Testimony Starts In Second Murder Trial For Brady At Dallas

COURTROOM, DALLAS, May 9.—Through five witnesses, the state today laid the ground work for its case against former Judge John W. Brady of Austin in his second trial here on a charge of murder. The jury heard the testimony of the father of Miss Lehlia Highsmith, slain girl, two asserted eye witnesses, one who said he wrested the knife from the aged jurist after the stabbing and another who said he saw the long weapon in Brady's hand.

Disagree On Inebriety. Two witnesses said the defendant was drunk on the night of the slaying and two others said he was not. A. G. B. Highsmith of Baytown, the fifth witness, was not in Austin that night.

Brady's attorneys had said they would use insanity induced by chronic alcoholism as a defense and indicated they would ask for a mitigation of a punishment on the grounds of drunkenness at the time of the happening in case of conviction.

F. R. McNaughton, who assertedly took the knife away from Brady after the killing, said he had known the white-haired former jurist three months and had never seen him drunk. He insisted Brady was not drunk the night the little court stenographer was killed.

Frank Graham, Jr., state witness in the former trial, had written that his work at Mobile, Ala., made it inconvenient for him to appear and a transcript of his testimony in the first trial was read.

McNaughton who lived in the same rooming house as Miss Highsmith, said he attended the homecoming football game at the University of Texas stadium with Brady November 9. They drank after the game.

Reached yesterday afternoon in his office at the city hall, Mr. Miller had no statement to make other than that he was glad to be in the city and that, after becoming accustomed to his affairs here, probably would have something more at length to say in the near future.

"I am very happy to become a citizen of Lubbock," the new official averred. "This is not my first trip to the city and I have always been very favorably impressed with it. I hope, after I have been here a short while, to be able to meet many of the citizens and take an active part in the life of the city."

Four Methodist Bishops Unconcerned Over Charges Made During Conference Of Church; Allegations Are Unknown

(By The Associated Press)
DALLAS, May 9.—Four bishops named in charges today at the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church attacking their administrations and in particular alleged political activities, refused to show concern over the charges tonight.

Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of Virginia and Bishop Edwin D. Mowbray said they had no statements to make. Bishop John M. Moore of Dallas said he "wouldn't know what to say if I said anything."

Bishop H. M. De Bose of Nashville, Tenn., declared that the most serious view that could be taken was in regard to the alleged deeds of misconduct, as "a compromise of citizenship right and privilege under the law."

Smith Makes Charges. The charges were preferred by the Rev. Rembert Smith of Washington, Ga., who invited them to the conference secretary. Smith promised to be here next week to press them before the episcopacy committee, to which they were referred. The same charges were not made public, and it is unlikely that they will since the episcopacy committee are executive, and

Assaulter's Body Is Dragged Over Town By Crowds

Negro Building Burned After Courthouse Is Completely Destroyed; White Youths Injured In Heated Clash With National Guardsmen At Sherman Friday

SHERMAN, May 10. (Saturday) (AP)—Culminating an orgy of mob madness, a mob early today set fire to a negro drug store here and nearby erected a funeral pyre for George Hughes, 41-year-old negro attacker of a white woman who was suffocated or otherwise killed in a fire which destroyed the Sherman courthouse yesterday.

It was impossible to tell whether the mob set fire to any of the other buildings in the negro section of North Sherman. The two-story brick structure which was set was close to Sherman's union station.

Negro Killed By Blast. Joe Leonard, managing editor of the Gainesville Register, after visiting the vault early today, expressed the opinion that the negro was alive up to the time the final blast of dynamite blew off the inner door of the vault in the courthouse.

He declared the negro had a two-gallon bucket of water, and that he had apparently walked from place to place in the large vault, pouring the water on himself in an effort to withstand the tremendous heat of the burning building.

Leonard said there was a large hole in the side of the negro's head which indicated the door, blown inward by the force of the blast, had struck him and probably killed him, indicating that it appeared the negro was standing up across the vault from the door when it was blown from its hinges.

Body Not Stiff. The belief that he was alive until the explosion was strengthened by the fact that the body was not in the slightest stiff, indicating that if Hughes had been dead before the blast it was for a very short time.

The door weighed several hundred pounds and was blown the length of the vault. Several bars toward the back of the vault were broken off by the impact, and tables inside were overturned.

The building housed, beside the drug store, a negro beauty parlor, dance hall, undertaking establishment, and several other business enterprises. It formerly was occupied by the leading hotel of the city.

SHERMAN, May 10.—After wrecking three blocks of the negro section of Sherman a mob which yesterday lynched George Hughes, negro attacker of a white woman, at 2 o'clock this morning still was carrying on sporadically. The fire department answered a fresh alarm from the negro section at 1:55 o'clock.

Adjoining it were several residences occupied by white people. The fire department was rushed to the scene but was warned by the mob that any attempt to save the burning building would be followed by cutting of hose.

Several members of the mob declared that as soon as the building was burned the mob was going to the other side of the town where there was another section, and burn some more structures. Not a negro was seen on the streets.

Body of Assaulter Dragged Through Streets by Mob

SHERMAN, May 9.—The body of George Hughes, 41, negro, who confessed to an attack on a white woman, was recovered at 11:45 o'clock tonight from the vault in the courthouse where he had been burned to death when the courthouse was burned by a mob this afternoon.

The body was dragged through the narrow opening made by an acetylene torch and dynamite blasts, and a chain wrapped around it. The chain was fastened to an automobile.

Women Scream As Body Found. When the men who went into the vault shoved the body through the hole and dumped it to the ground, two stories below, women screamed and clapped their hands and a great cheer went up from the mob.

The body was tied to the rear of an automobile and it was started through the streets toward the jail, dragging the body, as the madmen mob cheered wildly.

Difficulty was encountered because of the crowd jamming the streets. The state rangers and guardsmen remained at the jail, not attempting interference as the dynamiting was in progress at the courthouse ruins.

After the vault had been blasted open, the men could not enter for some time because of tear gas fumes inside. However they could see with their flashlights that the body of the negro was inside and waited until the gas had blown away before they entered, although the crowd below manifested impatience.

"On To Nigger Town." The car dragging the body started down toward North Sherman, leaders of the mob shouting "On to nigger town." When dragged out of the hole, the body was allowed to roll down the ladder which had been placed against the charred walls of the courthouse. It appeared to double up into a ball, and hit the ground with a dull thump.

