Ask Us

Q. — What is the cost of additions, repairs, remodeling of the Hermleigh ISD superintendent's house?

A. — School officials respond that the total amount charged as "capital outlay" was $27,300. They note the actual amount spent on the house is difficult to determine since some of the contract labor and the material purchased was used in the school buildings also. Their best estimate of the cost of the house repair is between $25,000 and $26,000. They note this was the first major repair work done to the house in more than 15 years.

County bale count in excess of 32,000

In excess of 32,000 bales have now been ginned in Scurry County as the 1985 cotton harvest nears 70 percent complete.

The count Monday afternoon was 32,161 bales ginned.

Local ag officials have predicted a total count this year of up to 48,000 bales.

Last spring, some 59,000 acres were planted here in cotton.

It is estimated from 55,000 to 57,000 of these acres will eventually be harvested.

The average lint yield for the county is expected to run around 350 pounds per acre.

A good cotton year for the county is set at from 60,000 to 65,000 bales.

This year will mark the second time locally produced cotton will be assessed a fee "at the gin."

The Scurry County Cotton Producers Commodity Board has set this assessment at one-half cent per pound — the same charged with the 1984 harvest.

Proceeds from the assessment are placed in an interest-bearing account for future use in cotton pest-control programs.

Estimated bales from the eight gins serving Scurry County as of Monday afternoon were:

China Grove	3,205 bales
Dunn Gin	2,500 bales.
Farmers Co-Op.	6,250 bales
Fluvanna Gin	3,699 bales
Hermleigh Gin	1,650 bales
Inadale Coop	7,500 bales
Ira Gin	3,015 bales
Paymaster Gin	4,342 bales

Salaries at college fall below average

The average salary paid to professional staffers at Western Texas College is below the state weighted average for public community colleges, according to figures released by the Texas College and University System Coordinating Board.

The average salary for faculty members in general academic programs was listed at $29,916 for the 49 community colleges in Texas.

At WTC, the average figure was $26,662.

Regarding salaries across the state, it was noted these are some 3.8 percent higher this year compared to last.

The average pay exceeds $30,000 in 14 of the 49 community college districts. The highest averages are found at Del Mar College in Corpus Christi ($32,537); San Jacinto College in Pasadena ($32,377); and Central Texas College in Killeen

DAY 'TIL CHRISTMAS

Most public entities closed till Thursday

Most public institutions in Snyder will reopen Thursday following a Christmas mid-week holiday.

The exception will be state offices, which were to close Tuesday and will not reopen until Friday.

Offices affected include the Department of Highways and Public Transportation and the Texas Employment Commission.

Entities to be closed Wednesday are all county facilities to include the courthouse, library, health unit and welfare offices, Snyder city hall, appraisal district offices, the Snyder post office, and the Ag Service Center, to include SCS and ASCS offices.

Snyder's banks and savings and loans will be closed Wednesday also.

All will reopen for business as usual Thursday.

'Snoopy' Christmas selected top display

Gary and Kathy Landes of 5504 Cedar Creek Dr. have been declared the winners of this year's Snyder Jaycees Christmas Lighting Contest.

The Landes home features Snoopy and Woodstock in the front yard along with a lighted star on the chimney. Included in the display are lighted trees in the front yard and strings of lights along the eaves and roof lines of the house.

Second prize for 1985 was won by the Sam Bruner residence at 4115 Jacksboro Ave.

The Bruner residence featured a Christmas in America theme with a floodlit Santa Claus carrying an American flag on his sleigh pulled by four reindeer.

The Ned Byrd residence at 3603 40th St. was judged third best of the year with lighted eaves and flower beds in conjunction with a lighted Santa Claus and nativity scene.

Prizes for the winners are merchandise gift certificates in the amounts of $50, $25, and $10. These will be mailed to them.

Other local homes entered in the 1985 contest were:

— John A. Nobles at 3003 Austin Ave.

— Charles Anderson at 2903 32nd St.

— Sonny Greenfield at 3202 42nd St.

— Carol Raborn at 211 34th St.

— Merle Griffin at 2801 Ave. W.

— Ray Wagner at 2301 Ave. T.

— W.E. Cox at 2100 Huffman Ave.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Merry Christmas."

It was bound to happen--a sign of the times.

It occurred in Snyder when a woman took her grandson to see Santa Claus while Christmas shopping.

Santa listened to the boy's request and then finished up by giving him a candy cane.

"What do you say to Santa?" the boy's grandmother asked.

"Charge it," declared the youngster.

Remember those bumper stickers which read, "I brake for garage sales."

Our favorite bumper sticker of the season was a takeoff of that particular bumper slogan. It read: "I stop under all mistletoe."

The Wall Street Journal last week had an appropriate cartoon which showed a youngster sitting in Santa's lap. The boy was telling Santa:

"I've only been bad so my parents would bribe me to be good."

We've been given the name of 10 Snyder couples who have been married 62 years or more. You still have time to send in the names, as the SDN is attempting to find the couple who has been married the longest.

We plan some type of celebration to honor all these "newlyweds."

A tip of the hat to all the volunteers who made the Goodfellows and Toys for Tots operation a success. To those who thought more of the other fellow than for themselves, here's a holiday greeting for you.

"Once more we share the holidays
And we greet old friends and new.
We lay aside all worldly thoughts
And love and joy shine through.
And in this Christmas season
This is our wish for you:
That the warmth of Christmas kindness
May last the whole year through.

SDN begins profile of 1985's top news stories

(Editor's Note: With this issue the SDN begins its annual review of the events that made the news in Scurry County during the past 12 months. This installment profiles the first two months of the year.)

As 1985 began here, locals were given the first official indication that dreams for a new industry for Snyder were not to be.

The county also tabulated a final bale count on likely the worst cotton year ever here.

On the positive side, a rising country and western star created a host of new local fans, and a Snyder football great received hometown recognition.

In between, a long-standing question related to construction of a new city street was finally decided by the voters.

The following is a chronological retelling of some of the events which made the news during January and February.

JANUARY 4

—The highest deposit figure in the history of Snyder financial institutions was posted at the end of 1984, it was reported today.

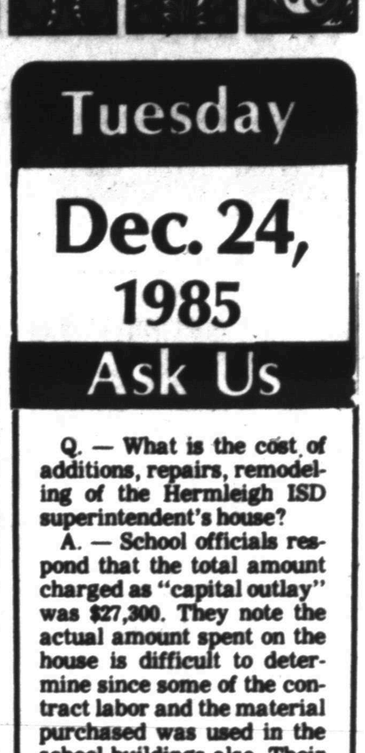

Year-end deposit figures at three Snyder banks and two savings and loan institutions showed total deposits were $247.8 million — an increase of $11.5 million over the same time last year.

JANUARY 6

—The future of Snyder's fledgling industry — King's Highway Mobile Industries — has been officially placed on hold by its Dallas-based owners First Tarent Corp., it was reported today.

The decision to move the King's Highway "Class A" motor home manufacturing facility

Claim rejected

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A jury rejected the claims of the family of a dead smoker on Monday, deciding by a vote of 9-3 that the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. was not liable for the man's death.

Local

Said improved

Medical personnel at Lubbock General Hospital upgraded the condition of 21-year-old Richard Guzman of 3009 Ave. F from critical to serious Monday afternoon.

Guzman was taken from Snyder to the Lubbock Hospital after being wounded in the chest by a single .22 cal. bullet Saturday night.

He remains in the hospital's critical care unit.

His injuries were the result of an altercation between himself and another man at a residence in the 2200 Block of 32nd St. shortly before 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

To skip issue

The Snyder Daily News will not publish an issue Christmas Day to allow employees a holiday with their families.

The newspaper office will reopen Thursday and resume its normal publication schedule at that time.

