Could Not Respond

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — America's military could not respond adequately to several different trouble spots around the world simultaneously because of personnel and equipment shortages, says the commander of the U.S. Rapid Deployment Joint Task Force.

"The whole defense posture, including surface combatants, naval deployment and airlift ability, is very stretched. We'd like to have two carriers in the Mediterranean and we have only one," said Lt. Gen. Paul X. Kelley of the Marine Corps.

"The number of ships and deployment patterns are not adequate for worldwide (combat) simultaneity. We have a problem," he said at a news conference Friday.

Kelley is based at MacDill Air Force Base in Florida, headquarters for the task force that ultimately would command 200,000 American troops of all four services if deployed to the Middle East or other world trouble spot.

Tax Cut Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Reagan calling influential Democrats to the White House to talk about a tax cut, the ranking Republican in the House is exhorting his GOP colleagues not to confuse compromise with capitulation.

Reagan's invitation Friday to House and Senate Democratic leaders came a day after Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee made it clear they intend to stand firm against the president's proposal for an across-the-board, three-year tax cut.

Israeli Jets Seen

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian military observers said Israeli jets streaked over eastern Lebanon this morning, causing repeated sonic booms in the Bekaa Valley, where Syrian anti-aircraft missiles have been the focus of a confrontation threatening a new Mideast war.

The Israeli military command said it knew nothing of such overflights.

Reporters heard echoing sonic booms, saw the Soviet-made surface-to-air missiles swivel, apparently tracking the jets, and were told by the Syrian observers that the planes overhead were Israeli. None of the missiles was launched.

Compromise Crucial...

Budget Debate Slated

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas legislators took up Saturday a crucial compromise version of the $26.9 billion state spending bill for 1982-83.

The Senate scheduled an afternoon debate while the House will take it up later, probably Sunday.

Comptroller Bob Bullock gave the go-ahead sign Friday for the debate by saying there was enough state revenue in sight to pay for the proposed budget.

However, he warned the state might face problems later if federal budget reductions affect the $6 billion in federal revenue considered a part of the state budget.

"If the Reagan administration can convince the Congress to significantly reduce federal spending, then the state of Texas could face a dilemma," Bullock said.

"That's about as nebuluous a certificate as I have ever seen," said Gov. Bill Clements, a long-time political foe of Bullock.

Clements told a news conference that Bullock only had the duty to certify about $10.4 billion planned from general revenue and had no say concerning about $16.5 billion dedicated by previous legislatures for specific purposes.

The Republican governor recalled that he warned legislators in April to abandon their "letter to Santa Claus" approach to state spending and realize Texas might lose about $2.5 billion from federal budget cuts.

The original appropriations bill passed by the Senate was $191 million more than Bullock's last estimate of expected revenue. The original House bill was about $12 million less than the comptroller's estimate.

During the past 12 days the conference committee trimmed the bill to about $115 million more than the last estimate.

Bullock did not say Friday if there would be any state revenue left, after the general appropriations bill, that could be used for any of the long list of spending requests before the Legislature.

The compromise budget bill includes a 9.1 percent pay raise for state workers, effective Sept. 1, plus another 8.7 percent for the second year.

Public school teachers will get an average 26.6 percent raise over the next two years.

Higher education employees, faculty and professional personnel, will receive an 11.2 percent increase the first year plus 8.7 percent more the second year.

The $7.5 billion Foundation School Program for the next two years set the local districts' share at $421 million the first year and $457.6 million the second. State aid to schools for maintenance and operations would be $220 per pupil the first year and $227 the second, compared to the current $139 per pupil in average daily attendance.

Almost $98 million in the spending bill will go to improve prison crowding conditions as brought out in a federal court order. There will be $68 million to the Texas Department of Corrections for various projects including increased pay for guards, improved medical treatment of inmates and construction of new facilities.

Bridge Seminar Is Postponed

The Bridge Seminar planned for June 2 with Bobby Goldman has been canceled indefinitely due to serious illness, says a spokesperson for the Duplicate Bridge Club.

The seminar will be rescheduled for a future date to be decided upon by the Duplicate Bridge Club members.

Non-Custodial Parent Study Being Conducted

By LOIS GLEASON

The first known study in the United States measuring the impact of the non-custodial parent on the stepfamily is being conducted in Scurry and a few surrounding counties. Other participating counties are Lubbock, Howard, Midland and Nolan.

Dr. Joe Reaves, psychology professor at Western Texas College, a stepchild himself, suggested the study to his dissertation committee to satisfy requirements on another Ph.D. he is working on at Texas Tech.

The idea was researched in psychology journals and other publications and it was discovered that such a study had never been done. "It's a pioneer study and we're quite excited about it," Dr. Reaves said.

Close to 1,000 letters have been sent out to people in an effort to find stepfamilies willing to participate in the study. Another 600 to 700 letters are expected to be mailed.

Response thus far has been slow. Dr. Reaves explained that the eligibility requirements are stringent and they have no list of stepfamilies to use as a mail-out list. The letters are mailed out to those that, according to courthouse records, have been remarried in the past few years. It's a hit-and-miss situation as not everyone who remarries has children from the previous marriage.

To be eligible to participate in the study, a couple must have married within the past four years and have at least one stepchild between 8-16 years of age.

If a couple qualifies to participate, Dr. Reaves will go into their home at the couples' convenience, with a questionnare that he estimates will take about an hour to fill out for the adults and about 40 minutes for the children.

The completed questionnares will be number coded and computer analyzed so they will remain anonymous. "There is no way they can say something that will come back to haunt them," he said.

The goal of the study, Dr. Reaves said, "is to identify variables of the problems and non-problems of the stepfamily and to develop a program to assist stepfamilies with problems."

The questionnaire is designed to study the relationships between the custodial parent and the stepparent; the stepparent and stepchild; the stepchild and the non-custodial parent; and several other inter-relationships.

Other areas that will be explored are stepfamily satisfaction, cohesiveness, conflict and marital adjustment, and the self-esteem of the stepchildren.

Dr. Reaves said he spent 10 years in private counseling and 10 years as a minister. "I kept hearing things about the non-custodial parent." People discussed problems they had with the absent parent trying to regain custody, or not giving the child enough discipline or not being able to collect child support, he said.

"I'm amazed the study hasn't been done many times," said Dr. Reaves, because other studies indicate that over half a million adults become stepparents every year in

'81 Graduates Urged To Maintain Individuality

Snyder High School's 1981 graduates were urged Friday night to maintain their individuality and make a 100 percent effort to attain their goals in life.

The graduation speaker was the Rev. Thomas Jordan, pastor of Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church.

The Lord could have filled the world with robots, Fr. Jordan said, but instead He gave people individual characteristics.

He also cautioned the graduates to guard against dependence on reputation. He said a reputation can be built like wallpaper—it can cover a lot of flaws, but the strength is behind the paper in the framework and wallboard.

Fr. Jordan was introduced by Ray Courtney, Snyder High School Principal. Diplomas were presented by Bill Seale, president of the board of education, as the graduates were introduced by Supt. Bill J. Hood.

Fred Beard, assistant principal, introduced honor graduates, and scholarships were announced by Janet Wesson, counselor.

Mark Robertson, son of the Rev. and Mrs. David Robertson, was valedictorian, and Kris Seale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Seale, was salutatorian. Charlotte Masters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Masters, was highest ranking girl in the graduating class.

The following scholarships were announced:

Mark Allen Robertson, highest ranking student, a tuition scholarship granted by the Legislature to the college of his choice; a scholarship certificate from the Texas Council of Church-Related Colleges.

Kris Seale, second highest ranking student, a scholarship certificate from the Texas Council of Church-Related Colleges.

Daren W. Benbenek, a $200 scholarship to Western Texas College from Dora E. Cunningham Academic Fund.

James Bloom, $200 a semester for four years to Baylor University awarded by First Baptist Church; a scholarship to Baylor from Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCaslin Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Joe Dave Brown, $125 scholarship to college of his choice awarded by Snyder Men's Bowling Association.

Marsha Burrus, $150 scholarship to Western Texas College awarded by American Business Women's Association.

Tracy Collier, $250 scholarship to Abilene Christian University awarded by Snyder Chapter of ACU Alumni Association.

Randy Cook, $100 scholarship to college of his choice by Musical Coterie.

John Davis, $100 scholarship to Western Texas College awarded by WTC Music Dept., also $200 scholarship to WTC awarded by Dora E. Cunningham Academic Fund.

Tony Degrate, full football scholarship to University of Texas at Austin.

Paul Fagin, four-year, $3,500-a-year scholarship from Newmont Mining Corp. to pursue a major in petroleum engineering; a $500 scholarship by the Snyder Chapter of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of the American Institute of Mining Engineers.

Jennifer Floyd, $250 scholarship to Western Texas College by Snyder Lions Club; also $200 scholarship to WTC by Dora E. Cunningham Academic Fund.

Kim Fritz, $100 scholarship to Western Texas College by Art Guild Study Club; also, $250 scholarship to WTC by Snyder Rotary Club; also, $200 scholarship to WTC by Dora E. Cunningham Academic Fund.

Oziel Gonzalez, $100 per semester scholarship while attending WTC by The Shack; also, $200 scholarship to Western Texas College by Dora E. Cunningham Academic Fund.

Pam Gray, $200 a semester for four years to Wayland Baptist College by First Baptist Church; also, a $150 recruitment grant by Zeta Lambda Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society to college of her choice.

Jon Goodwin, $200 Herman Trigg Memorial Scholarship.

Stephen Ham, $250 scholarship to Abilene Christian University awarded by local chapter of ACU Alumni Association.

Kevin Jackson, $200 scholarship to college of his choice by Snyder Men's Bowling Association.

Sandra Lawler, $100 scholarship to college of her choice from American Legion Auxiliary; also, $250 scholarship to Western Texas College by Insurance Women's Association of Snyder.

Carlos Martinez, $250 scholarship to Western Texas College by Sparkle City Lions Club; also, $100 per semester scholarship while attending WTC.

David Martinez, $300 Permian Honor Scholarship to WTC made

Ask Us

Q.—How come the Wednesday national high temperature was given as 103 degrees at Presidio and the bank sign here said 105 degrees?

A.—The high readings you hear nationally are those from official instruments of the National Weather Service. Often there are unofficial thermometers with different readings, but only the NWS instruments, which are located strategically are recognized as offical. The only official NWS instrument in Scurry County is located at the Snyder water treatment plant. It registered 102 degrees last Wednesday. That is the only day it hit 100 degrees or more during the week, although some unofficial thermometers here had readings above 100 on Tuesday also. But the NWS readings are the only ones that go into the record books.

The SDN Column

We still get a lot of questions for our "Ask Us" column, which surprises some people. This type of item usually creates a lot of interest for a period of weeks or months, but fades out eventually, people with other newspapers tell us. But it is different here.

We have a backlog of questions most of the time. Some of them, we remind from time to time, we do not attempt to answer. These are questions that obviously are facetious in nature, or else they tend to hold someone or some group up to ridicule, or perhaps "grind an axe."

But most of those we receive appear to be pertinent, or logical. Usually, we can spot a phoney a mile off.

Occasionally one comes along for which there is no definite answer, yet it is timely and-or appropriate. One of these came recently when someone asked if there was a law that no more than 10 percent of the drivers in Snyder could not use turn signals on any given day, or something to that effect.

It attracted a lot of attention and led to many reports of negligent driving.

Such as those who do use their turn signals and then never turn them off; those who signal a left turn and then turn right, or vice versa; those who signal for a turn and then don't do it; those who suddenly decide to turn in the middle of an intersection but give no signals and allow no time for other drivers to dodge.

And then, of course, there is the inevitable story about the little old lady, or little old man, who sits at the traffic signal after it turns green, finally moving ahead just in time to make it before the red signal returns, but not soon enough for you to get across the interesection without waiting for another cycle.

These things build up tension when you are driving. And it is one reason we never relished the idea of living in a major metropolitan area where there are thousands of cars and many breeds of drivers who have thought up more ways to antagonize others than most of us could imagine.

While the Legislature was talking about doing away with the annual auto inspections, Bob Dupree took his own poll, actually it was a petition, which he sent to Sen. Ray Farabee—and contrary to the trends indicated on television, he found most people against the inspection law. Some people feel that it is another invasion of privacy for the government to tell them how to maintain their cars.

There is some indication that sentiment in rural areas varies from that of urban regions on this topic.

Summer Classes Begin June 10...

Kollege For Kids Response Is Good

Response to the Scurry County Museum's Kollege For Kids has been excellent, Sharon Sutton, museum director, said, and parents planning to enroll their children would be wise to get their registrations in as early as possible.

The summer classes will begin on June 10 with TV for kids taught by June Brock. The class will teach students in grades 4-7 some basic techniques of videotaping as they develop a production of a classic, "The Reluctant Dragon."

Students will be working on sets and costumes as the production advances, and the finished show will be videotaped.

TV for Kids classes will meet from 10 a.m. to noon from June 10-15. Fees are $20. per person.

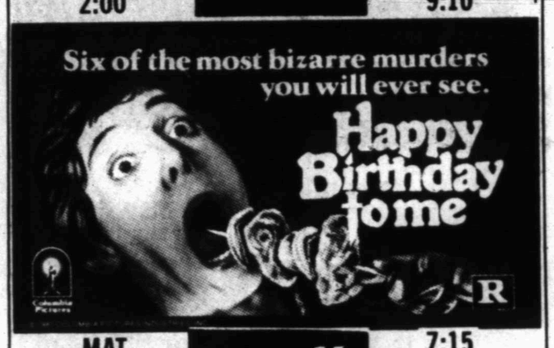

Other courses scheduled are photography from June 22-July 2 (grades 4-6), Arts and Craft I from July 20-30 (grades 1-3), and Arts and Crafts II from August 3-13 (grades 4-6).

Field trips are scheduled to Fort Concho in Abilene on June 19, the Abilene Zoo on June 26, the Ranching Heritage Center in Lubbock on July 10, and the Petroleum Museum in Midland on July 17.

