Reds Capture Pivotal Bulwark Of Nazi Line

Rail Junction Of Berdichev Falls

Berlin Reports New White Russia Drive

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Thursday, Jan. 6. — The Russian First Ukrainian Army today captured the railway junction of Berdichev, pivotal bulwark of the German line protecting Poland and Rumania, after five days' fighting, Premier Marshal Joseph Stalin announced tonight in a special order of the day.

Berdichev, 25 miles south of Zhitomir, is the former headquarters of German Field Marshal Gen. Fritz von Mannstein. Its capture increased the communication links between the Russian westward drive into pre-war Poland and southwestward drive toward the Rumanian frontier.

Stalin's announcement came after a delay of more than an hour in the broadcast of the regular Moscow communique—indicating the capture was compelted only a short time before the announcement was made.

Lateral Railway Trunk

The Germans, earlier, had admitted evacuating the eastern portion of the manufacturing town which had a pre-war population of 51,000. It is on the trunk east-west railway from Koweel in Poland to Kazatin and connects with the Kiev-Vinnitsa railway 45 miles north of Vinnitsa.

The capture gave the Russians use of the lateral railway from Zhitomir to Kazatin in the south, where an important Russian force was pounding toward Rumania in hopes of cutting off the Germans remaining in the entire Dnieper bend area.

More than 60 other towns and hamlets were captured by Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's Ukrainian forces during the day, said the delayed Moscow communique.

90 More In White Russia

To the north in White Russia, where the Russians were advancing along the railroad toward Novosokolniki, more than 90 more towns were captured.

Moscow dispatches said the western front of Vatutin's attack which crossed the pre-war Polish border Tuesday had penetrated deep into Polesie in the direction of Sarny." Sarny is 35 miles west of the formed frontier. Polesie is the largest country of the pre-war Poland.

Meanwhile, Berlin announced an important new Soviet drive in the area southwest of Krichev in

Railroaders Win Wage Hike Point

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5. (AP) — Non-operating railroad employes apparently won a new point today in their campaign for more pay as President Roosevelt resubmitted their claims to an emergency board in language that seemed to limit the issue to that of overtime.

The unions had contended that only this issue should be open to discussion; they had balked at reopening a wage increase previously recommended for them.

Payments In Lieu Of Overtime

The White House announced that the case of the 1,100,000 clerks, shopmen and others who do not actually run trains, had been sent back to the board for consideration of "payments for or in lieu of overtime."

The statement at another point mentioned "unsettled claims for wage adjustments of the non-operating employes which were not presented" at the time the board made a previous report recommending sliding scale increases in regular time pay ranging from 4 to 10 cents an hour.

Spokesmen of the unions said that language seemed to limit the board to consideration of overtime pay claims, but they said the actual presidential order resubmitting the case was less specific.

The president's order today called for recommendations from the special board as soon as possible and at any rate within 30 days.

Effective Date Set

"Their (the board's) recommendations will become effective 15 days after their report is filed," a White House statement said, "unless and except to the extent that the economic stabilization director otherwise directs."

The new move toward settlement of the wage dispute of the biggest segment of railroad workers came while a member of the Interstate Commerce commission was protesting at the capital against drafting railroad men.

J. Monroe Johnson told the Senate Interstate Commerce committee the armed forces ought to restore to the industry "every man they've got now to avert a transportation calamity."

Clapper Declares:

Seabees Are Playing Big Part In War

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
War Correspondent

HONOLULU, Jan. 5—Navy people are full of talk about their Seabees, or construction battalions. Everybody has his own Seabee story. All of them are suggestive of men with ingenuity, courage, and a cocky indifference to tradition.

CLAPPER

In no time at all — for this whole business started after Pearl Harbor — the Seabees have become a kind of pick-and-shovel Marine corps, although they would resent that comparison. In fact the Seabees say that when the Marines land the Seabees are on hand to greet them.

There is much humorous rivalry between the Marines and the Seabees. At one post, the Marines put up a sign, "Seabees under 55 not admitted." The next day, Marines faced a sign which said: "Any Marine with four years' service can apply to be a junior Seabee."

They Do Their Jobs

Navy construction work, such as the building of landing fields, docks and shore defenses as at Wake and Midway, was done before Pearl Harbor largely by private contractors who hired their own working forces. Now most of that work is done by the enlisted men of the construction battalions. They are mostly volunteers recruited from various trades and construction gangs.

One top Army general inspecting some of their work asked the Seabee who was running a bulldozer how lang he had been in the Navy and doing that work. The Seabee said he had been in the Navy five months but had been running a bulldozer how long years. The general said he had found too often in the Army that the boy operating a bulldozer had been a store clerk six months before.

Seabees have simplified progress reports that run this way: "Can Do." "Will Do." "Did." They have improved on the technique of digging foxholes. One day a Seabee, during a bomber attack on an airfield at which he was working, got the idea of hiding in an empty oil drum. So he scooped out a hole for the

"Mother" Connell Dies At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Jan. 5, (AP) — Mrs. G. N. Connell, 86, a guiding spirit in the building of many Baptist churches throughout West Texas and in Fort Worth for more than 60 years, known as "Mother" Connell to her intimate friends, died tonight at her home.

Mrs. Connell was the widow of the late G. N. Connell, who rose from a West Texas cowboy to become a cattleman, banker and church leader in Brownwood, Sweetwater, Buffalo Gap, Dublin and Midland before the family moved to Fort Worth in 1889.

The Connels helped organize the G. H. Connell Memorial church in Fort Worth.

The survivors are five daughters, Mrs. C. R. Miller and Mrs. H. L. Eckhart, both of Dallas; Mrs. J. H. Reese, Beaumont; and Mrs. B. B. Snyder and Mrs. Edna Edmonds, both of Fort Worth; a sister, Miss Texas McHan, Brownwood; a son, Walter W. Connell, Longview and a brother, George W. McHan, Brownwood.

The funeral service will be conducted at 3 p. m. Friday at the G. H. Connell Memorial Baptist church here.

Marines Drive East From Cape

Borgen Bay Area Is Goal Of Push

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Thursday, Jan. 6 (AP) — United States Marines at invaded Cape Glouchester, New Britain, have driven east of there, headquarters reported today.

Utilizing tanks, guns and planes a strong force of Marines, attached to the U. S. Sixth Army, pushed in the direction of Borgen Bay against stiff Japanese resistance.

It has been in the Borgen Bay area that the enemy has put up its principal opposition and several counterattacks have been repulsed there.

Japs Blows Beaten Off

Today's war reports told of the quelling of Japanese air and ground counter blows in the Cape Gloucester sector.

Westward on New Guinea at invaded Saidor, where American forces have driven a wedge into the Japanese coastal supply line, Yank patrols moved inland and extended their holdings along the shore.

Five Nipponese planes were shot down while attempting to attack nearby shipping.

A bomber of the South Pacific Air force scored a direct hit at Kavieng, New Ireland, on a cruiser. Two heavy cruisers were severely damaged, if not sunk, by South Pacific bombers in a carrier plane strike in that same area a few days ago.

Northwest of Australia at Koepang, Timor, Mitchells flown by the Dutch and Beauforts manned by Australians blew up two Japanese freighters.

First Big Forward Push

The Marine drive at Cape Gloucester toward Borgen Bay opened Tuesday. It was the first heavy attack launched by the Yanks since the original landings Dec. 26.

Meanwhile the perimeter around the captured airdrome was expanded and solidified by a juncture of invasion forces at Sag Sag, seven miles southwest of Cape Gloucester.

(At the time of the invasion, one force went ashore at Borgen Bay and split up, part of it holding off Japanese from the east and the other part moving in on the Cape Gloucester airdrome. Apparently it was the airdrome force which moved to a junction with another group which invaded the Cape Dec. 26 on the south-

Newton's Appeal Arguments Filed

AUSTIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—Failure of a trial court to grant a continuance so that certain witnesses from Houston might testify was relied upon today in the appeal of Dr. William R. Newton from conviction of assault to murder Dr. Roy Hunt of Littlefield on May 21, 1942.

Attorney E. A. Camp told the court of criminal appeals the Lamb county trial court erred in not granting a continuance because the defense could have shown through the witnesses that Dr. Newton and his wife spent the entire night of May 21 in Houston.

Dr. Newton was assessed a seven-year sentence in Lamb county. His wife was indicted also for assault to murder but has not been tried.

Slain Last October

Dr. and Mrs. Hunt, their bodies blood-soaked, were found dead in bed in their Littlefield home by their six-year-old daughter on Oct. 26, 1943. A convict is being held for questioning in the slaying.

The 1942 attempt on the life of Dr. Hunt occurred between midnight of May 20 and 1 a. m. of May 21.

Camp said trial testimony

Air Transport Does Wonders With Supplies For Chinese

By PRESTON GROVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

AN AMERICAN AIR BASE IN NORTHEAST INDIA, Jan. 5 The 600-mile "hump air line" into China is freighting as much gasoline, bombs and fighting materials across the mountains by four-engined transports as ever passed over the old Burma road at its peak, it can be revealed today.

For a year correspondents in India were not allowed to mention the operations "over the hump" for fear publicity would provoke a Japanese attempt to smash the route, but there no longer is much fear of that.

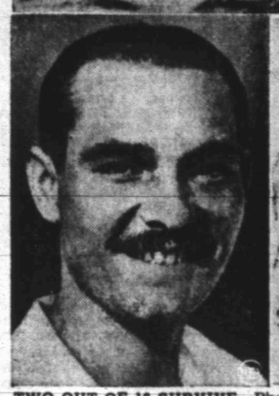

It still is a hazardous undertaking, as I can attest after making the round-trip three times, and the job is not very glamorous.

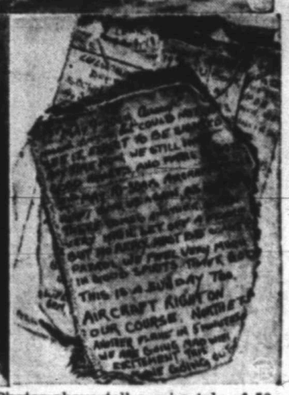

Occasionally the Japanese strike back and knock down a few transports, or a plane gives way from the strain of flying heavy loads at high latitudes and goes plunging into the jungle. But natives have developed such an efficient rescue service that crews forced to bail out over Burma have better than a 3 to 1 chance of returning. In November 92 per cent were rescued.

The Army transport command's development of the line from a shoestring to a great industrial project in a year and a half is a story of American initiative and familiar efficiency methods installed by former officials of civilian airlines in the United States, who have doubled and

TWO OUT OF 16 SURVIVE—Photos above tell a grim tale of 50 days of death-ridden horror at sea. When a British ship was torpedoed in the South Atlantic, 16 survivors clambered aboard this life raft (top) and the rubber boat behind it. Fifty days later, when the British destroyer Rapid came to the rescue, only two men were alive. They were seaman Colin Armitage, and ship's carpenter Kenneth Cooke, shown below after recuperating. While adrift, Cooke kept a daily dairy on scraps of sailcloth, pictured at bottom, right.

Reconversion Holds Increasing Interest

Two Phases Of Problem Cited As Tolan Outlines 10-Point Program For House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — The two aspects of reconversion to civilian economy—how to head off mounting pressure for too precipitate action while war goods are still needed and how to make the change swift and effective when guns are stilled—are absorbing an increasing share of official attention.

The problem's dual phases were taken up separately today, the immediate one in a Chicago speech by William L. Batt, vice-chairman of the War Production board, who predicted that 1944 changeovers will present more complex questions than those of the shift to war production, and the long-range aspect by Rep. Tolan (D-Calif) who offered a comprehensive program for blueprinting and directing the ultimate shift.

Great Pressure Seen

Batt told the Chicago Association of Commerce that great pressure for return to civilian production will be generated by availability of materials in some areas and of manpower in others, as stockpiling of certain classes of war goods permits cutbacks in their production.

Jobs with a postwar future, he said, will pull labor, and peacetime markets and profits not subject to renegotiation will attract management.

Despite cutbacks in certain war goods lines, Batt said, war production should level off this year at 10 to 15 per cent above present rates. He named aircraft and components, radio and radar, naval vessels and certain specialized items as demanding increases emphasis.

Ten-Point Program

Tolan, chairman of the House committee on defense migration, offered his program as the answer to "perhaps the most serious economic problem the country has ever confronted."

