SNOW MUST DIE IN CHAIR IS DECISION OF GOVERNOR MOODY

PARDON BOARD GIVES ADVERSE REPORT IN CASE

MURDERER OF STEPHSON SANE IS FINDING OF BODY

EXECUTION IS SET

HEADLESS BODY OF HIS VICTIM FOUND UPON MOUNTAINSIDE

(By Associated Press) AUSTIN, July 25.—M. Snow, death sentence from Erath county for the slaying of his stepson, Bernie Stephens, was found sane by a commission of physicians to life imprisonment by Governor Moody.

Snow is scheduled to be executed August 12 when his 28 days' reprieve expires.

The governor accepted the pardon board which held Snow sane, contrary to the defense.

The board recited that the medical appeals court did not find Snow insane, and expressed opinion that Snow was capable of distinguishing between right and wrong when the murder occurred.

Body Found Headless—Snow's headless body was found on a mountain side near Greenville. The head, wrapped in a sack, was discovered in a cave.

Snow was claimed by the state and was committed to the state penitentiary. His wife and mother-in-law and a sister were also committed to the penitentiary.

Defense counsel recently presented affidavits of two Fort Worth physicians that Snow is sane and does not need a reprieve.

Which the pardon board accepted, by claiming Snow showed insanity in his alleged disposal of the bodies.

FERDINAND IS BURIED

Funeral Held for Ancestors in Curlew De Arges Amid Solemn Ceremony

(By Associated Press) RICHMOND, July 25.—King Ferdinand now rests under the soil of Curlew de Arges beside his ancestors.

The body of the monarch was lowered into the grave today, despite the fact that body of his sovereign was emaciated from his long illness and he had lost much weight.

At the four pall bearers found the body of the king. They staggered suddenly and, whether by accident or because of promptness by Queen Marie, Prince Nicholas rushed forward and placed his hands under his father's coffin.

Incident as an omen that some day Nicholas would wear his father's crown.

Although Ferdinand died a staunch Catholic, his position as king made him into a head of a national church. Ecclesiastical authorities here and throughout the country required that the final rites should be in the cathedral of the national church of Romania, and the king was buried in its rites.

DECIDING GAME ASKED

Comments Over Better Players of Legion Game Will Be Settled Here Monday

Growing out of numerous arguments which resulted from the base ball game between members of the American Legion at this annual state staged July 4, another game is scheduled for next Monday afternoon at 6 o'clock at Merrill Park.

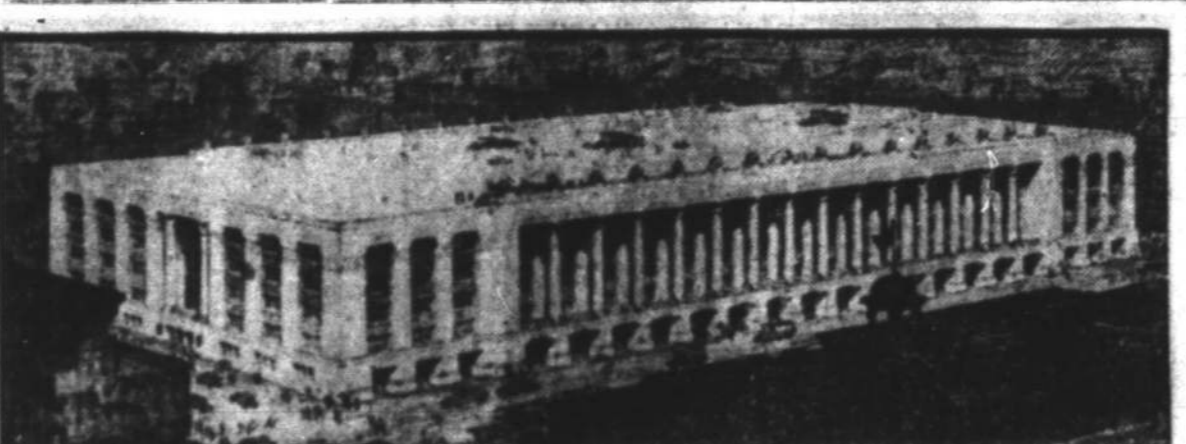

A regular meeting of the legion will be held in the basement of the building. The game has been the cause of much controversy. It is hoped that the meeting will settle the matter.

Following several minutes of pep singing by the members of the legion, the game will be played. The game will be a regular meeting of the legion.

BARAGRAPH MARK FAILS AS RECORD

DARING AVIATOR MAKES A SUCCESSFUL LANDING IN BURNING PLANE

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, July 25.—Seeking to shatter the airplane altitude record, Lieutenant Carlisle C. Champion, U. S. Navy, had a spectacular battle for his high above Washington today as he brought his plane down with a disintegrated and flaming engine.

Champion, who holds the altitude record for airplanes reported to the navy that his altimeter showed 47,000 feet, but a preliminary reading of the machine's damaged barograph at the bureau of standards led officials here to say that the highest mark they had found indicated an altitude of 39,000 feet.

It was emphasized, however, that this reading was by no means final and that definite announcement must be withheld for 24 hours.

The recognized world's record for airplane altitude is held by a French aviator, Collet, who climbed to 48,252 feet last August.

Taking off from the Anacostia navy air station near here in the early morning, Champion had climbed with his plane for forty minutes when two of the cylinder heads of his Wasp air-cooled motor blew out. Apparently one of the flying pieces choked the oxygen tube of the Champion's motor, as he said that he became unconscious. What happened to the plane thereafter is unable to say, but when it was recovered it was found to be in flames.

