Commission Slices Oil Production

AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission cut the state's maximum oil production today for August by 79,411 barrels a day from this month.

Commission Chairman Jim Langdon indicated the reduction was because crude oil stocks are so high nationally.

The commission ordered a statewide allowable for August of 44.8 per cent of potential, which would permit maximum production of 3,414,999 barrels daily. The July allowable is 46.4 per cent, permitting maximum production of 3,494,410 barrels.

"Texas stocks are in good balance," said Langdon. "However, because of over-all national stocks, particularly in districts 1-4, the Railroad Commission feels it is necessary to make a downward adjustment in the production factor."

Langdon said Texas stocks as of July 12 were 101.3 million barrels, up 2.4 million from a week ago and up 2.8 million from a year ago. Stocks in districts 1-4 were 231.6 million, up 2.7 million from a week ago and 12.9 million from a year ago.

Written nominations by major purchasers of Texas crude oil for August totaled 3,014,872 barrels daily, a decrease of 40,472 from July. The Bureau of Mines forecast for August demand for Texas crude was 3,025,000 barrels a day, a decrease of 5,000 from July.

Only one big buyer, Pure Oil Co., wanted more oil next month than in July. Seven wanted less and six asked for the same amount in August as this month.

Nominations, in barrels per day, by major purchasers: Atlantic Richfield 81,500; Cities Service 70,500; Continental 38,000; Gulf 228,000; Humble 593,000; Mobil 240,000; Pan American 305,000; Phillips 110,000; Pure 63,125; Shell 181,000; Sinclair 112,000; Standard of Texas 45,770; Sun 127,667; Texaco 180,000.

Postal Workers Strike

OTTAWA (AP)—Canadian postal workers struck today for higher wages, halting mail service all across the country, and no further negotiations were scheduled until Sunday.

Union negotiators representing 24,000 postal workers on Wednesday turned down a government offer to raise the present maximum wage of $2.75 an hour by 15 cents.

William Houle, co-chairman of the Council of Postal Unions, called the offer "a big joke." He repeated the union's demand for 75 cents more an hour, but said this might be lowered if the government increased fringe benefits.

Blast Toll Climbs

PAMPA, Tex. (AP)—The death toll from an explosion at Cities Service Co. gas plant has risen to three.

Dead are M. M. Stewart, 44, Charles L. Reeves, 59, and Travis Patterson, 49, all of Pampa. They died in an Amarillo hospital Wednesday.

Four others were injured, one critically, in the blast Tuesday. A company spokesman said the blast occurred when a heater pipe outside the facility blew out.

Critically injured was Leo Case of Pampa. Case remained in what hospital attendants in Amarillo called "extremely critical condition."

Economy To Cool?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's economy churned ahead at a near record inflationary pace during the second quarter of this year but has begun showing signs of an orderly cooling off, the Commerce Department reported today.

The department said the gross national product jumped by $19.6 billion at an annual rate during the quarter to $850.8 billion.

This was the second highest dollar advance in history and was down only slightly from the record $20.2 billion increase during the first three months of this year.

More than half the second quarter advance represented a growth in real output but inflation continued to eat away at the economy.

William H. Charter, assistant secretary of commerce for economic affairs, said inflation amounted to four per cent over the past year.

He said there were no important imbalances in the economy during the second quarter except for the federal budget and this has been corrected by the recent tax increase.

He looks for slower growth in the third and fourth quarters of this year and foresees a resumption of more normal economic growth next year.

Although the economic gain in the second quarter almost equaled that of the first, its makeup was considerably different.

Officers Stop Car, Recover Varied Goods

An automobile stolen in Waco July 8 was recovered Wednesday near a Big Spring lounge—and with it more than $3,000 in assorted goods.

Two West Texas men were arrested in connection with the auto theft and are being held at the Big Spring police department.

Detective Paul Alexander said Waco officials have been notified. The two men gave addresses from Sweetwater and Fort Worth. A Big Spring woman was with the men when police stopped them to investigate, but she apparently was not connected with theft, officers said.

Officers said they were holding Gene Richardson, Sweetwater, and Henry Nugent Sanders, Fort Worth, on warrants from Sweetwater, Waco and Beaumont.

WHERE FROM

Alexander said the department was attempting to find out where the goods came from. He had had no reports at 11 a.m. today.

The automobile was sighted at 10 p.m. at Northwest Fourth and Gregg by police who identified it with an auto theft report, issued shortly after the July 8 theft. A mistaken report caused officers to lose sight of the car for about an hour, but they saw it again parked at The Pink Door, 800 W. 4th. Police waited until two men to return to the car.

Investigations revealed a pistol in the glove box of the car, a sack of watches and a sack of silverware under the front seat. The remaining goods were found in the trunk of the car.

ODD INVENTORY

Among the articles confiscated were silver trays, goblets, dinnerware, rifles and pistols with cases; liquor, knives (some imported), wooden hand carved statues and jewelry, antiques, luggage, tools, Bibles, a wicker basket, more than 300 watches, more than $800 in traveler's checks, and an undetermined amount of cash.

Warrants for the arrest of the Sweetwater man had been issued by officials in Waco, Fort Worth, Sweetwater and Beaumont prior to the July 8 theft, according to police.

Not Convinced By Cong Hint

PARIS (AP)—U.S. officials are interested but not convinced by a hint from North Vietnam's chief representative at the Paris talks that suspension of the shelling of Saigon constitutes a Communist move to scale down the war.

Hanoi's Ambassador Xuan Thuy said in an interview made public Wednesday: "Although there have been no rocket attacks on Saigon for several weeks, the Americans maintain their offensive and send out their bombers on ever more devastating missions in the Saigon area."

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman had been speculating recently that there might be significance in the full in rocket attacks on the South Vietnamese capital. He had protested against such attacks in mid-June, saying they threatened the negotiations.

U.S. officials had been trying to find out whether the North heeded the protest, whether allied military operations folled further attacks, or whether the Communist leadership suspended the attacks for a political purpose.

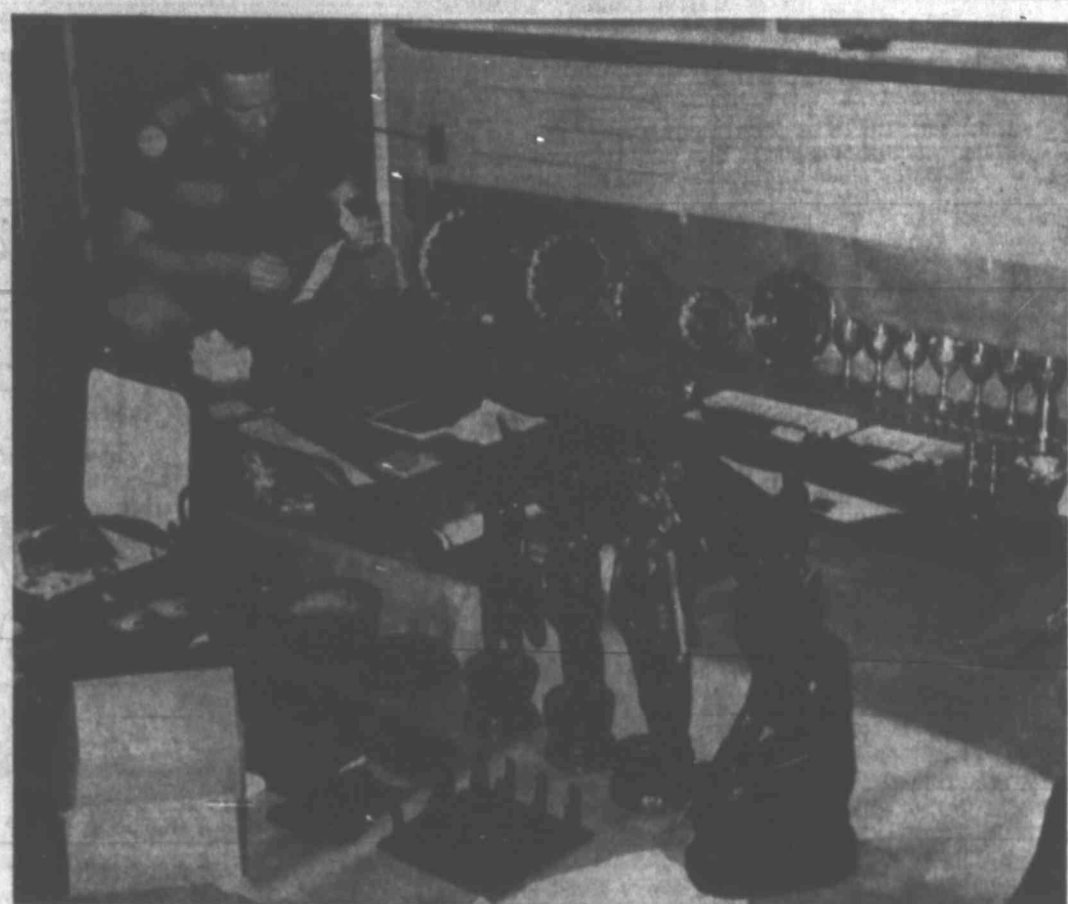

So far as could be learned, they had no word from the North Vietnamese to help their assessment until TV newsman David Schoenbrun made his report of his interview with Thuy available.

The Americans were more than ordinarily interested because they consider that North Vietnam will not yield on the issue of "reciprocity" and make a deal to scale down the war in exchange for an end to all U.S. bombing of the North. President Johnson limited the bombing on March 31.

The Americans were skeptical of the implication in Thuy's statement because it leaves North Vietnam in a position either to claim later that it had de-escalated—or to resume attacks on Saigon and blame the United States for not responding to cessation of the rocket attacks.

Passengers Back After Enforced Cuba Sojourn

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fifty-six passengers back from a hijacked airliner flight to Cuba joined in a lusty cheer Wednesday night when they landed on U.S. soil in a plane chartered by the U.S. State Department for their return trip.

Crew members said the neat, dark-complexioned hijacker who commandeered a National Airlines DC8 jet with a gun and fake grenade stated that "Fidel ordered me back" and stayed behind on the Communist island.

Airline officials said the hijacker boarded National's flight 1064 to Miami in Los Angeles, giving his name as "Hernandez."

BIG SEND OFF

Richard Nell, a U.S. Air Force senior master sergeant from Biloxi, Miss., said two men saw the hijacker off in Los Angeles. All three spoke Spanish.

"They looked like they were sending him off on a big trip," Nell reported. Nell's wife and son also were aboard the hijacked airliner.

Nell said the man was about 5-foot-8, weighed 140 pounds and was in his early 20s.

Mrs. S.D. Knitzer of North Palm Beach, Fla., said the hijacker was "a very nice looking young man, well dressed—casually, like everybody dresses in California."

Melton Hamilton of Houston, Tex., said the only passengers the Cubans "interrogated directly were the servicemen." Hamilton added, "actually, I had a helluva time except for the propaganda they put out."

"I just gave them my rank and serial number," reported Marine Pfc. R. J. Broussard of Scott, La. "They tried to get us messed up, but we got out of it. They tried to get us confused."

Marine Lance Cpl. Lawrence Hoven of Wilmer, Ala., a veteran of the Vietnam war, said: "They just asked a few questions about did I think I should have been over there (in Vietnam). I told them anything the United States has anything to do with, I'll be there."

The hijacker took command of the plane over Texas after a stop in Houston. Stewardess Kathleen Dickinson of Coral Gables, Fla., acted as an interpreter for the gunman, who she said was "extremely nervous."

She said he told her: "Fidel has indicated to me that I've got to go back to Cuba any way I can."

PHONY GRENADE
Capt. Sidney L. Oliver of Miami, the pilot, said the man threatened to explode a hand grenade and brandished a wrapped object. But in Havana, Oliver said, the hijacker "made a big show of unwrapping his hand grenade. It was a can of Old Spice shaving lotion."

Sgt. Nell said the gunman sat across the aisle from him and his family during the flight from Los Angeles to Houston. The man pointed to Nell's watch at one time, indicating he wanted to know the time.

"I pulled my watch off and showed it to him across the aisle," the career serviceman said. "He came out with a 'Thank you.' I think that's the only thing he said in English."

Nell said the man clutched a shaving kit in his lap until the jet landed in Houston.

After the Houston stop, when the hijacker went onto the flight deck and ordered a change in course, Capt. Oliver persuaded him there was insufficient fuel to reach Havana. The gunman permitted a 10-minute stop in New Orleans—the intended second stop on the flight—for refueling. The next landing was at Jose Mari airport on the outskirts of Havana.

PASSENGERS HELD
Cuban authorities released the DC8 jet, but held the passengers, claiming the runway was too short to permit the loaded craft to take off—the same explanation given when a Northwest Orient DC8 was forced to return to Miami July 1 without its passengers.

The seven National crew members flew to Miami while the passengers were driven to the former Havana Hilton hotel. "They gave us the whole 14th floor of the hotel," Key West, Fla., pizza parlor owner Frank Balamonte said. "There was always a guard with us. If we went to the bathroom they were there, if we wanted a drink they'd go down and get it for us. They kept us away from the people," Balamonte said. "And they were there. There were hundreds of people."

Fire Rolls Away From Firemen

NORTH ADAMS, Mass. (AP)—In simple language, the fire kept getting away from the firemen.

It was in a boxcar Wednesday in a Boston & Maine westbound freight train.

First it was sighted in East Deerfield, but the train had gone before firemen could get there. A call went ahead to North Adams, but firemen reached trackside just too late. Same in Williamstown, a few miles farther west.

In Pownall, Vt., the train crew spotted the fire and put it out themselves.

TOKYO (AP)—North Vietnam released three captured American fliers today to an American antiwar committee in Hanoi, the North Vietnamese radio reported. The Americans are expected to leave for Vientiane, the Laotian capital, Friday night.

The Hanoi broadcast called it "a very significant action taken when the U.S. government is intensifying its criminal war of aggression against the Vietnamese people."

The fliers are Maj. James Frederick Low, 43-year-old Korean war ace from Sausalito, Calif.; Maj. Fred Neal Thompson, 32, of Taylors, S.C., and Capt. Joe Victor Carpenter, 37, of Victorville, Calif.

They had been in captivity from four to seven months after being shot down over North Vietnam. The North Vietnamese said earlier they were releasing them for humanitarian reasons. Three other American fliers were released in February.

Nihon Dempa said the airmen were delivered today by the North Vietnam People's Army at 8 a.m. to Mrs. Anne Scheer, wife of Ramparts magazine editor Robert Scheer, Vernon Grizzard, an antidraft organizer in the Boston area, and Stewart Meacham, peace secretary of the American Friends Service Committee, a Quaker organization.

The committee flew from Vientiane to Hanoi last Friday on the ICC plane.

DISPUTE
The Hanoi dispatch said the fliers expressed their gratitude to the North Vietnamese government for kind treatment and thanked them for their release. It said they promised to inform the American people, when they were back in the United States, that the Vietnamese people are unified in their determination to remain free and independent.

The arrival of the three fliers in Vientiane may touch off a new dispute over the insistence of the U.S. government that released prisoners be interrogated before they leave Southeast Asia: American antiwar campaigners contend that this policy is endangering the release of more fliers.

Before going to Hanoi last week, the three escorts talked with American and North Vietnamese officials in Paris and Vientiane.

Their discussions with American negotiator W. Averell Harriman in Paris and U.S. Ambassador William A. Sullivan in Vientiane disclosed a sharp difference of opinion over how the freed airmen should return home.

