Plus Appreciation breakfast—

Indian crop forecast due Saturday

The traditional Taba'na Yuan'e ceremony will be performed at sunrise Saturday just outside the Garza County Junior Livestock pavilion here to determine area crop prospects for the year.

This year the ceremony will be much more elaborate than usual with Indian dances inside the livestock pavilion to follow with dancers coming from several other cities to perform.

Sunrise will be at 6:32 a.m., and it is normally pretty chilly at that hour on the first day of spring.

The Indian dances will be followed by the serving of the second annual Agricultural Appreciation breakfast for Garza farmers and stockmen.

The big double event is sponsored by the Post Chamber of Commerce.

Guests have been invited by letter to the breakfast and have been asked to call in their acceptances to the Chamber office. Others who wish to attend the breakfast may purchase tickets for $3.25 each from any of the Chamber directors, the bank, or the Chamber office.

Gift certificates in the amounts of $150, $100, $75, and $50 will be awarded in a drawing to breakfast

This is the 1980 "buzzard arrival report" from "chief buzzard watchers" R.G. (Wilke) Wilkerson. The buzzards returned to Caprock country a day early by the calendar this year. They normally fly off to warmer climes each Oct. 15 and fly back in to this area March 15, Wilke explained.

—O—

This year the big ugly birds flew in March 14. You know why? Because this is "leap year" with an extra day in it. Somebody forgot to tell the buzzards about "leap year" or they probably would have waited another 24 hours.

—O—

"Buzzards," said Wilke in

New off-season program biggest

Lope athletes have done off-season weight work before, but Athletic Director David Thompson and his coaches say the current athletic off-season program is the best yet.

It's also by far the biggest.

Included are 35 varsity sports candidates, 35 freshmen, and 65 Middle School youngsters for a total of 135 boys.

This off-season program isn't just a weight program. It also includes agility exercises and running.

The boys work out one hour in the mornings.

Cafeteria bid of $148,620 accepted

Post school trustees at their March meeting last Thursday night accepted the low base bid of Pharr & Pharr Construction Enterprises of Lubbock of $148,620 for remodeling and expansion of the school cafeteria.

Architect estimates when planning started on the project last year were between $80,000 and $90,000.

Trustees decided to wait and see on adopting some of the alternates they wanted.

Total cost of the lunchroom project if desired alternates are voted and necessary additional equipment purchased could go to $200,000, Jack Lott, president of the board, told The Dispatch.

There were a half dozen bidders whose bids were surprisingly close. It was the best group of bidders the local school system has had on any project in recent years.

Part of the lunchroom expansion work will begin by the contractor this spring with the remodeling portion of the project not getting under way until the summer vacation. The enlarged and improved lunchroom has been promised for the opening day of the school in the fall.

In other major actions, school trustees:

Voted to purchase new uniforms for the Post High School band out of the 1980-81 budget funds. The board put an 80-uniform ceiling on the number with the cost in the neighborhood of $200 each.

Selection of the uniform design is yet to be made.

After an executive session, the board approved all teachers and coaches recommended by the principals for 1980-81 contracts.

Trustees also named Dorothy Perdue as election judge for the April 5 school board election, set June 13 for the district's board of equalization hearing, approved the signing of an interlocal contractual agreement withe the new county evaluation district and the four other participating local boards, employed Miss Connie Perry as a special education teacher in the elementary school, and heard a report

Huntley Nursing Home schedules open house

Hank and Dennis Huntley, co-owners of the new 75-bed Huntley Nursing Home, invite the community to attend an open house from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Guided tours of the 20,600 square foot home, which cost $550,000, are planned. Refreshments will be served.

It is the most modern nursing home in Texas.

Those attending the open house also will have the opportunity to meet the staff.

The home now has almost 30 residents. It is expected to fill within its first year's operation.

Hank Huntley is the administrator of the home and Dennis, his son, also holds his administrator's license and serves as assistant administrator.

Construction of the nursing home, begun June 6, took little more than six months to complete.

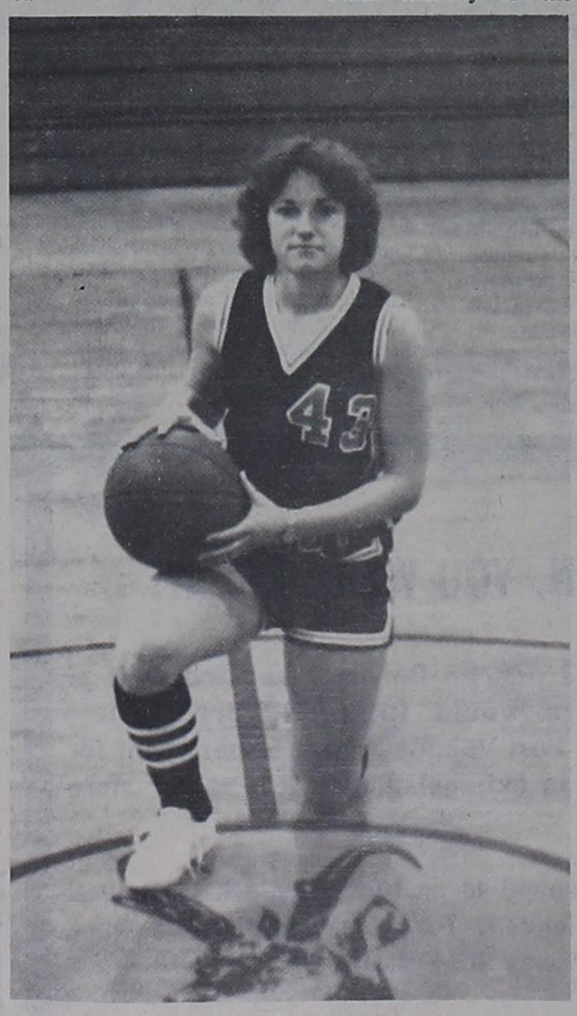

The home has 41 bedrooms in four bedroom wings. With two residents to a room, this would permit a total of 82 residents but a few rooms are planned as private rooms.

Each bedroom is 28 square feet larger than the minimum state requirements.

There are two sprinkler heads in the ceiling of each bedroom as a part of the automated fire control system. Huntley terms the new nursing home 98.6 percent "fire free."

Not only are there eight

Five booked in drug raid

Two men and three women were arrested on possession of marijuana charges last Thursday at 6:30 p.m. when sheriff officers armed with a search warrant raided the Florentino Hernancez residence at 115 East Fifth.

Released on $1,000 bonds each were Pedro and Irene Criado, Lily Martinez and Florentino and Frances Hernandez. All were charged with marijuana possession under two ounces.

Their trials are scheduled for April 22 in county court.

Sheriff Jim Pippin told The Dispatch that other pills and substances were seized during the raid and have been taken to the DPS laboratory in Lubbock for testing.

Other charges could result.

The search and seizure warrant was obtained after receiving what officers termed "reliable information" concerning drugs in the house.

In other law enforcement activity here during the past week:

Ricky Guerrero was arrested last Wednesday on a warrant for revocation of felony probation.

Pablo Gonzales was arrested the same day for revocation of probation and paid court costs, fines, and probation fees totaling $456 after appearing in county

Try to hang on

Good politics and good government seldom if ever go together in America. In a presidential election year when all the congressmen and a third of the senators also are up for reelection, this is the most discouraging fact of our current lousy economic situation.