Weather

Snyder Area Forecast: Tuesday: fair. Colder with highs near 60. Northeast and east wind 10 to 20 mph.

Forecast for Christmas Day: mostly fair. Colder with highs mid 50s. Lows near 30.

Woman in Gunter stitches her past

GUNTER, Texas (AP) — Marguerite Hunter's history is pieced together, scrap by scrap, square by square, in hundreds of her quilts.

"The other day a friend said, 'You have so many quilts, why don't you sell some?'

"Well, I thought about that. Then I pulled out this quilt and looked at it. Here, here's a piece of my mother's dress. And this is a scrap from my son's shirt, and this is from my husband's pajamas. I could go on and on. Every scrap, every piece, has a story behind it. Every scrap means something to me."

Mrs. Hunter, 71, estimates she has sewn maybe 200 quilts since she learned to sew at age six.

Her country home is filled with her work: Lone Stars and Flower Gardens, Ocean Waves and Log Cabins, quilts to warm the coldest night.

"Back when I was young, quilting was a necessity. We had to have quilts to stay warm. We had one quilt for the parents, one for the boys, one for the girls, one for company. We made the everyday quilts out of dark material, so they wouldn't show soil."

When she married rancher Benton Hunter 49 years ago, Mrs. Hunter made quilts from feed sacks on their Grayson County ranch.

"I made everything from those sacks: dresses, shirts, underwear. I guess I'm a fabricholic. I can't stand to throw away a piece of cloth."

Quilting, she says, warms the inside as well as the out.

A Christmas story... Photos by Shirley A. Gorman

Oh, boy! My persons aren't home yet. Now is the time for me to play with the packages.

I just can't resist candy canes.

I'd better hurry and finish inspecting the packages before my persons get home.

They'll never know I was up there.

Under 'volcano': Mafia in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the American Mafia's founding godfathers, Joseph Bonanno, called this city "The Volcano," a cauldron of money, power and intrigue where "most of the old boys died in the conflagration."

Last week Paul Castellano joined the likes of "Joe the Boss" Masseria, Albert Anastasia, Carmine Galante and Joseph Colombo — New York mob bosses of the past half-century who commanded great respect yet came to violent ends.

Through it all, the city has remained the Mafia's capital, home of about half its members and five of its largest, most wealthy crime families.

As Gay Talese noted in his Bonanno family history, "Honor Thy Father," New York is where the money is, "a hijacker's paradise, a town of tall shadows, sharp angles and crooked people from top to bottom."

Despite aging members, internal wars and federal indictments, the Mafia's five New York families — Gambino, Genovese, Luchese, Colombo and Bonanno — diminish the standard of living of millions, ranging from workers whose interests are sold out by their corrupt unions to heroin addicts who must steal to maintain their habits.

According to law enforcement officials:

—Mob extortion drives construction costs in the city about 20 percent higher than necessary.

—A mob garbage carting monopoly on Long Island costs consumers about $10 million a year. In the city, the monopoly probably hikes commercial garbage collection fees about 50 percent.

—Despite a decline, the Mafia still is involved in importing a substantial amount of the heroin that enters greater New York.

Organized crime, according to John Hogan, head of the FBI's New York bureau, "hits us on the job, hits us in stores, hits us in the houses we live in, on the roads we drive on."

But the Mafia is a paradox: a legend born of 50 years of underworld invincibility has now attracted withering attention from law enforcement agencies, and has never seemed more vulnerable or more disorganized.

Virtually every major Mafia leader in New York is under indictment or in prison. On Thursday, a reputed rising star, Michael Franzese, was accused in a federal indictment of defrauding the state of New Jersey of more than $3 million in gasoline taxes.

Franzese is 33, but most of the Mafia is getting old. Three of the city's top four bosses are over 65. In 1983, a police list of the Gambino family's 250 members included only 10 men under 50.

Craftsmen becoming more involved in developing modern product ideas

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

Good-looking and useful home furnishings products often start as an idea. Later, they are transformed into usefulness by refining the idea in successive prototypes.

But where do the ideas come from? Frequently, the answer is found in a company's sales department, where a gap in the market has been perceived, or on a trade show sales floor, when manufacturers observe one of their number doing excellent business with a new product.

Rarely have mass-produced items begun life in the mind of a craftsman or craft artist. Yet, by virtue of their education, skills and interests, craftsmen are particularly well-suited to conceptualize new products and to carry them through the prototype phase.

Over the years, perhaps because of a lack of interest on both sides, instances of cooperation have been token efforts at best, according to Paul Smith, director of the American Craft Museum. Lately, however, there have been signs that this historic separation is breaking down and the result may be more interesting products for the home.

These signs include a recent competition organized by the American Craft Council, six new groups of bath fixtures being introduced by Kohler Corp., and some efforts at cooperation between glass artists and glass manufacturers in West Virginia.

A strong impetus to the spirit of cooperation is that many younger craftsmen are interested in designing for mass production, said Smith. In the past, he added, craftsmen were less eager to pursue this goal. But what was once thought too commercial to be interesting is now perceived as respectable, and it is also quite respectable for craftsmen to earn part of their living by devising efficient designs suitable for mass production.

One indication of the growth of interest in this work is shown by the large number of entries when the American Craft Council held a competition to design objects for use. More than 647 craftsmen submitted 3,128 slides of product prototypes and a jury of design professionals and crafts authorities chose 27 designers and 44 objects for an exhibition. The pieces were offered for sale in limited quantities as part of a benefit for the organization held late this fall in New York. They will also be exhibited in Baltimore and West Springfield, Mass., in 1986 during craft fairs sponsored by the craft group.

Group learns about children's eye care

Bright Ideas Extension Homemakers held their regular monthly meeting Tuesday at the Texas Electric Reddy Room with president Jackie Sloan presiding.

Dr. Bryan Cave, an optometrist, spoke to the group about children's eye care. Dr. Cave has been practicing in Snyder for approximately 17 months.

He explained to the women that eye specialists can examine children as young as two years of age. If a child under two seems to have vision problems, they can also be diagnosed.

Cave also discussed the new surgical procedure, radial keratotomy, used to reduce nearsightedness. He advised the group to consider the procedure as a last resort.

Tammi Cusser was named new public relations chairwoman.

Bright Ideas homemakers began making plans for made for a special project to be held this summer to benefit Noah Project. Debbie Lindsey will head a committee to include Lorrie Cooley and Jackie Sloan.

Hostesses for the meeting were Debbie Lindsey, Tammi Cusser and Jackie Sloan.

Teresa Lain of Family Fitness will discuss fitness for mothers and children during the group's next meeting Jan. 7.

takes the ace and continues with the club 10. Declarer goes up with dummy's queen, but East ruffs that trick. A diamond is now led back to the queen and ace, and West happily takes the setting trick with the club nine.

Was Pringle's strange opening lead his own peculiar way of sending his opponents a Christmas greeting? If so, it was really a Greek gift. Note that a low club lead poses no problem for declarer, who would win with the club queen and then force out the heart ace. Now a club might be ruffed by East, but declarer would play low on that trick, still retaining his club ace for a winner after trumps have been drawn.

The Christmas greeting did not really come from fictional Pringle but rather from ingenious bridge author Frank Stewart, whose book will entertain not only during this holiday season and future ones, but throughout the year.

Beware gifts of Trojan horses

By James Jacoby

In Frank Stewart's fictional "A Christmas Stocking," his opponent on opening lead is the dreaded Millard Pringle. On a routine auction, Frank arrives at four hearts. After fumbling with his cards awhile, Pringle finally produces the opening lead of the club king. At first that looks like a Christmas present, but declarer cannot escape a sense of foreboding when East follows with the club jack. He wins the club ace and plays a trump. West

McCarthy recalls glory days

HOUSTON (AP) — Guests at the 1949 opening of the Shamrock Hotel still talk about the posh event — the fresh shamrocks shipped in from Ireland, the river of champagne and the swimming pool, touted as the world's largest.

But harder times have fallen on the hotel, a monument to the Irish that will close its doors next summer.

The Texas Medical Center last week bought the 1,100-room Shamrock from Hilton Hotels Corp. for $14.9 million. The old hotel has been ailing in recent years from falling occupancy rates.

