GAS AND NORMAL MATTERS ARE UP

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DIRECTORS CONSIDER THEM IN EXECUTIVE SESSION.

PLANS FULLY OUTLINED

Evidences That Both Will Result Successfully Are Believed Material. Meeting is Executive.

At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors this morning the gas company matter and the normal matter were both given attention, and the plans in connection with each outlined. For sufficient reasons, no publicity is given their action on either matter.

Two gas propositions were submitted and a committee was appointed to consider them in detail. This committee is in session this afternoon and will probably be ready to report with some definite conclusion on Monday.

The normal committee also outlined its campaign very carefully and is now prepared to carry out the mandate of the mass meeting last night. Its work has been very carefully outlined and it is believed that the plans adopted will be successful. The uncertainty of both the matters considered makes secrecy more or less necessary and very little is to be said about either proposition.

CLOSING ARGUMENTS.

Thaw Sanity Hearing is Now Drawing to a Close.

By Associated Press.
White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 7.—The closing arguments were heard today by Supreme Court Justice Mills on Harry Thaw's application for release from the Matteawan asylum. Each side was confined to an hour. Jerome, who spoke first, said he believed all the witnesses did their best to tell the truth except Evelyn Thaw, whom he declared had deliberately and intentionally falsified, although he had no doubt she told her husband the story of her injury at the hands of Stanford White.

OTHER TOWNS NOT IDLE.

Contest for West Texas Normal is Waxing Hot.

It is learned that other West Texas towns are making strenuous efforts to land the West Texas Normal and are ready to appear before the committee Monday with good propositions. Amarillo is understood to have given her committee free rein, as Wichita did. Big Springs is trying to offer ninety thousand dollars. Vernon offers $10,000 cash and forty acres of land. The other contestants have not announced what they will do, but all are coming strong.

Shower Was Short and Light, Barely Laying the Dust.

A light shower fell here late yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock. The rain was preceded by lightning and some wind, but was not heavy enough to do much more than dampen the ground. More rain is predicted by the weather bureau for tonight and tomorrow.

The central part of the State was visited by a very beneficial rain yesterday, breaking up a long and disastrous drought, but too late to help the crops materially.

"WILL PLAY THE GAME WITH THE LIMIT OFF"

Normal Committee Instructed to Stop at Nothing, But to Land it at Any Cost—Successful Meeting

That Wichita Falls wants the Normal, that she is in the game with the limit off and that she is going to get it, whether or no, was the sentiment of the citizens at the mass meeting last night. The session was marked not only with enthusiasm, but with a seriousness of purpose and a determination that bespoke much for the success of the effort that is to be made. The committee is to be sent to Fort Worth, without any limit on the amount of inducements to offer. It is to be given carte blanche, and whatever it deems necessary to offer the committee to land the school it is to offer and the citizens will "stand together" back of them.

The committee was instructed to go and "get the school." The first motion was "to get the school, if possible," but the last two words were struck out. There is nothing contingent or uncertain about the mission of the committee. It is to land the school. The ante is high and the limit is off. The game is an open one, but the chips come high. Wichita Falls will be there with a stack of blues to land that normal if there is such a word as land in the English language. Such was the sentiment expressed at the meeting last night.

The threatening weather did not prevent a good attendance and there were several hundred present when Chairman Huff called the meeting to order.

Mr. Huff briefly stated the purpose of the meeting, saying he took it for granted that every citizen wanted to see the school here and would do his part to get it. He gave a history of the matter and called attention to the fact that the rapidly increasing population of the country the school would supply and the consequent need of more teachers made the institution a very desirable one. He expressed a desire to know the sentiment of the citizens with regard to what the city should offer, saying that there were some willing to assume the responsibility if the people would agree to stand behind them. He called on Professor Toland to discuss the matter.

Professor Toland fully endorsed all that President Huff had said and declared the value of the school would be inestimable. It would not, he said, be a steady drain on the city for more funds, as a denominational school is apt to be, but, once established here, is a drawing card and a commercial asset for all time to come. He estimated that it would be worth not less than $300,000 a year to the city and in addition he called attention to the moral tone it would lend the city to have fifteen hundred ambitious young men and women within her borders. Also that the members of the faculty would build homes here and add to the intellectual growth of the city in a very material way. He had been assured, he said, that Wichita Falls would not be one of those to go out of the race at the start and he argued the importance of bringing the committee here and showing them what was to be offered, as well as making a good showing at Fort Worth.