The Republicans have a solution for inflation. They just shove the country into a recession. It works very well too.

President Carter is proposing a balanced budget for 1981. This won't put much, if any, a brake on inflation until 1981 approaches in the fall (the federal fiscal year begins Oct. 1.

He is keeping his budget cuts secret until after a couple of more primaries. He may unveil them after this week's Illinois primary, but probably he will wait until after the New York primary. That is sacrificing two weeks of debating time for an obvious political advantage.

His 10 cents a gallon tax on gasoline (it's really per barrel on imported oil) in the meantime will kick inflation higher. It's hard to really put on a credit curb — beyond the 18 percent interest rate which is a mighty high curb — without completely collapsing the huge automobile and housing industries.

When Carter does announce his budget cuts there is sure to be a lot of squawking about where they are taken. But this is one time the nation can't afford to fight economy. It is a must. A lot of nice things will have to go.

Another thing President Carter is keeping secret is how he proposes to use the "windfall oil tax money" to reduce income taxes. Accepting the idea that the "windfall oil profits tax" is here — whether one likes it or not in this oil country — it is nice to know that the government plans not to spend this money but to return it back to us one way or another.

The middle class deserves an income tax break. They are the ones that pay through the nose and they should be the ones who get most of it back. That's quite obivous, but it probably won't happen.

Two things stand out in our current inflation crisis.

This country is blessed with at best only average political leadership. Outside of the White House, there are no Congressional leaders or other capital leaders who command wide support.

The people have lost control of their destiny despite the democratic processes. Interest groups now run the show behind the scenes and none of them are basically concerned with the general welfare of this country. Their goals are wholly selfish ones.

At a time when Carter was sweeping three primaries in two days last week a public opinion poll showed only about 30 percent of the voters approved his job performance.

If this is democracy, it is quite a mediocre one for sure.

All major economists agree that if inflation is to be controlled some mighty tough measures must be applied.

A number favor wage and price ceilings and gasoline rationing, but all this is unthinkable in a big election year. Politics comes first here. But we can look forward to serious consideration of them in 10 months after the elections are over.

1981 will be "the year of reality." So try to hang on until then.

Some boating foolishness

A ban on weekend motor-boating as a method of conserving energy in this country is now up for public comment by the Department of Energy.

As we understand the regulation, which if adopted could be activated by President Carter as a conservation tool, would permit him to ban motor-boating on weekends, or on one or the other of Saturday or Sunday. Motor-boating would not be banned the other five days of the week.

The proposal seems grossly unfair on a number of points but Railroad Commissioner Jim Nugent said it best last week in blasting the proposed federal rules:

"A pleasure or fishing boat represents a substantial investment for a working family, and their only opportunity to enjoy it may be on the weekend. Prohibiting weekend use would be tantamount to confiscation of that investment."

He might have added too that darn little imported oil would be saved in the process of trimming motor-boat usage. Their average use has been figured at only about four hours running time per weekend.

'it seems to us curtailing motor-boating, and the minor part it plays in the use of this nation's fuels, should only come after gasoline rationing or the limited use of automobiles.

No market problems

Senator Lloyd Bentsen is the first member of Congress to get interested in and actively in support of aquaculture.

The reader will note we said aquaculture, not agriculture. Aquaculture literally means farming the produce of the oceans.

Commercial aquaculture production since 1960 has grown from some two million pounds of fish to over 100 million pounds. Production of rainbow trout by private growers increased from just over a million pounds in 1954 to over 30 million pounds in 1972. Almost all the trout we eat in this country are produced by aquaculture, as well as 40 percent of our oysters and half of our catfish.

Still and all, aquaculture farming is far below its potential in the United States. It supplies only about three percent of our domestic fish consumption needs.

The U.S. today imports more than half of the fish we consume, adding substantially to this country's foreign trade deficit — amounting to $2.6 billions in 1979 alone.

Senator Bentsen's current measure, now on its path through Congress, will help coordinate various federal agencies and departments involved in aquaculture, and give aquaculture farmers a firmer base for future efforts to develop the sea's resources.

The big point about aquaculture, as we see it, is that the producer who developes his product has no trouble at all selling it. That sure beats agriculture all hollow.

FIREMEN, YOU WERE GREAT!

Mr. and Mrs. J. Martin Basinger and the staff at B&B Liquor Store would like to express their appreciation to the Post Volunteer Fire Department for the fine job it did in extinguishing a fire at our store Saturday morning.

The firemen proved to us that they are both well trained and experienced. To put it simply, we were impressed with the way they do the job.

Thanks again, firemen, for your efforts.

$1,770 due in library aid

The Post Public Library will receive $1,770 in state and federal funds from the West Texas Library System this year for rental of fiction books, purchase of non-fiction books and subscriptions to library journals.

Librarian Pee Wee Pierce told library trustees of ther 1980 library aid at the March meeting of trustees last Thursday noon in the library.

She said $1,251 will be spent on rental of McNaughton books which then can be purchased by the library if desired at a greatly reduced cost, with $519 going to the purchase of non-fiction books and subscriptions to four library journals.

A request for additional library shelving was tabeled until the April meeting.

Librarian Pierce said the Texas Library Association will attempt to get the state to contribute $1 per capita to library aid at the next legislature. Currently, Texas provides aid on the basis of 18 cents per Texan.

I never Come Back, I Have Been There!

EVERYWHERE, U. S. A. — Remember Me?

I'm the fellow who goes into a restaurant, sits down, and patiently waits while the waitresses do everything but take my order.

I'm the fellow who drives into a gasoline service station and never blows his horn, but waits patiently while the attendant finished reading his comic book.

I'm the fellow who phones a company to place an order and waits and waits for the company operator to come back on the phone and tell me whether the person I'm calling is in or out.

I'm the fellow who goes to a retail store and stands quietly while the sales clerks finish their chit-chat.

Yes, you might say I'm a good guy, but do you know who else I am ? I'm the fellow who never comes back! And it amuses me to see businesses spending thousands of dollars every year to get me back, when I was there in the first place.

And all you had to do to keep me was to give me a little service and show me a little courtesy.

If this is a description of you, please try BOB WEST SADDLERY & WESTERN WEAR in POST, TEXAS, we try out best to please.

Exemptions cited by city

Wanda Wilkerson, tax assessor-collector for the city of Post, today announced the availability of a new 12-page pamphlet which may help local residents save on their property taxes.

According to Wanda Wilkerson, the pamphlet explains how the property tax system in Texas operates, and highlights possible tax savings available to citizens.

Information in the pamphlet is applicable to property taxes collected by all levels of local government, including counties, cities and school districts.

Mrs. Wilkerson noted that while cities may not offer a general homestead exemption, such as is available from school districts and counties, the city of Post does offer locally adopted exemptions for disabled persons and citizens age 65 or older.

She pointed out that disabled veterans also are eligible for exemptions.

April 30, 1980 is the rendition deadline for the city of Post.

HOW TO KNOW YOU'RE GROWING OLDER

Everything hurts and what doesn't hurt doesn't work.

The gleam in your eyes if from the sun hitting your bifocals.

