Bowie hopes to avoid water problems

By LEE ANDERSON
Regional Editor

BOWIE, Texas — Scores of North Texas communities have been hampered by inadequate water supplies for years. Many traditionally fall victim to short supply each summer, but Bowie city fathers don't plan on adding their town to the list of victims.

Bowie has long been aware that its municipal and industrial water supply has continually decreased since Lake Amon G. Carter was constructed in 1955, and city officials have been busy for several years exploring possible alternatives to combat a water shortage in future years.

After looking at several alternatives, the city council has decided to enlarge Lake Amon G. Carter (the town's only water supply) by increasing its storage and drainage area with construction of a new dam one mile downstream of the existing dam.

"Enlargement of Lake Carter will provide the city of Bowie with a long-term, dependable, good quality water supply," City Manager Kenneth Reneau explained.

The city manager said the $3 million-plus project calls for enlarging the 17,000 acre-feet lake by more than 13,000 acre feet.

"The new reservoir will have a conservation pool capacity of 13,105 acre-feet and will inundate 586 acres of land," Reneau said. "The reservoir pool formed by the new dam will be at the same elevation as the present 920-foot pool level."

The city manager, who noted that Lake Carter is on Big Sandy Creek six miles southwest of Bowie, said, "As the new reservoir will back up water to the downstream side of the existing dam on Kiel Creek, the present lake dam will be breached in order to utilize its existing emergency spillway. With a section of the existing dam removed, the two reservoirs will essentially operate as one and will allow recreational use of the entire reservoir."

City officials said since construction of Lake Carter, the city has experienced a steady increase in population and industry, and as a result, water demand has increased proportionately.

In 1956, the city used an average 370,000 gallons of water per day. In 1978, the average demand had increased to more than 888,000 gallons per day.

"As the city continues to grow," he said, "this demand is projected to increase to 1.54

Council takes no action on ward system request

Proponents of single-member voting districts in Wichita Falls lost a second battle before the city council Tuesday, but leaders said they don't intend to quit.

Angus Thompson, director of Community Action Corp., appeared before the council Tuesday representing the Citizens Committee for Fair Representation. Thompson said he was speaking as a private citizen, not as a representative of CAC.

He asked the council to direct the city staff to work with the committee to find the most immediate means to implement the ward system. Wichita Falls council members are currently elected on an at-large basis.

He also asked the council to vote at its next meeting to establish such a system. Thompson asked the council Tuesday to publicly endorse the single-member concept, but the council took no action.

"The lack of sensitivity to the severe problems of areas like the Eastside, the Northside, Sunnyside and the area out here at Armory Road is indicated by these areas' deterioratng streets, poor lighting, garbage collection, inadequate police protection, poor sewage and sanitation facilites and the declining property value brought on by unkept vacant lots and substandard and dilapidating housing," Thompson said.

Council member James Thomas took exception to Thompson's comments saying, "the words 'lack of sensitivity', now that's not true.

"We may not be able to do some things," Thomas said. "I may never be black, but it isn't lack of sensitivity.

"If I'm going to spend as much time as I do in church and

7 senators to filibuster against deceptive trade bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Seven senators vowed Tuesday to filibuster until Wednesday morning in hopes of forcing a compromise over a bill they claim would remove most state protections against business fraud.

"Anything can happen in a filibuster," said Sen. Ron Clower, D-Garland. "We might hold it up and that's worth something. Or maybe we can put some amendments on it."

Clower and others said the law needed changes but not drastic revision that would make it harder to win money damages from a deceitful business.

"Not only does this bill deal with deceptive practices, it is a deceptive practice," claimed Sen. Lloyd Doggett, filibuster leader.

"It gives the impression of providing penalties that are not there," Doggett, D-Austin, said of Sen. Bill Meier's proposal.

The bill would amend the 1973 Deceptive Trade Practices Act by:

— Removing provisions for triple damages, in most cases, against deceitful businessmen.

— Requiring consumers to prove they were misled knowingly and intentionally.

— Requiring suits to be filed within two years of an alleged deceptive act.

— Prohibiting class action suits under the act.

"This strikes a balance in what is an important place in Texas commerce," Meier said. "We need to be careful that we're not creating a situation that is retarding commerce."

Police seek husband in bodiless head case

BOWIE, Texas (Special) — Carl Truman Clark of Bellevue, Texas, is being sought by Montague County authorities as a suspect in the alleged murder of Lea Clark, his common law wife whose bodiless head was discovered Saturday.

An arrest warrant charging Clark wih murder has been issued by Justice of the Peace Robert Fenoglio.

A spokesman for the Montague County sheriff's office said Clark has not been seen for several days.

A human head found in a dumpground Saturday near Stoneburg has been positively identified as that of Lea Clark, 47, the common-law wife of Carl Truman Clark, about 46.

Clark reported his wife missing March 24, Conway said. The woman's mother and sister also contacted the sheriff's office about the missing woman.

Clark has not been seen by fellow workers since Thursday, a spokesman for the sheriff's office said. Clark worked on a county road maintenance crew for Montague County and his supervisor told sheriff's deputies Clark did come to work Friday.

Clark lived with his wife in Bellevue, Texas. Stoneburg is in Montague County between Ringgold and Bowie. The search for the torso of the body was discontinued Monday, but was resumed Tuesday, Conway said.

Oklahoma House OKs pay hikes

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The Oklahoma House Tuesday passed a $10 million state employee pay plan that would give workers raises of between $50 to $125 a month.

The bill, which returns to the Senate for consideration of House amendments, is expected to ultimately go to a joint conference committee for further work.

House members voted 92-3 in favor of the bill. The House originally supported a rival bill that followed the recommendations of Gov. George Nigh.

Three killed in truck crash

Two Iowa Park residents and their 4-year-old daughter were killed late Tuesday in a fiery three-truck accident about a mile southeast of Jolly, Texas, on U.S. 287, Department of Public Safety officials said.

DPS officers reported the accident occurred about 10 p.m. when the Iowa Park family's semi-tractor-trailer was in collision with another semi-tractor-trailer, causing the family's vehicle to roll into a ditch, DPS officials said.

As the family's truck lay on its side, a third semi-tractor-trailer slammed into the cab, causing it and the family's truck to burst into flames.

The three dead persons were trapped inside the cab.

DPS officers said the driver of the third vehicle was taken to Wichita General Hospital and was in undetermined condition early Wednesday.

Henrietta Volunteer Fire Department was called to fight the blaze.

Names of the dead were not available at press time.

Danger of explosion ends at nuclear plant

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Federal officials said Tuesday that a troublesome gas bubble no longer poses any significant danger of explosion at the Three Mile Island nuclear plant, advancing efforts to bring the disabled reactor to cold shutdown.

Declaring "the bubble has been eliminated for all practical purposes," Harold Denton of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission told reporters, "I think the danger point is considerably down from where it was a few days ago."

"I would say there is no more bubble at the top of the core....We no longer consider a hydrogen explosion a significant problem," he said. "The site remains stable ... the bubble poses no further significant safety problem."

Late Tuesday, Gov. Dick Thornburgh again extended his advisory that young children and pregnant women stay more than five miles away from the plant. "I will continue to take every precautionary measure that is at all warranted by the facts," he said. He did not elaborate or say how long his advisory would remain in effect.

Thornburgh also extended his order that all schools within the five-mile zone remain closed, and said he was keeping "precautionary shipments of medicine" on hand.

Meanwhile, speculation arose that the reactor might have to be junked, but one NRC official said he doubted that.

As Denton, President Carter's special representative, spoke at a briefing, tension was easing in the week-long crisis caused by the worst nuclear accident in U.S. history.

Civil defense officials said between 80,000 and 250,000 of the region's 950,000 people had temporarily pulled out, but thousands were returning Tuesday and some schools were reopened.

Asked when the emergency would end, Denton said, "I hope that from here on out we can move rapidly in that direction.

"We are right now developing and looking at plans of the most effective way to bring this reactor to cold shutdown." He declined to predict when that might be accomplished, but said, "Time is on our side."

Whatever success authorities have in achieving a cold shutdown of the crippled No. 2 nuclear reactor, Denton said the unit was not likely to be back in operation for "a considerable period of time."

Pakistani leader reportedly hanged

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — Former Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto was hanged before dawn Wednesday at Rawalpindi's central jail, newspapers in Rawalpindi and Karachi reported, but official confirmation of the report could not be obtained immediately.

Officials of Pakistan's military government said they hoped to clarify the situation soon. The government's Radio Pakistan made no mention of Bhutto on its main morning newscast.

The Urdu-language newspaper Jang put out special editions in Karachi and Rawalpindi to report that the 51-year-old politician who dominated Pakistan's political life from 1971 to mid-1977 died on the gallows for ordering a political foe assassinated in 1974.

Byrne elected Chicago mayor

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Democrat Jane Byrne captured the Chicago mayoralty Tuesday and captivated its citizenry in doing so — winning a record percentage of the vote in being elected the city's first woman mayor.

"It has been a great night for Chicago," she told more than 1,500 ecstatic supporters in a victory speech less than three hours after the polls closed. "And I hope that everybody here will always remember what we started in the winter of '79. And I hope you'll never let the spirit stop ever again."

Mrs. Byrne, 44, won by a landslide, surpassing the mark of more than 77 percent set in 1975 by her mentor — the late Richard J. Daley, who was elected mayor six times.

With 2,979 of the city's 3,100 precincts, or 96 percent of the vote, in, Mrs. Byrne had 671,189 votes, or 82.1 percent, to Republican Wallace Johnson's 131,261. Socialist Workers Party candidate Andrew Pulley received 14,996 votes.

Johnson told reporters in conceding that he had spoken with Mrs. Byrne and congratulated her. "In the words of Abraham Lincoln, 'it hurts too much to laugh but I'm too big to cry,'" Johnson said. "I have no regrets; it was a great experience."

Johnson, an investment banker had never held elective office.

An Associated Press-WMAQ-TV poll of 3,000 voters showed Mrs. Byrne received 93 percent of the Democratic vote and 71 percent of the independent vote.

JANE BYRNE

Meanwhile, in California's San Mateo County, Republican real estate developer Bill Royer took a wide lead in a runoff election to fill the term of Rep. Leo Ryan, slain last year in the Guyana airport ambush that set off the Peoples Temple bloodbath.

With 350 of 588 precincts reporting, Royer had 33,919 votes to 22,313 for Democrat Joe Holsinger, who was once Ryan's chief assistant. Royer, a millionaire, has two decades' experience in local politics.

Lawns for the birds

By GLENN SHELTON

Spring brings us a lot of goodies: blue skies, greening foliage, warm temperatures, towering thunderstorms, but it also brings us lawn mowing. That ain't good at all!

Last Friday (while it still was March) I wheeled out the lawn mower and did my first grass job of the new season. Needless to say, I will be doing that often between now and November, just as you will.

I never did get along with lawn mowers. Our personalities clash. They do everything in their power (that's why they call 'em power mowers) to get my goat.

For instance, they will almost never start for me, no matter how long and how violently I yank on that little cable. So what do you suppose my mower did last Friday after sitting for six months unattended in the garage?

It started the first time I pulled the cord, that's what!

That just shows you a lawn mower will do anything at all to irritate me!

I still think we're all a bunch of idiots for planting grass, pouring expensive water and fertilizers to it, cluttering our yards with hoses and sprinklers and making a bed for chiggers and other assorted insects, just for a lawn.

Why not simply concrete our front and back yards and paint them green and be done with it?

That is my annual recommendation, and I am making it again. Lawns aren't all that attractive. They aren't indispensable.

THEY ARE MONSTERS, AND WE'RE DUMMIES FOR PUTTING UP WITH 'EM!

OFF ON A TANGENT — In Lubbock last week a popular Wichita Falls youth, Mike Page, 21, was hit by a van and lies in critical condition in Lubbock Methodist Hospital. Mike is the son of Bobby and Barbara Page of 1601 Cynthia.

"Glenn, will you please tell all those who phoned us and the hospital in Lubbock, inquiring about Mike's condition, how very much we appreciate their solicitude?" asked Mrs. Sterling Sneed, Mike's grandmother.

Referring to a water study, he said original capacity of the lake was 16,603 acre-feet and the lake inundated 1,289 acres at the 920-foot elevation. In 1967, a sediment survey determined the initial area and capacity had been reduced to 1,262 acres and 16,035 acre-feet.

As a result of the reduction and changes in watershed development, the dependable water supply has been reduced from 1.68 million gallons of water per day in 1956 to about 1.17 million today.

Reneau, referring to the feasibility study, said, "When the growing water demand of the city is compared to the dependable annual supply from Lake Carter, it is evident that the city of Bowie needs to develop an additional water supply within the immediate future."

The city manager said the Tartar Cemetery, in the enlargement area, will have to be relocated because it is well below the conservation pool level. He also noted that two houses and 1.3 miles of FM 1125, and 13,000 feet of high voltage power line must be relocated before impoundment of water begins.

Reneau said the major cost items include dam construction, $748,000; outlet works and water intake tower, $300,000; breaching and bridging the existing dam and bridge construction, $196,000; and relocating the houses, power lines and roads, $590,000. Land acquisition is expected to cost about $640,000, while fees and contingencies are estimated at $478,000.

Although plans to enlarge the lake are still in the design stage, the city manager said an election seeking voter approval probably will be called in November and that the city plans to sell revenue bonds to pay for the expansion project.

The city manager noted that the city's demand for water will continue to increase in the next 30 years to more than double its present demand. This means that after 1984 the lake will be less than adequate to supply the city's needs in the event of extended drought, he said.

Bowie officials have submitted pre-application to Texas Water Commission for the water rights permit, and they are scheduled to meet with TWC staff next week to set a hearing date.

The city manager hopes final water rights hearings will be in early fall and that land acquisition will begin in December. Construction is planned for spring 1980, and water impoundment could begin in fall 1981.

Parasites clear Lawton jail cells

By JIM WEBRE
Staff Writer

It's the kind of a story that leaves you scratching your head. But the 14 prisoners and presumably a few police officers in the city jail in Lawton, Okla., are glad they aren't scratching over something else.

Police said one prisoner placed in jail Monday began complaining of the "scabies," or mites that infest the clothing and make the victim scratch and cause his skin to come off in scales.

"Some sort of parasite was found in the jail," Police Chief Robert Gillian said. He added that as "a precautionary measure the jail was emptied and treated."

Jail officials said they know of only one prisoner that was actually infested, and that inmate reportedly carryied the scabies for about a year.

For about five or six hours Tuesday, police said, the prisoners were transferred to Comanche County Jail while the county health department sprayed and disinfected the jail area. Gillian said the problem had happened before, but not in recent memory.

