U. S. Subs Get Seven More Japanese Ships

Destroyer Also Damaged; Nips On Kiska Battered

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 — New aerial blows against Japanese installations in the Aleutians and in the Solomons were reported by the Navy today along with the recent sinking by American submarines of seven merchant-type Japanese ships.

The underwater craft also damaged an enemy destroyer, raising to 163 the number of Japanese ships of all types sunk, probably sunk or damaged by American submarines. Of these 112 are listed as sunk, 22 probably sunk and 29 damaged.

The Army's Aleutian islands airforce, grimly determined to eliminate the newest Japanese menace at Kiska, returned in force to that enemy base on new year's day, shot down one of six Zero fighters which attempted to intercept and scored at least a near hit on one small ship in the harbor.

No U. S. Planes Lost

"Clouds prevented complete observation of results," a Navy communique said today. "No U. S. planes were lost."

This action was paralleled by heavy American air raids the first day of 1943 in the Solomons area of the South Pacific where bombings were concentrated on breaking up Japanese resistance on Guadalcanal island and preventing use of the Munda air base on New Georgia island.

On Guadalcanal, Douglas Dauntless divebombers dropped their screaming cargoes of explosives in the vicinity of Kokumono, about seven miles west of Guadalcanal airfield, where Japanese headquarters for the island is believed to be located. The section is heavily overgrown with jungle and no observation could be made of exact results.

Munda Base Hit

Meanwhile the Solomons command threw a formidable force of planes against Japan's Munda base but "results of the raid were not reported," the communique said. The attack was made by Marauder medium bombers escorted by Airacobra, Lightning and Warhawk fighters. The Airacobra and Lightning types previously had been in action in the Solomons but this was the first official mention of the use of the Warhawk in that area.

"All U. S. planes returned undamaged," the Navy said.

Buna Is Cleared Of Japs

BULLETIN!

(By The Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 3—The Allies have won the battle of Buna, clearing that New Guinea area of all Jap troops, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced triumphantly in a special communique today.

This victory had been presaged by the announcement in the regular communique at noon that the Jap forces which had held out so tenaciously had been cleared out of all but one sector, that near the Buna government station.

By C. YATES McDANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Sunday, Jan. 3.—The Allies' New Guinea ground forces broke the back of long, tough Japanese resistance on the right of the line at Buna yesterday. In a general assault, they smashed organized defenses in two of the three sectors into which the enemy had been split by wedges driven last week.

Airmen Pound Lae

While these ground troops moved in for the kill, Allied airmen pounded the airdrome at Lae, above Buna to the northwest, in a series of heavy attacks, dispersal bays and hangars. With American P-38's and Australian Beaufighters supplying a covering air screen A-20's followed in a low level sweep over the the enemy's field. When the attack was over, fires were burning all around the airdrome.

Giving details of the air raid on Rabaul, New Britain, Jan. 1, a spokesman said Flying Fortresses dropped 500 pounders and

Burns Fatal To Manager Of Gin

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

LITTLEFIELD, Jan. 2.—H. W. (Jack) Hamilton, 47, gin manager at Steagall and widely-known West Texas gin man, died at 6 o'clock this afternoon in Payne-Shotwell hospital at Littlefield of burns received at 5:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Hamilton was cleaning the lint flue at the Steagall gin and struck a match by which to see and was fatally burned when the cotton became ignited.

Negro Badly Burned

Melvin Williams, a negro, also was burned critically and was in Payne-Shotwell hospital tonight. No damage was done to the gin.

Hamilton is survived by his widow; five sons, Horace of Oklahoma City, formerly of Lubbock; Nelson of Houston, and Bill, Wayne and Bobby, all of Steagall; one daughter, Mrs. George Johnson of Hot Springs, Ark.; three sisters, Mrs. W. L. Buckley of Jayton, Mrs. G. S. Moore of Port Arthur, Mrs N. Grady of Como; one brother, C. A. Hamilton, of Brady

Leonard Out Of Speaker's Race

Action Taken "In Interest Of Unity"

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 2 — Rep. Homer Leonard of McAllen today announced that "in the interest of harmony" he has withdrawn from the race for speakership of the House in the forty-eighth legislature, thus leaving the field clear for Rep. Price Daniel of Liberty.

"In these times when we must devote our every effort to the prosecution of the war, unity of purpose becomes of paramount importance. In Texas this means the presenting of a united front by the governor and the legislature," said Leonard in the formal announcement of withdrawal.

Several Conferences

"I have had two conversations with the governor this week and have talked with a number of my supporters. We have come to the conclusion that in the interest of harmony it is best that I withdraw from the speaker's race."

Leonard and Daniel have been slugging it out toe-to-toe for months in a pre-session round-up of votes and vote promises.

Daniel in October agreed to withdraw from the race if a canvass of the votes pledged to both candidates showed he did not have a majority. His supporters claimed recently that on the basis of 100 "first choice" and 32 "second choice" pledges, Daniel would receive a substantial majority when the issue came before the House as the first order of business.

Daniel and Leonard were battling for the key House post for the second time. In 1940, the Liberty representative announced his withdrawal from the race at the state Democratic convention in Mineral Wells, to make the choice unanimous, when it was determined that Leonard had a majority of the pledges.

Expects Harmony

Daniel, informed of Leonard's withdrawal, said that he expected a harmonious session, and added: "I am gratified that 32 of Mr. Leonard's supporters had indicated that I was their second choice, giving me 132 pledges. I will contact the remaining 18 members and if they are willing to make it unanimous, I will begin pre-session plans immediately. No committee appointments will be considered until after the House has acted on the speakership."

Leonard came into the House ten years ago, serving with the 42nd legislature. Daniel's first term was with the 46th. He is 32, is married and has two children.

Daniel is a former president of the Young Democrats of Texas, he was a member of the state Democratic executive committee for four years, and was attorney for the committee.

Hitler Shuffles His Ministers

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 2.—Adolf Hitler has replaced and called home his ambassadors to Japan and Spain and his minister to Sweden in a diplomatic shake-up regarded by informed sources as a reflection of Nazi displeasure over the one-way course of the Axis ally, Japan, and the cool neutrality of Spain and Sweden.

The Berlin radio announcement of the changes said they were made "within the ambit of a general retirement of German diplomatic representatives," and that Hitler had acted upon the suggestion of German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.

To Get New Posts

Gen. Eugen Ott, ambassador to Tokyo, Prince Viktor Zu Wied, minister to Stockholm, and Eberhard von Stohrer, ambassador in Madrid, were recalled and "will be given new posts in the German foreign office," the announcement said.

Henrich Georg Stahmer, German ambassador to Japan's puppet Chinese regime at Nanking, is going to Tokyo; Hans Adolf von Moltke will take the Madrid post, and Dr. Hans Thomsen, former charge d'affaires at Washington, will take over the Nazi ministry at Stockholm.

Disappointed In Japs

Informed sources said the mixed characters of the newly appointed representatives gave no clue as to Hitler's motives, but it is no secret that many Germans are disappointed about the failure of Japan to hit Russia in Siberia at a time when Germany is taking heavy punishment from the Soviets in the west.

Stahmer is regarded here as the most sinister of the three new envoys. He was a key figure behind the scenes in the negotiation of the German-Italian-Japanese pact of alliance. It may be the Germans believe he is better suited to try to strengthen ties with an ally which has shown no disposition to actively aid Germany.

Aggie Graduation Is Set For January 22

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 2. (AP)—A total of 642 men will form the class of 1943 which will graduate from Texas A. and M. college on Jan. 22 instead of June 1.

Practically the entire class will report to various branches of service training camps to complete work toward their commissions as second lieutenants.

Woman Is Shot While Riding With Husband

HOUSTON, Jan. 2. (AP) — Mrs. Louisa Ellen Andrews, 28, died early today from a bullet wound suffered while she was riding with her husband, Joe Elton Andrews, 35.

Police Investigator W. R. Waycott said Andrews in a written statement said that while he and his wife were riding, he heard an explosion.

Turning his head, he related he saw his wife slumped over in her seat beside him. A .38 caliber pistol, carried in the car's glove compartment, was in her lap, the statement said.

FUEL RATIONS SLASHED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — Price Administrator Leon Henderson tonight slashed 10 per cent from the fuel oil heating rations in the 17 eastern states and the District of Columbia.

Allied Victory In 1943 Is Forecast

Admiral Halsey In Typical Directness Sees Complete Axis Defeat This Year

By J. NORMAN LODGE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH THE UNITED STATES FLEET IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Jan. 2 — Victory for the United Nations this year is the prediction of Admiral William Halsey, commander of the South Pacific force of the Pacific fleet.

The Admiral made this statement in an interview during which I learned that you don't beat about the bush when talking to him. Direct approach brings direct answers.

I wanted him to gaze into the crystal ball to see what the year 1943 would bring forth so I put the direct question:

Complete Axis Defeat

"Can you give us an idea what the new year holds in store?"

This was his answer:

"Victory for the United Nations. Complete, absolute defeat for the Axis powers. But let's not be stopped this time until we fix things up so they will never be able to rise again."

"This year?"

"Yes."

"Do you include Japan?"

"Yes, sir, and here's a few messages I wish you would send to Japan for me.

"To Hirthito:

Message For Tojo

"To Tojo:

"When you unleashed your cowardly attack on December 7 you started something you can't finish.

"We have good evidence of your atrocities and know where they were perpetrated. They'll be properly repaid.

"To Yamamoto:

"You will be present at the peace if you are still alive. That peace will be in the White House but the White House will not be as you envisaged.

"To the American people:

"Under my command the United Nations in the South Pacific have the finest fighting men our country ever produced. They are imbued with a fighter instinct and it is conceded we will not stop until there is a complete victory.

To The Jap People

"To the Japanese people:

"That heavy rumbling you hear now will gradually grow into a shock of bursting bombs, the

OPA Chief Cites Gigantic Saving

Says Control Over Prices Necessary

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. — Leon Henderson, retiring price administrator, claimed today a saving to the public and government of $31,000,000,000,000 as a result of price controls.

Henderson, who has resigned but not actually left his job yet, said in a statement which appeared to be a reply to critics:

"The question is not whether we like rationing or price control or rent control and all the related disciplines we must impose upon ourselves. The question is, will we continue to make them work?

Confident Of Public

"I believe we will. I have been confident that the majority of citizens understand these problems much better than many who do a lot more talking than the majority."

Recalling how prices rose in America in the first World war, Henderson estimated that his regulations so far had saved family budgets more than $6,000,000,000

Over 112 Billion Is Owed By Uncle Sam

The Treasury's daily statement disclosed this today, showing an increase of $48,208,785,114.57 during the 12 months.

The year was a record breaker for the Treasury in many ways. During 1942 it spent $57,408,220,819.14 and collected $16,402,564,319.56, and had in its till as a working balance on December 31, $9,780,459,706.30—all record year-end figures.

Reds Smash Deeper Into Nazi Defenses

Other Key Cities Taken; Tunisian Front Is Mired

By RICHARD McMURRAY
Associated Press War Editor

VICTORIOUS Russian armies driving deeper into German and fascist positions southwest and south of Stalingrad have captured the railway station of Remontnaya, 117 miles southwest of the ruined Volga city and have taken the important district center of Elkhotovo in the deep caucasus, the Russians announced early today.

Many Cattle Taken

The communique also said the district center of Dubovskoye in the same region, was captured and that a large amount of war material and food and many head of cattle were taken.

Elkhotovo was captured by a Red Army force which swept around the Germans and broke into the center of the city. It fell to the Russians after a day-long battle, the communique announced.

The Russians also indicated that their men were driving forward through the shell-pocked ancient fortress of Velikie Luki and thwarting every German effort to break out of entrapment at Rzhev.

The Germans insisted that Velikie Luki still was theirs despite Russian claims to have slaughtered the Nazi garrison to a man in puncturing the main enemy defense line stretching from the Baltic to the Black sea. Berlin acknowledged the fall of Elisia 170 miles south of Stalingrad saying it was destroyed before the Russians entered.

Reds Win On All Fronts

Further Russian successes were scored on all fronts. Dozens of trenches were reported taken northwest of Stalingrad, and several villages dropped before the Russian avalanche sweeping the desolate Kalmyck steppes below Stalingrad. The Russians aimed at Salsk, an important north Caucasus rail junction 90 miles from the nearest Red vanguards.

The British First Army still was bogged down in the mud of Tunisia but the Eighth Army started moving again toward Tripoli, chasing the Germans from a dry water gully 195 miles short of the Tripolitanian port. The Berlin radio predicted imminent large scale attacks in both Libya and Tunisia.

It was give and take in the Tunisian air. Allied planes set large

Congress Faces Critical Period

New Session To Open Wednesday

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 — The seventy-eighth Congress, facing a cirtical year of this World war, will convene Wednesday with high hopes of seeing victory won and of sharing in the tremendous task of writing a lasting peace before its two-year life span ends.

Behind the political jockeying that appears inevitable because of the closest division in Democratic and Republican membership since 1933, there already has been quiet maneuvering among those of conflicting nationalist and internationalist views for positions of power, particularly on the foreign affairs committees.

TEN KNOTTY PROBLEMS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — Ten major problems will pose knotty issues for the new Congress:

1. Demand for economy amid the need for new war appropriations.
2. The necessity for new taxes and deficit borrowing.
3. Extension of rationing and price controls.
4. Efforts to increase food production and attendant demands for increased farm income.
5. Expansion of manpower controls or attempts to enact universal service legislation.
6. Demands for a statutory 48-hour week in war industries.
7. Continuance of trade agreements authority.
8. Extension of expiring lend-lease authority.
9. Efforts to reorganize war production controls.
10. Proposals to reclaim some of the powers delegated to the executive and to curb the activities of executive agencies.

GOP Influence Awaited

There they can hope to influence the executive in his peace treaty negotiations and, in the case of senators, play a part in the acceptance or rejection of final peace terms.

Immediate attention centers, however, on the battle of the numerically-strongest Republican minority in 10 years to bring about a new independence of Congress from the executive. This may have far-reaching effect on major issues.

In helping fight the war, Congress' first job will be to provide the appropriations to keep the United Nations' world-encompassing battle lines supplied with weapons, materials and men.

Trend Is To Economy

Congress already has appropriated $220,000,000,000 for the war, a major portion of which is committed but unspent. If administration expenditure estimates of $90,000,000,000 yearly for military purposes are correct, it will have to provide much more for long-range commitments.

The economy bloc is resurgent, however, and more critical attention is sure to be given to how the money is being spent by government agencies swollen with wartime personnel. President Roosevelt already has assigned to Congress the task of deciding where to make cuts in non-war activities.

Along with the new appropriations apparently must come additional taxes. Congress may write its own tax law and delve into new proposals for government financing, possibly through some form of compulsory savings.

Taxation always is a painful

Coffee drinkers were reminded by district OPA officials Saturday that stamp 27 in war ration book one will not be valid after midnight tonight. The next stamp, number 28, will be good for one pound of coffee for five weeks, beginning at 12:01 o'clock Monday morning and ending Feb. 7.

Three Die, 16 Escape In Crash Of Bomber

GRANITE CITY, Ill., Jan. 2 (AP) Three men were killed today in the crash of a B-24 Army bomber, but 16 others parachuted to safety before the airplane smashed nosedown and burst into flames in a field six miles east of Granite City, Scott Field (Ill.) authorities announced tonight.

Two of the men were killed in a parachute fall to earth and the body of the third man was found in the flaming wreckage. They were not positively identified.

Four officers were injured slightly when they parachuted to earth. They were: Second Lieut. J. S. Preuss, Clastonbury, Conn., copilot; First Lieut. J. B. Kendall; Second Lieut. F. J. Washburn and Second Lieut. V. C. Miller.

Lieut. C. K. Jaffe of the Scott Field public relations office, said the bomber left its home base, Alamogordo, N. M., early today on a routine training flight. It was headed for Topeka, Kas., but because of inclement weather turned toward Scott Field.

Green Outlines Labor's Goals

Congress Warned On 'Compulsion'

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. — The American Federation of Labor announced today its legislative goals for 1943 with a confident expression that the new congress would reject demands for "compulsory or punitive labor enactments.

"Frankly," said President William Green in a statement, "I anticipate that legislation of this kind will be introduced during this session of Congress. I need not warn the members of Congress that such proposals are dangerous and harmful and unnecessary. Their good judgment will repudiate the unwisdom of forcing men and women to do that which they are willing to do of their own free will."

Against Job Freezing

Green classified as undesirable bills which would prematurely permit national job-freezing or would repeal the wage and hour law and said anti-strike legislation would be "foolhardy."

The federation, Green said, would support further rationing and price controls, taxes levied in accordance with ability to pay, broadening of the social security program, continuance of the war labor board as the controlling agency in wage stabilization, repeal of the poll tax, wartime pay adjustments for all civil employes, and a post-war reconstruction program.

The program did not include any reference to the national labor relations act, the administration of which some AFL leaders have severely criticized.

Green said the program was the expression of 6,000,000 American workers and their families and had one basic purpose—"that everything possible must be done to promote the nation's war effort.

Set Production Goal

Here are some of the points the program set forth:

Manpower mobilization—"proposals are being advanced for enactment of national service legislation involving nationwide, compulsory job-freezing. Such complete mobilization of industrial manpower and womanpower may ultimately be necessary to win the war. Therefore, we will cooperate

Two Cadets Die In LAFS Crash

Two cadets of Lubbock Army Flying school died in the crash of their twin-engine training plane about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon southwest of the field, it was announced last night by public relations officials.

They were named as Joseph C. Smith, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Smith of Gorgas Lane, Philadelphia, Pa., and Marvin E. Sutton, whose wife, Mrs. Lettie Maye Sutton, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sutton, reside in El Paso.

Both were members of class 43-B.

The bodies were at Rix Funeral home, and were to be sent to their respective homes as soon as information was received from relatives, authorities said.

Texan's Attempt To Aid Pilot Is Fatal

STOCKTON, Cal., Jan. 2 (U.P.)—Lt. Edwin P. Arneson, San Antonio, Tex., was killed yesterday when he attempted to land his fighter plane to aid another pilot who made a forced landing, Stockton Army Air base officials announced today.

Arneson's plane overturned and burned in a muddy field 11 miles west of here after he apparently tried to land near Lt. O. P. Carter, 24, Lansing, Mich., who made a successful forced landing on Borden highway when his fighter plane developed motor trouble on a flight from San Diego.

Soldier Dies After Fall From Train

BROWNWOOD, Jan. 2 (U.P.) — Camp Bowie authorities today announced that Sergt. George P. Kusobac, 49, died after falling off a train yesterday near Temple.

He was en route as a patient of the Camp Bowie station hospital to the McCloskey general hospital at Temple.

Spur Man Holds Lead In Legislative Race

SNYDER, Jan. 2 (Special) — Albert Power, Spur farmer, tonight was an almost certain winner of the 118th legislative district race, on the basis of incomplete returns from all of the six counties of the district.

Power had polled 802 votes, against 372 for Joe A. Merritt, Snyder, second man in the race. Pete Brady of Snyder had 227, and T. J. Teter, also of Snyder 211.

The election was to fill the unexpired term of A. A. (Pat) Bullock, recently elected to the state Senate post vacated by Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith of Throckmorton.

Counties of the district are Kent, Borden, Stonewall, Dickens, Garza and Scurry.

The Weather

WEST TEXAS — Colder with freezing drizzle and snow Panhandle Sunday morning and South Plains by afternoon. Elsewhere continued mild Sunday.

NEW MEXICO — Windy and colder with freezing drizzle northeast portion Sunday morning and entire east portion by Sunday evening. Also windy and somewhat colder northwest portion. Elsewhere continued mild.

THOUGHT FOR WARTIME

"Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment."—By the Apostle Paul in First Corinthians, Chapter 1, Verse 10.

Uncle Sam Couldn't Believe Such Treachery Possible

American White Book Discloses Warning From Grew Of Impending Jap Sneak Blow

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 — An American White Book issued by the State department tonight disclosed that Ambassador Joseph C. Grew cabled from Tokyo Jan. 27, 1941 that the Japanese had plans for a "surprise mass attack at Pearl Harbor in case of 'trouble' with the United States."

The Grew cable was one of a series of warnings dating back to 1932 and growing progressively urgent in the subsequent years until on Nov. 29, 1941, Secretary of State Cordell Hull told the British ambassador "the diplomatic part of our relations with Japan was virtually over and the matter will now go to the officials of the Army and Navy."

Moreover, the White Book reported, Hull said it would be a "serious mistake for our country and other countries interested in the Pacific situation to make plans of resistance without including the possibility that Japan may move suddenly and with every possible element of surprise and spread out over considerable areas and capture certain positions and posts before the peaceful countries interested in the Pacific could have time to confer and formulate plans."

The references to the Grew cablegram and Hull's conversation were contained in the 144-page book entitled "Peace and War—United States Foreign Policy 1931-1941." A foreword to the document said:

"The fateful decade, 1931-1941, began and ended with acts of violence by Japan. It was marked by the ruthless development of a determined policy of world domination on the part of Japan, Germany and Italy."

Accordingly, the book devotes much space to the rise of Italian and German aggression and the counter-measures adopted by this country; but Japan dominates the report. Japan's troops move into Manchuria in the opening pages, Japan's torpedo-planes at Pearl Harbor on December 7, 1941, write the crashing climax.

Voluntary Plan In Bond Sales Asked

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Success of the Treasury war bond selling campaign led Senator Taft (R-Ohio) to declare today that proposals for compulsory savings ought to be abandoned in favor of an intensive drive to boost voluntary purchases of government securities.

Taft, a member of the Senate finance committee who previously had advocated enforced loans to reduce inflationary spending, told reporters he had become "cool" to the idea after canvassing the results of the recently-concluded financing campaign.

Individual Sales Advocated

"From the best figures I can obtain," the Ohio senator said, "it looks as though about $6,500,000,000 in war bonds was sold to individuals and companies outside of commercial banks in a campaign which was hastily organized.

"In one month then, about as much money was obtained for the treasury as could be raised in a year from most of the compulsory savings plans that have been suggested to Congress.

"I think we ought to go on with this sort of thing, organizing it on a house-to-house canvass basis to the point where 90 percent of the bonds will be purchased by individuals. That is the surest kind of protection against inflation."

Would Get Slackers

Taft said he thought that if any compulsory savings legislation was necessary at all, it ought to be the kind which would be incidental to voluntary bond purchases and designed primarily to "mop up the slackers" who otherwise wouldn't invest in the war securities.

"The backbone of government financing plans ought to be voluntary bond sales," he declared.

This view has been taken in the past by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, who opposed congressional suggestions for enforced loan provisions in the revenue bill passed by the last Congress.

December Total Big

Morgenthau announced that the December campaign total would mount to well over $12,000,000,000 when all of the returns are in, of which something around $5,000,000,000 is expected to represent commercial bank investments in the securities. Congressional fiscal leaders have contended that commercial bank purchases are inflationary in character since they boost potential credit reserves, while those of individuals are deflationary.

Taft said he thought Congress ought to get to work at once on new legislation to boost revenues as much as possible to help meet an enlarged budget of war expenditures. This view was reportedly shared in administration quarters, where James F. Byrnes, the economic stabilization director, was described as urging that Congress be given its head to work out increases it thinks best.

Levelland Man Dies Of Injuries In Fall

LEVELLAND, Jan. 2. (Special)—William Avery Dunn died at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon of injuries received Friday morning at 10 o'clock when he fell down the shaft of Lane Grain elevator, it was reported by Plains Funeral home.

Dunn, whose age was not given, is said to have fallen on his head, and his neck was broken.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Dunn of Levelland; four brothers, J. E. Dunn of Wasco, Calif., H. M. Dunn of Gainesville, M. E. Dunn of San Diego, Calif., and Jesse Dunn of Levelland; three sisters, Mrs. Essie Matthews of McAlister, Okla., Mrs. Codella Carter and Miss Louise Dunn, both of Levelland.

Funeral services will be held in the Plains Funeral home chapel in Levelland at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon. Interment will be in Levelland cemetery.

Compulsory Bond Buying Proposed

By JOHN L. CUTTER
Uniter Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—Compulsory purchase of war bonds to draw out idle millions and help prevent inflation in financing the war effort was proposed today by Sen. Elmer Thomas, D., Okla.

Thomas, considered by some of his colleagues as an inflationist for his depression-years demands for $3,000,000,000 in new government money, said further creation of new government credits at this time would be "highly inflationary."

Voluntary Sale Not Enough

He said he believed that compulsory sale of war bonds, plus the five per cent payroll "victory tax" which went into effect yesterday, and new taxes expected to be imposed by the 78th Congress, would go far toward financing the war program and still protect the nation's financial integrity.

Thomas said the voluntary sale of bonds, which reached the Treasury department goal of $1,000,000,000 a month only once—the month after the attack on Pearl Harbor—and collection of taxes is not enough to finance the war.

"As a result we now are having to create unprecedented amounts of new credit money to supplement this income," Thomas continued. "That is highly inflationary. Appeals to buy more bonds won't work. What we need is a forced sale."

Favors Investment Savings

Thomas said compulsory savings should be imposed upon income from investments as well as through payroll deductions. And, he said, there should be some restrictions against redemption of the bonds for the duration of the war.

Treasury sources have objected to any compulsory bond sales or restrictions on redeeming bonds and backed up their arguments with statistics showing that even in the series E issue (small bonds purchased through voluntary payroll deductions) redemptions have been only three per cent.

Thomas predicted that such a plan would be attacked on the grounds that it constituted confiscation.

"But," he added, "it's not any more confiscation than the so-called victory tax, only part of which is earmarked for return to the investor.

"It's not a case of desirability. It's a case of necessity. The government needs the money to finance the war. It would be much better to enforce savings through war bonds now than to continue government borrowing which is in itself highly inflationary."

Wants To Recondition Cotton Held 22 Years

TERRELL, Jan. 2 (AP)—A Van Zandt county farmer applied to Worth Moore, superintendent of a local compress, this week for the "reconditioning" of three bales of cotton which the farmer said he had been holding for 22 years.

"I was waiting to get 50 cents a pound for it," the farmer explained.

The best offer he ever got was 42 cents per pound.

Petroleum Shipments Tend Toward Decline

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Robert E. Allen, acting deputy petroleum administrator, said today that tank car shipments of oil and other petroleum products to the East resumed a declining trend in the week ended December 26.

He noted that "conversions of both industrial and domestic oil fired equipment to the use of coal showed continued progress" both in the east and middle west.

Tresspassers, Beware! Highly Trained Army Dogs Take Up Guard Duty At Flying School

This possibly marks the first such use of these highly trained animals in this entire area, which includes several southwest and midwest states.

Trespassers Beware

"A 'number' of dogs will be stationed at SPAFS to operate on the post at night in conjunction with the interior guard. My advice is to let trespassers beware," Lieut. David A. Morse, provost marshal at SPAFS, said Saturday afternoon in announcing the plan.

Two men have been selected from the guard squadron at SPAFS to take special training at the Army's Dog Reception and Training center at Fort Robinson, Neb. The men, Cpl. Raymond J. Wojuich of Maniford, Penn., and Pfc. John P. Rosseter of Omaha, Neb., will train with the dogs for awhile and will have charge of the animals upon their return at SPAFS.

Dogs Widely Used

Use of dogs as guards has become one of the integral units of watch duty at military installations and in combat zones of the United Nations. Numerous stories of how these dogs, most of them contributed through the "Dogs for Defense" program, have saved men and valuable military objectives, not only in this nation but on foreign duty, have been printed.

These animals are capable of standing guard indefinitely. They are trained to sound the alarm in case of unauthorized visitors or anything else out of order, including fires and unusual noises.

If their warnings are not heeded by the visitor he must take the chance of suffering the consequences. The Army trains its dogs to protect its posts anytime, anywhere and in any kind of weather. And they do so, sometimes at the cost of their own and the intruders' lives.

Call Issued For Dogs

At the same time this plan was announced Col. Norman B. Olsen, commanding officer, urged persons of this section who have dogs which might serve in the "Dogs for Defense" program to make inquiries. Only Collies, German Shepherds, Doberman Pinschers and English sheep dogs between 1 and 5 years old will be taken, to be given back after honorable service during wartime. Anyone interested should contact Read and Bondurant, 121 Avenue J, in Lubbock, or A. R. Granberg, postoffice box 1522 in Amarillo.

Loudspeaker Being Sought By Woman

AUSTIN, Jan. 2. (U.P.)—Mrs. R. Hearon has asked state police to recover her loud-speaker equipment that has been used in numerous political campaigns in Texas.

In fact, the equipment has "Mann's the man" still visible on some parts though it has been painted over with the names of other candidates.

Mrs. Hearon said she rented it last Nov. 27 to a man who represented himself as superintendent of schools in a small Texas city telling her he wanted to use it in a war bond sales drive.

Employment Unit Probe Is Asked

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—A coalition of House and Senate members investigating the war program has assured Manpower Chairman Paul V. McNutt of cooperation in the new Congress providing he conducts a shakeup of the U. S. Employment service to remove "incompetent personnel," it was learned today.

The group, composed of members of the House defense migration committee and Senate labor subcommittee on manpower, made it clear that the gesture does not imply a cessation of efforts to set up an overall office of war mobilization.

To Re-Present Bill

Rep. John H. Tolan (D-Calif), chairman of the defense migration committee, said he will submit a new omnibus bill covering top recommendations of his group early in the 78th Congress. A similar measure submitted to the last Congress died in the House military affairs committee.

When Congress convenes Jan. 6, the Tolan committee hopes to have completed its final report on defense migration, a document calculated to add weight to the congressman's legislative proposal and show how the existing manpower organization could fit into a blanket administration of war agencies.

On this basis, the coalition is ready to cooperate with the Manpower commission under the new alignment of agencies set up by President Roosevelt's executive order.

In several conferences between McNutt and members of the coalition, emphasis was placed on the need for an exhaustive shakeup in the employment service personnel, it was learned.

The legislators are said to have argued it would be impossible for them to get the War Manpower commission adequate appropriations unless the reorganization is made immediately.

Beauty Given Hearty Home Town Welcome

HALE CENTER, Jan. 2. (Special)—More than 600 persons, many of them school children and former schoolmates, met the bus here Friday to give "Miss America of 1942" a surprise welcome.

Miss Jo Carroll Dennison, Hale Center high school graduate and former home-town girl, returned from an extended trip through the East for a visit with her mother and grandmother. She won the beauty title in Atlantic City. She is en route to Hollywood to begin a movie career, and will leave Monday.

Public schools were dismissed and most of the townspeople came to welcome her at the bus station, after first gathering at the Santa Fe depot to learn Miss Dennison had missed her train connections in Lubbock and would be delayed until afternoon.

Monday morning the No. 1 beauty queen for the duration will speak before an assembly of students from all of the Hale Center schools in the auditorium of the grade school building. Her message to the youth of the town will be one of gratitude and of good cheer, she said.

Little Value Seen In Rule On Bread

By GERALDINE WATSON
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

The reaction of Lubbock bakery operators to the unsliced bread regulations which go into effect Jan. 18 seems to be one of philosophical resignation to "one of those things"—an expression used by two of them—that they do not pretend to understand.

They surmise that "it is a good thing because the National Bakers Association recommended it," and because numerous suggestions from representatives of the baking industry were used.

They say some of the new regulations effective at the same time should be beneficial. The ban on sliced bread has some minor good points. But these, in the opinion of local bakers, are offset by the objections.

Other Restrictions Provided

The order, called food distribution order No. 1, in addition to prohibiting the slicing of bread for home consumption, discontinues the consignment selling of bread, places definite restrictions on the number of varieties of bread any baker may make or sell in a given week, provides that all white bread must be enriched to approved nutritive standards, and limits wrappings to one thickness only.

More inconvenience and dissatisfaction will be found in the ban on sliced bread than any other phase of the order since operators find it difficult to see where any substantial saving will result. They are willing to cooperate and give their assistance but wonder "why?" the bread must not be sliced.

They say that it won't save manpower except, perhaps, in very small bakeries and even there, savings are doubtful. It won't speed production. It likely will mean increased bread requirements in the typical home to an increase up to 25 per cent. This will be true because slices of bread will be thicker and home slicing will mean waste that does not occur in the bakery.

