New Freedom Rule Adopted At Texas U.

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 28—The board of regents of the University of Texas today adopted a revised faculty and tenure and academic freedom rule, and began a study of administrative procedures designed to meet criticism on this point that has resulted in the probationary status imposed on the school by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

The board ratified the action of Chairman Dudley K. Woodward in requesting the association to particularize and to make further investigations of what the regents are doing to remedy conditions complained of.

Rainey Status Unchanged

It left standing the status of Dr. Homer P. Rainey, deposed president, in the face of a complaint from 61 full professors that the board's July action in retaining him as a professor without salary or duties constituted definition of a position "unknown to the literature of administration."

The letter from the 61 professors was written in response to Woodward's statement following the imposition of probationary status by the Southern association, inviting faculty comment on the action, and suggestions for removing probation.

The 61 professors voiced these complaints in part:

That the board has in recent months "made its decisions in secret session" in dealing with the detailed docket as submitted by the president.

Substitute Judgment

That the substitution by the board of its judgment for the informed and responsible judgment of administrative officers on such matters as salary increases and promotions is not desirable.

Woodward, in comment on the points offered by the various professors, said in part:

That he felt all were offered constructively and tendered in the hope of making a contribution to settlement of the questions that have arisen in recent months.

That in regard to secret meetings, the board makes formal decisions in open meetings but it is also true that "if at any time the welfare of the university requires, executive sessions on matters that could not with propriety be discussed in their interim stages," would continue.

Adoption of the new rules on tenure and academic freedom followed a 4 to 5 board split on a proposed amendment.

Cotton Research Move Confirmed

AUSTIN, Sept. 28 (AP)—Acting President T. S. Painter of the University of Texas reported to the board of regents today that the Texas Cotton Research committee at a recent meeting had decided that some of the fibre research staff and equipment now at the University of Texas would be transferred to Texas Technological college at Lubbock.

Painter's Report

In his report Dr. Painter said: "This move would assist in building up a cotton fibre research program at a state institution which has a textile school. Also, the committee, recognizing the need for postwar development of the economic aspects of cotton research, allocated $10,000 to the University of Texas for this work for the current fiscal year."

Dr. Painter stressed plans for continuation of the fundamental research on cotton fibre which has been under way at the university for several years. This specialized research will continue as in the past with support there for coming chiefly in the form of gifts from agencies able to provide funds for major projects.

Admiral Halsey, Enroute Home, Asks Naval Service Retirement

By HARRY FRAWLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

PEARL HARBOR, Sept. 28. (AP) Admiral Halsey, the Third Fleet commander who vigorously carried out his favorite motto—"kill Japs, sink ships"—announced today he had asked for retirement at 62 to make room for younger officers.

The sharp - tongued, weather-beaten officer who was at sea

NO REQUEST RECEIVED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—The Navy said tonight no request for retirement had been received from Admiral William F. Halsey, Jr. In the absence of any official notification, Navy officials declined any comment on the report from Honolulu.

when Pearl Harbor was attacked and was cast in a fighting role with but few rest periods throughout the war said:

"I'm an old man, let the young fellows take over."

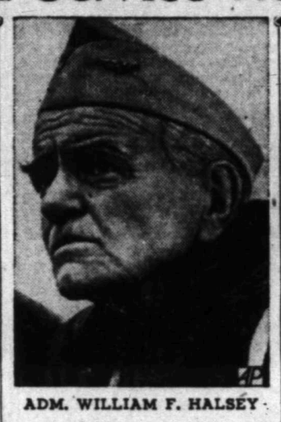

Escorted Doolittle Ship

The man whose naval force escorted the Carrier Hornet for the Jimmie Doolittle raid on Japan April 18, 1942—and who was on the Battleship Missouri when Japan signed surrender—said the Navy had not yet taken him into its confidence on whether his application had been acted upon.

(In Washington, the Navy department said no request for retirement had been received.)

Nor did the admiral who sparked the drive clearing the Japanese Navy from the Pacific have any particular plans for the future.

Obviously speaking "under

ADM. WILLIAM F. HALSEY

wraps" Halsey delved only a few times into his seemingly endless collection of colorful stories and phrases.

"You don't know how much trouble I get into every time I talk," Halsey explained when asked why an advance notice of a press conference gave indication that caution would play a major role in the interview.

"My wife told me to be more dignified in my expressions," the admiral said, laughingly.

The notice of the press conference had been given earlier this week and Halsey had requested that any questions relating to broad policies be submitted in advance.

The admiral displayed his old time form, however, in saying that the person he most wanted to see when in Tokyo was the "keeper of the zoo" but he couldn't find him.

He explained that one.

During one of Japan's celebrations of the mythical sinking of the United States fleet, a number of prominent military and civil officials were interviewed, Halsey said.

"One was the keeper of the zoo who said he hoped that Halsey fellow was rescued alive from the sea because he had a special cage in the monkey house for him," the admiral said, showing his familiar wide grin.

Favors Forced Training

On the serious side, Halsey came out for compulsory military training and reaffirmed his support of General MacArthur. Regarding the Allied supreme commander in Japan, Halsey said:

"If they will leave him alone and tell him what they want, he will conduct the occupation so that Japan never will get beyond a fifth rate nation, which it now is," Halsey declared.

Asked what he meant by "leaving him (MacArthur) alone," the admiral said the newsmen surely read the newspapers and had noted criticisms of the general He termed the criticisms "entirely undeserved."

Braden Charges Argentina Has Failed To Live Up To Hemisphere Or World Pledge

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Ambassador Spruille Braden charged tonight that the Argentine military government had failed to live up to its hemisphere and United Nations obligations.

Braden, who arrived by plane from Buenos Aires to take up his new duties as assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs, referred newsmen to a statement he made yesterday in Puerto Rico in which he said that if the people of the Americas remained indifferent to current events in Argentina they would be failing to live up to the resolutions adopted at the inter-American conference at Mexico City early this year.

Constitutional guarantees have been suspended and numerous arrests have been made in Argentina.

Referring to the so-called Act of Chapultepec, adopted at Mexico City, Braden declared:

"Declaration after declaration, resolution after resolution, that document applies to the present situation in Argentina."

He referred particularly, he said, to passages in the act dealing with "the dedication to democracy, to the principles of the Atlantic Charter and following down through to promises for the suppression of Nazi activities in this hemisphere."

Meanwhile the Argentine government, through its embassy here issued a statement in which it said that the re-imposition of a state of siege had been necessitated by persons who sought to "create an atmosphere of confusion and distorted the measures adopted to safeguard their rights."

Decree For Elections

The statement added that before the end of the year, the Farrell government will issue a decree calling for elections "through which the people themselves in full use of their rights as citizens will select the persons who are to govern the nation."

Despite the restoration of a state of siege and the wave of arrests by the Argentine government, Braden declared he saw "cause for optimism in the fine spirit of the Argentine people.

"Anyone who witnessed that demonstration of a week ago Wednesday in Buenos Aires could not fail to be impressed," he asserted.

This attitude he had expressed immediately on his arrival, while speaking into a newsreel camera microphone.

"I cannot too emphatically record my appreciation and gratitude to the Argentine people and particularly my hope that the American people understand that the Argentines are genuinely democratic and sincerely our friends," he commented.

Plans Indefinite

Braden, who will be President Truman's chief advisor on hemisphere affairs, said he could not say immediately when he would see the president.

He said, however, he hoped to confer with acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson tonight or tomorrow morning at the latest.

A reporter called Braden's attention to a statement of the Argentine government, that the current repression was only a temporary matter.

"As far as I'm concerned it doesn't matter whether it is temporary or not so long as the government is moving against its own people," Braden said. He said he personally was in favor of sending another ambassador to take his place in Buenos Aires as soon as possible but indicated he did not know how the State department felt about it.

Wintry Rain Chills South Plains Area

While temperatures played around the lowest marks of the season, a slow, soggy rain, accompanied by marrow-chilling winds, pattered down on the South Plains Friday night.

With the mercury reading 36 degrees at midnight, it was unlikely that temperatures would drop to freezing here, although the Panhandle and upper South Plains region were slated for readings of 32 or under.

To Continue Today

Cold and cloudy weather is expected to continue today on the South Plains, but no rain is predicted for this area and the Panhandle. The forecast holds good for Saturday and Sunday with diminishing north and northeast winds.

The weather fare was approximately the same last night in the Lubbock territory—slow, cold rain which occasionally stepped up to a downpour or dropped into a drizzle, according to Santa Fe's dispatcher at Slaton.

Moisture of .37 of an inch for the 24-hour period ending at 6 o'clock last night was reported by the agricultural experiment station, where but three degrees variance was noted in the day's high temperature of 40 and the low of 37.

A steady patter began here about 6:30 o'clock last night and continued for several hours.

Five Times Previously

Don L. Jones, superintendent of the station, said that only five times in the last 31 years has the temperature dropped this low in September here. The last competing temperature was 37 in 1936. In 1942, the September minimum was 39, in 1935 a reading of 39.

The cold front moved in Friday night in company with a thunderstorm which set off the wet spell.

Amarillo was due for a reading of 30 degrees but the Panhandle capitol's readings in the fore part of the night were staying along with those in Lubbock. At 10 o'clock, it was 36 at Plainview, one degree cooler than in Lubbock.

In the Lubbock territory, the precipitation's greatest benefit will be to aid slightly late maturing grain sorghums and to pave the way for dews. According to Jones, dews are needed for application of chemical defoliation of cotton. Defoliation chemicals should be applied several weeks in advance of cotton pulling time, he said.

