Second write-in seeks council seat

A second write-in candidate for Place 1 on the Snyder city council announced Friday morning — Gary E. Roberts, a project engineer here for Y-Z Industries Inc.

Roberts, a 16-year resident of Snyder, has announced for the post currently held by Gene Thomas, who was unopposed as the filing deadline for the council [illegible] March 6.

Since that time, however, Thomas — superintendent for the SACROC Unit — has received word he will be transferring from the city in the near future, part of a job promotion related to his association with Chevron U.S.A.

March 13, David Hines announced as a write-in candidate also.

Roberts has been an active member of the Snyder Lions Club over the years. He has held a variety of local offices in the club and has served as district secretary for this region.

He currently serves as president of the Lions.

His wife Kathryn is the Scurry County Extension Agent for home economics. They are members of Trinity United Methodist Church.

Absentee voting for the city election began Monday and will end April 2 at city hall.

6th grader ready for regional bee

Sixth grader Gayle Henderson will compete in the regional spelling bee this Saturday in Moody Auditorium on the Lubbock Christian College campus in Lubbock.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henderson, Gayle attends classes at Stanfield Elementary and is enrolled in Project Excel there, Snyder's scholastic program for gifted and talented students.

Even though this is her third year to participate in the local spelling bee, Gayle said she really didn't expect to win.

"I was surprised, kind of happy and relieved that it was over," she said.

"I think the regional spelling bee will be harder than I thought," Gayle continued. "I'm excited and getting a little nervous now."

Gayle said she studies from one to two hours each night. Her parents help her, she said, especially her mother.

To win the local bee, Gayle successfully spelled her way through 22 rounds of competition, before beating out Angela Murdock, a sixth grader at East Elementary, for the top spot and the right to advance to the regional bee.

Rate request

AUSTIN (AP) — Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. filed a $323.9 million rate increase proposal today with the Public Utility Commission.

The proposed increase, according to the PUC, would raise local monthly phone bills by $1.50 to $2.

The PUC has set the first hearing on the request for April 10.

Truck fire

What was thought to be a potentially hazardous truck fire Thursday turned out to be only a minor blaze involving the vehicle's brakes.

Snyder firemen were dispatched at 9:31 p.m. Thursday.

Initial reports indicated that a tank truck loaded with poisonous hydrocloric acid had caught fire on State Highway 350 four miles southwest of Ira.

After arriving at the scene, firemen discovered the brakes on the truck — owned by Permian Chemical Co. of Odessa — had caught fire. No damage to the tank or leakage of acid was noted.

Raymond Tucker of Odessa was listed as the driver of the tractor-trailer rig.

Swap ongoing

The antique auto parts swap meet, which began Friday in the ag annex of the coliseum, will continue here Saturday.

The event is sponsored by local members of the Big Spring-based Antique Automobile Club of America.

Weather

Snyder Temperatures: High Thursday, 59 degrees; low, 36 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Friday, 44 degrees; no precipitation; total precipitation for 1985 to date, 3.61 degrees.

Snyder Area Forecast: Tonight fair and cold with lows in upper 30s. Wind north 15 to 25 mph and gusty with lake wind advisories required. Saturday sunny and warm with highs near 70. wind north 10 to 20 mph and gusty.

Banquet fills up coliseum

Five county residents were honored for service in respective areas Thursday during the annual chamber of commerce banquet — a "Stepping Up, Stepping Out" affair that saw some 750 available seats in the coliseum almost completely filled.

County residents honored were Gene Thomas, Bill J. Hood, Ed Mlcak, Fred Cross and Jim Tully.

Banquet goers were also entertained by the "1920's Gatsby Review" and the humorous and thoughtful remarks of Joe Griffith, a Dallas-based professional speaker.

This year's banquet featured the first presentation of the chamber's President's Award. It was given to Gene Thomas, unit superintendent for SACROC and currently a chamber director. The presentation was made by Jerry Vestal, chamber vice president.

The selection was made by the president of the chamber and the chamber's executive committee. It is to honor members of the chamber who have made significant contributions to the chamber, city and county.

The Vestal Award was given to Bill J. Hood, former superintendent of schools in Snyder who retired effective this past June 30. Hood, who is still recuperating from injuries received in an automobile accident last October, could not attend. Jack Gorman, assistant superintendent, accepted the award on his behalf from Mayor Rod Waller.

The City of Snyder established the Vestal Award — dedicated to the memory of William A. Vestal — in December of 1976.

The award's purpose is to recognize individuals who have made significant contributions to the total development of Snyder through cultural, economic or governmental activities.

Ed Mlcak, area superintendent of SACROC, was the recipient of the McLaughlin Award. Jack Denman and Gene Thomas jointly made the presentation.

Scoutarama features scout skills displayed

The annual Scoutarama display of Boy and Cub Scout skills is scheduled Saturday at the National Guard Armory in Towle Park. Activities will be from 1-4 p.m.

Some 200 scouts and scout leaders are expected from the Lone Buffalo District comprised of scouts from Westbrook, Colorado City and Snyder.

All scouts are expected to be dressed in either uniforms or costumes portraying "Cowboys and Indians" and prepared for the event.

Skills expected to be on view include exhibits of rope making, a scout camp set up, Indian lore, farm demonstrations and campfire cooking. Spectators at Scoutarama will be served Dutch oven cobbler prepared using a campfire.

Tickets have been sold for $1 each for Scoutarama and these will also be available at the door. Spectators are welcome, however.

At 5 p.m., awards will be presented to the scouts who have sold the most tickets. The scout displays will be judged and awards given also.

Hats on display at WTC

A time when the coming of Easter meant buying a new "bonnet" will be revisited Sunday as the Scurry County Museum opens a special exhibit featuring hats from the museum collection.

A reception marking the exhibit is planned from 1 until 4 p.m. with the public invited.

Included in the display are six ornately decorated eggshell creations by Glenda Valentine plus Ukranian Easter eggs on loan from Laurie Haines.

Nellie Smith of Snyder offered this red-faced moment:

"One of my most embarrassing moments happened many years ago, when I was about 10 or 11 years of age.

"My younger sister and I were visiting a friend who lived in a hotel in another city. Her father managed the hotel. In those days, most hotels had just one bathroom for each hall.

"We three girls started to the bathroom, but as we got to the door, a old and hefty woman dashed in ahead of us and slammed the door in our faces.

"Out of frustration, I kicked my foot at the door and my slipper came off and flew over the door and through the transom, hitting the old lady on the head.

"No matter how much I explained, she would not return my slipper until our friend said she would have to call her father."

This story came from former Snyder resident Robby Trevy who now lives in Arlington.

"I am one of six aikido black belts trained at WTC by Shel Hillis. It is amazing how different people look in street clothes when you are accustomed to seeing them in gis (uniforms).

