CIVIC BODIES AID

Luncheon and Trade Association Co-Operate In Movement

Voters in downtown office buildings and business houses will be canvassed by telephone or in person Tuesday morning by members of a committee from the chamber of commerce and urged to vote for the civic improvement bond issue.

At a meeting of the special committe of the business council of the C. of C. to organize business men and get out heavy vote for the issue, plans were made which call for the canvassing of hundred of downtown business and professional men.

Those interested in the bond issue were optimistic over the outcome of the election.

Presidents and secretaries of leading luncheon and trade associations will be called upon to co-operate in bringing out a heavy vote. Respective heads of the various organizations have pledged aid: Rotary, Frank Keim and John Gould; Kiwanis, J. T. Gant and Frank Queisser; Lions, H. J. Bruce and Frank Gripliver; Optimists, Bert King and Ira D. Brown; University club, J. S. Dickey and John P. Marrs; Ad club, G. H. Wilson, Jr., and P. C. Scott; Real Estate Board, W. S. Curlee and P. S. Richardson.

Included in the Issue.

H. J. Bruce, chairman of the vote canvass committee and his aides, C. U. Daniels and A. L. Huey, worked out the bond issue, which includes an extensive improvement program: $300,000 sewage disposal plant; $100,000 street improvements; $75,000 sanitary sewer extensions; $75,000 fire stations; $25,000 park development.

At 1:30 Monday afternoon a meeting of canvassers will be held at the chamber of commerce. The following are on the "Round Up" squad which will canvass downtown buildings and businesses:

COUNT PLAYS, NOT MINUTES, IN GRID GAME

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 7.—(AP)—For the first time since the modern game of football was instituted the method of timing provided by the rules was discarded and period of plays instead of minutes were substituted in the game between Brown and Boston universities here today.

Under the official sanction of the football rules committee, Brown and Boston universities gave the system a tryout and in the opinion of officials, coaches and spectators the experiment was an unqualified success. Brown was the victor, 46 to 6, and at no stage of the game was there any question of the superiority of the home eleven, although the latter was for the greater part of the game composed almost entirely of substitutes.

Under the system agreed to by the coaches of the two teams, the first two periods consisted of 40 plays, the last two 35. The elapsed time for the four periods was 27, 27, 21 1-2 and 26 1-4 minutes, respectively. The actual playing time by quarters was 14:20, 14:16, 13:50 and 13:45.

Harry P. Coffin, Harvard '94, cooriginator with R. W. P. Brown, Brown strategist of the system which they seek to have incorporated in the official football rules, expressed entire satisfaction with the experiment after the game.

From the spectators' viewpoint, the opinion was unanimous that the system was a big improvement as at all times it was known just how much latitude the team with the ball had and the possibilities of scoring could be assumed.

The Record News

Wales' Inability To Stay on Horses Alarming England

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The Prince of Wales' hunting tumbles which caused public anxiety before his recent travel, are becoming undesirably frequent.

Wales and the Duke of York were hunting with the Whaddon today. The pack had just found the first fox, when Wales, who was riding well in the first flight, encountered a fence where there was an unusually wide gap. His horse fell, but the prince scrambled out of the saddle, none the worse for the fall, and was up again in an instant, and, remounting, soon rejoined the hunters. This was his second fall in four days.

Couple Leave Soon For Roumania Field

Miss Sue L. Kinkle, for a number of years cashier of the Jefferson-Standard Life Insurance company here, and George E. Watson, son of G. H. Watson, prominent insurance man of this city, were married at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night in the parsonage of the First Christian church. Rev. Milo Atkinson, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of a few friends of the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson will leave the United States within the next 30 days for Roumania, where for the next three years Mr. Watson will be in charge of extensive oil well drilling for the Carter Oil company with which he is connected.

DRY WORKERS CHEERED

Anti-Saloon League Lauds Speeches Of Prohibition Officials

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—(AP)—A group of federal officials, advocates and enforcers of the Volstead law today advised the anti-saloon league convention to continue its fight to keep America dry and preserve self government and constitution. The reports of those in closest touch with theenforcement law, and their advice on prohibition problems were received with keen attention and bursts of applause especially hearty whenever the name of Mrs. Mabel Walker Wilebrandt, holder of the highest public office occupied by a woman, was mentioned.

Girl Weeps Excitedly After Serving Dinner To President and Wife

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The excitement of bringing a live turkey gobbler from her home near Mont Pelier, Vermont to Washington, and of serving it to the president of the United States at a luncheon prepared today by the girl scouts proved too much for 13-year-old Leona Baldwin.

After the president and Mrs. Coolidge had returned to the White House from the "little house" headquarters of the girl scouts here, Leona burst into tears, completely upset by the swift turn of events during the last few days.

Only after the child had been assured that her school teacher chaperon was not lost did she regain her composure.

The president and Mrs. Coolidge attended the luncheon after Mrs. Coolidge, who is honorary president of the girls scouts of America, had attended meeting exercises of the organization.

DRY FORCES OF TEXAS PLAN BIGGEST DRIVE

White and Head of Anti-Saloon League In Conference

To Boost Candidates For Legislature Who Favor Law

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 7.—(AP)—What is said to be one of the most energetic and comprehensive law enforcement programs ever instituted in Texas was launched in Fort Worth late Friday at a conference between Major H. H. White, prohibition administrator for Texas and Oklahoma, and Rev. W. M. Rader of Arlington, newly appointed field superintnedent of the anti-saloon league of Texas.

Want "Dry" In Office

The campaign also has in view the election of an avowed "dry" to every seat in the Texas legislature, the Rev. Mr. Rader declared, the revival of all of the moral suasion of prohibition propaganda and the mobilization of all who sincerely want to see all laws honestly enforced and are willing to do their part toward securing this end, but who have no selfish purpose to serve.

Special emphasis is to be laid on the enforcement of prohibition laws, and in this there will be the closest co-operation between the organization now being formed as an adjunct to the anti-saloon league of Texas and the dry law forces working under Major White.

Plan State-Wide Work

The new organization is to be known as the "laymen's affiliated league for law enforcement." In each city in the state it is planned to have the league fostered by a central committee of 25 members, with affiliated leagues in every church in the city. The central committee for Fort Worth already has ben selected, Rev. Rader said, but their names were not made public.

The affiliated leagues in the churches will be composed of not less than 25 nor more than 100 of the church's leading members. Membership in the league will be by invitation, Rev. Rader said.

Virgil E. Arnold, Houston attorney and legislative candidate in 1924, also announced today that he would be an anti-Ferguson candidate to succeed Senator Murphy.

NEGRO CLUB RAIDED.

Six Arrested by Police on Charge of Gaming.

Six negroes were arested early Saturday night when city police raided the Business Men's Social club, a rendevouz for gentlemen of color in the negro district. The place has been raided numerous times before on complaints of gaming coming from that territory.

The six blacks jailed were charged with gaming and sent to jail in default of bond.

Thousands Flock to Home Where Child Tells Weird Story of Visit By Angel

SOUTH SIOUX CITY, Neb. Nov. 7.—Sightseers continue to flock to the home in this city of Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Neil, to see the room where 12-year-old Regina O'Neil declares she was visited by a heavenly apparition.

When Regina returned to her home after attending early Sunday morning mass, she was sent to her room to make up the bed.

Garbed In White

Startled, the little girl looked up and, according to her story, saw a beautiful woman, garbed in white and blue and standing in a bright light, so bright that the child could not discern the features.

The child says that she was told not to be frightened, but to listen closely to what was said and to carry the message to her sister.

The nature of the message that the child received has not been revealed.

Regina, scared and overcome with joy, went downstairs and told her mother, who was incredulous at first, but she accompanied the child upstairs.

See Finger Prints

The apparition had vanished, but after investigation, they found a handprint on the wall, the fingers of the print pointing downward.

The story of the child has been investigated by the clergy of both Sioux City, Iowa, and South Sioux City, but all are inclined to believe that the child merely experienced a vivd dream—a dream so vivid that she believed it actually had occurred.

COURT ROOM WEEEPS AS SISTER OF "HUMAN HUSK" UPHOLDS HER FATHER WHO KILLED HIS CHILD

Tells of Man's Devotion For 35-Year-Old Cripple

LITTLETON, Colo., Nov. 7—(AP)—Tears streamed from the eyes of jurors, witnesses and spectators today as Mrs. Francis Bishop, daughter of Dr. Harold Elmer Blazer, on trial for the murder of his 34-year-old daughter, Hazel, told in sober fashion the tale of "untold devotion" her father poured on the "human husk" that the defense holds he slew through insanity.

The aged defendant broke into sobs fcequently as the daughter upheld her father's act in taking the life of her own sister. Half the jurors wiped their eyes and scores of spectators wept while she described the father's love and the utter helplessness of the "child woman."

"She was utterly helpless," declared the witness, whose appearance on behalf of her father became possible when the state rested its case.

"Her body was terribly twisted. She couldn't talk, couldn't feed herself and was not able even to brush a fly from her face. The noises she made were animal like and frightened strangers. The sight of her eating was so revolting that I couldnt' stand to watch her.

"For 34 years father poured on her the utmost devotion, love and care. He lived for her wholly. His worry over and care for her I believe unbalanced his mind and caused him to have the spells that came upon him often after mother died.

"He became morose and gloomy. Her only amusement—I suppose it was amusement was for her to lie on the floor and crackle papers," Mrs. Bishop said.

Father Became Morose

Tears streamed down her face and she was assisted from the stand by her husband when the court took a 15-minute recess.

The state rested its case this morning after calling but six witnesses, and the defense began its presentation of testimony after Judge Samuel Johnson overruled a motion for a directed verdict acquitting Blazer.

"Blazer became morose and despondent after his wife died. He became a subject of mild epileptic fits. He did many queer things. Once, while riding in an open automobile on a bitterly cold day, he asked to be let out so he could walk and 'get some fresh air.'

"He was a Christian and God-fearing man and believed in the immortality of the soul. These things, we will show in our testimony," Spangler said.

Previous to the appearance of Mrs. Bishop, used etense placed three character witnesses on the stand, all former acquaintances of the physician and testified to acts that they believe would show that Dr. Blazer was in a mild form of insanity.

$39,000 Raised For Dr. White's Hospital, Drive Continues

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Wounds of the world war remain, and while the great armies which grounded their guns seven years ago have been demobilized, there is a constant need to mobilize the spirit of peace, President Coolidge declared today in an appeal for support of the annual membership enrollment of the American Red Cross beginning Armistice Day.

Wichita to Have A Rogues' Gallery

Wichita Falls soon will have a new institution.

It is to be a rogues' gallery.

The police department yesterday received a camera which will be used to "mug" every person arrested by the department who is believed to have or who is making a criminal record.

DEBT BOARD HOPEFUL

Funding Arrangement With Italy Expected Early Next Week

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Administration officials concerned with the foreign debt problem continued hopeful tonight that a funding arrangement on Italy's debt would be forthcoming early next week. There was nothing official from any sources, however, to show on what points the American and Italian commissions remained at odds, although the statement was made that there was no prospect of any serious disagreement.

TCU OUTPLAYS AGGIE TEAM IN FIERCE BATTLE

Frog's Great Fighting Spirit Crunches Dana's Farmers

SCORE IS 3 TO 0

Christians Win By Virtue Of Playing; No Fluke

Complete coverage of all sports events is given on pages 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The Frogs of Texas Christian university had that intangible, indefinable something known to the football world as "fight" Saturday. With it they outplayed and defeated the vaunted Texas Aggies, 3 to 0.

Played in the T. C. U. stadium here before 6,000 fans (the largest crowd ever to see a game on that field), the game was one which will be a lasting memorial to the glory of T. C. U.

As relentlessly and consistently as the purple of T. C. U. charge and block to chill the Aggies. From starting whistle to final gun, the Frogs battled savagely, grimly, steadily. The result was that they won a small margine, but muchly deserved victory.

Washman Did. It.

Johnnie Washmon, center was the telltale factor, the outstanding star. Washmon was the field goal than wos the outstanding star. Washmon kicked the field goal that won the game. From the 31-yard line he drove the ball from placement between the upturns and high over the cross bar. His old buddie, Captain Herman Clark, held the ball. The score came in the first quarter, after hardly more than 10 minutes of play.

Out of the north, straight down the field, a stiff cold wind, whipped throughout the afternoon and had a marked effect on the game. The wind was so effective that hardly a clear track marked the north half of the field after the contest. Practically all of the play was in the south half of the gridiron, which, by the way, was dry, soft and springy, and not slow, despite the heavy rain of Friday night. No small part of the struggle was inside the south goal's 25-yard line.

The victory was no fluge. T. C. U. gained more ground on all sorts of play than the Aggies—182 yards to 138 yards; made 10 first downs to the Aggies' four.

It was just 28 years ago—1897—that a T. C. U. eleven defeated the Aggie team. Outside of one scoreless tie battle about 20 years ago, all other football clashes between the two have resulted in faemer victorious. However, there are many years that the sap did not meet.

KIDD-KEY HEAD ASKS CITIES TO HELP COLLEGE

Wants Towns to Aid In Financing New Building

Dr. E. L. Spurlock, president of Kidd-Key college at Sherman, was one of the speakers at the meeting of the pastors of the Wichita Falls district of Methodist churches at the First Methodist church Saturday. The city of Sherman has raised $82,000 for a new administration building for the college, and he asked the other churches in the conference to raise a like amount, and brought the matter before the pastors of the district.

Pledges for the Christian education movement, the Golden Cross hospital movement for the Dallas sanitarium, a free will offering of $4,000 for missions from this district, and a large offering to the Methodist orphanage at Waco will be undertaken by the district before Jan. 1, it was announced at the meeting.

Zumbrunnen Is Speaker

Rev. A. C. Zumbrunnen of Nashville, Tenn., member of the general mission board, made an address on missions.

Rev. E. C. Cole of Electra, pastor of the First Methodist church, talked on "The Great Commission," in the morning sermon of the conference. His text was "Ye Shall be Witnesses to Me." He pointed out two ways that a person might witness by giving testimony and by bearing testimony. "Witness unto Christ as the great central personality, not to a creed," he said.

Rev. Cole was elected publicity chairman for the coming year.

Rev. John E. Roach, secretary of education of the North Texas conference, gave an address on the Christian education movement.

Town Talk

AGAINST "CHURCH" TRIAL

A story is going the rounds at the court house these days of a local lawyer who represents some Archer county bootleggers and who, because the present term of the 30th district court is being thrashed out in the First Methodist church at Archer City, asked for a continuance of his cases on grounds that the church environment would be prejudicial to the defendants.

The Archer county court house is undergoing extensive repairs and Judge H. R. Wilson has accordingly held forth in the church. The grand jury has met and deliberated there and a few cases have been tried and argued.

This attorney, it is said, remarked when he learned of the church sessions that "no, boy; not for me. Any jury in the world would give a bootlegger the limit if they sat in a church and tried him. We'll wait until the court house is finished."

He did—or rather, is.

"AIN'T NO JUDGE"

It's risky business to flirt with the dignity of the law, but a youngster did it all unwittingly here recently and Judge Guy Rogers, who presides ably over the affairs of the 78th judicial district, got as big a kick out of it as anyone.

A jury in a civil matter was deliberating one night and the judge and attorneys interested in the case were waiting in the court room in hopes that a verdict could be reached. With them was the wife and 4-year-old son of one of the jurors who were waiting for the husband and father.

The lad, a lively and friendly boy, was playing about in the jury box, over the bench and elsewhere. In the course of his rambles he got into a discourse with some some one about a "wed tie" he was wearing and then some one suggested he ought to get a bow tie and be a big man like the judge.

"Which is the judge?" the boy queried.

"That man right there."

"Aw," and he chuckled loudly, "THAT ain't no judge."

DO YOUR SHOPPING, ETC.

"Coming Events Cast Their Shadows Before," a bard opined some time ago with a sentiment that has particular emphasis for Wichita Falls just now.

It's over a month yet—But!

Ask postal clerks why the noticable increase in volume of outgoing and incoming mail. Ask merchants why all the big stacks of boxes in store rooms.

It is true enough Christmas, still six weeks in the offing, is already intruding itself in a business way into the civic scheme here. Postal officials say that the "mail early" campaigns have actually been heeded by some and that they are feeling the preholiday rush, or rather the advance ripples of it, at this early date.

Not yet, but it's on the way.

BUS LINE MAY BE

Wichita Falls may expect within a short time to hear of a move to establish automobile bus lines as supplementary service to the traction company here. Local traction company officials are silent regarding any plans they may have in this respect, but it has been learned from reasonably reliable sources that action is to be forthcoming.

The city, every one admits, is in need of increased transportation facilities. Street car lines do not begin to serve all portions of town as they should, a fact that even traction heads realize; and for this reason it is believed they will turn to the bus to give the added service. Street car companies in other sections of the country have found the auto bus the most economical and practical means of enlarging their field of action; they have found the buss a paying proposition; and have found it entirely satisfactory from the patron's point of view.

Many thickly-settled portions of Wichita Falls are without a semblance of transportational media other than private automobiles. For instance, that section around the new Junior high school going up on the Seymour road is five blocks from any car line; North Wichita cannot get to town on the car without a long walk to the Scotland line which takes a circuitous course across the river; the district to the southeast, around the Barwise school, can't find a street car track within a mile and a half, and there are others just as bad.

This is no criticism of the traction company which is operating as best it can in the face of stiff competition offered by an unusually large number of auto registrations here; but it does point out pertinent facts.

WHO WILL VOTE?

It is a safe bet that on next Tuesday not more than 200 Wichita Falls taxpayers will put a municipal O. K. on a proposition binding all the rest of the tax payers in town to paying for a $575,000 bond issue.

In the light of past experiences not more than 200 votes will be cast. Perhaps, even, not this many will be polled; but city officials are anxious that as large a number of voters as is at all possible turn out for the election. They won't be surprised, however, if 175 or 200 is the limit. In 1920 when a bond issue of $1,600,000 was submitted, 183 votes were cast.

No one denies that civic improvements are badly needed here and that about the only way to get them is through the bond issue route. They concede this, and then take it for granted that everyone else will go to the polls, thinking as they do, ratify the issue and make the improvements possible.

The issues will in all probability carry. Four of the five are practically certain to. The last may or may not.

Of the five to be voted on, the largest is for $300,000 with which a new sewage disposal plant will be constructed. This is a vital necessity that none will condemn. Neither is much opposition expected to the $100,000 street improvement issue which comes next on the list in point of value.

The same thing is true of the $75,000 for building of new fire stations, three or four of which are absolutely imperative if the city is to retain its present fire insurance rates. This addition to the fire department is probably the most crying need of all and is one that none will turn down.

Issue No. 5 is for $70,000 for the purpose of extending sanitary sewer mains. This, too, is important.

The last on the list is a $25,000 item with which, if carried, the city will buy eight lots near the Junior college. These have been contracted for by the school board and are needed for the beautification program in that territory.

NO SEARCH WARRANT

The extent to which the search warrant law sometimes operates as a handicap to enforcement of the Volstead act was forcibly demonstrated here recently.

Three law enforcement officials went duck hunting one day, going out several miles from town to a large farm where the ducks were known to abound. It was private property, of course, and hunters were not allowed, but one of the officers was well acquainted with a close kinsman of the owner and had obtained from the latter a letter of introduction and a request that the men be allowed to hunt on his land.

The men had gone out one night prepared to camp and start shooting early the next morning. They found the farm house and presented the note—and a visibly nervous owner agreed rather reluctantly to permit their expedition.

Out in the back yard was a storm cellar, and a smoke stack coming up at one end was emiting steam and an unmistakable odor of corn mash.

"No, just cooking some potatoes," he answered.

The officers were as certain that whisky was being made in that storm cellar as they were of their own names; yet they knew it would be futile to break in. They had no search warrant and without it their case would be thrown out of court in five minutes. By the time they could come to town and get the warrant, of course, the still and all incriminating evidence had been removed and hidden.

14 Pay Fines Here In War on Gambling

Fourteen men, charged with gambling and vagrancy, arrested Friday in the police department's war on loafers, yesterday morning paid fines of $10 each in corporation court. Seven of the gentlemen of leisure forfeited bonds while the remainder of the group appeared in court and plead guilty.

WASH POISON FROM KIDNEYS

Drink Water All Day Long And Take Salts if Your Back Hurts

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

BRIDGE FIRM RECEIVERSHIP IS THROWN OUT

Title to Land Under Part Of Span Is in Dispute

A judgment which in effect ruled for the defendant corporation was returned Saturday by Judge Guy Rogers of the 78th district court when he announced his findings in the case of R. E. Jordan vs. the Grandfield Bridge company. His decree vacated a receivership into which the company operating the Grandfield bridge across Red river was thrown several weeks ago by the plaintiff's suit.

Title to land on which the south end of the bridge rests, together with title to the 60-foot roadway giving approach to the bridge was under disputs when the plaintiff raised several questions as to the manner in which these titles were obtained. Records dating back to the 1890s were introduced in the case which was one of the most complicated ever tried in a local court, attorneys said.

The plaintiff's attorneys stated the case would be appealed.

EDITOR TO RULE SYRIA

PARIS, Nov. 7.—(AP).—Senator Henri De Jouvenal, chief editor of the Matin, was officially named as French high commissioner for Syria today to succeed General Sarrail, whose administration of the troubled region has been the object of much criticism.

Boy Scouts! And More Power To Their Standards

EDITOR COMING

Charles J. Finger, author of children's stories, editor and publicist, who is being brought to Wichita Falls by the Kemp public library, the Boy Scouts and the Woman's Forum, will be the Wichita Falls scouts' guest of honor at a Mulligan stew to be held at 6:30 o'clock Thursday evening at Call field.

The Boy Souts of the city will be hosts at the meeting and an invitation is extended to any who wish to attend to be there in time to partake of the evening meal. After supper games, under the direction of Scoutmaster Creighton and C. C. Frazee, will be played around a big bonfire. Then the boys and visitors will gather and listen to stories told by Mr. Finger.

The guest of the evening comes July 9, 1925, the John Newberry from Fayetteville, Ark. He received medal which was presented by Frederick G. Melcher of New York to the American Library association to be awarded to the "most distinguished contribution to American children's literature during the year."

PLAN A BANQUET

Boy Scouts of the First Christian church will be given a banquet by the Men's Bible class of the church Tuesday evening, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. It is a "Father and Son" affair to which all the boys of that church are cordially invited.

"PARENTS' NIGHT"

Troop 4 of which John Tevis is scoutmaster will have a "Parents' Night" program at the First Christian church Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock when a demonstration of all lines of scouting will be given by the boys.

SCOUT SCHOOL

"Interest growing from the scoutmasters' school which is being conducted each Tuesday night at the First Christian church, is resulting in plans to organize other troops in the city," Frank B. Creighton, scout executive, said yesterday.

A meeting will be held Friday night at the First Presbyterian church with J. Hockman Thompson, who is studying in the scoutmaster's school, in charge and plans for a troop in that church will be made.

29 TROOPS

A total of 29 troops of Boy Scouts are in the city; they are proportioned as follows: School troops, two; Evangelical church, one; Presbyterian, one; Methodist, six; Church of Christ, one; Catholic, five; Christian, three; Baptist, nine; Jewish, one.

FOR MERIT BADGES

Announcement is made that the board of review for merit badges will sit in the office of Scout Executive Creighton Monday at 5 o'clock when examination for merit badges will be given. All boys who appear before the court of honor must have come before this board.

THERE'S SOMETHING TO LEARN FROM THE ANIMALS.

In that great poem in which America's great poet, Walt Whitman, celebrates himself, there appear the lines:

I think I could turn and live with animals, they are so placid and self-contain'd;
I stand and look at them long and long.
They do not sweat and whine about their condition;
They do not lie awake in the dark and weep
for their sins;
They do not make me sick discussing their duty
to God;
Not one is dissatisfied—not one is demented
with the mania of owning things;
Not one kneels to another, nor to his kind that lived thousands of years ago.

The perverse philosopher was speaking—

"Animals do not have radios, airplanes and motion pictures; but neither are they prey to the infinite number of ills that beset man.

"The lives of most of them are comparatively short; but they do not spend their lives in paying for old wars and preparing for new ones.

"Possibly they do not talk; but they have better sight, better hearing, by far a more acute sense of smell.

"Some of them, like men, eat the flesh of dead animals, and others live on grass and herbs; but none except those who have to live with men and eat men's food, have 'stomach trouble.'

"Animals have no divorce problems, no crime waves. They kill only to feed or protect themselves. They do not abuse their instincts; no animal ever had a venereal disease.

"How do we know that animals have not a language of their own?

"It is presumption in us to say no because we do not understand them.

"A horse or a dog has memory, knowledge, and love.

"He knows his master from the servants, though the latter are more constantly with him.

"Napoleon tells in his memoirs of a horse who knew me from any other person, and manifested by his capering and proudly marching with his head erect when I was on his back his knowledge that he bore a person superior to the others by whom he was surrounded. Neither would he allow any other person to mount him except one groom who constantly took care of him, and when ridden by him his motions were far different and as such seemed to say that he was conscious that he bore an inferior.'

"Who can deny the sagacity of dogs?

"There is a link between all animals.

"Plants are so many animals who eat and drink, and there are gradations up to man, who is only the most perfect of them all.

"The same spirit animates them all in a greater or lesser degree."

JUST OUTSIDE YOUR DOOR.

"Why not advertise your own cities and keep your people home?" a Miami resident asks in a letter to a newspaper. He must be one man in 10,000, thus to dare tell the truth; his fellow-townsmen are likely to raise the cry of "Treason!" Nevertheless there are in almost any town—and certainly in so favored a city as Wichita Falls—numerous opportunities to gain wealth as good as are to be found in Florida. It is human nature to look for fortune, as for happiness, in some far-away place, however. Sometimes such a quest is rewarded handsomely, but for every one who thus attains riches a thousand fall by the way or return home "broke" and disappointed.

As a general rule success must be won, if at all, in one's accustomed environment and be wrought out of familiar materials. Observe the wealthy and otherwise successful men around you today. They have achieved their positions through ability to discern and courage to grasp opportunities which lay at hand, open to everyone. Such chances offer today more abundantly than before—El Dorado lies just outside your door.

"MERE STRIPLINGS" IN SCIENCE.

"If you haven't cut your name in the door before you have reached forty you might just as well put up your jackknife," Oliver Wendell Holmes wrote. In his much misquoted address in Baltimore some two decades ago, Dr. Olser spoke to the same effect. He asserted that the work of men above 40 could be obliterated without appreciable damage to progress. So far as the field of science is concerned, a writer in The Scientific Monthly contends, that is true. The scientist who has not made a name for himself before he is 30 is apt to die unknown, he asserts.

There are striking exceptions, of course, but the great majority of epoch-making scientific discoveries are the work of men in their teens and twenties. Dr. Banting's insulin is a most brilliant recent example. Like poesy, genius for science manifests itself early; but let not the man who, though past 40, still cherishes a secret ambition, despair. He may write a novel, turn columnist, or run for office.

THE ROAD TO PEACE.

France and Germany agree not to fight each other again, and the world begins to think again that possibly, after all, there is such a thing as peace.

And the man in the street asks, as he pays another mite of the cost of the last war, when will all wars cease?

It is easy to answer his question: "Not within the life of anyone now living," with the assurance the answer will be good for several generations.

Leagues of nations cannot end wars.

The members of a family quarrel will fight with one another as well as outsiders, and aften to a greater degree and with more venom.

It is just the same in the state; among people living in one state, a struggle continues just as with people outside the state, only it is carried on under other forms.

In one case the slaughter is done with bombing planes and poison gas and guns that shoot 50 miles, in the other it is done with hunger.

A professional optimist proclaims that the world is getting better, on the grounds that "social progress brings morality." He classifies peace under morality; hence he sees peace as an eventuality of social progress.

A long time ago Tolstoi observed that to assert that a social progress produces morality is like asserting that the construction of a stove produces heat.

If the law of struggle for existence and the survival of the fittest is the eternal law of life (and one needs only to look around to see that it is the eternal law of life (and one needs only to look around to see that it is)—then no tangled discussions about social progress and an ethical law supposed to flow from it, or spring up from no one knows where, just when he happens to need it, can disturb that law.

It is obvious that as long as social progress collects people into groups, then the struggle and survival will continue among those families, tribes and nations, and the struggle will not only be more moral, but it will be even more cruel and more immoral than that between individuals, as we see in actual life.

SUPER-PATRIOTS HAMPER PEACE.

Extreme nationalism is ever the enemy of peace. The only obstacle to the salvation of Germany, and, through Germany, of Europe, is the opposition of the nationalist party of Germany, which refuses to assent to any peace pact until it grants to Germany concessions to which no other nation could consent. Such tactics raise the applause of unthinking chauvinists at home, but they do not make for peace or good will abroad.

The same nationalism, in France, delayed the present agreement at least three years beyond the time when it was plainly overdue. In America, it sets the weight of our powerful example on the side of universal distrust and national isolation, and holds us back from every practical step of international co-operation.

Patriotism is an essential virtue. He who lacks it is not fit for the privileges of citizenship in a free country. But, like every other virtue, its aberrations may transform it into a vice.

Loyalty to the family comes first. But he whose loyalty to his family makes him disloyal to his community is not only a bad citizen, but an unworthy father. He whose loyalty to the community makes him disloyal to the state is not serving well the state. He whose loyalty to the state makes him disloyal to the nation is a traitor.

Up to this point, they say, the lesser loyalty must minister also to the larger. But the nation is the end.

POLITICS IS A GREAT GAME.

As the municipal campaign was growing to a close in the city of New York, announcement was made that William Randolph Hearst and Mayor John F. Hylan had decided to give their votes and their support to the Tammany democrat nominees for mayor and minor offices.

It was stated that these eminent citizens of greater New York and California had arrived at the conclusion that the democratic nominees were closer to the people and the interests of the people than the nominees of the republican leaders or republican party of greater New York.

All this took place after Alfred E. Smith made the emphatic announcement that he did not care to accept another nomination for the office of governor and also that a seat in the senate of the United States did not appeal to him.

It may be possible that the lions and the lambs of the democratic party in the great state of New York are preparing to lie down together.

NEED OF SAFE CONSTRUCTION.

When a grandstand holding an excited throng of football spectators collapsed at Marion (Ohio) last Sunday afternoon, 150 persons were injured. That is the second serious accident of the kind since the season opened—a crash at College Field in Washington (Pennsylvania) two weeks ago, claiming a heavier toll. There are always a few such mishaps, which would not occur if the school authorities saw that the structures were thoroughly overhauled before admitting a crowd. Subjected to the weather, the frail timbers usually employed for supports decay fast.

A better plan would be to build ampitheatres of concrete or stone, as the old Romans used to do and as numerous American universities have done. As sports are to have a fixed place in the school life it is as important to provide adequately for them as for classes, fraternities and other activities.

Potash & Perlmutter on What Sets Grand Opera Backers Back—Glass

"I never spend more than a dolla r and a half for a theayter even if I go for amusement and not grand op era."

"I see in the paper where if they give a performance of opera in New ork with every seat filled, Mawruss," Abe Potash declared the other day, 'the backers stand to lose ten per cent, which when you consider that a good seat costs seven dollars, Mawruss, a couple of opera hounds like Henry Noblestone and his wife gets into them poor opera backers to the extent of at least a dollar forty every Wednesday night for the past ten years to my knowledge."

"A rich man like Noblestone should ought to be ashamed of himself," Morris Perlmutter exclaimed. "Why dont he go and buy his two orchestra seats in a theayter which shows a proffit like a Follies or something, instead of making himself already an object of charity?"

"Well, you and me have saved them opera backers a good deal of money in our time, Mawruss" Abe said. "Recokoning the night I went to see Travvyayter two years ago last January and a couple of Aidas in 1920, the most it has cost them opera backers for deficit on my opera attendance must be forty-five cents on account I never spend more than a dolar and a half for a theayter even if I go for amusement and not grand opera."

"At that I haven't got a whole lot of sympathy of them grand opera backers, A b e," Morris remarked. "They've got a form of entertainment which is in a way in the same class with moving pictures and did they learn anything from it? Not even dressed up girl ushers?"

"But where does grand opera come in to be in a class with moving pictures?" Abe asked.

"Why ain't it?" Morris retorted. "In moving pictures, the actors tell the story by making faces at the audience, and in most cases you can tell that the whole thing is about just as well by the actors making faces as by their making noises. In other words, Abe, I've met people which has been to hear Rigoletto as many as six times, and for all they know about the story, it might be nohting more nor le ss than a grand opera version of Professor Einstein's best seller What Relativity Means To Me."

"Then you would suggest that these here opera backers try sub-titles in such meises like Rigoletto?" Abe asked.

"Not alone Rigoletto," Morris added, "but practically every other opera which I seen it shoud ought to be re-arranged along successful moving pictures line if them opera backers want to change their deficit into a surplus, Abe."

"In which respects?" Abe inquired.

Permanent Opera Hits

"Well, one of the big gest items in the deficit is the five thousand a night salaries paid to golden voiced sopranos with iron faces, y'understand," Morris continued, "and also you read in the papers where the New York or Chicago opera backers are handing out another five thousand to a tenor whose press agent makes a big fuss about the tenor's larynx but absolutely soft pedals the rest of the tenor's anatomy such as the tenor's intestinal track which is practically all you can see of the tenor from back of the sixth row centre, outside of the tenor's toupee which fools nobody in the opera house except the tenor himself."

"So therefore, Abe, I would take the five thousand dollars performance, and instead of devoting it to one larynx, y'understand, I would spread it around among a few faces," Morris went on to say, "and I would try hiring tenors on the principle of whether or not they screen well. After all, Abe, opera backers has got to keep pace with the times, which it may be that aong about 1850, y'understand, you could fill an opera house with a couple of good larynxes, understand me, but them days is passed. Audiences has been educated by the moving picture industry to exvpect more than larynxes."

"Say! For that matter, Mawruss, the moving picture industry has educated audiences into expecting a little good music with their evenings entertainment too," Abe observed.

"I am coming to that," Morris said. "Take for example Carmen, y'understand, which I suppose that in the last five years I've seen Carmen anyhow four times, Abe, and in all that time, y'understand, did they make any change in the incidental music? Not a note! They are using for the song hit of that show, a number which I first heard way before the Spanish War already, by the name The Toreador's Song."

"But moving pictures ain't nothing on grand opera in them respects," Abe declared. "I suppose that in the last three years, there aint been a close-up of two moving picture stars kissing each other without the organist playing I Love You, I Love You, I Love You."

Music Aids Pictures

"Sure I know," Morris agreed, "but moving picture stars has got other attractions besides larynxes to take the audience's minds off the music, and besides, Abe, some of them organists are very expert about making the music fit the picture. Take a scene where a fat man falls downstairs, and it's wondrful the way a high-grade organist can make you think you can actually hear the a tor's pants ripping, understand me, but have them grand opera backers taken a tip from it?"

"So far as I know, Abe, the New York or Chicago grand opera backers have never even tried having a good, up-to-date organist reli.. the orchestra. They go ahead, year after year, on the same old plan, when for what they pay a high-priced tenor for three performances only, they could install in the Metropolitan Opera House or the Chicago Opera House one of them big organs with attachments for giving imitations of fire whistles, steamboat whistles and automobile horns, horses galloping and fat men falling downstairs, to say nothing of cathedral chimes and tornado effetcs."

"Seemingly you can't learn them grand opera backers nothing in the way of showmanship either, Mawruss," Abe said. "They don't never try once in a while a good atmospheric prologue, like they've been running for years on Broadway to help out a picture which ain't exactly up to the mark. They don't even dress up the entrance to the theayter, Mayruss, which for all you could tell by looking at the lobby of one of our big opera houses on the night of a performance which is going to set the babckers back ten thousandd ollars, y'understand, it might just so well be a branch post office on a quiet afternoon. But on the other hand, Mawruss, I've seen moving picture theayters where they can make a bi- clean-up on the fifth showing of one of them Frozen North pictures by simply hiring a couple of loafers to dress up in eskimo furs and chaining a chow terrier to the ticket booth."

"Maybe it would help the Carmen deficit some," Morris admitted, "if they would have the ushers dressed up like gipsies with maybe a street parade of bullfighters on the morning of the performance."

"Well," Abe concluded, "they could anyhow can the toreador song and have a couple of new numbers written by George Gershwin, Jerome Kern or Irving Berlin."

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE

Scorpio

Today's planetary aspects are not favorable, neither are they positively adverse. They are of a negative character, and while they will not create an urge for accomplishment, neither will they promote any feelings that are inimical to the ordinary pursuits of a Sunday.

A girl born today will be exceptionally healthy, and her babyhood will be a source of great joy and comfort to her parents. A boy, on the other hand, will cause, as a result of his physical condition, much worry and anxiety. Much of this, however can be avoided, if proper attention be given to nutrition. Temporamentally, the girl will be "always on the go," restless, vigorous and active. She will be wholesome and good, fond of playing harmless pranks, but never endangering or jeopardizing her character. The boy will be a student, introspective, and not very companionable, reticent and deliberative, but loyal to his own ideals, which will be of the best.

If to day is your birthday, you take great interest in details of work and also of appearance. You are meticulously neat, and are very largely a creature of habit. You do not embrace new ideas with alacrity, but are ultra-conservative, and very self-contained. Convention means a great deal to you, and you look with suspicion on all fads and fancies.

It is not to be expected that you would enjoy any great degree of popularity. On the other hand, your friends dub you as old fashioned, but they all respect you for your method of living and appreciate your mental processes.

You have many benerous impulses, but are very discriminate and unostentatious, and are fortified with a good supply of common sense.

In your home life ,you are kind and affectionate, but all demonstration is lacking. Those that are near and dear to you, often resent this, and any overtures on their part to change your attitude are rebuffed. Nevertheless, they all appreciate at its just value the very solid foundation of your character, and, whenever the occasion demands it, gladly seek and follow your good advice.

Successful people born on this date are:

The Married Life of Helen And Warren

"I know I had it last night," Helen was searching the wash-cabinet drawers. 'I'll ask the steward—maybe he found it."

"What's the idea of lockin' it?" growled Warren. "Never lock things up on shipboard."

"Why, dear, all your papers and our passport! I thought—"

"You ring, ma'am?" their stateroom steward at the door.

"Yes, did you see a small flat trunk key?"

"No, ma'am, not that I noticed. Did you have it this mornin'?"

"I had it last night. Oh!" as a deep lurch threw her against the door.

Dizzy from her stooping search in the swaying cabin she longed to get out on deck. But Warren, fumingly impatient, was demanding his cigars from the locked trunk.

"Never know where you put anything!" he snorted. "No more sense of order than a cow. Spend half your time lookin' for things. Why in blazes don't you—"

"Eh? What's wrong?" brusked Warren.

"Somethin'—squirmed—" he stammered.

"Squirmed? What the devil—"

"Careful, sir! Somethin's back there—"

"What's the matter with you? Been hittin' the hootch?"

"Wait, let me—it's afraid of you. Kitty—kitty" she tried to reach it.

"The chef's cat. The one he just took on. Not used to the ship yet."

"Why, it's only a kitten—and all a-tremble!" as it hid under her arm.

"They're often like that the first trip. Won't eat and keep hidin' away. But I can't figure how it got up here. Come, Puss! I'll take it down, miss."

"No, no, let me keep it awhile." Sitting on the trunk Helen cuddled it in her lap. "Poor kitty, he was so frightened—yes, he was," crooning over it. "Such a nice kitty! Yes, he was!"

"'Yes he was!'" mimicked Warren. "Now, never mind that fool cat. What 'bout that key? Want my cigars."

"In a moment, dear. Oh, its little heart—beating like mad It's cruel to bring it to sea."

"No, miss, cats loves a ship after they're used to it. Can't get 'em to leave. Wish you'd seen Mike—one we had 'fore this. Weighed over a stone. Belonged to one of the stokers. He was shifted to a world cruiser and took Mike with him. A great mouser, that cat—but he'd never eat 'em. Not him—mighty fussy 'bout his food. The chef always saved him—"

"It's so wild," brushing her skirt. "I'm sorry about that glass. It should've been in the rack."

"If no more'n this break we'll be lucky,' 'the steward was picking up the pieces. "We're running into a storm. Barometer's been dropping all morning."

"It can't be rougher than this," as she was thrown against the wardrobe.

"Yes, miss, it can. Last trip we had two days—lots worse. One meal everything went off the table—had the racks up, too. Ought've seen that dining room—over a hundred pounds' damage. This what you lookin' for?" picking up a key. "Saw it shining there by the suitcase. That's my bell," hurrying off.

"Now, I'll keep this. Have one made for yourself. Jove, that's heavy sea" as an angry wave lashed against their porthole.

"Dear, I can't stand it down here—I'll be sick. Come, let's go up! You want to take these magazines?"

Through the swaying corridor, up the stairs, and out to the promenade deck—now wet and almost deserted. Only a few rug-wrapped passengers.

"Not for me!" Warren turned up his collar. "Here's where I beat it for the smoke-room."

"Dear, not just yet," dreading a long lonely afternoon. "Let's walk around once—I love this damp air."

"Damp, all right!" as another wave sprayed over the rail.

At the forward end they paused to look down on the third cabin deck, where a few men stood huddled in the doorway.

But he was quickly collared and dragged back just as a monstrous wave broke over the deck.

"Oh—Oh!" clutching Warren's arm. It's washed overboard!"

"Now, you dont have to worry 'bout a cat. It scampered in, all right."

Was that something black, in the seething white foam.

But she was dashing on aft—straining after the black spec that would soon be left behind.

Another menacing swell! A mountain of water growing higher as it drew near.

Then, a startled scream from Helen. A scream of joy!

She was staring at something on the deck below—something left by the receding wave. Small and limp and black—the kitten!

Washed back!

But another wave was coming. It would be carried out again!

Would she be in time? Another mountain of water was swelling near.

Her hands closed over a limp bit of fur—just as the wave engulfed her.

The force of it knocked her over, but she did not release her hold.

When it passed, she struggled to her feet, salt water filming her eyes.

"Of all the foolhard stunts!" he snorted. "Risk your life to save a damn cat! That wave could've taken you with it!"

"Oh, look—is it—"

"Yes, dead as a door-nail," dragging her under shelter.

"It can't be!" hugging close the dripping kitten as though to warm it to life. "It wasnt in the water long enough."

"Well, that wave handed it a knockout. Here, give it to the steward. You're drenched! Come get off that wet coat."

A deck steward opened the gate rushed down, followed by an officer and half a dozen passengers.

"No, no," Helen refused to yield the still-lifeless kitten. "Maybe I can bring it to!"

Ignoring Warren's fuming protests and the eager questions of the gathering crowd, she flew up to their stateroom.

"Oh, Warren, DO help me! It was such a cunning kitten," tearfully.

"Work its legs. No, no, use, Poor little shaver—Dead as Rameses!"

"But we must try! How? This way? gently shaking the tiny paws.

"Oh, it's eyes—it opened them! Now let me—you're too rough."

More rubbing with dry towels and the kitten was standing shakily.

"It's all right—I knew it would be," joyously. "Dear, wasn't it wonderful the way it was washed back?"

"Nabbed on the fore deck and swept back aft! Wouldn't happen again in a thousand years. Timed just right—another moment and we'd have been well past."