At the thump, came the cry from the mob. Newspapermen who watched the scene said that many of the women in the crowd had six months old babies in their arms. They said they heard cries of "glory be!"

The hole was open for about five minutes before the men were able to enter into the vault, so stifling was the air that came out of it. It was not possible to get through the mob to examine the body but from a distance it did not appear to be badly burned.

To Burn Negro's Body. The mob announced its intention of first giving "all the other niggers" a chance to look over the body, and then take the remains of the negro to the country and burn him.

Three Youthful Leaders of Mob Injured in Clash
SHERMAN, May 9.—Three youthful leaders of the mob this afternoon burned down the Sherman courthouse in which Hughes, negro assaulter, was held prisoner, were seriously wounded in a clash with national guardsmen. Two of them were one man die.

Joe Brown, 18, Sherman, was shot in the chest and physical wounds may prove fatal.

Youth Shot Through Thigh. Howard Barker, 17, who said he came here from California, relative, was shot through the thigh. While his condition was serious, physicians refused to allow him to talk as he was bleeding freely and it was not learned where he lived.

Tom Dixon, 22, was struck over the head several times with a pipe when he persisted in his attempt to get to the jail, guarded by a platoon of national guardsmen.

The growth of the town in the past five years has been remarkable.

Three More States In Literary Digest Prohibition Poll Vote Dry As Ballots Total 4,000,000

Only Three States Now Show Majority For Repeal According To Nation-Wide Poll Conducted By Magazine

Three more states vote bone-dry in the Literary Digest's main poll on prohibition, as the total vote tabulated passes the four million mark, according to today's issue of the magazine.

North Carolina, Oklahoma and Tennessee are the states which have joined Kansas and Arkansas in voting over 50 per cent for strict enforcement.

Only three states, Connecticut, New Jersey and Rhode Island have a majority vote for repeal.

Of the 4,150,017 votes in the eighth and current report of the major poll by the magazine, 1,231,849, or 30 per cent, are registered for enforcement; 1,231,849, or 29.68 per cent, for modification; and 1,669,579, or 40.32 per cent, are for repeal.

While there has been no marked change in the ratios of the three groups, it is noted that there is a general trend in the later reports toward a drier vote.

For the first time since the poll started, the vote for enforcement passes that for modification.

Kansas continues to lead as the drier state in the poll and Connecticut also continues to head the wet column.

Although there is no clear majority, Louisiana and New York each have a vote of over 49 per cent for repeal.

Over 40 per cent of the vote in Alabama, Colorado, Iowa, Mississippi, Nebraska, South Carolina and Texas is for enforcement while in Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Wyoming and the District of Columbia over 40 per cent of the ballots are registered for repeal.

"The big poll continues to smash all records for returns," Dr. William Weaver Woods, editor-in-chief of The Literary Digest states. "With over four million individual sentiments already tallied in this huge undertaking and with hundreds of thousands of votes yet untabulated, we feel that the poll must have a tremendous interest to the public.

"We have been advised by 67 newspapers throughout the country that they are conducting local polls to check our returns in their own section. Where the check-up has been at all exhaustive we have been advised that the newspaper returns vary but slightly from ours."

"Three more states go dry in The Digest poll." The Literary Digest states editorially. "In other words they are more than 50 per cent bone dry."

"This rally for prohibition, coupled with the fact that the vote for enforcement has suddenly shot beyond the vote for modification, gives a stimulating interest to the eighth report."

"As the repeal of the eighteenth amendment would hinge upon the vote by states, and not upon a popular plurality, the winning of three states for the bonedry column is not to be sneezed at."

"Against the five areas of aridity mentioned above, only three of the wet states show clear majorities of more than 50 per cent for repeal. These are Connecticut, New Jersey and Rhode Island."

"Louisiana and New York shoot very close to the mark—close enough to have a chance of going over the top before the poll closes—while Maryland, Delaware and Michigan are still in the doubtful hazard of achieving bare majorities in the repeal column."

"On the dry side Alabama seems to be the only one that might have a sporting chance of going over the 50 per cent for enforcement, and sharing the bone-dry honors of Arkansas, Kansas, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Tennessee."

"Meanwhile the poll itself has gone away over the top—another top in its remarkable history—by passing the four million mark."

"A tally of almost half a million new votes has been added since the seventh report, which was published two weeks ago. In our last issue we interrupted the sequence of reports of the general poll of twenty million ballots, in order to present the results of our six special polls, embracing lawyers, doctors, clergy, teachers, bankers and Digest subscribers."

"The aggregate of the special polls, amounting to almost a million ballots, is not included in today's stunning tabulation of 4,150,017 but is to be reckoned entirely separate from the general poll."

"Turning to the totals accruing to the three questions on the Digest ballot, our army of poll fans will find that enforcement, with 1,231,849, Repeal, with 1,669,579 ballots, still rules the roost as far as the popular vote goes, but with a faintly diminished percentage."

"The spurt for enforcement excites a poignant interest in the remaining weeks of the poll. Ballots continue to pour in, but the peak has been passed and the volume lessens little by little from day to day."

YOUR EYES

USE NERVE ENERGY

The eyes are one of the most highly sensitive parts of the body and of course must have a greater amount of nerve energy to function properly. This nerve energy is directed to different parts of the eye, and each part must receive equally it's own proportionate part to carry on its individual work.

For instance there are the three different muscle fibers that are used in focussing light on the back part of the eye to make the "picture."

Two of these fibers must do the work to let us see at close distance and the other muscle fiber acts to let us see clearly at a distant point. If two sets of the muscle fibers are used extensively at all times and the other muscle fiber is seldom used, not allowing the two in use to relax, then new blood has difficulty in flowing through them. Then quite often these muscles become cramped, a condition causing blurred distant vision, also headaches may result or a number of troublesome things may happen. These conditions are caused by the nerve energy not being equally distributed.

There are many cases of eye strain caused by nerve energy not being equally distributed to the muscles of the eye. One muscle will be getting more nerve energy than another, so eye strain is the result.

In these cases proper treatment to the eye will equalize the nerve energy sent to the eye and give the patient relief and comfort.

Some of them may require glasses, for near work only, and still others will require only exercise or treatments.

Many who come to have their eyes examined think that they must wear glasses, and do not consider that they may have eye strain that can be corrected by proper muscle exercise or treatment. As a matter of fact, a thorough examination must be made in order to be able to understand whether glasses are necessary. Glasses are the last resort used to correct the eyes.

