

Naval Men Send Associated Press Money from Pacific To "Buy Off" Plant Strikers

NEW YORK, June 22—(AP)—The Associated Press is in receipt of the following communication by registered airmail, marked as coming from the U.S.S. Coos Bay, a sea-plane tender, and stamped "Passed by Naval Censor."

Sirs:

We the crew of the U.S.S. Coos

Bay, which consists mainly of survivors of other naval ships or veterans of major naval engagements, and all who have seen action not once but many times and who, while on this cruise, have not had a liberty for one full year, feel that we can do more than fight and even give our lives if necessary for our country. We are willing to help pay the wage increase from our meager pay that money-hungry strikers are demanding if they will just continue to produce the implements necessary so that we can end this war. We have seen war—and we hate it.

We have chosen you as our agent or go-between to represent us in our campaign to "buy off" the present strikers of the Wright Aircraft Corporation with the money we have collected from our small crew: a total of 41,500 pennies.

Please inform them to end their strike and accept our offer to help pay their wage increase which they feel is more important than our lives.

Ask them not to strike in the future, instead, let the men in the war zone know of their dissatisfaction and they will gladly chip in each month to save them from starvation so that they may continue to produce arms for us to defeat their enemy as well as ours, and so that we may come home soon to see the ones we love, our sons and daughters which we have never seen and our wives and mothers who have been waiting for us day and night, also to see our country for which we are willing to die—yes—and to see you strikers; do you want to see us?

Out here we are close to our "foreign" enemies and can properly deal with them; our enemies at home we cannot reach. Therefore, in desperation, we can think of nothing but to offer our money to "buy" them back to work; this money having been earned honestly and in the belief that our efforts were the salvation and protection of those who are striking against us.

The crew of the U.S.S. Coos Bay. P.S. If the Wright strike is over, just choose another. There are always plenty at hand.

The money accompanying this letter, all in U. S. paper currency, has been forwarded to the Secretary of the Navy, James V. Forrestal. It comprised three $100 bills, five of $20 denomination, one $10 bill and one $2 bill.

At Washington, the Associated Press sought comment from Forrestal and R. J. Thomas, National President of the United Automobile Workers, members of which union were involved in an unauthorized strike at the plant of the Wright Aeronautical Company at Lockland, Ohio. Comment also was sought from local officers of the union.

Thomas said at Detroit May 27 that "public opinion has become inflamed against the strike, which was ended June 9. The company said approximately 240 workers were discharged when they refused to man machines."

A walkout of 15,000 started at the Wright plant June 5, after seven Negroes were transferred to a department which had been operated by white workers. The Negroes remained at their jobs throughout the strike, which was ended June 9. The company said approximately 240 workers were discharged when they refused to man machines.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 22—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's forces unlimbered this afternoon their greatest assault since the storming of the beaches of Normandy—a combined land and air attack intended to crack the last defenses of the fortified city of Cherbourg.

The attack began when waves of British and American planes swept in with a terrific aerial barrage lasting 80 minutes, a field dispatch from Associated Press War Correspondent Don Whitehead reported.

Rocked back on their heels by the weight of this assault in light and medium bombers dropped down almost to cannon-mouth level to drop their explosive charges, the Germans were immediately beset by a thunderous artillery pounding which left smoke and flame sweeping the German forts.

American doughboys of Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, drawn up in position tensely waiting the effect of this bombardment, were ordered to advance on June 8, which they last were reported hammering at Fort du Roule, only about 1,500 yards south of the millitary port, and at Fort Octeville, only slightly farther away to southwest.

The latest headquarters announcement showed the concerted attack had virtually split the German garrison into three segments. Bradley's troops captured St. Pierre Eglise, 8 1/2 miles east of the port, and the last road junction leading to Cherbourg from Cape Barfleur, isolating the Germans in the northeastern tip of the peninsula. Other troops coming up from the south had entered Quetion, a large town near St. Vast la Hougue on the east coast and 13 miles southeast of Cherbourg.

On the west another spearhead had practically split the Germans in Cherbourg from those in the northwestern tip of the Peninsula by advancing to within half a mile of Beaumont-Hague on the road to Cap de la Hague. Beaumont-Hague is 8 1/2 miles west of Cherbourg.

Supreme headquarters said it lacked any knowledge of a reported American ultimatum on June 8, which called for the German garrison surrender by 7 a. m. Greenwich

WASHINGTON, June 22—(AP)—Governor Ellis Arnall of Georgia came out of President Roosevelt's office today and predicted the chief executive will accept a fourth term nomination if it is tendered him by the Democratic national convention.

The governor, freely admitting he is not a politician, said he would not be surprised if Mr. Roosevelt makes a public statement shortly after next week's Republican convention "as to his willingness to abide by party decisions irrespective of his personal desires and that he will submit to the mandates of the Democratic convention."

The Georgia Democrat voiced this comment to reporters as he left the White House after an appointment with Mr. Roosevelt which some Democrats in congress hailed as a peace gesture toward southern Democrats, since the report has been toward the fourth term movement.

The governor said Georgia's electoral vote will be pledged to support the party nominee and said the action could be taken as a satisfaction of Texas, Mississippi and South Carolina where proposals have been made that electoral votes be withheld if the Democratic platform contains planks distasteful to the south.

STEVENS ON SAYS PEOPLE SATISFIED

AUSTIN, June 22—(AP)—Every department of government is functioning in a way that meets approval of the people, Governor Coke R. Stevenson declared in an address before the Texas good roads association last night.

Speaking last night the governor said his statement was based on observations and conversations in 140 communities he has visited since last January 1.

He said further that Texans everywhere are cooperating fully in the war effort and the state government is among the best.

"A high ranking military officer from Washington told me recently that the cooperation given the military in Texas was second to none among the states," he added.

"Not the least of the war support in Texas is maintenance of our highway system for the benefit of the military," he said.

The governor said that the highway department has conserved in war bonds a $30,000,000 fund for postwar road construction and plans already made can be put into operation 30 days after the war's end.

SOMEWHERE IN THE ADMIRALTY ISLANDS, June 22—Late yesterday I was sitting here looking idly at people as they walked past. A tall, blonde soldier came into view. That soldier looks familiar, I thought. When he saw me, a big smile broke out on his face. Then I recognized him. He was Pfc. Robert Dale Elkins, Service Troops, 7th Cavalry, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Elkins, 407 North Hill St., Pampa. He was the first Panamanian I've seen since I arrived in these islands, but I'm going to see plenty more, according to Dale.

Pfc. Elkins has been here several months. He arrived just before I did. He is not stationed on this island, but I can look out any time and see his island. Other Pan-pans on this and another island close by are Sgt. Red Hawkins, son of Billy Hawkins who operates a repair shop at Five Points; Pfc. Calvin Dollard, 8th Cavalry; Ernest Christie, a corporal in the 7th, and Pfc. Raymond Byars, also in the 7th. Two Miami boys in the same outfit are Cpl. J. R. Cox and Sgt. Claude Morrison. Pfc. Henry Gay of Panhandle is also in Elkins' unit. I haven't seen any of these boys yet, but I'm going over here in the near future and look them up, if they don't come over here in the meantime.

I'm anxious to see Red Hawkins. I saw Red's brother, Bill, on three different islands out here last year, and for five months he lived within 200 yards of each other. I don't know where Bill is now, but I'm

Deferment Offered Men To Work Harvest

Deferment of from 20 to 30 days may be given men about to be inducted into service from the Panhandle, provided they take part in wheat harvesting, it was announced today by Rep. Worley at Washington. Their deferment will be handled through the Panhandle Selective Draft Boards, it was said.

However, farmers who have been clinging to the hope that soldiers would be permitted to help in the harvest are in for disappointment, for the War Department, it was learned here yesterday, prefers that they rest during any time they have off and to visit their relatives whenever possible.

That was the upshot of a conference held here Monday, attended by Col. Charles B. Harvin, commanding officer of Pampa Field; Judge Sherman White; Garnet Reeves, CC secretary; Weimar S. Tolbert, rancher, and farm labor committee member; and Glenn T. Hackney, county farm agent.

Enlistees who have furloughs can apply and be employed in the harvest, but the military frowns on the practice, although not absolutely cracking down and saying no.

An average of 10 harvest hands a day has been employed the past week through the county farm agent's office. Agent Hackney yesterday had applications from 20 farmers seeking hands.

Wages range from $5 to $10 a day. Experienced combine hands and combines are the biggest need of the wheat farmers now. An application has been sent to D. A. Adams.

Temperature 98 Here Yesterday

Old Sol raised the reading one point yesterday over Tuesday, with 98 recorded by the U. S. Weather Bureau here. Although there were no prostrations known to have occurred, many persons were perceptibly affected by the heat.

The weatherman, forecasting fair weather and continued hot, held out little promise for relief to any part of the state.

Three deaths already had been attributed to the heat this week. Lubbock remained the state's hot spot yesterday with a maximum recording of 104, the sixth straight day of 100-plus weather.

Wichita Falls and Cleburne reported 101, San Angelo, 100 and Dallas 99.7.

Funeral services were arranged in Breckenridge for A. R. Alexander, 62, of Baird, Texas, who died of heat exhaustion at Wichita Falls Tuesday. Two other heat victims died in Dallas Tuesday.

Russians Try For Quick End To Finns' War

LONDON, June 22—(AP)—The Red Army hurled masses of men and equipment into two new drives on a broad front north of Lake Ladoga today in an effort to make a quick end of the war with Finland, already reported in the throes of a government upheaval which may be the prelude to a bid for peace.

Launching of the drives was announced last night in a Moscow communique, which also disclosed that Soviet forces advancing from captured Viipuri on the Karelian Isthmus south of Lake Ladoga were within 20 miles of the border fixed at the end of the 1939-40 Finnish-Russian war.

The political situation in Helsinki as the Russians intensified pressure on the staggering Finnish army remained obscure, but there were strong indications that the Finnish government was facing a crisis.

A Reuters dispatch from Stockholm said a Finnish peace cabinet had already been selected. An Associated Press Stockholm dispatch said the Swedish paper Svenska Dagbladet said the Finnish government had been "defacto solved," a phrase interpreted to mean that the cabinet was reformed, and could ask Moscow for armistice conditions.

The new Russian offensives were launched on the third anniversary of the German invasion of the Soviet union, and apparently aimed at clearing the Mankinsk-Leningrad railway of Finnish forces.

One of the thrusts was launched along the Svir river, between Lakes Ladoga and Onega (Onchok), approximately 150 to 200 miles north of Viipuri. The other was started about 100 miles further north, above Lake Onega, and cracked Finnish lines east of Medvezhogorsk, at the northwestern tip of the lake.