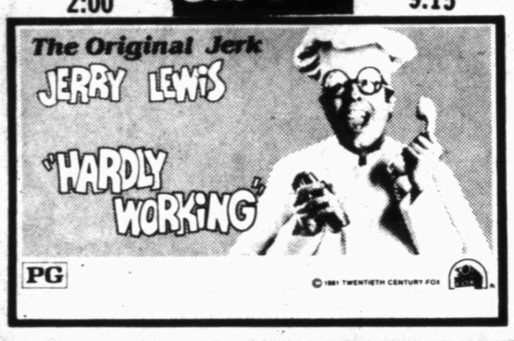

Resevations are also coming in at a good pace for these trips, Sutton said, and since each group will be limited to 10 students reservations should be made this week.

Information about the Kollege for Kids can be obtained by calling the museum office at 573-6107. Museum hours are 9-12 and 1-5 Monday through Thursday, 9-12 and 1-4 p.m. on Friday, and 1-5 p.m. Sundays.

Senior Citizens Asked To Meal

Senior Citizens are invited to a covered dish supper at the Senior Citizen Center Thursday evening.

Serving will begin at 6 p.m., and the meal will be followed by games until 8:30 p.m. A covered dish supper is a regularr feature of the first Thursday of each month, with other Thursday evenings devoted to games only.

A new series of liquid embroidery classes will begin in the Center on June 8 and continue on second and fourth Mondays, Jean Smith, activities director, said. Edith Witte will be the instructor for the classes, meeting from 1:15-3:30 p.m.

A special program, "Popeye Nutrition",will be presented at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday as Senior Citizens gather in the dinning room for lunch. Senior Citizens will meet for swimming in the indoor pool at Western Texas College from 2:30-4 4 p.m. Tuesday and each Tuesday throughout the summer.

Bowlers get together at 9:15 on Wednesday. They will be participating in an inter-city tournament with senior bowlers from Sweetwater on June 17 and need to keep in practice, Mrs. Smith reminds.

Miniature golfers have moved their session to Thursday mornings and will be meeting at Westerner Golfland at 9 a.m. through the summer.

The Senior Center, located at 2603 Avenue M, is open each weekday for activities and a noon meal and all county residents of 60 years of age and older are invited to participate. Persons wishing information may call the office at 573-0104.

Ira Homecoming Being Planned

The Ira Homecoming Committee is already hard at work planning for the September 12 homecoming celebration. Invitations to all former Ira students will be mailed out the middle of July.

If anyone knows of former Ira students whose addresses have changed they are asked to contact either Janet Brown, 573-8980 or Susie White, 573-7222.

Summer School

Summer classes will get underway at Western Texas College for both day and evening students.

Students who wish to register on Monday are to go to the Student Center.

Classes will meet Monday through Thursday to July 23. There is one Saturday class, Sociology 231, scheduled from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Offices on the WTC campus will be closed Fridays under the summer schedule to conserve enegry. The switchboard will be open on Fridays from 8 a.m. to noon and fom 1-4 p.m.

Smoke Detectors Are Requirement

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate approved a bill Friday that would require installation of smoke detectors outside bedrooms in rented and leased dwelling units constructed after Sept. 1.

Buildings over four stories, buildings occupied by the owner and nursing homes covered under another law are exempt from the bill, said Sen. Bob Glasgow, D-Stephenville.

Dear Abby

A Plea for Caution

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: It's been four years since my 18-year-old cousin was killed in a horrible car crash. Shortly after his death, you printed a very moving article titled, "Please, God, I'm Only 17." Every time I read that clipping, it brought a flood of tears.

My copy has become tattered. Please reprint it, Abby. It might cause some young person to be a little more careful when he gets behind the wheel of an automobile.

ELEANOR R. IN ALLENTOWN, PA.

DEAR ELEANOR: Here it is:

PLEASE, GOD, I'M ONLY 17

The day I died was an ordinary school day. How I wish I had taken the bus! But I was too cool for the bus. I remember how I wheedled the car out of Mom. "Special favor," I pleaded. "All the kids drive." When the 2:50 bell rang, I threw all my books in the locker. I was free until 8:40 tomorrow morning! I ran to the parking lot, excited at the thought of driving a car and being my own boss. Free!

It doesn't matter how the accident happened. I was goofing off — going too fast. Taking crazy chances. But I was enjoying my freedom and having fun. The last thing I remember was passing an old lady who seemed to be going awfully slow. I heard the deafening crash and felt a terrific jolt. Glass and steel flew everywhere. My whole body seemed to be turning inside out. I heard myself scream.

Suddenly I awakened; it was very quiet. A police officer was standing over me. Then I saw a doctor. My body was mangled. I was saturated with blood. Pieces of jagged glass were sticking out all over. Strange that I couldn't feel anything.

Hey, don't pull that sheet over my head. I can't be dead. I'm only 17. I've got a date tonight. I am supposed to grow up and have a wonderful life. I haven't lived yet. I can't be dead.

Later I was placed in a drawer. My folks had to identify me. Why did they have to see me like this? Why did I have to look at Mom's eyes when she faced the most terrible ordeal of her life? Dad suddenly looked like an old man. He told the man in charge, "Yes, he is my son."

The funeral was a weird experience. I saw all my relatives and friends walk toward the casket. They passed by, one by one, and looked at me with the saddest eyes I've ever seen. Some of my buddies were crying. A few of the girls touched my hand and sobbed as they walked away.

Please . . . somebody . . . wake me up! Get me out of here! I can't bear to see my mom and dad so broken up. My grandparents are so racked with grief they can hardly walk. My brother and sisters are like zombies. They move like robots. In a daze, everybody! No one can believe this. And I can't believe it, either.

Please don't bury me! I'm not dead! I have a lot of living to do! I want to laugh and run again. I want to sing and dance. Please don't put me in the ground. I promise if you give me just one more chance, God, I'll be the most careful driver in the whole world. All I want is one more chance.

Please, God, I'm only 17!

CONFIDENTIAL TO HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS: This is the time of year when most youthful drivers meet with serious, and all too often fatal automobile accidents. Could this column have a special prophetic message for you?

Swim Classes Set At WTC

Swimming classes for children and women are to begin in June at Westen texa College.

Children's classes are scheduled June 8-18 and June 22-July 2. Children must be at least 48 inches tall to register and will pay fees of $35 each for nine hours of instruction.

Women's classes are scheduled from June 8-24 and June 29-July 15. Fees are $35 per person for eight hours of instruction.

Students in swimming classes must pre-register by calling the Continuing Education Office at 573-8511, extension 240.

Awaits Final Action In Senate...

Texas House Passes Strong War On Drugs Bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Texas War on Drugs bill designed to crack down on physicians who prescribe large amounts of drugs popular in the illicit market has been sent to the Senate for final action.

The bill, which passed the House on voice vote Friday, would require pharmacists to send the Texas Department of Public Safety a copy of each prescription filled for such "Class II" drugs as Dilaudid, Demerol, methaqualones, amphetamines, narcotics and barbiturates.

Doctors would write prescriptions in triplicate on serially numbered pads issued by the DPS that would include the name, age and address of each patient. The physician and the druggist would keep the remaining copies.

The DPS would feed information from the prescription forms into a computer for correlations that might point to doctors who misuse their prescribing powers.

Rep. Walter Grubbs, D-Abilene, the sponsor, said drugs covered by the bill amount to only 7 percent of all prescriptions.

Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving, broke ranks with Gov. Bill Clements and opposed the bill, saying the DPS already has the power to examine pharmacists' records when officers suspect a doctor of selling prescriptions for such drugs.

"It is not a proper function of government to coerce you ... to become a part of the criminal justice process," Davis said.

Grubbs replied that the State Board of Pharmacy and the Texas Medical Association were for the bill and the pharmacy association had withdrawn its opposition.

The bill was opposed by the Texas Civil Liberties Union, whose director, John Duncan, issued a statement Thursday night saying it would permit an invasion of the privacy of sick people.

Duncan said the bill "strikes at those persons who are simply unfortunate enough to be in enough pain to have a physician prescribe a pain killer."

"The only person to come out ahead with this scheme will be the person who gets the new DPS computer contract," Duncan said.

He explained he meant H. Ross Perot, the Dallas computer millionaire who heads the governor's War on Drugs Committee.

Employees of Perot have lobbied for War on Drugs bills, and Rep. Robert Saunders, D-La Grange, asked if passage of all the Perot organization's bills "means those pretty girls from Dallas won't be coming back?"

"I'm afraid so," Grubbs replied.

TO NAME "KING FOR A DAY"—The Tejas Cowbelles and Snyder Daily News again will honor a father on Father's Day. Sandra Hart, Cowbelles president, and Roy McQueen, SDN Publisher, discuss plans for the annual "King-For-A-Day" contest. (SDN Staff Photo)

Mishap Victim Is In 'Serious' Condition

Deborah Lynn Holmes, 18, is listed in serious but stable condition at St. Mary's Hospital in Lubbock. She suffered a fractured skull in a car-truck wreck northeast of Snyder Thursday. Her mother, Elsie Day Holmes, died at Cogdell Memorial Hospital from injuries sustained in the same accident.

The accident occurred Thursday afternoon at the intersection of Farm Road 1617 and Ennis Creek Road when the car the Holmes' were in ran a stop sign and collided with a Globe Vacuum Truck. No one in the truck was seriously injured.

No Injuries Reported In Mishap

A 1962 Chevrolet driven by Robert Lynn Vredenburg of Abilene, ran off the road about 9 a.m. Saturday and hit a concrete culvert almost 10 miles west of Snyder on U. S. 180.

No injuries were reported although the car was moderately damaged, according to Trooper Pat Alexander, Texas Highway Patrol.

King For A Day Contest Starts

The fourth annual "King For A Day" contest begins today and a father to receive this honor will receive a dinner for two at the Shack, a 10-12 lb. brisket from Everybody's Thriftway, the All Beef Cookbook by the American National Cowbelles, and will be featured in a picture and story on Father's Day in the Snyder Daily News.

The father to receive this honor will be chosen from a letter written by a son or daughter on "Why My Dad Should Be King For A Day." Letters should be written clearly in essay form with not more than 250 words.

Deadline for the contest entries will be June 15, so letters should be mailed to King For A Day, Box 949, Snyder, Texas 79549 on or before June 15. Anyone who has a father living in the Snyder area is eligible except members of the Tejas CowBelles.

Senate Votes To Hike Taxes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate voted Friday to raise the annual state occupation tax on coin-operated machines that show motion pictures from $15 to $1,500.

There was no debate in the Senate, but House members had described the bill as an anti-pornography measure because obscene movies are about the only pictures shown on such machines.

Works For Major Bank...

Computer Programmer Enjoys Working At Home

KINGSTON, Okla. (AP) — Norma Posey realizes she is riding the crest of what some see as the wave of the future, but adds quickly that "if there had to be a guinea pig, I'm glad it was me."

Mrs. Posey is a computer programmer and analyst for a major Oklahoma bank. Her office, with an earth-tone carpet on the floor, is complete with easy chair and sofa, a portrait of her married daughter, a console television set and a washer and dryer.

Next door her husband Gene operates his welding business.

Mrs. Posey is a 40-hour-per week, fulltime employee of Liberty National Bank and Trust Co. of Oklahoma City. Her office is in the den of her home just east of this southern Oklahoma town about 150 miles away near the shores of Lake Texoma.

"I can just get out of bed and walk to the den and I'm at work," said Mrs. Posey, who has been employed by the bank for the past 18 years.

That's a lot easier than it was when she lived in Moore, an Oklahoma City suburb, and battled the traffic to and from the office every day.

And then there were the night calls.

"If there was some sort of problem, I'd have to get out of bed, get dressed, drive 15 miles to the office, clear up the problem, drive home, get back in bed and try to get a little sleep," she said.

Now, if there is a problem at night, she just pulls on a robe, sits down at her computer console (it looks like a TV with a typewriter keyboard) and works the problem out.

"I try to work a normal 9-to-5 job," Mrs. Posey said. "But the other night, for instance, I got called about 11:30 p.m. I worked for over a half-hour to clear up the problem, so I'll just take 30 minutes off some day when I want to go shopping or something."

Her computer console sits in the corner of the den just inside the outer door. A telephone connects her with the IBM computer at the bank in Oklahoma City.

"There are three computers at the bank, and my terminal is hooked up to one," she complained. "I can communicate with that computer, or with the other people who work in that department."

The Poseys decided to change their lifestyle after spending at least two weekends a month, summer after summer, camping at Lake Texoma "and meeting the friendly people around here," Mrs. Posey said. They had grown to love the area so much, they decided to move here.

"We knew that we would have to find a place on the highway for Gene to have his welding business," Mrs. Posey said. "Then we came down here one day and here was this house, just like it was waiting for us."

They bought the house and her husband, who was maintenance superintendent at the Oklahoma City Zoo for 10 years, bought a building and moved it here for his shop.

At that time, Mrs. Posey intended to look for computer work in Ardmore, about 35 miles to the west, or Durant, 18 miles to the east. Then came her going-away party at the bank.

"Someone — I'm not sure who it was, one of the auditors, I think — spoke up and said, 'Why don't you take a computer with you?'"

There were some giggles at first, she said, but the idea soon caught on with the bank's officials.

Among the first visitors after the Poseys moved in were a computer serviceman from the bank, who installed her terminal, and Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. workers from the local office, who wired it to the telephone line.

"The telephone people said they had never done anything like that before, but they did it real quick and without any problems," she said.

With that, Mrs. Posey was ready to go to work.

Her job is to maintain and change programs in the bank's computer.

"If a change has to be made in the program, my bosses at the bank will call me or send a written request," Mrs. Posey said. "I can write a new program or make changes in current programs right here at this terminal."

Liberty National does the data processing for about 80 Oklahoma banks, including some in this area. "The computers work 24 hours a day, seven days a week, all year long," she said. She said a courier service goes to the member banks after the close of business to pick up the data processing information and take it to Liberty, where the work is done overnight so the other banks can have it at the opening of business the next day.

Occasionally, she said, when the bank has something particularly large to send her, or when she wants to look at a printed copy of one of her computer programs, it is brought by the courier service to a nearby bank and she picks it up there.

