Answerline

Q. What is the black netting being used where they are laying new water lines?

A. It's called Petromat and is a fabric laid between the concrete sub-base and asphalt to prevent water from going down the cracks and breaking up the ground. Not much is being used on this project but it is being used on State Highway 208, according to Buz Rich, city director of public works.

Moderate voter turnout in election

Patrick Toombs

Toombs, Lee, Inman win; DA race in runoff

Mitchell County voters re-elected incumbent Sheriff Patrick Toombs but chose second time challenger Wendy Inman over incumbent Precinct 3 Commissioner Buddy Hertenberger in what many were calling a mild upset on election night.

While 15 percent of the 4662 registered voters in the county cast early votes, turnout was moderate Super Tuesday with 1,923 casting their ballots.

Sheriff Toombs defeated challenger Charles Rice 1,401 to 499 in a race that became increasingly heated the past few weeks.

Sheriff Patrick Toombs heard the news of his victory as the final results came in at the Mitchell County Courthouse around 9 p.m..

"I'm overwhelmed by the support that the voters showed in me. I pledge to continue to hold their trust and respect and do the job they want me to do.

Charles Rice was appreciative of the support he received during the campaign. "I appreciate the support I received and I congratulate Patrick Toombs," he said Tuesday night.

Inman, running as a Democrat, soundly defeated Hertenberger 311 to 189. Four years ago the ranch foreman lost to Hertenberger when he

City Manager critical of DPS trooper

The Colorado City Manager was extremely critical of a local Department of Public Safety trooper's actions during a high speed chase early Saturday morning and called on the city council to take a position on the incident.

Steve Shutt, city manager, told council members during the regular city council meeting Tuesday night that he and Police Chief David Montgomery were very concerned about Trooper Mark Negri's actions.

Shutt gave an account to the council of the chase. He also passed out a letter written by Chief Montgomery to Negri's sergeant in Sweetwater along with reports from three officers and a police dispatcher who were on the scene and a copy of the city's no chase policy.

Montgomery's letter criticized Negri for chasing the vehicle at high speed through two major intersections and two lesser intersections. In addition, Montgomery wrote that Negri "knew the intersection he was chasing the vehicle into."

Montgomery also stated that the ambulance and hospital staff criticized Negri for stopping the ambulance in order to

"specifically tell the EMT personnel that the seriously injured, unconscious, sixteen year old was under arrest."

The police chief also said he was concerned because this was the second chase in two years that Trooper Negri has been involved in, both resulting in fatality accidents.

"It is our business when the state police are chasing people inside our city limits at 118 miles per hour," said Shutt.

"We're just beyond the age of the drugstore cowboy here. That is exactly what this is. For that kind of endangerment to the private public, you'd better have just killed the president of the United States, as far as I'm concerned," Shutt said.

He asked the city council

One killed in high speed chase

A 22-year-old San Angelo man died early Saturday morning after he lost control of a car on County Road 139 during a high speed chase by Mitchell County lawmen.

Tony Sanchez, the driver, was killed after being thrown from the automobile.

Two passengers, Damian Washington, 16 of Midland and Bliss Crendle Gudmundson, 15, of San Angelo were injured in the accident and transported to Mitchell County Hospital.

According to a Department of Public Safety report, the three caught a ride with Charles Curry of New Mexico after their car broke down north of San Angelo. Gudmundson feigned illness in order to get the driver to stop the vehicle and then the trio overpowered Curry and stole the autombile, according to reports.

San Angelo DPS troopers notified law enforcement personnel in the area of a carjacking and advised them to be on the lookout for a 1988 Oldsmobile heading north on State Highway 208.

DPS Trooper Mark Negri waited on south Highway 208 and clocked the vehicle as it passed him around 1 a.m. at 117 miles per hour.

Construction on custody cells delayed

Construction on the Texas Department of Criminal Justice closed custody cells in Mitchell County will be delayed until February 1997, Huntsville prison officials said Friday during a meeting with Wallace Unit and local government officials.

Approximately ten prison officials from Huntsville, including engineers and three architects, flew into the Colorado City Airport for a site visit of the future home of the high security facility.

Weather spotter class scheduled at Civic Center

The public is invited to a Severe Weather Spotters class at the Civic Center Monday, March 18, at 7 p.m.

The class will be conducted by Richard May, a meteorologist with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Admin. (NOAA) office in San Angelo.

The Colorado City Police and Fire Department is sponsoring the class.

Members of the volunteer fire departments in Colorado City, Loraine and Westbrook are all qualified weather spotters as are police officers, sheriff's deputies, full-time firemen, highway patrolmen, park rangers and game wardens.

"The class is open to the public so they can be aware of what to look for when dangerous weather approaches," said Lt. Patrick Taylor, coordinator and the city's liaison with FEMA (Federal Emergency Management).

Those who attend will gain valuable information about potentially dangerous weather situations such as high winds, lightning, flash floods and how to spot wall clouds and funnels. In addition, they'll become informed on how storm spotting is coordinated in Mitchell County.

Many of the storms and tornado activity stem from an area west of Mitchell County, said Taylor.

Railhead Trade Days is this weekend

The 24th Railhead Trade Days will be held this Saturday and Sunday at the Truss King Building.

The Trade Days will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, March 16 and from 12 to 5 p.m. Sunday, March 17.

In the past, the Railhead has been an annual event. With the move to the downtown area last November and the remodeling of the long unused Truss King Building, the event is now planned to be held in March, July and November.

Eventually, Chamber of Commerce officers plan to hold one type of show or another in the building each month, such as a garden show or a gun and knife show.

Forty-five of the available booth spaces inside the spacious building had been rented by Monday. Windi Fuller, chamber executive director, expects all the spaces to be rented by this weekend.

Shoppers at the last Railhead were delighted with the variety of items for sale at the booths. Many of those same vendors are returning as well as new ones such as one who does sand painting and a

Next playhouse production chosen

The next Colorado City Playhouse production will be an original play The 23rd Annual Oso County Grasshopper Festival, newly-elected president Marsha Moore announced recently during a meeting of 30 local theater supporters.

The meeting, termed a 'rejuvenatin' meetin', was held March 2 at the C. C. Thompson Room.

The purpose of the meeting was to rejuvenate interest in the community theater. The recent production of Crimes of the Heart was the first all community theater effort to be held by the Playhouse in several years. Local residents and newcomers have said they would like the Playhouse to be as active as it has been in the past, said Moore.

The next planned production is a six-character comedy written by Cathy Stephenson. Stephenson, a native of Mitchell County, re-

Russian exchange student adapting well to American life

Fedor Iskhakov, a Russian exchange student at Colorado High School, said he's had little trouble adapting to life in the United States.

The 17-year-old senior is living with Charles and Marsha Batchelor and their son, Michael, who is the same age as Iskhakov, in Colorado City.

Iskhakov has been in the United States since last August through a U. S. government program, the Freedom Support Act.

