'Alcoholism gene'

SAN ANTONIO — A gene earlier linked to alcoholism now has been found in the children of alcoholics, a discovery a San Antonio scientist says also may lead to a drug treatment for the disease. The findings, reported in the current issue of the journal Alcohol, could pave the way for tests to screen children for potential alcoholism and shatter the stigma that surrounds the disease of addiction. Last year, University of Texas Health Science Center Professor Kenneth Blum and UCLA Professor Dr. Ernest Noble found a certain gene — the A1 allele — in samples of brain tissue in 77 percent of dead alcoholics they studied. The new study found the same gene in blood samples of living alcoholics and in children of alcoholics.

Judge axs North case

Prosecutor gives up restoring convictions

Former White House aide Oliver North and his wife Betsy talk to reporters Monday outside the U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C. All charges against North in the Iran-Contra affair are to be dropped.

■ Former National Security Council aide says he feels 'fully' vindicated.

N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — A federal judge dropped all charges Monday against Oliver L. North, bringing to an abrupt end the five-year prosecution of the former National Security Council aide that was the most celebrated and hotly contested legal battle of the Iran-Contra affair.

"This terminates the case," said Judge Gerhard A. Gesell at Monday's brief hearing in U.S. District Court.

He ruled after Lawrence E. Walsh, the Iran-Contra independent prosecutor, said he would abandon the prosecution of North, the former Marine Corps lieutenant colonel who set up the arms pipeline to the rebels, or Contras, after Congress cut off military aid to them in 1984.

With that, North, who was initially convicted on three felony counts, won his long campaign to have them dismissed, declaring that he felt "fully, completely" vindicated.

North burst upon the national scene in late 1986 as the central figure of the Reagan administration's secret sales of arms to Iran and the illegal diversion of the proceeds to rebel forces in Nicaragua.

His testimony before a joint congressional committee in the summer of 1987 transfixed the nation — and ultimately doomed the efforts to prosecute him.

After nearly five years, Iran-Contra prosecutors estimate they have spent $27.5 million in successfully prosecuting eight people, not including North.

But many of the deepest mysteries in the affair remain unsolved. It is still unclear, for example, precisely how much President Bush, President Ronald Reagan or William J. Casey, the former director of central intelligence, knew of the affair, or whether there was a concerted effort within the Reagan administration to conceal it from Congress.

Walsh's investigation appears to be far from over. In recent months, it has developed new life as prosecutors focus on a possible cover-up of the affair at the Gates admits Iran-Contra 'misjudgments'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Gates said Monday at the opening of confirmation hearings on his nomination as CIA director that he made "misjudgments" during the Iran-Contra affair and "should have asked more questions." Skeptical Democrats accused him of willful ignorance.

Questioning of Gates was dominated by Iran-Contra, the five-year-old affair that unfolded while Gates was No. 2 at the CIA. Now a national security aide at the White House, Gates was nominated last July by President Bush to succeed William H. Webster at the CIA helm.

Gates repeatedly denied he had any knowledge of the diversion to the Nicaraguan Contras of profits from the sale of U.S. arms to Iran before speculation on such dealing was brought to his attention on Oct. 1, 1986.

The 47-year-old analyst had made the same contention during hearings on his previous nomination to the top CIA post by President Reagan in 1987 — a nomination that was withdrawn amid heated questions about his possible role in the affair. This time, his denial was offered with contrite additions.

Rains impede Wadley completion

By Debbie Lincecum
Staff Writer

If Mother Nature will cooperate, a Wadley Avenue construction supervisor said the much-maligned street may return to normal by the end of this month.

Sonny Weller, whose construction company Gilbert Texas is working on Wadley, said the reconstruction, often delayed during the past three months, is now concentrated in the area from Midkiff Road east to Whitney Drive.

"We've opened it up to traffic, but we keep moving them around," he said. "Now if these blooming rains would leave us alone, we'd get out of there by the end of the month."

Crews are installing an underground drainage system and a concrete gutter to keep water from pooling in the street. Originally expected to be complete by Aug. 31, the project was delayed by late July rain, and the date was moved to Sept. 15. Now, Weller said, continuing showers have forced that anticipated date back once more, to Sept. 30.

City proposes T-Bar water testing

By Debbie Lincecum
Staff Writer

Fearing contamination from an oilfield spill, city staffers are proposing testing at the T-Bar Ranch Aquifer, planned as a future water source for Midland.

Oilfield workers about six months ago spilled brine — salt-saturated water — on the ground around the aquifer, causing concern that the underground water source might become contaminated with the seepage, city officials said.

"We thought we would be negligent not to go ahead and do some testing out there, just to be sure," City Manager Fred Poe said. He said he believes chances of contamination are slight, but do exist.

Water from T-Bar may not be needed by Midland until beyond the year 2010, Poe said. The 22,000-acre section of the aquifer, located between Winkler and Loving counties, was purchased in 1965 as a potential water source. Oil drilling had begun on the land then, and

Paraplegic climber reaches 2,200-foot Yosemite peak

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP) — A rock climber paralyzed in a fall completed his second major climb using his arms Monday when he and his partner struggled to the 2,200-foot summit of Half Dome, exhausted but elated.

Tension was high during the final 75-foot leg of the nearly 2-week-long ascent by paraplegic Mark Wellman and Mike Corbett because they were worn out and almost out of water.

"That was a fantastic climb, a lot harder than we thought," Wellman said after reaching the summit of the famed Yosemite landmark about 1:30 p.m. "I feel I barely made it."

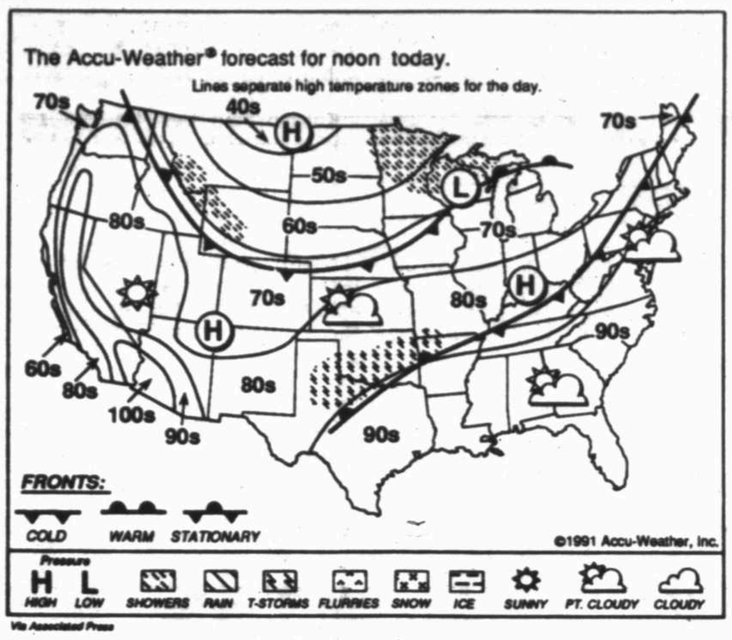

"I didn't know if I could make it," said Corbett, who placed the lines Wellman climbed with thousands of pullups. "We laughed that we wanted something harder than El Capitan. We found it."

Keep that umbrella handy

Today's forecast calls for mostly cloudy skies with a high in the mid-80, southeast winds 5 to 15 mph and a 40 percent chance of thunderstorms, according to the National Weather Service in Midland.

Tonight will be mostly cloudy with a low in the mid-60s and a 30 percent chance of thunderstorms.

Wednesday is expected to be mostly cloudy with a high in the mid-80s and a 20 percent chance of mostly afternoon thunderstorms.

After an overnight low of 68, Monday's high was 80 compared with the record high for that date of 96 set in 1965. The record low for Sept. 16 was 46 set in 1951.

STATE

Thunderstorms dumped rain across much of Texas Monday, stranding some people who had to be rescued by helicopter from high-water areas in Southwest Central Texas.

The National Weather Service reported torrential rains in the Benbrook area of North Central Texas late Monday afternoon. Officials said more than 3 inches of rain fell in the area in a 45-minute period, flooding some streets.

NATION

Up to 6 inches of rain caused flooding in rural Texas and Oklahoma on Monday, and high-temperature records fell in many cities east of the Rockies.

In southwest Texas, rivers already swollen by heavy rain were pushed higher by torrential downpours. Six inches fell at Prade Ranch in Real County, northwest of San Antonio, and flooding closed many roads in the area.

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

NORTH: Five-year prosecution ends abruptly

(From 1A)

Central Intelligence Agency.

This month, a federal grand jury returned a 10-count indictment against a former high-ranking CIA official, Clair E. George, charging him with perjury, false statements and obstruction of Congressional inquiries into the affair.

Prosecutors gave up on the North case after concluding in meetings over the weekend they they could not prove that witnesses who testified in North's criminal trial in 1989 were unaffected by his nationally televised testimony to the House and Senate investigating committees in 1987.

Because that testimony was given under a grant of immunity from prosecution, a divided federal appeals court held that those who heard it and were influenced by it should not have been allowed to testify against North.

Last week, Robert C. McFarlane, the former national security adviser, who was North's superior and mentor during the early stages of the affair, shocked prosecutors when he said that his testimony in the North trial had been deeply influenced by watching North's appearance before the congressional committees.

The dropping of the charges against North appeared to place in grave jeopardy the five guilty verdicts against John M. Poindexter, McFarlane's successor as National Security Adviser, who like North appealed his conviction on grounds that his immunized testimony to Congress had tainted his trial.

North tenaciously insisted on his innocence through a congressional investigation and an eight-week criminal trial. Monday he brought a Bible to the hearing, and afterward he hugged his lawyers and his wife, Betsy.

Outside the federal courthouse, he told reporters that "for five years my family and I have been under fire." Now, North said he felt "totally exonerated, fully, completely, I don't have another word for it." He added, "I've had my last hearing on the Hill forever, I hope."

Bush expressed satisfaction with the dismissal. "He's been through enough," said Bush, adding: "There was an appeal. He's been let off. Now that's, the system of justice is working. And on a personal basis and for his family who've been through a lot, I'm very, very pleased."

Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas, the Republican Leader, reiterated his contention that the Iran-Contra investigation should be closed down. "What have American taxpayers received for their $50 million?" Dole said referring to some estimates of the cost of the Walsh inquiry. "A lot of press releases. A lot of rumor and innuendo. But little in terms of justice."

For prosecutors, the dismissal came as the latest frustration in a case that had been dogged from the start with daunting problems in declassifying documents and obtaining cooperation.

GATES: Democrats press nominee on arms affair

(From 1A)

"I could have and probably should have acted more aggressively" in trying to find out more information, Gates said.

In his defense, he told the Senate Intelligence Committee that during that period he had been preoccupied with other developments, such as a coup in the Philippines and a superpower summit, "and frankly I didn't pay much attention" to the Iran-Contra developments.

"I suspect few people have reflected more than I have on the Iran-Contra affairs ... but today I want to speak about the misjudgments that I made and the lessons I learned," Gates told the committee.

"At the same time, I believe that the actions I did take were well-intentioned and honest," he said.

But Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, told him, "You were absolutely surrounded by the truth — how could you possibly not know? As No. 2 man at the agency, such willful ignorance is inexcusable."

Metzenbaum said that in his written responses Gates had said 33 times that he couldn't recall his part in events surrounding the Iran-Contra affair. "I hope your memory improves during the course of those hearings," the senator said.

Gates indicated that the late CIA director, William Casey, had kept him in the dark. "There was a certain distance in the relationship," he said, and also Casey knew Gates opposed selling weapons to Iran as a way of gaining the release of Western hostages.

In addition to the Iran-Contra issue, some senators have found fault with Gates' performance as Bush's No. 2 national security aide at the White House, challenging the quality of intelligence that Gates, a Soviet expert, had provided on developments in the Soviet Union.

Specifically, Democrats questioned his fitness to lead the U.S. intelligence community in light of his failure to predict the collapse of the Soviet Union — first when he headed the agency's analysis branch and later when he held top CIA jobs.

"Who would have thought just five years ago we would stand where we are today — certainly not the intelligence analyst sitting before you today," Gates said. "Talk about humbling experiences."

Gates, in his opening remarks, focused on a need to restructure the U.S. intelligence community to reflect the monumental changes sweeping the world with the demise of communism.

But most of the questioning was about his knowledge of the Iran-Contra affair — and what he told Congress about it.

In sworn written responses to committee questions, Gates repeated what he contended in 1986 and 1987 testimony after the affair became public: that the first time he heard money was diverted to the Contras from U.S. arms sales to Iran came on Oct. 1, 1986, when an aide reported "extraordinarily flimsy" information regarding a possible diversion.

The question of what Gates knew — and when — took on new significance in July when the former director of the CIA's Central American Task Force, Alan Fiers, pleaded guilty to two misdemeanors and testified that he had told Gates' subordinate, Clair George, of the diversion.

Former White House aide Oliver North has testified that Casey also knew of the diversion.

STORY: Two women insist they saw a UFO

(From 1A)

the controls of a secret military project, Cash and Landrum insist they saw an unidentified flying object that night — and that they have the injuries to prove it.

Their skin is so sensitive now it only tolerates cold showers, they say, and they must hide like hermits from the sun to avoid blistering. Medical bills are mounting, and so are their worries.

Cash, a cafe owner, and Landrum, a waitress, blame these and other strange maladies on the intense heat that they say came from the bizarre diamond-shaped craft.

The encounter, on Dec. 29, 1980, occurred on an isolated road in the piney woods northeast of Houston in Liberty County, the two women say. Since then they have lived mainly on Social Security, saying they're too ill to hold jobs.

But their story has spread internationally, including Omni magazine and several TV programs, and the mystery still arouses curiosity.

Their lawsuit alleged they were injured by an experimental military craft that spewed radiation, or by a UFO under surveillance by military helicopters. Cash and Landrum have been besieged with telephone calls — including some from anonymous tipsters telling of a top-secret project, WASP-2, allegedly discontinued after radiation accidents.

Their attorney, Clay Ford of Gulf Breeze, Fla., wants to reopen the case by showing government officials lied about record-keeping procedures during pretrial proceedings.

Meanwhile, he is negotiating the sale of his clients' movie rights.

It all started when the two women and Landrum's grandson, Colby, then 7, drove to Nrode each year, silting seagrass beds where clams grow, said Thomas Goettel, the refuge manager.

He fears a decrease in clams will create conflicts between tundra swans that feed on them and watermen who harvest them. Canvasback ducks already have declined around the bay — a problem blamed on seagrass losses and pollution.

Colison Kelley, who keeps his clam boat on Grays Inn Creek, said bacterial contamination often forces the closure of clam areas. The creek has grown more polluted as Rock Hall's population has grown, he said. The areas where fishing is banned have expanded, leaving less room for watermen to try to make their living.

WADLEY: Completion date moves to Sept. 30

(From 1A)

"Now if we can get some decent weather, by the end of this week we'll have it open to traffic all the way through," Weller said. "But we'll keep moving them to one side or the other.

"By the end of the month, we hope we'll get out of there. We may have some cleanup left to do, but you shouldn't even know we're there."

Showers during the last several weeks have delayed final paving of the Midkiff Road section of the street, Weller said.

"One day will be good, the next bad, then it starts again," he said. "When it rains one day, we can't get ready to pave the next day, so we stay behind all the time."

Cars will be asked to continue detouring around the area until the end of the month, although traffic stack-ups could lessen later this week, Weller said.

Harvey Hansen, city engineering director, said he is as anxious as any local resident for the work to end.

"Considering all the rain delays, it's gone as well as can be expected, but we'll all be glad when it's finished," Hansen said.

The light rains may have served at least one useful purpose. Weller said rain hitting the renovated Wadley Avenue seems to have been effectively carried by the new drainage system.

"Local merchants around here say it's a noticeable improvement," he said. "It's designed to carry water and it looks like it's going to do it."

Hansen said Wadley Avenue is expected to handle nuisance water better, or runoff from homes and businesses, and light rains.

"It's not made to handle big rains," he said.

When Wadley Avenue is completed, engineers will monitor the success of the drainage channels, as will many local motorists.

TESTING: Soil sampling 'would be most effective'

(From 1A)

officials said Heritage Resources of Dallas is drilling on the land now.

District 3 City Councilman Buddy Sipes, a petroleum engineer, has volunteered to assist city staff with plans for testing. Sipes said soil sampling would be the most effective test.

"We don't need to jump off and do any monitor well testing, that sort of thing," he said. "Those spills were on the surface and that soil is the only possible contamination we're going to find."

Spilled material could have contained metals or other toxic substances that could eventually "percolate" down to the level of the water, Sipes said.

Utilities Director John Lowe said water testing may be necessary as well.

"We know there's surface damage," he said. "The rest we need to find out."

"We really don't think there's a danger to the water supply," Poe said. "There's very little chance (the spill) penetrated the earth."

"I think if any contamination does get down (to the water level), it may be a long time," Sipes said.

Preliminary estimates for the study are between $7,000 and $8,000.

In 1988, the city began monitoring the aquifer water because of concerns about oilfield companies disposing of brine. Lowe said the testing already in progress will come in handy with the current situation.

Officials said the aquifer is not vital at present, but does give a sense of water security for the city.

"At the time we purchased it, we didn't have the opportunities of Lake Ivie," Poe said. "If we didn't have Ivie, we probably would have already begun studying development of that field.'"

CLIMBER: Partners pop champagne corks at top

(From 1A)

during a climb of another Yosemite peak in 1982. He and Corbett gained international fame in 1989 when they climbed 3,300-foot El Capitan, another Yosemite granite monolith.

"The second summit is much sweeter than the first," Wellman said.

After they reached the top, Wellman was carried to his wheelchair. First to greet him was his girlfriend, Paulette Irving, who gave him a kiss.

The climbing partners then popped champagne corks. Wellman hosed down a group of well-wishers, while Corbett dumped his bottle over his head.

"It's good to see you on top. I wish I was there with you," said Corbett's pregnant wife, Nikyra, wiping away a tear as she talked with her husband from the Yosemite Valley floor using a television link.

Before resuming the climb, they split a breakfast bar, the last of the food they took with them when the climb started 13 days earlier on Sept. 4.

"We're both beat," Wellman admitted in a two-way radio report just before starting up.

"They sound like they've had enough," Bruce Brossman, who heads Yosemite's mountain climbing school, said later.

But Wellman had assured supporters and reporters: "We're making it; we're making it."

With Corbett leading, they had to inch up Half Dome's sheer face 75 feet to reach the summit. Part of that climb required them to swing out on their rope 8 to 10 feet from the wall to get above an overhang.

"It's not too bad," Wellman said of the overhanging rock. "Maybe more like 20 feet (out) at one place."

Another concern was the physical condition of Corbett, Yosemite's most experienced rock climber. He has reported numbness in his arms from, in effect, making the climb twice — once to set stakes, then returning to their former location to clean up their equipment after Wellman pulled himself up hand over hand.

Because Corbett was so tired, Wellman did almost all the talking during the morning radio report.

"He won't recover until he gets home for a week or so, but we're going to make it," Wellman said.

The climb was supposed to take eight days, but loose rock and foul weather hampered their progress for a couple of days. Skies were sunny for the last half of the ascent.

Stuart Dixon of Metairie, La., attempts to trade properties in the Southern Regional Finals Monopoly Tournament in Dallas.

Man takes chance, wins regional Monopoly title

DALLAS (AP) — A 36-year-old Louisiana sales vice president representing New Mexico took a "chance" on Boardwalk and passed "Go" several times Monday to win the Southern Regional Monopoly Championship.

Stuart Dixon, of Metairie, beat out four other finalists at the two-day tournament and now goes on to New York City to vie for the national championship Oct. 20-21.

"This was heartache city the whole way," Dixon said of the final round played at the Loews Anatole Hotel in Dallas. "These players were excellent. It was killer."

The final round was even more intense with the presence of at least one possible ringer, former national champion Jim Forbes. The player, who represented Louisiana, placed seventh in the 1984 world championship.

"Nobody ordered a sip of water," said Dixon, referring to the close competition in the final round, which lasted more than two hours. "And I know everybody was cottonmouth."

Among Dixon's other challengers in the final round were Kentucky teen-ager Catherine Kennedy, an accountant and a college student.

While easily brushed off as a kid's game, the popular pastime introduced in 1935 is played by all ages and in at least 24 different languages.

Dixon said kids are perhaps the best players because they never give up their property and if they do, it's for a hefty price.

"Monopoly is the best tool for an emerging democracy or teaching our kids about the democratic system," Dixon said.

Lawmaker hurt in car accident

ALICE, Texas (AP) — State Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner was hospitalized in stable condition Monday after a Saturday night traffic accident left her bruised, scratched and sore, aides said.

Ms. Glossbrenner, D-Alice, suffered no broken bones or other serious injuries in the one-car accident, aide Chuck Hanson and workers at Physicians and Surgeons Hospital in Alice said.

Hanson said Ms. Glossbrenner told aides "to tell everybody she was bent, but not broken." She was expected to remain hospitalized for several days, he said.

Ms. Glossbrenner, an eight-term representative and former school teacher, has chaired the Public Education Committee for the past two legislative sessions.

The accident occurred as she was on her way home from an Austin speaking engagement, Hanson said.

