MUCH FIRING REPORTED ON LOGAN COUNTY LINE NO CASUALTIES RESULT

PITTSBURGH, PA., Aug. 27.—A large body of armed men seeking to enter Logan county was this morning turned back by a force of deputy sheriffs on the Boone-Logan county line, according to a statement given to the Associated Press over the long distance telephone by an official connected with Gov. E. F. Morgan's executive office at Charleston. It was added that there had been no casualties, although many shots had been exchanged. Further than this the informant was unable to go.

Shortly after 2 o'clock this morning rumors began to circulate about Bluefield, Huntington and Charleston that an engagement had been fought near Blair, close to the Boone county line. All efforts to confirm these rumors failed until communication was established with the governor's office.

It is not determined whether the body of men engaged by the deputies was a part of the Marmet-Mingo marchers, who yesterday were persuaded by C. F. Keeny, president of district 21, United Mine Workers of America, to abandon the march and return to their homes.

A long distance telephone call to the office of Don Chafin, Logan county sheriff, early today met with no response. Similar calls to a private establishment and a hotel were unproductive, the person answering the telephone at the hotel laconically remarking:

"I have nothing to say; this is Logan county's business and no one else's."

At 3 o'clock this morning the telephone operator at Logan is said to have told the Charleston Gazette that firing then was in progress at Blair; that the deputies were on top of a mountain ridge overlooking the town, the armed men at the foot. Firing, it was added, had been spasmodic up to that time. When it started could not be ascertained.

Attaches of Governor Morgan's office were constantly in direct communication with the sheriff's office at Logan.

MEN SCRAMBLE ABOARD TRAIN FOR RETURN TO CHARLESTON

MADISON, W. VA., Aug. 27.—A train comprising six coaches sent here over the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad to carry back to Charleston the advance party of Marmet marchers who abandoned the journey to Mingo county late yesterday at the request of C. F. Keeny, district mine workers president, arrived here before daylight this morning. The men scrambled aboard immediately. Most of them had spent the night walking and sitting about the village.

Although the men showed signs of restlessness during the last few hours of their stay, there was no disorder. Little groups everywhere were to be seen talking and smoking. Many apparently were weary, and it was evident to those who saw them walk about that not a few were footsore.

The main body of marchers was scattered along Indian and Lens creeks facing northeast and straggling toward home, in compliance with Mr. Keeny's wishes. The spirits of the men did not appear to have been affected by the sudden change of plans. If there was discontent, it was not evident. The same carefreeness that characterized the march in the direction of the Mingo county bank of the Tug river was in evidence today on the hike the other way.

During the southward march, the several groups remained close together. Today with their homes as their objective rather than a distant county their destination, those of the men who have families apparently were speeding up the journey, presuming that the space between the bands distinguished family men from those not so endowed.

District President Keeny spent the night here with the contingent awaiting transportation to Charleston. Aside from expressing satisfaction, he had nothing to say for publication.

A train carrying the Madison party back to Charleston is expected to arrive at the latter place some time this morning.

BUSINESS RELATIONS ARE TO BE RESUMED WITHOUT ANY DELAY

AMERICAN AND GERMAN FIRMS ARE NOT TO WAIT FOR RATIFICATION.

COMMERCIAL TREATIES TO HAVE EARLY CONSIDERATION

Satisfaction Is Generally Expressed in Business Circles Throughout Germany.

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—American and German business firms will resume peace-time relations immediately without waiting for ratification of the treaty signed here on Thursday, it is said in well informed industrial circles of this city. It is anticipated that commercial treaties will be negotiated and that consular treaties will be reconstructed in a brief period. Spanish diplomatic representatives here, who have been in charge of American interests since February 3, 1917, will continue their duties in this respect.

The establishment of credit loans and preparations to ship into the American market surplus products of Germany such as news print paper, occupy the attention of industrial leaders here. Satisfaction over the simplicity and straight forwardness of the American treaty is generally expressed in commercial circles, where belief is expressed that the same "reasonableness" will characterize the United States in later dealings.

"Germany had slight reason to expect anything from America, and, hence, we fared better than we expected," declared a commercial leader yesterday.

"The United States makes numerous reservations, and it insists upon the advantages which accrue to America by virtue of the treaty of Versailles, but we will continue to act frankly on the supposition that although insisting up on 100 per cent of the Versailles treaty, the United States will probably demand the actua. execution of less than 50 per cent of the treaty's provisions."

"We accepted the treaty virtually as presented," it was stated by a government official during the day. "We put faith in the sense of justice of the United States. The idea was to get peace as quickly as possible, and we asked for no specific assurance and only a few interpellations in the draft of the treaty as presented by Ellis Loring Dresel, United States commissioner here.

Will Benefit Business.

"Business will be benefited immediately. Under the technical state of war which existed business men hesitated to engage in contracts with alien enemies. There was nothing agreed to commercial treaties, nor the personnel of the German mission sent to the United States, but we will send our ablest men. It is improbable, however, that a representative of a large industrial or commercial interest will head the delegation going to Washington for fear that there may be some doubt as to his impartiality during the arrangement of a commercial agreement."

Asked if he expected the ratification of the treaty to result in the release of private property held in the United States, the official said:

"Under the treaty of 1828 the inviolability of private property was secured, even in the case of war. I do not see how America could do anything else but release this property. This action would be an appreciable stimulus to business."

The official said he believed the reichstag would ratify the treaty, although some opposition might be expected from the members of the extreme right, made up of nationalists, who have shown hostility to the pact. The date that the reichstag will take up the treaty has not been fixed as yet, but it is believed here that it will act when the United States senate begins consideration of the convention.

Count Ernest von Reventlow, chief editorial writer on the staff of the Deutches Taves Zeitung, makes a virulent attack upon the treaty and calls upon the nationalists to refuse to support its ratification. He declares the United States rendered France "an inestimable service" in arranging for the treaty, and also charges Chancellor Wirth with a "lack of dignity" in failing to reject the American demands.

CLAY COUNTY PLANS ROAD BOND ELECTION

Petitions Being Circulated For Vote On a Two-Million Dollar Issue.

Special to The Times.

PETROLIA, TEXAS, Aug. 27.—Petitions are being circulated here asking for an election to authorize issuance of $2,000,000 road bonds in Clay county. State aid will be enlisted and federal aid to the amount of $1,000,000 is hoped for.

An enthusiastic meeting was held at Henrietta last night by prominent citizens from all over the county. The project if put over will give northwest Texas a most comprehensive highway system when connected up with the roads being built in Wichita county.

IRELAND IS NOTIFIED IT CANNOT WITHDRAW FROM BRITISH EMPIRE

STATEMENT IS OUTSTANDING FEATURE OF REPLY OF LLOYD GEORGE.

CABINET CONSIDERS THE WHOLE IRISH SITUATION

Declares Needless Prolongation of Conversations May Wreck Prospects For Peace.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Ireland cannot be permitted to withdraw from the British empire. This is the outstanding feature of the note sent to Dublin yesterday by Prime Minister Lloyd George, following consideration by the cabinet of the whole Irish situation. Lloyd George declared he would be glad to continue negotiations with Eamonn de Valera, but warned the Irish leaders that a needless prolongation of the conversations might wreck the chance of an agreement and terminate the truce.

Newspapers today generally approved the prime minister's reply, and expressed satisfaction that Lloyd George had declared he was willing to continue negotiations. The Morning Post, which maintained the old conservative view, urged the sinn fein leaders to recognize the unalterable stand for union which had been made by the government and advised that terms could be reached on that basis.

Mr. de Valera was told that he was "discussing the situation in the spirit of an impracticable doctrinnaire."

"Until Mr. de Valera descends to earth from the cloudy heights," the newspaper continued, "no progress is possible. He has assured Great Britain that he has not the slightest desire to renew hostilities and that not a shot will be fired unless the sinn fein wills it, but it is doubtful if, otherwise, he correctly interprets the opinion of the majority of his followers. It might be suggested that if the refusal of the dail eireann to accept the British offer was submitted to the decision of the Irish people it would not be indorsed."

"The time has passed," said the London Times, "when the reiteration of the differences between the English and Irish viewpoints can serve a useful purpose. The time has come when, if there is to be a peace, these differences be taken for granted. When the sinn fein understand this fact, the hour for further negotiations will have arrived."

IRISH REPUBLICAN PARLIAMENT MEETS TO CONSIDER SITUATION

DUBLIN Aug. 27.—Members of the Irish republican parliament met at the Mansion House today to consider the situation which has developed from the firm stand of Premier Lloyd George relative to a settlement of the Irish controversy. The message from the premier arrived here last night and its intimation that the British government would not consider any unreasonable delay in continuing negotiations caused some apprehension among the people. Leaders of the dail eireann and members of the cabinet of Eamonn de Valera appeared, however, not to consider that the situation had become any more delicate than it had been since the exchanges began.

Commenting on the letter from Lloyd George, the Freeman's Journal said today:

"In our opinion, the prime minister's latest communication bears the construction which Jan C. Smuts, premier of the union of South Africa, put upon the original offer from the British government."

The Irish Independent urged the prime minister to readjust or modify the conditions to which the Irish leaders have taken exception and said the alternative would be a renewal of war "on a scale that would appal humanity and would ultimately discredit and disgrace England.

"With the will to make peace on both sides," the newspaper said, "it ought to be possible to arrive by a conference at a basis upon which a settlement that is honorable and satisfactory to both sides could be effected."

The Irish Times said the immediate effect of Mr. de Valera's note to London and the reply of Prime Minister Lloyd George had been to bring negotiations to a very critical point.

"The undoubted gravity of the situation calls for cool heads and clear minds on both sides of the Irish sea," the newspaper added. "A wearisome exchange of mere notes can serve no useful purpose. Sooner or later some definite decision must be reached."

THE TAX BILL WILL HAVE RIGHT OF WAY

Committee Decides to Put Measure Ahead of The Tariff Legislation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The senate finance committee decided today to put the tax bill ahead of the tariff. Consideration of the revenue measure will begin next Thursday, by which time hearings on the tariff already scheduled will have been concluded.

DETECTIVES ATTEMPT TO SOLVE ERZBERGER MURDER

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—Detectives were at work early today in the Black Forest near Offenburg, Baden, attempting to pick up some trace of the assassins who shot and killed Mathias Erzberger, one of the most prominent leaders of the German centrist party. The officers had with them half a dozen police dogs.