May Increase Demand

The standard family loaf of bread as now produced consists of 20 slices. The average family-sliced loaf will be good for about 15 slices. Since a slice of bread is a slice of bread to most people, it will mean that most families will require more bread. Home methods of slicing, too, will mean considerable wastes that most people cannot or will not salvage.

Another inconvenience will result from the difficulty in getting bread knives for cutting. The supply of knives in Lubbock is practically non-existent and very few hardware dealers expect new consignments since materials used are now going into the production of weapons. Two local dealers had two knives each, others were completely out, and only two had any expectation of receiving new shipments.

Brides of the last few years probably do not possess a bread knife of any kind since there has been no necessity for one in the average well-equipped kitchen. Housewives who have been married for a number of years will be able to find a knife in the back of a pantry drawer but chances are that it will be dull. The "old man" with portable equipment for sharpening knives which he carried from door to door is likely to become a part of the American scene again and will be welcomed at every "back door."

Saving Is Small

In nearly all bakeries, the only exceptions being the very small, the machine that does the slicing also does the wrapping. This machine is fed by hand and will continue in use. But before it can conform to the new regulations, it will be necessary to adjust it so that it won't slice. The adjustment is a simple one, bakers report, and will mean a minor savings of the sharpening and replacement of the slicing knives. But exactly the same manpower will be required to feed the bread for wrapping as is now used for both slicing and wrapping. Since most of these machines have set outputs of between 1,500 and 2,500 loaves per hour, the speed will not be increased.

In the very large bakeries, bread production is a continuous process requiring no manual handling at any stage. Manpower in these bakeries will be wasted at the outset of the new rules because someone of skill will have to make the adjustment necessary to keep the machinery from turning out sliced bread.

Accidents May Increase

Pointed out, too, is the certainty that the increased handling of cutlery will mean more home accidents which, in most instances, will be trivial. However, the proportion of serious infections will increase and valuable manhours in war industry may be lost.

Many of the operators expressed themselves as believing that prohibiting the sale of sliced bread to absorb an increase in the price of bread would not eliminate pressure on higher retail ceiling prices. The consensus was that any saving achieved would be negated by the steady increase in the price of edible fats and other products used in bread making.

Two of the regulations which seem to meet wide approval among bakery operators are those which will place limitations upon the number of varities of bread and rolls that may be made and sold by a baker within any single week, and the discontinuance of consignment selling.

Pick-Ups Discontinued

They like the contingency ban best of all. The system now employed almost universally in the industry is for the baker to pick up unsold bread from retailers at stated intervals. He doesn't know where he stands in the matter of sales until after his pick-ups. This is a system which has forced him to deliver unnecessarily large quantities because retail outputs, as a whole, have insisted that they be given abundant supplies. This frequently has meant that the bakery has had large quantities of bread at the end of the day. Some of this is sold as stale bread while most of it is sold for hog food.

Under the new regulations, when the baker delivers the bread to the retail outlet, it is sold. It is the retailers' problem if it remains unsold. This obviously will mean that retailers will stock more carefully and in more limited quantities. It will mean, too, that the purchaser will find selections limited and, not infrequently, empty bread shelves. The elimination of consignment selling is expected to save approximately 4,500,000 pounds of shortening, 5,500,000 pounds of dried milk and 6,000,000 pounds of sugar yearly.

Frills Cut Out

Most bakers are pleased with the ban on fancy twisting and cross-panning of bread since these require special skill and must be done by hand. The variety restrictions are not standardized throughout the country and no restrictions have been placed on yeast-raised sweet rolls, cakes, pies, biscuits and crackers.

One significant feature of the order is that it provides for the enrichment of all white bread so that essential vitamins and minerals, removed in the milling process, are restored to the bread. This will have little effect on most bakeries who have been doing this for some time in cooperation with the wartime food program for maintenance and strengthening of nutrition standards in this nation.

Still a little puzzled and wondering what is "behind" the order, Lubbock baker operators are nevertheless preparing to conform to the letter in following the new regulations, even though they are unconvinced on some points.

Ship Is Named For Pearl Harbor Hero

HOUSTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — The destroyer escort USS J. Richard Ward, which will be launched at the Brown shipbuilding company yards here on January 6 is named in honor of an Ohio seaman who sacrificed his life at Pearl Harbor in order that members of a turret crew on the USS Oklahoma could escape.

The vessel will be christened in honor of James Richard Ward, seaman first class, who was born in Springfield, Ohio, on September 10, 1921. He enlisted in the Navy on November 25, 1940, at Cincinnati.

He was awarded the medal of honor (posthumously) by the President of the United States.

Sponsor of the vessel will be Miss Marjorie Ward, sister of the deceased sailor. Present at the ceremonies will be Captain Mike Moran, skipper of the light cruiser USS Boise of Solomon islands fame.

Adjustment Of Milk Prices To Be Asked

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP) — C. W. Nichols will leave tomorrow for Washington, where he will next week present to Office of Price administration and Department of Agriculture officials proposals for an immediate adjustment of milk prices in six southwestern states.

Nichols, in announcing his plan to go to the capital, said the proposals resulted from a study of milk prices and distribution.

The proposals, Nichols declared, would lower the prices in some communities and raise them in others, for the purpose of leveling out milk prices throughout the region and assuring a more equitable distribution.

The states involved are Texas, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas and Missouri.

'C' Cars Found At Grid Game

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Jan. 2—State OPA investigators found 582 automobiles bearing "C" ration stickers and 495 bearing no stickers at all, parked on the State Fair grounds during Friday's Cotton Bowl game, State OPA Director Mark McGee reported today.

The number included only automobiles registered in counties other than Dallas county, and did not include those parked on nearby streets and in private parking stations.

To Determine Owners

McGee said a check would be made to determine the names, residence, and occupations of the automobiles listed.

The survey was ordered by McGee to determine how many attendants at the football game were abusing their "C" book preferred mileage privilege. McGee said it was obvious that if the "C" book holder came to the game from a distance of more than 45 miles, he had exhausted the 90 miles a month allowed for family driving and was drawing on mileage issued to him for essential occupational driving only.

Must Hew To Line

"In justice to ordinary citizens who were granted only "A" books and who are not complaining at this wartime curtailment of their driving," McGee said, "we intend to see that "C" book holders hew to the line and make proper use of the gasoline they were granted. These drivers represented in their applications that they needed the extra gasoline for public or private business essential to the war effort or to the public health and safety.

"It is entirely within the authority of a county war price and rationing board to revoke the "C" book of a person who violates the regulation by using preferred mileage gasoline for private driving."

C Card Cars Checked At Cotton Bowl Game

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP) — Inspectors from the state Office of Price administration at Fort Worth checked license numbers of automobiles bearing C card stickers at the Cotton Bowl game yesterday, Max McCullough, regional OPA director, disclosed.

He said the investigation had been directed by Mark McGee, state OPA director and added, "naturally, it will be determined who owned the cars." McCullough said he could not say what action would be taken.

"C cards were issued only to persons who declared the privileged mileage was necessary and they are supposed to be used only for the purposes declared in the applications," McCullough asserted. "Certainly driving to a football game is not necessary."

Fish Canneries Burn In Los Angeles Area

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Jan. 2. (AP)—A million dollar-plus fire swept through two fish canneries in the heart of Terminal island early today, but other installations in the restricted military area were saved after a two-hour battle.

The office of the captain of the port said:

"No docks, piers, wharves and no shipping facilities nor vessels were damaged whatever."

Deputy Fire Chief F. H. Rothermel put the damage estimate beyond the million mark, but except to say that he did not believe any sabotage was involved, declined to speculate on cause of the blaze.

Especially damaging, in the midst of a meat shortage, was the loss of thousands of cases of canned sardines valued upward of $150,000. The entire sardine pack had been earmarked for government use.

Naval intelligence and FBI agent joined in an investigation. The plants were in the midst of a ramshackle fishing village which in peacetime housed thousands of Japanese. All were evacuated, however, soon after the war started.

Farm Tool Problems Under Discussion

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — The problem of distributing new farm machinery and repair parts is under discussion between the Agriculture department and the War Production board and is "well under way to solution," WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson today advised Representative Mundt (R-SD).

The original order of the WPB to authorize production of 20 per cent of the 1940 farm machinery output in 1943 "has been accelerated," Nelson said in a letter to Mundt.

"The machinery equipment manufacturing program originally expected to be completed by October 31, 1943, now is headed for completion by June 30," Nelson said.

Electric Co-Op Plans Session

Election of a board of directors, discussion of the past year's business and plans for future cooperation in the war effort will receive attention of the South Plains Electric Cooperative, Inc., when members assemble in their annual meeting Jan. 12, it was announced Saturday by W. O. Perkins, acting superintendent.

He expressed hope that a majority of members attend the meeting. Neighbors can "double up," he said, and drive to the meeting together in order to conserve tires and gasoline.

Reviewing the co-op's progress during the past year, Perkins said 1,646 consumers are receiving service today as compared with 1,538 last year. Lines operated in the Lubbock vicinity total 665 miles.

Perkins stated scores of farmers in the co-op's territory are able to produce more and better food with less labor because they have the aid of electrical devices. Equipment powered by electricity on the co-op's lines were listed as: 74 brooders, 90 pressure pumps, eight milking machines, over 900 refrigerators, 48 mixmasters, 1,253 irons, 11 churns, 39 fence charges, 35 cream separators, two electric floor furnaces, one chicken picker, 12 ranges, and eight water heaters.

More than 99,394 Texas farms have obtained central station electric service since the federal rural electrification program got underway in 1935, according to Perkins. Before the electrification act was passed, only 11,466 Texas farms were receiving central station electric service, he pointed out; at present, approximately 110,860 Texas farms are being served.

Shortage Of Wood Is Grim Threat To Finns

HELSINKI, Jan. 2. (AP)—Premier Jukha Rangell asserted in a New Year's broadcast that Finland is defensively stronger now than ever before.

Finland's worst threat isn't its war enemy, Rangell said, but a shortage of wood. Danger of inflation has been safely passed, he declared, and the military situation "never for a moment has been threatening."

Rangell asserted that Finland's defense lines remain untouched and the army intact. Since the offensive phase of the war has ended the Finns have progressively reinforced their defenses, he said, but added that only after the shortage of raw materials for the wood industries has been overcome could the Finns face the future confidently.

Chinese Boy Qualifies For 'Admiral' Award

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — The Navy said today that a 15-year-old Chinese boy, Thomas Lum, a high school student of Honolulu, Hawaii, had become eligible for an aircraftsman commission as "Admiral" by building 50 model planes for the Navy.

The plane models are used for identification training of the armed forces and civilian airplane spotters. The model building program with a goal of 500,000 planes is being carried on through the school system and several youths have qualified as "Admiral," among them Eugene Cavadimi, Burbank, Calif., and Bob Pearson, Denton, Texas.

Brief Bits Of Local News

Arch S. Underwood, Lubbock cotton man, has been elected to membership on the Texas state committee for the celebration of the president's birthday Jan. 30, it was announced by George Waverley Briggs of Dallas, state vice chairman and director of the fund-raising campaign for the fight against infantile paralysis. A Lubbock county chairman and organization is to be set up soon, and all communities will be asked to join in the project by holding celebrations, Briggs said.

Mrs. H. T. Wilkins of 2314 Fourteenth street, returned to her home Friday after attending funeral services for her father, W. R. Davis, in Denison.

Final rites for Miss Bertha Tew, 17, who died in Coalinga, Calif., last Saturday, were held Saturday afternoon in the chapel of Sanders Funeral home. Interment was in Lubbock Memorial park. Miss Tew, 1942 graduate of Lubbock High school, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. N. Tew, 2202 Ninth street.

A meeting to re-organize a Lubbock unit of the Texas league of Justice has been called for 2 o'clock this afternoon in the 99th district courtroom, according to O. W. Torrence, chairman. Petitions urging the legislature to remove present ceilings on the amounts of money available for old age pensions will be prepared and circulated, Torrence said.

Shell eggs have been removed and fresh pears added to the list of foods available for blue food stamps during January, according to report Saturday by F. J. Riordan, sr., Lubbock area supervisor of the federal food stamp plan. Other available foods are: fresh grapefruit, apples, all fresh vegetables, Irish and sweet potatoes, corn meal, hominy grits, dry beans, and wheat, self-rising and whole wheat flours, including the enriched.

Weekly meeting of Lubbock I. O.O.F lodge No. 609 will be held Monday night at 7:30 o'clock in future instead of Tuesday night, according to announcement Saturday by C. E. Woods, reporter. The initiatory degree will be conferred on Jim Salmon Monday night, he said.

James Hughes, son of Mrs. Lucille L. Hughes, 1611 Avenue M, has enlisted in the photography division of the U. S. Naval reserve; and Robert E. McCarroll, son of Mrs. Lena J. McCarroll, 1409-B Seventeenth street, in aviation. Both young men left last week for San Diego, Calif.

The regular monthly luncheon of the Lubbock Life Underwriters association will be held at noon Monday in Hilton hotel, it was reminded Saturday. A panel discussion of recent tax changes, led by Cecil Schwalbe, will feature the luncheon. The subject will deal particularly with recent changes and modifications in income, inheritance and gift taxes and their bearing on the underwriting profession.

K. N. Clapp of the Anderson-Clayton and Co., cotton brokers, said Saturday he believes Lubbock county will almost break even with the 1941 cotton production of 83,000 bales, and doubts if there will be 90,000 bales, as some have predicted for 1942. Clapp said he estimates that 75 to 80 per cent of all the cotton grown in the immediate area of which Lubbock is the center has gone or will go into the government loan this year.

The Office of Defense transportation has announced that, beginning Jan. 1, fleet operators of commercial motor vehicles transporting passengers will not be required to maintain tire records on each vehicle's certificate of war necessity. Companies must continue to keep tire records for each vehicle for ODT inspection, however.

OPA and ODT both have sounded a warning concerning tire inspection deadlines. ODT reminded truck owners they must have their tires inspected by January 15, and OPA reminded passenger car owners they must have their tires inspected by Jan. 31.

The Southside Bible class will meet Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. W. F. Martin, 115 Thirty-fourth street. The Rev. Jeff D. Welch, pastor of the Central Baptist church, will teach the lesson from the fourth chapter of Romans.

Granville Routh, of Amarillo, field representative for the state veteran's service office, will be at the American Legion home here, 910 Texas avenue, Wednesday and Thursday to interview those who may have claims against the government growing out of service in World war 1.

Warning Issued On 1943 Dog Licenses

Warning that 1943 city dog license fees now are due was given Saturday by W. W. Stafford, city senitation superintendent.

Dogs without new licenses tags will be impounded as fast as they can be caught, he said. Tags may be obtained from the city tax assessor-collector on the first floor of the city hall.

The license fee is $1 for any dog. However, a license will not be issued unless the owner presents a veterinarian's certificate showing that the dog has been vaccinated against rabies.

The usual vaccination fee is $1.50 if the dog is taken to the veterinarian. The fee usually is $2.50, sometimes more, if the veterinarian goes to the dog.

If an unvaccinated dog is placed in the pound, the total cost to the owner is $4.50. Items making up the $4.50 are: $2.50 to the verterinarian for going to the pound to vaccinate the dog; $1 for the city license fee, which won't be issued unless accompanied by the veterinarian's certificate; and $1 for the release from the pound, which won't be issued unless a license receipt and a veterinarian's certificate are presented.

Cotton In Pulp Products Urged

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2—Utilization of cotton in the manufacture of pulp products was proposed today by Chairman Hampton P. Fulmer, (D., S. C.) of the House agriculture committee, to offset the threat of a newsprint shortage.

Fulmer said that at his direction the U. S. Bureau of Standards had tested the feasibility of mixing limited quantities of cotton with wood pulp.

"They found it worked perfectly," he said. He announced he would introduce a bill in the new Congress providing for use of 4,500,000 bales of cotton annually for this purpose.

Other Uses Cited

Cotton content of the mixture, he explained, would run from five to 15 per cent. The resultant product could be used not only in newsprint manufacture, but also for writing paper, rayon and other synthetics.

Admitting that the cost would be "slightly higher," Fulmer said such action was necessary to protect American forests and to maintain the economic balance of the South after the war.

"America, having lost her foreign sources of pulp, has been denuding her own forest reserves during the war. We are rapidly approaching the time when a substitute is not only desirable but extremely necessary," he said.

December Loan Drive Goal Oversubscribed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (AP)—Treasury Secretary Morgenthau announced today that there would be no more special drives for funds to finance the war until early April because the treasury had borrowed an historic total of $12,906,000,000 during December through its victory fund campaign.

The original December goal of $9,000,000,000 was overreached by 43.3 per cent.

The actual total of money brought into the treasury last month was $15,600,000,000, because of $2,700,000,000 received in taxes and other collections.

"There is comfort for all of us in this grand response by the people to the war needs of the treasury," Morgenthau said.

New Oil Reserves Claimed Necessary

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—New oil reserves equal in capacity to the present consumption of petroleum products must be discovered, and developed to meet military and civilian needs, a special House sub-committee investigating the petroleum situation reported today.

The report said present war plans may eventually mean that the military will need 1,000,000 barrels of petroleum a day more than is now being consumed for all purposes.

For War Demands

"In view of the increasing war consumption of petroleum and the fact that war plans must provide for two or three years in advance, it is imperative that additional reserves be discovered to assure that production will meet war demands," the report said.

The report was drawn up by a House interstate and foreign commerce subcommittee under the chairmanship of Rep. Clarence F. Lea, D., Calif. It recommended:

More wildcat oil wells, new and better oil-finding techniques, improvement of present techniques, adjustment of the present cost-price factor which "retards production and tends to discourage discovery and maximum production efforts," greater supply of materials to increase oil production and greater development of public responsibility for conservation of both gasoline and fuel oil.

Price Increase Asked

It called on the government to permit price increases in Petroleum products, charging that present higher production costs without relatively higher prices tends to "discourage discovery and maximum production efforts."

"A fetish should not be made of price ceilings to stand in the way of reasonable adjustments justly due producers," the report added. "This normal incentive to production should not be withdrawn from critically needed war materials."

The report also criticized the government's threat to eliminate depletion allowances from the revenue act, saying the proposal showed a "lack of coordination in high places." It praised petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes, who has "performed his duties with ability, with foresight, realism and a fairness which has made possible a fine degree of cooperation."

Recommendations Made

Warning that "the number of men for our military operations is limited by our supply of oil, our refining capacity and our transportation," the report made these further recommendations: Administration of nationwide gasoline and fuel oil rationing on as "reasonable, simple and equitable basis as practicable" and with all possible recognition of the needs of individuals and localities; completion of the overland petroleum transportation system to the east coast; expenditing of the aviation gasoline and synehetic rubber programs based on petroleum products; encouragement of independent producers; and subjection of the oil industry to the same degree of public protection and the same restraint of unfair practices as other industries.

Social Security Faces Expansion

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. — Immediate expansion of the social security program to cover all workers, increase benefits under the program now in effect, and provide new types of social insurance was urged today by Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the social security board.

Altmeyer, in an article appearing in the board's monthly publication, suggested these three new types of pertection:

"1. Benefits for permanently disabled workers and for their dependents, irrespective of the worker's age and generally similar in amount to old-age benefits.

Benefits For Disabled

"2. Benefits for workers temporarily disabled through illness or injury and for their dependents, payable for a limited number of months and more or less similar in amount to unemployment benefits.

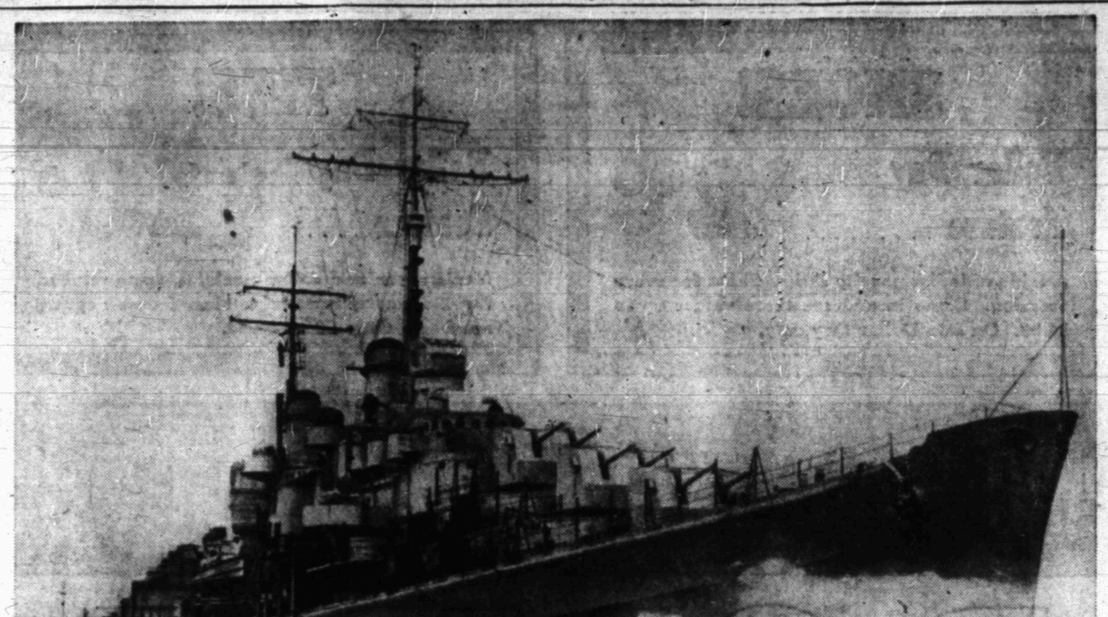

"3. Payments with respect to hospitalization costs incurred by insured workers or dependents."

Altmeyer advocated that social insurance coverage be extended to farm labor, domestic servants, seamen, those working in small firms or working for the government or non-profit organizations, and the person "who is in business or trade for himself."

Tree Debris Cleaned Up At Farm Station

State experiment station workers during the last week turned their attention to pruning trees and clearing away fallen debris caused by the recent ice storm. One employe said upwards of 200 Chinese elms were damaged.

The grain harvest at the farm has been completed, sorghum grains having all been threshed. About 50 bales of cotton, all grown on experiment plots, have been harvested, and only a remnant of the staple remains in the field.

Theft Of $36 From Residence Reported

A total of $36 was taken from three men who reside at 2021 Avenue U sometime Saturday, according to police reports.

A negro suspect was named and a full description was given.

M. T. Taylor was said to have had $10 taken; Leslie Alford lost $12, and $14 was taken from L. C. Armstrong.

Mrs. S. S. Florence of 221 Paris Avenue reported theft of a yellow gold wrist watch valued at $35.

D. C. Harmon, a 30-year-old negro, pleaded guilty at the police station to charges of disturbance and was fined $15.

Marshall Rhea of 1119 Eighteenth street reported theft of a bicycle, license number 1334. A suspect was named.

A father of Springlake reported that his son, age 15, had run away from home with another boy, 14. The first lad was described as being 5 feet 3 inches tall and weighing 110 pounds, while the other was said to be about 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighing 112 pounds.

Duroc Breeders Meet Set For Idalou Monday

IDALOU, Jan. 2. (Special) — Duroc swine breeders throughout West Texas and the western part of Oklahoma and the eastern part of New Mexico will gather here Monday night for an association meeting.

The meeting is to be one of the first to be held by the newly-formed West Texas Duroc Breeders association, which has for its purpose the spreading of good Duroc breeding stock throughout the section.

Plans will be laid for a sale to be held next spring. The association's first auction was held in Lubbock last fall. The meeting will be held in the vocational agriculture room of the public school building here. A number of breeders will attend.

Coleman Cowan, agriculture teacher here, is secretary-treasurer of the association. Directors are Kenneth Bozeman of Lubbock, president; R. D. McDonald, Levelland, vice-president; R. L. Waggoner, Plainview; and T. H. Duval, Roaring Springs.

West Africa was inhabited in prehistoric times.

BETTER MILK PRICES

SLATON — Lubbock wholesale dealers are paying attractive prices for all types of milk, and the farmers who have milk to offer are realizing better prices than they have in years. In order to procure more milk, strict details, including grades, have been lowered, and they now are accepting type 3 milk. Demands of the Army flying schools and for milk for dehydrating plants is causing the unusual shortages and buyers are experiencing difficulty in obtaining enough milk to meet the needs of everyone. This is the explanation given by buyers who are visiting the Slaton area.

Awards Reveal Daring Attack

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (AP) — Details of two daring low-level attacks by Flying Fortresses on Japanese warships were related by the War department today in announcing award of decorations to 38 officers and men for gallantry in the southwest Pacific fighting.

One such operation by eight of these huge planes was carried out Aug. 26 against an enemy convoy in Milne bay, New Guinea. It was disclosed by award of posthumous decorations to the seven-man crew of one which was destroyed by a direct hit.

"Adverse weather conditions forced it (the formation of eight planes) to approach the target from an altitude of 2,000 feet," said the citation to Major Harold N. Willsie of Asher, Okla., commander of the lost Fortress. "Despite a heavy anti-aircraft barrage which was set up by five enemy warships, Major Willsie continued on the bombing run until his plane received a direct hit and burst into flames, causing it to crash into the bay."

Awarded Silver Star

Willsie was awarded the Silver Star.

The citation did not disclose how successful the attack was.

First Lieut. Rogert H. Williams, Air Corps, whose mother, Mrs. G. Williams, lives at Sterling City, Texas, won the Silver Star for gallantry in action over Sourabaya, Java, Feb. 19, 1942.

His citation reads:

"Lieutenant Williams was pilot in a flight of eight P-40 type aircraft that intercepted a flight of nine Japanese bombers near Sourabaya.

"The bombers bunched in a protective formation as the P-40's came in for the attack, but on his first pass Lieutenant Williams shot down one of the enemy. He later returned his plane safely to the home base."

First Lieut. William R. Walker, jr., Air Corps, wounded Darwin, Australia, Feb. 19, 1942, mother, Mrs. Charles Walker, Jacksonville, Texas.

Appointment To Court Bench Is Announced

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2 (AP) — Governor Sam Jones last night announced the appointment of George W. Hardy, jr., of Shreveport to the circuit court of appeal bench, succeeding Justice Joe B. Hamiter who became a member of the state supreme court.

Judge Hardy was born in Corsicana and received his elementary education in the Shreveport public schools.

U.S. Air Losses Light In Africa

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

AN ADVANCED AMERICAN BOMBER BASE IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 2. — Men of the American light bomber squadron, living in tin huts and pup tents on a field attacked almost daily by the Luftwaffe, have hung up the remarkable record of carrying out 41 raids on the Germans in Tunisia with the loss of just one plane crew—and that one is safe.

Led by Major Charles C. Kegelman, of El Reno, Okla., who struck the first American air blow against the Nazis in a raid over Holland on July 4, the first small group of light bombers put their wheels down on the African plain surrounded by mountains.

P-38's Given Credit

The field was empty—no runways, no gasoline, no bombs, no ground crews, no hangars.

"All we had was our tooth brushes," Major Kegelman said.

Today tents dot the plain and mechanics and ground crews swarm over speedy American bombers.

The day after the original landing a few trucks loaded with bombs and gasoline arrived, and the bombers took off on their first mission. Forty-one raids, says Major Kegelman, make this "the most experienced light bomber squadron in the American air force."

"Our record of not losing planes can be attributed to the wonderful support given by American P-38's, and to our speed and the experience that the boys are getting alll of a sudden," said the major, who looks more mature than he did six months ago.

Major Kegelman has three of the four members who made the original flight with him over Holland. The fourth, Sergeant Golay, is back in the United States studying for a commission.

With Major Kegelman are Major Martin P. Crabtree of Decatur, Tex.; and Captain Howard G. Cook of San Antonio, Tex.

The sergeants include Earl McGinnis, Foss, Okla.

License Purchaser Insists On Choice

ST. JOSEPH, Jan. 2. (AP) — Catherine Shea, deputy recorder, received an application for a marriage license today from a 50-year-old groom-to-be. But she turned it down.

"He wanted to leave the space blank where we write in the bride's name," she explained. "He said he had several women he wanted to ask."

Home Canned Food Free From Report

Housewives who have on hand a quantity of fruits and vegetables they canned at home last summer and fall will not be required to "declare" them when they register for food ration book number two, it was announced by the OPA office here.

Nothing packed at home need be declared, and no stamps will be deducted for these home supplies, the announcement said. It is expected that householders will use the home canned goods instead of buying the commercial brands.

Beans Not Included

Dried and dehydrated fruits, such as apples and peaches, will be rationed. Dried and dehydrated vegetables, and dehydrated dogfoods will not be included. Dry vegetables like navy beans, split peas, and lentils are not included.

All canned soups, no matter what their content, will be rationed but not dehydrated soups. It was explained these all are interchangeable. A customer not finding one kind would buy another. If only vegetable soups were rationed, a great demand would spring up for meat and chicken soups, and these, too, might disappear. Because canned meats and fish are not interchangeable with canned vegetables, canned salmon and canned meat are not to be rationed.

Only Number Necessary

The bulletin said householders may report only the total number of cans that her household has on hand when rationing begins, and the exact number of each kind need not be named or numbered. The householder may take along each ration book issued to members of her household, just as she does now in buying sugar or coffee, with ration book number one.

The new book No. 2 will have a large number of stamps with point values, and a sufficient number of these stamps will be removed at the time of registering covering all excess supplies on hand by each family.

No inforation has been given as to the length of time the first ration period will last. It is expected to begin some time in February. Point values will be the same in every store in the land. Public announcements will be made when these point values change.

Retail selling will be closed for a period while stores are allowed to stock up and declare their inventories and post the point values.

Lubbock Negro Sailor Tells Of Sub Attacks

A 17-year-old Lubbock negro was a member of one of the first United States forces to effect landing operations in North Africa.

He is Thomas Perry, mess attendant, second class, who is here on a 30-day leave visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Perry of 2406 East Avenue D.

Seaman Perry landed in Algiers on a merchant vessel. After four days there, his ship embarked for a point that was not to be reached.

Axis sea and air power saw to that. "We were bombed by plane, torpedoed by plane and torpedoed by a submarine," he said. "They hit at us off and on for tbout two days." It was the sub that sent the ship to the bottom.

All the crew was saved except five. Seaman Perry was one of those who swam five miles to the shore. "When you have to, you can do a lot of things you never thought possible," he said, grinning.

The Lubbock boy said he saw no fighting in Algiers. "Everything was under control when I got there."

Seaman Perry received his training at Norfolk, Va. He has been in service for 10 months. He is now awaiting a new assignment and believes that he may be back in the thick of fighting before long.

He is a former student of Dunbar High school. His former scoutmaster, James A. Doss, had this to say: "Thomas was one of our leading scouts and I knew he'd make good."

Cigaret Taxes Set Record In December

AUSTIN, Jan. 2. (U.P) — State Treasurer Jesse James announced today that cigaret stamp tax collections for December were $1,012,138.92, the largest amount ever collected by the state in a single month.

Liquor tax collections were $541,313.36 for the month, a decrease of $62,269.49 under the amount received in December, 1941. Beer tax receipts were $205,994.99, being an increase of $33,324.62 over the same month of 1941.

Other collections for December were: wine, $47,245.22; prescriptions $990; and notes, $13,275.83. Total revenue was $1,820,958.32 or an increase of $131,907.78 above December, 1941, James said.

Houston Inaugurates City Manager Regime

HOUSTON, Jan. 2. b — With the inauguration of Mayor Otis Massey and an entire new eight-man city council, and the appointment of John North Edy as city manager, Houston will say good-by today to the commission form of city government it has had for the last 38 years, and embark on a new course.

It is the second radical government change in this city's 106-year history.

In the charter election of last August, four amendments were adopted by the people, changing to the city manager form of government, which will be inaugurated today.

Grain Alcohol To Be Pushed

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. — The fight of farm state senators to provide a market for farm surpluses in the synthetic rubber program will reopen next week, Sen. Guy M. Gillett (D-Iowa) said today.

Hearings will be resumed Tuesday by a Senate agriculture subcommittee, headed by Gillette, which has been investigating the synthetic rubber program for more than a year. The subcommittee already has concluded that grain alcohol would provide the best base for synthetic rubber.