Jose Rodriguez, a Department of Public Safety trooper stationed in Three Rivers, said Ms. Glossbrenner was traveling south along Highway 281 in Live Oak County near George West when her truck veered off the road to the right.

Air patrol sweeps field for missing part

EAGLE LAKE, Texas (AP) — Salvage crews making a final sweep Sunday of a southeast Texas corn field found a 9-foot de-icer boot about three-quarters of a mile from the site of the downed Continental Express plane in which 14 people died.

"It was in the general area where we expected it to be, but because of the dark colors and the growing corn in the area, we were unable to see it clearly from the helicopter," said Brent Bahler, spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board.

The boot, found northwest of the crash site in a hay storage area, is considered a significant clue in determining what caused Flight 2574 to plummet into the field last Wednesday, killing all three crew members and 11 passengers. The plane was en route from Laredo to Houston Intercontinental Airport.

"We found it in more or less an area where hay is stored," Bahler said of the part. "That obscured our view. Unless you were hovering in helicopter, you would not be able to see it."

Investigators had used a helicopter to coordinate activities of several all-terrain vehicles and boats searching the field and the Colorado River.

NTSB Chairman James Kolstad said late Saturday that the carrier's maintenance records at Houston Intercontinental Airport showed the two de-icer boots on the leading edge of the horizontal stabilizer on the tail section were to be replaced Tuesday night.

Kolstad said two workers replaced the right side boot, while an inspector removed 43 screws holding the upper side of the left boot in place. Records do not show the work being completed.

NTSB investigators believe the bottom 43 screws somehow were able to keep the boot in place in the early morning flight from Houston to Laredo last Wednesday. But the part was dislodged on the return flight.

"It was in basically the condition we had expected," Bahler said.

State-operated child care gets sucessful rating

AUSTIN (AP) — The first state-operated child-care center for state employees has been called a success, and a second one is being planned.

The center is open to children of University of Texas-Austin employees and students. The facility on the UT campus takes care of 88 children.

"It's very unusual for a center to open its doors with that many children enrolled," Sandra Briley, director of the facility, said.

"People have just been extremely positive about the center being here and have bent over backwards to help us with anything we've needed so we could get open and do a good job," she told the Austin American-Statesman in Monday's editions.

The state is planning to open a second center in January for the children of all state employees. That center will be located near the Capitol building.

State funds were allocated to start the two centers, but once open they must run as self-sufficient businesses. The UT prices are "on the high side," Ms. Briley said. But the $310 to $375 monthly charge per child is partly due to the low ratio of staff members to children, she said.

Ms. Briley said that the state, like the private sector, is discovering that helping its employees out with child-care is a good business move.

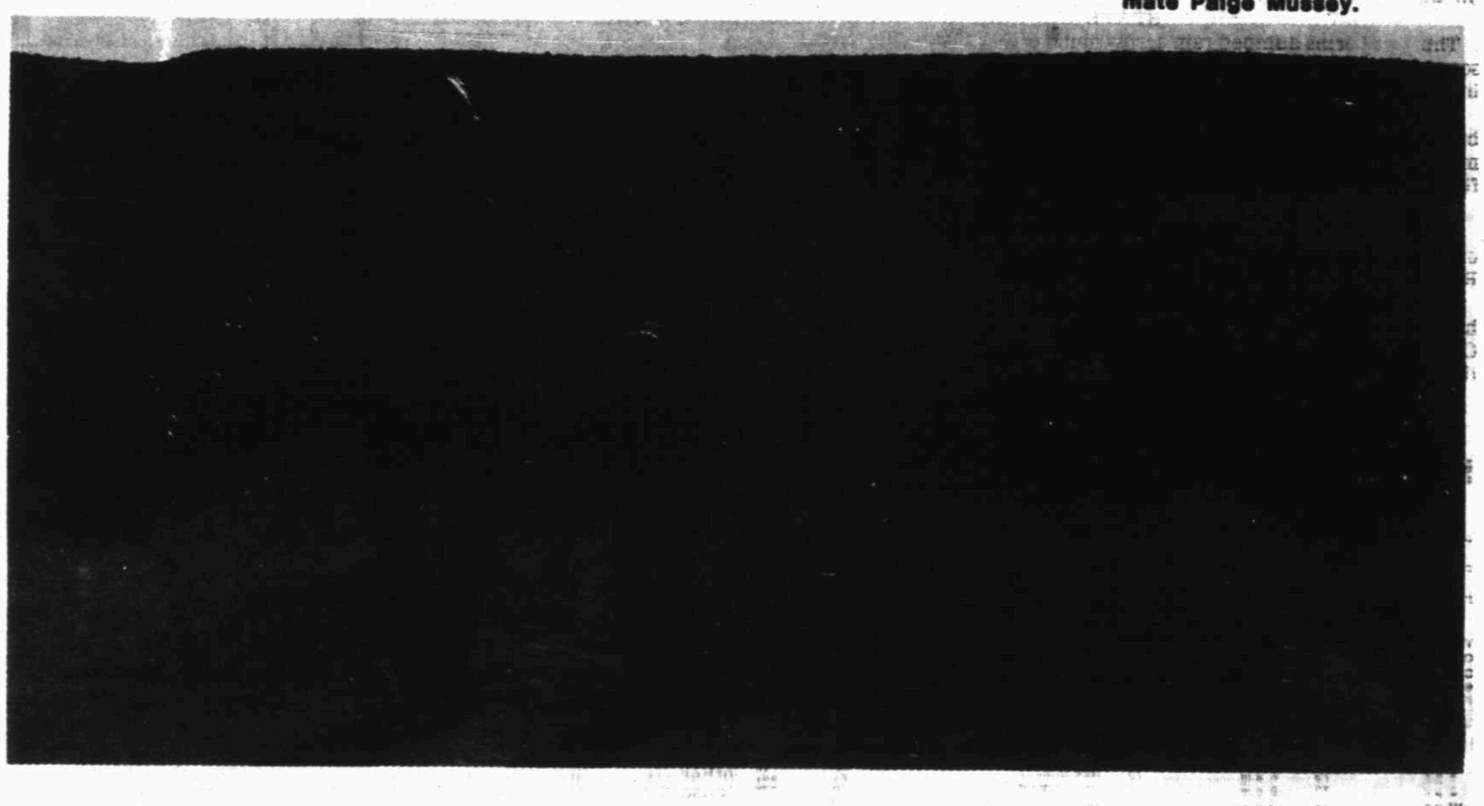

"Parents need to feel comfortable about where their children are so that they can concentrate on their work," she said.

"More and more employers are beginning to see that employees need help with family issues, and child care is one of them," she said.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 NT	Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♡

Strange are the ways of the mighty. When this hand was played in a world championship match between Italy and Brazil, both South's became declarer at one no trump. One declarer failed by a trick; the other made five overtricks!

We are not thrilled with East's decision to pass one no trump. Since West is marked with values and East has four plus sure tricks with spades as trumps, we would have risked competing with two spades. That contract would have been touch-and-go.

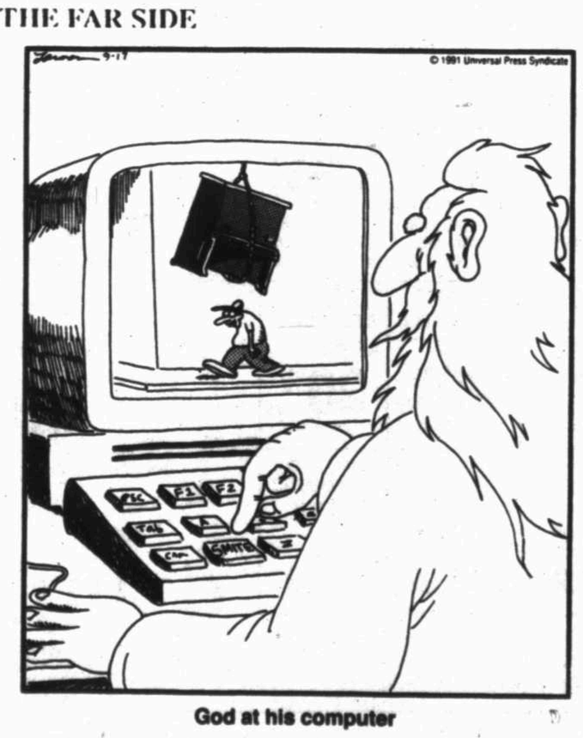

At both tables the opening lead was a low heart. Both declarers played the ten from dummy, which won. The Brazilian declarer tried a diamond to the queen, losing to the king. West shifted to a spade, and the defenders forced out the ace. Declarer ran his four diamond tricks, but the defense gave declarer no chance. They won a rounded suit ace immediately and cashed out their spade tricks, scoring in all four spades and one trick in each side suit—down one.

The kindest thing that can be said about the defense at the other table is that it is difficult to determine on whose side East-West were playing. After winning the heart lead on the table, declarer led a club. East shot up with the ace to return a heart, and West elected to let South's king hold.

Thus, declarer was in hand to lead the queen of diamonds, covered by the king and taken by the ace. Next came a club to the jack, back to the ten of diamonds and a club to the king. When that suit divided evenly, there was a long club on the board. Declarer reentered dummy with a diamond and took all his minor-suit winners. South discarded two spades and the queen of hearts, and West let go all his hearts to hold on to the guarded king of spades. Declarer's ace of spades and seven of hearts took the last two tricks.

Schwarzkopf to co-anchor Pearl Harbor news special

NEW YORK — Retired Gen. H. Norman Schwarzkopf will be co-anchor for a CBS News special on the 50th anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, the network announced Monday.

Schwarzkopf

"I wanted to participate in this program from the moment I first heard about it because I so firmly believe in the importance of this occasion," the Persian Gulf War commander said in a network release.

Schwarzkopf was 7 years old on Dec. 7, 1941, and was playing in a friend's yard in New Jersey when his sister rushed over with news of the attack.

"All day we huddled around the big old radio in the living room and listened to the reports," Schwarzkopf said.

The two-hour special, scheduled Dec. 7 with co-anchor Charles Kuralt, will combine live reporting from Honolulu with eyewitness accounts, photographs and film footage.

BRANSON, Mo. — Country singer Willie Nelson, climbing out of a multimillion-dollar debt to the Internal Revenue Service, is taking on a steady job.

Nelson

Nelson has signed a contract to become star-in-residence at Branson's Ozarks Theatre, where Mel Tillis currently performs, The News-Leader of Springfield reported Monday.

Nelson is to perform 10 shows a week beginning next May, said Steve Browning, manager of Tillis' office in Branson.

Nelson appeared briefly onstage Saturday with Tillis.

Nelson incurred a $16.7 million debt to the IRS. He has put out a mail-order recording called "The IRS Tapes: Who'll Buy My Memories" to help pay off the debt he attributes to bad financial management.

PHILADELPHIA — Ricardo Muti, ill at his home in Italy, was unable to conduct the Philadelphia Orchestra in Monday's opening performance of the 1991-92 season.

The conductor was suffering from tonsilitis and remained in Ravenna, Italy, an orchestra spokeswoman said Monday. Muti was expected to return to the podium Sept. 26.

Selected to replace Muti for the opening concert was Charles Dutoit, artistic director of the Mann Music Center in Philadelphia, Saratoga Performing Arts Center and the Montreal Symphony.

HARTFORD, Conn. — Actor Raymond Burr returned to the courthouse, not as television lawyer Perry Mason but as narrator of a documentary on Connecticut's criminal justice system.

Burr

The one-hour documentary "A Matter of Justice" promotes new forms of punishment as alternatives to prison. It is scheduled to be broadcast next week on a Hartford television station.

"It's so exciting for me to be 74 and to think that we might be able to really, really accomplish something in the state of Connecticut and be able to take it across country," Burr said Sunday.

Burr said he supports a number of causes, including one related to his series "Ironside," in which he used a wheelchair.

"My interests are still with the handicapped because of 'Ironside,' and still with the law because of 'Perry Mason' and still with the environment because I'm in business as a farmer," he said.

• • •

SAN FRANCISCO — Blues legend B.B. King celebrated his 66th birthday at the San Francisco Blues Festival, and said he's amazed he's still around.

King

"I'd have bet against it. I've been in 16 auto accidents. I've ridden on planes that crashed after I got off of them, boats that sunk after I got off of them," King said Sunday. "I feel good today."

Joining King at a backstage birthday party were guitarist Robert Cray, singer Bobby McFerrin and San Francisco Mayor Art Agnos, who presented King with the keys to the city.

King said he's used to marking birthdays away from home. "In the last 41 years, I've had three or four birthdays that weren't on the road," he said.

LONDON — Prince Philip will visit India, Hong Kong, Thailand, Pakistan and Oman next month, Buckingham Palace said Monday.

Philip, the 70-year-old husband of Queen Elizabeth II, will visit the five countries as president of the Worldwide Fund for Nature.

Soviets don't need charity

One way or another, the West will meet Mikhail Gorbachev's desperate plea for food to get his country through the winter. But even then, Soviet citizens will be left with a crumbling economy; they need something beyond charity.

The Soviets are poised, finally, to make the leap to a market system. The West is the only place they can turn for help; and it would be monumentally in the self-interest of the Western powers to give it.

Before the August coup, when Soviet hardliners and reformers were maneuvering for power, there was a compelling case for Western engagement. Experts devised a "Grand Bargain" of targeted aid tied to reforms, intended to tilt the political scale in favor of the reformers. That rationale has dissolved. The reformers won. Yet the case for Western aid remains compelling, as Secretary of State James Baker acknowledged last week.

Economic reform will be traumatic; no country has pulled off a transition from centralized control to markets. The Soviet people, already beset by grim shortages and inflation, might well crack under the strain. As the Russian president, Boris Yeltsin, has warned, they might revert to authoritarian controls, with frightening consequences for world peace and security. By easing the strain of reform, by taking an edge off the fear, the West could help propel the Soviets irreversibly toward markets.

The essential ingredients of economic reform are unchanged. To create markets, the Soviets will have to free prices — which have already doubled this year. They will also have to plug gaping deficits so they can stop printing money. That will require eliminating subsidies to inefficient businesses, which would throw tens of millions out of work.

Then, amid the turmoil, factories, stores and other property will have to be stripped away from government ministries and put into private hands. These are frightening steps, which Gorbachev has repeatedly evaded.

The immediate need is for money to import consumer goods during the initial stages of price decontrol and to set up currency stabilization funds. These funds would be used to maintain the exchange value of the ruble, thereby reassuring traders and investors. The reform package would include no blank checks; instead, aid would be directed at specific, irreversible market reforms. And the U.S. share need not exceed a modest $3 billion a year for five years.

For economic reform to work, the republics will have to cooperate. Each will have to forswear the use of internal trade barriers, maintain strict control over currency, protect legal contracts and assume partial responsibility for the union's debt and military costs. If cooperation among 15 republics proves impossible, the West could work with just Russia, the Ukraine and, say, the Baltics. That would cover more than 80 percent of the economy.

Western engagement would incur decided risks. The political revolution is only in its first stage; the old guard still controls key ministries and nearly all the factories. Unless the Western assistance is carefully targeted, it could solidify the power of these bureaucrats.

Yet the best way to release the bureaucrats' stranglehold over the economy is competition. As Western engagement hastens price reform, budget discipline and privatization, the old order will be smashed beyond repair. And that would be in the interest of prosperity, peace and freedom far beyond the boundaries of the old Soviet empire.

LETTERS

Writing letters helps promote literacy

Some years back a reader wrote to the New York Post, "I read your paper every day. I wish your proofreader did too."

Finding fleas on the watchdogs of society is a favorite pastime in America, and it results in literally millions of letters to the editors each year. As it prepares to observe National Card and Letter-Writing Week September 22-28, the U.S. Postal Service is encouraging citizens to write letters not only to editors, but to anyone they'd like to give a piece of their minds — or their hearts.

A letter has the power to express thoughts and feelings and touch those we care about in a way that's more memorable and lasting than other forms of communication. Keeping alive the art of letter writing also helps promote literacy in our country.

I want to encourage all the citizens of Midland to take part in National Card & Letter-Writing Week. It's easy to do — just write a letter to someone. And you can help the postal service speed delivery of your letter by making sure it's completely addressed and the address is legible.

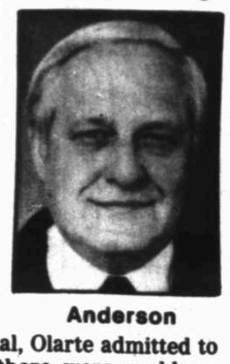

Writing letters is a skill we must not let fade from our society. It is one of the simplest yet most effective methods of binding friends, family — and our nation — together.

Witnesses against Noriega unavailable

WASHINGTON — The prosecution team trying to put Manuel Noriega away on drug charges has assembled a witness list of pots calling the kettle black. Most of the witnesses ready to finger Noriega as dirty are tainted themselves, and Noriega's lawyers plan to have a field day with them. But, one by one, the most embarrassing of the rogues have become conveniently unavailable to testify.

Anderson

A recent example is Boris Olarte Morales, a convicted drug smuggler who was to take the stand against Noriega. In another drug trial, Olarte admitted to lying under oath, and there were problems with his story in the Noriega case. But they aren't problems anymore, because Olarte won't be testifying. He was shipped to Colombia to work as an informant for the U.S. Customs Service. The move became so embarrassing to the government that last week Olarte was unexpectedly brought back, but there are still no plans to put him on the stand.

The U.S. Attorney's Office in Miami, where Noriega will be tried, would not comment on reports that Olarte had been threatened with prosecution if he returned.

Jose Blandon, once a star government witness who provided key information leading to the original indictment of Noriega, was allowed to return to Panama and is not expected to take the stand at Noriega's trial either.

That won't hurt the feelings of prosecutors. Blandon, Noriega's former political adviser, is reportedly under threat of indictment by U.S. authorities who say he is the one who gave CNN the controversial tapes showing that the government was eavesdropping on Noriega's telephone calls from jail.

Widening Blandon's credibility gap are doubts about his version of an important chapter in Noriega's alleged drug career. Blandon claims that in 1984 Fidel Castro mediated a dispute between Noriega and the Medellin cocaine cartel of Colombia. But Blandon has the dates and key facts wrong on the Castro-Noriega meeting in Havana, according to our sources.

Another potential witness, Felipe Camargo, was at that meeting, but he probably won't be testifying either. As we reported last year, U.S. authorities gave the cold shoulder to Camargo when he offered to testify against Noriega. Camargo had extensive ties to Cuban intelligence, and, as a lawyer for one of Noriega's co-defendants told us, the prosecutors "won't touch anyone that smacks of intelligence."

Why? A former friend of Camargo told our associate Dean Boyd, "Camargo could blow open the whole case with what he knows about dirty U.S. operations in the region."

Today, Camargo sits in a Panamanian jail awaiting the verdict from his recent trial for human rights abuses while he was a ranking member of Noriega's intelligence force.

Also among the missing is Ramon Arturo Navarro, a drug runner whose own criminal escapades would have damaged the prosecution's case if he showed up to testify against Noriega. But he won't show up. As we reported last April, Navarro died in a car crash a few days before he was scheduled to testify against two Noriega co-defendants.

Navarro was killed when his speeding red BMW plowed through 75 feet of wood fence in a Miami suburb. Authorities ruled that the crash was an accident, but some witnesses said Navarro was being chased by another car.

His death remains a mystery, but his liability as a prosecution witness was not. In a previous drug trial in Miami, according to court records, a Customs agent purposely kept Navarro away from the courtroom where his testimony would have been discredited by the defense team. The defense lawyers sent a private detective to Navarro's house to bring him to court, and Navarro chased the man off with a shotgun.

Dianne Cossin of the U.S. Attorney's Office in Miami would not comment on the dropout rate of the potential witnesses.

WILLIAM MURCHISON

Thomas fancies himself judge, not politician

Come into my parlor, said the spider to the fly; while I fluff up a pillow, tell me your views on abortion. When Judge Fly — I mean, Judge Thomas — declined this generous invitation, Democrats on the Senate Judiciary Committee, and Thomas' foes outside it, animadverted on his lack of candor. No position on Roe vs. Wade? How can that be, when everybody and his dog has a position on Roe vs. Wade?

Murchison

Yes, Clarence Thomas is probably being disingenuous, and for the most sensible of reasons. He desires the job for which he is being interviewed. Goaded by the "civil rights" organizations that oppose Thomas, liberal Democrats need some persuasive rationale for opposing the second black man ever to be nominated to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Thomas' wariness with the committee says more about the modern court than it says about Thomas or even about his inquisitors. It says, specifically, that the court enjoys today the capacity for shaping or distorting social policy. The Bidens and Metzenbaums want social policy shaped their way. That is their right, as it is Thomas' right not to hand them the blackjack with which they propose to wallop him.

Back in "the old days" teachers taught that legislators make laws, the executive branch enforces those laws, and judges interpret them. The Warren court muddied up that tidy picture considerably. Federal judges in the 1960s became, to all intents and purposes, lawmakers and social reformers. If legislators wouldn't lead, judges would. To the judiciary was entrusted the living "spirit" of the Constitution; the judges would drink of that spirit and describe it to us, like wine critics.

Numerous judges did so, and grew tipsy. They reached for legal pads and began to scribble new laws. One such law commanded that school districts bus black and white children around town for the sake of "racial balance." Another judicial statute, passed in 1973, declared a whole new right — the right to abort a pregnancy.