Herr Erzberger's body has been taken to Bad-Griesbach.

PRESIDENT OF REICHSTAG DENOUNCES THE MURDER

LONDON, Aug. 27.—President Loebe of the German reichstag, at a meeting of the party leaders Friday, denounced the murder of Mathias Erzberger. He said, according to the Berlin correspondent of the London Times, that the motive undoubtedly was political.

"I fear gravely for the peace of the people," he added, "and see in the murderous act incalculable consequences for the fatherland."

MOTOR CAR BURGLARS TAKE 400 POUND SAFE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 27.—Motor car burglars were reported to the police late tonight to have entered the residence of F. L. Mosher in the Hollywood section and driven away with a 400-pound safe. Mosher, who made the report, told the officers the safe contained notes, bonds, silverware and jewelry valued at $120,000.

WORLD'S LARGEST GARAGE IS PLANNED FOR CHICAGO

The Weather

West Texas: Generally fair tonight and Sunday.

PERSONALLY NOTIFIES AMBASSADOR THAT HE IS COMING TO AMERICA

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Marshal Foch, unannounced, yesterday walked into the American embassy here without formality, took a seat in the reception room, and like the ordinary caller, sent up his card asking to see Ambassador Herrick.

When the presence of the distinguished visitor became known a secretary immediately ushered him into the ambassador's office. Marshal Foch told Mr. Herrick that he had come to the embassy in person to say definitely that he was going to the United States.

"I wanted to come and tell you definitely," said the officer who commanded the allied armies during the war, "that I am going to America. I also wanted to tell you directly, by word of mouth instead of by letter or in any formal way, how deeply touched I have been by the echoes from America of my projected visit. I wanted to tell you how delighted I am that I am going.

"The visit of the American legion has brought me in closer touch with America than I have been since the American army was here, and I appreciate deeply the desire of the American legion that I go to their convention in Kansas City."

Text of British Rejoinder To Reply of Irish Leader

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The text of the reply of Premier Lloyd George to Eamonn de Valera is as follows:

"Sir, the British government are profoundly disappointed by your letter of August 24. You write of the conditions of the meeting between us as though no meeting had ever taken place.

"I must remind you, therefore, that when I asked you to meet me six weeks ago, I made no preliminary conditions of any sort. You came to London on that invitation and exchanged views with me at three meetings of considerable length. The proposals I made to you after those meetings were based upon full and sympathetic consideration of the views which you expressed.

"They were not made in any haggling spirit. On the contrary, my colleagues and I went to the very limit of our powers in endeavoring to reconcile British and Irish interests. Our proposals have gone far beyond all precedent and have been approved as liberal by the whole of the civilized world.

"Even in quarters which had shown sympathy with the most extreme of the Irish claims they are regarded as the utmost which the empire can reasonably offer or Ireland expect.

"The only criticism of them I have yet heard outside Ireland is from those who maintain that our proposals have overstepped both warrant and wisdom in their liberality. Your letter shows no recognition of this, and further negotiations must, I fear, be futile, unless some definite progress is made toward acceptance of a basis.

Provisions of Proposal.

"You declare our proposals involve the surrender of Ireland's whole national tradition and reduce her to subservience. What are the facts? Under the settlement we outlined Ireland would control every nerve and fiber of her national existence. She would speak her own language and make her own religious life; she would have complete power over taxation and finance, subject only to an agreement for keeping trade and transport as free as possible between herself and Great Britain, her best market.

"She would have unconditional authority over education and the moral and spiritual interest of her race; she would have it also over law and order; over land and agriculture; over conditions of labor and industry; over the health and homes of her people and over her own defense.

"She would, in fact, within the shores of Ireland, be free in every respect of national activity, national expression and national development. The states of the American union, sovereign they be, enjoy no such range of rights.

"Our proposals go even further, for they invite Ireland to take her place as a partner in the great commonwealth of free nations, united by allegiance to the king.

"We consider these proposals completely fulfill your wish that the principle of government by consent of the governed should be the broad and guiding principle of the settlement which your plenipotentiaries are to negotiate. That principle was first developed in England and is the mainspring of the representative institutions which she was first to create. It was spread by her throughout the world and is now the very life of the British commonwealth.

Can Heal Misunderstandings.

"We could not have invited the Irish people to take their place in that commonwealth on any other principle and we are convinced that through it we can heal old misunderstandings and achieve an enduring partnership as honorable to Ireland as to the other nations of which the commonwealth consists.

"But when you argue that the relations of Ireland with the British empire are comparable in principle to those of Holland or Belgium with the German empire, I find it necessary to repeat once more that those are premises which no British government, whatever its complexion, can never accept.

"In demanding that Ireland should be treated as a separate sovereign power, with no allegiance to the crown and no loyalty to the sister nations of the commonwealth you are advancing claims which the most famous nationalist leaders in Irish history, from Grattan to Parnell and Redmond, have explicitly disowned.

"Grattan, in a famous phrase, declared that the ocean protests against separation and the sea against union. Daniel O'Connell, most eloquent perhaps of all the spokesmen of the Irish national cause, protested thus in the house of commons in 1830:

"'Never did monarch receive more undivided allegiance than the present king from the men who in Ireland agitate the repeal of the union. Never was there grosser calumny than to assert that they wish to produce separation between the two countries. Never was there a greater mistake than to suppose that we wish to dissolve the connection.'"

Quotes Letter of 1854.

The premier then quotes a letter written in 1854 to the Duke of Wellington by Thomas Davis, "a fervent exponent of the ideals of young Ireland," as advocating the retention of the imperial parliament and the giving to Ireland of a senate selected by the people; the right of levying customs and excise and other taxes; the making of roads, harbors, railways, canals and bridges; encouraging manufacturers, commerce, agriculture and fishing and the settling of the poor laws, tithes, tenures, grand juries and franchises.

"The British government," the reply continues, "offered Ireland all that O'Connell and Thomas asked, and more; we are met only by an unqualified demand that we should recognize Ireland as a foreign power. It is playing with phrases to suggest that the principle of government by consent of the governed compels recognition of that demand on our part, or that in repudiating it we are straining geographical and historical conditions to justify claims to ascendancy over the Irish race.

"There is no political principle, however clear, that can be applied without regard to limitations imposed by physical and historical facts. Those limitations are as necessary as the very principle itself to the structure of every free nation; to deny them would involve the dissolution of all democratic states. It was on these elementary grounds that we called attention to the governing force of the geographical propinquity of these two islands and their long and historic association, despite the great difference of character of the races.

Separation Impracticable.

"We do not believe a permanent reconciliation between Great Britain and Ireland can ever be attained without recognition of their historical interdependence which makes complete political and economic separation impracticable for both.

"I cannot better express the British standpoint in this respect than in the words used of the northern and southern states by Abraham Lincoln in his inaugural address. They were spoken by him on the brink of the American civil war which he was striving to avert.

"'Physically speaking,' he said, 'we cannot separate. We cannot remove our respective sections from each other now and build an impassable wall between them. * * * It is impossible then to make that intercourse more advantageous or more satisfactory after separation than before. * * * Suppose you go to war, you cannot fight always; and when after much loss on both sides and no gain for either you cease fighting, the identical old questions as to terms of intercourse again are upon you.

"I do not think it can be reasonably contended that the relations between Great Britain and Ireland are in any different case.

"I thought I had made it clear, both in my conversations with you and my subsequent communications that we can discuss no settlement which involves a refusal on the part of Ireland to accept our invitation to a free, equal and loyal partnership in the British commonwealth under the sovereign.

"I am reluctant to precipitate this issue, but must point out that a prolongation of the present state of affairs is dangerous. Action is being taken in various directions which, if continued, would prejudice the truce and must ultimately lead to its termination. This would indeed be deplorable.

"While therefore prepared to make every allowance as to time which will advance the cause of peace, we cannot prolong a mere exchange of notes. It is essential that some definite and immediate progress should be made toward a basis upon which further negotiations can usefully proceed.

"Your letter seems to us, unfortunately, to show no such progress.

"In this and my previous letters I have set forth the considerations which must govern the attitude of his majesty's government in any negotiations which they undertake. If you are prepared to examine how far these considerations can be reconciled with the aspirations you represent, I shall be happy to meet you and your colleagues.

BIG DEMONSTRATION IN MUNICH AGAINST HIGH COST OF LIVING

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 27.—Demonstrations in Munich against high prices and alleged reactionary methods of the Bavarian authorities participated in last night by 40,000 people, are announced in messages from Munich today. One man was killed and one wounded in the process of dispersing the demonstrators, which was effected by the police and soldiers without serious trouble. The demonstration is described as being aimed particularly at Premier Kaur and Chief of Police Poehner.

When first news that the demonstration was brewing reached Berlin, fear was expressed that the Bavarian government faced a serious crisis as the radical parties are well organized and reported to be in a determined mood.

Here in Berlin 7,000 workmen organized a procession yesterday and marched to Brandenburg where former War Minister Von Stein had been announced to speak.

SHERIFF IS SEARCHING FOR SEVEN MEXICANS

NOGALES, ARIZ., Aug. 27.—The bandits who late yesterday shot and killed Postmaster Frank J. Pearson and his wife at Ruby, 35 miles west of Nogales, escaped across the international border line into Mexico, according to Sheriff George White, Santa Cruz county, who returned here today after making a personal investigation.

NOGALES, ARIZ., Aug. 27.—Sheriff White of Santa Cruz county and two deputies are searching today for seven Mexicans, supposed to be the murderers of Frank J. ## TWO CHILDREN SERIOUSLY INJURED WHEN BLOWN FROM THEIR WAGON; CHURCHES AND HOMES DAMAGED

DENTON, TEXAS, Aug. 27.—Two children of a party of campers were blown from their wagon against a barbed wire fence and seriously injured, and property damage estimated at $10,000 was caused by a cyclone which swept the Navo community, northeast of Denton, yesterday afternoon, according to word received here today.

The Methodist church, three houses and three barns were wrecked by the gale.

Later a high wind accompanied by a near cloudburst blew two churches from their foundations at Justin, in the southwest part of the county, and wrecked a barn near the town.

So far as could be learned here this is the only section of the state which suffered damage from high winds and rain, which were general during yesterday afternoon.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 27. — John Philip Sousa, expressing himself much amused by recent reports that he had become so deaf that it was necessary for him to lead his band "by instinct," has sent the following telegram to a friend in Milwaukee:

"Mark Twain remarked on hearing that he was dead that the report was largely exaggerated. So is the one that my hearing is impaired. I can hear the faintest tinkle of the dinner bell."