Considerable sleet was reported yesterday afternoon in Sudan. Wilson, Anton and Meadow reported steady, light rain all afternoon. Motorists said bar ditches in the Shallowater vicinity held large amounts of water. A drizzle at Littlefield turned into a heavy rain at 8:30 o'clock and two hours later an estimated .75 had fallen. A heavy rain fell between 9 and 10 o'clock at Levelland, a report said. Post got a big rain which dwindled to a mist at 8 o'clock. Plainview also reported substantial rain.

Andrews and Snyder

Two and a half or three inches doused the Andrews section.

Snyder at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon had welcomed 1.70 inches over the county. Farmers in Scurry county were greatly cheered as 8,200 acres of summer fallowed land for small grains will be benefitted, according to Leon Guinn, Snyder newspaperman.

Two inches of badly needed rain, which turned to hail and sleet at times, pounded Amarillo.

Pampa and Borger reported lows of 35 degrees.

Rains were reported at Palestine, Wichita Falls, Midland, Borger, and Dallas. Friday's rain at Wichita Falls brought precipitation for a five-day period to two and one half inches.

Survey Shows Majority Would Hike Draft Age To At Least 20

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—The American public thinks the draft age should be lifted from 18 to 20 years now that the war has ended.

This view is especially significant in light of the pressure being brought on Congress for large-scale discharges of men now serving in the Army.

It is entirely possible that the country's attitude toward raising the draft age may change after further public discussion of the matter. Much will depend on the rate of discharge from the present armed forces. Obviously there is a point beyond which large-scale releasing of men now in service cannot be continued without additional draft of 18-year-olds if the armed forces are to be kept at the levels announced by military authorities.

GALLUP

In measuring public sentiment on the issue, the Institute had field reporters in all parts of the nation ask:

"If the government decides to continue the draft to obtain men for occupation forces, should we draft young men 18 years old or should the age be set higher?"

The replies:

Continue to Draft Young Men 18 Years Old	39%
Set the Draft Age Higher	53
No Opinion	8

People who said they think the draft age should be set higher were asked what they thought the youngest age should be.

Japs Suspend Papers, Face American Ire

By MURLIN SPENCER
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, Saturday, Sept. 29—Japan's home ministry today confiscated copies of major Japanese newspapers carrying accounts of an American correspondent's interview with Emperor Hirohito and suspended the newspapers.

The action, raising the question of the Japanese government's power to so act on newspapers being censored by American occupation representatives, was expected to have immediate repercussions.

The home ministry said the articles on the interview and the emperor's quoted words were "too awesome and would have a bad effect on the Japanese people."

Ordered Not To Print It

The ministry said Japanese newspapers had been ordered not to print the interview in which the emperor was quoted as being hopeful Japan would develop democratic tendencies in the future.

American officials emphasized they had no part in the action. Suspensions included Tokyo's Asahi, Yomiuri and Mainichi, Osaka's Mainichi and Asahi and the Fukushima Nippo in northern Japan.

The interview was obtained by the New York Times recently prior to Hirohito's call this week on General MacArthur.

The question whether the Japanese government had a right to suspend its own newspapers, which now are operating under American censorship, had not arisen before today's action.

American's Interview

American authorities understood the newspapers had been warned by Japanese government officials against publishing the interview with the emperor obtained by the New York Times correspondent, Frank Kluckholhn.

In the interview, the emperor had expressed belief that through a slow evolution, rather than by a quick turn over, the Japanese government would develop democratic tendencies.

("This morning's ban," said a NBC broadcast from Tokyo, "is an obvious attempt to keep information from the Japanese.")

The Allied command embarked on a two-fold program to get 1,490,000 Pacific veterans home within seven months and to shield prostrate Japan from famine and disease.

General MacArthur granted the Japanese permission to use raw materials for critically - needed civilian goods, including trucks for transportation, but banned such luxuries as silk and passenger automobiles.

Patton Reports On Bavaria Plan

FRANKFURT ON THE MAIN, Sept. 28 (AP)—Summoned by his chief, Gen. George S. Patton, jr., reported personally on the denazification program in Bavaria today in a conference with Gen. Eisenhower lasting two hours and 20 minutes.

Jovial and smiling, Patton emerged from headquarters with Eisenhower and posed for pictures.

Eisenhower said he had no statement to make, and remarked there was "nothing unusual" in his conferring with one of his Army commanders.

Reports Called Gossip

Informed officers declared that reports (not carried by the Associated Press) that Patton might be relieved by Eisenhower were unfounded "gossip mongering."

Patton, in charge of the military administration of Bavaria, was called to report in person after telling a press conference Saturday that he believed it might be necessary to keep some former Nazi party members in responsible positions for a while to "insure ourselves that women, children, and old men will not perish from hunger or cold this winter."

Nazis Ordered Removed

Eisenhower has ordered that Nazis be removed "ruthlessly from public office, regardless of general efficiency."

Criticism also arose over Patton's remark to newsmen that: "This Nazi fight, in some ways, is like the Democratic and Republican fight back home. You always find the 'outs' back home making charges against the 'ins'" In a subsequent conference, Patton said that had been an "unfortunate analogy." The Third Army commander also said he was carrying out Eisenhower's order with vigor and loyalty.

Lewis Threatens Shutdown Of Nation's Soft Coal Industry

Strike Wave Mounts; Other Thousands Idle

(By The Associated Press)

A textile workers strike spread through 284 plants yesterday and raised the nationwide total of persons away from work becaause of labor trouble to a new high of 412,777.

In addition some 1,500,000 persons were kept from their offices and shops indirectly by the strike of 15,000 New York building maintenance employes, where mediation efforts have failed.

Major Developments

Other prime labor developments included:

1. John L. Lewis, head of the unaffiliated United Mine Workers, asked bituminous coal operators to meet with him Monday to discuss the foremen's stoppage involving 36,635 Pennsylvania and West Virginia miners. The operators' negotiating committee refused.

2. Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach faced the hardest task of his young cabinet career—settlement of the eight-state oil strike at conferences resuming today in Washington.

3. A CIO union executive board authorized its organizing committee for Montgomery Ward & Company facilities to call a strike if necessary.

4. High CIO United Automobile Workers union officials planned to intervene in the 36-day Kelsey - Hayes Wheel company strike in Detroit, which affects 4,500 directly and many thousands of others indirectly.

5. The CIO United Packinghouse Workers union announced it would demand a general wage increase of 25 cents an hour throughout the meat industry.

6. William Green, American Federation of Labor president, said passage of adequate unemployment compensation and full employment bills would "have a tendency to lessen strikes."

The strike of CIO dyers, finishers, printers and bleachers began in the Paterson, N. J., area Thursday when 6,000 walked out. It spread rapidly yesterday to embrace 62,000 workers despite a back-to-work order from a CIO national executive committee.

Gasoline Rationing

Gasoline rationing, war - time plague of motorists, popped up again in Ohio. The mayor of Cleveland called a meeting for today to set up a rationing system to insure supplies for emergency users.

The general executive board of the CIO United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employes of America authorized the organizing committee for Montgomery Ward facilities to call a strike "if negotiations fail to terminate in an agreement."

In the Detroit automobile industry capital the protracted Kelsey-Hayes dispute has been one of the most serious. In the Detroit metropolitan area some 80,000 workers are off the job because of walkouts and layoffs resulting from the stoppages.

Another Refinery Closes As Pipeline Workers Set Vote

PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 28. (AP)—The Atlantic Refinery company, last operating refinery in oil-rich Jefferson county, Tex., closed today as Big Inch and Little Inch oil pipeline workers set a meeting to consider a strike vote.

Orderly picketing began at Atlantic, Texas' twenty-first refinery or affiliated plant to shut down through strike action.

Four hundred Atlantic workers now striking swell the total to about 23,000 idle in Texas.

Longview Session Called

R. W. Lawrence, Oil Workers International union (CIO) representative from Fort Worth said a meeting of Local 527 was called in Longview tonight to discuss a pipeline strike vote which could affect about 800 workers from Texas to Linden, N. J.

Pipeline workers' demands include pay raises retroactive to April, 1945, when a wage increase agreement was filed with the War Labor board. No action has been taken on the agreement.

Tomorrow about 2,000 East Texas oil field workers will ballot on strike issues which include demands for a 30 per cent pay increase.

Lawrence said that strike vote results of the Gulf pipeline and Pan American balloting would not be released until next week. Territory covered by that strike vote includes all the huge East Texas field and extends to Jefferson and Mt. Pleasant.

Other Industries Idle

In the Port Arthur area alone, five oil refineries, three rubber plants, an asphalt plant and several smaller related industries are closed. Workers idle here number 17,000.

The Salt Water Disposal company walkout scheduled in East Texas today was called off following a meeting yesterday between union and management.

Plants now closed in Texas include five at Houston, two at Beaumont, three at Texas City, nine at Port Arthur and two at Corpus Christi.

A gasoline shortage resulting from the strikes has been felt mainly at Port Arthur. Picketing extended to a seventh gasoline distribution center in Houston and 400 service stations in the area are expected to feel a drastic curtailment.

Permian Basin Situation

L. B. Cooper, Odessa local union secretary, said today that OWUI policy committees of all locals in the Permian Basin of West Texas with drilling department memberships would meet at Kermit tomorrow night.

He said that what came out of the Kermit meeting would determine action to be taken by drilling crews in the Permian area.

Cooper added it was not the intention of the committees to call a strike "unless the American Association of Drilling Contractors refuse to bargain" with the unions regarding wages, hours, and working conditions.

