El Paso Digs In Against Flood

Coal Strike Averted By British Subsidy

TERMS REACHED WITH DISASTER FACING NATION

Baldwin Agrees To a "Subvention" to Save Grave Crisis

MINERS ARE ELATED

Claim They Have Won "Great Victory" In Their Fight

LONDON, July 31.—(AP).—The general strike of the coal miners which had been scheduled to start at 12 o'clock tonight, has been called off.

What bade fair to be one of the worst industrial stoppages in modern times is averted when Premier Stanley Baldwin today promised "subvention" to the miners, thereby enabling the owners to continue their existing wage agreements for another nine months.

Government Embarrassed.

Although the government previously had maintained to the workers that it was not prepared to subsidize the mining industry, Mr. Baldwin finally yielded in the face of a threatening industrial nightmare situation involving a general stoppage in the coal industry, possibly a general cessation of railroad operation and consequently the shutting down of many other industries for lack of coal.

With this menace removed, the people breathe freely again, but at the same time many are commencing to count the cost and to ask where the policy of the government subsidizing industries is likely to end.

On Slippery Path.

The advocates of nationalization of coal mines boldly pronounce the government to be on a slippery path seeming to lead to national control or ownership.

The miners are elated at what they regard as a great victory, and their elation is shared by the entire labor world, which hails the great solidarity displayed by the trade union movement in supporting the miners in the present situation. This is the first time in the history of the labor movement in Great Britain that such an effective union has been attained. It was undoubtedly this exhibition of solidarity that finally broke down the government's reluctance to adopt the policy of state assistance.

LEWIS CALLS FOR WARRINER'S PRESENCE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 31. (AP).—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, served notice tonight that attempts to negotiate the new contract necessary in the hard coal fields one month from today, cannot well continue without the immediate presence at the joint conference here of Samuel D. Warriner, chairman of the anthracite operators' conference and William J. Richards, another veteran operator. This brought a reply from Mr. Warriner that there would be no change in the make-up of the operators' committee.

Wants Him Present.

Mr. Lewis in a personal letter to Mr. Warriner, which he made public tonight, asked the latter and Mr. Richards to join the committee at the parley on its resumption next Tuesday morning. He said he would be there himself to meet them.

Mr. Warriner received the news by long distance telephone at Lansford, Pa., in advance of receipt of Mr. Lewis' letter. He authorized announcement here that the committee would remain unchanged and implied that he and Mr. Richards would not attend Tuesday.

Ohio Klan Sends Big Wreath to W. J. Bryan

WASHINGTON, July 31—(AP)—Among the floral tributes sent to the church where the body of William Jennings Bryan lay in state today was one in the form of a cross, bearing a card on which was written "Ku Klux Klan, realm of Ohio."

The piece was about five feet high and was composed of red roses. It was placed near the pulpit.

TOLEDO, O., July 31.—(AP)—A fiery cross bearing the legend "in memory of William Jennings Bryan—the greatest klansman" was burned here tonight.

IS COOLER HERE FRIDAY

City Smiles as Clouds And Rain Send Thermometer Low.

For the second successive day Wichita Falls romped through a day yesterday of weather reminiscent of late October.

Coming on the heels of the late sweltering heat, Fridays Mixmum of 79 degrees was almost like real winter. The minimum reading reported by the Wichita Falls Electric company's government station was 61 degrees.

The sky was overcast through the day and a cool breeze prevailed from the north. No rain fell, however and the weather forecasters predicted fair and warmer for Saturday.

BRYAN SLEEPS IN ARLINGTON

Commoner Laid To His Final Rest

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP)—Beneath a peaceful grass-grown hillside, William Jennings Bryan lies tonight to sleep the time away.

No special guard keeps watch beside his grave. In common with valorious company of soldier and sailor dead among whom he rests in Arlington national cemetery, only the quiet tread of troopers on their regular patrol of the great field of the fallen resound above the Commoner's burial plot.

He is in the keeping of the God and of the nation to whose service his life was given.

In common, too, with the veteran dead about him, a simple, white painted wooden marker, placed at the head of the grave, notes that "here lies William Jennings Bryan, colonel of infantry." The form of the inscription of the stone tribute to his memory, that will ultimately replace that marker, still is to be planned by the grieving widow and the many dear friends who would do him honor.

The long, last journey of the Commoner from the Tennessee village where he fell asleep ended under the tight drawn canvas of an army tent spread to shelter his grave from the driving rain that had fallen since morning to cease only a moment before the funeral party arrived at the cemetery. Within that small enclosure there was no room save for the casket, wrapped about with the glowing colors of the flag the dead man had served in peace and war, the little group of nearest kin, and a handful of the many friends of his three decades of stirring life.

These and the ministers of the gospel who said above him the rites for the dead and who a little time before had given him the last benediction of the church, alone saw the casket sink slowly down into the earth as the soft calling of an army bugle lulled the sleeper to his long repose with the tender notes of "taps," the soldier requiem.

NEW TAX PLAN PROVIDES FOR BIG REDUCTION

President Given Report Of House Committee On Question

SWAMPSCOTT, July. 31.—(AP).—A tax plan proposing a reduction of the maximum surtax rates from 40 to 15 per cent, slashes in the normal income rate and abolition of the inheritance, gift and miscellaneous taxes was laid before President Coolidge today by Chairman Madden of the house appropriations committee.

Giving the executive his opinion as to what further economy could be affected in governmental appropriations so as to make an appreciable reduction to taxes possible, the committee chairman predicted a surplus for this fiscal year of $370,000,000. Of this amount, he held, $350,000,000 should be absorbed by lowering taxes and $20,000,000 applied to a public building program.

The president received Mr. Madden's suggestion with interest, paying particular attention to his discussion of the nation's finances and the probable drain on the treasury during the next 12 months.

$7,000 Placed Upon Head of Hotel Thief

CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP).—A price of $7,000 today was placed on the head of the only robber still at large out of the drunken, swashbuckling quintet that Wednesday afternoon invaded the fashionable Drake hotel on the "gold coast" and escaped with $4,000, after shooting an assistant cashier.

Two of the robbers were killed, two others captured and hundreds of policemen are hunting for William Mulenbach, the fifth of the quintet who had most of the loot. Tracy Drake of the Drake hotel today offered $5,000 for his capture. Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, offered $1,000 and Chief of Police Morgan A. Collins offered $1,000.

JACKSON, Mich., July 31.—(AP)—Two men were bested in a sanguinary battle and put to flight by Zora R. McGonegal, 90-year-old farmer, when they attempted to hold up father and son on the McGonegal farm near here today.

The two men entered the house, bound and gagged the elder McGonegal and locked him in a pantry. The son Z. R. McGotnegal, 58 years old, was bound and gagged in the barn. The older man cut his bonds with a pocket knife and engaged the two thugs, wounding one severely in the abdomen with a make-shift sword cane, and slashing the other with the pocket knife.

THE WEATHER

"Rich boys is the kind that will take their bat and go home if you won't let them pitch."

LYRICS OF LIFE
By Douglas Malloch.
Friendless

Friendless, but not because the world
Has coldly shouldered him aside
Friendless, but not because he hurled
His hate at men, or God defied—
Friendless because he always thought
That joy was something man could buy,
Friendless because his friends he bought,
And found that purchased friendships die.

He might have given love a smile,
But gave it only gold instead
He might have paused a little while
To drop a blossom on the dead:
He might have given living men
A word of comfort and of cheer:
He might have helped so many when
The time was now, the chance was here.

Friendship is not a purchased thing,
Nor bought with flattery, nor gold.
Friendship may oft elude a king
The poor have all that they can hold.
Friendship will come as beauty starts
Within the roses, one by one:
Friendship will come to those whose hearts
Are always open to the sun.

Frederick to Have Better Light System

FREDERICK, Okla., July 31.—Improvements in the city lighting system are the most notable feature of the additional appropriation measures adopted at a recent meeting of the county excise board here. An appropriation of $18,801.32 was made and $6,082 of this amount will be used for improvements in the city water and light service. The original appropriation made recently for the coming year is $98,733.80 but a surplus of last year allowed for the additional amount.

Finances of the city of Frederick are in the best condition known in history. Approximately $22,000 has been taken in during the past year than was anticipated. No general fund levy will be levied next year, it has been decided by the excise board, and the only tax to be levied will be a tax to care for interest and sinking funds on city bonds. A reduction in power and light rates has also been announced for the fiscal year.

Taxpayers will be saved more than $18,806.96 by failure to levy a general fund tax, and water and light users will save close to $8,000 by reduction in rates.

COUNTY AGENT TO LEAVE

FREDERICK, Okla., July 31.—County Agent L. H. Beaty will leave the first of the week to attend the farm congress to be held at Oklahoma A. and M. college at Stillwater.

FREIGHT RATE RISE SOUGHT BY 24 STATES

Texas Is One of Many States Seeking An Increase

AUSTIN, July 31.—(AP)—Substantial and general increase in freight rates are asked in Texas and in the 23 other states of the western district by the 75 common carriers operating in this district. Present rates are not yielding a sufficient and equitable return on the value of the property involved, petition of the common carriers, addressed today to the interstate commerce commission and to the railway commissions of the 24 states of the district states.

Amount a Secret.

Exact amount of increase desired by the railroads is not specified in the petition, which prays that "after due investigation you will issue the necessary order or orders that will permit such increases in intrastate rates, corresponding to such increase in interstate rates as may be authorized by the interstate commerce commission, and which will result in yielding to your petitioners an adequate and lawful rate of return on the value of their property."

The common carriers claim the net revenue for the past four years in the western district has not exceeded four per cent a year.

COPS TAKE WOMEN RIDING

Four Ladies Request Rides of the Police

DALLAS, July 31.—"Take us riding, boys," was the substance of a remark made by four women to two men riding in an automobile last night. The remarks were made by different women in different places. The two men were accommodating, opened the door of their car and complied with the request. The ride ended at the city jail for the two men were policemen in plain clothes. BISHOP GIVES UP CATHEDRAL; GOES TO JAIL

For Months Russian Catholic Church Official Had Defied Courts

HIS RIVAL GOES IN

Capitulation Ends Long Court Battle Between Two Factions

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP).—The siege of the Cathedral of St. Nicholas, seat of the Russian Orthodox Church of America, came to a close today, with the dramatic capitulation of Bishop Adam Phillipovsky, who for a month had defied the power of the police, the majsty of the supreme court and the violence of the opposing religious faction to oust him from the church.

Clad in Robes.

Clad in the ecclesiastical robes of his office and wearing the heavily jeweled headdress known as the klobuk, he strode down the steps of the cathedral in the presence of hundreds of spectators and surrendered to sheriffs. Immediately he was placed under arrest and the control of the church and its wide-flung property passed into the hands of his rival, Archbishop Platon Rodzestevnsky, leader of the opposing faction.

Despite the bishop's surrender, two hours after the dead line set by Supreme Court Justice Levy last Saturday, his entrenced conferes refused to evacuate the church premises to a small army of sheriffs, detectives and members of the Platon group who waited outside the portals. The besiegers held a short war council. Axes were procured and a moment later the stout cathedral doors were splintered under lusty blows. The remaining score of defenders then surrendered without protest.

Bishop Phillipovsky and several of his lieutenants were lodged in Ludlow street jail, pending disposition of the contempt of court charge against him. He faces a $250 fine and a possible jail sentence.

Eighteen Months' Battle.

The victory of Archbishop Rodzestevnsky culminated an 18 months' battle for control of the church, with properties valued at $40,000,000 and of jurisdiction over its diocese embracing 300 priests and 250 churches. In 1922, the archbishop frustrated the attempt of the Rev. John S. Kedrovsky, who claimed to have been appointed soviet bishop of North America by the soviet church of Russia to gain leadership when supreme court justices denied the Soviet church the right to assume control of the American diocese.

FRENCH STILL HOPEFUL

Paris Believes Settlement Will Yet Be Reached on Debt

PARIS, July 31.—(AP)—French officials whose duties have to do with the settlement of France's war debts refused to accept the interpretation current in London that the suspension of the conference there of French and British financial experts constitutes a rupture of the negotiations for France's adjustment of her war debts to Great Britain.

The full meaning of the return of the French delegation tonight will be known, it is said, only when a formal report is made.

Boys Slay Aged Sisters To Gain Wealth Quickly

New Hampshire Youths Admit Murderous Attack With Sticks

USED STOVEWOOD

One Was to Have Been Heir to Modest Estate Of Women

NASHUA, N. H., July 31.—(AP)—The story of how two aged sisters were battered to death with stove wood sticks in order that their slayers, one a boy of 15, might share their little estate, was told today by Louis Labombarde of Merrimack. In the cottage in Hudson where the bodies of Helen and Georgianna Gillis were found a week ago, Labombarde, who had been under questioning since yesterday, broke down and admitted that he and his young brother-in-law, Charles Lefebvre, chore boy for the Gillis sisters, were responsible for the crime.

Labombarde and Lefebvre were arrested and brought here.

Would Get Money.

According to the story told by Labombarde, Lefebvre told him that the Gillis sisters were fond of him and had promised to will him their home and their money when they died. Lefbvre suggested he and Labombarde kill the aged women and divide the money, the confession continued, and Labombarde agreed. On Wednesday afternoon they went to the Gillis home to mow the lawn.

"Charlie went to the back of the house where there was a wood pile and took an armful of sticks," Labombarde said. "Each of us took one of the sticks. I went into the pantry where Helen Gillis was and raised my arm with the stick in my hand. I did not mean to hit her but I did. She crumpled up in the corner. I went back to the kitchen and saw Charlie beating Georgianna Gillis. She staggered into the other room and fell on a couch.

Her Head Bloody.

"Charlie went into the living room then. There was blood streaming from Georgianna's head and he took a night gown that was there and tried to stop the flow."

Labombarde said the two returned to the kitchen and Lefebvre took a pocketbook from the panty. They left the house by different routes and met at a place locally known as Camel's Hump, half a mile away. Lefebvre had tied the night gown about his stick and hidden the two under his clothing. At the Camel's Hump this evidence was destroyed.

