

Incident Recorded Here For Third Year

Mysterious Mutilation Sparks Curiosity Again

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

With a recurrence of cattle mutilation reports over scattered portions of Texas the spectre of an unexplained phenomenon has surfaced once again this fall with part of that mystery seated firmly in Deaf Smith County.

The discovery of an apparently mutilated heifer last Thursday by Hereford stockman Gary Lemons put Deaf Smith County on the livestock mutilation map for the third straight year and has sparked renewed interest in a series of incidents here dating from 1978 in which livestock in the local area were mysteriously mutilated.

The latest livestock mutilation report stems from the discovery of a heifer on the Edgar Lemons farm six miles west of Hereford on the Harrison Highway, two miles north on FM 1057 and 3/4 miles west.

The animal was reportedly found last Thursday and authorities were notified when the owners of the heifer decided the wounds on the animal had not been caused by a predator.

According to a report filed by Sheriff's Deputy Bill Henderson, there were four areas on the heifer's carcass where tissue and meat were missing.

Henderson's report indicated that the rectum and udder of the heifer had been removed with a cut running up to a part of the hind quarter and down to the stomach. There was also an opening in the shoulder and brisket area as well as below the jaw.

According to Deaf Smith County Sheriff Travis McPherson, the female organs, tongue and heart of the heifer had been removed.

The latest report is similar in nature to a number of others which have been filed with the county sheriff's office over the past couple of years concerning mysterious mutilation of livestock.

In a number of those incidents the sex organs of livestock were removed in a fashion similar to that noted in the latest mutilation report.

Those observing the carcasses of several of those mutilated animals marvelled at the precise cuts and lack of blood surrounding the animals.

Mysterious livestock mutilation incidents first surfaced here in the fall of 1978.

On Sept. 24 of 1978 Chris Jacobsen notified sheriff's officers of the mutilation of a newborn calf after finding the animal on his farm four miles north of Bootleg Corner, west of Hereford, and one mile west of that area.

A circular incision had been made over the left hip of the bull calf and a precise rectangular incision was made to remove the calf's sexual organ.

On Sept. 26, 1978 county sheriff's officers investigated the apparent mutilation of a steer reported by Larry Sargent of Rt. 1, Hereford.

Officers found the dead steer near a fence line on a farm approximately five miles east and one mile south of Hereford.

The rectal area of the steer had been cut out and a large circular incision had been made in the abdomen, along with an oblong incision in the chest area. The steer's ears had also been removed. Investigating officers found no tracks near the carcass.

During the fall of 1978 a third case of livestock mutilation was also reported in the county, the only incident to involve a horse here.

Jau Don McCathern informed sheriff's officers that he found a mare on property seven miles east of Milo Center and that the sexual organs of the mare had been removed with precise cuts. The horse was found lying near a house in the area, but there were no tracks reported.

Adding to the air of mystery during the fall of 1978 here were reports from residents in the northwest part of the county indicating sightings of unusual lights, and additional reports of vehicles stalling inexplicably on rural roads in the northwest portion of the county.

Sheriff's officers investigated another possible mutilation incident August 23, 1979, involving two steers on pasture operated by John Perrin three miles west of the Simms community and one mile north.

The rectal area of both steers had been extracted and the sheath area on the underbelly of one of the steers had also been removed.

Investigating Deputy Dean Butcher reported that one of the steers also had damage to the head area between the eyes, indicating the possibility that the animal may have been shot.

McPherson reported that another incident in which a sheriff's office investigation was not sought involved a heifer (See MUTILATION, Page 2)

Commissioners Consider Tax District Budget

By JIM STEIERT
Managing Editor

Deaf Smith County commissioners heard an additional presentation on a proposed telephone system for the numerous county offices in the courthouse, discussed the tentative budget for the central tax appraisal district here and also opted to continue advertising for applicants for Bull Barn manager during a regular session held Monday morning.

Commissioners also approved the use of the Bull Barn by the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce for housing pheasant hunters during the opening weekend of the season Dec. 12 and 13.

In a matter which consumed much of the morning, representatives of Fisk

Telephone Systems of Amarillo spoke to commissioners on a PBX computerized telephone system for the courthouse, claiming that such a setup will save the county money over present operations, and that the firm could save the county money on its phone bills even if a system similar to the one presently in use were installed by the firm.

Miller Settlemyer of Fisk informed commissioners that turnkey cost for the proposed computerized phone system would be $44,521 and compared his figures to figures posted by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. for a revamped phone system for the courthouse.

Commissioners emphasized their confusion over many of the items presented by the

Fisk representatives during a marathon commentary, however, and Precinct 3 Commissioner Bruce Coleman informed Settlemyer at the end of his commentary, "We want to know dollar figures and cost comparison and get down to a bottom line figure on one sheet of paper."

Other commission members agreed and the Fisk representatives agreed to provide such figures based on the county's present courthouse phone system as well as on the proposed computerized system for a future commission meeting.

Mike Carr of the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce appeared before commissioners to request the use of the Bull Barn to house pheasant hunters who will use their own cots and bedrolls, due to available accomodations in Hereford being booked up for the opening weekend of pheasant season.

Carr explained that the Chamber will provide additional liability insurance coverage for the Bull Barn area for the function, and that the Chamber will also be responsible for supervision and maintenance at the Bull Barn.

According to Carr, a total of 45 hunters have already requested accommodation in some location where they could put down a bedroll and be protected from the weather.

County fathers approved the Chamber request for use of the Bull Barn to house the hunters on Dec. 12 and 13.

Billie Ham addressed commissioners on the child welfare program, requesting the commissioners to support the efforts of the Texas Council of Child Welfare Boards to obtain additional personnel and funding from the state legislature during its next session.

Mrs. Ham pointed to personnel and funding cuts in the Department of Human Resources, and explained that the number of workers in the local area was reduced from three to two.

"Our caseworker has 42 cases to handle and ideally caseworkers should only have to handle about 30 each. The Child Welfare Council wants enough workers hired so that the case load per worker will only be 36 instead of the average of 40 that we have now. We need upgrading of the whole system," she stated.

Mrs. Ham cited the county commission for its concern for the welfare of children in the county, stated, "We are fortunate to have you. There are commissioners in other portions of the state who are not nearly so concerned about the welfare of the children."

Mrs. Ham provided commissioners with figures indicating that child welfare workers numbered 1,452 in 1977 in Texas and now total 1,004, representing a cut in staff of 31 percent. She also presented figures claiming underfunding for child welfare work and staff ceilings.

"We're asking the county commission's support as we seek more staff and funding," she explained.

Commissioners focused their attention on the proposed budget for the central tax appraisal and collection of office here and the preliminary figures showing the amount of funding for which the county will be responsible.

Fred Fox, chief appraiser, reported that the basic budget for the district will total approximately $216,332 excluding income from the state.

The county's portion of the tentative budget, according to Fox's presentation, will amount to $54,169.65 or 25.04 percent.

Fox also commented on some adjustments which will probably have to be made to the tentative budget, indicating that a budgeted $1,500 for education of tax office personnel will likely not (See COMMISSION, Page 2)

Spending Cut Bill Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats on the House Budget Committee want to give President-elect Ronald Reagan the opportunity — and the obligation — to live up to his campaign pledge of cutting federal spending.

Rep. Robert N. Giaino, D-Conn., the committee chairman, said he would introduce today an across-the-board 2 percent spending cut as part of the binding federal budget ceiling for fiscal 1981.

It would be up to Reagan to decide how to make the cuts after he takes office in January.

"Adoption of my amendment would allow the new president the opportunity to present his proposed cuts to the new Congress in January," Giaino said Monday. "If he were unable to achieve these cuts, presumably he would ask for an increase in the spending ceiling."

