Methodist Church Wednesday evening was a success and enjoyed by a large attendance. The music rendered by Mrs. W. T. ROTARY CLUB WAITING FOR TWO MEETINGS

Two dates are occupying the attention of local Rotarians—this week's noon luncheon, April 14, when the directors for the new year will be elected, and the evening meeting of Thursday, April 21, at which time the annual installation of officers will take place, and at which time wives and women folks of the members will be in attendance.

The directors will meet and elect officers on the Tuesday night following the directors meeting, and the names of the new officers will be kept rigidly secret until the Thursday night meeting.

Change This Year.

A change in the selection of the directors will mark this year's meeting.

Formerly the members balloted on the twelve directors of the current board, the six highest being retained as half of the new board. A list of twelve members not members of the board was also submitted, and the six of these receiving the highest number of votes provided the new half of the board.

Hereafter, however, half of the board will be elected annually for a two year term, and will not be eligible to succeed themselves—this being provided in a recently adopted amendment of the constitution designed to secure rotation in office.

Who's Who.

To provide for this years election the six members of the present board who have served longest as directors will retire, the other half being retained for the ensuing year.

I. H. Roberts, president of the club, T. B. Smock, H. H. Bray, H. R. Voelker, Rhea S. Nixon and L. A. French will retire. Horace Robbins, N. F. Grafton, C. H. Reid, Fred T. Couper, John W. Thomas and Dr. A. O. Scharff will remain as directors.

Missionary Work.

Local Rotarians are continuing to evidence the "missionary" spirit which is responsible, to a large degree, in the building up of clubs at various places throughout the Wichita Falls district.

The last trip of this nature came off during the present week, when I. H. Roberts, president of the club, H. H. Bray, vice-president, Horace Robbins and C. C. Kirby, visited with the Childress club. Kirby is the "daddy" of the new club, which is reported on the way to a flourishing existence.

To Go To Vernon.

The next trip will be a visit this week to the newly organized club at Vernon, toward the organization of which the local club gave some assistance. A trip, which would carry a sizable delegation of local Rotarians has been planned for some time, but circumstances have arisen each time which prevented.

Ira Brown is organizing the crowd to take the trip Tuesday, and hopes to have a party of some four or five carloads. Ira says that the party can leave at about 9:30 or 10:00 o'clock Tuesday morning, attend the luncheon, and return in time to attend to business the better part of the afternoon.

Rotrians are emphasizing this "missionary" work, pointing out that as their organization employs no paid organizers this is the only method through which they can "spread the faith."

Bill Bundy.

"In launching any effort for civic betterment, we are lost without the backing and assistance of a live Rotary Club," writes "Bill" Bundy, former member of the local club, and member of the local city council, who is now a real estate operator and mayor at Bentonville.

"Bill" addressed his letter to Ira Brown, secretary of the Wichita Falls Club, asking for copies of the constitution and by-laws and instructions through which a Rotary Club could be organized and a charter secured to remedy this defect at Bentonville.

Quarter Mile Of New Road Ready for Use

The county road between this city and Iowa Park has been opened from the railroad tracks to North Broadway street, according to information Saturday from the office of County Engineer Isbell. The stretch of approximately a quarter of a mile is the first to be opened on the new road.

A new record was established Friday in the laying of the concrete over a 1000 feet being laid by the two mixers during the day.

Approximately two and a quarter miles of the road had been completed Friday night. With favorable weather forecasted and plenty of materials of all kinds, it is expected that a record amount of paving will be completed during the coming week.

Reports at the office of the county engineer show that to date 159 cars of sand, 133 cars of rock and 26 cars of cement have been delivered for the Iowa Park road. Since March 1 $118,000 has been paid out by County Treasurer T. W. McHam on road improvement projects. Of the total, approximately $35,000 represents the county's share of paving that has been done within the city limits of Burkburnett.

Local Matrons Will Entertain Delegates to District Meeting Of Federated Clubs in Homes

Requests for club delegates from certain cities or counties of district have been coming in to the homes committee for the District Federation meeting to be held in Wichita Falls April 25, 26 and 27, and the committee chairman, Mrs. G. D. Anderson, decided that there are probably many others who would be glad to know just which cities and counties would be represented, so that they might know they will have friends or acquaintances as their guests, or at least "friends of friends."

Consequently the list of the 45 counties in the First District, and the 104 clubs which are members of the federation is published this Sunday.

One club woman who had been entertained by the club of a nearby city, on the occasion of a similar club meeting has asked that she be given the delegates of this city, so that she can in a way return the hospitality given her some years ago.

Others who have come to Wichita Falls from other cities in the district are asking for the delegates from their former homes, and they are planning to enjoy this federation meeting doubly, because they will have an opportunity of going over old home friendships and acquaintances and learning the "news."

Special Rates.

Several of the hotels are giving special rates for the entertainment of delegates Several hotels have already volunteered these special rates, which will make it possible for club women of the city who do not have a guest chamber in their homes, or who are living in hotels and apartment houses, to entertain two or more visitors at hotels, with a minimum of expense.

The names of the delegates are not yet available, so the homes will have to be assigned by cities and clubs.

Those volunteering homes are asked to call either Mrs. Anderson, telephone 5140, or Mrs. Newton Maer, telephone 5482.

The list of cities, towns and clubs and also the county in which each is located, follows:

Highway Fund Of County Is Getting Larger

Wichita county has at least one fund which according to T. W. McHam county treasurer, is probably not exceeded by any other county in the state.

The fund, which is known as the highway maintenance fund has been accumualting since July 1817 and according to the April report of County Treasurer McHam now totals $147,700.

The fund is unique in that not a dime of it has ever been expended and it is probable that it will be at least two or three years longer before any considerable part of it will be needed.

The fund represents the county's share of the automobile license fees that have been collected since July 1, 1917. According to state law the funds derived from such a source are only to be used in the upkeep of improved county roads. The county retains 50 per cent of all license fees.

The county has had no improved roads and for that reason the fund has done nothing but accumulate. Last month the interest on the fund amounted to approximately $500. Next month the interest will be greater as the fund will be changed to a local bank with the rate of interest increasing from 5.61 to 7.52 per cent.

It is pointed out by Mr. McHam that the fund is going to mean a large saving to the tax payers of the county in the future. By the time the present road projects in the county are completed and are in need of repair the fund will be so large that the interest received from it and the current additions will be sufficient to maintain the roads. A representative of the state highway department recently complimented county officials on the way the fund had been allowed to accumulate the official stating that a majority of the counties in the state has used the money in such a manner that little real good resulted.

The first expenditure from the fund will be made within a few days to pay the cost of improving the north side bridge. Extensive repairs are being made on the bridge and this will be properly charged to this fund.

According to courthouse officials the state law was passed by the legislature in 1917 restricting the money received by counties from the issuance of automobile licenses, to the maintenance of improved roads, in order to create greater interest in the better roads movement.

It was believed that if counties were forced to accumulate a fund for the maintenance of improved roads that greater interest would be shown in the construction of the roads. In most counties according to state officials the fund has been used for other purposes and they now have no accumulation to maintain improved roads, should they contract them.

Fire Station Occupancy Is Put Off to May

The No. 2 fire station in Floral Heights on Buchanan street will not be ready for occupancy before May 1 according to Fire Chief McClure, who said that some construction errors were delaying the work.

Carpenters finished their part of the work Friday, Chief McClure said and the building is now in the hands of the painters and plasterers who will probably need two weeks on this work.

No announcement has been made by Chief McClure as to the personnel of the new department but it is believed that the crew at this station will be built up around a nucleus of three or four men to be transferred from central and the other stations in the city.

BEER AT $1 A BOTTLE.

Prohibition Commissioner Kramer says "some persons believe" the price of medicinal beer will be a dollar a bottle. Who are the "some persons" who believe it, and is Mr. Kramer one of them? What sense would there be in selling beer at a dollar a bottle to sick people, unless it be "sense" to seek to evade the provisions of the Palmer ruling by putting an exorbitant price upon the beverage and incidentally enriching the brewers or the vendors?

One of the chief charges which the "dry" forces have been accustomed to make is that there is a persistent disposition to evade the law which the "drys" have placed upon the books. Would they therefore copy that persistent disposition by pricing beer so high that the Palmer ruling would become of no effect?

In matters pertaining to prohibition it begins to look as if the lawless can be pretty well determined by finding out whose foot the shoe is pinching. If a legal ruling is a "dry" ruling, it is a sacred ruling and a "wet" is a malefactor. If a legal ruling is a "wet" ruling, it is a scandalous procedure and means may be taken to outwit it.

If this sort of thing keeps up, somebody will be starting a class of Moral Logic for the Sanctified. It might fill a real need at that, and, in addition, serve in part to counter-balance the various organizations now at work for the Moral Uplift of the Sinful.—Baltimore American. (Rep.)

GOOD-BYE, SHAKESPEARE.

Here in Ohio virtuous progression is distinguished by superlative advancement. The cinema fiend has been roped and hog-tied. Henceforth he will bear the brand of approved legislative righteousness. It will not be necessary even further to hobble him. Saddled and straddled by the stern-eyed Conservator of Reform, he is cinched to the limit of endurance and will be quirted and spurred to the corral of further condemnation upon the slightest effort to buck.

No more shall Desdemona die before our sympathetic vision; no more shall Lady Macbeth ease Scotland's King of troubled life; nor shall dark Hamlet do justice to the manes of his murthered and outraged father; no more shall the "Merry Wives of Windsor" tempt us to thoughts of lewd levity; saved are we from contamination with Montague or Capulet! Yea, Shakespeare is shaken. "What," cries an illuminated legislator, "is Shakespeare in comparison with the safety of our boys and girls?" What, indeed!

Wide is the sweep of censorial expurgation. Along with the dangerous Bard of Avon go most of the erstwhile masters who have threatened the morals of the world since vagabond Homer sang of gods and goddesses who wore more smiles and frowns than clothes! It may be that we shall not be permitted to look upon the pictured realism of Solomon's Song. Perchance it will be denied us to observe the pictured idyl of David and Bathsheba. Ah, well, let us hope that Pilgrim's Progress and Charley Chaplin at least may escape the sacerdotal interdicts.

Down at Washington Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts is earning the plaudits of fellow reformers and his salary by laboring for the creation by Congress of an interstate motion picture commission as a substitute for Federal censorship of films. The plan appeals—it means more jobs for the dervishes of devotion to the public weal. The doctor's thirteen points (commandments) may become as famous as former President Wilson's fourteen basic principles.

As Aristophanes might have said, can beat it?—Cincinnati Enquirer (Dem.)

THE RELEASE OF DEBS.

It is good to know that the new Administration is considering the case of Mr. Debs with an open mind and a generous spirit. The permission to the prisoner to travel to Washington on parole was unusual; but the result showed Mr. Debb's word could be trusted. He did not run away.

This leader of a considerable party in America committed a grave crime against the state in the course of the war, for which he was properly convicted, and for which he should serve an adequate sentence—adequate primarily as a warning to all others that they will not be permitted to strike down the Republic by inciting its citizens to disobey laws necessary to its preservation. But there is no question of the altruism of Mr. Debs's aims or of his purity of character. His crime was committed through wrongheadedness rather than through any evilness of heart.

All these considerations are before Mr. Harding and must be given due weight by him as a part of his executive obligation. His authority is absolute and his responsibility correspondingly complete. The length of sentence which a prisoner shall serve is always, in every case and at every moment of a sentence, a matter of executive determination. That is the historic fashion in which an American system of punishment by law is adjusted to individual deserts and the injustice of rigid sentences avoided. Age, ill-health, the degree of moral turpitude involved, are all matters to be considered.

To Mr. Harding, possessing knowledge of all the surrounding facts, the country will be glad to intrust this difficult and highly personal matter of adjusting a sentence to an individual prisoner. If Debs would acknowledge his error the task would not be difficult, but pride often governs human conduct when it should not, and it requires no great knowledge of psychology to perceive why this old man refuses to seem to strike his colors.—New York Tribune (Rep.)

There must be some innate or imputed sanctity in Eugene V. Debs. Otherwise, why is he treated, not as the dangerous criminal he is, but as a persecuted saint, entitled to special privilieges to cheer his temporary imprisonment? From time to time he has been allowed to make his cell an oracle and a soap box. After a few weeks of seclusion, he is invited to Washington by the new Attorney General. He is allowed to doff his prison uniform. That might be humiliating to so venerated a citizen on his travels unguarded. He goes on parole. This irregular proceeding, smacking of the romantic film, is perfectly safe, it is true. He isn't fool enough to try to escape. He doesn't want to escape. An unrepentant enemy of the Government and the laws, he deems himself entitled to be absolved from punishment. As Mr. Daugherty says, "the Debs case stands alone." Why does it stand alone?

Debs was convicted for violation of the Espionage act. He admitted the charges against him. He admitted that he had a fair trial. The United States Supreme Court unanimously affirmed his conviction. In the height of the war, he tried his hardest to induce wage earners to take no part in it, to give no help to their country in its most perilous hour. He tried his hardest to produce among them a solidarity against the successful prosecution of the war by the United States. He extoled certain violators of the Selective Service act as martyrs of labor. So far as his voice was potent and his followers would be influenced by it, he was a frequent and defiant instigator of disloyalty and division. Among other violators of the Espionage act his case stands alone only because he was preeminently active and guilty.

Where it really stands alone is in the oficial tenderness of treatment and coddling of this impenitent criminal. He deserved ten years' imprisonment if any man ever deserved it. What "redeeming circumstances" invoke the sentimental tear for him, solicit for him the clemency that he scorns? Is it that he is sincere? Some of the most famous assassins of rulers were sincere. A fanatic is much more dangerous than a mere shallow, posturing demagogue. This man tried to assassinate the United States Government. Is it for this special service that he receives such special consideration?

Mr. Wilson refused to pardon Debs. Has Debs acquired even a higher merit in some Republican eyes on account of that refusal? If he is pardoned, why should anybody be forced to stay in jail? —New York Times (Ind. Deb.)

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

THE TIP

When I was young and in my prime,
And that is looking back some time,
We did a lot with one thin dime.

How different it is today,
Take one of them to a cafe,
And hear what the gareon will say.

'Twas just today I went to eat
In a cheap joint that's on our street,
The waitress, she was trim and neat.

A dime I offered as a fee
And, really, 'twas a treat to see
The way the lady glared at me.

She tossed it back, all in a huff,
And said: "A waitress' life is tough.
A dime? Where do you get that stuff?"

An important discovery has been made by a New England psychologist. It is to the effect that happiness is really a cinch, if you want to be happy. "Wear diamonds," he says, "and you will be happy. Diamonds have a psychological influence upon your state of mind." It is a simple thing at that and it is queer nobody ever thought of it before. The discovery comes at an opportune time. Never in the history of the world has it been so much in need of happiness as now. People generally seem to be fairly well stocked up with everything else. Maeterlinck's Bluebird may deliver the goods, but bluebirds are scarce. Fortunately, diamonds are not.

DINNER STORIES

"Now then, Johnny," said his teacher, "if your father gave you seven cents and your mother gave you six and your uncle gave you four more, what would you have?"

Johnny wrinkled up his forehead and went into the silence for the space of several minutes.

"Come, come," said the teacher impatiently. "Surely you can solve a simple little problem like that."

"It ain't a simple problem at all," replied the boy. "I can't make up my mind whether I'd have an ice cream soda or go to the movies."

A well-known comedian tells us that the colored "extras" are the most careful considerate people on the lot when it comes to handling their children. A darkey, his wife and pickaninny were working in a comedy. There came a scene where the parents were needed but the baby was "out."

"What'll Ah do with li'l Egbert?" asked the father. "Put him in 'at clothes basket ovah there," said the mother. "Be sure an' don't stand him on his head—he might fret."

At Gilbert Chesterton's debut this prince of paradoxes was outparadoxed by a young lady in the audience who complained to her escort: "Whatever did you mean, he's intellectual I did not expect to understand a thing, and I understand every word of it. You've gone and wasted my whole evening."

Advertising Bill Subject Of Meeting

Discussion of the new advertising bill by B. Frank Johnson, state representative from this district, will be the feature of the regularly weekly luncheon of the Ad club at the luncheon at the Kemp hotel, Wednesday at noon.

Mr. Johnson, who recently returned from Austin, where he was attending the regular session of the legislature made a careful study of the bill and an interesting and educational talk is anticipated.

Members of the Ad club report the principal activities of the Ad club, at present, are being confined to an effort to save Wichita Falls business men money by discouraging every form of fradulent and non-productive advertising and to improve and enhance their knowledge of srstematic and result getting advertising.

The study division of the club will hold their regular weekly meeting Thursday night at the Kemp hotel. This meeting will be conducted by J. L. Duffy. All Ad club members are urged to be present, as the work of the study division is proving helpful to those who are taking advantage of it.

G. H. Wilson Jr., sales manager of the Wichita Mill and Elevator company, has been elected a director of the Ad club to succeed C. S. Dulin, former Wichita Falls newspaper man, who resigned because of leaving the city.

A directors meeting was held Friday evening at the office of W. J. Daugherty, president of the club. Routine business was transacted.

