

TODAY'S WEATHER

BIG SPRING AND VICINITY: Partly cloudy with scattered afternoon and evening showers Sunday and Monday. Little change in temperature. High today 92; Low tonight 60; High Tomorrow 90.

34th Year . . . No. 24

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

Member Associated Press
Member Audit Bureau of Circulations

Big Spring, Texas, Sunday, July 2, 1961

40 Pages
3 Sections

INSIDE THE HERALD

| Page                 | Page                      |
|----------------------|---------------------------|
| Amusements . . . 2-D | Oil News . . . 4-B        |
| Comics . . . 6-D     | Sports . . . 1, 2, 3, 5-B |
| Dear Abby . . . 5-D  | TV Log . . . 6-B          |
| Editorials . . . 2-D | Women's News . . . Sec. C |

5¢ Daily . . . 15¢ Sunday

President Gets Bank Charter

Bank Examiner James O. Crane of Odessa, left, handed the charter for Coahoma's new bank to President Bill Read, and the bank was ready for business Saturday morning.

The First Deposit Is Made

A. W. Thompson, right, resident of Coahoma, and employee at Webb AFB, makes the first deposit in the new bank at 9:25 a.m. Saturday. President Bill Read makes out the first deposit slip.

New Coahoma Bank Has 2,500 Visitors Saturday

COAHOMA — This city's new bank opened at 9 a.m. Saturday before a houseful of customers, well-wishers and officials. Throughout the day there was a heavy flow of traffic to celebrate hometown banking service here after a lapse of three decades.

Scarcely had President Bill Read received the charter from James O. Crane, Odessa, state bank examiner, than A. W. (Arch) Thompson, long-time resident of Coahoma and civil service employee at Webb AFB, made the first deposit. Next in line were L. T. King and V. A. Whittington on behalf of Cosden Petroleum Corporation.

Lined up and ready to greet all visitors to the new institution on the "final" opening were Read, Cashier Weldon Estes, Teller-bookkeepers Mrs. A. D. Greenfield and Mrs. Grover J. Bright, and the directors J. O. Nixon, R. D. Garrett, Mrs. Viola O'Donnell, R. A. Foster, Briggs Todd, Ed Carpenter, Ed Martin, and Carl Bates.

The new building had every available space filled with flowers sent by friends and business firms congratulating the Coahoma State Bank. Some were sent by Dallas, Big Spring and local area banks.

All visitors to the new bank registered and were given badges with their names typed on. A table was set up in the rear of the work room and punch and cakes were served after the opening ceremony.

"I am well pleased with the turnout of friends for the opening," Read said.

Estes said late in the day that more than 2,500 people had visited the bank. He also said that more than 500 accounts had been opened. No loans were made.

"People from all over the area have come in and registered, and we had a couple from Illinois in," he said. "They were visiting relatives here."

Some officials and employees of Big Spring banks were on hand in the tellers' cages to assist in getting the work started off for the opening.

Residents of Coahoma could walk just a few blocks Saturday to do their banking for the first time in nearly 30 years. The First State Bank of Coahoma served the eastern part of Howard County from 1907-08 until the early 1930s when the depression years and drought forced the bank to close.

"The bank now reflects the growth of Coahoma and the confidence of those who have made it possible," Read said Saturday.

"The industry and farming interests surrounding the city indicate that the future will be gratifying and we hope to grow in service as the community grows."

Coahoma's growth has recently called for addition to the school plant, purchase of a fire truck, new buildings, and the need for more water for the future. The city has employed an engineer to work with the City of Big Spring to increase the water supply to take care of a population of twice what Coahoma now has.

WITHOUT INJUNCTION

Prospects Of Ending Maritime Strike Dim

NEW YORK (AP)—Prospects of ending the maritime strike without a Taft-Hartley injunction suddenly darkened Saturday. The President's fact-finding board said the likelihood wasn't good.

Board Chairman David L. Cole said all mediation efforts in the two-week walkout of 85,000 officers and crewmen would end at noon Sunday.

The board then will start preparing its report that will be submitted to President Kennedy Monday and probably will lead to an injunction to halt the strike for an 80-day cooling-off period.

"The likelihood — prospects — are not good that we will have reached an agreement between all the unions and employer groups by noon Sunday—which means the ships don't sail," Cole said.

He said the negotiations had been making great progress in a number of directions, but he noted that one union or employer group could prevent a complete settlement.

The strike has idled some 200 ships on Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific coasts.

The fact-finding board came here to gather data on whether the strike's effects were serious.

Colored Asphalt Is New Move

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Yellow, red, off-white and black asphalt will be introduced on Illinois highways soon.

W. J. Payes Jr., state public works director, said Saturday the colored asphalt eliminates pavement glare and extends headlight vision.

He said yellow asphalt would be used at approaches to intersections. Intersections would be paved with red asphalt to signal the need for caution.

One Small Ad—Eight Calls!

One day's insertion of this Herald Want Ad—cost, just 90¢—got eight phone calls and, of course, got the job done.

2 LARGE BEDROOMS, AIR conditioned, Garage. Located 207 Calverton, APT 205 Galveston, AM 4-4377.

This is a daily story—proof that Herald Want Ads get results, promptly and at low cost. Whatever your requirements, you can profit with Herald Want Ads.

Coahoma celebrated the return of hometown banking service Saturday, and a large crowd turned out to see the new Coahoma State Bank take on its first depositors. This is one more step in Co-

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

Last week was a busy week, but above all it was a tragic week. Three people—J. L. (Red) Brantley, 33, Marie Foster, 13, and Sidney E. Foster Jr., 5—were hurt fatally in a car-pickup crash on the Snyder highway at the Gail Road intersection. Before the week was out a pickup carrying Randolph Freeman Jr., 17, and Kennedy Nelson, 18, both of Midland, careened out of control 10 miles east of Garden City, and they died in the flaming wreckage.

Vernon Wayne Dobbs could count it as his lucky week, however. His gravel truck ran under a trailer loaded with pipe, and he was pinned in his crushed cab for 40 minutes. Fortunately, he escaped with a cut, bruises and shaken nerves.

Joan Bratcher will carry our hopes in the Texas eliminations of the Miss America contest next month in Beaumont. The Jaycee-sponsored contest here saw last year's winners moving up a notch. Joan was runner-up then in the senior division, and Sandra Baker, last year's junior winner, moved to runner-up in the senior division. Suzanne Compton continued as runner-up in the junior group.

Coahoma celebrated the return of hometown banking service Saturday, and a large crowd turned out to see the new Coahoma State Bank take on its first depositors. This is one more step in Co-

Hoffa Seeks Higher Salary, Higher Dues

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—James R. Hoffa was reported Saturday seeking to boost his Teamsters president's annual salary to $75,000 and raise union headquarters dues allotments by more than $10 million a year.

The salary tilt would make the head of the nation's largest labor union also the highest paid. Hoffa now gets $50,000, a sum matched by presidents David J. McDonald of the Steelworkers and Thomas Kennedy of the Mine Workers as well as retired Teamsters boss Dave Beck.

The salary tilt would make the head of the nation's largest labor union also the highest paid. Hoffa now gets $50,000, a sum matched by presidents David J. McDonald of the Steelworkers and Thomas Kennedy of the Mine Workers as well as retired Teamsters boss Dave Beck.

Hoffa, charged with rigging the earlier election, is trying to make sure nobody will have the basis for challenging this one. Accordingly, he has arranged for full movie and tape recordings of all convention proceedings next week.

The Teamsters president, who is 48, greeted the more than 2,000 incoming delegates from all sections of the nation and Canada in a hospitality suite in the plush Carlton Hotel.

The hospitality suite is being paid for out of a $70,000 Hoffa-re-election fund raised from $25 contributions from subordinate union officials. Convention sessions will be in the Napoleon Room of the nearby Deauville, another lavish Florida hotel.

Hoffa, however, reportedly persuaded fellow union chiefs to raise the per capita allotment still higher to $1 monthly which would boost the annual yield to the national union to around $18 million. Average union membership is 1.5 million but it climbs seasonally to 1.7 million.

ALLOTMENT
An increased per capita allotment of this size would probably require local unions to raise monthly dues collection amounts from individual union members.

Hoffa called for a per-capita tax increase on the union's average 1.5 million membership at the special convention summoned to elect him to a new five-year term.

Getting himself re-elected, a matter regarded as a mere formality, is the final step necessary for the former Detroit grecery warehouseman to extricate himself from a legal morass resulting from his initial election four years ago, which was challenged.

Hoffa, charged with rigging the earlier election, is trying to make sure nobody will have the basis for challenging this one. Accordingly, he has arranged for full movie and tape recordings of all convention proceedings next week.

The Teamsters president, who is 48, greeted the more than 2,000 incoming delegates from all sections of the nation and Canada in a hospitality suite in the plush Carlton Hotel.

The hospitality suite is being paid for out of a $70,000 Hoffa-re-election fund raised from $25 contributions from subordinate union officials. Convention sessions will be in the Napoleon Room of the nearby Deauville, another lavish Florida hotel.

Hoffa, however, reportedly persuaded fellow union chiefs to raise the per capita allotment still higher to $1 monthly which would boost the annual yield to the national union to around $18 million. Average union membership is 1.5 million but it climbs seasonally to 1.7 million.

ALLOTMENT
An increased per capita allotment of this size would probably require local unions to raise monthly dues collection amounts from individual union members.

Hoffa called for a per-capita tax increase on the union's average 1.5 million membership at the special convention summoned to elect him to a new five-year term.

Getting himself re-elected, a matter regarded as a mere formality, is the final step necessary for the former Detroit gre-

Britain Moves In To Bolster Kuwait

Complaint Lodged In UN Against Iraq

KUWAIT (AP)—British commandos, tanks and a fully equipped jet-fighter force moved swiftly into Kuwait Saturday to bolster the desert sheikdom's defenses against threatened annexation by Iraq.

The British show of force was requested by Kuwait's ruler—Sheik Sir Abdullah al-Salim—as Sabah—to support his army and to protect the rich oil fields that provide 40 per cent of Britain's oil supplies.

ABABIA
Kuwait radio said help also was on the way from Saudi Arabia. King Saud was reported to have dispatched Arabian troops to supplement Kuwait's 2,400-man army and several thousand armed Bedouin tribesmen who are arrayed against the threat from the north.

The U.N. Security Council meanwhile scheduled an emergency meeting in New York Sunday morning to consider a Kuwait complaint that Iraq is threatening the independence of the former British protectorate on the Persian Gulf.

The Mecca radio reported that the Saudi Arabian air and defense ministries recalled all officers and men from leave. Cairo monitors said U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser said Saudi Arabian Foreign Minister Ibrahim el Suwail conferred for a second time Saturday night at Alexandria on the Kuwait situation and "the possibility of an armed clash which would expose Arabs to imperialist interference," it was announced.

QUICK ACTION
British officials said their quick support action was a result of information on new Iraqi movements—apparently meaning that a border buildup had increased.

Earlier reports here said Iraqi troops were mobilizing along the border in preparation for an Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem's claim last Sunday that Kuwait is his country's southern province.

Iraqi tanks and other units of the well-equipped Iraqi army have been sighted at the border the last three days, it was reported.

BASELESS
Radio Baghdad called the mobilization reports baseless and said they were "circulated by foreign agencies so imperialist quarters can fish in troubled waters."

More British forces are on the way but officials here declined to identify them. Even the identity of the commandos was not officially revealed.

The Bulwark's after deck and hangars were filled with support equipment—trucks, antitank guns, anti-aircraft guns, barbed wire and little French Citroen "Ugly Duckling" cars light enough for a helicopter to carry.

The road to the border also was jammed this morning and was blocked with trucks carrying armed Bedouin volunteers to join the defense forces.

Kuwait's 66-year-old ruler requested British aid two days ago. The request was announced just as the British started arriving.

ENDORSED
In Washington Saturday, the United States endorsed Britain's show of force in Kuwait.

The State Department said it hopes the landing of British troops, tanks and jets at Kuwait along with the reported dispatch of Saudi Arabian troops there will help to assure "the preservation of peace."

Meanwhile, press officer Lincoln White said, the United States is urging all the governments involved in the newest Middle Eastern flareup to control their actions in the interest of preserving peace in the Middle East.

The United States itself is planning "no special initiatives," White said.

SATURDAY NIGHT: 200

Holiday Death Toll Climbing Relentlessly

|               |     |
|---------------|-----|
| Traffic       | 140 |
| Blasting      | 10  |
| Drowning      | 21  |
| Miscellaneous | 29  |
| Total         | 200 |

By The Associated Press

Traffic deaths mounted steadily Saturday night as near-perfect weather covered most of the nation through the early stages of the four-day Fourth of July holiday.

Law enforcement authorities and safety officials appealed for caution, common sense and courtesy on the highways as millions of motorists added to the normal flow of weekend travel.

The National Safety Council estimated 450 persons may die in traffic accidents during the 120-hour period between 6 p.m. local time Friday and midnight Tuesday.

A distressing start was made toward this estimate Friday night when 11 persons were killed in a head-on collision in Nevada. It was the worst traffic accident in Nevada's history.

George C. Stewart, executive vice president of the safety council, said the Nevada accident was a "tragic reminder of what can happen on the highways." He renewed the council's plea for courtesy and common sense on the road.

Stewart said the rate of traffic deaths was running ahead of last year's Fourth of July, which was the second highest on record with 442 deaths. There is one more day to this year's holiday.

The council predicted that most of the nation's 74 million vehicles would be in use sometime during the holiday. They would log approximately 10 billion miles, the council estimated.

The record traffic death toll for Independence Day is 491, set in a four-day period in 1950. The low record death toll since World War II for a four-day Independence Day occurred in 1946 when there were 231 traffic deaths.

To compare the death toll for this Independence Day with a non-holiday period, the Associated Press surveyed accident fatalities from 6 p.m. Friday, June 16 to midnight Tuesday, June 20.

ECONOMY STEAMS AHEAD

JFK's New Frontiersmen Shoveling On More Coal

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—The start of the new government year Saturday found the American economy steaming ahead in a robust recovery, with President Kennedy's new frontiersmen still shoveling on more coal.

White House advisers said privately that Kennedy will not repeat what his Council of Economic Advisers considers the mistake of 1959. The error, they claim, was in nipping off a business recovery prematurely by tight money and high-cost credit.

JUMPS
They predict officially that the nation's production rate, which has regained and probably surpassed the pre-recession peak, will rise in jumps averaging $10 billion a quarter for the next year and a half under stimulative government policies.

That would bring total output of goods and services to a $330-billion-a-year rate by the end of 1961 and $570 billion by the end of 1962. This implies boom conditions next year, with gains well above the 4½ per cent annual growth rate that is Kennedy's long-range target.

And Kennedy administration economists are holding in reserve a possible tax reduction. It would be asked of Congress next year but have its full stimulative effect in 1963.

TAX REDUCTION
A tax reduction would be relied on to boost the public's buying power at a time when the prosperity might otherwise tend to begin tapering off into another recession.

By that time, Kennedy's forecasters believe, the program of stepped-up tax incentives, urban renewal, housing, old-age and jobless benefits, credit ease, and bigger outlays on science and education will have established a pattern of substantial growth.

That's the plan. There are many doubters, and their numbers include cautious economists as well as Republicans like former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. They are predicting a bigger-than-ever inflationary cycle of boom-and-bust, built on federal deficits and easy money—unless Congress puts a rein on the administration.

The Kennedy team admits that hazards exist. Inflation is one, they concede, but they consider unemployment the greater problem.

JOBLESSNESS
The consensus of Washington economists is that joblessness, still at the 6.9 per cent recession level, may not dip below 6 per cent at all next year, regardless of prosperity. They say that about the best that can be hoped for, a good many months to come, is that an expanding economy will absorb the rising tide of young wage seekers flowing into the labor force.

It may be 1963, Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon predicted last month, before unemployment is reduced to the tentative goal of the Kennedy administration, 4 per cent.

As for inflation, White House advisers insist there is so much slack in the economy — unused manpower, plant capacity and other resources — that it will be many months before the pull of rising demand on supply forces prices upward, regardless of credit ease and money supply.

STABLE
For the past eight months, consumer prices have been virtually stable. The cost of living has been steady at about 27½ per cent above the 1947-49 average. Wholesale prices have been steady 14 months.

The normal mid-summer bulge in living costs is expected in the next month or two before fresh fruit and vegetable crops come in, but most price experts believe the total price advance this year will be less than 1 per cent.

Nevertheless, administration officials say, inflation is a menace. The threat, they contend, comes from the possibility of generous wage settlements and administered pricing by industrial giants based on the philosophy of what-the-traffic-will-bear.

Tractor Group Needs Money

WASHINGTON (AP)—The disbanded Tractors for Freedom Committee now needs money to pay the cost of returning the money it collected in the prisoner deal with Cuba that failed.

A meeting Wednesday will determine how to go about getting it.

Victor G. Reuther, brother and assistant to United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther, said Saturday the return mailing expense must be raised by voluntary contributions. None of the money given for tractors will be used, he said.

Detroit sources have estimated about 70,000 letters were sent to the committee. How many of these contained contributions is not known because the mail has not been opened.

Leave For Training

Big Spring area members of the National Guard left at 5 o'clock this morning for Fort Hood where they will enter the annual two week summer training program. Sgt. Bob Rogers is checked into the truck by First Sgt. Douglas Hedges. The local contingent is Battery A of the 132nd Rocket Hovitzer Field Artillery Battalion at the 49th Infantry Division.

You'll Find Extraordinary Values
in Big Spring Monday for DOLLAR DAY

'Babies' Get Tender Care

Glady Clinton, Erma Rogers (almost hidden from camera) and Bonnie Osborn (left to right) bottle-feed the latest addition to the family of Mama Cat, a feline who has lived at the Jet Drive-In Theatre here for the past nine years. The three girls work in the concessions booth at the theatre.

Drive-In Is Good Place For Family

By TOMMY HART

Mama, an ancient but still prolific tabby with vague antecedents, probably would make one of the world's best movie critics—but for one thing. She's been too occupied raising families.

The household has made her home at the Jet Drive-In Theatre on U. S. 87 south for the last nine years. During that time, she has given birth to countless kittens—about as often as nature allows.

The latest litter showed up three weeks ago—three kittens, to be exact—and they're doing splendidly. Mama came calling at the concessions house after the blessed event, knowing well that the attendants there would lend assistance in feeding and caring for her offspring.

BENEFACTORS
Between the waitresses in the concessions booth, Glady Clinton, Erma Rogers and Bonnie Osborn, and projectionist Donnie Snyder, the chores of keeping the cats fed are well taken care of.

The baby felines were housed in a telephone booth located just off the runway between the projection room and the concessions building shortly after birth, but they've since been moved—with the blessings of Mama Cat—to more suitable quarters under the air conditioner of the concessions booth. The newest additions to Mama's family have been named Ike, Donnie and Erma. Erma has proved to be the glutton of the family. Food is brought to them by the waitresses—Mama injured her back leg recently and welcomes any help in tending for the babies—and Erma has never been known to turn down any milk. She drinks it as if it were going out of style tomorrow.

PERSEVERING PUSSY
Employees of the Jet are not required to show up for work until late afternoon but the business of establishing a home on the premises has long since become a 24-hour-a-day proposition with Mama Cat. She rarely ventures from the area and invariably greets the first of the theatre's employees who does show up, secure in the knowledge that the wants of her and her brood will be looked after.

When the cat's children grow to maturity, they move on—but not Mama. Her world is a maze of sound-unit posts, symmetrically spaced in front of a movie screen and, during show hours, a mass of cars and people.

How she has escaped being run over by the incoming and outgoing traffic remains a mystery, but her increasing years haven't robbed her of her nimbleness nor—and this is obvious—her penchant for seeking out the companionship of other adult cats.

It's most apparent she believes in families and probably will go on having them, as long as the girls in the concessions booth are willing to lend cooperation in nursing them to maturity.

Cohen Given Jail Term

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ex-mobster Mickey Cohen today was sentenced to 15 years in prison and fined $30,000 for federal income tax evasion.

The onetime boss of West Coast bookies could have received up to 32 years in prison and a $65,000 fine.

Cohen, 47, was convicted Friday by a federal court jury of seven men and five women. It acquitted him on five other counts.

The 13-count indictment was similar to charges on which he was convicted 10 years ago, fined $10,000 and imprisoned for 3½ years.

The jury deliberated 22½ hours before deciding. The trial lasted eight weeks.

Cohen, 5-foot-5, dapper and chubby, clasped his hands and bowed his head when he heard the verdict. His blonde girlfriend, Sandra Hagen, 22, burst into tears.

U.S. Dist. Judge George H. Boldt complimented the jurors on a "discriminating verdict."

Cohen later told newsmen: "They convicted me because I am Mickey Cohen. They thought they had to."

Cemetery Loses Memorial Tablets

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Thieves stole 1,376 bronze memorial tablets from the Remembrance Hall at the Fawkner Cemetery Friday night.

Melted down the tablets would yield bronze worth 5,000 pounds ($11,200).

Senator Lauded As Governor For A Day

AUSTIN — David Ratliff of Stamford, State Senator from the 24th District, was "Governor for a Day" Friday, and political colleagues, friends from over the state and particularly constituents in his 13-county district used the occasion to pay him high tribute.

The day was climaxed with a banquet at the Driskill Hotel Friday night, attended by some 500 guests.

Here speakers lauded Ratliff for his quiet efficiency and his staunch integrity.

During the day he and Mrs. Ratliff had occupied the Governor's suite in the Capitol, and had received well-wishers by the hundreds. And at lunch time they—with many Ratliff relatives—had a meal in the Governor's Mansion.

Ratliff was appointed president pro tempore of the Senate at the adjournment of the last legislative session, and this put him third in line among executive officers of the state. Governor Price Daniel was in Hawaii, and Lt. Governor Ben Ramsey departed Texas confines, and this put Ratliff in the executive's chair.

The type of warm praise that was heaped upon Ratliff by speakers Friday night.

Tom K. Epley, attorney of Abilene—"He is honored because he belongs to that group which asks not what they can do for themselves, but what they can do to improve the situation. He will not permit himself to do inferior work. And he is a humble man. He has been called the quietest man in the Senate and he is no speech maker, but no man doubts his integrity. David Ratliff is an honorable, upright, Christian man who fears his God and serves his fellow man."

A. C. Humphrey, former mayor of Stamford—"David Ratliff is meek, temperate, self-controlled, patient, gentle, noble and honest."

able. He can walk with the crowd and retain his virtue. His home town people are proud of him."

Wardlaw Lane, member of the Senate—"Early in the Senate I learned to think a lot of David Ratliff. I commend the people of his district for furnishing the State a man of this high type. One great thing in his favor: I never heard him criticize another member of the Senate. He has such fine traits himself that he sees the same in other people."

"And his quietness is no sign of weakness. Once he has charted his course, nobody shakes him around, and once he's on your team, you know he's there to stay. He is among the most loved, most respected men in all the Senate, and the people of Texas owe him a great debt."

H. C. Pittman of Austin, was master of ceremonies for the banquet program. Ratliff's pastor, the Rev. James E. Smith of the Central Christian Church, Stamford, gave the invocation, and the benediction was by the Rev. W. H. Townsend, chaplain of the Senate.

Ratliff was presented to the crowd by Don Morris, president of Abilene Christian College.

At the conclusion of the program, Senator and Mrs. Ratliff—termed the "most handsome couple ever to occupy the executive offices"—received many gifts from friends and constituents. These included large portraits of the two, as well as the flag that flew over the Capitol Friday. There were also a watch, cuff links, silver candelabra, and gift certificates.

Ratliff himself acknowledged all the honors with a brief and sincere "Thanks." "That's all there is to say," he told the well-wishers. "There will never be another day like this in our lives."

Ratliff was presented to the crowd by Don Morris, president of Abilene Christian College.

At the conclusion of the program, Senator and Mrs. Ratliff—termed the "most handsome couple ever to occupy the executive offices"—received many gifts from friends and constituents. These included large portraits of the two, as well as the flag that flew over the Capitol Friday. There were also a watch, cuff links, silver candelabra, and gift certificates.

Ratliff himself acknowledged all the honors with a brief and sincere "Thanks." "That's all there is to say," he told the well-wishers. "There will never be another day like this in our lives."

Gen. MacArthur, accompanied by his wife, will be treated to many honors during his nine-day visit, including a ticker-tape parade in Manila with more than a million persons expected to line the streets to hail him.

Before departing on a presidential jet liner operated by the Air Force, he said slowly in an emotional tone that the next few days will be "among the happiest of my life." He is 81.

Then he added with a smile: "But I shall return."

Help Yourself
WATERBURY, Conn. (AP)—Burglars broke into the state meat market early Saturday and sliced off $25 worth of steak in the store's freezer.

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Bloody Spots A Bit Spooky

HOUSTON (AP)—It may be somebody's idea of a joke, but it has the E. A. King household in a quandary.

It is blood that keeps spotting Mrs. King's 16-day-old kitchen floor. It is human blood, a police chemist told a reporter, and Mrs. King can't get rid of it.

Mrs. King, 33, said the spots have reappeared several times. Each time she wiped them away, she said, they come back later.

Her husband put pieces of plastic on the floor. The next morning the plastic was also bloodstained, Mrs. King said.

That same morning, she said, her husband awoke to find blood spots on her face.

Deputies, who advanced no theories, were investigating.

"It is nothing that can hurt you, although it is spooky," Mrs. King said.

That Just Adds Another Charge

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Police officer Mario Oscuri questioned a suspected thief for six hours, then ordered him taken to city jail on a long list of minor counts.

After the suspect left in the police van, Oscuri discovered a 10,000 lire ($16) bill he had in his desk was missing.

He phoned the jail just as the van arrived. Police frisked their man, found the bill and added another charge.

MacArthur Makes Sentimental Trip

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. of the Army Douglas MacArthur set forth once again today for the Philippine Islands. He called it a "sentimental journey" to take part in Independence Day ceremonies July 4.

But it also will be a hero's return for the renowned World War II leader, whose vow that "I shall return" kept alive Philippine hopes during the dark days of Japanese occupation.

Gen. MacArthur, accompanied by his wife, will be treated to many honors during his nine-day visit, including a ticker-tape parade in Manila with more than a million persons expected to line the streets to hail him.

Before departing on a presidential jet liner operated by the Air Force, he said slowly in an emotional tone that the next few days will be "among the happiest of my life." He is 81.

Then he added with a smile: "But I shall return."

Help Yourself
WATERBURY, Conn. (AP)—Burglars broke into the state meat market early Saturday and sliced off $25 worth of steak in the store's freezer.

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Fire Works For Sale
Earl Plew's Service Station
2 MI. EAST, HWY 80

Members Of Peace Corps End First Week Of Training

By ROBERT E. FORD
EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—A group of young Americans, to whom the term "dedicated" is applied frequently, wound up their first week of Peace Corps training today at Texas Western College.

In another 12 weeks, 30 of them will be in tropical Tanganyika for the finishing touches to their instruction.

By Nov. 15 they will be ready to help lay out and build roads, meanwhile teaching the natives some of America's skills.

They also will try to help unlock more of that African area's mineral wealth.

President Kennedy is enthusiastic about the corps. While the still is wet on his executive order setting up the pilot program he asked that it be made permanent.

Another group is training at Rutgers University in New Jersey for a community development project in Colombia. The Rutgers and the Texas Western recruits are the first for the corps.

Why send Americans to underdeveloped countries to perform duties that, in some instances, would appear to people in the states as easy as breathing?

One Peace Corps spokesman put it this way:

"The people of many countries lack many of the basic skills that we take for granted. Some of them even must be taught to drive a nail with a hammer."

The 47 young Americans assigned to Texas Western for training obviously are a selected physical group because they must face Tanganyika's heat and primitive living conditions.

Some are big men. Others are short and wiry. All appear aglow with health.

Many are just out of college. Others still are struggling to finish their education while working their way.

Crewcuts and butt trims predominate. A couple of longhairs showed up.

The only beard among the first 40 of the 47 assigned is worn by Jerry Parson, Negro ex-paratrooper from Albany, N.Y.

ready have taken extensive weeding out tests and face more.

But Dr. Clyde E. Kelsey Jr., who heads up the Peace Corps training at Texas Western, said after talking with the candidates:

"I think success of this project is highly indicated."

Why did these men volunteer for the Peace Corps for pay of $2 to $2.50 a day and expenses and to work away from home in often uncomfortable circumstances?

You get a variety of answers. One listed adventure. Another—an old African hand—said he likes the people and country.

But threaded through all the expressed motives are those of helping citizens of underdeveloped countries, helping America's foreign policy, and making close personal contacts with the average persons of the foreign countries.

Some gave an additional reason, as expressed by Gerald Faust, 26, Champaign, Ill.

"I think the program is going to work two ways. I am going to benefit from it through better understanding of races and creeds," he said.

Faust's parents were missionaries in Nigeria for 31 years. He was born there and attended school in Africa for a time.

Another candidate, Harrison Breese Jr., 30, of Orange, Va., walked or hitchhiked through Europe, the Far East and Africa for four years. Getting along with natives is no problem, he said.

"If you just sit down and eat and drink with them—that breaks the barrier," he said in an interview. "Of course, a smile and a handshake are good, too."

Many of the 4,500 residents of this normally peaceful community. Regardless of reason, somebody killed Mrs. Florence Hussey, for four years a pleasant, respectable secretary at the First Baptist Church.

Somebody attacked the 53-year-old secretary in her home late Wednesday or early Thursday. She was beaten about the head with a flower pot and stabbed repeatedly with a sharp instrument.

The person, referred to as "the thing," may have entered the comfortable two-bedroom house through a side entrance.

Mrs. Hussey lived alone.

A bloody footprint found on the concrete back porch attracted the most attention of Department of Public Safety chemists from Austin.

The print could be from a woman wearing high heel shoes or from a small boot worn by a man," Dist. Atty. Earl Conner of Eastland said.

Meanwhile curious citizens drive slowly past the little white house with its maroon shutters and well-kept yard.

At night, said Cisco publisher Jerry L. Sitten, it's likely every door in town is locked.

Constable J. J. Honea said it appeared to be the work of a homicidal maniac.

"I've seen a lot of things," said Honea, "but never anything like this—why you couldn't even recognize her."

"It's just a hunch, but I believe a woman did this," said Justice of the Peace Ross Griffith. "I don't know."

"But, who and why?" ask many of the 4,500 residents of this normally peaceful community.

Regardless of reason, somebody killed Mrs. Florence Hussey, for four years a pleasant, respectable secretary at the First Baptist Church.

Somebody attacked the 53-year-old secretary in her home late Wednesday or early Thursday. She was beaten about the head with a flower pot and stabbed repeatedly with a sharp instrument.

The person, referred to as "the thing," may have entered the comfortable two-bedroom house through a side entrance.

Mrs. Hussey lived alone.

A bloody footprint found on the concrete back porch attracted the most attention of Department of Public Safety chemists from Austin.

The print could be from a woman wearing high heel shoes or from a small boot worn by a man," Dist. Atty. Earl Conner of Eastland said.

Meanwhile curious citizens drive slowly past the little white house with its maroon shutters and well-kept yard.

At night, said Cisco publisher Jerry L. Sitten, it's likely every door in town is locked.

Constable J. J. Honea said it appeared to be the work of a homicidal maniac.

"I've seen a lot of things," said Honea, "but never anything like this—why you couldn't even recognize her."

"It's just a hunch, but I believe a woman did this," said Justice of the Peace Ross Griffith. "I don't know."

"But, who and why?" ask many of the 4,500 residents of this normally peaceful community.

Regardless of reason, somebody killed Mrs. Florence Hussey, for four years a pleasant, respectable secretary at the First Baptist Church.

Somebody attacked the 53-year-old secretary in her home late Wednesday or early Thursday. She was beaten about the head with a flower pot and stabbed repeatedly with a sharp instrument.

The person, referred to as "the thing," may have entered the comfortable two-bedroom house through a side entrance.

Mrs. Hussey lived alone.

A bloody footprint found on the concrete back porch attracted the most attention of Department of Public Safety chemists from Austin.

The print could be from a woman wearing high heel shoes or from a small boot worn by a man," Dist. Atty. Earl Conner of Eastland said.

Meanwhile curious citizens drive slowly past the little white house with its maroon shutters and well-kept yard.

At night, said Cisco publisher Jerry L. Sitten, it's likely every door in town is locked.

Constable J. J. Honea said it appeared to be the work of a homicidal maniac.

"I've seen a lot of things," said Honea, "but never anything like this—why you couldn't even recognize her."

"It's just a hunch, but I believe a woman did this," said Justice of the Peace Ross Griffith. "I don't know."

"But, who and why?" ask many of the 4,500 residents of this normally peaceful community.

Regardless of reason, somebody killed Mrs. Florence Hussey, for four years a pleasant, respectable secretary at the First Baptist Church.

Somebody attacked the 53-year-old secretary in her home late Wednesday or early Thursday. She was beaten about the head with a flower pot and stabbed repeatedly with a sharp instrument.

The person, referred to as "the thing," may have entered the comfortable two-bedroom house through a side entrance.

Mrs. Hussey lived alone.

A bloody footprint found on the concrete back porch attracted the most attention of Department of Public Safety chemists from Austin.

The print could be from a woman wearing high heel shoes or from a small boot worn by a man," Dist. Atty. Earl Conner of Eastland said.

Meanwhile curious citizens drive slowly past the little white house with its maroon shutters and well-kept yard.

At night, said Cisco publisher Jerry L. Sitten, it's likely every door in town is locked.

Constable J. J. Honea said it appeared to be the work of a homicidal maniac.

"I've seen a lot of things," said Honea, "but never anything like this—why you couldn't even recognize her."

"It's just a hunch, but I believe a woman did this," said Justice of the Peace Ross Griffith. "I don't know."

"But, who and why?" ask many of the 4,500 residents of this normally

BUY ON TIME — OPEN AN ACCOUNT TODAY — IT'S EASY

REAL COOL BRUSH PILE THIS
W. C. Mattingleys Use Cucumber Treatment On Eyesore

Got An Unsightly Spot? Then Try Cucumber Cure

There is a big brush pile in the rear of the W. C. Mattingley residence at 805 E. 15th but if you saw it you'd not know it was a brush pile.

Chances are you'd be puzzled, though—you'd wonder how come cucumber vines stacked up that way.

The Mattingleys didn't like the way the brush pile marred the view so they decided that they'd do something about it. It wasn't practical to cart away the brush right at that time.

Mattingley, a retired farmer and enthusiastic home gardener, solved the problem by sowing the brush pile generously with cucumber seeds.

The seeds flourished, the rank green plants liked the location and in no time at all completely obscured the brush.

The Mattingleys have been eating fresh home grown cucumbers off their brush pile for quite a while now.

It could be proved, of course, but due to the widespread fame of the cucumber for its low temperature, the Mattingleys surely have about the coolest brush pile in Howard County.

The green mound offers an eye-catching addition to the backyard and has caused much comment from visitors.

Victoria Seeks Sign Designs

By JAMES T. CARTER
Victoria Advocate Staff Writer

VICTORIA, Tex. (AP) — This historic city sounded a call this week to some of Texas' wandering sons and daughters to help it reach back nearly a century and a half into its past and recreate a quaint bit of its heritage.

By official action of the city council, the original designation of "The Street Of The Ten Friends" was added as a supplementary name for Victoria's principal thoroughfare, known previously, like those of many another town and hamlet, as Main Street.

The "Ten Friends" tag was given to a five-block section by Don Martin DeLeon, Mexican impresario, when he founded the town in 1824. Seven of the "friends" were business associates, two were captains of militia who directed defenses against Indian raiders, and DeLeon himself was the 10th.

But when Texas won its independence from Mexico in 1836, "The Street Of The Ten Friends"—La Calle de Los Diez Amigos—became plain old Main Street.

Yet the original name is still contained on a marker honoring the founder DeLeon, after whom the former public square has since been named as DeLeon Plaza, showing a trend of thought backward into history by residents of a town named in fact for Guadalupe Victoria, first president of Mexico.

This writer, struck by the picturesqueness of the old street name, started a movement several months ago to enlist support for adding "The Street Of Ten Friends" designation to Main Street corner signs. Civic, business, patriotic and historical groups exhibited so much enthusiasm that the city council gave its official nod in a unanimous resolution.

Now—and here is where the cry to all Texas artists wherever they may be is being sounded — the "Ten Friends" group announces an offer of a $250 cash prize to the Texas-born man or woman submitting the best design for ornamental street signs containing the legend "The Street Of The Ten Friends."

ANY DESIGN

The words may be carried lengthwise or stacked in rows like a newspaper headline, and the only qualifications to the design are that it contain a border of filigree or scrollwork and that it not be too difficult to be reproduced in metal by a local sign-manufacturing firm.

Mrs. M. S. Shaw, president of the Civic Association; Robert Martin, president of the development association; Morris Kamin, merchant whose store happens not even to be on the street in question; and Dalhart Windberg, young Victoria artist, will judge the sign designs.

CASH AWARD

In addition to the cash award, the winner may be invited here to participate in a ceremony later this summer when the signs are installed in conjunction with dedication of a multiple stanchion on the street to fly the six flags of Texas.

Mayor Joe E. Kelley, who led the city council in giving its blessing to the turn-back-the-clock idea, declared that the political body was influenced by the potential tourist value of the "Ten Friends" street.

"If New York can have an 'Avenue Of The Americas,' Atlanta a 'Peachtree Street' and Houston and Old Spanish Trail," then I guess Victoria can have its own street with its rightful name of "The Street Of The Ten Friends," he said.

Coates Bentley Is Rotary Prexy

STANTON (SC)—George Shelburne, the out-going president, had charge of the business session when the Rotary club met Thursday noon at the Belvue Restaurant. Gerald Hanson gave the program on use of fertilizer. The meeting day was changed to Friday. Coates Bentley is the new president-elect.

Student Goes Regular

1st Lt. James W. Marlin Jr., administrative officer, 3561st Student Squadron, administers the oath of office to 1st Lt. Richard E. Holt, who is now a regular Air Force officer. Born at Crystal Lake, Ill., Lt. Holt was graduated from Louisiana State University. He was commissioned a second lieutenant through the university's ROTC program in 1957 and was called to active duty in 1958. Lt. Holt was ground equipment maintenance officer at Otis AFB, Mass., before signing in here as a member of Class 62-II on June 5.

Rangeland Benefits From Light Moisture

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Except for small areas, soil moisture was adequate to excessive in all sections of Texas this past week, reported director John Hutchison, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Continuing showers and rains are delaying harvesting and the application of insecticides on cotton, but the overall situation is good, the director said.

Ranges and pastures are improving. Late crops are making good growth. A call for dry, open weather came from the South Plains area.

ADEQUATE

Moisture is adequate but a general rain would be very beneficial, said W. W. Grisham Jr. from Amarillo. He added that the wheat harvest should be about over and yields have been excellent. Cotton is making good growth and grain sorghum planting is virtually complete.

W. H. Jones from Lubbock said hot, dry weather is needed for cotton since ascochyta blight is causing trouble. Most of the district received additional rain and all except parts of two counties had adequate moisture. The wheat harvest is 65 per cent complete with dryland averaging about 22 bushels and irrigated fields about 42. Ranges and livestock were described as excellent.

Rains continue to hamper cotton insect control in north central counties, reported Ted Martin from Denton. A small percentage of the oat crop was still in the field.

HELPED

The moisture situation in North Texas was helped by the general rain, advised John Surowik from Mt. Pleasant. He said cotton is making good growth but some fleahopper damage had been reported and some replanting was being done. Corn reached the tasseling and silking stage. Greenwrap tomatoes are being harvested and the volume of peaches going to market is increasing.

Moisture is adequate in all far West Texas counties, except El Paso, Hudspeth, and Culberson where it is very short, reported Ray Siegmund from Ft. Stockton. He said all crops and ranges are making good growth and that livestock conditions are improving.