100 Head of Infected Ones Destroyed And Burned Friday

HOUSTON, July 31.—(AP)—Reports to Dr. Marion Imes, Kansas City, of the bureau of animal industry indicated no extension today of the disease area near Houston.

Under his supervision the entire herd of about 100 cattle, in which the infection appeared was destroyed and burned. Incineration was resorted to, Dr. Imes said, as a quicker means of disposing of the bodies than burying them in trenches for which, he indicated, machinery must necessarily be assembled and would require more time than the other method.

HIGH WATER IS DUE TO REACH CITY SATURDAY

Weak Spots in Dikes Being Strengthened By Crews

LEVEL NEAR TOP

Truck Patches And The Residence Sections Threatened

EL PASO, July 31—(AP)—Crews were working feverishly late this afternoon under direction of L. M. Lawson, project manager of the reclamation service strengthening weak spots in the dikes along the Rio Grande river near El Paso as a precaution against the flood waters which are due to reach here tomorrow.

Sacks, shovels and lanterns have been obtained from Fort Bliss, and Brigadier Joseph Caster, officer in command, has offered the use of soldiers and trucks if they are needed for the flood defense work.

River Is Rising

A flood in the river Wednesday of half the volume of the one due here at noon tomorrow, rose to within 18 inches of the top of a four foot dike which protects the residence district and truck garden areas of El Paso, and every precaution will be taken to prevent a break in the protecting wall tomorrow.

A smaller flood yesterday broke a part of the dike on the Jaurez, Mexico, side of the river, flooding a considerable area of farm land. Arroyos at Hatch and Rincon, New Mexico, above El Paso, were still feeding heavy heads of water into the Rio Grande late today, telephone reports said.

Damage Averted

Damage to Hatch which was swept by floods two years ago, has been averted by dikes built since that time.

A washout on the Santa Fe railroad at Florida near Deming, N. M., delayed the passenger train running between Rincon and Silver City, N. M. When the first washout had been repaired, a second washout occurred near White Deer, N. M., on the same line further delaying the train.

Rains Continue To Drench the State

DALLAS, July 31.—Rains of the past several days which have been general in many sections of Texas swept southward today and tonight, bringing relief particularly to drouth-stricken sections of central Texas. Practically the entire state was visited by some precipitation and low temperatures were general, Waco reporting a norther and El Paso snow flurries which brought overcoats, in marked contrast to a siege of hot weather unparalleled in the state in half a century.

While the rainfall in central Texas in some places was from one to two and one-half inches, other points received only light showers, but even these were reported as beneficial to cotton which has not yet stopped growing.

Heaviest rainfall today was reported in East Texas, portions of Central Texas, in Southwest Texas from the Del Rio section north to Fort Stockton, while practically all of West Texas was visited by a steady downpour. A cloudburst was reported at Kent in Culberson county. General rains in West Texas were continuing tonight with streams swollen and roads impassable in many sections. The Texas and Pacific track was washed away in two places west of Kent, it was reported.

Tillman County Will Give Aid to Schools

FREDERICK, Okla., July 31.—For the second time in the history of the county, the Tillman county excise board voted an excess levy in the neighborhood of 1.5 mills for the purpose of raising approximately $30,000 which is to be given to the Tillman county schools for this year. This privilege is given by law, but has only once before been used by county authorities. The money will be distributed to the school districts according to their valuation.

School district 158—Frederick—will be helped by this fund as the additional money will probably allow the local schools to run the full nine months' term without much additional revenue and will partially solve the fund problem.

Steel line measurement on the sand shows the pay at a level of 1,966-76 feet. The well itself is located in the southeast corner of the north half of the northwest quarter of section 37, block 4, H&TCRRCO survey, on a block originally held by C. R. Pope and Gibson. It is the newest of the successful completions on the Wilbarger-Waggoner domains, and will undoubtedly furnish additional incentive for further drilling on that area.

Oil Gossip

It is the complaint of one of the Thomas brothers in the Beaver Creek Water company that it never rains in Archer county. Pious-like, he offers the explanation that perhaps a relentless providence is using that means to punish the Archerites for the roads they keep in their county.

J. G. Terry, Shackelford county operator, was a Wichita Falls visitor Thursday. Mr. Terry has great faith marks that it is a present one of in the future of that county and re- the most active in the north Texas fields.

"The Hope Petroleum company's well in section 24 from sand at 1,291 feet is easily the feature of activity of the past few weeks," he says. "That well, located near another well at 1,038 feet, and about three and one-half miles south of the Tannehil production, is flowing about 150 barrels a day.

"In the southeast corner of Haskell county, H. H. Adams et al have about 3,500,000 cubic feet of gas from sand at 1,662-5 1-2 feet, and are pulling the large casing. Amos G. Carter's No. 1, Caster Whistler, in the northwest part of Shackelford county, is underreaming at about 1,100 feet. This operator is starting up a test in the northwest corner, section 6. Phillips and Humble are also doing some new work."

A telegram was received in Wichita Falls Thursday from B. J. Shaw, Panhandle vice president, from Vancouver, B. C. Mr. Shaw left north Texas for a tour of the west, leaving Colorado for Idaho, and making Portland and Seattle en route to Vancouver. He expects to return via California and to be back in Wichita Falls early in September.

N-1 South Electra

Texhoma Oil and Refining company had a sand yesterday and was setting the 6 5-8 inch casing to test at 1,953 feet. The well is located 150 feet south and west of the northwest corner of the northwest quarter of section 2, H. and T. C. survey, abstract 507, southeast of Electra, Wichita county.

Texhoma Oil and Refining company has set casing to test a shallow sand showing oil at a depth of 884-852 feet in its No. 1 Perkins-Cullum Burnett ranch A lease. The well is located about two miles south of Burk Station and the rodeo grounds, also thoroughly tested recently.

Texhoma Oil and Refining company's No. 3 Reynolds Land and Cattle company in block 57 of the Comanche Indian reserve was setting 8 1-4 inch pipe yesterday at 1,315 feet on a gas sand at a depth of 1,317 feet Throckmorton county.

Texhoma, Taylor

Texhoma Oil and Refining company No. A-5, block 487, northwest of Geraldine, and northeast end of the Texhoma-Gose pool, was in a sandy shale at 1,583 feet yesterday afternoon and should have some sort of a sand by this morning.

Wilbarger Duster

Consolidated Oil company and Staley and Wynne have abandoned their No. 1,. Waggoner, in section 27, Poitevent survey, abstract 531, at a total depth of 2,608 feet, Wilbarger county, southwest of the South Vernon area. The well was a dry hole.

Consolidated, Texhoma

Consolidated Oil company and Texhoma Oil and Refining company expect to spud today on their No. 1, Sallie B. Dycus, located about four miles south of Luke Wilson, 150 feet east and approximately half way north and south on the west line of the H. S. Smith survey, North Archer county.

M-S, Mills

Maer and Staniforth No. 3, Mills, well located on the north line of their lease in the southeast quarter of block 2,428, Southeast Baylor county, a location east of No. 2, was standing about 300 feet in oil early yesterday from sand at a depth of 1,413-17 feet, and looked like an oil well of some sort.

White Bros., McCarty

White brothers have quit their No. 3 McCarty on the east side of the Beaver Creek production, southwest of Iowa Park, Wichita county, at a total depth of 1,712 feet, after failing to make a well in any of the usual Beaver Creek horizons. The lease shows two wells, one a small fellow and the other about 60 barrels a day from a 1,200-foot horizon.

Texhoma, Gose

Texhoma Oil and Refining company has made two locations offsetting the new Riner and Bailey well to the east of the Texhoma-Gose pool. No. 44 will be south of the well in the northwest corner of block 42, section 8, A. T. N. C. L., while the No. 45 will be in the southeast corner of block 34, same section, just west of the well.

Both tests are moving on.

Atlantic, Sigler

Atlantic Oil Producing company has timber on the ground for its No. 2 Sigler, Waggoner, located 150 feet each way from the northeast corner of the northeast quarter of section 51, block 2, H. and T. C. survey, about half a mile northwest of the No. 1 Sigler-Waggoner, on the pump for about 33 barrels a day, southern Wilbarger county.

Texhoma, Covert

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company's No. 2 Covert, in section 8, block 5, H. and T. C. survey, near Tolbert, northwestern Wilbarger county, is shut down in lime at 1,477 feet, and standardizing to drill deeper. The first hole was completed as a bad fishing ob at 1,564 feet, and the second hole drilled rotary to that depth. It will be completed now with cable tools to a contract depth.

New Mexico Reports

Danciger Oil and Refining company is drilling three wells in New Mexico now. One is No. 2 Cummings north of the No. 1, in 17-18-28, drilling past a last reported depth of 600 feet.

No. 1 Balsh, also in 17-18-28, offsets the Cummings tract to the west, while the No. 1 Ragsdale is starting up in 18-18-28, all three in Eddy county.

Danciger has recently completed two New Mexico wells, No. 1 Cummings, a small one, and No. 1 Caseman, about 150 barrels a day.

Norday Area

New Domain

The New Domain Oil company's test in Norday area, north of Swastika, was reported down about 1,200 feet early yesterday and drilling.

Perkins-Cullum, Anderson

Perkins-Cullum No. 3, Anderson, a location south of the No. 1, South Anderson ranch sub-division, block 22, Norday area, was showing yesterday for about a 250-barrel well from sand at 1,415-27 feet.

The No. 2 in the southwest corner of the lease was going on the pump for about 50 barrels of oil and some water from sand at 1,425-36 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum company has a new one, its "Jiggs-Waggoner" No. 1 well, in the heart of the Waggoner pasture, eastern Wilbarger county, now a derrick and stringing up cable tools to start on its half mile jaunt toward China.

The name, "Jiggs-Waggoner," was given to the well at the instigation of Bob More, manager of the Waggoner estate, who laid the blame for the Magnolia's duster in section 59, block 4, northwest of the Noble well, on its name. The Magnolia, at the time the lease on that tract of ground was taken, in order to distinguish it from other of its Waggoner leases, called it the "More-Waggoner."

When the time came to drill another wild one, a conference between H. P. Hodge, Magnolia's land man, and R. L. More, evolved a new name, the "Jiggs-Waggoner" No. 1. So "Jiggs-Waggoner" it is, and will be so carried henceforth on the Magnolia drilling reports.

Magnolia already has a "Maggie-Waggoner on a small half-hearted lease in section 13 of South Electra. The Jiggs, et al, will be in the southwest corner of the northwest quarter of the northwest uarter of section 11, block 4, H. and T. C. Railroad company survey.

START GRADING WORK SOON ON HOLLIDAY ST.

Important Thoroughfare To Be Paved Before Winter Is Hope

Grading work—a forerunner of paving operations, will start on Holliday street within the next ten days, according to word Friday from the city street department. It is planned to put a large force of men at work making necessary excavations for the improvements that will stretch from Eleventh street to the city limits and serve as a start on the new Holliday-Park-Lake highway. It will be one of the most important paving jobs started here in a long time and will be rushed through to completion as rapidly as possible. It is the hope of Mayor Shepherd that the project can be completed before winter sets in.

Contract Is Let.

Contract for the work has been let for some time and for the past month work crews of the Municipal Gas company and the city water department have been busy lowering mains.

Present plans for the paving call for installation of a boulevard down the center of the street from Eleventh to Holliday.

To Start Ninth.

It is also hoped by city officials that a start can be made within a short time on the Ninth street paving project. This includes linking up Ninth street in one solid length of hard-surfaced road by paving between Broad street on the east, on Brook street on the west. This will be a stretch of three blocks and will give an uninterrupted paved road over one of the most important east-west routes in town.

Chas. Roberts Is Dead in N. Mexico

Charlie Roberts, for many years a resident of this city, and well known in Wichtia Falls, died yesterday in a sanitarium at Albuquerque, N. M., according to a telegram received here by relatives.

Mr. Roberts was in the stock business near this city for some time, residing on a ranch four miles north of town. He left here early in the year to go to Albuquerque, N. M., when failing health necessitated a change of climate.

He is survived by his widow, who was with him when he died; five sisters, Mrs. R. C. Cato, Mrs. Fred Ebner, Ethel Hodge Roberts, Lulu Koger Roberts and Mrs. Oscar Dyson, and three brothers, Roger, Ed and Guy.

The remains will be brought back to Wichita Falls for burial.

Theatrical Troupe Volunteers Services To Swell Scott Fund

DETROIT, July 31.—(AP).—Theatrical entertainers olunteered their services for a vaudeville show tonight the entire proceeds of which are to be turned over to the Russell Scott defense fund.

The benefit was planned last night by members of the local committee who are working to gather funds to carry on the fight in Chicago to save Russell Scott, convicted of slaying a drug store clerk, from the gallows.

In addition to the funds now being collected at a small store opened for that purpose here, John M. Hewer of Windsor, Ont., chairman of the committee announced that efforts will be made to enlist the aid of the Lions club of the country. It was also announced the committee plans to raise $15,000 or three times the original goal with which to carry on the legal fight in Chicago.

The fund had passed the $2,000 mark late today.

PEOPLE MUST DEMAND LAWS BE ENFORCED

Chicago Expert Says That Officials Must Live Up to Duty

CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP)—The crime problem can be solved only when citizens make clear to law enforcing authorities that they must do it in accordance with their oath of duty or give way to other officials who will, Colonel Henry Barrett Chamberlain, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, said today in a survey of crime and crime conditions as they exist in large cities.

"It is the biggest civic problem of today," said Colonel Chamberlain. I am not talking, however, of city and county administrations. I am talking of all the officials who collectively constitute the machinery established by law for the enforcement of justice. I mean the police, all the prosecutors, all the judges, and all the administrative officers who have to do with crime.

Church Can Help.

"The church can perform a permanent service to the community by creating a public sentiment which will make each official do his share toward that end. The more the church will do toward this end, the more it will do to reduce crime.

"A religion which fails to make its own members law-observing, law-respecting, decent-living citizens, is missing its main purpose. And while crime is a social problem, it will be reached by the church through the home and the influence of the home upon the community.

"Chicago's crime conditions are bad. It is a city of great area, large population and typical of the age. Its crime problem is unsolved and the crime situation is out of control. Its murder record is more than one a day. Robberies are committed almost at will. Rich plunder is secured and little recovered. Neither life nor property is safe.