Many, possibly most, Americans thought this a fine idea. The governmental problem here, as distinguished from the moral problem, was that seven men, all unelected, had reached this remarkable conclusion. The people had been presented a new social policy, but the people had no hand in its making.

Well, how about all this, Thomas? Is it OK? A widespread assumption is that Thomas thinks it's distinctly not OK, but the spiders want him to say this outright or, failing that, to imply it. Unable to draw the judge out, the spiders are annoyed. You can see why. If judges are politicians, they should be unafraid to express their convictions. Why, indeed, shouldn't they have platforms? That way they could tell us, at confirmation hearings, the changes they envision in American life, the arresting new ways in which they will give vigor to the Constitution's spirit.

How very old-fashioned of Thomas. No platform, no campaign slogans, no febrile promises. He appears to fancy himself not a politician but a judge — one anxious to avoid reading his personal, sociological and philosophical views into the Constitution. In which (assuming I am right about this) he resembles the new court majority named under Ronald Reagan and George Bush.

The politicians on the judiciary committee know this too well. They know the world has turned against them and that today's court is unwilling to impose its members' personal world views on the whole nation. Worse yet, the politicians know this is because the voters gave other politicians authority to reshape the court through the appointive process. No Earl Warrens need apply these days. But Clarence Thomases, that's a different matter.

CHARLEY REESE

There's lesson to be learned from U.S.S.R.

A lot of Americans have learned nothing from the collapse of communism in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. They still think government controls, which didn't work in Eastern Europe, will work in the United States.

Reese

They won't work any better here than they did there.

People with an excessive faith in government — whether they call themselves communists or liberals or social democrats — run afoul, ironically, of the same truth that makes fools out of those people who have an excessive faith in the private sector.

The iceberg that sinks all the ideological ships is the fact there is nobody in either government or the private sector but human beings. Human beings, flawed critters that we are, suffer the same faults and vices whether their paycheck comes from the government or a private corporation. Source of income does not determine character or intelligence.

Thus, while there are thieves, idiots, and greedy, ruthless people in the private sector, there are also thieves, idiots, and greedy, ruthless people in the public sector. Name your vice and you won't find it segregated.

Utopians, despite the diversity of their visions of Utopia, are all of the same ilk. They suppose they can construct what never existed before — a perfect society. This is an irrational belief, and people who hold tight to irrational beliefs can be dangerous if they have power and are not squeamish.

Communism is the story of millions of people murdered by people intent on building a perfect society as if anything good, except daffodils, could grow out of a boneyard.

The sequence that leads to murder by utopians is this: their belief is irrational, being at odds with reality. Therefore their scheme always fails. Unwilling to admit their belief is wrong, they blame others for the failure. Since these others are preventing the realization of Utopia, they must be eliminated for the greater good.

When I was hanging around cops, courts and jails a lot, I noticed that career criminals shared a common characteristic. Whatever they did, it was in their eyes always the fault of others. Perhaps the difference between an intellectual utopian and a common criminal is just a matter of education and circumstances of birth. The mental processes are remarkably similar.

But even those utopians too squeamish to kill — and thank heaven they are the majority — can nevertheless mess up an economy or inadvertently wreck a society as they pursue their vision of perfection.

For example, you can have a pristine environment or 250 million people in an industrial society but not both in the same place. Since we are already 250 million people, we have to strike a balance between environmentalism and the economy. Reasonableness, not perfection, has to be the standard.

Some people think you can do anything to industry and make it like it, but this is not the 19th century. This is the age of the global corporation and of capital that moves with the speed of light. General Electric can "bring good things to life" just as easily in Singapore or Thailand as it can in upstate New York. The people in upstate New York, however, can not so easily move to Thailand, and if they could, they couldn't survive.

We may not like this state of affairs but we have to live in the world as it is, not as we wish it were or fantasize it to be. That doesn't mean we can't improve it, but we will be much more successful in our efforts to improve it, if we approach the problem on a reasonable rather than a utopian basis.

Trouble is, despite the example in the East, many Americans still think they can construct the perfect society given enough laws and appropriations and bureaucrats.

It's bad enough to learn nothing from the past, but to learn nothing from the present is ridiculous.

Baker meets with Shamir, Palestinians

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State James A. Baker III met with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir on Monday amid tensions over President Bush's refusal to expedite U.S. loan guarantees to house Israel's flood of Soviet immigrants.

Baker, seeking to firm up Israel's support for a Middle East peace conference, spoke with Shamir for about 3½ hours, then departed without comment for a meeting with three Palestinians from occupied territories. A second session with Shamir was scheduled for today.

"Because the sides did not conclude their discussions, they will meet again," Shamir spokesman Avi Pazner told reporters.

Before arriving in Israel, Baker acknowledged the complications in the U.S.-Israeli relationship because of the dispute over the timing of the proposed $10 billion in housing loan guarantees. Baker insisted he wasn't discouraged, but said "We have always known there would be bumps along the way."

Trying to avoid at least some of the bumps, the Finance Committee of the Israeli Knesset on Monday held up $6.4 million in funds for Jewish settlements in the occupied lands, the committee chairman said.

"We thought our enemies might use it as a weapon to widen the rift with the United States, so I saw fit to postpone it," the committee chairman, Rabbi Zeev Feldman, told The Associated Press.

Meanwhile, Bush stood firmly behind his call last week for a 120-day delay in the housing legislation, on ground that rushing the package through now could disrupt the peace process. Arabs fear the loans would be used to construct housing in the disputed territories.

Bush, during a Washington news conference with German Chancellor Helmut Kohl, said he had no personal quarrel with Shamir or other Israeli leaders, and "The less debate we have now on these contentious issues, the better."

"What I'm proposing is in the best interest of peace," Bush said. "This is the foreign policy of the United States while I'm president. No rancor about it and there are not personalities involved."

But the president's policy stirred strong protest in Israel. When Baker's motorcade from the airport reached a crossroads at the entrance to Jerusalem, it was pelted with tomatoes. Baker's car was not hit, police said.

Mordechai Gur, a leader of the far more moderate Labor Party, said Bush's speech last week, in which the president complained of the full-court press of the pro-Israel lobby in Washington, had "anti-Semitic overtones."

The daily Yedioth Ahronoth countered by saying in an editorial that "President Bush is NOT an anti-Semite," it said in an editorial. "We can manage without the loan guarantees. But without peace, we cannot."

The only word out of Baker's session with Shamir was from Pazner, who said they were "held in a friendly atmosphere," and that the two "discussed a whole range of issues," including the peace process and the housing loan guarantees.

Microphones had been set up in front of the building, but when Baker and Shamir emerged, they quickly shook hands and the secretary of state got into his limousine without a word and left.

Baker then met with the three Palestinians for more than three hours, and later told reporters that he had left behind aides who were working on a letter of assurances spelling out guidelines for the proposed peace conference.

During a refueling stop on his flight from the Soviet Union, Baker said "I am not discouraged at all" by the U.S.-Israeli rift. "We have always known there would be bumps along the way. We are going to keep working because I think the world wants peace in the Middle East."

The proposed peace conference, an effort to start direct negotiations between Israel, its Arab neighbors and the Palestinians, would be co-sponsored by the United States and the Soviet Union.

Shortly before Baker's arrival, Shamir's top political aide said that a delay in U.S. loan guarantees was "casting a shadow" on the peace effort.

6 sailors die when helicopter crashes

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Six sailors died when their MH-53 Sea Dragon helicopter plunged into the Persian Gulf, the U.S. Navy said Monday. It was one of the worst U.S. military accidents in the region since the Gulf War.

Lt. Cmdr. Tim O'Leary, a spokesman for the U.S. Naval Command, said the aircraft crashed at 9:05 p.m. Saturday, minutes after taking off from the amphibious assault ship USS Peleliu 40 miles north of Bahrain. The bodies were not recovered until Monday, he said.

O'Leary said the cause of the crash had not been determined.

He said the dead men were members of Squadron HM-15, which is based at Alameda Naval Air Station near San Francisco.

The accident raised the number of American non-combat deaths in the region since the end of the war to 71, most of whom died in traffic accidents in Saudi Arabia, U.S. officials said.

Six soldiers died in mid-March when a U.S. Army UH-60V helicopter crashed in an area of southern Iraq that was then occupied by allied troops.

An ammuntion dump in Kuwait blew up in July, wounding 53 American and six British soldiers. Three Americans were killed by explosions during the cleanup of the dump in the following days.

Eight U.S. warships, including the aircraft carrier USS Abraham Lincoln, took part in the 40-hour search for the bodies of the six sailors recovered Monday, officials said.

Helicopters, remote-controlled sonar scans and divers had to deal with strong currents in 100-foot-deep waters "and a lot of debris," O'Leary said.

The bodies were taken to the military hospital in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia, and will be flown back to the United States later, he said.

- Lt. Thomas Stewart Larson, Jamestown, N.Y.
- Lt. j.g. Craig Eugene Valentine, Ann Arbor, Mich.
- Petty Officer 2nd Class Michael Richard Butch, Aurora, Colo.
- Petty Officer 3rd Class George Scott Finneral, Lowell, Mass.
- Petty Officer 3rd Class William Aaron Holt, Sand Springs, Okla.
- Airman Jorge Luis Guerro, Chicago.

Noriega 'crooked cop,' prosecutor says

MIAMI (AP) — Manuel Noriega, the most powerful man in Panama, was "just another crooked cop" who sold his nation to Colombian cocaine kingpins, a prosecutor said Monday to open the ousted dictator's drug trial.

Pointing to Noriega and calling him a "small man in a general's uniform," lead prosecutor Michael Sullivan said the government would prove Noriega abused his authority to help a flood of cocaine pour into the United States.

Noriega came to the Medellin cartel's attention in the late 1970s when he arrested smugglers and intercepted drug shipments, Sullivan said.

"The cartel chiefs sat down and said they were either going to eliminate him, or they were going to buy him," the prosecutor said. "They decided to buy him."

Among the first prosecution witnesses was convicted U.S. drug trafficker Max Mermelstein, who was among others expected to outline operations of the Medellin cartel.

Mermelstein is in the federal witness protection program and says there's a $3 million price on his head. He took the stand under tight security. U.S. District Judge William Hoeveler asked sketch artists not to draw his face.

Mermelstein, who smuggled 55 tons of cocaine to the United States in the early 1980s, traced his involvement in the cartel, whose drug and financial records he eventually controlled.

Mermelstein, who was paid $250,000 by the government for information, said he met in 1981 with cartel leaders Jorge Ochoa and Pablo Escobar in Panama to discuss expanding their business.

Earlier Monday, prosecutors referred for the first time to two face-to-face meetings Noriega allegedly held with cartel leaders in Panama in 1982 and Colombia in 1983 to negotiate a deal.

According to witnesses who will include the cartel's convicted U.S. manager, Carlos Lehder Rivas, Noriega proved willing to sell himself. He quickly bumped his price from a proposed $30,000 a shipment to as much as $500,000 per load, the government said.

Noriega received a minimum of $10 million from the cartel, the government has said.

His activities often were discussed in the cartel's top-level meetings, Sullivan told the jury.

"Manuel Noriega was just another crooked cop — the cartel was paying off hundreds of cops."

Sullivan cautioned that jurors would not hear any evidence that Noriega ever directly touched or even saw the cocaine. Instead, he said, Noriega ordered smugglers, planes and boats released, and allowed protected cocaine flights to slip in and out of his country.

Noriega also protected illegal arms shipments and allowed drug profits to be funneled into secret accounts, said the prosecutor.

Thomas concludes testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court nominee Clarence Thomas concluded five days of grueling confirmation testimony Monday as the nation's legal establishment said he was an outstanding candidate but not the best possible choice for the high court.

Thomas renewed his pledge not to bring an ideological agenda to the Supreme Court and Democrats continued to complain that he had ducked questions about controversial views he had expressed in the past.

"Whatever you determine, I'd like to reiterate that I've been treated fairly," Thomas told the Senate Judiciary Committee.

President Bush telephoned Thomas "and congratulated him on the completion of his testimony," presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said.

"The president said that Judge Thomas's testimony showed the American people that he has an outstanding record, is committed to the rule of law, and will preserve and protect the Constitution," Fitzwater said.

The head of the American Bar Association's judicial screening panel said that Thomas was an outstanding nominee but not the most qualified candidate.

Bush had called Thomas the best qualified person for the job when he nominated him to succeed Justice Thurgood Marshall.

Ronald Olson said that Thomas was rated "qualified" for the Supreme Court because he was an outstanding candidate.

But to receive the ABA's higher "well-qualified" rating, "the candidate has to be among the most prominent members of our profession," Olson said.

Thomas did not meet that standard because of his limited experience as a federal appeals judge. "He has not been faced with those experiences, " Olson said.

He noted that two members of the panel dissented from the rating, primarily because of Thomas' lack of legal experience.

The two dissenters, who found Thomas unqualified, cited his writings and articles in legal journals that "have been criticized by a wide range of individuals," Olson said.

The last five Supreme Court nominees received "well-qualified" ratings from the association, including Robert Bork, whose nomination was rejected by the Senate in 1987. Four dissenters on the rating committee found Bork not qualified, saying they had questions about his judicial temperament.

Democrats continued to complain that Thomas had ducked questions on important issues after disavowing provocative opinions he had expressed on a number of topics when he was an official in the Reagan administration.

"Your vanishing views, Judge Thomas, have become a major issues in these hearings," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. and a leading liberal on the committee, told the nominee.

"It's difficult to accept the notion that the moment you put on that judge's robe all the views and positions which you held prior to going on the bench just magically disappear," said Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio and another liberal.

"It's like the shades are pulled down; you really don't know where he is," Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., told reporters.

But the complaints did not dampen predictions from both sides that Thomas' nomination was heading toward Senate confirmation.

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, predicted that Thomas would win the support of eight or nine senators on the 14-member committee. Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del. and the panel's chairman, said the panel of eight Democrats and six Republicans would vote in two weeks.

The committee will conclude hearings Friday after hearing testimony from civil rights and other interest groups, Biden said.

Clinton decision due

WASHINGTON (HNS) — Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton said Monday he will decide within the next two weeks whether to seek the Democratic Party's presidential nomination.

A moderate Southerner who has won considerable praise for his 11-year record as governor, Clinton said that if he does run, his campaign will be issue-oriented and "define a new agenda for America and what I think its future should be."

Clinton, 45, is considered a forceful and telegenic campaigner who is untested, however, in national politics and foreign policy.

Clinton acknowledged that he is virtually unknown to most of America. People who do recognize his name remember him best for his seemingly interminable nomination speech for Michael Dukakis at the 1988 Democratic National Convention.

Shuttle dodges space debris

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Discovery early Monday dodged a chunk of a Soviet rocket, the first such near miss of the shuttle program, before the crew assembled a giant "Erector Set" as practice for the proposed space station.

The five astronauts should not have to worry about any more such encounters during the mission, NASA said.

The shuttle and the debris — about the size of a van — passed within about 10 miles of each other minutes after midnight. If Discovery had not changed its orbit, it would have come within about 1.4 miles of the rocket, NASA spokesman James Hartsfield said late Monday afternoon.

It was the first time in the 10-year-old shuttle program that astronauts had to move their ship to avoid orbiting debris.

"I think we scored a space first," Mission Control's Jan Davis told the crew before they went to sleep for the day.

The astronauts have been working at night and sleeping during the day since they reached orbit Thursday, arranging their schedule around the midnight release of an atmospheric observation satellite.

Before going to sleep, the astronauts assembled a large Tinkertoy-like structure in the first test of a truss model for the planned space station. The 64-inch long, 8-inch square device was shaken electronically to see how it withstands vibration in microgravity.

"While it might look like an Erector Set ... it's not a trivial experiment," astronaut James Buchli said in a preflight interview. "I expect there are two or three folks whose Ph.D.s are riding on it."

Buchli and crewmen Mark Brown assembled the device by snapping its gold-colored joints into place. The rest of the structure consists of white plastic pieces.

The two astronauts worked on additional tests of the model Monday night. Commander John Creighton and pilot Kenneth Reightler tested some of the shuttle systems in preparation for Wednesday's landing.

Earlier Monday, NASA flight director Al Pennington declined to speculate whether Discovery would have collided with the Cosmos upper stage booster, tracked by ground radar, if the shuttle's orbit hadn't been changed. They were on intersecting orbits, with the booster debris moving at 16,364 mph and Discovery going 17,500 mph.