"That was mighty plucky, miss," as Helen now yielded the towel-wrapped kitten. "The second officer saw you from the top deck. He said the next wave would've had it. An', it's bad luck to lose a cat on shipboard."

"He's still frightened! Oh, I'm so glad he's not hurt. I love cats! We've a beautiful Persian at home—Pussy Per-Mew."

"He'll make a fine mouser," a large stubby finger stroked the tiny wet head. "These wild ones always do. I'll keep him in the pantry—till he's used to the ship."

"Now miss, any special dishes you want on the voyage—just send word down to me. Anything you think of now?"

"Oh, thank you," murmered Helen, pulling off her drenched steamer hat. "But the regular menu is very generous."

"Do you like souffles? Well, I'll send you a Souffle Richelieu tonight. Maybe tomorrow you can think of something for tomorrow—anything you fancy."

As the door closed after him, jubilantly Warren kicked aside a wet towel.

"How about it? Pretty soft, eh? Wants to blow us to some special dishes! Well, we'll cash in on that! Kitten, you're a good picker. If you pull a Carnegie stunt to rescue a cat—I'm darned glad it's the chef's! Then with a chuckle, "if it'd been the stokers—he couldn't have 'said it' with a Souffle Richelieu!"

Howe About Oysters, Respectability, Ordinary Girls —By Ed Howe

I am laughing at a Big Literary Man who edits a certain magazine. He keenly feels the need of better short stories. He has written much on the subject, and told writers exactly how the short story should be written. Still, good ones didn't come in, and month after month he found his magazine dull because better material was not available.

So in his desperation he concluded to write a short story himself.

I have just read it, and it is undeniably bad.

The truth is, there are far more publications than can be supplied with interesting material. Editors are in despair; they realize that even the best offering is poor stuff. I venture to say editors frequently issue editions of their magazines, and shiver because they know the contents are poor.

Writers cannot do the fine work demanded; nor can the editors themselves, when they try it in desperation.

The people were never promised, by any real authority, anything they are not getting. 'Even since I can remember (and, I am informed, long before) they have been demanding more liberty, better conditions, etc. They were never promised any such things except by men they had every reason to believe were unreliabl.

Listen to conversation awhile, or read awhile, and you can hear anything.

An American girl went to Italy to have her voice cultivated. She returned within a few months, saying teachers there were jealous of her voice, and tried to ruin it, that Americans might not have the distinction of the greatest voice in the world.

The girl and her mother are well satisfied with the explanation, but the neighbors are laughing.

An old man told me lately that he dreads to go on the street, as fully half the people he meets refer in some way to his age and increasing feebleness—I cannot recall a time when, on meeting an old man, I called him "Dad," or otherwise referred to his infirmity. I seem always to have known that it is very impolite and brutal to distress an old man by referring to his age—Nor do I ever say to the old: "How well you are lookin!" since this is only a dull way of being offensive with cheerfulness and compliments.

The people are kind in the presence of distress and poverty as naturally as they are mean and envious in the presence of prosperity and riches.

A patent medicine man was lately arrested for using the mails to defraud. It was found his remedy not only did no good, but was harmful. Last year he paid an income tax of $30,000, and built a home at a cost of a hundred thousand dollars.

Of every dollar he took in, 50 cents of it went for advertising.

Note that specially; his victims fed the wolf that ran them down; baited the trap that caught them.

You are always telling of the duty your government owes you; of the duty owing you by neighbors, acquaintances, members of your family.

Think of the duty you owe yourself.

Your first duty is to watch out for the frauds with which the world is filled. It will not do to say these dangers should not exist. They always have. Man has his enemeis as naturally as has the timid rabbit chased constantly by dogs and shotguns.

What a rogue a man is in selling whatever he makes a profit one! You are an oyster to whoever can open you.

And every oyster-opener uses the same trick: he says he loves the oyster he is trying to open

Honest men cannot keep the rogues off of you: they are themselves fighting for existence.

Any man who offers to fight your battles is a fraud.

As a tramp pursues his way through town and country, and sees only homes of successful and worthy people, I should think he would feel ashamed of his idleness and worthlessness. The vast majority of people make a success in life, in some degree, and have respectable employment, homes and friends, whereas the tramp is useful to no one, cared for by no one, missed by no one; his whereabout are of no interest to anyone, except constables and watch dogs. He is "different" from most others, and the difference is discreditable.

But probably he rather takes pride in his roving disposition, and need of bath and employment.

I have noted lately that idlers generally have increasing contempt for those who have jobs, and pay some attention to the old rules of respectability and industry.

A French "specialist," Dr. Toulouse, goes so far as to declare that every man who makes a success in life is something of a dub.

Such a statement may do well enough for literature, which is always too friendly to vagrancy, but fact is an entirely different thing. The fact is that those who get along, and do some sort of work regularly and creditably, are better specimens of mankind, in thinking as well as in working.

A man who decides to be an industrious, creditable citizen has been brought to that conclusion by intelligence.

In literature, respectability is often as lamely represented as justice at a courthouse trial: one lone district attorney, who frequently doesn't amount to much, represents justice, while three or four brilliant attorneys for the defense represent such excuses and alibis for wrong as can be dug up.

Still, even though the defendant is acquitted, or gets a too-light sentence, he does not amount to so much as those who have not been on trial and are busy in creditable ways in the big buildings outside the courthouse yard.

I suppose I am an odd fish, but have never wanted to marry an actress—I have kept no court, but probably I have wanted to marry a thousand of the plain, ordinary girls met with in plain, ordinary life.

People in our town are not able to travel much, but are good listeners when anyone returns from a trip, and pick up about as much information as there is to be had. Likewise few of us are able to devote all our time to reading, but we have a few old men who do, and they tell us what the books contain.

To Put 2,000 Acres In Valley in Pecans

An effort to get 2,000 acres in Wichita's irrigated valley planted in pecans is being inaugurated by C. J. Spelce and R. J. Rodocker, the former a farmer near Byers, western Clay county, and the latter a nurseryman of Wichita Falls. The pecan trees would be extremely profitable to their owners, these say, and would detract very little from the value of the land for farming purposes.

In a four-year experiment in northern Clay county where some 100 trees of 15 or 16 varieties were tried two kinds of pecans, known as Halbert and Western Schley were found especially adapted to this territory, the trees growing large thin shelled pecans of very high quality. Some averaged not more than 30 to the pound.

Mr. Rodocker says that on irrigated land the trees will show an exceptional growth and fruitfulness.

"Beauty" Is Topic At Camp Fire Council

"Seek Beauty," the first point of the Camp Fire law was the theme of the Camp Fire Girls' council luncheon held yesterday at noon at Grace Methodist church.

Mrs. Anna Barnhill, nature lore councillor, gave a short talk on "The Beauties in Nature."

Miss Josephine Fisk sang several songs. Marguerite McCord gave a talk on "Seeking Beauty in Persons." Miss Mary McIlheran, local executive, gave a short atlk on "Beauty in Appearance."

DRUG PLANTED IN PARKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Cultivation on public property and private woods in the city of New York and its environs of the outlawed drug hashish was described yesterday by Andres Huerta, 24, a Mexican, who was arrested with a quantity of the drug in his possession.

FLOOD PRINCE WITH GIFTS

LONDON, Nov. 7—It took the king and queen an hour to view the gifts with the Prince of Wales has brought back from South Africa and South America.

Girl Wins Honors as Composer at 20

Listening in on a radio program at her home in Los Angeles, two years ago, Beatrice Fenner, 18, got an idea for a song. She wrote it down and managed to find a publisher. It was a success. She has written 26 others since, with the result she has been awarded a Juillard Foundation musical scholarship. Galli-Curci and other singing notables now have Fenner numbers in their repertoires.

Huffhines Opens Up-to-Date Paint And Paper Store

Huffhines and company have opened one of the most up-to-date paint and wall paper shops in Wichita Falls in the basement of the new Harvey-Snider building. The company is headed by Leslie Huffhines, a nine-year resident of Wichita Falls with 14 years experience in the wall paper and paint business. Of his nine years in Wichita Falls three were spent with the W. S. Robertson Paint company, and six with the Sherwin-Williams company. The last three years of the six were with Sherwin and Williams, where Mr. Huffhines was local manager.

Huffhines and company will feature Devoe products exclusively in Wichita Falls. A full line of artists' materials will be handled, and M. H. Birge, Thomas-Strain, Becker, Smith and Page wall papers.

Richard Stout, formerly with the Robertson Paint and Sherwin-Williams will be conencted with the company in charge of retail sales.

Revival Is Begun At Walnut Church

The revival at the Walnut Baptist church which was to have begun Friday night was begun last night, and announcement is made that services will be held each evening during the week.

The pastor, Rev. E. M. Yeakley, is to be assisted in the service by members of the Volunteer Band of the Wichita County Baptist association.

This organization has among its members some young men who plan to enter the ministry. Others who are gospel singers or play musical instruments of different kinds, and a number of personal workers. They are to have charge of the music and the devotional services throughout the meeting. It is expected that the "Volunteer Orchestra," which consists of two violins, two trumpets, trombone, clarinet and "hand saw," besides the piano, will play an important part in the music for the meeting.

Northwest Texas Pioneer Is Dead

J. R. Roberts, well known in Wichita Falls and intimately associated with the early history of this city and of northwest Texas, died early Saturday morning at Amarillo, according to word received here yesterday.

Mr. Roberts was for many years a foreman on the Waggoner ranches in the northwest Texas. His activities against cattle rustlers in those days won him a reputation over the whole west. He joined the gold rush to Alaska, afterwards living for a while in Canada, where he owned a large ranch at the time of his death.

Mr. Roberts leaves a widow, two sons, and three daughters.

Court Says Road Must Be Opened

Holding that action taken by the defendant was a hindrance to public travel, Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court Saturday morning found for the plaintiffs in the case of Jess Stephenson et al vs. S. P. Cowart. The suit involved a roadway near Iowa Park which the defendant had closed about ten days ago after, it is alleged, it had been used for years as a public highway by the plaintiffs and others.

Under the court's order the fence must be removed and the road opened for travel again.

39 HELD IN DRY RAID

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 7—(AP)—Prohibition enforcement officers today continued a drive on Birmingham liquor dealeres which up to last night had netted 39 arrests and the confiscation of scores of packages of liquor. Special agents had been working all week securing "under cover" information and laying plans for the raid.

TULSA HEARS CINCINNATI.

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 7.—G. E. Harris of 115 S. Trenton Avenue, had the unusual experience of providing guests with music from Robert Visconti's Hotel Gibson orchestra in Cincinnati, Ohio, during a dinner-hour concert. The music was broadcast through the Crosley WLW super-power station and received with a home-made radio receiver with sufficient volume and clearness to place the speaker on a table and serve the dinner on the lawn.

Subantenna Puts Life in Radio "Dead Spots"

THE SUBANTENNA HOOKED UP TO A SET

Chicago.—Besides eliminating all outside interference and giving perfect clarity of tone in radio reception by the use of ground waves, the Subantenna, a recent invention of James D. and Ray Gibson, former Chicago newspaper men, has been found to have another very important use.

Throughout the world there are many places that are known in radio parlance as "dead spots," or sections where it has been impossible heretofore to bring in radio reception. These "dead spots" are more numerous and more pronounced in the mountain regions where, according to geologists, the presence of mineral deposits are responsible for the lack of radio energy. The Subantenna has solved this problem and with its use these so-called "dead spots" have been brought to life as radio centers.

Colorado Springs and Victor, Colo., and Casper, Wyoming, were numbered among barren sections of the country in so far as radio reception was concerned. Today, however, with the use of the Subantenna these cities and surrounding territory are enjoying as good reception as any other portion of the United States.

"We buried a subantenna under the interurban car line," said R. P. Hawkins, president of the Tri-States Sales Co., Denver, Colo., who has made extensive tests throughout the state, "and a one hundred thousand volt power line was within ten feet of the interurban line. At a depth of thirty inches the reception was wonderful without a sign of outside interference. The stations received at the time were WEAF, New York; KDKA, Pittsburgh; Catalina Islands; WLW, Cincinnati, and WTAM, Cleveland. Next we buried one in the city where the interference was very bad, but the good results were the same. "Next we made a test at Victor, Colo., in the mountains, where interference up to this time has made radio impossible. Practically solid granite prevails in this section, so we wound the subantenna as a snake-like affair around the rocks and while we did not elliminate interference in its entirety, nevertheless the reception was such that it makes radio come into its own in what is known as the Cripple Creek district.

"Another test was made at Casper, Wyo., where the interference has been so bad that radio reception was almost impossible. Our test proved conclusively that radio can be used to good advantage in Casper."

In California, Idaho, Utah, New Mexico and several other states, including Florida, this new ground antenna making ground waves possible has put radio life in all "dead spots."

Artists of Note On The Ether Today

NEW YORK.—John Powell, celebrated pianist, and Eva Gauthier, soprano, will be the distinguished artists in the sixth "Atwater Kent Radio Hour" to be presented on Sunday, November 8, at 9:15 p. m., eastern standard time, from the studio of WEAF. Their joint program will be broadcast by WEAF, New York, N. Y., WEEI, Boston, Mass., WCAP, Washington, D. C., WJAR, Providence, R. I., WGR, Buffalo, N. Y. WCAE, Pittsburgh, Pa., WSAI, Cincinnati, Ohio, WWJ Detroit, Mich., WOC, Davenport, Iowa, WCCO, St. Paul-Minneapolis, Minn., WTAG, Worcester, Mass., KSD, St. Louis, Mo., and WFI, Philadelphia, Pa.

In this series of concerts, Reinald Werrenrath, American baritone, Toscha Seidel, Russian ivolinist, Mme. Louise Homer, Metropolitan contralto, Salvatore de Stefano, Italian harpist, Olga Samaroff, pianist, and May Peterson, Metropolitan soprano, Mary Lewis, Metropolitan soprano, and Paul Kochanski, violinist, have entertained the radio audience.

RADIO ON BUSSES

Birmingham-Montgomery Tourists Now Being Entertained

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—The Birmingham-Montgomery Transportation company, operators of motor busses between Birmingham and Montgomery, has equipped a number of busses with radio.

R. B. Dwyer, manager of the company, says that his company now has receivers on all night busses between Birmingham and Montgomery.

Some excellent programs are being received on these busses en route. The trip by motor bus from Birmingham to Montgomery requires about three hours and Manager Dwyer says radio entertains passengers so well that the monotony of the trip is eliminated.

RADIO IS FOURTH "R"

Readin', 'Ritin', 'Rithmetic Take Sister Art Into Family

Modern science has made it possible to add another "R" to the old-time 3 "R's" of education—"R"adio. The latest addition to the new method of education is found in the Elementary school lessons which are to be broadcast through the WLW super-power station of The Crosley Radio corporation, Cincinnati, Monday, Tuesday and Friday mornings, from 9 to 9:30, central standard time.

Leading educators have indorsed this plan and are heartily in accord with the idea to supply the rural schools with the finest instrutors via radio broadcasting.

TEST BATTERIES NOW.

Winter Cold Will Likely Put Crimp in Station Otherwise.

Now that the winter radio season is here it is time to see that everything concerned with your receiving set is in good condition, ready to receive the wonderful WLW programs. One of the first things to do is to have your batteries tested. This test should be made with a volt-meter, while the tubes are turned on. If dry cell "A" batteries are used, each cell should test at least 1.1 volts. A 22 1-2-volt dry "B" battery should test at least 17 volts, and a 45-volt dry "B" battery should test at least 34 volts. If you can not test your batteries, they should be taken to a dealer, who is equipped to give this service.

CELEBRATE VICTORY

Radio Station Abandons Set Program To Sing Praises of Pittsburg Team

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 7—Judging from the tone and the volume of messages received by the KDKA Little Symphony orchestra, Victor Saudek, conductor, the radio audience heartily approved the change whereby the usually sedate dinner concert broadcast from the station was turned into an impromptu jubilee the evening the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Washington Nationals in the seventh and deciding game of the world's series.

"He's a Jolly Good Fellow," warbled the soloist as the names of the Pittsburgh team, and "Bucky" Harris, the manager, and Walter Johnson, star pitcher of the Washington team, were mentioned before the microphone. The prepared program was abandoned.

RABBI WISE TO BROADCAST

Famous Minister Will Be Heard Over WBZ On November 15

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—Dr. tSephen S. Wise, the most famous rabbi in the world today, is the third speaker whose address will be broadcast direct from Ford Hall Forum of Boston by Westinghouse Station WBZ. His address will be Sunday evening, November 15. Dr. Wise has selected as his subject, "The Tragedy of American Self-Isolation," and this noted speaker who created such a sensation last year when his address on the ku klux klan was broadcast by WBZ from Ford Hall will undoubtedly have a large part of the station's audience listening in to his talk.

HECTOR'S ORCHESTRA

Station WBZ at Boston Will Have Famous Musical Organization

BOSTON, Nov. 7—Arrangements have been completed so that listeners will be able to hear Charles R. Hector's famous ten-piece Keith-Albee St. James theater orchestra every week over Station WBZ. With a different soloist for each broadcast, this orchestra will be heard in an hour's program through the courtesy of the Noyes Buick company.

HANDLE PHONES CAREFULLY.

Headpieces Are Delicate Pieces of Machinery and Should be so Treated.

Headphones, when well made, are delicate instruments, and should be handled just as carefully as a fine watch. One should never let them drop, or handle them roughly, any more than one would willingly let a glass tumbler fall on the floor. Though headphones will often stand considerable rough treatment without serious damage, as witnessed by reports from owners of Crossley phones who have repeatedly dropped them without apparent injury, strict adherance to the rules of care outlined here is the best assurance of good reception.

RADIO SUGGESTIONS.

Times Signals From Strong Arlington Station Assisted Greatly.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 7—The Arlington time signals relayed every night on the short wave by Westinghouse station KDKA aided vessels in the polar seas during the past summer to keep their courses during the past summer, one of the worst for navigation in the arctic region experienced during the last 20 years, due to the unusually bad weather and heavy ice.

This was the report of Captain J. E. Bernier of the Canadian Government ship Arctic who for 21 years has been making annual cruises to the far north posts of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to provision the posts, and make exchange of officers.

Station Features Community Shows

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—A weekly community program, the first of its kind in the south, will be given every Monday evening between the hours of 7:30 and 9 o'clock from the First Presbyterian church here and broadcast by WSM, on the wave length of 282.8 meters.

The public is cordially invited to these concerts which will present the finest talent available in the city and even big attratcions which visit Nashville from other cities.

WSM's weekly communtiy program should prove one of the biggest assets to Nashville's civic life ever fostered and officials of the National company, the church and the city are working hand in hand to give Nashvillians a regular meeting place where the best musical talent obtainable will entertain them.

WSM's community broadcast is scheduled for every Monday night from 7:30 to 9 o'clock. The first one presented P. L. McFerrin, organist, and the associate artists.

A "RADIO FLOWER"

Senoir Announcer at Buffalo Would Designate an Official Bloom

BUFFALO, N. Y.—O. E. Becker, senior announcer at WGR, has sprouted some petic fights of fancy. Out of them has been born the idea of having a radio flower.

Mr. Becker's own flower garden has had much to do with the bright idea. He wants to know what radio fans think about it and will be glad to hear suggestions on the subject.

Mr. Becker suggests the cosmos. He declares that the very name is appropriate inasmuch as it is indicative of the universal good of radio.

SINGSONG FROM WLW.

Community Sing Has Been Added to Program of Famous Station.

A community sing has been added to the program of the Crossley WLW super-power broadcasting station. It will be provided by the Cincinnati conservatory of music and broadcast the first and third Saturday evenings of each month, at eight oclock. Burnet C. Tuthill, business manager of the conservatory, has arranged for a half-hour of songs by artist-pupils. The songs will be of the popular variety and may be found in nearly every oldtime book of songs of the home, such as "Old Black Joe," "My Old Kentucky Home," "Sailing," etc.

MORNING DEVOTIONALS.

Crossley Station WLW Broadcasts Daily Devotional Service.

175 LEAGUERS ARE GUESTS AT BANQUET HERE

Epworth Convention Entertained at First M. E. Church

The Ansil Lynn Epworth league of the First Methodist church was host to the second quarterly conference of the Wichita Falls District Epworth league in the seventh annual banquet last night at the First church here when 175 leaguers of this section were entertained. Miss Lucile Campbell, district secretary, was in charge of the program.

The processional was led by Miss Minnie Baker. The meeting was opened with a song, "It's a Good Thing to Be a Leaguer." The invocation was said by the Rev. Frank M. Richardson, presiding elder of the district.

Gray Is Toastmaster.

C. C. Donaldson, member of the league, introduced H. J. Bruce who in turn introduced the toastmaster of the evening, H. W. Gray. The response was given by Rev. H. C. Hand, pastor of the First Methodist church, Iowa Park.

Mrs. Joe Crouch and Paul Rutledge entertained during the evening with a group of violin duets with piano accompanied by Mrs. R. S. Strange.

Miss Minnie Baker and Baldwin Montgomery sang a number of pleasing duets accompanied also by Mrs. Strange.

Joel H. MacGregor, new choir director of the First Methodist church, sang a number of Scotch songs and interpretations of Harry Lauder. The address of the evening was made by Rev. Milo Atkinson, pastor of the First Christian church.

Those Present.

The banquet was served by the girls of the Fidelity class of which Mrs. Hugh Weaver is teacher, under the direction of Mrs. M. P. Albritton.

Among those present were the following:

RADIO SUGGESTIONS.

A wire fence often makes an excellent substitute for a ground. Its action is that of an efficient counterpoise.

CUSTER'S TROOPER ENDS LIFE

BILLINGS, Mont., Nov. 7.—(AP)—John Burkman, 86, a trooper of the Seventh United States cavalry, who saddled General George A. Custer's horse Victor on the day of the battle of the Little Big Horn June 25, 1876, fatally shot himself yesterday. Ill health and the total loss of sight and hearing were held responsible.

WOMAN FOUND SLAIN.

OGDEN, Utah, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The body of Mrs. Hans C. Jensen, aged 43, beauty parlor owner, was found in a thicket in the south part of the city today. Nearby was a broken hammer and a small sharp knife.

The woman apparently had been struck on the head with the hammer and an effort made later to cut off her head.

Lipton's Yacht Now Is Carrying Liquor

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 7.—(AP)—A staff correspondent's dispatch to the Miami Daily News from Nassau, British Bahamas, today states that Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht Shamrock II, three times defeated international cup racer, is now engaged in liquor carrying under an alias.

The Shamrock II recently was acquired by the Nassau liquor house of Pinder, Collins & Brown and is now riding at anchor with 50 other liquor schooners in Nassau harbor. Persons passing between New Providence and Hog Islands noted the trim lines and build of a vessel bearing the name "Isosoceles." Investigation showed it carried the other name beneath.

PLEADS FOR RURAL SCHOOLS.

GALVESTON, Nov. 7.—A plea for the extension of rural schools was made before Galveston teachers by S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of education.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The market today was a pre-bureau affair with trading restricted to evening up and liquidation in advance of the government report to be issued Monday morning. Although cables were favorable the market opened irregular, near months slightly higher and late months slightly lower. All months eased off right after the call showing losses of 8 to 9 points from teh previous close, but prices soon rallied on the unfavorable showing by the weather map and the forecast for freezing weather in the west over Sunday gaining 19 to 27 points from the early lows.

This gai nwas gradually lost during the second of the short session on prebureau liquidation and close showed net losses for the day of one to nine points.

Following the irregular start prices eased off to 19.65 for December and January 19.30. These prices remained the lows of the day. The rally which followed during the first hour carried prices 19 to 27 points up from the lows.

From these high points the market gradually eased off under the pressure of pre-bureau liquidation until prices at the end were near the lows and in the case December low point was duplicated but not broken through. The market closed steady and irregularly, slightly net lower.

The average of the private estimates so far issued is 15,151,000 bales and 11,124,000 for ginnings. Exports for the day totaled 22,500 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Very unfavorable weather advices from the south caused rallies from an opening decline in the cotton market today, but after selling up from 19.78 to 20.00, January closed at 19.85, the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 3 to 22 points. December was relatively weak, closing at 20.30, the lowest level of the day and 22 points lower compared with losses of about 3 to 20 points on the later deliveries.

The markets opened steady at a decline of 3 to 15 points, active months showing net losses of 11 to 20 points in early trading, under liquidation combined with local and southern selling which seemed to come largely from spot houses and was supposed to represent hedging. These early offerings were soon absorbed and the forenoon market rallied on the outlook for rains with lower temperatures in the eastern belt, reports of further rains in the southwest and predictions for another cold wave with freezing temperatures in Oklahoma, Arkansas and parts of Texas.

For a time covering was active, December selling up to 20.55 and March to 20.19, or about 3 to 10 points net higher, but at these figures the market met heldng or liquidation. There was further spot houses selling of December, accompanied by rumors that some ofthe more important holders of near months contracts were liquidating their lines, and the December weakness helped to pull down the later deliveries. At the close, December was selling within 45 points of January, compared with a difference of 64 points at the close yesterday.

Local traders found nothing in the news to throw any fresh light in the showing of Monday's government crop report, which will not reflect the unfavorable weather, as it only carries the crop up to November 1. Private reports recently published have pointed to a crop of 15,091,000 bales on the average and ginning of 11,090,000 bales.

Private cables from Liverpool said hedge selling there had been absorbed by covering and trade selling.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Wearied by the intense activity of the past week, which had carried prices to new peak levels and smashed records for the volume and breadth of trading, the stock market today succumbed to the pressure of week-end realizing sales. Prices turned decidedly reactionary as the week drew to a close, but not until after United States Steel and a score other leading industrial had spurted from a gain to new high prices.

The reaction was considered a natural development after the excited advance of the past few days. Deupite the fact that the speculative frenzy showed signs of exhaustion, however, the market still retained traces of its earlier buoyancy.

With U. S. Steel common selling at the highest level in its history, it was inevitable that a flood rumors regarding favorable developments for the corporation stockholders should be broadcast. These revolved about the possibility of a distribution of the company's huge undivided surplus and attracted another flood of buying records into the market soon after the opening. After running up more than a point to a new peak at 139¾, howbver, the stock finally crumbled to 137½, closing at 137⅛ with a fractional loss for the day.

Encouraged by the early buoyancy of the premier industrial issue, representatives of other industrial groups followed its leadership to new high grounds. Among theme were General Motors at 149⅝, Allied Chemical at 114⅝, U. S. Rubber at 89¼, Texas Gulf Sulphur at 121½ and Schulte Cigar Stores at 125¼.

Many of these issues by virtue of their exceptional strength were singled out as targets in the latter selling attack which cancelled most of the early advances and drove the majority of stocks below last night's closing figures. Recessions were most marked, however, in the high priced specialties with Dupont, General Electric, Brown Shoe and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe sagging 7 to 11 points below the days maximum prices.

Undiminished outside buying was an important factor in stiffening the markets resistance and in the final few minutes of trading brisk rallies were again under way.

Produce

TEXAS PRODUCE.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 7.—There is little change in the general poultry market, but turkeys are firmer on account of the light receipts and in anticipation of the Monday opening of commercial dressing. No. 1 stock was advanced to 26@27c pound liveweight this morning. Eggs are about unchanged.

San Antonio: Hens 17@18c, few 19c; fryers 23@25c; roosters 10@12c; turkeys 23@25c; eggs, per case of 30 dozen, cases included, No. - candled, $10.

Fort Worth: Hens, large 13@15cc for large, 12@13c for small; springs large 23@25c small 20@22c; old cocks 9c pound liveweight basis; geese 75@90c; ducks 50@75c; guineas 30@35c each; turkeys stronger, No. 1's 26@27c; No. 2's, 15@17c; old toms 23@24c pound liveweight; receipts light. Fresh gathered first $10.50@11. Strong No. 1 candled $11@12 to retailers. Butter, unchanged.

TEXAS VEGETABLES.

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 7.—String beans were added to truck rollings yesterday two cars by express from this state and one freight from Florida and one freight and one express from Louisiana. The eggplant movement of the day consisted of two cars, both from Florida. Of the pepper rollings ohwever, one of the 12 cars was from this station and of 45 cars mixed vegetables one was of Texas origin. A car of sweet potatoes listed as unreported for the 50th moved from this state, but there was no Texas momement in the 73 cars that got out yesterday. Norfolk, Va., yesterday rolled three of the six cars of spinach. The deal is opening in that state. Ttotal shipments of other commodities follow: Apples 1,174 cars; potatoes 906, cucumbers two, cabbage 294, celery 121, lettuce 26, grapefruit 71, grapes 158, green peas two, peaches one, onions 163, pears 20, oranges 76, tomatoes 185.

Today's reports from Rochester, N. Y. indicated little damage from the recent freeze. The shipping point market for the day was mostly steady around $23@25 ton for Danish cabbage, carlots usual terms. Kenosha, Wis. on similar stock was around $25@28 ton. A slight improvement in the tone of potato trading at Idaho Falls was noted and cash track sales of U. S. No. 1 sacked russets were noted at $3 with Russets, billed California shipment bringing $3@3.25. Apples in the Wenatchee Valley were $2@2.15 for extra fancy winesaps and $1.50 for extra fancy staymen. California points were around $1.50 for fancy Jonathans and $1.15@1.25 for C grade Jonathans, terms.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Increasing movement of wheat to terminal markets in the southwest did a good deal to weaken wheat prices at times today. Bottom figures showed an overnight drop of about two cents a bushel. The close for wheat was irregular, ⅝ cents net lower to ⅝ cent advance, new style, December $1.48⅝ to $1.48⅞ and May $1.45½ with corn at ½ to 1 cent gain, oats ⅛ cent off to ⅛ cent up and provisions unchanged to 10 cents down.

Wet weather throughout the greater part of the corn belt gave an upward trend to the corn market. Excessive moisture is damaging the quality of corn and retarding the movement of the crop. Oats were lifeless.

Lower quotations on hogs weakened the provision market.

Market Gossip

B. E. Flowerree and Co., Brokers, basement Staley Bldg., today received the following market comment from Logan and Bean of New Orleans, New York and Chicago:

COTTON.

The cotton market was called upon to absorb considerable profit taking sales by longs realizing but the demand from shorts or fresh buying stimulated by bad weather was sufficient to absorb the offerings and prices held steady.

The weather continued bad with heavy general rains over most of the western states and Tennessee, the forecast indicating rains for the central and eastern states and freezing for the northwest.

Reports were received during the day from competent observers who have been over the northwest confirming heavy damage in that section and an official of the farm bureau was quoted as predicting that not over 15 per cent of the cotton remaining in the field in northern and northwestern sections would be picked.

The public takes the view that the government is likely to reduce its estimates materially owing to bad weather but the average trader does not look for much if any reduction on the theory that most of the bad weather came after November 1.

Some think ginnings returns will have as much influence as the forecast unless it is reduced.

STOCKS.

Aggressive buying operations went ahead today and there was no slackening in the pace. U. S. Steel continued a features and established a brand new high for all time. Other steels like Republic and Crucible also went ahead to better prices. There was evidence of profit taking in the motors, and a great deal of switching from these to oils.

American Woolen was higher, continuing to respond to the recovery in the industry.

A sudden spurt took place in Texas Gulf and it is generally expected that the directors will declare an extra dividend at their next meeting about the middle of this month. Profit taking went on in an enormous scale which is only natural, considering the recent great advances.

U. S. Rubber enjoyed a large turnover with its price showing further advance. Offerings became too heavy before the end for the demand the general stock list suffered considerable setback.

GRAINS.

Wheat opened lower, mostly in sympathy with weaker Liverpool and continued down for a time on heavy selling by eastern interests and the northwest. It rallied near the close, 1¼ to 2 cents, and ended the day about 1¾ to 1⅞ above the low.

Coarse grains refused to follow the decline in wheat early, but when the latter became strong they borrowed strength from the leader of grains, and ended the day strong and slightly higher than last night's finals.

THE BROTHERHOOD OF MAN

Years ago, in the course of the world's financial expansion it became necessary to create a centralized agency for the more expeditious handling of funds, bankers devised what has since grown into the various clearing house associations of the country. They found through experience that a clearing house was the most practical and workable idea for the interchange of money from one bank to the other; and the resultant success of these agencies has proven the soundness of the theory.

Profiting by the bankers' experience, numerous other business, social and civic enterprises have adopted the clearing house idea and modified or expanded it to fit their own particular needs. One of the enterprises so acting is that of community welfare work.

It has been found, of course, that to administer welfare work efectively, various divisions of social workers must be created to deal with various types of cases. The Salvation Army, for instance, handles relief work for the destitute family; a day nursery looks after the welfare of helpless youngsters whose parents are unable to devote full time and attention to them; the Red Cross attends to the medical needs of the needy. So it goes.

As many different agencies may be created as are required to cover properly a city's welfare work, but after they are created and become operative a central agency must look after them; see that their labors are properly co-ordinated; make sure that all welfare work is classified correctly and turned into proper channels; and, above all, to see that finances are handled efficiently.

In Wichita Falls this central agency or, this clearing house, has taken the form of the Municipal Welfare board. It is a sort of board of directors, executive council and ways and means committee combined. It is headed by the chief executive of the city—the mayor, and includes in its membership business men and women of ability who are also members of participating organizations.

The welfare board does not directly expend a cent for relief of welfare work. Its executives have no authority to supply financial aid in any case; but to them is alloted the guardianship of all funds raised for welfare purposes and the distribution of monies to the various organizations included in the municipal welfare scheme.

Locally, there are nine different channels through which last year some $44,000 in cash was spread out in welfare work. Of these nine, only four actually converted funds given them into food, clothing or shelter for the needy; but the other five carried on educational cmapaigns that are accepted as essential to the city's welfare. And one of these nine agencies was the welfare board itself which required about $4,000 for the proper administration of its duties.

Starting out with the Salvation Army, the board in 1924 alloted it $8,599.50, its proper show. These funds, of course, were dispensed by the army officials in relief work and the other activities for which this world-wide orgnaization has become famous. The Salvation Army, then, is one of those four agencies which pass actual relief in the form of beans, bacon, blankets or coal on to unfortunate sufferers.

Next in line was the Red Cross which, according to its annual report last year received $8,188.50. The functions of this organization are largely medical and center around treatment of school children and youngsters who may be in need of such attention and who otherwise could not have it. This is another one of the four which uses at least a part of its funds for direct relief in the form of medical supplies.

The Y. W. C. A., which last year received $7,188.50 from the community chest fund, is not a relief school in any sense. Rather it is an institution provided to serve as an aid to the moral welfare of the city's young women. Its activities are too well known to require detailed comment here. No one denies but that its purposes and work are of a nature entitling it to admission into the chest.

The come the Boy Scouts who in 1925 were given $5,733. The Scout creed, Scout ideals and Scout prectices, all of which have to do with the mental, moral and physical wellbeing of the youth of the land, win for this organization its place in the chest.

To the Day Nursery was awarded $3,836.70, all of which was expended in caring for youngsters whose mothers were away during working hours, earning as best they might in order that some semblance of a home might be maintained for their kiddies. The same was true in smaller measure for the colored day nursery which was given $970.20 from the chest funds and which used the money in welfare work work among the colored folk.

The two remaining agencies over which the welfare board had control were the Camp Fire Girls, who got $1,764; and the Texas Children's Home and Aid Society which was given $3,836.70.

These totals with two other items, one of $165 as a refund to colored charities; and one of $554.84 as campaign expenses made up a total of $44,819.84. These were the full disbusements for the year. The welfare board through its secretary, Mrs. Kathleen Gorsline, had original custody of all the funds; it apportioned them out as directed by the budget allowances at the start of the year; it kept records and bank accounts in order that it may properly account for all of them at the end of the 12-month period; and, in addition, it took care, also through the secretary, of hundreds of calls for help, directing them to the proper agencies and, if needed, followed them up to see that they were adequately adjusted.

In the coming year the community chest fund has been set at $55,000. No change has been bade in the organization personnel. There will still be the Salvation Army, the Red Cross, the Y. W. C. A., the Boy Scouts, and the Day Nursery, the Camp Fire Girls, the Colored Day Nursery, and the Texas Childrens Home and Aid society with the board itself as a ninth participating group. As it has done in the past, it will be the mainspring of the big machine that is to perform the 1925 welfare work. It will be the motive force, one that will be generated and stored up when the community chest campaign for $55,000 is launched and carried through Nov. 23, 24 and 25.

"Bring us Good Luck," is the campaign slogan adopted for this year. It will be used throughout the work, as will the old slogan of "One Campaign Instead of Nine" that carried such an appeal in 1924. A four-leaf clover, traditional emblem of good luck, has been adopted as a sort of distinctive insignia for the campaign.

MRS. E. B. GORSLINE, JR., Secretary.

AN OLD GIRL

By Rupert Hughes

In the roped-off crowd gathered the other day at the Grand Central terminal to greet one of the big express trains, stood two families, each waiting for an 82-year-old woman.

In both groups there were children, grandchildren and great-grand children. The Brackett family had come prepared with a wheeled chair, extra wraps, smelling salts and a proper solemnity of demeanor. The journey from the Pacific coast was long and dangerous for a poor soul ten years past the scriptural age.

The Garnetts had no wheeled chair but there was a look of anxiety on every face. They were not so much afraid of what the trip had done to Granny Garnett as of what Granny Garnett was likely to do to them. She had sent them a heap of commissions and warnings and they were afraid they might have forgotten some of them.

The train came in. The guard permitted the Brackett rolling chair to be rolled down the platform to save the grand old lady from the long walk. She came back on wheels. She was exquisite, snow-white of hair with a lace cap under her quiet old traveling hat, at her throat a lace fichy pinched with a brooch of long ago. Her gown was as old fashioned as herself.

She looked as if a breath would blow her away, and her descendants had a feeling that they ought to kneel before her and revere here. There was something so unworldly, so otherworldly about her that she seemed quite ready for translation to her well-earned reward.

Alongside her, walked a middle-aged maid who suggested a female undertaker impatient for her prey.

Grandame Brackett put up a almost transparent, and accepted from her posterity the kisses they gave carefully lest they break her or smother her with emotion too strong for her tremulous frame. Everybody breathed a sigh of relief that she had not died on the way; then followed the rolling chair to the limousine outside.

Then Great Granny Garnett came up the platform. Though she was a year older than Mrs. Brackett she came on her own power. She had been delayed by the necessity for recruiting enough redcaps to carry her hand baggage; and also by the number of train acquaintances young and old who were exchanging farewells with her. There had been a transcontinental bridge-tournament in her drawing room and she had won all trophies.

When she caught sight of her descendants held back by the rope, barrier she broke into a run and hugged and kissed them till their ribs and lips knew that Granny was making another of her raids on New York.

Granny Garnett was dressed like a fashion plate from Paris. If her hair was white the jaunty little hat that hugged her skull did not bertay it. But it must have been bobbed, for so small a cap could never have been crowded over a knob of hair.

Her gown was the fashionable meal sack, and the skirt was short. Her stockings were manifest and of the latest color, something between what was known as "nude" and what is called "toast." Her high-heeled slippers were smart and she walked with the springy gait of a flapper.

After the salutes of effusive affection had been exchanged, her first word was:

"Did anybody make me the appointment with Pete the Bobber that I wired for two weeks ago?"

Her granddaughter answered:

"I managed it, Mummsy, but I had the damndest time. He's booked up for months and he hasn't time for meals. I told him you'd burn down his shop if he didn't take you on the minute you arrived. So he's given you his lunch hour today."

"Thank the Lord." Granny sighed. "I've had my hair bobbed by everybody on the coast; but Mrs. Fenderson, the governor's mother, you know, told me that Pete was the only one who had an architectural sense and could design a bob to fit the face. Bless your heart, darling for arranging it! For your reward, I'll let you read the latest French novel. I read it in my berth and it darned near made me faint so it may give you a little thrill."

Her daughter, who was also a grandmother, intervened to say:

"Mamma dear, you must be tired after your long trip. Don't you want to go home and lie down an hour or two before you go to the barber?"

"Lie down!" gasped Granny. "Me? Do you think I came all the way to New York to lie down? We have beds in Seattle. I've got to clean up

"Did anybody make me the appointm ent with Pete the Bobber that I wired for two weeks ago?" Her granddaughter answered: "I managed it Muggsy, but I had the damndest time!"

first. Those stand-up baths I took in my drawing room left me in such a ghastly condition that I'm ashamed to be seen by respectable people. So you can drop me at that place where Hilda the Swede is waiting for me. I wired her to give me a good steaming, a workout and a rub-down. Then I've got to have a facial massage and work the cinders out of my system. And a meal-pack to soften my hide. Then I'll be ready to have my eyebrows plucked and my nails scoured. That will just about fill my time till I dash over to Pete's for a good bob."

"But your lunch?"

"I'm not eating lunch at all nowadays. It ruins my girlish figger. After my hair is shingled and waved, I've got to do some shopping for tonight. Where ddi you get tickets for tonight?"

"The opera."

"O, Lord! Is it one of those old warhorses full of fat women who ought to be selling photographs in a dime museum?"

"Three cheers! Do we sit in a box?"

"Yes."

"Then I've got to try on my new clothes. I wired Francois to have some evening things ready to my measure. He'll have to take 'em in a little from last time for I've trained down twenty pounds. Then there are gloves to buy and some dancing slippers."

"We hadn't arranged a dance for your first night," sighed her son, a bank president. "We can go somewhere, I suppose, but I'm pretty busy."

"Don't worry. You can go to bed after the opera. On the train I met some very nice boys and they thought that Shade could whip Micky Walker. So they owe me a lot of money, and I agreed to take it out in trade. They're going to take me to a supper club after the opera. I dont' want to give you the least trouble. You mustn't have me on your mind. Good Lord, look at the time! You drop me at the Swede's and go on about your business. I'll be home in time for dinner. Tomorrow morning I've got to be up early and see my broker."

She hurried up the steps and her posterity followed her in amazement. She had been doing this same sort of thing for years. She lived in the West with her doting husband, whose partner she was in business, though she opposed him in politics and beat him at the primaries. She had been urged to run for congress, but she had said that she was too old-fashioned and could not confirm to the Puritanical ideals of the voters.

When she came to New York, her first sally was always upon the beauty parlors. When she was cleaned and polished and frizzed and dressed to the maximum, she made the rounds of the theaters, the opera houses, the art exhibitions, the concerts. She visited Wall street. She talked to the national political leaders.

She drank a little, smoked a lot, swore on occasion, and had provided her soul with so many shock-absorbers of tolerance and sympathy that she was not to be jolted, or filled with despair.

What syniciism she had acquired from her long experience of the world and its hypocrites, was a gay, optimistic cynicism. She was a good woman whose conduct was irreproachable except by those who consider that virtue is a ritual of avoidances. She ransacked life for its charms, plucked roses everywhere, laughed at the thorns, minded her own business, and wore herself out in giving pleasure to others and in taking it for herself wherever she could seize it without stealing it from anybody else.

She did not badger the young with stupid copy-book maxims; she did not concern herself with forcing even her grandchildren to conform to her own ideals. Her sense of humor kept her from making herself ridiculous. Her tact kept her from making herself a burden or a bore. Her sense of beauty kept her from being either dowdy or gaudy. She was none of your kittenish coquettes trying to mask severity under pretense of youth. She confessed her age, or boasted of it but defied it.