Judge Carrigan stood up in his shirt sleeves and said that the school would add fifty per cent to the value of property here. The value of the school to the city, he pointed out, need not be speculated upon, as it was known beyond any doubt and money would be needed to back it up. He pointed out that the fame of Wichita Falls as an enterprising city extended throughout the Southwest and that much was expected of this city.

"We must stand as one man," he said. He showed how substantial and material a benefit the North Texas Normal had been to Denton and said that the West Texas Institution would be even more so to Wichita Falls. Another feature of the situation, he said, was the advertising value. The money spent annually by the Chamber of Commerce, he declared, would dwindle to insignificance by the side of the value in advertising in securing this institution. It would also serve, he said, to put this city on the political map. He urged the citizens to go to the last notch.

Frank Kell, in a short but pointed talk, said it was worth more to the city than any railroad, to say nothing of the moral advantages. He pointed out that Wichita Falls' well known fighting qualities were none too great to land this school and that every effort must be put forth. He briefly recounted Wichita's natural advantages and urged that the committee be instructed to go to the Fort Worth meeting and go the limit, promising anything within reason. The school, he continued, would increase the moral tone of the city, bringing over a thousand educated young men and women and its total value was inestimable. "We must get it," he concluded. "We can't lay down."

J. A. Kemp did not think he could add anything new to what had been said, but he wanted to urge that the committee be instructed to go the limit. Lon Mathis, representing, as he said, the men of modest resources, told the committee to play the game with the roof off, whatever the ante, knowing that the citizenship of the city were standing back of them. He called attention to the fact that Wichita Falls had been willing to offer seventy-five thousand dollars for a road to Oklahoma City and went on to say that this school was worth three times more. It would benefit every class, he said, except possibly the lawyers, and even they would be benefitted indirectly. The big men of the town, he knew, were going to do their part; he was there to say that the "little men" would come up, too.

"I'm proud of our public spirit. I want us to land this thing and get such a reputation for getting what we go after that when we start, the other fellow will throw up his hands and say 'Tain't no use.'"

Judge Montgomery suggested that the less money and the more land and buildings the city offered, the better her chances would be, as the committee could expend but fifty thousand dollars for buildings in any case. Mr. Ward said that he would do his part and help all he could.

J. A. Kemp moved that the committee be instructed to go to Fort Worth and land the school if possible. The words, "if possible," were stricken out as superfluous. The motion prevailed by a unanimous rising vote.

Upon motion of Judge Carrigan, Chairman Huff appointed the committee last night, reserving the right to add others to it later. Upon motion he was added to the committee; which will consist of R. E. Huff, J. A. Kemp, T. L. Toland, Wiley Blair and J. T. Montgomery.

Mr. Kell announced that he had received a very encouraging letter from Judge Scurry, now in the north, but that the judge would be unable to render the committee any further services until he returned.

Chairman Huff adjourned the meeting, after a few remarks upon the success and enthusiasm which had attended the movement. He expressed confidence in this city's ability to land the school.

The latter team has an almost unbroken record of victories, playing such teams as Greenville, McKinney Grand Saline and other crack nines in that section of the State. Should Wichita Falls be successful in the series, she would have some grounds for claiming the championship of North Texas as well as of the Northwest part of the State.

IMMIGRANTS INTO WICHITA COUNTY

THIS SECTION SEEMS TO BE OBJECTIVE POINT FOR FARMERS AT PRESENT.

WAGON LOADS COMING IN

Real Estate Man Has Kept Track of New Settlers and Gives Some Interesting Figures.

According to one who has kept posted on the matter, sixty-seven new families have settled on farms in or near Wichita County since the first of June, adding three hundred souls to the population of the county. Few have failed to notice the numerous wagons, loaded with families and household goods, that are to be seen several times daily on the streets of this city, but not many have stopped to think that each of these wagons from three to eight more people increase a population.

A real estate man of this city, who came in contact with most of the immigrants who were seeking farm lands, kept record of each family and he has found that the sixty-seven he met came from the following widely divergent points:

McLennan County, Texas—Seven families.
Smith County, Texas—Four families.
Freestone County—Two families.
Caldwell County—Three families.
Oklahoma—Fourteen families.
Arkansas—Four families.
Louisiana—Eleven families.
Missouri—Three families.
Kansas—Two families.