NEW MEXICO GETS MAN

Alleged Abductor of 'Girl' Sent Back to The State By Local County Officers

Joe Wheeler, arrested early last month on charges of kidnapping, in connection with his marriage to a girl in New Mexico under 14 years of age, was turned over to New Mexico authorities and carried back to El Paso county Sunday morning.

Wheeler's wife, who had been arrested by Deputy Moss Holland of Hale county, and brought to jail here by Sheriff Albertson, reached the city jail. The girl was forcibly removed from Wheeler's grasp and turned over to her grandfather who lives in this city. In company with her father she has been returned to New Mexico.

According to officers Wheeler, age 25, had been paying attentions to the girl, and a week ago, according to parents, abducted the girl and was married to her in a New Mexico city.

SCHOOL AID IS LARGER

Lubbock County Will Receive Near $15,000 for Education Compared to $9,000 in Past

Lubbock county's school aid from the state, which in the past has never exceeded $9,000, will run about $15,000 for this year, according to W. H. Foschouse, county superintendent of education.

This is made possible by the new state law on state aid which makes allowance for independent schools in relative state aid to some as county schools in order to insure their running for a full term.

Due to the unusually large number of independent school districts in Lubbock county, only a small percentage of state aid has been received in the past, the rural schools getting the biggest part of the state aid money. Lubbock county's schools have been financed through the willingness of property owners to pay a high property valuation so that sufficient money to support them could be secured. It was explained by Mr. Foschouse.

TO BUILD TABERNACLE

Carpenters' Union Agrees That They Will Construct Big Home For Union Revival

Members of the local carpenters' union, forty-third street, will be on hand today to erect the tabernacle for the Union Revival services. It was decided in a meeting yesterday. The big structure will accommodate 5,000 persons when finished. It was stated.

The preacher will also assist and the Rev. E. H. White, when approached on the subject, declared he would be right on the job. The Rev. W. A. Dixon has promised to assist, and Rev. W. P. Jennings claims he will be on hand as a full-fledged worker at "dinner time."

A general good spirit as to the meeting pervails throughout the city. Local business men and employees are giving it whole-hearted support and news items are being carried in most of the Plains papers.

ADD NEW DRY LAUNCH

Confiscated Ship From Coast Of Florida To Be Used In Texas For Prohibition Work

SAN ANTONIO, July 25.—(AP)—Another launch will be added to the fleet of run chasers now employed along the Texas coast. The Campbell, customs collector for the district, said Monday on his return from Washington. The launch will be a speedy little boat recently confiscated by the government while running rum along the Florida coast. Campbell said. It will be delivered and put in service in the near future, operating in the vicinity of Corpus Christi.

CLAIMS MEXICO PLANS TO TAKE U.S. PROPERTIES

HEAD OF OIL INTERESTS IN THAT NATION SAYS LAW IS SEIZURE

PLOT IS ALLEGED

PROPAGANDA IS BEING USED TO HIDE REAL FACTS HE SAYS

(By Associated Press) DURHAM, N. H., July 25.—Guy Stevens, director of the association of producers of petroleum in Mexico, tonight pictured Mexico as a land ruled by the sovereign will of one man, or a most "small group of individuals," bent on confiscating hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of American property.

Mr. Stevens discussed the problem of "understanding the Mexican situation" in an address before the states of the Latin-American conference of the United States at the University of New Hampshire.

STILLMAN WEDDINGS PLANS COMPLETED

WOODLAND FOLK TO MINGLE WITH WEALTHY DURING CEREMONY TODAY

(By Associated Press) GRAND ANBEE, Tex., July 25.—Preparations for the wedding tonight for the Stillman wedding to be celebrated at which Lena Wilson, child of the Canadian woods, will become the bride of "Bud" Stillman, son of a wealthy and socially prominent New York family.

The wedding will be a simple affair in a fairytale setting, from which this young Prince Charming seemed to come to woo and with the woodland lass, the witch of discord, who a few days ago threatened to mar the course of true love has been vanquished and the eve of the wedding found all well with penicillin and their families.

Tomorrow will witness an unusual scene when well groomed society folk, friends of the bride and groom, will meet and mingle in the equality of guests with the French Canadian woodmen and their women folk, for the whole countryside has been invited and accepted the invitation in no equivocal terms.

CITY HAS GOOD MILK

City Health Officer Proud of the Record Lubbock Has Made in Having Grade A Dairies

Lubbock continues to mount higher in the "milk circles" of Texas, as a recent bulletin received from the state department of health at Austin declares. With 17 dairies of the grade "A" class in operation under the Standard Milk Ordinance Lubbock is among the best milk producing cities in the state.

The following towns are in the class with Lubbock in regards to milk service under the ordinance: Abilene, Amarillo, Austin, Dallas, Brownwood, Bryan, Corpus Christi, Corsicana, El Paso, Fort Worth, Graham, Jacksonville, Jefferson, Kerrville, Marshall, Marshall, Mexia, Mineral Wells, Nacogoches, Paris, San Angelo, San Antonio, Texarkana, Tyler, Vernon, Weatherford and Wichita Falls.

Dr. J. W. Rolle, city health officer, feels that this is a very creditable showing for Lubbock as most of the towns listed above are larger than Lubbock. He says that the people of Lubbock owe much to the dairy owners for their co-operation in making the milk safe for the patrons.

With the continual increase in the number of registered dairy herds in the county, the pure milk supply is assured.

HAS ONE THICK SKULL

President of Lubbock Smiles At Blow Which Would Have Broken Skull of Ordinary Man

LONDON, July 25.—The president of the Liberal Party, Charles D. B. Gwynne, is visiting in England. He is the fortunate possessor of a strong skull. The Daily Mail reports that he was making a pleasure trip on the Thames Sunday on the steam yacht with Lord Dunsborough and party, when the warning "low bridge" was called.

