'MA' FERGUSON WILL RUN AGAIN CHICAGO WANTS SENATE CRIME PROBE

OFFICIALS HAVE JOINED IN WITH THUGS IS CLAIM

ROBT. E. CROWE TARGET FOR ATTACK OF LAW AND ORDER MEN

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—An appeal to the federal government to rescue Chicago from a reign of lawlessness under alien domination was presented to the senate today by Vice-president Dawes at the request of the Better Government Association of Chicago and Cook county.

Alleging a coalition between the underworld and enforcement officials, the petition declared that the community was helpless and that citizens were compelled to surrender many of their rights without protest. Foreigners Are Blamed.

"There has been for a long time in this city of Chicago," the petition said, "a colony of unnaturalized persons, hostile to our institutions and laws, who have formed a super-government of their own—feudists, blackmailers, members of the Mafia—who levy tribute upon citizens and enforce collection by terrorizing, kidnapping and assassinations."

"Evidence multiplies daily that many public officials are in secret alliance with underworld assassinations, gunmen, rum runners, bootleggers, thugs, ballot box stuffers and repeaters; that a ring of politicians and authorities, operating through criminals and with turnkey directors are conducting a number of breweries and are selling beer under police protection, police officials, working out of the principal law enforcement officers of the city, having been conveying liquor—namely alcohol, whiskey and beer—and that one such police officer, who is under federal indictment, is still acting as a police officer."

The petition was presented in person to Vice-president Dawes by Dean Edward T. Lee, of the John Marshall Law School, and acting president of the Better Government Association and Dr. Elmer W. Williams, director of law enforcement of the association. The document was referred to the senate immigration committee.

It was urged that this committee make investigation on the whole situation.

PARIS' FARMER IS SHOT BY GIRL
"PARIS, Tex., Feb. 27. (AP)—Ray Stewart, 22, farmer, was shot to death this afternoon by a young woman he met in a barber shop at a shop in the business district. Mary Devlin, 23, who lives in the same community with Stewart, was charged with murder in connection with the killing. Jealousy is believed to have prompted the act. Stewart is said have promised to marry her tomorrow in a double wedding ceremony in which his brother was also to be groom.

The shooting follows the recent acquittal of J. P. Nevin, father of the woman, on a charge of assault to murder in connection with the shooting and slight wounding of Stewart last fall. Similar charges against two sons of Devlin were dismissed after the father's trial. Devlin testified during the trial that Stewart had attacked his daughter.

Examining trial was set for next Tuesday.

Man Dies When His Building Burns
GAINESVILLE, Feb. 27. (AP)—W. A. Robertson, 47, prominent Gainesville man, dropped dead at Myra, Texas, 12 miles West of here at 9:30 o'clock tonight when informed that a three story brick building here owned by him was burning. Mr. Robertson, a prominent Mason, was conferring Masonic degrees at the time.

Long Search Fails To Find Lost Man
SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 27. (AP)—Two days of hunting in a 12,000 acre pasture that is a veritable wilderness of mesquite brush, had failed tonight to locate a prosperous Atascosa county farmer who ran amuck Thursday.

Omaha Sniper, His Weapon and Man He Shot

WEST TEXAS TO STAGE EXHIBIT

Athlete Reserves Space For Sesqui-Centennial Exhibit At Philadelphia

(By The Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27. (AP)—Complete plans for arranging an exhibit of West Texas products at the sesqui-centennial exposition, to be held during the summer and fall at Philadelphia, were made here today at a meeting of representatives of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, with C. M. Caldwell, chairman of the committee, appointed by that organization to arrange for the exhibit.

The West Texas exhibit will be located next to that of California and space costing $13,000 has been reserved. Athlete is the first city to reserve a portion of that space, $1,000 having been pledged today. Several other cities will be asked to purchase space.

R. M. Whitaker, exhibit manager, will supervise arrangement of the exhibit. The exposition committee has been called to meet here on March 13 when representatives of Eastern railroads will be here to discuss the matter of rates for a special train, planned to be sent to Philadelphia following the annual convention at Amarillo in June.

SEWER AND WATER CONTRACTS LET

Owned and promoted by nine Lubbock business and professional men and with the sales management in the hands of Charles F. O'Neil, widely known realtor, sewer and water contracts for Highland Heights addition to the city of Lubbock have been let to the Panhandle Construction Company, of this city. The contract price has been officially given out as $20,000.

W. B. Jenkins, H. T. Boyd, Charles F. O'Neil, Dr. Fred W. Standifer, Judge James H. Goodman, Rev. Walter P. Jennings, Harold H. Griffith, Wallace W. Rix and J. E. A. Rix are the men interested in the new addition, which lies in the southwest portion of the city, between Avenues S and U and between Twenty-fourth and Twenty-eighth streets. The addition comprises about 250 city lots.

Highland Heights is the first addition to the city of Lubbock to have sewer and water lines before its lots are placed on the market. Laying of the lines will be begun immediately, backers of the project said yesterday.

Say Girl Ran Away With Pastor Lover

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 27. (AP)—Miss Mildred Lever, 19, who is alleged to have accompanied the Rev. Thomas H. Jones from Philadelphia to Los Angeles, is being held by police here on receipt of a telegram from Philadelphia officers charging that she is a runaway. Philadelphia officers will be sent at once to return the girl and the former pastor of the Saint Barnabas Protestant Episcopal church of Philadelphia, who following dismissal of Mann Act charges against him, was arrested here on Pennsylvania charges of forgery, embezzlement and seduction.

Judge Bars News On Murder Indictments

RAY SAINT LOUIS, Miss. Feb. 27. (AP)—Circuit Judge W. A. White, presiding at a session of Hancock County circuit court here today, issued an order prohibiting newspaper from publishing any testimony brought out in the approaching trial of Jesse Favre indicted today on a charge of complicity in murder.

Favre is charged with participation in the slaying of W. M. Minge and J. A. McLemore anatomists, near P. A. ayne.

Judge White said that his order was based on the presumption that other indictments may be returned in connection with the case and that he wished nothing published that would have a bearing on possible indictments.

THE DAY IN WASHINGTON

A new navy airplane catapult was tested on the Potomac. The senate passed the agriculture appropriation bill carrying $129,370,469. Secretary Kellogg conferred with Charles B. Warren on the Mexican situation. The amended Johnson bill for the Boulder dam project was introduced in Congress. A senate investigation of radio control by the Department of Commerce was asked by Norman Baker, of Iowa. Congressional investigation of suitcases in Chicago was asked in a petition presented to the senate by Vice President Dawes.

MUCH FEBRUARY BUILDING HERE

Total for Month Is $107,710, Passing January Mark By $7,245 Margin

With a total of $107,710, building permits in the City of Lubbock for the month of February passed the January total by $7,245, figures issued to the Daily Journal yesterday from the City officials showed. February's total is considered a very good one for this time of the year by city officials and men operating in construction business here.

Chief among the permits issued was the one granted in the name of J. W. Singleton, contractor, for the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, in the amount of $46,000, the sum being used in construction of a five company's new office and exchange building, on Broadway, between Avenues M and N. Erection of this new structure is going on at a rapid clip.

Other outstanding contracts listed include a $5,000 brick veneer residence for J. I. Noah; a $12,000 brick business house for Bryan and Stanton; a $3,500 filling station for the Texas company; and a five room, $5,800 residence for W. L. Rix.

With the exception of the business buildings named above practically all of the construction for the month is in high class residences, the records show.

'MA' HONORS TWO REQUISITIONS

AUSTIN, Feb. 27. (AP)—Despite Governor Miriam A. Ferguson's honoring the requisition of the Governor of Arkansas for the extradition of W. H. Hall, former chairman of the board of control of Arkansas, and A. J. Gurley, former Miller county sheriff, vigorous efforts will be to enforce their pardons granted by Acting Governor S. B. McCall.

Sid Crumpton, of Texarkana, attorney for Gurley, said he will seek writs of habeas corpus in both federal and state courts to prevent extradition of Gurley from Texarkana, Texas. C. R. Croom of El Paso, attorney for Hall, said he would attempt to have the courts in Arkansas rectify the pardon in Governor Tom J. Terrill's absence.

Governor Ferguson, who for the second time heeded a fight for Gurley, made no comment when honoring the requisition, following a lengthy hearing today in which she was told by counsel that she sat in higher judgment in this case than the Arkansas Supreme Court which recently ruled the pardons void.

Robert Scott Given To Chicago Officers

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., Feb. 27. (AP)—Robert Scott, wanted in Chicago on a murder charge, was released on parole from the state prison here today and turned over to the authorities of that city through two San Francisco police detectives, who took him into custody at the prison safe.

The Power Club is sending an exhibit consisting of one pond of butter, one pond of cottage cheese, a bar of uncooked soap and a dozen eggs; Mrs. J. A. Lee, County Line, is sending a house dress and slip; Mrs. H. S. Evans, County Line, is sending a shirt and the Woodrow community is sending four complete exhibits of the first year work in sewing.

'VINDICATION' IS AGAIN PLEA FOR VOTERS' SUPPORT

GOVERNOR EXPLAINS WHY HER PROMISE NOT TO RUN AGAIN BROKEN

(By The Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Feb. 27.—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, first woman governor of Texas, today announced she is a Democratic candidate for re-election. Her platform is further vindication for the Ferguson name from the stigma of impeachment of her husband, James E. Ferguson, when governor in 1917, which was her principal plea in her successful campaign before. Her two years term expires early in January.

The announcement places two women and one man in the Democratic race for Governor. Mrs. Edith Williams, of Dallas, first woman member of the legislature, has been a candidate for some time. Lynch Davidson, of Houston, former lieutenant governor, is the man seeking nomination to date. Whether Dan Moody, young attorney general and who, the Ferguson's have charged, instituted suits attacking highway repair contracts for political purposes of his own will get into the race probably soon will be known. In her 1924 campaign Mrs. Ferguson said she would not seek office again "if our prayers for vindication are answered." She now claims that the name of James E. Ferguson has not been cleared entirely of the stigma of his impeachment, and that until she could feel vindication completely she will continue in politics.

"With Paul W. Davis," she said, "I will continue to pull together in the same old way," and predicts the first reaction will be a criticism concerning conditions under which she said would not be a candidate again.

"The candidate or the friend of the candidate who raises the idea simply wants to deny the people the right to vote for me if they want to, and I think the people will so understand," said Mrs. Ferguson.

"But I shall not dodge the facts."

MORE PARDONS TO TEXAS CONVICTS

AUSTIN, Feb. 27. (AP)—One prisoner in Texas prefers the state penitentiary to parole. It was learned today when Governor Miriam A. Ferguson revoked the parole of Ernest McCulloch, granted two full pardons and one conditional pardon.

McCulloch, convicted in Galveston county of burglary and sentenced to five years, returned voluntarily to the state prison at Huntsville to serve the remainder of his sentence after being paroled to H. L. Martin, of Houston, October 1, 1924.

The governor granted a conditional pardon to Mrs. G. W. Frazer, convicted in El Paso county, of murder. She had a credit of four years and clemency was recommended by many of the citizens of El Paso.

Full pardons were granted W. M. Ray, Matamoros; liquor; one who served 13 months; clear record. Recommended by trial judge, the jury, many citizens and board of pardons. Has steady wife.

John Frank Foster, Montgomery; theft of automobile; 2 years; served 13 months; perfect record. Recommended by Judge G. C. Clegg of Trinity, Texas, other parties and board of pardon advisers.

TEA ANNOUNCING JONES-JOHNSON NUPTIALS GIVEN SATURDAY; DATE IS SET FOR MARCH TWENTY THIRD

The marriage of Miss Mary Alyce Johnson and Frank Jones, which is to take place March 23, was announced at a reception given at the home of Mrs. W. H. Meador on Main Street Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Meador, Mrs. Neil Wright and Miss Mary Meador as hostesses.

A color scheme of orchid was carried out in the house decorations for the afternoon with baskets of orchid sweet peas and orchid tapers in crystal holders carrying out the scheme. The interest centered in the dining room where the announcement was printed on gold on an orchid streamer on the buffet. Two white doves were holding the streamer, back of which were banded ferns and sweet peas. The centerpiece of the table of sweet peas and tapers burned at the four corners of the table. Sandwiches, grape ice and minis were served.