Medical center officials say they bought the Shamrock for its land — not for the building — and will probably tear the hotel down. The Shamrock's doors will close June 30.

The Shamrock was a home away from home for numerous presidents, stars and foreign dignitaries, and oilman Glenn McCarthy, who built the hotel, says he doesn't know why anyone would want to change the huge old building.

Dear Santa,

We the students of Hermleigh High School have been discussing what we want for Christmas. We have, at times, let our dreams and imagination run rampant and have wished for expensive cars, diamonds and other material items. However, when we seriously thought about what we really want — it is something we already have. We have a good school, close friends, and we are happy and content. We hope the voters in the Hermleigh Independent School District will vote, January 18, against the abolishment of our school. We are not asking for anything for Christmas, except to keep what we already have. It is a very simple request — all we want for Christmas is to keep our school.

Sincerely,

Likely jury excused

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Given the season, it did not take long for a man with a flowing white beard to be excused from jury duty in El Paso County District Court.

Eugene Ball told District Judge Matt Railey last week that he had commitments in the days ahead. Among them, parties for handicapped children where he portrays Santa Claus without aid of false whiskers.

"I can't bear the thought of depriving 200 handicapped children of Santa Claus," the judge said after consulting with attorneys in the case, "And if we keep you here, who knows what we'll get for Christmas."

Ball said thanks and added that he'd like to serve on a jury, come summer.

Nominations sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is seeking nominations for 12 members of the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board.

Agriculture Secretary John Block said the nominations will be due by Jan. 20. Certified producer organizations and other farm organizations are eligible to submit nominations for the three-year terms that will begin May 1, 1986, and end April 30, 1989.

Block will appoint board members from the group of nominees to fill vacancies created by current members whose initial two-year terms will expire.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

Dec. 25, 1985

Your holdings are apt to be far greater at the end of the coming year than they will be when the year begins. Large gains may be in the offing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Conditions are promising today pertaining to your material desires. Santa may treat you more generously than you expected. Major changes are ahead for Capricorns in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) One of your greatest assets is your ability to make friends with people from all walks of life. Today, this quality will be in full gear.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Those reliable little hunches you've learned to depend on will be on target today. Intuition, blended with logic, will serve as your guide.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) To effectively please a group today, single out the key people and function close to them. Don't try to cater to the unenthusiastic.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Material aspects are extremely favorable for you today. There could be a surprise in store when you're given something you didn't expect.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In your dealings with loved ones today, keep the broader picture before you. All of the small factors will fall into place once you perceive the general outline.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Valuable confidential information will be disclosed to you today. You'll eventually benefit from it, but for the present, secrecy is essential.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your fair and generous nature will be pronounced today. Lucky are those who will be involved with you on a one-to-one basis.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Opportunities to advance or enhance your material position in life will be bigger than usual today. One in particular will be especially significant.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is something much grander and advantageous behind what will appear to be merely a gesture of good will from one who loves you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov.22) Today you'll be on the minds of people with whom you have strong emotional ties. Each may try to upstage the other in doing nice things for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Paint your canvas with bold strokes today because your larger ideas will have greater chances of succeeding than your smaller ones.

Dec. 26, 1985

An interesting situation may develop in the year ahead that could lead to a change in your occupation. The alteration could offer you more glamorous benefits.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Alliances or partnerships should not be hastily formed today with people about whom you know little. Take time to do more investigating. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your productivity can be stepped up at this time, provided you treat the tasks that face you more responsibly than you are now doing.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) No one wants to deprive you of having a good time. But just be sure that you don't spend more hours playing than you do producing.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Even if you feel someone undeserving is getting the breaks you should be getting, don't behave in a petty or envious fashion today. The wheel will turn.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A big idea you've been toying with won't get off the ground unless you stop fantasizing and start taking some positive actions. Begin now.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your sharpness as a shopper might not be in full force today. Examine all merchandise carefully so you don't end up buying illusion instead of quality.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's important to be candid with someone close to you today. Incomplete disclosures could cause complications down the line.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Analyze your motives today if there is someone you intend to help. Don't do it just because you think you'll get praise from others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Budget your time wisely today regarding your less important interests and activities. Poor scheduling could greatly reduce your productivity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your standing in the eyes of your peers is a trifle fragile today. Friends will be carefully watching to see if you honor your promises.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov.22) Vagueness or poor judgment could cause your plans to go awry today. Take time to map out your every move before swinging into action.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Try to be more watchful and cautious than usual in your commercial involvements today. If you get careless, you might lose money.

Two minor mishaps

Two minor traffic mishaps were reported in rural Scurry County over the weekend.

Involved in the first — at 6:30 a.m. Saturday — was a 1985 Pontiac driven by Roy Lee Beaver of Fluvanna.

Beaver struck a horse while traveling on County Road 253 about 7.8 miles northwest of Snyder.

Business Highway 84 in Hermleigh was the scene of the second accident at 10:20 a.m. Saturday.

Involved in it were a 1979 Chevrolet driven by Russell Gregory Mraz of Hermleigh and a 1982 Ford driven by Von Dale Jones of Hermleigh.

No injuries resulted from either accident.

Cleveland's 8-8 mark worst ever to make NFL playoffs

by The Associated Press

The National Football League playoffs begin Saturday with nine of the 10 best teams in the NFL taking part.

The other is the Cleveland Browns, who won the American Football Conference's Central Division with an 8-8 record, becoming the worst team ever to make the NFL playoffs.

Meanwhile, the 11-5 Denver Broncos are out, courtesy of the league's complicated tie-breaker procedures that left them behind the New York Jets and New England Patriots, also 11-5. That makes the Broncos the best team to miss the playoffs since 1977, when only one wild-card team made it from each conference and the Miami Dolphins missed out despite a 10-4 record.

But that doesn't mean much to Cleveland, which lost to the Jets 37-10 Sunday. They had made it anyway on Saturday when the New York Giants beat Pittsburgh.

Cleveland enters the playoffs with a record that is one-half game poorer than the previous worst - Minnesota's 8-7-1 that captured the NFC Central in 1978.

"We're 8-8 and we'll make no apologies," Cleveland Coach Marty Schottenheimer said after Sunday's game. "Everybody knew the rules at the beginning of the season."

The playoffs begin Saturday at 4 p.m. EST when the Jets host the New England Patriots, 34-23 winners over Cincinnati, in the AFC wild-card game at Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, N.J.

The NFC wild-card game will be at the same site at 1 p.m. EST Sunday when the Giants, who made it by beating the Steelers 28-10, play host to San Francisco. The defending champion 49ers, who started out 3-4, clinched the final spot by beating Dallas 31-16 Sunday.

That outcome eliminated Washington, which also finished 10-6 but lost to San Francisco earlier this year. It was the first time out of the playoffs for Washington since 1981.

The times for the quarterfinal games Jan. 5-6 aren't set yet, but the general framework is settled.

In the AFC, the Jets-Patriots winner will travel to Los Angeles to meet the Raiders and the Browns will be at Miami against the Dolphins, who clinched the AFC East title by shutting out Buffalo 28-0 Sunday.

In the NFC, the 49ers-Giants winner plays at Chicago against the Bears, who clinched the Central division five weeks ago and beat Detroit 37-17 Sunday to finish 15-1. The Rams, 11-4 going into tonight's game at Anaheim against the Raiders, will be at home to the Cowboys, who finished 10-6.

The Bears will hold the home-field advantage through the NFC playoffs.

Hanifan gets axed as Cardinal coach

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Jim Hanifan says his ordeal as coach of the St. Louis Cardinals might qualify him for another line of work.

"It was a fact that certain guys did not play up to what we thought they should or what they had in the past," Hanifan said Sunday, a day after being fired as the Cardinals completed a 5-11 season. "I should have a doctorate in psychology for the time I spent in (studying) that area."

Hanifan, 52, who was fired along with his entire staff, blamed his ouster mostly on the National Football League team's offensive futility.

"There were two areas that I think really affected us. One was that we were not able to put points on the board," Hanifan said. "We could move the football. We could not move from the 20-yard line in. I feel that permeated the rest of the team."

The second part of the breakdown lay with failures by field-goal units through much of the campaign, Hanifan added.

Hanifan was fired two hours after a 27-16 defeat Saturday against the Washington Redskins at Busch Stadium.