Mrs. Posey admits she sometimes misses seeing her co-workers in person, "but I wouldn't trade places with them for anything.

"My family likes having me at home with them. We get to spend time together that we would otherwise spend going in separate directions.

"And if I have a particularly long program to run, I can dump a load of clothes in the washer while it's running."

Insurance FACTS by Tom Deffebach

YOUR Insurance Independent AGENT SERVES YOU FIRST

The word risk is used by the insurance industry to mean at least three different things. Sometimes, it is used to mean the peril against which the insurance is written. More often it refers to the person or property protected. In the most often used definition, risk means uncertainty. As such, it is something which normally cannot be avoided in life. Everytime a decision is made, we run the risk of being wrong. When an individual engages in any business venture, he takes the risk of losses in the process of seeking profits.

People seek our advice at THE DEFFEBACH AGENCY, 1810 27th, 573-5611 when they need insurance. As an independent agent we put our client's needs first and use our knowledge and experience to see that they get the best coverage for their particular needs. To us you're a person, not a number. We believe in long lasting relationships. Hours: Mon. thru Fri., 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Pilot Program Is Approved

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A bill that would set up a $2 million summer school pilot program for students who fail courses was approved by the Senate on Friday.

The bill was returned to the House with an amendment on a 31-0 vote.

The Texas Education Agency would develop a plan for the program, which also could be used for students who have difficulty with the English language.

The pilot program would expire in four years, after the State Board of Education reports to the 1985 Legislature.

Application Made For Bank

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Application has been made for a new state bank in Denton County, the State Banking Department said Friday.

The bank, to be known as the Northwest Bank, Roanoke, would have capital of $500,000, surplus of $500,000 and reserves of $200,000.

Nolin W. Ragsdale, Justin, is projected as chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

No hearing date was set.

Photography Classes Still Have Spaces

Spaces are still available in two summer photography classes at Western Texas College. Each class will meet one evening weekly through July 21.

Introductory photography, listed as JOU 130-310, will meet Monday nights in the student center. An individualized lab will be scheduled at the students' convenience and class members will have access to college camera and darkroom equipment.

Topics in the course include camera systems, filters, exposure, composition, film, processing and printing, enlarging and finishing, and special subject treatment. The course is a fully transferrable three-hour credit course, but is open to anyone interested in learning basic photography.

Color photography, listed as JOU 230-311 (news photo), will meet Tuesday nights with individualized labs also available. It appears as a Wednesday evening class on the schedule.

Students will learn to process color negative film and make prints from them. They also will learn to process color slide film and to make prints from slides as well as mount slides for display. Those enrolled will choose from subjects of personal interest and will use college color equipment, including a color analyzer and assorted cameras and lenses.

Further information may be obtained from Dr. Mike McBride, associate professor, at 573-8511, extension 273, in the WTC student center.

Resort For Texans In Colorado

A Texas settlement in Colorado is one of the objectives of a development now underway on the 5,000-acre Holley Cattle Co. Ranch in Colorado.

Located between Gunnison and Lake City, Colo., a huge lodge is to be built, along with a number of cabins at various places on the picturesque countryside.

Family and business memberships are being made available, and they are concentrating on Texans in their current offerings.

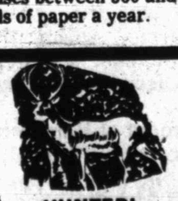

Members will have access to facilities on the 5,000 acres, which means they may take advantage of opportunities for hunting, winter sports, backpacking, snow-mobiling, etc.

There is an abundance of elk, deer and black bear for the hunters, and there are streams, small lakes and beaver ponds for the fishermen.

Also, the Holley Ranch is only five miles from the lake fork of the Gunnison River and 15 miles from Blue Mesa Reservoir, the third largest body of water in Colorado.

Those would would like more information, or who would like to see a slide presentation may call 573-5734 after 6 p. m.

On the average, each American uses between 560 and 575 pounds of paper a year.

Financial & tax planning

OVERLOOKED DEDUCTION
(Estate Settlement)

If you are the beneficiary of an estate or trust you may be entitled to special deductions in the year of termination for those entities.

Certain business losses, capital losses, and administrative expenses which are not used by the entity can be deducted by the beneficiaries receiving the property. Such deductions are taken as itemized deductions on the recipients personal tax return (Form 1040).

Some deuctions of estate administration can be taken either as a deduction from the gross estate in determining the net value of estate property or as a deduction on the "estate income tax return," or split between the two returns. If the election is made to take the deduction on the estate income tax return and such expenses constitute "excess deductions," they will pass to the beneficiaries if incurred in the final year of the estate or trust.

Some expenses are deductible only on the estate tax return and never for income tax purposes. These include funeral expenses, federal income taxes and gift taxes owed by the deceased, and claims against the estate for personal expenses of the deceased which would not normally be deductible on his income tax return.

On small estates which are otherwise exempt from federal "estate taxes" the administrative expenses such as attorney's fees, executor's fees, and various expenses in selling assets etc., should be planned to enable them to pass to the beneficiaries. It is difficult to generalize, but estates of $425,000 or less could be exempt from federal estate taxes.

If, within the past three years, you have been the beneficiary of a terminating estate or trust, review the possibility of "excess deductions." The statute of limitations on a federal tax return is three years. This means that the returns which you filed for 1978, 1979 and 1980 are still open for amendment should you find it appropriate to change them.

Allow students To Participate

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate approved a bill Friday to allow students at trade and technical schools to participate in the guaranteed student loan program.

The amended bill was returned to the House on a 27-0 vote.

Instead of dungarees, rubber boots, canvas coat and helmet, fireman on duty at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City wear evening clothes.

SCURRY COUNTY STEPFAMILIES NEEDED

Your family may qualify to participate in a study being conducted in Howard, Lubbock, Midland, Nolan and Scurry Counties. Selected families are being asked to fill out questionnaires about stepfamily strengths, weaknesses, relationships, and problem-solving methods. We believe the study will yield results which could prove very helpful to families with stepchildren, and we sincerely hope you will consider being a participating family.

Over 500,000 adults in the United States become stepparents every year. At present, there are over 15 million stepchildren under the age of 18. Stepfamilies are the most frequent alternative to the tradtional nuclear family today, and the trend toward more stepfamilies each year is likely to continue.

In fact, it is predicted by the Census Bureau that 48% of the children born this year will spend considerable time in a single-parent home before the age of 18, and the great majority will eventually become stepchildren.

Unfortunately, we know very little about stepfamilies. We need more information about problems unique to stepfamilies and about the way successful stepfamilies deal with these problems.

If there is at least one stepchild living in your family, we are asking for your help in gathering information which could prove useful in developing programs to assist stepfamilies. Your part will involve filling out questionnaires in your own home at your convenience.

Your name will not appear on the questionnaires—we will code the questionnaires with numbers for computer analysis. It is anticipated that about one hour of your time will be involved.

Obviously, a study of this type cannot be accomplished without the cooperation of the communities selected. So we are asking Scurry County couples married within the past four years, who have at least one stepchild living in the family, to assist in this project.

Dr. Nancy J. Bell, Department of Home and Family Life, Texas Tech University; Dr. Joe R. Reaves, Department of Psychology, Western Texas College; and Mr. Jim Anderson, Research Assistant, Texas Tech University, are conducting the study.

If you agree to participate, your family will receive a comprehensive report of the findings of the study, together with a list of materials which may be helpful to your family.

We wish to thank you in advance for your help in this project.

Families willing to participate are asked to call Dr. Joe Reaves at 573-3215 or write him at P.O. Box 398, Snyder.

In The Oilpatch...

Wildcat Is Planned Near Hermleigh

JEM Petroleum Corp. of Midland will drill the No. 1 Beck, a 7,500 wildcat in Scurry County.

Location is six miles north of Hermleigh. It is located ⅜ mile south-southeast of the depleted Ellenburger re-opener and 1 ¼ miles northwest of the current two-well Hermleigh (Strawn) field, separated by the depleted Strawn opener.

The Ellenburger re-opener, J. E. Jones Drilling Co. No. 1-C Beck, drilled to 7,605 feet, was finaled Feb. 16, 1960 to pump 142.03 barrels of 40.1 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 480-1, through perforations at 7,502-50 feet.

The field, which produced from the Strawn at 6,530 feet, also formerly produced from the 6200 pay and from a pay at 3,710 feet.

Three locations have been filed by Chevron USA in the SACROC unit, located northwest of Snyder in the Kelly-Snyder Field.

The first is the No. 20-12, located 200 feet from the south lines and 1,300 feet from the east line of section 439, block 97, H&TC; survey, 8 ½ miles northwest of Snyder. Projected depth is 7,100 feet.

No. 34-11 is 1,250 feet from the north line and 250 feet from the west line of section 384, Block 97, H&TC survey, 8 ½ miles northwest of Snyder. Projected depth is 7,100 feet.

Ellpen Inc. will drill the No. 13 Perry Echols 2 ½ miles southeast of Snyder. Location is 1,650 feet from the east line of Tract 1, Survey 33, Kirkland and Fields survey. Projected depth is 1,800 feet.

A dry hole was repoted by Aminoil USA Inc. of Midland. The No. 1 Bley, a wildcat, was located 467 feet from the north and 1,173 feet from the east lines of Section 350, Block 97, H&TC Survey, located five miles south of Fluvanna. The well was drilled to 8,370 feet.

The Denny (Strawn) field of Borden County gained its second producer and a location northeast extension with completion of Pioneer Production Corp. of Amarillo No. 2,414 Davenport, 12 miles northeast of Gail. The producer is pumping 53 barrels of 40.6 gravity oil, plus 70 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 420:1. Production was through perforations at 7,913 feet which had been acidized with 250 gallons. Location is 1,787 feet from the south and west lines of Section 414, Block 97, H&TC Survey.

The discovery, the firm's No. 1-414 Davenport, was finaled March 11, 1980 for 1,369 barrels of oil, plus gas at the rate of 700,000 cubic feet daily, through a ¾ inch choke and perforations at 7,889-900 feet.

Arbusto Energy Inc. of Midland will drill No. 1 Moates as a 7,600 foot wildcat in Howard County, six miles northeast of Lugar. Location is 660 feet from the north line and 1800 feet from the east line of Section 2, Block 31, T&P survey, and ¾ mile northwest of the Vealmoor, East Canyon field.

Saxon Oil Co. of Midland will drill the No. 1 Baker A as a confirmer to and surrounded by the five-well Noodle Creek area of the Hunsaker field of Fisher County, five miles northeast of Rotan.

Location is 600 feet from the south and 660 feet from the east lines of Section 281, Block 1, H&TC Survey. Contract depth is 3,700 feet.

Natomas North America of Midland will drill the No. 1 Swenson as a Kent County wildcat. The planned 8,000 foot venture is located 17 miles northwest of Clairemont. It spots 1,980 feet from the north and east lines of Section 7, Block 2, H&TC Survey.

Barbee Inc. will drill the No. 2 John Carl Gruben as a wildcat four miles southwest of Rotan. The 6,765 foot project is located 1,127 feet from the south and 467 feet from the west lines of Section 49, Block 2, H&TC Survey.

Hilliard Oil & Gas Inc. of Midland will drill the No. 1-X Anderson, 70 feet southeast of and a relacement for its No. 1 Anderson, an 8,200 wildcat, which is being abandoned, 1 ⅛ miles east of the Rocker A, South Multipay field and three miles southwest of Justiceburg. Location is 2,050 feet from the north and west lines of Section 30, block 6, H&GN Survey.

Bill Clears The Senate

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A proposal that would increase retirement benefits for four persons or their survivors cleared the Senate on Friday.

The bill was sent to the governor on voice vote.

The House-approved measure originally would have benefited only one unidentified person, but Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson added three others on a 22-9 vote.

He identified one "as a lady whose husband gave long years of service" to the state.

"It's something that is right and just," said Snelson, D-Midland.

Snelson said the three were the same ones that would have benefited from a separate bill, which the Senate refused to debate earlier this month.

The Legislative Budget Office later told the Austin American-Statesman passage of the proposal would have resulted in one-time payments of $211,012 to Mrs. Crawford Martin, wife of the late attorney general; $99,362 to former Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler; and $65,706 to a 69-year-old former governor, which the retirement system refused to name.

The newspaper noted that former Gov. Preston Smith is 69.

Tax Hike Becomes Law

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — A controversial measure to hike taxes paid by Nevada casinos by nearly $20 million has been signed into law by Gov. Bob List.

The gaming tax measure increases the gross revenue tax on casinos from 5½ percent to 5¾ percent. An extra $40 yearly would be collected on each slot machine in the state.

The increase in gaming taxes was sought in efforts to make up a $40 million shortfall in funds for Nevada schools.

DeLeon Reported In 'Serious' Condition

Antonio DeLeon, 22, was in serious condition at Cogdell Memorial Hospital after being stabbed in the chest early Saturday morning at a residence on the north edge of Snyder.

DeLeon was reported to be suffering from a collapsed lung which may require surgery.

Sheriff deputies said they expect charges to be filed in the case against an 18 year-old woman.

DeLeon was transferred from the residence where the incident occurred to the hospital by Scurry County EMS.

Summer Schedules Listed In Snyder

Summer schedules for the various public schools in Snyder have been announced.

All principals will be in their respective buildings from 8 a. m. to noon and from 1 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. June 1-5, 8-9, 15-19. The offices will be re-opened on July 27. Teachers will report for beginning of school activities on Tuesday, Aug. 18.

The central administration offices will be open from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. throughout the summer.

Texas Senators Give Approval

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate approved a bill Friday that Sen. Tati Santiesteban said could lead to the construction of a sun-powered electrical generating plant in his hometown of El Paso.

The House-approved bill was sent to the governor on voice vote.

Santiesteban said the bill would authorize future legislatures pay up to 20 percent of the construction cost of a solar power "regenerating plant" such as the one proposed by El Paso Electric Co.

Such a plant could supply an estimated 30,000 homes with electricity.

Aided By Actor, Unicorn, Armadillo...

Genuine Tomfoolry Returning To Luckenbach

LUCKENBACH, Texas (AP) — After an absence of several years, genuine tomfoolery is almost returning to Luckenbach, Texas, population 3, aided by television actor Guich Koock, the mythical unicorn and the lowly armadillo.

