MILLIKIN TRIAL TENSE

Constant Bickering of Attorneys Is Feature As Sanity Case Goes Into Advanced Stage

LOCKHART, Oct. 24. (AP)—Tenseness and the constant bickering of rival counsel ruled the sanity trial of A. V. Millikin under death sentence for the slaying of Mrs. Virginia Petty, of San Antonio, in district court here tonight.

After the Rev. Hugh Finnegan, state Catholic prison chaplain had testified that he believed that Millikin was insane and that he had now considered giving Millikin the last Catholic rites on that account, Mrs. L. K. Arrington, of Houston who signed an affidavit of belief that Millikin is unbalanced, took the stand as another defense star.

She told her story in narrative form without attorneys questioning. The gist of it was that Clifford Francks, of Houston, who has recently been in the Huntsville death cell, asked for phonograph records. Mrs. Arrington sent some records, and Millikin happened to get some of them. He wrote Mrs. Arrington thanking her for the records and asking her to come and see him. She said that she went to see him, making the trip with a man and his wife. She visited with him for about three hours. When she came out she told Mrs. Glinn "that man has no sense."

Chinese Woman Wins U.S. Cooking Honors But Mrs Ida M. Chitwood Says Americans Best Nationally

Nellie Wong Winner Of Exposition In New York City

Oh, East is East
And West is West—
And the West, it seems, likes
The East's food best!

(By NEA Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Against past mistresses of the kitchen arts from many sections of America, a tiny almond-skinned woman from the faraway land of the mandarins cooked her way into culinary honors at the Exposition of Women's Arts and Industries here.

She is Nellie Wong, of Pekin; her prize dish, a willow ware plate of shrimp sticks the rich golden brown color of the sails of junks which ply the rivers of her native China.

A Rendezvous

Before the latest revolution in China if you sought men and women from the Peking legations, you could best have looked for them at tiffin time in Miss Wong's little tea room close by the great wall, the first eating place of its kind there ever run by a woman.

She specialized in Chinese dainties—Lichee nut concoctions, birds' nests salads, eagle's eggs bamboo shoots and other dishes of tradition dating back a thousand years or so.

"How did I switch to a tea-room? Well, I started selling ice-cream sodas and regular American ice cream in Peking and they made such a big hit I added one thing after another until I decided I could swing a whole tea room," she says in precise English.

"When I opened the tea room I found that foreigners delighted in native dishes even more than their home favorites. So gradually I added one recipe after another that

MRS. IDA M. CHITWOOD

Conductor of the Avalanche-Journal's Fourth Annual Free Cooking school, a nationally known culinary authority.

Culinary Expert, In Lubbock Now, Has Praise For U. S.

Oh, East Is East.
And West Is West—
But the U. S. women
Can cook the best!

That is the opinion of Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, nationally known culinary expert, who is in Lubbock this week conducting the Avalanche and Journal's Fourth Annual cooking school—and she doesn't care who won the Exposition of Women's Arts and Fashions in New York!

And even the most casual reader must admit that Mrs. Chitwood, figuratively and literally, "knows her groceries" for eight months out of each year she travels about the country, conducting scientific cooking schools and the other four she spends in study and laboratory work, under the direction of the leading chefs and culinary experts in the United States.

Expert Here Believes In U. S.

Mrs. Chitwood carefully perused the article received from New York by the Avalanche-Journal last night, which is in column 2, telling of the cooking victory won by Nellie Wong, a Chinese woman, at the Exposition of Women's Arts and Fashions—won in competition with hundreds of American women. She is willing to honor the daughter of the Far East in her triumph but she is not willing to admit that Chinese women as a nation—or the housewives of any country—as far as that is concerned—are as good as those of our own United States.

"The American women are becoming more scientific, more capable and more versatile in their culinary work each year," Mrs. Chitwood told the Avalanche last night, "and I can see the improve-

FALL DIRECTED DRAFT OF LEASE

GOVERNMENT INTRODUCES EVIDENCE IMPORTANT IN SINCLAIR TRIAL

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Moving swiftly to one of the more important elements of their case, special government oil counsel developed today before a jury in the District of Columbia supreme court that Albert B. Fall as interior secretary took personal direction over the drafting of the lease which Harry F. Sinclair obtained for the exploitation of Teapot Dome, the navy's oil reserve in Wyoming.

Three present or former employes of the interior department were called in the oil conspiracy trial and from them counsel elicited a story of events preceding the signing of the lease; a story which had these as its essential details:

Essential Facts Given

That during the Christmas holidays of 1921 when Sinclair was visiting Fall at Three Rivers, N. M., Charles V. Safford, administrative assistant to the secretary, called for a report as to claim to property in Teapot Dome. This report was prepared jointly by Roy W. Tallman, a special examiner, and set forth mentrieveryrationis shrdlcutadin that "none of the claims was worthy of consideration and that from geo-

Tech Freshmen Round Up Stray Boxes to Be Used For Great Pep Celebration Thursday

There were no empty boxes in Lubbock's downtown section this morning.

Last night about 400 freshmen from Tech college made sallies into every alley and byway which might presumably hide anything made of wood and used every conceivable method of transportation to carry away their spoil to a spot just south of the gymnasium building on the college campus.

All this was done in preparation for a monstrous bonfire rally which will be staged at that place beginning at 7 o'clock Thursday night. The bonfire rally is to be the climax of the Tech yell leaders' plans to wax Matador enthusiasm hot before the Tech-Aggie game to be played Friday.

Last night the freshmen went wild at a pep meeting held at the college. Tonight the entire college will hold a pep rally, and then comes the bonfire Thursday night.

BANKS HOSTILE TO FARM RELIEF, SENATOR AVERS

CHARGE OF ARKANSAS MAN STIRS FURORE AT MEETING

3,000 ARE PRESENT

ATTACK PRECIPITATED BY REFUSAL TO GIVE SPEAKER PLACE

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Oct. 24. — Charges that bankers are hostile to relief measures for farmers were hurled here today by Senator T. H. Caraway of Arkansas and other farm spokesmen as the American Bankers Association convened in annual session.

The attack on the bankers resulted from the refusal of the agricultural committee of the association to give a committee headed by the Senator an opportunity to present fully a program "for assisting the farmers."

It was the outstanding development of a day devoted to meetings of committee and committeemen and divisions of the association preparatory to the first general sessions of the organization tomorrow. Then bank robberies, bank failures and the benefits as well as assumed inequalities of the Federal Reserve Act are expected to begin coming to the surface in greater volume.

Three Thousand Present

Meanwhile, more than 3,000 of the nation's bankers had registered at headquarters with many more in prospect. They filled hotel lobbies to overflowing, held innumerable departmental sessions, perspired under an unaccustomed Southern sun and tonight attended a reception and dinner.

Women members of the association of bankers, composed of women executives in 35 states, were preparing for a general session tomorrow in charge of President Jean Arnot Reid, of New York, with addresses and purposes converging on the general idea of activity tying up the women's department in the nation's bank with efficiency banking service.

Committee Alibis

BONDS' TRIAL STARTS

First Day of Murder Case Sees Venire of 80 Examined And Only One Juror Picked

CAMERON, Oct. 24. —The first day of the murder trial of the State of Texas vs. Monroe Fisher in connection with the death at Belton in May, 1927, of Albert W. Bonds, in the Milam county court room ended with 80 veniremen having been examined and one juryman, R. S. Self, after prolonged examining on both sides, had been selected.

Defense lawyers, Judge W. W. Hair, formerly of Temple, now of Abilene, with Judges Chambers and Gillis, local attorneys, had used five of 15 challenges allowed each side. Five challenges had also been used by the state's attorneys, Jack Lewis of Milam and Few Brewster of Bell county.

That the state will demand the death penalty was clearly indicated by questioning of veniremen, all of whom were asked if they had any scruples against condemning a man to the electric chair.

GOLFER HIJACKED

Ancient Guild of Hijackers Does Not Respect Peaceful Parson Out for Game

Tulsa, Oct. 24. (AP)—The ancient guild of hijackers does not even have respect for the ancient game golf.

The Rev. W. O. Anderson, pastor of the First Baptist church here, was just teeing off at the sixteenth hole of the Oakhurst country club grounds on a perfect golfing afternoon.

But he was not allowed to finish his game in peace. Out of a clump of trees near the green came a masked man who presented a huge old fashioned pistol and demanded Anderson's money.

"I thought he was joking at first," Rev. Anderson said, "and I tried to 'kid' him; but I soon saw he was in deadly earnest. So I gave him my billfold and what money I had."

OKLAHOMA SOLONS PETITION SESSION

INVESTIGATION OF GOVERNOR AND STATE DEPARTMENTS SOUGHT IN MOVE

(By Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 24.—A petition asking that Governor Henry Johnston call a special session of the eleventh legislature to investigate charges against the chief executive and several departments of the state, will be placed on the governor's desk tomorrow or Wednesday, H. E. Sullivan, secretary to the governor, said he had learned from what he considered an authentic source. Johnston is a democrat as well as the others.

Outside of announcement that there are 69 signers on the petition, 14 more than necessary to call the session, no word came from the camp of those opposing Governor Johnston.

A telephone call to Claremore, home of Tom Knight, house leader and active in the attempt to convene the session, revealed that Knight and E. P. Hill of McAlester, another house leader, had left for Muskogee.

Sullivan said he had received reliable information that while 69 members had signed the call, 27 would withdraw if the governor did not want it.

The governor has received no information as to the charges contained in the petition, Sullivan said. He understood, that the opposing side seeks investigation of six departments.

"We do not fear a special session," the secretary said. "We have done nothing to cause Governor Johnston to be impeached."

If the governor will not call the session when the petition is placed before him, the members will meet at their own call, Knight stated late yesterday.

The governor would not comment on the situation other than to say that he would make no statement until the matter is officially before him.

The Morning Avalanche Menu for the Day

BREAKFAST — Stewed prunes with orange sections, cereal, cream, creamed eggs on graham toast, oven toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Stuffed onions, rice muffins, endive with bacon dressing, lemon sponge, milk, tea.

DINNER—Planked corned beef, stuffed green peppers, beet and lima bean salad, pumpkin pie, milk, coffee.

Very often the housewife is "put to it" to find new ways to serve the same vegetables day after day. Stuffed onions are different and sure to be popular.

Stuffed Onions

Four good sized onions, 2-3 cup bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons onion stock, 4 tablespoons grated cheese 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 3-4 cup milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, paprika.

Peel onions and cook in boiling water until tender enough to remove centers. Sprinkle with salt and steam while preparing stuffing. Chop enough onion centers to make 2 tablespoonfuls. Add bread crumbs and 2 tablespoonfuls of water in which onions were cooked. Mix well and fill cavities of the onions. Arrange in a buttered baking dish and sprinkle with cheese. Melt butter in a smooth pan, stir in flour and salt and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and pour around onions in baking dish. Sprinkle with paprika and bake 20 minutes in a hot oven. Serve from baking dish.

It's a matter of taste. But—

Lolls Himself.

After all, who is Gene Tunney, even if he is heavyweight champ, to preach at American boys, chide them for "soft living," when he himself admits that he is in the ring for the money and is only marking time until he can do a job he's really proud of? He works rather hard a few weeks a year, and in between fights lolls in millionaire's homes.

Likes Gigolos.

Talk as he will with gilded phrases, a prize fighter adds little that is really constructive to the human race, and few really able capable brainy men could be any more content with such a life, money or no money, than they could be content to be gigolos. To be sure, a mind can be used in fighting, but, as the Black Crow says, "who cares about that?"

Cheap Song.