Her incessant endeavor was to learn all she could. She studied people, the papers the foreign news, politics, finance, sport, the arts. She had acquired two foreign languages after she was 50 and could run around Europe without an interpreter.

Shed espised both the old theories about women; the one that preached womans inferiority; and the one that prated of her divinity. She believed that woman was the equal of man so long as she proved it by her intelligence and her energy.

To her, the exquite frail type of old lady represented by Mrs. Brackett was something as horrible as her type was to Mrs. Brackett. She had an intense sympathy with the sick, the unfortunate, all those whom life has unfairly crippled.

But for those isbguised laziness as lady-likeness; for those who grew old before their time and made themselves feeble by their own torpor; for those who thought that age compelled invalidism, she had no patience.

She disgusted many of her neighbors by her unwillingness to settle down in a rocking chair and rock herself to death. To many people, the things she did were indecent—but only because they were done by a woman who had crossed the equator of years. They thought of her as abnormal, and she was certainly beyond the average in numberless ways. But she harmed nobody and helped herself to the best of life as long as it lasted.

Her type is less and less abnormal. When George Washington was president the average life of women was only 22. Today it is approaching 50. Even in the olden times there were women who lived to long years but would not be chloroformed by age.

The Cleopatra that maddened Mark Antony was 50 years old. The queen of love, Ninon de l'Enclos, was amorous at 90. Our own siren Betty Juuel, at 60 was theb ride of the ancient Aaron Burr, and outlived him to the age of 90.

But Granny Garnett was no royal favorite, no huntress of romance, no intriguer. She danced with boys and young men but only for athletic exercise and laughter; not as one of the cradle-snatchers desperately endeavoring to rekindle the neglected ashes of their home firesides.

"Grow old along with me
The best is yet to be,
The best of which the first
Was but the least and worst."

How much more wholesome, more brace, more sweet is such a soul than the doleful grandmothers of tradition who confess themselves crones at 50, who let their zeals and their zests go with their teeth and their eyes; who consider a futile knitting or crocheting of useless meshes as the only indoor sport available; who cower by a fire they cannot even tend, and search in the flames for the only bright pictures they can see; who turn their memories over and over as their only treasures!

It is the eternal miracle of life that strength grows by expenditure of strength; that one accumulates power by burning up one's tissues; that the best rest is a change of activity. The best way to escape death is to move fast enough to escape the sweep of the scythe. Love increased by exercise, joy is multiplied by division. Laughter is the most contagious of all plauges and most wholesome.

There is in our day a tremendous skepticism toward all the old proverbs and all the old moralities. We no longer believe that pleasure is unwholesome and sororw sacred. We have cast out the puritan as a model. We laugh at the ideals he cherished, the standards to which he sacrificed so much comfort as well as all common sense.

There is more than a little truth in the statement that the Puritan thought murder only half as immoral as love, because murder gives pleasure to only one; while love gives pleasure to both participants.

The other day, a scientific experiment showed that people sleep far more than they need to, and that too much sleep is a poisonous drug. Happiness is the best antiseptic there is for physical as well as mental toxins.

Another object of immemorial abuse to which infinite injustice has been done is fashion.

To be fashionable is an ideal that has rarely been praised and almost always ferociously condemned. But to be fashionable is only another form of being clean nowadays.

Changes of style are guarantees of mental cleanliness like white clothes. And the best of the modern fashions is that they grow more and more sane and wholesome, as well as more artistic.

The days have gone when women piled on their heads bushels of false hair in which all too often the cooties clustered; or let their own locks grow long enough to make human haystacks and coils of rope.

The coiffure of today is either bobbed or trimmed down to a moderate length and weight.

The steel corsets that made chaos of the insides and armor plate of the outsides have vanished.

The enormous sleeves, the balloon skirts with hoops of iron or throngs of petticoats, the bustles, and the baggage of rosettes and trimmings are no more.

Her mind is ranging the world with equal freedom. Woman is at last permitted to be, and encouraged to be, her best self.

The American idealists who founded our nation, builded better than they knew when they established as the three inalienable rights of humanity; life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. It is for the last that the other two exist.

The medieval woman eager to enlarge and improve her soul sought a cloistral loneliness for meditation. The modern woman more wisely turns to the beauty-shop as a preparation for the open world and seeks the best of life, not in solicitude but among the multitude.

Granny Garnett is simply the forerunenr of all future women. The girls of last century were old women at 30. The old women of our time are girls at 60. What will the future be?

Old Texas Hunting Law Is Discovered

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—A local justice of the peace has discovered in the law books a provision that seeks to prohibit hunting on Sundays within half a mile of a church, school house or private residence. A fine of not less than $10 nor more than $50 is provided for violation of the statute.

The law, however, appears to be silent of the question of hunting on week days within these prescribed limits.

Doing Over the House —By James J. Montague

Urdinarily we had to wait for him on the first tee. When five or six foursomes, a couple of threesomes and ten twosomes had gone off, he would show up, bragging about the sausages his Jap knew how to cook better than any one else on earth, although he came from a country where rice was the only known stimulant.

This time he was on the dot, and we wondered about it. Not only did we wonder, but we expressed our wonder in words and phrases. Bill soon enlightened me.

"You know," he said, "I am beginning to say, 'Thank Heaven!' every time I get a little teed and join in that song about 'there is no place like home.' I used to think the lowly thatched cot was the dearest spot on earth to me, but that was before the Misses decided that the place must be done over.

"I couldn't see any reason why it should be done over. There were places where a rain had come through and blotted the wall paper a little bit, to be sure, and there were a few spots where the wall paper had peeled off like an onion. But after all, home is where the heart is, and I had got so used to these things that I couldn't take my ease without looking at them.

"But after the Missis got back frfom Florence she was filled with color schemes and new ideas. For a week or two she was in consultation with an old German with new ideas who said "Yah! ah! Sehr gut." every time she batted a suggestion to him. By and by she came to me and said the whole thing would amount to $689.34, I asked her if she couldn't get him to knock off the .34 for prompt payment of the bill. She said she'd try, and that she hoped I wouldnt mind a little temporary inconvenience. I said I would do anything to please her, which was where I made my big mistake.

"Well, the next morning who should show up but a lot of Polacks, with stepladders and whitwash brushes, at seven a. m. and began to take all the furniture out of the living room, including the radio and rugs, and begin slashing the walls with what they called sizing.

"When I got home that night the living room and the dining room were out of commission, and the Jap had quit cold, allowing that the one thing he didn't come from Nagasaki to do was to get luncheon for a pack of foreigners.

"The next morning I started to parade in my pajamas out into the hall bathroom, where I have a shower that just hits me the right lick to suit me, when along comes three or four of these Polacks with buckets, and insist they want the bathtub to mix kalsomine in.

"I started on a battle with them, but when I got into the said bathroom and found the tub was full of a bright mauve mixture I decided to take my shower elsewhere.

"About the time I was getting dressed one of the gentry, the decorator had employed as an accomplice stuck his head in the door and asked me if I had any liquid glue.

"I requested him in what I considered polite language to wait until I could get my underwear on. He retired, and the next thing I heard was his announcement to his boss that he wouldnt be insulted by nobody and that as far as he was concerned the job was over and done.

"Pretty soon the boss stuck his head in the door and asked me mournfully but persistently if I would try to speak kindly to his help, inasmuch as they would quit at the drop of the hat, and he had already lost two of them on account of my rough talk.

"Except for the irritating swish of the brushes on the walls things were quiet for a while, and then it occurred to one of the decorators that hot water would work better than cold, and he went downstairs and tried to fire up the gas stove. This bird, being born in Poland didn't know anything about gas stoves, and he let the gas permeate the whole room before he lit a match.

When he did light it the back door just left its hinges and shot out into the yard next door, knocking over an Italian who is now suing me for damages. The Polack's beard also suffered alterations for which he claims a hundred dollars, and says he will get it if there is any law in this land of the free.

"The next morning, the Jap having quit I allow that I will go down into the kitchen and get a bite of breakfast for the family. But when I got down into the kitchen there are three kettles of sizing and one of glue bubbling merrily on the gas stove, and when I try to take one of them off so as to substitute a frying pan, the boss kalsominer serves notice on me that if I interfere with his men he will call a strike and the house will be left as it is.

"Well, we could have stood that and got our meals over here if it hadn't been for the fact that the mechanics got their work done a little before they expected and breezed into our bedroom one morning with their brushes and their ladders and invites us to step out while they prepared the walls for beautifying.

"By pleading we managed to get ten minutes grace to put on our clothes and hunt for our tooth brushes but as soon as we had got into our bath robes we were chased downstairs into the living room, and told that if we stepped on the fresh varnish the boss would not do it over again without charging us for extra time.

"We couldn't get into the kitchen because all the dining room furniture was piled there, and we couldn't get into the dining room because the floor was too sticky to walk on.

"And worst of all we couldn't go through the hall because they had just put some kind of top dressing on the boards, which meant that we had to lower ourselves out of the windows to get out of the house at all.

"Well, the family decided to stay there, and this morning I threw in some delicatessen stuff through the second story windows which they ate avidily and were glad to get it.

"I came over here, and I am going to stay here until it is all over. The telephone is still working so I can find out what they need and throw it to them a couple of times a day. They will have to eat it cold of course because they don't dare go into the kitchen. But they were the ones that wanted the house decorated, not me. I would rather starve than go back there, till it's all over, and I don't mind telling you that I hate starving, having been once cast away on a desert island.

"I suppose the house will be very beautiful and up to date when it's all over. And maybe after a while I will go back there and live. But just at present I am glad that I put up a vast sum of money to join this club and regard it as the best investment that I have ever made in my life."

$1000.00 IN CASH GIVEN TO WINNERS

Notice!

The cut of the Elephant shown is the same that has been used throughout the entire campaign. Several times the print has been dimmed or blurred, but the original has always been the same. If your copy is dim or blurred, call at The Record News and we will give you another FREE!

The white spot in the center is a number that has been removed so that the correct solution is only in the hands of The Record News.

WHAT IS THE WEIGHT OF THE ELEPHANT

25 Cash Prizes!

Try Your Skill Now!

What Is the Sum Total of the Figures Forming the Elephant?

Simply Add Them Up to Get the Solution

There are no marks, lines or characters in the elephant figures. These figures range from 2 to 9, each standing alone.. There are no "ones" or "ciphers." There are no groups of figures such as "23" or "42". The heads of the "6's" are distinctly curved while the tails of the "9's" are straight, or practically so. There is no trick or illusion of any description in the chart.

General Rules of the Contest

This competition is open to all residents of the state of Texas and Oklahoma, except employes of The Record News and members of their families.

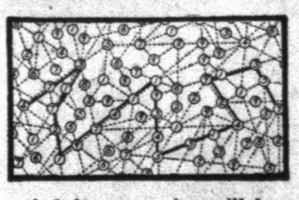

Contestants may submit as many different solutions as they desire provided a payment of one of the amounts designated in the prize list shall accompany each solution. NO SOLUTION UNACCOMPANIED BY A SUBSCRIPTION PAYMENT WILL BE REGISTERED.

The Record News offers these prizes for individual effort. While it is proper for members of one household to work together or several friends, it is not permissible for more than one of those working in unison to send a solution of the puzzle. When in the judgment of the contest manager more than one member of the same family, or more than one of any number of persons he believes have worked together send in a solution of the puzzle, he reserves the right to refund subscriptions and return the solutions he believes have been submitted contrary to the foregoing rule. The Record News reserves the right to reject any solutions it believes have not been submitted under proper conditions. The Record News also reserves the right to finally decide any other questions or points which may arise and those entering the contest agree to abide by such decisions.

In the event of ties on this puzzle, as many prizes will be reserved as there are contestants tied, before any prizes are awarded for a less correct solution. For instance, if five people were tied on the best solution, the first five prizes will be reserved for them and they would be awarded the prizes in accordance with the standing of their solutions of the second puzzle. That is, the one submitting the best solution of the second puzzle would receive the first prize; the one submitting the next best, the second, and so on.

Subscriptions may be NEW or RENEWALS. Both count the same.

DECIDING TIES

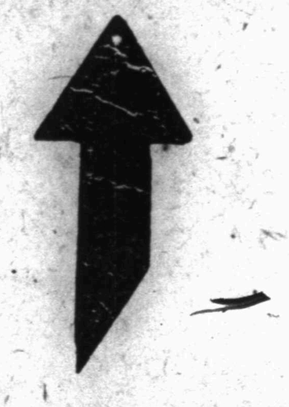

In case of ties those tied for any prize will be presented with a second puzzle, which will consist of drawing a line across the face of the chart of figures, like the accompanying chart, only larger, so that the figures thus connected when added together will total the greatest sum. If necessary this chart will be used four times, after which, should any ties remain, each contestant will receive full value of any prize tied for.

In case there are no ties on counting the Elephant no other puzzle, of course, will be presented.

HERE ARE THE PRIZES

Subscription Information

Payment for not less than three months or not more than twelve months subscription to The Record News must be sent with each solution. The payment can apply on your own subscription or can be made by or apply to another person's subscription.

Subscriptions can be new or renewals, both count the same. A new subscription is an order from a person who is not now taking The Record News. A renewal is a payment made by a person who is now taking The Record News from a carrier, an agent or direct from The Record News office by mail.

Two six months' subscriptions or four three months' subscriptions will count the same as one twelve month subscription.

A person who is now taking The Record News and paying agent or carrier by the month, can send in a three, six or twelve months' subscription to the puzzle manager with a solution. Carrier or agent will be notified of payment by The Record News and your subscription account will be credited accordingly.

Here Are the Subscription Rates of The Record News

By carrier in Texas and Oklahoma $7.00 per year. $3.50 six months, $1.80 for three months.

Regular mail rates in Texas and Oklahoma are $6.00 a year. $3.50 six months, $1.75 for three months.

CLOSING DATE

The Great Elephant Puzzle Contest Will Close At Nine P. M. Saturday, November 14, 1925.

The earlier you send in your solution the longer time you will have to go over your figures, AND SEND IN ANOTHER SOLUTION, if you find you can do better. Additional charts may be secured at any time by calling at the address below or sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope for mailing them. No SOLUTION CAN BE CHANGED AFTER IT HAS BEEN ONCE REGISTERED.

Important Facts to Remember

While the amount you pay with a solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning a prize, it does affect the amount you will receive, should you win one of the first nine prizes, as the value of these prizes is determined by what the winners pay.

The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning a prize. Accuracy is what counts.

Not more than one prize will be awarded to any one person.

Mid-Continent Oil Situation Is "Healthiest" In Four Years

"BALANCED" IS SAID OF STATUS HERE

Runs to Stills Decreased From 65,000 Barrels To 50,000 a Day

STOCKS NOT LARGE

Crude Premiums Force Little Fellows to Suspend Operations

The Mid-Continent crude and refined oils situation is healthier than it has been at any time in the past four years, according to the opinion expressed by Wichita Falls refiners. The situation is characterized as a "desirable balance." The crude oil market is in such state that there must be considerable softening both in Group III and north Texas before refiners will increase their already low runs to stills; stocks, although large, are low enough for this period of the year, and demand is great enough to forestall their becoming excessive if runs to stills are not increased.

Crude Runs Decrease

Forty-one refineries reporting in north and central Texas show a drop in the last three weeks of between 15,000 and 40,000 barrels a day in the runs. Three weeks and a month ago the daily figure was anywhere from 65,000 to 85,000 barrels a day. This last week figures showed only 50,000 barrels a day. Several of the smaller plants had shut down, finding themselves unable to compete with the major refineries on the basis of bearish gasoline market and bullish crude market. Forced as they were to buy crude oil at from a 12 to 13-cent premium last week against a price which hung around nine cents a gallon for new navy runs were reduced to meet actual demand or operation suspended altogether pending a softening of the spot crude market or a rise in the gasoline offerings.

New navy motor fuel, 58-60, end point 437, was quoted in Chicago Sunday morning at 9 1-2 cents a gallon; 56-58, end point 450, brought 9 cents. These prices have nearly prevailed in north Texas for the past few days with 9 1-4 and 9 1-2 cent range prevailing on the new navy. The higher gravities, notably the 64-66 grades, are in demand for export. Atlantic, Carson, Sinclair and others have taken several sizeable orders from the district, prices ranges from 12 to 12 1-4 cents. Kerosene is fair at 4 7-8 to 5 cents. Fuel oil has brought $1.30 for the last 10 days in north Texas.

Garber Threatens

The crude market is regarded as steady in this section of the country, possible development at Garber being the only threat on the horizon. Roger Babson, eastern financial writer, in his forecast for November remarks that reductions expected during October failed to materialize may come in November if the Garber threat takes definite shape. There is little likelihood of tank-wagon or retail gasoline increases, due to the condition of the crude market, subject to a drop at most any time, and a disinclination to further antagonize the public by putting up the cost of its gasoline. With the major refiners able to buy crude at from 10 to 15 cents lower than the smaller independents, and able to manufacture their gasoline less expensively there is even a possibility of a tankwagon cut, although this is regarded as hardly probable.

As it stands the market is steady and well balanced, a description that has not been accorded it in the past four years until now.

Germans and French Seek Loans in U. S.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP).—A loan to France and possibly to Germany is impending in Wall street, in the view of financial experts. The belief as regards France has been intensified with receipt of news from Washington that despite failure of the French debt negotiations the state department will place no obstacles in the way o floans to stabilize the franc.

Possibility of loans to Germany is seen in Berlin dispatches telling of reports of proposals to give Germany such financial accommodations in New York and London as will enable her to extend long time credits for capturing Russian and eastern European markets.

DIJON, France, Nov. 7.—(AP)—An outraged parent who brought suit for damages against a barber for bobbing his daughters hair got no sympathy from the court. His claim was rejected and he was condemned to pay the costs of the action.

News of the Fields

Trahan, Finley

G. P. Trahan No. 1, Finley, located in the Abner Nails survey, abstract 325, southeast of Holliday, north Archer county, was shut down yesterday at 1,620 feet after passing up 15 feet of sand which failed to show enough to make a well at a depth of 1,595-1,610 feet. It is intended to start up again Sunday or Monday and finish up the well.

O'Donohoe-Gates, Putnam

O'Donohoe and Gates No. 1, Mary Putnam Bishop, south of Iowa Park in the Netherly survey, southern Wichita county, was reported coring a sand showing some oil yesterday at a depth of 1,804 feet. The well had previously tested salt water in two attempts to make a well in sand at 1,786-89 feet.

Landreth, Waggoner

Landreth Production corporation's No. M-1, Waggoner, in the northeast corner of the southwest quarter of section 47, block 2, H&TCRRCO survey, exactly 2,400 feet east of the old Beatty well had a hole partially full of oil from the pay, a sandy lime topped at 2,360 feet. It was intended to work with the well some more before putting it on the pump. Estimates on probable production generally gave the well about 50 barrels.

Gipsy, Seay

Reports from south Jefferson county on the big Gypsy well of a fortnight ago were somewhat hazy yesterday, but it was understood in Wichita Falls that the well was doing about 30 barrels an hour of which a considerable portion was water. The well at one time was making close to 5,000 barrels a day of clean oil from sand below 1,400 feet.

Superior, Kinder

Superior Oil Producing company and T. J. Pyle were not expected to get their casing in the hole and bail before Sunday on their No. 3, Kinder, lot 58, block 5, Clark and Plumb, east of Archer City. Some 1,000 feet of pipe was on the ground but the rest was held up at Archer City on account of the wet roads. A core showing lots of oil was taken at 1,291 feet.

Electra Oil Mine

E. M. Carter, engineer the Panhandle Refining company's oil mine project south of Electra, western Wichita county, reports trouble in working in the shaft of the mine, some 100 feet or more deep during the wet weather, due to the difficulty in getting the gas out of the shaft and the tunnel beneath in the heavy air. In the last 30 days just four have been fit for working in the shaft. The lateral tunneling underneath the sand has reached a point about 40 feet back, according to Carter.

Caldwell Area

The Caldwell well itself is reported to have done 30 barrels in the first three hours on the pump yesterday, a complete gauge for the day being unavailable.

Oldham Area

Texhoma Oil and Refining company has spudded and is drilling on its No. A-1, Oldham, in the northeast corner of the most easterly portion of its lease on the Eliza Hubble survey, abstract 1128, southeast of the discovery well, and offsetting the Consolidated ten acres to the west.

Consolidated Oil company's No. 1, Oldham, in the northwest corner of the ten acres just east of Texhoma, Hubble survey, Oldham area, after several delays was reported spudding yesterday.

Petroleum Producers and Primrose Refining company have a derrick up and will move a rig on when the roads permit in the northeast corner of the east 20 acres of the north 40 of the east 80 acres of the SP&RRCO survey, section 1, abstract 415, west of the well.

SE Baylor County

Petroleum Producers and Cranfill have spudded and are drilling on their No. 4, Mills, located in the northwest corner of the southwest quarter of 2427, TE&LCO survey, north of the No. 1, discovery well on the tract.

Both locations to the south of the drilling test are wells, while the No. 3, a location east of that furthest south is a dry hole.

Montague County

Texhoma Oil and Refinery company's No. 5, Howard, located in the Finis Robertson survey, north of Nocona, is fishing at a depth of 2,235 feet in hard lime. The well is the furthest north of the group of five tests here, all located in a line in a space of a little more than 300 feet.

Throckmorton County.

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company's No. 3, Reynolds Land and Cattle company, located in lot 57, Comanche Indian reserve, in southern Throckmorton county, is down below a depth of 2,380 feet and drilling, formation being shale at that depth.

Wichtex-Dixie, Jackson

Wichtex Oil company and Dixie Oil company No. 2, Jackson, in lot 63, W. B. Aldridge survey, north of Archer City, north Archer county, was down below 1,493 feet early yesterday and expected to be looking for the sand just below 1,540 feet some time during the day. The outcome of this test is of vital importance in the development of the new pool opened by the Wichtex-Dixie No. 1, as dry holes rather effectively shut off its spread in any other direction.

Clay County

Sawyer and Morton were down below 840 feet and drilling yesterday on their No. 1, Hughes, in section 2, block 2, Clark and Plumb sub-division western Clay county.

Murchison and Fain's 3,500-foot cable tools test on the Halsell ranch, east of Windthorst, is reported down about 1,300 feet and drilling.

DEVELOPMENT LEADS WEEK FOR N. TEXAS

Little Wildcat Interest Materializes in Seven Days

SUN POOL FEATURES

Four New Wells Are Completed South of Megargel

A dearth of new wildcat development, only compensated by completions in the newer pools and a rounding out of activity in the areas opened by successful completions of the preceding fortnight, was the outstanding characteristic of the past week in the north Texas oil fields. This week passed with hardly a tremor; there was a dry hole reported just east of one of the recent wildcat wells, four new wells in the area south of Megargel, and the usual batch of wildcat disappointments. Outside of these the week showed little to excite interest.

There was some improvement noted in the marketing end of the business during the week, with several sizeable export orders of gasoline leaving the territory. Fuel oil was strong, too, with possibly the ordinary motor fuel the weakest item.

Three Sales Reprted.

There were three sales of consequence reported, and at this writing another known to be pending the close of an option on one of the older producing tracts in the district. Sunshine Consolidated Oil company sold one tract of 120 acres with 12 wells making about 150 barrels a day to W. J. Sheldon at Electra for $147,000, and another to Bridwell and Heydrick for $156,000. Magnolia Petroleum company purchased the Barkley and Meadows 53 acres in sections 74 and 75, Red River valley lands, with nine wells, and an undivided half interest in another 14 wells for a consideration of $72,800.

Four new wells were reported in the new Sun company pool south of Megargel, in the southwest portion of Archer county. With the close of the preceding week this area had shown two wells, the discovery and its east offset, both possibly 120 barrel completions of the Sun company on the north line of the northeast quarter of block 2425, the No. 2, being in the northeast corner and the No. 1, just a location west.

The New Wells.

Pandem Oil Corporation's No. 1, J. A. Young, a north offset to the discovery well, in block 2432, made a well, estimated at about 150 barrels on the pump from sand at 1,437-42 feet. Pandem-Simms No. 1, Cockrell, in the southwest corner of the block 2433, on which the Megargel townsite is located, two locations east of the Pandem well and a northeast offset to the Sun company's No. 2, made a 100-barrel well from sand at 1,440-45 feet. A south offset to this well, Gulf Production company's No. 1, W. T. Richardson, did eighty barrels on the pump in 24 hours from sand at 1,438-43 feet.

Two locations south of the Sun's No. 2, in the southeast corner of the north portion of that company's lease in block 2425, Sun Oil company's No. 3, looks at this writing like 100 barrels from sand at 1,445-52 feet, indicating a slight drop in the sand level in this dir ection. South of this well Simms Oil company has set and cemented casing on a sand at a depth of 1,417-30 feet. It is, it is believed, the upper sand which the Sun Oil company tested in the discovery well to the north and found salt water. In the discovery well the sand was found at a depth 1,416-22 feet, but a difference in surface elevation gives a rise in the sand horizon of about four or five feet in favor of the Simms well. This coupled with the fact that seven feet of solid sand was drilled in the Simms well gives the test a favorable outlook to some, although a core in the well to the north, Sun's No. 3, at about the same depth showed white and salty.

New Locations.

Following the completions for producers Pandem-Simms moved a location north of their No. 1, Cockrell for their No. 2; Gulf moved east for its No. 2, Hayter; Sun company offset its discovery well to the west with its No. 4, and made a location for No. 5, between Nos. 2 and 3. Pandem moved its rig into the southeast corner of 2432 for No. 2, Young.

South of these wells in another interesting portion of southwest Archer county Magnolia Petroleum company is down below 1,300 feet and drilling on its No. 2, Cowden-Portwood, offsetting its No. 1, a west offset to the Jones et al. discovery to the west, and should be down on the sand in a day or two. No. 3, Cowden-Portwood, north of the No. 1, is down 1,200 feet or thereabouts. In the southeast corner of the north 20 acres of the Darilek farm in 1582, a short distance south and west of the Cullum et al. dry hole on the Brazina of last week Merrick et al. are down below 500 feet and drilling on their No. 1, which is to tell if the pool penned by the big Trio producers is to have any expense in the northwesterly direction. The Merrick well is given a god chance by those who assume that the pool "has to go somewhere," but others, more experienced possibly in Archer county lore dispute the fact that pools "have to go anywhere," and give the well only an outside chance to make a producer.

In southeast Baylor county Cranfill and Petroleum Producers No. 3, Mills, second locations east from the southwest corner of the north portion of their lease in the southwest quarter of block 2427 has been abandoned at 1,500 feet and the rig moved to the northwest corner of the same tract for the No. 4, a location north of the No. 1, first well on the lease.

Marland, Krupka.

East of Swastika Marland Oil company is fishing again on its No. 3, Krupka, in the south portion of the big block, this time below 2,800 feet. No. 5 is rigged up and should be spudded by this time, well located 750 feet each way from the southwest corner of the survey, J. Scott survey, abstract 374.

East of Olney in north Young county four disappointments prevented the realization of any aspirations the Texhoma Oil and Refining company and others may have had for the linking up the Olney townsite pool and that opened by Clark et al. on the Leath to the east of Olney. A south offset to the Clark well was dry by Clark et al., No. 1, Campbell; a west offset by Shaw and Rathke on the Texhoma fee was dry, a northwest offset by Texhoma, fee, was dry and a southwest offset by Gulf dry. A short distance to the east, however, in the northwest corner of block 232, Texas Unity's No. 1, Sloan, made a 100-barrel well or thereabouts from sand around 1,010 feet. Texas Unity is offsetting to the north on the C. West farm, Clark et al., to the west on the Leath, and Murchison and Fain are starting a well to the north on the west.

S. E. Litchfield Pool.

Further east of Olney, southeast of the Litchfield pool in the new area opened by the Camp Oil and Gas company and the Texhoma Oil and Refining company Texhoma-Camp and Tidal both reported wells. Texhoma's No. 3 and No. 4 both made wells of better than 100 barrels from sand around 895 feet. No. 3 is two locations north and one east of the discovery and No. 4 one east of No. 3, No. 2 is on the sand at this writing and setting casing to test, depth of 895 feet. It is a north offset to the discovery.

Tidal's east offset to the discovery is credited with swabbing better than 200 barrels from sand just shallower than 900 feet.

Southwest of Olney Rosser and Pembleton No. 3, Cathey, in block 68, T. E. & L. Co. survey, is the best well ever completed in that area, estimated at 100 barrels from sand at 1,089-95 feet. It swabbed considerably in excess of that figure.

Oldham Area.

A fair amount of activity is under way in the rough broken country around Texhoma Oil and Refining company-Anderson - Pritchard's Oldham wildcat southeast of the Comae pool in southwest Archer county. The well itself pumped 70 barrels initial from sand at 1,345 feet. It is located 200 feet north and west of the southwest corner of the S. P. R. R. Co. survey, abstract 1281, section 2, in the Elize Hubble survey, abstract 1128. An east offset by Texhoma, No. 1, Abercrombie and Taylor, in the southwest corner of the S. P. R. R. Co. survey, section 2, is a rig. Texhoma's No. 2 Oldham, in the northeast corner of the southern portion and most easterly portion to their lease, Hubble survey, is a location. Consolidated Oil company have a rig up and should be spudded in the northwest corner of a 10-acre tract just east of this location, while to the west of the discovery Petroleum Producers and Primrose Refining company are reported rigging up on a test in a twenty acre tract on the Wolf farm, S. P. R. R. Co. survey, abstract 415, section 1.

East Archer County.

East Archer county advocates are somewhat pepped up over a sand found at 1,291 feet in the Superior-T. J. Pyle No. 3, Kinder, in lot 58, Clark and Plumb subdivision, block 5, east of Archer City, where a six-inch core taken at that depth showed plenty of oil. The well is located just 300 feet north of the old No. 1, which had a similar showing at a depth some four feet lower, but due to casing trouble et cetera failed to make a well. A second well was drilled to the south but this failed to get anything like as good a showing. The third well was sent to the north and the sand picked up high. Failure to make a producer here will be something of a disappointment and will beb a hard blow to this section of the county which has seen mote honest effort with fewer results obtained, possibly than any section of north Texas. Reilly et al. No. 1, Welhelm, in section 94, Clark and Plumb block 4, tested salt water in sand below 1,100 feet and were last reported drilling deeper. In line with other east Archer development across the line in western Clay county Sawyer and Morton No. 1, Hughes, section 6, block 2, Clark and Plumb, is down 640 feet and drilling.

Caldwel District.

In the Caldwell area north of Archer City the second completion in the district is a dry hole. Across a 10 east of the single producer Maer and Staniforth No. 1, Hutchinson, in the northwest corner of lot 7, block 123, A. T. N. C. L., is a salt water in sand topped at a depth of 1,390 feet. The hole was drilled deeper and abandoned and the rig is moving over to the northeast corner of the west 60 acres of the east 80 acres of the Young and Langford tract, southwest of the well, Jose Octane survey for those operators' second test in the area. Simmonds et al. have started a northwest offset to the lone producer, this being in the southeast corner of lot 17, spudded and drilling. Mahlstedt and Mook No. 1, Hutchinson, west of the well in the north half of lot 18 is a rig; Caldwel et al. No. 2, Hutchinson, south of the well, is spudded and drilling; Burns and Maxson No. 1, Wisdom, in the Wisdom tract, southeast of the well, is spudded and drilling.

Maer and Staniforth bought the west 60 of the east 80 of the Young and Langford tract mentioned above early in the week for a consideration of $250 an acre, cash, from Caldwell, while the remainder of the same survey to the west went to Phillips Petroleum company for $125 an acre.

Barkley-Meadows Area.

In the Barkley and Meadows are Barkley and Meadows are reported completing their No. 15, Wilson, on sand below 1,500 feet. Lomax No. 9 is a 120-barrel well, sand at 1,501-25 feet. Lomax and Staley and Wynne No. 3 Wilson, in the northeast corner of the 37 acres had its boiler blow up early in the week when it was down hardly a hundred feet, destroying the rig. The well was rigging up to begin over again at the end of the week.

South of Holliday G. P. Trahan No. 1, Finley, Nails survey, abstract 155, was last reported down to 1,555 feet looking for the sand, after passing up a streak at about 1,400 feet.

Two other wildcats that promise some interest are on the Turbeville tract, one by Consolidated Oil company in the southeast corner of the northwest quarter of block 141, Robert Carson survey, down to 1,000 feet and drilling and another by Roy I. Carter in block 174, rigged up and spudding. Consolidated is also rigging up on a wildcat in the Mangold tract in northwest Archer county.

Wichtex-Dixie Area.

An interesting area, after the fashion of "interesting if true" is seen in the Wichtex-Dixie district on the Annie P. Jackson farm, W. B. Aldridge survey, north of Archer City. There in lot 131, Wichtex Oil company and Dixie Oil company have a 20-barrel oil well or thereabouts with about an equal amount of water from sand below 1,560 feet. To the west Gulf Production company has started a well in lot 130, of the same survey. To the southwest in lot 63, Wichtex-Dixie are down below 1,400 feet on their second well. Carter and Shipley have made a location for a test to the south on the Wilson and W. B. Grisham has a rig up for a test in the northwest corner of lot 65 southwest of the well. Dry holes pretty well define any area that the line producer may have opened to the north and east and if there is anything of consequence in the district one of these holes drilling and starting up now should find it.

Generally speaking Wichita county is quiet. Between Holliday and Iowa Park on the Netherly survey O'Donohoe and Gates No. 1, Putnam, tested sand at 1,786-89 feet twice and showed salt water both times. White Brothers and Jackson No. 1, Olds, in section 25, H. & T. C. R. R. Co. survey, southwest Wichita county, is dry and abandoned at 2,008 feet.

Wilbarger county reported a showing in Landreth Production company's M-1, in section 47, block 2, east of the old Beatty well. Sandy lime at 2,360 feet gives every indication of making a small well. Humble has a well in section 46, block 4, east of the Prairie producer, estimated at possibly 100 barrels from the 2,300-foot pay. There were a number of purchases in the neighborhood of these tests during the week, the aggregate consideration possibly totaling $1,000,000, the acreage in every instance being undeveloped but regarded as semi-proven. The number of sands to be found here combines with other circumstances to bring an exceedingly high price for the acreage. This reached $3,000 an acre, half cash and half oil in the case of some stuff the Humble acquired.

Miscellaneous Reports.

Across the river in Southern Jefferson county, Oklahoma, Gypsy's No. 1, Oscar Seay, a 4,000-barrel well a few days ago is down to about 500 barrels of oil and a third that much water after taking too much sand in an attempt to better it.

In Throckmorton county Southern Exploration company is down 1,300 feet in its No. 1, Stephens, center of lot 23, Colorado county school lands; Hoyle et al. are down 700 feet in their No. Cockrell, nearby.

In Collingsworth county near Wellington Continental Oil company is down 2,415 feet in its No. 1, Hughes-Hutchinson county reported two new wells aggregating 1,500 barrels. One of these, that of McIlroy Brothers on the Smith on the northeast edge of the field did 1,050 barrels in 24 hours after a shot in the usual pay; the other, Smith et al. No. 1, Taylor, swabbed 336 barrels in 14 hours from the same horizon.

Some little excitement has been occasioned as a result of a reported showing at 2,805 feet in the Benedum-Trees well on the Wheat farm southwest of Quanah some six or seven miles. It is an old job taken over from the old Sigler interests at about 2,600 feet, and carried to 2,805 feet with a hole full of water at which time a sand carrying a good showing of oil and gas was obtained. A string of five and three-sixteenths is to be run and the showing tested.

TEXHOMA PAYS $100,000 FOR OLDHAM TRACT

Buys Remaining Half Interest From Anderson-Prichard

Texhoma Oil and Refining company yesterday noon completed purchase of a half interest in one well and 280 acres owned half and half jointly with Anderson-Prichard Oil corporation in southwest Archer county. The well, a wildcat completion on the Oldham tract, southeast of the Megargle, is about a 70-barrel producer. Consideration was $100,000 cash. The deal gives Texhoma complete title to the block and leaves Anderson-Prichard, an Oklahoma concern, some 300 acres in another block nearby.

R. Olsen, manager of the land department of the Anderson-Prichard corporation, acted for that company in closing the deal.

Fifth Well Is Completed For S. E. Litchfield

Texhoma Oil and Refining company and Camp Oil and Gas company swabbed 135 barrels of oil from sand at a depth of 895-905 feet in their No. 2, Campbell, north of the discovery well in block 1483, TE&LCO survey, southeast of the Litchfield district. No. 5, a location further north, is drilling past 500 feet. No. 8, south of the discovery well is rigging up. No. 6, north of No. 4, which is in the southeast corner of the north portion of the lease is rigging up. No. 7, north of No. 3, which is a location west of No. 4, is also rigging up.

North Texas Oil Production Jumps 2,000 in a Week

North Texas production increased nearly 2,000 barrels during the past week, a daily average compiliation by a leading pipe line company shows. The figure, which shows the second consecutive increase in two weeks, is the result of considerable field storage going into line, this being always incident to the last of the month.

District	This Week	Week Before
Electra	17,345	17,186
Burkburnett	13,725	13,595
Iowa Park	5,325	5,810
Archer County	34,995	34,140
Clay County	373	385

MAGNOLIA SALE RUMORS CAN'T BE CONFIRMED

Officials at Dallas Will Not Deny or Confirm Deal

REPORTS CURRENT

Standard of New York Increases its Capital Stock

Reports current in north Texas that the Standard of New York has purchased the remaining 51 per cent of the Magnolia Petroleum company's stock, remain unconfirmed. Nor denied, for that matter, either. The Dallas News of Saturday carries the following comment on the reported transaction:

"Reports circulated in New York since Monday, through newspaper publication and stock market channels, that the Standard Oil company of New York had bought the 51 per cent of Magnolia Petroleum company's stock not already held by the purchasing company, were strengthened Thursday with the announcement that the Standard of New York has increased its capital from $235,000,000 to $375,000,000.

"This is in accord with early reports of the alleged sale which said the transaction was completed on the basis of four shares of Standard of New York stock for each share of Magnolia company stock purchased, par values of the two stocks being $25 and $100, respectively, with present market quotations for Standard at $45 and for Magnolia at $170.

Transaction Details Lacking

"Officials of the Magnolia Petroleum company in Dallas Thursday would neither affirm nor deny the report of the purchase of the stock by the Standard of New York. It has been assumed by some of the officials and department heads that reports of the sale were accurate, though none of these was prepared to give out details of the transaction.

"We have no information except that which has been reported in New York, said William C. Proctor, vice president and treasurer of the company.

"The Magnolia Petroleum company is capitalized at $188,000,000, the company having been organized under a trust agreement. Some years ago the Standard of New York acquired something over 49 per cent of the stock which it has held. The Magnolia company operates in the production, refining, pipe line and marketing departments in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana. The company's headquarters is in the Magnolia building in Dallas. Its principal refineries are at Beaumont and Corsicana. The company started in the shallow fields of Corsicana over 25 years ago with a few small wells.

Officers of Magnolia

"Officers of the Magnolia company are E. R. Brown, president; B. H. Stephens, ice president general manager; W. H. Francis, ice president general attorney; A. S. Hardwicke, assistant general attorney; W. C. Proctor, vice president treasurer; F. V. Faulkner, ice president manager production department; D. C. Stewart, ice president manager pipe line repartment; A. C. Ebie, vice president manager sales department; W. L. Holmes, W. E. Elliott, L. S. Sinclair, G. A. Young Jr., R. J. Blackburn, Roland Martin, D. A. Little, E. N. Johnson, W. H. Johnson and G. L. Johnson, assistant treasurers, and E. D. Smith, general auditor.

"The Standard Oil company of New York, reported purchaser of the Magnolia Petroleum company, is not affected by Texas laws which affect other Standard Oil organizations but can operate in Texas if its officials desire it. New York reports relating to the alleged sale gave no information as to whether the company, if purchased by the Standard of New York, would operate under that name or under the present name of the Magnolia company.

Gardner Purchases Controlling Interest In Wichita Falls Ball Club

Harvey Turns Spudder Reins To First Lieutenant, Retains Few Shares, and Remains On Directors' Board

J. Alvin Gardner, business associate of R. O. Harvey who has been connected with the Wichita Falls baseball team of the Texas league since the old Waco franchise was purchased six years ago and brought to this city, succeeds the latter as president of the Spudders.

That is the gist of an announcement emanating from Spudder headquarters Saturday, the outcome of declaration by Mr. Harvey carried in The Record News sports columns more than a month ago to effect the Spudder mogul intended to sell controlling interest in the club and sever active baseball connections.

It was said at the time of the declaration that Harvey's love for the game and civic pride would not let him retire, and that he was "not so sure" of relinquishing the Spudder helm. But the deal was closed this week, according to statement by Harvey himself, whereby Gardner purchases a controlling interest and succeeds to the presidency of the club. However, Harvey retains a portion of the stock and remains as a member of the board of directors.

Harvey Willing to Help.

Harvey reiterated his statement published in the Record News on occasion of that first announcement that he hasnt time to devote to efficient handling of the club affairs, and because of this and the fact he was in poor health the past season will turn the reins over to Gardner.

The retiring president declared that all business connections with the Chicago National league club and the Seattle Pacific Coast league club will be retained and he will aid Gardner in every possible way toward bringing Wichita Falls a winner.

Harvey expressed it his opinion that the Spudders are valuable to Wichita Falls and compose the city's greatest advertising asset. He declared the team attracts many people of Wichita Falls' trade territory to the city, and that it puts Wichita Falls, figuratively speaking, on the map with the rest of Texas' leading cities. He expressed hope that Wichita Falls will continue to support the Spudders.

Harrey has retired, true, but his love of baseball and interest in Wichita Falls has checkmated him in his decision to quit cold. And it is through this feeling for the game and the fact he has the city's interests at heart that he was prevailed upon to retain shares in the club and remain as a director, said the new president.

Harvey Made Great Record.

In the six years that Harvey controlled the club it has never finished out of the first division unless you take into consideration the combination standing of twin halves of the 1924 season. The team was fourth in the first half and third in the last, but composite tabulation gave it fifth place. The Spudders' record over that span of six years has been better than that of any other club for the same period with exception of the Fort Worth Panthers, six-time champions.

That the Spudders will continue as successful under the guidance of Gardner seems assured, for in the vernacular of the street; "he certainly appears to know his onions," in connection with the national pastime.

Gardner was born April 18, 1890, in Beaumont. He was educated in Beaumont high schools, later attended prep school and finished at Beaumont business college. He worked at Spindle Top, three miles south of Beaumont, where the first oil of any consequence in the southwest was discovered in January, 1900, by the famous Lucas gusher which flowed between forty and fifty thousand barrels per day. Growing up in Beaumont during the oil boom, naturally his vocation was the oil business at which he has served in all departments, both field and office. He was first employed regularly by the Gulf oil interests in 1907 and remained with this corporation until Jan. 1, 1924, when he formed the partnership at which he is now employed, R. O. Harvey, L. H. Cullum and J. A. Gardner. During his long stay with the Gulf company, 17 years, he was transferred from one boom town to the other, having lived during the booms at Beaumont, Houston, Shreveport, Tampico, Mex., Fort Worth and Wichita Falls.

Gardner Always Interested.