So what else did the Lawton police do?

"Well, they were all given a hot bath and change of clothes," a Lawton jailer said.

Food, gas plentiful despite truck strike

By LEON HOOTEN
Business Editor

North Texas residents won't find food and gasoline in short supply because of a combination Teamsters strike and industry lockout of union truckers, but if the strike is prolonged industries could feel the pinch.

A Safeway Food Store representative in Fort Worth said Tuesday stores in North Texas wouldn't be affected by the strike but other businessmen said retail shortages of some items would be felt in about a week or two.

Industry officials in Wichita Falls generally agreed that if the lockout and strike continued more than two weeks "it would be a disaster for industry in general and some would be forced to lay off part of their work force, or shutdown."

Truck terminals in Wichita Falls served by union truckers were closed Tuesday and one terminal manager said most retail stores in the city would "soon have shortages, especially of larger items."

Terminals closed in Wichita Falls Tuesday included Campbell 66 Express, ICX, Roadway Express Inc., Yellow Freight System Inc. and Crouch Freight Systems.

A spokesman for Texas Division of Tranter Inc. said if the lockout lasted more than two weeks "we would have to lay off some workers because we wouldn't be able to ship out finished products."

An official at Fort Worth and Denver Railway said freight shipments hadn't increased but he expected they would if the strike-lockout continues

Another industry official said the "Teamsters could have a stranglehold on the nation's economy."

Several other industry executives said they could see no immediate problems "but they hadn't counted on the situation lasting more than a week."

The lockout was ordered by industry executives nationwide after the union launched a limited strike last weekend over a contract dispute. This could halt a sizable portion of interstate shipments of general freight from fresh foods to factory parts within days, industry officials nationwide agreed.

An industry official in Wichita Falls said he suspected some sort of an "agreement between industry executives and Teamster officials on the lockout, because the issue seemed to have been settled and suddenly the lockout was ordered.

"It looks like the union said, look we don't want to take all the blame for this but we don't want to follow the president's guidelines," he added.

A new car dealer said that if the strike lasted more than a week no more new automobiles would be shipped into Wichita Falls for the duration of the lockout, and then for a time after that.

Automakers began gradual shutdown of plants nationwide because of shortages of components shipped by union truckers, officials said.

Independent grocers said that spot shortages would be seen on some shelves if the situation lasts more than a month.

Most gasoline is shipped here by independent truck companies that don't have union drivers, and several major brand dealers have their own non-union trucks and drivers.

A spokesman for McClurkan's said "we get a lot of goods shipped by United Parcel Service and they aren't on strike, but if the lockout lasts a couple of weeks or longer, we could be hurting on larger shipments such as men's suits, ladies coats and cosmetics."

Kamel Sams, manager of Dillard's Department Store in Sikes Senter, said, "We are concerned about this because we have a sale coming up and some of the items supposed to be on sale just won't be available.

"We have trucks that deliver from our warehouse in Fort Worth, but the merchandise is shipped into the warehouse by union drivers," he added.

A terminal manager whose facility is closed said Tuesday that carpet retailers and wholesalers would be especially hit hard. He added some firms and industries that rely on the trucking industry such as JC Penney, Perkins, Dillards, Ciba Geigy, Cryovac and other retail outlets and industries would also be hurt.

A spokesman for Levi Strauss & Co. said he didn't plan a layoff, but if the lockout lasted more than a month he would "reduce the work force as rapidly as possible by attrition."

One industry official didn't want to comment because the firm's drivers are independents and he "didn't want them to get the idea of a strike."

Council takes no action on ward system

do the things that I think I'm suppose to be doing, I don't want that hung around my neck."

Tuesday night, James Esther, president of the committee, said that the committee intends to wait and see if the council intends to do anything.

"We have requested that the council respond to the committee's request in writing. They haven't complied with that request. We will wait for that," Esther said.

With a ward system, Esther explained, persons on the council would be honest in their "efforts and intentions" when they present something to the council.

"No matter how hard they try, a person not living in an area cannot honestly feel the need of people in that area," Esther said.

The lack of representation, he added, was obvious in that "there is a lack of the city being updated in every area."

"Some areas of the city are prospering more than others," he said.

If a person was held responsible to an area, he would represent that area, Esther said.

James Williams, a businessman and resident of the east side, Tuesday night said that instituting a ward system would prevent conflicts such as the controversy over the closing of Park Street.

"We (residents of the east side) are not getting fair representation. The council says they represent all of us. The city has not represented us," Williams charged.

The city, he said, entered a contract with the highway department and the railroad to close Park Street without consulting east side residents.

Public hearings were conducted on the Kell project, but it was not specified to residents of the area that Park, Granger and Fourth would be closed, he said.

"Closing Park was very unfair and unwarranted. I didn't feel any representaton at all," he said.

In other business, the council conducted public hearings on hazardous structures and 1979 assessment paving program.

Members awarded a bid of $7,260 to Willen Electric Co. for ballfield lighting at Bridwell Park, approved water purchase contracts with Electra and Red River Authority and approved advertising for equipment for the activities center.

Court refuses writ petition

The U.S. Supreme Court Monday refused to grant a petition for a writ of certiorari in the case of Laura and Mamie Barker of Wichita Falls versus the Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

The two Wichitans filed their original lawsuit in 89th District Court in Wichita Falls in June 1975 and it was taken before the Commodity Futures Trading Commission about a year later.

Thus the court failed to rule on the jurisdictional question. The commission is a relatively new federal agency with a "reparation procedure" for disputed commodity trades. Since it was set up, the commission has barred consideration of trades occurring before Jan. 23, 1975. However, the plaintiffs contended before the Supreme Court that the law says "claims, not trades." The Barkers maintain their claim was filed within the deadline.

The high court's action leaves this question unresolved and has the effect of throwing the case back into state court. Defendants are E.F. Hutton & Co. of Wichita Falls and Commodity Management Systems of Houston.

Testimony ends in Davis case

FORT WORTH (AP) — Lawyers haggled over the valididy of a pre-nuptial agreement, allegedly signed by Priscilla Davis, as testimony drew to a close Tuesday in the oft-delayed divorce trial of millionaire Cullen Davis.

"I'm hoping to be able to give you a decision in the case by Monday the 23rd," said State District Judge Clyde Ashworth, the third presiding judge in the nearly 5-year-old divorce feud.

Division of property is the only issue and Ashworth will decide what cash and properties Davis, 45, and Mrs. Davis, 37, are awarded.

Before he makes his ruling, Ashworth must review about 5,000 pages of previous testimony and sift through thousands of additional pages of exhibits.

Ashworth scheduled oral arguments to be heard April 16, and instructed attorneys to submitt written briefs at that time outlining their positions.

Document experts for both Davis and Mrs. Davis testified Tuesday about the authenticity of the pre-nuptial agreement Mrs. Davis allegedly signed two days before the August 1968 wedding.

Davis' lawyers argue that pact prohibits Mrs Davis from claiming any of Davis' vast corporate wealth in a divorce settlement.

Beavers wins Altus mayor's election

ALTUS, Okla. (Special) — Independent candidate for Altus mayor Lonnie Beavers soundly defeated Democrat E.L. Rogers 2,567-1,295 Tuesday as election results throughout Oklahoma trickled in.

In Blair, Okla., voters overwhelmingly cast their ballots in favor of a one-cent sales tax referendum, 183-26. Ward 1 trustee Buford Dollar beat Richard Abney 162-47.

Duke, Okla., residents elected Glenda Berry town clerk over Marion Wright 71-60. John Wampler was chosen Ward 3 trustee of Duke over Fred Mooney 98-28. Otto Coombs received seven votes in the race.

Ward 5 trustee is R.B. Masters, who defeated Leslie Brown 81-53.

Man shot by motorist

By RECORD NEWS STAFF

A man was shot late Tuesday while walking on Rosewood, apparently because he didn't have a cigarette.

Rick Morrison, age and address unknown, was shot shortly before 11:30 p.m. Tuesday, police said.

The victim told police a motorist stopped and asked him for a cigarette, then shot him when he said he didn't have one.

Morrison was shot in the upper left chest area, police reported.

The victim walked from the scene of the shooting to an address in the 600 block of Juarez, knocked on the door and dropped to the ground, police said.

Morrison was in undetermined condition at a Wichita Falls hospital early Wednesday morning.

State ordered to review law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has told Nebraska's highest court to review a state law authorizing random police stops of motorists who are not suspected of breaking any law.

It told the Nebraska court to restudy its decision upholding the law in light of a March 27 Supreme Court ruling that declared random police stops in Delaware an unconstitutional invasion of privacy.

'Black day'

Third blackout hits Boston neighborhood

BOSTON (AP) — The lights went out again Tuesday for about 30,000 residents of the trendy Back Bay neighborhood and officials said it may be another day before power is restored.

A third blackout in three days cramped the bustling style of this urban enclave, which one wag dubbed "Black Bay." Elevators were stuck, apartments were dark, refrigerators were dripping, many shops were closed and grocers were worried about piles of food going bad.

A Boston Edison spokesman said the latest blackout, which struck about 10 a.m., probably would continue until Wednesday morning while linemen wrestled with fire-damaged, overloaded cables.

"We think the power will go back on and stay on," said Edison spokesman Stephen Sweeney.

Meanwhile, the densely packed neighborhood of stylish shops, posh hotels and expensive apartments made do with warm drinks, cold showers and breathless treks up seldom-used stairs.

At the elegant Copley Plaza Hotel, set ablaze last week by an arsonist, doormen used flashlights to escort guests through the cave-dark marble halls.

The trouble began Sunday noon, when a fire in a manhole burned up four of the 16 main cables that feed the Back Bay's high rises and elegant Victorian townhouses.

When utility workers tried to turn the electricity back on later that day, overloads caused by the fire touched off more short circuits and blazes in secondary lines that lead to transformers, the utility said.

Power finally returned Monday morning, but it went off again that night. And when Boston Edison tentatively switched it back on Tuesday morning, smoke again belched from manhole covers.

Mother 'hurt' by Hart verdict

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Bettye Milner, mother of one of the three Girl Scouts slain nearly two years ago, says she was "shocked and hurt" when a jury acquitted Gene Leroy Hart but that she was not convinced "beyond a reasonable doubt" that Hart was guilty.

Hart was found innocent of slaying the three girls Friday in a trial at Pryor.

"I don't think I counted on a guilty verdict, yet I was shocked and hurt when the not guilty verdict was read," she said Monday in her first comment since the trial. "I believe in divine justice. I think the killer, whoever it is, will get what is coming to him."

Mrs. Milner was the mother of Doris Denise Milner, one of the three girls killd the first night of camp June 13, 1977.

Mrs. Milner said she believes the trial might have turned out differently if a pipe and mirror that developed in evidence had been found in the first search of the cabin where Hart was arrested, instead of three months later.

Silkwood estate rests after mother's testimony

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The first phase of the $11.5 million Karen Silkwood plutonium contamination trial ended Tuesday afternoon when the Silkwood estate rested after an emotional appearance by Miss Silkwood's mother.

Merle Silkwood, 52, of Nederland, Texas, said her daughter was "a perfect child" who was interested in bettering herself and helping others.

Earlier, Rosemary Porter, 26, of Beaumont, Texas, one of Karen Silkwood's younger sisters, testified that Miss Silkwood was frightened and hysterical, said she wanted to quit her job with the Kerr-McGee Corp. and felt she would be dead in five years.

Mrs. Silkwood first had problems maintaining her composure when she was asked if her daughter had any personality faults.

MRS. MERLE SILKWOOD

"My mother says if there was ever a perfect baby and child, it was Karen. And it's not because she is dead — she just was," Mrs. Silkwood said.

During several telephone calls the last week and a half Karen Silkwood was alive, she was nervous, upset and very concerned about her health, her mother testified.

Mrs. Silkwood said her daughter told her she was coming home soon and did not want her parents to come to Oklahoma.

"She told me there wasn't anything you could do if a person is exposed to radiation," Mrs. Silkwood said. "She said there is no cure."

About four days before she died in a Nov. 13, 1974, auto crash, Karen Silkwood called her mother and had calmed down some, Mrs. Silkwood testified.

"But I could tell from her voice something was wrong she wasn't telling me," her mother said.

On cross-examination, Mrs. Silkwood denied Kerr-McGee lawyer Elliott Fenton's assertion her daughter was moody and depressed because of a 1972 divorce.

Mrs. Porter testified about several telephone calls she received from her sister in the week before her death.

"She was scared, very scared," Mrs. Porter said. "She was very hysterically upset."

"She wouldn't tell me anything over the phone, she said she couldn't. She said something was happening to her," Mrs. Porter testified in a sometimes shaky voice.

The Silkwood estate is suing the Kerr-McGee Corp. for $11.5 million in damages, alleging negligence in connection with Karen Silkwood's plutonium contamination. Kerr-McGee contends she contaminated herself, possibly to dramatize claims about working conditions at its nuclear fuel plant where she was a lab technician.

'Wading pool' planned for whooping cranes

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — A $10 million to $13 million "wading pool" is being designed by Army Engineers in the Arkansas River desalinzation project to protect whooping cranes.

Robert Brown told the Great Plains Water Conference being held here this week the plans resulted from a ruling by the U.S. Department of Interior that some land involved at the Great Salt Plains flats in Alfalfa County are critical habitat for the scarce bird.

"Of the 11 recorded sightings of the birds in recent years, four of them were at one small area on the salt flats," he said.

Therefore, the engineers have designed an additional dike, separating the brine pool from the whooping crane area and damming fresh water flow from two small springs.

"In effect, we have proposed a $10 million to $13 milion wading pool," Brown said.

"There has been about $150 million spent to study and protect this species," he said. "I understand there are only about 100 of them left. I'll let you figure out how much that comes to per bird."

The Salt Fork River dumps about 1,980 tons of salt a day into the Arkansas River.

Georgia hit by tornado, other states get snow

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A tornado, spawned from rumbling thunderstorms over the southeast, touched down in Georgia on Tuesday while a Rocky Mountain storm moved eastward dumping snow on Utah, Colorado, Kansas, Missouri and parts of New Mexico.

In northeast New Mexico, 16 inches of snow fell over a 10-mile-wide area halfway between Raton and Des Moines. Travelers' advisories were in effect for portions of New Mexico, Colorado, Kansas and Missouri.

Thunderstorms stretched from the central Texas coast into southern Georgia, where a tornado damaged several buildings in Roberta but no injuries were reported.