Well, maybe human beings are "vulgar and cheap and trashy." Anyway, there must be some responsive chord from them to that particular song, judging by the hundreds of thousands of copies that have been sold and sung and played since it was written. And if its promise of a trysting spot with loved ones were "somewhere the sun is shining" has brought balm to sorry humans, what matter if the phrasing be "vulgar and cheap and trashy?" Polished phraseology never healed a suffering human heart.

Hairs In King's Soup.

King George will have no bob-haired wench boiling his eggs or broiling his chops. He has told his head chef to hire no bob-tressed damsels for the royal kitchen, and to fire all those already bobbed whose hair has not grown out within a certain length of time. Well, well, well. The kink must like hair in his soup better than I do.

More Ducks Are Needed For A. M. Exes' Big Feed

Duck hunters of Lubbock and vicinity whose luck is such that it enables them to bag the total limit of ducks fixed by the law, or who for any reason get more ducks than they can dispose of via the gastronomical route, are asked by Grady Higginbotham and Bill McMillan to notify them about it.

Messrs. Higginbotham and McMillan are charged as a committee to secure enough duck for the supper which will be tendered the many A. and M. exes expected here this week-end. They are finding some difficulty in carrying this charge to consummation.

They are asking the cooperation of the folks in general hereabouts.

Much Interest In "Dulcy" Play To Be Given Here Tonight

A well-balanced cast, with one character entirely inexperienced, will greet Little Theater fans this evening when the local organization presents "Dulcy" a sparkling three-act comedy, at the high school auditorium.

The curtains to roll up at 8 o'clock upon scene, the interior of a pretentious suburban home, which will not change throughout the play Mrs. Byron C. Dickinson has the leading feminine role, that of Dulcina, a bride whose efforts to promote her husband's business interests prove almost disastrous, and she probably will star this evening, rehearsals have indicated.

Dr. G. H. Aler, who plays opposite Mrs. Dickinson, and Edgar Shelton, who has the role of a New York business man, are expected to be in the limelight among the male players, according to those who have watched the progress of this production, and although his part is minor, Horace Grady Moore has a good comedy role, expected to win favor with the audience.

Mrs. H. E. White is directing this play, which will be the initial drama to be presented by the Lubbock Little Theater this season, with four others to follow at intervals.

The cast includes in addition to those mentioned, Gaylord Hankins, E. W. Provence, Miss Ernestine Wilson, Miss Eunice Cox, Jimmie Allen, Clotuss Bowen and Ralph Carpenter.

CLOSED GATES DECREED FOR MATADORS

WESTERNERS BUCKLE DOWN TO WORK FOR COYOTE INVASION

AGGIES WILL BE OUT TO PILE UP SCORE

The Matadors will work behind closed gates for the rest of the week, according to an announcement from Coach Ewing Y. Freeland's office. The Matador trio of handlers are going to put the ginger and fight into the Bullfighters as they never have before and when the scarlet and black-jersied gridsters go into the game against the famed and dangerous Aggies a better battling spirit among the Matadors will be evidenced to the thousands that will attend the contest.

Much interest is being shown over West Texas and the Panhandle centering on the game closing the Matador 1927 schedule. The one fact that Tech is making a bid for a berth in the Southwestern conference is enough to make one realize that the wearers of the scarlet and black will put up a bitter combat with the lads under the direction of Bible, dean of football coaches in Texas.

While, on the other hand, since Dana X. Bible's farm hands were held to a scoreless tie against Matty Bell's Horned Frogs last week this fact is just as convincing that the Aggies will attempt to revamp their scoring machine before they get with Ray Morrison's Mustangs on Kyle Field after the game with the Matadors.

Matadors in Good Shape

The Matadors came out of the battle with the Sul Ross Loboes with but slight injuries and by the day of the eventful occasion every Matador in the Tech camp will be ready to mix it with the boys from Aggieland. J. B. "Red" Hamilton, backfield man who got in his first mixup with the Matadors last week against the Loboes, is slightly injured but will be in condition by mid-week for plenty of work against the Aggie combination.

"Dopie" White, flashy wingman of Freeland's roster, will be primed for the contest also. Jacques Hardy is yet limping about the field with an injured leg but he too will possibly be prepared to go into the contest should the occasion arise that he be needed. "Chubby" De Witt, battling guard of Ewing's line, who didn't get in the Lobo game, will no doubt be in shape to battle with the fierce line of A. and M. Preacher Galloway is almost sure to start the game with the Matadors at center; but Vaugh Corley will be in the show for a part of the game.

Entertainment Arranged

As the time for the game is getting closer and closer, the final arrangements are being made by the officials of the college and student body for entertainments of the visitors. Seating arrangements will be completed by mid-week.

Thursday afternoon the Aggies will arrive in Lubbock and will possibly take a slight workout on the Matador gridiron on the eve of the game. It is not known yet just how many men Bible will bring to the South Plains but it is generally thought that his entire traveling roster will be here.

Fans from all sections of West Texas and the Panhandle have made reservations for the game and it is quite likely that near 10,000 people will witness the first game the Aggies have ever played in West Texas. The nearest to this section the highly touted Farmers have ever performed is Fort Worth where on two occasions of recent years they have met with the Horned Frogs of Texas.

CANZONERI WINS OVER DUNDEE IN BOUT

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—Tony Canzoneri, Brooklyn featherweight was given the judge's decision over Johnnie Dundee, the former champion, at the end of 15 rounds of tame boxing tonight in Madison Square garden.

The veteran Dundee, making his first appearance in the ring in more than a year, did not land a solid punch during the contest. Canzoneri made no effort to punish his man and carried him along all the way. The crowd began to call for action as early as the fourth round many left the garden in the seventh. Stamping and cat-calls followed the close of all the late rounds.

Thousands From T. C. U. To Journey For Bear Contest

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24.—Most of the student body of Texas Christian University is planning to make the trip to Waco on Oct. 29, when the Horned Frogs of T. C. U. meet Baylor on the gridiron.

A special round-trip rate on the railroad, including admission to the game, has been made here and the T. C. U. authorities have declared a holiday for the day so there is every probability that more than 1000 will make the trip to Baylor.

DISSECTING GRID RULES

BY E. J. O'BRIEN

Famous Football Referee

It was not always an easy task, in the past for the referee to penalize a team for delaying the game, because his hands were tied in a great many plays by the phraseology of Rule 14.

For instance if the ball was kicked, thrown or fumbled outside, it was then brought in, and, before blowing his whistle that play might start, the referee had to ascertain from each captain if he was ready to play. Inasmuch as time is taken out when the ball goes out of bounds, the captain could not be very well charged with delaying the game, and a great many times a captain took advantage of the situation to give his team a chance to get their wind, by refusing to say that the team was ready to start. The official's hands were tied, but not so this year.

According to the new ruling, the referee must place the ball on the ground, and then blow his whistle signifying that play may start. If at the end of thirty seconds either team is not ready to continue play then this shall be construed as prima facia evidence to delay the game, and the five yard penalty inflicted. The only way for the defense or offense to overcome the situation is to ask for time out and have it charged against them.

The same holds good for offense as well as defense. If the ball is not in play within thirty seconds after the referee has placed the ball on the ground and blown his whistle, signifying that play may start, the offending team should be penalized for the delay of the game.

The official before was against the same stone wall as regards the huddle. Some teams took almost a full minute in the huddle and consequently delayed the game and rendered it less interesting for the spectators.

If the defense was behind, it also put them at a disadvantage, for the team with the ball could be slow in coming out of the huddle, thus preventing the defense from having an opportunity to recover the ball.

Now the rule reads that no team shall stay in the huddle more than fifteen seconds. It will be necessary for the referee to use a stop watch if he finds the team is running close to the time limit. The rule as it reads now means that should a team stay more than fifteen seconds in the so-called huddle formation, it shall be penalized five yards for delaying the game.

Strolling Down Sports Lane

WITH JAMES R. DOW

Coach Ewing Y. Freeland has ordered that the gates of the Texas Tech athletic field be closed for the rest of the week. 'Big Un' is getting ready to shoot his Matadors a hand full for the Texas Aggies. Fans who have been attending the daily practices are requested to remain away from the gridiron for rest of the week.

—o—

This is the first time that Coach Freeland has announced secret practices prior to a contest—but it is best and the 'big fellow' realizes that it is going to take plenty of work to get his flaming clad Bullfighters in trim for the eventful day.

—o—

Don't you know the ex-students of Texas A. and M. will certainly greet the barbecued duck feed the exes of this city are preparing for the boys? It will be a swell feed. Duck hunters who get more than they want for their one share requested to bring in the wild game to Grady Higginbotham or Bill McMillan for they certainly can handle them.

—o—

Teh Matadors got out of the game with the Loboes of Sul Ross without any injuries to the men. It is expected that the Freelandmen will be in up-top condition for the game with the Aggies on Friday.

—o—

Dana X. Bible has already sent his men to Lubbock for the team while he is in Lubbock with his club. The Aggies are always on a training diet through out the season and Dana has got to have his 'beans' cooked just right.

—o—

When the Texas Aggies come to Lubbock they will be here with one of the most colorful clubs of the Southwestern conference. Fans who have not seen the highly-heralded Aggies in action should certainly not turn down the opportunity to see them here Friday.

—o—

The Texas Tech—Aggie game is one of the most widely advertised football games in Texas today. The game is on the tongue of every football fan in West Texas.

—o—

The fact that the T. C. U. Horned Frogs held the Aggie to a scoreless tie is all the more reason that the Biblemen will battle the Matadors all the harder—for they are after an improvement of their machine as they meet with the undefeated Mustangs, of S. M. U. ,of the week following their trip to Lubbock.

—o—

Henry Frnka and Del Morgan will have plenty of trouble Saturday as they go into the game against Bud McCallum's undefeated Coyotes of the Panhandle Class A conference.

—o—

The Coyotes nosed out a victory on the Vernon Lions last week-end defeating them by a score of 8 to 6.

—o—

When the Westerners buck against the Coyotes Saturday the fans are going to see the 'outfightingest' outfit in the conference in the local machine for if there is one thing Frnka and Morgan have taught their lads this season it has been fight. It is that old 'Never-say-die' fight too.

—o—

Help the Westerners and boost the Matadors—should be the slogan of every fan in Lubbock for this week. The Matadors are going to need your boosting and the Westerners your help.

GAME LOOMS AS CRUCIAL TEST FOR LUBBOCK

With varied hopes and anticipation the two coaches of the Lubbock high school Westerners are anxious to make added changes to the conference percentage by taking the game with the Wichita Falls Coyotes here Saturday afternoon.

In order to put over this idea they fully realize the road they will have to traverse in reaching that destination requires plenty of work and lots of pep. Every day and every minute of the day the two coaches are drilling into the minds of their charges the fight spirit ... fighting goes a long way down the road in a gridiron event.

Coyotes Undefeated.

The Coyotes come to Lubbock with a clean slate as they have won their initial conference game. Last week-end they broke into the loop standing by defeating the Vernon Lions on the Coyote field by a narrow margin of 8 to 6. Bud McCallum, a former performer of Texas university, will be here with as equally strong a team as he had last season. The Coyotes will arrive in Lubbock late Thursday evening or early Friday, as they are expected to attend the game Friday afternoon between Texas A. and M. and Texas Tech.

Conference games for this week are: Quanah vs. Plainview; Vernon vs. Electra, and Lubbock vs. Wichita Falls. The Amarillo Golden Sandstormers will be idle this week and the fans and citizens of the Panhandle city are planning to bring the Sandies down for the game Friday afternoon.