Everybody ducked except the president who received a tremendous blow on the forehead and was knocked flat. The blow would have broken the skull of an ordinary individual. He was unharmed, but President Gwynne was smiling and unsmiling.

Naval Parley End Foreseen By Observers

GENEVA, July 25.—The long suspension of the tri-partite naval conference, due to the absence of the British delegates in London, was said today to have begun to create in Geneva the uncomfortable feeling that the conference might be headed towards an indefinite adjournment. There was an official reason for such a situation: it just grew by itself.

Meantime, it is understood, there has been considerable cabling back and forth between the American delegation here and the state department in Washington. This was in order to be fully prepared for discussion of any new aspects of the naval problems on the return of W. C. Bridgman and Viscount Cecil, the chief British delegates.

The British are coming back; the British spokesman here said this was a certainty. He added that it was his personal conviction that the negotiation would end eventually in an agreement.

COTTON EXPERT IS VISITOR IN CITY

JOHN TODD ADVISES LOCAL MEN TO RAISE BETTER TYPE OF STAPLE

Visiting only a few hours but yet making a thorough investigation of the conditions here, John Todd, cotton specialist of Liverpool, England, was a visitor in Lubbock Sunday with H. K. Schultz, state director of the U. S. department of agriculture.

Investigating the conditions of the cotton in this section of the United States in regards to grades and staples, Mr. Todd conferred with Dean A. H. Laidlaw, of the Tech school of agriculture, and other agriculture experts here.

"Where the American farmers, especially those in Texas, are making their mistake, is in failing to raise the better grade of cotton," Mr. Todd said.

"There is a good big margin for the better grades and better equipment—does not furnish a cheap and simple solution of the problems of national defense. It has not rendered obsolete either armies or navies, guns, tanks or ships."

Aviation New Element—It has only added another essential element to the intricate equipment necessary to national defense against a well-prepared foe. It has added another element to the arsenal of national defense.

ARMAMENT ASKED

Colonel A. Mardis Who Platted Town Of Sylvania And Built Many Roads Succumbs

HUTCHINSON, Kan., July 25.—Colonel A. Mardis, 88, who platted the town of Sylvania, Reno county, and prominent as right of way agent of the Santa Fe railroad when some of its lines in Kansas were built, died at the state Soldiers' Home, Fort Dodge, this afternoon.

He built the Houston belt railway at Houston, Texas.

Colonel Mardis commanded a company of the 10th Ohio cavalry in the Civil War. He was a telegraph operator before the Civil War in Ohio, being one of the first telegraphers on the Panhandle railway in the '50's.

Colonel Mardis married the daughter of Governor John Greiner of Ohio, who was the first governor of New Mexico when that territory became a state.

PLAN RANGER'S CASE

Moody and Adjutant Confer As To Measures Which Will Be Taken In DeGraffenreid's Favor

AUSTIN, July 25.—Governor Dan Moody and Adjutant General H. B. Robertson will confer probably Tuesday on what will be done for defense of Jack DeGraffenreid, state ranger at Borger, charged in a Hutchinson county indictment with assault on marshal with W. H. Bates, deputy sheriff of that county.

DeGraffenreid is one of the special ranger recruits sent to Borger, which was occupied by about 20 rangers some weeks ago during the threat of martial law.

KANSAS ASKS PRISONER

Harry Heintz Wanted By Officers Of Wallace In Connection With Alleged Wife Desertion

AUSTIN, July 25.—Request for return of Harry Heintz to Wallace county, Kansas, to answer to a complaint alleging wife desertion and non-support, was honored today by Governor Dan Moody.

Governor Ben E. Pasler of Kansas said the requisition was based on an exchange of telegrams between T. C. Armstrong, El Paso chief of police, and S. J. Chism, Wallace county, Kansas, sheriff.

GRANITE WEED CUTTERS SLUG GUARD AND MAKE GETAWAY IN AUTO THAT THEY COMMANDEER

SHAW IS SLAIN WHEN ONE OF PARTY FIRES ON OFFICERS WHO HALT THEM AFTER ALARM IS SPREAD OVER STATE BY OFFICIALS

(By The Associated Press) GRANITE, Okla., July 25.—Eight boys escaped from the state reformatory here today but were captured a short time later after one of them, Eddie Shaw, 19, had been shot and killed by a Beckham county farmer.

Shaw was killed after one of the group of escaped prisoners fired at officers who halted them 12 miles north of Sayre. The officers returned the fire killing Shaw and slightly injuring two others.

WILBUR CALLS FOR REAL U. S. DEFENSE

SAYS AMERICA MUST BUILD ADEQUATE SYSTEM OF MODERN ARMAMENT

THOMASTON, Maine, July 25.—The uncertainties of the past in national defense must be done away with, so far as possible, Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy, in an address at exercises in honor of the memory of Major General Henry Knox, the first secretary of war of the division of independence in 1778.

"Progress is costly," said Secretary Wilbur, "but civilization is too precious for us to abandon the efforts for security. Our liberties are too dearly purchased to be abandoned or jeopardized by indolence or indifference."

Lays Wealth on Grave—Secretary Wilbur, before the exercises, which were held by the Knox Memorial association and General Knox chapter, D. A. R., had laid a wreath on the grave of General Knox, who was born in Boston 1774 and died here in 1864.

With reference to aviation, Secretary Wilbur said:

"This new weapon for offense and defense—the airplane and its equipment—does not furnish a cheap and simple solution of the problems of national defense. It has not rendered obsolete either armies or navies, guns, tanks or ships."