Big Strike Majority

Mail vote of some 350 CIO union oil workers on the South Texas division of the Texas Pipe Line company ran up an 87 per cent vote in favor of striking, J. J. Hickman, secretary of Local 227, Oil Workers International union announced today.

Meanwhile the Sinclair pipe line was being closed down, E. W. Johnson, president of Local 227 of the same organization announced.

Closure of the Sinclair tube will dry up delivery of crude oil in a network of lines reaching from Corpus Christi to Houston as well as from East Texas which had supplied the 77,000 barrel refinery here.

Prince Apologizes To MacArthur For Suit

TOKYO, Sept. 28. (U.P.)—On his recent visit to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Premier Prince Naruhiko Higashi-Kuni apologized for the suit he was wearing, Asahi Shimbun reported today.

The premier, who Asahi said was wearing cheap shoes and no socks, told MacArthur all his other suits had been destroyed when his house was burned in an American air raid.

"You're lucky you have one left," the newspaper quoted MacArthur as saying.

Ex-Soldier Tells More About Army Separation's 'Separator'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of two articles describing procedure involved in going through a Separation Center for a discharge, one of the most discussed bits of news the past few weeks and due to become even more so in weeks to come. The Process described here took place at Fort Bliss Separation center at El Paso).

By JAY HARRIS
Avalanche Staff Writer

In Friday's article, we told how after waiting three days for our chance to go through the process at the Fort Bliss Separation Center we started out with several other groups long before dawn Monday morning and how by 3 o'clock that afternoon we had completed most of the process of orientation, hospital inspection, personal inspection and counselling.

Then we settled down for another "slight" wait of several hours which seemed like years as the sun dropped behind the towering crags about a mile from the post.

Sprawled around in the evening sun as the wind swept dust down from the nearby mountain we waited for the loudspeaker to call off our roster number. The hours passed and finally a voice boomed over the loudspeaker, but it was for the group which was scheduled to be discharged at nine that morning, six hours earlier. We sat three more hours and at about 8 o'clock the group which was to have been discharged at noon was called. Another hour and a half passed and then it came.

We paraded—on a cloud about two foot off the ground—over to the "outgoing records" section

Fuss Centers On Foremen

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The nation — with 370,000 people idle because of strikes and shutdowns — tonight faced possible "action" by John L. Lewis' 400,000 coal miners.

Operators of the soft coal mines turned down the 'invitation" of Lewis — long silent while the rest of the country's labor pot boiled—to a showdown meeting here Monday on the mine foremen's dispute.

Foreman Recognition

The foremen want the owners to recognize them as part of Lewis' United Mine Workers union. This the owners have refused to do. As a result of the foremen's dispute, 79 mines already are shut down and 36,000 miners are on strike.

The operators, in rejecting Lewis' invitation to discuss the problem, said they would talk if the 36,000 strikers returned to work.

Lewis warned the owners, in a telegram, that their failure to attend the meeting would free the UMW to "take such independent action as may be required."

Not Specific Threat

This was not a specific threat, but the operators' negotiating committee chairman, Ezra Van Horn, in Cleveland, termed it an "implied threat to call the miners of the country out on strike directly."

Labor department officials had no immediate comment on the development in UMW's efforts to gain recognition of the foremen's union. UMW headquarters was silent on the Van Horn reply.

Officials of the National Labor Relations board voiced concern, however, lest Lewis call for another federal strike poll of his soft coal miners which would cost $200,000 and tie up other NLRB activity, as did last spring's UMW vote.

After return to work of the men already on strike, Van Horn said, the operators would sit down immediately with Lewis.

Strikes Costly To Production

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP) — A survey by the national conference of business paper editors today indicated that current strikes in four basic industries are costing daily, in lost production, thousands of automobiles, nearly half of the nation's oil output, 168,000 tons of coal and 40 per cent of the northwest's production of timber.

The conference represents 132 business and trade publications. Its magazine editors with authoritative knowledge of the four industries reported thsi current picture:

Automotive—63,000 idle workers have lost 900,000 man-days of work and $9,300,000 in pay.

Oil and Coal

Oil—total idle 250,000 with daily loss of 1,600,000 man-hours and $2,000,000 in pay.

Coal — 42,000 idle, closing 77 mines with daily payroll of $325,000.

Northwest lumber—strike of 60,000 workers closed 450 plants with loss of 2,500,000 man-hours and $2,640,000 in pay to date.

One editor in the oil industry estimated the strikes have set reconversion back 90 days, with continuation adding to the retarding effect.

Oil refineries already closed as the result of the strike of 30,000 workers have a capacity of nearly half the nation's daily 4,700,000-barrel output.

COTTON WEAVE SET ASIDE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. (AP)—The War Production board ruled today that cotton weaves must set aside 15 to 80 per cent of their output of certain fabrics during the next three months. The purpose, WPB said, is to provide material for inexpensive clothing.

PILLS DON'T HELP RESTORE HAIR COLOR

WE were wondering through this column not long ago if anyone knows whether gray hair can be restored to its original color by taking chemicals or vitamins? The answer was provided in a recent article in Modern Medicine and we regret to say it was "No."

The idea that some form of malnutrition might be a factor in graying of the hair came from studies of severe starvation in animals and humans. Many years ago research workers observed rats became gray if fed on a deficient diet and when they were put back on a general diet and certain chemicals were added the original color of the hair was restored.

In the normal person, hair is colored by the same pigments which color the cells of the skin. Gray hair is not a disease, and early graying is not a sign of premature aging, as it is often observed in individuals who have enjoyed good health and a long life.

BUT back to this idea of taking pantothentic acid in an attempt to restore the hair to its original color: Irwin Kerlan, M. D. treated a group of office employees in a governmental agency who had been graying or gray for some time. Some were asked to serve as controls and they were not given the pills although their hair color was determined before, during and after the experiment. Special scientific tests determined the actual color of the hair. Hairs were clipped from the heads of both men and women and although the areas were studied throughout the entire experiment no color change was observed in the gray hairs after months of treatment.

We suppose those of us in the graying category may as well follow the advice of the philosopher and admire it. If you are young, it gives you a striking appearance; if you are not so young it is a natural frame for the age that is beginning to appear upon your face.

WOMEN AS COOKS

BECAUSE American women are always in too much of a hurry when they go to the kitchen to prepare a meal and they don't learn to make sauces, they can't cook. This is according to Louis Diat, chef at one of New York's snazziest hotels.

American mothers do not pass along their secrets of successful cookery, as do French mothers, Diat says. There is too much delicatessen eating here and every one is in too much of a hurry.

"Cooking is a great art," he maintains, "and one that makes many people happy. I think there would be fewer divorces in America if wives would take the time to learn to cook."

The chef has written a book, "La Cuisine de Ma Mere," in which he gives a few subtle cooking secrets he learned in his mother's French kitchen. If a woman cannot learn to cook after reading his book, he says she may as well give up and hire a chef.

Installation Held By Homemakers

First Baptist Homemakers class had an installation service and was presented with a program, Friday, in a luncheon held in the church annex. Mrs. Raymond Dunn gave the devotional, and the following took office in a ceremony directed by Harry Miner:

Mrs. Lewis Kerr, president; Mrs. M. S. Craig, enlistment vice president; Mrs. John D. Haygood and Mrs. Steve Noble, fellowship chairmen; Mrs. Jean Leftwich, ministry; Mrs. L. J. Abbott, stewardship; Mesdames Earl Langley, Gilbert Woodside and L. W. Bells, secretary chairmen and Mrs. J. B. McCauley, jr., reporter.

"Pass It On" and "Trees" were sung by Mrs. Harry Miner, and Mrs. W. H. Trice gave the invocation.

Red Cross Sewing Is Done By Needle Club

Mrs. J. C. Stansell, 2105 Twenty-ninth was hostess to the Friday Needle club, which sewed for the Red Cross. Mrs. R. C. Pace was a guest.

Attending were Mesdames J. R. Weiss, W. H. Trice, Minnie Fickas, J. W. Cannon, J. A. Goodwin, W. C. Barnett, J. A. Fortenberry, H. V. Bigham, F. K. Mitchell, E. A. Hankins, C. C. Burns, N. L. Eddins, W. E. Twitty, J. T. O'Neal, L. F. Fernandez, O. T. Williams and A. L. Harris.

Euzelian Class Has Thursday Service

A dinner and installation service was held by the First Baptist Euzelian class Thursday night in the church annex. Retiring officers, serving for the last six months, gave reports. Flowers and white candles were decorations.

On behalf of the class, Mrs. Clyde C. Gibson presented Mrs. R. C. Todd, retiring class president, with two gifts as token of appreciation for her work.

On Theme Of Wheel

Mrs. H. W. Miner directed the installation which was based on the theme of a wheel with Mrs. C. Fred Litton, who was retained as teacher, and each new officer, compared to integral parts of a wheel. Installed were:

Mrs. Litton; Mrs. Henry Fisher, president; Mrs. M. H. Adkisson, enlistment vice president; Mrs. Kirby Nutt, fellowship chairman; Mrs. H. F. Gregg, assistant fellowship chairman; Mrs. B. T. Rucker, ministries; Mrs. O. C. Todd, chairman of benevolences; Mrs. Carroll Holtzclaw, stewardship vice president; Mrs. J. W. Simmons, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. John Markham, assistant secretary-treasurer; Mrs. O. W. Luck, extension chairman; Mrs. Clyde C. Gibson, members in service; Mrs. Ross Kirk, reporter; Mesdames J. Kell Wiley, Joe Jackson, Wiley Hudman, Olen Perryman, Kirk, L. R. Harrison and L. T. Stone, group captains.