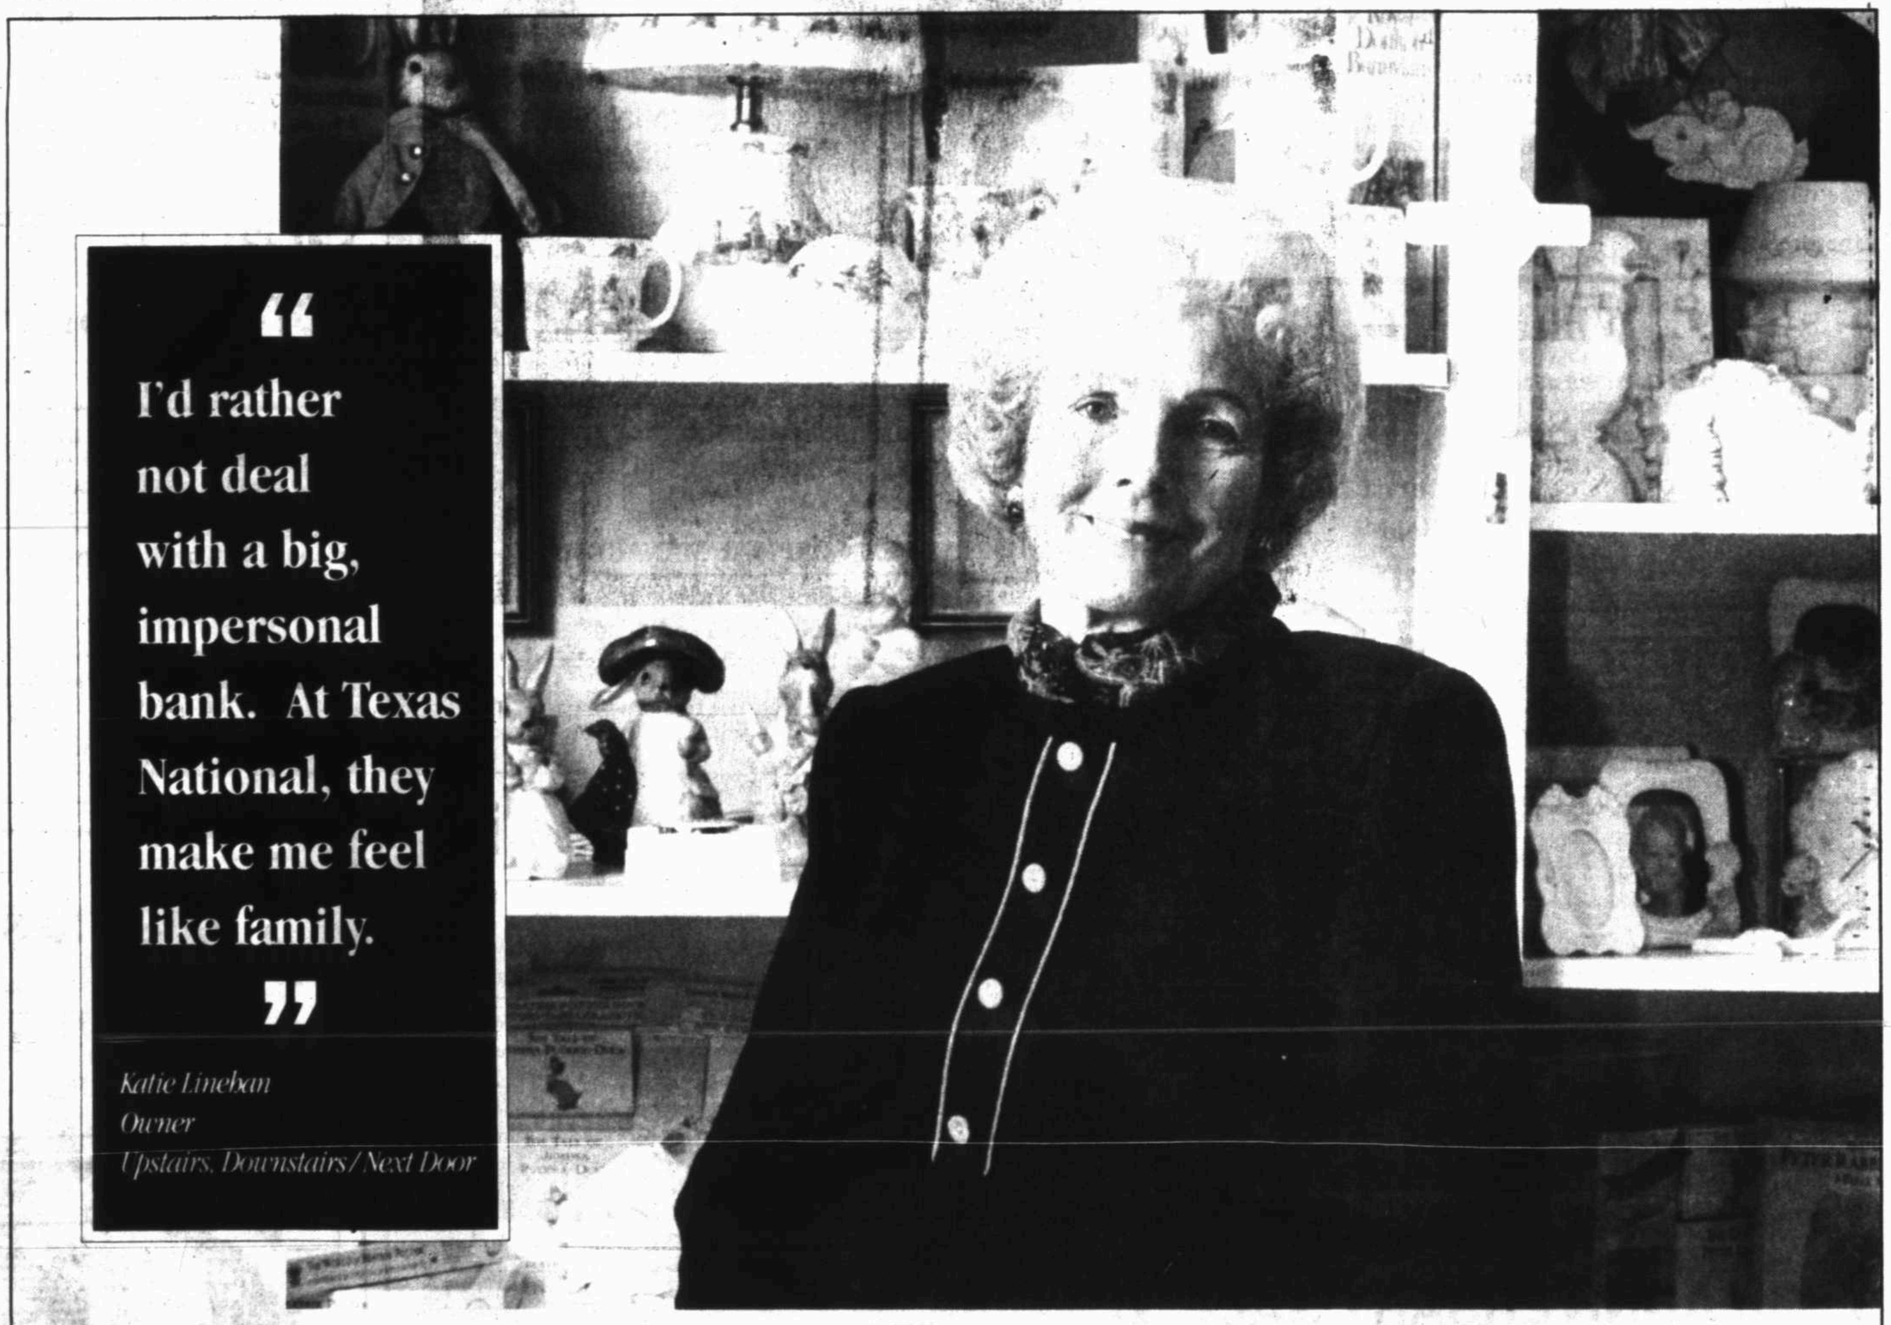

"There was by no means any direct input that said this was on a direct collision," Pennington said. "This is certainly what you'd call a near miss. That's what we're calling it."

The astronauts tried to spot the object but it passed too quickly.

Pennington said he was notified of the impending encounter about five hours before it was to occur.

Commissioners officially file 1992 budget

■ Commissioner's Court turns in 1992 fiscal year budget. Although the budget falls 1.5 percent below 1991's, proposed county taxes might be increased to create a buffer.

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

Midland County's fiscal 1992 budget of almost $18.5 million fell 1.5 percent below 1991's budget of $18.77 million, aecording to the county's proposal that the Commissioners' Court turned in to the County Clerk's Office Monday.

Nevertheless, proposed county taxes might increase dramatically to create a buffer — a cushion of surplus funds for emergencies, other unforeseen expenses, and even a revenue shortfall, officials said.

"There really has never been fat in the budget to speak of," said Midland County Commissioner Win Brown. "We cut into the meat this time."

Even so, the five-member Commissioners' Court, in a 4-1 vote on Friday, elected to increase the county's tax rate by 4.75 cents — from 18 cents per $100 valuation to $22.75 cents. The proposed increase is a 26.38 percent jump from the current 1990 tax rate.

The Commissioners' Court avoided the likelihood of a rollback election by using a state-mandated formula for computing the tax rate. In the computations, the court allowed for the $740,657 Midland County spent in a recent 12-month period in housing state prisoners for 18,046 mandays at $41.02 per prisoner per day.

That "rollback-relief" formula had the effect of fixing the tax-rate increase at 7.86 percent. Any increase beyond 8 percent would mean citizen-taxpayers could petition for a rollback election.

A public hearing, which County Judge Charles W. "Bro" Seltzer has described as a possible war between the court and taxpayers, on the proposed tax rate and budget is to be held at 5:30 p.m. Sept. 23, in the Commissioners' Courtroom in the Midland County Courthouse.

Unlike Commissioner Durward Wright, Commissioner Guy McCrary had advocated a substantial surplus.

"We are not going to get the revenue we estimated," said McCrary, who cited the "increase in costs due to the (county's) incarceration of TDC (Texas Department of Corrections) inmates coupled with the decline in revenue from the federal government in housing federal prisoners at a prime rate."

"We are not going to meet our revenue budget," McCrary predicted. "We are going to exceed the expenditures." Accordingly, he advocated the buffer.

While acknowledging the necessity of a buffer, Wright, however, pushed for a less costly tax rate, 21.25 cents or 1.5 cents below the proposed 22.75-cent tax rate. The 1.5 fewer cents per $100 valuation based on $3.68 billion in countywide assessed valuations would mean about a $500,000 drop in projected surplus funds.

"I felt we should have a closer margin of surplus," Wright said in explaining his minority vote on the tax rate, "and felt that we could pass this along to the taxpayers in the form of 21.25-cent (tax) rate as opposed to a 22.75-cent (tax) rate.

"That would have been, roughly, a half-million dollars difference in the surplus revenue," Wright said.

Others, however, "wanted more of a buffer," Wright said, "and I felt like we could operate with this (smaller surplus) — we have in the past — and I think we could in the future."

The 1991 estimated surplus — ending balance — is almost $1.3 million. The county's 1991 fiscal year ends on Sept. 30, and the 1992 fiscal year begins on Oct. 1.

"I thought we were going a little bit too far too fast," Wright said of the projected surplus reflected in the proposed 22.75-cent tax rate.

"And I knew, myself, I had all the taxes I could pay," Wright said. "I didn't want any more taxes, either. But we also knew the (TDC-prisoner) mandates from the state have to be complied with."

County Auditor Floyd Jarnagin said that Standard & Poor's Corp. recommends surpluses of 25 percent of expected expenditures.

Wright alluded to the "long, hot summer" the judge and the four commissioners spent on budget study. "We cut into the marrow in some places in several departments."

One was the Sheriff's Department.

Sheriff Gary Painter's 1992 budget is $4.49 million, while his 1991 budget is $4.85 million — more than a $360,000 decrease.

INTRODUCING ...

Duo's act is magic and more

By Myra Lee Salcedo
Staff Writer

The magic team of "Fumio and Juliet" have conjured up several state awards recently.

While the couple in Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" were characters in a tragedy, Fumio and Juliet are involved in creating mystery, comedy and illusion.

It's all part of a magic act, which has played at the Yucca Theatre's Summer Mummers, an annual summer show featuring a melodrama and Olio of novelty acts.

Since 1983, Fumio (Eric Inagaki of Odessa) and Juliet (Teresa Ramos of Midland) have garnered five state awards for their act.

They won five first place awards from the Texas Association of Magicians competition, a contest they have entered seven times. And, they have been invited to perform in Mexico City and Corpus Christi.

Despite the recognition, Inagaki downplays his skills as a magician.

"I'm not great at sleight of hand or making coins or cards disappear," he said. "I'm an entertainer first. In fact, for the recent (TAM) competition in Tyler, I had to put more magic into the act."

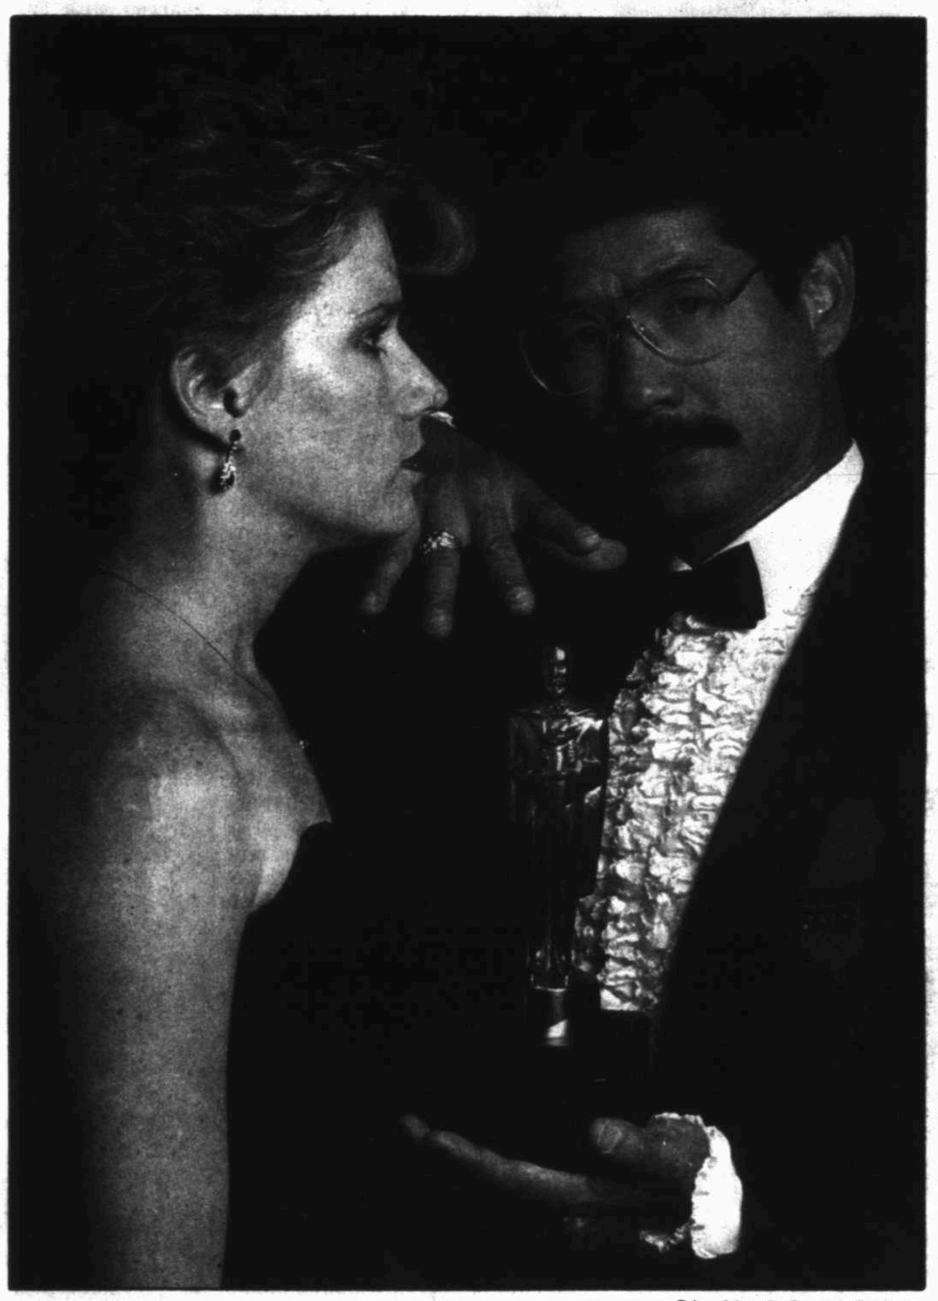

The performer does produce a camera from silk scarves, live doves from flat metal pans and has any number of things appearing and disappearing throughout the act.

He incorporates a wealth of humor into the act, along with impeccable timing and movement, all done silently to music.

"People enjoy my act. But they aren't impressed by my magic," Inagaki said.

"Eric is really a master of timing and autonomy," said Arlen Edgar, producer of Summer Mummers Olio (novelty acts) for several years. "He knows how to work an audience as well as anyone I've ever seen."

Officials force pirate radio stations off air

By Michael Kashgarian
Staff Writer

ODESSA — Two West Odessa radio stations went off the air Monday after they were closed down for operating illegally, officials said.

Federal and state authorities seized radio equipment from the two pirate radio stations, both operating out of trailer homes, according to federal documents and officials.

No arrests were made at the time of the seizure. Operating a radio station without a license is punishable by up to one year imprisonment and fines of $100,000 for each violation.

An investigation began on Aug. 19 when an informant notified a Federal Communication Commission employee in Dallas about the two unlicensed FM stations, according to an affidavit for a search warrant filed by FCC officer Jerry M. Montgomery.

Investigators determined through sophisticated radio frequency monitoring that broadcasts were coming from 12358 Cowden St. at 107.7 MHz and 3550 N. Alturas Ave. at 95.5 MHz, the affidavit stated.

Music broadcasts were documented and the stations were identified by the call letters KROX and KFRE, and the name "Pirate Radio Network," the affidavit indicated.

KROX letters are assigned to a station in Crookston, Minn., and KFRE in Fresno, Calif., according to the statement.

In addition, the broadcasts had disk jockeys who identified themselves as "Bud Roach" and "Harry Butts," the affidavit stated.

Monitoring of the broadcasts and observations of the properties led to a search warrant issued by U.S. Magistrate Robert Sykes on Saturday, documents indicated.

Numerous items were seized at the time the warrant was executed including: transmitters, tape recorders and players, turntables, records and tapes, and various electronic items.

Gramm tests waters for presidential bid

Hearst News Service

WASHINGTON — As he travels the nation as leader of one of his party's premier fund-raising organizations, Texas Sen. Phil Gramm is leaving the unmistakable impression that he is laying the groundwork to seek the Republican presidential nomination in 1996.

Coyness not being one of Gramm's major attributes, he steps up to the question:

"It is certainly an option that is there. It's an option I want to preserve."

It's also an option that has caught the attention of Republican leaders.

"They regard Gramm as an elected official with unlimited potential," said Richard Bond, a Republican consultant. "He's clearly on everyone's short list for '96."

A Gramm presidential campaign five years from now is an option that surfaced repeatedly, participants said, as the senator visited three Iowa cities in one day last week.

Professor urges students to celebrate ethnicity

By Myra Lee Salcedo

Hundreds of students sat in the courtyard at Alamo Junior High School Monday afternoon to hear the significance of the Mexican holiday Diez y Seis.

Students sat under gray skies and scattered sprinkles of rain as David Maldonado challenged them to appreciate the diversity of all races.

"I need to affirm my culture and you need to affirm your culture, none is any better than the other," said Maldonado, a professor at Southern Methodist University's Perkins School of Theology.

Maldonado described Alamo's population as "mixed, pluralistic and diverse."

He had students raise their hands when he called off their race — Mexican American, black, white and Asian American.

"Some of you were a little slow raising your hands," he said. "Some of you raised your hands and then put them down quickly. Don't be ashamed to affirm who you are. As you go up from junior high to high school you need to know who you are."

Maldonado said the grito or cry for Independence on Diez y Seis de Septiembre (Sept. 16) is "a call to Independence, a call to identity to determine and affirm who we are."

"Just like Americans celebrate their independence from Britain on the Fourth of July, Hispanics celebrate Mexico's independence from Spain Diez y Seis," the professor said.

He admonished students not to "prejudge or stereotype" classmates of other races.

"And most of all," he said, "celebrate your ethnicity. Celebrate your own heritage. Celebrate your blackness or whiteness. Celebrate your diversity and celebrate each other."

Judge postpones trial involving nursing home, patient

■ The trial date in a lawsuit filed against a company that oversees nursing homes where a patient wandered off and later was found dead has been postponed.

By Michael Kashgarian
Staff Writer

The trial date in a wrongful death lawsuit against a company that oversees the nursing home where an Alzheimer's disease victim wandered off in Sept. 1989 and later was found dead was postponed Monday.

The case was re-scheduled for Feb. 4, 1992, by 142nd District Court Judge Pat Baskin during a pre-trial hearing. The trial had been set for Oct. 7.

The lawsuit — filed on Nov. 2, 1990, on behalf of the deceased man's family — seeks damages in connection with the disappearance and death of Edgar Bohling, 75, from the Terrace West Nursing Home, 2800 N. Midland Drive. Bohling was found dead on Nov. 17, 1989, in a field five miles west of Midland near State Highway 158.

Baskin postponed the trial date pending a decision on whether some records of the nursing home should be made available and a determination of what causes of action can be legally filed.

The records requested by the plaintiff are of past incidents of people wandering away from nursing homes overseen by the defendant.

A list of those incidents has been granted but, according to Jim Osborn, the plaintiff's attorney, the compilation is limited and self-serving.

"The serious ones they don't want to tell us about," Osborn told the judge. Exclusions included a report on Bohling's disappearance as well as a woman who also suffered from Alzheimer's disease, Osborn said.

Defense attorneys Kelly Utsinger and Don Dean questioned the relevance of the reports and stated the difficulty of making such records available.

"You have to try each of those incidents on there own ... Edgar Bohling's case must be tried on Edgar Bohling's facts," said Dean.

In addition, Utsinger told the judge that making available all reports of wanderings from numerous nursing homes overseen by HEA Management Group would take thousands of hours.

On what causes of action can be filed against a nursing home, Baskin said that issue would also be decided at a later date.

Those issues are expected to be resolved by the end of the year.

The trial is expected to last one to two weeks.

The lawsuit claims the nursing home failed to control access to the facility and did not train personnel adequately.

MAGIC: Performer combines magic, universal comedy

(From 1B)

The humor, however, is Inagaki's trademark.

The performer's comedy combines regional, ethnic (he is Japanese) and universal humor into the show. But, he tries to keep the comedy global so that he can perform his act anywhere in the world.

When words are needed, Inagaki produces large signs to hold up to the audience. For example, one reads "Don't try this trick at home" on one side, and "Go to your neighbors" on the other side.

"I had to have that sign translated into Spanish to take to Mexico City," he said.

Inagaki is constantly updating the act, and he admits that some of the humor in the show was derived from tricks that didn't work.

"If a trick doesn't work, sometimes the audience thinks it is part of the show," he said.

One trick that faltered, resulted in Inagaki spilling flaming lighter fluid onto the stage.

"I stomped over it and tap danced it out," he said.

The audience applauded.

Little did any of the theatergoers know, Inagaki was shaken by the incident. "Could you imagine a fire in that beautiful old theater?" he asked.

"I could just see the headlines in the paper the next day," he said, "Magician makes Yucca Theatre disappear (with fire)."

Since Inagaki moved so quickly and executed one smooth movement after another, people assumed the flames landing on the stage was part of the act.

"The next show people asked why I left it out of my act," he said.

Now, he keeps an extinguisher nearby, offstage.

The fact that Inagaki is constantly updating his act keeps it fresh and popular with Summer Mummers fans, Edgar said.

The magician often sounds his ideas off on Ms. Ramos, his assistant.

"He will tell me an idea, ask if I like it, and if I say 'no,' it really dampens his mood," she said.

Ms. Ramos said Inagaki calls her daily with ideas.

She admits that they have an unusual relationship.

"We argue a lot," she said. "When we travel, we argue so much people think we are married."

"We work well together because we are not married," Inagaki said.

"No matter what we say to each other, we always come out shaking hands," Ms. Ramos said.

"I treasure her as my assistant," Inagaki said. "She is engaged to get married — not to me."

"We'd kill each other," Ms. Ramos said, laughing.

Inagaki admits he is critical and a perfectionist concerning the act. "I tape our show every night that we perform and watch the tape when I get home."

If he finds mistakes or problems with the performance, he said he can hardly stand to wait until he knows his assistant is awake the next morning to call her.

"She likes to sleep in late after a late night performance," he said.

Ms. Ramos said she takes Inagaki's nitpicking and obsession with magic in stride, as does his substitute assistant, Lynette Hammond.

Both Ms. Ramos (a receptionist) and Inagaki (an optometrist) said they are thankful for being allowed to perfect their act on stage in Summer Mummers.

Inagaki, who recently assisted a friend in a magic performance in Las Vegas, Nev., said he aspires to perform in Siegfried and Roy's annual magic competition in the gambling city.

"It's like a musician wanting to play Carnegie Hall," he said. "You have to be invited to compete, and only a few magicians are invited."

"I've always wanted to do magic," Inagaki added. "I took a class at Odessa College on magic from Scott Wells, he became my sensei (teacher and mentor). With each goal I achieved there was always someone there helping me. Scott Wells helped me, then Arlen Edgar helped me and then Teresa was always there."

Federal grand jury indicts Spain

Staff Report

An Odessa defense attorney, arrested in August for plotting to have his former wife killed, was indicted by a federal grand jury on Friday, federal records indicated.