"Many confuse crime and sin. Sin is a violation of the law of God. Crime is a violation of the law of the state. It is not an uncommon error to consider crime in its social aspect, and to offer a cure based upon moral grounds.

Law Is Mandate.

"Law is the mandate of the majority which presumably must be obeyed by all in the interest of all. Every law represents a restriction upon or a sacrifice of a degree of liberty by the few in the interest of the many. Service is built upon sacrifice, yet even thoughtful men lost sight of the fact when the sacrifice is demanded in the interest of the nation, the state, the municipality, of other governmental units which they are a part.

"The complaint against the present age is that it has thrown precedent aside and disregards the history of the past. It is an age of marvelous progress. Inventive genius has revolutionized our mode of living. It is a restless age. Restraint has been thrown aside.

"It is an age which dares to do. No standard is fixed, nothing seems stable, everything is subject to change. This spirit is reflected in our social relations to a greater degree than elsewhere.

"Christian standards are threatened. Religion and morality are under fire. The church is on trial. Religion, because it is founded upon principles which do not change, may seem unable to cope with these changing social conditions, while in fact the consequences of these social disturbances, accompanied by unrestrained emotions, unbridled passions and a breaking down of morality and the violation of the criminal code are simply evidences of the value of religious principles and proof that in them lie the hope of change.

"I would be understood as using the term religion to mean right living rather than the profession of a particular faith.

Not Confuse Crime.

"The church can deal with crime only when it knows what crime is, where it is and what causes it. It must not confuse crime in its social relation, with crime in its spiritual relation. If the church is to attack crime as a social problem, it must reach the masses. Its field is crime prevention. It must begin with the child and to reach the child it must reach the home.

"So able an authority as Dr. Robert H. Gault, professor of psychology at Northwestern university, has found that children from broken homes—homes from which either or both parents are permanently removed—have just half the chance of avoiding a criminal career that is accorded to the child in the home which remains intact.

"I am inclined to agree with Judge Kickham Scanlan of the superior court of Cook county, when he attributes the principal cause of crime to the decadence of the American home and I believe that religion as a preventive of crime will be the religion that enters the home.

Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania recently declared that law enforcement was the greatest question before the American public today. I think it is within the province of the church to advocate and if possible to effect law observance rather than law enforcement. The enforcement of laws should be left to civil authorities. A religion is lacking in vitality unless it is greater than all other factors in the lives of its adherents.

Danzig Municipality Controls Two-Thirds of Land.

DANZIG, July 31.—(AP)—The city boasts of being one of the wealthiest on the continent. Its wealth does not consist so much in money and goods as it does in real estate. Two-thirds of the whole ground upon which Danzig is built is the property of the municipality.

TO BEAUTIFY TOKYO STREETS

Movement Is Inaugurated By Merchants' League

TOKYO, July 31.—(AP)—The Ginza Merchants' league has inaugurated a movement for improving and beautifying Ginza street, the Broadway of Japan's Capital.

It is planned to place the reconstruction work in the hands of an American contractor, the cost of the improvements being estimated at 60,000,000 yen. This sum it is hoped to raise by a loan in the United States under a government guarantee, with redemption provided for in 20 years.

MILTON SILLS COMING

"Making of O'Malley" At Mission Offers Stellar Acting

Heart interest, pathos, tragedy, love suspense, thrills, laughs, excitement—all these are found in "The Making of O'Malley," which will be shown at the Mission theater Sunday, with Milton Sills in the stellar role.

This is Milton Sills' first starring vehicle, and he is seen at his best in the role of a New York policeman. The story is laid in New York and interweaves the lives of a society girl who has tired of her social position, and the policeman. There is a beautiful love theme running through the plot, at the end of which the policeman wins the wealthy girl. But the refining influence of the woman has had its effect on this two-fisted man of the force, and lifts him up to a higher and finer appreciation of life. In short, O'Malley is a re-made man when the picture ends.

Not even in "The Sea Hawk" did Sills battle more effectively than he does in this picture. But beneath the gruffness of the "cop" lies a kindly spirit. Within his breast is a heart softened by pity and sentiment.

"The Making of O'Malley" is a powerful story. It was adapted from Gerald Beaumont's recent magazine success of the same name by Lambert Hillyer. Hillyer also directed the picture under the supervision of Earl Hudson, head of First National's eastern units, the man who produced the screen sensation of years, "The Lost World."

Heading the supporting cast is Dorothy Mackaill. Other players include Thomas Carrigan, Helen Rowland, Warner Richmond, Claude King, Julia Hurley, Charles Graham, Allen Brander, Nell Craig and Jack de Lacey.

Betty Compson Plays Great Role In "Paths to Paradise" At the Olympic

It was a crook role in George Melford's Paramount picture. "The Miracle Man," that first elevated Betty Compson to stardom. Now Betty's back on the screen at the Olympic theatre in another crook rcle—but this time in a fast-moving comedy, "Paths to Paradise," which opens today.

"Paths to Paradise," directed by Clarence Badger, at one time associated with Mack Sennett, was written for the screen by Keene Thompson from Paul Armstrong's play, "The Heart of a Thief." Miss Compson is featured with Raymond Griffith, the high hat scream, in the leading roles.

Tom Santschi, Fred Kelsey and Bert Woodruff appear in the supporting cast of the production which opens with a guide showing a few sightseers through San Francisco's Chinatown. He informs them that Betty is queen of a gang of counterfeiters, and when the rubber-necks leave the bunch split the money they paid to inspect the place.

Then a taxi driver hops in, announcing that he has a sucker who wants to see a typical Chinese joint. The cellar is transformed accordingly, and Ray Griffith walks into the picture, and the fun is on. Griffith is a clever gentleman crook, and what he doesn't do to these poor underworld thieves isn't worth mentioning.

Remember Griffith in "Forty Winks" and "The Night Club?" "Paths to Paradise' is funnier than the two of them put together.

Detroit has purchased a ball player named Everett Spikes from Asheville, again proving that there is something in a name.

"I eat meat three times a day," one of the lady swimming champions is quoted as saying, and there goes that expense account.

AMERICAN TOURISTS ARE SPENDERS.

American tourists will leave 2,500,000 lire in Italy this year; they will leave six billion francs in France and they will hand fifty million guilders to the thrifty Hollanders. This is an estimate of American tourists money placed in three European countries. There are more American tourists in Europe this year than ever before and they are dropping American gold most lavishly into the pockets of the hungry natives.

There are tourists on wheels in the United States. They are to be found everywhere between the two oceans. This is the richest of all nations. Since the beginning of time no nation or people has accumulated the vast wealth now possessed by the United States. It has loaned twenty-one billions to European countries and individuals. It has national wealth estimated at 360 billion dollars. It has the largest gold reserve that one nation has even gathered. It has greater prosperity today than any nation on the map of the world.

There is no land like this. It is mid-summer. Steel price lists show no decline. And many oil companies have doubled their business. There are fewer bank failures then reported in preceding years. There are higher wage scales than anywhere in the wide world. There are fewer idle workers. And a crowning event of the year has been the order issued by the head of the Standard Oil company that everywhere the Standard flag floats the eight-hour work day shall be ushered in.

John D. Rockefeller, Sr., is eighty-seven. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is the second richest American. Long ago the younger Rockefeller declared for living wages and a high standard of living for employes of the company and promised that the eight-hour work day would be granted to the thousands who serve the Rockefeller combination in all fields or departments of the vast petroleum industry.

Is this old world growing better? It is. Is this old world growing more humane? It is. Is this old world growing wiser? It is. Is this old world growing more charitable? It is. Is the new civilization in improvement on the civilization shot to death on Flanders field? It is.

There is a forward movement the world over. This is not the golden age alone. It is an age which demands the education of all the children of all the people. It is an age which demands equal and exact justice for all men, high or humble, rich or poor and regardless of nationality or creed. It is an age that demands higher ethics and higher ideals of life and living.

It is an age that is certain to usher in a nearer approach to the millenial dawn than any of the preceding ages. There are men who believe and preach that the golden rule observance would mean a paradise here below as well as a paradise in that world invisible for man after he has passed on. It may be the dream of dreamers but dreams come true.

COMPENSATION.

The July crop report of the department of agriculture registers a vastly improved growing condition for gains. Wheat, which has been predicted so low in yield as to be practically at the limit of domestic consumption, is increased 19,000,000 bushels. Spring wheat is actually forecast 22,000,000 bushels higher, but winter wheat has fallen off 3,000,000. These estimates indicate that growing conditions tend to improve. If the tendency becomes marked we may yet have sufficient wheat for export. If, however, the present condition is maintained, the domestic demand for wheat will be adequately met and our wheat farmers amply paid for their short crop.

Any falling off in wheat production will be more than made up by the abundance of the corn crop this year. The department of agriculture estimates that we will have the third largest crop in our history. More than 3,000,000,000 bushels are forecast. The increase over last year will amount to 650,000,000 bushels. This compares favorably with our predicted wheat shortage, which is low but little over 200,000,000 bushels. Corn has reversed the adverse showing of last year, when there was too much wheat and not enough corn. It has come back most opportunely when it is needed to feed cattle and hogs for which prices are good. With animal products on the rise in the price scale, there is no likelihood that a large production of corn can depress the price, which now is at the high mark, $1 a bushel.

The law of compensation is working for the farmers and working unusually well. It is giving them a large production of the crop which can profit them most at this time, to make up for the shortage of another crop which, had it been normal, might have brought them temporary misfortune. The best returns on agricultural operations are now clearly to be made in the raising of feed crops and the fattening of stock. Europe's increasing wheat production narrows our farmers' prospects in the raising of grain for bread. High prices for animal products have stimulated corn planting. Weather conditions have also aided, suppressing the growth of wheat and thus furnishing surplus land for corn.

This adjustment between corn and wheat production shows how secure is an industry so broadly based as American agriculture. Nation-wide in scope, and embracing almost every product of the soil, our farming industry is safe from the menace of unfavorable conditions. It can make the necessary adjustments to maintain its general productivity. Its ability to do so guarantees the country again the peril of famine, which might be very real for smaller lands during unseasonable weather.

SLAYERS OF MANKIND.

Chemists are said to be slayers of mankind. They are responsible for preserved foods and Sir William Milligan, a noted physician of Great Britian, has returned a verdict after years of research that preserved foods are the greatest slayers of mankind and that chemists who are responsible for food preservatives should share the responsibility. Not many years ago John Barleycorn was the great slayer of mankind. Now that John has been put out of business, the chemist is the villian in the play.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

Where You Can Find It.

Two carpenters were engaged on a job near my house.

On my way home early one afternoon I stopped to watch them.

Both seemed equally industrious, and almost competent—while at work.

But one was continually laying his tools down in curious places, and then, when he needed them, hunting for them frantically.

He spent fully as much time as he spent at work, looking for saw, hammer, chisel or whatever he happened to require for the next task at hand.

The other, without seeming to give the matter any thought, laid each tool down in a special place on a plank near him.

Never by any chance did he change the order.

The hammer, which he was using more than any other tool was nearest him.

He could reach it without looking for it.

The saw came next, then three chisels of assorted sizes, then a plane.

I thought perhaps this was the order he always used.

But the next afternoon when I stopped he was doing more sawing than hammering, and the saw was closest to his hand, and next the hammer, and a nail set, for this day he was driving finishing nails which required to be sunk below the surface of the boards.

This man, with no more effort than his associate, did twice the work, and did it better, for he was never "fussed" or out of temper.

It struck me at the time that if we could keep in our minds the particular data we need most while we are working, we would need to spend far less time at any wholly mental work we are doing.

But most minds are badly cluttered, and we have to grope through them for what we want.

Then too we store away in them all sorts of useless information. There may be plenty of room for it, for the amount of things that the memory can retain seems illimitable.

Still it would be far better to have things arranged in order, so that they could be found when wanted, and found quickly.

Naurally we cannot keep our minds card indexed, but we at least can consider and reconsider the knowledge that we need most to use till it is as ready to the mental hands as the hammer and plane and saw were to the hands of the carpenter.

The orderly housekeeper gets her work done much more easily than does the sloven who puts things down when she has done with them, and leaves them there till she needs them again.

Mental processes ought to be as orderly as physical processes.

To those who earn their living with their brains they are especially important.

The faculty of orderly thinking seldom is natural.

But it can be cultivated, and it is a highly valuable and frequently a very remunerative possession.

A DEARTH OF LEADERS

The republican party's lack of leaders grows more acute with the passage of time. No successor to President Coolidge has yet been found. This fact is so alarming to party managers that they constantly give circulation to baseless rumors that Mr. Coolidge is contemplating offering himself for a third term. One bad effect of such tactics has been the starting of rumors that disappointed and hostile aspirants to the presidency are intent upon tripping Mr. Coolidge up in order to eliminate him when the time arrives for the republican party to choose a leader.

It seems that the party in power is in some danger of becoming disorganized over the issue of a future standard bearer. Mr. Coolidge should make his intentions known. In his position, concealment is always questionable, and it is made doubly so by the supine attitude of prominent republicans who should have some independence of opinion. Yet, should the president declare himself, the feverish search for a successor might prove him almost as unsettling as his silence. Because there is really no other available man, everyone close to Mr. Coolidge is enthusiastically forwarding his own cause.

Vice President Dawes has been especially active, and it is said that his activity has been decidedly annoying to the president. A spectacular running-mate and a too conspicious lieutenant are two entirely different propositions. Mr. Coolidge may have liked Dawes' energetic campaigning but he does not relish Dawes' continual stealing of the spotlight. The president's irritation, however, can have nothing to do with Dawes' chances of succeeding him. Precedent is quite as much against the vice president as against Mr. Coolidge. Despite his strenuous efforts to keep before the public, Dawes is already considered unavailable. His failure to create any very great commotion over the revision of the senate rules should appraise him of his political insignificance.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover is in much the same position as Dawes. He is a big man who has practically no political future. He has filled his post so well and has remained on such excellent terms with the president that it has often been supposed he might become Mr. Coolidge's political heir. But this notion does not appeal to the electorate, always opposed to anything which smacks of succession in office as the gift of the predecessor. Moreover, Mr. Hoover is generally regarded as a man without settled party affiliations or political convictions.