The most scientific methods will enable the most correct and complete examination, and Optometry offers the foremost scientific methods available.

As science progresses in its forward steps of betterment, it marks each new mile with a mile stone of new discoveries in knowledge and equipment. This office commands the services of the latest and best equipment and the results of latest research work.

We wish to announce that we again are installing a new and better "Crossed-eye" instrument that is the newest and latest development offered to our scientific field.

Texas, Harvard in 1931 Grid Clash

AUBURN, May 9.—With prospects bright for a powerful football team during the next two years, the University of Texas has scheduled some stiff tilts including one inter-sectional game with Harvard. In 1931, however, three schools outside of Texas will play the Longhorns. They are: University of Missouri, Oct. 3, at Austin; Harvard, Oct. 24, at Cambridge and the University of Oklahoma at Dallas.

In a sportsman it's Fair Play

in a cigarette it's Taste

POPULARITY IN A SPORTSMAN rests first of all on fair play; in a cigarette on better taste. IT TAKES TIME and is costly to make cigarettes the Chesterfield way, but no other way arrives so surely, so completely at what you want most... "TASTE above everything".

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

How shall we sing the Lord's song in a strange land? If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning.—Psalm, cxxxvii, 4, 5.

WEST TEXAS' ever-growing population, particularly as typified by percentages of gain in Lubbock and Amarillo, is stealing the census show, at least as far as this state is concerned.

Amarillo, with 177.7 per cent gain over the past ten years, held the spotlight from Sunday until Thursday when Lubbock brusquely took charge of things with a figure of 408.8 per cent.

Front pages of Texas newspapers screamed Lubbock's census report Thursday afternoon and editorial comment was frequent yesterday. Doubtless many comments will be made over the state and, as an example, we reproduce the lead editorial, carried Friday in the Abilene Morning News.

Quoth the News: "The officials in the census bureau at Washington have probably rubbed their eyes raw by this time, looking at the returns from West Texas. They probably have a lot of trouble believing their own eyesight."

"The latest case of astonishment administered to the census bureau was supplied by the city of Lubbock. Lubbock's figures give her a population of 30,612, an increase over 1920 of 408 per cent. That is a net gain of more than 16,000 persons in the last ten years, and the census authorities can't be blamed for displaying a little bewilderment."

"Amarillo crashed through with a gain of 178 per cent. Abilene came along with an increase of 123.1 per cent. Sweetwater bounded upward beyond the 10,000 mark. Breckenridge quit the village class and returned more than 7,000. And now Lubbock comes along and runs up a record of more than 400 per cent."

"Not all the growth of Texas has been in West Texas, to be sure; there is Dallas, with an increase of 111,000, and San Antonio claims an even larger growth; Houston will be right along in the same class with Dallas and San Antonio. But the lion's share of the census honors belong in West Texas and down in the Rio Grande Valley region and up in the Panhandle."

"Either the people are deserting the farms and moving to town, or Texas has been getting a large immigration from other states. Only the final figures for the state will reveal just what has happened."

The Morning Avalanche is proud of Lubbock's showing, believes West Texas is also proud and that the entire state will lay aside geographical prejudice and give this city its rightful dues—even if it is located in that much-discussed "Windy City."

And when you stop to consider that Lubbock's growth is substantial and clean, without acceleration by unnatural causes and booms the record looks even better. We should all glory in it.

NEW ERA OF NATIONAL CIVILIZATION FORESEEN FOR AMERICA BY SCIENTIST

BY CHARLES P. STEWART Central Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—From the period of confusion and unrest through which it has been passing since the World war ended, is America just about to emerge into a glorious new era of national civilization?

Yes, confidential answers Austin H. Clark, of the scientific staff of the Smithsonian Institution.

Naturalist, biologist, originator of a brand new theory of the development of life from its primal protoplasm, oceanographer, world traveler, author of a small library on the most highly technical subjects, discussed in a third of a dozen different languages.

Mr. Clark is as versatile a savant as the country has to offer. He has his prediction concerning America's future on strictly scientific reasoning.

But note— He does not forecast a glorious new international civilization; only a new American civilization.

"Compare our situation now," he suggests, "with the position in which the English found themselves at the end of approximately the same interval after the Napoleonic wars. This analogy is almost perfect. If history ever repeats itself, there is justification for the belief that America is on the eve of a repetition of England's experience."

"The British Isles, for practical purposes, were as distinctly separated from the actual scene of the Napoleonic conflicts as America was separated from the scene of the world struggle."

"The English were afflicted by Napoleon's campaigns, but did not directly suffer from them; precisely our own case more recently."

"Great wars bring great changes in the after lives of the peoples who fight them."

"The pre-war existence never returns. The Napoleonic wars altered England's life completely, but the English were not prostrated, like their continental neighbors."

"On the contrary, war had stimulated their industries and commerce immensely; again, exactly as occurred here, incidentally to the World wars—and as doubtless would have occurred in any event, but gradually and unnoticed by us, had there been no war to hasten matters."

"However, the English social and economic machinery had been thrown out of gear."

"It no longer functioned, after the Napoleonic strife, as Englishmen had been accustomed to having it function. Everything was different from pre-war days (which they had not expected) and they could not understand it—any more than we have been able to understand what has befallen us, here in America."

"The English groped uncertainly for a decade. The writings of the time show their thinkers' uneasiness. They could not realize, in the midst of what must have seemed to them like chaos, that a process of readjustment was in progress."

"Finally, automatically, it completed itself. The golden Victorian age dawned."

"Our American readjustment appears also nearly, if not quite, to have completed itself."

"Unless we are on the threshold of an epoch of American achievement beyond precedent, in science and art and literature and every branch of culture, as well as in trade and manufacture, then there is not much practical value in studying history—for its lessons ought to mean something, to be worth memorizing."

"As for the remainder of the world?— 'Well, it is hard to see such promise elsewhere, as America.'"

"No doubt there will be various spots of prosperity. Japan, for example, is developing into the eastern gateway to the Orient; Turkey into the western gateway. They ought to profit, each by the good luck of its position. Most of the nations appear to be slipping backward, as America rises into the ascendant."

"IRRITABLE HEART" IS A MALADY RISING FROM NERVE DISORDERS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

During the World War many soldiers suffered with a combination of symptoms which finally came to be called neurocirculatory asthenia, although it was also called "irritable heart," "disordered action of the heart," and even "effort syndrome."