Guests were met at the door by Mrs. H. T. Kimbro and Mrs. W. S. Posey and at the dining room door by Mrs. Floyd Beall and Mrs. S. M. Denman. Mrs. W. B. Powell, Mrs. S. C. Arnett, Mrs. J. M. Lewis and Mrs. T. B. Dugan were at the table. Other members of the house party were Misses Louise Jennings, Mildred Street, Laura Street, Kathryn Atkins, Mrs. F. W. Foster, Margaret Smith, Edith Carter, Lela Mae Cravens, Mrs. J. T. Krueger, Mrs. D. D. Roderick, Mrs. Louisa Hunter, Mrs. Carl Roberda, Jr., Mrs. Claude Hurlbut, Mrs. Joe Flagg, Mrs. Roscoe Wilson, Mrs. H. A. Davidson, Mrs. Jed Rix, Mrs. Carey Price, Mrs. J. S. Johnson, Miss Mary Alyce Johnson, and Mrs. F. R. Friend. About 150 guests called during the afternoon.

Miss Johnson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Johnson of this city. She graduated from the Lubbock High School last spring and was Queen of May at the high school May festival. She was one of the two representatives from Lubbock at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce meeting at Brownwood last spring. Mr. Jones is in the finance business in Lubbock. He is a brother of Congressman Marvin Jones, a graduate of Southwestern University and is a member of the Phi Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Picture To Be Given Central Ward School

A picture is to be presented to the Central Ward School by the business and Professional Women's Club because this school had the largest percentage attendance at an art exhibit sponsored at the High School Auditorium this week by the Business and Professional Club. The picture is to be a print of some masterpiece and is to be selected by a committee. It will be received at the school within a few weeks, according to Miss Mae Murfee, president of the B. and P. Club.

Miss Murfee and M. H. Duncan, superintendent of public schools, have expressed an appreciation for the interest shown in the art exhibit this week. The exhibit was open three evenings and talks were given by Prof. and Mrs. R. C. Harrison, Miss Murfee and Miss Lela Rushing. Several thousand students and people of the County visited the exhibit during the week.

Flimsy Draped Dress Of Movies Is Giving Away To Simple Gown

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 27. (AP)—Theatrical gowns—those flimsy, draped-on incidental creations that have sparkled behind the footlights for a century and more—are passing, so far as their use in motion picture productions is concerned.

In their place have come more practical garments—practical because they may be used for street wear and for occasions other than before the camera.

The fashion creators of Paramount Pictures are authority for this, and they go so far as they say that the gowns of nowadays are fashioned for purposes other than to fit the wearer for the part she interprets. It is their opinion that the feminine fan of today leans heavily on the picture house for advance tips on the latest in style. Gowns used in production, therefore, must reflect the style of the moment, but they also must be practical and an intelligent prediction of the fashion to come.

Mrs. Slaughter, Post, Is Honored Thursday

Mrs. J. B. Slaughter of near Post was hostess at a reception at her ranch home Thursday afternoon honoring her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Slaughter Jr., until recently Miss Wheeler Cowan, a dancing and music teacher of Lubbock. A number of local women attended the reception.

The Slaughter home was lovely with cut flowers. The house party was composed of women from Post and a number of guests were received during the afternoon. Among those who attended from Lubbock were: Mrs. Walter Myrick, Mrs. A. B. Conley, Mrs. Murray Jones, Miss Della Wilkinson, Miss Ruth Slaton, Miss Dick Jarrott, Mrs. H. L. Johnson, Mrs. O. L. Slaton, Mrs. E. C. Simmons, Mrs. Charlie Pierce, Mrs. Tom Stone, Mrs. W. O. Stevens and Mrs. Frances Poole.

OPENS APARTMENT
Mrs. Wilda Stewart is opening her new apartment house, Wilda-Crest, about March 15, she said this week, and after that time she and her mother, Mrs. Ida A. Harris, will be at home to their friends there, 1816 Thirteenth street. The house will have five apartments.

Pupils of Miss Lucy Smith Are Presented In Amarillo Program

Five piano and expression pupils of Miss Lucy Smith headed a program over WDAO, Amarillo, Friday evening. Numerous telegrams and telephone messages from over the state and Amarillo were received by the entertainers following and during the program and they probably will give another program in the near future, according to Miss Smith. Those who took part on the program were Misses Gladys Lindsey, Mary Lois Gamel, Betty Hamilton, Frances McKee and Mary Frances Felty. Mrs. James E. Hamilton, mother of Miss Betty, took the group to Amarillo in her car.

Mrs. Clark Hostess To Club Thursday

Mrs. W. A. Clark was hostess to the Ide-A-While Club at her home on Broadway Thursday afternoon. A color scheme of pink was carried out through the use of baskets of bonbons on the tables tied with pink ribbons, with bouquets of sweet peas and carnations and in plate favors of sweet peas tied with pink ribbons. Punch was served throughout the games and refreshments of meat salad, Saratoga chips, olives, individual cakes with pink icing and hot tea were served to the following guests: Mrs. Paul Butler, Mrs. Ray Grisham, Mrs. Ralph Lemmon, Mrs. R. C. Smith, Mrs. Jewell Davis, Mrs. Raymond George, Mrs. J. T. Hutchinson, Mrs. Earl Spores, Mrs. J. B. Crisler, Mrs. Roy Starnes, Mrs. I. C. Dunbar, Mrs. Velton Spikes, Mrs. Louie Moore, Mrs. M. K. Russell, Mrs. Leo White and Mrs. Hugh Allen. Miss Alyce Johnson assisted Mrs. Clark and played several piano selections while the refreshments were being served.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter Entertain At Bridge

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Carter entertained the Merry 24 Bridge Club at their home Friday evening using fern and cut flowers effectively in carrying out a color scheme of pink and white. A short business session was held in which a name was chosen for the organization. Following the games Clayton Gamblin and Mrs. W. T. Rayburn were presented with high score awards. Refreshments of chicken salad sandwiches, potato chips, olives, pineapple salad, coffee with whipped cream and Manhattan stick candy were served to the following members: Mr. and Mrs. John Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Childress, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Broughton, Mr. and Mrs. O. PLANS PERFECTED FOR MISSIONARY CONFERENCE

An executive body has been organized to make plans for the annual meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the Northwest Texas conference of the Methodist Church South at the Lubbock First Methodist church April 13 to 16. The Woman's Missionary societies of the First Methodist and Nineteenth street churches and the Mary Helm Auxiliary of the first church will be hostesses for the occasion.

Several hundred women are expected to attend this meeting, which will be attended by delegates from churches throughout the Panhandle and the South Plains.

A general arrangements committee was selected from among the three societies and officers for the executive body were elected by this group Thursday afternoon. Mrs. A. W. Evans was elected chairman of the group, which is to meet each Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Other officers were elected as follows: Vice chairman, Mrs. Rufus Rush; secretary, Mrs. J. Raymond George; treasurer, Mrs. W. S. Posey; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Pauline Owens; and report, Mrs. R. Q. Lamesa Group Will Use Special Stage Scenery In Pageant Costumes for a pageant of the book of Job, which is to be presented here under the sponsorship of the Mary Helm Auxiliary of the First Methodist church March 5, were secured from the Orient and from a house in Kansas City. The scenery, depicting a desert scene, was built especially for the pageant. A group of women from Lamesa are to make the presentation.

The pageant has been endorsed by the superintendent of public schools of Lamesa and by many of the pastors of that city as being one of the most realistic and helpful Bible presentations given in Lamesa recently, and comes to Lubbock well recommended. Those who attend have been asked to read the book of Job in the Bible before they come as this will make the story easier understood, according to Mrs. Rufus Rush, who is in charge of arrangements here.

The story covers a period of 24 hours, beginning at dawn and the lighting designates the time of the day represented. A special pianist accompanies the Lamesa group and two readers give the story that enacted. One of these readers, known as the pink reader, reads the parts of Job's friends and the other, known as the white reader, gives the part of Job. This pageant is to be given at the high school auditorium.

Mr. and Mrs. Quillin Entertain At Bridge

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Quillin entertained the 1921 Bridge Club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Jones, 1516 Avenue M, Thursday evening. A two course luncheon consisting of chicken croquettes, bread and butter sandwiches, pickles, tomato apple, potatoes in shells, brick ice cream and cake was served to the following members and guests: Mr. and Mrs. Velton Spikes, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Dickinson, Mr. and Mrs. Houston Spikes, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Read, Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Bondurant, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Myrick, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Buckner, Mr. and Mrs. D. Buckner and Russell Myrick were awarded the guest favors.

Two Lubbock Ladies Celebrate Birthdays

Celebrating their birthdays which came within this last week, Mrs. Frank Wheelock and Mrs. George Boles, friends since girlhood, spent the week together on the Boles' ranch southeast of Lubbock. The feature of the week, which was one of rest for the two women, was a dinner served under the trees on the ranch Thursday. A calf was killed for the occasion and the meat prepared for the occasion. Those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Wheelock, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Wolfarth, Mrs. Hubert Wolfarth, Mr. and Mrs. Boles and family, including Mr. and Mrs. Buell Boles.

GOOD INTEREST IS BEING SHOWN IN MUSIC FESTIVAL

Considerable interest is being shown in the third annual Music Festival which is being sponsored by the South Plains Music Teachers Association at Lubbock, March 24 to 27, according to officers of the association.

Sunday is the last day upon which contestants may enter the various events of the festival and a number of applications have been received by the various chairmen of departments. No check has been made of the number so far, but it is thought that there will be 250 or more in the contests, which include piano, voice, violin, choruses, bands, orchestras and various other musical classes.

Artists for the festival this year are to be Miss Dorothy Wellin, soloist, soprano, in joint recital with Jas. Beane, one of the world's greatest dramatic tenors; Edwin Hughes, an American pianist of international reputation, and Max Pollock, a young American violinist. All four of these artists are American born.

The first music festival was sponsored by this association in the spring of 1924. At that time Pearl Calhoun Davis, soprano, was presented the first evening and members of the association were presented the second evening. Three artists were presented at the festival in 1925. They were David Gulon, Texas composer-pianist, in a joint recital with Wallace R. Clark, tenor; Efrim Zimbalist, world renowned violinist, and the contest winner's program.

Miss Mary Dunn, president of the music teachers association, has general charge of arrangements. Committee chairmen are as follows: Miss parment, Mrs. Carl Scoggins, Lubbock; Lamesa, Slaton, piano department, Mrs. B. C. Dickinson, Mrs. Grace Bailey, Slaton, violin department; Mrs. M. W. Wear, Ralls, music memory; J. W. Crowley, Lubbock, band.

Mrs. Barclay Hostess To Needle Society

Mrs. Frank Barclay was hostess to the Friday Needle club at her home Friday afternoon. Cut flowers and ferns were used in making the rooms attractive. Miss Violet Grayum assisted the hostess in serving a plate consisting of chicken sandwiches, olives, pickles, potato chips, hot tea, and date delight with whipped cream. Mrs. Barclay and Miss Grayum entertained with several instrumental and vocal selections during the afternoon. Those present were Mrs. G. A. Gunn, Mrs. J. N. Bryan, Mrs. J. H. Demme, Mrs. M. K. Foster, Mrs. Louis Murfee, Mrs. F. K. Mitchell, Mrs. R. A. Barclay, Mrs. Frank Barclay, Miss Violet Grayum, Mrs. L. M. Brooks, Mrs. Ed Vaughn.

Annual Session Of Federated Clubs To Meet In Childress

The annual meeting of the Seventh District of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs is to be held at Childress, April 13 to 21 with the Woman's Department club of that city entertaining, according to Mrs. Percy Spencer, publicity chairman for the district. Most of the clubs of Lubbock will send delegates to the meeting, Mrs. Spencer said. About 350 women from the district usually attend these annual meetings. In a letter received this week by the chairman from Mrs. G. S. Barnett, president of the Department club, it was stated that the clubs of Childress are completing arrangements now for entertaining the delegates.

The Childress club is made up of six departments, Mrs. Spencer said. They are as follows: The Music club, the Garden club, the Book club, the Little Theatre, Physical Culture and the Civic club.

PROGRAMS GIVEN FOR TEACHERS MEETING

Programs have been announced for the meeting of the Lubbock County Teachers' Association at the Carlisle school building March 18, beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning. A morning and an afternoon session will be held and teachers from schools throughout the county will be in attendance. The program for the day will open with the singing of "America" with the Carlisle band accompanying the singing. This will be followed by the invocation by Rev. J. H. Agee. The welcome address will be given by B. W. Casey, secretary of the Carlisle school board. An address on "The School's Part in the Moral Training of the Child" will be made by Superintendent C. L. Sone, Slaton, or by a substitute supplied by Mr. Sone. "The Need of More Thorough Training in English in the Rural Schools" will be discussed by Dr. P. W. Horn of Tech or by a speaker provided by Dr. Horn.