You feel like the morning after the night before, and you haven't been anywhere.

Your little black book contains only names ending in M.D.

You get winded playing chess.

Your children begin to look middle aged.

You finally reach the top of the ladder, and find it leaning against the wrong wall.

You join a health club and don't go.

You decide to procrastinate but nobody asks you the question.

You look forward to a dull evening.

You walk with your head held high trying to get used to your bifocals.

You turn out the light for economic rather than romantic reasons.

You sit in a rocking chair and can't get it going.

Your knees buckle and your belt won't.

You regret all those mistakes resisting temptation.

You're 17 around the neck, 42 around the waist, and 96 around the golf course.

You stop looking forward to your next birthday.

After painting the town red, you have to take a long rest before applying a second coat.

Dialing long distance wears you out.

You're startled the first time you are addressed as an old timer.

You remember today, that yesterday was your wedding anniversary.

You just can't stand people who are intolerant.

The best part of your day is over when your alarm clock goes off.

You burn the midnight oil after 9 p.m.

Your back goes out more than you do.

A fortune teller offers to read your face.

Your pacemaker makes the garage door go up when you watch a pretty girl go by.

The little gray haired lady you help across the street is your wife.

You sink your teeth into a steak and they stay there.

The PTA will hold a meeting Monday night, March 24, at 7 p.m. in the Catholic Church hall.

High school principal Joe Giddens will be the guest speaker for the meeting.

Entertainment will be presented by Mr. Steve Clary's flutaphone students.

Focus on Home Economics

By PAULA CAWTHON
County Extension Agent

Wish you could do your own minor home repairs?

Maybe you can — many homemakers are reporting success in learning these skills.

They're also saving money and time, along with cutting down on the frustrations of trying to hire repairmen.

Even novices can do many household improvement, maintenance and repair jobs.

Before trying to tackle a project, consider these factors:

Do you have time to do the job?

Do you have the necessary tools and supplies on hand?

Can you rent, improvise or buy the needed tools, parts and supplies?

Are you physically able to do the work? (Usually you won't need great strength, just stamina.)

Do you have the interest and patience to study a problem and devise a workable solution?

Also, compare costs of a do-it-yourself job versus hiring a professional.

Professional fees usually include a basic service-call charge, an hourly labor charge, and a parts and supplies charge.

In some cases it's wise to ask for an estimate.

If you decide to go ahead yourself, pay special attention to tools.

In buying tools, start with basic tools.

Buy tools of good quality — "premium" tools are not necessary, but make sure they are good-quality.

Very cheap tools often are unsatisfactory, especially edged tools, such as saws and chisels, because the edges dull rapidly or chip and break.

In selecting basic tools and supplies, be sure to insist on adequate quality for your needs.

You can always rent costly tools that you'll use only occasionally.

Then keep your tools in good condition so they are ready to use.

For example, the teeth of a crosscut saw should be nearly as sharp as a needle, chisels and plane irons should be nearly razor sharp.

If you lack the know-how or the equipment ot hsarpen tools, have a skilled carftsman do it for you.,

In addition, well-planned storage space protects your tools and supplies and makes them easy-to-find, grasp and remove.

Store tools safely, both to avoid damaging the tool and to avoid injuring yourself.

Aid unplanned pregnancies—

Lutherans open adoption office

The Lutheran Social Service of Texas has recently opened an office in Lubbock to serve the whole of the Panhandle-South Plains including the Post area.

The agency has over 50 years of experience in providing social services to indivuduals, families and communities. It is not a social service for Lutherans alone, but a service of love by Lutherans for all who would be in need of assistance.

The new Panhandle-South Plains office of LSST is currently offering two needed services to residents in this area: assistance to individuals and families around unplanned pregnancies, and adoption services. Other services will be developed in the future in response to local needs and interests.

As a Christian agency, Lutheran Social Service of Texas believes that all individuals have the right to be treated with dignity and respect. A vital aspect of this right is to be provided the opportunity, when facing an unplanned pregnancy, to consider all alternatives and to make decisions based upon personal needs. Sometimes these needs include concerned, confidential, profesional counseling, assistance in making alternative living arrangements, help in securing good medical care, financial assistance and help in following through on decisions concerning the child's future. Lutheran Social Service is ready to help in all these areas.

As a licensed adoption agency in the state of Texas, with eight offices serving all regions of the state, Lutheran Social Service takes joy in the part it plays in helping fulfill the dreams of so many families. In 1979, 207 children were placed in adoptive homes. These children ranged from healthy newborn infants to handicapped older children. All were helped to find love and hope in the homes of 207 very special families.

Individuals and families interested in tuilizing the services of Lutheran Social Service can do so by contacting Rev. James Jensen, Panhandle-South Plains Office, 2412 13th Street, Lubbock, Texas 79401. Telephone, 806-763-7501.

bringing up baby.

By Mrs. Dan Gerber

When you buy Gerber baby food, look for the date stamped on the jar lid or side of the box. It assures you that you're buying baby's foods at their best possible flavor and quality.

Cereal and bakery items say "Better If Used Before," and strained and junior foods, juices and Toddler Meals read "For Better Quality Use By Date Below." A date that looks like this: 03 OCT 80 is read like this: October 3, 1980.

Using foods past a given date is not harmful as long as the vacuum seal is intact. But, buying and using foods before the date shown is "quality insurance" for you.

It wouldn't be a bad idea at that to put the designers of the bathing suits in charge of cutting governmental budgets.

Farm Topics

SYD CONNER
Garza Extension Agent

Cash receipts from agricultural marketings reaced a new high in 1979. Although final figures are not yet in, Texas Agricultural Extension Service estimates place cash receipts at more that $9.6 billion, up from $7.9 billion in 1978.

However, while sales were up sharply, net farm income increased only moderately due to the ravaging effects of inflation.

In spite of the increased receipts, Texas remains third in the nation in total receipts from agriculture behind California and Iowa.

The big jump in cash receipts stems largely from a bumper cotton crop, combined with a strong cotton market, and an excellent beef market, points out Dr. Carl Anderson, Extension marketing economist.

Cash receipts from all livestock are estimated at $5.3 billion for the past year, with receipts from beef alone reaching the $4.1 billion mark.

Crop receipts are expected to total about $3.9 billion for last year. Cotton accounted for $1.5 billion of that amount. Receipts from sorghum are estimated at $431.5 million while wheat receipts are expected to come in a strong third at $415.3 million due to record-breaking yields.

Projected cash receipts from crops show corn in fourth place at $333.2 million, followed by vegetables, $223 million; nursery plants, $159.6 million; and soybeans, $143.6 million. Completing the top 10 crops as far as cash receipts are concerned are peanuts, $96.6 million; hay, $64.6 million; and pecans, $48.5 million.

Following beef on the ledger of cash receipts from livestock, the poultry industry came in second with a total of $497 million. Cash receipts from milk are expected to reach $450 million while receipts from hogs should total more than $127.2 million.

Recedipts from agriculturally related areas such as timber, hunting, fishing and horses are estimated at $474 million.

"The past year had its share of 'firsts' as far as crop production is concerned," notes Anderson. "The wheat crop averaged 30 bushels per acre — a record — and cash receipts from the crop were up 167 percent over 1978. Peanut production reached a new high at 516 million pounds, and the pecan crop set a record at more than 80 million pounds."