But Giaino said the action was not intended to embarrass Reagan, who pledged during his campaign to cut spending.

"I'm not interested in calling the president's bluff," Giaino said. "I'm interested in getting control of spending....I'm not trying to be vindictive."

Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., a contender to replace the retiring Giaino as committee chairman in the next Congress, called the 2 percent cut "quite a chunk for the new administration to come in and meet."

But, Jones added, "they're (the Republicans) going to have to govern some now...they don't have a free ride anymore."

Jones was asked if the cut was aimed at "calling

Reagan's bluff" on spending cuts or if it was just a response to the election results. "I'll take the latter," he said, laughing.

Although fiscal 1981 began Oct. 1, Congress has yet to approve a binding budget resolution, as required by its rules.

A draft of the budget resolution drawn up by the committee staff calls for a $648.7 billion budget with a deficit of $38.4 billion.

But Giaino called the projected deficit, based primarily on spending bills already passed by the House, clearly "unacceptable to many if not to most members of Congress."

He said his amendment would reduce the deficit $13 billion by cutting all federal spending — except defense — by 2 percent.

That staff projection is based on a tax cut of $30 billion to $32 billion, compared with the pending $39.8 billion reduction proposed by the Senate Finance Committee and endorsed by Reagan.

The committee met in advance of the post-election congressional session that begins Wednesday in order to have a budget resolution ready for quick action.

The Senate Budget Committee has drawn up a binding budget calling for spending $633 billion, with a deficit of $17.9 billion. It leaves no room for a tax cut.

The 1974 Budget Act calls for congressional passage of the binding budget resolution by mid-September, in anticipation of the Oct. 1 start of the federal government's fiscal year. But that timetable became bogged down in election-year politics.

Iraq Threatens To Destroy Iran

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Iraqi President Saddam Hussein threatened Iran with destruction if it did not surrender its claim to the disputed waterway between the two countries, but Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr claimed his forces have "effectively stopped" the Iraqi invaders.

"We were not happy to see Iran destroyed (before). But since Iran became our enemy, we shall be very happy to see it destroyed," Hussein said Monday in response to written questions from more than 150 journalists.

"We may find it necessary to increase twisting Iran's arm until we wrench our rights," he said. "If the amount is not sufficient, we shall exceed it to the limit until they are ready to negotiate..."

"No matter how long the war takes, we are prepared for it. We are ready for future battles next year or in two years."

Kuwaiti newspapers said Hussein was sending Vice Premier Tarek Aziz to Moscow to seek arms, spare parts and ammunition under (See IRAQ, Page 2)

Rites Held Monday For Accident Victim

Funeral services were held Monday at St. Joseph's Catholic Church for Edmond Ramirez, 14-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ismael Ramirez of 138 Ave. I.

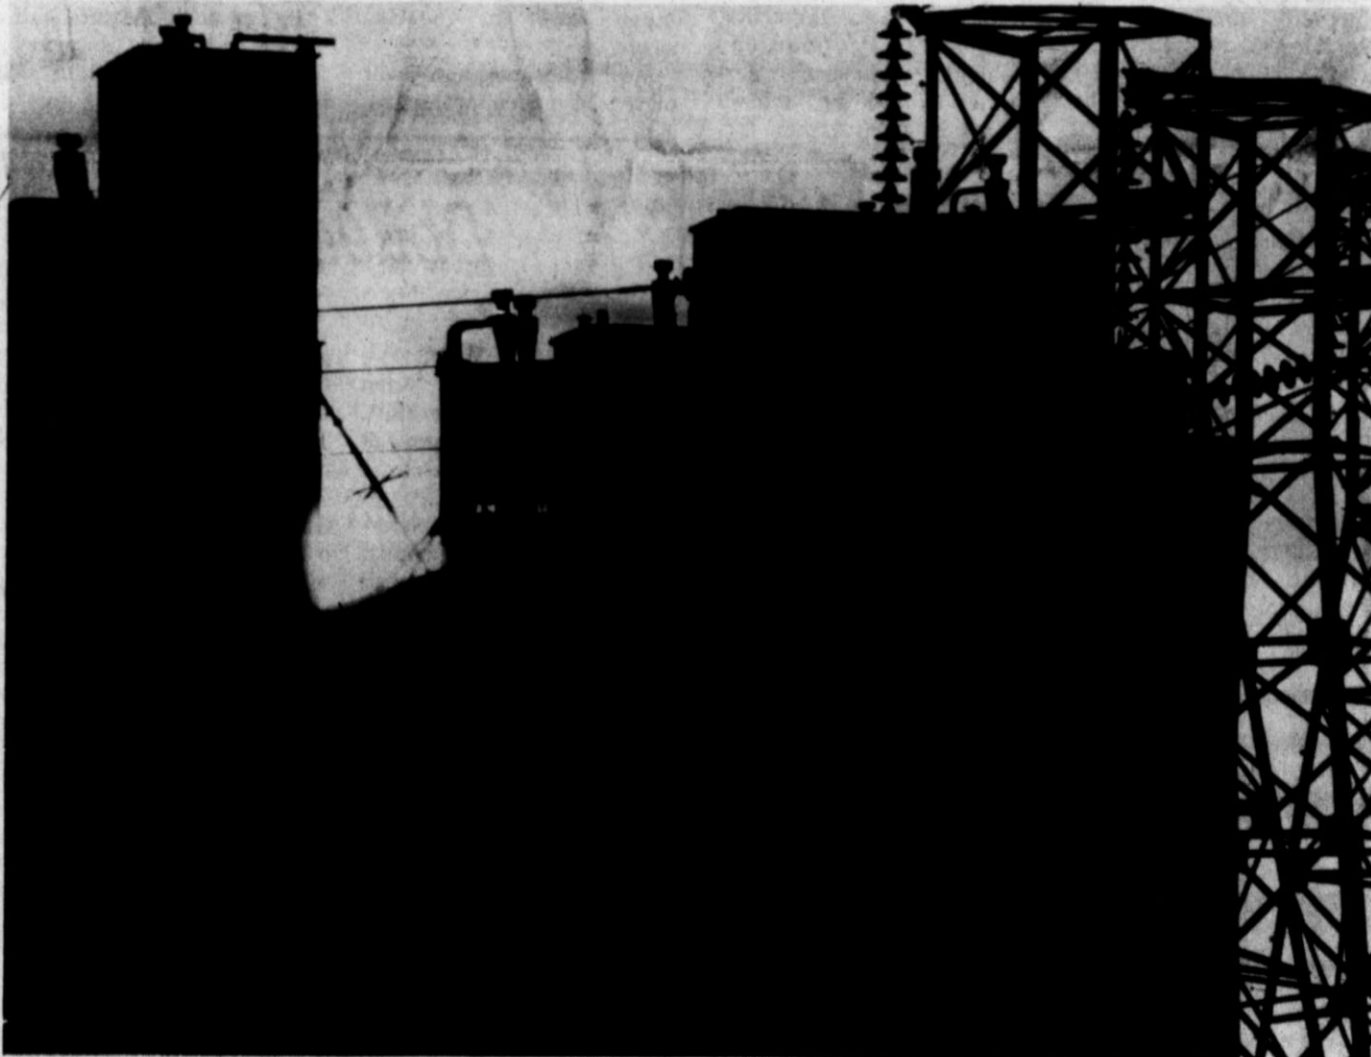

The child died Saturday at Deaf Smith General Hospital following a Saturday afternoon accident in which he was apparently run over by his father while backing out of the driveway of his home.

According to Hereford police reports the family had been playing in the yard on the south side of their home and went inside.

The father then got into his pickup and apparently struck the child while backing out.

Rev. James O'Connor, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church here officiated at yesterday's services for the child and burial was in St. Anthony's Cemetery under the direction of Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home.

