Four Dodson Visitors Die in Crash Saturday

Five people died in a head-on collision 12 miles north of Childress shortly after 5 a.m. Saturday, June 4.

Four were members of a Dodson family who arrived three hours earlier from California to visit their father, Lee Roy Wiles.

The only survivor was a two-year-old boy, Johnny Marsden, who was due to be released from Childress General Hospital Monday.

The four California victims were identified by the Department of Public Safety as George Steven Marsden, 24, his wife, Marie Wiles Marsden, 24; their two-year old twin son, George, Jr.; and Mrs. Marsden's sister, Clara Bell Wiles Adams, 23, all of Modesto.

Riding alone, in the other vehicle, was Johnny Soto, 28, of Hollis, who was working in Childress.

Another of Wiles daughters and a son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Steve Jensen of Dodson, with Mrs. Marsden's youngest child, Francesca, one year, were in a car immediately ahead of the Marsden vehicle. Jensen reported:

"I saw the Soto vehicle coming toward me and I headed for the ditch. I looked back and it had collided with the family, we couldn't believe our eyes."

A truck driver notified the DPS.

According to DPS Sgt. Ted Poling, who with Trooper Richard Johnson investigated the accident, the Marsden and Jensen cars were southbound. The Soto truck, northbound, crossed the center line, and crashed head-on into the Marsden vehicle.

Jensen said that the Marsdens and Mrs. Adams arrived in Dodson about 2:30 a.m. but found that Wiles was staying in Paducah, nearer to his work as operator of right of way mower for the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The women were eager to see their father and the entire group, with the Jensens and Francesca Marsden in the lead car, had

US 83 Designated Texas Vietnam Veterans Memorial Highway

The 68th Legislature, without opposition, on Saturday, May 28, passed a bill designating Highway US 83 as Texas Vietnam Veterans Memorial Highway to honor the thousands of Texans who served their country in the Armed Forces during that war.

The bill is now before Governor Mark White and it will be signed into law at a public signing. The date has not been set.

Highway US 83 is the southern part of a highway that goes through the heartland of America, beginning at Brownsville and leaving Texas a few miles north of Perryton. It is Collingsworth County's only US highway.

As HB 287, the bill was introduced by Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner Alice, representative Dist. 58, after she was approached with the proposal by a constituent, Pablo Aguillon.

Booker T. Washington Reunion June 17-19

Ex-students of Booker T. Washington School will hold a reunion from Friday evening through Sunday morning, June 17-19, with most of the events to be at the National Guard Armory and Pioneer Park.

Ex-students from as far distance as Ohio and Arizona plan to attend.

This school served black children of the Wellington area for many years, until it merged with Wellington Schools.

Registration will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. Friday at the Armory.

A parade consisting of floats and other entries will begin at the old Booker T. Washington School in northeast Wellington beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday.

It will travel down 8th street, along 15th Street, and after moving around the square, return to Washington School.

Anyone is welcome to participate, said Jimmy Barber.

The remainder of the day will be for visiting.

Pioneer Park at Highway US 83 and Salt Fork River will be the setting for the ex-students picnic Saturday evening. There will be activities for children and visiting and reminiscing for the ex-students and their guests.

Several awards will be given and a scholarship will be presented to a black student presently attending college.

A program is planned for Saturday night. Larue Gilbert Walker of Waco, who was a teacher in Booker T. Washington School will be the speaker.

The alumni dance will follow. This will be at the Armory also.

On Sunday morning, many of the ex-students will attend church services or visit with friends and family, and the reunion will end about noon.

Dr. Francine Childs, a graduate of the school and later one of its teachers, will attend and is handling many of the arrangements from Athens, Ohio, where she teaches in the department of Afro-American Studies of The University of Ohio.

She is especially interested in development of a scholarship fund in memory of several leaders in the black community who were instrumental in developing educational facilities for children in and around Wellington.

Another Booker T. Washington High School Graduate, Charles E. Taylor will come from Phoenix, Arizona.

R.L. Hunnicutt is president of the Booker T. Washington Ex-Students Association. Barber is vice-president; Beulah Powell, secretary and Jean Thomas, treasurer.

Final arrangements will be announced next week.

Club was organized by the Shamrock and McLean Lions Clubs.

Over the years, Breeding has served the club as a district officer and as delegate to national and international Lions meetings.

Elected to serve with him during the first year were Donald Coleman and Orville Cunningham, vice president; Dub Marchant, secretary; James Throckmorton, treasurer; Doug Coleman, tail twister; the late A.F. Wischkaemper, lion tamer. Directors were the officers and the late Wood Coleman, J.C. Breeding, L.A. Richards and B.A. Purkey.

The club was organized with 25 charter members and a goal of 40 members.

Boyd Meador, international counselor of Lions Clubs and later mayor of McLean, and Bill Smith of Ralls, Lions District Governor were speakers at the charter night banquet.

The club's first project was identifying the unmarked graves in the three cemeteries north of Salt Fork: Needwood, Plymouth and Samnorwood.

The next project was securing recreational facilities for Samnorwood and this grew to become Lions Park east of the school campus.

Some of the major projects through the years have been to support the High Plains Eye Bank in which a number of Lions and their wives committed their eyes to the band. They staged a big barbecue when the Samnorwood Rural Water System was opened. It was another project they had supported.

On Sundays nearest to Christmas, for several years, Lions and their wives crowded into school buses and traveled about the Samnorwood School District caroling for those who were aged or ill and confined to their homes. They support Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts.

started to Paducah.