Row crops are making excellent growth, early grain sorghum is heading and cotton, fruiting but some replanting is being done in Coleman and Taylor counties, reported Roy Hucklebee from San Angelo and Central West Texas. He added that pastures are making excellent growth and livestock marketing has been showed.

EXCESSIVE

Soil moisture is adequate to excessive in Central Texas, said R. G. Burwell from Stephenville. Corn and grain sorghums are making excellent growth and when cotton fields dry the big jobs will be cultivating and insect control. Burwell added. Peaches and cantaloupes are moving to market and pastures and ranges are responding to improved moisture situation.

Czechs Invite

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Radio Prague reports Cuba's Fidel Castro has been invited to visit Communist Czechoslovakia. No dates

Stock Market Dribbled Off

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week dribbled off to its third straight weekly decline as it ended an exciting and eventful six months.

The first half of 1961 produced one of the most vigorous advances in stock market history. The market reached its crest May 17, stalled for a couple of weeks, moved close to the peak on June 6, then receded rapidly.

At its height, the advance was based on anticipations of a business recovery amid confidence that the Kennedy administration would take vigorous steps not only against the recession but also to bolster U.S. defenses and firm up the country's position internationally. The advance gained speed as the first evidence of economic recovery became apparent and as national leaders predicted a business upturn in no uncertain terms.

The rise was accompanied by the greatest volume for the first quarter in the history of the New York Stock Exchange. It was also accompanied by evidence of outright speculation.

Hectic trading in new, "hot issues" in the over-the-counter market also were of concern to government and financial officials. The result was a Washington hearing still in progress as the half-year ended, on the necessity for a full-fledged investigation of stock trading in general.

At its highest point, the market advanced about 15 per cent since the first of the year, based on the rise in The Associated Press average. About a third of this gain was shown away in June as various big corporations were affected by adverse news and as Congress became inquisitive about what was going on in Wall Street.

The AP average in the past week dipped 1.00 to 243.90 and the Dow Jones industrial average fell 4.70 to 683.96.

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

1. Fleece
4. Necromancy
9. Supreme being
2. Confusion
3. Speechily
4. Macaw
15. Universal
17. Replenish
19. Dull
20. Male party
21. Trace
23. Groups of students
26. Craze colloq
27. Produce of the earth
28. Word of denial

DOWN

29. Shoshonean Indian
30. Lament
21. River bottom
32. Singing syllable
33. Auto shoes
34. Stupor
35. Loyal
37. Criticizes mercilessly
38. Ethereal
39. Too bad
40. Donkey
42. Bistraught
45. Petition
46. Shipworm
48. Period
49. Supper
50. Expunge
61. Radical

6. Liquid measure abbr.

7. That thing

8. Absolute

9. Crews

10. Native metal

11. Black bird

16. Lake

18. Direction

20. Disparages

21. Cradence

22. Proportion

23. Unfeeling

24. Opponent

25. Soft drinks

27. Hostile incursion

30. Germ

31. Braggart

33. Row

34. Tribe

36. Hooded fur jacket

37. Blaze

39. War god

40. Cudgel

41. Practice

42. Brother

43. Cholera

44. Blunder

47. Alternative

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

PAR TIME 27 MIN.

NOW UNDER NEW MANAGEMENT
HOWARD HOUSE COFFEE SHOP
In The Howard House Hotel On E. 3rd
MR. And MRS. T. W. MCKINLEY Owners

Couple Of Veteran Drivers

Melvin O. (Jack) Griffith, Big Spring, named the Driver of the Year by the American Trucking Association, meets another old hand at steering things—Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn. Mr. Sam has been Speaker of the House half as long as Griffith has been driving while putting in two million miles without an accident. Mr. and Mrs. Griffith were presented to the speaker by Rep. George Mahon, right, who was host to the Griffiths while they were in Washington last week.

Headmaster Charged With Cruelty Was Fined $50

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—The headmaster of St. James School in nearby Berlin has been fined $50 in Superior Court after pleading guilty to a charge of cruelty to the youngsters.

Leonard W. Francis, headmaster of the private school for boys, admitted putting one of the pupils into a gas clothes dryer Feb. 5, 1959 and, turning on the gas for a few seconds as punishment for the boy. Fellow students helped the boy out.

Judge Thomas E. Troland said this action by the defendant was a "serious error of judgment." He said "moderate punishment" was necessary to caution him against similar acts in the future.

Francis drew a suspended indefinite sentence on another charge of cruelty to persons for allegedly having beaten a pupil with a switch for forgetting to wear his rubbers.

It was complaints from parents that Francis was too severe in his discipline that caused state police to begin investigating the headmaster's methods. However, parents of other pupils said they were satisfied their sons were being treated properly at the school.

Francis has brought a damage suit against state police.

In court Friday, State Attorney John Labelle told Judge Troland the defendant often made boys remove their pants and underpants before he beat them with a hair brush or belt.

Among things for which Francis handed out beatings, the state said, were spending too much money, sitting with a girl at a school basketball game, wearing a stocking crookedly, and failing to work on construction of the school gymnasium.

Agreement Signed

COLOMBO (AP) — After five weeks of bargaining, Ceylon has signed an agreement with the Soviet Union for construction of an iron and steel mill here. Colombo negotiators managed to cut the original price of the project by $1.6 million to make the total cost $6.7 million.

I'VE GOT NEWS FOR YOU!

Take A Good Look At The News In Every Issue Of The Herald!

Every copy of The Herald brought to you by some ambitious, energetic lad, is your key to "a wide, wide world" of information, education, entertainment and better living! Every issue is also a guardian of your right to know; a guardian of basic freedoms and free enterprise . . . dedicated today to better our tomorrows!

You're Better Informed When You Read Your Newspaper

BIG SPRING HERALD

Texas Motorists Running Ahead

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas motorists began the July 4th holidays with the state's traffic toll running 4 per cent ahead of last year, the Department of Public Safety reported Saturday.

The DPS has predicted 11 will die in traffic accidents from midnight Monday to midnight Tuesday.

The weekly DPS report showed a total of 998 traffic deaths in 805 accidents so far this year. At this same time last year there had been 982 deaths in 784 accidents.

GUARD your Health

LIEN

Protection From HIDDEN DANGER!

LIEN Sanitation Service provides professional experts who apply scientifically proven methods of cleaning, sanitizing and deodorizing to restaurant fixtures.

For Every Modern Business

- Restaurants • Factories
- Service Stations • Hotels
- Clubs • Depots • Theatres
- Bowling Alleys • Retail Stores

or Further Information Write

LIEN CHEMICAL COMPANY
P.O. Box 5817, Lubbock, Texas

LIEN SANITATION IS GOOD BUSINESS

HOW IS YOUR BODY'S PLUMBING?

The urine you excrete is the end product of a marvelous and complicated system that it like the plumbing in your home. If the pipes do not operate efficiently, trouble develops.

Have you had your internal plumbing checked lately? Bring in an early morning specimen of your urine for an analysis and then show the reports to your physician. His expert advice can help you avoid future problems.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

CUNNINGHAM AND PHILIPS
FRIENDLY DRUG STORES

905 JOHNSON AM 4-5066
PRESCRIPTION CHEMISTS
Copyright 1961 (7W2)

THE TOURIST ARRIVES—This was a typical scene two weeks ago as 200 college students from 41 institutions arrived for the Air Force ROTC Summer Training Unit held at Webb AFB. To be eligible for commissioning, cadets must complete this training period, which lasts four weeks. The cadet above is J. R. Daugherty of Texas A&M.

A LESSON IN TABLE ETIQUETTE—Instruction in table manners is only a part of the comprehensive training program offered Air Force ROTC cadets of the Summer Training Unit. In the photo above Cadet M. L. Wilson of Texas A&M is receiving pointers from 2nd Lt. J. B. Riley.

WHERE'S THAT SHINE, MISTER?—That's the question put to Air Force ROTC Cadet J. A. Madden Jr., of Mississippi State University, by 2nd Lt. Sutton of Webb AFB. Madden was one of 200 college students who began a four-week training program. One of the first lessons learned is that the Air Force isn't exactly a party.

THE SPRINT TO SUCCESS—Cadets arriving at the Air Force ROTC Summer Training Unit at Webb AFB have to hurry to get into line for initial processing. These men must complete the training period, which lasts 28 days. Actually, they aren't this eager to start training—just wise to the possibility of being at the foot of a long, long line. From left to right above are three Baylor students, R. M. Deaver, C. L. Chasteen and W. A. Carpenter.

CHANGE OF PACE—Air Force ROTC cadets take time out to let off some steam by participating in inter-flight athletic competition. The picture above captures action in a flicker ball game between C and D Flights of Squadron 1. The passer is Capt. D. L. Campbell, AFOTC tactical officer of "D" Flight.

FACTS OF LIFE—"Heads up, Mister! that chute could save your life," booms the D Flight Tactical officer, Capt. D. L. Campbell, as Air Force ROTC Cadets are shown the methods and principles of packing a parachute. This is one of many classes of instruction in the everyday life of a cadet and it's one place cadets give perfect attention.

LONG BROWN LINE—Air Force ROTC Cadet W. F. Boudreaux of the University of Southwestern Louisiana is shown receiving part of his equipment and uniforms for his four-week stay at the ROTC Summer Training Unit held at Webb AFB. By the time he had made the rounds and was all loaded down, he felt more like a camel than a cadet.

ROTC Cadets Learn Life Not All Peaches And Cream

Two weeks ago, summer vacations of 200 college students took a turn from days of leisure or employment to an environment of crowded days with stern, sometimes (it seems to them) Prussian-like, discipline.

The signal for this change was the beginning of the Air Force ROTC Summer Training Unit at Webb AFB. This training period is one of the requirements facing college students seeking commissions in the United States Air Force.

The mission of Air Force ROTC is to develop in selected college students the qualities of leadership and other attributes essential to a progressive advancement as Air Force Officers.

One of the objectives of the four-week long Summer Training Unit is to supplement the institutional phase of cadet training by promoting increased enthusiasm and desire to consider the Air Force as a career.

Another goal is to increase cadet proficiency in essential areas of Junior Officer Training. For this reason, a strict training program has been established to test the "muscle strength" of officer candidates. At this stage, the officer candidate has mastered most of the book learning needs to become an effective officer and leader. The objective of the Summer Training Unit is to test the cadet's practical knowledge and to provide training in the less theoretical aspects of serving as an officer in the Air Force.

The training program is designed so that the spare time cadets have must be utilized for study and for improvement in appearance of both themselves and the quarters in which they live. Strict requirements are established for both. The theory behind the emphasis on particulars is that a man must learn to discipline himself before he can discipline others.

The average day for the cadet during his 28-day stay at Webb begins with Reveille and calisthenics at 5 a.m. and ends with Taps at 9 p.m. In between are scheduled such things as instruction on a variety of topics relating to service in the Air Force, visits to the base facilities to provide an illustration of how an Air Force installation works, close-order drill, athletic contests, inspections, and many others.

Discipline is the byword of the training program. While eating, cadets are required to sit at attention on the first third of their chairs and "square" their meals in the same way in which freshmen entering the service academies do. Housekeeping standards are rigidly enforced by numerous inspections. With such requirements, a cadet learns quickly that the only way to succeed is, through cooperation with his fellow cadets.

As a result, high morale, esprit de corps, and competition develop between the eight 24-man flights into which the cadets are divided in such areas as barracks appearance, drill efficiency, leadership, and athletics. Spirit runs high as the potential officers pull together in an effort to reach the high standards demanded by the United States Air Force. Cadet attitude is best expressed by the motto adopted by the cadets themselves: "Cooperate and Graduate."

Each week an outstanding cadet and flight are honored at the parade ceremony held on the base. At the end of the camp, an Outstanding Cadet is selected. These awards are very much desired by the cadets because most of them are motivated towards a career in the Air Force as a regular officer. One of the prerequisites for a regular commission is to be in the upper third of the AFOTC Summer Training Unit and the Summer Training Unit is extremely competitive.

The Summer Training Unit, which concludes July 15, is commanded by Lt. Col. Leland A. Younkin, The Executive Officer and Commandant of Cadets is Maj. George B. Haag.

Thursday evening officers of the ROTC unit will honor institutional visitors at Webb AFB with a party at the Officers Club. Due here are Dr. R. L. Repp, president of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute; Dr. Gerald T. Hudson, dean of the college of agriculture at the University of Arkansas; Dr. Joseph A. Riehl, dean of the University of Southern Louisiana; Dr. Martin O. Juel, dean of Southwest Texas State College; Dr. Monroe S. Carroll, provost Baylor University; and Dr. Cecil Moffitt, associate dean of the college of arts and sciences, Texas Christian University.

Of course the cadets won't get in on this hospitality, but the evening of July 10 Big Spring business and professional men will team together to give them a going away party to put an even more pleasant ending on their camp tour.

(Material prepared by the ROTC base information office; photos by Webb AFB photo lab—Ed.)

China Has Decided To Follow Leader.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Associated Press News Analyst

Moscow, recent evidence indicates, has battered down Red Chinese resistance to total Kremlin control of the Communist push for world supremacy.

If this is so, Premier Khrushchev can proceed with expanding the "peace (Communist-dominated) zone." He can do so confident that he will not be questioned by any other Communist party.

This would be an important Khrushchev victory, strengthening him considerably as he heads for a test of wills and nerves with President Kennedy.

SOLIDARITY
It also would present the appearance of monolithic solidarity behind the Kremlin in its foreign policy, in advance of the important 22nd Congress of the Soviet Communist party opening Oct. 17—another occasion for a meeting of Communist leaders from all parts of the world.

Briefly, here is a chronological review of events leading to what seems to add up to a notable Khrushchev victory.

SUMMONED LEADERS

Moscow summoned leaders of Communist parties from 81 countries to a meeting in November 1960 at a moment when the Soviets and Red Chinese obviously were engaged in a stubborn quarrel over ideology. It would be oversimplification to say the argument centered on Lenin's thesis that war with imperialism is inevitable. But one aspect of the quarrel seemed to be a Kremlin fear that Red China would take some rash, irrevocable action that could draw the Soviet Union into a nuclear war.

The quarrel was complicated by Peiping's insistence on developing communism in its own way, including use of a people's commune system and of scattered small-scale industrial enterprises in Chinese backyards. Implicit in this was the contention that Red China could make a great leap forward toward communism, bypassing stages the Soviet Union considers unavoidable.

FRICITION

Another point of friction was Chinese insistence that communism should seize every opportunity throughout the world to expand, regardless of risk. By inference, Peiping accused the Kremlin of fearing paper tigers.

At the Moscow meeting last November a declaration was issued spelling out what Moscow aspects of all Communists: Obedience to the Kremlin as "the universally recognized vanguard of the world Communist movement," recognition of the U.S.S.R. as the only model for Communist-ruled states; agreement that the movement is entering a new stage requiring that old doctrine, however hallowed, must not get in the way. Moscow's doctrine now is that communism can win by economic and political offensives short of world war.

DECLARATION

Said the 1960 declaration: "The interests of the Communist movement require solidarity and adherence by every Communist party to estimates and conclusions jointly reached by the fraternal parties at their meeting concerning common tasks in the struggle against imperialism."

The Chinese seemed to be sulking. Soviet technicians were leaving China in droves. And in foreign affairs, the Chinese seemed to be intent on one point on taking the Laos situation, and running away with it, beyond Soviet control.

But China was having vast economic trouble, aggravated by flood, drought, famine and other calamities. Red China badly needed help. So a few weeks ago talks began in Moscow on Soviet economic and technical aid for China. An agreement was signed June 19 and it was in this that the broad hints could be detected about what had taken place.

IN RETURN
In return for significantly increased economic aid, the Red

Dog Calls Hog Police Radio Time

Police had a light run of accident and other problems after Friday noon until midnight Saturday. The regular rash of dog calls took up a lot of radio and telephone time, with over 30 calls coming in.

Shortly after 9 p.m. Friday Police were requested to contact the Highway Patrol and send an ambulance to an accident 7.4 miles north on US 87 where one car was involved.

Olan Jewell Williams, Plainview, was taken to Cowper Clinic and Hospital in a Nalley-Pickle ambulance where he was treated and released. Patrolman Jimmy Parks, who investigated, said the car traveled 217 yards after Williams lost control, struck a sign, went over a three-foot bank and struck a culvert.

Connie Garcia, 1205 W. 3rd, reported that someone entered her house by the west door, between 8 p.m. and 12:30 a.m., and carried off two suits valued at $50 and a radio-record player valued at $200.

Mrs. Modesta Simpson called police Saturday and reported the loss of a lady's wrist watch, set with diamonds, valued at $2,000.

A minor accident was reported at Fourth and Birdwell, with drivers involved listed as Allen Rowe, Odessa, and Jack Owens, Odessa.

A four-vehicle accident on North Gregg at 5 p.m. Saturday, resulted in minor injuries to two of the four occupants of a demolished car. A heavy truck, another car which left the scene, and a pickup, received some damage.

Four Treated After Wreck

A four-vehicle accident occurred on North Gregg, between NW Second and NW Third streets at 5 p.m. Saturday. Four occupants of one car were taken to Malone and Hogan Hospital Foundation where two were treated for minor injuries and released.

Mrs. Nadine Williams, 24, driver of a 1959 automobile which was demolished, and her three children, Gladys, 13, Sandra, 8, and Linda Bea, 2½, were taken to the hospital in a River ambulance. Scratches, minor cuts, and bruises were treated.

Mrs. Williams' car was struck from the rear, while the line of traffic was stopped, and knocked into another car in front, which in turn was forced into a pickup truck ahead of it. The vehicle between the pickup and Mrs. Williams' car left the scene before police arrived, and the driver's name and extent of vehicle damage was not learned.

Fred G. Chandler, 47, of Houston, driver of a T. E. Mercer Co. truck out of Fort Worth, was not injured but the front of the truck received some damage. He was at the rear of the four-vehicle mixup.

The pickup truck was driven by John W. Cline, 28, a salesman for the John Davis Feed Co. Cline was not injured and his pickup received only minor damage to the rear.

WEATHER

NORTHWEST TEXAS—Partly cloudy with light rain Sunday afternoon and night. Thunderstorms possible Sunday night. High Sunday 90 to 97. Low Sunday 64 to 70. High Monday 84 to 90. Low Monday 64 to 70. High Tuesday 84 to 90. Low Tuesday 64 to 70.

SOUTHWEST TEXAS—Clear to partly cloudy and warm Sunday and Monday. High Sunday 90 to 97. Low Sunday 64 to 70. High Monday 84 to 90. Low Monday 64 to 70.

EXTREME SOUTHWEST TEXAS—Partly cloudy with light rain Sunday afternoon and night. Thunderstorms possible Sunday night. High Sunday 90 to 97. Low Sunday 64 to 70. High Monday 84 to 90. Low Monday 64 to 70.

TEMPERATURES MAX. MIN. CITY SPRING 82 71 ABILENE 82 71 AMARILLO 82 71 CHICAGO 82 71 DENVER 82 71 EL PASO 82 71 FORT WORTH 82 71 GALVESTON 82 71 HOUSTON 82 71 NEW YORK 82 71 SAN ANTONIO 82 71 ST. LOUIS 82 71

Sun sets today at 7:57 p.m. Sun rises Mon. at 5:41 a.m. Highest temperature this date 104 in 1917. Lowest this date 59 in 1901. Maximum rainfall this date 1.59 in 1906.

TEMPERATURES MAX. MIN. CITY SPRING 82 71 ABILENE 82 71 AMARILLO 82 71 CHICAGO 82 71 DENVER 82 71 EL PASO 82 71 FORT WORTH 82 71 GALVESTON 82 71 HOUSTON 82 71 NEW YORK 82 71 SAN ANTONIO 82 71 ST. LOUIS 82 71

Sun sets today at 7:57 p.m. Sun rises Mon. at 5:41 a.m. Highest temperature this date 104 in 1917. Lowest this date 59 in 1901. Maximum rainfall this date 1.59 in 1906.

TEMPERATURES MAX. MIN. CITY SPRING 82 71 ABILENE 82 71 AMARILLO 82 71 CHICAGO 82 71 DENVER 82 71 EL PASO 82 71 FORT WORTH 82 71 GALVESTON 82 71 HOUSTON 82 71 NEW YORK 82 71 SAN ANTONIO 82 71 ST. LOUIS 82 71

Sun sets today at 7:57 p.m. Sun rises Mon. at 5:41 a.m. Highest temperature this date 104 in 1917. Lowest this date 59 in 1901. Maximum rainfall this date 1.59 in 1906.

TEMPERATURES MAX. MIN. CITY SPRING 82 71 ABILENE 82 71 AMARILLO 82 71 CHICAGO 82 71 DENVER 82 71 EL PASO 82 71 FORT WORTH 82 71 GALVESTON 82 71 HOUSTON 82 71 NEW YORK 82 71 SAN ANTONIO 82 71 ST. LOUIS 82 71

Sun sets today at 7:57 p.m. Sun rises Mon. at 5:41 a.m. Highest temperature this date 104 in 1917. Lowest this date 59 in 1901. Maximum rainfall this date 1.59 in 1906.

TEMPERATURES MAX. MIN. CITY SPRING 82 71 ABILENE 82 71 AMARILLO 82 71 CHICAGO 82 71 DENVER 82 71 EL PASO 82 71 FORT WORTH 82 71 GALVESTON 82 71 HOUSTON 82 71 NEW YORK 82 71 SAN ANTONIO 82 71 ST. LOUIS 82 71

Sun sets today at 7:57 p.m. Sun rises Mon. at 5:41 a.m. Highest temperature this date 104 in 1917. Lowest this date 59 in 1901. Maximum rainfall this date 1.59 in 1906.

TEMPERATURES MAX. MIN. CITY SPRING 82 71 ABILENE 82 71 AMARILLO 82 71 CHICAGO 82 71 DENVER 82 71 EL PASO 82 71 FORT WORTH 82 71 GALVESTON 82 71 HOUSTON 82 71 NEW YORK 82 71 SAN ANTONIO 82 71 ST. LOUIS 82 71

Sun sets today at 7:57 p.m. Sun rises Mon. at 5:41 a.m. Highest temperature this date 104 in 1917. Lowest this date 59 in 1901. Maximum rainfall this date 1.59 in 1906.

TEMPERATURES MAX. MIN. CITY SPRING 82 71 ABILENE 82 71 AMARILLO 82 71 CHICAGO 82 71 DENVER 82 71 EL PASO 82 71 FORT WORTH 82 71 GALVESTON 82 71 HOUSTON 82 71 NEW YORK 82 71 SAN ANTONIO 82 71 ST. LOUIS 82 71

Sun sets today at 7:57 p.m. Sun rises Mon. at 5:41 a.m. Highest temperature this date 104 in 1917. Lowest this date 59 in 1901. Maximum rainfall this date 1.59 in 1906.

TEMPERATURES MAX. MIN. CITY SPRING 82 71 ABILENE 82 71 AMARILLO 82 71 CHICAGO 82 71 DENVER 82 71 EL PASO 82 71 FORT WORTH 82 71 GALVESTON 82 71 HOUSTON 82 71 NEW YORK 82 71 SAN ANTONIO 82 71 ST. LOUIS 82 71

Sun sets today at 7:57 p.m. Sun rises Mon. at 5:41 a.m. Highest temperature this date 104 in 1917. Lowest this date 59 in 1901. Maximum rainfall this date 1.59 in 1906.

TEMPERATURES MAX. MIN. CITY SPRING 82 71 ABILENE 82 71 AMARILLO 82 71 CHICAGO 82 71 DENVER 82 71 EL PASO 82 71 FORT WORTH 82 71 GALVESTON 82 71 HOUSTON 82 71 NEW YORK 82 71 SAN ANTONIO 82 71 ST. LOUIS 82 71

Sun sets today at 7:57 p.m. Sun rises Mon. at 5:41 a.m. Highest temperature this date 104 in 1917. Lowest this date 59 in 1901. Maximum rainfall this date 1.59 in 1906.

TEMPERATURES MAX. MIN. CITY SPRING 82 71 ABILENE 82 71 AMARILLO 82 71 CHICAGO 82 71 DENVER 82 71 EL PASO 82 71 FORT WORTH 82 71 GALVESTON 82 71 HOUSTON 82 71 NEW YORK 82 71 SAN ANTONIO 82 71 ST. LOUIS 82 71

Sun sets today at 7:57 p.m. Sun rises Mon. at 5:41 a.m. Highest temperature this date 104 in 1917. Lowest this date 59 in 1901. Maximum rainfall this date 1.59 in 1906.

TEMPERATURES MAX. MIN. CITY SPRING 82 71 ABILENE 82 71 AMARILLO 82 71 CHICAGO 82 71 DENVER 82 71 EL PASO 82 71 FORT WORTH 82 71 GALVESTON 82 71 HOUSTON 82 71 NEW YORK 82 71 SAN ANTONIO 82 71 ST. LOUIS 82 71

Sun sets today at 7:57 p.m. Sun rises Mon. at 5:41 a.m. Highest temperature this date 104 in 1917. Lowest this date 59 in 1901. Maximum rainfall this date 1.59 in 1906.

TEMPERATURES MAX. MIN. CITY SPRING 82 71 ABILENE 82 71 AMARILLO 82 71 CHICAGO 82 71 DENVER 82 71 EL PASO 82 71 FORT WORTH 82 71 GALVESTON 82 71 HOUSTON 82 71 NEW YORK 82 71 SAN ANTONIO 82 71 ST. LOUIS 82 71

Sun sets today at 7:57 p.m. Sun rises Mon. at 5:41 a.m. Highest temperature this date 104 in 1917. Lowest this date 59 in 1901. Maximum rainfall this date 1.59 in 1906.

Chinese seemed ready to surrender some of their cherished notions.

One of them was the Kremlin's thesis that Communists in nations marked as targets must make alliances with upper- and middle-class dupes called in Red jargon, "the national bourgeoisie." Moscow reckons this can facilitate non-dangerous power grabs, and that it is plain foolishness to surrender opportunities by confining Communist activities to the toiling masses, as the Chinese seem to have insisted.

READY

Peiping also seems ready to live with the idea that the world in the long pull can be conquered without the ultimate war with imperialism.

Spokesmen for the Peiping delegation in the June talks said the agreement was a "fresh development" in Chinese-Soviet solidarity since the 1960 declaration, a highly significant statement.

In return for recognizing this, the Chinese get a co-operation agreement extending to 1967 in a variety of industrial fields.

It seems fairly clear the Chinese have decided to play ball.

TRAFFIC PUSHES TEXAS HOLIDAY DEATHS TOWARD TRAGIC LEVELS

Multiple death traffic accidents, one a fiery crash on the busy Dallas - Fort Worth Turnpike, pushed the death toll in Texas' long Fourth of July holiday to tragic levels Saturday night.

The death toll late Saturday stood at 16 with 9 of the dead killed in motor vehicle accidents on the streets and highways of the state. There had been two drownings and four deaths from miscellaneous violence.

The Associated Press started its tabulations of the holiday deaths at 4 p.m. Friday and planned to continue it through midnight, following Independence Day, Tuesday.

Killed in the Dallas-Fort Worth turnpike crash were two men identified as Thomas Dean Harris of Terrell and Wilbert L. Brown of Tyler.

The 6:30 p.m. crash occurred Saturday just east of Fort Worth with both automobiles apparently in the eastbound artery of the highway. The vehicles hit head-on and burst into flames. Highway Patrolman R. V. Martin at the scene said, "It was an inferno when I got there and it couldn't have been more than a minute."

Kenneth Wayne Wilhelm, 22, of Dallas apparently drowned Saturday in her car on a wooded lot three blocks from her home. The 18-year-old girl had been shot once in the stomach with a .22 caliber rifle. A medical examiner called her death a suicide.

Ortega Antonio Garcia, a Mexican national, was killed in a Saturday farm accident near Floydada in West Texas. He was helping repair a tractor when he lost his balance and a wheel of the machine ran over him.

Louis R. Goetz, 55, of Paris, Tex., died near Friday midnight in the collision of his panel truck and a Continental Trailways bus at Commerce. The bus driver, Earl E. Martin of Sherman, was cut by flying glass from the bus windshield. Four bus passengers suffered less serious injuries.

Sterling Hatter, 37, Waco, Negro, was shot to death Friday night. Elvora Davis, 39, Negro, was jailed.

Carl Jones Jr., 28, Fort Worth Negro was found stabbed to death Saturday on a vacant lot near downtown Fort Worth.

Calvin Sparkman of Odessa was fatally injured Saturday night when he was involved in a two-car street intersection collision in the West Texas city.

Neither Dr. Salk nor Dr. Sabin profits by a nickel from their vaccines. They don't collect any royalties.

NOT QUESTIONED

The AMA did not question safety of either vaccine, or other live-virus vaccines.

The issue raised by the AMA is, fundamentally, whether the live or killed vaccine can give the surest and longest individual protection, and do the most to stop the polio virus from spreading person to person.

Stopping the spread could virtually eliminate the disease. Ever since the Salk vaccine was introduced, many virus experts have argued live virus vaccine would be more effective, and perhaps create life-long immunity.

Live vaccine could halt any naturally invading virus in the vaccinated person's intestines, so he doesn't spread it to others. But he might spread the safe virus, in the vaccine, on to others.

This view is championed, among others, by Dr. Sabin. Dr. Salk maintains his vaccine.

Lewis Price Is Making Recovery After Surgery

Lewis Price, 810 W. 18th, was reported Saturday to be resting very well after undergoing surgery Thursday for removal of his gall bladder. He is at Malone and Hogan Hospital.

Price had entered the hospital for observation and tests some days before.

Former manager of the Memphis-Weiss store, he has been prominently identified in the business and civic affairs of the community.

PUBLIC RECORDS

NEW AUTOMOBILES

John E. McDowell, 2114 W. 3rd, Volkswagen.

W. C. Bessham, 135 E. 2nd, Oldsmobile.

W. C. Bessham, 135 E. 2nd, Oldsmobile.

W. C. Bessham, 135 E. 2nd, Oldsmobile.

W. C. Bessham, 135 E. 2nd, Oldsmobile.

W. C. Bessham, 135 E. 2nd, Oldsmobile.

Newlyweds

Lonnie Elton Stewart, a divorced 64-year-old carpenter, poses in Long Beach, Calif., with his bride, Barbara Gail Gillette, an 18-year-old divorcee. They said they were married with the consent of her parents, with whom they're living temporarily. The new Mrs. Stewart said she was a member of the armed forces in Palestine, Tex., when she was 15, but when he went overseas they were divorced. Stewart divorced his wife seven years ago.

Traffic Pushes Texas Holiday Deaths Toward Tragic Levels

Multiple death traffic accidents, one a fiery crash on the busy Dallas - Fort Worth Turnpike, pushed the death toll in Texas' long Fourth of July holiday to tragic levels Saturday night.

The death toll late Saturday stood at 16 with 9 of the dead killed in motor vehicle accidents on the streets and highways of the state. There had been two drownings and four deaths from miscellaneous violence.

The Associated Press started its tabulations of the holiday deaths at 4 p.m. Friday and planned to continue it through midnight, following Independence Day, Tuesday.

Killed in the Dallas-Fort Worth turnpike crash were two men identified as Thomas Dean Harris of Terrell and Wilbert L. Brown of Tyler.

The 6:30 p.m. crash occurred Saturday just east of Fort Worth with both automobiles apparently in the eastbound artery of the highway. The vehicles hit head-on and burst into flames. Highway Patrolman R. V. Martin at the scene said, "It was an inferno when I got there and it couldn't have been more than a minute."

Kenneth Wayne Wilhelm, 22, of Dallas apparently drowned Saturday in her car on a wooded lot three blocks from her home. The 18-year-old girl had been shot once in the stomach with a .22 caliber rifle. A medical examiner called her death a suicide.

Ortega Antonio Garcia, a Mexican national, was killed in a Saturday farm accident near Floydada in West Texas. He was helping repair a tractor when he lost his balance and a wheel of the machine ran over him.

Louis R. Goetz, 55, of Paris, Tex., died near Friday midnight in the collision of his panel truck and a Continental Trailways bus at Commerce. The bus driver, Earl E. Martin of Sherman, was cut by flying glass from the bus windshield. Four bus passengers suffered less serious injuries.

Sterling Hatter, 37, Waco, Negro, was shot to death Friday night. Elvora Davis, 39, Negro, was jailed.

Carl Jones Jr., 28, Fort Worth Negro was found stabbed to death Saturday on a vacant lot near downtown Fort Worth.

Calvin Sparkman of Odessa was fatally injured Saturday night when he was involved in a two-car street intersection collision in the West Texas city.

Neither Dr. Salk nor Dr. Sabin profits by a nickel from their vaccines. They don't collect any royalties.

The AMA did not question safety of either vaccine, or other live-virus vaccines.

The issue raised by the AMA is, fundamentally, whether the live or killed vaccine can give the surest and longest individual protection, and do the most to stop the polio virus from spreading person to person.

Stopping the spread could virtually eliminate the disease. Ever since the Salk vaccine was introduced, many virus experts have argued live virus vaccine would be more effective, and perhaps create life-long immunity.

Live vaccine could halt any naturally invading virus in the vaccinated person's intestines, so he doesn't spread it to others. But he might spread the safe virus, in the vaccine, on to others.

This view is championed, among others, by Dr. Sabin. Dr. Salk maintains his vaccine.

Lewis Price Is Making Recovery After Surgery

Lewis Price, 810 W. 18th, was reported Saturday to be resting very well after undergoing surgery Thursday for removal of his gall bladder. He is at Malone and Hogan Hospital.

Price had entered the hospital for observation and tests some days before.

Former manager of the Memphis-Weiss store, he has been prominently identified in the business and civic affairs of the community.

Persistence Won Vaccine's Approval

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Albert B. Sabin, 54, is gray-haired, suave, hard-working, often outspoken—and persistent.

His persistence, among other things, helped bring about an unusual endorsement last week from the American Medical Association for his kind of polio vaccine as the ultimate weapon against the crippling disease.

10 YEARS

Dr. Sabin has been arguing just that point for some 10 years while developing and testing his vaccine made of living but "tamed" polio viruses. And he's taken potshots on scientific points at the Salk vaccine made of killed polio vaccine.

The Russian-born University of Cincinnati virologist got the Soviet Union so interested in his vaccine that it has immunized 80 million Soviet citizens since 1958 with Soviet-made Sabin vaccine.

They say it works fine. The American persons have swallowed his liquid vaccine in Czechoslovakia, Hungary, East Germany, Red China, Singapore and Mexico.

Sabin's and similar oral vaccines also have been tested recently on a far smaller scale in the United States.

NOT AVAILABLE

But it's not yet available for use in this country.

For Dr. Sabin, the AMA's action marks something of a turnaround.

He has long wanted to get his vaccine inside the door to vaccination because he believes it is more effective than others.

Statements and implications in the AMA report, on the other hand, brought a spirited defense of the Salk vaccine from Dr. Jonas E. Salk of Pittsburgh.

He objected to implications the Salk vaccine would be abandoned in time that vaccinated persons later should take the live vaccine even if they've had Salk vaccine. And he says all this might alarm the door to promising future development of killed-virus vaccines for other diseases.

Neither Dr. Salk nor Dr. Sabin profits by a nickel from their vaccines. They don't collect any royalties.

NOT QUESTIONED

The AMA did not question safety of either vaccine, or other live-virus vaccines.

The issue raised by the AMA is, fundamentally, whether the live or killed vaccine can give the surest and longest individual protection, and do the most to stop the polio virus from spreading person to person.

Stopping the spread could virtually eliminate the disease. Ever since the Salk vaccine was introduced, many virus experts have argued live virus vaccine would be more effective, and perhaps create life-long immunity.

Live vaccine could halt any naturally invading virus in the vaccinated person's intestines, so he doesn't spread it to others. But he might spread the safe virus, in the vaccine, on to others.

This view is championed, among others, by Dr. Sabin. Dr. Salk maintains his vaccine.

Lewis Price Is Making Recovery After Surgery

Lewis Price, 810 W. 18th, was reported Saturday to be resting very well after undergoing surgery Thursday for removal of his gall bladder. He is at Malone and Hogan Hospital.

Price had entered the hospital for observation and tests some days before.

Former manager of the Memphis-Weiss store, he has been prominently identified in the business and civic affairs of the community.

PUBLIC RECORDS

NEW AUTOMOBILES

John E. McDowell, 2114 W. 3rd, Volkswagen.

W. C. Bessham, 135 E. 2nd, Oldsmobile.

W. C. Bessham, 135 E. 2nd, Oldsmobile.

W. C. B

Daniel Backs Drive For Funds

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel Saturday urged financial support of efforts to restore the United States Frigate Constellation and preserve the famous vessel as a national shrine.

The ship is the oldest vessel afloat. It was the Navy's first ship, Daniel said, and is the last surviving seagoing ship of the Civil War. It was built in 1797.

Admiral Chester Nimitz, a native of Fredericksburg, is national chairman of the restoration project. Joseph Hutchinson is state chairman. State headquarters are in Arlington.

The governor designated July 3-8 as "U.S. Frigate Constellation Week" in Texas.

Stanton's Masonic Officers Installed

STANTON (SC)—Jake Hodges was installed as worshipful master when the Stanton Masonic Lodge met Tuesday evening at the Masonic Hall.

Other officers installed for the ensuing term were J. N. Woody Jr., senior warden; Billy Coggin, junior warden; Frank Roquemore, secretary; and Glen Gates, treasurer.

M. D. Coggin is the retiring worshipful master. Other retiring officers are Jake Hodges, senior warden; Ross Hay, secretary; J. N. Woody Jr., junior warden; and Glen Gates, treasurer.

KAY'S KLIPBOARD

Joan Can Pack Her Bags For Greater Things At Beaumont

By KAY LOVELAND

Two young Big Spring women were flashing happy smiles Thursday night after the Miss Big Spring Beauty Pageant. JOAN BRATCHER, 19-year-old college student who graduated from Big Spring High School in 1960 as valedictorian, was crowned Miss Big Spring. LANA LARUE FULBRIGHT, 17, was named Junior Miss Big Spring.

Joan will go to Beaumont in early August to compete for the Miss Texas title. With her beauty and exceptional talent, she could be a great state contender.

All the contestants and the Jaycees, who sponsored the pageant, are to be commended for doing a fine job. The one blemish on the program was the heat in the auditorium, which in turn called one's attention to the length of the show. But the general quality of the program was very high, I thought.

A number of local students who have been away at college during the past year are taking summer courses at H.C.J.C. BEVERLY ALEXANDER, Texas Tech coed, is one of these. She is taking government and history here this summer.

BARBARA CLARK, senior high school student, has been visiting an aunt in Waco for the past week.

She will return home in a few days.

"Trying to learn about the ad business," said TOMMY PICKLE last week of his job at Cosden this summer. He will go back to school at Tech in September.

I understand that I slighted four young ladies last week when I wrote that RAY ALEXANDER was the only representative from the local Methodist churches attending the Senior Assembly at McMurry College this past week. JUDY JONES, KAREN MCGIBBON, MARIANNE BELL and SENA GOODLETT also represented the First Methodist Church. Sorry, girls, it wasn't intentional.

The number of junior volunteers at the Veterans' Hospital has grown to 60 now with more coming in every week. A few, and where they are working: SHARON SMITH is doing work in the volunteer office, nursing and physical and medical rehabilitation. WAYNE DIETZ is in the registrar office and engineering. Working in library and the radio room (recreation) is MARTHA HARDY, while FRED COLEMAN is in laboratory and registrar.

The Top Ten tunes according to Billboard this week: 1. "Quarter to Three," Bonds; 2. "Raindrops," Clark; 3. "Moody River," Boone; 4. "Tossin' and Turnin'," Lewis; 5. "Travelin' Man," Nelson; 6. "The Writing on the Wall," Wade; 7. "Boll Weevil Song," Benton; 8. "Every Beat of My Heart," Pips; 9. "Those Oldies But Goodies," Little Caesar and the Romans; 10. "Stand By Me," King.