As the first item in a 10-point program, Tolan's plan provides for creation of a "reconversion czar" to take over the planning job immediately.

Other measures proposed:

A board of directors to supervise the administrator's activities, comprising three members each from the House and Senate, and a representative each from industry, agriculture and labor.

An advisory council named by the 48 governors to correlate sectional needs and provide information on opportunities for unemployment relief.

Appropriation of funds for employment of technical experts to keep reconversion in step with the slackening of war needs.

A congressional committee to draft needed legislation.

Immediate local surveys to determine community and state unemployment and job prospects.

An agency similar to the Small War Plants corporation to help little industries in the changeover.

Use of draft boards as ex-servicemen's employment centers.

A long-range study of the business and job possibilities of new products, new materials and new inventions.

A study of government-owned industries to determine which should be scrapped, sold, retained, leased, or held in readiness for any new emergency.

Slaton Navy Flier Missing In Action

A few minutes after he served as master of ceremonies at a meeting of the local post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in which tribute was paid to parents of boys missing in action, Briggs Robertson of Slaton, district VFW commander, was notified by telephone from Slaton of a wire from the Navy department saying his son, Ensign Briggs Robertson, jr., was similarly missing.

Only yesterday the parents had received a cheerful letter from young Robertson, a Naval aviator believed to be in the Pacific war theater. The flier kidded his father, who wears a mustache, writing: "I've grown a mustache and, Dad, I'll make you ashamed of yours when I get home."

The aviator was Mr. and Mrs. Robertson's only son. The elder Robertson is secretary of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce.

95 Nazis Downed As Raiders Roam Europe

Siegfried Line Rushed In Italy

Lesse Takes Over Eighth Command

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 5—German engineers are rushing to completion an Italian "Siegfried line," several miles deep and as powerful as similar Nazi fortifications in western Europe, German prisoners reported today as headquarters disclosed that Lt. Gen. Sir Oliver Leese, a tank expert, had taken over command of the British Eighth Army in its drive up Italy's Adriatic coast.

The Nazis were said to be instaling their formidable new defense system only a few miles from the present battle line, with its strongest features located in the neighborhood of Cassino opposite the Fifth Army and inland from Pescara, Adriatic seaport which Canadian forces are nearing.

Mobile Defense Units

In addition to forging the new line, the Nazis were reported forming reserves of mobile defense units back of the fighting line and to be reinforcing their troops at the front with crack mountain regiments. An Allied officer said the enemy appeared to be preparing for a long war of attrition up the Italian leg.

Canadian troops celebrated announcement of the appointment of Lt. Gen. Leese as the new commander of the Eighth by storming and capturing "Point 59," a strongly-defended hill about three miles from Ortona and overlooking the coastal highway to Pescara. The advance was made after a heavy artillery and mortar barrage had churned the height.

The new commander of Britain's best known Army is a 49-year-old six-footer who commanded a corps of the Eighth Army through the North African and Sicilian campaigns, and is second in popularity in that organization only to Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, whom he succeds. Montgomery will direct British ground troops in the invasion of western Europe.

Fifth Captures Height

Indian troops fighting a few miles inland from the Adriatic were officially reported to have advanced several hundred yards under enemy machinegun fire and seized a spur of a mountain ridge southwest of San Tommaso.

Far-Ranging U.S. Submarine Lost

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Loss of the submarine Pompano, which had operated in the immediate vicinity of the Japanese coastline, was announced by the Navy today.

Following custom, the Navy did not disclose where the Pompano, a 1,330-ton submarine, made her last war patrol. However, she had operated in the Pacific and her skipper, Commander Willis M. Thomas, Vallejo, Calif., was awarded the Navy Cross and the Silver Star for daring exploits against the Japanese.

He was listed as missing.

In Vicinity Of Coastline

The citation accompanying award of the Navy Cross told of the Pompano carrying out "an aggressive and successful submarine war patrol in the immediate vicinity of enemy Japanese coastline."

The citation added that the submarine on that particular patrol sank one Japanese destroyer, a 900-ton Japanese patrol vessel and 6,900 tons of enemy merchant shipping.

In a citation accompanying award of the Silver Star, his submarine was credited with inflicting severe damage on an aircraft carrier.

The Pompano, commissioned in 1937, carried a complement of approximately 75 men.

Marshalls Given Daily Pounding

Two Hits Made On Enemy Transport

PEARL HARBOR, Jan. 5 (AP) — Heavy, medium and divebombers of the American Seventh Army Air force struck at the Mili and Jaluit atolls of the Marshall islands on Jan. 3 and 4, it was announced today, resuming the daily schedule of raids on those strategic Japanese outposts north of the American-held Gilbert islands.

The new raids cost one American fighter plane but two bomb hits were made on an enemy cargo transport ship in the Jaluit Lagoon. No mention was made of enemy interception, indicating the raids may have caught the Japanese by surprise.

Stiff Resistence Formerly

Attacks Jan. 2 on Wotje and Maloelap atolls, to the north of Jaluit and Mili, had brought out the stiffest enemy opposition encountered in a single day.

In the latest strike at Mili, made Monday, an Aircobra fighter plane of the divebomber escort was destroyed by enemy antiaircraft fire. It was the sixteenth raid on Mili.

Jaluit, hit both Monday and Tuesday, is second only to Mili in the number of raids. At least 13 have fallen there. The hits on the enemy vessel were made by the medium bombers which struck Monday. Heavy Liberators pounded the atoll the following day but Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' announcement gave no details.

Jap Shipping Center

Jaluit apparently is the Japanese shipping center for the Marshalls, as American planes have found more vessels in its lagoon than at any other point in the islands. Enemy ships have been sunk or damaged there in at least seven different raids.

The Lagoon at Jaluit is 30 miles long and 12 miles across, deep enough to accommodate large ships and suitable for a naval base. Whether the Japanese have a naval base there never has been brought out.

American positions at Tarawa, Makin and Abemama in the Gilberts were bombed by enemy planes Monday night, the Navy announcement said, without damage to our installations. Tarawa also was ineffectively attacked the following day.

Two Markets Clamp Embargo On Hogs

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP)— Two of the nation's leading livestock markets—East St. Louis and Cincinnati—today clamped an embargo on further shipments of hogs as mid-western packers worked to process the nearly half-million head which have arrived at stockyards so far this week.

The embargo at East St. Louis, effective at noon tomorrow, will extend to noon Sunday, Jan. 9. The embargo at Cincinnati was announced for only one day, tomorrow. Large numbers of hogs also went unsold at Chicago, South St. Poul and Indianapolis.

At 12 major markets in the first three days this week 476,500 hogs were placed on sale. This compared with 364,100 head in the same period last week and 278,400 head last year.

Tow-Bombs Used In Nazi Defense

25 U. S. Bombers, 12 Fighters Lost

By W. W. MERCHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Thursday, Jan. 6. — U. S. heavy bombers and escorting fighters blasted 95 German planes out of the sky yesterday as they ranged across a record 800-mile front to strike the Kiel shipyards, airfields at Bordeaux and Tours in France, and industrial targets in western Germany.

Duesseldorf was reported by a Berlin radio broadcast to have been among the bombers' objectives.

It was the biggest day for U. S. Army Air force gunners since the Dec. 11 raid on Emden, when 138 Nazi fighters were bagged. The wide-spread operation cost the attacking force 25 heavy bombers and 12 escorting fighters.

Bombs Towed By Nazis

To reach their targets the bombers knifed through a strong defense which included rocket planes and ME-110s towing what appeared to be new type anti-aircraft bombs.

Gunners on the Flying Fortresses and Liberators accounted for 62 of the German planes downed while Thunderbolt and Lightning pilots got 33 in the far-ranging operation which in scope became one of the great daylight assaults of the war.

Claiming that German losses during the day's aerial battles were "remarkably light," the German news agency DNB in a broadcast dispatch said "More than 50 British-American planes, of which at least four-fifths were four-engined bombers, were destroyed—23 of them over France."

Third Recent Blow

The blow at the Kiel shipyards was the third in three weeks.

Never before in a major operation has the U. S. Eighth Air force been able to attack targets so far apart as Kiel and Bordeaux or been able to execute so many diversionary thrusts. The airline distance from Kiel, a German North sea port, to Bordeaux, in southeastern France, is 800 miles.

There was no immediate announcement on the number of aircraft lost or the enemy planes destroyed.

It was the second attack in two days on Kiel. That city's shipyards, and railway targets at Muenster, also in northwest Germany, were struck by U. S. heavy bombers Tuesday in one of the

Goebbels' Plea Consoles Japs

NEW YORK, Jan. 5. (AP) — A Tokyo broadcast intended for European consumption said today Nazi Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels had told Japanese newspapermen in Berlin the Axis could still win "if the Japanese and German peoples coolly and calmly tide themselves over the crisis in the present war."

"The present war may last for many more years," Goebbels said, according to the Domei transmission, which was recorded by the U. S. foreign broadcast intelligence service. "We must, however, fight the war to final victory, otherwise such a golden opportunity will not visit us for many centuries."

Can't Miss Opportunity

Tokyo radio, in reporting Goebbels' statements in a broadcast to Japanese areas, omitted his reference to a crisis and quoted him as saying that if Germany and Japan "let the present moment pass by," they would never have "the opportunity of crushing the United States and Britain."

After holding up the picture of bomb-battered Berlin as an evidence of the German people's will to carry on the war, Goebbels, the Domei agency reported, dismissed recent German and Japanese retreats as unimportant in view of the vast territories acquired earlier in the war.

"They may retreat for strategical reasons under certain circumstances in such vast regions," Goebbels was quoted as saying,

Betty, Not Coy Nor Winsome, Is Bane Of Troops In Italy

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP) — Her name is Betty, she's neither coy nor winsome, has only three teeth and a flat face, and she has been elected public enemy number one by American doughboys in Italy.

She's not a pin-up girl, this "Bouncing Betty" — she's a pin-your-ears-back gal if you get too close.

Sardonic American humor gave this hilarious name to what the slogging foot soldiers have found to be the Nazi's most terrible weapon in hilly Italy — a small land mine.

The retreating Germans have been generous with these little weapons of destruction which have just about destroyed the G. I. faith in tthe old axiom—"anything I hear, I can duck." You can't hear Betty until she blows, then it's too late.

Col. William R. Blakely, of Laurens, S. C., brought back to the War department the tale of bouncing Betty, which the U. S. forces rank even above tank fire as a hazard.

The mine — the Nazis call it their S-mine—is buried directly beneath the surface of the ground. Three tiny metal teeth protrude, and contact with any one sets off a small charge which throws the can five feet in the air. There the main charge goes off, spewing metal horizontally in all directions.

Only occasionally, a soldier can hear that first tiny, muffled pop and hurl himself to the ground to

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

AS THE Red army advances into old Poland, this joke told by Jane Bara of the Pampa News, seems appropriate. It seems there was a farmer who was concerned with whether his farm was in Poland or Russia, international boundaries being what they are now-a-days. So he applied to the Commissar of Boundaries, or some bureau like that, for the necessary information.

In due time, came a special messenger with the word that the farm lay in Poland proper.

"Hoorayski!" he yelled, "I couldn't stand another Russian winter."

BEAUTY DESTORYER

IN MAKING our telephone calls calls this week we have observed that the wave of colds has not subsided, although the cases of influenza are not as prevalent as two weeks ago.

Colds not only menace health but beauty. Women who ordinarily are lovely to look at present a sad sight with their red noses and weepy eyes and sniffles when they are victims of colds.

Granted the common cold presents a baffling problem to patients and doctors, it is generally known an acid condition invites colds and destroys skin beauty. Frequent glasses of hot lemonade are excellent to offset that condition. If you have been unlucky enough to contract a cold, you may even add a fourth or a half teaspoon of baking soda to increase alkalinity.

We'll even give you advice from our doctor: Drink citracarzonate.

Make it a rule to keep healthy with a before-breakfast drink of fresh lemon juice and warm water. It not only stimulates the system in a natural way, acting as a beauty protective, but guards against possible cold infection.

Bare Legs—Sam Lightfoot who spends most of his days in an easy chair by the window since being crippled by arthritis several years ago, shivered when he looked toward the alley the other day when the snow still lay deep on the ground. The alley that runs by his home is back on an apartment house and is as popular as the sidewalk for the dwellers.