BEGIN INVESTIGATION OF AIRSHIP DISASTER

Not Expected That Report Will Be Made Public Until the Inquiry Is Completed.

By Associated Press.

HOWDEN, ENGLAND, Aug. 27.—Formal investigation of the disaster which destroyed the dirigible ZR-2 on Wednesday afternoon and caused the deaths of more than forty of her personnel began here today. Sir Hugh Montague Trenchard, British air marshal, was in charge of the inquiry, and a number of British and American officers were present to give testimony.

Plans for the investigation did not contemplate public sessions of the court and it was believed probable that nothing would be given publication until after the findings of the court had been communicated to the British government.

The work of lifting the wreck of the ZR-2 from the Humber river at Hull continued today. Two more bodies, those of Albert L. Loftin, an American, who was acting as mechanic on board the dirigible, and Flight Sergeant A. P. Martin, a British member of the crew, were recovered yesterday.

MESSAGE OF SYMPATHY IS SENT TO COL. GEORGE HARVEY

HULL, ENGLAND, Aug. 27.—A message expressing sympathy of the municipality and people of Hull to the citizens of the United States and the relatives of the Americans who lost their lives when the ZR-2 was destroyed has been sent to George Harvey, American ambassador to Great Britain, by T. B. Atkinson, lord mayor.

"Your excellency," the lord mayor's letter said, "I desire on behalf of the inhabitants of this city to express to you their great sympathy in the terrible loss of life occasioned citizens of the United States through the catastrophe of the airship ZR-2. While mourning our own loss, we do not forget the losses of our American allies. These losses in many cases are personal to many of our inhabitants who, during the somewhat lengthy sojourn of your airmen at Howden, learned to know them as friends and to respect them as brave and capable men."

Chief of Police Edward Martin will notify the Birmingham officers today that Peoria has no claim upon the man they are holding.

Dave Henderson brushed his hand across his eyes again and bent his head to catch the words

THE STORY

Dave Henderson, a child of the streets, has grown to manhood among but not of the "powers that prey." As Bookie Skarvan's confidential man he is sent to Martin K. Tadeuma to get $100,000 to recoup racing losses. It seems, to Henderson's warped judgment, a chance to obtain a fortune and leave the world of crooks and he steals and hides the money. Skarvan also plans to steal the money from his silent partner in racing ventures, and the thugs he hires for the job discover that Henderson has forestalled them. They determine to kill him and take the money, but in this they fail, for Henderson hides it and makes his escape only to fall into the hands of the police. He is sentenced to the penitentiary for five years, and a short time before his time is up De cetive Barjac tries to learn where the money is hidden and fails. Bookie Skarvan also tries to learn where Henderson hid those $100,000. Henderson refuses and is threatened with the powers of the "under world." He knows that he will leave the penitentiary a marked man with little or no opportunity for visiting the spot where he has hidden the money and he determines to confide in a convict named Millman, a gentleman who has been railroad to a cell. He hesitates to do so for two reasons; first that it would be unfair to Millman and second because he distrusts every one. Millman, who is penitentiary librarian, is to leave the next day, and Henderson determines to talk with him under guise of taking out a book.

VI

AND he couldn't ask Millman—because it wouldn't be fair to Millman.

His face must have grown haggard, perhaps he was acting strangely. Old Tony over there had been casting anxious glances in his direction. He took a grip upon himself, and smiled at the old bomb-thrower. The old Italian looked pretty bad himself—that pasty whiteness about the old fellow's face had a nasty appearance.

His mind went back to Millman, working in queer, disconnected snatches of thought. He was going to lose Millman, too • • • Millman was going out tomorrow! • • • It had always been a relief to talk to Millman. • • • He had never told Millman where the money was, of course, but Millman knew what he, Dave Henderson, was "in" for. • • • The library hour wasn't far off, and it would help to talk to Millman now. • • • Only Millman was going out tomorrow—and he was to bid Millman good-by.

This seemed somehow the crowning jeer of mockery that fate was flinging at him—that tomorrow even Millman would be gone. It seemed to bring a snarl into his soul, the snarl as of some gaunt, starving beast at bay, the snarl of desperation flung out in bitter, reckless defiance.

He put his hands to his face, and beneath them his jaws clamped and locked. They would never beat him, he would go under first, but—but——

Time passed. The routine of the prison life went on like the turning of some great, ponderous wheel that moved very slowly, but at the same time with a sort of smooth, cold immutability. It seemed that way to Dave Henderson. He was conscious of no definite details that marked or occupied the passage of time. The library hour had come. He was on his way to the library now—with permission to get a book. He did not want a book. He was going to see Millman, and, God knew he did not want to see Millman—to say good-by.

MIND, body and soul were sick—sick with the struggle of the afternoon, sick with the ceaseless mental torment that made his temples throb and brought excruciating pain, and with the pain brought almost physical nausea; sick, with the realization that his recompense for the five years of freedom he had sacrificed was only—wreckage, ruin and disaster.

He entered the little room. A guard lounged negligently against the wall. One of the two convict librarians was already busy with another convict—but it wasn't Millman who was busy. He met Millman's cool, steady, gray eyes, read a sudden, startled something in them, and moved down to the end of the sort of wooden counter away from the guard—and handed in his book to be exchanged.

"What's the matter, Dave?" Millman, across the counter, back half turned to the guard, spoke in a low, hurried voice, as he pretended to examine the book. "I never saw you look like this before! Are you sick?"

"Yes," said Dave Henderson between his teeth. "Sick—as hell! I'm up against it, Charlie! And I guess it's all over except for one last little fight."

"What book do you want?" said Millman's voice coolly; but Millman's clean-cut face with its strong jaw tightening a little, and Millman's clear gray eyes with a touch of steel creeping into them, said: "Go on!"

"The police!" Dave Henderson spoke through the corner of his mouth without motion of the lips. "Barjan was here last night. And I got another tip today. The screws are going on—to a finish."

"You mean they're going to see that you don't get that money?"

Dave Henderson nodded curtly.

"Why not give it up then, Dave, and start a clean sheet?" asked Millman softly.

"Give it up!" The red had come into Dave Henderson's face, there was a savage tightening of his lips across his teeth. "I'll never give it up! D'ye think I've rotted here five years only to crawl at the end? By God! No! I'll get it—if they get me doing it!" His hoarse whisper caught and choked suddenly. "But it's hell, Charlie—hell! Hell to go under like that, just because there isn't a soul on God's wide earth I can trust to get it for me while they're watching me!"

Millman turned away, and walked to the racks of books at the rear of the room.

Dave Henderson watched the other in a numbed sort of way. It was a curious kind of good-by he was saying to Millman. He wasn't quite sure, for that matter, just what he had said. He was soul sick, and body sick. Millman was taking a long while over the selection of a book—and he hadn't even asked for a book, let alone for any particular one. What did it matter! He didn't want anything to read. Reading wasn't any good to him any more! Barjan and Bookie Skarvan had——

Millman was leaning over the counter again, a book in his hand.

"Would you trust me, Dave?" he asked quietly.

"You!" The blood seemed to quicken, and rush in a mad, swirling tide through Dave Henderson's veins. "Do you mean that, Charlie? Do you mean you'll help me?"

"Yes," said Millman. "If you want to trust me, I'll get that money for you. I'm going out tomorrow. But talk quickly! The guard's watching us and getting fidgety. Where is it?"

Dave Henderson rubbed his upper lip with the side of his forefinger as though it itched; the remaining fingers, spread out fanlike, screened his mouth.

"In the old pigeon-cote—shed back of Tooley's house where I used to live—you can get into the shed from the lane."

Millman laid the book on the counter—and pushed it toward Dave Henderson.

"All right," he said. "They won't be looking for it in New York. You've two months more here. Make it the twenty-fourth of June. That'll give you time enough. I'll be registered at the St. Lucian Hotel—New York—8 o'clock in the evening—June twenty-fourth. I'll hand the money over to you there, and——"

"You there, Five-Fifty"—the guard was moving toward them from across the room—"you got your book, ain't you?"

Dave Henderson picked up the book, and turned toward the door.

"Good-by!" he flung over his shoulder.

"Good-by!" Millman answered.

IT WAS dark in the cell, quite dark. There was just the faint glimmer that crept in from the night lights along the iron galleries, and came up from the main corridor two tiers below. It must have been hours since he had left Millman in the prison library—and yet he was not sure. Perhaps it was even still early, for he hadn't heard old Tony talking and whispering to himself through the bars tonight yet.

Dave Henderson's head, cupped in hands whose fingers dug with a brutal grip into the flesh of his cheeks, came upward with a jerk, and he surged to his feet from the hinged shelf that he called cot and bed. What difference did it make whether it was dark or light, or late or early, or whether old Tony had babbled to himself or not! It was pitifully inconsequential. It was only his brain staggering off into the byways again, as though, in some sneaking, underhand way, it wanted to steal rest and respite.

His hands went up above his head, and held there, and his fists clenched. He was the fool of fools, the prince of fools! He saw it now! His laugh purled low, in hollow mirth, through the cell—a devil's laugh in its bitter irony. Yes, he saw it now—when it was too late.

Millman! Damn Millman to the pit! Damn Millman for the smoothest, craftiest hypocrite into whom God had ever breathed the breath of life! He had been trapped! That had been Millman's play, two years of cunning play—to win his confidence; two years of it, that always at the end the man might get that $100,000. And he had fallen into Millman's trap!

He did not believe Millman's story, or in Millman's innocence now—when it was too late! He couldn't reach Millman now. There were bars of iron and steel doors and walls of stone between himself and Millman's cell; and in the morning Millman would be gone, and Millman would have sixty-two—no, sixty-one days—to get that money and put the width of the world between them before he, Dave Henderson, was free.

Sixty-one days! And in the space of one short moment, wrecking all that the toil and agony of years was to have stood for, he had told Millman what Millman wanted to know! And that was the moment Millman had been waiting for through two long years with cunning patience—and he, Dave Henderson, because he was shaken to the soul with desperation, because he was alone with his back to the wall, in extremity, ready to grasp at any shred of hope, and because he was sick in body, and because the sudden, overwhelming uplift at Millman's offer had numbed and dulled his faculties in a mighty revulsion of relief, had fallen into the traitor's trap.