Reports of the past six months were given by Mrs. Gibson, enlistment vice president; Mrs. Fisher, fellowship chairman; Mrs. J. A. Jackson, assistant class ministries; Mrs. J. O. Pope, stewardship vice president, and Mrs. George B. Long, secretary-treasurer.

After a prayer by Mrs. Gradie Bownds, Mrs. S. J. Nabers sang "Legacies" (Hill) and "Roses" (Marsh). The group sang "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Hostesses were Mesdames Todd, Fisher, Adkisson, Rucker, Kirk, Perryman, Long, Lewis Hobbs, Simmons and Pope.

Thirty-five were in attendance.

Officers Installed By Baptist Class

Mrs. L. A. Ellis, 2117 Twenty-sixth was hostess to the First Baptist Bethenian class Thursday night in an installation of officers. Mrs. Henry Boswell was in charge.

Yellow and white flowers were decorations for the candle-lighted ceremony.

Taking office were: Mrs. J. T. Ashford, teacher; Mrs. L. L. Hendrix, president; Mrs. J. Holland Cox, membership vice president; Mrs. Roy Morris, fellowship vice president; Mrs. Earl Parrack, assistant fellowship vice president; Mrs. M. H. Hutto, ministries; Mrs. M. L. Hogan, stewardship vice president; Mrs. Ruby Bomar, secretary; Mesdames Josie Hamilton, J. A. Jones, Cortis Stevenson and Ellis, group captains.

Mrs. Ashford presented Mrs. Ellis with a gift on behalf of the class.

Refreshments were served to 19 women.

Mrs. Emery Lectures On Pioneer Days

Mrs. Eugene Emery contrasted this section of the country today with its customs and appearance in 1900 in a lecture presented to the Monroe Home Demonstration club, Thursday, in the home of Mrs. W. H. Emery.

Pictures of dresses and the open ranges were displayed, and she discussed the early schools, churches and social life of the country, comparing the modern conveniences to those of the early twentieth century.

Attending were Mesdames Clem Clutter, J. H. Barnett, E. W. Smith, W. O. Fortenberry, E. J. Exum, C. L. Goble and Earl Hobbs. Mrs. Jno. McGuire will be hostess to the club Oct. 11.

News Briefs

Ray Caldwell, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Caldwell of 1924 Ave. Q, is on his way home now after being liberated from a Japanese prison camp. A letter received Friday morning by his mother, Mrs. B. H. Sifford of Copeville, Texas, said that he was aboard ship and was 12 days out. The letter was the first word of his liberation from Fukuoka camp, where he was taken from the Philippines about a year ago. He was captured in the fall of Bataan and was a member of the regular army. His message said that he was physically all right except for his eyesight, which has been hampered by vitamin deficiencies. Mrs. Sifford spent Thursday here in the Caldwell home.

Darwin C. Prince, chief carpenter's mate, has been given an honorable discharge from the Navy at the Eighth Naval district separation center at Dallas. Prince enlisted Aug. 4, 1942, and served on Guadalcanal for 13 months. He also participated in the invasion of Okinawa. He wears the American theater ribbon and the Asiatic-Pacific ribbon with one battle star.

Funeral services for Mrs. H. H. Kight, 58, of 2008 Eighteenth, who died at St. Mary's hospital Wednesday, will be conducted at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the Broadway Church of Christ with Dr. M. Norvel Young, minister, officiating. Burial will be in Lubbock cemetery, Sanders Funeral home reported. Pallbearers will be Mrs. Kight's six sons.

"Dropped Line" In News Story Gives Wrong Impression

Every now and then a linotype operator will skip a line especially if a word is repeated in the same paragraph. It is a trick of the eye in a way and is responsible for many strange errors.

That is what happened to a story on the City commission meeting in Friday's Morning Avalanche. Reporting a discussion before the commissioners regarding the application of Primitivo E. Romo and Charles Deo for special permits the reporter wrote:

"After Attorney B. B. Chappell, representing the petitioners, asked for a continuance, the commissioners set the hearing over for October 25. Attorney George Dupree, representing City Cab company argued before the matter was continued that the city could not legally grant any taxicab franchises other than 'general permits,' for operation in any part of the city."

The linotype operator's eye jumped from the word "representing," which followed Chappell's name to the word "representing" after Dupree, so that when the story came out it had Attorney Chappell representing the cab company and making a statement which Dupree made.

Boards Get Official Notice Of Induction Delay For Students

Lubbock County Selective Service boards have been officially informed of the new ruling on postponement of induction of high school and college students, board officials said Friday.

Under the new set-up, most high school boys will be permitted to graduate from school before being inducted into the armed forces.

The new directive says that any high school student 18 or 19 years of age, who is ordered for induction during the last half of one of his academic years, shall, upon his request, have his induction postponed. He may have the induction postponed until the end of the academic year without regard to the date during the calendar year on which such academic year ends, or until he ceases to pursue such a course of instruction, whichever is the earlier.

It further states that any person who enters high school before he is 18 years of age, and who is ordered for induction during his studies, shall upon his request, have his induction postponed until he graduates from high school, or until he ceases to attend school, or until he arrives at the age of 20 years, whichever is sooner.

College students, who enter school before they are 18 years of age, may also have their induction postponed if they are called during a quarter or semester. They may ask for postponement until the end of the quarter or semester or until they cease to pursue continuously and satisfactorily such course of instruction, whichever is the earlier.

Public Reminded To Turn Clocks Back Sometime Tonight

After more than three and a half years of observing war time the public should set all clocks back an hour before going to bed tonight to swing into standard time once again, O. J. (Bo) Sexton, manager of Western Union here, has advised.

Sandard time becomes effective at 2 a. m. Sunday.

The telegraph people cannot change the many Western Union clocks at once, so the company is sending instructions to all subscribers stating that the minute hands should be turned forward around the dials eleven times to set the clocks back one hour to the new standard time. Resetting an electrically-synchronized or any other clock, Sexton pointed out, the minute hands should never be turned backwards and the hour hand should not be touched.

If clocks in radio stations, railroad stations, stores, theaters and schools were wrong, much confusion would result. It will be possible for the telegraph employes to reset in a short period of time only clocks in locations less difficult to reach, Sexton said.

Westerners Slosh To Win Over Big Spring, 27 To 0

By MACK TURNER
Avalanche Sports Editor

Striking from near and far, the Lubbock Westerners "swam" to a 27 to 0 victory over the Big Spring Steers Friday night at Tech stadium, with George Brewer and Noel Sikes setting an offensive pace for the winners while the Big Spring T model drowned out before a hard charging Lubbock line.

Big Spring made only two first downs, one of these on the numerous Westerner penalties, and another when Cochran was forced to run on a fourth down punt after fumbling the ball.

The Westerner's right side of the line smashed through to block a Big Spring punt for a safety, and the lone score of the first quarter.

In the second quarter, the second poor kicking attempt by Big Spring was short, and gave the Westerners the ball on the Steer 28. A 15-yard penalty against Big Spring, and a nice gallop by Brewer put the ball on the Steer 10. Brewer went to the four in two plays, then Sikes rammed to the one-inch line, and on the next play, Brewer plunged it over. Cobb's try for extra point failed.

A little later, Sikes took a kick on his own 27, and weaved through a broken field to the Steer 37 before Twinkle Toes was pulled to earth. A bit later, Brewer kicked out on the Steer one-foot line. When Big Spring kicked out to the 40, Sikes again began to roam, and ended up on the Steer 17. Sikes picked up four, then Austin went to the six for a first down. Sikes then smashed over for the score, but a pass failed for the extra point, and the count stood 14 to 0 at the half.

Shortly after returning to the playing field, Big Spring attempted one of its two passes of the night, but Don "Speck" Austin headed it off, and galloped 25 yards, untouched, for a touchdown on the interception, and John Paul Jones ran the ball over for the extra point to boost the lead to 21-0. Big Spring's other pass, the only aerials of the game, was incomplete.

The last touchdown came a few minutes later in the same period, breaking through the line, shaking himself into the clear, then outsloshing the Steers for 64 yards to pay, but still damp, dirt. A bad pass from center broke up the try for extra point.

The last quarter found neither team making a threat, with most of the Westerner reserves in the Lubbock lineup in this period.

Abernathy Edges Out Cowhand Blacks, 7-0

ABERNATHY, Sept. 28. (Special) — Abernathy's hard playing Antelopes eased out a 7 to 0 decision over Coach Curtis Barrett's Lubbock Cowhand Blacks here this afternoon in a cold drizzle.

Abernathy counted late in the third period when Quarterback Harold D. Rhodes took a pass from Fullback Harvey Lutrock and galloped six yards to paydirt. Rhodes also plunged for the extra point, the touchdown climaxing a long downfield drive. The Cowhands threatened early in the third but were unable to drive past the Antelope 10-yard marker.

COWHANDS GOLDS WIN

PLAINVIEW, Sept. 28—Playing in a hard driving rain all the way, Coach Marlin "Shorty" Hayhurst's Lubbock Cowhands Gold scored in every quarter to roll over the Bulldog Pups, Plainview B team, here tonight, 26 to 0.

Andrews Wins 20 to 0 Tussle Over O'Donnell

ANDREWS, Sept. 28. (Special) —Andrews struck in the first, third and fourth quarters here this afternoon to take a 20 to 0 decision over O'Donnell with Fullback Carl Stewart handling most of the scoring chores.