His thoughts were interrupted by the appearance of a young woman clop clopping along in wedges, no stockings and a gorgeous fur coat. She was without a hat. He confessed the sight of the bare legs, gave him the shivers.

"Now I ask you," he questioned, "is that any way for a woman to dress during a cold wave? Is she representative or unusual? After all remember I haven't any way of knowing except by watching passersby and reading the magazines."

FOR SEVERAL years two black sparrows have made their home (not nests, just perches) at two opposite corners of the front porch at the Jack Morris home, 2318 Eighth street. Last fall, shortly before Thanksgiving, a third bird appeared. He was not seen after Thanksgiving. Just came to help celebrate Turkey day.

This past Christmas, shortly before Saturday, he (or, another cousin who looked just like him) arrived for a visit. There was a terrific amount of chattering immediately after the strange sparrow put in an appearance which led the Morrises to believe they had to catch up on their feathered gossip.

The visiting sparrow is still around. Maybe he doesn't know Christmas is over and perhaps he doesn't know it's time to leave. Haven't you known relatives with similar tendencies?

The City Council of Parent-Teacher associations will present the second of the Clare Tree Major plays, "The King of the Golden River", Saturday at the Senior High school auditorium at 2:30 o'clock. A few season tickets remain to be sold at the principal's office in the different schools.

The plays which are endorsed by the American Childhood Education association, feature New York casts. The first of the series, "Cinderella", which was presented in Nov. was highly acclaimed by patrons and school officials.

Some comments were Mrs. Alex McDonald: "The Clare Tree Major plays are plays that all ages will enjoy. I took my year old son to see 'Cinderella' and he enjoyed it as much as my nine year old and I enjoyed it equally as much as they did."

Mrs. Parker Prouty: "Cinderella was splendid. I enjoyed it very much and am looking forward to attending 'The King of the Golden River' Saturday."

Mrs. F. B. Malone: "The Claire Tree Major plays are worthwhile. I was quite impressed with 'Cinderella'. I thought the costumes were beautiful and the actors splendid."

Mrs. S. W. Brunson: "It was delightful. My children enjoyed it and so did I."

Mrs. Cecil Peyton: "I'm glad the Lubbock P-TAs are presenting the plays. I think they are fine and everyone with whom I have talked is pleased with them."

OWI Gloomily Warns Land Reconquest Only Starting

By JOSEPH LAITIN
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Though much blood already has been spilled, the brutal fact is that the United Nations thus far have liberated only a fourth of the territory overrun by the Nazis and a twentieth of the land seized by Japan, the Office of War Information said today in warning against hopes for an early end of the war.

The OWI, in a long report clearly aimed at offsetting over-optimism, said high military leaders believed that much heavy fighting was necessary to crush Germany and that there was no soft, easy way to conquering Japan.

Long War Foreseen

The reports underscored recent off-the-record utterances by high government officials on the length and nature of the war. One foresaw more than 300,000 new casualties with 90 days; another saw the war lengthened by six months by rail and steel strike threats which he said gave the Germans a psychological lift.

The OWI said the high command was not counting on any collapse of the Nazi home front but was prepared to use military might to bring about the German defeat. As for the Pacific theater, the report said, "we are still 3,000 miles from Tokyo and a long way from victory."

Stiffer Defense Seen

"It should be borne in mind that the territory we have so far liberated lay along the outer extremities and that the closer we get to the enemy's heart, the stiffer the defenses are likely to be," said the OWI.

Warning again that recent United Nation victories did not indicate a quick end of the war, the OWI gave this picture of the enemy:

GERMANY: The Nazi army is relatively intact, well-equipped and its divisions magnificently trained. Smaller in number than United Nations land forces, the Wehrmacht nevertheless is a formidable machine with high fighting spirit. The German air force is still strong and while Nazi Industry has been hard hit by Allied bombings, it is not mortally hurt. Germany's factories now produce more locomotives than the United States. On the food front, German civilians and soldiers eat better now than at the start of the war because the nation is virtually self-sufficient and has an efficient transportation system.

Morale Of Japs High

JAPAN: Fighting in the Pacific has been heavy but the main body of the Japanese army and the main portion of the enemy fleet are not yet touched. Japan's conquered empire, about the size of the United States, is protected by a chain of strongly fortified island bases while the United States has only Pearl Harbor as a first rate sea base. Morale of Japanese civilians is good and that of the soldiers is "only too well known." The conquered regions provide abundant manpower. The Japanese army now numbers about 60 divisions and could be raised to 80 within two years.

The OWI said that about 390,000 square miles of conquered land had been wrested from Germany, about 315,000 of which was regained by the Red Army.

The report warned also against the fallacy of comparing Germany's present condition with that of 1918 when the German home front collapsed and brought an end to World war I. Now, it said, the gestapo and the Nazi party have a steel-like grip on the people and can keep it almost indefinitely.

Rotary Club Salutes Rationing Personnel

Speakers included Mayor Carl E. Slaton, County Judge G. V. Pardue and Walter S. Posey, pioneer banker.

Posey reviewed the rationing program and said the program was being given "so that the Rotary club could show appreciation in a small way for the work of these men and women."

Those honored at the luncheon, ten of whom were not present, were: Roy Furr, general chairman; gasoline, J. Ben Cole, chairman, Sam Henry, John Spikes, Geo. R. Bean, Rev. Floyd Dawson, W. P. Woman Claims Fatal Blow Was Accident

CHICAGO, Jan. 5. (AP) — Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley today said a woman whose 2-year-old daughter died of skull fractures had told police she struck the child with a poker but later declared the poker hit the girl accidentally.

He ordered the mother, Mrs. Mildred Merkel, 20, held without charge for further questioning and said she would be given a psychiatric examination at the criminal court behavior clinic. The girl, Claire, died last night en route to a hospital.

War Contract Plan Opposed By Idaho

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 5. (AP) — Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen said today he would ask Senator Clark (D-Idaho) to oppose a pending war contract renegotiation bill which he contended "threatens to rob Idaho of thousands of dollars."

Idaho income tax Director P. G. Neill said renegotiation of war contracts would force the state to refund taxes paid by companies whose earnings were reduced.

Negroes Granted Bail In Murder

Judge Daniel A. Blair Wednesday afternoon admitted two negro men, Robert Clayton and Robert Johnson, to $5,000 bail each, at conclusion of a habeas corpus proceeding in which the negroes had protested they were illegally restrained of their liberty by the sheriff.

The blacks are charged with murder of C. A. Spears, in the Flats Dec. 19.

May Ask Reduction

Gene Mathis, one of the defense counsel, said an attempt would be made to post bond. "If we can't post it, we will ask for reduction of bail," he said.

State charges Johnson conspired with Clayton to kill Spears, a negro bootlegger, maintaining he fired two ineffectual shots in a gun battle that saw a slug from Clayton's gun fatally wounding Spears.

Both suspects are under charge in county court, as well, for pistol carrying. Bond of $1,000 had been set for Johnson, $2,000 for Clayton, who earlier pleaded guilty of the charge and was sentenced to a year in county jail. An appeal was announced in Clayton's case.

Witnesses Subpoenaed

Witnesses who appeared under subpoena for Wednesday's hearing were Pete Strand, Corrine Childress, Otho Moore, Sarah Alice Hastings and John Henry Hinton, all negroes, and Aubrey Fawver, assistant chief of police.

State was represented by District Attorney Burton S. Burks and Roy Carpenter, special prosecutor.

No exception to the amount of bail set was taken by counsel for the negroes.

Reds Take Post-War Stand; Willkie Suggestion Flayed

(By The United Press)

Spokesmen for Soviet Russia took a positive stand on the question of post war European borders today, while the Red Army fought on the eastern boundary of pre-war Poland, by asserting that eastern Poland had been definitely and finally incorporated into the Soviet Union and attacking Wendell L. Willkie because he had suggested that disputed territories bordering Russia might be subject to negotiations among the United Nations.

The official communist party newspaper in Moscow, Pravda, carried the attack on Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential candidate and regarded as a firm advocate of close Russian-United States relations.

Part Of Soviet Union

An article issued by the information bureau of the Soviet embassy in Washington stated flatly that the part of Poland taken by Russia in 1939 immediately following the German invasion of Poland from the west, was "liberated" Russian territory and had become inseparable parts of the Soviet Union by virtue of plebiscites conducted among the populace.

Meanwhile, the Polish government-in-exile in London ordered the Polish underground to "continue and intensify their resistance to the German invaders and avoid all conflicts with the Soviet armies entering Poland." It commented: "Poland naturally is entitled to expect full justice and redress as soon as it is liberated from the enemy occupation," and indicated that the underground would not actively co-operate with the Soviet armies until Russian-Polish relations are resumed.

Thorny Case For FDR

The question of the future of what formerly was eastern Poland had been brought into sudden prominence by the arrival of fast-driving Russian armies on the pre-war frontier.

Informed quarters in Washington believed the whole question posed for President Roosevelt one of the thorniest problems of a diplomatic and political nature of the war. There was talk there and in Polish quarters in London of the possibility that the Polish underground might resist the Russian armies. Secretary of State Cordell Hull was believed to have discussed that among other matters, with the Polish ambassador yesterday.

Flying Fortress "Hangover" Has New Year's Spree

U. S. FLYING FORTRESS BASE IN BRITAIN, Jan. 5. (AP) — The Flying Fortress "Hangover" flew its first—and last—mission Dec. 31 in the raid on Nazi air bases near Cognac, France, but the crew made it a grand New Year's Eve spree by shooting down three German fighters and probably destroying four others.

"Hangover," pocked with 142 holes, wobbled home with all four engines damaged, the instruments shot up, and out of gas at the end of the journey. One gunner was wounded.

When the number 2 engine burst into flames Pilot Lt. John C. Jellison of Reno, Nev., sent the bomber into a steep dive to extinguish the flames and then ordered the crew to get ready to bail out.

The flames died out and the pilot then ordered his crew to return to stations.

All the while the bomber was being attacked by a force of German fighters.

Finally the crippled Fort was picked up by three Spitfires which escorted it back to a British airport, where the big plane was consigned to the salvage pile.

Other members of the crew included Sgt. Wesley A. Goodman, Vidor, Texas, ball turrett gunner.

Retired Manager Of Railroad Line Dies

FORT WORTH, Jan. 5 (U.P.) — Claude James Brown, 63, retired general manager of the Rock Island lines and a prominent figure in southwest railroad circles for many years, died in a Fort Worth hospital today following a 10-day illness.

Brown, whose home was at Denison, spent his entire career in the railroad industry, starting as a young man with the Missouri-Kansas-Texas lines.

He later became general superintendent of the Katy lines and for 15 years served the Missouri Pacific in the same capacity before becoming general manager of the Rock Island system in 1935 with headquarters in Kansas City.

Brown retired three years ago and moved to his birthplace, Denison.

He served overseas in World war I and was a member of the Heart of America post, American Legion, at Kansas City.

Word "Cola" Is Said Now In General Use

DOVER, Del., Jan. 5. (AP)—The Delaware Supreme court ruled today that "the word cola as applied to the name of a beverage is now a generic name" and sustained an earlier ruling of Chancellor W. W. Harrington against the Coca Cola corporation.

Coca Cola contended the Nehi corporation, manufacturers of Royal Crown Cola and Par-T-pak Cola were guilty of unfair competition by using the word "cola."

Deficit Of General Revenue Fund Is Low

AUSTIN, Jan. 5. (U.P.)—Deficit of Texas' general revenue fund today was lowest since June, 1939, State Treasurer Jesse James announced in issuing a call for warrants drawn on the fund through June 3, 1943.

Amount of the call was $3,007,470, which reduced the deficit to $18,364,965.

Increased tax collections in counties account mainly for the reduction, James explained.

DON KAYE MARRIES

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 5. (AP)—Don Kaye, the orchestra leader, and Miss Elizabeth A. Evans, 21, of Grand Junction, Colo., were honeymooning here today after their marriage Monday in the St. John's Episcopal church at Del Monte.

Influenza Cases In State On Increase

AUSTIN, Jan. 5. (U.P.) — Influenza cases in Texas continue to increase, state health department officials said today, announcing that 13,330 new patients were reported during the week which ended Jan. 1.