WIFE RETURNS TO FIND LOVE NOTES WRITTEN HUSBAND

The finding of love letters in her home after she had returned here from Oklahoma at her husband's request, resulted in a charge of fornication being preferred against A. C. Pounds Saturday. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $50 by Judge Guy Rogers of the county court at law.

According to the wife's story to county officers, she recently returned here to live with her husband after a period of separation. She states that through letters found in the house, she discovered that during her absence her husband had been living with another woman.

FIFTEEN WILL GO TO OLNEY SCHOOL MEET

The zeal and earnestness with which school students of Wichita Falls have entered into the scholastic as well as the athletic events being conducted in all the schools of the state under the direction of state educational officials is prima facie evidence that the contests are well worth their time and expense, according to teachers in the Wichita Falls city schools who are coaching and assisting the students.

Fifteen pupils from the city schools, selected by eliminating contests, will represent the city schools in the district meet at Olney.

Of these 15 representatives, nine will enter for scholastic honors and six for athletic honors and teachers declare that they feel confident that Wichita Falls will win first place in some of the events, which will entitle the winner to a trip to Austin to compete for all-state honors.

Strict Training.

The members of the track team are being kept on a strict diet and have been trained according to the standards of the foremost universities of the country and are reported in fine fettle for any and all contests.

Joe Bashara and Mortimer Clopton, winners over all comers in the debating contests, have prepared a veritable library of facts concerning both sides of the open and closed shop question, according to teachers, and have been working on this question during every spare moment practically the entire school year.

After defeating every opposing team in the city school on this same question this team lost a debate during February with a team from Oklahoma City.

The students from the Wichita Falls schools will have the honor of representing the city in two events. Sam Bashara, seventh grade student from the Alamo school, will enter the information and spelling contests and Mortimer Clopton, senior high school student, will enter the essay writing contest and with his colleague will take part in the debate.

List of Contestants.

The complete list of pupils who will enter the district interscholastic contests at Olney are: Sam Bashara and Dorothy Reed, junior declaimers; Pierce Langford and Marguerite Miller, senior declaimers; Mortimer Clopton and Joe Bashara, boy debaters; Gwendolin Walters and Bitta Wilson, essay writer; Sam Bashara, junior speller and Harold Anderson, senior speller; Richard Kinley, Lake Wilson, Tom Beatly, Donavon Weldon, Philip Fink, Leo Baldwin, George Sibert and Harold Mackenzey, track team representatives.

COAL PRODUCTION IN TEXAS FALLS OFF IN DECEMBER

Record News Staff Bureau.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 9.—The Geological Survey today announced the coal production in Texas for 1920 by months. The figures were as follows:

January, 188,000; February, 133,000; March, 128,000; April, 146,000; May, 152,000; June, 169,000; July, 175,000; August, 168,000; September, 122,000; October, 138,000; November, 144,000; December, 145,000.

Meter System For Lights Is Being Planned

Pending the report of the engineer making an exhaustive statement as to the present lighting system of the city with a view of placing all the lights on the meter system, work in lighting the residence section of the city is progressing along the original plan of placing fifty lights per month in the most needed sections of the city.

This rate has not been maintained this year, according to Utilities Commissioner Wm. N. Bonner, due to lack of lights and delays in the work, but considerable improvements in the street lighting system has been made and it is the intention to push this work as rapidly as physical conditions will permit.

The policy pursued in this work is not to follow one certain street to completion but to place the lights where they are most needed. Recently three lights were placed on the river bridge and lights have been put in in the Southland and Floral Heights additions.

City to Spend More Money in Next 12 Months

Wichita Falls will probably spend from three to five times as much money this year as they did last, according to Commissioner Wm. N. Bonner.

The money is on hand, however, being obtained from the street paving bonds and the sewerage bonds which have been disposed of.

The paving program is just getting nicely under way, the commissioner said and the sewage system is progressing nicely but is requiring a great deal of money.

That the budget this year will require considerable time to prepare and will not be gone into immediately on reorganization of the city council is Mr. Bonner's belief and he says he believes a policy of making each dollar do the utmost service and a careful watch over expenditures is in order.

The City National Bank of Commerce appreciates the business entrusted to it and endeavors to show this appreciation by the excellence of its service. The bank invites new accounts in the confidence that it can please new patrons just as it has satisfied thousands of old ones.—Adv.

WOMEN FLEE WITH BABIES FROM RAVAGED IRISH TOWN

When the town of Lisburn was sacked in August, 1920, 232 householders, one-third of the population, half of whom were Protestant and half Catholic, were forced to flee from their homes. Roused from sleep by the fires, half clad women snatched up their terrified children and tramped to Belfast in search of shelter. When they arrived in that city, their bare feet were bleeding. They and their families were exhausted.

Lisburn is still in ruins, its business completely stopped. Since August the inhabitants have been living on a fund administered by a non-sectarian, non-political organization in the Ulster capital. That fund is now gone. There are too many other ruined towns in Ireland demanding help for that country to longer support Lisburn.

To supply money to alleviate such acute distress the American committee for relief in Ireland has been formed. It is an organization of American business and professional men started for the purely humanitarian purpose of saving children and women from starvation. It needs $10,240,000 to carry out its program. A campaign for this fund is now in progress under the direction of Captain John F. Lucey. Mr. Hoover's first aide in Belgian relief. Contributions should be sent at once to John F. Pulleyn, treasurer, 1 West 34th street, New York.

School Board Plans Banquet For Teachers

Teachers of the city schools were formally invited to the "get acquainted" banquet planned by the board, when the board members met with the teachers' regular monthly institute Saturday morning at the Senior High school chapel.

The invitation was issued by Judge A. H. Carrigan, president of the school board.

He made a short address complimenting the teachers on the character of discipline found in the school rooms and urged the teachers to cooperate with the board members in their effort to become personally acquainted with the men and women who are employed to mold and develop the character of the city's coming generations.

Two quartettes, composed of men and women teachers, rendered several numbers and Pierce Langford, winner of the city declamation honors, recited his winning declamation.

Short talks also were made by W. W. Brown, business manager of the schools and by E. S. Goodner, newly elected member of the board.

The City National Bank of Commerce has a record for conservative management and for courteous treatment of customers which has been a great factor in obtaining new depositors. The bank welcomes both small and large accounts—Checking or Savings.—Adv.

Wool Problem Bothers Japs, Bureau Hears

Record News Staff Bureau.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Japan has a wool problem just as the United States has according to information received from Tokio by the Department of Commerce.

According to a cablegram from the Consul General at Yokomaha, Japan, the imports of wool into Japan during the year 1920 were approximately 75,000,000 pounds, and it is estimated that half of this amount still remains in storage. During 1919 Japan's imports of wool approximated 56,000,000 pounds, and in 1918, 21,000,000 pounds, which show how abnormally large amounts of manufactured woolen goods.

On account of the abnormal importation last year, the tremendous stocks still on hand, and the financial depression it is estimated that the importations of wool into Japan during 1921 will not be much in excess of 100 percent of the amount for last year. The current demand for wool is 60 percent fine and 30 percent medium.

VARSITY CLUB WANTS TO SELL SHOW TICKETS

Plans for a canvas of the city to sell at least 5,000 tickets to the University Club minstrel, which is to be given on April 24 and 25 for the benefit of the high school athletic fund, were perfected at a meeting of a recently appointed joint committee for the sale of tickets, held at the Chamber of Commerce Saturday afternoon.

Illustrative of the needs of the high school pupils for this fund committee members mentioned the fact that last year high school students were forced to come down on the city streets and solicit funds to cover their expenses.

The boys never failed to get every cent they asked and sometimes, business men realizing their need, the gifts exceeded the request of the athletes, and then failed to cover the entire amount needed, leaving the brunt of expenses on the parents of children, participating in athletic events, one member said.

Declaring this state of affairs uncomplimentary to the city of Wichita Falls, members of the committee unanimously voted to make a thorough canvas of the city in an effort to crowd the theatre to overflowing at each of the four performances to be given in the afternoon and evenings of April 24 and 25.

Ben Neal, member of the committee, reported that Superintendent Lee Clark had granted his permission for boys and girls from the high school to assist in the sale of tickets on two afternoons, after school hours. According to the plan the students will be divided into eight teams, each under a captain from the committee, whose duty will be to visit every man, woman and child in their assigned district.

The committee in charge of the sale of tickets is as follows: E. P. Haney, L. R. Schuerer, Ben Neal, T. O. Payne, R. R. Fisk, W. B. Hamilton, Sid Gaines, Mrs. John Paskins, Mrs. Fred T. Couper, Mrs. L. R. Buchanan, Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, Miss Helen Hood, Mrs. C. Y. Tully, Miss Pat Murphy and Miss Emma Smith.

Economic Conditions Improving Steadily, Says Local Financier

"Conditions are gradually but perceptibly getting better in Wichita Falls and its territory every day," says C. W. Reid, vice president of the City National Bank of Commerce.

"With people here and elsewhere continuing their help in the general situation by liquidating their private affairs, we are getting in good shape everywhere.

"This is also the case with our banking correspondents in other centers, for they are offering to rediscount notes at cheaper rates than has prevailed for some time to come.

Wheat Crop.

"One of the biggest boosts we are due to receive within the next 60 or 90 days is the new money from the wheat crop. The money derived from this marketing of our crops will liquidate the many banks in the district with which local banks do business, and will relieve a strain from the local banks, easing the situation greatly."

"Discussion of this situation reminds me," he continued after a moment, "of a remark, offered, I think, in a spirit of criticism, just the other day.

"On this occasion the speaker remarked if some 20 or 25 men here in Wichita Falls 'paid up' there would be plenty of money to go around for everybody.

"This is perhaps true, but the speaker here overlooked one important thing. It is these 20 or 25 men who bear the whole burden of the business and industrial institutions of Wichita Falls. It is their operations which provide employment for the bulk of our population and whose business provides the wherewithal to meet payrolls.

"Key Men."

"It is the proceeds of these payrolls in turn which allow the grocer, the butcher and the candle-stick maker to continue, and in turn to pay rentals to the property owners. In fact, it is the banking service which local financial institutions give these 'key men' which keeps the wheels going round generally.

"And, in addition to this these men are paying up. They are paying up rapidly. But the banks here, as in the country as a whole, in aiding to bring about liquidation, are doing it in such a way as not to disrupt business, an eventuality which would spell disaster to the entire country, not only to the business men and public generally, but right on down the economic scale to the man who has nothing besides his manual work—the laborer who has no special training as part of his capital. It is something that is of importance to all."

Would Ask Federal Government To Protect Texas Air Routes

Acting on the belief that the early bird has choice worms for breakfast, I. N. Terrill, local geologist and inventor, has started a campaign to organize corporations with the end in view of securing rights to the air routes.

Looking forward to the day when travel by air is as common as railroads are today, Mr. Terrill wants Texas through Governor Neff to take action to protect her state rights from infringement by the national government in the matter of granting privileges of controlling air travel.

He bases the reason for the urgency of immediate action on an article in The Record News under a Washington date line of April 8, which stated that President Harding had "appointed a committee to take up the question of federal regulation of air navigation, air routes and co-operation between various departments on the subject of air matters."

"Uncle Samuel is moving to divide up the air into rights of way and undoubtedly Uncle Sam will give these rights to big corporations just as the rights of way for travel and traffic were given to them and undoubtedly he will override state rights for the benefit of these air routes as he is doing on the land routes."

Wants Special Session.

Governor Neff, has another burden to bear in addition to the West Texas "Secessionists," for Mr. Terrill suggests that the Texans rise up and ask the governor to call a session of the lawmakers at once.

"By proper legislation," the inventor-geologist says, they should divide Texas into properly formed air routes."

"Grade crossings" should be avoided in the designation of these air routes, Mr. Terrill suggests, and adds this duty of elimination of this hazard to the legislature.

None but Texans should be granted patents to the air routes and no residents of any other states should be allowed to own stock in any of the corporations organized to control the rights of way to the air, he advises.

Recall of Governor Neff is advocated by Mr. Terrill if the executive "does not protect the state rights of Texas by control of these air routes."

"If he does not see fit to act on this matter we should recall him and put a governor in his place who will do so," he remarks.

"I am a Yankee,' declares Mr. Terrill, "but being a Democrat I believe in all state rights as reserved in the constitution of the federal states."

Details for Solons.

As to the details of the regulation of traffic such as the setting of a fair price for for the rights of way for air travel, Mr. Terrill is content to let this rest with the legislature.

Recently Mr. Terrill's petition for a patent on his "Cyclorain" machine for engendering rainfall was refused by the commissioner of patents at Washington, D. C.

This was the third time his petition for a patent has been refused.

He intends to take the matter up with the district court at Washington and keep up his fight for recognition.

A small model of the rain maker has been finished in a local tinshop and is an exact duplicate of the proposed machine with the exception of the air blowers, motor driven, which create the cyclonic force which he claims will entice moisture from the fleecy clouds in the sky.

High Powered Automobile Is Full of Danger

That a high-powered automobile in the hands of a wreckless driver is as dangerous an instrument as an automatic pistol in the hands of an insane man was the view expressed recently in Detroit by George A. Walter, secretary of the Detroit police department.

"More seriously needed than additional knowledge about the laws is greater consideration for others," said Mr. Walters. "Motorists who cause death, injury and damage on our streets comprise 5 per cent of the driving population. They can be controlled only by fear of arrest and punishment. For them we have the accident investigation bureau, composed of 20 men who specialize in prosecutions for manslaughter and reckless driving. For them also we have the motorcycle squad and patrolling automobiles for the purpose of arresting men.

Most Are Respectable.

"Unfortunately the majority of violations are respectable citizens. The police took action in connection with 56,000 traffic law violators in 1920 and found the most of them were respectable citizens. Their conduct is an indirect contribution to the success of banditry and it would shock them to be told this fact.

"Haste and thoughtlessness are a dangerous combination and these are employed by the majority of drivers. They have a great deal to do with the fact that 1,000 men, women and children have been killed in Detroit street accidents in the last six years.

"Many drivers crowd the accelerator and forget the brake. When they run down some unfortunate they tell the police how thoughfully they tried to avoid the victim by turning to one side, but did not use the brake.

"The minute a person learns to drive a car he should learn to stop it. There are probably 5,000 women drivers in this city and their faults are not more conspicuous than those of most men. One of the common mistakes of both is making a lefthand turn abruptly and without the slightest notice, completely upsetting all the plans of automobiles that are following. The unheralded lefthand turn is the bugaboo of motordom.

"Then there is the motorist who pre-fers the middle of the road shading always to the left. Just why he wants to use both sides at the same time is one of the unsolved mysteries of traffic bureau annals. His car may be found parked on crosswalks, inconveniencing and endangering pedestrains. He also is usually the one who fails to stop when a street car is receiving or discharging passengers.

NEGRO WILL BE TAKEN TO PEN BY DEPUTIES

Floyd Ray, negro condemned to be hanged here following his conviction on a statutory charge and whose sentence was commuted to life sentence by Governor Neff on the day set for his execution, will be taken to the state penitentiary today, according to information from the sheriff's office.

Following the commuting of the sentence, Ray was taken from the county jail and placed in the jail at Seymour.

It is understood that Ray has since been taken to another jail. Deputy Sheriffs Windham and Sansbury will take the negro to Huntsville.

Spring is here! Winter with all its handicaps to the motorist is behind and can be forgotten. Out in the country Mother Nature is swinging into her spring work, making the trees blossom, the seeds sprout and crops grow. Her beckoning call can not be resisted by the motorist. No season of the year is more invitingly attractive than the immediate thirty days ahead. Hike to the country!

MORAN IN LINE FOR A CHANCE AT CARPENTIER

LONDON, April 9.—Prospects of a match between Georges Carpentier and Frank Moran at the Olympia in London, May 31, were heightened this afternoon when it was announced that there is no hope of the Frenchman meeting Jack Dempsey in New York this year.

Major Arnold Wilson, chief British promoter, in announcing that he had signed up Moran and had offered the Frenchman $100,000 to meet the Pittsburgh battler the night before the Derby race, added:

"I am assured from New York that the Dempsey-Carpenter fight is impossible owing to the attitude of the New York State officials and also because of the huge amount of the purse contemplated. In addition Tex Rickard's option on Carpentier's services expired on April 1."

According to Moran, the Frenchman is willing to meet him as soon as he hears from New York that the option has been given up and that his forfeit which was cabled to New York last week is returned. Moran added:

"Georges has definitely promised me a battle and I am willing to take any end of the purse so long as the fight is staged. From what I know now I will fight Carpentier in London within two months."

The Olympia holds 10,000 persons and Major Wilson claims he will be able to get a $150,000 house.

REVIEW OF OIL DEVELOPMENT IN ADJACENT TERRITORY

WIDELY SEPARATED TESTS CLAIM INTEREST IN SOUTH BEND'S PROVEN TERRITORY

Interest in outside tests in the South Bend district this week is claimed by two widely separated tests.

To the south of the town of South Bend and a short distance from any production, even the small semi-shallow wells, the test of Henry Hobbs et all of Wichita Falls, off the Hale farm is the center of considerable interest with a good oil and gas showing at 2,250 feet.

This rig caught on fire early in the week when the gas was first encountered and burned down.

The well was several days out from control, gassing considerably, according to reports from the field, and spraying oil. The sand has been barely touched and any estimate is of course impossible but from indications at least a fair producer is expected.