While corn and sorghum acreage declined some in 1979, harvested cotton acreage was up sharply by 700,000 acres while harvested wheat acreage jumped a phenomenal 1.9 million acres.

According to Anderson, the projected agricultural cash receipts of more than $9.6 billion, including supplying and servicing agricultural production and processing and marketing farm and ranch products, added some $35 billion to the Texas economy in 1979. He also notes that the estimated value of farm assets in the state — land, buildings, livestock, machinery, crops, inventory on farms, farm household goods and financial assets — total more than $65 billion.

"All this means that agriculture continues to be a vibrant, growing industry in Texas," points out Anderson. "With the growing worldwide demand for more food and fiber, the potential for Texas agriculture is great indeed."

It Pays to Shop for Home Insurance

"It still pays to shop around for homeowner or tenant insurance, according to a recent survey conducted by the New York State Insurance Department (NYSID).

For example, the annual premium for a standard tenant policy for a one-to-four-family brick building in the Bronx ranges from a low of $49 from Aetna Casualty & Surety to a high of $101 from the Insurance Co. of North America for $10,000 in coverage.

And the NYSID says the annual premium for a basic $35,000 policy on a frame house on Staten Island is listed as $77 from Allstate Insurance Co. and $140 from Prudential Property & Casualty Co." Copied From

Cotton's market share equal to synthetics

RALEIGH — Cotton's share of the world fiber market has stabilized on an equal footing with synthetic fibers and could significantly improve in the 1980s report Cotton Incorporated economists.

In an analysis of world fiber consumption, they point out that while slower growth in real consumer demand for all fibers seems likely, "cotton's outlook in the 1980s appears brighter than for the past two decades."

The analysis is contained in the March Issue of the Cotton Summary, monthly publication of Cotton Incorporated's Economic Research and Development division.

Daniel Troxler, associate director for demand economics, says that cotton's share of market worldwide was 47 percent in 1979, the same as the market share of synthetics. Wool and other fibers accounted for the remaining 6 per cent.

"Based on current projections, cotton's share of market will be the same in 1980," Troxler adds.

"This is good news in view of the one percent loss of market share to synthetic fibers by cotton each year of the 1970s. However, it does not mean the corner has been safely turned against synthetic fibers.

"Although synthetic fiber producers are now faced with the most severe cost-price squeeze in their history, as a result of soaring oil and petrochemical price increases, they are still building plants and developing plans for future capacity increases. This is a clear signal to the cotton industry that the synthetic fiber industry intends to continue an aggressive campaign for a greater share of the total fiber market.

"On the other hand," he adds, "many consumers around the world are rediscovering cotton. This is especially true in the United States. Indeed, the new, no-iron, all-cotton products provide the prospect of a radical change in the market. This fact, combined with the cost-price squeeze facing synthetic fiber producers, provides the cotton industry with a great opportunity to stem the tide against synthetic fibers and possibly increase share of market worldwide during the 1980s."

Troxler explains that the analysis of fundamental world demand for fibers was undertaken to determine whether the current strong textile mill activity is supported by consumer demand. In 1972 and 1973, he points out, strong worldwide mill activity increased more rapidly than consumer demand. As a result, in the recession that followed, "we had a severe contraction in mill production to correct the inventory imbalance that had built up."

The Cotton Incorporated economists concluded, based on a study of the pace of income changes around the world and the response of fiber consumption to these income gains, that "barring a recession, no serious imbalance now exists between consumer fiber demand and world textile mill activity."

Their analysis shows, says, Troxler, that world per capita fiber consumption in 1980 would be 15 pounds, the same as the current rate of mill use of fibers.

"As long as world textile fiber use does not rise appreciably above this level, inventories which could cause problems later on will not build up in the textile pipeline."

The Cotton Summary analysis shows the different relationship which exist between fiber consumption and income in various countries around the world.

In the low income countries, such as China, India and Pakistan, which collectively make up 70 percent of the world's population, a 10 per cent gain in income results in only a 5 per cent increase in fiber consumption. "For people in these countries, better food and shelter have a higher priority than better clothing given the limited resources available," notes Troxler.

In medium income countries, however, there is a much larger response to income gains, Troxler notes. In countries with $2,000 to $4,000 per capita, a 10 per cent increase in income leads to a 9 per cent gain in fiber consumption. However, this group represents only 5 percent of the world's population.

"Once income rises above $4,000, smaller increases in fiber consumption occur," he continues. "In countries such as the United States, Russia, Japan and Western Europe, a 10 percent increase in income elicits, once again, only a 5 per cent rise in fiber consumption. Having met most of the demand for clothing and household textile furnishings at lower income levels, consumers in these countries place a higer priority on automobiles, television sets and other durable goods.

"In the last two decades a larger part of the world's population has moved from the middle-income category to the high-income category, leading to fewer people today in the middle-income group. As a result, on a world-wide basis, we see smaller gains in fiber consumption for the same increase in income today than we have had over the past 10 years.

"Cotton, however, stands to gain rather than lose relative to synthetics in the coming years," says Troxler.

Twin Cedars Nursing Home News

Evelyn Roach was crowned Mrs. Leprechaun, and John Waldrip was crowned Mr. Leprechaun during our picnic Monday evening. Each of the residents voted on the honor and are very proud of who they elected. Due to the chilly weather Monday our picnic was held indoors but it was still a very nice event. We have so many people to thank it is hard to know where to start. First we would like to thank the Holy Cross Catholic Church, Father Neyland and Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Perez for loaning us the tables and chairs and helping us load and unload them. We greatly appreciate the generosity. Next we would like to thank Maria Perez, Mary Lou Duncan, Beatres Garza, Josie Quintana, Michelle Quintana, Tino and Rosie Trevino, Elida Martinez, Nora Valdez, Laurie Belongia, Toni Britnell, Hettie Dudgeon, Pete and Fleta Walls, Billie and Dee Caylor for each bringing a covered dish for our picnic. Our menu consisted of fried chicken, potato salad, tossed salad, baked beans, and deviled eggs. For dessert we had home made ice cream, oatmeal cookies, and angel food cake. Each of the residents said that they enjoyed the picnic tremendously and want to thank everyone for making it possible.

Special guests during the occasion were Dink Boren and Jo Ella Sparlin, two of the ladies from the VFW Auxiliary. They made little green clovers out of felt and pinned them on everyone. Some of the other guests were Jewell White, Thelma Thomas, Alice White, Della Mae Whited, Orville Thorn, and Freda Harmon.

A special thanks goes to Toni Britnell for providing a Leprechaun upon a pedestal surrounded by clovers. This was used as a center piece on a table cloth with green clovers scattered on the cloth.

Events of the week started with Sunday services provided by the First Christian Church with Rev. Frank Pickett officiating. After church Bea Dodson entertained us with organ music. This was very nice and enjoyable and we would like to thank you. Next week the services will be brought to us by the Church of God of Prophecy with Rev. Leon Flemmer officiating.

Visitors this past week were Fern Strange, Inez McGrew, Lucille Walker, Myrl Mathis, Inez Grantham, Zora Robinson, Roberta Herron, Patsy Craig, Lottie Sanders, Glenn Roberts, C. A. and Lucille Walker, Ruby Kirkpatrick, Jewell Greenfield, and Thelma Thomas.