The purpose of the program is to share information between the two countries.

"I call it making bridges," said the very personable Iskhakov.

He said that generally his countrymen are known to be very adaptable people.

As he recalled Russia's history this century, one is reminded that enormous changes have occurred during the young man's lifetime.

He was only six years old when Gorbachev instituted perestroika, restructuring the economy and bureaucracy of the Soviet Union.

Just before Iskhakov entered his teenage years the republics of the USSR became independent.

The rapid changes greatly affected the economy and everyday life for all Russians, including Iskhakov and his family.

"People got more freedom than they ever had before. They have choices now," he said. "But there are of course problems with rapid changes."

He recalls that one ruble, the Russian currency, was once equal to one American dollar. The last he heard the exchange rate was 5,680 rubles to one dollar.

Although the rapid inflation has now stabilized and people no longer have to wait in long lines to buy goods, he said his parents still work very hard.

Both of his parents are scientists and his sister, 13, is studying French with ambitions to one day go to France as an exchange student.

He said his mother, a chemist, and his father, a mathematician, both work several jobs to make ends meet. When the government funded all scientific research, his parents both worked full time at the Scientific Institute. Now, they work at the Institute only a few days of the week and work at other jobs during the remaining days. His mother manages a retail store and his father also works as a security guard and delivers manufactured goods.

He and his family live in an apartment in St. Petersburg, the second largest city in Russia with a population of five million.

During the week, all the members of his family are busy with work and school but they spend weekends together. They go to concerts, museums or the theater or spend the weekend at a one-room summer home they now own in the country.

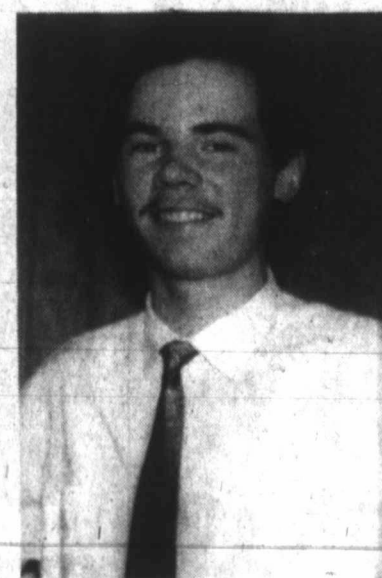

Iskhakov graduated from school a year early so he could come to the United States as an exchange student without affecting his college education. He has already passed his exam to enter college and plans to double major in mathematics and economics.

He said his hardest subject at Colorado High is English while mathematics is his easiest.

"Fedor doesn't like me to brag on him but he's so good in math that he was helping the other students in the calculus class after only being in school a couple of days," said Mr. Batchelor.

A trombone player who studied music after school in Russia, he has been very involved in the band here. He competed in the UIL Solo and Ensemble Competition at Abilene last month and received a Division I with a trom-

COOK'S CORNER

by Sheila Plagens

If you can't find Jo Carter, or get her on the phone, drive by her house, she might be digging in her flower beds. She listed that as one of her favorite things to do, besides cooking, sewing and staying very busy as a Pink Lady at Mitchell County Hospital. For twenty years now she has volunteered as a Pink Lady. Two of those years, she served as president of the organization.

Which leads us to believe she wouldn't have much time to cook, but she does make time to cook up some really wonderful dishes. Jo's mother and grandmother were both good cooks and she says she "must have learned through osmosis."

Jo told a funny story about some good fried chicken she made right after she married. Her family was coming to see her, so she decided to make fried chicken. She wrung the chicken's neck, plucked it and cut it up for frying. Before she breaded it, she soaked it in buttermilk. While eating the chicken someone said it was the "best fried chicken they had ever eaten" and wanted to know what Jo had done to it. She said she soaked it in buttermilk like her mother had told her to. Her mother spoke up and told her she had never heard of that before. Jo doesn't really remember where she learned to do that, but that it does make good fried chicken.

After Jo married, she went back to college in Brenham and became a nursing home administrator. She worked at that from 1970 until 1976. Her favorite job, though, was the position of bookkeeper for Robinson Drilling, which she held for 14 years before retiring.

Jo has one son, Mike McKinney, who resides in Colorado City with his wife Sue. She also enjoys two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. She is sharing one recipe with us today.

Brown, Carnes united Feb. 10

Jodi and Steven Carnes

Jodi Rene Brown of Round Rock and Steven Alton Carnes of Austin were married February 10, 1996 at Grace Temple Baptist Church in San Angelo.

Officiating the double-ring candlelight ceremony was James M. Rogers, pastor of Pecan Baptist Church in Robert Lee. Pianist was Lola Beth Rogers of San Angelo and soloist was Tony Adams of Colorado City, uncle of the groom.

Jami Brown of Round Rock, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Leanne Carnes, sister of the groom, and Stephanie Gillilan, cousin of the groom, both of San Angelo.

Serving as best man was David Harrell of San Marcus. Groomsmen were Thomas Wells of Fort Worth and Joe Martin of Austin. Ushers were Terrell Gillilan of Sherman and Jason Pennell of San Angelo.

The bride is a 1989 graduate of San Angelo Lake View High School and received a licensed vocational nurse certification in 1990 from Howard College. She is employed by All-Regional Medical Clinic in Austin.

The groom is a 1987 graduate of San Angelo Central High School and attended Angelo State University. He graduated from Permian Basin Regional Law Enforcement Academy in 1993 and is a police officer for the City of Bastrop.

Following a trip to Nevada, the couple is at home in Austin.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gary Montgomery of Round Rock and Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Carnes of San Angelo. The groom is the grandson of Lenora Adams of Colorado City and the great grandson of Mitchell County pioneers the late Mr. and Mrs. Luther Feaster and Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Adams.

THIS 'n THAT

By Sheila Plagens
Greetings to everyone!

Please don't complain! The tax money that is being spent by the Texas Department of Transportation at the intersection of Hwy. 208 and Interstate 20 is money that was going to be spent somewhere in the State of Texas for highway landscaping. We should be glad that some of our tax dollars are coming back to benefit Mitchell County! Personally, I think it's our turn. Look at all the money that was spent around Sweetwater and Abilene the last few years.

We have a local hero! Angela Ornelas, daughter of Gabriel and Becky Ornelas, saved a woman's life a couple of weeks ago when she performed the Heimlich maneuver on a lady who was choking. She was working at the Cattleman's Restaurant in San Angelo when the incident occurred. The Red Cross presented Angela with an award last week for her efforts.

Angela said she learned the procedure in the seventh grade, but doesn't really want to ever have to do it again.

Speaking of renovating the Baker Hotel—there's been talk of a project called "Adopt a Window" to enhance the outside appearance of the landmark. Maybe we ought to look into the cost of adopting a room. We could take up to three years to get our room ready, and then make it available to senior citizens or someone—maybe a tourist type facility. It's just a thought, so I don't know exactly how we could use it, but if we are going to fix up the bottom floor and the pool area, we might as well go at least a couple of floors up. Think about it!