The broadcast Russian communique said that in the first day of the attack along the Svir more than 200 populated places had been occupied. Plunging behind the burning ruins of Viipuri, Red Army units were within 120 miles of the Finnish capital of Helsinki after taking most of the additional places, the Soviet communique added.

Commercial Meat Being Investigated

SAN ANTONIO, June 22—(AP)—State hearings to investigate possible diseased conditions of livestock sold for public consumption continued here today with state Representative Roger Q. Evans, who inspected local packing plants and stock yards yesterday before the opening session, said:

"I saw here a very bad condition, like found in other sections of the state."

Evans said the special committee is interested primarily in improving present state and municipal regulations concerning the slaughtering of livestock to make mandatory the condemning of livestock on the hoof that shows a condition of cancer about the head.

Roosevelt Signs Into Law 'G.I. Bill of Rights'

WASHINGTON, June 22—(AP)—President Roosevelt today signed the "G. I. bill of rights" setting up a vast government aid program for veterans of this war.

With congressional leaders and heads of veterans' organizations looking on, the chief executive put his signature to the measure authorizing federal loans, hospitalization, job insurance, schooling and other ex-service benefits estimated to cost between $3,000,000,000 and $6,500,000,000.

The president said the bill carries out most of the recommendations he has made for veterans' aid and notifies the members of the armed forces that the people at home will not let them down. 59 averaged additional war service legislation, however, veterans social security credit toward old age pensions for the time served in the armed forces and to provide education and unemployment compensation benefits for members of the merchant marine. What veterans want more than anything, he said, is assurance of employment after the war.

Parentetically he urged the congress to hasten work on legislation providing compensation for war workers during the industrial shift from war to peace-time manufacturing and recommended prompt on legislation to provide for the orderly disposal of postwar surpluses.

Nitroglycerin In Hand, Man Exacts $6,000 From Bank

FORT WORTH, June 22—(AP)—A slight, thin-faced, nervous man, cowering a small bottle he indicated contained nitroglycerin, robbed the Continental National Bank here of $6,000 at 9:55 a. m. and escaped in the street.

He thrust a note, captioned "nitroglycerin," in capital letters and demanding $6,000 in bills of large denomination, through the window of the case of Mrs. Freda Denton, teller, and threatened:

"I'm desperate. Be calm, or I'll blow this bank and you to kingdom come. I'm watching every move you make."

Mrs. Denton handed over the money.

In a matter of minutes police and sheriff's deputies answered the call.

The robber, unmasked, weighed about 135 pounds, measured 5 feet and 9 inches, and was in his 30s. He wore a blue suit, believed to be double-breasted, and a tan straw hat.

Mrs. Denton said she did not have time to read all the note the man thrust at her—he began talking immediately. Clenched in his hand, she said, was a small bottle containing a milky fluid.

She said the note demanded large bills in the specified sum and instructed her to place the currency in a sack, which she did.

"There was nothing else to do," she said.

The loss was covered by insurance.

Rogers' Widow Is Dead at 65

SANTA MONICA, Calif., June 22—(AP)—Will Rogers' widow, whom he courted on a bicycle and whom he called "my first sweetheart," is dead.

Mrs. Betty Blake Rogers, 65, succumbed at the Rogers ranch home in Santa Monica canyon last night. Relatives said she had been ill for several weeks, and that she suffered a severe attack of influenza in Washington, D. C., during the winter.

Rogers, whose crinkly smile and quick wit won him fame as humorist, died at his home in Pampa, Texas, on Nov. 20, 1935. A month ago yesterday his body was entombed at Will Rogers Memorial in Claremore, Okla., his home town. Mrs. Rogers' body likewise will be interred there.

Betty Blake, known as "the prettiest girl in Arkansas," was born in Rogers, Texas, A. M. college, was killed there Nov. 25, 1906. Three children survive, Will Rogers, Jr., former congressman and now an army lieutenant; James Rogers, acting publisher of the Beverly Hills Citizen; and Miss Mary Rogers, who resided with her mother. Members of the family said they believe Lt. Rogers is overseas, or en route.

ALLIES ARE IN DRIVE TOWARD ADRIATIC PORT

By LYNN HEINZLINGER

ROME, June 22—(AP)—Allied and Italian troops are within 32 miles of Ancona, prize Italian port on the Adriatic coast, while eight army troops are approaching Cambrino, approximately 35 miles east and a little north of Perugia. Allied headquarters announced today.

American forces to the west have pushed on 15 airline miles north-west of Grosseto. In all land operations, although weather has improved, misty conditions are preventing cross-country movements on a large scale, a communique said.

The advance toward Ancona, ranking next to Venice in port facilities, is that coastal sector was made by troops which have reached Fermo, only 65 airline miles below Rimini, the eastern anchor of the so-called Pisa-Florence-Rimini line where the fleeing Germans may offer still resistance against the Allied drive.

Eighth army troops have also approached Nocera Umbra, 14 miles west of Cambrino. Limited gains were made north of the newly-taken ancient fortress city of Perugia, and in the lake Trasimeno area west of Perugia, despite strong resistance.

Court Insurance Ruling Taken Up

WASHINGTON, June 22—(AP)—Legislation intended to cancel out the Supreme Court's opinion that the insurance business is subject to anti-trust laws held the attention of the House today as Congress raced to a summer recess.

Three hours of debate were set aside to dispose of the measure, with the prospect that half a dozen departmental supply bills awaiting final action would be sandwiched in between.

The legislation is the outgrowth of a case involving federal action against 198 insurance companies accused of conspiracy to fix and maintain arbitrary and no-competition rates on fire insurance sold in Southern states. A federal district court sustained a demurrer to the indictment on the ground insurance was not interstate commerce and hence was not subject to the anti-trust laws.

Subsequently, in a split opinion reversing its stand of 75 years, the Supreme Court held that insurance is interstate commerce.

Backers of the legislation, a six-line proposal, contend it is necessary to protect the right of states to regulate insurance and to block control of that business by a federal bureaucracy. Opponents insist its enactment will result in transfer of the insurance business to big companies to the detriment of the smaller ones.

Half a dozen appropriation bills competing with the insurance measure for House attention, but one of them "remained only the formality of agreeing to compromises worked out by Senate-House committees. A war contract termination bill already passed by both branches was in the same status.

Casualties Are Nearing Quarter Million Figure

WASHINGTON, June 22—(AP)—American battle casualties are nearing the quarter-million mark, Secretary Stimson reported today that army casualties through June 6 (which would include D-Day) totaled 178,677, an increase of 6,800 since the report on June 8, which covered the period through May 21. The army dead now total 31,289, an increase of 2,337. The new announcement said that 1,373 were missing and 35,980 prisoners.

A navy casualty list announced today reports an overall figure of 46,705, an increase of 932 since a list published last week which showed total 20,044, an increase of 242. Wounded amount to 12,905, missing 9,226 and prisoners 4,461.

American troops are fighting in Italy since the landings last September suffered casualties totaling 64,992 through June 15. This was an increase of 2,991 since a report last week which covered the period through June 5. The dead in the Italian campaign now total 11,610, an increase of 587. Wounded 44,426 and missing 8,896. In the same period, air forces in this theatre operating in Italy and in strategic missions deep into Europe have had 9,052 casualties, of which 1,186 are killed, 1,373 wounded and 6,493 missing. This was the first time air force casualties in the Italian theatre have been announced separately.

No Military Titles To Appear on Ballot

CORPUS CHRISTI, June 22—(AP)—No military titles may appear on the ballot for the July 22 primary. George A. Butler, chairman, and Charles E. Simons, secretary, of the Democratic state executive committee, announced a question by Meredith Queen, Nueces county chairman.

"The Corpus Christi Caller-Times said political observers here interpret Queen's action as a move to identify John E. Lyle, army captain and former state representative, by his military title on the ballot."

The newspaper said Capt. Lyle has been advanced by friends as an opponent of Rep. Richard M. Kleberg, seeking renomination as Democratic congressman from the 14th congressional district.

Shenanigans Now In Furniture Business

WASHINGTON, June 22—(P)—OPA is striking out against furniture price-chiseling. It has taken action against more than 200 manufacturers, jobbers and, in some cases, retailers in the past four months.

Jobbers buy from manufacturers and sell to retailers from whom you buy. OPA officials say one of the sweeter rackets is creation of a lot of "dummy" jobbers to boost prices and bilk the public. This is the officials' story.

Not all manufacturers are cheating. Many are playing fair, maintaining prices. Many are not.

OPA put the furniture field under general price regulations two years ago. Generally, it meant a piece of furniture could not be sold now for more than a similar piece of furniture sold for in March, 1942.

There was a loophole there. By putting some cheap extra trimmings on exactly the same kind of furniture he made in 1942, a chiseling manufacturer might say it was not the same he made two years ago.

Nazis Expected To Quit in Fall

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 22—(P)—With two weeks of the western front operations now history, most top Allied military men feel that late fall or early winter of this year—rather than the end of summer as Prime Minister Churchill hinted—may see the collapse of Germany.

The opening of the second front has been easier than expected in many respects, and the Germans have shown some surprising weaknesses, but the two weeks of warfare indicate Hitler is taking a "long view" of the war and that Germany is capable of a bigger effort than shown thus far.

Two factors have shown that the Germans expect to fight on the continent for some time and are prepared to do so one has been to failure to commit the Luftwaffe in a do-or-die attempt to halt the invasion. The second is the "conservative" battle being waged by the German armies which, despite a series of counterattacks, have not made an all-out effort to drive the Allies into the sea.

Bad weather has not allowed the Allies the decisive edge in supplies to be landed which means a quick start for an all-out drive.

Land gains even on a large scale are unlikely to have a decided effect on a quick ending of the war. The main factor in a quick finish is the destruction of the German army's ability to fight and means killing enough Germans to wipe out strategic and tactical reserves and leave only a shell of a force.

How long this will take is anyone's guess, but it might come overnight if the Allies win a series of battles. The defeat of Germany might come long before the borders of the Reich are reached by Allied troops, should Allied troops catch and destroy Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's 15th and 7th armies in the same manner the Nazi 14th army was destroyed in Italy, since Germany's manpower situation can no longer make up or stand such losses.

On the other hand if the Germans fight stubborn rearward action over France, Belgium and Holland, never engaging in a great decisive battle, the war might drag on for months. Rommel might well be assigned such a task.

The German plan may come to

Skellytown Flier Receives DFC

The Distinguished Flying Cross has been awarded to Second Lt. Forrest C. Platt, Jr., son of Mrs. Bessie M. Platt of Skellytown, Flying Fortress navigator in the European theater of operations.