In addition to his parents the child is survived by two brothers, Antonio and Michael; a sister, Vicki; three grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Figueroa and Mrs. Consuelo Ramirez, all of Hereford; and his great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Quierino Hernandez of Mexico and Mrs. Severa Ramiro of Midland.

Profiles Of Power

Two important power sources for the Panhandle are silhouetted against the sky, part of familiar surroundings of Hereford. The towers of the electrical substation in the foreground represent the immediate energy that can be obtained with the flick of a switch, power that is important to the operation of the grain elevators in the background. But the towering elevators are the storehouse of power of their own. Piled high inside is locally-grown grain, which has trapped the energy of the sun and transformed it into a readily-used form of power as food. (Brand photo by Mauri Montgomery)

U.S. Pledges Non-Interference

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — The United States replied to Iran's terms for release of the 52 American hostages with a pledge not to interfere in Iranian affairs and an explanation of obstacles to meeting the other conditions set by Iran's revolutionary regime, U.S. officials say.

Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher delivered the American reply Monday to Algerian Foreign Minister Mohamed Benyahia for transmission to the Iranian government in Tehran. Christopher flew to Algiers with Deputy Treasury Secretary Robert Carswell and three other U.S. officials from Washington. They planned to remain in the Algerian capital to await Iran's response.

It was assumed that the text of the U.S. reply was forwarded to Tehran within hours of Christopher's one-hour meeting with Benyahia. But early today there had been no comment from Radio Tehran.

Although the contents of the U.S. message were kept secret, officials in Washington summed them up in general terms.

They said along with the pledge to stay out of Iran's affairs, given repeatedly in recent months by President Carter and other U.S. spokesmen, the note explained the legal obstacles to meeting the Iranian demands for cancellation of all American claims against Iran and the return to Iran of all assets the late Shah

Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and close relatives transferred abroad.

The fourth condition called for the freeing of more than $8 billion in Iranian assets frozen by President Carter. U.S. officials have said there will be no difficulty in canceling the freeze order, but several billions of the assets are also blocked by legal claims by American firms and individuals against Iran.

"We would like to be as positive as possible, but they have to understand the legal and other complications," one official who asked not to be identified told The Associated Press.

"Generally, it's a positive response," he added. "It's hard to say what flexibility, if any, there is in the Iranian position. Also, how much will there be to end the thing."

Qualified sources said the U.S. reply was "long, detailed and complex."

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said Christopher delivered it in person "to explain to the government of Algeria several complex legal and financial aspects."

Officials in Washington said one of the American mission's principal tasks was to try to find out if the Iranians planned to release the hostages if the terms were accepted or planned to hold them until the conditions were actually met, as the Majlis specified.

Algerian officials said their government's only interest was to facilitate a solution to the hostage crisis.

Steelworker

Plunges 45 Feet

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — A 29-year-old steelworker plunged 45 feet to his death when his safety rope was burned through as he worked on the fourth floor of a building under construction, officials said.

Lanny Carroll Dykes of Orange was welding Monday on the northern face of the Edison Plaza building, being built for Gulf States Utilities Co., said project supervisor Jeff Evans.

Witnesses working nearby said Dykes had cut a hole through a steel beam and tied his security rope through the hole.

"Unbeknownst to him, the hole was still hot," said Evans, and the heated metal burned through the rope.

Dykes suffered massive head injuries in the fall and was dead on arrival at a Beaumont hospital, officials said.

An employee of Lafayette Steel Co., Dykes was the third worker to be injured since construction began on the site.

One man suffered minor injuries when he fell among some steel pilings on the ground and another fell one floor from the 10th construction level two months ago, also suffering minor injuries.

Soldier Killed

In Demonstration

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A Fort Bliss soldier was killed Monday when the Soviet-made grenade launcher he was demonstrating exploded.

Pvt. Carl Roberts McCuan, 20, of Lavonia, Mich., died instantly when the launcher exploded as it was fired at Dona Ana Range 43, on Fort Bliss property near the White Sands Missile Range.

McCuan had volunteered to fire the shoulder antitank weapon before about 60 soldiers of the Third Armored Cavalry Regiment, said Lt. Col. Edward McDonald.

The demonstration, about 2 p.m., was part of a training program for U.S. soldiers to become familiar with weapons of Soviet bloc countries in Eastern Europe, McDonald said.

The rocket-propelled grenade, which closely resembles a bazooka and is known as RPG in the military, was to be launched under the supervision of a senior instructor and an officer in charge of the range, McDonald said.

Governor Predicts

Population Boom

DALLAS (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements predicts Texas' population will increase 50 percent in the next 20 years and warned the Texas Municipal League to prepare for the people boom.

"Are we going to have enough schools, water systems, public utility systems, roads for these people?" Clements asked the group Monday. "How can we meet that challenge and still maintain the same quality of life we're used to now?"

The first long-range plan for state development, "Texas 2000," will be a major consideration for the 1981 Legislature, Clements said during the opening day of the group's 68th annual conference here.

"The only plan we've had up to now is the two-year budget," the governor said. "I've felt it's terribly important that we have a longer-range plan."

The plan, formulated by experts in various fields 15 months ago, should "guide the state in the right direction," Clements said.

"This way, we're not just falling out of bed and saying, 'What's the issue today?'" he said, noting the state's population is expected to increase from 13.4 million to 21 million by the year 2000.

Education, however, will remain the "No. 1 priority" for next year's Legislature, Clements added.

"We need to restore a sense of discipline to the classroom. We need better communication, coordination and cooperation between teachers, administrators and school boards," he said.

Policeman Fired

For Sexual Relations

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas policeman who led a law enforcement Explorer program for teen-agers has been fired for having sexual relations with a 17-year-old girl enrolled in the program, department officials said.

Two other officers were placed on suspension after the girl said she had sexual encounters with them, said police public information officer Bob Shaw.

After a month-long investigation into the allegations, Police Chief Glen King fired Robert Chanslor, 38, for violating a position of public trust in his role as advisor to the Explorer group by having sexual relations with the girl in off-duty hours, Shaw said.

Two other officers said they engaged in "heavy petting" with the girl when she accompanied them on patrol as an Explorer observer, police said.

Jerry Rhodes, 29, a 7-year veteran of the force was suspended for five days and Brian McGuire, 28, an 18-month member, was suspended for three days, police said.

The actions came to light in departmental orders Monday.

Shaw said the girl admitted the liaisons prior to taking a polygraph test when she applied for appointment as a regular police cadet last month.

Lt. Jack Faulkner, a spokesman for the police internal affairs division, said the encounters started about a month after the girl joined the Explorer's program at the Northeast division.

Chanslor admitted taking the girl to his apartment and the apartment of a friend and engaging in oral sex with her, Faulkner said. He said no criminal charges would be filed since the girl is of legal age of consent and refuses to sign a complaint.

However, no decision has been reached on her cadet application, he said.

be enough and that another $500 to $1,000 will have to be added for education. A budget hearing is set for 2 p.m. Nov. 17 at city hall.

Commissioners granted their approval to an expenditure of $191.15 to pay the expenses of Vance Crum as he attends an appraisal course at Frank Phillips College in order to prepare for a role with the central taxing office here.

Commissioners reviewed applications for the post of Bull Barn custodian Monday afternoon prior to opting to continue advertising for applications, and to define more clearly the responsibilities which will go with the post of Bull Barn manager.

Commission members voted to table consideration of a contract with Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. for revamping of the county courthouse phone system pending further information on an alternative system.

County fathers also focused attention on the old Central School building, discussing the possibility of locating some of the offices for the Department of Human Resources there.

Commission members were informed that such a move might relieve some of the congestion at the courthouse, opening up a total of 11 offices presently used by 15 DHR employees here.