Team owner William V. Bidwill described his reasons for the firing in a terse prepared statement.

"I made the decision in the best interest of the team," Bidwell said. "Jim Hanifan is a fine man, a good football coach and a good friend. I wish Jim and his staff well in their future endeavors."

Bidwill's announcement didn't mention when a successor to Hanifan would be selected.

Hanifan's six-season record with St. Louis was 39-50-1, including a playoff defeat in 1982.

Sweden confirms tennis supremacy

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) - Sweden confirmed its supremacy as the world's top tennis nation by clinching its second straight Davis Cup title with a dramatic 3-2 victory over West Germany.

Stefan Edberg came from behind to beat Michael Westphal 3-6, 7-5, 6-4, 6-3 Sunday in the last of the five matches in the final series to retain Sweden's title in a surprisingly close match against a West German team led by Wimbledon champion Boris Becker.

Edberg, the 19-year-old Australian Open champion, trailed against Westphal, the world's 51st-ranked player, before rallying to win the decisive match.

"I struggled but I kept on fighting even when I wasn't playing well," Edberg said.

Sweden retained the title it won last year over the United States. Its first Davis Cup title came 10 years ago with a victory over Czechoslovakia. It lost to Australia in the 1983 final.

Becker defeated Sweden's top player, Mats Wilander, 6-3, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3, on Sunday to level the score at 2-2 and keep alive German hopes.

Wilander won the opening singles Friday against Westphal 6-3, 6-4, 10-8, while Becker overcame Edberg 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, 8-6.

Wilander and Joakim Nystrom beat Becker and Andreas Maurer 6-4, 6-2, 6-1 in Saturday's doubles to give Sweden a 2-1 lead going into the final day.

In addition to winning the Davis Cup, Sweden was the only nation to produce winners of two Grand Slam events this year. Wilander won the French Open and Edberg beat Wilander in the final of the Australian Open.

Sweden's depth in high-ranking players proved decisive in the face of a strong West German challenge led by Becker.

Becker, ranked sixth in the world, was in devastating form against Wilander, ranked No. 3 in the world.

Hole-in-one

Bud Pinkerton fired a hole-in-one on the No. 1 green at Western Texas College Golf Course last Sunday.

Pinkerton used a 7-iron.

Witnesses were Scotty Scott and Danny Chastain.

Spirit of 1975 was marked by novelty

By Paul Elie

On Christmas morning 1975, thousands of Americans woke up to find rocks in their stockings.

That year, the most popular stocking stuffer was the Pet Rock, a $3.95 rock in a box, complete with owner's manual and care intructions.

Novelty was an appropriate cornerstone for the 1975 holiday — quickly forgotten, but easy to recall. It was a season of fads.

Digital watches, which followed pocket calculators into the growing electronics market, sold for anywhere from $30 to $300. Warm-up suits were not just for athletes anymore; people who had never even thought of exercising put them on their gift lists, vowing to sweat away those extra holiday pounds, no doubt. Kids asked for Ideal's Evel Kneivel Stunt Cycle as well as the usual Legos and Tonka trucks. And latecomers were finally learning that summer's dance craze — the Hustle.

HOW WE CELEBRATED

CHRISTMAS 1975

Yet it also had been a season of enormous giving — of the practical kind that keep an economy alive. Like the one given Mayor Abraham Beame and 8 million New Yorkers on Nov. 26, when President Ford approved a $2.3 billion federal loan to the city, saving it from bankruptcy.

Those gifts showed the nation was recovering. Earlier in the year, Americans — still feeling the effects of the world oil crisis — had suffered some setbacks.

In May, U.S. diplomats had finally left South Vietnam in defeat when the country fell to the communists. In September, the president's life had been threatened twice — first by Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme and then by Sara Jane Moore. And the U.S. economy had faltered, with the rate of unemployment rising above 9 percent; and the gross national product dropping drastically before picking up near the holidays.

BICENTENNIAL ITEMS were popular gifts, as the colors of Christmas 1975 were not just red and green, but red, white and blue.

By Christmastime, the public was looking forward.

Upcoming in 1976 was the nation's Bicentennial. The celebration had already begun — 13-star flags were flying, and "Bicentennial Minutes" had joined "All in the Family" and "Chico and the Man" on TV. Beneath the Christmas tree, dozens of gifts carried the stylized stars and stripes that symbolized America's 200th anniversary — patriotic mittens, caps, neckties and even star-spangled bicycles. In 1975 the colors of Christmas were not just red and green, but red, white and blue.

1976 was also to be an election year, of course. On Dec. 24, 1975, Ford officially entered the New Hampshire Republican primary, and pundits were already making early predictions. Would the front-running Hubert Humphrey defeat Fred Harris, Terry Sanford, Edmund Muskie and Birch Bayh to capture the Democratic nomination? On Christmas Day, as part of a series on Democratic presidential candidates, The New York Times profiled Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, who was considered a strong contender for the nomination. The next day the newspaper profiled a long shot — Jimmy Carter.

Meanwhile, New York magazine profiled Ford's only Republican opponent. "Everyone knows Ronald Reagan is a joke," their cover story read. "But he may be the best public speaker in America."

In sports, Oklahoma would soon be college football's national champion, Ohio State running back Archie Griffin had been awarded his second consecutive Heisman Trophy, and Sports Illustrated had named baseball's Pete Rose of the world champion Cincinnati Reds as its "Sportsman of the Year."

Even more action was taking place in the courtrooms, though.

In both baseball and football, courts struck down rules that had restricted a player's right to sell his skills to the highest bidder. That holiday season, players in both sports could anticipate the million-dollar salaries that rule the games today.

For most Americans, expectations were more modest: a chance to gather with their families and share good times and gifts — a record or a book or a winter night at the movies.

The most popular films were: "The Sunshine Boys," Robert Redford's "Three Days of the Condor" and Sidney Poitier's "Let's Do It Again" (with Bill Cosby). Billboard magazine listed Silver Convention's "Fly, Robin, Fly" as the week's best-selling single; but the most popular gift albums were two best-of collections — "Chicago's Greatest Hits"and "Elton John's Greatest Hits." The season's hottest books were Agatha Christie's "Curtain," E.L. Doctorow's "Ragtime," "Sylvia Porter's Money Book," and, for the discerning, the $45 "Art Treasures of the Vatican."

Much of the nation spent the holiday season seeing those movies, listening to those records, beginning those books. Discovering the difference between an LCD watch and an LED one. Waiting for warm-up suit weather.

On Christmas night 1975, most Americans weren't thinking about the Bicentennial or the upcoming election. Some had already forgotten their pet rocks.

Births

Linda and Junior Garcia of Snyder are the parents of a baby boy born Friday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital. The baby, named Lindsey Cortez, weighed nine pounds, seven ounces and was welcomed home by a brother and a sister.

Grandparents include Anita and Isidro Garcia Sr. of California and Bill Dodson of Snyder.

Researchers find an odd molecule

HOUSTON (AP) — Several Rice University scientists noticed two months ago that their laser machine was producing unusual spherical carbon molecules that they had never seen before.

The researchers quite by accident had found carbon 60, which they nicknamed "Buckyballs," a discovery that has taken the international scientific community by storm.

The researchers say their finding is especially surprising because carbon is one of the most common elements in the universe and therefore one that scientists know most about, said chemistry professor Richard Smalley of the Rice Quantum Institute.

Smalley said Rice researchers for years had been zapping various materials — from tungsten to diamonds — with a laser to see what would happen.

Longer terms coming

AUSTIN (AP) — Convicted criminals in Travis County are receiving longer sentences in the wake of a new state law requiring that jurors be instructed about parole laws before deciding on punishment.

"Almost every one of the jurors that I've talked to since we put that in has stated that they voted for a longer sentence than they would have had they not known about the parole laws," says state District Judge Bob Perkins.

Linda Powell, an Austin lawyer, said she has represented two defendants in jury trials since the law took effect Sept. 1 and she notices the same thing.

"In talking to the jurors afterwards, they said that they considered (parole) very substantially in deciding on a final sentence," Ms. Powell said.