We would like to thank Liberty Anthony for bringing the red and white carnations to us from the Calvary Baptist Church. They are beautiful and we appreciate them.

The domino champions Saturday were Lee Chance and Billie Caylor who defeated John Majors and Hettie Dudgeon. Congratulations go to Lee and Billie.

The movies featured this Wednesday were Call of the Timber Wolves, Cats and Man and Mountain Climbers. These were very good films and we would like to thank our librarian Pee Wee Pierce for loaning the films to us.

We would like to thank Jerri Reed for being so kind and volunteering her time to help us during the day.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texas Democrats who are registered voters will be able to pick their party's choice for president on May 3—a privilege secured from a small victory by conservatives and moderates over their liberal counterparts on the State Democratic Executive Committee in Austin last week.

In a turn of events that surprised everyone, the SDEC voted to hold a non-binding primary election: now Democrats will be able to vote their preference for Jimmy Carter, Edward Kennedy or Jerry Brown, but the party convention this summer will name the actual delegate winner in Texas.

One might call it a stalemate, for the time being, between party conservatives and liberals.

The liberals, it is widely theorized, voted earlier this fall to prevent a binding Democratic primary, even though the Republicans agreed to hold a binding vote.

Their ploy would temporarily shrink the Democratic base, because conservative voters would be drawn into the Republican primary—but the liberals participating in the Democratic primary would nominate a slate of candidates mostly from their faction.

Would the conservative Democrats who voted Republican in May return to the fold and vote Democratic in November? That is a million dollar question that the party won't have to resolve now, and probably to its advantage.

Connally Bows Out

When former Gov. John Connally, a Democrat turned Republican, ended his candidacy following the South Carolina primary, most conservative Democrats who were considering straying apparently decided to remain good party members.

Although some Connally Democrats will now go to Republicans Ronald Reagan and George Bush, and a good many will return to vote in the Democratic primary, if for no other reason than to vote against Edward Kennedy.

In a spirit of unity, Democratic Party Chairman Billy Goldberg welcomed them back into the fold, even as Republicans lamented losing them and Connally.

However, as an extra attraction, Republicans are now going to give GOP primary voters a chance to voice opinions on two legislative issues: wiretapping and initiative and referendum. The State Republican Executive Committee acted positively to a request for such balloting from Gov. Bill Clements.

Rural Law Funds Cut

If the Capitol Press corps likes the ever-visible, ever-talkative Clements, Attorney General Mark White probably does not.

Last week Clements cut White's budget for a team of lawyers who travel to aid rural county prosecutors with criminal cases. Coincidentally, the Governor's action came one week after White publicly criticized him during an AFL-CIO convention key-noted by Vice President Walter Mondale.

White responded to the budget cuts by calling Clements "callous" toward rural communities. Clements simply explained that the Attorney General does not have criminal prosecution authority and ought to go to the Legislature to ask for it.

SEDCO Sues Mexico

The sniping between the two state officials became most public after the offshore oil well blowout (still uncapped) in the Gulf of Mexico, when White launched a lawsuit against SEDCO, Inc., the oil well drilling firm founded by Clements.

Ironically, SEDCO now plans to sue Mexico's government-owned oil company and a Mexican drilling firm over the oil spill. News of the lawsuit didn't set well with Clements who will visit Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo in Monterrey this week. He called the lawsuit "a mistake."

In other actions last week, Clements:

—advised state agency heads not to allow a union dues checkoff program like the one Comptroller Bob Bullock will begin June 1.

—announced details of the $3 million renovation of the Governor's Mansion.

—said he will veto any 1981 legislative tax increase.

—proposed a 3.4 percent payraise for state employees in 1981.

Speaker Politics

House Speaker Bill Clayton will probably testify (instead of taking the Fifth Amendment) to a federal grand jury this week. Clayton, who will field questions about a bribe he is alleged to have received in his offices last fall, says he did take a bribe during an FBI undercover probe code-named "BRILAB" for "bribery-labor."

A labor council, by the way, now wants to sue the federal government to remove the "labor" out of that code-name, saying the wide publicity is giving labor a bad name.

Last week AFL-CIO president Harry Hubbard endorsed Dallas Rep. John Bryant as his organization's choice for speaker of the 1981 House.

Concerning Bryant's speaker bid, another legislator, Rep. Buck Florence, D-Hughes Springs, told reporters last week that Bryant's supporters earlier promised to "dry up" the campaign funds of Florence's opponents if he would pledge his vote to Bryant. Florence also said he received a telephone call from Bryant (the night before the Brilab story broke) and was told that Clayton would be involved in a major scandal and would be "finished."

Florence said he did not pledge to Bryant. Bryant has not commented publicly on Florence's story.

SAFETY SENSE

Safety Caps

When it comes to protecting youngsters from accidentally taking an overdose of an otherwise beneficial medicine, few things can top safety tops in the hands of responsible parents.

The Proprietary Association, the Washington trade association representing the makers of nonprescription medicines, points out that while these protective caps may be inconvenient at times for adults, they are well worth it since they help keep children from harm.

Even with this safety feature, all medicines should be kept well out of reach of children, and young people should not be permitted to administer medicines to themselves.

Parents, pharmacists and pharmaceutical manufacturers are joining hands to put a lid on danger to children from accidental ingestions of medicines.

Congressional Comment

FINAL CONSIDERATION of the so-called "windfall profits tax" was completed by the House on March 13, with the House-Senate Conference Report approved by a vote of 302 to 107.

The millions of words that have argued against the tax fell on deaf ears, as the drive to "punish the majors" now lacks only Senate approval. The fact that the tax will reduce — not increase — supplies of petroleum seems to have been a minor consideration. The fact that many small producers and royalty owners will be seriously crippled economically is a point that has gone ignored.

One vote stopped an attempt to exempt the first 1,000 barrels of production from the tax, an exemption that would have given the small royalty owner and producer a needed break.

A recent letter from a retiree who depends on the royalty income from his stripper wells, says it far better that I could: "Inflation of 16-18 percent and the windfall profits tax is going to destitute us. Without inflation, this tax is going to take more than 40 percent of our small royalty income. Worse still, this tax will very probably shut down the properties from which we get 90 percent of our income — stripper wells. This tax will render these properties unprofitable.

"It makes no sense to tax out of existence 75 million barrels annually of stripper oil just to punish the major companies."

I fought this "consumer tax" (that is who will ultimately bear the tax) from start to finish, but unless it is rejected by the Senate and returned to the Conference Committee, the bill has passed.

THIS WEEK I announced my support for the Bipartisan Coalition to Back Efforts to Balance the Budget and its proposal to cut Federal spending by $26.4 billion this year.

Among the reductions recommended was a 17.5 percent cut from 17 major regulatory agencies. The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) was not among the agencies named and I would like to point out why: Agriculture has already been cut far more severely than any other department or agency. Just two years ago, agriculture's budget totaled $7.7 billion, compared to $2.8 billion in the 1981 fiscal year budget submitted by President Carter earlier this year.

I particularly oppose further reductions in agricultural research. A cutback on research funding would return about $2 to taxpayers on a per capita basis, but in six or seven years, without additional agricultural research, food prices will escalate 10 to 15 times as much. That's being penny-wise and pound-foolish. It's time to cut the unproductive areas, not the productive.