Conference Standing

	P	W	L	Pct.
Amarillo	2	2	0	1000
Wichita Falls	1	1	0	1000
Lubbock	2	1	1	500
Vernon	2	1	1	500
Electra	2	1	1	500
Plainview	1	0	1	000
Quanah	2	0	2	000

Results of last week games were: Vernon 8, Wichita Falls 5; Lubbock 19, Electra 6; Quanah 0, Amarillo 33. Plainview was idle.

SLATON TO PLAY LITTLEFIELD SATURDAY

(Special To The Avalanche)

SLATON, Oct. 24.—Coach Odus Mitchell will pit his Tigers against the Littlefield high school football team in a game at Littlefield Saturday, October 29, instead of the Friday immediately preceding, as was originally scheduled.

So far, the Tigers have made the following record in their race for Class B honors in district two: tied with Post 13-13; beat Amherst 41 to 0; won over Otton 21 to 0. Besides, the Tigers held the Lubbock Westerners, a Class A team, to a scoreless tie in an exhibition game, and defeated Plainview, another Class A school, 6 to 0. Thus it is seen that only the Post eleven has scored on the Tigers up to this time.

Sammy Mandell Kayoes Montee

TULSA, Oct. 24. (AP)—Sammy Mandell of Rockford, Ill, lightweight champion of the world, tonight knocked out "Wildcat" Montee of Dreamright, Okla, claimant of the 135 pound championship of the Southwest in the third of a scheduled 10-round exhibition.

Mandell, carrying the fight to his opponent from the first round, knocked Monte down for the count of eight in the second round. The Oklahoma boy staged a surprising comeback driving Mandell around the ring with a flurry of solid right and lefts to the head and body.

The champion weighed 136 1-2 pounds.

In the semi-windup scheduled for ten rounds, Fred Whittington of Marietta, Okla, knocked out Ollier Joiner of Miami, Fla., in the sixth round. The men are middle weights.

Now Lee and Carmen will have to wear rose-colored glasses.

CORRECT THE WORST DEFECTS, AT ALL EVENTS

Results of a Maine referendum on a proposal to repeal the direct primary law and restore the caucus and convention system of nominating party candidates, are heavily in favor of retaining the present scheme. The vote was 19,000 for, and 35,000 against, repeal.

Figures recently compiled by Simon Michelet of of New York showed that the total vote in 40 States' nominating primaries rose from 8,456,000 in 1920 to 13,829,000 in 1926. This authority characterized the growth of the primary as "the most conspicuous feature on the face of American politics."

Nevertheless, the circumstances that the Legistaure in a State which had maintained this institution for 16 years, should see fit to submit to the people a plan for its abandonment, is highly significant. The action reflects the wide-spread discontent with the primary, not only as a result of the Pennsylvania and Illinois scandals—soon to be aired in the United States—but because of the conviction that the scheme has been a failure in many respects.

Certainly the primary has not proved the perfect instrument for expressing the popular will which its advocates represented it to be; and it has not appreciably elevated the standard of the public service. Rather, the effect has been to the contrary.

Surely it is not altogether an illusion of "the good old days" which makes so many of the men who held office—from constable to United States Senator — a generation ago, tower above the citizens filling the same positions today, nominated in the primary. Such contrasts have led many thoughtful, public-spirited Americans to question whether the old convention system—with all its faults—was not better. A tree is judged by its fruits. At least, party responsibility was met by that means.

Perhaps one difficulty is that too much was expected of the primary at the outset. The evils it was designed to correct did not—as the reformers apparently supposed—spring from the nominating methods, but were deeper-seated. Consequently these abuses continue to flourish as before. The remedy for them must be sought elsewhere — in better education of the masses with regard to governmental concerns, and in bestirring a sense of civic responsibility in the individual.

Meanwhile the correction of the most glaring defects in the primary system—as revealed by experience—should be undertaken. The proposing convention for determining which names should go on the primary ballot—applied to State, and perhaps also to district and county judicial, offices—would represent a great improvement. That would relieve the voter of the necessity for choosing where an intelligent choice is to him impossible, and largely would restore party responsibility. The election of better-qualified public servants surely would follow.

ANTICIPATION

Anticipation is a wonderful thing. It has been said that the pains which we contemplate are generally far more serious than those which we have experienced. When one is to have a tooth pulled tomorrow they shudder at the thought of it, yet possibly most of us will recall that the real experience in the dentist's chair have not been near so bad as we thought they would be.

I am to meet an angry and disgruntled parent this afternoon who will have come five hundred miles to voice his dissatisfaction at the way his offspring has been mentally manhandled by his instructors and the administration generally. I dread the ordeal, and yet I know I shall get through it quite amicably when the moment arrives.

Elizabeth had come from the country to enter high school. She had never been away from home alone before, and the people young and old, whom she she was to meet next day were all strangers to her. The subjects she was to take up were new and strange; the methods of teaching were to be quite unfamiliar to her. Her face took on a very serious look as we sat quietly before the fire in the dusk of Sunday evening. There were tears in her eyes as she turned to me, and a tremor in her voice.

"Won't tomorrow be an awful day!" she said. It was the terror of the unknown and the inexperienced which was taking hold of her. When she met it, she found that her fears had been for nothing. She had had a very happy day she announced when she came home at night, and through the years that followed, the experience continued. When it was through there were tears in her eyes again because the experience which she had so dreaded was over.

Mack was going out to a new job. He had worked hard in college and had undertaken a number of things which he had carried to a conclusion very successfully. He was to try something entirely new this time in a distant city which he had never yet seen. His heart failed him a little.

"Tell me what to do," he asked "How shall I meet the new situation?"

"The new job," I explained, "is going to be a very little different from the old ones you have had. People are about the same wherever you find them. Make yourself useful and necessary to the people for whom you are working, and you will get on; and above all, be yourself."

Mack is getting on. The terror of the inexperienced left him shortly, and he is as much at home on the new job as he used to be on the old.

I wonder often, as most of us do, I imagine, how I shall meet the great change which comes at the end of life. My father used to say when he thought of the "last judgment," "That will be an awful day," but he went very peacefully as if he were dropping off to sleep. His terror of the unknown vanished.

STRIVE TO SERVE MANKIND

Jesus' great mission on earth was the humanizing of religion. His service of intercession between God and man might be interpreted in that light. The Master repeatedly rebukes those who would set up law or creed, ritual or tradition, as a fetish. He taught by word and exemplified in deed the truth that real religion is a living thing which may be adapted to the daily needs of ordinary men and women engaged in commonplace tasks. Man ever has found it difficult, almost impossible, to maintain and hold that new of his faith—whatever the terms in which he expresses it. He insists on investing many of his beliefs with mystery and surrounded them with ceremonial and pageantry. He rears temples and creates altars which, when done, are too sacred for his feet to tread. We pity the poor untutored savage who bows to his idols—inert things of wood and stone which are powerless to help or harm him. Yet "civilized" man is in no better situation; rather, his idols—though intangible—are legion. He is subjected to a thousand fetishes inherited from his fathers, and to as many more which he has invented. Perhaps this idol-making process is a necessity, growing out of inherent traits. Like the frogs in the fable, man needs must have a king even though the monarch consume him. Through a like propensity God is relegated to some far-off Heaven where He is a spectator, but not an arbiter, of mundane concerns—a Being to be prayed to hopefully, but not One to commune with intimately. There must appear a Messiah, a prophet, a divine, to bring God back to earth—that is, to reawaken men's souls that they again may see clearly and discern His Omnipresence. For such a work Jesus came; so also many another great leader. The fires which these teachers relight in men's minds and hearts burn brightly for a while; there is great rejoicing over the new-found freedom. Once again men see the truth which had gone into eclipse—that religion is made for man, not man for religion. Creeds and rites are of worth only as they serve human needs. But before long, unhappily, the flames begin to pale. Inborn tendencies again assert their mastery; new fetishes are created out of the very truth which was brought to dispel the old. Thus it comes about that man forever is in need of an emancipator. He continually is forging new chains for himself—ever raising barriers to shut out God from his view. And unfortunately that propensity is not confined to matters of faith. Blind, unthinking worship of a mythical entity known as "the state"—in both ancient and modern times—often has proved an enemy to the race. Likewise, creeds and party labels, customs and conventions have been invested with exaggerated importance and tyrannical authority over thought and deed. Civilization itself is allowed to become more a cruel master than the faithful servant it is supposed to be. The transition from useful servitor to despotic demigod is painfully easy. Clear vision is needed to keep to the right road, to maintain always a proper sense of values. Man should be and strive and do for man, and not in homage to vain illusions.

OPINIONS

THE NEW SOUTH

One of the most striking and hopeful trends in America today is the awakening of the public conscience in the South against mob violence. Lynching has been declining consistenly in America since 1892, but it has only been since 1922 that this progress has become so marked as to arouse the hope of an early obliteration of the mob spirit. There was only sixteen lynchings in 1924 and seventeen in 1925, and although the record is not so clear in the last two years, no better assurance could be wanted that the gain has been real and that it will be permanent than the revulsion of feeling which has swept through the States of the South where this evil has run with the loosest rein. Alabama has at least come to grips with the mob. Spurred on by popular indignation over the spread of lawlessness and violence, Attorney General McCall has set out to clean up Croenshaw County. He promises at least ninety indictments and apparently he means business. A special grand jury is in session and 135 witnesses are to be called. Circuit Judge A. L. Gamble has given the jury some instructions which ought to stand as a model wherever the "rule of the mask and lash" prevails. "There is no excuse in morals or law for mob rule. Two authorities cannot exercise the same jurisdiction at the same time. Here we have the courts on one hand and on the other men responsible to no one and exercising physical strength to crush the weak." With a little more of this spirit, the "cancer" eating into the firm flesh" of the whole South will soon be cut away—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

DEATH IS DESERVED

A Detroit gas station was robbed and the attendant loaded into the car along with Gilbreath. Later a third man was attacked and badly beaten. He was likewise dumped into the rear seat. As he obegged for mercy he was pounded with the butt of a gun in the face. These injuries caused his death a few hours later. After the three prisoners had been dumped out of Gilbreath's car, in which the three gunmen escaped. Capital punishment seems to be too good for a human being who can become cold-blooded as to kill a defenseless man without provocation. Killers, however, realize that if caught they will be no worse off than if they had committed robbery. Hence they destroy human life as though it were nothing. But if Michigan would decide to give these murderers a dose of their own medicine perhaps they would think twice before sending a bullet into a defenseless victim's body or clubbing him to death. Life imprisonment for habitual offenders has been a forward step in efforts to reduce crime, but Michigan has not yet properly met the issue of murder.—Bay City (Mich) Times.

SOUTH PLAINS PRESS

FOR NEIGHBOR AND TEAM

Help is scare in Cochran county and it looked for a few days last week as if Pete Lewis would have to miss the Ropes games in order to help save the big feed crop on the Lewis farm but for the sake of the team, and also to help a neighbor out, many of the school boys and teachers went to the Lewis farm to shock feed Saturday and Sunday. Sunday shorty after dinner the feed was all shocked up to where the binder was cutting. This showed a fine spirit of loyalty to school an dneighbor on the part of the boys and men who went out to help shock the feed, and it was also a pleasant outing for them.—Cochran County News.

KILLS COYOTE AT LONG RANGE

Sunday evening while out hunting, we mean out driving, E. A. Tupman and A. O. Hoover killed a coyote at unusually long range, or rather Mr. Tupman killed the animal and Mr. Hoover acted as chief witness to the killing. The coyote was approximately 400 yards distant when first seen, and the first shot fired at him scored a miss. He waited for further developments and the second shot gave him a skin wound on the hip. The coyote started for a healthier clime, but too late; the third bullet tore his spinal column and caused instant death.