Harriman and Sullivan said plans have been made to take the men directly from Vientiane airport in the U.S. military attaché's plane to the U.S. air base at Udorn, Thailand, as was done last February.

KEY TOP DATA
Udorn is only a half hour flight from Vientiane. American intelligence officers there can debrief the men only a few hours after their release, when details of what they saw in the North, information on prison camps and fellow prisoners left behind and other valuable data are still fresh in their minds.

In February, North Vietnamese spokesmen and the two American peace campaigners who escorted the prisoners then strongly objected to this procedure and said the men should have returned to the United States without having contact with the American military in Southeast Asia.

Wife Awaits More News On Release Of Husband

Mrs. Fred Neale Thompson and her two sons, Steven, 7, and David, 10, are in South Carolina today awaiting word on the announced release of Maj. Thompson by North Vietnam.

Maj. and Mrs. Thompson were frequent visitors in Big Spring prior to his tour of duty in Vietnam and Mrs. Thompson had been living in Big Spring since he was captured.

"They're just sitting and waiting for official word about the release," Mrs. Beverley Jones, 1908 Johnson, said this morning. She talked with Mrs. Thompson last night by telephone.

Mrs. Thompson and her sons had been living with Mrs. Harry Logan (Mary), 512 Scott, for the last several weeks. Maj. Thompson had been due home April 9, but was shot down March 29. He was one of three Air Force men listed for release by the Hanoi government.

Following a two-week visit by her mother in Big Spring, Mrs. Thompson and her sons left July 1 for Monch Corner, S.C., where her mother lives. Maj. Thompson's parents live in Taylors, S.C.

"About all they know is that Fred is one of three prisoners to be released by North Vietnam," Mrs. Jones said.

Ike Calls Conference
WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, recuperating from his fifth heart attack, called a news conference today at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

There was immediate speculation the five-star general might endorse Richard M. Nixon, his vice president during eight years in the White House, for the Republican presidential nomination.

The speculation that Eisenhower would abandon his neutrality stance was strengthened by Nixon's presence today in Washington.

Nixon, considered the strongest contender for the GOP nomination, had scheduled what were described as political conferences with congressmen and a State Department briefing, presumably concentrating on the Vietnam war.

Allison Dies Of Combat Wounds

Sam Stephen Allison, 19, specialist fourth class, U.S. Army, has been killed in action in Vietnam.

His wife, Mrs. Helen G. Allison, 1513½ Scurry, was officially notified of his death on Monday. Last Saturday Mrs. Allison had been informed that her husband was missing in action.

The second message said that he had succumbed to wounds suffered in combat.

Mrs. Allison said that funeral services will be held in Abilene where his parents live. Elliott Funeral Home will be in charge of arrangements. No date has been set for the services.

Mrs. Allison said that her husband had been in Vietnam for nine months. She and Spec. 4 Allison had been married about three months when he was sent overseas.

Spec. 4 SAM S. ALLISON

Mrs. Allison is a senior in the Big Spring High School and is attending summer school. She is the former Helen Glee Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. C. Webb, 1216 Lloyd.

More Slashes Due On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration's foreign aid bill, already trimmed by $600 million, faces even deeper cuts in spite of a last ditch appeal by President Johnson that the program already "has been pared to the bone."

The bill, before the House today, was set originally at $2.3 billion, but was cut back to $2.3 billion by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Opponents said in debate Wednesday much more should be cut. Some representatives talked about seeking a year-long moratorium on any foreign aid. Supporters voiced optimism after the debate about holding in line, although cuts of another $400 million were considered likely.

Johnson said Wednesday he would not oppose the committee cuts but added that already "the program has been pared to the bone."

"I want to emphasize to the American people and to all members of Congress my conviction that passage of this legislation is absolutely essential," Johnson said.

Nor, Johnson asserted, could there be any greater disservice to his successor in the White House "than the defeat, or crippling, of this bill."

The administration's original $2.9 billion request compares with a $2.67 billion ceiling which Congress set in the last fiscal year when an actual appropriation of $2.2 billion was approved. The House committee cut the overall economic aid section of the bill from $2.4 billion to $1.97 billion and trimmed the military assistance from $420 million to $390 million.

The bidding:

North East South West
1NT Pass 3♣ Pass
4♣ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♥

Altho North would have experienced little difficulty in scoring 11 tricks at no trump, he and his partner arrived at four spades on a natural sequence of bids. Had South handled his cards a bit more adroitly, the suit contract would have proven virtually as profitable.

West opened the "king of hearts" and the ace was played from dummy. The king of spades was cashed and, when East showed out, South hastened to reenter his hand with the queen of clubs to take the proven spade finesse against West's ten. The king of spades was cashed; however, when declarer attempted to cross back with another club to complete the drawing of trump, West administered a jolt by ruffing with the eight of spades.

The question now arose concerning how best to put East in for another club ruff. West toyed with the idea of under-leading the queen of hearts in the hope that partner had the jack—however, he finally chose to shift to a diamond. If East had the king of diamonds, as appeared likely, since South had already shown up with so much strength in the two black suits, then the diamond play would be much safer.

South had no recourse but to finesse dummy's queen. East won the trick with the king and led back another club enabling West to score with the ten of spades. He cashed the queen of hearts for the setting trick.

Declarer's carelessness was no doubt induced by the great wealth of playing material at his command for, even after the adverse trump division was revealed, he still had 10 top tricks available. The uneven split in spades should have alerted him to the possibility that West might be short in another suit.

The luxury of bringing in the entire trump suit should have been forgone in the interests of safety. South must content himself with cashing his four high spades and then begin to run the club suit. West may ruff in with the ten of trumps whenever he wishes, but there is no way to prevent declarer from taking eight tricks in the black suits plus the two red aces—bringing his total to the required 10.

Last Respects Paid To Pool

DALLAS (AP) — Rep. Joe Pool, D-Tex., was eulogized Wednesday as a "fair and fearless representative, a lawmaker of impeccable character and a dedicated and determined crusader for what is right for America."

About 800 persons, including 14 Congressmen and President Johnson's personal representative, attended the funeral services at the Tyler Street Methodist Church.

Pool, whose zealous work on the controversial House Un-American Activities Committee won him much publicity in recent years, died of a heart attack Sunday at Houston.

Former state Sen. Jimmy Phillips of Angleton, Tex., who was a long-time friend of Pool's, said in his eulogy:

"Joe was a kind and compassionate person whose public image would not project this characteristic to those who did not know him.

"There was every evidence about him of his dedication, determination and extreme candor in carrying out what he believed would help keep his country safe from danger from within or without.

"There was not any evidence of any fear for his own safety in his sometimes dangerous and hectic experiences with those who vigorously and sometimes violently expressed their disapproval of his activities as a member of the Un-American Activities Committee and a member of Congress."

Pool's congressional colleagues were named honorary pallbearers and 14 of them flew aboard a White House plane from Washington for the service. All were from Texas except Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., who served with Pool on the Un-American Activities Committee.

Man Charged In Officer Assault

SNYDER — Hearne Edward Smith, 27, has been charged with assault with intent to murder E. L. Hatfield, Hale County deputy sheriff, whom he is accused of kidnapping, knifing and assaulting with a hammer.

Hatfield is reported in good condition at the Cogdell Memorial Hospital in Snyder although he has abdominal wounds and a skull fracture. Smith, who seized Hatfield's gun and held him hostage for 10 hours, was arrested late Tuesday evening northwest of Snyder as he walked alongside a highway. He had a .38 caliber pistol in his possession, officers said. Smith has a record of a jail break and a prison break, and in the latter instance he also was charged with abducting and killing a woman.

Man Attacked By Trio On Highway

A Duncenville resident, traveling on IS 20 about 10 miles west of Big Spring, was slugged by three strangers and left beside his car in a semidazed condition at 8 p.m. Wednesday night.

Martin and Howard County officers are puzzled over the reason for attack and have been unsuccessful so far in locating the trio said to be traveling in a heavy black sedan.

Sheriff A. N. Standard said his office received a call at 8:30 p.m. from Dan Saunders, sheriff of Martin County. Saunders said that a man, identified as Bill Merrick, who is vice president of the A. T. Trailer Mfg. Co. in Duncenville, was in his office and had reported being attacked in Howard County.

Standard said Merrick told him he was traveling west on IS 20 pulling a trailer behind his car. He saw the big sedan with the three men pull alongside. They signalled to him and pointed to a rear wheel on the trailer. He said he assumed they were trying to tell him one of the tires was going flat.

He stopped the car and got out. He stooped down to look at the wheel and was struck on the side of the head with some blunt instrument which cut his face and left him momentarily dazed. When he came to, he saw the sedan disappearing ahead of him. He gave chase but was unable to overtake the other vehicle.

He was not robbed of anything and had never seen the other car or its passengers before.

Road blocks were set up but the car was not found. Standard said that Merrick told him he formerly lived in Big Spring and was a relative of the late Andrew Merrick, former Howard County sheriff.

Injured Judge To Call Docket

Ralph Caton, judge of the 118th District Court, said today that plans for a criminal jury docket in his court, including docket call set for 2 p.m. Friday, are to go ahead as scheduled.

The judge broke a leg last Saturday and has missed three days from his office. Wednesday his leg was placed in a cast and he was ordered to stay put for 24 hours to permit the cast to set.

"I'll be down at 10 a.m. Friday," he said, "and I will call the docket as scheduled at 2 p.m. The jury panel is to report at 10 a.m. Monday for the trial of any cases ready."

Judge Caton fractured his left leg in two places when his motorcycle skidded on loose sand and flipped over on him.

Texas Tech Honor Student Shares Pageant Spotlight

FORT WORTH (AP) — A Samoan sword twirler and a shapely Texas Tech honor student shared the spotlight today as the first preliminary winners in the Miss Texas Pageant.

They are Treva Ladd, 17, competing as Miss Burk Burnett, and Peggy Kincannon, 20, Miss Lubbock.

Miss Ladd, a compact 5-foot-4 blonde with 35-23-35 dimensions, started a Will Rogers Auditorium crowd of about 2,500 with her fiery Samoan sword act set against a rhythmic jungle drum beat.

PINK SUIT
Miss Kincannon, who stands 5-5 and is brown-haired and hazel-eyed, won the judges' nod with a 35-22-35 figure packed into a hot pink bathing suit.

The show continues tonight with the second of three preliminary performances that carry over into Saturday night's coronation of the new Miss Texas.

The winner will succeed Molly Grubb of Tyler, the Texas Christian University ballet beauty who won here as Miss Fort Worth a year ago. From here the Texas title goes to the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City.

Miss Kincannon upheld a Lubbock tradition in taking preliminary swim suit honors. Lubbock entries in 1966 and 1967 also won tribute as the shapeliest of contestants.

THRILLING
"I was aware of what was expected of me," Miss Kincannon smiled. "I felt the pressure."

She entered the Miss Lubbock competition somewhat on the spur of the moment, she said, at the urging of her Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority sisters. "But I think every girl has the dream to be Miss Texas or Miss America. . . . It's pretty thrilling."

China's Army Intervening

HONG KONG (AP) — Red China's army is reported finally trying to stop the bloody fighting in South China after six weeks of standing aside from the clashes between supporters and opponents of Mao Tse-tung and between rival Maoist factions.

Travelers arriving from Canton, South China's largest city and the capital of Kwangtung province, told of troops patrolling the main streets and manning barricades at highway intersections and railway yards.

The official Canton newspaper Nan Fang said Peking had ordered troops to crush the wave of violence, but the report broadcast by Canton Radio gave no details.

A number of travelers from Kwangtung province, west of Kwangtung, said army units at Linchow took sides once, in a very factional fight that broke out July 10 and raged for 36 hours. They said rockets used by the soldiers set off fires which devastated 17 city blocks.

But their reports said that within the last three days the army had taken major steps to control the situation in the city, which is on the main rail route for Chinese war supplies to North Vietnam.

One traveler from Kwangsi said supply trains were under heavy guard after backlogs and fears of Mao Tse-tung had raided the trains to steal weapons consigned to the North Vietnamese.

There is no way to confirm the travelers' reports, but their multiplicity and the way they dovetail indicates they may be true.

She won the state senior baton twirling championship in April. Why did she trade her baton for a sword?

"I haven't traded my baton," she replied. "After five years I decided I wanted something more challenging. It's good show work."

As for entering the Miss Texas contest, she said, "You have to have a dream, a goal in life. Mine is to be Miss America. I had to try."

Twiggy Planning To Wed Manager

LONDON (AP) — Top model Twiggy says she'll marry her manager, 28-year-old Justin de Villeneuve.

The announcement Wednesday night came after the manager's nine year marriage to Pamela Davies, 31, ended in divorce on grounds of his desertion.

"The wedding won't be just yet," said Twiggy, 18, whose real name is Lesley Hornby. "I'm still very young and I don't believe in young marriages."

Said Justin, whose real name is Nigel Davies, "We are both very relieved and happy that the divorce has at last come through." He will be free to marry after three months.

Dino's Daughter Maps Marriage

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Singer Dean Martin's daughter Gail, 22, and a 42-year-old attorney have obtained a marriage license at the Santa Monica courthouse.

Gail Barbara Martin and Paul Francis Polena said Wednesday they had not set a date for the ceremony. It will be her first marriage and his third.

In Hollywood, meanwhile, a Columbia Pictures spokesman said Dean Martin suffered burns on both hands during an accident while filming a scene for the picture, "House of 7 Joys."

Tramp Poet Plans To Hit Road Again

By BRYAN WOOLEY
Associated Press Writer

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — If by any chance, you're driving down some highway in Kansas and you see a stooped man in a slouch hat trudging along the shoulder, he may be a poet.

Some call Welborn Hope "Oklahoma's tramp poet," and he's proud of the title.

POVERTY VOW

"A man can't write true poetry unless he takes a personal vow of poverty," he said. "He must really believe that the most important things in this world don't cost money."

"Being a poet means being poor," he said, "and it means being a recluse—like a Trappist monk—alone with his poverty and his thoughts."

Hope has never published a book, but more than 2,000 of his poems have appeared in all kinds of publications, from small-town newspapers to national periodicals like "The Saturday Review," "The New Republic" and "Poetry." "About 50 or 60 of them are top-flight," he said.

LAURELS

He's not without his laurels. He won the William Rose Benet Memorial Award in 1962 for two poems published in "The Saturday Review." The Harvard English faculty voted his poem "Wild Children and She" the best poem of 1962. There have been others.

Dr. M. B. Molloy, an English professor at East Central State College in Ada, Okla., Hope's home town, awoke his interest in poetry and set him on his course about 1920.

That course has included newspaper work, "never for very long at a time," in Oklahoma, Missouri, New York and Texas, a stay of several months among Trappist monks in Arkansas, work as a salesman and various other jobs. For the past year, he's been working in a small hotel in Tulsa.

UP TO LUCK

"I'm going to hit the road again soon," he said. "I'll start through Kansas and Iowa. From there, it's up to luck and the weather. I hope to make most of the states before it gets too cold."

"Always, there's been tramping," he said, "walking, hitchhiking, riding the rods if there's no other way."

Tramping, to Hope, also means reciting a poem at a back door in exchange for food, and never, never asking for money.

"To offer a poem in exchange for food is to offer something of value. That's the whole meaning of my life."

Protest Leader Gets Job Back

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie J. Smith, 29, has been reinstated to his $18,000 a year city job after a week's suspension stemming from his leadership of a City Hall protest for more summer jobs that turned into a brawl.