Action on the matter was tabled, however, for further consideration and pending a discussion with the building inspector and the city fire marshal following a recommendation by Commissioners Coleman and James Voyles.

Ma Bell Implementing Rate Hike Anyway

Southwestern Bell will implement increased rates under bond today but he increases will be significantly smaller than amounts requested by the company in its original rate filing.

The rate increases under bond will total $152.8 million. The company's request is for $326.3 million.

The rates put into effect under bond amount to about 47 percent of the company's request. The bonded rates will roughly parallel the PUC staff recommendation of $152.8 million made early in the hearings.

"We've documented a need for $326.3 million," said Paul Roth, vice president revenues and public affairs for Texas. "In no way do we concede that we ened any less. However, we feel that the staff recommendation is a good reference point for implementing temporary rates to provide some relief until a final decision is reached."

The bonded rates will be in effect until the Texas Public Utility Commission makes a final decision on the full rate request. Based on its final ruling, the PUC could order the company to make customer refunds, with interest, on some or all the bonded rates.

A continuing need for additional revenues prompted the Southwestern Bell decision to put in rates under bond, said Roth.

"We'd prefer to have a final decision before implementing any rates," Roth said. "However, a PUC determination apparently will not be made for several weeks. Meanwhile, our need for increased rates has not diminished. Inflation continues at high levels, offsetting our gains in expense savings and sales. Interest rates are above our earnings level. We still are investing huge sums to meet the needs of a growing Texas.

Bell claims the effect on residential customers will be slight. Under the temporary rate schedule, a one-party flat rate residential customer using a standard rotary dial telephone will face a total monthly increase of 80 cents, based on a 30-cent increase for the access line and a 50-cent increase for the instrument.

Rates for two, four and eight-party basic residential service will increase in the range of 65 to 70 cents per month, based on varying access line increases of 15 to 30 cents and 50 cents for a standard rotary dial telephone.

One-party flat business rates will increase in a range of 85 cents to $1.30 per month in most locations, based on access line increases of 35 to 80 cents and 50 cents for a standard rotary dial. In Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and San Antonio, only the instrument increase will apply to one-party business rates.

Four and eight-party business rates will increase from 60 to 90 cents per month, depending on location including the 50-cent instrument increase and varying access line increases of 10 to 40 cents.

The monthly TouchTone line rate also will increase by 20 cents for residences and 25 cents for businesses. The additional TouchTone line charge must be added to any monthly increases for access lines and instruments.

One time charges for moving or installing telephones will vary, depending on work requested by the customer.

Rather Gets 'Taken for Ride'

CHICAGO (AP) — CBS newsmen Dan Rather has "been in and out of Chicago taxicabs" plenty of times, but this time he says he had some trouble getting out.

Rather than take the veteran reporter where he wanted to go, a cabbie allegedly refused to let him out and raced south on Lake Shore Drive at speeds up to 75 mph until an off-duty corrections officer forced him to the curb.

The driver, identified as Eugene Phillips, 38, of Chicago, was charged Monday with disorderly conduct and refusing to let a passenger out. He was released on $35 bond, police said.

Phillips said later he hadn't recognized Rather, who will succeed Walter Cronkite as CBS News anchorman next year, and refused to let a passenger out because Rather wouldn't pay his fare. In a television interview, he said keeping a non-paying customer in the cab was "standard procedure."

But it looked out of the ordinary to the off-duty Cook County Corrections Department officer who saw Rather "screaming and waving" and pursued the speeding cab.

Rather called the incident "a very minor thing."

"I've been in and out of Chicago taxicabs seemingly most of my life. Most of the time it's not a problem," he said in an interview with WBBM-TV, a CBS-owned station.

The incident began when Rather caught a cab at O'Hare International Airport and asked to go to the home of author Studs Terkel near Lake Shore Drive. Rather was to interview Terkel for a segment of the "60 Minutes" news program, said Jack Smith, Midwest bureau chief for CBS News.

Smith quoted Rather as saying the driver became "verbally abusive" during the ride and refused to turn off Lake Shore Drive when Rather pointed out his destination.

Corrections officer Marthine Lee was driving to work at the Cook County jail complex when she saw the taxi racing south.

"The passenger seemed extremely agitated," said Miss Lee, 30. At first she thought it was "probably just another tipsy passenger" until she noticed he was "screaming and waving" at every car.

The cabbie allegedly failed to stop when Miss Lee flashed her badge, so she and an unidentified driver began chasing the cab, forcing it to the curb several minutes later, six miles south of Rather's intended destination.

Fires Rage

By The Associated Press

Facing dozens of forest fires and at least four more days without rain, National Guardsmen, state employees and Army soldiers from Fort Knox were battling blazes in eastern Kentucky and West Virginia today.

More than 35,000 acres — 55 square miles — has burned since Friday, officials said.

Arsonists were believed responsible for most of the fires. Officials said deer hunters and squirrel hunters often burn brush to flush out their quarry. Ralph Glover of the West Virginia Department of Natural Resources also blamed "people mad at landowners or people who just like to see fire burn."

The fires include five uncontrolled blazes in the Daniel Boone National Forest in eastern Kentucky, and two in West Virginia that consumed more than 9,000 acres of mountain timber.

"We've got them popping up all over," said Chuck Hedglin of the Kentucky Forestry Division.

Other than a few "sprains and strains" among the firefighters, no injuries have been reported from the fires and no evacuations have been needed, said Charles Prather at the Forestry Division Office in Frankfort.

ting and raving and cussing us out" and complaining his passenger had not paid the fare, said Miss Lee.

Phillips said he and his passenger began arguing because Phillips was having trouble getting to the address.

When they finally arrived, Phillips said Rather refused to pay the fare until he saw Phillips' license. But the driver said he couldn't produce the license because he had surrendered it pending a traffic court appearance. He was permitted to drive "on a ticket," or temporary license, until the hearing.

After trying unsuccessfully to collect the fare again, Phillips said he sped toward his garage.

$1000 Theft of Copper Wire Reported by Electrical Firm

Hereford police have two suspects in the theft of approximately $1,000 worth of copper wire from a local electrical firm.

Brandon & Clark Electric informed police that four rolls of copper wire were apparently taken sometime Monday and officers were expected to make an arrest in connection with that incident sometime today.

A total of $100 worth of hubcaps were reported stolen from Walker Used Cars here over the weekend and investigation of that theft is continuing.

Officers found a broken window at Advance TV Service, 108 Ave. E but found that no entry had been made to the firm during the weekend and logged the matter as an incident of vandalism.

Two employees of High

Plains Laboratory apparently foiled a burglary attempt Friday night when they drove up in front of the local business and found two individuals trying to gain entry. The individuals fled upon spotting the headlights of the car driven by the employees.

An employee at Taco Villa on West Highway 60 told police that she was cleaning the dining room area at that business Saturday night when she looked out the window and spotted a naked man. The individual fled when she screamed.

A domestic disturbance which occurred here over the weekend at the Elm Court remains under investigation. The complainant in that incident reported that her husband slapped her in the face and knocked her down. Officers arrested a suspect on charges of unlawfully carrying a weapon and possession of marijuana Sunday at 2 a.m.

A complainant at 1105 Grand reported that he heard someone in the back yard at his residence during the weekend and upon investigation spotted a black man trying to enter a rent house at the back of the property. The complainant yelled at the suspect and he fled down an alley.

A complainant at 403 Blevins reported that someone broke two windows and tore the screen door off her home sometime during the weekend.

Officers also investigated the report of a fight at Allsup's Convenience Store, 112 North 385 during the weekend and made four arrests for public drunkenness and one for DWI.

The Most Dangerous

Place is Home

Wasn't that a sobering survey the other day, when a thousand of our foreign service officers were asked about worldwide terrorism.