Flo McShan, recovering from a broken bone in her leg, sent word to me that she had received several cards from friends in Mitchell County and was cheered by each one. Thanks to everyone! She expects to return to Sears Heritage Center in about three or four weeks.

I heard the Big Spring Regional Car Club is going to meet here for their Spring Fling this coming Saturday. They will park their old cars on The City National Bank parking lot in the morning, then take a tour of the county, take in the Railroad Trade Days and eat at a local restaurant. We have several couples in Mitchell County who are members of the club.

Jaci Wulfjen wanted to make sure the judges at the twirling contest saw her Saturday. She strutted in front of the judge she was supposed to, then kept going so that all the judges could see her big smile. Kakai carefully turned her around and she just kept going. Maybe she did all of that because Daddy Cole bribed her with a new Barbie doll—and she hasn't forgotten it! Kakai didn't get it on video and is hoping someone out in the audience did.

The First Baptist Church of Westbrook is sponsoring The Singing Thomas Family for a concert Sunday, March 17. The family will be at the Sunday morning service at 11 a.m. Everyone is invited.

The First Baptist Church of Colorado City will hold a revival next week. The remodeling of the sanctuary will be completed by then.

Nellie Bunch brought me a couple of really good poems Monday. I will run them when I get a chance.

I want to welcome Carl and Mary Reeves to Colorado City. The Reeves are managing the local Dairy Queen. Carl has been working for the Dairy Queen chain since 1970. Both are from this area.

Carl loves to talk high school football, so go out and visit with him sometime.

DARE officers instruct students

by Eunice Fisher, editor
In his State of the Union address last month, President Clinton recognized the efforts of DARE officers around the country for the positive impact they're making in schools.

DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) has been called one of the nation's top drug abuse prevention programs. "Mitchell County is very fortunate to have three strong DARE officers," said Dave Williams, state coordinator for the Texas DARE Institute in Austin.

Sheriff's Department Deputy Tommy Dill, Police Department Lt. Patrick Taylor and Officer Charles Rice all teach the 17-week course DARE curriculum.

Locally DARE originated in 1990 as a county program under Sheriff Wendell Bryant's administration. The first DARE deputy covered all three school districts in the county so the schools requested the local police department to cover his absences, recalled Officer Rice.

Today, the program is in all three school districts, including all four CISD campuses.

While the curriculum now taught by the city and county programs is the same, the programs have distinct differences, mainly in the way they're funded.

The county's program is called Youth Services Drug Education because it covers more than DARE, said Deputy Dill. DARE is funded by a grant from the Office of the Governor's Criminal Justice Division. The current $34,271 grant, which runs from Jan. 1 to Aug. 31, pays for salaries for a full-time DARE officer, a part time secretary and supplies.

Dill is in the classroom about 30 hours a week during the school semester.

He teaches kindergarten, second, fifth and ninth grade classes in Colorado City; second, fifth, seventh, ninth and tenth grade classes at Westbrook and kindergarten, second, fifth, seventh, and ninth grade classes at Loraine.

The high school classes are not DARE curriculum but cover topics such as conflict, self esteem and peer leadership. Dill said that in the classes they'll often talk about leadership and people's attitudes.

The three DARE officers have all had DARE training enabling them to teach at the various grade levels. However, none have had the necessary classes to gain the DARE certification at the high school level due to funds needed for the extensive training.

Last Thursday, the sheriff and sheriff's deputies attended the school board meetings of the county's three school districts to request financial assistance in continuing the program. Each agreed to contribute $1,000.

Superintendent Russell Merket told the CISD board of trustees that he felt it was a very valuable program and recommended that the district make the contribution.

The city's DARE program is funded by fundraisers and the full-time city police officers who teach the program are paid by the city. They are part time DARE officers, spending about six hours a week in the classroom and perform the regular duties of police officers the remainder of the time.

Officer Rice teaches half of the CISD K-2 programs and half the fifth grade classes.

Lt. Taylor teaches the middle school DARE program. The DARE program expanded into the middle school grades in 1991 and Lt. Taylor was one of the first 150 officers in Texas trained to teach at the middle school program.

In the middle school, the 10 consecutive lessons taught on the block schedule include: drug use and abuse; drugs and the law; consequences; assertive resistance; positive friendships; resolving conflicts without violence; destructive ecology (concerning vandalism); gangs and gang violence. Students then review all of the lessons and at the end, make a personal commitment to be drug free.

Dedicated to

In the city's program, all awards, supplies and training not absorbed by the Regional Education Service Center's Region 14 is funded by donations from the public. Last year the DARE program raised funds with a drawing for a pickup and held a youth rodeo that brought in approximately $5,000.

Miller said it is very common around the state to have both city and county programs with the city covering the school or schools in the city and the county covering the remaining schools throughout the county.

Funding varies from city to city, Williams said. In some communities the schools themselves pay part or the total bill for the program. Some are funded by grants, others by cities or counties.

DARE began in Los Angeles in 1987. The curriculum was written by educators in the L.A. school districts and has been revised twice since then to reflect changes in the society, said Williams.

Texas now has DARE programs conducted by over 400 agencies—such as sheriff's departments, police departments and military installations, he said.

Close to 500 school districts participate and DARE is in all major Texas cities except Dallas which has devised their own drug education program.

"Rural counties often have better programs because there is better communication and lawmen often build strong relationships with the kids," said Williams.

Whether in a rural or urban area, the program reflects the changing role of law officers in the schools.

A uniformed law enforcement officer working in the classroom provides a positive role model for children in a non-threatening environment.

"I'd much rather teach than arrest our youth," said Officer Rice.

Statewide three-fourths of a million children are in DARE programs. The majority are in elementary grades.

DARE targets children at an age when they are most receptive to drug prevention education and before they are likely to have experimented with tobacco, alcohol and drugs.

The fifth grade has been found to be a critical grade for drug education.

"Research has shown that children often get into drugs when they are between the ages of 11-13. So providing the DARE program at 10 or 11 gives them the basis for decision-making skills," said Williams.

Does DARE make a difference? Williams and the three DARE officers who deal with the community's young believe it does.

"It's an area that prevention has had a problem with from the start. How can I show you that someone would have done something if they hadn't had the training?" said Williams.

Mitchell County students have an opportunity to critique the program at the end of every session of classes. The officers say their feedback is important as a way to evaluate their teaching and the program.

After taking the series of classes taught by Lt. Taylor one middle school student wrote, "We learned how drugs and alcohol could effect our lives and other peoples lives. We not only just learned we expressed how someone would say no assertively. We now know how to say no without hurting anybody's feelings. We learned how to have confidants when pressured. If there wasn't a D.A.R.E. teacher like you we wouldn't understand anything about D.A.R.E. taught to us." (Editor's note: No spelling or grammatical corrections were made on this excerpt from the letter. It is exactly as written by the student.)