Besides Hoover and Dawes there is only former Governor Lowden of Illinois who is big enough to be considered. But Lowden is distrusted on account of the graft charges made in connection with his candidacy in 1920. Thus the field of presidential aspirants remains unpromising and the republican managers can only praise Coolidge and hope for a new Moses.

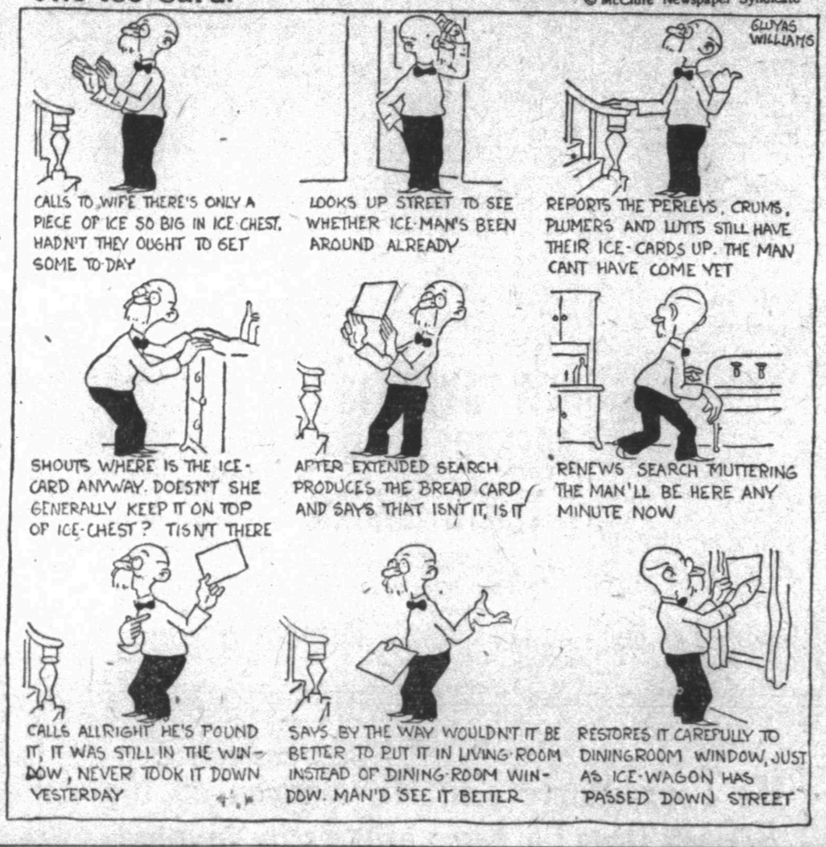

SPEAKING OF THE LOBSTER.

It is said the value of the lobster catch of Maine for 1924 was estimated to be five million dollars. There are 3,700 men engaged in the business in the Pine Tree state and 90 per cent of the catch each year is shipped to the city of New York where there are more two-legged lobsters and two-limbed fairies than can be found in any one of the world's great cities outside of New York. In New York the fairies capture the lobsters and what they do to the lobsters is unfit for public print.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE

Leo.

Today's planetry aspects, from a planetary standpoint, are, while benign, not very favorable, for any commercial undertaking, and rather seem to indicate that it is advisable to let well enough alone, and to avoid change. Routine matters can, of course, receivel the attention that they always demand. The sings indicate very clearly that emotional sentiments will be more favorable today than those of a business character. It is an auspicious occasion for all social reunions or family gatherings, as there will be a strong feeling of comradeship and cooperation. It is also a favorable day for marriage, as those who wed today are promised much lasting happiness.

Children born today will, according t otheir sex, enjoy very similar health conditions, but their temperaments will be strikingly different. They will, both boys and girls, be comparatively free from sickness during the period of infancy, and will, with only a few minor set-backs, attain in due course, physical normalcy. The boy's disposition will be peevish and querulous, and he will rarely show satisfaction with what is done for him, or with the conditions that surround him. On the other hand, he will be a painstaking student, and, if allowed to follow his own bent in the choice of a career, will be successful. girl will be bright and sunny and, above all, uncomplaining. She will radiate happiness, wherever she may be found, and, although not possessing any exceptional intellect, will have a good share of common sense, and materialize into a good wife and mother.

If today is your birthday your character is quite complex. At times you are cautious and canny. At other times, you act on impulse and do things that are censurable, and take risks that are foolhady. You apparently lack a sense of proportion, as you become all worked up over insignificant trifles, but when a great difficulty confronts you, your resourcefulness is admirable, and you invariably discover or create "a happy issue out of your troubles." You never dally with a problem; you grapple with it, and by courage, aided by intuition, a solution is always found.

You are a disciple of outdoor life and enjoy all sports and recreations. you have an affectionate disposition, and very much devoted to your family, and the pleasures of home life.

Orient Head Returns From Finance Session

KANSAS CITY, July 31.—W. T. Kemper, president of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railway, and Clifford Histed, general counsel of the road, have returned from Washington, where they presented the plan of reorganization of the line to examiners for the interstate commerce commission.

Mr. Histed said the commission would hear the report of examiners later and that a final report on the reorganization would not be made for some time.

Wife Pays $400 To Have Husband Slain, Contract Is Sublet

CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP)—A strange tale of murder in which a wife paid $400 to have her husband slain, the hired assassin in turn employed another to do the shooting for $200 and the subsequent filching of the money, the slayer, has been unfolded at the detective bureau here.

The widow of Louis Nobile, slain last December, said she had paid $400 to have her husband slain, claiming that he had abused her daughter by a former marriage. The daughter corroborated her story.

James Salino said he collected the money but claimed he was only the middle man, keeping $200 for his share and having "the job done for the $200 that was left."

Andrew Capa, who admitted the shooting, said his wife had taken the $200 and gone to Milwaukee, where she was arrested. Mrs. Capa's comment was "what's $200?"

HOW IT STARTED

Kissing the Part.

"Come to mother, dear; she'll kiss it and make it better." Isn't this the regular thing when a child sustains an injury, real or imagined? And many a grown-up child, married to another grown-up child, turns to him a wry face with a half-pained, half-playful indication of a squeezed thumb or a stubbed toe! And he kisses it and makes it better.

Little do they realize, those indulgent mothers and husbands, that in this mock ministration they are but imitating the practice of old-time sorcerers who pretended to cure diseases by sucking the affected part. In their superstitious, myth-tenanted age they found the people easy prey to their impositions but today even the baby is sceptical of the curative powers of a kiss on a bruised knee!

They burned witches in old New England: what shall we do with the "pretenders" today?

Spouse Shoots Wife, Thinking Her Thief

AUSTIN, July 31.—Mistaken by her husband for a burglar, Mrs. H. M. Nielson, 56, was shot and almost instantly killed at their home at St. Elmo, four miles south of Austin, Friday morning shortly before 2 o'clock.

Nielson summoned a physician immediately after finding that his shot had struck his wife instead of a supposed intruder. She died a few minutes later.

Dayton Klan to Burn Cross for Commoner

DAYTON, Ohio, July 31.—(AP)—In a paid advertisement today in a local newspaper the ku klux klan invited the public to "attend a memorial service and cross burning for William Jennings Bryan." The ceremonies will be held in a field near here tonight. All klansmen were urged to "bring your robes."

ALLEGED ROBBER ARRESTED.

Believe Man Robbed Postoffice at Dinero.

SAN ANTONIO, July 31.—A man suspected of having robbed the postoffice at Dinero of $1,000 has been arrested at George West, Live Oak county, the office of the San Antonio postoffice inspector has been notified. An inspector from here has been investigating the case.

IRRIGATION

Damages to Be Paid Mr. Waggoner In Case the Dam Breaks.

Dams sometimes break. When they do they often cause great damage and loss of life. Some great catastrophes have been caused through the breaking of a dam and the releasing of a great flood of water on towns and cities below it.

As we saw in a recent article, Mr. Waggoner agrees that he will not be damaged from over flow, but he provides against damage from the breaking of Lake Kemp in section 4, of the contract as follows:

"But party of the first part (the irrigation district) shall not be relieved of legal liability to first party (Mr. Waggoner) or his assigns for damage caused by the breaking of either of said dams.

In a way this is a useless provision because, should Lake Kemp dam break the calamity would be so great that Mr. Waggoner would have great difficulty in finding sufficient assets to satisfy his claim for damage.

It is sure that if the dam should go out when the reservoir was full that the greater portion of Wichita valley farm lands would be wiped out. The business portion of the city of Wichita Falls would be either destroyed or severely damaged.

Collectng damage from over flowing a few miles of pasture lands and the destruction of some ranch houses from a flood stricken city would probably be very difficult.

IRISH TO ELECT SENATORS

Free State to Hold First Elections In Fall.

DUBLIN, July 31.—(AP)—The first elections to the Free State senate, heretofore an entirely nominated body, will take place this autumn. Because of the complicated system of election it is expected to take three months to determine the results. Of the 60 members, 15 are to be elected in addition to four who have been filling vacancies.

The mode of election provides for a panel containing three times as many names as there are seats to be filled. The senate nominates one-third of this panel and the dail two-thirds. In addition outgoing senators may appear on the panel without nomination, so that for the 19 seats the panel will contain 76 names.

The constituency is the whole of the Free States and votes are limited to persons over thirty years of age. The voting is by proportional representation, and the distribution of preferences among 76 names will take many weeks to count. The senate has no real power, the maximum of which is to hold up for 270 days any bill, except a money bill, passed by the dail.

INJURED MAN BLOWS HORN

Passing Truck Driver Comes to Aid of Man Under Car.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., July 31.—(AP)—Persistent moaning of an automobile horn against the button of which the bruised body of Sully I. Chaskin pressed, called a passing truck driver to the point where Chaskin was pinned under his overturned machine on the beach south of this city. Chaskin was dead when doctors reached him.

DERRICKS ARE BLOWN DOWN.

MEXIA, Texas, July 31.—(AP)—All but three derricks in the Richland oil field in Navarro county were blown down last night. Several houses at Tuckerville were damaged. A few persons were reported slightly hurt, but wires were down today and reports could not be verified. Heavy rains made the roads slow.

Following the most obliterated traces of an old track that zigzagged up the steep slope he reached at last the summit of the hill where was a little plateau, and stood for a moment looking searchingly about him.

On his left the ground fell away sharply, sheer down to a narrow gorge beyond which rose ridge after ridge of serrated rock.

Turning to the right he glimpsed the desert far beneath him and a few steps brought him to an easy descent that, winding deviously between huge weather-scarred bowlders, terminated eventually in the gorge which, running north, gave access to the hills as did the southern one by which he had entered.

He had expected to find her on the plateau, but the little tableland was devoid of life.

Again he jerked his head impatiently, his quick temper flaming. How much farther did she imagine he would go in response to the ambiguous message that had reached him? He had ridden hot-foot during the night—was he to spend all day hunting for a maid he had stooped to notice? Scowling fiercely he hesitated, torn between desire that bade him go forward, and a sense of pride that urged him to retrace his steps.

Then he smiled a trifle grimly. To punish her was to punish himself—and having come so far as he was in no mind to return without seeing her.

Throwing back his burnous to free his arms, he strode on down the hill, his hand on the butt of his revolver hidden in his waistcloth.

Once free of the plateau the trail was a blind one, for the huge bowlders hemming him in on every side made only a few yards of the way visible. His senses keenly on the alert he rounded each one swiftly and noiselessly, plunging further and further down the hillside until a sudden sound brought him to an abrupt halt, listening intently.

A thin little reedy sound it was, eching somewhere from amongst the rocks to the right of where he stood.

He turned aside and followed it. In and out of the bowlders he went, treading softly, until he came to a small semicircular recess set between two high walls of rock. Opposite him a great rent in the cliff face gave an open view of the desert as though from the broken window of a ruined building.

And close by this natural peephole she sat—a slender slip of a girl who seemed barely to have left childhood behind her.

Dressed in a black kilted skirt and short brocaded jacket, a bright sash folded about her waist, a velvet sequined cap stuck jauntily on the side of her little head, she was swaying slowly to and fro holding a guesbo to her lips.

Unaware as yet of his presence her whole attention was fixed on a basket, set on the ground before her, from the wide open mouth of which protruded the flat, narrow head and sinuous length of a big black snake. Looping and coiling, making slow feints and passes with its head, the creature was responding, fascinated, to the halting rhythm of the weird illusive melody its mistress was drawing from the little Arab flute.

For perhaps a minute the young man stood watching the lazy evolutions of the reptile and the phant figure of the youthful musician.

Then he spoke.

"Salamalik."

And his deep voiced greeting was like the breaking of a spell.

With an angry hiss the snake slipped swiftly over the side of the basket and vanished amongst the rocks, while the girl leaped to her feet with a tinkle of silver anklets and faced him, wide eyed and [illegible].

Poised like a wild creature meditating flight, she seemed half glad, half fearful of his coming.

And as he went to her she turned away with a little petulant gesture.

"Thou art late," she murmured reproachfully.

"Yet since I am come—what matters it?" he answered lightly. But her welcome was not the one he had expected, and his passionate temper quickened.

"Why art thou here?" he demanded with abrupt masterfulness. "I bade thee meet me on the plateau at dawn."

With womanly intuition beyond her years she refrained from the truthful retort that the dawn had found her shivering and fearful on the hilltop which local superstition assigned as the abode of djinns and afreets, and that terror had driven her to the friendly shelter of the rocks.

She shook her head, drawing a little away from him.

"It is safer here," she whispered with a shiver. But already her eyes were turning to him wistfully.

And scowling down at her in the full flush of his youthful arrogance he caught her furtive glance of mingled awe and appeal, and his face softened while a strange, new feeling ran through him that was like a stab of actual pain.

His slim, brown hands shot out to grip her shoulders. It was the first time that he had ever touched her, and his heart beat furiously as his fingers slowly tightened.

Then, with a gasp, "Yasmin—Yasmin," he cried, and swept her into his arms.

Young as he was he had played with love before, many times. This morning he had thought to play with it again, but fate had tripped him up. For now the close contact of her was awakening him to a knowledge of something deeper and stronger than he had ever known.