You and I had assumed that America's overseas diplomatic and consular personnel would be scared witless by the rampant terrorism, kidnapping, kidnapping.

But — and overwhelmingly — the diplomats agreed the most dangerous assignment is Washington, D.C.

They fear greater danger from muggers than from terrorists.

They feel safer overseas than at home!

The number one cause of death among males in New York City is murder. Most Americans are so frightened that they have obtained guns, legally or otherwise, to protect themselves, their families, their property.

A study of three cities — Chicago, Philadelphia and San Francisco — shows that fear of crime is beginning to paralyze American society.

Americans don't have to be more than middle-age to remember when houses were left unlocked, cars were left unlocked.

Now Northwestern University's study on this subject reveals that six out of ten people dress plainly, without significant jewelry to void notice by criminals. Nine out of ten refuse to open locked doors until the visitor identifies himself. Seven out of ten keep car doors locked even while riding in them!

The national study of attitudes reveals that 40 percent of all Americans are now "highly fearful" of becoming victims of murder, rape, robbery, assault.

Significantly, the increased fear of crime has outstripped the increased incidence of crime.

This could reflect the movies and television programs which focus on crime, especially those that focus on the brutalization of women.

These shock films are a double-barreled menace. They compound the paranoia of potential victims and they whet the appetites of the sick sadists.

Most law enforcement officials relate most increased crime to the increased use of drugs. In Chicago, where a community group called the Back of the Yards Council has been waging all-out war on drug traffic, there is measurably less crime, less fear than in some of the more affluent neighborhoods of the city.

The pendulum of public opinion is swinging back in favor of stricter law enforcement. Two out of three people questioned favor giving police more power to question suspects.

Most Americans now favor increased police protection, even at the cost of higher taxes.

Nine out of ten Americans want stiffer prison sentences for violent criminals.

And an unprecedented half of all Americans surveyed now favor sterilization of chronic sex criminals.

At Wits End

By ERMA BOMBECK

I don't cheat on my income tax.
I don't lie about my age on my driver's license.
I don't tell my dentist I floss when I don't.
So how come I have trouble looking honest?
Ever see me going through customs? You can't miss me. I always look like a poodle who has just missed the paper.
I contend you can always tell when a person is lying. He looks you directly in the eyes and with a sincerity that belongs in the pulpit says, "You can believe me." Maybe it's because people have more riding on a lie than they do on the truth.

I try too hard with the truth ... especially when I bear the burden of it.

When my husband asks, "How did that dent get in the car door?" I approach the car like a bullfighter with irregularities...a little stiff-legged, a little hesitant. Don't be too quick to find the spot...nor too dumb to recognize it when you see it. Now, run fingers over it slowly, clear throat, and say in an even voice, "I don't know. This is the first time I've noticed it. Who could have done such a thing? I didn't do it! I certainly would have remembered. Did someone say I did it? They lie!"

Don't talk too much. Go for more indignation. "That's a terrible thing to do and then run." Look him in the eyes. He's getting suspicious. "I suppose I could have done it, but..." Ten minutes later, I am making a full confession for something I didn't do."

I've seen honest people wrestle with the problem for years - people who fell like Jack the Ripper because they mistook a $1 for a $5 when they paid their bill, or who were stopped going through airport security for a piece of foil wrapped around their gum.

My Armageddon occurs when my charge is called in for verification. It only takes three or four hours, but it seems longer. First, I try to look bored like it's just a formality. Then in a move of self-assuredness I begin arranging the package under my arm like it's only a matter of seconds. When the salesperson is not looking at me, I search for eyes for some sign of panic or mistrust. My eyes lack coordination (like Marty Feldman) and my throat becomes dry. Sometimes I hum. If I have to go to the credit office, will I make a joke out of it or pass out?

Honesty ... it's painful. Trust me. You have to believe that...

Ann Landers

Stop and Think

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a brakeman on the Union Pacific. I want to express my gratitude for that letter from the suburban mother who was in a hurry and decided to beat the train. After she made it, she realized what a fool she had been to take such a chance.

Please, Ann, make it plain to your readers that a train can't stop on a dime. Sometimes there are tons of freight behind that engine. A heavily loaded train going 60 miles an hour needs at least two miles to come to a halt. How I wish the public would give some thought to the crew on a train that hits a car and kills several people. It happened to me once - a station wagon loaded with kids. I had to take two months off work to get my mental health back. I still have nightmares about it, and it happened four years ago.

I'm sure I speak for every railroad employee in the country when I say thank you, Ann Landers, for making so many people stop and think. - Reno, Nev.

DEAR RENO: That's what I'm here for, but it's nice to know I'm appreciated. Thanks for telling me.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been married for nearly 10 months to a man I cannot understand. I don't want you to publish his real name, so I will call him Arnie.

Arnie was married once before he met me. That marriage was annulled. No children were involved. He has a bad liver condition, arthritis in his legs and some prostate problems. Also he has failed in business a couple of times. The only thing Arnie mentioned before our marriage was his liver condition.

The problem is sex. This man has no interest in it whatsoever. When I tell him a normal woman cannot live a full life without sex, he tells me I am out of my mind and that I should think about something else for a change. In other words, he makes me out to be the crazy one.

I have begged Arnie to see a marriage counselor or discuss this problem with a doctor. He says, "I don't have a problem ... YOU do." Well, I guess he is right. I sure do have a problem, and I would like you to tell me what to do about it. - Valley Press Reader In Van Nuys, Calif.

DEAR VALLEY: Since Arnie refuses to see a doctor and a counselor, you should see a lawyer. If you were married in the Catholic church you might consider talking to a priest about an annulment.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband went to work for this new company two months ago, and we were new in Cleveland. Last night he told me he has to go to an office party a week from Friday night. It seems one of the vice presidents is getting married, and "the gang" is going to throw a bash.
I resent the company having a social affair that does not include wives and husbands of employees. My husband says he is going regardless, and that I should "grow up." I have told him if he goes to that party it will be that straw that broke the camel's back.
I would like to see this letter in print, along with your comments. - Plenty Anonymous

DEAR PLENTY: That camel must have a pretty weak back, Lady.
I agree parties that exclude mates are not the greatest way to promote family solidarity, but if it's the company policy, you should be a good sport about it.

"Sexual freedom" presents a difficult decision for teenagers and their parents. Ann Landers offers down-to-earth advice in her new

WOODHAVEN HANDBELL RINGERS
...In Concert Thursday

Woodhaven Handbell Ringers Schedule Hereford Concert

The Woodhaven Handbell Ringers, students from the Woodhaven Learning Center, will be in concert Thursday, at the First Christian Church, 401 W. Park Ave., at 7:30 p.m.

The students are mentally retarded and attend the school which is located in Columbia, Mo. The students have been working with the bells since 1972.

Woodhaven received a set of handbells as a gift from a Christian Church in Florida, and began to experiment with ways to use them with their young people. Several methods were tried, and finally one was adopted.

Their first presentation came after only three rehearsals when they played "Row, Row, Row Your Boat" for the Woodhaven Board. Since that time, they have increased their concert to a full hour with a variety of modern, religious, and inspirational songs. The program also includes vocal solos, piano solo, and a number on the musical saw.

The Woodhaven Handbell Ringers, under the direction of the Reverend Stanley Williams, Chaplain, have presented concerts in many towns throughout Missouri, and have traveled from Coast to Coast, from North to South, and to Canada.

In the summer of 1973, the Handbell Choir was invited to play several numbers for Julie Nixon Eisenhower in the White House. The group was given a full tour of the White House and played in the State Dining Room for Julie and some other White House Staff.