Survey Planned

Gillette said the committee is going to reopen its activities with a survey of the supply and demand for grain alcohol at the present time.

"After that," he said, "we're asking for a complete progress report on the manufacture of synthetic rubber from oil. We want to find out how far along the oil program has gone and how successful it has been."

McGee To Name New Dallas Ration Board

FORT WORTH, Jan. 2. (AP) — Mark McGee, State OPA director said today he would appoint a new Dallas county war price and rationing board from nominations submitted by the Dallas city-county civilian defense council.

(The original board announced its resignation yesterday because board activities had grown to take so much time members said they could make no provision for personal affairs.

(Dallas defense council officials said today they feared it would be difficult to find qualified men able to volunteer time required by the board's duties.)

SAILOR'S BODY FOUND

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 2. (U.P)—The body of Claude Josiah Kitts, electrician's mate, second class, USN, was found today in Biscayne bay. The Navy said the man had accidentally drowned. His nearest relative was listed as his wife, Mrs. Mrytle Kitts, Dallas.

Gaines, Yoakum Hold Spotlight

Staking, by the Stanolind Oil and Gas company of an 11,000-foot ordovician test in the Cedar Lake Permian pool of northeastern Gaines county, heading of oil by a deep Permian (Clear Fork) discovery well in the northwestern part of the same county, and topping of brown lime, slightly high, by a scheduled 7,500-foot wildcat in northeast central Yoakum county were South Plains highlights Saturday, starting the new year on an optimistic note.

The first deep test for the Card Lake pool, whose wells hitherto have been completed at an average total depth of 4,000 feet, has been staked by Stanolind, discoverer of the pool, as its No. 15 American Warehouse company, 1,650 feet from the south and east lines of Section 5, Block H, D. and W. R. R. Survey.

Plan Early Start

Scheduled to drill to 11,000 feet for a test of possible pays underlying the San Andrews No. 15 American Warehouse, Stanolind will start operations within 15 days after the granting of the permit by the Railroad commission. It is near the center of the pool and is only 477 feet southeast of the firm's No. 10 American Warehouse, the nearest producer. It is believed by some geologists that drilling to 11,000 feet will take the well sufficiently deep to test the ordovician.

With the hole standing full of fluid which swabbing through a 2-inch tubing, the Shell Oil company's No. 1 D. N. Leaverson appeared to have opened a new clear fork. This lower permian pools is four miles southwest of the Wasson field in Northwestern Gaines county, Section 458, Block G. C. C. S. D., and R. G. N. G. survey.

Bottomed at 7,772 feet in dolomite, No. 1 Beaverton was not given a natural production test. It was "washed" with 500 gallons of acid in the open hole below a 5-inch casing set at 7,480 feet, and the spent acid was circulated out. Shell then treated the well under pressure with 2,000 gallons and now is swabbing through tubing. The discovery thus far has recovered 110 barrels of acid residue and oil, part of which is load oil, and part of which is new oil. It headed oil after the fifth run of the swab. The gas volume is negligible, and it may be necessary for Shell to gun perforate the casing to boost the volume sufficiently to make the well flow.

Mallett Producer

Tevis F. Morrow's (Dallas) No. 4 Mallett Land and Cattle company, new producer on the Hockley county side of the Slaughter field, flowed at a daily rate of 489.28 barrels of 32-gravity oil wih a gas-oil ratio of 580.1, after acidizing with 12,000 gallons in pay lime from 4,900 to 4,968 feet, the total depth.

The Barnsdall Pil Company's No. 1 H. D. Heath, northeast central Yoakum county 7,500-foot deep permian project six miles northeast of Plains, is drilling past 4,273 feet in ahydrite and lime. With an elevation of 3,649 feet, is topped brown lime at 4,130 feet. approximately 25 feet higher than the old Gulf States Oil corporation and Hecschbach Drilling company's No. 1 E. A. Graham, San Andrews failure, 2 1-2 miles east and slightly north.

Mexico Pays U. S. On Old Revolution Debt

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (U.P) — The Mexican government today paid to the United States the annual installment of $500,000 on $8,000,000 due this country for personal and property damage during Mexican revolutionary activities some 20 years ago.

Mexican Ambassador Francisco Najera presented the check at the State department. It was the ninth regular payment. Still due is $3,500,000.

New Year's War Messages Given

(By The United Press)

The following leaders gave the following messages on the occasion of the start of a new year:

President Roosevelt: — (at a press conference)—The United Nations have a three fold task ahead at the start of 1943. "First, to press on with the massed forces of free humanity till the present bandit assault upon civilization is completely crushed; second, so to organize the relations among nations that forces of barbarism can never again break loose; third, to cooperate to the end that mankind may enjoy in peace and in freedom the unprecedented blessings which divine providence through the progress of civilization has put within our reach.

King George VI of Britain: (To President Roosevelt)—"I and all my peoples deeply appreciate all that the United States have achieved in the common cause under your inspiring leadership. We feel confident that the recent victories of the United Nations are but forerunners of heavy blows which in the coming year, they will together strike at the enemies of civilization."

Hitler Blames Jews

Adolf Hitler: —(To the German people)—the war was started by international Jewry, "Roosevelt's Jewish brain trust, the Jewish press of America, Jewish broadcasting systems which are nothing else but an equally Jewish frame work of the leadership of the Soviet Union. The day will come when one of the contending parties in this struggle will collapse. That it will not be Germany, we know."

Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, leader of the French in north Affica: — (to French troops) —"In this fight, all France has eyes turned on us. Let us never forget that millions of prisoners in Germany and France are awaiting salvation from us. As I already have said to you, we are inspired by only one aim—France and her empire. We have only one watch word—victory."

Gen. Serge Ingr. Czech minister of defense:—(In broadcast to Czech people)—"Germany's military defeat is sealed. It now is only a matter of time. Germany has lost her offensive war and is now on the defense."

Danger Is Seen In Allied 'Jockeying'

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
United Press Foreign Editor

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Some of the ablest diplomats here are convinced that unless President Roosevelt takes the lead to make the United Nations pull together instead of contrariwise as some are now doing, our chances for ultimate victory will be jeopardized.

All the planning for the future, the president declared in his New Year's day statement, is dependent on victory. Yet certain factions within the United Nations are so busy playing for position after the war that they are endangering the victory without which all our plans will be meaningless.

Pleasing To Hitler

What is going on in North Africa is only a single case in point. London and Moscow are backing Gen. Charles De Gaulle for high commissioner or ranking French official there. Washington is backing Gen. Henri Honore Giraud. As a result, a fog of uncertainty hangs over French north and west Africa, affording a perfect setting for political conspiracies, assassinations and maybe worse.

Radio Berlin chortles that "the persistence of these differences is very encouraging" to Hitler. And small wonder. North Africa has become one of the decisive battlefields of this war, yet the hands of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, American commander in chief there, are partly tied by a political situation which, in times like these, has no right to exist. His very life may be in danger—and I am not thinking of the usual and to-be-expected risks of war. The Berlin foreign office is quoted as saying it would not be astonished if other murders followed that of Admiral Darlan. A dozen arrests have been made by General Giraud, the admiral's successor, because of a plot to kill him, U. S. Minister Robert D. Murphy, and other Allied leaders in that area.

Assassination Mystery

Behind all this is clearly something sinister — something that must be found and rooted out if the Allied cause is to thrive. Admiral Darlan was shot on Christmas Eve The murderer was executed 48 hours later. Yet the public has been told almost nothing about him. Not even his name. His motive, background, associates —everything remains a deep secret.

The arrests ordered by General Giraud may or may not provide a clue to the mystery. He has only spoken crytically, but what he said indicates that those implicated were part of a conspiracy; that they knew Darlan was to be killed but said nothing, hence were accessories before the fact if nothing more. Darlan's killer, therefore, does not appear to have acted entirely alone, reports to the contrary notwithstanding. He seems to have been one of many birds of a feather if not actual confederates. Nor was he a mere crank, as General Giraud admitted, much as he "would prefer to have it so."

Unrest May Spread

Unless checked without delay, the dangerous unrest of which all this is symptomatic is almost certain to spread not only in Africa but throughout Europe, where—as in Yugoslavia—a similar tide is already threatening to cut the ground from under the American expeditionary force before it gets fairly started.

The United States is raising millions of soldiers to help save Europe, Asia and Africa from a scourge which, if victorious, might spread to the Americas. It is spending tens of billions of dollars, going head over heels in debt, rationing food and making other sacrifices to help its Allies. There is a growing impatience here, therefore, over the tendency of certain European factions to use our contributions as chips in a particularly nasty game of politics.

Much Depends On Tunis

Unless Tunis is taken by the Allies in the next few weeks, it may hurt the United Nations as badly as Hitler's failure to take Stalingrad hurt the Axis. Yet General Eisenhower can not devote his entire attention to his job of fighting if he is to be continually sniped at from the flanks and rear as at present. If Washington, London, Moscow and the French can not now agree on a French solution, the United Nations should proceed to hold the entire French empire in trust pending a decision by the free electors of a liberated France. Too much is at stake to permit political bickering to hold up, if not imperil, the war effort.

Messrs. Churchill, Stalin and Roosevelt will amost completely be forced to act soon, or else stand by and watch a bunch of warring politicos play straight into the hands of Hitler.

SPAFS Orchestra To Air Program Tuesday

The dance orchestra at South Plains Army Flying school will be featured over the regular weekly broadcast at the post at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

Two numbers to be played by the group, under direction of Sgt. Felix Walker of 2348 Nineteenth street, include "I'm Thrilled" and "Military Ball."

Also sharing a portion of the spotlight will be Pfc. Cornelius Schettler playing a medley of three songs on his violin. Both the orchestra and SPAFS band, under direction of Warrant Officer Harry Dunham, were highly praised by Col. Norman B. Olsen, commanding officer, after their first major concert at the post this past week.

Oil Production Increase Urged

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 1 — Reporting on its two-year investigation of the petroleum industry, a House interstate commerce subcommittee today recommended encouragement of increased production, higher ceiling prices, greater incentives for discovering new sources, conservation of existing supplies through rationing, and public cooperation in curtailing the use of fuel.

From the long-time viewpoint, the committee said, "we appear to be approaching a time of greater scarcity, higher prices, and, eventually, the use of substitute materials. The prudent use of our oil supplies, the conservation of our reserves, and the prevention of waste will all serve the interest of the public in the future."

Legislation Suggested

It suggested that "permissive federal legislation might well be considered to provide a plan under which, with concurrence of a substantial majority of the interested owners, they might have the means, through their own organization, or requiring equitable compliance with a cooperative plan for the conservation and equitable production of oil from such holdings." It urged "proper encouragement" for independent producers.

Commending petroleum administrator Ickes for having "ably discharged his duties in the past," the committee said it believed he would "make a still greater contribution in the solution of the problems involved" with his increased authority.

The committee commended the petroleum industry and the railroads for efforts to replace tankers to transport petroleum, especially to the east coast. Through the use of railroad tank cars, trucks, pipe lines and barges, it said, overland shipments to the east coast have reached a rate of more than 1,000,000 barrels daily, or only 400,000 barrels short of normal tanker transportation.

Important Rationing Dates Are Listed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (AP)—The Office of Price administration today listed important rationing dates as follows:

Coffee: Jan. 3.—Last day for using coupon No. 27 in war ration book 1 for purchase of coffee. Coupon No. 28 becomes valid Jan. 4. It will be good for one pound of coffee and valid until Feb. 8.

Sugar: Jan. 5.—Last day on which institutional and industrial sugar users may register at ration boards for January and February allotments.

Jan. 31.—Coupon No. 10 in war ratio book 1 is good for three pounds of sugar through this date.

Mileage, gasoline and tires: Jan. 21.—Last day for using No. 3 coupons in "A" books. No. 4 coupons become valid Jan. 22.

Jan. 31.—Last day for temporary "T" coupons to be issued directly by ration board. Beginning Feb. 1, "T" rations will be issued on the basis of ODT certificates of war necessity. All motorists must have tires inspected by this date.

War ration book 1: Jan. 15.—Last day for obtaining this book. Book No. 1, originally issued for sugar but now good also for coffee, will be used in obtaining subsequent books.

Young Officer Comes Up "The Hard Way"

Lieut. Nicholas J. Khoury who is stationed at South Plains Army Flying school with a troop carrier group came up in the service the hard way, through the ranks.

And he's still gaining honors for himself.

Fourteen months ago he came into the army as a buck private. They called him the "child prodigy." He's grown out of that title, but he has set himself a fine record in doing so.

During his army career he worked on a statistical system now widely used, qualified for officer candidate school, four on a list of 225 men, received his commission with the second class to graduate at the Miami Beach school, became assistant adjutant and personnel officer of a troop carrier group at SPAFS.

And only this week he was promoted to first lieutenant.

Lieut. Khoury is just barely 19-years-old. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Khoury of 9 Rollins street, Boston. Lieut. Khoury lives at 2214 Broadway.

Nazis Lose Heavily In Men, Equipment

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Analyst

Russia dominated the war scene this week, smashing ahead on a series of fronts from northwest of Moscow to the Causasus.

Territorial gains were small but continuous. More important, the Germans were losing heavily in men and material and showed no signs of being able to rally for a counter-offensive on any front.

In Africa, the retreat of Marshal Erwin Rommel's army across the Libyan desert continued. The opposing land forces sparred for position in Tunisia, while Allied air and naval forces hammered ceaselessly at Axis ports and shipping. They battered the main harbors of Bizerte and Tunis into uselessness.

U. S. Bombers Active

United States bombers were active in the Pacific, blasting Japanese shipping and air bases over a wide area. The Allied offensive in New Guinea progressed satisfactorily.

Developments of the week included:

On Sunday, the Russians edged forward in the sectors west and southwest of Stalingrad, progressing slowly but never losing the initiative. Allied planes ranged almost at will over Tunisia, striking especially at Bizerte and Sfax, among other harbors. United States planes were active over Burma and Yunnan province in China. They crippled and perhaps sank four Japanese merchant vessels in the New Guinea area. Premier Tojo warned the Japanese that they have a hard fight ahead and must expect intensified Allied attacks.

On Monday, the Russians pressed ahead on the Don river front and southwest of Stalingrad where they threatened the town of Kotelnikov on the Stalingrad-Black sea railroad. There were patrol clashes in Tunisia and renewed Allied air activity. United States planes downed seven and possibly 12 Japanese planes in an aerial battle over Yunnan province, China. Japanese supplies which had been dropped by parachute on Guadalcanal island were bombed by United States planes.

Reds Capture City

On Tuesday, the Russians announced the capture of Kotelnikov. The Allies suffered a reverse in Tunisia, retiring from a hotly-contested hill near Medjez-El-Bab. The British announced that their submarines had sunk at least two and perhaps four Axis supply ships in the Mediterranean. The Allies moved into French Somaliland, which swung over to the cause of the United Nations.

On Wednesday, the Russians extended their gains southwest of Stalingrad and drove close to Elista, easternmost point of the German drive towards the Caspian. The fighting in Tunisia was limited to artillery duelling and patrol activity. Gen. Giraud, French high commissioner in Africa, announced that he had arrested 12 persons for plotting the assassination of high officials, including himself and Robert Murphy, United States diplomatic representative in Africa. In the Far East, United States bombers from India set fire to two Japanese merchant ships off Burma, while planes from Guadalcanal sank two enemy ships off New Georgia. Three more ships were damaged at the Japanese base of Rabaul, New Britain.

22 Divisions Trapped

On Thursday, the Russians announced that the remnants of 22 enemy divisions had been hopelessly trapped in the Stalingrad area. They said 312,650 enemy soldiers had been killed or captured in the whole course of the offensive. Hitler told his soldiers in a year-end message that they must look for a difficult year ahead. The British announced that a naval engagement was in progress in "northern waters" — presumably off Norway, and that one enemy cruiser had been damaged and a destroyer probably sunk. It was announced that 20 Japanese planes had been destroyed in an Allied raid on the Japanese base at Lae, New Guinea.

On Friday, the Russians announced the capture of Elista and the German strong point of Velikie Luki, on the central front. They were reported making progress on seven separate fronts. Allies in Africa continued blasting the Axis-held ports of Tunisia. In the Pacific, it was announced that American planes had dropped 75,000 pounds of bombs on the Japanese in a heavy raid on Wake island. American fliers also bombed the Japanese on Kiska in the Aleutians, losing three planes to one for the Japanese. Allied planes set fire to three Japanese ships in a raid on Rabaul, New Britain.

Willkie Urges Common Council

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Wendell L. Willkie today called for the formation of a working common council of the United Nations to plan war and economic strategy now and cooperation after victory.

Addressing an opera victory rally at this afternoon's performance of the Metropolitan opera company, the Republican candidate for president in 1940 asserted the United Nations must be made "a fact and not a mere euphonious phrase." The program was broadcast over the blue network.

"If history has taught us anything," Willkie said, it has taught us that people obtain in a peace only what they win while they fight.

Realism Emphasized

"What I want to emphasize today is that planning will do no good unless we give our plans reality; that we will have no United Nations after the war unless we make the United Nations now a fact and not a mere euphonious phrase."

Willkie declared that today, a year after the signing of the United Nations pact, "we should face the fact that if hopeful billions of human beings are not to be disappointed the United Nations must become a common council, not only for the winning of the war but for the future welfare of mankind."

Willkie asserted that the "dream of Woodrow Wilson" had failed because the Allied nations, while they fought, had not developed a mechanism of working together that would survive after the fighting was over.

All Must Have Hand

A United Nations common council, Willkie said, must not be "a council of the few, who direct or merely aid others as they think wise. We must have a council of grand military strategy on which all nations that are bearing the brunt of the fighting are represented. We must have a common council to amalgamate the economic strength of the United Nations towards total war production, and to study jointly the possibilities of future economic cooperation.

"And most important of all, as United Nations, we must formulate now the principles which will govern our actions as we move step by step to the freeing of the conquered countries."

Revenue Office Here Expects Busy Future

L. B. Barkley, deputy internal revenue collector, said Saturday his office, including a force of four men, is launching into the busiest period of its history. Additional office space and additional help may be required, but he said as to this there is no information.

Thousands of farmers who never before have had to make an income tax return this year will have to be taken care of. The new transportation tax, a federal levy which became effective last Dec. 1, is to be set up, and forms for truckers on which to make returns have not even been received yet.

The new victor ytax, affecting all employes and about 70,000 employers in this district, is just that much additional work above anything the office yet has had to handle.

"I'm not griping," Barkley said, "but we all wonder how we're going to keep up with the job."

Holiday Mail Still Arriving In Lubbock

Postmaster Amos Howard said, up to Saturday morning, thousands of pieces of Christmas mail continued to arrive in Lubbock for delivery on every incoming train. This was termed an unprecedented situation.

All of the Christmas mail was scheduled to move before the 25th of December, and would have under normal transportation conditions.

The Lubbock office received two full car loads of Christmas mail on Thursday, Dec. 31, and this all has been distributed, but the letters, cards, and packages continue to pour in in large numbers. The volume is dropping off since Jan. 1, and in the local postoffice the routine is back to normal insofar as distribution of mail is concerned.

Howard had no figures available on stamp sales during December but he said the last month's receipts undoubtedly would set an all-time record for a single months' postal business in Lubbock.

Expansion Suggested For Social Security

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the Social Security board, has suggested that the social security program be broadened to pay disability benefits to injured workers and their dependents and to cover everyone who works for a living.

Writing in the board's monthly publication, Altmeyer proposed that social security coverage be extended to farm labor, seamen, domestic servants and other employes now exempt and to the person "who is in business or trade for himself."

Wednesday, Clarendon, 10 a. m., American Legion hall. Memphis, 1:30 p. m., city council room, city hall. Turkey, 3:30 p. m., Gem theater.

Thursday, Floydada, 3:30 p. m., Fellowship hall.

Golden Gloves Tournament Slated For January 29-30

Avalanche-Journal, Double T Club Will Sponsor Tourney

By CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Writer

Golden Gloves campaigners of this area can start conditioning right away—there definitely will be a 1943 district Golden Gloves tournament in Lubbock.

Morley Jennings, Texas Tech's athletic director, announced last night that the Double T club will again cooperate with the Avalanche-Journal in staging the annual amateur boxing classic, and set the dates for the 1943 event for Friday and Saturday, January 29-30.

Not all the details for this year's tourney—admission prices, for example—have yet been worked out, but Jennings emphasized that the bouts definitely will be held. The Tech gymnasium will be the site of the two-night tournament.

No Novice Group

The Tech athletic director urged all amateur fighters of the area who plan to participate in the district tournament to submit entries as soon as possible, so that adequate arrangements can be made in advance.

This year's event, Jennings said, will be run along the lines of the 1942 Golden Gloves tournament, with only one major change. This year, he said, there will be no novice group.

"Because of the transportation difficulties and other handicaps, we will have only one class in each weight division," he said, adding that he hoped a sufficient number of fighters would enter each division to assure heated competition.

Expect Soldier Teams

Last year each weight division was divided into two classes, the AA group for experienced fighters (those who had previously won a Golden Gloves bout) and the A classification for inexperienced battlers.

With both Lubbock Army Flying school and South Plains Army Flying school expected to enter teams, a large field is promised for this year's district slugfest. Although many of the Golden Gloves aces of past years are no longer in the area, the influx of soldier fighting material should easily take up the slack. Too, many of last year's top Gloves—especially the younger entrants — are still around and probably will be back to defend their laurels.

To Announce Entries

Entries will be announced in the Avalanche-Journal as they are received. The official entry blank will be carried in each issue. No definite deadline for entries has been set, but all boxers are assured ample time to get their blanks in.

Jennings and two other members of the Tech athletic department—football coach Dell Morgan and publicity director Bill Parker—will work with the Avalanche-Journal sports department in handling arrangements for the tournament.

Golden Gloves Entry Blank

1943 Lubbock District Tournament

Baseball Bosses Must Accept New Mileage Diet–Or Else

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Now that football has been tucked away with the magnificent elaboration due a dauphin, we can concentrate on the wartime plight of the king of American sports—baseball — which must accept a drastic diet of miles or fold for the duration.

Baseball, a travel sport, eats up miles during both the training and playing season. But travel-miles today are on a par with beef as food for the war effort. Hence the importance of Tuesday's meeting at Chicago, where major league club owners and officials will give the game a ration card for 1943.

To reconcile the diamond divertissement with the wartime transportation shortage, baseball must come out of Tuesday's meeting with training and playing schedules that will meet with the approval of Joseph B. Eastman, defense transportation director.

Eastman conferred this week with baseball's high commissioner, Kenesaw M. Landis, and it is believed that they agreed in principal upon methods to pare travel to the marrow. Landis submitted tentative schedules to Eastman. The schedules will be offered to the club owners at Chicago on Tuesday. Until then no one knows for sure what they require.

It is almost certain, however, that the new documents will provide for spring training at sites as close as possible to home cities, eliminating long hauls to Florida and California. Also, spring exhibition tours probably will be abolished and neighborhood exhibitions substituted.

Concerning the playing season, which earlier was slated to start April 13 and to include the normal 154 games, two substitute plans may be offered: (1) To limit the season to 140 games, opening April 24 and (2) to play the full 154 games over a shorter season starting April 27 but jamming in plenty of doubleheaders in the warm weather weeks. Both plans would eliminate considerable travel among the 16 major league clubs.

The majors already have agreed upon three intersectional trips during the 1943 season instead of the usual four. It is believed that Eastman has approved. But for making these trips, it is understood that Landis has suggested that each club carry 20 players instead of the normal 25. It is understood also that the journeying players may be required to carry their equipment in hand-grips instead of moving it along in the usual bulky trunks. (We'll bet the red-capped porters at railway stations would hate to see this happen, because ball players are notoriously light tippers!)

There have been rumors that Landis may suggeste the use of day coaches for all travel, thus conserving pullman sleepers for service men. Under this plan, time would be taken out for sleeping in hotels after clubs arrive from intersectional jumps. And to make up for these times-out doubleheaders would be inserted in the schedule.

Unquestionably there will be dissenters at the Chicago meeting, for the blueprint may threaten some of the mogul's dividends. But this time, it appears the brass hats will have to "take it and like it." King baseball is going on a strict diet of miles—or else.

Grayson Not In Favor Of Letting Armstrong Meet Sugar Robinson

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Ray Robinson shows more sense than Mike Jacobs in not wanting to box Henry Armstrong at Madison Square Garden, Jan. 29.

Opponents are mighty scarce these days, but Sugar Robinson realizes that a match with the once great Armstrong would do neither himself nor the fight business any good.

A promoter pairing the shopworn Armstrong with a strong young boy like Robinson is like the salonkeeper who helped bring on prohibition by peddling drinks to drunks.

Staged Comeback

Armstrong gained the shot at Robinson through his Pacific coast comeback effort, which saw him win 13 of 14 fights. Fritzie Zivic, however, is the only warrior of consequence Armstrong has tackled along the comeback route, and it has been clearly demonstrated—twice, in fact—that Zivic can't come close to licking even one side of the Harlem Hammer, Robinson.

Ever since Robinson dumped him into the ranks of the second-raters, Zivic has made a habit of dropping decisions that paved the way for profitable encores.

Pitiful Ending

Armstrong's "retirement" came Jan. 17, 1941, following the second savage beating dealt him by Zivic.

The end that night in the 12th round was like the last act of a tragedy, with the one-time triple-champion Armstrong swaying on on spraddled legs and the mob shouting for the referee to halt the slaughter.

The late Eddie Mead, then Armstrong's manager, forced Henry to quit following that loss, fearing that the grand little negro would lose his sight if he didn't hang up the gloves.

Armstrong, now 30, was at one time the 20-year-old Robinson's idol. Robinson gave that as a reason when he declined the bout now slated for Jan. 29. Then the current handler of Armstrong, George Moore, told a San Francisco sports writer that the acquaintanceship of Armstrong and Robinson was only casual, and hinted that the Harlem slugger was afraid to meet the old champ.

May Be Injured

This was just the old steam-up, of course, as Mike Jacobs and his matchmaker, Nat Rogers, tried to work on Robinson—anything for a $60,000 gate.

If Armstrong was unfit two years ago, he certainly is not now capable of facing Robinson, who easily could be the most formidable welterweight since Mickey Walker. The battered Armstrong is at a stage where he might be permanently injured by a swift, hard hitter like Robinson.

Sugar Robinson has clearly shown that he doesn't want this match. Neither do those with the best interests of boxing at heart.

Some fighters, however, never know when they have had enough.

Neither do some promoters know when the fighters have had enogh.

Raiders, LAFS Meet Tuesday

Tech Out To Aveng Setback In Opener

Polk Robinson's Texas Tech basketeers—Just back from the Oklahoma City All-college tournament—get their first chance for revenge this season Tuesday night at Tech gymnasium when they meet Lubbock Army Flying school in a return engagement. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

LAFS opened the season by trimming the Techsans, 35-34, with a great closing spurt that overhauled the favored Raiders in the last thirty seconds of play.

The Robisonmen weren't at all satisfied with the outcome of that one, however, and ever since they've been anxious to tangle with the soldiers again just to prove that it was "one of those things."

Revenge will not be the lone goal of the Raiders, either. They'll also be out to try to boost their season won-lost mark, which at present shows a lone triumph against three setbacks.

Gained Experience

Two of those losses were to fast-stepping teams in the Oklahoma City get-together, where Tech bowed to Arkansas, 43-38, in its opening game, then feel before the Norman Navy Zoomers, 34-30, in a consolation setto.

Robison, on his return from Oklahoma City, said that even though his boys lost both their games, he believed their participation in the tournament was well worth while.

"We gained a lot of badly-needed experience at Oklahoma City," the youthful Tech mentor said, "and it should prove helpful later on this season. Our offense against both Arkansas and the Zoomers was smooth enough, but our defense fell to pieces at times. If we can get that weakness patched up, we should improve right along."

LAFS Improved, Too

Tech should be at top strength for Tuesday night's battle with the LAFS five. The Raiders, you remember, were without the services of Roy Williams, ace forward, the first time they met the Fliers. This time all the Techsans will be ready, so Robison will be able to field whatever combination he chooses against the LAFS team.

Probable Tech starters are Williams and Roland Nabors, the freshman forward who has come along fast, at forwards; Norman Cox at center; George Allen, the team's leading scorer with 39 points, and Garland Head at guards.

Although the Raider cagers appear quite confident of a victory Tuesday night, they will—whether they realize it or not — be bumping into a greatly-improved team in LAFS.

Open Road Nip

The Fliers, who are coached by J. G. (Goober) Keyes and Sam West, had played together very little as a team the first time they played Tech. Since that opening game, LAFS has played several games and gone through stiff daily scrimmages, and another LAFS triumph would not be too surprising.

This contest will be Tech's last home game until February 11, when the Raiders open a two-night stand against Hardin-Simmons. The Robisonmen leave Lubbock Wednesday on a road jaunt which will find them playing Kirtland Field at Santa Fe Thursday night, and New Mexico university at Albuquerque Friday and Saturday nights.

Vols Worked On Punt Returns In Practices

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2. (AP)—Coach John Barnhill of Tennessee admitted tonight before leaving for Knoxville that his preparations for the Sugar Bowl game against Tulsa university had included "a passel of punt return practice."

"We knew," Barnhill said, "that if we didn't run those kicks back each time for about 15 yards, Tulsa would be camping on our five-yard line all afternoon."

Most of his players left town this morning but a few stragglers will be allowed to entrain for home Sunday morning.

Tulsa's Hurricane began moving out tonight. Half of a squad of 50 will wait until Sunday night in view of congested transportation facilities.

Bechtol Lands End Berth On United Press All-State Team

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Jan. 2.—It reads like a college team, but it's only the 1942 edition of the United Press all-state high school football team.

We're speaking of the heftiness of the team chosen by the vote of sports writers over the state and compiled by the United Press.

It would be the answer to a coach's prayer, tipping the beam at 190 pounds per man up front and 174 pounds in the backfield.

It wasn't at all easy for any man to gain a place on this year's mythical eleven. There was hotly-contested competition at almost every position and some of the berths were earned by the slightest of margins.

Austin Places Three

The state champion Austin Maroons placed the most men—three —on the team, while no other team had more than one representative. An unusual feature is that two men whose teams did not get out of their own district won positions.

They were Hubert Bechtol, a fine end from Lubbock, and Charles Boyles, a 200-pounder from Pampa of the same district. Boyles was named even though he missed the entire latter part of the season because of injuries. He nosed out Frank (Jitter) McKinney of Lufkin by one vote for one of the four backfield slots. Other backs were Austin's Bobby Coy Lee, Breckenridge's Jack Ray, and Goose Creek's George Walmsley.

Bechtol was named because of his smashing defensive play which broke up enemy plays before they got started. Named for the other end position was Bill Jolly of Amarillo.

Allen Strong Choice

The guards are Leon Foster of Wichita Falls, who performed well at several positions, and Morrell Hicks, Lufkin's stellar lineman.

Center is well taken care of with Terrell Allen, the star of the Austin team, being almost a unanimous choice.

It was hard to keep such men as McKinney, Bob Brewer of Lubbock, Wilton Ferrell of John Reagan and Robbie Dee Smith of Wichita Falls off the first team —and it probably wouldn't weaken the team to any great degree if they were on it—but they lost out in the voting and had to be content with second team berths.

ATTENDANCE UP

DALLAS, Jan. 2. (AP)—Cotton Bowl officials checked up today and found that 36,620 persons saw Texas defeat Georgia Tech 14-7 in the seventh annual New Year's classic.

That was more than 11,000 above the number expected to attend the game and was about 5,000 more than witnessed the Texas A. and M.-Alabama tilt last year.

TCU Frogs, Arkansas Favored SWC Teams

(By The Associated Press)

It has been nine years since Texas Christian's Horned Frogs held a place alongside the best of Southwest conference basketball.

There were several seasons when the Frogs were elated to win one conference game and two or three on the side.

But that's all over. There was a definite reawakening last year and for a time TCU made quite a race of it. They couldn't stand the stretch drive, however, and Arkansas and Rice finished in a tie for the title.