His burning gaze devouring her, he drew her closer and still closer, but the purpose that had driven him headlong through the night seemed all at once impossible. He did not understand himself, did not attempt to fathom the impulse that stayed him. He realized only the sudden sense of self-disgust that had come to him, the instinct to spare when he had never spared before. And as he wrestled with himself he could feel her shuddering against him, her supple little body rigid and unbending in his embrace, could see the terror that lay in her big, beseeching eyes.

With a tremendous effort he flung desire from him.

"What dost thou fear, O little trembling one," he murmured. "Is my love so evil that I should harm thee? See, is it so very dreadful a thing—my kiss?" And stooping his tall head suddenly he laid his lips full on her upturned scarlet mouth.

It was an un-Arab form of caress, but he was not prepared for the sharp cry that burst from her nor for the almost hysterical flood of tears that followed.

"Soul of [illegible] soul, how have I hurt thee?" he cried.

But for a time she could not answer. Yielding to his arms at last she clung to him, her face buried in his burnous, weeping as if her heart would break. And, mystified by something beyond his understanding, he waited silently for her explanation. She lifted her head at last, looking at him timidly. "Forgive me, lord," she whispered with a long, sobbing breath, "thou hast not hurt me. 'Twas only that long and long ago—they kissed me like that—when I was a child—and happy."

He stared at her with a puzzled frown. "They—who?" he asked, with a touch of his former peremptoriness.

But she shook her head as if unwilling or unable to enlighten him. "I have forgotten," she replied evasively, her eyes wavering under his. And, his momentary curiosity waning, he did not pursue a subject that was obviously unconnected with their present relationship. There was no cause for jealousy in what were only childish recollections.

Hand in hand they climbed up to the natural peephole and sat down on a broad shelf of rock, overlooking the desert.

For a long time he did not speak. His chin cupped in the palm of his hand, his elbow on his knee, he studied her intently as though he were seeing her for the first time. And with characteristic patience she endured his scrutiny, sitting quietly beside him, her tiny, henna-stained fingers locked round her updrawn knees, waiting until it should please him to address her.

It was a very beautiful little face he looked on, a face strangely sensitive and refined. A wealth of night-black hair shaded features that were regular and well cut—a short delicately shaped nose, small mouth, and shy expressive brown eyes that owed nothing to the kohl that darkened their thick curling lashes.

And from her face his gaze wandered appraisingly over the [illegible] length of her till at last she moved uneasily under his passionate stare, her cheeks flushing hotly.

One small brown hand stole out to him. "Do I please thee?" she hazarded diffidently.

With a half mocking, half tender smile he drew her down till her head rested against his breast. "Thou are not so ill," he conceded teasingly. But the light that shone in his dark eyes satisfied her and for a while she lay still, playing with the golden tassel of his burnous while she listened with a faint smile to his highly imaginative account of the perils of his midnight ride. But her attention was only perfunctory and her thoughts were obviously wandering, for at last she broke in on his narrative, looking up at him with shy intentness.

"Who art thou, lord? Thou hast never told me. I do not even know thy name."

His lips curved in a half smile.

"I am he who loves thee. Is it not enough O daughter of curiosity?" But, undeterred by the evasive answer, she persisted. "Tell me thy name."

The smile vanished and his face hardened somewhat. "Wherefor? What is my name to thee?" he drawled. "Is it a light thing, thinkest thou, to be paesed from mouth to mouth, to be whispered upon the housetops till that whisper reach the market place and all begin to say 'so-and-so has passed this way'?"

"What market place is here?" she retorted, pointing to the open desert, "and I—I do not whisper upon housetops," she added with sudden proud dignity. "'Tis for myself, myself alone, that I would know thy name, O stranger lover." And as he still hesitated she slid her arm around his neck, drawing his head down, her shining eyes all languorous appeal, her red lips pouting. "Tell me," she murmured softly.

For a few moments he did not answer. His black brows drawn together in a heavy scowl, his mouth set obstinately, he stared down at her almost fiercely as if seeking to probe for what lay hidden behind her insistence. Then with a light laugh he pushed her away and lit a cigarette, still watching her behind the wreathing smoke.

"I am called—Ahmed," he said at length.

She started, and a faint look of fear shadowed her face.

"Ahmed," she repeated slowly, "I have heard of a great lord beyond the mountains in the south—a ruler of the tribe of ben Hassan—who bears that name. Art thou akin to him?"

Surprised, he shot her a searching glance that he masked behind indolent, half closed eyes, and then smiled lazily. "Who knows," he answered with a careless shrug. And for a time he smoked in silence, then: "Why dost thou ask? What hast thou heard of Ahmed ben Hassan?" He voiced the question with seeming indifference, stooping forward to flick a gray curl of cigarette ash in the path of a hurrying scavenger beetle.

A shudder went through her and she crept closer, peeping nervously over her shoulder as though she dreaded some unseen listener.

"That he is a demon," she whispered fearfully, her wide eyes full of awe. "No true Arab born of woman but an afreet whom all fear for his strength and power which is above that of mortal man—one who rules his tribe by sorcery and enchantment, who rides swifter than the tempest and whose eye blasts like the fiery bolt from heaven. And he cannot die, for many have sought to kill him and failed. That I have heard, and more I dare not tell thee lest—" she broke off suddenly and drew back, trembling with superstitious terror, striving to read his inscrutable face. "Art thou sure that thou art not akin to him?" she breathed tremulously. With a little laugh he caught and held her fast.

"And if I were—would'st love me less?"

For the fraction of a minute she hesitated, shivering in his grasp. Then a great sob burst from her.

"No—no!" she cried, and clung to him. "Demon or man, I love thee—and I never loved before!" Her little cap had fallen off, and the scent of her dark hair was like a subtle intoxicant as he bent over her, triumphant, and exulting in her beauty.

"Yasmin, my love, my flower of delight—was ever a maid so fair!"

Speech had almost drifted into silence, and, drawn a little apart, they sat gazing into each other's eyes, lost in the wonder of their happiness.

But throughout his swift, tempestuous love-making he had kept a guard over his lips, not appearing to be in any haste to reveal himself or to elucidate the mystery that shrouded his personality.

STEPHENVILLE POISON CASE NEARING END

Defense Witnesses Take Stand in Behalf Of Defendant

STEPHENSVILLE, Texas, July 31.—Two witnesses for the defense Friday revealed in district court here the backbone of evidence on which Dale Clark depends to gain his freedom in the murder case rowing out of death from poison of J. V. Ussery.

Talked in Park.

Arthur Jarrott, star witness for Clark, testified that the last Sunday in April soon before Ussery died, he and Ussery conversed several hours in the city park. During that time, Ussery was seen to swallow three small pills or capsules, which he explaned were "for cancer of the stomach," the witness said.

Jerrott declared on the witness stand that Ussery had told him relations had been "almost perfect" during his married life, adding in detail how the Clark children, a boy 9 and a girl 6, had been taken into the Ussery home and how Clark had moved to a room there.

"Ussery was despondent and frequently tears would come into his eyes," Jarrott testified.

Well Acquainted.

S. P. Boone, chiropractor, testified he was well acquainted with Ussery, who operated a restaurant across the street from Boone's office. The doctor said he frequently had seen Ussery taking tablets, adding that Ussery had told him the tablets contained arsenic and strychnine "for cancer of the stomach."

Character witnesses were to be introduced for Clark Friday afternoon, after which except for possible brief rebuttal testimony for the state, arguments would begin Saturday morning.

Testimony of German bankers regarding a brief note found in Clark's room at the Ussery home indicated that the note was in the same handwriting as a poem written by Ussery. The state had contended the note was by some other person than Ussery. It said, "I have done what I could."

Transparent Fish, Walking Fish, Lightning Fish, Are Few Brought Back By Ship

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP)—A fish with a transparent pane over its stomach, through which its whole internal mechanism can be seen, a fish that walks with eight hands, a fish illuminated with thousands of pin points of light and a devil fish 18 feet across, are among the specimens of marine life brought back today on the ocean-going scientific laboratory Arcturus from its expedition to the Sargasso Sea and the Pacific.

Dr. William Beebe, leader of the party of 14 scientists who dredged, fished, preserved and painted thousands of specimens of oceanic life during the 12,000-mile journey, was enthusiastic over the results achieved. Except for storms which cleared the Sargasso Sea and prevented finding certain varieties of seaweed which were sought, the expedition obtained good results. The party ended its fishing activities about 100 miles from New York at the foot of an undersea cliff 30 feet high, over which the Hudson thundered, 2,000,000 years ago in a greater waterfalls than any now existing on earth, said Mr. Beebe. Some of the most remarkable species were found here.

PLAINVIEW TO START ANNUAL HOME CONTEST

Move Is Made to Begin Interest in Pretty Dwellings

SIMLA, India, July 31.—(AP).—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and his brother, Kermit, and the members of the central Asia hunting expedition they are leading, have reached Yarkand, in eastern Turkestan, with all baggage and personnel. The expedition is traveling to Tianshan by way of the Yakand river. Twenty ponies have been lost during the trip.

The Roosevelt expedition, seeking specimens of rare animals of central Asia, was reported in a radio message from Kashgar received at Simla two weeks ago, to be "five stations away." It was expected the party would soon reach Yarkand, an ancient and important city of Chinese Turkstan on the Yarkand river about 100 miles southeast of Kashgar.

Theodore and Kermit Roosevelt sailed from New York on the first leg of their journey into Asia on April 11. They are hunting in the interests of the James Simpson Field museum of Chicao.,

C. O. D. Postal Delivery Service Between Mexico And U. S. To Be Started

SAN ANTONIO, July 31.—C. O. D. postal service between the United States and Mexico will be inaugurated Saturday, J. W. Fuller, assistant San Antonio postmaster, announced today. Offices eligible to receive and send C. O. D. packages have not been designated but it is expected that all important money order stations will have the service, he declared.

$100 Valuation

The packages will all be sent by registered mail with a $100 valuation limit as in effect in the United States. The fees to be charged will include registration.

In addition to the regular charge of 14 cents a pound from here to Mexico there will be a charge of 30 cents for a $10 valuation; 45 cents for $10 to $50 valuation and 60 cents for $50 to $100 valuation.

The government will be rsponsible for the loss of a C. O. D. package in transit but will not pay indemnity in case the package is rifled and part of the contents stolen.

Government Pay—Maybe

"If you send a suit from here to Mexico and the whole suit is stolen the government will pay for the loss, but if just the trousers are stolen from the package the man is out of luck," postoffice officials explained.

The establishment of the C. O. D. service is an outgrowth of a four-day conference held in the federal building in San Antonio Nov. 15 to 20, when a tentative agreement on the service was reached by United States and Mexican officials.

Millions Die Of Indigestion

Most Common, Yet Insidious of Fatal Diseases, Strikes Like Lightning and When Least Expected.

Protect yourself by strengthening your digestive organs with Ferraline—then eat what you please without fear of trouble.

Nature, with Her infinite wisdom, has provided in Ferraline a quick and sure relief for the millions who are living in constant fear of that dreaded disease—Indigestion. Ferraline is not concoction made by man but is a strictly natural product, and contains the essential elements which Nature has provided to strengthen and tone up the weakened organs of digestion.

Indigestion and weak blood march hand-in-hand. No dyspeptic can have pure rich blood until his digestion is made perfect again. Stomach disorders always weaken the blood and weak blood causes anaemia, weakness, and nervousness.

If you have had warnings of Indigestion, do not delay another day to accept the positive guarantee that your money will be promptly and cheerfully refunded if the very first bottle of Ferraline does not give you relief. Don't be misled into believing that heart-burn, gas, bloating, constipation, biliousness, sick-stomach, heart and kidney pains will gradually go away. These are danger signals warning you that the dread disease, Indigestion, is gradually sapping your very life. Regenerate your digestive organs at once with Ferraline, then you can eat three good meals every day without discomfort. A 10-days treatment of Ferraline will cost you only One Dollar at your druggists. The Ferraline Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Ad

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, July 31.—(AP)—The cotton market was nervous today and prices fluctuated in a fairly wide range while trading was at times quite brisk. During the morning despite favorable cables the market declined to new low levels for the movement showing losses of 29 to 32 points on the more active trading months, compared with yesterday's close. All of this loss was recovered in the later trading owing to more favorable strike news from Liverpool and to fears that Secretary Hester's annual figures tomorrow would show bullish consumption and carry-over totals. Fear of increasing activity of insect pests due to the frequent rains in the central and eastern belts probably helped the rally. The close showed no change in October at net loss of six points on December and practically no change on later positions. When the market started, Liverpool was better than due but the local market ignored Liverpool and opened 20 to 22 points down and added to the losses during the early trading until October traded at 23.44 and December at 23.58. At these levels fair trade buying began and the market commenced to improve on covering over the week-end. The day's highest levels were reached near the end with October at 23.76 and December at 23.87.

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP)—A further downward revision of prices took place in today's stock market, the usual large volume of week-end profit taking was augmented by professional bear selling apparently inspired by reports of gasoline "price cutting war" in certain sections of the country, and reductions in certain popular automobile models and the marking up of call money rates.

Trading was on a fairly broad scale, the day's sales aggregating about 1,500,000 shares.

The weekly mercantile reviews reported improvement in the general business situation.

Steel shares lost ground in the face of favorable trade news. U. S. Steel common and Bethlehem each closed about a point lower; Crucible showed a net loss of 1⅝ and SSloss-Sheffield dropped 2½.

Selling of the auto issues centered largely in such recent strong spots as White, Mack Truck and Fisher body. Martin-Parry and Murray body sank to new low levels for the year. Spicer Manufacturing continued to show independent strength touching a record high at 32 and closing slightly below that figure for a net gain of 1⅝ on the day. Pierce Arrow prior preferred broke 17 points on the sale.

Despite the heaviness of the general list bullish operations were successfully conducted in a number of issues. New York canners soared over six points to a record high at 49¼ closing within a point of the top. Frank G. Shattuck moved up over three points to a new high at 74⅜ and General Electric showed a maximum gain of about six points at 296¼. Further accumulation of Loew's Inc., in anticipation of a higher dividend, carried that stock to a new high at 31⅝.