One from each of the following: Montgomery county, Hill county, Hopkins county, Blanco county, Morris county, Williamson county, Rusk county, Liberty county, Lampasas county, and one family each from Illinois, New Mexico, Alabama and Tennessee.

These figures are interesting in that they show how widely this section is becoming known and how its reputation as a farming country is increasing. It will be noted that many of the new settlers here are from other parts of Texas, this being probably due to the failure of crops in the black land belt.

Rules For Dealing With the Fly Nuisance

Keep the flies away from the sick, especially those ill with contagious diseases. Kill every fly that strays into the sick room. His body is covered with disease germs.

Do not allow decaying material of any sort to accumulate on or near your premises.

All refuse which tends in any way to fermentation, such as bedding straw, paper waste and vegetable matter, should be disposed of or covered with lime or Kerosene oil.

Screen all food, whether in the house or exposed for sale.

Keep all receptacles for garbage carefully covered and the cans cleaned or sprinkled with oil or lime.

Keep all stable manure in vault or pit, screened or sprinkled with lime, oil or other cheap preparations, such as are sold by a number of reliable manufacturers.

See that your sewerage system is in good order; that it does not leak, is up to date and not exposed to flies.

Pour kerosene into the drains.

Burn or bury all table refuse.

Screen all windows and doors, especially in the kitchen and dining room.

If you see flies, you may be sure that their breeding place is in nearby filth. It may be behind the door, under the table or in the cuspidor.

If there is no dirt and filth there will be no flies.

If there is a nuisance in the neighborhood write at once to the health department.

TO KILL FLIES:

The London "Lancet," the leading medical journal of the world, says that the best and simplest fly-killer is a weak solution formaldehyde in water (two teaspoonfuls to the pint). Place in plates or saucers throughout the house. Ten cents worth of formaldehyde will last an ordinary family all summer. It has no offensive smell, is fatal to disease organisms, and is practically non-poisonous except to insects.

Pyrethrum powder, which may be bought at any drug store, burned in the house will also kill the flies.

Mrs. C. W. Bean and children of this city are at Colorado Springs to spend the remainder of the summer.

August finds a large number of Wichita people away to escape the hot weather and there is a corresponding lack of social activities. Colorado has claimed most of the out-of-town people, but South Texas and Wisconsin are also being visited by a number of Wichitans. The latter part of this month will see many of them returning.

An exchange prints a story about a woman who had her husband arrested for telling her ghost stories and frightening her. Poor woman. I wonder if it is possible to have our husbands arrested for telling us "fish stories" about various and sundry things. I wonder? If such a law were in existence the jail house would soon be overflowing, wouldn't it?

Wifehood and motherhood, says a writer, subject more women to invalidism and death each year than soldiers have been subjected to during the combined wars of 130 years. Since the mother bears the brunt of keeping the race alive, and the soldier only protects property, why not pension the mother and let the soldier "hoe his own row"? Not a bad idea, is it?

The Woman's Journal tells the story of a little girl in the East End of London, who was being examined on the story of the prodigal son. She told about his having eaten husks with the swine and the teacher asked, "What else could he have done?" "He might have pawned his little girl's boots," replied the child, sophisticated in the ways of the modern poor man.

Miss Taylor Entertains.

Miss Vera Taylor entertained a number of her friends at her home Wednesday evening with a delightful party. The young people passed the evening with games and other amusements, followed by a delicious supper. Those present were Misses Frances Allen, Mary Lytle and Clara Lytle of Fort Worth, Mable Winfrey, Luella Morgan, Hesba Ziegler, Jessie Kerr, Lois Smith, Lula Staley; Messrs. Clarence Davis, Leon Denton, Sherman, Welch Morgan, Fred Stingle, Raleigh Edwards, and Clyde Winfrey.

There are many stories told of Mrs. George Keppel, the friend of King Edward, but one of the latest is that she always insists, when on a visit to the country, that her maid shall have the sort of food that she considers good for her. Once, all the maids at a country house refused to eat the meal set before them, so the mistress of the mansion ordered that the guests' luncheon go to the servants' hall and the servants' luncheon be served the guests. Mrs. Keppel is said to have tackled the cold beef and pickles with particular zest, as she had a much better digestion than her maid.