Now we find the Frogs top favorites to win the championship. They deserve such a ranking. They won the Oklahoma City All-College tournament, beating Arkansas, the other conference favorite, in the finals.

In all Texas Christian has taken 11 decisions out of 13 games, scoring 523 points or an average of 40 points per game.

Arkansas still looks like the team to beat, however. The Porkers were pretty tired from a strenuous road trip when they played at Oklahoma City. They had been wandering all over the southwest and midwest.

Rice, Southern Methodist and Texas also are quite potent and it looks like a grand scramble right down to the wire.

The conference championship race opens Wednesday night with Baylor meeting Texas Christian at Fort Worth and Rice tackling Texas at Austin.

Friday night Southern Methodist and Arkansas open an important series at Dallas. These games will have a strong bearing on the championship.

Saturday night Texas Christian meets Texas A&M at College Station while Baylor plays Texas at Waco.

Whirlaway Standout In Widener Lists

MIAMI, Jan. 2. (AP)—Whirlaway, the turf's top money winner, heads a list of 50 thoroughbreds nominated for the eighth running of the $25,000 added Widener Stake, the richest horse race of the winter.

Most of the ranking stake performers in training this winter were named, the principal absentee being Albert Sabath's Alsab —Whirlaway's principal rival now loafing the cold months away on a Kentucky farm.

The race will be run March 6, closing day for the Hialeah Park meeting which opens Jan. 13.

Whirlaway, already being conditioned for the mile and one quarter test, missed the Widener last year because he was shipped to California for the Santa Anita meeting which was cancelled when the war started.

The Warren Wright horse, a five year old as of yesterday, thrived as a result of the rest, however, and last year ran his total winnings to $560,911—a sum unprecedented in all the long years that racing has been known as the sport of kings.

Last year's surprise Widener winner—Greentree Stable's the Rhymer — will oppose Whirly, along with such high class performers as Harold A. Clark's Riverland, Townsend B. Martin's Bolingbroke, Ben F. Whitaker's Requested, and four Charles S. Howard campaigners; Kayak II, Mioland, Porter's Cap and Yankee Dandy.

Both Riverland and Bolingbroke have defeated Whirlaway in previous outings.

PONY CAGERS WIN

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—Southern Methodist university's basketeers racked up their fourth straight victory of the season and their second over the East Texas State Teachers college by topping the Commerce Lions, 48-36, in a rough game here tonight.

Thirty-nine personal fouls were called and five players were ejected from the game.

Sports Roundup—

Writer Thinks "Spectacles" On Way Out

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Well, that year 1943 that everybody has been talking about arrived an hour ahead of schedule—war time, you know—and if we could show as much speed in coming up with the answers to all the questions about what will happen this year, it would save a lot of trouble . . . Speaking for sports, our guess is that "spectacles" are on their way out but that competition will continue on a broad basis, mainly because the Army and Navy seem to want to get the boys in shape for service . . . The folks who followed pro football last fall concluded that it was the last season for the duration; the same impression goes with the current hockey season and we figure major league baseball probably will stagger through 1943 and then fade out . . . The schools and colleges seem to be coming around to the idea that their job is to train boys for the armed forces and once they learn they can't run another big-time football schedule, they'll probably concentrate on just that, even though the physical training costs money instead of providing it.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE

What touched off the above train of thought was re-reading a letter written several months ago by an Army officer . . . "About the best reason I have heard advanced why athletics will disband for the duration," he wrote, "is that when we start our major drive against Germany and Japan so many will be killed that every hamlet and city will be so shocked that no one will feel like attending an athletic contest, regardless of morale value." . . . Naturally everyone hopes that won't happen . . . it isn't a cheerful prospect, but Sherman never said "War is a picnic," either.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

A whisper from Pittsburgh says Johnny Ray is getting another Billy Conn ready for the ring wars, a kid who won't be ready to turn pro for another six months . . . Craig Wood, the golf pro, has been rejected by the armed forces because of spinal trouble and now plans to devote his time in 1943 to Red Cross exhibitions . . . Bill Veeck, head man of the Milwaukee Brewers, is going in for pro basketball but he doesn't intend to bring Milwaukee into the national pro league until after the war . . . Harness horse experts say that if a horse of the year was selected in their field, the Whirlaway of the chin-whisker tracks would be W. E. Gilmour's Senator Abbee . . . Joe Orengo, the ex-Giant infielder, probably has the softest winter job of any ball player. He's driving a meat truck for a San Francisco packing house.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Ken Alyta, Waterbury (Conn.) Republican: "Maybe Sammy Baugh did make a sincere effort to reach Philadelphia for Sunday's pro-bowl game, but it seems to us that if you were anxious to reach the city of brotherly love in time for a 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon ball game, you wouldn't be scurrying around at 11:50 Saturday night, far off in Texas, looking for a plane, especially in these days of travel difficulties."

These Cagers Are In Shape!

CANTON, N. C., Jan. 2. (AP) —The YMCA squad here reeled off an eight-hour basketball game yesterday without benefit of time out or rest period.

The Whites won from the Blues, 1,328 to 786.

The game started at midnight, just as the bells and whistles were welcoming in the new year, and it didn't end until 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

No substitutions were allowed and nine of the 10 players who started finished the game. The two teams exchanged goals at the end of every hour.

C. C. Poindexter, physical director, who played in the game himself, said "it (the game) was just a test to see how well my physical fitness program was working out."

The high scorer was Walter Clark, center for the Whites, who amassed a total of an even 500 points.

All In All, Sports Had Good Year

Upsets, Thrills Not Lacking In 1942

By CHIP ROYAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. — Thousands of athletes went to war in 1942 but the sports world kept punching and furnished one of the wildest years the fans have ever known.

Sure the face of things was changed a little, but we still had all the drama, humor and suspense that go to make up a rip-snorting year.

There were a fresh, audacious gang of Cardinals, Holy Cross, the Washington Redskins, Whirlaway, Alsab, Gunder Haegg, Sam Snead and Ray Robinson, just to mention a few of the stars.

Upsets? Thrills? We had plenty of them! Those Brooklyn Bums led the National league parade right from the start—were 9½ games ahead of the field Aug. 1—and then the Cards went to town. The Southworth speedsters nosed out the Dodgers, then ground the proud Yankees into the World Series dust.

Johnny Beazley and George Kurowski were the classic's heroes.

Williams Top Hitter

Joe Gordon was the American league's most valuable player—and the goat of the series . . . Ted Williams of the Bosox was the standout batter, winning the hitting crown with a .358, batting in 137 runs and slugging out 36 homers . . . Ernie Lombardi made a great comeback to win the National league hitting title. . . . Mel Ott led the senior loop in round-trippers.

Rogers Hornsby was elected to baseball's Hall of Fame. . . . The American league won the all-star game, then blanked a service team 5-0. . . . Larry MacPhail, Brooklyn's general manager, entered the Army and was replaced by the Cards' Branch Rickey . . . Steve O'Neill was named to succeed Del Baker at Detroit. . . . Ossie Bluege took Buck Harris' place in Washington. . . . Bill Terry quit the Giants. . . . Leo Durocher signed as player-manager of the Dodgers.

More upsets? Well, there was football. We never had such a topsy-turvy season. . . . Boston college wound up by getting smacked by Holy Cross, 55-12, in the most stunning reversal of them all. . . . Ohio State was voted the nation's top team in the AP poll.

Snead Takes PGA

Frankie Sinkwich of Georgia and Rudy Mobley of Hardin-Simmons set new total offense and rushing records, respectively. . . . Then to climax the wildest gridiron battles ever, the Washington Redskins rose up and trimmed the mighty Chicago Bears, 14-6, for the pro title.

Horse racing enjoyed its biggest season, with Whirlaway and Alsab setting the pace. . . . Whirly set an all-time winning record of $560,911, after three years of running.

There was only one natoinal golf tournament—the PGA, which was won by Sammy Snead. . . . Other golf winners were Byron Nelson in the Tam O'Shanter and Ben Hogan in the Hale America.

Boxing champions, led by Joe Louis, went to war, but boxing enjoyed a box office boom. . . . Secretary of War Stimson cancelled the Louis-Conn return fight because he didn't approve of the arrangements. . . . Conn, Gus Lesnevich, Tony Zale and a host of others followed Louis into the service. . . . Sammy Angott retired and caused another brawl between the New York boxing commission and the NBA. . . . Ray Robinson was the year's outstanding fighter. . . . Tami Mauriello chalked up 14 wins over the cream of the left-at-home heavyweights. . . . Billy Conn broke his left hand —fighting his pa-in-law.

Tennis Below Par

Tennis play was below par for the year with a little two-fisted Ecuadorean, Pancho Segura, furnishing most of the color. . . . Ted Schroeder won the national singles title, however.

In swimming and track, 143 new American records went into the books. . . . Gloria Callen, that beauteous New York back stroker, topped the record breakers with 19 new marks.

Gunder Haegg, the swift Swede, was the leading track star, setting 10 new records for distance events. . . . Top American performer was Connie Warmerdam, who upped the indoor pole vault record to 15 feet, 7½ inches and the outdoor standard to 15 feet, 7¾ inches.

In basketball, Stanford shot its way to the national collegiate championship. . . . West Virginia pulled an upset to win the Madison Square Garden cage tourney. . . . Hamline university of St. Paul took the National Intercollegiate crown at Kansas City.

Sports took a bow for a job well done when the War Relief Control board said it had received "funds adequate for their present requirements." The board didn't break down the sums poured into Army-Navy relief offices but at least $5,000,000 was delivered by sports and sports followers.

Tulsa Followers Plan Welcome For Players

TULSA, Jan. 2. (AP)—Tulsa lost to Tennessee but the Golden Hurricanes will get just as big a welcome home as if they were bringing back the Sugar Bowl championship.

Marcia Whitwell, student promotion chairman, said the student body would turn out in force and leave no doubts in the minds of the boys that "we still love 'em."

Part of the squad will arrive tomorrow and a welcoming ceremony will be held at Skelly stadium. The rest of the players will return Monday and be greeted in the same fashion.

Sugar Bowl Athletics May Be Discontinued

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 2. (U.P.) — The New Orleans Item urged editorially today that the annual Sugar Bowl football game and its accompanying week of sports be suspended for the duration.

"The purpose of establishing and maintaining an annual carnival of sports, climaxed by a great New Year's day football game, was primarily that of attracting outsiders to this city and thus increasing our 'tourist crop' very substantially," the editorial said. "This purpose cannot be served by a football game 'for homefolks only.'"

Joseph B. David, president of the New Orleans Mid-Winter sports association, said "There has been some talk about suspending and we're going to give it some thought." He added, however, that it was up to the association board, which meets next month.

The sports carnival, inaugurated Jan. 1, 1935, also includes basketball, a track and field meet, boxing, rowing and tennis. A regatta was not held this winter.

The editorial speculated on a possibility that colleges may not play football this fall, in which case "there can be no real bowl games."

Sgt. McKay Got A Lift!

You see, his brother, Roy, plays for Texas and the sarge never had seen Roy in action on the gridiron.

So Sergeant McKay hitchhiked all the way from Camp Polk, La., to Dallas.

In Dallas he needed transportation to the field, so he stuck out his thumb.

Along came a military car and the sergeant gave the signal. He almost fainted when the automobile stopped and looking him squarely in the face were two of the biggest silver stars he had ever seen —an insignia meaning that no less than a general was aboard.

"Get in, son," the general said.

He was Maj. Gen. Richard Donovan, commanding officer of the Eighth Service command.

Sergeant McKay arrived at the game in style and saw Roy lead Texas to a 14-7 victory over Georgia Tech.

ROSS HONORED

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 2. (AP)—Corporal Barney K. Ross, undefeated ring champion in two divisions who as a Marine in the Solomon islands was cited for inviting single-handed battle with a number of Japanese, today was named to receive the Athletic Round Table's annual sports award.

President Joe Albi said Ross would receive a $5,000 war bond for having made "the most outstanding individual contribution to sports in 1942."

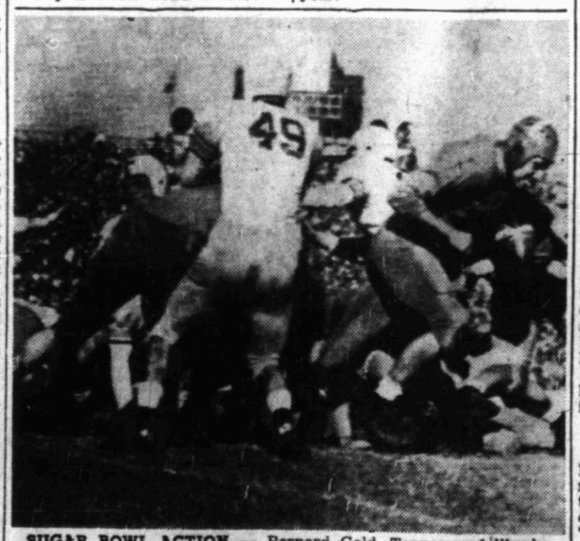

REBS SELL KORTE

DALLAS, Jan. 2. (AP)—The sale of Dick Korte, utility infielder, to the Kansas City clug of the American association, was announced today by President George Schepps of the Dallas baseball club.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 2. (AP)—Hey, fans, there is another bowl game to come.

It's the "Lilly Bowl" and will be played here tomorrow between U. S. Army and Navy teams.

SUGAR BOWL ACTION — Bernard Gold, Tennessee fullback, gave the Volunteers their first touchdown against Tulsa in the Sugar Bowl Friday at New Orleans when he smashed across to score. Here the Vols' fullback is behind No. 49, N. A. Keithley of Tulsa. Keithley made the tackle, but not until Gold had already crossed the double stripe. On the right is Chadwell of Tennessee, blocking for Gold.

Halsey Predicts Victory In '43

shrieking of shells and the clashing of swords on your own soil. You had better stop now before it is too late."

Captain Miles Browning, chief of staff, interposed, saying:

"I think the Admiral will agree it is safe to say at this instance that we are engaged in a highly hazardous effort to rescue some white women from an island where they are in imminent danger of personal violation and death."

There was no further elucidation or approximate location of the island.

"What do you think is the significance of Tojo's recent remarks? I asked Admiral Halsey.

"He sees the handwriting on the wall," he replied.

Hopes For Offensive

"Do you foresee a United Nations offensive in all parts of the world in a short space of time?"

"I definitely hope so," the Admiral said as his eyes twinkled. "And I hope Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito will see the same thing."

"What is the importance of air power as demonstrated in Solomons?" a correspondent asked.

"Air power, when properly used in conjunction with necessary ground and sea forces is a tremendous factor in warfare."

"Do we have enough material here to conduct the offensives previously mentioned?"

"No man in military history ever had enough men and material but he has always gone ahead and done it just the same."

Passed From Defensive

"Have we passed from the defensive to the offensive?"

"Definitely. All the Axis is hearing the tolling of the bells. And we are doing the rope pulling." He smiled.

"Do you anticipate further Japanese action against the Solomons?"

"I foresee action whether we can find one."

"Definitely."

"Do you foresee the bombing of the Japanese mainland?"

"I hope so."

"You have given us messages to the Japanese war lords, the emperor, and the American people, can you give us a message to the fighting forces as to whether there is a good liberty town in the offing?" I asked as a personal favor for my Navy friends.

Admiral Halsey swung around in his swivel chair, pursed his lips, again let a twinkle come into his eyes and with all seriousness replied:

Turn Them Loose In Tokyo

"Liberty for the boys, yes. We will bypass all smaller towns and let them loose in Tokyo. That will be a liberty town they'll really enjoy."

And if the dreamy look on his countenance meant what I took it to mean, Halsey will not be loath to take liberty in Tokio himself.

He was asked his opinion of young recruits and naval reserves in the Pacific.

"There is only one word to describe them," Halsey said quickly. "Superb. The officers and men of the USNR are doing things we didn't dream them capable of, and didn't think possible. As for the regulars—God bless them—there is nothing our country can do for them that is too good."

And as abruptly as the interview began it stopped. Halsey is like that.

Congress Session

subject, but price control and rationing seems likely to provide an even bigger headache for the legislators. There may be little actual law-making on this subject but no one expects food, gasoline, oil and other rationing to be carried out without continuing complaints and investigations. The rubber shortage also is a dark hangover from previous months.

With food production a critical problem, a determined farm bloc will renew its demands for higher prices, either through a revision of the complicated parity formulas or by other methods. The question of subsidies for food producers or processors also is in the offing.

The manpower problem may present the most controversial issue of the session if current administration efforts fail to work out the difficulties of supplying the armed forces, the factories and the farms with the men and women they need. That most certainly would bring a strong demand for universal service legislation but it appears to have little chance for enactment without administration support.

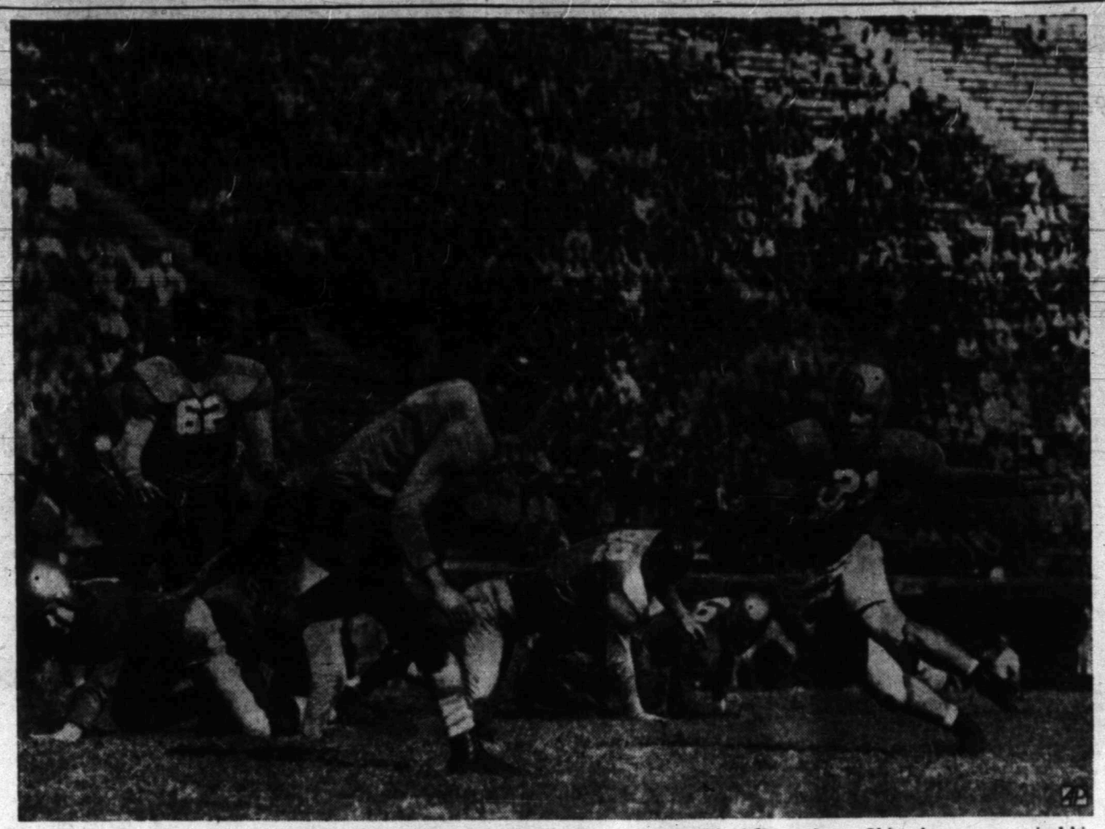

48-Hour Week Possibility

In another approach to the manpower problem, Congress might take the bit in its teeth to revise the wage-hour law for the duration, making 48 hours the statutory work week, with or without overtime pay after 40 hours. Some members have advocated a 48-hour week at regular pay, allowing overtime only in the period after that, but few thought Congress would take such action since it would amount, in effect, to a wage cut for war workers who have been drawing overtime checks for work above 40 hours.

OLEO DEVELOPMENT

Development of oleomargarine grew out of the fact that many middle 19th century Frenchmen stayed up late. Napoleon III, disturbed by the late hours and people burning their lamps in which edible fats and oils were used as fuel, offered a prize for the invention of an edible fat that would make up for those burned by householders. Mege-Mouries won the prize with oleomargarine.

ATHLETE OF THE YEAR IN ACTION — Georgia University's Frankie Sinkwich (21) of Youngstown, Ohio, shows some swivel-hip ball carrying in game in which Georgia defeated Georgia Tech 34 to 0. Sports editors named him No. 1 athlete of year.

Trippi Acclaimed Top Back By Coast Fans

PASADENA, Jan. 2. (AP)—Trippi is tops!

Coaches, players and 93,000 fans who saw Georgia beat UCLA in the Rose Bowl were in agreement today that the sophomore sensation, Charlie Trippi of Pittston, Pa., was the best ball carrier on the field; the best, in fact to play in Southern California all season.

The Bruins, linemen and backs alike, said Charlie's terrific drive, high knee action, pivoting and change of pace was the best they'd ever seen.

In deference to Frankie Sinkwich the Bruins admitted he must be the goods, as his three-year record shows, but with bad ankles his effectiveness was minimized to straight ahead plunges and passing. Trippi, on the other hand, passed accurately, kicked well, and gained 115 of Georgia's 212 yards on the ground.

Red Boyd, sub Georgia tackle who blocked Bob Waterfield's kick for an automatic safety, said that was the high point in his career.

Lt. Orian Landreth of Friends (Kas) college, who did a good job as referee of the Rose Bowl game, admitted he made a mistake in motioning with his hands that Leo Costa's placement for Georgia's ninth point was no good.

"I should have put my hands up," said Landreth, who is serving in the navy. "The kick was good."

The Georgia delegation will leave early next week. Sinkwich flew to San Diego today to look over the Marine barracks. He is a Marine reserve now and is to be called soon.

Russian Fighting

fires at Tunis but lost six planes. The Germans lost four in three thrusts at Bone. The east coast ports of Sfax and Sousse were declared heavily damaged and the enemy apparently was making no repairs.

De Gaulle Asks Conference

Gen. Charles DeGaulle, leader of the Fighting French, proposed a conference with Gen. Henri Honore Giraud, Admiral Darlan's successor as high commissioner in North Africa, to find a basis for French unity. The DeGaullists had switched their enmity from the murdered admiral to the imperial council of colonial governors which Darlan appointed and which unanimously selected Giraud as Darlan's successor.

Further evidence of German frustration was found in a shake-up by Hitler of his diplomatic corps. He recalled his representatives to Japan, Spain and Sweden replacing them with sterner men. Because of "further murders" of Nazi soldiers in conquered Belgium, all places of amusement were closed until further notice.

Perhaps to hide the disasters in Russia, the Germans made the extravagant claim of torpedoing four merchantment, damaging several British cruisers and destroyers and sinking a destroyer in the frigid Arctic waters north of Norway on the Murmansk convoy route.

Admit Ship Losses

The Germans admitted the loss of a destroyer, and 13 months after the fact, told of the destruction of the auxiliary cruiser Atlantis in the middle of the South Atlantic by the British cruiser Devonshire. The British intercepted a 10,000-ton blockade runner in the Atlantic and the Germans promptly scuttled her and were taken prisoners.

The Russians not only were liquidating hundreds of thousands of Hitler's troops and war machines, but they also were capturing vital defense points. Moreover they were disrupting long, tenuous German communication lines leaving the shivering German troops isolated in many instances.

Both Kotelnikovski, 90 miles southwest of Stalingrad, and Elista, the Kalmyck republic capital on the trail to Astrakhan, were important pirotal points. Toropets was another but the fall of Velikie Luki, only 90 miles from tse Latvian border, was by far the most important prize of all.

The desperate German effort to hold Velikie Luki was told in a Pravda dispatch which said every man in the German garrison was promised an iron cross for successful defense, or the firing squad and family reprisals for retreat or surrender.

The battle must have been one of the bloodiest in history. Street by street, house by house the Germans were dislodged and killed. The advance over extensive mine fields and traps was covered by thunderous artillery and smoke screens.

All day and all night the battle raged, and in the dark a blood red glow from the citadel's burning buildings lit up the nearby mountains. When the cold grey dawn lit up the scene, the Red banner with its hammer and sickle flew over the town.

War Factory City Is Threatened By Flood

PORTSMOUTH, O., Jan. 2 (AP) The flooded Ohio river, which already has driven 50,000 persons from homes along its banks and hampered war industries, crested tonight 1.1 feet from the top of a 62-foot wall portecting this manufacturing city of 40,400 residents.

Army engineers helping sandbag the five-mile wall said at 10 p. m. the river ceased rising at 60.9 feet, 8.9 feet above flood stage. They said the flood probably would recede slowly "because of a full river below here."

Forecaster John Hagan said at Cincinnati that a lessening flow from nearby tributaries was easing the burden on the Ohio, and consequently the stream would not exceed the predicted crest here.

The crest of the flood, which began in Pittsburgh early in the week and rolled destructively down the valley to flood city after city, moved past Huntington, W. Va., today and was expected to reach Cincinnati tomorrow.

fully in the realization of this objective when we become convinced that such drastic action is necessary. But we are not yet so convinced. We still do not know with any degree of accuracy what our manpower needs will be or whether our manpower resources will fall short. We urge an immediate survey to determine these facts. We further recommended registration of women to learn the availability of womanpower for service in war industries."

Labor standards—the 40-hour work week law requiring overtime after that period does not limit working time per man or per factory in war industry. "Repeal or modifications would be equivalent to a pay cut" and "would cause unrest and turmoil and embarrass the war production effort."

and the government more than $25,000,000,000 on construction and munitions contracts.

"Looking at the cost of living generally, we find that it has been held within reasonable bounds up to the present, particularly when compared with the same period during the last war," he said.

Battle Of Inflation

Coincidentally, the Office of War Information issued an explanatory pamphlet on inflation in which it declared, "If we lose the battle of inflation we gravely handicap the war abroad and expose people at home to high prices, want and misery."

Both the pamphlet and Henderson's statement explained that the dangers of inflation in this country arise from the fact that the people have more and more money to spend while the factories, which are busy with war work, are producing less and less goods which the general public can buy.

clusters of fragmentation and incendiary bombs on Lakunai airdrome, starting fires which were believed to have destroyed a number of planes caught on the ground.

BOMBERS LASH OUT AT JAP NEW BRITAIN BASES

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Jan. 1 Delayed) (AP)—Allied heavy bombers lashing out in heavier force than has been employed in this area in weeks, continued their pounding of Japanese bases in the southwest Pacific this morning by plastering the Rabaul area in northern New Britain with everything from small fragmentation bombs to thousand-pounders.

The target area was divided among four flight formations: a Flying Fortress flight led by Major Ed Scott of Hollandale, Miss., which attacked the Lakunai airdrome; a force of Liberator bombers which struck Vunakana airfield and a mixed force of Fortresses and Liberators which dropped thousand pound bombs on shipping concentration bombs on shipping concentrations in the harbor.

Three Ships Fired

At least three ships, totalling 24,000 tons were set afire and others were possbily hit and damaged.

The airdromes were so thoroughly sprayed with fragmentation bombs that only three Jap Zero fighter planes were able to take off in an attempt to intercept the last American formation, which came over Rabaul at daybreak.

One Zero fighter was destroyed on the ground at Gasmata, and two out of a force of five which attacked a single American Liberator were knocked down.

One of the B-17s under Scott's command scored a bull's eye when it put a searchlight out of commission. Lieut. Jim Murphy of Roundup, Mont., said the hit gave an effect like "dropping light bulbs on the pavement—only bigger."

Capt. James H. York, a gray-haired, heavy-set man from McAllen, Tex., was less fortunate. He hit the thickest part of the weather.

"It was just like this," he said, looking out of the grass thatched operations hut into solid sheets of rain.

AUSTRALIA ASKS MORE ATTENTION TO PACIFIC

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 2 (AP)—Prime Minister John Curtin is making representations "to the proper quarters" to try to get the Allies to increase their anti-Japanese forces in the Pacific, J. J. Dedman, minister of war organization and industrial research, said today.

Two days ago Curtin warned that Japan was consolidating her gains and said "the policy of dealing with Hitler and the European phase of the war first is being overdone." He asked that the United States send more land, naval, and air power to the Pacific theater.

Meanwhile the government is expected to launch prosecutions against the ring leaders of a work stoppage in Sydney where 35,000 men yesterday knocked off for a New Year's holiday despite a government ruling that Monday would be the official holiday.

BRAINPOWER INDEXED

Scientific and professional societies are co-operating with the government in registering technicians in a new National Roster to facilitate the supply of brainpower. More than half a million names have been placed on the rolls.

LESS COFFEE, GREATER NEED

Tightening the shipping pinch that has forced a drastic rationing of coffee is the fact that workers during these busy war times demand more stimulant; also the fact that coffee must be a regular part of the supplies for the armed forces—especially the Navy—both at home and abroad.

There are two rats for every human in the United States, and each of these rats does about $2 worth of damage a year, or more than $520,000,000 annually.

War Halts Growing Construction Here

Lubbock building permit records for 1942 bear vivid testimony to the paralysis that war has brought to new construction in this city.

They write the end to the chapter—but, most definitely, not to the book—of the story of one of the greatest eras of building that any city in Texas of comparable size ever has experienced.

The figures, which still are subject to recheck and revisions, show that permits were issued during the past year for construction to cost a total of $2,072,330.

Virtually Halted In July

Of that sum, $1,949,506 was authorized during the first six months of the year. Of the $122,728 in construction work done since July 1, the larger portion represents municipal work — mostly paving.

Thus was braked to an almost instantaneous stop one of the most amazing records of construction that any small city ever has seen.

It is a chapter which began moving under a full-head of steam about the middle of 1937 and traveled forward at an astonishing pace until the greatest war in history applied the brakes.

During that period of six years since Jan. 1, 1937 permits were issued for construction costing a total of $19,276,381.

3,416 Residences

The figures include permits for 3,416 residences costing $9,276,775. These residences do not include the permits for the many modern apartment houses nor the bundreds of garage apartments which have been erected at a total cost which probably would be in the neighborhood of $4,000,000.

None of the figures mentioned include any of the cost of construction at Lubbock and South Plains Army Flying schools. Figures on costs at those two fields never have been announced.

But if they should be added to the Lubbock construction total of the past six years, the aggregate figure probably would be in excess of $30,000,000.

$1,000 Per Capita

This would mean approximately $1,000 worth of building within the past six years for every man, woman and child represented in the population of this city. This is a record which few, if any, cities, in the United States—regardless of size—can match.

1942—	$2,072,334
1941—	3,543,022
1940—	4,442,676
1939—	3,612,253
1938—	3,559,737
1937—	2,046,268
1936—	1,088,730

Year	permits	Cost
1941	616	1,782,506
1942	329	$ 914,503
1940	713	1,925,000
1939	649	1,978,020
1938	786	1,855,000
1937	323	821,746

Rationing Methods Assailed By Texan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2. (AP) — Rep. Luther A. Johnson (D-Tex) today condemned the administration of rationing methods he described as "unreasonable, cumbersome, complicated and unnecessary."

The congressman made public a letter to President Roosevelt in which the Texan declared the situation is seriously affecting the people's morale and if uncorrected will impair the Roosevelt leadership.

He explained he was not condemning rationing, but rather the methods by which it was being done.

"If we are to ration," he said, "let us do it rationally."

Four Naval Vessels Set For Launching

ORANGE, Jan. 2. (AP) — Four more naval vessels will be launched tomorrow by the Consolidated Steel corporation, Ltd., shipyard here, Capt. J. M. Schelling, supervisor of naval shipbuilding in Texas, announced today.

EAST TEXAS BANKER DIES

ATLANTA, Texas, Jan. 2 (AP)—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for T. R. Richey, 70, president of the First National bank of Atlanta, who died last night at a Shreveport hospital. Financier, lumberman and civic leader, Richey owned extensive agricultural holdings and was widely known throughout East Texas.

KILLED BY AUTO

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (AP)—William Warner Porterfield, 54, died at Parkland hospital today of injuries suffered shortly before when struck by an automobile as he crossed the street. It was Dallas' first traffic fatality of the new year.