Call money renewed at four per cent but advanced to 4½ in the afternoon in reflection of heavy withdrawals in connection with heavy week-end and month end requirements. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Renewal of selling pressure against the Scandinavian exchanges featured the irregular foreign exchange market. Danish kroner broke about 65 points to around 22.05 cents and Norwegian kroner fell back 40 points to 18.05 cents. Demand sterling held firm around 4.85¼ indicating hope of an amicable settlement of the miners wage controversy. French francs were slightly lower around 4.75½.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Despite numerous irregularities visible in crops, trade and industry—Spottish is still a frequently used characterization—the feeling of cheerfulness, in some sections optimism is the word is very noticeable. As to crops, it is admitted that few of these promise as large yields as a year ago, but the prevailing levels of most prices seem to more than offset any disappointment felt at the smaller than expected returns so far indicated.

As to trade and industry, there is reason to believe that the ebb in tone from the disappointment of the spring is still operative, aided by the knowledge that things generally are better than they were a year ago, although none the less evidently below the best of some earlier years. Finally, there seems quite considerable growth of the idea that the turn for the better some time ago, merely hoped for is now well under way, and that the future holds a fairly satisfactory business prospect.

Weekly bank clearings $8,228,355,000.

WOOL.

BOSTON, July 31.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"The wool market has been irregular and rather on the easy side this week, trade being held up to ascertain the action to the opening of light weight goods by American Wool company and the outcome of the readjustments in wages both here and in Yorkshire. Where concessions have been made they have been only of a minor nature, likely to occur in any dull market, and frequently prices as high as ever have been paid. Results on the goods opening thus far have been rather encouraging. Quotations:

"Scoured basis:

"Texas, fine 12 months (selected) $1.30@1.32; fine 8 months, $1.15@1.20."

TEXAS HAY.

AUSTIN, July 31.—Prairie hay slightly easier this morning, but alfalfa and timothy fully steady. Off grade is still in comparatively poor demand on account free offering of good quality. No. 1 timothy, Boston $23.50; New York $26.00; Pittsburgh $23.00; Cincinnati $21.00; Chicago $25.00; St. Louis $19.50; Kansas City $15.00. No. 1 alfalfa, Kansas City $19.00; Omaha $16.75. No. 1 prairie, Kansas City $11.00; Omaha $13.00; Chicago $17.00; St. Louis $17.00; Minneapolis $16.00.

Crops Suffered More Than Usual Says Statistician

Sorghum Crop in Northwest Texas Only One to Show Unusually Good

HOUSTON, July 31.—H. H. Schutz, government statistician here, brings Texas face to face with weather crop and business conditions in his monthly report, made public today.

"Under the influence of excessively high temperatures and hot winds, crop conditions over the state have undergone more than ther normal decline during this period of the year," he recites. "An area involving 64 counties, which include a large proportion of the productive black lands, is in very poor condition. This region last year produced practically two-fifths of the 4,952,000 bales of cotton made, as well as 35 per cent of the oats, 40 per cent of the corn and 30 per cent of the hay.

"Since July, 1924, one one-half of the normal rainfall has fallen in the state and even less than this amount over the south and central districts. In the remaining 190 counties conditions range from fair to very good. Both the wheat and oat crops have been short and the corn crop will be the smallest in many years. Grain sorghums are doing well in the main producing sections, but unless rains come soon, the hay crop will be even shorter than last year.

"Sales of arsenical poisons are increasing with the spread of leaf worm and weevil. Live stock conditions are very poor in the drouth area but in other sections their condition varies from poor to good. The wool and mohair clips are lighter than in 1924 and the calf, lamb and kid crops are smaller. In the drouth area work animals are being shipped to pasture to remain until conditions improve. Many workers are leaving for the towns to find employment.

"Pending outcome of the present disturbed conditions, business is being conducted on a very conservative basis, merchants buying actual requirements only. Country buying has fallen off abruptly in the south-central area. Banks have noted a decline in deposits and borrowing from the Federal Reserve bank has shown an increase. Except in the cities and in portions of the developing western region, building activities show a decline. Row binders are being sold in increasing numbers in the northwestern part of the state where a good grain sorghum harvest is expected. In the rice district, in the truck and fruit sections and in scattered localities elsewhere, conditions continue to be very good. There is an abundant supply of labor for all purposes."

Keeping It to Himself.

Lillian and Roger had talked things over calmly and sensibly, and had hit on an excellent plan which seemed destined to solve all the troubles of engaged couples.

They had agreed that if one of them became angry with the other about some trifle that would ordinarily precipitate a quarrel—the angry member of the contract would keep his woes to himself and say nothing to the other party until the storm had blown over.

Being sensible young people they realized that most of these storms do blow over if given sufficient time.

They agreed on this excellent plan one Sunday afternoon, and Roger went home rejoicing in his heart that he had had the good fortune to win so eminently practical a fiance as Lillian.

On Monday night they had a date at her house for dinner, and Roger was rather surprised on arriving tired and dusty from the office to find two of Lillian's youngest and silliest friends there.

He was rather aggrieved too, because they saw so many people during the entire week, it did seem that Lillian might have kept this one evening clear for him. Besides he hated these two giggling, simpering friends of hers.

The more he listened to their idle chatter and watched Lillian's apparent enjoyment in it, the more bored and annoyed he grew.

Surely this was a very bad sign. If Lillian liked this sort of table talk he might have to submit to it all during their married life together. He might never have an evening alone with his wife.

It was quite plain that she didn't want to be alone with him much, for she was always inviting friends to dine with her on his especial nights.

Still he remembered their agreement and said nothing to her about this gnawing fear that was preying on his mind.

Lillian, watching his bored and unhappy expression, was at a loss to account for it. Was it something she had said? Had things gone wrong at the office? Perhaps he didn't like the dress she was wearing.

As he was leaving she asked him quietly: "Is anything wrong?"

"Nothing at all," he assured her stiffly and left abruptly.

Wednesday Lillian again had friends for dinner. Roger had known they would be there; he had thought it was an excellent idea on Sunday, but now with the growing conviction in his mind that Lillian preferred the company of other people to his, alone, he became more moody and depressed than ever.

A ghastly week followed, and then of course neither could keep quiet any longer and the whole awful truth was blurted out by Roger. Lillian was speechless with amazement and then amusement: "Why I didn't want those awful girls here Monday night," she told him. "They asked me whether they could stay and I had to say yes."

ULTRA-VILOET RAYS PROVEN TO BE HEALING

Powerful Effects of The Treatment Said to Be Beneficial

MANHATTAN, July 31.—(AP)—"Artificial sunshine"—light from quarts mercury-vapor lamps—is being successfully employed in the treatment of injured and diseased animals at the veterinary clinic of the Kansas State Agricultural college by Dr. E. J. Frick, and Dr. John Bullard.

Good Results

Such good results have been obtained from the use of the ultra-violet light produced by these lamps that Doctor Frick and Doctor Bullard believe them a most valuable adjunct in the treatment of many animals diseases and have found that in some cases the light treatment is sufficient to bring about complete recovery.

Of eight typical canine distemper cases, the veterinarians reported recently, five recovered in period of from two to four weeks' time after a daily exposure of 20 minutes to the ultra-violet ray. Three dogs not given the ultra-violet treatment during the same period all died. Only five days, with 20 minutes of exposure daily, were required to cure an acute case of moist eczema on a large bull terrier brought to the clinic. This rapid recovery was reported in many similar cases.

Rays Beneficial

In the treatment of wounds, the ultra-violet ray also was found beneficial. The two doctors cite one case, that of Helcum Burr, a coursing greyhound which was brought here for treatment after having torn loose a toe in a race. The leg was bandaged too tightly and in three days all the bones of the injured foot were exposed. After surgical treat-ultra-violet ray and given daily treatments. The wound healed with unusual rapidity and with almost entire absence of pus formation.

In research work on animals by Dr. J. S. Hughes of the department of chemistry at the college it has been shown that ultra-violet light increases egg production and hatichability of eggs produced by poultry, and prevents and cures outbreaks of weak legs and rickets in chickens.

NOTED SCIENTIST SUCCUMBS.

Eminent Psycho-Analyst and Co-Worker of Freud Is Dead.

VIENNA, July 31.— (AP)—Dr. Joseph Breuer, one of the most widely noted of psycho-analysts, died recently at the age of 83. As early as 1882 he was credited with curing with the aid of hypnosis a pronounced case of hysteria in a woman.

It was this epoch making cure which is said to have led Dr. Sigmund Freud, 14 years younger than Dr. Breuer, to build up a psycho-analytic system of his own. Subsequently, bot hscientists collaborated in setting down their experiences on this subject in a book called "The Psychic Mechanism of Hysterical Problems," published in 1893, and in a later publication, "Hysteria."

Dr. Breuer did not entirely approve of the theories which Freud continued to advance and soon gave up further analytical research work, but his personal relations with Freud continued unmarred.

Walther League Delegates Told That Christ Is Only Hope

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31—(AP) The Rev. H. C. Nitz, missionary to the Apache Indians, told the Walther league in convention here that "after diagnosing the symptoms of our country's ailments," there is but one remedy—"Jesus Christ, the Savior of the World."

"The poiltical situation in our country is far from the ideals embodied in our constitution; there is too much corruption, graft and injustice," he asserted. "Financially out country is reckless. Socially we are all but bankrupt. Our family life is in a sorry state. And religiously we are degenerate.

"Worldly ideas and ideals have crept into the church to such an extent that it is often difficult to tell the worldly-conformed Christian from the child of the world. Family worship is fast disappearing. Individual Bible study is at a low ebb.

"Styles of dress are becoming ever more bizarre, indecent, unchaste. And this is a mark of degeneracy, for the apparel oft proclaims the man.'

"The only help for America is Jesus Christ and His gospel of gracious salvation. The only workable method toward a desired change is the preaching of the Savior, with which simple story the Apostles entered the centers of idolatrous and adulterous heathendom and turned the world upside down.' And the reformation with all its blessings is entirely the result of Jesus and His love.' That story alone can win America for Christ.

AGAINST PROFITEERS

Proceedings Instituted Against Too Many Profits

SOFIA, July 31.—(AP)—Minister of the Interior Russeff has directed the cheif commission of provisions to begin proceedings against fruit and vegetable merchants in half a dozen cities to compel them to sell their produce at reasonable prices. Complaints had been made that prices three times as large as they should be were being charged. Some milkmen, who were said to be charging excessive prices, also were included.

The provision authorities were instructed by the minister not only to fine those found guilty of profiteering but to impose prison sentences of one year as well.

S. DAKOTA GAS WAR STARTS

PIERRE, S. D., July 31.—(AP) South Dakota's "war" against high gasoline prices opened today with state owned filling stations in at least three cities retailing motor fuel at from 2 to 4 cents less a gallon than the price charged by privately owned companies.

Tillman County One Of Best for Cotton

FREDERICK, Okla., July 31.—Tillman county was the fourth largest cotton producing county in the United States during the cotton season last year, according to a report issued by the Associated Ginners. Frederick ginned close to 34,000 bales and leads the entire country.

Ellis county, Texas, led the entire field in individual production with 122,241 bales, and Williamson county, Texas, came second with 106,673. Jackson county, in Oklahoma, took third place with a total of 104,350 bales and Tillman county captured fourth place with 98,437 bales.

Fake Funeral Stops Wedding; Suit Filed

Peking, July 31.—(AP)—How the grandmother of a 16-year-old Chinese girl, Miss Lu, untangled a matrimonial snarl by means of a pretended funeral wherein the granddaughter was cast for the chief role is current teahouse gossip. Miss Lu was affianced to Mou Yung-Ching, 24, who was in the service of Chief Executive Tsao Kun. Mou had social position and had saved some money, and the marriage was to have occurred in July. While preparations were under way, however, it became known to the parents of Miss Lu that Mou had lost his situation in the executive household and had squandered his savings.

An engagement between Chinese young people is a serious affair, involving the honor of both families. It is a contract not easily annulled, so that the question of saving their daughter from union with a penniless husband gave the parents of Miss Lu great concern. When they had about decided that there was no way out, the grandmother stepped into the breach. She caused a coffin to be purchased and brought to the family home. The family went into mourning and word was spread abroad that Miss Lou was dead. The funeral was carried out in most solemn style, one of the conspicious morner, being Mou Yung-Ching.

After it was all over Mou discovered the ruse and learned that his promised bride had been spirited away and married to another who was well to do and who had assumed all the expense of the funeral and mourning. Mou is reported to be suing the parents for breach of contract and damages.

RADIO ON RAILWAYS

TOKYO, July 31.—(AP)—Eight special coaches are under construction by the Japanese railway department to be used in experimenting with radio service for passengers. The train will be equipped with the vacuum-typed dual system radio apparatus with an antenna over the entire length of the carriages. It is expected that operators on the train will be able to broadcast messages and also receive telegrams from the various stations. In addition radio loud-speakers will be installed so the passengers may be entertained by news dispatches and musical programs.

More Truth Than Poetry

TAKING IT EASY.

Things are not as they ought to be,
  The future isn't bright,
But what is that to you or me?
  We cannot put 'em right!
This world that we are living in
  Is full of evil powers,
But though said powers always win—
  It's no affair of ours.

The rich get richer, right along,
  The poor get poorer, too,
But though this probably is wrong,
  What is there we can do?
All sorts of worriment play hob
  With half the human clan,
Suppose they do. It's not our job
  To save our fellow man.

One Hamlet found the poor old earth
  Was filled with sore despite,
And tried for all that he was worth
  To set it's troubles right.
And did his good intentions thrive?
  And did he even find
That he could keep himself alive?
  No, nothing of the kind!

So let the world roll on its way,
  Let people fight and fuss
And view their troubles with dismay—
  It needn't worry us.
Let's laugh and love and sing and dance
  Like merry gentlemen;
However—should we meet mischance—
  That's something else again!

CHAMPS, ALL RIGHT!

The Spudders are real champions! Surest thing.

May not be league champs, nor cellar champs either, but they've inherited the hard luck gonfalon mittens down.