Aviation New Element—It has only added another essential element to the intricate equipment necessary to national defense against a well-prepared foe. It has added another element to the arsenal of national defense.

NEW TECH CLASSROOMS

College Prepares for Increased Enrollments for Next Term By Adding New Structure

Preparing for the anticipated increase in enrollment, especially in the school of agriculture, workmen are engaged in constructing four additional class rooms for the school. They are being built in the stock judging pavilion, the entire east wing of the building with the exception of arena being used for the rooms.

The arena of the pavilion will still be used for stock judging purposes. Dean A. H. Laidlaw said yesterday. Eleven half days of each week will be used for stock judging classes. The new stock judging class rooms will accommodate about 100 students, Dean Laidlaw said.

STATE BUYS U. S. BONDS

Federal Securities Purchased With University Royalty Funds By State Treasurer

AUSTIN, July 25.—Federal government bonds were bought today by State Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher with $50,000 of the University of Texas royalty funds received from its West Texas oil fields.

The university now has more than $6,000,000 invested in federal bonds. Only the interest can go to the available fund for buildings to replace the present sheds on the campus.

Oil royalties always are put into government bonds within a few hours after receipt at the treasurer's office. The bonds bear about 2 1/2 percent interest. The principal goes out of Texas. It loans about 2 1/2 percent interest while in the state treasury depositories.

The Woman's Day

The gentle art known as "toady-ism" was given a solar plexus whack by one Mrs. Henry E. Rathbone, president of the Illinois League of American Penwomen, a few days ago.

Go, Mad! But the president objected. She said that she could not work in harmony with a woman who had so little interest in the association that she did not keep her appointments.

War Babies! School children of Europe are coming home from school crying because their schoolmates derisively call them "War Babies!"

PLAINVIEW TEAM IS DEFEATED BY HUBBERS

The Hubbers defeated their ancient but honored rivals, Plainview, here Sunday afternoon with a score of 11 to 2 at the Merrill park. It was the air-tight pitching of Walter Hill, veteran of the Texas Tech Majador baseball mound, and who has been playing on the initial bag for the Hubbers through the season that baffled the visiting batters. The Plainview nine only collected three hits from Hill in the nine frames he worked.

JACK IMPUGNS COURAGE OF SHARKEY

(By Associated Press) EL PASO, July 25.—Jack Sharkey is a great fighter, just fifty percent better than I figured he was before I met him. He has only one fault, and that is that he lacks courage. For the first time since he toppled the giant Lithuanian with a smashing left to the jaw in Yankee stadium last Thursday night, Jack Dempsey saw fit to impugn the fighting nerve of his late adversary during a 15 minute stop in El Paso tonight.

EYE IS CUT

With a right eye carrying three stitches as a mute evidence of the power of Sharkey's punches, and a left eye that was badly discolored from the blow to the cheek bone, the Dempsey features twisted into a wry smile as he boasted

HAS FANS SUPPORT

"Would you believe that 90 percent of the fans at the Sharkey fight were with me?" he asked. "I believe that the people of this country are anxious to see me come back."

THAT HE WOULD MEET GENE TUNNEY IN

September as confidently as he faced Sharkey less than a week ago. "There is very little difference in the punching power of Tunney and Sharkey," Dempsey said.

TUNNEY IS SMARTEST

"Tunney is the smarter fighter of the two, and I'm absolutely confident that I can beat him and am not worrying about the result."

DEMPSEY WILL START TRAINING FOR the Chicago match within the next three days, he said. His present schedule calls for the opening of light training two days after arriving in Los Angeles. He will start intensive training within two weeks, and will not break camp until shortly before time for his shot at the ruler of the heavyweight roost.

that I can draw over a million dollar gate even though I haven't the title—more probably than Tunney could draw against the same man—but it's worth more to know that the people want me to win. All along the way people have told me how glad that they were that I won. It's worth a lot to be a winner, but it's worth more to know that the fans are with you again. That will help me against Tunney."

KNOWING MORE ABOUT TEXAS

Knowing more about Texas is important with the people of the Lone Star State. Many people born and raised in Texas do not know the state. They do not know what is to be seen in other parts of Texas. They have studied the geography of the state. They know that in area it is the biggest state in the Union. They know some things about the state, but when it comes to knowing really what is in Texas they are far from being informed.

This same condition arises in National affairs. Great prominence has recently been given to the recent meeting of the heads of the Central Banks of Europe and our own Federal Reserve banks. They had big and serious questions to discuss in an international sense, relating largely to foreign exchange but it was more difficult to put the best solutions through because of the unfamiliarity of the nations one with the other.

Realization of this truth led to the appointment, under the auspices of the League of Nations, of the International Committee on Intellectual Relations. Eminent scholars, philosophers and scientists have served on this committee and are still members of it.

learned it, he explained, in trying to buy from them a few morsels of land to add to his own farm. In this admission of his indebtedness there was humor, of course but there was also point and force. After all, nations are in their dealings with one another very much like men and women. If you once master the technique of ordinary individuals in their intercourse with each other, in their transactions, in their mutual adjustments, you have got on far in learning the principles by which the conduct of international affairs ought to be regulated.

Oil company, et al., is the title of the action and in addition to the oil company's two sets of heirs, those of the late Mat. Basso, and Henry Uppole, are interested. Years ago Uppole sold a farm to Cline, reserving the oil royalty but releasing the gas interests to the purchaser. The Pure Oil company leased the farm and got four oil wells thereon. Since 1921 it has been taking casing-head gas from the well and piping it to an adjoining farm where it is converted into gasoline.

The Uppole heirs claim it being a product of oil, they should own the royalty from the gasoline. The Cline heirs contend it is a product of gas and it therefore is theirs.