Flash flood watches have been posted for southeastern Texas, central and southern Louisiana, most of Mississippi, Alabama and portions of northwestern Georgia. A flash flood warning was in effect for Jasper and Newton counties in southeastern Texas.

Rain stretched from South Carolina to central New England.

Temperatures were below freezing over portions of northeastern Montana, most of North Dakota, and the northern three-fourths of Minnesota. Readings were also below freezing over most of eastern Colorado and portions of western Kansas, northeastern New Mexico and the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles.

The warm spots in the nation extended from the eastern Gulf Coast to the central Atlantic Coast states with readings in the 70s. Florida had readings in the 80s.

Highs ranged from 22 degrees in Thief River Falls, Minn., to 86 in Fort Myers, Fla.

The forecast for Wednesday calls for thunderstorms extending from southeastern Texas to northern Florida and north into along the east Coast.

More rain is expected the Mississippi river to the East Coast with snow along the Canadian border states from Washington to the western Great Lakes.

Temperatures will be mostly seasonable except for freezing temperatures along the western Canadian border. Most of the Southwest will be basking under fair skies while the remainder of the nation will be mostly cloudy.

Police reinforcements cruise Kemp strip

By JIM WEBRE
Staff Writer

"We do recognize they have a problem out there," Wichita Falls police Capt. Charles Trainham said of Kemp merchants who recently complained of vandalism in their business district.

With that said, the police department's tactical squad once again took to the streets Tuesday to try to eliminate some of the crimes that go on every night along "the strip."

Trainham said the additional assignments to the Kemp area between Southwest Parkway and Seymour Highway were not necessarily precipitated by merchants' complaints. But various incidents of criminal mischief and vandalism by what merchants say is a small percentage of the Kemp traffickers has caused business to decline and cost merchants money for damages, many merchants say.

"They will be looking for traffic violations, criminal mischief, alcohol and narcotics violations," Trainham said of the additional Kemp patrols.

Trainham declined to say how many officers would be involved, but he did say police would be working out of both marked and unmarked vehicles.

Since Kemp fast food outlets and other businesses began flourishing along the boulevard, some merchants have posted signs warning of prosecution for trespassing. Some have hired private security companies to protect shops from vandals, unsafe drivers and loiterers.

With summer vacation approaching, merchants say they want to avoid a replay of motor vehicle accidents, vandalism, theft and other violations that have plagued the area that has become one of the popular after-hours hangouts for young persons.

Police Chief Curtis Harrelson said the "tact squad" will be assigned to the Kemp area "as long as it takes to get the job done."

Harrelson added the department is asking parents and young people alike for "voluntary compliance with the law" in respecting merchants' property. But, the police chief added, officers will arrest persons found violating the law.

"The merchants out there are going to be filing charges" on persons caught destroying property or commiting other crimes on merchants' property, Harrelson said.

Designer's dress collection stolen

PARIS (AP) — The entire summer dress collection of Paris couturier Per Spook was stolen from a truck in front of his workshops, police reported Tuesday.

The $240,000 collection of the 38-year-old Norwegian-born designer had just returned from a showing in Munich, West Germany, on Monday. The truck driver had stopped to pick up mail and when he returned, the truck's alarm system was disconnected and the truck empty.

Spook won the "Golden Needle" award last year for the most original Paris collection. Members of his staff said the originality of the dresses made it impossible to sell them.

Self-policing insurance

The elderly are uniquely susceptible to health insurance fraud, and serious abuses in marketing of health insurance policies as supplements to Medicare have prompted the insurance industry to take steps to police itself.

A study group has been established by Health Insurance Association of America to study charges of marketing abuses and other problems in insuring elderly men and women.

The study focuses on strengthening state laws dealing with minimum policy benefits, agent conduct and licensing and policy disclosure requirements. Ethical insurors and sales personnel have everything to gain and nothing to lose in a resurgence of confidence in health insurance.

Citizens 65 and older face growing problems in financing the portions of hospital and medical bills not covered by Medicare. To fill this need, the private health insurance industry several years ago began writing supplemental Medicare coverage. Today some 12.6 million elderly persons are covered through a wide range of policies. Most of this coverage is sound and beneficial.

However, less ethical insurors also have entered the lucrative supplementary coverage field, and even ethical firms sometimes are represented by persons whose methods are considered objectionable. Both unethical insurors and sales representatives are targets of the insurance industry.

No government agency or organization offers counseling for elderly people, so it's necessary that anyone considering supplementary coverage carefully assess his or her requirements against the coverage offered. Caution is the best defense against the wrong insurance.

Good life underground

Underground dwellings are part of the history of the West. Settlers first built semi-dugouts, graduating to frame and rock houses as the material could be obtained.

Sod dugouts offered early residents advantages over conventional homes, and those advantages remain, despite arrival of a less adventurous lifestyle.

Settlers in the arid Southwest found lumber and building stone in short supply, so they built homes of the only available material, the earth itself. A dugout commonly was scooped into an embankment facing south and roofed with sod.

The south-facing door caught the summer breeze and kept out blue northers in the winter. The interior was reasonably easy to keep at a comfortable temperature, reducing energy consumption, which in those days was as important as today although for different reasons.

It may be time for architects to re-examine underground housing. Investigators in Texas Tech's department of family management, housing and consumer science are studying energy saving benefits of underground dwellings and other forms of alternative housing.

Consumers tend to think of underground houses as dark, damp and unhospitable, but they can be exposed on one or more sides, admitting much natural light and ventilation. "Interiors can be as beautiful as the homeowner is imaginative," said research assistant Rachal Wortham. She said temperature fluctuations of properly sited underground houses are relatively slight, keeping heating and cooling bills to a minimum. Perhaps the idea is worth further study.

Spring's meanings can vary

By GEORGIE ANNE GEYER

TOKYO — Once again I am facing spring, and all the little adornments that arrive with it. A spring cold, a frigid wind; the cherry blossoms late or, likely, about to arrive pre-frozen.

In short, I was about to write my usual moody "I hate spring" column when I stopped to read the paper and something suddenly hit me.

It is not only we humans who individually go through the seasons in our moody or jubilant ways. Societies and, yes, even nations, travel through life in their own seasons, and we are seeing this with particular prescience these turbulent days.

ZI Japan, for example, they are as a nation going from high summer into brooding fall. Most intellectually-minded Japanese talk incessantly about the "lack of purpose" in a life that to everyone else has reached the apogee of material affluence and excellence.

"It seems at the moment that society does not have a definite purpose," Atuyuki Suzuta, editorial writer of the Mainichi newspaper, said. "Before, there was purpose in the state or in the company. Now people only care about the miserable purpose of owning their own house." He paused. "You should have seen our sense of purpose after the war."

The United States lies somewhere in the same seasonal area, though admittedly without all that excellence and efficiency. We had thought that constantly moving forward, of itself, would be purpose enough.

But now we find ourselves mired in fall, indeed a little groggy. We would like to move somewhere, but we don't know how, or where, or when or quite why.

We, too, are searching for that elusive "new spring" of something to believe in besides television sets. We, too, seek some vision of perpetual cherry blossoms instead of oil embargos and plumbers who don't come. That is why we are moody.

Then there are what we commonly call the "developing countries," the "spring countries" of most of Africa and Asia and Latin America. Well, it is they who are approaching spring, with all that means of beauty and ugliness, of good and evil, of sense and nonsense.

With energy problems and overpopulation and bad or no work habits, many of them will remain caught, frozen, in winter, perhaps forever. We are facing a new seasonal and human phenomenon: being frozen forever in one season, without hope and without movement. No cherry blossoms, not ever.

But some are "reveling" in spring and in its inner and outer turbulence. And so while fall and winter countries sit back, Vietnam attacks Cambodia, China attacks Vietnam and Russia mobilizes against China.

Such exuberance is not everywhere. We also have, particularly this year, a phenomenon new to our era. This is Iran, where a society in spring-approaching-summer tried to do a turnabout and return to winter.

Excess blacks?

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — There is a double warning in the ominous hints by some owners and general managers that professional basketball has become too black "for the good of the game."

And "for the good of the game" read profits or declining attendance or the bottom line on the owner's balance sheet.

There's more than a hint that race is raising its head in the professional sports world. One senior owner, who doesn't like to come out from behind his anonymity, suggested that declining attendance is due to the fact that "75 percent of National Basketball Assn. players are black while 75 percent of the fans are white."

Viewing these signs of the times, Sports Illustrated magazine did not hesitate to report that "an ill wind is blowing" in the NBA.

I am not competent to judge whether these hints and opinions are accurate, but it seems to me that they constitute an ill wind for the racial health of American society and they sound a timely warning for black and whites to heed.

For whites, it is this: If white public opinion demands the hiring of professional athletes on any basis other than their ability to play the game, they will be abetting and justifying the kind of affirmative action program that discriminates against whites in employment and education and that was ruled illegal by the Supreme Court in the Bakke case.

The warning for blacks is this: If blacks demand job selection on any basis other than ability to do the job, they will be justifying what the professional basketball owners are talking about doing.

I like what Arthur Ashe, a superb human being as well as a superb tennis player, had to say about this:

"Amateur and professional sports in the U.S. are open to all. The black community is aware of this. Why else would blacks devote so much energy to sports? The American dream is to make of yourself what you will, to reach for the sky, fulfill your potential. Accustomed to facing discrimination in other endeavors, black people felt it was nice to finally find something like sports where only results mattered."

Then to the heart of the matter was the question: "So, to our disappointment, in what we thought finally was an open, public and freely competitive discipline, we now face new parameters of acceptability. Comments by NBA executives are disturbing. Are we to expect rigid quotas in pro sports in the '80s?"

I hope not. It would be a grievous harm to whites and blacks alike. If fixed quotas are justified in professional sports, they are justified in every other part of society.

No proof is yet offered that the dominance of black players in professional basketball is the cause of declining attendance, and no officials have provided the attendance figures.

There are other possible explanations for smaller crowds in different cities. Is there any reason to assume that hiring inferior white athletes to play with superior blacks would draw more fans?

Rate procedure explained

Editor:

I feel your editorial of March 27 fails to point out the real issue in changing the way electric rates are set.

From its inception, electric utilities' rate increase request procedure created by the Public Utility Regulatory Act has been complex and confusing, especially to customers who pay the bills for the duplication of effort.

The legislation proposed in Austin would streamline the present process by allowing electric utilities to file their rate increases solely with the PUC. The system now requires that the same rate case (about the size of three Sears catalogs) be filed with each municipality, which in most instances do not have the staff, the time or the expertise to cope with complicated and complex rate cases.

The proposed legislation still assures input by individual citizens or municipalities into rate hearings, and provisions in the present law that provide for the reimbursement to municipalities that hire consultants to study electric utility rates cases have not been changed.

House Bill 585 would streamline the rate-making process, clean up wasteful duplication of effort and better serve the customers of TESCO and all citizens of Texas.

Help needed

Editor:

May I use your newspaper for an open letter to the parents of the Hirschi ROTC?

Dear Parents:

On March 26 I attended a meeting of the ROTC Parents Association. This group meets the fourth Monday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Hirschi High School cafeteria.

Purpose of this group is to help support the ROTC program. We help raise funds for trips and other ROTC activities and try to be available to act as chaperones for functions. It is our desire to make the Hirschi ROTC program the best in Wichita Falls and in Texas, but we need the help of all parents.

Our kids are doing a good job, so let's get behind them and make them proud of us. Let them know we do care.

Choice backed

Editor:

I want to thank you for the Christian articles that have appeared in the paper recently. Some people say the newspaper prints what people want to hear. I think it also should print what they need to hear.

I believe we need the light of truth and goodness shared to upbuild us and create attitudes that will establish harmony. I wish everyone knew the blessings that would flow if they would pray for the incidents of misfortune they read about.

We need to become the people who profess "in God we trust," and "He would grant us the desires of our heart" (Psalms 37:4-5). He is fulfilling his promises for those who believe, and in place of our burdens he is giving us joy.

Airman thanked

Editor:

Recently, driving on the freeway, I had a flat tire in heavy traffic. I pulled to the curb and waited. After a time a young German airman, Reinhard Fink, being trained at Sheppard AFB, stopped and offered assistance.

He installed the spare tire but found it was too low to drive on so he took it to a service station for air and finally got my car ready to roll.

I offered to pay him for his trouble but he refused, saying he was glad to help me. Several hundred people breezed by before he stopped. He deserves praise and my eternal gratitude.

The legacy of Watergate

By MARTHA ANGLE & ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — No matter how long they're here, President Carter and his Georgians apparently will never understand the deep and ineradicable scars left by Watergate on the Washington "establishment."

Attorney General Griffin Bell merely proved the point anew with his bid to defuze the politically sensitive investigation of Carter's peanut business by appointment of a special counsel rather than a special prosecutor.

Even Democrats sympathetic to the president were astonished when Bell tried to limit the powers delegated to his chosen man, Republican attorney Paul J. Curran of New York, although only Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd had the courage to voice such criticism openly.

They knew he was asking for trouble, and Capitol Hill Republicans quickly gave it to him with unified howls of "double standard" and "coverup."

Bell seemed startled and perplexed by the uproar his move provoked in the political community and in the press. To his credit, he acted quickly to repair the damage, drafting a charter that gave Curran virtually all the power and authority the Watergate special prosecutors had.

Had the attorney general been around Washington, rather than Atlanta, five or six years ago, he would not have made such a misstep to begin with.

Bell's gaffe was merely the latest in a series committed by the Carterites since their arrival in Washington.

The White House, from President Carter to press secretary Jody Powell, bobbled their first test by allowing the Bert Lance affair to drag on for the entire summer of 1977 before severing ties with the former budget director.

First there was Carter's fervent and premature expression of undying confidence in Lance, which sounded, to Washington ears, like the echo of another president's misdirected praise of Haldeman and Ehrlichman.

Then there was Jody Powell's attempt to plant with a Chicago newspaper unfounded and untrue rumors about one of Lance's chief critics, GOP Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois. The press immediately saw Ron Ziegler reborn, and a chastened Powell apologized.

Dismissal of U.S. Attorney David Marston in Philadelphia following a telephone call to the president by a Democratic congressman under investigation by Marston's office was another blunder that no veteran of the Watergate era would have made.

And it is difficult to imagine that any president who had been in Washington when Richard Nixon resigned in the face of impeachment proceedings would have been so quick to invite him to the White House to celebrate the renewal of diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China.

Carter has suffered little if any lasting political damage from these lapses. Opinion polls continue to show the public has a high regard for his integrity and personal rectitude.

But he and his administration have suffered setbacks and criticism that easily could have been avoided by anyone sensitive to the emotional legacy of Watergate.