Coming up very fast this week is Arthur Lyman's version of "Yellow Bird." Listed by Billboard as "burning up the charts" are Neil Sedaka's "Little Devil," Sam Cooke's "Cupid," Floyd Cramer's "San Antonio Rose," and Don Gibson's "Sea of Heartbreak." While at the Record Shop Thursday listening to some of the new records, I heard a new single that I bought myself. For beautiful music take a listen to "Theme from 'The Pleasure of His Company'" by Felix Slatkin and his Orchestra on Liberty Records. It is backed by a more familiar, but still beautiful, tune, "Street Scene," and it's really good listening!

Also listened to a new one by Frank Sinatra on Reprise Records, "The Curse of an Aching Heart," which is done in Frankie's typical swinging style. On the opposite side is his rendition of "Granada." I didn't know that Bobby Darin had an orchestra, but he has a new record out on Alco with his orchestra—I suppose it is the same Bobby Darin. He does no singing on "Walk Back to Me" and "Theme from 'Come September,'" but he is featured on the harpsichord.

The single of the week as chosen by the Music Reporter is Damita Jo's Mercury recording of "I'll Be There" backed by "Love Laid Its Hands On Me." "I'll Be There" is picked as the No. 1 side.

Earl Grant's "Ebb Tide" was picked as the best album of the week. It features the versatile Mr. Grant doing unusual interpretations of 16 familiar songs on the piano and organ.

Remember, I can't print the news if I don't know about it. Better let me in on your parties and other activities; I'm always glad to know about them.

State Bar Confab Opens Wednesday

FORT WORTH (AP)—The 79th annual convention of the Texas State Bar will open Wednesday with an attendance of about 5,000.

A legal institute on personal injury litigation, moot court arguments and meetings of the Texas City Associations Association and the Texas Civil Judicial Council will feature the opening of the four-day meeting.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson is to speak "On the Challenge of Our Day" at a Friday night banquet.

New State Bar officers to assume office Saturday are William L. Kerr, Midland, president; Buster Cole, Bonham, vice president; and Leon Jaworski, Houston, president-elect.

WE WILL BE CLOSED TUESDAY

IN OBSERVANCE OF July 4

INDEPENDENCE DAY

FIRST FEDERAL SAVINGS & LOAN ASSN.

500 Main

Dial AM 4-8252

BANKS CLOSED

We Will Be Closed Throughout

The Day

Tuesday, July 4

In Observance Of

Independence Day

A Legal Holiday

Do Your Banking Monday

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

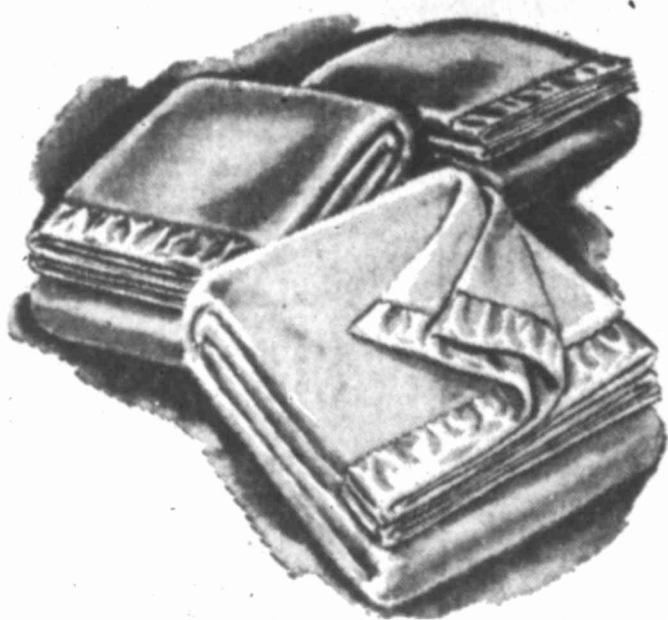

IN BIG SPRING

STATE NATIONAL BANK

SECURITY STATE BANK

YOUR BIGGEST DOLLAR'S WORTH EVER!

Layaway SALE of BLANKETS

10% Down
SOLID COLORS

Size 72x90 $2.99

SOLID COLORS

Size 72x90 $3.99

MOHAWK INDIAN BLANKET

Single Size Only $2.19

PRESTIGE ELECTRIC BLANKET

Single Control $12.95

Dual Control $16.95

McCRORY'S

200 Main

AM 4-2101

DOLLAR DAY SPECIALS

SET OF 8 ICED TEA
Glasses Box, Ideal Gift 2.49
Reg. 3.50

WHITE RAIN, CHYSTAL CLEAR
Shampoo Plus Purse-Size Adorn 99¢
Hair Spray, Reg. 1.35

WHITE RAIN LOTION
Shampoo Plus Free Bubble 99¢
Bath, Reg. 1.60

HELENE CURTIS, CREME
Shampoo Reg. 1.89 1.39

CUNNINGHAM
AND PHILIPS
FRIENDLY DRUG STORES
905 JOHNSON AM 4-2506

WARDS
MONTGOMERY WARD

221 W. 3rd 9:00 To 5:30 AM 4-8261

DOLLAR DAY

BARBECUE
CHARCOAL

10 -LB. BAG REG. 98¢ 69¢

20 -LB. BAG REG. 1.55 1.20

BAR-B BASE REG. 55¢ 39¢

DOLLAR DAY ONLY!

STAINLESS STEEL COOKWARE

by WEST BEND

pay only $19.95

For A COMPLETE 10-Pc. SET

- Easy To Clean
- Ideal Cookware
- Save On Replacement Costs

Protective Flame Guard On All Handles

Stanley Hardware

"YOUR FRIENDLY HARDWARE STORE"

203 Runnels

Dial AM 4-6221

DOLLAR DAY ONLY

Even-Flow Evaporative
Air Conditioner

PUMP

4,000 C.F.M.

Reg. 9.95

NOW

5.99

Will Accommodate All Sizes Of Air Conditioners

POWER MOWER SALE

While They Last

- Rewind starter
- New copper finish with red trim
- Star-Mower handle for out-of-the-way storage
- Hi-Lo adjustment raises or lowers handle full 5 inches

Big Spring Hardware Co.

We Give And Redeem Scottie Stamps

115 Main

AM 4-5265

No Breaking And Entering Here

The first run by Convoy Armored Service for Big Spring was set up for Saturday. Bearl Croft, operator, who will be accompanied by another man, drove the first car here Friday. Money, jewels, mail and other valuables may be transported safely in this bullet-proof car with the two compartments.

Regular Armored Car Service Is Launched Here Saturday

Armored car service, which began Saturday, brought Big Spring up into the big city class as for money security. The first unit put in service by Convoy Armored Service was brought in from Midland until the new truck for Big Spring arrives.

"We are starting off in fine shape," A. A. (Sid) Addington, manager, said Friday. "We have about 20 customers and expect to acquire more as the service is accepted. Bearl Croft is the driver, and he will be assisted by another man."

Addington said the bullet-proof truck will have two men at all times. One man will be locked in the rear compartment, which is sealed from the driver's seat. Money, or valuables, being loaded on the truck will be passed through a small opening in the side. When the driver gets out of the truck the door is automatically locked and he has to use a key to get back in. A second ignition switch is included in the rear for safety. The man in charge of the cargo can stop the truck in case of emergency, which makes it impossible for someone to hijack the vehicle by driving it off.

"We will operate the service from early morning until about 8 p.m.," Addington said, "and will take care of customers six days a week. In addition to money, being transported to banks, we will handle jewelry, bonds, valuable mail, and like items. The telephone company has arranged for us to haul their mail because of the money involved where bills are being paid."

The company now operates the service in Abilene, San Angelo, Midland and Big Spring.

All trucks are equipped with air conditioning units because of the close quarters and closed features. There is no hole large enough for a man to reach a hand through. Doors to the cargo compartment are locked, and bolted for security.

"No one can enter the vehicle, even with a cold chisel," Addington said, "after the doors are closed."

Really Works

WINNIPEG (AP)—Officials of the Winnipeg branch of the Streamliner Club of Manitoba estimate the 550 members of the women's weight-reducing organization lost 3,000 pounds the past year.

WINGS OVER BIG SPRING

Airport Is Busy During The Week

By M. A. WEBB

Business continued good at Howard County Airport this week, along with the weather, Ted McClung, manager, said Friday. Between 20 and 30 craft were being gassed, and some serviced every day.

McClung said letters of commendation for the airport and its services had been sent through to the headquarters of the Phillips Petroleum Corp., in Bartlesville, Okla., by representatives who had been through.

McClung doesn't know it yet, but a letter also came from one of the Flying Physicians who "Flew In" last Saturday for the meeting here, commending the personnel at the airport and their treatment. Dr. Lloyd Southwick of Edinburg, president of the Texas branch of the Flying Physicians, who flew in with his son (a doctor) and a McAllen doctor, said the treatment received helped to generate interest in a city whose hospitality was appreciated.

"The red carpet reception for us was something to be long remembered," he said. "In some places there is a 'high and mighty' attitude toward private aircraft which creates in us a feeling of not being wanted. Not so at Big Spring and we'll be coming back."

Mrs. Fred Luring received a

Big Crowd For Event

Parents' Night at the YMCA drew over 400 participants and parents, Friday night, when 215 boys, girls and adults participated in the performances. Joe Leach, director, said Saturday.

"We feel that it was a very great success," he said, "and believe everyone was pleased with what he saw."

Mrs. Ora Burson and her group presented a ballet tap, and free calisthenics. Richard Cook, instructor, and Wiley Woodard, directed a few acts in gymnastics. Parents were taken through the craft room following the acts, and examined some of the arts and crafts work being done during the summer. Mrs. Terry Patterson, craft director, was in charge of the tour through the room.

"We still have some openings in the boys and girls day camp," Leach said, "and if any are interested we are asking that they call us or come by the Y for information."

Losers Members

ROME (AP)—The Italian Communist party, largest in the Western world, has lost 20,000 more members, and is down to 1.7 million members. In 1954 the party claimed 2.2 million.

coveted card this week. It was her private flying license for which she has been working many hours. Now there are two pilots in the family, as the doctor has been a licensed pilot for some time.

Sgt. Delmar Bradshaw, who has been rebuilding an airplane at Howard County, paid a visit to the airport Friday. He suffered a broken leg in a motor scooter accident some time ago and has been in the Air Force hospital in San Antonio. He was on leave from the hospital. Sgt. Bradshaw is a member of the Webb Aero Club.

The Brown & Root DC-3, with about a dozen men, flew in last week for an inspection of work being done on the Sid Richardson carbon black plant.

Two airplanes took off Friday for Austin where several Big Spring citizens paid their respects to Sen. David Ratliff who was governor for a day. Gov. Daniel is at the governors' conference in Honolulu, and Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey found a reason to be out of the state Friday. The big Cessna plane left Friday morning with a load, and Clyde McMahon's plane left in the afternoon.

Fred Kasch and Dick Standifer flew to Arlington Friday on a business trip in Kasch's Comanche.

Local flying hours were put in during the week by Mrs. Jo Broadrick, Bob Brock, Jack Lewis, George Peacock, and Joe Clark, all of whom are working for the private licenses.

Other aircraft coming in during the week included the W. R. Grace Co.'s D18 for an overnight stay, and Cabot's Aero-Commander, which came in twice on business trips.

For Small Letters, No Doubt

Big Spring post office has a new truck—a compact Jeep job. Ben Hitt, substitute carrier, is shown looking the truck over. It is one of four sent to this area. Three others went to Odessa.

The post office now has four trucks—but only one of the tiny jobs. It will be used for special delivery mail according to E. C. Boalter, postmaster.

Three Scout Units Take Organization Steps Here Friday

Three new Boy Scout troops took organizational steps Friday night. Troop 140, sponsored by the Salvation Army and Troop 301, sponsored by Ellis Homes, and Troop 302, sponsored by Bethel Baptist Church, met at the sponsors' office.

No. 140 met at 7 p.m. with Scoutmaster Henry Hodges directing the organizational meeting at Salvation Army headquarters.

No. 301, with Airman Ron

Mraz of Webb AFB, scoutmaster, met at the Ellis Homes Apartments office. This was to be the second meeting of the troop and they hoped to get going of the tiny jobs. No. 302 is a new troop for Negro boys. Their first meeting was scheduled to be supervised by the pastor, Rev. Montgomery.

DIAL
AM 3-2541
Or
AM 3-3662
IN BIG SPRING
117 W. 1st

MAYFLOWER
MOVING STORAGE
PACKING

Other Mayflower Offices Located In ABILENE
MIDLAND
ODESSA
LUBBOCK
SAN ANGELO

America's Most Recommended Mover

THOMAS & SMITH
Attorneys-At-Law
Phone AM 4-4621
First Nat'l Bank Building
Big Spring, Texas
Clyde E. Thomas
Carroll C. Smith

SEMI-ANNUAL CLEARANCE SALE — NOW IN PROGRESS —

- SHOES -

Select Group Year-Round Styles
Values To $28.95

For This Sale $15<sup>95</sup>

- SUITS -

| Values To   | NOW   |
|-------------|-------|
| 59.50 . . . | 41.50 |
| 65.00 . . . | 45.50 |
| 69.50 . . . | 47.50 |
| 79.50 . . . | 55.00 |
| 85.00 . . . | 57.50 |

LIMITED ALTERATIONS

Swim Wear
Casual Slacks
Pajamas
Belts And White Dress Shirts Also Reduced For This Sale!

Lee Hanson
MEN'S STORE

126 East 3rd Big Spring

- HATS -

Western, Dress,
Novelty Straws

1/2 Price

- SHIRTS -

Large Selection Of Dress, Knit
And Short Sleeve
SPORT SHIRTS

1/2 Regular Price

- TIES -

Large Group Of Ties With Values
To $3.50. Get Them
While They Last For

Just 1/2 Regular Price

ONE TABLE
BERMUDA
SHORTS GREATLY REDUCED!

- SHOES -

Select Group
Loafers And Summer Styles
Values To $27.95

For This Sale $13<sup>95</sup>

- Sport Coats -

| Values To   | NOW   |
|-------------|-------|
| 39.95 . . . | 26.95 |
| 45.00 . . . | 30.75 |
| 49.50 . . . | 35.75 |

- Dress Slacks -

| Values To   | NOW   |
|-------------|-------|
| 11.95 . . . | 7.75  |
| 14.95 . . . | 10.75 |
| 16.95 . . . | 11.75 |
| 17.95 . . . | 13.75 |
| 19.95 . . . | 14.75 |
| 21.50 . . . | 15.75 |

NO ALTERATIONS

MANY MORE SAVINGS
Throughout The Store. Shop While Selections Are Good
ALL SALES FINAL

NOTICE

All Accounts Owing
L. Dwain Henson Men's Store
Are Now Owned By Elmo Wasson And Payable To Mr. Wasson At The Store

Formerly L. Dwain Henson Men's Store

June 30, 1961

WANT A NEW BOAT?

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

we always have time to serve you

treat yourself to a new boat with a Loan from First National Summertime is outdoor fun time. Time to start thinking about swimming, fishing and boating. If you'd like to give your family a Summer of fun-filled outings . . . treat yourself to a new boat. Stop in at First National and discover how easy it is to get a boat loan. At First National you know you'll get a loan that's suited to your particular needs. Treat yourself to service with a boat loan at First National . . . most helpful bank of all.

MEMBER F.D.I.C.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SECTION B

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JULY 2, 1961

SECTION B

Only Four Repeat On Star Squads

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' one-two punch; Willie Mays of San Francisco and Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee were the only repeaters from 1960 named Saturday to the starting lineups for the All-Star baseball games July 11 at San Francisco and July 12 at Boston.

The result of the vote by major league players, coaches and managers was announced from the office of Commissioner Ford Frick. There were 233 votes from the 10 club American League and 233 from the eight-club National.

Norm Cash, the American League's leading hitter, and home run hitting sensation of the Detroit Tigers who made the team for the first time was the top vote-getter with 235 or 80 per cent. Frank Bolling, Milwaukee second baseman who never made the American team in his years with Detroit, topped the National vote with 183 or 78 per cent of the ballots.

Johnny Temple, who played in four All-Star games for the National at Cincinnati, made the American League team as the Cleveland second baseman. Johnny Romano, Indians' catcher, also made the team, beating out New York's Elston Howard and Minnesota's Earl Battey. Tony Kubek, Yankee shortstop, was the third New Yorker, on the team with Mantle in center and Maris in right field. Cash at first base and Detroit's Rocky Colavito in left field and Baltimore's Brooks Robinson at third rounded out the starting lineup, exclusive of pitchers. Robinson had the toughest battle, topping Minnesota's Harmon Killebrew 173 to 104 votes.

TEMPLE MATHWS

As everybody expects Whitey Ford of New York to be the AL starting pitcher, the Yanks probably will have four men in the starting lineup at Candlestick Park and possibly at Fenway Park 20 days later.

Mays will have teammate Orlando Cepeda of the Giants slanking him in left field and Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh in right field. The champion Pirates also are represented by All-Star catcher Smokey Burgess.

In the National, Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers won the shortstop job with 91 votes over Eddie Kasko of Cincinnati with 63 and Ernie Banks of Chicago, who had 54.

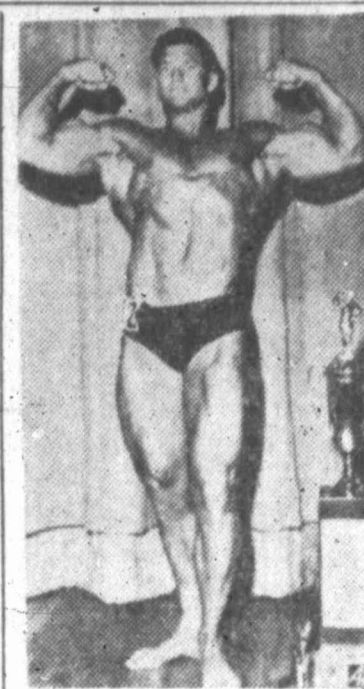

Mathews and Bolling are the Milwaukee delegation in the National starting lineup. Bill White of St. Louis won the first base job and Wills will be at shortstop. These players must start and play the first three innings of both games, unless injured. The rest of the squads, including pitchers, will be selected by Manager Paul Richards of Baltimore for the American and Manager Danny Murtagh of Pittsburgh for the National. The American squad will be announced July 4 and the National July 6. The squad will total 25 for the San Francisco game with additions to make 28 for Boston.

The two managers will name their starters the day before the game but everybody thinks Ford is a cinch to go for the American and probably Warren Spahn or Sandy Koufax for the National. No pitcher can work more than three innings.

Averages through games of Thursday, June 29, gave the American starters an edge in home runs 113 to 90. This is the fourth year in which the players, coaches, and managers have named the starting lineups. The old system of a vote by the fans was abandoned after the 1957 game.

The National League won both 1960 games, 3-3 at Kansas City and 6-0 two days later at Yankee Stadium. Although the National has won nine of the last 13 games, the American still leads in the series 16-13. This is the third time the leagues will play two All-Star games, and possibly the last.

Both games will be televised nationally (NBC).

Mr. America 1961

Roy Routhledge, a 6-foot 208-pound Air Force sergeant stationed in Germany, won the 1961 Mr. America contest in Santa Monica, California. Routhledge, 27, father of five children, has a 30-inch chest, 18-inch biceps and 32-inch waist.

BASEBALL STANDINGS

| NATIONAL LEAGUE |    |    |      |
|-----------------|----|----|------|
| Club            | W  | L  | Pct. |
| Cincinnati      | 45 | 39 | .537 |
| Los Angeles     | 44 | 41 | .519 |
| San Francisco   | 42 | 43 | .494 |
| Pittsburgh      | 38 | 47 | .447 |
| Milwaukee       | 34 | 51 | .401 |
| St. Louis       | 33 | 52 | .390 |
| Chicago         | 29 | 56 | .343 |
| Philadelphia    | 26 | 59 | .307 |

| AMERICAN LEAGUE |    |    |      |
|-----------------|----|----|------|
| Club            | W  | L  | Pct. |
| New York        | 46 | 37 | .554 |
| Cleveland       | 44 | 39 | .529 |
| Baltimore       | 40 | 43 | .482 |
| Boston          | 38 | 45 | .457 |
| Washington      | 33 | 50 | .398 |
| Minnesota       | 30 | 53 | .361 |
| Kansas City     | 29 | 54 | .349 |
| Los Angeles     | 28 | 55 | .338 |

| SATURDAY'S RESULTS                      |                                              |                                                |                                        |
|-----------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------|
| San Francisco 4, Pittsburgh 3           | Los Angeles 3, St. Louis 1                   | Philadelphia 2, Chicago 1                      |                                        |
| PROBABLY PITCHERS                       |                                              |                                                |                                        |
| Cincinnati (Purkey 8-4 and O'Toole 6-7) | at Milwaukee (Cleminger 1-1 and Nolasco 3-4) | San Francisco (Lemay 1-0 and Marshall 6-4)     | at Pittsburgh (Shantz 4-1 and Law 5-1) |
| Los Angeles (Craig 3-4 and Koufax 10-4) | at Philadelphia (Roberts 1-0)                | St. Louis (Clemens 2-4) at Chicago (Hobbs 5-9) |                                        |

| SATURDAY'S RESULTS                                 |                                                    |                                                    |  |
|----------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------|--|
| New York 7, Washington 5                           | Cleveland 7, Boston 5                              | Minnesota 5, Kansas City 3                         |  |
| Detroit 11, Baltimore 8                            | Chicago 4, Los Angeles 2                           | Chicago 4, Los Angeles 2                           |  |
| PROBABLY PITCHERS                                  |                                                    |                                                    |  |
| Detroit (Regan 7-5) at Baltimore (Krause 5-5)      | Washington (Burnside 1-4) at New York (Daley 5-10) | Chicago (Pizarro 4-0) at Los Angeles (Mortier 3-5) |  |
| Minnesota (Ramsey 5-9) at Kansas City (Walker 3-3) | Chicago (Grant 7-2) at Boston (Conley 3-6)         |                                                    |  |

Lamesa Legion Team Is Again Winner, 11 To 10

The Lamesa American Legion baseball team took full advantage of wildness on the part of local hurlers to defeat Big Spring, 11-10, in a District 19 South Zone game here Saturday afternoon.

Big Spring had a 10-7 lead at one stage of the game but couldn't stand prosperity.

The victory sewed up first place for the Lamesans. Both teams, however, qualified for the district playoffs, which start in Lamesa July 10.

Two local hurlers, Bowman Roberts and Rickey Wisener, walked 11 batters. Pitching chores for Lamesa were divided between Gene Westmoreland and Jimmy Wyatt, with the latter getting credit for the win.

Big Spring outlit the visitors, 8-7, with Jerry Dunlap, Jeff Brown, Herb Sorley and Tommy Young each collecting two hits.

James Woods was the only Lamesa player to get two safeties. He also scored three times.

Sherrill Kidd scored what proved to be the winning run after singling in the fifth. An erratic throw by Roberts, trying to pick him off at second, enabled Kidd to scoot home.

Young tripled to open Big Spring's half of the seventh but later was retired on a play at home plate. Jerry Tucker and Wisener fanned to end the game.

Lamesa is still unbeaten in zone play. It has two games remaining. Big Spring has been beaten twice, both times by Lamesa.

| Lamesa 11  | AB         | R   | H   | E    | Big Spring 8 | AB | R | H | E |
|------------|------------|-----|-----|------|--------------|----|---|---|---|
| Harris 2b  | 5          | 0   | 1   | 0    | Dunlap 3b    | 3  | 2 | 2 | 0 |
| Woods 1b   | 3          | 2   | 2   | 0    | Smith 2b     | 3  | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Young 3b   | 3          | 2   | 1   | 0    | Franklin rf  | 0  | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Roberts cf | 3          | 2   | 1   | 0    | Woods 1b     | 3  | 2 | 2 | 0 |
| Kidd 1b    | 3          | 2   | 1   | 0    | Harris 2b    | 3  | 0 | 1 | 0 |
| Wisener rf | 3          | 0   | 0   | 0    | Young 3b     | 3  | 2 | 1 | 0 |
| Tucker lf  | 3          | 0   | 0   | 0    | Roberts cf   | 3  | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Woods 1b   | 3          | 0   | 0   | 0    | Kidd 1b      | 3  | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Wyatt p    | 3          | 0   | 0   | 0    | Wisener rf   | 3  | 0 | 0 | 0 |
| Totals     | 30         | 11  | 7   | 0    | Totals       | 30 | 8 | 7 | 0 |
| Lamesa     | Big Spring | 250 | 300 | 6-15 |              |    |   |   |   |

Don Bragg Sets Decathlon Mark

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Don Bragg of the Delaware Valley Athletic Association Saturday night set a world's record in the decathlon pole vault event as he cleared 15 feet, 1 1/2 inches.

The old decathlon record of 15 feet, 4 1/2 inches was set by Bob Richards in 1956.

Earlier, Bragg Olympic record holding pole vaulter, plodded through the 110-hurdles in 19.4 seconds.

J.D. Martin of the University of Oklahoma turned in a sparkling 14.8-second performance to lead the first flight in the 110-meter hurdles as the second round of the championships opened.

Podres Records Eighth Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Johnny Podres won his eighth game Saturday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers moved within a game and a half of the National

Machen Upset By Johnson

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Harold Johnson, the NBA light heavyweight champion, racked up his 15th straight victory and moved high in the heavyweight ranks Saturday night by outpointing heavyweight contender Eddie Machen in a non-title 10-round at Convention Hall.

Referee Paul Cavalier, the sole official, awarded the decision to Johnson, five rounds to four, with one even. The Associated Press scorecard had Johnson in front 7-3 in the televised contest.

It was a dull duel of left jabs most of the way between two scientific and cautious boxers who respected each other. This resulted in boos from the fans as early as the fourth round and it wasn't until the eighth round that they each got in some solid licks.

Johnson, the 8.5 favorite, weighed 181, the heaviest of his career. Machen, the No. 2 heavyweight contender from Portland, Ore., weighed 193.

League-leading Cincinnati Reds by beating the Phillies 5-2.

The Dodgers, after trailing most of the game, tied the score 2-2 in the sixth on an RBI triple by Norm Larker. Then they routed losing pitcher John Bushardt (2-10) with a three-run flurry in the eighth inning with Daryl Spencer's two-run single with the bases loaded as the main wallop. Tommy Davis led the Dodgers' attack with four straight singles while the Phillies managed only six hits — with one of their runs scoring on a wild pitch in the second — off Podres (8-1) before Larry Sherry took over in the eighth and preserved the victory.

| LOS ANGELES  |     |    |   |
|--------------|-----|----|---|
| Podres (8-1) | 2-3 | 4  | 0 |
| W. Davis     | 4   | 0  | 0 |
| Moon         | 2   | 0  | 0 |
| Spencer      | 2   | 0  | 1 |
| Larker       | 1   | 0  | 0 |
| Wenderson    | 0   | 0  | 0 |
| Hodges       | 0   | 0  | 0 |
| Rogers       | 0   | 0  | 0 |
| Spencer      | 0   | 0  | 0 |
| Podres       | 0   | 0  | 0 |
| L. Sherry    | 0   | 0  | 0 |
| Totals       | 23  | 10 | 4 |

| PHILADELPHIA |    |   |   |
|--------------|----|---|---|
| W. Davis     | 2  | 0 | 0 |
| Spencer      | 1  | 0 | 0 |
| Bushardt     | 0  | 0 | 0 |
| Wenderson    | 0  | 0 | 0 |
| Hodges       | 0  | 0 | 0 |
| Rogers       | 0  | 0 | 0 |
| Spencer      | 0  | 0 | 0 |
| Podres       | 0  | 0 | 0 |
| L. Sherry    | 0  | 0 | 0 |
| Totals       | 10 | 1 | 0 |

Ramsey, Holt Advance In Golf Tournament

Defending champion W. E. Ramsey advanced to the second round of the Fourth of July Golf Tournament at the Big Spring Country Club Saturday by outlasting long-hitting Frog Koger, 1 up.

Ramsey won the right to play Daryl Hohertz in today's quarter-final match. Hohertz, who has been playing fine golf of late, got by Jack Wallace in his first test, 4 and 3.

Ramsey is favored to advance to the finals against Col. Jack Holt. Both semifinal and final matches will be unrelenting Tuesday. Tomorrow is a day of rest for all players.

Holt fashioned a 76, five over par.

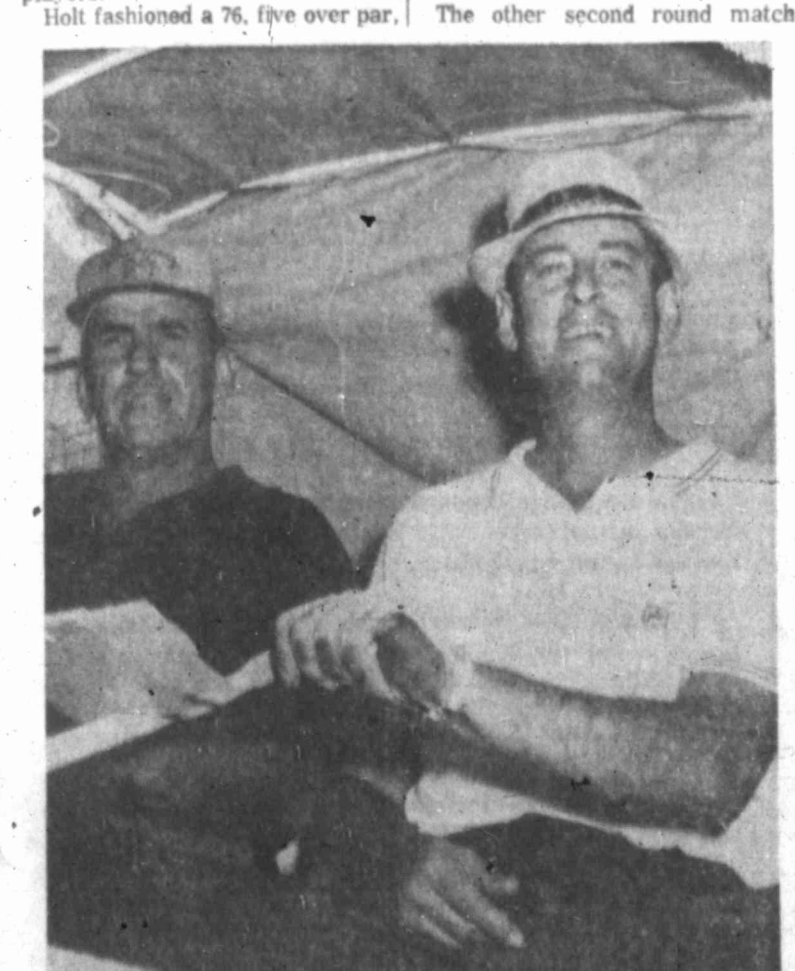

Saturday, but that proved good enough to oust Carl Marcum, 3 and 2.

Today, the Webb officer goes up against R. S. (Red) McCullah, a past champion. The red-head defeated medalist Son Powell by a score of 1 up Saturday.

James Lee Underwood and the veteran Obie Bristow both moved up and play each other today.

Underwood was one over par in beating Frank Powell by a score of 2 and 1. Bristow fanned out Earl Reynolds, 3 and 2.

The other second round match

Taking It Easy

Frog Koger (left) and Arch Ratliff take a golf cart in touring the Big Spring Country Club Saturday. Both are entered in the annual Fourth of July Golf Tournament, which got under way yesterday and continues through Tuesday.

Look How Prager's Have Slashed Prices!

CLEARANCE

OF MEN'S SUMMER WEAR!

SLACKS

OUR ENTIRE STOCK OF FINE SLACKS, CLEARANCE-PRICED

|               |         |
|---------------|---------|
| 25.00 - 22.50 | $14.60 |
| 21.50 - 19.95 | $13.60 |
| 18.95 - 17.95 | $11.60 |
| 16.95 - 15.95 | $10.60 |
| 14.95 - 13.95 | $9.60  |
| 12.95 - 11.95 | $8.60  |
| 10.95 - 9.95  | $7.60  |
| 8.95 - 7.95   | $6.60  |

MEN'S SUIT Sale!

SUMMER SUITS, LIGHT WEIGHTS, SOME YEAR 'ROUND AND WASH 'N WEAR

|             |         |
|-------------|---------|
| 69.50 SUITS | $46.60 |
| 65.00 SUITS | $42.60 |
| 60.00 SUITS | $39.60 |
| 55.00 SUITS | $36.60 |
| 50.00 SUITS | $32.60 |
| 39.95 SUITS | $26.60 |
| 29.95 SUITS | $19.60 |

Casual Pants

WASH AND WEAR IN CORDS, COTTONS, ETC., FROM FARRAH, DICKIES, LEVI STRAUSS AND H.I.S.

|            |        |
|------------|--------|
| 5.00 PANTS | $3.60 |
| 5.95 PANTS | $3.90 |

SPORT COAT Sale!

YOU'LL WANT A NEW SPORT COAT TO FINISH THE SUMMER WITH—NOW GREATLY REDUCED

|                   |         |
|-------------------|---------|
| 39.50 SPORT COATS | $26.60 |
| 35.00 SPORT COATS | $22.60 |
| 30.00 SPORT COATS | $19.60 |
| 25.00 SPORT COATS | $16.60 |

SUITS, SPORT COATS

REDUCED AS MUCH AS 40% - 50% OFF!

Clearance Of Boys' Slacks, Suits, Sport Coats

|                                |        |                                    |        |
|--------------------------------|--------|------------------------------------|--------|
| BOYS' 8.95 SLACKS              | $6.60 | BOYS' 6.95 SLACKS                  | $4.60 |
| BOYS' 7.95 SLACKS              | $5.60 | BOYS' 5.95 And 4.95 SLACKS         | $3.60 |
| Boys' 3.95 Slacks . . . $2.60 |        |                                    |        |
| BOYS' SUITS $6.60 To $13.60  |        | BOYS' SPT. COATS $5.60 To $13.60 |        |

SALE STARTS MONDAY, 8:30 A.M.

Prager's
102 E. 3rd
We Give And Redeem Scottie Stamps

Cosden Techniques Sold To Japanese

Dan M. Krausse, vice president in charge of manufacturing at Cosden Refinery, has recently returned from a business trip to Japan.

In the 10 days he spent there, Krausse called on Cosden customers and negotiated with firms which will be licensing Cosden polystyrene and polybutene processes. In addition, he had an opportunity to see the Japanese oil industry first hand.

"The Idemitsu Kosan Refinery at Tokuyama is one of the most beautiful I have ever seen," Krausse said. "It was on stream in 1956 and is quite modern." It is built on the site of the old Tokuyama Naval Base.

Krausse was the guest of Dr. Isaburo Watanabe for part of his stay in Japan. Dr. Watanabe is now in charge of the plant and was formerly commander of the Tokuyama Base while an Admiral in the Japanese Navy.

Cosden has no firms or subsidiaries in Japan, Krausse said, but it has many customers for its products there.

"We have contracts to export more than $3 million worth of chemicals and plastics to Japan," he said.

A contract negotiated with the Shin Nippon Chisso K.K. firm was recently validated by the Japanese Government. The firm will be using the Cosden polystyrene process and Krausse visited the firm to help it get started. He discussed technical aspects of the process and market development techniques.

DAN M. KRAUSSE

Krausse also negotiated a licensing agreement with the Miki Gosei Chemical Industry Co. Ltd. That firm will use the Cosden polystyrene process. Purchases of styrene monomer will be made in Japan, however, he pointed out, and not from Cosden.

Japan has few oil reserves, Krausse said, and most of its crude oil is imported from the Middle East. The refining industry there is almost self-sustaining.

Most licensed processes they use were imported from the United States, England or Germany. Their researchers have added refinements to some of the technology but most of the basic technology was imported.

Krausse's itinerary during the 10 days reads like a travelogue through one of the most romantic portions of the Orient.

Tokyo—the hub of Japan and a city with nine million people, more than the state of Texas.

Kyoto and Nara—ancient capitals of Japan. These historical sites were the birthplaces of Japanese culture.

Lake Biwa—a scenic inland lake on Honshu, the largest island of the Japanese group.

And then on the return trip, Honolulu. Mrs. Krausse flew to meet her husband there for a weekend vacation before making the return trip to home.

"It was a refreshing trip to a beautiful land," Krausse said. "There are no finer hosts in the world."

Scholarship

Margaret L. Corzine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Corzine, 610 N. Whitaker, Odessa, is among the area students awarded a scholarship by the Phillips Petroleum Company. The scholarship will be worth $2,000 and is from the Phillips educational fund for children. She is one of 50 to be selected from the 153 candidates qualifying. Runnerup was Betty Sue Garrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lenard F. Garrett, Rankin.

Active Rig Count Loses One Unit

Permian Basin Empire rotary drilling activity declined slightly last week, with 218 units in operation Friday, down one from the previous week's 219, according to Reed Roller Bit Company's Friday survey.

Lea County, N. M., which slid from 42 to 36 active rigs, continued to lead West Texas and Southeast New Mexico operations. Last year at this time 230 rigs were making hole.

The county-by-county survey, with previous totals in parentheses, includes:

Andrews 16 (15), Borden 3 (2), Chaves 1 (1), Cochran 0 (1), Coke 0 (2), Crane 9 (10), Crockett 2 (1), Culbertson 1 (1), Curry 0 (1), DAWSON 2 (4).

Dickens 1 (1), Ector 12 (12), Eddy 5 (8), Fisher 2 (3), Gaines 10 (9), GARZA 2 (1), GLASSCOCK 1 (0), Hale 1 (0), Hockley 6 (6), HOWARD 3 (2).

Kent 3 (4), Lea 36 (42), Loving 2 (2), Lubbock 1 (1), Lynn 1 (1), MARTIN 6 (5), Menard 0 (1), Midland 7 (9), MITCHELL 1 (2), Nolan 3 (3).

Pecos 15 (9), Presidio 0 (1), Reagan 1 (2), Reeves 7 (5), Roosevelt 12 (9), Runnels 3 (3), Schleicher 4 (5), Scurry 3 (3), STERLING 1 (1), Stonewall 1 (4).

Sutton 1 (1), Terrell 3 (3), Tom Green 3 (1), Upton 5 (1), Ward 3 (3), Winkler 9 (8), Yoakum 10 (9), TOTALS 218 (219).

Kuwait Has World's Largest Proven Petroleum Reserves

HOUSTON (AP)—Kuwait is tiny but her proved oil reserves are the largest in the world.

Oil development since 1947 in the 1,900 square mile Middle East sheikdom has been fantastic.

Kuwait is about the size of the island of Trinidad. Texas has 12 counties larger in area than the little nation Premier Abdel Karim Kassam of Iraq hopes to annex.

Yet Kuwait has led all oil nations in proved crude reserves since 1956.

Her potential still is unknown. Numerous land areas still have not been explored. Kuwait's Persian Gulf offshore areas, practically untouched so far, are believed to hold billions of barrels of reserves.

Kuwait and other Middle East nations have led the post-war development program that has wiped out the United States' dominant position over world crude reserves.

In 1947 the United States held

34 per cent of world reserves with an estimated 21 billion barrels. Kuwait ranked sixth with 4½ billion or only 7 per cent.

Estimates of reserves at the end of 1960 had Kuwait in first place with an estimated 62 billion barrels or 20 per cent of the world total. The United States had 33 billion or 11 per cent, ranking fourth behind Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and Iran.

When compared with United States standards, Kuwait has assumed her dominant position with only a handful of producing wells.

Kuwait is turning out about 1,800,000 barrels of oil a day with only 350 wells. Texas has 198,000 wells and currently is producing 2,500,000 barrels a day.

The spacing pattern in Kuwait as early as 1948 was one well to 600 acres. The normal Texas pattern is 40 acres but if the owner of a one-quarter acre tract wants to drill a well on his land he can do so.