For the preceding week, 9,397 cases were reported. Health officials believed that the malady has not yet reached its peak in the state.

Seven-year median for influenza for the corresponding week is 1,254 cases, and 823 for the preceding week.

While the number of new cases continues to soar, officials said the cases are relatively mild and there has not been a corresponding increase in the number of pneumonia patients.

For the last week of 1943 there were 513 pneumonia cases reported, compared with a seven-year median of 243.

Author Says WAC's Nickname Distasteful

MIDDLE HADDAM, Conn., Jan. 5. (AP)—Dr. Donald Anderson Laird, noted psychologist, lecturer and writer, author of a text on handling women workers which is used by 4,000 industrial concerns, said today in an interview that the nickname "WAC" for members of the Women's Army corps is not only distasteful to most women but has actually kept down enlistment.

"The nickname 'WAC' is an unfortunate one," Dr. Laird declared, "because it immediately suggests something far from complimentary to women who might be interested in joining the organization. While most men like a nickname, the average woman doesn't, not even if it is a complimentary one."

OPA Price On Tomato Said 'Discriminatory'

NOGALES, Ariz., Jan. 5 (AP) — Willis E. Urick, prominent Mexican produce agent who has operated at this border point many years, today branded the new Office of Price Administration ceiling on Mexican-grown tomatoes as "discriminatory to the Mexican grower and not in keeping with the good neighbor policy."

The OPA yesterday announced that Nogales had been made a basing point for ceiling prices on fresh tomatoes. The top was set at $3.50 per 30-pound crate delivered in Nogales, Ariz.

Urick charges the new ceiling actually reduced the price to $2.70 per crate since the seller must pay the U. S. import duty of approximately 50 cents per crate and freight charges from the point of origin to Nogales.

Drake Turns On Hero Stuff, Saves Chicken

DALLAS, Jan. 5 (U.P.)—He probably won't get a Carnegie medal for his action, but Clem, a waddling drake, is a hero, too.

A lifelong pal, Daisy June, a chicken, played too close to Mrs. Irene Burns' fishpond, and fell into the water.

Clem saw it all and sidled to the rescue, jumped into the water, lifted Daisy June's head clear of the water with his bill and paddled ashore.

Mrs. Burns swears she saw it happen.

SURPLUS IN FUNDS

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 5. (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey today predicted a state treasury surplus of $140,000,000 in 1944 and exhorted New York's legislature to "lock it up" in a special fund for post-war reconstruction and employment.

Ban On Liquor Is Urged By Crabbe

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (U.P.) — Dr. George W. Crabbe, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, declared today that servicemen "would feel that something had been put over on them" if Congress voted national prohibition while they were away fighting the war.

He insisted nevertheless that "drinking and the liquor traffic" had impaired the war effort and suggested that President Roosevelt use his executive powers to ban sales of alcoholic beverage for the duration.

Knox Statement Recalled

"He has told us to take the ruffles off our pants, and has said how much coffee and sugar we can use," Crabbe said in an interview. "Whenever he thinks drinking and the liquor traffic are hurting the war effort he can stop that."

Crabbe recalled a statement by Navy Secretary Frank Knox that Monday morning sickness was responsible for much war plant absenteeism and said this was sufficient proof that the war effort had been impaired.

He doubted whether national prohibition would cause bootlegging to increase, because "there is more bootlegging now than there ever was in the nation's history."

Crabbe said he "definitely" favored national prohibition, but that "there is no use trying to force things on people."

Mississippi WAC Is Secretary To Clark

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, Jan. 5 (AP)—When Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark says "take a letter," it is taken by a smiling little WAC from the South, Corp. Geraldine Horne of Lucedale, Miss.

And Corporal "Gerry," who works in a tent heated by a wood stove seven days a week from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. says she likes Army life—as secretary to the commander of the Fifth army.

The brown-eyed secretary has been nicknamed "general" by her sister WACS. She has been Clark's secretary since shortly after she arrived in North Africa last summer after basic and special overseas training. Before that she was a Lucedale high school graduate in secretarial training who had been supervisor of clerks in the Mississippi state board of health for four years.

Firemen Lose In Court Decisions

AUSTIN, Jan. 5 (AP)—Firemen of Wichita Falls and Amarillo lost decisions in the state Supreme court today.

In companion cases the firemen sought overtime pay on the contention that they were required to work at least part of each calendar day and were not allowed a day off each week as defined by law.

In Wichita Falls the firemen work 24-hour shifts from 8 a. m. to 8 a. m., with a succeeding 24-hour rest period. The Amarillo hours are from 12 noon to 12 noon with the next 24 hours off.

Statute Complied With

Both cities come within the 25,000 to 75,000 population bracket.

The cities contended the law merely contemplated that the firemen have a 24-hour rest period during the week, and that since they actually received three such periods in a week the statute was fully complied with.

The high court took the position that the legislature did not intend to restrict the firemen's rest period to a calendar day in the cities up to 75,000. The opinion by Chief Justice James P. Alexander pointed out that for cities over 75,000 the legislature expressly stipulated the calendar day and week in fixing works hours.

SPAAF Sets Record For Insurance Sales

With military personnel holding insurance totaling $25,657,500 and ranking second in the entire Eighth Service command, which includes several states of the southwest, South Plains Army Air field today has what officials believe is one of the best records in the entire armed services.

A total of 98.2 per cent of all officers and enlisted men at the field have insurance policies totaling almost the limit allowed by the government.

A remarkably high percentage of all soldiers at SPAAF hold the maximum amount of $10,000.

These impressive totals are the result of a several months campaign by Major Merwin B. Wheeler of Mitchell, S. D., personnel officer and in charge of the insurance department handled by Sgt Dude Buster, former Lubbock insurance man, and Sgt. Denzil C. Ash of Borger and Lubbock. The figures reflect the widespread tendency among soldiers to look to the future for their families.

The government permits each man in uniform to purchase government policy of $10,000 or less in insurance. Rates are unusually reasonable, the average payment being from 60 to 70 cents per month per thousand protection.

Reds Swing Southward To Clear Black Sea Pocket

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Fall of the Berdichev anchor post on the critical southwest face of the ballooning Kiev bulge, was announced last night and with its surrender and imminent Russian capture of Sheptovka Junction, 60 miles to the northwest, the whole inter-locking road and rail network west of Kiev to the old Polish border will be available to the Russians to implement the next and crucial phase of the great battle.

SIMPSON

A shift in the force and direction of the main Russian attack is apparent. In support of the conclusion that the full weight of Red Army offensive power in the bulge is now being turned southward in an effort to destroy utterly the German forces all the way to the Black Sea.

Lull Indicated At Border

A virtual lull in the effort to expand the northwestern sector of the great bulge now that the Polish border has been reached is indicated. While the exact line on which the Russians propose to stand temporarily is not yet clear, there seems no reason to expect more than holding action on that front at this stage of the battle.

Deeper penetration of Poland west of Olevsk and Novograd Volynski would be dangerous. Russian advance elements are nearly 200 miles from the Kiev supply base and battle wrecked rail lines and roads hamper communications with the rear.

A fury of reconstruction work behind the fighting lines must now be in progress if the regained road and rail network west of Kiev is to be put into effective service for further and decisive exploitation.

Close-Knit Movements

For the first time, Red leaders have the inestimable strategic advantage of close-knit interior lines to speed troop movements. Berlin says at least a million Soviet troops have been thrown into the battle of the bulge. If that is even relatively true the interior communications network now available to the Red commander and which will be completed with capture of Berdichev and Shepetovka, would make it possible to mass overwhelming Russian striking power at any selected point.

Berdichev is the last Nazi footbold on the Leningrad-Odessa trunk line for a stretch of more than 200 miles. Restored even to partial service that rail lateral would permit quick shuttling of heavy Russian forces from north to south for new punches at the tottering, exhausted and over extended German defense front.

So far as it can be traced on the maps, the main Russian attack now is driving southward from the bulge on an arc more than 100 miles wide, reaching from Berdichev around to a point 20 miles or more southeast of recaptured Belaya Tserkov. At various points on the indicated Russian south front it is within 20 miles or less of the Cherkasi-Vapujarka rail feeder for all Nazi forces in the northwestern portion of the Dneiper bend.

An early junction between General Vatutin's victorious First Ukrainian Army in the bulge and the Second Ukrainian Army south of Kiev, centering at Cherkasi, is indicated. Whether the Nazi forces routed from Belaya Tserkov and the Dnieper bank positions east of it can escape southward before the jaws of this minor Russian trap close upon them is open to doubt.

Counterfeiters Turn To Checks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (U.P.)—Money counterfeiters are disappearing from the racket ranks, but in their stead has appeared an army of so-called scratch artists whose members steal and cash approximately 1,500 U. S. Government checks each month, the Secret Service revealed today.

Their activities are increasing as the government—already the world's No. 1 writer of checks—approaches a disbursement rate of 1,000,000 checks each working day.

Thieves Trail Postman

Army and Navy allotments, social security benefits, bond redemptions, agricultural subsidies and salary checks are the favorite loot. The thieves often trail the postman and snatch checks from rooming house hallways, apartment building lobbies or rural mail boxes, officials said.

In some cases, it was disclosed, the scratch artists operate in gangs, working a city methodically. In Detroit, recently, 26 men and women were convicted for preying upon government check receipts in this manner.

Juveniles Filch Checks

In St. Louis, two sisters, 13 and 15, were found filching government checks from hallway mail chutes and turning them over to their mother, who endorsed and cashed them. In Texas recently, two juveniles were picked up with three adult "Fagins" who had enlisted their aid in getting government checks cashed.

In cases of theft, the government eventually issues duplicate checks to the payee but does not reimburse the check casher.

Of those tried for forgery growing out of government check thefts last year, 98 per cent were convicted. The maximum penalty is 15 years' imprisonment and $5,000 fine.

MEN WANT ACTION

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5. (AP)—The boys in Alaska are getting along fine, but they'd like it a lot better if they could see some action, actor Erroll Flynn said today after his return from a 10,000 mile entertainment tour.

Toads are a gardener's friend, destroying cutworms and other pests.

Babies Found Tied In Partly-Flooded Flat

NEW YORK, Jan. 5. (AP)—Frostbitten and hungary, two blond, blue-eyed children were found lying in their beds today in a partially-flooded four-room flat by a police patrolman who was investigating the source of water seeping out under the door.

Police said the children were a girl of about two and a 9-months-old boy, whose feet were tied to his bed. The girl's feet were frostbitten, they said, and a strong wind blew through the flat from an open window.

Patrolman Jacob Szwedoski, discovering that the water came from a leak in the roof, entered the apartment by window when he found the front door locked.

Guardians of War Production Quality

THESE young women from school and college are the type that help stand guard over the standards of quality in the war production of Chrysler Corporation.

By means of precision instruments and spectrum photographs these women are able to analyze pieces of steel, aluminum or magnesium alloys. If the chemical composition of these vital metal compounds falls below the rigid standards demanded—the report goes in and any defective piece promptly goes out.

Busy at widely different tasks in Chrysler Corporation are some twenty-nine thousand other girls and women from many walks of life and with varied amounts of schooling. They are helping to replace men called to the colors by the war.

This picture gives but a small glimpse of the vast research and laboratory background, employing hundreds of men and women experts, that aid in guarding Chrysler Corporation quality. It is a vigorous "guardianship" which demonstrates itself in the exceptional war-time service of some seven million Chrysler Corporation cars and trucks in the hands of owners.

It insures high standards of quality in enormous quantities of fighting equipment (from big tanks to small ammunition) now being built by Chrysler Corporation for the use of officers and men at the battlefronts.

Westerners Battle Lamesa In Twin Bill Here Tonight

A cage double header is the menu offered basketball fans tonight at the high school gym when the Lubbock Westerners meet the Lamesa Golden Tornados in an A and B game. The tip-off on the B game will open the show at 7:30.

Coach Dixie White said last night that he was undecided who would start for the B team against Coach Volney Hill's cagers, but White named Burl Gene Moore, Marion Manderson, Bill Cope, George Brewer and Jerry Crawford as the probable starters for the Westerners in the A game.

Little has been learned here regarding the Lamesa club, but the team is reported to have a strong high school combination. The Lamesa club won the Tahoka invitation basketball tournament held before the Christmas holidays.