In Georgia and elsewhere, Watergate may seem like ancient history. In Washington it remains an exposed nerve on the body politic, one that Carter and his associates keep inadvertently striking.

Winners & losers

By DON GRAFF

South Africa's opinion manipulation scandal has reached into the highest political levels of that country, shaking the stability of the Afrikaner-dominated government. Now it is nibbling at the fringes of U.S. politics.

Ethics committees in Congress have taken a preliminary look into the possibility that South African funds may have been used to influence several recent campaigns, without finding anything sufficiently conclusive to justify a full-scale inquiry. But the way the affair has been developing, that situation could be subject to sudden change.

Key figure is Eschel M. Rhoodie, cashiered Information Ministry official who directed a multi-million-dollar project to buy a better image for South Africa and its racial policies. Much of the money is reported to have gone into bribes to supposed "opinion makers" in the United States and Western Europe, and much is suspected of having gone into South African pockets. The flaming issue in South Africa is who in the government knew how much of what was going on.

On this subject, Rhoodie, who is in exile in Europe, apparently knows where enough bodies are buried to start his own cemetery. His piecemeal revelation of embarrassing details has political leaders back home at each others' throats and guarantees a continuing press.

The South African press brought the scandal out of the closets of Pretoria into the light of public scrutiny. In this respect, the affair justifies the frequent comparisons to Watergate. In both cases, the press pursued inquiries into suspected irregularities in high places despite official opposition.

But there is a crucial difference. Efforts of the U.S. press to inquire and publish may have been opposed, but the right to do so was never in question. This has the backing of law rooted in the Constitution. The South African press is not in such a position. South African press law tilts heavily to the government's advantage.

While publication of scandal developments on occasion has been suppressed, the wonder may be that the government has not employed its legal weapons more often. It continues, however, to threaten the press with dire consequences should the revelations continue.

Under the circumstances, the unfolding of the scandal is a demonstration of what a partially free but determined press can accomplish.

Good news, bad news

"Good morning from the 10,000 worried employees of a multinational corporation currently under investigation on suspicion of wrongdoing and gross negligence. Miss X speaking."

Brown denies bungling trip to New Hampshire

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. Tuesday brushed aside suggestions that he suffered a political setback in his first trip to New Hamphire — home of the nation's earliest presidential primary.

"The reviews were quite good," the governor said at an airport news conference following a one-day, 6,000-mile trek to New Hampshire, where he found himself in the middle of local politics.

Brown described his talks with New Hampshire officials as "very friendly and cordial dialogue."

"If nothing else, I may have to go back to New Hampshire ... to continue the dialogue," he said.

Earlier Tuesday, New Hampshire Gov. Hugh Gallen said he thought Brown "had badly misjudged" New Hampshire in his first venture into the state's presidential politics.

The state leader of President Carter's informal reelection effort, House Democratic Leader Chris Spirou, likened Brown's advance man for the New Hampshire trip Monday to "the guy who did Little Big Horn for Gen. Custer."

"Custer didn't come back," Brown joked at the news conference. He confirmed that had talked to potential supporters for a presidential campaign — and told them he had no presidential committee.

Spirou, like most Democrats, saw Brown's visit as the first overture of a presidential campaign. Brown's visit, however, was billed as "nonpolitical."

Spirou was angered that Brown had accepted the invitation of a Republican, House Speaker George Roberts, to address a legislative committee considering a constitutional amendment to balance the federal budget.

Six Democrats who support Carter walked out of the committee hearing because Gallen, another Carter backer, was not allowed to speak before Brown.

Brown then jettisoned his speech but couldn't avoid a heated debate with Gallen about the constitutional amendment in the governor's office, where they were surrounded by a crowd of nearly 100 reporters. Gallen is opposed to the amendment.

Even that was interrupted. A chorus of anti-nuclear demonstrators, who had met Brown at the Statehouse, kept shouting "No Nukes" and "Stop Diablo Canyon," a reference to a nuclear plant site in California.

Deputy Democratic Leader Mary Chambers called the result of Brown's trip "pretty poor."

"His coming here like this reflected very poor advance planning and couldn't help his political future," she said. "Frankly, he looked like he bungled the trip."

The Republicans were also disappointed. Roberts said he wished Brown hadn't scrapped his speech.

"I feel he was persuaded not to speak by Carter Democrats who were trying to save the president some embarrassment on the balanced budget issue," Roberts said.

U.S. mission to discuss Mexico oil

MEXICO CITY (AP) — United States energy and state department officials arrived Tuesday to negotiate purchases of natural gas and oil from Mexico, the Ministry of Patrimony said.

The Mission is headed by Julius Katz, assistant secretary of state for business, and Harry Gongold, assistant secretary of energy for international affairs, the U.S. Embassy sid.

The names of other members of the mission were not available.

"The discussions will allow presentation to Presidents Carter and Jose Lopez Portillo alternatives for decision making," the ministry said, "for a meeting between the two in the summer."

Carter was in Mexico Feb. 14-16 to discuss gas and oil purchases but was scolded by Lopez Portillo publicly for former U.S. indifference to its southern neighbor before oil discoveries that place Mexico sixth in world reserves with 40.1 billion barrels.

"The topics to be discussed include the possibilities of sale of excess oil and natural gas and the conditions, rationalization of its production and distibution of electric energy along the border and other aspects of development of new sources of energy, particularly, solar," the ministry said.

An agreement between Mexico's government oil company Pemex and six U.S. gas pipeline companies was rejected by the U.S. energy department 18 months because of price and conditions for the six year contract, sources said.

Men don't know how to shop

By ERMA BOMBECK

According to the Wall Street Journal, liberation of women has brought about an increase in the number of men who shop for groceries.

This, in turn, has loused up the advertising campaigns. Men obviously buy products for different reasons than women.

Offhand, I'd guess that men don't get too choked up about whether their wives would prefer dressing to potatoes, get fussy about peanut butter for their children or care much if their cats danced all the way to dinner.

If someone offered my husband $50 for his old shirt in a laundromat, he'd throw in his entire closet.

Advertising is geared toward women who are serious about taking care of their families. If their coffee is mountain grown, they'll have successful marriages. If they can get their husbands' bad breath in remission, they'll be promoted. If they force-feed bowls of hot cereal into their children, they're good mothers.

Did you ever watch men shop? I divide them into three categories. There's the Little Old Listmaker. He has a list that is so rigid, he will not deviate one single item. If the list says, "Pick up laundry," he'll buy one on the way home.

At the other end of the spectrum is the man I call the Party Shopper. Old Hats-and-Horns goes up and down the aisle like he knows exactly what he is doing. At the check-out, he will rack up $87 worth of smoked oysters, assorted crackers, chips, dips and enough beverages to supply a PX during a siege.

Then there's the man whose mother was a procurement officer and passed down her philosophy on volume buying. If you can buy four rolls of toilet tissue for 80 cents, think what a saving you could rack up on 62 rolls.

To get to men, I suspect, advertising executives will have to use the macho approach.

Any day now you'll probably see Robert Conrad put a can of Tidy Bowl on his shoulder and challenge you to "Knock it off! I dare you!" Or a man who mixes a pitcher of Kool-Aid and says to his kids, "You only go around once in this life and you might just as well go around with all the gusto you can get!"

Until this happens, men are just going to be content getting a cheap thrill out of squeezing the you-know-what with Mr. Whipple.

Space shuttle problem solved

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (AP) — Officials of Rockwell International, prime contractor on the space shuttle Columbia, say they think they have solved engine problems that have delayed its maiden flight. Norman Ryker, president of Rockwell's Rocketdyne Division, said a valve change allowed test engines to be fired successfully.

Two engines were sent last week to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration test site at Bay St. Louis, Miss., and the third was to begin the trip by truck today, company officials said. The Columbia arrived at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida last month, after having been flown from California astride a jumbo jetliner.

Childress mayor says city may lose railroad shops

By SHIRLEY ANDERSON
Correspondent

CHILDRESS, Texas (Special) — A planned expansion of the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad shop in Childress has come to a standstill and Mayor Walter Lockhoof has expressed concern that the city might completely lose the shops.

Lockhoof Tuesday released a statement from officials at Burlington Northern, parent line of FW&D, stating that an apparent agreement for an expansion of the shops in Childress has bogged down in union negotiations. The Childress shops repair locomotives.

The statement concluded "the shop craft representatives made demands totally unrelated to the issue in question as a condition of settlement. Since we consider one of the issues not negotiable, we would say the enlargement of the Childress shops is a dead issue."

"The railroad needs to expand the shops in order to adequately handle the workload. Now that the enlargement is a dead issue, there is a chance that we will lose the shops all together," Lockhoof said.

The mayor noted about a year ago officials indicated they would like to see the shops moved to Fort Worth.

"Only two weeks ago, I talked with a railroad vice president who said Fort Worth would be a more suitable location because management, labor supply and available land are there."

Lockhoof said there are five unions in the Childress shop. He said four of them voted for the expansion. The fifth asked for a provision unrelated to the project and railroad officials considered the demand not negotiable, he said.

"There are about 100 unions connected with the Burlington line and all of them from Houston to Seattle approved the Childress expansion except one union vote here. That killed the whole thing," Lockhoof said.

He noted that loss of the expansion plans also means a possible federal grant for a railroad underpass has gone down the drain.

Lockhoof was in Dallas negotiating for a $1 million grant for contruction of an underpass in the downtown area. He said the expansion was an important factor in establishing reason for need for the underpass.

"By 1981 it is estimated that 40 trains a day will go through Childress blocking crossing for six to nine hours daily. That leaves two-fifths of the city blocked off from emergency vehicles," Lockhoof said.

There is an underpass now, but it is located at the extreme northwest edge of the city on US 283.

The mayor is calling on residents for support in keeping the shops in Childress. He asked citizens to write to officials or to circulate petitions.

The shops employ about 70 persons now, but in the past as many as several hundred workers have been employed there.

Elaborate sand castle on display

WASHINGTON (AP) — What may be one of the most carefully crafted sand castles ever displayed — on or away from a beach — went on public view Tuesday at the American Institute of Architects.

The creation of architect Hugh Newell Jacobsen, the sand castle is part of an exhibition called "Just for Fun" in the institute's salute to International Children's Year.

Jacobsen spent most of Monday fashioning the castle from seven tons of gravel-free beach sand. He fashioned a six-foot-high cone of sand in which he carved buttresses and a Greek temple facade and pediment with columns.

The columns were early and primitive Doric. Sand, he explained, does not lend itself to complex Corinthian columns.

Jet crash causes forest fire

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A forest fire set off by a crashing Air Force F-4E Phantom jet raged over 600 acres of swampy timberland Tuesday in northeastern North Carolina.

The two crew members on board died in the crash, the Air Force said. They were identified as 1st. Lt. Robert Neeshan, 24, of Columbus, Ohio, who was a weapons systems officer; and Capt. Larry G. Pitts, 29, of Dallas, the craft's commander.

Neeshan had been stationed at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base for one year and was a 1976 graduate of Ohio State University. Pitts was a 1972 graduate of Baylor University and had been at the base since January 1977.

Fire and dense undergrowth prevented rescue workers from reaching the downed plane until late Monday night.

That was some 10 hours after the aircraft went down in central Tyrrell County while on a training flight from the base in Goldsboro. The wreckage was in dense woods near the Alligator River on the Tyrrell County side of the Tyrrell-Dare county line.

Authorities said the downed plane carried ammunition that could be touched off by the fire.

Using aerial and ground firefighting equipment, the North Carolina Forest Service and local fire companies battled the spreading blaze in strong winds throughout Monday night and Tuesday morning.

By Tuesday morning, tractors had dug a path 6 to 8 feet wide around the burning timberland in an effort to control the blaze, which was not threatening any populated areas.

"We think we have it contained," said Forest Service spokesman Gil Green. "But it's not under control."

The Air Force said the crashed jet, attached to the 4th Tactical Fighter Wing at Seymour Johnson, was on a training mission at a bombing range in Dare County, some 15 to 20 miles west of the crash site.

It came down into the trees about 1 p.m. Monday, apparently with no warning that anything was wrong, the Air Force spokeman said.

Fry beats Stacy for Frederick mayor

By MADGE DOMBROWSKI
Correspondent

FREDERICK, Okla. (Special) — Owen Fry defeated incumbent John Stacy 918-649 Tuesday in the mayor's race.

It was the first time Stacy has run for mayor and lost. He has served about 14 years as mayor in Frederick, but he wasn't beaten by a rookie. Opponents Fry and Wilbur Brown both have served as mayor.

Brown polled 131 votes. He won the mayor's seat a few years ago when Stacy decided to sit out a term. Fry served two terms as mayor back in the late 1940s and early 1950s.

In other races on the ballot, Wally Haight won the city marshal race 1,046-658 over Jack Whitson. Haight has served in the Tillman County sheriff's office.

Whitson retired from the San Antonio police department with 20 years service.

In the race for the Ward 1 seat incumbent John Stephens easily defeated challenger Alvis Harper 540-137.

The voting concludes municipal elections in Tillman County. All other races were decided in primary elections in mid-March. Some candidates who filed as independents were not involved in the primary elections, and the general election was necessary to pit partisan candidates against independents.

Man accused of leading huge drug ring

NEW YORK (AP) — A citizen of both the United States and Greece was ordered held on $5 million bond Tuesday, accused of masterminding an international ring that annually smuggled $12.5 million worth of narcotics into this country from the Middle East.

John Grammatikos, 42, also known as John Grams and Johnny Cadillac, was arrested in Zurich on Jan. 17 by Swiss police.

He was flown to New York Monday and appeared Tuesday before U.S. Magistrate A. Simon Chrein in federal court in Brooklyn. He pleaded innocent and a pretrial hearing was set for April 11.

Grammatikos is accused of supervising the import and distribution of 230 pounds of Middle East heroin, tons of hashish and substantial quantities of cocaine.

The total wholesale value of the drugs was estimated at more than $50 million. Greek and Turkish registry ships were said to have brought the narcotics to the United States.

The federal Drug Enforcement Administration had listed Grammatikos and two alleged accomplices as among the 10 most wanted dealers in Middle East dope.

Loops, slant, pressure significant

Graphologist probes brain through subject's penmanship

By STEVE OLAFSON
Staff Writer

The way you cross your "t," dot your "i" and loop your "y" may not seem significant, but for a handwriting analyst it's just as revealing about the person as reading his mail.

"By looking at one page of handwriting I can tell whether a person's honest, a liar, emotional, reserved, quiet, stingy, greedy, sarcastic, an alcoholic, on dope, nervous or guilty," declares Warren Bennett, a semi-retired lawyer and a teacher of graphology, or handwriting analysis.