Coyotes seem unusually thick this fall in spite of the large number that was killed last winter while furs were high.—Hockley County Herald.

Find Two-thirds of World's Work Done In Morning

Two-third of the world's work is done between breakfast and lunch according to surveys which have been recently made by a cereal company. Questionnaires were sent to those in charge of many office workers, clerks and factory workers in large cities. Almost universally the answer came back: "Practically two-thirds of our day's work is done in the morning."

"Without going into the scientific reason for this special accomplishment in the morning hours," says Miss Lydia Brocker of the Philadelphia Unit of National Dairy Council, "it is quite obvious that breakfast is the important meal as it provides energy for the worker to do two-thirds of his day's work before he eats his lunch. For a long time we have been stressing the importance of a nourishing breakfast for school children, but this report from those who do the world's work would indicate the importance of a real meal at breakfast time for everyone.

"The typical light American breakfast of toast and coffee, which all too often lacks fresh fruit, does not provide enough real background for the body's demands. Now that the hot days of summer are gone it is highly important that a cooked cereal with plenty of cream should be added to every American's breakfast.

Morning Time For Brain Work

Questionnaires were also sent to the heads of schools and colleges. An interesting return was sent from the University of Illinois showing that 10 o'clock is the most popular hour for classes that require real brain work. The so-called "pipe courses" which the students believe can be easily slept through as is indicated in most colleges are the 8 o'clock classes. Although the breakfastless classes may seem as wide awake at an 8 o'clock session as fellow students who have eaten a nourishing breakfast, by 10 o'clock their energy has worn down. The student who has eaten a good breakfast, on the other hand by 10 o'clock has had time to feel the good effect. Those who plan a curriculum realize that 10 o'clock is the efficiency peak. In the interest of education, colleges are beginning to advise common sense in the health life of their students. The first step, which is approved by all health educational groups, such as the National Dairy Council who are interested in correct nutrition, is to urge that students get up early enough to eat a nourishing breakfast.

"Boston Coffee" for Westerners

Fresh fruit, cooked cereal with plenty of cream, buttered toast and a hot drink is ustially advised as a type of breakfast every student needs. If that hot drink is to be coffee, health authorities are advising that people get the "Boston coffee habit," that is, filling one-half your cup with hot milk or cream before adding coffee. It is a good habit not only from the good health but from the good taste point of view as well. Physicians who are called upon to advise underweight or run-down patients advocate drinking a glass of milk for breakfast even if the patients wish to keep coffee on the breakfast menu.

Your Health

Golf Is Medicine Doctors Prescribe and Take, Too

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Medical scientists take their golf seriously.

Dr. Tom H. Hyslop, well-known British neurologist, has just dedicated a little book to his fellow sufferers of the Medical Golfing Society. In the introduction it is pointed out that not a few famous physicians were also internationally known golfers.

Dr. H. D. Gillies, one of the foremost plastic surgeons of the world, was once runner up for the British amateur championship. Incidentally he is an expert plastic surgeon who restored remarkable results in repairing the faces of soldiers wounded in the war, and not one of the quack face-lifting, face-peeling, wrinkle removing plastic surgeons that infest some of our larger American cities.

Practice and Preaching

Dr. Argyll Robertson, one of the most celebrated eye specialists of the world, has his name attached to a diagnostic sign for locomotor ataxia. As a golfer he gained the Royal and Ancient's medal seven times in nine years. Indeed, the list of famous British medical golfers is astounding for the important names that it contains, and it proves, that in the matter of golf at least, the doctors practice what they preach.

So highly is he pastime regarded as a physical and mental benefit by the medical profession, particularly for the high-tensioned business and professional man, that Sir Arthur Keith, the celebrated British anatomist, remarked the "if all the medical men in Edinburgh were to stop work for a twelvemonth to play golf, there would not be a tenth more in the city." He meant the profession would be so rejuvinated after the year on the links that the business of healing human ills would be tremendously improved.

Dr. Robert Law, a famous Scotch physician, said there was no better game than golf for the health of all ages, and that it acted as a splendid medicine.

Mental Attitude

John Henry Taylor, five times British open champion, has said that the mental attitude that one adopts towards golf governs entirely whether one can play it successfully or not. There seems to be a constant rebellion going on in the player's mind between what he knows to be right and the desire to obtain the full effect of it.

Mind simply stated, this state of mind is called "pressing", and the player who presses hasn't got a chance. In his consideration of the subject, Dr. Hyslop has evolved a formula for the right mental attitude. The formula for "par" golf, he says, depends on three main factors: Practice, automatism and reason.

RED CROSS' NEEDS

The work which the Red Cross has been doing has taxed its resources. There is a need for a generous response this year. It was announced at the annual meeting here that 5,000,000 members would be required. The co-operation of the business element of the nation has been pledged by the United States Chamber of Commerce. Other bodies should give similar support, and general public backing is essential. It is hard to imagine what the situation would be in time of general need without the Red Cross. The necessity for organized action is never greater than at the moment of general confusion that follows some holocaust. The Red Cross maintains an organization ready to handle any problem of this sort, large or small. It is able to operate with a minimum of delay, and to get maximum results for the money spent. Measured in dollars, the work which the Red Cross does could not be done by any other agency for twice as much money. It is, therefore, only a matter of National economy to give the Red Cross such support as it needs.—Washington Post.

Today's Poems

THE GLOW WORM

The glow worm strolling forth at night,
Bears on his back a twinkling light,
A light which helps him not at all
To run or romp, or creep or crawl.

For if you'll look at him you'll find
It only lights the path behind.
And not a single ray is shed
Upon the road that lies ahead.

But bats and whipperwills and owls
And other fierce nocturnal fowls
Behold the dimly lured glare
And cry "Aha! A worm is there"

And uttering delighted squeals
They lay the glow worm by the heels—
Who still might walk the meadows damp
But for that self revealing lamp.

How glow worms still can keep alive
And even multiply and thrive
When always, at the close of day
They go and give themselves away
To enemies which flock about
It more than I can figure out.

Here is a matter, I maintain
Which evolution can't explain.

FAME

Fame knows neither birth nor place
Time nor ancestry nor events.
All her garlands are to grace
Those who come to her with deeds

In the village waits the boy
All tomorrow's men may cheer.
And his neighbors shall enjoy
Telling that he once was near

Bethlehem were lost to fame
But for that eventful morn
Mary to the stable came,
Where the son of God was born.

None can say and none can tell
Where the great souls come to birth
In a tenement may dwell
One who may uplift the earth.

Fame knows neither birth nor time
Time nor ancestry nor creeds
All the glory of renown
Follows where achievement leads

LIVESTOCK RATE HEARING STARTS

INFORM I. C. C. MEN THAT SOUTHWEST PACKERS ARE AT DISADVANTAGE

(By Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24.—Railroad rates on livestock shipments from southwestern points to Chicago are not in a proper proportion with rates on livestock products between the same points, John R. Baker, Chicago representative of Armour & company and subsidiary companies, testified at the hearing which began here today before Examiners C. E. Stiles and A. S. Harker of the I. C. C. and representatives of railroads west of the Mississippi.

The proper relationship is that which existed on June 24, 1918, when an order of the director general of railroads increasing rates on livestock products went into effect Mr. Baker contended.

"The comparative cost of shipping a carload of cattle from Fort Worth to Chicago should not be less than the cost of transporting the finished products of that carload of cattle from Fort Worth to Chicago," Mr. Baker said. "If there is any advantage it should be given to the local packers."

He urged that if rates on livestock are reduced there also be given a reduction of rates on livestock products, pointing out that southwestern packing plants already are at a disadvantage because of the improper ratio when competing with Chicago packers.

Arguments for reparations on certain shipments of livestock from Texas points on grounds that carriers Texas and Oklahoma points to Kansas points on grounds that had had cancelled rates in effect during government control of railroads, that cattle shipments had been made, and that the former basis had then been restored were made on the witness stand by A. H. Priest, representing the Texas livestock traffic association and other southwestern cattlemen's organizations.

The hearing is the fourth of a series being held under the Hoch-Smith resolution adopted by the last congress, and is considered one of the most important ever held in the revision of livestock rates. Previous hearings were at Salt Lake City, Portland, and Los Angeles.

SCOPE OF MINE STRIKE WIDENS

SEVEN MORE MINES IN SOUTHERN COLORADO CLOSED MONDAY

(By Associated Press)

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 24.—Assured of support of more miners in the northern field, Industrial Workers of the World today issued orders at the organization headquarters in the southern district for an intensive campaign to make the Colorado coal strike 100 per cent effective.

As the strikers faced their second week of idleness in support of their demands for higher wages and shorter hours, operators continued without sufficient special officers to curb picketing, led successfully by women over the week-end.

More Mines Closed

I. W. W. forces conducting the strike transferred their activities from Huerfano to Las Animas county and succeeded in closing seven additional mines. Nine pickets were arrested and taken to jail at Trinidad.

I. W. W. members from Walsenburg joined pickets from the Aguilar Trinidad districts in making a surprise attack on the Berwin canon sections. What was described as a "small army" of pickets watched all the roads and induced the miners not to work.

Because of the activity of the pickets but 67 men were at work at the three Colorado Fuel and Iron company mines in Berwind canon while 375 were working Saturday. Four independent mines were forced to cease operations in the same section when the men did not appear for work.

Pickets Still Active

One small band of pickets was active in the Walsenburg district. Seven men and eight women went to the Walsen this morning but were stopped by the guards. Two mines in the district which did not operate Saturday resumed operations today with a small force of men.

Coal company officials said the situation was becoming more alarming. I. W. W. officials were delighted with the results of their surprise picketing of Las Animas county mines today and predicted that by the end of the week there would not be a mine operating in the southern Colorado coal fields.

The northern Colorado fields were paralyzed by the strike. Miners there yesterday laid plans to form a caravan to send to Fremont county to seek to have the miners there join in the strike.

Award Contracts For Fuel Supply

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—Contracts for supplying approximately 12,000,000 barrels of fuel oil for the operation of shipping board vessels, basing at Atlantic and Gulf ports next year, were awarded today by the shipping board.

Oil for ships bunkering at New York, Philadelphia, Galveston, Texas, and Port Arthur, Texas, will be supplied by the Gulf Refining company, the Standard Oil company of New Jersey received the contracts to supply oil to ships bunkering at New Orleans, Bay Town and Baton Rouge. The Texas company received the contract to supply oil to ships bunkering at Charleston and Jacksonville.

AGAIN DISCUSS TAX REDUCTION

TALK OF LEGISLATION IS GIVEN ZEST BY ARRIVAL OF CHAIRMAN GREEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—Arrival at the capitol today of Chairman Green of the house internal revenue committee, gave new impetus to discussion of tax legislation by the forthcoming congress and specifically centered attention on the meeting of that convention seven days hence to being the writing of a revenue bill.

While the chairman said he was not prepared to discuss all aspects of the prospective legislation, he announced, however, that he favored general reduction of the corporation tax. He likewise declined to estimate now how much taxes could be reduced.

Representative Collier, of Mississippi, a democrat on the committee, declared however, that he favored a tax cut of $400,000,000 the minimum figure suggested recently by his democrats colleague, representative Garner of Texas, the ranking minority member.

MEXICAN REBELS FIGHT FEDERALS

INSURGENTS SUFFER HEAVY LOSS THOUGHT TROOPS NEARLY UNSCATHED

(By Associated Press)

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Oct. 24.—Federal troops seeking the rebel general, Arnulfo Gomez, have come into conflict with a force of rebels in the Orizaba volcano region.