It will be the first game for the Westerners against high school opposition for the season. The club has played three games with Army cagers, winning two out of the three games.

Redskin Owner Asks Hearing From Layden

WASHINGTON Jan. 5. (U.P) — George Preston Marshall, president of the Washington Redskins, today demanded a formal hearing by Commissioner Elmer Layden of the National Professional Football league to protest a $500 fine assessed for his part in an altercation during the championship playoff game with the Chicago Bears, Dec. 26.

Layden fined Marshall and Ralph Brizzolara, general manager of the Bears, $500 each yesterday for the scene which developed when the Bears sought to keep Marshall away from their bench during the closing minutes of the first half.

Marshall said "it was through no fault of mine" that the incident occurred.

Editor Seeks Honors For Abner Doubleday

NEW YORK, Jan. 5. (AP)—Cliff Bloodgood will be quite happy when the good ship Abner Doubleday slides down the ways, its sleek snout reeking of champagne.

The good ship Abner Doubleday is only a dream in the mind of Bloodgood right now, but he has hopes the dream will materialize, as he thinks a Liberty ship named after the founder of baseball would be only a fitting tribute.

Bloodgood, a quiet man slightly on the plump side, is editor of Baseball magazine and annually gets out the Little Red Book of players' records, a job which has him spinning this year, what with players disappearing into the service and others bobbing up out of the bushes.

He points out that Liberty ships already have been named after Eddie Grant, the only Major leaguer killed in action in the first World war; John McGraw and Lou Gehrig.

Inasmuch as Doubleday founded the game that made the careers of Grant, McGraw and Gehrig possible, Bloodgood thinks a like honor for him would not be amiss, and as an added qualification he points to the fact Doubleday was a graduate of West Point and commanded an Army corps at the battle of Gettysburg.

Bloodgood's suggestion seems logical enough, and he thinks that letters from fans addressed to John M. Carmody, chairman of the ship naming committee at Washington, might give the cause a little nudge.

PNEUMONIA DEATHS

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 5. (AP) — Pneumonia caused 146 deaths last week in 24 New York cities as the number of cases reported rose to 1,002, the highest in eight years.

Grove, Weeks Top Tech Five

Facing about a two-week mid-term layoff, the Red Raiders of Texas Tech will spend at least some time polishing up the offensive for the basketball season ahead.

Through the nine games played to date, Don Grove, the rangy star from Monument, New Mexico, and Nolan Weeks, the lanky forward from Fort Worth, are staging a real race for scoring honors of the team and are far out in the lead of the rest of the team.

Grove holds an edge over Weeks through 11 donation tosses that has helped him pile up 104 points to 93 for the Cowtown star. Both Grove and Weeks have hit the basket 38 times from the court with Grove gaining the advantage on free throws, 28 to 17.

Among the other three starters there is another spirited race with another Monument, New Mexico, star setting the pace with 44 points. Dale Cooper has dropped in 20 field goals and four free pitches for 44 points.

Close on his heels comes Phil Ragland, the Lubbock product, who has flipped in a dozen baskets from the floor and eight free pitches for 32 points. Hubert Bechtol, another Lubbock boy, trails the same distance behind Ragland, hitting the basket for five field goals, but coming through with ten free pitches for 20 points.

Texas Tech has won two out of the nine games, winning both times over the Texas Christian Horned Frogs while losing twice to Oklahoma Aggies, twice at Sheppard Field, and once each to Texas Christian, Rice and Bergstrom Field. The Red Raiders have amassed 318 points while the opponents have tallied 434 points.

The next games for Texas Tech will likely be with New Mexico University, but no dates for the games have been agreed upon.

Bassler Sets Early Pace For Golf Lead

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5. (AP) — The veteran Harry Bassler of Los Angeles put together a 72 and a 70 for a 142 to show the way to qualifiers today for the $12,500 Los Angeles Open golf championship.

Bassler's steadiness over the Fox Hills course, slowed by recent rains, enabled him to finish at the top rung of the list of 128 who will start off Friday over the Wilshire Country club course in the championship round. The event will close next Monday.

In second place were Eddie Nowak of Inglewood, Calif., and Bobby Rosberg of San Francisco.

Among the 20 top notch performers who were exempt from the qualifying round were Johnny Revolta, Jug McSpaden, Willie Goggin, Ed Dudley, Leo Diegel, Harry Cooper, George von Elm and John Bulla.

DATES ARE SET

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 5. (AP) — The San Antonio Evening News Golden Gloves Boxing association today announced dates of Jan. 31, and Feb. 1 and 2 as dates for the Golden Gloves district boxing tournament here. The tournament will draw from the territory adjacent to San Antonio and southwest to the Rio Grande, including the local Army camps not under the Air Force Training command.

Four Team Cage League To Open Season Here Jan. 12

An all-Lubbock basketball league embracing Texas Tech, South Plains Army Air Field, Lubbock Army Air Field and the Tech Army Engineers will get underway here with the first game set for Jan. 12 and a cage tournament between the city's four teams Feb. 25, 26 and 28.

Finding opponents few and far between because of travel restrictions, the three service teams organized their own "conference," with Texas Tech coming in to represent the home folks.

All teams will play each other a two-game series, alternating games at SPAAF, LAAF and Tech.

SPAAF meets LAAF Friday night at the SPAAF Recreation Hall in the second meeting of these two teams this season, jumping the gun on league competition. SPAAF defeated LAAF 45-44 in a previous game. The Tech Engineers beat LAAF twice and split a two-game series with SPAAF. Both LAAF and the Engineers have played practice games with Tech.

The tournament in February will be conducted at the Tech gymnasium.

Tentative schedule for play between SPAAF, LAAF, Tech and the Engineers follows:

Jan. 12, Tech Engrs. vs. LAAF at Tech.
Jan. 18, Tech Engrs. vs. SPAAF at SPAAF.
Jan. 20, SPAAF vs. LAAF at SPAAF.
Jan. 22, Tech Engrs. vs. LAAF at LAAF.
Jan. 25, Texas Tech vs. LAAF at LAAF.
Jan. 27, Texas Tech vs. SPAAF at Tech.
Feb. 4, SPAAF vs. LAAF at LAAF.
Feb. 12, Tech Engrs. vs. Texas Tech at Tech.
Feb. 15, Texas Tech vs. LAAF at Tech.
Feb. 16, Tech Engrs. vs. SPAAF at SPAAF.
Feb. 17, SPAAF vs. Texas Tech at SPAAF.
Feb. 19, Tech Engrs. vs. Texas Tech at Tech.

Additional games may be added to the SPAAF schedule, said Capt. Nathan B. Eubank, athletic officer and physical training officer at SPAAF.

OIL BOWL REPORT

Grid Deaths Decrease Purdue Survey Shows

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Jan. 5. (AP)—There were only ten deaths charged to football in the United States in 1943, and not a single one of them was due to injuries suffered on college gridirons, Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood, Purdue university professor, reported today.

Dr. Eastwood, who has compiled statistics on football fatalities for 12 years, said nine of last season's deaths were reported by high schools and one by an athletic club team. It was the second time that no deaths had been charged directly or indirectly to the college ranks, and the first time there were no fatalities in the sandlot classification.

This year's total was a 67.7 per cent decrease from the 31 deaths in 1931, the year the survey started, and demonstrated, Dr. Eastwood said ,that marked progress had been made in safeguarding the gridiron players. He pointed out that although football is classed as a hazardous sport, safety statistics now show that it is not as dangerous as riding, driving or walking on streets or highways.

Most football fatalities, Dr. Eastwood said, are due to head injuries, and he suggested that a committee of football coaches and college athletic officials explore researches made by the American and English armies on crash helmets with the view of remodeling football headguards. He also urged that coaches devote more time to the teaching of tackling because records demonstrted that nearly half of all football deaths occurred while tackling.

High school deaths were higher the past season than at any time since 1937. Dr. Eastwood said this might have been a result of lack of a sufficient amount and quality of equipment.

No survey was made in 1942.

LaMotta To Battle Fritzie Zivic Again

DETROIT, Jan. 5. (AP)—Holding a 2 to 1 series edge, Jacob La Motta of New York will fight Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh for the fourth time in a ten-round bout Jan. 14 at Olympic stadium.

Matchmaker Nick Londes announced today La Motta had accepted terms to meet the former welterweight champion in Detroit. La Motta split two decisions at Pittsburgh and seized the series lead last fall by winning at Madison Square Garden.

Miller Likes Playing With Flag Contender

LAKE WORTH, Fla., Jan. 5 (AP) —Shortstop Eddie Miller of the Cincinnati Reds had his first Major League experience with a first division team last season and he hopes he is through with losers for keeps.

When you're up there winning the spirit is different," declared Miller, who makes a habit of leading the National League in fielding his position. "The boys are full of pep and ginger and are always pulling to reach other. It's fun to play with a winner."

The Reds finished second last year. In his three big league previous seasons, with the Boston Braves, Miller never played in such a rarefield atmosphere. He was traded to the Reds last winter.

"The Braves just couldn't make it," Eddie asserted. "It wasn't that we didn't have good players. One year Ernie Lombardi was burning up the league at bat and we finished seventh. Then Babe Dahlgren came over from the pennant winning Yankees and we still floundered around.

Miller modestly refrained from mentioning that he was the league's ranking defensive shortstop during those years, topping his competitors in fielding three times, in double plays twice and in putouts once. In 1940 he set the league record with a .970 fielding average.

"The Braves just didn't have the victory complex," was Eddie's explanation.

The 27-year-old player expects the Reds to be in the pennant fight again this year.

Carpenter Suggests Baseball Goes North

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 5. (AP) — Bob Carpenter, jr., president of the Phillies, today jarred the "go west" refrain recently adopted by big league baseball by suggesting the major loops expand northward instead, and include Canada's Montreal and Toronto, now represented in the International league.

Discussing the joint Major leagues' recent decision to remove restrictions on incorporating Pacific coast cities into the National and American leagues, Carpenter said "Why not give Canada a chance to get big league baseball?"

Of Montreal and Toronto, the youngest baseball executive in the big time declared "It would further our good neighbor policy by inviting two Canadian cities into membership of the National and American leagues—if and when such franchises are available.

Owls Run Over Bruins, 45-27

WACO, Jan. 5. (AP)—Rice institute opened the Southwest conference cage season here tonight by running rough shod over the Baylor Bears, 45-27.

J. D. Thomas of the Owls topped the scoring with 14 points while Frank Scott of the Bruins countered with 13 tallies.

Rusty Darling and giant Bill Henry of Rice followed closely with 12 markers apiece.

Starting fast, Baylor pulled away to a 7-3 lead before Rice began clicking. With Darling tossing in one-hand push-shots, the Owls left the court at halftime with 25-15 margin.

Thomas led the Owls on a quick second half scoring spree, then both sides bogged down and failed to score for six minutes. With less than three minutes to go, Scott and Bob Worthy of the Bears started a rally, but Rice took advantage of a fast break to close the ball game.

Freshman Kelly Avery, Tennessee scoring ace of the Bears, fell sick with ptomaine food poisoning only two hours before game time and was unable to play.

Actions Vs. Mere Words

THE opinions and plans of Frank C. Walker, postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic National Executive committee, as announced earlier this week were more than slightly contradictory.

He voiced the opinion that the South is "safe" for the New Deal party in the approaching elections. He referred to recent threats of a political revolt in the South as being more in the nature of "heat lightning" than "thunderous bolts that will demolish the party in 1944."

Then, in the next breath, plans for a speaking tour in the South late in January were announced for Mr. Walker. His itinerary already includes Raleigh, N. C., Nashville, Tenn., Birmingham, Ala., and Little Rock, Ark. Hints were given that his journey may be extended even further.

Probably most observers, including those who might wish otherwise, will share Mr. Walker's opinion that, when the votes are counted next November, the Solid South will, as usual, be safely in the ranks of the States giving their electoral votes to candidates of what is called the Democratic party. Tradition always is a powerful influence in politics, and it is a tradition that seldom has been broken for states of the South to "go Democratic."

But there also is an opinion among cautious observers that some of the states in the South might jump over the traces of tradition again in 1944. Most of these observers might hesitate to bet that anything of the kind will happen. But they see 1944 as the year when such a thing COULD happen.