A writer in an English paper tells about the love of children of the Romans as made manifest in the poetry of the Latin of Virgil and other writers. They did not elaborate upon the child, but touches here and there showed how the love of home and children dominated them. As, for instance, the flight from Troy, little Iulus is described in the lines of Virgil: "Little Iulus clung to my hand and followed his father with ill-matched steps." No more elaborate description could have made a more effective word picture of the child toddling after his father.

Miss Marjorie Gould has one of the largest collections of spoons in the United States and she is adding to it almost daily. She has a spoon from every State in the Union, each with the coat of arms of the State on the handle. She also has spoons from almost every city in Europe. A few of the collections are of gold, but the majority are of silver. Miss Helen Taft is also a spoon collector, but she goes in exclusively for odd designs. It is Miss Taft's aim to complete a collection marking all the oddities in spoonmaking since the time when spoons were first used down to the present day. She is an authority on spoonmaking since the earliest times, as is Miss Gould.

Miss Berli Murph entertained a few of her young friends at the home of her parents, 1406 Tenth street, Monday evening of this week from 8 to 12 o'clock with a lawn party, in honor of her cousin, Miss Mabel Robertson of Devol, Oklahoma. Delicious cream and cake was served and a most delightful evening was spent. Invariably roses should be planted by themselves, for they thrive poorly unless allowed to absorb the entire nourishment of a rich soil. Indeed, many growers believe that certain varieties do best when living apart from even those nearest of kin, and make up their rosariums with many beds, each holding one kind of rose, or set the plant in rows with ample room left between for cultivation. June, however, is not the time to plan or build a rosarium, which can be done successfully only in the spring or autumn.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

Plays and Players That Will Be Seen at the Wichita This Season.

Eugene MacGregor and Mrs. MacGregor (Louise Gardner) have been engaged by Cohan & Harris to play Tom Bennett and Floradora Dean in 'Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway.' This is Mr. MacGregor's third season as leading man with this company.

Ruby Bridges has been signed by Joseph Weber for the 'Climax.'

Oddly, the new dramatic season in Chicago starts with the Climax. In this play, which began a long run at the Powers theater this week, there are only four characters, and in contemplation an actor has said that pretty soon the producers will paint the actors on the scenery. Thus the managers will be saved a great deal of annoyance and the artists will have the leisure for some useful employment as tilling the soil or breaking rock.

Harry Askin left New York for Chicago last week, after making arrangements for the tour of 'Lo.' This musical comedy will be seen in several of the Western cities (among them Wichita Falls), and will then go to Chicago for a run. Engagements announced are John E. Young, who will be starred; Mabel Moyles, Juliet Lange, prima donna, and David Kirkland, in addition to several others who have been announced previously.

Joseph Weber, who is presenting the Climax this season will personally conduct a company of 100 people playing 'The Merry Widow and the Devil' from coast to coast.

A great deal of interest is being manifested throughout the country in the fight between the theatrical trust, Klaw & Erlanger, and the Schuberts, and their allies of the independent faction. In addition to controlling some of the principal theaters in New York, the Schuberts are gradually gaining a foothold in nearly every State in the Union. They are already in control of a chain of first class theaters from New York to San Francisco and up through Washington and Oregon. Some of the recent additions to their ranks are the Inter-Mountain circuit, composed of the principal theaters in Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada and other Rocky Mountain cities; and the Western Association, composed of large theaters in Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and other Middle Western States. So far, Klaw & Erlanger must be in control of the principal T. 69-11 houses, having recently closed a tract with the Greenwalls, who they are to have the exclusive rights of the Greenwall circuit for a period of ten years. The Greenwall circuit is composed of the leading 174-117 theaters in Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, Galveston, San Antonio, Beaumont, Waco, Wichita Falls and a few other of the larger cities, together with a number of towns in Oklahoma and Louisiana. The Schuberts have also secured control of some of the Oklahoma houses and will book their attractions through there. In addition to the Klaw & Erlanger attractions, Wichita Falls theater-goers will see some of the Schuberts attractions.

PICNIC AT BYERS

This is a gala day at Byers and quite a few people from this city accepted invitations to attend the picnic which is being held near that town today. The occasion is an enjoyable one, base ball, speaking and plenty to eat being the attractions.

He Dodged Cold Mutton.

Green, the English historian, one day asked a friend which of all the inventions of their day had done the most for the people as a whole. His friend guessed this and that, but the answer was:

"Beyond doubt, sixpenny photographs."