Stewart counted in the initial period when he plunged three yards to paydirt to climax a 60-yard drive, Earl Sutphen, right half, plunging over for the point. James Smyers, quarterback, had set up the tally with a 30-yard gallop. And in the fourth, Jack Young, tailback, ran eight yards to count after Andrews had recovered a blocked punt, then plunged over for the extra point.

Hale Center Defeats New Deal, 19 To 0

HALE CENTER, Sept. 28 (Spcl.) —The Hale Center Owls chalked up their third conference win of the season here this afternoon with a 19-to-0 decision over New Deal with Quarterback H. A. Caraway accounting for all three scoring plays.

Caraway passed to Right End Kenneth Borchardt in the 1st stanza for 20 yards and the initial tally, then tossed to Left End Stokes for the extra point. In the second period it was Caraway again on a line plunge, and in the final frame the Hale Center back again plowed over for the third counter. Attempts at extra points by kicking after the last two tallies failed.

Seagraves Scores 6-0 Grid Win Over Post

POST, Sept. 28. (Special)—Seagraves shoved over a quick touchdown in the first three minutes of play then held on in a see-saw game to defeat Post, 6 to 0 in a Conference 5-A tussle on a rain soaked grid here tonight.

Cotion set up the tally with a 40-yard heave to Cain on the Post four and in two plays McDaniel went over for the score. Back Raymond Dougherty, averaging 32-yards per punt, and Back George Hester had Post threatening but were unable to count.

Levelland Cops 48-0 Tussle Over Tahoka

LEVELLAND, Sept. 28. (Special)—Levelland scored at will here tonight in swamping Tahoka's Bulldogs, 48 to 0, in an inter-district tussle on a muddy field.

Handling the scoring for the Lobos was Fullback Joe Garrison with one tally and two points, Halfback Billy Pearcy with two touchdowns and two points, Halfback Stanley Williams with seven points; Half Beverly Brown, one touchdown; Quarterback Bobby Hart, seven points and Half Jim Delashan six points.

Anton Stops Amherst In Rain, 13 To 0

ANTON, Sept. 28 (Special) — Two long runs spotlighted play here this afternoon as Anton defeated Amherst, 13 to 0, in a steady rain which fell throughout the tussle.

Fullback Bill Wood for the Anton Bulldogs, set off the scoring with a 65-yard gallop early in the first quarter, then plunged for the extra point. Quarterback Eddie Hart intercepted an Amherst pass late in the game and dashed 55 yards for the second Anton tally. Amherst drove to the one in the third. Vernon Reed, Corky Spradley and Alton Lee Stone were line standouts for the winners, Buddy King starring at fullback for the losers.

Littlefield Runs Over Morton Squad, 46-0

LITTLEFIELD, Sept. 28. (Special) — Littlefield's Wildcats won their third straight game with a decisive 46 to 0 victory over Morton in a driving rain here tonight in a Conference 5-A opener.

Counting for Littlefield was Quarterback Bill Lyman with one touchdown and two extra points, Fullback Walter Sewell with three touchdwons and Halfback Oscar Arend with three tallies and two extra points.

PETERSBURG WINS

FLOYDADA, Sept. 28—The Petersburg High School gridmen rolled to a 12-6 victory over the Floydada Whirlwinds here tonight, striking on both ground and air attacks to score early. Petersburg hung up 11 first and tens to four for the locals.

Ivan Gorton scored the first Petersburg touchdown on a pass from Kelly, and Ralph White broke loose around right end for 21 yards and the second score. Hagood plunged over from the two in the fourth quarter for the Floydada score.

MEADOW 38; ROPES 6

MEADOW, Sept. 28 (Special)—With Jack Barnes chalking up 26 points, Meadow High rolled over fighting Ropes team 38 to 6 in Conference 1-B opener here today.

Sharing honors with Barnes was Quarterback Paul Nettles while Back Means and Lineman Bradshaw stood out for Ropes. Halftime score was 14 to 6.

Big Tussles On Football Slate

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 — The rivals in the coming World Series haven't been determined yet but already Indiana and Southern California are on the eve of their second conference football games.

The Hoosiers, who burst Michigan's bubble last Saturday, travel to Evanston for tomorrow's Big Ten meeting with Northwestern while the Trojans, winners over UCLA last week, collide with California at Berkeley in a Pacific coast conference tussle.

Army To Play

The return appearance of last Saturday's two big winners shares tomorrow's interest with the 1945 debuts of four clubs who are expected to rank high when the season closes in December.

Army, 1944's top college team, opens against the Air Force Personnel Distribution Command team at West Point; Navy, regarded as one of the few machines to have the talent to give the Cadets a torrid afternoon, starts against Villanova; Georgia Tech displays its first Bobby Dodd production at North Carolina and Ohio State, defending Big Ten champion, tosses its veteran-studded squad against Missouri.

Sooners Meet Nebraska

What was the pre-war masterpiece of the Big Six circuit, Oklahoma vs Nebraska, is carded for Lincoln, Neb., in the Huskers' opener. Oregon and Washington are billed for a coast league fray.

Intra-state feuds have Michigan State at Michigan, Wisconsin mixing with Marquette, and Iowa State host to Iowa State Teachers.

The non-conference program also includes the Illinois trek to Notre Dame with the Illini hunting their first victory over the Irish although the two have been meeting at intervals since before 1900.

In the Southwest, the Texas Longhorns meet Southwestern in Austin, Baylor tangles with Texas Christian in Waco, Arkansas takes on Oklahoma A. and M. in Fayettesville, Southern Methodist meets Corpus Christi Navy in Corpus Christi, Rice A. and M. plays Texas Tech in San Antonio.

Sudan Chalks Up 8-6 Upset Over Seminole

SUDAN, Sept. 28 (Special) — Sudan chalked up a minor upset here this afternoon by taking an 8 to 6 grid tussle over Seminole's highly rated squad in a game played in intermittent rain and sleet.

Seminole found itself in a hole early in the first quarter and was forced to give up a safety to the charging Sudan forwards.

Then both clubs see-sawed back and forth over the wet grid until the third period when Sudan's offense suddenly exploded. Fullback Jim Eddins passed to Joe Price, right end, who lateralled to Wayman Bellar, quarterback, who scampered the remaining few yards to tally, the play netting 40 yards in all.

In the final period Seminole finally managed to chalk up its six points when the wet ball slipped from the hands of a Sudan back on a punt and rolled behind the Sudan goal where it was smothered by several Seminole men.

LAMESA, Sept. 28—Lamesa's Golden Tornadoes annexed their first victory of the season here tonight as they defeated Class A Kermit, 18 to 6.

A small crowd of about 300 braved a near freezing north-east wind and mist to watch Lamesa triumph over a stubborn, hard-fighting Yellow Jacket eleven.

W. L. "Pappy" Patterson, Tornado Quarterback, went 65 yards behind good blocking for Lamesa's first touchdown in the opening period.

Lamesa tallied twice in the second quarter, Orville Nieman, left halfback, going over from the one to climax a 30-yard march, and scoring again from the two after a 40-yard drive.

The third period was scoreless, Kermit tallying a touchdown early in the final period. Left Half M. E. Thompson passed to end J. B. Thompson for a first down on the Lamesa 5, and then carried the ball over the double stripe. All conversion attempts were spoiled by the slippery ball.

Denver City Triumphs Over Slaton, 13 to 0

DENVER CITY, Sept. 28 (Special)—Denver City chalked up a 13 to 0 opening conference victory over Slaton here tonight as the winners opened defense of their District 5-A title.

Denver City hit paydirt in the first five minutes when Quarterback Grayson Pate went over from the five. Again in the third Pate again climaxed a long drive with a two-yard dive to count, adding the extra point on a plunge.

Whiteface Smothers Wilson Squad, 45-0

WILSON, Sept. 28 (Special) — Whiteface amassed 45 points before the end of the first half in a six-man tussle here this afternoon against an outclassed Wilson team and officials called off the contest, played in a drizzling rain, at that stage.

Fullback Truman Swinney, with 19 points, Halfback Harold Sides, with 13 points, Quarterback Dale Thoms, with 12 points, and Capt. and Center Wade Taylor, with one point, accounted for the Whiteface scoring.

The Whiteface six-man team is seeking games for Oct. 19 and 26.

25,000 Seen For Tech-Aggie Tilt In San Antonio Tonight

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 28—Two hard-running teams, each packed with veterans, clash here tomorrow night when Texas A. and M. tries to make it three straight in Alamo stadium over Texas Tech's Red Raiders.

A crowd of from 25,000 to 27,000 is forecast for a game expected to turn into a glittering duel between two mighty fullbacks—Walt Schlinkman of Tech and Preston Smith of the Aggies.

Spotlight On Backs

Schlinkman, who last week beat Southwestern with a 50-yard touchdown dash, has been one of the nation's leading backs for two seasons. Smith is a newcomer to college football but last year was all-state in schoolboy ranks.

Last week Smith strolled for 151 yards in 15 carries against Ellington Field.

Turner To Start

The Aggies, rated around the top in the Southwest conference race, will be favored over the Techs, who are members of the Border conference.

Big Otis Turner, co-captain of the Tech team who was ill before the team left Lubbock, managed to make the trip to San Antonio and was named as a tentative starter by Coach Dell Morgan.

Probable line-ups (kick-off 8 p. m.):

TECH	Pos.	A. AND M.
Moyers	LE	Yeargain
Snodgrass	LT	Dickey
Lawhorn	LG	Winkler
Turner	C	Ellis
Birdwell	RG	Gray
Black	RT	Moncrief
Branton	RE	Higgins

Colonies For Loans?