Despite his profession of confidence that the South is "safe," Mr. Walker obviously shares this view. Otherwise, a man as busy as he is, and whose attentions normally would be concentrated almost to the exclusion of other political activities in the unquestionably "doubtful" states, would not be touring the South on a stump-speaking foray. The "head man" in the New Deal campaign organization would not be making such a trip; he would send some lesser light, IF he really thought the South was "in the bag."

Obviously, Mr. Walker doesn't consider the South in the bag. Regardless what he may say, this is one instance when his actions in planning his tour speak louder than any contrary words he might utter.

An Example Of Stupidity

THE delay in announcing the name of the destroyer which exploded off Sandy Hook, N. Y. Monday, emphasized just one example of stupid practice in connection with the Navy's obstruate and dictatorial handling of news releases.

The same thing has happened frequently before and doubtless it will continue to happen until the brass hats responsible for the system are finally compelled by public pressure to adopt a more common sense plan.

In this particular instance, the fact that a destroyer had blown up was reported. It was announced through the press and over the air. But many hours elapsed before the name of the destroyer was revealed.

The result was that every person interested in someone who might have been aboard any destroyer which might have been in the vicinity of New York was made almost frantic with uneasiness. Several calls were received at Avalanche-Journal offices from people demanding eagerly, "What was the name of the destroyer?" The desperate anxiety of nearly all people like them would have been relieved if the name of the warship had been announced. It is ridiculous to expect those people to be satisfied with assurance that they would be notified if their son, husband or brother was among the casualties. They always fear that some slip may have occurred which might delay a tragic notification to them.

It may be true that to have announced the destroyer's name might have increased for awhile the agony of those with loved ones aboard the ship until they received some definite word. But, at most, these are few in number. Consideration for them should not be placed ahead of that for the many thousands of people who have loved ones aboard various of the scores of destroyers now in service. The desire to cushion a tragic blow for a few people is not an excuse for placing unnumbered thousands under terrifying strain.

"It is utterly astounding to me how fast children outgrow shoes," exclaims a mother. It shouldn't be. Children grow fast, and shoes don't grow at all.

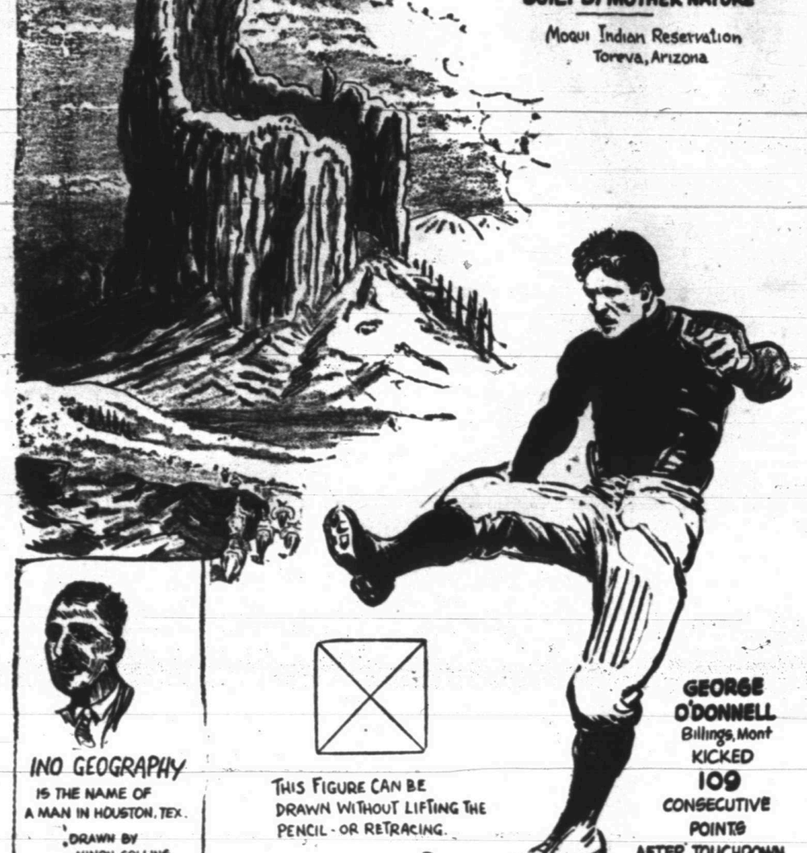

The One Minute Sermon

And let these my words, wherewith I have made my supplication before the Lord, be nigh unto the Lord our God day and night, that the maintain the cause of his servant, and the cause of his people Israel at all times, as the matter shall require:

That all the people of the earth may know that the Lord is God, and that there is none else.

Let your heart therefore be perfect with the lord our God, to walk in his statutes, and to keep his commandments as at this day.—I. Kings, VIII, 59 through 61.

DEATH AHEAD
CHAPTER XXVIII

"PAT! . . . Pat Friday, Plane No. 10! . . . Oh my God, PAT!"

Capt. James Carr, U. S. Army pilot of the motor ship towing a sky train, was frantically trying to get a radio communication through. He yelled at his microphone while the ship droned and bucked and twisted in the storm over Superstition Mountain. He gritted his teeth, threw electric switches, twisted dials. Beside him, Loraine Stuart was white with fear, but he ignored her presence. "PAT!" he shrieked again. "Number 10 . . . Pat!"

In technical truth, that frantic cry of his did get through to Patsy, struggling now in that same storm. She heard him, and she tried to answer. It was Jimmy's receiving apparatus that had gone temporarily dead. But then, her own radio, both ways, seemed to be fluctuating. What's more, Pat couldn't spare the time to try to tune it. From her position as tail-end ship of the train, she had cut loose with astonishing courage. Her plane had dipped. The gusty blow had caught her unprepared.

"Eee-e-e-e-e-e!" She shrieked there in the loneliness.

For a matter of seconds she rolled sidewise. And it toook all the skill and strength she could muster to right the ship again.

When she came out of it she could see no sign of the parent train, because the cloud around her was streaked, streaming, boiling. Lightning darted through it. Oddly, in this moment of stress she remembered what a newspaper reported had told her about Superstition Mountain.

"The Indians say the Thunder Gods live up there," he had said, "and it's a fact, because on stormy days you can listen and hear them pounding their gargantuan tom-toms."

She heard the tom-toms now. Off right, then left. Assailing her ears, crashing against clouds and against the earth itself. She felt infinitesimal, and indeed she was exactly that compared to the bulk and anger of Nature here.

"If I can . . . keep a . . . level head," she was pleading with herself.

The cloth and aluminum sailplane she piloted was a wisp of straw. Wind whined outside the transparent hood like banshees wailing. Daylight came through the storm at intervals, showing gray nothingness ahead and all around. Lightning intensified that same blank oblivion.

"Jimmy! . . . Captain Carr! . . . Number 10 reporting!" She jiggled radio dials. Even as she did she knew she was wasting time. The set was completely dead.

She had watched her altimeter with greatest care.

That delicate needle had shown 12,200 feet when she cut loose from the tow line. It had dropped a little. Then Pat had remembered Superstition Mountain beneath so she soared widely, seeking a thermal, an up-current of air.

She found it!

Whr-r-r-r-r-r! It was verily like a volcano's force, this storm thermal, for her craft shot upward so fast her ears pained. Twelve thousand eight hundred. Thirteen six. Fourteen. She watched the needle and looked fearfully through the hood for any sign of earth at all, any possible mountain peak or crag. Fifteen eight ninety. Sixteen thousand.

Pat was beginning to suffer acutely from cold and rarified air now. Three miles above earth can be terrific. She had to fight the controls in an effort to go back down, and she was afraid to go down with visibility at zero.

"I've got to think!" she literally spoke aloud, to herself. "That . . . that chart! . . . My goodness! . . . And . . . and even San Francisco Peaks, in northern Arizona, are only 12,000 . . . What am I doing up here!"

She was up there because she couldn't help herself, and she knew it. For one thing, she knew Jimmy had tried to ride above the storm. He hadn't succeeded. Because she knew she must be very near Globe, her original destination, she had cut loose. But the thermal lifts had been too powerful.

Now her altimeter was galloping left to right; galloping and bouncing so as to be of no possible use.

"I might be 100 feet or 100,000!" Pat breathed, desperately. She knew she was somewhere under the three-mile point. But where? The needle tried to settle at 14,000 and again at 11,600, but in a single instant it shot up to 20,000, then back again. Pat knew it was off. But it was all she had to go by, and she almost pleaded with the thing.

A good quarter-hour must have passed before Pat realized fully that the instrument was functioning, after all. The truth was, she had been looping, twisting, side slipping. Unconsciously she and her ship had done all manner of "impossible" things. Seasoned pilots, even motor ship pilots, could have told her that storm experiences are like that. You soon become a part of the wind and action, your ship gives with it, tumbles with it, weaves with it, and because you are strapped in, you don't fully realize all that is going on. If you didn't give and weave this way, you'd be destroyed!

That all came back to Pat's mind. Lectures! Things Jimmy Carr and that Captain Witter and old Colonel Furedy had said. Surely! She remembered now. Those intensified courses she had taken back in Elmira. She had had to sit near Loraine Stuart, and had borne many of Loraine's petty slights. Here, in a real storm 2000-odd miles from Elmira, those slights seemed trival indeed. So did all of the pettiness concerning Loraine. Loraine, who was still with Jimmy, flying with him, loving him, betrothed to him for life. Jimmy, whom she herself had so poignantly loved and, in her heart loved still.

This backward streaming of her thoughts served oddly to bring Pat a newly feeling of calm.

"But I can't stay up here in it forever!" she told herself. "I haven't the equipment nor the food nor the strength for an endurance test. Anyway I—I want to land, near Globe!"

That goal stuck doggedly in her. It was a part of the plan. A part of Jimmy's project for the sky train. Her assigned task from the beginning.

During a momentary lull Pat flipped her controls and nosed down. The altimeter reacted fast. Ten thousand. Nine thousand. Seven thousand two hundred. Five thousand eight sixty. Five two ten.

She decided she had better look hard. The storm was a bit softer here and — yes, there was a glimpse of mother earth! She headed downhill again. But all at once, a minute later—

"Oh-h-h-h-h!" She screamed it, jerking her controls.

There dead ahead was the ominous red bulk of rock wall.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

TO THE many, many people who wrote to me after I told you how sick my little dog, Deuce, was, my heartfelt thanks.

I am sure that their prayers and their sympathy have helped a lot in getting the little fellow well again. He is home with us once more.

He isn't quite all right yet, but with the care and love my wife and I give him, we hope he'll be as good as new again in a month or two.

When you haven't any children of your own, it's difficult to understand a mother's anguish when her baby is sick. And sometimes when I saw a father worrying over his boy's illness, I kind of brushed it off and didn't show nearly the interest that I should have shown.

I guess before you can understand suffering you have to suffer yourself.

Some people said to us, when Deuce was so sick:

"Oh, why don't you have him put out of his misery and get yourself another dog?"

How little those people know about love.

While I am writing this, Deuce lies at my feet, his little red ball alongside of him. He is half asleep, but I know he is just waiting for me to get through and play with him. Not very hard, of course; the doctor said to go easy, his heart isn't so strong since he was sick.

But just as long as I roll it along the floor a little, for him to catch, to chew awhile and then roll back to me, he's happy.

WHEN I look at that woolly little thing, I wonder whether I'd ever want to go to a heaven without dogs.

And I wonder by what right of conceit we can imagine that the unselfish devotion, the faithfulness and love of a dog should be allowed to pass into oblivion, when we humans, full of meanness and envy and cruelty and shortcomings, should consider ourselves immortal.

No, if Deuce dies before me, I want him to be at the gate when I arrive, with joyful bark and wagging tail, waiting to greet me, to play forever with his everlasting ball.

I may not have earned my place in heaven, but Deuce has.

And so has your dog and every other dog who has ever loved and been loved by a human being.

Let all the angels sing when I arrive, but let me be sure to hear that "Woof!"

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

PRESIDENT Roosevelt brands as "picayunish" those who dare to question him about such an important and globally significant matter as his fourth-term intentions. He flares up like a woman whose engagement is announced before she has even met the publicized bridegroom.

He assumed the same attitude in 1939-1940, when he placed a figurative dunce's cap on the head of a reporter (since killed while flying over Germany with American air squadrons) who presumed to express curiosity about his 1940 course.

