He Gets Taste of Camp Life

Has NRA "On His Chest" Now

WHAT'S an employer to do if he has no show windows in which to display the blue eagle? It took K. Marampus two days to think up a solution, but he now can throw out his chest with pride. Marampus, owner of an upstairs clothing shop in New York, had the emblem tatooed so all could see, and here he is getting the bird from the expert hands of Professor Al Neville.

Child of War

ROSE RUDA'S smile belies her bravery. The 18-year-old Cincinnati waitress, who was born behind the battle lines in Belgium, daughter of a German soldier and Belgian mother, shot and killed a bandit who attempted to hold up the restaurant where she working. Rose was wounded in the arm.

SHIELDS ROUTS VINES

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 18 (AP)—Ellsworth Vines, national tennis champion, today was widely outplayed by Frank X. Shields as that powerful New Yorker ran up a straight set victory in the semi-final round of the Newport Casino Tennis tournament. Vines, casino victor for the past two years, was eliminated by a 6-2, 6-4, 6-4 margin.

TWINKLES

The musical Beenes are coming, in this case the C. W. Beenes and the high school band from Panhandle. They wil give a concert next Thursday under the auspices of Pampa Jaysees, who think merit ought to be heard and appreciated.

In Cuba, the "ins" forage and the "outs" die. We like the American patronage plan best, despite its well known inefficiency.

Strange things continue: For instance, who would have thought that "processing" a pig meant anything except roasting?

Santa Day preparations remind us again that Christmas is approaching. But, ladies and gentlemen, IS there a Santa Claus under NRA? Mr. Santa had better line up with Hugh Johnson before going too far with his preparations this year.

War is hell. The depression is war. Therefore the depression is hell but that is as near as we can come to using General Johnson's "pithy" but unprintable comments. Maybe that's why the country isn't catching Mr. Johnson's "spirit of the thing."

The municipal garden proves what our soil can do with work and water. The soil is the best refuge for the hungry when it can be made productive. We moderns have made it almost impossible for citizens to own the soil, and we suffer for it.

OIL CODE IS CRITICIZED

Harvey Bailey To Be Tried Quickly, Says U. S. Attorney

CASE WILL GO BEFORE GRAND JURY IN WEEK

TRIAL WILL BE HELD IN OKLAHOMA CITY; SPEED PROMISED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 18 (AP)—Leslie E. Salter, special assistant United States attorney general, rushed here by airplane today to take command of the government's offensive against the accused kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire.

"We'll have a grand jury in session next week, if possible and lay the evidence before it," Salter said shortly after his arrival. "You can depend on it, there will be speed."

Indictment of Harvey Bailey, Alfred Bates, George (Machine Gun) Kelly and others will mean the suspects now held will be brought to Oklahoma City for immediate trial, Salter said. Bailey and other suspects are in jail at Dallas, and Bates is held at Denver. Kelly is sought.

Salter's first action was to order that all evidence in the far-flung Urschel kidnaping and ransom, reputedly for $200,000, be assembled in Oklahoma City.

"This is strictly an emergency assignment with me," he explained, adding that he was deep in investigation of Chicago's gangland when directed yesterday by telephone from Washington to hurry here by plane.

Salter found federal reports awaiting him that Kelly registered at a hotel here early in March and placed a telephone call to Paradise, Texas, near where Bailey was arrested with Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Shannon and Mr. and Mrs. Armon Shannon.

DALLAS, Aug. 18 (AP)—Department of justice agents expressed doubt today that Harvey Bailey, escaped convict held here for the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel of Oklahoma City, had any connection with the abduction of a son of Charles A. Lindbergh.

The attitude was made known after the department earlier had said Bailey's record was being investigated generally.

"Some of the 'higherups' for whom Bailey worked may have had something to do with it but it is doubtful Bailey did himself," one of the agents said. "After all, he is a 'trigger man' at this business. The 'brains' are being furnished higher up."

Ligon Smith and Great Orchestra to Play for Dancing

While here to play for "Heads Up" the stage show and style revue which is being sponsored by the Pampa Daily NEWS at the city hall September 5, Ligon Smith's great orchestra will play for a dance at the Pla-Mor auditorium.

It is expected that people will come to Pampa from a wide area to attend the show and the dance.

The stage performance will include Jimmie Jefferies as master of ceremonies; Fred Lowrey, the throat whistler; Normi Norman, sensational dancer of the Radio-Keith-Orpheum circuit; Frances Van Cleve, torch singer; Helen Wheeler and Mynette Fritts, Publix pony stars of the stomp dance, and Arthur Barton, famous as "Mr. Plushbottom."

I HEARD—

HONOR ROLL'S SIZE GROWING STEADILY NOW

Errors in Blanket Code To Delay Posting of Many Names of Firms.

Errors in filling out blanket code agreements have prevented posting of many names on the NRA honor roll at the postoffice, according to Postmaster D. E. Cecil. The list is made up from the blanket codes and not from certificates of compliance.

In some instances, the certificates of compliance were signed without filling out the blanket codes, and therefore the ones involved are not entitled to places on the honor roll until they mail the codes. The postmaster has been instructed to urge filling of duplicate codes where names have not appeared on the honor rolls as expected. Mr. Cecil said today that he had a small supply of consumer stickers for distribution.

These additional names are now on the honor roll:

Southwestern Public Service company, C. C. Burton service station, Motor Inn, Postoffice Lunch room, Gray County Asbtract company, Rutherford & Lawrence, Bradley & Duston, Hill Top grocery, Miller's Feed store, New Deal Fruit & Vegetable market, Rabb's Cash grocery, Globe Clothiers, Levine's store, Murfee's Inc., Acme Lumber company, W. E. Davis, Mintener Lumber company, Owl Drug store.

Glover & Boyington, Fuller Barrett, Gene Shelton auto repair, Motor Service, Sinclair Refining company, City Steam laundry.

Bids On Topping Will Be Sought

The federal government is expected to announce within a week the amount and character of relief for 17 drought-stricken counties in the Panhandle, including Gray.

Judge C. E. Cary and other county judges who have been working on the project hope that the relief will be in a form that it can be used on good road building. In Gray county, this would involve the Pampa-McLean road.

Gray county commissioners yesterday decided to advertise for bids on topping the Pampa-McLean road. The figures on these bids will be needed in making application for relief funds, if available, or an R. F. C. loan if the loan method of raising money is followed.

Date For Making West Texas Feed Loans Extended

DALLAS, Aug. 18. (AP)—Owen Sherrill, manager for Texas, received word today that the date for making feed loans in West Texas by the government office here had extended indefinitely. The deadline previously had been Aug. 15.

Sherrill said that information from Washington advised that additional wheat crop loans might be made in West Texas. Those production loans, however, will be granted only when the producer agrees to curtail his acreage approximately 20 per cent in line with the government's program.

Sherrill planned to leave tomorrow for field conferences in the western part of his territory, which includes Texas, New Mexico and Arizona. He will be in Stamford Sunday, Amarillo Monday and Santa Fe, N. M., Tuesday.

PRINCE HAS MEASLES

BURCHAREST, Aug. 18. (AP)—King Carol, already suffering from an attack of the flu, has contracted the measles, apparently from close contact with his son, the Crown Prince Michael, who has been a measles patient several days.

LATER CHANGE IS POSSIBLE IN GRAY COUNTY

COMMISSIONERS YET TO GIVE THEIR APPROVAL

IMPATIENT with and possibly a bit irked by delay of the Gray county commissioners in coming to an agreement on the personnel of a county relief committee, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today ordered installed the group nominated some time ago by the Texas rehabilitation and relief commission.

The original nominees, which Mrs. Ferguson now requires to be installed until a permanent agreement is reached, are C. H. Walker, chairman, John F. Studer, Alex Schneider, V. Smith, and M. M. Newman, the last two named being of McLean.

Three Is Quorum

After lengthy discussions, in which it was mentioned that LeFors should have a representative, the commissioners voted to withhold approval of the nominations, which were made under a law passed by the last legislature. County Judge C. E. Cary, on his return from a trip to a meeting called at Austin to discuss the relief bond issue, reported to the commissioners that the state commission would permit a quorum of any three nominees to function if these were approved. Again the commissioners tabled the question until Thursday of this week.

Yesterday, A. V. Elrod, field representative of the Texas rehabilitation and relief commission, met with the commissioners court and intimated that a revised list of nominees might be acceptable to his organization. He asked that the old committee continue to function until he could make his recommendations to Austin.

A "Paying Agency"

But this morning Chairman Walker received a letter from Mrs. Ferguson directing that the state commission's nominees be installed pending a settlement of the issue with the commissioners court. An accompanying letter from Lawrence Westbrook, state relief director, stated that these nominees would be established as a "paying agency" for federal funds by a field representative, presumably Mr. Elrod. Until this is formally done, the original group headed by Mr. Walker as chairman and composed also of Alex Schneider, W. A. Bratton, M. K. Brown, and John R. White, will continue to function.

It is understood that the Gray county commissioners yesterday discussed as acceptable to them a list somewhat different from previous lists, although containing a nucleus of the present committeemen.

Meanwhile, federal relief has been suspended by a state order pending outcome of the relief bond election. If the election is not favorable to the proposed bond issue, the small surpluses of relief funds in various counties will be retained to aid the sick.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Mullen and children returned this morning after visiting a few days at Childress, their former home.

F. E. Murrill of Amarillo spent the day in Pampa.

HENRY FORD SILENT ON AUTO CODE—JOHNSON SAYS EVERY MANUFACTURER MUST OBEY

Open Shop Declaration In Code Must Be Deleted, Asserts NRA Counsel.

BY RICHARD L. TURNER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—An administration demand for elimination of the automobile industry's open shop declaration was presented at the outset of hearings on the code today together with a plain spoken warning to the entire business that the recovery law will be administered "without fear or favor" for any manufacturer, great or small.

While Henry Ford continued to remain aloof from those supporting the code, Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, expressed regret that the entire industry was not represented. He recited the expected benefits to the manufacturer who displays the blue eagle and asserted:

"Certain it is that in the administration of this law and in the placing of the insignia of cooperation on the products and the merchandise of every manufacturer no exception can be made in favor of a manufacturer, whether he is large or whether he is small. We are going to execute it without exception and without fear and without favor."

Although Johnson did not mention Ford by name, his meaning was unmistakable, as the Detroit manufacturer has persistently resisted all efforts to obtain his approval of the code submitted by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

The open shop declaration, which was inserted in the code after the customary provision guaranteeing right of labor to bargain collectively through representatives of its own choosing without interference from employers was attacked by Donald Richberg, counsel for the recovery administration, as undesirable.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, denounced the proposed wages of 40 to 43 cents per hour and the proposed maximum hours of 48 per week with a 35-hour average as too little compensation and too long periods of labor. He asked a 30-hour week with wages of 60 cents per hour.

Girl Scouts To Hold Overnight Picnic Aug. 31

Announcement that an overnight picnic for Aug. 31 had been planned for them, was welcome news to the girl scouts of the city today. Site for the picnic will be determined later.

Each girl planning to attend will be asked to bring food sufficient for three meals, bedding and suitable cooking utensils. A number of adults will accompany the girls. E. C. Wills, chairman of the girl scout committee of the Kiwanis club which is sponsor of the girls club, is in charge of arrangements. Transportation will be provided.

Every girl who plans to attend the picnic is asked to attend the next meeting of the girl scouts at the home of J. H. Blythe on North Cuyler on Aug. 30, and to telephone 797-J in the meantime.

The picnic will be the major outside activity of the girl scouts this summer.

NEWS POSTS ADHERENCE TO NEWSPAPER CODE—WORK DAY SHORTENED, EMPLOYES ADDED

The Pampa Daily NEWS early this week posted on its bulletin board for employes' attention a notice of adherence to the new newspaper code approved by General Hugh Johnson.