For Bennett, the theory goes something like this: as youngsters we all learn from our teachers how to write in basically the same manner, but by the time we're grown up, each of us has developed our own particular style of writing that reveals part of our character.

While many scientists scoff at that notion, the practice of graphology is widespread in Europe and some American business firms even employ the method when hiring employees.

Bennett, however, doesn't even call it handwriting. He prefers to call it "brain writing" because impulses from the brain are what actually control the way our hand moves the pen.

"Handwriting analysis is not 100 percent correct, but it is a science if it's used that way," commented Bennett, who claims an accuaracy rate of 94 percent.

The graphologist analyzes a person's handwriting by examining the strokes of the different letters. When examing a piece of handwriting, he divides each line into three zones: the upper zone (where the loop of an "l" extends) is the writer's philosophical or mental zone; the lower zone (where the bottom of a "y" extends) is where the writer's past experiences are revealed; and the middle zone (where an "a" would sit) is the area where a person's day-to-day personality can be determined.

If the upper zone and lower zones of a person's letters are 2½ times as long as the middle zone, the person is generally well balanced, Bennett said. It's when the letters are not in balance that the real analysis starts.

For instance, if Bennett meets a person who is extremely talkative, he said he would expect to see the person's handwriting reveal an "o" that is not closed. But if the person's "o" is closed and has a loop he's probably secretive, and if the person's "o" has a double loop, look out, because it indicates self deception and deceit, Bennett said.

> 'By looking at one page of handwriting I can tell whether a person's honest, a liar, emotional, reserved, quiet, stingy, greedy, sarcastic, an alcoholic, on dope, nervous or guilty,' declares Warren Bennet, a semi-retired lawyer and teacher of graphology, or handwriting analysis.

According to the graphologist's emotional chart, the farther right a person's handwriting is slanted, the more extroverted he is. Conversely, the farther left a person's handwriting is slanted the more introverted he is.

Also, if a person's writing tends to run uphill, it indicates he's optimistic while if it runs downhill, pessimism is present, Bennett explained.

In addition, the amount of pressure a person applies when writing can provide insights. Very slight pressure is likely to be used by someone who doesn't let matters upset him too much while heavy pressure on the pen will likely be used by a person with deep emotions, he said.

Bennett, who has studied graphology for more than 30 years, has plenty of other examples. For instance, he believes the way an individual crosses a "t" is revealing. If he crosses it above the stem of the "t," the person is a daydreamer. A weak cross stroke of the "t" might indicate a weak-willed person while someone who consistently doesn't bother to cross his "t" is a procrastinator.

The person who dots his "i" with a tiny circle instead of a dot is vulnerable to fads, Bennett said, because the person saw someone else do it once and decided to copy it.

And, there's more to the seemingly insignificant "y" than most of us believe, he said. Someone who writes his "y" with an open stem at the bottom is probably an unimaginative individual who is always talking about past experiences but never benefits from them.

A talkative person also is likely to keep letters such as "a," "o," "d" and "g" open, indicating they like to be frank and have nothing to hide.

Bennett, who teaches an MSU Continuing Education course on the subject, became interested in handwriting analysis when he was studying psychology at the University of Houston about 30 years ago. "After 24 hours of psychology I decided I didn't want any more because I couldn't agree with it," he said.

He continued his graphology studies with the International Grapho Analysis Society in Springfield, Mo., and today, Bennett is a firm believer in graphoanalysis.

"It's better, quicker and easier to test a person's temperament and ability through handwriting analysis than by having them put a bunch of blocks together," he said, taking a swipe at scientists who dispute the broad claims of graphology. It is generally agreed by all, however, that handwriting analysis can detect signs of old age, tension and illness in an individual.

Bennett finds himself doing a lot of work for law enforcement agencies confronted with forgery cases.

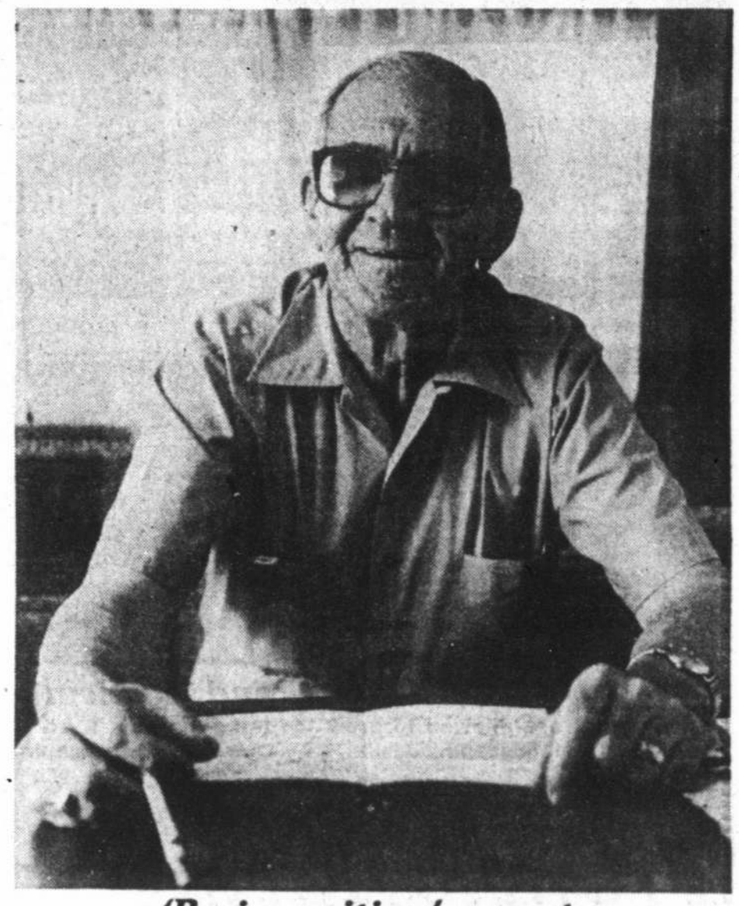
"They're all amateurs around here," Bennett said of the forgery racket. "But there's a lot of it. If you take the whole United States, it's a hell of a big business."

In the Wichita Falls area, Bennett's opinion is asked in forgery cases involving checks, deeds, money orders and wills.

In a past court case in San Antonio, a woman was charged with forging her mother's name to a property deed.

"She swore up and down she didn't do it, but there was one defect. There were broken upper loops in her 'l,' 'k' and 'h,'" he said, explaining that such things as a heart condition or a paralyzed lower limb affects the way a person writes.

"I detected she had had heart trouble and come to find out she had just got out of the hospital," he said.



'Brain writing' expert

Graphologist Warren Bennet prefers to call handwriting 'brain writing' because brain impulses control the hand's movement.

Campus disturbance a developing trend?

By RICK HAMPSON
Associated Press Writer

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — "Even up until around 11 o'clock it was quiet, and then, Boom!, they started pouring in...I couldn't believe the number of lacerations we had to handle that night."

An Army medic recalling Vietnam? No, just University of Massachusetts Health Center orderly Michael Hart talking about a Saturday night on campus.

University Police Chief Robert Joyce had heard there was a new wave of rowdiness on American campuses; it did not prepare him for what happened on one weekend last fall.

In the space of 57 hours his men answered more than 180 emergency calls and arrested 29 people — most of them drunk — on charges ranging from larceny and assault to disturbing the peace.

After the action died down it was estimated the vandals had cost the university and the people who pay its bills $15,000, one-tenth of the campus vandalism tab for all last year.

"The problem is everywhere," reported UMass-Amherst Chancellor Randolph Bromery after more than a dozen telephone conversations with colleagues around the nation.

Who is to blame?

Everyone accuses "a small minority of students," and some also point to lax discipline, outsiders and alcohol.

Whatever the cause, random violence — a problem big-city high schools have been dealing with for years — has suddenly moved onto some of the nation's better quads and greens.

● In North Adams, a mill community in the Berkshires of Massachusetts, police describe state college dormitories and student apartments as "animal houses." Student-police tension peaked when a fake land mine was tossed at a police cruiser, causing the officer to crack up his squad car.

● About 500 students gathered at the University of Nebraska one night and began heaving things, such as a vending machine, into a bonfire. Police arrived and fighting broke out; 17 persons were arrested.

● The Dartmouth College faculty has asked for the closing of campus fraternities, saying they cause alcoholism and misbehavior.

"The '60s saw the death of the doctrine whereby colleges acted in loco parentis, in place of and with the authority of parents. Nothing has arisen in the '70s to take its place."

Also, some schools are getting more resident students from welfare or working-class neighborhoods with high crime rates and racial tensions, and, in some cases, Brown said, "violence came with them."

Trouble is not limited to those schools, however. At Wellesley College, a prestigious institution for women outside Boston, a student dance at Tower Court residence hall was ended early one night last fall by a fist fight.

Scare stories are rebutted by students, parents and administrators who claim reports of campus violence are overblown.

Some administrators call drinking the major problem. "Alcohol is the real drug of abuse today," said UMass Dean of Students William Field, whose campus has 24,000 students.

Weekend horticulturist

Shrubs that are allowed to grow too tall detract from a landscaping design, says Dewayne Byrd who devotes his weekends to his landscaping hobby.

Weekend horticulturist

From printing to planting

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. - - The appearance of a beautiful house can be ruined by poor landscaping, says weekend horticulturist Dewayne Byrd, who helps homeowners avoid the pitfalls of random planting.

Byrd spends his weekdays working with printing presses. But on weekends he turns from printing to planting and pruning. His landscaping hobby developed several years ago when he decided to use his G. I. Bill benefits to obtain a horticulture degree from a technical institute.

"I studied horticulture because I've always enjoyed working outdoors," says Byrd. "And I get a lot of satisfaction out of landscaping, because I feel like I'm creating something — landscaping is nothing but imagination."

Byrd is quick to point out, however, that imaginative landscaping requires careful planning. "When I'm landscaping someone's home, I often spend two weeks just drawing plans for the design. The outside appearance of your home is important because it gives people an impression of what the inside looks like," he explains.

"Before deciding on a landscaping design, take a good look at the house from the outside," he continues. "A house should look balanced. If the ground around the house has a high and a low side, tall plants should be put on the low side and shorter shrubs should be planted on the high side."

Byrd also recommends that anyone preparing to landscape find out what young plants will look like after they have matured.

"You should learn something about different types of plants, and what they will do after you buy them from a nursery. Burford Holly grows very fast, so it should be planted where there's plenty of growing room."

Cutting corners when purchasing plants is asking for trouble, Byrd continues. "A lot of people waste money buying 'dollar azaleas' at dime stores. Those plants are usually only a year old, and the homeowner often ends up losing them. But if you buy a more expensive three-year-old azalea from a nursery, the plant already has a good root system and a better chance of living."

Byrd also warns against planting a small shrub, such as an azalea, very near larger shrubs. "An azalea will be smothered if it's planted too close to bigger shrubs, like Burford Holly or a camellia. The larger plants will block sunlight from the smaller plants, and take too many nutrients out of the soil."

Proper care of plants is also essential to a nice- loking home, adds Byrd.

"Shrubs and trees should be pruned while they are dormant. You prune while the sap is down so you won't injure the tree. And learn something about how to prune different types of shrubs — the proper methods vary from plant to plant. For example, you prune a rhododendron after it's through blooming, by pinching off the dead blossoms.

"When a piece of shrubbery reaches the height you want, prune it then — don't let it get taller than you intended or it will take away from the design you created. For example don't let a shrub in front of a low window get taller than the window sill," notes Byrd.

"Feed plants after they bloom, not before. Otherwise you will force them into early blooming, and frost may get them. Water Water plants in the early morning or after the sun goes down. If you throw water on plants during the hottest part of the day, the sun may scorch them."

A nice-looking lawn is another important element of a well-groomed home, Byrd continues.

"If you haven't limed your lawn in three years, it's time to do it. Liming neutralizes the acidity of the soil, and causes the grass to grow greener and healthier. Fertilizing should be done around April, after the ground has had a chance to dry out from winter snows.

Landscaping without planning can cost money, concludes Byrd. "Some people who aren't familiar with plants do their own landscaping and later realize it needs to be re-done. Starting over involves moving plants, disposing of some and buying new ones — which can get expensive."

Ann Landers Says

Bosses also have some problems

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: In response to your "Prayer for Secretaries," how about printing this one — from a boss?:

"Dear Lord, help me to be a patient man. Let me be calm when my secretary comes in late and tells me her third grandmother died and she had to go to the funeral. Help me to remain cool when I see she has typed the carbon copies of six letters on the back of the originals.

"Help me to not lose my temper when the annual report didn't get done because the typewriter broke down and she didn't want to break a nail or get her hands dirty."

What I'm trying to make clear is that there is something to be said on both sides. I'm a 26-year-old liberal male who believes in ERA. I like my secretaries, but I must put up with less than perfection as does every boss I know. So far I haven't met any perfect bosses or any perfect secretaries, so let's all try to be a little bit tolerant. — B.J.H. In Bakersfield

Dear Baker: Amen, Brother.

Dear Ann: What a nice birthday present I received in your column recently. I had a burning question answered!

The word "special" when used to describe the mentally retarded and handicapped has always irritated me. I could never figure out why. That letter from a young man (a self-described . slow learner) said, "Retarded people would prefer to be thought of as just human beings — not special." He is SO right. I'd call him a sharp learner, even though he may be a little slow. He put into words what I could not.

It is nice when an attempt is made to "upgrade" the person who is deficient in one area or another, but calling him "special" only puts a spotlight on him and he doesn't want it. The true meaning of the word "special" is "something extra," and we have a hard enough time making it when people expect us to be average. How interesting that it took a "slow learner" to teach me. — No Name In St. Cloud, Minn.

Dear No Name: At the risk of incurring the wrath of readers who like the word "special" to describe the handicapped, I agree with you.

Dear Ann Landers: Please print this letter to my doctor.

Dear Doctor: When I bring my gray hair, false teeth, sagging breasts, sick stomach, slipped disc, arthritic knees, varicose veins, and fallen arches to your office, my self-esteem is so low I could trip on it. I would be a lot more comfortable if you all called me by my married name.

It heightens my self-esteem to be called "Mrs. Hollanpfeiffer." When you call me "Dorcas," as I stand there in a cotton gown open at the back from neck to floor, I am a half- clad nobody, stripped of identity. I don't tthink you should add to the indignity.

I wonder if this "Dorcas" business is designed to downgrade me. Do you want me to start addressing your nurses and technicians as "Ma'am"? I really don't want to. I have a strong urge to greet you with "Hi, Timmy," at next Thursday's appointment. — D.H.