And it had been done so quickly! The guard had been there and had intervened, and there hadn't been time for his mind to win back its normal poise and reason logically. He hadn't reasoned in that brief instant; he had only caught and grasped the outflung hand of one whom, for two years, he had trusted and believed was a friend. He hadn't reasoned then; he had even stepped out of the prison library more light-hearted than he had been almost from the moment they had put these striped clothes upon him five years before; but he had barely stood locked in his cell here again when, like some ghastly blight falling upon him, reason had come and left him a draggled weakling, scarcely able physically to stand upon his feet. And then that had passed, and he had been possessed of an insensate fury that had bade him fling himself at the cell door, and, with superhuman strength, wrench and tear the bars asunder that he might get at Millman again. He had checked that impulse amidst the jeers and mockeries of impish voices that rang in his ears and filled the cell with their insane jabberings—voices that laughed in hellish glee at him for being a fool in the first place, and for his utter impotence in the second.

THEY were jeering and chuckling now, those insane demon voices!

He swung from the center of the cell, and flung himself down on the cot again. They might well mock at him, those voices! For two years, though he had had faith in Millman, he had kept the secret of the hiding place of that money to himself because, believing Millman to be an honest man, it would have been unfair to Millman to have told him, since, as an honest man, Millman then would either have had to inform the authorities—or become a dishonest man. It was clear enough, wasn't it? And logical enough? And yet in one unguarded moment he had repudiated his own logic! He had based all his faith and trust and confidence in Millman, on the belief that Millman was an honest man. Well, an honest man wouldn't voluntarily aid and abet a thief in getting away with stolen money, nor make himself an accomplice after the fact, nor offer to help outwit the police, nor agree to participate in what amounted to stealing the money for a second time, and so make of himself a criminal! And if the man was then dishonest, and for two years had covered that dishonesty with a mask of hypocrisy, it was obvious enough, since the hypocrisy had been solely for his, Dave Henderson's, benefit, that Millman had planned it all patiently from the beginning, and now meant to do him cold, to get the money and keep it.

He could not remain still. He was up on his feet again from the cot. Fury had him in its grip once more. Five years! Five years of hell in this devil's hole! And a branded name! He had thrown everything into the balance—all he had! And now—this! Tricked! That was it—tricked! Tricked by a Judas!

All the passion of the man was on the surface now. Lean and gaunt, his body seemed to crouch forward as though to spring; his hands, with fingers crooked like claws, reaching for their prey, were outstretched before him. Sixty-one days' start Millman had. But Millman would need more than that! The only man in the world whom he had ever trusted, and who had then betrayed him, would need more than sixty-one days to escape the reckoning that was to come. Millman might hide, Millman might live for years in lavish ease on that money, and in the end there might be none of that money left, but sooner or later Millman would pay a bigger price than—$100,000. He would get Millman. The world wasn't big enough for the two of them. And when that day came——

His muscles relaxed. The paroxysm of fury left him, and suddenly he moaned a little as though in bitter hurt. There was another side to it. He could not help thinking of that other side. There had been two years of what he had thought was friendship—and the friendship had been hypocrisy. It was hard to believe. Perhaps Millman meant to play square after all, perhaps Millman would keep that rendezvous in New York on June 24 at 8 o'clock in the evening at the St. Lucian Hotel. Perhaps Millman would. It wasn't only on account of the money that he hoped Millman would—there were those two years of what he had thought was friendship.

He leaned suddenly against the wall of the cell, the palms of his hands pressed against it, his face crushed into his knuckles. No! What was the use of that! Why try to delude himself again? Why try to make himself believe what he wanted to believe? He could reason now coolly and logically enough. If Millman was honest he would not do what he had offered to do; and being, therefore, dishonest, his apparent honesty had been only a mask, and the mask had been only for his, Dave Henderson's, benefit, and that, logically, could evidence but one thing—that Millman had deliberately set himself to win the confidence that would win for Millman the stake of $100,000. There was no other conclusion, was there?

His head came up from his hands, and he stood rigid, tense. Wait! Wait a minute, until his brain cleared. There was another possibility. He had not thought of it before! It confused and staggered him now. Suppose that Millman stood in with the police! Suppose that the police had used Millman for just the purpose that Millman had accomplished! Or—why not?—suppose that Millman was even one of the police himself! It was not so tenable a theory as it was to assume that Millman had acted as a stool-pigeon; but it was, even at that, well within the realm of possibility. A man would not count two years ill spent on a case that involved the recovery of $100,000—nor hesitate to play a convict's part, either, if necessary.

Dave Henderson crushed his fists against his temples. What did it matter! In the long run, what did it matter! Crook, or informant, or an officer, Millman had wrecked him, and he would pay his debt to Millman! He laughed low again while his teeth gnawed at his lip. There was Barjan and Bookie Skarvan—and now Millman! And Baldy Vickers and the underworld!

THERE wasn't much chance, was there? Not much to expect now in return for the eternities in which he had worn these prison stripes, not much out of the ruin of his life, not much for the all and everything he had staked and risked! No much—only to make one last fight, to make as many of these men pay as dearly as he could. Fight! Yes, he would fight. He had never hedged. He would never hedge. They had him with his back to the wall. He knew that. There wasn't much chance now; there wasn't any, if he looked the situation squarely in the face. He stood alone, absolutely alone; there was nowhere to turn, no single soul to turn to. His hand was against every other man's. But he was not beaten. They would never beat him.

And Millman! Up above his head his hands twisted and knotted together again, and the great muscular shoulders looked back, and the clean, straight limbs grew taut. And he laughed. And the laugh was very low and sinister. A beast cornered was an ugly thing. And the dominant instinct in a beast was self-preservation—and a leap at its enemy's throat. A beast asked no quarter—and gave none. He was a beast. They had made him a beast in here, an animal, a numbered thing, not a man; they had not even left him with a name—just one of a herd of beasts and animals. But they had not tamed him. He was alone, facing them all now, and there wasn't much chance because the odds were overwhelming; but if he was alone, he would not go down alone, and——

He turned his head suddenly, and his hands dropped to his sides. There had come a cry from somewhere. It was not very loud, but it rang in a startling way through the night silence of the prison. It was a cry as of sudden fear and weakness.

It came again; and in a bound Dave Henderson reached the bars of his door, and beat upon them furiously with his fists. He would get into trouble for it undoubtedly, but he had placed that cry now. Old Tony wasn't whispering tonight. There was something wrong with the old bomb-thrower. Yes, he remembered—old Tony's strange appearance that afternoon. He rattled again and again on the bars. Old Tony was moaning now.

Footsteps on the run sounded along the iron gallery. A guard passed by; another paused at the door. "Get back out of there!" growled the guard. "Beat it! Get back to your cot!"

Dave Henderson retreated to the center of the cell. He heard old Tony's door opened. Then muffled voices. And then a voice that was quite audible—one of the guard's:

"I guess he's snuffed out. Get the doc—and, yes, tell the warden, if he hasn't gone to bed yet."

Snuffed out! There was a queer, choking sensation in Dave Henderson's throat.

Snuffed out! The thought that old Tony was dead affected him in a numbed, groping sort of way! He had not grasped it yet.

FOOTSTEPS, several of them, came again along the iron gallery, racketing through the night, but they did not pass his cell this time; they came from the other direction, and went into Lomazzi's cell. It was strange that this should have happened tonight! There would be no more shoulder-touch in the lock-step for the few days that were left; no smile of eyes and lips across the carpenter shop; no surreptitious, intimate little gestures of open-hearted companionship! It seemed to crown in an appalling way, to bring home to him now with a new and appalling force what, five minutes ago, he had thought he had already appreciated to its fullest and bitterest depth—loneliness. He was alone—alone—alone.

The murmur of voices came from the other cell. Time passed. He clung there to the bars. Alone—without help! The presence of death seemed to have infused itself into and to have become synonymous with that thought. It seemed insidiously to eat into his soul and being, to make his mind sick and weary, whispering to him to capitulate because he was alone, ringed about with forces that would inevitably overwhelm his puny single-handed defiance—because he was alone—and it would be hopeless to go further alone—without help.

He drew back suddenly from the door, conscious for the first time that he must have been clutching and straining at the bars with all his strength. His fingers, relaxed now, were stiff, and the circulation seemed to have left them. A guard was opening the door. Behind the guard, that white-haired man was the warden. He had always liked the warden. The man was stern, but he was always just. He did not understand why the warden had come to his cell.

It was the warden who spoke:

"Lomazzi is dying. He has begged to be allowed to say good-by to you. I can see no objection. You may come."

Dave Henderson stepped out on the iron gallery, and paused an instant before the door of the adjoining cell. A form lay on the cot, a form with a pasty-colored face, a form whose eyes were closed. The prison doctor, a hypodermic syringe still in his hand, stood a little to one side. Dave Henderson swept his hand across his eyes—there was a sudden mist there that blurred the scene—and, moving forward, dropped down on his knees beside the cot.

A hand reached out and grasped his feebly; the dark eyes opened and fixed on him with a flicker of the old fire in their depths; and the lips quivered in a smile.

Old Tony was whispering—old Tony always talked and whispered to himself here in his cell every night—but old Tony never disturbed anybody—it was hard to hear old Tony even when one listened attentively. Dave Henderson brushed his hand across his eyes again, and bent his head to the other's lips to catch the words.

"You make-a da fool play when you come in here, Dave—for me. But I never forget. Old Tony he forget. You no make-a da fool play when you go out. Old Tony knows. You need-da help. Listen—Nicolo Capriano—Frisco. You understand? Tony Lomazzi send-a you. Tony Lomazzi take-a da life prison for Nicolo. Nicolo will pay back to Tony's friend. You did not think that"—the voice was growing feebler, harder to understand, and it was fluttering now—"that, because old Tony call-a you da fool, he did—did not—remember—and—and——"

Some one disengaged Dave Henderson's hand from the hand that was clasped around it, and that had suddenly twitched and, with a spasmodic clutch, had seemed as though striving to maintain its hold.

The prison doctor's voice sounded muffled in the cell:

"He is dead."

Dave Henderson looked up at the touch of a guard's hand on his shoulder. The guard jerked his head with curt significance in the direction of the door.