The United States still leads the world in crude production but the Middle East boom has dropped her share from 61 per cent in 1947 to 34 per cent in 1960. Kuwait had only 0.54 per cent of world output in 1947 but had over 7 per cent last year.

Kuwait Oil Co. Ltd., a 50-50 partnership between two British and American firms, Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. and Gulf Exploration Co., obtained a 75-year Kuwait concession in 1934. In 1951 the concession, including a six-mile offshore strip, was validated to the year 2025.

The Bughaim Field was discovered in 1938 at only 3,700 feet. Burghaim's reserves originally were estimated at nine billion barrels. Some recent estimates indicate the vast reservoir may hold more oil than all United States reserves combined.

Most Kuwait crude is taken by the British Petroleum Co. and Royal Dutch Shell.

Mabee Field Project Finaled

Texas Co. 14-B J. E. Mabee has been finalized in the Mabee pool of Martin County for an initial pumping potential of 76 barrels of 31.6 gravity oil per day.

There was 39 per cent water and the gas oil ratio was nil. Drilled to a total depth of 4,760 feet, top of the pay was pegged at 4,670 feet and the open hole pay section is between 4,769,780 feet. The 4½ inch casing is cemented at 4,670 feet. Operator acidized with 6,000 gallons.

Location is 1,997 from north and 1,993 from east lines of section 17-39-G&MMB&A survey.

Conoco No. 1 W. J. Beckham was making hole below 7,655 feet Saturday. This Ackerly field project is C NE NE of section 40-34-4n, T&P survey.

Conoco's No. 1-A Brown, another Ackerly field project in Dawson County, is digging below 6,415 feet. Location is 660 from south and 900 from west lines of section 2-34-4n, T&P survey.

OIL DIRECTORY

WEST TEXAS

SOUTHWEST TOOL CO.

Oil Field And Industrial Manufacture And Repair

Drill Collar Service

24 HOUR SERVICE

901 E. 2nd

Big Spring

W. D. CALDWELL—Dirt Contractor

Bulldozers — Maintainers — Shovels — Scrapers

Air Compressors — Drag Lines

DIAL AM 4-8062

WILSON BROTHERS

GENERAL CONTRACTORS

Specializing In Oil Field Construction

710 E. 15th

Dial AM 4-7312 Or AM 3-2528

CACTUS PAINT MFG. CO., Inc.

We Manufacture All Grades And Types Of Industrial Paints And Enamels — Primer Coatings —

Aluminum Paints — Pipe Line Coverings

East Highway 80 Phone AM 4-8922

Deepest Frac Job Reported In West Texas

Texas was the principal loser as daily average production of domestic oil dropped 160,975 barrels to 6,939,275 barrels during the week ended June 24, according to the Oil and Gas Journal.

Texas dropped 77,000 barrels to 2,422,600 barrels. Second highest loser was Louisiana, off 48,975 barrels to 1,110,825 barrels.

Part of the loss was attributed to refinery shutdowns on the Gulf and East coasts because of the maritime strike. If all concerned accept the latest proposals as appears likely the strike may be ended.

After a 9,600 barrels a day loss by Oklahoma during the week, the July oil allowable has been set at a 13 barrels a day by the Corporation Commission.

This will produce about 505,000 barrels of oil a day compared with 503,000 for the first 24 days of June.

At the 1961 convention of the American Association of Petroleum Landmen three prominent educators received honorary memberships in the AAPL.

They were Dr. Andrew Rockover Cecil, executive vice president, Southwestern Legal Foundation; Dr. William H. Keown, University of Oklahoma, and Dr. Kenneth H. Olm, The University of Texas.

From Baytown comes word that crewmen of the Esso Bethlehem received double honors this week for their rescue of five persons at sea last year.

On May 2, 1960, while the Esso Bethlehem was en route from Baytown to New York, distress signals were picked up about 90 miles southeast of Charleston. The call concerned the yacht Dutch Treat.

Despite rough seas and strong winds, the crew lowered a lifeboat into darkness and rescued the five persons on board after they abandoned the yacht.

The world's deepest frac job on a West Texas well was recently completed for the Atlantic Refining Company. The No. 1 Lucas State, about 23 miles west of Fort Stockton, was treated through perforations from 16,030 to 16,210 feet in the Devonian.

Deepest fracturing done previously was performed earlier this year in the British-American Producing Co. No. 1-X Vera D. Hussy, near Lindsay, Okla.

There were 175 wells plugged including 14 gas wells and 81 oil wells.

The total average calendar day allowable was 2,655,595 barrels compared to 2,699,915 on June 24.

There were 8 gas wildcats in Dist. 2, 5 each in Dist. 4 and 7-B, and one in Dist. 1.

There were 197 wells plugged including 14 gas wells and 81 oil wells.

The total average calendar day allowable was 2,655,595 barrels compared to 2,699,915 on June 24.

There were 8 gas wildcats in Dist. 2, 5 each in Dist. 4 and 7-B, and one in Dist. 1.

There were 197 wells plugged including 14 gas wells and 81 oil wells.

The total average calendar day allowable was 2,655,595 barrels compared to 2,699,915 on June 24.

There were 8 gas wildcats in Dist. 2, 5 each in Dist. 4 and 7-B, and one in Dist. 1.

Carbon Plant About Ready

The Sid Richardson Carbon Plant will go on stream July 10 if everything works out as planned, according to John Hogg, plant manager.

"Mechanically the plant is complete. All we need to do now is check out each component to be sure there are no leaks and that it is functioning right," Hogg said.

"That is a huge task," he added. The construction crew has been cut from about 170 men to about 90 at present. Included in the testing will be the furnace reactors, cyclone separators, filters, pelletizing and drying units and storage areas.

"We are all getting anxious to get the job completed and begin making carbon black," he said. "From here on out we will be working seven days a week."

The plant will use oil, gas, water and air as basic materials for recovering carbon black. Oil will be acquired from Cosden.

After heating to induce separation of carbon from the oil, water is used to stop the reaction. The carbon is then mechanically collected and converted into pellet form. Carbon black is used extensively by the tire industry to give synthetic rubber toughness for wear.

The plant will have an estimated annual output of 50 million pounds of carbon black.

The Industrial Foundation of the Permian Basin has been formed in Odessa to combat rising workmen's compensation insurance costs.

Trucking companies, drilling contractors, casing crews, well service firms and other groups within the oil industry make up the foundation.

"Our campaign is not to eliminate awards to injured persons nor to reduce insurance company profits," Don Caldwell, Odessa, executive secretary, said. "It is aimed at the 'professional claimant' who has received total disability several times and filed numerous suits against companies."

Its goals were said to be eliminating "professional claimants," encouraging businessmen to serve on juries, informing people of the cost to them when big judgments are decreed and encouraging support of worthwhile legislation.

"The foundation will make no effort to control anyone," Caldwell said. "It will merely act as an information clearing house."

Similar groups have been formed in Lubbock and Houston with tentative efforts in that direction in Abilene and the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Similar groups have been formed in Lubbock and Houston with tentative efforts in that direction in Abilene and the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Similar groups have been formed in Lubbock and Houston with tentative efforts in that direction in Abilene and the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Similar groups have been formed in Lubbock and Houston with tentative efforts in that direction in Abilene and the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Similar groups have been formed in Lubbock and Houston with tentative efforts in that direction in Abilene and the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Similar groups have been formed in Lubbock and Houston with tentative efforts in that direction in Abilene and the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Similar groups have been formed in Lubbock and Houston with tentative efforts in that direction in Abilene and the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Similar groups have been formed in Lubbock and Houston with tentative efforts in that direction in Abilene and the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

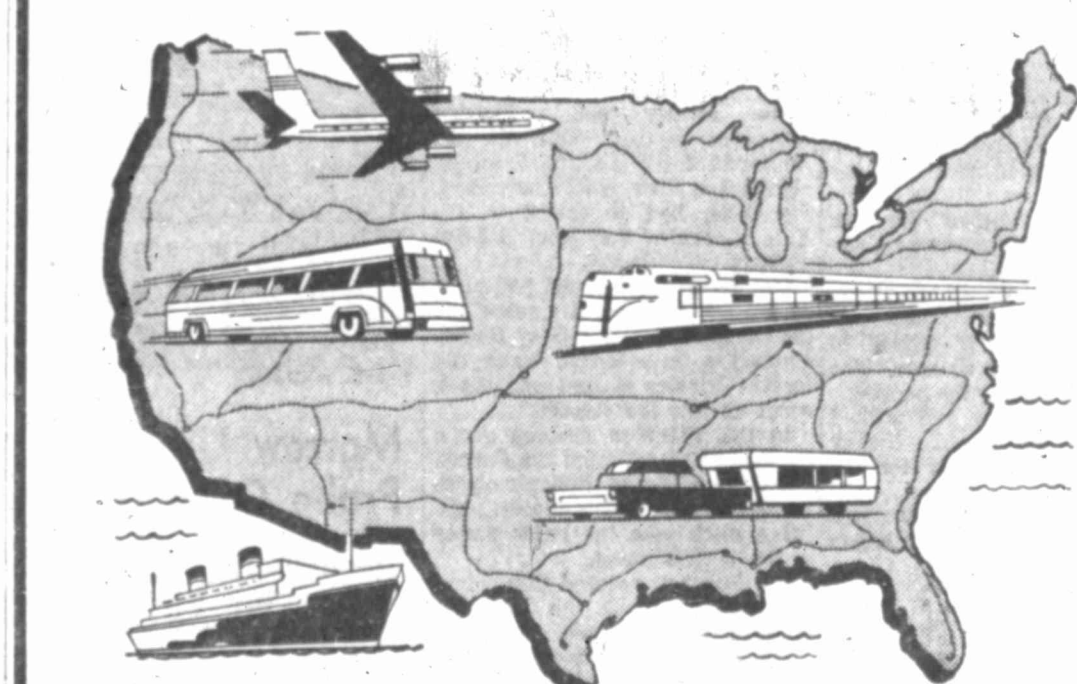

Similar groups have been formed in Lubbock and Houston with tentative efforts in that direction in Abilene and the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Similar groups have been formed in Lubbock and Houston with tentative efforts in that direction in Abilene and the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Similar groups have been formed in Lubbock and Houston with tentative efforts in that direction in Abilene and the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Similar groups have been formed in Lubbock and Houston with tentative efforts in that direction in Abilene and the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Similar groups have been formed in Lubbock and Houston with tentative efforts in that direction in Abilene and the Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

Before You Leave For Your Trip ...

Call The Herald And Order Your VACATION-PAC

COPIES OF THE HERALD WILL BE SAVED FOR YOU TO PICK UP ON YOUR RETURN.

DON'T MISS THE HOME TOWN NEWS.

Call AM 4-4331

ASK FOR CIRCULATION DEPARTMENT

AND ORDER YOUR VACATION PAC

Tollett Elected To NPRA Directorate

R. L. Tollett, president of Cosden Petroleum Corporation, has been elected to the board of directors of the National Petroleum Refiners Association.

The Association was formed at the merger of the two oldest trade associations in the petroleum industry—the National Petroleum Refiners Association and the Western Petroleum Refiners Association. The merger was effective Saturday.

The NPRA was founded in 1902 by independent refiners in the Appalachian and East Coast areas and the WPRA in 1912 by independent refiners in the mid-continent area.

Raid Brazell, president of Leonard Refineries, Inc., Alma, Mich., was elected president at the organization meeting, Wednesday in Chicago. Brazell is a former president of the WPRA. He was director of refining for the Petroleum Administration for Defense in Washington during the Korean War.

"Both associations were founded by independent refiners who felt they had mutual problems which could best be solved by forming an association," he said.

The association has 95 refiner members, most independent, and 20 associate members with special interest in petroleum.

The staff and activities of the present offices will continue in Tulsa, Okla., and Washington, D.C. First general meeting of the association will be held at the Hotel Traymore, Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 13, 14 and 15.

SPECIAL OFFER

FROM Sinclair DEALERS!

ONLY $179 RETAIL $398 VALUE with FREE coupon available at Sinclair Dealers

- Perfect for beach and backyard swimming pools!
- Made of durable Vinyl plastic!
- Fun for the kids!
- In handsome green color!
- Big! 4 feet long!
- Easily inflatable!

HURRY! Drive in to your Sinclair Dealer Station today for FREE coupon!

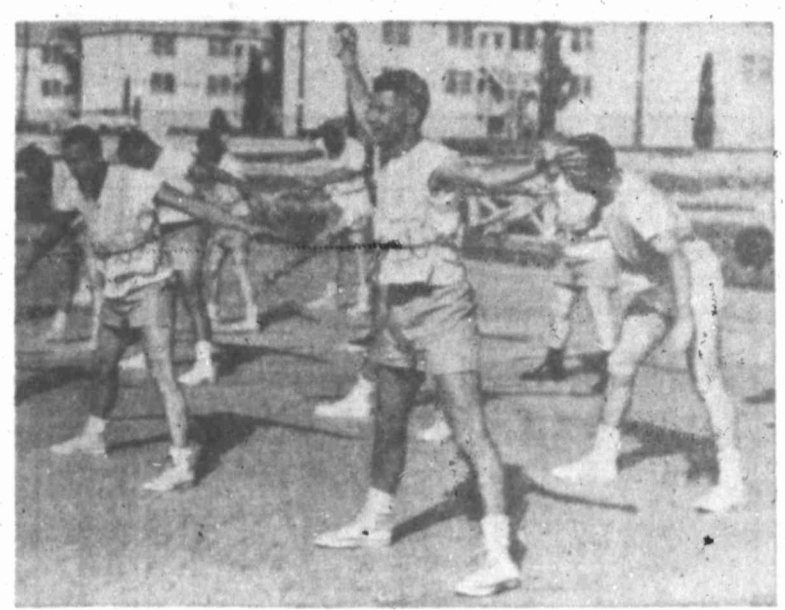

| 201 N. GREGG            |           | PETROLEUM DISTRIBUTORS, Formerly Hamby Oil Co. |                               | DIAL AM 4-4732 |  |
|-------------------------|-----------|------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------|----------------|--|
| C. L. Marchbanks        | AM 4-2556 | If No Answer, Call CASSELLMAN SER. STA.        | L. A. Marchbanks              | AM 3-3381      |  |
| LEE JENKINS             |           | 3rd And Gregg                                  | Harding And W. Highway 80     |                |  |
| 204 GREGG SINCLAIR STA. |           | GREGG ST. NO. 2                                | 87 TRUCK STOP                 |                |  |
| 204 Gregg               |           | 311 N. Gregg                                   | 808 Lamesa Highway            |                |  |
| MIDWAY TRUCK STOP       |           | COLLINS ST. AND GRO.                           | COUNTRY STORE                 |                |  |
| E. Highway 80           |           | Sand Springs                                   | Andrews Highway               |                |  |
| MURDOCK SINCLAIR        |           | SCHAEFFER'S SER. STA.                          | SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE          |                |  |
| Stanton                 |           | 502 S. Dallas, Lamesa                          | Lake Thomas, Marine White Gas |                |  |

Retiring Tug Wilson Did Lot For Big Ten

By JERRY LISKA
CHICAGO (AP) — They took Tug Wilson out of the Big Ten today, but they didn't take the Big Ten — or his dedication to sports — out of Tug Wilson.

Kenneth L. Tug Wilson, who turned 65 last March 27, officially

Trial Basis

Students in Class 62-H try physical training exercises in vests loaded with 20 pounds of weight. Use of leg and wrist weights by Webb officers over the last three years have caused a 12 per cent average increase on their physical fitness rating tests.

Webb Student Pilots Are Now Using Weighted Vests

Latest fad picked up by students undergoing pilot training at Webb AFB is physical training vests. The vests which give students that "tired down" look are loaded — with 20 pounds of weight. The weighted vests are designed to aid students in preparing for physical fitness tests, according to officials in the 3561st Student Squadron physical training department.

Webb students have been using leg and wrist weights for the past three years in the program. Students using the leg and wrist retired as Western Conference Commissioner today, being succeeded by his former assistant, Bill Reed.

Far from talking like an athletic war horse supposedly headed for pasture, Wilson pledged continued counsel and assistance to his 45-year-old successor and primed himself for a more active role as president of the United States Olympic Committee.

"I don't feel I'm exactly leaving the Big Ten," said Wilson, who had been commissioner since 1945, "because I'll be there ready to offer my experience and counsel. If my successor wants it, I feel the conference made a very wise choice in selecting Bill Reed as commissioner."

Reed, a 1936 Michigan graduate, had served under the first Big Ten commissioner, Maj. John L. Griffith, and after Navy Service in World War II, joined Wilson's conference staff.

In naming Reed commissioner several months ago, the conference stipulated that Wilson remain in an advisory capacity for one year. But Reed said Wilson can continue in that capacity as long as Reed is commissioner.

Wilson said he was leaving with "a great deal of pride" in the fact that during his 16-year tenure, conference intercollegiate performance became the strongest in Big Ten history.

He also stressed that, long before the current point — shaving cage scandal, the Big Ten took such precautions against the preying gambler that no hint of scandal touched the conference.

Wilson just returned from the Athens meeting of the International Olympic Committee.

The Athens party mainly concerned plans for the 1964 Winter Games at Innsbruck, Austria, and the Summer Games in Tokyo.

"From the results of major competitions this summer," Wilson said, "it looks like our team again will be one of the youngest ever to compete in the Olympic at Tokyo. We hope to give these youngsters the very best facilities and training for the event."

weights have averaged 12 per cent higher on physical fitness rating tests.

First to don the new vests on the physical training field was Class 62-H, which checked in June 5. The program is conducted by First Lt. James W. Martin Jr., officer training instructor, and Jimmy R. Smith, director for officers in training.

The weights were developed by Elmer Tarbox, a local man who is a former star football player for Texas Tech.

McDaniel Wins Extra Inning Bout, 8 To 7

McDaniel Construction finally broke through for a run in the 11th inning to nudge Texas Electric, 8-7, in a YMCA Industrial Softball league game unrecalled at the City Park Friday night.

Bill Dabney opened McDaniel's half of the 11th with a single and moved up on Bill Bradford's one-baser. Joe Blasingame reached first on an error and Frank Parker, who had homered with the bases empty in the tenth, gained a life on an infield bobbie, permitting Dabney to score.

Bradford collected three hits for the winners while Parker had a single, in addition to his home run. One of Bradford's blows went for three bases. Lonnie Anderson had a triple and a single for TESCO.

McDaniel Construction had to come from behind with a run in the seventh.

Jerry Paige notched the mound win, his second against three defeats. Earnest Barbee was the loser.

The player who prospered most at bat was TESCO's Neil Robb, who crashed out two doubles and two singles.

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |   |     |     |     |    |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---|-----|-----|-----|----|
| [Daniel Cons.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |   | Ab  | R   | Hi  | Mc |
| Bradford 3b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 5 | 6   | 2   | 2   | 2  |
| Blasingame 2b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 8 | 5   | 1   | 1   | 1  |
| Parker 1b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 4 | 6   | 2   | 2   | 1  |
| McDaniel 3b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 4 | 0   | 0   | 0   | 0  |
| Blasingame 2b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    | 4 | 5   | 1   | 1   | 1  |
| Palge 1b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | 5 | 5   | 0   | 0   | 0  |
| Cockrell 3b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 5 | 5   | 0   | 0   | 1  |
| Hook 1b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 5 | 5   | 0   | 0   | 1  |
| Delaney 1b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | 5 | 4   | 1   | 1   | 1  |
| Waller 1b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 5 | 4   | 1   | 1   | 1  |
| Weaver 1b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 5 | 4   | 0   | 0   | 0  |
| James 1b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | 5 | 4   | 0   | 0   | 0  |
| Totals                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |   | 47  | 8   | 11  | 5  |
| Totals                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |   | Ab  | R   | Hi  | Mc |
| Waller 1b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 5 | 4   | 1   | 1   | 0  |
| Kinnam 3b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 5 | 4   | 1   | 1   | 0  |
| Robb 1b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 5 | 7   | 0   | 0   | 0  |
| Hart 3b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          | 5 | 6   | 0   | 0   | 0  |
| Palge 1b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | 5 | 5   | 0   | 0   | 0  |
| McDaniel 3b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 5 | 6   | 0   | 0   | 0  |
| McDaniel 3b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 5 | 6   | 0   | 0   | 0  |
| Anderson 1b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 5 | 4   | 1   | 1   | 0  |
| Anderson 1b                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 5 | 4   | 1   | 1   | 0  |
| McDaniel Cons.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |   | 206 | 636 | 109 | 23 |
| Texas Electric                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |   | 306 | 936 | 160 | 35 |
| Blasingame, Cockrell, Parker, Warner, Kinnam, Robb, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O'Farrell, James, Blasingame, Waller, Hook, Hart, Palge, James, Delaney, C. Anderson, P. O |   |     |     |     |    |

TV SERVICE

All Makes
Big Spring TV & Radio Service
AM 4-7856 2411 S. Main

WOMAN'S COLUMN

CHILD CARE J3
MRS. MORGAN'S baby nursery, day-care, 7 days week. $1.50 day. AM 3-4721, 805 Ayford.
WILL KEEP children in my home, days and nights. AM 4-4998.
WILL KEEP children in my home, 1603 State. AM 4-4770.
CHILD CARE in my home, 314 North-east 12th. AM 3-2302.
WILL KEEP children in my home-1812 Benson. AM 3-2735.
CHILD CARE in my home-910 Ayford.
LICENSED CHILD care in my home, 1304 Wood. AM 4-2397.

LAUNDRY SERVICE J5
IRONING WANTED. Nice quick work. 1202 Barnes. AM 3-4008.
IRONING-200 Scurry by White's Store. AM 4-7868.
IRONING AND washing done in my home, AM 3-3536.

IRONING WANTED. 1197 East 16th. AM 4-4080.
IRONING DONE-in my home, 1200 Sycamore.

IRONING WANTED - 405 Austin. Nice work. AM 4-6013.

SEWING J6
WILL DO all types sewing and alterations. AM 3-2382.
SEWING ALTERATIONS. Mrs. C. L. Ponder. AM 4-3809.
WILL DO sewing and alterations. Reasonable. AM 3-4035.

SEWING AND Alterations done. Mrs. Churchwell. AM 4-6115, 711 Ruess.

FARMER'S COLUMN K
ROPIING HORSE for sale - gentle, well trained. Ideal for beginning rider. $775. AM 4-2319 after 4:00.

REGISTERED SHELLEND pony stallion. Silver dapple, snowwhite mane and tail. Also Shetland mares with colts. AM 3-2076.

FARM SERVICE K5
SALES and Service on Reda-Myers-Arrowood pumps and Aeromator windmills. Used windmills. Carroll Choate Well Service. Sand Springs, Texas. LYRIC 4-3682.

MERCHANDISE L BUILDING MATERIALS L1

PAY CASH & SAVE

- 2-Bar 1 1/2-In. Screen Doors $5.45
- 1-12 West Coast Fir Sheathing $7.45
- Corrugated Iron Strongbarn Sq. $9.95
- 2x4 Studs West Coast Ea. 35¢
- Asbestos Siding Sq. $11.45
- No. 1 Composition Shingles Sq. $6.75
- Window Units 24x14 - 2 Light $9.95
- Premium Outside White Paint $2.35

VEAZEY

Cash Lumber

Lamesa Hwy. HI 3-6612
SNYDER, TEXAS

SPECIALS

- Outside House Paint Gal. $3.30
- Rubber Base Paint Gal. $2.95
- Barn & Roof Paint Gal. $2.95
- All Purpose Mud, 25 Lbs. $1.75
- 250 Ft. Perforated Tape, Roll $8.00
- Paint Thinner, Gal. $1.95
- 90 Lb. Roll Roofing $3.00
- 15 Lb. Felt $2.50

LUMBER BIN

- 211 N Gregg AM 4-5711
- Inside Wall Paint Gal. $2.95
- Outside House Paint Gal. $2.95
- Paint Thinner Gal. 75¢
- Joint Cement (25-lb bag) $1.85
- 250 Ft. Perforated Tape $8.00
- Newell Door Closer $1.85
- Yellow Pine Flooring (100-ft.) $11.00
- 15-lb. Felt $2.95
- 90-lb. Rolled Roofing $4.10

CALCO LUMBER CO.

408 West 3rd. AM 3-2772
DOGS, PETS, ETC. L2
THREE REGISTERED Dalmatian puppies, 1 red, 2 black. AM 4-6173, 107 East 4th.
FOR SALE - beautifully marked AKC small type Chihuahua puppies. Reasonable. Also stud service. AM 3-2733.
GIVE AWAY - one Egyptian striped kitten with or without mother cat. Also one black and white kitten. Set at rear of 910 Johnson. scrolls from Runnels Junior High School.
AKC REGISTERED Toy Pekingese puppies. AM 4-6838 after 5:15 p.m.

HOUSEHOLD GOODS

- 2-Pc. sofa bed suite. New upholstery. $69.95
- Used bed springs $10.00
- Used innerspring mattress $19.95
- Used KALAMAZOO range $69.95
- Reposessed 2-Pc. Living Room suite $89.50
- Reposessed refrigerator & Range $239.50
- Rebuilt mattress and new box springs $50.00
- We Buy Used Furniture
- Visit our Goodrich Tire department
- BIG SPRING HARDWARE
- Furniture & Tire Dept.
- 110 Main AM 4-2631
- RABBIT HUNTING SPECIALS
- Revelation automatic 22 rifle, light and compact $37.95
- Model 77 Winchester automatic 22 rifle $46.95
- Remington automatic 22 rifle $48.75

Western Auto

ASSOCIATE STORE AM 4-4941
804 Johnson Big Spring
WANTED to buy used furniture and appliances. City Auction, AM 3-4911, J. E. Hughes.
GIVE ME an opportunity to buy your used merchandise. Watson, 701 West 3rd. AM 4-2912
WANT a mirror like finish on your vinyl floor? Get Gel Gloss acrylic finish. Big Spring Hardware.

GOOD

Tidwell Chevrolet

1501 E. 4th Dial AM 4-7421
100% WARRANTY ON ALL
OK USED CARS
WE WILL PAY OFF YOUR CAR ON ANY TRADE

VALUES

'56 CHEVROLET 2-door sedan. Radio, heater, standard transmission. Real clean $795

'59 FORD 1/2-ton pickup. Wide bed, automatic trans. $1095

BRAND NEW
1960 CHEVROLET BUSINESS COUPE
$1888.00

'60 CHEVROLET Impala 2-door hardtop. Radio, heater, Power-Glide. White with turquoise trim. Like new $2395

'59 CHEVROLET El Camino pickup. Radio, heater and air conditioned. V-8 engine. A steal at $1595

'59 FORD 4-door station wagon. Radio, heater, automatic transmission, factory air conditioned. A real nice one-owner car $1795

'58 CHEVROLET Bel-Air 4-door sedan. Has radio, heater, air conditioned. Nice car $1295

'57 MERCURY 2-door hardtop. Merc-O-Matic, radio, heater and air conditioned. $1125

'55 BUICK 2-door hardtop. Dynaflo, radio, heater. A one-owner car that's extra clean and has extra good rubber $795

"A Good Place To Do Business"

USED
OK
CARS

USED
OK
TRUCKS

MERCHANDISE

HOUSEHOLD GOODS

USED SPECIALS

- Used Bedroom Suites $29.50 up
- Used Bed $29.50 up
- Used Dinette $14.50 up
- Used Range $18.50 up
- Used Living Room Suite $29.50 up
- Used Piano $79.50 up
- Used 3-Pc. Dining Room Suite $129.50 up
- Used China $19.50 up
- Used Washers $39.50 up
- 9x12 Linoleums $4.95

CARTER FURNITURE

218 W. 2nd AM 4-8235

Furniture Values

- Like new Magic Chef gas range. Reg. $299.95. Now $129.95
- 2-Pc. New Bedroom Suite. Reg. $149.95. Discount price. $99.95
- Unfinished 4 drawer chest. A real buy. Closeout $19.95
- 2-Pc. Living Room Suite. Repossessed. Reg. $169.95. Now $99.95
- Nice Westinghouse refrigerator. Reg. $219.95. Now $99.95
- 2-Step Tables and Coffee Table. Reg. $22.95. Now $14.95
- 1-Damaged French Provincial 2-Pc. Bedroom Suite. Reg. $309.90. Now $279.95. Dresser 72" long at 115 E. 2nd only.

Wheat's

504 W. 3rd AM 4-2505

EXTRA NICE sofa

- 5 Pc. Dinette $19.95
- 30 In. Deluxe HOTPOINT electric range. Like new-Take up payments. $9.62
- Full Size ROPER gas range. excellent condition. Deluxe in every way $99.95
- HOTPOINT Automatic Washer. Will do a good job $69.95
- Take up payments. 2 pc. Danish bedroom suite used 5 months $10.05

S&H Green Stamps

Good Housekeeping Furniture Shop

AND APPLIANCES

907 Johnson AM 4-2832

APPLIANCE SPECIALS

- 1-MAYTAG Automatic Washer. Reconditioned. 6-Month warranty. Only $89.95
- 1-KENMORE Automatic Washer. Operates good $35.
- MONTGOMERY WARD wringer-type washer. Almost new $39.95
- 1-8" FRIGIDAIRE refrigerator. Full wall freezer $39.95
- KELVINATOR refrigerator. Very nice $59.95
- Terms As Low As $5.00 Down And $5.00 Per Month. Use Your Scottie Stamps As Down Payment.

BIG SPRING HARDWARE

115 Main AM 4-5265

REPOSSESSED

- 17-In. OLYMPIC Portable TV Set. Reg. $149.95. NOW $88.88
- OLYMPIC 21-In. Table Model TV. New picture tube $99.00
- 21-In. ARVIN Console TV Set. New picture tube $129.95
- CROSLLEY 10 Cu. Ft. Refrigerator $39.95
- WESTINGHOUSE Electric Range. 36-Inch $19.95

WHITE'S DISCOUNT CENTERS

202-204 Scurry AM 4-5272

SALE. BABY crib, chifforobe, feeding table, portable gas heater, Fedders Air conditioner, chest, 310 Bayler. AM 4-7862

SPECIALS

- Good Used FRIGIDAIRE Refrigerator. $5.00 Down-$2.00 Week.
- Good Used 10 Ft. Deep Freezer. $109.95. $5.00 Down-$2.50 Week.
- Budget Terms
- FIRESTONE STORES
- 507 East 3rd AM 4-5564

LAWN MOWERS

Sharpened Free Pick-Up and Delivery Service

INDEPENDENT WRECKING CO.

Snyder Hwy AM 3-4357

MERCHANDISE

HOUSEHOLD GOODS

VIRTE DINETTE

gray, Formica, brass trim on table, 2 leaves, black metal legs, 4 gray cushioned chairs. $85. AM 4-4807.

USED FOUR-ROOM GROUP

consisting of: Refrigerator, Range, 5-Piece Dinette, 3-Piece Living Room Suite, 2-Step Tables, 1 Coffee Table, 2 Table Lamps, 5-Piece Bedroom Suite, Mattress and Box Springs. all this for only $199.95

$10.00 Month

D & W FURNITURE

205 Runnels AM 4-6354

RENTALS

Refrigerators $7.00 monthly

Ranges $7.00 monthly

Rollaway Beds $5.00 Weekly

We Rent One Piece or a Household Hospital Beds $12.00 Mo.

WHEAT'S

504 West 3rd AM 4-2505

TESTED and GUARANTEED

FRIGIDAIRE automatic washer. Very nice. 6-month warranty $79.95

MONTGOMERY WARD automatic dryer. Very nice machine. 110 or 220 volt $74.50

Several good electric refrigerators. Each $30.00

Refrigerators, Ranges for Rent. Each $3.50 month.

COOK

APPLIANCE CO.

400 E. 3rd AM 4-7478

USED APPLIANCES SPECIALS

HOTPOINT automatic washer. Looks nice. Reconditioned $69.50

MAYTAG automatic washer. Runs good $69.50

17" RCA table model TV. Blond finish. This is an excellent TV $65.

WHIRLPOOL automatic washer. Good operating condition $80

Airline 21" Console TV. Mahogany finish $49.95

STANLEY HARDWARE CO.

"Your Friendly Hardware"

203 Runnels AM 4-8221

USED VACUUM cleaners

$12.50 up. Service and parts for all makes. Pick up-deliver. Kirby Vacuum Company, 609 Gregg. AM 3-3134

USED FURNITURE WANTED

We will buy your Merchandise or Sell it on Commission for you. Auction Sale each Tuesday. 8:30 P.M. 1008 East 3rd. AM 3-4821

DUB BRYANT

WHEAT'S

Have The Best Buys In House Groups In Big Spring $199.95 To $699.95

WHEAT'S

504 W. 3rd AM 4-2505

PIANOS

STOREY CLARK piano, blond finish. AM 4-5849

SUMMER CLEARANCE

Baldwin Pianos & Organs

Magnus Chord Organs

A Lifetime Prices

Bank Rate Financing

METRONOME

MUSIC STUDIO

1606 Gregg AM 4-5233

For Pianos-Organs Call Agent for Jenkins Music Co.

Hammond Organs, Etc., Chickering, Everetts and Chiles Nelson Pianos. New pianos $10 month rent. We have repossessed pianos, take up payments. New piano $495 up. AM 4-4935

Rita Patterson, AM 4-7002, Jenkins Music Co., Odessa

SPORTING GOODS

14 FOOT CEDAR strip boat, motor, trailer. AM 3-2942

MEN'S RIGHT hand golf clubs-2 woods, putter, 5 irons, cart, nylon bag. $39.00 AM 3-5481

LONG-STAR boat with 30 h.p. electric start Mercury, guaranteed 750-82 loading trailer. Horse trailer, 40x60, 4x6, good condition, selling cheap. See 101 Runnels. AM 4-4935

FIBERGLAS BOAT, 40 h.p. motor, skin, best cover and 2-2 load trailer. AM 4-4935

BOAT and electric motor and cabin for sale. Also 1 barrel horse, saddle horses and ponies. Call AM 4-2013

16 FOOT LONE star boat, motor and trailer. $285. AM 3-4825

DEPENDABLE USED CARS

'58 CHEVROLET 2-door sedan. V-8 engine, standard transmission $1065

'57 MERCURY Convertible coupe. Radio, heater, Mercomatic. Real clean $995

'56 DODGE 2-door hardtop. Powerlite transmission, radio, heater, air conditioned $865

'55 CHEVROLET 4-door sedan. V-8 engine, standard shift, radio and heater $695

'55 PLYMOUTH 4-door sedan. V-8 engine, Powerlite transmission, radio and heater $585

'55 BUICK Riviera 2-door. Radio, heater, Dynaflo transmission. Clean car $695

'54 CHEVROLET Bel Air 4-door sedan. Power-glide transmission, radio and heater. Clean $495

Eaker Motor Co. 1509 Gregg AM 4-6922

MERCHANDISE

MISCELLANEOUS

USED TRUMPET, $25. heavy single line, 6-pronged, 12 keys, 12 keys and bed frame. $15. AM 4-6843

6 CU. FT. CHEST type deepfreezer with utility top. $55. Left handed golf clubs. $25. AM 4-7061

CLOTHESLINE POLES-Redwood tables, garbage can racks. General welding 1800 West 3rd. AM 4-4381

BUY YOUR seasoned wood now for good results. A paying business for sale-will stand inspection. Picky Wiggly. Cross Plains, Texas.

AUTOMOBILES

AUTO SERVICE

DERINGTON

AUTO PARTS And MACHINE SHOP

300 NE 2nd Dial AM 4-2461

TRAILERS

2 HORSE TANDEM axle horse trailer with metal top. Inquire 2106 Warren. AM 4-4066

MOBILE HOMES

New & Used All Sizes - All Prices 8 and 20 Wide

See Us Before You Buy-If You Don't, You'll Be Sorry.

BURNETT TRAILER SALES

1603 East 3rd AM 4-8209

Big Spring, Texas

1964 TRAVELTRITE 31x8. A-1 condition. 2 bedrooms, separate storage. Balance $1500. Lot 24. Davidson Trailer Court.

$1000 Up

1-2-3-BEDROOM NEW & USED

We Rent Mobile Homes, Apartments, Houses

WE NEED Furniture-Houses-Lake Lots-Acreages

Insurance-Parts-Repair Service-Hardware

D&C SALES

SPARTAN-FLEETWOOD

AM 3-4337 W. Hwy. 80 AM 3-4505

VACATION TRAVEL trailers for rent. See R. E. Moore at 1133 East 16th.

MOVE YOUR MOBILE HOME ANYWHERE

Bonafide Lessor-Insured 20s to 45c Per Mile

O.K. RENTALS, Inc.

AM 3-4505 W. Hwy. 80 AM 3-4337

AUTOS FOR SALE

FOR SALE - 1960 Austin, take up payments. See at 1615 Harding. Call AM 4-4184.

1957 CHEVROLET IMPERIAL. Good shape. AM 3-2968, Tuffy Lewis.

'54 OLDSMOBILE 4-door $295.

'53 FORD 2-door $195.

'53 OLDSMOBILE 4-door $195.

'51 PONTIAC 2-door $95.

BILL TUNE USED CARS

Where Pa. Saves My Money 917 East 4th AM 4-6783

FOR BEST RESULTS Use Herald Want-Ads

506 East 4th Dial AM 4-8266

NEEDER-HUFF-ESTES AGENCY

Rural Strength In Legislature Is Dwindling

AUSTIN—The time has passed when a farmer or rancher could remain oblivious to the activities of the State Legislature, according to James D. Gordon, Research Assistant of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas. First, legislation pertaining to agriculture is progressively assuming a greater scope so that at present virtually no participant in agriculture—owner, laborer, or marketer—is exempt from the decisions made at Austin, says Gordon in an advance release from the forthcoming Texas Business Review.

Second is the inevitable fact that rural representation in the legislature has not maintained its former predominance. This is a natural reflection of the continuing urbanization of Texas and the consequences thereof. A manifestation of the diminishing rural population was the enactment during the last session of House Bill 349 which reapportioned the State into representative districts. The counties. The net effect was the transfer of 13 House votes from rural to urban areas. This adjustment constitutes a substantial loss, taking from primarily pro-agricultural forces while supplementing its opposition.

Thus, says Gordon, farmers and ranchers may no longer rest assured that their interest will necessarily be perpetuated by the state legislature. Nevertheless, agriculture fared surprisingly well with regard to the results of the stormy 57th session concluded May 29. It was by no means a clean sweep, but farm forces exemplified their persistence and tenacity in several crucial showdowns, even in opposition to the Governor. The Texas Farm Bureau, the state's most active agricultural lobby, assessed its achievements as follows: bills supported and passed, 20; bills opposed and defeated, 20; bills supported and defeated, 17; bills opposed and passed, 3.

Wilson Creates New Division

AUSTIN (AP) — Atty. Gen. Will Wilson Saturday announced the creation of a charitable trust division in his department and the appointment of Richard Wills as division head.

Wills has been in the insurance division of the attorney general's office since 1956.

Wilson said creation of the new division was prompted by the rapid increase in charitable foundations and "the vast accumulation of wealth in the more than 200 existing tax free trusts in Texas." He said the trusts are "creating many new legal problems."

The attorney general said because of the tax exemption given them, and "because they must be dedicated to public trusts, administering funds of which the public is the equitable owner."

"We face an increasing number of legal problems as to whether the trusts are doing this or are being used as a vehicle for empire building. For that reason we are creating this new section."

Wilson said some foundations today are used to perpetuate wealth just as the old laws of entail and primogeniture were.

"The pressure of the present high rate of taxes induces the creation of foundations to perpetuate vast fortunes and accumulate extraordinary wealth," he said.

The attorney general said much "wonderful work" has been done and is being done by foundations in fields such as education, health, social welfare, scientific research, religion and government.

"Our purpose is to see that these trusts continue to carry out the noble purposes for which they were created."

At present, he said, little attention is given to the care of these public funds.

"Another compelling reason for us to show greater concern about these vast accumulations of wealth and possible loss of considerable tax revenue is that if the states do not do the job the federal government will come down and do it for us."