This newspaper has reorganized its staff, added new employes, and raised wages in a number of instances. Its payroll average is well above other small dailies of the southwest and even higher than that of most daily newspapers in cities twice this size.

Prior to completion of the official newspaper code, the Pampa Daily NEWS conformed to the blanket code agreement.

Under the official code just completed, reporters and telegraph editors are placed on a 40-hour week for the first time. General Johnson had ruled, under the blanket code, that they were "professional men" and therefore exempt. The working day for reporters is 8 a. m. to 3 p. m., with an hour out for lunch, or 6 hours. The managing editor, other executives, and outside salesmen are not affected by any hour rule.

The NEWS' bulletin board also shows the hour schedule for operators and printers and indicates the hours at which new employes will be on duty. The NEWS has maintained throughout the depression a larger staff than other dailies of its size. When the Morning POST was reduced to weekly publication, many members of The Post staff were retained on The NEWS.

Republican Says NRA Program Is 'Weird, Hectic'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18. (AP)—The industrial recovery program under the administration of Hugh S. Johnson, was attacked in a formal statement today by Senator Schall (R., Minn.) as one that is "weird and revolutionary" and threatening to retard proper business advancement.

"There was no call to suspend the anti-trust laws and institute price boosting codes for the industrials," his statement said. "There was certainly no call to place the industries of the country under a military regime, with a brigadier general and blue eagle banners, to enforce price codes not authorized by law.

"The country is now finding this truth out at a high cost of living. 100 per cent increase in price of cotton goods, increases of 25 per cent to 50 per cent in this price level and that, the arrest of its building industry, and reaction in the retail trade, car loadings, bank deposits, and even recently in the steel industry."

Asking that there be a "pause in this hectic 'NIRA' campaign long enough to note where we are going," the Minnesotan said: "Already the acceptance of the NRA program is one of subterfuge. Houses are flying the blue eagle, reducing hours to 40 per week, but they are not employing any more people."

Pioneer Citizen Of Miami Dies

Francis W. Hoffer, 71, a resident of the Miami community for many years, died in a local hospital this morning. He had been ill for several months and had been in the hospital for nearly a month.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Miami with the Rev. J. E. Eldridge of Perryton, presiding elder of the Miami district, officiating. Burial will follow in Miami cemetery in charge of the Stephenson Mortuary of Pampa.

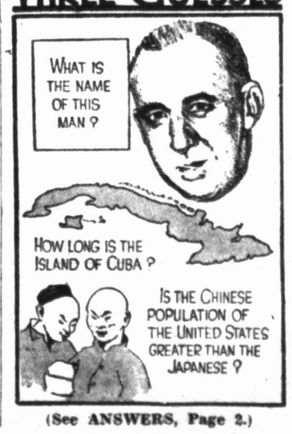

Mr. Hoffer is survived by his wife and six daughters, Mrs. Jesse Jay, Dallas; Mrs. Frank Carter, Dallas; Mrs. Clyde Ham, Pampa; Miss Hattie Hoffer, Los Angeles; Miss Marian Hoffer and Miss Olive Hoffer, Miami, and five sons, Lawton of Laketon; Rudolph, LeFors, and Henry, Temple, and Gordon of Miami.

THREE GUESSES

HUGH JOHNSON MAKES CHANGE FOR THOMPSON

PLANS TO SEND CODE TO ROOSEVELT TODAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18. (AP)—Indications that the great oil industry's trade code would go to President Roosevelt with few changes, were given today by Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, after strong criticisms of it had been lodged with him by petroleum leaders.

In his press conference Johnson said the submission of the code to the industry by the NRA and administration "was not a high handed proposition because these people have had every chance to represent any possible views."

Johnson indicated some slight revisions might be made in the program before he sent it to the White House but indicated it would definitely go to the president today.

One change he said he would make was in answer to a request from E. O. Thompson, member of the Texas railroad commission, that the production control section saying that the federal government shall allocate production to a state be made to provide instead that a "recommend" the production quota.

Johnson explained this was merely a technical change so that it would be a recommended step "rather than imposing the will of the government" but smilingly adding it would in no wise affect the provision giving the federal government full authority to prevent shipment out of a state of more than the production allotted it by the government.

"The only penalty for the states (that exceed their quota) is that they will have to float in their own oil," Johnson said.

He expressed the view that if oil production in Texas alone could be regulated adequately the question of production control nationally would be simple.

Johnson said he himself wrote the section of the code's regulating price provision stipulating as a basis that a barrel of crude oil should cost 18⅓ times the price of a gallon of gasoline at refinery according to quality of each.

This provision does not satisfy the majority of the industry demanding rigid price supervision, whose spokesmen took their appeal direct to Mr. Roosevelt today.

Asked if he planned to license the oil industry Johnson said the NRA would if necessary but that "that looks like it is a long way off if ever."

Advocates of rigid price fixing at the same time directed to President Roosevelt an appeal for the government to fix minimum and maximum levels.

The appeal to the chief executive was made by a committee of five set up by the so-called emergency national committee of 54 organized under the auspices of the American Petroleum Institute. Copies were sent to Johnson and Secretary Ickes.

Jack Blalock of Marshall, Tex., leader of several independent factions, filed exceptions to the same production provisions that "either by expressed language or implication permits the federal government to go within the states to regulate production."

Blalock said, however, that he had "ample confidence that General Johnson and President Roosevelt would see that we get a square deal before this code is approved." The code was to go to the White House for a final consideration late today.

Texan Appointed Envoy To Chile

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP) — Roosevelt is going to name Hal Sevier of Corpus Christi, Texas, to be ambassador to Chile.

The approval of the Chilean government for his appointment has been asked and a favorable reply was anticipated here.

Mrs. Sevier is also prominent in Texas, where she has been custodian of the Alamo at San Antonio. Both were active in the presidential campaign last year.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

A man who is looking for straws to show which way the wind is blowing could do a lot worse than to study those stories about the thousands of letter President Roosevelt is receiving commending him for the NRA campaign.

Those letters, mostly, are from people who don't ordinarily sit down to write the president. Some of them are misspelled, some of them are mere scrawls on bits of wrapping paper with stub pencils, some of them are formally typewritten and some are on scented paper.

There is no uniformity. They come from everywhere and everybody. But they all agree in one thing; each is an effort by a deeply-moved American citizen to tell the president that the blue eagle campaign is crossing the land like a strong, refreshing wind, and each is a heartfelt pledge of support.

And the influx of these letters is possibly the most important single symptom to be found in all the land today.

* * * *

These letters, that is to say, show how deeply responsive the American people are to this stupendous, complex and puzzling campaign against the depression.

For the letters are not being written by cranks or freaks. They are coming from ordinary people, men and women who do not usually dream of sending letters to the White House. The plain people of the country, who go voiceless year in and year out, are taking the trouble to speak their minds.

Not once in two or three generations do the American people really become aroused. If an awakening is coming now—and this flood of letters can hardly mean anything else—it indicates that the nation is tossing into the scales a united force of a size and strength such as America has employed only three or four times in all her history.

* * * *

No one could make a greater mistake than to underestimate the significance of this.

This is not just another political movement; it is not just another fad, just another safety valve for confused and inarticulate public emotion.

The blue eagle is the emblem of a drive which has a united country back of it; and it all makes one think of General Johnson's recent remark.

God help the man or men who get in the way of the national recovery program."

Markets

NEW YORK, Aug. 18. (AP)—Stocks followed wheat in a last hour selling drive today, but support arrived just before the close and losses of 1 to 4 or more points were reduced substantially. The alcohols and farm equities were the principal sufferers. Final casulaties averaged around 1 to 2 points. The turnover approximated 2,150,000 shares.

CHICAGO GRAINS

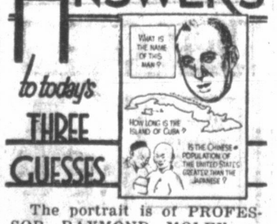

CHICAGO, Aug. 18. (AP)—Profit-taking on the part of recent buyers became an outstanding feature in all the grain pits late today, and prices slipped back fast from early upturns. Wheat showed pronounced lack of aggressive support, and hit the minimum permitted for one days decline, 5 cents a bushel.

Considerable selling in wheat was done on resting orders, and was looked upon as due to readjustment of the market positions of various speculators. An advance of 2½-3 cents a bushel in wheat at Liverpool was attributed to a sharply higher rate for sterling, and was without effect in Chicago.

Wheat closed weak at the day's bottom figures, 5 cents under the average of yesterday's finish, corn ⅜ off to ¼ up, oats 1⅝-3 cents down, and provisions varying from 32 cents decline to a rise of 5 cents.

BETTER ANTIDOTE FOR MONOXIDE POISONING REPORTED DISCOVERED

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 18. (AP)—Discovery of a sulphur-sodium antidote more effective against carbon monoxide poisoning than anything previously known is claimed in a report published here today by John H. Draize of the University of Wyoming.

The antidote likewise surpasses anything else in effectiveness against cyanide poisoning, he says. He credits the cyanide discovery to B. Foresti, an Italian scientist.

The antidote is sodium tetrathionate, a well known synthetic chemical. Its constituents are sulphur and sodium. Draize used it by intravenous injection on poisoned rabbits.

He compared the sulphur compound with the dye methylene blue, which was used successfully to treat a human case of cyanide poisoning at the University of California last year. For both kinds of poisoning he found the sulphur better than the blue dye.

"Animals can be revived," he stated in his report which receives first publication today in the official journal science. "From definitely more severe stages of carbon monoxide poisoning with tetrathionate than with the methylene blue.

"Carbon monoxide will always be more or less of a serious source of poisoning as long as the automobile, the illuminating gas and the coal-burning appliances are used by man."

SUPERSTITIOUS?

The Odus Mitchells have a cat problem. Mrs. Mitchell wishes the coach to kill or at least remove from the premises one stray and noisy feline. With the football season approaching, the coach is awfully worried. He hates to have that cat on his conscience. No matter what happens to it, he fears an ill omen will be the result . . . Coaches are not superstitious, he declares, but they do peculiar things. Some of them wear at each game a shirt they wore at a lucky victory. They would drive all night if necessary, to get the shirts. Others join with their players in trying to retain certain pieces of equipment, rabbit's feet, and the like. Michigan U. almost turned the state over last year trying to locate a rabbit's foot which a star player obtained from a negro. Now the negro wants it back—his luck has failed him lately . . . And Coach Mitchell isn't likely to part company with that cat, at least not until after the Amarillo game.

FIE ON YOU, JERRY

Beginning in ancient days when he toiled with this writer on a college paper, Jerry Malin was prone to arrive at conclusions favorable to a certain idea. It is obvious that now he would like to make the Harvesters the favorites for a district 1 championship and have all our early opponents pointing for us. His grounds are as flimsy as usual, although we will readily admit that it will be another Big Three—Pampa, Lubbock, Amarillo, not in order named—with Borger a dangerous opponent for any team that suffers injuries or over-confidence. As to Pampa's overwhelming superiority on paper, how can you get on the basis of one 1932 starter? Captain Jess Patton is that man and his injured jaw may keep him out of the line-up much of the time.

ONE THING CERTAIN

We can be sure of one thing—the Mitchell-coached Harvesters will fight to win and against Amarillo they will do their best scrapping. Amarillo will have a much bigger squad than Pampa. So will Lubbock. All three teams will contain names which the fans will have to learn. The heroes of other years linger in the memory but new names will be on the starting lineups. That means that the team with the best starters and the strongest reserve power should win. It would not be surprising to see upsets. That's why the Harvesters should not be touted as sure-fire winners. An upset would hurt their equilibrium. Pampa's tough little fellows are going to be stronger than one would have guessed last fall, but they will be lighter, very likely, than Amarillo and Lubbock. So, Jerry and all, give the Harvesters their due but don't handicap them by over-touting.