Smith was suspended July 11, the day after 1,500 teenagers gathered in City Hall park to protest cutbacks in summer job funds. The protest turned into a rampage as the youngsters assaulted bystanders, broke windows, looted vendors and damaged six automobiles.

Smith is director of the city's Neighborhood Youth Corps. Mitchell Ginsberg, his superior as city human resources administrator, announced his reinstatement Wednesday.

Ginsberg said, "Mr. Smith understands" he will "either have to resign or be dismissed" if he takes "public action" against city policy in the future.

Sprinkler Bids Are Invited

The procurement office at Webb AFB this week announced an invitation for bids covering the alteration of the water distribution system at the base.

Principal features of the proposed alteration include excavation, grading and fill for water lines, valve boxes and valve assemblies; installation of valve assemblies for existing underground sprinkler systems; and construction of new concrete valve boxes. Estimated cost of the proposed construction is less than $25,000.

Requests for bid sets should be made to the procurement office, building 625, at Webb. Bids on the contract will be received until Aug. 15, although requests for bid sets must be received before Aug. 8.

The successful contractor will be required to start work within 10 days after receiving notice to proceed, and complete the contract within 90 days.

Italian Premier Gets Slim Vote

ROME (AP) — Premier Giovanni Leone completed the parliamentary mandate for his all-Christian Democrat interim government Wednesday night. He eked out a vote of confidence in the Senate by a nine-vote majority.

Mayor Says Paper May Force Run

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Sam Yorty says the Los Angeles Times may force him to seek a third four-year term in office.

If the newspaper continues to oppose his administration, Yorty said Wednesday, he might run again to prevent the Times from trying to run the city.

"They'll not do that as long as I'm here," he said. Yorty's term ends next year.

A Times investigation led to the bribery indictments and conviction of two former harbor commissioners appointed by Yorty. The mayor said he fired the two men, Karl Rundberg and Robert "Nick" Starr, before they were charged with accepting furniture from a developer in return for harbor favors. The Times printed Yorty's statement. There was no comment on the editorial page.

Wallace Polls Muscle Feared

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Wallace's growing muscle in public opinion polls is matched by increasing concern in both major parties over his potential impact on the presidential election.

Republicans, regarded at this stage as most likely to suffer from a big Wallace vote, appear to be the most concerned.

But Democrats are worried too, that the former Alabama governor could grab off enough Electoral College votes to toss the election into the House of Representatives.

GLEEFUL

Wallace, in campaign speeches, has been gleeful at the prospect.

With the exception of Republican presidential hopeful Richard M. Nixon, the major candidates of both parties have had little or nothing to say publicly on the possibilities.

A bipartisan move to neutralize the effect of a big Wallace showing has been launched by Reps. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., and Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz.

They plan to set up a steering committee next week to spearhead a drive for pledges by candidates for election to the House to vote for the presidential candidate who wins the greatest popular vote.

"The initial reaction has been very good," said Goodell Wednesday night.

WINNER?

Nixon, campaigning in Philadelphia early in the week, figured Wallace a likely winner in Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and possibly Georgia, and conceded Wallace's third-party candidacy could hurt him in a general election.

Some well-placed officials in Washington, notably Rep. Bob Wilson of California, chairman of the House Republican Committee which looks out for GOP members' campaign interests, go a good deal farther in estimates of what Wallace might get.

By Wilson's calculations there is a chance Wallace might carry nearly all the South and even some border states.

Another veteran GOP politician, who would not be quoted by name, came up with a figure of six or seven for the number of states Wallace might take, and said both Democrats and Republicans would be damaged by that.

Talk about Wallace stemmed from recent polls showing him the choice of up to 17 per cent of the voters, about twice what he was registering early in the campaign year.

The Electoral College has 538 members, thus requiring 270 for a majority.

Management Study Detailed

How the mid-management program will work as a part of the vocational-technical division of Howard County Junior College was detailed to the Downtown Lions Club at the Settles Wednesday noon.

Doyle Holder, who will instruct the course, explained that it is to fill a gap between ordinary workers and top management.

Dr. Marshall Box, head of the V-T division at the college, introduced Holder. He also pointed to four offerings in the division. Three other programs are starting and there are four purely vocational offerings, he said.

Mid-management involves on-the-job training but it is not a college-level distributive educational, cooperative industrial training, or vocational office education course, Holder said. Instead, it is aimed at developing managerial as well as job skills.

It is a two-year course that produces 66 hours of college credit (57 transferable to senior college for continued work). At the end of the two-year course, trainees should be able to assume management and supervisory roles below the top management levels, he said.

There are four phases of training: academic, on-the-job experience, seminar in case studies, and decision-making. The curriculum involves principles of salesmanship, enterprise, merchandising, accounting, English, history, mathematics, etc.

Swim Attending Sooner Workshop

Keith Swim, director of the Big Spring Headstart program, is in Norman, Okla., attending a two-week workshop for Headstart directors.

Swim left Monday for the University of Oklahoma and will return July 26.

The workshop was designed for directors and administrators of Headstart, a federal grant program under the auspices of the Office of Economic Opportunity act.

Light Showers Over County

Light showers swept in the area early today but checks indicated that no appreciable moisture fell in any part of the county.

The rains came after dawn when cloud banks swept in from the north. The U. S. Experiment Station, north of town, said that the shower was so light it was merely classified as a trace.

Downpour, the rain was heavy enough to put windshield wipers in operation on automobiles.

Would You Believe—Minor Injuries?

Two occupants of this station wagon escaped serious injury when it was squashed between a huge truck and the center fencing of Interstate 35 in downtown Austin Wednesday. Two women passengers of the station wagon were treated at a local hospital and released. The truck driver was uninjured.

Accidents Holiday

No accidents were reported to police Wednesday according to the police blotter.

A spokesman at the police department said that it was the first time there had been no accidents reported in a great while.

He said he did not know, however, how long it had been since there was a day when no accidents were reported.

"It could possibly have been over a year ago since we recorded no accidents," he said.

Fortas Concerned About Crime Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) Associate Justice Abe Fortas said today he doesn't know whether Supreme Court decisions have contributed to rising crime rates but that he tries to decide cases on the basis of the Constitution.

"As a citizen, like everybody else, I am deeply concerned about the crime rate in our country—deeply concerned," he told the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Testifying on his nomination to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren, Fortas said he believes that faithful adherence to the Constitution "will produce a result in the interest of the country."

"We can only decide the cases that come before the court," Fortas said, "and as God gives us guidance decide them on the basis of the Constitution. And that's what I try to do."

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., bluntly accused Fortas and other members of the court of turning loose confessed rapists and murderers on legal technicalities.

Referring to the Mallory case, decided before Fortas went on the court in 1965, Thurmond said the court had turned loose a rapist who had voluntarily confessed, simply because of a delay in his arraignment.

"Do you believe in that kind of justice?" asked Thurmond. "With the greatest regret, I cannot respond because of the constitutional limitations," Fortas replied.

Earlier, Fortas assured the committee he thoroughly disapproves of extreme forms of protest and dissent.

"There is under our system of government no place for lawlessness and violence," he said.

Fortas had turned aside other questions put to him by Thurmond on recent court decisions with the explanation the Constitution prohibits him from answering.

"The Constitution says justices should not be held accountable to explain their views and opinions," Fortas said. "They should not be held to answer before any other branch of government."

DUTY

This, he said, includes members of Congress.

And yet, Fortas said, he acted properly in writing a pamphlet recently disapproving some forms of protest, and speaking against such actions at law schools around the country.

He cited the case of the recently passed Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, which he said would cost $5 1/2 billion during the fiscal year. Involving 30 different subsidized programs, it is impossible accurately to assess its cost in future years, but eight of the major provisions could cost between $45 and $50 billion during the next decade, he said.

"The bill includes a subsidy rent payments, commonly known as rent supplement," said the congressman. "It provides the difference between 20 per cent of a home owner's income after deducting $300 for each minor child and monthly mortgage payments. Market interest rates can be subsidized down to a minimum of one per cent regardless of the going rates at the time."

"Another example is insurance provided by the federal government to rebuild property destroyed by riots. Urban renewal with federal grants and loans is provided but with this type of insurance any ghetto can be burned out and the renewal can be made under the insurance provision."

"In the debate on this measure the sponsors agreed that this is the answer to chaos occurring in many of our large cities, but a few crumbs is provided for every nick and cranny of the entire country under some type of federal program."

"All this follows the law recently passed providing for a 10 per cent surcharge tax increase, together with a $6 billion reduction in the current budget, together with the cancellation of $10 billion in commitments already made."

"How all of this is to be accomplished, while committing the government to these huge outlays of expenditures in the future, is wholly inconsistent."

"The interest on the public debt now exceeds $15 billion and the debt will continue to expand unless there is established firm control over the course of future expenditures. What is needed and what is es-

Sharon Dons Evening Gown For Title Contest Tonight

FORT WORTH — The first night is over and Sharon Hicks, Miss Big Spring, was ready for another day to start Thursday in her competition for the Miss Texas Title.

Wednesday night she competed in the swim suit division and tonight will don her evening gown for the walk before the judges.

Another group of persons also will be watching Sharon Thursday when she appears in Leonard's Department Store style show.

She will appear in the style show with the opening night's swim suit winner, Miss Lubbock, Peggy Kincannon.

Peggy was a preliminary winner along with Treva Ladd, Miss Burk Burnett, who won her talent division with a Samoan sword act. She twirled the sabres to the thrill of the audience and kept them on their seats wondering if one of the two knives might break loose and come flying into the crowd of 2,000 persons.

Miss Lubbock went before the judges in a "hot pink" swim suit which covered her 35-23-35 figure which was shapely proportioned over her 115 pounds. She stands 5-5, has brown hair and hazel eyes. This was the third year Lubbock has won a swim suit award.

An inch taller than Peggy, Sharon passed the judges in an aqua swim suit. She also weighs 115 pounds and is a shapely 36-25-36. She has brown hair and blue eyes.

Even though competition on stage has begun, Sharon like all the other girls, spends exhausting days trying to win the title.

In fact Tuesday night she was so tired, her chaperone, Mrs. Barbara Tibbs said, "she was asleep the minute she hit the pillow."

But Wednesday morning Sharon was up and ready to go again. Like her first day here Sharon was again up at 4:45 a.m. The previous time there was no breakfast served by the pageant, but this time in her rehearsal clothes she enjoyed a meal in the Jade Room of the Western Hills Hotel, headquarters of the pageant.

Wednesday the HCJC beauty also ate a meal with the downtown Lions-Jaycees and was then off to Leonard's for the fitting of her clothes for the fashion show today.

Pretending she had a large balloon in her hands Wednesday morning, she walked the ramp in rehearsals for the swim suit competition. Wednesday night the balloon was there and Sharon like the other 20 girls in her division tossed the balloons to the crowd.

Friday night Sharon will play the guitar and sing, "Louisiana Man," for an expected crowd of several thousand persons.

The government has promised more, both to our own people and to the outside world than it can deliver, Rep. Omar Burleson declared in his weekly news letter today.

He cited the case of the recently passed Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, which he said would cost $5 1/2 billion during the fiscal year. Involving 30 different subsidized programs, it is impossible accurately to assess its cost in future years, but eight of the major provisions could cost between $45 and $50 billion during the next decade, he said.

Black Panthers Power Growing

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The leggy girls swivel mini-skirts across their hips as they chant in rhythm:

"Time to get your gun."

In cadence with the clapping of the girls' hands, the 60 young men flanking them in military line on the courthouse steps raise clenched fists in reply:

"And USE IT."

These are the Black Panthers, a gun-carrying group of Negro militants spawned in West Oakland. This time, they left their guns at home.

"PIGS GO HOME"

Inside the Alameda County courthouse, on trial on a charge of murdering a white policeman is Huey Newton, the handsome 26-year-old who organized the Black Panther party in 1966.

Around the heavily guarded block-long courthouse past doors locked on all but one side, their supporters march. And as they pass helmeted officers they calmly hiss in words clear enough to reach police ears, "Pigs go home."

Black leather jackets and black cloth berets distinguish the elite guard. They move in a precise military column only when squad leaders quietly pass the word. Some speak into walkie-talkies to where, none will say.

On each "Free Huey" button worn is a back-arched black panther.

"The panther doesn't attack anyone," Newton has explained the symbol choice, "but when he's forced into a corner he will strike out and he will not stop until the aggressor is wiped out."

Charging police brutality and disrespect for blacks, Newton's panthers began cruising the ghetto areas with guns in cars on watch for police patrol cars. They said their aim was, when arrests were attempted, to stop up and advise the black suspects of their rights.

DENIAL

Panther leaders contended and Oakland authorities denied that this activity prompted police to "get" Newton. In October 1967, they got him on a charge of shooting and killing a policeman who stopped his car.

Last April in a West Oakland gun-battle, Black Panther-Bobby Hutton, 18, was killed and two policemen wounded in another incident.

How many Black Panthers are there?

Always the answer from Black Panther sources is the same:

"Those who know don't say; those who say don't know."

Police intelligence puts the number at around 200. They come largely from the West Oakland ghetto where 40,000 Negroes are crowded together. There are more than 121,000 Negroes in all Oakland.

Thief Nabs Six Chicks

Four thefts were reported to police Wednesday.

At the Sav-Mor Grocery, 311 NW 4th, Garland Wayne Newton, 1601 Cardinal, reported six fryers were taken from the back of his pick-up truck while he was making a delivery to the store.

He told police there were several people standing near the door when he entered the store. Police are investigating the report.

Roy Burden, 3701 West Highway 90, reported a ratchet and socket set, tool box, and wrenches were taken from the rear of his station wagon while it was parked at the R'll Do Lounge.

Mary Thorpe, 3001 Cactus, reported $25 in cash was missing from the cash register at Vernon's Liquor Store, 1000 E. 4th. She told police four men entered the store Wednesday evening, and she waited on one of them at the rear of the store.

When they left, she found the cash register drawer open and the money missing. No one fitting their descriptions was found in the vicinity by police.

Grady Wilbanks, 553 Hillside, reported a car stereo tape recorder was taken from his car during the night. The car was parked at his residence.

On The Ropes

Argentina's Juan Rivera hangs on the ropes near end of fifth round of scheduled ten-round light-heavyweight bout in New York's Madison Square Garden Wednesday night.

Referee John Colan pulls Frank De Paula of Jersey City back from the downed Rivera, who was saved by the bell before the count could be completed. Colan stopped the bout.

Nixon Boosts Sox Over Minnesota

By The Associated Press

Nixon invaded Humphrey country Wednesday night and came out a winner.

The Nixon was Russ, a former Minnesota catcher, not Dick, a former Washington vice president, and the scene of battle was Metropolitan Stadium rather than the political arena.

Nixon's platform was revenge and he pushed it through with a tie-breaking three-run pinch double in the ninth inning that carried the Boston Red Sox to a 6-5 victory over Hubert Humphrey's favorite team, the Minnesota Twins.

JUST RETURNED
You might even say that Nixon won his primary battle, since it was the first appearance of the season for the veteran catcher, just brought up from the minor leagues.

Elsewhere in the American League, Oakland edged Detroit 3-2, the Chicago White Sox nipped Baltimore 1-0, Cleveland downed California 4-2 and Washington tripped the New York Yankees 2-1.

Nixon went to spring training with the Twins, for whom he batted .235 last year, but was released two days before they broke camp. The Red Sox signed him for their Pittsfield, Mass., farm club and brought him up Wednesday when they found themselves with only one able-bodied catcher.

