Japs Cremate Two Downed Airmen Alive

By DEAN SCHEDLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Wednesday, Nov. 14—Two downed American airmen were bayoneted, saturated with gasoline and cremated alive by Japanese troops, the U. S. military commission trying Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita on atrocity charges heard today.

An American officer in charge of graves registration substantiated part of his testimony with pictures he took of the fliers' fire-blackened bodies after the Yank reconquerors moved in.

Crashed Off Cebu

The officer said the fliers were gunners from a twin-engined plane that crashed off Cebu. His pictures showed their arms still tied behind their badly burned bodies, which he discovered in an abandoned Japanese foxhole.

FLIER DISAPPEARS

MANILA, Wednesday, Nov. 14 (AP)—Two Catholic sisters, testifying today at the war crimes trial of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, said Japanese troops removed an American flier from their care and the last they saw of him the Yank was being prodded along a road.

The sisters said the airman, who gave his name as Paul Mansella, was burned on the arms and legs. He was brought to their compound on Cebu by natives who found him on a beach.

He said he still could see marks where a heavy instrument had inflicted wounds at the bases of the men's necks.

A Filipino who emerged from hiding near the foxhole told him the Japanese forced the men to stop beside the hole, struck them with bayonets, poured gasoline on them and ignited the fluid. One of the men, badly injured, struggled to the edge of the foxhole and begged for water.

Pour On More Gasoline

Three Japanese soldiers poured more gasoline on the semi-conscious American and fired it.

It was announced that a second military commission, to hear charges of a Cebu massacre, will be headed by Maj. Gen. Basilio Valdes, who earlier testified he found his brother's body in Manila's rubble.

Yamashita is accused of responsibility for mass atrocities by his troops.

Witnesses late yesterday testified that the sight of 4,000 to 5,000 terrified civilians seeking refuge in a Manila cathedral last February stirred Japanese troops into a night-long orgy of murder and rape.

Took Girls Outside

One woman who lost her husband in the slaughter testified that Japanese soldiers entered the cathedral at night and at first milled about in the throng looking for girls. These they took outside and raped while helpless parents were left inside to listen to their daughters' screams of protest. Many of

Attlee Forecasts Early Effort To 'Get World Together' On A-Bomb

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—Prime Minister Clement Attlee, in a plea for world-wide "good neighborliness," today informed Congress that his atomic bomb talks with President Truman are the prelude to grand-scale discussions with other countries to make the earth secure for the "common man."

He forecast an effort to "get together with all the nations of the world" as a result of the talks being held here.

At the same time he called for closer cooperation between the United States and Britain and declared that their expanding economies need not produce "any undue rivalry" between them.

SOLON OFFERS PLAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo) urged today that the United States take steps to enforce world peace, "now and alone." The atomic bomb, he said, had given this nation the power to do so.

The acting chairman of the military affairs committee told an interviewer that the only defense against an atomic bomb is an atomic bomb.

Johnson's plan for maintaining world peace involves the use of long-range bombers carrying atomic bombs, and a horse-shoe shaped string of bases curving up from the Philippines to Alaska, east to Iceland and down through the Azores to Dakar and the South Atlantic.

British Loan Case

To assembled representatives and senators who may soon have to decide on a multi-billion loan for Britian he explained the Socialist aims and politics of his Labor government, but said the world had room for both British socialism and American capitalism.

The square-jawed Labor leader's speech was widely complimented by senators and representatives for what they called its "frankness," although many were critical of the plans Attlee discussed for nationalizing major British industries and creating a planning economy.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee said Attlee showed "a wide grasp of both British domestic politics and international relations."

Dictatorship Feared

Senators Wheeler (D-Mont) and Ellender (D-La) said a planned economy such as Attlee outlined could lead eventually to dictatorship.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said the prime minister "made a pleasing appearance."

The circumstances of Attlee's were rendered unusually by (1) the fact that many congressmen have been critical of Attlee's government for asking a loan here with a Socialist program at home and by (2) the background of the atomic conference underway at the White House.

Little About Meeting

Attlee had little to say about his meeting with President Truman and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada. He started by saying that weapons already in existance or soon to be developed "may menace every part of the world in a few years" so that oceans and mountain barriers have lost their value for defense.

"It is in the light of these facts," he said, "and in particular in the light—the terrible light—of the atomic bomb that I have entered into discussion with your President in order that we may get together with all the nations of the world and consider what kind of a world it is necessary to have if civilization is to endure and if the common man in all lands is to feel secure."

He did not say how this international approach was to be achieved.

Attlee and Mr. Truman held their third conference from 5 to 7 p. m. today and Dr. Vannevar Bush, director of the Office of Scientific Research and Develop-

Palestine Jews Call Strike To Protest British Proposal

JERUSALEM, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Jewish National council tonight called a general strike of Palestine Jews tomorrow to protest new British proposals for settlement of the Palestine problem.

In addition the council (Vaad Leumi) imposed a curfew on all Jewish towns and villages in Palestine. All Jews working on British government or military enterprises were asked to quit their jobs. An effort also will be made to halt all interurban traffic in Jewish sectors of Palestine. The strike is scheduled to begin at noon tomorrow and continue until midnight. It will be followed Thursday by a day of prayer and fasting.

Dr. Bernard Joseph, acting head of the Jewish agency political department, said in an interview that the Jewish people would never submit to the Palestine policy as expressed by the British government today.

"We have informed the officer administering the government to this effect," he said.

AGREEMENT REACHED FOR COMMITTEE QUIZ

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—The U. S. request that Britain admit 100,000 displaced European Jews to Palestine resulted today in an agreement for an Anglo-American committee to investigate and make recommendations.

In London, meantime, Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin told Commons that U. S. and British officials would consult with the Arabs to insure against interruption of Jewish immigration into Palestine at its present rate, which Bevin put at 1,500 monthly, pending the committee's report.

It was agreed that the committee is to investigate "political, economic and social conditions in Palestine as they bear upon the problem of Jewish immigration" and the situation of Jews in Europe, and make recommendations to Britain and the U. S. not only on the Palestine question but also for remedial action in Europe.

JOINT EFFORT PLANNED ON PALESTINE PROBLEMS

LONDON, Nov. 13 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, announcing in Commons that the United States and Britain jointly would attempt to solve the Jewish problem in Palestine and Europe, today indicated that Palestine eventually would be placed under "a trusteeship."

In the first intimation that Britain might terminate her mandate over the Holy Land, Bevin declared that recommendations made by an Anglo-American committee on the Jewish question would "facilitate arrangements for placing Palestine under a trusteeship."

Presumably he referred to a trusteeship of the United Nations organization, although he did not make this point clear. The committee's permanent proposals, he said, would be submitted to "the appropriate agency" of the United Nations.

In Jerusalem, where proposals were laid before a meeting of Arab and Jewish leaders by the acting high commissioner, informed sources said it was suggested that the British mandate be replaced by an Anglo-American trusteeship. Other proposals reported at the meeting followed closely those made by Bevin.

Balfour Declaration

A few minutes after his Commons statement, Bevin—in an interpretation of the Balfour Declaration—told a press conference that Britain "never undertook to establish a Jewish state" in Palestine, but did promise to set up a Jewish national home there and must fulfill that promise.

Any attempt to settle the Palestine problem by force, he told Commons amid cheers, would be "resolutely dealt with." He later told correspondents this did not mean United States troops would be used there, since the United States "regard that as a British responsibility."

FOG HALTS TROOPSHIP

CAMP SHANKS, N. Y., Nov. 13. (AP)—The troop carrier Mdawaska Victory, with 1,970 homecoming GIs aboard, was held up seven hours today in what veteran rivermen said was the worst fog in 25 years in the lower Hudson valley.

De Gaulle Named French President

PARIS, Nov. 13 (AP)—A cheering constituent assembly today unanimously elected Gen. Charles de Gaulle as interim president of France, and de Gaulle announced he would try to form a government on condition the assembly accepts his limited program of "must" legislation.

De Gaulle cited the need for drawing up a budget before the end of the year, and said he would propose "essential reforms" concerning credit institutions, public utilities, the administrative system, and laws governing magistrates and France's armed forces.

First Election To Office

De Gaulle's election, his first to a public office, is for a seven-month term while the assembly writes a new constitution. It was made unanimous when one abstaining member changed his ballot thus giving 555 votes to the wartime leader, who rallied France in her hour of defeat. Fourteen of the validated deputies were absent.

De Gaulle, receiving assembly officers at his suburban home in Neuilli, said he considered the honor a tribute to all of France's fighting forces.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. (AP)—If the skies are clear, watch out for showers — of meteors — tomorrow, Thursday and Friday nights.

Solons Air Many Topics, Hear Attlee

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—Congress found out today the answer is "no" to demands for:

Putting off hearings on peacetime military training.

Exemption for dealers from absorbing part of the higher cost of new cars.

The answers popped out in committee meetings.

Senate and House met together to listen to a speech by Prime Minister Attlee of Britain. Separately, the Senate paid tribute to Senator John Thomas (R-Idaho), who died Saturday, and the House to Rep. James W. Mott (R-Ore) who died yesterday.

Poke Into Other Topics

Congress also poked into such topics as Pearl Harbor, atomic energy, UNRRA and demobolization.

President Truman's plan for a year's military training for all physically fit American youths squeaked through its first test in the House Military committee.

The vote was 15 to 12 against postponing further study of the problem until January. Next witness: Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on Thursday.

In the House chamber where Winston Churchill spoke twice in war-time Attlee explained the policies of Britain's present government.

Increasing Friendship

He said he looked for "increasing cooperation and friendship" between his country and America, saw "no reason" for economic rivalry, and hoped for stronger "bonds of peace" through the United Nations."

The Senate special atomic committee decided to fly next week to Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic plant and to start public hearings on control legislation Nov. 26.

The House Military committee talked about taking a second look at a bill to create a nine-man commission on atomic development. It has approved the measure, but some members still aren't satisfied with it.

Other Activities

Additional activity in Congress centered on:

UNRRA — President Truman asked Congress for another $1,350,000,000 for the United Na-

Rumor Sets Off Honolulu Riot; Navy Men Invade Civilian Area

Sailors Tire Of 'Beatings'

(By The Associated Press)

HONOLULU, Nov. 13—All personnel of the naval air station were restricted to their station tonight because 1,500 officers and men went on a three-hour rampage in the Damon (civilian) housing area last night.

Police said the sailors were enraged by a groundless rumor that two of their buddies had been killed by Damon residents and because, the Navy men said, 30 sailors had been beaten by civilians in the past two months but no offender had been arrested.

Isolated Fisticuffs

Police reported that three sailors and taxicab drivers engaged in isolated fisticuffs tonight, but said the fights were not unusual and were not a flareup of the Damon tract riot.

The 14th naval district, which has declined comment on last night's rampage, said it might issue a statement tomorrow. There was no indication how long the AS men might be restricted.

Two automobiles were overturned, a motorcycle was damaged and windows were smashed by the club-wielding Navy men. Police said no one was injured seriously but Joseph Gutheridge, 75, died of a heart attack while watching the rampage.

Tired Of "Beatings"

Detective Captain Eugene Kennedy said many of the 50 Navy men detained by police explained they were enraged "because we are damned sick and tired of seeing our buddies get beaten by local toughies and not a damn thing is done about it."

All of the Navy men detained were turned over to 14th naval district authorities for discipline.

Kennedy said the immediate cause of the demonstration was a rumor, later proved false, that two sailors had been killed by Damon tract civilians.

Chief Blames Navy

Police Chief William A. Gabrielson in a statement late today insisted the riot would not have occurred if the Navy had cooperated "the way they said they would."

Gabrielson and Kennedy said the last report they had received from the Navy that its personnel were being attacked by civilians was made Sept. 9.

"Navy officers knew there was going to be a disturbance at the Damon tract and did not give us advance information," asserted Kennedy.

Police listed most of the Navy

OPA Resists Lobby Pressure, Rejects Auto Pricing Pleas

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. (AP)—Price Administrator Chester Bowles accused auto dealers today of a high pressure lobby campaign to gain exemptions from the OPA policy which requires retail merchants to absorb part of higher production costs.

He announced that the dealers' demands are being rejected. He added that price ceilings for new automobiles, to be announced Thursday, would permit dealers to make a higher profit than before the war.

He contended that a dealer could make a $200 profit on a $1,000 car whereas before the war he would have made only $11" on the same deal after taking into consideration losses on trade-ins.

Testifying before the House Small Business committee, which is considering dealer's complaints, Bowles reported that auto dealers had organized the most intensive telegraph-telephone lobby he ever had seen in a campaign but that OPA was resisting "government by pressure."

He said telegrams arrived at the rate of almost one a minute at OPA headquarters and the telephone switchboards were blocked by a flood of calls.

U. S. Ships Put Nationalists Ashore At Red-Held Port

By RICHARD BERGHOLZ
Associated Press Staff Writer

TSINGTAO, China, Wednesday, Nov. 14.—American transports began unloading thousands of Chinese Nationalist troops today at this Communist-encircled port.

It was the first landing by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's men in Communist - dominated Shantaung province since the end of the war.