Indeed, the condition was so common that the British Manual called the condition D. A. H. and under this name it appeared in numerous official reports. Symptoms of this disease had appeared frequently in people among civil life, but the World War served to focus special attention upon it.

As described by Dr. Marcus A. Rothschild, this condition is characterized by a sense of tiredness, dizziness, pain in the left side of the chest, general shakiness and increased susceptibility to cold, inability to fix the attention, insomnia, and a consciousness of the action of the heart. The person is inclined in general to be concerned with the way his heart is acting.

The most significant factor, of course, is fatigue. The person seems exhausted, particularly in the early part of the day, and is annoyed by the fact that he cannot seem to get going. After exercise the fatigue seems even worse.

Many of these patients faint easily, a sudden fright or shock sometimes being the cause of the sudden fainting spell. The period of unconsciousness lasts just a few seconds, but may last as long as five minutes. While a murmur of the heart is heard in many of these cases, Doctor Rothschild does not believe the heart is involved in the vast majority and he does not consider this a disease of the heart. This is, in a great many instances, a nervous condition and must be handled from that point of view.

GYPSIES DO NOT COME FROM EGYPT—The name "Gypsy" is a corruption of the word "Egyptian" which was supposed to be the origin of the tribe. This assumption has been proved erroneous. Scientific evidence points to their having migrated from India, whence they spread all over the world, many centuries ago.

ATE HIS WAY THROUGH AN 18 INCH WALL OF CHEESE—Herman Osterweil ate his way through an 18 inch wall of cheese as a result of the bizarre challenge. His Dutch sweetheart, having to choose between two candidates wooing her, made this accomplishment a condition for obtaining her hand. Osterweil won and married the girl. This story has been extensively covered by German and Dutch papers.

A CAMEL CAN SEE WITH ITS EYES SHUT—The camel has been adapted by nature to withstand the sudden and violent conditions which occur in the desert wastes over which it travels. NATALIE CONVERSE tries to conquer her jealous over her handsome husband, ALAN. When he receives a phone call to the home of BERNADINE LAMONT, a popular night club hostess, she demands that he refuse to go. He explains that Bernadine is the widow of a war buddy who had saved his life.

The address surprises Alan by requesting him to take BOBBY in the event of her death. He promises and tries to tell Natalie but her refusal silences him. Later he confides in his secretary, PHILLIPA WEST, who has been waiting and hoping for this opportunity to further her own schemes.

When Natalie next comes to the office, Phillipa engages her in conversation and talks gushingly about helping pick out toys for "darling Bobby" and shows her a letter from Bernadine in which Alan's wishes to Bobby are mentioned. Natalie leaves in a rage without explaining the cause of her temper to Alan. He follows her home, hoping for a reconciliation, but her accusations drive him back to his office to work. He finds Phillipa there and takes her out to dinner and then home.

The NORMANS invite Alan and Natalie for a week-end at their Lake Pisces lodge, and this trip removes their love for each other. Phillipa realizes that she has lost her advantage with Alan and is furious.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XII Alan saw the gardener on Phillipa's shoulder the third time she came into his office—not before. She was close to petulance over his blindness. And when he did notice it, his reaction made her furious.

"What's that, Miss West; a gardener?" he asked. "Of course! Didn't you wear one at your wedding?" Phillipa snapped. She was sorry for the words the next instant.

"Oh! That reminds me. I ought to send some flowers to my wife. Where did you get that one?" "Downstairs."

"Run down and order some for Mrs. Converse, will you? Tell them to send them up just before closing time. I'll forget all about it. I'm afraid. Er... wait a minute. I think she ought to have something more... you know... something that suits her better. I've got it! Orchids! They're just like her."

Phillipa tossed her head. She wanted to refuse, to say she was too busy, but her better judgment conquered. Alan would then send someone else. And if Natalie was going to get flowers from him, she was delighted to have a chance to pick them out. Carrying the idea still further, she said to him:

"You simply have to be conventional in bride."

one mass of things." All joined in the chorus of laughter that followed, but Natalie. Her fingers had flown to her own forehead. At the same time her mind told her that Wanda was indulging in cheap sensationalism. She dropped her hands to her lap, and hoped no one had observed her hasty gesture.

But someone had. "What's the matter, Natalie? Getting an idea?" Everyone was looking at her. And to come—and Natalie found herself seated at a table once removed from Mrs. Perry, with the latter's back toward her.

Wanda Perry was never a silent person. She began to chatter before the first hand was bid. Every hostess who entertained her solemnly resolved never to do it again, but somehow she always got asked to the next party.

She had made a little money on the market, and was filled with desire to talk about it. No one got wistful excited—the game went on just the same. She switched to something more intriguing.

"Listen," she said slyly, and leaned over the table to do it. "I've had a marvelous experience. I've made a hit with my broker."

"Indeed? Does that explain your luck?" "Don't get nasty, Agatha. You'll only envy me, because I've heard you say what you think of Alan Converse. You ought to save up your pennies, and pay him a visit. He's the sweetest thing on Wall Street. So different in his office. But, of course, you've got to have something to attract him. I don't know what it is about me, but..."

"Wanda!" The woman across from her spoke her name with silent sharpness. Wanda's chin-blue eye opened wide in surprise. The other woman leaned over closer. "Natalie is just behind you," she whispered. Natalie caught the words. He hearing was particularly acute at the moment, for she had heard everything Wanda had sketched in the picture of her bright red, and she put down a trump on her partner's making a enemy for life.

The remarks that followed left her undisturbed. Her mind was fully occupied with developing the picture Wanda had sketched in the picture. Her opponent saw that she was obliged to what was said to her, and tried to quiet her partner. But the woman was unforgetting, and as the play progressed, and she sat again at Natalie's table, she took up the sword to carry on.

Natalie seemed suddenly to be pierced by her thrusts. She looked at her for a moment, recalling what she knew of her, to find her vulnerable spot. Then she remembered. This was the woman who boasted that there hadn't been a worker in her family for several generations. Natalie smiled suddenly at her.

"Mrs. Bemmer," she said, "do you give lessons in bridge?" "Mrs. Bemmer's instant indignation called forth the rest of Natalie's little speech. It came with cool insolence. "I thought," she said, "that you must; you seem to know so much about the game."

"Mrs. Bemmer's own long to outdo her in her victory. Her mind kept going back to Alan and the women clients he had; the women who saw him in his office, and found him so different."