Valentine tea held

The Vivace Music Club, sponsored by Bethel Studio of Music, Snyder, honored mothers and grandmothers at a Valentine tea in the home of Faith Feaster of Roscoe on Saturday, February 10. The theme of the tea was "Friends Forever," and the program began with Joanna Burk of Snyder singing, "Where There is Love."

Students played sonatas and sonatas they later performed at the Lubbock Music Teachers Association Piano Competition at Texas Tech University February 16 and 17.

Playing the piano were Clinton Senn, Danisha Akins, Kelsey Shaw, Blake Robertson, Jessica Solis, Zach Greenlee, Vivi Weaver, Nicki Riggs, Megan Muscatell, Rachel Cave, Craig Bowen, Sandi Nussey, Claire Pollard, Sue Sewell, Jami Thackerson, Joanna Burk, Jessica Hall, Stormy Clark, Faith Feaster and Sonda Leininger. Marie Clark closed the program with a flute solo.

After the program, while refreshments were being served, Ruby Dunahoo of Loraine, Faith Feaster's great aunt, entertained the guests with favorite music from the '30s and '40s.

Several members were hostesses for the 75 people attending. Out-of-town guests were from Ft. Worth, Abilene, Rotan, Sweetwater, Loraine, Colorado City, Jayton, Snyder and Post.

Last day to certify wheat is May 1st

The final date to certify wheat and other small grains will be May 1, 1996. Producers who have wheat planted for grain or have a wheat base must certify planted acres to protect the farm's base.

Those with windstrips planted to wheat must also certify these acres unless the acres are destroyed with NRCS concurrence on or before May 1.

Producers with wheat for grain must pull all grazing livestock from the acres on March 15, 1996.

To schedule an appointment, please call the Mitchell County FSA office at 728-2651, or stop by.

ran on the Republican ticket. "I really appreciated all the support I got and I hope to gain the confidence of those that did not vote for me," a happy Wyndell Inman said Tuesday night.

In the Mitchell County Tax

Assessor-Collector race, Faye Lee polled 1,079 votes to Kakai Wulfjen's 605 and Linda Clary's 214. Lee assumes the position vacated by Mike Burt who will retire at the end of 1996.

Faye Lee was excited about her big victory, capturing the Tax Assessor-Collector job without a runoff. "I want to thank all of Mitchell County for their confidence and pledge to work hard to serve the people of this county," Lee said.

In the District Attorney race, incumbent Frank Conard will face Mark Edwards in an April 9 runoff. Conard carried Mitchell County 1,186 to Edwards's 411 and Harger's 210.

A candidate must receive at least 51% of the votes to avoid a runoff.

Conard received 46 % of the votes. Total results from Mitchell, Nolan and Fisher counties were as follows: Conard 2880; Edwards 2226; and Harger's 1090.

"We tried to run a sound positive race without negative campaigning and now we're in a runoff. I really appreciate the strong support from Mitchell County," said Frank Conard.

Edwards and Harger could not be reached for a comment Tuesday night.

Counts to speak at conference March 20th

State Representative David Counts will be the keynote speaker at the Big Country Resource Conservation & Development Area, Inc. Annual Sponsor's Conference Wednesday, March 20 at 11:30 a.m. in the Allen's Family Style Meals banquet hall at 1301 E. Broadway, Sweetwater. Tickets are $7.50 each and the public is welcome to attend. Following the luncheon the Area's annual report of activities will be presented.

Positions on the board of directors for Howard, Kent,

Sterling and Glasscock counties for the next three years will be announced.

Rick Rhodes, president of Texas Midwest Community Network, will introduce Representative Counts, who will close the conference with his keynote address.

For additional information, contact Denise Amonett at (915) 235-4300.

Farmers can apply for emergency farm loans

Producers in Mitchell County have eight months to apply for the Emergency Farm loans to help cover part of their actual losses for 1995.

To be eligible, producers must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of normal production, be able to repay the loan or any other loans, be unable to obtain credit anywhere else, have adequate security and have multi-peril crop insurance if available.

For further information, please contact the FSA, Ag Credit Office at (915) 236-6337.

Crop insurance deadline is March 15

Mitchell County producers are encouraged to obtain federal crop insurance on crops to be planted for 1996.

Producers and landowners must obtain at least catastrophic level coverage to be eligible to participate in the programs offered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

This includes not only programs for cotton and feed grains, but to obtain a farm operating loan a producer must obtain insurance coverage on the crop or crops that will be planted in the spring of 1996.

Insurance coverage may either be a buy-up policy that will insure at a higher level or a catastrophic policy that insures all acres of that crop in that county for a $50 administrative fee.

Insurance policies may be obtained either from an FCIC crop insurance agent or by contacting the local Farm Service Agency.

The deadline to obtain this insurance is March 15, 1996.

Those with questions may call the Mitchell County Farm Service Agency, 728-2651.

Barber may be in runoff

Colorado City attorney Pat Barber, a Republican candidate for Place 2 on the Court of Criminal Appeals, early this morning appeared in a dead heat in making April's runoff election.

Paul Womack, after heavy returns from Dallas, led the race with 32 percent of the votes.

Barber and Mike Keasler each had 22 percent with Barber holding a five-vote lead at 7 a.m. Wednesday.

Barber led by as many as 5,000 votes but saw his margin decline as results came in from metropolitan areas in a race in which nearly 700,000 votes were cast.

Producers can get assistance to purchase feed

Livestock producers in Mitchell County may now apply for assistance in the purchase of livestock feed. Due to extremely dry weather conditions, approval has been granted to implement emergency livestock feed.

To be eligible, a person must be a livestock owner, be a citizen or a legal resident alien of the United States, be actively engaged in farming and/or ranching, receive at least 10 percent or more of their total gross income from the production of grain or livestock, and have at least a 40 percent loss and feeding above normal.

Due to the time it takes to file an application and the number of livestock producers affected by the drought conditions, it is suggested that an appointment be scheduled by calling or coming by the Mitchell County FSA office. If you have any questions, please feel free to call 728-2651.

cently returned after living in Santa Fe, N.M.

The play consists of three one-act plays that are unified.

Stevenson and Moore will share the directing of the comedy which is expected to be performed at the Opera House in early June.

At the end of the recent meeting of Playhouse supporters, George Womack presented a slide show tribute to Porter Richardson, who passed away last year. The slides, which depicted an assortment of scenes from the 96 Playhouse productions at the Opera House, showed Richardson's many contributions to theater in Colorado City starting with the first production in 1964 The Gazebo.

The slides and Womack's accompanying narration highlighted Richardson's vast range of talent and enormous creativity in everything from acting to elaborate sets and special effects.

Playhouse members also elected officers and board of directors at the meeting. Officers are: Marsha Moore, president; Cathy Wilson, vice-president; Patsy Ritchey, secretary; and Richy Womack, treasurer.