Augmenting his combat-won decorations, which include the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters, the new DFC carries a citation commending the 24-year-old Texan's "coolness, courage, and skill" in action. He received the award for "extraordinary achievement" over such important German targets as Berlin, Augsburg, Schweinfurt, Kiel, and Brunswick.

Now a veteran of 39 heavy bombardment daylight attacks over Europe, Lt. Platt has completed most of his missions as navigator of the Fortress, "Joanne."

He enlisted in the AAF as an aviation cadet in July, 1942, and was graduated from advanced navigation school at San Marcos, with his wings and commission on Oct. 7, 1943.

Overseas since last February, he flew his first mission March 9 against Berlin.

Kit Kat Members Plan Dance And Swimming Party

Plans were made for a dance and a swimming party when members of the Kit Kat Club met Tuesday evening.

The group first met in the home of Beverly Chandler to hold their business meeting after which they went to the City park, returning to the Chandler home for refreshments of lemonade and cookies.

Group pictures were distributed among members.

Those attending were: Ann Barrett, Patsy Dunigan, Coleen Chisholm, Wanda Jay, Gloria Jay, Jean Pratt, Margie Gaylor, Gwen Weston, Janice Wheatley, Beverly Baker, Shirley Stone, Wynelou Cost, Marjorie Roth, Libby Sturgeon, Joyce Pratt, Patsy Miller, Mrs. V. L. Boyles and the hostess.

Food For Fifth Is Discussed When Merten Club Meets

Proper food for children was studied when members of the Merten Club met in the home of Mrs. Frank Bailey.

In commenting on the subject for discussion, Mrs. C. H. Hammett said, "Often, when adults, express a dislike for certain foods, this dislike is reflected by the child."

Mrs. Allen Say spoke on the necessary foods for basic growth and development for children from one to six years old.

Mrs. H. H. Threault reported on what the community is doing to aid schools in securing wholesome noon meals.

Plans were then made to quilt for the Red Cross and a picnic was scheduled for members and their families to be held July 7, at 7 p.m., at the home of Mrs. C. B. Haney.

Following the business meeting a chicken salad course was served to the following: Mrs. C. B. Haney, Mrs. C. H. Hammett, C. B. Haney, J. H. Fish, G. L. Burba, H. H. Threault, T. L. Sinnan, T. G. Groves, V. Smith, Allen Say, Frank Bailey; four new members, Mrs. C. L. Hunter, Mrs. Earl C. Casey, Mrs. R. C. McNett, Mrs. J. Emory Jones and two visitors, Mrs. Bob Bailey and Miss Beth Bailey.

Mrs. Earl Kromer Honored at Party Given in Shamrock

Special To The NEWS.

SHAMROCK, June 22.—Mrs. Earl Kromer was honored with a coffee party Thursday morning by members of the Thursday Literary club, of which she is a member, with Mrs. L. E. Davis as hostess.

Garden flowers, used about the rooms, made a pretty setting for the morning party, of which informality was the keynote.

Mrs. Kromer, who is moving to Houston to make her home, was presented with a gift from the club.

Games and conversation provided entertainment.

Special members present included the honoree, and Mmes. J. R. Benson, Roy Boatright, W. Y. Burden, J. B. Christner, T. C. Davis, Charles Green, H. B. Hill, A. N. Holmes, Royce Lewis, Charles Perry, Ben A. Skidmore and H. S. Weatherby.

The next meeting will be held June 27 at 2:30 at the church.

All-Day Meeting Held For LeFors Methodist Women

How to Ruin Dresses and Lose Friends

It's tragic how some girls lose their friends and ruin their dresses because of perspiration odor and stains. And there's no excuse for it! It's easy to save dresses, it's easy to save friends.

Use Arrid, the new cream deodorant that helps keep your armpits dry and removes the odor from perspiration. Arrid is safe and dependable for these 5 reasons:

1. Does not irritate skin. Does not rot dresses or men's shirts.
2. Prevents under-arm odor. Helps stop perspiration safely.
3. A pure white, antiseptic, stainless cream.
4. No waiting to dry. Can be used right after shaving.
5. Awarded Approval Seal of American Institute of Laundering—harmless to fabric. Use Arrid regularly.

Arrid is the largest selling deodorant. Sold at all stores selling toilet goods—10c, 30c and 50c a jar.

Dr. N. L. Nicholl Speaker at Second Day of Scout Camp

During the second day of Brownie Scout Camp which is currently being held at the Little Scout house, the girls named their units and made arm bands bearing their chosen insignia.

Unit one chose to be known as the "Laggs group; unit two, Brownie Scout Troop; unit three, Four-Leaf Clover; unit four, Rainbow group. Games were then held under the leadership of Mrs. Craig Fullerton.

Dr. N. L. Nicholl, with the help of his dog, "Happy," showed the Brownies how a dog should be trained and cared for. He said, "First, you must feed him properly; provide a good place for him to sleep which he recognizes as his own and you must keep him clean and well-groomed. Unless you provide these three necessities for your pet, you should not have one."

Dr. Nicholl answered questions about the proper care and training of pets and demonstrated handling and care of dogs.

The following girls in the Four-Leaf Clover unit, under the direction of Mrs. Carlton Nance and Norma Johnson had charge of the raising of the colors in the morning and re-treat at the close of the day: Nancy Ann Carter, Marilyn Fitzgerald, Charlotte Hendricks, Phyllis Ann Neustiel, Betty Ann Williams and Helen Kay Wilson.

Louise Caperton Becomes Bride Of Lt. H. W. Coffman

Special To The NEWS.

SHAMROCK, June 22.—In an impressive single ring ceremony, Miss Louise Caperton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Caperton of this city, became the bride of Lieut. Henderson W. Coffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Polk Coffman of Clarksville, Tex., June 14, at 5:30 p.m.

Nuptial vows were spoken at the Post Chapel at Camp Plauche, New Orleans, La., with Chaplain Robert T. McFarland officiating. The chaplain's assistant provided music, playing "Because" and "I Love You Truly," and as the bride party entered, "The Bridal Chorus" from the opera, "Lohengrin," by Wagner.

Miss Janet Caperton, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Her dress was a floor-length orchid marquisette and she carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Midshipman Royce Clay Lewis Jr. of New Orleans, served the groom as best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding gown, white slipper satin, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, a tight-fitting basque, and full net skirt over satin with a sweeping train. Flowers of satin were applied to the net. Her finger-tip veil of imported illusion, was held in place with a halo of shirred ruffles and orange blossoms. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white gaidous and white carnations with white satin streamers.

Following the ceremony the bridal party was entertained with a dinner at the Roosevelt hotel in New Orleans.

Mrs. Coffman is a graduate of the Shamrock High school and has been attending Christian college in Columbia, Mo., where her major was home-making.

Lieut. Coffman, prior to entering the Army in January, 1942, attended North Texas State Teachers' college, Denton, Tex., where he majored in music.

Guests attending the wedding included the bride's mother, Mrs. J. H. Caperton, Mr. Richard Beasley of Baton Rouge, La., Apprentice Seaman Jeff Green, of New Orleans, and Mrs. Ann Sappington of New Orleans.

The couple will be at home in New Orleans for the present.

Continuing a series of meetings, the Youth Mission held their meeting at the First Methodist church last night with Sgt. Everett P. Coe, PAAF, giving the opening prayer and Captain Herschel Murphy, U. S. Army, leading the group in prayer.

A special song service was held after which Miss Faye Moorhead, Mrs. Lucille Haverd, and Mrs. Anna Mae Darling sang, "One Day," accompanied at the piano by Tracy Cary.

Speaker for the evening was Cpl. James Haverd, PAAF.

The service tonight will be under the direction of Myron P. Reichardt and special music will be given by the French.

Meetings are interdenomination and inter-racial and an invitation has been extended to the public to attend.

Home Nurse Course Is Discontinued

Because of a change of itinerary, Miss Edith Tiffany, nursing field representative from the midwestern area office in St. Louis, who has been in Pampa instructing the 12 hour Home Nurse course, announced today that classes originally scheduled for next week will not be held.

Pampa Women are now completing the 12 hour course in Home Nursing. The course was designed in order that the basic fundamentals of nursing might be obtained in a short number of hours. According to Mrs. W. R. Campbell, chairman, the course has proven of value to many Pampa women and women of surrounding territory.

We, the Women

By RUTH MILLETT

A few years ago every time a woman went to a lecture or picked up a magazine she was told that being a good mother wasn't enough. That she owed it to herself to be a person.

Well, the new doctrine caught on, as it was bound to. In fact it caught on entirely too well.

A great many women, in their whole-hearted acceptance of the creed, misinterpreted "not enough to be a good mother" to mean "not important to be a good mother."

So they got busy being other things, at the expense of being good mothers. They ran around in circles being club women. They wasted away their time trying to stay eternally young. They tried to out-do each other at being charming hostesses and making their homes the proper background for entertaining. Or they concentrated on careers.

Then came the war and they switched their interests to volunteer war work, or took on war jobs. And their children suffered from neglect.

OPA Will Discuss Car Price Ceilings

Regulations pertaining to the used car ceiling prices that go into effect July 10 will be discussed by officials of the Price Division of the Office of Price Administration in meetings to be held before July 10 and will serve to bring about better cooperation through understanding, J. H. Mooney, District Price Executive, stated.

The placing of ceilings on used cars will affect sales of used cars by individuals or dealers. Prices are listed for 23 makes and about 6,000 models of passenger cars. 42,000 dealers, whose name is carried on manufacturers' dealer lists, have received a copy of the regulation and a sample copy of the certificate of transfer.

Because passenger cars are part of our national transportation system, especially in rural areas, the action was necessary, Mooney stated.

Plans were made for a dance and a swimming party when members of the Kit Kat Club met Tuesday evening.

The group first met in the home of Beverly Chandler to hold their business meeting after which they went to the City park, returning to the Chandler home for refreshments of lemonade and cookies.

Group pictures were distributed among members.

Those attending were: Ann Barrett, Patsy Dunigan, Coleen Chisholm, Wanda Jay, Gloria Jay, Jean Pratt, Margie Gaylor, Gwen Weston, Janice Wheatley, Beverly Baker, Shirley Stone, Wynelou Cost, Marjorie Roth, Libby Sturgeon, Joyce Pratt, Patsy Miller, Mrs. V. L. Boyles and the hostess.

Food For Fifth Is Discussed When Merten Club Meets

Proper food for children was studied when members of the Merten Club met in the home of Mrs. Frank Bailey.

In commenting on the subject for discussion, Mrs. C. H. Hammett said, "Often, when adults, express a dislike for certain foods, this dislike is reflected by the child."

Mrs. Allen Say spoke on the necessary foods for basic growth and development for children from one to six years old.