Her playing was poor, but nothing was said. See HUSBAND HUNTER, Page 9

ing more was said about it. Once she saw Gladys looking at her with a slight frown. She knew she had become something of a damper on the party. The temptation to throw her hand down and leave came to her, but she put it aside as being a childish way to feel.

She did not join in the general hubbub and laughter that attended the next progressive move at the tables. She stayed quietly in her seat. The woman who stayed with her was quiet too. Natalie felt a trifle miserable, knowing herself to be at fault.

She did not care who would come to be her next partner, until she saw Wanda Perry take the place. Then she felt that old surge of ungovernable emotion rise within her. She was sickeningly afraid of it for an instant before it took entire possession of her. The whole thing was a familiar procedure. First there was a smothering constriction around her heart, then an upward surge of flame-like sensation that choked her, and stung her eyes.

She seemed, at such times, to go mad. It frightened her to think of it in calmer moments. Feeling her self-control going now, she made a valiant effort to keep it.

Gladys must have been watching her closer than she knew, for at that instant, when her eyes glistened with the first of her unshed tears, the hostess appeared at her side, and put a hand on her arm.

"Someone wants you on the telephone, Natalie," Gladys led.

Natalie stood up, she had already started to rise, in another instant she'd have made a scene. She suspected that Gladys had intervened through tact, for her friend's finger tips were pressed deep into her flesh.

It sobered her. Wanda's rapid countenance ceased to look jeering to her, and though her anger did not abate it turned upon Alan. She told herself that he was to blame for her humiliation. Gladys walked away from the table with her.

"Never mind about the telephone," Natalie said when they were out of Wanda's hearing. "I'm going home."

On the way she unpinned her orchid and threw it into the street.

BILL INTRODUCED

WASHINGTON, May 9. (AP)—Chairman Britten of the house naval committee today introduced a bill for $926,995,000 of warship construction, which he holds is necessary for American parity with Great Britain under the London naval treaty.

In 1914 six American flagships of 70,000 gross tons were operated in our foreign trade with Europe. Today there are 232 ships of 1,500,000 gross tons operating in this trade.

Plainview Carpenter's Wife Gains 7 Pounds On Argotane; Now A Well Woman

"I have gained seven pounds since taking Argotane and am feeling like a well woman for the first time in two years," said Mrs. H. C. Cole, wife of a well-known carpenter, and living at 217 Hillcrest street, Plainview, Texas, recently.

"I suffered from a severe case of indigestion, nervousness and general run-down conditions," she continued, "and in spite of everything I did, I just kept getting worse. I finally got to where I couldn't eat anything, and got fatter and caused those bloating spells. My nerves were all on edge and I could hardly sleep at all for worrying about my condition and by morning I would be so weak and fagged out I was barely able to get up at all. I was fast going down hill and I actually got so weak and listless at last I just had to stay in bed part of the time. I was gradually losing weight, and I tried all kinds of medicines and treatments, but nothing seemed to bring my health and strength back."

"One day a friend came to me and told me so much about Argotane, and what it had done that I decided to try it. I am certainly getting wonderful results, and had only taken a few boxes when I knew that I had found the medicine I needed. I have improved right along ever since and can now eat anything I want and it agrees with me. My kidneys and bowels are back to normal and rest every night and sleep like a child. I have honestly gained seven pounds on Argotane and it has helped me so much, my husband is now taking it. Argotane is the best medicine I have ever seen or heard of and a medicine that will do what Argotane did for me is certainly worth recommending."

Genuine Argotane may be purchased in Lubbock at the Bowen's Drug Store. AGY.

Selling Of October, Other New Crop Months Encouraged By Rainfall Reports From Central, Eastern Areas

NEW ORLEANS, May 9. (AP)—Cotton was influenced to somewhat lower levels today by rather good rains in the central and eastern portions of the belt where needed. This led to selling of October and other new crop months. In the early trading there had been further selling of July while October was comparatively steady and the difference between the months narrowed to 123 points, but the later selling of October on the rains while the near month remained steady widened the difference to 142 points. July after dropping to 16.09 down 29 points closed at 16.07 down 7 points from the day. The general market closed steady 7 to 8 points lower.

C.—Telling how he was benefited by taking Theodor's Black-Draught, Mr. Charles Senn, 121 Sumner Street, this city, recently said: "My work is confining and at times my hours are irregular. This caused me to suffer with constipation and indigestion, or gas, making me feel a tightness in my chest. "When constipated, I would have dizzy spells; my head ached and my eyes would water and burn. At times I would have to steady myself by leaning against the wall to keep on with my work. "My mother is a great believer in Black-Draught, and advised me to try it. I did, and would get relief almost immediately. Now I take it when I feel the need of a laxative. "There is no need to suffer when there is a reliable medicine like Black-Draught that will cleanse the system and make one feel like new. That is what Black-Draught has done for me." "Purely vegetable, easy to take, without bad after-effects."

By JOHN L. COOLEY Associated Press Financial Writer NEW YORK, May 9.—Stocks slithered along on slippered feet today, content to hold in a narrow rut. The market was on generally higher ground at the end of its uneventful five-hour journey. In sharp contrast to last Monday's 6,000,000 share turnover, the volume barely exceeded 3,000,000 shares.

A half dozen issues, including Standard Oil of New York, Studebaker, General Motors, Consolidated Gas, Kroger Grocery and American Tobacco, selling ex-dividend, more than made up the amount of shares automatically pared from their quotations.

Several others advanced. The market was on generally higher ground at the end of its uneventful five-hour journey.

the steel vault would explode as it did several years ago. Members of the crowd waited until the flames subsided, then started pulling the blackened walls down in an attempt to cool off the vault. It was provided with ventilation and apparently they were not convinced the negro was dead.

Acetylene Torch Used An acetylene torch was used to cut through the outer two inches of steel. Then a hole was dug into the layer of concrete eight inches thick and a stick of dynamite set off, and the torch again applied to the inner two inch casing.

Rangers Frank Hamer, George Goff and M. T. Gonzalez and two other rangers whose names were not learned, turned up at a late hour after a report had been circulated that they left by airplane early tonight. They were armed with shoulder machine guns in addition to their regular weapons.

Sixteen sheriffs and deputies from surrounding counties also gathered. The number included Raoul Taylor and a deputy from Brown county, Oklahoma. Three police officers from Dallas were on hand, but no attempt was made to interfere with the crowd.

Because of the reputation for fearlessness and efficiency of Ranger Captain Hamer and Ranger Sergeant Wootley, many believed that entry into the vault would disclose that the negro had been spirited away.