Eighth Inning Rally Gives Spudders Fourth Victory In Beaumont

BEAUMONT, Aug. 26.—The Spudders delayed bringing their hefty poles into action longer than usual today and as a result it was not until the eighth inning that they went out and took the fourth game of the Exporters series by the count of 7 to 1. Up to this round they were held in complete subjection by Lou Kraft and had collected only four widely scattered blows. Meanwhile the Exporters, thanks to a healthy swat by Cedric Durst, were showing the way with one run. Cedric had poled the sphere over the center field barrier in the opening canto and his run stuck out like a sore thumb.

But the home defense wabbled in the eighth and gave the Spudders an opening which they did not fail to pass up. Two errors, combined with singles by McElwee, Tanner, McDonald and Gross, a two-ply wallop by Frank Kitchens, a fielder's choice on Clark and a sacrifice fly by Works gave the Salmites seven counters and enabled them to get back the half a game lead they had lost Thursday to the Panthers.

Until the visitors uncorked this drive, the game was as pretty a hurling duel between Kraft and "Daddy" Darrough (yes, Rabbit's a daddy now) as one would care to witness. With the exception of Durst's circuit smash, the Exporters never even as much as threatened. The diminutive Spudder hurler was never in better form and he had the home club eating out of his hand at all times.

The Spudder infield continued to play its whirlwind ball and kept up its record of not having booted one since last Sunday. The only error charge was a wild throw by Darrough on an infield hit. The detailed score:

First Inning

WICHITA FALLS—McElwee popped to Stansbury. Tanner was thrown out by Smith. McDonald skied to Ripperton. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning

WICHITA FALLS — Clark grounded out to Brennan, unassisted. Gross beat out a bunt down the third base line. Griggs popped to Alexander. Gross was thrown out attempting to steal. No runs, one hit, no errors.

BEAUMONT—Smith went out, Tanner to Works. Alexander singled to left. Brennan popped to McDonald. Alexander was thrown out stealing, Kitchens to Tanner. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Eighth Inning

WICHITA FALLS—Works was safe at first on Doyle's fumble. Kitchens doubled over the right field fence, sending Works to third. Brennan dropped Smith's throw on Darrough's bounder, filling the bases. McElwee singled to right scoring Works with the tying run. Tanner singled to center scoring Kitchens. With the bases still jammed, McDonald slapped a safety to center that scored Darrough and McElwee and put Tanner on third. Clark was safe at first and Tanner scored when a vain attempt was made to get McDonald at second on Clark's grounder to Doyle. Gross was thrown out by Kraft, McDonald going to third and Clark to second. Griggs singled to right scoring McDonald and Clark took third. Clark scored on Work's sacrifice fly to Durst. Kitchens fanned. Seven runs, five hits, two errors.

BEAUMONT—Ripperton was thrown out by Darrough. Doyle doubled over the right field fence. Kraft walked. Demaggio was thrown out at first by McElwee, both runners advancing. Stansbury was thrown out by Clark. No runs, one hit, no errors.

"RABBIT" CELEBRATES BIRTH OF A NEW SON

"RABBIT" DARROUGH.

Word has been received here that Clarence "Rabbit" Darrough is now the proud and happy father of a bouncing baby boy, who will undoubtedly develop into a winning hurler in the distant future. The party arrived a week ago and both Rabbit Jr. and Mrs. Darrough, who are in Fort Worth, are doing well.

Just by way of celebration, Clarence went out and hurled one of the best games of his career in Beaumont yesterday, limiting his opponents to six scattered hits and one lonely tally. He's setting a fine example to the youngster.

BOSTON, Aug. 26.—Boston lost its fourth straight game to St. Louis Friday, 6 to 3. McQuillan was hit hard and was taken out in three innings. Pertica did well up to the seventh when the locals threatened and North relieved him.

Giants 2, Pirates 1.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. — McGraw looked around and about him in the Giants' club house at the Polo Grounds Friday and saw "Shufflin' Phil" Douglas.

"Douglas," he said, "you work."

"But, Mac," he drawled, "I worked the day before yesterday. Are you sure I can go in there and lick 'em again?"

"You work," said McGraw, "and you'll lick 'em."

So Phil worked, and with only one day of rest between games Douglas beat the Pirates for the second time during the series, while the Giants scored their fourth consecutive victory over the league leaders by a score of 2 to 1.

It did seem that Douglas had the Indian sign on the Pirates, for frequently they had men on bases, and often it seemed they would tie the score and win out. But always he smiled and went about his work and always he extricated himself from the threatening difficulties. The Giants cut down the lead of seven and a half games with which the league leaders came here and reduced it to three and a half games. Saturday afternoon the teams meet for the last time this season at the Polo Grounds, and the Giants, pennant mad and their backs crowded to the wall, will reach out for their fifth straight victory—something which was regarded as almost impossible when the Pirates came here on Wednesday.

GOING TO NEW YORK TO DO DEMONSTRATION WORK

VERNON, TEXAS, Aug. 27.—Miss Edith Lacy, for two years connected with the Wilbarger county home demonstration department, and present agent, will go to Mineola, N. Y., September 15, to take up her duties as assistant home demonstration agent of Nassau county in that state. Miss Lacy, who has been demonstration agent for one year, has received the commendation repeatedly of state officers, and club work, especially, has received an appreciable stimulus under Miss Lacy's direction.

Organization of county women into clubs has also been materially aided through Miss Lacy's efforts, and the first regularly organized girls' camp was conducted this summer under the agent and her assistant, Miss Eula Goodfellow. The honors won by Wilbarger county girls at the contest conducted at College Station this summer are the highest won under any home demonstration agent the county has ever possessed.

Miss Lacy will follow the same line of work in New York as in this county. No arrangements have been made as yet for the appointment of an agent here to replace Miss Lacy.

MEUSEL'S RETURN TO FORM PLEASES HUGHIE JENNINGS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The return to hitting form of Emil "Irish" Meusel, whose heavy hitting slumped to a .250 clip following his transfer from the Phillies to the Giants, has given Hughie Jennings something to chuckle about.

When Meusel found himself at the beginning of the present series with Pittsburgh, McGraw's right hand man, as he calls Jennings, offered an explanation.

"They didn't know what was the matter with him when he stopped hitting, but I did. I told 'em to wait and see. That slump was just natural. You'll always find that when a player comes from a tail-end team where he has had the run of his own sweet will, he finds himself out of sorts taking orders from the management of a club up in the race.

"Meusel had to get acclimated. Look at that hit going to the fence. I guess he'll go along alright now."

Indians 6, Senators 3.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26.—Washington trotted out a pair of wild men Friday and the Indians held first place with a 6 to 3 victory. Between them Erickson and Courtney walked six batsmen and hit another one in the third and fifth innings in which the Indians scored five of their six runs. Two doubles by Trjs Speaker were inserted in those rounds to help runs across. Mails was somewhat wild himself, issuing eight passes and finally being relieved by Bagby with one down, two on and two called balls pitched to Donie Bush in the ninth. The Indians now lead New York by two points.

Washington .....000 012 000—3 6 1
Cleveland .....002 030 010—6 8 1

Batteries: Erickson, Courtney, Schacht, Acosta and Gharrity, Mails, Bagby and O'Neill.

Yankees 10, Tigers 2.

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—After batting safely in each of 26 consecutive games, Babe Ruth was stopped this afternoon by Howard Ehmke, the right handed star of the Tigers. Ruth was the only player in the Yankee batting order who didn't make at least one hit off Ehmke, however, and the Huppert-Huston forces flattened the Jungaleers under a score of 10 to 2. Fifteen hits for a total of twenty bases rattled off the Yankee bats and after the second inning, in which the invaders scored two runs and assumed the lead the result was never in doubt. Carl Mays pitched the entire game for the Yankees and let the Tigers down with seven hits, one of them a homer by Cobb.

Red Sox 5, White Sox 4.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—The Chicago White Sox hit a snag Friday when they met the Boston Red Sox, losing to the visitors, 5 to 4. Hodge hurled for Chicago. Jones and Bush did the twirling for the Red Sox.

MERCURY TAKES TUMBLE FRIDAY AFTERNOON WHEN SOUTH WIND SHOWS UP

A 14-degree drop in temperature was recorded here Friday afternoon when a stiff south wind sprang up, bringing with it a very few drops of rain, and a promise, at least, of continued relief from the extremely hot weather of the past few weeks.

Rain was reported Friday at a number of north and central Texas points, and there were fervent hopes locally that some of the precipitation would reach here. The skies Saturday morning, however, gave little indication that such a hope would be realized.

VERNON SHRINE PREPARE FOR CONCLAVE SEPTEMBER 5

VERNON, TEXAS, Aug. 27.—Vernon Shriners are overlooking no details in their preparation for the large conclave here September 5. L. G. Hawkins, president of the local club, has called upon all nobles and members of Hillcrest Country club to extend themselves upon that occasion. Posters reading "Hello, Noble; Use This Car," will be furnished to local citizens, and will be pasted upon the windshields of cars. Country club grounds are being overhauled, tennis courts put into shape, and all gotten into readiness for the big event.

SPORT SHOTS by Paul W. Barkin

The boys don't know when they are licked.

They should have little difficulty in maintaining their three-game lead in Galveston while the Cats are struggling with the Bears.

The Bears and Crabs are battling for the cellar position. Johnny Nee's crew is just a half a game away from seventh place and it is our earnest hope that he gets out of the cellar in the next four days. There's only one way it can be done—by trouncing the Panthers while the Spudders are helping them out by knocking the Crabs under.

The real fun will start after the present series. The Salmites will then be entertained by the Atzmen. Should the Spudders hold their present lead until they reach the Panther city, the home club will have to sweep the series to take the lead. Possible, but highly improbable.

Congratulations, "Rabbit."

See where the Giants have purchased Joe Connolly and Mutt Williams from the Bears. They couldn't have made a better selection from the Texas league. It may be a cover-up deal, but we doubt it. Both are topnotchers at their trade.

As ball players, the Panthers are wonderful domino players. Pop Boone, writing in the Fort Worth Record, devotes many inches of perfectly good white paper to the domino activities of the Cats. We don't blame him a particle. There's not much to be said about their activities on the diamond. Their work in this respect is only ordinary now.

More hopes dashed—Bob Bescher is not going to Galveston. We had a short talk with Bob this morning and for the first time since we met him, his inherent good nature appeared to be lacking. Bob says he doubts very much whether he will be able to get into the Panther series. His leg did not respond to treatment as readily as was thought at first and he finds it practically impossible to run. However, he says if there is any possible chance he's going to break in there some way.