The three adults were riding in the front seat of the Marsden car and the twin boys were in the back seat, apparently asleep, according to Childress Fire Chief Lloyd Luck, who called this wreck the worst in Childress County history.

The three adults were pinned behind the steering wheel, seats and dashboard of their car. Firemen using a jaws of life, worked three and one-half hours to free the victims.

Johnny Marsden, the survivor was wearing a seat belt and upon seeing he was still alive firemen worked frantically to rescue him and rush the boy to Childress General Hospital.

He was taken to an Altus Hospital Wednesday for treatment of a possible fractured pelvis.

Sgt. Poling said that the investigation showed that no evasive action was taken by either driver. He indicated that high speed was involved.

Both vehicles were completely demolished, he said. They were not welded together by the impact but came to rest between 25 and 40 feet apart.

Judge Jack Tudor, justice of the peace, pronounced the four people dead at the scene. Trooper Johnson headed the investigation.

Gravesides services for the four California victims were conducted at 4 p.m. Tuesday, June 7, at Childress Cemetery, with the Rev. C.M. Huff, pastor of the Dodson Church of the Nazarene, officiating. Arrangements were by Schooler-Gorden Funeral Directors.

George Steven Marsden was born August 19, 1957, in Oakland, Calif. His wife, Rose Marie Wiles Marsden was born July 2, 1957 in Albuquerque, N.M., and their son, George Steven, Jr., was born March 15, 1981 in Modesto.

Clara Bell Wiles Adams was born September 13, 1959 in Idabel, Okla. The sisters grew up in Dodson and attended school there. They had been in California several years.

The Marsdens are survived by two children. Johnny and Francesca and he is survived by his father, Glen Marsden of California; and his mother, Nancy Grange of California.

Mrs. Adams is survived by two children, David Glen Wilson and Clara Ann Wilson, both living in Oklahoma.

Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Marsden are also survived by their father, Lee Roy Wiles of Dodson; their mother, Mrs. Rose Mae Wiles of Modesto, Calif.; two sisters, Frances Jensen of Dodson and Leona Savage of Modesto, Calif.; and one brother, Cecil Wiles of Bakersfield, Calif.

of Crystal City, Zavala County Veterans Service Officer and an active member of his American Legion Post. Rachel Gaitan, administrative assistant for Rep. Glossbrenner told The Wellington Leader.

The bill gathered support among veterans organizations and the Texas Veterans Affairs Commission.

James R. Bowen, Collingsworth County Veterans Service Officer, said it was strongly supported by the Veterans County Service Officers Association of Texas and by its members individually.

Added support came from the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The bill passed the House without opposition.

Senator Carlos Truan of Corpus Christi, Dist. 20, carried the bill in the senate, where it passed 30-0. Sen. Tati Santiastaban of El Paso was absent.

The legislation will become effective immediately upon its being signed by Governor White.

"It (the bill) was not opposed in any way, Ms. Gaitan said. "In the hearing before the House Committee on Transportation, there was no opposition."

"Many people wanted to honor the thousands who were serving their country and this is one way of showing they were honored."

Rep. Glossbrenner's office requested the public signing by the governor.

The Texas Vietnam Veterans Memorial Highway will be under the jurisdiction of the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation. Glenn McLain, who is in charge of the Wellington office, said he had no information about the designation and indicated this will come after the bill is signed into law.

The bill provides that the department will direct that appropriate markers be designed and constructed.

The department will be responsible for repair and replacement of the markers and maintenance of grounds surrounding each marker. The bill provides that the Department may accept grants and donations from individuals and other entities to assist in financing construction.

Ms. Gaitan said she knows of no move by any other state through which Highway US 83 passes to have it designated as a memorial to Vietnam Veterans.

From its point of origin, at Brownsville, Highway US 83 follows the Rio Grande River northwest of Laredo, then swings northward through Crystal City, from where the original request was made for designation as the Vietnam Memorial, then Uvalde, Junction, Ballinger, Abilene, Guthrie, Paducah, Childress, Wellington, Shamrock, Wheeler, Canadian, and Perryton.

To the north, US 83 goes through Turpin, Oklahoma, Liberal and Garden City Kansas, McCook, North Platte and Valentine, Nebraska.

It is a main route through the capitol cities of two states, Pierre, South Dakota and Bismark, North Dakota. The route enters Canada between Westhope, North Dakota and Melita, Manitoba, and ends at Swan River, Canada, more than 300 miles beyond the international boundary.

At its southernmost Texas point, US 83 connects with Mexico Federal Highway 101, at Brownsville-Matamoros, and at Laredo it joins Mexico Highway 85, the Pan American Highway through Mexico, and into Central and South America.

The newly designed Vietnam Veterans Memorial Highway is the southern part of the route of the Snowbirds—those from the north central states who come south each year to make the Rio Grand Valley their winter homes.

4-H Team at 75th Anniversary Meeting

COLLEGE STATION - What do you have if you assemble 1,600 4-H'ers in the form of a clover leaf? You have a gigantic clover leaf full of vim and vigor.

That's exactly what happened at Texas A&M University June 7 during the opening of the annual Texas 4-H Roundup.

Participating in this were two Collingsworth 4-H Club girls, Leslie Birkey and Nicole Keller.

Their project presentation, horticultural preparation and use, was Peanut Pizzazz.