Michael Jeffery Spain, 28, was indicted on the charge that he traveled in interstate commerce from the Western District of Texas to Nevada with intent that the murder of Jami Leverette Spain be committed, records showed.

The grand jury determined that Spain sought the services of Mark Marinelli for the planned killing, records indicated.

Spain's alleged intentions were revealed after Marinelli notified authorities of an offer by the attorney to murder his wife, previous preceding revealed. Authorities monitored the murder solicitation, staged an execution of Ms. Spain and recorded a payoff in a Las Vegas hotel room before Spain was arrested, previous testimony indicated.

Spain is expected to be taken to a federal facility this week to undergo an mental examination.

BUDGET: Taxes might be raised

"We are not going to meet our revenue budget," McCrary predicted. "We are going to exceed the expenditures." Accordingly, he advocated the buffer.

While acknowledging the necessity of a buffer, Wright, however, pushed for a less costly tax rate, 21.25 cents or 1.5 cents below the proposed 22.75-cent tax rate. Wright alluded to the "long, hot summer" the judge and the four commissioners spent on budget study. "We cut into the marrow in some places in several departments."

One was the Sheriff's Department.

Sheriff Gary Painter's 1992 budget is $4.49 million, while his 1991 budget is $4.85 million — more than a $360,000 decrease.

"We are going to do everything we can to make sure it works," Painter said of his proposed budget.

The sheriff's 1992 law-enforcement budget, which takes in a payroll for more than 150 of the county's 400 employees, is $4.06 million, about $264,000 less than the sheriff's comparable budget of $4.324 million for 1991.

The Commissioners' Court reduced the sheriff's jail budget to $432,100 from $530,600. Among jail cost-cutting was a reduction in prisoners' food costs to $225,000 from $250,000.

Overall, other reductions in the sheriff's budget were deletions of two salaried positions and in cutbacks on the sheriff's fleet of vehicles — to 40 from 64.

Other 1992 departmental budgets drafted by the Commissioners' Court include:

County Judge: $96,461 from $146,146.

Margery Samples

Services for Margery Clevenger Samples, a longtime Midland civic and cultural leader, have been set for 1 p.m. Thursday at First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Russell Parchman, pastor, officiating. Interment will follow at Resthaven Memorial Park with Ellis Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Samples

Mrs. Samples died Sunday at her residence.

She was born Sept. 16, 1913, in Oil City, La., to Arch and Edna Rabb Clevenger.

Mrs. Samples was reared in Fort Worth and attended Gulfport College in Gulfport, Miss. She earned a bachelor's of fine arts degree from the University of Oklahoma.

The family moved to Hobbs, N.M., and she attended Texas Tech University, where she earned her master's degree. While at Tech she had a radio show, "Campus News."

She met and married James D. Martin in Hobbs in 1940. She moved to Midland in the late 1940s.

She later met and married Jack Samples in 1956 in Midland. He died in September of 1979.

Mrs. Samples' contributions to the Midland community included the founding of Midland Symphony Guild, the Midland Community Theater, where she performed in productions, the Midland Memorial Hospital Auxiliary and the Midland Panhellenic.

She also organized both Midland and Lee high school youth centers, the original Junior Assembly Dance Club of Midland for Young Folks and Club 15.

She was past president and a 45-year member of Play Readers Club of Midland.

Mrs. Samples also was past president of the Book Review Unit of Midland Women's Club. She has judged Interscholastic Play tournaments and was a patron of Ballet Midland, Act IX, and Ballet Museum.

She sponsored an athletic scholarship at Texas A&M, and a student drama scholarship at Midland High School. She was a member of the President's Club Museum, Texas Associates of Arts Council, Texas Opera Association, Santa Fe Opera Association and Stratford Theater in Canada.

She was a donor and friend of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library and Hall of Fame.

Mrs. Samples was the recipient of the 1976 Lucy Mashburn Award for Community Service from the Altrusa Club of Midland.

Survivors include one daughter, Suzanne Martin Givens of Coronado, Calif.; and three sons, James Clevenger Martin of New York City, Arch Clevenger Martin of Northville, Mich., and Joseph Rabb Martin of Midland.

The family requests memorials be directed to Hospice of Midland, Midland Community Theater or a favorite charity.

Jenny Cross

Graveside services for Jenny Cross of Midland have been set for 10 a.m. today at Fairview Cemetery with Bishop Brent Rigtrup of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints officiating. Ellis Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

She was born July 13, 1931 in Kayenta, Ariz. She was reared in Arizona and lived in the southwest before moving to Texas in the early 1960s. She had been a Midland resident for many years.

Mrs. Cross was a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

Survivors include one son, Danny Brock of Mesa, Ariz.; three brothers, Phillip Hollingsworth of Flagstaff, Ariz., Tom Hollingsworth of Lehi, Utah and John Hollingsworth of Vancouver, Wash.; three sisters, Elizabeth Tennant of Mesa, Ariz., Patricia Hammon of San Antonio and Millie Layman of Herminston, Ore.; one grandchild and numerous nieces and nephews.

Greenwood to host hearing

Staff Report

GREENWOOD — Rural Midland County voters who are concerned about the quality of and rights to their underground water will be voting in the Nov. 5 general election on annexing about 80 percent of Midland County into the Permian Basin Underground Water Conservation District, according to Mark Hoelscher, manager of Permian Basin Underground Water Conservation District.

A public hearing on bringing most of Midland County into the district will be held at 7 p.m. today in the Greenwood Elementary School Cafeteria.

The area to be annexed would include virtually all of Midland County except the city of Midland and the county's northwest quadrant generally north of Interstate Highway 20.

Should the rural voters agree to join the water district, membership will cost them an annual property tax of two cents per $100 valuation to operate and maintain the district. The two-cent tax, which is the maximum allowed by the district's board, would amount to $20 a year on a $100,000 house or $10 a year on a $50,000 house.

The water district, which was established in Stanton in 1985, went into operation in 1988 as the Martin County Underground Water Conservation District and takes in all of Martin and the Knott area in the northwest quadrant of Howard County.

The water district's rules and regulations will be drafted by the district's board, whose single-member district membership is to increase to seven members from five. Currently serving on the board are John F. Campbell, Earl Dickenson, Guy Mabee Jr., Jimmie Sawyer, and Rufus Tom.

M.C. to host business program

Staff Report

A breakfast meeting designed to assist current and potential small business operators is set for 7:30 a.m. today at Midland College.

The meeting will be in Chaparral Hall, located in the MC Student Center.

"The program is short, informal, and designed to help small business owners/operators and aspiring entrepreneurs to learn positive methods of operation, meet others in similar situations, and discover the avenues of assistance which are available," said Jerry Lee Jones, director of the college's Business and Economic Development Center.

Cost of the breakfast is $5, which may be paid at the door.

The college offers similar breakfast meetings 7:30 a.m. on the third Tuesday of each month.

For more information or reservations, call 685-4656 or 685-4670 Monday.

Trial to begin in shooting case

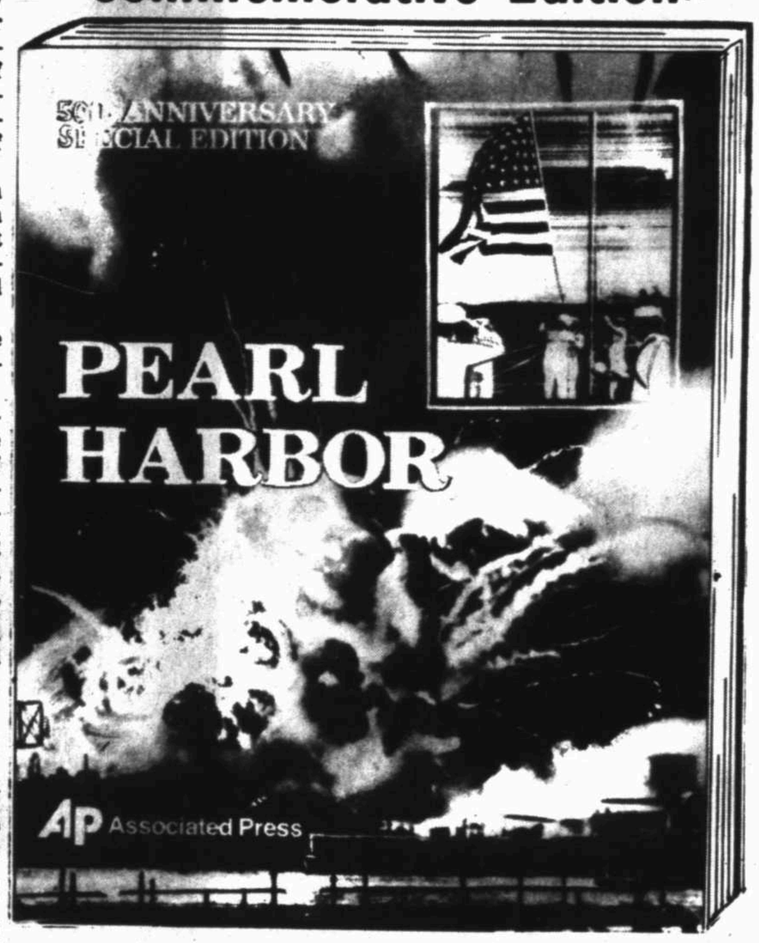

The trial of a Midland man charged with aggravated assault in connection with a drive-by shooting that injured six people began in the 238th District Court on Monday.

Koby Ray Reeves, 32, was indicted in January on three counts of using a firearm to cause bodily injury. Injured were Belinda Banks, 18, Solomon Bunton, 61, and Derrick Young, 20.

Reeves was arrested with his brother, Kevin Lynn Reeves, 27, at about 5 a.m. on Sept. 15, 1990, approximately an hour after a drive-by shooting incident at Red's Drive Inn, 1807 E. Front St., police said.

Six people were injured by pellets from several shots of 12-gauge shotgun.

Jeep Collins' jeweled artistry now debuts at SonSilks

It would be difficult to imagine receiving a more pleasing gift than one of unique, handcrafted jewelry whose trademarks are simplicity of design and careful attention to each exquisite detail. And, because it is created with a beautiful mix of brass, copper and silver, it's suprisingly affordable for the giver.

With this in mind, Sonsilks recently introduced Jeep Collins' jewelry to its already impressive collection of fashion jewelry. Owner Ellen West would like to remind those who wish to place a Jeep Collins special order for Christmas to do so this week.

The large selection of necklaces, bracelets, earring and pins — in all kinds of styles and a a variety of mediums is just a small part of what Sonsilks offers the discriminating jewelry shopper.

The choice of specialty gifts is also breathtaking. Just arrived for fall and the upcoming holiday season are tall curly sticks, pillows and prints, pumpkins, walking canes, shoe horns and handkerchiefs. Also children's books, beeswax candles and swirls, Claire Burke potpourri and home fragrances. Anyone who wants more can browse through the windsocks, windchimes, framed prints (many limited editions) and figurines including pieces from Austin Sculpture, United Design, Angela Trippi, Silver Deer, Fontanini, Sandicast and Roman.

Collectible gifts are always an excellent choice. Sonsilks offers scaled down versions of bicycles, golf clubs, sewing machines, drum sets and violins in 24 kt. gold electroplace.

Then there are nostalgic music boxes, stuffed animals to be cherished, beautiful cookbooks and pretty pop-up cards.

And shoppers can't forget the magnificent selection of quality silk florals available in all colors, and the variety of containers. Anyone who's redecorating can take a swatch of fabric or wallpaper to Sonsilks where a talented designer will create a one-of-kind floral piece for any occasion.

Or, for those who want to create their own floral decorations, there is a large selection of attractive containers. Choices are wood, wire or brass bird cages. Also unique flower and plant holders in porcelain brass, crystal, wire mesh, raku. Then there's the huge selection of decorative baskets.

Sonsilks is such an extraordinary store, beautifully decorated, with a myriad of delightful surprises. Every charming nook and cranny holds a unique display of lovely merchandise. From the fabulous selection of gifts, jewelry and floral arrangements, to the calming background music by pianist Newell Oler (available on cassette) — it soothes the senses and needs to be experienced personally.

Diet Center reduces cost of successful slimming program

Yes, Virginia, it is possible to diet successfuly, maintain desired weight and still enjoy life. Just ask Donna Campbell, who is in the last phase of Diet Center's weight-loss program.

"I loved it for two reasons," Campbell said. "I got to eat real food and I never felt hungry. We like to travel, and we really enjoy going out for dinner. Since Diet Center's program doesn't involve pre-packaged foods, I was able to do that and still lose weight.

"I also liked the daily weigh-ins. They really helped. It makes you think twice before you eat something you shouldn't the day before." Campbell lost 30 pounds — and 25 inches.

"I feel like a different person," she said. "I have so much more self-confidence. And I even enjoy shopping. It used to be something I had to do, now it's fun."

For 20 years, Diet Centers across North America have helped more than 4,000,000 people lose weight. When female dieters take full advantage of the Diet Center program, they can lose an average of two to three pounds per week. Male dieters can lose an average of three to five pounds per week. Diet Center surveys show that dieters also experience an inch loss (overall body measurement) of one inch per pound lost.

Diet Center achieves this by helping individuals learn the techniques of personal, lifelong weight management. Radical medical procedures, reliance on prepackaged foods or liquid formulas, pills, hypnosis or anything else which reduces the need for personal commitment presents only a short-term solution for weight loss.

The Diet Center program provides the perfect long-term solution to weight loss. The underlying principles are:

- stabilization of the blood sugar concentration
- a combination of sound nutrition principles with a focus on real food, concentrating on complex carbohydrates, naturally occurring sugars, fiber, bulk and lean meats.

Clients are guided through four necessary stages of the weight reduction program: Conditioning, Reducing, Stabilization and Maintenance. Nutritional eating habits are established for lifelong weight maintenance.

And to make dieting even easier, Diet Center owner and counselor Tina Blake recently purchased an Electro Lipo Graph (ELG). This will give Diet Center the ability to monitor clients' changes in body fat and lean tissue while on the reducing phase of the program. When body composition changes are noted ELG results allow diet counselors to make appropriate adjustments and recommendations to suit the specific client.

There are no contracts to sign or hidden costs at Diet Center. A one-time registration fee is $75. The weekly fee covers private daily counseling and weigh-in sessions as well as the daily supplement.

Call Tina Blake today at 684-5081 to arrange an appointment for a free consultation. Or come by Diet Center at 2034 W. Cuthbert, across from Memorial Stadium. Hours are 7 a.m. to noon and 4:30 to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday.

And now is the time to call. The fall special features five weeks for the price of four. The special is available through November 29.

Midwest Auto Glass clearly Midland's leader in the field

For the past 46 years, Midlanders have been trusting their car glass needs to Midwest Auto Glass. They are expert professionals and their work reflects it.

While-you-wait in-shop service is available, or free pick-up and delivery can be arranged for their customers. For those who are really pressed for time, Midwest Auto Glass has a convenient mobile repair service. Technicians can go almost anywhere and repair or replace most windshieleds and windows at their customers' choice of location.

For ultimate convenience, Midwest Auto Glass works with insurance companies to speed up payment on claims. Fleet pricing is another advantage, for details call 682-0303.

And now, Midwest Auto Glass sells and installs cellular phones. Their lines feature Motorola. Also, anyone needing most any pick-up accessory can find it at Midwest.

Besides auto glass, Midwest offers expert window tining. Available in a variety of strenghts. Profilon safety film by Llumar is a transparent "armored shield" that forms a molecular bond with ordinary glass to fortify windows. It safeguards banks, hotels, schools, retail stores, churches, hospitals and other buildings. Here's how: if a window breaks, Profilon uses its muscle to hold the broken glass fragments together, discouraging break-ins and limiting damage from vandalism.

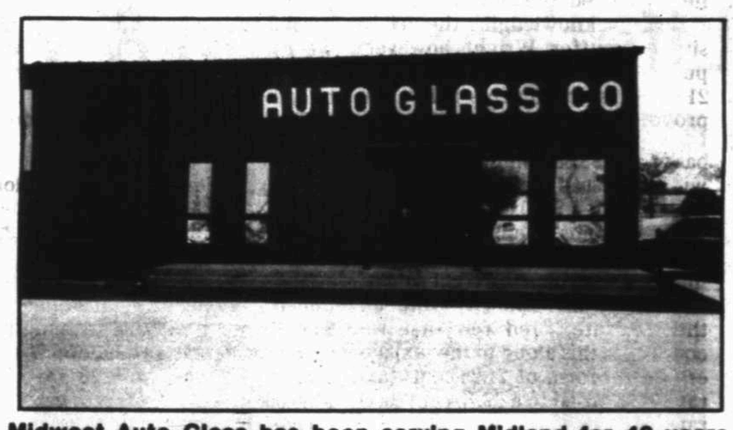

And Midwest Auto Glass offers their customers value while protecting their windows. There is a large variety of quality films that can be applied.

More and more new buildings in town have reflective or tinted glass — with good reason. This kind of window treatment cuts cooling costs, while giving buildings an appealing facade.

Films can achieve the same look and results, but at a much lower cost. Films eliminate 95 percent of the ultraviolet rays that fade carpets, upholstery and clothing.

Film also acts as a security screen by holding broken glass together until it's convenient to have it replaced. This can save quite a bit of the cost after-hour or weekend glass replacement. The new line of Midwest Auto Glass films carry a five-year warranty against peeling, cracking, discoloration and delamination. Also a two-year warranty on labor.

The friendly professionals of Midwest Auto Glass are located at 901 West Washington in Midland. Call 682-0303 for more information.

Midwest Auto Glass has been serving Midland for 46 years. These seasoned professionals can handle any car glass need.

DEAR ABBY

A lot of women must be faking it

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "B in Dallas" her confession about faking orgasms made my day, my month, my year! I know that God will forgive me this small deception. Actually, it's an act of kindness; it makes my husband feel so virile and masculine. I truly love him, so it's no great sacrifice on my part. — MISSOURI FAKER

Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Why "fake it"? Enjoy it! I was married to the same man for nearly 50 years and my sex life died when he did. I'm a great-grandmother now, but if I could find a nice clean man between 70 and 80, believe me, I wouldn't have to fake it. Please don't use my name. I live in a senior citizens complex, and if my neighbors knew I wrote this, they'd have a coronary. — CITRUS HEIGHTS, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: All the world is a stage, and everybody fakes enjoyment of something at some time. Some husbands fake enjoyment of opera, the symphony, ballroom dancing and other activities their wives relish. Unselfish people are accustomed to accommodating others. — A MALE'S PERSPECTIVE

DEAR ABBY: I simply submit to sex as my wifely obligation to "service" my lusty husband. To him, sex is just another bodily function. I always leave the lights on so I can read something until he's finished. — SUBMITTING, NOT FAKING

DEAR ABBY: Hooray for "B in Dallas" for admitting she's "faking it." I'm a 55-year-old woman, married for 33 years, and I've had enough sex to last me a lifetime. But I'm starving for love! — BEL AIR FAKER

DEAR ABBY: I don't have to fake it anymore "just to get it over with." Sex is great now that the kids are out of the house and I'm no longer on the Pill. — PARADISE VALLEY, ARIZ.

DEAR ABBY: Those fakers out there should quit blaming the man. If they have to "fake it," they just aren't willing to figure out what feels good — and then explain it to their partner. The man is going to have a good time whether she fakes it or not.

Woody Allen once said, "The first organ a person must use to achieve sexual satisfaction is the brain." — TOM IN MICHIGAN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year old woman and have been married twice, and I'm not sure I've ever experienced an orgasm. Oh, I may have had one once when I was 17, and I was so overcome, I nearly blacked out. It's just as well it never happened again.

Book guide to healthy shopping

NEW YORK (AP) — A new pocket guide can help consumers figure out which brands of processed food offer more nutrition per bite.

"Turn Your Supermarket into a Health Food Store," by Lisa Messinger (Pharos Book, $6.95), explains why such words as "lite" or "no cholesterol" or "sugar-free" may not signal the nutritional bargain many shoppers think they do.

While Messinger finds plenty to complain about, she also shows how paying close attention to ingredient labels and understanding them will enable consumers to get what they came for at the supermarket.

The book includes a list of many major brands of products that contain additives, artificial ingredients or high amounts of fat, sugar or salt. Along with them, Messinger suggests replacements. For example, she recommends giving up a peanut butter that contains peanuts, sugar, hydrogentated vegetable oil, salt, molasses, and mono- and diglycerides. Instead, she says, buy one that contains just peanuts.

Lifetime Siding & Window plans for upcoming Home Show

Neil Letkeman plans to take this model, as well as other samples of siding and storm doors and windows, to the Home Show at Midland Park Mall.

Neil Letkeman of Lifetime Siding and Window will display all manner of home improvements at the Home Show, scheduled for Thursday through Sunday Sept. 19 to 22 at Midland Park Mall. The display features samples of vinyl and steel siding in a selection of colors. Also storm doors and windows, a carport sample and a variety of home improvement literature.

Best of all, anyone who visits Letkeman at the show and makes the request will receive a $500 discount on siding or trim (400-sq.-ft. minimum). To make a visit to Letkeman's booth even more interesting, Lifetime Siding and Window plans to hold a drawing for a free storm door — and no purchase is necessary to win. Also, Letkeman will be at the mall throughout the show to answer home improvement questions for show goers.