Luckenbach, immortalized in song by Waylon Jennings and Willie Nelson as a place where "there ain't nobody feeling no pain," was the frequent site of weekend beer bashes until storyteller and self-professed "imagineer" Hondo Crouch died in 1976.

The white-bearded Crouch, a former Olympic swimmer, surrounded himself with underground country musicians, poets and practical jokers who told tall tales at the old country store-beer parlor and needed little reason to put on a spoof.

In those days, hundreds of free spirits gathered in this dilapidated old German settlement in the Texas Hill Country about 60 miles northwest of San Antonio to sit on the ground and take in the frivolity.

Crouch conceived such ideas as "Washer Olympics," "Drunk and Falling Down Contest," "World Champion Moseying Contest" and the "Hell Hath No Fury" women's chili cookoff.

But after Crouch's death and the "Luckenbach, Texas" song ran its course, current town owner Kathy Morgan got cross-wise with some of the spoofers and the last big bash, "When the Mud Daubers Return to Luckenbach" celebration, was in 1977.

Koock, a star in the former "Carter Country" television series, though, plans to carry on the tradition the weekends of June 26-28 and July 3-5 by putting on the "Return of the Fifth Great Sometimes Annual Luckenbach World's Fair" at a nearby ranch.

Koock has sponsored the sporadic mock world's fairs previously in his native Fredericksburg, beginning in 1969 and continuing until the last one two years ago.

This year, Koock is exploiting the unicorn-armadillo controversy in the Texas Legislature to draw attention to the upcoming mock world's fair, at which he promises to display what is billed as the only known live unicorn.

Koock started the controversy by complaining to the Legislature about a proposal to make the armadillo the Texas state mascot. Koock contended that the lovable unicorn was more appropriate as a state animal than "the lowly, mudslinging, cowardly armadillo" which might wreak irreparable damage to the state's reputation.

This caused Sam Lewis of San Angelo, inventor of the jalapeno lollipop and self-appointed president of the World Armadillo Breeding and Racing Association, to come to the defense of the armadillo.

"Guich has had it in for armadillos from birth," Lewis countered. "His family's pet armadillo gave birth the same day his ma had him. They named the (baby) armadillos Mike, Sam, Jack and Texas. That about used up all the good names so they called the kid Guich. I guess you can't blame him for not liking armadillos."

Lt. Gov. William Hobby sent Koock a humorous letter saying Hobby preferred to back the armadillo, suggested by the school children of Texas as the state mascot, instead of a mythical animal supported by "one irate citizen of Luckenbach."

Koock has arranged to bring the unicorn, a one-horned Angora goat owned by Otter and Morning Glory G'Zell of Los Gatos, Calif., as a major attraction to the world's fair. The rare animal, born with a single spiraled horn in the center of its forehead, has been featured on "Those Amazing Animals," "That's Incredible" and "The Merv Griffin Show," Koock said.

"The showing of the unicorn is part of our program to turn America around and have people get a positive image of mankind," said Koock, grand exalted ringmaster for the fair. "For too long America has sufferd what some so-called smart folks labelled a 'mailaise.' The folks saw everybody as depraved, vicious, hatin' and stealin' and fornicatin'. That ain't the way we look at things in the Texas Hill Country."

The legendary timid unicorn is reputed to be a self-sacrificing symbol of innocence that could only be awakened from sleep by the kiss of a virgin, Koock explained.

He said the fair will feature armadillo races, chicken flying contests, "back door races" in which men in red long-handled underwear must dress while searching for an exit, and "the nation's greatest and most patriotic celebration of the Fourth of July."

Koock said a unicorn race was suggested but "since there is only one unicorn that would cut down on the excitement of seeing a photo finish."

He said he took a armadillo with him to California to pose for pictures with the unicorn and the two animals got along swimmingly.

"We think the result is going to be an armacorn," said Koock, who will star with Gabe Kaplan in a new television series this fall.

"They will cross," he said, warming up for the punchline. "Armadillos are notorious about cross-breeding with anything they come across. They favor Mack trucks. Attemptin' to breed a Mack truck is very much like a black widow spider, they kill their mates."

Texas Senate Okays Bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A bill that Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson said "would tighten controls" over underground injection wells cleared the Senate on Friday.

The bill was returned to the House on a 26-0 vote.

Snelson, D-Midland, said spokesmen for the Railroad Commission and Department of Water Resources had testified the bill "would permit them to maintain proper regulatory control."

"It is vital to protect our water resources," Snelson said.

The bill would regulate the underground storage of crude oil and its derivatives, as well as injection wells.

Navy Begins Probe Into The Nimitz Casualties

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — As the USS Nimitz prepared to sail on the midday tide, a crewman complained that the jet crash and fire that killed 14 aboard the aircraft carrier would have left fewer men dead if fire equipment had worked.

Two investigations of the crash, which injured 48, were under way.

The $2 billion nuclear carrier came home to Norfolk on Thursday with a grim cargo — seven mangled jets and the bodies of 13 of the dead. One body has not been recovered.

But the ship itself showed little evidence of the crash of the Marine EA-6B that rammed through rows of parked planes and set off explosive fires.

Andy Pickens, a 21-year-old boatswain's mate who helped fight the fire, said a sprinkler system on the flight deck barely worked. He said a firefighting vehicle he drove into the blaze balked, its hoses jammed and the vehicle finally stopped completely.

"If everything would have worked right, we would have had half the casualties and injuries," Pickens said Friday. "We could have had the fire out in no time."

"If everything worked as perfectly as the Navy said it did, I wouldn't have dead friends now," Pickens, a Charlotte, N.C. native stationed on the Nimitz for 3½ years, said in an interview with the Charlotte Observer.

With 60 days left in the Navy, Pickens said he decided to tell his story "because people need to know exactly what happened there."

Navy spokesman Lt. Cmdr. Tom Connor of the Air Atlantic Fleet said in Norfolk he could neither confirm nor deny Pickens' account of the fire because the matter is under investigation. He said no official information would be released for several months.

Because there was so little visible damage to the Nimitz, Navy officials said it could resume the Caribbean training cruise that began May 15 and was halted abruptly by the accident just before midnight Tuesday off the Florida coast.

Eleven Navy men aboard the Nimitz and all three of the Marines in the ill-fated jet were killed.

The skipper, Capt. Jack Batzler, said he had been worried about the ship's No. 2 catapult — the device that flings planes off the deck to achieve takeoff speed. But Navy officials said Friday it seemed to be working well enough to allow the ship to depart as scheduled.

The pilot of the crashed jet was Marine 1st Lt. Steve E. White, a 27-year-old Houston native married to an Air Force captain. He recently was selected for promotion to captain, and the Marine Corps put the promotion through immediately after his death.

MuseumShows Paintings

Stained glass by Mike McCormack and paintings by Pansy Ray are currently being featured in the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College.

Sunday hours in the museum are 1-5 p.m. The museum is open each weekday, and there is no admission charge.

The museum will continue its brown bag luncheons through the summer, with the next one scheduled for June when Toni Smith of Lubbock will be the guest speaker.

WTC To Host Clinic Soon

Western Texas College will host a clinic for cheerleaders from June 22-25, Mickey Baird, WTC Student Activities Director, has announced. Students interested in registering for the camp are invited to contact Mrs. Baird in the WTC Student Center or to call he office at AC 915573-8511.

Angels Seek Turnaround...

Players Must Do It, Says Mauch

CHICAGO (AP) — Not even such famous managers as Connie Mack or John McGraw could turn a team around, says newly named California Angels Manager Gene Mauch. "The players have to do it."

Appointed Thursday to replace Jim Fregosi as manager of the Angels, Mauch said Friday: "My enthusiasm has a positive effect. It would be great. But nobody knows a team until you have lived with it."

Mauch had been director of player personnel with the Angels.

"I've watched about 20 games, I think I know what's going on and I hope I know some of the personnel," he said.

The 55-year-old Mauch has had plenty of managerial experience, managing the Philadelphia Phillies from 1960 until midseason of 1968, the Montreal Expos from 1969 through 1975 and the Minnesota Twins from 1976 until his resignation last August.

Asked why he left the Twins, Mauch replied, "That was the thing to do."

As for taking the job with the Angels, Mauch said, "This was the thing to do for the greatest number of people involved." He admitted being approached for managerial jobs as early as the end of last season and also this year.

Buzzie Bavasi, executive vice president of the Angels, said that one reason the Angels made the move from Fregosi to Mauch was, "Three clubs have expressed interest in Gene since the season began."

The New York Yankees were among those interested in Mauch's services as a manager, Bavasi said.

Mauch said, "It would have been advantageous to have taken over the club in spring training, but I thought Jim Fregosi ran a very efficient and thorough spring camp."

"There's no such thing as making a group of players like this conform to a manager's style," said Mauch, "They know what they can do best and you go on from there. I'm looking for the players we have to play to their potential."

The Angels' Friday night game with the Chicago White Sox was rained out, but Mauch held a meeting with the players before the game was called.

He said later, "I told them everything I know in three minutes."

Mauch said there would be no coaching changes and added, "This team has not played as good as it could and has not been as lucky as it should."

"We're only 7½ games out, and I don't think that's an insurmountable lead," Mauch said. "The only thing better than working with talented youngsters is to be working with talented veterans."

Although he has been managing in the major leagues for some 20 years, Mauch came close to winning a pennant only once. That was with Philadelphia in 1964. The Phillies had a six-game lead with 10 to play but finished second, one game behind the St. Louis Cardinals who closed with a rush.

Unlikely Hero Unloads

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Jerry Narron was an unlikely hero.

He was hitting .233, with only one home run and just seven runs batted in before Friday's night marathon, 12-inning contest with the Texas Rangers.

And even after he decided the game with a solo home run for the 5-4 Seattle victory, Narron modestly brushed aside post-game congratulations.

"I was just trying to shorten up my swing and make contact, and that's what I did. I hit it with a good, short stroke and it just went out," Narron said. "I should have more than two home runs by now. I'm disappointed that I don't."

The other Seattle hitting star was third baseman Lenny Randle, a former Ranger who had three hits in five times at bat, including a two-run homer in the sixth that gave the Mariners a brief 2-1 lead.

"I don't even know what kind of pitch I hit," Randle joked after the game. "It could have been a curve, it could have been a cut fastball — I don't know. I'm just going to pretend it didn't happen."

The Rangers blew several opportunities to score the game winner, including a ninth-inning flurry that died when John Grubb — batting for Bill Stein, the team's hottest hitter — grounded out feebly to first base with the winning run at third.

Texas Manager Don Zimmer, asked why he did not order Grubb to bunt, said heatedly, "I'll tell you something, there is never a 'must-bunt' situation. It is the most overrated play in the world. We must have had 10 bunts tonight that failed."

Texas left 10 men on base in the game.

The Rangers scored a single run in the fourth when Al Oliver dashed home from third as John Ellis grounded into a double play. Seattle turned three double plays in the game and Ellis hit into two of them.

After Randle's homer, Texas tied it again on Stein's solo home run in the eighth. It extended his hitting streak to 17 consecutive games, the longest in the American League this season.

Narron opened Seattle's ninth inning rally with a pinch-hit single to score Dan Meyer and move Dave Henderson, who had walked, to third. Henderson then scored on a sacrifice fly by Julio Cruz.

Texas knotted the score in the bottom of that inning.

Leon Roberts singled, advanced on an infield out, and scored on Mark Wagner's single to left. Wagner moved to second on an infield grounder and scored when Bump Wills singled to right.

Golf Lessons For Beginners

Western Texas College has scheduled beginning golf lessons for elementary and junior high school students from June 8-12.

Elementary students ages 10-12 will have lessons from 9-10 a.m. each day. Junior high students will have lessons from 10-12.

Fees for both groups are $25 per person. All students are to preregister by calling the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, extension 240.

Dave Foster and Bob O'Day will be instructors.

Special Olympians Bring Back Medals

The Go-Getters Special Olympians came home from the state Special Olympics track and field meet in Austin as winners.

Winning medals in softball throw competition were Laurel Davis and Joe Taylor, gold medals; James Welsh, Mark Becerra and Sam Stearns, silver medals; and Deborah Holmes and Frankie Vansickle, bronze medals.

Medal winners in soccer skills were Sam Stearns, Frankie Vansickle, Mark Becerra and Russell Loyd, gold; and Jodi Clawson and Laurel Davis, silver.

The 50-meter dash medal winners were Sam Sterns, Sony Andrade, Laurel Davis, Frankie Vansickle and Tom Crawley, gold medals; R. L. Higdon, Joe Dixon, Mark Becerra and Randy Underwood, silver medals; and Sandra Smith and Deborah Holmes, bronze medals.

Frisbee Accuracy ribbon winners included Sony Andrade, Joe Dixon and Mae Farmer, first; R. L. Higdon, Deborah Holmes, Sandra Smith, Richard Gohlke and James Welsh, second; and Tom Crawley, third.

Bird, Cowens Suit Trial Set Aug. 10

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — An Aug. 10 trial has been set in a $175,000 damage suit filed against the world champion Boston Celtics, forward Larry Bird and former Celtic Dave Cowens.

Bird spent 45 minutes at an attorney's office Friday afternoon giving a sworn statement in connection with the suit filed by a San Antonio Spurs fan.

San Antonian Johnny A. Merla contends in the lawsuit, filed last year, that Bird spat on him and knocked him to the ground with a tote bag after a game in January 1980.

State District Judge Rose Spector issued a subpoena earlier this week requiring Bird to appear at the office of attorney Ceasar Molina and give a deposition.

Merla contends he suffered injuries and embarrassment in the alleged incident outside HemisFair Arena after the Spurs had beaten Boston.

At the time, Boston players complained that they were harassed and spat upon by a group of angry San Antonio fans as they left the arena.

Bird would not comment on the suit, but his attorney, Robert Summers, termed the allegations "completely unfounded."

Program In Tennis Set

The Scurry County Summer Recreation Program will sponsor a tennis program this summer from June 2 through July 10. The program will include classes for boys, girls and ladies.