YOUNG MAN'S WORLD

The span of human life is lengthening, but opportunities for men of mbre than 45 years of age are growing fewer as youngsters, alert and well educated, crowd into the picture. There, too, are business policies which tend to reduce work opportunities. One, which we deplore, is that of oil companies not to hire men—even experienced—of over 45 years of age. Some companies make exceptions to get unusually good men, but, as we were informed, insurance companies writing group policies make it advantageous to companies to hire young men. Young men live longer, pay more premiums, and remain longer on a company payroll... But think of the injustice to men who were laid off at about 45 last year and who now find younger men taking the work opportunities through this technicality. The men of 46 and 47 feel that they have the experience, the loyalty, and the ability to justify their being used. We think so too, and we cannot blame them for feeling blue about it. It is no new policy, but the effects at this time are particularly disheartening. Society cannot retire men at 45 without providing some form of security . . . The soil is man's first and last refuge, and at another time we will have more to say about this angle of the problem.

JAPANESE WAR MINISTER DEFENDS NEW Mmilitaristic POLICY

ARAKI DEFIES CRITICISM OF UNITED STATES

MILITARIST CONVINCED WORLD IS ALIGNED AGAINST JAPAN

Editor's Note: To the political philosophy of the "new" Japan born out of the Manchurian and North China campaigns there has been given, in the recent comparative calm, the test of deliberative thought by her statesmen.

From the events of the past year, during which Japan boldly announced a duty incumbent upon her to risk world censure in adjusting long standing difficulties with China, Lt. Gen. Sadao Araki, minister of war, emerged as the most powerful individual in Japan.

Recently a business matter called Kent Cooper, general manager of the Assocated Press to Japan. He visited Gen. Araki at the war office where he was introduced by Mr. Yukichi Iwanaga, director of Shimbun Rengo Sha, the Japanese news agency, which is fashioned after the Associated Press. Gen. Araki's cordiality and frank replies to questions, not designated for a formal interview, led to consent to their publication as an answer to a general American perplexity about Japanese policies respecting China.

The Associated Press has just received the results of this interview in two articles of the war minister's authorship, and presents them in two parts.

From an opening statement, strongly voicing Japanese defiance of world critics, which forms the first article, the war minister passes into a chapter which will be published Sunday morning. This is a very frank discussion of Japan's disappointment with her experience in surrendering old traditions and venturing into the realm of western influence. Gen. Araki, as spokesman for his people, says Japan has come to rue that trial and now looks eagerly to a return to something approaching the code of the Samurai, the ancient military caste.

Following is the first of two striking statements:

BY LT. Gen. SADO ARAKI,
Minister of War of Japan.

The Japanese empire has no apologies to offer the world for what critics abroad have considered the drastic and abrupt action her armies have taken in Manchuria and more recently in North China. Such criticism clearly indicates either ignorance of or unwillingness to understand the history of the past generation, especially with reference to Japan's relations with China and with the rest of the world.

It is perhaps just as well that Japan's action has impressed the occident as strong, direct and perhaps more drastic than circumstances warranted, for in this way it may lead to study and understanding of the events which have led to Japan's present situation, in which she appears to some as isolated from and defiant of the main currents of world opinion.

Forced Into Action.

Japan, not of her own free will, was drawn into the international scheme in the middle of the last century, and a generation ago began her education in international dealings in the hard school conducted by the great European empires. The influence of Napoleon was still dominant; diplomacy was secret, realistic, cynical, selfish. The lessons of this school we learned to our cost as we strove to make a place for ourselves in the society of nations.

Alike in the period of realistic, secret diplomacy, and in the era of so-called open diplomacy which succeeded it after the great war, with its lip-service to peace and its accumulation of pacts and peace machinery, we learned from bitter experience that reliance on our own strength, foresight, tenacity, and courage was the only safe method for the defense of our independence, our vital interests and our rights.

For a generation Japan tried to follow a policy of co-operation with the western world in its search for peace and stability, subscribed to its pacts, joined its organizations. All this helped us in none of our real problems. International accords, international combinations have helped Japan in none of her times of need, but often they have been invoked against her.

Then Whipped China.

Japan was provoked into war with China in 1894 and while an astounded world looked on we defeated that decadent empire. China then ceded us the Liaotung peninsula. In 1896 three great European empires—Russia, Germany, and France—compelled us by threats to relinquish this prize. Within the next three years Russia had occupied that same peninsula by virtue of treaties with China which gave the Czar also the right to build railways across Manchuria and which bound Russia and China in alliance against Japan; Germany had occupied Tsingtau, Great Britain Weihaiwei, and France Kwangchowwan.

For years we have sought only peace and friendship with America. Nearly two decades of controversy, beginning with anti-Japanese land and school agitations in California, reached its climax in 1924 when the American government brusquely abrogated its gentlemen's agreement with us and adopted an absolute exclusion of our people as immigrants, branding them as racially inferior.

We fought loyally on the side of the allies in the great war. At the peace conference the great powers of Europe and America refused recognition of our racial equality.

Britons Bar Japs.

For two decades we fulfilled loyally all the responsibilities of our alliance with Great Britain. In 1922 the British empire, desiring the favor of the United States, then grown to unprecedented wealth and power, summarily abrogated the alliance. Today our people are practically barred from migrating to the vast semi-filled spaces of the British dominions, Canada and Australia. More recently there has been a determined effort to bar even our goods from the British empire.

The troubles between Japan and China in Manchuria were the culmination of twenty years marked by China's unceasing efforts to interfere with and nullify Japan's legitimately acquired rights and interests. We Japanese brooked all kinds of obstruction, insults, even violence with the utmost patience. In later years, however, China's tactics became more and more oppressive and obstructive, until they could be tolerated no longer.

RIVERSIDE TIRES

have LATEX WELDED CORDS

(100% PURE LIQUID RUBBER)

which prevent Cord Separation . . the cause of blowouts

Do you know this? An average size tire goes round 395 times every minute at only 35 miles an hour! Think what happens when you drive at this speed—or faster! Friction develops scorching heat inside your tires! In many tires other than Riversides this heat separates cords! It weakens the tire, forms internal blisters! When you hit a rock or a bump . . . BANG! A blowout!

You need the added protection Riversides give you! Riversides' Cords—the heart of the tire—are made from extra strong, long staple, premium cotton. Every cord in every ply is dipped in LATEX—100% pure, liquid, virgin rubber. This welds the cords into a super strong unit! It gives Riversides the strongest tire carcass made! It prevents cord separation . . . the cause of blowouts!

Why We Save You Money

Of course Riversides are made in one of America's largest and best tire factories. BUT—they come direct to us—minus the manufacturer's selling and general overhead expense. That's a saving. The second saving comes from Wards low cost method of distribution. These two reasons explain why we sell high quality tires for less. It's simple to figure out for yourself why Riversides are better in quality, mileage, and safety than any other tire at the same price.

*RIVERSIDE TIRES will not blow out under normal road conditions during the life of the tread if they are kept properly inflated in accordance with the specified air pressures.

Cord Separation

This shows how cords inside tires other than Riversides are separated by heat. Cord separation causes internal blisters, weakens the tire. A blowout is the result! Riversides are Blowout Proof because of Latex dipping!

Latex Dipping

By an extra process, every cord in every ply in all Riverside tires is dipped in Latex. This welds the cords into a super strong unit that defies cord separation and blowouts!

Wards Unlimited Guarantee

For your protection every single Riverside tire is guaranteed by Wards to give service that is satisfactory to you. No time limit! No mileage limit! A tire has to be extra good—has to be extra safe to be backed by the strongest tire guarantee ever written!

WOMEN'S PART IN NRA CAMPAIGN TO BE EXPLAINED TUESDAY

MASS MEETING WILL BE HELD IN WOMEN'S CLUB ROOM, WHERE PLAN WILL BE FULLY TOLD

MRS. F. E. LEECH, CO-GENERAL, ASKS HELP OF VARIOUS GROUPS IN GETTING AUDIENCE FOR SPEAKERS

WOMEN'S part in the NRA campaign, regarded by national directors and the president as vitally important to the success of the program, will be explained at a mass meeting in the women's club room at the city hall next Tuesday at 3 p. m.

The session has been called by Mrs. F. E. Leech, co-general of the local NRA committee in charge of the women's division. The speakers bureau headed by W. J. Smith, local attorney, will designate those who will explain NRA at the meeting.

Every woman in Pampa and the surrounding territory is urged to attend the meeting to hear how NRA helps to make jobs and wages more secure and to learn how women as buyers have an important part in the movement.

Mrs. Leech has solicited the help of the council of Federated clubs, the P.-T. A. councils, home demonstration clubs, American Legion lodges, and churches in advertising the mass meeting. But it is not necessary that any special invitation be extended—every woman's presence is desired.

Showers Fall On Part of Plains

Heavy rain-drops, falling "straight down" from an overcast sky, seemed an alien phenomena in Pampa early this morning. It reminded many residents of rainfall in lower altitunes.

Scattering showers are falling in this territory, particularly southward from Clarendon to Childress. The precipitation also seemed to follow the Santa Fe railroad west but in small quantities.

He had torn it out of an advertisement.

Brooklyn Club Is In Court Again

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—The affairs of the Brooklyn National league baseball club, a source of many and complicated disputes among the owners of the franchise since the death of Charles H. Ebbetts in 1924, again have been brought into the courts.

The Ebbetts heirs yesterday obtained an order from Surrogate Geo. Wingate compelling the executors of the Ebbetts estate and the directors of the ball club to show cause why they should not be examined concerning various affairs of the club, notably its purchases of minor league properties.

The petitioners, Charles H. Ebbetts, Mrs. Anna Marie Ebbetts Booth, Genevieve M. Booth, and Frank H. Booth, stated the club has lost $30,000 in the operation of minor league clubs, a policy which was opposed by Mr. Ebbetts when he lived. They also said the value of the estate has declined from $1,066,814 in 1930 to $839,468 at present. And they asked the details of a $200,000 loan made to the club by the Brooklyn Trust company, which is listed among the executors of the Ebbetts' estate.

THOMPSON, ALLRED OR FERGUSON MAY RUN AGAINST CONNALLY

AUSTIN, Aug. 18 (AP)—James V. Allred, Texas attorney general, and Ernest O. Thompson, railroad commissioner, spent several weeks in Washington on official business recently.

After a taste of life at the national capital it will be interesting to observe their reactions, because it is not a secret that each has political ambitions pointing towards the city on the Potomac.

Allred right now is trying to decide whether he should bid for the governor's office in 1934 or for the United States senate toga worn by Tom Connally of Marlin. Two years from now the senior United States senator, Morris Sheppard, will be up for re-election, if he chooses to run and it is believed he will.

With Allred it's either run now against Connally or spend a single term of two years in the governor's office, if possible, and then take Sheppard on for a race.

Thompson has been mentioned as a possible candidate against Connally. It is likely, however, Thompson would not run should Allred decide to try for the place.

There is a well-defined belief in political circles that Connally will be opposed in his race for a second term. He has not been in favor with the anti-prohibitionists since his announcement he would vote on August 26 against ratification by Texas of the prohibition repeal amendment.

Congressman Joseph Weldon Bailey has been put forward by some of his friends as a likely candidate. Talk that former governor James E. Ferguson, husband of the incumbent state chief executive, may oppose Connally, is increasing.

Ferguson was a candidate for the senate shortly after he was impeached and removed from the governor's office. He was defeated by Earle B. Mayfield, who in turn was beaten by Connally.

There have been few state campaigns since 1914 that a Ferguson has not been candidate for either the governorship, United States senatorship, or presidency of the United States. James E. Ferguson organized the American party and was its nominee for president a few years ago. Remember?

Get Rid of Body Odor This New Odorless Way

No longer need you smother one bad odor with another—in an attempt to hide the offensive reek of stale perspiration.

Research chemists have now discovered a way to end body odor instantly—even though you bathe in hardest water. The secret is in deep-pore cleansing.