Count The Hug, Thanks In Too

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dolly Williams, a department store shoe clerk, found a woman's purse in a downtown office building Thursday.

Miss Williams, 35, said she started to take the purse to the building office—without looking inside it—when she was stopped by a distraught, elderly woman. Miss Williams told this story: The woman snatched the purse away from her, opened it and asked: "Do you know how much money is in this purse? There's $24,000 cash in it. I'm a crazy woman to carry this much."

Miss Williams said the woman hugged and thanked her, then vanished without leaving her name.

But, Miss Williams added, the woman did leave her a reward: 50 cents.

These values good in Big Spring Monday and Wednesday, July 3 and 5, 1961. We reserve the right to limit quantities.

CLOSED ALL DAY TUESDAY

DOUBLE EVERY WED.

WITH $2.50 PURCHASE OR MORE

|                                    |               |           |
|------------------------------------|---------------|-----------|
| QUART BOTTLE                       | MAZOLA OIL    | 71¢       |
| JIF, 18 OZ. JAR, 8¢ OFF, NET PRICE | PEANUT BUTTER | 57¢       |
| QUART CAN                          | WISK          | 71¢       |
| LARGE BOX                          | BREEZE        | 33¢       |
| 3 LB. BOX                          | FLUFFY ALL    | 75¢       |
| LIFEBUOY, REGULAR BAR              | TOILET SOAP   | 3 For 35¢ |
| 22 OZ. BOTTLE                      | LIQUID LUX    | 61¢       |

Watermelons
CHARLESTON GREYS
GUARANTEED
EACH 49¢
WE RESERVE THE RIGHT TO LIMIT QUANTITIES

ROSEDALE

|        |     |                                |        |
|--------|-----|--------------------------------|--------|
| PEAS   | 2   | NO. 303 CANS                   | 29¢    |
| TUNA   | 19¢ | BITS-O-SEA GRATED NO. 1/2 CAN  | 25¢    |
| TEA    | 69¢ | TENDERLEAF 8¢ OFF 1/2 LB. PKG. | $1.55 |
| JELL-O | 2   | ASST. FLAVORS                  | 15¢    |
| SUGAR  | 49¢ | IMPERIAL PURE CANE 5 LB. BAG   | 25¢    |
| CORN   | 2   | HARVEST INN CREAM STYLE GOLDEN | 25¢    |

PIGGLY WIGGLY MEATS

|                                                |                                         |     |
|------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------|-----|
| STEAK                                          | ARMOUR STAR ROUND HEAVY GRAIN FED POUND | 69¢ |
| ROAST                                          | ARMOUR STAR CHUCK, HEAVY GRAIN FED, LB. | 39¢ |
| SPARE RIBS                                     | FRESH PORK LEAN, LB.                    | 33¢ |
| BORDEN'S, PIMENTO, CHIVE, OR DATENUT 6 OZ. BAR | CREAM CHEESE                            | 29¢ |
| ARMOUR'S STAR, LB.                             | SLICED BACON                            | 59¢ |
| EXTRA LEAN, 100% ALL BEEF, LB.                 | GROUND BEEF                             | 39¢ |
| ARMOUR'S STAR, BREADED, 2 OZ. SIZE             | DRUMSTICKS 4 For                        | 49¢ |

FROZEN FOODS

|                              |              |     |                      |             |        |     |
|------------------------------|--------------|-----|----------------------|-------------|--------|-----|
| WELCH'S                      | WELCHADE     | 2   | 6 OZ. CANS           | 25¢         |        |     |
| TREESWEET, FROZEN, 6 OZ. CAN | ORANGE JUICE | 19¢ | SOMERDALE            | CORN-ON-COB | 2 Ears | 17¢ |
| LIBBY, 16 OZ. PKG.           | GREEN PEAS   | 19¢ | GLACIER, 16 OZ. PKG. | PEACHES     | 15¢    |     |

HEALTH AND BEAUTY AIDS

|                                                       |            |           |
|-------------------------------------------------------|------------|-----------|
| BAN ROLL-ON, REG. 73¢                                 | 2 For      | 77¢       |
| $1.46 VALUE PLUS 8¢ TAX                              |            |           |
| MODART CREAM, ASSORTED FRAGRANCES, 8¢ SIZE, 4 OZ. JAR | SHAMPOO    | 2 For $1 |
| VASELINE HAIR TONIC, 75¢ SIZE, 4 OZ. BOTTLE, PLUS TAX | HAIR CREAM | 2 For $1 |

|                                     |                 |     |
|-------------------------------------|-----------------|-----|
| LIPTON'S, 16 COUNT PKG.             | TEA BAGS        | 27¢ |
| HEINZ, STRAINED                     | BABY FOOD 6 For | 71¢ |
| BREAST-O-CHICKEN, CHUNK, 9½ OZ. CAN | TUNA            | 43¢ |
| NABISCO, 16 OZ.                     | RITZ CRACKERS   | 37¢ |
| 46 OZ. CAN                          | V-8 COCKTAIL    | 39¢ |

FRESH PRODUCE

|              |                                 |        |
|--------------|---------------------------------|--------|
| CANTALOUPE   | CALIF. TANGY, LB.               | 9¢     |
| TOMATOES     | CALIF., FANCY MEDIUM SIZE POUND | 23¢    |
| FRESH, BUNCH | GREEN ONIONS                    | 7 1/2¢ |
| BUNCH        | RADISHES                        | 7 1/2¢ |

Lowest Prices . . . Greatest Variety . . . always at . . .
Piggly Wiggly

Mrs. Don Chapman

(See Story on Page 3-C)

Photo by Bradshaw

Mrs. Dennis Lance Winterrowd

Photo by Bradshaw

Big Spring Daily Herald

WOMEN'S NEWS

SUNDAY, JULY 2, 1961

SECTION C

June Rings Out In True Fashion

June, the month of brides, went out in true tradition Friday with wedding bells ringing, rice flying and mothers crying. Now, perhaps some of the local pastors, florists and parents can rest easy—at least until August.

Featured on this page are three local brides who married Friday evening at 7, 7:30 and 8 o'clock. They are Mrs. Troy McClendon, formerly Mary Ivey; Mrs. Don Chapman, formerly Rita Wilson, and Mrs. Dennis Lance Winterrowd, formerly Mary Martha Read.

Dennis Winterrowd, Mary Read Wed In Candlelight Ceremony

Mary Martha Read and Dennis Lance Winterrowd knelt on a white satin prie dieu as Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony uniting them in marriage at 8:30 p.m. Friday at the First Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Graham Read, 610 Hillside Drive, are the parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Ross E. Winterrowd, Pecos, are the bridegroom's parents.

The couple was married before an altar centered with a sunburst of Calla lilies with seven branch candelabra and emerald ferns flanking the arrangement. The all white altar was banked with fern trees and Calla lily arrangements. Cathedral tapers in tall candelabra lighted the sanctuary and white satin bows marked the pews.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of baroque scrolled French Chantilly lace over silk peau de soie and fashioned with a moulded bodice, portrait neckline and long pointed sleeves. Silk butterfly bows enhanced the bouffant skirt which extended to a wide chapel train. The bride also wore pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. Her waist length veil of illusion tulle fell from a coronet of seed pearls and iridescent crystals.

The bride carried a cascade of stephanotis and white orchids backed in hand styled leaves of lace and pearls and showered with picot satin. Tied to her bouquet were the wedding rings of her grandmothers. The bouquet was carried atop her Rainbow Bible. Something old was a small diamond pin that belonged to her maternal great grandmother, something borrowed was a handkerchief carried by her grandmother, Mrs. A. D. Brown, when she married; something new was the bride's wedding attire, and something blue was a garter. The bride also wore a six pence in her shoe that was brought from England by her brother.

Mrs. Louis G. Talley, organist, played "Love's Old Sweet Song," "Lobestrain," "Serenade," and

"White Orchids." Peggy Ater of Pecos sang "I Love You Truly," "Through the Years," and "The Lord's Prayer."

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Ronnie King of Vealmoor was the matron of honor and bridesmaids were Fredda Bonfield, Kay McGibbon and Cleo Thomas. They wore seafoam green silk organza dresses with short sleeves, fitted bodices and bell-shaped skirts. The dresses had a softly shirred back panel extending from a satin bow with scattered roses on the panel. The bridesmaids wore matching green rose headdresses with pleated veils and carried crescent arrangements of white gladiolus and miniature ivy showered with satin and tulle.

Best man was John Ivey, III of Pecos. Groomsmen were Randy Hensley, Jackie Thomas and David Hoelscher of Pecos. Jo D. Armstrong, Pecos, and Ronnie King, Vealmoor, were the ushers. Guy William Condra, Midland, the bride's cousin, was the ring bearer and taper lighters were Judy K. Brown, Ackerly; the bride's cousin, and Eugenia Ann Peacock.

For a wedding trip the bride wore a magenta and green plaid suit with a box jacket, three quarter length sleeves and a pleated skirt. She wore matching accessories and the arch from her bridal bouquet.

Upon their return the couple will reside at 1909 21st St. in Lubbock.

The bride is a 1960 graduate of Big Spring High School where she was a member of the student council, National Honor Society, and a cheerleader. She also belonged to the Order of the Rainbow for Girls and served as worthy advisor. Last year she attended Texas Technological College.

Winterrowd is a 1958 graduate of Pecos High School. He attended Howard County Junior College. Currently he is park foreman for Lubbock. Mr. and Mrs. Winterrowd plan to continue their education at Texas Tech.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in the church's Fellowship Hall with the couple's mothers and the bridesmaids assisting them in the receiving line.

The all white bride's table was covered with a cloth of embroidered silk organza with a three fold at the top over white satin. The silver appointments included a tall, six branch silver candelabrum entwined in ivy and centered with small Calla lilies tied with tulle. A three-tiered cake, with the top tier on columnar separators, was marked with white swans around the columns. The swans were a wedding gift to the bride's mother. Atop the cake was an arrangement of three white satin bells on a heart shaped base that was edged in seed pearls. The cake was embedded in a white net ruffle.

Registering guests were Mrs. Chester Collingsworth of College Station, the bridegroom's sister; Donna Mogle, Midland; Ann Strain, Lubbock and Mrs. Leon Byrd.

Members of the houseparty were Wanda Boatler, Elena Patterson, Judy Pearce, Judy Foster, Anne Honan, Cheryl Jones, Jackie Thomas, Carolyn Thompson, Jill Mason and Ann Steinheimer.

OUT OF TOWN GUESTS

Attending the wedding from out of town were Mrs. E. S. Goodner, the bride's grandmother, Henderson; Mrs. O. E. Bacon, Frederick, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Winterrowd, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Winterrowd, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Winterrowd Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Joe Ater, Linda Douglas and Bonnie McPherson, all of Pecos; David Read, Austin; and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Collingsworth, College Station.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents Thursday in the Rock Room of Arnold's Cafeteria. Gifts were presented to the attendants. Thirty guests attended.

Tables were decorated with arrangements of white stock and greenery with bridal couples placed on runners on the tables.

Mrs. Troy McClendon

(See Story on Page 3-C)

Photo by Barr

Miss Davis Is Bride In Lamesa

MRS. ROBERT KENNETH CROUCH

LAMESA (SC)—Karee Elaine Davis and Robert Kenneth Crouch pledged wedding vows in a candlelight ceremony at 8 p.m. Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church here. The Rev. Walter G. Horn, pastor, read the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Dean Davis of O'Donnell and Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Crouch of Lamesa.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full-length gown of Chantilly lace over tulle. Ruffles of lace and tulle trimmed the bouffant skirt which formed a short train of lace edged with a ruffle of tulle.

A small tiara of seed pearls and rhinestones held the fingertip veil, and the bride carried a bouquet of shasta daisies.

Jo Ruth Porter of Center was maid of honor. Fred Crouch, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man; ushers included Bruce Ashton of Lamesa and Jimmy Garrett of O'Donnell.

After a wedding trip to Carlsbad, N.M., the newlyweds will live in Lamesa. For traveling, the bride chose a black sheath with a black and white check overskirt.

A reception was given in the church parlor following the wedding ceremony. Guests attended from Lamesa, O'Donnell, Gail, Comanche and Sweetwater.

Local Couple United In Christian Church

A double-ring ceremony united Rita Wilson and Don Chapman in marriage at 8 p.m. Friday at the First Christian Church. Officiating was the Rev. John Black, pastor.

The former Miss Wilson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wilson, 2304 Roberts Dr., and Chapman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Chapman, 205 Willa. Baskets of white gladioli flanked with palms of commodore fern were placed at the side of the altar. In the center of the altar were white tapers in a Gothic arrangement with satin ropes extending to the palms.

Clyde Chapman sang "Because" and the "Lord's Prayer" and was accompanied by Mrs. John Birdwell, organist. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Mrs. Chapman's floor length gown was of Chantilly lace over tulle with tiered ruffles accenting the skirt. Scalloped edging complimented the front and back of the skirt. The gown was accented with a fitted bodice, long sleeves coming to points at the hands and an edged neckline. Her headpiece was a small queen's crown of Chantilly lace, embroidered with tiny pearls. The circular fingertip veil was of pure silk and imported English illusion. The bride carried a bouquet of feathery white carnations.

Maid of honor was Dreta Wilson, the bride's sister. She wore an aqua nylon lace over taffeta dress of princess style and fashioned with an aqua satin cummerbund. Sherry Francis, the bride's cousin, of Midland was the bridesmaid. She was dressed in a yellow dress similar to that of the maid of honor.

Jan Chapman, the bridegroom's brother, was the best man. Ushers were Bob McAdams and Billy Bob Wilson, the bride's cousins. Kay Foster, the bride's cousin, and Tommy Chapman, the bridegroom's brother, were taper lighters.

For a wedding trip to Red River, N.M., the bride wore a two piece beige and white check linen suit with white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations taken from the bridal bouquet.

Upon their return the couple will reside at 801 Willa.

The bride is a spring graduate of Big Spring High School where she was a member of Future Home-makers of America, the Bible Club, pep squad, Secretarial Training Club and the volleyball team.

Chapman graduated from Big Spring High School in 1959 and was a member of the Bible Club, Spanish Club and band. He is employed with Firestone Company.

Fellowship Hall of the church was the scene of the reception. In the receiving line with the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Chapman and the maid of honor and bridesmaid.

A white floor length organly cloth covered the main table. Wedding bells and lilies of the valley were placed around the table's edge. The centerpiece of white carnations was flanked by the attendants' bouquets and white tapers in crystal holders. The wedding cake was three tiered and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. J. P. Branaugh registered guests. Members of the house party were Judy Clark, Elena Patterson, Mrs. Jack Wilson and Mrs. Tom McAdams.

From out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Dittlo, Pecos; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Branaugh, Wichita, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Jay Francis, Midland; Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Sheppard and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sparks, Wichita Falls; and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Cooke and Johnny Lee, Austin.

Razor Blade Users Are Well Dressed

CORNING, N. Y. (AP)—A well-dressed woman's best friend is a razor blade, says fashion consultant Mrs. Melania Hellersperk.

Use it to remove big pockets, fancy hemline decorations and flashy monograms on ready-to-wear clothes, she suggests. A well-groomed woman should accent her good features with jewelry, a scarf or belt.

Supers Highway

WARSAW, N. Y. (AP)—Mrs. Lena W. Wellman of Wyoming County is possibly the only female county highway superintendent in the country. She was appointed to the post after superintendent Felix Ramsey retired. She had been his secretary for 24 years.

Canned Plums

Canned plums make a pleasant accompaniment for plain baked custard.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY ONLY

2 Prints For The Price of 1

from each roll of Black and White 620, 120 or 127 film left for developing Sunday and Monday at Edwards Heights Pharmacy.

ONE-DAY SERVICE ON BLACK AND WHITE

Edwards Heights

PHARMACY
1909 GREGG
AM 4-7122
FREE PARKING

Engagement Announced By Browns

LAMESA (SC)—Mr. and Mrs. E. Ray Brown of Lamesa announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Gayle, to James Lynch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lynch of Lamesa.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Lamesa High School and is presently employed in Lubbock.

Lynch is a graduate of Texas Christian University and of Southwestern Oklahoma, Weatherford. The couple plans to marry on Aug. 19 at the local First Baptist Church.

Try Onion Rings With Hamburgers

Plain onions taste good with hamburgers, but some eaters say marinated onion rings are even better!

JON'S ONIONS

2 medium-sized Bermuda onions
2-3 cup olive oil
2-3 cup cider or white wine vinegar

1/4 tsp. salt
Peel onions and slice thin; separate into rings. Beat remaining ingredients together. Allow onion rings to stand in marinade, in covered container, for at least 1 hour; mix once to twice.

Serve with hamburgers. The marinade may be used as a salad dressing with other additions if desired.

Sandwiches Are Quick And Easy

Quick and easy to prepare when there are two or three for lunch.

CHEESE SANDWICHES

6 slices bread
3 sandwich-size slices cheddar cheese
1 large egg
2 tbsps. milk
3 tbsps. butter

Make 3 sandwiches of the bread and cheese. Beat egg slightly; add milk and beat to combine. Dip sandwiches in egg mixture. Melt half the butter in a 9- or 10-inch skillet; add the sandwiches, cutting one in half so it will fit in.

Brown slowly; turn and brown other sides of sandwich slowly in remaining butter. Cut the two whole sandwiches in half. Makes two or three servings.

GAYLE BROWN

Clean Iron

Shake baking soda on a damp cloth and use it to clean the bottom of your iron. You also can use silver polish on an iron. Rinse and dry the area after cleaning it.

In The Bag

Save steps while housecleaning by using a pop bottle carton as a carry-all for furniture polish, cleaning solution, soap, sponges and rags.

THE BOOK STALL

114 E. Third

Dial AM 4-2821

Just Received!! 6,000 Miles Of Fence ... Joe Franz

A Texan At Bay

Paul's Cream

Light 'N' Hites

L. V. Hammer

The Royal Route

Alan Redpath

Devotion

Virginia, Elly

Price Tag Of Life

C. Ray Angell

With My Own Eyes

No Girls

See our summer table cloths and napkins

Classic modern dining suite of walnut finished pecan has walnut plastic-topped table (38" x 60"; extends to 72"), 6 chairs and 48" buffet-hutch.

This distinctive modern group has 6 chairs, wood-grained plastic topped drop-leaf table (38" x 72"; extends to 84") and 48" buffet-china. Walnut, spice or limed oak finish.

Versatile, contemporary dining suite with 48" diameter wood-grained plastic-topped table that extends to 72", 4 chairs and 48" buffet-china. Walnut, spice or limed oak finish.

Carefree contemporary dining group of walnut finished pecan. 42" x 42" table has white or walnut plastic top. Table, 4 chairs, 48" buffet-china.

HOLMAN
Tomorrow's Modern Furniture

Elegant Simplicity...

in the Danish manner assures good taste and enduring design. Expertly constructed of solid pecan, walnut finished, with plastic table and buffet tops so beautiful they look like richly grained walnut wood—but defy liquids, alcohol and burning cigarettes.

- Table, 38" x 60" extends to 72" with aproned leaf.
- Chair seats are deeply padded and treated to resist stains and soil.
- 48" Buffet has divided felt lined drawer, generous storage; china has cane paneled door, sliding glass doors.

Many other beautiful dining groups by Holman, four of which are pictured at left, are available as suites or as open stock pieces which can be grouped to suit your needs or taste. All Holman styles are designed so that they may be regrouped and go together beautifully.

WE GIVE S&amp;H GREEN STAMPS

Good Housekeeping
Furniture
..shop
AND APPLIANCES

907 Johnson

AM 4-2832

BIG $ DAY

SPECIALS

Just In Time For Summer Vacation
Save Up To 1/2 And More
On Childrens Wear
Shop Early For Best Buys

Dorothy Ragan's

Tot N' Teen

901 Johnson

AM 4-6491

Open 30-60-90 Or Budget Accounts Invited

Trade-Ins Accepted
We Deliver

Let Us Help You With Your Redecorating

AUSTINE LA MAR'S Bolero Frock

NO. R-147
Sizes 12-18

A clever daytime dress is one that doubles for afternoon and evening because it has a simulated short bolero jacket for cover-up. This is all-in-one with the dress, a simple sheath with flattering scoop neckline. It is stitched into shoulder and side seams for a perfect fit.

Make it in one of the new faillie, taffeta, cotton satins, silk shantung. Price $1. No. R-147 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18. Size 14 takes 3 1/2 yards of 36-inch fabric.

To order send one dollar in cash or check. No stamps. Add 10 cents if you wish first class mailing. Send to AUSTINE LA MAR Fashion Pattern, Big Spring Herald, Box 1615, G.P.O., New York 1, N.Y. Print your full name, address, pattern number and size.

Gladioli Decorate Couple's Wedding

Before an arch of white gladioli, fern and candelabra, Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church, performed the double-ring ceremony uniting Mary Ivey and Troy McClendon at 7 p.m. Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Ivey, Rt. 1, are parents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McClendon, 1416 Sycamore, are the bridegroom's parents.

The bride's father gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a street length, white silk organza over taffeta dress with lace motifs scattered around the skirt. The sleeves came to the wrists. A shoulder length veil of white illusion was attached to a lace and pearl tiara. Something blue was the bride's garter, something old, a handkerchief belonging to her great-grandmother; something new, her dress; something borrowed, a white satin-covered Bible belonging to Mrs. Rhinard Voglar of Seminole. The bride's bouquet was of a white orchid with feathered carnations. Mrs. Corky Deel, the matron of honor, wore a pale blue taffeta dress with a net overskirt, and she carried a bouquet of pale pink carnations. Corky Deel was the bestman and ushers were Delmar Moore of Lamesa and Raymond Harrison.

Traditional wedding music was played prior to the wedding by Mrs. Forrest Gambill, organist. "Wonderful One" and "Because" were sung by Dixie Todd.

A wedding trip to New Orleans, La., San Antonio, Houston and South Texas is being made by the couple. When they left, the bride was wearing a sage green, silk shantung dress with black patent accessories and white gloves. She also wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Big Spring High School and Shannon West Texas Memorial School of Nursing. She is employed with Howard County Hospital Foundation.

McClendon also is a graduate of Big Spring High School, attended Howard County Junior College, and is employed with Cosden Petroleum Corp.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Curries, Lamesa; Mr. and Mrs. Rhinard Voglar, Seminole; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weir and Steve, Midland; and guests from Fort Worth and San Angelo.

Swim Suits Call For No Bulges

If you expect to look sylph-like in your swim suit this summer, better take a long look in your mirror now. Any bulges will have to go.

The only healthful, lasting way to lose weight is slow and easy. So if you've been over-indulging these last few months, now is the time to begin a slimming regime. Reducing the amount of food you eat daily or cutting down sweet desserts and candies does the trick for many persons.

But where stricter measures are needed, you may want to consider one of the many new liquid dietary foods on the market.

Possibly you need to substitute a liquid dietary food for only one or two of your meals, points out Dr. G. C. North.

A new product is a fresh, homogenized and pasteurized milk product, according to Dr. North, and a carefully balanced concentrated food. It comes in vanilla and chocolate flavors, like a milkshake.

As is the case with all reducing diets, however, you should consult your physician before undertaking a drastic one. But if you want to shed only a little excess poundage you might consider one of these new high vitamin and high mineral liquid foods.

Plans Wedding

Lella Quaid of Stanton, daughter of Mrs. G. L. Quaid, will become the bride of Philip Bryant, also of Stanton, on Aug. 11. Parents of the fiancé are Mr. and Mrs. Doc Bryant, Stanton.

Visit Mrs. Brown

Visiting with Mrs. J. E. Brown, 1606 Wood, during the week were her son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Brown of Chicago, Ill., and her daughter, Mrs. C. R. Clark, and children of Longview.

Friends' Home Is Setting For Murphy-Baron Wedding

The home of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Thompson, 1721 Yale, was the setting for the wedding of Patricia Ann Murphy, 510 Runnels, and William T. Baron, 304 Johnson, at 7 p.m. Friday.

Judge Walter Grice presided at the double-ring ceremony before a brick fireplace centered with a gladioli and satin roping leading to emerald foliage palms at each side.

Mrs. Baron attended Atterbein College in Ohio. Prior to her marriage she was employed with Cosden Petroleum Corp. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Puget Sound, Tacoma, Wash., and is employed in the Production Department of Cosden Petroleum Corp.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Joseph Murphy of Columbus, Ohio. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baron of Tacoma, Wash.

The bride wore a short length gown of ice pink lace over taffeta, designed with a rounded neckline. Her bouffant skirt was gathered to a wide taffeta insertion caught to a fitted bodice. Her veil was of soft pink tulle with a pearl encircled pink taffeta halo. Her accessories included a pearl necklace, earrings and gloves trimmed in tiny seed pearls. The bride's flowers were a hand-styled semi-cascade arrangement of pink stephanotis and pink orchids with seed pearl leaves showered with French picot ribbon and stephanotis.

Billie Ann Bauer, the maid of honor, wore a cotton satin dress covered with silk organza, accented with a round neckline, fitted bodice and full gathered skirt. She wore a pearl covered cornflower blue, velvet twist with a short veil attached. The veil was dotted with pearls. Her bouquet was a nosegay of pink carnations with pink satin and tulle.

Best man was Lewis M. Thompson.

Following a reception at the Cosden Country Club, the couple left for a wedding trip to Corpus Christi.

In the receiving line with the couple were Thompson and Miss Bauer; Mrs. Jim Marcus was in charge of the register. Members of the house party were Mrs. Ell McComb, Mrs. Gene Nabors and Mrs. George Thorburn.

An all-white net over satin cloth with tiny ruffles running to the floor, covered the table. Silver appointments were used and cake was decorated with pink roses and topped with a small arrangement of pink sweetheart roses and pink stephanotis.

A dinner for the wedding party and members of the houseparty was held in the blue room of the Cosden Country Club June 23. Fourteen attended.

Class Of 1946 Meets Wednesday

A weiner roast at City Park was given for the 1946 graduates of Knott High School Wednesday evening.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Son Ditto and children, Mr. and Mrs. Onie Albright, all of Andrews; Mr. and Mrs. Odell Roman and their daughter; and Mrs. Calvin Clark and son, Longview; Mrs. Bill Hollis and children, Abilene.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Roman and children, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Barnes and sons, and Mrs. and Mrs. Darrell Shortes and children, all of Knott.

Anthony's C.R. ANTHONY CO. STOREWIDE JULY

DOLLAR DAY MONDAY JULY 3

|                                                                                                               |                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                               |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Men'sShort SleeveSport Shirts$1.00Sizes S-M-L                           | Ladies'SLEEPWEAR$1.99• Shorties• GownsReg. $3.98 Value                                     | Ladies'DRESS FLATS$1.99White, Pink, BlueAA And B WidthsOver 200 Pairs                                                                                                                                                                                | Ladies'Jamaica Shorts$1.00• All Sizes• All Colors               | Ladies'Stretch BOBBY SOX2 Pair66¢White Only                                              |
| Ladies'SummerDRESSES$3.66Values To $6.95OUT THEY GO!               | Ladies'Dacron FullSLIPS$2.77                                                                        |  Close-OutMEN'SSummer WeightSuits$25.00 Values To$49.95 SIZES AVAILABLERegulars 35-36-37-38-40-42-44-46Longs 33-37-38-40-46-44-4650 Of These To Select From  |                                                                                                       | Men'sWESTERN SHIRTS2 For$7.00Values To $5.95                                           |
| Ladies'CottonBrassieres2 For$1.00                                       | Ladies'BERMUDA SHORTS$1.98• Solid Colors• Orange • Lilac• Black• Many MoreAll Sizes |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                               |
| Ladies'CLOSEOUTSHOES$3.22Broken LotsAnd SizesReg. $7.00 Values | Ladies'Umbrellas$1.00StripedTaffeta                                                             |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                               |
| Children'sRayonPANTIES4 Pair For$1.00Sizes2 Through 14          | ElectricBLANKETS$10.882-YearGuarantee                                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                               |
| SummerCOTTONS3 Yards$1.0036" Widths• Prints                         | Ladies'THROW PILLOWS87¢Stripes                                                                       | Men'sArgyle Sox2 Pair$1.00Sizes 10 To 12                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Ladies'SLEEVELESS BLOUSES$1.88• Stripes • Solids• Figures       |                                                                                                                               |
| Ladies'PURSES$1.00LargeAssortment                                       | StyletoneBLANKETS$3.99Lay-A-WayFor Fall                                                         | Men'sDRESS PANTS$5.00• Free AlterationsValues To $7.95Wash 'n Wear                                                                                                                                                                                  | "Dan River"SUMMER FABRICS50¢Yard• Prints• Wovens• Solids | Ladies'NYLON BRIEFS2 For$1.00• Lace Trim• Sizes 5-6-7• Pink • Blues• Whites |
| "Bates"Woven SPREADS$4.66• Washable• Lint-Free                          | Men'sShort Sleeve SPORT SHIRTS2 For$2.97Reg. 2.98 Value                                         | Ladies'SEAMLESS STRETCH HOSE2 Pair$1.00                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                               |

BARR PHOTOCENTER SPECIALS!

★ All Transistor Tape Recorder...

Powered by three inexpensive batteries... completely portable.

ONLY 39<sup>95</sup> Pay $2.00 Weekly

★★ 8mm Editor-Viewer Scope

Fits almost any 8mm projector.

New, Exciting 14<sup>95</sup> Pay $1.00 Weekly

★ Fresh, Fresh Film

For your July 4th picture taking... DEMAND IT F-R-E-S-H.

★ Three & 4-Day Service

On all color film processing. No higher than slower, clumsier finishing. NEXT DAY SERVICE ON BLACK AND WHITE.

★ Bolex 8mm Sound Projector

Now your movies can talk, and at LOW COST.

★ See Us For Best Quality
Photo Finishing At All Times.

BARR PHOTOCENTER

311 Runnels

Dial AM 4-2891

August Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Dimpfl, 1461 Park, announce the engagement of their daughter, Kay, to Lt. Thomas E. Hassey of Albany, Ore. Parents of Hassey are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Hassey of Albany. The wedding is set for August 27 at the Trinity Baptist Church.

Webb Windsock

Capt. and Mrs. Jack Wickard and family have just returned from a 30-day leave in which they "went everywhere." After stopping in Tucson, Ariz., to see Lt. and Mrs. Sam Munch, who left Webb last month, they went on to San Diego, Calif., to visit her parents. They also hit Los Angeles and Las Vegas before going on to Lexington and Wood River, Neb., to visit their grandparents. Sounds like an ideal vacation.

Mrs. E. J. DeVille entertained her bridge group in her home last week. Winning high was Mrs. G. L. Heartstill and taking second was Mrs. J. W. Damschroder.

Lt. and Mrs. B. J. Gough had his brother, M. B. Gough of Hobbs, N. M., as their guest recently.

Lt. and Mrs. R. J. Clauson have also had guests, a cousin, James Hurst and family from El Paso.

Blistered Bricks

Do not use oil paint on bricks, or they will blister. Instead use cold water paints.

Recent Bride Honored At Gift Party

COAHOMA (SC) — Mrs. Jerry Doyle, the former Jennie Smith, was honored Thursday morning with a gift coffee in the home of Mrs. J. W. Wood. Other hostesses were Mrs. Jasper Gobson, Mrs. C. C. Williams, Mrs. Gus Martin, Mrs. Bill Bates, Mrs. Pete Thomas, Mrs. Earnest Garrett, Mrs. J. E. Fickling, Mrs. Fred Adams and Mrs. Joe Whirley.

Guests were received by Mrs. Wood, the honoree, her mother, Mrs. Shelby Pelton and her mother-in-law, Mrs. George Doyle of Midland. Twenty-five guests were registered by Carol Ann Gibson, and presiding at the refreshment table were the bride's sister, Janice Smith, and Cynthia Buchanan. The table was covered with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of roses.

The honoree was wearing a white linen suit and a corsage of red roses.

The couple will make a home in Midland.

Cracker Crumbs

Cracker crumbs make a good coating for fried oysters. Dip the oysters in slightly beaten whole egg before rolling in the crumbs.

Exchange Students Have Western Trip

Gottfried Schlichtharle and Joe Bissada, exchange students from Germany who are working at Cosden's refinery this summer, are gradually seeing much of the United States. This weekend they went with friends to El Paso, and plan to spend the July 4th holiday in the Davis Mountains. Congratulations to Joan Bratcher, who was crowned Miss Big Spring Thursday night at the city auditorium. Joan, the daughter of Mrs. H. T. Bratcher and the late Mr. Bratcher, was Cosden's entry in the competition. Her placement entitles her to enter the Jaycee-sponsored Miss Texas contest.

Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Edwards Jr. welcomed their third child into the world Tuesday night at 11:31, at Cowper Hospital. The infant, who weighed 7 lbs. 8 oz., has been named John Oakes.

Mrs. Pauline McClure of Topeka, Kan. arrived Thursday for a visit with her mother, Mrs. Hester Green, and her brother and family, the Leslie Greens.

R. O. Wilson of Dallas, manager of Cosden's asphalt division, underwent an emergency appendectomy Monday at the Gaston Hospital in Dallas. He is reportedly recuperating nicely.

Mrs. Roy Minear, a former Cosden employee who now lives in Midland, visited the offices Thursday.

Mrs. Chester Matheny is in Lubbock for the weekend with her sister and brother-in-law, the Randall Pickles.

Mrs. J. R. Asbury accompanied her daughter, Julie, and a number of her classmates to the Davis Mountains, Wednesday and Thursday, for a tour of the area and a visit to the McDonald Observatory.

W. K. Jackson, a former Cosdenite who resides in Wichita, Kan., was here Thursday chatting with friends.

Pat Murphy and Wm. T. Baron were united in marriage Friday evening in a ceremony read at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. M.

Pork Chops With Apricots Are Good

Interesting flavor combination.

PORK CHOPS WITH APRICOTS

1 can (1 lb.) unpeeled apricot halves

Juice of 1 small lemon (about 2 tbsps.)

4 loin or blade pork chops (4 to ½ inch thick)

Salt and pepper

1 medium-small onion (cut in thin strips)

Drain apricots; measure ½ cup of the syrup and mix with the lemon juice. Trim excess fat from around chops. Grease a hot heavy skillet with a piece of the fat; add pork chops and brown slowly on both sides—about 10 minutes.

Sprinkle chops with salt and pepper. Add onion and half the apricot syrup and lemon mixture to skillet.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Cover and cook gently until chops are tender—about 30 minutes; add remaining apricot syrup mixture toward end of cooking and a little water if necessary. Makes 4.

Charity Assisted By Bridge Group Friday

Charity day was observed at Big Spring Country Club Friday by players in the games of duplicate bridge; proceeds went to the National Foundation for Mental Health.

It was announced that games will begin at 2 p.m. Friday, due to the luncheon of the Ladies Golf Association, which will start at 1 p.m.; the organization is the sponsoring body of the bridge games. Both duplicate and contract bridge will be played following the luncheon.

Winners in Friday's games were Mrs. James Duncan and Mrs. R. H. Weaver, first in north-south; Mrs. Tom South and Mrs. Fred Lutting, second; Mrs. J. D. Robertson and Mrs. E. G. Patton, third; Mrs. Obie Bristow and Mrs. Don Newsom, fourth; Mrs. Truman Jones and Mrs. Floyd Mays, fifth.

In east-west position, Mrs. Ben

McCullough and Mrs. John Stone were first; Mrs. E. L. Powell and Mrs. Elmo Wasson, second; Mrs. Dan Greenwood and Mrs. Joe Herbert, third; Mrs. Malcolm Patterson and Mrs. Jack Irons tied for fourth and fifth places with Mrs. J. W. Atkins and Mrs. Hayden Griffith.

Broil Or Bake

Broil or bake drained canned peaches and pears. Fill cavities with red or green jelly. Nice on a meat platter.

Add Horseradish

Ever add fresh grated horseradish and apple to whipped cream as a deluxe accompaniment for baked ham, smoked tongue or corned beef?

Holiday Specials

... bare your beautiful back to the sun and tantalize him with your tan. At Fisher's, we have...

SUNBACK DRESSES

Valued To 12.95 — Yours For 8.95
Valued To 19.95 — A Prize At 13.95

Shop Both Stores For Bareback Beauty...

Fisher's

1003-A 11th Place 1907 Gregg

PENNEY'S
ALWAYS FIRST QUALITY!

Doors Open 9 A.M.

DOLLAR DAYS

WOMEN'S BETTER DRESSES

Group I Now

$2

Group II Now

$4

Group III Now

$6

Down go the prices on a wide selection of women's much better dresses. All are priced extra low for quick Dollar Day clean-up. Come early and select several.

YOUNG MEN'S SPORT
SLACKS

2 Pairs $5

Most of these are in sizes 28 to 34. You'll find several smart colors in cotton. Stock up now at big savings!

BETTER QUALITY TOSS
PILLOWS

WIDE SELECTION... $1

Choose from over 300 better quality pillows — priced for a big Dollar Day savings! You'll want several—Better Hurry!

WOMEN'S BETTER BLOUSES

SLEEVELESS STYLES... $1

Women's cool short sleeve cotton blouses at a tremendous value to you. Sizes 32 to 38. Hurry and you'll be pleased!

MEN'S BETTER DRESS
SLACKS

WASH 'N WEAR... $5

Men's better wash 'n wear summer dress slacks at a big Dollar Day savings to you. Hurry in Monday! Save!

BETTER DINNER WARE
MELMAC

49 PC. SET... $15

It's styled trimmed as an arrow-feather light and braves hard knocks. Only a few sets to sell, so hurry!

LUXURIOUS QUALITY LUGGAGE

3 PC. SET... $15

Choose tan or blue in a wonderful luggage set you'll use for years. Plastic covering to take many hard knocks! Save!

MEN'S SUMMER
PAJAMAS

$2 $3 And

Entire stock reduced! Including a 3-pc. set with short sleeve, short leg and long leg. Also regular 2-pc. style! Hurry! Save Now!

PRETTY BEVERAGE GLASSES

SET OF 24... $3

Whatever you drink, you'll find the right glass — three sizes! Service for 8. Heavy base for firm balance. Save!

BOYS' COTTON SPORT
SLACKS

ACTION PRICED!... $2

Boys' plain front cotton dressy casual style slacks at a big savings for Dollar Day. You must hurry for these! Save!

MEN'S WHITE DRESS SHIRTS

SHORT SLEEVES... $2

Here is an item you can't afford to miss — Cool, short sleeve white dress shirt at a cool savings! Hurry!

MEN'S SUITS

CHOICE... $25

Only a few summer suits left, but they are priced for quick clean-up! Save!

BOYS' SPORT SHIRTS

BETTER VALUE!... $1

Boys' short sleeve cotton sport shirts in a wide selection of styles and colors. You'll want several now at big savings! Save!

Bath Mat Sets $3

Machine washable cotton! A tremendous value! Hurry for best color selection! Save!

GAS LIGHTS

Pretty as a picture... picturesquely practical!

New! The Pioneer Dual-Mantle Light Provides MORE soft illumination at the SAME low cost of operation — only $49.50 installed

No Money Down 2 Years To Pay just call

Pioneer Natural Gas Company

BEGINNING MONDAY AT 9 A.M!

SPRING and SUMMER

DRESS SHOES

Reg. To 14.99

Jacquelines And Connies

8.90 And 6.90

Reg. To 7.99 Connie Paris Fashion

FLATS... 4.90

All Summer

HAND BAGS

Substantially Reduced

Gilbert's SHOES

(Across Street From Courthouse)

Mrs. Patti Rogers, Owner

110 W. 3rd

STRAPLESS BARBARESS WHITE BLACK COLORS LEATHERS LUSTRES STRAW MESH

Busy Buffet

This busy buffet launched a series of holiday festivities at the Big Spring Country Club here Friday evening. There was a big turnout for this event on the eve of the start of the annual club golf tournament. Saturday evening club members held a dance, and Tuesday evening, culminating the tournament's end, there will be a social hour from 5 p.m.-8 p.m. when trophies will be presented to winners.