Music, arranged by the Carlisle superintendent, will open the afternoon session at 1:30 o'clock. "What I Am Doing in Home Economics in Our School" will be discussed by Mrs. Fulton Wolfarth; "Possibilities of Music in Rural Schools" will be the subject of an address by J. W. Crowley, director of the Lubbock high school band, and W. O. Sheely, county trustee, will discuss "The Advancement of Rural Schools in Lubbock County." A business meeting will follow the program. The committee to arrange a program for the next meeting is as follows: Miss Verna McElroth, Woodward; E. E. Jones, Carlisle; O. C. Horne, Hardy; Miss Stella Thurman, principal of the K. Carter School, Lubbock. These meetings are held monthly.

Women Like To Sit For Portraits But Men Do Not, Says Famous Artist; Both Sexes Are Conceited, Though, He Thinks

BOSTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—Women like to have their portraits painted, but men do not.

This is the opinion of John Young Hunter, a Scotchman who is a medalist of the Royal Academy and who has painted many of America's and Britain's great. Men usually have their portraits painted because their families "have pushed them into it," women because they have adroitly persuaded their families to push them into it, he said.

As to which sex displays the more vanity during and after the process of painting a picture, Mr. Young Hunter is doubtful.

"They're so different," he explained. "A man usually is concerned about his hair, no matter how small an amount he may have, and his moustache. Usually, nothing else matters. Women sometimes like to have their robes or pearls made a little larger than they really are."

One well known banker, however, emphatically urged the artist not to paint the wrinkles in his coat sleeves.

Children and very old persons are the easiest to paint, Mr. Young Hunter

Here's The Story Of R. H. Martin Who Borrowed $20 To Come Here In 1909, And What He Has Today

He borrowed twenty dollars from his brother to come from Amarillo to Lubbock in 1909 and today he has two businesses here which considerably more than $20,000 could not buy.

It sounds like a tale from Aladdin's Lamp but it isn't—it's the story of R. H. "Butterflake" Martin, a Lubbock business man who has grown with Lubbock and the South Plains and who has made an astounding business success through conservative, sensible methods and without the aid of speculation.

Every, then located where the Yager shoe store is now, immediately west of the Citizens National bank building. In 1917, with improvement in his mind, he took over the location now occupied by the Woolworth store on Broadway, and remained there until last September, when his confectionery business was placed in its present location, 1108 Broadway, and his baking business placed in his new wholesale plant, 602 Broadway.

Here's A Few Pointers

Here are a few big points in the history of Mr. Martin in Lubbock: When he first came to Lubbock there were no railroads.

His first year's business totaled $4,400 and many days his total receipts were less than $3.00. 1925's business totaled $90,000 and 1926 will see a total of $140,000, he estimates.

When he located in Lubbock there was not a brick building in the city and the only concrete sidewalk was along side of what is Conley's store today.

He was baking 100 loaves of bread per day. Now he bakes from 2,500 to 3,500, not including cakes, pies, buns, rolls and cookies.

Today his two businesses are estimated as being worth $80,000 yet he would not take $100,000 for his wholesale bakery alone.

When he located here he did all the baking and delivering of his products, but today thirty other towns, in addition

R. H. MARTIN

Nearly everybody on the South Plains knows that R. H. Martin is the owner and manager of Martin's Bakery and Martin's confectionery yet very few know of the trials and tribulations over which he passed to reach his present state of business independence. So, to prove to any doubting Thomases, if any there be concerning Lubbock and the South Plains as a business location, here is the story of R. H. Martin, the bakery king of the South Plains.

Came Here On Line Car
Back in 1909, before the advent of the railway to Lubbock, a young married man was cooking in a restaurant in Amarillo, then the metropolis of the wide open spaces. He heard that Lubbock, a young town to the south, was on a boom—he believed in the country—so he borrowed $20 from his brother, also a citizen of Amarillo, and with his wife came to Lubbock. That young man was R. H. Martin.

His first job was that of a cook in the Sanders Hotel, which is still doing business on Avenue H, between Broadway and Thirteenth street. After serving in that capacity for a month he took a similar job at what is now the Broadway hotel, on the corner of Broadway and Avenue H, which was then the Nickollet hotel, the pride hostelry of the South Plains.

Until January 3, 1910 he cooked for the patrons of the Nickollet but that date marked a change in his life. It was on that day that he purchased a small bake-shop, located just one lot south of the southwest corner of Ave I and Thirteenth street and changed the name of the business to 'Martin's Home Bakery'.

Delivered His Own Bread
Prior to Mr. Martin's buying the bakery practically all of the 'store-bought' bread in Lubbock was supplied from a Plainview bakery. Advertisements issued by Mr. Martin, however, to the effect that he 'baked fresh every day' soon turned the tide and before long he was baking 100 loaves of bread each day and delivering them himself, walking to his various customers with his product.

A few months after he took over the business it was moved one door south of its original location, where Edna Wall's new building is now located. Two years later the business was moved to the rear of Hunt's grocery.

finds. Children know so little and old folks know so much that they do not embarrass the artist with criticisms and suggestions and are not overworked over the outcome of his efforts.

One disadvantage in painting children, however, is that their parents are so hard to satisfy. No artist could make them as beautiful as their parents believe they are.

Husbands also sometimes are critical. One woman looked at her finished portrait and exclaimed, "am I really as lovely as that?" Her husband's comment was, "That isn't my little Mary."

A seemingly harmless bit of flattery on the part of their friends sometimes tends to make men and women dissatisfied with the pictures of themselves that they themselves have admired. It is a trite saying, but lots of folks believe it when their friends say, "It doesn't do you justice."

Besides his artistic ability the portrait painter must possess some of the qualities of a diplomat. Mr. Young Hunter does not permit his subjects to see their pictures before they are finished, and sometimes it requires considerable tact to hold out the anxious captain of finance or industry who is used to having things his own way.

The Scotch artist works rapidly. He usually completes a portrait in 3 or four sittings from an hour and a half to two hours each. He has painted under varying conditions, the portrait of a well known figure in American life having been done aboard a yacht. The late John Singer Sargent told him it could not be done.

When the portrait was finished the subject, something of an eccentric who had refused to take any interest in the proceedings, gazed at his picture for a few moments, and asked for his advice, exclaimed, "Don't touch it!"

"Sometimes I think I'll paint only rivers," said the artist, "for they have no comeback when the picture is finished."

CHARGE ATTORNEY ADVISED DEATH

BROWNSVILLE, Feb. 27. (AP)—Charges of "advising murder" were in an indictment returned here today against City Attorney H. B. Galbraith, counsel for Mrs. Hanley Williams, whose hired body guards shot to death her husband recently when he tried to enter their home after pursuing her across Texas to gain custody of their two children.

Galbraith was released immediately on $5,000 bond. He employed for Mrs. Williams the two Rivera brothers now under indictment for the killing of Williams, a Brownsville attorney. It was testified in their preliminary hearing.

Williams was slain a few minutes after he had arrived in Brownsville. Guadalupe Rivera confessed he fired the fatal shot "because he feared Mrs. Williams and the children were in danger. Mrs. Williams had returned only a few days before from the home of her parents at Gorman, Texas, where she received them from her parents home, after Williams had placed them there for safe keeping.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

This gin plant was built in Littlefield last year by Messrs. R. A. Bigham and S. L. Adams. It is one of the best South Plains gins, being of the 4-80 Gillett air blast type, containing the latest improved boll and cleaning machinery. It is located along side the rail road right-of-way, with a view of installing round bale machinery whenever the volume of business will justify it.

It is the plan of the new company to make further enlargements of the plant, erecting a seed storage house and furnishing every convenience possible to its customers.

Started Career As A Trouper Is Cody's History

Lew Cody, who plays the leading male role in "His Secretary," coming to the Lyric Theatre Monday and Tuesday support of Norma Shearer, was born in Waterville, Maine. He was educated in local schools, later attending college at Montreal and Sherbrooke. Cody admits that he was never any world-beater as a "head of the class" scholar, but is more proud of the fact that he was popular with his fellow students and instructors alike.

While at school and college Cody dabbled in amateur theatricals enough to awaken a genuine taste for the theatre, so when his father took into account the popularity of Lew's soda fountain with the girls of the town and decided he would rather have his son work for somebody else, Lew went to a theatre and informed the manager that he was an actor. The manager evidently did not agree with Cody for he had to wear out considerable shoe leather before convincing anyone of his ability.

One manager, however, exhibited true sporting blood. Cody asked him if he needed any actors. The cynical potentate declared that he never needed actors. The young aspirant declared that that was indeed fortunate, and in view of the fact that he was not an actor, but a business man, he'd like a job working in the guise of an actor. So Lew got his start.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Cor. 16th Street and Ave. J.
A man was standing in a telephone box trying to talk, but he could not make out the message. He kept saying: "I can't hear, I can't hear." The other man by-and-by said sharply: "If you'll shut the door you can hear." The door was not shut, and he could hear, not only the man's voice, but the street and shop noise too.

Now a great many christian people are going lean and thin along life's journey, because they do not shut the door more frequently that shuts them in with God, and shuts out the noise and worry in life's struggles. The Lord's Day affords an opportunity for you to attend divine services, where you can shut out the noise and din of the street and open the windows of your soul toward God. All church doors of our city swing open to receive you.

Our Bible School begins at 9:45 A. M. There is a class for you if you are not already in Sunday School. At 11:00 A. HOWMAN'S HOBBY IS GEOLOGY

Maurice V. Samuels, who wrote the story of "The Wanderer," the screen narrative of the prodigal son devotes his spare time to the study of geology. His office in New York City is full of charts and books which describe the earth's "strata and folds." If there is one thing which occupies a place in his heart next his love of wife and writing—it is an earnest devotion to geology.

This hobby had its beginning years ago when Samuels was a youngster, practicing law in California. One of his clients became involved in a lawsuit over an oil claim. Samuels' interest soon eclipsed that of the client, and he bought some land a couple of miles away from the oil fields. Ever since that day his eyes have constantly been on that little piece of earth which he hopes will provide enough money some future date to finance a private theatre in which to produce his own plays.

Mr. Samuels got his idea for "The Wanderer" from a play which he adapted for David Belasco in 1915. It was a German version of the Prodigal Son parable, written by William Schmidtbonn. Belasco asked him to elaborate on it and write a play that "would knock their eye out." The finished production, with the revised plot combined with several additions and eliminations of characters, did more than that. It ran for one hundred and fifty weeks and was seen by over a million people.

Ernest Torrence, Greta Nissen, William Collier, Jr., Wallace Beery, Tyrone Power and Kathryn Williams are featured in the leading roles of the production which was produced for Paramount by Raoul Walsh, who made "The Thief of Bagdad." Snitz Edwards

Kathryn Hill, nationally famous artist model; George Rigas and Holmes Herbert also have prominent supporting roles.

The picture, which is the most lavish screen spectacle of recent years, a 4 days run on March 3 next at the Palace Theatre.

GALVESTON—A joint convention of the National Electric Light Association and the Southern Public Service Association to be held in this city April 12 to 16 will have several men as speakers who are nationally prominent in the public utility business.

TODAY'S MARKETS

Cotton Markets

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27 (AP).—The market was very active for a short session, trading being brisk from start to finish. Price fluctuations were wider than of late. The early decline was due partly to poor cables. The recovery that followed was due to shorts covering for over the week end and the final weakness which carried near months back to the early lows and made new lows on later positions was due to active selling of new crop months, based on favorable preparations for the new crop. The close was easy at a net decline for the day of 17 to 20 points.

First trades showed losses of 7 to 10 points which was rather a greater drop than warranted by earlier cables. The market continued to decline after the call due to short and hedge selling and some further liquidation. This drop carried March down to 18.50c, May to 18.67c, July to 17.57c and October to 18.92c or 5 to 10 points below yesterday's close.

A little later in the session prices rallied on active covering by shorts for over the week end and all the early loss was recovered and May advanced 18.10c and July to 17.70c or 2 to 4 points above the previous close. In the late trading, however, heavy selling particularly of new crop months brought near months back to the early lows and forced July and later months to new lows at 17.57c for July, 16.87c for October and 18.90c for December. The close was easy and at the bottom. Exports for the day totaled 28,331.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK. Feb. 27 (AP).—Cotton seed oil market was quiet today but the recent liquidation appeared to have strengthened the technical positions and offers were small. Buyers were rather more confident while shorts were nervous. Selling of some of the late months for western account was well absorbed. The close was firm at 5 to 11 points net advance. Sales 5,000 barrels. Prime crude 18.25@19.50; prime summer yellow spot 11.80; March closed 11.87; May 11.75; July 11.55; September 11.90.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK. Feb. 27 (AP).—Early rallies in the cotton market today were attributed to covering, but prices broke into low ground for the movement in late trading. May contracts sold off from 18.57c to 18.70c and closed at the lowest, the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 9 to 18 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 2 to 11 points, active months soon showing net losses of 8 to 14 points under continued liquidation and selling inspired by relatively easy Liverpool cables, reports of very favorable weather in the south. March sold off to 19.20c and October to 17.57c before the end of the first half hour, but there was a good deal of covering and reactionary sentiment was more or less evident owing to the extent of the recent decline. Prices steadied in consequence and there were rallies of several points from the lowest, March selling up to 19.35c and October 17.65c in the forenoon. Some trade buying was reported, also, but was in comparatively small volume, and as soon as the demand from recent sellers subsided prices weakened under a renewal of the liquidation, southern Wall street and local selling, March broke to 19.25c and October to 17.50c in late trading and the close was at the lowest prices of the day and most positions.