Most ordinary toilet soaps curdle in hard water; and this curdled soap works into the pores . . . dams up the stale perspiration. Body odor results.

Kirk's Castile, being a 100% pure vegetable oil soap, lathers abundantly, even in hardest water. It goes deep into the pores, mixes with the stale perspiration curds, and sets them free. In a twinkling your body is as fresh and clean-smelling as a woodland breeze!

"Simply Great for Our Hard Water,"
—says Peoria, Illinois, woman. Peoria water is 25 grains hard.

Procter & Gamble

Try Kirk's Coco Castile today. It's half again larger than average toilet soaps—an exceptional bargain. Be sure to ask for Kirk's by name.

THEY STARTED OUT SO HAPPY...

THEN BANG! A BLOW-OUT
—and their week-end trip was ruined

A BEAUTIFUL day . . . a high speed car. What a wonderful week-end they'd enjoy. Then suddenly it happened. BANG! A blow-out! The rim hit the road . . . And a terrible drag set in. They lived to tell the story . . . but YOU may not be so lucky!

What causes blow-outs

Today's high speeds generate terrific heat inside the tire. Rubber and fabric separate. A blister forms . . . and GROWS . . . until BANG! The tire flattens . . . and you can't hold your car on the road.

But now Goodrich has perfected the amazing Life-Saver Golden Ply. This invention resists intense heat. Rubber and fabric don't separate. Thus blisters don't form inside the tire. Blow-outs are prevented before they even start!

Remember, this "3 times safer tire" costs not a penny more than standard tires. So why take chances? That blister—that blow-out in the making—may be in your tire right now. Put a set of Silvertowns on your car . . . BE SAFE!

CHURCHES

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH
John S. Mullen, minister
Corner of Starkweather & Kingsmill streets

"Peter Pan Christians" will be the subject of the minister's sermon Sunday morning following the weekly observance of the Lord's Supper. At the Sunday night service the subject of the sermon will be "Lost".

The hours for services are as follows:

9:45 a. m. Bible school with classes for all ages.

11 a. m. Lord's Slupper and sermon.

7:00 p. m. Christian Endeavor group meets. The program will be put on by a group of Endeavors from Amarillo.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
Corner Kingsmill and West

Bible school at 9:45, worship at 11 a. m. The sermon subject is "The Church of Today and Tomorrow." Training service at 6:45; evening worship at 8. The evening subject, "The Conceited Fool." Even Sunday proved an increase over that of a year ago, with sixth additions to the church and even a larger offering. The church is financed by the week. The Sunday school attendance was more. These things are encouraging. If some lose their way, others follow the leadership of One that has always led the people who were willing to be led. A welcome is extended.

BUSINESS MEN'S BIBLE CLASS
Meeting at the City Hall at 9:45

"Common Sense vs. Bally-Hoo" will be the subject. The fifth chapter of Daniel will be our scripture study. Our common sense is challenged today as it was in that far away day. People can prove as senseless now, and are, as they did then. At least God and the Nation requires each citizen to use his common sense. A class with a welcome.

Class Officers.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES
Room 2 1st Nat'l. Bank Bldg.

"Mind" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, August 20.

The golden text is from Philippians 2: "It is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure."

Passages comprising the lesson-sermon include the following from Romans 11: "For who hath known the mind of the Lord? . . . For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever."

The lesson-sermon also includes the following from the citations from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scripture," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind is the I am, or infinity. Mind never enters the finite. Intelligence never passes into non-intelligence, or matter. Good never enters into evil, the unlimited into the limited, the eternal into the temporal, nor the immortal into mortality. The divine ego, or individuality, is reflected in all spiritual individuality from the infinitesimal to the infinite" (p. 336).

Sunday 11 a. m.
Sunday school 9:30 a. m.

POLICE MUM

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 18 (AP)—Major Charles H. Schoeffel, of the New Jersey state police, said today no information had been forwarded here as to Harvey Bailey's possible connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping. "Until that time," he added, "questions cannot be answered."

C. E. Murphy of Mobeetie was a Pampa visitor today.

Ruth Hammers Out His 27th Homer of Year

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 18 (AP)—Unless the aging Babe Ruth (baseball speaking) feels as if he can plan the entire season next year, the New York Yankee management needn't worry about compensating him for all the 154 games.

This the great home runslugger revealed while here with the Yankees for their series with the St. Louis Browns.

Asked if his layoff during the first part of the series was any indication that he planned to retire in 1934, the Babe replied:

"I can't answer that, because I don't know. But one thing is certain—I'm not going to sign a contract for next year unless I feel that I can play the full season. It would not be fair to the owners to sign for a full year and then play only a third of the season."

After appearing only as a pinch hitter during the first two games of the Yankee-Brown series, Ruth returned to the lineup yesterday and hammered out his 27th home run of the season. Only Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics has done better during the current race.

The veteran thought the two day's layoff would do him some good, as he had been in a batting slump recently.

Pedley To Take Williams' Place In Polo Series

CHICAGO, Aug. 18 (AP)—Eric Pedley of California, Tommy Hitchcock's personal choice as the greatest number one in polo, was flying out of the west today to ride against Hitchcock's easterners in the final match of the intersectional championship series Sunday.

When Hubert W. (Rube) Williams, the west's fiery back, suffered a fracture of his right leg as the east won Wednesday's match, 12 to 8, his team's chances of winning the series appeared blasted. But Pedley, who was unable to make the trip with the western team, was prevailed upon to lend his aid and last night left Los Angeles by airplane.

Pedley, who started playing polo in 1910, reached the heights in the 1930 international matches against the British. In the second match he scored eight goals for a record in international play, which inspired Hitchcock to call him the "greatest number one I have ever seen." He was alternate in the 1924 international series, and the same year played with the Midwick four which won the open, junior, Pacific coast circuit, and open championships. He also shared in titles as a member of the Hurricanes, Greentree, and Sands Point teams.

WELL AND FELL

MCKEAN, PA., Aug. 15. (AP)—Drought, crows and passing motorists made Si Hancronnie despair of harvesting any of his corn crop. He set up a scarecrow and one day carelessly hung a pail on it.

Later, while pulling up stalks, he found the bottom of the pail covered with dimes, quarters and half dollars he believes were left by motorists in exchange for ears of corn.

JOHN GETS ATTENTION

NEW YORK.—Rumors of everything from murder to kidnaping upset Richmond Hill, queens—all because John Ramm, five years old, played a game of hide and seek with himself.

He climbed into the rumble seat of an automobile, slammed the cover shut and then couldn't open it. His two little sisters ran down the street screaming, crying that John was dead.

PHILLIPS PITCHER STRIKES OUT 13 ROADRUNNERS TO TAKE 10 TO 2 GAME

COSTELLO HIT FOR FOURTEEN POTENT POPS

FORMER PITCHER FROM HOUSE OF DAVID WINS GAME

Artificial lights and Lefty Bass, former House of David hurler, proved too much for the Danciger Roadrunners last night as the Alamo "66" team of Borger defeated the Roadrunners 10 to 2. The little lefthander cut the corners of the plate all night and on top of the poor lights, had the Roadrunners swinging wildly.

Bass sent 13 Roadrunners to the bench via the strikeout route and when that happens, something is decidedly wrong somewhere. The lefthander fanned Leggitt, one of the hardest men on the team to get out, four times. Hack Wilson, another dangerous man at the plate, whiffed three times. Aaron Ward and Andre each fanned twice.

Long John Costello occupied the mound for the Roadrunners and struck out eight of the Alamo boys. However, the Borger boys hopped on his delivery for 14 safe bingles. Farquar and Francis led the attack with three hits each. Carroll hit a home run with one man on base.

Baccus, McLary, Cox, and Wilson accounted for the Pampa hits. McLary and Cox each hit doubles. The Roadrunners made four errors to three by Borger.

The big inning of the game was the fifth when Borger scored five runs on five hits and an error. However, several easy outs were in the making, but the Roadrunners threw the ball around for several minutes to allow runners to advance. The Alamo team earned three of their 10 runs while the Roadrunners failed to earn either of their scores.

Officials of the Roadrunner team will go to Borger tonight to enter the team in the Borger tournament (if there is a tournament). Only four teams had definitely entered the event last night but sponsors believed six Oklahoma teams would be in by tonight and that two or three more Texas teams would line up.

Procedure Laws Blamed By Judge

Laws of procedure, rather than the substantative laws of Texas, handicap the courts and make costly delays in trials possible, Judge W. R. Ewing told the Lions club Thursday.

"We live in an airplane age but we use ox-cart rules of legal procedure," the judge said, in explaining how impossible it was for the judge or "referee" to prevent needless delays.

Coach Odus Mitchell discussed the recent coaching school at Lubbock and spoke of the Harvesters' chances next fall as "fair." He said Amarillo and Lubbock would have bigger teams but that the Harvesters would be a tough, fighting aggregation.

Visitors included E. D. Zimmerman, J. O. Hopper of Duncan, Okla.; John McCoy, Morris Saunders, P. O Sanders; J. J. Watson, Dr. W. A. Seydler, Joe Burrow, and Bob Meloy.

MORRISON DIES

CAMERON, Aug. 18 (AP)—W. A. Morrison, member of the Texas state board of education, died at his home here early today after a brief illness Morrison was only recently appointed to the board of education by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson. He participated actively in the last meeting held in Austin a few weeks ago when the state scholastic apportionment was fixed.

BUFFS WALLOP GALVESTON IN SECOND GAME

DALLAS DEFEATS FORT WORTH TO TAKE 3RD PLACE

By The Associated Press

The Houston Buffs demonstrated their Texas league supremacy Thursday night by slugging their way to a 5 to 1 victory over their closest rivals, the Galveston Buccaneers. It was the second straight defeat the Buffs had inflicted on the Buccaneers and widened the margin between the teams to three and a half games.

While the Buffs were pounding Thormahlen and Jorgens for 14 hits, Payne was holding the Buccaneers to four hits. Beside pitching tight ball, Payne scored two runs, connected with a double and a single and walked once.

Dallas went on a hitting spree at Fort Worth, beating the Cats 13 to 6. Zeke Bonura, hefty Steer first baseman sold Wednesday to the Chicago White Sox, celebrated by getting four hits in five times at bat. Although Bonura drove in but one run, he started or extended rallies which enabled the Steers to overcome two Cat leads.

The Cats used three pitchers, White, Davis and Minogue, in a vain attempt to break up the heavy Steer hitting. In all, the Dallas check, Vangilder, Tietje and Barnabe sharing the task.

The win gave Dallas third place in team standings, as San Antonio took a beating from Oklahoma City, 5 to 2. Dallas and San Antonio had been in a tie for third place.

Minus the services of Manager Hank Severeid, who was under suspension for a run-in with an umpire, the San Antonio club could get but five hits off Kennedy. Oklahoma City got to Wiltse for ten clean blows. The Indians bunched their runs in the sixth and eighth innings.

Albers, a long, lean sandlotter from Giddings, Texas, joined the Beaumont Exporters at Tulsa and held the Oilers to one, long hit and no runs by way of making his debut in class A baseball. The final score was 1 to 0. The Exporters backed their 22-year-old discovery with a two-base hit when it was needed to bring in the winning score. Only 27 batters faced Albers, right-hander, and not an Oiler got past first base.

MISS GROOM IS SOLOIST

CANYON, Aug. 18.—Miss Loma Groom of Pampa, a voice pupil of Professor Wallace R. Clark was one of the soloists at the annual summer concert of the West Texas State Teachers college chorus and orchestra this week.

Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise," a sacred cantata, was given with Miss Ada Clark and Wallace R. Clark as the other soloists.

Justice W. S. Baxter has returned from a trip to Bowie and other Texas points. He said the crops in that section were exceptionally good.

All Stars Will Play Two Games Here On Sunday

The Pampa All Stars will play a doubleheader at Magnolia park Sunday afternoon with the first game scheduled to start at 2 o'clock. Admission will be 25 cents for the two games.