A reply involving quite as great an absurdity as that was made by Cecil Rhodes in answer to a lady who, seeking to draw him out, suggested that he owed his phenomenal rise to the impetus of noble sentiments.

"Madam," returned Mr. Rhodes, "I owe my fortune simply and solely to cold mutton."

"Cold mutton!" gasped the lady.

"Oh, Mr. Rhodes, what do you mean?" "When I was young," continued the South African millionaire, "I was so dosed with cold mutton and I hated it so cordially that I resolved to grow rich in order to put it on one side for the rest of my life. Yes, madam, cold mutton was at the root of my success. Noble sentiments had nothing to do with it."

Preparing For a "Dewel."

One of the most remarkable documents that have ever come under our observation, says a law journal, is to be found in the case of ex parte Scoggin, 6 Tex. App. 546. Mr. Scoggin was under indictment for the murder of one William Gerrard, and an extract from a memorandum book in defendant's handwriting and found near the body ran as follows:

Johnson Co., Tex., Jan. 24, 1875. As it may be the last pencilling that I may ever do on earth May heaven Bless me and the man that I am going to file. for we have been traveling to geather some time and have fell out a bought the sum of 125 and have agreed to fight a dewel this Butful night of our lord, and as one of us has to die May heaven bless us, as this is the last half hour on earth with offe of us, heaven Preserve me now and forever. Written by Jesse Scoggin, Bored and rased in Tx. Sined by William Jirec, Bored in Illinois.

Mr. Scoggin's plety apparently brought victory to him in the "dewel," for his adversary when found appeared to have been struck behind the ear by a thirteen inch shell.

A Substitute.

The young lawyer, having been nominated for the office of county attorney, thought to surprise an eccentric genius of the name of Si who was working as a hired man on the young lawyer's father's farm.

"Well, Si, what do you think?" the young man began.

"Sometimes one thing, Lonny, an' sometimes nother."

"But, Si, they have nominated me for county attorney."

"They might 'a' done worse, Lonny. Howsomever, don't holier till you're out of the woods."

The young attorney was duly elected and on his next visit to the farm announced the fact unctuously to Si, who was at the wood pile, saw in hand.

"Well, Si, I am elected by a large majority. What do you think of that?"

"Well, Lonny, down in our parts, where I was raised, when we wanted a stopper an' hadn't any cork we generally took a corncob."—Exchange.

Practicing on Wooden Legs.

Of the five cases in the accident ward that were pronounced cured at the same time three remained in the hospital more than a week after the other two had gone home.

"They had to stay," said an interne, "to get used to their wooden legs. It takes some time to learn to manage them, and most men who will have to peg along with them for the rest of their natural lives stay in the hospital several days after they get well to practice stumping around on their new legs. Of course they can learn outside, but the man who has just acquired a wooden leg feels so awkward and is so likely to fall down and break the other leg or an arm or maybe his neck that we prefer to keep him here so he can take his first lessons under Materials.—Three ufich, Confus of butter, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half cupful of lukewarm water, one yeast cake, two cupfuls of new milk, one tablespoonful of sugar, two egg whites and six cupfuls of flour.

Way of Preparing.—Scald the milk and add to it the sugar, salt and butter. Let stand until lukewarm, then add three cupfuls of flour and beat for five minutes. Add the dissolved yeast and let stand until it is a very light frothy mass, then add the egg whites, beat through them is picturesque, and many of the islands are illuminated at night.

Who Voted?

Benjamin Franklin once discussed the property qualification for voting in Pennsylvania. A man owned a donkey of sufficient value to enable him to vote, but before the next election the donkey died, and the man's vote was refused. "Now," asked Franklin, "who voted at the previous election, the man or the donkey?"

A Tribute.

Walter—They do say ye're a great hand at a Welsh rabbit, sir. The Clubman—They do, eh? The Walter—Yis, sir. O! heerd wan man say ye made wan that was worth all the trouble it gev him ather he ate it.

More in His Line.

"Do you think I will make a player?" asked a sluggish applicant for football.

"You may make a chess player," said the coach. "You are slow enough in moving."

The morose man takes both narrow and selfish views of life and the world. He is either envious of the happiness of others or denies its existence.—Simmons.

WASHINGTON AND LEE.