Preparations are under way now, it is reported from the field, to rebuild the rig and test out the sand.

Southeast of Scott.

This Hobbs well is over a mile southeast of the Panhandle's 3,200-foot well on the Scott, and is about a couple of thousand feet frou the North-American-Roxana producer on the Boggs.

It is an intermediate sand for this district, being deeper than the Colcord wells to the north and the North American-Roxana wells to the south and not so deep as the Panhandle Scott and the McCluskey 2,500-foot wells, further to the west.

Vanedvort and Seale.

The second strike reported is in the Vandervort & Seale, on the Stovall about a mile north of the Conner well on the Graham, the nearest production on the Clear Fork.

This test is reported as just drilling into an oil sand at 2,090 feet with a fair oil showing and no gas, before some tools were lost in the hole.

The east side of the pool on the McCluskey, opened up by the Hall & Rutherford on the Stovall, is showing increased activity. The Jake Hamon Estate No. 1 on the Stovall, offsetting the Hall & Rutherford on the east, is reported drilling around 900 feet and the Panhandle No. 8 McCluskey on the south side of the pool from the H. & R. is reported drilling around 500 feet, while the No. 9 is rigging up to drill.

The North American-Roxana No. 2 Ford is reported getting ready to drill. This location is just across the property line from the east side of the Conner-McCluskey lease. It is in the extreme north end of the North American-Roxana Ford lease. On the south the No. 1 Ford is reported fishing around 3,200 feet. A hundred-barrel showing was passed up some time ago in this test at the 1,940-foot depth.

Few Completions.

In the confines of the proven pool as outlined at present there is about the usual amount of operations, but with few completions reported for the past week. The Daniger and Emerich No. 2 Graham was reported a 250-barrel completion in the 2,100-foot sand the first of the week.

The Seaboard Oil & Gas, which drilled its No. 1 Graham down to the 2,500-foot sand last week and got a big producer, is reported about ready to drill the No. 2 into the upper sand. The No. 3 on this lease is also drilling.

The Daniger & Robinson No. 1 Graham, just west of the Shamrock producers, is drilling around 800 feet, it is reported.

Daniger and Beardmore and Hirsch, also on the Graham, and in the south part of the pool, is reported still held up with a fishing job around 2,400 feet.

School Ground Test.

The test of Furlow et al on the Lone Star school house grounds is reported drilling around 1,400 feet. This lease joins the Oklahoma Petroleum & Gasoline Co.'s lease on the west.

The Barkley & Crotty No. 1 Dooley is reported drilling around 1,250 feet. The test of Beardmore & Hirsch, also on the Dooley, in the southwest extension of drilling operations from the main pool, is reported drilling around 2,100 feet.

The W. R. Shankle test is reported still shut down around 1,970 feet.

On the Shamrock's Graham "A" lease the No. 6 is reported drilling around 1,600 feet; the No. 7 is reported rigging up and Nos. 8 and 9 are reported rigs.

The Mid-Tex Oil company's Graham, offsetting its No. 1, the big 2,500-foot producer drilled in a couple of weeks ago, is reported as starting to drill.

On the Oklahoma Petroleum & Gasoline Co.'s Graham lease the rig is reported up for No. 4. This same company's No. 1 M. V. Keller is reported still plugging back to the 1,900-foot sand and the No. 2 still rig.

Preparing for Shot.

The North American-Roxana No. Braddock is reported preparing for a shot in the 2,000-foot sand, preparing to get production in the upper sands. The No. 3 is still a location.

The No. 1 McCluskey of W. E. Conner is reported drilling around 1,300 feet. The No. is reported a rig. This lease is just south of the famous McCluskey lease of the Panhandle Refining company, on which the discovery well of the pool was drilled.

The Panhandle's No. 7 McCluskey, offsetting the Conner well on the Graham, just across the Clear Fork, is reported drilling around 1,500 feet.

The Godley Oil company con-

times activity on its Graham lease, which has so far produced among the best wells in the field. The No. 6 is reported drilling around 1,000 feet, the No. 7 spudded in and the No. 8 rigged up.

The No. 1 Graham of Westervelt et al is reported drilling around 475 feet. The No. 2 is reported a rig.

Setting Ten-Inch.

The No. 2 McCluskey of Hedrick & Spoonts is reported as setting 10-inch casing at 1,400 feet. The No. 3 is reported drilling around 850 feet and the No. 5 is reported a rig.

The Prairie Oil & Gas Co.'s No. 1 H. M. Donnell is reported drilling around 350 feet.

The No. 1 Askew of C. S. Thomas et al is reported drilling around 1,460 feet. The No. 1 Bynum, also Thomas et al, is reported drilling around 1,270 feet.

The Seaboard Oil & Gas Co.'s No. 1 McBrayer is reported drilling around 1,780 feet. This test is some distance south of the Henry Hobbs test, mentioned above.

The Konowa Oil company's No. 1 E. C. Stovall is reported temporarily shut down around 2,800 feet.

K-M-A Shows Completion During Week

The Kemp-Munger-Allen district's only completion this week was the Universal Oil & Development Co.'s No. 5 Lewis, block 20, completed Thursday, pumping 130 barrels from the 1,500-foot sand. This is the latest of several good producers from this shallow sand which has so far been confined to block 20 in any producing quantities.

The Gulf Production company is preparing to drill an offset to this new well, it is reported. The new location is the Gulf's No. 2 Slater Lewis, block 28.

ARCHER HAS RENEWAL IN MANY TESTS

With the pipe line connected to the discovery well, with five new tests drilling and with several others due to start this coming week, the section around the Texhoma Oil & Refining Co.'s Goss well in Archer count. block 8, American Tribune new colony lands, shows unusual activity and promises highly interesting developments in a short time.

The Texas company started running oil from the Texhoma storage tanks on Thursday, there being between 3,000 and 4,000 barrels of oil already in storage. The well has not been drilled deeper and since it is flowing 150 barrels or better daily, from the first drilling into the sand, it is probable that it will be left alone for the time being.

No 2 Down Quickly.

The Texhoma will probably have it's No. 2 Goss down to the sand in the coming week, the week end drilling reports showing it down to 1,400 feet.

The No. 1 W. H. Taylor to the northeast of the discovery well is reported drilling around 700 feet.

On Nat Henderson.

In the Nat Henderson land, to the north, the No. 1 of Lee Bass et al is reported drilling around 500 feet. The Bankers & Merchants Oil Co. started drilling Thursday on their No. 1 Nat Henderson and are now down a couple of hundred feet, according to reports.

W. J. Grisham et al are reported rigging up on their No. 1 Goss.

Roberts & Hill are reported preparing to start drilling the first of the week on their No. 1 Carter, about a mile north of the discovery well.

The derrick is reported up for the J. I. Staley No. 1 D. T. Coffman and drilling due to start as soon as possible.

BARN DESTROYED IN SATURDAY FIRE

Fire Saturday afternoon at about five o'clock partially destroyed a barn in the rear of C. Iles' place, 710 Travis street. A quantity of bedding stored in the barn was burned.

ELECTRA SHALLOW AREA IS WIDENED DURING PAST WEEK

The Southeast Electra section is making good its promise of unusual activity, made early in the year and a gradual widening of this important shallow area is resulting from practically reach successive week's operations.

On the W. T. Waggoner ranch, just west of the Planet Petroleum company's lease in the South Electra shallow pool frequently called the Galiolus pool, J. W. Bridwell, L. C. Heydrick and others have drilled to the 1,430-foot sand in their No. 2 Waggoner. The No. 1 was completed over a week ago, a 50-barrel producer from the 970-foot sand. The No. 2 drilled through about 22 feet of sand at this shallower depth, it is reported, and the 1,430-foot sand which has been drilled into a short distance is said to look very promising.

A new sand for this section has been opened up by the McDaniel et al No. 1 Burnett to the north and slightly east of the Gladiolus, producing around 40 barrels from 1,660 feet. This well got the sand several weeks ago and has been previously reported as testing. It is surrounded by producers in the shallower depths and serves to add another important sand to the several already proven productive.

On Fisher Farm.

On the J. A. Fisher land between Electra townsite and south of the Gladiolus pool, the No. 1 Fisher & Gilliland is completed on the 1,400-foot sand and showing up for a 40-barrel producer.

This deeper sand is not nearly so good as the 960 foot sand which when given a two-day test showed up for 100 barrels daily. The well was then drilled down to the 1,400 foot level. A star rig is moving on to No. 2, this lease, to drill for the 960-foot sand.

Just to the east of the No. 1, also on the J. A. Fisher, Scott & Sheegog are reported rigging up a standard to drill. Preparations will be made to go deep, unless the heavy pay is found at the shallow depths.

Powell et al Swabbing.

Latest reports from the Powel, Long et al, on the Powell, just west of Fowlkes station, show the well swabbing and making a small quantity of oil. The hole is said to be not yet deep enough for the sand found in an old test drilled here some years ago and operators express the belief that the hole should be drilled deeper for the big production. The depth is reported at 1,856 at present.

On the John & Jeff Waggoner ranch Nelson brothers have completed their No. 1 in the 960-foot sand, reported a 40-barrel producer.

This new well is a short distance southeast of the old Culbertson wells on the Waggoner ranch, drilled several years ago. It opens up another new pool in this good 960-foot sand and is of considerable interest.

Not Far From Ryan.

These operations are not far from the 1,200-foot producers completed some time ago by the Ryan Petroleum corporation on the north part of the Nance tract. With the 960 and 1,200-foot levels now opened up with good producers and the deeper sands found in earlier operations to test for, this far south extension of the Electra pool is expected to again offer inducements to the operator.

Henry Hobbs et al have their No. 2 and No. 3 Burnett, down to the 700-foot sand, which their No. 1 opened up in this Gulf pool. The Bruce Larkin No. 2 Burnett, an eastern offset to the No. 1 is reported drilling.

The No. 1 Reis of the Sangamo Syndicate, north of the Texas Company's Stringer lease, is reported still waiting on casing to test out the sand found at 1,670 feet.

Various Oother Texas.

Hammond & Haddox are reported as having pulled casing to drill deeper in their No. 1 Burnett, section 1, T. & N. O., the 1,600-foot sand testing no good.

The No. 4 Burnett of Melton & Hart is reported drilling around 650 feet.

The Men-Tex Oil company No. 2 Ward & Todd, Sunshine Hill pool, is reported on an oil sand at 1,440 feet and testing.

The Roy I Carter No. 2 Burnett is reported still testing the 1,650-foot sand drilled a couple of weeks ago.

TEXHOMA HAS TWO TESTS IN SHALLOW FIELD

The Texhoma Oil & Refining Co. has two new wells reported from the Texhoma shallow field for the week, both on the Hil Willis tract. The No. 8 is reported a 40-barrel well at the usual depth and the No. 9 is reported making 35 barrels with the sand drilled only five feet. This well is also in the 1,200-foot sand. A third new producer is the E. M. F. Oil company No. 8 Roller, 35 barrels at 1,170 feet.

To the east of the producers on the Hi Willis, the Reising Trust company is reported to have an oil showing in their No. 1 R. E. Moore at 1,600 feet. Several feet of gas sand from 1,580 feet down is reported and the gas showing is said to be good. A test is to be made immediately, it is reported. This test is a short distance west of a test drilled some months ago on the J. W. Murph by W. D. Cline et al and abandoned without getting production.

A short distance northwest of the Reising Trust test the Rogers Refining company's No. 1 Albright is reported still shut down around 1,000 feet.

Jones Light on Sand.

The Jones Light Oil & Gas Co.'s No. 3 Rexford is reported on the sand at 1,230 feet with casing set and preparing to drill in.

The Invador Oil & Refining Co.'s deep test, No. 7 Daniel is reported drilling around 1,920 feet.

The Donovan Oil company's No. 5 Rotter is reported drilling around 1,540 feet. A sand drilled at 1,480 feet is reported to have tested out water.

PRACTICAL JOKE COST AUTO MAN SMALL FINE OF $10

What he claimed was an attempt to play a practical joke on a friend cost Henry L. Douglas, local garage man, a $10 fine in county court at law Saturday. The fine was assessed by Judge Guy Rogers after he had listened to Douglas' tale of how his attempted joke had landed him in the police station.

Douglas who is owner of a small garage at 1005 Lamar street Saturday planted several thumb tacks on the pavement in front of his place of business. According to his statement they were intended for the tires of an automobile owned by a friend who he was expecting momentarily to drive by. His actions were watched by a woman residing near the garage who reported the matter to the police not knowing that a joke was about to be perpetrated.

Judge Rogers agreed that it would have been a good joke if it had worked but since it failed the $10 fine was assessed for obstructing the highway.

NEW LIQUOR PROGRAM IS DRYS' PLAN

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Regardless of the merits of whiskey, it depends upon the viewpoint.

"If you're dry, you wonder why so much booze is loose in the land, or if wet, in sympathy, the wonder is why liquor is so scarce," said John Kramer, dry law boss, in discussing the divergence of view in the pros and cons in whiskey discussions.

Kramer and his clan that have had to bear the brunt trying to enforce prohibition agree that as long as human hands raise corn and make copper coils the United States of America will be "wet" somewhere at all times.

None of the "dry" official crowd after witnessing one year's results are pinning any roses on themselves. Officials say progress has been made. But liquor floods seem to come in greater volume. With these ever-increasing new sources of supply, there are cropping out from time to time entirely new liquor problems to confound liquor law enforcers.

New interpretations of the Volstead law, holding that government officials are not authorized to put limitations upon makers and sellers of alcoholic liquors, except in so far as congress may have specified, are expected to have a good effect in enforcement over the country. The new administration foresees a more general observance of the law. New administration officials, having supervision of prohibition, are cutting away from erratic methods which have prohibited general criticism.

The new program as now outlined, to combat some of the present hostility to the Volstead law, is to stop needless tinkering with the law's provisions, which convey authority to certain classes to buy, sell and use non-beverage liquors.

The drug store end of the liquor problem is now regarded as one of the most important. In the past even devout "drys" have hated to walk 40 blocks to a pharmacist to obtain liquor on a doctor's prescription. And when he locates a druggist, even your "dry" enthusiast wants for his sick friend liquor that is pure. He does not want to buy from a mercenary druggist a diluted concoction and pay for it a price that represents 300 or even 400 per cent above what ought to be a reasonable figure. Until now it has been difficult to obtain good whiskey on a doctor's prescription even after a druggist has been located with one of the coveted permits to handle medicinal liquors.

This peculiar situation has been encouraged by the attitude of a set of enforcement officials who secured much of their inspiration for such a line of official conduct from hidden but powerful forces in the "extra dry" element at Washington and elsewhere.

The policy of restricting permits to druggists and doctors and of discriminating between these classes, in an effort to limit the number of outstanding permits in given localities simply because dry law officers believed a certain number would be sufficient to supply all needs is about to go into the discard along with a lot of other practices, now shown to have been of doubtful value to the cause of enforcement. Physicians will be encouraged to obtain liquor permits and restrictions against druggists have been relaxed. Other equally "liberal" moves are to be taken to bring about a more general respect for the law as it was framed by congress.

Local Courts To Have Busy Time Next Week

With the federal term of court opening Monday morning and several criminal cases scheduled for trial for the special criminal week in the 50th district court, it is expected that the coming week will be one of the busiest of the year in local courts. Several cases are also scheduled for trial in the county courts and Judge Ed Napier has announced that he will hear non-jury cases during the week in the 78th district court.

Federal court will open at 10 a. m. Monday with Judge James C. Wilson presiding. During the week only equity cases will be tried. The grand jury will be impaneled and it is expected that it will not complete its work before the end of the week. The average number of cases will be brought before the grand jury.

The trial of Lena Cuna, Iowa Park girl charged with the murder of her sweetheart, William Dunnel, movie picture operator of that city will open Monday morning before Judge P. A. Merritt in the 50th district court. It is expected that the trial of the case will be completed in two days. The case will be followed by that of Judge J. P. Jones of the county court charged with malfeasance in office. The case of Will Hodges, negro, charged with murder, will also be tried during the week.

Sessions of the federal court will be held in the 50th district court room. The criminal cases of the 50th district court will be held in the 78th district court room. Judge Napier of the 78th district court will hear the non-jury cases in the morning sessions.

SOMERVELL RECORDS

Wayne Burnside, assistant county attorney, returned Saturday from Dublin, Erath county, where he went Thursday to assist in the trial of Henry Cody charged with the theft of several horses which were recovered in this county. The case was continued until the next term of court.

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, April 9.—It was in 1919 when the State of Texas first gave indications that she intended protecting the women and children that work in the various industries of the State. A bill was passed by the Legislature at the regular session in that year providing for the establishment of a commission to be called the Industrial Welfare Commission the duties of which would be to investigate the status, pay, living conditions, etc., of the women and children in the various industries of the state.

The Industrial Welfare Commission was composed of Mrs. Frances Sutherland, secretary, E. R. York, of the Industrial Accident Board, and T. C. Jennings, formerly labor commissioner of the state. This board employed a number of investigators and a thorough survey was made of the conditions under which women work in this state.

At first four principal industries were investigated. These were the telephone, mercantile, laundry and factory industries, all of which give employment to a large number of women and minors. The survey of these industries, being the first one of its kind ever attempted in Texas, was made very comprehensive. A large staff of expert investigators was employed and every phase of these industries as it applied to or affected the women and minors employed was gone into thoroughly.