Waco's Poage Offers New Plan

REP. W. R. POAGE (D-Tex.) suggested the other day that the United States should negotiate with European nations for acquisition of their colonies in the Western Hemisphere.

He proposed that European nations, who are seeking large loans from the United States, might pay off their debts by trading us their colonies and that this country should permit these colonies to choose their own form of government.

Unlike the ill-considered suggestion of Col. Charles Lindbergh that the United States should take over Canada, Representative Poage's proposal has apparent merit. It might prove an effective way of supporting the Monroe doctrine.

While the United States has made a few warlike demonstrations to enforce the doctrine first proclaimed by President James Monroe, Dec. 2, 1823, it has consistently supported the theory that European and Asiatic countries have no business meddling in the affairs of the Western Hemisphere.

In December, 1865, the United States, having concluded the Civil war, demanded the withdrawal of French troops from Mexico. This was during the ill-starred reign of Fedinand Maximilian, so-called emperor of Mexico, who was actually the puppet of France. Napoleon acceded to the demands of the United States in January 1866, and poor Maximilian came to his end before a Mexican firing squad, June 19 of that year. His wife, the Empress Charlotte, went insane. She died at the Chateau de Bouchout, near Brussels. Jan. 19, 1927 without ever recovering her reason.

With Maximilian vanished the dream of European powers, who had been thinking of establishing zones of influence in the Western Hemisphere. Spanish power in South America has since waned and the influence of the United States has continued to grow throughout Latin America. Waco's Representative Poage's suggestion may be the next logical step in this nation's natural expansion, But it is certain to meet with opposition from Communists and other radicals who are forever condemning "American imperialism."

National Insurance Needed

A divided Germany, the eastern part now occupied by Russia and the western zones under the control of Anglo-American forces, is proving to be the testing ground for one of future's great problems. The question is: Can the "Big Three" work together as effectively in peace as they did in war?

The Potsdam declaration was supposed to provide for handling Germany as an economic unit, but the chaos and confusion that is developing is reported to indicate a definite split both politically and economically. Washington officials declare that there appears to be little possibility of the people of western Germany receiving food from eastern Germany, which is under Russian control. The Russians are said also to have refused to furnish any food for British and American zones in Berlin.

This troubled condition raises the old question. If the "Big Three" cannot work together harmoniously in handling defeated Germany, how are they going to cooperate as a team in assuring world peace?

The question suggests that it be wise for the United States to maintain a strong military force and continue to be self-reliant.

Inducements For Service

IN line with the government defense program, we take this occasion again to call attention to the fact that Lubbock has been chosen as district headquarters for Army recruiting in West Texas.

Maj. Robert G. Gibbons is in charge of the district office, which has under its supervision recruiting stations in Amarillo, Abilene and San Angelo. A branch is to be opened soon at Big Spring.

Seeking recruits to replace the war-tired veterans now in service in foreign lands, Major Gibbons' office points out that "a strong regular Army is needed to safeguard the peace."

Virtually all of the top military men of the nation are in agreement on this idea, since the United States will have to maintain armed forces in Japan and Germany for many years to come in order to prevent another disastrous war.

As an inducement to young men to enlist, the Army is offering special educational courses and trade training. Other plans are under consideration for making life in the Regular Army attractive.

"In order to cure himself of a hangover, a Minnesota man blow his head off with a stick of dynamite." Although this is one of few effective remedies for a hangover, there are some who consider it a bit on the drastic side.

ESCAPE TO ARIZONA
XIII

Carolyn was at a telephone.

"Hello! Hello, Ken? Listen, Ken, I've got to talk to somebody. I—I want you to be my guest at lunch. . . . No, I'll pay or I won't go! I asked you first, and I'm famished."

They met in Grosso's, a favored side street spot, and as she herself had warned him, Carolyn was full of conversation. She talked between salad bites.

"Ken, don't ever tell a soul," she admonished, "but our little trick worked to a T! My hunch was right. Somebody did try to get that shipment. Mobbed the freight train and stole the dummy box!"

He was excited. "I saw the papers this morning. Tried to call you. Gosh!"

"Yes. It's a good thing we substituted rocks. Bob is so grateful he was in tears. The — stuff — the chemicals I mean, were rather valuable to him. Ken, will you take pay for that? A reward?"

His lips tightened. She hastened on.

"I know you won't. I didn't mean to hurt you, Ken."

"Carolyn, I'd do anything for you. Always!"

She dropped her eyes, and answered that in a low tone. "I know it. Now I think I'd better tell you something. Something important."

"Surely."

"Ken, I love Bob Hale. I'm—off the deep end!"

Her eyes filled with tears then and he saw it when she lifted her head. Ken didn't say anything for a long while, but his face was a study. He had stopped eating. Finally he nodded ever so slowly. "All right," he whispered. "I'm glad you told me, Carolyn. These things—have to be!"

They understood each other; they didn't need to talk. Both knew Ken had loved her and hadn't ever said so in words.

"Ken, you're the nicest somebody in the world."

He nodded gain. "I understand. I won't forget. In fact, Carolyn, I already knew."

"You knew?"

"Yes. A man isn't blind. You let little things slip. And no woman would do what you have been doing for him unless — unless — Well, power to him! And Caloyn, I'll always be around. Always!"

She wanted to cry then.

"Eat your lunch," he commanded, practically. "I think you need it. You're jittery."

"I do need it. But I'm going away." She suddenly squeezed his hand. "A million thanks, boy friend. And goodby!"

She got up abruptly and left him, paying both checks at the desk. He thought he understood why; her eyes had gone misty again. He didn't try to follow her.

She went immediately to find Dr. Hale at state police headquarters, but both he and Miss Sormi had gone. In a taxi again, then, she raced back out to the laboratory.

She had no idea what to expect next but she knew she had to continue her rather desperate, audacious action. Bob, of course, had told Leana Sormi about Carolyn's outwitting the train robbers.

"She'll know I'm wise to her even if Bob isn't!" Carolyn half whispered, to herself. "At least she'll suspect plenty and be scared. And—she'll fight back somehow!"

The indefiniteness of that reasoning was itself enough to cause alarm. She couldn't quite decide what to expect of Leana Sormi. Maybe, she told herself once, she was imagining all this; maybe Leana was honest and not involved in treachery at all. But something deep in Carolyn rebelled at that idea.

She kept her taxi waiting while she located Bob in his office. "Carolyn! I was wondering where you—"

"Get your hat at once!" she ordered. "And coat. Have you any money?"

He looked at her with fresh surprise, but he stood in awe of Carolyn Tyler now. He didn't question her at all. He had a few hundred dollars in a small office safe, and got that. They departed in her taxi without speaking to anyone.

Presently, he sat back and smiled at her. His old, beloved tone of teasing suddenly re-appeared, the first hint of personal feeling toward her he had shown in days. Carolyn's heart leaped. "It it wouldn't be presumptuous, miss, I'd like to know what brew you are brewing now."

"You will," she flashed back. She led him meekly from the taxi to the plane when they reached the airport. Her hired pilot came out, saluted genially. She motioned him to his seat and in a moment he had the motor roaring.

"What's all this?" Bob wanted to know. But he saw that she was still eager and smiling. "Am I supposed to take a sky ride?"

"Look in there," she pointed. "In that box, Bob, is your precious substance. I have had it transferred out here."

He was abruptly serious again. He went inside to touch the box. "But, Carolyn—!"

They had to shout above the motor's roar. Somebody had closed the cabin door, and Bob saw her signal to the pilot. The roaring multiplied. The ship quivered, began to roll.

Bob's chin dropped. He was standing stooped over in the low-ceiling cabin there, and he gripped the back of a seat.

Carolyn smiled again reassuringly. "Sorry, Bob, but just take it easy. The pilot's mine. I hired him and he is doing only what I ordered!"

"But—"

"Sit down!" she shouted, happily this time. "It just had to be this way. We are going to Arizona!"

Board Urges Leniency On Negro's Sentence

AUSTIN, Sept. 28 (AP) — Gov. Coke R. Stevenson Thursday received a unanimous recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Paroles that the death sentence of L. C. Akins, Dallas negro convicted in the Sept. 15, 1941, slaying of V. L. Morris, a policeman, be commuted to life imprisonment.

The governor had given Akins one 30-day stay of execution expiring Oct. 7 and under Texas law can grant no further clemency without the board's recommendation. He can, however, veto to recommendation.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

LAST Saturday was registration day in Brookfield. Here in Connecticut you can't vote unless yau have lived in the state a year or more, and since we just moved to this state last September we had to register as "new voters."

We had to put down whether we are Republicans or Democrats, and while both my wife and I registered as "Republicans" I was wondering just why we are Republicans.

BRANDEIS

And I am wondering as well why you are a Republican or a Democrat, and whether you and I really know the difference, and whether the party-system in our country is really still a living institution and, if so, whether it is still useful and workable.

To be perfectly frank, I don't know the difference between a Republican and a Democrat.

I know Ickes was a Republican and is a Democrat now and maybe he'll be a Republican again tomorrow.

The main difference to me seems to be that once upon a time the so-called "better class" were Republicans — for some unknown reason—so everybody who wanted to be considered a "better-class" citizen became a Republican.

Our little community here is strictly Republican. I know the Republican candidates and I know the Democrats who are running for office. I can't see any difference in the caliber of either, and I don't think our roads or our snow-plowing would be one bit better with a Republican sweeper or plow than with a Democratic one.