Gardner first came to Wichita Falls in 1918 during the Burkburnett oil rush, and served as local manager for the Gulf company five years. He became interested in the Spudders when the first petition was started to raise money with which to buy the Waco franchise in 1920, but did not take an active interest in the business end of the ball club until he left the Gulf company to become associated with Harvey. Since that time in addition to his oil interests he has been first lieutenant to Harvey in handling the affairs of the club, and during last summer when Harvey was forced to go to the Mayo clinic, Gardner acted as president, and worked exceedingly hard to help the Spudders stay in the race.

Gardner has never played professional baseball, but has been one of the closest students of the game in the south. It is said he is better posted on the averages, conditions and even ages of more ball players than any man in Texas. His excellent memory enables him to roll off without hesitancy the record of almost any baseball player of any prominence mentionable.

During his boyhood days, Gardner played quite a bit of semi-professional baseball in addition to being captain of his high school team. Some say his ability as a catcher enabled him to locate his first job with the Gulf company, on whose team he played at Beaumont and acted as manager. During his first year of work with the Gulf, one of the Texas league club owners sent him a baseball contract, but he returned it, remaining with the Gulf and forsaking baseball for the oil business of which he climbed to the top by hard work and constant application.

Back to First Love.

But now that he has become financially successful at the oil business he has turned to his first love and has purchased a controlling interest in the Spudders. His many friends, for Gardner is very popular, no doubt if asked their opinion of him will tell you that because of his determination, hard work, and pleasing personality should make the club a good president.

On the face of it, owning a ball club and loking after drilling rigs and oil properties combined appears to be quite a task. But with Gardner's energy and love for both games there appears little doubt but that he will make a success of the club band continue to succeed in oil.

Gardner says he wants people and fans of the Wichita Falls district to know and feel that the Spudders are their team, and that his office in the Harvey-Snider building is always open for visitors. He declares it will "tickle him to death to fan with 'em all."

"I've been a grandstand manager all my life and I can see the situation now from both sides, and I'm open for suggestions and discussions at all times," Gardner smiled. Which leads one to infer that he may be a great grandstand manager and a good club president, but that he doesnt realize the persistency of the average diamond bug. Either that, or he's a glutton for punishment.

Gardner declared he wants it brought out especially that people of towns adjoining Wichita Falls should consider the club as theirs, andd declares emphatically the team can not be a success without the co-operation and support of citizens of Burkburnett, Iowa Park, Electra, Vernon, Archer City, Olney and the rest as well as Wichita Falls residents.

MISTER GARDNER, IF YOU PLEASE!

This bird, Jabez Alvin Gardner, knows the history—past, present and future—of almost any ball player in the world, and can tell you more about 'em than anybody in Texas, and that includes Paul LaGrave, the famous Fort Worth man of baseball affairs. And, brother, just about anytime you want to look up the record of a prominent ball player all you have to do is ask this man Gardner and he'll roll off his life record just like he was reading it to you from a book.

Junior College Indians Jump From One Tough Contest To Two More

Mosley's Tribe Goes Away from Tarleton Encounter to Meet McMurray and Weatherford This Week

Coming out of Saturday's gruelling battle at Stephenville with the John Tarleton Aggies, Coach Mosley's Junior college Indians will receive no rest, for this week they jump into two equally stiff contests. The tribe invades Abilene in quest of McMurray college's scalp Wednesday, then returns home to defend the Spudder fortress against a drive of Weatherford college gridsters.

The McMurray game is a non-conference afafir, but should prove just as mean as the one staged yesterday in Stephenville, for McMurray is a four-year college and this season has made a comparatiely good record on the gridiron.

The Tribe will be seeking revenge for that 14-13 defeat registered at Spudder park last Thanksgiving day by the McMurray eleven. It is possible that West and Stephenson, Wichita Falls halfbacks who did not make the Stephenville trip, will be in condition to enter the game. West, however, is hampered with a bad wrist, and the injury may prove serious enough to keep him from several contests.

McMurray last year was a Junior college and signed a two-year contract for games with the Tribe. Since taking senior college rating the Abilene school may move out of the class of the local institution.

With the line-plunging of Curtis Beaty, the passing combination of Thurman and Cries and the punting of Crites the club is performing exceptionally well considering this is the second seasor a football team has been put into the field at the codllege. Another player who has been showing well is John Clary at center. Clary also is the team's best bet at placekicking for points following touchdowns.

The passing game is by far the club's best form of attack. Crites and Thurman are excellent passers. Both snare the oval cleverly. Evan Harris at end is a demon on spearing the heaves, and Gonce, also, has been looking alive at a terminal position. Wally Luecke has been looking good at wing, too. Neither of these two lads, however, have been given a chance to show their wares much in match contest.

In the line, Mosley has developed little by little a forward defense, very green at the beginning which as the season grows older becomes stronger and stronger. Burks, Weeth, Karns and Hirschi have been waging a sturdy brand of ball lately.

ELIGIBILITY OF WELCH IS QUESTIONED

Outstanding Star of Sherman High Team Under Fire

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—(AP).—Eligibility of Ralph Welch, big fullback and outstanding star of the powerful Sherman high school football eleven, has been questioned by Dallas Oak Cliff high school officials.

Case Is Reviewed.

The executive committee of the Texas university interscholastic league today heard Welch's case reviewed and argued, but reserved its decision. Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the league said decision on Welch would not be announced until after Thursday. It is charged that Welch has already played the four calendar years allowed by the league.

"On Thursday the committee will hear other chargest that have been brought against the Sherman team," Mr. Henderson said. "These charges, grave in their nature, were presented today along with the protest against Welch's eligibility; but, as Sherman had not had time to answer these charges, the committee set Thursday as hearing day."

Coach Hugh Butler's Sherman high eleven is favored by many high school sport followers to win the high school championship of the state. The Sherman team has been impressive in its victories, trouneing 26-0 the Dallas Oak Cliff Leopards, 1924 state champions.

Outstanding Player.

Welch is easily one of the outstanding high school players of the state. He weighs about 190 pounds, is fast, and very powerful. No line has been able to hold him this year. Ruling of Welch ineligible would rule out the games won by Sherman and virtually eliminate Coach Butler's team from the title chase.

The executive committee today ruled ineligible Coolidge Electra high star, practically eliminating Electra from the race for the championship. His eligibility was protested by Wichita Falls.

LIONS, TIGERS, COYOTES PLAY GAMES AGAIN

Wichita Falls to Hook Up With Electra Team Wednesday

Wichita Falls, Vernon and Electra members of district one class A of the University of Texas interschoastic league, have been ordered by Roy B. Henderson, head of the league, to play over games to settle the championship of the eastern half of the section. The winner is to meet Plainview of the western half for the district title.

The decision came as result of an Electra player being declared ineligible, throwing out the Electra games. Vernon and Wichita Falls games had already been forfeited because of the use of ineligible players.

Drake Wins From Nebraska by 14-0

DES MOINES, Nov. 7.—(AP).—In a game featured by fumbling and kicking, Drake won from Nebraska here today 14 to 0. Drake showed superior ability to cover ground in the face of the flashy Husker backfield when Spears, Bulldog back, recovered a fumble in the first quarter and raced 60 years for a touchdown and when in the fourth period Sutherland pushed over the goal on an end run for another counter.

Missouri Tigers Trim Pikers, 14 to 0

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 7—(AP)—The University of Missouri Tigers continued their march toward another Missouri Valley football championship by downing the Washington university Pikers today, 14 to 0. Missouri scored touchdowns in the second and fourth period.

Panthers Defeat W. and J. 6 to 0

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 7—(AP)—A cornered Pitt bided his time to spring on Washington and Jefferson today and when the opoprtunity came seized it to score a 6 to 0 victory and eliminate the W. and J. from the eastern gridiron championship.

The opportunity came in the form of a blocked punt in the closing minutes of play. Wissinger, Pitt guard, scooped it up on the 25-yard line and ran unmolested to the goal line.

CENTENARY WINS

SREVEPORT, La., Nov. 7—(AP)—Overcoming one of the best attacks the Centenary Gentlemen continued their winning streak by defeating the Central State Teachers of Oklahoma 17 to 7 Saturday afternoon. Sam York kicked a placement in the third quarter and later scored a touchdown after a 25-yard run that put the ball on the ten yard line. The teachers tried 27 passes and completed 12, averaging from one to 26-yard gains.

Fordham Nips Holy Cross

NEW YORK, Nov. 7—(AP)—Fordham defeated Holy Cross today 17 to 0 and thereby vaulted one of the chief obstacles in tis way to the eastern Catholic college championship. It was the first defeat of the season for Holy Cross, the conqueror of Harvard.

The Passing Hour

~ by Wm. B. Ruggles ~

YEA, BO!

They Teach us in the schools we know
To meet defeat as sportsmen should—
Regret should not on features show
When we to winners say, "At's good!"

But churning down life's troubled sea
And seldom on an even keel,
The thought obtrudes quite oft on me—
The winner knows just how you feel.

And when his victor's hand you shake
Behind your smile he sees a frown,
He knows his neck you'd like to break
And kick him where he sitteth down!

Doc Andrews died the other day in Minneapolis of a touch too much of gas. The coroner called it accidental death, and doubtless the coroner was right. For old Jay, a lusty fighter through colorful years on the diamond, was far too pugnacious a citizen to sit down quietly to let death pour in intentionally through a gas jet.

Jason Andrews fought, bullied and joked his way through the picturesque seasons of baseball in the southwest, and his memory will linger longest in the Western and Missouri Valley leagues, that knew Dick Cooley and Ducky Holmes and bred Gerald Davis, Joplin, Sedalia, Muskogee—they watched Doctor Jay as the years crept on his rugged constitution and keen infield judgment.

The Texas league knew him, too. He was old in the game in 1909, when he managed Oklahoma City for R. E. Moist, and as lusty a scrapper as ever the next year, when he handled the reins half the season and then was traded to Houston, where the Otto Sens-Doak Roberts-Hunter Hill combination struggled valiantly to carry a crippled ball club to a pennant against league opposition. His month with the Buffs in 1910 was his last in the Lone Star circuit—probably nearly his last in baseball.

They called him an "old-time" ball player in his death notices. He was all of that. Peace to his ashes. He came of a rough school, but of the kind that made the game.

Skill—Not Courage

Gerald (Red) Davis, another scrapping yeoman of those rugged days when the game was young and only the fittest survived, had a good story on one of the Doctor's sallies. For Jay Andrews was a wit.

Jay had the club at Sedalia and happened to occupy the bench, suffering from a flat tire. On his regular job at third base they had a youngster posted. And the kid had a bad day.

"It looked like everybody that came up had a personal grudge against third base," said Red. "They poured hot grounders and screaming liners down that corner. The kid got in the way of nearly everything. The liners hit him on the chest and the shoulders and the grounders bounced up and kissed him in the beezer or tried to take a shin bone into left field. The kid stopped eerything that came along with everything but his hands.

"After seven innings of it, Jay hobbled out and took the kid by the ear, pulling him off the field.

"'Young man,' said the Doctor as they went, 'baseball is a game of skill—not of bravery'."

Warner Named Them

The fact that Jay Andrews, who has passed, was on the roster of the Buffs calls to mind, too, that with the death of Harry T. Warner a few weeks ago went the man who gave the Houston ball club its present name, but with an entirely different intent.

The Buffalo is a bison now. The Buffalo was christened a fish.

Warner, one of the veteran newspaper men of Texas, reached the managing editor's office of the old Houston Post via the sports desk. He had left the latter when he supplied the inspiration that named the ball club.

The team wanted a characteristic name and the buffalo was characteristic of the city. For the bayou that has since become an ocean inlet teemed with the mudcat.

But the name always irked Doak Roberts, who liked the bison head and yearned to see it on his players' uniforms. Along in 1910 he made the official change which resulted in the buffalo head appearing as now on the regimentals.

But to the oldtimers down Houston way the Buffalo is still a mudcat.

I hear the sound of a thousand tears
Like softly pattering rain;
I see the hopes and the sudden fears,
The old grad's tale of pain—
And through the gloom the fact appears

ELECTRA OUT OF GRID RACE, RULES LEAGUE

Plainview Only Undefeated And Unchallenged Club In Section 1

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—(AP).—Coolidge, Electra high school football star, today was ruled ineligible by the executive committee of the Texas University Interscolastic league because of failure to satisfy scholastic requirements. This ruling virtually places Electra out of the running for the high school state championship. Turner, another Electra player whose eligibility was challenged by Wichita Falls, was ruled eligible. Wichita Falls and Vernon high players previously had been ruled ineligible and Plainview is the only undefeated and unchallenged high school team in section one conference A of the championship race.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 7—(AP)—A versatile Minnesota football machine easily hurtled its final nonconference barrier today by overwhelmingly Pat Page's Butler team, 33 to 7.

Burkburnett Bulldogs Clash With Seymour Gridsters in Important Game At Spud Park Wednesday

That feud between Burkburnett and Seymour, grid elevens who have battled to a pair of scoreless ties already this season, is up for settlement Wednesday at Spudder park. If the clubs play to a tie score again the number of earned first downs the teams make will be checked to decide the victor.

That fans of Wichita Falls and surrounding territory will be given the chance to witness a first-class grid battle is assured, for these elevens North Texas, barring Graham, the club which will be played next weekend by the winner. And Graham, conches of both Seymour and Burkburnett agree doesn't stack up formidably to either of their teams.

The Burkburnett club is the only team of the two with any chance of any great improvement, and that is through the return of Johnnie McDonald, plunging halfback.

Bulldogs Ready.

Coach Herb Ludget will be ready to shoot the best he has into the game with none of the stars on the injured list. The club is greatly strengthened with the past few weeks' practice as well as the addition of McDonald. Their win over Coach R. E. Brewster's Iowa Park team showed them to be in better shape than when they met Seymour in either of the other games.

Every detail but the selection of officials was settled Saturday afternoon by Coach Ludgett and Superintendent Hogg from Burkburnett, who will be the officials of this game will be decided within the next few days. It was learned that they were working for a referee from Fort Worth, McClain probably will umpire.

Sidden Real Flash.

The outstanding star of the Seymour club is Quarterback Sidden. Sidden is one of the fastest men in this district and with his pickup in speed he is a very hard man to stop at line plunges, off tackle plays, and end runs. Sidden is not the sidestepper and twister of the usual good runner of a grid team, but the force with which he hits the line makes him very hard to stop. Sidden is the man that must be watched by the Bulldogs.

With the Seymour line Crawford and Esley are the outstanding stars. Crawford, right guard, and Esley, center, have been bearing the brunt of the work in the forward wall. Both are in almost every tackle.

The Bulldogs have a Class A backfield and a line that could hold their own in the same class of football. The backfield consists of Buckner, McDonald, Warren, and Wolfe. These backs have been rattling off their gains with much regularity, and aginst the Iowa Park Hawks advanced almost at will.

Barker Good One.

The work of Barker, left tackle, has been one of the features of the Bulldog line play. This youngster has waged a great brand of ball in every game thus far and gets in almost every play of the game. Very few gains have been made through his tackle due to his steady and cool manner o fhandling his post.

Two more players who are very worthy of mention are Hall and Gilmore, ends who have been playing the offense. On going down after have performed brilliantly.

The Bulldogs wil be given a send-off feed Tuesday night by the Lions club at Burkburnett. It will be a rather savage place to eat with nothtable.

MONTY SENDS COYOTE PUPS AT HARD CLIP

Wichita Falls—Olney Game Date Hasn't Been Settled

That Olney-Wichita Falls Junior high school football games scheduled for yesterday but postponed is still hanging fire. No agreement as to date of play has been settled as yet, said Coach T. V. Montgomery last night.

Meanwhile, he intends tod rive his Coyote Pups at a mean clip. The club in recent workouts apepars to be developing a good forward defense, something it has lacked in play to date. One of the leading lights in this line is Pete Howell, guard who is called back into the secondary defense when the opposition has the ball. Powell has been shining brightly at this work. Backing up the line seems to come natural with him.

Red Nichols who looked good when given a shot at a tackle position probable will be moved to center, said Monty. Nichols played at this position earlier in the season.

Clarence Bains, tackle who has been crippled oer the last two games, is back again and in good shape. Bains, pretty green at the opening of the season, has developed speedily.

Ted Davenport, guard, is beginning to look better and better with each day's practice.

At ends, both Berry and Giles have improved considerably. They have developed a knack for snaring forward passes and getting down under punts quickly to nail the runner. Giles, especially, has developed into a hard tackler.

THAT DOPE

There were but two real wallops taken at the dope bucket in Saturday's grid games over the nation, but this pair of clouts were sufficient to sock the old scuttel goofy. We have reference to that 3-0 victory of Texas Christian university's Horned Frogs over Dana Bible's Aggies and that 3-2 margin grabbed by Northwestern over Michigan.

* * *

Until yesterday both of the losing elevens stacked as the most formidable contenders in their conferences. The Christians has not been rated a ghost of a show with the Farmers. The Wolverines were doped to slam Northwestern all over the lot.

* * *

Texas university ran true to form in downing Baylor, 13 to 3, but should have won by better than a four-touchdown margin. There was no upset in that scoreless tie at Dallas waged by S. M. U. and Arkansas.

* * *

The scoring of a field goal from placekick and then valient stand of the Horned Frogs through four periods, keeping the Christian goal line inviolate changes the Southwest conference title array considerably.

* * *

Today, Dr. E. J. Stewart, crying mentor of the Texas Longhorns, sees his Orange and White machine riding atop the conference with two victories and a tie. Now the doctor will endeavor to sob his way to a conference championship Thanksgiving day over Texas A. & M., running second now with two victories and a loss.

* * *

THE POSSIBILITIES

Texas plays Arizona at Austin next Saturday in non-conference game. The Farmers tangle with the Rice Owls at Houston. Should the Aggie outfit survive this engagement the championship will go to the victor at College Station Turkey day. But should the Owls repeat T. C. U.'s stunt of yesterday, kick over the dope and down the Biblemen the complexion of the race will be mottled again. The Owls play Baylor Thanksgiving. Should the Institute beat the Bears, and the Aggies stop Stewart's procession the title will rest in Houston. Should the Bears beat Rice, under the conditions mentioned above, Texas would grab the flag win or lose Turkey day.

* * *

GARDNER BUSY

Jabez Alvin Gardner, the new Spudder president, is working on several deals which should materially assist the club in the 1926 race. These trades are merely in the making and to publish any details might be the cause of breaking them, Gardner points out. No manager has been selected as yet, but three men are under consideration any of which should prove a successful pilot.

* * *

It has leaked out of Spudder headquarters that Gardner has one managerial prospect in particular whom he is centering on. This man (we are withholding his name for obvious reasons) is a wonderful ball player, a veteran and a former team manager who would fit into the role of player-manager very nicely if his services can be obtained. He has a very good all-around record both as a man and as an athlete.

* * *

SHIFT AT SHORTSTOP

It appears very likely there will be a shift in the Spudder infield next summer. The Spudders are feeling for a new shortstop now, in fact, endeavored to close a deal for a certain shortfielder who performed in the Texas league the past season. This doesn't necessarily mean George Distel will be given a change of scenery. On the contrary, it indicates he will perform at third base. One would naturally infer that Freddy Dorman will be the moving one. We know it to be a fact that Dorman, White, Schwab and $2,000 cash were offered in trade for the shortstopper we have in mind. The deal has not fallen through completely, but indications are such will be the case, we understand.

* * *

Another choice tidbit of gossip: Irish Marty Callaghan may not be seen in a Spud monkey suit next spring. That's just a hazard but we've heard from a reliable source Silent Cal was mentioned in a possible trade figuring in on one of the managerial propositions up before Spudder moguls.

* * *

Howard Fitzgerald will be back. Spudder officials haven't said so, but take it or leave it.

* * *

* * *

Nope, we'll never see the hustling Bubber Jonnard behind the plate again, nor Bob Osborn in the box. That's just a guess, but it's not guessing much to aver Long Robert will stick with the Cubs and Bubber will make the grade with the Phils.

* * *

It's said Spud magnates have been working on a deal for a certain Southern league backstop to help Wray Query tote the catching burden next summer. What progress has been made, if any, we don't know. Spudder officials are not talking until the parcels are wrapped up and delivered.

* * *

PITCHING OUTLOOK GOOD

The pitching outlook stacks up better than ever. The club has right now what appears to be the nucleus in history of the Wichita Falls franchise. There is Dick Morgan, Big Jim Roberts, Suds Sutherland, Carl Williams, Jess Winters, Paddy Martin, the southpaw; Jimmy Brent, released to the Spudders by the Cubs who won 11 and lost five games in the Cotton States during 1924; Ira Morgan, Rip Wheeler and John Wright.

HARVARD TAKES WORST DEFEAT IN 36 YEARS

Princeton Springs Brilliant Forward Passing Attack

TIGERS WINS 36 TO 0

Cambridge Men Also Have Trouble With Off-Tackle Thrusts

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 7.—(AP)—A bruised, bewildered Harvard football team, reeling under reverses by Holy Cross and Dartmouth, today was tumbled to its worst defeat by a Princeton eleven since 1889. The score was 36 to 0.

Helpless before a shower of brilliantly timed forward passes which punctured ground assault, the Crimson host five times was pushed back across its own goal line for touchdowns before the mighty paws of a versatile and relentless Tiger. A field goal and three points after touchdown contributed by the unerring toe of Jake Slagle, amassed for Roper's team the final score which ranks secon din the Harvard-Princeton series only to a total of 41 piled up agains the Crimson thirty-six years ago.

Except for a brief exhibition of stiffening Harvard defense in the third period, the game was a Princeton parade. The Tiger goal posts were never threatened. Harvard was forced to be content with a single first down.

Fumble Aids Tigers

Slagle kicked off for Princeton. Miller received it on his 10-yard line for a gain of 24 yards, where his fumble enabled Princeton to recover. Dignan plunged 12 yards through Harvard center, planting the ball on the 21-yard line. Slagle made three more and the ball was directly in front of the Crimson goal posts. A Princeton attempt to pass was grounded. Slagle from the Harvard 24-yard line, drop-kicked a pretty goal. Princeton score 10.

Miller kicked off for Harvard. Caulkins receiving on his 14-yard line. The ball changed from one side to the other and as Slagle intercepted a Harvard forwad pass he raced to the nine-yard line where he was downed and the period ended. Score end first period: Princeton 10; Harvard 0.

As play resumed, plays by Dignan and Slagle brought the ball to the two-yard line. Dignan went over on the next play. Slagle added the extra point, bringing Princeton's score to 17.

Princeton Kicks Off

Slagle kicked off for Princeton. Crosby received on his 10-yard line for a 22-yard run where he was grounded. Punts and short runs took the ball to the Crimson 21-yard line. Coady punted and Caulkins was dropped as he caught the ball on Princeton's 49-yard line. An end run by Slagle, a pass, Slagle to Dignan and a yard gain through center by Slagle took the ball to Harvard's 43-yard line, fourth down with a yard to go. Slagle punted over the goal line and the Crimson took the ball in play on its 20-yard line.

Coady kicked to Caulkins, who was downed on the Princeton 48-yard line. The Tiger was penalized when Sayles tripped, taking the ball to the Tiger 38-yard line. Coady kicked to Caulkins, who run the ball to Princeton's 27-yard line. A forward pass, Slagle to Caulkins and a 30-yard run dropped the Princeton quarterback on the 15-yard line. The Crimson defense was paralyzed by Princeton's aerial strategy. Darby replaced Rosengarten at right tackle. Another pass, Slagle to Caulkins, put the ball on the Crimson's 3-yard line for a first down. Dignan crashed over the line for the third touchdown. Slagle kicked goal, giving Princeton 24, Harvard 0.

Turner replaced Macomber in the center of the Crimson line. Slagle kicked off and Crosby, receiving on his six-yard line, advanced to the 31-yard line. Bridges replaced Slagle in the Tiger back field. Bradford replaced Tripp for Harvard. Bartell substituted for Crago in the Tiger line. The ball was carried to the Tiger 42-yard line when Stafford replaced Captain Cheek in the Harvard backfield and Maher went in for Miller. Moseley replaced in Coady. Then Ewing went in for Caulkins, the Tiger field general. Ewing tried to kick goal from the 38-yard line, but the ball rolled along the ground and Turner recovered on the Harvard 20-yard line just as the period ended.

Third Period

Third period: Crosby kicked off to Caulkins, who ran the ball back to the Tiger 33-yard line. Mosley for Moore in the Harvard lineup. Bridges for Dignan, Ewing for Gilligan (not Slagle) and Lea for Jeffers for Princeton. Slagle made a wide end run for nine yards. Another Tiger forward pass, Slagle to Lea, took the ball to its own 42-yard line for the first down. A series of plays in which Mosley made a poor attempt to kick ended with the Tigers two yards still to make on its last down. A Tiger attempt to pass was intercepted and the ball went to Harvard on its own 20-yard line.

The Crimson failed to gain appreciably. The Tiger got the ball and Bridges made it a first down with a two-yard gain through centre, placing the ball on Harvard's 30-yard line. Crosby punted to the on Harvard 30-yard line. 1HoguHer Tiger 42-yard line. A Tiger aerial pass was incomplete. Bridges took the ball to within a yard of midfield. Then Slagle punted to Cheek, who placed the ball on Harvard's 8-yard line. Standing behind his own goal line Coady faked a punt and passed the ball to Crosby for seven yards through the Tiger center. Harvard made it first down on its own 18-yard line.

Fourth Period

Bridges drove through the line for four yards, but the ball was called back and the Tigers penalized five yards. Slagle attempted a pass, changed his mind, made a wide run to end, then passed, but the ball was grounded. Another pass, Slagle to Bridges, for six yards. Fourth down. Booth went in for Slagle and Dignan came back for Caulkins. A pass by Dignan was grounded and the Tigers had four yards to go on its last down with the ball on Harvard's 34-yard line. Two Princeton passes were incompleted. Coady for Harvard punted, but was blocked by Darby, who picked up the ball and raced from the Crimson 24-yard line for Princeton's fourth touchdown. Ewing's kick was blocked and the score was Princeton 30; Harvard 0.

Another pass from Cheek to Sayles was incomplete. On a close formation Coady booted over the goal line and the ball was put into play on the Princeton 20-yard line. Dignan's long pass down field was grounded. The ball went to Harvard's 41-yard line on a penalty. On a fake formation Coady passed, but the ball was grounded and on the next play Coady punted over the Tiger goal line. Princeton's ball, on its own 20-yard line. Three Princeton passes took the ball to Harvard's 32-yard line.

Series of Punts

A series of punts and line charges and Princeton had its first down on its own 36-yard line. Prendergast ripped a hole through the Harvard center for 10 yards. Princeton was penalized five yards for off sides. Prendergast made 12 yards through the Crimson line, Beares two, then four yards. Prendergast went around the end for 18, then made 13 yards straight through the line, carrying the ball to the Crimson 18-yard line. Beares got seven through the same hole. Prendergast made wto more and the ball was on the nine-yard line.

Princeton lost five yards for off side. Prendergast made three, then hit the line to a first down on the Crimson four-yard line, directly in front of the goal posts. On the next play he carried the ball within a few inches of the line, then went over for the fifth touchdown. Beares' kick hit the goal posts and bounded back to the field.

It was the highest total score either Princeton or Harvard has tallied in their annual classic since 1889 when the Tiger won 41 to 15.

Wisconsin Defeats Iowa in Blizzard

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Nov. 7—(AP)—Wisconsin's football team upset the dope boys this afternoon and defeated Iowa's eleven 6 to 0 on a blizzard-swept field. A series of line plunges by D. Harmon and L. Harmon, put the Wisconsin team within scoring distance of the Iowa line and Kreuse, Badger ullback, went over for the only touchdown of the game after Wisconsin had recovered Graham's blocked punt on the Hawkeye 11-yard line.

DALLAS, Nov. 7—(AP)—Arkansas universtiy Razorbacks and Southern Methodist university Mustangs clashed here this afternoon in a colorless gridiron contest that ended in a scoreless tie, the second such deadlock for the Mustangs in two weeks. The result of today's game leaves the Razorbacks in the cellar with S. M. U. perched just above them. Last week the Mustangs and Texas Longhorns played a scoreless tie on the same field. Only 4,000 persons attended today's game, which was played on a muddy field.

S. M. U.'s aerial attack blew up and the brilliant Cortemeglia was somewhat off form in his punting and line plunging. The Razorback line held fast against the Mustangs throughout the game, and few gains were recorded on either side.

In the evenly matched contest, a player from each team divided first honors with superior playing. D'Honau, Razorback quarter, and Ox Key, Mustang end, the former by brilliant offensive work and the latter by spectacular defensive efforts, were the stars.

The Mustangs had only one good chance to score and then Key failed to kick goal from the Arkansas 27-yard line. The Porkers had the ball slightly closer to the Mustang goal line, but Rusker tried a place kick from the S. M. U. 20-yard line, but the ball went low and to one side.

Pass after pass was intercepted or broken up. What gains were made were through the opposing lines, usually for short distances, or around end for a trifle more. Agood many punts were exchanged. Cole and Rusker, kicking for the Razorbacks, had a slight edge on Kimbrough, Cortemeglia and Wilkerson, punting for S. M. U. Many substitutions were made during the game. Very seldom did either team make more than two first downs in succession.

The lineup:

ARKANSAS (0)	Pos.	S. M. U. (0)
Coleman	Left End	Key
Scott (c)	Left Guard	Vaughan
Booseman	Center	Ford
McGill	Right Guard	Tatum
Japp	Right Tackle	G. Watters
Parker	Right End	Dawson
D'Honau	Quarterback	Mann
Smith	Fullback	Cortemeglia

No Scores.

Northwestern Is Winner Over Big Michigan Beef

CHICAGO, Nov. 7—(AP)—In mire, rain and partiald arkness, Northwestern gave Michigan her first defeat of the year today, 3 to 2. It was a game of punts and fumbles and which featured by the failure of either eleven to make a first down during the entire game.

Friedman's fumble in the first period gave Northwestern her score, permitting Lewis to place kick from the 14 yard line. Lewis was downed behind his own goal line for the safety that gave Michigan her two points.

Red Grange Unable to Get Started Due to Slippery Mud

CHAMPAIGN, Ills., Nov. 7—(AP)—Seventy thousand spectators, in a driving rain today saw Illinois triumph over Chicago, 13 to 6.

Red Grange, who ran to glory in the mud against Pennsylvania a week ago, was unable to get started, due to the slippery, muddy condition of the field.

Illinois won the game near the close of the third period when D'Ambrosio fell on a blocked punt. McCarty scored a touchdown for the Maroons, while Britton scored Illinois' first touchdown, both coming in the second period. McCarty, the Maroons' plunging full back, was hurt soon after scoring his marker and had to be taken out of the game.

Wills Adds Another Setup to Long List

The Wills-Floyd Johnson fiasco in Newark justified the prediction I made in this column a while ago. The New Jersey boxing authorities, forewarned of what was about to happen, allowed Wills to go on with his carefully selected set-up and pad his record with a "knockout" as part of the ballyhooing of the former stevedore as a dangerous champion contender. Everyone connected in any way with ring sport knew that Johnson was a ring derelict, and had been ever since he was beaten to a pulp by Jess Willard two and a half years ago. Johnson had been beaten in the past year by third rate heavy weights, and his miserable showing against such men as Tiny Jim Herman, Fuente, Sharkey and others of that class had indicated that to put him in a ring with any hard hitter might easily invite a fatality.

Oklahoma Fights Kansas to 0-0 Tie

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 7—(AP)—Kansas and Oklahoma fought in the mud to a scoreless tie on Owen field today. The game was witnessed by a homecoming crowd of approximately 10,000 who shivered before the blast of a "norther" that struck Norman about three hours before game time.

The game was desperately fought, three times touchdowns seeming certain, but each time failing to materialize. Twice Oklahoma had the ball ready for a plunge across the Kansas goal, but both times the Jayhawkes stopped them. The Sooners made the same stand later with the ball on their one yard line and took it on downs.

Syracuse and Ohio Tie With 3-3 Score

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 7—(AP)—The Syracuse university eleven and the Ohio Wesylan, champions of the Ohio conference, battled to a to 3 tie score here today.

A field goal by Carr in the second period from his own 30-yard line gave Syracuse a lead until the fourth period when the last few minutes, Blickle of Ohio, kicked a field goal from the thirty-yard mark to tie the score.

WILLS CAN BEAT CRIPPLE.

Wills has shown the world that he can beat up a cripple and that he can hit like a trip hammer when the man in front of him isn't able to hit back. He has also picked up a little more soft money. Aside from that Wills hasn't accomplished much in the ring for three or four years.

TRAMMEL TO MINGLE MITTS WITH POLLOCK

Monte Returns With Eddie Murdock in Ten Rounds

Dave Pollock, Atlanta welter flash, meets Duke Trammel, the Fort Worth knockout lad, in the 10-round main event of the American Legion weekly fight card slated Thursday night in the 812 1-2 Scott ring, announced Matchmaker Don Wofford Saturday.

Pollock arrives in Wichita Falls today, said Wofford, to complete his training for the bout. The Georgian boasts a good record, and has won a major portion of his fights with a sleep-producing right. He is of the slugger type, however the kind of a boxer who as a rule is made to order for the hard-hitting Trammel.

A bout which will attract equally as much attention as the feature scrap is the semi-final 10-round go matched between Eddie Murdock and Wildcat Monte.

This scrappy pair of featherweights staged a great fight to a referee's draw last Thursday in six-rounds. Monte deserved the decision, but he won't get over in the next meeting, delares the matchmaker, who said Murdock was sick shortly before the bout.

Other bouts will be arranged early this week, according to Wofford.

The Coyotes indulged in skull practice Saturday morning, and followed with a workout in the gym under the supervision of Coaches Brown McCallum and C. C. Frazee.

Nothing of importance was announced from Coyote headquarters, but the club is staying in the best of condition for the games which will be arranged some time this week.

Brown McCallum and C. C. Frazee have been givingthe club about the same drills that Bud McCallum had been giving them in order to have them in shape when Bud returns from Austin.

Golfdom Has Yellow Peril in California

Charley Chung, Chinese golf player and links champion of the Hawaiian Islands, is shooting sensational golf in California, where hot weather is still keeping the joints of the players limber. Chung is a typical Chinaman in build, of medium height, square shouldered, lean, muscular, with slim hands and long fingers. He does not, however, wear long finger nails. Those went out of fashion in China when golf came in. They interfered with the grip. After winning in two or three tournaments that followed his arrival from Hawaii, Chung entered at Hollywood. He started with a 76 in the qualifying round, where Von Elm shot a 73 and Art Shafer, who is playing golf as well as he used to play baseball on the Giants, won the low gross medal with a 72. But the next day Chung won his first match and scored a 68, two strokes under par and a remarkably good score for the hill and canyon course. The Yellow Peril is now an established fact in golf. Chung, who plays with true Oriental stolidity and isn't affected with nerves, is very likely to win some of the big events in the south this winter.

YOUNG JOURNALISTS MEET.

DENISON, Nov. 7.—A district meeting of the Texas high school press association was in session here today. Four counties comprise the district.

Champ Saw Wills Bout—Yes He Did!

It was announced that Jack Dempsey would be at the ringside to see Wills fight Johnson. That was plain ballyhoo for the fight. It may have drawn a few spectators. At the time Dempsey was on his way to Mexico City to box some four round exhibitions there, but it wasn't generally known in the east. Dempsey never showed much curiosity about future opponents. He said he wouldn't go to see Carpentier fight Levinsky because Carpentier hasn't seen Dempsey in action and he didn't want any advantage over the Frenchman.

Micks Fight Penn To Scoreless Tie

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 7—(AP)—Notre Dame and State fought to a scoreless tie here today on a field of mud. Only two attempts at scoring were made, both of them placement kicks and one by each side. Notre Dame attempted a goal in the third period, Enright's kick going wide and Weston of Penn State tried it a short time later but failed when Helbig failed to hold the slippery ball.

Parkview Colt Is Golden Rod Victor

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 7—(AP)—On a track made wet and sloppy by rain, Parkivew stables Rhinock won the $5,000 added Golden Rod handicap at seen furlongs for two-year-olds over a field of nine other starters today at Churchill Downs. My Colonel finished second and Great Sport third. The time for the seven furlong sprint was 1:28 3-5. The race was worth $6,440 net to the winner.

L.S.U AERIAL ATTACK GIVES WIN OVER RICE

Texans Battle Hard In Face of Heavy Odds

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Abandoning the straight football that has marked its game throughout the season, Louisiana's state university eleven resorted to passing today to defeat Rice institute 6 to 0 in a driving rain. It was a twenty-five yard pass from Stephens to Haynes who dashed the remaining 20 yards to Rice's goal line in the third quarter that brought victory to a muchly damaged Tiger and joy to 3,000 fans who stood in the stands while a drenching rain beat down.

The six-point victory does not give a true indication of Louisiana's super strength over Rice, as breaks went against the Tigers through the first half and bad luck in the second cut down drives that were moving steadily goalward.

Rice opened up in the fourth period with a desperate passing attack, but their efforts netted not even a single first down in the period. The Owls were clearly outplayed.

From out of the mucky field "Bade" Godfrey, Ben Miller, "Red" Swanson and Haynes, of Louisiana state rose to stellar heights. Underwood, giant center and Hertig, halfbacks, were Rice's outstanding men.

Rice (0)	Pos	Louisiana (6)
Joseph	Left End	Durrett
McVey	Left Tackle	G. Connel
Williams	Left Guard	Flood
Underwood (C)	Center	Clay
Huyck	Right Guard	Steel (C)
Kendrick	Right Tackle	Swanson
Winston	Right End	Miller
Ogg	Quarterback	Godfrey
Hertig	Left Half	Warner
Hoculina	Right Half	Haynes
Hill	Fullback	A. Connell

Scoring: Louisiana State, touchdown, Haynes. Officials, Tichnor (Auburn) referee, Harton (Miss. University) umpire; Patterson (Auburn) head linesman. Time of quarter, 15 minutes.

Dartmouth Ruins Cornell, 62 to 13

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 7—(AP)—Dartmouth smothered the unbeaten Cornell team here today, 62 to 13, thus strengthening the position of the big green team for the eastern championship. Dartmouth's attack bewildered the Cornell team, the work of Oberlander, Lane and Tully enabling the Hanover team to score almost at will. Several of Dartmouth's touchdowns resulted from long passes, the receiver frequently completing runs of 20 or more yards to make the score after the catch.

FIRPO AND CO.—!

Rumor hath it that Tex Rickard is soon to bring Luis Firpo and Georges Carpentier to these shores again for bouts. Rex has immense faith in the ability of these shopworn campaigners to attract the jokelry, no matter how sadly tarnished the reputations. And if ever prestige has been dented it is that once possessed in abundance by these two gladiators. But as "come-ons" for the box office public the great promoter still believes they are "here." And probably he is right. In the case of the French boy he doubtless is.

* * *

Carpentier is far from being the scrapper he once was. But he is far more formidable than the other "come-on Twin"—Firpo. Georges cannot hope to do anything with our first string heavies—Wills and Tunney. Against the second-raters, however, he would prove a good card. This writer thinks he would have a chance even with our best light-heavies, and that includes Paul Berlenbach. Georges can still unleash, for a few rounds, that killing right which almost dropped Dempsey. It is possible that he might even "get" Berlenbach with it in one of the early sessions. But it is certain that the ancient Georges could not stand many of the German's paralyzing body slams. Paul would need but a few mix-ups in close to batter the punching vim from Carpentier's spent system. He'd probably do it, too, but there would be enough uncertainty attached to make it interesting, the writer thinks.

* * *

CORP STILL GOOD DRAWING CARD.

As a perpetual drawing card Carpentier is a marvel. He must have been born under the moneybag star. About a year ago, when Tunney knocked him out, Carpentier seemed absolutely through as a gate attraction. But the moves on the Celtic checkerboard since that time have been most favorable to him. Where, before, he seemed "cornered," with only retirement staring him in the face, there now loom several hopeful moves for him. One of them would even again land him in the "ring row." This by popping Light-heavyweight Champion Berlenbach on the "button." Berlenbach was too light for Carpentier a year ago; now he isn't.

* * *

Carpentier's other move concerns a match with another young man who was ineligible for Carp at the time—Jimmy Slattery, the abused wizard of Buffalo. The Frenchie, the writer believes, would have an excellent chance of duplicating the feats of Dave Shade and Paul Berlenbach, each of whom has stopped the up-State Irishman. Slattery cannot take a punching. The Frenchman would need but one solid impact on Slat's jaw to win. In addition, Slattery's confidence in himself has been sadly diminished by knockout defeats—another factor in Carpentier's favor.

* * *

The writer would like to see Carpentier in action again against these two boxers. But we hope the last line of baffle has been written about his personal charm, courage, gallantry, etc. He is an interesting personality both in and out of the ring. But as a sportsman we'll have to throw him overboard. With the writer Carpentier's sportsmanship rates at exactly nil. He is the poorest, cheapest loser we have ever seen.

* * *

Carpentier is content to win by fair means or by foul, and when it comes to technicalities he is in a class by himself. His claim of foul, after being fairly knocked out by Tunney, is a fair sample of the man and his tactics. Moreover, he was caught, red-handed in a fake with Battling Siki, who "double-crossed" him and knocked him out. That the man has a powerful personality is demonstrated by the fact that he weathered the scandal and obtained lucrative matches.

* * *

FIRPO OUT OF PICTURE.

As for Luis Firpo, the new hornless Wild Bull, the writer cannot see him at all. Firpo is a genuine back-number now—fat and ambitionless. His last battle was against Charley Weinert, a year ago, in Newark. The clumsy Argentine was shacked to a crimson mess by the clever Jersey veteran. Shortly before that Firpo put up a dreadful exhibition against Harry Wills in Jersey City. Since these reverses the Wild Bull has been lazing on the Parisian boulevards. His condition is not hard to imagine.

* * *

If Firpo does come here we hope that the public will not be subjected to another does of the "building up" business. There was quite enough of this questionable method of making a star when Luis was being "built-up" to rthe Dempsey bout. Set-up after set-up was fed him, and practically all of them obliged with a flop. The worst was the first affair with Weinert in Philadelphia. Charley took a "dive" in the second round. After Firpo had ceased to be a valuable piece of promotorial bric-a-brac, Weinert got him in Newark. Firpo receiving a terrific beating from the man he had "stopped" in Philly. That was the tip-off of how badly Weinert wished to whip Firpo in that awful thing in Philadelphia.

* * *

Firpo doesn't rate a bout with any of the present first string heavies. He would be no match for either Wills or Tunney and it would be folly to attempt to "build him up" for either of these two hardies. The public now has a true line of Firpo's fighting ability. He will have to stand or fall on his own capabilities, with no advantages of the "building up" process. Firpo would make a good semi-final performer against second and third-rate heavies. Nothing more, and if these ware to be waged strictly on the "up and up" the once Wild Bull would encounter plenty of trouble winning from some of the youngsters who are coming along.

LONGHORNS IN 13-3 VICTORY OVER BAYLOR

BEARS ARE HELPLESS

Bridges' Running Offensive Is Completely Smothered

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 7—(AP)—Dauntless courage and determination that refused to falter under a succession of costly fumbles in the first half carried the Texas Longhorns to a 13 to 3 triumph over the Baylor Bears on a field of mud today.