The survey covered a period of eight months and in all some forty cities of the state were covered—Dallas, San Antonio, Houston, Fort Worth, Galveston, Beaumont, El Paso, Waco, Amarillo, Brownsville, Laredo, Corpus Christi, Sherman, Denison, Greenville, Tyler, Marshall, Texarkana, Paris, Brownwood, San Angelo, Corsicana, Temple, Wichita Falls, Ranger, Abilene, Eastland, Del Rio, Uvalde, Eagle Pass, Kingsville, San Marcos, New Braunfels, Marlin, Cameron, Bryan, Belton, Yoakum, Cuero and Brenham. In choosing these cities, the commission selected them on the basis of diversity of living conditions and industries. The idea of the survey was to secure for the commission figures on the conditions in the four industries in the various parts of the state. To this end the above selection of cities was made.

In all some 2028 women were personally interviewed by agents and investigators of the commission. And these women filled in sworn questionnaires giving careful estimates of the cost of living for the three months directly preceding. All information regarding clothing, lodging, laundry, reading matter, recreation, medical attention and other matters were given by these women.

Blank forms were made out by the commission which the working women filled out. For instance, in the matter of clothing, the commission made out the following list as being sufficient for any modest respectable working woman for one year: one summer hat, one winter hat, one coat (2 years), two wash dresses, one wool dress (two years), three waists, one black sateen petticoat, one gingham petticoat, one white petticoat, four corset covers, one corset, two suits summer underwear, two suits winter underwear, two gowns, three aprons, six pair hoes, two pair shoes, one wool skirt, one wash skirt, one kimona.

In addition to these working women, keepers of boarding and lodging houses where these working women lived were interviewed and thus the cost of living was determined.

The commission found the average cost of living in the combined industries investigated for the state as a whole to be $14.78.

The average cost of living in each of the four industries was found to be as follows: telephone, $14.14; mercantile, $15.44; laundry, $13.78; factory, $14.65.

The differences in the costs of living is easily accounted for. The girls and women employed in the mercantile establishments are of the better class of working girls. The very nature of their employment demands that they wear better clothes, live in slightly better lodging houses, and go out slightly more than the girls employed in other industries. The girls employed in mercantile establishments have to keep up a better appearance than the other girls.

Girls and women employed in factories, laundries and telephone exchanges, with but few exceptions are of a very slightly lower type than their sisters at the ribbon counters and the lingerie departments, hence they can live cheaper. Again, not having to wear spotless clothes every day, they can afford to live a bit cheaper. And then again, in a number of the laundries of the state a large number of negro women are employed. These negresses can live much cheaper than the white women, and they bring down the average cost of living in the laundry industry in which they are employed.

To ascertain if any great variance exists in diverse localities of the state statistics were compiled by sections. In North Texas, incorporating the cities of Dallas, Fort Worth, Sherman, Denison and Greenville, the cost of living in the combined industries averaged $15.36 per week. In South Texas, incorporating Corpus Christi, Kingsville, Houston, Galveston, Beaumont, Yoakum, Cuero and Brenham, the cost of living in the four combined industries was found to be $14.57.

In East Texas, incorporating Tyler, Marshall, Texarkana and Paris, the cost of living in the four combined industries was found to be $12.77.

In West Texas, incorporating the cities of Brownsville, Del Rio, Laredo, Uvalde, Eagle Pass, San Antonio, El Paso, Brownwood and San Angelo, the cost of living in the four combined industries was found to be $12.20.

In Central Texas, incorporating Waco, Corsicana, Temple, San Marcos, New Braunfels, Marlin, Cameron, Bryan and Belton, the cost of living in the four combined industries was found to be $15.51. In Northwest Texas, incorporating Ranger, Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Abilene and Eastland, the cost of living in the four combined industries was found to be $23.38.

It will be readily seen that the highest average living cost in the four combined industries prevails in the oil district. This is explained by the facts that in this district there are abnormal conditions. The pay is higher than elsewhere, the hours, generally speaking, less, and the cost of living, consequently is much higher.

To fully complete the statistics the commission determined the average cost of living by population as follows: in cities of from 3,000 to 9,000, $12.77; in cities of from 10,000 to 39,000, $14.26; in cities of from 40,000 to 175,000, $15.26.

The difference in the cost of living in the small towns and in the big cities is very easily accounted for. In the small towns, the working girls and women do not have far to go to their work; in the big cities car fare is sometimes a large item in the expenditures of the working women. In the small town there are not so many amusements to allure the working girl to spend her hard-earned money; in the big city there are picture shows with their enticing posters, their rapid film romances, theatres with their glittering allurement that tempt the working women mightily.

In the small town rents and the cost of lodging is much cheaper than in the big city. In the big cities, the higher cost of rents and lodging is offset by the lower cost of clothing and food.

BIRTH RACE INCREASES DURING HOT SEASON

PARIS, April 9.—The weather has more to do with a nation's birth rate than almost any other factor, declares Dr. A. Magelssen, noted Norwegian physician, in a leading article in the current number of Paris Medical.

Abnormally hot weather is certain to increase the birth rate, says Dr. Magelssen, and he presents an interesting number of weather and birth rate charts, collected during a study lasting more than 20 years. Conversely, a mild summer, following a mild winter, brings fewer babies.

Some of the Norwegian doctor's statistics were gathered in France and the United States. He points out that neither New York nor Paris can be taken as criterions because both cities have large foreign populations not yet acclimated and therefore not so directly affected by the weather changes.

Road Building Sign of Progress, Nash Head Says

"With an aggregate fund of one billion dollars appropriated by the federal government and by the various states, highway construction this year is likely to make healthy progress," says Charles B. Voorhis, vice president and general sales manager of the Nash Motors company. "While not all of this fund is available for expenditure at once, there is at the disposal of the various state and county officials money sufficient to begin roadway development this spring on a large scale.

"The record of the development of transportation is an important page in the history of the world's progress, for as man's means of communication have bettered, so has his physical well being improved and his mental growth progressed. Through the medium of good roads those, heretofore practically isolated in a small community, are brought into close touch with the larger centers of population.

"But while our railroads have been developed to a point that have made them a model for all other nations, our highways until within very recent years, have remained but trails.

"With the advent of the motor car and motor truck, the necessity for good roads became apparent. The limited radius of the horse-drawn buggy became entirely insufficient for the gasoline-propelled vehicle and there developed a real effort to improve our highways. As a matter of fact, there is no longer any serious opposition to plans advanced for road construction or improvement.

"Most of us, I believe, realize the necessity for permanent highway construction but few of us make it our business to see that the work actually is accomplished. The highway program to be carried out this year should receive the indorsement of the progressive eltizen."

The Letter Your Wife Did Not Send—

Dear Husband:—

Yes, I am a little mite afraid here, alone with the children at night, but your letters cheer us all up and we can almost imagine you're right in the room with us.

Remember to bring the children the things you promised them, for their little hearts are set on them—in fact they talk about "daddy's presents" more than anything else.

Perhaps I am dreadfully foolish, but when I sit here before the fire, sewing (I am making the dearest little dress for Esther), I get to wondering what would happen to me and the children if you—well, if anything should happen to you.

Silly of me to get such moods, isn't it, but—you know we haven't any insurance yet.

I know you mean to see about it before long, but you know how easy it is to put off these things from week to week.

And we never know what may happen. You don't mind my speaking of this do you? I'm thinking of the children, just as you are thinking of them this very minute.

They are calling to me now. They still want their bedtime story.

This letter was never sent, because a telegram brought the glad news that daddy had changed his plans and would be home in the morning. Perhaps your wife may have wanted to write you a similar letter about life insurance.

THINK: Next month, for you, may never come.

EACH CAR USES 452 GALLONS OF GAS EACH YEAR

The American Petroleum institute has compiled information showing the quantity of gasoline consumed in 1920 by twelve states which have oil inspection, and where such information is available.

In certain states all gasoline inspected is motor gasoline, while in others it is impossible to estimate the proportion consumed by motor vehicles, except to indicate that the bulk of the gasoline consumed is for that purpose.

Without attempting to make any allowance for consumption by other agencies, and without including in the complication any estimate of consumption by motorcycles and motorboats, the figures shown indicate an average consumption of gasoline per car (passenger cars and motor trucks, in the states where gasoline consumption figures are available of 542.1 gallons, on the basis of 1920 automobile registration figures.

Oklahoma's Standing.

The total registration of passenger cars and motor trucks as of December 31, 1920, was 8,887,572 cars, according to preliminary figures of automotive industries. On the basis of an average consumption of 452.1 gallons per car, the indicated gasoline consumption by motor vehicles in 1920 was approximately 4,018,000,000 gallons.

The gasoline output of the United States refineries in 1920 was about 3,870,000,000 gallons.

The following table gives the quantity of gasoline consumed in 1920, the number of cars registered and the average consumption per car for states for which information is available:

Ark.	23,911,079	59,082	404.7
Kan.	117,096,600	265,396	441.2
N. Caro.	73,960,000	140,860	525.1
Ore.	44,900,669	103,790	492.6
S. Caro.	41,225,067	92,818	444.1

In Arkansas all the gasoline inspected is motor gasoline; therefore, the average consumption per car of 404.7 gallons is probably about correct. In Florida, all gasoline inspected is motor gasoline, but in the total is the quantity consumed by motor boats. It is noted that the figures show Florida with a high rate of consumption. This figure may be influenced by the heavy use of cars by tourists.

Results from the experience of various fleet owners indicate that the average consumption of gasoline by motor trucks is about 1,000 gallons annually, and the preliminary figures of the National Automobile chamber of commerce shows approximately 900,000 motor trucks registered at the end of 1920.

DEMAND KEENEST ON PACIFIC COAST

CHICAGO, April 9.—Renewal of automobile demand, according to reports to the larger factories, is keenest in the east and far west, with the Pacific coast in the lead. Export trade also is improving, the factory men say. The middle west, they point out, is slower to feel the upturn because its products being chifely agricultural have been harder hit by the unsettled conditions.

Motoring is constantly getting safer. There were only half as many deaths per car in 1919 as there were in 1914, the percentage being .0025 in 1914 and .0013 in 1919. Figures from Detroit and New York for 1920 show that in the former city there was less than one death in 1920, and in New York the toll was 21 less than the 1919 mark.

BLOW-OUTS FROM AUTO ROW
BY FLAT TIRE

The sale of new cars for the week just ending has been very good if we are to believe reports heard along the row. The balmy spring days brings out the prospect and he is not only 'shopping round' but is actually buying. There has been several sales of the more high priced machines this week and every indication points to better business as the weather gets more settled.

A special meeting of the Automotive Dealers' association has been called for Monday night at 7:30 o'clock to be held at the Overland Motors company. This is to be an important gathering and the principal speaker will be Representative B. F. Johnson who has some new data on the much talked of Senate bill No. 101. It is especially urged thatall dealers be present Monday night as some lively action is anticipated.

Allow us to introduce to Blow-Out followers one E. O. Smith, formerly of Birmingham, Ala., but now of Nolen-Stringer company, who from here on will attempt to sell out the above named concern. Mr. Smith is an automobile man of wide reputation down in the cotton section and we understand he is going to set a pace in and around Wichita Falls Anyway, welcome to our city.

Perry Hancock of the Wichita Paige company say that the national demonstration week was not in vain for him as he reports the sale of one new car. Perry says he don't sell as great a number as some, but my, when he does hit.

R. B. Moon of the Standard Eight company says that things are looking better every day. Mr. Moon has not had this car in Wichita Falls long, but business is coming right along and it will only be a short time before he will be up in the running.

W. K. Thompson delivered another one of those Single-Six Packards last week besides making a three-day trip through the territory and to quote Karl, "That ain't all, I am going to deliver either."

Frank Queisser, of the Motor Supply Company, entertained two of the Pittsburgh ball players at the Kiwanis Club luncheon last Monday. Now to look at Frank one would not think he was a ball player or even interested in the game, but you can not always judge by outside appearances.

Julian McFall of McFall Brothers makes the report of a few sales for the week just closing. Dodge Brothers cars always were popular and with men like McFall Brothers back of them, every week should be a big one.

Toute Suite Dodson of the Southern Tire & Vulcanizing Company, is making lots of money these days, or at least that is what we are led to believe, as he is putting on more help in the way of tire changers. Business must be good on Tenth street as it takes money to increase your payroll and Dodson generally keeps them busy.

F. D. Keim of the Excelsior Motor Company, returned to the city Wednesday after a four-day trip to Tulsa, Okla. Mr. Keim says that Tulsa is a wonderful town, but the automobile business there has been off even worse than it has in Wichita Falls, but that business is gradually getting back to normal and that everyone is expecting big things during the spring months.

Hugh Weaver, of the King & Weaver placed a couple more of those Nash cars last week, which is not so bad, and, according to Hugh, he has a couple more just about ready to sign.

E. V. Lesley, of the Auto Tire Company, is hard at work these days, or at least that is what he says. Wonder what he is doing, we didn't think it took any work to sell Federal tires.

Questionaire Shows but Few Pleasure Cars

A questionnaire recently sent out by the national automobile chamber of commerce to determine the place of the automobile in industdy and in business reveals some very interesting figures, says a report from the chambers. It is found that only 10 per cent of all the motor cars in the United States are used for pleasure purposes exclusively. Sixty per cent of the average car mileage is for business, and 78 per cent of the mileage of cars owned by farmers can be credited to business, while 34 per cent of the average mileage of all automobiles represents a substitution for trolley car and rail transportation.

More important than these figures are the owners' statements concerning the contribution the motor car makes to their business. Owners' figures show that the automobile adds 57 per cent to their efficiency. For farmers this figure is greater, owing to the greater distances they have to cover in the transaction of business. A motor car adds 68 per cent to the average farmer's efficiency, the reports show.

PLAN CONCENTRATION ON CORD TIRES ONLY

DETROIT, April 9.—Nothing but passenver car tires will be manufactured in the future in the large Detroit plant of the United States company, an official announced a few days ago.

Production of pneumatic tires for trucks will be confined to the newly erected factory in Providence, R. I., and inner tubes and cement also formerly manufactured in Detroit will be produced by the Indianapolis plant.

The factory here will concentrate particularly on cord tires, as it reports the demand for fabric tires is decreasing steadily.

Roads Will Be Well Covered On Information

—LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 9.—Road information covering the entire state of California in a more comprehensive degree than ever will be provided in the future by the Automobile Club of Southern California. This announcement was made yesterday by the local office, following a decision of club officials to cover the highways of the state every three weeks. Although in the past the club has supplied thorough information on the state roads, this new departure will make the road information more up-to-date than ever.

A club car has just completed the rectarting of San Diego and Imperial counties, where fishing information was also secured.

All counties in the southern part of the state are rapidly being rechurted by the club for new maps and signs. Among those which have been completed recently are Santa Barbara, Ventura, San Luis Obispo, Riverside and San Bernardino.

A club truck has just left for Death valley and the desert region surrounding it for the purpose of signposting all roads in that vicinity, as well as the water holes near these roads.

Some interesting information was issued yesterday by the county club office to the effect that gasoline in England now costs 50 cents a gallon and up. Motorists over there are paying 1 pound per horsepower for an annual motor license; besides this they pay $2.50 extra for the use of license plates. A driver's license is additional to this.

Shifting into intermediate speed before crossing railroad tracks is a mighty good habit to form. The reduced speed making a quick stop possible, when necessary, while acceleration is much quicker in second should the motorist find himself on the tracks before noticing an approaching locomotive. Safety first!

TROUT'S LIFE IS PROTECTED BUT UNLUCKY

Automobile sections are edited by city dwellers, and they therefore contain frequent references to the fact that the automobile has brought the beauties of the country much closer to the city dweller. If an automobile section were to be edited by a mountain trout, however, it is probable that he would make bitter comment on the fact that the automobile has brought him to the frying pan, which would be something beyond argument.

Explosive Properties.

Dynamite and gasoline have explosive properties and both are extremely destructive of fish. The use of dynamite in procuring trout is frowned upon by the law, but the exploding of gasoline in the cylinders of a motor car as an aid to securing the wily trout is perfectly proper and infinitely more effectual. Indeed, it is not too much to hazard the statement that the invention of the automobile was the greatest catastrophe the trout family ever knew.

Streams in which the trout played undisturbed in former days now have a fisherman roosting on every rock, thanks to the automobile. The trout would have followed the wild pigeon and the buffalo long before now had not the increased interest in trout fishing been utilized to provide funds for the restocking of the streams and lakes by the fish and game commission. Thereby a balance in the piscatorial accounts of our mountain streams has been maintained.

It's not a bit of use to describe the various places to go trout fishing. If you're a real fisherman and going to go a fishing, you have long since picked out a spot which nothing on earth could deflect you from. If you haven't got the fever, its not probable that printer's ink is going to infect you.

But at any rate the trout leads a happy life. All the responsibilities of bringing up a family he has shifted upon the shoulders of the state fish and game commission. Kind-hearted fishermen yearly come scores of miles to feed them. And when they are caught, at the beginning of a season for example, they are not infrequently given exhilarating rides in Packards and twin-sixes from their native lake or streams and given an opportunity to see all the queer city folks from the vantage point of a sporting goods house show window. Its a great life to be a trout these days.