The Democrats here know they haven't a chance to be elected, but they aren't a bit sore about it.

I know of a case where the son of a Republican selectman married the daughter of a Democratic justice of the peace, and the marriage turned out all right and they have two beautiful children.

PERSONALLY I have always voted, and shall continue to vote for the Democrats, no matter If the Democratic party puts up better men for election than the Republican party, then I shall vote fo rthe Democrats, no matter how I am registered.

And you should do the same. Vote for character and honesty and efficiency and ability, not for elephants or jackasses.

The party system has been well established for many, many years. According to my encyclopedia, it is repsonsible for 'much of the corruptness and bribery in politics." It has lasted for a long time, and I don't say that it should be abolished.

But, as I said, I shall go on voting for the best man.

And my wife will probably continue to vote for the best-looking man.

Opium Problem Rears Ugly Head

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

WASHINGTON officials privately report an amazing lack of progress in their almost single-handed crusade to stamp out the world-wide opium evil as a consequence of a conflict involving those lands where production of the drug is a major source of revenue. Save for the Chinese, our Allies and former enemies have shown themselves to be most uncooperative.

Britain and the Netherlands, for instance, proclaimed that they would abolish the trade after they had recaptured their possessions in the Far East and the Southwestern Pacific. But England refused to close 6,000 opium shops in India during American troops' presence in that country, despite repeated requests by our Army officials.

TUCKER

London has reneged on her promise to wipe out the business in recapfured Burma, with the result that our State department has forwarded several sharp notes reminding her of past pledges.

The fate of the Judd resolution adopted by Congress, which proposed that opium-producing nations restrict the crop to the minimum required for medical and scientific purposes, is illuminating. It was proposed by Rep. Walter H. Judd of Minnesota, a former medical missionary in the Far East, and was wholeheartedly approved by the men on Capitol Hill.

Copies of the declaration, which was approved by Congress in July of 1944, were transmitted to the governments of Great Britain (on behalf of India and Burma), Iran, Afghanistan, Russia, Turkey, Yugoslavia, China and Mexico.

The only nation which agreed to carry out the proposal to ban the growth of opium entirely was Afghanistan!

DANGER: The United States has waged a 40-year war at the Hague and Geneva for elimination of the the illicit traffic. Our immediate concern is selfish as well as humanitarian. The global conflict, which saw our soldiers serving in many strange lands, has brought the problem right to our doorstep.

Although few of our men succumbed to the opium habit in the Far East, Army files list numerous incidents of a tragic nature, mostly in India. But the great fear is that returning soldiers and our occupation forces may be subjected to temptation unless their access to the demoralizing drug is prevented by international cooperation.

Every great war since the Crimean, when opiates were first used for medical purposes on a large scale, has witnessed the spread of this evil among demobiziled and civilian populations. There is also the danger that smuggling of the stuff into this country will be attempted in a big way ,unless world-wide controls are established.

The Japs utilized opium in their conquered countries as a weapon. Although they had banned the trade on the home islands because of its bad effect on national vigor and life, they propagandized the use of opium among temporarily enslaved subjects in order to weaken their powers of resistance. It is now estimated that there are at least 32,000,000 adicts in the regions which they overran in the months after Pearl Harbor.

Tokyo Rose, however, blamed the British for this abomination. In a December 2, 1944, radio address, recorded by American monitors, she recalled that England had foisted the drug on China for the sake of revenue, even fighting the famous Opium War to gain her ends. Then Tokyo Rose went on to say:

"Japan suppresses this trade! England perpetuates it ! I ask you — which is the enlightened nation? Which is the Christian nation? Which nation seeks to benefit the peoples of the Far East?"

POLICY: The United States, having failed to persuade other major nations to join us in the movement to stamp out the opium evil, intends to use its military power and occupation force sto this end.

Narcotic Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger has lectured at all the schools for training of our civilian governors and our military overlords. He has given them the history of the drug problem in the territory which they will control. Based on Mr. Anslinger's experience and knowledge, the War department has issued the following directive on this subject:

"It will be the policy of all American expeditionary forces under American command, immediately upon the occupation of apart or the whole of any of these territories, to seize all narcotic drugs intended for other than medical and scientific purposes which they may discover, and to close existing opium monopolies, opium shops and dens."

Unfortunately, U. S. troops will not exercise authority in the blackest spots—Iran, Burma, India, Indo-China and Macao, a Portuguese island off the coast of China. All we can do is to set an example for our Allies and former enemies.

SUCCESS: When Mrs. Fred M. Vinson, wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, was asked to christen a Bethlehem Steel corporation's Victory ship at Baltimore a few weeks ago, she went into training for this new strenuous experience. She wanted to do a clean job of banging the bottle of champagne against the hull.

She happened to tell her troubles and worries to Mrs. Truman, who had attended many launchings while the President was a mere senator, Mrs. Truman, who had helped to educate Daughter Margaret for the task of baptizing the world's most modern battleship, the U. S. S. Missouri, where the Japs met their masters.

"Have you made sure that the bottle is scored?" asked Mrs. Truman. ("Scoring" is a process by which the container is filed in advance, thus making easier its demolition.) Mrs. Vinson replied that the bottle had been fied.

"Have you been practicing your swing?" continued Mrs. Truman.

"Yes," answered Mrs. Vinson. "I have been throwing a rolling pin around the house for several weeks. The performance has even cowed Fred. He says I will be a great success at Baltimore."

She was. The only casualty was Brig. Gen. Harry Vaughan, the President's loquacious and ebullient military aide. Dressed up in all his Army finery, he had a spot on the level below the chistening stand. The champagne spattered over his uniform, braid and medals, but, as he ruefully later, "I only got wet outside!"

TEXAS
By Gordon Shearer

AUSTIN. — With people drinking more milk than ever before, this city is facing a serious milk shortage and dairymen are recommending that the city use "recombined milk."

This milk, pasteurized and with the right amount of butter fat, is a combination of a milk condense, which can be easily shipped, cream and water.

The Army uses this type of milk, although it inspects the source of the condense. The chief objection to it is that the condense is shipped in from distant states, and local health authorities have no way of inspecting those dairies.

The milk may not be sold under Austin ordinances, unless the city health officer declares an emergency.

Dairymen are urging that "recombined milk" be sold, what with the re-opening of the schools and the arrival of the Second Divison at Camp Swift.

But Dr. J. M. Coleman, city-county health director, says he must have definite proof that an emergency exists, and until then, " have no intention," to declare one, he said.

BOOM: Business at the Dallas postoffice was up 16 per cent during the 1945 fiscal year over 199, it was announced today.

The 1945 total was $7,206,197—more than a million dollars over the 1944 total.

Postal receipts generally are regarded as an accurate barometer of business conditions, but postal authorities said the increase this year was due largely to the heavy flood of mail to and from servicemen.

Stokes, Seeing Bogeymen, Wants To Know:

"Is There A MacArthur Policy?"

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—During Senate debate on the administration's Japanese policy a Republican senator remarked that his Republican colleague from Nebraska, Sen. Kenneth Wherry, had performed a public service in provoking spirited discussion.

It was, in its way, a public service.

For it served to bring out some truths—rather unpleasant truths—but good for the public to know.

STOKES

It served to reveal, for example, that some elements in the Republican party—including some well-known leaders—place an interpretation on the war and the victory different from what apparently is generally accepted. It indicated that, as for them, the war changed things very little.

The debate was precipitated by Senator Wherry's challenge last week of the nomination of Dean Acheson as Undersecretary of State. He objected because Mr. Acheson, as acting Secretary in the absence of Secretary Byrnes, had rebuked General MacArthur for saying that within six months only 200,000 men would be needed for occupying Japan. Mr. Acheson held that policy announcements should come from Washington, and not from field commanders.

"Smokescreen" Charged

Before the debate got well under way, it became obvious that Mr. Acheson was merely an excuse for attacking the whole theory of the administration's policy of social and economic reform in Japan. This policy meanwhile had been announced by the White House to back up Mr. Acheson. It also became obvious, as other Republicans stepped into the debate, that Senator Wherry was a vehicle for the Old Guard Republicans, and was not speaking for himself alone.

The senator gave a clue to what it was all about when he charged, in repeated indignant outbursts, that Mr. Acheson was "out to foster a social and economic revolution in Japan." Some Democrats questioned the extremity of this assertion. But it is obvious from the White House announcement that the administration does intend to foster a change in Japan aimed at breaking down the feudalistic economic and social system to bring eventual democracy.

WHAT was startling was Senator Wherry's angry surprise about this policy which had been clearly enunciated in numerous public pronouncements. This aroused curiosity as to what Senator Wherry and some of his colleagues are up to, and for what interests they speak.

The course of the debate seemed to indicate definitely:

1. That the Old Guard element of the Republican party, at least, is out to challenge the whole theory of administration policy as a political issue.

2. That the isolationist "line" is being built around this attack and by exploiting the "bring the boys back home" issue for which the MacArthur announcement first was capitalized.

3. That General MacArthur, the war hero, is being used as a handy symbol.

MacArthur Policy?

The brief comments of Sen. Robert Taft, (O.), regarded as the Republican Old Guard leader in the Senate and nationally, are interesting. He said, for instance, that "there is developing a difference of policy toward Japan" and that he disagreed "to a large extent with the tendency of policy toward Japan."

He said something else that seemed significant, that "As far as there is a difference of policy, if there is one, I agree wholly with General MacArthur."