It must be the hope of every broad-gauged, patriotic American that there will be no objection raised or criticism indulged in when the time comes for Virginia to place in Statuary Hall her contribution to that Pantheon of the great, says the Houston Chronicle, which continues:

So far as the Chronicle recalls the terms of the law, there is no qualification or restriction upon the right of selection by any State, but every State is left free to decide for herself which two of her sons will most appropriately come within the meaning and spirit of the act.

Texas chose Houston and Austin, and that her choice was just and wise there can be no doubt. Illinois as one of the statues contributed by her chose that of Miss Frances Willard, the distinguished and beloved leader of the great temperance organization, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Virginia will offer George Washington and Robert E. Lee. She has already had the statues cast in bronze. That of Washington is an exact reproduction of the statue of Hourdon, which stands in the capitol of Virginia and which was modeled from life about the year 1791, and is the only existing statue so modeled.

The statue of Robert E. Lee represents him standing with his right hand hanging by his side holding his military hat, while his left hand rests on the top of the hilt of his sword, which is held by a broad silk sash with heavy tassels. His dress is the full uniform of his rank, including cavalry boots and spurs. It must be a magnificent and impressive statue, because to look upon even the crude wood cut stirr and thrills as few pictures or paintings can do. As far as possible the sculptor seems to have risen to the demands of the occasion and to have reproduced in beautiful outline that stately, graceful, majestic form which moved with kingly grace and dignity among men. That he did not do full justice to his matchless subject is not surprising, for that was beyond the loftiest sweep of artistic genius.

Separating Robert E. Lee from the South and her history, and looking at him as far as possible from the standpoint of impartial judgment, he was of the loftiest type of mankind, one of the purest and noblest, grandest illustrations of the glory and dignity of humanity the world has ever seen.

Theodore Roosevelt said he was the greatest soldier that ever spoke the English language. History attests the purity, the staleness of his life, his fidelity to conviction, his gentleness, his courage, his tenderness, his sweetness of character—a combination unmatched in all human annals.

Certainly no man will object to his figure in bronze being placed in the capitol of the nation. If there could be objection it would be that there will be none to match him save his great compatriot, his fellow Virginian, the first and elder "rebel," Washington. Blessed is the State which can claim two such sons. She may rest content that all the passing centuries will produce none nobler or worthier a place in the Pantheon of the Immortals.

Wichita Falls rejected the commission form of government; Bonham wants it. Many of the towns of the State are after it because it is business principles applied to the city government, and has proved successful in many towns and cities of the State. It is safe to say that it will only be a short time until the most of the towns in Texas are thus governed.—Terrell Transcript.

Mistaken. The proposition has never been formally submitted to the voters of Wichita Falls. When it has been it will be ample time to record the result. That there is opposition to such a form of government in Wichita Falls there is not the least doubt. This, doubtless, is because Wichita Falls is democratic in politics, and democrats—the kind who vote the ticket because they believe in democracy—also believe that the people have sufficient intelligence to elect by ballot their own officers.

Begin now to be extra good to your wife. Elms must be built in the old way next winter, and there's the wood and coal to be brought in and the kindling to split.—Corsicana Sun.

And the Sun might have added that many of the poor, ill treated and overworked wives will continue to build the fires in the old way and also hustle their own wood and kindling.—Bonham Favorite.

Wichita Falls has solved the problem for the lazy man who objects to bringing in wood and coal and build the winter fires. Here we have natural gas, and all that is required to start the fire is the striking of a match and turning a jet.

It is suggested that H. Clay Pierce got married so his wife could sit by his side at the trial and weep. She may laugh until she cries at the efforts to convict him, but that will be the extent of her lachrymal exhibitions.

Kansas is opposing the introduction of the Jim Crow car because she says it will put her in the same attitude as Texas. In that case, Texas will be more ashamed of the similitude than Kansas will.

A Texas cowboy had to act as king to keep from being eaten by cannibals. Judging from the experiences of some of the European kings, we believe we would rather be eaten.

Stamford is said to be amused over the fact that Wichita Falls is trying to land the normal. Laugh, darn ye, laugh. There may come a time when you can't.

The Wichita Falls team has outplayed all of North Texas and most of Oklahoma and is now ready for some of the numerous State champions from East Texas.

MALARIAL DISEASES.

How to Avoid Them and the Serious Consequences of Neglect.

"Fix me up something to knock the malaria, doctor," remarked a sorrowful, sickly looking man, entering a prominent physician's office the other day.