In October of 1977 they played for the General Assembly of the Christian Churches in Kansas City, and in June of 1978 played for the Christian Women's Fellowship Quadrennial at Purdue University. In 1979 found them playing for the NBA Banquet at the General Assembly in St. Louis.

For the past two years, they have played a Christmas program at the Governor's Mansion in Jefferson City, Mo.

Correction

In the Nov. 9 issue of the Hereford Brand it was incorrectly reported the Genealogical Society would sponsor a dance Nov. 14. The club will not sponsor a dance at this time. The Brand regrets this error.

Preparing for Future

By AGNES TAYLOR
County Extension Agent

Between now and the year 2000 the world must learn to produce as much food as it has learned to produce since the beginning of time. By the turn of the century there will be an estimated two mouths to feed for every one mouth being fed today.

Supplying enough food and fiber to meet future needs will not be an easy job. It will require more and better research and technology, more efficient use of land and energy, and improved crop protection methods.

Young people in the national 4-H agricultural program supported by International Harvester Co. may one day play a key role in helping to feed the world of the 21st century. Many of these 4-H members may decide to apply their 4-H training and experience in choosing careers in agriculture, a broad and dynamic industry that employs directly or indirectly almost a third of the U.S. labor force.

The 4-H agricultural program is conducted by the Extension Service for boys and girls 9-19. The program encourages 4-H'ers to "learn-by-doing" the skills and practices that make for more efficient, profitable farming and ranching.

4-H agricultural projects and activities range from animals and poultry to plants and soils; energy, machines and equipment; and ecology and natural resources. Young people enroll in one or more of these areas to gain experience and keep up to date on new and improved practices.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion or national origin.

Life Seminar Continues

A family life film seminar sponsored by the Temple Baptist Church continues tonight with the film "Overcoming fear, anxiety and worry."

The film will begin at 7 p.m. according to J.L. Bozeman, pastor of the church. This will be the third film in a series of four dealing with different areas of family life.

Tim and Beverly LaHaye narrate the four films citing examples in their own lives as well as people they have counseled.

Beverly LaHaye will narrate tonight's film. According to a review of the film "Having spent many years with the burdens of fear in her own life, Beverly shares the trauma of anxiety and the joy of overcoming."

Wednesday's film which begins at 7 p.m. will be "Six keys to marital happiness," narrated by Dr. LaHaye.

Dr. LaHaye describes how to have the happy and fulfilled marriage God intended people to have.

To Be Or Not To Be? That Is The Question

"TO BE OR NOT TO BE? That is the question. Whether 'tis nobler to suffer the dire straights of a 13-13 mark in this week's Fearless Forecaster competition, or merely take arms against that sea of motley opponents pitted before me each outing."

Okay Shakespeare! You're so smart, let's see you answer that one you small-minded 17th century writer of other people's tragic business. Actually, I shouldn't be so hard on 'Old Shaky'.

Aggies, Hogs Battle

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Texas A&M Coach Tom Wilson says his Aggies and the Arkansas Razorbacks have at least two things in common: both teams have been riddled with injuries this year and both are using very young players. "Both of us have suffered a lot of injuries and are playing young people," Wilson said at his weekly news conference Monday. "Both are inexperienced on both offense and defense.

"Arkansas has an edge in the kicking game, and that is something we must offset. We're working hard to eliminate our mistakes on the kicking game."

Wilson said he was delighted to have four experienced players back from the sick bay, but added that the Aggies still are so crippled by injury he was forced to cancel Monday's junior varsity game against Cisco Junior College.

"We just don't have enough players to play that game," he said. "We're using all of our young players in the varsity game."

Senior David Beal, who has been nursing a fractured wrist the past three weeks, will be the starting quarterback Saturday when the Aggies meet Arkansas in Fayetteville, said Wilson.

"Beal returned to practice last week," he said. "In a scrimmage Friday against a strong defense, he took the first offense 65 yards for touchdowns on three of four possessions."

Wilson said sophomore Gary Kubiak, the starter in losses to Rice and Southern Methodist while Beal was healing, will be the backup quarterback against Arkansas.

The starting quarterback when the season began, senior Mike Mosley, was demoted to third-string safety following a confrontation with Wilson on the sidelines during A&M's 41-21 rout of Texas Tech in early October, Mosley has told reporters.

PUBLISHER SPEEDY NIEMAN surprised the whole Fearless panel this week after sharing the lead for best guesses with highly TOUTED James STOUT at 15-11. But his effort in making a better appearance and establishing some credibility was somewhat like aircraft designer McDonnell-Douglas' upgraded public relations commercials. The commercial says that this DC-10 flies to Europe and that one flies from Los Angeles to New York, but what they don't tell you is the wings fall off of their airplanes in mid-flight.

Even with his advantageous 15-11 mark for a continuing 63 percentile, Speedy still has a shadow of doubt cast over his performance. In essence, when O.G. Nieman talks football predictions - no one listens!

James Stout has yet to mutter a discouraging word. He's a real Texan who has seen the buffalo roam and the antelope play. He unfortunately has also seen a relentless rise from the depths each week, and as a result makes my Shakespearean free-lance writing career loom closer and closer. With the 15-11 tally he recorded a week past, he has jaunted to a 64 percentile as the third highest member on the staff.

ON THE OTHER END OF THE SCALE were the three Marx Brothers. Groucho - that was me even though the magic marker hadn't helped my mustache look any wider. Harpo - that was Big Bad Okie Bob Nigh who had dyed his hair from blonde to black after a frosting permanent had gone amuck. He had the right kind of mustache to be Groucho, but lacked the quick-witted intelligence to fill the billing. And last but not least was Chico - Mayor Bartley Dowell. He was the member that always kept the other two out of trouble, but he failed to do so this go around.

ALL THREE OF US POSTED EVEN scrolls of 13-13 as perfect examples of what not to be when one grew up. Dowell sent the guest forecasters to perhaps their lowest percentage of the year at 68 percent while Nigh wheeled to a percentile of 65, and I slithered by at 66 percent correct.

I might add that this week's football contestants need to "GET THEE AWAY FROM LOW MARKS AND SET THYSELF'S TO DO WORSE THAN THY FEARLESS FORECASTER'S TRAGIC WORKS."

Susan Crosby of 112 Ave. H missed a meager sum of seven games to lead all other contestants in a 300 competitor field as this week's contest winner.

Larry Cook and Max Goforth missed eight games apiece, but Cook took second after coming closest to the Chicago 35 vs. Washington 21 tiebreaker guess with 36. Goforth posted a guess of 33 to claim third place in the contest. Ten other contestants missed nine games apiece.

HHS Rodeo Team Wins Trophy

The Hereford High School Boy's Rodeo Team has established itself as being on a plain somewhere near unbeatable after it claimed the high point trophy (the fifth straight honor in as many weeks) at Childress this past weekend with a tally of 18 points.

The club retains firm control as the leader of all other district teams with an overall accumulation of 62½ points overall this season.

Highlighting the team's efforts during the Childress competition were Robert Esqueda who nabbed first place in bullriding with a score of 60 and Scotty Wilcox's fifth with a tally of 52.

Wilcox also tied for fifth in bareback competition with a score of 52.

Lee Washington landed a fourth place berth in ribbon roping after being clocked at 11.638. He also claimed first in steer wrestling with a time of 6.486, sixth in team roping along with Sid Howard after posting a time of 16.969.

Another top performer, Steve McConnell set a time of 16.176 in steer wrestling for fifth in that event.

In girl's rodeo competition, Rita Ward took third in barrel racing after posting a 19.960 clocking and she also netted fourth in pole competition with a time of 22.732.

The next scheduled rodeo competition for the crew is slated for November 15-16 as both teams travel to Dumas.

Schoolboy Results

By The Associated Press

The top-ranked teams in The Associated Press Schoolboy Football Poll didn't take any chances last week. They outscored the opposition by a collective score of 207-0.