Another gold etched, silk sheened, glittering opportunity went flippety-flopping into history Friday without being scored on. Underslung Wacoans busted the Cats; eccentric Steers kicked Buffs, and Spudders missed a chance to gain a game on the leaders because of a ninth-inning fatality down in San Antonio.

THE BREAKS, THE BREAKS!

Walt Golvin, king of the first nackers who twisted an ankle in the game Thursday, comes struggling in on crutches this morning, according to wire from Tanner.

X-ray taken of injured member Friday morning indicates a bone is chipped in Golvin's ankle, said Tanner. He'll be out of the game for several weeks, is opinion expressed.

Meantime, Distel works at the initial station station and Tanner on short. George is a wonderful infielder but a mighty small target to shoot at around the first cushion.

MAYBE SCHWAB.

There is a possibility of Tanner talking with Beaumont about recalling Harry Schwab to fill in at first until Golvin can don the monkey suit again. Schwab was sent to Beaumont under option, but was not to have been recalled before the end of the season.

ALEX COMES BACK.

Acting President Buddy Gardner Friday recaled Alex Metzler from Ardmore of the Western association. The young Spudder outfielder was sent to Whiteman's club early this season, and has been going great guns both afield and with the willow.

Metzler is to report to the Spudders immediately. It is more than likely that he will be carried as a pinch hitter.

TOUGH ALL AROUND

If Taner does not take up the Schwab matter, the first basing situation will prove a tough one to handle. Somebody will have to be brought in from somewhere. Williams can play first, but with the Wheeler departure the staff is short handed. Incidentally, Carl has not as yet returned to his pitching form the lack of which was caused by long layoffs, first an eye injury and then enforced outfield work.

THEY WANT RIP

Speaking of Wheeler, wires are coming in daily from clubs in other leagues seeking his services. Several clubs in the Southern want to purchase him outright, but first he would have to be waivered out of the Texas league, and there's several clubs which no doubt would jump at the chance to snare the Ripper.

Khadot Poles Triple With Runner on After Two Are Out

SAN ANTONIO, July 31. (AP)—Khadot's three bagger scoring Wirts after the latter had walked with two down in the ninth won the final game for the Bears Friday afternoon 6 to 5.

The Bears got a two run start in the first inning by bunching three hits. Gonzales walked. Gonzales stopped at second on Meyers' single to left. Nason poped out to Turgeon. Gonzales scored and Meyers stopped at second on Danny Clark's single to left. Rosenthal singled to center, scoring Meyers and sending Clark to third. Roberts tightened up, fanned Washburn, and forced Wirts to hit an easy bounder to Turgeon for the third out.

Spuds Four in Third

The Spudders counted four times in the third inning. Dorman flied to right. Query doubled to center and scored on Roberts' single to the same field. Distel singled past short, sending Roberts to second. Callaghan singled to center scoring Roberts and sending Distel to third. Bodie singled to center scoring Distel and sending Callaghan to second. Fitzgerald forced Bodie at second, second to short, and Callaghan scored when Khadot threw wild at first in an attempt to complete a double play. Fitzgerald was held at first.

San Antonio tied the count in the fifth. Gonzales was called out on strikes and Meyers swung for the third one. Singles by Nason and Clark, a walk to Rosenthal filled the bases. Booe batted for Washburn and singled to center, scoring Nason and Clark.

Lead in Sixth

The Spudders took the lead again in the sixth. Bodie singled past short. Fitzgerald hit to first who threw wild to second after Bodie. Bodie took third, and Fitzgerald held first. Bodie scored when Turgeon forced Fitzgerald at second. Tanner was called out on strikes. Lindsey balked and then began to argue too heatedly and was banished from the game. Watt was sent to the mound.

A single by Clark, an infield out, Booe's single, and Roberts' balk again tied the count in the seventh.

Dempsey Asks Commish Its Indulgence—"Agreed On no Bout"

LOS ANGELES, July 31.—Jack Dempsey today telegraphed the New York boxing commission asking its indulgence in the matter of his delayed appearance before it and flatly denying that he had "signed or consented to box any one other than Harry Wills," the commission's choice of an opponent for him.

Dempsey's telegram in full, as given out by his publicity representative, read:

"Hon. James H. Farley.
"Chairman state athletic commission,
"New York:
"Am sending you an airplane letter which best explains conditions of my clearing up my affairs with Jack Kearns. It involves a lot of money and settlement has been partly perfected. Fair consideration would not have you insist or expect me to make big financial sacrifice.
"You and your official associates will appreciate that one's private business concerns only himself. I have signified an earnest necessity in agreeing to match with Harry Wills on the commission's expected demands and to which I do not except.
"Mr. Kearns now knows that I will hereafter act for myself for my professional engagements.
"Having not the least inclination to ignore your honorable body, for which I still hold proper respect, I request that consideration of match with Wills, with my appearance before commission, receive a reasonable official attention.
"Regardless of what enterprising and extreme newspaper boys say, I have not signed nor agreed to fight any one as yet but Harry Wills.
"Respectfully yours,
"JACK DEMPSEY.
"World's heavyweight champion."

Peyton Won't Be With Texhomas In Title Series

Pap Peyton, Texhoma slab artist, left Thursday night for Houston and Rabbit Gordon states he is not expected back for the Twilight title series. This will be a bad break for the Oilers as Peyton was greatly depended upon in the coming games. With the leaving of Payton, Gordon has four pitchers left for the play off—McDuffy, Thompson, Randolph and Trout.

Mathis Would Play Series Off Before Shadie Gets Back

Fat Mathis is very much in favor of getting the Twilight playoff out of the way before Shadie Hale airs into town. With Shadie in the Texhoma lineup that club is 50 per cent better, according to Fat Mathis.

Cub Star Nearly Goes Out at Home

CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP).—Charley Grimm, Chicago Cub star first baseman, was credited yesterday with a $3,000 error, but it did not get into the box score.

Before yesterday's game, Grimm called for his wife's jewels, valued at $3000 at a jeweler's where they had been left for cleaning. He tossed them into the back seat of his automobile, took it to a garage and let his mind concentrate on improving his batting average.

Mrs. Grimm's inquiry regarding the gems at supper time sent the first baseman hot-footing to the garage. The gems were gone.

Detectives found a garage employe had hidden them under the back seat of the automobile. They recovered them and gave them to Grimm.

Charley made a home run—but not in the box score.

Weismuller Clips World Swim Mark

SEATTLE, July 31.—(AP)—John Weismuller of Chicago in a special race in this channel today surpassed the world record for the 100-yard free style, swimming it in 50.4 seconds.

He had a strong wind obliquely at his back and the time was two seconds faster than the previous record, which Weismuller made at Miami, Fla., February 17, 1924.

But Two Contests Needed, Says Rab

Rabbit Gordon figures the Twilight playoff to go but two games. In fact he declares he's willing to place a little wager that such will be the case. Must figure on losing both or maybe winning both. Which?

SAMARTICUS VICTOR.

SARATOGA, SPRINGS, N. Y., July 31.—(AP)—Robert L. Gerry's bay colt samarticus won the $5,000 flash stakes, 2-year-old feature of the opening card at the Saratoga track today. Samarticus won in a driving finish from the Idle Hour farm's Blockhead, ridden by Earle Sande with H. P. Whitney's Fiddle Sticks third. The winner covered the five and one-half furlongs in 1:06 4-5.

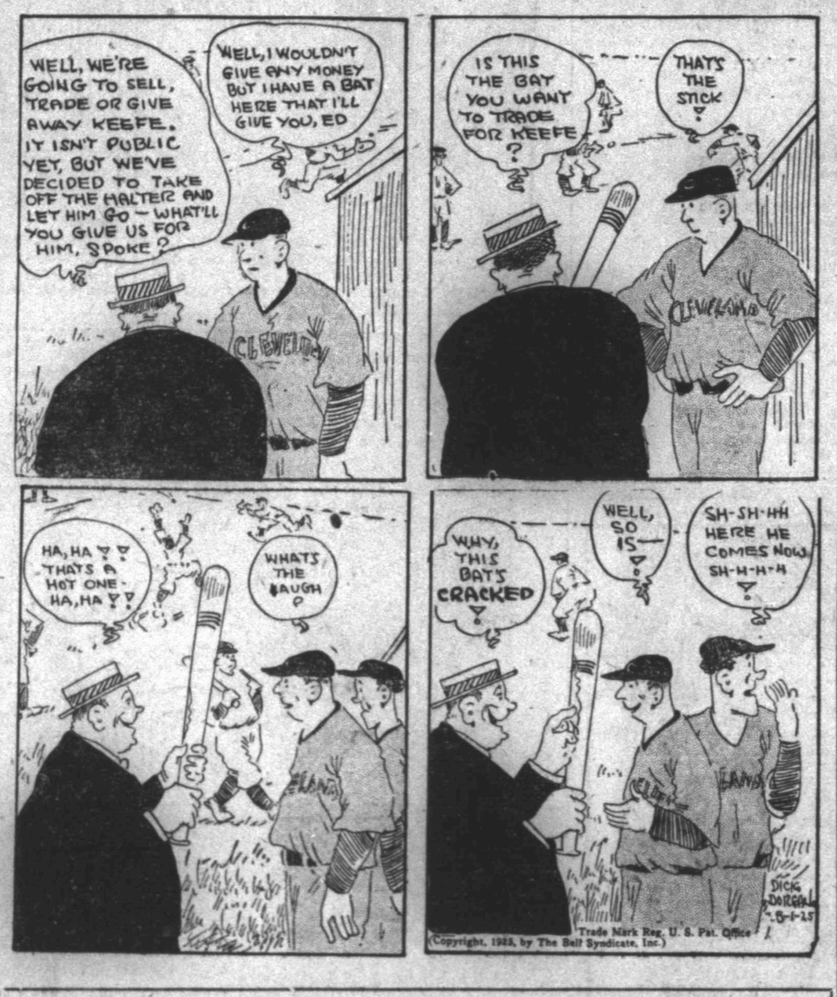

OUR COMICAL CURRENCY.

The Milwaukee Journal advertises "an excursion to the Dells for less than a $4 bill."

Getting about the country one becomes more and more impressed with the thought that folks who plaster a lot of labels on their valises don't amount to much.

Fable: Once upon a time there was a golfer who made a hole in one and never mentioned the fact to a single person. He was a deaf and dumb man.

White Wins By Wide Margin Over Duke With Whirlwind Finish

TOMMY ALL BUT SCORES K. O. IN TENTH

Trammel Jars Opponent In First, Loses Rest Of Way

By BLONDY CROSS.

When you can't hit a man how're you going to knock him out?

That's the thought that worried Duke Trammel, Fort Worth welterweight knockout king, last night in his return engagement, a ten-rounder, with Tommy White, the sturdy little Texas City mauler.

Trammel landed a pair of hooking right-hand side-swipes in the opening round, dazing White momentarily on each occasion. This gave Trammel the round, but after that Duke missed the target, whereas White had too many boxing gloves with him.

Great Finish.

Leather flew from all directions for nine cantos with White usually on the chunking end. Flying mittens landed on every square inch of Trammel's anatomy from his belt line to the top of his dome. It was White's fight by a wide margin made the more so by a frenzied attack launched in the final frame by the Texas City gladiator that, if appearances augur anything, all but stowed the Wichita Falls favorite away. Trammel was hanging on, running, cringing and wobbling in that final chapter as Tommy swung 'em over from the top, chugged 'em up from the bottom, and hooked away furiously, but the Trammel defense was too compact, and the Fort Worth youngster was still on his feet and still able to smile when the gong sounded, ending the melee.

White beat Duke here two weeks or so back. He beat him at infighting with an occasional bit of long range sharp-shooting. Last night's fight was a bit of repetition except that the boys waged a better, harder and faster mill. Duke looked better in all but that last round. White fought harder than in the other bout.

Wilder Made Mistake.

Freddy Wilder, the Pacific coast scrapper who recently issued a challenge to White, had better get as far away from the Texas City mug masseur as possible. Wilder was given Jack Denton of Tahoka last night with which to display his wares. Wilder won the decision in a sluggish affair, but Denton didn't look his best. The bout was an eight-rounder and no material harm was accomplished by either boxer in any one of 'em.

Referee Deadwiley stopped a scheduled four-rounder between Jimmy Ryan of Wichita Falls and Kid Masters, Altus middleweight, in the first round, awarding the verdict to Masters after a flurry of gloves had put Ryan practically out on his feet.

Sundown Kid, negro welter, was given a decision over Kid Norford, another dark mauler, in six rounds. Sundown was in better condition. Norford did most of the leading.

There was a four-round curtain raiser between a couple of newsboys.

New Baylor Tennis Coach Depends On Wichita Falls Pair

WACO.—Jim Crow, line coach for the Baylor university gridiron warriors has been appointed head coach of the Bear tennis squad, it was announced from the athletic office this week.

Of this year's team Crow will have Bill Powers and C. C. (Pee-Wee) Haynes, the two Wichita Falls sensations, Tommy Armstrong of Waco as his mainstays. No captain has been elected for the tennis team because Powers, Haynes and Armstrong have been away for some time participating in state and eastern meets.

KIRK JOINS BEAR STAFF.
Former Bruin Star Line Crack of Baylor Frosh.

WACO.—George Kirk of Ballinger, Texas, former football star and all Southwestern center in 1922 on the Baylor university eleven, has just been named as lin coach for the Baylor freshman team. Kirk will assist Steinie Strickland, Cub coach. Kirk succeeds Potts Anderson who becomes athletic director at Wayland college, Plainview, Texas.

The PASSING HOUR
by Wm. B. Ruggles

THE REVERY

There comes a time to those who wear the glove
And earn their living in the resined ring—
When Fate stands back of youth to give the shove
That makes a champion but a beaten thing;
They who fought upward with red-blooded urge,
Old-broken-watch leer back through that last haze
The forms that once drove with resistless surge—
The gray ghosts of a fighter's yesterdays.

Life's little different from the canvas square
Where man meets man and but the best survive—
We strive when youth its blue days bring and fair—
Red blooded battling keeps young years alive;
But at the end beside the fire-sides glow,
While retrospection with the fancy plays,
We dream of that far golden long ago
And watch the gay ghosts of our yesterdays.