Panhandle and Twitty will provide the opposition for the All Stars. The game with Twitty will be a league fixture and one of the most important of the season. Twitty and Wheeler are tied for first place in the league race and the All Stars are in second place along with Shamrock.

Manager C. V. Lane of the All Stars had not decided this morning which game will be played first. He was also uncertain who would be sent to the mound against the league leaders. He will have Charlie Meeks and Vodie Clemmons ready for mound duty, along with his strongest lineup.

Panhandle has a strong team this season with many veterans in the lineup. The All Stars won a close game from the Carson county team last month.

Neill Funeral Will Be Held At M'Lean Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. J. J. Neill, 24, of the Shamrock Gasoline plant north of McLean, who died in a local hospital yesterday morning, will be conducted at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the First Baptist church at McLean. The Rev. Sumrall of Amarillo will officiate. Burial will follow in McLean cemetery in charge of the Stephenson Mortuary of Pampa.

Mrs. Neill's death was sudden. She had been ill only a few days. Her husband is an employe of the Shamrock plant.

Mrs. Neill is survived by her husband and parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Berry of Hereford. Other survivors are three sisters, Mrs. B. O. Sandes and Mrs. Ruby Littleton of Portales, N. M., and Mrs. F. J. Boudreaux of Electra, and one brother, A. B. Berry of Hereford.

Pall bearers will be Owen Moore, Wood Hindman, A. A. Brewer, John Cooper, Lucian Rogers, and Porter Smith.

WEAVER WINS 3RD STRAIGHT FOR SENATORS

WASHINGTON CAPTURES NINTH IN ROW 14 TO 1

By HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

While the New York Yankees were finding that Lou Gehrig's new major league endurance record, established yesterday when he played his 1,308th consecutive game, was about the only bright spot they have seen on their current western trip, Washington's Senators were equalling a record of sorts and at the same time learning that Monte Weaver can be on great assistance to them in their pennant drive.

Weaver, rendered inactive during the large part of the season by a sore arm, let the Chicago White Sox down with four hits to win his third straight victory since he got back into service by a 14-1 score. It was the ninth in a row for the Senators, equalling the season's long run mark, made by the Yankees.

The fact that Gehrig became the official major league "Iron Man" by surpassing the record set by Everett Scott, former Yankee short stop, before Lou broke into the big league and Babe Ruth's celebration of the end of his two days vacation by busting his 27th homer of the season still couldn't save the Yankees from a 7-6, ten-inning defeat by the St. Louis Browns. Lefty Gomez failed to hold the Browns, Rogers Hornsby belted a pinch homer to tie the score in the ninth and Jim Levey doubled in the tenth to send Oscar Melillo home with the winning run.

The Cleveland Indians continued to make life miserable for the Philadelphia Athletics by plastering 19 hits for 33 bases off George Earnshaw and three throwers who followed him to win the series final 15 to 4. The victory gave them exclusive possession of fourth place as the combination of Bob Weiland's five-hit hurling and Eldon Aukers wildness gave the Boston Red Sox a 6-2 victory over Detroit.

The New York Giants again improved their position in the National league, taking another game from Cincinnati by a 7-2 count while the weather kept their leading rivals inactive. The Giants rapped Benny Frey for five runs in the first inning and made it easy for Bud Parmelee by pulling off five double plays.

The second place Pittsburgh Pirates and third place Chicago Cubs were rained out at Brooklyn and Boston respectively, giving the Giants a 4½ game lead over the Buccaneers.

Boston's idleness enabled the St. Cardinals to gain a tie for fourth place by walloping the Phillies 9 to 5 in a game marked by home run swatting.

PRIZES FOR TENNIS TOURNEY OBTAINED—FINALS NEARING

Quarter Finals In Doubles Events In Progress; Potts And McSkimming Win.

Nearly all the prizes to be awarded in the city tennis tournament have been secured and will be classified within the next day or two.

The award to the city champion in the singles event is yet to be selected. The tournament committee is undecided whether to give a cup or something useful in the way of clothing or tennis equipment.

Play to decide who will go into the finals will be staged the first part of next week. The winner in each division will have to take three out of five sets, the same as in the finals. The tournament committee will supply the balls for the games and The NEWS will furnish the officials. A date will be set for finals in each division.

Quarter finals in the doubles events are in progress. Yesterday afternoon Potts and McSkimming defeated Duenkel and Stewart, 6-3, 7-5, to go into the semi-finals in the senior doubles.

This afternoon at 5 o'clock on the Cabot courts, F. P. McSkimming and Dr. R. M. Johnson were scheduled to play their match to see which one will go into the finals in the senior division.

O. E. Mullican of Skellytown was in the city last night.

Jack Cunningham made an interesting talk before the Kiwanis club today, using as his topic, "The Relationship Between Employer and Employe." He pointed out the various changes and similarities of the present day with history as far back as it has been recorded.

Miss Clotille McCallister was pianist today in the absence of Mrs. H. E. McCarley Jr.

President Dan McGrew urged every member to try to attend the convention of the Texas-Oklahoma district at Enid, Okla., on September 4 and 5.

Visitors today included Miss Adams and Judge McMurtry of Wheeler county, and Jack Cunningham.

Shamrock Routs McLean 12 to 1

McLEAN, Aug. 17.—Shamrock's strong ball team swamped the McLean nine, 12 to 1, here Friday afternoon in a league fixture which definitely dropped McLean from the league race.

Harris started the game for McLean but he allowed the first man to hit and then walked the next three batters. McCabe relieved him but before the veteran could get warmed up, six runs had crossed the plate.

Carey McCabe scored the lone McLean counter in the fourth inning. Shamrock added three in the third, two in the seventh and one in the eighth.

Close went the distance for the Irishmen and pitched steady ball. Abbott was behind the bat. Heasly caught the game for McLean.

Miss Madeline Tarpley and Miss Velora Reed visited friends in Amarillo yesterday.

J. R. Hill of Woodward, Okla., is visiting friends here this week.

LAW DEALS DEATH TO MANY BUT CRIME GOES ON

By The Associated Press

THE LAW is sometimes stupid, and rogues sneer; but the law is inexorable, and rogues cringe—and die.

Four of them walked "the last mile" between yesterday's sunset and today's dawn, sitting down to death in the electric chair to pay for the murders they had done. One was a negro, R. T. Bennett. The state of Texas electrocuted him for murdering a Dallas woman—strangling her with a silk stocking.

Sing Sing saw the others died. The three men were executed at six minute intervals. Two died for murder during a New York City holdup. The third, Stephen Witherell, had killed his father, robbed him and then gone on a honeymoon.

Witherell, just before starting the match to the death chair—the last mile—whined:

"I don't rate the deal I'm getting."

The law, like the jaws of a steel trap, was snapping shut, too, on other hunted men elsewhere. An Arkansas posse snared 'Gene Johnson, and shot him dead when he offered fight. He was wanted for murdering a Kansas police officer.

Lindy Solution Near?

Johnson's wife, wanted in connection with a Kansas bank robbery, was wounded and captured; but Leroy Wright, another of the bad men whose guns have blazed death and terror in Kansas, escaped.

From Denver came significant evidence of the laws' persistence. It hinted that a solution of the Lindbergh baby murder mystery might be near.

For more than a year the hunt for the abductor-killer of the child has gone on. Herbert Hoover, then president, promised that the federal government would never cease its search until the crime was solved. The New Jersey state police, too, dedicated themselves to running down the killer or killers, however long the trail.

Assigned For Life

At Denver two federal agents, described as having been assigned to the murder hunt "for life," probed the pasts of Harvey Bailey and Albert Bates, both now in cells, and this gave rise to the suggestion that these men and the gang to which they belonged may be suspected of the Lindbergh murder. Bailey is held in Texas for the Urschel kidnaping at Oklahoma City, and Bates is held at Denver in connection with a thwarted kidnap plot.

Arkansas is having its full quota of crime. Mark Shank, the Akron, O., attorney who told police he poisoned four members of a family and who yesterday at his arraignment pleaded not guilty, was removed from Benton, Ark., to Little Rock for safekeeping. The temper of crowds in the Benton street influenced the police decision to move him. His wife at Akron telegraphed: "Have full confidence in you—Love."

At Grundy, Va., Matilda Roberts continued to deny knowledge of how three men were slain in an automobile in which she admitted she was a passenger.

Recluse Murdered

But as the law struck, crime went on, the same. John Donovan, a 65-year-old recluse, was found brutally slain at his Elizabeth, N. J., home late last night. The body lay in a pool of blood. The head had been gashed, as though with an ax. The house was in extreme disorder—drawers pulled from dressers, doors to closets ripped from their higes and mattresses and pillows torn open.

The body of a truck driver, James Palermo, was found near a roadway in Astoria (Queens), New York. He had been trussed in a manner so that every struggle to free himself tightened a rope about his neck, so that he garroted himself. The manner of his death was much like that of Joseph Weshefsky, a convict, found similarly trussed in an automobile parked in front of New York police headquarters last December.

John and Lish English, 81-year-old twin brothers, have lived 42 years on the same farm north of Ralls, Texas.

Mexican Troops Capture Outlaws

DEL RIO, Tex., Aug. 18. (AP)—Mexican federal troops have captured ten suspected members of the outlaw band which raided Miguel Diego's San Molino ranch 25 miles south of iVlla Acuna and seriously wounded Gilbert Menchaca, ranch employe.

Whooping and firing volleys into the air as they rode to the ranch, the bandits looted the commissary of merchandise and foodstuffs valued at $2,000.

The ten suspects under arrest all denied knowledge of the raid. Troops under command of Lieut. Jesus Belmonte imprisoned four of them in Caracul fortress, topping a hill at Villa Acuna. The others were taken to Jiminez. The suspects were caught in the hills near the ranch.

Menchaca was brought to a Del Rio hospital for treatment. A rifle bullet grazed one of his lungs.

It was the fifth time within the past two years that the ranch had been looted by outlaws. The band which staged Wednesday night's raid was believed to have perpetrated two previous depredations.

Diego, the ranch owner, lives in Del Rio.

'Ma' Ferguson Reduces Number Of Full Pardons

AUSTIN, Aug. 17. (AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson lately has reduced the number of full pardons issued by her. It seems to be her policy now to give conditional pardons. Under terms of a conditional pardon the recipient can be returned to the penitentiary in case of misbehavior. That is not possible where a full pardon is given.

Several prisoners released under conditional pardons abused the governor's confidence by getting into new trouble soon after clemency had been shown. Buck Barrow was one but he is out of the way now—a victim of a civil officer's bullet after he had engaged in a series of slayings. His brother, Clyde, had been released from the Texas penitentiary on a general parole by former governor R. S. Sterling. Sterling revoked the parole, but it was too late—Clyde already was outside the borders of Texas.

Buck had escaped from the penitentiary but during his freedom did not get into any mischief that came to notice of the officers. He decided to return voluntarily to the walls and finish his term. His conduct was so exemplary there after that officials of the prison recommended that he be pardoned to return to his young wife and children.

It did not take him long after he got out to join brother Clyde in the escapades that finally put him in his grave, after he had helped send others to premature deaths.

One wonders what thoughts Buck Barrow had while he was free after his escape. What prompted him to return to prison? What force suddenly fired his urge to "go wrong" again after he had won his official freedom on grounds he had been a good prisoner and showed a disposition to rehabilitate himself as a member of society?

AUSTIN, Aug. 18. (AP)—President Roosevelt has been requested by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson to ask the federal reserve board to authorize long-time loans on cotton as a means of keeping the staple off an unprofitable market.

NATION'S BANK STRUCTURE IS NORMAL AGAIN

REOPENED BANKS SHOW HUGE GAIN IN REPORT

BY CHAS. P. SCHAEFFER
(Copyright, 1933, by Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP)—The American banking structure is virtually back on its feet.