Besides quality workmanship, Lifetime Siding and Window offers savings on maintenance-free siding and home-improvement products. That's due to lower overhead costs. "We offer the same materials to our customers that the bigger companies have," Letkeman said. "We employ professional, dependable craftsmen who can experrtly install a variety of improvements."

Customers don't have to be convinced of the affordability of siding and other home improvements. The dollars and sense of a Letkeman estimate speaks for itself.

"We were recently contacted by a customer who had received five estimates," Letkeman said. "Using the same exact materials as the other contractors, we gave this homeowner an estimate that was several hundred dollars lower than the lowest bid."

Those who own brick homes are not always aware that they, too, can benefit from steel or vinyl siding. Any part of a home's exterior that requires painting, such as eaves and overhangs, can become maintenance free with the installation of siding. Insulation can also be installed under new siding.

Lifetime Siding and Window also offers other home-improvement products for sale and installation — replacement windows, storm doors, rain gutters patio covers and metal carports.

And there's no better time than now to plan those home improvements, with their September sale going on. For a free estimate call 689-0307. And don't forget the Home Show!

Bruno Baptista ...MC's Brazilian recruit

Short Chaps report

■ New Midland College basketball coach Steve Green was left looking for chairs during team's first workout Monday.

By Jimmy Patterson
Assistant Sports Editor

On the first official day of basketball practice for the new-look Midland College Chaparrals, first-year head coach Steve Green would only speak light-heartedly of his team's lack of height.

"You know how some people bring out chairs when they have group pictures made, and some of 'em sit on the chairs, and some stand behind the chairs? We're all gonna be standing on top of the chairs."

Although the start of the 1991-92 junior college basketball season is still almost two months away, the MC team staged its first official workout Monday at Chaparral Center.

Only two players return from Reggie Franklin's last team — forwards Charles Sanders and Marlon Jefferson. The remaining 14 literally come from points around the world. And for the most part, it's a team without a big man along the lines of, say, a Carroll Boudreaux or a Johnny McDowell.

"We've got a bunch of 6-4, 6-5 kids that can scrap," Green said. "I just wish the court was longer than 94 feet."

Green, head coach at Howard College before taking over for the ousted Franklin earlier this year, promises to bring with him a higher scale, more up tempo style of play. Whether or not the new faster style is an immediate on-court success will be seen. It should, however, return fans to the stands. Green's up tempo brand of basketball was consistently responsible for packed houses at Big Spring's Dorothy Garrett Coliseum.

The Western Junior College Athletic Conference went through more shake ups than a construction worker with a jackhammer on high in the offseason. Only New Mexico Junior College's Ron Black, South Plains College's Ron Mayberry, Clarendon's Joe Mondragon and Odessa's Dennis Helms return to the teams they coached last season.

Ex-MC coach Franklin now heads up the New Mexico Military program while Green's brother, Kelly, moved from Frank Phillips to Western Texas College. There are also new coaches at Howard and FPC.

As a result of the almost non-stop changes, no coach, according to Green, has commented on any sort of outstanding recruiting year.

"It'd be hard to pick based on recruiting," Green said of the conference race. "But if you base it on who's returning, Odessa, New Mexico and South Plains have the best back from last year. But that's not necessarily the way it'll turn out."

MC is scheduled to host Brookhaven in a scrimmage Oct. 13 at 2 p.m. The Chaps also have a scrimmage set at Wayland Baptist in Plainview.

First-year players who reported for their first day of practice, and their hometowns, are as follows:

Bruno Baptista (Rio De Janerio, Brazil), Morris Conley (Houston), Carlis Frazier (Richmond, Va.), Charles Gentry (Dallas), Kelon Haynie (Dallas), John Mayes (Memphis, Tenn.), Chris McKinney (East St. Louis, Ill.), Dani Mizrahi (Holon, Israel), Shawn Morris (Verona, Penn.), Bruce Patter-

Oilers strike history tune

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers didn't repeat history Monday night, they added to it.

Warren Moon didn't pass for 527 yards like he did in the Oilers' last meeting with Kansas City, but he did rally them in the third quarter this time. He completed eight straight passes, including a 4-yard touchdown to Haywood Jeffires, leading Houston to a 17-7 victory over the Chiefs.

After being held to 63 yards passing in the first half, Moon directed a 93-yard third-quarter drive that included five passes to Jeffires, helping the Oilers open the season with a 3-0 record for the first time in club history.

The Oilers, one of five undefeated teams in the NFL, were aided by Kansas City penalties, four of which gave Houston first downs.

Houston's defense once again played a big part in the victory. Mike Dumas' first-quarter fumble recovery set up the Oilers' first score and cornerback Cris Dishman's interception with 9:40 left in the game killed a drive by Kansas City (1-2).

Steve DeBerg threw 40 yards toward Fred Jones but Dishman matched Jones stride for stride and plucked the pass off in the end zone.

The Oilers increased their Monday night football record to 10-6, including four consecutive victories.

Moon's 527 passing yards against Kansas City last December was the second-best mark in NFL history and led Houston to a 27-10 victory. He settled for completing 29 of 38 for 233 yards Monday night. His completion string reached 12 before he missed in the fourth quarter.

Jeffires finished with nine receptions for 60 yards.

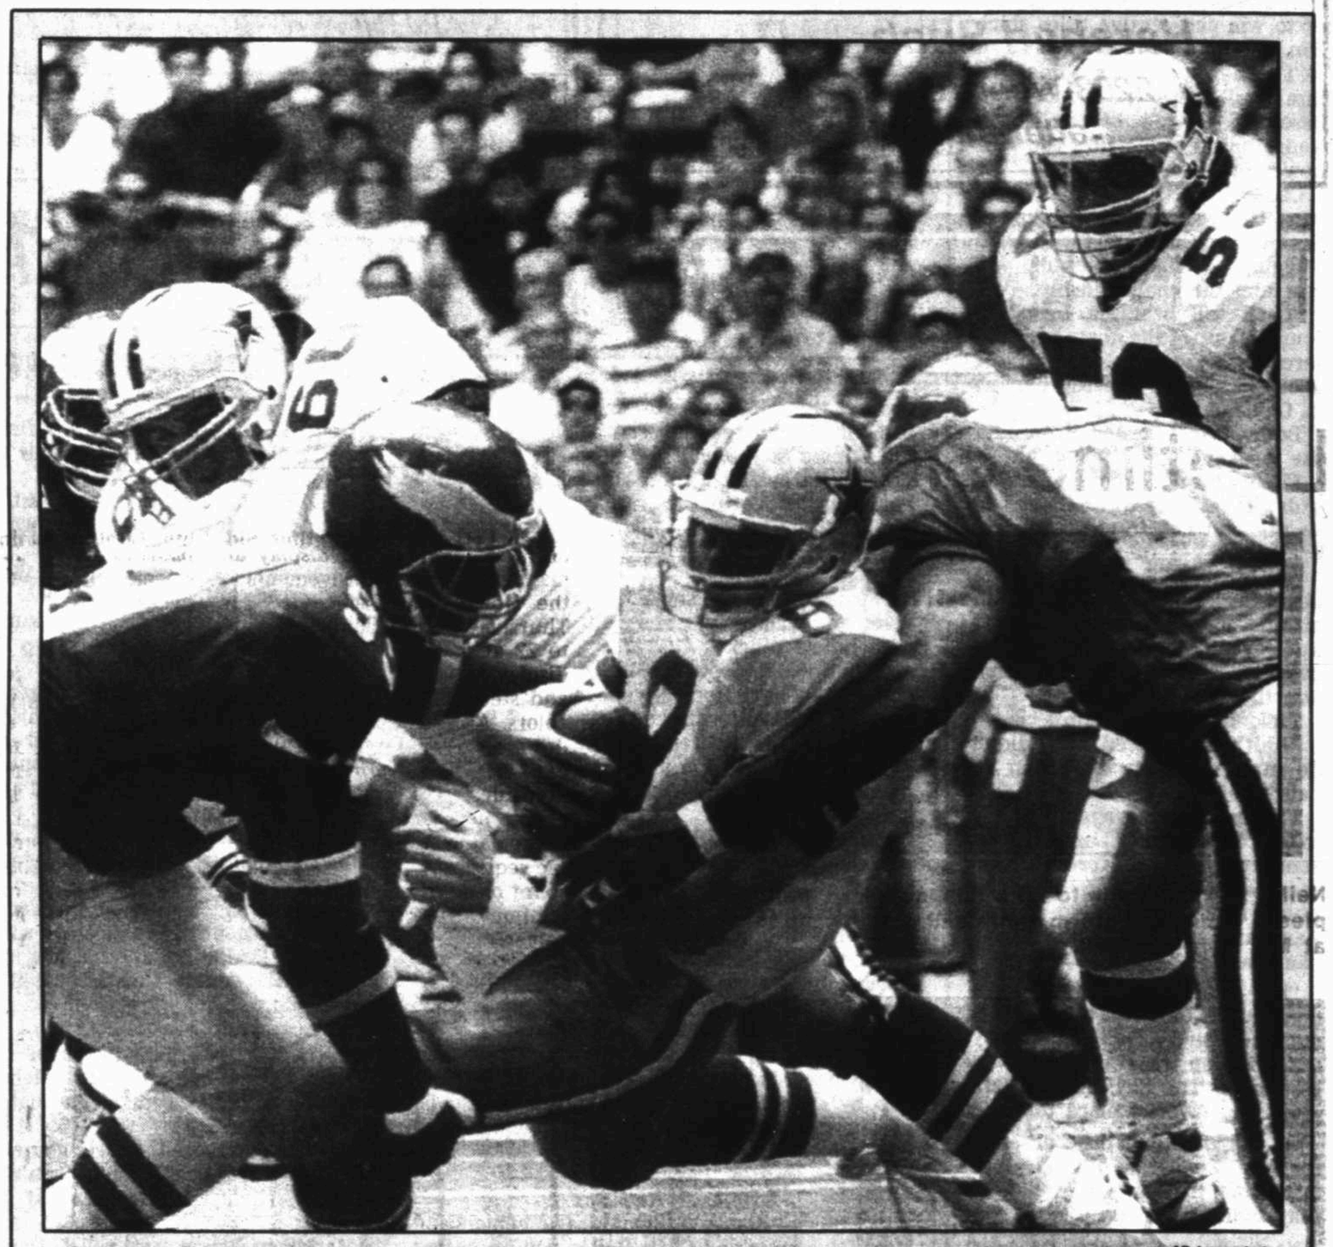

Houston's defense made the first break of the game when Scott Kozak separated Jones from the ball on a punt return and Dumas, a rookie, recovered at the Chiefs 27.

Two pass interference penalties against the Chiefs and two 7-yard passes by Moon gave the Oilers a first down at the Kansas City 1.

But it took three tries before Pinkett broke the plane of the goal line for a touchdown with 3:59 left in the period.

The Oilers stopped the Chiefs on third- and fourth-down plays early in the second quarter after Kansas City reached Houston's 32. Ray Childress stopped Barry Word for no gain and Lee Williams dumped Todd McNair for a 1-yard gain, giving the ball to Houston.

The Chiefs, scoreless in the first half of their first two games, rallied in the second quarter with Christian Okoye's 2-yard touchdown run with 27 seconds left in the half.

Dallas collapse horrific

■ Cowboys' players embarrased after worst offensive showing in club history.

Associated Press

IRVING — In 31 years of NFL play, the Dallas Cowboys never had a worse offensive afternoon than the one they had Sunday against the Philadelphia Eagles.

A day later, quarterback Troy Aikman and his offensive line were still trying to figure out what happened.

The horrific numbers included 11 sacks for 67 yards in losses, three interceptions and a grand total of 90 yards offense, 45 of those passing.

"It was pitiful," said wide receiver Michael Irvin.

"It was embarrassing," said offensive tackle Nate Newton.

"It seems like they were everywhere," said Aikman.

Even the Eagles seemed stunned by the ease of their 24-0 victory over the Cowboys.

"I'm really surprised at the way Dallas played," said Eagles wide receiver Fred Barnett. "I don't know what happened, but they seemed flat or something. I just couldn't believe it because they're a better team than they showed."

Clyde Simmons had four and one-half sacks against Aikman, who barely got time to cock his arm before he was blasted to the Texas Stadium artificial turf.

Another poll shakeup in Prep Top 10

Associated Press

The No. 1 teams in Class 4A have been hexed so far this season, but Bastrop coach Les Johnson isn't superstitious.

Bastrop, which walloped Leander 55-0 over the weekend to improve to 2-0, assumed the spot vacated by West Orange-Stark in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll. Bastrop received 222 points and 14 of 24 first-place votes.

West Orange-Stark was beaten by Class 5A Beaumont West Brook 34-7, becoming the second top-ranked 4A team to fall in as many weeks. Dallas Roosevelt, the preseason No. 1 selection, is now 0-2.

Locally, Odessa Permian moved up a spot in Class 5A to No. 6 while Garden City remained No. 1 in Class A. Rankin moved up a spot to No. 8 in Class A and will host Garden City in a game of state importance Friday.

West Orange-Stark coach Dan Hooks admits his team, which dropped to a sixth-place tie with Austin Westlake, was outmatched by West Brook, but said the top ranking didn't help.

"I'm sure it motivated them more than us," Hooks said. "You get everybody's best effort when you're on top. I'm sure it had something to do with it."

Johnson doesn't fear the pressure of being No. 1. On the contrary, he sees benefits.

"You get good crowds and you get to see your kids under pressure," Johnson said. "If you can't play under those conditions, you don't deserve to be there."

In all, 12 ranked teams lost over the weekend, including No. 6 Marshall and No. 2 Aldine, last year's Class 5A champions.

Arlington Lamar, which escaped South Grand Prairie with a 17-16 victory, narrowly held its No. 1 ranking in 5A. Lamar received 216 points and 16 first-place votes to No. 2 Dallas Carter's 212 points and six votes for first.

Carter's defense dominated Marshall, scoring three touchdowns and holding the 1990 "big school" champion to 36 yards in a 35-6 victory.

Cuero remained No. 1 in 3A, garnering 19 first-place votes. Schulenburg received 23 votes for first to retain its stronghold on 2A's top ranking.

Debuting in the poll were San Antonio Marshall in 5A, A&M Consolidated, Lamarque and Wilmer-Hutchins in 4A.

With its 28-22 victory, Willowridge handed defending "small school" champion Aldine its first defeat since 1989.

Atlanta loses Otis Nixon to drug suspension

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Atlanta Braves lost their leadoff man in the midst of the pennant race Monday when Otis Nixon, leading the majors in stolen bases, was suspended for 60 days for violating baseball's drug policy.

The penalty, imposed by the commissioner's office after results of drug tests became available Monday, came with three weeks left in the season and the Braves leading Los Angeles by 1½ games in the NL West. The action cannot be appealed, but it can be grieved through the players' union.

"If they (grieved) it, the arbitrator would have to suspend the suspension," commissioner Fay Vincent said. "Just filing a grievance, if they do that, does not affect it."

Baseball arbitrator George Nicolau would be the one to rule on the grievance. He is on vacation in Greece and not expected back for two weeks.

Michael Weiner, assistant general counsel of the union, said he had spoken to Nixon and his agent, Joe Sroba, earlier in the day. Weiner said a decision on filing a grievance would probably be made within 24 hours.

"I'm sure everyone is shocked and surprised," Atlanta ace Tom Glavine said. "This is the first I've heard about anything like this. I'm sure the guys will set out to do anything they can to do what it takes to try and take away from the way it hurts our team."

A statement from the commissioner's office said Nixon, who has stolen 72 bases, was suspended for violating his aftercare program and the commissioner's drug policy. In August 1987 while with the Cleveland organization, Nixon entered a substance abuse rehabiliation center, although he never was suspended.

Nixon went into the treatment facility a week after being arrested on charges of criminal possession of a controlled substance and obstructing governmental administration. He pleaded guilty to attempted obstruction of governmental administration, and the drug charge was dropped.

"It has become standard procedure for players to get a 60-day suspension when they violate their aftercare program the first time," baseball director of public relations Rich Levin said.

Last week, Nixon missed a game because of what manager Bobby Cox said was a family emergency. Cox said he did not know the details of the absence.

Nixon was acquired by the Braves in spring training for a minor league in attempt to improve Atlanta's speed. Nixon responded by setting a team record for stolen bases.

Nixon is batting .297 with a .371 on-base percentage and 26 RBIs. He has split time in left field with Lonnie Smith, who is batting .280 with a .380 on-base percentage, along with five homers and 36 RBIs. Smith has stolen only six bases.

"The only thing I know is we knew he was on an aftercare program when we acquired his contract," Braves general manager John Schuerholz said from San Francisco, where the Braves played Monday night.

"It's too early in the situation for me to have any other thoughts beyond that," Schuerholz said. "We've coped with the loss of a lot of key players throughout the year. We'll try the best we can to cope with this."

Schuerholz said there was nothing the team can do to prevent Nixon's suspension.

"The team is not involved," he said. "This is a matter between Otis Nixon and the commissioner's office. I'm not aware of the particulars in this case. I have no knowledge of what action would follow."

The penalty came after a weekend series in Atlanta in which the Braves won two of three from the Dodgers. The two teams play next weekend in Los Angeles.

"The only thing I really have seen is the report. It's a case that's unfortunate for the Braves and for Otis Nixon," Dodgers general manager Fred Claire said. "But you can't have violations of an aftercare program. Hopefully, any problems that exist there will be addressed.

"The Braves have depth, they've played very well as a ballclub. I'm sure they'll call upon all that depth. It's really a separate issue that goes beyond the ballclub," he said.

Home run derby real

By Ben Walker
AP Baseball Writer

This year, Home Run Derby is for real.

Mickey Mantle vs. Willie Mays, Hank Aaron vs. Harmon Killebrew and Rocky Colavito vs. Duke Snider made for great television in the 1950s.

Now, Cecil Fielder and Jose Canseco have revived the power show. And instead of playing for the cameras, they're playing for the crown.

Fielder leads with 42. He homered 51 times last year and is trying to become the first AL player to win consecutive titles since Jim Rice in 1977-78.

"I've never seen anything like him in all the years I've been in baseball," Detroit batting coach Vada Pinson said. "He's the best power hitter in a long time."

Canseco is second with 41 home runs. He predicts that swinging at the Oakland Coliseum, rather than slugging at Tiger Stadium, will cost him the championship.

"Cecil will beat me by about four because of the home park differences," Canseco said. "I lose about 15 homers a season playing in Oakland."

Both players turned it on over the weekend.

Fielder hit a 520-foot homer Saturday night that was believed to be the first ball to clear Milwaukee's County Stadium.

"My mom called me and said she heard Cecil Fielder hit a home run off me," victim Dan Plesac said. "I said, 'Yeah, it just barely went over the fence.' I didn't tell her it was the back fence."

Fielder, as usual, didn't brag.

"I hit that one well, but I didn't do anything on my other four at-bats," he said.

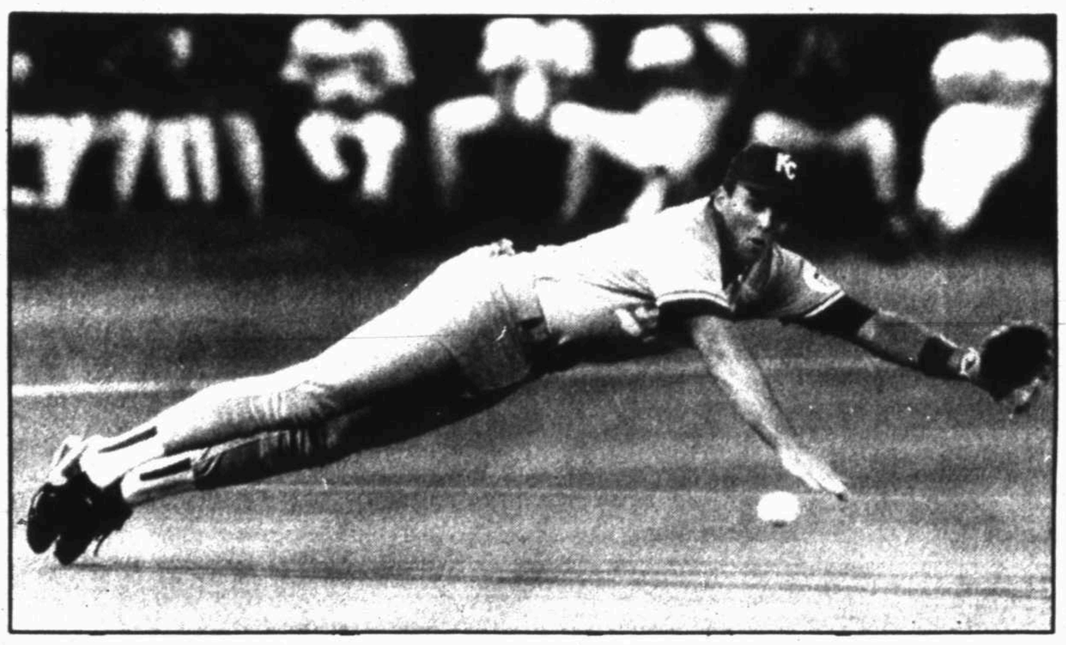

Fielder homered again Sunday to stay one ahead of Canseco, who connected twice in Toronto. Canseco went 7-for-13 with three home runs, including a grand slam, and 10 RBIs in the three-game series.