The doctor stepped to his medicine case, took down a couple of bottles, mixed a preparation which he handed to the patient with the customary advice to "shake well and follow directions," and resumed his seat.

"Such cases are frequent," replied the doctor in answer to a question. "The warm days and damp, chilly nights are certain malaria breeders and are most serious in those who have neglected to keep their stomach, liver and bowels in good condition. Such persons are full of the impurities on which the malarial germ thrives, and it is from this class that typhoid fever, pneumonia, Bright's Disease, small pox and yellow fever claim most of their victims whenever these diseases are prevalent.

The proper way to guard against the malarial germ and the serious diseases which follow it is to get into good condition by taking a reliable remedy that will keep the bowels clear and the liver healthy, and to continue with it at frequent intervals during the sickly season.

A dose of Prickly Ash Bitters three or four times a week will do all of this, besides stimulating the digestion, improving the appetite and keeping the bodily energy at the highest pitch.

Prickly Ash Bitters is known everywhere as a system tonic and bowel regulator. It not only removes all traces of malarial poison from the system, but tones up the vital organs, gives new strength and vigor, makes the body strong and the brain active.

"Prickly Ash Bitters is the best all-around medicine for the family I ever used. During the past ten years I have always kept it in my house. Whenever any of my family show signs of malaria, kidney trouble, indigestion or constipation a few doses is all that is needed to make them well and hearty again."—W. H. McWilliams, Fickling, La.

THE CONFEDERATE REUNION.

After Three Days Session Camp Stonewall Jackson Breaks Camp.

Ex-Sheriff W. J. Howard returned yesterday from Holliday, where he had been to attend the annual reunion of Camp Stonewall Jackson of ex-Confederate Veterans, held on the 4th, 5th and 6th.

He reports a large attendance and a most splendid and enjoyable time.

While none of the prominent speakers put down on the program for addresses made their appearance, there was plenty of good speaking and recitations and readings from daughters of Confederate soldiers.

The music for the three days encampment was furnished by the Iowa Park cornet band, and there was an abundance and to spare of everything good to eat.

Mr. Howard, who has attended all the reunions of this camp (eighteen in all) says this was the most enjoyable.

All the old officers of the camp were re-elected and at 10 o'clock yesterday morning the meeting was adjourned and camp broken to meet again on August 4th of next year.

SUGAR AND CANDY.

Satisfy the Cravings of the Children For Sweets.

Children may eat too much sugar, and they may also stay too long in their bathtub, or in the creek when they go in swimming, or get tanned or a headache from playing too long in the sun, or chilled by staying too long in the open air, but is that any sound reason why they should be deprived of sweets, sunlight, baths and fresh air or discouraged from indulging in them?

All that is needed, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Success Magazine, is a little common sense regulation and judicious supervision, not prohibition or denunciation. Most of the extraordinary craving for pure sugar and candy, which is supposed to lead the average child to inevitably "founder himself" if left to his own sweet will and a box of candy, is due to a state of artificial and abnormal sugar starvation, produced by an insufficient amount of this invaluable food in its regular diet.

Children who are given plenty of sugar on their mush, bread and butter and puddings, a regular allowance of cake and plenty of sweet fruits are almost free from this craze for candy, this tendency to gorge themselves to surfeit, and can usually be trusted with both the candy box and the sugar bowl.

Parker House Rolls.

Materials.—Three tablespoonfuls of butter, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half cupful of lukewarm water, one yeast cake, two cupfuls of new milk, one tablespoonful of sugar, two egg whites and six cupfuls of flour.

Way of Preparing.—Scald the milk and add to it the sugar, salt and butter. Let stand until lukewarm, then add three cupfuls of flour and beat for five minutes. Add the dissolved yeast and let stand until it is a very light, frothy mass, then add the egg whites, beaten to a stiff froth, and the remaining flour. Let rise again until it is twice its original bulk, place on your molding board, knead lightly and then roll into a sheet half an inch thick. Take a large biscuit cutter and cut the dough into rounds. Brush with melted butter, fold over and press the edges together. Place in a buttered pan one inch apart. Let rise until very light and bake in a hot oven fifteen minutes.

"That Which Is Worth Having Is Worth Advertising For"

The old adage that what is worth having is worth asking for is still true—true of the more intricate life of today.