Early in the third period, George Fall, Balor quarterback, fumbled on his 15-yard line a highty punt from the toe of Captain Stuart Wright of the Longhorns. As three Steers blocked Fall from recovering the mud-caked leather, Mack Saxon picked up the ball and ran 10 yards for a touchdown.

Demoralized by the sudden break, the first of the game for the Longhorns, the Bears for a few minutes were helpless, as Rufus King—"Ramming Rufus," the Longhorn fans call him—smashed his way on a series of plunges 46 yards to the Baylor two-yard line just as the third period ended.

Defense Stiffens

The Baylor defense, reinforced by Jack Jones who was substituted for Fall, stiffened and turned back King in two tries, the ball going over on the one yard line.

The second Longhorn touchdown came in the middle of the fourth period on a spectacular pass. With the ball on the 6-yard line, a double pass, King to Saxon to Estes was completed. Estes twisted his way to the two-yard line, where he fumbled after being viciously tackled. Newell, big Longhorn end, fell on the elusive pigskin and rolled over the line for the counter.

Baylor's running offensive was completely smashed by the fierce charging orange and white forwards, and the only counter of the Bears was made on a field goal by Jack Jones in the second period. Jones, just out of a sick bed, was too weak to start, but came through in glorious fashion, when substituted to try for a field goal.

Jones' Great Kick.

Kicking from a difficult angle on the 4-yard line, Jones booted the water soaked, mud-plastered ball squarely between the goal posts, probably the greatest place kick ever made by a Southwest conference back. Until Fall's disastrous fumble, it seemed that the three points made by Jones would be enough to win for the green and gold of Baylor.

Every man used by Stewart performed well the task assigned him with "O" Higgins, big tackle, Matt Newell, end, and Captain Wright, Saxon, Stallter and Rufus King, backs, showing to particular advantage. Wright's kicking of the heavy ball was nothing short of miraculous. Fred Thompson, substituted in the last quarter for King, showed to advantage at kicking and plunging.

Walker Star on Losers

"Bear" Walker, captain and center, was easily the outstanding performer for the losers. Had it not been for Walker's gallant defense, the Bears likely would have been defeated by an humiliating margin. The Bear captain was all over the field, making tackle after tackle.

Porter, tackle, also played well for Baylor. Sam Coats, outstanding player of Baylor last season, played stellar ball in the first half; but weakened in the last half.

The game was witnessed by about 15,000 persons. Many alumni of Texas university were present.

Ohio State Trims The Hoosiers, 7-0

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Out of a wallow of mud, Ohio State emerged victorious over Indiana in the Ohio stadium here today, 7 to 0. Replete with fumbles, slips, slides and splashes, the game afforded breaks both ways. None of the breaks were disastrous and Ohio State's touchdown in the second period was scored on a forward pass attack starting in midfield. It was the first time in the 25-year-old Hoosier-Buckeye feud that Indiana did not score on Ohio State.

Kansas Ags Beat Marquette 2 to 0

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 7—(AP)—Playing on a storm swept field here today, the Kansas Aggies defeated Marquette university 2 to 0. The score was made by Fleck, Aggies right end, who downed Denmoling, Marquette's quarterback, behind the goal line after Demoling had received a punt by Cochrane.

Eastern Athletic Boys Can't Afford To Guffaw At West Anymore

New England Wiseacres Find Sporting Gents Of Other Sections Powerful

Brothers Around Mississippi and Other Side Prove Surprisingly Sturdy And Mean Opposition.

The east is beginning to learn that the west is on the map. Football and other sports are doing it. Ever since the early settlers in New England began cutting their hair off below the ears instead of letting it hang over their shoulders they and their descendants have regarded people west of the Hudson river as an uncultured and inferior race. When sports began in the eastern colleges it was generally supposed that all learning was in the east and that the barbarian tribes west of, say, Philadelphia, could hardly have intelligence enough to play games. After many years there was a Big Three in the East, consisting of Yale, Princeton and Harvard, and the rest in the college sport world were merely hangers on. The "Far West" had been removed from the Hudson River and then from Philadelphia back to Cleveland, Ohio, and a few years later was established with the Mississippi River as a western border. Beyond that was an unknown land inhabited by an unknown people said to have a few schools and universities and to claim relationship to the rest of the United States.

This was away back in the early nineties, when Walter Camp was induced to go out to a new far western college, Stanford University, and show the natives—probably Indians and greasers and long haired miners and cow punchers—how to play football. Camp was a famous ex-player at Yale, and had originated the notion of studying football and teaching new team candidates how to play it according to a sort of a system that he worked out. When Camp left New Haven, they drove him down to the station in a four horse carriage, wept on his shoulder and bade him goodbye. They thought he'd probably be scalped out in the wilds by the Stanford tribe.

Walter Camp arrived at Stanford and was astonished to find a very beautifully built group of college buildings and a lot of pure white students who cut their hair, ate with knife and fork, spoke English, and didn't wear six shooters and bowie knives in their belts while on the campus. He went right to work to teach the Yale system of football play. He was so successful that Stanford established a string of victories over the University of California, a much larger college. Camp stayed at Stanford for some years.

California decided that the only way to stop the painful process of being stamped down under the Stanford cleats was to get a Yale coach too. Camp had carried Yale's fame as far west as California. California had heard a rumor that other eastern colleges played football, but wasn't sure of it. So Frank Butterworth, famous Yale quarterback, was brought out to coach California, Butterworth was a great social favorite in the West, and had innumerable invitations to dance and go picknicking with society. California began to play nice football, but didn't get the Yale idea of smashing em plenty, which was football in those days.

Heffelfinger Coaches California.

So the greatest man that ever played football at Yale was invited to visit California. This was the gigantic Heffelfinger—a man who could have wrapped Jess Willard around his finger the best day Jess ever saw. Heff arrived at Berkeley, put on his Yale football togs, shin guards and all, and went out to teach California how Yale slams 'em. At that time Wolf Ransome was California fullback, a 200 pound thunderbolt of a man, with unlimited strength and grit, and plenty of speed to go with it. Heffelfinger picked out Ransome, told the rest of the squad to look on and learn, and ordered Ransome to charge into him. Filled with awe at the idea of actually charging Yale's most famous player, Wolf went in diffidently. Heffelfinger straight armed him and spilled him on his ear.

"Harder—harder!" yelled Heff.

Ransome went in a little harder, to be spilled again.

"Harder—don't be afraid of me—harder!" shouted Heff.

The suggestion that he was afraid was too much for Ransome. He rushed at big Heff furiously, and suddenly leaping headlong through the air dived past Heff's extended arms and butted him squarely in the stomach. Heffelfinger, for all his 230 pounds of iron flesh, flew over backward and struck the ground with a thump that shook the whole campus, Ransome on top of him. Other players rushed to pull Ransome off, shocked, horrified, expecting that Wolf would be immediately expelled from the squad and perhaps kicked out of college football for daring to upset the famous visitor from great Yale. Heffelfinger sat up, and still sat while he regained his breath. Then his mouth opened in a glad grin and he bellowed: "Fine! Great! That's the way to do it."

Right that minute western competition started. Heffelfinger spent all his time coaching Ransome, who turned out one of the finest fighting fullbacks the western coast has ever seen. Butterworth even said, when he went back to ale, that Ransome was the best fullback in America, which was probably the first picking of an all-American player on record. Camp's Stanford team, however, was still too strong for California, and, as Princeton whipped Yale next year, California sent to Princeton and got Garry Cochrane, Princeton captain, as coach after his graduation, and then took Ed Kelly.

Cochrane produced a winning team and introduced "Princeton spirit." Eastern football methods spread rapidly all over the Far West, which was now bordered by the Pacific. It was years afterward that football began to be improved in the west, which was always quick to pick up and specialize in new features. The forward pass was perfected by all western teams when it was barely tolerated in the East and was looked on with suspicion by the Big Three and other famous eastern football institutions.

Grid Supremacy Drifting Westward.

Several years ago western teams had to go east to prove that they could play football, as the East was still superciliously inclined to doubt it. Iowa took Yale into camp and Chicago followed by neatly trimming Princeton. Almost annually Notre Dame stopped West Point.

A few years ago Chicago went to Princeton and defeated a powerful Tiger eleven that included Keck, 11—American tackle, Louri, all-American quarterback and Garrity, one of the greatest plunging backs in Princeton's history. This was one of the hardest blows ever struck at eastern football supremacy. Coach Roper received a wastebasket full of letters and telegrams from Princeton men all over the country saying defeat by a western team would not be tolerated. The following year Princeton went to Chicago and won the most sensational football game I've ever seen in a long football experience. Until the last quarter John Thomas tore up the Tiger line at will and Chicago smashed through in spite of a desperate and unwavering resistance. With seven minutes to play, the score Chicago, 18, Princeton 7, Princeton went berserk mad, scored two touchdowns and kicked two goals, then was smashed back to a defense two feet from her own goal line and in the last ten seconds of play threw John Thomas back and won the game, 21-18.

In the past few years, football supremacy has drifted gradually westward. California has not lost a college game for five years, and has shown form equal to any in the land. Notre Dame last year was regarded as America's best football team. An individual player, Red Grange of Illinois, took place with Jim Thorpe, Eckersall and other famous western stars and won some remarkable games by his own marvellous running. Pennsylvania once sent a great team to the Rose Carnival at Pasadena and was unexpectedly beaten by Oregon, until then unknown in the East. Other big eastern teams went west on New Years day and did little better. Harvard sent out a team just once, against Oregon, and won by deliberately slugging and knocking out Bill Steers, Oregon's Red Grange, while Steers stood up with the ball in his arms after making a thirty yard run early in the first quarter and being forced out of bounds.

East May Come West—For Coaches.

This year some of the corn belt and other western teams have shown football equal to any that has ever been played. Iowa has a great scoring machine and has smashed Illinois and Ohio State. In Kutsche and Fry, Iowa has a pair of Red Granges. Michigan has a chance to win the conference championship. Notre Dame is behind last year's standard, lacking the famous "Three Horsemen," but is coming up in form. Rockne will build up another big team for next year.

In the East the traditional "Big Three" of the football has been swatted a fare-ye-well. Dartmouth massacred Harvard, her traditional foe, largely through work of Oberlander, the eastern Red Grange. There was a time when Harvard regarded Dartmouth as good enough to provide a practice game, but the Big Green Team has changed all that in recent years. This is the third thrashing in succession Dartmouth has handed Harvard. Thirty-two to nine is some beating and shows where the real class is. Harvard has also lost a game to Holy Cross, by a single point. Yale lost a hard game to Pennsylvania, and the Quakers who also beat Chicago, are going like a cyclone. Princeton has been beaten by Colgate and tied by the Navy. Cornell has a great scoring team that can take care of its own goal line as well as pile up points. In the Far West, California, Stanford and U. S. C. all have fine teams this year and have been scoring heavily. The California team, nearly all new men, isn't equal to the big team of three years ago, but may be next year.

While Western teams have batered down the tradition of eastern supremacy, it has been done largely with the aid of eastern coaching. Coach Alonzo Stagg, who has handled Chicago football for many years and who has done more than anyone else to promote intersectional football competition, was a Yale player years ago. Pop Warner, now building up the greatest fighting football team Stanford has had in many years, was formerly coach at Carlisle and at PUittsburgh. Andy Smith of California is an old Pennsylvania player. Howard Jones, now with U. S. C., is an eastern coach and brother of Tad Jones of Yale. Among the most noted football coaches Tad Jones of Yale coaches at Yale and Knute Rockne of Notre Dame is a Notre Dame graduate. Roper of Princeton is a Princeton man.

Far eastern colleges have not as yet come to the point where they engage western coaches.

But they may. You never can tell what will happen in football.

Sports Done Brown

Brothers on the same college football eleven are not uncommon. This year Harvard has its Bradford twins. Bucknell has its Earl and Myrl Goodwin.

But Iowa State probably has the most distinguished pair—from the standpoint of value to the team. They are the Behm boys of Cleveland, Ohio. John Behm captains the team and stars at quarter. His brother Norton plays lefthalf.

NORTON BEHM SAM WILLAMAN CAPT. JOHNNIE BEHM

Johnnie is rated as one of the greatest broken field runners in the Missouri Valley conference, if not in the west in general. His brother Norton drew almost nation-wide attention last year by tearing off an 80-yard run against the powerful Minnesota eleven.

By an odd coincidence these two lads were the mainstays of a Cleveland coached team. Sam Willaman, tutor of the Iowa Seaters, was coach at East Tech High school, Cleveland, before joining the Iowa institution. It was at East Tech that the Behm boys learned their football, under Willaman's diligent tutoring.

* * * * *

Those funny New York state boxing officials, who have the awfullest time trying to figure out some new way of getting into the limelight besides declaring championships forfeited, have just pulled another joke.

Ostensibly in an effort to prevent fouls during knockdowns they have decreed that the referee shall not start to count over a fallen boxer until his opponent shall have sought a neutral corner and there composed himself.

It can be readily seen that this is more than fair to the fallen boxer. In fact its so fair that it leans the other way—and cheats the opponents out of a possible knockout now and then. This for the very simple reason that no matter how agile the opponent may be he will consume two or three seconds in reaching the quietude of his corner.

This gives the man on the floor an unusually long count. In other words he has a count of 12 to 15 seconds instead of 10 in which to collect his strength and clear his befuddled brain. And, oh, what a blessing a couple of second may be in such a case.

There is no way in which the fighter on his feet can be hurried to his corner. Supposing he is none too strong—his brain is none too clear. His sense of self preservation will prompt him to take his time seeking his corner that his own brain may clear up, that his own legs may get back under him.

In short, the rule departs both from the tradition of the knockdown, from the real reason for the count of 10 and its fatal ending.

Now the idea is good. The opponent should be kept away from the fallen fighter until that man is "off the floor," technically until he has both knees off the canvas. But an efficient referee—and there are only a few of them left—can keep the eager antagonist in his place until that time.

But the commission will try it. Can't fool them.

HAND-BEHIND-BACK ON JUMP ABOLISHED IN BASKET GA

The oustanding changes in the basketball rules for 1925-26 are those abolishing the hand-behind-the-back on jump ball and the goal zone. It was felt that these changes could be made safely under present conditions and that they would meet with the approval of the great majority of those interested in the game.

Under the new jump ball rule it is a personal foul for a player to interfere in any way with his opponent, and this has special reference to the hand not used in tapping the ball. To avoid this foul players should try to keep this hand in the plane of the body.

An appendix to the rules, in the form of questions and answers, is also provided and has been found of great value in clarifying doubtful points. The complete rules section is bound in the detachable style which renders it convenient for pocket use.

Considering the comparatively short period since the invention of the game—about a third of a century—basketball has reached a high standard of scientific play in less time than sports of similar popularity. A advance was made several years when the rules committees of the organizations most prominent in government of the sport—the Y Men's Christian association, the tional Collegiate Athetic associa and the Amateur Athletic un formed a joint committee and ad a uniform code of rules, thus eli ing variations in play which if sisted in would have been hard to icate later.

ARMY WINS OUT

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 7.—(AP).—The Army football team met a formidable foe in the eleven of the Davis and Elking college today, but managed to win 14 to 6. The West Virginians played a strong game in every department and held the cadets scoreless in the first period.

NOTICE OF ELECTION.
Ordinance No. 629.

An ordinance providing for the holding of an election in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified voters of said city who are property tax payers therein a proposition for the issuance of bonds of said city in the amount of seventy-five thousands ($75,000) dollars for the purpose of raising funds to pay the cost of construction of public buildings for housing fire apparatus in said city, and levying a tax on all taxable property in said city to pay the principal and interest of said bonds.

Whereas the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls deems it necessary and expedient to borrow money on the credit of the city in the sum of seventy-five thousand ($75,000) dollars and to secure the payment thereof by the issuance of bonds of said city in that amount for the purpose of raising funds to pay the cost of constructing public buildings for housing fire apparatus in and for said city.

Now therefore, be it ordained by the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls, Texas:

1—That an election be held in said city on the tenth day of November, 1925, at which election the following proposition shall be submitted:

Shall the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls be authorized to issue the bonds of the city of Wichita Falls in the sum of seventy-five thousand ($75,000) dollars to mature serially in from one to thirty years from the date thereof, bearing interest at the rate of four and three-quarters per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, for the purpose of providing funds for the construction of public buildings for housing fire apparatus in and for said city and to levy a tax sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds as it accrues and the principal thereof at maturity?

2—The said election shall be held at the city hall and in Wichita county court house in the city of Wichita Falls and shall be conducted by the following named persons:

R. E. Strange, clerk, city hall box
Boyd Dooley, clerk, city hall box.
Mrs. Kathleen Gorsline, clerk, city hall box.
Dan White, presiding judge, court house box.
F. B. Mashburn, clerk, court house box.
Robert McCulloch, clerk, court house box.
Walter Robbins, clerk, court house box.

Voters living east of Lamar street and northeast of the Wichita river and southeast of the Wichita Valley railway track in said city shall vote at the city hall box; all voters living west of Lamar street in said city shall vote at the court house box.

3—The said election shall be held in accordance with the general election laws and only qualified voters who are property taxpayers in said city shall be allowed to vote.

4—The ballots to be used at said election shall contain the proposition substantially as above set forth, followed by the words "for the issuance of bonds" and "against the issuance of bonds."

5—Notice of said election shall be given by the mayor by publishing a copy of this ordinance with the words "Notice of Election" prefixed thereto ten days next preceding the date of said election in the Wichita Falls Record News, a newspaper published in said city.

6—That because of inadequate fire protection now existing in the city of Wichita Falls, due to not having sufficient number of buildings for housing fire apparatus endangering the property of the citizens of said city, creates an urgent necessity demanding and requiring that the provisions of the city charter providing for the reading of the ordinances three separate days, and providing that ordinances shall not go into effect until thirty days after passage be suspended, and the same are suspended, and this ordinance is passed as an emergency measure and shall take effect and be enforced from and after its passage—Passed and approved this the 12th day of October, 1925.

R. E. SHEPHERD, Mayor.

Attest: W. E. McBROOM, City Clerk.

Ordinance No. 628

An ordinance providing for the holding of an election in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified voters of said city who are property taxpayers therein a proposition for the issuance of bonds of said city in the amount of $375,000 for the purpose of raising funds to pay the cost of extending and improving the sanitary sewerage system in said city and levying a tax on all taxable property in said city to pay the principal and interest of said bonds.

Whereas the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls deems it necessary and expedient to borrow money on the credit of the city in the sum of three hundred and seventy-five thousand ($375,000) dollars and to secure the payment thereof by the issuance of bonds of said city in that amount for the purpose of raising funds to pay the cost of extending and improving the sanitary sewerage system in and for said city.

Now, therefore, be it ordained by the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls, Texas:

1. That an election be held in said city on the 10th day of November, 1925, at which election the following proposition shall be submitted:

Shall the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls be authorized to issue the bonds of the city of Wichita Falls in the sum of three hundred seventy-five thousand and no 100 ($375,000) dollars to mature serially in from one to forty years from the date thereof, bearing interest at the rate of four and three-quarters per centum per annum payable semi-annually for the purpose of providing funds for the extension and improvement of the sanitary sewerage system in and for said city and to levy a tax sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds as it accrues and the principal thereof at maturity.

2. The said election shall be held at the city hall and Wichita county court house in the City of Wichita Falls and shall be conducted by the following named persons:

Nat L. Inge, presiding judge, city hall box; R. E. Strange, clerk, city hall box; Boyd Dooley, clerk, city hall box; Mrs. Kathleen Gorsline, clerk, city hall box; Dan White, presiding judge, court house box; F. B. Mashburn, clerk, court house box; Robert McCulloch, clerk, court house box; Walter Robbins, clerk, court house box.

Voters living east of Lamar street and northeast of the Wichita river and southeast of the Wichita Valley railway track in said city shall vote at the city hall box; all voters living west of Lamar street in said city shall vote at the court house box.

3. The said election shall be held in accordance with the general election laws and only qualified voters who are property taxpayers in said city shall be allowed to vote.

4. The ballots to be used at said election shall contain the proposition substantially as above set forth followed by the words "for the issuance of bonds" and "against the issuance of bonds."

5. Notice of said election shall be given by the mayor by publishing a copy of this ordinance with the words "Notice of Election" prefixed thereto ten days next preceding the date of said election in the Wichita Falls Record News, a newspaper published in said city.

6. That because of the insufficient number of public parks now in the city of Wichita Falls due to the rapid growth of said city, and that due to this deficiency the health of the citizens of said city, creates an urgent necessity demanding and requiring that the provisions of the city charter providing for the reading of ordinances on three separate days and providing that ordinances shall not go into effect until thirty days after its passage be suspended and the same are suspended and this ordinance is passed as an emergency measure and shall take effect and be in force and after its passage.

Passed and approved this the 12th day of October, 1925.

R. E. SHEPHERD, Mayor.

Attest:
W. E. McBROOM, City clerk.

To the Owners and Property Abutting on Holliday Street, Between 13th Street and 14th Street, and to all others Interested:

Notice is hereby given of the intention of the city of Wichita Falls to proceed with the improvement sidewalks on the east side of Holliday street between 13th and 14th streets, by raising, grading and filling same and paving with one course concrete and all lots and land benefited by means of the said improvement, and such assessments, when levied, shall be a first and prior lien upon the lots and land assessed, and a personal claim and a charge against the owners thereof.

On the 23rd day of November, A. D. 1925, in the council chambers in the Morgan building in the city of Wichita Falls, at 7:30 p. m. o'clock, all such owners and their agents will be fully heard by the board of aldermen, and any protests, objections, or claims will be fully and fairly heard. The benefits and damages resulting from said improvements will be determined and the amounts to be assessed against each such lot or parcel of land and the owners thereof will be determined and an assessment therefor will be levied.

Plans and specifications for the improvement, and form of contract and report of engineer showing estimated cost thereof, are on file in the office of the city clerk and open to inspection.

The estimated cost of the said improvement is $128.83.

The estimated amount to be assessed against property owners is $113.52.

The estimated amount of the assessment against property owners and their property for pavement and excavation is $0.8869 per front foot.

All persons, firms, corporations or estates, their agents or attorneys, desiring to be heard in any matter or thing in any wise connected with said improvement, the assessment therefor, the benefits therefor, the damages resulting therefrom, or the proceedings connected therewith, shall be and appear before said board at said time and place.

Done in accordance with the resolution of the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, on the 17th day of August, A. D. 1925.

(Signed) W. E. McBROOM, City Clerk.

Ordinance No. 650

An ordinance providing for the holding of an election in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified voters of said city who are property taxpayers therein a proposition for the issuance of bonds of said city in the amount of twenty-five thousand ($25,000) dollars for the purpose of acquiring public parks in said city, and levying a tax on all taxable property in said city to pay the principal and interest of said bonds, and declaring an emergency.

Whereas the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls deems it necessary and expedient to borrow money on the credit of the city in the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) and to secure the payment thereof by the issuance of bonds of said city in that amount for the purpose of raising funds to pay the cost of acquiring public parks in and for said city.

Now, therefore, be it ordained by the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls, Texas:

1. That an election be held in said city on the tenth day of November, 1925, at which election the following proposition shall be submitted:

Shall the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls be authorized to issue the bonds of the city of Wichita Falls in the sum of twenty-five thousand ($25,000) dollars to mature serially in from one to thirty years from the date thereof, bearing interest at the rate of four and three-quarters per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, for the purpose of providing funds for acquiring public parks in and for said city and to levy a tax sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds as it accrues and the principal thereof at maturity?

2. The said election shall be held at the city hall and in Wichita county court house in the city of Wichita Falls and shall be conducted by the following named person:

R. E. Strange, clerk, city hall box.
Boyd Dooley, clerk, city hall box.
Mrs. Kathleen Gorsline, clerk, city hall box.
Dan White, presiding judge, court house box.
F. B. Mashburn, clerk, court house box.
Robert McCulloch, clerk, court house box.
Walter Robbins, clerk, court house box.

Voters living east of Lamar street and northeast of the Wichita river and southeast of the Wichita Valley railway track in said city shall vote at the city hall box; all voters living west of Lamar street in said city shall vote at the court house box.

3. The said election shall be held in accordance with the general election laws and only qualified voters who are property taxpayers in said city shall be allowed to vote.

4. The ballots to be used at said election shall contain the proposition substantially as above set forth, followed by the words "for the issuance of bonds" and "against the issuance of bonds."

5. Notice of said election shall be given by the mayor by publishing a copy of this ordinance with the words "Notice of Election" prefixed thereto ten days next preceding the date of said election in the Wichita Falls Record News, a newspaper published in said city.

6. That because of the unhealthful condition existing in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, due to not having a complete sanitary sewerage system endangers the health of the citizens of said city, creates an urgent necessity demanding and requiring that the provisions of the city charter providing for the reading of ordinances on three separate days and providing that ordinances shall not go into effect until thirty days after its passage be suspended and the same are suspended and this ordinance is passed as an emergency measure and shall take effect and be in force and after its passage.

Passed and approved this the 26th day of October, A. D. 1925.

Ordinance No. 648

An ordinance providing for the holding of an election in the City of Wichita Falls, Texas, for the purpose of submitting to the qualified voters of said city who are property taxpayers therein, a proposition for the issuance of bonds of said city in the amount of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) for the purpose of constructing permanent street improvements in said city, and levying a tax on all taxable property in said city to pay the principal and interest of said bonds.

Whereas, the board of aldermen of the City of Wichita Falls deems it necessary and expedient to borrow money on the credit of the city in the sum of one hundred thousand ($100,000) dollars and to secure the payment thereof by the issuance of bonds of said city in that amount for the purpose of raising funds to pay the cost of constructing permanent street improvements in and for said city.

Now therefore, be it ordained by the Board of Aldermen of the City of Wichita Falls, Texas:

Section 1. That an election be held in said city on the tenth day of November, 1925, at which election the following propostion shall be submitted:

Shall the Board of Aldermen of the City of Wichita Falls be authorized to issue the bonds of the City of Wichita Falls in the sum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) to mature serially in from one to thirty years from the date thereof, bearing interest at the rate of four and three-quarters per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, for the purpose of providing funds for the construction of permanent street improvements in and for said city and to levy a tax sufficient to pay the interest on said bonds as it accrues and the principal thereof at maturity?

Section 2. The said election shall be held at the city hall and in Wichita county court house in the City of Wichita Falls and shall be conducted by the following named persons:

R. E. Strange, clerk, city hall box.
Boyd Dooley, clerk, city hall box.
Mrs. Kathleen Gorsline, clerk, city hall box.
Dan White, presiding judge, court house box.
F. B. Mashburn, clerk, court house box.
Robert McCulloch, clerk, court house box.
Walter Robbins, clerk, court house box.

Voters living east of Lamar street and northeast of the Wichita river and southeast of the Wichita Valley railway track in said city shall vote at the city hall box; all voters living west of Lamar street in said city shall vote at the court house box.

Section 3. The said election shall be held in accordance with the general election laws and only qualified voters who are property taxpayers in said city shall be allowed to vote.

Section 4. The ballots to be used at said election shall contain the proposition substantially as above set forth, followed by the words, "for the issuance of bonds," and "against the issuance of bonds."

Section 5. Notice of said election shall be given by the mayor by publishing a copy of this ordinance with the words, "Notice of Election," prefixed thereto ten days next preceding the date of said election in the Wichita Falls Record News, a newspaper published in this city.

Section 6. That because of the defective condition of the public streets in the City of Wichita Falls, Texas, due to not being properly graded and filled in endangers the property and health of the citizens of said city; creates an urgent necessity demanding and requiring that the provisions of the city charter providing for the reading of ordinances on three separate days and providing that ordinance shall not go into effect until thirty days be suspended and this ordinance is passed as an emergency measure and shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and it is so ordained.

Passed and approved on this the 26th day of October, A. D. 1925.

Those who have observed the development of this addition, the type of homes being constructed, the ideal arrangements of Indian Heights Boulevard, must be convinced that this addition when completely developed will be in a class by itself.

The large building sites, wide boulevards, winding driveway surrounding the park; the elevation and building protection, make this addition a most desirable place in which to live.

On Indian Heights Boulevard we only have ten building sites unsold. If you want to live in a section of the city where homesites will always be in demand and where prices will continually increase by reason of this demand, we suggest that you get in touch with us and make your selection before Indian Heights Boulevard is opened to traffic.

DOROTHY DIX ADVICE

If You Would "Get Your Man," Cling to the Shy Type, Keep the Sporty One Guessing, Give the Childhood Sweetheart Absent Treatment, Feed The Widower and Cry Real Tears For The Business Man

A young woman in love with a man who—as an old lady of my acquaintance says—"comes and sits and sits and never courts" wants to know how to lead this dilatory lover up to the proposing point.

Well, my dear, it all depends upon the type of man with which you have to deal. The tactics that succeed with one man fail with another. You don't go shooting elephants and rabbits with the same bore of gun, nor will all fish bite at the same bait. Study your man and adapt your methods to him.

Some men like to be pursued. Other men want to be the hunter instead of the prey. Some men crave only the peach that hangs highest on the tree, and that they would have to risk their necks to get. Other men have so little pep to them that they lie on their backs under the tree and wait for a ripe peach to fall into their mouths.

Hence, in planning your campaign map out the terrain of the man's disposition and character and adapt your strategy to it.

If the man is of an affectionate yet shy nature, wear your heart upon your sleeve. Nothing appeals to that sort of a man as much as knowing that a woman is in love with him. He is the preordained support of the clinging vine and any woman can have him who festoons herself about his neck.

He never has the nerve to pull away the hands that cling to him. Millions of men of this type have been married by women they would never have thought of picking out as wives for themselves just because they couldn't bear to hurt the poor little thing that loved them so much and wanted them so badly. And, anyway, by Jove, just the fac that he woman was so crazy about him showed what superior sense and taste and judgment she had!

So you can be pretty sure of catching this sort of a man if you run after him hard enough. It will flatter his vanity to have you make the dates, and call him up over the phone to ask why he didn't come to see you last night and write him six letters to his one. And when, upon an auspicious day, you let him see that you are breaking your heart for him he will avert the tragedy by popping the question.

On the other hand, if the man is of the cocky, sporty type, the kind of a man who fancies himself, it is fatal to let him find out that you have marked him for your own and are hot on his trail. That will put him on his mettle to outwit you, and in vain will you spread your snares before him. He has scented them, and he will dodge every pitfall that you have dug for his feet.

Flout that sort of a man. Break engagements with him. Pretend that you have dates with imaginary admirers. That will wake him up and make him notice you. The harder to get you are, the more he will want you. The more you flee from him the more desirable you will seem to him. It is always the bird on the wing and not the barnyard fowl that intrigues that variety of man.

If your man is one that you have grown up with, or that you have known for a long time, you must try the absence treatment. Perhaps you have become a habit with the man. For years and years he has been coming to see you, depending upon you for companionship, for sympathy, for understanding, and he has done it so long that he has ceased to see you as a woman or to realize that you are necessary to his happiness.

As long as you let things go along in that sort of a rut, he will never marry you. Things are too satisfactory just as they are, so you must jolt him awake and the best way to do this is to suddenly go off somewhere and let him miss you. Let him be lonesome for you. Let him have nowhere to spend his evenings; nobody to chum around with, or to brag to, or to tell his troubles to.

A month's absence, or setting up a rival, will practically always bring this type of man to the proposing point. When he thinks he is about to lose you, he will foreclose his option on your heart and hand.

If your man is a widower, your best ally is your gas range. Any woman who has a widower beau is an idiot who trots him around to cabarets and makes him take her to restaurants to dinner.

What the poor dear is pining for is comfort of home and home cooking, and all that any lady spider needs to do to beguile him into her parlor is just to set a little table for two, with a pink-shaded lamp and a pie that she avers she made with her won hands.

If your man is very bashful, you will simply have to push him over the brink and virtually do the proposing yourself.

He will never summon the courage to make the fatal leap himself, so cut out the lovemaking and just take it for granted that you are going to be married, and get on with the wedding preparations.

Mention casually what kind of an engagement ring you prefer and the bashful man will get it for you. And he will be too scared to remember who popped the question or how it was that you came to be entitled to one.

Any man who can resist making love to a woman in a fluffy frock on a moonlight night, with music pulsing in the distance, is so hard-boiled she is lucky not to get him.

If your man is of the common or garden variety, try tears on him. No man ever yet popped the question to a woman when she was gay and laughing. There is something about laughter that neutralizes sentiment.

But once let a woman break down and weep, and a man begins patting her shoulder and saying, "There, there, now," and before he knows it he has got his arm around her and she is sobbing on the second button of his vest and he has undertaken the job of comforting her for life.

This is a little trick that

IRRIGATION

Resistant Varieties of X Cotton

Many plant diseases have been eliminated or controlled through the development of varieties which are resistant to the particular disease in question.

Naturally attempts have been made along this line with cotton in attempting to eliminate the ravages of Texas Root rot of cotton. If a variety could be found which would be immune it would be worth millions of dollars to the farmers of Texas each year.

It has been frequently noticed in cotton fields where there were spots of dead cotton there would be few stalks which seemed immune from the disease even though surrounded by dead plants.

Seed from these plants was taken and planted in alternate rows with seed from other plants which were apparently not resistant. The results were disappointing. They were all affected alike.

After four years of such tests it was impossible to say that there was any variety of cotton which was resistant to root rot. The plants grown from the apparently resistant varieties were just as badly affected as the others.

While attempts along this line have failed so far the task should not be considered hopeless. Continued selection and experiment may well result in developing a breed which will be wholly immune. The value of such a variety will justify the expenditure of much time and money.

widows work and that explains why they can outmarry all other women. There is no other risk so hazardous as that of wiping away a widow's tears.

Oh, there are plenty of ways of leading a man up to the proposing point. And most women know them all.

BULLDOG SWAMPS MARYLAND, 43-14

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 7.—(AP).—After completely baffling Yale with a whirlwind attack in the first half which it led 14 to 10, the strong Maryland team was swamped by the Elis in the closing periods when the Yale team rolled up five touchdowns, to win 43 to 14, here today. The Elis started a substitute team which soon fell before the storm of southern offensive and permitted Maryland to cross the Blue goal line in the first few minutes of play.

In the final period the storm of the Yale attack broke loose in all its fury and rolled up four touchdowns. Three of these were made by Bill Kline. Wadsworth kicked the goal and raised Yale's final total to 43 points.

Biting Wind Chills City To Near Freezing Point

SNOW IN MISSOURI

State in Throes of One Of Worst Storms In Year

A biting north wind which hit Wichita Falls shortly before five o'clock Saturday afternoon threatened to bring the coldest weather of the season before this morning. The mercury, hovering just above the freezing point here early last night, stood at 28 degrees at Woodward, Okla., on the far north end of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern. Skies were clear there at the time.

The Fort Worth and Denver reported a brisk north wind all along its route as far north as Childress and Amarillo with freezing temperatures expected before morning. That area was generally cloudy.

At Wichita Falls the thermometer had dropped from a maximum of 65 degrees during the day to 40 degrees at 5 o'clock, to a point just above freezing early last night and there was little doubt that the night would see a freezing temperature. The wind averaged 20 miles an hour, a maximum of 32 miles an hour being registered.

MISSOURI IN THROES OF SEVERE SNOW STORM

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Late trains and snow several feet deep were the results tonight from one of the worst early November snow storms in history that was general over aKnsas and part of Missouri today.

All trains from the west were marked up from one to two hours late at unior station here tonight, and most trains in Kansas were late up to several hours.

The swirling blinding snow, driven before a sharp north wind which began to fall in Western Kansas before daylight, tonight had piled drifts several feet deep and made motor traffic almost impossible in some sections. The snow at Tribune, Kan., threatened to tie up train traffic.

Heavy rains preceded the snow in Kansas, and rain was general over the southwest, measuring from one to two inches in Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri.

PROMOTER FOR SO. MOTORS IS GIVEN 3 YEARS

Jacques Blevins at Houston Took Blame to Save His Co-Workers

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 7—(AP)—Jacques E. Blevins, convicted of using the mails to defraud in connection with promotion of the Southern Motors company today calmly heard Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson sentence him to three years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth and pay a fine of $10,000. A nervous shrug of the shoulders was the only outward manifestation given by the former president of the concern which had collected approximately $7,000,000 from a large number of stockholders in the promotoin of what had been heralded as the most extensive automobile manufacturing concern in the South.

Blevins prison sentence was deferred 30 days upon request of his counsel that he might have time to arrange his affairs. He was released on the bond of $1,000 previously given when he was indicted.

"I would rather have your promise to be here than all the bonds you mightm ake," Judge Hutcheson told Blevins after the convicted man had promised to deliver himself into the custody of the United States marshal for transportation to prison 30 days from today.

Blevins, who during his trial had told the jury which convicted him that he alone was to blame for the financial collapse of the Southern Motors enterprise, if there was blame attached to anybody, made an eleventh hour attempt to save hiss even co-defendants who were officers or employes of the company.

TUESDAY EVENING CLUB.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cook entertained the Tuesday evening club this week at their home. Forty-two was enjoyed by five tables of players after which refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her daughters, Mrs. T. B. Lewis of Mineral Wells and Mrs. Lloyd Cook of ernon. The guests included Messrs. and Mesdames Grover Thaxton, W. B. Allen, Barlow Weaver, R. B. Duggar, Lou Kelly, R. E. Smith, Mesdames Jack McKenzie, J. H. Graves, Elmer Eaton, Lloyd Cook, T. B. Lewis and A. L. Mallich.

B. B. CLUB.

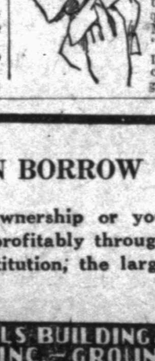

Miss Mozelle Hodge entertained the B. B. club Friday afternoon with a Hallowe'en party. The Hallowe'en iden was carried out in decorations and refreshments. Games were played and one feature of entertainment was a fortune teller. The hostess was assisted by Miss Bessie Wells and Dorothy Hodge. Those present were Misses Mary Parrish, VIda Catherine Neville, Nell Powell, Laura Marie Marberry, Anna Catherine Oheim, Maurine Cook, Rose La Mae Bramer, Christine Carter, Jessamine Nutter, Esta Mae Waters, and Mozelle Hodge.

WEDNESDAY CLUB.

The Wednesday afternoon club was delightfully entertained this week by Mrs. H. L. Bramer. There were six tables of "Forty-two" and at the close of the game the hostess assisted by Mrs. Homer Hamm and Mrs. Ben W. Nutter, served a tempting two-course luncheon to Mesdames J. H. Caldwell, Jim Alcorn, W. K. Millsap, B. P. Schwend, J. C. Chestnutt, W. A. Sandifer, Jack McKenzie, H. Boddy, Grover Thaxton, M. B. Powell, S. E. Galloway, Harold Ferriss, D. M. Puckett, Cyrus Coleman, J. C. Chestnutt, J. H. Williamson, A. J. Oheim, J. W. Marberry, Lon Kelly, Luther Thaxton, A. L. Thompson, W. L. Mount, W. B. Allen, S. J. Sayton, C. P. Walker, Ben W. Nutter, Homer Hamm and W. J. Mangum.

"Vanity Fair Revue" Bids For Wichita Falls Favor Monday

Peggy Piedmont

DEAR KITTY: Last week when I wrote you what a full month November was, I did not half anticipate the many events that would be crowded into the very first week. Society has not had a dull day. Mornings, afternoons and evenings have been filled to the utmost with every sort of activity. Besides the many Sunday school class parties, the meetings of the Parent-Teachers' associations, and numerous other affairs, some of the largest parties of the season have been given, beginning with the tea Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. G. D. Anderson and Mrs. Landon H. Collum entertained at the Wichita club, introducing the new bride, Mrs. G. D. Anderson Jr., and honoring Ona Astin of Bryan, Mrs. Cullum's guest.

* * *

Miss Astin was also honoree at a lovely dinner party given at the Country club Saturday evening when Jarrell Gose was host to a merry group of young people.

And then Thursday afternoon, another one of the largest of the autumn parties was given, when Mesdames Mark Moore and M. M. Walker entertained at bridge and "42" at the Country club, and tucked in between all these affairs was one of the most delightful children's affairs of the fall, a dance given by Mrs. Richard Delaney, celebrating the birthday of one of her children.

The bridge party given by Mrs. C. H. Reid, also at the Country club on Saturday afternoon culminated a week of the largest social affairs ever given in the city.

* * *

But I must not be so full of big parties that I forget to tell you about another important affair, that of the afternoon and evening program given by the Musician's club at the home of their president, Mrs. A. H. Britain. In the words of some who were there, "it was perfectly delightful." So informal, yet so artistic. The program which was thoroughly original, most elaborate, and "real" artists held large numbers of guests interested throughout the afternoon and evening, Friday. It was called an informal tea, and a warm welcome was not only extended to members of the Musician's club and their escorts, but to all who were interested in music in the city.

But it is a hard thing to write you many lines before I tell you something about what the Forum is doing. For not a week goes by but that it does something. Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the health department will meet at the Y. W. C. A. and hear two papers or talks on a subject that women are vitally interested in. Mrs. Margaret Eastwood, beauty specialist at the Orchid Shop will talk on "Flabby Muscles" and Mrs. A. P. Terrell will also talk on "Muscles."

* * *

While women now days like to hae muscles, very few desire to be thought fat. However, a Wichita Fall's woman who has recently returned from a trip to New York City, told us that she was thoroughly reconciled to being fat after seeing and hearing and being in the company of Trixie Friganza, headliner at one of the theaters while she was there.

For if ever a human being scattered sunshine with her smile and made everybody feel better for her coming it was same Trixie, she said. At every performance, this woman said that the house was packed and every time Trixie's act was on, the theatre rang with laughter. "Now if she had of been a skinny galoot (how do you spell it?) she would have been cross, sarcastic, maybe taking despepsin tablets. For have you noticed, she continued, "that it's the fat people that are the happy ones and who have good dispositions?"

"It is perfectly delightful to go to a vaudeville and see a real artist like this one holding hundreds of people breathless and interested by just some silly stunts she pulls off, and when the artist is as pretty as this one with her white hair, her beautiful dark eyes sparkling with merriment and expression, why you just feel like the whole world is filled with sunshine and I am sure there is no one who can sing that tuneful melody from "No, No, Nanette, I Want to Be Happy," and make you happy, too, with greater feeling and expression than Trixie Frigana."

* * *

But speaking of shows reminds me that we are to hae a good one of our own netx week with the first performance on Monday night and the second on Tuesday night. The play is being sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's club as their annual offering and the name is "Vanity Fair Revue." And all this leads up to an exceptionally brilliant small girl whom I want to tell you about, and for whom we predict big things. She is little Miss Wilma Brown, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Brown. She is ten years old and is the only child in the large cast of this production. She will be seen in a dainty dance act in the beautiful old fashioned garden scene as the "spirit of the garden." In addition to being a finished dancer, little Miss Brown has other marked talents. She is a most promising piano pupil of Ernest Kat, a violin pupil of Stanly M. Raub, and an honor student in the first year of junior high school.

* * *

If you know a small girl with more talents than this one, friend of mine, please point me to her.

Well taking it all in all, I just feel like we are some pumpkins in this Thanksgiving month. And I am I going much? you ask. Not meaning to be slangy, but answering you as one of my slang friends would, "I ain't skipping."