A federal commander was killed and a staff officer wounded. The casualties among the federals were described as slight, while the rebels in fleeing left dead and wounded behind.

General Has Close Call

General Jesus Aguirre, chief of military operations in Vera Cruz state, who took part in the action, was stated to have had a narrow escape.

Colonel Jose Villa Vicencio, commander of the second battalion, was killed. Major Jose Hinestrosa, chief of General Aguirre's staff, was wounded.

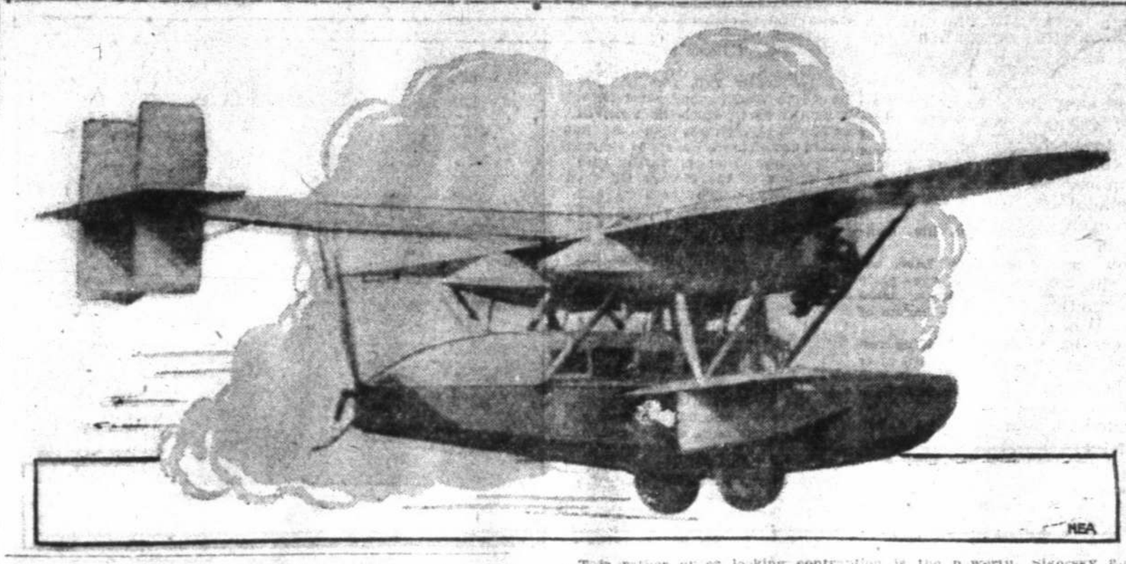

The rebels were reported to have been dislodged from their position at Laperia. They were said to have been driven to higher ground at Spanish ridge. The rebels were commanded by General Iozada of the Gomez-Almada forces.

Barragan Leaves

President Caranza's former chief of staff, General Juan Barragan, has embarked for Havana, Cuba, declaring that he had abandoned politics. He and Fernando Cuen, a Mexican lawyer, who left with him aboard the American steamer Monterrey, were accompanied by an agent of the secretary of interior.

General Barragan and Cuen took refuge in the Cuban embassy in Mexico City, after the military revolt in Mexico City. They were liberated through the efforts of President Machado of Cuba, who conducted negotiations on their behalf with President Calles. They will take up their residence in Cuba.

This Is The Plane Mrs. Grayson Will Attempt To Fly To Denmark

The attempt to fly to Denmark marks the first stage by American flyers of a plane that can land on either earth or water in trans-oceanic flights.

Lubbock's Growth During Last Four Years Astounding To Mrs. Chitwood Who Finds Changed City Every Fall

"I have never seen anything to equal it!"

That was the statement made last night by Mrs. Ida Chitwood, nationally known conductor of the Avalanche-Journal's Fourth Annual Free cooking school, after an auto trip about the city— her fourth such inspection in as many years.

"Your growth and progress is nothing short of remarkable," the culinary expert said, "and the contrast of the Lubbock today and of four years ago would be unbelievable to me had I not seen them with my own eyes."

It is impossible for Mrs. Chitwood to remember much about the cities she visits in her nation-wide programs but she has remembered Lubbock because when she came here to hold her first school, in 1924, the South Plains capital was the smallest city in which she had ever appeared. And even today, with the population almost doubled since she first saw it, Lubbock is one of the smallest if not the smallest of cities which she visits.

Lubbock and Tech Widely Known

"With all your evident civic spirit," Mrs. Chitwood remarked, "I seriously doubt that the people of Lubbock realize how well the city is known in the north and east, as well as in the south and west. I can tell you frankly that in conversations I have had in the northeast, when this section is referred to I hear Lubbock mentioned at least twice as often as any other place in all West Texas. It is needless for me to say that Lubbock is not only known but favorably known and spoken of, and Texas Tech's wonderful start has been widely broadcast and interestingly followed."

But just because Lubbock is the smallest city which she visits is no reason why she is not as much interested in things here as anywhere else—in fact it rests the other way and Mrs. Chitwood seems to be as zealous for Lubbock's progress as many of the people who live here. "My newspapermen," she said, meaning the scores of editors and publishers with whom she works as she conducts schools, "tell me that I am temperamental—like an operatic prima donna rather than a scientific cook—and perhaps I am. Who wouldn't be, traveling from one end of the country to another, away from home and old friends and appearing in public almost every day regardless of feelings. But even so I am not so temperamental as to believe that in the large cities only are the things worthwhile. I know full well, from my wide travels, that there is no section of the country which gives more promise than the South Plains of West Texas and no city which has had a more stable and interesting growth than Lubbock."

She's Here Through Friday

Mrs. Chitwood will be here through Friday, conducting daily classes in the Avalanche-Journal cooking school, which opened yesterday. The classes, with the exception of Friday, will start promptly at 2 p. m. in the Lyric theater. Because of the wide interest in the A. and M. football game, which will be a feature Friday afternoon, the school will be held at 9 a. m., at the Lyric, on that day. Women attending are requested to be on time and to bring notebooks and pencils so that they may better follow the lectures and demonstrations.

Date Is Fixed For Stephens Hearing

AUSTIN, Oct. 24. (AP)—After a sharply-declined plea up the state board of control Monday set next Thursday as the date for hearing defense arguments in behalf of Mrs Agnes Stephens, superintendent of the state girls' training school at Gainesville, charged with violation of the anti-nepotism law by hiring her second cousin, Miss Minnie Witherspoon, as a music teacher at the school.

Dr. H. H. Harrison, chairman of the board, objected to what he regarded as "a re-opening of the case" declaring the defense attorneys had not asked to make arguments at the conclusion of the hearing of the case. He voted however, by Roy I. Tennant and R. B Walthall, members. Tennant introduced the resolution calling for hearing of the argument.

URGES UNIFORM INSURANCE LAWS

MANY LAWS NOW IN EFFECT FOR VARIOUS STATES HELD CONFUSING

DALLAS, Oct. 24.—A plea for uniform insurance laws to replace the many codes that exist in different states before the legal section of forest sixty in this country was made before the legal section of the American Life Convention here today by Charles G. Rilk, Davenport, Iowa, general counsel for the Rechster Life Insurance Company.

He especially approved the uniform insurance law which has been drafted by the American Bar Association and which provides stabilization of insurance, the revision of taxation of life insurance companies, and for forcing companies holding them to dispose of railway stocks and bonds on the ground they are not secure investments.

On the other hand, uniform insurance laws were as vigorously opposed by John B. Nanten, counsel for the Midland National Life Insurance company of Watertown South Dakota.

"Uniform legislation will not solve the ills of insurance," he said because it would hamper the development of companies while each must special conditions peculiar to their part of the country and not found in other communities."

Airplane Plants Have Many Orders

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—Aeronautical activities of the past summer have brought such a rush of orders to American airplane manufacturers that prizes of $150,000 may go begging, or go abroad, because the big companies in this country are too busy to try for them.

The safe aircraft competition sponsored by the Daniel Guggenheim foundation for the promotion of aeronautics, has been open almost two months, and only two American companies, and those relatively small, have filed entry blanks, as against five entries from England, four of them world-famous companies.

"The trouble is", Harry Guggenheim, president of the Guggenheim foundation, told the Associated Press, "that our manufacturers are so booked up with orders that they can't think of anything but getting out planes. We hope, however, that many of them will come in later".

Old-fashioned

"But I enjoy the actual process of cooking. I guess in spite of all my new ideas, I'm old-fashioned in that respect. There's no satisfaction on earth like serving a very nice meal to people who appreciate it."

Her celebrated and delicious shrimp sticks are made by this recipe:

Try It; It's Great!

One pound fresh shelled shimps 1 pound white bread, whites of three eggs, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 an onion, a small piece of fresh ginger.

Place the shrimps, the onion and ginger in a meat chopper and grind very fine. Add the white of eggs, salt and pepper and beat until the ingredients are stiff. Spread on thin slices of bread and cut into strips about an inch wide and four inches long. Sprinkle with brown bread crumbs. Cook in deep fat until all is a golden brown, then drain on heavy paper. These slices should be served very hot.

ment, from year to year, as I hold my schools, most of them in conjunction with the largest newspapers and in the largest cities in the United States."

"This is my fourth happy visit to Lubbock," she continued, "and I see it here, just as I saw it in Tulsa last week, in Houston, in Shreveport and other cities already this year, just as I am sure I will see improvement in Buffalo, New York, next week. All over the country I find that women, from year to year, are taking more interest in the cooking, and, with scientific instruction, are becoming more proficient."

"Just because Nellie Wong happened to win the culinary prize at the New York exposition, does not, in my opinion, prove that Chinese women as a whole are better or even as good in that department as our own women," was Mrs. Chitwood's opinion.

FOUR WOUNDED AS BANK RAIDED

NOTORIOUS CRIMINALS ARE BELIEVED LEADERS OF ARKANSAS YEGGS

ST. JOE, Ark., Oct. 24 (AP)—Two notorious outlaws were believed to have been members of a band of four who wounded three citizens today as they shot their way to freedom after robbing the St. Joe bank of $300. One of the robbers was wounded and was carried to a waiting automobile by his comrades.

Lee Sitton and Troy Love, escaped convicts, from the state penitentiary at Little Rock, were recognized by citizens as leaders of the bandits.

Sitton was accused of killing two men here last July in a brawl after his escape. He and Love then fled to the hills and ever since have evaded capture.

The four men were seen entering the bank today before it opened. The man who saw them gave an alarm and a number of townspeople responded. In an exchange of shots, W. L. Henseley, a merchant, was shot in the abdomen and probably fatally wounded.

Albedt Arnold, postmaster, and Harry Nunnally, a mechanic, were struck by bullets but their wounds are slight.

Firing as they fled, the robbers entered an automobile they had stolen a short time previously and sped away. The car was found abandoned a mile west of town and the four men were believed to have made for the Buffalo hills, noted rendezvous of the criminals. The fastness of the region makes pursuit both difficult and dangerous.

Before entering the bank the four men had robbed D. W. Smith, of his automobile and $500 in cash.

COOKING SCHOOL

Program Not Repeated

Armed with an assortment of new recipes, Mrs. Chitwood is bringing tasty innovations in diet to her school each day, and is not repeating a program that has been given in any previous school here.

She emphasized the use of scientific methods in measuring and cooking, gives points in marketing and serving food and stresses the profession of home-making throughout her lectures.

The crowd of several hundred yesterday was made up of women from Lubbock and the outlying rural districts. Many of those who attended had been to previous schools conducted by this home economist and returned yesterday, bringing their neighbors with them. This cosmopolitan group greeted Mrs. Chitwood with applause as she came to her model kitchen, after having been introduced by Spencer A. Wells president of the Board of City Development, who complimented the Avalanche-Journal upon having secured the services of this nationally known culinary expert again this year.