SMITH IS KEYNOTER

AUSTIN, Jan. 2 (AP) — Lieut. Gov.-Elect John Lee Smith will keynote the annual convention of the Texas State Grange at College Station Jan. 5-6, Harold W. Gaulrapp, master, announced here today.

TWO MINERS KILLED

CHESTED BUTTE, Colo., Jan. 2 (AP)—The terrific concussion of a coal mine "burst" today killed Jo Fedbak, sr., 61, and Marco Andreatta, 34, deep inside the Big mine here.

Excessive use of first and second gears in driving consumes gas unnecessarily because the motor runs faster and uses more gas per mile than when driven in high gear.

If you are lucky enough to be able to buy a new automobile, you will not get a spare tire with it unless you obtain a certificate from the rationing board.

STOCKS OFF TO GOOD START

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—Light investment demand today enabled the stock market to get a good start on 1943 with the list, on balance, touching best levels since mid-October of 1941.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .1 of a point at 41.7 and showed a net gain of 2 on the week. It was a new top since Oct. 11, 1941. Transfers for the two hours amounted to 289,940 shares against 370,695 a week ago. It was the lowest turnover since Dec. 5.

For 1942 the share volume hit bottom since 1914. The year's aggregate was 125,685,298 against 170,603,671 in 1941. The 60-stock composite, however, finished last year with a net advance of 4.8 points.

Retaining modest improvement were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, American Telephone, Standard Oil (NJ), Texas Co., Goodyear, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Sperry, Newport Industries, International Telephone, Oliver Farm, Radio Corp., General Electric, American Tobacco "B", and Ohio Oil.

Oils were aided by talk of an advance in crude prices to spur new discoveries and production.

Second rail bonds turned upward. Commodities stiffened. At Chicago wheat was up 1½ to 1¾ cents a bushel, corn ahead 1¼ to 1⅜ and hogs up as much as 15 cents. Cotton jumped $1 to $1.20 a bale.

Argentina Hands British Rebuke

(By The United Press)

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 2 — The foreign office, in a communique rebuked the British government today for having deplored the fact that Argentina still maintains relations "with the enemies of mankind."

"In the case of the United States, this government is profoundly concerned that a declaration by the State department should open judgment upon the Argentine international attitude a year after it was agreed in the Rio De Janerio conference to counsel a rupture with the Axis nations 'within the position and circumstances of each country on the continent'," the communique said.

U. S. Concurs

The United States deparement of state said it was agreed with the British statement, which had been issued by the foreign office in London.

The trouble stemmed from an article printed in the South American Journal of London, praising Argentine for cutting the code dispatches of Axis diplomats to 100 words a day. The impression evidently was gained that the action had satisfied Britain.

Then the British issued the statement, making clear beyond doubt that it was not satisfied with Argentina's relations with the Axis.

News Briefs

OPA officials here said filling station operators became overly cautious in Lubbock last week when announcement was made of the arrest of a gasoline bootlegger. Out-of-state motorists who presented ration coupon books were looked upon with suspicion by filling sation attendants, and a number of telephone calls were prompted because of the stir created when it became known that a quantity of illegal coupons issued in Florida might be in circulation.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Goodpasture, Route 2, Lubbock, died Friday night at West Texas hospital. The baby was born Friday afternoon and lived only a few hours. Funeral arrangements had not been announced.

Over a hundred friends called at the home of Mrs. J. E. Murfee, sr., 1923 Fourteenth street, Friday afternoon to exchange New Year's greetings with each other and with he hostesses, Mrs. Murfee, Miss Mae Murfee and Miss Vera Murfee.

Staff Sgt. Zern T. Miller, son of Mrs. Grace Miller of Lubbock, spent a Christmas furlough at home with his mother and with other relatives at Lovington, N. M. Sgt. Miller is stationed at Big Spring Bombardier school.

Agricultural leaders here said Saturday the government will reserve for the armed forces about 50 per cent of the 1943 commercial canned fruits, vegetables, and juices. Canners already have been directed to set aside this portion. In 1942 canners were required to set aside 35 per cent of the pack for the government.

A maximum price regulation amendment which was issued Dec. 9 does not free all buyers of eggs from price ceilings, Lubbock district OPA officials said Saturday. Notice was received from the regional office indicating there is widespread misunderstanding of the amendment, which exempts from price control during January and February only dried whole eggs sold to United States government agencies and shell, liquid or frozen eggs sold to manufacturers for the sole purpose of later sale to government agencies as dried whole eggs.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Gearhart of East Broadway, received a cablegram Saturday from their son, Guy, a private in the U. S. Army "somewhere in the Pacific." The message, bringing Christmas and New Year's greetings, was the first word they had received from him for several months. A former student in Texas Technological college, Guy has been in foreign service nine months.

Vaudeville Makes Come-Back In Country's Military Camps

By ROSEMARIE MULLANY
United Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 2.—If vaudeville is dead, thousands of army trainees all over the country have been seeing ghosts — some shapely ones at that.

In addition to many major radio shows which are touring camps, principal regular contributors to trainees' entertainment are U. S. O. shows and the four Camel caravans.

The typical show, such as the Caravan now in California on the first lap of its second swing around the western states, is put on by professional show people recruited from Hollywood and New York. Here is vaudeville, late and much lamented by Broadway and Hollywood hand-wringers whose vision has not extended past the marquees of their neighborhood theaters.

In a giant bus packed with props and scenery, eighteen troupers travel from camp to camp. Their manager, in this case Joe Rardin, knows the general itinerary of his troupe but relies on regular messages from the War Department for specific information as to where the players are due.

Troupe Tours Since April

These messages indicate names of camps to be played, dates and times of performance, a route for the bus driver and usually tell where the troupe will eat while at the camp. A war department itinerary covers about a month's time.

This western troupe of the Caravan has been on the road since April with two weeks off in August and a brief respite coming up at Christmas and New Year's.

At the camps the players are rewarded for long bus trips and the inconveniences of a mechanized nomadic life by packed houses and boundlessly enthusiastic audiences.

At a West Coast airfield and training station the Caravan pulled up an hour late after unavoidable delays caused by rain and a suddenly temperamental bus. The troupe found a hangar jammed with boys who were waiting for the show to go on. They had waited over an hour, but their applause indicated they felt the performance was well worth the wait.

As the troupe left after the first performance, they saw a line of boys the length of the hangar waiting in a literal downpour for the second—not due to go on for two hours.

Whistles Greet Jean Carol

The show is sparked by Joe Rardin, emcee and singer, who brings down the house with his interpretations of Tommy Dorsey's slide trombone and Harry James' trumpet.

Whistles as piercing as any air raid siren greet the appearance of blonde singer Jean Carol who was formerly with the Earl Carroll show in Hollywood.

All other members of the show—the agile and lovely dancer, the comedy team, the western band—are justifiably well received by the entertainment-hungry trainees.

Mrs. Rardin, wife of the manager and emcee, said. "You can't help but feel the show is worthwhile when you hear them clap and shout for more."

And that seemed to sum up the attitude of the whole troupe. They couldn't ask for more appreciative audiences and they're carrying vaudeville to places it never before reached—even in the palmiest days of the Orpheum circuit.

Plane Factories Do Production Miracles With Former Housewives And Drug Clerks

By HUGH WILLIAMSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GRAND PRAIRIE, Jan. 2. — Helen Tuorila was the only craftsman in her unusual line in north Texas. She mended broken china. It was a lucrative trade, but—

"To spend all your time mending old china when there's a war going on seemed awfully silly," she says. Now she's a welder, helping to turn out planes.

Takes All Kinds

To get the manpower and womanpower needed for mass production, a war plant takes on all kinds of people—some with very little training, many who have never seen the inside of a factory.

This was North American aviation's problem: How to speed up airplane manufacture by employing all kinds of "green" labor — beauty parlor operators, farmers, housewives and drug store clerks.

The answer was production illustration.

Blueprints were broken into series of pictures which the green worker could understand. The pictures were drawn by commercial and creative artists, including Alexandre Hogue, famed for his dust bowl paintings and Reveau Bessett, well-known naturalist painter.

Pictures Help

Hogue and Bessett made an intensive study of blueprints. Then they and the other artist drew the pictures that now guide beginners in their new tasks.

They are simple tasks, tiny steps in the manufacture of an airplane. As recently as five years ago, North American officials point out, an airplane was pretty much a custom-built job.

It took about five men to manufacture an outer wing panel for a plane. These men were all craftsmen. After they cut the metal parts and put them together, they had a fine wing panel, but it took a long time to get it.

Operations Broken Down

Today, in order to achieve mass production and in order to use raw labor, the construction of an outer wing panel has been broken down into a series of many minor operations which can be easily taught to new workers.

Not only can these operations be done quickly, but many simple parts can be assembled quickly. Thus wing panels today can be and are being—turned out at a staggering rate.

In addition to repairing china, she mended broken wooden articles and pressed flowers and did a bit of painting. She says she came by her talents naturally, because her father, a lumber mill operator in Wiergate, Texas, "can make anything."

Women Apply Old Skills

She graduated from the industrial arts department of the Texas State College for Women in 1939 after specializing in jewelry making and still-life painting.

She came to Dallas and learned the china-mending trade. Her teacher left the city, and she had the field to herself.

The way she mended china involved more than applying dimestorea glue to the broken parts. She cemented wires into the broken parts to give the seams strength.

More often than not, the broken pieces had parts missing. She made new parts, moulding a liquid porcelain into place and carefully painting on the designs to match the other parts.

After sandpapering and retouching, the new part was made to blend with the old so nobody could tell where the break was.

Perhaps that's not much like making airplanes. But the parallel between putting together pieces of broken china and fusing pieces of metal with a welding torch was pointed out to her as an example of the way women are applying their peace-time skills to war work.

You take many hundreds of green hands like Helen Tuorila, teach them what to do by the picture illustration method, start them doing it, and you've got mass production. You turn out a lot of airplanes in a hurry.

The labor recruits go for it.

"All I'm interested in now is learning to be a good welder so I can carry my part of the burden in winning the war," says Miss Tuorila.

Negligible Damage To Trees Is Seen

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

Lubbock's trees are battered, but unbowed.

Losses among them will be negligible as result of the ice storm here the night of Dec. 20-21.

This was the pleasant reassurance given Saturday by C. D. McGehee's Lubbock's young but veteran city parks superintendent.

McGehee also made a report which emphasized the magnitude of the job he has been supervising in removing the limbs and brush resulting from that storm.

Few Trees Killed

At the same time, he offered certain suggestions relative to the attention that should be given damaged trees on private property.

But perhaps the most cheering of his statements Saturday was this one:

"I have seen fewer than half a dozen trees, either upon city and private property, which seem to have been killed by the storm."

And he has been looking for that sort of trees with the eyes of an expert.

Those who were in Lubbock need no reminders of the ice storm. They recall the street, sidewalks, yards and parks which were littered with fallen limbs and brush. Many streets and sidewalks were impassable. Trees were few among the thousands in the city which escaped damage entirely. To many people it looked as though the tree planning and planting of nearly half a century in Lubbock had been ruined in a single night.

City Lost No Time

The city lost no time in getting on the job of removing the debris and in pruning damaged trees on municipal property. The city commission held a special meeting the afternoon of Dec. 21 and authorized City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr., to use every available truck and to hire the necessary crews to clear away the debris. Smith assigned McGehee to supervision of the job, and the next day, 12 city trucks were put into use.

Since then, from eight to 12 trucks have been in daily use—the trucks having been taken from various other city departments. The crews have averaged around six loads per truck per day.

Brush Hauled Away

In the aggregate, approximately 500 truck loads of fallen limbs and brush already have been haulded. A considerable portion of the limbs have been given to poorer people for use as firewood.

The parks superintendent would not attempt to estimate the number of loads still to be hauled. He hopes, however, to finish the job during the coming week. Most of the city already has been covered once. But new piles of brush continue to accumulate as damaged trees on private property are pruned.

In connection with pruning, McGehee offered several suggestions.

Pruning Knowledge Needed

He is of theopinion that more trees are likely to be killed by inexpert pruning than have been destroyed by the storm. He suggested that if you plan to employ someone to prune your trees, be sure it is someone who knows his business. Otherwise your trees may be ruined.

He offered some suggestions relative to the attention that should be given damaged trees.

Live Tree A Chance

If trees or limbs are lacerated by tears, treatment with any of many preparations will help protect them. These preparations are available in most drug stores, as well as numerous other places. Pine tar is good for this purpose. So is lead paint.

Don't chop down a tree because you think it is dead. Give it a chance. It may surprise you. McGehee isn't going to chop down any city trees for a while. He is going to be sure they have been killed before he removes them.

Meanwhile, the city manager and the parks superintendent expressed appreciation for the cooperation and the patience of the citizenship as a whole while the city has struggled with the job of hauling away the fallen limbs and brush.

"We hope and expect to finish the job within a few days if the weather continues reasonably clear," McGehee assured.

What You Buy With War Bonds

A Flying Fortress is to America's air fleet what heavy artillery is to the Army. This gigantic four-motored bomber, equipped with heavy cannon, carries about three tons of bombs and reaches a speed of about 300 miles an hour.

These ships carry a crew of seven to nine men, weigh about 22½ tons, have a wing spread of 105 feet and each motor develops 1,000 horsepower. We need more of these "Flying Fortresses" to compete with the Nazi air force. You can help by investing at least ten per cent of your income in War Bonds every payday. Buy them from your bank, postoffice or other convenient issuing agent.

PIG IRON DERIVATION

Pig iron is so called because the molten metal is run into a long mass with shorter pieces attached at right angles, somewhat resembling a sow and her suckling pigs.

ABUNDANT WATER POWER

So abundant is water power on the island of Java that hydro-electric plants supply electric lighting to the most remote mountain villages.

SPAFS Exchange Being Enlarged

Additions to at least two branches of the post exchange at South Plains Army Flying school are now under construction, thus affording the men in service further recreation and facilities at the post itself.

An addition to the sandwich bar will quadruple the amount of space formerly allotted to this particular branch of the "PX" and represents an expenditure of several thousand dollars, according to announcement by Lieut. Robert L. Houston, post engineer at SPAFS.

At the second branch of the "PX" an addition to the sandwich bar will more than double the space of the building and the added room will be devoted exclusively to the sale of clothing needed by the men, it was said.

This construction is in keeping with other expansion at the field, most of which is concerned with military installations and which represents a large amount in funds. Two more hangars are now in the process of construction as are WAAC barracks. In addition, other expenditures are being considered for construction on the field, including new buildings for recreation and quarters.

Olton Starts Year With Big Bond Sale

OLTON, Jan. 2. (Special)—Olton started 1943 by selling $15,000 worth of war bonds in a New Year's day program sponsored by the Lions Club and the Olton Study club, Frank Cummings announced for the combined organizations today.

Corporal S. J. "Buck" Jones, formerly of the 131st Battalion, U. S. field artillery, who was evacuated from Java, was the principal speaker. Other speakers included Pat Boone of Littlefield, Lamb count, bond committee chairman; John Price, editor, County-Wide News; the Rev. J. B. Baker, pastor of the Olton Methodist church; and the Rev. C. C. Griffiths, pastor of the First Baptist church of Olton.

On the program for stunts were H. A. Cates. Truitt Sides, "Shorty" Smith, Rube Stinson, Mrs. Jack Straw, Mrs. Bill Yates, Mrs. Dubb Granberry, and Miss Lucille Jameson.

Carload Of Seed To Be Sent To Russia

A meeting here Saturday of the Texas Certified Seed Growers association was held for the purpose of completing plans to ship planting seeds to Russia.

W. H. Cunningham of Littlefield, now acting as president of the group, called the meeting and presided. The group met at the warehouse of the association, 2205 Avenue G. Others attending are W. A. Goeth of Abernathy, state seed inspector; James T. Dunn of Lamesa, and Aubrey Edwards of Shallowater, secretary - treasurer of the association.

The association hopes to load a car of grain sorghums, sudan grass, and soybean seeds in Lubbock within a short time. This will all be certified seed, properly tagged and packaged, and sent to Russia, at the request of the U. S. government and also the Russian government.

"We think Russia is doing a swell job of fighting for us, and we want to donate these seeds without cost or obligation," Cunningham said. The Russian government will absorb the freight and transportation costs.

Question Of Continuance Of 99th Court Here Paramount

Next term of 99th district court will be convened Jan. 11—or will it?

The court term, by legislative enactment, is slated to be convened "the first Monday after the first Monday in January," but several complexities have entered the picture.

Judge E. L. Pitts resigned as presiding judge of the court last week to accept the electoral toga of chief justice of the court of civil appeals of the seventh supreme judicial district, which sits in Amarillo, creating a vacancy in the 99th judgeship.

Filled By Governor

By Texas constitutional provision, vacancies in the office of district judge, shall be filled by the governor.

But, one week before the court term is due by the official calendar to open, there has been no appointment.

Litigants and their attorneys are beginning to ask each other questions about when they will be able to "get into court."

Adding to the uncertainties are recent stories that indicated Gov. Coke R. Stevenson might not make appointments in several Texas Judicial districts that are now vacant, in keeping with his expressed policy of economy.

Must Be Justified

However, those who read carefully the text of the governor's announcements point out that Gov. Stevenson indicated failure to replace presiding judges would extend only to court districts that could not justify their continued existence—districts where there is overlapping of functions and especially those having litigation that easily might be absorbed by other courts, and districts that formerly required two or more courts but later felt changed conditions that made a less number sufficient.

In that connection, it is pointed out by attorneys and other students of court procedure in this section, there is so much litigation in Lubbock county that the presence of a resident judge is of decided necessity.

(There are two state judicial district courts serving Lubbock county. The 99th court sits for Lubbock county exclusively, holding two continuous 12-weeks terms in the spring, two continuous eight-weeks terms in the fall. The 72nd district court, presided over by Judge Daniel A. Blair, serves Lubbock county by holding three terms a year for a total of 18 weeks, but has to cover three other counties, as well: Crosby, Cochran and Hockley. Hockley and Cochran counties have become centers of lusty oil development, and court litigation in them has increased by leaps and bounds.)

Seven hundred eighty cases were filed in the 72nd and the 99th district courts in 1942, 74 of them criminal, and there are 314 cases now pending in the 99th court alone, 29 of them criminal.

Many Cases Pending

The 99th court serves a population center of approximately 60,000 persons; the 99th and the 72nd courts combined serve an area populated by approximately 80,000 persons. Since each of the four counties embraced by the two courts is constantly growing, it is deemed impossible, according to attorneys talked with, that the matter of keeping up with the growing litigation could be discharged by one court even were that court to resort to continuous terms.

(Civil actions in the four counties have shown a steady increase the last four years. In 1939 there were 543 cases filed, in 1940 there were 608, in 1941 there were 638 and in 1942 there were 706. Four hundred fifty-nine criminal cases were filed over that same period, an average of 115 a year.)

Wide Variety Of Service

There is no secret that numerous persons have written Gov. Stevenson and asked that he use his influence to see that there is no vacation of the 99th court through failure toappoint a successor to Judge Pitts. That chamber, in addition to handling a large number of the usual variety of civil and criminal actions, has functioned to hear some of the domestic troubles of Lubbock county, a large percentage of them involving the welfare of minor children. It also has heard numerous juvenile cases and actions in adoption.

Judge Pitts, before resigning, drew a grand jury to report Jan. 11, and pettit juries for the term. Since the last grand jury was adjourned Nov. 13, several criminal actions, including two for murder and several for assault with intent to murder, burglary, theft and other charges have been filed.

Public speculation, more concerned with the immediate outlook of litigants to get into court, has sought to learn whether the court term could be presided over by an attorney elected by Lubbock County Bar association or whether the administrative judicial council could designate some other district judge to come here and hold court.

Neither Course Open

Neither recourse apparently could be taken, those who point to the law say, because it would, in effect, "fill a vacancy" which can only be filled by the governor. They explain that such action can be taken only to assist the regular judge in the district where relief is so provided or to preside during a temporary absence of the regular judge—and Judge Pitts has resigned as judge of the 99th court.

Approximately 12 persons have indicated interest in replacing Judge Pitts. Most work has been done in interest of Robert Bean, former county attorney, and Burton S. Burks, present district attorney, it is known. None apparently knows what the governor intends; and there seems to be more public interest in keeping the court than in who might be appointed presiding judge.

"FIRST In Lubbock—FIRST On The South Plains"

LUBBOCK AVALANCHE-JOURNAL

Lubbock, Texas, Sunday, January 3, 1943

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

THAT'S a neatly phrased parody the Treasury department has inspired to stimulate the sale of war bonds—we mean the one entitled "Raise the Cash to Buy the Ammunition."

• • •

THIS sign was reported on a South Plains store whose owner has gone to war—"Closed for altercations."

• • •

The calls for Hubettes to attend dances given for service men at LAFS or SPAFS are always quickly answered. Which shows that Lubbock girls are ready to take whatever steps are necessary for their country.

DICTATORS OF BATON

THE leading conductors on America's contemporary orchestral scene are presented in thirty biographical and personal portraits with brief histories of about 20 of the nation's major symphony orchestras in a new book, "Dictators of the Baton," by David Ewen and to be published this month.

When the dictators yield to humor it is usually coated with acid, writes Ewen. "This is no sty!", cried Leopold Stokowski to his reed players. "You are squealing like pigs." Once Auturo Toscanini left the platform, went to the corner of the stage, sank into a chair, and started weeping like an insulted schoolgirl.

Serge Koussevitzky once fired a musician for hitting some sour notes. The musician rose from his seat, disgusted. "Nuts to you, Mr. Koussevitzky," he exclaimed. Koussevitzky answered emphatically, "I'm sorry. It's too late to apologize."

NUTRITION — Manpower Boss Paul McNutt has been trying, among other things, to put across to the country the realization that good nutrition and avoidance of food waste are potent wartime weapons. But, even in vitamin-conscious America, there are plenty of housewives who never heard of a balanced diet. So look for a rash of government pamphlets, telling you how to get the most energy and manpower out of your meals.

SCATTERINGS

A telephone call last week to a home where three generations of women live who have the same last name brought the rather startling answer, "This is the old lady" to the question, "Who is that, please?" . . Overheard on another telephone line was a father's warning of "Don't you go out in the hall in your bare feet" to a teen-age daughter called to the telephone. . . . Major Jimmie Daley, former ace with the American Eagle Squadron and now with Uncle Sam's air forces, visited the mailing room at the Amarillo News-Globe office last week and was presented with an expensive pocket watch, a gift from the present carriers . . . A bit of ingenuity on the part of Mrs. Eddie Richards, 1917 Twenty-second street, and several yards of Scotch tape and her Christmas greeting cards were displayed across and down the mantel.

Mrs. D. F. McCarron has eyes as beautiful as a movie star's . . . It's conceded that Cohan's stirring song of the first World war, "Over There," is excellent as a march and also as a song and yet it is seldom heard. Until such time as a better song may be written, what's the harm of marching to and singing "Over There?" . . . Is the franked envelope privilege granted by Congress to men in the armed service also allotted to their wives? Several letters a week come to our desk bearing the return post address of soldiers but which were written by their wives out in town . . . After all these years, along comes Ripley, the old astounder, and says there's a grammatical error in the marriage ceremony. It reads "until death do us part" and that's wrong, he says. Should be "until death DOES us part." Next time we attend a wedding, we shall hold our breath, sitting in tortured fear lest a grammarian leap to his feet at the very climax of the solemn vows and shout out: "Whoa, brother, you're wrong! It should be death DOES."

CONFUSION can be caused by parents who saddle their male children with female names or female children with male names. For instance, the other day arrangements were made for one Connie Davis, 13, whose name was taken from a list of scrap iron contest winners, to christen a freighter. Then they found Connie was a boy and a change was made . . . The butter substitutes on the market are not at all bad, looking, smelling and tasting like butter . . . Add to newly coined words: "Vitamunitions." A large picture of Lt. Clinton W. Kirkpatrick, whose wife the former Charlotte Wheelock lives in Lubbock, is appearing in Sunday art gravure sections throughout the country. Clinton is "somewhere on the western desert" where he is stationed with a United States bomber command. One of the finest gestures of the Christmas season: American forces stationed all over the globe and brightening lives of needy youngsters with bountiful meals and toys . . . Did you know that Capt. Wilson A. "Whit" Chapman of Quitaque, winner of the purple heart and other honors, who visited friends at Tech college recently, has a twin brother, Dick, and that they were co-managers of the Amarillo Golden Sandstorm football team in 1932?

TEA IS POSTPONED

The Tech Faculty Women's club will not meet this Wednesday, according to an announcement this week end. The next meeting will be held in February.

Holidays Of Younger Set Are Filled

Honoring a number of their friends, Misses Mary Menon and Ava Ruth Stangel entertained with a New Year's tea Friday afternoon between 3:30 and 5:30 o'clock at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stangel of 2605 Twenty-second street.

Assisting in the house party were Misses Betty O'Mara, Jean Renner, Carol Krueger and Sue Standefer.

Sub-Deb Club Attends Supper And Election

Frances Groce was elected president of the Sub-Deb club when the members met for a bean supper at the home of Flora Dare Stuart, 1715 Thirtieth street, Thursday night. Others elected were:

Ruth Anthony, vice president; Nell Graham, second vice president; Joan Lord, secretary; Opal Hall, treasurer; Flora Dare Stuart, reporter; Nell Anthony, rush captain.

Other members attending were Nancy Nejll, Pat Marquis, Lois Cone, Lareta Maner, Marjorie Read, Betty Davis, Elizabeth Ponce, D'Aun Corcorran, Eloise Gill, Marjorie Moore, Joy Haney, Jo Ann Forbes, Mary Helen Pirtle, Jayne Glaze, LaRue Hall, Willella Nelson, Jean Goodloe, Wanda Barker, Betty Sue Godbehere, Ruth Taylor and Elizabeth McLeary.

Dorothy Lee Lewis and Melba Joyce Halbert were two pledges attending. Guests included Pat O'Leary, Connie Williams, Rose Mary Hairston, Margaret Klaus, Martha Jean Thurman, Marjorie Webster, Barbara Klaus, Sue Moreland and Doris Mae Burdett.

Miss Ross Is Married To Staff Sgt. Boyd

Word was received here Saturday of the marriage of Miss Marie Ross of Lubbock, formerly of Matador, to Staff Sgt. Clinton T. Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Boyd of 2108 Twenty-eighth street, which took place in a twilight single ring service December 16 in Albany, Ga.

She was employed with the Ladyfair Beauty service before her marriage. Sgt. Boyd is crew chief in the mechanical division at Turner field, Albany, Ga.

The couple will be at home at 317 Flint Avenue in Albany. They are expected to visit in Lubbock soon.

First Of Year Coffee Given

Four Lubbock women were hostesses at a lovely New Year's coffee Friday morning from 9:30 to 11:30 o'clock in the home of Mrs. J. F. Gregory, 2414 Thirteenth street. Mesdames R. V. Williams, J. M. Young and D. B. McAllister were hostesses with Mrs. Gregory.

Those in the house party were Mesdames W. M. Ryan, A. B. Davis, Joe Nislar, C. R. Cagle, Iris Bergholm, Jerry Nash, Jesse Seale and Leonard Curfman of Beaumont.

The refreshment table was laid with a handmade cloth and centered with a holly wreath from Oregon. One large red candle was in the center of the wreath, flanked with eight white candles in crystal holders on either side.

Mesdames Davis and Gregory poured coffee the first hour, and Mesdames Bergholm and Ryan the second hour. During the afternoon, the women in the house party played games of bridge.

Eagan-Corley Vows Taken At Olney

Lt. Buford W. Eagan, former Tech student who is stationed at Camp Hulen, and Miss Helen Corley of Dallas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Corley of Olney were married in the latter city recently, according to announcement received here.

Lt. Eagan received his wings and commission from Brooks field last July. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Eagan of Olney, former Littlefield residents. At Tech college, he was a member of the Centaur club.

The bride is a former Tech student and taught school for two years at Throckmorton, resigning to work at an aircraft plant in Dallas where she is head of the bond department.

The service was read at the First Methodist church in Olney by Rev. J. W. Sharbutt.

MRS. ZEB A. MOORE, JR.

Moore-Lewis Marriage Is Read In Brownfield Home; Couple To Live In Amarillo

BROWNFIELD, Jan. 2 (Special)—The home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Lewis, 111 South First street, was the scene Thursday night at 8 o'clock for the marriage of their daughter, Vondee Lewis, to Zeb A. Moore, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. A. Moore of 1202 West Tenth street, Amarillo. Rev. W. A. Rogers read a single ring ceremony.

A decorative background for the wedding party was arranged with white gladioli and large baskets of calla lilies and delphinum set against spruce and smilax, illuminated with candles.

The wedding music was played by Leon Lewis, brother of the bride, who offered "Indian Love Call" and "I Love You Truly" as a prelude and played the traditional wedding march.

In Traditional Satin

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a period gown of ivory satin styled with fitted basque with sweetheart neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the wrists. Her gathered skirt was designed with a train and her veil of ivory illusion was held by a coronet caught with orange blossoms. She wore a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a white Bible topped with white orchids showered with stephanotic.

Miss Eleanor Gillham of Brownfield was maid of honor and Miss Elray Lewis of Santa Fe, N. M., sister of the bride, was maid of honor. They wore identical gowns of pale blue styled with bodices of draped silk jersey and skirts of marquisette over slips of faille taffeta. They wore strands of pearls and carried Colonial bouquets of white, pink and blue flowers.

C. L. (Bobby) Lewis served as best man and Deverelle Lewis was the groomsman. They are brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Lewis wore a black crepe dress ornamented with tiny black beads in a flower design and a corsage of pink camellias. The bridegroom's mother wore a dark blue crepe dress and a corsage of Talisman roses.

In Pink Motif

At the reception which followed, the bride's table was laid with a Maytime pink and dubonnet satin cloth and was decorated with garlands of hothouse smilax and gardenias around a three-tiered wedding cake. Punch was served from two bowls banked with white flowers which were placed on a glass-topped table.

Annual Reports From County Home Demonstration Agents Show Increased Work In Production Of Home Grown Food

ANNUAL reports of Miss Clara Pratt, county home demonstration agent and Mrs. Mona K. Hildreth, assistant home demonstration agent, for Lubbock county show the results of increased work in the production of home grown food. The following is a summary of their reports.

The home demonstration council and 4-H Girls' council directed the work in the county. Both organizations have the status of a committee and are made up of the presidents and elected council members from the home demonstration and 4-H girls' clubs.

Again this year the girls and women selected their own goals in each demonstration. According to reports, 101 girls and 120 women reached all their goals.

The women continued yard improvements and started the poultry phase of the home food supply. The present demand of increased production of poultry and poultry products has added interest to the poultry demonstrations. This year completes a three year program on yard improvement and the yards over the country show the success of the program.

Fairly complete reports from 385 home demonstration club members show that they canned 91,844 quarts of fruits and vegetables. This is a considerable increase over last year and is due no doubt to the food and feed program it was explained. More food has been stored in freezer lockers and dried and cured than last year.

The girls continued garden fruits and bedroom improvements this year. Their reports showed that 308 girls canned 50,169 quarts of fruit and vegetables.

The home demonstration agent wrote 55 news stories; attended 263 meetings with 9,353 people present; made 175 visits to demonstrators and 123 home visits in 148 different homes; 47 of which she had not been in before; and drove 8,422 official miles.

The assistant home demonstration agent wrote 54 news stories; gave 19 radio talks; attended 222 meetings when 8,557 people attended; made 185 demontrator visits and 138 home visits; and drove 5,963 official miles.

Greetings Peoples . . . this is your friend NOSEY III, saying that the only New Year's RESOLUTION he'll make is not to make one. Uncle Sam will probably make plenty of resolutions for us anyways and here's hoping that we can all accept them with the "gusto" that we should. All the girls (Alma-Fredda-Dorothy-Jean) will be making resolutions to get in the prettiest gifts that 1943 will have to offer. Guess ole' Nosey III had better hurry over to see what he can see.

Well, "I DOOD IT" . . . (without permission from a famous radio star.