By the way, what sort of a shape is your fishing tackle in?

LINCOLN HIGHWAY BEST.

With the very great increase of travel upon the Lincoln highway, which has been noted in each succeeding year, it is obvious that the permanent marking had grown to be a necessity. The direct benefits of course, accrue to the communities along the way and these have been obtained by them at an expense of but one-sixth of the actual cost.

Only Four Grease Cups

This means that chassis lubrication requires minimum care and attention. And it is due to the extensive use of oilless bearings.

Since grease cups generally receive slight attention, and also because grease becomes hard and caked, the advantage of having self-lubricating bearings is obvious.

PARK YOUR CAR WHERE LIGHTS ARE BRIGHTEST AND EVEN THEN YOU MAY RETURN TO MISS IT

BY FLAT TIRE.

Park your car where the lights are brightest—if you want it! Of course, if it's heavily insured and you have a hankering for some other make then you can safely park the thing where lights are dim and crooks are numerous.

Texas don't boast of an "underworld," much less Wichita Falls, but it does seem that automobile theft is becoming rather a lucrative profession and one that is guaranteed to furnish thrills a-plenty for those discriminating folk who have chosen their cars after much deliberation and turned them into family pets.

When these pets leave home via an automobile thief they change their coats and numbers and are henceforth unrecognizable as the same good old family bus that made otherwise tiresome days a pleasure. Don't jump the 'Cops' if they can't find them.

In fact after a professional crook has finished with the car he could sell it to you and you would never know that you had bought the same thing twice—in other words, been stung twice in the same place.

Why can't the 'Cops' find your car? Because in the state there are more than 400 stolen Fords, 75 Buicks, and 60 Dodges, to say nothing of other makes. If you can remember the numbers of that many cars, and their description without getting them mixed its safe to say that most any good 'Cop' will take his hat off to you.

Of course you say that these cars are not all in Wichita Falls. True enough, but no stolen car stays in its own city. Unless the theft is discovered soon after the crooks have made their get-away the chances are that it's up to some other 'Cop' in some other town to find your car.

You've locked it you say? Sure 'nuf! But don't you know, a little thing like a locked car does not bother the professional any more. A switch key taken out of the ignition lock gives a crook a real twinge of humor. He knows how to cross the wiring or pick the switch lock in such a way that it is about as easy to steal the car without the key as it would be with it. Getting away without being observed worries him a great deal more than not having a key.

A professional thief does not even side step for a most efficient Yale or Corbin lock. He will either jimmy the lock or short the wiring and deliberately step on the starter and drive away. The locks that are so built as to prevent the gear lever from being moved are said to be the safest of all locks but a professional who knows his business does not even let that keep him from a desirable car.

In this case he will hitch your car on to another and tow it to where he can remove the shift lever and release the lock. Then he gets in and drives off.

Partnerships are said to form a good basis for recognized legal professions and businesses that are within the law. It also applies to the profession of automobile theft. They say these crooks work in pairs. One will be a "lookout" while the other will do the actual getting away with the car. They meet later and erase all motor and chassis numbers, change the license plates, which have been secured in devious ways, and remove or change the accessories so that the car will be completely changed. The top is changed, the color is changed, and, in fact, your car is not.

Now this modern motor car thief is not a solven run-down-at-the-heels sort. Neither is he a low type of criminal. He is rather a man with a desire for quick money and a keen eye which observes accurately and quickly. He is usually young we are told and his clothes are most always gaudy. He has a "flair" for fashions most obvious creations such as two-toned shoes, striped silk shirts and jaunty caps.

He is not to be confused with the romantic youth who steals your car for a joy ride and leaves it parked somewhere in the city. This chap is often more love-sick than criminal. He wants to give his "girl" a ride, and does it at the risk of his own good name. He is not bothering the insurance men. It is the professional who keeps things going.

The professional goes at stealing your motor car just as a business man goes at his business. Every day must bring in some cash, some way. His living depends upon his success in getting away, and in converting the stolen car into money. This includes other crooks. Just how good license tags are obtained is hard to say. Nature isn't the only one who works in mysterious ways her wonders to perform, automobile thieves have the same finesse.

LOG WAY OF NEW MEXICAN HIGHWAY SOON

SAN MARCOS, Texas, April 9.—May fifth, Cinco De Mayo, Mexico's fourth of July, has been set for the date of departure of the official logging party of the Meridian Highway Association from Laredo to the City of Mexcio, by which tour the Meridian highway will complete its connecting link between Winnepeg and the capital of the Southern Republic, G. A. McNaughton, secretary of the Meridian Highway Association, announced here today. On May fourth the party will meet in San Antonio at the St. Authony Hotel, from which place the tour will start. Six cars will leave San Antonio on that day, and the following day at Laredo the assemblage of all officials and delegates that will make the trip will take place. Mr. McNaughton said that the party will here be joined by delegates from Laredo and by a delegation from the City of Mexico, representing the Mexican government. A distinguished personage that will join the logging party is Ing. Faustino Roel, sub-secretario of the department of public works out of Mexico, and chief engineer of the country. A few days before starting the tour a conference with Senor Roel will be held in Laredo regarding the itinerary through Mexico, Mr. McNaughton said. The entire party, he said, will consist of about twelve cars when it leaves Laredo.

The above arrangements were made in a meeting at Laredo this week by Mr. McNaughton and D. E. Colp of San Antonio, state president of the Meridian Highway Association and heads of the Laredo Chamber of Commerce. Other arrangements that were made regarding the tour was the providing for a truck fully equipped with an emergency outfit, also materials for camping out, a skilled mechanic and a cook, to accompany the logging party. Calculations made at the meeting in Laredo this week showed that the trip through Mexico will cost no more, and probably less, than if the same trip were being made in the United States. Accompanying Messrs. McNaughton and Colp to Laredo was Manager Ayres, of the Old Spanish Trail Highway.

While in Laredo, Mr. McNaughton took occasion to perfect the organization of that division of the Meridian highway between San Antonio and Laredo. Fred W. Hally, secretary of the Laredo Chamber of Commerce was elected commissioner of the division, and it was dubbed the "Tequila Division." County representatives of the "Tequila Division were elected, who are: Charlie Neal of Cotulla for La Salle county, and Mason Many of Pearsall, for Frio county.

Modern Car "Fool Proof"

The modern automobile is rapidly growing into the "fool-proof" class. At the present rate of progress it will not be long until the motorist can buy this car, drive it for months or years with only slight attention and still have a motor car practically as good as new.

"The efforts of engineers in recent years," says C. C. Randle, distributor of the Alemite lubricating system and Bassick's graphite penetrating oil, "have been directed toward simplifying the care of a motor car so that the owner will have to devote the least possible time and effort in caring for it. The public generally takes a piece of machinery and goes on the assumption that as long as it runs, it is all right and needs no attention. Of course that is not the right attitude to take, but it has ruined many fine automobiles.

"A motor car owner will start out on a trip to some western mountain country, we will say. Up on one of the step mountain grades he will burn out a bearing and then cuss the car and its builders. Nine times out of ten the trouble is his own fault for not having given it proper attention before starting on this trip."

Geniuses in the United States, it is estimated, now number about as many as the feeble-minded. There are about 2 per cent., or 2,160,000 of each.

AUTO DEALERS ASK TAX RATE BE LOWERED

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 9.—A ...ite drive by the automobile in...try to obtain reduction of federal ...s and a decrease in national ex...itures is forecasted by the ac...ies of the National Automobile ...ers' Association and the Na...al Automobile Chamber of Com...ce, according to Harry O. Moock, ...eral manager of the dealer asso...ation.

C. A. Vane, general counsel of ...e dealer association, will have this week for Washington and New York, where he will take up with the tax committee of the automobile chamber, the definite proposals for revenue legislation principles, which it is expected the industry will insist upon.

Eliminate Waste.

The two associations are very close on their ideas, both have stuck to principles of taxation rather than methods, and both are insisting that governmental extravagance, waste and so called "war-time" expansion be eliminated. It is the theory of both organizations from their declarations that while a necessary measure of preparedness will cost money, there is no apparent reason for continuing expenditures for army and navy in peace times that were conceived at the height of the German drive.

How close the two associations are on the tax program can be seen by reference to the following comparative resolutions, adopted by the National Automobile Dealers' association at the Chicago convention February 1 and by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce tax committee February 3, setting forth their purposes:

Tax Resolutions.

(By National Automobile Dealers' Association.)

To the congress of the United States:

Whereas, business of every kind has been forced to a period of depression and reconstruction and has been forced to carry on with the greatest economy possible, and,

Whereas, in 1920 the motor vehicle industry paid to the government approximately $150,000,000 in revenues, and,

Whereas, probably another $150,000,000 was paid by owners in personal property taxes, and in registration fees and licenses, and,

Whereas, the automobile industry, through its heavy payments to the federal treasury, feels itself vitally interested in future fiscal programs of the government: be it

Resolved, by the National Automobile Dealers' Association in annual convention assembled at Chicago, February 1, 1921, that we respectfully call to the attention of the national congress the necessity of greater economy in the government of the United States, that the gigantic expenditures of war years may not be saddled upon the people in years of peace, that the greatest progress may be made in the return, not only of business to normal, but of government to normal. And be it further

Resolved, That the attention of the legislatures of the United States be called to the economic condition herein pointed out that no greater additions be put upon the already depressing tax burdens borne by the industry.

(By National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.)

Whereas, as a matter of equity to the present generation, the burdens arising out of the world war should be distributed over a period of years; and,

...reas, discriminatory and un... taxation is always a barrier ...nomic progression; now, there...e it

...olved, That we call upon con... to reduce governmental expen... to a sane, normal standard ...e; and, further,

... the cost of the war be fund... that all special taxes grow... of the war, such as the ex... profits tax, high surtaxes on ...al incomes, and those on ...rtation, excise, etc., be re... and,

... if further revenue be neces... other than such as may be ... through a moderate, scien... regulated protective tariff, other revenue be secured ... a consumption tax on all ...dities, based on retail sales ... consumer."

Tax Situation Reviewed.

... interesting feature of the tax ...n which was developed by ...ational Automobile Chamber ...mmerce is that although the ...ment has cut from the esti... for 1922 (fiscal year) the ... $1,025,000,000 for federal ... of the railroads, the total ...es for the year aggregate $4,... 1,759 for 1922 against total ...riations of $4,678,895,278 for ... In other words, while the ...ment won't have to spend a ... dollars for the railroads, the ... departments, mainly army and ... and civilian expense in army ... navy departments, has crept ... to absorb the extra billion dol...lars. "The dealers throughout the country are not fully awake to the menace of the taxation program," says Moock, "but we expect to awaken them to its seriousness before the bill is enacted. We shall need the help of every association and individual before that be done."

Fiat Company Now Has Shoes For Tractors

In certain countries road regulations forbid the use of tractors having metal wheels equipped with strakes, and as these latter are really necessary in order to secure adherence, the use of the agricultural tractor is limited to work on the land.

Because of this state of affairs, the Fiat company has developed and brought out sets of detachable rubber blocks which can very conveniently be fitted to the wheels of their agricultural tractor, thus making this vehicle ideal for hauling heavy loads over the highways. In order to assure success, it was obviously necessary that the change from a land tractor with strakes to a road tractor with rubber bandages should be rapid and that the cost of the appliance should not be high. On account of both of these considerations, complete rubber bandages had to be abandoned.

The Fiat system consists of rubber blocks pressed on to curved bed plates, these latter being attached to the wheels by means of bolts passing through holes already drilled in the rims for the strakes. For each driving wheel there are eight plates, each one carrying three rubber blocks. For the front there are four staggered rectangular blocks on each plate, and six plates to a wheel.

SPEED IN GETTING OUT NEW TYPE CAR

NEW YORK, April 9.—Experimental models of the line which is to bear the name of W. C. Durant are now traveling in secret along the roads of Long Island, where the Durant engineering department is located.

These sample cars have already been under test for several weeks, according to those in closest touch with the former head of general Motors. This fact makes the achievement of the Durant organization the most remarkable for the reason that the first plans were drawn little more than 60 days ago.

This quick transition from conception to realization comes as no surprise to those who have known that the Durant engine was built and ready for its block tests within 16 days after the designs were completed.

HISTORY OF PEERLESS IS INTERESTING

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 9.—The present great establishment of the Peerless Motor Car Company at Cleveland, Ohio, is the result of a gradual evolution from manufacturing operations on several special lines preceding and coinciding with the rise of the American automobile industry. Its parent concern, The Peerless Manufacturing company, took an active part in the manufacture of bicycles when that industry was at its height, and later—about 1900—embarked in the business of manufacturing parts for one or two automobiles of American make. In 1901 it secured the right to build the De Dion Bouton Motorette under the De Dion patents, and for a year that pioneer among American motor cars was produced at the Peerless factory.

In 1902 the company was incorporated as the Peerless Motor Car company. When this re-organization was effected the first Peerless motor cars were built. The business expanded rapidly, and corresponding progress was made in facilities and improvements. Extensive new grounds were secured at the present location, East Ninety-third street and Quincy avenue, and were covered with large buildings wholly devoted to the operations of the company. The property has since been greatly enlarged by other ground purchases and the erection of new buildings until at the present time the two great factories of this company cover twenty acres of land and are composed of thirty-two buildings, most of which are three stories high.

The first Peerless motor cars were of two cylinders with vertical motor located under a bonnet at the front, which has since been the universal practice. The original two cylinder cars were soon replaced by ones of four cylinders, and this company was also among the pioneers in six cylinder construction. It was the first to introduce into the United States the improvements of four speed transmission and of bevel gear rear axle, on which it holds patents. This company again took the lead when the side entrance to the tonneau was introduced by being the first to build this type in commercial quantities in America. During the early period of automobile development the Peerless company gained a wide reputation along the lines of competitive enterprise then regarded with rather particular favor by both the manufacturers and the public. Barney Oldfield became famous in the racing world in charge of the Peerless "Green Dragon," a racing car which met and conquered all comers and did much to firmly establish the celebrity and superiority of the Peerless make. Previous to withdrawing from the Glidden Tour the Peerless entries had several times finished with a perfect score.

At the outbreak of the European war in 1914 the product of the company included a line of heavy duty motor trucks which proved of inestimable value to the allies. During the years of 1915, 1916, 1917 and part of 1918, an unceasing stream of Peerless heavy duty trucks was sent across the ocean for use at the front, until the total deliveries approximated 12,000 trucks.

In the early part of 1916 the first eight cylinder two power range car was introduced. The reception accorded this car resulted in a demand which could not be met with existing manufacturing facilities and a large addition was made to the floor space and in the number of employes. Since January, 1919, the product of the company has been confined to its 8-cylinder passenger cars, the manufacture of trucks having been suspended. The car is made in its entirety in the Peerless Works by a force of skilled labor approximating 2,400 men, directed by a group of able and progressive men whose clear vision and untiring efforts have made this car a leader among motor cars of the world.

PACKARD REALERS IN THREE-DAY MEETING

DETROIT, April 7.—With the object of promoting closer co-operation between the factory, its branches and distributors, sixty Packard representatives, including distributors, dealers and branch managers, concluded a three-day convention at the factory Wednesday. Those present represented New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore and practically all the larger centers. H. N. Davock, technical manager of the factory forces, presided, and a free discussion of field problems was indulged in. Business, those at the convention reported, was experiencing active stimulus, which will swell the sales volume for the season.

"Devil Wagon" Supplants Ox In Far China

"While a large portion of China's four hundred million people may still call the motor car a 'devil wagon,' the Chinamen who constitute the personnel of the Eastern Garage of China Motors, Limited, in Shanghai, China, are as familiar with the name of the Cleveland Six as anybody in America," according to an interesting letter that has reached Wilhelm-Moulder Company, local Cleveland Six distributors.

The letter continues:

"China Motors, Ltd., has made this car a pretty familiar sight in the streets of Shanghai and Hong Kong. The Eastern Garage in Shanghai is a beautiful modern building, with sales rooms, garage and service departments that would be a credit to a distributor in any American city. In fact, few distributors in this country can boast a personnel of 85 people.

"Down in Porto Rico (since Uncle Sam acquired it in 1898 the most prosperous of the West Indies) the Garage Mayaguez distributes the Cleveland Six. Our Latin-American cousins are said to show a decided preference for "peppy" motor cars and are reported to be especially fond of "stepping on it" when out on the good roads which American occupation of Porto Rico has brought about."

Who Developed Speed Bug?

In 1882—20 miles were first ridden within the hour. The rider was Dr. H. L. Cortis, one of the greatest English amateurs of his day. He rode a 59 inch high wheeler and the track was surfaced with cinders. It is interesting to note the progress made since Dr. Cortis first developed the speed mania. The 59 inch high wheeler has developed into the modern record-breaking motorcycle of today, while the 20 mile per hour pace has been pushed up to the 136 mile per hour mark. What will be the speed record forty years from now?

NEW HEIGHTS REACHED BY A GOOD NAME

Because they did not seek it in the ordinary way, it is all the more impressive that sales precedence should have been conferred upon their product.

The point of this achievement is that from the day the business was founded, Dodge Brothers never once laid stress on mere volume of production.