But the easiest way to test his present-day plans, as every politician is attempting to do, is to examine the strategy by which he eliminated all partisan rivals or surrounded himself with political liabilities and problem children. Nowhere within the Democratic party is there a threat to his throne.

It is an indisputable fact, which even his friends now concede, that he has subordinated or smeared all intra-party contenders, so that the only man with any chance of winning the nomination this year will be: Who but Franklin D. Roosevelt?

All doubt that he will run again has vanished. Those of his intimates who possess even a slight sense of humor snicker when it is suggested that he may step aside at the end of his present tenure.

CONVENTION: Cordell Hull would be the most likely presidential challenger, but he is too old and too loyal. Vice-President Henry Wallace is aching for the prize. He was rebuked openly by Mr. Roosevelt after his attack on Jesse H. Jones and has been reduced to the status of a lonely and somewhat pathetic Throttle-bottom.

Harold L. Ickes, besides being a former Bull Mooser and Republican, is now tied too closely to the oil interests; he also is getting along in years, although he won't admit it. Secretary Jones was "purged" when his public controversy with the VP drew a White House scolding.

Paul McNutt, always only a vague possibility, has been shevled and is on his way out by the nearest exist marked with a red light and a sign: —"Don't run! Walk!"

No governor can oppose FDR, for the only Democratic executive of a big state north of the Potomac and east of the Mississippi river is the almost unknown Henry F. Schricker of Indiana. There is nobody of presidential stature n the Senate or House.

Nor has a White House hope arisen among the ranks of those summoned to the capital to help win the war. By accident or design, Henry Stimson and Frank Knox are venerable Republicans who were never able to win elections on their party's slate. Most of the emergency officials—Donald Nelson, Bernard Baruch, William Knudsen, Chester Bowles — just happen to be disqualified by age or their GOP-ism.

So don't be too surprised when the postmasters, marshals and hangers-on at the 1944 Democratic convention insist that the "indispensable man" is Franklin Roosevelt.

ASSAULT: Admiral Ernest J. King will never go down in marine annals as a Nelson who destroyed a Napoleon on the sea. Nor will he be recorded as an inspirational phrase-make like Farragut, Dewey and John Paul Jones. His most dramatic remark uttered to shipbuilders, was: "You build 'em and we'll fight 'em!"

But the tough, tight-lipped Commander in Chief of the U. S. Fleet, and Chief of Naval Operations is recognized by British and American colleagues as the man who has already won the war against Japan. Here is the story as naval experts tell it:

In May 1942, when our Pacific forces had been reduced to a skeleton as a result of Pearl Harbor and Java Sea losses, Washington received warning that the Japanese planned an attack on the Aleutians.

The capital, including the White House, grew panicky. West coast congressmen and chamber of commerce representatives insisted that ships and planes be concentrated in Alaskan waters to ward off the assault. The political pressure on the CINCUS would have moved a weaker officer.

DEFEAT: Admiral King refused to listen to the hysterical urgings. He declined to depart from the strategy by which he had disposed his surface and air units. Only now can the reasons behind his stubbornness be told.

He noticed, for one thing, that the ordinarily secretive Japs seemed eager to advertise their move on the Arctic islands. Second, although the details are still a partial secret, American submarines hovering between the enemy's mainland and Hawaii reported that there was unusual activity by powerful, hostile hosts in that region. So our Number One sailor kept his blouse on.

It is now known that the descent on the Aleutians was only a feint designed to draw our main naval strength into the remote area. He the trick succeeded, the Nipponese would have hoped to sneak through to take Pearl Harbor, making good the chance they missed on December 7, 1941.

Thanks to King, our warships and planes were poisel to meet the invaders and smash them in the Battle of Midway, which may be chronicled as one of the decisive combats in world history.

Almost all of our gains in the Solomons and elsewhere in the Pacific have stemmed from that single encounter, in which Hirohito's armada suffered its worst defeat since its creation. It has never recovered from that major reverse—and it never will.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

THE coming invasion of Europe will be the supreme test of American skill and endurance, yet we approach the great struggle with many advantages.

General Pershing required two million men to crack the Hindenburg line. The United States has already mobilized four million overseas, the majority in the European theater. By July, General Eisenhower will have on million additional fighters.

Our expeditionary force will be benefited by greater air cover and fire power than any other army in the world, thus bridging the disparity between the size of our contingent and that of the well-fortified Germans. Rommel's bewildered gunners in Tunisia used the term "magic fire" to describe the rapidity and the accuracy of our artillery. Since then arsenals have sent abroad mightier weapons, including new types of marked efficiency.

DESTRUCTION: Our superiority is demonstrated in small arms, too. A noncorrosive cartridge has been developed for a Winchester carbine which eliminates the necessity of frequent barrel cleaning. Doughboys, clinging to rain-filled shell holes in inclement weather, will not be rendered helpless by rusted rifles. They can shoot as long as they can pull triggers.

Westinghouse researchers discovered a chemical which, applied to the brushes of airplane generators, increases the life of instruments in high altitudes 50 times. Ordinary carbons frequently disintegrated in a few hours at 30,000 feet, paralyzing a ship's revolving turrets and panel contrivances at the moment of battle.

Planes were often grounded or withheld from vital long listance missions though urgently needed. We shall hereafter be able to employ heavy aircraft to the full for wiping out reinforcements, gathering far behind the lines in preparation for counteroffensives against Anglo-American ground troops.

Boeing's superbomber — the machine which dwarfs our present Flying Fortress — is being turned out in quantity now in one of our factories. Mass production will be effective when the summer climax of our onslaught is reached. These giants of destruction can strike at any spot in the inner Reich at the critical moment of the breaking point in civilian morale.

The other day we saw a sketch of a nonopus. It was drawn by a cartoonist and closely resembled an octopus, with the exception that it had nine tentacles.

"I think it would be a splendid idea for us to give a pint of your blood to the blood bank!"

On Being A REAL PERSON

BY DR. HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK

Wrong We Have Done in Secret Is Productive of Endless Anxiety

NO REALISTIC dealing with the problem of anxious fear can omit this central matter: An ethically satisfying life is indispensable if one is to be delivered from harassing dreads. Otherwise, "Conscience does make cowards of us all."

This is particularly evident when the wrong that we have done is secret. We have in our lives a secret closet, as in Bluebeard's palace where dead things hang, whose discovery we dread. That situation is productive of endless anxiety. As the old legend of Eden puts it, when Adam and Eve had eaten the apple, they concealed themselves "from the presence of the Lord God amongst the trees of the garden," and when discovered, Adam said, "I was afraid . . . and I hid myself." That ancient insight is as modern as the latest psychoanalysis.

The finer a person is, the more such furtiveness torments him. Some wrong, let us say, in the realm of marital infidelity has been secretly committed, and for the best good of the family it should be kept secret. It was an uncharacteristic lapse, unpremeditated, sincerely repented, and not to be repeated. The one who did the wrong should carry it, should burn his—or her — own smoke and not becloud the skies of the home with confession. Let him settle the matter with his own soul, with some trusted counselor, with God!

YET while all considerations of good sense, of unselfish thoughtfulness, and of the best interests of the home dictate this policy, the more fine-grained the guilty party is, the more burdensome he finds such secretiveness to be.

The personal counselor finds psychological wisdom in Phillips Brooks' words: "To keep clear of concealment, to keep clear of the need of concealment, to do nothing which he might not do out on the middle of Boston Common at noonday—I cannot say how more and more that seems to me to be the glory of a young man's life. It is an awful hour when the first necessity of hiding anything comes. The whole life is different thenceforth. When there are questions to be feared and eyes to be avoided and subjects which must not be touched, then the bloom of life is gone. Put off that day as long as possible. Put it off forever if you can."

Many lives are distraught with anxious dread of being found out. Two lovers, fully intending marriage, both students for doctorates in philosophy, decided not to marry until they had secured their degrees, but meantime to allow themselves full marital privilege. They rationalized the procedure so that no conscious sense of wrongdoing troubled their minds. Yet the young woman came perilously near nervous breakdown, was sent by the physician to the minister, and at last was brought reluctantly to see that nothing was the matter with her except her inability to stand clandestine living. Deeper than her argued consent to her conduct lay the fact that it would not stand the test of publicity. She was too fine-grained and sensitive a person to endure furtiveness; what had to be done on the sly was subconsciously repugnant to her; her ethical self-defense was not so strong as her basic need as a high-grade personality to live openly and candidly.

In such a case the cure was simple—a marriage service that did not alter the conduct but did remove its clandestine character. Far more complicated and difficult are most cases of secretive behaviour. One way or another, such secretiveness must be ended if a coherent, well-integrated personality is to be achieved. Confession, whether to the aggrieved, to the church, to some wise counselor, or to God alone; restitution, where that is possible; forgiveness, which re-establishes personal relationships upon a basis of candor and mutual understanding—such processes are indispensible to the soul's health.

THE long tradition of the church in this regard is based on solid facts, and among the most joyful of its "saved souls" have been those whose closets and attics have been cleansed of stealthy sins, until they have lived openly and aboveboard, with nothing secretive to be kept hidden, and so have won some fair chance at an undistracted and satisfying life.

Josef Stalin Greets People Of Yugoslav

CAIRO, Jan. 5. (U.P.)—The Jugoslav information bureau reported today the premier Josef Stalin had sent the following message to the Jugoslav government in exile:

"I beg you to accept by gratitude for your warm greetings and wishes conveyed to me and the Soviet people for the new year. I am convinced that 1944 will be a year of new victories for the United Nations and that the moment is not far distant when the Jugoslav people will achieve their liberation from the yoke of Hitler's tyranny."

tripled the tonnage handled by the route.

Regular night flying was inaugurated in mid-October, immediately increasing the daily work of each plane by a one-way trip. In August a pilot's flying time averaged 23 hours; this is gradually being stetpped up to 50 hours monthly.

The result of such improvements is that deliveries, measured a year ago in hundreds of tons monthly, now run into thousands of tons.

Credit for the improved practices goes to such men as C. R. Smith of Dallas, former president of the American Airlines, now a brigadier general heading the Army Transport command, who was a recent visitor in India. Smith said some 300 airlines officials have been drawn into the ATC reaching from America to all theaters.

The most important individual assignment—that of actually getting the cargoes over the hump—was given to American Airlines official Thomas O. Harden of Dallas, who was made a colonel and whose technique was immediately visible on the route.

95 Nazis Downed

greatest daylight aerial assaults ever visited on Hitler's European fortress. Counting American and British fighter escorts the fleet in that attack consisted of some 1,500 planes. Between the two Kiel stabs, RAF Mosquito bombers hit smoldering Berlin in a night attack. British and Allied planes pounded targets in northern France and along the French "invasion coast" today.

Night Raids Indicated

The Vichy radio left the air tonight, indicating that the aerial battering might be continuing.

The British-based U. S. Flying Fortresses and Liberators were escorted by American fighters on all their missions today except the foray at Bordeaux, which involved a round-trip flight of almost 1,000 miles. In the Bordeaux operation they were given withdrawal support by American and RAF fighters.

Crews returning from Kiel said the target was reached in clear weather. Despite the unusually desperate resistance of Nazi fighters they said their bombs crunched down exactly in the area outlined on the briefing boards, building large fires in a city which once was one of Hitler's most important naval bases.

One group of Fortress fliers reported encountering not only the usual types of German fighter planes but concentrations of rocket planes and twin-engined Messerschmitts towing what appeared to be 100-pound bombs on 40 or 50 feet of wire.

One Tow-Bomb Explodes

This was the first time such defensive devices have been seen, and the bomber crewmen were unable to explain how the "tag-along" bombs were detonated. One was seen to explode behind a Fortress.

Other crewmen said that for the first time in a long while they saw some of their escorting P-38 Lightnings outnumbered by Nazi fighters over Kiel.

As British-American air power continued to play a grim overture to the opening of a western European front, bombs again burst on German defensive positions in northern France.

Winging across the channel during the day hundreds of RAF and Allied medium bombers hit military objectives in an area which has been under almost constant attack for the last nine days. Heavy explosions from points between Boulogne and Calais were heard on this side of the channel.

On New Guinea, Australians have pushed along the Huon peninsula coast to the vicinity of Cape King William, less than 80 airline miles from the Saidor invasion forces to the northwest. Japanese jungle troops are caught between those two points. Cape King William is approximately 40 miles north of Allied-held Finschafen on the peninsula.