Honeymoon May Be Over, But Marriage Should Last

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The bride is in tears, the man she married is a brute. O. as the old saying goes, the honeymoon is over.

But Dr. Rebecca Liswood, wife for 42 years, marriage counselor and MD, feels no alarm.

There are disillusionments in marriage, she says, just as there are disillusionments in every new venture from starting college to going into business. And, as in those undertakings, success and happiness aren't automatic. You have to work at them.

You work, Dr. Liswood says, guided by consideration instead of by criticism.

Consider these cries of the bride:

1. "He's not the man I married."

The bride has suddenly discovered, for example, that her husband can't repair the household appliances and her image of a MAN is a Mr. Fixit.

"The worst thing you can do, Dr. Liswood says, 'is insult him by saying, or even implying, 'You're not a real man.'"

"The best thing you can do is accept this as part of his real personality, even though it wasn't part of the dream personality you gave him before you were married."

2. "I can't get along with his mother" or "He doesn't like my mother."

These can become the themes for arguments which run on a to-be-continued basis for years, Dr. Liswood says.

"The bride particularly resents helpful suggestions from her mother-in-law. She complains to the husband that his mother is interfering."

"What he should say is, 'I love you and I love my mother but she's not responsible for her behavior.'"

Dr. Liswood, who has written a book, "A Marriage Doctor Speaks Her Mind About Sex," believes the sexual adjustment is one of the most difficult a newlywed couple has to make.

The thing to do with any problem in married life, Dr. Liswood says, is to think it through yourself and then talk it over with your husband.

If you and your husband can't solve the problem by talking it out, she says, go to your doctor or clergyman. And if he suggests a marriage counselor, go for counseling.

Dr. Liswood, who has written a book, "A Marriage Doctor Speaks Her Mind About Sex," believes the sexual adjustment is one of the most difficult a newlywed couple has to make.

The thing to do with any problem in married life, Dr. Liswood says, is to think it through yourself and then talk it over with your husband.

If you and your husband can't solve the problem by talking it out, she says, go to your doctor or clergyman. And if he suggests a marriage counselor, go for counseling.

Dr. Liswood, who has written a book, "A Marriage Doctor Speaks Her Mind About Sex," believes the sexual adjustment is one of the most difficult a newlywed couple has to make.

The thing to do with any problem in married life, Dr. Liswood says, is to think it through yourself and then talk it over with your husband.

If you and your husband can't solve the problem by talking it out, she says, go to your doctor or clergyman. And if he suggests a marriage counselor, go for counseling.

Dr. Liswood, who has written a book, "A Marriage Doctor Speaks Her Mind About Sex," believes the sexual adjustment is one of the most difficult a newlywed couple has to make.

The thing to do with any problem in married life, Dr. Liswood says, is to think it through yourself and then talk it over with your husband.

If you and your husband can't solve the problem by talking it out, she says, go to your doctor or clergyman. And if he suggests a marriage counselor, go for counseling.

Dr. Liswood, who has written a book, "A Marriage Doctor Speaks Her Mind About Sex," believes the sexual adjustment is one of the most difficult a newlywed couple has to make.

The thing to do with any problem in married life, Dr. Liswood says, is to think it through yourself and then talk it over with your husband.

If you and your husband can't solve the problem by talking it out, she says, go to your doctor or clergyman. And if he suggests a marriage counselor, go for counseling.

Dr. Liswood, who has written a book, "A Marriage Doctor Speaks Her Mind About Sex," believes the sexual adjustment is one of the most difficult a newlywed couple has to make.

The thing to do with any problem in married life, Dr. Liswood says, is to think it through yourself and then talk it over with your husband.

If you and your husband can't solve the problem by talking it out, she says, go to your doctor or clergyman. And if he suggests a marriage counselor, go for counseling.

Dr. Liswood, who has written a book, "A Marriage Doctor Speaks Her Mind About Sex," believes the sexual adjustment is one of the most difficult a newlywed couple has to make.

The thing to do with any problem in married life, Dr. Liswood says, is to think it through yourself and then talk it over with your husband.

If you and your husband can't solve the problem by talking it out, she says, go to your doctor or clergyman. And if he suggests a marriage counselor, go for counseling.

Dr. Liswood, who has written a book, "A Marriage Doctor Speaks Her Mind About Sex," believes the sexual adjustment is one of the most difficult a newlywed couple has to make.

The thing to do with any problem in married life, Dr. Liswood says, is to think it through yourself and then talk it over with your husband.

If you and your husband can't solve the problem by talking it out, she says, go to your doctor or clergyman. And if he suggests a marriage counselor, go for counseling.

Dr. Liswood, who has written a book, "A Marriage Doctor Speaks Her Mind About Sex," believes the sexual adjustment is one of the most difficult a newlywed couple has to make.

The thing to do with any problem in married life, Dr. Liswood says, is to think it through yourself and then talk it over with your husband.

If you and your husband can't solve the problem by talking it out, she says, go to your doctor or clergyman. And if he suggests a marriage counselor, go for counseling.

Dr. Liswood, who has written a book, "A Marriage Doctor Speaks Her Mind About Sex," believes the sexual adjustment is one of the most difficult a newlywed couple has to make.

The thing to do with any problem in married life, Dr. Liswood says, is to think it through yourself and then talk it over with your husband.

If you and your husband can't solve the problem by talking it out, she says, go to your doctor or clergyman. And if he suggests a marriage counselor, go for counseling.

Dr. Liswood, who has written a book, "A Marriage Doctor Speaks Her Mind About Sex," believes the sexual adjustment is one of the most difficult a newlywed couple has to make.

The thing to do with any problem in married life, Dr. Liswood says, is to think it through yourself and then talk it over with your husband.

If you and your husband can't solve the problem by talking it out, she says, go to your doctor or clergyman. And if he suggests a marriage counselor, go for counseling.

Dr. Liswood, who has written a book, "A Marriage Doctor Speaks Her Mind About Sex," believes the sexual adjustment is one of the most difficult a newlywed couple has to make.

The thing to do with any problem in married life, Dr. Liswood says, is to think it through yourself and then talk it over with your husband.

If you and your husband can't solve the problem by talking it out, she says, go to your doctor or clergyman. And if he suggests a marriage counselor, go for counseling.

Dr. Liswood, who has written a book, "A Marriage Doctor Speaks Her Mind About Sex," believes the sexual adjustment is one of the most difficult a newlywed couple has to make.

ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

This promises to be a great holiday for the W. R. WEATHERFORDS. They have her sister, MRS. FAYE WASHBURN, and two children, NOEL and NORMA FAYE, visiting in their home along with her brother and wife, MR. and MRS. LEE HARRIS, Wimsboro. After a few days visiting here, the group will go to Carlsbad, N.M., for a family reunion July 3-4. MRS. TED BIVINS and son of Midland, will also come here for the trip to the reunion. Mrs. Bivins is a daughter of the Weatherfords.

MR. and MRS. BILL JACKSON are visiting her parents, MR. and MRS. CARL CAMPBELL, and other relatives. Jackson, formerly head of Cosden's research and chemical sales, is with Vickers Petroleum Company, and for the first time since 1949 he's tossed business aside for a vacation—well almost, that is. He managed to squeeze in a couple of business calls in Houston and San Antonio. In Houston he visited DEWEY MARK and KELLY LAWRENCE, also former Cosdenites.

THE BRUCE FRAZERS are taking off on a vacation and plan to visit some of the same areas he touched some three or four months ago when he went over the line from Chihuahua City, Mexico, to Topolobampo on the Pacific coast.

MRS. C. E. RENFRO, joined by MRS. J. T. FOSTER and MRS. R. L. ANDERSON, gave an informal farewell coffee for MRS. B. A. VILLARREAL at the Renfro home, 708 Douglas, on Friday. Mrs. Villarreal's husband is being transferred to Arkansas by the U. S. Department of Labor. Some 20 guests called during the morning to wish the honoree well. Mrs. Villarreal was presented with a wall clock as a going away gift.

MR. and MRS. BEN FERRELL are in Ennis for the holidays to visit her parents and to see a new nephew, the son of DR. and MRS. WILL JOHNSON. Mrs. Johnson spent several summers here with Mrs. Ferrell. Dr. Johnson just received his degree from LSU Medical College and is to intern at Brooke Medical Center in the Army, so it soon will be Lieutenant Johnson.

MR. and MRS. GEORGE N. BOGARD left Saturday for a two week vacation away from the "lock-up," the is the county jailer. They will be a few days in San Angelo, then will visit in Granbury, Waco, Mesquite and Tyler.

A note from the FLOYD PARSONSES (Mr. and Mrs. and Paul), with whom our youngest, PAUL DAVID, is traveling, says they were pointing home Saturday from Atlantic City, N. J., where Mr. Parsons has been participating in the National Education Association meeting. He is a NEA board member from Texas.

MRS. JO BRIGHT and children Becky and Bruce, will be visiting South Texas points this week.

Vacuum Cup Method Safer In Childbirth?

LONDON (AP)—An old medical dream of delivering babies with the dangers inherent in the use of forceps may be approaching reality.

A comparatively new method, applying a vacuum cup to the head of the child for passage through the birth canal, is catching on in Europe.

Two British physicians, Drs. J. A. Chalmers and R. J. Fothergill, have investigated 100 cases and concluded the method is here to stay.

In each, the "vacuum extractor," invented six years ago by a Swede, A. T. Malmstrom, was found suitable and safer than forceps.

EASIER DELIVERY
The British doctors, summarizing their findings for the British medical journal, commented:

"The instrument is safe for mother and child and can effectively replace the obstetric forceps in most instances."

The report continued: "It can be used in addition during the first stage of labor to augment pains and promote dilation so that early delivery becomes possible."

Rotation of the child's head, where necessary, is easier with the vacuum than either manually or with forceps, the doctors said.

The extractor is connected to a vacuum bottle which can be controlled with a screw cap. To create the vacuum requires from 6 to 10 minutes. The doctors warned that this stage is vital and must not be hurried.

If the birth is head first, the operation is comparatively simple. But researchers said application should be broken off after a maximum of 40 minutes to avoid irritation of the baby's scalp.

Some slight irritation crops up in some cases but is remedied often within hours, they added, so long as the maximum time limit is observed.

METHOD SIMPLE

In the research of the 100 cases, the British doctors said the longest time spent over delivery was one hour, and the shortest seven minutes. The average was 20 minutes.

The greatest advantage of the method "is its extreme simplicity," the doctors said. Thousands of cases are on record on the continent and in Scandinavia, but the usage elsewhere is still limited. But forceps may never be completely replaced, the study emphasized. There is still no substitute for them in cases of premature babies or those experiencing unusual distress.

Indian Pudding Is On Firm Side

This recipe is for those cooks who like their Indian Pudding on the firm side.

INDIAN PUDDING

3/4 cups milk
2-3 cup enriched yellow corn meal
2 tbsps. butter
1/2 cup dark molasses
1 tsp. salt
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1 egg (slightly beaten)

Scald 3/4 cups of the milk. Mix corn meal with remaining 1 cup cold milk; stirring constantly, add to scalded milk. Cook over low heat, stirring often, until thickened—10 to 15 minutes.

Stir in remaining ingredients, in order given, so mixture will be blended. Pour into greased baking dish (1 1/2 to 2 quarts).

Bake in slow (325 degrees) oven for 1 1/2 hours. Serve warm with vanilla ice cream. Makes 8 servings.

July Clearance SALE

All GIFT Items

1/3 - 1/2 - 1/4 Off

Vera's Gifts

419 Main

AM 3-4264

The Kid's Shop Continues Its Semi-Annual SALE

Through DOLLAR DAY, Monday

1/3 to 1/2 off

IN EVERY DEPARTMENT

Infants' Wear, Boys' And Girls' Wear And Jr-Teens'

— Sorry, No Refunds, Exchanges —

The Kid's Shop

3RD AT RUNNELS

We Will Be Closed July 4

Fabric Mart SUMMER Clearance

1710 Gregg
AM 4-6614

SILKS

Linens Reg. $6.98, NOW $3.98
Broadcloths Reg. $2.98, NOW $2.19
Shantung, 45" Wide

ASSORTED FABRICS

1 GROUP OF DACRON, COTTON, ARNEL, SILK ORGANZA, 45" WIDE
Reg. $1.39 To $1.98, NOW Yd. $1.00

COTTON SATINS

EMBROIDERED
Reg. $2.98, NOW Yd. $1.98

SPORTSWEAR FABRIC

Reg. $1.98, NOW $1.49
Reg. $1.19, NOW 89¢

DRIP-DRI COTTON PRINTS

ONE TABLE, IDEAL FOR BACK-TO-SCHOOL
Reg. 98¢ Yd. 79¢

DACRONS

45" Wide, Reg. $1.49, NOW Yd. $1.00

These Are Our Regular High Quality Name Brand Fabrics Drastically Reduced FOR CLEARANCE

JULY CLEARANCE

SALE

STORE-WIDE REDUCTION

1/3 To 1/2 Off And More

ONE RACK DRESSES . . . $5.00

Hats - Blouses And Skirts To Match - Swim Wear - Sports Wear - Maternity Wear - Lingerie - Reduced

Margie's

1018 Johnson

AM 3-2612

Has Beauty Hints

Gogi Grant gives her opinions on complexion, hair and how she relaxes in an exclusive interview with columnist Lydia Lane.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Care In Packing Saves Time, Money

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Though Gogi Grant has a naturally beautiful voice, her career as a singer didn't begin until her marriage was dissolved. "I needed money to support myself and my daughter," she told me. "So, on a hunch, I entered an amateur contest which promised a week's work singing on TV. I was very encouraged when I won, and from this one appearance I was signed by one of the top talent agents."

"When I look back, I feel ashamed that I had so little drive and courage to work for a career when I was younger. My family was remote from show business, and there was no one to encourage me. I didn't feel I was pretty, either, and I must admit I didn't try to do much with what I had."

"There is no need to be unhappy about your appearance," Gogi continued as she poured a cup of tea in her new home in Beverly Hills. "There is so much you can do. I don't mean you have to see a plastic surgeon—unless you want to change some grotesque feature—but regular features are only a small part of beauty."

"It's not the face but the expression it wears that makes the impression," Gogi declared.

There were suitcases in the hall, and Gogi explained she was flying east for a night club engagement. "Practice makes perfect when it comes to packing," she said. "I pack now so that I rarely have to send anything out to be pressed when I arrive. The trick is to keep your dress in the plastic bag that you get from the cleaner and to use lots of tissue paper between the folds."

"The most important point in packing is choosing what to take, having clothes suitable for the occasion and the weather. There's no use taking a dress you love if you are not going to be able to wear it."

Gogi is pleased to have a pool in her new home. "Swimming is my favorite way of keeping trim," she confessed. "Nothing firms my body like a few laps in the pool. But I am careful not to take too much sun. I have seen too many skins ruined from constant exposure."

We talked about complexion care.

"I have friends with dressing tables full of cosmetics," Gogi remarked, "but a simple routine works best with me. I like to wash my face with soap, a clean wash cloth and plenty of hot water. After rinsing, I splash icy water on my face and neck and use a few drops of moisture lotion."

"At night I put a special cream around my eyes. You have to be careful or you'll get a crop of lines around them."

I complimented Gogi's skin. "You don't use a make-up base, do you?"

"I couldn't be more pleased," she beamed. "Yes, I do. It's only a light film but I try to make it look natural. The trick is to find a color that blends with your own skin tone. If it is too light or pink or dark, you can't get a really natural effect."

"The only thing frankly artificial about me," Gogi told me, "is my hair color. For the past few years I've been having these light streaks put in. I was asked to go blond for photographic reasons, but rather than that I tried highlighting it, and everyone seems to like it."

"I dread going away," Gogi sighed as she looked around her attractive room. "Hotel rooms away from home can be so lonely."

"Do you have trouble relaxing after a show?" I asked as we walked toward the door.

"I have a routine worked out to combat tension," she explained. "I usually order a light supper in my room and eat it while I watch TV. Then I take a hot tub bath before I go to bed. But no matter how tired I am, I don't turn out the lights before I am relaxed. Going to bed tense just means insomnia for me."

COMPLEXION CARE AND LOVELY HAIR

Here are two leaflets which go hand in hand toward helping you to be lovelier:

Leaflet M-2 "The Way to Beautiful Hair"

Leaflet M-35 "Ella Logan's Complexion Care"

As a special offer, you may receive both copies by sending 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, Big Spring Herald.

Attention Members And Friends Of The

First Baptist Church

DR. P. D. O'BRIEN

Be In Church Every Sunday — Particularly This Month, To Honor Our Pastor And Our Lord.

At the end of this month, Dr. P. D. O'Brien will terminate a ministry of nearly 20 years as our pastor.

Don't miss the opportunity to hear him this month, and by so doing express your appreciation for what he has meant to our church and community.

COMING EVENTS

MONDAY
PARK METHODIST WMS will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the church.
PYTHIAN SISTERS, Sterling Temple No. 3, will meet at 7:30 p.m. at Castle Hall.
AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Legion Post.
ST. MARY'S EPISCOPAL GUILD will meet at 2 p.m. at the parish house.
ST. PAUL PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the church.
HD COUNCIL will meet at 2 p.m. at the HD office.
WOMEN OF THE CHURCH, First Presbyterian, will meet at 2 p.m. at the church.
TUESDAY
ORDER OF EASTERN STAR, Big Spring Chapter 47, will meet at 7:30 p.m. at Masonic Hall.
BAPTIST TEMPLE WMS will meet at 7:30 a.m. at Lake Thomas for a picnic.
LOMAX HD CLUB will meet at 7 p.m. at the school for a community picnic.
WEDNESDAY
LADIES HOME LEAGUE, Salvation Army, will be at 2 p.m. at the Citadel.
FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH will meet at 8:30 p.m. at the church.

THURSDAY
FIRST METHODIST CHURCH and Bible Study will meet at 7 p.m. at the church.
CAYLONA STAR THEA BBO GIRLS will meet at 7:30 p.m. at 100P Hall.
FIRST CHURCH OF GOD WMS will meet at 9 a.m. at the church.
CREDIT WOMEN'S CLUB will meet at noon at the Howard House.
LUTHERAN WOMEN PARISH WORKERS will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the education building of the church.
CHRISTIAN WOMEN'S FELLOWSHIP will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the church.
SPADES GARDEN CLUB will meet at 5:30 a.m. with Mrs. Bruce Fraser, Virginia and Cedar Ridge.
FRIDAY
EAGER BEAVER SEWING CLUB will meet at 2 p.m. with Mrs. J. D. Kendrick, 614 Steadley.
KUSANA WESLEY CLASS, First Methodist Church, will meet at noon at the church.
LADIES GOLF ASSOCIATION, Big Spring Country Club, will meet at 1 p.m. for a luncheon; games of bridge will follow.

Gelatin Dessert Has Clear Look

This gelatin dessert is such a pretty clear color, you'll enjoy serving it.

GOLDEN GLOW
1 can (11 ozs.) mandarin oranges
1 pkg. (3 ozs.) peach-flavored gelatin
Drain oranges thoroughly; add enough water to the syrup to make 2 cups; heat until almost boiling. Add hot syrup mixture to gelatin; stir until gelatin is dissolved; cool.

Add drained oranges; turn into a 3-cup bowl or similar container; chill until set. Loosen sides of gelatin from bowl; dip bowl in hot water; unmold. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Sardines

Evening snack; arrange sardines on buttered toast and add a thick covering of grated cheddar cheese. Broil until cheese begins to melt. Garnish with strips of pimiento and serve hot.

Prescription By

PHONE AM 4-5232

900 MAIN

BIG SPRING, TEXAS

DELIVERY AT NO EXTRA CHARGE

GOUND'S

HAMILTON OPTOMETRIC CLINIC

ALLEN R. HAMILTON, O.D.
MARSHALL Q. CAULEY, O.D.
HAROLD G. SMITH, O.D.
CHARLES W. NEEFE, Optician
TOM C. MILLS, Lab Technician
JIMMY J. BRYANT, Lab Technician
GALE KILGORE, Lab Technician
WINNIE HARDEGREE, Office Manager
LETHA MASSIE, Assistant
BEULAH CRABTREE, Assistant

106-108 West Third Dial AM 3-2501

NO SKYROCKETING PRICES...

FURR'S WILL CLOSE JULY 4

FURR'S SUPER MARKETS

|                               |            |                                                                            |                  |
|-------------------------------|------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------|
| CATSUP                 | 15¢ | Tomato Juice                                                        | 10¢       |
| SNIDER'S 14-OZ. BOTTLE |            | Miracle Whip                                                        | 49¢       |
| TUNA                   | 25¢ | Grape Juice                                                         | 29¢       |
| CARNATION NO. 1/2 CAN  |            | Coca-Cola                                                           | 49¢       |
|                               |            | NAPKINS Zee, 80-Count Pkg.                                          | 10¢       |
|                               |            | PICKLES Food Club Sour, Dill Or Dill Chips, Quart                   | 39¢       |
|                               |            | OREO Nabisco, Cream Sandwich Outdoor Eating Magic, 11-Oz. Pkg.      | 39¢       |
|                               |            | ORANGE DRINK Jus Maid 1/2-Gal. Jug                                  | 39¢       |
|                               |            | OLIVES Towie, Stuffed, 7 1/2-Oz. Jar                                | 39¢       |
|                               |            | POTATOES Gateway Instant, 10-Serving Pkg.                           | 19¢       |
|                               |            | APPLE JUICE Food Club, 32-Oz. Bottle                                | 29¢       |
|                               |            | APPLE PIE MIX Comstock, No. 2 Can                                   | 29¢       |
|                               |            | BAR-B-Q SAUCE MIX Schilling's 12-Oz. Pkg.                           | 19¢       |
|                               |            | BAKED BEANS Morton House, Oven-Baked 3/4 Off Label, Family-Size Can | 29¢       |
|                               |            | ONION SOUP MIX Lipton's 2-Pack Pkg.                                 | 36¢       |
|                               |            | PAPER PLATES Bondware 150-Count Pkg.                                | $1.49    |
|                               |            | WAX PAPER Cul-Rite, 125-Ft. Roll                                    | 2 For 57¢ |
|                               |            | CANNED POP Gayla                                                    | 6 For 55¢ |

FRESH FROZEN FOODS

ROLLS Top Frost 24-Count Package ..... 19¢

GRAPE JUICE Top Frost Fresh Frozen, 6-Oz. Can ..... 15¢

TATER TREATS Top Frost Fresh Frozen, 1-Lb. Pkg. .... 31¢

POTATOES French-Fried, Top Frost Fresh Frozen, 16-Oz. Pkg. .... 29¢

GENERAL MERCHANDISE

SILVIKRIN SHAMPOO Reg. 69¢ Size ..... 38¢

PALMOLIVE, RAPID SHAVE Shaving Cream Spice, Menthol Or Regular ..... 48¢

HAND LOTION Trushay, Reg. 54¢ Size ..... 39¢

COETS 40-Count ..... 29¢

VEE FORM Sanitary Napkins, 12-Count ..... 29¢

CHARCOAL Arrow, 10-Lb. Bag ..... 49¢

FLAGS 50-Star 4"x6" ..... 10¢ 12"x16" ..... 29¢ 24"x34" ..... 89¢

FURR'S SUPER MARKETS

FRESH Fruits & Vegetables

GRAPES Thompson, Seedless ..... 19¢

PEACHES Arkansas, Freestone, Lb. .... 10¢

PLUMS California, Santa Rosa, Lb. .... 19¢

CELERY California, Pascal, Fresh And Crisp, Stalk ..... 9¢

ROMAINE Salad Lettuce Bunch ..... 2 For 15¢

FRESH, GOLDEN BANTAM ROASTING EARS 6 Ears ..... 19¢

FOR THE OUTDOOR CHEF—TRY FURR'S MEATS

Frankfurters

Just Wonderful For Your Wiener Roast On The 4th Of July

3-LB. PICNIC PACK ..... 89¢

HAMS Armour Star Lean, Boneless, 5-Lb. Can ..... $3.79

U.S.D.A. CHOICE SIRLOIN STEAK Pinbone, For Charcoal Broiling, Lb. .... 69¢

RIB STEAK For Charcoal Broiling U.S.D.A. Choice, Lb. .... 69¢

CHEESE Kraft, American, 12-Oz. Pkg. .... 59¢

SHRIMP Medium Jumbo For Frying Or Cocktails, Lb. .... 79¢

Ground Beef Patties

Fine For Your Outdoor Grill, 5 Generous Patties Per Pound ..... 39¢

FURR'S WILL CLOSE JULY 4TH

WITH $2.50 PURCHASE OR MORE

COMPARE! FURR'S PRICES ARE THE LOWEST - SERVICE THE MOST

Perfect Harmony

A harmonious family is that of L. A. Kinstley, newcomers from Corpus Christi. The real harmonizers are Charlotte, left, and her older sister, Beatrice, at the piano. Both girls have performed in Corpus and hope to audition for a recording company. Also pictured are, left to right, Kinstley, Mrs. Kinstley, Stanley and Sheila.

Lot Of Lunches

The school year closes with participation in the National School Lunch program reaching about 13.5 million students. Roughly a third of the U. S. school population ate lunches under this U. S. Department of Agriculture program. These students consumed 2.28 billion lunches — a large market for farm products.

Food Donations

Food donations by the U. S. Department of Agriculture to people in this country and overseas totaled a little more than 2½ billion pounds from July 1960 through March 1961 — up 23 percent over the same 9 months a year ago.

Vows Spoken In Ackerly

Edgar Herm gave his daughter, Kay, in marriage to Phil Wallace, at 5 p.m. Saturday in the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. J. D. Mabry, pastor of Ackerly First Baptist Church, presided at the double ring ceremony. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Herm, Star Route, Ackerly, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wallace, Route 1, Ackerly. Greenery and white carnations covered the archway. The bride wore a white faille brocade sheath with a square neckline and accented with a white nylon lace jacket with short sleeves and buttons down the back. She also wore a white feather hat and carried an orchid bouquet atop a white Bible. Her Bible was borrowed from Mrs. M. H. Gibson; something blue was a garter, something new her dress, and something old was a blue chiffon handkerchief belonging to the bride's mother. Placed in the bride's shoes were birthdate pennies.

Marlene Gibson of Ackerly was the maid of honor. She wore a pink, cotton dress with a square neckline accented with puffed sleeves and a full skirt. Her bouquet was of white carnations. Tommy Thurman of Dallas, the bridegroom's cousin, was the best man. For a wedding trip the bride wore a blue, polished cotton sheath with white accessories. Upon their return the couple will reside in Ackerly where he will farm and she will be a senior at Sands High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Ackerly High School.

A reception was held at the bride's parents home following the wedding. A lace cloth with a pink undercloth covered the table. A white net bird cage hanging from the ceiling was the centerpiece. In the center of the cage was a miniature bridal couple; two pink bird cages were placed at the sides of the centerpiece. A two-tiered wedding cake topped with a bridal couple was served to the guests.

MRS. PHIL WALLACE

Paid Grocery Bill Contributes To Sisters' Singing Career

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Kinstley, 206 E. 8th, lived in Ingleside, a small town near Corpus Christi, when their daughters began singing. It all started when Kinstley was given a piano as payment of a grocery bill.

Neither Beatrice nor Charlotte had harmonized until Bea, who plays by ear, sat at the piano and made up a song. She liked it and asked her 12-year-old sister to join in the singing. They both liked it and the two sang Bea's song, and many other songs, for just about every function in Ingleside. Bea later formed a quartet with three of her high school friends and began appearing on television and in concerts in Corpus.

Highlight of the quartet's career was when they appeared with the Marty Robbins show at the Corpus Christi municipal auditorium. Although the girls were a big success, Bea recalls that performance with some embarrassment.

"Marty Robbins had been put in our dressing room by mistake," says Bea. "When we went in to change for the show he was shaving in our room. We were all kind of peeved because we couldn't change for the show, and I asked the man if he would mind moving his elbow so I could get to the mirror. I didn't know it was Marty Robbins until I saw him signing autographs after the show." Another big event for the girls was the disc jockeys' convention in Corpus.

Charlotte joined the quartet when one of the girls quit to record on her own. During her first performance with the group, Charlotte flubbed the words on a solo because of nervousness. Charlotte says she still gets nervous when singing at a performance.

The quartet's career, which started a year ago, was ended when one of the girls quit to go to college and Bea and Charlotte moved to Big Spring.

Bea and Charlotte plan to keep singing, even have hopes of going to Dallas for auditions with a record company. Right now they are excited about starting to new

Tough Crust

If your cake has a tough crust the recipe may contain too little fat or sugar or too much flour; or you may have over-mixed the batter before baking.

Cut Celery

Cut celery in short strips and cook rapidly in a covered saucepan in a little salted boiling water just until the celery is tender-crisp. Dress with cheese sauce.

schools. Charlotte is a seventh grader and Bea is a junior in high school. Although Charlotte limits her music to singing, Bea plays trumpet and plans to be in the high school band.

Whether they go to Dallas or not, the sisters always will have a good audience at home from their parents, sister, Sheila; and brother, Stanley. Neither one of the girls' parents sings, although their mother also plays piano by ear. Seven-year-old Sheila someday may join her sisters for a trio.

Last year she sang her way to win an amateur contest in her school.

"Daddy tries to sing," says Charlotte, "but he can whistle real good." Kinstley is employed with the Richardson Carbon Company. In Ingleside, the family's home for 12 years, Kinstley owned and operated a grocery store. Besides whistling, Kinstley also enjoys golf and fishing.

Stanley, who will be in the ninth grade this fall, shows more interest toward making the junior high football team than he does singing. The Kinstleys also have a married daughter, Mrs. Harley Cullen, who lives in Santa Ana, Calif.

The family plans to attend the Catholic Church.

'As Good Faith' In African Areas

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP)—Although more Africans are now contracting Christian marriages, many African brides still insist on payment of lobola (bride price) by the husband as an "act of good faith" and some insurance against early desertion.

Many brides feel that a wedding is not complete if lobola is not paid to their parents, a spokesman for the Southern Rhodesia Native Affairs Department reports. The average of this fee ranges from $84 to $90.

In the old days lobola usually was paid in cattle; nowadays in money.

"Some African women say they must have lobola as a sort of tribal recognition that is right and proper," says the spokesman. "They feel that without it their husbands can throw them over easily."

The safeguards also apply to the husband if his wife does not bear him a son to carry on the tribal name. If a wife in the rural areas does not bear a son it often happens that the man will ask for a return of all or part of the lobola. He might also ask for his wife's sister so a son can be born.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Sunday, July 2, 1961 7-C

Dish For Serving In Hot Weather

Nice to serve on the porch and let the family help themselves.

DANISH CUCUMBERS
2 medium-size cucumbers
1 tsp. salt
2 tps. sugar
¼ cup distilled white vinegar
Pare cucumbers with swivelblade vegetable peeler; cut off ends. With same peeler cut paper-thin crosswise slices. There should be 1½ cups.

Mix cucumbers with remaining ingredients; cover and refrigerate for an hour or two; drain. Garnish with pimiento shapes and minced parsley or chopped chives if desired. Makes 6 servings if used as relish.

DOLLAR DAY

SPECIALS

EFFECTIVE SUNDAY AND MONDAY

DIAPER BAGS Reg. 6.95, Ea. 4.49

6-INCH, ALUMINUM EDGING Per Roll 1.09

4-INCH, ALUMINUM EDGING Per Roll 89¢

CLOSE-OUT ON LADIES' SANDALS Reg. 1.49 99¢

UNBREAKABLE 80-OZ. PITCHER, 4 10-OZ. GLASSES

POLY PITCHER SET
Reg. 1.98 1.09

All Popular Brands Reg. Ctn. King Size Ctn.
Cigarettes 2.55 2.65

COMPLETE STOCK HELENA RUBENSTEIN, MAX FACTOR AND TUSSEY COSMETICS

1-Day Photo Finishing . . . All Prints Made Jumbo Size . . . 5-Day Service On Color Prints

Store Hours: Monday Through Saturday 8 To 7 Sunday 8 To 6

FOSTER DRUG

WE GIVE S&H GREEN STAMPS

Corner Second And Runnels AM 4-7969

Semi-Annual JULY CLEARANCE

... Now In Progress

Still Hundreds Of Pairs Out From Which To Make Your Selection!

J&K shoe store

Home of Velvet Step, City Club and Weather-Bird Shoes

BOLD VENTURE

With a dash of "French Intrigue," Jean presents a vision of sophistication by DyAnne in Dark Arnel check. The extravagant balloon sleeves on the figure-close bodice, teamed with the "skin-slim skirt" make it a fashion that "goes to everyone's head." The washable, no-iron fabric and variety of new fall colors make it a must. Sizes 9 to 15. Priced at

$8.95

Photo By GALE'S PHOTO REPAIR SERVICE At Mort Denton Pharmacy 600 Gregg

QUALITY FURNITURE

SALE

4-PIECE LIVING ROOM GROUP
Includes 2-Piece Sectional, Chair, Corner Table, Lamp. Was 204.80. NOW 159.95 9.95 Down

5-PIECE LIVING ROOM GROUP
Includes Sofa Bed, Occasional Chair, Three Tables. This is A Real Buy. NOW ONLY 129.95

2 ONLY, DEARBORN, PROVINCETOWN HARD ROCK MAPLE HUTCH CABINETS 40% Discount

1 ONLY, 3-PIECE DANISH WALNUT BEDROOM SUITE Discount Price
Triple Dresser, Bookcase Bed, Chest With Cedar-Lined Drawers, Center Drawer Guide and Dust Proof. 329.95 Value 168.88

1 ONLY, REPOSSESSED, SEALY, FOAM RUBBER MATTRESS ENSEMBLE Only 50.00

2-PIECE NAUGAHYDE PILLOW-BACK SOFA BED SUITE In Oxblood Or Tan. Reg. 179.95 139.95
2-PIECE, USED, BEAUTIFULLY UPHOLSTERED SOFA BED SUITE Makes Full Size Bed, ONLY 69.95

Buy On Our Easy Payment Plan
BIG SPRING HARDWARE CO.
FURNITURE DEPARTMENT
110 Main "We Give And Redeem Scottie Stamps" AM 4-2631

STORK CLUB

HOWARD COUNTY HOSPITAL FOUNDATION

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Juan Haro, 615 NW 4th St., a son, David Moreno, at 1:27 p.m., June 23, weighing 6 pounds, 9 ounces.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. David A. Mendoza, 802 NW 5th, a son, Tony Corillo, at 1:30 a.m., June 27, weighing 6 pounds, 2 ounces.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Billy Flynn, 2606 S. Monticello, a daughter, Margaret Roberta, at 9:43 a.m., June 28, weighing 6 pounds, 9 ounces.

COWPER CLINIC AND HOSPITAL

Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Edwards Jr., 2512 E. 24th, a son, John Oakes, June 27, at 11:31 p.m., weighing 7 pounds, 8 ounces.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. David Garcia, 901 N. Scurry, a son, Larry, at 8:10 p.m., June 27, weighing 6 pounds, 6 ounces.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Chrane, Sterling City Rd., a daughter, Cindy Dian, at 5:33 p.m., June 27, weighing 7 pounds.

WEBB AFB HOSPITAL

Born to S. Sgt. and Mrs. Jess Snor, 1800 E. 15th, a daughter, Robin Denise, at 5:45 a.m., June 22, weighing 7 pounds, 14 ounces.

Born to Airman 2.C. and Mrs. Edward B. Butler, 1200 Nolan, a daughter, Robin Lynn, at 8:03 a.m., June 22, weighing 7 pounds, 1/2 ounce.

Born to 2nd Lt. and Mrs. James Selph, 2204 1/2 Nolan, a son, Gary Don, at 9:25 a.m., June 25, weighing 5 pounds, 8 1/2 ounces.

Born to 1st Lt. and Mrs. Charles O. Coogan, 98-A Gunter, a daughter, Patricia Ann, at 2:20 a.m., June 26, weighing 6 pounds, 5 1/2 ounces.

Born to T. Sgt. and Mrs. Robert O. Burkhalter, 614 Canary, a daughter, Vicki Diane, at 5:40 a.m., June 30, weighing 7 pounds, 3 ounces.

Born to 1st Lt. and Mrs. Robert K. Stein, 63-B Chanute, a son, Gregg Harold, at 11:22 a.m., June 26, weighing 7 pounds, 3 ounces.

Born to 1st Lt. and Mrs. Kenneth Koskela, 2604 Lynn, a daughter, Kimberly Ann, at 8:28 p.m., June 26, weighing 7 pounds, 7 ounces.

Born to S. Sgt. and Mrs. Thomas Clamon, 1507 Oriole, a daughter, Norma Jean, at 9:18 p.m., June 26, weighing 8 pounds, 1 1/2 ounces.

Born to Airman 1.C. and Mrs. William C. Assip, 1604 Settles, a son, Robert, at 12:26 a.m., June 23, weighing 7 pounds, 11 ounces.

Born to Airman 2.C. and Mrs. Ray Addis Jr., 350 E. 13th, a son, Michael Lynn, at 6:50 a.m., June 30, weighing 4 pounds, 7 1/4 ounces.

MEDICAL ARTS
CLINIC HOSPITAL

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Carl B. Mangum, 1208 Blackmon, a daughter, Maureen Denise, at 9:55 p.m., June 25, weighing 7 pounds, 14 ounces.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Pope, Rt. 1, Box 175, a daughter, Robbie Lou, at 10:15 p.m., June 28, weighing 7 pounds, 15 ounces.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Herman W. Shifflett, 207 Washington, a daughter, Pamela Kay, at 11:50 a.m., June 29, weighing 8 pounds, 5 ounces.

MALONE AND HOGAN
FOUNDATION HOSPITAL

Born to Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Cole, 106 S. Glenwood, Midland, a son, Edward Forest, at 6:55 p.m., June 26, weighing 8 pounds, 5 ounces.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hawthorne, 1403 Settles, a son, Philip Ray, at 9:07 p.m., June 27, weighing 10 pounds, 1 1/4 ounces.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Cannon, 401 NE 10th, a son, David Wayne, at 6:49 p.m., June 28, weighing 7 pounds, 13 1/2 ounces.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wright, 414 1/2 NW 4th, twin daughters, Arletha Kay, at 8:04 a.m., weighing 5 pounds, 1 ounce, and Benita Kay, at 8:15 a.m., weighing 4 pounds, 8 ounces.

Mrs. White Hosts
Circle In Stanton

STANTON (SC) — The Blanche Grove Circle met Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Harvey White. Mrs. Earnest Hock gave the program on the last part of the mission study book, "Intercessory Prayer," by McClure.

Mrs. Dewitt Robinson offered the opening prayer and Mrs. Dortha Hayes the closing prayer. The next meeting will be held at the church with Royal Service.

Mr. and Mrs. Granville Graves, Terri and Craig of Coahoma, spent Tuesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Graves.

Mrs. Pearl Barrett is in Malone and Hogan Hospital, Big Spring.

UCCW Slated

The United Council of Church Women will meet at St. Paul Presbyterian Church at 10 a.m., July 14, it has been announced. A member of the host church will bring the devotion.

Test For Retardation
Can Be Given EasilyBy MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Two little blonde sisters named McGrath—Sheila, 6, and Kammy, 4,—are living symbols of heart-break and hope.

Sheila is mentally retarded. Kammy is alert and normal. Yet both girls have the same metabolic disease — phenylketonuria (PKU) which causes retardation, but for which there now is a 10-cent test, and a preventive cure.

Sheila and Kammy will be poster children next November for National Retarded Children's Week.

IS RARE

"PKU is rare, only one in 20,000 babies has it," says Dr. Joseph Worris, director of the Solomon Retardation Clinic at Brooklyn Jewish Hospital.

"But it's very easy to detect and I recommend that the test be done."

A lactose-free synthetic diet, given from the first month to a baby who tests PKU positive, will prevent retardation.