—Peggy Piedmont.

Two of the Revues in "Vanity Fair," Majestic Monday and Tuesday

—Story Photo

Miss Ina Merle Robinson will be soloist in the chorus. "Ina Merle and the Boy Friends," in the Business and Professional Women's production "The Vanity Fair Revue" to be given at the Majestic theatre Monday and Tuesday nights.

Mrs. Mark Moore and Mrs. M. M. Walker Entertain With 29 Tables At Country Club Reception Here

Bridge and 42 Enjoyed At Pretty Party Thursday

Proving one of the most elaborate and beautiful parties of the autumn season, Mrs. Mark Moore and Mrs. M. M. Walker, entertained 23 tables of bridge and six of "42," at the Country club Thursday afternoon.

The club reception suite was decorated in ferns, palms, autumn leaves, hugh plume chrysanthemums and roses for the occasion, and in the dining room where dainty refreshments were served, candles and shaded lights entwined in an autumn vine with brilliant red berries, shed a soft glow over the exquisitely gowned guests, with the numerous other colorful flowers and greenery it presented a lovely picture.

The hostesses were assisted in entertaining by Mesdames Ross Robertson and Lucille B. Huff.

In the bridge games, Mrs. G. D. Anderson made high score and was presented a handsome brass fruit bowl while Mrs. P. P. Langford received one for high in "42." Mrs. J. H. SUB-CONVENTION HOLDS INTERESTING MEETING.

Representatives of the First Evangelical church, the Yale Avenue and the Scotland church met in a business and social session at the home of Misses Grace and Ruth Turner Friday evening when plans were discussed for the regular sub-convention meeting to be held the latter part of the month.

Delegates from the Sunday school, the Ladies' Aid and the Epworth league will attend this meeting and discuss subjects concerning the various departments of the Evangelical church.

The meeting was presided over by the president, the Rev. R. C. McIlver and after the business session, games were played and refreshments served to 65 members.

* * * *

MRS. DELLIS HOSTESS TO PRISCILLA CLUB

Mrs. D. Dellis was hostess to an all-day meeting of the Priscilla club at her home Friday. The house was fragrant with fall roses, and a three-course menu was served. The day was spent in embroidery work and conversation.

Plates were laid for Mesdames Roy Hagen, N. Hagen, William Gregg, G. O. Lougheridge, George Brown, T. A. Uhrich, H. W. Jagers, J. H. Fowler and Misses Lydia Uhrich and Ruth Mercer.

MRS. CHILDERS HOSTESS AT BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. W. K. Childers was hostess at a delightful bridge party to a group of friends at her home on Bell street Thursday afternoon when the house was prettily decorated with cut flowers for the occasion.

In the games, Mrs. L. A. Nix won the high score favor, a dainty vase, while Mrs. W. E. Lindley was consoled for low with a vanity.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames Stan Spence, W. E. Lindley, L. O. Nix, O. R. Jeffers, Jackson, Whitworth, H. L. Ellis and Miss Emily McCulloch.

Mrs. C. H. Reid Compliments A Guest At Club

Mrs. Granville Bush Of Phoenix, Ariz., Is Honor Guest

Culminating a week well dotted with elaborate affairs, was the "Chrysanthemum" bridge given at the Country club Saturday afternoon when Mrs. C. H. Reid complimented her house guest, Mrs. Granville Bush of Phoenix, Ariz.

Seventeen tables were arranged for the games in the living room of the club, which was lovely with decorations of bronze plume chrysanthemums arranged in baskets and vases everywhere.

The hostess was assisted in entertaining by her small daughter, Katherine Reid, and lovely prizes in Italian cut work were given for high and low score. The honoree was remembered with a piece of dainty silk lingerie. Each gift was inclosed in a lovely package in the form of a chrysanthemum with green stem.

Mrs. T. A. Hicks in Charge Of Program for Afternoon

One of the most charming affairs of the week was given at the Wichita club Friday when the president of the Travel club, Mrs. G. L. Shapard, entertained the club members at 1 o'clock luncheon. The long table was beautifully decorated in chrysanthemums and autumn leaves for the occasion, and a four course menu was served.

The afternoon was devoted to a program on "Children's National Book Week" led by Mrs. T. A. Hicks during which a unique feature was a pageant given by 14 boys and girls of the Austin school in costume and representing various well-known children's books, including Peter Pan, Alice in Wonderland, The Dutch Twins, Water Baby, Heidi, Robin Hood, Joe, from Little Women, Tom Sawyer and others. The pageant proved unusually interesting and clever, and was presented under the direction of Miss Tobin, one of the Austin school teachers.

Miss Tobin also entertained with two readings, "A Heap of Living" by Edgar Guest, and a negro dialect, "Trouble From All Over the Whole Family."

Mrs. Hicks discussed story telling for children, and Mrs. John M. Martin, led in a discussion of children's books.

Places were laid for Mesdames C. N. Alexander, D. J. Carithers, C. H. Clark, W. W. Cook, Arch Dawson, W. W. Fraser, Ola Hamlin, J. B. Hatchitt, T. A. Hicks, Luther Hoffman, Q. B. Lee, John M. Martin, John C. McDonald, W. F. Pagan, Guy Rogers, Lyle Sproles, E. C. Will and W. B. McClain.

Musicians' Club Enjoys "At Home" Party in Britain Residence Here; Pleasing Programs Are Rendered

Local Artists Appear In Brillian Music Recital

An unusually enjoyable and brilliant affair of the week was the Musicians' club "at home" given Friday afternoon and evening at the home of the president, Mrs. A. H. Britain. The affair was given especially complimenting the active, associate and new members and friends, and in the absence of Mrs. Britain who unexpectedly left the city, the guests were greeted by the vice president, Mrs. Lois Parker and were introduced to a receiving line including Mr. and Mrs. Harwood Stacy, Mr. and Mrs. Alva Willgus and Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Wallace.

In the house party were Messrs. and Mesdames B. L. Fain, Rev. and Mrs. Leslie Miller, H. B. Patterson, G. D. Anderson, Ivan Murchison, Jouette Bonner, Leonard Grayson, D. L. Fritz, Dr. and Mrs. Collard, Ray Essyn, Edwin and Kenneth Bebb, Mercer, Frank Van Wormer, Fred Barron, W. B. Hamilton, Mrs. Lucille B. Huff Misses Katherin Kilander, Adele and Juel Ray, Baker, Voss and Messrs Vaughn Ray, W. E. Young, Baldwin Montgomery, Harris and Floyd Ard.

Punch Served.

The guests were shown into the sun room where punch was served by Misses Monterey Lewis and Lucile Freet who presided over the punch bowl, and membership cards were issued by Miss Lucy Huggins.

The entire reception suite of the spacious Britain home was a mass of lovely cut flowers, plume chrysanthemums, roses and greenery, and in the dining room, tea was poured by Mesdames G. D. Anderson and H. B. Patterson. Mesdames Anna Hood, Leonard Grayson and D. L. Fritz also presided in here, where refreshments were served by a group of young women including Misses Marget Duncan, Katherine Kilander, Josephine Fisk, Morris and Woods.

Mints and olives were passed by little Misses Ona Belle Britain, Kate Early Parker and Genevieve Mercer.

Violin Numbers.

Mrs. Ray Essyn gave a group of violin numbers during the afternoon which were thoroughly enjoyed, and during the evening the program included a vocal number, "Gypsy Love Song" (Litz) by Ivan Murchison, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Huff. Mr. Murchison responded to an enthusiastic encore with another lovely number.

Miss Baker, a new artist in the city, with an especially beautiful contralto voice, sang "In the Time of Roses (Reichard) and "To You (Steaks). She responded to an encore with another number, and the Ray trio then delighted the guests with a song.

Rev. Leslie Miller, favorite baritone, san, "I Hear You Calling Me" (Marshal) and responded to an encore with "Dear Old Pal." Floys Ard gave a piano solo, "The Maiden's Wish" (Chopin-Litz) and responded with an encore number. Miss Adele Ray sang "The Wren" (Benedict) and responded to an encore with "Songs My Mother Taught Me" (Dvorak).

The afternoon and evening was spent in a delightfully informal manner and about 200 guests called.

UNIVERSITY STUDY

The University Study club was royally entertained Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. C. Anderson on the Gulf lease. The president, Mrs. Martin, opened with a brief business hour followed by the study program on current matter taken from reports and reviews in the Literary Digest, Mrs. J. M. Pogues gave a number of events of much interest, followed by Mrs. Miller, who presented still others from the magazines, also of current interest to the members. The first study or drill in parliamentary rules and customs was led by Mrs. J. M. F. Gill, and will be conducted in the last December meeting. During the last hour formalities were suspended and a general social season enjoyed, featured by a delicious plate luncheon served by the gracious hostess, Mrs. Anderson, to the following members: Mesdames M. L. Urban, Russell Chamberlain, J. M. F. Gill, J. C. Adams, Jewell Covington, W. P. Martin, J. T. Miller, D. D. Cunningham, W. D. Utts, Rex Smith, R. C. Tevis, G. R. Kincaid, J. M. Pogue, John E. PYTHIAN SISTERS

Announcement is made by the presiding officers of the Pythian Sisters this week that all members in the team work are requested to come to the I. O. O. F hall on each Wednesday afternoon from 1 until 3 o'clock for practice session. These hours will give ample time to attend other organization meetings on these dates to which the Pythian Sisters belong.

BOY SCOUTS

On Friday evening the local troops of Boy Scouts were entertained with a delightful outing and barbecue on Red river, the transportation being made in trucks furnished by friends of the boys. The scout ceremonies took place in the river bed on the sand. Mr. Gregg, Frank Creighton of Wichita Falls and other commanders and leaders made good talks and helped the boys have a general good time.

FEDERATED CLUBS

The club ladies of the Burkburnett Federated clubs leaving Sunday for Austin to attend the state federation convention are Mrs. M. L. Urban, delegate from the University club; Mrs. M. W. Majors, from the Current Literature club, and Mrs. J. M. F. Gill, president of the Texas Woman's Press association. The convention will be in session from the ninth to the fourteenth of the month and will be featured by the election of the new state president with Mrs. W. R. Potter of Bowie and Mrs. F. U. Fields of Haskell as candidates for the honor.

BIBLE LECTURE

Dr. H. O. Moore is giving a series of Bible lectures on the first Wednesday night of each month at the First Presbyterian church. The series began this week with a splendidly interesting and entertaining talk on the book of Genesis. All members and friends in the congregation are urged to attend these mid-week sessions. A variety of programs will be given from week to week.

MATRONS' CLASS

The Matrons' class of the Central Christian church entertained with a Hallowe'en party when the hours were spent in playing 42. The house was bright with the season's emblems, banners and colors and the high score to the men fell to H. C. Anderson, while that for the ladies went to Mrs. E. C. Waits. The consolations went to Mr. Bradley and Mrs. S. E. Tabor. Everyone had an enjoyable time and in the conclusion the hostesses, Mrs. W. P. Martin, Mrs. N. C. Sheffer and Mrs. H. C. Anderson, served a plate luncheon to the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Parker, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Bent, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Travis, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Hall, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. IOWA PARK

NAME FILLING STATION.

The owners of the new filling station that has been under construction for the past two months, was given Wednesday by the committe ,chosen to select the name. The name was taken from the many names sent in by the readers of the Iowa Park He-r ald. Frederick Taylor, a high school boy, in the 10th grade, was the lucky contestant. He submitted two names, "The Gateway Service Station" and "The Gateway Filling Station." The judges chose for the owners "The Gateway Service Station," as the name.

POPULAR COUPLE WEDS.

IOWA PARK, Nov. 3.—James D. Greer of Iowa Park, connected with Bird-Greer and George firm and Miss Maude Wigley of Iowa Park were made man and wife Sunday morning at 8 o'clock by Rev. J. C. Newman, pastor of the First Baptist church at the home of the bride's Mrs. H. A. Wigley. Just a few relatives and near friends were present.

Mrs. Greer grew to her present age in Iowa Park and comes from one of the oldest families in this community. Mrs. Greer is known by the name of Maude and has a host of friends here.

Mr. Greer is known as a fine cotton grower. He has several varieties of good cotton that took first prize at the Texas-Oklahoma fair and at the cotton palace, Waco and Dallas fair.

Mr. Greer has many friends in Iowa Park as well as Wichita county and has been a useful man in the raising of cotton in the Wichita irrigated valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Greer are now in Waco and will later return to Iowa Park where they expect to build and make their future home.

NAMED DIRECTOR GENERAL.

W. R. Bradford, superintendent of Iowa Park schools, has been selected as director general of the University of Texas interscholastic league for district No. 4, according to announcement by Roy Bedechek, state director general. Other officers are: Director of declamation, Miss Juanita Kinsey, Wichita Falls; Superintendent G. C. Boswell, director of debates and extemperanous speaking; Superintendent L. Z. Timmons of Throckmarton, director of essay writing; Superintendent B. M. Dinsmore, of Electra, director of athletic and a missicelaneous memory if the district officers decide to have this contest.

PRODUCTS WIN.

The agricultural products gathered by Earnest Birk, Guy R. Jones and James D. Greer and put on exhibit at Texas-Oklahoma fair, Dallas fair and then to the cotton palace of Waco, won 20 or more blue ribbons, 12 red ribbons at the cotton palace. This news came through R. Eberling, branch manager of the Iowa Park chamber of commerce.

Most every thing entered from the irrigated valley scored. The long staple cotton that J. D. Greer has been improving for the past 15 years stood out and above all other varieties of cotton on exhibit at the cotton palace and quite a good many comments were passed on it.

The following awards were given to cotton from the irrigated valley: Short staple cotton, Mebane, first and Lone Star third; long staple, Greer's first and second.

The best ten heads of various grains, the Wichita valley products received: Milo, maize, second kaffir corn, white first, feteritz, first, and second, hegori, first and second darso first, red top sorghum first and second.

Second grains, red milo maize, first, durso first, sweet clover, first, alfalfa, first, seedon grass first, oats first, red top sorghum first, black eyed peas, first and othr varieiety of peas first.

The vegetable were not lagging. Irish cobbler potatoes, first, Nancy Hall sweet potatoes first, stock cuts, second, turnips second, carrots first, red pepper, first, green papper first, cushaw, second and cabbage second.

FILLS PULPIT.

DRY GOODS STORE SOLD

The . C. Hines Dry Goods store recently put in by Mr. Hines has been sold to the owners of the Fair store of this place. The above company now has one of the most up-to-date dry goods stores in Iowa Park and a beautiful location in a new brick building. The Fair company plan to combine the two stocks at once.

TAILOR SHOP CHANGES HANDS

The Ttailoring Company owned and operated by Graham and Ralston on Cash street has been sold to S. E. McKinney of this place. Mr. McKinney is an old timer of Iowa Park and is expecting a good business.

BUILDING WARE HOUSE

The Park Implement company is having constructed a large ware house on a railroad switch so as to be able to carry a larger stock of farming implements next year. This business concern has enjoyed a good business this year and are preparing to serve many more people next year. The Iowa Park ware house departments.

MEETING CALLED

A meetnig of all basketball coaches of Wichita county and the county officials of the Uniersity interscholastic league has been called to meet in Supt. W. R. Bradford's office Monday night, Nov 9, at 7:45 to arrange a preliminary basketball schedule, set age limit for junior and sub-juniors basketball players, and to discuss plans for the year's work in Wichita county.

VAUGHN QUARTET

The Vaughn quartet from Wills Point, Texas, rendered a musical concert at the school building Thursday night to a good sie crowd. The program was very good and the characters were well prepared to render their part of the program. This quartet came from Bellevue here and had rendered several programs in various parts of this country.

METHODIST CHURCH

The Methodist church congregation will soon be the proud possessor of the largest church in Iowa Park and perhaps thel argest church of any town in north Texas with a population of not over 3,000 people. This building has been under construction since last August and will be ready for use by December 1. The congregation has been meeting and worshipping in the school building since in August.

Lemon Removes Lines, Wrinkles

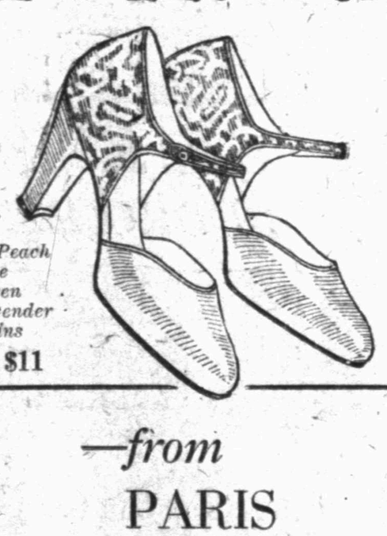

Squeeze the juice of two lemons in a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents, shake well and you have the very mildest anti-wrinkle lotion to tighten relaxed skin, erase fine lines and eradicate crows-feet.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion into the skin at night. By morning most of the tell-tale wrinkles, tired lines and crows-feet are smoothed out, giving a more youthful contour to cheeks, chin, throat. It leaves the skin velvety sofet, clear and fresh.

Beauty experts use this astringent lotion for enlarged pores, also to bleach and whiten sallow, tanned skin.

CHRISTIAN MISSIONARY.

The Missionary society of the Christian church met on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ed. Craddock. The devotional hour was led by Mrs. Chas. Mothes with the theme and spirit of Thanksgiving. The subject for study for the afternoon's lesson was "Paraguay." Some very interesting papers and discussion of the country, resources, opportunities and of mission work being done there were given by Mesdames Claude Daugherty, Frank Fancher, E. C. Cogswell, W. A. Baker and Miss Lucille Rupe. A salad plate was served to the following members: Mesdames G. A. Buie, Chas. Mothes, C. F. Johnson, W. L. Goodwin, H. R. McDavid, J. C. Gowin, B. C. Johnson, Frank Fancher, Z. W. Briggs, J. T. Lively, Robert St. Clair, W. R. Craddock, Alva Hill, W. R. Lee, E. C. Cogswell, Jay Morgan, R. J. Foster, May Pierce and Miss Rupe.

PIERIAN CLUB.

The Pierian club had a most enjoyable program and social hour with Mrs. J. T. Kemp on Thursday afternoon, in their study of "Texas." "All is Not Well in Texas" was the theme of the program. Roll call was answered by "Why Every Texan Should Love Texas." A reading by Mrs. I. O. Newton, "Hymn to the Alamo," was much enjoyed, others taking part on the program were: Mesdames E. P. Smith, Roy Stevens, J. A. Britain, J. T. Keffer. After the program, plum pudding with hard sauce, coffee and ambrosia was served to Mesdames I. O. Newton, G. S. Flantz, E. P. Smith, Chas. Randel, J. A. Britain, D. R. Daugherty, Jr., R. L. Kellum, J. M. Edwards, S. W. Pistole, M. R. Surratt, Roy Stevens, W. A. Baker, May Cooper, S. Drane, Mattie E. Taylor, L. F. Keffer and Miss Ratliff.

BRIDGE CLUB.

Mrs. C. M. Russey was hostess to the Bridge club at her pretty home, where five tables were arranged for bridge. In the games, Mrs. H. C. Lankford held the lucky high and was given a lovely bridge set, Mrs. C. Daugherty was presented with a novelty tape measure for low score. A most tempting salad plate was served by the hostess to the following guests: Mesdames J. G. Rollins, Jimmie Wren, D. R. Daugherty, Jr., Frank Fancher, H. K. Jackson, Geo. Flantz, Margaret McCracken, Claude Daugherty, Luther Briggs, Buck Wallace, Whit Whiteside, Seth Cockrell, R. E. Culver, G. C. McGown, A. J. McNeill, Misses Lois Crane, Pauline Knox, Grace Brooks Caldwell, Jo Lee Dickson, Christine Caldwell and Lucy Britton.

PRESBYTERIAN MISSIONARY.

Mrs. A. D. Kerr and her daughter, Mrs. O. McDaniel were joint hostesses to members of the Woman's Missionary society of the Presbyterian church, on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. McDaniel. The devotional service was led by Mrs. Kerr with prayer by Rev. H. C. Cargill. The study of the book of Ruth was then enjoyed with Rev. Cargill as leader. Some of the late heroines of faith were reviewed, Mrs. F. H. Bunkley speaking of the life and work of Florence Nightingale; Mrs. J. H. Milam, Mary and Martha; Mrs. M. E. Tarver gave the story of Ruth in lines composed by herself, which was much enjoyed. A social hour was enjoyed with the hostesses serving a Scotch tea, and Mrs. Kerr telling of reminiscent days of her early life in Scotland and of her visit to that country last year. Those present were: Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Cargill, Mesdames Clyde Fancher, Stone Knox, L. Briggs, M. E. Tarver, R. R. Kellum, J. H. Milam, F. H. Bunkley, R. O. Tolson, Robt. Jones, Geo. Shuker, A. A. Grossman, R. T. Dickson, C. E. Johnson, Geo. McDonald, Jeanie Martin and the hostesses.

KING'S DAUGHTERS.

The retiring officers of the King's Daughters class of the Baptist church entertained the incoming officers on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. David Holman with a delightful party. A short business session was first had, after which time was played much pleasure. A refreshment plate consisting of chicken salad, pumpkin pie, hot rolls and tea was served to Mesdames L. W. Dalton, teacher of the class, Chas. Caldwell, Frazier, Carroll, Ashley, Mont Lankford, R. W. Bradshaw, Jim McClellan, Newman, J. E. Culver, J. C. Word, Jr., H. K. Jackson, Roy Whiteside, Thomas, Josie Ford, Will Holmsand David Holman.

SAND S. CULB.

The Sand S. club met with Miss Gladys England Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The home, with its coziness and profound cut flowers furnished the favorable environment for the jolly seamstresses.

After two hours spent both pleasantly and profitably the hostess passed a dainty refreshment plate with miniature pin cushions as plate favors. Those present were: Misses Lois King, Pauline Knox, Grace Brooks Caldwell, Christine Caldwell, Lois Cook, Jo Lee Dickson and the hostess.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. G. E. Morris and son, Charles, returned Sunday from Dallas, where Charles had a very serious operation performed in Baptist sanitarium. He is doing fine and his friends hope that he will regain his former health.

Misses Mary Dickson and Lucy Britton, teachers in the Wichita Falls schools, were at home for the week-end.

FOR TWO HONOREES.

On Monday afternoon the home of Mrs. M. W. Rogers was a pretty scene when the ladies of the First Baptist church honored Mrs. J. H. Edmonds with a miscellaneous shower and the members of the T. E. L. class presented Mrs. Elbert Geer with a lovely bouquet of flowers.

As Mrs. Edmonds was ushered into the living room the assembled guests were singing, "There Shall be Showers of Blessings" and as they sang many pretty and useful gifts were showered upon her by a group of ladies from an adjoining room. As the last strain of the song were sung, Mrs. Edmonds in her own well-chosen words, expressed her thanks for the gifts and at the same time expressed the desire that each one present should receive blessings spiritual as well as temporal. Following Mrs. Edmonds' talk a short program was rendered. Mrs. Winfred Cole sang a "Perfect Day"; Little Miss Doris Jobe gave a reading on Thanksgiving and Miss Frances Rogers interpreted James Whitcomb Riley's "Hired Girl." At the close of the program Mrs. Elmer Turner, president of the T. E. L. class, entered the reception rooms carrying a beautiful bouquet of white and yellow roses, which she presented to Mrs. Elbert Geer in behalf of the T. E. L. class as an expression of love and appreciation for her services rendered the class while teacher and member. Mrs. Geer then thanked Mrs. Turner for her beautiful words and expressed her thanks to the members of the class for its love and thoughtfulness. After which a delightful refreshment plate was served to about 50 guests. Upon departing each lady thanked Mrs. Rogers for her hospitality and expressed many good wishes for Mrs. Edmonds, who is moving to Anson and Mrs. Geer who is leaving for Abilene.

H. AND R. BRIDGE CLUB.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. D. B. Earnest entertained the members of the H. and R. Bridge club with a bridge party naming her friend, Mrs. Rayford B. Hills, of Anson, as honor guest. Gorgeous roses, chrysanthemums and other fall flowers of brilliant hues combined with Thanksgiving decoration were employed in the entertaining rooms of the Earnest home in the west part of town. After a number of interesting games played the hostess served a lovely salad course with miniature turkey for plate favors to the following members: Mesdames Clyde Grisson, Baily Post, John P. Payne, Hill Oats, J. B. Pumphrey, Jess Campbell, Marlin Wilson, and Mrs. Rayford B. Hills of Anson.

CRIMM PARTY.

Saturday night after services at the church the Crimm party entertained the young people with a Hallowe'en party in the basement of the church, which was beautifully decorated with orange and black crepe paper. A number of funny games and contests were enjoyed. Delicious hot chocolate, cake and sandwiches were served to about 65 guests of the younger set. The young people wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong and Mr. Hains for the entertainment and their kindness and each one wishes for them much happiness.

RECIPROCITY DAY.

The Magazine club of Haskell observed Reciprocity day in that city on Friday afternoon of last week at the Methodist church. Members of the Rule Philadelphian club and other federated clubs of the surrounding towns were invited. The church was beautifully decorated with lavish profusion of yellow chrysanthemums. Mrs. W. H. Muchison, in her most charming manner presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers of the afternoon. Mrs. D. L. Stephens of Anson, made very interesting talk on "The Spirit of Federation." The Stamford Music club gave two vocal numbers. Members of other clubs made short talks on "What My Club Has Meant to My Town." Mrs. J. M. Steele of the Rule Philadelphian club made a interesting talk for the Rule club. After the program lovely refreshments of ice cream molded in the form of miniature pumpkins with chocolate cake was served to about 150 guests. The following ladies from the Rule Philadelphian club attended this lovely affair, Mesdames J. M. Steel, Server Leon, E. E. Morris, J. D. Westbrook, P. F. Simpson, Joe Jones and Mrs. J. E. Lindsey.

CRIMM REVIVAL.

The Crimm revival, which had been in progress for three weeks, closed last Sunday night, with a number of additions to the different churches in town and a score of church members coming forward and reconsecrating their lives. Rev. Mr. Crimm, is one of the strong evangelist of America and wherever he goes he preaches the gospel of Christ to a lost world. There was something more than $2,000 raised fo rthe Crimm revival troup. Rev. Mr. Crimm and party left Sunday night for Marshall, Texas, where they will rest for several days and go from there to Louisiana where they will conduct another meeting.

REV. HILL EDMONDS MOVES.

Rev. Hill Edmonds, who has been pastor of the Rule Baptist church for the past year, left Tuesday for Anson where they will make their home. It is with regret that this good family is leaving our town and community. As a token of their appreciation of the work of Bro. Edmonds and his family, the town presented him with a check for $300.

Olney

HALLOWE'EN FETE.

Witches, goblins, imps and all the terrorizing creatures of spook land paraded Friday evening at the Baptist church when the Intermediate B. Y. P. U. and Sunday school classes participated in a Hallowe'en festival. About one hundred masks were seen in the party which made the trip through "Ghost Land," an ordeal that only the brave dare and led to a Gipsy tea where a mysterious fortune teller foretold the future. A novel stunt-party was disclosed in the cutting the nuts from a miniature tree, in the kernel of which an order for clever performances had been placed. Under the direction and planning of Mrs. Mellie Vaughn, every minute was filled with pleasure for the young people. A Hallowe'en assortment of dainties, cracker jacks, pumpkin pie, hot chocolate, and candy witches' brooms was served by Mesdames A. R. Wright, J. L. Jones, Jeff Keeter, and Mellie Vaughn.

FIDELIS CLASS.

Mrs. Will O'Connell was hostess to the Fidelis class of the First Baptist church at her home Monday afternoon. The guests busied themselves fashioning dainty articles for the Christmas Bazaar, an annual affair of the class on the second Saturday of December, at which time plans have been made to convert Linn's Furniture store into a charming novelty gift shop. The class will meet every Monday until the bazaar is given and combine work with pleasure, the next meeting to be with Mrs. M. D. Wolverton. When the needles could be laid aside for a moment the hostess served lovely refreshments to Mesdames Lee Atchley, Wm. Thomas, J. T. Hutchings, A. R. Wright, Sam Casey, L. E. Haynie, M. D. Wolverton, V. S. Howell, Geo. Rice, O. H. McAlister and Misses Jessye Hightower and Della Hutchings.

ALTRUISTIC CLUB.

A most interesting and instructive program was presented at the Altruistic club on Friday afternoon when the club met with Mrs. Sam Casey. Mrs. H. C. McKinney was leader for the afternoon and provided two musical numbers by guests, Mrs. Haynie gave a piano number and Mrs. Frances Scott Thrash sang. The roll call a current event from happenings in our state proved to be very informing. The lesson proper held three papers given by Miss Adele Harrell, discussing "Life in the Middle Ages and the renaissance," "The Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries in England, and American Colonial Life," was the topic which Mrs. Rhea Anderson gave. Mrs. L. F. Gragg read the last paper, "Family Life in the Nineteenth Century." At the business session, the club elected the president, Mrs. Rhea Anderson to represent the Altruistic club at the state convention, which convenes the 10 to 14th of this month at Austin. Mrs. M. D. Wolverton was made alternate. Later in the afternoon Mrs. Casey, assisted by Mrs. Haynie, served sandwiches, olives, potato chips, pie and coffee with whipped cream.

TUESDAY EMBROIDERY.

The Tuesday Embroidery club met with Mrs. W. C. Harrell this week, when several guests added to the pleasure of the afternoon. Following several hours spent in sewing and chatting, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Shuffler, served a savory plate of shrimp salad with toasted crackers, olives, potato balls with cheese, nut bead sandwiches, cake and coffee with cream to the members and Mesdames Bert Bloodworth, Clark Davis, George Roach, and Harry Hollister.

METHODIST LADIES.

With the bazaar planned to be given on the second Saturday in December, much is to be accomplished and the meetings are growing longer and the needles are flying faster. Mrs. W. C. Noah and Mrs. J. R. Suits entertained the ladies of the Methodist church on Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Noah's home, when they brought their sewing and furthered their plans for the bazaar.

Late in the afternoon the hostess served delicious refreshments of sandwiches, olives, heavenly hash, cake and coffee with cream.

HOSTESS AT BRIDGE.

Miss Katherine Manton entertained two tables at bridge on Tuesday evening at her home. In the games Miss Verna Blewett made high score, receiving a hand made handkerchief and Miss Edna Wood was given a similar favor for second high.

Miss Manton served a dainty refreshment plate of sandwiches, olives, potato chips, stuffed dates and coffee to Misses Verna Blewett, Edna Wood, Deogan Groves, Bernice Groves, Faye Thompson, Leone McCracken, and Esther Manton.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

Mrs. Jack Marcell's Sunday school class entertained with a well planned and enjoyable Hallowe'en party last Thursday evening at the basement of the church. Hallowe'en decorations were effectively used and embodied in all the games and appointments. Pumpkin pie and coffee with whipped cream was served to Misses Willie B. Arnett, Myrtle Huntley, Elizabeth Bird, Helen Thomas, Sadie Moore, Johnny Rogers, Hallie Farmer, Sarah Belle Ham, Mattie Moore, Johnny Moore, Lillian Alsup, Katherine Burchell, Velma Streatley, Eloise Farmer and Messrs, Olin Calvin, Emmett Hallman, Bill Hallman, Glenn Nixon, Raymond Lunn, Buster Ransom, Harold Burchell, Burck, Ward, Ernest Alsup, Hubert Gadberry, Ernest Edwards, Frank Thomas and Mrs. Marcell.

Nervous and Pale

"WHEN just a girl I was in very bad health," says Mrs. Charles Abell, whose portrait is reproduced here. "I was weak and run-down, nervous and very pale. I suffered . . . with pain in my sides and back. The pains would bear down in my sides and I would get so weak in my knees I couldn't stand. I suffered dreadfully.

"I took Cardui at this time, three or four bottles, and it helped me. I gained strength and my health was much better.

"About two years ago I had a sick spell and was in a pretty bad fix. I would have dizzy spells and very severe nervous headaches. I began taking Cardui. Well, the improvement was soon apparent. I was less nervous. The headaches were less frequent. I could do more of my work. I took nine bottles (of Cardui) for this trouble.

"Now my health is good. I feel fine and my friends comment on how well I look. I go anywhere and, if I can't get help, can do my own work. Cardui has been the 'making of me,' and I'm most grateful."

Cardui has been in successful use as a tonic medicine for women for almost fifty years. During that time thousands and thousands of women have reported the benefit they derived from its use, in the treatment of different ailments common to women.

For six centuries the chief ingredient of Cardui has been recommended by medical authorities for the treatment of different female troubles.

With this long history of successful use behind it, Cardui is manufactured in modern, scientific laboratories, where every care is taken to ensure absolute purity and to see that each bottle contains the full strength of the vegetable ingredients in the exact proportions that science and experience have shown to be best for the purpose.

Fable of Leroy's Nifty Exhibit —By George Ade

Once there was a Joval Wright named Wright. When he left Paluka to seek a Laurel Wreath and a Wheelbarrow full of Jack in the seething Metropolis, the Weekly Efflatus spoke truly when it said that the Best Wishes of the Community went with the respected young Towsman. He was to the half portion City Known as Paluka what the palefaced Prince is to the British Isles, via the Double Carnation of the Potanical Section. He was the blueyed Son of Destiny, the chief Ring-Tailer and Loud Noise. Some Bucko!

In addition to having a Social Status so elevated that he was Miles and Miles above the common or sportshirt variety of Slicker who clogged up the Pool Rooms, he had earned the outspoken Regard of the Hard Element because he was a Demon on Second Base and had hung up a bloody Record as Half Back.

Sometimes you find a Lad who has Money, Looks, Horse-Power, Polite Manners, Sand, Gumption, and open-faced Democracy, all mixed together to make him King of the Works. Leroy was husky, amiable, accommodating and suavely masterful. No one in Paluka felt like kidding him about the Spats and the Walking Stick. The Boy who can knock off Blocks has a Right to wear Anything that suits his idle Fancy. One who is curly-headed and has the Biceps with which to overturn an Ox can do no Wrong, or, if he does, he can get away with it.

Long before he escaped to the larger Opportunities of the Big Burg, every Tessie aroun; the Place was ready to be overpowered by his Brute Strength, but he played no Favorites.

The Latest Model

Word came that he was thriving in his new Environment and finally arrived the Cards telling that Beatrice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Wetherby was the Lucky Girl, with the Ceremony at the Church and a Reception at the Home of the Bride's Parents.

There was Crape hanging from many a Chandelier after the sad Tidings had been circulated. Everyone hoped for the Best but just knew that she wasn't good enough for Leroy. He had the Makings of a swell Husband and it would be Tough Luck if he drew a Blank. Some of those that had been grown in Paluka certainly seemed good enough, even for a Gadsbie, and so there was a general, not to say aching, Curiosity to get a Peek at the Goddess who was so much superior to the home-grown Article.

When Leroy brought his 1926 Model Bride out to Paluka so as to get her used to his Relatives, it was not known to Beatrice that she was about to be put under, the Microscope and given the Acid Test. If she had been wise to the Situation, she would have known that in order to make good she would have to be a peerless Combination of Cleopatra, the Venus de Milo, Queen Marie of Rumania, Elsie Janis and Mary Roberts Rinehart. She had to have Everything and even then, maybe she couldn't put it over and make the Grade.

They saw her first at a Reception given by Pa and Ma Gadsbie in the Ancestral Palace with the Cupola on top of it. She was spare-built, with the general Lines of a Racer. She seemed laid out for Speed rather than Endurance. She had the usual number of Eyes and her Bobbing undoubtedly had been done in a Beauty Shop instead of the Gem Torsorial Parlors and her up-and-down Frock was figured with Gold, so that even the most hard-boiled Critics would not discover many flaws in the Tout Ensemble.

In the Old Days

Nevertheless, practically every Female Member of the Smart Set of Paluka said, after getting a Flash at Beatrice, "Well, I'll declare!"

It is almost impossible to indicate in cold Type just how they said it. There was more or less Emphasis on "declare" but the second Word was not neglected and there was, also, quite a bit of Stress on the "Well." The manner in which they ejaculated, "Well, I'll declare!" seemed to indicate that they were surprised to discover that Leroy had married a fair-sized Mortal of the Genus Flapper instead of an Angel with a Halo encircling her Head and two fully developed Wings sticking out behind.

What helped to complicate and embarrass the Situation from the very Start was the Fact that nearly all of the Men seemed to cotton to her and gave her the rolling Eye and the prolonged Hand Clasp. They seemed to think that she was fully up to Plans and Specifications, whereas the Women Folks all began to Yes-But. They said her Clothes had been picked out by an Expert but they didn't think that She, Herself, was anything to rave about. When they all said the same Thing they figured that they must be right.

Mrs. Pilkins seemed to voice the Consensus of Opinion when she said that Mrs. Gadsbie had a certain doll-like Beauty and a kind of Self-Assurance which gave the Impression of Poise but her Face somehow seemed lacking in Character, possibly because she had a Weak Mouth.

Undoubtedly Cain's Wife told Cain that she would try to get along with Abel's Wife and would even return Calls and exchange Dress Patterns, but she never could trust to the utmost a Woman who had such a Weak Mouth.

All Old Stuff

When Elizabeth was told that Mary Queen of Scots had been duly executed at the Tower, she said: "It is too bad that I had to have her Head cut off but I knew she would tsart something, sooner or later. She was a Woman who could not be depended upon. She had a Weak Mouth."

It may be explained that a Weak Mouth is the Kind possessed by any Person who is shy on Popularity with the Party of the Second Part.

Beatrice might have overcome the awful Handicap if she had known that she was in Dutch and that the Cards had been stacked against her. She thought she would be the real Wow in the Home Town just because Love was Ace High. She seemed to think it was her Cue to mush over the simple Villagers and let them understand that she didn't think she was any classier than they were even if she was a high-class Pippin from the Avenue while they were a lot of web-footed Hicks. The more she guggled, the more she gummed up the Program.

She said she loved Paluka because it was such a quaint old Place with such a simple Background and so many droll Characters. This, to the Residents of a Municipality which was black in the Face from trying to be busy and hustling and modern and up-to-date. Nothing that Beatrice said about Paulka could have been used in a Folder issued by the Chamber of Commerce.

She seemed to regard Paluka as a Page out of The Old Homestead or Way Down East, while the Residents flattered themselves that London, Paris and New York City didn't have much of an Edge on them coming right down to it.

It wasn't because she smoked Cork Tips or was willing to fly at Anything which came out of a Shaker All of the local Janies under the age of 60 were trying to be True Sports of the Country Club Variety. Where she crabbed Herself was in being surprised to learn that the untutored Yokels already knew about the Devices of Satan and didn't have to take Lessons. She took particular Pains to show the Country Yaps an improper Dance Step which they had completely worn out about Two Months previously.

She was a Nice Girl and her Heart was in the Right Place but after she had patronized the Small Towners for Three Days, registering Surprise whenever it became evident that they knew something besides Hay-Stacks and Pumpkins, one of the Men who had liked her at first stepped out in front and said he would be One of the Five to act as a Committee on Tar and Feathers. There were no less than 18 Volunteers.

Hair Secrets

Gleamy, Thick, Wavy Hair in a Moment

A delightful surprise awaits those who try this. When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hairbrush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! Your hair will appear twice as thick and heavy—sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance, and just delicately perfumed.

While beautifying the hair "Danderine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, heavy and strong. Hair stops falling out and dandruff disappears. Get a 35-cent bottle of "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair appear after this delightful, refreshing dressing.—Adv.

POOR BROTHER - By FANNIE HURST

Copyright, 1925, by
The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

It was thirty-nine years since Mark Stratton had seen brother Bill. Mark Stratton, who, by pressing this or that button in his forty-eight story, mahogany-finished office de luxe, could release dams of energy that responded to his touch. Mark Stratton, who, for all his fifty-seven years, looked a scant forty.

Brother Bill—a brother Bill, Mark would never have known except for a pair of gray eyes. A brother Bill with bulging knuckles and bent knees and eyes that watered of weakness as well as emotion.

There was never an occasion to equal it in the Bill Stratton household—a household of five grown, working, children and an ingloriously drab old wife.

A poor household, almost a mean household, there in the grove of gaunt eucalyptus trees in the midst of the blossoming California fruit country.

After Mark left, the Bill Stratton bank account had a wider margin. But it hurt Mark to leave Bill there to monotony and struggle and paucity. The pity of him; an old man at fifty-nine.

After the going of Mark, it seemed as if an incredible somnolence had settled upon the little Bill household.

All the singing kind of excitement had died down.

The very fruit orchards seemed to relax.

And Bill—what did Bill think as he sat alone again, with the comings and goings of his children, the lustrous notes of the nightingale and, if he listened carefully enough, the whirring of humming-bird wings for company?

IT was thirty-nine years to the day since Mark Stratton had seen his brother Bill.

It was thirty-nine years before that Mark Stratton, an eighteen-year-old boy with a bulging telescope tied with rope, had boarded a train in the little desert-baked town of Alta Loma, California, for New York, and a career that was destined to be an outstanding one in the world of letters.

Letters after a fashion. Thirty-nine years after that boy had boarded that eastbound train, Mark Stratton, by pressing this or that button in his forty-eighth story, booklined, mahogany-finished, glass-topped, dictaphone equipped office de luxe, could release dams of energy that responded to his touch.

He was not only the editor of a chain of thirty newspapers, but was a political, an industrial and a social power in the greatest city in the world.

Time must have had a sense of humor in its laying on of hands where Mark Stratton was concerned. In just such proportion as his responsibilities, his obligations, his success, his triumphs, his bank account, his power, increased, in just that proportion, it seemed, he became a little more eupeptic, a little thinner, a little hardier, a little more vital.

At fifty-seven Mark Stratton looked his prime. More than that, Mark Stratton, with two married daughters, and about to become a grandfather, looked less than his prime. On the golf links at his country club, or arising to act as toastmaster at an occasion of notables in a banquet hall, he looked a scant forty.

Life had dealt superbly with Mark Stratton. It had given him success of almost every kind, and left him his youth in a lingering fashion that he might enjoy that success to its fullest.

And at the end of thirty-nine years Mark Stratton, who had travelled more than once, over the face of the earth, was stepping, for the first time since he had left it, from the private car that bore him on to his native soil of Alta Loma.

For the first time in those years, incredibly enough, Mark Stratton was looking into the face of Bill Stratton, who had stood on that same platform thirty-nine years before to bid a lanky brother farewell.

Only upon that same platform had been superimposed a concrete structure of pretentious station, and lo, what had been desert and cactus patch, and parched, hungry-looking earth, had blossomed into a paradise. In those intervening years California had reclaimed itself from desert.

California was as voluptuous as a beautiful woman, where before she had been as gaunt and stark as a bleached old bone.

It was with his heart practically in his throat that Mark Stratton stepped from the train that day. In thirty-nine years full of the thrills of achievement and accomplishment; of hobnobbing with the notables of the world and having kissed the hem of the skirts of Fortune, somehow suddenly, to Mark Stratton stepping from the train, this homecoming of his was the most strangely exciting of all the panorama of events that had intervened.

And then, suddenly, something took him literally by the throat, choking him, and the something that took him by the throat was the sight of Bill Stratton, who had come to meet him. A Bill he would never have known except for a pair of gray eyes regarding him through a film of tears from behind a matted jungle of beard and shaggy eyebrow.