Thereof, Temple in Class 5A, Bay City in 4A, Childress in 3A and Pilot Point in 2A rolled into the final week of the regular season with their No. 1 rankings intact.

Temple beat Copperas Cove 70-0 last week to lead the way while Bay City blanked Friendswood 61-0, Childress shut out Lockney 28-0 and Pilot Point defeated Little Elm 48-0.

Temple, which faces No. 5 ranked Bryan Friday, retained a comfortable 194-148 point margin over runnerup Port Arthur Jefferson. Temple received 16 of the 21 first place votes cast by the AP panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Bay City netted 17 first place votes compared to only two for second place Gainesville, while Gregory-Portland, Andrews and Wichita Falls Hirsch completed the top five.

Huntsville, a newcomer on the 4A list last week, moved up from 10th to No. 9 after a 28-10 victory over Brenham and Paris dropped to 10th. Childress held a strong edge over runnerup Stamford by a 171-153 margin in 3A while Edna, which has allowed only six points all season, moved up from fourth to third ahead of No. 4 Pittsburg.

Q. I drive a two year old Mustang with a four-speed manual transmission. During the past three weeks the gears have progressively more difficult to shift. Will I have to replace the whole transmission to solve the problem?

A. Maybe not. Hopefully, the gears are not already heavily worn. The gears are sticking and it is probably due to low lubricant level in the transmission case. Remove the filler plug on the transmission case and check the lubricant level. It should be to the bottom of the filler hole. If the lube level drops from one check to the next, you have a minor problem which if not corrected will cause major problems. If the transmission case cover is tight and you do not have a loose countershaft, you will need to replace a damaged gasket, damaged seal or retainer to stop lubricant loss.

TCU Peaks Before Battle With Texas

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — For Texas Coach Fred Akers, the Saturday game with Texas Christian is the same Southwest Conference song, sixth verse: TCU is peaking with Texas coming to town.

"This seems to be getting to be a habit," said Akers, whose team edged Houston, 15-13, in a bruising SWC game Saturday that knocked out Longhorn halfback A.J. "Jam" Jones for up to six weeks with a dislocated collarbone.

Houston had won four straight and, according to Akers, was at its best.

Texas Christian had lost 10 consecutive games before defeating Texas Tech, 24-17, Saturday, just a week after Tech had upset Texas, 24-20.

"I'm sure that emotionally it's the highest they have been in a long, long time," Akers told a news conference Monday.

Although Texas Christian is 1-3, the Horned Frogs have lost four games by a total of 16 points and fell by only three points to Southern Methodist, which beat Texas by 14.

Akers said Texas Christian had refused to give up despite its disappointing season, and

"now there's evidence that it pays off."

Saturday is the first day bowl bids can be accepted, and Akers acknowledged, "The bowl people are talking to us, but I'm concentrating on one thing and one thing only — TCU right now."

"We'll have our bowl opportunities," he said, "but the most important thing is getting our football team moving at a good, confident pace."

Sophomore Carl Robinson filled in for Jones with 114 yards on 25 carries, but he re-injured his foot.

Quarterback Rick McIvor, who started in place of Donnie Little against Houston, hurt his neck throwing a block on 265-pound Hosea Taylor.

Offensive guard Les Studdard broke a toe, and center Mike Babb strained back muscles, which should force him to miss practice.

Akers said Longhorn coaches had chosen Robinson the most valuable offensive player in the Houston game and senior linebacker Robin Sendlein as the MVP on defense.

Sendlein tied for a team high 16 tackles, intercepted a pass and caused a fumble.

Akers said it was the best game of the year for Robinson and Sendlein.

Defensively, said Akers, "you can label it as a team effort." On offense, he said, the entire line played "winning football" with Babb grading 90 and Studdard and tackle

Terry Tausch grading over 90.

Asked why his team seems to fire up for Houston each year, Akers said, "They're a good football team, so you don't have much choice. It's usually a big ball game ... a real quick rivalry, and they have a lot of good athletes and are highly competitive." Akers said Texas seems to catch each opponent at its "season high," and he added, "TCU certainly is."

He described the Horned Frogs as "a big play type of football team" that "throws all caution to the wind," averaging 48 passes a game.

Oilers Squeak By New England Patriots

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers almost forgot who they were Monday night when they jumped to a 24-6 halftime lead against the New England Patriots.

But the Oilers, who prefer a good cliffhanger to a blowout, quickly got back in character in the second half when they almost blew the lead and treated fans to their weekly chamber of horrors before pulling out a 38-34 thriller.

It wasn't decided until cornerback Greg Stremick intercepted a Steve Grogan pass in the end zone with 20 seconds left to play.

And it took a couple of Monday night specialists, quarterback Ken Stabler and running back Earl Campbell, to lead the Oilers through.

Stabler, who has posted a 10-1 record in Monday night games, completed 15 of 17 passes for 258 yards and three touchdowns.

Campbell, in his fifth consecutive 100-yard performance in Monday night games, gained 130 yards on 30 carries and scored on runs of three and seven yards.

"It's not a matter of 'I' but 'We,'" said Stabler when asked about his Monday night success. "We've got an outstanding offensive team with a lot of talent."

Campbell, who had only 46 yards rushing in the first half, said he was trying too hard. "A lot of the problem in the first half was my fault," Campbell said. "I was trying to push things too much. In the second half I just slowed and let the offensive line do their work. Their defense came at us very hard. They've got a great club. There's nothing you can say bad about them."

The Oilers took an unaccustomed 24-6 halftime lead on a 45-yard field goal by Toni Fritsch, Stabler's touchdown passes of 79 yards to tight end Mike Barber and four yards to tight end Dave Kasper and Campbell's three-yard run.

New England could muster only field goals of 45 and 26 yards by rookie John Smith.

But Grogan, who finished with 25 completions on 39 attempts for 374 yards, brought the Patriots to life in the third quarter with a 39-yard touchdown pass to Harold Jackson and Don Calhoun's one-yard run.

The race really heated up in the fourth quarter with Campbell scoring on a seven-yard run and Grogan matching it with a 21-yard touchdown pass to tight end Russ Francis.

Stabler came back with a 16-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Mike Renfro, but Grogan had one more shot, a 15-yard scoring pass to Francis with 1:28 left in the game.

But it still wasn't over. New England's Mose Tatupu recovered an onside kick and the Patriots reached Houston's 19-yard line before Grogan threw into the end zone and Stremick ended the game with his interception.

"I was looking for the corner on the interception," Stremick said of his first interception of the year. "I was taking a chance on thinking corner, but I acted like a receiver and I went up and shielded him from the ball."

New England coach Ron Earhardt, who saw his team drop to a 7-3 record, was disappointed at his team's missed scoring chances.

"We had plenty of chances to win tonight, but the best team did not win," he said. "We're just as good as they are and we had plenty of opportunities to prove it. I feel very proud of our football team."

Oiler coach Bum Phillips was equally proud of his team. "We played as good offensively as we possibly could have," Phillips said. "You all may not think our defense played well, but I'm telling you those people have put points on the board against everybody."

Oiler defensive coordinator Ed Biles gave credit to Grogan.

"I'm sure when you look at the films I'm sure you'll see we didn't play all that bad. Grogan just drilled the ball in there where they could catch it."

Pastorini Fashions Birthday Suit for Playgirl Magazine

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Dan Pastorini is no longer exposed to the rush of quarterback-hungry linemen — but he's exposed himself to far more widespread attention of late.

The tall, blond quarterback of the Oakland Raiders, following in the footsteps — sort of — of ex-cheerleaders Lynita Schilling, Jacqueline Rohrs, Andrea Mann and others (not to mention Burt Reynolds), has traded in his working togs for a birthday suit.