The girls are really "woiking hard" trying to get an idea of what the Studio didn't sell last year. Nosey doesn't envy anyone who has to take inventory but would suggest that all you ladies make an invoice of your china for 1943. DECORATORS has just gotten in some beautiful new Franciscan China . . . another new one . . . Northridge pattern. The shoulder of Northridge is of wide cranberry Red color with translucent center. Better visit the girls and ask about this pattern. The new "host" chairs are in, too. They're really broad and comfortable. In fact so comfy . . . we'd wager you could even enjoy the company of a boring guest from the seat of a host.

Well, guess I'd better leave you for this week and leave a hope of Health and Happiness for each of you for the New Year. I saw NOSEY JR'S mother—but she had had no report of (or from) him since his entry into the Armed Forces. Yours, NOSEY III.

P. S. The original NOSEY was in town for Xmas and does he look good in his Naval uniform.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Williams, parents of the bridegroom, Billy and Fred Williams, Mrs. Elva Fry and son, James Enlowe and close friends.

The couple will be at home in Hollywood. Mr. Williams is employed in defense work in Los Angeles.

Uncle Sam Finding Hoarding Necessary

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—There's such a thing as patriotic hoarding—but only Uncle Sam can do it.

While asking citizens to limit food purchases to day-to-day needs, Mr. Whiskers, himself, finds that he must engage in hoarding practices to assure supplies of food for military and lend-lease requirements.

Food authorities explained today that government purchases of foods may from time to time be greatly in excess of current requirements. To handle the extra supplies, the Army, Navy and the Agriculture department have rented extensive warehousing and refrigerating facilities.

The practice of acquiring supplies in excess of current needs, referred to in official quarters as "stockpiling," is made necessary largely by the nature of food production.

In very few items is the rate of production constant. For most products there are seasons of high production and seasons of low production.

Thus, to be sure of supplies, the government must buy heavily in the seasons of peak production, or else it might be short in the seasons of low production.

STEPUP DRIVES UNDER WAY

Labor-management committees to direct war production step-up drives have been organized in 1700 war plants employing 3,300,000 workers.

From Lou To Louella

DEAR LOUELLA: We understand that Frankie Lou Teague and C. L. Moore have planned a date to listen to music by Mendelssohn in the very, very near future . . . Someone called this week to tell us that Marian Stratton was wearing a ring given her by Lt. Jack Kilpatrick of SPAFS . . . Guess the big news is the date, February 2, set by Frances Gordon, former Tech student and Ko Shari member, and Lt. Bill Larmer, Tech graduate, who is stationed at Fort Benning, Columbus, Ga. The bells will ding-dong following her mid-term graduation from Texas State College for Women at Denton.

• • •

Wedding Dates Planned

Twila Farrell, attractive and talented Tech graduate, has a ring on that important finger given her by Rev. Mac Stowe, Methodist minister at Houston. Twila is educational director for the Longview Methodist church. The wedding will be in May . . . "Hopie" Read and Mildred Hankins, Tech graduates, have returned from South Bend, Ind., where they visited their Naval boy friends, Henry Austin and Orville Shofner. Mildred now wears a diamond, third finger, left hand.

• • •

WON'T you agree that Mrs. Jack Pinkley, the former Linda Cannon pictured in today's paper, looks like Lana Turner? . . . Talk about the Christmas mail rush! A girl employed at SPAFS received a letter from Amarillo this week—dated November 24! . . . Mrs. R. E. Penney of 1601 Fifteenth street, left last week for New Orleans where she will meet her son, Hulen Penney, a second class seaman in the United States Navy, stationed at Pensacola, Fla. The two will have a three day post-Christmas celebration together . . . We heard someone say she thinks Joan Wolaver has the prettiest skin she had ever seen . . . It's not unusual these days to see girls in flowing evening dresses riding buses to the soldier dances. And it doesn't seem to bother any of them in the least! . . . About town: Helen Ruth Barber and civilian date drinking cokes and watching the passing parade in the drug store . . . A lot of people humming that catchy tune, "For Me and My Gal" . . . Virginia Tucker, daughter of Mrs. Gettys Tucker, 2902 Twentieth street, plans to leave the first of February for Gainesville, Ga., where she will attend Brenau College for Women . . . Wesley Hamilton is worried because all his girl friends live on the same street, and within a few blocks of each other. Oh, well, Wesley can manage!

Concerning The Army

There's a "Nick" Nichols at Tech and a "Nick" Nichols at LAFS. The former is Nelson Nichols of Sudan, and the latter is an aviation cadet from Louisiana . . . We'll bet those four ping-pong tables at the new Soldier Recreation center get plenty of use. There were good crowds at the center this past week, and it promises to become even more popular . . . Anybody wondering how it feels to be popular might find out by asking First Lt. John McDonald of SPAFS. He was bowling the other p. m. with no less than five lovely ladies helping him jot down the results of the falling pins . . . One of the most popular persons at LAFS is Mrs. Dan Blair, hospital dietitian . . . Sgt. Fred Eklund of LAFS, formerly of Chicago, likes to remember his hunting days . . . Bernice Cocanougher received a New Year's greeting from Pvt. A. L. Hawkins of the U. S. Marines. A. Meat In Storage To Be Reported

Those with fresh meat in cold storage lockers will be in the same boat with everyone else, so far as quantities are concerned, when rationing is started.

This information was supplied Saturday through officials of Lubbock district offices of the Office of Price Administration.

True, the official information on this subject in the hands of the OPA here is limited. But officials were positive in their opinion that every pound of meat of the kinds prescribed for rationing will have to be reported by the consumer who owns it before he will be able to obtain one of the new point-system ration books to be issued at some indefinite time, probably in the near future.

Presents Special Problems

Officials admitted that the situation as to meat in storage lockers presents some special problems. In Lubbock, considerable numbers of people have used such lockers almost from the time they became available. Many have made a practice of keeping whole carcasses of cattle, hogs and sometimes sheep in them. Many are continuing that practice as rationing impends. It may be that a few others have secured such lockers recently with the deliberate expectation of hoarding meat.

If that is their plan, officials declare, they almost certainly are doomed to disappointment. They either will "play ball," or they very likely will face prosecution.

Just what may be involved in "playing ball" still is uncertain as to details. But the expectation is that the plan will work something like this:

When the owner seeks his new ration book he will be required to report his quantities of ration-type meats on hand. This will include everything, regardless where it may be kept. Let's suppose that the meat ration is set at two pounds pe rperson per week. Let's suppose further that Citizen John Doe has 100 pounds of ration-type meat in his locker, or elsewhere, for each member of his family. This likely will mean that he won't be able to buy, or to store, any additional ration-type meats for 50 weeks.

Probably the whole operating plan will be considerably more complicated than the one outlined here, and will involve different "point values" for different kinds of meats at different times. But the whole idea of the system, as reiterated repeatedly in Washington and elsewhere, will be divide the available supply of meat fairly and equitably among all people. One among the several unpleasant prospects facing those who try to cheat, or those who help cheaters, will be prosecution, with fine and imprisonment the probable penalty upon conviction.

Cheaters Are Exceptions

However, information obtained in Lubbock is that those who may try to cheat will be the exceptions—although these exceptions are to be expected. The indications are that, taken as an overwhelming whole, locker users will lean backward in abiding by the spirit, as well as the letter, of rationing regulations.

Yet they and others who try to put meat aside in quantities face problems. Many, for example, have followed the practice of taking meat animals to packing plants to be slaughtered and dressed. This service no longer is available. If a packer slaughters an animal for an individual, it is charged against the packer's quota for the year—and his quota already has been reduced so sharply that he cannot serve his retail store and other patrons.

However, nothing in the existing regulations—and these may be changed—prevents the owner of the animal from doing the slaughtering and dressing himself. But a great many lack the experience to do this. They likely would ruin the beef if they tried it. Many others who know how aren't going to do any slaughtering—for rather obvious reasons.

Remedy Being Sought

An attempt is pending, so far as the city of Lubbock is concerned, to remedy this situation. Request has been made that operators of locker services be authorized to do slaughtering for their patrons. This sort of authorization would require, at the least, an amendment to existing city ordinances. That would be involved and time-taking. Among other things, a public hearing would be required as one preliminary to the approval of such a change in city laws. People generally would be given opportunity to express their views on the proposal to set up slaughter houses inside the city limits. It is entirely possible, too, that the locker operator might run into difficulties with the OPA or some other federal agency.

However, despite many problems and uncertainties, the one assured fact seemed to be Saturday that the individual with meat stored in a locker, or elsewhere, will not be allowed to eat any more meat under rationing than anyone else unless he chooses to take a most serious risk.

World's oldest jewel is said to be amber, often called "the gem of the ages."

Eighth Corps Units To Open Maneuvers

FORT SAM HOUSTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Units of the Eighth Corps will be the first to take the field in the 1943 Louisiana maneuvers of the Third army, Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger, Third army commander, said today.

The announcement was made through his public relations office.

The Eighth corps is commanded by Major General Dan I. Sultan with headquarters at Brownwood, Tex.

Units of the Fourth and Tenth corps, commanded by Maj. Gen. Oscar Griswold and Maj. Gen. Courtney Hodges, respectively, will take part in the maneuvers later, General Krueger's announcement said.

The army ground force maneuvers, to begin Feb. 1, were announced yesterday by Secretary of War Stimson.

Famed Authority On Architecture Dies

WICKFORD, R. I., Jan. 2. (AP)—Norman Morrison Isham, 78, nationally-known authority on early American architecture, died Friday at his Wickford home.

A pioneer in the field of accurate studies of early housing in the English colonies of America, Isham became known widely both as a teacher and an author.

He was consultant in full charge of the colonial rooms at the American wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York during 1923 and 1924, and was consulting architect on the state buildings of Delaware during four years of reconstruction.

An instructor in architecture at Brown university back in the 1800's he headed the architectural department of the Rhode Island School of Design from 1912 to 1920 and from 1923 to 1933.

Born in Hartford, Conn., and a graduate of Brown in 1886, he was member of many antiquarian and historical societies, including the Walpole and American antiquarian societies and the Wren society of London.

U. S. Reynosa Office Made Full Consulate

McALLEN, Jan. 2 (AP)—The U. S. vice consulate at Reynosa, Mex., across the Rio Grande from McAllen, has been designated a full consulate.

Consul Henry G. Krausse, who made the announcement, has been in charge of the vice consulate here since it opened last July.

Vaccinations Given In Smallpox Outbreak

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2 (AP)—Thousands of doctors, nurses, patients and employes in Philadelphia hospitals were vaccinated against smallpox yesterday and today as the Pennsylvania Health department reported eight new cases of the disease, bringing the total to 48 in an outbreak which developed two weeks ago.

ATTORNEY IS APPOINTED

TERRELL, Jan. 2 (AP) — Taylor Carlisle, former Kaufman county attorney, Friday was appointed to that office by the commissioners court.

Carlisle succeeds Fred T. Porter, who resigned to join a Dallas law firm.

U. S. Is Prepared If Gas Is Used In War

EDGEWOOD ARSENAL, Md., Jan. 2 (AP)—If gas becomes a weapon of general use in this war, the chemical warfare service of the Army is ready to give it—and equally ready to take it.

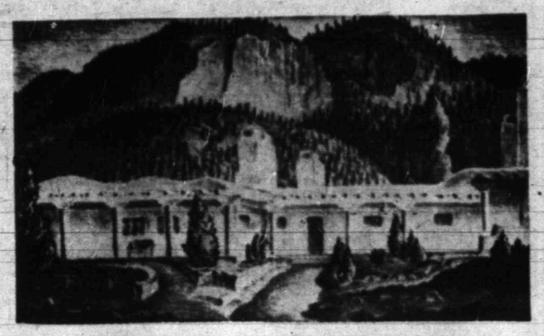

Maj. Gen. William N. Porter, CWS chief, said today the Germans were known to have large stores of war gas, and could be expected to use it whenever advantageous.

"So far, in my opinion, the only reason the Germans have not used gas is that they have not needed it," he said.

"In Russia there was no point in spraying their own path with mustard gas for that 1,000-mile walk. It would have been to Russia's advantage to use gas against the Germans, but they were a signatory to the treaty prohibiting the use of gas, and apparently intend to abide by it."

The United States, Porter noted, has never signed such a treaty, but nevertheless is committed to a policy of retaliation if gas is used against Allied troops.

"We would all be very remiss, however, if we went into this without sufficient quantities of gas," he added. "We feel now that we are ahead of Germany in the production of gas."

HONORABLE MENTION—Lubbockites who visit El Porvenir, N. M., will recall the lodge which is shown in this lithograph by Mrs. Chester A. Hubbard of 1815 Avenue K, which she has named "El Porvenir." "Hermit's Peak" is in the background. The lithograph won honorable mention in the West Texas Art show which was sponsored last month by the Fort Worth Art association. High School English Class Project Means Plenty Mail For Cuba, Ill., Men In Service

(By The Associated Press)

CUBA, Ill., Jan. 2—From Iceland to the Solomons servicemen from Edgar Lee Masters' Spoon river country must be the envy of their barracks each day at mail call.

They probably get more letters than anyone else.

A 12-foot red, white and blue sign over the door of the Cuba high school tells the story. It reads: "Home of the service letter buddies."

In mobilizing high school pupils to write to men in camps and on the battlefronts, Cuba Supt. of Schools Earl H. Dugan, who also is commander of his American legion post, found a practical answed to servicemen's pleas for more news from home and an unusual method of teaching English grammar.

250 In Service

Cuba has some 250 men in the armed forces, and for the last three months each man has been averaging more than one letter a week from his "service letter buddies" back in the high school. The servicemen are enthusiastic, replying with such sentiment as "a letter from home means more than dollar bills" and "Mr. Dugan, you keep the kids writing and we promise to keep them rolling."

One soldier described how "wonderful" it was to get a letter from home, adding "it is certainly a terrible feeling to receive no letters at mail call. I know for it has often happened to me."

Collecting the names and addresses of the men in service was the first job and the hardest. Mimeographed letters to their families, publicity in the local newspaper, placards in the postoffice and posters in the store windows did the trick.

Mondays and Tuesdays are letter writing days at the schools and the output of the 150 students in the project is impressive. One soldier reported receiving six letters from the "buddies" in a single day.

First Commando Chief Made Baron By King

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Admiral of the fleet Sir Roger J. B. Keyes, the first leader of Britain's commandos and one of the government's serverest naval critics, was made a baron by the king in a long and democratic honors lists published today.

General Lord Gort, who was at the head of British troops in Flanders and now commands at Malta, and General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, the British commanding general for India and Burma, were promoted to field marshal.

Army Aviation Cadet Dies In Plane Crash

FORT WORTH, Jan. 2. (U.P.)—Hicks field officials today announced that Army Aviation Cadet Anthony R. Volpe, 27, of Scranton, Pa., was killed when a training plane crashed six miles north of the field yesterday.

His instructor, Thomas F. Pemberton, of the YMCA, parachuted to safety.

Maj. R. C. Sears, commander of the base, said the plane was on a routine flight when the crash occurred.

Lubbock Churches Doing Part To Entertain Soldiers Here

Centers Formed For Recreation

Lubbock churches are doing everything possible to make the men in service in this vicinity happy and to give them a place to spend their leisure time. Gone are the days when the church was a place to which one went only on Sunday for, in the busy world of today, there is a place for the church to fill seven days out of the week.

Interested church leaders of all denominations in the city have realized their obligation to the man in uniform and to the college student away from home and special centers and rooms have been designated for their use, not only on Sunday but during the week. Practically all of the churches have recreation centers which feature a variety of games and entertainment, hostesses on duty to talk with those who want conversation and a number have well-filled libraries containing the newest as well as the best in literature.

Hostess Is On Duty

Fellowship hall at the First Presbyterian church is open on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights for all men in service. A hostess is on duty at all times and in addition to games, a radio and victrola combination is available for those interested in musical programs, a reading room is arranged for men wishing a quiet evening and a lounge is also provided. The hall is located at the church, Fourteenth street and Avenue N.

The Student Activity center sponsored by the First Baptist church has a program of entertainment for the men in service and college students each Saturday night. Particular plans are made each week to make this night an interesting one, leaders report, and all men in uniform are invited to attend. The Center is located at Main street and Avenue M.

"Home Away From Home"

"A home away from home" is the place which the Student Center sponsored by the First Methodist church at 2301 Tenth street, tries to fill. This center is designed for both Tech students and service men and is open at all times. A large game room in the basement is one of the major attractions. A Sunday evening club for business and professional women and service men is held at 6:30 o'clock at the church, Broadway and Avenue M and supper is served.

A hospitality center at the First Christian church, Broadway and Avenue X, has been furnished for soldiers, sailors and others in the service who might use it. Games of all descriptions, including ping-pong, shuffleboard and parlor games are on hand and refreshments are served. Hostesses are on duty each night from 7 to 10 to greet the men. The church also has a good library.

Open House Every Sunday

Open house each Sunday night is the contribution of St. Elizabeth's Catholic church which also sponsors a dancing class on Thursday nights. Recreation and refreshments are provided for the Sunday night affairs.

Wednesday night is the time chosen by the Redeemer Lutheran church for entertainment of service men and an attractive room is set aside in the church at 1715 Nineteenth street.

Opening of a recreation room for men in uniform is being planned by St. John's Methodist church, Fourteenth street and Avenue X. The church intends to have one night each week set aside for entertaining the men and plans will be announced within the next two weeks, Rev. Alsie H. Carleton, pastor announced.

Other churches also have made arrangements for providing recreation for the men and none should have any trouble finding a place in which to relax and have a good time.

Only the states of Indiana, New Hampshire and Texas have no mottoes.

Church Notes

Rev. Brown C. Welch, who has been holding the Cumberland Presbyterian pastorate at Garden City, has been chosen to take the place of Rev. Carl C. Durbin of the First Cumberland Presbyterian church, who is awaiting call to the Army as chaplain. Rev. Welch will preach at both services today, but he will not be able to move to Lubbock until Feb. 1, when he is freed of his duties at Garden City. After Feb. 1 he will make his home at 1610 Tenth street.

Rev. Fred Beard, state superintendent of the Four Square Gospel Church, and Mrs. Beard are guest speakers at the local Four Square Gospel church today, Eighth street, and Avenue Q. Mrs. Beard will speak at the morning service, and Rev. Beard will speak at the evening service, illustrating his sermon with special war pictures.

At the Grace Gospel church today, Rev. Norman F. Douty of the Northern Baptist Seminary, recommended by Milton B. Linberg, superintendent of the Chicago Hebrew Mission, as one of the best Bible scholars and teachers of the day, will conduct both services today, it was announced by T. M. Wiley, pastor.

Rev. P. R. Hyde, district superintendent of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, will hold services this morning and tonight at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Gospel Tabernacle, 1503 Avenue V, and also will conduct meetings each night this week at 8 o'clock. Bible lessons will be conducted on week-day mornings, but definite time and place has not been set.

At Asbury Methodist church, Twentieth street and Avenue T, Rev. Cecil Matthews will speak at both services today. Installation of officers for the Woman's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild will be conducted tonight by Rev. Matthews.

Mrs. H. H. Anderson will assume duties at the First Methodist church today as director of religious education, which position she will hold during the absence of Miss Mattie Sue Howell, who is on leave of absence to finish work on a master's degree in religious education at Scarritt College for Christian Workers, Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. Anderson is the former Miss Betty McCown.

Former Secretary To Benes Said Executed

LONDON, Jan. 2 (AP) — Members of the provisional Czecho-Slovak government here said today they had learned in advices from Zurich, Switzerland, that Jiri Sedmik, 49, for many years secretary to President Eduard Benes, had been executed with six others at Prague for fostering an anti-German organization.

PREACHING AT SLATON—Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Wharton, above, are preaching in a revival meeting at the Assembly of God church in Slaton. Services are being held nightly at 7:45 o'clock. Rev. E. L. Hester is pastor of the church.

French Factions May Agree Soon

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Jan. 2—Although Gen. Charles De Gaulle's price for union with Gen. Henri Honore Giraud is complete elimination of all Vichy influence in North Africa, Fighting French quarters expressed confidence today that the two factions seeking to free France from the Axis would get together soon.

United Press dispatches from Algiers said it was a foregone conclusion there that there would be a final rapprochement between De Gaulle and Giraud with American diplomacy playing a leading role in bringing it about.

A spokesman for Gen. De Gaulle's Fighting French made his terms clear. Of the members of the French imperial council set up in North Africa, only Giraud is acceptable. The others are tainted with Vichy to a greater or lesser degree and must go before the Fighting French can unify with the regime, he said.

"This is a cardinal question which must be settled first before there is any union of De Gaulle and Giraud forces," De Gaulle's spokesman said.

American diplomatic quarters did not know whether Robert Murphy, President Roosevelt's personal representative in North Africa, was acting as mediator between De Gaulle and Giraud, but said it was likely.

Home-Made Shotgun Shells Cause Mishap

HOUSTON, Jan. 2. (U.P.)—Robert C. Gwin, injured when a home-made shotgun charge clasted a gun barrel, was in a critical condition today, hospital authorities reported.

Tommy Kennedy, 16, and Robert, 17, were target shooting with a 12-gauge shotgun when the accident happened, Homicide Officers W. C. Doss and Frank Murray said.

The youths were making their own shells, using the lead terminal of a dry battery for the bullet, and the powder from a 10-gauge shell for the charge. When Tommy fired the shell, the barrel exploded, and a six-inch piece of metal torn off the chamber struck Robert in his right eye.

Celeste Being Sought In West Texas Areas

SWEETWATER, Jan. 2 (U.P.)—Exploration of Nolan, Fisher, Brown, and Coke counties for deposits of celeste, a mineral used in making flares, was underway today.

M. M. Young, of the Department of the Interior, was in charge of the search for the mineral, which is found in rocklike deposits.

PEANUTS PROFITABLE

YOAKUM, Jan. 2 (U.P.)—The sale of peanuts is pouring new money into this town. The crop here this season has exceeded 1,000,000 pounds. The largest previous crop yielded only 14 cars, in 1939.

Cleburne Postoffice Again Is First Class

CLEBURNE, Jan. 2 (U.P.)—For the second time in its history the Cleburne postoffice has received the rating of a first-class postoffice, Postmaster Roy L. Doak said today.

The first time the rating was won was in 1928-29. In order to be rated as first-class office, receipts must be as high as $45,000 for the calendar year.

PRICES MAY INCREASE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (U.P.)—The Office of Price administration today announced that price increases may soon be authorized for milk marketing areas in which farm prices have been boosted since March.

Sinkwich Blows Up As Wife, Her Sister Give Movies A Fling

(By The United Press)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 2.—Mrs. Frank Sinkwich and her sister Dorothy sorrowfully renounced their movie careers today; they made the mistake of posing for Hollywood leg art and her football playing husband blew up.

"He really did," she said, reporting back tearfully to Universal Studios.

"He said no screen test, no career, no nothing. He said we were going back to Georgia and stay there."

The producers said maybe the sisters ought to drop out for a talk.

Law Laid Down

"We wouldn't dare," she replied. "Frankie said we couldn't set foot in the studio again."

The pretty sisters came West to root for Sinkwich and the Georgia team at the Rose Bowl game. They toured the movie studios with the wives of Georgia coaches and said they particularly wanted to watch the Bud Abbott and Lou Costello team in action.

These gentlemen were making a movie called "Oh, Doctor," and the girls found themselves on the set watching their heroes perform. They even got to shake hands with their favorite actors.

Girls Are Praised

"You girls are beautiful," said Costello. "I mean gorgeous."

"You ought to be in pictures," added Abbott.

The girls blushed. They didn't know that Mr. A. and Mr. C. told that to all the girls. Then they confessed they liked to act. They added that, in fact, when they weren't studying at the University of Georgia, they functioned as a dance team. They had their press clippings to prove it.

The movie makers who seldom overlook a bet, offered the sisters an immediate audition. Dorothy said they had no dancing clothes. Universal's fardrobe department fixed that. Mrs. Sinkwich received a gown with spangles on it and a skirt that reached half way to the knee.

Do Their Terpsichore

Sister Dorothy put on a costume of the same cut, only shorter, and instead of spangles it had feathers. Then they did their terpsichore for Louis Da Pron, the studio dance director. There were some flashes of light, but the sisters were too excited to worry much about the studio's photographer picturing them from every conceivable angle.

The girls put on their street clothes; the studio chieftains told them to return in a couple of days for screen tests. Came the dawn. Came the newspapers to Pasadena.

And there was Sinkwich, whose ankles hurt like the devil anyhow, looking at pictures of the handsomest legs to be seen in print hereabouts in weeks. The beauteous blonde with the flower in her hair, the caption said, was Mrs. Frank Sinkwich. The brunette with the ribbons on her shoulders (and not much else) was her sister, Dot.

What happened next was painful. As Dorothy put it:

"He told us to forget about Hollywood and go back to school where we belonged. I'm sorry, but I don't think I'd better tell you what else he said."

The Universal casting department said it was sorry, too, but that it understood.

PIONEER DIES

DALLAS, Jan. 2 (U.P.)—Services were held today for Mrs. W. R. Marchman, 91-year-old pioneer resident of Texas.

She died yesterday. She was the mother of Dr. O. M. Marchman of Dallas.

Another son, R. G. Marchman, of Waxahachie, also survives.

Allied Military Gains Making Deep Impression On Latin American Neighbors

Air Of Security Being Returned

BY LAWRENCE HAAS
United Press Latin American Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Military and political events favorable to the United Nations cause have made a deep impression upon Latin-American countries.

They have restored confidence and a feeling of relative security to belligerent countries such as Brazil, a nation subject to overseas attack from French West Africa. The announcement that Dakar had joined the United Nations camp through an arrangement with Admiral Jean Francois Darlan, was viewed in Rio de Janeiro as removal of a grave menace to the country.

Although Allied successes may be checkered by temporary setbacks in the hard fighting that is certain to ensue before the global offensive against the Axis rolls with full power, the fact that the United Nations are definitely on the initiative, has bolstered the defenders of democracy in Latin America, and has undoubtedly impelled many who doubted final Allied victory to revise their opinions.

Public figures in Latin America have been enabled to obtain a glimpse of what their future relations with Europe will be in a post-war world, a Europe not domin ted by Hitlerite economy, but one reorganized by the United Nations.

Latin America's most important ties with Europe are based on trade, and Europe provides the principal markets for basic Latin-American products, including meat, cereals, hides, wool, coffee, minerals, tobacco, petroleum, sugar and timber. Allied triumph should bring a flourishing regime of trade with the people of Europe who will be greatly in need of these products to aid their recovery from an era of destructive warfare. Victory should hold forth promise that this trade will be carried out under such free principles as implied in the Atlantic Charter and not the sort that would be dictated by Hitler in his plans for a world hegemony as shown by his rule in the Europe today.

Menace Of Dakar Removed

Meanwhile, these events have elevated morale in Latin America:

1—The crushing defeat of Rommel in Egypt and Libya.

2—The landing of United States forces in French North Africa in an operation combining excellent intelligence work, logistical expertness and strategical and tactical ability of a high order.

3—The political success of the United States commanders in enlisting the North African French in the Allied ranks.

4—The arrangement between Darlan and the Dakar authorities, removing that strategic West African port as a springboard of an offensive against the Western Hemisphere.

5—The agreement between the United States and Admiral Georges Robert, French High Commissioner at Martinique, which closes the last gap in the Caribbean defense ring of the Panama Canal.

6—The smashing start of the Russian counter-offensive attesting the power and will to fight of the Soviet forces despite their gruelling period of defensive war.

7—The defeat of the Japanese fleet near the Solomons, the strengthening of the American hold on Guadalcanal and the advances of Australian and U. S. troops in New Guinea.

Added to these factors is the proof of the quality of American armament, such as the tanks used to rout Rommel and the U. S. planes that fight over North Africa and the Mediterranean and that constantly bomb the European continent.

Influential Latin American visitors to the United States are given an opportunity to view our war industry now in high gear, to see tanks and planes roll off assembly lines, warships and merchantmen slide down shipyard ways, and to witness, in training camps and on maneuver fields, the molding of young United States manhood into a hard-hitting military force.

On the political front of Latin America these successes have strengthened continental solidarity. Chile, with Argentina, a holdout against the Rio de Janeiro conference resolution, recommending a diplomatic break with the Axis, may soon sever relations with Germany, Japan and Italy.

President Juan Antonio Rios hinted at this in a recent statement, which, however, carried no promise of definite action along such lines. Chilean police, nevertheless, have undertaken to clamp down on Axis espionage activity and a number of Nazi agents are now in a concentration camp.

The Argentine government, although showing no sign of departing from its policy of "prudent neutrality," has arrested and indicted 38 Axis espionage agents and police have seized documents in code, which appear to substantiate the data contained in memoranda on such activity in Argentina, furnished by the United States government recently.

Most of the other Latin-American countries (11 of the 20 are at war, and seven have broken off relations with the Axis) are maintaining closest vigilance over Axis nationals and each, in its way, is contributing to increasing volume to the defense of the continent, which, in simple terms, means helping the United States win the war.

Woman To Get Award For Air Plant Idea

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 2 (U.P.)—Mrs. Lida C. Rickert, former fruit picker, but now an aircraft worker, won a $45 prize in the Consolidated Aircraft Corp's standing contest for employes' suggestions for speeding up the work. She discovered that a saw-off broomstick constitutes the best support for centering bead reinforcements on wing bulkheads.

HORSEFEATHERS!

PORTLAND, Ore. — Tovarich, golden eagle in the Portland zoo, turned up her beak at horse meat but eagerly plucked and ate a pigeon.

Director Arthur M. Greenhall said "aha!" and began ordering feathers by the sack, from poultry firms.

UNPREPARED

OMAHA, Neb. — Mrs. Leonard Swoboda, 21, had selected only one name for the baby she was expecting, but she gave birth to triplets, so the nurses at St. Catherine's hospital temporarily solved her problem. They tagged her babies "A," "B" and "C".

Mrs. Swoboda said her husband, who is in Oakland, Calif., was advised and was asked to suggest names.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — It was a little late for Christmas, but the spirit of good will was there.

Officers reported receiving a Christmasy looking package from Salt Lake City addressed to an inmate of the county jail here.

QUIET, PLEASE

FALLS CITY, Neb. — The principal objective of Dr. R. P. Hoban, a first lieutenant in the Army dental corps, when he arrived home here on furlough was a good rest. He wasn't interested in much else.

Hoban explained that he and another dental officer stationed at Camp Livingston, La., extracted 3,506 teeth in November.

FALLS TAKE FATHER, SON

DENVER — On New Year's day 60 years ago Augustus Hall, sr., fell from a bridge on which he was working near San Francisco. He died of a skull fracture and other injuries.

Augustus Hall, jr., 68, his son, fell from a ladder at his home in Denver Friday and died of similar injuries.

During 1939, New Hampshire had a tuberculosis death rate of 25.6 per 100,000 of its population.

Halsey's Leadership Eases Pacific Allies' Discord On Hit-Hitler-First Strategy

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Rumblings of Chinese and Australian discontent with the hit-Hitler-first strategy that dominates United Nations action and has changed the face of the war in north Africa and Russia would fall ungraciously on American ears but for two circumstances.

In glowing contrast to growls by political spokesmen from "down under" and gestures of disappointment from the Chinese, Admiral Halsey cheerfully thumbs his nose at Japan and its leaders to forecast victory, not distant but soon in the Pacific, maybe this opening year. And to cap that come eyewitness reports of a blasting American Christmas eve air raid on tragic Wake island, paying off the Japanese in their own coin.

Halsey's words are important because of the deeds of himself and his men, ships and planes. Since he took over command of his Pacific sector Japan has been dealt the hardest blows she has yet received. Coupled with her losses in the Coral sea and the Midway action, the battle of the Solomons has cut deeply into Nipponese air and sea strength, balked her conquest march against Australia and its life lines, perhaps paved the way for the vision of victory Halsey so boldly conjured up in his new year's greeting to folks back home.

More To Come

The stunning air smash at Wake island is another portent of things to come as well as a thunderous tribute to the gallant band of marines who held that ocean-girt monument to American valor for 16 days against all a stealthy foe could do. It means that one day and perhaps soon the Stars and Stripes will rise proudly again over that distant island and another step westward on the road of vengeance that leads inevitably to Tokyo will have been taken.