"My first homer might have gone out in Oakland, but the second one would have been an easy out, warning track at best," Canseco said. "The SkyDome is definitely my favorite place to hit."

A lot more than the Coliseum, for sure. Enough so that Canseco is hinting that he might like to play somewhere else.

"Actually, the fans in Oakland are a lot more abusive towards me than they are in Toronto. I think a lot of fans really respect me in Toronto, it's always tougher to be booed at home," he said.

Up until this season, however, hitting in Oakland had not really hurt Canseco. He had averaged one home run per 16.5 at-bats at home and one per 15.6 at-bats on the road, not much of a difference.

Tapani lands No. 15

Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS — Kevin Tapani became Minnesota's third 15-game winner, pitching three-hit ball for 7⅓ innings and leading the Twins over the Kansas City Royals 9-0.

Brian Harper hit a three-run homer and Mike Pagliarulo drove in two runs as the AL West-leading Twins bounced back from a lost weekend in Texas, where they dropped three of four games.

Tapani (15-8) is 13-2 since June 5. He struck out seven and walked two, and Paul Abbott finished with hitless relief.

Tapani joined Scott Erickson, who has won 18 games, and Jack Morris, with 15, as Minnesota's top winners. California and Atlanta are the only other teams with three 15-game winners.

The Twins, who hit just .195 while in Texas, pounded Mark Gubicza (8-10) for eight runs in five innings.

Dan Gladden and Chuck Knoblauch singled to start the game, and Kirby Puckett's sacrifice fly and Kent Hrbek's RBI grounder made it 2-0.

An RBI double by Chili Davis and sacrifice flies by Pagliarulo and Greg Gagne increased it to 5-0 in the fourth. Gubicza walked Kent Hrbek and Davis with two out in the fifth, setting up Harper's 10th homer and Gubicza's own exit. Pagliarulo singled home a run in the eighth.

The Twins survived a scare in the fifth when Shane Mack, batting .312, was hit on the left ear flap by a pitch from Gubicza. Mack fell to the ground and appeared groggy, but remained in the game.

Orioles 9, Red Sox 2

BOSTON — Randy Milligan hit two homers and Mike Devereaux and Chris Hoiles also connected as Baltimore dealt second-place Boston another blow.

Boston began the day 3½ games behind AL East-leading Toronto, which played later in Seattle. The Red Sox lost for just the third time in 13 games.

Cal Ripken doubled and singled twice as Baltimore rapped 16 hits. The Orioles have won six of eight.

Rookie Mike Mussina (4-4) scattered 10 hits in his first complete game. He struck out three and did not walk a batter.

American League

Tom Bolton (8-8), making his first start since July 21, allowed five hits and four runs in three innings.

Bolton blanked Baltimore on just a bunt single by Luis Mercedes for the first two innings. But Mercedes began the third with a single off Bolton's glove and Devereaux hit his 19th homer into the Orioles' bullpen in right.

Ripken followed with a single and Milligan later lined a 3-2 pitch into the screen in left for his 15th homer.

Hoiles hit reliever Dennis Lamp's first pitch in the fourth into the screen for his 10th homer.

Baltimore tagged Lamp for three runs in the fifth. Glenn Davis had an RBI double and Hoiles an RBI single and another scored on an error by shortstop Luis Rivera.

Milligan oepned the seventh with his 16th homer, a high drive into the screen against Dana Kiecker.

The Red Sox scored in the fourth on Mike Greenwell's pop fly double and a single by Carlos Quintana. Boston got another run in the sixth on Jody Reed's double and Greenwell's bloop, two-out single.

Brewers 5, Yankees 4

NEW YORK — Robin Yount celebrated his 36th birthday with a two-run single that sent Milwaukee past New York.

Milwaukee ended its six-game road losing streak. The Yankees, despite turning five double plays, were officially eliminated from the AL East race.

Mark Lee (2-4) won in relief. Doug Henry, the fourth Milwaukee pitcher, went one inning for his eighth save.

The score was tied at 2 when the Brewers loaded the bases in the fifth against Wade Taylor (7-10) on singles by Paul Molitor and B.J. Surhoff and a walk to Willie Randolph. Yount singled for the lead and Greg Vaughn followed with a sacrifice fly.

Bernie Williams' RBI single in the fifth knocked out Milwaukee starter Don August. The Yankees made it 5-4 in the eighth on Kevin Maas' RBI single.

Pirates' Smith wins No. 15

Associated Press

PITTSBURGH — Zane Smith won his 15th game to match a career high as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs 5-4 Monday night, reducing their magic number for clinching the NL East to 10.

Smith (15-10) won his third consecutive start, despite allowing home runs to Hector Villanueva and George Bell. Smith went 15-10 for Atlanta in 1987.

Smith, 3-0 against Chicago this season, gave up six hits in eight innings and Roger Mason finished for his third save.

The Pirates rallied for three runs in the sixth against Frank Castillo (6-5). Steve Buechele started the inning with a double and scored on Jose Lind's single. Orlando Merced then hit his 10th homer and fourth against the Cubs this season.

Bell led off the fourth with his 25th homer. With Andre Dawson's 28 home runs, the Cubs have two outfielders with 25 or more for the first time since 1961 when George Altman hit 27 and Billy Williams had 25.

Villanueva gave the Cubs a 2-0 lead in the second with his 10th homer after Bell's single.

The Pirates tied the score in the second. Mike LaValliere singled with one out and Lind followed with a double. When Dawson mishandled the ball in right field for an error, LaValliere scored. Smith grounded a single up the middle to drive in the second run.

In the third, Doug Dascenzo singled and scored on Ryne Sandberg's double to put the Cubs ahead.

Cardinals 3, Phillies 0

PHILADELPHIA — The only spell Jose DeJesus was under was cast by the St. Louis Cardinals.

After another wild outing against last week, DeJesus suggested he might turn to hypnotism for the secret of control. But DeJesus did not use hypnosis for his start againt the Cardinals, and ended up walking five in 1 1-3 innings as St. Louis beat Philadelphia 3-0.

"It looked like DeJesus was fighting himself out there," Phillies manager Jim Fregosi said. "The relievers did well but we just didn't get hits when we had to."

Last week, DeJesus spoke with Gus Hoefling, the club's strength and flexibility instructor. Hoefling, who has dabbled in hypnotism, said he wouldn't get involved unless general manager Lee Thomas and Fregosi approved.

In 163 innings this season, DeJesus has walked 116.

Bob Tewksbury (10-11) gave up seven hits, struck out four and walked one before Willie Fraser relieved to start the eighth. Lee Smith got the last three outs for his major league-leading 41st save.

It was the Cardinals' fifth shutout of the season — all combined.

"The humidity was really bad," Tewksbury said. "It especially bothered me after I had to run the bases in the second inning. I've been working hard on several things lately. I've been having trouble with my tempo and rhythm, plus my curveball has been looping."

Padres 6, Astros 1

SAN DIEGO — Thomas Howard drove in five runs, including a three-run homer to break a scoreless tie in the seventh inning, as San Diego beat Houston.

Howard spoiled the major-league debut of starter Brian Williams (0-1) when he hit his fourth homer of the season, helping send the Astros to their eighth loss in nine games.

Greg Harris (6-5) allowed one run and eight hits in 7⅔ innings for the victory and Larry Andersen finished for his 10th save. The win improved the Padres' September record to 11-4.

The Padres added three runs in the eighth off reliever Al Osuna on a run-scoring single by Tony Fernandez and Howard's two-run single.

Williams, who began the season at the Class A level, allowed six hits in seven innings with two strikeouts and three walks.

Rocket concussion is minor

TORONTO (AP) — The concussion Rocket Ismail sustained Sunday probably won't keep him out of any CFL games, Toronto Argonauts general manager Mike McCarthy said Monday.

Ismail was injured when he was speared by Calgary's Dan Wicklum during a kick return in the Stampeders' 33-24 victory. He spent the night in a Calgary hospital but returned home with the team Monday afternoon.

"He's fine," McCarthy said. "He should be OK to play Saturday night" when the Argonauts play host to Edmonton.

Despite Ismail's speedy recovery, McCarthy said the issue is far from settled. He will send a tape of the second-quarter incident to the league office on Tuesday.

Drug Agreements

Sports Drug Policies
By The Associated Press
A Capsule Look at the anti-drug policies and programs in major-league sports:

BASEBALL
Baseball and the Major League Baseball Players Association agreed to a joint drug program on June 21, 1984, after owners backed off their demand for random testing. Owners terminated the agreement on Oct. 22, 1985 and began to demand for drug-testing clauses in individual contracts.
Arbitrator Thomas Roberts voided the drug-testing clauses in a grievance decision during 1986, saying the matter had to be collectively bargained.
Owners announced their own drug plan on March 15, 1988, but the union has not agreed to it. Whenever a drug issue arises, penalties and rehabilitation are negotiated between the player's agent, the union and the owner's Player Relations Committee.

FOOTBALL
NFL
Under the Collective Bargaining Agreement between the National Football League and the Players Association, players may be tested during the season only if the team doctor feels there is "reasonable cause" to suspect a drug problem. Players are required undergo urinalysis as part of their mandatory preseason physical.
The existing drug program involves education, rehabilitation, discipline and confidentiality.
Players with problems are encouraged to volunteer for help. Teams will then send them to outside rehabilitation centers at team expense.
Repeat offenders or players in trouble with the law because of drugs risk suspension or other disciplinary action.

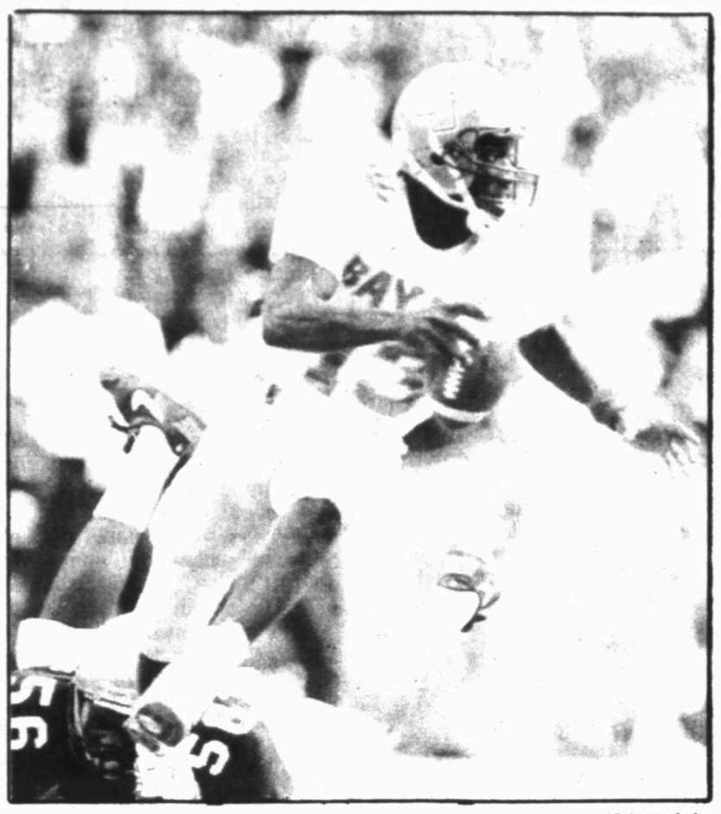

HOCKEY
The National Hockey League handles each drug case individually, with a League investigation and a decision by Commissioner John Ziegler regarding punishment. How the courts handle a particular case seems to have little impact on the League's action.
For instance, in 1984 Ric Nattress of the Montreal Canadiens was caught with a small amount of marijuana and was fined by the courts but was suspended for a full season by Ziegler, who later changed the suspension to 30 games. Don Murdoch was suspended for a season for cocaine possession a few years ago but also had it shortened, to a half-season.
NHL security forces tour all training camps and explain the League policy on drugs and where to go for help. The League has no set procedures for drug rehabilitation.
Ziegler has said he will hand out severe punishment for any drug involvement by players, coaches, management, trainers — anyone connected with a team.

BASKETBALL
Any National Basketball Association player who is convicted of, or pleads guilty to, a crime involving the use or distribution of heroin or cocaine would be permanently barred from the League.
Under the "illegal use" provision, an independent expert in the field of drug abuse prevention would review information made available to the NBA or the players association.
Any player who voluntarily comes forward to seek treatment of a drug problem will be provided with counseling and medical treatment, at the club expense, with no penalty inposed.
A player who, after previously requesting and receiving treatment for a drug problem, comes forward a second time to seek such treatment would be suspended without pay during the treatment but receive no further penalty. Any subsequent drug use, even if voluntarily disclosed, would result in immediate permanent dismissal.
The barred player may, after a two-year period, apply for reinstatement and may return to active duty in the NBA only upon approval of both the League and the Players Association.

Bears save SWC reputation

■ Baylor's upset of Colorado gives the Southwest Conference a much needed shot in the arm.

Associated Press

WACO — Baylor coach Grant Teaff stopped short of saying that he saved the Southwest Conference's national reputation Saturday. It was on his mind, though.

The Bears' 16-14 victory over defending national champion Colorado did a lot to erase a dismal showing by Southwest Conference teams in showcase games. But Teaff said Monday afternoon that last weekend's contest won't mean much if things don't fall into place for the Bears.

"There was a lot of pressure, a lot of heat on the Bears," Teaff said. "It was on our minds. But it wasn't the driving force behind what we were trying to do, we do have other goals.

"It was a plus for the conference and we're glad it worked out like that."

The victory pushed Baylor to a No. 14 spot in The Associated Press football rankings, up from 23, and its highest ranking since 1986 when the Bears were 12th.

Baylor faces another Big Eight foe, Missouri, this weekend. The Tigers beat Illinois 23-19 Saturday.

"We're not exactly the little sisters of the poor and haven't been for the past 20 years," Teaff said. "This is not the end of the season for us. It means absolutely nothing if we don't build on it and turn it into something."

The Bears snuffed out the nation's longest winning streak at 11. The last time a Baylor team beat a ranked team was in 1986 with a victory over 10th- ranked Arkansas.

"I was exactly the kind of game that I thought it would be," Teaff said. "I hope my credibility doesn't hinge on being right about one game."

Teaff considers the victory his biggest road win since handling Southern Cal in 1985.

"I'm just now coming down off of this win," said Santana Dotson, whose last-minute block of a field goal help set up Baylor's winning score. "This made us feel tremendous.

"I looked up and I was so deep in the backfield that I could have waited on the kicker."

The 6-foot-5, 264-pound tackle suffered a sprained ankle, but is probable for the Missouri game.

The Bears have now won eight of its last 11 games and are 2-0 for the first time since 1988.

For Missouri coach Bob Stull, the Baylor victory was no surprise.

"I kind of predicted that," he said Monday. "I knew how strong Baylor's defense was. I thought there was a chance Baylor would win. It may have surprised a lot of people around the country, but not me."

Missouri holds a 3-1 edge in the series, and the last time the two played in 1987, the Tigers earned a 23-19 victory.

Texas, which was ranked No. 13 in the nation two weeks ago, lost its opener on the road to then unranked Mississippi State, the new home of former head coach Jackie Sherrill. The Baylor win helped ease the conference felt pain of that loss.

Central stunner not the big game

Two days after Central stunned then-No. 18 Michigan State 20-3, the biggest banner was the "'State' of Shock" headline in the student newspaper, Central Michigan Life.

Oh, everybody was happy at what experts called the biggest victory in the school's football history, but several said it didn't match the excitement of playing Western Michigan, the Chippewas archrival in the Mid-American Conference.

"It wasn't like a Western weekend," said Steve Fife of Royal Oak, Mich., as several students lounged on the porch at the Sigma Pi fraternity.

Still, the victory was the main talk at the university of some 17,000 students more known for its partying than its athletic prowess.

"Even the professors talked about it," student Muary Costantini said.

"We had so many of our kids down there, I think they partied down there," said Fred Stabley Jr., sports information director at Central Michigan.

Stabley said the Chippewas — last year's MAC champion — immediately attracted media attention after the game, their first ever against Michigan State. Sports Illustrated contacted the school, and coach Herb Deromedi appeared on two or three radio talk shows.

"It's been fun to ride the tidal wave," Stabley said. "I think probably, except for the die-hard CMU fans, only the two buses of Chippewa players thought they had a chance."

Mary Coxon, assistant manager at the university bookstore, said there were "a lot more smiles on campus." She said one company is making a commemorative shirt stating, "I was there — 20-3."

"I will make a nice souvenir for the kids who were there," Coxon said. "It was a good upper for everybody. Generally, we don't get rowdy until the Western game."

She added, tongue-in-cheek, "Michigan State, we just beat them as a matter of course."

The Morning Sun, the local paper, called the victory "the Chippewas' finest win ever."

"I think it lends a little credibility to the university's athletics and the Mid-American Conference," Stabley said. "It shows on any given day, the Mid-American Conference can play with anybody.

"We're pretty good and we're pretty big. We have plenty of size. I think a lot of people didn't believe it could happen."

Michigan State coach George Perles said Monday that his team "got beat fair and square. No excuses. I hate to see someone lose and then take away the thunder from the team that won. That's not fair.

"We didn't lay over, we didn't belly up, we got beat. We got beat and all losses hurt."

This loss knocked the Spartans out of the top 25 and talk of the upset dominated the college football shows on Saturday.

"If we lose, we're going to have to take what comes with it," Perles said. "We lost the game, so we have to take the humility that comes with it."

Although Costantini said "everyone was pretty well going nuts" Saturday, many students had calmed down by Monday.

"My best friend goes to State, I had to rub it in," said Andrea Yost of Mount Pleasant. "That's all we're known for, partying."

"People in my classes have briefly mentioned it,' said Joe Grigas, a senior from East Lansing. "Classes come first. Over the weekend, there was a lot of fun."

"People were shocked and happy," said Julie Juodawlkis, a senior from Livonia.

Unexpected Duck burns Texas Tech

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Heading into last weekend's game against Oregon, Texas Tech figured it would have to stop the Ducks' Sean Burwell, who led the nation in rushing after the first week of the season.

What the Red Raiders didn't plan on was the quick feet of redshirt freshman quarterback Danny O'Neil, who consistently dodged tacklers in the backfield and scrambled to convert several key third-down plays in the Ducks 28-13 victory over Tech (1-1) Saturday night.

"We allowed (O'Neil) to get out and run and he did a good job of that and that breaks your back," Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes said during his weekly news conference.

"Numerous times we had them third-and-7 and he would run and make 8, or third-and-12 and he would make 13. He did an excellent job. The containment we lost was from trying too hard and lacking a little discipline. I think we can repair that."

Dykes said his team is still recovering from its battle with Oregon's massive offensive line.

"After most any game you are a little sore," Dykes said. "But our team is really sore and that is because those Oregon guys are 6-foot-6 and weigh 290 pounds. When you go up against that for 60 minutes it takes its toll."

Dykes said the offense played well at times but could not overcome three turnovers. The Red Raiders passed and rushed for 340 yards.

Dykes said his team will have to eliminate turnovers and improve its intensity this week on the road against Wyoming (1-2).

"Our team responded well after the (Oregon) ballgame," Dykes said. "I think they were sorry they lost the game. I think they understand we could have won the game and realize there is no unrepairable damage."

Dykes says his team will have to ignore the distractions of playing Wyoming on natural grass on the road at 7,000-feet elevation.

"You can go make a big issue about grass, playing away from home, altitude, mountain standard time, or whatever," Dykes said. "But we just need to go up there and tee it up and play football. Maybe I'm crazy but those things shouldn't affect the game."

Dykes said he was impressed with Wyoming quarterback Tom Corontzos.

Texas rebound must come on national TV

AUSTIN (AP) — Coach David McWilliams of Texas said Monday Longhorn fans shouldn't expect wholesale changes in the football team, despite a disappointing 13-6 opening game loss to Mississippi State.

Texas, which fell from No. 13 out of the Top 25 in the college rankings, will try to rebound against Auburn, another Southeastern Conference team.

The Saturday game, on ESPN national television, will be Texas' home opener. Kickoff is at 6:32 p.m., CST, and a sellout crowd exceeding 77,809 is expected.

Auburn was ranked No. 15 before defeating Mississippi last Saturday to raise its record to 2-0.

"I think you have to write the whole thing off," McWilliams said of the Mississippi State loss. "You have to come off of it and show that you're a better football team. That's just pride, and I think that's exactly what this team will do."

McWilliams was asked at his weekly news conference if it would be important not to make "wholesale changes."

"That's my philosophy," McWilliams said. "As a general rule, most coaches aren't going to completely change everything in the world because of one game. ... We made a few changes but not wholesale."

Willie Mack Garza will replace Van Malone at safety, with Malone moving to second-team cornerback.

Injuries continued to cut into Texas' depth even though the Longhorns did not play last Saturday.

Robert Reed, a special teams player and backup linebacker, broke his left foot in practice Wednesday and will miss the remainder of the season.

McWilliams said wide receiver Mike Davis, the team's fastest player, and linebacker Winfred Tubbs remained sidelined with injuries, and wide receiver Justin McLemore has a sore back.

All four of the defensive front were rested with injuries but are expected to practice this week.