Some 1,600 4-H youth who participated in a host of contests and other events assembled on Kyle Field to form a huge clover leaf in celebration of the 75th anniversary of the beginning of the 4-H program in Texas.

The effort provided an avalanche of pictures that will find their way into a mass of publications during the remainder of 1983, points out George McArthur, a 4-H and youth specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. The Extension Service is the parent organization of 4-H, a program for youth between the ages of 9 and 19.

Along with the 75th anniversary celebration, Roundup activities June 7-8 featured the traditional State 4-H Food Show, State 4-H Project Show and competition in 39 different contest areas.

Contests ranging from method demonstrations in agronomy and clothing to public speaking and livestock judging commanded attention the second day of Roundup. 4-H'ers competing in these contests must have won at the county and district level to qualify for state competition, says McArthur. Roundup contest winners were recognized at a special assembly that evening at 8 o'clock.

NEW FIRE STATION

Reading Program Begins

More volunteers are needed to help with the children's summer reading program - The Reading Rodeo - which begins at Collingsworth County Library Monday, June 13. It will continue through the month, said Mrs. Rhuia Ketchum, librarian.

She explained that there is no additional help besides the two librarians, Mrs. Ketchum and Mrs. Erma Faye Kersten. Mrs. Eddie Hankins has volunteered to help with the reading program.

The volunteer work will consist of reading to the younger children at the two reading sessions each week, and assisting older children with the selection of books, Mrs. Ketchum explained. Hours will be from 1 to 3 p.m.

Those interested in working with the reading program should contact Mrs. Ketchum.

Children from kindergarten through 6th grade are eligible to participate.

This time, each child must have read 5 books on his own grade level before registering for the summer program. All of the books read in the program must also be on the child's grade level, and the youngster who reads the most books by the end of June will receive a prize.

There will be two reading sessions each week, on Monday afternoons for children in kindergarten through third grade and Thursday for grades four through 6.

For the reading sessions, in which books will be read by the volunteers, the county-district court room will become the children's reading room.

At the end of the program, a picnic or party is planned, probably in Ellison Park.

During the reading program, the children will learn of the exciting origins and history of the rodeo, and the role of the rodeo in the Southwest today.

There will be no fee charged for participation in any of the reading program events.

Each young buckaroo signing on for the reading program will be outfitted with western bookmarks, a reading log to keep track of books read, paper games and puzzles, and at the end of the program, there will be authentic certificates for those who finish the circuit.

COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY AGENT REPORT

by DON REEVES

VACCINATE HORSES FOR SLEEPING SICKNESS TETANUS

Though sleeping sickness is no longer a major problem in the horse industry, it still exists and all equines should receive a protective vaccine each year.

A highly effective combination vaccine is available for horses. It protects against Eastern, Western, Venezuelan types of sleeping sickness as well as tetanus.

Losing horses to sleeping sickness is unnecessary. Last year cases of the disease were reported in Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, and Alabama, probably due to an unusually high mosquito population during the summer months.

Equine encephalitis (sleeping sickness) is carried naturally by several species of birds. When mosquitoes bite an infected bird, the disease can then be transmitted by the mosquitoes to other animals.

Early signs of the disease include fever, loss of appetite and depression. The animal is usually restless, may walk aimlessly in circles and be sensitive to sound and touch.

One common symptom is a horse that stands with his head hung low like he's sleeping. He doesn't fully chew hay or forage, and as the disease progresses, the tongue may actually hang out of the mouth.

Once a horse is infected, treatment is generally unsuccessful. That's why proper immunization each year is so important.

The disease can also be transmitted to humans and some other animals. The virus has been found in dogs, goats, pigs, and

He studied accounting and business management in night classes at West Texas State University, and computer science courses at Amarillo College.

"The Lumbermen's Association of Texas has been of particular interest to me since 1968," he said.

HOUSEHOLD RESPONSIBILITIES-- WHAT'S IN IT FOR TEENS

With teenagers out of school for the summer, many are looking for ways to keep busy—but not by doing more household chores! While most teenagers contribute some time to household work, the amount is likely to be small.

A recent study published in the journal "Adolescence," shows that teenagers average about an hour of household work per day as compared to about 6½ for mother and two hours for fathers.

Teenagers' contributions seem to increase when mothers work full-time, but decrease when mothers work only part-time. Also, adolescent girls tend to spend more time doing household work than boys.

But for teenagers there is more to doing household chores than just getting the job done. Household responsibilities also teach basic life skills.

Parents who give teenagers experience with home responsibilities set a direction for the future. Youngsters who have no responsibilities are headed for difficulty when they leave home for camp, college or a place of their own.

Oddly enough, many teens agree that they should have household duties—although they don't necessarily fulfill them. Heading their list of reasonable chores are "keeping their room clean" and "taking out the trash." Further down the list are tasks such as doing the dishes, yard work, household cleaning, car washing and baby-sitting.

As teens get older, a gender difference emerges in the chores they are willing to do. But accepting (or rejecting) tasks because they are "women's work" or "a man's job," makes it difficult for teenagers when they have to depend on themselves or when the situation requires a balance of tasks regardless of sex.

No one way to handle household responsibilities works for every family with teenagers. But here are some ideas a family can try:

•As a family, review the major chores to be done, their frequency, and how much time each takes. That will help in making a fair distribution of jobs.

•Try a rotation system so that family members of both sexes gain experience with various kinds of chores. For example, let the boys do the dishes and the girls mow the lawn for a period of time and then switch.