There was no opposition to the landing. The U. S. Sixth Marine division under Maj. Gen Lemuel Shepherd, of Charlottesville Va., had landed at Tsingtao last Oct. 11 and concentrated in the city area since then.

Equipped By Americans

Nationalists landed today formed major elements of the Chinese Eighth Army commanded by Lt. Gen. Tang Feng. They have been trained and equipped by Americans as one of China's "sponsored" armies.

This one-time German treaty port has been virtually isolated from the rest of China since the war's end. The Tsingtao railroad, which joins the main China rail network at Tsinan, has been cut and badly damaged by Chinese Communists.

More than 10,000 Japanese of the Fifth Independent mixed brigade have surrendered, but some have been allowed to retain arms and stand guard on extensive industrial plants in the Tsingtao vicinity.

NATIONALIST FORCES TAKE COASTAL GATEWAY

CHUNGKING, Nov. 13. (AP)—Chinese Nationalist forces have wrested Shanhaikwan, coastal gateway through the Great Wall into Manchuria, from Chinese Communist defenders, neutral sources reported today.

Official dispatches, however, told of Communist victories in other civil war-torn China provinces, particularly in Shantung where Gov. Ho Ssu-Yuan said more than 30,000 Nationalist troops have been killed by the Reds since the Japanese surrender.

Fall of City Unconfirmed

While unable to confirm the reported fall of Shanhaikwan, on the Peiping, Mukden railroad and only 14 miles north of Chinwangtao, where American Marines are on guard, a Communist spokesman indicated it might be true.

He said the last Communist dispatch put Nationalist troops only two-thirds of a mile from the strategic town, and commented that four of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's armies had been landed at Chinwangtao for the express purpose of forcing the Great Wall passage into Manchuria.

The forcing of the Great Wall might enable Chiang to put a strong force into Manchuria, to take over cities which the Russians were reported to be abandoning to Chinese control.

Reported Pleas To Russia

Official Chinese quarters here refused to comment on the report that Chiang had appealed to Russia for permission to fly his troops into Manchuria, but they indirectly indicated that this and other

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Nov. 13. (AP)—Tech Sgt. and Mrs. Willie Harold Neves rushed by plane and train from Venezuela to Texas so that their child might be born in the Lone Star state, but they'll have to be content with a native "Floridian" in the family.

The couple got off a northbound train here, and the baby was born two hours later. They said they were en route to their home in Roby, Texas.

Young Socialist Takes Reins As Premier Of Strife-Ridden Java

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 13 (AP)—Sutan Sjahrir, youthful Socialist leader described as a moderate, became premier of the unrecognized Indonesian republic today and said he probably would fly to Soerabaja to try to halt bloody fighting between armed Indonesians and British Indian troops.

The sweeping cabinet reorganization putting the 36-year-old Sjahrir at the helm in a newly-created post gave rise to hopes that the strife in Java and Indonesian demands for independence might be settled by negotiation.

British Edge Forward

In Soerabaja, British forces spearheaded by tanks and supported by naval and field artillery, continued to edge forward in the big Dutch naval base, more than half of it now reported under their control.

There was no indication that the four-day battle was losing any of its fury. The British continued their house-to-house battle against powerful, well-trained forces, using first-class Japanese equipment including field artillery.

To Attempt Peace

Sjahrir, whose elevation left President Soekarno with a title but with little power, said his first act probably would be to rush to Soerabaja with a three-man commission to investigate the local Indonesian leadership and attempt to stop the fighting.

Heretofore, Soekarno has been the top executive as president, without any premier.

One Born, One Dies, One Hurt In Crash

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Nov. 13. (AP) — While her 21-year-old daughter burned to death in the flaming remains of their train-crushed automobile, a western Pennsylvania dairy farmer's wife gave birth to a son on a railroad embankment after being assisted from the wreckage yesterday.

Frank Martz was rushing his wife to a hospital for the birth when a speeding freight train hit the car at a crossing. The crumpled car was carried 600 feet.

The daughter, Mary, was trapped in the car and enveloped by gasoline-fed flames. Screaming from pain, she was conscious for 30 minutes while a welder plied an acetylene torch to free her. Then she died.

Mrs. Martz, 39, was seriously injured, with fractures of one arm and both legs. However, a hospital official reported she had rallied from shock today. The baby, unhurt, was "doing fairly well."

Martz escaped with cuts and bruises. The couple have six other children.

Report On the War

By General George C. Marshall

Biennial Report of the Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army 1943 to 1945, to the Secretary of War

Published by NEA Service, Inc., in co-operation with the War Department

This is the second of 42 installments of material selected from General Marshall's report on the winning of World War II).

GERMAN MISTAKES

THE steps in the German defeat, as described by captured members of the High Command, were:

1. Failure to Invade England. Hitler's first military set-back occurred when, after the collapse of France, England did not capitulate. According to Colonel General Jodl, Chief of the Operations Staff of the German High Command, the campaign in France had been undertaken because it was estimated that with the fall of France, England would not continue to fight.

MARSHALL

The unexpectedly swift victory over France and Great Britain's continuation of the war found the General Staff unprepared for an invasion of England.

2. The Campaign of 1941 in the Soviet Union. In the Autumn of 1941 after the battle of Vysma, the Germans stood exhausted but apparently victorious before Moscow. According to Jodl, the General Staff of the armed forces considered that one last energetic push would be sufficient to finish the Soviets. The German High Command had neither envisioned nor planned for a winter campaign. A sudden change in the weather brought disaster. The Red Army defense, a terrific snow storm, and extremely unseasonable cold in the Christmas week of 1941 precipitated the strategic defeat of the German armed forces. Impatient of all restraint, Hitler publicly announced that he had more faith in his own intuition than in the judgment of his military advisors. He relieved the commander in chief of the army, General von Brauschitsch. It was the turning point of the war.

3. Stalingrad. Even after the reverse before Moscow in 1941, Germany might have avoided defeat had it not been for the campaign in 1942 which culminated in the disaster at Stalingrad. Disregarding the military lessons of history, Hitler, instead of attacking the Soviet armies massed in the north, personally planned and directed a campaign of which the immediate objectives were to deprive the Soviet Union of her vital industries and raw materials by cutting the Volga at Stalingrad and seizing the Caucasian oil fields. The campaign collapsed before Stalingrad with the magnificent Russian defense of that city and in the northern foothills of the Caucasus, where a breakdown of German transport to the front left the German armor stalled for 3 weeks for lack of fuel in the critical summer months of 1942. Troops In Japan To Decline Soon

TOKYO, Wednesday, Nov. 14 (AP) — The American Army which began occupying Japan Aug. 30 now totals approximately 460,000, is near its peak and soon will decline, Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger said today. The estimated figures include southern Korea.

"We are about ready now to go down hill, with more troops returning to the United States than come to Japan," the Eighth Army commander explained.

Division By Armies

Eichelberger said the Eighth Army has 177,000 men and 10,800 officers in Japan; the Sixth Army has approximately 195,000 officers and men, and the U. S. 24th corps has 70,000 officers and men in southern Korea.

British, Australian, Russian and possibly Chinese troops are expected to join the occupation of Japan, with formal announcement of the plans to be made from the capitals of those countries.

Eichelberg did not say how soon the occupation force might be expected to reach its lowest figure. General MacArthur has said only 200,000 troops will be needed by spring barring unexpected developments.

Training Plan Passes Hurdle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP) — The administration's peacetime military training plan survived its first major test today when the House Military committee voted 15 to 12 to continue hearings on it.

Rep. Short (R-Mo) forced the issue. He put a motion to defer consideration of the legislation until next year or until after the Senate has acted.

Had Forecast Success

Short had been predicting for days that such a motion would pass.

Three Republicans deserted Short's ranks, however, and backed up the administration. Three Democrats voted with nine Republicans against it.

While some members viewed the result as a triumph for the idea of compelling youths of 18 to undergo a year's peacetime training, others took a different slant on the situation.

One member told reporters several committeemen may have voted to continue hearings simply to hear the first prospective witness, General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, who is due to testify Thursday.

Eisenhower is expected to urge a peacetime training program.

Another test vote may follow the Eisenhower testimony, it was hinted.

In any event, the very closeness of the vote virtually forecast a ding-dong fight over the bill from here on in.

Tire Output Lagging; Workers Said Needed

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. (AP) — Civilian passenger tire output is running about 35 per cent behind needs, failing by 2,100,000 units to reach monthly capacity estimated by the industry as 6,000,000 casings, the Rubber Manufacturers association said today.

The organization said one of the chief limiting factors was manpower with at least 7,000 workers needed at once.

Solon Says FBI Knew Jap Plan For Sneak And Issued Warning

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. (AP)—Rep. Gearhart (R-Calif) reported today after a conference with J. Edgar Hoover that the FBI learned of Japanese war intentions 11 days before Pearl Harbor and advised the armed services but that they failed to act.

The FBI got "considerable and very important evidence of the Japanese intention to resort to war action" by tapping wires into the Japanese consul general's office in Honolulu, Gearhart told reporters, and "all of this information was promptly reported to the Army and Navy by Mr. Hoover. Some of the messages were received in code and the Navy arranged for translation and reported back to the FBI."

On the basis of the intercepted messages Hoover "alerted" his agents in the Hawaiian islands, Gearhart continued, but "no warnings or directives of importance were received in the islands by the military."

Gearhart and Rep. Keefe (R-Wis), members of the Congressional committee which opens an investigation of the Pearl Harbor attack on Thursday, met with Hoover. Gearhart said the FBI director probably would be called to testify and predicted "very startling disclosures."

"The failure of the Army and Navy to act decisively and promptly at Pearl Harbor will be one of the mysteries which will be solved in the investigation," he declared. "Make that "will be' emphatic because it certainly 'will be'."

Asked to comment on an assertion by Senator Hatch (D-NM) that political controversy attending the investigation would result in a "divided opinion," Gearhart said:

"We wouldn't know."

Continued Strife Over World Is Warning Of Need For New Setup

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press Staff Writer

Gunfire in China, Java, Indo-China and Near East sounds an ominous warning as the atomic bomb talks proceed in Washington.

Its meaning is that force still rules in the minds of men as the means of settling differences — until something else has been proven workable.

The importance of the Washington conference lies not so much in its decisions on who shall share the atomic bomb "secret" and how. It is rather in how much progress will be made toward allaying mutual suspicion among the powers.

Almost Causes Trouble

It is only necessary to look at what is going on in the world now and consider the faltering attempts at international cooperation since the San Franicisco conference to grasp the truth of the situation.

The San Francisco conference was held while the war was still in progress, although Allied victory was assured. Now that peace is technically here, the powers are handling it as though peace itself were an atomic bomb.

The reason is mistrust. It stems from the Big Three and naturally percolates among the other powers. The atomic bomb is not the cause of this mistrust, although it may have heightened it momentarily between Russia and the Anglo-Americains.

Cannot Keep Secret

If Washington consultation serves no other useful purpose, it may lead to another meeting of the London foreign ministers' conference, or the Big Three heads of state, or both. Its decisions regarding atomic energy seem almost secondary, since the only thing it can logically decide is how to start the ball rolling toward sensible, universal control of this "terrible light" of descovery.

The United States, Great Britain and Canada know that they cannot keep the thing secret. Its principles are too well known. Their job, as temporary trustees, is to insure that it is wisely controlled, and not let loose on the world like all the evil of a Pandora's box.

Might Destroy Mankind

For war has become too big now to be handled in the old fashion of nation against nation, or combinations of nations against one another. Army major war henceforth might mean the destruction of civilization.

The first world war did not teach the nations the awful lesson, although many brilliant minds in 1919 thought it had. The second world war might not have done so, either, except for the gruesome climax of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

The destruction wrought there was only an experiment—the birth of a new weapon at the end of a long and bitter conflict. It needs no imagination to picture what its development—as a weapon—would bring.

A philosopher, or maybe a realist, might be excused for hoping that war finally has outlawed itself. The nations are faced with the unaccustomed prospect of trying to find a way to quarrel without using lethal weapons.

The most immediate solution proposed is the United Nations, which has not yet been given a trial. Its most ardent proponents say it will work because it has to work. If it begins to bog down like the League of Nations, the alternative would appear to be a world super-government, or the end of everything.

Remaining Bodies In Crash Being Sought

HOUSTON, Nov. 13. (U.P.) — Shrimp fishermen and Navy rescue crews went into their fifth day of combing the quiet waters of Corpus Christi bay for the remaining three bodies of the 22 victims of a plane crash.

Five survivors of the 27 passengers and crew men of the two Mariner planes that collided Thursday night in mid air were reported out of danger.

The body of Cmdr. Preston Moore, Houston civil leader and ranking officer of the two planes, was fished out yesterday by a shrimp boat.

The planes met 200 feet over the water to make one of the most disastrous plane accidents in Texas' history.

GI Joe's Trouble In Locating Civilian Clothing Increases

CHICAGO, Nov. 13. (AP)—GI Joe, waving his discharge papers and ready to go places in civilian life, is finding it difficult to get all dressed up.