It is no wonder that Bob is sick at heart. As we have said before, he is one of the few players in the game who plays for the love of the game. Of course he welcomes the first and the fifteenth, but these dates are not uppermost in Bob's mind. His heart and soul are wrapped up in the game and he'd rather be on the field winning a ball game than eating. The club misses him, though it is winning without him—but it does not miss him one bit more than he misses the club. The fans can rest assured that as soon as the doctor says the word, Bob will be in there. In fact, it's taking a whole lot of pressure to keep him out of there as it is. But, whether or not he does get in, local fans will never forget what his coming meant to the Spudders.

Shufflin' Phil Douglas is one of the wildest men in baseball and is generally regarded as one of the hardest to handle. McGraw has been panned on numerous occasions for putting up with the wandering nomad, but the Giant leader can now afford to give his critics the merry "ha-ha." Phil managed to stick around the polo grounds long enough this week to beat the Pirates twice in three days. You can look for him to kick over the traces again any time now and hide away for a few days. That's Phil all over.

JUBILEE'S PARDNER

by Judd Mortimer Lewis

Illustrations by Edwins

Tomorrow is the day I get my heathen nickel from the Lost Bag of Tripe for showing him my patent blow. I showed it to him all right, but I do not think he can use it. It will be wicked for him to give me his heathen nickel because his father is going to give it to him to put in the plate for the heathen at our church. There is a lot of them I guess. People have been giving them nickels and pennies for years and years.

I do not think it will be wrong for me to take the heathen nickel because heathens have not got any pockets to put nickels in and there are not any candy stores to spend a nickel where the heathens live. All they have to do for a living is to go out and throw a rock at a monkey and the monkey throws a lot of cocoanuts back at them, and they crack the cocoanuts and eat them. They do not have meat for dinner excepting when a missionary comes to bring them a lot of nickels. And they do not have it then if he is very skinny, because they have to put him in a pen and fatten him up, with a couple of girls to fan him, and a couple more to feed him and a couple more to keep the flies off of him.

I stood on one foot and hollered "My nose! My nose! My nose! Ant Nancy pushed me in the ice box."

It does not look right for the churches to send missionaries to the cannibal heathens, but I guess something has to be done with them or we would get too many of them, and they cannot be drownded like a fella's mother makes him drownd cats.

We et some calbage we got out of a field and some apples and some grapes, but Jubilee did not like things like that so we went home and I crawled in the window and was bending over looking in the refrigerator when I got a slap that made me stick my head in it, and there was my ant, who had heard noises and come sneaking in her slippers and had slummed me one.

She did not hurt me any but I had a good idee, and I grabbed my nose and began to holler so loud that my ant turned pale and my mother come running in and Annabel Lee began to cry and Jubilee began to bark outside and tried to jump in the window, and my mother hollered, "Whatsthematter—whatsthematter—whatsthematter?" "My nose! My nose! My nose! Ant Nancy pushed me in the ice box." And then my mother put her arms around me and looked at Ant Nancy, and said, "This had not better ever happen again!" And I thought my ant would swink up and disappear. She went to her bedroom and did not say anything, and I grun and winked at Annabel Lee, and when my mother went out of the kitchen I flung Jubilee some cold beefsteak and cheese.

My mother waited for my father to ast her what was the matter before she told him, and he had sense enough to know there was something the matter, and he kept his face shut when he got home. But he made me go to bed right after supper. He blames me for everything. I pulled Jubilee up, and I whispered in his ear how I had put it over my ant. No ant had better munky with me.

ANOTHER HOPEFUL BUSINESS SIGN.

The lumber market furnishes one of the hopeful signs of business improvement. There is considerably buying by industrial concerns and buyers are asking for quick shipment. The American Lumberman interprets these facts as follows:

"While demand from the small retail lumber dealer continues to be the backbone of the market, nevertheless it is plainly evident to close observers that the proportion of the sales now going to industrial concerns is larger than at any other time this year. Railroad orders, although not of exceptional size, are very encouraging to lumber manufacturers. As most of them are for special cutting, the demand has been sufficient considerably to stimulate prices, in the south and to some extent on the Pacific coast. Buying at the coast has been quieter than buying in southern pine territory, so coast prices have not been affected so much by the betterment in demand. As purchasers continue to ask for quick shipment, it is evident that the bulk of the orders now being placed are not for speculative purposes but are to fill immediate requirements. It is generally conceded that the prices of common grades of lumber are very low—so low in fact that a good demand would make an advance certain. For upper grades the demand has been good all year, consequently supplies of them are short and their prices are firmer. Orders booked so far this year call for a slightly greater amount of lumber than has been produced."

FIXED LEVIES FOR OUR STATE SCHOOLS.

Our state school system is getting into politics more and more every year. The reader has but to look back over recent sessions of the legislature to see this. And the more our educational system gets into politics, the less useful it is likely to be.

Not only do the appropriations for our schools occupy the time and efforts of our legislators and create divisions and factions among them which interfere with other legislation, but the heads of the department of public education and of all state schools and friends of these schools find it necessary to lobby in behalf of their institutions in order that they may obtain necessary appropriations.

All this ought to be made unnecessary, and it can be by a constitutional provision for a fixed tax levies for the public schools of the state and for each of the state institutions of higher education. This would not only make certain adequate revenues for these schools but would relieve the legislature of a burdensome duty and would relieve the heads of our state schools of the necessity of going to Austin to lobby.

THE HISTORY OF YOUR NAME

By PHILIP FRANCIS NOWLAN

FISK.

Variations—Fiske, Fish, Fisher, Fiskerman, Fishman, Fisker, Pessoner.

Racial Origin—Anglo-Saxon.

Source—An occupation.

The family name of Fisk, or Fiske, is another one of those surnames which illustrate vividly the changes which take place in a language in the matter of 20 or 25 generations, for it has been no longer than since our modern word "fish" was so pronounced. Virtually all of these "fish" names have arisen from the occupations of those to whom they were first applied. It is possible, of course, but hardly likely, that there were a few rare instances in which the first use was as a nickname, denoting a fancied likeness to a fish.

All variations, however, may be taken for granted as having been derived from either of two occupations, the selling of fish or the catching of them. These occupations were tremendously important in the middle ages, for the English nation subsisted largely on fish both as an economic and religious necessity. Medieval England was Catholic, and in the middle ages the fasts of the church were far more rigorous and numerous than today. Indeed, the Fishmongers' guild of old London was the most powerful of the merchants' associations for many generations.

The Anglo-Saxon name appears on the old records variously as "le Fysche," "le Fischere," "le Fyske," "le Fyscer," and sometimes softened into "le Fisere" (the Anglo-Saxon "ch" had the "k" sound). The Norman forms, "Pescher" and "Pescheur," and "Pessoner" have only a few survivals in the last mentioned surname, though originally the Anglo-Saxon and Norman forms were often used interchangeably by the same family, as in the case of "Egeas Fisher, or Pessoner," who was mayor of Gloucester in 1241.

Tomorrow—Lutz.

MARKETS

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The cotton market showed more or less nervousness and irregularity during today's early trading. There was continued realizing and probably some selling in expectation of reactions after the advances of the past few days. Traders found little change in the general character of crop and trade news, however, and there was good buying on the dips, which gave the early market a steady undertone. First prices were 11 to 15 points lower, with December selling at 15.40c, or 45 points below yesterday's high record, after which the price rallied to 15.56c on the bullish week-end reviews of the goods trade and reiterated predictions of very low crop figures from the government next week. Sales of print cloths in the Fall River market were estimated at 200,000 pieces for the week, or the heaviest wek's business since last March. Showers and lower temperatures were reported in the southwest.

Offerings were readily absorbed on the early reaction and the market showed renewed strength later with all months making new high records for the movement on covering by early selling and further broadening of trade and commission house demand. December sold at 16.00 and closed at 15.98 with the general market closing strong with a net advance of 27 to 32 points. The southwest was an active buyer in late tradings.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27.—Rains in Texas overnight caused selling on the opening of the cotton market today, but after declines of 13 to 18 points under yesterday's close new speculation took the market away from the sellers and put prices up for strong advances. At the end of the first hour of trading the active months were 25 to 35 points over the final prices of yesterday. October first fell to 14.75c and then reacted to 15.25c. As the buying movement got under way good support came from Texas interests who contended that the rains would do great injury because of the vase quantity of cotton open in the state.

During the remainder of the session the tone was very firm and highest prices came in the last few minutes of trading, following rumors that a large brokerage firm was coming out with a sensationally low report on the condition of the crop. The trading months were sent 42 to 50 points higher than the last prices of yesterday to new high levels for the season throughout the list. October touched 15.40 and March went to 15.75.

Cotton closed steady.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—There was a light but fairly lively market at the opening of the board of trade today. Wheat started 1c to 1c lower, with September $1.19½ to $1.19¾, December $1.20¾ to $1.21 and May $1.24. The early buying was in evidence, but was overcome by selling by cash houses. One of the latter sold freely, until wheat reached a point 1c off, then turned to the buying side. The loss was recovered later.

Continued export sales and an expert's estimate that 60 per cent of winter wheat had left the farms caused a definite upturn in the final hour and the close was close to the top with September $1.21 to $1.21¼, December $1.22¾ to $1.23 and May $1.25¾ to $1.26.

Corn, opening unchanged to 1c higher attracted little trade at the start and generally moved in a narrow zone under the influence of fluctuations in wheat. Initial prices were 54¼c to 54½c for September, 54½c to 54¾c for December, 54¾c to 54½c for May.

Trade continued stagnant by a slight upturn at the end brought the close to about yesterday's finish. September closed at 54¾c bid; December at 54¾ to 54¼c and May 58½c.

Oats showed some independent firmness, but generally followed corn. At the start, which was 1c lower to 1¼c higher, but generally unchanged. September oats were 34½c to 34¾c, December 37½c to 38c.

Provisions opened moderately higher and moved upward on a firmer market with lard in the van.

Grain and Produce.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Grain and provisions futures were on the upgrade this week. Compared with a week ago, net gains were registered of 5½c to 6c for wheat, 2c to 2½c for corn and 1½c to 1¾c for oats. In provisions, pork and ribs gained 20 to 22½ points, respectively, and lard registered a net advance of 30c to 40c.

There were two main factors in the wheat advance, the first coming with an unexpected shrinkage in the visible supply figures early in the week. Passage of the bill allowing the War Finance corporation to arrange loans totalling up to a billion dollars as aids to agricultural exports was the second—and its effect had not all worn out when trading was resumed today.