CISCO has a champion pie eater. Training for the tournament must be satisfactory process.

PROBABLY pie eaters agree to make so much weight and haggle over whether it is to be ringside or 3 o'clock weighing.

THINK of the terrible predicament of a pie eater who has agreed to weigh 195 at 3 o'clock and weighs 195 pounds 4 ounces.

The Origin of the Species.

A STAFF correspondent of the World conveys an intelligent aspect to the Scopes case at Dayton by revealing that the be-spectacled young man overshadowed by his trial was really hired as the football coach and that the teaching of science was only a necessary adjunct to his work to provide the pay as Dayton, like most other small communities, has no appropriation from which to pay a coach per se.

It is all over now and the jury has returned a verdict of guilty, but it occurs that herein lies logical ground in presenting an appeal to a higher court on a basis of additional facts.

Surely any jury would take cognizance of the fact that a young man brought in contact with the raw of a football squad would have almost conclusive proof of the theory of evolution.

Young Mr. Scopes' publicity was not so much forced upon him as grown upon him by avocation. The football coach is reasonably convinced that there must have been a missing link.

AND the baseball manager is convinced of it.

BILL HOLLOWAY the Plumber favors restoring the baseball rules of 1846 when the team to first score 21 points won. A lot of 1925 games would not have passed the first inning on that theory and fewer supports would have been missed.

Top Weight.

THE theory of weights in race handicapping is always interesting to the rank outsider who frequently finds things to amaze him in the final list. Here is a case in point when next Friday Mad Play goes to the post in the mile-and-quarter Saratoga carrying the top weight of 129 pounds.

May Play rates the high impest but under what theory do Ladkin and Sarazen carl, four pounds less—the former an international special winner in 1924 and Sarazen one of the best of the last two seasons' crop of runners. Why should Sting, winner of the Metropolitan and Suburban, hoist only 124?

MURCHISON and Paddock say they are willing to leave the question of their amateur status up to the American AAU. Nearly any party on trial would leave the verdict up to his own lawyer.

THE FRANKFORD NEWS says that the hard-earned dollar has almost disappeared from circulation. Well some of the boys still have to make theirs battling against Walter Johnson.

THE chief indication that Bouncing Harry Greb is going back is that Dempsey says he will meet him.

The Point At Issue.

IN RE. the case of Large Bill Tilden and his interviews to his own press syndicate.

It can only be repeated that in this device, Large William has out-smarted the rule makers and so far as the naked eye can preceive, violated neither the letter nor the spirit of the new amateur rule, no matter how much other newspaper representatives may rave. Doubtless he is breaking wide open tennis ethics, but what is a little ethic between champions?

The late Bradley Hogue, long a tennis champion, happened to follow as his life avocation editorial writing for the Dallas Times-Herald. Mr. Hogue's entire career was thoroughly ethical and he never dabbled in the domain of tennis criticism. Nor when asked concerning his chosen game would he refuse information to representatives of other papers. As a matter of fact, he frequently went out of his way to call up other papers to see that they got news items of the Dallas Lawn Tennis club.

But had Mr. Hogue on any state or Southwestern tournament in which he was engaged elected to give interviews on his own play or that of any other participant and to give them solely to the newspaper for which he worked, it would be a far-stretching of the amateur rule to hold that thereby he became a pro.

Yet this in effect is exactly what is sought in the present case of Tilden, which is identical except that Large Bill is only a newspaper man because he is a tennis champion.

PADDOCK and Murchison it also develops are newspaper men. Journalism is becoming a highly crowded profession.

But That Was Once Upon a Time

ONCE upon a time the feat of hammering out two home runs in a single game was something to talk about. It has been included for several years in Texas league statistics among unusual feats and the average since 1920 has been ten occurences of the like per year.

This year's figures will have to omit the count. It is customary an occurrence that it could be called only very ordinary.

Through the games of Sunday last, three home runs in a single game had been achieved by batters six times in the 1925 campaign while no less than 35 times, two home runs had been bafted in a nine-inning contest.

Twelve players have turned the latter feat two or more times this year. Konetchy of Fort Worth has done it five times. Clark of San Antonio four, McCurdy of Houston and Rosenthal of San Antonio three times each. The two-timesrs are Brovold, Bodie, Peel, Sears, Galloway, Meyers, Foss and Turgeon.

The real feat these days is to hit two triples in a single game. This has been done only three times this year and of course in the big parks—twice in Beaumont, where it is a mile to the left field fence, and once in Wichita Falls, where a drive to any one of the fields might go for three bases under given conditions.

Never Trailed a Winner.

With the release of "Tex" McDonald by Shreveport Friday, a picturesque figure passes probably forever both from the ranks of the Texas league and of professional baseball, for he has asserted that he would not finish the string in a lower league and will probably refuse to go to Alexandria.

McDonald is a good ball player who missed by many rods being a great one and who has trailed here and through the minor circuits with a curious history attached—he never trailed with a winner.

"Tex"—his real name is Charles Crabtree and he took over the McDonald from his step-father—hailed originally from Farmersville, was a star on the old Longview Cannibals, one of the finest semi-pro organizations developed in Texas and started his professional career with Joe Gardner in Dallas.

Sweet saints, how he could hit! He led the National league for half a season once before he was shunted to the minors. But the point with McDonald is that he was the original jinx. He succeeded in breaking up great winning streaks. Something could always happen to him just as a team was getting started. He was even shot once. Managers came to look at him as the hoodoo and they steered clear.

Tex still seemed to be playing good baseball this year and he was still hitting. But as usual his club was not winning—and out he went.

(To Messrs. Nurmi, Paddock and Murchison.)

Lives of amateurs remind us
That it pays to be the great
And departing leaves behind us
Quite a dignified estate.

BELL ASSISTANT CAGE COACH AT BAYLOR U.

WACO.—Gordon Bell of Crowell, star basketball and baseball player of the Baylor university Bears, has just been named assistant basketball coach by Coach Frank Bridges of Baylor. Bell went out of the game last season after having received serious injury to his knee, after having shown brilliantly on Southwestern conference courts in 1923 and '24.

BIGGS TO MONTEZUMA.

WACO.—Riley Biggs, guard on the championship Baylor university team last year, has accepted a position as coach on Montezuma college, at Las Vegas, N. M. Biggs although not a sensational player, was heady and reliable and should make the New Mexico college a valuable athletic director. Coach Frank Bridges at present is on a visit to Mintezuma college and it is expected he will work out the Montezuma lads a few times as a courtesy to Biggs.

OVERSIGHT IN BILLS LEAD TO RULING ON DAM

Attorney General Holds Permission Must Be Asked

AUSTIN, July 31.—Oversight of the 39th legislature in passing a bill in which the language of the capton does not agree with the language of the text has made it necessary for a person desiring to construct a dam or reservoir of any size to obtain permission from the board of water engineers even though the dam or reservoir is to be constructed on his own property, the attorney general's department ruled today. The opinion, couched in a letter to the board of water engineers, was prepared by C. L. Stone, assistant attorney general. Cost of the permit varies with size of the dam or reservoir, the minimum cost being $30 and the maximum $1,500.

Enacted a Bill.

"The 35th legislature enacted a bill providing that any person might construct on his own property a dam or reservoir capable of impounding 500-acre-feet of water, or sufficient water to cover 500 acres with water one foot deep or one acre with water 500 feet deep," said A. H. Dunlop, member of the board of water engineers. "This law was designed to be of service to stockmen in helping them to provide water for their stock with as little expense as possible."

The 39th legislature passed a bill amending this law, since it was felt that the 500-acre-feet clause in the original law enabled persons to build too large reservoirs and dams without getting permits of the board of water engineers. The caption of the amendatory bill reads that persons may construct reservoirs or dams on their own property capable of impounding 50-acre-feet of water, while in the body of the bill it is stated that they may construct reservoirs or dams capable of impounding 250-acre-feet of water.

Asked for Ruling.

The board of water engineers asked the attorney general's department for a ruling, and today that department ruled that the variance between the caption and body of the amendatory bill had rendered null and void all laws authorizing persons to construct dams and reservoirs without permit.

After reviewing history of the case, Assistant Attorney General Stone wrote the board of water engineers:

"You are advised that there is not now on the statutes any law authorizing a person to construct on his property a dam or reservoir to impound and contain water in any amount without securing a permit."

2 Hours and 15 Minutes To Lake Kemp Used As A Claim for Auto Record

Ernest Birk and Jim Greer, cotton specialists of this district, are laying claim to the modern speed record between here and Lake Kemp—at least on muddy roads.

Last Wednesday the Wichita Falls Technical club planned a jaunt to the big lake, with a motor boat ride and other festivities arranged there with W. M. Priddy, president of the club, as host. A severe storm Wednesday morning drenched practically all the territory between Wichita Falls and the lake; changed roads to muddy, rut-cut stretches of gravel and effectively blanketed the trip so far as most of the club was concerned.

Birk and Greer, however, had brought some friends here all the way from Temple on purpose for the affair, and rather than disappoint them after their long journey, set out for the big dam on their own hook.

Their actual running time from Mr. Priddy's home on Harrison street to the gate tower was two hours and 15 minutes flat. Three hours is considered an average drive to the lake even on good roads.

97 MARRIAGES PERMITTED

That Number of Licenses Issued in Past Month By Clerk

A total of 97 marriage licenses were issued during July, according to figures on file at the office of the county clerk. This was a record somewhat larger than usual but failed to reach the mark set in June, proverbial month for brides, when nearly 150 were given out.

Only two licenses were issued the last day, they going to Arthur Demmitt and Miss Theopa Appling, Wichita Falls, and Edward J. Dobbins and Miss Nellie Markum, both of Wichita Falls.

NEW BUILDING PERMITS MAKE GAIN IN JULY

Totals for Month Reach To $538,428; None Over $100,000

Building permits for Wichita Falls during the month of July totaled above the half million dollar mark again, figures released Friday by City Clerk W. E. McBroom indicated. The total valuation for the period was $538,428, as compared with valuations of $190,702 for July, 1924. This was a gain of $347,726 for the year. It also represented a gain over June of this year which rolled up a figure of $486,060,, or $52,386 less than the July figure.

Although no exceptionally large structures were contracted for during the month, several were of more than average size. The largest permit issued was for $90,000 and went to Pat Barkley for construction of a new three-room garage in the 600 block Scott avenue.

One permit for $75,000 was issued and one for $30,000 took third place in point of size. By far the bulk of the projects authorized were moderate priced residences.

Bulgaria and Turkey Claim Understanding Reached in Matters

ANGORA, July 31.—(AP)—Negotiantions between Bulgaria and Turkey looking toward the adjustment of several controversial questions have made such progress that a complete understanding is expected. We shall soon reach an understanding on all moot points."

The negotiators have agreed that Turkish citizens who were living in Bulgaria befgore the Bulgar-Turkish war and now are living in Angora, will be free, in the course of the next three years, to dispose of their immovable property in Bulgaria and transfer their allegiance to Turkey. A similar accord was reached relative to Bulgarian citizens who are living in Turkey.

A decision has been reached affecting Turks who migrated from Bulgaria and Bulgarians who left Turkey after the Balkan war. The negotiators have agreed that those persons may not return to the countries from which they migrated.

Tenant Farmers Are Hurt by the Drouth

AUSTIN, July 31.—Letters from tenant farmers in the drouth-stricken area appealing for aid and work are being received by Labor Commissioner E. J. Crocker. Filled with pathos and detailing misfortune, the letters request assistance during the emergency. Some state that their crops have failed, they own nothing and their landlords want them to move, but they have no place to go.

Commissioner Crocker said persons desiring to help those in the stricken areas should communicate with him.

GLASSCOCK TO ACCEPT TERM IN STATE PEN

Reconsider Appeal And Will Start 10-Year Term For Murder

Stating that he had reconsidered his appeal for a new trial and was convinced he had been fairly convicted and sentenced, W. J. Glasscock, Friday morning withdrew all motions pending in the Thirtieth district court and announced he was ready to accept the 10-year penitentiary sentence imposed on him last Tuesday for the murder of J. J. Stokley. He will be taken to Huntsville at once to begin his sentence.

Stokley was killed June 13, in a fight in a local hotel when he was cut in the groin with a keen bladed knife. Glasscock was arrested immediately after the affray and was subsequently indicted.

Following his conviction he presented an application for a new trial, but this was withdrawn Friday morning when he was brought into court for a hearing on the motion.

Houses Damaged In Italian Trembler

FOGGIA, Italy, July 31.—(AP).—Earthquake shocks were felt here today, a hundred houses and a municipal building being damaged. Some of the houses were rendered uninhabitable but no one was injured. The shocks were especially severe at Cergnola.

Water Consumption Drops 3 Millions

The city water department has heartily welcomed the cold snap that has engulfed the city the last two days, for it has brought a heavy decrease in the amount of water used and has thus given opportunity to make some adjustments, repairs and rearrangements that were impossible at the filter and pumping plants while all euipment was running full speed.

Records of the department show that while the temperatures here were ranging up around the 110-degree mark the city was using more than 5,000,000 gallons of water every 24 hours. With the advent of cool weather, however, this has dropped to about 3,000,000 gallons. This mark was reached Thursday and again Friday.

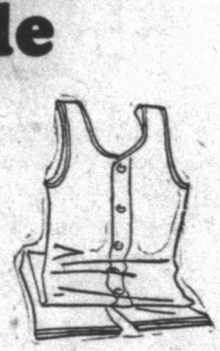

The new 10,000-gallon pump purchased some time ago by the department is at the pumping station but has not yet been installed. More pumping facilities are now available than the filter plant can handle and the new piece of apparatus is to serve as a reserve unit mainly.

MILK

HOSPITAL AND HEALTH BOARD
KANSAS CITY, MO.

I can only voice my sentiments in brief as the subject is too voluminous to handle in a letter.

Pasteurization of milk throws a safeguard against disease, transmissible by milk, around all people who use milk as a food.

The remarkable reduction in death rate, both infant and adult, that has been brought about in cities that have adopted pasteurization, of milk, is sufficient evidence that pasteurization of milk must eventually become universal if human life is to be conserved as it should be.

E. H. BULLOCK,
Health Commissioner.