The ever increasing number of servicemen who are doffing their military uniforms aren't finding much of a choice in men's clothing, say retailers and manufacturers.

The discharged servicemen, most of them wanting to buy complete new outfits, are given preference by retailers, but the demand for men's clothing is greater than at any time in the last year and stocks in stores are depleted almost as soon as new shipments are received.

B. J. Cahn, president of B. Kuppenheimer & Co., national distributors of men's clothing, said the supply of men's clothing was at an unprecedented low throughout the country because of various reasons—lack of materials, strikes and manpower shortages.

Retailers and manufacturers said the clothing will begin to ease early in 1946 but supply will not meet demand until late spring and possibly next fall.

They described the shortage of wool as acute and the shortage of lining and trimming materials also is holding up suit production.

Suits are not the only item of scarcity for the servicemen returning to civilian life, the merchants said. The supplies of shirts and shorts for men are equally scarce.

Cahn suggested that, until the shortage is passed, discharged officers have their uniforms remodeled instead of placing them in mothballs.

Approval Of Collective Bargaining Seen But Frowns Greet Wage Plan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. (AP) — A possibility arose today that business delegates to the labor-management conference may endorse collective bargaining but avoid any commitment on President Truman's suggestion of general wage increases.

Eric A. Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, told the national labor-management conference executive committee that management delegates will be ready tomorrow or the next day to discuss the CIO resolution for collective bargaining within the framework set up by President Truman.

NAM Plans Report

A spokesman for the National Association of Manufacturers told reporters that management might make a report to the executive committee on the CIO plan, submit a substitute resolution or merely agree to a stand on the scope of collective bargaining. Management representatives caucused on the issue late today.

Any management substitute for the resolution of CIO President Phillip Murray, the NAM spokesman said, will be confined to an endorsement of collective bargaining without mentioning wages.

AFL President William Green and John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers already have openly opposed Murray's resolution.

Murray wants the conference, representing wide segments of American business and labor, to endorse the policy President Truman advocated in a radio address two weeks ago calling for collective bargaining on general wage increases within the present price structure.

But Lewis, with Green assenting, has told reporters he fears such a policy would limit wage increases to a cost of living formula. Lewis described the CIO proposal as "namby-pamby and innocuous."

Besides the wage problem, another matter of considerable dispute within the conference concerns the group's voting procedure. This is still an open question with AFL and Lewis holding for complete unanimity of all delegates on any conference action.

Conference Secretary George W. Taylor told reporters that the idea of conference planners had been for "an overwhelming vote," even though there might be a few dissenting degelates. He said the question of procedure probably will be decided tomorrow by the rules committee.

Mexico's Air Force Returns To States

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Nov. 13 (AP) —The first Mexican expeditionary force in history, the 201st Fighter squadron, returned today to American shores aboard the transport, Sea Marlin.

The squadron of 38 officers and 231 men served eight months in the Philippines campaign, supporting American ground forces. Fighting under its own flag, the squadron lost 31 men, including four pilots killed and one missing.

Its combat record includes 50 missions and 293 combat sorties. It dropped 181 tons of bombs during operations with the U. S. Fifth Air force.

On hand to greet the squadron here was its commander, Brig. Gen. Antonio Cardenas Rodriguez, along with Brig Gen. Guzman Cardenas, Mexican military attache in Washington, and Brig. Gen. Clinton D. Vincent, personal representative of Gen. H. H. Arnold, head of the U. S. Air Forces.

After debarking, the men were taken to Peck park for an official welcome by Maj. Gen. Courtlandt D. Parker, U. S. commander of the southern sector of the Western defense command.

General Vincent will accompany the group when it leaves by train today, arriving in Mexico City Friday or Saturday via Laredo, Tex.

General Cardenas Rodriguez arrived in Los Angeles Nov. 8 to greet his men.

Cardenas Rodriguez said that the squadron had "everything in the way of cooperation from American forces," and that "operations with the Americans were extremely smooth and highly satisfactory."

BIG SPRING FIRE

BIG SPRING, Nov. 13. (AP)—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the seed house of the Big Spring cotton oil company today. The amount of seed in the 3,000-ton capacity structure was not immediately known. Fire Chief H. V. Crocker estimated the loss may exceed $100,000.

Senate Is Asked To Use Army, Navy Men As Probe Witnesses

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP) — The Senate naval committee was asked today to place Army and Navy enlisted men on its staff to investigate demobilization complaints.

Senator Robertson (R-Wyo) said in proposing this novel step that "GI's will talk to GI's when they won't talk to officers." What he wants is a "GI probe of GI complaints that thousands of high point Army and Navy men are sitting around overseas anxiously waiting a chance to come home."

Would Have Protection

Robertson added to a reporter he hopes to persuade the committee today to name to its staff two discharged enlisted men chosen by the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and two still in the Army and Navy.

Under his proposal they would have the protection of the Senate in investigating complaints.

Senator Morse (R-Ore) told the Senate yesterday some Army and Navy officers do not seem to know that enlisted men they command have the right to communicate with Congress members.

They also need to learn, he said, that "wearing the uniform of the United States does not give them the prerogative to exercise abusive, arbitrary and tyranical powers over men."

Morse said that after he had asked for a report on one sailor the man was dressed down by his commanding officer.

Solution To Chinese Strife Is Suggested

FORT WORTH, Nov. 13 (AP) — The only way to end China's civil strife is to disarm the Communist Army "and I dont' know who is going to do it," the Rev. Wilson Fielder of Waco, Baptist missionary to China, said today.

The missionary, who spent almost 30 years in Honan province before he was captured by the Japs in 1941 and repatriated two years later, addressed a meeting of the Baptist Brotherhood of Texas.

The gathering and a session of the Texas Baptist woman's missionary union prefaced the 60th annual meeting of the Baptist general convention of Texas, opening tonight.

"Chiang Kai-Shek isn't strong enough to put down the uprising," Mr. Fielder said. "But if Russia and America would get together and compel the Communists to surrender the arms, we would have peace."

Helping servicemen reestablish themselves in their church and home life will be a prime objective of Baptist Brotherhoods, L. H. Tapscott of Dallas, Seate executive secretary, said.

LIEN'S EFFECTS BROADENED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP) — The Supreme court today affirmed a decision that a lien obtained by the federal government against a delinquent income taxpayer applies to property which the taxpayer acquires later.

Wreck Victim's Rites Set Today

Funeral services for Howell Lee Holcomb, 25, of 2313 Twenty-fifth, who was fatally injured when the car in which he was riding collided with a truck five miles north of Big Spring late Monday night, have been set tentatively for 3 p. m. today at the Broadway Church of Christ with the minister, M. Norvel Young, officiating.

Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery, directed by Sanders funeral home.

Holcomb's wife and brother-in-law, Ernest Ward, of Lubbock, who also in the car, suffered fractured legs and arms, relatives were informed. A Sanders ambulance was to bring them to a hospital here Tuesday night from a Big Spring hospital where they were taken after the wreck for treatment.

Attended Lubbock High

Holcomb, who owned the Holcomb Watch Repair here, died within a short time after reaching a Big Spring hospital. The body is at Sanders Funeral home.

He attended Lubbock High school and had lived in Lubbock most of his life.

Survivors are his wife; one son, David Lee who is 1½ years old; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otis Holcomb of 2002-B Main.

Details of the accident are not known but it is believed that the Holcombs were enroute to Lubbock.

Two On Leave From Tech Due Back Soon

Two former Texas Tech instructors, Alan M. F. Gunn and G. C. (Mule) Dowell, have informed Dr. Wm. M. Whyburn, Tech president, they will be able to return to teaching duties for the spring semester.

Gunn, who was associate professor of English from 1939 until 1942, received his discharge from the Army Oct. 29. He is now at Los Angeles, Calif.

Lt. Dowell, USNR, will be relieved of his present duty (considered a military necessity by his commanding officer) from headquarters of 11th Naval district, San Diego, Calif., this month. While serving at Tech he was assistant athletic director and business manager of the athletic department. He was graduated from Tech and a former Red Raider.

Man May Get Wish To Have Sons Home Soon

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP) — It begins to look as though one of John H. Jansen's Christmas presents will be a reunion of his eight soldier and sailor sons.

The 70 year old Jansen wrote the adjutant general of the Army that two of his boys, one a sailor and one a soldier, had received discharges and were back at their Junction City, Kas., home.

He said he thought it would be nice if the other six—all in the Army and scattered around Europe, the Pacific and the United States—could have furloughs together and be home for Christmas.

Adjutant General Edward F. Witsell has written each of their commanding officers, saying:

"I trust you will give these matters your careful consideration."

Members of the Kansas congressional delegation, who have been helping Jansen make his case, told a reporter they thought that would do it.

Does The Atom Bomb Explain Bible Miracles?

According to Edwin J. Dingle, world-renowned geographer, honored by leading geographical societies, the power of the atom as disclosed in the atom bomb, is small compared with little known and seldom used powers of the human brain. He maintains that man, instead of being limited by an average man power mind, has within him the mind power of a thousand men or more, as well as the energy power of the universe, which can be used in his daily affairs.

According to him, this sleeping giant of mind-power, when awakened, can make man capable of surprising accomplishments. It is as amazing as the atom bomb is compared with former sources of energy. Many thousands of people throughout the world have already tried his methods. Many report improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success. Others report improvement in health, increased strength, courage, poise or energy, or a more magnetic personality.

He tells how he found these strange methods in far off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitttd to visit it. Here, he discloses, he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. These immense powers, he maintains, are latent in all of us, and methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

As part of a great movement to make his methods available to more people, a 9000-word treatise is offered absolutely free for the time being. It reveals many startling results. Readers of this announcement can get their free copy by sending a post card or letter to the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 S. Hobart Blvd. Dept U-461, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly, because this offer may be withdrawn at any time. Adv.

TRAFFIC FACT: Over a four-mile course that started in the heart of downtown Omaha, one police car disregarded all speed zone restrictions and the common courtesy of a driver. Another obeyed them all. The latter car arrived at the end of the four-mile trek only two minutes after the vehicle that had careened through the city.

CANTEEN WORKERS

VOLUNTEERS are needed for the Red Cross canteen to be maintained at South Plains Army Air field for transient fliers. It is planned to keep the canteen open during the early evening hours as well as in the morning and it is in the evening that workers are especially needed. Business women had often expressed a wish to help serve in the canteen and it is thought they will apply for the night work since they work during the morning. If interested, telephone 8534 and state your preference of days and hours.

The work entails cooking and serving hamburgers with coffee or milk and a little dish working. We helped one afternoon and after drying about one hundred dishes, helping Mrs. Jack Henry, we decided the canteen girls should be given a big hand.

DISTINCTION—"I have only one distinction in Lubbock," laughed handsome, husky Roland Lee of Washington, D. C., as he stopped by our desk Tuesday morning.

"What is that?" we asked, trying to remember where we had seen his smiling face.

"I'm Ruth Pirtle's husband," he answered.

INCIDENTALLY, Mr. Lee said he is proud to claim the distinction and does not mind in the least in being introduced as "the husband of Ruth Pirtle."

To those who moved to Lubbock after Mrs. Lee moved away at the time of her wedding, we'll explain that she is former head of the speech arts department at Texas Tech college. The well-liked, energetic, red-haired woman has paid only one visit here since her marriage four years ago.

REDUCING DIET

WE SAT at lunch not long ago with a heavy woman who kept a bottle of saccharin crystals on the table near her plate. We presumed she was on a strict reducing diet.

She ordered a shrimp cocktail and followed with baked fish, boiled potatoes, beans, corn, three slices of bread and a slab of butter, apricot cobbler and two cups of coffee with saccharin.

We asked her if she thought the saccharin helped.

"Oh that," she laughed, "I take that along because it makes me feel that I'm doing something—even if not much—to keep down my weight."

HOME FACIAL

HERE IS a hint of a home facial which will help to retain one of the first requisites of beauty—a facial contour unmarred by wrinkles, blemishes and sagging muscles."

The use of cleansing cream mixed with ordinary table salt is said to be excellent for massage, as well as to rid the skin of peeling patches resulting from dry skin. Care should be taken to manipulate this mixture gently, rubbing it only until the skin feels gently glowing. Vigorous rubbing will leave the skin raw and irritated.

After removing the mixture with tissue, your face should be washed with warm water and a good, mild soap followed by several rinsings in clear, cold water.

Noted Lecturer Is Dinner Speaker

Mrs. M. R. Jacobs of Chicago, noted horticultural lecturer, spoke to one hundred and twenty-five Lubbock Garden club members and guests Monday night at a dinner given at Tech Social center. "The Garden of Greatest Charm" was the subject of her talk.

"Charm cannot be defined but the garden of greatest charm is the one that makes the greatest appeal to the senses of those dear to its owner," were her opening remarks. "For years we have been planting for the eye alone; we must appeal to the other four senses as well, to be of the greatest charm. We must use light and shadow well enough to have a distinction. The difference is the same as that of an old masterpiece versus the chromo on a calendar.