The thing you want—whether it is a used piano or a home, whether it is a ready-made business or a lost pocket-book—is obtained readily through advertising, and with difficulty, or not at all, through other means.

The TIMES WANT ADS. BRING RESULTS

A Woman's Age? Forget It.
Man has no right to question woman's age—to even think about it. A woman, bless her, is as old as she makes out or makes up and not a day older. Man is out of his latitude when he begins trying to locate woman's age longitude. It is her privilege to conceal her age in any form or manner she may choose, and it is man's prerogative to assist her as much as possible rather than hinder or question her in any way. Man owes it to himself to see that she is supplied with every means of concealing her age or any new wrinkle which she chooses to keep from the gaze of the overcurious public. Man is not supposed to be young or beautiful. He couldn't be if he wanted to be and wouldn't be if he could. With woman it is different. She wants to be and can be and is, whether she wants to be or not, and it is a whole lot better for her and for her admirer or admirers, as the case may be, that her age be carefully guarded under that charming veil of mystery which should ever be hers by right of possession. Forget that she has an age, brother, and you will be happier, and so will she, but don't, for heaven's sake, forget that she has a birthday.—Boston Herald.

The Fighting Editor.
The fighting editor is no joke in Paris. There, if a paper calls a man a liar or a thief, the man takes it seriously, and, visiting the office, he demands a retraction or a fight. It is the fighting editor who receives him. The fighting editor sits in a Louis Selze study, smoking a cigarette and reading a new novel with a yellow cover. He is faultlessly dressed in deep black—the duelist's color. The ribbon of the Legion of Honor is in his buttonhole. His brilliant eyes and clear skin proclaim his perfect condition. His alert, supple carriage shows his military training. The fighting editor never writes a line, but is responsible personally for every word in the paper every day. On a plain, outspoken sheet like Le Matin, which keeps him pretty busy, his salary is very large—$40 a week or so. A conservative journal like Le Temps, having little use for a fighting editor, pays the man no more than $20.—Exchange.

Buttered Bread With His Thumb.
Cat's meat is the only survival of a way of serving meat that prevailed in this country before the introduction of forks, for it was the custom in mediaeval times to serve roast meat on a spit and to pass it around the table for each guest to cut off what he liked, a method that did not allow one person only to secure the carver's titbits. In France one still finds chicken livers and bacon served on small spits, and to the Britisher it always suggests at first sight the food of the domestic cat. It is probable that many people continued to prefer fingers to table utensils, even after these were perfected and in general use, for knives were certainly invented at the period when Charles XII. chose to butter his bread with his royal thumb.—London Chronicle.

A Wave of Water.
There is no necessary connection between the advance of a wave and the forward movement of the water composing it, as may be seen by running the fingers along the keys of a piano. An inverted wave travels along, but the keys merely move up and down. Similarly a wave may often be observed running along the ripe ears of golden grain, while the stalks are firmly rooted in the soil. The onward progress of a sea wave is easily perceptible, and by watching some light substance floating on the surface the fact is revealed that the water is not moving with the same velocity.—Chambers' Journal.

A Hint and a Hump.
A woman there was, and she wrote for the press, as you or I might do. She told how to cut and sew a dress and how to cook many a savory mess, but she never had done it herself, I guess, but none of her readers knew. She told how to comb and dress the hair and how out of a barrel to make a chair—would adorn any parlor and give it an air—we thought the tale was true. Oh, the days we spent and the nights we spent, with hammer and saw and tack, in making a chair in which no one would sit, in which no one could possibly sit, without a creak in the back.—Economical Housewife.

A Legal Query.
Tired of the long winded oratory of the attorney for the defense, the judge interrupted him.
"Mr. Sharke," he said, "may I ask you a question?"
"Certainly, your honor. What is it?"
"Language," said the judge, "we are told, is given to conceal thought or words to that effect. Inasmuch as you don't seem to have any thought to conceal, I would like to know why you are talking?"

Not Misfits.
Mrs. Crimsonbeak—It seems strange to me, if matches are made in heaven, that there should be so many unhappy marriages. Mr. Crimsonbeak—Oh, you forget it is the matches that are made there, not the misfits.—Yonkers Statesman.

The Fall.
"Satan wuz once a angel in heaven, wuzn't he?"
"Yes, but, like de rest of us, he des couldn't stand prosperity."—Atlanta Constitution.

It's the easiest thing in the world to point out the proper course for others to pursue.