Mrs. H. H. Threault reported on what the community is doing to aid schools in securing wholesome noon meals.

Plans were then made to quilt for the Red Cross and a picnic was scheduled for members and their families to be held July 7, at 7 p.m., at the home of Mrs. C. B. Haney.

Following the business meeting a chicken salad course was served to the following: Mrs. C. B. Haney, Mrs. C. H. Hammett, C. B. Haney, J. H. Fish, G. L. Burba, H. H. Threault, T. L. Sinnan, T. G. Groves, V. Smith, Allen Say, Frank Bailey; four new members, Mrs. C. L. Hunter, Mrs. Earl C. Casey, Mrs. R. C. McNett, Mrs. J. Emory Jones and two visitors, Mrs. Bob Bailey and Miss Beth Bailey.

Plainview, farm labor director, for the assignment of 20 combines to this county.

Wheat over the county is in excellent shape, of good grade, and should make 20 bushels to the acre, Agent Hackney said. Elevator price in Pampa Wednesday was $1.33 a bushel.

Acres this season totals 130,000, as compared with 105,000 last year. The wheat harvest is expected to be in full swing by July 1. Some farmers will begin cutting wheat on June 28.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that OPA will issue gasoline rations to custom combine operators to permit them to operate in the normal manner as an aid in overcoming the shortage of machinery for harvesting this summer's grain crop.

District officials said that an applicant for gasoline to be used for this purpose should file his application with the Ration Board serving the area where he normally keeps his equipment. He should apply for the estimated amount to cover the entire harvest period. Many operators of custom combines often start in one section and move over to various regions as the grain ripens, cutting wheat or oats for farmers along the way.

If an operator should run out of gasoline during the trip, he must request additional rations from the same board where he filed his original application, officials stated.

Increased Rates

On Mail Boxes

Pampa's post office stepped into a new rank today with increased postal receipts, caused the automatic increases in rental rates on post office boxes.

Although technically the increase in rent does not go into effect until July 1, it is in effect now, since box rent must be paid in advance. Collections of the new rates started Tuesday.

This means that a box that formerly rented for 75 cents now cost $1.81 boxes are hiked to $1.50, $1.50 boxes to $2, $2 to $3 rates are for quarterly periods.

Postmaster W. B. Weathered explained that the increase was the result of the local post office exceeding a certain amount of receipts. This puts the local post office in the position of raising its rentals to conform to a standard table used by the post office department.

There will be no further increases in post office box rent until the local post office's receipts pass $200,000 a year, the postmaster further explained.

A field dispatch from correspondent Sid Feder said casualties inflicted upon the Germans during the past 41 days of the Allied offensive in Italy were estimated unofficially at between 80,000 and 100,000 killed, wounded and captured. More than 27,000 Nazis have been taken prisoners.

The Mediterranean air force stepped up its activity, making 1,100 individual plane flights in attacking shipping in Livorno harbor, battle area targets and railway at Ventimiglia on the Italian Riviera. There were no losses.

The communiques disclosed that in a "spirited naval engagement" in connection with the ousting of the Germans from Elba, light coastal forces torpedoed three loaded enemy lighters attempting to evacuate troops, and possibly sank a fourth. In another engagement a single enemy lighter was sunk.

ington that Japan's navy unwittingly was caught off base and was as reluctant as ever to engage the U. S. fifth fleet.

Bitter ground fighting continued on Saipan as American Marines and Infantry advanced northward along the Naielesse bay and tightened the noose around Japanese forces trapped on the island's southern tip. A curious feature of the land battling was the action of many Japanese civilians pouring through American lines seeking refuge from the battle. The thickly populated west coast was in the midst of the fight. James reported Japanese resistance weakening.

The Americans have taken a third of the island, mountains of food and war supplies, and two airfields. Gen. MacArthur's airmen hit Truk, southeast of Saipan, with 108 tons of bombs, a record load on this once-vaunted fortress. His ground forces continued to clean up enemy troops who have lost Biak Island off Dutch New Guinea to the Americans.

In China, the one Pacific war front where the Japanese hold the advantage, enemy forces maintained their advance down the Hankow-Canton railroad.

The obscure fighting in Burma and India, at last report, moved ahead slowly in the Allies' favor, with Japanese slowly losing their grip on Mogoke and Myitkyna and retreating from northeastern India.

BATTLE

Meridian time, today (2 a. m. central war time). The London Daily Sketch said last night it had recorded such a broadcast.

It was assumed that if the ultimatum was made it was rejected and that Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley had ordered a final attack. Supreme headquarters said it was possible the field commander might have made the demand on his own authority.

On the American left flank, the U. S. Infantrymen plunged to within three miles of the sea in the vicinity of St. Croix-Hague, a village seven miles west of Cherbourg astride the main highway to Cap de la Hague. Yet, some German forces are reported seeking at least temporary refuge.

On the right a fast-moving column spearheaded to a point almost as close to the northern coast by reaching the Saure river near the village of Le Thell, less than five miles east and slightly south of Cherbourg.

In the center, substantial gains were made along the main road from Valognes. Communique No. 33 reported "good progress" with advances of two to three miles along the entire front.

Allied experts flew into the Cherbourg Peninsula to investigate the flying bomb bases captured intact by the American troops, but the supreme command said there was no indication the Germans had been using these against England. It appeared a spokesman said, that the American drive over the Peninsula left the enemy insufficient time to get the launching sites ready for operation.

Except for the swift encircling drive on Cherbourg, there was little activity on the beachhead. The communiques reported only patrol activity elsewhere although enemy artillery and mortar fire in the British-Canadian sector at Tilly was said to be unusually heavy.

The assault on Cherbourg captured the spotlight, out it was apparent Gen. Bradley was striking with vigor to round up the German garrisons on the two prongs of the Peninsula.

With reports from the front lagging far behind developments, the supreme command conceded that advance American troops already may have reached the sea beyond St. Croix-Hague on the west and Le Thell on the east—advances that would cut off German forces and force on Cap de la Hague on the west and on point Barleur on the east.

In the cross-ship fight for Cherbourg the French built concrete forts—Océville and Du Roule—about 1,500 yards from the prize harbor—were proving formidable obstacles to the attacking American troops. The fighting apparently raged all around the town, in the suburbs and possibly inside the town itself.

the job ahead. They would have reinforcements coming—three more of their own companies, another whole ranger battalion, a full regiment of infantry.

But the surly channel elements didn't let it work out that way. The Texas opened up its deafening 14-inch guns dead on schedule. But the landing craft were swept off their course and landed the rangers 50 minutes late. The Texas and other ships lifted their barrage as scheduled for their landing. The Germans crept back to the cliff's edge. What they saw brought them back by the hundreds for the invaders had been swept in by adverse wind and current toward the wrong beach, and had then turned up the coast toward their rightful destination.

The craft came on in through a cross-fire of machine guns, rifles, and mortars. Six went under, sunk or swamped, men in other craft were hit.

But, the Rangers hit the beach running.

Some fell mortally wounded on the beach. Others fired their channels over the cliff top and began racing up on their rope ladders.

Germans cut some of the ropes. The Rangers tumbled down. Nazis at the cliff's edge pushed over hand grenades. A Ranger platoon picked off some of the grenade tossers and some of the snipers. A close in destroyer, the USS Satterlee, swept the cliff top with its 40-millimeter guns.

Some of the Rangers met instant death and hurried to the beach below.

Others fought on. They won their foothold.

Presbyterian Softball Team Leads All Loops

First Presbyterian, with two wins and no losses was out in front in the city softball leagues today, as well as leading the boys senior league.

In the same loop, First Methodist, the combined Assembly of God-Central Baptist, and Calvary Baptist were in a triple tie for runner-up, each with one game lost and one won.

First Methodist and First Baptist are tied with one victory each and no losses for the No. 1 spot in the boys junior league, and First Methodist Juniors and First Christian, by the same margin, are also tied for first place in the girls league.

Four games are on tap tonight: Central Baptist vs. Church of the Brethren, boys junior; Holy Souls Crusaders vs. First Christian, boys senior; and an inter-church game will pit the junior and senior girls teams of First Methodist while First Christian girls vie with Calvary Baptist, in the girls league.

First Baptist d. First Presbyterian, by forfeit; First Methodist edged Harrah Methodist, the local Brooklyn Dodgers, 1 to 5; both games in boys junior league.

First Presbyterian d. Central Baptist-Assembly of God, forfeit; First Methodist walloped Calvary Baptist, 10-5; both games in boys senior league.

First Baptist Senior vs. McCullough Methodist, girls league, postponed.

Cubs and Cards Tie in Reverse

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago Cubs are headed for a major league utility record. They do better in the next 11 games against St. Louis' Cardinals than they did in the first 11.

The Cubs and Cards have met 11 times. The results: Cubs—won 11, lost 0; Cards—won 0, lost 11.

Manager Charlie Grimm used six pitchers and six pinch hitters against the Cards yesterday, but lost 6-4 and 7-2. George Munger won his ninth against one defeat, in the opener, although he needed late help from Mort Cooper. Harry Brecheen took his third straight from the Cubs in the finale. The double win increased the Cards' lead over Pittsburgh to eight and one-half games, their biggest margin of the season.

The New York Giants drubbed Brooklyn 11-2 for their 18th triumph in the last 24 games, to take over third place in the National league. Bill Vosselle gained his ninth triumph, holding the Brooks to six hits. Mel Ott scored his 1,741st run to break his tie with Hans Wagner and set a new National league record.

After eight scoreless innings, Cincinnati scored in the ninth, and Pittsburgh Pirates counted two in their half to take the game, 2-1. Babe Dahlgren's single scored Tommy O'Brien with the winning run. Ray Start held his former mates to seven hits for his second victory over Cincinnati since he was waived to the Pirates three weeks ago.

The Philadelphia Athletics made it three in a row over Boston, 5-2, as Dick Siebert drove in three runs with a double and single, and Jesse Flores outpitched Clem Hausmann.

New York and Washington divided a double header, the champions taking the first 4-3, after trailing 1-3 until the seventh. The Nationals took the second 6-4, with a five-run first inning at the expense of southpaw Joe Page. Milo Candell held his former teammates to six hits to win his third game for the Senators.

The St. Louis Browns increased their American league lead to two and one-half games over Boston's Red Sox by trouncing the Chicago White Sox 11-2, behind Nelson Potter's seven-hit pitching. Gene Moore and Vernon Stephens led the attack on two Chicago hurlers with three hits each, including a homer apiece.

Rookie Paul O'Dea batted "four for four" as Cleveland defeated Detroit in a slugfest 9-7. Rudy York of the Tigers and Mickey Rocco of the Indians blasted home runs.

The Boston-Philadelphia double header was postponed because of rain.