"Old English gardens use grottos or caverns to bring out these shadows. Here a grape arbor can give this effect. A garden should have animation to hold interest 1) Birds and animals (Chinese use gold fish); 2) tree shadows and 3) a water surface. We should use flowers that give memories of times and places; seeds brought back from trips or places of long ago or where we have had a delightful time, from a friend's garden or something of our own special family memories.

Memories Are Important

"Memories most persistent are happy ones and formed before the age of twenty; therefore gardens must appeal to children to insure memories of delight. We should have berries and fruit to appeal to the sense of taste. There is a joy in picking fruit from our own garden. The sense of taste is keener in young people. There should be something to appeal to the sense of smell (black locust, tube roses, white phlox, honeysuckle.) There should be something to appeal to the sense of hearing (birds, bees, insects and water effects.)

"The leaves of different trees have various tone patterns as the wind blows through.

"We should appeal to the sense of feeling (comfortable benches and chair and paths that are pleasant to the feet).

Plant Three Gardens

"The average person plants three gardens in her lifetime. The first garden we plant everything that is given us; anything that we see in the plant catalogue that is irresistible to us and from this we learn plant material. Our second garden we try to introduce new plants and from these we learn garden design. In our third garden we use our plant material and garden design and express our own personality."

Lavender chrysanthemums, grown and arranged by Mrs. John Fry, formed the centerpiece for the head table and other candlelighted tables were decked with fall flowers. Place favors were cards with dwarf mums.

Mrs. John Powers, president of the club, introduced the guest speaker.

All Curbs On 1946 Cotton Crop Lifted By Secretary Anderson

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 13 (U.P.)—All restrictions on the size of the 1946 cotton crop today had been lifted with U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson's announcement that there would be no cotton acreage quota next year.

Anderson did not elaborate on his brief statement, made after a meeting with National Cotton Council directors and other cotton interests.

The move was not unexpected in that Anderson and other agriculture department officials had hinted previously that a 1946 cotton acreage quota was extremely unlikely.

Small Cotton Crop Cited

Behind the lifting of planting restrictions was this year's unusually small cotton crop, estimated by the Department of Agriculture at 9,368,000 bales on Nov. 1, and the definite indications that a continued farm labor shortage would make it difficult for farmers to exceed any likely quota.

The effect of the action on the South's cotton belt could not be determined immediately, but it was believed farmers would plant as much cotton as possible in hopes that the labor shortage would slacken before harvest time next fall.

Parity Policy Urged

In an address last night, Anderson urged immediate creation of a modern parity policy which would guarantee farmers a fair share of a national income of $150,000,000,000 or more, based on a full-employment, full scale industrial activity capable of providing 55,000,000 to 60,000,000 jobs.

He told a meeting of the National Association of Commissioners, secretaries and directors of agriculture that a new and flexible parity policy was essential to speeding up postwar agricultural adjustments and preventing a recurrence of the "appalling economic losses" and "ruinously small" farmers' income levels of 1933.

Must Improve Quality

Anderson said cotton farmers must produce high quality cotton efficiently if they are to sell at a reasonable profit and still compete with foreign producers in the world market and with synthetics at home and abroad.

"If cotton prices must be supported at levels way out of line with the world market," Anderson said, "the South would have little choice but to restrict cotton to the amount that would be consumed on the domestic market."

Essair Seeks To Get Lines To Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13 (AP)—A proposal by Essair, Inc., to give airline service between New Orleans and Houston, with stops in seven south Louisiana towns, yesterday met opposition from larger companies.

Opposing the Essair petition at a Civil Aeronautics Board regional hearing here were Eastern Airlines, Braniff Airways, Chicago and Southern airlines and the Southern Bus lines.

Essair plans stops on its proposed New Orleans-Houston service at Beaumont, Port Arthur, Lake Charles, Lafayette, Morgan City, Crowley, Abbeville, New Iberia and Houma.

An Eastern airlines petition to extend its present service between New Orleans and Houston is scheduled for a hearing tomorrow.

reviewing this campaign remarks that Germany failed completely to estimate properly the reserve of Russian industrial and productive power east of the Urals. The statement of both Keitel and Jodl is that neither was in favor of the Stalingrad campaign, but that the recommendations of the High Command were overruled by Adolf Hitler.

4. Invasion of North Africa. Allied landings in North Africa came as a surprise to the German High Command. Field Marshal Kesselring, who, at the time, was commanding all German forces in the Mediterranean except Rommel's desert task force, states that his headquarters did expect a landing and had requested reinforcement by a division. However, Kesselring's fears were not heeded by Hitler and Goering. Allied security and deception measures for the landing operations were found to have been highly effective. Only when the Allied fleets and convoys were streaming through the Straits of Gibraltar did the Germans realize that something very special was under way, and even then false conclusions were drawn; either that the Allies intended to land in the rear of Rommel in the Middle East, or that these were British reinforcements en route to the Far East, or supplies for starving Malta. Since no advance preparations had been made by the Germans to repel such an Allied invasion of North Africa, all subsequent efforts to counter the Allies suffered from hasty improvisation.

5. The Invasion of France. All German headquarters expected the Allied invasion of France. According to Colonel General Jodl, both the general direction and the strength of the initial assault in Normandy were correctly estimated; but Field Marshal Keitel states that the Germans were not sure exactly where the Allies would strike and considered Britany as more probable because of three major U-boat bases located in that region. Both agree that the belief of the German High Command that a second assault would be launched, probably by an Army under General Patton, held large German forces in the Pas de Calais area. Both Keitel and Jodl believed that the invasion could be repulsed or at worst contained, and both named the Allied air arm as the decisive factor in the German failure.

Prior to the invasion, important divergencies of opinion developed between Field Marshal von Rundstedt, Commander in Chief West, and Rommel, commander of the threatened Army Group. Rundstedt desired to hold his armored forces in a group around Paris and in Eastern France; Rommel to push them forward to positions in readiness close to the coast. The Rommel view prevailed. Von Rundstedt was subsequently relieved by Colonel General Von Kluge.

Soon after the Allied capture of Cherbourg, dissension again broke out in the High Command. Von Kluge and Rommel wished to evacuate all Southwestern France, blocking or destroying its usable ports. They believed that a continuation of the fight in Normandy could only end with the destruction of their Western Armies and that they should withdraw before disintegration began. Von Kluge recommended defense on the general line: lower Seine-Paris-Fontainebleau-Massif Central. Hitler refused to accept this recommendation, relieved Kluge from command, and reappointed von Rundstedt as Commander in Chief West. Under direct instructions, Rundstedt continued the battle of Normandy to its final denouement. Hitler himself ordered the Avranches-Mortain counterattack and was much surprised when it completely failed.

6. The Ardennes Counterattack. The German offensive in December 1944 was Hitler's personal conception. According to Jodl, the objective of the attack was Antwerp. It was hoped that overcast weather would neutralize Allied air superiority, and that an exceptionally rapid initial breakthrough could be achieved. Other German officers believe that this operation was reckless in the extreme, in that it irreparably damaged the comparatively fresh armored divisions of the Sixth Panzer Army, the principal element of Germany's strategic reserve, at a moment when every available reserve was needed to repulse the expected Soviet attack in the East.

7. The Crossing of the Rhine. Even after the failure of the German counteroffensive in the Ardennes, the Germans believed that the Rhine line could be held. The loss of the Remagen bridge, however, exploded this hope. The entire Rhine defensive line had to be weakened in the attempt to contain the bridgehead, and the Saar and Palatinate rendered easy the subsequent drive eastward of the Allied Armies towards Hamburg, Leipzig, and Munich.

Texas And Louisiana Railroad Workers Take Strike Vote

DALLAS, Nov. 13 (AP)—Some 18,000 workers on the Southern Pacific lines of Texas and Louisiana were completing balloting today on whether to strike after Nov. 20.

The workers are members of 13 unions, affiliated with AFL.

The employes are dissatisfied because they have not been able to obtain equal representation on the hospital association board, J. J. Jarvis, division union chairman of the railroad clerks of the company, said here today.

Two Sides To Question

The hospital association board controls operation of a jointly-maintained hospital at Houston by the company and union, Jarvis explained.

"There are two sides to this thing," J. J. Moore, assistant general manager of the lines, said today in a telephone interview from Houston. Moore said that management's position in the dispute could be expected in detail tomorrow.

Ballot Is Quoted

The ballot on which the workers were completing their voting today read as follows:

"1. That the hospital association by-laws be changed to provide for a majority representation by the employees.

"2. That the Texas and New Orleans railroad defray at least one-half the cost of all on-duty injuries. (The union maintains that the company pays no part of costs for medical treatment following injuries sustained while on duty. The company contends that it pays a fair part.)

"3. That a certified audit be made of all hospital funds from 1914 to 1917.

"4. That the unethical practice of divulging medical histories of patients to the company for use for personal reasons be halted." (Jarvis said his and the other 12 unions are charging that diagnoses, findings and recommendations recorded on patients have been given to the company for their personal use.)

Reparations Bill Of Japs Is Staggering

TOKYO, Nov. 13 (AP)—Official deliberations on the size of the reparations bill Japan must pay began today as the country received a forecast that it must slice its expenditures in half and increase taxes five fold.

Arrival of Edwin S. Pauley, President Truman's reparations representative, signalled full deliberations on the matter, already started by members of the reparations commission who arrived earlier.

Japan's semi-official postwar currency council, said the newspaper Yomiuri Hochi, reported to the finance ministry the necessity of halving expenditures and hiking taxes. These steps were termed necessary to control inflation.

With approach of the winter season, Allied headquarters called for a report from the Japanese government by Dec. 15 on what it is doing to feed the empire's 70,000,000 people. A long range program for Nipponese agriculture was ordered by Dec. 31, including a report on farm financial matters.

Vets Winning Against Pressure Groups For Hospital Locations

By JIM LUCAS
Scripps-Howard Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—The Veterans administration slowly is winning a battle with "grass-roots" pressure groups which demand that new hospitals be allocated on a semi-pork barrel basis.

Wherever possible, new hospitals are to be located near medical schools. Their staffs will include:

1. Veterans administration doctors and nurses.
2. A staff of consultants from the medical schools.
3. Resident physicians recommended by the College of American Surgeons.

Plan To Be Tested

The plan soon will be tested at Hines General hospital, Chicago. Hines will have 49 nongovernment residencies. Northwestern university will furnish consultants. Next in line are hospitals at Minneapolis (Minnesota U.), Milwaukee (Marquette) and Indianapolis (Butler U.).

Maj. Gen. Paul R. Hawley, of the Veterans administration, said there is a vast reservoir of expert medical skill in areas around medical schools. It is, he believes, a matter of taking the veteran to the doctor since the doctor, for economic reasons, can't follow the veteran to isolated hospitals. The VA does not pay attractive salaries.

Pressure Is Applied

Pressure against this program comes from local interests and from congressmen anxious to get a hospital for their districts. Chambers of commerce protest it is centralization. Relatives of veterans say it makes visiting difficult. The Veterans administration gets about 50 letters a day, urging certain locations for hospitals.

General Hawley argues that hospitals in outlying communities, far from being abandoned, will be expanded to care for emergencies and long convalescence. Some men will be taken to medical centers for specialized care. It will mean less visiting, but General Hawley argues:

"We've got to decide we want them to get well or visit them in hospitals indefinitely. Shall we put convenience above medical necessity?

In the past veterans hospitals have been regarded as subject to political considerations. Sixteen of the 97 pre-war hospitals are in communities of less than 1,000. Another 16 are in towns of 1,000 to 5,000. An additional nine are in towns of 5,000 to 10,000.

Of the 19 new hospitals authorized, 13 will be located near medical schools.

Payroll Savings Plan Pays Off For Nation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. (AP) — War finance director Ted R. Gamble announced today that the payroll savings plan has accounted for more than $15,000,000,000 in War bonds since June, 1941.

Gamble disclosed the figure in a statement in which he reiterated that the savings plan will be continued indefinately after the Victory Loan ends December 8.

"Any question as to whether this plan should be continued," Gamble said, "has been resolved by the workers themselves who are keeping up their payroll deductions and have established new habits of savings that they plainly wish to continue."

Gamble said about 25,000,000 workers are participating in the plan.

U. S. Urged To Move Slowly In Far East

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—The United States government and industrialists should move slowly in fostering China's economic plans, Clarence Edward Gauss, former U. S. ambassador to China, declared today.

"We need first to examine our own position and to ascertain the actual needs of China," Gauss said. "We must observe the political trends and developments in that country, and the overall development of Chinese government policy toward, and treatment of, our existing interest in China—in trade, industry, shipping, banking, insurance and so on." Gauss spoke at the luncheon session of the National Foreign Trade convention.

Gives Warning

Industrialization of China "with a view solely or principally to foreign trade, with reliance on a cheap labor supply to produce inexpensive products," Gauss said, "would be a fatal error and be a duplication of the process followed by Japan which led finally to the situation that plunged her into war and brought her downfall."

Robert F. Loree, chairman of the foreign property-holders protective committee, charged today Americans with interests in Europe are being "robbed of their properties after the shooting is over."

Loree said Congress should be "reluctant to extend credit to those nations who feel themselves justified in nationalizing or appropriating the property of American corporations and American citizens without prompt and adequate dollar compensation. . . .