"Sure it felt good," Nixon said. "I wanted to get that hit for us and I wanted to get it against this club. Every club I talked to told me they'd have wanted me if I'd been released earlier. But everybody had roster problems by that time."

Nixon connected off Ron Peranowski after the Red Sox had loaded the bases against Al Worthington on Rico Petrocelli's double and two walks. The Twins came back with two in the bottom of the ninth.

The White Sox literally balked at Baltimore's attempt to chop another game off Detroit's league lead. A controversial balk call in the fourth inning gave Chicago the only run of the game and set off a heated argument between Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver and plate umpire John Flaherty.

BALK ON PHOEBUS
Tom McCraw opened the inning with a single, one of only three hits the Sox got in the game. He stole second, took third on a wild pitch and scored when Flaherty called a balk on Tom Phoebus.

Weaver said Flaherty first told him Phoebus speeded up his motion and jerked as McCraw bluffed coming down the line. After talking it over with his fellow umpires, Flaherty then said that Phoebus stopped during his delivery, which constitutes a balk.

That ended the Orioles' seven-game winning streak and gave Weaver his first loss in seven games since taking over as manager.

Rick Monday's two-run homer in the first inning and a game-saving throw by Reggie Jackson in the seventh highlighted Oakland's win over Detroit. It was the Tigers' fifth loss in seven games since the All-Star break.

Dick McAuliffe doubled with two out in the seventh and Mickey Stanley singled. But right fielder Jackson fired the ball to catcher Dave Duncan, who tagged McAuliffe out.

Incidentally, Sweetwater is rallying the support to march into the 3-AAA throne room and not without good reason. The Ponies, who played Big Spring almost every year up until 1962, have 15 lettermen returning. Eight of those were regulars on offense, five on defense. In football, there is no substitute for experience.

Someone in 3-AAA conducted a poll among coaches recently and the men who should know which team walks in seven-league boots say Estacado, Lubbock, Dunbar, Brownfield, Snyder, Lamesa, Colorado City, Levelland, San Angelo Lake View, Littlefield and Slaton will finish behind Sweetwater in that order.

No one outside the league will know the true strength of 3-AAA until the playoffs, since the district voted on a round-robin schedule rather than delay the issue by playing warm-up games.

Coaching aide Tom Wilson, another of the Texas Tech delegation who broke bread with Red Raider supporters here last week, recently moved into a new home complete with a fireplace.

Even though it rarely freezes anytime in Lubbock between May 31 and June 15, Wilson was anxious to try out that part of the room which disappears up a chimney. He proceeded to haul in the logs and put them to the torch.

Fifteen minutes later, his home was filled with smoke and the neighbors were importing the fans from the basement to displace the smog.

Wilson put in a hurried call to Burl Bartlett, who also draws his pay as a Tech instructor in football. Burl solved the problem. Tom had forgotten to open the damper.

Blacky Blackburn of Abilene High School, dean of baseball coaches in West Texas, played high school football under Pete Stowell at Breckenridge. The public school stadium in Abilene is named after Pete.

Willie Mays and Hank Aaron are the only active major league players to have hitting streaks of 20 or more consecutive games.

Would you care to analyze Houston, where some caustic observers said interest was wearing off in the domed stadium? Despite the fact that the Astros obviously have no appetite for leaning into the winds, churned by the National League's somewhat lackluster race, only six teams in all of baseball have outdrawn Houston at home. The Astros will easily play before an excess of a million fans again this year.

If the Astros should ever tell and make a run at the championship, there's little telling what sort of stampede they'd cause. They might even lure a few of those easily-bruised people in Dallas.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

It's interesting to note that Snyder is being picked to finish no higher than fifth in District 3-AAA football and that Lamesa school officials are fretting over the loss of Big Spring. Andrews and Seminole from the Golden Tornado grid schedule. Lamesa had no choice but to meet its commitments within the league.

John Conley, the Texas Tech aide who visited here the other day, gave the Snyder team the kind of clout it hasn't had in the intervening years but Wayne Tyrone, who now is in the saddle at Snyder, gave every indication he knew what he was doing in last fall's brauhaha with Big Spring. Perhaps the Tigers will flaunt their snewes again.

The Lamesa people dislike the thought of severing football relations with Big Spring because the series invariably drew well, especially when the two teams played here. Clubs like Colorado City, Slaton and Lubbock Estacado — new to the Lamesa schedule — probably won't do as well at the gate because the potential isn't there.

Incidentally, Sweetwater is rallying the support to march into the 3-AAA throne room and not without good reason. Laguna Looks To Title Go With Cruz

NEW YORK (AP) — A Teo Cruz-Ismael Laguna lightweight title fight appears ready to be made for Madison Square Garden in the fall as the result of Laguna's brilliant victory over young Vic Melendez.

Laguna, champion for seven months in 1965 in winning and losing title fights with Carlos Ortiz, came on like a whirlwind in the last seven rounds to completely outclass the previously unbeaten Puerto Rican New Yorker in the Garden 10-rounder Wednesday night.

So today Laguna's manager, Cain Young, and Cruz's manager, Pete Martinez, will meet with Garden matchmaker Teddy Brenner to negotiate the title fight for September or October.

The Garden had offered Cruz, a Dominican Republic native who dethroned Ortiz in Santo Domingo on June 30, $40,000 to meet the Laguna-Melendez winner.

Cruz and his manager were brought up by the Garden to "watch the fight."

"It was a mismatch," said Cruz. "I know how to fight Laguna. If the Garden gets up enough money, I'll fight him. It's time for me to start making some big money."

Laguna, a 2-1 favorite, received 8-1 round scores from judges Tony Rossi and Tony Castellano and a 7-3 ballot from referee Harold Valan. The Associated Press had it 7-3 for Laguna.

It was the fifth straight victory for Laguna, a Panamanian now living in New York. His record is 52-5-1. Melendez had won 19 bouts and drawn in four before suffering his first defeat. He will be 22 Monday and has a bright future.

Hawk Golfers To Stay Busy

HCJC golf coach Jerry Dudley, who is attending summer school at East Texas State University in Commerce, has announced the Jayhawks will open their 1968-69 season in a meet at Borger and will play eight matches.

The Hawk linksters will be in Levelland Oct. 25, Hobbs, N. M., Nov. 8, at NMHI in Roswell, N. M., Dec. 7, in Odessa March 28, and in Amarillo April 25-26.

In addition, HCJC will host the other Western Conference schools April 18 and will take part in the Great Plains tournament, for which no date has been set.

The 1969 National Juco tournament will again be held in Roswell sometime in the late spring and the Hawks will likely compete here for the first time.

PROFESSIONAL RING RESULTS
NEW YORK—Ismael Laguna, 136, Panamanian, outpointed Vic Melendez, 136, Puerto Rican, 10; Jimmy Duane, 175, Jersey City, N. J., outpointed Green, 175, New York; 10; Frankie De Paolo, 172½, Jersey City, N. J., stopped Rocky Rivers, 176, Arden, 6.

TOKYO—Tetsuro Furuyama, 129½, Japan, knocked out Roy Yalton, 136, Philippines, 5.

LAS VEGAS—Neville Gonzalez, 129, San Diego, outpointed Rene Macias, 135, Los Angeles, 10.

Nicklaus: Too Many Club Pros In PGA

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Touring golf pros, who contend they draw the crowds and build the field for the PGA tournament, have charged that the field for the PGA tournament is overloaded with club professionals.

"The small number of touring pros in the field is absurd," Jack Nicklaus, the tournament favorite, said before the battle for the PGA title began today.

"The number is much, much too low," added Nicklaus, a member of the Players' Tournament Committee. "It's unfortunate to say the least—that what should be our best tournament has probably the weakest field we play in all year."

"It's getting better, but it's still ridiculous," Nicklaus said, pointing out that nearly two-thirds of the 168 entries are club professionals.

Despite the big number of club pros—who make a living as professionals at golf courses and rarely venture out on the pro tour—the touring pros have won every PGA title in modern times.

"We know that no club pro is going to win this thing," said Noble Chalfant of Denver, vice president of the PGA. "But we look at it as more than just another tournament on the tour—it's for the whole Association."

"And in the future there will be more touring pros in the field because we are setting up a special club pro tournament and only the top 25 from there will qualify for next year's PGA tournament," Chalfant said.

The touring pros contend that probably 50 or 60 of their colleagues are good enough to challenge for the title but can't win berths in the tournament because of the number of spots allotted to club pros.

The size of the field also is under fire, with Arnold Palmer—who has never won the PGA—among the critics.

"A field this size is very unfair to the players themselves in their own championship," Palmer said, noting that today's first starters teed off at 6:30 a.m.

DOES ABOUT-FACE

Piper Coach Is Owner's Target

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gabe Rubin, who owned the American Basketball Association champion Pittsburgh Pipers last season, blasted former Coach Vince Cazzetta today as a "nobody" and a "lousy basketball coach."

"If you want to know the real reason Cazzetta will not be with our team in Minnesota, it's because he's a lousy basketball coach, and you can quote me on that," Rubin is quoted in the current issue of Pittsburgh Weekly Sports, which goes on the newsstands Friday.

"We had the talent and his role was overrated," the story quotes Rubin. "The players used to laugh at him when he'd draw plays on the blackboard before a game. Him and his clipboard and his X's and O's."

"In my opinion, the Pipers won in spite of Vince Cazzetta."

Rubin sold part of his interest in the team and transferred it to Minneapolis-St. Paul last month. Cazzetta, the ABA Coach-of-the-Year, later quit.

"We made him. The whole image," Rubin was quoted. "He was a nobody when he came here. An assistant at Rhode Island. We brought him out of obscurity and now he can go back, if he wants, to Connecticut and sell shoes."

The reference was to a position Cazzetta has taken with the Converse Rubber Co.

Cazzetta, reached in Hartford, Conn., told The Associated Press that Rubin's blast was "too ridiculous to comment about."

"It was kind of surprising," Cazzetta said, "but knowing the man nothing he does really surprises me. When he was selling the club, (he said) I was the best coach in the country. Then he turned around with this."

Rog Staubach Is Praised

By The Associated Press

There were some heated salary discussions, 100 degree temperatures and some important ice in action at various training camps of the pro football teams.

And, too, there was a U.S. Navy lieutenant (j.g.) who turned in an impressive performance in Wednesday's practices at the camps scattered across the country.

The 100-degree heat and the ice came at Carlisle, Pa., where the Washington Redskins are holding their workouts. A 78-man squad sweltered through the heat and quarterback Sonny Jurgensen got the ice.

ARM IN ICE
Jurgensen, who underwent an off-season elbow operation, packed the arm in ice after a brief trial of lobbing passes up to 20 yards.

The salary discussions involved Dave Parks of the New Orleans Saints and Nemiah Wilson of the New York Jets. And the Navy lieutenant (j.g.) is former Heisman Trophy winner Roger Staubach of Navy, who is working out with the Dallas boys' rookies at Thousand Oaks, Calif.

Coach Tom Landry has had nothing but praise for Staubach, who plans to quarterback for the Cowboys when he is discharged from the Navy next year. He now is stationed at Pensacola, Fla.

Parks, an all-pro receiver who played out his option with San Francisco last year, signed with the Saints. But the question of compensation for Parks has been referred to Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle, a club spokesman said.

The 49ers had been hoping to sign Parks themselves until his deal was confirmed with the Saints.

"Inasmuch as this is a matter that must be referred to the commissioner for resolution," said 49er president Lou Spadia, "it would be inappropriate to make any comment at this time. I may have a comment later."

IN LONG DISPUTE
Wilson, a defensive back acquired by the Jets from Denver last week, has been in a prolonged salary dispute with New York general manager Weeb Ewbank. Ewbank said Wilson wanted a 51 per cent increase. No salary figures were released.

Wilson said he planned to play out his option.

The new Cincinnati Bengals, at Wilmington, Ohio, spent most of their workouts on the draw play that helped coach Paul Brown gain his reputation.

Veteran Bill Bailey of Buffalo and Estes Banks, obtained from Oakland, were the running backs.

"Right now, they're No. 1," said Brown. "They're the most experienced we have."

He is still awaiting the arrival of running back Bobby Burnett, the AFL's rookie of the year in 1966, who is recovering from a leg injury. Both Burnett and Bailey were starters at Buffalo in 1966.

And there were some cuts, too. The Philadelphia Eagles cut two rookies and asked for waivers on two more. The Denver Broncos trimmed eight free agents. The Green Bay Packers released a free agent. Atlanta cut four.

2 Awards Made In Hill Climb

Next business meeting of the Big Spring Motorcycle Club will be held at 8 p.m. next Thursday in the Big Spring Police building.

In the hill climb staged last Sunday immediately north of the National Guard Armory, trophies were awarded to David Hodnett and Frank Mashburn.

Hodnett gave the best overall performance while Mashburn got the best footage astride a 100 cc machine.

Hodnett also had the best time in a 100-foot event with a clocking of five seconds flat. Immediately behind him were David Norman, 5.7; and Jackie Hopper, 5.8.

In all, 11 entries took part in the event.

Fees Figures Big In Plans Of Turner

FORT WORTH (AP)—North coach Charlie Turner is counting heavily on a couple of lanky West Texans to help end a five-year South win streak in the North-South All-Star basketball game July 31.

Turner, of Fort Worth Paschal, will draw on the talents of 6-foot-6½ Johnny Watson of Lamesa and 6-foot-6½ Pat Fees of Lamesa. Each averaged 27 points per game last year.

The annual all-star event will be played in Daniel Meyer Coliseum on the TCU campus as a feature of the 36th annual Texas High School Coaches Association Coaching School July 27-Aug. 3.

The South squad handed the North its worst defeat ever last year, an 87-71 dunking at San Antonio and a South victory this year would even the series at 12-12.

In addition to Fees and Watson, the North will have high-scoring Bobby Thompson of Dallas Samuell, who averaged 26 points per game last season. Glen Fletcher, 6-4, of Crane brings a 17.8 average into the game, and could serve a dual purpose by helping out on the boards.

The South will have a slight advantage over the North in both height and shooting power. The North squad has a 23.1 per man scoring average and an average height of 6-3½, compared to 24.1 points and 6-4½ for the South.

HHH Stays Off Campaign Trail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey reportedly has passed a battery of tests determining he has nothing worse than flu but his doctor has barred him from the campaign trail until next week.

The Democratic presidential contender canceled a Midwest trip that was to begin today and now plans to resume his campaign next Monday with appearances in New York and California.

FLU, FEVER

The vice president postponed a West Coast trip last week, blaming flu and fever.

Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty suggested then that Humphrey's illness might be a case of "diplomatic gripe" in view of the threats that some 15,000 antiwar demonstrators would picket him. About 2,000 demonstrators showed up.

But Humphrey's physician, Dr. Edgar Berman, insisted the Humphrey flu was the real thing and, it is understood, ordered a number of tests to back up his diagnosis.

Humphrey made his first excursion in a week Tuesday night when he flew to New York for an overnight series of private meetings. He was due to fly to the Midwest today for appearances in Kansas City, Missouri and Salina, Kan.

TRIP CANCELED

But when Humphrey came to Washington late Wednesday afternoon his press secretary, Norman Sherman, announced that Humphrey was canceling the Midwest trip and would rest for the remainder of the week.

The statement said Humphrey had had no fever for more than 72 hours, but Dr. Berman had insisted that the Missouri-Kansas trip be canceled.