•Find ways of making household tasks fun and challenging. Work together as a family "team" when possible. For example, helping to get meals on the table can be a cooperative learning experience.

•Show appreciation to each other for getting jobs done.

Sharing chores strengthens family relationships. In addition, teenagers can gain valuable experience and skills to help them with their own families and employment in the future.

There is no tree at traditional Greek Christmas celebrations. Instead, a small cross wrapped in herbs is kept in a bowl to protect the house from prankster goblins.

Many psychologists feel that our signatures are as individual as our fingerprints. No two are ever alike. Indeed, some of the most important events in our lives are signified with our signatures. In fact, when we sign something, such as our wedding certificate, or a check, or a mortgage contract, it has a special—actually binding—meaning.

Judge and Mrs. R.L. Templeton attended a Texas Sampler to introduce distinguished author James Michener to a mini-taste of Texas literature, food and music Saturday, April 9, at the new oak-covered home of Texas publisher Eakin Press, in Southwest Austin.

Author Michener, who is headquartered in Austin to gather material for his forthcoming sesquicentennial novel on Texas, was joined by some two hundred Texas writers, historians, researchers, folklorists, and others involved in the contemporary literary scene to enjoy an evening of Texas "conviviality."

Publisher Ed Eakin said that the menu called for samples of German, Czech, Italian, Mexican and other ethnic foods along with traditional Texas barbecue, chili and home-grown beverages from the central

GOLF NEWS FROM WILLOW CREEK

BY MARY SANFORD

The Women's Golf Association of Wellington Country Club was the host club for the Greenbelt Round Robin June 1.

Nine teams made up of 40 women from Shamrock, Clarendon, Memphis, Canadian, Pampa, and Wellington played in the 18-hole scramble.

The weather was a little less than perfect, being cold and windy, but the fun, enthusiasm and competition certainly was not.

The tournament committee consisting of Karen Caison, Betty Cochran, Lyna Hurst, Patsy Martin, and Bennie Sullivan, and aided by President Eugena Sherman, planned this most successful day.

Henry Sullivan, John Sherman, Grant Wooldridge and Teddy Martin, our stalwart backers and supporters, were there to assist in bringing up the carts from the sheds, labeling them and aiding the women with their golf clubs.

Teddy also helped set the rules of play and had the course in excellent condition.

The guests were registered by Betty Cochran, and Iva Belle Mauldin.

Bennie Sullivan was at the register table to hand out mulligans, name tags, and the ball marker favors.

Edna Wooldridge, Mary Nell Holton, and Jane Hurst served coffee, donuts and banana bread to guests and hosts on the club patio before tee-off.

I was the "candy man" placing cans of candy and gum on the tee boxes for snacking during the playing time. I may be fired for not putting enough peanut butter bars in the cans. This seems to be the favorite of the women golfers in the area.

When all the teams were in, luncheon was served in the lounge decorated with a Polynesian theme. The main dish, Polynesian chicken and condiments, was served buffet style from a large round table covered with a bright floral table cloth, and centered with a shell basket of fresh flowers.

The guests then took their plates to individual tables decorated with bright terry cloth shells and fresh flowers. The club women prepared most of the food and John Sherman made home made ice cream in two flavors for dessert.

After devouring our heavily laden plates of food, and since no one could move for a while anyway, Betty Cochran announced the three winning teams.

For first place, with a score of 69; Tina Foxall, Memphis; Iva Belle Mauldin, Wellington; Maxine Hardin, Clarendon; and Cathy Ward, Canadian.

There was a tie for second with a score of 74, so after score card matching, the team of Ketta Morris, Canadian, Naomi McCarty, Shamrock; Bennie Sullivan, Wellington; and Pam Smotherman, Canadian was declared second place winner.

This made the team of Carrie Howell, Clarendon, Sharon Crozier, Pampa, Joyce Epperson, Pampa, and Margaret Howe, Shamrock, third place winner.

The phenomenal finale was the announcement of the longest drive and closest to the hole contest. Our tiny, tiny Edi Williams, going directly into the wind, drove further than all the 40 players on hole No. 5.

And breathless with excitement, I announced that I, Mary Sanford, won closest to the hole with my drive on hole No. 4.

Just getting to write your name on these little flags for the first time is a thrill. And then to find out you've won, is inexpressible.

MidwayEHC Meets June 1

Midway Extension Homemakers Club met in the Heritage Room Wednesday, June 1, with Mrs. Russell Hill as hostess.

It's Strawberry Time!

While those mouth-watering, ripe, red berries are in season, it's time to make some delicious desserts.

The rich, buttery crust is easy to make by blending Bisquick® baking mix, sugar and margarine. There's no messy dough to roll out. Just press the mixture into a round pan or pie plate. Top with a custard-like mixture of sugar, egg yolks and sour cream spiced with nutmeg. Crown with strawberry halves and a glacé of mashed strawberries. It's a glimmering jewel of a dessert.

DELUXE STRAWBERRY DESSERT

2 cups Bisquick baking mix
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup firm margarine or butter
1/3 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
2 egg yolks
1 cup dairy sour cream
Strawberry Glacé (below)
1 1/2 cups strawberry halves

Heat oven to 375°. Mix baking mix and 2 tablespoons sugar. Cut in margarine. Pat in round pan, 9x1 1/2 inches, or pie plate, 9x1 1/4 inches. Bake 10 minutes. Mix 1/3 cup sugar, the nutmeg, yolks and sour cream; spread over hot layer. Bake 20 minutes; cool completely.