The board of directors includes Gwen Wistrand, Jack Starr, Dori Shutt, Ann Nobles, Orphie Conner and Brenda Crosley with Tandy Curlee serving as past president advisor.

bone solo and took second in brass quartet.

The walls of his room at the Batchelor's home on Eleventh Street reflect some of Iskhakov's other interests—orienteeing, photography and traveling.

Maps are on all the walls and one area holds the medals he received for orienteeing in Russia. He has attended an orienteeing camp in Russia and likened the sport to combining the mental agility of chess with the physical requirements of cross country running. In winter, orienteeing is done while cross country skiing near his home, which has hilly slopes rather than mountains.

Photographs of his family and friends in Russia and here are grouped on his walls. He's taken many rolls of film while being in the United States, using a Russian make 35 mm camera, a Zenit, that resembles the professional quality Nikon camera.

His interest in photography goes hand in hand with his enjoyment of traveling. After arriving in the United States, he spent a week in New York City for orientation.

He accompanied Colorado City students on a trip to Washington, D. C. this year and to the Livestock Show in Houston.

He said that one of the highlights of his exchange student experience has been attending the Houston Rodeo, where he used four rolls of film in taking pictures.

In the days immediately preceding the school's spring break, Iskhakov was excited about a trip he would be making to Arizona with a local senior citizen.

Batchelor said Iskhakov is curious about everything, which has been one of the most enjoyable aspects of having him stay in their home.

He said Iskhakov asked all about the water sprinkler on the family's lawn when he first arrived because he wasn't familiar with the device.

"It's similar to the enjoyment you get from being around a two-year-old who is curious and excited about everything and delights in all his new discoveries," said Batchelor.

He highly recommends being a host family for an exchange student. With this program, the family is able to read information about the proposed student before making a choice.

"Fedor, being who he is, has made this a great experience," he said. Iskhakov said his fellow students ask him lots of questions about his country and people.

He's given a lot of thought to the question—What are the biggest differences between Americans and Russians?

He said he believes that Americans are more independent, which he attributes to many years of freedom, while Russians seem closer to their fellow countrymen.

He read about Texas before coming here and he said the state was much as he expected.

What has surprised him the most? "Smiles! American people smile all the time," he said. "Russian people don't smile as much."

Local officials meet; share ideas and problems

City, county, school and hospital representatives met for lunch last week and plan to continue meeting informally once a month to discuss current projects and shared issues and problems.

Colorado City Councilman Bob Reilly proposed the idea for a Community Sounding Group at the February city council meeting.

Mitchell County Sheriff's Deputy Scott Morton said he was at the top of the hill at the West Exchange, when he heard on the police scanner that Trooper Negri had clocked the vehicle and it was not stopping.

According to Morton, he met the vehicle driven by Sanchez at Business 20 and 208, by Gas 'n Grub. The vehicle was driving in excess of 100 miles per hour, he said.

Morton fell in behind Trooper Negri in pursuit of the Oldsmobile.

The suspect's vehicle exited from Highway 208 bypass under I-20 to County Road 139.

"The road makes a dogleg and becomes a gravel road," said Morton. "We knew that kink was in the road and those folks didn't and there was nothing we could do about it."

According to reports, Sanchez apparently lost control and the car rolled five times.

"When we stopped, we couldn't see the vehicle for the dust. As we walked out into the field, we saw one subject running away from us towards Trucktown," said Morton.

He and Colorado City Police Officer Richard Delacruz chased the subject across the interstate to the old Trucktown service garage where the two lawmen found him inside the building. Gudmundson was arrested and transported to Mitchell County Hospital where he was treated before being turned over to San Angelo juvenile authorities.

In the meantime, Trooper Negri, assisted by Colorado City police officers, secured the vehicle and other suspects.

Washington, who was thrown from the vehicle, was taken by CareFlight helicopter to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock where he was listed in critical condition with a skull fracture and a back injury.

The purpose of the informal networking is to increase cooperation for the betterment of the community, he said.

During the informational portion of the Mitchell County Commissioners Court Monday, the commissioners endorsed the idea.

County Judge Ray Mayo said Nolan County entities have been having similar meetings for the past 12 years with good results.

TROOPER

members to take a position after they had had a chance to think about it.

"Before something really nasty happens, we need to be on record opposing this kind of thing," he said.

Trooper Negri was on duty at the time of the city council meeting and was not aware of the discussion at the council meeting or the accusations.

Negri didn't deny that he was going at high speeds during the chase—from 100 mph to 128 mph at one point. However, he said that officers were told on the police radio to be alert for a vehicle that had been involved in a carjacking and he had made every attempt to stop the vehicle by turning on the siren and flashing lights. Sgt. Graham of the Sweetwater DPS office could not be reached for his reaction Tuesday night.

Therefore, information from this area is vital in helping eastern counties to predict oncoming weather.

The weather spotters class is held almost every year.

However, those who attend this year's class will learn about recent changes in the National Weather Bureau that affect the relaying of weather information. "I'll be bringing a whole new program this year," said May.

In the past, the Abilene office provided weather information and had warning responsibility for Mitchell County. However, beginning August 1, the San Angelo Weather Bureau office will assume those responsibilities.

"In preparation for that, we're recruiting and training volunteer weather spotters and doing it from our office," said May.

In the future, Mitchell County will be covered by two Doppler radars—one near Dyess Air Force Base, owned and operated by the Air Force, and the other in San Angelo, to be commissioned July 31.

"We'll be able to call out displays from Dyess and use both Dopplers to monitor the counties," said May.

jewelry maker who will be demonstrating his craft.

One booth will be of particular interest to local shoppers. The San Angelo architects involved in Colorado City's downtown beautification project will display photographs and architect renderings of ideas for how the downtown area could eventually look.

Outside the Truss King Building on First Street there will be a display of antique cars, a train offering rides for children, food booths, additional booths selling a variety of items and a bargain alley section of booths.

The antique cars belonging to members of The Big Spring Regional Automobile Club of America will be on display Saturday morning only. Antique cars owned by six local people will be among the 20 or so vehicles expected to be shown.

A large number of out-of-town shoppers are expected to visit Colorado City during the Railroad Days. The Chamber of Commerce has distributed flyers and advertisements in a 150 mile radius of the city.

The flyers encourage visitors to tour the historical sights. Some local antique merchants are planning to dress in period costumes and offer refreshments.

Only incumbents seek re-election

With less than a week to go before the March 20 filing deadline for seats on the city and school board, incumbent office holders have been the only ones to announce their bids for re-election.

None of the positions which will appear on the May 4 ballot were contested as of Tuesday and eight positions remain without candidates for the upcoming elections.

No one has yet filed for the three city council positions in Westbrook.

Early voting ballots will be mailed to applicants after March 20. Early voting by mail ends April 26.

Early voting in person begins April 15 and ends April 30.

City candidates file at City Hall. School candidates file at the respective administration offices and hospital board candidates file at the hospital administrator's office.