The records of Walter J. Cummings, executive assistant to the secretary of the treasury, today show 13,951 licensed banks operating without restrictions and only 2,870 closed or prorating on a restricted basis. These figures include national banks and state members and non-members of the Federal Reserves System but exclude mutual saving institutions.

The record is as of the close of business August 12 for member institutions and as of July 26 for non-members.

Cummings, brought to Washington by Secretary Woodin and regaled with the unofficial title of "bank opener," said that on August 12, there were 4,961 national banks doing an unrestricted banking business, with deposits of $16,398,145,000; that 740 state member banks with deposits of $9,741,987,000, and 8,250 non-members having deposits of $5,057,596,000 were operating on a full time basis on July 26.

The deposits are as of December 31, 1932. There has been no assembled condition report of banks since that date.

The next such condition report, based on the national bank call by the comptroller as of June 30, will be made in about two weeks.

The figures in Cummings' report were taken from official records of the comptroller of the currency for national and state member banks, and from federal reserve board records for non-members.

On the inactive side, it was found that on August 12 there were yet closed or operating on a restricted basis, 909 national banks having deposits of $954,304,000; 95 state member institutions, with deposits of $204,134,000, and 1,886 non-member institutions, exclusive of mutual savings banks, with deposits of $1,005,365,000.

The composite picture shows deposits in open banks of $31,737,728,000, while a total of 2,163,803,000 was tied up in closed or restricted banks.

American Given Queer Sentence In German Court

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, Aug. 18 (AP)—Charles Manger of Los Angeles today was sentenced to three years imprisonment on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of his friend, Karl Werner Heye, 111 of New York, aboard the liner Bremen July 30.

The sentence, pronounced by a jury which heard the state's attorney ask for a mild verdict because Manger had "proved himself an upstanding man," will not take effect until Sept. 30, 1936, if he pays a fine of 3,000 marks ($960) immediately.

Manger's attorney, Dr. Hirschfeld, pleaded that his client forgot he had loaded the revolver more than three years ago at Honolulu.

The wording of the sentence was taken by observers to mean that Manger, a university student, will not be imprisoned at all unless he returns to Germany.

CARRIES ALL-BRAN ON EVERY VOYAGE

Seaman Finds This Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Here is an unsolicited letter from Mr. Darragh:

"I have been going to sea for the past fourteen years. Every trip, I underwent severe headaches, nervousness, and sleeplessnes. Tried all sorts of remedies, and received only temporary relief.

"So hearing about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN thought I would get a box, which I did. That was six months ago, haven't been without it at home, and when I go to sea a box of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is always with me."—George D. Darragh, 1914 32nd Avenue, Oakland, California.

Tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things for common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

How much pleasanter this is than taking pills and drugs — so often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

PANCHO VILLA RANCH OF 180,000 ACRES WILL BE IRRIGATED AND OPENED TO SETTLEMENT AGAIN

LAREDO, Aug. 18 (AP)—The ranch of the late Pancho Villa, notorious revolutionary chieftain, of approximately 180,000 acres, and known as "Hacienda de Canutillo," in the state of Durango 60 miles from the city of Parral, Mexico, where Villa was assassinated in 1923, will soon loom as one of the richest agricultural tracts in Old Mexico.

The place was given this name after the Mexican government secured the original hacienda from the Jurado family and presented it to Villa. Villa later acquired the adjoining hacienda known as Las Nieves, where Tomas Urbino, his right hand man in his bandit exploits was born. He added the adjacent farms, La Caritena, El Cristo, San Antonio and El Torreoncita, to the original hacienda and named the vast holding of about 180,000 acres "Hacienda de Canutillo." Through the center of this great area flows the Rio Florida, providing ample water for irigation. Over 3,000 acres of growing crops are now watered by that stream.

Many Villa Followers

After the death of Villa 10 years ago his widow administered affairs on the hacienda, but recently the Mexican government reclaimed the land and decided to open it up to settlement and cultivation. Already on the hacienda are about 1,2000 residents including many followers of Villa in his days of glory.

According to Col. Manuel F. De La Garza of the Mexican army engineering department, who is spending his vacation with his family at his home in Laredo, the "Hacienda de Canutillo" has been subdivided into about 720 farms of about 250 acres each. These farms are now being sold to agriculturists by the Mexican government with the condition that all who acquire holdings must put the land into cultivation and grow crops at all seasons of the year. Those who cannot cultivate the entire acreage must release the uncultivated part. Those acquiring the land pay annuities to the government for it. Already many of the 250-acre tracts have been taken up and within a short time the former Villa Hacienda promises to become one of the fruit and vegetable paradises of Mexico, as the virgin soil is very fertile.

Grow Rare Flowers

Villa's home occupied a portion of a large adobe structure divided into three parts—the home, a church and a large storeroom which included a garage and blacksmith shop. These surround a spacious patio in which many of the rarest flowers and plants of Mexico were grown at all times by Villa. At one time the hacienda was one of the richest in Mexico and produced products, including cattle, goats and other live stock, valued at 300,000 to 400,000 pesos per year. Villa himself was a lover of fine horses and thoroughbred cattle and goats and was a success as a hacienda or a ranchman.

While the land on the great hacienda has been divided into farm tracts it is expected that the hacienda headquarters and nearby buildings will remain as they are, the farms flanking them on all sides. It is said to be the plan to make the old Villa home and the church the "town places" with a motion picture theater and other amusements for the residents of the community.

American cigarets number 2,416,739,000 and valued at $5,328,629 were sold in foreign markets during 1932.

Amarillo Police Use Singletrees For Night Sticks

AMARILLO, Aug. 18 (AP)—Amarillo police have received a new supply of singletrees.

While police in other cities carry sub-machine guns, the local patrolmen stick to their singletrees, made of hickory. They carry them rather than standard night sticks.

The reason: One singletree costs 40 cents, a night stick $1.75. Two police clubs are made from one singletree. The clubs are dressed down, boiled in oil, and polished by firemen during their spare time.

"The longer you carry one, the harder it gets," said a patrolman. "The sun and air help cure them."

Relief Official Visits in Pampa

A. V. Elrod field representative of the Texas relief and rehabilitation commission, spent Thursday morning in the city going over the Gray county situation with Mrs. W. H. Davis, manager of the Pampa Welfare Board, and members of the Gray county committee.

The state representative has just completed a visit to seven counties in this territory and reports conditions somewhat improved. He does not look for an increase in registrations but he does not expect a decrease.

Mr. Elrod was scheduled to confer with county commissioners in the afternoon.

Bates Says 'Rat And Red-Headed Moll' Squealed

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 18 (AP)—Albert Bates, held as one of the kidnapers of wealthy Charles Urschel of Oklahoma City, in his isolated jail cell, today cursed the "red-headed moll" and the "double-crossing rat" he blames for his capture.

"A woman put me here," said Bates to Captain of Detectives William Armstrong, "and a dirty rat I thought was my friend when we both were in the Colorado penitentiary tipped off the police I was in Denver."

Bates said a former convict he had known in the Colorado prison saw him at the house of the wife of one of his pals and "squealed." He did not tell Armstrong what connection the "red-headed moll" had with his capture.

Two Million Saved For Emergency If Bond Issue Fails

AUSTIN, Aug. 18 (AP)—Lawrence Westbrook, director of the Texas rehabiliattion and relief commission, today said an effort was being made to hold in reserve as much as $2,000,000 of the federal government's allotment of $2,573,820 for August to meet emergencies in event the state bond issue does not carry.

Westbrook said the federal government had given notice that should Texans, in a special election on August 26, fail to authorize issuance of $20,000,000 in bonds with which to augment funds now apportioned from Washington this state probably would not get any more relief money.

"We are conserving as much of the August allotment as possible to be in a position to cope with an emergency should the bond issue be rejected," Westbrook said.

Westbrook said that the relief rolls had picked up approximately 12,000 world war veterans whose only sustenance had been cut off when the government dropped their compensation under the new law.

"Texas contributed about 12,000 men to the tree army, but we had to take on that many when the ex-service men lost their compensation," he said.

WHY THEY'E DOG DAYS

CHCAGO.—Maybe hay fever was responsible for their being called "Dog Days." Canines, too, may contract hay fever.

Veterinarians at their 70th annual meeting learned that sneezing and coughing in dogs quite often may be due to hay fever and other allergic complaints. The solution is to take out of your pet's diet the food which causes the allergic reaction—or send him to the north woods.

Brady Farmers Support Cotton Acreage Program

BRADY, Aug. 18. (AP)—So far the people of the nine community, all of them farmers, have a perfect record in supporting President Roosevelt's recovery program.

Every farmer in this community joined in the cotton acreage reduction movement. When a county-wide road bond issue, to make McCulloch county eligible for participation in the federal road aid program, was voted upon recently, the people of Nine unan imously approved it.

"Before the end of this month, every home in our community will have hoisted the blue eagle insignia and will live up to the pledge," is their prediction now.

Mrs. James Todd Jr. and daughter, Emma Boone, reutrned yesterday from a visit with relatives in Avard, Oklahoma.

Village of Nira Booms as NIRA Stamps Are Sold

NIRA, Ia., Aug. 18 (AP)—Industry boomed in the ramshackle postoffice of Nira today with first official sales here of the Nira stamp, emblem of the national industrial recovery program.

In homage to its name, Nira was first after Washington to sell the new three cent stamp. And the population of 20, five families, was ready for the occasion.

Crowds of stamp collectors poured in, eager to buy a Nira stamp, and attach it to a letter to be cancelled in the local postoffice.

In the past week collectors mailed thousands of packets, each containing from one to 25 envelopes to be stamped and mailed out today.

For 40 years outgoing mail has been cancelled by hand by Postmaster E. J. Yoder and his daughter. Today nearly a dozen clerks were on hand, aided by an electric cancellation machine.

To the 20 inhabitants, the stamp boom was the first major business activity since a coal mining flurry in 1802.

TIT FOR TAT

ST. CHARLES, ILL., Aug. 17. (AP)—Mrs. Lester J. Norris, heiress of the John W. Gates millions, had a bad night ride from Chicago to her home here. Fearful of kidnap attempts against her children, she finally stopped at Elmhurst and telephoned on that another car semed to be overtaking her. St. Charles police stopped the other machine and learned its driver, a salesman from Morris, Ill., had thought from the way the Norris car was being driven gangsters were attempting to waylaw him.

HUSBAND SLAYER FREED

HONDO, Tex., Aug. 18. (AP)—Mrs. Evelyn Bippert, 16, was acquitted today on a charge of murder in connection with the death of her husband, Nov. 18, 1932, at Lacoste. She was ill with pneumonia at the time and Bippert, whom she had married three months before, was found dead across her bed with a bullet wound in his head.

Emperor To See 284 Ships Fight In Sham Battle

TOKYO, Aug. 17. (AP)—Emperor Hirohito sailed today for a point about 700 miles south of Tokyo where in a few days nearly all the 284 ships of the commissioned list of his navy will engage in a sham battle with a hypothetical foe from the equatorial Pacific.

The occasion is the grand maneuvers, held once in three years, which this summer will cost about $2,700,000 and bring into far eastern waters the greatest array of warcraft ever assembled there.

Defending ships, it is believed, are based near the Bonin Islands to the south and are lying in wait for the "enemy" fleet from the south or southeast. The craft will converge near Yokohama after the "warfare" for a grand review before the emperor.

Farmers To Pay Back 6 Per Cent Of Cotton Money

LUBBOCK, Aug. 17 (AP)—Slightly more than six per cent of the money Uncle Sam is to pay South Plains farmers in return for plowing under 651,000 acres of cotton, will be paid back to the federal government thru the crop production loan office of the farm credit administration.

Thirty-four hundred farmers in 19 south plains counties borrowed $396,135 this year from the crop production loan office.