Dear D.H.: Speak up, woman. Tell the doctor you don't want him to call you by your first name. It's as simple as that. My guess is he's tryinng to make you feel comfortable. He'll never know your true feelings unless you tell him!

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers' guide to "Necking and Petting — What Are the Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers, P. O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Carson furious, may quit 'Tonight Show'

By GARY DEEB
Chi. Trib.-N.Y. News

A creeping terror is stalking the halls at NBC these days. Top executives of that network are suffering from lockjaw, and those who CAN talk are stuttering a lot. The plague is especially severe at NBC's West Coast operation in beautiful downtown Burbank.

No, the trouble has nothing to do with "Supertrain" or "Mrs. Columbo" or any of the dozen other weekly stupidities that have dragged NBC down to a richly deserved basement position in the prime-time television audience ratings. It bears no relation to the recent 20 percent drop in NBC profits. And it isn't even connected to that internal scandal in which several NBC executives apparently embezzled more than $1 million from the company.

Ironically, the problem lies with the single commodity that continues to bring a barrelful of honor, distinction and cold, hard cash to NBC. That's right — it's Johnny Carson.

The king of late-night television is angry at NBC bossman Fred Silverman, and if the bitterness between the two men doesn't end soon, this column has learned that there's a good chance Carson might quit "The Tonight Show" in less than a year.

Amazingly, the NBC family feud comes on the first anniversary of the signing of Johnny's "dream contract" with NBC.

It happened last spring. After 16 years as TV's most-watched late-night personality, Carson got his just deserts: A fabulous deal that pays him $3 million to $4 million annually, allows him 15 weeks of vacation each year, and gives him a precedent-shattering three-day work week (except for some four-day weeks during the important February, May and November audience-measurement periods).

Johnny's grin was wider than ever. He also was funnier than ever, seemingly transferring his personal joy into his on-camera self. Even considering his many vacations and off-days, Carson remains a national treasure, the modern epitome of great American comedy.

But things recently have taken a downturn for Carson.

Although he almost invariably still ranks No. 1 in attracting viewers every time he appears on "The Tonight Show," the program's audience ratings are painfully low whenever he's gone. Part of the reason, of course, is that the likes of John Davidson and David Brenner are used too frequently as substitutes.

On non-Carson nights, "The Tonight Show" almost always runs second to the reruns on "The CBS Late Movie." The situation has become so serious that even on a year-round basis, the CBS repeat package is averaging just a shade fewer viewers than "Tonight."

"We've been beating 'Tonight' on Mondays and Tuesdays when the guest hosts are on," said Herman Keld, the CBS vice president for late-night programming. "And on Thursdays we beat Johnny himself with 'M-A-S-H'. . . The Carson format appears to be played out. With shows like 'Saturday Night Live' on the air, Carson looks a bit like 'Captain Kangaroo.'"

Keld's enthusiasm is nice, but considerably overblown. Anybody who calls Carson a relic of the past is kidding himself. The man still has terrific audience appeal; it's just that he isn't on the air as often as a few years ago.

That's where NBC president Silverman comes in. Since the first of the year, Freddie has been trying to pressure Carson into taking less vacation and expanding his work week to four days. Nobody can fault Silverman for desiring that, but his METHODS are burning Johnny up.

Besides making discreet suggestions of this nature to Johnny himself and to "Tonight Show" producer Fred deCordova, Silverman has been publicly mouthing off on the subject. He also has presided over some very strategic leaks to the press.

In a recent interview in Newsweek magazine, Silverman took note of Carson's absences from "The Tonight Show." He stated: ". . .I also hope there will come a moment in time when (Carson) will say to himself, 'I love (the show) and I'm going to do a little bit more.' He's a very competitive and professional guy. I don't think he must enjoy reading that the thing is slipping."

According to close associates, Carson saw that quote and hit the ceiling. He accused Silverman of negotiating through the press.

About that same time, other NBC officials systematically — and anonymously — leaked to newspapers the educated guess that Carson soon would relent and go back to a four-day workweek. That doubly infuriated Johnny, and he immediately ordered his comedy writers to step up their production of anti-NBC gags for his monologue.

The possibility of Carson walking out in anger now looms so large that NBC has slapped a muzzle on all of its employees. Nobody is allowed to comment on the Carson situation, and all press inquiries to "Tonight Show" producer deCordova are being switched to official NBC spokesmen.

"We don't believe in adding fuel to a fire that doesn't exist," an NBC vice president explained. "Johnny Carson is a tremendous talent — and NBC is well aware of that talent. Other than that, we have no comment."

Such corporate blandness, however, can't cover up the fact that Carson is spitting bullets and NBC is quaking in its boots awaiting his next move.

As for network chief Silverman, he's winding up a vacation in Hawaii and is expected to tackle the Carson affair when he returns to work next week. If he's smart, he'll practice his bowing and scraping.

Sheriff agrees to turn self in MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — The sheriff of Addison County, Paul Nunson, 47, has agreed to turn himself in to authorities in Germantown, N.Y., this week for arraignment on grand larceny charges resulting from a $4,776 bad check, according to Columbia County District Attorney Charles Inman. Inman said a lawyer for Munson assured him Monday that the sheriff would appear in Justice Court in Germantown Wednesday.

New York State Police have accused Munson of issuing the bad check last October to pay for tractor parts from a New York company — and tried repeatedly to get Munson to pay the company, before a warrant was issued last week for his arrest.

'China Syndrome' realistic

By MARTHA STEIMEL
Arts Editor

Without the Three Mile Island nuclear accident, "The China Syndrome" would have been a gripping thriller.

With the current news focus on a crippled nuclear reactor, "The China Syndrome" is totally absorbing and uncomfortably realistic.

In the movie, an attractive television news reporter (Jane Fonda) and her cameraman (Michael Douglas) are by pure chance on the scene when a nuclear accident occurs in a California plant. They're there doing a routine series on energy sources.

They see and film Jack Lemmon, the shift boss, as he and his crew find a disfunctioning water level recording device in their mammoth control room; their machines tell them of stuck valves and radiation leaks. It takes less than three minutes for all this frightening activity to take place. It's primly and dispassionately recorded by the computer that tells the engineers what's going on.

Kimberly Wells (Miss Fonda) sees this story as her chance to break away from doing features on zoo inhabitants and veterinarians who make house calls on fish. She wants to do hard news, to get away from the soft features her good looks have trapped her into doing.

Richard Adams (Douglas) is against nuclear power plants. The accident he films sets him off on a dangerous search for someone who is willing to interpret the meaning of the activity he has filmed.

JANE FONDA

Kimberly's station manager (Peter Donat) has squelched the airing of the story; the power company's public relations man (James Hampton) has explanations ready for the media — not a cover-up exactly but certainly not including the fear showing on his face when he felt the building tremble.

Jack Godell (Lemmon) and a plant engineer (Wilford Brimley) testify in an exhaustive investigation. After he is questioned, Lemmon does some investigating of his own and finds faked X-rays of welds on pumps, pumps that are overststrained when the plant runs at full power.

When Kimberly and Richard convince Godell he must let them tell of his discovery, he is afraid to do so overtly; his life has been indirectly threatened by the contractor whose signature is on the bogus X-rays. The contact by Richard's assistant (Daniel Valdez) is broken when an accident seriously injures the courier.

"The China Syndrome" is about power — all kinds of power. There is the power generated by a nuclear reactor; there is the power wielded by the corporate giants; there is the power of the press and the power of integrity in an individual.

The three central characters — Kimberly, Godell and Richard — have this kind of power, each finding it in different ways.

All the giant turbines, the bowels of this nuclear plant and its nerve center, seem totally authentic. The premise that an accident could happen, that human error could cause it and that powerful forces could minimize the dangers, have been woven into an exciting movie.

James Bridges is the director, working from a story he created with Mike Gray and T. S. Cook. Douglas is producer as well as handling a pivotal role in the movie.

The climax is one that you'll probably remember long after you see the movie. It is a stunner.

The China syndrome of the title is the point at which the core of the reactor becomes hot enough to melt the earth beneath it , as if it were reaching for China.

"The China Syndrome" is at Parker Square Cinema and is rated PG.

Rogers downplays his own singing

By JACK HURST
Chi. Trib.-N.Y. News

"I've never really considered myself a good singer," says Kenny Rogers, the man who has made huge pop-country hits of "Lucille," "The Gambler" and several other songs. "I've always felt I had a very commercial voice, but most importantly I can pick hit songs. I like songs that have a hook to 'em, that no matter how badly you sing 'em, you feel like you're singing 'em good. 'The Gambler' is that way, and 'Lucille' is that way. 'Lucille' is a sing-along, this decade's 'On Top of Old Smoky.' It doesn't require a lot of vocal dexterity." If Rogers' assessment of these hits seems to minimize his own role in them, that is in keeping with an observation he makes about himself: Egotism is not one of my problems."

ROGERS

On the Record: Johnny Cash, the Carter Sisters and Jan Howard are reported to be working on a two-volume gospel album to be released this fall. Cash himself is producing the sessions, which are being held at Jack Clement Studios in Nashville. . .The album recorded last fall by Roy Clark and blues artist Clarence (Gatemouth) Brown will be released this spring by ABC Records. . .Song Title of the Week: "When My Working Girl Comes Home (And Works On Me)," written by C. Belew and V. Givens.

Hank Williams Jr. is a father again. His wife Becky gave birth to Hilary June, a 7-pound 9-ounce girl on Feb. 26. Hank and two of his closest friends — manager J. R. Smith and performer Merle Kilgore — waited out the event together at a Cullman, Ala., hospital for almost 19 hours. Soon afterward, Williams resumed touring after a layoff of several months. His new single, "To Love Somebody" (Warner Bros.), was released two days after his daughter's birth.

On the Road: The Oak Ridge Boys and Eddie Rabbitt recently broke the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo's Wednesday night attendance record, drawing 40,456 persons. The previous record had been set by Olivia Newton-John. . .The Stamps, the onetime gospel group that parlayed its background work for Elvis Presley into a career with wider appeal, recently played the famous Palamino Club in North Hollywood, Calif., for the first time.

Being wife to a record producer gave Susie Allanson, the young Californian who's had six country hits in a row, some advantages over her competition. Husband Ray Ruff, who's a national promotion executive for Elektra — the label for which Allanson records — says he and she worked together in a recording studio six hours a day seven days a week for two years, letting Allanson sing along with tracks Ruff had produced on other singers. "She got to practice all this time," Ruff says. "Among other artists, there's probably nobody with the opportunity to find themselves in the studio. Usually an artist comes in to do an album, does 10 sides, then has to hit the road again."

Et Cetera: Two acts on little Ovation Records in Chicago have been nominated for honors on the "Music City News Cover Awards Show" to be televised June 4 from the stage of Nashville's Grand Ole Opry House. The Ovation nominees are the Kendalls for duet of the year and best album ("Old Fashioned Love"), and Joe Sun for most promising male artist of the year. . .As of a few weeks ago, "Jamboree U.S.A." in Wheeling, W. Va., is carried by the Mutual Radio Network to more than 200 radio stations — including ones in Los Angeles, Washington, Detroit, Atlanta and Houston.

July 14-15 at Brush Run Park in St. Clairsville, Ohio, will feature 17 country music names. They include Moe Bandy, Bobby Bare, Johnny Cash, June Carter Cash, Billy (Crash) Craddock, Dave and Sugar, Johnny Duncan, Janie Fricke, Crystal Gayle, Tom T. Hall, Beverly Heckel, Sonny James, the Kendalls, Ronnie Milsap, Eddie Rabbitt, Margo Smith, and Kelly Warren. Touted as a family festival, the weekend event offers tickets at $25 per person, with children under 12 admitted free.

Album Review of the Week: The Kendalls, who rose from nowhere two years ago to become one of their field's biggest record-sellers, possess one of country music's most distinctive sounds. Jeannie Kendall's Partonesque soprano and her father Royce's soft, high harmony are most recently showcased in "Just Like Real People" (Ovation), probably their best album to date. Led by the hit single "I Had a Lovely Time" and the fine title cut, it is a fine mixture of traditional and contemporary country sounds, not just the "cheating songs" that filled their first two albums.

Streisand teaming with Sinatra?

By LIZ SMITH
Chi. Trib.-N.Y. News

"It isn't what you know or who you know, either, but WHAT you know about WHO you know," to paraphrase a line from Peter De Vries.

Not only are the Barbra Streisand-Frank Sinatra brain trusts discussing the idea of a super-duper tandem TV special, but Barbra is becoming "superstar" conscious. There have already been preliminary talks for a Bee Gee-Streisand record album, and Barbra has had confabs with the hot, hot, hot gee whizzes!

STREISAND

Incidentally, it wouldn't be the first time someone thought that teaming Streisand and Sinatra is a good idea. In his new biography of the composer Jule Styne, author Theodore Taylor writes that Styne thought Sinatra would be great playing Nicky Arnstein in the film version of "Funny Girl." Sinatra was interested, but producer Ray Stark nixed the project saying that the movie needed "a big, attractive man; someone with Cary Grant class." So what we got was Omar Sharif.

CHECKING IT OUT: Many press agents called over last weekend to report that new tennis champ, 22-year-old Martina Navratilova, was taking her grandmother to this and that New York restaurant after winning the Avon Tennis Championship at a packed Madison Square Garden.

Amused that Martina might be in so many places at one time, this column decided to find where she'd really gone. It turned out to be the Czech Pavillon on East 58th Street, where Martina says the food is the closest thing to "Prague home cooking."

Grandmother Andela Subertova was supposed to do a walk-on for Martina's favorite TV show, "All My Children," but the 84-year-old's visa was expiring and she had to leave for Prague. (Martina has not seen her parents since defecting to the West four years ago.)

Martina was cool, even though she'd had her favorite tennis racquet stolen only hours before the crucial contest. Asked about her world competition, she made this statement: "Tracy Austin is really all the competition I have at the moment!" (So where does this leave Chris Evert?)

TENNIS ANYONE? A P. S. on the above champs might be in order here. So far this year, in less than three months, Martina Navratilova has earned $271,000, while her 16-year-old competition, Tracy Austin, has earned $173,000 in the last six months as a professional.

BRONZE AGE: Word has been around that ABC's "20/20" canceled the Tom Hoving segment on the Getty bronze because of legal threats from persons hysterical at being linked to the idea of collusion in sneaking the art work out of Italy.