Against the account of what happened at Wake by the trained press observer who rode with the bomb crews, the Tokyo version is significant. It accents the fact that for months now, Japanese war lords have not dared reveal to their people any semblence of the truth as to what has been happening in the Pacific theater.

They are in the same case with Hitler's high command which briefs for home consumption endless and unconvincing reports of victorious although defensive battles in Russia. Just why that is necessary in Japan in view of the stoic fortitude generally credited to the emperor's subjects is not clear. It suggests unease of mind over war developments among the Tokyo war lords.

Early Victory Possible

Halsey's buoyant prediction that the war against Japan could be won this year finds no reflection in new year outgivings by higher authorities in Washington. The logistics as well as the logic of the struggle are against it. Nevertheless, it can be assumed that Washington officialdom from President Roosevelt down, badgered by demands from every sector around the globe for more men, more guns, more planes, more food, more everything, found solace in his stouthearted response to a question as to whether the forces to achieve quick victory in the Pacific were yet available.

"No man in military history has ever had enough men and material, but he has always gone ahead and done it just the same," Halsey snapped.

That hit-Hitler-first decision has been taken and implemented by tremendous action. There is no receding from it now, even if disappointment by Pacific Allies that simultaneous major offensives against Japan are not yet in sight nags them into verbal protest or ungracious gestures.

And the blunt truth in the Pacific is, as Halsey's new year's message so boldly declares, that American attrition blows that could ultimately prove mortal have been dealt Japan despite the concentration of attack against Hitler.

Little 'Submarine' Is Pride Of New Hospital

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Jan. 2 (U.P.)—There is only one "real" war baby as far as doctors here are concerned.

Affectionately known as little "submarine," "world," and "invasion," the seven-pound baby was the first born at the new basic magnesium war plant hospital. Both his parents are defense workers.

The baby's name? — William Thomas War.

Permission Asked For Export Of Cotton

HOUSTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — The Chronicle said today that permission is being sought from the State department at Washington and the Office of Defense Transportation for export of approximately 19,000 bales of cotton, much of it stored in warehouses here, the balance in Galveston and some still in the inerior, it was learned today from Houston cotton interests.

The cotton is part of about 40,000 bales recently sold by Texas cotton interests to Spanish purchasers.

The cotton cannot be shipped because of a rule of the Navy department that ships of neutral countries can call at only one port on the gulf coast and New Orleans was designated as the port of call.

Cleveland Councilmen Find War Jobs Tough

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2. (U.P.) — Several of Cleveland's city council members have turned to war jobs—both as their contribution to the war effort and to supplement their $3,000-a-year salary from the city.

But a full night of labor on the swing shift, seven days a week, takes a lot out of a man who has duties at city hall and errands and other obligations for ward constituents, most of them are beginning to report.

Without exception, the councilmen said what they wanted was a split shift of four hours a day, an arrangement that would leave them enough stamina for legislative activities.

MEN LOSING PART OF SHIRTS

More than 10,000,000 additional shirts can be manufactured in a year from material that will be saved by the WPB order cutting two to three inches off men's and boys' shirttails. Pajamas are getting a scissors treatment too, making possible 2,200,000 more pairs.

Crime Pays In Case Of City's Coffers

YUMA, Ariz., Jan. 2. (U.P.) — Crime may not pay for some people, but for the city of Yuma it meant a profit of $1,726.29 for the first four months of the fiscal year 1942-1943, the recorder's office reported.

The cost of feeding prisoners during the four months amounted to $1,017.86, while the police courts took in $2,744.15 in fines, showing a net profit of more than $1,700.

The City of Lubbock joins with all good Americans in the most Important New Year's Resolution that ever has been possible for any American to adopt . . . . .

Thanks Folks:—

The City of Lubbock wants to express its thanks to the citizens as a whole for their patience and cooperation in clearing away the results of the recent ice storm.

Many users of our Electric service found themselves without lights during the recent storm, due to the breaking of wires. Your patience during the time required to restore service was greatly appreciated.

The job of hauling away the broken limbs and brush has been an enormous one. Most of the work has been finished. But a few days longer will see the job done completely.

The City of Lubbock pledges to continue, and to increase when and where possible, its fullest cooperation with all efforts to win the war in the shortest possible time.

It has been the purpose of those who supervise the operation of the City Government to place the war effort ahead of all other considerations since the day the emergency began.

A detailed listing of all that has been done along this line would be difficult. Some that might be mentioned include:

The most rigid conservation of motor vehicles, all other equipment, fuels and all other vital materials of every kind.

The maintenance without impairment of all protections to life, health and property.

And the purchase out of city funds of $123,950 in War Bonds having a total maturity value of $166,500.

The excellent financial condition of the City is due, in very large degree, to the operation of your Municipal Electric and Water Departments. Profits from the operation of these utilities pay most of the operating expenses of the city. They have helped to make possible the reserve of cash which has been put to work for victory. Thus, your support of them has made possible a further support for the victory effort.

DOLLAR DAY VALUES

YOUR HOUSE AND THE WAR

You, your family, your house . . . all the things that make up your life, are now part of the war effort. The things you do without are used to equip our soldiers, feed our allies. The little day-by-day economies you make, turned into War Bonds, roll up into billions of dollars that are needed for victory. It is a challenge to you, the homemaker, to see on how little you can still run a well-ordered, comfortable home.

Perhaps you'd like new sheets, but you may not absolutely need them. The durable remainder of one worn sheet can be used to patch others. And, too, old sheets will make good usable pillow cases. Worn bathtowels can be cut down into wash cloths, used to pad ironing boards. Two old blankets, worn thin, can be stitched together for the weight and warmth of a new one; and a bright flowered cover, quilted with ribbon or wool, will turn them into a fine comforter.

We do not urge you to buy anything you do not need. None of us is excused from the obligation to do all we can to win the war speedily . . . and the honest merchant's job is two-fold: to discourage waste and hoarding . . . and to see to it that everything his customers buy is sound in quality, so it will last.

That is our job . . . in every Penney store. And in every Penney store that job is being done.

No Rationing Of Shoes--McGee

Statement from Texas OPA Director Mark McGee that there is no scarcity of shoes and no prospect they will be rationed any time in the near future reached Lubbock district headquarters of the OPA Saturday.

Lubbock is one of the Texas cities in which rumors of prospective shoe rationing have been circulated, causing runs on shoe stores.

"Runs" On Stores

McGee said investigators from the state OPA office had verified that "thousands of women, apparently stampeded by false reports of a shoe shortage and rumors of prospective shoe rationing, have descended on shoe departments and are buying quantities of three to half a dozen pairs per customer."

McGee appealed to the patriotism of Texas women "to discount immediately any such false reports and rumors that cause such scare buying and artificial local shortage which might have serious consequences." He said it had not yet been determined where the false reports originated.

"Scare" Buying Here

"Hoarding of any commodity can bring about the necessity for rationing, and we have been assured that if normal buying of shoes is followed by the public, our supply is ample for our needs," he stated.

"Scare" buying of shoes has been in progress in Lubbock several days. Rumors that shoes would be rationed early this month have continued despite statements by some shoe dealers that they had not been notified of prospective rationing and that the public was making unwarranted runs on shoe stores.

Buying In Ft. Worth

War ration book two now being printed will deal only with food, OPA said. Even if rationing of shoes, or any type of clothing, were contemplated, it would require months of preparation and certainly the public would be advised of it, the statement concluded.

Meador Funeral Rites Conducted Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah V. Meador, 86, were held Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Cumberland Presbyterian church with the Rev. A. A. Collins officiating. Mrs. Meador, who had lived in Lubbock for 26 years, died at her home on the Levelland highway Friday at 11:45 a. m.

She is survived by three sons, Woody Meador, Lubbock, G. E. Meador, Oklahoma City; L. A. Meador, Norman; one daughter, Miss Myrtle Meador, Lubbock; twelve grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren.

Interment was in Lubbock cemetery under the direction of Bryan McDonald and Son Funeral home.

Moore, above, commanding officer of the "Fit and Fighting" combat group of transport warplanes at South Plains Army Flying school, is a veteran of the air, having more than 4,000 flying hours to his credit. He is recognized as one of the crack veterans of his profession, having flown as a commercial pilot for American Airlines several years after graduating from Kelly field in 1932 and serving at Wheeler field, Honolulu and at Selfridge field, Mich. He returned to the Air Corps in 1939. He is a Phi Beta Kappa from Stanford, 1936. He and Mrs. Moore, whom he first met in Hawaii, reside at 2316 Twenty-first street.

Cadet C. H. Plemons, son of Mr .and Mrs. J. H. Plemons, 3010 Twentieth street, was selected as Cadet of the Week last week at the Sikeston, Mo., flying school, a clipping from the Sikeston Herald revealed. Cadet Plemons attended Texas Tech and began his Army career in Feb., 1935 with the 131st Field Artillery; having missed being with the 'Lost Batalion' by just four hours and 20 minutes. He was on a short leave when the unit moved out under orders. With many buddies in the battalion, Cadet Plemons is anxious to complete his training and get in a few slugs at the enemy to avenge his comrades. He has seen service in many Army camps since leaving the 131st.

BEGIN FLIGHT TRAINING

RANDOLPH FIELD — Among the largest class of aviation cadets in history who recently began basic flight training at the West Point of the Air are four South Plains men. From Brownfield is Aggie M. Thornton, 25, son of Mrs. Lora Seger. In civilian life he was a pipeline gauger. Two from Lubbock are Lawrence Banks, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Banks of 2202 Seventeenth street, a former student of Texas Technological college, and Leo L. Huckabay, 21, son of U. L. Huckabay, 3015 Avenue N. Huckabay has a brother, U. L., jr., a United States Marine who was awarded the Silver Star for valor in action at Corregidor. Robert Melcher, 24, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Melcher of Slaton. Melcher attended Texas Tech.

Pvt. Aubrey F. Franklin, who recently received his wings as a paratrooper from Fort Benning, Ga., and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Franklin of Colorado City, visited Friday with his aunt, Mrs. Alta McIver of 1703 Avenue W.

George Irvin Zoller, a member of the Texas Tech Red Raider football squad, has been accepted as a Naval Aviation Cadet and will be ordered to active duty shortly. When ordered to active duty, he will report to the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight school, Athens, Ga.

Cisilio R. Gonzales, formerly of 104 Avenue K, Lubbock, has arrived at the Fort Logan Reception center, Fort Logan, Colo., according to recent announcement.

Marlin Woodward, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Woodward of 302 Avenue L, was among the group of aviation cadets who recently arrived at Minter Field, Calif., for basic flight training.

George L. Carter, formerly of 2305 Broadway, Lubbock, now is in officers candidate school at Miami Beach Fla. Carter, a graduate of both Lubbock High school and Texas Technological college, is in the finance branch of the Air Corps. He enlisted in the Army in August, prior to which time he was an auditor for the War department.

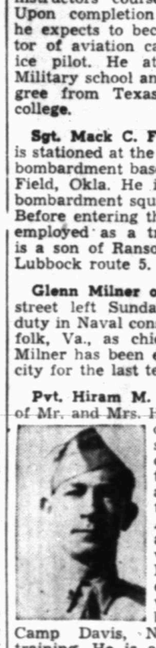

Taking Instructors' Course — Robert C. Johnson, jr., 22, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Johnson, 2620 Twenty-second street, is among civilian fliers taking an instructors' course at Kelly field. Upon completion of the course, he expects to become an instructor of aviation cadets or a service pilot. He attended Kemper Military school and received a degree from Texas Technological college.

Sgt. Mack C. Fowler of Smyer is stationed at the Army Air Force bombardment base at Will Rogers Field, Okla. He is assigned to a bombardment squadron as a cook. Before entering the army, he was employed as a truck driver. He is a son of Ransom T. Fowler of Lubbock route 5.

Glenn Milner of 1508 Thirtieth street left Sunday to report for duty in Naval construction at Norfolk, Va., as chief petty officer. Milner has been employed by the city for the last ten years.

Pvt. Hiram M. McEachern, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. McEachern of 2221 Eighth street, has just completed electrical training in a training detachment at Los Angeles, Calif., and graduated with honors. Pvt. McEachern, who entered the service in July, has been sent to Camp Davis, N. C. for further training. He is a former student of Lubbock High school.

AT MIAMI BEACH

Second Lieut. Dayton M. Carroll, formerly engaged in livestock raising in the Lubbock vicinity, is one of hundreds of executives of specialized businesses and industries now being trained at the new Air Forces Officer Training school, Miami Beach, Fla., to direct vital administrative and supply operations of the rapidly expanding ground forces. His wife, Mrs. Dorothy Carroll, resides at 2319 Sixth street.

COMMISSIONED — Willard E. Golightly, former instructor of chemistry at Texas Technological college, was commissioned a second lieutenant Dec. 23 at graduation exercises of the Chemical Warfare Service Officer Candidate school at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., according to information received here.

Sgt. Horace E. Jefferson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy B. Jefferson of Hale Center, has been graduated from the wheeled vehicle department of the armored force school at Fort Knox, Ky., and given a diploma as qualified automotive mechanic.

TRULY IS PROMOTED

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, — Promotion of Ralph M. Truly, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Truly of 1627 Seventh street, Lubbock, to the grade of staff sergeant was announced today at headquarters of the Antilles Air Task Force here. Sgt. Truly is a 1938 graduate of Lubbock High school. He joined the Army early last year and has been assigned to his present unit in the Carribbean defense area since April 1, 1941.

Mrs. Joe Jones, 2101 Avenue L, has three sons in the armed services. Pvt. Atwood Jones, who is a radio operator in the 51st ferrying command at St. Joseph, Mo., is spending a furlough here. Another son, Forrest (Chief) Jones passed through Lubbock Sunday en route to Quantico, Virginia, where he will enter the Marine officer candidate school. Forrest and Atwood had the opportunity to see each other for 20 minutes during a train stop for the first time in four years. Mrs. Jones' third son, Cpl. Joe Jones, jr., is with the interceptor control, stationed somewhere in New Guinea.

Mrs. Lorene Daniel, 1509 Seventh street, has two sons in the service. Thomas Nathan Douthit is a sheet metal worker in a ground crew stationed at Lubbock Army Flying school. Prior to enlistment here, Douthit was employed in the Consolidated airplane factory at San Diego. He is a 1937 graduate of Lubbock High school. The other son, Ancil Maurice Douthit, who was also employed at Consolidated the past one and one - half years, recently took his examination as an aviation cadet in the Air Corps and is awaiting call to duty. He is a 1941 graduate of Lubbock High school.

Ancil Maurice Douthit

AT FORT KNOX

FORT KNOX, Ky. (Special) — Pvt. Emmett T. Smith, son of Mrs. Ida Smith of Ralls, has arrived at the Armored Force Replacement Training center here for a course to qualify him for duty with the Armored Force.

Added to the list of South Plains boys accepted as Naval Aviation cadets are James Howard Hankins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hankins of Brownfield, and William Baxter Orr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Baxter Orr of Idalou. Orr is a 1941 graduate of Idalou High school and now is attending Texas Technological college. Hankins finished high school at Brownfield with the class of 1942 and has been employed since that time in a tailor shop in Brownfield. Expecting to be ordered to active duty shortly, they will report to the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight school, University of Georgia, Athens, Ga.

NOW AN OFFICER

Johnie F. Phillips, 32, of Lubbock route 6, was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Tank Destroyer command of the Army at graduation exercises held at Camp Hood, Tex., Dec. 23. He was inducted to the service last June 1.

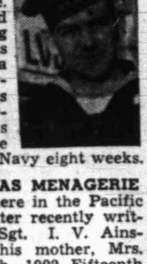

ORDERED TO DALLAS

ATHENS, Ga. (Special)—Naval Aviation Cadet Emmett Douglas Anderson, son of Mrs. J. B. Anderson, of Lubbock route 1, recently completed his course at the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight school here, and has been ordered to the Naval Reserve Aviation base at Dallas for primary training. Cadet Anderson is a former engineering student at Texas Technological college.

Wardell H. Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Wright, 2610 Twenty-third street, has been promoted to the rang of sergeant in the Army Air Forces at Turner Field, Ga., according to recent announcement by Col. John B. Patrick, commanding officer.

Ensign Joe Pierce, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Pierce of near Lubbock, has been transferred to a naval flight training base at Olathe, Kas., as an instructor, his parents were notified the past week. Pierce received his commission and wings at Pensacola, Fla., last fall.

Douglas Malone of 1506 Thirtieth street, stationed at the Great Lakes Nacal training base, has completed basic training there and was home to spend a Christmas furlough with his wife. He has returned to his station. Malone has been in the Navy eight weeks.

SQUADRON HAS MENAGERIE

From somewhere in the Pacific area came a letter recently written by Staff Sgt. I. V. Ainsworth, jr., to his mother, Mrs. Jewel Ainsworth, 1902 Fifteenth street, and telling of a regular menagerie collected by men in his squadron, including a pet pig, ten parakeets, goats, a cat, a dog and a hen.

Sgt. Ainsworth, who is with the Marine parachute troops, had been in the Solomon islands area since early last summer and in this last letter he wrote that he had lost all of his souvenirs except a "gismo," a water-soaked transport blank issued when he left there and which is a most treasured memento. A former student at A. and M. college, Sgt. Ainsworth received his training at San Diego, Lakehurst, N. J., Quantico and was stationed at New River, N. C., for 18 months.

Officials Pin Down On Coffee Smuggling

EDINBURG, Jan. 2 (AP)—U. S. Deputy Marshal Joe Ward said some 100 pounds of smuggled coffee was in storage here today as the result of 29 federal smuggling cases recorded within 27 days during December.

Ward said the coffee was confiscated by customs and immigration inspectors covering smuggling operations from Mexico across the Rio Grande.

Merger Of Telegraph Firms To Be Studied

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — Whether a war-time merger of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies would help solve some of their difficulties and improve communications is a problem the new 78th Congress will inherit.

A bill authorizing such a merger went through the Senate last session and was approved by the House interstate commerce committee but did not get to a vote on the floor.

Chairman Bulwinkle (D-NC) of the committee said today he would re-introduce the bill with minor amendments.

U. S. Diplomacy In 10 Years Before War To Be Revealed; Documents Being Published

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Secretary of State Hull appealed tonight to the United Nations to "hold fast to the eternal principles" of international morality.

"There will be confident hope for the future," he asserted in a statement announcing publication of documents covering 10 years of American diplomacy prior to Pearl Harbor, "provided our people and other peoples hold fast to the eternal principles of law, justice, fair-dealing, and morality which we have constantly proclaimed and sought to apply."

The secretary said that a white book, issued tonight as an introduction to the documents now in process of publication, would help Americans "to a clearer understanding of the problems and tasks which have confronted us, of those which confront us now, and of those which will confront us in the crucial days ahead."

Ten-Year Record Cited

Hull asserted that the 10-year record shows the United States "consistently advocated, practiced, and urged upon other countries" principles of international conduct "on the basis of which the nations of the world could attain security, confidence, and progress." He added:

"I am convinced that, had those principles been adopted and applied by the nations of the world, all legitimate grievances and controversies between nations could have been satisfactorily adjusted by peaceful processes and without resort to force."

The text of his statement follows:

"We are issuing today a publication entitled 'Peace and War,' prepared in the Department of State. It is an introduction to a collection of documents concerning the foreign relations of the United States during the fateful decade 1931-1941. This book and the collection of documents which is in the process of publication present a record of policies and acts by which the United States sought to promote conditions of peace and world order and to meet the worldwide dangers resulting from Japanese, German, and Italian aggression as those dangers arose.

"That record shows, I think, that throughout this period our government consistently advocated, practiced, and urged upon other countries principles of international conduct on the basis of which the nations of the world could attain security, confidence, and progress. Much was accomplished in the face of immense difficulties. It is for the establishment of those principles that we and our associates are fighting today.

"I am convinced that, had those principles been adopted and applied by the nations of the world, all legitimate grievances and controversies between nations could have been satisfactorily adjusted by peaceful processes and without resort to force. We and all mankind would have been spared the horrors of this world-enveloping war thrust upon us by the criminal ambitions of the leaders of Japan, Germany, and Italy, who —intent upon conquest—rejected all principles of law, justice, fair-dealing, and peaceful negotiation and resorted to the sword.

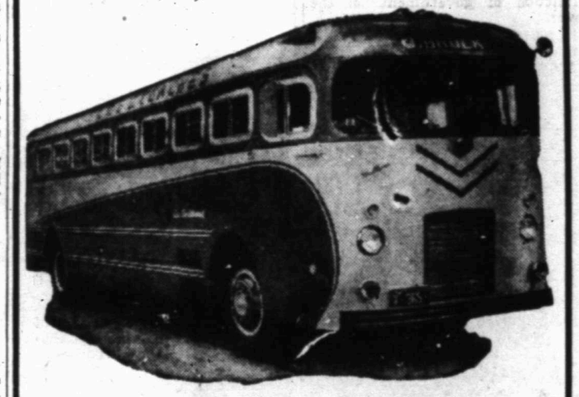

"In making this information more fully available to the people of the United States, we earnestly hope that a study of it will help our citizens to a clearer understanding of the problems and tasks which have confronted us, of those which confront us now, and of those which will confront us in the crucial days ahead.

"There will be confident hope for the future provided our people and other peoples hold fast to the eternal principles of law, justice, fair-dealings, and morality which we have constantly proclaimed and sought to apply, and which must underlie any practicable program of peaceful international collaboration for the good of all.

"Our people and the peoples of the United Nations will need to have in the future, as they have today, a unity of purpose and a willingness to make appropriate and indispensable contributions toward the achievement of military victory and toward the establishment and maintenance of a peace that will endure. With unity of purpose and common effort, there can be achieved a peace that will open to all mankind greater opportunity than has ever before existed for welfare and progress in every avenue of human endeavor."

Congress Likely To Cut Spending

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), ranking member of the Senate appropriations committee, said today he would be "delighted" to cooperate with the President in eliminating unnecessary expenditures in the 78th Congress which convenes Wednesday.

"There is room to save a whole lot of money in civilian expenditures this year," McKellar said in a new year interview upon his return to the capital after spending the holidays in Tennessee.

The Tennesseean introduced a bill last year to abolish both the Civilian Conservation Corps and the National Youth Administration. With CCC killed by executive order, he indicated he would continue his efforts to eliminate NYA.

Must Justify Need

"Mr. McNutt (Manpower Administrator Paul V. McNutt) will have t justify the need for NYA if it gets any appropriation this time," he declared.

As for the farm security administration, a target of Senator Byrd (D-Va) and other economy advocates, McKellar said "we'll have to hear from them."

"They've got some things that are fine," he said, "such as where they lend money to honest-to-God farmers."

During the lengthy illness of Chairman Glass (D-Va), McKellar has wielded great influence in the appropriations committee as well as on the Senate floor, where he is rounding out 26 years continuous service.

Some Agencies Overstaffed

Continuing his discussion of possible ways to retrench, he told his interviewer that "I hear some of the war agencies are overstaffed, and their budget requests will have to be examined."

He added, however, that he thought the people generally were hardly aware of the savings last year in regular governmental costs. The appropriations committee, he declared, trimmed $1,313,000,000 off appropriations, and the government saved another $2,000,000,000 through renegotiation of war contracts to prevent excessive profits.

"The renegotiation of contracts law, as directed by Under-Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, Undersecretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal, Rear Admiral Emory S. Land of the Maritime commission and the splendid young men under them is working admirably," he said.

McKellar had plenty of company in his "show-me" attitude toward ordinary government expenditures. Almost to a man, incoming as well as holdover members of Congress have expressed their determination to cut out frills and prevent waste, strengthen the home front and focus every function of government on the war.

In general, however, they awaited President Roosevelt's annual budget message before making specific proposals.

Lack Of Vitamin A Causes Defective Eyes, Test Shows

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 2 — At the height of the dust bowl years two litters of pigs on two widely separated Texas farms were born blind.

The cause, scientifically proven at the Texas A. and M. college here, holds a warning for all the peoples going short of food in the present war.

The warning is that if prospective mothers do not get adequate vitamin A, their babies are likely to have weak eyes. There probably will be nowhere any epidemic of blind babies, for a reason the Texas experiments showed clearly. The defect will be more insidious, eyes imperfectly formed, resulting in poor vision in later life.

Green Food Lacking

On the Texas farms the mothers of both blind litters never got any green forage during their pregnancy periods. Lack of green food meant deprivation of vitamin A.

The proof of this was found in a herd of A. and M. swine in which there never had been a blind pig. Several females were given a diet totally devoid of vitamin A. This experiment was conducted by Fred Hale, chief division of swine husbandry, Texas Agricultural Experiment station.

Every pig in the litters whose mothers had absolutely no vitamin A was born blind. Not only that, but all these pigs were totally devoid of eyes. Every time the experiment was repeated, eyeless pigs resulted.

Not Due To Heredity

Pigs take about 114 days to produce young. The development of eyes is known to take place during a fixed period of about 30 days of embryonic pig life. Total deprivation of vitamin A for the mothers during this period and for six or seven mothers before they were bred always resulted in eyeless pigs.

The step was to prove the blindness was not due to some freak of heredity. This was done by raising eyeless pigs on diets containing vitamin A and mating them.

In all cases the eyeless pigs had litters of young with normal eyes. Even when two eyeless pigs were mated, the young had perfectly good eyes.

Mr. Hale points out that it is probably impossible for human mothers to be completely without vitamin A. No matter how poor a diet is, it will contain a little of this vitamin.

But all the pig tests indicate that lack of enough vitamin A during pregnancy is a definite risk of indirect bad effects on eyes, and probably also on the nervous system, because eyes are a direct product of the embryonic nervous system.

Committee Formed On Post-War Employment

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Creation of enough peacetime business to absorb 29,000,000 soldiers and war workers into normal pursuits is the objective of a group of business men organized as the Committee of Economic Development, Paul G. Hoffman, its chairman, explained today in announcing its program.

Hoffman, president of Studebaker corp., said winning the war is the first job of us all—"the war has had and will continue to get triple-A priorities, but the job of winning the peace need not be neglected."

The committee, he explained, grew out of a meeting of business men called together by Secretary of Commerce Jesse H. Jones several months ago, at which time the secretary suggested such a group might accept the responsibility of assisting commerce and industry to meet the problems to be faced when hostilities cease.

The committee is undertaking two broad lines of activity. First is a program of basic research on the post-war ecomony. Second is a program of field work through a "grass roots" local community approach. The committee proposes to stimulate and work with local community groups and business men, learning from them as it goes along.

Your eyes need all the help they can get. Don't handicap them with too little. Clean reflector bowls and bulbs frequently. You'll get from 25–30% more light.

You'll get more help for your eyes when you read, play games or sew, if your lamp shades are light-colored or have white linings. Clean or brush them regularly; or if they're too bad, replace with fresh shades.

Arrange your furniture and lamps so that you can, if necessary, make each lamp provide good light for more than one person. Be sure you're close enough to the lamp; a difference of 12 inches may cut your light in half.

Abbott And Costello's "Who Done It" Is On At Lindsey

Comics Turn To Detective Work

Bud Abbott and Lou Costello hit a new high in comedy in "Who Done It?," showing today through Wednesday at the Lindsey theater.

Are Amateur Detectives

This time they are cast as amateur detectives. Object of their quest is the solution of mysterious murders and other crimes which take place in a huge broadcasting station. The boys get themselves into a maze of troubles and end up on the wrong end of a tremendous police dragnet. The methods by which they extricate themselves provide one hilarious moment after another.

In the course of hunting and being hunted, Bud and Lou are seen with such notable screen favorites as Patric Knowles, William Gargan, Louise Allbritton and Jerome Cowan. Others include William Bendix, Mary Wickes, Don Porter, Thomas Gomez and Ludwig Stossel.

Tower Offers Comedy

Romantic interest is generously supplied by Knowles and Miss Allbritton.

Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy and Fibber McGee and Molly combine forces again in the laugh-filled film, "Here We Go Again," at the Tower theater through Tuesday.

The famous funsters all play themselves in the picture. The fast and furious action is laid in the neighborhood of a swank mountain resort somewhere in the West. Fibber and Molly plan a big celebration of their 20th wedding anniversary, but all their Wistful Vista friends decline the invitations and go to the exclusive Silvertip lodge instead.

Chagrined, the McGees go there also, although they know they can't afford it. The trouble begins when Fibber, desperately in need of money to pay his bill yields to the persuasions of a crooked promoter and helps sell stock to the wealthy Bergen, not knowing the whole proposition is a fake.

A chase in horse and buggy rigs down a mountain road and several surprise developments form the climax of the side-splitting story. "Panama Hattie," the attraction at the Broadway theater today through Wednesday, places Ann Sothern and Red Skelton in the

FIVE CLASSES RUMORS

During the first year of the war, the OWI analyzed more than 4500 rumors. They fall into five classifications: hate, anxiety, escape, supernatural, and curiosity.

SILK HOSE FROZEN

Dorothy Lamour In "Jungle Princess" Is On At Palace

Autry Film Is On At Texan

The Texan theater offers "Bells of Capistrano," Gene Autry's last film before he joined the U. S. air forces, today and Monday.

Full of Action

Two mammoth rodeos combining hundreds of ropers, riders, bulldoggers, sharpshooters, singers and other performers provide a colorful background for the show. Autry has a role demanding that he participate in no less than four free-for-all fights, rescue pretty Virginia Grey from a runaway rig, spend a night in jail, do a bit of fancy shooting and riding and sing six hit songs.

The story has to do with two rival rodeo show companies, both wanting the singing cowboy as an added attraction.

Again Frog and Tadpole (Smiley Burnette and Joe Straunch, jr.) ride with Gene. Others in the cast include Claire Du Brey, Lucien Littlefield, Charles Cane, Tristam Coffin and Morgan Conway.

The double bill at the Cactus theater includes "Joan of the Ozarks," with Judy Canova and Joe E. Brown in the top roles, and "Mayor of 44th Street," with George Murphy and Anne Shirley in the principal parts.

Identical Twins Join WAACS For War Duty

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2. (U.P.) — Mrs. Roxie R. Denning, 38, and Mrs. Eva Merrill, identical twins, have kept their "double life" intact even down to both joining the WAACS on the same day.

They were married at the same time, became mothers about the same time, became grandmothers in like manner and each has two sons in the armed forces.

Their latest gesture was enlisting together in the WAACS and are hoping to serve in the same unit after completing their training at Des Moines.

Gene Autry, America's No. 1 cowboy with his pals, Smiley Burnette and Joe Strauch, jr. in "Bells Of Capistrano," showing at the Texan today and Monday.

George Murphy, Rex Downing and Anne Shirley in the "Mayor of 44th Street," showing at the Cactus today and Tuesday along with Judy Canova and Joe E. Brown in "Joan of Ozark."

Steinbeck's "Tortilla Flat" Is Film Headliner At Tech

Tracy, Lamarr, Garfield Stars

The screen story of John Steinbeck's novel, "Tortilla Flat," co-stars Spencer Tracy, Hedy Lamarr and John Garfield today through Tuesday at the Tech theater.

The story casts Tracy as the lovable rascal, Pilon; Garfield as the happy-go-lucky Danny, and Miss Lamarr as the fiery Dolores "Sweets" Ramirez, whom Danny courts. Their tempestuous romance, however, runs anything but smoothly, for Danny doesn't want to work and "Sweets" knows they cannot get married unless he gets a job. "Marriage or nothing" is her verdict—and the sparks fly!

Inherits Two Houses

In the opening of the story, the three lead a carefree existence on Tortilla flat—until Danny inherits two houses from his grandfather. Danny goes courting and makes fair progress until one of his houses catches fire. He shrugs off the disaster, but Dolores will have nothing to do with him because he has no job.

The story takes them through a series of experiences leading to injury of Danny in a fight, and to a change of attitude on the part of "Sweets."

The cast also includes Frank Morgan, Akim Tamiroff, Sheldon Leonard, John Qualen, Donald Meek and other outstanding players.

Spences Tracy, Hedy Lamarr and John Garfield are stars of "Tortilla Flat," showing at the Tech today through Wednesday.

Preston Foster and Lynn Bari are stars of "Secret Agent of Japan," showing at the Arcadia today and Monday along with Joan Crawford and Melvyn Douglas in "They All Kissed the Bride."