22 Million Dollars Of V-Bonds Sold At Houston Sports Show

HOUSTON, June 22—(AP)—It took two army corporals and an amateur bull fighter teaming up with five other sluggers to draw the largest boxing gate in history—$2,000,000 in war bonds purchased to witness Houston's fifth war loan fistic carnival.

With seats scaled from $25 to $50, and admission by war bond purchase only, Texas' biggest fight crowd clambered into the cavernous Houston Coliseum last night to witness the previous war's record fight for the second Tunney-Dempsey show by nearly $200,000.

In the top attraction Corporal Al Hostak of Camp Bowler, former world middleweight champion, battered Corporal Glen Lee of Camp Claiborne to a third round knockout, winning the Texas light heavyweight championship.

Lt. Comdr. Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight champion, refereed the bout.

The spectacle was sponsored by the Harris county war bond sports activities committee composed of Houston sports editors.

Through 19 sports events promoted by its committee since Pearl Harbor the nation's war coffers have been enriched by over $43,000,000.

NEW YORK, June 22—(AP)—Mel Ott has broken only three bats so far this season, and each time he picked out a new one and busted a homer with it. . . . Carl Hubbard, the American league ump, claims this has been the toughest season the arbiters ever had. "There are more close plays to call because they don't have those good infielders to throw out runners by a mile," he explains. . . . When a Pittsburgh scribe chided Leo Houck, Penn State's veteran boxing coach, for claiming he never had been knocked out in some 200 professional fights, Leo's only reply was a photo of the bout in question showing Houck and Billy Murray on their feet with the referee holding Murray's hand aloft.

"Does this look like I was knocked out?" Leo wrote. It doesn't, but Nat Fleischer's record book still lists it as a KO victory for Murray.

Major League Scouts Try To Recruit Boys In Legion Tourney

DALLAS, June 22—(AP)—There may be a manpower shortage in baseball but Dallas High school coaches don't want this extended to boy-power and they threaten to take their case to Judge Kenesaw Landis if a certain situation isn't straightened out in a hurry.

What they're kicking about, says Kal Segrist, North Texas athletic commissioner for the American Legion Junior Baseball tournament, is the action of the major league scouts in talking contract with the boys.

"One coach told me the scouts had drubbed his first baseman," said the former Texas league player. "I don't think these fellows would intentionally hurt baseball, but to approach a youngster under 18 and offer him a contract is bad. The kids naturally are flattered and some of them become chummy, refusing to obey the coach's orders. They don't feel they have to practice with the team and otherwise are hard to handle."

Segrist said the scouts either tried to sign a boy to a contract or make a deal whereby his way through college would be paid if he agreed to sign when he got out.

"I think there should be a rule in baseball that no boy be permitted to sign a contract until he's at least 18 years old," Segrist declared.

Segrist said he already had been authorized by the Texas American Legion to go to the office of baseball's high commissioner and register a complaint with Judge Landis if the practice isn't stopped.

Invasion 'Troop Cops' Flash 'Green Light' For Concerted Landings Ashore

LCV's leave the English coast with loads of the navy's "traffic cops," who will be landed on the invasion coast of France where they will direct traffic and take care of the first wounded.

By S. J. WOOLF
NEA Staff Correspondent

A BRITISH PORT, June 22—With their heavy packs on their backs and deflated life belts around their waists, a platoon of one of the Navy's beach battalion companies piles into a small landing craft. Elbows dig into ribs but no one can move, for the boat is jammed.

It is as noisy as hell. The motor is sputtering and guns are roaring. Yet the quiet of suspense which always precedes a momentous event envelopes the boat. Men, with their heads ducked, speak in whispers. Attempts at bravado are feeble. And all the time the shore line gets closer.

Allied army assault troops in small numbers have already made a landing and prepared the way for these traffic cops of the invasion. They come well drilled and equipped for their job. They have with them stretchers, house duffle bags filled with medical supplies and cases of radio apparatus. Their job is to get the beach ready for the landing of men and supplies. They are going to look after the first casualties and establish communication with the waiting transports when they get the word the invasion will start.

But this one craft is not alone. The waters are filled with similar tiny boats carrying other platoons of battalion companies and army engineers. As soon as they get ashore they will start planning roads for our advance.

At last this LCV strikes shore. Swiftly the hinged forward end is lowered and serves as a gang plank over which the boys dash. Other boats land and the beach is soon alive with darting, bent figures, silhouetted against a background of smoke and flame. Each man has his objective. Some fall, other dig for holes, burrowing in the sand like crabs. From these they fire. The beach master in command finds a large rock behind which he crouches. In his hand he holds a small oblong box. This is the "walkie talkie," a self-contained radio transmitter and receiver. Through it he gives his commands to assistant beach masters with similar instruments.

ORDER OUT OR CHAOS

In a comparatively short time, order of a kind develops out of the apparent confusion. A first aid station is set up. A radio transmitter for communicating with a patrolling dispatch boat is working, and a powerful signal light is blinking its message also. Prepared for any emergency, should these means of communication fail, a man with two flags stands ready to wave the orders from the beach.

While these things have been going on, the medical corps has also been at work. Unmindful of their own danger, they have been picking up the wounded some of whom lay in exposed positions. Many of these are put aboard the small waiting craft. When it can hold no more, it puts off for its mother ship.

At last the "green light" flashes.

BACK THE FIFTH $1 1/2 Million Surplus Built in 10 Years

Houston, June 22—(AP)—Texas Production Credit associations have built $5,679,902 in member-owned capital and surplus in 10 years of operations, leaders of the four associations serving 21 southern Texas counties reported at a conference Tuesday.

This figure represents more than 52 per cent of the total capital structure of the associations, said T. H. Tigner, president of the Richmond association.

Fixed debts of farmers and stockmen are the lowest in nearly 25 years, reported E. A. Jordan of Houston, secretary-treasurer of the Richmond association.

Farmers and ranchers will be better prepared to meet post-war adjustments than at the close of the first World War, said Julius Brune, president of the Brenham association.

They are buying war bonds and getting debts in more manageable shape, he said.

Tigner said that government stock in his organization totals only 20 per cent of the capital structure, while the remaining 80 per cent is $139,385 in member-owned stock and $135,923 is earned surplus.

Original Experimental B-29 Crashed, Killed Entire Crew

UNITED STATES SUPERFORTRESS BASE IN WESTERN CHINA, June 2—(AP)—(Delayed)—Brig. Gen. Kenneth B. Wolfe, 47, Riverside, Calif., head of the 20th Superfortress bomber command, disclosed today that the B-29 program was nearly disrupted when the first experimental plane crashed near Seattle Feb. 18, 1943, killing all the Boeing company's flight testing personnel.

Wolfe said "Loss of this airplane personnel was an extremely severe shock and broke the continuity of thought and effort devoted to the program up to that time."

"Only a small group of army air force personnel had intimate knowledge of the airplane and its equipment. Operational people of army air forces had only a small amount of information and were naturally pessimistic about the original design and new engines."

"You can imagine how General Arnold (chief of the army air forces) felt and what he was going to get those planes into combat anyhow."

Wolfe was placed in charge and told to carry out the plans in whatever manner he deemed best. Wolfe's first move was to surround himself with able assistants including Colonel Alva Harvey, Cleburne, Tex.

The second experimental Superfortress nearly crashed in June, 1943, on its first flight test because a careless mechanic had hooked up the aileron controls in reverse. That same month Wolfe was ordered to organize the first B-29 bombardment wing to train pilots and crew members for Superfortresses.

Topping the list of officers, Wolfe picked Brig. Gen. Laverne G. Saunders—Blondie Saunders of army football fame—who already had established combat reputation in the South Pacific. Saunders was named assistant chief of staff in charge of operations. The wing was then built around battle-tested veterans of Pearl Harbor, Guadalcanal, the Solomons, Aleutians, African, Asia-

"We learned about five days ago we were going to be called up and we've been busy night and day since. Everybody was thrilled and wanted to go. I just want to do my part like everybody else, and cooperate to the fullest extent so we can get this thing over with."

"I guess I'll have to go back to slinging sodas then. This army has done a lot for me; it fixed me up. I've been in four years this coming September. I didn't even have my growth then. I was only six feet two and a half and weighed 148; now I'm six-six and weigh 186."

"The army really builds you up. We made it 125 miles from here in a single move, but first we had to get our equipment in shape for overseas. We've been hanging around this area a couple of days. This afternoon we've been playing that old army game of waiting. We're all lined up and raring to go. We've been on this pier for five or six hours, but no telling when we'll get off. You get used to waiting in the army."

"I'm sure glad we're going to be in on the big show at last. All I want is for us to get going—that's the way the boys all feel. They've been nice to us in England, but we can't win the war here. We sure do want to take a look at that France."

Less than an hour later the long line of soldiers, striped down to battle packs and fatigues, marched on to the vessel, their trim bodies silhouetted against the twilight sky. Soon the ship pulled away and headed out into the channel.

Set. Kelley and his buddies—and perhaps your boy, too—were on their way to battle.

By JOHN A. MOROSO, 3RD.
A BRITISH PORT, June 16—(Delayed)—(AP)—Luck plays a great part in war. Watching it makes some men superstitious. When Lt. (jg) Ralph F. Pullen, 33, (235 Patton St) St. Shreveport, La., invaded France he wore the same underpants he used in the Sicilian invasion. He got through.

I carefully saved the same shirt I wore in the Sicilian invasion for this party. Ten days afterward I still am wearing it and still am lucky. I was stung by machinegun bullets and knocked off my feet by the burst of an 88 shell, but remain whole.

A British battleship drew much American praise when she sailed into the beachhead area and bombarded inland targets, then methodically sailed out. The cooperation between the British, Americans, Canadians and French here was slow at first, but as men mixed and exchanged ideas things greatly improved.

Soldiers on the beachhead tell this story today. George Hicks, Blue network radio reporter who returned to the beach exhausted, borrowed a blanket and lay down by the side of the road. A truck picking up dead for temporary burial rolled up. Soldiers started to toss him in the truck, but Lt. Sam Byrd, a peace-time actor, stopped them. Byrd said Hicks slept through it all.

The unsung hero of this front is Lt. W. W. Royson, 32, of Irvington, N. J., member of a signal construction battalion who in peacetime worked for the New Jersey Bell Telephone company. His gang of soldiers sees that communications keep going. The first rapid advance saw telephone wires laid along the roads, and vehicles coming behind them often severed the connections.

Royson got lines onto regular telephone poles which the enemy often knocked down in shelling and bombing, but he kept putting them back up.

His job when I met him was driving a jeep back and forth amid sniper fire to see that communications from beachheads to the front were kept intact. I went with him while he found his men working everywhere, ignoring the battle to see that communications could get through.