Their thought lay deeper than that. It was a deliberate thought, which looked toward the ultimate, not the immediate.

Their implicit conviction was that the one thing with which they should concern themselves was the true value of the cars they manufactured.

They were satisfied that as the value of Dodge Brothers car revealed itself, appreciation, admiration and larger volume would automatically follow.

They visualized this great good will, ever growing and continuing to grow, as long as motor cars should go forth bearing their name.

They never permitted themselves or their associates to lose sight of this great principle in which they believed so thoroughly.

Their life work had taught them that there was no other sound way in which to build.

The lesson of it, the logic of it, is too plain, too clear and too complimentary to Dodge Brothers to require or permit extended comment.

Suffice it to say that this institution will never deviate by so much as a hair's breadth from the manufacturing principles which have brought about this unique and splendid tribute from the American people.

ECONOMY AND EASE CLAIMED BY FRANKLIN

The whole present day trend of motor car design is centered around the theory that a car should be made as nearly as possible fool-proof, that it should require little attention, that it should be free from needless complications, that it should at all times be dependable, according to H. H. Franklin, president of the Franklin Automobile company.

Practically all motor cars today perform fairly well. There is, however, a wide variation in their economy, their ease of handling, their simplicity, and their freedom from trouble. It is in these essentials of motoring satisfaction that the air-cooled car will, I believe, by its example have its effect on the automobile industry.

"The whole subject of air cooling is now very much in the public eye. The war had something to do with this, for the experiments conducted with the air-cooled motor in aviation called attention to the efficiency of air cooling under severe service conditions. Its use in aircraft production will without doubt be much extended as time goes on. The amount of space being given to the subject in the technical magazines both in this country and abroad emphasizes its importance, and would seem to throw some light upon the future trend of motor design.

"The example of gasoline economy in the case of the air-cooled car has been so marked that today with gasoline selling at a comparatively high price almost every motor car manufacturer is seeking ways and means to cut down fuel consumption and to make his motor deliver the utmost energy for every drop of gasoline poured into the tank. In the early days, with gasoline selling around twelve or fifteen cents a gallon, economy meant but little. Today the question looms large in the mind of the average car buyer.

"The motor car is now regarded, and rightly so, as a daily necessity in the life of the business man, as a utility vehicle, as a quick, comfortable, sure means of transportation. That car, therefore, will serve the public best which is mechanically simple and which needs but little routine attention. Most car manufacturers are doing their best to give the public that sort of car.

"The industry as a whole may or may not turn to air cooling in its conscientious effort to solve the transportation problem for millions of American motorists. But in any event, it is certain that future developments will not go far afield from the basic principles of simplicity, ease of operation, dependability, and freedom from trouble. All of these things have been and are fundamental with the air-cooled motor, and if the air-cooled motor has been a factor in pointing out the desirability of these various essentials in any final estimate of motoring satisfaction, as I believe it has, it will have left an imprint upon the industry distinctly worth while."

Vanderbilt on Pacific Coast, Praises Buick

"I have driven many makes of foreign and American machines but have never had one, a stock car, which equalled the Buick.

"Leaving Vancouver, B. C., we spent two weeks in touring Vancouver Island, and thence to Seattle, and from there in easy stages, down the coast with many side trips, adventures and amusement. We camped in the open almost every night except when we were in the larger cities.

"Our total mileage reads about 2500, of which more than 1500 was over unpaved and poor country roads. We crossed four mountain ranges ascending about 800 feet at one time, moving within three hours from a temperature of 92 to 26. We experienced three days of wet weather, but none on which we could not travel.

"The trips up to Mt. Rainer and the Columbia River highway are by far the most beautiful scenic trips in the northwest and the Hosemite is the prettiest in California.

"We passed alongside of six forest fires in the northwest, one of which drove us out of the best camping place in that part of the entire country.

"We found the fishing (especially trout) extremely good in Western Washington, along roads seldom frequented by strangers. But the undiscovered sportsman's paradise is in the upper regions of Vancouver Island. We had either rabbits, game birds or trout and salmon at every meal.

"We passed Mount Lassen the day after its big eruption and were in Del Monte during two earthquakes.

"The places which we liked best on the trip were Sproat Lake, Vancouver Island, the views of Ranier from Seattle and Tacoma, Mount Hood from Columbia river highway, Canyonville, Oregon, the top of the Syskious trail, Inspiration Point in the Yosemite and the Seventeen Mile Drive in Monterrey.

"If anybody ever seeks my advices again concerning a good car for the money, I'll be glad to refer them to the Buick for I speak from experience when I say that my car has gone beyond what I even ever dared hope a car would do."

Tractor Production in 1919.

Statistics on tractor production in the year 1919 just made public by the bureau of public roads of the United States department of agriculture place the number of tractors produced by eighty concerns in that year at 164,590. The production fell considerably short of estimates furnished by the manufacturers in the fall of 1918 for the year 1919.

A tropid liver needs an overhauling with Herbine. Its benefits are immediately apparent. Energy takes the place of laziness, appetite returns, and the hour of rest brings with it sound, refreshing sleep. Price 60c. Sold by your druggist.—Adv.

NO SPRING FEVER FOR OLD BUSSES

Has the auto spring fever hit you yet? It is not at all like the regular spring fever, which brings lassitude and love, and such things. The auto spring fever produces just the reverse—a superabundance of energy along some lines, eager to be doing things to the car. In other words, you are just yearning to give her an overhauling preparatory to the fine spring days, when the country roads allure one, says H. Clifford Brokaw, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., in the New York Tribune.

Well, probably the old boat does need a spring tonic. If she has been laid up in the garage all winter, certainly she needs something to tone her up, and if you have been driving her through mud and slush and over frozen snow and frozen ruts it is a sure thing that something is needed. But do not wait until the warm spring days come to do it. Get busy now, when there is not so much to attract you in the open and the March winds make you hug the steam radiator or the fireside.

Perhaps you know that the car does need something, but do not know just what to do. If you go to the garage man he will tell you it wants a "general overhauling." If you have a few spare hours' time you can do all the overhauling that is necessary, but don't let the general get on the job if you want the car to be the same afterward.

Probably the cylinders will need the carbon scraped out or burned out, because you have used an extra amount of gas every time the car was started and there is bound to be a deposit in the combustion chamber.

Clean Up Underneath.

Of course, every working part of the car should be thoroughly cleaned in the spring time, particularly the parts underneath the car, which are out of sight and which accumulate mud and dust readily. A recent article told how to do all this. There are many other things, however, to be done when freezing days are over and the sun begins to get high in the heavens. One thing is to adjust the carburetor to a slightly leaner mixture by opening the low speed air adjustment while the car is running until the mixture is so lean that the motor pops back. Then turn it the other way until there is no pop. This gives the leanest mixture without backfire, which is the ideal for spring and summer driving. This may usually be done by means of the dash adjustment.

Get Rid Of Old Stuff.

Drain out the crank case, transmission and the differential, and wash them all out with kerosene. If you commence at the crank case and save the kerosene you use there it will do to clean the transmission and differential and then save what is left when this is finished. Fresh oil and grease should be used in accordance with the manufacturer's instruction after this cleaning. Do not put the old oil or grease back in. It is cheaper to throw it away than to try to use it over.

The springs undoubtedly will need attention after a winter either on the road or in the garage. Kerosene used in cleaning the three cases may be used on the springs. First, with a soft brush remove all mud or other accumulations, then with a rag or sponge or brush paint the sides of the springs well with the combination of kerosene and oil that you have left over. Leave this on until the car has been run fifty miles and then very carefully wipe off all surplus from the springs. Enough should work in to keep the springs lubricated for a long time, particularly if you aid them by putting a jack under the spring clip before applying the oil. This allows the leaves to open up slightly.

Repair Your Tires.

Tires need pretty careful attention after a winter, whether they have been run over the rough roads or have been standing in the garage. They should be gone over very carefully for cuts or punctures of any kind. Small cuts should be thoroughly cleaned and then a solution of rubber cement and benzine should be squirted in while the tire is turned so that the cut is uppermost in order that it may work down in as far as the fabric. If the rubber has begun to loosen from the fabric the cement will harden and hold it.

After this dries the cut may be filled with cement or tire putty, according to the directions given with the preparation. Larger cuts should be taken to the vulcanizer, particularly if the rubber has separated very much from the fabric.

Battered and literally cut to ribbons. Thus might be described millions of auto tires now in service. A big majority of these will be replaced early this spring. Thousands of car owners have had tires laid aside for future delivery, according to reports from tire dealers. When every one starts buying new tires a shortage of standard makes is expected this spring on account of production having been about one-fifth of normal since last summer.

RUBBER ONE OF THE GREAT NECESSITIES

So many of the things that go to make up the comfort and convenience of our daily life are taken for granted that it is small wonder that most of us do not realize the important things that rubber does for us every day and how much it has increased the comfort and happiness of our existences.

The story of rubber and the story of one of the biggest of the rubber companies run almost parallel in their interest and it is with particular interest that the pages of a booklet called "The Golden Year of Goodrich" are read. This is the story of the B. F. Goodrich Company of Akron, to be sure, but it is also, none the less, the story of rubber and its development because it was Dr. Benjamin Franklin Goodrich who established the city of Akron as the center of the manufactured rubber industry of the world and the development of this company is the measure of the importance of the rubber industry as a whole.

The closing of 1920 marked the 50th year of the B. F. Goodrich Company. That half century has seen rubber take its place in the development of the motor car industry and if it had done nothing else that would be an important and significant service to humanity.

Without tires the nine million or so automobiles that this country registers could not be running today and in the development of tires the Goodrich company has played a very important part. This is only a section of its work albeit a very important one and perhaps the one for which Goodrich is best known to the public.

Rubber, however, enters into so many other things in industry, in the home, in transportation and in the activities of war as well as of peace, that to catalogue the list of things that rubber is and does would be roughly to give a picture of our daily lives from dawn to evening. This is interestingly told in the booklet which the Goodrich company has issued by way of introduction to the interesting story of Dr. Goodrich's life.

It was by accident, really, that the rubber industry got its start. Dr. Goodrich, who served in the civil war, started in the oil business after he had left the service and then took up real estate. He found himself soon the possessor of a small rubber factory on the Hudson river at Hastings.

Lack of funds handicapped the development of this plant and a friend, persuaded him to come to Akron where a meeting of business men was held and the factory was established there in 1870. The business was started with a subscription of $1,000, each made, by 19 business men of Akron, plus $1,000, borrowed from Dr. Goodrich's real estate partner, Mr. Morris. The original plant could be put several times into one of the mill rooms of the present factory. When Dr. Goodrich went to Akron, his was the only rubber plant there. Now there are enormous plants there, and Akron has grown from less than 10,000 inhabitants to a city of close to one quarter of a million people. Goodrich started with fire hose because Dr. Goodrich one time saw a friend's home burn because the hose was so poor that it burst. He determined to build a fire hose that would stand up under pressure and that was the first utility that he manufactured. Article after article has been added until today many products are made. These are roughly divided into tires, mechanical rubber goods, rubber footwear, druggists' rubber sundries and hard rubber products.

One of the things for which Dr. Goodrich is famous in the automobile world is the development of the cord tire. Originally this was a bicycle tire made of parallel threads or cords in place of a woven fabric. This was first shown by the inventor, J. F. Palmer, at a bicycle show in Philadelphia in the nineties. Single tube tires of Palmer cord construction were made by Goodrich for electric automobiles as far back as 1900. The India Rubber Company worked out a clincher automobile principle as the Palmer bicycle tire and eventually the patent rights to this were acquired by the Goodrich Company in 1912.

These and many other interesting things are well told in the Goodrich booklet by Wilbur D. Nesbit, its author. The booklet is beautifully illustrated with four color prints painted by W. T. Benda and has, for tail piece decorations, vignettes in sepia. It is altogether a splendid memorial of the first half century of the Goodrich institution, and at the same time tells the story of rubber in this country.

In the schools of Cleveland, Ohio, a course of instruction in traffic rules is given the small children in order to avoid their being injured in crossing streets. Lines are drawn on the school room floor to represent car tracks and the sidewalks; one child with a semaphore represents the traffic policeman and other children represent automobiles.

Trucks Replace Horses With This Concern

Substantial progress was made by the Boston Elevated Railway company in replacing horses with motor trucks in 1920, according to Edward Dana, general manager of that company. The change was made in the interest of economy and efficiency, he said.

It is interesting to note that with motor trucks this company reduced the number of men in the wire emergency service from 51 to 44. When the company adopted the motor truck, it disposed of a large number of horse-drawn vehicles, sold 45 horses and abandoned four of their stables, all of which were previously in continuous service.

Equipment Cost $138,000.

The cost of motor equipment displacing the horse was $138,000, made up of the following units: Five five-ton dump trucks, three three and one-half ton wrecking trucks, two three and one-half ton platform trucks, one three and one-half ton wire department truck, nine two-ton tower trucks, two two-ton covered express trucks, one two-ton army body truck, four three-quarter ton express trucks, three three-quarter ton switch repair trucks, with a combined capacity of 79 1-2 tons.

A truck fleet of such proportions called for extensive housing facilities, representing an expenditure of $198,000, embracing five modern fire proof brick buildings. The central garage, having a storage capacity of 40 cars, was located at Harrison avenue, at which point is located the headquarters of the wire and conduit division of the company's present machine shop.

This garage is of modern construction throughout, built of concrete blocks and equipped with repair shop, store room and chauffeurs' quarters. Except for the storage of certain trucks, these substation garages are used for the emergency line service and wrecking truck headquarters. The most important types of trucks are the emergency tower wagon, heavy line work truck with winch, wreck truck equipped with derrick capable of lifting seven tons, and five-ton trucks for construction work in the department of maintenance of way. The remaining trucks are of various sizes for transportation of material and supplies.

Saves Much Time.

In addition to economy in the handling of supplies the most important feature is the time saved in handling wire break or wrecks which interfere with the operation of the cars. These emergency trucks are so located that the entire system can be easily protected and the proper truck landed at the location of the trouble with a minimum of delay.

The wrecking facilities previously had consisted of old 20-foot cars equipped with wrecking material, but as these cars could not get close to the scene of trouble, they were awkward and inefficient, and while still available in extreme emergency, they will rarely if ever be pressed into service.

The foreman in charge of the trucks is held absolutely responsible for knowing that tools and equipment are on the wrecking wagons at all times and is held strictly accountable for any negligence in the checking up of the tools after the trucks have been out on duty.

Through the use of motor equipment, the company has made an approximate saving of $85,000 a year in maintenance expenses, which is equivalent to about 25 per cent on its investment in motor equipment and garaging facilities after the displacement of horses.

"MOST TRAVELED" MAN SETS NEW DISTANCE MARK

R. B. (Red) Parrish, the "most traveled man in America" and pathfinder for the travel and transport bureau of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co., and his motorcycle sidecar outfit, have zigzagged through another year. Motoring here, there and everywhere, "Red" has established a new long-distance motoring record during 1920 which will probably not be broken for many years. Before December had drawn to a close, Parrish crossed his 28,000 mile mark, thereby beating his old record of 19,548 miles made in 1917 by nearly 50 per cent. 22 states were toured during the last year by Parrish, his route taking him through the east, middle west and south, ending up at Jacksonville, Florida. Parrish is high in his praise of his motorcycle outfit, having voluntarily decided on this form of transportation as being the ideal mount both in an economical way and from a sporting standpoint.

Although the motorcycle could not come up to the plane while in the air, it could more than keep up with it on terra firm, with the result that the officer was credited with making the first arrest of an aviator in the south.

Auto Industry Organized, Says Local Dealer

"So many people are prone to think of an automobile dealer as merely a salesman," says L. L. Dixon, of the Dixon Motor Company, local Buick dealers, "and it would do them good if they would stop for a moment and look at any big, modern automobile sales institution.

"The sales department itself is but one small part of any such establishment. Far greater and more extensive are those departments which exist to function only after a sale is made.

"This has been brought about by the public recognition of the fact that merely buying an automobile is not by any means purchasing the satisfactory enjoyment of one. The necessity for establishing large service shops, for carrying heavy stocks of parts, for the installation of equipment and devices which existed in factories only in other years, has come through the identification of the dealer as the one factor responsible for car performance in the hands of its owner.

"If all we had to do was to sell an automobile, in order to make the owner happy, we could get along with a small percentage of the organization and investment that we now have enthusiastically engaged in this business.

"So, when the up-to-date prospect goes into an automobile salesroom, he looks not only at the new models exhibited to him, but sizes up the place generally to see what its ability is to serve him, after he has bought a car."

Rubber Plants at Akron Increasing Outputs Rapidly

AKRON, April 9.—Reports from the country's automobile centers to Akron rubber tire plants have been such that production schedules have been advanced in order not to be caught by a sudden increase in demand. Plants have been running behind in their orders. Since the great slump last summer and fall the factories have been working almost solely on tires for replacements.

The Miller Rubber company is calling in stocks from districts in which there is a surplus to take care of orders from districts where stocks have been used up. Orders have taken a sudden spurt because many are taking autos out of winter storage.

The Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. contemplates an appreciable production increase within the next two weeks. Orders in the boot and shoe and rubber sundries departments of B. F. Goodrich Co. and other plants have increased somewhat in recent weeks.