This really is not true. The documentary will be seen either on April 24 or May 31. The delay in airing this controversial material has been due to revamping of the "2020" format, with new producers Al Ittleson, Dennis Sullivan and Karen Lerner all busting their britches to make this show into formidable competition for "60 Minutes." They go weekly after the May 31 show.

If you want to read the fascinating details about the most expensive statue in the world, try the Saturday Review's story "Smuggled!" in the March 31 issue. It will make a lot of people very nervous.

THE BIONIC WOMAN shops Beverly Hills! That's how the subtitle could go when they bring Judith Krantz's best-seller "Scruples" to fruition as a six-hour TV mini-series. Originally, Ann Archer had the role, but Lindsay Wagner is going to play the sexy, rich, specialty actress from "Paradise Alley" and "The Pirate" has moved on to co-star with John Ritter in "Captain Avenger."

ENDQUOTE: Talk about kissing and telling, Marlon Brando's ex-wife Anna Kashfi really out-does herself in the April issue of Penthouse. She writes: "His (Brando's) seduction technique showed all the subtlety of a guillotine.

Stock market recoups losses, DJI up 13.08

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rallied sharply Tuesday, recouping its losses of the last two sessions with blue-chip and glamor issues leading the way.

Analysts said word from federal officials that the danger was significantly diminished of an explosion at the disabled nuclear power plant near Harrisburg, Pa., helped inspire the advance.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 11.52 in the two previous sessions, rebounded 13.08 to 868.33.

New York Stock Exchange volume stepped up to 33.53 million shares from 28.99 million Monday.

Standout gainers among the blue chips and glamors included International Business Machines, up 5⅜ at 319½ as of the 4 p.m. close in New York; Boeing, ahead 2¼ at 67; Du Pont, up 2⅝ at 141⅞, and Eastman Kodak, 2¼ higher at 66.

Analysts noted that fears of more bad news from the Three Mile Island plant, where an accident occurred last week, had begun to abate during Monday's session.

They said the market also benefited from continued strength in the dollar in foreign exchange, and anticipation of an energy message from President Carter later this week.

Carter is expected to call, among other things, for steps to decontrol domestic oil prices.

Among leading oil issues, Texaco gained ¾ to 26⅛; Exxon ⅝ to 53¼, and Atlantic Richfield 1⅛ to 62⅝.

General Public Utilities, which owns the Three Mile Island power plant, fell 1⅝ to 14⅝ on turnover of close to 925,000 shares, trading for the first time since last Friday morning.

But some of the other nuclear-industry stocks that had sold off sharply in recent sessions turned upward. Kerr-McGee gained 1¾ to 50⅝ and Westinghouse Electric rose ¾ to 19.

Macmillan Inc. was up 1⅝ at 16⅞. The publishing company hired the investment banking firm of Lehman Brothers, Kuhn Loeb to advise it about merger possibilities.

Officials fear cause of fire may remain unknown

FARMINGTON, Mo. (AP) — The Wayside Inn boarding house was so ravaged by a blaze that killed 25 of its residents that state fire officials said Tuesday they may never find the fire's cause.

Only the outer walls of the building — made of granite, stone, concrete block and brick — remained standing after the fire, whipped by high winds, roared through the structure and caused the roof to collapse on those residents trapped inside.

"We may never know," said Larry Linnemeyer, an investigator for the state fire marshal's office, as he worked at the site Tuesday.

The fire was believed to have started in the kitchen area at the rear of the building.

Twelve of the home's 37 residents and the lone attendant on duty, Dorothy East, 56, escaped or were rescued.

In Jefferson City, Gov. Joseph Teasdale criticized the operators of the home, saying more lives would have been saved if more than one attendant had been on hand to help rescue residents.

"Reports from my director of social services, the fire marshal, the Highway Patrol and others from the scene indicate there were clearly inadequate personnel available to assist the people from the Wayside Inn to a place of safety," Teasdale told a news conference Tuesday.

The governor said the fire should help get legislative approval for more home inspectors and stronger regulation of nursing homes and boarding homes.

Joseph Straughan, co-owner of the home with his brother Thomas, said he had tried to make the home as safe as possible, having installed the fire alarm and heat sensors.

Deputy sheriff John Casteel told the Farmington Evening Press Tuesday that the attendant, Mrs. East, who was hospitalized for shock and smoke inhalation, had told him she was able to lead six or seven of the home's residents to safety after a smoke detector wakened her.

"She got all she believed she could get," Casteel said. "There was just no way to get any more out."

State inspectors who had visited the home recently had found it sound, clean and well kept. "It was better than most," said state Director of Social Services David Freeman.

Officials said all the home's residents, some as young as 25, were ambulatory and were able to take care of themselves. Among the residents were 13 out-patients from the Farmington State Hospital, several veterans from St. Louis-area hospitals and a number of elderly persons.

Eight of the state hospital patients were killed in the blaze.

Meanwhile, in Connellsville, Pa., where another boarding house fire took nine lives Sunday, Mayor James K. Wagner asked for reports from the city health officer, building inspector and fire department on how to prevent another such fire.

A state fire marshal had blamed the blaze on electrical circuits overloaded by the use of too many televisions and radios at the same time.

And in Dayton, Ohio, where 75 persons — many of them prisoners — were treated at hospitals after a fire at the Dayton Safety Building, acting fire chief Frank Krug said fire inspectors had recommended earlier in the year that the building's evacuation plan be updated.

Play ball!

1979 baseball season opens today

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Hoping to duplicate last year's success story when a record of more than 40 million fans jammed ball parks in the United States and Canada, major league baseball opens its 1979 season Wednesday.

There is one game scheduled in each league, with more than 52,000 fans expected at Riverfront Stadium in Cincinnati to watch the Reds face the San Francisco Giants in the National League opener and 35,000 anticipated in Seattle's Kingdome for the Mariners' American League opener against the California Angels.

Tom Seaver will open for the Reds against the Giants' Vida Blue in a duel of two of the NL's top pitchers. Seaver posted a 16-14 record with a 2.87 earned run average for the Reds last season while Blue was 18-10 for the Giants with a 2.79 ERA in 1978.

For the Reds, it will be the start of a new era with John McNamara replacing popular Sparky Anderson as manager of the team and Pete Rose, a Cincinnati star for 16 seasons, moving on to Philadelphia via the free-agent route.

Both Cincinnati and San Francisco hope to overhaul the Los Angeles Dodgers, who have captured two straight National League pennants under Manager Tom Lasorda. No NL manager has ever won pennants in each of his first three seasons and Lasorda will be trying to accomplish that feat this year.

The Dodgers will raise the NL flag Thursday in Los Angeles with either Don Sutton or Burt Hooton pitching against Gaylord Perry, San Diego's Cy Young Award winner last season. Thursday's other NL opener finds the New York Mets at Chicago with Craig Swan, the league leader in ERA last season, facing Rick Reuschel of the Cubs.

Wednesday's slate:
SF vs. Cincinnati (NL)
Calif. vs. Seattle (AL)

Just as the Reds and Giants hope to overhaul the Dodgers in the NL West, California has the same kind of ambition in the AL West. The Angels added perennial batting champion Rod Carew over the winter and will open at Seattle with Frank Tanana, who was 18-12 with a 3.65 ERA last season. Glenn Abbott, 7-15 with a 5.28 ERA, will start for the Mariners.

Four AL openers are scheduled for Thursday, with most of the attention riveted on New York where the Yankees will raise their second straight world championship flag and then send Cy Young Award winner Ron Guidry to the mound against the Milwaukee Brewers' Mike Caldwell.

Elsewhere Thursday, Toronto will open with Jim Clancy against Dennis Leonard of Kansas City as the Royals begin pursuit of a fourth straight AL West crown. Texas will use Steve Comer in Detroit against Dave Rozema of the Tigers, and Dennis Eckersley pitches for Boston against Cleveland's Rick Wise.

By Friday, weather permitting, all 26 teams will be in action.

Rider 'cool' in topping Denton, 4-2

By TROY BRYANT
Staff Sports Writer

The Rider Raiders spent two hours at the park Tuesday and despite 45-degree temperatures, mist and a stiff North wind, you could say the time was well spent.

The Raiders shook off last week's 10-0 loss at the hands of Lawton and took a 4-2 win over Denton in both teams' district 6-AAAA openers and Kiwanis Park.

Bobby Whiteley pitched a three-hitter in picking up his third win against two losses and shortstop Joel Talley kept runners off the bases on several occasions with his outstanding fielding the throwing. Center fielder Tommy Lovett, left fielder Britt Anderson, and second baseman John Little and right fielder Steve Dotson each got hits off Bronco starter and loser Terry Nolan.

"We came through with the hits when we needed them," Rider Coach Gary Guffey said. "Our boys just decided to forget that loss to Lawton and play ball."

The win upped Rider's record to 5-6 for the season and and 1-0 in district play while Denton dropped to 6-3 on the season and 0-1 in district.

The game was originally scheduled to be played in Denton, but a couple of inches of water standing on the field there forced the change of sites. The Raiders couldn't play at Hoskins Field because Wichita Falls was busy with its district opener there, followed by Midwestern State's double-header.

Denton opened the scoring in the third after stranded a runner in the first on a base hit. First baseman Keith Rainey walked to lead off the third, followed by catcher Mitchell Boliver's attempted sacrifice which left all hands safe after a catching error by Rider first baseman Rance Hogue. Whiteley got a strikeout, and a sacrifice grounder moved the runners up to second and third. Whiteley intentionally walked Nolan, and right fielder Don Beck singled in a pair of runs.

Rider bounced right back with three runs in the bottom of the third. With one out, designated hitter Jeff Murlette reached base on a fielders' choice, erasing Dotson who had singled. With two out, Lovett singled to right field, followed by Anderson's base hit which scored Murlette. Whiteley knocked a fly ball to right field which was mishandled, allowing Lovett to score. Anderson scored when a wild pitch rolled under the back stop and out of play.

Rider scored again in the bottom of the sixth when Little singled, moved to third on a wild pitch, went home on a double steal.

Denton threatened in the seventh inning as Rainey walked ahead of Boliver's single. Rainey was erased on third baseman Mike West's fielders' choice and Boliver stole third and West went to second on a double steal with two out. Designated hitter Bowie Chavez grounded out to end the threat and the game.

Rider plays Lewisville at Hoskins Field Friday at 4 p.m. in another 6-AAAA game.

"We're not trying to make the team we just wanted to see what it was like," said Miss Dow.

Birds rap Rangers, 6-2

MIAMI (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles came up with five runs in the seventh inning Tuesday, three on Billy Smith's home run, to defeat the Texas Rangers, 6-2, in a exhibition baseball game.

Smith connected off Texas relief pitcher Sparkey Lyle with two aboard following run-scoring singles by Mark Belanger and Ken Singleton.

Smith and Rick Dempsey collected three hits apiece to pace Baltimore's 12-hit attack.

The Rangers scored their only runs in the first inning against Mike Flanagan on consecutive doubles by Bill Sample, Al Oliver and Richie Zisk. Flanagan went the first five innings, before giving way to Tippy Martinez and Don Stanhouse.

Martinez was credited with the victory.

The Orioles are 9-15 with one game remaining Wednesday. Texas is 14-11-1.

The Rangers open their regular season Thursday when they travel to Detroit to play the Tigers. Steve Comer, 11-5 last year, is slated to start for Texas, while the Tigers plan on using Milt Wilcox (13-12).

WHO DO YOU CALL WHEN YOU NEED A FAST HIRED GUN?

The 'King' takes it on the chin

Coyotes get shelled by Carrollton Turner, 12-0

By TROY BRYANT
Staff Sports Writer

It's much too early to say "the King is dead, long live the King," but when the Carrollton Turner Lions left Hoskins Field Tuesday, the King wasn't feeling so good.

The Lions racked the defending 6-AAAA champion Coyotes for 10 hits, taking a 12-0 victory in a game which was called after five innings due to the 10-run rule.

The Coyotes were handcuffed by Lion pitcher Keith Wood, who struck out seven and allowed only one hit.

"We hadn't played in a week," Wichita Falls Coach Ronnie Faulkner said. "We've had five games canceled this year and that really hurts a young and inexperienced team like us. Tonight it just showed up."

The win upped the Lions' record to 1-0 in district and 5-6-1 overall while the Coyotes dropped to 0-1 in district and 6-5 on the season.

After Pack starter and loser Kevin Gandy, 2-1, set Turner down in order in the top of the first, Pack second baseman David O'Neil led off the bottom of the first with a bunt single which turned out to be the only hit yielded by Wood.

The Coyotes' only serious threat came in that inning as he stole second and moved to third on center fielder Dwain Coffey's ground out. Third baseman Wes McKenzie grounded to first baseman to end the threat.

In the second inning, Turner wasted no time in getting to Gandy. Third baseman Jay Bluthardt walked, left fielder Mike Wood reached on McKenzie's throwing error and right fielder David Evans was intentionally walked to load the bases with nobody out.

Peter Diffin singled, bringing in Bluthardt, Keith Wood struck out and first baseman John Machin singled in another run. Designated hitter Mike Merolla sacrificed home another run and center fielder Greg Hogue hit a line drive to left field which was mishandled by Tom Langley, allowing two more runs to score before shortstop Clinton Welch popped up to catcher Mickey Carroll to end the inning.

The Coyotes' Brett Hessing was safe on an error in the second inning and moved to second on a passed ball, but was stranded there when Wood struck out two Coyote batters.

The Lions added three runs in the third inning as Mike Wood singled, Evans doubled in Wood, Diffin singled home Evans, and Diffin scored on a ground out.

Hogue tripled to lead off the fourth and was brought home by Welch's single. Welch stole second, moved to third on a wild pitch and scored when he was caught off third base and the attempted run-down ended in a collision at home plate.

Turner's final two runs came in the fifth when Diffin was hit by reliever Joe Guthrie's pitch and scored on Machin's double. Hogue singled home Machin.

In the Coyotes' bid to keep the game from ending in the fifth inning, Wood struck out the first two batters and a ground-out ended the game.

The Coyotes continue district play Friday in Carrollton as they play Newman Smith at 4 p.m.

Tribe loses 8-6

North Texas State stuns Indians

Although their program is only a club sport, North Texas State University's baseball crew always finds a way to give the Midwestern State University Indians a fit, and Tuesday night at Hoskins Field was no exception.

Since the Mean Green's diamond program is a club sport — a sport that is not sponsored by the school's intercollegiate athletic program — the contest and statistics will not go into the record book for the Indians.

But if they did, it would go down as an 8-6 defeat as the NTSU Mean Green tallied five times in the second inning — on just one hit — and padded the lead with three more runs in later innings to win the seven-inning contest.