Local sentiment, which turned to selling last week when a big liquidation movement forced prices downswitched definitely to the buying side in mid-week and the advance in prices became steady. There was much disappointment, however, over the failure of the bulge to attract outside buyers. On the whole the market remained an affair between traders. This situation caused a slump late yesterday after December had touched $1.22½, which was 8½c higher than Monday's low point.

Corn was strong on steady export sales, big clearances and a healthy industrial demand which helped keep prices up in the face of enormous receipts.

Oats were generally firm, but firm in sympathy with other grains.

Provisions showed a tendency to pick up after a slow start early in the week. Improvement in the live hog market was the main influence, but extensive export sales formed a contributing factor.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Today's brief session of the stock market began with a continuance of yesterday's rebound on short covering. Leaders extended their recoveries by 1 or 2 points. Dealings were largely professional, however, and the absence of public support occasioned fresh selling in which many gains were cancelled. United States Rubber, common and preferred, led the reaction at a new low record.

Mexican Petroleum and General Asphalt became heavy and sugar and tobacco issues yielded. New Haven lost almost two points and the list developed further backward tendencies in the final dealings. The closing was heavy. Sales approximated 250,000 shares.

TEN MILLION MORE ADDED TO THE TOTAL IN SWINDLING CASE

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Another ten million dollars was added today to the total of notes seized by federal agents investigating the alleged swindle ring headed by Charles W. French.

John W. Sawken who Wednesday found $9,550,000 in notes in a Cleveland safety deposit vault, brought the $10,000,000 additional to Chicago.

The notes are on the Ideal Tire and Rubber company of Cleveland, which is now in the hands of a receiver.

French, Charles W. Hawkins, Elmer M. Gerber, Charles K. Stroebel, and the other defendants who have been brought here, were arraigned before United States Commissioner Glass today.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Charles W. French and his alleged associates, charged with a $50,000,000 swindling conspiracy, are to be arraigned here today before a United States commissioner, it was expected. The alleged members of the so-called "swindling trust" are expected to face technical charges of using the United States mails to defraud and with conspiracy to use the mails to defraud.

John W. Worthington, under indictment in connection with the handling of stolen securities, will probably be arraigned later in the French case, it was thought early today.

Other alleged associates of French include Rudolph E. Kohn, vice-president of the American Rubber company; Charles W. Hawkins, Cleveland broker; A. L. Strelzin of Milwaukee; Alva W. Harshman, former secretary of French; Elmer L. Gerber, Cleveland structural engineer; Charles H. Denlecke, James Howard Leets and Charles H. Strobel.

It was expected that John Y. Chinin, assistant United States district attorney, would take up most of today going over papers and correspondence with Harshman, who has turned government witness and is engaged in explaining to the authorities the intricacies of the various deals in which the group is alleged to have been implicated.

IRRIGATION PROJECT PLANS APPROVED AT MEETING SATURDAY

Plans and specifications for the irrigation project were given final approval at a meeting Saturday morning of the board of directors of the irrigation district. The plans were gone over in detail by Vernon L. Sullivan, chief engineer for the project, and were considered by the directors as being complete in every detail.

Although no date was fixed for receiving bids on the project, Mr. Sullivan will continue in touch with possible contractors, some of whom, it is expected, will want to figure on the contract in advance of the formal awarding of the contract.

The directors discussed the matter of providing electric service in the district and at the dam site, but postponed any action on this phase of the project.

All departments of the church have planned good programs for next Sunday. The Sunday school, under the direction of Brother Huckabee, has been holding up splendidly during the summer months. He has great plans for the fall program. The leagues are all live organizations. The Juniors are going to give an entertainment in the church Tuesday night, August 30. J. W. ## LIBERTY

By RICHARD LLOYD JONES

Man prizes nothing so much as his freedom. Deprive him of it and he will give his last dollar to get it back.

The cry of every soul from its first conscious moment is for liberty.

The captured animal paces before the bars of his cage in search of liberty. Freedom is dependent upon knowledge. The lion loses his liberty because he lacked the wit to trap the man.

Ignorant men, like fierce lions, are apt to look upon liberty as license. But he only is free who is protected from injury.

Liberty never defies law; it establishes and respects law. The fellow who loses his liberty quickest is he who attempts to take more than he is entitled to. The highest liberty is in harmony with the highest law.

Real liberty is not reached suddenly; it unfolds slowly. It is never won cheaply; it is difficult to attain.

The best liberty we know is worth only what the best civilization is worth.

Liberty is not idleness; it is merely the free use of time. It is the opportunity to choose our labor and to use without restraint our minds.

Through the just acquisition of money and property, we may buy a physical liberty; we may be free to go where and how we please but we may still be slaves to prejudice, superstition, false idols and false ideals.

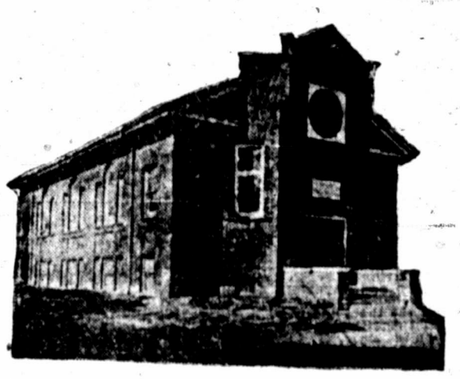

The ripest liberty comes only through the cultivation and emancipation of the mind. The schoolhouse and the college are the pathfinders of freedom.

In his "Reflections on the French Revolution," Burke declares that liberty without wisdom is the greatest of all possible evils for it is folly, vice, and madness without tuition or restraint.

He who plans to leave wealth to his children does less well by them than he who bequeaths them liberty. And liberty can be insured only through the mind that is made strong enough to be independent of others.

Liberty is a positive force; it is the moral power of self-government.

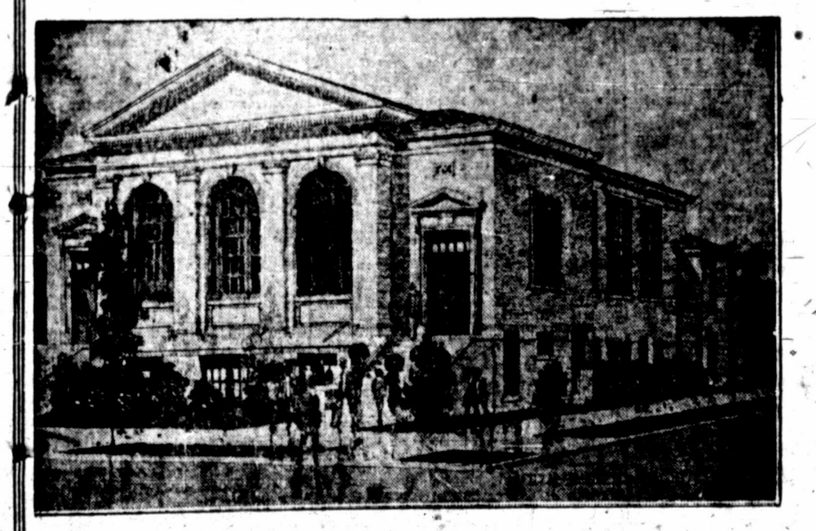

No man can himself be free who does not wish that all men be free and who is not willing to fight for the freedom of all. Liberty respects and safeguards the rights of all. Liberty is love. It is the watchword of all commonwealths; it is the battle cry of brotherhood. It is the one-word creed of Christianity. It is the foundation on which America rests—the assurance of her greatness and her glory.

The State of Texas to the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita county, Greeting. You are hereby commanded to summon G. W. Wentz, Fort Stuben Oil Company, George H. Weber, Jess S. Evans, Robert C. Evans, A. E. Davidson and J. W. Rowley by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 89th District court of Wichita county, to be holden at the courthouse thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in October, A. D., 1921, the same being the third day of October, A. D., 1921, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the sixteenth day of December, A. D. 1920, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 9805-C, wherein W. H. Gibbs and W. F. Woodrum are plaintiffs and G. W. Wentz, Fort Stuben Oil Company, George H. Weber, Jess S. Evans, Robert C. Evans, A. E. Davidson and J. W. Rowley are defendants and said petition alleging that on or about the first day of June, 1920, they were lawfully seized and possessed of the following described land and premises in Wichita and Archer counties, Texas, holding the same in fee simple, to-wit: First Tract: 40 acres of land, same being the southwest 40 acres of Block 25, Kemp & Kell subdivision of League No. 4, Denton County School land in Archer county, Texas, said 40 acres being in the form of a square. Second Tract: 40 acres of land, same being the northeast 40 acres of Block No. 25, Kemp & Kell subdivision of League No. 4, Denton County School land, in Wichita and Archer counties, Texas, said 40 acres being in the form of a square. That on the day and year aforesaid defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected the plaintiffs therefrom and unlawfully withhold from them the possession thereof, to their damage in the sum of $5,000. That the reasonable rental value of said land and premises is $5,000. Plaintiff allege that on the 15th of April, 1920, they entered into a contract with G. W. Wentz, a copy of which, attached to the original petition is in this office, marked "Exhibit A." That said contract as hereto attached is in substance what is generally termed a Producers Form 88, lease on the two 20-acre tracts described as being in Block 25, Kemp & Kell subdivision of League 4, Denton County School lands. In said contract it is provided that the lessee agrees and binds himself within 30 days from the date of the contract to commence operations for the drilling of a well for oil or gas upon the above described premises and to prosecute the same with due diligence until completion to the depth of 2,000 feet, with further provision with reference thereto. Plaintiffs allege that it is their information that an assignment of part of this lease has been made to the Fort Stuben Oil company, and plaintiffs have failed to find same of record, but they do find of record that the Fort Stuben Oil company, made a deed of trust to the other parties named above as defendants, securing them in the payment of certain notes named in that deed of trust, and that it is the information both from the records and otherwise that said parties are claiming an interest in said lease. Plaintiffs here allege that the defendant, Wentz, nor the Fort Studen Oil company, nor any of the defendants nor any one holding under them, so far as the records disclose, have in any way complied with the terms and provisions of said contract with reference to the drilling of said well to the depth of 2,000 feet, and have wholly failed and refused to carry out and comply with the terms of said lease contract, aforesaid. Plaintiffs allege that by reason of the acceptance of said lease in writing and agreeing to perform the things therein contained and by reason of defendants Wentz and the Fort Stuben Oil company having given deeds of trust which are recorded, and that since defendants have wholly failed and refused to carry out the terms of said contract, that such assignment and such deeds of trust are a cloud upon plaintiffs' title and should be removed. Wherefore, premises considered, plaintiffs pray the court that defendants be cited to appear and answer this petition; that palintiffs have judgment, first, for the title and possession of said above described land and premises; that writ of restitution issue, and that they have their judgment for their rents, damages and costs, and that plaintiffs also have judgment cancelling said lease and setting same aside and removing the cloud from title by reason thereof. Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same. Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the first day of August, A. D., 1921. A. F. Kerr, Clerk District Court, Wichita County, Texas. By Eunice Jackson, Deputy.