"They figured out how much they thought he ought to serve and then increased it. They're usually giving two to three times how much they actually want him to serve. Every lawyer that I've talked to is saying the same thing. The jurors are saying they are definitely considering it, and they are coming out with stiffer sentences as a result," she said.

Sen. J.E. "Buster" Brown, R-Lake Jackson, sponsored the bill that changed the law.

Dear Abby

Christmas Classic Evokes The Spirit of the Season

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Many years ago you had a letter in your column from a little girl named Virginia who wrote to say that her friends had told her there was no Santa Claus. Your response to Virginia captured the spirit of Christmas and the Santa Claus story so beautifully, I wish you would run it again.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER, BALTIMORE

DEAR TEACHER: To set the record straight, the piece to which you refer is a famous, well-loved classic titled, "Yes, Virginia, There Is a Santa Claus."

It was written in 1897 by Francis P. Church, who was, at the time, the editor of the now defunct New York Sun.

He wrote it in response to this letter:

"Dear Editor:

"I am 8 years old.

"Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus.

"Papa says, 'If you see it in the Sun, it's so.'

"Please tell me the truth. Is there a Santa Claus?"—Virginia O'Hanlon

Dear Virginia: Your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except what they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little.

In this great universe of ours, man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias.

There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus.

The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders that are unseen and unseeable in this world.

You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart.

Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay 10 times 10,000 years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Have a merry Christmas. If you're driving, please don't drink. And if you're drinking, please don't drive.

DEAR READERS: An update on the progress of "Operation Dear Abby": It all started on Sept. 27 when Mel Hebert, a U.S. Marine stationed on Okinawa, wrote to say there were a lot of lonely soldiers who needed mail, so I asked my readers to write to Mel, who had promised to distribute their letters to Marines who wanted a pen pal.

First, a letter from Mel:

DEAR ABBY: Whew! Truly unbelievable is the only way to describe the response. In the past weeks, over 30,000 letters have been received! Your readers are wonderful, Abby!

As you well know, I can't answer all these letters personally, but with help from my project officers, we've been able to distribute letters throughout the entire island of Okinawa, and although I can't assure a reply to each and every letter, we are doing our best to get them all answered.

I just want to say that you and your readers have made a lot of Marines and sailors on this end of the world very happy. Thanks again!

SEMPER FIDELES, MEL IN OKINAWA

Now, let's hear it from the men themselves:

DEAR ABBY: The success of "Operation Dear Abby" has been phenomenal, with mail pouring in at the rate of some 3,000-plus letters per day. Corporal Hebert has assigned the distribution to the Marine camps here on the island, and personnel from Camp Schwab in northern Okinawa to Camp Kinser in southern Okinawa are receiving your letters. The boost of morale has been profound, and a lot of us now feel that "America cares."

Undoubtedly, a lot of friendships will be forged from this effort. Some will last a lifetime, others for only a fortnight. From the grandmother and the widow, to the sweet 16-year-old, we thank you for your interest in our profession and our duty. The hundreds of pictures, your descriptions of your towns, and the accounts of your lifestyles are relished.

America, we are truly proud to be in a capacity to serve you and protect our way of life. A quote says it all too well: "Freedom has a sweet savor that the protected will never know." Abby, please sign us ...

THE MARINES ON OKINAWA, JAPAN

DEAR ABBY: Please settle this because I don't want to go through the same thing next year.

We have been married for three years, and both sets of parents live in our town. We both come from large families.

My mother always makes a big Thanksgiving dinner and so does my mother-in-law. My folks have their dinner at 3 p.m. and my mother-in-law serves at 5 p.m. We don't want to hurt any feelings, so we go to both places. Naturally we are stuffed after the 3 p.m. dinner, but try to do justice to the 5 p.m. dinner.

My mother gets mad because we have to eat and run, and his mother gets mad because we don't eat enough.

We want to keep everybody happy. Is there a solution?

STUFFED TURKEYS

DEAR STUFFED: Plan one: Alternate. Go to your parents one year and your in-laws the next, so you can do justice to both. Plan Two: Eat heartily at the 3 p.m. dinner, but save dessert for the 5 p.m. meal.

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing a novel called "The Married Priest." But what do I know about being married? Nothing. And what do I know about priests? Nothing.

I am a young author (8 years of age) that needs help. Can you help me?

SHARA SVENDSEN, JUNEAU, ALASKA

DEAR SHARA: I think it's wonderful that you want to become an author, but in order to write a novel about a priest, you must first get some facts about the priesthood. If there's a priest in Juneau who is willing to help you, I hope he will write to me so I can put him in touch with you. Good luck, Shara.

SDN starts review for 1985's top news

from Snyder back to Southern California was confirmed earlier by a company spokesman.

—Purchase of the Owens Department Store building on College Ave. was revealed today by Snyder Publishing Co. Inc.

The new facility will house the operations of the Snyder Daily News and its affiliated offset press facility.

JANUARY 7

—The operation of the local Montgomery Ward catalogue store will change effective Feb. 28 — a switch that will see the closing of the outlet location at 1923 25th St.

It was reported today that catalogue orders for Montgomery Wards will still be honored locally, however.

JANUARY 10

—Today was "Tony Degrate Day" in Snyder — activities which ended with a recognition banquet at the Snyder Country Club.

In addition to Degrate — this year's Lombardi Award winner and a 1981 graduate of SHS — University of Texas Football Coach Fred Akers was the special guest.

JANUARY 14

—County commissioners voted among themselves today to fill three expiring positions on the Cogdell Memorial Hospital Board, naming at vote's end two new members to the appointed body which governs the facility's operation.

New members will be Jack Denman and Ralph Price. John Jarrell was re-appointed to the board.

JANUARY 17

—Officials with the Texas National Guard have announced reorganization of the 111th Engineering Battalion effective Feb. 1 — a change which will see the Snyder-based Company E switch from a poontoon bridge company to combat engineer status, it was reported today.

JANUARY 18

—The appearance here yesterday of country and western singer George Strait prompted possibly the largest audience ever counted for an entertainment event in the Scurry County Colliseum, it was reported today.

JANUARY 19

—The question of annexing some 60.5 acres west of Snyder into the city limits — which opponents called a "symbolic" vote regarding the construction of Houston Parkway here — received a majority "yes" vote today from Snyder voters.

Only 20 votes separated those for and those against, however, in a light turnout totaling some 282 ballots.

JANUARY 22

—Initial estimates for a less than 5,000 bale cotton year for Scurry County are proving accurate as the 1984 harvest season moves into the final weeks of January, 1985.

It was reported today this total makes 1984 the worst crop year ever reported for the county regarding cotton production, local ag officials say.

JANUARY 23

—It was reported today that renovation expected to equal some $750,000-plus has begun at Snyder's Texas National Guard Armory — the local home of the newly reorganized Co. D of the 111th Engineering Battalion.

—Final approval for a new juvenile-adult probation officer for Scurry County was reported today. Accepting the post will be Larry Wayne Thompson, 27.

JANUARY 24

—Dan Callaway, justice of the peace for Pct. 1 here since 1979, was named today to the additional duties of municipal judge for the city of Snyder.

JANUARY 28

—Scurry County Attorney Gary Terrell informed county commissioners today that he will be resigning his position effective April 1 as part of a planned move from Snyder.

Terrell, who joined the Lubbock-based law firm of McWhorter, Cobb and Johnson last October, will be closing the local branch office of that firm and relocating to Lubbock.

FEBRUARY 1

—County school students and teachers received the first unscheduled holiday of the 1984-85 school year today as heavy snow prompted administrators to call off classes.

FEBRUARY 5

—The official student count for Western Texas College's spring semester was reported today — an indication that WTC has recorded the second highest enrollment in its 14-year history.

A total of 1,337 students have enrolled for the spring semester.

FEBRUARY 10

—An apparent explosion of a leaking high pressure air hose caused serious head injuries to a 14-year-old county youth, injuries which left him in critical condition at Lubbock's St. Mary's Hospital, it was reported today.

Injured was Stacy Browning, who underwent eight hours of surgery in Lubbock the night of the injury.

FEBRUARY 11

—Mike Line was chosen by county commissioners today to fill out an unexpired term for county attorney here.

FEBRUARY 20

—Jay Mayo and Debra Wilson, two Snyder High School seniors who had previously been chosed class favorites, were named Mr. and Miss SHS, today.