"I had worked out with a young married lady, a mother of two, for about a year. The first time I saw her outside the aikido class was during a crowded day at Piggly Wiggly. She was pushing a cart in which both of her children rode. Recognizing her, I smiled and waved.

"Not knowing me, she first stared for a while. Then upon recognizing me, she loudly said, "Oh, hi Robby, I didn't know you with your clothes on!"

Six Americans still missing in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The case of a murdered U.S. drug agent has been at least partially solved, with a judge's order to have three people stand trial for kidnapping and homicide.

But six other U.S. citizens who disappeared in Guadalajara in December and January still are missing, with few clues to their whereabouts and little apparent progress in those cases.

Two couples were selling Bibles in an upper middle class Guadalajara neighborhood on Dec. 2 when they were forced into two separate cars. The couples, Dennis and Rose Carlson, of Redding, Calif., and Benjamin and Patricia Mascarenas, of Ely, Nev. have not been seen since.

Two other Americans, John Walker of Minneapolis and Alberto Radelat of Fort Worth, Texas, last were seen on Jan. 30 going into a restaurant.

The investigations are being handled in Guadalajara by the Jalisco State Judicial Police, which has been in turmoil over the case of the U.S. narcotics agent, Enrique Camarena Salazar.

Three Jalisco state policemen were ordered Tuesday to stand trial for kidnapping and murdering Salazar and a Mexican pilot he had worked with, Alberto Zavala Avelar. Camarena and Zavala were abducted separately on Feb. 7 and their severely beaten bodies were found March 5 on a ranch 60 miles from Guadalajara.

Three other state policemen from Guadalajara and a former officer there will be tried on less serious charges related to the case.

Another officer, the homicide division commander of the Jalisco State Police, Gabriel Gonzalez Gonzalez, had also been arrested but died while in custody. The Attorney General's Office said an autopsy showed Gonzalez Gonzalez had died from "acute bleeding of the pancreas" and there were no indications he had been beaten.

One of the seven defendants charged in the Camarena case, however, testified at his arraignment that while in custody, he had heard sounds of Gonzalez Gonzalez being tortured to death.

The disappearances in Guadalajara, as is routine here, have been under the jurisdiction of the homicide division, which Gonzalez Gonzalez headed.

"That department, as you can imagine, has had other concerns of late," said Alan Rogers, a spokesman for the U.S. consulate in Guadalajara, which is 332 miles northwest of the capital.

Rogers said Wednesday the investigation into the other six missing Americans had not necessarily been ignored, but pointed out that the police have had many pressing problems.

Eve Walker, the wife of John Walker, has been in Guadalajara for two weeks and is trying to keep her husband's case active.

Two charged in kidnapping case

HOUSTON (AP) — Two men have been charged in the kidnapping of a woman who was abducted from her apartment, locked in a closet for 12 days and repeatedly sexually assaulted, authorities said.

Clarence D. Odom,, 40, and Michael A. Harland, 25, were charged Wednesday with aggravated kidnapping and aggravated sexual assault, the Harris County district attorney's office said.

Bond was set at $2 million for Odom and at $100,000 for Harland.

Police Lt. Chuck Lofland said authorities also were searching for a woman in connection with the abduction.

Investigators said three people barged into the 22-year-old victim's apartment in southwest Houston on Feb. 22 as she was getting ready for work.

The victim, a secretary whose name was withheld, was bound with tape, handcuffed and taken to a "shed-like structure" in the Kemah area, officers said. Two days later she was moved to a nearby mobile home.

She was sexually assaulted "three or four times" during her captivity and was "shoved around and slapped," Lofland said. She was locked in a closet, except when she was allowed to eat and bathe, Lofland said.

The woman was not gagged but she never screamed because she "had no idea whether she was under guard or alone. She was scared," Lofland said. "There was no demand for money or anything."

She was released March 5 outside a convenience store in Porter, about 25 miles north of Houston, police said.

"She basically was unharmed, other than the emotional scars that will be with her for the rest of her life," said police Sgt. Tom Ladd.

Odom was the boyfriend of the victim's mother, police said.

Investigators believe a dispute between the victim's mother and Odom may have prompted the abduction. But they said they don't understand why the others participated.

French diplomat kidnapped

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Three men armed with pistols kidnapped France's vice consul this morning as he walked to work in west Beirut, and two other French embassy employees failed to report to work, the embassy and witnesses said.

Embassy spokesman Marcel L'augel said the vice consul, Marcel Fontaine, was abducted. It was the fourth kidnapping of a Westerner in mostly Moslem west Beirut in the past eight days.

L'augel identified the two absent employees as Marcel Carton, 62, protocol officer, and his daughter, Mrs. Danielle Perez, 34, who worked as the secretary for the cultural section.

He said that the father and daughter had left their mid-city home together at 8:30 a.m. and that there was no news of there whereabouts six hours later.

Another French Embassy official, who spoke only on condition he not be identified, said: "People are panicky and because they did not show up, which is not their habit, the alarms have been sounded."

He said there was no evidence they had been kidnapped but that an investigation was under way.

A senior embassy official, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said Fontaine had worked at offices in both east and west Beirut since late 1982.

Fontaine was walking from him home in the Ras Beirut neighborhood to the French Embassy when three gunmen forced him into a blue BMW and sped away, said the Christian radio station Voice of Lebanon.

Oregon, Wyoming among big losers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oregon and Wyoming would suffer the largest percentage loss of federal aid going to the states under President Reagan's proposed fiscal 1986 budget, an organization of state governments estimates.

Cuts in federal forest and mineral resource programs proposed in the Reagan budget would hit those states hard, according to the analysis by the Federal Funds Information for States, a joint service of the National Governors Association and the National Conference of State Legislatures.

Oregon would lose $259 million, or 17.9 percent, the study said. Victor J. Miller, director of the organization, said the state's loss was proportionately large because of the money it receives from federal forest service programs to harvest trees on federal lands.

"The Reagan administration proposes to reduce the level of reimbursement to counties substantially," he said. "They're heavily affected by this proposal."

Similarly, he said, Wyoming would lose to cuts in revenue shared with states for federal mineral leasing. Wyoming's loss would be $54 million, or 10.3 percent, the study said.

Neighbors Do Slow Burn While Firemen Refuse to Fight Fire

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: What a strange coincidence! On the same day you printed a letter signed "Grateful in Millsboro, Del.," praising the heroism of volunteer firemen, this Associated Press item appeared, datelined Salem, Ark.:

"Volunteer firefighters refused to fight a fire that destroyed Anthony Brazil's $150,000 house and killed the family dog because they said he had not paid $20 in annual fees.

"'They just sat there and watched it burn. We have nothing left but the clothes on our backs and our cars,' Brazil said.

"The chief of Salem's volunteer fire department, Ronnie Courtney, said, 'We've had a policy for a number of years. If you're not a member, we don't fight the fire. The fire association charges $250 to put out a fire, but the fire victim must be a member whose $20 annual dues are paid.'