Prepare glacé; cool slightly. Arrange strawberries on layer. Spread glacé over strawberries. Refrigerate remaining dessert. 12 servings.

Strawberry Glacé: Mash 1/2 cup strawberries. Mix 1/4 cup sugar and 1 tablespoon cornstarch in 1 1/2-quart saucepan. Gradually stir in 1/4 cup water and the strawberries. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and boils. Boil and stir 1 minute. Stir in few drops red food color if desired.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

MAJOR STATEWIDE ACCOMPLISHMENTS

AUSTIN — The Regular Session of the 68th Legislature has ended with a number of notable successes which we believe will greatly benefit the people of Texas. The Texas Senate and the House of Representatives have passed significant and much needed legislation in the areas of DWI, public utility reform, prison reform, higher education, child support and much more.

We are proud that the Texas Legislature recognized the need to enact tough new laws dealing with drunken drivers. We're confident that this legislation will result in a decrease in the number of highway injuries and fatalities in Texas by discouraging the drunken driver from getting behind the wheel of an automobile. The new DWI law eliminates deferred adjudication, strengthens DWI penalties, makes prosecution of DWI cases easier, and redefines intoxication.

The 68th Legislature also passed much needed reform in the area of utility regulation. Under the newly approved legislation, utilities will no longer be able to pass on the cost of fuel automatically to customers. In addition, the Legislature voted to create an Office of the Public Counsel which will be established to represent Texas consumers before the Public Utility Commission.

Legislation aimed at easing the problem of prison overcrowding also gained approval. The prison reform program, which largely diverts prison construction funds to other programs, will authorize creation of centers for non-violent offenders. Texas has the largest prison system in the nation and the third largest in the world. Restitution centers will be used as an alternative to prison for non-violent offenders who would be allowed to work at jobs to repay their victims and to pay for part of the cost of their part-time incarceration.

Consumers who use credit cards will be getting a much deserved break in the interest rates they pay on their purchases. A bill lowering the maximum interest rates on bank credit cards from 24% to 22% and which allows for floating rates signed by the Governor. In the area of higher education, the Texas Legislature has approved a constitutional amendment to expand college funding by creating a $100 million building and construction fund for colleges and universities, including West Texas State University.

Lawmakers also approved a constitutional amendment which would permit judges to order the garnishment of wages for child support payments. Texas taxpayers last year provided welfare assistance to more than 155,000 children in one parent households in which the absent parent refused to support the child, despite having the resources to do so.

The 68th Legislature also enacted legislation dealing with ethics reform. The new legislation makes it illegal to convert campaign contributions to personal use.

Dogfighting, which has become a big business in Texas, despite the fact that it is illegal, will now be considered a more serious offense. Under the newly approved legislation, anyone convicted of causing a dogfight for financial benefit will be guilty of a third degree felony. Spectators of the illegal activity will be subject to a class C misdemeanor charge.

There are some issues which failed to pass both the Senate and the House, which some Legislators feel need to be addressed during a Special Session. We will continue to fight for a much needed Texas Water Plan, which the Texas Senate fought for during the Regular Session, but which failed to pass out of the House. We will also continue to work for reasonable pay raises for the teachers of our state. We are concerned about the future of the Texas Employment Commission and brucellosis, and we will continue to fight against any legislation which will cost the farmers money.

If you have any questions or comments about legislation which came before the Texas Legislature, please write to Senator Bill Sarpalius, P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas 78711.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—The regular session ended on an unfinished note and a filibuster last week, leaving the strong possibility of a special session for any or all of at least three issues.

A tax hike for public education and teacher salaries, survival of the state's employment commission, and passage of a statewide water plan are three issues that were left unresolved as time ran out for legislators.

Also up in the air are the political futures of a handful of key players this session. Perhaps more than a couple will dramatically surge or ebb via the dynamics of the anticipated special session.

A few of the key players: MARK WHITE, Governor of Texas. White burst out of the chute with a multi-faceted program to raise taxes for teacher salaries, late in the session but full of fervor. Despite his energetic lobbying of individual House members, the proposed tax hike never got off the ground in the House Ways & Means Committee.

The Governor, who had campaigned on a much-videotaped theme of "no new taxes," audaciously abandoned that theme in favor of a promised pay raise for teachers. White was forced off his no-tax stance when Comptroller Bob Bullock lowered his estimate of available revenues four times during the session, trimming off almost $3 billion from the amount the Legislature could legally budget.

White's alternate threats to veto the budget and call a special session to raise taxes put him out on a limb that could easily be sawed off if he reneges, or even pushes ahead and fails. Success with the tax issue would dramatically underscore his political strength, but even then, White will have to answer for his change of stance on the next campaign trail.

BOB BULLOCK, Comptroller of Texas. The feisty, crafty state tax collector has already announced he will challenge White for the '86 gubernatorial nomination. During the session, he goaded White repeatedly for lack of leadership, even while he revised the estimated revenues right out from under him. Bullock, who was once described by a reporter as "the junkyard dog of Texas politics," has a strong following among his party's supporters and several state-wide officials. If White falters, Bullock is the strongest to succeed him. But if White succeeds in raising the status of public education, Bullock may find his own office subject to a strong '86 challenge.

BILL HOBBY, Lieutenant Governor. The low-key, non-charismatic Hobby already has drawn wide praise for conducting one of the best legislative sessions in Texas history. He is the clear-cut winner of the session.