Planes Pound Two Areas

In the Madang sector, 55 airline miles north of Saidor, Liberators and Mitchells attacked Alexishafen airdrome and Madang township Tuesday.

The Japanese stronghold of Rabaul, on the opposite end of New Britain from Cape Gloucester, was raided Monday by fighter planes from Bougainville which swept over Rapopo airdrome and tangled with 20 enemy fighters. Six of the Japanese interceptors were downed for certain and five others probably were bagged. Two raiding fighters were lost.

Monday night, Australian-manned Catalinas bombed Kavieng, 160 miles northwest of Rabaul.

Russian Advances

White Russia. It said the attack began Tuesday with violent artillery preparation after which several Red Army divisions and a large number of tanks smashed in on a comparatively narrow front. Heavy fighting raged all day and continued Wednesday, Berlin radio said.

Although the area was not identified further it was between the Nevel-Vitebsk fighting in the north and the northern Ukraine. The fighting may be in the sector north of Zhlobin, where the Russians long have been at the upper Dnieper after a drive from Propoisk.

The Russians made no mention of the area.

Later details in the Moscow communique supplement at midnight said the Germans suffered "heavy losses" in the Berdichev fighting and the Russians captured large amounts of enemy material and many prisoners.

About 4,000 Germans were killed in the fighting to the east, where Tarashoha was taken. Also captured in this area was the railway station of Krivchunka, 37 miles southwest of Belaya Tserkov, extending still further the great bulge to the south that was pressing relentlessly on the German Dnieper bend forces.

Ouster Battle Started

In the Nevel fighting, the supplement said 400 Germans were killed as the Russians pressed to within seven miles of the rail junction of Novosokolniki, 35 miles northeast of Nevel.

It was clear from the scope of the Russian Ukraine operations that the great battle to drive the 500,000 to 750,000 Germans from the Dnieper bend had begun.

One Badly Hurt In Wreck Here

L. H. Redwine, 45, former owner of a local drug store, suffered a severe scalp wound and possible skull fracture when his pick-up truck was in a head-on collision with a cattle truck about 8:45 o'clock Wednesday night in 1200-block on Sixteenth street.

Witnesses who gathered at the wreck scene soon after the impact explained that "almost all" of Redwine's scalp appeared to be torn loose.

Condition Said "Fair"

He was taken to Lubbock General hospital, where hospital authorities at midnight said his condition was "fair."

J. O. Teague, 43, 1006 Avenue A, driver of the truck, received a slight injury to a knee but said he otherwise was unhurt, as was his passenger, R. H. McCrummen, 3204 Avenue T. Teague said his truck was "torn up" and investigating patrolmen, Dee Brogden and William Ball, said Redwine's vehicle was almost wrecked.

Five of the ten cattle in the truck were thrown out when the vehicles hit, McCrummen said. They later were rounded up, only one showing signs of injury.

Redwine, who was unaccompanied, lives at 1711 Eighth street.

In another accident, late yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Ann Cassou, 22, 2515 Twenty-fifth street, received a cut on the forehead, police said. She was a passenger in an automobile driven by Mrs. Cleo Nelson Bateman, 25, 2203 Twenty-sixth street, which was struck, according to accident reports, by a vehicle driven by Mrs. Leo Brooks, 24, of Tahoka. The mishap occurred at Fifteenth street and Avenue K.

No other injuries were reported.

The Brooks car was removed to a garage by a wrecker. Less damage was said done to the Bateman car.

VFW And Auxiliary Has Joint Meeting

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, post No. 2466 and the ladies auxiliary of the VFW met in a joint meeting Wednesday night with about 70 members attending. Briggs Robertson, district 7 commander, served as master of ceremonies. Opening prayer and presentation of colors was delivered by Father Thomas D. O'Brien of the St. Joseph's church of Slaton.

A musical program featuring a quartet composed of Charlene Gordon, Barbara Wright, Mary Hooten and Evanthia Kallimani with Miss Doris Cobb accompanying, sang "The Old Rugged Cross" and "In The Garden."

Talks were made by Lt. Mary F. Golding of the WAC recruiting station and Lt. James W. Mills of LAAF. Oath of membership was taken by four new members followed by the retiring of colors conducted by Rabbi Isadore Garsek. Standing silent tribute was paid to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Teague of Shallowater, and Mr. and Mrs. Homer McDonald of Lubbock, who had sons reported missing when the U. S. Liscome Bay went down. Light refreshments were served.

THIS construction battalion idea, one of the real discoveries of the war, was the inspiration of Admiral Ben Morrell, chief of the Navy's Bureau of Yards and Docks. Through him has come the drive and the stimulation that have created within such a short time a completely new organization, and for the first time developed in pick-and-shovel men a spirit that could well be envied by any combat outfit.

In fact they are combat construction battalions. They are trained to handle anti-aircraft guns and light arms, which they often must use while grading an airstrip under enemy bombardment. On Tarawa, Seabees began running bulldozers over the pockmarked airstrip before the fighting was over, and at one point a live Jap came out of a hidden tunnel and began shooting.

Their Work Already Legendary

Most of the Seabee training is done on the Pacific Coast. Rear Admiral C. H. Cotter, director of the Pacific division of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, has had immediate charge of the Seabee battalions. He has visited every island in the Pacific that our side controls, and has put his construction battalions into the hardest jobs.

The Seabees go in with assault troops. That is how our planes were able to land on Tarawa within 78 hours of the assault. They were helping also at Salerno and in Sicily, but their big renown has come from their work in the Pacific and it is in this theater that they have established the legends that are already part of Navy lore.

Here, in the men who do the pick-and-shovel work and who run the motorized construction equipment, is a new kind of corps made necessary by the strange requirements of island warfare as it must be waged against the Japanese.

GETS ODT POST

News Briefs

John Murphy, 70, who came to Lubbock with his wife approximately a year ago from Chicago, died early Wednesday morning at their cabin in a tourist camp in 2300-block Avenue H. Last rites for Murphy will be conducted at 4 o'clock this afternoon at Rix chapel, with Rev. Floyd Dawson, pastor of Foursquare Gospel church officiating. Burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery.

Funeral services for Mrs. Annie Carden Kinnebrew of San Francisco, who died Monday in St. Mary's hospital, are to be held at 11 o'clock this morning in Rix Funeral chapel, with Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of First Methodist church, officiating. This afternoon the body will be sent by train to California for burial. Mrs. Kinnebrew was the aunt of Carden L. and George Green of Lubbock. Pall bearers will be Sam C. Arnett, George Benson, T. W. Stoneroad, Floyd Beal, Roland Ponce and W. W. Rix.

Calvin Williams, 38, negro, who was charged with liquor law violation Wednesday afternoon after liquor control board officials found in his possession 12 cases of quart containers of beer, posted bond of $1,000, the sheriff's department announced.

Police received three reports of thefts Wednesday afternoon and night, records showed. H. W. Wylie reported loss of two new suits valued at $100 at his drug store address in 1000-block Main street. An overcoat, car blanket, fog lights, rear view mirror and a wrench was taken from the parked automobile of William L. Spencer of Lamesa, he said. Spencer valued the items at $60. Theft of T gas ration stamps was reported by A. B. Ohlenbusch of 2408 Avenue H.

Small-Need Protein Feeders Get Break

Livestock owners whose requirements are low for cottonseed products were given a good piece of news Wednesday.

Those whose monthly needs are five sacks or less of meal or cake may buy from cottonseed oil mills whatever amounts are due them without first going to their county Triple-A office and applying for purchase certificates.

Thus announced Walter Y. Wells, Lubbock county Triple-A administrator, after receipt of this information from the state Triple-A office.

Likewise, certificates won't be required from feeders whose needs are slightly greater, those who feed 10 sacks or less monthly, Wells added. However, persons in this bracket must buy these products from the dealer, who, Wells, explained, is permitted to sell without demanding purchase forms through arrangement with his county committee.

Wells reminded that certificates are still required from those whose monthly needs are more than 10 sacks.

Siegfried Line

Fifth Army infantry of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark advanced over a mile west of Venafro to capture a 2,300-foot height in the Samucro ridge about two miles northwest of the village of San Vittore. An Allied officer said the Fifth Army now held all heights overlooking San Vittore, which is six miles from Cassino on the main inland highway to Rome.

While weather restricted air activity over the Itatlian front, Allied bombers ranged into Bulgaria and Yugoslavia to pound the enemy's Balkan communications. Flying Fortresses escorted by Lightning fighters smashed railway yards and a bridge at Dupnitsa, 50 miles south of Sofia, Bulgarian capital, and Mitchell mediums hit rail yards and a station at Doboj, 55 miles north of Sarajevo in Yugoslavia.

Nazi Shipping Destroyed

Other Allied planes strafed Nazi shipping off the west coast of Italy and attacked supply concentrations and transport in the battle zone. Two enemy craft were destroyed during the day. Every Allied plane returned to its base.

Headquarters disclosed that American, British and French troops are undergoing training throughout French North Africa for coming assaults across the Mediterranean against the Germans.

(This could indicate that landings are planned on the French Mediterranean coast to coincide with the well-heralded invasion of France and the low countries from England.)

North Africa was described as "one vast training center" for invasion forces. The American and British troops are newly arrived in this theater.

NAZIS IN TIGHT SPOT ON BALKANS DECISION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5. (AP) — Reports of a cabinet crisis in Bulgaria point up the necessity of a quick German choice between two hard alternatives in the Balkans.

The Nazis can pull out of Bulgaria to save manpower, diplomats said, and thereby lose valuable Bulgarian fighting forces and supplies, or they can gamble men from their own thinning forces in an attempt to dig in and hold.

London has reported a coup d'etat in Sofia, and some dispatches intimate that a government more friendly to the Allies than that of Premier Dobri Bojoliv may have been set up.

Possibility Discounted

The possibility that any Bulgarian government opposed by the Nazis could gain power at present is discounted here, but the reported crisis emphasizes the German quandary.

The Nazis undoubtedly would like to make other use of the divisions guarding the Balkan gate to the European fortress.

However, if the Germans choose what is considered the unlikely course of allowing Bulgaria to jump off the Axis wagon, opinion here is that the Nazis would be waving farewell to all southeastern Europe.

There have been increasing indications that the Bulgarians, not at war with Russia, know they are on the losing side and would like to get out before the game is up. But there is no general belief here that the country can change sides before Allied troops reach her borders, if the Germans elect to stand and fight.

Newton's Appeal

established that Dr. Newton and his wife were in Cameron, their home, all day May 20, that they left there about 7 p. m. and later arrived in Caldwell, Burleson county, en route to Houston.

In Houston where they arrived at 10 p. m. they talked with several persons and spent the night in an apartment of friends, he said, and if the trial court had granted a continuance, these witnesses, unavailable at the time of the trial, could have established the Newton's presence in Houston.

Distance Pointed Out

Camp pointed out that Cameron is more than 500 miles from Littlefield, and Houston is more than 700 miles from the Lamb county town.

The state was given a week in which to prepare its arguments and brief on appeal because Ernest Goens has been state's attorney for only a few days, succeeding Spurgeon Bell who resigned to enter the Navy.

Presiding Judge F. L. Hawkins emphasized the importance of the continuance issue raised by Camp and directed that Goens give this factor special attention in making the state's reply to the appelant's arguments.

HUNT TESTIFIED HE ANSWERED PHONE CALLS

Dr. Hunt testified that he was called to the outskirts of Littlefield at midnight by Mrs. Newton after he had received three phone calls from her.

About three or four miles out of town he saw a parked car and Mrs. Newton was sitting in it, he said. She asked him to enter and as he did Dr. Newton came from a borrow pit at the side of the road and began shooting, Dr. Hunt testified. The wounded physician escaped into a nearby field.

Dr. Hunt testified also that he and Dr. Newton were classmates at the University of Texas medical branch, Galveston; that when Dr. Hunt was an interne at Jefferson Davis hospital in Houston in 1935, Mrs. Newton, then unmarried, was a nurse there and that the two were friends. Dr. Hunt's wife also was a nurse there. According to Dr. Hunt's testimony he had not seen Dr. Newton since 1933 and Mrs. Newton since 1935.