Talking about his bout with the flu in a brief telephone interview with the Associated Press Tuesday, Humphrey said, "I probably would have been better off if I had taken the doctor's advice and stayed flat on my back. But my office kept sending me more work over."

"I haven't had a touch of this stuff for about 10 years," Humphrey added. "It was coming on for a week ... you felt like you've been run over by a truck. But then it left about Saturday night."

Big Spring Hosts AGC

Big Spring's Ramada Inn will be the scene of a day's meeting of the West Texas Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America (AGC), it was announced today by Duane Umru, chapter president.

The meeting, to be held Friday, will begin with a luncheon for the board of directors, who will then hear committee reports on such areas as labor relations, contractual documents, arbitration, and legislation.

The general membership, coming to Big Spring from Wichita Falls, Lubbock, Brownwood, Abilene, Snyder, Quanah, San Angelo, and Midland-Odessa, will assemble at 4 p.m. for a program by O. H. Ivie, manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

Ivie will present a film on the building of a new Robert Lee Dam and Reservoir, and will talk to the AGC about the future building and development of the Robert Lee recreational area.

A reception will be held at 5:30, to which architects and engineers will be invited. Dinner will be served at 6:30, and the group will then be presented with a program by Helmut O. Wolff of Dallas, who is regional manager of the American Arbitration Association. Arbitration is a method of solving disputes that might otherwise have to go through the courts for settlement.

Big Spring AGC contractors hosting the event include Jim Bill Little, Fred and Paul Kasch, and J. D. Jones. About 40 members are expected, Umru said. Chapter headquarters is in Abilene, the center of its territory.

Four-Car Crash

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — One man was killed and three were injured Wednesday in a four-car collision here. The victim was identified as Bobby Mosshart, 34.

Tornadoes Dance Around Panhandle

By The Associated Press
Tornado funnels whirled on the ground and quick deluges swamped at least two areas in the Texas Panhandle as a feeble cool front eased southward during the night.

Sheriff Bus Dorman found water running a foot deep at two points on a farm road seven to 12 miles northwest of Shamrock while checking for possible twister damage. He said a farmer's gauge in that neighborhood measured 3 1/2 inches of rain in 20 minutes.

Police and the Weather Bureau received reports of at least three funnel clouds in the area from Pampa toward White Deer and Kings Mill to the south "and just hop-skipping around." Soft hail accompanied a downpour estimated at three inches in a rural area west of Pampa.

STORM WATCH

Although a number of witnesses told of sighting the tornadoes touch down in both areas, the twisters struck in open range country and caused no damage. State police radioed that one of the menacing funnels spun across the country northwest of Shamrock for 12 minutes before pulling back aloft into a black thunderstorm.

The bristling turbulence caused the Weather Bureau to post a severe thunderstorm watch for 21 counties in the Panhandle-Plains section effective until 1:30 a.m. today.

For more than an hour three of those counties—Gray, Wheel and Collingsworth—were under a tornado warning.

Light hail accompanied a shower at Plainview and there was a little hail along with heavy rain near Acuff, in the area southeast of Lubbock.

Thunderstorm activity continued into early morning along the east edge of the Texas Panhandle and over parts of the South Plains as the cool front appeared to be stalling somewhere south of Amarillo.

SHOWERS

A few showers also were developing over the Gulf of Mexico and heading ashore along the Upper and Middle Texas Coast.

Weather Bureau observers looked for scattered thunder-showers to recur by evening along the south of the latest front, and widely scattered showers were expected mostly west of the Pecos in Southwest Texas and in coastal areas.

Wednesday night's unruly weather capped a day which saw the mercury scoot up to 103 degrees at Presidio and Wink in far West Texas. San Angelo recorded 102 and Childress and Wichita Falls 101.

Except for a high of 86 at Galveston and maximums of 89 at Corpus Christi and Palacios, other reporting stations all registered highs in the 90s.

Bikini Wearers Draw Support

demonstrations draw such popular support as the one at the University of Hawaii.

A group of bikini-clad university coeds protested a new rule against wearing bikinis in the university swimming pool. Gladys Yoshihara, pool attendant, said of the bikini wearers: "It doesn't look good. Their shorts slide off when they hit the water."

The elevated university pool has large plate glass windows on its sides so that visitors can see the swimmers from below.

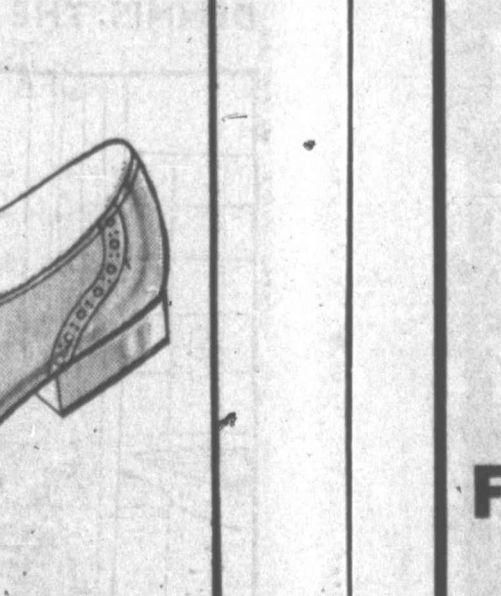

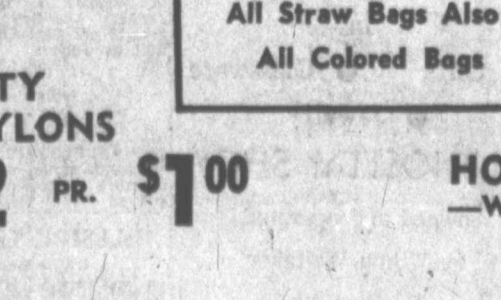

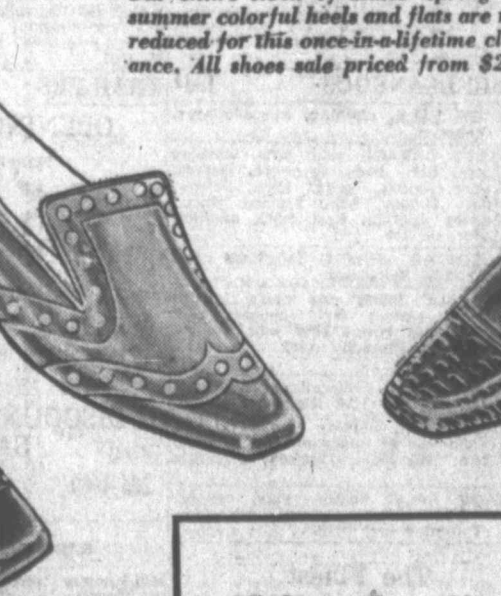

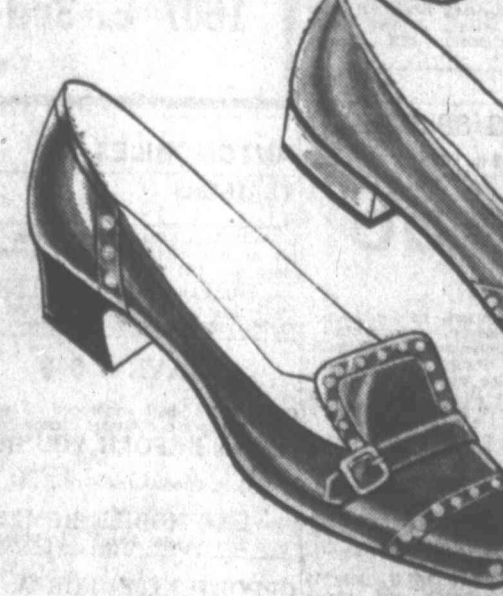

The university has had to place the viewing windows off limits.

Man With A Mission Often Acts Like 'Nut'

By TOM SMOTHERS

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The editor of the Smothers siblings may act like some kind of a nut before the CBS television cameras, but beneath the comedy there is a very serious young man with a mission. Instead of being a comedian, he is a producer of what is called "The Summer Brothers Smothers Show," where, as in the winter shows, the medium is the message.)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — As soon as Dickie and I began to do situation comedy, I began thinking about what comes next—and my first thought was directing, with producing after that.

Now with four "Summer Brothers Smothers Shows" behind me as a producer, I don't have directorial ambitions any longer—and I can see why.

It's because content has always been of utmost importance to me. New ideas, new ways of doing old ideas, getting television involved with what is really happening in America and the world.

And how do you get that? As a performer, you have to persuade directors, producers, sponsors, networks. And sometimes, as you may have heard, my efforts in that area haven't been regarded as friendly persuasion. But often enough, we bulldozed our way through so audiences and critics did feel we were a happening thing. The alert, young audience that was being turned off by old-fashioned television reacted as we hoped it would.

The easiest way to get this excitement to happen is to be part of the establishment and subvert it. A producer can do this. I still get argued with, but it's on a different level now—and there's less of it because of our track record.

NOT IN HAIR

None of this would work if I hadn't done the producer's main job: surrounding himself with creative people who won't take "no" for an answer.

I want people who throw off ideas like sparks from a wheel. Our writers for the summer show average 25 years old. When they make a comment on the draft, they don't strike the false note that "Establishment-type" writers do. Our comedy and our commentary won't strike false notes, because it won't be one generation commenting on another—it'll be today's people making a statement about today's problems.

My big job was to resist pressures to go the safe route and hire a staff of people who'd been around a long time and "knew how to do it." I feel judgment and creativity can take the place of experience. The creative people know I'm on their side—but not in their hair.

Troopers Stage First Texas Falls

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — Members of the nation's only reserve military paratroop force staged their first Texas jumps Wednesday at Ft. Hood.

The 80 servicemen, attached to the new 71st Infantry Brigade (Airborne), are from Army National Guard units in the Houston, Waco, Austin and Beaumont-Port Arthur areas.

The brigade was organized in January from the Texas Army Guard. Paratroopers must jump regularly to maintain their airborne ratings.

Horoscope Forecast

TOMORROW — CARROLL RIGNER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A most interesting day and evening in which to do whatever is practical and to combine your emotional needs with a most down-to-earth means by which to have more happiness and to gain the affection and good will of an ally. Giving a present or some material evidence of your devotion brings the best possible results.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Try to listen to what close friends have to suggest where financial affairs are concerned and you find you fare much better in the days ahead. Showing good offices that would be appreciated by him. Show that you are very thoughtful where your credit is concerned. Don't permit others to hold on over your head, as it were.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Getting in touch with reality and talking over how best to make things operate smoothly and efficiently in the days ahead is your best bet. Most intimate matters can also be discussed in this, with those important to you. Get all on fire tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan how to handle those personal friends of a good line so that all situations with them go along on even keel. Get expert advice about social and emotional matters tonight is all right, provided you are not forceful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Some good and could be very helpful now in your attaining some personal aims that have long been elusive. God about society and meet those interesting personalities. Let interesting and wonderful things happen to you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Find some interesting and clever way to gain the favor of a very influential person that would be appreciated by him. Show that you are very thoughtful where your credit is concerned. Don't permit others to hold on over your head, as it were.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Out with that fascinating pal to some new place where you can come to find terms with persons you have long admired. A new attitude gets you the results you want. Show that you have vim and vigor.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you get the advice of both influential persons and experts, a combination of the two will result in doing whatever is best for you to do. Your mate wants you to do better for another, but this requires assistance from a biggie. Get it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have many fascinating associates who tell you how to gain your most cherished aims in a fashion never thought of before. You have to be more broad-minded. If you want to make their particular associate happier with present arrangements.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can be very ingenious now in any work that you have to do, be this of a cultural or mercantile nature. You have been in a rut and should get out of it. Move will go along with you more pleasantly than.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Have you thought of taking that associate to some charming site where you can talk over your plans and get right results? Don't try to get so frightened and cancelled that other recent you. Be yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Now is the time to do the duties that those of home have expected of you for some while, and you finally get the results you want. Don't do things carelessly; be critical and get things done right. Don't be so antagonistic.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Out with these cronies to the fun place that you really like once you have your work done. Don't take the day to do your work, either. Did you try to compliment one you really love for a chance? See what happens.

Akron Asks Guard Help

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Local officials called for National Guard help today after window-smashing and looting that began in a Negro neighborhood spread throughout the city.

A 700-man unit of the Ohio National Guard was activated for duty at 3 a.m. by order of Gov. James A. Rhodes. Mayor John Ballard requested the guard help.

Police said a 16-year-old Negro was shot in the shoulder as he ran from a grocery store that had been broken into. The boy ignored warnings to stop, police said. He was later reported in good condition at a hospital.

At least a dozen Negroes, mostly teenagers, were arrested. The trouble started just before midnight in a business district of Wooster Avenue, just southwest of downtown Akron. A fire believed to have been arson broke out in a lumber yard on Wooster and several stores were looted.

Later, stores downtown and shopping centers around the city became targets of the looters on the warm night. Many of the troublemakers were making their rounds in auto, police said.

Gizzard Yields Missing Ring

BURLINGTON, Iowa (AP) — The turkey that gobbled the wedding ring has been found out.

Ralph G. Larsen Jr. of Burlington recovered his ring this week after giving it up for lost in May.

He'd lost it, he said, while working at a turkey farm belonging to the Central Soya Co.

A truckload of turkeys was processed from that farm this week and the missing ring was found in one of the turkey's gizzards.

Dear Abby

She Refuses To Marry

DEAR ABBY: Remember me to him to convey it to his mother. I wrote to you six years ago, and here I am again. I should have taken your advice because things aren't any better. I am still living with the same woman I wrote you about. I think the world of her, but her kids keep me upset all the time.

I built this beautiful home for them, and it is always a mess. Her kids are now 17, 15, and 13 and they're all lazy as pet coons. They have no respect for their mother, and she won't let me handle them.

I would marry her tomorrow, but she is very independent and likes things the way they are. (The kids think we're married.) What is wrong with her, anyway? It's usually the woman who begs for marriage, but in this case, it's me. So what is your advice? LIVING IN SIN

DEAR LIVING: Lots of things could be "wrong" with her, but don't waste too much time trying to figure them out. You can't force a woman to marry you, and from your description of her and her brood you could be lucky. Ask a lawyer what your legal obligations are to this woman and her children. A man in your situation ought to know where he stands.

DEAR ABBY: I taught school and didn't marry until I was 33. Andrew was 37 and had never been married before, either. He lived with his mother, but said we would have a place of our own when we married. We did, but in less than a year his mother got "lonesome" and moved in with us.

Our house is small, but it did have two bedrooms, so I fixed one up for Mother B. with a new TV, which she rarely turns on. She comes to our bedroom and sits on our bed (even when we are in it) and watches whatever we're watching. After we turn out our light she sits on a chair in our bedroom and reads with a flashlight. And she doesn't leave until she thinks we are both asleep.

There is no lock on our bedroom door. Mother B. has four other children. They never ask her to their homes, but they run in to say "hi" to her on their way somewhere. Her health is good and she could afford to live alone.

I am at the breaking point, Abby. I have considered asking Andrew to make a choice between his mother and me, but I'm afraid he'd choose her. I can't take this much longer. What should I do?