In the upcoming elections for the city council positions:

City of Colorado City

All three of the Colorado City Council members whose seats are up for election had filed by Tuesday. Patrick Parker, District #6, and Gary Redwine, District #3, filed last week. A. W. Rowe was the first person in the county to file for re-election to his district #4 city council seat.

To file for a position on the Colorado City Council, a candidate must be at least 21 years old, a U.S. citizen, a qualified Texas voter, have lived in the city limits at least two years, be a resident of the district he or she seeks to represent, have resided in that district at least six months, be a city taxpayer and not be in arrears in paying city taxes.

City of Loraine

In Loraine, two of the incumbents, Lee Matlock and Chrystene Hall, have filed for re-election. A third council seat held by Arthur Zuniga will also be on the ballot.

City of Westbrook

The Mayor of Westbrook, J. L. Rees, has filed for re-election.

Positions held by Ronnie Diese and Nick Lopez are also up for election in Westbrook as well as a third council seat left open after Sally Parker's resignation.

School Boards

No additional filings for school board positions have been reported since all three school districts in the county are on spring break this week.

All three Colorado Independent School District board members, Tony Turner, Jesse Munoz and Larry Blasingame, have filed for re-election.

In the Westbrook Independent School District, the three incumbents have filed as candidates—Elton Carlisle, Kay Gregory and W.E. Smith, Jr.

Two Loraine ISD school board members have filed for re-election—Charles Bowen and Monte Wilkes. The position held by Henry Mitchell will also be up for election.

Hospital Board

No one has formally filed for places on the Mitchell County Hospital District board. Seats held by Virgil Stone, Dale Geiger and Fred Thompson are up for re-election.

The filing period for the hospital board is different from the city and school board elections. It ends April 9.

Alzheimer's program set

Everyone is invited to a special program on Alzheimer's disease at the Wallace Center Thursday at 11:30 a.m.

Sue Davis, executive director of the Alzheimer Association of West Central Texas will present the program. There will be a discussion of signs and symptoms of Alzheimer's.

Door prizes will be given away.

There is no charge for the program. Guest are invited to stay for the regular Wallace Center Senior Citizen's lunch that will follow the program.

CHIEF LONE WOLF

BY JIM BAUM

The Mitchell County economy is agriculture based, dating back to 1881. That's when ranchers began settling the county. Later, men came busting sod and thus began the era of farming. Today the farming heritage continues, but oh! How the business has changed.

N.W. Stokes, who lived in the Westbrook area, walked two miles to school as a kid. But that was a snap. "First thing I had to do was go and round up them mules, bring 'em in and feed 'em," he told us. Next, he ate breakfast.

"Then we hitched up mules and went to work," Stokes continued. "We had some work to do before we went to school."

G.D. Foster also grew up on a farm. Included in his chores, before going to school, was milking the family's three cows each morning. "You had to milk 'til you trained a younger brother," he once told us.

After the kids went off to school, Mom and Dad were left to do the chores. "We stayed in the field from early 'til late," Mrs. Ross Dockrey recalled. "I picked and hoed cotton and carried our lunch with us and ate it right there at the wagon."

Each evening, about sundown, "we'd go home and I'd cook supper and my husband would feed the hogs and milk the cows. It was a long day's work!"

Those early day farms were pretty much self sufficient when it came to food for the family. The farmer, his wife and children managed to exist on what they grew or raised.

"We learned to do everything," Ola Swann explained. "We made lye soap. We would kill a hog, then take the fat and render that up. And that makes the prettiest white lard. Then mix that with lye and water and that makes the soap. Makes a pretty soap."

For food, the farm family had a choice of the products raised on the farm; chickens, beef, sausage, vegetables, or even rabbit. As a youth, Odis Cranfill used to "twist" rabbits.

"Well, you have to get ya' a barbed wire about 10 or 12 feet long. Fix you a handle on it. Usually you have to go to a prairie dog town to find you a cottontail. You gotta see which hole it went in."

"I twisted out a lot of 'em. [The wire] gets tangled up in their fur and hide and you just pull 'em out."

There were some supplies which had to be bought in town. That meant hitching up the team and taking the wagon into Colorado City.

"We bought supplies twice a year," Mrs. Earl Brown recalled. "We lived 13 miles from Colorado City and we would leave about eight o'clock and get in here around 11 o'clock."

She recalls she and her husband would come into town "where those beautiful cottonwood trees are north of Colorado City. There was a permanent well and a horse trough. It was concrete, the first concrete trough we had ever seen. We would stop and water our mules there."

Fortunately, most of those farm families were able to produce more food than they needed. And they made extra money by selling farm products to customers.

"I've churned as high as 50 pounds of butter at a time," Mrs. Brown stated. "Sold it for .25 a pound. It was hard work. I churned in a 10 gallon milk can."

She also sold milk to Bodine's Dairy. "We sold milk in quart bottles to Jim Bodine for ages. I sold to Mrs. H.I. Berman, too. I brought her in two pounds of butter, a pint of cream and a chicken, if she wanted it.

"Those that I delivered to, I got .50 a pound for butter. When Safeway opened in Colorado City, they would take every chicken that I could raise. All I had to do was tie their feet and bring 'em in."

However, there was one occasion when Safeway insisted Mrs. Brown dress the chickens. Her husband, Earl, didn't have enough cash to pay his life insurance premium.

"I killed 25 hens and brought 'em in and Safeway bought 'em. I got a dollar apiece for 'em."

And Mr. Brown got his insurance premium paid.

Reyna attends Pacesetters Club seminar in Sioux Falls

Henry Reyna of the Reyna Insurance Agency, 1216 Pine Street, Colorado City, has just returned from Midland National Life's home office in Sioux Falls, S.D., where he attended the Pacesetters Club seminar. He joined a select group of MNL general agents from throughout the United States, all of whom met specified sales production goals in order to qualify for attendance.

Reyna was recently named a general agent for Midland National and his qualification for attendance at the seminar allowed him to participate in an intensive three-day instructional program which concentrated on elements of proper financial planning and programming, estate conservation, agency building, underwriting and accounting procedures, and overall corporate philosophy.

While in Sioux Falls, Reyna had an opportunity to tour the company's home office building and personally cover every aspect of its operation. He was presented with a certificate for successful completion of the seminar by MNL president John C. Watson, FLMI, CLU.

THE LARGEST FIFTH GRADE DARE GRADUATION was held last week at Hutchinson Elementary School. Parents and grandparents attended the ceremony at which 114 students received certificates and DARE t-shirts. The t-shirts had been donated by the Rotary Club. Winners of the DARE essay contest, Ashley Tolle, second place winner and Shauna McGuire, first place winner, are pictured with DARE officers Charles Rice and Tommy Dill. District Attorney Frank Conard II, the guest speaker, congratulated the students on completing the program and discussed the consequences of drug use.

Tolle, McGuire participate in essay contest

Contest winners Ashley Tolle and Shauna McGuire submitted these essays for judging in the DARE essay contest. Shauna won 1st place with her essay and Ashley took second place.