FDR Extends Sugar Act for Two Years

WASHINGTON, June 22—(AP)—President Roosevelt signed a bill Wednesday extending for two years the Sugar Act of 1937. The law maintains a quota system for sugar production.

Only a few Superfortresses were available at first; so the wing trained mostly on B-17s, B-24s and B-26s. The 20th bomber command was organized in the autumn of 1943. Wolfe stepped up to head this organization while Saunders took over the wing. In the spring of 1944, the command crossed to the China-Burma-India theater a little more than a year after the Seattle crash.

Wolfe's formula for getting a job done is "surround yourself with competent enthusiastic people, indoctrinate them with the mission and objective, tell them what you want done, leave 'how' to them."

Wolfe, who has flown all the types of aircraft and is now rated a command pilot combat observer, has Service medal for getting the Superfortresses job done.

10 Fined, 3 Given Jail Sentences

Fines were assessed ten men and three others were given jail sentences by Judge James C. Wilson during the current term of U. S. District Court at Amarillo in cases filed by the Office of Price Administration charging violation of rationing and price control regulations.

Those who received fines, ranging from $25 to $150, were B. H. Cooper and Harry G. "Cowboy" Hazelwood, Groom; Bo Barrett, Willie Harris, Robert Oliver, E. L. Lightfoot, Johnnie Robinson, Joe McNeil, and Frank Kelly, all of Pampa.

Leon "Sonnie" Clemmons, Pampa, charged with illegal transfer of gasoline coupons, was sentenced to 90 days in jail.

Charged with purchase of gasoline without ration coupons and with illegal possession of loose gasoline coupons, Marlon F. Dakan, Amarillo, was sentenced to one year and put on probation for two years.

Charles Bush, Silverton, charged with defacing a coupon book, was given $100 fine or 30 days in jail.

Crop Prospects Generally Better

AUSTIN, June 22—(AP)—Crop prospects improved generally and farm work progressed at rapid pace in the week ended June 19, the U. S. department of agriculture reported yesterday.

Dry weather was particularly advantageous in the eastern half of the state affording the first opportunity since early May for general, uninterrupted activity in planting, replanting and cultivating.

Harvesting of small grains, hay, early peaches, tomatoes, watermelons and other vegetables was active under mostly favorable conditions.

Soil moisture and temperatures were generally favorable for plant growth.

Wheat harvest was well advanced in many low rolling plains counties. The week was mostly favorable for cotton.

Progress of the corn crop was improved but the condition was still very spotted through central and east Texas.

Grain sorghum harvest started in south Texas and very satisfactory yields were reported in prospect.

Vegetable harvest made good headway and growing crops improved materially. Conditions were favorable for active harvest of tomatoes in all early areas of east Texas, but yields were generally light.

Potatoes were moving in good volume from all late spring areas. Range feeds and pastures were furnishing good to excellent grazing through most of the state except in a few far western counties.

Stock water supplies were satisfactory or improved except in limited west Texas areas. Livestock were in generally good condition.

Texas Carries Load Of Supplying Oil

DALLAS, Texas, June 22—History will record the fact that the Texas "Leto" Relieves "Gum" Discomfort. You can not look, nor expect to feel your best with irritated "GUMS"—Druggists refund money if "LETO'S" fails to satisfy. CRETNEY DRUG STORE oil industry has carried the load of supplying petroleum for the war, the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas association has pointed out in a statement. "On June 7—two and one-half years after Pearl Harbor—Texas was producing oil at the rate of 330,450 barrels more per day than it did on December 7, 1941. Oil production by the rest of the nation dropped 123,075 barrels daily. "The production records show that Texas' current oil output is at the daily rate of 2,013,950 barrels contrasted with 1,482,800 barrels on December 7, 1941. The present daily rate for the rest of the nation is

2,509,700 barrels compared with 2,632,775 barrels at the time we declared war. "Since the Japs struck Pearl Harbor, Texas has produced 15.1 per cent more oil than it did during the two and one-half year period immediately before the war. Production by the rest of the country has risen only three-tenths of 1 per cent in the same period. "During the thirty-month pre-war period, Texas produced a total of 1,233,817,400 (billion) barrels of oil compared with a total output up to June 7, of 1,420,031,600 barrels, a gain of 186,214,200 barrels. By contrast, the production by the other states was 2,189,974,850 (billion) barrels in the pre-war era, against 2,189,207,900 barrels; an increase of only 8,406,950 barrels. Thus the gain in Texas is more than 22 times the increase by the rest of the country. —BACK THE FIFTH—

$120 Apiece

The $16 billion goal of the Fifth War Loan drive represents an investment of about $120 for each man, woman and child in the United States. These figures may seem large and the individual goal may seem out of the reach of many families. However, when sent along side the $307,300,000 that the Government is spending daily on the war, or more than $20 billion monthly, $100 billion yearly, or nearly $800 for each American, the job for every individual is clear.

The advantages of buying War Bonds extends over a long list, and the disadvantages do not appear at all. The money invested in bonds is useful as ready cash to be used in buying war implements. Bonds are even more useful in that they absorb loose currency, of which there is estimated to be about $1 billion presently in circulation. This is an unprecedented amount and far more than might reasonably be required in trade, so the assumption is that a good deal of this idle money is in the family's favorite hiding place, constituting a constant threat of inflation.

The wisdom of investing in bonds, rather than in stocks and bonds, is quite obvious. So are the postwar advantages of having money for the new products so proudly illustrated in the advertisements.

The Fifth War Loan is to extend over thru July 8. In that time we are expecting great events on the battlefronts. Let us make equally extensive supporting efforts at home.

Further Adventures

—BACK THE FIFTH—
This is another chapter in the breaking of the barrier between the American Federation of Musicians, Mr. Petrillo, as you probably know by now, is mindful of his own. Year in and year out he has been busy dreaming up new and fascinating fields of employment for dues-paying practitioners of the total art.

Mr. Petrillo's zeal has occasionally embroiled him with stubborn people insensitive to his lofty esthetic purposes, but he has won. Today, unless you happen to run into an impromptu barroom tenor, it is practically impossible to hear a note of non-union music in public.

It seemed that when Mr. Petrillo succeeded in getting an unpaid and unsponsored symphony orchestra of high school children put off the stage, he had reached the end of his competition. But there still remained one serious rivalry which now threatens a strike in two major networks.

The new trouble hinges on this delicate point: Is the arduous feat of placing music recordings on a turntable an engineering or musical operation?

Mr. Petrillo contends that as long as there is music on the records, the handling of them comes within his union's field. He got the networks to agree with him (they long ago discovered that it's futile not to). They signed contracts to hire trained, sensitive, dues-paying musicians for this delicate and taxing work at a mere 12 bucks a day.

But the National Association of Broadcast Engineers and Technicians feels that perhaps a man with a degree from M. I. T. or Purdue can put on and take off records, and even place the needle in the right groove as part of their regular work and at no extra charge. They're being a bit stubborn about it. They threaten to walk out if a long time goes by.

And there the matter rests at the moment. Our sympathies are with the engineers. But, since you can't ignore past performances, our money is on Mr. Petrillo.

Most of all, however, we are intrigued with the future possibilities for the musician that the latest Petrillo contention opens up. If a wax disc containing grooves which under certain conditions give off musical vibrations can be handled only by a member of the musicians' union, then the musicians' postwar employment problems are solved.

The piano mover will have to hold an A. P. M. card. A union musician will have to ride on every moving van to handle the family radio and Junior's fiddle. The boys and girls who sell radios, phonographs, records, instruments and sheet music will have to join up.

And you won't catch us touching our portable radio until Mr. Petrillo has passed up our fitness and accepted our initiation fee.

The Nation's Press

—BACK THE FIFTH—
FORWARD DICTATORSHIP
(The Chicago Tribune)

The appointment of James V. Forrestal as secretary of the navy calls attention again to the fact that in this New Deal administration there are two kinds of totalitarianism—the Fascist kind, represented by Mr. Forrestal, and the Communist kind, represented by Vice President Wallace.

They can work together now because they hold in common the desire to destroy the constitutional and traditional limitations on executive authority. Both wings of the New Deal party have striven to undermine the independence of congress and the courts. Both are for the fourth term. Likewise, the two elements share the desire to liquidate both the Republican and Democratic parties by conspiracy.

The Democratic party has already been captured. It still contains many men and women who have no sympathy for the totalitarian trend, but their influence is now negligible. The party today is committed to the fourth term and to the support of Mr. Roosevelt's ambitions to rule as a dictator.

The Republican party succumbed to New Deal intrigue in 1940.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES
I speak the plain-word answer, I give the common-sense answer. I will not say anything which I cannot have the counterpart of on the same terms.

Answering A Communist

In order to save space I am quoting direct from the letter of the Communist, Mr. Roy T. Layton of Brea, California. Paragraphs from his letter will be in quotation marks. I will then attempt to answer them, since many people believe in things that lead to Communism without knowing it.

"I want to thank you for printing my letter, and for the courtesy of your reply. If space permitted, I would like to take up each item in your rejoinder and give it the attention it deserves. In this letter I am going to take up a few major issues which constitute the dividing line that separates our respective positions."

Obviously, your background is Adam Smith, Bakunin, J. S. Mill, Herbert Spencer, R. W. Emerson, Thomas Jefferson and all those who believe that that government which governs least governs best. I am a Communist. I am a Communist, if you please—and an admirer of the Soviet Union, which I have twice visited.

"I am a Communist because I believe that in a communist society I would have greater opportunity for self-development, morally and intellectually, than under the capitalist system. Only under Communism, as I understand it, is true individualism possible. This statement may appear paradoxical, but given space I think I could clarify it to every one's satisfaction."

The above is just a declaration. He seems to believe that he would have greater opportunity for self-development, moral and intellectual, under Communism than under the capitalist system. This is true individualism possible."

Of course there are as many ideas of Communism as there are individuals. But Communism or collectivism (if words mean anything) is the exact opposite of individualism.

Under Communism the individual must comply with the will of the state. In control of the state whether they have seized it by force or by consent of a bare majority. It matters not which way they have seized it; the individual is not free to use his judgment to add to the wealth of the world.

It is absurd and non-sensical to claim that individuality can be developed without the right of choice and the right of making decisions including the possibility of error.

It is proved by history that neither the slave nor the owner of slaves develops morally and intellectually as fast as when they are both equally free to pursue happiness on the same terms.

The Communist continues: "Rights is a phony issue injected by reactionaries to belound the American political situation. States' rights was shot to death in the Civil War and was buried when Lee surrendered to Appomattox. And the old individualism, rampant when our country was young, land to be had for the taking, and each man in the pioneer era was a free man, is dead."