Registration will be June 2 at the high school tennis courts. Registration fee is $5, which includes a $2 signup fee and membership in the Scurry County Recreation Program, and a $3 ball fee.

Classes will be taught by Bud Birks, SHS tennis coach. Classes are scheduled as follows: 7:30-8:20, beginners; 8:30-9:20, ladies; 9:30-10:20, intermediate; 10-30-11:20, advanced.

Snyder Leagues Daily Wrapup

5-29-81
NINE-YEAR-OLD-LEAGUE

Yankees 8, White Sox 4

The Yankees poured four runs across the plate in the bottom of the fourth inning to down the White Sox, 8-4, in Nine-Year-Old League competition Friday night.

The teams had scored three runs each in the first and one run each in the third before the Yankees broke the tie. Bert Merritt took the loss, although his teammates rapped out seven hits, including three doubles. Lee Hamilton had a single and a double, while Stephen Ybarra and John Griffin each had a double, and Jack Nail, Jason West and Jonathan Alarcon each had a single.

5-28-81
TEEN-AGE LEAGUE

Rebels 9, Dodgers 7

The Rebels edged the Dodgers, 9-7 on Teen-Age League play Thursday night.

Jerry Comstock led the Rebel attack with four singles. David Coffee was the winning pitcher, although he was touched form 10 hits by the Dodgers, including three singles by Willie Greathouse, a double and a triple by Raymond Valadez, two singles by Chris Sanders, a triple by Jimmy Hunter and singles by Justin Webb and Darren Pace.

Coffee had two singles himself for the Rebels.

Antique Cars Coming Here

Cars of yesteryear and barbecue will bring a group of visitors to the Purple Sage Motel here Sunday.

Area members of the American Antique Car Association and the Model A Club of Abilene are scheduled to be here with their vehicles to attend the annual barbecue hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Art Feinsod.

A number of antique cars will be on display during the event, Feinsod said. They are scheduled to be here from around noon to 2 p. m.

Mistrial Declared

A mistrial was declared Saturday morning following two days of testimony in the trial of Ronnie and Vicky Young after the jury deliberated five hours without being able to come to an agreement.

The Youngs, represented by Alex LeFeuver, were indicted March 2, in the felony burglary case. They are charged with taking musical instruments from the Agape Christian Fellowship Church.

District Attorney Pete Greene is prosecuting the case.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Encouraging cancer story

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Four years ago I was operated on for cancer of the colon. It had not spread to my glands or anywhere else. The surgeon took three feet of colon out to make sure he got all of it. I wore a colostomy bag for a while which he then removed. I have my regular checkups which include a blood test and barium enema. I have had scans which are OK.

I would like to have your Health Letter, "Cancer: A Fact of Life." I seem to be in pretty good shape, although I call myself a miracle from God. I am overweight. I weighed 123 when I had the cancer and now I am 145. The doctor wanted me to gain weight up to 135 because I had the idea that I had terminal cancer and he said people who gained weight did not have it.

DEAR READER — Your letter should give people lots of encouragement. You are an example of the great strides that have been made in treating cancer. Today one out of three cancer victims of all types live at least three years. That includes those who have already had a spread of cancer. This is an important topic because one out of four Americans will develop cancer in their lifetime. The message is that any of my readers can get cancer but your chances of being cured are good if you do the right things.

The right things still include early detection. Since your cancer was found early, before it had spread, you have had the good fortune of having it removed entirely. If you had waited, it could have spread to the liver and your outlook would have been entirely different.

I have included the seven signs of cancer that everyone should know about in The Health Letter number 14-8, Cancer: A Fact of Life, which you asked for. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

One sign of colon cancer is an unexplained change in bowel habit. And I would like to emphasize to all that cancer of the colon and rectum is still the second most common cause of cancer deaths in both men and women. Many of these can be detected with a rectal examination and still others by an examination for blood in the stool. Don't neglect to have these important examinations. They can save your life.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it true that vegetarians have, as a statistical average, a lower rate of intestinal cancer, heart disease, arteriosclerosis and high blood pressure than omnivores (meat-eaters)?

DEAR READER — For the most part. But as you have stated, that is a statistical average and there are many exceptions. The correct way to express this is that vegetarians tend to have many of these medical problems as long as 10 years later in life compared to the rest of the population.

One reason is that vegetarians are usually leaner. Obesity is a major factor related to problems that cause heart and vascular disease. However, some vegetarians are fat; if you eat too many calories that will happen. And some have inherited tendencies for high cholesterol levels or high blood pressure just like other people.

Many such people are health conscious and make a bigger effort to stay active physically. A lot of them don't smoke, which leads to fewer cases of lung cancer. The Seventh Day Adventists have a markedly lower rate of lung cancer, which has been attributed to their not smoking.

Special Flags Given To West Elementary

Two special flags were flying at West Elementary School as the spring term ended this weekend.

A U. S. Flag and a Texas Flag were presented to the school by Mr. and Mrs. Mike Ezzell, along with certificates showing that they had flown over the U. S. Capitol and the Texas Capitol, respectively.

The U. S. Flag was obtained by Congressman Charles W. Stenholm of the 17th District, who represents Scurry County in Congress. It was accompanied by a certificate signed by George W. White, architect of the U. S. Capitol, showing that it was flown over the capitol on March 26.

The Texas Flag was accompanied by a certificate signed by Betty King, secretary of the Texas Senate, showing that it was flown over the capitol in Austin on April 28.

The two flags were presented by Mrs. Ezzell in an assembly program at West.

The human foot contains 52 bones.

Dallas Man Appointed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements said Friday he has selected John P. Harbin of Dallas to be chairman of the Texas 2000 Commission.

John B. Armstrong of Kingsville is vice chairman.

Clements said the 30-member group would hold its first meeting in Austin in June to address issues related to continued economic growth in Texas and to examine various approaches to a long-range state development investment strategy.

Aristides, the winner of the first Kentucky Derby in 1875, carried only 100 pounds over a mile and one-half distance.

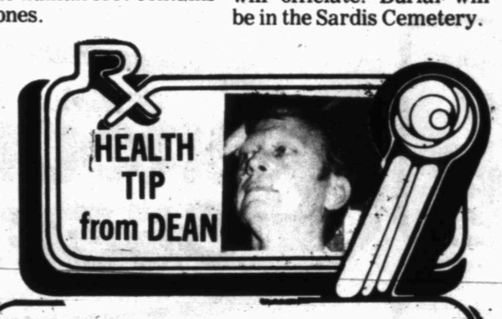

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Bell

Funeral service will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Wallace Funeral Home in Rusk for Mrs. Ottie Lee Bell, 81, who died Friday morning in an Andrews hospital.

Mrs. Bell, a former Snyder resident, was the mother of Mrs. Harold Buchanan.

The Rev. Jim Slocum, pastor of the Wood Glen Baptist Church in Spring, will officiate. Burial will be in the Sardis Cemetery.

COLD FOOD - HOT CAR

When frozen or 'cold' food is purchased, make a beeline for the freezer. Don't cart around frozen food for hours while you do other errands - food poisoning might be the result. Harmful organisms present in minute numbers can reproduce rapidly in food left in a hot auto and can reach critical levels. Subsequent freezing of food does not destroy these poisonous organisms.

Former Officer Is Cleared

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A former Air Force Reserve officer who ran into trouble for leading a low-level "flyover" at the Alamo replica at Brackettville has been cleared of the charges.

Former Brig. Gen. Harry J. Huff II was notified over the weekend by the Office of the Secretary of the Air Force that the charges and his transfer to inactive reserve status had been revoked.

This mans that Huff will be given service credit and back pay for serving in the Alamo Wing of the Air Force Reserve from Jan. 7, 1976, until April 23, 1979. The records also will show he was transferred to retired reserve status as of April 24, 1979.

Huff was ousted as commander of the 433rd Tactical Airlift Wing, nicknamed the Alamo Wing, on Jan. 12, 1976, after leading a low-level flight of three C-130 Herucles aircraft over Alamo Village near Brackettville for the purpose of taking publicity photographs.

Soviets Can Pulverize Planet

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP) — Former South Dakota Sen. George McGovern says both the United States and the Soviet Union have the capability "to pulverize this planet in a few minutes."

So, he says, the United States should take the first step to end the "maddening" arms race and seek detente with the Soviet Union.

"As matters stand now, the chances for annihilation are stronger than the chances for survival," McGovern told 650 graduating seniors at Oberlin College on Monday.

"Let us not have it written on our tombstones that we knew what happened at Hiroshima but did not take the first step," he said.

the United States. But he added that if anything significant is discovered in this study, there will be many spin-offs elsewhere.

Others helping with the study include Dr. Nancy J. Bell, Dr. Reaves' advisor at Tech; and Jim Anderson, Tech research assistant.

Those wishing to participate in the study may still do so by calling Dr. Reaves at 573-3215 or by writing to him at P.O. Box 398, Snyder.

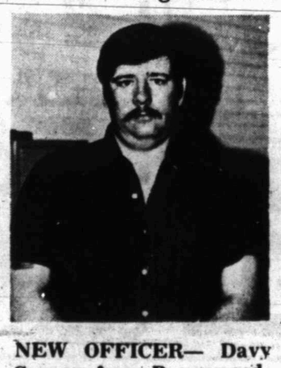

Swimming Pool To Open Here This Weekend

The swimming pool in Towle memorial Park was scheduled to open this weekend, weather permitting.

Winfred Shipp, manager said that the schedule calls for the pool to be open from 2 p. m. to 6 p. m. on Saturdays, Sundays and Wednesdays, from 2 p. m. to 7 p. m. on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. The pool will be closed on Mondays.

Admission fees are 75 cents for adults and 35 cents for children.

Swimming lessons are scheduled to begin June 15.

NEW OFFICER— Davy Connor, from Brownwood, joined the Snyder Police Department this week. He has served eight years with the military police, worked three months in Brownwood on temporary patrol and another year there as dispatcher. His wife, Judy and their five year-old son Cory, will be moving here to join Davy soon. Connor said he chose Snyder because of the dryer climate, better pay and "better opportunity all around." Hall, Billingsley Wed In Evening Ceremony

MRS. CARY NATHAN BILLINGSLEY
The bride is the former
Rebecca Lynn Hall

Rebecca Lynn Hall became the bride of Cary Nathan Billingsley in the First United Methodist Church on May 16 at six in the evening. Dr. Charles E. Lutrich officiated the ceremony in which the bride's father gave her away.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary R. Hall, Midland. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. N.A. Billingsly, Abilene. His maternal grandparents are Mrs. Mary D. Cary and the late A.B Cary, Ira, and his paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. N.A. Billingsley, Dunn.

Serving her sister as maid of honor was Carrie Hall, Midland. Bridesmaids were Kathie Billingsley, the groom's sister from Abilene; Carol Ubben, Dallas, and Monti Edins, Houston. The junior bridesmaid was Krissy Hall, the bride's sister from Midland.

Holly Prothro served as flower girl and Pat Prothro as ring bearer. Both are cousins of the bride from Wichita Falls, Texas.

The best man was Mrs. Neal Nease, Houston. Groomsman were David Zinser, Hereford; Phil Carey, Levelland and Ken Burgess, Midland. Donny Artley and Chris Locklin, both of Midland, served as junior groomsman.

The reception was held by the bride's parents immediately following the ceremony in the church parlor.

Following a wedding trip to Wyoming, the couple will make their home at 4501 Dengar, Midland.

The bride graduated from Robert E. Lee High School, Midland, in 1975, attended Texas Tech University and is currently enrolled at the University of Texas at the Permian Basin. She is employed by NRM Petroleum Corporation, Midland.

The groom graduated from Abilene High School in 1973. He attended Western Texas College and graduated from Texas Tech with a bachelor's degree in petroleum engineering. He is employed with Sun Texas Oil Company, Midland.

TO WED IN EARLY JUNE—Carolyn Loveless, and Sammy Simmons announce their engagement and approaching marriage. Carolyn is the daughter of Rebekah Loveless, Snyder, and Perry Loveless, Colorado City, and Sammy is the son of Perry Loveless, Colorado City. The wedding will take place on June 19 in the United Pentecostal Church at 6 p.m. Rev. A.J. Haley, the bride's grandfather, will officiate.

Snyder Care Center Commended Recently

The participation of Snyder Nursing Center of Snyder in Nursing Home Week just ended and their staging of a Life Festival to raise funds for Leukemia research has been praised as a major contribution to increasing public understanding of the true nature of life in licensed nursing homes in Texas.

In a letter to Juanita Land, administrator of the 100 bed facility here, Travis Stanford of Fort Worth, Board Chairman of Texas Nursing Home Association, declared that the Texas program for Nursing Home Week this year opened new avenues of communication to the public the service being delivered by today's modern nursing homes.

"More people responded last week than ever before with visits to the hundreds of our member homes who held Open House and Life Festivals for the general public. They learned more about what nursing homes really do for their residents in terms of total care.

"Rehabilitation, recreation, and physical, speech, and occupational therapy, as well as social and spiritual services for a fuller life are all included in round-the-clock care," said Sanford. "They also learned that residents are, for the most part able to maintain productive roles in community life."

The participation by Snyder Nursing Center was highly important to the success of the week and our First Annual Life Festival. The lives of thousands of Texans who live in our nursing homes were brightened, and substantial funds were raised for a worthy cause," he continued. "We are grateful to Governor Clements and to our dedicated staff personnel for their splendid support of our week," he said.

Juanita Land, administrator, thanks everyone who participated in the Home's activities and donated to the Leukemia Society of America.

Using the finesse

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Perhaps South should have refrained from bidding two no trump on today's hand. Although the point count and distribution were ideal for his bid, not so his spade "stopper."

Six no trump was reached quickly when North judged to bid slam directly. West, with nothing to guide his choice of opening leads, chose a top of nothing diamond seven. Although this picked up East's queen, nothing was given away as it was always finessable.

Declarer now had 11 sure tricks: four diamonds, three clubs, two spades and two hearts. If clubs divide 3-3 or if South can guess a major suit queen, slam, perhaps with an overtrick, is there.

Before exploring any of these options, declarer cashed two more diamond winners. He didn't play his fourth diamond because he couldn't afford to discard anything from the dummy.