Why, Bill was an old man! Bill, who was two years older than Mark, might have been his father. Life had whacked hard at Bill. Whacked him at the knees so that they were bent. Whacked him at the back of the neck so that his back was round. Given him bulging knuckles and wattles of empty flesh under his chin and eyes that watered of weakness as well as emotion.

It hurt Mark more poignantly than he had words to relate. The spectacle of Bill Stratton, an old, old man at fifty-nine.

An old, old man who had not got on. Who for thirty-nine years had been struggling with the temperamental performances of a little fruit farm. Somehow, until he saw him there in the flesh, Mark had never quite realized it before. Bill was just someone who represented the old days. Someone who occasionally wrote asking for a loan to put a son through college or a daughter through teachers' course. Suddenly, just beholding him, it made Mark feel an old man, too.

Two old men meeting and weeping across the chasm of years. The chasm that separated Mark, who had gone on and on, and Bill, who had remained behind.

There was never an occasion in the household of the Bill Strattons that could equal it. A little household of parents and five grown children. A poor household, almost a mean household, except for the ripple of fruit country that flowed so magnificently around the little house that stood in a grove of rather gaunt eucalyptus trees.

Mark Stratton was a great person, and Mark Stratton had come home to the land he had left as desert and returned to see transformed into garden.

Only unfortunately the Bill Strattons had not fattened on the conquest. Somehow or other, Bill had been left behind. By life.

It was a struggle to make both ends meet. Martha Stratton, who had married Bill when her hair was the color of butter, had turned ingloriously into a drab old age. And the children were all either school teaching or helping coax orchards to yield up their golden harvest.

For the three afternoons of his visit with the Bill Stratton household, the group of them sat spellbound while Mark brought into that household there in the gray, gaunt grove of eucalyptus, tales of a great, pounding, important, productive world of which they knew nothing.

It was curious to see Bill Stratton sit regarding his brother as if he could never hope to probe with those gray, watery eyes of his, into the magnificent mystery of his success.

Bill and Mark. When they parted, it gave Mark one of the wrenches of his lifetime. Even though his coming had been in the capacity of a prince bountiful and there was more of a margin to the Bill Stratton bank account than there had ever been in the thirty-nine years.

It hurt Mark to leave him there with his little family, to the monotony, the struggle and the paucity of their day-by-day existence.

Poor Bill. It lay in Mark's conscience somehow, like a lodestone. The pity of him. An old man at fifty-nine.

After the going of Mark it seemed as if an incredible kind of somnolence had settled upon the little Bill Stratton household. All the singing kind of excitement had died down. The very orchards seemed to relax.

And the goings and the comings of the children, and the evenings in front of the little house, to the lustrous notes of the nightingale that hovered thereabouts, were placid again, but empty. Empty of the fine ringing kind of vitality that Mark had brought. Mark, who was travelling at that moment farther and farther away with that hurt, that heartache, for the lack of success of his brother.

Bill Stratton, sitting there in front of his house, with his corncob pipe that smelled. It hurt him somehow, in a way he could not quite describe. But there was no way he could convey to the restless, booming, energetic brother of his who was even now thundering his way back into the maelstrom of life, some of the beauty and some of the peace and even some of the magnificence of life which had come to him in those thirty-nine years out in the fastnesses of the desert, that under his eyes he had seen reclaimed to a garden.

Sitting there, smoking his corncob evening after evening, it was as if somehow there must be a way to help Mark. Of the restlessness. Of the glitter that made his eyes seem to burn so. Of his incapacity to know the things that, when you tried to get them said, were as intangible as the whirring of one of the humming bird's wings that Bill could hear, if he inclined his head long enough and silently enough.

Bill and Mark, heartacheing for one another.

Mark, when his feeling about Bill and the monotony and the years that had stood stock still for this brother of his, used to ease the worry somewhat by writing out checks that kept the Bill Stratton bank account swelled.

Bill, when the nervous unrest in the eyes of Mark was troubling his memory most, wanted somehow to be able to tell him some of the mysteries that could make life so beautiful. So full of rest. So full of meaning.

Tiny things, Bill wanted to convey to Mark that to him were so poignant and tremendous.

Tiny things like the knowledge that if you inclined your head long enough and silently enough and reverentially enough, you could hear the whirring of humming bird wings.

Harold Lloyd In "The Freshman" Is Coming Here

From the standpoint of effort and money expended "The Freshman" is Harold Lloyd's most ambitious feature. From the standpoint of laughs—well, the Olympic theatre will offer opportunity to make that discovery next Saturday, the 14th, when it will start an indefinite engagement.

The largest interiors Harold Lloyd has ever used were built for "The Freshman," and a large cast was required to put over its story, which was built to Lloyd's dramatic and comic dimensions by four highly trained and specialized comedy writers, namely: Sam Taylor, John Grey, Ted Wilde and Tim Whelan, and directed by Sam Taylor and Fred Newmeyer.

As the title indicates, "The Freshman" is a story of college life, and especially of those days during the college term when students' thoughts turn more lightly to the gridiron than the schoolroom grind. The mammoth stadium of the Universtiy of California at Berkeley, jammed to the rim with eighty thousand football fans, was the scene of the football scenes in "The Freshman"—scenes that are said to be as thrilling as the most exciting football game ever played, at the same time containing some of the biggest laughs Lloyd ever evoked, while the tears of pathos lurk near for "The Freshman" is that rarest thing in entertainment—a comedy in which the pathetic is always near the sruface, and where the laugh is in sympathy rather than in derision.

"Confessions Of A Queen" Playing At Olympic Soon

When Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer decided to make "Confessions of a Queen," the vivid film production which is coming to the Olympic theatre Thursday and Friday, they chose Victor Seastrom to direct it. Seastrom, being a native of Sweden and of very high birth, understood the ways and manners of those travelling in court circles, and because this story called for brilliant sets in a kingdom in Europe he seemed the logical person to guide it on the screen.

Seastrom in turn selected players who looked the parts they were to play.

Alice Terry was chosen for the important part of the Queen Fredericka. Being of the regal type—associated with the title—she at the same time is a warm human being. To put this particular part over it was necessary to have the queenly type, together with an attractive affectionate personaliy. Miss Terry not only looked as she should, but also conveyed the fitting degree of warmth.

Lewis Stone as King

Lewis Stone was selected because he more than any other screen player typifies a king, and his role in this particular production is that of the King Christian. Perhaps it is the many times Stone has been called upon to portray the head of a royal family that makes him seem so ideal in those parts. But he wears a crown as to the manenr born and moves with the grace and dignity of a real royal personage.

John Bowers, plays the Prince Ayexie. Bowers is an ideal Prince charming, wears his beautiful costumes as a real prince should, and was chosen by Seastrom because he looks continental as well.

Helena l'Algy, as Sephora, represents the higher type of worldy woman whom ight meet a king and easily fascinate such a man; in fact, just as she lures Christian in "Confessions of a Queen."

Frankie Darro, as the young Prince, is a descendant of a royal family of Europe. He is a capable little trouper, looks like a little prince and so was selected by the director for the important role.

Weaves the Intrigue

Eugenie Besserer as Eleanor, the queen's companion, is a perfect lady in waiting type. Around her particular part, much of the intrigue of the story is woven.

So down even to the bit parts the utmost care was taken in selecting persons to interpret them. Frances Hatton, a well known screen player, plays the maid, a role which called for one of refinement and breeding.

"Confessions of a Queen" was adapted for the screen by Seastrom and Agnes Christine Johnston from Alphonse Dande's story. "Kings in Exile." Miss Johnston wrote the continuity, and the production was photographed by Percy Hilburn.

Both the interior and exterior sets of this kingdom in Illyria are beautiful and unique, and all the costumes, particularly those worn by Miss Terry are gorgeous.

This is Director Seastrom's third American made production—the two preceding ones being "Name the Man" and "He Who Gets Slapped." Before his affiliation with the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer organization he was director in chief with a Swedish motion picture company.

John Philip Sousa who will direct his band here in two performances, matinee and night, Wednesday, Dec. 2, at the Palace theatre.

Miss Banky, New Screen Beauty, Is Expert on Horse

"She rides like a Texas cowboy!"

That was the relieved expression of the entire George Fitzmaurice company while on location filming fox hunt scenes for "The Dark Angel," a picturization of the famous stage play by H. B. Trevelyan, which First National will offer at the Strand theatre Monday.

The scenario, as prepared by Frances Marion, required some skillful riding at the hunt on the part of Miss Banky—not only sensational hedge and water jumps but a dangerous fall as well.

Miss Banky's ability as a rider was entirely an unknown quantity to her director. She had been told of the impending hunt and appeared nonchalant regarding its hazards. Fitzmaurice admits that he had some misgivings on the subject.

When the time came for her performance, however, she surprised the entire assemblage, which included the pick of southern California's expert riders. Sitting a fractious mount which reared dangerously with her, she brought him to his feet gracefully without losing her pretty smile. The dangerous jumps and, finally, the falls, she negotiated with all the sang froid of Tom Mix himself.

She was questioned regarding her amazing ability as a horsewoman and explained that riding is practically the only outdoor recreation indulged in by Hungarian ladies and that she has ever been perfectly at home in the saddle.

"Limited Mail" To Show At Strand Beginning Friday

"The Limited Mail," the Warner Bros. classic of the screen which begins Friday at the Strand theatre, is a picturization of Elmer Vance's thrilling melodrama of the West, directed by George Hill.

The story concerns the fortunes of Bob Snobson (Monte Blue) a ne'er-do-well Easterner who turns tramp and joins forces with Spike (Edward Gribbon) and Potts (Willard Louis,) two others of the carefree brotherhood. When the three save the Limited Mail from destruction by a mountain landslide, Jim Fowler (Tom Gallery,) the mail clerk, strikes up a friendship with Bob.

Romance and Thrills

Together the two men bring up Bob's motherless little son Bobbie (Jackie Huff)) and together they fall in love with Caroline Dale (Vera Reynolds,) an attractive little waitress. Bob's past in the form of a chorus girl return to disturb his romance, and further complications result when Jim is killed in a wreck due to Bob's carelessness in missing a danger signal. Bobbie falls into a stream when he follows Bob in his grief-stricken wanderings, and the man sacrifices the boy to rescue the mail train from a landslide.

"The Limited Mail," filmed in the Colorado mountains, iss aid to have some of the most beautiful shots ever seen in a photoplay; and the exciting sequences of train wrecks and landslides are said by reviewers in other cities to add materially to the enjoyment of this production.

Darryl Francis Zanuck wrote the scenario.

A Secret
And sunny shampoo
By Edna Wallace Hopper

I have glorious hair, as millions of women know. Its glint is like a halo on the stage or on the street.

I don't know how I get it. I only know that it comes to me through what they call a Fruity Shampoo.

Very wonderful men perfected it for me, but they never would give me the formula. They say that one ingredient gives that matchless glint, but they never would tell me what it is.

But they make it for me to supply to you, just as they make it for me. It is the greatest shampoo in existence. I say that after trying scores of them, and searching the world for the best.

I want you to try it. I want you to see the luster that it adds to hair. I would not take a fortune for what it has done for mine.

I cannot tell you the secrets of its wizard-like results. They have never been told to me. But those results will amaze and delight you. Ask any toilet counter for Edna Wallace Hopper's Fruity Shampoo, and you'll get exactly what I use. The price is 60 cents. And your dealer will return your money if you think that any other shampoo comes within a mile of this. For your own sake, see what it does.

Mary Pickford Is Little Irish Girl In "Annie Rooney"

You don't know "Little Annie?" Then just ask Dad—he knows! Or mother or aunt or uncle. They know, for she was popular when they were boys and girls.

For those who are not on speaking terms with Annie, let it be said that she was a little girl of the New York tenements, who dwelt in the mind of Michael Nolan, a song writer, more than forty years ago.

Nolan wrote the words and music of "Little Annie Rooney" and the song became a world "hit." That was before the days of radio and talking machines, but almost everyone sang and whistled:

"Little Annie Rooney, Is My, Sweetheart."

Modern jazz, the moaning saxophone, the muffled snare drum and the muted brasses have almost diven songs of the type of "Little Annie Rooney" from the present generation. Annie has buried herself in the sacred memories of the older generation—but not for long.

The old ballad is due for a revival. It will be sung, played and whistled again. Jazz bands will thump fox-trot versions. "Blue" singers will croon the tune in a way that Michael Nolan never imagined, much less heard!

For Mary Pickford, queen of the silver screen, is going to bring Little Annie back from oblivion, and let her bask again in the glory of public attention.

"Little Annie Rooney" is the name of Miss Pickford's latest screen masterpiece. It is the story of the same little tenement girl of whom Michael Nolan wrote. The story is just as Irish as the girl, and the role is ideal for Mary, who is a little bit Irish herself.

There are untold dramatic possibilities in "Little Annie Rooney" and these are all capitalized in Miss Pickford's film story.

A Winning way and a pleasant smile,
Dressed so neat, but quite in style;
Merry chaff your time to wile,
Has Little Annie Rooney.

Every evening, rain or shine,
I make a call 'twixt eight and nine
On her who shortly will be mine,
Little Annie Rooney.

CHORUS

She's my sweetheart, I'm her beau
She's my Annie, I'm her Joe;
Soon we'll marry,
Never more to part,
Little Annie Rooney, is my sweetheart.

The parlor's small but neat and clean,
And set with taste so seldom seen,
Little Annie Rooney.

The fire burns cheerfully and bright
As a family circle round each night
We form and every one's delight
Is Little Annie Rooney.

She's my sweetheart, etc.

We've been engaged close on a year,
The happy time is drawing near,
I'll wed the one I love so dear,
Little Annie Rooney.

They declare I'm in a jest,
Until the time comes will not rest,
But one who knows its value best,
Is Little Annie Rooney.

She's my sweetheart, etc.

When married, we'll so happy be,
I love her and she loves me,
Happier wife you'll never see
Than Little Annie Rooney.

In a cozy little home,
No more from her I'll care to roam,
She'll greet you all whene'er you come
My Little Annie Rooney.

She's my sweetheart, etc.

"Little Annie Rooney" is Miss Pickford's latest photoplay production for United Artists corporation and is announced as the feature attraction at the Olympic theatre.

Griffith-Compson Team Is Working Together Again

This statement was frequently heard around the Paramount Hollywood studio lot when Clarence Badger started production on Paramount's "Paths to Paradise," featuring Raymond Griffith and Betty Compson. For Badger and Griffith made a highly successful picture five years ago—and have not been together again since up to the time Paramount teamed them.

These two men have much in common through a varied experience that furnishes a substantial background for excellent motion picture production. Both are honor graduates of highly specialized comedy schools. Griffith at one time wrote, directed and acted Mack Sennett comedies, and then went in for comedy—drama, where he has caryed a name for himself. Badger has both written and directed comedies for Sennett, knows every angle of the laugh-getting game, and has turned out many excellent screen dramas.

Betty Compson rightly says it is a three "man" team, for she entered upon her screen career with Al Christie, where she arsoe to the heights of a comedy star.

"Paths to Paradise," which will be the feature at the Palace theater on Monday and Tuesday, is a clever crook comedy that includes Fred Kelsey, Tom Santschi, Bert Woodruff and others in the supporting cast.

Director Anxious to Travel Million Miles With Organization

One of the ambitions of Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa is to travel a million miles with his famous band. This present season, which marks his third of a century tour, finds Sousa with a travel record of about 835,000 miles to which he will add about 25,000 miles before March 6, 1926, when his journey ends. At his present rate, Sousa will reach his goal in or seven years hence. Then quite likely he will start after the second million. Incidentally the Sousa transportation bill this season will amount to about $100,000, of which sum about $60,000 will be paid for fares and special trains, about $20,000 for sleeper accommodations and about $20,000 for baggage transfer. Sousa and his band will be at the Palace theatre matinee and night, Dec. 2.

Dancing Star To Act As Hostess At Quill Reception

Norene Thrash, formerly a prominent society girl of Fort Worth and recently with Gilda Gray's famous troupe of dancers, is planning a trip to Wichita Falls in the near future to preside at a reception to be held by her brother, C. E. Cox of this city, as a formal opening for her new and attractive Gift Shoppe and Book Exchange located at 1002 Broad street in the Mary Ruth Tavern building. As yet no definite date has been set for the reception due to the fact that Mr. Cox is wailing the arrival of additional shipments of novelties and holiday goods from New York City and other points.

"The Quill" as Mr. Cox styles his unusual little store is an innovation for Wichita Falls and is arousing no small degree of interest among the book and art lovers and various social factions in Wichita Falls.

Miss Thrash is now resting at her home in Fort Worth preparatory to making her own company on a vaudeville tour throughout the continent. She is highly enthusiastic about her brother's new business venture, and readily agreed to preside at his formal opening providing vaudeville engagements do not conflict.

Noted Dream Film To Show At Gem Theatre Tuesday

Home for Old Ladies Is Featured in Striking Picture

The Dust of Dreams is powdered thick over all of us in this world. Dreams are the stuff of which hope and inspiration, and sometimes happiness, are made. The sun-lit Castles in Spain, gay with thes treaming pennants of our imagination, are the mind made homes where the soul may withdraw from the misfortunes of the world.

Dreams are the embroidery of life; the silken fringe bordering the coarse, soiled cloth of facts. Without them—but to be without them is unthinkable!

In a bare, rambling house on the outskirts of fair Los Angeles, city of beautiful and stately mansions, there are dreamers too. The paint is peeling from the weathered clapboards. The door, when it is open, gapes ajar on creaky hinges. The uncarpeted floors are smooth with the tired feet of little old ladies, eternally busy with their trifling tasks; eternally worn with the light work which is still too heavy for trembling fingers and faltering steps. Bare, desolate, forbidding, it stands on theb row of a little brown hill. The elegance, the artistry, the beauty of Southern California architecture give it a wide berth. No fine Spanish palm and foliage crowd up to the foot of that little hill. And the building that surmounts it is ugly with that ugliness which only the last home of the indigent seems to possess. For it is the Home for Old Ladies. It is "charity." It is "an institution."

Mission Bringing Prohibition Play Starting Monday

What treatment is accorded the guests in a cafe when prohibition forces descend upon that cafe

The foregoing are only a few of the questions that had to be settled in an authoritative manner before the filming of "Wine," Universal-Jewel, to be shown in the Mission theatre Monday, was completed. For "Wine" is the screen version of the William MacHarg story of the same name published in Cosmopolitan magazine, and it has to do with the activity of society bootleggers and of those who patronize them.

That the technical details of raids and similar activities on the part of prohibition enforcement officials might be correct Director Louis Gasnier enlisted the advice of Samuel F. Rutter, federal prohibition director for California.

"Wine" was made with an all-star cast which includes Clara Bow, Forrest, Stanley, Robert Agnew Huntly, Gordon, Myrtle Stedman, Leo White and Walter Long. The picture was made one of Universal's most elaborate productions of the current year, and there are a number of sensational scenes, among them cafe scenes with a wealth of entertainment, and a spectacular raid.

The story in general is that of an aristocratic family, become suddenly poverty-stricken. The scand of the family then enters into an alliance with a bootlegger. There is a delightful love interest, and a tragic lesson in the story.

"Welcome Home" Family Comedy Will Show Here

"Welcome home," the James Cruze-Paramount production, which will be shown at the Palace theater on Wednesday and Thursday next, is described as a story rich in humor of the sort that carries a heart-ting with it.

Lois Wilson, Warner Baxter and Luke Cosgrave, the old rheumatic in "Hollywood," are featured in the principal roles of the picture, adapted for the screen by Walter Woods and stage play by Edna Ferber and George S. Kaufman.

The story is one of an old man—a widower—who comes to the city to live with his married son and daughter-in-law and so upsets things that the wife tells the husband that either his father or she will have to leave at once—the two of them can't get along together under the same roof. But leave it to Cruze to straighten everything out in a saitsfactory, not to say most amusing fashion.

Appearing in support of the leading players are such well known names as Ben Hendricks, Margaret Morris, Josephine Crowell, Adele Watson and others.

Everyone recalls the heart-interest and genuine appeal Cruze crammed into "The Goose Hangs High." Here's one thats just twice as human—twice as real.

H. G. SHIRLEY IS CHOSEN AS ROADMEN HEAD

Is Also Chairman of The Viginia State Highway Commission

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—At a meeting of the nominating committee held in this city, Henry G. Shirley, chairman of the Virginia state highway commission was unanimously chosen as president for 1926-1927 of the American Road Builders' association, the oldest and foremost organization identified with the good roads program in this country and the sponsor of the great good roads convention and exposition to be held in Chicago, January 11-15, next.

Nomination to this important post is equivalent to election as the recommendations of the nominating committee have been endorsed without exception throughout the 25 years of the association's existence. The election of officers will be by ballot of the membership between now and the Chicago convention where the vote will be canvassed and the result announced. The new officers will be installed at the New York meeting of the association next May.

In addition to Mr. Shirley for president, the nominating committee, of which Col. R. Keith Compton, director of public works at Richmond, Va., is chairman, has nominated the following for the four vice presidencies to be filled at the Chicago meeting: W. R. Smith, president, Lane Construction corporation, Meriden, Conn.; S. T. Henry, director, Pan-American Confederation for Highway Improvement, Spruce Pine, N. C.; S. F. Beatty, Austin-Western Road Machinery company, Chicago, Ill., and Samuel Hill, honorary life president, Washington Good Roads association, Seattle, Wash.

James H. MacDonald, former state highway commissioner of Connecticut and a road expert residing at New Haven, will continue as treasurer. Charles M. Upham, state highway engineer, Raleigh, N. C., is business director and convention manager of the association and Miss Ethel A. Birchland of New York City is secretary.

The following men have been nominated for the seven directorships to be filled at the Chicago meeting: F. A. Reimer, consulting highway engineer, East Orange, N. J.; W. H. Kershaw, the Texas company, New York City; C. M. Pinckney, chief engineer, bureau of highways, Manhattan Borough, New York City; Col. R. Keith Compton, director of public works, Richmond, Va.; C. M. Upham, state highway engineer, Raleigh, N. C.; William Ogden, Lakewood Engineering company, Cleveland, Ohio; and Frank Terrace, president, Washington Good Roads association, Orillia, Wash.

Mr. Shirley, who will become president, has long been identified with America's highway program and is widely known for his achievements in the construction field. After graduating in engineering at the Virginia Military institute he became roads engineer for Baltimore county, Md., and then highway commissioner of that state. At one time he was secretary of the American Highway Industries association and president of the American Association of State Highway Officials. During the World war he was a member of one of the committees assisting the government with wartime highway matters.

The board of directors of the American Road Builders' association, as at present constituted, includes: W. H. Connell, chief engineering executive, Pennsylvania highway department, Harrisburg, Pa., president; Frank Page, chairman, North Carolina state highway commission, Raleigh, N. C.; J. H. Cranford, president, Cranford Paving company, Washington, D. C.; J. R. Draney, Draney Asphalt company, New York City; John B. Hittell, chief street engineer, board of local improvements, Chicago, Ill.; Lewis S. Louer, vice president, "Engineering and contracting," Chicago, Ill.; R. A. Meeker, right of way engineer, New Jersey state highway department, Trenton, N. J.; Frank T. Sheets, chief highway engineer, Illinois department of public works, Springfield, Ill.; W. A. Van Duzer, equipment and transport engineer, Pennsylvania highway department, Harrisburg, Pa.; B. H. Wait, district engineer, Portland Cement association, New York City; H. K. Bishop, chief, division of construction, U. S. bureau of public roads, Washington, D. C.; H. S. Carpenter, deputy minister of highways, Regina, Sask., Can.; Paul L. Griffiths, American Tar Products company, Chicago, Ill.; J. E. Pennybacker, general manager, the Asphalt association, New York City; W. H. Stone, "Manufacturers' Record," Baltimore, Md.; John E. Tate, district engineer, Portland Cement association, Charlotte, N. C., and T. J. Wasser, Public Service Production company, Newark, N. J.

The executive committee is composed of W. H. Connell, president; J. H. MacDonald, treasurer; S. F. Beatty, Chicago; J. H. Cranford, Washington, D. C., and H. G. Shirley, Richmond, Va.

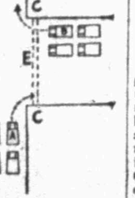

Auto Taxes Go To The General Funds

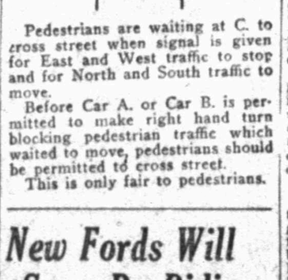

Not one motorist out of a thousand has the vaguest conception of what is done with the money he pays in the form of special automobile taxes to the various taxing agencies of the country, declares the research division of the American Automobile association, after an exhaustive inquiry into the uses to which the automobile taxes are put.

The inquiry disclosed that almost fifty per cent of the total motor vehicle taxation goes into general funds, national, state and municipal, and this fifty per cent is used for general community purposes in which the motorist has not direct interest.

All the figures were not available but from such figures of expenditures as were secured it was shown that approximately $280,000,000 of tax money collected from automobile owners as a class in 1924 was used for general purposes. This included the entire federal excise tax and one-seventh of the entire sum collected from the gasoline tax.

New Fords Will Soon Be Riding In Every Nation

Old-Style Car Will Disappear as New Ones Attain Popularity

Highways and byways all over the globe will soon be dotted with a new line of Ford cars. And curosity will be just as keen when the improved Fords appear on the streets of Paris, Berlin, Rome, Copenhagen or Yokohama as it was along Fifth avenue or Hollywood boulevard. The Ford car familiar in most every country on earth will soon give way to the improved and better looking Ford.

With output rising to new records in this country, Ford plants throughout the world also are getting into production with the improved cars. Distribution to dealers and customers is already under way in several countries.

The Ford Motor company of England, limited, began production on the improved cars at the Manchester plant October 10 and England was given its first view of these cars.

France, Belgium, Spain, Holland and the Scandanavian countries are just beginning to receive the improved Fords as production is now under way at the plants in Antwerp, Barcelona, Bordeaux and Copenhagen. Germany also is beginning to receive Ford cars which are shipped from the Copenhagen plant. Shipments are on the way to the Triesite plant and it will not be long before the new Fords will be on the road to Italy.

The first cars for South America have been shipped to the company plant at Santiago, Chile, for distribution to dealers and other South American plants will go into production in November. The Ford branch at Havana, Cuba, and the plant at Mexico City, Mexico, will soon be distributing cars to dealers.

The Orient is to have its first glimpse of the new Ford cars most any day now, as shipments of parts for assembly have just been received by the Ford Motor company of Japan, at Yokohama.

The Ford Motor company of Canada Ltd., which supplies Canada and the British Colonial possessions, has been in production with the new cars for some time and has started shipping to Ford plants in New Zeland, Australia and South Africa.

Buick Output To Be 200,000 in Year

With production steadily keeping up at a rate of almost 23,000 cars per month, the Buick Motor company will close the year of 1925 with a total of 200,000 cars built during the year. Instead of slackening with the approach of fall, the big Buick plant at Flint is steadily turning out 875 cars every working day in an effort to catch up with the accumulated orders held by Buick dealers in every quarter of the United States.

"Though it has been almost three months since the new Buick models appeared, the utmost efforts of the factory have not been sufficient to meet the demand for the news cars," said H. W. Tuttle, assistant manager of the Los Angeles organization of the Howard Automobile company. "It is almost unprecedented in the automotive industry to enter the last months of the year with such a production as Buick is building, and it certainly affords a real tribute to the new Buick line."

The 1926 production at the Buick plant has been tentatively set for 225,000 cars. From present indications, there will be no let-up in the present capacity output straight through the winter months. As a consequence Buick will probably this year show a more uniform production record straight through an entire year than has yet been achieved by any of the big producers."

USED CAR ON MARKET GREAT VALUE, IS SAID

Expert Says Greatest Values Are Found in Second Hand Cars

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 7.—"The greatest bargains in the motor industry's history" is the manner in which used cars of today are characterized by Benjamin H. Cram, automotive authority and economist, in the current issue of his national dealer service, "Cram's Facts and Factors." Mr. Cram declares that the average used car of today has in it more value than the average new car of ten years ago, despite the fact that it is selling at the lowest used car price ever recorded.

"Today presents the greatest bargain opportunities for the man seeking a car," says Mr. Cram. "This results from the changes that have occurred and are occurring in the used car market and in the attitude of the people selling or buying used cars.

Opens Abandoned.

'For some time back, and continuing today, there has been a gigantic landslide the country over from open to closed cars. This has brought into the used car market, long before they ordinarily would have reached it, hundreds of thousands of open cars which are comparatively new and in first class shape and which have in them a number of wears of excellent service. These are being traded in for closed cars. This landslide right now is at its peak, because many open car owners desire to drive closed cars during the cold weather.

'In addition, thousands of almost unused cars of both open and closed types, in most cases in the lower-priced class, are being traded in for more powerful cars, the price of which has been sharply reduced since mid-summer.

Used Car Values.

"The result is that today there are untold numbers of excellent used cars on the market which have more service and long years of life in them and which are available to the buyer at prices lower than he has ever before experienced. Further adding to this lower price situation is the fact that the landslide of cars into the used car market has compelled many dealers and distributors to offer them at the price at which they are taken in rather than to hold them for a higher price only to find themselves with an unmanagable number of used cars on hand. Also the dullest car selling season of the year is on hand and dealers prefer to make no profit rather than later take a loss on their used car stock.

"It is possible that never again will buyers of used cars have the opportunity to pick up the bargains that are now available. Certainly they never again will be able to receive such high return in high quality, long life and unused mileage for their dollar."

Knight 6 Climbs Alpine Pass In New Record Climb

Doesn't Shift From High To Low Says Driver Of Car

For the first time in the history of the European automobile industry, an automobile has ascended the rugged and steep incline of Klausen Pass in Switzerland.

Klausen Pass is one of the highest roadways in all Switzerland which is improved in surface. For years foreign automobile representatives have attempted to scale its steep incline without change of gears but never has this been officially accomplished until recently when John land's field organization abroad, drove a Willys-Knight Six over the treacherous course without changing to a lower gear.

To add official recognition to this unusual climb, representatives of the Royal Automobile club of Great Britain were on hand to attest to the drive. At its completion a certificate of meritorious performance was given Willys-Overland's representatives for the accomplishment.

Klausen Pass is located about fifty miles directly south from Zurich, Switzerland, and is in that section of the Swiss mountains called the Glarun Alps. For years automobile men have attempted to ascend this treacherous slope in high gear, being unsuccessful until accomplished by the Willys-Knight Six, attesting the unusual flexibility and power performance of its engine.

TIRE DEALERS RETURN FROM DALLAS MEET

Sharpe and Putty Get Pointers on How To Serve

Messrs. Sharpe and Putty, proprietors of the Dixie Tire Service Co., returned recently from Dallas, where they and others of the Dixie Tire Service company personnel attended the fifth annual southwestern district dealers' conference of the General Tire and Rubber company, which was in session at Hotel Baker on the 26th and 27th. Mr. Putty, in relating the events of the convention, mentioned that enthusiasm is running high among General tire distributors everywhere and that business conditions as a whole reflect prosperity throughout the entire district.

These conferences, which are held each fall, are for the expressed purpose of bringing the factory and distributor together for exchange of ideas. W. O'Neil, president; W. E. Fouse, vice president; A. R. Stiller, advertising manager, and H. F. Smith, sales manager, were the members of the General Tire and Rubber company, Akron, Ohio, who brought new information on how to better serve the consumer through better store locations, expert tire service and vulcanizing, by a more thorough knowledge of tire engineering in its various fields of commercial; bus transportation and individual pasvenger car owner equipment.

Mr. O'Neil spoke at length, on the subject of merchandising and elucidated at length on the individual distributors problems in merchandising; what kind of type and tire is best for the dealer to handle; stocks to maintain at the various seasons; margin of profit to secure; what stock turnover should be maintained and its effect on profits.

Mr. O'Neil's talk was supplemented with a forum discussion by all dealers present, on their own personal experiences along these lines.

Messrs. Sharpe and Putty closed the interview by stating that General distributors cannot help but profit by these conferences, and return to their own cities highly enthused and determined to put into practice, newer and better methods to serve their customers.

SCOUT SUICIDE THEORY.

Relatives of Houston College Man Believe He Was Slain.

BEAUMONT, Nov. 7.—While relatives identified the body of the youth found in a hotel room here early Friday with a bullet hole through his head as Clarence L. Bradley, 22, of Houston, student in the medical college of Tulane University at New Orleans, they discounted the coroner's verdict of suicide and police have launched an investigation in an effort to discover whether or not the case is one of murder.

SMASH THEFT RING

AUSTIN, Nov. 7—(AP)—Local officers believe they smashed a theft ring responsible for a large number of petty robberies when Friday night they arrested a man in the country about 25 miles north of Austin. A companion of the man was arrested after exchanging shots with the officers. Shoes, axes, fountain pens and tires were among the articles recovered.

WYLLIS STARTS PRODUCTION OF NEW LARGE CAR

Overland People Will Put Out New Willys-Knight Autmobile

Continuing its policy of bringing out new models only as demanded by automobile purchasers, Willys-Overland now announced production of a new seven-passenger Willys-Knight six.

Ever since the Willys-Knight six was first introduced last spring there has been noted a constant demand on the part of the new car owners for a seven-passenger car to round out a complete line of this model. In producing the new Willys-Knight six for seven passengers, Willys-Overland has made several important changes in construction and equipment which add to the beauty of the car as well as to the comfort of its occupants.

Because of the success of the Willys-Knight six engine no changes have been made in it, while the chassis, remains unchanged with the exception of an increase in rear spring strength to care for additional passengers.

Add Some Weight

Probably the most amazing part of the new seven-passenger models is the addition of little additional weight as compared with the five-passenger sedan and touring of the Willys-Knight six. While two additional seats have been provided for additional passengers and comfortable leg room added, the increased weight of the car is but slightly more than the model 66 five-passenger cars.

The new seven-passenger Willys-Knight sixes are being built in both touring and sedan body types and completely round out the Willys-Knight lines of fours and sixes. With the wheelbase of the seven-passenger models and the overall length remaining at 126 and 175 inches respectively as in the five-passenger models, the body length from the engine hood to the rear of the body has been considerably increased to care for additional passengers. Auxiliary seats of the disappearing type are employed which completely fold out of way into the backs of the front seat, the compartment into which they fold being utilized, when seven passengers are riding, for leg room of the two auxiliary seat occupants.

Seven Inches More

Approximately seven inches of additional space is provided from the front of the rear seat cushion to the backs of the auxiliary seats while the distance from the backs of the auxiliary seats to the back of the front seat has been established at 25 1-2 inches, providing ample leg room for the two extra passengers. Height of the auxiliary seats from the floor of the car is 13 5-8 which, with the reclining angle of the seats provide the most of comfort for the occupants.

List prices of the touring and sedan seven-passenger models of the Willys-Knight sixes are $1950 and $2495 respectively, f.o.b. Toledo.

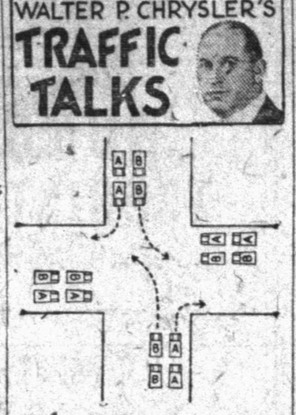

The Ford Motor company's production record moved up to a higher peak than ever during the last week. Figures given out by the company last Saturday afternoon showed that for the week of Oct. 17-23 the domestic production totaled 49,004 cars and trucks, a record for any six-day period.

The biggest day for the week, which reached a new record, was last Tuesday when 8,466 cars and trucks were produced.

WALTER P. CHRYSLER'S TRAFFIC TALKS

DETAILS NOW FEATURED ON MOTOR CARS

Auto Trade Once Gave Whole Thought to Keeping Engine on Go

Where once whole engineering staffs engaged themselves in simply making a motor car run, it is interesting to note the amount of attention automobile engineers now give to minute details of construction. For development of motor cars nowadays is in details, not in radical construction.

It used to be that tops sagged and grew baggy, flopping in the wind like half-fileld balloons. Or they tore.

Curtains never fitted—in the storm, or darkness. They became lost, torn and saggy. All at once, this changed. Steel panels, steel side-pieces and steel cross-beams made the roof of the car as permanent as the sides. As a further improvement, Studebaker introducmed, last fall, roller side enclosures to pull down in half a minute and roll up as quickly into recesses in the top. This ended the cutrain nuisance.

What an exchange of convenience for trouble has been made in other details of the car of today! Such as:

For goggles, linen dusters and gloves—luxurious, richly upholtsered bodies in which a woman in evening costume may ride, uncloaked and comfortable.

For brass and nickel scattered all over the car, with odd steps and protuberances everywhere—the simple dignity of low, long bodies, trim as a greyhound.

So with other details: Springs, transmission, clutch, horn, starter, oil drain operated without getting under the car: greasing systems, carburetor and radiator—scarcely a single detail of the car that hasn't had the attention of entire engineering staffs.

In contrasting the advances made in motor car design, the local Studebaker dealer pointed out that improvements are now confined to to details. "Because of this, Studebaker believes that annual model changes are unwarranted. Based on this conviction, the Studebaker policy of "New yearly models" was adopted.

Railway Company Purchases Thirty White Motor Cars

Past Service Records Lead To New Order For Motor Cars

Following the purchase of 30 White busses by the Cleveland Railway company a few months ago the company has just placed another order for 30 additional White busses to further supplement rail transportation in the city of Cleveland. Like the first order the new busses will all be of the city-pay-enter type with seating capacity of 29 passengers.

Coordination of rail and bus transportation continued at a rapid rate the last year, and at present 249 electric lines, or more than one-fourth of all the traction companies in the United States, are using busses to supplement trolley service. The number of busses operated by railways has more than doubled in 12 months, approximately 4,400 now being used by traction companies over 11,668 miles of route. The White company reports there are in excess of 1,200 White busses in railway service.

Chevrolet Makes Car for Army

The latest addition to the army transportation service is the Chevrolet trans-continental auto car.

The machine as used by the military is the regular Chevrolet chassis without the passenger top nd body. It is fitted with low, cushioned seats. The fenders and running board are the same as are used on the passenger cars of the Chevrolet line. The car carries front and rear bumpers and the wheels are of the steel disc type.

The Chevrolet army car is used principally for the rapid conveyance of officers during maneuvers or other military operations. The combination of balloon tires, light, stripepd chassis and powerful engine enables it to leave the roads and travel over rough country. Attached to the tops of the rear fenders are metal hand rails which the occupants of the back seats may grasp when the going is bad.

General ohn A. Lejeune, commander of the United States marine corps, used one of the Chevrolet army cars recently while inspecting a sham battle staged by the "Devil Dogs" at Camp Meade, Md. He was accompanied by Generals Feland and Williams and Colonel O. S. Eskridge. The latter drove the car during the maneuvers.

MOTOR TRADE HOLDS UP WELL DURING FALL

September Proves to Be Banner Month of All Time

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 7—"Many automobile dealers express surprise that trade is holding up so well during the fall months," says R. T. Hodgkins, general sales manager Rickenbacker Motor company.

"September proved to be the banner month of the year and of all time, and October will not be far if any behind in retail sales.

"Now, while this is different from what it used to be, it is only the natural and hoped for fruition of plans made and policies adopted by automobile manufacturers generally, when they decided to incorporate in the product and to announce important improvements and changes in mid-summer instead of mid-winter as formerly was the custom," says Mr. Hodgkins.

"Fall and winter are, logically the best months to sell automobiles. "Because, during the severe weather, one feels the need of a good car and a warm weather tight body more than in warm weather. We makers have always stood on our own way, however, by waiting for the New York show to announce changes.

12-Month Year

"This year we all adopted the same policy—and the bumper trade we have enjoyed this all, to a continuance of which we all look with confidence, is the direct result. Of course, we find spots here and there over the country where the dealer is asleep at the switch and is not getting his share of this business.

"I find that the difference between loss and profit in a dealer's balance sheet is measured by the number of months in the year that he keeps his store open and goes after business. A few still think in terms of a nine-month year—they do business over that period, then crawl into a hole and hibernate the other three. These are the exceptions however.

"As a matter of fact we manufacturers should give the dealer most of the credit for the new condition which gives both of us a twelve-month year.

Aids Customer

"Dealers have always protested against making changes in the season which, by all logic should bring the greatest demand. Now that we have adopted the policy of making and announcing changes and new models in mid-summer, we find the customer ready to buy that new car he needs, when he needs it most—in fall and winter."

"so say they all!"

But—Willys-Knight owners are not "mass" owners . . .

They are a select lot. Select, and selective. The motor-car sophisticated. An owner-group value-wise.

Ask him for a full and frank expression as to the satisfaction he has had in his car . . .

Ask him about engine-repair bills—about enforced lay-ups because of valve-grinding or carbon cleaning . . .

Question him about performance—about the condition of his engine, at 5,000 miles, at 25,000-and-50,000, at 75,000 miles or better . . .

An overwhelming majority of Willys-Knight owners will tell you they bought their present Willys-Knights for one of two reasons—

Either they had previous first-hand experience with another Willys-Knight, or because one or more other owners told them in emphatic terms a Willys-Knight was the car they ought to buy! . . .

Anyone of the quarter-of-a-million will tell you that the service he has enjoyed has been literally flawless, through his entire period of ownership—that his engine-repair bills have been practically nil. As for valve-grinding or carbon complications of any character, these are outside his experience. He has never expended a dollar because of either, nor has he been without the use of his car for a day or a single hour! . . .

There has yet to be discovered the Willys-Knight owner who does not appear to exaggerate when the question of performance is to the fore. A sweet-running car, powerful, quiet, smooth, from the first turn of the engine—at 5,000 miles, as at 25,000-to-50,000, it is still more powerful, still smoother, still quieter. And at 75,000 miles-and-over, an even greater improvement is in evidence. For this car is driven by the patented Knight sleeve-valve engine, the only motor-mechanism that improves with use—the only engine that, up to a mileage-point still undetermined after 16 years' use, increases in power, increases in smooth and silent running, increases in all-around efficiency with every mile! . . .

"Another Willys-Knight"—this is the answer, inevitably, to the query as to what car any one of the 250,000 present Willys-Knight owners again would buy. Extraordinary satisfaction. Extraordinary performance. Extraordinary long life. Naturally, your Willys-Knight owner is an enthusiastic owner. And he is steadfast in his loyalty. He will buy another Willys-Knight. He will recommend the same course to all who inquire.

He knows that neither you nor he can realize such perennially magnificent service in any other car!

MOTOR PRICES CUT IF TAXES ARE REPEALED

Motor Manufacturers Guarantee Reduction, If—

Lower delivered prices on all makes of automobiles and commercial vehicles are guaranteed by the car and truck manufacturers of the country as soon as the federal war excise taxes on motor products are repealed, according to a letter from the National Automobile chamber of commerce, made public today.

The automobile makers have been campaigning for the removal of the federal war taxes on motor products, stating that they are a burden on the consumer.

Benefit a Question.

The question of whether the consumer would benefit from such tax repeal or whether the saving would go into the pocket of the manufacturer was raised by L. J. Taber of the National Grange, the American Farm bureau federation and other groups whom the automobile makers have been addressing.