Of course the reason for the Constitution respecting states' rights was that most of the states had their own Bill of Rights, which the federal government sought to protect. The first article of the Virginia Bill of Rights, published June 12, 1776, contained the following: "That all men are by nature equally free and independent, and have certain inherent rights, of which, when they enter into a state of society, they cannot be divested or deprived without the consent of the majority, in a free assembly of people, the enjoyment of life and liberty, with the means of acquiring and possessing property, and pursuing and obtaining happiness and safety."

States' rights and individual rights are, or should be, one and the same thing. To deny individual rights is to return to the primitive state of might makes right; in which the stronger plunders the weaker.

A Bill of Rights is perfectly in harmony with capitalism or peaceful cooperation rather than force which is necessary in Communism or collectivism.

pens the people, for all practical purposes, will have only one party to vote for. The party will be the party of the future. There will be two parties in the field.

On so much of the program the Fascist and Communist wings of Mr. Roosevelt's following agree. Later on they expect to fight for ascendancy. For the moment the Fascists in the President's entourage have control of the organized force of the nation, as they showed in the armed attack on Montgomery Ward store, they will use it without scruple to whip the citizens into line. The Communists are looking ahead to the day when the party of the future will be the party of the future.

There is no slightest hope of checking the totalitarianism in the Democratic convention this summer, for the delegates, in overwhelming majority, have been brought up with jobs and other favors and the rest have no candidate against Mr. Roosevelt. He has maneuvered in a fashion to prevent the rise of any possible rival within his own party's ranks.

As for the Republicans, the outcome remains in doubt. If the conspiracy to capture the party is successful, Mr. Roosevelt's reelection will be rendered probable and in the fourth term the totalitarian goal will be within reach. The preservation of the Republic and its institutions depends, therefore, upon the delegates who will assemble in Chicago next month. Their alone is the opportunity to rescue the nation and its institutions from the men whose ambition it is to set up a dictatorship to boss everybody and everything.

Leaves From The Editor's Notebook

History will never place Sgt. John Vita's address to the Romans on the same page with those delivered by Cicero, but to anyone with a taste for dramatic irony, the sergeant's remark will remain one of the memorable, if minor, footnotes to the liberation of Rome.

It was Sergeant Vita who inserted that bit of wit to complete the definition of Benito Mussolini, comic-opera caesar of the late Italian empire.

Caesars and would-be world conquerors are never very admirable characters, and Mussolini was no exception. But in Mussolini's case, something new had been added. He was not only treacherous and a villain, he was ridiculous. He will be remembered for the way he stabbed France in the back, and for his staring of defenseless Ethiopians. But he will also be remembered for his pompous, flexible, and flexible and bare-mindful way pitching.

Most of all he will be remembered for his speeches from the balcony of the Piazza Venezia, preserved for posterity in the newspapers. His jutting chin, his gestures and his strutting made him the darling of vaudeville impersonators and, to an alien audience, converted his grandiose pretensions into hilarious absurdity.

It was fitting, somehow, that Sergeant Vita should have succeeded to the oratorical roost of the mottled Duce. The sergeant, a resident of Port Chester, N. Y., is the son of Italian-American parents. He is part of an army that wants something for the Italians, but nothing from them—an army that has come to restore self-respect and democratic government to the Italian people, to feed them and help them forget their miserable exploitation of the last 25 years.

Sgt. Vita had a mission all his own. Consciously or not, he was there to demonstrate that balconies and speech-making need no longer be the prerogative of one man. He gave the Italians an example of a country where any man can mount the nearest stump and speak his mind without fear. He mimicked Mussolini, scaling him down to his proper proportions and then demolishing him by ridicule.

The crowd laughed and cheered him. Perhaps a weight was lifted from a good many shoulders. The crowd was laughing at Duce, laughing at him in the Piazza Venezia which so often echoed his bombast and re-echoed their cheers.

Now the nightmare was over. Duce was gone. The Germans were gone; the Allies were here, with food and freedom and an amusing, unshaven young man who poked fun at a sacred cow without anyone's caring.

Yes, it was a pretty good performance. Sergeant Vita gave, from all accounts.

Remember the old pulp magazine ads, "Uncle Sam Wants You" (Earn Big Money as a Railway Clerk)? Well, if you're of an inventive turn of mind, Uncle Sam really does want you, and no fooling.

The armed forces, which have solved a multitude of problems from pin-point bombing to insect bites, still have a lot of problems to be solved. According to the OWI, which put out a pamphlet for the National Inventors Council and the Department of Commerce, the armed forces are in the market for ideas on practically any subject.

The booklet lists 35 specific problems just for a starter. Among them are: "How can we make a more efficient use of the land?" "How can we make a more efficient use of the land?" "How can we make a more efficient use of the land?"

That gives you an idea. Public apathy by the Army and Navy is probably a good way of solving difficult problems. The armed forces know that they'll probably get a lot of lame-brained suggestions. But they also know that there must be a thousand dead thinkers and gadgeteers for every crackpot.

The close of the war will confront us once again with the still unsolved problems of distributing the products of a fair and equal turn on the tools, skills and labor which make these products possible.—Dr. Everett Case, president Colgate U.

There may have been some places where they got in with no great fuss, but the Germans were everywhere it was "tough and hot" whether they would be able to establish themselves at all.—The Times of London.

He received frequent reports from the foreign representatives of his organization.

SIDE GLANCES

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
Today the class will come to order for a discussion on Hollywood stars who have risen and fallen because they could or could not pronounce a final "G" or a final "R." Ever since the movies learned to talk the accent has been on the accent.

Robert Cummings, a kid from Joplin, Mo., got his first role on Broadway and a film contract because he could turn on an English accent. Margaret Lindsay, from Iowa, won a role in "Cavalcade" with an English accent as thick as London's fogs.

Maria Montez can speak English almost as well as anybody else, but turns on the Latin diction when someone points a film camera at her or when she wants to be particularly charming.

George Ratoff, the Russian director, speaks with a thicker accent than when he landed in Hollywood 20 years ago. Ditto Carmen Miranda, whose studio ordered her to stop taking English lessons because the people liked her movies full of mixed up Latin talk.

An actor named Kurt Katch, who was evicted from Germany some time ago by the Nazis has made capital of his accent playing Nazi characters. When he first came to this country he tried to learn English by going to the movies every day, seeing the same picture over and over, memorizing the lines.

A friend finally commented on his progress. "Excellent, Kurt," the friend said. "Remarkable progress. But how does it happen that today you sound so much like Shirley Temple?"

FOREIGNERS GET THE GRAVY
Oddly enough, foreigners who come to Hollywood without knowing a word of English have little trouble. There are always glamorous roles for glamorous foreigners where the accent pays off at the boxoffice. Biggest handicap of all is a southern accent.

It's a kind of a paradox, at that, since it could be argued that the southern accent is the most historic in America. But it has been marked for comedy too long, burlesqued too often in black faces, that it is the hardest accent in the world to get rid of. Joseph Cotten, who is from Petersburg, Va., can tell you all about that, huh. After a weekend with his friends from back home, Joe spoiled a couple of scenes in "Since You Went Away."

He was dropping R's knee deep all over the set. Dinah Shore from Tennessee sings as she pleases and it sounds good. Kay Kyser is the only Confederate who has promoted the "you-all" business, from North Carolina. Director William Dieterle, another German who came to Hollywood because he didn't agree with the Nazis, comes up with funnier dialog than is written into his scripts. When Dieterle wanted someone's shirt wet for a perspiration effect in a scene for "With All My Heart," he told the prop man: "I want his shirt soaked."

"Soaked?" echoed the prop man. "Don't you mean soaked?" "Soaked or soaked," replied Dieterle. "I just want it to be wet."

ACCENT PUT TO USE
Many stars have capitalized on their accents. Charles Boyer, Grete Garbo, C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Gardiner, Stepin Fetchak, Mischa Auer, Hattie McDaniel, Victor Francen, Helmut Dantine, Paul Henreid, Maureen O'Sullivan, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Paul Lukas, Peter Lorre, Greer Garson, Hedy Lamarr.

New England accents are all right. There's Bette Davis. There are New York, Kansas, Chicago, mid-west and finishing school accents by the hundreds in the babel of tongues you hear in Hollywood. But as Joe Cotten says, it's the Confederate "R" droppers who seem to have the real trouble.

And that's a fact. S'uff. There has been a steady deterioration of the Southern accent in Hollywood for the last few months. That is also true for the other Latin-American countries.—Dr. Hernane Tayares, U. of Sao Paulo, Brazil.

News Behind The News

The National Whirligig

By ALBERT LEMAN
FOOD—Early eyewitness reports from invasion correspondents pictured Lombardy villagers as reveling in abundance. "Silk sheets on beds—plenty to eat"—instead of lacking food and clothing.

These accounts amazed Americans who had read for years that Europe was starving. The news infuriated official and private relief organizations with agents on the Continent because they fear the public will swallow the limited observations of true conditions abroad.

Normandy is a rich farm province where the peasants have probably stored some of the crops raised by their own hands. In the worst period of the American depression, only a few writers as the exposition of true conditions abroad.

That standard waistbands did not fit.

Excerpts from medical surveys on "These plucky little men" resistance bodies on the Continent run this way: "Sixty-one per cent of children over fifteen are tubercular as the result of malnutrition—Presently show a drop of eight to ten per cent in the normal weight gain which they should have—Paris children are developing rickets and there is a fifty-two per cent vitamin A deficiency here—"

CLOTHING—These are the revelations of scientific men who would not exaggerate even for propaganda purposes.

They allege that the diet of those who cannot patronize the black market and refuse to collaborate with Vichy or Berlin is devoid of proteins, fats and vitamins. They cite Paris hospital records to verify that grownups have lost from forty-four to one hundred ten pounds. French teachers brought forward a boy wearing a suit.

"But he already has one," said the American.

"Oui Madame," replied the other woman. "But there are four in his family. Tomorrow he will stay home so his brother can wear it. Next day both boys will not come to school so that their sister can use these same garments. There is only enough for one at a time, Madame."

SLAVES—As lately as last week the Norwegian, Danish, Dutch and Belgian undergrounds in New York were advised of similar conditions in their homelands. Stories that filter through from Poland, Greece and Czechoslovakia are equally shocking.

No one in authority maintains that these tragedies are uniform in every section and in every class. The Nazis, those still in funds and the clever manage to get along. But the masses everywhere are in distress.

Swedish businessmen, recent visitors to the Reich, in communicating with American associates show the textile shortage to be acute. German goods are openly in twice—and to the textile workers' demands for breaking the Little Steel formula, General Motors, northwest lumbermen's case, the "big four" meat packers' case, so his brother can wear it. Next day both boys will not come to school so that their sister can use these same garments. There is only enough for one at a time, Madame."