Pretty soon the young things will be dazzling you with new, airy spring clothes — and a young man's fancy will get around to the basic facts of life.

3 new drilling locations named

One new wildcat drilling location and another pair in the Post field were announced this week for Garza County.

The wildcat is Hulen H. Lemon's No. 1 TUPC Reed, four miles east of Justiceburg which will be drilled to a 3,500 foot depth.

The Post field locations are the JimLynn Oil Co.'s No. 9 and No. 10 David B. Tyler, 11 miles east of Post, planned for a 2,880 foot depth.

THIS IS ONE BREAK OUR CUSTOMERS DON'T DESERVE.

"When a storm knocks down a line it can put thousands of people out of contact with the world. That's where I come in...twenty-four hours a day. As I tell my friends, 'When a line comes down, they get me up.' But I don't mind it. It makes me feel I'm an important part of providing the best telephone service possible. The JV boys only had five kids out for track and had been practicing, the rest of the team joined at the last minute to have enough to compete.

Farmers, ranchers talk conservation objectives

Approximately 45 local farmers and ranchers met Thursday night at the community center to discuss and comment on the soil and water resources conservation act of 1977.

The act directs the United States Department of Agriculture to appraise on a continuing basis the nations non-federal land and develop a national program for the conservation of soil, water, and related natural resources. After appraising resource conditions and trends, USDA identified seven resource areas and objectives for each area.

These resource areas are soil resource quantity and quality, water quality, water supply and conservation, Fish and Wildlife habitat, upstream flood damage, energy conservation and production and related natural resources.

To reach these objectives, USDA has proposed seven conservation strategies. These are redirecting present programs, cross compliance, regional resource projects, state leadership regulations, conservation performance bonus and natural resource contracts.

Local farmers and ranchers discussed these objectives and strategies in great detail and a program was presented by the local ASCS and SCS offices. The public is invited to comment on the suggested objectives and strategies. You can review RCA documents and get a summary of them in offices of (USDA) Soil Conservation Service or the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation service.

Mail your comments directly to USDA, don't be concerned about style or length, just get your thoughts on paper and mail them by March 28 to: USDA Response Analysis Center, P. O. Box 888, Athens, Georgia, 30603.

Warning given on roving contractors

South Plains residents should be on the lookout for itinerant home improvement contractors that may offer great prices for doing people's roofs, paneling, drive ways, etc. Your Better Business Bureau has already received calls indicating that the itinerant home improvement companies are starting up their annual operations.

These unethical peddlers pray especially on the elderly and the low income person. Their work is usually poor and when something goes wrong after the job, the contractors have fled the South Plains.

Consumers are advised that if they are considering having home improvements done to their property that they deal with local contractors that can be found if something goes wrong. Also, get estimates and check out contractors with references from the company and finally, check the reliability of the company through your Better Business Bureau.

Some favorite sales tactics of these itinerant groups are for example:

Approaches are varied and caution should be used when dealing with those you don't know.

Your bureau has a free brochure on home improvements that contains a checklist of what to do in lining up a contractor. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to BBB - South Plains, P. O. Box 1178, Lubbock, Texas 79408, for your free copy.

Offering to do a job below cost if the home can be used as a show home or for advertising purposes.

The old pitch that the contractor had just completed another job and will do a project for the consumer at cost rather than having to carry the excess materials from the first job back to his warehouse in whatever city.

Coming to your home uninvited.

Post Junior Relays draws 1,700 athletes

Called largest meet in Texas

The eighth annual Post Junior Relays held here Saturday were probably the largest track meet that will be held in Texas this year.

An estimated 1,700 boy and girl athletes on 61 teams in six divisions competed in a long affair which necessitated turning on the Antelope football stadium lights and the tennis court lights so runners could see to run the final two races.

Dairy Queen donates profits

"Have a Treat! Help a Child!" will be the theme when nearly 500 Dairy Queen restaurants across Texas dedicate Saturday, March 29, to helping severely burned children. Among the DQs participating will be the Chapman Fast Foods Dairy Queen in Post.

This day — Saturday, March 29 — is the one Texas Governor William P. Clements, Jr., has proclaimed "Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children Benefit Day" for 1980. More than 60,000 Shriners from the 13 Shrine Temples in Texas will be involved in the day's activities, an annual event for raising funds in behalf of the state's three Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children.

To assist the Shriners in the fund-raising efforts March 29, the local Chapman Fast Foods Dairy Queen and all other participating members of the Texas Dairy Queen Trade Association will donate their entire day's net profits to the benefit of the youngsters who receive free treatment at the Burns Institute of the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Galveston.

Stenholm favors $26.4 billion slash—

Congress coalition propose budget cut

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A proposal that would cut Federal spending by $26.4 billion during fiscal year 1981 was outlined by members of a bi-partisan coalition of Congressional members Wednesday, Congressman Charles W. Stenholm has announced.

At a Capitol Hill news conference, Stenholm commented on the proposal, saying he recognized that balancing the budget would not "cure inflation overnight." But he emphasized that "the 17.5 percent cut in the regulatory phases of our government, in my opinion, is going to have the most lasting influence in doing something about inflation.

"We recognize, or at least we give lip service to the fact, that today consumers are paying from $100 - $200 billion every year in increased costs due to the increased regulations that we have perpetuated upon the people.

"I'm one of those who believes that the people pay these costs," Stenholm said. "The government does not."

The proposal, supported by 60 members of both parties of the House, has been sent to the House Budget Committee for consideration. The 53-page document contains specific budget reductions in more than 70 Federal programs and budget functions.

Among the major program reductions, the Comprehensive Education, Training Act (CETA), was targeted for the largest single reduction, $3.9 billion. Stenholm stressed that the reduction would not include the training portion of the program, but concentrate in those areas where the program has been proven to be both ineffective and overly costly.

Also included in major program reductions was the $2.4 billion General Revenue Sharing fund for states. "At a time when the majority of the states are reporting budget surpluses, it simply makes no sense for the Federal government to be 'sharing' money we don't have," Stenholm explained.

In discussing other reductions aimed at eliminating Food Stamp duplications and budget reductions of other social welfare-type programs, Stenholm cited a recent report that overpayments have pushed past the billipn-dollar-a- year mark in the largest welfare program, Aid to Families with dependent Children. "These budget cuts are not designed to cut services to those really in need," he explained, "but to cut unnecessary and wasteful expenditures, while increasing benefits to the truly needy."

Included in the $5 billion-dollar reduction of Federal department overhead was a 10 percent cut of Congressional expenses. "Like any budget effort, we had to begin at home," Stenholm said.

Staple shorter, mike lower—

Better cotton grades this year

LUBBOCK — High Plains Cotton had better grades, shorter staple and lower mike than last year, according to Paul R. Dickson, Area Director for USDA's High Plains Cotton Division Offices.

Predominant grades this season compared with last season in parenthesis are as follows: grade 41 at nine percent (16), grade 32 at 31 percent (six) and grade 42 with 38 percent (36). Even though the grade 32 percentage was shaprly higher this season, the average grade this year and last year was 42, Dickson said.