At least 3000 fewer men are out of work in Akron now than two months ago, according to the city free labor exchange. This reduction is due primarily to improvement in building conditions brought about by the early spring and the increase in production in local factories. Virtually all union workmen are now employed in the building trades, H. C. Blackburn, president of the Central Labor Union, states.

Building operations for March are nearly double those for February, as shown by the report of the city building commissioner. Architects are reporting an increase in the number of plans being drawn.

PAIGE PRODUCTION SCHEDULE FOR MARCH 75 PER CENT NORMAL

The Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company announces that its production schedule for March was 1500 cars, which is 75 per cent of the number of cars manufactured and sold by this company during the same month last year, according to Perry Hancock, local Paige distributor.

"We believe we are justified in claiming that the Paige is rapidly developing into the fastest selling fine car in America," says Henry Krohn, vice president of the Paige company. "I doubt if our production and sales records could be matched anywhere in the industry compared on a percentage basis.

"Due to the general recognition of the peculiar qualities of our 1921 line our production is nearly normal and is growing better every day. For January and February it was 70 per cent of normal. As a matter of fact, the railroad statistics show that, exclusive of Fords, more than one-quarter of all cars shipped out of Detroit in January, were Paige cars.

"In view of the condition of business in general and the motor industry in particular during the last nine months, the Paige has reason to be proud of this record."

Plan Service To Aid Owners Of Automobiles

SAN ANTONIO, April 9.—The Federal Investigating and Rating Service, incorporated under the laws of the state of Louisiana, will open a national headquarters in Dallas within the next sixty days, according to L. M. Morehead, of San Antonio, formerly a Dallas resident, who is president and owner of the association.

It is the purpose of this association to obtain state charters in all the states of the Union. When this is done, it will be thereby enabled to procure a federal charter. This will make the association national in its scope, and it is planned to open up for business simultaneously in every state in the Union.

This association is a new one, and is planned as an anti-automobile theft association, and will carry with it a plan of co-operative insurance for the protection of its members against ruined and damaged cars which have been stolen from the owners.

This system is something new along the lines for which it is intended and is a unique system of identification cards. Each card will be exactly the same and bearing the engraved photograph of the owner of the car, his name and address, left thumb prints on the back, the factory number, motor number and license number of the car, and private steel die mooles. The cards will also bear the name of the state criss-crossly engraved and each state will have a system of serial numbers for these cards, which number will also be on cards. One of these cards will be carried on the person of the owner, and the other one, which is an exact duplicate, will be carried in a special box card case just underneath the dashboard. The duplication of cards is for the purpose that if the one on the person becomes lost the other one is always in the case. In addition to this, the system is composed of two red seals of paper with a circumference of about that of a silver dollar. One of these seals is to be pasted on the left hand corner of the windshield, while the other one is pasted on the inside of the lower part of the headlight. These will bear the name of the association and a standing reward of $25 for the arrest of an auto theft. There will also be private marks placed with a small steel dye on the hubs, tank and radiator caps of the car, and upon all tools and accessories belonging thereto. These private marks will correspond to those on the cards. This will furnish three ways of making identification of a car possible. If the photograph of the owner should be obliterated from the card and another substituted, identification is still possible either by thumbprints or private steel die private marks. Stolen tools and accessories bearing the private marks of the owner can be easily identified with those corresponding marks on the machine and on the owner's card.

It is planned that all filling stations will become members of the association and by the use of this system of identification can detect any stolen car coming under their observation.

A plan of co-operative insurance will be carried and there will be a standing reward of $25.00 for the arrest of any person having a stolen car in his possession. Each member of the association, which it is planned will be all automobile owners, will be assessed an annual premium to pay claims.

This system of card identification is the result of four years work on the part of Mr. Morehead, who has secured a copyright on the system. The national headquarters will be established in Dallas and a complete record of all automobiles of owners subscribing to the association will be kept in the headquarters office. From these cards it can be possible to trace stolen cars. By its being national in its scope it will be easily possible to detect stolen cars stolen in one state and carried into another without delay.

Use of Valve Spares Tires

Gyp tire methods have boomeranged. The passing of the "game" is the outstanding fact in the reconstruction period. It is a business now—the hazard has lost its lure. The game was a scramble for sales at any odds with no thought of anything but deals. It was "take it or leave it but, on with the game," so says H. A. Dodson, of the Southern Tire and Vulcanizing Company, popular Firestone dealer.

Today car owners realize that to buy standard makes is the first principle of tire economy. Bargain tires are expensive luxuries. Service in the full meaning of the word is coming into its own. Vulcanization is being scientifically taught and found profitable. The new slogan is—Get out of the game and into the business.

The "I haven't got time to monkey with such things" attitude of car owners has undergone a like transition. It is popular to take care of tires—to give them a square deal in the mileage demanded of them. The "What do I care? that tire is guaranteed for blank thousand miles, and if I don't get it the company will have to make it right" is being forgotten in the onward sweep of the conservative movement of the reconstruction.

"Use the valve and spare the tire" is one of the most popular of the new slogans, according to the company's expert. It is popularly recognized that fully 75 per cent of the motorists' tire trouble is due to underinflation.

Every motorist has a part and every dealer a part in the program to enable this most important accessory to give uniform, long distance, low cost mileage.

What Kind of Car Have You?

The time was not so very long ago that the automobile engine was little understood by the average motorist and a mechanic had to be called in for consultation on every move. Now, however, the average automobile owner knows almost as much about the "innards" of his car as does the mechanic.

But there is another thing that does worry him considerably and that is the matter of nomenclature of the various models. Of course nearly every manufacturer has different names for one or two of the enclosed cars that set them apart from all other makes. In general, however, the following names cover the various types of bodies most popular with the motorist.

Roadster—An open car that seats two or three.

Coupelet—A car with folding top and full height doors with disappearing panels of glass. Seats two or three.

Coupe—An enclosed car, operated from the insider that seats two or three. Some times a fourth seat facing backward is added.

Cloverleaf—An open car seating three or four. The rear seat is close to the divided front seat and entrance is only through doors in front of the front seat.

A surplus in the United States treasury was the direct cause of our first venture in national road construction. In 1908 the secretary of the treasury suggested the building of a road as a means of reducing the surplus. The road built is what is now the National pike. By 1912 there was spent on this road about $200,000 in macadam construction and stone bridges.

The automobile industry is rapidly reaching the "full steam ahead" stage and during February 9400 carloads of autos left the factories, while 6700 machines were driven away by dealers and purchasers. This is an increase of 50 per cent over January. Ford announced that on March 2 production reached the 2000 mark and that 60,000 cars will be shipped during March.

MUSICAL COMEDY STAR WILL OPEN WICHITA PROGRAM

Stars of the Musical Comedy and Vaudeville stage of the caliber of Miss Marie Cahil are far and few between, the announcement of the appearance here of the famous musical comedy star is sufficient proof of the class of vaudeville that Wichita theatre goers are given the opportunity of seeing. Miss Cahil has toured the Southwest with the larger musical comedy productions and has just recently entered a contract for the vaudeville stage, and we are lucky to have her on the program as her initial appearance for the circuit in her own exclusive song delineations. The management of the Wichita is making every effort in securing the very best and highest salaried artists on the vaudeville stage today throughout the remainder of this season to test out the theatre goers of this city as to their desire and appreciation of the better class of vaudeville.

It is very much regretted that so far the patronage hasn't been what it should be for a city of this size and no encouragement is forthcoming for the expense expanded in supplying this class of entertainment for Wichita Falls.

Theatre goers should pride the fact that such high class vaudeville is being presented in our city and assist by their liberal patronage such programs and class of vaudeville will be presented each season.

Scene from "THE DOLLAR A YEAR MAN" starring ROSCOE (Fatty) ARBUCKLE--A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

Lila Lee, the charming leading woman who has become so popular by her portrayals in such pictures as "The Prince Chap," "Male and Female," and as leading woman opposite Wallace Reid and other Paramount stars, appears in the leading feminine role opposite Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle in the "Dollar a Year Man," Mr. Arbuckle's latest comedy which will be shown at the Olympic Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The story is a novel one. The members of the Santa Vista Yacht Club, fearful lest Franklin Pinney, their only plebian member, will disgrace them when the Prince is their guest, take advantage of his weakness for detecting plots and fake a kidnapping story so that he will follow the scent and be absent when the royal guest arrives. Tipton Blair, a club member with socialist view, who is the instigator of a real plot to kidnap the Prince and turn him over to a band of anarchists in a haunted house, pretends to aid Pinney.

However, the Prince, has managed to escape the formality of the club visit and is enjoying a walk with Peggy Bruce. In passing the haunted house he hears strange noises and believes the ghosts are pretty lively, goes to investigate. The anarchists attack him and Pinney manages to save him. Later, at the club the Prince and Pinney are table companions at the banquet.

JUSTICE GWINN KILLS RABBITS ON BIRTHDAY

That is the story told around court house circles Friday by Justice of the Peace Gwinn, upon his return from a several days visit to points in Oklahoma.

The veteran official also stated that he drove a well known make of automobile through 185 miles of mud in one day in order to return here after the rain had put the trains out of commission.

The story quickly passed around the court house Friday with some skepticism existing in certain quarters.

"FAITH HEALER" AT THE EMPRESS EXTRAORDINARY

Several extraordinary features in connection with "The Faith Healer," which will be shown at the Empress Theatre Monday and Tuesday, make it one of the most notable examples of the screen art produced by George Melford this season. The play was written by the late William Vaughn Moody, a playwright of note.

The theme is one of the most complex ever conceived by a dramatist, and it discusses the problem of whether a man with a great work or mission in life should sacrifice the joys and pleasures of life, even love itself, and devote all his energies to his mission.

Milton Sills plays the title role of the Faith Healer. Ann Forrest plays Rhoda Williams, and other celebrities in the cast are Fontaine La Rue, Frederick Vroom, Loyola O'Connor, May Giraci, John Curry, Adolph Menjou, Edward Vroom, Robert Brower and Winifred Greenwood. The scenario was written by Mrs. William Vaughn Moody, widow of the author, and Z. Wall Covington.

GEM THEATER BOOKS "THE GREAT LOVER" A GOLDWYN PICTURE

"The Great Lover" at the Gem Theatre for Monday, is one of the most picturesque and beautiful film plays released by the Goldwyn Studios this year. The richness of the costumes worn in the scenes from the Opera Don Diovanni, which are duplicated, and the dramatic action of the story itself combine to make an absorbing picture.

The story centers about Jean Paurel, "The Great Lover," played by John Scinpolis, and the principal characters of the play are operatic singers. The plot is woven around the life of these people in their work, and the crisis occurs between the three who form the eternal triangle, during the first and second acts of the opera Don Giovanni.

Jean Paurel has had many affairs of the heart—as varied and as numerous as the Romeos, Othellos and Don Giovannas of his repertoire as an opera singer. The great lover loves all beautiful women, and not a few have loved him in return. He is not surpassing handsome, according to the specifications of an Adonis, but his courtly gallantry and his sensitiveness to the feminine nature eclipse his slightly rotund and too short figure, and the women adore him.

Installation Of White Way Lights Delayed

Final installation of lights in the new white way system has been delayed on account of lack of material the report to Commissioner Bonner states.

It also shows that the city has recently constructed approximately 2,400 feet of sidewalks, the approximate cost of which was $2,400.

During March street lights were installed at Avenue J and Filmore, Avenue J and Kemp, Polk and Avenue D, Collins and Clark, Collins and Alma, Collins and Baylor, Collins and Denver, Avenue C and Buchanan, Avenue I and Buchanan, Tenth and Harrison, Fourth and Austin, Bonner and Lake, Clark and Bonner.

One and one-fourth miles of water line have been built. Grades for water mains now being laid by the water department have been obtained from the engineer's department.

WALLACE REID IN THRILLING STUNT FILM AT MAJESTIC

Have you ever thought of handsome, nattily dressed Wallace Reid as a "stunt actor?" Seeing him dancing the latest jazz steps for a cabaret scene or making love to a pretty nurse as the hero of "Sick Abed," you probably cannot imagine Wallie risking his life to provide thrills for the jaded film fan.

In "The Valley of the Giants," a caboose broke loose from a logging train on which he was riding and threw him over a steep embankment. In "The Roaring Road" and "Excuse My Dust," he drove a racing auto over some of the most dangerous courses in America at record speed. But he saved the greatest and riskiest thrill for "What's Your Hurry?" his newest auto romance which will be shown at the Majestic Theatre for Monday only.

According to the story, an irrigation dam is about to burst and endanger the lives of hundreds in the valley below. A storm is raging. Wallie hears of the breach in the dam and, organizing a corps of motor trucks, drives at top speed to the scene of the threatened disaster. Straight over the steep sides of the dam he drives the lumbering truck, into the torrent of water, and plugs the widening hole.

PLAZA AIRDOME HAS BIG CROOK FILM WEDNESDAY

The eternal conflict of wits between the keen upholders of the law and the crafty denizns of the underworld has seldom been as thoroughly depicted as in Eugene O'Brien's latest Selznick picture, "The Wonderful Chance," which comes to the Plaza Airdome next Wednesday.

In this production every type of crook is shown from the low-browed thug up to the polished confidence man. Mr. O'Brien impersonates one of those aristocrats of crime, the brainy burglar who takes advantage of and utilizes every modern idea of mechanics and science in furthering his plan of annexing other people's property.

Director George Archainbaud is to be congratulated on securing as "types" the most typical gang of thugs that have ever graced or disgraced the screen. These are contrasted later with the refined people with whom Barlow associates when he is masquerading in society as Lord Birmingham.

Of course there is a love theme, and a very pretty and sensible one, with pretty Martha Mansfield as the girl in the case.

ELECTRA COLLECTS DELINQUENT TAXES

ELECTRA, April 9.—The city has collected over $10,000 in delinquent taxes on town lots since the first of January and 130 unknown lots have been sold under the sheriffs hammer and are now in the hands of legitimate owners.

According to the City Tax Collector, 130 lots, some of which have not brought in taxes for several years, were sold and all delinquent taxes collected. Another collection of lots will be sold at the court house next month, which will clear up all of these old delinquents.

PAVING WORK ON OHIO WILL BEGIN SHORTLY

Upon the completion of paving on Tilden, Monroe and North Fillmore street, work will be begun on Ohio, South Indiana and Fifteenth streets, Walter Curlee, commissioner of streets said Friday.

Street paving work is progressing nicely according to Mr. Curlee, and the paving on South Ohio street will soon be completed, as will be the work on several other streets now under way.

After the Ohio, Indiana and Fifteenth street paving is completed Mr. Curlee said that the next streets would probably be North Indiana, North Scott and portions of Fillmore and Burnett streets. Bids have not been let for this paving.

Engineers Report.

City commissioners Friday received the report of City Engineer Montgomery which gave a complete and comprehensive account of the work done by this department in March.

Twenty-one sets of plans, profiles, maps and drawings were prepared two of the maps being topographical.

Grades were laid on Ohio, Lucile, Van Buren, Fourteenth, Travis, Front Grace, Fifth, Sixth, Brook, Tenth, Elizabeth and Seventh streets.

The report on street paving and excavation shows that rough grading on Grant street from Avenue D to Avenue H was completed at a cost of $2,365 and that the east side of Ohio avenue from Eleventh street to the railroad was completed at a cost of $14,875.47.

The total cost of the paving laid including excavation work was $17,222.47 and the total length, including all widths was 349 feet.

Eleven Miles Graded.

Eleven miles of streets were graded and eighteen culverts were installed.

Dirt streets in the area between Holliday creek and Hays street, which includes practically all of Wichita Falls was dragged three times.

A total of eighty-seven excavation permits were granted which netted the city $109 in fees and five house moving permits were granted. Twenty-five sidewalk permits were also granted.

Paving Repaired.

The report says that the paving is in bad shape on Indiana and Ohio streets and that several concrete gutters had to be rebuilt. Concrete foundations had to be constructed at points where the expansion of the blocks had separated the gutter from the foundation. The cost of repair work during March was $3,558.89.

ONE MAN IN A MILLION WILL BE SHOWN AT STRAND MONDAY

The latest Robertson-Cole super-special release, "One Man in a Million," starring George Beban, will be shown for the first time tomorrow at the Strand theater. It is admitted generally wherever the big six reeler has been shown that it is not only the greatest vehicle in which this famous character delineator has appeared but is perhaps the greatest drama ever filmed. The actual making of "One Man in a Million" occupied one solid year. Mr. Beban wrote the story, produced and directed the picture and appears in the leading role. Surely an enviable record.

In the new picture we find Mr. Beban in the character in which we remember him best. That of a humble Italian, kind of heart, who feels within himself that his mission on earth is to spread happiness and contentment. His ignorance of the law would in itself be sufficient medium for the many screamingly funny comedy situations, but there is a steady barrage of fun, mingling with the intensely dramatic moments, fired by lovable children and frolicsome animals.

The story of "One Man in a Million" tells of Lupino Delchini the humble (Mr. Beban) who, as a reward for a kind act, is made pound master in a western town. His kindness wins the heart of Florina Valenzi. He imagines himself in love with the mother of a Belgian waif whom he has also befriended. The mother, however, loves a secret service operative but is willing to sacrifice her happiness and marry Delchini because of his kindness to her child. There are many complications which bring dramatic moments and a full quota of pathos.