LEATHAM sent the license and appended this note: "May you never grow old."

War Today

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
(Substituting for Dewitt MacKenzie)
It's grand news from the Pacific today, where we have exacted another payment for Pearl Harbor, but again the Japanese appear to have evaded all efforts to force them into a real slugging.

Our planes have inflicted losses which amount to a severe amputation, but both the communique and a report from Rumbert James, AP correspondent with the Fifth Fleet, indicate that "yesterday's hopes for a real contact battle have gone glimmering."

The navy apparently felt yesterday that there was chance of further action, and enthusiasm was high. This was sufficient indication of our overwhelming strength, and we might have guessed then that the enemy would get away with all he could.

Earlier reports that the Japanese force consisted of a large portion of the grand fleet proved unfounded, although its strength, prior to the arrival of our planes, was nothing to be sneezed at. But there is nothing to indicate now that it ever had any intention of standing up to Admiral Spruance's force.

The most likely explanation of its presence, in the light of developments, is that the Japanese hoped to hurt Spruance with one big air raid tomorrow—and then get back out of range.

Although we have learned to pay little attention to Japanese claims, it is good to have reassurance regarding damage to our own fleet. Admiral Nimitz already had told us that no combat ships were lost Sunday. Then on Monday, while ripping up 14 Japanese ships, we lost one and suffered no disabling damage. So much for radio Tokyo's recent burbles.

Without counting losses aboard Japanese carriers, one surmises two apparently very seriously damaged and a fourth hit—the Japanese plane losses are extra ordinarily high compared with our own—6 to 1.

Midway, Guadalcanal and Saipan, Philippines, it all adds up. Unless he happens to muster, by accident, an overwhelming local force against one of our task units, the enemy has no hope of a victory in the Pacific. And, until we corner him in a last ditch fight at home, we seem to PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—(AP)—New reports of discussion of the strike confirmed by General Manager Herb Pennock, took Tuesday from the National League hillies—less than a year after their Bill Coxbock's Haris troubles were the sensation of the baseball world.

But Pennock, who would say on that "one troublesome player" was creating a problem, made it clear there would be no repetition of last year's developments, which culminated in Harris' dismissal as manager and Cox's subsequent ouster from baseball.

"I'm not the boss on the field but I intend to support Fred Fitzsimmons 100 per cent in whatever he does," said the dapper general manager, who is in active charge of the club during the absence of its 22-year-old captain, Sgt. Robert Carpenter, Jr.

"We've lost so many times by the run," Pennock added, "that I feel satisfied our club will snap out of 'most any time'."

He did not name the "troublesome player nor did he suggest it might be Chet Covington, southpaw left-hurler who was released on 24-hour recall yesterday to Ulica, the Philadelphia farm club in the Class A Eastern league.

OPA Warns Take Your Time When You Go To Buy a Time Piece

WASHINGTON, June 22—(AP)—Take your time when you buy a watch. Be sure that you're getting what you pay for and that the price is right.

There is an ugly story of crookery and price-gouging in Swiss watch sales in this country; all of the following is from OPA officials:

There are two main kinds of chiseling: Sales at prices over OPA ceiling; and deliberate fraud in quality. Watches of the cheapest kind have been dressed in special, fancy cases and faces to sell at fantastic prices. Cheats have included not only fly-by-night salesmen and little retailers but also some of the big department stores.

In a given city the same kind of watch may sell at five different prices, ranging from the right price to five times the right price.

This has been especially true in areas near army camps.

OPA officials say: "Retailers, large and small, generally sell at ceiling prices when they have been able to buy at ceiling prices.

"But where a commodity is very scarce, even some of the largest department stores have bought at over ceiling prices and sold at over ceiling."

Until Pearl Harbor, two kinds of watches hit the American market. Those made in this country; and those with movements made in Switzerland.

With American made watches plentiful, the demand for Swiss makes was not intense. Therefore, the problem of distributing Swiss movements was not too complicated and importers could sell directly to retailers.

This meant—with only importers and retailers getting a profit on the watch sold to you—the price stayed within bounds.

After Pearl Harbor, the government banned manufacture of watch movements in this country for civilian use. The precision work which had gone into making them was needed for war.

After this ban on American movements, retailers from all over the country deluged importers with demands for Swiss movements. All at once the distribution problem became vastly complicated.

Seeing a juicy chance to make money, jobbers sprang into existence. Jobbers buy from importers and sell to retailers. This simplifies the distribution job for the importers but affected the price. Now three groups—importers, jobbers and retailers—had to make a profit on the watch you bought. Sometimes as many as three groups of jobbers would figure in a sale of a Swiss watch. A jobber bought from an importer and sold to another jobber who sold to a retailer.

Thus there were five groups making a profit off the watch where before there were only two.

This meant prices were knocked around—knocked upward—in the hands of retailers. Scarcity of watches from the jobbers and customers scrambled to buy from the retailers.

These producers foresee a slight easing in the protein feed situation, and most of them are in areas where the corn acreage is likely to be increased. Some of the marginal producers are completely out of hogs, since the corn ceiling was raised and the floor under hogs lowered.

That should make more corn available for the efficient feeders if corn yields are not below normal.

Percentage-wise, the reduction in the swine population is greatest outside the big Corn-Hog Belt, the survey shows. But even in Iowa, the central third of Illinois, central Indiana, southern Minnesota, and eastern Nebraska the cut will exceed materially the amount requested by the War Food Administration.

Mexico Using Twice Rumored Amount Water

EL PASO, June 22—(AP)—Mexico is using 1,500,000 acre feet of water from the Colorado river, according to a statement by L. M. Lawson, American commissioner of the international boundary commission.

Commenting upon a statement made in Salt Lake City by Dr. Franklin Thomas, chairman, engineering division of the California Institute of Technology, that Mexico never could use beneficially more than 750,000 acre feet from the river, Lawson said that "for many years prior to the completion of the All-America canal, there was diverted through the All-American Canal by the Imperial Irrigation District more than 3,000,000 acre feet of water per year from the Colorado, of which Mexico was entitled to one-half."

Lawson said that Dr. Thomas has been "misinformed or misquoted, as Mexico now is using more than twice that amount (750,000 acre feet)."

Dr. Thomas, who also is regional vice president of the American Society of Civil Engineers, expressed opposition Saturday to the proposed United States-Mexico treaty which would allocate to Mexico annually 1,500,000 acre feet of the water. He said the treaty would in drought years prevent either the upper or lower basin states from obtaining adequate water.

Wallace Greeted By Young China

CHUNGKING, June 22—(AP)—Vice President Henry A. Wallace met "Young China" Tuesday rubbing shoulders with cheering students whom he told to "work for the day when all the people of China can read and write."

Wallace, who prophesied on his arrival here yesterday from Russia, that the Chinese-Russian boundary would become a friendly frontier like that between the United States and Canada, also visited a cooperative cloth-weaving plant and then dashed out to an occupational camp for wounded soldiers where he studied the manufacture of umbrellas and wicker furniture.

He was a luncheon guest of Gen. Ho Ying-Chin, Chinese Minister of War.

Bareheaded, attired in a slack suit and tennis shoes, Wallace visited an American Red Cross enlisted men's club.

Company-Government Oil Won't Be Pooled

WASHINGTON, June 22—(AP)—Vesting control in Congress of the amount of petroleum to be taken from the Elk Hills, Calif., naval oil reserve is both objectionable and unwise, Pres. Roosevelt said Saturday in approving legislation authorizing the pooling of government and Standard Oil of California holdings there for operation as a unit.

"I regret to say," the President declared in a statement, "that in several particulars this act departs from principles of government which have been long established and which would vest the Congress with what amounts to executive powers over administration of the naval petroleum reserves."

Asserting he signed the legislation to meet an immediate wartime need, the President continued:

"This legislative assumption of executive functions takes form in requirements that the Secretary of the Navy, even with presidential approval, may produce from the reserves only those quantities of fuel Congress specifies; and that the Navy secretary may not condemn lands or enter into joint or unit contracts, or other contracts and leases, without previously consulting the naval affairs committees of both the House and the Senate."

A precious contract between the Navy and the Standard Oil company of California was set aside last winter after the Justice Department objected to it.

The field has since been operated under a temporary agreement which Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the House Naval Committee has termed "illegal."

Vinson also had warned against the new contract, which the President today sanctioned, contending it spelled a departure from Congress' 30-year-old "settled policy" of keeping its oil reserves in the ground.

Officer Sees Big Draft Calls Yet

WASHINGTON, June 22—(AP)—Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, deputy chief of staff, won't predict when the war will end, and although this country will have an overseas fighting force of 5,000,000 by the end of the year, "the movement will likely continue at a high rate during 1945."

McNarney's testimony before the Senate Appropriations Committee considering a House-approved $49,107,785,795 measure to finance the war department during the fiscal year starting July 1 was made public today.

"I wish I could tell you how long it will take us to liberate Europe and to crush our foes in the Pacific," he told the senators, but "no man can at this moment predict with accuracy the time it will take."

"We have today the greatest army the United States has ever mobilized. It is well-trained, equipped with superior weapons, and deployed worldwide. It is now definitely on the offensive on all fronts."

McNarney said the 3,698,000 soldiers now deployed outside the United States exceed by more than 1,600,000 men at the peak overseas strength in World War I and are only 350,000 men short of equalling the entire strength of the army at the close of the last war.

The officer testified that the army is making every effort to keep boys out of overseas infantry service until they are at least 19.

'Business Films' For Congressmen

WASHINGTON, June 22—(AP)—Some congressmen, facing elections, ponder: Should I become quintuplets?

A quintuplet-ed congressman could turn on the campaign charm in five different places at the same time.

A Washington outfit, called "Business Films," has sent congressmen a little printed pep-talk which says:

"How can you be quintuplets? The motion picture is the only way your personality can reach all your voting public."

It's very simple, the pep-talk says. A congressman pays $300 for a one-minute motion picture of himself in sound, talking. He gets five prints of the picture.

So the picture can be shown in five different theaters in his home district at the same time and may make the rounds of all the theaters there.

Theaters showing the picture will do it, supposedly, for free or friendship. The $300 pays for making the picture, not for showing it.

Rep. Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va.) says he expects to have seven of films made. He says he will ask his theater-owner friends—and ask his friends who are friends of other theater-owners—to show the picture.

The spruce Mrs. Luce—Connecticut's Republican Clare Boothe Luce with the cornet hair-do—is considering the proposition but has reached no decision.

"If he wants junk on the desk like on President Roosevelt's desk, we have junk."