Which finesse should declarer take? Neither right away. In fact South never did take a finesse. He ran off three clubs.

West showed out on the third club and now South had a certainty. He abandoned any play for seven and led dummy's last club to throw East in with his 10 spot.

South threw a low spade and showed East his hand. A heart lead would solve all problems about the heart queen. A spade lead was also a loser and South was sure of the rest of the tricks.

Rollins, Clark Exchange Vows In Capital Missionary Baptist Church

MRS. JAMES DAVID CLARK
The bride is the former
Kathy Ellen Rollins
(Carlson Photography)

Capitol Missionary Baptist Church of West Columbia was the setting Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. on May 5 for wedding vows pledged by Kathy Ellen Rollins and James David Clark of West Columbia.

Rev.James H. Lee, minister of the Church of God at McKinney and uncle of the bride, officiated.

Rainbow colored bows and pew candles lighted the way to the alter where the couple stood under an arch of greenery with white tapers, doves and bows. A candletree holding white tapers with three pairs of white doves stood behind the minister. One large white basket of gladiolas with greenery and white bows stood on each side of the arch.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Ann Crawford, Bay City. She sang "Let Us Be One" and "We Are Love".

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Doris Rollins and the late John David Rollins. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Clark are parents of the groom. All are of West Columbia. Grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Barley Sharp, Camp Springs and Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Hoyle, Snyder.

The wedding gown was designed and made by Birdie Lee, aunt of the bride. The gown was made of silk knit and overlayed with French imported rosette lace. It featured a Princess Anne bodice with appliqued rosette and butterflies adorned with rhinestones and pearls. The bishop sleeves were of lace and the cuffs had appliqued rosettes. The skirt featured a chapel-length train trimmed in hand-cut chantilly lace. Attached to the wide-brimmed hat, the veil was covered with chantilly lace, appliqued with rosettes and pearls. The veil was made of imported lace and illusion bordered with chantilly lace. It was held in place with two sweetheart roses.

The bride carried a nosegay of white roses and rainbow colored daisies with baby's breath.

Family sentiments were emphasized in the tradition of something old, a necklace of blue opal belonging to the mother; something new, a white Bible from the bride's mother; something borrowed, a set of wedding rings tied in her bouquet that belonged to the bride's aunt, and something blue, her blue garter of ribbon and lace.

Each mother was escorted into the auditorium by an usher and lit a candle on each side of the unity candle before being seated. Ushers were Kenneth Rollins, brother of the bride, and Howard Hansen, nephew of the groom.

The maid of honor was Bonny Olsen. She wore a formal gown of blue satin featuring a ruffled bodice. She also wore a wide brimmed hat trimmed with blue silk flowers and tulle and carried a bouquet of pink, blue, yellow and green daisies interspersed with blue baby's breath.

Best man was James D. Hargrove and he wore a blue tuxedo with matching shirt.

The bridesmaids wore dresses of pink, yellow and green mathching that of the maid of honor. They also worewide brimmed hats. The bridesmaids were Darla Goldsmith, Snyder, and Tanjie Arrington and Darline Hobbins, both of Danciger. They carried bouquets matching that of the maid of honor.

The groomsmen were Robert Lincecum, Kenny Kloss and Scott Hargrave, all of West Columbia. They wore beige tuxedos, with shirts matching the color of the bridesmaids dresses.

The ringbearer was Brian Hipp, great-nephew of the groom.

The flower girl was Ashley Kinder, neice of the groom. She wore a pink flowered floor length dress and carried a white basket filled with rose petals.

Toby and Heather Kinder, neices of the groom, were trainbearers. They wore blue flowered floor length dressses with blue silk roses in their hair.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The bride's table was covered with two-tiered chiffon lace, ruffled with pink ribbons, white wedding bells, and silk rose buds at each corner. A three-tiered white cake with pink roses and doves was made by Becky Kinder, sister of the groom, who also served the cake. The centerpiece, furnished by the groom's mother, was of large doves painted pearl white. The larger dove had two gold rings tied with pink ribbon. A pink candle stood between the doves at the back, and the doves sat on a pink satin cloth edged in white lace with white satin bells. The pink punch was served from a silver punch bowl on a silver tray.

The groom's table was laid with lace and linen centered with a blue silk flower arrangement. The table held a German chocolate cake and silver coffee service.

Those serving at the reception were Sandra Dearing, Barbara Hansen of West Columbia, sisters of the groom, and Susan Hipp, neice of the groom.

The guests were registered by Teresa Minshew, niece of the groom.

After a honeymoon trip to Galveston the couple will be at home in West Columbia.

Waldorf Salad Makes Interesting Bread

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press
Food Editor

In 1896, Oscar Tschirky, the famous maitre d' of New York City's Waldorf Hotel, wrote a cook book and in it gave his recipe for what is probably America's best-known salad.

He called it Waldorf Salad and listed the ingredients as raw apple, celery and mayonnaise; later he included walnuts as a topping.

Recently, leafing through a 1920 booklet by a manufacturer of mayonnaise, I found that Oscar was not above "giving a commercial." At the front of the booklet under his signature, "Oscar of The Waldorf-Astoria," is printed: "The recipes contained (here) have my hearty endorsement. They will prove delicious additions to the home menu." Oscar's original recipe for Waldorf Salad is of course in the pamphlet.

The booklet, however, contains no recipes in which mayonnaise is used in a baked product. That didn't happen until the 1930s, when, according to legend, a mayonnaise-salesman's wife put some mayonnaise into a chocolate cake. From then on the use of mayonnaise as a baking ingredient grew.

Why it did is anyone's guess. A friend believes it's because Americans are ingenious and adore secret ingredients. They love to say, "You'll never guess what's in this!"

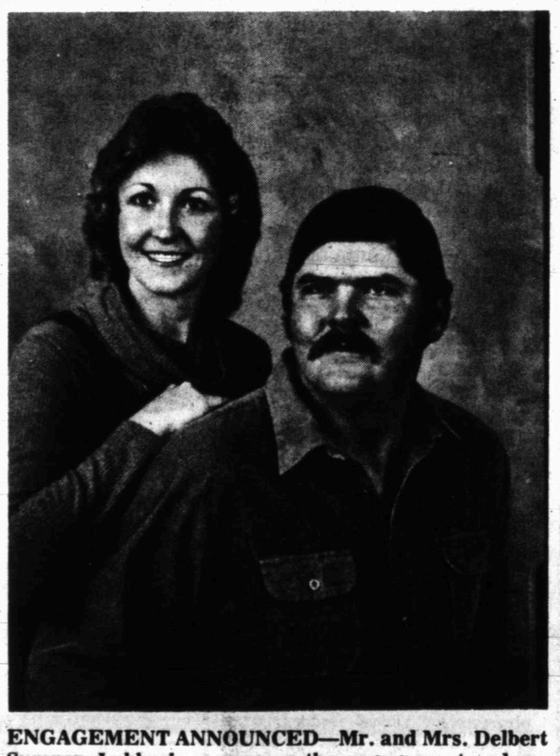

Well, now I've invented something new: Waldorf Salad Quick bread. Yes, it contains, along with the usual quick-bread ingredients, apple, celery, mayonnaise and walnuts. It's delicious.

WALDORF SALAD QUICK BREAD 2½ cups fork-stirred all-purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking powder ¼ teaspoon salt ¾ cup sugar
2 large eggs ½ cup canned or bottled unsweetened apple juice ½ cup real (not imitation) commercial mayonnaise
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup unpeeled diced (¼ inch) red apple ¼ cup finely diced (⅛ inch) celery ¾ cup coarsely broken walnuts

Grease and flour 2 loaf pans (each about 7½ by 3½ by 2¼ inches). In a large bowl stir together the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. In a small bowl beat the eggs slightly; add the apple juice, mayonnaise and vanilla; beat until blended; add to the flour mixture with the apple, celery and walnuts; stir just until flour mixture is moistened. Turn into prepared pans. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean — 45 to 50 minutes. Tops will be cracked. Cool in pans on wire rack for 10 minutes; loosen edges and turn out on rack. Cool completely. Store overnight in tightly closed plastic bags before cutting; do not try to slice thin. Store any leftover in refrigerator; slice while cold but serve at room temperature or heat. Pass butter or cream cheese.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT—Mr. and Mrs. C.J. Killgo announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Theresa Carol, to Robert Vance Morgan, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob S. Morgan of Midland, formerly of Snyder. The couple will exchange vows on August 8 at 2 p.m. in the Trinity United Methodist Church.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED—Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Sumner, Lubbock, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Leah Ann Sumner, to Tom Daves, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Daves, Ira. The wedding will take place on June 27 at 7 p.m. in the Calvary Baptist Church in Lubbock.

Romeo And Juliet

DALLAS (AP) — Paul Crouch and Robin Carollo aren't quite ready to follow the tragic example of Romeo and Juliet, but the young lovers have found a typically 20th century remedy to the same problem.

The couple has filed a lawsuit asking a state judge to waive Texas' parental consent requirements so they can marry despite the objections of Robin's father.

The star-crossed lovers are in a predicament that William Shakespeare would appreciate, but with a twist. Their baby is due in July, and Miss Carollo won't turn 18 until September.

Under Texas law, parental permission is required before a woman under age 18 can marry.

In 1971, a cyclone and tidal wave hit India's east coast and killed 15,000 people.

BEAUTY DIGEST

Sexy makeup

For all those times you want to look your sexiest, here are some special makeup tricks.

Create a pouty mouth by blending a touch of matte white highlighter in the very center of your lower lip. Extend blusher from your cheeks to your hairline and lightly brush color all around your hairline. Apply pearlized eyeshadow just in the center of your lids. Add a tiny spray of false eyelashes, only three or four hairs at the outer corners of your eyes.

Natural wave

To accentuate the natural lines of wavy or curly hair, give it a finger set. After shampooing, lightly towel dry. Use a wide-toothed comb or your fingers to coax hair into its natural waves. Then anchor waves flat against your head with clips and hair-setting tape. Let your set air dry, or sit under a heatlamp or over-the-head dryer. Brush your hair out with a plastic brush, or leave in place for a curlier look. This style works best on short to medium-length hair.

The first cotton thread in North America was made in Pawtucket, R.I., in 1793.

Mrs. Robert Curnutte Has 100th Birthday

MRS. ROBERT CURNUTTE
100 Years Old

Mollie Curnutte, a former resident of Snyder for 60 years, will be 100 years old on June 1.

She and her husband, Robert, made their home in Snyder in 1901. Robert chose to move to West Texas after completing law school at the University of Texas at Austin. He organized 7 western counties of the South Plains of Texas as his first legal assignment and was active in the Democratic Party as well as interested in the prosperous development of Snyder. He was a banker, alderman, officer in the Democratic Party and county judge. He died in 1934.

Mrs. Curnutte came with her husband to a farm near Franklin in East Texas as soon as they married in 1901. She was an early member of the Methodist Church and helped build the old church, dedicated in 1914. Mrs. Curnutte was a member of the Sunday School class and the woman's Missionary Society for over fifty years.

She was an active club member in Snyder and an early member and president of the Altrurian Club. She enjoyed and benefited from their cultural, historical, social and political programs. Her children benefited from her knowledge and quotation of the Bible and Shakespeare.

She was a strong worker for the vote for women and raised her 3 daughters to be proud of woman's work and position in the world. The most rewarding years of her life were spent in Snyder where she and Bob raised four children. She taught each of them to read and write before they went to school. Her children are Lois Lucie Enfield Yeaman, Santa Fe, NM; Lila Dodson, CA; Robert Curnutte, San Angelo, and Mary Mahler, CA.

Mrs. Curnutte has many descendants-including 4 children, 13 grandchildren, 35 great grandchildren and 19 great great grandchildren. There are seventy one members in the family.

Mrs. Curnutte has lived with her daughter in California for approximately twenty years and, due to poor health, has lived for the past 7 years in a convalescent hospital in Eureka, California.

Mrs. Curnutte's relatives are spread from Texas to Alaska and Australia to Pennsylvania. Many of them will gather in California to celebrate her 100th birthday. All will be thinking of her on June 1.

Cut clothing costs and stay in fashion with "Update '81."

For summer, update last summer's wardrobe, and with an eye toward fall and winter '81 as you go, you'll be "right in style" at little cost.

Inventory still-wearable items, notice the voids, study current trends, and then begin your own "Update '81."

COLOR — Color is the most visible part of a wardrobe, and often it depends on seasonal trends.

Update last season's bright colors with pastels. Fashion-right colors especially important are corals, peaches, apricots, aquas and turquoises.

PATTERENED FABRICS — Update last season's solids with fashionable patterns and prints, particularly madras-like plaids, ethnic prints, folk art and splashy florals. Also jungle prints, camouflage military looks and paislies. Border prints also have returned as a popular look.

LACE — Add lace borders or edging to collars, cuffs, belts, and hemlines for feminine detail, or consider a lace applique for a pocket or other focal point.

Often lace can be recycled or reused from garments that are no longer wearable and even from other household items such as tablecloths.

RUFFLES — Some designers are calling this the year of the ruffle.

Add garments with ruffled detail such as tiered skirts, flounce skirts, dresses or blouses with ruffle collars.

A ruffle or lace-trimmed blouse is an excellent update for last year's more tailored, stricter-looking garments.

TUNICS — Tunics are particularly strong for fall and winter '81, and in an all-weather fabric, they can update straight-leg pants or skirts now and continue fashionable into cool-weather seasons.

DRESSES — Dropped or long-waisted designs are big news for dresses.

Re-do a straight-line unwaisted garment by cutting it apart along the hipline and adding a fuller, contrasting skirt.

JEWELRY — Jewelry is bolder and larger than it has been for a number of seasons.

Rummage through your jewelry collection — you may find some ethnic looks or large woods, plastic or ceramic necklaces, bracelets or earrings.

Check by garage sales, tool

In wearing bold jewelry, plan carefully to emphasize desirable features and draw attention away from those less desirable.

SHOES — Shorter heels are definately the trend.

Some heel heights will shorten easily without changing the arch -- ask your shoe repairman about the possibilities and cost.