In the meantime, the Pure Oil company is holding the disputed royalty money and it amounts to upwards of $600 and the total is increasing each month. The company won't pay over the money until the courts decide whose it is.

You Cannot Coast Uphill

Hundreds of people are reading this little talk today—perhaps they are reading it at this very minute.

Instead of reading the words printed here they were reading a description of the new merchandise in your store cannot you imagine that a very large percentage of them would be greatly interested? Can you not visualize the family discussing new clothes, or a new piano, or a new furniture suite or some other needed merchandise?

Can you visualize the new faces you would see in your store tomorrow if thousands of people were reading such an advertisement of yours today?

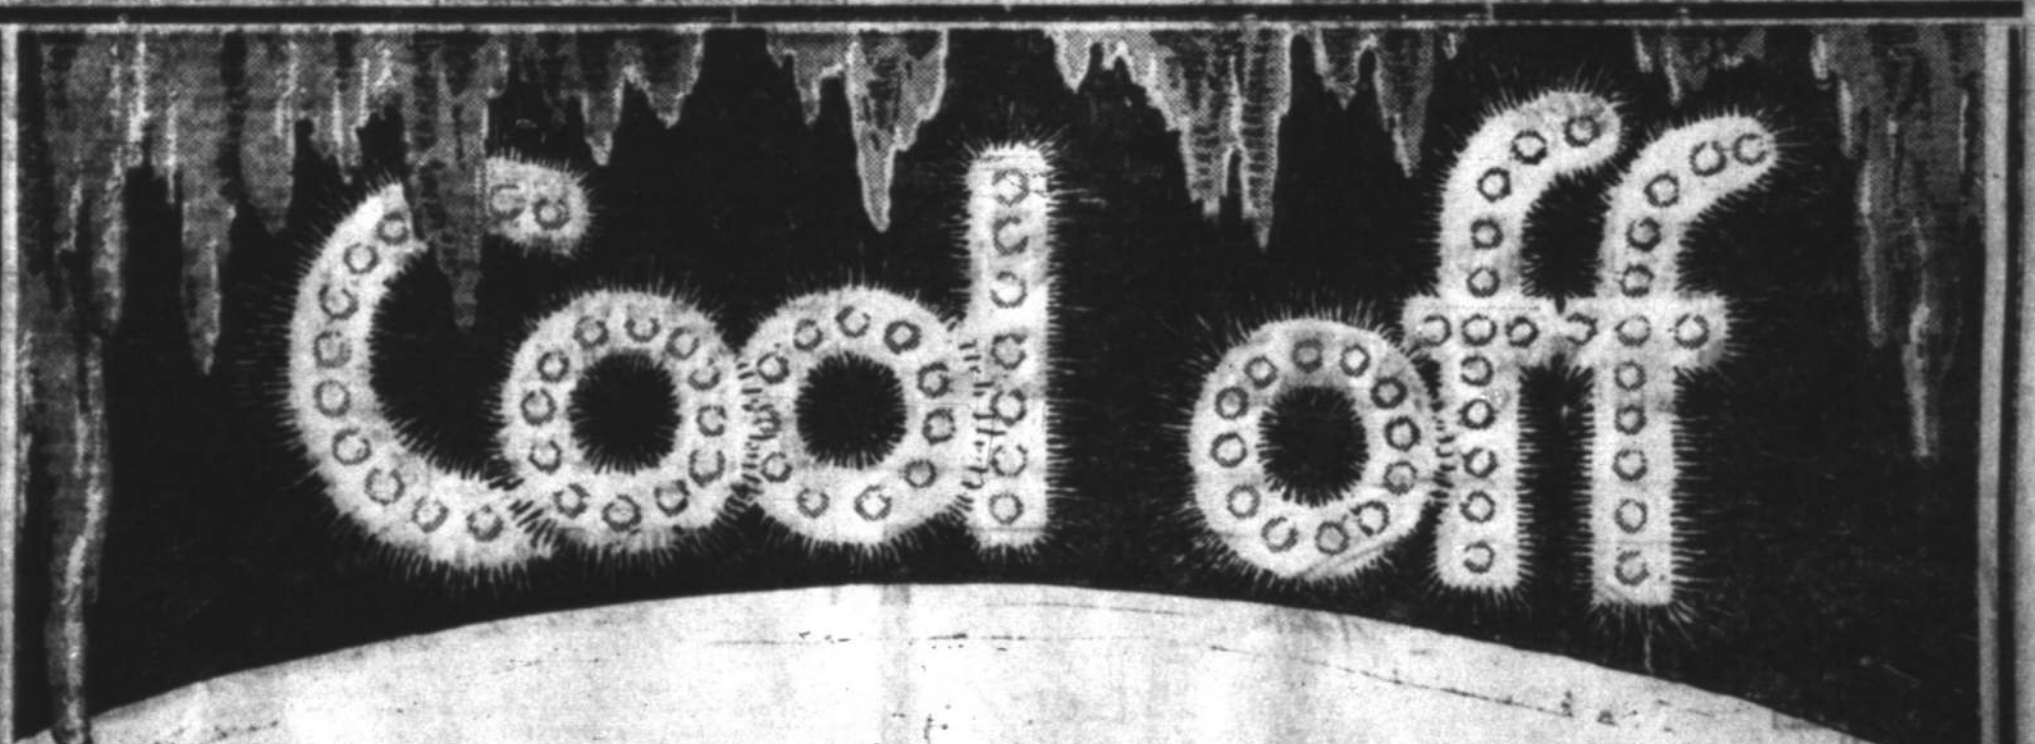

Elbert Hubbard once said: "To stop advertising is to let your business run on momentum and momentum is a gradual move towards a dead stop." You cannot coast uphill.