Cowboys trade Jesse Solomon

IRVING (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys on Monday traded disgruntled linebacker Jesse Solomon to the New England Patriots for an undisclosed draft choice next season.

Solomon, who came to the Cowboys in 1989 from the Minnesota Vikings as part of the Herschel Walker trade, walked out of the Cowboys camp Aug. 21 after hearing he'd been demoted to the second team.

Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson said then that trading Solomon was a possibility.

Solomon missed all of the Cowboys training camp last year in a contract dispute. He reported to Dallas after the seventh regular season game, but caused a stir when he refused to shake Cowboys owner Jerry Jones' hand.

Agency to appeal LTV ruling

■ Pension-insurance agency opposes decision that LTV, in bankruptcy proceedings, can repay only a fraction of its plan.

Associated Press

NEW YORK — The federal agency that insures pension plans said today it will appeal a judge's ruling that the LTV Corp.'s underfunded pension plans should not receive preferential treatment over other claims.

The ruling could permit companies operating under bankruptcy-law proceedings to repay only a fraction of their pension liabilities.

That would force the pension-insurance agency to cover any shortfall in a company's pension plans.

"This ruling rips large holes in the pension safety net for 40 million Americans," said James Lockhart, executive director of the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corp.

"If allowed to stand, it will encourage companies to shed billions of dollars in pension responsibility, forcing PBGC, its premium payers and potentially taxpayers to bail them out," he said.

He said without priority claims, the PBGC could lose nearly $2 billion in the LTV case alone from the termination of its pension plans.

Lockhart called for legislative action to "strengthen the pension safety net" by stipulating that pension funding payments should be made by companies in bankruptcy just like wages are and be treated as priority ongoing expenses.

Judge Kevin Duffy of U.S. District Court issued the ruling late Friday.

Other courts had previously given priority to underfunded pension plans, allowing them to be paid before other debts.

LTV, which has been in bankruptcy proceedings for about five years, has an $3.1 billion in pension liabilities, according to estimates by the pension insurance agency.

Jim Bowman, spokesman for LTV, said today that the company was still studying and analyzing the decision. "We're not to a point to where we want to comment on it," he said.

In his ruling, Duffy agreed with LTV and upheld a previous ruling by Judge Burton R. Lifland of U.S. Bankruptcy Court that the pension-fund liabilities existed prior to its bankrupcy law filing.

The pension agency had argued that the liabilities didn't arise until LTV rejected responsibility for the pension plans after its bankruptcy filing.

Bankruptcy law requires that most liabilities existing before a company's bankruptcy filing get relatively equal treatment in a reorganization plan.

Prices climb

NEW YORK — Oil prices rallied modestly Monday on a report that Iraq may be incapable of exporting as much crude as traders had thought previously.
West Texas Intermediate for delivery in October settled at $21.82 per barrel, up 14 cents, at the New York Mercantile Exchange. On Friday, crude had moved up 15 cents a barrel. Monday's session was quiet, but prices were given a boost from the report in Petroleum Intelligence Weekly indicating the Iraqis might be able to export just 500,000 barrels of crude each day from the Kirkuk fields. Citing sources it did not identify, the trade publication reported that the Iraqis could not even maintain that low level of exports for long without an infusion of $1 billion in spare parts and other equipment. Before the invasion of Kuwait, Iraq has been exporting about 3.14 million barrels per day.

Mesa buys into auto engine firm

■ Pickens announces $2 million investment in company that designs engines which run on natural gas.

Associated Press

DETROIT — Energy company Mesa Limited Partnership is investing $2 million in a company that designs and develops car engines that burn natural gas, general partner T. Boone Pickens said Monday.

Pickens

Pickens chose the home of the Big Three automakers to announce the purchase of a 70 percent stake in CleanFuels Inc., based in Martinsburg, W. Va.

Pickens criticized General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. for what he called their slow development of cars and trucks that run on fuels other than gasoline.

"It's time for the Big Three to do something rather than ready, aim, aim, aim," said Pickens, whose Dallas-based Mesa partnership is one of the nation's largest independent natural gas producers.

He said ethanol is too expensive, electric vehicles are a gimmick, and methanol eventually would become a form of imported energy the way crude oil is today.

Automakers have been making some progress in developing vehicles that run on alternative fuels. They are developing a commercial electric car that will help meet California's mandate that 2 percent of cars in that state be pollution-free by 1998.

Pickens announced the CleanFuels purchase at a news conference before addressing the Economic Club of Detroit.

He said he made the announcement in Detroit "to send a message to Detroit's automakers."

"If this really makes sense, I just hope the Big Three moves out on the play and beats the Japanese to the punch. But not just the Japanese, I'd like to beat all the foreign manufacturers on this," Pickens said.

New charter service

AvStar Aviation, a new aircraft charter service for business and personal use began operations Monday at Midland International Airport. The company, at 9619 Wright Dr., offers three aircraft: an Aero-Commander 690B, a Cessna 340 and a Piper Aerostar. Joe McShane III, president says the aircraft will be able to provide 300 mph flights for eight passengers and at 200 mph flights for five passenger throughout the U.S., Canada, Caribbean and Mexico.

Frito-Lay eliminates 1,800 jobs

DALLAS (AP) — Frito-Lay Inc. on Monday eliminated 1,800 administrative and management jobs, about 7 percent of its work force, to help restore profits being crunched by cost-cutting competitors in the snack food industry.

Nearly half the reduction, 800 jobs, was at Frito-Lay's headquarters in suburban Plano and its administrative center near downtown Dallas. The rest were spread through its 260 U.S. manufacturing and distribution centers across the country.

Frito-Lay, the nation's leading maker of potato chips and salty snacks, aims to save $100 million annually with the reduction, part of restructuring that began two years ago and will proceed with a complete re-evaluation of product lines.

"Our view of the marketplace and consumers' continual pursuit of products offering the best value forces us to take a hard look at every facet of our business and take serious action," Frito-Lay chairman Roger Enrico said in a statement.

The savings will be used develop new marketing strategies and products, Enrico said.

The company's parent, Pepsico Inc. of Purchase, N.Y., will take a $100 million pretax charge against its third-quarter earnings, largely because of the restructuring at Frito-Lay.

The announcement drove Pepsico's stock price down. It was trading off 50 cents a share at $29 and was the second-most active stock by midafternoon on the New York Stock Exchange.

Frito-Lay earned one-third of Pepsico's $2.2 billion operating profit last year. The subsidiary and an overseas unit form Pepsico's snack foods division, which outperformed soft drink and restaurant operations in profit last year.

During the first six months of this year, Frito-Lay's sales rose 10 percent, but its pretax operating profit fell 5 percent as competitors such as Keebler Co., Borden Inc., and Anheuser-Busch Cos. mounted aggressive price-cutting strategies in supermarkets.

In addition to the larger number of major companies selling salty snacks, the competition has become more intense because there is a smaller population of children and teen-agers, adults have become more discerning about the healthiness of snacks, and other food producers, like fruit growers, have become better marketers.

"The natural growth within the snack food industry is at a standstill," said Jane Wuerthner, managing editor of Snack World magazine. "There are no more customers to gain. In order to gain customers, you have to take them from somewhere else."

Frito-Lay dominates the industry. Four out of 10 buyers of salty snacks at supermarkets last year grabbed Fritos, Doritos, Lays potato chips or the scores of variations the company markets.

To maintain that lead and improve its financial performance, company officials and analysts said, Frito-Lay will have to cut costs, lower prices and develop more products.

"We live in an age of channel hoppers. People are always looking for something new and exciting," Goldman said. "Frito has to enlarge its product line to satisfy the channel hopper."

More decisions will be made by local employees, reducing the need for some headquarters staff, said company spokeswoman Beverly Holmes.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

FDIC covers principal, interest to $100,000

By Bill Doyle

Q. Three years ago, I opened a bank savings account with a deposit of $50,000. This has earned about $3,000 interest each year, all of which I have withdrawn, to augment my pension and Social Security benefits. Recently, I read the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. only covers principal on an account.

Doyle

In the event my bank should fail, does this mean my account is insured for the original $50,000 principal, or for only about $41,000 — the original principal less the three years' interest earned but withdrawn?

A. Put your worries aside. Either you misunderstood what you read about FDIC coverage or what you read was dead wrong. All your money in that account — principal and interest — is fully covered by FDIC and will remain so until the total tops $100,000.

FDIC covers interest on insured accounts right up to the day a bank fails. In the unhappy event your bank goes bust and has to be liquidated, you will receive your principal and all your accrued interest.

Q. In 1984, my wife opened an individual retirement account with a 12.99 percent certificate of deposit, which will mature in 1994. The bank at which she has the IRA CD is now being taken over by another bank. It's a merger arranged by the government's Resolution Trust Corp. As you have stressed, in a situation such as this, the new bank has the right to reduce the interest rates on previously issued CDs.

Nothing has happened yet. Is my wife bound to continue with this arrangement until 1994? If the new bank does cut the interest rate, does that make the CD null and void, enabling my wife to withdraw the entire sum and, within 60 days, roll it over to an IRA elsewhere, without any penalty from the bank or the Internal Revenue Service?

A. First off, as long as the new bank does not reduce the interest on your CD, sit tight and count your blessings. A 12.99 percent interest rate on a CD with FDIC coverage is fantastically high. Enjoy it while it lasts.

Chances are, that won't be very long. The new bank most likely will want to get extra-high-yielding CDs off its books by exercising its right to cut rates.

If — more likely "when" — that happens, the bank won't declare the CD null and void. But your wife will be able to accomplish the same thing within two weeks after being notified of the interest rate cut.

During that time, she can get all of her money out of the CD — principal and accrued interest — and the bank will not be able to levy a penalty. Then, she can move the money to an IRA elsewhere within 60 days to keep it tax deferred and free from IRS penalty.

Q. I have several thousand dollars in cash my mother gave me years ago. Most of it is in $20 bills. What would be the best investment for me, as I am 66 years old and would like to draw some kind of interest to go along with my Social Security?

A. As has often been stressed in this space, no one can tell you the "best" investment. There are so many different types of investments available it is impossible to predict which one will be the top performer in the future. Past results are no assurance of what will happen from here on out.

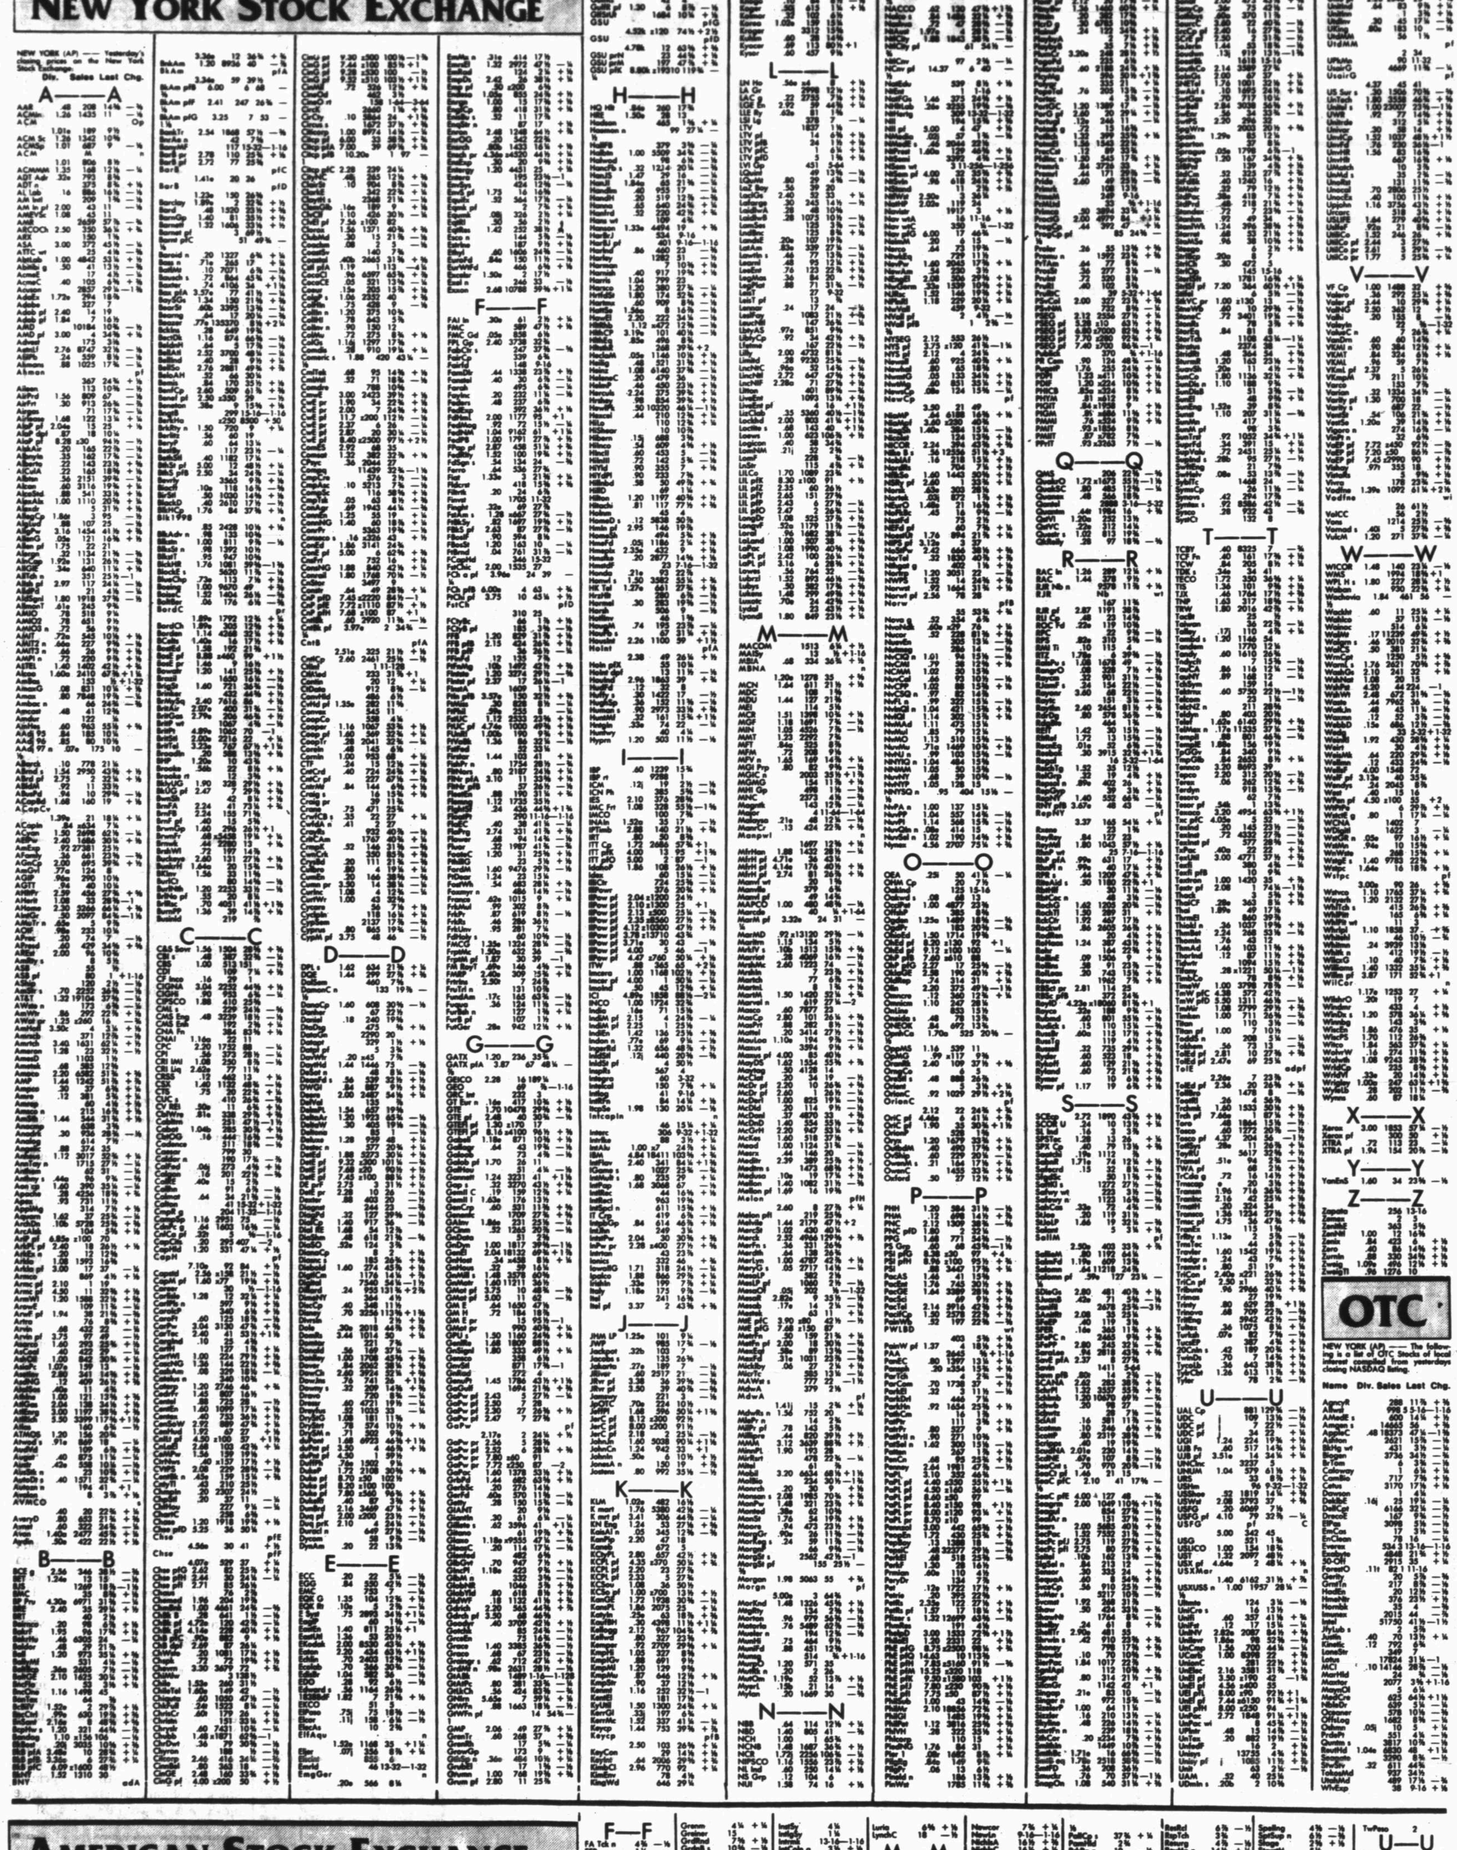

A CD at a bank or savings and loan association would be a wise choice for you. The money will be rock-solid safe, because of FDIC coverage. It will earn the going rate of interest.

Obtain a CD as soon as possible. You made a terrible mistake hanging on to that money as currency. Besides running the risk of being stolen, those thousands of dollars have been sterile — earning no interest. If you had put the money into a CD years ago, you would have a larger nest egg now and a more financially secure retirement.

September 17, 24, 1991

The Airline Mobile Park water system collected four water samples on August 5, 1991 that contained coliform bacteria. The Airline Mobile Home Park System is required to submit a minimum of one water sample each month for bacteriological analysis.

The Texas Department of Health sets drinking water standards in Texas and has determined that the presence of total coliforms is a possible health concern. Total coliforms are common in the environment and are not generally harmful themselves. The presence of these bacteria in drinking water, however, generally is the result of a problem with the water treatment or the pipes which distribute the water, and indicates that the water may be contaminated with organisms that can cause the water may be contaminated with organisms that can cause disease. Disease symptoms may include diarrhea, cramps, nausea, and possibly jaundice, and any associated headaches and fatigue. These symptoms, however, are not just associated with disease cause organisms in drinking water, but also may be caused by a number of factors other than your drinking water. The Texas Department of Health has set an enforceable drinking water standard of total coliforms to reduce the risk of these adverse health effects. Under this standard, no more than 5.0 percent of the samples collected during a month can contain these bacteria. Except that systems collecting fewer than 40 samples/month that have one total coliform-positive sample per month are not violating this standard. Drinking water which meets this standard is usually not associated with a health risk from disease-causing bacteria and should be considered safe.

If you have any questions regarding this matter you may contact Larry E. Mitchell of the Texas Department of Health at 1-512-458-7497.

MOONLIGHTING!
The Midland Reporter-Telegram has several distributorships which need to be filled with responsible individuals.
OFTEN ASKED QUESTIONS:
Is it worthwhile for adults also?
Yes! Our current distributor force is already 90% adult and 10% youth. Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:
• ADULTS who have full-time jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
• MOTHERS who can't justify a small job and daycare, because as a distributor, you do not need daycare!
• COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
• SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends.
How much money can I make as a distributor?
Depending on the size of the distributorship from $300 to $700 monthly! Some make even more!
How long does it take?
The actually delivery takes 1 - 2 hours Monday - Saturday, and 2 - 3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the distributorship. Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many distributors choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subscribers' papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!
When do papers have to be delivered by?
6 a.m. Monday - Friday and 7 a.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.
Do I ever get a day off?
The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, distributors do take days off by finding a friend or family member to substitute for them!