In the December issue of Playgirl Magazine, Pastorini, the one-time husband of one-time bombshell June Wilkinson, displays for all the world to see just what he's made of.

Well...not entirely. He's almost coy, almost shy, as though it were an embarrassed giggle rather than a hearty laugh he was having into the lens.

"I thought it was kind of odd anyone would want to photograph this body nude. It's all beat up," Pastorini said, reflecting back on the suggestion first made last summer, shortly after Houston traded him to the Raiders.

"I just did it for fun. I was laughing through the whole thing. When they first asked, I said, 'Nah!' but a lot of my friends said to go ahead and do it. So I told them that if it was in good taste, I would."

And he did. And it is. "I don't think it's disgusting or anything. I don't think I showed any more than Jim Palmer does in those underwear commercials," Pastorini said of the Baltimore Orioles' pitcher.

A few years back, there might have been an uproar of earthquake proportions had Pastorini or any other National Football League star opted for nothing but the bare essentials in a national magazine.

Remember when Burt Reynolds center-folded himself in Cosmopolitan? It was considered somehow radically chic, a real departure.

And remember a couple of years ago, when NFL cheerleaders began attracting more attention than the players they were rahraiding? Remember how a bunch of them showed up in Playboy Magazine in various states of attire (or lack thereof) and how the purity of the league and its teams suddenly came under fire?

Tom Davis, Pastorini's agent, reportedly tried to stop him from submitting to Playgirl's photo session. It's of no consequence. Whatever horrors Davis foresaw haven't happened. Joe Namath got a lot more attention a decade ago just for putting on panty hose.

Even Al Davis did nothing more than shrug. By his silence, the boss of the Raiders was saying, if Pastorini can play football and doesn't damage his body outside the game, I don't care what he does with it on his own time.

Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the NFL, is likely to play hands off here, too, just as he did in the great cheerleader brouhaha. All he could say when the Pastorini pictorial came up in conversation was: "I hope the Raiders knew about Dan's Oiler tattoo before they made the trade."

Lomax - Top Notch QB

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — If you rate a college football quarterback by sheer statistics, then Neil Lomax might be the one of the best who ever played.

Dallas Cowboys scout Gil Brandt compares Lomax with Roger Staubach, who now is retired.

It is not unusual for Lomax to throw 50 to 60 passes a game for Portland State, a NCAA Division I-AA school.

He holds 42 NCAA offensive records and has passed for more than seven miles in his college career.

He threw seven touchdown passes in the first quarter of Portland State's 105-0 victory over Delaware State last weekend.

No other quarterback has ever thrown for more than four touchdowns in one quarter.

Two weeks earlier, Lomax led Portland State, now 6-3 for the season, to a 93-7 victory over Cal Poly-Pomona.

"Neil Lomax will have an impact in the National Football League," Brandt said after a recent trip to Portland to see Lomax in action. "Unless I'm completely off base, this is the kind of guy you can go with into the playoffs in three or four years."

Brandt says Lomax will be a first-round draft choice — possibly the second or third quarterback chosen.

That's heady praise for a youngster who wasn't recruited by a single major college team when he was a quarterback who almost never threw the ball at Lake Oswego High School in suburban south Portland.

At the last minute, Coach Darrell "Mouse" Davis of Portland State offered Lomax a scholarship.

With two games left in his collegiate career, the 6-foot-3, 212-pound Lomax has thrown for 12,298 yards. By comparison, Mark Hermann of Purdue holds the major college record of 9,205 yards.

Lomax has completed 58 percent of his 1,506 passes and has thrown an NCAA record 98 touchdown passes, breaking the old mark of 93 by Doug Williams of Grambling.

You would think his arm would get tired, but not so.

"During twice-a-day practices, I probably throw 500 or 600 passes a day," Lomax said. "I could keep throwing it all night."

Lomax has been trying to keep all of this in perspective, at the same time dodging an onslaught of agents begging to represent him in contract negotiations.

"They've been around a lot," Lomax said of the agents. "Mouse has done a good job of screening a lot them before they get to me."

"It's really been difficult," Lomax said. "People have been trying to make me think about after-season things, like what team do you want to play for? I've got to concentrate on these last two games."

"You talk about size or arm strength or anything you want. This guy is a player," Brandt said.

Lomax operates the pass-oriented "run-and-shoot" offense invented by Davis. The quarterback is usually on the move in the offense and some scouts have wondered about Lomax's ability to drop directly back into a pocket.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

A healthy person faints

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm very worried about my husband. He is only 33 and I thought he was in good health. He is very active and runs at least three days a week. He went to the doctor for a check up and had some blood tests done. A lab technician took some blood for the tests. Then he got up and fainted. Why would a big healthy man faint like that? Does that mean he has heart disease? Could he have epilepsy?

DEAR READER — Anyone who has such a faint should be seen by a physician but many of them occur in perfectly healthy individuals. I doubt that your husband has heart trouble as a cause for his faint — or epilepsy either for that matter.

Most common faints occur because there is not enough blood flow to the brain. This can occur because the heart is not pumping enough blood. Sometimes it slows or even stops for a few seconds in some faints. It can occur if the arteries in your legs dilate and let all the blood flow downhill into your legs when you stand up, or if too much blood accumulates in large dilated veins in the legs as can happen after bed rest.

There are lots of causes for fainting. Your husband probably had a reflex action affecting his circulation for a few seconds. In such instances when the person lies down there is increased blood flow to the brain and he recovers. Fainting is common today because of fat diets. The loss of normal body water from the tissues also causes a loss of normal blood fluids and allows blood to pool in your legs when you stand up.

Any acute illness, such as the flu, can cause you to have a tendency to faint, as I am sending you explains. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I recently visited my doctor and had a Pap smear which was negative but it showed that I have trichomonas. My husband and I have been put on medication to clear this up. My pharmacist told me it could be caused by a number of things including sexual relations or unclear instruments during examinations. Is this true? My husband bathes once a week so my question is, could it be uncleanliness?

DEAR READER — Infections with trichomonas are relatively common. The organism belongs to the group that we call parasites. It's not a bacteria. In some ways it more closely resembles an amoeba. It does cause vaginal infections. It can involve the bladder and urethra of either males or females and it can involve the prostate and rectal area.

It is commonly transmitted through sexual activity but since it affects both partners a frequent problem is that the woman may be treated and the man may not. Then the reinfection process occurs again.

The Newspaper Bible

OH YES, ONE MORE THING....

And now there is one more thing to say before I end this letter. Stay away from those who cause divisions and are upsetting people's faith, teaching things about Christ that are contrary to what you have been taught.

Such teachers are not working for our Lord Jesus, but only want gain for themselves. They are good speakers, and simple-minded people are often fooled by them.

But everyone knows that you stand loyal and true. This makes me very happy. I want you always to remain very clear about what is right, and to stay innocent of any wrong.

The God of peace will soon crush Satan under your feet. The blessings from our Lord Jesus Christ be upon you.

Timothy my fellow-worker, and Lucius and Jason and Sospater, my relatives, send you their good wishes.

I, Tertius, the one who is writing this letter for Paul, send my greetings too, as a Christian brother.

Gaius says to say "hello" to you for him. I am his guest, and the church meets here in his home. Erastus, the city treasurer, sends you his greetings and so does Quartus, a Christian brother.

Good-bye. May the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all.

I commit you to God, who is able to make you strong and steady in the Lord, just as the Gospel says, and just as I told you. This is God's plan of salvation for you Gentiles, kept secret from the beginning of time. But now as the prophets foretold and as God commands, this message is being preached everywhere, so that people all around the world will have faith in Christ and obey Him. To God, who alone is wise, be the glory forever through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Sincerely,
Paul