Persistency in advertising, constant repetition—interests more and more of the possible customers in your store or your service. This is the way that business is propagated. This is the way that business is made to grow.

Fill your business engine with good gasoline—newspaper advertising.

POWER LINES EXTENDED

Second Major Extension in West Texas Announced By Texas Electric Service Firm

DALLAS, July 25. (AP)—The second major extension of electric power lines in West Texas to be announced within the last sixty days was made public Monday by John W. Carpenter, president of the Texas Electric Service company. The new line will extend from the newly constructed power plant at Odessa to Monahans and then northward to Wink and the Winkler county oil fields, a distance of approximately 70 miles.

The Texas Electric Service company already has comprehensive building programs under way in West Texas, including the recently completed generation plant at Odessa and additions to the steam generating plant at Eastland.

Work begun two months ago on a 12,000 volt high tension line to serve West Texas oil fields and the rapidly growing towns and cities in that section of the state, will be completed early in September, it was stated Monday.

STILLMAN WEDDING

The Royal Highlanders regimental band from Montreal will be on hand and will furnish part of the wedding music and add a touch of color to the scene with their uniforms, but the villagers dance with more zest and abandon to the music of their neighborhood players.

Bountiful supplies of refreshment, calculated to quench the thirst of the most energetic dancers, will be provided in wide variety, for it is reported several truck loads of wine—white and red—beer and other drinks have been delivered at the place of the wedding festivities.

"Bud" and his bride are reported to be planning a honeymoon trip abroad, Europe is the destination as described by friends, but it is reported that "Bud" plans to take his young bride, who has lived all her life in the Canadian backwoods, to Paris and perhaps to Scotland, the homeland of her father.

The romance that will unite the family of a New York banker and a Canadian woodsman became known a year ago when "Bud" Stillman announced his engagement to the girl who had been his playmate when as a boy he spent his vacations at the Stillman camp, near where she was raised.

Lena Wilson made her first visit to New York last year when she came as the guest of "Bud" and his mother, who announced her whole-hearted approval of her prospective daughter-in-law.

ALTITUDE FLIGHT

he regained consciousness he was lying on his back with the oxygen tube just above him. He placed it in his mouth and then got his plane under control.

Engine Caught Fire
Meantime, the engine caught on fire but a violent sideslip followed by a dive was successful in blowing out the fire. At that time the altimeter indicated a height of 38,000 feet. The engine continued to disintegrate and caught on fire three additional times before the plane, a Wright Apache, finally was brought down on a corn field near the Amarosth station.

An examination of the machine, Champion said, showed that seven cylinder heads with pistons and connecting rods were missing. One of the two burographs was demolished, presumably by flying parts of the engine, while the other was so badly damaged that the aviator said it probably would be worthless.

Plane Landing Made
Champion's landing was described by the navy department as "exceptionally fine," with no injury to either pilot or plane. Naval flying officers were quick in their praise of the gallant flyer for the flight he made to get his "ship" back to earth against great odds. At one time Champion had decided to jump and had loosened his safety belt, but believing he had shattered the world's altitude record he determined to fight it out in an effort to save the burographs telling the altitude curve of his flight.

The cause of the disintegration of engine has not been definitely cleared up, but it was assumed by navy men that it resulted from a failure of the lubricating system.

for the quick transportation of machine guns, bombs and men, and a new method of attack by machine gun bombs and torpedo. It has given a new impetus to intercommunication and scouting. It has added new peril to the enemy and a new source of defense to ourselves.

"The fact is that the cost of aviation is a staggering addition to the load involved in the maintenance of national defense, and we say that, we mean the maintenance of a great nation.

Expense Not Loss
"But the expenditures for our navy are not a national loss in time of peace. The navy of the United States has been a great school or a great university for the training of the men and officers.

"The nations at Geneva thought to prepare an agenda for the limitation of armaments and of military power, but the more the problem is studied, the more difficult it seems to effect such a limitation or such an agreement.

"The result of this conference are not yet manifest, but whatever they may be, the fact remains that if we are to have a navy, we must build one. If we are to maintain parity with Great Britain, it will be only because we build up to a national standard.

No Easy Security Offered
"The point, after all, is that there is no royal road for the security of the nation. That security must depend upon sacrifices made by the people of the nation upon a recognition of the facts concerning human life and human responsibilities and a willingness to undertake the responsibilities incident to the advantages we have already achieved.

Secretary Wilbur paid tribute to the work of Frederick Hale of Portland as chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, and to Rear Admiral Charles F. Hughes, commander of the Atlantic and Pacific fleets, and native of Bath, Maine, of Admiral Hughes he said they thought so much of him in Washington that they were to make him chief of naval operations in September. Admiral Hughes came here during the afternoon.

A wearing surface is important

BUILDERS, engineers and architects are fully alive to the importance of the slag or gravel wearing surface for flat roofs. And for these good reasons:

- 1—The slag or gravel surface makes it possible to use a much greater amount of waterproofing material than could otherwise be applied.
- 2—It protects against surface wear.
- 3—It provides sure protection against flying sparks and embers.

This "wearing surface" is one reason why Barrett Specification Roofs carry a Surety Bond, guaranteeing the owner against maintenance and repair expense for 20 years—why these roofs take the base rate of fire insurance.

WEDDING BELLS PEAL FOR RICH 'BUD' STILLMAN AND LENA WILSON, BACKWOODS LASS 'CINDERELLA GIRL' ENTERS N. Y.'S "400" AS KITCHEN ROMANCE REACHES HAPPY CLOSE

This is the Church of St. Andrew at La Tuque, Quebec, in which Bud Stillman and Lena Wilson will be married. The pastor, Rev. W. S. G. Bunbury (inset) will perform the ceremony.