Failure to find the negro's body was feared as a torch that would inflame the mob with consequent danger to all Sherman negroes and the areas of their residence.

Several Thousand Persons Battle Detachment of Troops for Body SHERMAN, May 9. (AP)—Violence broke out here tonight as a mob of several thousand persons divided into two sections, one battling a detachment of troops on the square where the courthouse had been burned earlier in the day and another mob storming the jail.

Hardly had a detachment of 60 or 70 men from the 144th Infantry of national guardsmen arrived from Dallas when the mob again unleashed its fury. The troops attempted to drive the crowd from the grounds of the smoke blackened courthouse.

Persons in the crowd attacked the guardsmen with their fists, sticks, stones and bottles. While this melee was in progress, another portion of the mob advanced upon the Grayson county jail and the guardsmen were compelled to divide their forces to send help to Sheriff Arthur Vaughan and his men. One man was reported shot in the encounter at the jail but his name was not learned immediately.

Reports had been current that Sheriff Vaughan had resigned but when telephoned at the jail, he said, "I don't know now. They're storming my jail. I'll talk to you later."

The negro population of Sherman, estimated at from 1,500 to 2,000, was no where to be seen tonight and the negro quarter of the city appeared completely deserted.

Razing Negro Quarters Hinted Rumors had been reported at various times during the afternoon that the mob intended to march upon the negro quarter tonight and burn all buildings there. After pulling down brick walls about the vault where the negro was believed dead members of the mob obtained ladders and climbed up to the vault and placed several sticks of dynamite on top of its door, which they had been unable to open. They lighted a long fuse but it went out without exploding the charge. Before they could climb to the vault to light the fuse again, the guardsmen from Dallas arrived and the mob turned its attention to resisting efforts made by troops to clear the courthouse grounds.

Five White Boys Hit Over Head With Guns and Bottles in Fight SHERMAN, May 9. (AP)—Five white boys were injured today in the riots marking the death of George Hughes, 41 year old negro who recently attacked a white woman of this community. The youths were hit over the head with guns or bottles. None of the injuries was considered dangerous.

J. R. Melton, 16, high school youth of Sherman, hit over the head with a pistol belt. Walter Bailey, hit over the head and in the back of the neck with a rifle.

Dan Shero, Sherman, shot with birdshot while in the courthouse. Lynn Scott, 17, high school student, hit over the eye with a bottle and seriously cut. Weldon O'Neal, 36, Van Alstyne, hit in the back of the head with a bottle.

A detachment of national guard from Denison arrived this afternoon and marched around the square with fixed bayonets. Nearly a thousand people crowded at the edges of the streets leaving a pathway along the street barely wide enough for the soldiers to march. Bottles, rocks and other missiles were hurled at the guardsmen, and one of the bottles struck O'Neal.

Governor Pleads with Sherman Citizens to Halt Violence AUSTIN, May 10. (Saturday). (AP)—Governor Dan Moody shortly after 1 o'clock this morning stated that he had called citizens at Sherman last night and asked them to address the mob there and ask it to disperse.

The governor also said that he had asked the Sherman citizens with whom he talked to urge the mob against starting a race riot.

AUSTIN, May 9. (AP)—Governor Dan Moody tonight ordered Colonel Louis Davidson of Dallas and 225 additional men to entrain immediately for Sherman to aid in quelling the disturbance that marked the attempt today to try a negro for an attack on a white girl. The detachment contained 225 men and were armed with machine guns, tear bombs, rifles and side arms.

Martial law was not declared. Governor Moody stated he had been informed there was serious danger of a race riot and that additional troops had been mobilized and ordered ready to move on an instant's notice to the disturbed area. Moody said that as many troops as deemed would be dispatched to Sherman.

The troops ordered to Sherman were from Dallas and Fort Worth. Governor Dan Moody said he had been informed that Lieutenant Colonel Albert Sydney Johnson of the Texas National guard had been seriously injured at Sherman.

Johnson, a lawyer, is secretary of the Texas democratic party, and Wednesday appeared here before the supreme court to defend the democratic committee against James E. Ferguson's mandamus suit. Moody deplored the scenes of violence at Sherman incident to the trial of George Hughes, negro, on a charge of criminal attack on a white woman and at the same time pronounced the use of every power of the state to prevent any interference with the orderly procedure of justice.

Moody Issues Instructions Definite instructions were issued by the governor to Lieut. Col. Lawrence McGee of Dallas, who was dispatched to Sherman with a company of national guardsmen. The troops were sent to Sherman at the request of District Judge R. M. Carter.

Moody stated: "It is regrettable that the state is forced to take the extreme steps of calling on the national guard to prevent mob violence but this is a government of law and order and not of mobs. The power of the state government should be utilized to the fullest to protect the orderly administration of justice in accordance with the law of the land."

Grayson County's $60,000 Courthouse Razed by Flames SHERMAN, May 9. (AP)—Repelled with tear bombs in three attacks by Texas rangers and county officers, a mob here this afternoon finally dashed 10 gallons of gasoline into the courthouse and caused the death of George Hughes, negro, at the cost of Grayson county's $60,000 court building.

The negro, according to Sheriff Arthur Vaughan, had been rushed into the vault during the first assault of the mob. The court building was set fire after the angry mob had been driven away by tear bombs hurled by officers who gathered about the negro as he was about to go on trial for attacking a young white woman near here last Saturday.

Unsuccessful Three Times Three times the mob unsuccessfully rushed the building. On the fourth charge members of the mob hurled 10 gallons of gasoline into the basement and lighted it under the room in which the negro was locked. The fire hose was cut and the courthouse was soon a mass of flames.