Seek reward

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas bankers have stepped up efforts to start a statewide reward program to discourage would-be extortionists after the wives of three central Texas bankers were taken hostage in recent incidents.

"This type of crime is becoming much more common, no doubt about it," said Chris Williston, an official with the Texas Bankers Association.

The wife of a San Antonio banker was killed in September, and this month bankers' wives in Austin and Kerrville have been held in extortion attempts.

Report rates WTC salaries

($32,130).

WTC's average salary was fourth when compared to the five community colleges within a 100-mile radius of Snyder.

The salary figures reported for these include:

—Odessa College: highest salary, $43,186; lowest salary, $23,000; average salary, $31,838.

—Midland College: highest salary, $38,122; lowest salary, $24,708; average salary, $30,974.

—South Plains College: highest salary, $35,319; lowest salary, $21,200; average salary, $28,687.

—Western Texas College: highest salary, $33,763; lowest salary, $19,204; average salary, $26,682.

—Howard County Junior College: highest salary, $32,460; lowest salary, $20,633; average salary, $26,578.

The Coordinating Board's survey included four-year universities and colleges also. The average salaries reported for these schools was $42,436 for full professors; $32,159 for associate professors; $26,928 for assistant professors; and $20,513 for instructors.

The highest average salaries within the state are reported by The University of Texas at Austin ($37,650); University of Houston-University Park ($36,913); The University of Texas at Dallas ($36,145); Texas A&M ($35,626); and Texas Tech University ($34,948).

DR. GOTT

Medication needs changing

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I was overmedicated with Inderal, and dry mouth and throat resulted. I have no saliva at all. Will pilocarpine help? Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER — Even small amounts of the beta-blocker Inderal can cause dry mouth. Ask your doctor to change you to another medicine, rather than having you try to overcome the side-effects of one medicine by using another. Chewing gum may stimulate saliva production. Remember that dry mouth may be caused by factors other than medication, so ask your doctor about this.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What is an IGE blood test for allergies? Is it more accurate than the scratch test?

DEAR READER — The disease-fighting proteins (globulins) in our bodies can be separated into groups: A, E, G, and so forth. By measuring immunoglobulin E (IGE), allergists can partially assess a person's allergic response, the way the patient reacts to substances that cause allergies.

On the other hand, by introducing tiny amounts of material into the skin and measuring the subsequent swelling and redness, an allergist can determine precisely what components the patient is reacting to. Therefore, the IGE test gives general information; skin testing provides more specific data. Both types of tests can be useful in evaluating an allergic patient.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a 29-year-old female. I recently found very unsightly broken veins on my thighs and ankles. What causes them? Is there anything I can do to make them go away or to prevent them?

DEAR READER — You seem to be describing a variety of varicose veins. The tendency to vein swelling may be inherited. Elastic stockings or supportive wrapping may help prevent further distension of the blood vessels. Elevation of the feet on a hassock or footstool (after work) may relieve pressure in the veins. If the condition progresses, you may have to consider surgical removal of the dilated veins, a procedure called venous stripping. Ask your doctor to keep an eye on the situation and advise you what to do.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My diaphragm has ballooned on the right side, pushing up into the bottom of my right lung. Do you know the cause and consequences, and is there anything that can be done for it? Could this be connected to the fact that, 10 years ago, I had a mastectomy on my right side?

DEAR READER — As we breathe, the broad, flat diaphragmatic muscles contract and suck air into the lungs. If one of the two diaphragm sheets does not contract, air will not enter one lung. Therefore, we need both diagphragms to function normally.

Ballooning of the diaphragm usually indicates that the muscle is not contracting. This could be due to congenital malformation. However, in adults, the disorder is usually caused by loss of nerve impulses to the muscle. The diaphragm doesn't contract because it is not stimulated; hence, it rises up instead of moving down with each breath.

I do not know why your diaphragm is malfunctioning; your doctor will need to order special tests to find out why such an important muscle is not working properly. If you had a mastectomy (breast removal) because of a growth, it is possible that during the past 10 years, the tumor may have regrown and is now interfering with the diaphragmatic nerves. Regardless of its cause, your condition certainly appears to need attention.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My brother, 66, is a severe diabetic with heart problems and bleeding, itching sores all over his body. He was under the care of a diabetic specialist in a clinic for six weeks last year, and in all of this time, his blood sugar level has never stabilized. I've heard that these sores are a rare type of shingles and that some kind of medication can help. Do you know of anything that we can use?

DEAR READER — Uncontrolled diabetes can cause an astounding array of skin problems, not the least of which is chronic (or recurrent) infection. I wouldn't presume to diagnose you brother's dermatological difficulty, but I am certain it will not come under control until his diabetes is regulated. If one diabetic specialist cannot help, try another — and keep trying until your brother's basic disease, diabetes, is in check.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a 29-year-old female. About a year ago I began to have involuntary muscle twitching, mostly in my leg calves and upper arms. It's like the "eye-twitching" almost everyone has experienced. My doctor told me not to worry. It's now more frequent, and I've noticed other problems: spots in my field of vision, poor balance, limb numbness and slowed reaction time. My doctor says it's stress. I'd like to get a second opinion, but don't know what type of specialist to see.

DEAR READER — Although some of your symptoms could be stress-related, the constellation of problems suggest to me that you need a thorough and careful neurological evaluation. Don't waste any time getting to a neurologist, an M.D. who specializes in diseases of the nervous system. If there is no neurologist in your community, make an appointment in the neurology clinic of the nearest university hospital.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My problem is a sluggish bowel. There's just no "oomph," as if nobody's home — no gas, no gurgling. Enemas and suppositories don't help. The only time I've had regular comfortable movements in the last three years is when I was on an antibiotic. When the medicine stopped, so did my bowels. I'm on medicine for high blood pressure and have had some abnormal bleeding. What ideas do you have about this? This is not the sort of problem TV shows are made about.

DEAR READER — Your unpleasant problem may be the result of intestinal hypomotility — a sluggish bowel. But I'm more intrigued by the possibility that the disorder may be the direct result of the high-blood-pressure medicine you are taking. Ask you doctor about this and request that he refer you to a gastroenterologist for definitive evaluation.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott in care of this newspaper at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

Production of catfish has increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American catfish farmer is chalking up another corker of a year in terms of production, according the the latest figures by the Agriculture Department.

Production of farm-raised catfish in November was 14.8 million pounds, live weight, up 18 percent from November 1984, the department's Crop Reporting Board said.

In all, catfish production in the first 11 months of 1985 totaled 178.5 million pounds, an increase of 25 percent from a year earlier.

Prices paid to growers averaged 70 cents per pound, up five cents from November 1984, the report said.

THE GIFTS OF CHRISTMAS

A gift of love from the innkeeper's child

By Madge Harrah

Sarah pulled her small bare feet up under the ragged hem of her robe. She huddled beneath the rough wooden table and peered out at more feet.

Big feet. Dusty feet. Some feet in sandals, some bare, all hurrying about as though they belonged to people with important things to do. But then, Sarah thought sadly, grown-ups always had important things to do.

"Get out of my way, Sarah," her father would scold. "Can't you see I have a customer to take care of?"

Or her aunt, stern-faced and frowning: "Don't just sit there, child. Go and fetch some more water from the well — and hurry."

No one seemed to have time to hold Sarah anymore, or even to smile. Not since her mother had gone away, taking her new baby brother along. The angels had come for them, her father had explained.

Sarah shivered, remembering. Why would the angels take her mother and brother when Sarah needed them? Angels were mean, she decided.

"I have no more rooms. Go somewhere else." Her father's voice — he sounded cross.

Sarah lifted her head, peeking sideways from under the table. She could see the dirt-covered sandals of a man just inside the open doorway. He was probably another one of those strangers who'd come flocking into town the past few days, Sarah decided.

"But the other inns are full," the stranger was saying. He sounded tired. Sarah scooted forward a little so she could look up at the man. "It's my wife," he went on. "She's going to have a baby. It's already coming."

A baby.

Sarah crept from under the table and inched over to peek from behind her father's legs. In the glow of lamplight streaming through the doorway, she saw a young woman wrapped in a shawl, huddled wearily on the back of a donkey. The woman turned her face then, and saw Sarah, too. She smiled.