GIB LEWIS, Speaker of the House. Everybody's friend Lewis got into hot water early when the press disclosed he left several business ventures off his financial disclosure statement. Last week, Lewis pleaded no contest and paid an $800 fine on his own initiative.

House members overlooked Lewis' stumble in order to get on with business, but his image was hurt. What saved Lewis more than anything was his staunch opposition to tax increases proposed by White or anyone else. If taxes are raised in special session, Lewis could be a one-term speaker after his fine becomes an election issue.

STAN SCHLUETER, House Ways & Means chairman. More than any other legislator, Schluter, D-Killeen, held off attempts to raise taxes by refusing to let any tax bill pass through his committee. His personal polling of the House membership convinced him the tax was unwanted in a regular session.

But Schluter will run for Speaker when Lewis doesn't, and he has agreed with White to formulate the best tax proposal possible, even though he won't vote for it himself.

His task is to determine if and when the House members truly want to vote for a tax bill, and his bulb could brighten or dim with the timing when—and if—the bill comes out of his committee.

TOM CRADDICK, House Natural Resources chairman. The Midland Republican wields double power with his chairmanship plus his seat on the crucial Calendars Committee. From his fortress he held the GOP bridge against an overwhelming tide of moderate Democrats, killing several bills he didn't like. His most notable nose-thumbing occurred when he stalled the much-prized statewide water plan in his committee until it was effectively killed. Craddick made his colleagues mad this session, and may not withstand a change in House leadership.

LOYD DOGGETT, Austin state senator. Doggett announced early his intentions for the Democratic nomination to challenge U.S. Sen. John Tower in '84, which made him politically suspect among other senators. Although he was already controversial for his pro-consumer filibusters and outspoken style, much of Doggett's hand-to-hand debating this session was thought to be grandstanding.

His sticking point came in the session's final hours when he attached a human rights amendment to the sunset extension of the Texas Employment Commission. House members were so opposed, they let the bill die, and unless it is revised in special session, the state will lose the agency for Texas' unemployed.

Doggett will no doubt have to justify that amendment during the campaign, which he could do to his advantage.

THOMAS ROLL CALL REPORT
Your Congressman's Votes Reported Each Week

WASHINGTON -- Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes May 19-25.

HOUSE

PRESERVE The House voted, 325 for and 86 against, to repair the West Front of the Capitol rather than extend it with a new facade.

The West Front, which faces the Mall, is deteriorating as its sandstone crumbles. It is the only side of the original Capitol that remains an exterior wall.

Members voting yes opposed extending the side of the Capitol that faces the Mall.

Phil Gramm, R-6, Kika De la Garza, D-15, Kent Hance, D-19 voted yes.

Jack Hightower, D-13 and Charles Stenholm, D-17, voted no.

MX The House voted, 239 for and 186 against, to release $625 million in fiscal 1983 funds for speeding development of the MX missile.

Members voting yes wanted to release the MX money.

Voting yes: Hightower, De la Garza, Stenholm, Hance.

SENATE

MX By a vote of 59 for and 39 against, the Senate followed the House and released $625 million for a test flight and other development of the MX missile.

Senators voting yes favored continued development of the MX.

Lloyd Bentsen, D, and John Tower, R, voted yes.

DEBT The Senate passed, 51 for and 42 against, and sent to the White House a bill (HR 2990) raising the national debt ceiling by $98.8 billion to $139 trillion. Senators voting yes favored the higher debt ceiling.

Bentsen voted no. Tower did not vote.

BUDGET By a vote of 50 for and 49 against, the Senate approved a fiscal 1984 budget blueprint calling for more taxes and domestic spending and less defense spending than President Reagan wants.

Senators voting yes supported the Senate budget resolution and parted company with the White House. Bentsen voted yes. Tower voted no.

WASHINGTON--

Here's how area House members were recorded on major roll call votes immediately before the Memorial Day recess. There were no Senate votes.

Each vote was a test of wills between the House and President Reagan over the president's desire to defer, until fiscal 1984 or later, the expenditure of money Congress wants spent in 1983.

Under the 1974 Impoundment Control Act, a president can delay spending for specific programs unless either the House or Senate overrides him. In each case below, Congress won and the money now must be spent.

The votes occurred as members rushed to catch planes out of town, either to return home or begin an overseas junket.

One member observed the hurried atmosphere and complained about the way the House often disposes of important legislation.

"People come in here and they do not know what they are voting on, and a lot of things get through this place without much consideration whatsoever," chided Rep. Dan Lungren, R-Calif. There was no rebuttal.

HOUSE

CONSERVE By a vote of 280 for and 170 against, the House directed the president to spend $4.5 million on two programs administered by the Department of Energy.

Members voting yes favored spending the $4.5 million in fiscal 1983.

Voting yes: Jack Hightower, D-13, Kika de la Garza.

Voting no: Charles Stenholm, D-17.

Not voting: Kent Hance, D-19.

R&D The House voted, 265 for and 121 against, to override President Reagan's deferral of $8.75 million earmarked for programs to tap fossil fuels as marketable energy sources.

Members voting yes wanted the $8.75 million spent in fiscal 1983.

Voting yes: Hightower, de la Garza.

Voting no: Stenholm.

Not voting: Hance.

ISLANDS By a vote of 266 for and 116 against, the House directed the president to spend $3.19 million for a new hospital in the Northern Mariana Islands, a U.S. territory near Guam in the western Pacific.