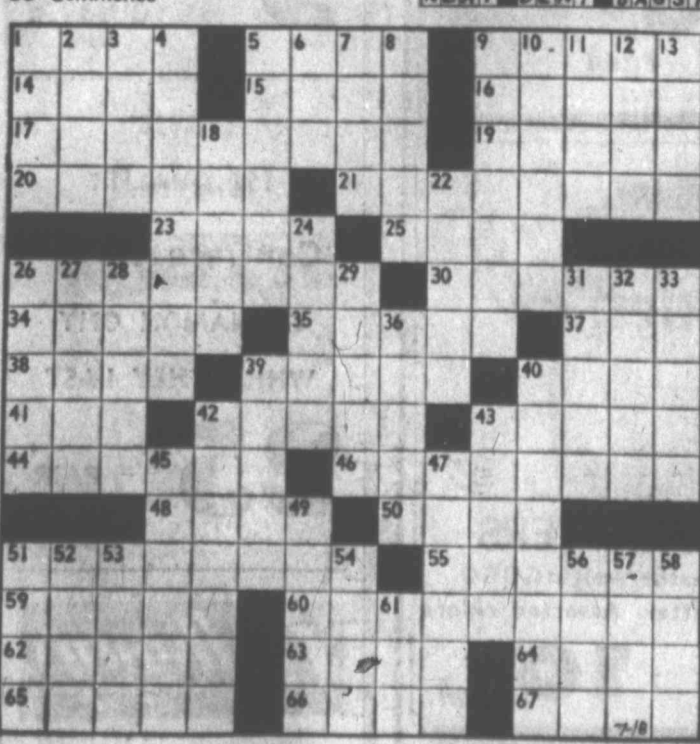

DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: Have a long talk with Andrew. Explain your need for privacy, and ask

STREET CORNER HIRING

Poor Men Gather Daily To 'Catch The Breaks'

By FRANK MURRAY

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—Across the South thousands of poor men heave themselves out of beds six days a week at day-break and pull on dusty boots and old clothes for another siege under the sun waiting to "catch the breaks"—a job for a day and some cash to take home.

Most cities have their corners. Some have many.

Some of the men who gather on the corners are dirt shovel laborers. Others know a little about plastering or painting or carpentry.

FIRST COME

But knowledge of a trade means little when the first car pulls up. The driver, the husky foreman of a construction company, holds up three fingers.

The first three workmen to his car pile inside without questions. They know this man pays $1.45 hourly and takes a few men each morning from the corner beside a railroad track in Hollywood's industrial section.

Each time a car or truck slows, the men crowd to the curb. They elbow each other and shout, "I'm your man, boss!" and "Over here, boss!"

Roosevelt Burdine Jr., 26, a big man wearing a blue uniform marked with the name of a trucking company, is near the front.

"You want to work?" a driver asks Burdine.

"Doing what?"

"Spreading sand, $1.25 an hour."

NOT THAT

"I can't go for that," Burdine replies, turning away.

Another man steps forward and dickers for $1.40 an hour. He slips into the car, carrying his lunch in a brown sack.

This is corner breaking, an informal outdoor hiring hall where laborers—without exception, Negro laborers—hustle and bid against each other for temporary jobs. Top pay goes to about $2 an hour, with no Social Security or unemployment compensation.

Rain or shine, in most cities of the South, the men cluster on their familiar corner. In Atlanta the corner is the triangular traffic divider at Decatur and Ivey streets just three blocks from downtown.

In Orlando, Fla. it's the parking lot of an outdoor restaurant where the men buy cold drinks to battle the sun. Miami has many corners, but the one on Northwest 17th Street has become popular since an elevated expressway was built, making it the only one in town with shade and shelter from rain.

PAY IN CASH

Many of the corner men insist they want permanent jobs. Many of the businessmen who hire them insist they would prefer full-time employees.

Among whites who think about the situation and talk about it, the most common tack is the one taken by the Jacksonville Police lieutenant who said, "They just want a few hours work and their pay in cash. They don't want a record made of the money so they can still get welfare."

But a Florida Board of Welfare spokesman disagreed. He said welfare is paid only to persons in four categories—none of which seems to apply to the men on the corners.

Welfare is available in Florida only to the aged, the blind, dependent children and the permanently disabled.

"Because we're colored, they figure we're a bunch of bums," says Burdine. "They figure you just want to work two hours to drink wine. A lot of fellows here don't even drink; they're church fellows."

Burdine, a father of two fired from his truck driving job after an accident, reports he made as much as $150 in one six-day week of catching jobs on this corner in Hollywood. But Burdine says, and other men agree, most days are spent just waiting.

"You might as well stay here as lay around the house," according to Nathan Green.

"There's nothing to do there but eat up the little bit of food you got."

The men grumble that full-time jobs are not available because they are Negroes, that they are forced into taking what they get—a statement disputed by the local state employment office.

COULD QUALIFY

Frank Sampson, manager of the Hollywood office of the Florida State Employment Service, said some of the men probably could qualify for full-time laborer or trainee jobs now open. But Sampson said many of the men were reluctant, even afraid, to apply for work through a government office.

"If you got money to pay for food and rent, then you're happy even if there's nary a cent left," Burdine explains. "But if you can't do that you're disgusted. If you can't earn money, you get it some other way. But I ain't planning to take."

"I never have stole," Burdine added. "If I need food for my kids I'll ask a grocer for it, but if I don't get it then I'll have to take it. You have to eat."

Home Flames Kill Eleven

NEW YORK (AP)—Nine children and two adults died today when fire flashed through a frame-and-stucco private home occupied by three families in St. Albans, Queens.

Another child jumped from a second floor window into a neighbor's arms and was saved. Police said five persons were treated at Mary Immaculate Hospital and released.

Police identified the dead as: Mrs. Bessie Berry, 29, and her four children, Charlene, 2, Denise, 4, Reginald, 6, and Janie, 8; Bobbie Jeanie Gibson, 10 months; and her sisters, Sheila, 4, and Bertha, 7; Darlene Black, 2, and her sister, Sheila, 9, and Charles Holst, 24.

The toll was the highest in the city since the blaze last Jan. 10 took the lives of nine children and four adults in a Brooklyn tenement.

Seek Junior Volunteers On Basis Of Interest

The Junior Volunteer program at the Big Spring State Hospital is limited to a small number of students and is loosely organized, according to Mrs. Mary Cochran, volunteer service coordinator.

"We have a few Junior Volunteers working in the hospital's different services this summer from Big Spring, Midland and Stanton," she said.

"We welcome junior volunteers, but we encourage those who have an interest in a career related to mental health," she said. "After screening the youth, we try to place them in a service which matches their interests and talents."

Minimum age for Junior Volunteers is 15. Special permission has to be obtained by 15 years olds, however, before they can begin volunteer work.

"We have had occasional volunteers throughout the year in the student age group," Mrs. Cochran said.

The Sea Scouts, Coahoma Border Brass, Order of the Rainbow for Girls, and the high school home economic classes have worked with the patients at the hospital through entertainment, and contribution of clothes and gifts.

Former Resident Wins Medal For Navy Editorial

Mrs. La Vaughn Bowden Goss, former resident of Big Spring, has been awarded the George Washington medal of honor at Alexandria, Va.

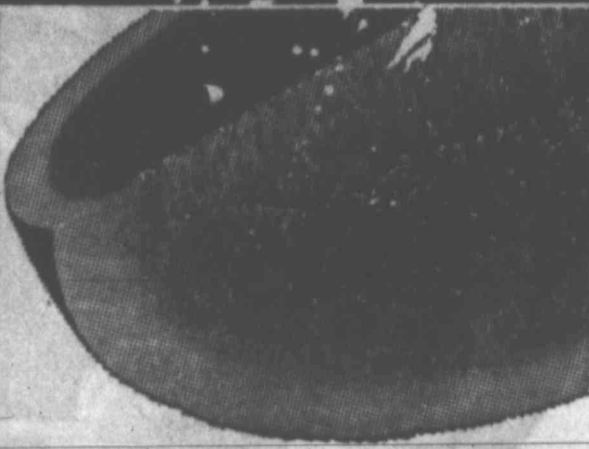

The medal was given for an editorial appearing in the "Navy News," which was edited at the time by Mrs. Goss at Charleston, S. C. Currently she is editor of "Center Line," official naval publication at Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Goss will be remembered in Big Spring as the former La Vaughn Bowden. She was the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. R. E. Bowden, 2709 6th St., Lubbock, who served the First Church of God here for many years. Mrs. Goss was graduated from Big Spring High School, and she and her husband have been in Civil Service for several years. They have no children.

Sales Tax Hike Signed Into Law

AUSTIN (AP)—The one cent state sales tax increase, expected to raise some $100 million from Oct. 1 to next Aug. 31, was signed into law Wednesday by Gov. John Connally.

The bill was passed by the recent special session to balance the state budget in this fiscal year.

The new rate is 3 per cent, and for Texans in 270 cities which have a local one per cent sales tax, it will mean they will be paying 4 per cent on the dollar.

The measure Connally signed (HB2) also hikes the sales tax on new and used automobiles from 2 to 3 per cent and raises the corporation franchise tax from $2.25 to $2.75 per $1,000 of assets. The franchise tax goes into effect with taxes paid May 1, 1969.

In cities with local sales taxes, the combined states and city tax will start with purchases of 13 cents or more. Where there is no local tax, the breaking point will be 17 cents.

Rep. Bush Labels Wallace 'Spoiler,' Giant Spender

WASHINGTON (AP) — Recognize that strong Wallace widely further his own candipublican Rep. George Bush, under attack at home in Houston because of his criticisms of George Wallace, says a heavy vote for the former Alabama governor's third party presidential candidacy will insure the election of the Democratic nominee.

RACE ALONE

And, says Bush, Wallace is no conservative when it comes to spending public money.
"Wallace is conservative on the issue of race alone—of keeping someone in his place," Bush said in an interview.

Since Bush voted for passage of the civil rights bill in April, he has been flooded by critical mail from persons who describe themselves as Wallace supporters.

Bush, a Houston oil millionaire, said he tells such correspondents: "Be realistic and rec-

LAST HOPE

One Houston man wrote Bush after the civil rights vote: "you are just a Judas traitor to the American people... Our last hope is George Wallace."

Another correspondent wrote: "You and your like have left us no place to go in the Republican party. You sell us out on the crucial issues."

Bush, who is unopposed for re-election to a second term, calls Wallace "the critic and the spoiler."

Wallace, he said, "is not conservative on fiscal matters."

"When he was governor, the state debt tripled and state spending was up by over 50 percent," Bush said.

"He has used state employ-

He replied to one critical letter-writer: "You are entitled to be for him if you want, but I can't see this man to head up our country."

Bush's vote for passage of the civil rights bill was attacked by Wallace during a campaign appearance in Houston recently and Bush later voiced his views of Wallace and Wallace's presidential candidacy.

MAIL WOES

The mail volume rose. One woman wrote that, while working as a precinct chairman for Wallace, she is seeking to organize a write-in campaign to defeat Bush.

Bush said he doesn't expect his replies to change the minds of persons who support Wallace because of his views on racial matters. But, he sends along with each letter a copy of a magazine article he says may cause second thoughts among others.

In Texas, Bush said, he expects votes for Wallace will be drawn from persons who traditionally vote for Democrats. Nation-wide, he said, Wallace may take more votes from the Republicans.

"But I don't think Wallace is going to keep a Republican from winning the presidency," Bush said. "I think people will realize the futility of a third-party movement and simply not waste their vote."

Westside Center Needs Games

Used toys and games are needed by the Westside Center according to Mrs. Ernest Bauch director.

"The few games we have are just about at the end of their usefulness," she said, "because the children have played with them so much."

The center is located at the west end of ABC Park at 1308 W. 5th St.

Fall Flood Protection

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first phase of a $600,000 emergency flood control project in South Texas is expected to be completed before the fall flood season, Rep. Eligio de la Garza, D-Tex., said Wednesday.

The work includes construction of two miles of division dike and related structures at the head of the Arroyo Colorado to reduce by one-half the possible flow into the arroyo near Harlingen, Tex., in the event of new floods such as those which devastated the area after hurricane Beulah last year.

Other phases of the project include raising and strengthening the east levee of the north floodway to protect Mercedes, Tex., and bolstering the floodway's north levee to protect Weslaco, Tex.

The later phases of the project are set for completion by February, de la Garza said he was advised by the International Boundary and Water Commission.

MANY FIRSTS IN NEWSPAPERING

The Old Lady Is Sold

(EDITOR'S NOTE — An old red building known affectionately as the Old Lady by the Sea has passed finally out of newspaperman's hands. But it had many historic firsts in the business.)

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — The building that helped set many firsts in newspapering in Texas has been sold to Dr. M. L. Ross as an investment.

It is the old Galveston Daily News Building. The News moved into a new plant in April 1965. Although the Galveston News celebrated its 126th birthday April 11, the old building was not constructed until 1883 and was occupied in 1884.

The newspaper had the distinction at that time of being the only daily newspaper in the Southwest that housed a complete newspaper plant. The New York Herald was the first in the East and the Dallas News, daily for a time.

offspring of the Galveston News, was third.

BIG ADVANCE

The big advance in the News came when A. H. Belo, a Confederate colonel, took over the paper in 1865 and incorporated it as A. H. Belo and Co. in 1875.

The company looking for an extension inland, established the Dallas Morning News in 1885 and then bought a Dallas paper which allowed it to trace its beginnings to 1849. The Belo company sold the Galveston paper in 1923 and retained the corporate history in Dallas.

The Galveston News is, by some sources, the first newspaper published in Texas. Most sources trace its birthday to April 11, 1842, under George French, who published it as the East and the Dallas News, Others trace the history back to March 20, 1841, when Samuel Bangs, a printer, issued the first copy of the Daily Galvestonian.

At any rate, it functioned under the flags of the Republic, the United States and the Confederacy.

About a year after French began publication, the paper was taken over by two printers, Michael Cornican and Albert Cherry.

BLOCKADE

It was left to Willard Richardson to bring the News through the troublesome times of the Civil War and Reconstruction.

When Galveston was blockaded for a time in the War Between the States, the newspaper published temporarily at Houston.

Col. Belo became associated with the News while Richardson was owner and editor. Belo bought the paper when Richardson died in 1875.

The plant moved once the old red building was built in the 1880s.

It was published on Tremont Street until 1845. The paper was prosperous enough to build its own structure by 1858 and located on Market Street.

When Belo and Co. was incorporated, T. W. Dealey became secretary. His younger brother, George B. Dealey, joined the Galveston paper as office boy. When the Dallas
News was established, George
B. was placed in charge of the Dallas operation, beginning a long and progressive leadership.

The 1923 sale of the Galveston News was to W. L. Moody
Jr., noted Galveston financier.
The News purchased the Galveston Tribune, an afternoon paper, in 1926.

The Houston Post acquired the News and Tribune in 1963.

The Post then sold the newspapers to Southern Newspapers, Inc., with major interest owned by the Montgomery Advertiser
Journal, Carnegie Walls and T.
Eugene Worrell, who have joint newspaper holdings throughout the South and Southwest, Les Daughtry was appointed editor and publisher.

CLAIMS TO 'FIRST'

The new owners returned the News to his historical pattern with morning publication.

The News was a principal organizer and charter member of The Associated Press.

The newspaper has many claims to being first.

These include installation of the first telephone in Texas and publication of the first dispatch over an Atlantic cable.

The News developed the first special train to carry its editions and it was the first newspaper in Texas to stereotype its pages and print them on a rotary press.

The new building may be more modern but it will be a long time before it can link itself with as much history as the old red one.

Firemen Armed With Shotguns

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Baltimore County fire stations have been armed with two sawed-off shotguns for protection in future riots.