"Brazil and his wife were at church when Brazil's brothers discovered the blaze Sunday morning. Courtney said flames were coming out of windows when firefighters arrived in three trucks, staying near the house to make sure the fire didn't spread.

"Neighbors offered to pay the $20 and the additional $250 if the department would fight the fire, but the firefighters refused.

"'The firefighters were just standing around. As a matter of fact, they were out hosing their new fire truck down in the street to keep it clean,' said Barney Taylor, a member of the church the Brazils attend."

PETER W. MANY JR.
NEW ORLEANS

DEAR PETER: Thanks for sending the item. I received several from other parts of the country.

I cannot understand how any person could justify the actions of the Salem, Ark., volunteer firefighters.

If their chief, Ronnie Courtney, or any of the volunteer firefighters who stood by refusing to fight a fire that destroyed a house and killed a family dog has anything to say in their defense, please write. I will be glad to print it.

DEAR ABBY: In the hope that I may help others, I have donated my organs to the Living Bank in the event of my death, and I carry a donor card in my wallet indicating that all usable organs (eyes, kidneys, etc.) have been promised by me for that purpose to improve the quality of life for the living.

I carry my card at all times so my wishes can be carried out immediately. My doctor has this on his records.

Now for the problem: My husband says he will not carry out my wishes should I die before he does. My question: Does he have the right to stand in the way of my plans? And how can I prevent him from doing this?

LIVING IN A SMALL TOWN

DEAR LIVING: Your husband has no "right" to stand in the way of your plans—indeed he has a moral obligation to carry out your expressed wishes. How can you prevent him from doing this? You can't, if he is in charge of your remains at the time of your death. Just pray to outlive him.

DEAR ABBY: Who was the wise soul who wrote, "Any woman who will accept attention from a married man—no matter how lonely, misunderstood, henpecked, mistreated, neglected or unhappy he claims to be—is stupid, cruel, cheap, dishonest and shortsighted"?

DEAR BONNIE: I did.

New ambassador arrives in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Australia's new ambassador arrived Thursday and said a political solution is the only way to reach stability in Central America, the government news agency Notimex reported.

It quoted Australian Ambassador John Phillipe McCarthy as saying his country fully supports the efforts of the Contadora group to find a peaceful solution to Central American tensions.

Mexico, Panama, Venezuela and Colombia formed the Contadora group in January 1983.

Its efforts to draft a peace treaty for five Central American nations were interrupted by a dispute between Costa Rica and Nicaragua over the rights of political asylum. The dispute was resolved recently and a new meeting is scheduled next month in Panama.

Notimex said McCarthy spoke to reporters on his arrival at the international airport here.

Andy trys to address plumbing problems

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — We have a lot of faucets in our old house. All of them are the regular washer-type faucets that used to be so common and every so often I have to change one of the washers. Recently, I discovered the washers I had on hand did not fit the faucet I had to fix. I chose one a bit larger than needed and sanded it down around the outside so that it finally fit. But it took me nearly an hour to do so. Isn't there some easier way to get an oversized washer to fit?

A. — If you are very careful, you can reduce the size of the washer with a very sharp knife or a razor blade in a handle. This is rather hazardous if you have a washer which resists cutting. However, there is one way to sand off the excess with the use of a portable electric drill and a bit which is the correct size. Select a bit over which the washer will fit very snugly. Push on the washer until it is a few inches on to the bit.

Now place a piece of sandpaper someplace where it will stay firmly in place. It can be taped to the top of a workbench or work table or, if it is on a sanding block, held in the jaws of a vise. Turn on the drill. When you are sure the washer does not come off while the bit is rotating, gently lower it to the sandpaper. Work carefully and slowly and you will find the sandpaper is taking off some of the washer's edges. Turn the drill slightly as you move along and soon the washer will be reduced all around. Every so often you may have to remove the washer from the bit to see whether it fits the bottom of the faucet stem.

Q. — Our basement floods two or three times a year. We have had all sorts of inspections and all sorts of suggestions, but what it all boils down to is that we need a sump pump to get the water out of the basement when the occasional flooding takes place. Is this a do-it-yourself job?

A. — It depends on your physical condition, age, knowledge of pipes and local plumbing codes. In short, no answer can be given that will cover everybody. The fact that you ask the question makes it fairly certain that the job should be done by a plumber. Different kinds of sump pumps are available, some of which cost more but work better. Be sure to find out which is best in your case.

Q. — We will soon have to get a part of our old plumbing system replaced. It is made up of iron pipes and fittings. Is it possible to have the new installation of copper?

A. — Iron and copper do not like each other. Because of what is called galvanic action, the iron will slowly deteriorate, although this may take many years. There are certain fittings that can be put between these two metals that will slow down or eliminate the galvanic action. Ask your plumber and take his advice.

Rotela speaks to Art Guild group

Raquel Rotela, exchange student from Asuncion, Paraguay, showed slides of her country to members of the Art Guild Study Club.

During the dinner meeting held last Tuesday in the Martha Ann Woman's Club, members heard about her school, home and the customs of her country.

Vice president Rae Adams conducted the group's business session which followed. Plans were made to participate in the MAWC garage and bake sale set for March 30 in the Towle Park Barn.

Hostesses M.J. Merritt, Polly Autry and Maxine Holt decorated the tables with pastel spring flowers. Eighteen members and one guest attended.

British-born Mott making niche also as a biographer

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — British-born author and Thomas Merton biographer Michael Mott is making a comfortable niche for himself on the flat farmland of northwest Ohio, far from literary and cultural centers of the world.

"There's a library right around the corner," said Mott in his pronounced British accent during a recent interview. "I don't think there's any excuse nowadays for that kind of attitude. You don't have to be in large cities to have cultural opportunities. I haven't even taken advantage of all the opportunities here yet."

Mott is considered by some to be about as much a celebrity as there is among American writers. His recent book, "The Seven Mountains of Thomas Merton," a biography of the late monk and author, is getting good reviews from critics and good reception from readers. In 1948, Merton wrote a best-selling autobiography titled, "The Seven Storey Mountain." He died in an accident while traveling in Thailand in 1968.

Mott now is an English professor at Bowling Green State University. A former poetry editor of the literary Kenyon Review, published at Kenyon College, Mott has been writing and publishing all his adult life. His work includes two novels, two children's books and six volumes of poetry.

He was best known as a poet until his book on Merton was published. That biography took six years of travel and research, Mott said. His proof is in the rows of black binders in his home library holding material he gathered on Merton.

The solitude that gave him time to write the book is what attracted him to Merton's life in the first place, Mott said.

"I share with Merton this weird idea of liking solitude, or enjoying my own company while still needing other people," he said. "Writing is the most anti-social sport in the world. You're always in trouble with those you love, for not being there when they need you." Mott is married and has two grown daughters.