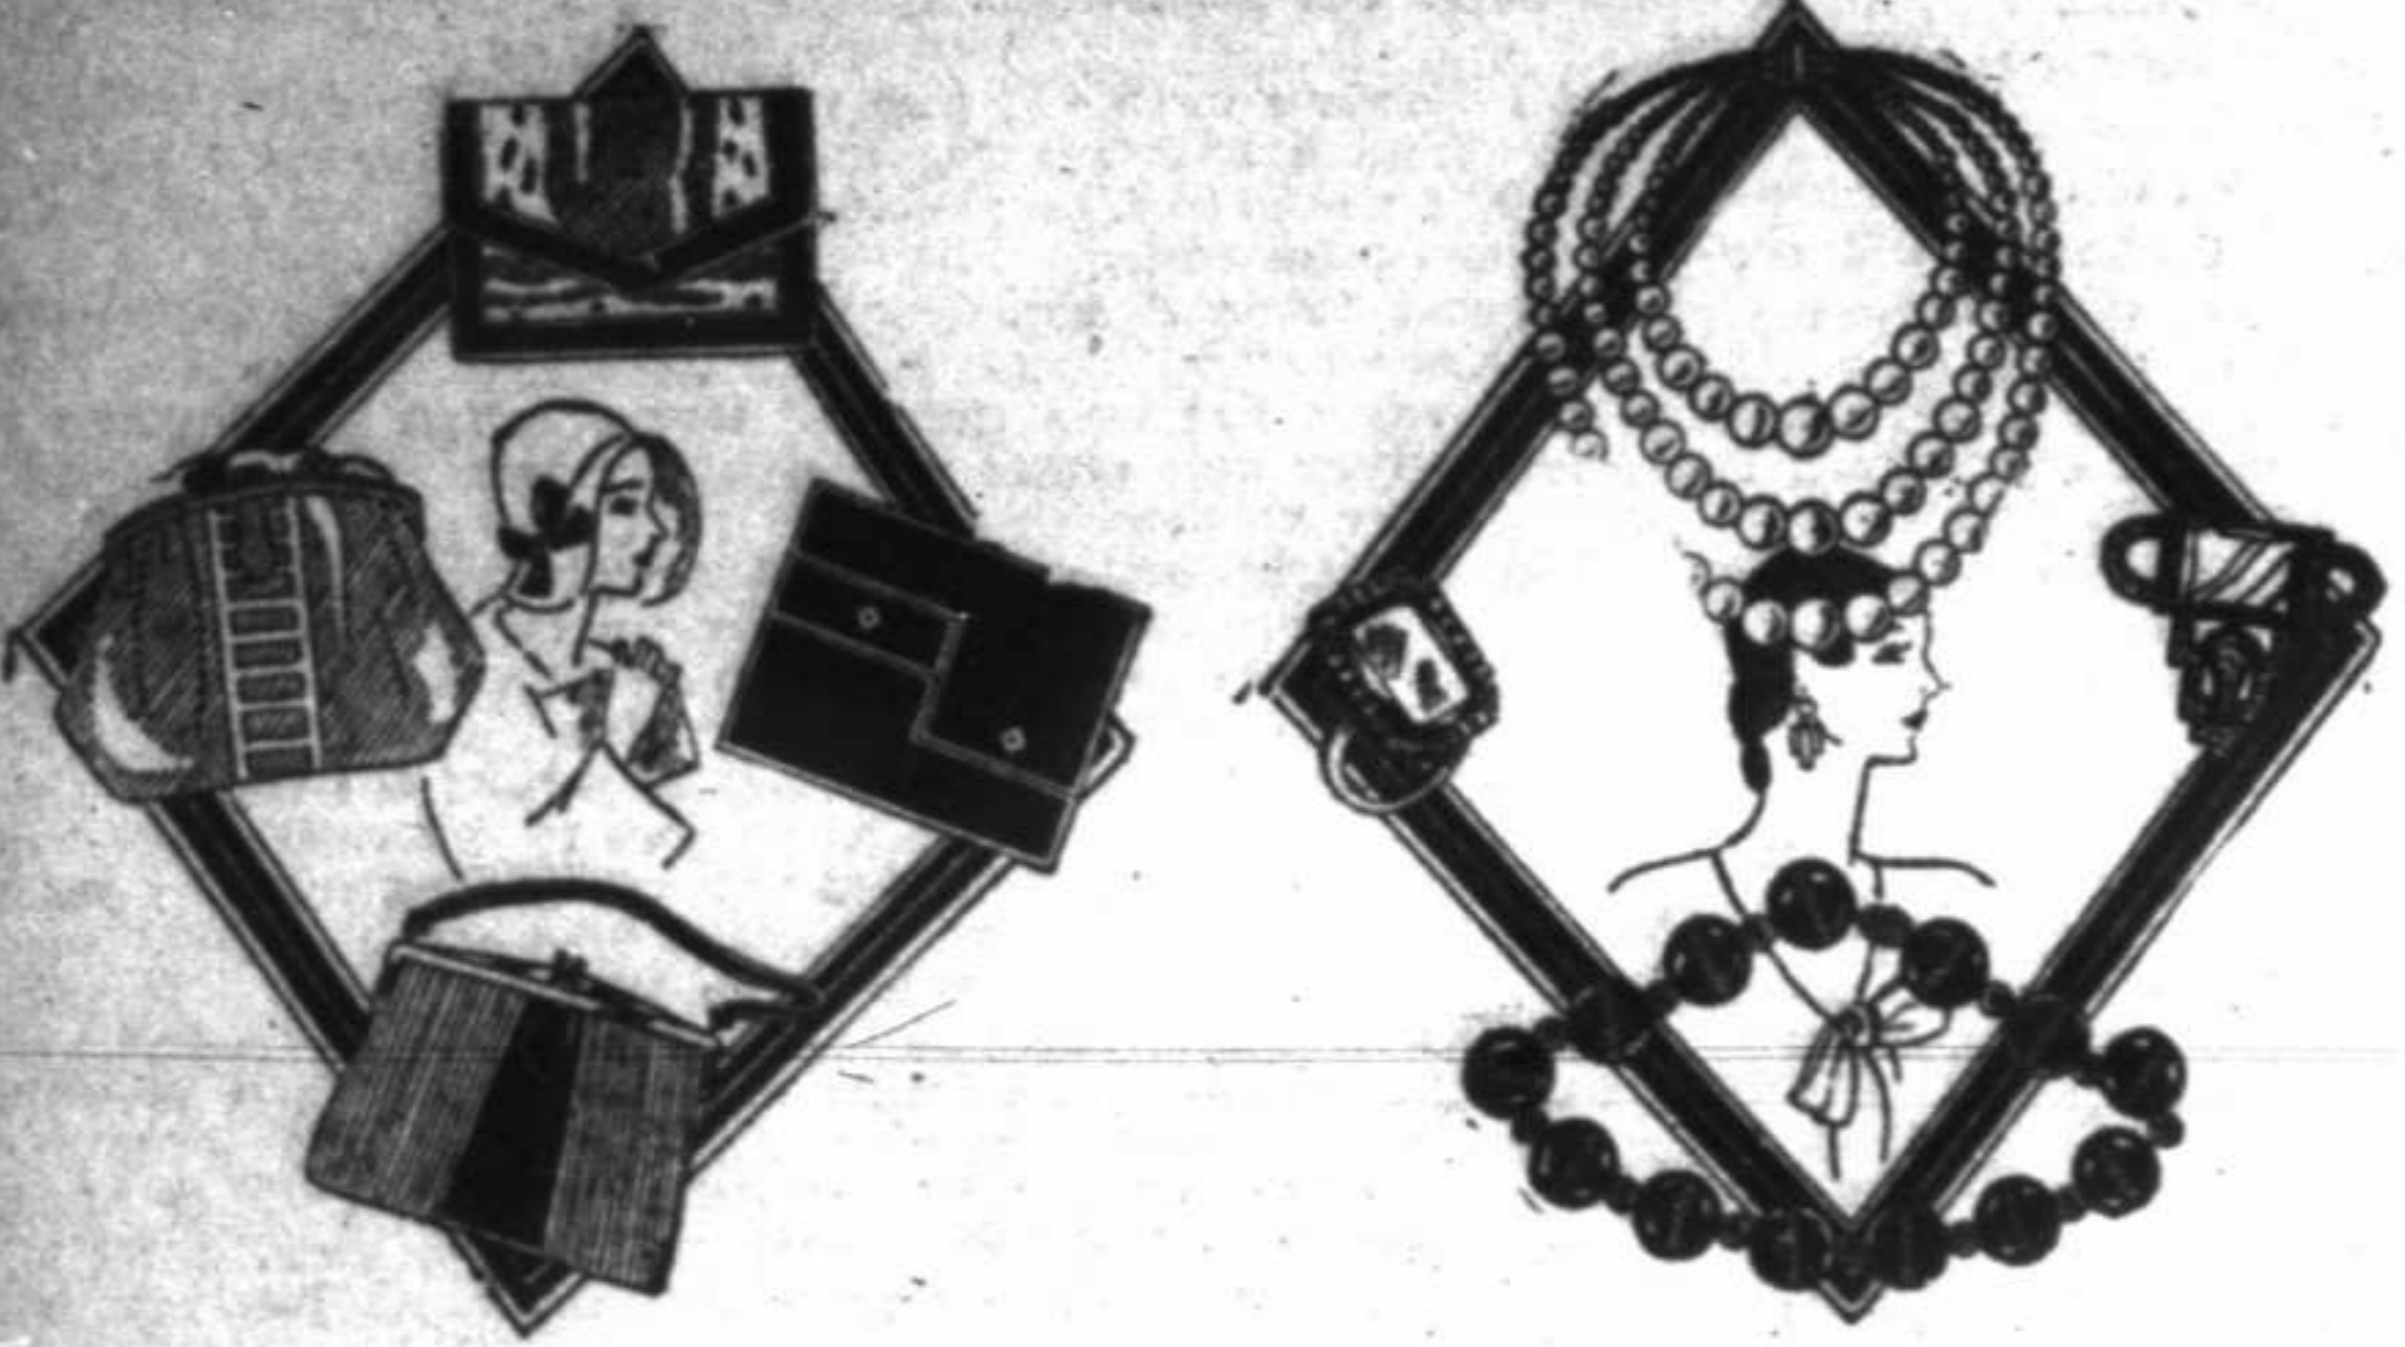

Asks from pushing the mob back by physical exertion and using their guns as clubs, tear bombs and water from fire hose were the only methods employed by the officers in combating the crowd. The mob became unruly shortly after Hughes was brought into the courtroom for trial. Officers were forced to use the bombs and after much difficulty cleared the building and stationed themselves at vantage points.

During the siege Captain Frank Hamer, in charge of the rangers, wired Gov. Dan Moody. Business structures on the north side of the courthouse square were threatened for a time as firemen sought to control the flames with what few feet of hose the mob had left intact.

Only Blackened Walls Remain Tonight the blackened walls of the courthouse was all that remained of that structure. It was built about 1890 and had been remodeled several times since. Sheriff Vaughan said the negro was given his choice of running to escape the mob, after the courthouse fire, or of being shut in the vault. He chose the vault.

When last seen by the officers, he was sitting in a chair in the vault, his head bowed upon his folded arms. The crowd of several hundred young men, most of them in their teens, were still milling about the square, although disorders subsided after the fire department had been blocked in its efforts to quench the courthouse blaze. Fire hose had been cut so water could not be turned on the blazing building. The structure was wrecked. Officials warned the mob not to attempt to put water on the vault where the negro had been confined, fearing

Damage Of $3,000,000 Caused When Tanker Explodes; Ten Thousand Gasoline Engine Causes Blast