Sarah's heart lurched. No one had smiled at her like that since her mother had left with the angels. Urgently, Sarah tugged at her father's sleeve.

"Father —"

He jerked away. "Go, child. Can't you see I'm busy?"

Sarah flinched at her father's impatient tone. She looked again toward the woman, who drew her shawl closer against the bitter night wind.

"Father, please — let them stay."

"There's no room, I said."

Sarah knew that was true. Her own small pallet had been moved to the foot of her aunt's cot in the shed behind the kitchen so that others might sleep in her usual corner. But the woman looked so tired...

"The stable, Father. Could they stay there?"

"Well —" her father said at last, speaking to the man. "How would you feel about that?"

The man hesitated. "I don't know..."

Sarah heard the woman call softly, "Please, Joseph. The straw in the stable will make a soft bed."

The man called Joseph hesitated only a moment longer before nodding. "All right, then." And to Sarah, "Thank you, little one."

After the man had stepped outside, Sarah's father closed the door. "You should be in bed," he growled. "Away with you now."

Sarah turned and dodged through the crowded rooms toward the shed. But later, as she lay curled on her thin pallet, she found herself thinking of the baby. Would it be a boy? Would it be frightened of the donkey? Would it cry?

When her aunt finally entered with a lamp, Sarah quickly closed her eyes, pretending to be asleep. She heard the cot creak as her aunt settled for the night. Soon there came the sound of gentle snoring.

But Sarah felt puzzled. She could still see light flickering against her closed eyelids. Perhaps her aunt had forgotten to blow out the lamp. She opened her eyes just a little and then blinked in surprise at the brightness that came pouring through the one small window above her pallet.

She rose quietly and stood on tiptoe, peering out into the night. A shiver of shock went down her spine. Hovering over the stable was a large "bird" with light streaming from its body.

Sarah squinted against the glare and saw that the "bird" was a person. A person with wings. Her mother had once told her that angels had wings.

An angel — coming to take this mother and the new baby.

Her whole body burning with anger, she turned, slipped from the shed and pelted toward the stable, ignoring the pebbles that bruised her feet. Gasping for breath, Sarah dashed through the stable doorway.

She jarred to a halt, taking in the scene before her. The mother sat on a stool looking down at a baby in her arms. Nearby, the man leaned on his staff. He was smiling at the mother.

"No!" cried Sarah, darting toward the angel who was now floating in through the open window. When he folded his wings and touched down, Sarah grabbed his robe, kicking him in the shins with her stubby toes. "You can't take them. I won't let you. The baby's new. And weak... I'm strong... Take me, instead."

She plopped down hard on the floor and dug her feet into the straw while still hanging onto the angel's robe with both fists. Then she heard a laugh, a deep rumbling from the angel like thunder following a summer storm.

"No, little Sarah," he smiled. "I'm not here to take them away. I'm here to bring people to them. Would you like to be the first?"

Reaching down, he scooped her up as though she were a puff of wool, strode forward and plopped her down before the mother and the baby.