This, and other Republican remarks in debate, seemed to suggest that there might be a "MacArthur Policy." Hitherto, the general has been defended as carrying out the policy of the administration.

Is there a "MacArthur policy?"

Changes Are Made In Marine Office Here

S/Sgt. D. N. Pope, recruiter in charge of the U. S. Marine Corps station here, announced the transfer to the local office in the Post Office building of Sgt. Richard Vest as assistant recruiter.

Vest, accompanied by his wife, arrived Thursday along with Capt. John F. Gheene and Sgt. Dick Galvan. He was formerly stationed at the district recruiting headquarters in El Paso, of which Gheene is commanding officer and to which Galvan is attached.

Vest assumed his new duties Friday morning and Gheene and Galvan returned to El Paso.

Vest has been in the regular Marines for three years and served in the Pacific theater of operations with the 11th Defense Division for 25 months.

Sam Rayburn Assails Reorganization Foes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Speaker Rayburn lashed out angrily today at government departments seeking to have themselves exempted from a pending government reorganization bill.

If they don't quit lobbying around Capitol Hill, he told a news conference, "I'm going to call names."

Commenting on the reorganization measure expected to be voted on next week by the House, Rayburn said "we'll pass it if some departments downtown don't run too much interference."

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP) — Cotton futures registered moderate gains today on mill and local buying which met a scarcity of offerings. The continued absence of hedging pressure and reports of further crop deterioration were strengthening factors. The October, 1946, position was a strong feature on covering operations for New Orleans account. Private advices reported mill buying of spot cotton improved during the past week.

Futures closed 20 to 90 cents a bale higher.

Unity Agreement In China Is Reported

LONDON, Sept. 28 (AP) — The Moscow radio reported today that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and Communist Leader Mao Tse-Tung, who have been conferring at Chungking in an effort to settle China's internal political differences, had reached an agreement to reform the national government.

The broadcast said the agreement provided for wider political representation in the central government and for the holding of general elections at an early date.

The pact also was said to provide for demobilization of the communist armed forces.

The broadcast, which opened with the flat statement that "unity in China has been established," credited the treaty which Soviet Russia recently concluded with China and playing "an important part in helping to unify the nation."

Wainwright To Head Eastern Command

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. (AP)—Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, hero of Corregidor and Bataan, has been appointed chief of the Eastern Defense command in the United States.

The War department announced today that Wainwright would assume his new duties upon completion of a rest.

Wainwright, liberated from a Japanese prison camp in Manchuria, returned to the United States recently.

Skyscraper Rains Showers Of Coins

NEW YORK, Sept. 28. (AP) — Every day it rains pennies from heaven—and nickels, dimes and quarters, too—on 51st street at Rockefeller Center.

A mysterious philanthropist has been throwing between $7 and $10 in change from the 16th or 16th floor of the international building each day between 12:30 and 1 p. m. The showers have been coming down since some time in July.

RESTRICTIONS TO LIFT

Frigidaire Dealers Of Area Meet Here

Approximately 100 Frigidaire dealers of West Texas and New Mexico gathered at Lubbock Hotel Friday afternoon for a sales meeting attended by five company officials of Fort Worth.

Acting as hosts for the occasion were Sidney Claiborne and M. H. Adkisson, owners of Household Supply company here.

When Frigidaires, now in production again, will go on the market was the big question mark of the meeting. But there was considerable speculation, Oct. 15 being the date generally selected for the government to lift a "freeze" order which has been in effect since 1942.

Fort Worth officials here were H. L. McGurk, district manager, Harry Miller, J. T. Blailock, Dalton Kinard and S. C. Hagy.

Dealers were present from all parts of the western division, which encompasses nearly all of West Texas and a section of New Mexico.

A luncheon was held at noon.

Army Separation

where they lined us up in alphabetical order, handed us copies of our discharge proceedings, one to keep, the other for permanent government records.

Then in the presence of a WAC lieutenant we signed all copies, headed for the finance office, lined up and wrapped our hands around a fistful of that long green stuff, including final pay, travel allowance and partial mustering out pay. However, the Army helps the soldier help himself at this stage of the game and pays him everything above $50 in cash in a check which can be mailed home from the office unless the soldier wants take a chance on parting with it in El Paso or Juarez. At this stage they take the discharge papers away from you and away you go back to a brightly lit room up on the hill.

Colonel Thanks Men

It was 10:30 o'clock Monday night when we paraded in. A major took the stand before the tired but happy group.

"You have completed a very long and tiresome process," he began, "and we want to thank you for your cooperation, in helping us get you through today," he continued. Then after thanking the men for their service to the nation, he called out "Mr. ———" and up we stepped one by one. He shook hands with each ex-soldier, we both saluted, and that was it. Then in walked the colonel and commanding officer of the center.

After expressing his thanks, he added "——You are now civilians, good luck and God bless you!"

No Undue Celebration

That was it. There was shouting. Instead, it was a happy but sober bunch of men who filed out and headed for homes somewhere in the Eighth Service Command area. For them, there were a few days or weeks of doing nothing, then they had to take up the tasks of making a living. They had definite ideas on how they should do it, how they wanted to live their lives, what kind of labor setup they wanted. They all had somewhat slight fears of the receptions back home because each of them realized that they would be regarded as something out of the ordinary — a factor which each resented.

But more about that later.

About the criticism of Separation Centers. In the past few days, the Army has put in numerous other discharge centers as has the AAF and the process is now even faster than explained above.

However, in all fairness it must be said that the Army officials at Fort Bliss and for that matter at all other such points we have heard about are doing their utmost to get the men back home. The WACs and permanent party personnel assigned to the task at Fort Bliss were rising at six o'clock each morning or earlier, they worked like mad until midnight and later, more than doubling their quota of releasing men. And they did it seven days a week round the clock. It's a hard, back-breaking and in a way morale shaking task and the men and women still in uniform assigned to Separation Centers deserve all the praise and consideration possible for their efforts. If there's excess red tape they personally are not to blame—but when it comes to fixing up a man's record for the rest of his life you can't be too careful!

They're Still Normal

As we remarked earlier, you get acquainted in a hurry in those six and seven-man huts just sitting and talking for three days. In brief, here is what these men talked about—men who fought at Bastogne and at Salerno, in North Africa and Normandy, on Okinawa and the Philippines, men in thoughts, but only 18 and 19 and slightly older in age:

They want to be regarded as normal people when they come home, because they are normal. They like to laugh, play jokes, read the comics and discuss the news just like anyone else. They don't need to readjust themselves, it's the people back home who need the readjusting. Most of these kids have faced and conquered the greatest problems in the book — loneliness, fear, cold, hunger, sickness, wounds, exhaustion, and an enemy which had no equal in history. And it didn't change them.

They are now tolerant — we were in a hut with a staff sergeant who was a night club owner in civilian life; a likeable Latin who had seen plenty of combat with the infantry in Europe; a kid from Portales, N. M., who had been in the Army only four months who was getting out because of his health, another Latin youngster who the Army said could not adapt himself to service. We ate in the same mess with negroes and thought nothing of it, nor did anyone else. Those men had fought for democracy and they lived it. They won't force their ideas on the country but they won't stand idly by and see those ideas crushed by selfishness, greed and bigotry.

28 Men Jailed In Wholesale Murder

LAREDO, Sept. 28. (AP) — The wholesale murder of 37 men and one woman was charged against 28 men brought from Monterrey today and jailed in Nuevo Laredo, Mex.

Prosecutor Emilio Villalobos said the men were charged with first smuggling workers into Texas for farm work, and then robbing them of their wages and killing them upon their return to Mexico.

Bodies were found near Brownsville, Mission and Hidalgo in the lower Rio Grande during the latter part of July and August. Villalobos said these bodies were those of workers who had been killed and hurled into the Rio Grande.

The prosecutor said the body of a woman found nears Brownsville had holes in the hands and feet. He said he believed she had been crucified in an effort to force her to reveal where she kept her money.

The men will be tried under a federal emergency law which makes the death sentence mandatory upon conviction.

Merchant Officers To Receive Pay Boosts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. (AP)—The War Labor board today ordered an increase of $45 monthly in the base pay of 30,000 merchant ship officers, effective Oct. 1.

The increase is equal in amount to the pay increase already granted 100,000 unlicensed seamen.

The wage boost applies to licensed seamen, including engineers, masters, mates, pilots and ship radio officers on ocean-going dry cargo vessels.

It will substitute for the wartime "voyage bonus, which ends on Oct. 1.

Gasoline Is Dropped, Child Fatally Burned

WICHITA FALLS, Sept. 28. (AP) Mary Ellen Berryman, 4, was burned fatally last night when she dropped a bottle of gasoline as she was riding a motorcycle here with her brother Carl, 17. The gasoline exploded, covering both riders with flames. The brother suffered second degree burns on his arms and legs.

News Briefs

An automobile driven by G. T. Wilson, 34, of 2007 Main crashed into the center abutment on the east side of the East Broadway underpass at 8:35 o'clock Friday night, police said. Apparently the only injury Wilson received was a cut on the lower lip, police said. Investigating Patrolman L. W. Fristoe and Robert Adkinson reported Wilson's car was badly damaged. They said Wilson refused to go to a hospital for a check-up.

William W. Oliver, brother of S. J. Oliver of four mile west of Shallowater, was seriously injured Friday morning when he fell from a freight train near Texico, the sheriff's office learned. Sheriff R. N. Whitley of Clovis asked that Sheriff Grady Harrist inform the Shallowater man of the accident. The Clovis officer said that Oliver was "in charge of several cars of bananas."