Mott explains in the biography how Merton transformed his longing for solitude into a religious vocation. After graduating from Columbia University, Merton joined a Trappist monastery in Kentucky where he wrote poems, essays, criticism and philosophy.

"The Seven Storey Mountain" continues to enjoy popularity in literary circles.

"This does seem to be a good time for a life story of Merton, but that is Merton's doing, not Mott's," said the Bowling Green professor. He made the point that Merton's concerns about a search for meaning in a world intimately acquainted with war and inhumanity are universal and enduring.

Keep those spots before your eyes

By James Jacoby

A leopard cannot change its spots, nor can you, as a bridge player, change the spots on the cards. But you can certainly notice what the spots are and use them to your best advantage.

The three heart bid by South was an effort to get to three no-trump if North wanted to bid it. When North returned to only three spades, South would have been well advised to pass, but he felt that his spade ace and A-K of hearts outweighed the flat shape of his distribution, and he carried on to game.

Declarer ducked the opening lead of diamond king and won the diamond continuation. Though chances were dim, he had to take them. He led a heart from dummy and put in the jack. Next came the heart ace followed by the heart king. When West ruffed it with the spade 10, declarer discarded dummy's remaining low diamond. West now played a third diamond, and declarer carefully ruffed it with the spade six in dummy. The king of spades was played, and then the nine of spades to the ace. Do you see the importance of declarer's handling the spade spots correctly? Saving dummy's deuce of spades created a second trump entry to declarer's hand.

Declarer now led a club up toward the K-Q in dummy, ducked by West. Now he led dummy's spade two, overtaking it with his four-spot, to lead a second club toward dummy. By watching the spots and using them properly, declarer had brought in a very lucky game contract.

Musical program heads poetry society meeting

Members of the Scurry County Poetry Society enjoyed a musical program last Monday. President Garnet Quiett led the meeting held in the home of Thelma and George Montandon. Mayzell Fenton gave the invocation.

The Montandons and Quiett presented the program entitled "The Art of Turning Poems Into Songs." Mrs. Montandon and Fenton sang, "Learning to Love the Lord," Mrs. Montandon's poem, to the tune of "Precious Memories."

The group performed two hymns composed by the Montandons with music written by Mrs. Montandon. They were "Looking for the Sunrise" and "Bells of Joy."

Members sang a Christmas hymn, "The Star That Shone in Bethlehem," composed by Quiett and performed to the tune of "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear."

Fenton sang "Come Little Leaves," a song she remembered from childhood.

Guest Geneva Williamson sang an old song which she had learned in the fourth grade about a man who went fishing and fell in love with an Indian maiden.

During the poetry reading session, Fenton shared a poem she had composed for President Reagan entitled "The President." She told the group that she received an appreciation card from the Reagans in recognition for her effort.

Following the meeting, the group enjoyed refreshments with a St. Patrick's Day theme — green punch, green candies and cake with green icing.

Tigers winning streak ends as 'Dogs take 11-10 victory

MIDLAND – Midland High utilized a two-out, bottom of the seventh inning error to get past the 9th-ranked Snyder Tigers in non-district baseball here Thursday.

The 11-10 loss snapped an eight-game winning streak by the Tigers, who fall to 10-3 on the season.

Snyder, which begins District 2-4A play March 29, now gears for its final non-loop game in Abilene next Monday.

Designated hitter Mark Torres provided the winning run. He walked to open the Midland side of the seventh, then moved to third on two sacrifice plays. Torres scored on an error when Darren Thorpe hit a ball to shortstop Charlie Bollinger, who made a wild throw to first base.

Justin Webb took the loss, though the junior right-hander pitched only two-thirds of an inning.

Webb, 3-2 now, had stepped up to the mound after starter Jimmy Cain and reliever Bollinger struggled.

Midland scored three runs in the first inning, then stayed quiet until the fifth, when the Bulldogs added three more. A four-run sixth inning put them temporarily ahead until Snyder tied the game in the top of the seventh.

Midland managed eight hits and benefitted from five Tiger errors.

"We went to pieces," panned Coach Albert Lewis. "We made errors we shouldn't have been making. Charlie got the ball cleanly on that last play but I guess his arm was sore, because he threw it wild. But to his credit, Charlie made a lot of good plays in the game, and he was crucial at the plate for us," Lewis said of the senior, who was four-for-five with the bat, including three RBI.

Snyder also tallied three first-inning runs, got two more in the fifth, three in the sixth and two more in the seventh.

"I was real pleased with our hitting," said Lewis, whose Tigers tagged Midland pitchers for 16 hits. "Defensively, I know we're better. We just had one of those days. We've always had trouble on that field. We don't play defensively on that field (Zachery Field) for some reason. We never have," the coach said.

Snyder came away with some heavy hitting in the game. Cain's two-run triple provided the Tigers' first-inning start. Bollinger slammed a home run in the fifth, and Cain followed with a double. He later came in on a single from Steve Parker.

Cain was two-for-five while Ricky Hunter and Webb were both two-for-three and Bobby Velasquez was two-for-four.

Cain, who pitched through the fourth, sat down, then came aboard again in the fifth for another inning and two thirds, gave up six hits and struck out three batters. Bollinger relieved in the fifth and struck out the first man he faced, but gave up two singles and two walks.

Talks centered around 7-game league playoffs

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) - Baseball may know as early as Tuesday if it will be playing an expanded best-of-7 game League Championship Series this season.

In a labor negotiating session Thursday, club owners formally proposed lengthening the league playoffs from five to seven games. Representatives of the owners and players meet again in Scottsdale, Ariz., Tuesday, at which time management would like to settle the issue.

Lee MacPhail, president of baseball's Player Relations Committee, said in order to begin a longer playoff this fall, "we're going to have to make a decision on this soon." He said the union "understands the importance of an early decision."

While generally favorable to the longer playoff, players have two reservations, said Don Fehr, acting executive director of the Major League Players Association.

- A decision must be made on how to split up an estimated $9 million in extra television revenue generated by a longer playoff.

- And, the sides must agree to a new formula for allocating gate receipts to the players' pool.

The first reservation is tied to the union's demand that one-third of all television revenue be directed to the players' benefit plan. A six-year, $1.1 billion TV contract went into effect last year, and owners are unwilling to allocate one-third of it to player pensions.

MacPhail said additional gate receipts already would increase players' take by $1 million.

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) - Top-seeded Texas Tech got 29 points and 12 rebounds from Melinda Denham to defeat Cal State-Fullerton, 71-68, and advance to a semifinal game of the National Women's Invitational Tournament.

Texas Tech will meet Louisiana State at 7 p.m. tonight in a semifinal game. The other semifinal game matches Florida and Drake.

Tricia Clay scored 15 points for Tech. Terri Withers scored 15 for Cal State, which will meet West Virginia in a losers' bracket game today.