THE OUTTA-LUCK CLUB—A Sure Means of Identification

—By Dok Willard

POLICE TRYING TO IDENTIFY SUICIDE DISCOVERED FRIDAY

MAN FOUND IN LOCAL HOTEL, HAD APPAREENTLY TAKEN CARBOLIC ACID.

REGISTERED AS J. DOYLE, NAME THOUGHT FICTITIOUS

Body Not Discovered Until About 24 Hours After Death, According To Undertaker.

Search was started Saturday morning for friends or relatives of a man who was found dead in his room at the Grand hotel, 716½ Ohio avenue, shortly after 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. Deep burns about the mouth and throat and a perceptible odor of carbolic acid indicated that death had been caused by self administered poison, a verdict to this effect being returned by Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn after conducting an investigation of the case.

The man, who registered at the hotel under the name of J. Doyle of Dulfit, N. Y., had been dead nearly 24 hours when found, according to O. W. Hines, local undertaker, who was given charge of the body. The name Doyle is believed by police to be assumed.

Practically no identification marks were found on the body or in the clothing. Laundry marks which have been deciphered as McB. were on the collar and this, with a currency band stamped with the name J. Maker, Saratoga, N. Y., were the only clues to be found. A thorough search of the clothing revealed no letters, cards or papers which could give an inkling as to the identity.

In his statements to the police, C. K. Archen, proprietor of the Grand, stated that the man registered early Thursday night and retired at once to his room after leaving orders to be awakened early Friday morning. Two calls at the specified time failed to arouse him but nothing more was thought of the matter until 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, when Mr. Archen became alarmed at the continued absence of the guest. He entered a room adjoining that occupied by the visitor and on looking through a door saw him lying on the bed, apparently dead.

The police were notified and Sergeant S. W. Walker and Patrolman Brownlee Graham went to the scene where the body was discovered.

Eleven dollars in currency and some small change was found in the pockets of the clothing, and when stripped at the undertakers' $200 in four bills of $50 each were found wrapped around the right ankle.

The dead man was of striking appearance, standing over six feet in height and weighing well over 200 pounds, with well moulded features and a general look of prosperity. The hands were soft and had apparently not been used in hard labor for some time. The hair was iron grey and the brows heavy and bushy. He was about 50 years of age.

The body was clad in a business suit of excellent texture, while the rest of the clothing was of good quality. No traveling bag could be found and Mr. Archen declared that his guest carried none when he registered.

Until identification can be established the body is being held at the Hines undertaking parlors.

Itched and Burned Very Badly. Cuticura Healed.

"My face broke out in small, hard, pimples which festered and scaled over. They also broke out under my right arm and itched and burned very badly. Later the pimples grew larger and increased in number, and my face was badly disfigured.

"I tried different remedies without any relief. I saw Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised and sent for a free sample which helped me. I purchased more and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) John T. Dowell, R. F. D. 12, Box 6, Lebanon, Tenn.

JOHNSON RETURNS FROM LEGISLATURE, IS GLAD IT'S OVER

After about six weeks in Austin, attending two called sessions of the legislature, Representative B. Frank Johnson returned home late Friday, feeling, as he expressed it, like a schoolboy set free after being "kept in."

Mr. Johnson was able to secure enactment of legislation repealing the truck tax bill, a matter on which he had worked faithfully for some time.

The unpleasantness of staying at Austin during the hottest part of the summer, during an acrimonious session, was increased for Mr. Johnson by the serious illness of his infant son. The boy developed what was thought to be a form of sleeping sickness, and at one time it was considered very doubtful whether he would recover; however, specialists were called in and the young man is now doing nicely.

Mr. Johnson and family made the return trip from Austin by automobile.

WILBARGER COUNTY COTTON ALONG RIVER LOOKS GOOD

VERNON, TEXAS, Aug. 27.—Cotton in Wilbarger county is looking especially well in the district along the river, and communities where the crop looks particularly well are Rayland, Lockett and Kinchelce. Late cotton is appearing to the best advantage throughout the county.

Cotton is opening rapidly on tight land, and much is being picked. Hauling to town is already under way and gins throughout Wilbarger are being rapidly put into running order.

The trend of the local market, at least, has been upward during the last few days. Cotton Friday was bought by some buyers at 14 cents a pound, and the average hovered between 13 and 14 cents.

Fifty-three bales represented the work of the Peoples gin here at noon Friday. The quantity brought in is increasing each day. Two bales have been ginned by the Farmers gin, which commenced operations Thursday. It is believed that this year's crop in Wilbarger county is as good as the preceding one, but the decreased acreage will materially affect the supply.

The Vernon cotton warehouse has received a few bales for storage this week. According to the manager, the association is accepting cotton which will be handled by the farm bureau. Then, when that organization is ready to take over the warehouse, it will automatically assume charge of the cotton stored there as well.

DIVERSIFIED FARMING IS FEATURED IN DONLEY CO.

CLARENDON, TEXAS, Aug. 27.—Diversification in Donley county is becoming more evident all the time. The big sale of F. M. Clark's at Hedley, Texas, at the average price of $115 for nearly fifty head show Donley county can produce the best of hogs.

Along other lines is the wheat farm of Hermesmeyer Bros. near Jericho, in Donley county. The two brothers this year had 200 acres in wheat, 150 acres producing 3,295 bushels, or 22 bushels to the acre. The other 50 acres produced 1,555, or nearly 32 bushels to the acre. This is as fine wheat as produced in this county, averaging 59 pounds to the bushel. The last 50 acres was summer fallowed and goes to prove what Donley county can produce. They are now very busy getting the ground ready for the next crop working day and night shift.

SELLS HALF INTEREST IN FINE POLAND CHINA HOG

VERNON, TEXAS, Aug. 27.—A. M. Bourland of this county announced yesterday that he had sold a half interest in the head of his Poland China swine herd, Long Orange Jr., to S. E. Lewis of Childress. The name of the hog has been changed to Transmission. According to Mr. Lewis, Transmission is the only boar in Texas or the entire southwest that actually weighs more than half a ton.

Transmission was sired by Long Orange and his dam was Baroness Sue. He was owned by Lewis Brothers, who bought the hog from Iowa and sold him to Lon Alexander. News has just been received from Arlington, where Mr. Alexander's farm is located, that Long Orange died as a result of injuries to his foot a few weeks ago. According to Mr. Lewis, Transmission retains all the wonderful qualities of his sire, and is superior in many points. It is his opinion that Transmission has an excellent chance for the grand championship this fall. He is said to be one of the smoothest and best of animals.

MAY RESUME WORK ON HIGHWAY MONDAY, MORE STONE COMING

Potts and Prentice, contractors, will undoubtedly be supplied with a sufficient amount of stone Monday morning to start one of the two large concrete mixers, it was said Saturday. Nine cars of rock have arrived, but half of this amount is to be used in the construction of a culvert. Six more cars are in transit.

Due to the lack of stone only 700 feet of concrete was laid during the past week, bringing the total to 17,000 feet.

The McCullom Construction company has been able to operate the entire week and Saturday noon a total of 2,500 feet had been placed.

The Zimmerman Construction company at Iowa Park will begin work Monday morning, the erection of water tanks being completed Saturday. Material has been placed on the ground and all forms set.

It was stated Saturday by the county engineer that the county could get rock from Oklahoma but the freight rate was entirely too high. The rate from the Oklahoma quarry to this city would be $4.90 a ton while the cost of the rock itself is only $1.25 a ton. The freight rate from the quarry at Chico is $1.40.

ELECTRA SWIMMING POOL PROVES A POPULAR PLACE

ELECTRA, TEXAS, Aug. 27.—If the support that has been accorded the municipal swimming pool in this city which was opened last Saturday continues throughout the remainder of the season and next year, as it has the past week, the pool will pay itself out and contribute to the further beautification of the park. Over 800 people visited the swimming pool the first day, paying admissions. The support continued throughout the week.

The local chamber of commerce went on record as extending thanks to the committee of citizens composed of L. P. Douglass, Joe Brannen and B. M. Dickey for their work in behalf of the Electra citizens.

BELIEVE TWO ARE KILLED IN A TORPEDO EXPLOSION, SHAKES THE WHOLE CITY

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 27.—Two men are believed to have been killed and several injured when an explosion occurred early today in the plant of the Copper Tube Manufacturing company, East Providence. Railroad torpedoes are manufactured at this plant. The explosion shook the whole city of Providence and adjoining towns.

ELECTRA PROVIDES FOR FREE MAIL DELIVERY

ELECTRA, TEXAS, Aug. 27.—Two ordinances have been passed by the city commissioners to get conditions such that Electra will have free city mail delivery. One ordinance calls for the paving of certain sidewalks and the other provides for a system of numbering the houses. Both ordinances have been published and will become effective at once.

This city has long been entitled to free city mail delivery but to date has been unable to secure it on account of certain portions of the city being without sidewalks as required by the government and also because the houses were not uniformly numbered.

TIMES OFFICE NOW SWIRLING IN DRIVE FOR SUBSCRIPTIONS

If it keeps up like it has the past two days the Ranger bicycle will soon crowd the automobile off the streets of Wichita Falls. The Times has made it easy for boys and girls to secure a Ranger by putting in a few hours' work each day.

Every boy and girl can win one of these bicycles. All they have to do is to secure thirty-five new subscribers to The Times. You don't have to wait until November 1 to get your bicycle. It will be shipped direct to you when the proper number of subscriptions have been turned in and verified.

There is no red tape. The only condition is that the subscriptions must come from persons who are not now subscribers to The Times.

A bicycle has an unlimited cruising radius and it's great weather for cycling. Some of the boys are planning bicycle trips before school takes up.