LA TUQUE, Quebec, July 25.—Needles have been flying in a hundred homes in this little, Canadian city against the event of today.

A college boys vacation contact with a sweet-faced girl who worked in his mother's kitchen, was the origin of the Bud Stillman-Lena Wilson romance. The kitchen was in Mrs. Anne Stillman's rambling summer home on the forested slopes of the St. Maurice river.

No other hand than the St. Maurice's shores ever had been known by Lena. She had no education save that of a little country schoolhouse, and was versed only in the life of her own simple people and their joys and boasts of her native woods.

With a brief year of its inception the story of this spilling Cinderella of the Canadian bush rubs to its growing chapter this month before the altar of St. Andrew's church.

Father and Mother Stillman themselves well acquainted with the hazards of matrimony, took the little country girl to their hearts when Bud fell in love with her.

Mrs. Wilson's consent quickly gained, Lena was sent away to New York to learn at the hands of her prospective mother-in-law the mysteries of the big city life she will be called on to lead after her marriage.

Meaning Mother Wilson said good-bye to the humble home where she had raised Lena and her other daughters. She was installed in a handsomely furnished house at 31 De Castelnau street, La Tuque.

Lena's brothers and sisters speak haltingly of the Stillmans and the wedding-to-be. They are as shy as the furred and feathered inhabitants of the nearby woods.

New Yorkers Coming According to arrangements the wedding will be solemnized by Rev. W. S. G. Bunbury, pastor of the Church of St. Andrew. The church has seats for perhaps 750 persons.

Prominent New Yorkers will come to La Tuque to fill most of these seats, it is expected.

Fowler McCormick, who six years ago, during Mrs. Stillman's divorce battle, denied he and Mrs. Stillman intended to marry, is to be Bud's best man, he said.

The Stillman family, known only casually to Rev. Bunbury, a veteran of the Boer War and former western ranchman, Lena will be a welcome in his church, for she was brought up in another faith.

After the wedding there will be a big reception at La Tuque's community club. It is understood here, then Bud and Lena will go away to Europe, for their honeymoon.

The St. Maurice river will continue to flow down through La Tuque to Grand Assise, Grand Mere, and Three Rivers and on into the St. Lawrence and the sea. Pulp from the La Tuque paper mill will travel the world over to carry the world's news. But it is doubtful if reading waters ever will sing a paper ever carry a more romantic story than that of the girl of the Canadian woods who is to become the bride of an heir to millions.

After walking 25,000 miles as a mail carrier, M. A. Lee of Wyckham, Eng., has resigned.

Here are the lovers in the Lena Wilson-Bud Stillman story. Lena wears her costume of the days when she worked in the Stillman kitchen; Bud his Princeton graduation gown.

These are the mothers of the Canadian Cinderella and her Prince Charming: Mrs. Anne Stillman (left), exclusive New Yorker, and Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, who has tailed all her life.

The PENNY PRINCESS

By Anne Austin

BEGIN HERE TODAY

VERA CAMERON, private secretary in the Peach Bloom Cosmetics Co., shares an apartment with her attractive aunt, FLORA CARTWRIGHT, who finds it difficult to realize that this brightly sensible and efficient creature has never had a real sweetheart in her life.

On the way to the office, Vera takes a frank inventory of herself to learn why people find her so unattractive. Her nose is elastic, her mouth is adorable, but on the other hand there are her heavily rimmed glasses, a freckled, unattractive complexion and her plain and sensible clothes.

At the office where she expects to learn of her promotion to the place of secretary to the president, she finds another girl has been given the position. The president cheers her by the announcement of her promotion to assistant to the new advertising manager, JERRY MACKLYN. With high hope she raps on the door of her new superior.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

A lusty young baritone roared "Come in!" a summons which Vera Cameron, in spite of the strange new excitement which fluttered her usually well-controlled nerves, obeyed noticeably. All good private secretaries should.

She had entered so noiselessly on her rubber-heeled oxfords that Jerry Macklyn had not heard her, and for a moment she was astonished to apprise him of her presence. A husky young man, carefree and with his shirt sleeves rolled above the elbow, was bunched before a huge, flat-topped desk, which was completely covered with jars and bottles and powder boxes. Beneath his red head the lined cheeks testified that nature had given him a complexion to harmonize with that amazing hair of his, but the other was completely submerged under a thick coating of cold cream.

"I—I beg your pardon," Vera stammered, unable to make up her mind whether to laugh or to flee, leaving this astonishing young man to his shameless rites of beautification.

"Oh, hello, hello!" Jerry Macklyn's eyebrows descended, his startlingly blue eyes, which had been seriously contemplating his lounge in a hand mirror, flooded with the light of a totally unembarrassed smile.

"I'm Miss Cameron. Mr. Cartwright assigned me to your department," Vera told him in cold, even tones—the impersonal voice which her favorite business women's magazine told her was the correct one for a private secretary to use toward her employer.

"Oh—are you?" The brilliant smile faded out of Jerry Macklyn's blue eyes as he took her in, noted the severe braids of her mossy brown hair, the unsmiling eyes behind horn-rimmed spectacles, the prim mouth, whose skirt chastely covered her legs.

Vera flushed with anger for the second time that day at being addressed and dismissed by a secretarial, hoo—! noise.