"Some other consideration than an equitable division caused the great powers to arrive at the 50-50 division between Russia and the other Allies," Loree charged.

Warning Of Housing Shortage At Naval Centers Is Issued

A warning of an acute shortage of hotel accommodations and housing facilities existing at all Navy separation centers has been issued to relatives of servicemen who are contemplating joining their Navy kin at these discharge points. The directive was released by Chief Specialist John C. Oldham, in charge of Navy recruiting here, and was from the Eighth Naval District headquarters in New Orleans.

In releasing this information the Navy has requested that relatives await the return home of Navy veterans, thus aiding in the partial elemination of the housing shortage and a congested transportation system.

Oldham also said that the Navy office here is seeking 17-year-old young men to enlist in the regular Navy as combat air crewmen. Maximum weight is 170 pounds and maximum height is 72 inches. Persons are required to have a 20-20 vision in each eye, without glasses, and must be unmarried high school graduates.

The recruiting office, on the second flood of the post office building, also is open for persons between the ages of 17 and 30 who wish to take Eddy tests to qualify for radar training as a member of the regular Navy, Oldham said.

Lubbock Aeronautics Group Meets Tonight

A dinner-meeting of the Lubbock chapter of the National Aeronautic association will be held tonight in the Hilton hotel, beginning at 7 o'clock, with Lowell Swenson, manager of the NAA of Washington, D. C., as principal speaker.

About 100 members and guests are expected to attend, according to M. D. Fanning, chapter secretary. Reservations will be accepted up to 10 o'clock this morning. Price for the dinner is $1.50 per person.

Virgil L. Musick, president, will preside as master of ceremonies.

Identity Of Crash Victims Announced

LITTLE ROCK, Nov. 13. (AP) — Two crewmen killed in the crash of a twin-engined medium Army bomber near Mountain View, Ark., late yesterday were identified tentatively today by Army Air force intelligence officers at Adams field as Maj. Vince E. Montgomery, Springfield, S. D., and W/O James D. Schulgen of Santa Rosa, Texas.

During the first two weeks of March, 1945, the U. S. Ninth Airforce, operating over Germany flew 1,480 sorties a day.

Death Of Man Found Near Midland Probed

MIDLAND, Nov. 13 (AP)—Officers today continued an investigation of the death of a man identified as M. I. Seay, 47, of Big Spring, Texas, whose almost-decapitated body was found on a railroad track embankment 15 miles east of Midland yesterday.

Officers said a health certificate indicated Seay was a cook or dishwasher at Big Spring.

Half Of U. S. Public Calls Our Policy In Germany "Too Soft"

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—About one half of the voters in this country do not think the United States is meting out tough enough treatment to Germans living in the American zone of occupation.

News stories have indicated that the Russians think we are too "soft." The same idea has been the subject of numerous news stories and magazine and newspaper editorials recently.

Replies in today's survey possibly reflect among other things reaction of the American people to an easing of the fraternization ban, particularly with news stories declaring that German women are winning sympathy for the Nazi point of view among U. S. occupation troops.

Whether or not the "war crime" trials at Nuremberg, will change public thinking on the issue remains to be seen.

Sentiment today is shown in replies to the following questions:

"What is your opinion of the way we are treating the Germans—are we being too tough or not tough enough?"

Too Tough	2%
About Right	37
Not Tough Enough	50
Undecided	11

Women are markedly more inclined than men to think we are not being tough enough in our treatment of the Germans. This is shown as follows:

	Men	Women
Too Tough	1%	2%
About Right	42	32
Not Tough Enough	46	53
Undecided	10	13

By way of comparison, a poll published in October asked the same question about our treatment of the Japanese. Six out of every ten thought at the time we were not being tough enough with the Japs, with the same split in thinking between men and women. Fifty-nine per cent of the men felt we were not being strict enough, as compared to 63 per cent among women who felt that way.

Truman Sets Nov. 22 Aside To Give Thanks

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. (AP)—President Truman called upon Americans today to observe Nov. 22 as a day of national Thanksgiving for the blessing of victory.

The President's proclamation requested that the people "give thanks with the humility of free men, each knowing it was the might of no one arm but of all together by which we were saved."

Arms Industry Being Wrecked

KAUFREUREN, Nov. 13. (AP)—Wrecking of Germany's munitions industry was started by Allied demolition squads today with a series of thunderous blasts which destroyed one of the biggest and newest powder plants in the vast I. G. Farben network.

"This begins the destruction of Germany's war potential," declared Lt. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, commander of the U. S. Third Army as he pushed the plunger setting off the first of 14 explosions which sent 60 buildings hurtling hundreds of feet into the air.

The plant, which extended over an area of two square miles was so cleverly camouflaged and so completely masked by the surrounding evergreen forest that not a single Allied bomb was dropped on the factory during the war.

Most of the factory's 243 scattered buildings were built partially underground.

Only those buildings suitable for nothing but arms manufacture were destroyed. Much usable equipment was salvaged from the plant, which was valued at $45,000,000.

Red Raiders Face Big Task In Stillwater Tilt Saturday

Another one of those tough assignments that have been almost weekly affairs with the Texas Tech Red Raiders has been laid before Coach Dell Morgan's lads, that of stopping Bob Fenimore and his Oklahoma Aggie pals at Stillwater next Saturday afternoon.

To get ready for that assignment, the Red Raiders returned to the practice field Tuesday afternoon, and started getting ready for the next game on the schedule, the affair at Stillwater.

Defense Big Problem

Finding the major part of that problem would be the stopping of "Rapid Robert" Fenimore, and his deadly passing arm and pounding feet, the first job on the week's program was to start setting a defense to be hurled against the Cowpokes.

Fenimore has been running wild all season, and intotal offense is the nation's outstanding ground gainer. Setting a defense that will slow down the gentleman from the other side of Red river is a pretty big job, and called for first attention from Tech coaches.

James Gimmell and Frank Ottmers, two members of the bedridden flu brigade, were back in harness again Tuesday afternoon, but still taking things somewhat easy.

McSwane Is Ill

It was a two for one trade that Coach Dell Morgan made with the "hospital" for the day, and while these two returned to the playing field, Doug McSwane, big tackle from San Angelo's famed Bobcat teams, joined the six others left in bed.

The Red Raiders will have two days of hard work to get into shape for the Cowpokes, and Coach Morgan indicated Tuesday night that nothing would stop the workouts but darkness.

Gophers Eleven Hit By Internal Strife

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 13 (AP)—Minnesota's Golden Gophers, who became the Nation's No. 1 collegiate football power under stern tutelage of Coach Bernie Bierman, today were split with dissension and possible rebellion as a result of their 49 to 0 trouncing by Indiana Saturday.

Only four regulars, End Bob Carley, Tackle Larry Olsonoski, Center Warren Benson and Halfback Bob Kasper, reported for practice yesterday. A toal of 33 players turned out, the smallest number this season and the fewest to report for practice since Bierman became head coach at Minnesota in 1932.

Bierman was non - committal about the skeleton turnout, except to say that the Gophers' two remaining games against Iowa and Wisconsin would be devoted chiefly to developing material for next year. Eight in the present starting lineup are seniors.

Schlinkman Top Southwest Back

With their early-season ambitions to win more than their share of the games with Southwest conference foes gone, the Texas Tech Red Raiders have consolation in the fact that their all-American fullback candidate—Walter Schlinkman—is far out in front of individual ball carriers of "the conference."

"Walloping Walt" had a field day last Saturday against Texas Christian to amass 137 yards against the Froggies—Tech getting one other yard according to official statistics—and jump far up front with a 729-yard total. This is for 120 carries. He has lost 19 yards this season but his gross gain is 748.

Smith Next Man

Preston Smith, Texas Aggie star and the leading conference runner, came up with a minus two Saturday against Southern Methodist, and his season total now sits at 548 for 119 carries. These statistics have just been released by James H. Stewart, executive secretary of the Southwest conference.

Sammy Pierce, big Baylor halfback who is touted for all-circuit honors, is second in the league with 500 yards netted on 77 tries.

Joslin Keeps Lead

The rest of the individual conference races go like this:

In passing, Texas Christian's Leon Joslin continued to pick up large chunks of yards although he had four throws intercepted last week by Tech. Joslin now has 683 yards on 48 connections out of 94 attempts to be far out in front. Second man is Jack Price of Baylor who has 480 yards on 42 completions in 78 throws.

In punting veteran Howard Maley of Southern Methodist increased his lead as he kicked 11 times against A. and M. for an average of 44 yards. Maley has an average of 40.5 on 52 boots for the season.

Bechtol Still Tops

In pass-receiving it's still Hubert Bechtol former Westerner and Raider, now of Texas, who has taken 22 throws for 353 yards.

In Texas offense, Texas continues in front with 2219 yards in eight games. Baylor is second with 1973 yards. Defensively Baylor is tops, allowing 1136 yards by eight opponents—an average of 142 per game.

Schlinkman—who might have an even higher total without injuries that have hampered his play since the Tulsa game and kept him from the field during half of two games—meets the only man in Southwest football circles with a higher total than his when he goes on the field Saturday in Stillwater, Okla., to play Bob Fenimore and the Oklahoma Aggies. Fenimore has a total yardage of 1,329 this season—this including his passing gains.

In running the Oklahoma all-America Cowpoke has gained 842 yards—113 yards ahead of the Tech powerhouse.

Saturday afternoon the irresistable force most certainly meets the immovable object.

Purples Trip Whites In Big Last Period

After playing through three quarters of the ball game without any scoring being done, offensive explosions broke out Tuesday afternoon at the Lubbock Junior High grid field, and the Purples won a 12-7 decision over the Whites.

Bantz plunged over from the three yard line for the Purple's first score, and started the fireworks. About a minute later, Wayne Stroud grabbed a stray Whites pass from the air and ran it back 50 yards for the second Purples score.

The Whites came right back, still filling the air with footballs, and Bill Bridges hit Doyle Loyd with one of the passes that paid off on a 60 yard overhead play. Bridges plunged the line for the extra point, but the game ended a few plays later.

The victory was the seventh in a row for the Purples and closed out an undefeated, untied season for the youngsters under Coach Roy Morris. The team was also undefeated last year, but was tied three times by the Reds, Whites and Petersburg.

The Blues play the Whites this afternoon at the Junior High field, and the Whites and Reds close out the season next Tuesday on the same grid.

REDS TIE BRITISH

LONDON, Nov. 13. (AP)—Russia tied England, 3 to 3, today in an international soccer match that lured 85,000 spectators to the Stanford Bridge stadium. It was the first international sports contests in England since before World War II.

The Kuwait Field on the Persian Gulf is regarded by geologists as potentially one of the world's major petroleum reserves.

Meadow Favored In Class B Tilt

On the basis of the season's records of the two contending ball clubs in Thursday night's Class B playoff at Texas Tech stadium, the Meadow Bronchos will be favored to retain their District 1-B crown over the Hale Center Owls.

The once beaten, once tied Bronchos are the winners of the south half of the district, and defending champions. The Hale Center Owls copped the north half title, but have been bumped in their last three times to take the field.

The only direct comparison of the two teams comes in battles with the Petersburg Buffs. Hale Center opened the season with a 13 to 0 win over Petersburg, but last week was dumped by the Buffs, 7-0. Only a week before, the Buffs won a 14-13 decision over Meadow, the only loss for the Bronchos.

Class A Morton tied the Bronchos, 7-7, earlier in the season for the only other mar on the record.

Hale Center rocked through five straight conference wins without a setback, and were stopped for the first time by the Lubbock Cowhands Gold, 13-0, then upset by Idalou, a team beaten earlier. Idalou lost the first game, 24 to 0, then won a 12-7 victory in the second meeting.

The Bronchos, paced by Jack Barnes and Joel Ray Locke, a pair of fine schoolboy backs, have rolled up 215 points in eight games. Opponents have scored 55 points, and scored on Meadow in every game but one.

The Hale Center record shows 101 points scored to 52 for opponents in the same number of games.

Kickoff is scheduled for 7:30 p. m.

Lobos Look Ahead To Texas Tech Battle

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 13. (AP)—New Mexico university has decided to pass up an invitation for a Dec. 1 football game with the University of Arizona in Tucson, Lobo Coach Willis Barnes said today.

His announcement came amid recurring local speculation that New Mexico is in line for a bid to the El Paso Sun Bowl next Jan. 1—provided the Lobos can take Texas Tech, their last remaining foe, on Nov. 24.

Barnes admitted that New Mexico, winner of five games but defeated 21-20 by Utah last week, has been asked whether it would be "interested" in the New Year's classic.

"I imagine if we beat Texas Tech we probably will get a bid," he conceded. "But of course we'll have to win that one first."

And unless the Lobos can devise means of stopping Walt Schlinkman, Tech's hefty All-America fullback candidate, they expect that to be a pretty large order, Barnes added a trifle grimly

DUDLEY REELECTED

ROCKFORD, Ill., Nov. 13. (AP)—The Ninth Troop Carrier Command from Bergstrom Field, Texas took advantage of wind-blown punts to score a touchdown in each of the first two periods and defeat Camp Grant 12-0 here last night.