When he has told his story, Mr. Beban brings about a climax which is most unusual. It is fitting and gives the picture a new, unexpected and added punch.

ADMISSION TO MOVIES CUT BY DYE, FORD, ROGERS

A general reduction of the admission prices in the local theatres under the management of Dye Ford and Rogers, amounting to 15 to 20 per cent, aproximately, has been announced. This affects the Wichita, which shows Interstate-Keith vaudeville Wednesdays to Saturdays, and other vaudeville and pictures the rest of the week, and the Olympic, Majestic and Empress theatres, exclusive movie houses.

The cut in the prices of seats at these houses is in line with the policy the announcement stated, of giving the best shows at the least cost. No change in the quality of the programs given will result from the cut, it said.

The D. F. R. enterprises own and operate a number of shows throughout Western Texas and the reduction is in effect over all of the circuit.

Advertising Will Attract Thousands Here

"Through advertising our sleeper service, both in and out of Wichita Falls to the other principal cities in this section, I believe that we can add 1500 traveling men to the number who annually visit Wichita Falls," says Ivan Murchison, of the Freear Furniture Company.

"If this can be brought about, and if we make a favorable impression on two-thirds of them, which is a low average for Wichita Falls, we can get through them a million dollars worth of advertising," he continued, "for on the whole they are the greatest set of boosters in the world."

Service Here.

A man can get on a sleeper in Wichita Falls, and be in Dallas, Fort Worth or Oklahoma City in the morning, or vice versa, he pointed out. Soon, the same will be true of Tulsa. In addition to that, Wichita Falls can offer hotel accommodations equal to practicaly any important city in the section.

"When this convenience is known to traveling men generally, as I am sure it is not now," he said, "we will see a great increase in the number who come here each year."

Being Worked Out.

Mr. Murchison recently made the suggestion before the traffic club, and means are being worked out to get it before the traveling men. Among the men who handle furnitur, with which business of course he is most familiar, Mr. Murchison believes it can most easily be done by putting the information in the hands of the secretary of their national association, to be disseminated during the national convention at which most of the furniture of the country is sold.

It can be as readily put before the traveling men in the other markets "for the season," he believes.

COURT DIRECTORY MAKES APPEARANCE

The time at which all courts in the county convene is also included in the information given by the directory.

ACTION OF SWEETWATER MASS MEETING SOUNDED SENTIMENT OF ENTIRE WEST TEXAS SECTION

By W. HAMILTON WRIGHT.

SWEETWATER, April 9.—A history-making mass meeting at Sweetwater Wednesday night and attended by representative West Texas in protest at the action of Governor Pat M. Neff in vetoing "West Texas' cherished dream" sounded the sentiment of the West as to its attitude on separation from the state and started the ball to rolling for a surcease from the injustices which have come from improper recognition of its rights and privileges under the national and state constitution.

The writer fathomed the wishes of most of the representatives on the question of state division. There still pulsates from the heart of the Westerner a love for the memories of Travis, Crockett, Houston and of other great Texas pioneers, a well wish for the remainder of the state, but a repugance to the continual neglect of the West and its deserts under the constitution, and a desire to remain a part of the great state of Texas so long as its presence in that entity is considered more than a "teat" from which to feed other parts of that entity without returning something tangible and giving the recognition due it for its operation and educational advantages. Yet, the Westerner is up in arms. The ride of Paul Revere was no more memorable than the meeting that was staged here Wednesday night to obtain the common pulse of the West. Former Central, South and East Texas, long since adopted sons of the West, with the fire of youth in their eye and a rememberance of the principles for which our early Texans fought and died, inaquivocally commit themselves to the alternative of seceding from the state if Texas as a whole does not in the near future take a different tack from that which it has followed so discriminately against the West for more than thirty years. "Texas undivided if possible; but West Texas first and foremost." That is the sentiment of the meeting Wednesday.

The mass meeting was the outgrowth of a proposed banquet which the Young Men's Business League had called prior to the governor's veto. It was turned into a mass meeting of West Texas citizens outraged by the action of Governor Neff. The city of Sweetwater and its commercial club interests were made secondary considerations before the paramount question of rights of the West. The meeting was called to order by M. C. Munroe of the organization. He faced a banquet crowd of not less than 200, half of which were representatives from other West Texas towns. Rev. C. W. Clark of the Sweetwater Baptist Church and a former strong advocate of Governor Neff in his race, acted as toastmaster. Monroe related how the proposed banquet for Sweetwater had been turned over to West Texas in its most critical hour. Clark made a few preliminary remarks, saying that West Texas had been greatly disappointed at the action of the governor.

W. H. Jobe of the Sweetwater Manufacturers Association related some of the hardships under which early West Texans had gone in order to make it the greatest country on the face of the earth. He said that nothing had been achieved in the West except after valiant fights. He said he had had a premonition that Neff would veto the bill for the college, the one object alone that the West had long desired and to whom they had looked for months. Neff, the one man the West thought would keep his pledges, had turned against it.

Representative M. E. Rosser, of Snyder, who made a strong fight for the interests of the West in the legislature and before the Democratic State Convention at Fort Worth last year, told of his personal efforts for six years to get the college for West Texas. "We have fought a clean and fair fight," he declared. With figures he presented he evidenced the fact that the present A. & M. College is serving only a small radius of 150 miles of the place where situated. Only 153 lads from West Texas had attended the institution. "Insult has been thrown into our face by the vetoing of this bill. We had asked only $50,000 for the purchase of a location. The governor has said, 'You shall not have it.' He said that the Democratic party did not endorse the college and therefore he could not sign the bill. I want to say to you that if the vote had been put up to the Democratic state convention in session and not by number, we would have won easily."

Rosser romped on the governor for adducing economy as the reason for the veto, indicating that the executive had not vetoed appropriations for monuments and the state university. While the speaker expressly declared he was not opposed to appropriations for these things, he said it ill became the governor to veto the college bill and give that as his reason. In referring to the appropriation for the erection of a shaft to the dead he declared: "the dead could wait at least two years in order that the children of West Texas could get schooling." Rosser said there was no immediate necessity for an extension of the university of Texas campus for new buildings. He regretted that the governor could celebrate with the students of that institution the acquisition of additional lands for the institution, when the present grounds are sufficiently large for all present need. A shot was sent at the executive on the score of signing the bill for the purchase of a reference library for $10,000. "These things show that he is not working in faith," exclaimed Rosser. "The 'favored' districts of Texas is getting the money that West Texas turns in for taxes. When we ask for a mere pittance Neff is ready with the blue pencil."

The toastmaster gave a defintion of West Texas by O. H. Roberts, editor of the Sweetwater Reporter, when the speaker sat down. "It is," Roberts said, "One hop this side of malaria."

Judge R. C. Crane presented an array of convincing figures showing how West Texas had always shouldered more than its part of the burdens of the government and how it had been in early days the means of the commercial and railway development of the state. Crane made a great impression upon the audience by the matchless facts he presented.

Mrs. J. L. Landrum told of her former connection with the department of agriculture and of the efforts that had been denied to give West Texas equal rights with other sections in the matter of dispensation of service.

"I have been in rural schools in West Texas whose the door was propped up and window lights were out. I wondered how the pupils could study and make progress in such hovels," she declared.

"Mother Texas, if you can't take care of West Texas, then create another state of us," she exclaimed in mentioning state division.

W. M. Woodall, secretary of the Terrell Publishing Company, said he admired the courage of Sweetwater in calling such a protest meeting. Like Mrs. Landrum, he said, he had been a state employee and realized the gross injustice that had always been shown the West.

"There is great sentiment over Texas for a division," said the speaker. "In fact division of the state, now too wieldy, is thought of considerably in other parts of the state than West Texas. The laws made at Austin frequently help one part of the state and injure the other parts. For that reason we have reached a parting of the ways when we need a division.

"Central and not East Texas is our real enemy," said Woodall. "We must stage our fight against that section. I am not going to censure Mr. Neff. I lived with him twenty years. He's a good man as far as he goes—"

"That's the question," replied Mr. Woodall.

Woodall rapped the governor for his stand on economy saying that he did not practice what he preached. The only place where his economy was being practiced was in West Texas, which needed something more than economy after having been stinted for years. He said any reasonable man knows that there was no emergency or present need for adding to the university property at this time if economy was to be adhered to.

James L. Spiller of Sweetwater made an impassioned plea for justice to the West. "Neff may call this effervescent oratory, but it will be a bear cat fight the like of which Jim Ferguson could not stage an 'equal,' said Spiller. He made frequent thrusts at the governor on his economic reason for the veto. Many things which the Democratic platform remained silent on received the attention of Mr. Neff.

"West Texas is now through begging annually for an A. & M. College. We are now going to demand it.

"We love the Alamo and revere San Jacinto and its heroes, but if we can't get what we are entitled to, then we shall see what can be done toward establishing ourselves as another state. We believe that this fight is not in vain. In the old days it was said that might made right. That was what Germany said. She went down. Right will eventually triumph and the cause of the West will do likewise.

"I worked in many counties to elect Neff. He said to us as we worked, 'When I am governor let me know your needs and they shall be granted.' We asked him for only one thing, and that was the A. & M. College. But he was like another 'hero.'

"'Et tu, Brutus!'"

Representative R. M. Chitwood of Sweetwater stated that he believes in higher education and for that reason he has always worked fervently for the success of education. He said that the Bryan institution was localized in patronage, that 85 per cent came from within a radius of 150 miles of Bryan. Out of 3999 students in the State University, 756, or nearly 20 per cent, come from Tarvis county, the speaker declared. He said he was in favor of removing the normal at Huntsville out of the shadow of the penitentiary where influences for a school are not good. He favors a removal of the college from its present location at Bryan to a white man's country, showing that a large proportion of the citizens of that section are negroes.

"I have no personal enmity for Mr. Neff. I am not strong for a division of the state. But I do not want to live in a state which is too large for the capacity of the men that are running it."

R. C. Thomas, president of the First State Bank of Roby kept the banquetters in an uproar by his witty sallies at the present administration and his willingness to go to any reasonable end to bring about the wishes of the West.

George McDaniel, Jr., representative of the Abilene Daily Reporter, said he had not come as a representative of Abilene in the matter but that he personally was for the West in its endeavors.

Hamilton Wright, staff correspondent of the Record, expressed the willingness of his newspaper to fight for the rights of the West and to support this section in its efforts to secure an A. & M. College.

O. H. Roberts, editor of the Sweetwater Reporter, said that he had given his life to editorial work and not to the learning of oratory but that his paper and himself were always at the command of the West in all its endeavors to secure justice.

The Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce was represented at the session by Roscoe Ady. He dwelt on the fact that the cream of American people reside in West Texas. He aroused spontaneous applause when he declared that Fort Worth was always for West Texas because it was of West Texas and the metropolis of West Texas. "President Massie asked me to deliver you a message: That we are with you heart and soul and that we will fight with you tooth and toenail." Ady was given frequent applause.

Manager Porter A. Whaley of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce opened his address by saying that Pat M. Neff was not a big enough man to keep West Texas from having an A. & M. College. A strong applause followed. Whaley instanced Neff's promises, both in private and public, to support West Texas in its fight for this institution. He said that The Record which was the only paper in the country which supported Neff throughout his campaign strongly daily editorialized on the statement Neff had made that he had pledged his support to the West Texas college and that Neff had never denied the statement nor corrected Editor Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald in such quotations. Whaley gave some reasons that he believed caused Neff to veto the bill. "It was a selfish purpose," Whaley said. "Another Reason was Bizzell."

A Loraine delegate arose after Mr. Whaley had concluded and said that Mitchell county had already seceded from the state and trusted the remainder of the West would soon follow suit. A rising vote of thanks was extended Sweetwater for its entertainment and refreshments and for calling such an invaluable meeting.

Other speakers on the occasion included Curtis Keen, manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce; W. S. Cooper, secretary of the Colorado Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Hartfield of Post, representing the Post interests, A. J. Coe of Colorado and representatives from Hereford, Ballinger, and several other places.

When motion was made for the appointment of a committee to further the efforts toward securing an A. & M. College, Manager Whaley of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce promised that a new committee of the organization would be immediately appointed and set to work in the matter. Similar meetings like that held here will be held in other parts of the state for the achievements of the purposes of the session, it was declared.

Prior to the banquet an executive session of representatives from visiting towns and counties was held in the office of Mayor Sheppard at which a committee on resolutions consisting of M. E. Rosser of Snyder, R. M. Chitwood of Sweetwater, Mr. Conley of Lubbock, Silliman Evans of Fort Worth, J. F. Hartfield of Post, were appointed which drafted the resolutions condemning Governor Neff and the legislature for not redistricting the state were unanimously adopted.

At this session considerable mention was made of the domination of the A. & M. College and of the political pull alleged to be a possession of Bizzell. Insofar as possible cooperation with the A. & M. hereafter in West Texas will be denied, according to the sentiment of the executive session.

Some of the out-of-town representatives registered were J. H. Green, A. J. Coe, C. M. Adams, W. S. Cooper, Colorado; W. F. Altman, J. J. Riden, C. M. Jackson, A. C. Martin, John Coffee, C. C. Coffee, Harry Hall, M. K. Stevenson, Henry Foy, D. F. Riden, all of Loraine; W. O. Stevens, J. F. Hartford, Post City; Alonzo Phillips, Loraine; Mrs. J. L. Landrum, Stamford; B. T. King, Roby; George W. Briggs, Lubbock; Curtis Keen and A. B. Conley, Jr., Lubbock, W. O. Stevens, Post; Roscoe Ady, Fort Worth; George W. McDaniel, Jr., Abilene; Dr. R. M. Harkey, De Leon; J. A. McLean, Dallas; W. M. Woodall, Eastland; J. W. King, Roscoe; J. H. Ratcliff, Roscoe; L. H. McCrea, Cisco; W. Hamilton Wright, Stamford; Porter A. Whaley, W. K. Whipple, Arthur Whaley, Stamford; W. W. Witherspoon and D. W. Dennis, Roscoe; W. O. Kerns and W. P. Mayes, Roscoe; Silliman Evans, Fort Worth.

Prominent visitors at the mass meeting after the banquet declared that the matter of dividing the state of Texas was not such a difficult matter after all. They declared that there is considerable sentiment thruout the state for a dividing up of the state since the interests of the various parts are so unidentical.

Agitation against Governor Neff is said to be almost solid throughout the West. Indignation meetings have been held in scores of towns, hamlets and school communities and the name of Neff has been excoriated. The general sentiment is that Neff has double crossed not only his enemies but also his very best friends.

Already there is talk of West Texas putting out a candidate for governor at the next election. Several men have already been considered, among whom are M. E. Rosser, representative from Snyder, regarded as a strong and forceful man; and J. A. Kemp of Wichita Falls.

Cotton Goods Coming to Fore, Buyer Asserts

Public demand for less expensive wearing apparel is bringing cotton goods strongly to the front, declared Mrs. Virginia Marr Fine of the P. B. M. Co. Saturday in discussing her recent buying trip to points in the North and East where she visited many of the leading jobbers and manufacturers of the country.

Mrs. Fine said that a big cotton season seemed assured and that she found that many of the big manufacturers, who have heretofore worked solely on silks and satins are heeding the popular demand and are turning their talents and genius to the fashioning of beautiful and attractive garments from the various cotton textiles.

King Cotton.

As illustrations of the manufacturers' interest in the demand for cotton, Mrs. Fine said that she found cotton dresses of equisite design and texture fashioned for morning, afternoon, street and formal wear, and the lines offered were as comprehensive and as attractive as any of the silk lines.

The most striking thing to be noted on the wholesale markets, according to Mrs. Fine, was the moderate prices as compared with those asked in the Spring of 1920.

Concerning the creations exhibited by the jobbers Mrs. Fine said: "The creations of Edward L. Mayer, the Maybelle frocks, the George Schuman Arcadia dresses and the new offerings of Goetz and Ottinger were particularly good.

The market was rich in beautiful blouse offerings, and Georgettes, hand made voiles and crepe de chine sport blouses were the centers of attraction at nearly every exhibition.

Sports Wear.

Those who are interested in Sports Wear will be interested in some of the sweaters and knitted caps.

White flannel or white silk skirts with colored sweaters are considered the last word in sports wear and we have laid in a supply that we consider truly wonderful.

Girls and misses were not overlooked in the Spring lines. We found that the manufacturers had paid a great deal of attention to the children and misses dresses with the result that some very attractive lines were in evidence.

Particular attention was paid to the juniors—girls ranging from 10 to 14 years of age—and the offering included some charming dresses of imported ginghams, Swisses and organdies.

Generous assortments of white dresses for the girl graduates were also included.

CIGARS WILL BE MISSING AT THIS COLORED PICNIC

A colored picnic may be held today but the usual cigars will be conspicuous by their absence.

Willie Crutchfield, young negro, did his best to furnish the smokes for the picnic but as a reward for his efforts, he will spend the day in the county jail while his friends enjoy themselves in the country.

Willie confessed to Judge Guy Rogers of the county court at law Saturday morning that he took a box of high grade cigars from Stoecker's Brothers store.

He said, however, that he had not taken them for selfish purposes but for the use of friends in today's celebration.