Predominant staples this year compared with ast year in parenthesis are as follows: Staple 30 at 26 percent (11), staple 32 was 38 percent (29) and staple 32-22 percent (38). Average staple this season was 31.6 thirty-seconds of an inch compared with 31.9 thirty-seconds last year.

Micronaire averaged 3.0 this season while last year's average was 3.7, according to USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service.

USDA's Marketing Services Offices graded 2,475,-000 samples this year compared with 1,890,000 last season.

High Plains cotton prices declined $12.50 to $13.75 per bale during the week ended March 13. Growers sold mixed lots of mostly mikes 30-32 around 1125 points over 1979 loan, down 250 points from a week earlier. Mixed lots of mostly mikes 27 - 29 brought around 1000 over, down 275 points.

Medical center will be expanded

LUBBOCK — Forty-five private and semi-private beds will soon be added to the existing 15 bed capacity of the Medical Center at John Knox Village of West Texas in Lubbock, according to Dr. Kenneth P. Bert, Chairman of the Board & President of Christian Services International Retirement Services.

Groundbreaking for the $560,000, 97000 square foot addition, which will include whirlpool baths, therapy facilities and other innovative medical services, are scheduled for Sunday, March 30 at the Lubbock Village, 1717 Norfolk.

"Should a John Knox Village resident require medical attention, when our new facilities are completed, we can provide it in a delightful luxury atmosphere in keeping with the rest of the Village", Berg said. "Our Villagers will never have to leave our sprawling, enlarging campus in order to receive the most sophisticated of medical care", he continued.

Art Carnahan, executive director of the John Knox Village in Lubbock, reports that the Village is presently 90 percent reserved "with people migrating from great distances to enjoy living under inflation fighting conditions while enjoying the pleasures of growing old in a secure and beautiful environment."

Area residents are invited to attend ground breaking ceremonies which will culminate in a drawing to chose the winner of a complete Hotpoint Kitchen.

Bert, considered a pioneer in gerontology, a science dealing with the special problems of the aged, opened the first John Knox Village at Lee's Summitt, Missouri, which is now considered the showcase of this "not for profit" venture.

Woman killed in 84 wreck

Mollie Blake, 26, of Lubbock is the newest Garza highway fatality. She was killed about 8:30 p.m. Saturday in a three-car wreck near Justiceburg on US-84.

Roger Dale Thomas, 27, of Lubbock suffered a nearly severed foot in the accident and was transferred to Lubbock Methodist Hospital after being treated at Garza Memorial here.

Dwight Glenn Parkenson, the second man injured in the smash up spent one night in the hospital here and was released Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Willie Arthur Lorenz, 57 and 61, also of Lubbock were treated at the hospital here after the wreck but not admitted.

According to the DPS, Miss Blake was northbound to Lubbock, experienced car trouble, and pulled off the highway shoulder. Thomas, driving a pickup, had stopped to aid Miss Blake and had his pickup facing Miss Blake's car with lights on to aid the repair effort.

Both were standing by the two vehicles when Lorenz, also headed north with his wife in another pickup, apparently became blinded by the lights of the Thomas vehicle, plowed into the two parked vehicles on the shoulder and swerved into the center media.

Parkenson was a passenger in Thomas' pickup.

Fire damages liquor store

An early morning fire, about 5 a.m. Saturday, caused considerable damage in the rear storage area of the B & B Liquor store here.

A short in a compressor is believed to have caused the blaze. Firemen had to return a few hours later to extinguish flames under the storage area floor.

A considerable portion of stock in storage was destroyed or damaged in the blaze. No final figure on loss was available to The Dispatch. Liquor board inspectors checked the stock following the blaze to determine damage to merchandise.

The store was open Saturday as usual for business.

Total shipments for this season are now 4,691,000, compared with 3,224,100 a year ago. New sales of 26,900 brought total 1979-80 orders from foreign buyers to 8,644,90

Hazardous Waste Rule

The Environmental Protection Agency's final standards for hazardous waste is hazardous. Farmers are exempt if they dispose of pesticide waste in an environmentally sound manner on their own farms. Pesticide containers must be triple rinses, with rinse water disposed of according to the label. If the label does not contain instructions, a farmer may not dispose of the pesticide or rinse on his property. Some farmers may be excluded from the regulation based on a small-quantity provision to be made public in April.

Taba'na—

guests.

Frank (Chief) Runkles is in charge of the Taba'na Yuan'e ceremony and told The Dispatch this about the 1980 event Monday:

"Several people from out of town will appear on the Taba'na Yuan'e Indian program this year. Dancers and singers will come from Amarillo, Canyon, Kress, Grand Prairie, Lubbock and Midland.

"My two grandchildren, D'Lane and Douglas Runkles of Midland will participate in the ceremony.

"A number of elaborate and authentic costumes which will be worn by some of these people should provide an opportunity for local photographers as well as the news media.

"When Mr. J. A. Welborn of Garza County began checking the wind direction in 1906, he interpreted the Indian legend as a 'crop forecast.' The legend as told to him by Indians years earlier indicates what kind of a year they could expect from the direction from which the four winds came at sunrise on the morning after the sun reached the midway point of its journey from south to north (the day spring begins).

"This could be applied to the supply of buffalo and other food as well as other needs, even the success of war parties. Today, as the farmer may apply the forecast to crops, the rancher may interpret it in grass prospects, while the merchant will likely be interested in a possible forecast business the coming year."

The annual spring Taba'na Yuan'e rite here not only draws considerably area interest, especially from Lubbock television teams, but it also has grown to the point that national news media have shown considerable interest.

Wind from the east or northeast herald a bumper crop, while the opposite wind, west or southwest, means parched fields. North or northeast winds denote an average crop with the southeast wind predicting a poor crop.

Runkles, as he has each year, will kindle his wind fire shortly before sunrise by rubbing sticks together in the traditional Indian fashion. Despite some strong winds he has yet to fail to get his "wind fire going."

There is no charge to witness the ceremony or the other planned Indian dances inside the livestock pavilion.

Last year was the first time the Agriculture Appreciation Breakfast was staged by the Chamber. It is in observance of Agriculture Day which nationally is today (Thursday).

A 15-year-old juvenile was arrested March 15 for public intoxication and resisting arrest and was placed on voluntary probation by Juvenile Court Judge Giles Dalby Tuesday.

concluding his "buzzard report", "are much more dependable than swallows."

—O—

We read in one of the daily papers last week that they held a "buzzard watch" back East for the return of the birds — in Ohio as we recall — and some 5,000 people were fed pancakes at an "early bird" breakfast.

—O—

Out here we've latched onto Indians and their crop forecasting legend. It comes along only a week later than those buzzards.

—O—

It will be mighty chilly at sunrise Saturday — at least it always has been — and Chief Runkles doesn't build a very big fire for his Indian wind dance so don't depend on that to keep warm at Taba'na Yuan'e.

—O—

And don't skip the breakfast either. It will be one of those Jackson catered "specials" which tastes simply wonderful after you have been delightfully chilled to the bone.

—O—

Post hasn't had an invasion like it had last Saturday in a long, long time — if ever. Some 1700 kids came to town from almost every direction in long strings of yellow school buses for the annual Post Junior Relays.