Faulkner Named For Lubbock Hubber Post

Club Owner Sam Rosenthal announced the taking of the first step toward the rebuilding of the Lubbock Hubbers for the start of the West Texas-New Mexico League next spring, and Tuesday revealed that Harry Faulkner had been named as business manager of the Hubbers.

Faulkner is well known to Lubback fans, and held the same post with the Hubbers back in the pennant winning days of the late 1930s, and has long been a prominent figure in sports circles in the Southwest.

Ready For Work

Faulkner will take over his duties, and start the job of signing a ball club to play under the Hubber banner as soon as the league is given the green light by the National Association of Baseball Leagues.

During the war years, Faulkner was with the North American Aviation company at Dallas, and in charge of all forms of athletics at the plant. He has also been associated with Terrell Military school, Texas A. & M. college with Homer Norton, and with baseball clubs at Dallas in the Texas League and the Chicago White Sox.

Rosenthal also said that no action would be taken on the hiring of a manager for the Hubbers until after the minor league meeting next month.

Will Attend Meet

Rosenthal and Faulkner will both attend the minor league session at Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 5, and hope to get down to real work upon their return from this meeting.

Rosenthal also revealed that the report of the committee, appointed to look into the merits of several other cities in the interest of selecting the eighth team in the loop, has been forwarded to League President Milton Price at Dallas, but no official action has been taken on the report.

There will be no announcement of the findings of this committee until some official action has been taken by the league as a whole.

The seven clubs now in the league are Clovis in New Mexico, and the West Texas cities of Borger, Pampa, Amarillo, Lubbock, Lamesa and Abilene.

Hawaiian Flyers Close Season Undefeated

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY AIR FORCE, MIDDLE PACIFIC, Nov. 13. (AP)—The star-studded Army Air Forces Hawaiian Flyers including a number of players who were on last year's undefeated, untied Randolph Field eleven at San Antonio, Tex., have wound up play in the all-service league undefeated.

Bill Dudley, who was All-American service back with Randolph Field in 1944, played part of the season with the team and helped spark the Flyers to their earlier victories. Alton Coppage, who played at Amarillo, Tex., Air Field last year; Tippy Madarik, Jack Russell and Martin Ruby, stars with Randolph Field, were others on the team.

Lieut. Walter Parker, also a former Randolph Field player was an assistant coach of the team.

Hood, Hackenschmidt Top Wrestling Card

George Hackenschmidt, twice a winner in two appearances here, will seek to make it three in a row to night at Promoter Pete Hallas' grunt and groan show at the Lubbock Horse and Mule Auction arena, with the masked star, the Hood, his opponent on the main event of the three act card.

The two are billed for a two out of three fall match with a 90 minute limit, and a bout advertised as an open brawl with nothing barred but the eye gouging and strangle hold.

Johnny Atkins and Milt Olsen, another pair who have been on the past cards, have been booked for the semi-final bout on the card, a two out of three fall match with a 45 minute time limit.

The preliminary, a one fall, or 30 minute time limit affair, will start the show at 8:30 o'clock, pairing Tony Ross and Charley Trejo, two more who were on the card last week.

Tickets are on sale at the Busy Bee cafe in town, or at the arena at match time.

Penn Tackle Named Week's Top Lineman

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—Big 252-pound George Savitsky, University of Pennsylvania tackle who knocked Columbia plaers over like ten pins at Franklin field in Philadelphia on Saturday, today was voted this week's Associated Press award as outstanding lineman.

After Columbia had taken a quick 7-0 lead, Columbia faded out of the picture as Savitsky went to work on the Lions' forward wall and backfield. Shifted to end on defense, the huge Savitsky tore into the Columbia backfield and completely upet its timing. He blocked one punt and recovered two fumbles to set up the first three Penn scores.

"He was an All-American against us if I ever saw one," said Columbia's Coach Lou Little afterwards. George Munger, Penn mentor, declared "there hasn't been any tackle as good on Franklin field this year."

Another outstanding lineman, Rodney Giske, Tacoma senior on the Washington State team, accomplished an unusual feat. He blocked out two Oregon men so strongly on one play that both were knocked out, enabling the play to gain an additional 15 yards. At one point he threw Oregon's triple threater, Jack Leicht, for a 10-yard loss, and on the next play blocked a punt on the seven-yard-line that set up Washington's tying touchdown.

Bill Gear, an end, was the spearhead of the Texas Aggies' attack that upset Southern Methodist. He intercepted two SMU aerials, broke through to throw SMU backs for big losses on the goal line and once recovered a fumble punt to pull his team out of a hole.

Two Raiders Named

The list of players nominated this week included:

Baylor Cagers Given Spot On Garden Card

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. (AP)—Three colleges which never before have shown their basketball wares in Madison Square Garden will appear this winter on the program of 21 doubleheaders while the long absent teams from the Pacific Coast will return for the first time since the 1941-42 season.

The schedule, announced today, will open Dec. 5 and close on March 7. Two national championship tourneys will follow.

Holy Cross, Drake and Baylor are the teams scheduled to make their first Garden appearances. Baylor will play New York University on Feb. 27.

Line Coach Returns To Oklahoma Aggies

STILLWATER, Okla., Nov. 13. (AP)—Al Paddock, Oklahoma A. & M. line coach who has been serving in the Navy, returned to his duties today as the Aggies hastened preparations for the Texas Tech game here Saturday.

Brisk scrimmage engaged the squad but Lookabaugh spared most of the veterans who bore the brunt of the Tulsa battle last week.

Although there were no injuries of note, the regulars were not yet ready for heavy work following the bruising battle with the Hurricane.

DeLacy's Housing Plan

It Would Help The "Little Man"

MILLIONS of modest-income families, planning and hoping for better living in the future, will cheer the legislation drafted by Rep. Hugh DeLacy, of the State of Washington which would enable them to purchase FHA-financed homes without a down payment.

DeLacy proposed to the House of Representatives that instead of providing a down payment—usually 20 per cent of the cost of a house—low-income families be permitted to acquire equity in a home through monthly rental payments over a 48 months period.

Under the DeLacy proposal, the monthly payment would not exceed one per cent of the purchase price. It would include mortgage payments and an amount which would be sufficient to accumulate a down payment of 10 per cent over 48 months. Thus, if the sales price of the property were $6,000, the purchaser would pay $60 monthly.

The plan would limit purchases to homes costing less than $6,500.

DeLacy is shooting in the range of the average family. The down payment has been one of the main hurdles facing Oscar Citizen in acquiring a home. DeLacy's plan would enable countless persons, who are unable to save enough money for the initial payment, to enjoy the security and satisfaction of being home-owners. There is many a wage earner and small-salaried man who will never be able to round up the $1,000 or $2,000 for a house payment. However, he might be able to pay $50 a month on a $5,000 house.

DeLacy's proposal, if made into law, would help loosen up the housing situation. Houses and more houses must be built in the next few years to take care of the demand. This would open up a new avenue to more building. Millions of takers would be available for houses financed under such a plan. And it would give something tangible in return for the money which would normally be poured down the rental drainpipe.

There's Bloodshed Ahead

THOUGH traffic has become thicker since the lifting of gasoline rationing, it will not reach its density of the pre-war years until about 1948, according to the National Automobile Dealers association.

Production of new cars probably will hit a record high in the next year or two, if labor troubles and other reconversion difficulties are halted soon. But the junking of old machines will reduce the number of cars on the streets and highways.

The Office of Defense Transportation reported at the beginning of this year that the average age of cars was more than seven years. Between 1941 and 1945 the proportion of vehicles in use more than seven years jumped from 35 to 60 per cent.

Last year's automobile registrations totaled 23,400,000 and it is predicted that this figure will be increased by 500,000 this year. Through 1948, registrations are expected to rise to 28,000,000, or about 1,300,000 over the highest pre-war total.

However, we're likely to see in the next year or two a record death toll from the combination in traffic of new, high-speed cars and the old jalopies in ill repair, and a diminishing fatality rate as new automobiles come into use.

We Dodge Responsibility

ACCORDING to Thurman Sensing, research director of the Southern States Industrial council, only 20 per cent of the voting strength in a southern capital went to the polls in the 1944 general election, and only 17 per cent voted in the latest local election.

This condition has prevailed for years throughout the South, the sad part of it all being that a greater percentage of the more educated people fail to cast ballots while a heavier percentage of the less informed, as a whole, do vote.

It would be quite interesting, we think, if every eligible voter in Texas would cast a vote on some particular election day, just to see if pre-election trends, based on the norm, would be carried out, or if there would be a general upset. It would be heart-warming, too, for once to see the entire army of voting eligibles actively accepting the principal responsibility of citizenship.

Too many people content themselves with saying "politics is too dirty for me to soil myself with," instead of taking active steps to clean up politics if, indeed, it is overly dirty.

The South cannot be proud of statistics covering its voting record.

A woman from whose stomach a surgeon removed 23 teaspoons said she had taken to swallowing teaspoons as a hobby to keep from going insane. Offhand, it sounds like a crazy idea to us.

RUSSIAN NOBILITY IN EXILE

XXVII

When I arrived in Paris, I was shocked beyond measure to see how ill mother looked and how much she had aged in the past few months. The first thing I did was call in Doctor Gros of the American Hospital in Neuilly, despite her protestations, and when he arrived I had the greatest difficulty persuading her to allow an examination. When it was over, he had a long talk with me and very frankly said that mother was seriously ill, that unless she had complete rest from work, worry, and agitation, her illness could take a very dangerous turn. He had found her very hard to handle and had warned her as kindly as possible about her condition.

She was nervous and ill all through Christmas, worrying continually about getting back to work and my brother's needs. I wrote father about her health, begging him to come as soon as possible. When he cabled that he would be with us in early summer, she immediately decided not to be in Paris at that time, as she had every intention of rejoining the Swedish project.

Bunnie promised to stay with her while I went down to Nice for the New Year's engagement I had accepted some months previously for the Rhul. That was one of the saddest New Years I ever spent, for I had to work the contract and needed the money, but the thought of mother's condition was always with me.

Upon returning to Paris, I signed a contract with Henri Varna for the new revue at the Palace.

We had a mild March, that year of grace 1926, and mother began to improve. She went out a little but was still not herself and often felt very sad. It was hard for me, too. I could not be with her enough and do all the work I had contracted for, and I longed for my father to come over.

One day, while driving past the Banque de Varsovie, near the Bourse, I noticed the familiar figure of a tall elegant man dressed in livery, opening the doors of the bank to the callers. There was something about him that caused me to slacken speed, and as I drew alongside the curb, I recognized him as Prince Alexis, the husband of Helena Soltikoff, daughter of the Princess I had known as a child. He was so happy to see me again he nearly cried, and told me his wife and sister-in-law Choura were both sewing lingerie in the Galerie Lafayette (the large department store.) I invited them all to dinner, and upon this occasion, mother, for the first time in weeks, perked up. We saw a great deal of her old Russian friends from then on, many of whom we did not even know were in Paris.

They were an extraordinary colony, most of them living from hand to mouth, but many working hard were getting along pretty well.

Mother, always happy when she was exhausting herself running about for people she liked, badgered all her friends into buying lingerie from Helena and Choura. She also obtained a position for Alexis with the Isola Brothers' offices at the Opera Comique. As in Constantinople, Russians flooded the house, and those we could not help overflowed into Violette's chateau in Marseilles. One evening Alexis arrived at the Palace, where I was working, with another Russian friend, Prince Poutatine, to fetch me for a surprise party they were giving for both mother and myself.

The party was a typical Russian evening, held in the Poutatines' tiny house on the Cite des Fleurs, an ancient street in Montmartre where the houses seemed to be holding each other up as they sagged and drooped from old age. Our hosts' place was one of these and had three steps leading down to the front door, which had just given way under the weight of entering guests and were in consequence a trifle hard to navigate Once inside, though, the scene was perfectly charming, for Princess Poutatine had somehow or other obtained a few portraits and souvenirs from Russia, and the rest of the furnishings were antiques bought for a few francs in the Foire des Puces. Restored and arranged with perfect taste, they made a delightful interior.

The rooms were lighted with candles, and there were flowers everywhere. Our hostess, a beautiful tall woman, was gowned, as were Helena, Choura, and the others, in perfect creations which must have cost all kinds of money. The elite of the Russian colony had gathered together that night, all the men in faultless evening clothes, and in the corner of the room were the inevitable Tziganski singers with guitars.

Tables were piled high with caviar, chicken, and buckets of champagne. There was an even more expensive Russian custom besides the classic one of breaking glasses, which consisted of a pyramid built with champagne goblets, over which a servant poured wine till it formed a cascade and spilled onto the floor. As each guest took a glass, drained it and hurled it behind him, the Tzigane songs rose to a wild crescendo. I was astounded at such a restless display of luxury and wondered how on earth they had managed it. When I questioned them they said, "This is a party we will never forget. We want to be happy just this one night, even if we starve for the rest of the year. Tonight everything must be perfect, like the old days in Russia. Please understand and enjoy yourself with us." I spent the rest of the evening reciting Pushkin, while mother sang the songs they loved. I think they were really happier than they had been for a long time.