Julie Fitzpatrick had 28 points and teammate Wanda Ford had 21 as the Drake Bulldogs held off fast-charging West Texas State 96-90 in another first-round game.

Drake, 24-5, will face 21-8 Florida, which breezed past Montana 70-49, at 9 p.m. tonight. West Texas, 25-5, plays 22-8 Montana in the losers bracket.

Louisiana State, 19-9, jumped out to a 17-point halftime lead and coasted to an easy 69-57 victory over West Virginia, 18-9.

Memphis State, Okies win, advance in NCAA tourney

by The Associated Press

The final play was set up for Michael Adams, who already had one buzzer-beater for Boston College in the NCAA Tournament.

But it was Andre Turner who made the game-winning, 17-foot jumper for Memphis State - again.

"I'm never happy to have to take that last shot," Turner said Thursday night after his basket with one second remaining lifted No. 5 Memphis State over Boston College 59-57 in a Midwest Regional semifinal game. "I'd rather be up by 12 points."

Also on Thursday night, top-ranked Georgetown continued its drive toward a second straight NCAA championship by beating No. 14 Loyola of Chicago 65-53 in an East semifinal in Providence, R.I. The Hoyas, who got a strong second half from All-American Patrick Ewing, on Saturday will face No. 6 Georgia Tech, which used a second-half burst to defeat No. 12 Illinois 61-53 in the other East semifinal.

Tonight, Maryland faces Villanova and No. 7 North Carolina takes on Auburn in the Southeast semifinals in Birmingham, Ala., while No. 16 North Carolina State plays Alabama and No. 3 St. John's meets Kentucky in the West semifinals in Denver.

The victory in Dallas put Memphis State into Saturday's Midwest final against No. 4 Oklahoma, which downed No. 8 Louisiana Tech 86-84 in overtime when All-American Wayman Tisdale's short jump shot bounced on the rim five times before falling through the basket with two seconds left.

Jones new HBU coach

HOUSTON (AP) Tommy Jones, an assistant coach at Houston Baptist University for the past six years, has been named head basketball coach.

Houston Baptist University athletic director Dr. Ed Billings named Jones Thursday to replace Gene Iba, who resigned Wednesday to become head coach at Baylor University.

Iba led the Huskies of the Trans America Athletic Conference to three straight 20-win seasons, including the school's first invitation to the NCAA playoffs.

Jones, 37, was an assistant coach at Rice before assuming duties at Houston Baptist.

Chaps slap Allegany, battle Dixie in semis

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) - Averian Parrish powered Dixie College into the National Junior College Athletic Association men's basketball championship semifinal round with a 19-point performance Thursday night as the Rebels downed Erie 83-75.

In Thursday's other championship quarterfinal, Midland of Texas routed Allegany of Maryland 79-63. Meanwhile, Highland Park registered a 106-104 win over Ferrum in a game matching up two second round losers.

In Thursday's consolation games, Casper, Wyo. defeated DeKalb-South, Ga., 65-63; Shelby State of Tennessee got past Chattahoochee Valley of Alabama 96-93 and Westark of Arkansas downed Hinds of Mississippi 76-69.

Midland, 31-4, held a slim 34-28 lead at the break and then extended that advantage to 44-30 early in the second period before Allegany trimmed the lead to seven, 61-54, with 6:25 to play.

But Midland then scored the next 11 points to put the game out of reach. The Chapparals, who shot 69 percent from the floor for the game, got 27 points from Teviin Binns.

Allegany, 32-4, was led by William Stuart's 17 points.

Dixie's Parrish scored 15 points in the second half, as the Rebels, who posted a 45-37 halftime advantage, had to fight off an Erie rally. Erie of New York, 31-5, reeled off 13 unanswered points early in the second period to trim Dixie's lead to 52-49 with 14:43 to play.

Ricky Henry's jumper at the 2:08 mark gave Dixie a 74-72 lead and the Rebels never trailed thereafter.

Dixie, 33-1, also got 16 points apiece from Dan Bell and Brent Stephenson. Erie was led by Blaine Russell's 23 points.

In winners' bracket games today, Erie faces Allegany, with the winner taking on Highland Park for fifth place. Kanakee and Moberly match up in the other championship semifinal game with the winner advancing to Saturday's title game against the winner of the Dixie-Midland contest.

RUN TOMORROW – The Canyon Reef Relays will be held on the new track at Snyder High School, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Saturday. Above, area standout Karlene Thompson clips the tape in the 1600 meter relay. (SDN Staff Photo by Bill McClellan)

First Baptist Church slates March revival

First Baptist Church has scheduled a revival Sunday through Thursday. Featured speakers will be the Rev. Daniel G. Vestal, pastor of First Baptist Church in Midland and E. Ralph Gibson, minister of music at Paramount Baptist Church in Amarillo.

A Bible study session will be conducted each day at noon until 1 p.m. and evening services will begin at 7 p.m.

Vestal has several degrees including bachelor of arts, master of arts degree, master of divinity and doctor of theology.

He has conducted over 300 revivals in the United States and preaching missions in Yugoslavia, Romania, England, Brazil, and the Philippines.

He has also taught for 1½ years at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary as teaching fellow and instructor.

He and his wife, Earlene, have two sons and a daughter.

Gibson is a native of Spur and he has served as minister of music for several churches throughout Texas. He attended Hardin-Simmons University where he obtained a bachelor of music degree, majoring in voice and sacred music.

He has earned a master of church music degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Ft. Worth.

DR. HARRY VANDERPOOL

DARRELL & SANDY PATTERSON

First United Methodist sets revival Mar. 24-27

First United Methodist Church has scheduled a revival Sunday through Wednesday, featuring Dr. Harry Vanderpool and the Rev. and Mrs. Darrell Patterson.

Services Sunday will be at 10:55 a.m. and 7 p.m. Monday through Wednesday services will be at 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. There is no charge for the 7 a.m. breakfast, but a donation basket will be passed.

Services for children and youth Sunday through Wednesday will be at 6 p.m. The Pattersons will be in charge of the choir and youth. Choir practice will begin at 6:40 p.m. Sunday through Wednesday.

The topic of Vanderpool's talks will be "Bringing Jesus Back Into Your Life."

A nursery will be provided.

Dr. Vanderpool is senior minister of Central United Methodist Church in Albuquerque, N. M.

He received his BA degree, cum laude, from Southwestern University in Georgetown, Tex.; a BD degree from Perkins School of Theology in Dallas. He was also awarded the Doctor of Divinity Degree by McMurry College in Abilene. He did other studies at the University of Texas at El Paso, the University of New Mexico, Garrett Biblical Institute, Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.; and he trained in the Bethel Bible series at Madison Wisconsin in 1973.

He has also served as chairman and/or member of several church organizations.