"Of course you are! Glad to know you, Miss Cameron," Jerry Macklyn recovered his confusion by reaching in to an open drawer of his desk for a towel with which he began to rub his cold-creamed cheek vigorously. "Just getting acquainted with our line," he grinned at her. "Sure a fancy layout, isn't it? Judas Priest! I didn't know you girls had to make through all this trick before you were ready to make an appearance. Smells nice, doesn't it?" he asked sociably, the tip of his short, broad nose wiggling as he sniffed the perfumed air about him.

"The perfume used in our cosmetics retail at eight dollars an ounce," Vera informed him.

"Gosh! That's right," Jerry Macklyn finished scrubbing at his cold-creamed cheek and attacked his rouged lips.

"A little of the cold cream rubbed into the lips will enable you to remove the rouge most effectively," Vera told him in even tones, which gave no hint of the degree in laugh which was almost upsetting her morale as a perfect private secretary.

"Thanks for the tip," Jerry grinned cordially, but his eyes were wary and shy, as if he had begun to realize that this impeccable young woman did not approve of him at all. His thick forefinger dug into the opened cold cream jar, brought up a lump big enough to cleanse his entire face and neck.

"Guess you know all the tricks, eh?"

"I don't use lip rouge," Vera answered primly.

"Good thing for our business that all girls aren't like you," Jerry mumbled at her through the towel with which he was removing the tatter of cold cream tinted with lip rouge. "What I mean—," he added, as he noted the vivid flush of anger that swept over her pale, freckled face, "is that it's a good thing for us that a lot of girls need lip rouge."

He pushed back his chair, rose, rolled down his sleeves.

"Did I say I was glad to have you, Miss Cameron? We got a slew of work ahead of us. I asked for the cleverest girl in the outfit and they told me that was you. Now, if you'll transfer your belongings from Brennan's department to mine, we'll get down to business. By the way, I wish you'd bring me all the pamphlets and other descriptive matter you can lay your hands on. And a sales report showing the relative popularity of the different articles we put out, as well as a chart showing the relative profit. I've got to dope out a big national advertising campaign in double quick time. And you're going to help me. I understand you know this business from A to Z."

"That's absolutely all I know about Peach Bloom Cosmetics from personal experience," she said crisply.

Jerry Macklyn picked up the sheet of paper, read his few lines at a glance, then surveyed Vera Cameron coolly and critically from the crowning braids of her head to the broad lace of her flat-heeled, orthopedic oxfords.

"So you have never used any cosmetics except cleansing cream and face powder," he said slowly.

"Right. Now how the devil am I going to know whether this truck is any good or not? Good Lord, I can't really try it out on myself as I usually do a product. I'm planning a campaign for—," he frowned, looked at her finished face searchingly, then a wide grin stretched his boyish mouth.

"I stretched his boyish mouth," he said, Miss Cameron, I've got a whole lot of ideas. You're my assistant, aren't you? Not just my secretary, but my assistant?"

"Yes," she said.

"Now, Miss Cameron, bend an attentive ear—oh, gosh, you can't! I mean, you can't bend an ear," he looked at her, his blue eyes sparkling with wicked spite. "Your ears are held down too tight by that crown of yours. Say, I haven't seen a hairdresser like that since my sainted aunt went to her reward. Wait a minute! I apologize. Can't have you sore at me already? Say, this is my proposition. If this stuff—," he waved toward the fascinating array of black and gold boxes and jars—"is the teeth as good as Peach Bloom claims it is, then I can dope out the best domestic advertising campaign that ever hit this old town in the eye. With you," he concluded triumphantly, pointing a forefinger at her with dramatic suddenness.

Airplane Fan is Grollman's Choice

Every man expresses his hobby in some way.

A novel fan which ventilates the Grollman department store proves the theme occupying the attention of its owner, C. H. Grollman. The ventilator is built in the shape of an airplane.

some appearance, the fan has a ship-type propeller on a streamline body. The Fan-O-Plane, as it is called, is finished in a rich cream color. The propeller is made of die cast polished aluminum, and the motor is specially designed for cooling purposes.

W. L. Barnes is local agent for the machine.

Work Begun Upon Big Spring Plant

BIG SPRING, July 25.—The Winn Produce company is laying brick on their cold storage plant at the corner of east First and Goliad streets. This plant will be modern throughout and carry a capacity sufficiently large to house several car loads of fresh vegetables at a time. In addition there will be a cold storage department used for dressed meats, poultry, pork and beef. A poultry dressing plant will be encouraged and will likely be operated in conjunction with the cold storage plant.

BREWSTER TAX RATE IS CUT BY FIVE CENTS

ALPINE, July 25.—A reduction of five cents on the $100 valuation was ordered by the Brewster County Commissioners' court, at their last regular term of court. This makes the total county tax for a year 1927, 90c instead of 95c, heretofore. A franchise was granted to L. W. Carter for a telephone exchange in Marathon. Judge J. A. Burke presided, and other members of the court present were: C. Bourland, Clarence Ford, W. Burham and J. A. Anderson.

"David Belasco's advice impressed me"

Walter J. Leather is telling Joyce Todd as they start for an all-day motor jaunt through the Berkshires.

David Belasco, dean of the American Theatre, writes:

"The voice is to the actor what the chisel is to the sculptor. He must beware of dulling its qualities. Naturally I am vitally concerned about the voices of my players, so I always advise the one cigarette that I discovered many years ago that does not impair control of the subtlest vocal shadings or cause huskiness or harshness. I mean the 'Lucky Strike.' It is the player's best friend."

David Belasco

You, too, will find that Lucky Strikes are mild and mellow—the finest cigarettes you ever smoked, made of the finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, properly aged and blended with great skill, and there is an extra process—"It's toasted"—no harshness, not a bit of bite.

"It's toasted"