First place DARE essay:
The last 16 weeks I've learned a lot from DARE. DARE means Drug Abuse Resistance Education. My DARE teacher is named Officer Charles Rice. He taught me about what kind of drugs I could be faced with. In DARE, I learned to respect the teachers and other surrounding people. In my future, I could be tempted to do something wrong. I hope to be a teacher someday. DARE has taught me to be responsible for my things, and the belongings of others. I've even learned ways to say no to drugs. These are the ways to say no:

1. No thanks
2. Giving a reason or excuse
3. Broken record
4. Walking away
5. Changing the subject
6. Cold shoulder
7. Strength in numbers.

If I am ever in a bad situation I would like to get the punishment I deserve, cause I know better. DARE was a great advantage for me? I learned I'm a model and I have a model of my own. So I wouldn't want to do drugs cause the one that wants to be like me would get hurt. I learned the difference between a gang and a youth gang. We even had DARE role models come, we asked them questions of curiosity. I learned how to tell someone no while respecting both of our rights. You might think DARE is boring but we did a lot of fun things. I didn't tell you everything I learned in DARE but I enjoyed sharing it with you.

Shauna McGuire
5th grade, Hutchinson

Second place DARE essay:
There are many things I have learned in DARE.

I have learned the definition of many words that have to do with staying drug-free. I have also read short stories about children who have been in situations that are not good but as they always say, "Every story has a happy ending." And so did these; those children made the right choices. I learned that we all have the right to make our own choices in life and we should be the ones to make them. The most important word I have learned is self-esteem. My officer, Mr. Rice, gave us an example of high and low self-esteem. He illustrated it by blowing air into a balloon and letting air out of a balloon.

Through the DARE program, I have learned ways to stay drug-free. First, I am going to try to be a DARE Role Model in high school. The next thing I want to do is continue to say no to drugs. Finally, I will keep a high self-esteem of myself.

The DARE program has been a lot of fun and been helpful to me.

COLORADO HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS Crystal Wood and Michael Hoyle were honored when their photographs were selected by Taylor Publishing Company for publication in their magazine, One Day America.

CHS Seniors receive photography honors

Colorado High School seniors Crystal Wood and Michael Hoyle were recently honored when their photographs were selected by Taylor Publishing Company for publication in a national magazine.

Students across the United States were asked to use their cameras to depict an average day in the life of American teenagers. All photographs had to be taken October 13, 1995.

Of the 2,293 entries, Taylor Publishing chose 106 photographs from 63 schools to be printed in their One Day America magazine scheduled for release at the Journalism Educator Association/National Press Association national convention in April.

This is the second photography honor for Wood, whose work was recognized in Taylor's statewide publication, One Day Texas in 1994.

CHS photography instructor Cliff Vlasin said, "She is a talented photographer. Crystal has a real future in photography if she chooses to pursue it."

"It's also a particularly significant honor for Michael," Vlasin continued. "He had less than one semester of photography instruction when this assignment took place, and many of these entries are from students with two or three years of experience."

The photographers, as well as the school, will receive copies of the magazine when it is released in April.

Defensive driving class set for March 16 at Wallace Center

A defensive driving class is scheduled for Saturday, March 16 from 8 a.m.-3 p.m. in room 6 of the Wallace Community Education Center with Charles Watlington as the instructor.

The classroom session offers pointers in preventing accidents in spite of the incorrect actions of others and adverse driving conditions.

Films and other visual aids will be used to demonstrate driving skills. There will be a one-hour lunch break.

Those who complete the course will be eligible for possible ticket removal from their driving records. The fee for the course is $30. Registration must be completed by March 15.

For more information, call the Wallace Community Education Center at 728-2392.

Loraine News

By BESSIE ANN VAUGHN

Greetings from Loraine. This little impish fellow is only four feet tall.

He isn't any big, nor is he any small.

Some people are afraid of him.

This I'll never understand. He is a nice Leprechaun who came from Ireland.

If you should run into this wee one

With four leaf clover in his hand,

Nod your head and tip your hat.

He could be kin from Ireland.

Have a happy St. Patrick's Day.

Visiting in the home of Atwood and Billie Sheffield this past week was their daughter, Mildred Kelley and her children, Ryan, Shane and Caitlin. The Kelleys live in Carrollton.

Coming to Loraine to help their mother celebrate her birthday last Saturday were Karen Hamer and sons from Midland, Gwen Yates and sons from Louisiana, and Judy Brown from Snyder. Billie Ruth Abernathy was the birthday girl.

Hebert and Nina Meadows attended the wedding of a great niece Saturday, March 9, and Travis Avenue Baptist Church in Ft. Worth was where Stacey Coston and Grant Banner were married.

The bride's parents are Thomas and Shirley Coston of Ft. Worth. Maternal grandmother is Jane (Meadows) Coston.

We wish the couple much happiness.

Leona Linam has been to Snyder several times recently as her sister, Opal Chamness, was hospitalized there. Now we are happy to report Mrs. Chamness is better at this time.

Eddie Newsom and his family moved back to Mississippi this past week due to the illness of his mother, who still lives there.

We sure hate to lose this nice family. Mr. Newsom was employed by the city.

Our sincere condolences go out to the Chavez family and friends, as Mr. Chavez passed away last week.

Last Sunday night at the First Baptist Church following the business meeting, a celebration of Texas was held.

Tables were decorated with items that are symbolic of Texas. Pecan candleholders on tables surrounded by bluebonnets were both apropos and attractive. A large cake made in the shape of Texas took center stage and was delicious.

Members brought different foodstuffs that one would be familiar with and eat in Texas, such as country cooking, soul food, Tex Mex, etc.

Several children under the direction of Addie Mahoney and Pam Butler sang "Texas Our Texas" with Vida Mae McDaniel accompanying them on piano.

It was an enjoyable evening of business and fellowship.

On Saturday, March 23, photographer Oscar Singleton will be offering a photograph package deal of one eight-by-ten, two five-by-sevens, and 16 wallet size pictures for $15 (prepaid) at the Loraine Senior Center.

These pictures are in color and are guaranteed to be free from technical flaws and closed eyes. Should this occur, your money will be refunded.

Families are welcome. The time is 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

This is a fundraising event for the center, so we will appreciate your patronage.

Loraine Nursing Home Joetta Hollis, the new activity director for the nursing home, began her new job Monday, March 11. We hope she will be happy and we appreciate getting the news from the manor as before.

Having birthdays this month are J.D. Iglehart, Cecil Bruner, Doris Buch, Verna Britton and Edna Fowler.

Robert Schroeder has been released from the hospital and is back at the nursing home.

Joetta reports that the St. Patrick's dance has been cancelled.

Residents have been working on St. Patrick's Day centerpieces, green four leaf clovers and flowers.

"Please come to see us," residents always say.