Wallace Says War III Would Cost Trillions

NEW YORK, Nov. 13. (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace estimated today that another world war would cost "many, many trillions of dollars."

He made the statement as an interpolation in a broadcast address before the 32nd National Foreign Trade convention at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel here.

Wallace said it had been estimated the recently-ended conflict cost a trillion dollars.

If World War III cost as much more than World War II as World War II cost above World War I, then the price would soar into almost unwritable figures, he said.

New Oil Well Roars In Near Olney Area

WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 13. (AP)—The north Young county oil district celebrated the Armistice holiday with a new oil well that is drenching the countryside two and a half miles west of Olney. The well is the L. T. Burns No. 1 C. F. Kunkel. Sand was topped at 4,890 feet and nine feet of sand had been drilled at 1 o'clock this morning when oil and gas started flowing with a roar that was heard for several miles. The flow continued through the open hole at midmorning. The state highway between Olney and Throckmorton is closed while attempts are being made to stop the flow.

HOUSTON MAN DIES

HOUSTON, Nov. 13. (AP)—Funeral services for Fred G. Neff, 51, an employe of the Southern Pacific railroad for 20 years who died yesterday, will be held here tomorrow. Survivors include a sister-in-law, Mrs. Lula A. Neff and a nephew, Frank A. Neff, both of Corpus Christi.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

LET, me quote you part of a letter which is typical of so many I receive these days.

I won't mention any names or places, so I am not violating any confidence. Just let me tell you that it comes from California and that the girl, to judge by her handwriting and her choice of English, is apparently a well-educated and refined person.

"More than three years ago," she writes, "I met a boy who was from——(a city near Brookfield, where I live). Ever since 1942 he has been overseas, fighting in battles from Guadalcanal to Okinawa. In those three years we corresponded regularly and I have waited patiently for his return and, maybe—well, you know. Suddenly I've heard no more from him. Three months have gone by since his last letter, and I've become terribly concerned and worried.

"I have no way of getting in touch with his folks because I don't have their address. May I ask a favor of you? Can you possibly locate his family for me and send it on to me?

"I want to find out whether he was killed or taken prisoner or wounded. I love the boy and I think he loves me. I am heartbroken over the sudden silence and want to get in touch with him."

• • •

Well, with the help of the police I located the boy's family, but we didn't tell them anything about the girl. We just asked about the boy and were told that he is still in the service and was recently home on a furlough.

While home he spent most of his time with his childhood sweetheart and before he left he gave her a lovely diamond ring for their engagement and the wedding will take place as soon as he gets out of the service, which will be very soon.

So I had to sit down and write the girl in California a letter and tell her all about it—as nicely as I could—and I wished her happiness and told her that there are many nice boys in the world and not to brood too much over an affair that was a product of the war's unnatural conditions.

• • •

BRANDEIS

THERE are thousands of girls all over the country who will have the same experience, who gave solace and affection to the fellows on the ships and in the foxholes—who were sweethearts while it lasted, but now must give way to the old loves and the more prosaic ways of life.

Remember, you girls, who met the boys in uniform who swore eternal loyalty, that war itself was eternity to them.

Remember that while they were under the shells of the enemy there was no eternity beyond today.

They meant it when they swore to be yours forever.

"Forever" might have been an hour or a minute.

Youth, facing death, knows no tomorrow.

Those boys meant what they said. And many of them sincerely intended to be their wartime sweethearts' men "forever."

They are the men who lie under crosses in many lands from Japan to Germany.

So, you my friend from California, don't mourn too much—forever can be a moment—or a long, long time.

Indications Pointing That Way

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

NON-PARTISAN observes at the capital look forward to a strange political era in the next few years, as a direct consequence of the bizarre alignments and outcomes in the recent municipal elections in the country.

They indicate that 1948 will witness a violent showdown in the politico-economic struggle that has been generating between conservatives and liberals, regardless of partisan affiliations, ever since Franklin Roosevelt appeared on the national stage in 1932.

They doubt whether the political-minded and astute Harry Truman will be able to resist the pressure of the labor and radical groups that counted so heavily in the victory of Mayor-elect William O'Dwyer in New York, and in the amazing showing of Richard T. Frankensteen in Detroit, the CIO's candidate for City Hall. They expect the President to abandon all pretense of a middle-of-the-road course and to raise a refurbished New Deal standard.

TUCKER

Such a White House reaction may not carry Congress with it. The Republicans and conservative Democrats are enraged rather than scared by labor's outpouring at the polls. And they compose a majority which may seek to check the CIO's further progress in the field of politics.

• • •

INTERLOPERS: The Wallace-Hillman-Murray leftists and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt chose a definite goal when they threw themselves so wholeheartedly into the odd-year campaigns. They sought to hold Mr. Truman fast to FDR's "slightly left of center" stand by proving that he cannot win a second term without their active aid. They apparently have sold the idea to the White House.

The Wallace faction set out to demonstrate that the machine bosses — Flynn, Hague, Kelley of Brooklyn and Kelly of Chicago — were wrong when they persuaded Mr. Roosevelt in 1944 that the Iowan would be a drag on the national ticket in the cities.

They seem to have succeeded. National Chairman Hannegan and his predecessor, James A. Farley, were only too glad to line up with the erstwhile interlopers in party politics. Hannegan concedes privately that his new allies played a major role in Democratic successes.

• • •

EASY: O'Dwyer would have won easily without this support. But an analysis of his vote reveals that the American Labor party's 400,000-odd members can swing the Empire state in a gubernatorial or presidential scrap if the contest is reasonably tight.

Although Frankensteen was defeated in the last hours of the Detroit battle, the followers of the Automobile Union Workers' vice president may hold the balance of power in Michigan. FDR won in more recent years only because he swept the motor capital. And these two states alone have 63 electoral ballots.

Assuming that the CIO and affiliated organizations can wield the same power in other industrial areas — New England, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois etc. — the candidate commanding their loyalty in addition to his regular party strength would be an easy winner.

So reckon the Hanneganite strategists, who is already talking of Henry Wallace as a possible running mate for Mr. Truman in 1948!

• • •

FINISHED: The Republicans will undoubtedly swing to the right, strange as that may seem, in the face of the reinforcement which the laborites gave to the Democrats and President Truman's recognition of the value of this ally.

They will not move too far in the conservative direction, however. Expressing the trend in terms of prospective 1948 candidates, they will probably lean toward the philosophy of a Bricker of Ohio, a Vandenberg of Michigan, a Stassen of Minnesota or a Warren of California rather than toward the ideas of Taft or a Wadsworth Although Gov. Thomas E. Dewey embraced New Dealish views in the 1944 campaign, it is believed that he is finished.

• • •

REVOLT: The GOP-ers believe that at least one more battle can be fought on the key question of whether the United States is populated by a majority of radicals or conservatives. They doubt whether the Western Republic, like Britain, France, Russia, Norway etc., is ready to embrace even a diluted form of "state socialism," to use their own expression.

They count on a revolt of the so-called middle class, white-collar workers, small businessmen, returning soldiers, etc. At least they think such a trial should be made, especially as they entertain no hope of adopting a platform or naming a candidate that could win over the radical wing of the Democratic party. They would split their own organization right down the middle if they even made the attempt.

Washington's failure to produce industrial peace in the next few years would enhance the opposition's chances enormously So would Mr Truman's inability to come to an orderly arrangement of world affairs, particularly if Moscow's refusal to cooperate should be the reason for disappointments in this field

TEXAS
By Gordon Shearer

AUSTIN—The life Insurance division of the State Insurance commission is getting some headaches its doesn't want. And the next session of the Texas legislature will be asked to do something about providing a remedy.

The pains are coming from among the 383 local mutual burial insurance associations, and the number of these businesses is steadily increasing They now have about 1,500,000 policy holders

While the Insurance commission does have legal powers to regulate certain phases of the associations' activities, it lacks authority to regulate premium rates which maye be charged.

Majority of the associations are reported by funeral homes. The law permits a burial association to sell insurance policies for a value up to $150. This is called a "merchandise and service" policy, since it is designed to pay for the clothing and other merchandise and service necessary for burial.

Then cames the catch, or example there are two or three—or any number more than one—of the burial associations in a town or city. There is no standard or required premium rate which the associations must charge. Consequently, sometimes there develops a rage of price cutting and offers of various free or additional services to induce buying from a particular association.

• • •

AUDITS: In one city, rates for a certain aged person on a $150 policy range from among the several competing concerns from as low as 15 cents to as high as 70 cents a month.

From the premiums which they collect on policies, the associations are required by law to put 60 per cent into their claims account to pay off the policies and 40 per cent into their operating or expense fund

To see that these accounts are kept in order, the state commission is supposed to audit them at least once every two years.

In the present mad scramble for business, a good many concerns haven't maintained correct distribution of funds When an irregularity is found, the owner is given a grace period to put conditions right. In six months the auditors are back to see if accounts are straight.

• • •

CHANCE: The state commission doesn't want to be forced to "strong arm" the burial associations. Commissioner George B. Butler and Cal Huffman, head of the commission mutual assessment division, have called on the association owners to get their houses in order.

Since the legislature doesn't meet until 1947, the state officials have urged the associations voluntarily to fix a schedule of minimum premium rates —this as a means of remedying many of the abuses of "gord business policies" now being practiced.

The PLAINSMAN Says:

That Girl on Broadway says make B-natural the real key to your true self.

* * *

It begins to commence to start to look like some prices have taken the well-known pledge: "I'll never take another drop!"

* * *

A BUNCH of us were sitting around beating our gums the other night and the topic turned to nitroglycerin and the oldtime oil well shooters of earlier days. The Plainsman remarked about his experience as a young reporter, when he visited a "soup" magazine, saw the shells loaded with nitro, then rode on a loaded wagon to a well and watched the "shot"—all for the benefit of curious readers of the paper we then were working for.

Carden Green, an oil man from 'way back, then recounted an event he actually witnessed and which gives indisputable testimony to the stories most people have heard about a shooter catching a "live torpedo" shot back at the world from the bowels of the earth.

Mr. Green had accompanied a shooter to a well which had been flowing in heads for several days. After the customary several hours time check of the flows, so some basis could be made of the proper time to drop the torpedo, Mr. Green and the shooter prepared to do the job.

The shooter released the torpedo in the hole and a moment later saw that the flow had started again and that the nitro charge was certain to be forced upward by the action of the bottom hole pressure.

A veteran of oil well shooting, the shooter stood at the hole and, although drenched with oil, managed to grab the torpedo as it came up He walked over to the edge of the derrick, set the torpedo down—and then almost fainted!

* * *

Mr. Green said the man was brave, of course. But he also had good sense.

There was nothing else to do except what he did, because the two of them couldn't possibly have run far enough away to escape the blast had there been one.

Therefore, the shooter gambled everything on his ability to grab the "shot" as it came up. And he won the gamble.

And to complete the story, as soon as the well stopped flowing, the shooter again dropped the torpedo — and finished the job!

* * *

MR. GREEN also told about how he fell down while negotiating a climb up a Kentucky cliff while carrying a live torpedo under each arm The loaded shells bounced from rock to rock and shelf to shelf all the way down the cliff—a hundred feet or more —but didn't go off. It's hard to set off a properly filled cannister of nitroglycerin by jar or bumps, but if a cork comes loose it's Katie, bar the door!

We don't know anything about atomic power except the Greek we read about it in the papers and magazines.

But we have looked over the scenes of previous "soup wagon" explosions where nothing much was left but a few splinters and a vagrant shoe or ear; and if atomic power is any greater (as of course it is) it really is strong coffee!

MAYBE Texas Tech's victory over TCU is past history by now, but even so, it is something still lovingly to remember and to refer to. That 12-to-nary un win over the Cowtown gentry was so definitely earned by the battered but game youngsters of the college here that it cannot go unnoticed in this stint. As we said a couple of weeks ago, the Men of Morgan may be short on experience and size, and without sufficient seasoned reserves, but when it comes to plain guts they are in the best of Tech tradition.

We were slightly amused, upon perusing the report of the game by our old friend, Mr. Fleming Hall, of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, to note that right under the statistics, showing how TCU was so roundly outplayed, Mr. Hall said that "spirit" won the game for Texas Tech. The spirit was good. There's no gain-saying that. But also helpful in the victory were the facts that (1) Tech bottled up both the running and passing attacks of TCU; (2) had a net advantage of around 300 per cent in yardage gained, and (3) never let the Christians get closer than 17 yards to pay dirt — and that only once.

Call the victory due to "spirit" if you like, Fleming, old pal, old pal. But it looked to us like the main credit should be ehalked up to the fact that Tech played much the better football last Saturday, as attested to by Messrs. Dutch Meyer and Mike Brumbelow following the tilt.

* * *

It is exceedingly rare that anyone makes an entirely honest confession because most of us value our reputations, such as they are, more than we value our souls.