A unanimous reply that the cost of vehicles will be lowered to the consumer to the full extent of the tax revision came from every plant in response to a query by H. H. Rice, chairman of the taxation committee of the National Automobile chamber of commerce, who took a poll of the motor manufacturers of the country.

The automobile industry presented its views to the ways and means committee of congress at the hearings on October 24. If the repeal of these taxes is granted in the next revenue bill it will mean an average reduction of $29 on every passenger car sold.

Letters

The letter to the farm organizations and a list of the manufacturers who have filed individual statements guaranteeing these price reductions are as follows:

Mr. L. J. Taber, Master,
National Grange,
Columbus, Ohio.
Dear Mr. Taber:

You raised the question in your conversation with me some time ago as to how fully the public would benefit by the repeal of federal war excise taxes on automotive products.

You pointed out, as have the American Farm Bureau federation and editors of farm papers, with whom I have talked, that the consumer often gets nothing from tax repeal. The removal of a tax frequently merely means that much more in the pocket of the manufacturer.

In order to be able to answer your question positively and specifically, our Taxation committee wrote to the manufacturers of motor vehicles in this country and asked for a statement of their position in this matter. Unanimously the answer is this:

This is assured by letters from 84 factories making 105 types of vehicles. A list of these manufacturers is attached and I shall be glad to send you their letters if you so desire.

I am taking the liberty of making this letter public, as I believe that it is important to every owner or prospective owner of an automobile.

National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.
(Signed) H. H. Rice, Chairman, Taxation Committee. Oct. 22, 1925.

Chamberlain Made New Sales Manager For Marmon Cars

Percy E. Chamberlain, who is widely known in the automotive industry, has been appointed sales manager of the Nordyke & Marmon company, according to an announcement by H. H. Brooks, general director of sales. Mr. Chamberlain brings to the Marmon company an extensive experience in the merchandising of fine cars.

He is best known, perhaps, as the "father" of the flat rate service plan which is now used universally by automobile manufacturers, distributors and dealers. As general manager of a large automobile distributing firm in Denver, Mr. Chamberlain conceived the idea of putting the various service operations on a falt rate basis. He met with almost overwhelming opposition in his attempt to secure general adoption of the plan but he fought for it consistently until its merits finally were recognized and the plan was put into practice. Its advantages to automobile owners in enabling them to determine accurately, in advance, the cost of service on their cars, and its advantages in forwarding an improved spirit of good-will between dealers and owners are now well recognized. The system has resulted in a saving of millions of dollars in service charges to automobile owners.

For the past five years, Mr. Chamberlain has devoted his energies toward improving automobile sales and service organizations, working under the auspices of the National Automobile Dealers Association. Prior to this, he had served as retail salesman, sales manager of a retail organiation, dealer, distributor and general manager of a large and successful distributing organiation. In his recent work he has had an opportunity to work closely with dealer and distributor organizations, both large and small, in advancing sales, and in aiding in the solution of their problems he has gained an experience which will prove valuable in his conenction with Marmon.

Despite the growing general tendency toward the closed type of car, the touring car is the biggest selling automobile in America. Severe weather gives closed cars great sales impetus and in the north sections of the country where the climate is rigorous, the preference for open cars of family size is sufficiently pronounced to turn the balance of the entire saison.

In this connection reports of the Ford Motor company show a demand for touring cars which is unusual for this season of the year and which calls for a production of 100,000 of these cars during October.

The touring car always has been the most popular in the Ford line. The exceptional demand at the present time, however, may be accounted for by the new features of comfort and convenience which have been incorporated in the improved types.

Addition of a door at the driver's left, storm curtains which afford complete protection and open with the doors, greater leg room and a more attractive appearance in the general lines of the car have all contributed to bringing increased popularity to the five-passenger open type car.

TIRE BUSINESS THROUGHOUT U. S. ON THE UPGRADE, SAYS GENERAL TIRE COMPANY IN ANNOUNCEMENT

In a great many cities men in the tire business are asking: "what about next year? will business continue to be good or is it time to become conservative?" The General Tire and rubber company contributes an interesting and practical answer to this question by letting a contract this week for two more additions to the factory. One will be an extension to the present main building and another to a wing to the south. Construction will begin at once.

When these extensions have been completed General will have doubled its plant area in a period of about three years. The immediate effect will be to increase factory production capacity fifty per cent.

The following statement is issued by General officials, relative to the building project and the business outlook for some time to come:

"Business generally throughout the country is still growing. We are enjoying the upward swing of a business cycle, with the depression period still in the distance and no serious disturbances present. In tires, of course, there is a disturbed crude rubber market, with high prices for raw materials and incidental rises in the price of tires, but tires themselves are much better than ever before and are still much cheaper than almost any commodity the public uses.

"As a company we have one advantage over car equipment tire manufacturers in planning the future. We build strictly on consumer demand for Generals, which are all distributed through the dealer to the actual car owner. Thus we have no peaks or valleys in factory output, for we are in no way dependent on the manufacture or sale of new cars. The 17,000,000 cars already running and wearing out tires make our dealers' market. Incidentally car makers are optimistic over the outlook for big production in 1926.

We do not anticipate any great shortage of crude rubber for the next year—that is, any such shortage as would compel tire makers to curtail production for lack of raw material. But there will continue to be price flurries and the price of crude will be up until the world's rubber plantations have substantially increased."

This progress as shown by the General Tire and Rubber company reflects the individual success of its distributors at large throughout the country. Messrs. Sharpe and Butty owners of the Dixie Tire Service company have had the pleasure to enjoy a greater business this year than in any previous one, indicating that their efforts to give to the consuming public of commercial bus and passenger car owners, a production of uncomparable worth, and coupled with a type of personal service has met the universal demand.

Their personal service which has met with almost universal approval consists of nothing more, they aver, than a close contact and study of every condition of each actual customer's real need in tire equipment. They study the type of car or truck, weights of loads to be carried and the distance and rate of speed that will be necessary to travel with these loads, and then apply to these facts their knowledge of tire engineering. The result is tires of correct strength and each and every one of their customer's cars and trucks inflated to the correct air pressure which is kept constant throught periodic checking by the service men.

Unusually long uninterrupted service, at less expense is achieved for our customers and their satisfaction mirrors our growth which is increasing steadily.

HUPMOBILE'S SIX-CYLINDER MODEL HERE

New Type Is Announced By Motor Sales Company

Hupmobile's new six-cylinder car is announced here today by Motor Sales company, distributors with headquarters at 902 Tenth street. The new Hupmobile six is said by O. W. Quick to be a culmination of tests with six-cylinder motor cars first begun by Hupp in 1914 and which have continued unceasingly the last two years. More than a dozen six-cylinder types have been built and scrapped in the effort to achieve results finally secured in the six now announced, Mr. Quick declares.

Those who have seen the car, declare that it is a fit companion car for the Hupmobile eight, which has been creating a sensation throughout the country since its announcement some months ago.

"It is not unlike the eight in appearance," says Mr. Quick, "but it is enough different so that it is a distinctive car from every viewpoint. The four-door sedan and the touring car are the only models to be had at present.

Smooth in Operation

"The Hupmobile six is amazingly smooth in operation and wonderfully smooth as to its riding qualities. Balloon tires and snubbers take up all road shocks so that the back-seat passenger rides in comfort over any kind of roads.

"And because of the brilliant engineering ability of Hupmobile engineers, this six can be driven smoothly all day long practically at top speed. It does its work right up to maximum without engine labor.

"Features of the car include an absolutely water-tight, one-piece windshield that can be raised or lowered by the turn of a handle to afford ventilation, unusual gasoline brakes of the same type that have become famous on the eight, high-pressure lubrication, and compactness for handling in traffic and parking."

Plan Large Output

Mr. Quick says that the factory is providing for the largest output of cars in its history as indications point to a reception for the six that is destined to be second only to that given the Hupp eight last January.

"We believe this new six is squarely in line with the public's conception of a modern, up-to-date motor car," continued Mr. Quick. "It will be economical to purchase and operate. It will stay out of service stations. The touring car weighs only 2620 pounds and the sedan but 2800.

"Bodies are finished in duco of a new ocean-green color with darker green belt and black upper body, adding another touch of distinction. Touring-car upholstery is genuine Spanish leather of mottled-gray pattern to harmonize with body color. Sedan upholstery is gray brougham cloth. Seats are both wide and deep with a natural restful color.

"The emergency brake has been placed out of the way on the left of thed river so that only the gearshift lever remains in the center and this comes through the floor far enough forward so that it does not interfere with the foot-room in the front compartment."

Woman Charged In Automobile Death

DALLAS, Nov. 7—(AP)—Mrs. Erma Richardson of Dallas was today charged with negligent homicide in connection with the death of Mrs. Ada Henry, 32, alleged to have been struck last night by an automobile driven by Mrs. Richardson. She was released on $1,000 bond.

Mrs. Henry was struck as she crossed a street.

"Choose, Me Or The Dogs," Says Rodolph to Wife

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The Herald and Examiner says that Rudolph Valentino is willing that his wife, the former Winifred Hudnut and Natacha Rambova, may have a divorce; indeed, unless she gives up her pekinese dog and "settles down" she had better get on.

The film "sheik" announced this stand, the paper says, while here today on his way to New York. Mrs. Valentino arrives there on the Leviathan next Monday, and he will sail on the same boat Nov. 14.

"I am wondering myself if I will see her in New ork. The divorce question I leave to my wife. I am not willing to go along this way, with a wife determined upon a career, mothering a flock of Pekinese dogs, and not having any home life.

"I want a home and I am not willing to divide my wife with a career. I make enough money to give her everything she wants, so I don't think I am unreasonable to insist that I have a wife and not a business partner.

"If Mrs. Valentino is through with me, I am through with marriage, until I have enough money to stop acting and give my time to a family life. I'd like to have children and give them the kind of care and love I had as a boy."

AMERICA WILL TAKE LEAD IN NEW BIG CAR

Chrysler Predicts Nation First in 100-Horsepower Manufacture

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The car of the future, which will be of 100 horsepower and capable of making speeds of 90 miles per hour, will be an American product.

European engineering and manufacturing facilities are not yet in a position to provide the product which the motoring public, particularly to America, is beginning to require, because of the kaleidescopic traffic conditions.

This is the opinion of Walter P. Chrysler, head of the Chrysler corporation, who has just returned to this country from a month's visit to England and the Continent.

Mr. Chrysler, together with J. E. Fields, vice president in charge of sales, and Fred M. Zeder, vice president in charge of engineering, attended the nineteenth international motor exhibition held at the Olympia in London. They also visited a number of European motor car plants. It is on his investigations at these factories that Mr. Chrysler bases his prediction that the new car will be an American development.

"For years we have been accustomed to going to Europe for the finest in motor cars. European engineering and craftsmanship as expressed in their hand built cars were considered the very essence of style and quality," said Mr. Chrysler on landing." New ideas in engineering design and coach work invariably came from across the water. But this has all been changed.

Detroit Now Style Center.

American ingenuity has proved beyond doubt that its development of the marvelous precision machinery not only enables us to build under quantities with even greater accuracy than is possible by the laborious hand icraft of European workmen.

"As our Paris distributor recently expressed it, 'You come to Paris for style in your clothes, but we repay the compliment now by going to Detroit for our style in motor cars.'

"Old traditions of motr car building are fast being discarded. We have been passing through a transitional phase in our industry for the last two years which has caused us to cast aside many antiquated ideas and methods in automobile designing and building.

"In the popular-priced field the old notion no longer holds that a car to ride comfortably should be huge and massive. The re-designing of springs and their suspension, lower body lines and more scientific distribution of weight today make it possible for cars of shorter wheelbase to ride with greater ease and smoothness than cars of much longer wheelbase and more weight—not to mention the advantage of greater facilities in handling and parking.

"An engine no longer need be a ponderous and clumsy power plant to develop speeds of 70 and 75 miles per hour. New ideas in carburetion and manifolding, new discoveries in alloys and other materials, enable us now to build motors small in size, but capable of developing tremendous energy.

"The builders of our better cars have begun to see the trend and are commencing to apply engineering principals and manufacturing economies which up to now have been considered for the popular priced field.

Meet New Traffic Demands.

The result is that we can look forward to cars of highest standads, being of much shorter wheelbase, but giving greater comfort, greater sustained speeds and pick-up to cope with the changing highway and traffic conditions, and produced at 25 per cent less cost than existing types of the greatest efficiency.

"It has been the astounding growth of the industry in this country which has made the motor car of these new specifications not only possible but necessary. It is only meet and just that America takes the initiative in the development of the motor car that will carry out these conditions to the utmost.

Mr. Chrysler also expressed himself most optimistically, over the European prospects for the coming year. Chrysler cars, he said, had met the decided approval and were ranked among the most popular American cars now being sold throughout England and Continental Europe. The outlook for increased Chrysler sales, not only in England, but particularly in France, Spain, the Scandinavian countries, Holland, Belgium and Germany is most promising, contract renewals with distributors in those countries being vastly ahead of a year ago.

2 Dead in Dallas Auto Accidents

DALLAS, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Two Dallas persons are dead and a third is in a critical condition as the result of automobile crashes in Dallas. Mrs. Ada Henry, 32, was almost instantly killed last night when struck by an automobile as she was crossing a downtown street.

John R. Dendinger, 59, pioneer Dallas real estate dealer, died late yesterday from a fractured skull received in an automobile accident Wednesday.

Bernard Freed, 7, sustained a fractured skull in an automobile mishap last night.

The car that hit Mrs. Henry was driven by a woman, who was held last night for investigation.

HOLDS COPS AT BAY

Armed Texas Soldier Then Escapes Through a Transom

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 7—An armed soldier of Fort Sam Houston held Detective Jack Hice and Patrolman Gucken at bay Saturday morning in a rooming house.

Protected by the technicality of Texas law, which prevented the officers breaking down his barricade, the soldier finally escaped by going through a transom into another room and thence down a fire escape.

The officers went after the soldier after he had slugged his wife in the head with a monkey wrench.

Motor Testing Important Part Of Car Program

Rigid Inspection Process Insures Cars' Delivery O. K. to Owner

The average owner of a good automobile whose car, entirely free from trouble, glides smoothly along the highways, month in and month out, marvels at its unfailing dependability, unaware, perhaps, of the elaborate and painstaking system employed by the manufacturer to insure that character of performance. In no other industry is inspection more rigid or are safeguards more firmly adhered to.

Rigid Inspection.

"No other factor in our entire program of manufacture is a more vital part of the production program than our system of inspections and tests," says D. M. Averill, vice president and general manager of the Ajax Motors company. "It is only by constant and repeated testing that a manufacturer is in a position to know definitely before a motor car is shipped that its performance in the hands of the ultimate owner will be entirely satisfactorily. Reports received by us from Ajax owners, many of whom have driven their cars thousands of miles, show plainly that the character of performance fully justifies our policy of rigid inspections and tests."

Visitors at the Ajax factory frequently express amazement at the lengths to which the company has gone to assure perfect workmanship and materials. This work with the raw materials which are not unloaded from the freight cars until definite tests have shown that they measure up to specifications and requirements in every particular. Then as each of the numerous operations is performed in the various departments, inspectors must pass on them. Thus the possibility of trouble is eliminated at the very outset; finished units not only are closely inspected but are thoroughly tested before going into the chassis.

Motors Tested.

Motors are run on their own power for hours before they finally are placed on hoists and swung into position in the frame; crankshafts, when finished, instead of passing on immediately to the motor assembly department, are checked on a balancing device to assure absolute balance. Connecting rods and all reciprocating parts are tested for perfect balance. Definite reports are made and kept on each inspection of the multitude of operations entailed in the manufacture of the car but even when the Ajax, completely assembled, is run on its own power there is still one of the most important tests of all to be made. The final test, the actual performance of the car under all driving speeds, is conducted on a brick track built and maintained for that purpose alone. The track lies just outside of the final assembly and the cars as they come off the line are filled with gasoline and turned over to drivers long trained in motor car construction and performance.

When the car, in actual performance, measures up to standard in every particular, it is finally run to the loading dock and tagged for shipment.

FINANCES OF AUBURN MOTOR COMPANY GOOD

Finn Has Never Been Forced to Maneuvering

"It is a source of great satisfaction to me in the position I hold to look back over the 18 years I have been associated with the Auburn Automobile company and realize the fact that while many companies have sprung up, flourished a while and then passed away, Auburn has steadily forged ahead," says J. I. Farley, president of the Auburn Automobile company.

"Founded 25 years ago with a meager capitalization of only $25,000, Auburn has grown to its present position as one of the leaders in the automotive industry. Few people know that in these 25 years Auburn has stood the buffets of changing conditions and that we have never failed to take a discount. All bills have been paid the 10th and 25th of each month.

1925 a Big Year

"While many organiaztions have found it necessary to resort to many ways and means of reorganiation and refinancing, during its entire existence Auburn has never found it necessary to make any reorganiation for the purpose of securing financial aid.

"Nineteen twenty-five has so far been an unusually gratifying year to me, and the enthusiasm of the organization at the factory as well as among Auburn dealers is truly remarkable.

"One of the greatest things I think in the success of the Auburn Automobile company has been the spirit of cooperation and harmony which has always been evident among our employes here at the factory.

"All of our workmen are Americans, and most of them have been lifelong residents of Auburn. A large percentage own heir own homes, and realize just how much the success of the Auburn Automobile company means to them.

No Labor Trouble

"We have never been unfortunate enough to experience any labor trouble of any kind, and there has at all times been a perfect willingness of every employe to further the progress of Auburn to any extent within his power.

"It means much to me to know today that our line is going over bigger and faster than it ever has before and it is more than pleasing to know that we do not have any borrowed money in our business and that our cash resources are more than ample.

"There can be no doubt whatever as to the success which Auburn will enjoy during the next few years if the present year is any indication whatever."

Saved Every Dime And at Death Texan Had a Total of $904

"It's lucky to keep money you find," Pond told his wife and children, so he put the dime in his pocket. But when he got some change a short while later he got a couple of dimes mixed in with the luck piece and couldn't tell which was which. Whereupon Pond was struck by an idea that if it wasn't brilliant, it at least was lucrative.

And he must have, for after his death recently a number of fruit jars found in the old homestead netted $904.60.

Never during the saving period did Pond make a secret of the saving, or gloat over his hoardlike ways. He simply improved on the adage that "a nickel and a nickel make a dime," figuring $10 dimes makes $10.

And he continued to pour dimes into fruit jars until they were filled At certain times Pond would exchange his dimes for gold certificates or silver dollars. He also saved 63 half dollars, but when the money was taken to the bank it was found that there were 3,276 dimes, 28 silver dollars, and 18 gold certificates.

At Any Rate, He's A Good Jail Breaker

DALLAS, Nov. 7.—Dallas officers were foiled today in plans to take a man into custody, who is wanted here for burglary, by his third escape from custody in three years.

Three years ago, the man, who gave his name as Malcolm Stewart, escaped from the city jail by crawling through a ventilator, walking along the ledge of the building and descending a fire escape. Two months later he was arrested in El Paso but his second escape was made before Dallas officers could be notified.

Last week authorities here learned he was arrested in Wichita, Kan., after burglarizing a home there. Before an officer could leave Dallas to bring him back, notice was received that the man had escaped from the Wichita jail.

Texas Warrants Now GoA-Begging

HOUSTON, Nov. 7.—After refusal of Houston banks Friday to accept $552,000 of deficiency warrants issued by the state to pay for cattle slaughtered in the fight on the foot and mouth disease, state livestock sanitary officials were hopeful today they might be able to get banks in other parts of the state to accept some of them. Former Governor James E. Ferguson has already negotiated with Fort Worth banks where business interests feel more keenly embargoes than even the infected area because of its big packing interests.

EXPORT CARS MUST OCCUPY LITTLE SPACE

Studebaker Compresses Car Into Very Small Box

While much is said these days about Americas effort to maintain its high position in the export field, little, apparently, is known generally about the actual mechanics of getting shipments abroad.

Every European traveler has been confronted by the ship requirements for trunks and baggage of certain dimensions and of giving both the cubic contents and weight in kilograms and pounds of each piece shipped.

Packing such baggage snugly, to withstand rough handling, has also become a matter of general knowledge, but few persons stop to consider that in exporting American merchandise to face world trade competition, every single piece so shipped must be prepared in the same manner.

An automobile, for instance, is disassembled and packed in a space little larger than the body itself.

Cars Tucked Away.

Visitors to the plants of Studebaker, largest exporter of high powered cars in the world, are interested and instructed by observing the compactness with which a completed car is tucked away within its yellow pine box, steel-bound, for export.

Take a Duplex-Phaeton, for instance. First the wheels are taken off and bolted to the inside of the box side pieces, which are built of 2x4 timbers and yellow pine planking. Then the springs are compressed to the smallest compass.

Front fenders are removed and tucked as far back under the running board as they will go and bolted and nailed fast. Floor boards are taken out and braced to the box bottom. Seat cuhions are tied down with wide strips of webbing. The steering wheel is released from the dash and tied down onto the front cushion by the same webbing that ties doors shuts.

The windshield is removed, bolted to a timber, turned upside down into the rear seat compartment, and nailed to the packing box at each side. The upper body section is reversed, the back window over the radiator and its front end resting on the rear seat top. This section is bolted to two timbers held rigid by metal pockets nailed to the packing box. Thus the whole car is packed into a space little larger than the body, and not one part can move the fraction of an inch.

The entire interior of the packing box is lined with tarred paper, making it moisture and dust proof. In fact it is so nearly air tight that metal-capped breather holes are placed in each end to prevent sweating.

The packing box top is spiked on, and around the whole go five strips of strap steel. Stencils paint on the box dimensions in feet and meters; the gross, tare and net weight in pounds and kilograms, and the destinations.

These destinations are a lesson in geography themselves. Rarely can a visitor locate more than 60 per cent of the cities to which the boxes are to travel in the holds of freight steamers plying in all parts of the world.

Without looking them up in an atlas, how many would know they were, respectively, in Brazil, South India, Colombia, Peru, Canary Islands, Mexico and Portugese West Africa?

Yet they are a part of daily usage in the export department of Studebaker, where men actually are at work in pushing American commerce to the uttermost parts of the earth.

Tulsa Prisoner Is Champion Optimist

Willis Beaver has written to District Judge W. B. Williams of Tulsa county, asking credit for the time he spent in the county jail here awaiting for trial and removal to prison—nine months and 20 days. He was tried and convicted in April, 1923, of killing a man in July, 1922, during a quarrel and sentenced to 99 years in the state penitentiary.

HAMER IN SHERIFF'S RACE

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Frank Hamer, former Texas ranger captain announced today he would run for sheriff of Travis county next July. He was for 20 years in the ranger service, retiring last July.

JUST PLAIN HONEST

There was a time when we envied the fellow who was commonly referred to as a "shrewd" trader. But we have changed our minds. It is a compliment we no longer cherish. There has been entirely too much "shrewdness" in the used car business. We prefer to be known as just plain, HONEST.

DODGE BROTHERS DEALERS SELL GOOD USED CARS

Better Product Than the Chemists Make

Nature's bounty in this respect demands rightfully thoughtful use, so that the supply, which has been storing up for ages, may be prolonged for the benefit of humanity.

That means that gas should be used carefully. It is not wasted when it is put to useful tasks. But the future user has a right to look to the present user to prevent the waste of this fuel, and to use it in the most efficient way.

Appliances designed primarily to burn natural gas are much more economical than makeshift adaptations and every appliance is entitled to an examination once in a while. Perhaps now, just before the winter load is put upon it, is the best time to be sure that you are getting full value for the money you spend.

Do you know and realize that the gasoline consumption varies in the different makes of cars?

A car gets out of that condition described as "good shape" and gasoline consumption increases. On a day by day basis, few motorists would give serious thought to a saving of two or three miles on each gallon of gasoline. But multiply those figures by 365 and you arrive at a figure that will cause the most extravagant drivers to stop and consider.

CONSULT YOUR GASOLINE GAUGE! If you are not getting the mileage out of your car that you know is in it, then there is something materially wrong—but the fault isn't with the gasoline. It's the car.

We Garage and Repair Men of Wichita Falls are anxious to see motorists get the most out of their automobile investment—we know there is a solution to the heavy running expense and are daily cutting down the operating costs for other motorists.

When your car does not deliver the mileage—it may be the fault of that little hiss—of a slight knock or a sudden sputter—from the inside of the engine. The best of cars are subject to trouble—trouble which if caught and remedied at the start is almost negligible in cost—but trouble, which if allowed to run on, will grow more serious each day—and more costly.

Right now is the time to get on a "man to man" basis with your garage or repair man. Talk things over. Get the full benefit of his years experience in correcting the evils of the motors. Let him show you the short cuts to perfect motor performance. He'll justify your friendship and will stand solidly behind his work.

The family doctor keeps the health of the family at heart at all times. The family garage and repair man will safeguard the "health" of your automobile. Let's talk it over.

Numerology Dean Hands Ring Inside Dope—If Your Own Name Doesn't Vibrate, Try An Alias—Ring Lardner

An Occasional Game of Croquet.

To the editor:

No doubt the most of my readers has heard of the Science of Numerology which has been quietly in existence for a long time, but which recently seems to of took on a new lease of life. In fact daily articles on the subject is being written for the papers by Miss Neysa McMein, a noted expert and perhaps Dean of living Numerologists. Miss McMein could explain the object and details of the science far better than me, but suffice it to say that it deals with your birth number and your name number and the idear is to get the two numbers to harmonize so as to attain the highest happiness and success.

The way to find your birth number can be told by the following example supposing you was born on the 14th day of October 1898, October, is the 10th month. So you add the 1 and the 0 and you have 1. Then you take the 14th day and add the 1 and the 4 and you get 5. Then you add up the digits of 1898 and you get 26 or 2 plus 6 equals 8. Add that 8 to your 5 and your 1 and you get 14 or 1 plus 4 equals 5. That means your birth number is 5 and that you was born to be "social and personal attraction, of great charm," but no great depth; fickle and changeable.

Sounds Like a Cigar.

Now the next idear is to get yourself a name that will offset and overcome them weaknesses and at the same time fit in with the charm. If your own name number don't add up right it becomes necessary to re-christen yourself with a name that does. Like for inst. we will take Miss McMein and I am not going to tell you when she was born, but her first name was Marjorie. According to my arithmetic the name Marjorie McMein adds up to 3, and 3 is the joy number. "The destiny of its holder," says the dope, "is to bring laughter and joy to others."

Well evidently Miss McMein didn't want to bring no laughter and joy to others so she took the name Neysa, making her a 4. And it says "A life governed by this number will find success through hard work, through everlastingly plugging away at the job." Now they may be some that will question her judgment in making that kind of a charge, but the results seems to be O. K. and she still manages to bring laughter and joy to others without so everlastingly plugging away at the job that she don't have time for an occasional game of croquet.

Personly my birth (March 6, 1885, for the benefit of the curious) adds up to a 4 and a 4 is "A heavy physical number, indicating tenacity; in its undeveloped state it is apt to be pugnacious coarse and material." And my present name number is a 3 or the same as Miss McMein's was before she changed it. But I am a great admirer of Miss McMein and don't know nobody I would rather be like, so I have decided to also become a 4 which I find is possible by changing my name to Feona Rinoma.

A Tip to Jack.

I might say in passing that Miss McMein recently changed her name to Mrs. Baragwanath, but I haven't time to add that up and find out what she was aiming at.

The way you find your name number is to divide up the letters of the alphabet into nine groups of letters like as follows:

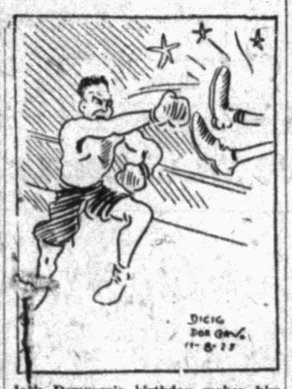

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
J K L M N O P Q R
S T U V W X Y Z

Then go ahead and add together the numerical value of the letters of each of the names. For inst. if your first name is Anna which is what the digits of 12 adds to.

A person can amuse themself a whole evening figuring out what different people's names should really ought to be according to their birth number. For example we found out that Judge Landis by birth is a 7. A 7 "denotes self-satisfaction and poise, but is not likely to bestow glory or renown." Then we went ahead and figured that the judge could overcome this and maybe get himself some glory and renown by changing his name to Paula Landis.

Jack Dempsey's birthday makes him a 2 spot. "A feminine, receptive umber. It is peace-loving, even-tempered and kind, has charm and affection, but is likely to lack initiative and efficiency." Now that hits the nail right on the bean you might say, but Jack's name number is a 4, putting him in the plugging class along with Neysa and Feona Rinons. Jack should ought to be a 2 in name as well as birth. A 2 "indicates that its bearer will succeeded by cleverness rather than the velvet glove rather than the mail-forced fist." And Jack could accomplish this by the simple expedient of changing his name to Lola Bot.

Rube Fulkerson's Company Goes Big On Palace Stage

Popular Comedy Player Makes a Decided Hit In Wichita Falls

Judging from the crowds that attended the Palace the past week, Rube Fulkerson's "Mischief Makers" are a stronger attraction than the management advertised. The company is headed by Rube Fulkerson, who is a late member of the Columbia burlesque wheel, direct from the eastern states and he has surrounded himself with a cast of performers who are very clever in their respective parts.

Joey La Palmer, straight man and cornet soloist, works especially well with the comedians. His special ties are more than pleasing. "The Feminine Trio" composed of Misses Elgin Allen and Grimes were encored till they had to "beg off," Flo Wagner, "The bobbed haired blonde," is above the average prima dona type. She is a clever foil for the comics and works them with ease. Mary Fulkerson "the little soubrette," is an attractive performer full of jazz and pep. She scores big and is a valuable asset to the show.

Fulkerson and Grimes hold down the comedy parts and keep the audience screaming all the way through the show. The Mischief Makers chorus excels any chorus that has appeared here in some time. "The Harmony Jazz Sextette" entertains the audience with the latest jazz and popularr adio selections, some of which have never been presented before at this thatre.

This company carries special scenery for every bill, making a complete change in wardrobe, props and electrical effects on Monday, Wednesday and Friday and is held over for another week at the Palace theatre. The bill for Monday and Tuesday "Hotel Topsy Turvey," a merry musical mix-up, interwoven with catchy chorus numbers and vaudeville specialties.

Comedy, Dancing, Music, Have Big Majestic Place

Well Balanced Bill Is In Prospect for This Week

Sparkling comedy, tuneful music and rapid dancing will be combined in profusion on the Majestic theatre's weekly vaudeville bill starting Wednesday, according to advance notices here. It promises to be one of the best balanced and entertaining the theatre has offered all season.

Those who have attempted to navigate in the snow know it requires a certain amount of athletic skill coupled with balancing ability. The Hedleys realizing this decided that an excellent locale for a balancing act would be a snow clad landscape. Therefore they had constructed for their use an elaborate setting representing a snow-clad valley in the moonlight and the effect of this stage picture is so handsome that they have called their offering "In the Moonlight." The two men do some remarkable acrobatics and head to head balancing.

"Snuff" is the name of a skit offered by Al Trahan and Vesta Wallace, but according to those who know you can't get enough of this pair when it comes to singing, dancing, comedy patter and the piano. They are a couple of nifties. Al Trahan has been seen in vaudeville with numerous partners and has always given a good account of himself. Miss Wallace was a single for a season and previous to that in musical comedy, her last engagement being with "Frivolities."

It has remained for Mildred and Lucille Wiseman to add to vaudeville a musical offering that contains a distinctive and pleasing appeal. And they do not fall short of their ability, for a delightful repertoire of Spanish and popular tunes bespeaks of talent well developed. Miss Mildred Wiseman is considered one of the finest violinists in America, a statement that is corroborated by the fact that she won first honors at the National American musical festival in 1924 and the following year was chosen as the leading soloist at the festival. Miss Wiseman possesses all the technique of a master violinist, her playing contains the warmth of soul and deep expression. Lucille Wiseman is the possessor of an extremely flexible soprano voice of rich tonal quality and wide range, and she renders her selections with true feeling and expression. Both young ladies have the advantage of appearance which they add valuably to an act that is a decided asset to vaudeville.

"Caterpillars" is chaff and chaff is frequently comedy. This attempt at deduction is an effort to supply a season for Frank Davis and Adele Darnell calling their comedy skit "Caterpillars." The principal reason for skits is fun and song and these clever entertainers have not overlooked this. Consequently no other reason is necessary. They succeed in filling in a quarter of an hour with amusement goodies. "That is enough."

Mr. Davis and Miss Darnell have often enjoyed success in musical comedy. They were featured in Lew Fields "Blue Eyes," the New York critic declaring they were the hit of the show. They were also with "The Gaieties of 1919" and "The Frivolities of 1920."

As an amusement thoroughfare Broadway is an avenue that runs the length and breadth of the country. To be a New York theatrical favorite is to be known everywhere. Frank Fay is one of Broadway's favorite sons. His unique brand of fun appeals irresistibly to the Great White Way. Because of this Mr. Fay has not been far away from New York for sometime but he is liked wherever smiles are in favor which means everywhere. He has been seen in musical comedy revues and vaudeville. His chatter which is apparently impromptu is real wit and humor and his individuality makes it different from any line of patter yet heard. Mr. Fay sings songs in a Fay way. His return is most welcome.

Kills Catarrh Germ In Three Minutes

Chronic catarrh, no matter how bad, and cases of bronchial asthma now yield instantly to the amazing discovery of a French scientist. This drugless method called Lavex kills the germ in three minutes, yet is positively harmless to the most delicate tissues. Your head and lungs are cleared like magic. Sufferers are relieved in a single night.

To prove it and to introduce Lavex to a million sufferers in one month, I offer to send a treatment free and postpaid, to any one who will write for it. No obligation. No cost. If it cures you, you can repay the favor by telling your friends—if not, the loss is mine. No matter what you have tried, just send me your name and address for this generous free treatment and prove that you can be rid of catarrh. W. R. Smith, 6080 Lavex Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.—Adv.

"Clinging Vine" Is Dying; Wives Must Work Says Mrs. Catt

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Within a half century every able bodied woman will be at work, helping her husband to make a living for the family.

Economic pressure on the men of the household will make ti necessary for wives to enter employment and it will take the cobbined efforts of all to "make both ends meet."

And electricity will be "housemaids" of the future.

These are some of the observations of Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, suffrage leader, who was in Milwaukee today to address the convention of school teachers. Looking into the future, Mrs. Catt declared that the cost of living and the standards of living will continue to go up and because of these facts, she believes that the clinging vine type of woman will pass out of the picture during the next fifty years.

DUELS WITH EDITOR

ROME, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Curzio Suckert, editor of the fascist paper Conquista, and Pietro Nenni, director of the Avanti, fought a duel today. Nenni was twice wounded in the assault, but the duellists parted unreconciled.

Suckert challenged Nenni after a newspaper controversy in which harsh terms were used.

John Philip Sousa And His Band Are Coming to Palace

"Make It Snappy," is the watchword of the American music public, says Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa, who this season will make his thirty-third annual tour at the head of his own band. He and his band will appear at the Palace Theater here, Wednesday, Dec. 2.— Each season he finds that the thousands who last heard his programs in all sections of America demand more action and more novelty—but particularly more action. More numbers and shorter ones, is their slogan.

"The musical leader should remember that the people who attend his entertainments are the people who dance to jazz music, attend the movies, get their news from headlines, go out to lunch and get back to their offices in 15 miutes, and drive sixty miles an hour in an automobile en route to the place where they expect to loaf all day," says Sousa. "The American lives so fast that he is losing his ability to give his full attention to one particular thing for more than a few minutes at a time. I find that the way to hold attention—and his patronage—is to give him music of the tempo of the country in which he lives.

"When I am in New York, I attend the performances of the symphony orchestras. Always I watch the men in the audience and particularly those who seem to be business men. As long as the theme is subject to frequent variation, they are the most appreciative persons in the hall. But if a passage is long and involved, their minds will be wondering off to other things, generally to business. Even while the strings play allegro non tanto, the tired business man is back at his desk.

"This lack of attention does not indicate a failure to appreciate good music. It merely indicates a trend of the national mind resulting from national habits of life and the musicians should learn to meet it rather than to decry it."

Stevens Added To Oldsmobile Forces

Herbert C. M. Stevens, formerly chief engineer of the Sunbeam Motor company, Ltd., Wolverhampton, England, has been appointed consulting engineer of the Oldsmobile organization, it was announced last week by L. J. Beuter, president and general manager of Olds Motor Works.

Mr. Steveus is well known throughout England and Europe for his long and important activities in the automobile industry, having been responsible for the production of the Sunbeam, Talbot and Darracq group, which is one of the largest motor corporations in Europe. During his 10 years' connection with the S-T-D, among his most successful accomplishments were the development of the 3-litre Sunbeam racing cars, winners of the Isle of Man Tourist Trophy races, and the 1 1-2 litre Darracqs which were unbeatable in their class for three years.

Under Mr. Stevens' direction Sunbeam built the machinery for the dirigible R-33 which made a successful flight from England to America and return in 1920.

Mr. Stevens is a member of and is on the council of the Institute of Automotive Engineers, England, and the Institute of Metals, England.

"Making Over" the Man Behind the Bars

"We Don't Want Coddling or Pampering!" Says Convict No. 49,068 in His Astonishing Inside Story of Educating a Prison Population.

THE problem of the man convicted of crime in relation to society is one of the most insistent of modern times and has been presented from many viewpoints. The further reform of our prison systems has been urged by scientists and by prison officials themselves. The danger of "coddling the criminal" has been vigorously presented by citizens from various walks of life. But in the story below a new viewpoint is offered—that of the convict himself.

The author is Jack H. Smith, an inmate at the present time of the historic Ohio Penitentiary. The editor does not take the responsibility for the writer's opinions, he simply offers the article as an inside human interest story. It is interesting to note the attitude of the man behind the bars as expressed in his suggestion: "What we want is something practical. Not coddling or pampering."

By CONVICT 49,068.

AS I write these lines, I am sitting in a six by eight cell in the Ohio Penitentiary. The music bell has just rung and the harmonicas, mandolins, victrolas and so on are all going full tilt, each one trying to make more noise than the other.

I can't help but think of Al Jennings, one-time famous train robber and later lecturer and writer, who once occupied the "apartment" where I now am as a guest of the State. His cell buddy, by the way, was the late O. Henry.

If Al could return to this old prison he might easily imagine he had stumbled into a vocational training school by mistake, for that—through the indefatigable efforts of Warden Thomas and Chaplain Reed—is just what the Ohio Pentitentiary is to-day.

There, in the same old unsanitary cell-block where General Morgan, of Civil War fame, tunneled to freedom, Jennings would witness an astonishing change. He would find the 1925 edition of "Percy the Penman," brush in hand, practicing show-card writing instead of forged signatures, and his cell-mate, "Silk Hat Harry," studying ad-writing. He would find "Second-Story Pete" and "Jerry the Yegg" delving deeply into the perplexing mysteries of cube and square root; and their next-door neighbors, "Two-Gun Mike" and "Shorty the Dip," handicapped by the life-long habit of talking out of the corners of their mouths, conjugating French verbs as though their very lives depended upon the outcome. And if, at last, Al's bump of curiosity would get the better of him and he would demand to know what in the world they were doing, he would get this reply: "Learnin' somethin', chump. Gwan, git away from here!"

This is how it happened: Some time ago, Chaplain Reed, whose duties include those of librarian, noticed that many of the convicts were drawing out books on technical subjects and returning them in a few days. Being himself a student, he knew that these books could not be assimilated in so short a time. Upon investigating he discovered that instead of being the "master minds" the newspapers are so fond of calling them, 32 per cent of the prisoners could neither read nor write, and 47 per cent had called it an education upon reaching the third grade. Realizing that these men had a thirst for knowledge, but that they did not know how to study, he decided to teach them how.

So one morning he called his assistants, a few of the better educated prisoners, into his office. "Boys," he said, "there are a number of men in the shops and Idle House who ought to be in school. There isn't room for them, so I've decided to start a school. Will you help me?"

"When do we begin?" was the reply, and the Intra-Wall Correspondence School of the Ohio Penitentiary was born.

They started with a few carbon copies and a half-dozen students. But the news that "de sky pilot's dishin' out knowledge" spread around the big prison like wildfire, and within a few weeks 200 additional students had asked for courses and more were clamoring to be enrolled.

This new system began to show such marked improvement in the prisoners making use of it, that it attracted the attention of Warden Thomas, who encouraged and assisted the Chaplain to extend it throughout the prison as widely as possible. Before long more than one-half the prison population of 3,000 were busy at their lessons.

It was then that Chaplain Reed's real troubles commenced. To furnish all these students with books, paper, pens, etc., cost money, and there was none at his disposal. Something had to be done. So the Chaplain asked for and obtained a ninety-day leave of absence, and began a tour of the State to raise funds.

He talked before clubs, churches and other groups and urged his hearers to help in the work of reconditioning prisoners for service in the outside world.

By this sort of an appeal he raised sufficient funds to keep almost 1,700 students in supplies, and to furnish 320 of the most advanced with a complete course of instruction in a useful vocation. And had he not been compelled to return to his post at the penitentiary—for this trip had been made at his own expense and without pay—there is no telling how much more he would have raised.

To help you understand what this school means to us, I will try to give you an idea of our routine. We get up at 6 a. m. After working all day in the shops, or sitting in the Idle House—as hundreds, through lack of work, are compelled to do—with just a short time out for dinner, we are again locked in our "drums" at 4:30 p. m. Lights are turned out at 8:30 p. m. On Sunday, except for the short time we are at meals or in chapel, we spend the entire day in our cells—cells in which no reasonably humane man would care to house his dog.

How long could you live in that sort of environment without losing all hope, without becoming bitter, without plotting vengeance? How long could you live in an Idle House, where you had to sit all day on a long wooden bench, thinking, brooding, doing nothing for days, weeks at a time? How long could you sit there without losing your mind, or coming out, as so many have done, with a firm determination to get even?

This school is no "sob stuff," it's a business proposition. "Sob sisters" and "gush brothers," who visit prisons and other such places, always wanting to do something, and usually ending by doing nothing, don't fool the officials, and they don't fool us. What we want is something practical. Not coddling or pampering.

Warden Thomas and Chaplain Reed cannot reform us, that's a chore we have to do for ourselves. But they can and have made brilliant scholars and even teachers of some of the most unruly and troublesome convicts this place has ever known. There's Monk, for instance.

There have been some real tough "mugs" in this old quadrangle of granite at one time or another, but Monk stood head and shoulders above all of them. And as a consequence, he not only earned the sobriquet of the "Prison Demon," but served most of his time in the "hole." One day Monk walked into the chaplain's office, and rather sheepishly asked if he could have a course.

"Certainly you can, Monk," was the chaplain's reply. "But I don't want you to take one unless you will promise to go through with it."

Monk promised. And when the Chaplain asked him what study he wished to pursue, he asked for a course in poultry raising. Can you beat it? Well, he got one; and from then on Monk was another man entirely. And if anyone wanted to talk to him he had to talk chickens. Monk has been out for over a year now (just eight months more than he ever managed to stay before), and the last I heard from him was a jubilant note, stating that he had a job on a large chicken farm.