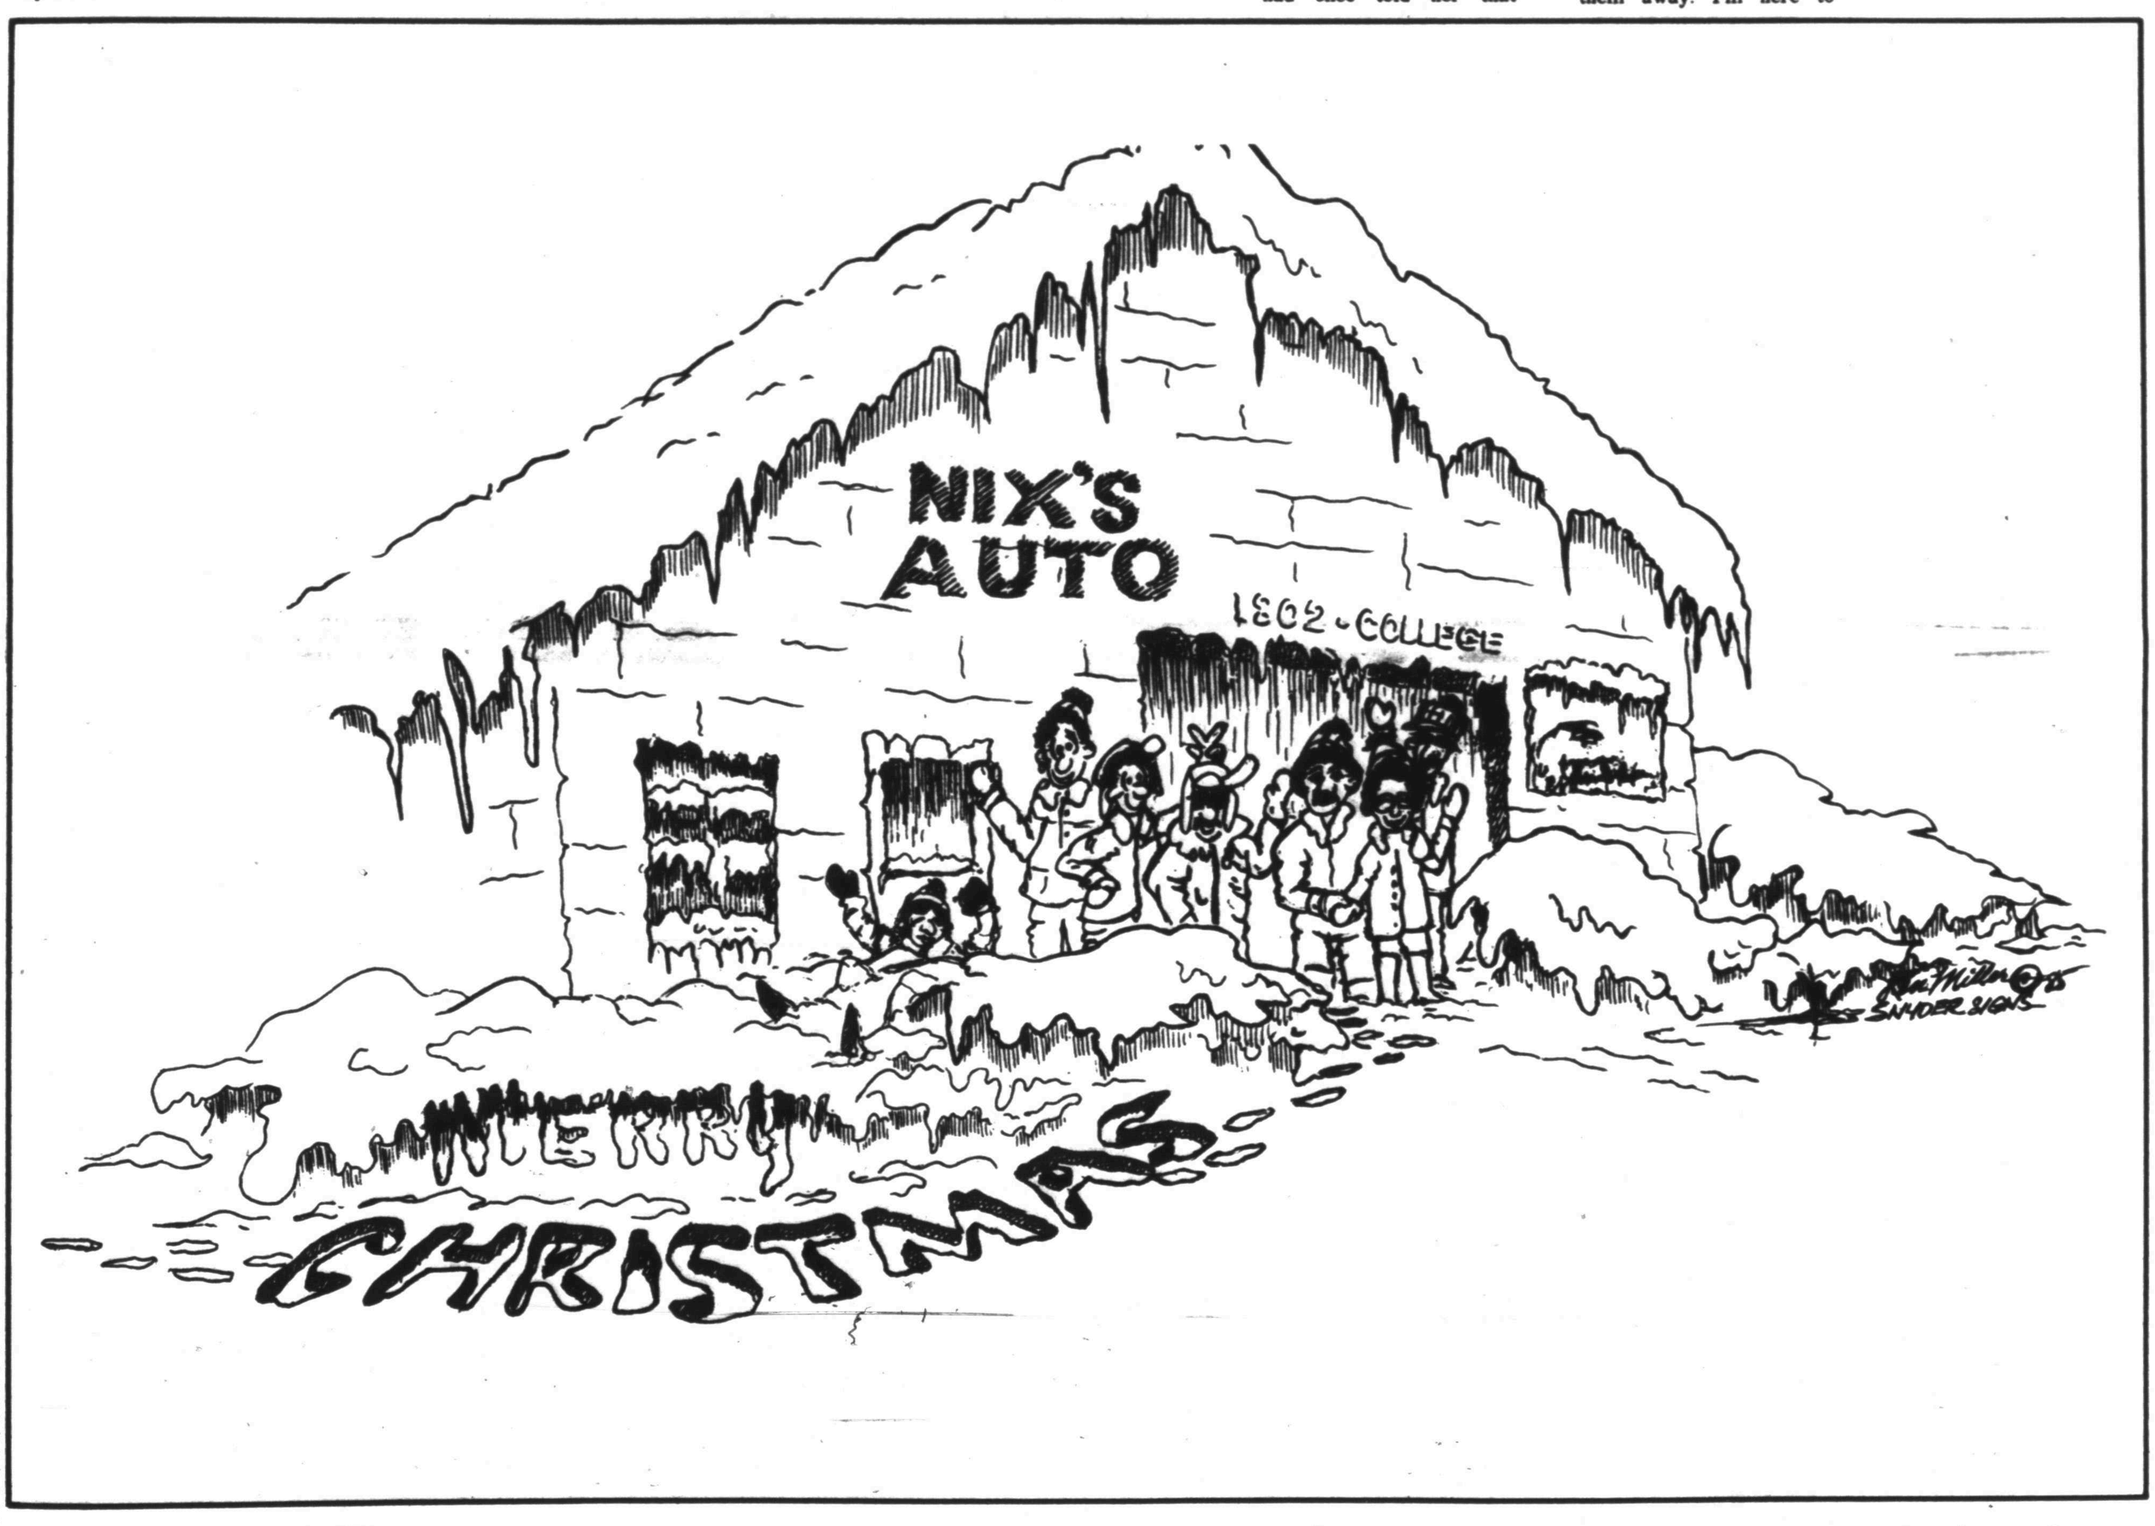

"I choose Sarah to bring your first gift," he said to mother and child. "She has offered you her life, which was refused. Instead, she gives you her love."

The baby twisted about in his mother's arms. He reached toward Sarah.

"He accepts your gift, Sarah," said the angel gently. "And someday when he is grown into a man, he'll give you an eternal gift — then you'll understand."

Sarah wondered what those words meant. She pushed them to the back of her mind, to think about another time.

All she sensed now was that, somehow, the baby and his mother were safe. The mother leaned over and put an arm around Sarah's shoulders, drawing her close. Sarah sighed as she rested her head against this mother's knee. She had a feeling of being loved, as though her own mother and brother might even be nearby.

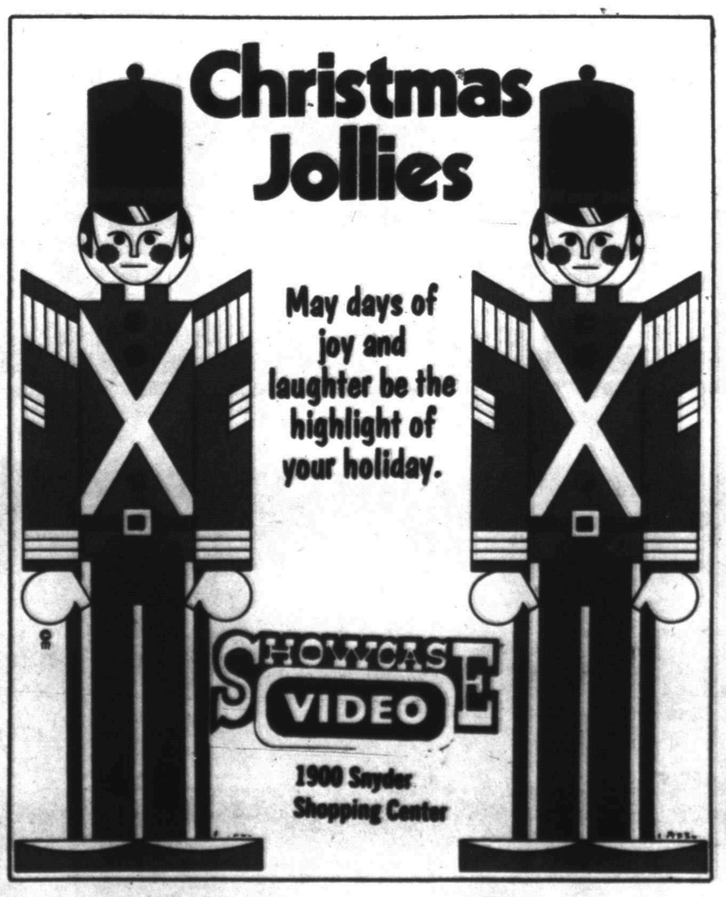

May the true, deep meaning of Christmas fill the season with love and joy for you and yours.