(By Associated Press) BAYONNE, N. J., May 9.—Flames flung in all directions by the explosion of a 10,000 gallon gasoline tanker Thursday swept the 13-acre plant of the Gulf Refining company and destroyed property valued at more than $3,000,000 before being brought under control. The flames roared with volcanic force among a nest of tanks containing millions of gallons of crude oil, fuel, gasoline and naphtha, but did not reach any gasoline tanks. Sixteen tanks exploded, with detonations heard for miles, and burst into flames. Seven men were injured. Gunner Frieden and Charles Nodahl, members of the crew of the tanker Schutia, were seriously injured. Frieden may die.

In addition, three city firemen and an employe of the company were overcome and Inbert Hoarlenst of the Schutia, was injured slightly.

Hearings Set for High Line Suits

(By Staff Correspondent) LAMESA, May 9.—One of the largest groups of condemnation cases handed in courts of this section of Texas is expected to be heard during the May term of county court of Dawson county, when a group of cases against the Texas Electric Service company, a local utility company, is heard. Date of the hearings is starting May 26.

The company recently completed a high line from Big Spring to Lamesa, a distance of some 55 miles. When the committee named to set the damages for the high line construction awarded $100 for setting of two poles, in pairs, the utility company appealed.

Among the persons through whose land the high line passes and who are said to be entitled to judgment are: H. H. Bacon, Stuart estate, Dr. Parmer, J. M. Coates, J. N. Lowmire, J. B. Manning and Mrs. Sarah Moore. It is some 25 miles from Lamesa to Ackerly, on the county line where the high line will pass out of Dawson county. By an airline the distance to the county line will be several miles less, it is estimated. Judge Philip Yonge, county judge, will preside in the cases.