Farmers selling an average of 40 per cent of the crop to the government numbered 17,483 in these counties. They will receive $6,313,464 less than $396,135 borrowed. Average income to the farmers will be $361.12. The 3400 borrowers will receive $244.57 after paying an average of $116.51 to Uncle Sam.

Feed and seed loans, made through another branch of the farm credit administration, are not included in these estimates. Figures are not available on these loans, but reports indicate the total is not as large as for the production loan group.

NRA Employers In State Reach 79,075 Figure

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 (AP)—The number of blue eagle employes in the New York metropolitan district drew closer to the 200,000 mark today, and at least two other districts in the country also were up in the six figure class.

More than 8,000 signed agreements received yesterday brought the New York district total to 183,262. This district includes Connecticut and New Jersey, as well as New York.

The blue eagle, symbolic of the NRA program of shorter hours and more buying poyer, has been awarded to 131,566 employers in the Illinois-Iowa-Wisconsin district, according to latest available reports. The concerns affected employ 1,087,961 people.

Pennsylvania, another large industrial area where figures were available, had 112,483 employers under the sign of the eagle.

Among the available state totals of NRA employers were: Arkansas, 14,228; New Mexico, 3,449; Oklahoma, 23,616; Texas, 79,075.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

International Sunday School Lesson for August 20.

General Topic: Samuel.

Scripture Lesson: 1 Sam. 3:1-10; 12:1-4.

1. And the child Samuel ministered unto Jehovah before Eli. And the word of Jehovah was precious in those days; there was not frequent vision.

2. And it came to pass at that time, when Eli was laid down in his place (now his eyes had begun to wax dim, so that he could not see),

3. And the lamp of God was not gone out, and Samuel was laid domn to sleep, in the temple of Jehovah, where the ark of God was;

4. That Jehovah called Samuel: and he said, Here am I.

5. And he ran unto Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou callest me. And he said, I called not; lie down again. And he went and lay down.

6. And Jehovah called yet again, Samuel. And Samuel arose and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou callest me. And he answered, I called not, my son; lie down again.

7. Now Samuel did not yet know Jehovah, neither was the word of Jehovah yet revealed unto him.

8. And Jehovah called Samuel again the third time. And he arose and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou callest me. And Eli perceived that Jehovah had called the child.

9. Therefore Eli said unto Samuel, Go, lie down; and it shall be, if he call thee, that thou shalt say, Speak, Jehovah; for they servant heareth. So Samuel went and lay down in his place.

10. Jehovah came, and stood, and calle das at other times, Samuel, Samuel. Then Samuel said, Speak; for thy servant heareth.

1 Sam. 12:1. And Samuel said unto all Israel, Behold, I have hearkened unto your voice in all that ye said unto me, and have made a king over you.

2. And now, behold, the king walketh before you; and I am old and grayheaded; and, behold, my sons are with you: and I have walked before you from my youth unto this day.

3. Here I am: witness against me before Jehovah, and before his anointed: whose ox have I taken? or whose ass have I taken? or whom have I defrauded? whom have I oppressed? or of whose hand have I taken a ransom to blind mine eyes therewith? and I will restore it you.

4. And they said, Thou hast not defrauded us, nor oppressed us, neither hast thou taken aught of any man's hand.

Introduction.

We have studied the wonderful birth of the great prophet-judge Samuel, the man who was born in answer to Hannah's prayer. Today we study his entire career. Next to Moses, he was the greatest man produced by Israel during all the history of his people, being the second greatest man produced by Israel during all the history of his people, being the second founder of the nation. He found it at a very low ebb under Eli, and by his wise counsels and firm leadership, in peace and war alike, he brought the people to such a strength that Saul could lay the foundation of the kingdom, and David and Solomon could carry it to heights unequalled in the annuals of the Israelites. It all rested on the work of Samuel.

Samuel and Eli.

It is generally supposed that Samuel was now about twelve years old. He had been a temple attendant several years, had grown thoroughly familiar with his duties, had formed a real attachment for his aged, half-blinded companion and teacher and was making real progress in the study of the law, of which he was to become such a distingueshed interpreter. Eli, bowed under the weight of advanced years, made heavier by the steadily mounting shame heaped upon his sensitive soul by his reprobate sons, was no longer active. In such circumstances, Samuel and Eli were boys together; the unfolding alertness of the lad and the receding vigor of the old man met on common ground, and they had fellowship together. It would seem that they occupied sleeping quarters, perhaps in adjoining rooms, in the Holy Place of the temple. Their compartments were close enough together to enable either to hear the call of the other.

God Calls Samuel.

In the very nature of things one accustomed to being waited on would make many demands on his servant; this is particularly true of an old person. No doubt, Samuel's sleep was interrupted frequently by calls from the adjoining room. One morning shortly before dawn while the sacred lamp still burned, the Lord called Samuel. The lad answered promptly and thinking his companion had called ran to Eli at once. The aged priest told him that he had not called and bade him go back to bed. This experience was repeated with the same result. But when Samuel appeared the third time at Eli's bed, the latter knew that the Lord had called the boy. Accordingly he told Samuel to lie down and if the call came again to answer, "Speak, Lord; for thy servant heareth."

The message which God gave to Samuel was a terrible one. In effect, it was that because of the vileness of Eli's sons, which Eli knew and from which he did not restrain them, the time had passed when either sacrifice or offering would avail; Eli's house must be destroyed. Only upon Eli's insistence did Samuel reveal the message of Jehovah, and the old man's heroic resignation stands out among his most commendable traits. Samuel grew in the power of the Lord and all Israel knew that the prophetic order had been restored in him.

A Philistine Victory.

For some years the Philistines had done pretty much as they pleased with the Israelites. Shocked by one engagement in which Israel lost four thousand men, the leaders decided to bring the ark of the covenant from Shiloh where the sons of Eli guarded it and to use it in what they hoped would be a decisive victory against their enemies. The presence of the ark in camp inspired the Israelites but it also challenged the Philistines, and in the battle that followed thirty thousand Israelites were killed, including Eli's son's, and the ark was captured. Eli, ninety-eight years old, sat by the wayside awaiting news, and when runners told him of the capture of the ark he fell off his seat backward and broke his neck—tragic end of a man who had judged Israel for forty years.

The Ark Among the Philistines, 1 Sam.

The ark was brought by the Philistines to Ashdod, one of the five capitals, and placed before the image of their fish-god, Dogan, to signify that he had won the great victory over Jehovah. But the Lord proved the contrary, for the next morning Dagon's image was found prone on its face before the ark. They set it up again, and the next morning Dagon was on his face again, with his head and both his hands severed. Moreover the men Ashdod were afflicted with boils, a symptom of the Oriental plague.

In deadly fear the ark was transferred to another capital, the strongly fortified city of Gath, but there again it caused a plague of boils. Once more the ark was moved to a different Philistine capital, this time to Ekron. There the same plague appeared, but more severely than in either of the other cities, so that there was a demand all over Philistia for the return of the ark to Israel.

The latter year's of Samuel's life were clouded by many troubles. Like Eli, he was unhappy in his sons (1 Sam. 8:3). The people began to lose faith in what to him was the God-ordained government for them. The accession of Saul to the kingship of Israel closed the period of the judges and automatically relieved Samuel of the civil and military leadership of his people In this chapter 12 we have his farewell, or retiring, address It might be compared to Moses' final charge (Deut 29-31), or to Washington's Farewell of 1783.

"Integrity of life is fame's best friend,
Which nobly, beyond death, shall crown the end."

GROCERS HAVE UNIQUE SURPRISE FOR CHILDREN

The HIDDEN DOOR

BY FRANK L. PACKARD

SYNOPSIS: Colin Hewitt learns first that the St. Lawrence River "club" where he had expected to deliver a mysterious letter to Joe Lazarre is really a den of thieves one of the enterprises of the Mask, New York killer who has threatened Colin's life. Lazarre is the Mask's tool, but also Colin's only hope of deliverance. Now he learns the "club" is to be hi-jacked under a gang led by Dollaire. He must warn Lazarre and goes to Bouchard's shack to ask him to guide him overland to the club. There he hears familiar voices.

Chapter 19
THE SPY

Colin moved forward again, but this time cautiously, and again he halted. He was within earshot at this time. The window sill was no more than waist high, and, hidden in the darkness himself, he could see plainly into the interior of the shack.

Larocque and Bolduc! So Bouchard was the spy! Bouchard, although Colin had never seen the fellow before, was obviously the third man seated there at the rough board table—a big man, unshaven and unkempt. And Bouchard at the moment was tilting a bottle to his lips.

"Thousands, I tell you!" Bouchard asserted and thumped his bottle on the table by way of emphasis. "Me, I am telling you, I saw it. It is underneath what they call their power house where the falls come over—you see—eh? It is clever."

"Hah!" observed Bolduc sapiently. "There is a trapdoor, then. That is easy."

"No," said Bouchard, and lifted the bottle again. "It is not so easy as all that. They are not children, those fellows there—except in the woods." He laughed suddenly, uproariously, as he once more wiped his lips. "There is a story about the children in the woods—eh?"

"Shut up!" exclaimed Larocque sharply. "Don't make so much noise, and don't drink so much! How do you get down under the power house?"

"It is that of which I am going to tell you," he answered with an unmuffled grin. "How do you get down underneath, eh? Well, the floor is all cement. And it is laid with grooves that make big squares—you understand? But this is not for the frost. No! It is to fool the eye. It does not look like there was a part that was separate from the rest. But I am telling you that is the way it is. I do not known how it comes up and down."

"We'll take care of that!" stated Larocque contemptuously. "We can blast the whole thing open now that we know. Go on, Bouchard, with the rest of it. How did you find this out?"

Colin stirred—noiselessly—easing his muscles. He shared Larocque's impatience. He had heard a great deal—but also very little. What were those thousands that Bouchard had talked about—what was the secret of this power house?

Bouchard's little ratlike eyes were on the bottle—longingly, but it had been withdrawn from beyond his reach.

"It was yesterday morning, before it was light," he explained, "I was watching. I saw someone go from the club to the power house. It is only a little way—maybe thirty, forty yards. I followed. The power house door was left open. After a little while I looked in. There was a light there, and the dynamo was running but I could not see anyone inside.

"And then all at once a part of the floor lifted and—a man's head was coming up. It was like he was riding on an elevator. I did not have time to see any more than I have told you a few minutes ago—but that is enough, eh? The man saw me. He fired at me—and I ran.

"And pretty soon they were all in the woods after me, but they were like puppy dogs chasing their own tails. I did not go the way they thought I would go"—Bouchard burst into laughter again—"I went back to the power house. But there were two men left there to keep a guard. It was no use staying there, so I said to myself, 'Anatole, you go home and get a little sleep.'"

Bouchard paused, wet his lips with his tongue, and looked longingly at the bottle. Larocque, relenting, pushed it toward him.

"The last one, you understand?" he cautioned gruffly. "There will be work to do tonight. Go on. What next?"

"Thanks," said Bouchard gratefully, as he helped himself to another generous swig. "Well, I got back here, and then that fog set in. It was not gone until midnight. Then I went back to the club, and stayed there and watched all day. So you see now, eh, why I was not here this afternoon?"

"That's alright, now that we understand," Bolduc conceded heartily, "well, did you find out anything more?"

"No!" replied Bouchard with a throaty chuckle, "except that some of them were lost for sure nearly all night, and that they do not search any more now. But what I found out before then I have not told you yet. I have stolen close to the club at night, and I have heard them talk. You bet! Listen! The big boss is a man they call the Mask!"

"We will see who is the boss when we meet him!" observed Larocque grimly.

Bouchard shook his head.

"You will not meet him," he stated with a short laugh, "he is never there. He is always in New York. I have heard them talk a lot about him and—I do not understand—but they do not seem to know who he is themselves. That's funny, eh?—but it is true. And I have heard them talk a lot about what they call W. P. that is also in New York, but I do not understand about that either."

"New York is a long way off," Larocque pointed out derisively. "What do we care what it means? How many men have they got at the club?"