The late forenoon decline was accompanied by reiterated rumors of an easing spot basis in the south, while there was some bearish comment on reports that a local newspaper canvass of corporations in the south showed no present intention to curtail the acreage planted in cotton this year this season.

COTTON GOODS

NEW YORK. Feb. 27 (AP).—Cotton goods were quite today with easing in prices reported in print cloths and drills. Sheetings remained steady. Finished cloths were unchanged. Burlap markets were closed for a holiday at

Livestock Prices

FORT WORTH REPORT
FORT WORTH, Feb. 27 (AP).—With only 600 grown cattle and 100 calves for today's trade in the cattle division of the livestock market, the resulting trading was only nominal. Weakness was recorded in the hog trading. Receipts were around 600 head. Steady prices were paid for the 100 head of sheep on the trading.

Grain Markets

CHICAGO REPORT
CHICAGO, Feb. 27 (AP).—Wheat rallied to a material extent today from recent severe setbacks in prices. Predictions that unofficial estimates of domestic farm reserves supplies of wheat will be small and there were reports of storms damaging Nebraska wheat. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 1 1/2 to 2 1/8 net higher. May (new) 1.65 1/2 to 1.85 5-8 and July 1.44 1/4 to 1.44 3-8, with corn 5-8 to 1c up, oats showing 1-4 to 3-8c gain and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise 12@15c. Continued soundness of receipts of corn gave independent support to the corn market. Oats sympathized with corn. Higher quotations on hogs tended to lift the provision market.

Stocks And Money

SUGAR REPORT

NEW YORK. Feb. 27 (AP).—The raw sugar market was steady and unchanged today with a sale of 10,000 bags of Cuban afloat at 4.14 duty paid. Trading in raw sugar futures was light and steady. March closed 2.38; May 2.49; July 2.60; September 2.71; December 2.78.

The refined sugar market was unchanged at 5.15 to 5.25 for fine granulated with business light.

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK. Feb. 27 (AP).—Heavy liquidation in a number of pool specialties brought about a series of violent declines today's stock market, checking rallying tendencies in a number of high grade rails and industrials. Both the rail and industrial averages showed small gains on the day. Total sales ran over $25,000 shares. American Brake Shoe and Foundry, which had sold as high as 180 earlier in the year, collapsed 35 1/2 points to 125. Foundation broke 29 points to 127 and then rallied to 128 1/2, as a gainst the year's maximum of 173 1/2. General Electric dropped nearly 12 points to 337 1/4. New York Canners 1 1/4 to 89 and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe 10 to 180.

Selling of the issues originated with bear traders, who timed their attacks so that the full force of the selling pressure fell just before noon with the result that the extent of the declines was not revealed on the tape until after the market had closed.

Strong buying support was apparent throughout the session for most of the so-called "Morgan and First National Bank" stocks, including U. S. Steel common, American Can, General Motors and New York Central, the net gains of which ran from fractions to 1 1/2 points.

Chesapeake and Ohio first preferred advanced about a point each.

A jump of 149 points to 13.90 cents in Polish Selotys, presumably on government buying was the feature of the foreign exchange market. Most of the principal European rates held steady demand sterling ruling around 4.85 5-8 and French francs around 3.67 cents.

COFFEE FUTURES

NEW YORK. Feb. 27 (AP).—Coffee futures opened today at a decline of 8 points to an advance of 7 points. Selling on reports of an easier tone in the local spot market and the cost and freight situation was absorbed by week end covering and after easing off from 17.90c to 17.90c, May closed at 17.95c. The general market closed net 3 points higher, to 1 point lower. Sales were estimated at 25,000 bags. Closing quotations: March 18.15c; May 17.75c; July 17.51c; September 17.10c; December 16.70c. Spot coffee quiet; Santos 4s 23 1/2 to 24. Journal Classifieds pay dividends.

CLUBHOUSE READY FOR SLATON

(Special To The Journal)
SLATON, Feb. 27.—The Slaton Club House which has been under construction for the past two months in Santa Fe Park is now practically completed according to M. O. Nappa, contractor.

The building is to house the Slaton Public Library and is to be a club room for this precinct of the county. The building is to have living quarters for a park keeper and will include a room for women and a reading room and smoker for men.

The building was designed by C. V. Head and is built on the old Spanish mission style of architecture. It is one story and constructed of Abilene pressed brick. It is to be furnished throughout with wicker furniture and large, comfortable reading chairs. H. D. Talley, county commissioner of this precinct has been in charge of the construction work on the building, and will have charge of the building after its completion.

Only a few small details of finishing remain before the club house will be ready for occupancy; the furniture has been purchased and the building will probably be open to the public within the next two weeks.

LITTLEFIELD HAS CONTRACT LET

LITTLEFIELD, Feb. 27.—The contract for a sanitary sewerage system and disposal plant was let by the city Commissioners, at the City Office here Tuesday to Roy Irick, of Plainview.

Five bids were submitted ranging from $54,000 to $69,000, the lowest being made by Mr. Irick.

Work will be delayed for some time until a decision of the location for the disposal plant is determined.

STARS NAMED BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

(By The Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Feb. 27. — Adams (Arkansas) and Strickland (Baylor) at forward; Pickett (Arkansas) at center; Rose (Arkansas) and Baker (Texas A. & M.) at guard, composed the all-southwest conference basketball quintet announced today by the Associated Press.

Southwest conference coaches, officials, sports writers and best of all—many of the players themselves were consulted in the selection of the all-southwest combination of basketball stars.

The second team is made up of Mann (S. M. U.) and Esquivel (Texas University) forwards; George (T. C. U.) center; Woolridge (S. M. U.) and Parker (Arkansas) guards.

On the third mythical aggregation are: Allison (S. M. U.) and Nevinger (Rice) forwards; Kyle (Texas A. & M.) center; Acker (T. C. U.) and Dawson (S. M. U.) guards.

CRICKSHANK AND FARRELL TIE

TAMPA FLA., Feb. 27. (AP)—Bobby Crickshank and Johnny Farrell tied for first honors in the Florida open golf tournament, which closed here this afternoon. Both players scored 288 for the 72 holes.

Farrell and Crickshank will play off their tie to determine the winner at Temple Terrace course tomorrow morning. The loser of the 18 hole match will receive second money.

Joe Turney, Fairview, New York, McDonald Smith, Great Neck, L. I., and Willie Klein, West Palm Beach, all of whom turned in scores of 291, will receive equal shares of the combined third, fourth and fifth money.

IMPROVEMENTS ON GOLF COURSE ARE MADE

During the past week considerable improvement has been made in the municipal golf links. All the green having been reworked, and several of them completely rebuilt, leveled and enlarged. Green number 2, 3 and 4 have been hulled and are now receiving the finishing touches preparatory to starting the associations qualifying tournament March 16th. The tentative date for the opening of the tournament having been set by members of the tournament committee Saturday. Any delay in the completion of the course will necessarily delay the opening date of the qualifying tournament, however, at the present rate of improvement it would seem that the course will be completed and still allow several days for practice before the opening date.

Lee Duggan and J. O. Smith, members of the tournament committee state that definite plans are under way for the arrangement of the tournament in which practically every member will take part. The two low stroke survivors will represent Lubbock and the association against Jimmie Samson and Charlie Quail, both of Post, Texas, and who are reputed to be golf champions of the plains.

Asks Fancy Figure

GOOSE GOSLIN, whose chief claim to fame is a large batting average, also a beak of even greater proportions, is at present busy worrying Owner Clarke Griffith of the Washington club.

In other words, Goslin is unsigned for the season of 1926 and is demanding a contract that makes Clarke Griffith believe he seeks to gain controlling interest in the club.

For the last two seasons the Washington club has paid a 40 per cent dividend. The reason—two American League pennants and one world championship.

It seems Mr. Goslin believes that his trusty bat has been largely responsible for much of the success attained by the Washington club. He is anxious that he be allowed to share in some of that 40 per cent dividend. Griffith says he will play left field before he accedes to Goslin's demands. However, it is a pretty good bet "Goose" will again be playing the outfield for Washington this season.

RELIGION GIVES HIM POWER, HE CLAIMS

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Feb. 27. — Tiger Flowers, who ascended to the middleweight pugilistic throne last night after a career of many vicissitudes which found him at various times a porter, a church steward, a laborer, a saxophone player and professional fighter, today made plans for what he described as his first vacation in eight years.

He will tour Europe for two months giving exhibitions with George Cook, a heavyweight, in London, Berlin, Edinburgh, and Paris.

Receives Congratulations
Flooded with messages of congratulations, with offers to defend his title and with moving picture opportunities the conquerer of Harry Greb said he would return next week to his home town, Brunswick, Ga. He will leave here Tuesday. He then will return to New York to take the leading role as actor in a film story of his life, "The Fighting Deacon," before sailing for Europe in March.

Walk Miller, the new champion's manager, today reiterated his statement that Flowers would defend his title in three months hence, under Tex Richard's promotion against the leading middleweight challenger.

Credits Religion
Flowers, who rose to the middleweight pinnacle after an unusual series of experiences, today credited his success to observance of careful training rules and strong reliance on religion. He says he makes a practice of reading three verses of the New Testament from the Bible daily, but calls upon Scriptural lines to strengthen his courage while under fire in the ring.

"Every round of the fight last night, I repeated to myself a part of the 144th Psalm 'Blessed Be the Lord, My Strength, which teacheth my hands to war and my fingers to fight,'" said Flowers, who is a steward in the Butler Colored Methodist church of Atlanta.

Greb, whose unexpected defeat was attributed in some measure to careless training, today said he had no complaint to make that he would endeavor to get back in winning form for a return bout with Flowers.

BILLY EVANS Says

BALL PLAYERS AND UMPIRES NEVER SOLD THEIR HAMMERS TO BUY HORNS

The retort courteous is usually an excellent weapon to settle a dispute on the ball field, but occasionally it reacts.

Some years ago the New York Yankees had a pitcher on the payroll by the name of Cy Pieh, which sounds like something new in the desert line.

The first game that he worked for the New York club, the opposing batters discovered his delivery and name were closely related. He was given a good trimming. I was the umpire.

As a rule recruit pitchers don't argue with the umpires. Most of them feel they must become established before taking issue with the arbitrator as to his judgment on balls and strikes.

Cy Pieh, however, was a decided exception to the rule as most American league umpires who tried to satisfy him on balls and strikes, soon learned.

THE LAST LAUGH
Pieh began kicking on almost the first ball pitched. He continued to object while he remained on the rubber. Since only a few balls managed to get by the batter, I paid no attention to his protests, being more interested in the way the opposition was hitting the ball.

He was finally taken out and as he walked past me on his way to the bench, I couldn't refrain from remarking:

"Well, I won't be bothered with you after the Fourth of July." In baseball a player able to stick after that date is considered as having won a place.

Most of the other umpires on the staff also reminded Pieh in much the same manner. July 5th of that year brought me one of the biggest laughs I ever had, simply because I didn't.

In my mail of July 5th was a postcard with these words: "Note the date and the fact that I am still in the league. What are you going to do about it?" Four other umpires got similar postals.

WORDS WIT HSTING
Baseball has any number of rather stereotyped expressions such as the one, "you won't be around to bother anyone after the Fourth of July." Well do I recall the number of times it was hurled at me back in 1906 when I broke into the American league. Also many others equally sarcastic and uncomplimentary.

"If that is the way you call them, you won't be long in this league."

"And whom, may I ask, recommended you to President Johnson?"

These as well as scores of other reverse English compliments were slipped me when I made my debut.

It may seem rather strange, yet the early years of my big league career, two words uttered often by Manager Fielder Jones of the White Sox used to get under my skin more than anything else I know of.

"Guess again." Was the only way Jones would object to the way I was calling them.

SHORT SPEECH
If I happened to call a ball on him, he might turn around to the catcher and say: "It was a perfect strike, right through the heart."