HEMLINES— Skirt hemlines are shorter now — worn right below the knee or mid-knee. Trends for fall show even shorter lengths — or much longer lengths, such as mid-calf.

In general, think "fun" when you start "Update '81." Updating wardrobes can be fun -- and challenging. Many possibilities exist, depending on the garments and personal preference.

You can update your wardrobe with little or no expense and, at the same time, create a flattering, workable wardrobe that looks as fresh as today.

As my last article comes to you, I wish to personally thank the Snyder Daily New and each of you readers for letting me come into your homes through Blanch's Blabs and for making my days as your County Extension agent so memorable. I will still be living in Snyder, enjoying all of the people who have become so special to me. Thanks for being special!

ENTERTAIN RESIDENTS AT SNYDER OAKS—Paulyne Eakers and Ruth Row, pictured, entertained residents recently with a special musical program. The two ladies came dressed in clothes of the early 1900's made by Mrs. Eakers grandmother, Ollie Holder and an aunt Frankie Johnson. Mrs. Eaker's hat was also made by her grandmother at the age of 16. The skirt was worn by Mrs. Johnson before the turn of the century. Snyder Oaks residents have enjoyed a full month of different programs put on by volunteers for the month of May.

LONG LIFE

NEW YORK (AP) — John Quincy Adams was convinced, as early as 1794, that exercise and diet prolonged life.

According to Jack Shepherd, author of "Cannibals of the Heart: A Personal Biography of Louisa and John Quincy Adams," Adams struggled against gaining weight, and advocated fasting.

"I have often wished that the reformers who settled New England had not abolished the practice of fasting in Lent," he wrote in his diary. "I am convinced that occasional fasting, and particularly abstinence from animal food several weeks at a time, and every year, is wholesome, both to body and mind."

Design Conscious

NEW YORK—Comic strip character "Ziggy" is helping change the school supplies business. He, along with other characters including "Strawberry Shortcake" and "Holly Hobbie," are depicted on stationery products such as notebooks, memo pads and looseleaf binders.

In consumer testing, Ziggy was recognized by 86 percent of the respondents, according to St. Regis Consumer Products which uses the character on its school supplies.

Basics of DE....

Many students, parents, and business people have inquired about Marketing-Distributive Education and Industrial Cooperative Training. What it is, who is eligible for it, etc.

What is Marketing Distributive Education? A vocational training program for students who are interested in studying the field of marketing both in the classroom and on the job.

What is Industrial Cooperative Training? A vocational training program for students who are interested in learning a skill in Automobile Mechanics, Carpentry, Machinist, Television Repair, Welding, Nurses Aide, Dental Assistant, Physical Therapy Assistant, etc... in the classroom and on the job.

Who can take MDE or ICT. These programs are available to Juniors and Seniors who demonstrate a serious interest and aptitude for vocational cooperative training, are a minimum of 16 years of age, have a good grade and good attendence record at the high school.

How Does The Program Operate? The student makes applications for MDE or ICT at the high school MDE or ICT offices. The student must sign up for MDE or ICT and other neccessary academic courses. The student goes to regular school classes half the day, and goes to a training station (job) the other portion of the day. The students grades are determined by their class work, participation, and job performance. The student is paid for work on the basis of a regular part-time employee.

How About Credit For MDE or ICT? Marketing Distributive Education and Industrial Cooperative Training must be taken two consecutive semesters as a minimum, and counts two credits for each semester. However, many students take the MDE and ICT programs both their Junior and Senior years.

Marketing and Distributive Education and Industrial Cooperative Training credits are accepted by Texas state colleges and universities. These students are encouraged to attend college and a large percentage of the students do attend.

Students In Working World

Distributive Education and Industrial Cooperative Training programs are designed to orient high school juniors and seniors to the business world and the American economic system. This is accomplished through a combination of classroom instruction and on-the-job experience.

Students, both boys and girls, are placed in jobs according to their abilities and interests. Backing up this hands-on experience are classroom studies in selling, display, advertising, management, etc.

In addition, units in Job Application, Job Orientation, and Free Enterprise are covered in the curriculum.

Why are these programs referred to as Co-op Programs? The programs involve cooperation between the business community and the local school system. Many businesses favor employing students because of desire to be a part of the training of high school students and because of their interest in the related school study offered to the students. Many business owners, managers and workers received their initial training though the Co-op programs.

D.E. and I.C. T. serve as an excellent business survey course for the pre--college student.

The success of the Co-op programs and their constant growth is a tribute to the interest and time devoted by the local businesses who assist in the training of these students.

the vigilant british

Cassandras predicting the end of American liberty often point to England as the prime example of the sorry condition which we're likely to find ourselves if we're not vigilant. Nationalized industries, spiraling inflation, confiscatory taxation and the virtual abolition of the middle class are English phenomena often noted when people warn that "it could happen here."

We have occasionaly pointed with alarm to England. But we also think it appropriate to note that on certain occasions, over certain issues, the English are more vigilant about their ancient liberties than are most Americans.

The English are enduring their decennial census now, and by all reports they are much less meek about it than most Americans. Even the census officials note the stubborn passion for privacy.

"As a nation we don't like it," said a spokesman for the Office of Population Census and Surveys. "It's simply part of the British character to be suspicious of personal questions."

In deference to this character, the English census form has no questions on income, race or even dates of marriage. It is headed "In Strict Confidence" and offers bold type assurances that names and addresses are not computerized and that the forms are locked up for 100 years before becoming public record.

England's venerable periodical, "The Economist," comments that "The British are notoriously sensitive about census forms. Americans meekly tick boxes for ranges of income; no British government has dared include any such questions in the compulsory census."

Thus the English, who have stoically muddled through all manner of ill-begotten social engineering and redistribution schemes, still remain resistant to probes that might violate their personal privacy.

We Americans, on the other hand, tend to fill out all our government forms dutifully (with some grumbling), sometimes eagerly, and remarkably honestly. The census resistance movement of the last two headcounts has been narrowly based and almost too small to be noticed.

'Tis a puzzlement. And a pity.

unrealistic bidding

Adm. Hyman Rickover is reported to have charged cost overruns by the manufacturers of submarines are deliberate and gouge the public.

The irascible admiral, who is known for his tart comments, contended the maufacturers submit bids they know to be unrealistically low. After they get contracts on the basis of the bids, they return to the government for more money.

Adm. Rickover may be mistaken in his charge, but precautions should be taken to limit the possibility of the practice he describes. Material costs may rise unexpectedly, unforeseen delays may occur. These may happen to the best of companies, but a firm should not be relieved of all responsibility to meet its bid specifications at the approved price. The government should not have to pay the cost of company problems, incompetence or worst of all, deccption. Skill in writing accurate, competitive bids is one of the characteristics of a good company. The risk of unexpected expense is one of the factors of doing business. Honesty is something the government has a right to demand from its contractors. Failures in any of these areas should not be the worry solely of the government -- and the taxpayers.

my turn

by roy mcqueen, publisher

"The feller on Deep Creek says, "A lot of people love their jobs. It's the work they hate."

With Snyder High graduation Friday night, Scurry County seniors have all now walked across the stage to receive that cherished diploma.

Graduates have probably heard all the advice they care for right now, so we intend to merely say congratulations and a few brief remarks about the future.

Graduates head in many different directions, some to college, some to technical and vocational schools and some directly to jobs. As you have probably been told before, any of these or other choices are excellent as long as happiness can be found in your endeavors.

Entirely too many folks wake up each day and face jobs that are dreaded. That's too bad. Working not only is a necessity for sustaining us on a daily basis, but jobs also can be rewarding in many different ways.

For that reason, take seriously your future course of studies, specialized training or job hunting. Seek to obtain training and find a job that not only will allow you financial security, but allow you work fulfillment.

Strive to become excellent at whatever you do. Service technicians, for example, are at a premium today. Yet many of those we come in contact with are simply people with surface training to tinker and replace parts until the item is repaired.

We long for the day when this nation again returns to "master" craftsmen and professionals. The Class of 1981 could be the start of this new era. Good luck!

Character plays a giant role in the success of individuals, and we found this Character Quiz the other day that is a good test for all of us.

1. If you found a pocketbook containing $1,000 would you give it to the owner if no one ever knew you found it?

2. If you could advance yourself by unfair methods, would you do it if no one would ever find out you were unfair?

3. If the bus driver failed to collect your fare, would you voluntarily pay?

4. If there were no locks on any house, store or bank, would you take anything if no one would ever find out?

5. If your business partner died, would you pay his relatives their fair share if you did not have to pay them?

6. If you were an employer trying to hire efficient, honest and competent employees, would you hire yourself at your salary?

7. If you are an employer, would you like to be working for yourself with the wages, hours and working conditions you provide?

8. If you are a parent, would you like to be a child of a parent just like you are?

9. If you had a choice, would you like to live in a community with people working in church, civic and community affairs just like you do?

10. If you had to live with someone just like you are, for the rest of your life, would you look forward to it as a wonderful oportunity and privilege?

thoughts

A Sabbath-day journey is mentioned in connection with the apostles' return to Jerusalem after witnessing Jesus' ascension. The journey was the longest distance from the wall of the city that could lawfully be traveled on the Sabbath.

"Then returned they unto Jerusalem from the mount called Olivet, which is from Jerusalem a sabbath day's journey." — Acts 1:12

woman's world

by rusty brown

If you want to know the real me, draw a big pair of glasses on my picture. Not that you'll ever find a photo like that in the family album. But the truth is I'm as nearsighted as they come.

It's a fact I've been covering up for years, so when I read about the new technique in surgery that may eliminate the need for glasses, I didn't know whether to be elated about my future or to cry about my past.

I bagan to think of all the things I missed over the years because I felt ugly in glasses and wouldn't wear them: the men I didn't see to smile at who may have winked, the swank country clubs I can't remember because no self-respecting collegian would go to a dance and wear glasses with off-the-shoulder chiffon.

There was the time that I went to meet a friend in a hotel lobby. Hadn't seen him in years. Sat there 20 minutes thinking I was being stood up. Finally took a peek through the specs and saw him sitting 25 feet away. He hadn't wanted to put his glasses on either. Talk about a blind date!

I was practically the first in line when contact lenses became popular. At last, I thought, the perfect answer. The eye doctor cautioned me that light-skinned people have more difficulty adjusting. Not me! High motivation conquered all.

While I felt 100 percent better about myself, I soon learned that contacts are not without their problems. Like being on my knees in a rainstorm at night on a downtown street, looking for a lost lens. Found it. And beaming a flashlight across a beach hoping that the contact, somewhere in the sand, would catch the light. It did.

Then there's the paraphernalia required to go on vacation: lenses, wetting solution, soaking solution, prescription sunglasses to wear over contacts on bright beaches. Lately, I've added one more item to the list: protective goggles for when I'm wearing contacts and playing tennis. Would you believe I carry most of this around in my purse every day?

My mother used to say that my wearing glasses was probably due to middle-class comfortableness as opposed to smalltown humbleness. She grew up in the latter, and when her teacher sent home a note saying, "Ruth can't see the board," her parents didn't have money for spectacles and wrote back, "Please give her a seat up front."

That and a little squinting got her by and, she insisted, she outgrew the problem in time. She never needed glasses as an adult.

But when my teacher sent home a similar note, upward mobility had taken its course and my parents felt obliged to rush me off to one of the best eye doctors in town — who prescribed something mild for movie watching. Within two years, I was very nearsighted, which always made mother wonder whether I, too, might have outgrown myopia if we had just waited it out.

Now, say doctors at Kresge Eye Institute in Detroit, a newly perfected operation may spare adolescent females — and millions of other glasses and contact-lens wearers — all that self-consciousness, trauma and nuisance.

And I, for one, shall at last be known as a woman of vision.

commentary

donald f. graff

The shooting of Pope John Paul II demonstrates a grim truth about violence directed at public personalities: The problem is worldwide; it is by no means an American speciality.

It also makes several points about the difficulties in dealing with the problem, beyond the obvious one of providing some reasonable degree of security for the powerful and celebrated without isolating them from the public entirely.

The pope was scarcely out of surgery before several governments with good reasons for taking special interest were at discreet odds over aspects of the situation other than the victim's condition.

The would-be assassin is a Turkish national, wanted for murder at home, who spent the last year and a half underground in Western Europe. Turkey, making the point that it actively sought his apprehension, seems to think the Europeans were less active in assisting. In particular West Germany, where he was known to be at one time but which was unable to locate him despite repeated tips from the Turks.

For their part, the Germans say they tried. But the fugitive, using false names and forged identity documents, had the advantage of the protective cover provided by the more than a million Turks in Germany's foreign labor force. Under the circumstances, anyone with any skill at all in leading a clandestine existence could be expected to elude detection in an open society.

A point supported by other interested parties, including U.S. State Department officials charged with monitoring terrorist activities and Interpol, the international police organization that is primarily an information-exchange operation. The latter notes that the sheer volume of travelers within and between countries, with few border formalities anymore, enables wanted individuals to move about with virtual impunity.

It is a point that does not impress the Turks, quite likely in part because theirs is not an open society these days.

Tureky has been under a military government since last September when the generals stepped in — for the third time since World War II — to halt the civilian government's descent from democracy into anarchy. Assassination of public figures and political foes had become epidemic. Strife between religious groups — the dwindling Christian minority, Moslems and sects within the majority Moslem community — was approaching civil war. Beset by inflation and an immense and unrepayable foreign debt, the economy was aproaching collapse.

To give them their due, the generals have slowed inflation and curbed internal terrorism. But at a price. Political prisoners number in the tens of thousands and there have been substantiated reports of torture.

And there is no indication that they have made any lasting progress toward solving Turkey's real problem — the country's inability to complete the revolution begun by Kemal Ataturk more than half a century ago with the goal of transforming Turkey into a Western-style secular democracy. Periodically under the pressures of religious fanaticism and political extremism, the rule of law breaks down and gives way to the rule of force.

The pope's assailant is very much a product of his troubled country, a religious and political extremist releasing the hatreds arising from Turkey's national contradictions and conflicts in violence upon a world figure.