—O—

It could well have been just about the biggest track meet held in the nation this year. We don't know of any place else which would attempt to hold such a meet. The last couple of races were rather eerie with the football stadium lights turned on to the west and the tennis court lights to the east to provide just enough light for the runners to see their way around the new black oval.

—O—

Next year they'd better have an "OS ranch weekend" start. That's at dawn, buddy, when they start roping.

—O—

If you don't take advantage of your invitation to the Sunday open house at the Huntley Nursing Home you will miss an opportunity to get a conducted tour of what within a year will develop into a real health care "industry" for Post. Go take a "walk through". You'll be amazed at what you'll see in the state of Texas' most modern rest home.

—O—

An important new "seasonal feature" has been added to The Dispatch's weekly weather report this week by National Weather Observer Nick Vukad. It's the daily soil temperature so farmers can prepare for planting time. Thanks, Nick!

—O—

This week the reader will simply have to pardon our "little light bulbs." For a number of weeks — and you've probably noticed — the news type in The Dispatch has been getting lighter and lighter. We have "fussed" with this in almost every conceivable way on our Compuwriter photo typesetting machine. Several queries have been made to Compugraphic's repair department. Some days we waited four hours for the machine to warm up.

—O—

Anyway, halfway through setting this week's news copy, we called repair again. They finally told us to change the tiny bulb in the machine used in the photo process. Don Ammons did and — presto, we have nice black type again. You note some black lines mixed with light lines on inside pages. These were line corrections of mistakes after we changed the bulb.

—O—

You can look forward to next week's Dispatch when all the copy will be black and clear again, we hope.

For Demo primary ballot—

Two incumbents are drawn first

If being the first candidate named on the ballot is an advantage in a contested race, Sheriff Jim Pippin and County Commissioner of Precinct 3 Mike Cisneros will go into the primary in good shape.

The two incumbents were drawn first for the Democratic ballot in the May 3 primary here. County Democratic chairman Dick Tanner has announced.

The order in which the four candidates for sheriff will appear on the ballot are Pippin, Lewis Holly, Kennard E. Gilbreath, and O. G. (Junior) Shepherd.

In the county commissioner precinct 3 race it is Cisneros, R. G. (Wilke) Wilkerson, Cecil Foster, Sr., and Bill Gandy.

Those are the only two county contests on the Garza Democratic ballot.

The other races on the ballot with the order in which the names of candidates appear are:

Railroad commissioner: Buddy Temple, John Poerner.

Railroad Commissioner (unexpired): James E. (Jim) Nugent, Jim Hightower.

Associate Justice, Supreme Court, place 1: Wayne Scott, James (Jim) Wallace, John Phillips.

Associate Justice of Supreme Court, place 2: Lawrence E. Bergman, Sears McGee.

Court of Criminal Appeals Place 1: Marvin O. Teague, Leon Douglas.

Court of Criminal Appeals Place 2: W.T. Phillips, John Humphrey and Mike McCormick.

Court of Criminal Appeals place 3: Edith Roberts, Tom Davis.

Associate Justice, Court of Civil Appeals: Carlton B. Dobson, Richard N. (Dick) Countiss.

Those are the only contests on the ballot so all the interest is going to be concentrated in the two county races.

Secretary resigning

Chamber of Commerce directors Monday night accepted the resignation of Chamber secretary Vicki Long, effective March 31, and announced it is accepting applications for the position.

Director James Pollard reported he has two bidders for construction of the courthouse oil well sign and he hopes to have it completed and erected at the site in April.

Plans for the Taba'na Yuan'e ceremony and breakfast Saturday were discussed.

It was reported to directors that the Chamber banquet went in the hole over $700.

Double event is discussed

Danny Shaw and Charles Adams discussed the Saturday morning Taba'na Yuan'e ceremony and farmers and ranchers appreciation breakfast at the quarterly membership breakfast of the Post Chamber of Commerce last Friday morning in the Post Community Center.

Plaques, not available at the recent chamber banquet, were presented to retiring directors Iva Hudman, Adams, and Larry Willard.

Jack Hair's name was drawn for the $25 cash prize but since he was not present the prize will be doubled to $50 for the next breakfast. Approximately 25 attended the catered breakfast sponsored by the First National Bank.

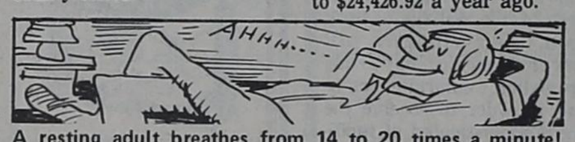

Sales tax in big jump here

Post's 1980 one percent sales tax collections are up 25 percent so far this year over the same period in 1979, but State Comptroller Bob Bullock says such things are not as rosy as they seem.

Bullock said most cities over the state are showing big increases, due partly to the fact that during the first quarter of 1979 city sales tax allocations were down due to late filings and a backlog of 2,400 returns in the agency's accounting system.

Overall over the state, the 1980 first quarter increase averaged about 38 percent, well above the 25 percent here.

Post's March sales tax allocation was $16,506.20 this year as compared to $13,835.50 for March in 1979. The first quarter totals here were $30,696.30 as compared to $24,426.92 a year ago.

Farm sale event raises $2,000

The first farm sale and flea market held by the Garza County Junior Livestock Association Friday and Saturday was termed a success by the directors of that association.

Over $40,000 dollars worth of miscellaneous farm equipment was sold at the Saturday auction. Herb Henderson and Associates Auctioneers from Wolfforth were in charge of the auction with one half the sales commission, going for payment on the new Garza County Junior Livestock Barn.

President Noel White said he hopes the commission and money received from the sale of equipment donated to the association will make between $2,000 and $2,500 to pay on the barn.

Buyers and sellers from all over the area including, San Angelo, Big Spring, Brownfield and many more were present for the auction Saturday.

The flea market, concession stand and lunch served Saturday, is estimated at making $600 for the building fund. Expenses will have to be paid before a final amount is know.

The flea market consisted of 10 by 10 booths rented for $10 per day with a number of garage sales, bake sales, and indivudual arts and crafts for sale each day. Indivudual art and photo exhibitors were Glenda Morrow, Sherry Riedel, Lil Conner and Arnold Sanderson. Sponsoring garage sales were Patsy Craig, Lil Conner, Diane Graves, Lisa Brown and Krisha Mason, Maxine Marks, Paula Cawthon, Carolyn Hodges, Mary Stone and Close City Extension Homemakers Club.

A bake sale was sponsored by the Graham Extension Homemakers club. Each group reported they had a very successful sale.

The concession stand was operated by members of the Graham Extension Homemakers club, the Close City 4-H Club, Graham 4-H Club and wives of the GCJLA directors and several individuals.

The noon meal which was served Saturday noon, for $2.50 per plate consisted of ham, green beans, potato salad, hot rolls, cobbler, iced tea and coffee.

The potato salad was furnished by Faye Payton, Oreta Bevers, Jane Mason, Linda Lewis, and Patsy Sanderson; Hot rolls by Judy Bush; cobbler by the Graham Extension Homemakers club club and the Close City 4-H club. The ice was furnished by Rick's Venture Foods.

The Garza County Junior Livestock Association wishes to thank everyone who donated equipment, work, time, money, items for the garage sales and the food for the food donations, and those who purchased food.