Two Widely Different Films Are Offered In Double Bill At Arcadia Theater Today

Two widely different stories are presented at the Arcadia theater, where "Secret Agent of Japan" and "They All Kissed the Bride" make up the double bill today and Monday.

"They All Kissed the Bride" presents Joan Crawford and Melvyn Douglas in a comedy-romance.

Story of Jap Agents

"Secret Agents of Japan" is a smashing story of undercover activities of Japanese agents just before the attack on Pearl Harbor. Featuring Preston Foster and Lynn Bari, the picture takes Shanghai for its locale and portrays the activities of secret agents trying to beat their enemies to the punch. Foster plays the part of an American cafe owner who cooperates with Lynn in trying to gain information which will prove vital to the British and American forces. Loaded with dynamite, the story gets them into one hair-raising episode after another.

Featured in the cast are Noel Madison, Sen Yung, Janis Carter, Steve Geray, Kurt Katch and Addison Richards.

Lindsey Program

The film is fast-moving with an excellent human story and exhilarating comedy routine, with several hummable tunes thrown in for good measure.

The story revolves about the romance of Miss Sothern, as Panama Hattie, a night club entertainer, and Dan Dailey, jr., with the zany antics of Skelton, Rags Ragland and Ben Blue providing comedy.

Playing the parts of sailors, the three comedians are the self-appointed pals and protectors of Hattie. Virginia O'Brien, as Panama Hattie's closest girlfriends, swings from her dead-pan singing technique to a new role. Jackie Horner, Marsha Hunt and Carl Esmond are among other members of the cast.

Tarzan At Lyric

Intriguingly different from the former Tarzan pictures, "Tarzan's New York Adventure," showing today through Tuesday at the Lyric theater, presents the uncivilized king of the jungles battling the dangers of civilization in the midst of the roaring activities of New York.

Johnny Weissmuller, Maureen O'Sullivan and Johnny Sheffield desert their jungle. The story deals with the abduction of "Little Tarzan" by a circus man, bent on using him as an attraction. Weissmuller and Miss O'Sullivan start in pursuit, trail them to New York, and amid battles with circus roustabouts and police, comical experiences of the jungle man with clothes and customs of civilization, and a riot in a night club, they finally regain the boy and, with the aid of a friendly aviator, reach their home in the wilderness again.

Your Screen Test

By ROBBIN COONS

1. This blonde English actress was born in Chile, made films in England before coming to Hollywood via the New York stage. Recently she became Mrs. Richard Denning. Who?
2. What singing actress, retired for motherhood, is returning to films in "Hello, Frisco, Hello"?
3. Why are car "chase" scenes left out of movies nowadays?
4. Identify: (a) Mrs. Brian Aherne. (b) The recently divorced Mrs. Walter Kane. (c) Mrs. Alan Ladd. (d) Joseph E. Davies.
5. Pun-and-double-talk special (substitute their other names and get a dialect comedian's reason for enlisting): "Lebedeff Olivia of liberty."

Hollywood On The Loose...

Circus Freaks Give Up Picture Work For The Duration

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 2.—Talk of the sound stages: MGM discovering a new Hollywood war shortage. Casting a circus sequence in Kathryn Grayson's first starring film, "Private Miss Jones," the studio discovered that most of the town's circus freaks have given up film work for the duration. Two bearded ladies are driving taxicabs, four human skeletons are getting three squares a day as waiters, six midgets are working in plane factories and the film colony's only fat lady was doubling for Santa Claus in a store.

Miss Grayson

Errol Flynn's vacation trip to Mexico City followed by Ann Sheridan to get a quick Mexican divorce . . . Before leaving Hollywood, Ann purchased a new green dress. Errol Flynn's favorite color is green.

That fan letter Jane Russell received from a Harvard student. Wrote the admirer: "To say that I find you a worthy subject of my admiration is so much of an understatement that it sounds very, very funny."

• • •

CRIME ITEM

That gag going the rounds about the movie producer who fired his cook one morning. He smelled coffee on her breath . . . And Bert Gordon's story about an attorney who demanded a C card from his gasoline rationing board. He claimed he was an ambulance chaser.

Arthur S. Lyons, artists' manager, lambasting Hollywood for still depending on comedians inherited from fields that no longer exist—minstrels, vaudeville, "pop" and opry houses. Says he: "Hollywood hasn't discovered a single funny man. High time they begin or there'll be a dearth of this essential commodity." . . . Tom Dugan, who played Hitler in two recent films, portraying a Yankee hero on Bataan in MGM's "Bataan Patrol."

Humphrey Bogart making sure he'll have no servant problem—getting his wife's maid a role in a new Warner picture . . . W. C. Fields' idea for a play titled: "Grant Drank Breakfast Here." . . . Hollywood still being Hollywood. At the outdoor wedding reception for Reginald Gardiner and Nodia Petrova the shrubbery was covered with hothouse roses—wired on!

AWARD CONSPIRACY

Ann Harding turning down several Broadway stage offers now that she's clicking again in Hollywood. She has her best role in "Mission to Moscow" . . . MGM helping Greer Garson cinch the Academy Award for the best acting performance of the year by releasing "Random Harvest" Dec. 31—24 hours within the time limit.

Jack Oakie's estranged wife, Venita Varden, delivering a dozen eggs to the comedian's bachelor apartment once a week since the egg shortage. They're from the Oakie ranch. Oakie, now working with Alice Faye in "Hello, Frisco, Hello," hopes the eggs are a prelude to a reconciliation.

WATER BABY—Probably it's not the heat but the humidity which makes shapely Janet Mantell act this way in mid-winter. Venice, Calif., is going to hate us for that "mid-winter" gag.

"Nothing But The Truth" Is Week's Top Film At Midway

Hope, Goddard Are Featured

A gag-filled comedy, "Nothing But the Truth," co-starring Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard, will keep audiences at the Midway theater laughing. The film shows through Tuesday.

The featured cast includes Edward Arnold, Leif Erickson, Helen Vinson, Catherine Doucet, Glenn Anders, Grant Mitchell, Rose Hobart and Willie Best.

Sends Laugh Market Up

The story concerns a $100,000 bet Hope makes with Arnold and Andres, his partners, and Erickson, a playboy client, that he can tell the unvarnished truth for 24 hours. Before the 24 hours are up he has insulted a palatial houseboatfull of guests, been forced to don a woman's dressing gown to escape his tormenting questioners, been dunked in a livebait tank, and won, lost and bet with some of the most hilarious truths ever heard.

Bob Hope, Paulette Goddard and Edward Arnold are stars of "Nothing But The Truth," showing at the Midway today through Tuesday.

'Buck Rogers' Getting Real Sea Experience

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Curtis Arnall, formerly active in daytime serials and at onetime radio's "Buck Rogers," has been getting some real life thrills since he joined the Coast Guard last fall. Now a chief boatswain's mate, he and his crew of a sub-detecting yawl were caught in a series of storms and were at sea 25 days.

Arnall will tell about it as guest of George Hicks on Men of the Land, Sea and Air at 3:45 Monday afternoon via the BLU.

Phil Baker, in the hospital with appendicitis, is to miss his Take or Leave It Quiz again on CBS at 10 Sunday night. Because Eddie Cantor is to substitute for him, the program origination point will be switched from New York to Hollywood. . . . Miller McClintock, whose selection as the first paid president of NBS was announced November 13, will take over his new duties Monday. New York will be his headquarters. . . . The Bob Burns show, concluded on CBS Wednesday night, is moving to NBC, where it will take the 7:30 spot on Thursday nights, effective next week. . . . The official Army hour on NBS at 3:30 p. m. Sunday is to provide a country-wide review of civilian defense activities.

League Sponsors Frank Buck Here

Frank Buck, noted author and big game hunter, formerly of San Angelo, will appear here January 19 on a lecture engagement sponsored by the Junior Welfare League.

Buck will talk on his experiences in the jungles of India, the Malay Peninsula, Burma, Sumatra, Java, Borneo, and the Philippine islands, and will illustrate his lecture with motion pictures. He will appear at a matinee for school children in the high school auditorium and again for adults that night.

Proceeds To Clinic

Proceeds from the lecture will go to the Well-Baby clinic, sponsored by the welfare league. Tickets will go on sale downtown January 11.

Buck is especially noted for his ability to "bring 'em back alive." He has delivered a complete zoo including more than 500 specimens of rare animals, birds and reptiles, and he captured the largest king cobra ever exhibited. He transported India rhinos 16,000 miles from the jungle regions of Nepal, where few white men are allowed.

He has written seven best sellers based on his experiences in the jungle.

Hope Felt For Government Economies; "Lame Duck" Amendment Fails To Work

End Seen To Wild Spending

New Congress Promises Relief

MUCH has been said during recent years, and little done, about forcing economies in the federal government.

Much of similar nature is being said in advance of the convening of the new session of Congress this week. This talk may come to nothing.

But the prospect is brighter that talk will be translated into action than has been true in advance of any congressional session for more years than most of us can remember.

True there have been men like Senator Byrd, of Virginia, who consistently have fought government extravagances. But they have been able to accomplish almost nothing in the face of the large majorities the present administration has held in both houses of Congress since 1933. Many members of Congress who could not be considered administration enthusiasts have been clubbed into line by the fear of political reprisals.

The administration starts this year weaker in Congress than it ever has been before. Congress and the administration will hold fresh in memory the very recent election demonstrations, as well as other evidences, that moves for enforced economies will have popular support.

Thus the investigations into government spending for war and non-war spending will have popular endorsement. Men who depend upon that popular support for their political existence will be reluctant to try to block or impede the inquiries. This is a psychology which likely will mean not only that the investigations will be made, but that they actually will get to the bottom of this business of extravagance in government. If they disclose that wild extravagances actually do exist, then the first and most important step will be taken toward correcting them.

As a matter of fact, it is reasonable to expect that the mere prospect of investigations of the kind likely to be made during the approaching session almost certainly will mean increased economies. Officials are going to be more careful in their spending if they fear the expenditures may become the subject of a public disclosure.

Congress could render no greater service in its coming session than to place sharp restrictions upon government wastes of manpower and money. The outlook is cheering that this is exactly the sort of service that Congress actually may render.

That Boogey-Man Again!

REPORTS fom New York and some of the other metropolitan centers are that experts are becoming gravely concerned because more progress has not been made in the development of the synthetic rubber program.

The dangers they foresee apparently are far more serious than most men-of-the-street imagine. According to reports which seem wholly reliable, the experts are fearful that unless more speed is made in the actual production of synthetic rubber, there is danger not alone of a breakdown of vital civilian transportation in this nation, but that military offensives may be forced to a standstill for a lack of tires.

Obviously, few people are in position to know what the true situation may be with regard to synthetic rubber. All they know is that they have heard a lot of talk—much of it contradictory.

But, one fact is sure: The American people have been led to expect that a synthetic rubber industry will be engaged in huge scale operations by the end of 1943. They are going to expect rubber, and not excuses, by that time.

True, their lot and that of the nation may be a deplorable one if there is no rubber, or too little of it for critical needs. It may be a situation about which nothing can be done so far as rubber is concerned. But a good deal might be done, and likely will be done, with excuse-makers. This is a prospect which should spur them to such activity that they will have rubber, and not excuses, to offer before this New Year ends.

The Shape of Things to Come

Pedantic Pedagogues To Blame For Scanty Vocabularies

Today's World . . . By Nelson Springer

A man can express anything he knows and understands. He can't express anything else. The man who can't express himself hasn't anything to express. Bad grammar is a sign of defective thinking. A limited vocabulary is a sign of deficient knowledge.

Springer

One reason why most people cannot speak English is that they never have studied it. Facts are not ideas, but they help to breed ideas; and most people need facts before they can think. Not one person in 1,000 knows the work and times of Geoffrey Chaucer; and so not one person in 1,000 knows English. Not one person in 1,000 knows Welsh or Cornish, or Old Danish, or the early dialects of Brittany or the Shetland and Faroe islands, so not one person in 1,000 knows English.

Why don't most people know them? Because pedantic teachers have deemed it their function to see how close to impossible they could make it for their students to learn anything. They have thought that, instead of trying to teach their students anything, it was their function to command their students to jump through a hoop, and then to hold the hoop so high that the students couldn't jump through it.

• • •

The reason for studying the sources of English language and literature is not that they are obscure or difficult in their orthography and pronunciation. The reason is that language is always an expression of feeling, of racial feeling, and that when we have penetrated the foes of the English channel, we shall begin to understand why Englishmen and Americans are not Nazis, and why they would rather die than be slaves.

James Anthony Froude shocked Oxford by writing history deliberately to make it fascinating.

It was said once that, if you wanted to found a school, what you needed was a boy on one end of a log and Mark Hopkins on the other. As long as Williams college's great luminary could find a boy, he could teach him.

A great deal could be done with the English language. . . .

BACKDROP OF WAR

IVY LITVINOFF, English wife of the Russian ambassador, is the same lady who once shocked an English peer almost out of his wits. It was at a reception at St. James, the day following a speech by the king. The peer was a back-bench Tory, and he was doing his British best to be gracious to the English lady who had shown the excruciatingly bad taste to marry a Russian Communist. "Don't you think it was an admirable speech?" asked the peer.

"It was pretty good for a king," conceded Mme. Litvinoff.

The same lady recently wrote a review of Chekov's "Three Sisters," now playing in New York with Katharine Cornell, Judith Anderson, and Ruth Gordon, three of the most invincible actresses the American stage ever has known. They always sweep everything before them. Mme. Litvinoff saw the "try-out" in Washington, and wrote that she never could understand why it took three healthy young women with ample funds in their pockets four acts not to get to Moscow (their life's frustrated ambition.)

Chekov, possibly Russia's greatest dramatist, wrote during the period when the revolutionists almost were without hope. Particularly after Bloody Sunday in St. Petersburg, December, 1905, it seemed as if the masses were doomed to serfdom forever. His drama is a drama of frustration; and it deals not only with hopeless people, but with the hopelessness of life.

• • •

If you ask me, that is why the revolution came to Russia, and Hitler came to Germany, and the war came to the world. The XIXth Century had got as far as it could go under its own power, and it hadn't "got to Moscow." No one had any plan, except to go on trying to do what the XIXth Century had tried to do, and couldn't. Hence, explosion.

Curiously enough, the whole mess developed out of the fact that, even after Columbus had demonstrated the sphericity of the earth, he didn't know what it meant.

So I wouldn't worry if now a lot of things get smashed. They were just lay figures on Mercator's projection.

All of which suggests that what we have is not "the economic determination of history," but the anemic determination of history.

OAKS FROM ACORNS

WHAT may a man account among his credentials? I mean simply what will commend a man in a new position or a strange environment? As often as not it is neither his intelligence nor his ability. As often as not it is something which, in discussion, might be regarded as irrelevant. In this regard, I have had some strange experiences.

The fact that I had left the ministry for newspaper work won for me an exclusive story to the effect that Leon Trotzky would head Russia's first Five-Year Plan.

The fact that I had attended the dress rehearsal of the "Passion Chorale" in Boston nine years previously was worth more to me in Vienna than anything else.

The fact that I was acquainted personally with Kenneth Macgowan of the theatrical firm of Macgowan, Jones, and (Eugene) O'Neil was an "open sesame" anywhere in Europe.

The fact that I was personally acquainted with Lee Simonson, the Theatre Guild's stage director, almost made Emil Pirchan (Germany's great scene designer) my bitter enemy, until he learned from me that Simonson had acknowledged publicly his indebtedness to Pirchan's example.

The fact that I did not admire Upton Sinclair's writing and that I did not regard J. Fenimore Cooper as the greatest American

Watch Coming Appointments

(The National Whirligig)

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

A North Carolina Democrat, Senator Josiah W. Bailey, recently gave the President a helpful lesson in basic law. Oddly enough, the man who explained fundamental legislation to the Chief Executive was the editor of a religious magazine before he arrived on Capitol Hill.

FDR is trying to place loyal but defeated officeholders in juicy federal jobs. Ex-Representative "Tom" Eliot of Harvard fame will be sent to London to explain our unlisted war aims to Prime Minister Churchill and to the British people. War dancer and shouter Josh Lee of Oklahoma, who was licked in the last balloting, was made one of the Civil Aeronautics Board. It was then that Josiah sounded his trumpet. He warned Mr. Roosevelt that the Constitution forbids the appointment of a member of Congress to any agency which was created during his term. So the Prohibitionist boy from Oklahoma must wait until the expiration of his service before he can collect his ten thousand dollars a year.

Another maimed politico who may get a Washington plum, possibly as a postwar planner, is Senator George W. Norris, who authored the bill to eliminate solons repudiated by voters. For him to accept any assignment would be an ironic commentary on the philosophy behind his reform. So he probably won't take any handout.

The occupant of the White House, however, stands in heavy debt to many men the electorate turned down last November. The "lame duck" amendment he favored is not operating as planned.

TROUBLES: The selection of General Emile Bethouart as head of the French mission of supplies shows how realistic and opportunistic a policy the United States is pursuing toward Vichy and its satellite units. Don't be astonished if the old Marshal himself comes over to our side one of these days.

General Bethouart, a hero of two wars, was seized by the American forces when they descended on North Africa. As a Petain supporter, he was about to be interned, presumably as an enemy. He convinced our people that he had been only a Hitler hostage, as was the late Admiral Jean Francois Darlan, and that he had always yearned for a United Nations victory. His liaison officer, Guilliaume Georges-Picot, was close to French Ambassador Gaston Henri-Haye until the envoy was confined in Hershey, Pennsylvania. So we have decided to welcome him as a loyal associate.

LOVE: Federal control, deletion and censorship of telephones, telegrams and mail lie just around the New Year corner. As this column has frequently forecast (4 November '42), lines of communications have become so cramped that Uncle Sam must intervene. In fact, he has already, to wit:

During the holiday season a high-ranking officer wanted to send greetings to a friend fighting on Guadalcanal. He ended the first message with the line, "My best regards". He was informed that such superfluous verbiage could not be accepted. So he cut his valedictory to "My regards". Again he was told that he could not spread himself.

"Well," he demanded, "what can I say to my pal overseas?" It was explained that the only wind-up word he could use was "Love"—a short, sweet and merry epithet. But since he was warbling to a male acquaintance he decided to wire no communication at all.

• • •

RAYBURN: Democratic key men have graciously unbent and given the enlarged Republican representation greater power on one Congressional committee.

Speaker Sam Rayburn has granted the Martinites ten instead of nine men and reduced his own complement to five instead of six. But the group happens to be the District of Columbia Committee, a rather unimportant body which serves as a board of sub-aldermen for the Capital.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert N. Leman

CABLES from London have given the American public briet advance notice of the extraordinary document prepared by Sir William Beveridge. This actually proposes in full detail a revolutionary program for social security which—to quote him—"is to make want under any circumstance unnecessary". Already it has stirred Great Britain to the depths and it may have an incalculable effect on the United States. This bombshell of high hopes, entitled "Social Insurance and Allied Services", has just been published here in complete text by the Macmillan company.

The momentous report demands the abolition of poverty by "ensuring that every citizen willing to serve according to his powers has at all times an income sufficient to meet his responsibilities". Instead of gazing at the stars, Sir William gets down to earth and shows exactly how the set-up should be operated and financed. He discards the old idea that charity is something for which one should beg; he contends that aid in time of unemployment, disability and other emergencies is a matter of human rights.

But he is equally hostile to the theory of something for nothing, which produces bums at the expense of the thrifty. Compensation, he says, "will continue so long as the need lasts . . . and will be paid from funds contributed from persons, their employers and the state". Jobless people will be compelled to accept offered work or forfeit their benefits.

DREAM: Great Britain was a pioneer in welfare legislation that scattered tiny sums to many classes in dire straits. But the Beveridge scheme goes far beyond current starvation doles. It junks past laws and combines former good points into one new, simple, master arrangement which actually guarantees minimum subsistence to everyone meeting the legal requirements. It establishes real pensions—not driblets—and genuine helping hands for large families, widows, sick and other special cases. It even provides for funeral bills.

The project includes maternity grants and—a subject that is bound to arouse tremendous controversy—"medical treatment covering all requirements . . for all citizens by a national health service . . . and postmedical rehabilitation". At a stroke Sir William intends to wipe out, or at least mitigate, "the giants on the road to reconstruction . . . Disease, Ignorance, Squalor and Idleness".

The famous economist presents his dream as a practical incentive to winning the war. He believes that "each individual is more likely to concentrate (on his part in the struggle) if he feels that his government will be ready in time with plans for that better world. Freedom from want cannot be given to a democracy. It must be won by them".

• • •

PRISONERS: A report has been received in New York from English women who finally managed to get away from German internment camps. Food supplies were very meager. The captives would have been hungry were it not for weekly Red Cross parcels.

They were placed in an unheated vault beneath a church and given only one meal daily. Jailers told them that such harsh measures were in reprisal for the alleged ill treatment of Axis members of their sex in South African enclosures. In order to punish British girls at Liebenau, the Nazis showed them Canadian prisoners of war in chains.

"Nor Any Victory" Is Different War Book

War Correspondent's Writings Are Amusing To Read

"NOR ANY VICTORY," by Ray Brock; (Reynal & Hitchcock, New York).

THE waning year brings no subsidence in the floods of correspondents' books, but it does bring one that is lighter in tone and more amusing to read than most. This is Ray Brock's "Nor Any Victory," and although it has as background the events of Europe and the Near East from September, 1939, to the present, it is really the story of how Brock came of age in a journalistic sense—that and the adventures of himself, his wife Mary, and Slatko, who was picked up in the Balkans. Slatko is the Brock dog, a wire-haired fox terrier with Airedale tendencies.

The Brocks landed in Belgium, broke but determined. They were determined to crash the correspondent class, and had an agreement to send back dispatches to a list of 10 or a dozen American papers. They were only able to get a 24-hour visa for Belgium, but they used it for some weeks. Eventually their money ran out, and by one way or another, they went on to Paris. There they had some luck, mostly bad. The worst thing was the glutted mail channel, which impoverished them by delaying their checks from America. The best was Walter Duranty, who took a fancy to both the Brocks, gave Ray a job as amanuensis, and laid, apparently, some wires into the New York Times office which eventually produced a job.

They Had to Eat

But meanwhile the Brocks had to eat, and Ray went to Berne as local boss for Press Wireless—it was not newspaper work, but it brought groceries. There Duranty reached him, and presently he was in Belgrade with Nazi lightning striking about his head. He is still in the Near East, according to his publisher.

It is very simple for anybody to add up the major things in "Nor Any Victory." They have been written already by quite a good many correspondents, for their papers and in books. But Brock is young for his station, still the wide-eyed young reporter thrilled by his by-line. He is eager, gay, passionate, combative—and bumptious. He writes extraordinarily well most of the time, and is a man of good will.

BIOGRAPHICAL BITS

IN "Victor Hugo" (Doubleday Doran) Matthew Josephson tops all previous lives of the French patriot-litterateur. Hugo was an almost fabulous personality: a literary success at 15, later acknowledged leader of French intellectual circles, happy husband and democratic zealot. His fearlessness, his brilliance and his very human sides are revealed with vitality and warmth.

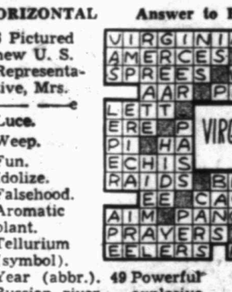

As a boy, Louis Verneuil idolized Sarah Bernhardt and his admiration for her lives on in "The Fabulous Life of Sarah Bernhardt" (Harper) an accounting not based upon gossip or hearsay but upon La Bernhardt's own story, related to Verneuil with utmost frankness.

"Our daughter has a hope chest . . . in an envelope!"

"When our little girl's great day comes—and it may not be more than 10 years off—she's going to have all the things a girl dreams about. "Bright-flowered luncheon sets and fine Irish linen . . . satin-smooth percale sheets and soft fluffy bath towels . . . and lovely lace-edged lingerier . . . "A setting-out like that will cost at least $400!

"We'll only pay $300. Because, you see, we're buying War Bonds for her. And for every $3 worth we buy we get $4 back in 10 years.
"So every single month we buy a $25 War Bond which costs us only $18.75.

Buying Freedom

"And there's something else you can't help but think about when you buy War Bonds. We're doing more than saving money and making a good investment for the future. We're buying the guns and planes and tanks to defend our home. If we don't help our country now to defend our little girl's future, she won't have any future. Except a short and terrible life of slavery to a Jap or Nazi master."

This little girl's father is putting every spare cent of cash into War Bonds, through the Pay-Roll Savings Plan. So are the great majority of Americans. But there are still some Americans who ought to be buying War Bonds through the Pay-Roll Savings Plan . . . and aren't.

Others are in, but haven't hit their 10 percent yet. Some could stretch it to 12 percent or 15 percent, just as thousands of other hard-working people are doing.

Everybody—every pay day—10 percent or more

Uncle Sam hopes that every person on a pay roll will be in the Pay-Roll Savings Plan by New Year's. And that we'll top the 10 per cent goal. Yes, top it . . . because we know now it's going to take more than 10 percent to win!

Your comforts and your fun must wait. Your Bonds will buy them all some day . . . more of them than you can ever buy now.

If you are in, be sure you're putting not 8 percent or 7 percent or 8 percent, but at least 10 per cent into War Bonds every pay day!

If you aren't in the Pay-Roll Savings Plan . . . sign up tomorrow!

● ● ●

WHAT YOU SHOULD DO

If you are . . .

1. Already setting aside 10 per cent of your pay for War Bonds through the Pay-Roll Savings Plan—boost that 10 per cent if you can.
2. Working in a plant where the Plan is installed, but haven't signed up yet—sign up tomorrow.
3. Working in a plant where the Pay-Roll Savings Plan hasn't been installed, talk to your union head, foreman, or plant manager, and see if it can't be installed right away. The local bank will be glad to help.
4. Unable to get in on the Pay-Roll Savings Plan for any reason, go to see your local bank, or other issuing agent. They will be glad to help you start a plan of your own.

Farmer May Have To Slaughter Just Half Of Heifer To Suit OPA--If He Can Find A Way

UP THE HATCH—Not a Nazi in sight, so a New Zealand soldier in the west African desert "unbottons" the front of his American-built tank and pops up for a look-see.

(By The Associated Press)

BALTIMORE, Jan. 2.—"Farmer Brown" stripped the gears on his slide rule, wore out his algebra book and used up his fuel oil ration trying to figure out how to slaughter half a heifer—and the OPA didn't do much better.

"Farmer Brown"—we'll have to call him that because he is one of many—was stumped by this meat rationing business. Here's the way the Maryland Office of Price administration received the problem.

"A farmer who has always killed hogs, but who has not heretofore killed beef for his family use, has a heifer which he would like to slaughter so that he can can one-half of it for family use and sell the other half.

Sale Is Limited

"However, the rule states that farmers can sell only as much meat as they sold last year. Last year this man sold one hog and he has already sold one hog this year.

"With the hogs he has already butchered for family use, his meat-ration would allow him to use about one-half of the heifer, but not the whole.

"He is trying to do just what we have asked all farmers to do, that is, provide their own family's meat supply.

"But, if he sells half the heifer, he will be exceeding his last year's meat sales.

What Should He Do?

"Under the circumstances, what should he do? It seems foolish to instruct him to sell the whole heifer and then buy half of it back, which he will have to do if he is to have enough meat for his family."

"A farmer, who is classified as a non-quota slaughterer, may slaughter as many animals of his own as he chooses; there is no restriction as to this, but he cannot deliver to another person a greater amount of controlled meat derived from his own slaughter than he did during the corresponding period of last year.

"In the case in question, the farmer may not deliver to another person any portion of the meat derived from the slaughter of the heifer, but there is no restriction on his using all of this meat for his own use, should he so desire."

Then the OPA tacked on this little joker:

"However, the government desires that each person voluntarily limit himself to two pounds, three ounces of meat per week."

Glass Fibers Used To Camoflouge Factories

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 2 (U.P.)—America's war plants are being concealed from the eyes of potential enemy bombers by glass.

The Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp. plant here has developed this unusual camouflage after years of experiments and the concealment effects are said to be nearly perfect.

The glass is made in fine fibers as thin as human hair, laid on poultry wire and coated with a special paint to give the effect of the terrain best suited for hiding the factory.

Boy Scout Troop Drills On Commando Style Of Battle

(By The United Press)

NORTHFIELD, Minn., Jan. 2.—Some of the Boy Scouts in troop 13 thought they should learn commando style fighting "in case our country needs it some day."

So Carl Campbell, 12, decided to ask for at least some "minor information" from the most authoritative source he knew—Lord Louis Mountbatten, leader of the British commandos and cousin of King George VI. He addressed this letter to Lord Mountbatten:

Learning Commando Tactics

"I am the assistant leader of a club called the Commandos, jr., of Northfield, Minn., U. S. A. We are just a group of boys who are training to learn the commando type of battle in case our country needs it some day. We all love the woods and we are learning to use it in all ways . . .

"I'm writing to ask you if it is possible for you to send the club any information on commando fighting. We would appreciate it very much. But if you believe it might go into enemy hands and you wouldn't dare send it, please let me know."

Carl knew the British peer was pretty busy but he waited hopefully and today he had a reply.

Symbolic Of Spirit

"I was very pleased to get your letter," Lord Mountbatten wrote. "Of the many somewhat similar letters I receive, your letter impressed me as being symbolic of the spirit of both American and British youth which insures victory for our countries . . .

"I am attaching the notes which you ask for on commando training. These have been made for you by my vice chief of combined operations, Maj. Gen. J. C. Hayden, who was equally struck by the spirit of your letter. General Haydon made these notes just before he flew to Gibraltar to join General Eisenhower in the great North African combined operation.

"I am sending you also a set of rules from that fine American soldier, Maj. Robert Rogers, who commanded the renowned Rogers Rangers many years ago in your history. His regulations were drawn up in the days of Indian warfare in America, but many of them are applicable today."

Carl was jubilant. He said the junior commandos were going to tackle the five pages of instructions right away, studying "night work, concealment, unarmed combat and self reliance."

Pilot Hurt, Fortress Crew Downs 3 Enemy Planes On Way Home

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 2—The crew of a United States army Flying Fortress whose pilot was seriously wounded by a German shell exploding in the cockpit during Wednesday's raid on the German submarine base at Lorient told today how they managed to bring the big plane home only a little out of formation. En route they downed three Nazi fighters and probably got a fourth.

The Fortress was wheeling away after bombing the U-boat pens at Lorient, on the French Atlantic coast, when a 20-millimeter shell from an attacking Focke-Wulf-190 knocked out the pilot, blew the top off of the cockpit, knocking out the oxygen apparatus and admitting a freezing hurricane into the plane at the dangerously rarefied 21,000-foot level.

The top turret gunner, Technical Sergeant Clarence V. King, Island Falls, Maine, climbed down, carried the pilot aft, where Captain Alexander Bright of Boston, Mass, an intelligence observer, gave first aid.

One Motor Out

King then climbed back into the cockpit and helped the co-pilot, Lieut. Robert D. Shaw of Klamath Falls, Ore., who was carrying on despite a badly lacerated arm. One of the motors had been knocked out by the hit and another was missing badly.

As German fighters continued the attack the navigator, Lieut. Byron M. Bennett, San Francisco, Calif., former student in the Harvard school of business, and the radioman, Technical Sergeant David B. Hatch of Brockton, Mass., continued with their duties. Hatch's wife lives in Tulsa, Okla.

Fortress' Eighth Raid

Bright, who went along on this, the Fortress' eighth raid as a spare gunner, got in five bursts with the bombardier's gun. Another shell exploded in the rear of the plane, injuring the tail turret gunner but he kept firing and nailed one of the Focke-Wulfs.

The ball turret gunner, Staff Sgt. James P. Farrar of Talala, Okla., brought down a Messerschmitt-109. Staff Sgt. Theodore Kusowski, of Saginaw, Mich., got another Focke-Wulf. The left waist gunner, Sgt. Alvar Platt, of Ripon, Calif., scored another probable on a Focke-Wulf, making the big bomber's score, despite the crew's injuries, three enemy planes downed and one probable.