The making of coffee souffle pie and angel parfait, the latter an unusually tasty frozen dessert, were demonstratted by Mrs. Chitwood. In the pie demonstration, she told of the making of plain crusts, one of the few receipts that she will repeat during the school.

To Repeat on Pie Crusts

This duplication is justified in that pie crusts are among the foods that are proverbially poorly made, according to this cookery authority, and the recipe given yesterday is such that it has been designated as the "struggling Bride's crust."

Through the use of scientific methods and pure food stuffs, any cook may be constantly successful in her cooking, according to this authority, who urges however, that every women use the material from which she gets perfect results, thus individualizing her cookery.

Mrs. Chitwood gives recipes for foods, demonstratees the measuring and combination, tells of new methods that she has learned during her travels and then exhibits her finished product before the end of tend, are urged to bring pencil and paper in order that they may copy the receipes, the majority of these having been worked out by this scientist in her labatory.

Fudge Cake Today

The fudge cake that is to be demonstrated today was developed by Mrs. Chitwood after several months of experimenting. Her fondness for fudge candy making it exigent that she find a food that would not be so fattening as the candy. The cake tastes and looks as much like fudge candy as any other food can, she says, and has the attraction of not producing so much fat.

A salad to be told of this afternoon combines all the requirements of foods in one palatable dish, this food providing the materials for promoting the growth of every organ, "from hair to fingernails" this expert says. In addition to these the salad may be quickly prepared, she said.

For Average Housewife

Stressing the economic side of cookery, this expert will demonstrate throughout her school the making of dishes that will appeal to the average housewife who must each day prepare three meals to meet the demands of her family's eccentric appetites. Along with these, she will show how to make dishes for more protentious occasions.

Mrs. Chitwood came here from Tulsa, Okla., where she has been conducting a week's school and immediately prior to that she was in Shreveport, La., and Houston, go toetaoinetaoinetaoinaoiniiniinin From Lubbock this expert will go to Buffalo, N. Y., to conduct a school for the Times. Lubbock is among the smaller, if not the smallest city in which this home economist demonstrates.

FALL DIRECTED

logical and operating points of view it appears imperative not to open up the Teapot Dome in any manner."

Subsequently Fall, who had returned to Washington, called for a second report, which he received on March 10, 1922, less than a month before the Sinclair lease was signed. This report dealt primarily with the claims of the Pioneer Oil Co.

Tellman said that both he and L. E. Eddie, another witness, had told Fall that all the claims had been "closed out". The final letter could not be found in the files, but Fall was quoted by this witness as saying that he had doubt it had been misplaced. Then Tallman attributed to the former cabinet officer a statement that he was looking at the matter from a standpoint of a "cautious lawyer" and was apprehensive, that the claims might come into the publication of "unscrupulous persons" who might use them to the disadvantage of the government.

Tells of Lease

Arthur W. Ambrose, one-time petroleum technologist in the interior department testified that Fall called him in; told him Sinclair had made an offer for leasing Teapot Dome; introduced him to the oil operator and his attorney, the late J. W. Zevely, and directed him to prepare a lease.

First negotiations began in Fall's office, then proceeded in his library in the next room and finally were shifted to Zevely's office where the lease was whipped into final form. Ambrose said he never consulted any lawyers in the interior department about the lease, referring all questions to Fall directly.

Ambrose was present when Fall and Sinclair attached their signatures to the lease, but he did not see Sinclair deliver to Fall any of the quit-claim deeds he obtained from the Pioneer company or other claimants and for which he was to have paid more than one million dollars, had the government not stepped in to terminate the lease through court action.

Negotiations Confidential

Throughout the negotiations Ambrose characterized the whole matter as confidential.

On cross examination of the government witnesses, defense counsel made it a matter of record that both E. C. Finney, first assistant secretary of the interior, and H. S. Porterbain, director of the bureau of mines, were in Fall's office when the secretary told Ambrose about Sinclair's offer and directed that the lease be drawn.

Attorneys for defense also contended that there was nothing to show that the first Tallman report ever reached Fall, who still was in New Mexico when it was presented to Safford. They also tried to bring out the point when he considered the lease Fall had before him a motion of the Pioneer Company for a rehearing by the secretary himself, a procedure provided for by law, but Tallman could not recall that Fall had referred to that.

At the outset today, Justice Siddons announced that he could not render an opinion as to the admission of Sinclair's testimony before the senate oil committee until he had more light on the question of whether he was actually subpoenaed before that committee.

Counsel on the two sides undertook to reach a stipulation on this point as the evidence is very vague. They have about agreed that Sinclair was "requested" or "invited" to appear and give testimony and have said that he was sworn before he began to make his statement.

BANKS HOSTILE

son that representatives of farm relief could not be given a larger place on the program.

"The farmers feel," Senator Caraway said in a statement after the conference between Governor Donaghey's committee and the bankers' agricultural committee members, "that the bankers and the industrial interests have prejudiced leaders of the country, even the president of the United States, against any relief for farmers and we feel that the farmers are justified in feelin that way.

"It was our hope to interest the bankers to the point where they would investigate the situation, as it should be investigated and study our plan to formulate some plan for relief."

Senator Caraway recited that Mr. Donaghey had written the association Saturday about being given a place in program during the convention but asserted "we were not given the courtesy of a reply. The girl at the convention headquarters merely told us she was instructed to say there was no room for our speeches."

After insisting that the committee had found a hostile attitude on the part of the bankers in refusing to "give us a hearing," Senator Caraway declared "we feel there is no group of people in the United States who are in a position to be more successful in applying for legislation than our bankers. We feel that the bankers ought to give us a respectful hearing. We represent a large group that is being crushed and we have definitely learned that the higher-ups, or the bankers, will give them no redress. The farmers feel that these same people in high places have been prejudiced against farm relief and that the bankers apparently are without sympathy in the farmer's desire for relief."

Warns of Future

C. V. Truax, director of agriculture of Ohio, who announced that he would leave here immediately on the conference result, also issued a statement in which he said that "if the present conditions of the farm continue in a short time the bankers will own a large part of the farmer's land and be as nearly bankrupt as the farmer is now."

Colonel Ousley, of Fort Worth, another member of Mr. Donaghey's committee and widely known in agricultural activities, also issued a brief statement in which he said that the best proof that a farmer's problem existed was the action of President Coolidge in vetoing the Haughen-McNary bill after it had passed the houses.

Dr. B. W. Kilgore, American Cotton Growers' Association board chairman, another committee member, also issued a statement in which he insisted that what he called a $500,000,000 loss to cotton farmers last year "could have been prevented through suitable federal legislation by taking care of surpluses when they occur and the farmer would have profited by an increase in price instead of suffering through that loss."

men of the Ponca tribe, which Colonel Miller had befriended on many occasions, chanted the mourning song of the tribe while two tom toms beat in unison, as part of the ceremony. Horse Chief Eagle delivered an oration in the Ponca tongue, which Colonel Miller knew as a chief adopted into the tribe as "Walking Above." When the orator had finished, he placed a pipe on Colonel Miller's casket with a pouch of tobacco, and these were buried with him under the shady trees of the cemetery.

The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. J. Frank Sanders, pastor of the First Christian church here, who eulogized the man who had done much for the southwest in wide scale agricultural experiments on the ranch. "He who causes two blades of grass to grow, where only one grew before," he said, "is a public benefactor."

One hundred members of the Cherokee Strip Cowpunchers' Association, an organization which Colonel Miller perfected several years ago to bring together men who had herded Oklahoma cattle prior to the opening of the strip in 1893 attended the funeral in a body. Several of their number were pallbearers.

SELECT CONNER JURY

Testimony, Which Starts Today, Promises to Be Of Very Sensational Nature

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24. (AP)—Selection of the jury which is to hear the trial of Harry Conner, former city detective, on a charge of violating the anti-mash law, was completed in criminal district court here tonight. Testimony, some of which is expected to be a highly sensational nature will be taken Tuesday.

Indictment of Conner grew out of the flogging of the night of July 8 of Morris Stearns, Fort Worth plumbing supplies dealer.

Names of Rev. J. Frank Norris, pastor of the First Baptist church of Fort Worth and of the Ku Klux Klan figured prominently in the questioning of the veniremen during the session today. Conner was one of the witnesses for Rev. Norris when the pastor was tried in Austin last January for the murder of D. E. Chipps, and the pastor is said to have raised a large fund for the defense of Conner in his present trial.

WILL TELL SCHOOL BENEFITS AT HARROLD

County Superintendent W. M. Pevehouse will explain the benefits of continuing school to the Harrold school board Tuesday noon when he visits the school.

The board extended him an invitation to make such an address and the superintendent will combine the visit for this purpose with the visit he had intended to make as part of the tour he is making to all the schools of the county.

Mr. Pevehouse is of the opinion that if farmers could have enough cows, chickens and swine to live at home, the children could tend to this phase of farm life and attend school at the same time. He believes that this would enable the farmer to be independent of cotton as a single crop and would loose the grasp that the cotton fields has on the time of the children.

Some Girls Make A Profession Of Writing Letters

DENTON, Texas, Oct. 24.—"Letters written. Terms reasonable. Reductions on those to Aggies. Specialists in writing home for money." reads a sign on a dormitory door at the College of Industrial Arts.

From which the deduction is drawn that students of the college have made a real profession of letter writing. Color complexes appear in pink, gray, blue, and wildly checked stationary. Inks having been replaced by the more colorful Scripa, more cheerfulness is added to the letters by writing them in screaming purples, vivid greens and passionate reds. And often the content matches the color scheme.

(Special To The Avalanche)

LOCKNEY, Oct. 24.—The laying of 24,000 feet of sewer pipe and the construction of a sewage disposal plant are now underway along with the laying of 2,500 feet of additional water mains. When completed, Lockney's sewage disposal system will be large enough to serve the city completely and is to be built at a cost of $55,000. Lockney has just completed a $30,000 extension to its water system, this extension making it possible for the city to furnish water to the consumer at a rate far below the average and with a supply that is more than adequate at all times.

The West Texas Gas company have finished the work on their distribution lines in the city and are now serving gas to the users, thus placing Lockney in a position to offer her residents any convenience offered in the larger cities.

A new retail filling station is now being built in south Lockney on the Lee Highway, by the Consumers Fuel Association, making the the second retail station of modern design to be built in Lockney during the past three months, the other a Pierce Petroleum Corporation station operated by P. New Church Ready

Under the leadership of Elder Emile Arceneaux, the Church of Christ at this place have practically completed a building campaign by which they will erect a church building, modern in every respect, that will involve an expenditure of $17,000 or more. A site has been purchased, materials ordered and construction is expected to start immediately.

Lockney is to have her first restricted addition. Stokes and Shields, California operators and more recently of Midland, Texas, have started the development of a residential addition in west Lockney. Trees and shrubbery are now being planted, streets being graded and water, sewer and gas mains being installed. Approximately 50 lots are to be sold from this addition.

Oil Mill Finished

The Lockney Cotton Oil Mill is nearing completion, with very little work yet to be done, according to the operators. The main building and seed house are finished with a large portion of the work on the hull house and office completed. Workmen are now busy clearing the yard and grading the different driveways over the premises. The opening date of the mill has not yet been announced, however operation is expected to begin during the earlier part of December.

Railroad grading crews are now finishing the grade through the city the last link of the grade from Estelline, the junction point, to Lubbock the terminus. It is thought that the Denver will be running trains through Lockney by July 1st 1928, however there remains an immense amount of work yet to be finished under the caprock.