So long as there are open societies in which public personalities make themselves available to the public, and so long as there are troubled societies and social situations producing troubled personalities, there can be no guaranteeing the security of president or pope.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today you may have an opportunity to display your loyalty to a friend. You won't have to think twice about it. You'll just be doing what comes naturally.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may be slow to arouse your ambitions today, but once you decide to do something you'll do it regardless of the time it takes or obstacles involved.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You possess the knack to put everything in proper perspective today. Because of this, you'll approach matters in a practical way, resulting in success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Things may not come off today exactly as you have them scheduled. Be flexible. Roll with the changes instead of fighting them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Unless you show a willingness to be cooperative today, it's not likely others will cooperate with you. The choice to avoid standoffs is yours.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Being productive today will give you far more enjoyment than idling your hours away frivolously. Do that which is constructive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Organization and management are your strong suits today. If you have a project which has loose ends, now's the time to tie them up.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is one of those days where it may take you more time than usual to get up a full head of steam. Once you do, however, you're a strong finisher.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Mental rather than physical efforts will give you more enjoyment today You're also equipped to do things which require artistic touches.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Although this may not be a normal work day for you, your energies will be focused on ways to make or save money. Follow your inclinations.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It isn't likely you'll be distracted from any goals you may have your heart set on today. With dedication and tenacity you'll surge ahead.

June 1, 1981

In matters where you hope to reap material rewards this coming year, you must first lay solid foundations. If your base is strong, your prospects look tremendous.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It could prove very unwise today to leave important matters in the hands of persons not as familiar with the issues as you are. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be assertive today, but don't push so hard that you get in your own way. Acting without thinking could cause you to do something counterproductive.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You might find yourself in a position today where you can advance your interests, but only at the expense of others. Protect your pals as you would yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Have you ever noticed that, sometimes, the harder you work the luckier you get? This is especially true for you today. Be persistent and industrious.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In joint ventures today the ideas of associates may look good on the surface, but could leave a lot to be desired in application. Probe deeper.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In situations calling for strategic bargaining today, don't jump at the first offer. You can better your position by negotiating further.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's important at this time that you win and maintain the good will of co-workers. Be extra-tactful today in order to gain their allegiance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Early in the day you must be careful not to be sidetracked from doing what's important. Your sense of priorities improves as the light begins to wane.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Taking yourself or others too seriously today could impede your progress. Let your sense of humor take over. You'll have no problems.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Count to 10 today before yielding to the temptation to tell off another. By remaining calm you'll find gentler ways to resolve issues.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Keep your presentation of ideas today down to the basics. Complex suggestions will confuse your listeners and lessen the effectiveness.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your possibilities for personal gain are favorable today, but they might not be brought about as you originally anticipated. Be imaginative and flexible.

El Paso Has Top Private Eye

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Eat your heart out, James Bond.

In El Paso, there's a real-life private eye with the electronic gadgetry, firepower and imagination to make Dr. No quake in his boots.

His name is Jay J. Armes and he claims he's never left a case unsolved.

"People say, 'you're just like 007,'" Armes said. "I say, 'No, 007 is like me.'"

Armes, who lost his hands in a childhood accident, wears pincher-like hooks which he says are no handicap to his work.

His chauffer-driven limousine has a video camera built into the trunk that allows Armes to see up to 17 blocks behind the car on a small television screen in the back seat. The limo is bullet-proof and has three telephones.

Armes is accompanied by a grim-faced bodyguard in military garb, including a pistol prominently displayed in a white shoulder holster. The bodyguard passes his time by reading books on kung fu.

Armes' home is surrounded by a 20-foot wall and dozens of surveillance cameras. Inside, African animals like cheetahs and zebras roam free.

Stepping into his office is like walking onto the set of "Goldfinger," the movie based on Ian Fleming's spy novel.

After passing through a steel door and by surveillance cameras, a visitor is greeted by a giant badge on the front door that bears the name of Armes' company — "The Investigators."

Plush carpeting leads past stuffed ostriches — former pets — and into an elevator. Steel doors slide out of the way as the visitor enters Armes' huge private office, dominated by a curved desk covered with buttons that operate all of the electronic gadgets.

At a push of a button, the room's three video screens show different parts of the office building. Bookshelves slowly turn to reveal a non-alcoholic bar, camera equipment and a collection of automatic weapons.

A briefcase on the desk holds a submachine gun with a silencer.

"I'm known all over the world as the top in my field," Armes said. "It's a heck of a role to play."

And Armes plays it to the hilt — from the bullet-proof vest he says he always wears to the tales of attempts on his life and fast-paced investigations.

Armes became a private eye after putting himself through law school while working as an actor in Hollywood. He says he appeared in more than 30 films in a six-year career in the 1950s.

"I went to work in the picture business when I was a youngster," he said. "I didn't like it. It's the flashiest career anyone could have."

If being an actor was too flashy, being a lawyer wasn't flashy enough.

"I decided against it because when you're a lawyer, there's a little narrow path from the office to the courtroom and from the courtroom to the office," he said. "I wanted more than that. I came up with the idea of being a private investigator."

That was 19 years ago. Since then, Armes says he has solved case after case, building a fortune and a reputation to match.

"I engineer every case," Armes said, as he waved paychecks worth thousands of dollars. "By engineering the case, I mean that I plan every investigation and I'm responsible for the final conclusion no matter how it comes out."

His best-known case came in 1972 when he located Christian Brando, the son of actor Marlon Brando and actress Anna Kashfi, in hiding in Mexico. The boy had been reported missing by Ms. Kashfi during a custody battle with Brando.

Armes found the boy after three days of scouring the Mexican coast in a helicopter.

"It's probably the case everybody's heard the most about," Armes said. "But it's really not my best case. There are some that have never come out in public that were really something."

The publicity in the Brando case led to bigger things for Armes.

He appeared on television and wrote a book called "Jay J. Armes, Investigator" that he says has been printed in 30 languages.

The Ideal Corp. produced a doll modeled after Armes, complete with different sets of prosthetic hands and a secret agent car.

He also opened a school to train private investigators in the dark ways of surveillance, electronics and self-defense.

Six years ago, he signed a $200,000 contract with Universal Studios for a television series based on his real-life investigations — a project that still hasn't gotten past script difficulties.

"Under the contract, I've got script approval," he said. "Some of scripts portrayed Jay Armes like he was the '$6 Million Man.' I wanted them changed to show me like I really am."

That included, he said, filming the series in El Paso and showing him as a religious, dedicated man who works hard for his big fees.

"I've always been in the public eye," he said, "but to me, it's just a regular job."

His latest project is a Investigator magazine scheduled to hit the newsstands next month. The magazine is a joint effort with investigative journalist Jack Anderson, who will be the publisher. Armes will be chief investigator for the glossy monthly.

Plans call for Armes to write a feature story on an investigation each month and for Anderson to write two columns that Armes say will "dismantle a government agency."

"Once the magazine comes out, I'm going to be a household word," he said.

Although Armes enjoys the glamor of the cloak-and-dagger life and the fame he expects to achieve, he insists that he is not that different from other people.

He says the gadgets, the guns and the danger are just part of his business.

"People don't know the hassle you go through just to lead a normal life," he said.

New Book Chronicles Hit Songs Since 1930

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — In 1942, America was at war. Manila, Bataan and Corregidor fell, and marines were fighting at Guadalcanal.

Back home, women were becoming WAACs, WAVEs, SPARs and WASPs.

Gasoline, tires, sugar and coffee were obtained with ration stamps and the wartime tunes included "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree" and "This is Worth Fighting For."

But Bing Crosby had the nation dreaming of a "White Christmas."

It was the runaway hit song of the year and would, of course, become an American classic.

Nothing, it's been said, brings back a memory like a song.

In fact, Elston Brooks says so in the forward to his book, "I've Heard Those Songs Before," published recently by William Morrow & Co.

Called the ultimate guide to popular music, the book is the only known compilation of the Top Ten songs since 1930, listed week by week.

Hardly earth-shattering perhaps, but "Songs" is almost as much fun as it is informative.

And, as Brooks, longtime show biz columnist for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, says: "At least it will eliminate all those 1 a.m. barroom bet phone calls..."

In case you've ever wondered, the song longest on "Your Hit Parade" was "People Will Say We're in Love."

The year was 1943 and the record was 30 weeks. But the tune that remained No. 1 the longest was "Too Young," Nat King Cole's lilting love song of 1951.

It was No. 1 for 12 weeks.

You may be surprised to learn that "Stardust" never made it to the top.

Even stranger, the No. 1 tune of the depression year 1930: "Happy Days Are Here Again."

Fifty years later, a group called Air Supply recorded something called "Lost in Love" and, with six weeks as No. 1, it ruled as the top song of 1980.

But how about 1969, when Americans were putting footprints on the moon? Or 1974, when President Nixon resigned? And 1956, the year of Elvis Presley?

In 1969 it was "Aquarius" and in '74 it was "I Honestly Love You."

Elvis was all over the 1956 Hit Parade with such tunes as "Heartbreak Hotel," "Blue Suede Shoes," "Hound Dog," and "Love Me Tender."

But the winner, with seven weeks as No. 1: "Canadian Sunset."

Elvis never had a single song dominate the charts long enough to win yearly honors but the Beatles did. It was "I Want to Hold Your Hand" in 1964.

Incidentally, it was "Goodnight, Sweetheart," and "All of Me" that monopolized the top spot during the 1931-1932 origination year of "Stardust."

Some oddities (and not-so oddities):

— "Lost in a Fog," which even Brooks didn't remember, was the top tune of 1934, beating out such standards as "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" and "Let's Fall in Love."

— In 1935, radio recognized the top songs of the week with the first broadcast of a new weekly Saturday night network show, "Your Hit Parade." The first song to be No. 1: "Soon."

— 1936 was the "year of the ultimate love story," when a king, England's Edward VIII, surrendered his throne to marry the woman he loved, Wallis Warfield Simpson. The top songs: A tie between "Did I Remember" and "The Way You Look Tonight."

— In 1941, "I Hear a Rhapsody" became the first song to hold the top spot for 10 weeks, a record matched a year later by "White Cristmas."

— The 1950s produced such hits as "You Belong to Me," "Song From Moulin Rouge," "Hey There," "It's All in the Game" and, in 1959, "Mack the Knife." But a movie called "The Blackboard Jungle" and a tune called "Rock Around the Clock" arrived in 1955. "It signaled the beginning of the end for an entire era of popular music," wrote Elston Brooks. "The Big Beat had a toehold."

— Elvis and the Beatles and rock "n' roll were the cornerstone of the 1960s, but remember these: "Moon River," "More," "The Shadow of Your Smile," "Gentle on My Mind" and Sinatra's "Strangers in the Night?"

— The '70s included such songs as "For All We Know," "Watching Scotty Grow," "Rainy Days and Mondays," "Superstar," "American Pie," "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face," "Song Sung Blue," "Alone Again," "Brandy," "If I Could Reach You." "And I Love You So," "Angie Baby," "After the Lovin'," "Just the Way You Are," "Time Passages," and, the tune that became symbolic with the anti-feminist movement, "I Am Woman."

That's pretty much it for this half century. If we missed your songs, don't worry. As Elston says, "They're all inside, too. Have fun."

The first modern oil well was drilled at Titusville, Pa., in 1859.

Rejection Of Armadillo Generates New Debate

MCQUEENEY, Texas (AP) — The Texas Senate's rejection of the armadillo as the state animal has prompted new debate on which creature best represents the Texan image.

Actor Guich Koock of Fredericksburg is still pushing for the mythical unicorn. Sam Lewis, of San Angelo, inventor of the jalapeno lollipop and president of the World Armadillo Racing and Breeding Association, prefers the armadillo.

And now McQueeney's "Buffalo Phil" Koehne contends the buffalo is superior to either of the aforementioned beasts.

Lewis was livid Thursday that the State Sen. Bob Vale, D-San Antonio, helped kill a measure that would have named the armadillo the state mascot. Vale was quoted as calling the armadillo a "God awful animal."

Meanwhile, Koock used the occasion to plead that the unicorn be reconsidered, and Koehne joined in the continuing humorous encounter by recommending the buffalo as an alternative.

"The unicorn is beautiful to behold, one of a kind. The unicorn represents the true Texas spirit," said Koock, a star of the former "Carter Country" television series who will join with Gabe Kaplan for a network series entitled "Gabe and Guich" this fall.

Koock is referring to a rare angora goat, born with a single spiraled horn in its forehead, that he intends to bring from California and present as "the unicorn" at his Fifth Sometimes Annual Luckenbach World's Fair scheduled for June 26-27 and July 4-5.

But Koehne got into the running spoof by releasing a letter he wrote to Sen. Glenn Kothman, D-San Antonio, backing the buffalo as the preferred state animal. "First, the buffalo is a Texan and American. The armadillo is a newcomer. Guich Koock, who loves unicorns, says they were first smuggled into Texas under cover of darkness, by the unlamented first Republican Governor of Texas, Edmund J. Davis in 1871. This is the only thing Guich says that I believe," Koehne said.

"There is only one choice and that is the American Bison, better known as the buffalo," Koehne wrote.

Koock earlier referred to the armadillo as "lowly, mudslinging and cowardly."

Lewis promised political reprisal for the killing of the measure to make the armadillo the state animal.

SPECIAL THANKS

The Snyder Soccer Association would like to thank all of the individuals and organizations for their support in helping make our first year a huge success. We also wish to thank the Snyder Public Schools for letting the association use their facilities this past year. Finally, we wish to thank those advertisers and individuals who provided support for this special soccer issue.

The Snyder Soccer Association completed its first year of play with an awards ceremony on Saturday, May 16.

Soccer began its first season in Snyder as an organized activity for boys and girls in the fall of 1980. During this fall season, approximately 100 individuals participated. The spring season had sixteen teams in age groups of 4-5, 6-7, 8-9, and 10-12; with a total of approximately 230 players.

Soccer's appeal to many is that while it is a team sport, individual skill and agility can be expressed. And since there is little body contact, soccer allows competition between bigger and smaller individuals.

Future goals and plans for the local association include locating a permanent playing site, expanding the number of teams, and continuing to improve the educational program for players, coaches and referees.