He and his wife, Barbara Lee, have twin sons.

Darrell Patterson was born and reared in Seymour, Tex. He attended McMurry College in Abilene where he majored in religion and minored in music. While there he toured with two singing ensembles, the McMurry Chanters and Morning Starr. Later he received his MDiv degree from Ashbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Ky. While in the seminary, Patterson was the choir director and associate minister at Harrodsburg United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Patterson is a native of Michigan and she received her BA in Biblical literature from Taylor University in Indiana and her masters degree in New Testament from Asbury Theological Seminary.

They have two sons.

IRA ONE-ACT–These five sophomores at Ira captured co-winning one-act play honors Tuesday at Western Texas College with their presentation of "To Burn a Witch." Those standing are from left, Susie Foster, attendant; Cathey Crowder, Dame Stanley, and K'ana Scott, Widow Jones. Those seated are Kaila Barbee, left, Mary Abigail Gentry, and Melissa Klepper, Ruth Hannah Smith. Klepper was named to the All-Star cast and Scott received honorable mention honors. Ira's UIL One-Act play advances to district meet

Ira's one-act play, "To Burn a Witch" advances to the District 6A competition Saturday in Garden City.

Roscoe and Ira were named co-winners last Tuesday during East Zone competition held at Western Texas College.

Two district winners will then advance to the area contest to be held in Odessa the first week in April.

Ira and Roscoe will be competing against Forsan and Garden City Saturday.

In addition to co-winning status for the one-act play Tuesday, Melissa Klepper who portrays Ruth Hannah Smith was named to the All-Star cast.

K'ana Scott who appeared as Widow Jones received honorable mention recognition.

The other cast members are Susie Foster, attendant; Cathey Crowder, Dame Stanley and Kaila Barbee, Mary Abigail Gentry.

Hector Espino and Chris Reyna were members of the stage crew.

David Dossey of McMurry College in Abilene served as judge.

"To Burn a Witch" marks the first theatrical experience for the five sophomore girls. Sue Parham is their sponsor.

Grand jury indicts detective

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — A grand jury whose term expired today was expected to end its investigation of state Sen. Carl Parker in connection with an alleged pornographic videotape business, a prosecutor said.

A Jefferson County grand jury last year indicted Parker, a Port Arthur Democrat, on charges stemming from the operation of Happy Times Video, an allegedly pornographic videotape business, at a Port Arthur house owned by the legislator and Daniel Jacob Lee.

A judge in November dismissed the indictments, which included promotion of prostitution, aggravated perjury and distribution of obscene material.

Missing woman is found

BROWNWOOD, Texas (AP) — A woman was stranded in mud when she was rescued.

"Where's the bingo game tonight?" she asked.

Fanny Payne had been the object of a countywide search Wednesday after she failed to return home Tuesday night from playing bingo at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

She told police she took a wrong turn as she headed for her home at Lake Brownwood in a heavy rainstorm about 10 p.m. Tuesday. She was found inside her car, which was mired in a muddy isolated field about a half mile behind the Brown County Jail, at 9 a.m. Thursday.

"After she'd gone a good distance down the muddy road, she realized that she was lost," explained Mrs. Payne's son-in-law, Richard Metz. "She honked her horn thinking someone would hear her, but they didn't."

Green Hill schedules concert

Green Hill Baptist Church will host a free Gospel Concert at 4 p.m. Sunday, featuring the Conquerors.

The Conquerors are comprised of three families: Doug and Nancy Ferguson, Kenny, Davette and Lonny Ferguson and Gary and Judy Jones. The Conquerors have sung in several states and are very active in the rodeo ministry, appearing in the national finals in Oklahoma City and in other cowboy ministries.

In addition to the Conquerors, the concert will feature Christian Sound, Debra Martinez, Vickie Warner, Troy Martin, David and Julie Jones and Gwen Wilson.

The concert is free and the church is located at 202 N. College. A nursery will be provided.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is a good day to devote time and study to your long-range plans. Keep your tomorrows in mind, not just your immediate concerns.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Someone extremely fond of you is aware of your present needs and will help alleviate a responsibility that you thought you'd have to shoulder alone.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A friend you'll be associating with today may provide you with a fresh outlook that will be of great help to you in making a business decision.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Speak up today if you feel credit or other acknowledgments are due you for service you recently performed. Your demands will be recognized.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You have a charismatic manner and style about you today that others will find quite appealing and pleasing. You'll be a standout in any group.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Everyone should be in harmony today regarding a common, confidential family interest. Collective action is now in order.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Decisions you make today should not be based upon their material or financial aspects alone. Consider other factors that are equally as important.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The ways and means may present themselves today to make it possible for you to acquire something you've desired but always considered too expensive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Companions will be swayed by the example you set today. Your influence over others is far more powerful than you think.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Restrict current sensitive or secretive activities to yourself and those directly involved. Don't tip your hand to outsiders.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A pal might tell you something in confidence today and leave it to your discretion whether another friend should be informed. Weigh the decision carefully.

'High time' to meet with Gorbachev

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says it is "high time" for a superpower summit and he would like to meet with Mikhail S. Gorbachev, the new Soviet leader, if only to straighten out relations a little bit.

Instead of insisting at his news conference Thursday night on a summit scripted for success, Reagan said "there are a number of things" he could discuss with Gorbachev if they got together.

The recently revived arms control talks in Geneva, Switzerland, evidently are one of the topics he has in mind, although Reagan offered no specifics.

Gorbachev, who took over last week, has not replied to the invitation Vice President George Bush carried to Moscow while attending the funeral of Konstantin U. Chernenko.

But Reagan decided not to consider the absence of a reply a rebuff. "The man has only been in office for a few days and I have some idea of what is confronting him now," he said with understanding.

In fact, Reagan said, "I think there is a good chance" Gorbachev will accept and come to the United States.

"It's our turn to be the host," Reagan said.

The last U.S.-Soviet summit was held in Vienna by former President Jimmy Carter and the late Leonid Brezhnev in 1979. The two before were hosted by the Soviets, in Moscow and in Vladivostok.

Reagan is the first U.S. president since Herbert Hoover not to have met with a Soviet leader.

Comet show due at planetarium vestigations in astronomy, most people believed that comets appeared by chance and traveled through space at no set path. Halley believed comets belong to the solar system and take definite paths around the sun at regular intervals.

He found that the paths taken by certain comets in 1456, 1531 and 1607 were identical with the path of a comet observed in 1682. He correctly predicted tht it would appear again in 1759 and at fairly regular intervals thereafter.

The comet — later to named for Halley — can be seen from the earth only as it nears the sun. It was last near the sun April 24, 1910 and in May, 1910 its head was a brilliant as the brightest stars.

The comet will return and reach its closest point to the sun on Feb. 9, 1986, and sky watchers are already making plans to observe its progress from mid-1985 through May of '86.