The Texas Utilities company are adding efficiency units to their system in Lockney in order to care for the increasing demands for their commodities. When finished, Lockney may receive electric power from the Lubbock plant, the Plainview plant or both.

Students Do Many Tasks While Making Way Thru College

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24.—Students in Texas Christian University here, in order to work their way through school, do everything from milking goats to acting as bellhops and janitors. Approximately 350 T. C. U. students, both boys and girls are working their way through T. C. U. this year, according to Prof. John W. Ballard, chairman of the employment committee.

Practically every business establishment in the downtown district has at least one T. C. U. student employed. The new Worth Theatre opening here next month, is planning to use T. C. U. students as ushers.

Working boys and girls are some of the best students that T. C. U. has, according to Prof. Ballard, for they learn the value of time. If possible, however, parents who are able should bear their son's or daughter's college expenses and leave the jobs for the boys who really need them.

Aged Pair View Carlsbad Cave

CARLSBAD, N. M., Oct. 24.—Capt. and Mrs. Addison M. Williams, aged 77 and 72 years, respectively, were week-end guests of the Santa Fe Transportation Company on a visit to Carlsbad Cavern. Notwithstanding their ages the couple made the cavern trip without inconvenience and thoroughly enjoyed every moment spent underground, according to their later conversations.

A coincident of Capt. William's visit here related to his temporary residence in this section more than 50 years ago. He then was attached to Troop M, 8th Cavalry, under the command of the then Capt. C. M. H. Young, who was later a Brigadier General in charge of the Yellowstone National Park when that park was under the jurisdiction of the War Department. Capt. Williams

WHAT HAS BEEN TOLD

Frank Norfleet, a Texas rancher swindled out of 145,000 by members of a confidence ring, headed by Joe Furey, resolves to break up this gang if it takes his last penny. After considerable effort he finds two of his men in California. They are returned to Fort Worth for trial. Following a tip of a stranger he goes to Florida to search for his men and at St. Petersburg he casually meets an old couple named Bockerman who had been robbed of a life time's savings by swindlers at Clearwater. He attempts to help them find their swindlers but meets with so much opposition on the part of the officers he is forced to give the attempt up as futile and go on searching for his own men. After visiting several Florida towns he comes to Tampa. Posing as a country hick, he strikes up a conversation with a policeman in an effort to learn what he can of the operation of swindler's in that locality. Hearing that one of the links in the con-chain was operating at Sanford, Norfleet hurries there where he poses as a prospective purchaser of a celery farm. His big talk about the sizeable sum he expects to invest in a celery farm brands him as a possible sucker and attracts the attention of a man who introduces himself as Mr. Johnson.

Chapter Fourteen

We talked for some time. He told me that he hated to see anyone put a lot of money into celery raising unless he had had experience in the business. He said that the overhead was tremendous, that it usually ate up all the income and profits and that I might learn too late that I had made a bad investment. He also mentioned that I would probably never get my money out of the land I would buy because, if I did not understand celery raising, the farm would show the effect of bad farming and discourage a purchaser.

He was a convincing talker and I'm sure that, had I really intended buying a celery farm, he would have changed my intention. However, I pretended that I would not be discouraged and seemed determined to go right on with my plans. I invited him to go with me to inspect some property which I told him I planned to look over in the afternoon. He declined, saying that he believed he would take in the races over at Daytona Beach.

"That's some fine country for you," he exclaimed. "If I were going to invest in farm lands, I wouldn't fail to see Daytona and the country around it. Really, Parkhurst," laying a paternal hand on my arm, "you ought to have a look there before deciding definitely on that acreage out here." He indicated the country outside the window with a deprecating gesture. "How about running over with me today? You'd enjoy the automobile races on the beach, we could spend a pleasant day and you could have a look at the country around Daytona."

I thought he was a trifle too eager. "It's kind of you," I said, but I held out for Sanford celery.

"Well," he compromised, "tell you what let's do. I'll go with you to look at the celery farm this morning, if you'll go with me to the races at Daytona this afternoon, as my guest. It doesn't take long to run over there and we'll have a good time. That's fair, isn't it?"

He was heavy on the "guest" idea. I wondered what his game was. Evidently he was not going to let me out of his sight, since I mentioned the money I expected to invest, even though he had to wade mud in the celery fields with me. It is said that such disinterested strangers can become so suddenly interested in one. Such consensi goubs!

I now felt little doubt about Johnson being a "plant." The rest of the gang were, no doubt, looking on wondering when he'd have me prepared for the next movement of their machinery. To their scientific minds, I had probably now become a "suspect"—for a painless extraction of the pocketbook.

Johnson had some game that he wanted to pull off at Daytona Beach. I was sure of that. If I went with him, I might learn something; might gain some knowledge of Furey and Spencer. They might even be there! On the other hand, I might walk into a dangerous man-trap but it was a chance and I felt my venturesome spirit rise at the thought.

"That sounds fair," I replied. "I believe I'll accept. You're mighty kind to a lonesome stranger."

He smiled handsomely and he should so that it was a pleasure. Our conversation had drifted into very Chesterfieldian channels, with each of us trying to spread his salve thicker than the other. He played his role well but all that I ever met have, also. They are highly trained character actors, each fitted perfectly to the role he plays in the game.

We visited a celery farm and I looked it over very seriously. On this occasion I did not think it necessary to get my feet no muddy.

On our return, I pretended to be favorably impressed and Johnson launched into a resumption of his knocking campaign. As soon as we entered the hotel he got in a great hurry and began to fire directions to the clerk and bell hops about getting his baggage down.

"Are you going to stay at the Beach?" I asked.

"Yes, I may remain for a day or two. Say, by the way, you might decided to stay a day or so yourself. How about taking our own bag?"

I did not want to seem enthusiastic about the idea, although it pleased me. I felt that I should seem reluctant. He seemed to sense my indifference to stopping over and tried to hustle me into a decision. His very insistence proved to me that there was a trap of some kind ahead for me.

Before I left my room, I examined my guns carefully, putting two into my bag and concealing two on myself. I always carried my guns in such a way that was never suspected of having them, even by those with whom I had intimate contact. We started to Daytona at about three in the afternoon.

"Won't we be pretty late for the races?" I asked.

"Well, I'm afraid we will," he said regretfully. "But there is a county fair going on this week, so we can amuse ourselves and make the races tomorrow."

A county fair! The best stamping ground in the world for the light-fingered gentry. My reverie was interrupted by Johnson springing suddenly to his feet and bounding across the aisle of the car. He motioned for me to follow. I arose. From his excitement I thought perhaps an alligator was swallowing the Florida coast.

But it was something far more important—at least to Johnson!

"Did you see that man passing in the automobile?" he cried, forcing me forward and shoving my face against the window. "Say, I would give one thousand dollars to see that man for ten minutes. Did you get a look at him?"

I looked at him, questionably.

"I met him in Judge Hughes' office in New York City."

I recognized that phase of the old game. I had heard of Judge Hughes before. However, I looked at him as if puzzled at his actions.

"That fellow is the mysterious man who took $125,000 from the Stock Exchange in one day. He is a marvel of finance."

Stocks! Here we met again! The same old tactics in the same old game! But I couldn't afford to seem too wise. I must humor Johnson. I knew what he'd like for me to say and I said it.

"You don't say! I wish we could meet a man like that. Maybe he could make us both some money."

"I'm afraid we can't," he replied, with just the right tone of regret. "He is a power in the world of finance and we are just small fry."

However, I felt a premonition that the mysterious man would run into us soon, quite accidentally, of course. The handwriting was on the wall.

We reached Daytona at 5:30 that afternoon. I suggested that we walk to the hotel. Johnson approved and hurried on ahead. I allowed him to outdistance me, as I felt he would surely want to meet some other member of the ring and prepare the way for me.

When he was a hundred feet or so ahead, I stopped to speak to a woman standing on the front porch of her little cottage. My eye had caught a little "Room for Rent" sign in a window. I quickly engaged the room and whistled to Johnson. He turned like a hawk and came swiftly back to me. I could see that he was slightly angry.

"What's the idea of the whistle?" he demanded, nervously.

"I just wanted to tell you that my rheumatism is so bad I can't walk any farther. I have engaged a room here until tomorrow."

He must have noticed that I was a bit lame and he remarked that my mud bath of the night before hadn't helped me. I told him that I was tired and would go right to bed. We agreed that we would meet at eight in the morning. He bade me good night and left. I couldn't help thinking of how he jumped at my whistle. Evidently his kind are whistle-trained.

I arose at seven in the morning. As I raised the shade to let in the bright sun, I glanced at a little rustic bench outside.

Johnson was there.

Whether he had remained on guard all night I do not know. Perhaps the night watch had been divided into shifts, his gang-brethren doing their turns. At least I was the center of attention.

At eight o'clock, as chipper as a bird, he rang the bell and asked the landlady for Mr. Parkinson. I soon met him on the front porch and we went off to breakfast together. I asked him if he had rested well.

"Very well, indeed," he assured me.

"That is good," I said, wondering if he felt that his vigil was compensated in his having found that I hadn't flown.

After breakfast he suggested a stroll on the beach and we started out. Neither of us seemed inclined to talk and we walked along silently admiring the view of the sea. In the distance I noticed a man approaching. As he drew near, I saw that he was absorbed in a batch of yellow papers which he held in his hands. He looked neither to right nor left. As he stopped alongside us, near by, I saw that the papers were telegrams. He was intensely concentrating on them.

Although there was plenty of room on the beach, he brushed against me, but did not look up as he passed on, engrossed in the telegrams.

I turned a little as he passed, that I might watch him, unseen by Johnson, to whom I spoke in admiration of the scene's beauty.

"I told you you'd like it down here," Johnson remarked.

UBBOCK,

SOAP IS PRODUCED FROM COTTON SEED

IS LATEST BY-PRODUCT TO BE MADE AT A. AND M. LABORATORIES

(Special To The Avalanche)

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 24.—Enlargement of its laboratory facilities for giving practical instruction in industrial lines has been made recently at the A. and M. College of Texas through the installation of equipment for making soap as a by-product of cotton seed.

This soap-making equipment, consisting of a soap kettle mixer and hydrogenation apparatus, was presented to the department of chemistry and chemical engineering of the college by the Proctor and Gamble Company of Cincinnati, Ohio. Added to the complete cotton seed oil and refining mill equipment presented to the department by the Texas Coton Seed Crushers Association last year, this new equipment gives the college the final apparatus necessary to carry cotton seed from the raw state through the various processes of cleaning, delinting, hulling, crushing and pressing processes and the refining of the cotton seed oil into a hardened product by hydrogenation and the using of the soap stock from the crude cotton seed oil for making soap.

With such equipment the A. and M. College of Texas is the first and only institution of higher learning equipped for such work. The soap making equipment was furnished by the Proctor and Gamble Company at the request of M. E. Wilson, chairman of the educational committee on cooperation with the college for the Texas Cotton Seed Crushers Association.

The chemical engineering students will operate the cotton seed oil mill during October and November under the direct supervision of a specialist in each division of the work, sent to the college for the purpose by the Texas Cotton Seed Crushers Association.

BRISK DEMAND IS FELT FOR PICKERS

2500 NEEDED HEREABOUTS; OTHER TOWNS ISSUE S. O. S. REQUESTS

Twenty-five hundred cotton pickers are need right now in Lubbock and the immediate trade territory, and there now exists a slight shortage of this type of labor in this vicinity.