T. Austin Deitz, deputy chief of the fire department, said Wednesday the weapons were to be used by firemen "only in the case of riots, if our stations are attacked."

"They will be used only to prevent our stations from being fire-bombed or looted. We're not going to ride to fires with them," Deitz said.

He said two shotguns and 50 rounds of ammunition were issued about two weeks ago to each of the 17 stations in the county surrounding Baltimore, where rioting and looting broke out last April.

MRS. KEN CARTER

Would Like To Lose Total Of 50 Pounds

By RHODA LEMONS
Mrs. Ken Carter is one of the large percentage of Americans in our affluent society who admits to being overweight. Mrs. Carter has as her ultimate goal the loss of 50 pounds.

However, she said that she would never be able to attain her goal if she looked at the whole sum at one time. She intends to practice the method of "I will lose three pounds this week and 15 pounds in six weeks."

Mrs. Carter and her husband, Sgt. Ken Carter of Webb Air Force Base, live at 506 Douglas. They have no children, but they have a dog named Missy, who is 85 per cent Beagle and 15 per cent "just dog." Mrs. Carter said that it is difficult at times to decide if he is the pet or master.

Because of her problem, Mrs. Carter has joined a group of other women who are also trying to lose weight. She is a member of the TOPS Plate Pushers, and Mrs. Carter thinks that the only effective way of losing weight is to have a sympathetic friend who understands your problem.

Mrs. Carter admits that food can be an addiction, and that most overweight people are to some degree "addicted" to food. She also believes that it is an inherited tendency, because her entire family has always had to diet.

Mrs. Carter thoroughly enjoys cooking. She has cooked since she was a child and did the meal planning and the grocery buying for her mother who worked outside the home.

The worst "problem" Mrs. Carter has is that her husband is thin and remains that way no matter what he eats. She ruefully said that he has seen her "thin, medium and heavy" and he prefers her thin. She realizes that hers is a life-long problem and there are times when she finds this "defeating."

It is here that her club meetings have been beneficial for she is reminded there are many others with the same problem. Mrs. Carter prepares a breakfast of one poached egg and coffee. She has learned to drink the latter without cream and sugar. She cooks according to her husband's schedule at the base. He is a jet mechanic and works various shifts. She prepares a large meal at lunch when he works days and a large evening meal when he works at night.

Mrs. Carter believes that buying inferior brands results in poorer qualities of food. To her, buying name brands pays in the long run, and she thinks that it is best to budget somewhere other than on food.

She does not use the food freezer too often because she is home all day and can prepare whatever they need. Before shopping, she plans menus for two weeks, but changes them as the occasion demands.

She believes one reason for her weight problem is that she is not busy enough, and when bored, she seeks food as a substitute.

She and her husband have friends over for euchre, a "Hoosier card game," and Mrs. Carter serves snacks. She always makes a bowl of carrots, celery, lettuce and cucumbers which she nibbles, while the rest of the group has chips, cheeses, dips and snacks.

The Carters are active bowlers, they play miniature golf and are racing enthusiasts. They drive to Penwell many week-ends to view the races.

Use Eggs In Diets, Picnics

Now is the time to be "egg-centric" and buy more eggs, says USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service. During June and July eggs are among the items listed on C&M's plentiful foods list.

Because of this abundance, shoppers can look forward to attractive prices. What a good time to use eggs to experiment with new and delicious summer dishes.

Since July is picnic month, the traditional favorite for picnics — deviled eggs — should be included in every outdoor feast. Here's a simple recipe pleasers," and for the diet conscious.

DEVILED EGGS

8 hard-cooked eggs
1/2 tsp. onion juice
1 tsp. horseradish
1 tsp. lemon juice
2 tbsps. finely minced celery
3 tbsps. mayonnaise

Cut hard-cooked eggs into halves, lengthwise. Remove yolks, mash or sieve yolks and combine with other ingredients for deviled eggs. Mix until smooth. Refill whites — if desired, for decorative effect use pastry tube. Fill tube and flute seasoned yolks into whites.

Homemakers are always looking for some new, cool, refreshing drink for the long hot summer months — especially something with nutritional value. Well, here it is! Just add one whole raw egg to a cup of fresh or reconstituted orange juice and blend them together. Chill and serve. You'll be surprised!

This Cherry Sauce Is Gourmet's Dish

Serve this sauce with roast chicken.

CERRY SAUCE

Drippings from a 4-to 6-pound roast chicken
1 clove garlic, peeled and halved
1-3 cup domestic medium Madeira
1 tsp. sugar
1/4 tsp. dried crushed basil
1 can (1 lb.) pitted red tart cherries, water-packed
1 1/2 tbsps. cornstarch
Salt to taste

Get up drippings from roasting pan by adding 1/4 cup water to the pan (if necessary) and stirring with a wooden spoon over low heat; measure 3/4 cup; or add water if needed to make 3/4 cup. Into a one-quart saucepan turn the 3/4 cup drippings mixture, garlic, Madeira, sugar and basil. Bring to a boil; boil gently for five minutes. Remove garlic. Meanwhile drain cherries reserving juice. Gradually stir cherry juice into cornstarch, keeping smooth; stir into hot mixture. Stirring constantly, bring to a boil and boil gently for one minute. Add cherries and salt and reheat. Makes about two cups.

Make Homemade 'French' Dressing

Thick, rosy color bottled "French" dressing is popular and here's how to make a version of it.

IMITATION STORE-BOUGHT DRESSING

1 pkg. (1 1/2 oz.) fruit pectin (the kind used for jams and jellies)
1/4 cup sugar
2 tbsps. salt
1 tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. paprika
2-3 cup cider vinegar
1 1/2 cups salad (not olive) oil
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed tomato soup, undiluted
1 tsp. minced onion
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 clove garlic (peeled, halved and inserted with a toothpick)

Into a medium mixing bowl, in the order given, turn all the ingredients except the garlic. With a rotary beater (hand or electric) beat until thoroughly blended. Turn into a quart jar and add garlic. Chill. Garlic may be left overnight, then removed. Makes about 3 1/2 cups. (This dressing will not separate.)

Try Leafy Spinach The Italian Way

Try a new twist for an old vegetable.

ITALIAN SPINACH

1 pkg (10 oz.) leaf spinach
1/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. olive oil
2 tbsps. pine nuts
2 tbsps. golden raisins, soaked in hot water and drained

Cook the spinach according to package directions using the amount of water called for and the 1/4 teaspoon salt. Drain; with a kitchen scissors cut through the spinach and make it short lengths. Mix in the remaining ingredients; reheat. Makes three servings.

Serve A Summer Soup For Calorie Watchers

Soothe parched palates with chilled cream of mushroom soup, a velvety smooth, extraordinarily rich and creamy soup originating in Chester County, Pennsylvania.

Because this elegant summer soup is made with the convenient pantry-shelf creamer, powdered cream, it's easy to whip up on the spur of the moment. Buzz the soup to smooth perfection in a blender; then chill thoroughly.

Even if you never use a creamer in your coffee, you'll want to keep this remarkable powdered creamer on hand for use as an economical and low-calorie replacement for perishable fresh cream in all your finest cooking.

CHILLED CREAM OF MUSHROOM SOUP

1 2-oz. pkg. garden vegetable soup mix
4 cups boiling water
1 1/2 powdered cream
1 10 1/2-oz. can condensed cream of mushroom soup

In a large saucepan combine vegetable soup mix and water. Bring to the boil; reduce heat, partially cover and simmer 15 minutes. Blend in powdered cream and undiluted mushroom soup; heat through. Place a small amount at a time in blender; buzz until smooth and creamy. Chill thoroughly before serving. Makes six cups or six servings.

Delicious Dessert

So you have to watch your calories? No need to suffer, try this delicious, frothy cheesecake which provides only 96 calories per serving. Tastes so good, you might want to make it even if you are a "light-weight."

Be Glad For Low-Cal Non-Bake Cheesecake

Cheesecake ranks high on the list of favorite American desserts. This welcome version is as fluffy as one could wish... and only 96 calories per serving. Thanks to the presence of unflavored gelatin there's no baking and no risk, either; the cheesecake requires only five minutes cooking time. It's just the kind of delectable gelatin dessert that takes the deprivation out of dieting... and makes the dessert course a real pleasure for the weightwatcher.

LOW-CALORIE CHEESECAKE

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin

1 cup reliquified non-fat dry milk
4 eggs, separated
Non-nutritive sweetener equivalent to 1 1/4 cups sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
1 tsp. grated orange rind
1 tsp. lemon juice
1 1/2 tsp. vanilla
1/2 tsp. almond extract
3 cups (24 ozs.) mild creamed cottage cheese
1/2 tsp. cream of tartar
One-third cup graham cracker crumbs

1/2 tsp. each cinnamon and nutmeg

Sprinkle gelatin over milk in top of double boiler. Add egg yolks; stir until completely blended. Place over hot water; stir constantly until gelatin dissolves and mixture thickens slightly, about five minutes. Remove from heat; stir in non-nutritive sweetener, salt, grated rinds, lemon juice, vanilla and almond extract. Sieve or beat cottage cheese on high speed of electric mixer until smooth, three to four minutes; stir into gelatin mixture. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon. Beat egg whites and cream of tartar until very stiff; fold into gelatin mixture. Combine graham cracker crumbs, cinnamon and nutmeg; sprinkle about half of crumb mixture over bottom of 8- or 9-inch spring-form pan. Turn gelatin mixture into pan; sprinkle with remaining crumb mixture. Chill until firm. Loosen from side of pan with sharp knife; release spring form. Yield: Twelve servings, 96 calories each.

Education, Experience Are Best Buy Guides

When buying vegetables — experience is the best teacher, but an educated eye helps. Regardless of type, pick the freshest and avoid the wilted, shriveled or decayed. Here are some pointers from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Broccoli and cauliflower — Flower clusters should be tight and close together. Avoid broccoli with yellow flower clusters. Smudgy, dirty spots may indicate insects.

Try Sweet Potato Casserole For Six

Mix two cups cooked, unsweetened, mashed sweet potatoes with 1/2 cup light or dark corn syrup, one teaspoon grated lemon rind, one teaspoon salt and a dash of pepper and nutmeg. Stir in three well beaten egg yolks. Fold in three well beaten egg whites. Spoon into ungreased 1 1/2-quart baking dish. Set into pan and fill pan with hot water almost to the top of the dish. Bake in 350 degrees (moderate) oven about 1 1/2 hours or until knife inserted into center of casserole comes out clean. Makes six servings.

Buying poultry to freeze? Remember the importance of wrapping. Your packaging materials should be moisture-vapor resistant to prevent evaporation, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Broiler halves can be wrapped together like a whole bird — or wrapped separately. If you wrap them together, place a double piece of freezer paper between the halves. They'll come apart easily later on!

Shell color does not affect the grade, nutritive value, flavor or cooking performance of the egg, says the Consumer and Marketing Service.

2-3 cup powdered milk
2 tbsps. instant coffee
2 8-oz. glasses of water
4 1/4 grains of sweetener
Pour all ingredients into tall shaker. Shake and keep in refrigerator for refreshing drink.

GRAHAM CRACKER BROWNIE BARS

2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
1 cup skimmed milk
1 tsp. powdered sugar
Mix all ingredients except powdered sugar. Turn into lightly greased 9 inch by 9 inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 30 minutes. Cut into 40 bars while warm. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. Provides 46 calories per bar.

WEIGHT WATCHERS POPCORN BOWL

Cut into small pieces, green pepper, celery, cucumber, radishes, cauliflower, mushrooms (raw or canned) as much as desired. Add to this one or two fruits. Nibble to your hearts content.

TANGY SEA-FOOD COCKTAIL SAUCE

1/4 cup tomato juice
1 tsp. prepared horseradish
1 tsp. lemon juice
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. finely chopped parsley
Combine all ingredients; chill to blend flavors. Makes about 1/2 cup.

ORANGE-CUCUMBER SALAD

2 medium cucumbers, peeled and thinly sliced
1 tsp. salt
1/2 cup white pepper
2 medium oranges, peeled and sectioned
1/4 cup finely chopped green peppers

2 tbsps. chopped parsley
1 cup skim milk cottage cheese
1/4 cup skim milk
1/2 tsp. thyme
Salad greens

Sprinkle cucumbers with salt and pepper, add oranges, green pepper and parsley. Toss lightly. Beat cottage cheese and skim milk until smooth. Season with thyme. Spoon over salad or serve separately. Serve on crisp greens.

LOW CALORIE WHIPPED TOPPING

1/4 cup cold water
1 tsp. lemon juice
3 tbsps. dry milk
Liquid sweetener
Combine ingredients and chill. (Also chill bowl and mixer beaters.) Beat until stiff. About 80 calories per cup.

CHILI-BEAN CHA-CHA

1/2 large green pepper, coarsely chopped
2 medium onions, thinly sliced
2 stalks green celery (sliced)
1 clove garlic (sliced)
1 lb. can tomatoes
1 1/2 lb. can kidney beans
Chili powder
Salt

In medium saucepan or skillet, mix together all ingredients. Bring to boil, then simmer, uncovered, 40 to 45 minutes or until flavors are blended and sauce has thickened slightly. Makes six servings. Provides 105 calories and negligible fat per serving.

PEACH FANTASY

1 box each dietary strawberry and lemon gelatin
2 bottles low calorie ginger ale
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup nonfat dry milk crystals
1 tsp. lemon juice
1/4 tsp. granulated noncaloric sweetener
1 can low calorie peach halves
Dissolve gelatin in boiling ginger ale. Cool, then chill until slightly thickened. Mix next three ingredients and chill. Add sweetener and whip until

A Devotional For The Day

In all these things we are more than conquerors through him who loved us. (Romans 8:37, RSV)
PRAYER: O God, we thank Thee that all things are possible with Thy help and blessing. We praise Thee for Christ's unfailing love, and grace that enable His disciples to share His victory. Help us ever to be strong in Christ and in the strength of His might. For His name's sake. Amen.
(From the "Upper Room")

Good Business

The annual audit report to Howard County carries with it a suggestion that a general ledger be set up for the county's entire operations. This is under way, and this is a sound recommendation.
The audit reflects a sound condition of county affairs, and a good stewardship of business handled by the various offices. But by the very nature of the county organization table, some general accounting controls are necessary for effective administration. Unlike municipalities or other political subdivisions which look to one administrator or to a central administrative board, the county has a multiplicity of separate offices. While they look to the county for fiscal support, they carry out their functions more or less independently. To some degree, they each receive equipment or properties under their care, and yet it is all the county's.

Good fiscal management is no reflection upon any official; it is good business. Thus, anything that contributes toward better fiscal controls of an inherently fragmented system is good business, too.

Water Safety

In one holiday tragedy, seven children and the man who was giving them an outdoor motorboat ride drowned when the boat overturned as it headed back toward the shore where the victims' families were picnicking. A little girl was the sole survivor.
This sad episode serves as an urgent reminder that the wonderful sport of boating, especially in this era of high-powered motors, can be hazardous. Unless safety rules are obeyed, an outing on the water may have a tragic outcome.
This statement implied no judgment as to precisely what brought on the accident mentioned above; news accounts included too few details to permit that. The story did say that the boat involved was a mere 12-footer. Suppose there had been fewer children aboard: Would it have capsized as readily? And suppose its passengers had been wearing life jackets: Would all but one have drowned when the craft rolled over on a turn?