"Ten," said Bouchard laconically.

"Ho!" ejaculated Larocque facetiously. "Then we are too many! We ought to have refused half of those brave boys at St. Pierre and Miquelon who wanted to line their pockets. Think of it, Bolduc, when we come to divide! We could swallow the club alive."

But again Bouchard shook his head.

Chapter 20
IN THE MUD

"You may not be too many," he said deeply. "It is only in the woods that they are children. They will fight like the devil and they are well armed. And besides, they are looking for you. Yes! And before they ever saw me. Don't forget that!"

Colin instinctively leaned forward—as though in concert with Larocque and Bolduc. Larocque and Bolduc had thrust their bodies forward over the table, staring at Bouchard.

"What do you mean?" they demanded in chorus.

Bouchard laid a significant finger along his nose.

"I will tell you," he said, "but another little drink, eh?"

"No!" decreed Larocque with a forceful oath. "You have had quite enough!"

"Zut!" complained Bouchard. "What is the use of bring a bottle? Is it to look at? But I will tell you just the same. Listen! Someone in St. Pierre has talked too much. That is sure. One of the big power boats takes the stuff from the club here over to the Gaspe coast every two or three weeks, though sometimes it goes every week, and on of the gang is left there with it.

"Where he goes from there and what he doe with it, I don't know; but it takes always maybe a week before he comes back. You see? Well, a few days ago, the boat brought back one of them, a man named Joe Lazarre, and he said that one of their agents had told him that a fellow called Dollaire, who was a big bootlegger and a smart crook, was certain it would pay to make a little visit to the club.

"When Lazarre told the story at the club they laughed at him. But since they saw me, I do not think they have laughed at all. They know it is not the police, or they would not be there now; but as it is, I tell you again, it is only in the woods that they are children, and they will fight like hell!"

"Good!" grunted Larocque. "Well if we are not too many—we are enough. All right, we will go now and wait for Dollaire, and you will come along, too, Bouchard. But first, Bolduc, you and I will see what is in the bottle, and perhaps we may even let Bouchard have—"

Colin waited for no more. He turned, retreated noiselessly from the shack, regained the wagon track, and once satisfied that he was far enough away so that his footsteps could not be heard, broke into a run. Halfway back to the village he missed the track again in the pitch blackness as he had done on the way out, but instead of merely going in over a boot top, he pitched headlong into the marshy ground, covering himself thoroughly with mud and water. Dripping, he picked himself up. He was in a state!—and humanly enough he swore again!

He went on once more—but more circumspectly this time. Lazarre must be warned. There was only one way, of course, to get to the club now, and that was by boat, secretly. God knew what the aftermath of tonight was going to be! A schooner full of thugs.

A dead Lazarre was disaster. A live Lazarre, backed by Reddy's letter, should be grateful—more amenable to an alliance. Meanwhile he had already had an ally. Germaine! He was going now to ask Germaine to lend him her boat. But what were those "thousands" that Bouchard talked about, and what was—

His mind worked on, ignoring time and distance, until suddenly he was standing in front of the Tremblay home. There was a lamp burning in the living room. It was early yet, of course, and it was possible that Germaine was still expecting him. He smiled wryly at the thought of the appearance he presented, as he mounted the steps to the veranda piled the old-fashioned knocker on the front door.

Germaine herself opened the door and stared for an instant in amazement, then burst out into a merry peal of laughter—which she as suddenly checked.

"Oh, I'm sorry!" she exclaimed contritely, "but you do look a sight! What on earth has happened to you?"

"Is anyone about?" he asked.

"No," she assured him. "Not a soul—except Antoinette and Jacques, but they're at the back of the house. So come in."

"Not like this!" he said. "I could not sit down without ruining the furniture, you know! I have just come from Bouchard's shack."

"Bouchard!" Her hand reached out impulsively—and soiled itself hopelessly on his muddy sleeve.

"Too bad!" he said remorsefully. "Now see what I have done!"

"What does it matter?" Her voice was all anxiety now. "Something has happened. What is it? Tell me!"

"Beastly clumsy of me," he explained. "I missed my footing on the way back, and took a nose dive into the marsh. Bouchard is in the other camp. I came to ask you to lend me your boat."

"Tell me!" she insisted.

"Of course," said Colin, "I was going to anyway. You remember those two fellows who landed from the Belle Fleur this afternoon?"

"Yes."

"Well, their room is next to mine at the hotel and I heard them talking in there this evening. They belong to a bootlegging outfit, or force, that is captained by a man named Dollaire. This Dollaire has found out that the club is a camoflage for a bunch of crooks engaged in some profitable racket, and he sees no reason why he shouldn't muscle in and help himself to the profits! And tonight is the night.

"When I went out there just now to see Bouchard, I found those two men with him. Bouchard is the man they shot at and were looking for at the club yesterday. In short, Bouchard is Dollaire's spy."

"Oh," she said tensely, "Yes—go on."

"I heard enough to know that in another hour or so Dollaire will be off the cape with a schooner. He will pick up these men here, get Bauchard's report—and then the club. I can't afford to let anything happen to Lazarre, as you know. He must be warned, and there is only one way—by boat, so may I have yours?"

"You may," she said promptly. "And what is more, I'll run it for you. I suppose we should start at once, shouldn't we?"

For a moment Colin stared at her blankly, then his jaws clamped. Germaine at the club—tonight. She did not realize, of course, what it might mean.

"That's very good of you, but you don't start at all," he said firmly. "This is a one-man job."

"I don't see why," she pouted. "I was dragged in by the hair of the head, you know, yesterday, the way you said it always happened in your stories, so why can't I be again? I would love to be a heroine."

"But that would mean," he challenged, "that you would have to fall in love with the hero—and the hero with you."

"Not at all," she retorted serenely. "Don't you think it would be something at last really original in a story—if they didn't?"

"Well, that's an idea, of course," he admitted with a smile, then seriously. "But this isn't a story. I am writing, and so far as you are concerned you are henceforth definitely out of it. Quite apart from what might happen down there tonight, if you were ever suspected, they wouldn't have any more mercy on you than they had on"—he checked himself—"would have on anybody else. This is my job, and tonight particularly, as I told you, it is a one-man job.

"I am not going to drag anybody else into this—and least of all you. Bouchard would have been along in the capacity of a mercenary, as it were, and his blood would have been on his own head. As it is now, all I've got to do is sit and smoke and steer a boat, and—well, you understand."

"It would seem then, that I am not to go," she observed.

"It would," he returned grimly.

"And I suppose," Germaine returned — and hesitated slightly, that nothing could persuade you not to go?"

"No," he answered quietly, "you know why."

"Yes," she said slowly, "I know why. Well, then, go and get on some dry clothes. Jacques will see the boat has plenty of gas and have it ready for you at the end of the wharf in half an hour. Will that be time enough?"

"Like the waving of a magic wand!" Colin declared cheerily. "Thanks a lot!"

She was in shadow, her back to the light that streamed out from the hall. He could not see her face.

"Good luck!" she said—and put out her hand.

And then, before he could answer, she had turned sbruptly and was gone.

He went down the veranda steps and made his way to the hotel at the other end of the village. Here he proceeded to change his clothes. There was no sound from the next room. If Larocqu and Bolduc had returned to the village, they had not returned to the hotel—and probably never would. He smiled dryly. What a filthy mess he was in! Ooze, mud, slime—but it hadn't got through into the pockets. Lazarre's letter was untouched, and the revolver, together with the extra supply of cartridges, was quite dry.

He stripped, rubbed down, got into clean clothes, tucked the letter, revolver and cartridges into his pockets, added an adequate supply of cigarette and matches—there would be a lonely few hours of it there and back—and looked at his watch. Ten minutes of ten. He was surprised to find that it was no later. Well, so much the better. All the longer start on Dollaire!

He glanced around the room. Oh, those clothes! But no one would come into the room tonight, and even if the clothes were seen, what then? The only suspicion that may arise was that their unspeakable condition was due to an over-free indulgence on their owner's part in whiskey blanc. A tribute and a compliment to the national drink of French Canada! He laughed, blew out the lamp and left the hotel.

Within his allotted ten minutes he reached the wharf. It was deserted, empty save for a figure that emerged suddenly out of the darkness as it clambered up over the edge of a srtingpiece.

"Is that you, M'sieu?" Jacques asked in French.

"Yes," he answered, "everything all ready, Jacques?"

"But, yes, m'sieu. The boat is here. There is plenty of gas. And in the locker at the stern m'sieu will find some hot coffee and sandwiches."

Instinctively Colin turned his head shoreward along the wharf in the direction of the village and the twinkling window lights. "Germaine!" he said softly under his breath, and then aloud: "That is very kind of mademoiselle. Will you tell her that I—that I am very grateful to her. And now my thanks to you, and I'll be off."

Colin lowered himself over the stringpiece and dropped into the boat below.

"Alright, Jacques," he called back. "Cast off!"

"All clear," Jacques answered. "Good luck, m'sieu."

LA NORA NEWSREEL SHOWS GIRLS SCALING 2,000-FOOT PRECIPICE

Close-ups of President Roosevelt arirving at Hyde Park, where he has established a summer white house; exclusive pictures at Long's peak, Col., where two girls, eight and six years old, scale a 2,000 foot mountain precipice, and striking scenes at Floyd Bennett Field, as Jimmie Mattern, intrepid aviator, arrives after his ill-fated flight around the world, are to be seen in the current issue of the Pampa Daily NEWS-Universal Newsreel. Graham McNamee, noted radio announcer, and the screen's Talking Reporter, describes these and the other important news events in the reel in vivid style at the La Nora theater.

While friends and neighbors wave a friendly greting, the president is seen driving up to his Hudson River estate, where he will alternately rest and work on plans for speeding up his gigantic national recovery plan.

Other important news events reported by McNamee include exclusive pictures of a tame robin at Chicago, Ill., which has amazed nature experts by its fearlessness; unusual and exclusive views at Evanston, Ill., where a daredevil motorcyclist crashes, without injury, through the burning wall of a shack while traveling at terrific speed; exclusive scenes at the Agua Caliente track in Mexico where a fast greyhound race is run in record time with monkeys as jockeys; an astonishing demonstration of a new and humane cattle branding process in which painless chemicals replace the red hot brand iron, on a ranch at Pitchfork, Wyo., and picturesque scenes at Rouen, France, during the National Yachting regatta.

JAPAN

Bloody Lessons.

What reason had we to hope in this crisis that redress could be obtained from the nations which had never helped us in our emergencies of the past? Still fresh in our memories were the incidents of Nikolaievsk (a port at the mouth of the Amur river in eastern Siberia, where in March, 1920, more than 600 Japanese soldiers and civilians, including women and children, were massacred by Russion "partisans" or Reds), and of Nanking (where on March 24, 1927, Chinese communist troops attacked the foreign residents, including Japanese, killing or wounding many and violating women). Who came to our aid to revenge these injuries and insults? We learned from these and other lessons that we must defend ourselves.

In Manchuria in 1931, when events were moving unmistakably toward another crisis of this tragic nature, we were compelled to act in self-defense. What use at such a time to appeal to the slow-moving, clumsy and ill-informed peace machinery of the western world? We have no doubts of the full justification of the vigorous action we took in that emergency.

Peace May Ensue.

In the long run the world will be convinced of the wisdom and fundamental disinterestedness of our course. The Occident, I believe, will one day believe that our actions far more surely were calculated to promote peace and the welfare of all the peoples of the Orient than all the manoeuverings of the so-called peace makers of Geneva and other Occidental capitals.

If our action, stern and decisive as it had to be, shocked idealists and pacifists, that could not be helped. In the long run the effect may be salutary. The vision of the Japanese army, firm in its own integrity, convinced of the righteousness of its cause and dealing with facts as it finds them, not with vague and sentimental theories, may bring the world to a realization of the true path to peace.