Members voting yes wanted to override the president's deferral of the hospital outlay.

Voting yes: Hightower, de la Garza.

Voting no: Stenholm.

Not voting: Hance.

Rainfall Varies Over the County

Rain fell over Collingsworth County through the June 4-5 week end, but the amounts varied from a sprinkle to .1 to as much as 3.5 inches.

The area around Wellington received an average of .5 to .6", and this was also the amount reported from Dodson.

The heaviest fall came Saturday night, when Samnorwood received 3.5 inches and the same amount fell at the Willie Knoll place.

Joe F. Knoll received 1.75". An estimated 90 percent of the cotton growers in this area are through planting and wheat looks better than at this time last year, he said.

In the Abra area, Rudie Tate reported .9, with a total of 3.1 inches since May 13.

A mile north of Samnorwood, water gaps were washed out Saturday night, and a lot of terraces broke, Tate said.

Some county roads were damaged. Repair work is under way. More damage was reported east and south of Samnorwood.

Hail on May 13, had resulted in loss up to 50 and 60% in a small area near Samnorwood that did not cover more than 10 square miles, according to reports.

Wheat harvest will probably begin in the Abra area by the end of next week, with much of the acreage yielding 20 to 25 bushels over the northwest part of the county.

If there is no damaging weather, this should be one of the better crops since 1972 and 1973, Tate said.

"The rain fell as the grain is getting in the real stiff dough stage. Some of the grains are real plump," Tate said.

So far, there has been no runoff, and livestock ponds are low.

Doug Coleman at Dozier had 3.5" and J.C. Breeding of Lone Mound reported 1.10".

There was little moisture in the Quail area.

John Birkey, west of Quail, had .3". North of Quail around Marella, only .1 fell at the J.R. Ross Ranch, and .7 inch at Mrs. Ben Farmer's place, near Salt Fork River.

South of Quail, cotton growers consider the ground too dry to plant. Some in the Swearingen area say they are planting but wonder if it will come up.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Cardwell of Dodson report one-half inch.

Rabies Clinic Scheduled for Sat., June 11

A rabies clinic is scheduled for Saturday, June 11 at Wellington Veterinary Hospital from 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

"We're beginning to see a few rabies suspects," D.V.M. Mark Fires said, "and everyone with a pet dog or cat should bring the animal in to be vaccinated."

"We also need to re-vaccinate animals annually for parvo virus--we're seeing a lot of parvo infections," Fires said.

City ordinances and state laws require that all pets in the county be vaccinated for rabies.

City ordinances also require that pets be tagged and registered at the city offices.

Fish have been seen at ocean depths of almost 7 miles.

The average homemaker spends one day a year making beds.

I Saw... by Virginia Robey

Those who wondered about a truck carrying a huge propeller that was parked at Cherokee Inn Restaurant recently might like to know this was a propeller for an aircraft carrier.

It's value is over $2 million, say some of the men who know about these things.

A while back David Wildman, son of Peggy Wildman and grandson of Mrs. Howard Riggs, bought a house in Dorchester, a tiny independent town a few blocks long completely surrounded by the City of Dallas.

His telephone service is furnished by Continental Telephone of Texas, which keeps a genial relationship with its customers through a monthly publication, "Almanac." One arrived with his telephone bill recently.

And there under the "Telephone Connections" heading he read: In 1909 the town of Quail in Collingsworth County was connected with the town of Wellington by a telephone line strung along a barbed wire fence."

A recent Wellington Leader visitor: Lisa Patman writes the delightful McLean News column, "Loose Marbles." Now it is being offered to other newspapers and a number are already using it. She writes humorously about any number of things and family members. We'll all see more of this.

Dorothy Jane Riggs Vinson was through town the other day on her way to join her husband, Mack Vinson, in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. She will be back for the 1943 Class Reunion August 6. And she has irrefutable argument for those who haven't been attending the WHS reunion:

"If I can come half way around the world, then some of you can come a little way."

You will remember that the Chamber of Commerce banquet table decorations were a hit last March. Business people made these small exhibits to tell their own story. They showed originality and talent and fine craftsmanship.

Some are still on display in their stores and offices.

Why not assemble them again---or make new ones---for a special non-competitive section in the community building? However, a number of people at the banquet wanted to know if they were judged and who won.

Some Eligible For Aid Paying Cooling Bills

AUSTIN--Some low-income Texas households may be eligible for help in paying their cooling bills, according to the head of the Texas Department of Human Resources.

Human Resources Commissioner Marlin W. Johnston said the assistance with paying utility bills is available to low-income households who in June 1983 received food stamps, Aid to Families with Dependent Children, Supplemental Security Income, or needs-tested Veterans Administration benefits.

Potentially eligible veterans are those who receive payments under 415, 521, or 542 of Title 38 of the U.S. Code or under section 306 of the Veterans and Survivors Pension Improvement Act of 1978.

Eligibility is limited by gross income. For instance, aid is available for a one-person household having less than $334.49 gross income per month. The gross income limit is $546.49 for a two-person household, $749.49 for a three-person household, $926.49 for four persons, $1,092.49 for five, and $1,277.49 for six.

Dodson News

by Wanda Hightower Cardwell

The Dodson area received more moisture this week. The wheat is almost ready to harvest. Many people are enjoying potatoes, beans and squash from their gardens.

Our area was shocked by the death of four individuals this week. Two of Leroy Wiles daughters, Clara Bell and Marie, a grandson and son-in-law died in a car accident between Wellington and Childress. Sympathy has been expressed by many in tangible and intangible ways.