Those are two basic rules: Wear life jackets, and don't overload. There are others that come to mind when one sees high-speed boats weaving in and out among each other on a resort waterfront. Boating is great fun, but it is dangerous, too. Abiding by a few simple rules can markedly reduce the dangers, not only in boating but in all aquatic recreation.

David Lawrence Court Controversy Continues

WASHINGTON—Can a member of Congress be appointed and confirmed as a federal judge and then continue to serve for five months while he votes on important legislation? Can a justice of the Supreme Court of the United States act as a personal adviser to the President on certain governmental problems?

IRRESPECTIVE of the capabilities and qualifications of Associate Justice Abe Fortas to become chief justice and of Judge Homer Thornberry to join the high court as an associate justice, the American people have had their attention drawn primarily to some weaknesses in the present appointive system.

Thus, the New York Times on July 21, 1963, reported that Mr. Thornberry had been confirmed by the Senate as a federal judge, but, being an important member of the House Rules Committee, "plans to stay in the House until the commission is signed." The article also said that it was understood that "the commission might be held up for nearly all this session of Congress." Mr. Thornberry did serve in the House for five months after his confirmation.

SEN. ROBERT GRIFFIN, R., Mich., in hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee a few days ago, referred to this incident as follows:
"When a member of the legislative branch is nominated and confirmed to become a member of the judicial branch—and then continues to serve in the House of Representatives, with the President holding his commission—a question is necessarily raised. Particularly amid reports that the arrangement was designed to insure Mr. Thornberry's vote on legislative issues during the interim, this situation again suggests a flagrant disregard of the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers."

THE FAILURE to set a definite expiration date also was noted when Chief Justice Warren wrote President Johnson last month of his intention to retire "at the pleasure" of the President. Some members of the Senate Judiciary Committee say this means that if a successor is not confirmed at the present session of Congress, Justice Warren could stay on indefinitely. Other members argue that "at your pleasure" gives President Johnson a flexibility which isn't justified by the Constitution.

SEN. SAM ERVIN, D., N. C.—who was a member of the Supreme Court of that state prior to being elected to the U.S. Senate—said to the Judiciary Committee:
"I take the position that the President has no power to appoint and the Senate no power to confirm any new justice unless the justice has retired before the appointment is made and that he does so by retiring from regular active service."

ATTORNEY GENERAL Ramsey Clark was asked at the committee hearing whether Chief Justice Warren could revoke his own letter of retirement and remain on the court indefinitely. The attorney general said that the Justice Department had found no precedent which answers this question.

The whole controversy which has emerged over the appointment of Associate Justice Fortas to be chief justice and of Judge Thornberry to become an associate justice is not likely to end even if both men are confirmed for their new posts. The issue really is whether justices of the Supreme Court, who are appointed for life, can withhold the exact date of their retirement until after a President has chosen a successor for the post and he has been confirmed.

What Others Say

An advisory committee of the American Bar Association has recommended changes in procedure for criminal trials aimed at better administration of justice. That change is in order is starkly clear.

The changes asked would generally give a trial judge a greater role in trials. For example, the attorneys want trial judges to be permitted to fairly summarize and comment upon evidence instead of merely telling the jury what the law is. They would allow less than unanimous vote of 12 jurors to declare a verdict. They want jury selection procedures revised to insure a representative cross-section of the community. They want broader powers to impeach a jury verdict as a means of avoiding violation of a defendant's right of confrontation.

Trials—particularly criminal trials—have been burdened with cumbersome prohibitions over the years to the point where justice is not so much served as manipulative ability by the opposing lawyers. Any reform that aims at discovering relevant truth and arriving at useful penalty should be encouraged.
We commend the bar.

BOY, DID HE HAVE A LOT TO LEARN!

John Cuniff

Monetary Managers Walk Tightrope

NEW YORK (AP) — You don't hear much today about the New Economics, for in baseball, politics or economics you don't praise the coaches when they aren't winning. And there have been no real big winning streaks this year.

Still, some of the same spirit and confidence and sense of balance that made the New Economists appear to be such winners during the balanced boom of a few years ago will be needed during the next 12 months.

During this time our economic leaders will be trying to cool things, but not to the degree of provoking a freeze. Their thermostat, so to speak, must be very sensitive, as were those of the New Economists.

THE NEW Economists in their heyday advocated "fine tuning" to keep the economy constantly at a near maximum pitch, through use of short-term restraints such as temporary taxes, and spurs, such as lower taxes or more spending.

In a way, they viewed the economy as a pretty balloon to be kept firm and fat. If the balloon looked a bit tired they blew in enough air to make the wrinkles disappear. If needed, they could leak a little air from time to time.

For a while the New Economists seemed to keep the balloon firm, neither too taut nor too slack. And to this day you will not find a dyed-in-the-wool New Economist who will admit that failure was in their methods. They are more inclined to blame the politicians.

These politicians, it seems, became fascinated with the big bright balloon, saw in it a symbol of perfection and sought to make it more nearly perfect. They pumped in so much air that it appeared swollen and quite vulnerable to a pin.

SO NOW, just as it was important to inflate to the proper pressure, it is necessary to let the air out at the correct speed and for the right length of time. It is a delicate job.

In most ways the present assignment is more ticklish than was that of the New Economists. The dollar must be protected for the sake of international monetary stability; joblessness must not be permitted to rise so high as to ignite domestic unrest; mortgage money must not be permitted to dry up.

Above all, the economic coaches must be able to detect well in advance when recession threatens. This will be difficult, availability and cost of credit for this huge economy of ours reacts to the coaches' signals only months later. It yaws.

These signals that can be fed to the economy generally are of two types: Fiscal and monetary. Fiscal matters relate to government spending and taxing; monetary matters to the availability and cost of credit.

Hal Boyle Walter Keeps His 'Cool'

NEW YORK (AP) — If you ask him what the meaning of life is in one word, he replies after a thoughtful pause: "Serenity."

Perhaps this is a major reason why Walter Cronkite of CBS-TV, whose job is to tell the news, good or bad, is one of the most widely welcomed faces in the American living room.

No matter how bad the word may be some 15 million households don't blame it all on Walter. They know he is just doing his duty, telling them what has happened in a manner neither shrill nor pontifical, but serious, calm, blue-eyed and friendly.

IN ANOTHER week Walter will start training for the political conventions. As wheelhorse for his network, which expects to spend around $10 million covering the nominating sessions of the two major parties, Cronkite takes the precautions of an athlete in getting into shape.
"I go on a low-residue diet, a trick I learned from the astronauts," he said. "And I put aside the pipe I usually have at hand all day. Smoking can dry out your throat if you may have to face up to an 18-hour day at the microphone."

He will also spend long evening hours at home conscientiously boning up on the backgrounds of the issues and the personalities of the candidates.

In 18 years he has spent more than 3,000 hours on the air or, as he puts it, "in the cockpit." One of the most often-asked questions within an industry whose greatest mortality comes from the pressure it exacts is, "How does Walter hold up under it?"

IT IS A query that provides him with some dry amusement. Speaking of what he calls "the stress periods," such as the two upcoming national conventions, he said:

"As a newsman with a press agency before I went into this line of work, I was already pretty well adjusted to pressure."

"Another thing that helps, I suppose, is that I simply try my best to do a good job rather than try to compete with another guy. I have never felt a personal compulsion to succeed. I don't think this is the end-all of existence. I could be happy doing other things."

"I know all the great actors and actresses say they have butterflies in the stomach before a broadcast. Perhaps it is because I don't particularly think of myself as a performer."

"I DON'T think of the millions who are watching or listening. In giving each news item I always have in mind somebody who would be particularly interested in having it explained—whether that individual might be a professor, a child, a government official, or a housewife. "It makes me less nervous to make a broadcast than to deliver a speech to 50 Boy Scouts—or to my son. I do find personal appearances pretty nerve-wracking."

Perhaps the real key to Walter's fabulous calm, however, is his reasoned philosophy of living.
For successfully keeping his own cool, Walter earns $200,000 or more yearly—enough to make anybody nervous.

Around The Rim Phrases Too Oft Repeated

Young women who choose careers with the Fourth Estate, usually look a little starry-eyed at their first press pass and see far into the future—dreaming of the glamorous, exciting and possibly, dangerous assignments that may come their way.

MORE LIKELY, if they get to stay in the general news department, they end up covering city hall, school board meetings and the routine civic affairs and obits. The dream dies hard, but the gal stays healthy.

Others slide into the "society" slot (though about half are gently pushed) for as you know, most women just don't like working with their own sex.

LUCKILY, I do. Especially since my days of cloak and dagger went down the drain about the same time as those of wine and roses. Besides, women aren't as distracting as men, and after all, the name of the game is "news."

However, like Hal Boyle's bald-headed men or over-weight ladies, there are some things a women's editor gets a trifle weary hearing. For instance:

"You can change this story any way you want to, honey."

"YOU MAY want to re-write this; I'm not very good at describing these things."

"Here's a little news that might sell you a few more papers."

"This happened last month, but the president will kill me if it's not in the paper."

"I'm not sure of this name, but it won't matter if you misspell it."

"We especially want you to say that the cake was baked by the bride's aunt."

"SIX WERE supposed to be here for the picture, but five couldn't make it."

"I don't like publicity, but my friends thought I should call this in."

"If you didn't have enough room to get it in today, why don't you print more pages?"

"OUR CONVENTION bus leaves at 5:30 in the morning, and we'd like a photographer."

"We should have thought of this earlier, but could you get here in a few minutes before the national president leaves?"

"You know, her husband is a big advertiser."

"I want this in a Sunday paper."

"You ought to come out and take a picture of this. It's the prettiest centerpiece I've ever seen."

"SORRY to call you on Sunday, but I'll be working tomorrow."

"Write it up real pretty."

"We need it for our scrapbook."

"Maybe we could get a full page spread if I called your boss."

"Be sure and say they were married previously in Mexico."

Just teasing! Still friends?

Art Buchwald

Problem Of The Mothers-In-Law

(Art Buchwald has disappeared for a few weeks. He left behind some of his "classics" which he wrote when he was stationed in Europe.—Editor's note.)

PARIS—My mother-in-law has been visiting Paris, making an on-the-spot investigation of the dust under our French carpets.

Inadvertently, my mother-in-law made me lose a lifelong friend, Alain Bernheim, and I have only myself to blame.

This is what happened: Anatole Litvak, the director, was about to make a film in Paris with Ingrid Bergman, Yves Montand and Tony Perkins, and to launch his film he held a press cocktail party at the Hotel George V.

MY MOTHER-IN-LAW is a big fan of Miss Bergman's, and so I took her to the party. Miss Bergman was very gracious, and my mother-in-law was thrilled. She also met Sam Taylor, who wrote the script, and he invited us both to dinner at the Plaza Athenee after the press party. As luck would have it, his date was Miss Bergman.

Well, you can imagine how thrilled my mother-in-law was, not only to meet Miss Bergman but to have dinner with her.

To make matters even better, James Stewart, who was staying at the Plaza, stopped by to say hello to Miss Bergman, and so my mother-in-law met him, too. Speaking of celebrities, it was a memorable evening in my mother-in-law's life, and I went to bed happy in the knowledge that Warren, Pa., would soon have a firsthand report on Ingrid Bergman, James Stewart, Tony Perkins and Yves Montand.

BUT, UNFORTUNATELY, the next day my mother-in-law had a luncheon date with Mr. Bernheim's mother-in-law, Mrs. Lillian Kessler, of Los Angeles. Somehow, I'll never know why, my mother-in-law mentioned to Mr. Bernheim's mother-in-law where she had been on the previous evening and also whom she met.

As I understand it, my mother-in-law laid it on pretty thick, and no matter how Mrs. Kessler kept trying to change the subject, my mother-in-law kept coming back to "Ingrid," "Jimmy," "Tony" and "Yves."

That evening Mrs. Kessler confronted her son-in-law, who used to be my best friend, at the dinner table and said: "Marie McGarry's son-in-law took her to dinner with Ingrid Bergman."

Mr. Bernheim flushed.

"HE ALSO introduced her to James Stewart, Tony Perkins, Yves Montand and some Taylor, probably Elizabeth. It's funny that you don't introduce me to anybody except some of your wild French friends."

Mr. Bernheim protested, "I introduced you to Paulette Goddard in Ascona."

Mrs. Kessler said, "She's not Ingrid Bergman."

At this point Mr. Bernheim couldn't take it any more, and he went to the phone. On the basis of what my mother-in-law had told me, I was expecting his call.

"WHAT THE HELL are you doing to me?" he screamed.

"I'm sorry," I said. "How did I know my mother-in-law would talk?"

"After all I've done for you," he sobbed, "this is how you repay me."

"Look," I suggested, "why don't you take her to dinner with Paulette Goddard?"

Mr. Bernheim hung up on me. I never knew him to be such a sore loser.

Holmes Alexander Gun Battle In The Hearing Room

WASHINGTON — He was grim, almost slit-eyed, coldly polite, alternately pale and flushed — no wonder. He was Ramsey Clark, Attorney General of the United States, and he was making his last stand. If he lost this one, considering all the circumstances, he'd be going out of office in January as a casualty.

Fittingly, the scene in the Senate Caucus chamber, was something of a shootout. Guns were involved, legislation for stringent firearms control. Several other careers were on the line beside Clark's.

SEN. TOM DODD (D., Conn.), chairman of the subcommittee, aided by the buoyancy of a serious public dispute, was fighting back from the disgrace of his censure. Sen. Roman Hruska (R., Nev.), opposing the Administration's tightening up proposals, was plunging into controversy — not good for his ambition to become Republican Whip at the next session.

BUT RAMSEY CLARK, in the witness chair for several days, was unavoidably the central figure. Appointed in February, 1967, not then 40 years old, the Attorney General had never quite unloaded the burden of proof about his capacity for the job. He'd received it from Lyndon Johnson, a fellow-Texan, his father's crony.

The young Attorney General, top lawman of the nation, found himself in there at the most lawless era the country ever experienced. Almost everything he said and did made him look soft-on-crime, but that might have been an optical illusion in stormy weather for which he wasn't responsible.

NOW HE WAS manager of the Administration's gun legislation, and he moved into the sunshine of popular favor. Millions of letters, piled on the committee tables of House and Senate, endorsed Clark's position. All the newspapers that are read in Washington backed him up. In the wake of Bob Kennedy's assassination, the climate of opinion beamed on the Attorney General's efforts. With headlines showing murderers-by-the-day, Clark could hardly miss, or so it seemed.

BUT YOU COULD surmise in the Caucus Room that the atmosphere wasn't quite what it seemed. Clark told the subcommittee there were 200 million firearms in the USA, and that three-fourths of a million more had been shipped in from abroad since January. Not all murders were done with guns, but many killings might be prevented if all guns were registered and their owners listed, he said. Ammunition, too, he added, would be controlled in the Administration bill. Confiscation, next? No, said Clark, anybody who saw confiscation of guns in the offing was seeing "ghosts."

THE WEATHER BEGAN to darken at this point. Clark, as legislative manager, had gone too far. The Administration, as often before, had overreached itself. Congress already had voted additional gun control as part of the Omnibus Crime Act. The legislators were willing to extend the mail-order ban on hand guns to include long guns. But total registration, total licensing, including restrictions on ammunition, was getting too close to confiscation.

A legislative contest can become a personal shoot-out. There are survivors and casualties. As the hearings ended, Dodd had somewhat restored his dignity as a Senator. Hruska had probably hurt his chances for party advancement. The only certain loser, since he needed so much to win, appeared to be the luckless Ramsey Clark.