* * *

COL. Ralph Emerson Holmes, the doughty little ex-C.O. at Lubbock Army Afr Field, is now on the Army Air Forces general staff in Tokyo, but he hasn't forgotten his tour of duty here. The "Old Sarge," as we always called Ralph (and he reciprocated by making us a corporal on his staff) still says that of all the places he has served in nearly two decades in the Army, he likes Lubbock best.

The kunnel sent us six copies of the Pacific Stars and Stripes, a daily newspaper published for our service men in and around Tokyo and distributed to them for free. The paper is a snappy one—only four pages, but chock full of news of both local and world varieties.

The Army has its own telegraphic and radio news service and its Tokyo newspaper gives a pretty fair resume of U. S. news daily, so you folks with friends and kinsmen in the far Pacific can rest assured than the boys know pretty well what is going on here at home.

* * *

One story in the Tokyo papers sent us by Colonel Holmes should be of interest to oldsters who remember when Sessue Hayakawa was a sort of an Oriental Charles Boyer in the U. S. film dodge. That must have been 30 years ago, but, anyway, a large proportion of the feminine population used to oh and ah about the Jap actor, much as they do now over the mooning French romanticist.

During the war, there cropped up an occasional story about Hayakawa — mostly, if not entirely, speculative. He was suggested as having been a spy during the years he was here; it was guessed that he was playing an important supporting role to the Jap war lords from December 7, 1941 on; it was rumored that he was in a Jap detention camp because he opposed the aggression of the Jap government.

Now, however, it appears that he hasn't been in Japan since before the war started.

* * *

HAYAKAWA'S wife, a Japanese who also acted in American movies many years ago, has been helping arrange entertainment for U. S. GI's in Tokyo since the Jap surrender. She told Pfc. Barnard Rubin, a reporter for the Pacific Stars and Stripes, that her husband was making a movie in Paris when the Nazis took over France and that she hasn't seen or heard of him for about four years.

Mrs. Hayakawa says she's been pulling every string she knows of, trying to find trace of her husband, but to no avail. So Americans who would like to know how Hayakawa disported himself during the war will probably have to wait awhile longer to find out.

Opera Singer Here For Artist Number Tells Travel Ills

By GEM BOB CALLEY
Avalanche Staff Writer

"Food—umm it's wonderful," were the warm, expressive words of Nadine Conner, Metropolitan opera soprano who will sing at 8 o'clock tonight at the Lubbock Senior High school auditorium, as she relaxed last night in her downtown hotel room.

After three days travel from the west coast on a crowded troop train, most anything solid and stationary looked good to Miss Conner—especially something to eat! "They filled the cars with soldiers and then filled the soldiers up——with food I mean," she explained with a good natured laugh.

Finally Is Admitted

Feeling as though she had accomplished the next-to-impossible, she finally was admitted inside the dining car. After ordering she settled back and thought, "How nice it will be, when the hunger pangs are gone."

The train started slowing down and being a curious traveler, Miss Conner asked what the next stop was "Mahm, this is Lubbock," was the slow reply. Never having seen that much-thought-of food, she paid the check and started scrambling for her luggage.

All this Miss Conner told with a glint of amusement in her hazel eyes. She's like that—friendly, unpretentious and completely charming—a person not easily upset by minor discomforts.

Real Joy In Living

Maybe her background accounts for her ability to laugh a lot, discount triviliaties, and get a real joy out of living. There was always music and fun in her home.

Miss Conner, who was the youngest girl in a family of six, declares that from childhood she remembers family music-making at home. Her mother used to wake the children each morning by playing a martial tune on the piano, and there was often a family song at breakfast

There's stern pioneer stock behind the pretty face and demure personality of the Metropolitan's lyric sorano—she's probably the first Mayflower descendent to make her mark at the Opera house. She's proud of her pioneering relatives but she herself has never had to struggle for success.

Loved To Sing As Child

Things have always come easily for Miss Conner who probably by way of explanation said, "I loved to sing as a child." Singing was only natural to her and she started lessons quite by chance. "I went with my brother to a lesson and happened to sing for the teacher," she said modestly.

A friend introduced Miss Conner to Amado Fernadez, a talented Mexican who really was responsible for developing her voice. She won an opera scholarship at the University of Southern California and with it a year and a half of lessons with Prof. Horatio Cogswell.

Since that time, fate has been especially kind to lovely Miss Conner. She made her debut at the Metropolitan opera Dec. 22, 1941 in the "Magic Flute." In opera repertoire she has portrayed Violetta in "Traviata," Marguerite in "Faust," and many others. She is a regular star and guest artist on Coca Cola hour, Salute to Youth program, Kraft Music hall, Vicks Open house and Showboat.

Favorite Opera Role

Asked which was her favorite opera role, without hesistation Miss Conner replied "Violetta," because it afford an opportunity to express ones dramatic ability too." Another reason she gave was because of the beautiful costumes she wears for that particular performance.

"One of the most gorgeous gowns I have ever seen, I wear in Traviata." "Incidentally it was designed by a Texan, Howard Shoup of Dallas, who said he had many friends in Lubbock," Miss Conner added. He requested her to wear it for her performance here.

Miss Conner came to Lubbock from San Francisco where she sang three nights straight—all different operas. Her pianist, Galen Lurwick, added that this was almost unheard of and that he didn't know how she held up under the strain.

Another Texas Stop

After leaving Lubbock, Miss Conner will stop in Weatherford for a performance and then she's scheduled for New York. She said she didn't know what opera she would do but her burning ambition is to portray the beautiful and ill-fated heroine of Shakespear's Romeo and Juliet.

There doesn't seem to be any one part of Miss Conner's private life she had rather keep private because she loves talking about her two adopted children, a two-year-old daughter and a three-months-old son.

Likes To Be At Home

She'd like having more time for her family and home, cooking, gardening and seeing the children grow day-by-day—even hear her little daughter explain to friends, "I baught this dress in New Yawk," but all that will come later. Miss Conner doesn't fool herself into thinking there aren't some things that have to be sacrificed when a woman's time is divided between a home and a career.

Soon she will be enroute to New York and a new season at the Metropolitan opera. She won't be back home in California until May and she muses, "Wonder if the children will forget me?"

Wall Street

UPSWING IS STALLED

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—A burst of speculative buying in low-quoted utility and realty stocks today enlivened the market in the second heaviest session of the past six months but late selling of rails and pivotal industrials stalled the swing.

A reactio nin commodities and Wall Street's feeling that recent leadership was of a questionable character inspired considerable profit cashing. Accounts also were trimmed on the idea the climb to peaks for almost nine years called for a substantial technical correction. Inflation psychology, pressure of idle cash and belief a post-war business boom eventually would arrive bolstered sentiment.

Transfers of 2,500,000 shares compared with 1,830,000 Friday and were the largest since June 28. Volume of 2,350,000 shares in the curb against 1,360,000 in the preceding 5-hour stretch was the best since the 1929-30 crash when a record aggregate of 7,096,300 was established.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .5 of a point at 74.2, widest drop since Oct. 29. It was a broad market, 1,020 issues registering.

The holding company power group still was buoyed by hopes for amendments of recapitalization programs beneficial to holders of common shares.

At peaks since early 1937 were Equitable Office Building, U. S. Realty, General Realty, Glenn Martin and Anaconda. Losers included Chrysler, U. S. Steel, Santa Fe, Northern Pacific, Sears-Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse, American Telephone and Western Union "A."

Improved in the curb were American Gas, American Super Power, Textron, Lake Shore and Humble Oil. Mead Johnson jumped 26 points to 251 on a 10-share sale. Stumblers were Ratheon, Cities Service and Technicolor.

Cotton

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 (AP)—Cotton futures, after reaching the highest level for the season, slumped sharply today under a wave of general selling. Values reacted as much as $2.85 a bale from the day's best levels and at the close were off 40 cents to $1.75 a bale.

Trading during the session was active with southern hedging termed as the largest for the season to date.

News that there will be no restriction on the planting of cotton next year was responsible for some of the selling although operators were inclined to feel that present prices of cotton would induce heavier producer offerings.

During early dealings there was considerable buying, attributed to southern dealers and tetile mills. The latter presumably covering commitments in the textile field.

The distant positions were hardest hit. This was attributed to a statement by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson that there would be no acreage quota for next year's crop.

Closed Shop Ruling To Be Made By Court

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Supreme court today promised a ruling in a case raising a fundamental union labor question—can a state forbid the closed shop?

Florida voters wrote such a ban into their constitution one year ago. A three-judge federal district court upheld it, although they expressed "grave doubts" about their jurisdiction. So the Supreme court first will inquire into the lower court's right to act.

If the Supreme court should decide the district court exceeded its authority, the latter's decision apparently would be nullified. In its order today, the high tribunal directed that arguments be made on that point.

the girls never were seen alive again.

Later, the witness said, her husband and "thousands of others" were lined up outside the church by bayonet-wielding Japanese and marched off to torture and death at Fort Santiago.

The procession of prosecution witnesses describing similar brutalities was interrupted briefly as a 14-year-old defense witness took the stand.

Denies He Was Present

Bislumino Romero, Japanese-educated grandson of the collaborationist Filipino General Artemio Ricarte, told the court that he had never been present when Ricarte and Yamashita discussed the fate of the Filipinos.

Previously, Jose Galang, a prosecution witness, had testified that young Romero acted as an interpreter at various meetings between Ricarte and Yamashita, when Ricarte allegedly was pleading with the general to revoke his order to "kill all Filipinos."

Two witnesses testifying of conditions at the Los Banos internment camp told of the starvation diet given civilians there. They said food was so scarce that pigs which normally lived on kitchen scraps starved to death.

They testified that when internees protested against the shooting of two American civilian prisoners who were returning with food they had foraged outside, the guards' commandant replied he had orders from "imperial headquarters in Manila" to kill anyone attempting to escape.

Governor Ho estimated civilian casualties in the civil strife in Shantung province at 200,000, with millions more rendered homeless. He charged the Communists with destroying or heavily damaging railroads, factories and mines.

Other fighting was reported in Suiyuan, Honan, Hupeh and Hepeh provinces. The Communists particularly were said to have penetrated into "all parts of Honan," and to have launched a fresh offensive Nov. 10 against the walled railroad town of Paotow in Suiyuan.

Lt. R. M. Singer, NAS public relations officer, reported, however, that Coleman was "acting in his official capacity as representative of the commanding officer and was just trying to help the men quiet down and send them back to their base. He did not encourage any form of misconduct."

Singer in a statement blamed the police for the disturbance, charging that in the last two months more than 30 NAS personnel have been beaten up but that Honolulu police have not arrested a single offender.

Singer told interviewers that for the past two months individuals and small groups of sailors returning to the station had been beaten up and robbed by civilians of the tract area.

Major Parties Involved

His cabinet must satisfy France's major parties—the Communists, Socialists, and Popular Republican Movement (MRP)—who are expected to get an equal number of portfolios. De Gaulle invited Socialist leader Felix Gouin, assembly president, and Communist leader Jacques Duclose to confer with him tomorrow.

His election, while generally anticipated, touched off a tumultous scene in the packed chamber of deputies where members of the assembly shouted "vive la republique" and sang "La Marseillaise," followed by a moment of silence in memory of France's war dead.

Indonesians And Dutch Believed Near Plan To Reach Settlement

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13—A face-saving device has been set up in Java which holds promise of ending the bloody struggle which Indonesian, Dutch and British elements have got into since Japan surrendered.

WHITE

The unrecognized Indonesian government abruptly has changed itself from an "American" to a "European" constitutional pattern.

The practical value of this is that it relegates to a parliamentary shelf the fire-breathing Dr. Soekarno, the Indonesian president whom the Dutch charge collaborated with Japan and whom they refuse to talk to.

Indonesians Save Face

This saves Dutch face, because the active head of Indonesian politics now is the new premier, Sutan Sjahrir, formerly a subordinate official in the native regime. He publicly regrets the violence that has occurred, talks like a moderate, and the Dutch presumably will be willing to negotiate with him.

Meanwhile Indonesian face is saved by retaining Soekarno as President, a post that now theoretically is stripped of executive power.

What may be more important in the long run, Soekarno's own face is saved.

Sought Settlement

The Indonesian government's quick-change act occurred against this background of important developments during the past ten days:

Acting Governor General Hubertus Van Mook, himself born in Java, began negotiations with Soekarno to reach a peaceful agreement which would end the bloody revolt and enable Dutch and Indonesians to live together again much as they did before the war, but under the framework of dominion status which the Dutch government has promised since 1942.

At this point the Dutch home government, which is regarded as liberal in Holland, decided its agent could not talk to Soekarno because of his unquestioned collaborationist activities.

Jap Arms Said Used

Indonesian violence broke out again, notably at Soerabaja and Magalang. The British, whose Indian troops had been brought in to police Java until Dutch forces could arrive, served an ultimatum to the Nationalists to lay down their arms.

The natives ignored this, however, and appealed in succession to the United States, Great Britain and Soviet Russia to intervene and stop the return of Dutch forces and colonial rule.

The British attacked Soerabaja in an unmistakable display of naval, aerial and artillery force. The Indonesians were found to be fighting with Japanese arms and to have considerable Japanese inspiration in one way or another.

This display of force was followed by the swift change-over in the face of the Indonesian government.