"Guessing again," however, was his favorite speech to me. Late in the game he would vary it a trifle by saying:

"Still guessing."

Until I became established these two words, guessing again or still guessing, was the length of my speech with Fielder Jones, then the famous manager of the Chicago White Sox.

Take it from me, like Cy Pieh, I have since reminded a few players who predicted July 5th, 1906 would mark my passing to the minors.

T. C. U. Gives Pork Quintet Drubbing

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Feb. 27. (AP)—Fourteen hundred fans witnessed Arkansas in her only defeat of the basketball conference here tonight when she bowed to T. C. U. by the score of 39 to 15. The Horned Frogs held the lead throughout and only once were in danger of losing.

A Frog guard, Parrish, led the attack, scoring five field goals and a free throw for eleven. Most of his shots bordered on the sensational and came from far out in the field.

AMERICA GOES TO LEAD IN N. Y. MATCHES

NEW YORK, Feb. 27. (AP)—An American took the international indoor tennis match from France today, three matches to two, when William T. Tilden staged a whirlwind rally to defeat Jean Borotra, 6-4, 8-10, 11-12, 6-1, 6-2. In the fifth and deciding encounter of the three day series.

The American champions victory in a two and half hour struggle came after Rene Lacoste, French ace, had overwhelmed Vincent Richards in three straight sets, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3. In the other contest of the day.

American won the doubles match yesterday, while Lacoste beat Tilden, and Richards vanquished Borotra in the opening matches Thursday.

ROTAN CHAMPION AT HOUSTON

HOUSTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—The twelfth annual Houston invitation golf tournament is over and George Rotan of Houston is still the champion. The defending title holder defeated Willie Hunt, River Oaks, Houston's champion in a 36 hole match, 4 and 3.

The victory scored by the former Walker cup team member marks his sixth in the past 12 years. In eliminating Hunt he defeated the player who twice upset the dope in the tournament. In the second round of play Hunt defeated Clarence Hubby, a strong favorite, and then in the quarter finals bowled over Tommy Cochran. But that had no bearing on the Rotan match. The veteran Houston Country Club golfer took after Hunt in the afternoon and when he reached the 32nd hole the event was over.

S. M. U. Beats Bears 24-12 To End Drive

WACO, Feb. 27. (AP)—With two remarkable guards in Woolridge and Dawson, the best pair that has been seen on the Baylor court since Rose and Parker of Arkansas performed at Waco, and led by Allison, who shot seven field goals from varying distances and angles during the game, the S. M. U. Mustangs closed their case season in a blaze of glory here tonight and at the expense of the Bears. The final count was S. M. U. 24; Baylor 12. The Bruins were outclassed by the most brilliant team that has performed on the local court since the first two conference games of the season.

'VINDICATION' IS AGAIN PLEA FOR VOTERS' SUPPORT

She Quotes Statement
"Here are the facts about me again becoming the candidate."

"Just after the first primary in 1924 I gave out this statement to the press: 'I want to thank the people who from every part of the state have tendered me their support in this contest. I yet believe that God will answer my prayer for the vindication of my family name, which my good husband and I are seeking, not for revenge, but for the good of our children, and their children who shall come after us. I am not in this race through any great desire to hold office, and I shall not become again a candidate if our prayers for vindication are answered. But for two years I want to give the people a devoted service.'

"I take it that everybody understood that when I spoke of vindication I was referring to the vindication against the judgment of impeachment that had been rendered against my husband."

"Stigma Not Removed"

"While it is true that the people elected me in the belief that the stigma of impeachment would be removed from my family name, yet I am sorry to say that it has not been done. I had hoped and prayed that the black page of impeachment yet on the pages of the public records at Austin would, in response to the verdict of the people, be stricken and blotted from the records so that I might have been further relieved from the cares and burdens of public life and public office."

Here the governor declares that the amnesty bill which had for its purpose relieving those under impeachment did not mention anybody's name, and thus did not specifically clear the Ferguson name. She asserted that if nothing further was done that "the finger of scorn will continue to be pointed at the family."

Will Continue to Run

"This is the main reason why I am again a candidate on this issue and as long as God shall give me strength to work and faith to pray I am going to continue to ask the people of my native state to help me remove the cloud that has hung over me and mine so long."

She pointed out that, following a Texas custom men governors had been given two terms and asked the consideration for herself, and charged her opponents to say why she should not have it.

"I shall meet any charges and if I have proved myself unworthy I must bear the consequences," she added. "If it is not proven that I have been unfaithful and unworthy, then in the name of fairness and in the name of my sex, I shall insist on the same second term in office that has long been given to men."

Admits Mistakes

Mrs. Ferguson said she was aware she had made mistakes but declared she had done the best she could and that the experience of the last two years would enable her to avoid mistakes in the future.

"I am fully aware of the criticism that has been raised and will continue to because I am advised that many times by my good husband," she said. "Many of these would have been statements to greatly disappointed persons because my election did not break up the Ferguson household. They seem to think that my husband should have gotten mad and left home just as soon as I was elected, and if he had left home they would have had him arrested for wife desertion and said he was the meanest man that ever lived."

"My experience with the governor's office has taught me that filling the office is a little too big for one man or one woman. It takes both Ma and Pa to get over the rough places. So in order that nobody may be deceived or misled, I want it distinctly understood that Jim and I will continue to pull together in the same old way."

Minter-Gamel Sales Ladies Prefer Long Tresses To Bob Cut

Probably no other firm in town can equal a record held by the Minter-Gamel force of salesladies, for with six women employees, no one of them has bobbed hair and no one who has ever worked in there has worn short locks at that time.

There is no rule that the women may not have their hair cut, however, Mr. Gamel is pleased with long hair and prefers that there shall be no short hair among his employees, he says.

"Two of us think we would like to bob our hair, but of course, it might not look well if we did," one of the girls laughed this week. Hence, the record.

Slap Is At Crowe

Although he is not named, state's attorney Robert E. Crowe, is especially assailed in the petition, particular reference being made to the Morrison Hotel banquet to that official by the late Tony Genna, when he was in power.

Genna and two of his brothers later were killed in one of Chicago's frequent gang wars.

Denials Are Made

CHICAGO, Feb. 27. (P)—Denials and new accusations of conniving with outlaws followed receipt here late today of news from Washington that Vice President Dawes had presented to the senate the Chicago Better Government Association's petition for congressional investigation of conditions here.

Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney for Cook County, the chief figure aimed at, denied allegations made against him and called Dean Edward T. Lee of the John Marshall Law School, and Dr. Elmer L. Williams, director of law enforcement for the association, liars.

coupling the association with them in that category.

Denies Banquet

Crowe denied he ever attended a banquet given by Genna's several brothers of Italian parentage, who rose to domination of the Chicago bootleggers field only to be smashed by the assassinations in quick succession of three of its brothers.

Crowe termed the petition presented by the Vice President cheap publicity by Mr. Lee and the Rev. Mr. Williams "in their campaign to put over 'Diamond Joe' Esposito and other candidates like him" in the coming primary.

Esposito thereupon opened his lips and poured forth a further arraignment of the prosecutor.

He accused Crowe of having used Jim Genna as a banner of threats in his first campaign for state's attorney, and later, after Esposito refused to support Crowe for re-election, he said Crowe sent detectives repeatedly to raid the Esposito restaurant.

Mr. Crowe is the chief figure aimed at, said S. J. Davis, superintendent of the Better Government Association, with lesser lights, including some Chicago aldermen, policemen and ward committeemen.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT DOES NOT FEAR FOR 100 MILLION DEFICIT BUT PRESIDENT NOT OPTIMISTIC

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Fears of President Coolidge that a deficit of $100,000,000 at the end of the next fiscal year might result from the operation of the new revenue law are not shared by the treasury, where it was estimated today the year should be completed with a surplus of $11,000,000.

The treasury calculation is based on an estimate of present expenditures and receipts, but does not take into consideration the increases in appropriation above the budget by congress. It is believed the estimates on which the White House fears were based took into the account the possible repeal by congress of several pending bills calling for additional appropriations, such as the public building measure, which already has passed the house and calls for an appropriation of $165,000,000 payable at the rate of $25,000,000 annually.

On the basis of present estimates of expenditures and revenue receipts for the next fiscal year, ending June 30, 1927, however, treasury officials are confident that the new revenue bill not cut receipts below the estimated surplus.

While the bills are expected to reduce revenues $187,900,000, this calendar year, it has been estimated that the government receipts during the next fiscal year will be reduced by only $219,000,000.

On the present basis of government operations, if the old law had remained in effect, treasury calculations show that a surplus of $388,000,000 could have been counted on in that year, leaving $11,900,000 for probable surplus under the new law. As far as the current fiscal year is concerned, a sufficient surplus is in sight to meet the effect of the reduction in taxes effective prior to June 30.

Approval of some of the numerous bills now pending in congress which propose additional appropriations, treasury officials said, will more than wipe out this prospective $11,000,000 margin. Besides the public building bill, which has received the endorsement of the administration, the house in preparation of rivers and harbors bills as well as measures to authorize increased funds for the army and the navy. Concerns lest the latter measure add a heavy burden to the treasury, was expressed yesterday at the White House.

"Uncle Charlie" Jones Tells Of Oldtime Gunmen

VETERAN RANCHMAN WELL REMEMBERS DAYS OF TWO GUN SUPREMACY

Between reminiscences of old John Mann, who wore his wedding boots 35 years and then died in them out in Arizona, and other famous ranch characters who used to spell their yarns around the camp fire of evenings on the prairie of the '30's, they tend to their business, but there are groups of men each afternoon in Lubbock who sit in the lobby of the Merrill Hotel or stand on some sunny corner and repeat the experiences of the range. And prominent in the group is C. W. Jones—Uncle Charlie, he is familiarly called by his acquaintances.

Mr. Jones has been ranching in Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas and Arizona since the days when the Indians and buffalo herds were common figures on the plains and since the days when Frank and Jesse James, the Daltons and Cole Younger were wandering outlaws of the Southwest. And he had an acquaintance with many of these notorious characters.

Outlaws Had Friends
Many of the outlaws were men of captivating personalities, according to Mr. Jones. They made it their business to win the confidence of their associates, many of them were good at heart and some of them were handsome men, he said. He knew the mother of Jesse and Frank James and knew the families of several of the famous outlaws.

Few of these men were unkind to their families and most of them had happy homes on some ranch in the country, in Kansas City or some other place, said said.

"Frank James did not want to be an outlaw and for two years he farmed down in Tennessee with his family. They were living under an assumed name at this time, which was following the war. All the time they were down there, many deeds of outlawry were being committed in Oklahoma and Kansas and the James boys were being blamed for it all," Mr. Jones said. "Frank told me that many times he and his wife sat on the front porch of their home all night down on that farm because they were afraid that they had been recognized and that some one was coming after them."

Were Not Petty
Most of the famous outlaws would not stoop to petty thievery or to small deeds. They wouldn't kill a man upon a small provocation, but would rob a train or commit some monstrous crime when they did anything, he said.

"We have bobbed-haired bandits today who commit more appalling crimes than these famous desperadoes did," Mr. Jones stated.

"One time Jesse and Frank James were coming home after having been out all night. They stopped at a ranch house to get breakfast from a woman, who proved to be a widow on the verge of losing her ranch because some unscrupulous man held a mortgage against her.

Gave Widow Money
"The woman told the men, whom she did not know, about her worries. The men fed the horses and talked over her troubles with her and then gave their hostess $500 and told her to send word for the man to come after his money. The man came out, she paid him and then the group led by the James boys waylaid the man on his way to town and robbed him of the money," laughed Mr. Jones.

Because Mr. Jones was younger than some of these notorious men, he did not know all of them while they were committing their crimes but knew them in later years and heard of their escapades. However, he was acquainted with some of them when they were in the prime of their banditry.

Didn't Bother Jones
"They didn't bother me, however, because I considered that a man's business is not that of anyone else. I always told them that as long as they left me alone, I would leave them alone and that the minute they bothered me, I would cause them considerable trouble," Mr. Jones said.

One time when he was ranching in Arizona, however, he was intimately associated with some trouble. A young man had come into the country and had murdered another man, who was well known in that section. The boy had immediately gone to the hills and had held off a posse of men for several days because of his reputation as a shot.

Mr. Jones heard after several days that the boy was headed for his ranch and would seek to escape from the country from there, so he was not surprised when the boy came. Mr. Jones was ready for the boy and forced him to surrender, making him a prisoner. Later he took him to the nearest town preparatory to placing him in jail.

Mob Demands Boy
The mob followed the two to town and demanded that they should be allowed to hang the boy. Mr. Jones held them off with a gun and told them that since they were such cowards that they could not face the boy in the open, they should not be allowed to string him up after he had been made prisoner.