Western Texas College now has further information regarding the comet available. "Brighter Prospects for Halley's Comet," written by John Bortle and Charles Morris, appears in the January edition of Sky & Telescope magazine. Persons interested in reading the article may see it in the periodical reading room at the WTC Learning Resource Center.

For those who need directions to the planetarium, visitors may inquire at the information desk lobby in the Scurry County Museum at the campus' southwest corner.

No direct role in Mideast talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says he would favor a meeting between U.S. negotiators and a delegation of Jordanians and Palestinians to promote Middle East peace, but not if the Palestine Liberation Organization was represented.

Reagan also said he would not permit American diplomats to play a "direct role in talks between Arabs and Israelis.

"They've got to understand we are not getting into the direct negotiations," the president said Thursday night during a nationally televised news conference. "That's none of our business."

By contrast, it was then-President Jimmy Carter's personal mediation of the Camp David talks between Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel and President Anwar Sadat of Egypt that led to the signing of the first peace treaty between an Arab state and Israel.

However, Reagan disputed suggestions that he was pursuing a policy of disengagement from Mideast diplomacy, noting that another U.S. envoy would visit the region in several weeks.

Reagan said U.S. diplomats would not deal with the PLO because "they still refuse to agree or admit that Israel has a right to exist as a nation."

"There's a large Palestinian community and I'm sure that there are people that do not consider themselves represented by the PLO," the president said.

Reagan was more upbeat about the possibility of a summit meeting with the Soviet Union's new leader, Mikhail Gorbachev, saying, "I think it's high time that we did this." He said the prospects for a summit should be good.

The president added he wasn't discouraged by the new leader's failure to accept his invitation to attend a summit in the United States.

"The man has only been in office for a few days, and I have some idea of what is confronting him now," Reagan told reporters.

The president defended South African police who shot into a crowd of demonstrators Thursday, killing 17 people, and Israeli forces that fired on and killed a Lebanese camera crew working for CBS News in Lebanon.

Reagan was asked if he was considering changing his policy of using diplomacy to oppose the white South African government's segregationist rule in the wake of the shootings.

He said to suggest that all the violence was coming from the police side was to ignore "the fact that there was rioting going on." He said some of the police involved were black and that there is "an element in South Africa that do not want a peaceful settlement of this — who wants a violent settlement, who want trouble in the streets, and that is what's going on."

named for C.T. McLaughlin — was begun in 1977 by the family of the Scurry County oil man, rancher, political figure, art collector and philanthropist.

The criteria for the award's presentation has been the individual's significant contribution to the oil industry in Snyder and Scurry County.

The Winston Award was presented to Fred Cross, president of the Scurry County Producers Association. Byron Hedges made the presentation.

The annual chamber of commerce award which rewards achievement in agriculture was begun in 1974 to honor Scurry county land owner and chamber supporter Harrie Winston.

Criteria for the honor includes persons engaged in agriculture — farming or ranching — who demonstrate leadership and progressiveness.

The Sizemore Award — formerly known as the Gold Coater of the Year Award — was given to Dr. Jim Tully, dean of learning resources at Western Texas College. Ben Brock presented the award.

The award was renamed last year in honor of the late Paul Sizemore who was a four-time recipient of the Gold Coater of the Year Award. It is presented to the Gold Coater who tallies the most points according to the Gold Coat bylaw point system.

Membership development awards were also presented.

Murray Anne Ray received a plaque for the top team effort during the recent membership drive and Wedge Turner received one for the best individual effort during the drive. Dr. Don Newbury also received one for outstanding leadership. He served as chairman of the recent drive. The chamber now has some 500 members.

Four other people were recognized Thursday night also: John Jarrell as the outgoing chamber president; Elizabeth Potts, who headed the banquet committee; Carol Miller, in charge of decorations for the banquet; and Gloria Shaw, in charge of the banquet menu and table settings.

Police question two young boys

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas police have released two boys, ages 8 and 9, after questioning them about the sexual assault of a 6-year-old girl, a police spokesman says.

The girl was treated and released from Parkland Hospital following the incident Wednesday, police said.

The boys admitted having sexual intercourse with the girl, but because of their ages, no criminal charges will be filed, according to Police Youth Division investigator Alfred Watkins.

"I think it did happen, but we can't file a criminal case against someone under 10 years old," Watkins said.

Sarah Weddington resigns her post

AUSTIN (AP) — Sarah Weddington says she never cheated the state out of time or money, but she chose to quit as the state's lobbyist because criticism of her threatened her agency's existence.

"Because this is such a tough budget year, I'd like to remove myself as an issue in the debate," she told Gov. Mark White in her Thursday letter of resignation from the Office of State-Federal Relations.

Ms. Weddington will leave the agency as soon as White picks a replacement. She said she previously had planned to resign in the fall.

The resignation came amid fire from Republicans who said Ms. Weddington spent too much state money on travel and spent too much time away from her Washington office. State Rep. Bill Ceverha, R-Richardson, said last week Ms. Weddington had taken 134 days off as "compensatory time" over the last two years.

She also was away from the Office of State-Federal Relations another 183 days during those two years.

"I wish I had not been away as much. However, I did work the time and I am entitled to the comp time," Ms. Weddington said Thursday.

"Looking back in judgment, I wish my sister hadn't been sick. I perhaps shouldn't have said yes to all the members (of the Legislature) who asked me to do speeches in their districts," she said. "Maybe the accumulation of time was too much."

State Republican Chairman George Strake also had called on White to oust Ms. Weddington. He said the resignation "should be a signal to Gov. White that the people of Texas expect their top state managers to be thrifty and work whatever hours it takes to do the job."

White defended Ms. Weddington on Thursday, saying, "I have received many compliments from many members of Congress and others about the professionalism and quality work provided by Sarah Weddington and her staff."

In her resignation letter, Ms. Weddington said she had Senate support, but "some House members seem determined to attempt to use differences with me to undermine support for the agency."

She said the Republicans might have been motivated by their differences with her on social issues.

eggshell artists in Texas. "Anything you can do on canvas or china painting, you can do on an egg," she says. "If you can imagine it, you can make it."

The Ukranian egg collection stems from Hains first "egg," acquired as a gift 15 years ago. She has since added several to her collection.

She notes the decorations on these eggs have special meanings. A line encircling the egg without a beginning or end represents eternal life, while a deer or a horse decoration represents prosperity.

Search ongoing for girl

MESQUITE, Texas (AP) — A 6-year-old Texas girl whose photo has been plastered on everything from milk cartons to movie screens has become one of the most widely publicized missing children of hundreds who disappear nationally each year.

Christi Lynn Meeks disappeared from outside her Mesquite home Jan. 19. Since then, her parents and relatives have organized extensive search efforts but still have no clues.

"I would say that no child ... (has) gotten the general publicity like Christi," said Carla Branch, hotline coordinator for the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children in Washington, D.C.