Visitors in the C.M. Huff home this week were Kenny Carlson and Al Johnson from Kewanee, Illinois.

Dennis Holland is still very active in VFW and American Legion activities. Recently he attended an American Legion meeting in Memphis, and a VFW meeting in Plainview. Dennis is the American Legion past department vice commander of Texas, and the past district commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. He is also quite a gardener and reports he has a fine garden again this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Davidson of Amarillo have a new son, Stephen. He was born in High Plains Baptist Hospital last week. His grandmother is the former Mary Lemons. His great-grandmother, Mrs. Pauline Lemons went to see him last week.

The Dub Wilfongs enjoyed having their grandchildren, Michelle and Joey Putnam of Sayre and Bambi, Wesley and Rochelle Wilfong in their home recently.

Mrs. Pauline Lemons visited Mr. and Mrs. L.G. Vaughn of Soper, Okla., and Mrs. John Lemons of Hugo, Okla., Eugene Vaughn of Houston joined them. She also visited with a host of other relatives.

The Church of the Nazarene Bible School has gotten off to a good start. Monday the attendance was 55 including children and workers. On Saturday, June 4, the Bible School had a parade. The Dodson fire truck, a police escort, a horse, a boat, cars, pickups, several bicycles, wagons and hikers made up the parade.

A Bible School program will be presented Friday evening at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is invited.

Jimmy Howell of Clovis, N.M. is helping his parents, J.C. and Helen Howell in their business this summer.

Bob Garton preached at the Church of Christ Sunday. Everyone at the Church of Christ always enjoys Bob's preaching. He and his family were visitors and other visitors were Dede Hudspeth, Tim Moore, Georgette Pond and Lillie Ann Rogers, Sandra Wheeler and Rhonda Schuelke.

Rev. C.M. Huff preached at the Church of the Nazarene Sunday. Lisa Cochran sang for the worship service and Kerri Cummins sang for the evening service. Visitors were Mrs. A.V. Lowrie, Jay, Stephanie, and Jeffrey Knight and Robert Jones.

Tim Moore visited Jeanette and Bundy Moore last weekend.

Cliff Harper preached at the Missionary Baptist Church Sunday. Bobby Harper directed the music. Sunday evening the church enjoyed an evening of music. Visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jones.

Visiting the A.V. Lowries last week end were Jay, Stephanie and Jeffery Knight.

Dodson Group Tours 14 States Covering 5,000 Miles

THE WELLINGTON (TEXAS) LEADER
Thursday, June 9, 1983

12

Four Dodson couples left home on April 7, for a trip through 14 states, that took them as far as Niagara Falls, New York, with a brief visit into Canada.

This group included Ross and Gene Swift, Howard and Jo Hunt, and Thurman and Burnie Crownover, all of Dodson, and Howard and Bonnie Elbert of Amarillo. They traveled in the Crownover van.

Altogether they traveled 5,075 miles in rain, snow and under much cloudy weather, and were gone 16 days.

A first major stop was in Tennessee. After visiting Memphis they toured Elvis Presley's home at Waverley, Loretta Lynn's home and dude ranch at Hurricane Mill, then in Nashville they attended the Grand Ole Opry on a Saturday night, which was old timers night.

While they were in that area, they also attended church at Wingate, Tenn., visited the Hall of Fame and Wax Museum, then went on to Twitty City, at Hendersonville, Tenn., to visit Conway Twitty's home.

Outside of Nashville they toured the Hermitage, home of President Andrew Jackson.

They traveled east over a scenic route to Knoxville, Tenn. and toured the World's Fair grounds and the Sunsphere, which is still open. They had lunch at the restaurant at the top of the sphere and listened to the bells play.

At Bristol, on the Tennessee-Virginia state line, they visited Mrs. Ruby Hodel Blevins and Hazel Hodel, friends who once lived in Dodson.

The Hunts were overnight guests and the others were dinner guests.

Continuing through Virginia, they stopped in Manassas to see some of its beautiful homes.

Their next stop was Washington, D.C., where they visited the Nation's Capitol, the Pentagon, Arlington National Cemetery, and on Saturday they heard a session of the House of Representatives and saw House Speaker Tip O'Neill.

Enroute to New York City, they traveled through West Virginia, Maryland and coal mining country of Pennsylvania.

They were in New York area two days, and then stopped in Coopers town, N.Y. to visit the Baseball Hall of Fame, and went on to Round Lake, New York, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Vance Hunt and their son, John, former Dodson residents. They also visited Nyack, N.Y.

While they were in New York, there was rain and heavy snow. Nevertheless, they visited the Statue of Liberty, and New Jersey, then went on to Niagara Falls, seeing the falls from both the United States and Canadian sides.

Enroute home, they found

VA Extends Educational Benefits

Unemployed or underemployed Vietnam-era veterans may be eligible for an extension of their educational benefits, advises the director, Waco Veterans Administration Regional office.

He pointed out that modification of educational assistance legislation provides for the extension of the 10-year education eligibility period for certain veterans who may wish to pursue further vocational, apprenticeship, on-the-job training or a high school diploma. The Vietnam era was August 5, 1964 - May 7, 1975.

To qualify for the extension, a veteran must have been unemployed or underemployed for six months, and in need of additional training or education to obtain a more stable job.

Ending date for the extension is December 31, 1984.

For further information, write, visit or telephone the Waco VA Regional office