Sheila McGrath was diagnosed as having PKU when she was a year old, but the new diet didn't become available until she was 18 months. By that time, she could not see, sit or walk. After two weeks on the diet she could sit up and see. She soon began walking. But the diet could not offset the damage that had already occurred to her brain.

Now Sheila lives in a Colorado state training school and visits her family on weekends. Sheila's IQ is under 50. She can be trained in self-care but not educated.

Her sister Kammy lives at home in Denver with three other sisters, 10, 9 and 1. Her mother is an ex-airline stewardess and her father an electrical engineer. Kammy attends nursery school. She has been on the synthetic diet since she tested positive for PKU shortly after birth.

CHANCES FEW

Though chances of having a baby with PKU are rare, the National Association for Retarded Children says the chance of a family producing a second PKU child is one in four. In Kansas and several other states, the retarded in institutions are being tested. Whenever a PKU victim is found, the other children in the family, especially infants, are tested.

The baby must be three weeks old for the test to be effective. The test consists of a chemically coated test strip, which costs about 10 cents, placed in contact with the baby's wet diaper.

Dr. Worris says most pediatricians aren't giving the test because PKU is so rare, but they will give it, he says, if parents ask for it. Child health clinics in California, Missouri, Washington and New York City are giving the test to all babies brought in.

SPECIAL DIET

The PKU test was the first breakthrough in the prevention of retardation resulting from "inborn causes of metabolism." Dr. Worris says "galactosuria," in which one of the sugars in milk can't be used by the child's body, also can be discovered by a simple test and prevented by a special diet.

The doctor says galactosuria, however, is even more rare than PKU.

But retardation—which also can be caused by disorders during pregnancy, at birth or during childhood—is not rare. It is four times as common as rheumatic heart, nine times more prevalent than cerebral palsy, affects 15 times more people than blindness.

Researchers are working to find more of the causes and preventions of retardation. The Kammy McGrath they can save make it vitally important.

Continuing for Dollar Day our bagful of bargains!save on hundreds of wanted items inSwartz semi-annual clearanceCoats, Suits, Dresses,
Millinery, Sportswear
and
Intimate Apparel $\frac{1}{3}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  OFFremarkable reductions enjoy Swartz quality ready-to-wear and intimate apparel at tremendous savingsSwartz
BOTH STORESALICE'S
JULYC
L
E
A
R
A N
C
E

NOW!

 $\frac{1}{3}$
To
 $\frac{1}{2}$
OffFREE GIFT WRAP PLENTY PARKING
1901 Gregg AM 4-5828

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SECTION D

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JULY 2, 1961

SECTION D

City's Expansion Projects Are Moving On Schedule

By M. A. WEBB

The first phase of Big Spring's Master Plan capital improvement program is on schedule.

Bruce Dunn, director of public works said Saturday the 1961 program, including new water and sewer mains, the enlargement of the water treatment plant and a new clear well reservoir, is going well.

Besides items covered in the $4,300,000 long range program, new additions to the city are getting street lights. Nearly 100 are being installed, and some already are in use.

A. K. Steinheimer, City Manager, said Friday that 17 had been installed by Texas Electric Service Co. on the north side, while approximately 18 were being installed in Western Hills addition, eight in Clanton Addition, two in Parkview, 11 on Wasson Road, eight on Marcy between US 87 and Westover Road, 20 in Kentwood Addition, and others. All will be the incandescent, 6,000 lumen-type lights.

ONE-QUARTER DONE
Clyde Construction Co., now has two units working on laying new water and sewer lines, and the work is approximately 25 per cent complete.

One unit is presently working in the Western Hills Addition where it is having to blast and peck its way through rock. It is about half through and will move to the Clanton Addition next.

The Lockhart Addition is nearing completion, Earnest Lillard, engineer reported. He said a few water service connections remain along with cleaning up, testing lines and patching streets. Lillard also said many of the water customers in that area have been tapped to small one and two-inch lines.

"We would like to let them know that now we will be glad to tie them to the larger line if they will just call us. There will be no charge for changing from the small to the larger line."

SOME COMPLETE
Work in the Settles Addition is almost complete, with cleanup and patching remaining. The Wright Second Addition is complete. The Airport Addition work is starting, with from one to two months' required there.

"We will start laying around 17-

Making A Big Hole

Several thousand yards of dirt have been moved in the excavation work for the new three-million-gallon clear well between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets just north of the water filter plant. The hole is down around 15 feet and here a front-end loader is shown dumping dirt into a dump-truck to be hauled out. The hole will be dug to 23 feet.

000 feet of 16-inch re-enforced concrete water line July 5 from Presidio to Tenth and Lancaster," Lillard said. "This will give a boost to the entire system in that area which now has insufficient water pressure."

Through Friday the engineer said 31,200 feet of various sizes of water and sewer lines had been laid in the program calling for 134,000 feet of all sizes. He broke this figure down into: 70,000 feet of sewer lines of all sizes; 54,000 feet of cast iron water pipe, and 10,000 feet of reinforced concrete water line.

He said that 7,200 feet of water line was included in the 31,200 feet laid.

NEW CLEAR WELL

The work of digging the new clear well (and underground reservoir to receive filtered water)

north of the water treatment plant between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets are going along well. Several thousand yards of fill dirt are being hauled away and used wherever citizens can find a place for it. Only enough will be held over to form a three-foot fill on top of the concrete reservoir.

"We can say the contractor is getting along well in the first stage of this work," Lillard said. "The excavation is slow, but building the forms will be slow, but the entire job will be completed on schedule. They are somewhere around 15 or 16 feet deep on a target of 23 feet on the project. The well will store three million gallons of filtered water, in addition to the quarter million stored in the old clear well at the plant."

Clyde Construction will be using his third crew when the 16-inch water-line is started.

COULDN'T BE BETTER

Crop Prospects Excellent For This Time Of The Year

Howard County fields show cotton just popping out of the ground, cotton well up and flourishing, cotton mature enough to be displaying squares and even some cotton gaily blossomed out in white blooms.

Jimmy Taylor, county farm agent, said that replanted fields which were seeded after the rains of this past month are up and in excellent condition. He said that perhaps less than 20 per cent of the acreage had to be replanted and that not all of this replanting was due to the damage caused by rains.

North of town, he said, there are cotton plants blooming, and in the Lomax area, there are many squares. "A square is a beginning boll."

Fields are in good shape, he added. Farmers have been pushing ahead with cultivation, and knives and rotary hoes have put the fields in fine fettle. There is some weediness but the cultivation has solved part of this problem. Cotton chopping has started but will not be in full swing until two weeks or more.

Pastures are in especially good shape, Taylor said. In fact, it has been a long time since the ranchlands of the area were in such fine condition as they are today. Grass is coming back good and the heavy rains of June have put a fine season in the ground.

Now all that the farmers and ranchers want is a little more rain, preferably within the next two or three weeks. Most of the cotton is past the stage where even washing would cover it. Feed is just coming up in vigorous stands in most areas, since farmers delayed feed planting pending getting the last of their cotton in the ground. In a few areas, early feed is growing like magic and is well into the dough stage.

Crop prospects at this time are about as promising as they could be, Taylor observed. With a note of caution born of experience, he warned that hopes of a bumper yield are wrapped up in future showers and absence of hail. As for the insect menace, supplies of insecticides are ample for almost any volume of poisoning.

ANNOUNCING

Howard House Restaurant
Now Under New Management
New Low Prices
Business Men's Luncheon
$1.00

The Dependable Maytag ONLY

$189<sup>00</sup> With Trade

- Big 10-Lb. Capacity
- Two Water Temperatures
- All Porcelain Tub
- Swirl Away Draining
- Agitator Washing Action
- Many Other Features

See The Dependable Maytag Washer-Dryer Combination

- The Right Combination
- Save Space—No Venting
- Flexible Fabric Control
- Safety Door
- Automatic Bleach Dispenser
- Simple Easy To Use
- Automatic Level Control

Small Down Payment, Easy Monthly Payments

We Give And Redeem Scottie Stamps

Big Spring Hardware Co.

110 Main

AM 4-5265

LEONARD'S

Prescription Pharmacy

"RELIABLE PRESCRIPTIONS"

AM 4-4044 205 South

The Odds Were Against Him

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP)—A seaman aboard a Turkish tanker was thwarted twice in his efforts to remain in the United States—once by the police and again by Texas mosquitoes.

Uammer Ozkay, 28, tried to jump ship but was captured and returned—handcuffed to the tanker—Turkgreis.

As the tanker sailed for home, the seaman squeezed through a porthole and dropped into the channel.

The Coast Guard spotted the Turkish seaman later, sitting on the bank in his underwear and battling at mosquitoes with his handcuffed hands.

"I do you no harm. Take me back," he yelled to the Coast Guard.

He was put aboard the Turkey-bound tanker.

Snyder Man Gets Fort Worth Post

FORT WORTH (AP)—William Fuller of Snyder was named a director of the Fort Worth National Bank Thursday.

He moved from here to Snyder, in 1936 and became active in management of Snyder National Bank, which was established by his grandfather, W. A. Fuller.

He was president of the bank from 1946 to 1952.

Eleven Killed In Nevada's Worst Traffic Accident

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A speeding pickup truck Friday night roared down the wrong side of a four-lane highway and smashed into a station wagon, killing 11 persons.

It was the worst auto accident in Nevada's history.

The Nevada highway patrol said the truck was heading south on a northbound lane of U.S. 91, the major highway between Los Angeles and Las Vegas, when it hit the station wagon.

The wagon was crammed with nine persons—three generations of the same family. The truck, equipped with a camper top, carried an adult couple.

All died before ambulances arrived. All were from California, apparently seeking an early start on the July Fourth holiday weekend.

The only survivor of the crash was a cocker spaniel in the back of the pickup truck.

Patrolman Richard McDermott said the truck went past a highway patrol checking station at Jean, Nev., about 22 miles southwest of Las Vegas, at about 60 miles an hour on the wrong side of the roadway.

It hit the station wagon 100 yards past the station. Wreckage was strewn for yards around the crash site.

Warehouse Burns

McALLEN, Tex. (AP)—A spectacular fire Saturday destroyed the Dave Rogers Shipping Warehouse and 60 firemen were needed to bring the blaze under control.

Thomas TYPEWRITERS AND SERVICE SUPPLY
Has Royal Typewriters
To Fit Any Color Scheme
Budget Priced

You Who Did Not Finish HIGH SCHOOL

Are invited to write for FREE booklet — Tells how you can earn Diploma in your spare time. Newest texts furnished. 63 years of service. Why accept less than the best. Better jobs go to the High School graduate.

AMERICAN SCHOOL

Box 1582 EM 6-8182 Odessa, Texas

Name .....
Address ..... Phone .....
City ..... State .....

The $65 Miracle

Now TSO Research and Experience Brings You
The Extra Joys of Contact Lenses
Without Excessive Cost

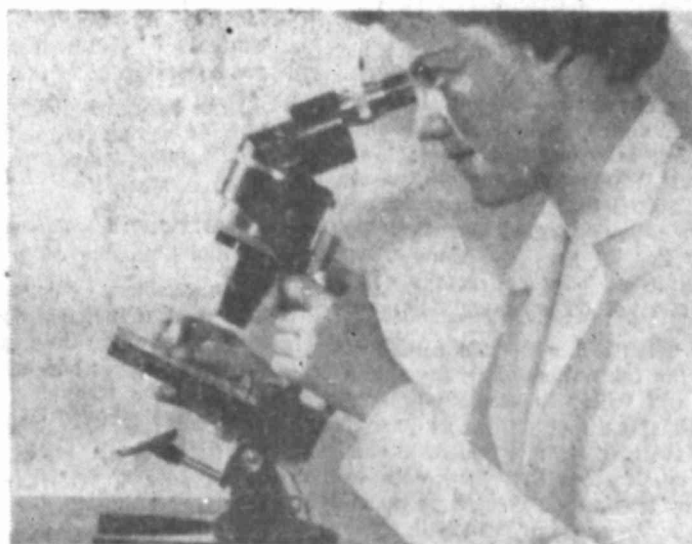

1. Which of these two ladies is wearing glasses? They both are. They're wearing today's miraculous Contact Lenses!

2. The girl on the left paid $150 for her's... the girl on the right, only $65 complete at TSO. Can Contact Lenses for only $65 be as good as those costing so much more? Indeed they are... the world's finest... ground to precision standards impossible at any price a few short years ago.

3. High prices were necessary not too long ago. But, through persistent research and development, optometric science has improved both the fitting of Contact Lenses and the laboratory techniques used in processing them. TSO has kept abreast of these improvements. These better methods combined with vast TSO experience with thousands of Contact Lens fittings have lowered the cost of fitting and making lenses. Our reduced cost has resulted in a lower price to you.

4. TSO is a state-wide organization of both Optometrists (who examine eyes, prescribe and fit lenses) and Opticians (who grind and process lenses according to exact individual prescriptions.) Because we prescribe, process and fit contact lenses, rather than using any outside source, you benefit from quality control and reduced cost.

There's No Need to Pay More When You Can't Get Better Contact Lenses.

For 25 years, TSO has provided the very finest quality eye care and eyewear at the lowest cost possible. We have always expected only a reasonable profit, not an exorbitant one. Such is the case with Contact Lenses. Every single factor that reduces our cost also reduces yours.

In making Contact Lenses, TSO uses the same fine quality, shatterproof acrylic plastic used in those priced up to $200 elsewhere. New, improved design and the most highly advanced processing methods, assure you of the most comfortable fitting.

Satisfaction Guaranteed

Directed by Dr. S. J. Rogers, Dr. N. Jay Rogers, Optometrists

Offices In Big Spring, Midland And Odessa
● Big Spring 120 E. Third Downtown
● Midland Village Shopping Center, 19 Village Circle Dr., Facing Wall St.
● Odessa 420 N. Grant Downtown

OPEN ALL DAY SATURDAY

See "Miami Under Cover," Thursday, 9:30 P.M.—KMID-TV

A Devotional for Today

God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. (Genesis 1:27.)

PRAYER: Eternal God, Father of all mankind, help us to walk with Thee in our freedom, according to Thy will. Strengthen us to know Thy love, revealed through our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. In His name. Amen.

(From The Upper Room)

Don't Swap Lives For Minutes

Webb AFB has been stressing a sensible, logical slogan — "Stay home on the Fourth and Stay Alive." Who can argue that the chances of injury or worse on highways choked with holiday traffic is infinitely greater than it is for those who elect to stay home and stay off the busy roads?

But for those who feel obliged to make a holiday trip, we urge another slogan, namely, saving lives is more important than saving minutes.

Cutting five minutes or an hour or so off your travel time is a poor reward for the chance that you might get eternity for you or your loved ones in the bargain. Be patient, be safe, be whole when you get there.

Problem For Large And Small

At a recent meeting of the Colorado River Municipal Water District board, directors heard of two new requests by municipalities for water. One of these, Borden County, is exploring the possibility of a domestic supply for Gail and other county residents. The other, Forsan, is seeking a stable, potable source to meet its needs. Meanwhile, Coahoma has approached the City of Big Spring about increasing its draw in event a larger pipeline can be installed between the two cities.

These are manifestations that the water problem is universal, particularly in West Texas. For many years it was assumed, erroneously, that only the growing and booming cities were the ones who faced critical problems of water supply. It was easy to deduce that more people demand more water; it was easy to prove that the demand for water increases considerably more rapidly than population increases. It was even easy to rationalize that industries and other commercial enterprises required water in such volumes that the lack of it will prevent the establishment or continuance of these industries. Hence the expanding cities had to have more water, and in greater abundance, so, out of necessity, they sought for it.

Smaller communities, it is now apparent, are subject to the same set of conditions, plus two additional ones that is making the problem acute for many of them. For one thing, they have not been forced until now (and some not even now) to look to development of additional supplies; thus dwindling or pollution of sources spell near crisis. The other is that the smaller community frequently lacks the resources to cope with the problem as does the larger place.

Meeting this situation realistically will call for cooperation and bold thinking. It also will call for recognition that water is going to be an increasingly precious commodity everywhere.

David Lawrence

What's The Law On Religion?

WASHINGTON—Just ten days ago the Supreme Court of the United States ruled that it is unconstitutional for the federal government or any state to require a "belief in the existence of God" as a qualification for public office.

Now the question has arisen as to whether any illegality surrounds nearly $2 billion in U. S. currency bills and coins in circulation—dollars, half-dollars, quarters, dimes, nickels and pennies—on which are inscribed the words: "In God We Trust." A law of Congress, passed in 1955, required that this phrase be put on all new money issued by the United States. For 80 years previously it had been inscribed only on certain silver coins, and not on currency bills.

BUT THERE'S a further complication. Are oaths taken heretofore by public officials still valid? Is the law prescribing the official oath of office, as passed by Congress in 1864, now unconstitutional? This law provides that "the oath to be taken by any person elected or appointed to any office of honor or profit either in the civil, military or naval service must include the words, 'so help me God.'"

IN ITS RECENT ruling, the Supreme Court held that requirement of a "belief in the existence of God" as a qualification for public office "unconstitutionally invades the appellant's freedom of belief and religion and therefore cannot be enforced against him."

Are the oaths prescribed by existing law, therefore, an invasion of the citizen's rights? What happens if a witness before a court refuses to be sworn, proclaiming that there is no God and that such an oath is not binding and is, in addition, a violation of religious freedom? What action can the court take to get truthful testimony and at the same time protect such a witness against invasion of his "freedom of belief and religion"? Is, in fact, the prescribed oath binding upon a person who denies the existence of God, and could a charge of perjury be pressed against such a person who testified falsely?

ALSO, WAS it an invasion of "freedom of belief and religion" when the Congress in 1954 added the words "under God" to the pledge of allegiance to the flag of the United States which is now given constantly in our schools and elsewhere?

A formal report of the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives in May 1954, just before the passage by Congress of an amendment to include the phrase "under God" in the pledge, said in part:

"AT THIS MOMENT of our history the principles underlying our American government and the American way of life are under attack by a system whose philosophy is at direct odds with our own."

"The inclusion of God in our pledge therefore would further acknowledge the dependence of our people and our government upon the moral directions of the Creator. At the same time it would serve to deny the atheistic and materialistic concepts of Communism with its attendant subversion of the individual."

"The Supreme Court ruled in 1892 that 'this is a religious nation.' It reiterated this holding, more recently—in 1951—when it stated:

"WE ARE A religious people whose institutions presuppose a Supreme Being."

"Those words by our Supreme Court are true in a very fundamental and realistic sense. From the time of our earliest history our peoples and our institutions have reflected the traditional concept that our nation was founded on a fundamental belief in God."

"On July 4, 1776, our founding fathers proclaimed our Declaration of Independence which no less than four times refers to the existence of the Creator."

"THIS SAME document appeals to 'the Supreme Judge of the world' that this nation be free, and pledges our nation to support the declaration 'with a reliance on the protection of Divine Providence.'"

"The Supreme Court has clearly indicated that the references to the Almighty which run through our laws, our public rituals, and our ceremonies in no way flout the provisions of the First Amendment. In so construing the First Amendment, the Court pointed out that, if this recognition of the Almighty was not so, then even a fastidious atheist or agnostic could object to the way in which the Court itself opens its sessions, namely, 'God save the United States and this Honorable Court.'"

WHAT A PITY that the Supreme Court on June 19 last didn't follow the reasoning cited by Congress instead of arbitrarily reversing the rulings of the high court in the past! Maybe it's time for the Supreme Court justices to re-read carefully the warning given by George Washington in his farewell address in 1796:

"Let it simply be asked, where is the security for property, for reputation, for life, if the sense of religious obligation desert the oaths which are the instruments of investigation in courts of justice? And let us with caution indulge the supposition that morality can be maintained without religion. Whatever may be conceded to the influence of refined education on minds of peculiar structure, reason and experience both forbid us to expect that national morality can prevail in exclusion of religious principle." (Copyright, 1961, New York Herald Tribune, Inc.)

Double Duty

WILLIAMS, Ariz. (U) — Volunteer firemen had to fight both a trailer fire and the trailer's owner.

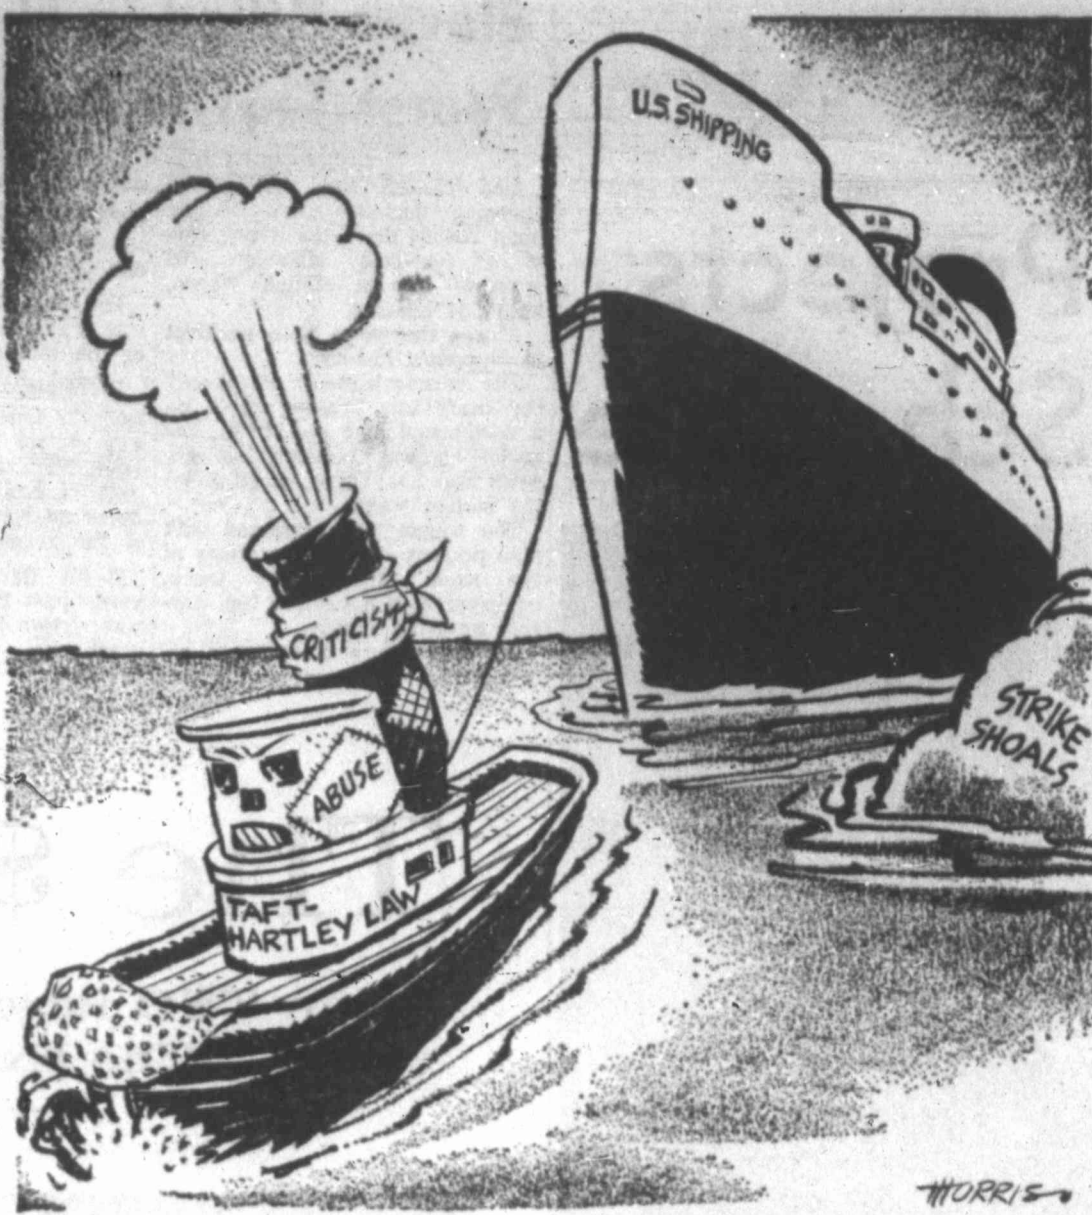

Fireman Fred Augenstein asked W. W. Hamilton to get out of the way of firemen. Hamilton refused and soaked Augenstein. Hamilton was fined $200 for simple assault and interference with the firemen.

He also had an expensive repair bill. Fire damage to the trailer was estimated at $1,500.

Repentant Thief

DELTA, Colo. (U) — A Delta merchant received a letter from a man in Lomita, Calif., containing a check for $30. The writer explained he had been employed in the store years ago while he was a youngster.

The man confessed that while he worked in the store he had swiped pocket knives, candy and gum. The letter added: "Now God has spoken to my heart."

THE LITTLE TUG THAT COULD

J. A. Livingston

Prosperity Without Boom To Sail Through '62

If world affairs have you down, here's a promise of more jobs, more wages, and more prosperity to cheer you up. And without a boom!

In December, the economists who answered my questionnaire predicted new records in 1961 in total output of goods and services, weekly wages, employment, and retail trade. They were not panicked by the then accelerating recession.

Now, in mid-'61, they've upped all their ante. Not only do they expect higher highs in output, wages, employment, and retail sales, but they've decided the upturn will carry industrial production, the cost of living, and the stock market to new all-time highs this year and to even higher highs (except for stock prices) next year.

The degree of agreement is unusual. Out of the 59 who responded, 58 expect the gross national product to reach new peaks by December of this year. On industrial production, seven out of 10 expect a new high this year; nine out of ten, next year.

ONE AND A HALF BEARS Only one, a university professor, can be classed as a "bear." He allows for a slight rise through December, then forecasts a drop during 1962.

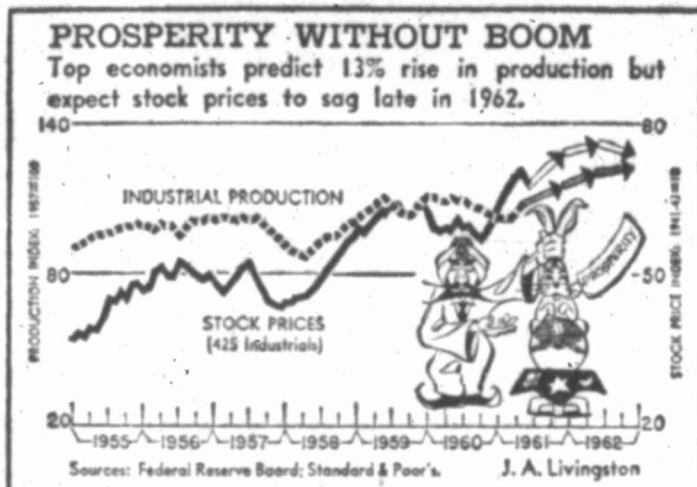

The economist for a brokerage firm can be classed as a half bear. After a sharp rise to mid-'62, he expects a sharp drop, saying: "Once again we have superimposed unnecessary federal spending on top of a normal rebound."

The optimism of the others is unsurprising. New orders, increased employment, rising production indicate that another upturn in the business cycle is underway. Usually, these run for 20 months or more.

Eleven of the economists — 19 per cent — are right up there in optimism with Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon. He recently forecast a gross national product of $51 billion for 1961, and $55 billion for 1962. On that basis, business will be pushing along at a $570 billion annual clip toward the end of '62.

One economist predicts a $500 billion GNP at the end of '62; two $500 billion; two, $575; six at the GNP at or around the Secretary's $570 billion.

The group as a whole foresees a $528 billion GNP in December, $961; $542 billion in mid-'62, and $532 billion at the end of 1962.

DEFENSE SPENDING Industrial production, now around 108 in the Federal Reserve Board index, would shoot up to 115 by the end of this year (well above the 111 peak of January, 1960) and to 120 by mid-'62. Then, slowdown. The December, 1962, figure is 122.

Business men are expected to increase outlays on plant and equipment from current levels of less than $35 billion a year to nearly $39 billion by the end of 1962 — a new high.

Housing starts will increase about 7 per cent this year and go up another 3 per cent in 1962 — to 1,400,000 — some 15 per cent under the best level of 1959.

An important impetus will be the rise in defense spending. At present it runs at a rate of $47 billion a year. The group expects a $51-billion rate by the end of 1962.

$100 A WEEK IN SIGHT The cost of living and wholesale prices will go up slightly, 2 per cent but farm prices will hardly change. This confirms the bit of verse quoted by Deputy Commissioner of Labor Statistics Robert J. Myers in announcing the minuscule (0.1) drop in the cost-of-living index for May.

Down goes beefsteak, up goes rent. This lowers the index by one-tenth per cent. Take time out for three strong cheers. We'll be living on nothing in 63 years!

The predicted upturn will reduce unemployment naturally. At present, 6.9 per cent of labor force is unemployed; that's due to drop to 5.3 per cent. As a corollary, employment will rise to a new high.

The day is not far off when $100 will be average pay. Today, weekly earnings in manufacturing are $92.66; they're due to rise to $94.40 by December, $95.70 by mid-'62, and to $96.80 by the end of '62.

As more money goes to more workers, retail trade will expand. Sales, now running at $18.1 billion monthly, should hit $19.9 billion in December, 1962, if the economists have their say.

As for stock prices, a 6 per cent rise is forecast between now and the end of the year. But a slight drop is expected in the second half of 1962. Maybe the economists figure on a profits squeeze.

Or maybe they figure that by the second half of next year, Wall Street will be anticipating an industrial recession in 1963.

Or maybe just maybe...

House Full Of Generals

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP)—Four of five Civil War generals from Lancaster came from one house. They were Maj. Gen. Thomas Ewing, Maj. Gen. Hugh Ewing, Brig. Gen. Charles Ewing—all brothers—and Gen. William T. Sherman, who was raised by the Ewing family.

The fifth was Bvt. Brig. Gen. J. A. Stafford. In addition, two other generals — Maj. Gen. Philomen Beecher and Brig. Gen. Samuel F. Macracken — lived within a block of the Ewing home but died before the war.

To Your Good Health

Spurs In The Heel Are Not Uncommon

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our son, 9, has spurs on his heels. What are they?"

"Our doctor prescribed shoes that have a sponge rubber inner heel and the heels are built up an extra 1/4 inch. The boy is taking no medicine but is walking better with these shoes. However, when he walks on concrete for a long time, he complains of the pain."

"Mrs. L. M.," "Spurs" in the heel are fairly common. They may be painful; they may not. But let me explain what "spurs" are.

The word itself indicates some jutting out of the heel bone where certain tendons attach.

When there's an injury to the body, even a cut finger or something like that, calcium in the body moves to the injured spot to help heal it. After a wound, you have a scar. After a broken bone, you have a thickened area where the bone "knit." There's calcium there!

So, when for one reason or another, there is irritation of the strong tendon which is attached to the heel bone, calcium gathers there to repair the damage. That's a "spur."

What these painful "spurs" on the heel need is just what a wounded finger needs: Time and relief from irritation while nature adjusts the trouble and restores comfort. It's easy to rest a sore finger. We just avoid using it for a time. It's not so easy to rest a sore heel—or two. Because we walk every day.

So the sponge inner heel makes the best possible sense, and a slightly built-up heel may help, too, depending on circumstances. There could be some structural defect in the feet which puts added strain on the heel. This is often the case. In such instances, special shoes may be required to support the arch or in some other way take the strain off the irritated heel.

"Dear Dr. Molner: If one has hemorrhoids, or piles, is it safe to put in the bathtub either bubble bath, or bath salts, or perfume? Or should you put baking soda in the water?"—Mrs. B."

None of the things you mention will either help or harm the hemorrhoids. A hot tub will help, due to the heat, but not due to what is in the water—except, of course, you.

"Dear Dr. Molner: For curiosity's sake, I would like to know the following about syphilis."

In some doctor books I have read that the first sore of this disease appears 4 weeks after exposure, 6 weeks after, or 12 weeks after. In accordance with the above different time limits, how soon after exposure would a Wasserman or Kahn test show a positive reaction?—J. E."

Sir, I am delighted that this is just for curiosity's sake. The U. S. Public Health Service is decidedly alarmed about the increase in this disease. The increase is large, and, of course, dangerous.

To answer your academic question, the first sore or chancre in the vast majority of cases appears three to four weeks after the exposure or infection.

The Wasserman or Kahn test usually becomes positive after the sore has appeared. The most common time for the Kahn test to become positive is in the fourth or fifth week after infection.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Molner in care of the Herald for a copy of his booklet, "Diabetes The Sneaky Disease." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of handling.

Because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, Dr. Molner regrets that he cannot answer individual letters, but whenever possible he uses readers' questions in his column.

Around The Rim

One Way Of Making A Declaration

Surely they didn't do things in 1776 like they do today, but if they did, a certain gathering of delegates could (in a flight of fancy) have gone this way:

Chairman, pounding gavel forcefully, "Will the delegates clear the aisles! We have important business to transact here, and the demonstrations cannot continue longer. . . . The Chair will recognize the delegate from Delaware."

"MR. CHAIRMAN, we cannot go into business here until the delegates from Texas arrive."

Great mass of protesting voices all around the hall. "Texas hasn't even been discovered yet, stupid!"

The delegate cries back, "But she will be, gentlemen, she will be, and we will be hearing from her from then on."

General chorus: "You can say that again, bud."

CHAIRMAN, AGAIN pounding gavel: "There must be order. We will now proceed with the business at hand, which is to draft a declaration of our independence. The chair will hear proposals for the opening statement."

One voice: "When, in the calendar of time—"

Another voice: "When circumstances are such that—"

STILL ANOTHER: "When the events of history demand—"

Chairman: "I see, gentlemen, that we have not gotten into the swing of this thing. The Chair hereby appoints a committee, with the Hon. Thomas Jefferson as chairman, to word the preliminary draft."

Jefferson springs to his feet. "We are ready with such a draft, Mr. Chairman. Your committee proposes that the Declaration open with these words: 'When in the course of human events—'"

GREAT COURSE of approbation. The Chairman says: "Unanimously adopted, Mr. Jefferson. We'll skip the rest of the paragraph, because our future generations will not recall anything beyond the first seven words. Now, what is the pleasure of the Congress assembled on the start of the second paragraph?"

One voice: "Things are like this—"

Another voice: "As anybody can plain ly see—"

Third voice: "You cannot dispute these facts—"

Chairman: "Again, let us hear from Mr. Jefferson." And Jefferson says:

"THE COMMITTEE'S version, Mr. Chairman is: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident—'"

Again, unanimous acceptance. The Chairman again: "Now there are certain privileges we are to demand—"

Mr. Jefferson: "These are rights, Mr. Chairman, and your committee would like to call them unalienable rights."

"SO ORDERED," says the Chair. "Now how shall we describe these?"

Voice: "Living like we please, no rules—"

Another voice: "Freedom to go running after what you want—"

Mr. Jefferson: "The committee's version reads: 'Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness—'"

Convention responds with great roar of "Hear! Hear!"

Chairman: "Splendid, Mr. Jefferson. Your committee is doing so well that the convention is hereby recessed until tomorrow, so that your committee can complete the whole declaration."

NEXT DAY, the committee version is adopted. Comes time for signing. And the Chairman announces:

"It is with regret that we note no delegates are here from Texas to be the first to sign this Declaration. We will therefore let the delegate who writes best and boldest step forward. Mr. Hancock?"

And that's the way things get started. —BOB WHIPKEY

Holmes Alexander

Industrial Progress In Virginia

CARBO, Va.—Time was when the rustic sportsman's houn' dawg and the moon-shiner had these spectacular gulches pretty much to themselves, save where a sooty minehead offended Nature's beauty, and the lonely passenger train moaned in the night.

BUT IN POSTWAR days, the Commonwealth of Virginia is becoming an industrial state—nowhere better seen than in this former backwoods. Both candidates for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination (practically as good as the election) are promising everything they dare about bringing new industry to Virginia. Albert Harrison, endorsed by the reigning House of Byrd, is pretty much for continuing the evolutionary process which has been eminently satisfactory. A. E. S. Stephens, under the influence of his AFL-CIO endorsers, says he's going to build a better bureaucracy which will hustle the normal developments along.

ACTUALLY, Virginia is better off than the nation when it comes to matching population growth with industrial expansion. Virginia's population increased by 19.5 per cent in the past decade (while so-called "progressive" North Carolina's increase was only 12.3) because people like the Old Dominion and stay put. With a five per cent insured unemployment rate, Virginia was topped only by Texas and Colorado among all states in this important job-index.

The Commonwealth's competence is very visible in the industrial complex of Carbo. Far back in the hills, three sizable companies have pooled their skills to provide for their separate profits. The Appalachian Power Company has a new, still-expanding plant in a small peninsula of the Clinch River. The next Governor of Virginia couldn't possibly deliver on his promises—in fact the state would backslide—without the addition of these kilowatts.

THE CLINCHFIELD Coal Company, only a few miles down the hollow, is feeding the power plant with the first part of a 40-year guaranteed supply of coal, and also shipping the prepared fuel just about everywhere on earth. Coal has become almost a manufactured product. An on-the-spot laboratory is continuously testing to find the most productive mixtures for specific uses all over the world.

The Norfolk and Western Railway moves the coal in hundreds of cars daily between the mine portals and the power plant, and on to the other markets.

THE THREE FIRMS, aided by elements of air, water and fire, are automated to the T. Human eyes and fingers on gauges and dials do the work of human hands, and keep the refuse down to a minimum.

Technology, of course, is not peculiar to any state, but the frankly pro-Virginia reporter is apt to find that the Old Dominion always does things in her own way. For example, the schools I saw in Russell County are both superior and segregated. No wonder! The power company pays Russell County over $500,000 a year in taxes. The coal company pays over $100,000. The railroad pays over $3 million annually to the Commonwealth, and an additional amount, which I wasn't able to find, to the county. With this kind of revenue, the local school boards keep their independence of both State and Federal educationists.

(Distributed by McNaughton Syndicate, Inc.)

Marquis Childs

Conflict Over Education Bill

WASHINGTON—Haunting the halls of Congress as this session wears on into the summer is a ghost that many had thought was given a powerful tranquilizer, if not laid to rest last November.

IN THE VARIOUS aid-to-education bills before the House religious conflict smoldering beneath the surface threatens to break out into the open. The mail on both the Protestant and the Catholic sides of the issue is increasingly intemperate. An open conflict could bitterly divide the Democratic party, with disastrous consequences for 1962 and '64, and put the balance of the President's legislative program in jeopardy.

THIS HAPPENS to suit a tee those who want to block any Federal aid to education. Foremost among them are Rep. Howard W. Smith of Virginia, the wily chairman of the House Rules Committee, and Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, House Republican leader. By bottling up all education bills, including the public school bill already passed by the Senate, in the Rules Committee, the stall can be prolonged indefinitely as the quarrel over parochial versus public schools grows more bitter.

Whether it was his intention or not, Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, the Majority Leader in the House, has contributed to this end. The McCormack role is a complicated one involving past relationships, rivalries and jealousies.

HE HAS SERVED in the House for nearly 34 years and like many members of that untidy body he suffers from frustration. Younger men have come and gone on to more conspicuous positions. One of them was a youngster from McCormack's own bailiwick of Boston named Jack Kennedy.

The two were poles apart in almost every respect and the tolls of Massachusetts politics and young Kennedy's ambition to go to the Senate further separated them. At 70 McCormack sees the 44-year-old Bostonian, with all his advantages of wealth and education, in the White House as President of the United States.

ADD TO THIS the fact that McCormack is a devout Roman Catholic, a deeply religious man. The official position of his church is in opposition to any Federal aid for education unless that aid is shared in some form by parochial and private schools. McCormack is credited with helping to influence two Catholics on the Rules Committee, Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of his own Massachusetts and Rep. James J. Delaney of New York, to vote with Chairman Smith to hold back the Administration bill until it can, in effect, be twinned with a measure providing for loans to private schools.