Christi's picture appears on billboards and buses across Texas, on milk cartons in five southwestern states, on fliers handed out in north Texas grocery stores and on posters inside 850 California supermarkets.

In more than 100 theaters in 26 states, slides of Christi flash across the screens as a reminder of what experts say has become a national epidemic.

Ultraviolet rays and skin damage

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What is your opinion of tanning booths? I'd like to get a good tan this winter before the summer season starts. If you can get a tan before you take a vacation in the sun, you can enjoy yourself instead of having to avoid a sunburn. I have heard that tanning booths are safer than the sun since the rays in them don't damage the skin like the sun's rays do.

DEAR READER — Don't you believe it. It's claimed that tanning booths provide ultraviolet A and that the A waves are not harmful. They won't result in the same degree of burn that is caused by the sun (which comes from ultraviolet B), but the ultraviolet A rays penetrate the skin more deeply in the area where permanent skin damage can occur, leading to future skin problems. Therefore, the fact that one may not burn as quickly doesn't mean that ultraviolet A rays don't cause skin damage. It may take many years to find out just how much damage ultraviolet A radiation causes, since skin damage often is not visible until years later.

I have discussed this problem and how to protect the skin in The Health Letter, Special Report 28, Skin: Aging, Spots, Cancer and Sun, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551 Radio city Station, New York, NY 10019.

A better way to avoid sunburn is to use a really good sunscreen with a 15 rating, which would increase the amount of time you could be in the sun without too much damage.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What can you tell me about the sciatic nerve? I have a burning sensation on the back of my right hip, and it hurts down to the inside of my left leg and thigh. What can I do to ease this? I also have trouble when I sit in some chairs. I have to get up and walk to get relief.

DEAR READER — The sciatic nerve is the largest nerve in the body. It is almost an inch wide and is formed by branches of the spinal nerves from the fourth and fifth lumbar segments and the first and second sacral segments of the spinal cord.

It can cause pain and symptoms in the buttocks, down the back of the thigh, and into the leg and foot. That is a little different from your description. You should see your doctor to find out what you really have.

Symptoms from the sciatic nerve are caused by some process that is irritating the nerve. That can be a degenerative change in the spine, including a deteriorating intervertebral disk. In some cases, the pressure must be removed surgically. In other cases, as with some disks, conservative treatment that gets pressure off the nerve roots helps. This is why bed rest and traction are sometimes used.

You may have bursitis in the part of the hipbones you sit on. These bursae are sac-like structures that are filled with fluid and are located over the seat bones. This bursitis may be why sitting causes a problem for you. This problem can be treated medically and may be relieved by steroid injections.

Hobby favors private hospital tax

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says private hospitals should be taxed to help cover the cost of treating the poor. But a lobbyist says the idea is nothing more than a "sick tax."

"The folks that are going to pay this tax are those unfortunate enough to be sick and be in hospitals," said Brad Shields, lobbyist for American Medical International, owners of 38 Texas hospitals.

"Asking the sick and injured hospital patients to pay for the indigents' health care is akin to asking farmers to pay for the food stamp program," Shields added.

The proposal — backed by Hobby — would slap a 1 percent tax on private hospitals' profits. The tax could raise $55 million a year. By law, 25 percent of that would go to education.

"It makes all kinds of sense," Hobby said Thursday, pointing out that paying patients at urban public hospitals now help pay the cost of treating the rural poor.

Seat belt bill tentatively okayed

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators have tentatively approved a bill that would require persons riding in the front seat of cars and most pickup trucks to strap themselves in with seat belts.

The bill sponsor, Sen. Ted Lyon, said, "I'm interested in saving lives. I'm interested in saving dollars, and I'm interested in keeping people from being hurt. That's the bottom line."

Lyon, D-Mesquite, said he felt the Senate would have sent the bill to the House on Thursday, but Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby misread Lyon's hand signal.

"I made a motion to go," Lyon said, moving his hand, "and he (Hobby) thought I meant to hold it ... so we'll pass it Monday."

After the bill was tentatively approved on voice vote, Hobby quickly accepted a motion to adjourn until Monday.

"I looked at him (Lyon), and he said, 'No,' so I thought he meant he didn't want to go," Hobby said.

On a 23-4 vote, the Senate adopted the "Big Bubba" amendment to extend the seat belt requirement to three-quarter ton pickup trucks.

The original bill covered only half-ton pickups, and Sen. Bill Sarpalius, D-Canyon, said, "This (amendment) will include just about every size pickup that comes out."

Three amendments offered by Republicans failed, including one that would abolish the proposed law if possible federal sanctions dissolved. The U.S. Department of Transportation has said it will require automakers to develop restraints such as air bags if states representing two-thirds of the country's population do not pass laws requiring seat belt use.

"You can buckle up right now," said Sen. Bob McFarland, R-Arlington, the amendment sponsor.

Change in indictments approved

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas voters apparently will get a chance in November to cut the number of criminal convictions that are thrown out because of minor errors in indictments.

The House and Senate on Thursday approved separate — but idiential — proposed constitutional amendments aimed at reducing reversals in cases where a defendant is "guilty as sin," as Fort Worth Rep. Doyle Willis termed it.

House Sponsor Terral Smith, R-Austin, said the Texas Constitution now requires reversals for harmless errors in indictments — such as a murder conviction thrown out because the indictment failed to name the liquid in which the victim was killed.

He referred to a murder case that was reversed because the indictment said "A killed B by drowning."

"But it didn't say in water," said Smith

Scores of cocaine convictions have been reversed in recent years because the indictments referred to cocaine, instead of "a derivative of the coca leaf," which is the way the drug is mentioned in state law.

"These are the kind of cases the public gets so upset about," Smith told the House, which approved the amendment 116-11.

Each chamber passed its own version of the amendment, but the two measures are identical. The proposal will be placed on the November general election ballot when one of the chambers goes through the motions of approving the other's proposal.

The Senate approved its version of the amendment 26-0.

Slain inmate's plea too late

AUSTIN (AP) — A letter from an illiterate son begging his mother for help because he feared he'd been marked for murder in a Texas prison reached her the day he died.

Calvin Massey was stabbed 24 times by a fellow convict Tuesday morning before guards could respond. His plea to his mother to intercede with prison authorities and get him transferred from the Darrington Unit arrived at her house the same day.

Pat Wall said she was about to call the Texas Department of Corrections to seek the transfer when prison officials contacted her with the news that her son was dead.

"Calvin has been in fear of his life for the past year," Mrs. Wall said. "I'm not as upset at the boy who did the killing as I am at the system. There has got to be a way [illegible] If [illegible] been a guard there, they could have stopped it."

Massey was serving a seven-year sentence for a burglary conviction in Fort Worth. A 29-year-old inmate was being held for questioning in the attack, prison officials said.