Loraine Senior Center Monday the 11th Pro Health Care nurses from Sweetwater came to the center to give us a program on congestive heart failure, giving us a lot of good information on causes and maintenance of this and other related heart problems and diseases.

The data covered bypass surgery, angioplasty, heart attacks and strokes. A question and answer period followed.

The program was well received and our thank you goes to Sabrina Parrish-Sikes, R.N., Administrative Director of Nursing.

Remember to wear something green on Friday the 15th for St. Patrick's Day. We will have an Irish sing-fest.

Recent visitors include Earl Prescott, Ida Chitsey, Billie Derryberry and Sheriff Patrick Tombs.

We are pleased to report that both Dorothy Haltom and Lenneta Dubose are doing better and coming down to visit with us and have lunch once again.

The Loraine F.C.E. Club meeting was called to order by President Margaret Brame at the senior center last Wednesday with the traditional prayer and creed being recited in unison by members.

Blondie Hamilton was hostess for this meeting and bringing the program was Eunice Fisher, editor of the Colorado City Record.

Miss Fisher, with a degree in journalism, was keen on writing about the Cherokee Indian tribe, including their cultural aspects of daily living. Making her dream come true, she lived and worked on the Cherokee reservation in North Carolina for five years and reported that she enjoyed it immensely.

To this meeting she brought several interesting handmade items to show, such as jewelry, basketry, doll-making, stone chiseling and pottery. The program was very well received.

Members then went to a regular business session and in the absence of Secretary Kendall, Eva Wells read the minutes and they were approved as read. Billie Schroeder gave the treasurer's report.

There was some discussion about the upcoming health fair and we were reminded that we should soon decide on a fundraising project for the club.

Attending the meeting were Eva Wells, Billie Schroeder, Millie Rose, Billie Ruth Abernathy, Bertha Fay Snyder, Blondie Hamilton, Elaine McMichael, Bessie Ann Vaughn and one guest, Vonceil Muse, sister of Elaine McMichael.

'96 football schedule announced

The Colorado Wolves football schedule was released last week.

The Wolves' district schedule remains the same; however, there will be some new faces in their non-district schedule, including a September 20 meeting with Ballinger. Ballinger is the team that knocked the Wolves out of the playoffs a year ago. This rematch just happens to fall on Colorado City's homecoming. Other non-district games include a Saturday meeting with Clint at Ratliff Stadium in Odessa.

The Wolves' remaining non-district schedule includes 4A Lamesa and 2A Stamford. The Wolves will open the season against familiar rival Stanton. Wolves' coach Bill Grissom is the former head coach of the Buffaloes.

Wolves split with Clyde

The Wolves varsity baseball team took on Clyde in a two-game series on March 8. In the first game, Colorado City had trouble hitting Clyde's ace pitcher, who allowed only three hits in six innings of work.

The Wolves played good defense throughout the game but stranded too many base runners. They also could not convert on two squeeze play attempts. The Wolves fell 3-5.

"We just didn't hit like we should have," Wolves baseball coach Gerald James said.

In the second game of the twin bill, the Wolves crushed the ball, accumulating 23 hits and nine runs as they defeated Clyde 9-8.

Lynn Boyd drove in the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning.

"We had much better hitting in the second game," Coach James said. The Wolves also did a good job bunting and capitalized on every Clyde mistake.

Four Lady Wolves qualify for state meet

Four Colorado Lady Wolves powerlifters qualified for the state meet in Beaumont March 23. The girls achieved the opportunity by placing in the regional meet this past weekend in Albany.

Placing in the regionals were Genece Brannan, third place, squat 135, bench 75, deadlift 150, total 360. Stephanie Hoyle, third place, squat 200, bench 110, deadlift 245, total 555.

Rachel Foster, second place, 200 squat, 110 bench, 270 deadlift, total 580. Ashley Scott, fourth place, 190 squat, 110 bench, 230 deadlift, 530 total.

"We had an excellent meet. The girls competed real hard. I am real proud of each girl," Coach Larry Hartwick said.

Marketing seminar scheduled

By Mary McMullen
CEA-FCS

Marketing their products and services is one of the most challenging tasks faced by small and home-based business owners here in Mitchell County. To help existing and potential business owners with marketing issues, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Mitchell County Economic Development Board and Texas Midwest Community Network are sponsoring a seminar March 19 from 6-9:15 p.m. at the Colorado High School library.

This three-hour seminar, "Mapping Your Marketing Future," will be conducted in Mitchell County with a one-hour live broadcast originating from Oklahoma State University. The broadcast will feature pre-taped segments of home-based and micro business owners discussing how they have addressed the marketing issues of positioning production, pricing, and promotion for product and service type businesses. A live panel of successful business owners will be available during part of the broadcast to answer viewer questions. A toll-free number will be available for those who wish to call in questions.

All interested participants or for more information, call are asked to register by Friday, the Mitchell County Extension office at 728-3111.

It's A Beautiful Day In Texas. Naturally, We're Preparing For The Worst.

Everyone knows that here in Texas nothing changes faster than the weather.

While you probably take it in stride, here at TU Electric it's the biggest challenge we face when it comes to providing you with safe, reliable electricity. We also know how many different ways you and your community depend on that service. That's the reason we're always prepared for the worst. That way, when bad weather does cause an outage, we're able to restore your service as quickly as possible. It's our commitment to do everything we can to keep outages brief and to a minimum. For instance, at our distribution operation centers, we use storm detection systems that are second to none. When lightning strikes anywhere in the United States, it's on our screens as it happens. By combining state-of-the-art technology with over a century of experience with

Texas storms, we're able to move the right people and equipment to the right locations faster than ever. Year after year, TU Electric's rating exceeds 99.9 percent on the national Reliability Index. That's a great score for companies working in normal weather, so we know that our crews here are fulfilling their commitment to provide you with the most reliable service possible. Although you never know just what the weather's going to do here in Texas, we thought you'd like to know that we're always working hard to find new ways to serve you better, come rain or shine.

PUBLIC NOTICE CITY OF COLORADO CITY TEXAS COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

The City has scheduled a second public hearing at 5:00 p.m. on March 21, 1996 at City Hall, 180 W. 3rd, to discuss the submission of an application to the Texas Department of Housing & Community Affairs for Texas Community Development Program (TCDP) grant. Topics to be discussed will include the application for sewer improvements in the town. The proposed application is available for review at City Hall during regular business hours. The City encourages individual citizens and citizen's groups to attend this hearing and make their views known. General information on the Texas Community Development Program will be available at this meeting. Comments on housing and community development needs may be delivered to City Hall at any time prior to the second public hearing. After the close of the second public hearing, the City Council will make a decision on the amount of funds to be requested and the proposed projects. Individuals with disabilities who require special assistance should contact City Hall to arrange for such assistance at least 72 hours prior to the hearing. Para residentes necesitados de interpretes, favor de comunicarse con la municipalidad antes de las audiencias publicas. For further information, contact Steve Shutt at the City Hall at 728-5331.