"I told them that if they didn't leave, I would take the boys off the boy, give him a gun and turn him loose on the group," he said.

The boy was the son of a wealthy minister in Iowa, he had a wealthy brother in the north and a rich cousin in Chicago. The three came down for the trial and secured the best lawyers obtainable. The boy served only four years in the penitentiary, the old rancher said.

90 Percent Are Cowards
Ninety percent of the outlaws were cowards, Mr. Jones believes. The leaders were usually brave men, but many of their followers were very weak.

"There was always some rustling of cattle near the ranches. Sometimes we suspected who they were and could not prove it and at other times we knew who the men were. We never had much respect for the cattle thief," he said.

Mr. Jones told of a cowboy of the Panhandle country who in some way had aroused the ire of a woman rancher, who had a reputation of being rather masculine and of a turbulent disposition. The cowboy wanted to win her favor so one day when he was rounding up cattle of his own he found two of her doggy calves wandering far afield and decided to return them to her. He took them on into a small town, but before seeing her went to the saloon and became "dead drunk."

Some Cowboy Fun
Another of the cowboys, desiring some fun, went to the woman and told her that the first cowboy was rustling two of her calves and that he was down at the saloon.

The woman was furious and immediately went to the saloon. As she came in she saw Mr. Jones and an acquaintance standing there and asked them where she could find the cowboy. They suspected something and told her that he was not around. She told them her mission so Jones said that the second cowboy was trying to get away with the calves and had been frustrated by the first boy, who was bringing the calves to her. Her acquaintance said that Jones' word was good so she believed him and the would-be joker received the punishment intended for his drunk friend.

Mr. Jones is a native Texan. His grandfather came to this state in 1824 and his family has been here since. He first came to the Panhandle in 1879 and has known the pioneer ranchers of this section since then. One of his best friends ad one whom he most frequently mentions in his reminiscences is Mr. Goodnight, for whom the town of Goodnight near Amarillo is named.

SUMMER SCHOOL WILL OPEN JUNE 11TH, SAYS DEAN

FORTY-FIVE PER CENT OF
STUDENTS MAY ATTEND

Indications are pointing toward an attendance of about 750 students at the summer session of the Tech. The questionnaire that was passed out to the students Wednesday revealed that practically 45 per cent of the present student body will attend summer school. A great number of the students expressed their intentions of attending the summer sessions while only about a third of the students were able to attend the convocation on account of the sudden flurry of snow that came up.

Dean Gordon stated yesterday that the officials intended to offer work that would be recognized anywhere. This will aid a great many teachers of the Plains and South Plains to do work toward their degrees. The committee in charge of the summer school are working daily and plan to send information to every town in this section. A list of all the high school graduates and teachers will be secured and the bulletin mailed to them. The following letter is being sent out to some 600 school superintendents of this section of the state:

For the benefit of those who are interested and to answer the numerous inquiries that have already been made, we are pleased to announce that definite arrangements are being made for the summer school at the Texas Technological College.

The term will begin June 11, and will close July 22. Classes will recite each day and a full term's work will be covered during the summer term. Furthermore, it will be possible for serious minded students, who so desire to give their entire time to one of the laboratory sciences and complete a year's work during the summer term, remaining beyond the term, if necessary.

Courses will be offered in Agronomy, Animal Husbandry, Biology, Botany, Chemistry, Mechanical Drawing, Economics, Education, English, French, Geology, German, Government, History, Home Economics, Horticulture, Mathematics, Music, Physical Education, Physics, Psychology, Public Speaking, Sociology and Spanish.

MAY REOPEN SOME OF SCHOOLS IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 27. (AP)—It is understood on good authority that the department of the interior has granted applications for the re-opening of several church schools recently closed in the government's campaign to enforce the constitutional provisions barring foreigners as ministers of religious education. In each case, it is learned, the application has been made by the local officials in charge of the church matters under the constitutional laws making all churches property of the nation.

Dr. Jose Manuel Puig, minister of public instruction, has issued regulations for private primary schools. He intends to close private schools violating the law, which prohibits religious instructions, and to establish government schools in the neighborhood so children will not be deprived of educational opportunities.

NOMINEES FOR OFFICE IN FIRST STUDENT ASS'N

OFFICERS TO BE NAMED
AT CONVOCATION
TUESDAY

The results of the entire student election for the officers of the first student association of Texas Tech were announced yesterday by the judges. Many students received nominations for the positions. Eighteen men were nominated for the president position and 22 persons for the vice presidency. The secretary position was overladen with nominations and over 30 students received nominations for the office.

For the president, Young, Montgomery, Burroughs and Keys were the four highest men. The same men were the four highest for the vice-presidency, Lucile Davis, Ruth Officer, Agnes Kemp Brown and De Ann Sammons were the highest for the secretary position.

For president, John Young and Harry Montgomery.
For vice president: Orval Burroughs and Rex Keys.
For secretary: Agnes Kemp Brown and Ruth Officer.

At the convocation last Wednesday, members of the club presidents made short talks explaining the duties, purpose and authority of the association and officers. Every student in the college is urged to get behind the men that are elected and make the organization a success. They will have the authority to act and every student is urged to respect it.

PROGRESS of TEXAS

SERVICES

—Texas is growing and developing very fast. The past year showed amazing industrial and commercial progress all over the state.

The good cities and towns of Texas are making strides toward industrial development that would have been impossible a few years ago.

What is the reason?

It is found in cooperation of the people to accomplish things coupled with the resources that are everywhere ready for development.

In this work the services of Light and Power stand at the head of the list along with the other public utility services.

The people of every progressive community in Texas realize that this essential public service must be kept ready to do its important part in every forward move.

This company, too, recognizes the reciprocal interest. The development that is possible to be accomplished here by all working together is unlimited.

DAWES LISTENS TO CRITICISMS

But Vice President Makes No
Reply To New Outburst Of Missouri Storm Center

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—Methods of Vice President Dawes as president of the senate have been criticized again, and this time with Mr. Dawes making no answer. A democrat has come to his defense.

The criticism came from Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, who shaking his finger at the Vice President yesterday, notified him that the gavel would not be used in this senate to cut off the rights of Senators. The Missourian referred to the situation of the day before when Senator Blaine had sought to appeal from a decision of the chair ruling out of order his motion that the senate reject the conference reports on the tax bill.

Senator Reed contended that Mr. Dawes had "traveled" through another motion and had shut off Senator Blaine. The Vice President listened closely to the criticism but made no reply.

Senator Robinson, Arkansas, Democrat floor leader, declared however, that there was not "the slightest reason for denouncing the chair for the use of the gavel yesterday." He maintained that the Vice President had been correct in his ruling.

The situation was explained by Senator Blaine, who said the vice president evidently thought he already had made his appeal, but "as a matter of fact," he added, "the chair did not give me time to appeal."

Senator Reed, who threatened to "spank" the vice president a year ago after his lecture concerning Senator Blaine, spoke with feeling yesterday and when he finished said that was all he would say about it "at this time."

DR. PFLEUGER TO LECTURE ON THE PALACE OF VERSAILLES

Dr. Pfeuger of the department of romance languages, will give a lecture Wednesday night in room 314 at 7:15 on the famous palace of Versailles. Dr. Pfeuger has over 30 postcards of the palace and will show them during his talk.

He will begin with the story of the palace and tell the complete history of it and the details of construction and architecture. Dr. Pfeuger has given this lecture in other schools and received many requests for other lectures. He is an interesting talker and will have any interesting things to tell. All students are invited to attend and the townspeople are also invited. This will be one of the most interesting lectures that has been given and every student will be assured of a very instructive hour.

ILLINOIS LINCOLN COLLECTIONS ARE BEING SEARCHED FOR LETTER TAKEN FROM WASHINGTON ARCHIVES

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 27. (AP)—Search is being made in Illinois Lincoln collections for a letter written by Lincoln when he was postmaster at New Salem, Illinois.

Postmaster General New asked the Illinois Historical Society for the location of Lincoln collections with a view to recovering the letter taken from the post office archives at Washington.

In 1926, Lincoln wrote the postmaster general and returned 25 cents which he said was the balance due to the government. Mr. New's letter to the historical library here told of elderly attaches of his office who remembered the existence of the letter in the files many years ago, but that it had disappeared within the last twenty years.

The library here contains only two letters written by Lincoln while he was a resident of New Salem. The first, which was written to "Messrs. Blair and Rives" publishers of an early journal while he was postmaster reads as follows:

"New Salem, Illinois.
November 3, 1835

"Messrs:—Your subscriber at this place is dead and no person takes the papers from this office.

"Respectfully
"A. Lincoln."

The second, written about the same time to "Len Davis, Esq." said:

"Dear Sir:

"You will confer a favor on me by examining the record kept by the old state recorder and ascertaining whether a deed for the Northwest quarter in section 23 in town 10, North range, 5 west in the county tract made by William Trent and Michael McDierman, has ever been recorded in that office and if so whether the record shows that the land has been transferred by McDierman and if it has, who is the present owner under him. Also please to give me all the information in your office in regard to sales of said land for taxes and who is the present owner of the tax title.

"Very respectfully,
"Your obedient servant,
"A. Lincoln."

Chairman State Board of Control Coming Tuesday

H. B. Walthall, chairman of the State Board of Control, will make his first visit to the state's newest institution next Tuesday. He will arrive in the morning and will address the students at the convocation. The purpose of Walthall's visit here is to determine the needs of the college for the next two years and arrange the budget. He will be shown around the buildings and grounds and explained the needs of each department.

Walthall will meet with a committee of Lubbock citizens in a conference and will probably have lunch at the cafeteria with a group of the college officials. Members of the board pledged themselves at the last meeting to be here in a body if possible. This will be the first time that the entire board has visited the college. Their visit will not be for official purposes but merely to look over the school and get acquainted with the faculty members.

PACIFIC COMPANY TO MERGE WITH STANDARD

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 27. (AP)—A special meeting of the stockholders of the Pacific Oil Company yesterday voted to accept the proposition to merge the company with the Standard Oil Company of California, a Delaware corporation. It was also voted to reduce the capital stock from $52,500,000 to $17,500,000, or from $15 a share to 50 cents a share, and to distribute any surplus in excess of the amount of the reduced capital stock.

It was stated that 2,896,205 shares out of 2,500,000 were represented at the meeting.

Easy in Riding Easy in Handling Easy on Upkeep

Three factors should determine your choice in the purchase of a new Motor Car. First and foremost is the riding quality—does the automobile hold the road, will it stand up under punishment?

Then there is the matter of operation. Can your wife or daughter handle the wheel, shift the gears comfortably and with ease?

And last, but not least, what about upkeep? Will you have your car whenever you want it, and in tip-top shape

Yes, you will—you'll have all these qualities in the Packard Automobile—together with the knowledge that the Packard stands up—that you'll get years of service.

Keeping Pace With Lubbock and the Great South Plains

The First Home of the Martin Baking Co.