LINED UP behind the education bills in the legislative procession is the measure on which President Kennedy puts the greatest possible stress—a new and revised approach to foreign aid. The President believes this is an essential instrument in meeting the challenge of Soviet communism. He has asked for a $4.8 billion program and authority to grant economic aid loans for a period of five years. If these requests are cut back substantially, and there is strong opposition to the "back-door spending" of the loan provision, the President will feel that a vital tool has been denied to him.

So his loyal leaders in the House must reckon with what a fratricidal religious war over aid to education could do. The House could become so embittered that foreign aid would be seared and the session grind to an end with a legacy of hatred.

(Copyright, 1961, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Finally Gets Number

CHATTANOOGA (AP)—It took him two years, but Larry Myers, a city fireman, received Hamilton County license plate No. 7 for his car after spending the night in front of the courthouse before tags went on sale.

He tried the same thing in 1960, but the man ahead of him bought tags for three cars—and fouled up his system.

The Big Spring Herald

Published Sunday morning and weekday afternoon except Saturdays.
APPROXIMATE CIRCULATION: 100 copies per week. By mail within 100 miles of Big Spring, $1.00 monthly and $10.00 per year; beyond 100 miles, $1.25 monthly and $12.50 per year.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES — Payable in advance, by carrier in Big Spring, one weekly and $20.00 per year. By mail within 100 miles of Big Spring, $1.00 monthly and $10.00 per year; beyond 100 miles, $1.25 monthly and $12.50 per year.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS is exclusively entitled to the use of all news dispatches credited to it or otherwise credited in this paper and also the local news published herein. All rights for reproduction of special dispatches are also reserved.

The publishers are not responsible for any omission or typographical error that may occur further than to correct it in the next issue after it is brought to their attention and in no case do the publishers hold themselves liable for damages further than the amount received by them for actual space covering error. The right is reserved to reject or sell all advertising copy. All advertising orders are accepted on cash basis only.

2-D Big Spring, Tex., Sunday, July 2, 1961

DISCOVER A WORLD OF IDEAS NEWS AND VIEWS RIGHT FROM YOUR EASY CHAIR

The BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD Is Your Ticket

TO PLACES NEAR AND FAR where the events that change the course of history are happening—where the top stories of human interest unfold.

TO MEETINGS WITH FAMOUS PEOPLE who give their ideas on politics, religion, books, foods, and much more. These are the ideas that may well help you and your family live a happier, more useful life.

TO SPORTS EVENTS AND THEATERS, where you may not have an opportunity to go, but where expert reporters go—and there report to you exactly what happened, and their criticisms and evaluations of those events.

TO LOCAL WEDDINGS AND PARTIES that are fun to read about, even if you were there! You can sit right at home and find out who went where and what they wore—all the news of the your neighbors and friends.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

Phone AM 4-4331

Slain

Mrs. Florence Hussey, 52, above, secretary of the First Baptist Church at Cisco, Tex., and described as "sweet and wonderful," was found stabbed to death in her home. Mrs. Hussey had been beaten about the head and stabbed repeatedly. The body, clad in a sheer nightgown, was surrounded by bloody, barefoot prints.

Girl Guards, Sunbeam Camp Opens Monday

Eleven girls plan to spend a week at Camp Hoblitzelle in Mid-Iothian for Girls Guards and Sunbeams. Capt. James Jay, local Salvation Army commander, said today.

The camp is a highlight of the year for the two girl organizations, and the time is spent swimming, hiking, relaxing and having fellowship with one another and God.

Five girls will attend the Sunbeam camp beginning Monday and will be at the Girl Guards camp on July 11.

Camp Hoblitzelle was founded in 1956 when a camp at Irvin was closed and sold after the city grew up around it. Funds were raised for the 348 acres by sale of the old camp and through private donations and solicitations.

Twelve cabins, capable of housing 144 campers, provide lodgings for 36 Salvation Army posts which use it. They are conveniently located on the tree-studded banks of a lake fed by springs. In the days of cattle drives, the lake was a watering hole.

Costs for the camp are $2 a day for food. Persons unable to pay are going through the courtesy of the Kiwanis, Capt. Jay said.

Attending the Sunbeam camp will be Wanda McNew, Ruth Morgan, Carol Jay, Lupe Kiaz and Lupe Granados. Juanita Marquez will go as the group leader.

Mrs. James Jay will be leader for Olivia Hernandez, Emma Hernandez, Betty Hart, Florence Hallford, Glenda Brown and Antonia Granados.

Legendary Curse Takes Another

LONDON (AP)—Another member of the British family said to be marked by the legendary curse of the pharaohs has died an unexpected death, the fourth in the family since 1929.

The death of Lord Westbury was announced Thursday. He died four days ago in Geneva, Switzerland, at the age of 46. The cause of death was not given.

His father, Capt. Richard Bethell, also died suddenly and at the same age.

Bethell had a hand in excavating the tomb of the pharaoh, Tutankhamen, in 1923. A curse on a tomb relic said, "Death shall come on swift wings to him that toucheth the tomb of the pharaohs."

President-Elect

Dr. George M. Fister, above, of Ogden, Utah, is president-elect of the American Medical Association. Dr. Fister, 65, has been chairman of the AMA's council of legislative activity the past four years. He was named president-elect at the AMA convention in New York.

DOLLAR DAYS

Discount Prices For Dollar Days Sunday And Monday!

BALLERINA SHOES

KITTEN SOFT

RETAIL
98c

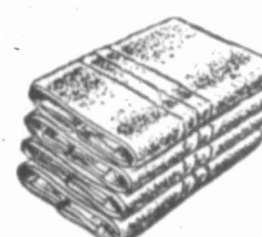

77c

BATH TOWELS

DUNDEE, 20"x42"

SPECIAL LOW
PRICE

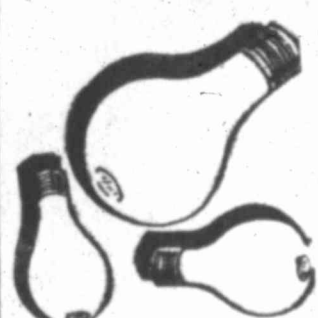

39c

LIGHT BULBS

25-40-60
75-100 WATT
6 FOR

88c

THROW PILLOWS

100% KAPOK-100% WASHABLE

99c

WICKER
BASKET . . . . 49c

HAVE ICE CREAM
THIS WEEKEND

Ice Cream
Freezer

88c

RABBIT EARS

1.49 VALUE

88c

KOOL KUSHION

Lets You Drive In Comfort This Summer.
Heavy Coil Springs
Are Like Riding On Air

6.95
Retail. 2.88

FLASHLIGHTS

5-CELL
RET. 2.79

99c

2-CELL
RET. 98c

Complete WITH BATTERIES 39c

HOT OR COLD PICNIC BAGS

1.98 RETAIL

99c

SHOP
SUNDAY
1:00 TO 6:00
OPEN TUESDAY

TOYO CAPS
10c

CAR COOLER . 29.88

COLORED MAIL
BOX . . . . . 99c

HOLIDAY CAR
POLISH . . . . . 99c

HOUSE COOLER 22.88

RONSONOL LIGHTER
FLUID . . . . . 29c

SPRAY
PAINT . . . . . 79c

WELCOME MAT . 69c

RONSON
FIRE STARTER . . 39c

FURNITURE
POLISH . . . . . 15c

LOOK AT THIS LINGERIE BUY!
LADIES' HALF SLIPS
OF 100% ACETATE TRICOT
LADIES' PANTIES
100% ACETATE TRICOT

BUY BOTH
FOR 88c

88c SET

LITTLE GIRLS'

Double Back Panel

PANTIES

Soft All Cotton In Sizes 2 To 14
Ret. 49c

29c PAIR

GIBSO

ALL ITEMS AT DISCOUNT PRICE
JUST A SELECTED FEW

New 'Voice'

The "Voice of Webb" as of last week was that of Mrs. Mary McConkey of the Wing Inspector's Office. Subbing for Mrs. Marge Brown, who is on a month's vacation, she takes care of "This Week at Webb" on local stations. Her first time on the air, all by herself, Mrs. McConkey had but one audition before taking over.

Stanton Man Top Winner At Wichita

DENVER — Southwest cowboys today were counting major shares of $52,449 prize money total slotted up at three major rodeos: Los Angeles, Vernon, Texas, and Wichita, Kan., over last weekend.

The California contest, rodeo's richest one-day harvest, divided $36,456 among winners there; Vernon paid out $10,254, and Wichita, $11,739.

Billy J. Deussen, San Antonio, reaped a whopping $2,199 for winning the California steer wrestling, while big Jim Bynum, Fort Worth, Texas, scooped up $1,812 for finishing second behind his Texas colleague.

Jim Bob Altizer, Del Rio, Texas, jumped into second place in the national calf roping standings, splitting second and third in the Los Angeles roping for $1,688, added a $286 day money at Vernon. He now totals $10,438. He was the 1959 world champion calf roper.

Again in the national rodeo picture, Benny Reynolds, Melrose, Mont., cowboy, surged into the game's financial lead with $15,939, after winning $2,516 at the Coliseum. He split top honors in saddle bronc riding worth $1,232, added a second place in bull riding for $1,284.

At Wichita Bill Watts, Stanton, Texas, was individual high winner with $818, while little Marvin Holmes, Pickett, Okla., earned a similar award at Vernon with $742.

Top contenders in the events are: All-around—Reynolds $15,939, and Dean Oliver, Boise, Idaho, $14,409; saddle bronc—Doug Bruce, Calgary, Alta., Can., $8,424, and Enoch Walker, Cody, Wyo., $7,940; bareback bronc—Eddy Akridge, Midland, Texas, $6,478 and Jack Buchhorn, Cassville, Wis., $5,843; bull riding—Del Hathaway, Snyder, Texas, $5,523, and Joe Greene, Sulphur, Okla., calf roping, Dean Oliver $14,363, and Jim Bob Altizer, Del Rio, Texas, $10,438; steer wrestling, Benny Combs, Checotah, Okla., $10,624, and C. R. Boucher, Burkburnett, Texas, $8,345.

Explorers Plan Area Gathering

An "Explorer Gala Whing-Ding" has been planned for Aug. 4-6 at Webb AFB, with Explorers from the 18-county Buffalo Trails Council attending. Plans were made at a meeting of the Explorer District Cabinet Thursday night at the Chamber of Commerce Office.

Douglass Orme was appointed general chairman of the Whing-Ding, and he will be assisted by Explorer Don Bynum.

"The boys are expecting between 200 and 250 Explorers for the event," Bill McRee, scout executive, said Friday. "They have set up chairmen and advisors for each event to be held."

Chairmen and advisors chosen (with some to be named) were: Chess — Bobby Wise; navigation — Carl Giles, and Bill McClendon; survival — Doug McMeans, and Lt. Stanley Grant; debate — Mack Green; first aid — advisor, Fred Beckham; swimming — Don Alexander; model airplanes — Don Bynum; entertainment — advisor, Jack Gully; awards — P. V. Thorson; attendance — Ray Alexander, and Jack Alexander; publicity — David Landrum, and Jim Watts; welcome and registration — advisor, W. O. McMeans; arrangements — advisor, Lt. Jim Hurt.

Entire Stock
Watch Bands
1/2 Price
J. T. GRANTHAM
First Door North
State National Bank

Gibson's Will Be Open Tuesday, 9:00 'til 5:00
Shop Sunday, 1:00 Until 6:00 P.M.

Gibson's Lifetime
GOLF BALLS
3 FOR 1.44

Garcia Reflex
SPINNERS

Don't Let The Fish Make A Sucker
Out Of You. Use These

Time Proven
Lures. Ret. 89¢

49¢

Big 9 Ft.
By 12 Ft.

FAMILY-SIZE TENT

89<sup>95</sup>

Aluminum Extension Poles, Two Large Windows, Awning And Screen Front That Is Bug Proof!

RETAIL 129.95

ONLY

DIP NET . . . . . 59¢

Beginner's Golf Set

2 WOODS, 5 IRONS AND HANDY BAG. TERRIFIC BUY!

39.95
RETAIL

29.95

JET

RETAIL 21.95

SURFBOARD . . . . 14.88

GIBSON WATER SKIS WITH SLALOM

29.95
RETAIL

19.95

NO. 220 METAL BLUE WATER FLOATING

2.98 VAL.

MINNOW BUCKET . 1.88

11.95 VAL.

PUP TENTS . . . . . 7.95

20-FT.

RETAIL 4.95

MINNOW SEINE . . . 2.99

CHEST-HI WADERS

ALL RUBBER

USUAL 16.95
RETAIL

11.95

PARKS, 4-TRAY, EXTRA LARGE

RETAIL 10.95

TACKLE BOX . . . . . 6.88

RET. 2.98

SWIM FINS . . . . . 1.69

2 DUMBBELLS, 110-LB.

BARBELL SET . . . . 19.95

Coleman Lantern

Double Mantle
Deluxe Size
No. 220E. 17.50 Retail

10.88

NO. 5511, COLEMAN

RET. 5.95

PICNIC JUG 1/2 GAL. 3.99

COLEMAN
COOLER

No. 5213. Foam insulation keeps ice up to 3 times as long as old type insulation.
15.95 Retail.

9.88

SNOWLITE
COOLER

CHARCOAL

10 LB.
BAG . . . . .

44¢

AIR MATTRESS

RUBBERIZED CLOTH

RETAIL
8.95

5.95

ALUMINUM COT

CLOTH COVERED WITH PLASTIC SUPPORTS

Ideal For All Your Camping Trips Or As A

Spare Bed FOR USE AT HOME. YOU'LL WANT MORE THAN ONE AT GIBSON'S LOW PRICE!

RETAIL 13.95

8<sup>88</sup>

DISCOUNTS
on your Drug needs!

GLEEM
TOOTH-PASTE
RETAIL 83¢

55¢

EX-LAX

48's
83¢ Ret.

52¢

Mennen's Brake

Deodorant
1.00 Ret.

59¢

OJ's
Beauty Lotion 1.00

2 FOR

PRELL
SHAMPOO . . 88¢

1.50 VAL.

STYLE HAIR SPRAY

LIMIT 2

59¢

RINSE-AWAY

2.00 VALUE

1.19

BABY MAGIC

1.00 RETAIL

59¢

AERO WAX

1/2 GALLON

88¢

REVLON
TOP BRASS

1.00
RETAIL . . . 69¢

HUNTSMAN CREAM
HAIR TONIC

6 OZ. SIZE
1.00 RETAIL

44¢

3rd and Johnson

•
FREE PARKING
•

Store Hours
Daily
9 TO 9
OPEN SUNDAY
1 TO 6

GIBSON'S

AT DISCOUNT PRICES --- NOT A SELECTED FEW !!

BUZ SAWYER

GASOLINE ALLEY

NANCY

L'IL ABNER

BLONDIE

ORPHAN ANNIE

SNUFFY SMITH

KERRY DRAKE

DONALD DUCK

PEANUTS

DICK TRACY

MARY WORTH

REX MORGAN

Bargain Specials NEW EUREKAS

$39.95 and UP

While They Last. Also 100 Bargains in Late Model Pre-Owned Cleaners Taken in On Eureka Commercial Uprights. Eureka Is The Fastest Rug Cleaner Known. Buy On Time.

G. BLAIN LUSE
1501 Lancaster
1 Bk. W. of Gregg
Phone AM 4-2211

POGO

GRANDMA

TERRY

SMITTY

MOON MULLINS

Family Conflict Theme Of 'Big Show' At Ritz

The spectacle, pageantry and excitement of circus life sweep across the screen as 20th Century-Fox brings to the public "The Big Show". The film blends the realism of life under the big-top with a stark intra-family drama of sadism, ruthlessness and tyranny. The picture in CinemaScope and DeLuxe Color opens today at the Ritz Theatre with Esther Williams, Cliff Robertson, Nehemiah Persoff and Robert Vaughn in key roles.

Here is entertainment that combines excitement on two levels: the drama and splendor of some of the most unique circus acts ever witnessed in this country, and the tale of a family brought to the brink of destruction by a father whose demand for implicit loyalty and obedience from his performing children culminates in his own death.

Key figure in the story is Nehemiah Persoff, playing the difficult part of Bruno Everard, owner of one of Europe's celebrated circuses. With more contempt than love, he dominates the lives of his children, each of whom is a gifted circus performer, each of whom must subordinate their own wish for personal fulfillment to the needs of the circus.

Cliff Robertson, as Bruno's favored son, delivers a sensitive performance as an acrobat and the one member of this conflicted family who does not literally fear and hate his parent.

As Hillary Allen, wealthy American girl who falls in love with Cliff and attempts to divorce him from his allegiance to the circus, Esther Williams is graceful, charming and direct. Her celebrated skills as a swimming champion are given full play in the film during a sequence at the shore with her lover.

Laurels go also to Robert Persuasion

Esther Williams tries to persuade boyfriend Cliff Robertson to break away from his tyrannical father in "Big Show" playing today and Monday at the Ritz.

Vaughn, in the role of Klaus Everard, the rejected son of the family, whose vicious hostility toward his father becomes channeled into an ambition to take over control of the circus and oust Bruno legally. The major conflict of wills in this drama revolves around the battle, subtle yet perpetual, between father and son, the similarity in their sadistic natures, and the curious justice which brings both of them to ultimate destruction.

WHAT'S PLAYING

Circus, Soldiers, Gable Dominate Local Viewing

After a week with a lot of well-known pictures playing at the various theaters in town, things slow down a little this week. At the Ritz for the first couple of days will be another circus picture—one I hadn't heard about. Wonder if "Big Show" has anything in common with "The Greatest Show on Earth" or "Trapeze" other than they all deal with circus life. Guess I'll just have to see it to find out.

Starting Wednesday is "The Last Time I Saw Archie," and for me it's the last time I wanted to see him, too. This was the sneak preview at the Ritz about two weeks ago, and by the time the picture was over, I was completely fed up with Archie, as played by Robert Mitchum. Archie is an egotist of the first degree, and I found his braggadocio just a little nerve wracking after a while.

The movie is a comedy, all about soldiers, spies and girls during World War II. There are a few good laughs in it. See it if you think you can stand to listen to Archie for an hour and a half.

Two of the late Clark Gable's pictures are returning to the Jet Thursday "Band of Angels" and "Soldier of Fortune" both show of Mr. Gable in all his masculine charm. Two beautiful leading ladies, Yvonne De Carlo and Susan Hayward, star with him.

Coming to the Ritz next Saturday at 6 p.m. is the movie "Parrish," starring Troy Donahue and Claudette Colbert. If I am not mistaken, the movie is taken from a recent best-seller, and from the stars, it looks as if it might be another story about a young man and an older woman. With Colbert and Donahue leading the cast, the acting will probably be of a rather high caliber.

—KAY LOVELAND

Nuyen Missed First Big Movie Chance

What might have been France Nuyen's first big movie break ended in failure. She was tested in Paris by Mike Todd for "Around the World in 80 Days," but was turned down because she couldn't speak English. Also, she was only 14.

France (it's her real name) was born in Marseilles, France, on July 31. Her father, Louis Nuyen, was a ship's navigator and during the war years he was unable to be with his family. When Marseilles was bombed, France's mother, a Frenchwoman, fled with her to the country where they stayed with relatives.

When France arrived in New York to seek a modeling career, she found no work for her tiny figure (she wears a size 7 or 8 dress) in high-fashioning Gotham. However, Candy Jones Conover cast a shrewd eye on the pretty girl and soon after a comprehensive modeling course she got France to audition with Joseph Logan for the film version of "South Pacific." In the meantime France had taken a job mailing cookies. She had eaten at least as many as she had mailed and Mrs. Conover was astonished to discover that France would have to lose at least fifteen pounds if she was to be considered for the part of "Liat." "That she got the part is, now 'happy talk' in theatres all over the world. Soon 'In Love and War' followed, and France skyrocketed to stage fame on Broadway in "The World of Suzie Wong." On TV she has appeared in "Hong Kong" and "Adventures in Paradise."

"The Last Time I Saw Archie" France shares full star billing with Jack Webb, Robert Mitchum and Martha Hyer, establishing herself as one of the brightest new stars on the Hollywood horizon.

Story Of Archie Is Actually True

You know Archie. The last time you saw Archie he was doing less work and reaping more profit from it than anyone around. Archie is the goldbrick, and in the comedy "The Last Time I Saw Archie," Robert Mitchum plays the arch Archie, the boldest, goldbrick of them all: Archie Hall.

The truly astonishing part of this hilarious story is that it is true! Although screenwriter Bill Bowers has been advised by his lawyers that the statute of limitations having expired, he need not change his own name, the real Archie is not positively identified. As indicated in the film, however, Archie is now living it up in Hollywood, still behaving very Archie.

'Archie' Is GI Comedy

"The Last Time I Saw Archie," a comedy starring Robert Mitchum, Jack Webb, Martha Hyer and France Nuyen, plays at the Ritz Theatre Wednesday through Saturday. The film, which Webb directed and co-produced with screenwriter William Bowers, also stars a half dozen of Television's top comedians.

"The Last Time I Saw Archie" offers a comic facet of Army life never before brought to the screen. It deals with a company of overaged and overweight civilian pilots drafted into the Army Air Force in the waning days of World War II. Mitchum, in the title role, portrays the boldest, goldbrick of all time, with Webb playing his cynical sidekick. Misses Hyer and Nuyen are seen as two lovely young ladies whose charms often induce the unwilling soldiers-in-training to forego the Army grind for the pleasures of civilian life—while on duty. James Mitchum, teen-age son of the noted star, appears in the film with his father.

The whacky khaki contingent comprising Archie's "victims" includes Louis Nye, Don Knotts, Harvey Lembeck, Robert Strauss, Del Moore, James Lydon and Joe Flynn. Four of these lucky over-the-hill doofuses end up in the appealing arms of a quartet of starlets—Claudia Barrett, Theona Bryant, Elaine Davis, and Marilyn Burtis.

As "Archie," Mitchum manages to talk himself into the best of everything, sometimes at the ex-

Returns

"Picnic," starring William Holden and featuring Rosalind Russell, returns to the screen at the Jet today through Wednesday.

pense of his GI buddies, but he is disciplined to wrestle with his conscience at all until he is forced to concede that the lovely France Nuyen, who has been merrily paying for their good times with fifty dollar bills, seems to be a Japanese spy. His reactions, however, is typically "Archie."

Sarita Is Now Rhea

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You've seen dark-haired, dark-eyed Sarita Vera in scores of TV shows, always as a Mexican or Indian girl. But never again.

"I killed her off this week," says red-haired Rhea Vernon. "With a new hair dye, new make-up job and a new name. Only my mother will know me as Sarita from now on."

Sarita and Rhea, of course, are the same girl. This week she decided to take a drastic step to break the casting she had been in.

"I couldn't blame producers for always casting me as a Latin-American, because that is what I am," the Los Angeles-born actress said. "But it's frustrating to be limited to only two types."

So the other day she went to a Beverly Hills beauty salon for a complete renovation.

But she went in for the overhaul, she had a call from a casting director of Columbia Pictures for a role in a movie, "Walk on the Wild Side."

"He turned me down and for the first time in my life I was happy because I didn't get a part. He spoke the kindest words I've ever heard."

"Sorry, Miss Vernon, this part calls for a Latin-American type. You won't do."

"I had been called in as Sarita Vera but when I went in for my interview I was the red-haired Rhea Vernon."

Webb Type-Cast

Jack Webb feels "back home" again in "The Last Time I Saw Archie," co-starring Robert Mitchum. It is a comedy about pilots in the Army Air Force during World War II, and it was as an Army Air Force Aviation Cadet, at that same time, that Webb actually began his show business career. While taking preliminary pilot training at St. John's University in St. Cloud, Minnesota, he wrote, produced and acted in two U. S. O. variety shows. "The Last Time I Saw Archie," which he also co-produced and directed, is released through United Artists.

2 Days Only
Sunday & Monday!

Ritz

Open 12:45
Adults 75c
Children 25c

Ed Sullivan says:
"THIS IS IT! 'THE BIG SHOW' IS REALLY THE BIG SHOW!"

THE BIG SHOW

Starring ESTHER WILLIAMS and CLIFF ROBERTSON

Nehemiah Persoff - Robert Vaughn - Margia Dean
David Nelson - Carol Christensen
Produced by Ted Sherdeman and James B. Clark
Directed by James B. Clark

CINEMA SCOPE COLOR BY DE LUXE 20

STARTING TODAY!!

State

Open 12:45
DOUBLE FEATURE

THEY FALL IN LOVE...and it's WONDERFUL!

UNFORGETTABLE...1001 THRILLS!

'Hand In Hand'

JOHN GREGSON
SYBIL THORNDIKE
LORETTA PARRY
PHILIP NEEDS

CARTHAGE IN FLAMES

KIRK WOODWARD - JOSE SHARAZ
A COLUMBIA RELEASE

STARTING TONIGHT

SAHARA

TWIN-SCREEN
OPEN IN THEATRE

Open 7:00 P.M.—News & 2 Cartoons
Adults 60c
Children Free

STAR-AND-EXCITEMENT 2 HIT SHOW!

In ALL Its Natural Beauty and COLOR!

THE WEAK... THE BOLD... THE STRONG...

DEAN STOCKWELL
JEFFREY HUNTER
FRED MACMURRAY

GUN FOR A COWARD

plus
4 Girls in Town
GAY ADVENTURE
Sensationally filmed in COLOR!

Cabot Almost Spoke To God

QUINAGA, Mexico (AP)—Hugh Cabot of the Boston Cabots has been painting cowboys and their mounts for several years.

Cabot has lived in Fort Stockton and Marfa, Tex., since the Korean War, and more lately in Taos, N.M.

The other day he decided a man cannot really draw bucking broncos until he rides one. So Cabot entered a bronc riding competition here this month.

The result: A special award for effort and two broken ribs. "I also gained a greater understanding of broncs," the painter said. "Also a greater respect for them."

WEEK'S PLAYBILL

RITZ

Sunday and Monday
BIG SHOW, with Esther Williams and Cliff Robertson

Tuesday through Saturday
LAST TIME I SAW ARCHIE, with Robert Mitchum, Jack Webb, Martha Hyer

Saturday Kid's Show
BRASS LEGEND
Saturday Beginning 6 p.m.
PARRISH, with Troy Donahue and Claudette Colbert

STATE

Sunday through Wednesday
CARTHAGE IN FLAMES, also, HAND IN HAND, with John Gregson

Thursday through Saturday
NIGHT FIGHTERS, with Robert Mitchum and Anne Heywood, also, BUFFALO GUNS

JET

Sunday through Wednesday
PICNIC, with Kim Novak and William Holden

Thursday through Saturday
BAND OF ANGELS, with Clark Gable and Yvonne De Carlo; also, SOLDIER OF FORTUNE, with Clark Gable, and Susan Hayward

SAHARA

Sunday through Tuesday
FOUR GIRLS IN TOWN, also, GUN FOR A COWARD

Wednesday through Saturday
ETERNAL SEA, also, THESE THOUSAND HILLS

Coop's Estate Worth $1,000,000

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gary Cooper bequeathed the bulk of his estate, valued in excess of $1 million, to his widow Veronica. The actor also made provision for lifetime care for his mother.

The screen star died of cancer May 13. His will, filed for probate, made these other bequests: Ten thousand dollars to the Motion Picture Relief Fund; $5,000 each to a brother, Arthur, of Indio, Calif., a nephew, Howard Cooper, and a niece, Georgia Burton, of Marion, Ohio; and $1,000 to Our Lady of Gethsemane Abbey, Louisville, Ky.

In addition to his widow and mother, Cooper left a daughter, Maria, 23.

Seeks Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor-dancer Dan Dailey was sued for divorce last week by his wife, Gwendolyn. She charged cruelty, claiming he had inflicted bodily injury on her.

Tax Lien

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service Thursday filed a $61,798 income tax lien against actor, Mickey Rooney and his fourth wife, Elaine, for the years 1957-58. Agents said Mrs. Rooney, since divorced, owes $28,079 of the sum.

A Swinging Rock-N-Roll Tune

For Easy Listening

SAM'S THE MAN

backed with

DEATH OF AN ANGEL

—Sung By Al And Sharon Short

—Sung By Les Gary

STARTING TONIGHT!

JET Daily 2
SAN ANGELO RE-WAY

OPEN 7:00 P.M.
NEWS & 2 CARTOONS

From the moment he hit town...she knew it was just a matter of time!

COLUMBIA PICTURES presents

WILLIAM HOLDEN

picnic

WITH KIM NOVAK

BETTY FIELD - SUSAN STRASBERG - CLIFF ROBERTSON

AND CO-STARRING ROSALIND RUSSELL AS ROSEMARY

CINEMA SCOPE
TECHNICOLOR

IT'S WORTH A TRIP TO

Fort Worth

to dine in

WESTERN HILLS' Polynesian Village

WESTERN HILLS Hotel

EXOTIC FOOD & DRINK
The Most-Exciting New Dining Room in the Entire Southwest

250 Rooms, Suites, Cabanas, Guest Houses,
• Free Swimming • Five Dining Rooms
• Free Radio and TV • Free Golf

Complete Resort and Country Club Luxuries at Hotel Prices

COW POKES

By Ace Reid

DEAR ABBY

Judge Man On His Own Actions

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a man who was married before. He has been a perfect angel to me. He knows I dislike drinking, so he has not touched a drop since we started going together. He is always thoughtful and considerate, and I think he will make a fine husband. My problem is this: His ex-wife paid me a "friendly" visit. She told me he was the world's worst husband. She said he drank like a fish, chased around, and she could never believe a word he said. I am confused now. Should I believe his ex-wife or should I judge him from his actions with me?

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend is overseas in the service. My problem is he hardly ever writes!

Sometimes two and three weeks will go by without a letter from him. I write to him almost every day, and I am getting tired of this one-sided correspondence. When he does write, he says he loves me and there is nothing to do over there, so there is nothing to write about. Is this possible? Do you think I ought to write and tell him if he can't do any better than this I am going to drop him?

DEAR ABBY: Write him all the home town news. Send him clips from the local paper and ask him what he thinks about what you've sent. But, for goodness sake, do not threaten to drop him. He needs your letters more than ever now.

DEAR ABBY: Recently I started to share an apartment with another girl. We get along fine except for one thing. She has a fiancé who is a very large fellow. And so is his appetite. He comes to our apartment almost every night for dinner. On weekends he sleeps on our couch. My roommate and I agreed to split the expenses down the middle. This includes groceries. Do you think I should be paying for half the groceries when her fiancé eats almost all of them? (He drinks four bottles of beer in one evening.)

This is my first experience with a roommate, and I don't want to cause hard feelings. How should I handle this?

DEAR ROOMMATE: It would appear that you have TWO roommates—not one. Therefore, the expenses should be divided into three parts—like Gaul, (which is something your roommate has plenty of.) Find another roommate. You are being had.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LONG TALL SALL": Don't expect him to call. Why should a man run after a train he's already caught?

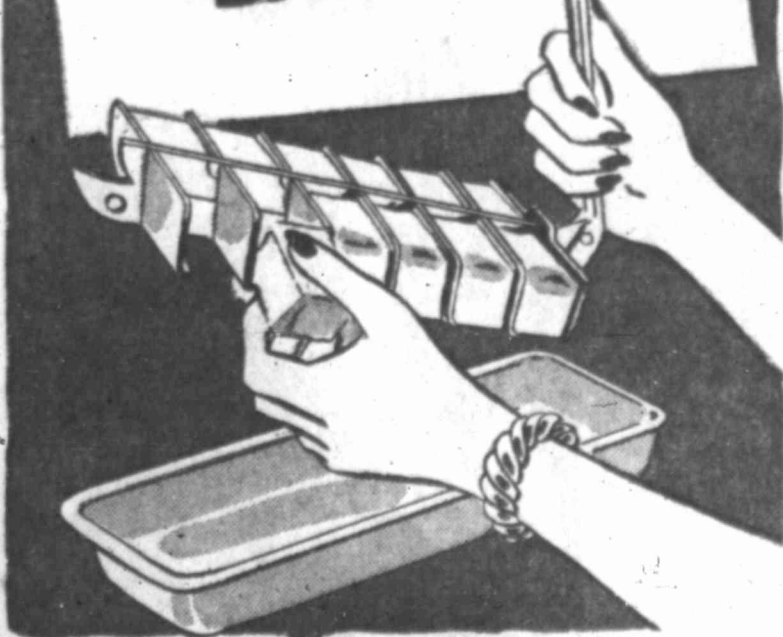

What's bothering you? For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

| CONTINENTAL TRAILWAYS   |           |
|-------------------------|-----------|
| Crawford Hotel Building | AM 4-4171 |
| Fares To:               |           |
| El Paso                 | $ 9.65   |
| Phoenix                 | 22.50     |
| Los Angeles             | 22.50     |
| Seattle                 | 21.00     |
| Dallas                  | 8.45      |
| St. Louis               | 22.50     |
| Memphis                 | 19.15     |
| New York                | 47.15     |
| All Fares Plus Tax      |           |

Dollar Day Special

ICE CUBE TRAY BARGAIN!

NOW
ONLY...
99¢

EACH
Reg. 2.50

- Famous G-E Redi-Cube® Ice Tray!
- One Easy Motion Releases All Cubes Instantly!

You'll Want A Complete New Set At This Low Dollar Day
Price

Hilburn's Appliance

Authorized Dealer

304 Gregg GENERAL ELECTRIC AM 4-5351

New Cars Move Better As Economy Has Upturn

By JOE BEYER

Automobile sales have perked up within the last 60 days, according to local car dealers, and if the trend continues, 1961 sales might be an improvement over last year.

In the medium and high price fields increased sales were noted about June 1. Since then, one dealer said, sales have been steady, but not enough to offset a bad April and May. The low-price car market took a turn for the better earlier, and here also the businessmen noted the change at the beginning of June.

"A man likes to begin his vacation trip with a new car," one man said to explain the June improvement.

Another pointed out short-lived peaks of business in March. These could be attributed to expiration of licenses. Seemingly the average citizen does not get new plates on a vehicle he intends to trade. Instead, he trades and the license cost is absorbed in the price of the car.

EARLY LOSSES

The first four months of this year were said to be from 20-40 per cent below a year ago with the greatest losses in the higher and medium price markets. The low price field seemed to be hurt the least during the slow period. Continued sale of compact models helped offset the lack of activity in the low price new car field.

Only one major firm here noted increased sales. The dealer said new car sales were up 33 per cent over a year ago and used car sales almost 40 per cent. "I think most people are keeping their good expensive automobiles and trading in their second cars on either compacts or late-model used cars," one medium price distributor said. The general increase in used car sales seems to support his statement.

"Our expensive models are holding well," another businessman said. "Many of these cars are almost pre-sold to regular clientele."

He pointed out that a lack of exploratory drilling in the area probably hurt his business as much as anything else.

Although several dealers admitted that they had cut down their advertising, those whose sales were hurt least during the slow period had not done so.

"When business got tight, I cut my advertising, especially out of town," one man said. He pointed out that fewer out-of-town sales reflected this change, but that less local business was also noted. Another reason he gave was competition in other cities where he once had none.

FEWER CARS?

There may be fewer cars to choose from during the months just before new models come out. Production already has been drastically curtailed to avoid overproduction, such as occurred last year.

Despite lowered prices during the less active period volume of purchases continued to remain low.

"We did everything we could to draw customers and still they were not buying," one dealer said. "Now they are paying more money for cars than they would have two months ago."

"I think the economy is stronger than it has been and persons are beginning to spend again," another said.

Wood Price 42 Cents

AUSTIN (AP)—Wool sold by Texas producers during the 1960 marketing year brought an average of 42 cents per pound, the Texas Livestock Reporting Service said.

CUPID PERSEVERES TO THE END FOR NEAR RECORD JUNE

Cupid was a busy little fellow in Howard County during the merry month of June — the busiest he has been in this county since 1958. That was his biggest June in recent years.

Pauline Petty, Howard County clerk, said there had been 54 marriage licenses issued by her office through Friday. The last persons to get a license before the month ended were Charles Eugene Lewis, 25, Webb AFB, and Mary Louise Clemons, 21, of 1000 NW 1st Street. They obtained their license on Friday afternoon.

During the record June of 1958, the county clerk's office issued 58 licenses. Worst June in recent history was 1957 when only 32 licenses were issued.

In 1960, the office issued 48 licenses; in 1959 the total was 51. In 1956, the office issued 47 licenses.

MEN IN SERVICE

Army Pvt. Apolinar E. Garcia, 22, son of Mrs. Sulema Estrada, 410 N. W. Seventh St., Big Spring, completed the eight-week typing and clerical procedures course at The Armor School, Fort Knox, Ky., June 22.

Garcia entered the Army in January of this year and received basic training at Fort Hood. He is a 1957 graduate of Thomas Jefferson High School, El Paso, and was employed by the Basin Growers Association in Stanton, before entering the Army. His father, Antonio G. Garcia, lives at 408 N. W. Fifth St.

Army Pvt. James D. Richardson Jr., whose parents live at 812 Cedar, Colorado City, is receiving eight weeks of advanced individual training at The Artillery and Missile Center, Fort Sill, Okla. The training is scheduled to end July 13.

Richardson is being trained in the duties of a cannoneer with the 105 - millimeter howitzer, a light field artillery weapon. He completed basic training at Fort Hood, a 1958 graduate of Colorado High School, Richardson attended Texas Technological College.

Airman Third Class Guillermo M. Rangel Jr., 18, whose parents live on Knott Route, Big Spring, has completed the eight-week cooking course at the Army Quartermaster School, Fort Lee, Va. During the course Rangel received training in cooking, cake and pastry baking, meat cutting and operating a field kitchen. He entered the Air Force last February and completed basic training at Lackland Air Force Base. Airman Rangel attended Big Spring High School.

T. V. TROUBLES?

Check Your TV Tubes
FREE AT...
TOBY'S
1801 Gregg No. 1 1600 E. 4th No. 2

JOHN A.

COFFEE

ATTORNEY-AT-LAW

308 Scurry

Dial AM 4-2591

Holiday Specials

...bare your beautiful back to the sun and tantalize him with your tan. At Fisher's, we have...

SUNBACK DRESSES

Valued To 12.95 — Yours For 8.95
Valued To 19.95 — A Prize At 13.95

Shop Both Stores For Bareback Beauty...

Fisher's

1003-A 11th Place 1907 Gregg

Father Seriously Ill

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Eudy, 1315 Mulberry, left Friday afternoon for Vernon to be at the bedside of his father, F. L. Eudy. He has been ill for about a year and was not expected to live over the weekend. F. L. Eudy was formerly a long time resident of Big Spring.

NEWCOMER

GREETING SERVICE

Your Hostess:

Mrs. Joy

Fortenberry

1207 Lloyd AM 3-2005

An established Newcomer

Greeting Service in a field where experience counts for results and satisfaction.

BOYS' JEANS

Lee Westerner faded blue pants and boys' nylon reinforced Tex'n Jeans... broken size ranges.

2.98 Tex'n Jeans ..... 1.98
3.50 Tex'n Jeans ..... 2.50
4.98 Westerners ..... 2.98

CHILDREN'S PLAY SHOES ..... 1.00

Odds and ends, canvas shoes, sandals, etc.

LADIES' CANVAS OXFORDS ... 2.00

MEN'S CANVAS SHOES ..... 3.00

Only 20 pair... slip-on styles.

LADIE'S SWIRLS, HOUSE DRESSES

One rack of summer

Swirls and house dresses

in fine cotton fabrics.

Misses sizes and a few half sizes.

5.95 and 7.95 values, only

3.95

MONDAY IS DOLLAR DAY at Hempill-Wells

NYLON STOCKINGS

First quality stockings

from our regular stock of famous brand stockings.

Full fashioned and seamless.

1.35 to 2.50 values

88c Pair

COTTON FABRICS

One table of cotton fabrics... assortment of colors and designs.

36" and 45" widths.

Values to 1.98 yard.

2 yds. for 1.00