These were the announcements from R. F. Nelson, special agent of the U. S. Employment service, who is stationed in the Chamber of Commerce office. He has made a survey of the needs through the region.

In addition, other towns from far and wide on the South Plains have given the "S. O. S." for more pickers. Yesterday, for example, calls came from Littlefield, Ralls, and other towns closer by. Ralls said that 1000 could be used immediately.

A favorable break from the weather has greatly enhanced the yield of the region, according to D. F. Eaton who said that 10 or 12 thousand bales, which the slightest vagary of weather might have knocked out, will now be realized. A slight frost would be of benefit in speeding the maturity just now. Cotton is opening very rapidly now.

It is believed that a plentiful supply of labor is rapidly moving toward the South Plains and that within a few weeks whatever labor shortage exists will be eliminated. Farmers desiring hands are asked to get in touch with Mr. Belson as soon as possible.

Best Texas Boy And Girl Radio Singers Are To Be Selected

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Oct. 24.—Two young Texas singers, a boy and a girl, will emerge from a series of radio auditions which started at radio station KPRC last night as state champions to represent Texas in the district audition to be broadcast from WFAA, Dallas, in November, preliminary to the national radio audition sponsored by the Atwater Kent foundation. Another audition will be held over KPRC tonight and others will be held over WFAA Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

Winners of the district audition in November, which will bring together champions from Arkansas, Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico, will advance to the final competition for the national awards. This audition will be broadcast from New York in December. First award is $5000, a gold decoration and two years' conservatory tuition for one boy and one girl. District winners will receive a gold medal and their expenses to New York by way of Washington.

Radio audiences will hear the contestants sing at Dallas and at Houston and their vote will count 60 per cent against 40 for the judges listening in.

COOKING SCHOOL ECHOES

How I make Cakes—perfect every time!

Success depends on following the recipe and method carefully. So be sure to read your recipe and method through to the end before you start to work. Then start your oven, get out all the utensils you will need and grease your pans.

When you grease them with Crisco, you do not need to flour them. Crisco contains no moisture to cause your cakes to stick to the pans and scorch. Therefore, your cakes will come out whole, with no unsightly breaks, and an even brown all over.

Measurements must be accurate

Here is a way I have found to measure shortening accurately. To measure, for example, ¾ of a cup of Crisco, I take a measuring cup, put in ¾ cup of cold water, then add enough Crisco to bring the water to the top of the cup, pour it off, and I have an exact ¾ cup of Crisco.

The importance of the right shortening

I used to make all my cakes with butter. After I began to make my cakes with Crisco, using no butter at all, I found that they were perfectly delicious and my reputation as a cake-maker was just as high as ever. When my Crisco cakes are compared with cakes made with butter, no one can tell the difference.

If you are one of those who simply find it unbelievable that you can use all Crisco in cakes, try half butter and half Crisco at first. Then next time, perhaps, three-fourths Crisco and one-fourth butter. I am sure you will be so pleased with the results, that before you know it you will be using all Crisco for all your cakes.

Importance of creaming shortening and sugar

Not everyone realizes the importance of creaming the shortening and sugar together. The purpose is to soften the grains of sugar, and this is done by beating the sugar with the shortening until the mixture is soft and fluffy, and does not feel grainy to the spoon.

To have your layers even and of uniform thickness, divide your batter in equal parts and spread evenly over the bottom of the pans.

Correct baking temperature important

Up-to-date recipes give you correct temperature. If you are an experienced cake-maker and have never used a thermometer, you, of course, have your favorite way of testing your oven for the proper heat. If not, I advise you to buy an inexpensive oven thermometer. It will be a great help to you.

If you have your own favorite cake recipes, simply use Crisco in the place of the shortening your recipe calls for, adding 1 teaspoon of salt to every cup of Crisco used.

Standard Layer Cake

This recipe can be used as a standard for a variety of layer cakes. It will make a large 3-layer cake, and also six cup cakes. Or, instead of making the cup cakes, you can make four layers, making two cakes of two layers each.

½ cup Crisco
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 teaspoons baking powder
2 cups sugar
4 eggs, separated
3 cups pastry flour

Cream Crisco and sugar together thoroughly. Add egg yolks, well beaten. Beat in the milk, a little at a time. Then add ½ cup flour and beat until smooth. Sift rest of flour with baking powder and salt. Add to mixture and mix thoroughly. Add vanilla. Last fold in well-beaten egg whites. Divide batter into three well-Crisco'ed layer cake pans and six cup cakes. Bake in hot oven (375° F.), about 15 minutes. When partly cool, turn out on towel. When quite cold, spread filling between and on top of the layers.

Prune Cake

2 cups pastry flour
½ cup Crisco
1 teaspoon soda
2 eggs (unbeaten)
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
1 cup stewed and mashed prunes
1 cup sugar
½ cup sweet milk
½ teaspoon salt

Cream Crisco and sugar thoroughly. Add egg yolks well beaten. Then stir in prunes. Sift together, soda, spices, salt and flour and add alternately with milk. Last fold in beaten egg whites. Bake in loaf pan, one hour in moderate oven (325° F.).

Be sure prunes are thoroughly drained of all juice.

ALL MEASUREMENTS LEVEL
Recipes tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute

An Astonishing Blindfold Test

SEE if this doesn't give you the greatest surprise of your whole cooking experience!

Put a little Crisco on the tip of one spoon. On the tip of another place a little of the fat you are now using; have someone blindfold you, and give you first one, then the other fat to taste.

Now, did you ever imagine there could be such a striking difference in the taste of raw cooking fats? Think what an improvement Crisco's sweetness and freshness will make in your own cakes, pies, biscuits and fried foods.

Featherweight White Cake
(above)

½ cup Crisco
1 cup sugar
2 cups flour
3 egg whites
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt

Cream Crisco with sugar. Stir in alternately milk and sifted dry ingredients. Fold in thoroughly stiffly beaten egg whites. Add vanilla and turn batter into two greased layer pans. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.).

Ice with Seven Minute Icing.

Seven Minute Icing

¾ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar or baking powder
1 egg
3 tablespoons water
½ teaspoon vanilla

Place all ingredients in top part of double broiler, having water in lower part boiling. Beat together until thick enough to spread. Add vanilla.

Precaution—Have fine sugar or melt it in water before adding egg.

To test your cooking fat —taste it raw.

Crisco's superiority will astonish you.

DAILY MARKETS

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—The cotton market was quite today with prices lower, under selling which appeared to be influenced by favorable weather reports from the south. December opened off to 19.12 in late trading, or 16 points net lower, and closed at 19.11, the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 7 to 13 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 13 points on October but generally 2 to 6 points lower. Covering by October shorts accounted for the relative steady opening of that position, but after initial demand had been supplied the price eased off with the rest of the list.

Later months appeared to be sold on reports of very favorable weather conditions in the south over the week-end, but after showing net declines of about 10 to 15 points prices rallied 8 or 10 points from the lowest on covering. A little trade buying was also reported, and the failure of demand to broaden on the bulge probably disappointed early or recent buyers. At any rate the market again eased off under liquidation and southern selling and reached the lowest points of the day in late trading, except in the case of January. March sold off to 19.67 and closed at 19.72, last prices showing rallies of 3 to 5 points, from the lowest on more active positions.

A private crop report before the opening, placed the prospective yield at 12,375,000 bales, and said the crop might be increased by 200,000 bales should there be no killing frost in Texas until after November first. This combined with the better weather news, may have been a factor on the decline but trading generally was very quiet, and was attributed largely to further evening up of accounts in preparation for tomorrow's ginnings report. It was reported one of the authorities estimated the ginnings to Oct. 18, at 5,500,000 bales, which would compare with 5,127,790 ginned to that date last year.

Exports today 21,015, making 1,851,123 so far this season. Port receipts 53,948. U. S. port stocks 1,129,382.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 24. (AP)—Trading in today's cotton market was restricted to evening up advance of tomorrow's ginnings report. The long interest appeared to be liquidated and shorts were bolstered by a belief that tomorrow's report would be large. After easing off 18 to 19 points in the early trading the market recovered on moderate trade buying.

December contracts sold up from 19.84 to 19.93, but soon off in the late trading and closed at 19.68, 16 points net down with the general market closing steady at net declines of 16 to 17 points.

Liverpool was rather easy and of 2 to 3 points. Some last minute liquidations in the early trading carried January down to 19.79 and March 19.83, 18 to 19 points under yesterday's close. The market quieted down at these levels and prices fluctuated narrowly until mid-session trade buying forced January up to 19.89 and March 19.96. The rally was helped somewhat by shorts covering in advance of the ginnings report.

After rallying steadily in the early afternoon the market weakened and made a new low for January at 19.69 and March duplicated its earlier low with 19.92. Some eleventh hour covering in the final trading brought a recovery of 4 to 7 points.

Exports for the day totalled 21,017 bales.

COTTON GOODS

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Cotton goods were quiet today. Raw silk was steady. Burlaps sold down to 20 points from Saturday's list. Coarse wool goods are being opened for early fall cutting.

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, Oct. 24 (AP)—The outstanding feature of last weeks' import business was the arrival of nearly half a million pounds of fine over 60's wool out of a total of 1,520,000 pounds of combing grease foreign wool that entered at Boston as compared with 423,000 pounds during the previous week. Duty was also paid on more than 230,000 of fine wool. The fine wool consisted of 213,000 pounds of South African 171,000 pounds Australian and 94,000 pounds of Canadian origin. Outside of the fine wool, the bulk of the entries was of quarter and low quarter grades.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—The cottonseed oil market was inactive and irregular today. October advanced on short covering, while other positions were easier, reflecting liquidation stimulated by the weakness of lard, combined with favorable weather news and the reaction in cotton. The close was 10 points higher on October and 4 to 10 points lower on other positions. Sales 17,000 barrels. Prime crude 9.12 1-2; prime summer yellow spot 10.30. October closed 10.30; December 10.71; March 10.93; May 11.13.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. (AP)—Stimulated by an unexpected slump of the United States visible supply wheat rallied today after having once more broken the season's low price record. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as Saturdays finish to 1-4 cent down, with corn unchanged to 3-8 cent off, oats at a shade to 1-4@3-8 cent advance, and provisions varying from 55 cent decline to a rise of 10 cent.

Corn showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure, and rallied quickly with wheat influenced also by keen export demand at the gulf of Mexico. Oats were firmer sympathizing with corn rallies.

Provisions went sharply lower, affected by a decline in hog values.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24. (AP)—Although trading in the hog market here today was active, prices were generally 10 cents lower. Sows were 25 cents lower and pigs about steady. The cattle and sheep markets were generally steady.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. (AP)—Cattle 24,000; active, steady to strong on all steers, western grass steers 11.00@13.00; best yearlings 17.00; she stock steady to 15 lower; bulls steady; vealers 25 to 50 lower; mostly 12.50@13.00; stockers and feeders 9.50@10.50.

Hogs 45,000; uneven, 10 to 25 lower; top 11.85; bulk to 10.00@11.00; butchers 11.00@11.50; packing sows 9.00@9.50; pigs 9.00@9.75; estimated holdover 14,000.

Sheep 26,000; fat lambs active, steady to strong; natives 13.50@13.65; buck lambs 11.00@11.50; sheep steady; fat ewes 5.50@6.50; feeding lambs 25 higher; bulk 14.75@14.50.

RAYS SAVE ANIMALS

NEW YORK.—Five expensive animals, a howling monkey, a grivet monkey and three lemurs, were ill at the New York Zoological Park. They had "rays paralysis," a disease very similar to rickets. Doctors treated them with ultra-violet rays for three weeks and were rewarded by seeing hen become lively again.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and, inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