16 Years of Service Urged by the Appreciation of the Public Has Resulted in This Success

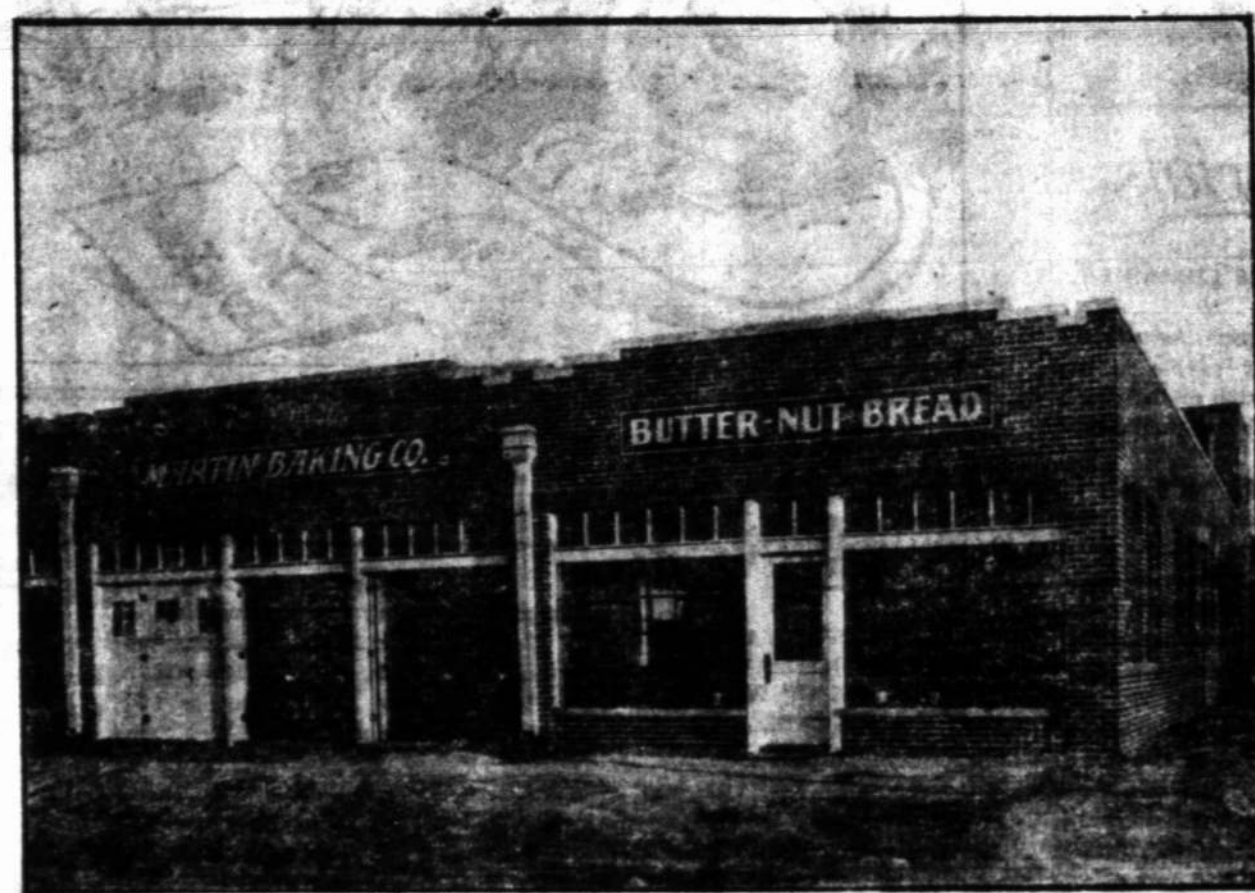

Above is pictured the building in which the Martin Baking Company first started operation. At that time, which was more than sixteen years ago, the management had dreams of a larger plant than you see above. However capital was needed and to get this capital, it was necessary to give a service that would award a popularity that would warrant an investment of this kind. So from the start the Martin Baking Company started to give a service that would be appreciated by all. And to this point bakery has constantly worked. And after this success was attained they strived to render and even better service than ever before and again another victory was reached—for today The Martin Baking Company has the largest business and the most modern plant on the South Plains, equipped with machinery that enables them to do many things and turn out products that are on a higher level than any ever produced by them.

Confidence in the South Plains inspired by cooperation has made Martin's Bakery your Bakery. And a public servant that is always on the alert to serve you.

Above is pictured Mr. R. H. Martin, the owner and manager of the Martin Baking Company. Mr. Martin is the founder of the company in Lubbock having come here from Amarillo about twenty years ago. Elsewhere in this paper you will find a feature story of Mr. Martin which is very interesting. Read it and you will find many interesting things.

1926 Promises a Bigger and Better Baking Service Than Ever Before Known

New $65,000.00 Home Completed in November---the Most Complete on the South Plains

The Pioneer Bakers of the South Plains

The Martin Baking Company completed this new building last December. It is the most modern in equipment and the building is the best to be found on the South Plains. It represents an investment of $65,000. Has the capacity of 7000 loaves a day. Has one oven that contains 32,000 bricks and when erected took five men 30 days to complete and was fourteen days under a high pressure before heat was attained. The offices are in the front part of the right and on the left front is pictured the garage which affords a drive in service for the delivery cars.

The bread doughs are mixed (on the upper floor in the rear) by machinery and then transferred to rooms where it sets until it is of proper age, then goes to the divider and then to the ovens and then to the wrapper, and to the consumer without being touched by human hands.

OUT OF REACH OF LIBRARIES

The American Library Association reports that 60,000,000 people in the United States are outside of the reach of collections of books for public circulation.

That more than half the people of the country should lack public library facilities will surprise many town dwellers who have had them at their disposal all their lives and have come to think of them as a necessity. Some will be shocked to think that a majority of their fellow-citizens are deprived of access to thousands of books.

Others will question if it is such a misfortune after all. When one considers the eminent men whose boyhood was spent amid rude and uncultured surroundings, who had only a few books—the Bible, Shakespeare's plays and "The Pilgrim's Progress," perhaps, and no others—and then set alongside of them men who in their youth had every educational advantage that great libraries could give, yet have failed to accomplish anything noteworthy, there is a temptation to conclude that access to a large collection of books is not so indispensable after all to making a career of life.

It may be an advantage not to have thousands of books at one's disposal. There is such a thing as reading too much. The country boys with a limited supply of literature who became great did much thinking and observing because they had little to read. Perhaps if they could have had all the books that they wanted they would not have exercised and developed their own minds by original thinking but would have been content to accept the opinions that they found already written.

Another thing that counteracts a tendency to pity the 60,000,000 who lack libraries is that the daily newspapers cover so wide a field that entertainment and education can be had without recourse to bound volumes. Articles on science and art, fiction and books in serial form, as well as the news, make the modern journal a literary work which satisfies the needs of many readers. And nobody, however remote he may be from a library, is entirely beyond the reach of the United States mails.

INVESTIGATION SHOWS STORES OFFER BEST VALUES

Of more than passing interest to women is a recent statement made by Dr. Alfred P. Haake, former professor of economics at the University of Wisconsin, on the subject of door-to-door selling.

Dr. Haake says: "One of the most costly and erroneous beliefs of American women today is that they can buy more conveniently and to greater advantage from the agent at their own doors than they can in retail stores."

"A fair and impartial investigation, extending over a long period, has shown that this belief is entirely unfounded, and that in every case, comparable merchandise can be purchased in local stores at equal or better prices."

"Study of the data secured during this investigation has led to a positive conviction that house-to-house selling is economically unsound, and that every advantage of price and quality is on the side of the store."

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

EDIT—STEWART'S WASHINGTON COL. HOUSE'S 'INTIMATE PAPERS' AROUSE IRE OF WILSON'S FRIENDS

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Admirers of Woodrow Wilson aren't a bit pleased with Colonel Edward M. House's "Intimate Papers," which the colonel is just publishing.

If there was any doubt about the way they feel toward House, Congressman Edgar Howard of Nebraska, who once was Wilson's secretary, removed it by the speech he made on the subject in the House of Representatives recently.

HENRY CABOT LODGES posthumously book is out-and-out hostile to the late ex-president, but it didn't arouse anything like the amount of indignation among the latter's friends that House's has.

Lodge never pretended to like Woodrow Wilson.

What his book says is what it might have been expected to say.

House professes to write as a friend, but as the Wilsonites see it, he appears to be anything but friendly.

What's more, the Wilson folk surmise that the colonel wrote as he did on purpose.

It isn't much of a secret that Wilson and House cooled toward one another toward the end of the former's second term—or, at any rate, Wilson cooled toward House.

The critics openly express the opinion that House is trying to get even—perhaps unconsciously, the charitable ones add.

But, by no means are they all charitable.

With this idea in their heads, no wonder they're resentful.

The YELLOW STUB by Ernest Lynn

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Henry Rand, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grifton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the yellow stub of a theater ticket.

Jimmy Rand, his son, goes to Cleveland, where the theater is. The stub is traced to Thomas Fogarty, who says he gave it to Olga Maynard, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with Mary Lowell. She faints when she learns police want her for murder. Mary, out with Samuel Church, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub and handkerchief might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder. Jimmy receives several mysterious warnings to leave Cleveland but ignores them. Later he is attacked at night by two men. He escapes, after seizing a blackjack from one of them.

With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church presses his advantage and gets Mary's promise to marry him. Mary tells Jimmy this when they meet in a park. Jimmy, trying to hurt her, accuses her of marrying for money. He goes back to his room and calls up Olga, asking her to meet him.

That evening with Olga he sees the man who is supposed to have got the ticket stub—in an automobile. It is one of the men who had attacked Jimmy. They follow the car, but the man and his companion escape. At the police station Olga recognizes his picture in the Bertillon gallery.

Church, out driving with Mary, drives over a dog and kills it. His heartlessness over the affair kindles hatred in her and she breaks their engagement.

Jimmy goes home to find a letter from his sister Janet.

to him why would there be any warning. But it was the thought of this unknown person eternally keeping watch over him and his affairs, knowing his every movement.

He lay in bed for a long time, cursing himself for his inability to banish the thing from his mind and go to sleep.

"Good morning, Mr. Hilton," and at the cherry note in Mary Lowell's greeting the chief clerk of the Q and R railroad looked up in some surprise.

"Good morning, Miss Lowell, I er—"

He stopped and rubbed his chin.

"She waited, 'Yes, Mr. Hilton?'"

"Oh nothing, he said, and bent over his desk."

She had told her mother that morning—told her with definiteness and firmness—that she had broken with Samuel Church.

It was no use, she had insisted when her mother had protested and, later, had cried. She didn't love him and never would. She hated him. She told of the incident of the dog and the little boy as if such a thing against any man were enough to damn him forever.

"He thinks, mother, that his money can buy anything. He thought he could buy me with it, just as he thought he could buy the boy a new dog."

And she had put on her hat and rushed off to work, feeling strangely light and free.

Shortly before noon Church came in the office, pulling papers out of his pocket, and immediately went into a conference with Hilton.

But he was engaged very briefly and Mary sensed, when he came out of Hilton's inner office, that was only a pretext to see her.

"Mary," he said, leaning over her desk, "you've had time to think it over now. Tell me that you didn't mean what you said to me yesterday."

Her fingers never once paused as they flew over her typewriter. "I meant it," she said shortly.

"Mary, you couldn't. You don't realize what you're saying. Listen, I was angry when that—that accident hap-ed to go. Now that dream was ended and Mrs. Lowell would have to try to reconcile herself to existing on the necessities with very few of the luxuries she craved.

Mary walked from her office to the water cooler, and while drinking she noticed the man known as Mac, sitting at his desk. A sudden resolution prompted her to walk straight over to him.

"Mac," she said, "you remember Mr. Rand who worked here?"

"Why, yes."

"What was that you told him about money being able to buy anything?"

His face reddened. "Why, why—he floundered."

"You were wrong," she said softly, and walked away, feeling a sudden pity for this tragic, war-torn boy.

True to his promise, Church dropped in again late in the afternoon. He didn't even make a pretense of seeing Hilton but went to Mary directly.

"I've got the car outside, Mary. Let me drive you home." He had a bunch of flowers in his hand.

"What's the good of it?" she asked wearily. "It's no use. I've quite made up my mind."

"Mary, you spoke in the heat of anger. We all do and say things we are sorry for when we are mad."

"But I have had plenty of time to cool off. No, it's no use. You'll have to excuse me." She turned to the coat rack.

"Mary, give me another chance. You haven't given me a chance at all. I tell you—"

"Mr. Church," she cut in, "I'm through. Do I make myself clear?"

"Here, Mary," he had taken the ring out of his pocket and was offering it to her.

But she turned away from him and put on her hat. As she started out of the office he blocked her path.

"I know," he cried, beside himself with rage. "It's that young pup, Rand, isn't it?"

"Will you please get out of my way?"

"No. Not until I've had my say. I'll tell you this. You'll never marry him.

Jimmy offered his hand, but Church snarled and turned away.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVIII

The letter was lying in the same spot where Mrs. King put all his mail—on the little table beside the telephone.

"From Sis," he murmured, at sight of Janet's familiar handwriting. "Wonder how everything is at home."

And then he frowned. "They're not satisfied with trying to bother me." His face darkened and his fists clenched. He was about to make some snappy retort, but he controlled himself. The door opened and Hilton came in.

"Oh, still here, Mr. Church?"

"Yes, I was just going. I'll be back later. Something more I wanted to take up with you." The door closed behind him.

Hilton said to Mary: "That's funny." He laughed. "He must be getting absentminded. He came in to see me about a matter that we'd already gone over thoroughly by telephone."

"Oh, I beg pardon," he added hastily, his face coloring slightly. "I had forgotten you two were engaged."

"Did he tell you that?" asked Mary.

"Yes. Said it wasn't generally known, but that you'd announce it later. Told it to me in confidence."

"Well, it's not true. At least, it's no longer true."

He whistled and then stuck his tongue in his cheek. Finally curiosity got the better of him. "You mean you broke off with him?"

"Yes—yesterday."

At that he stuck his hands in his pockets and whistled some more. Finally he said—and Mr. Hilton could be very amusing when he tried—"You see, Miss Lowell, I was getting all set to congratulate you. Now I congratulate you all the more."

With which enigmatic statement he walked out of the room, still whistling.

The only thing that worried Mary about breaking her engagement was her mother. Mrs. Lowell, with her fondness for the material comforts and her memories of a luxurious past, had found much to enthrall her when Mary told her she had accepted Samuel Church.

It would be a blow, to her, of course. Mary knew that her mother had already installed herself, mentally, in a fine home, with servants to carry out her orders and a motor car to take her wherever and whenever she wanted.

pened; so angry that I didn't even see the joke until it was too late. I had been saying things to you and you weren't answering me. I was sorry it happened—just as sorry as you were." He held out his hand pleadingly.

"From Sis," he murmured, at sight of Janet's familiar handwriting. "Wonder how everything is at home."

And then he frowned. "They're not satisfied with trying to bother me." His face darkened and his fists clenched. He was about to make some snappy retort, but he controlled himself. The door opened and Hilton came in.

It would be a blow, to her, of course. Mary knew that her mother had already installed herself, mentally, in a fine home, with servants to carry out her orders and a motor car to take her wherever and whenever she wanted.

"Do you hear me?"

"All this melodrama is quite unnecessary," she said quietly. "Will you let me pass?"

"No."

"Very well." She turned and walked to the door of Hilton's private office. It closed behind her, and he was left alone with his ring and his flowers.

The first he shoved back into his pocket. The flowers he slammed into the waste basket. Then he marched out of the office.

In the street below he jostled his way headlessly through the crowd had stuck in his mouth. He bit chewing viciously on a cigar that he through the cigar, grabbed it out of his mouth and flung it away.

"Mr. Church, said a voice at his elbow. It was Jimmy Rand."

"I wanted to congratulate you, Mr. Church. Jimmy offered his hand, but Church snarled and turned away."

"Young pup," he muttered, and walked down the street, leaving Jimmy standing in dumfounded amazement.

IMAGINARY EVILS

Dusty, dry and windy weather makes people feel blue, and they begin to worry about what they are spending instead of what they are making, which means going from bad to worse. On such a day an advertising man has a hard proposition to face because he is apt to be blue like the rest, and must cheer up, his prospects before he can talk turkey to them. STATISTICS RULE IN HEARING OF I. C. C. WRANGLE AT NEW ORLEANS

(By the Associated Press.)
GALVESTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—Statistics and information to show that Galveston is dependent for export commodities entirely upon a relatively small area, producing mostly cotton, in which the rates to export ports are smaller to Galveston than to New Orleans, principally that part of Texas lying South of Texas and Pacific railroad, were given by E. H. Thornton in the ports relationship case being heard in Galveston before Examiner J. B. Koch of the I. C. C.
Mr. Thornton read the report from the Galveston Cotton Exchange of February 25 showing the receipts of cotton at Galveston, New Orleans and Houston for the present season and the preceding one in which it was shown that both Galveston and Houston showed a decrease while New Orleans showed an increase. This, he said, was due to the fact that the large part of Texas which exports through the Texas ports was in the drought stricken areas.

Would Combine Rates

Attempts to work in the combined rail and water rates from interior points to destinations were made by Luther M. Walter of Chicago, attorney for the New Orleans interests, who cross-examined Mr. Thornton.

Mr. Walter asked if the combined rail and water rates from points of origin to the destination were not the same from all gulf ports.

Mr. Thornton granted that the tramp steamers cut the rate on ocean traffic, but on regular cargo vessels, he said, the rates from all gulf ports are the same.

This results in a lower rate via New Orleans in many instances, he explained, owing to the fact that there are many more tramp vessels making that port than Galveston.

Both tonnage and value of cargo combine to make desirable traffic for a port from all angles, Mr. Thornton declared, in answer to a question by Mr. Walter as to which was the most important.

Agents Desiring Stressed

Mr. Thornton explained that steamship agents desired both high class and dead weight cargo in making up the ship load.

It was brought out that while exports from Galveston district during the year 1925 exceeded those of New Orleans in value, the latter port far exceeded ports of this district in tonnage.

Questions from Mr. Walter brought forth the statements from Mr. Thornton to the effect that the territory of New Orleans is larger than Galveston owing to rate advantages, and that their natural territory is larger when the barge lines are considered.

Products from points East of the Mississippi river should not move to Galveston for export, Mr. Thornton said, no more than should traffic from points logically in the Texas ports territory move past Galveston to New Orleans.

He declared he thought it wrong to cross the nearest export port in shipping products and refused to say that the reason for large exports of commodities, for example, tobacco from Kentucky, at New Orleans, was due to facilities at that port.

Does Not Favor Carriers

He agreed that the territory nearer New Orleans should export and declared that he was not in favor of carriers establishing competitive rates to different ports.

Establishment of rates set forth in the I. C. C. ruling of last July would cause increase in steamship service from Galveston, he declared.

Favorable rates for New Orleans on territory which is closer to Galveston than New Orleans has been directly responsible for the superior steamship service at that port, he said.

He testified that when the ruling was handed down last summer that the Lone Star Steamship Company had made arrangements to establish a service to Cuba, Mexico and South America and that Egilovich and Company had made arrangements for direct London service, but with the postponement of the order and the reopening of the case, the arrangements had been called off pending the outcome of the present hearing.

TAX EXTENSIONS MADE PUBLIC

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27. (AP)—The treasury Friday granted a number of extensions of time as to when final tax returns must be made for this year's payments to the government.

Extensions were decided upon because of the nearness of March 15, when the returns ordinarily would be due, and to the fact that the new tax law was approved only today.

Under the new regulations, citizens and residents of the United States whose net income exceeds $5,000 and domestic corporations were given until May 15, or two months extension, in which to file complete returns. However, they must make tentative returns on or before March 15, together with one-fourth of the estimated amount of tax.

If the estimated tax is less than shown to be due on the completed return, the difference will bear interest at 6 percent a year until paid back.

American citizens residing or traveling abroad, including in the military and naval service, and all other persons outside the United States, were given until June 15, or three months extension to file their returns.

All other returns, under the order, must be filed on their respective dates due, unless a specific request for extension is made to the local collector of internal revenue.

LAWYER RECEIVES THIRD NOTE OF THREATS

BROOKTON, Mass., Feb. 27. (AP)—The third threatening letter since the trial of Anthony Binba for blasphemy, op-ed here three days ago, was received Friday by Associated City Attorney Joseph Veracka, assisting in the prosecution of Binba under the Massachusetts statute 229 years old. Today letter came by special delivery from Portland, Me. It read "Let Binba alone. We will burn your house some night and get you. The time comes soon for us workers to strike. Then we will burn all the churches and all United States flags and Trotsky will come to us."

On the first day of the trial Veracka received a letter threatening him with death if Binba was convicted. Yes-

NEW ORLEANS INTERESTS FAIL IN EFFORTS TO PROVE ALL RATES TO PORTS SHOULD BE EQUALLY FIXED

(By The Associated Press)

GALVESTON, Feb. 27. — Apparent little headway was made by New Orleans interests Thursday in their efforts to prove that equal rates to all gulf ports in a group were just if the railroads could operate using them, in the L. C. C. hearing of the port relationship cases being held in Galveston before Examiner L. E. Koch.

H. F. E. March, assistant general freight agent of the Santa Fe Railroad, with headquarters in Topeka, resumed the stand this morning and went through a grueling cross-examination by Carl Gleason, New Orleans joint traffic bureau, W. R. Scott, Kansas City Board of Trade, H. A. Briscoe, attorney for Oklahoma and Luther M. Walter, attorney of Chicago.

Will Divert Shipping
He stated in answer from Mr. Gleason that he thought the differential paid down in the L. C. C. order of last July would divert a great quantity of grain from New Orleans to Galveston and other Texas ports. The re-adjustment of rates from Kansas City producing centers to export ports would reduce about five or six cents he said.

Mr. Walter asked the question if it was the policy of the Santa Fe to publish rates the same as used by competitive lines to same points. Mr. March declared that such was not the general policy of the Santa Fe. However, he explained, if the distance is not greater and it will not destroy the intermediate tariff, it was occasionally done.

Mr. Walter wanted to know if it would not be fair for a railroad to publish the same rates to New Orleans from a given point as was in effect from some points to Galveston.

Distances Questioned
Unless the distances were about the same, Mr. March said that the Santa Fe did not make a practice of equalizing all export centers.

Rates from Kansas on grain to Galveston are higher than rates from Iowa, Illinois and Missouri to export ports, Mr. March said.

The practice of the Santa Fe in making exceptions on certain commodities in prescribing the tariffs was defended by Mr. March. He said that the position of the Santa Fe was different from that of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, the Illinois Central and Kansas City Southern, that these roads had a direct haul from a producing section which grew grain which cost more per bushel than did the Santa Fe, and had a direct haul through this territory to export ports. He denied that the position of the Santa Fe in this regard was the same as the Rock Island.

Henry Taylor, traffic manager of the Port Arthur Chamber of Commerce, presented nine exhibits in connection with the hearing.

The first of these exhibits, dealing with port facilities of gulf ports, showed that Texas ports collectively had greater wharfage in linear feet, more grain elevators and a larger number of square feet of covered warehouses than did New Orleans.

LOW SCORES HUNG UP AT HOUSTON

HOUSTON, Feb. 26. (AP)—Tommy Cochran of Wichita Falls state amateur golf champion, lowered the qualifying score in the Annual Houston Country Club invitation meet here Wednesday when he finished with a 69 three below par, and three strokes below George Rotan of Houston, last year's winner of the tourney.

HOUSTON, Feb. 25. (AP)—George Rotan of the Houston Country Club, by shooting par golf, and with a score of 72, led the field of early qualifiers Wed. in the annual invitation tournament at his home club. Rotan won last year's tournament. Less than one third of the 294 teeing off today had turned in their scores by noon.

Tommy Cochran, state amateur title holder, is regarded as having a good chance to overtake Rotan for medal honors. He had a par 36 for the first nine.

Among the low scores in the morning round were: Joe Russell, Houston 76; Clarence Hubby, Temple 75; Dudley Golding, Wichita Falls 82; George Smyth, Houston 89; Howard Hughes, Houston 89; A. Newby, Houston 89; A. H. Sadger, San Antonio 81; Ed Tarrant, San Antonio 84; Jim Harned, Dallas 92.

Blanco Is Winner Of Cage Tourney In Crosby County

(Special to the Daily Journal)
CROSBYTON, Feb. 27.—League 4, Silver Sandstorm met with the Emma basketball team and Mt. Blanco team at the Crosbyton gym Saturday. The first game was played at 5 o'clock with Emma.

It was an easy victory for the Sandstorm. The first quarter ended with the score being 8 to 0 in favor of the Sandstorm. League 4 boys did not play their best with Emma because they were saving their energy for a better contest with Mt. Blanco. They just played hard enough to keep Emma interested in the game.

At the end of the second quarter, the score, still in favor of the Sandstorm stood 8 to 2. At the end of the third quarter, the score was 12 to 10.

'Gas Hounds' In California Mix New Drink With Gasoline To Get Drunk; Officials Write Capital

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 27. — Prohibition agents are worried about a new type of non-alcoholic intoxicant which they say produces drunkards as effectively as the most potent old fashioned alcoholic beverage.

A jag-loving but admiring genius in Sacramento has evolved the new style drink and Colonel Ned M. Green, prohibition administrator said today he had received a letter from A. R. Surtlett, in charge Sacramento enforcement, asking for advice. "The town is full of 'gas-hounds,'" the letter said. "Gas-hounds" is colloquial for those who mix two quarts of milk with one quart of automobile gasoline and drink the result.

"It makes them drunk, in a grand sense of the word, but since they obviously use less than one-half of one percent alcohol to attain their drunkenness, what are we going to do about it?"

The gas-milk cocktail is spreading like wildfire in Sacramento, Surtlett said. Colonel Green has taken the matter into consideration and may write to Washington about it.

The drink causes imbibed to become fired with the same degree of intoxication as would be brought on by high powered whisky, but produces a greater desire for hilarity. This condition results in local disturbance of the peace, which annoys prohibition agents and police. In its later stages the intoxicant sends its victim into a stupor from which he does not recover for several hours.

The drink is harmful, according to authorities.

HOUSTON PAPER TO CARRY NEWS OF TEXAS TECH

President Horn has received a request from Garland Adair, educational editor of the Houston Post Dispatch, asking for cuts and copy concerning the Texas Technological college. These will be used in an educational supplement of the paper which will be issued the first Sunday in March. The Post Dispatch is one of the best papers in the state and will be read by many people over the state. Dr. Horn stated that a good supply of pictures and information would be sent to the paper. This will give the Tech a good amount of publicity and will aid greatly in influencing students in attending school next session.