Midwestern racked up six runs on seven hits, but by the time the MSU bats got rolling, the Indians were too far behind.

MSU starter Doug Lee battled control problems in the second inning and North Texas State made use of every walk the senior lefty gave them. On the strength of five walks, one error and only one hit, the Mean Green tallied five times in the second and had the bases loaded when reliever Garry Holub finally retired the side.

The Indians struck back for three runs of their own in the bottom of the inning as NTSU pitcher Mike Collins suffered a spell of wildness, walking Vince Nieswiadomy and Ricky Brown to open the inning. Nieswiadomy scored when first baseman Kevin McKinney dropped shortstop Lamon Ortega's throw on Gary Rogers' grounder, and then Brown tallied the second run on a double steal when Rogers raced to second and Brown romped home safely. Steve Moody, subbing for Guillot at second, scored the third run on a sacrifice by Steve Newell.

After the Mean Green added another run in the fourth, Midwestern trimmed it to 6-4 in the fifth on a double by Dave Connacher and a single by Danny Hagen.

North Texas State built up a four-run cushion in the seventh on extra base hits by Jerry Standridge and Rod Peterson and a wild pitch.

The Indians fought back for two more in the seventh with Brett Patty and Brown batting in runs, but the comeback fell two runs short.

Midwestern, 15-9-1 on the year, will resume Texas Athletic Conference action with a four-game weekend series against Dallas Baptist College at Hoskins Field.

Phils acquire Bird from KC

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies could have come up with the "steal" of the year Tuesday when they acquired veteran pitcher Doug Bird from the Kansas City Royals for Todd Cruz, an untested rookie shortstop.

The 6-foot, 4-inch Bird has been with the Royals six years and has posted a 49-36 record with a 3.56 ERA.

Atlanta Falcons linebacker killed

ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Falcons linebacker Andy Spiva died Tuesday of injuries suffered earlier in a automobile accident on a rain slick road in which his teammate Garth Ten Napel was seriously injured.

The 24-year-old Spiva died at 11:37 a.m. EST of massive head and chest injuries suffered in the one-car accident, said Roberta Hiscock, a spokeswoman for Northside Hospital.

Ten Napel was listed in critical but stable condition with head, chest and pelvis injuries, she said.

"It is a tragic blow," said Eddie Lebaron, general manager of the National Football League team. "We were close to Andy and he was the kind of young man who was a pleasure to be associated with."

Coach Leeman Bennett said of Spiva's death, "I am shocked. He was liked by everyone in the Falcon organization. Our prayers and thoughts are with his family."

Falcons spokesman Charlie Dayton said Spiva and Ten Napel were "good friends — they went through knee rehabilitation together.

"Last season," said Dayton, "whenever you saw one, you saw the other."

Navy to probe poaching charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has confirmed it has ordered a formal "pre-trial investigation," similar to a civilian grand jury proceeding, into allegations of lobster poaching by crewmen of the submarine rescue ship USS Petrel off Rhode Island last August.

The Navy said Cmdr. E.A. Hasselman, the Petrel's skipper at the time, and Lt. M.H. Tavares, its executive officer, were named as "parties to the investigation" and will be represented by military lawyers. No other members of the Petrel's crew of 105 officers and enlisted men were so designated after informal investigations, the Navy said.

The bidding needs some explanation. West's three diamonds was a weak jump overcall meant to show a strong six- or seven-card suit with little outside strength. North's three spades was rather light; he should have passed. East's four diamonds was intended to impede the opponents, but South judged his hand good enough to barge into slam.

Even though East-West have a cheap save in seven diamonds (they go down four tricks), they judged their defensive prospects adequate to defeat the contract.

An original heart lead by West would have defeated the contract, but he could not be blamed for going with the king of diamonds. When dummy came down, declarer did not like his chances. Aside from the unlikely occurrence of a queen-jack club doubleton, there did not seem many favorable ways to go.

Regardless, South found a way to make the contract. He ruffed the opening diamond with the king of spades and led the queen of spades to dummy, where he overtook with the ace. He happily noted the fall of the spade nine from the West hand.

Declarer ruffed another diamond in his hand with the eight of spades and led his carefully preserved five of spades to dummy's six. After ruffing another diamond, the stage was set. Declarer played ace, king and a third club.

East was end-played. He had to win with the queen. He now had the dubious choice of either playing a heart away from the king-jack into North's queen or playing a diamond and giving declarer a ruff and discard. Whichever way he went, the slam was cold.

Torborg still learning

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Indians President Gabe Paul says Jeff Torborg has made some progress as manager but whether he keeps the job "is up to him."

Paul, returning from the Indians' spring training camp in Tucson, Ariz., didn't give his manager a ringing vote of confidence, although he said he thought Torborg was "learning a lot."

"We have to be patient with him and allow for mistakes," Paul added.

He said he thought Torborg could be a little tougher in some situations, mentioning in particular the handling of pitcher Len Barker.

Barker, who was acquired from the Texas Rangers, "hasn't been made to work hard enough," Paul said. "He's not in the proper playing shape. You have to work some guys almost until they drop.

"Barker lifted weights all winter. That's a sin for a pitcher. He will loosen up, but it will take time. He hasn't thrown the ball as we know he can throw it."

The Indians' president said that to recover, Barker needs "work, work, work."

"He must do it beyond the normal pace. He has to work like Early Wynn used to after a bad night."

Paul said a manager "can't be too hard and he can't be too soft."

"Above all things he has to be fair," Paul said. "He must not allow personal feelings to affect decisions. Decisions have to be made on how the ballplayers play. This is hard, but to be successful, you have to do it."

Torborg is industrious, bright and a gentleman, he said. "We just have to see how soon Jeff reaches managerial maturity."

Paul pictured the Indians as a hustling team.

"This team will run more, hit more home runs and score more runs," he said and predicted that the Indians also will do better at the box office this year.

"How much better depends on how we go. It's up to us to give the fans what they want to see. If we do, Cleveland will react dramatically. The fans are ready..

"If we don't get it, it's because we failed to give them the product they want. If we do, they'll tear down the gates."

Anthony 2nd on list

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Earl Anthony's first Professional Bowlers Association victory of the year pushed him into second place in the 1979 PBA earnings standings this week.

Anthony, on the comeback trail since suffering a heart attack last year, won the Long Island Open at Garden City, N.Y., on Saturday, boosting his 1979 winnings to $43,340 to knock Marshall Holman out of second place and into third on the earnings list.

Mark Roth, who finished third at Garden City, continued his lock on the top earnings spot, with his winnings increasing to $51,950.

Rounding out the top 10 money winners are Dick Ritger, Tommy Hudson, Emmett Shutes, Johnny Petraglia, Carmen Salvino, Butch Soper and Ernie Schlegel.

The PBA tour moved to Windsor Locks, Conn., this week.

Chuck cost $200,000

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The cash settlement with the New England Patriots that will allow Chuck Fairbanks to become football coach at the University of Colorado is $200,000, four of the university's regents confirmed Tuesday.

The money will be paid by the Flatirons Club, a CU booster club.

Neither Patriots nor CU officials would reveal exact details of the settlement when it was announced Monday.

But CU regents Fred M. Betz and Louis F. Bein, along with two other regents who asked not to be named, confirmed Tuesday that the cash settlement figure was $200,000.

"It's a hell of a lot closer than what is being reported . . ." Betz said.

Reds, Giants sold out

CINCINNATI (AP) — All seats have been sold for Wednesday's National League opening baseball game between the Cincinnati Reds and the San Francisco Giants, Reds officials said Tuesday.

Standing room tickets were to go on sale Wednesday morning.

Seating capacity for the stadium is 51,880. The largest opening day crowd for the Reds came in 1976 when 52,949 fans watched the Reds host the Houston Astros.

The Reds have sold out all their opening day games since they moved into Riverfront Stadium in 1971.

However, it has been three or four years since they went into the day before the opening game without a sellout crowd.

The National Weather Service is forecasting occasional rain during the day with a high temperature of about 55 degrees.

Duke denies charges

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Duke football coach Shirley "Red" Wilson today denied charges that Blue Devil athletic officials reneged on an offer of a scholarship to a high school player in Clinton.

Wilson issued a statement in response to reports by the Durham Morning Herald Sunday that Duke had offered a scholarship to Kelly Stanley, a fullback at Clinton High School, but he was not admitted to the school.

He said the university had been unfairly and unjustly criticized in the articles.

"None of my staff or myself has violated any rules or regulations (morally or ethically) whatsoever," Wilson said in a prepared statement. "The articles were filled with a multitude of inaccuracies which incorrectly depicted the actual events.

Baseball roundup

Perez leads Expos past Houston

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Tony Perez belted a home run and a triple, driving home three runs, to lead the Montreal Expos to a 7-5 victory over the Houston Astros in exhibition baseball Tuesday.

It marked the final day of the spring training schedule for both clubs.

Perez homered off Houston's starter and loser, Ken Forsch, in the fourth inning and also knocked in runs with his triple, in the second inning, and a single in the fifth.

Ross Grimsley, the Expos first 20-game winner, got credit for the win. He pitched six innings and allowed all the Houston runs.

A's 3, Indians 2

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Five Oakland pitchers combined for a four-hitter as the A's beat the Cleveland Indians 3-2 in the final exhibition game for both teams Tuesday.

Cleveland, which plays at Boston in its season opener on Thursday, pulled all of its regulars off the field after the second inning so they could catch an afternoon flight to Boston.

The A's scored first in the opening inning when Miguel Dilone singled, stole second and scored on a single by Mitchell Page. They scored what proved to be the winning run in the fourth when Jeff Newman doubled, Wayne Gross tripled him in and Mickey Klutts hit a sacrifice fly to left.

White Sox 6, Braves 1

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Jorge Orta slammed a pair of doubles and Ralph Garr collected two hits to boost his average to .432 Tuesday to lead the Chicago White Sox to their sixth straight victory, a 6-1 decision over the Atlanta Braves.

Mike Proly, pressed into service when Francisco Barrios came down with a fever, surrendered only one unearned run and four hits in the four innings he worked. One of the hits was Bob Horner's first safety of the exhibition season, a triple which bounced away from Garr in left field.

Cubs 4, Dodgers 1

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — The Chicago Cubs beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1 in exhibition baseball Tuesday with the help of the arm and bat of Ken Holtzman.

Holtzman doubled in the second inning to drive in the game's first two runs and allowed the Dodgers one run in six innings.

"I'm in my best shape in 10 years," Holtzman said. "Now it's just a matter of putting the ball where I want it." The 33-year-old left-hander is scheduled to start Chicago's second game of the season Saturday.

The largest crowd in Mesa history, 5,388, saw Donnie Moore, Willie Hernandez and Bruce Sutter shut out the Dodgers the rest of the way with an inning of work each.

Kemp beaned

Detroit Tiger outfielder Steve Kemp holds his head in pain after he was hit in the helmet by Boston Red Sox pitcher Andy Hassler in the fifth inning of an exhibition game in Winter Haven, Fla., Tuesday. Boston catcher Bob Montgomery looks on as Tiger manager Les Moss runs in from the dugout (right) and the next batter, John Wockenfuss also comes over. Kemp was taken from the field on a stretcher and to a hospital where he was held overnight for observation, but it is not believed the injury is serious. (AP Photo)

Twins 5, Phillies 2

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Ken Landreaux smashed a two-run homer for Minnesota in the first inning, to launch the Twins on a 5-2 baseball exhibition victory over Philadelphia Tuesday.

The Twins followed up with three runs in the second inning, scoring on Glenn Borgmann's double, a sacrifice fly by Mike Cubbage, and Roy Smalley's triple.

Cardinals 7, Reds 6

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Former Cincinnati Red Bernie Carbo drove in two runs in the seventh inning to give St. Louis a 7-6 victory over Cincinnati in exhibition baseball Tuesday.

Ken Reitz homered off Reds' starter Mike LaCoss in the second inning, and the Cardinals scored three more times on a basehit, walk, pitcher Ken Forsch's two-run double and a single by Ken Oberkfell.

Tigers 8, Red Sox 2

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Lou Whitaker and Lance Parrish featured a 15-hit attack Tuesday as Detroit whipped the Boston Red Sox 8-2 in an exhibition season windup marred by the beaning of the Tigers' Steve Kemp.

Kemp, a left-handed slugger, apparently escaped serious injury when struck on the right side of his helmet by a fast ball thrown by southpaw Andy Hassler. He was taken by ambulance to nearby Lakeland General Hospital to be held overnight for observation.

Writer chooses his star(?) team

WASHINGTON (AP) — At the end of each sports season, an all-star team is chosen to give the outstanding players their due. There soon will be one for the National Basketball Association.

However, each year Steve Hershey, who covers the Washington Bullets for the Washington Star, names mythical teams to categories other than top scorers and top rebounders.

For instance, he not only chooses an "All-Pure Shooters Squad," this year consisting of forwards Campy Russell and Rudy Tomjanovich, guards Otis Birdsong and George Gervin and center Bob Lanier, Hershey also named an "All-Brick Shooters" of forwards Paul Silas and Gar Heard, guards Quinn Buckner and Maurice Cheeks and center George Johnson.

Herewith are some of Hershey's other teams:

All-Leapers — Forwards Darnell Hillman and Julius Erving, guards Lloyd Free and David Thompson and center George Johnson.

All Non-Leapers — Forwards Coby Dietrick and Kevin Restani, guards John Lucas and John Mengelt and center Wes Unseld.

All-Defensive — Forwards Bobby Dandridge and Bobby Jones, guards Dennis Johnson and Gus Williams and center Caldwell Jones.

All-Matador Defensive — Forwards Larry Kenon and Julius Erving, guards (pick any shooting guard) and center Tree Rollins.

All-Passers — Forwards John Johnson and Rick Barry, guards Kevin Porter and Phil Ford and center Alvan Adams.

All-Nonpassers — Forwards John Drew and Mitch Kupchak, guards Lloyd Free and John Williamson and center Bob McAdoo.

All-Whiners — Forwards Rick Barry and Tom Boswell, guards Ricky Sobers and Pete Maravich and center Wes Unseld.

All-Busts (Rookies) — Forwards Rod Griffin and Frankie Sanders, guards Mike Evans and Butch Lee and center Mike Phillips.

Cosell 'charms' group of judges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Howard Cosell played to a packed house at the Justice Department Tuesday as the guest of Attorney General Griffin B. Bell, who called the sportscaster's hour-long talk "an inspiring lecture on ethics and sports."

Cosell delivered a diatribe on what he said was "the spinning spiral of hypocrisy, contradiction and the rip-off" of taxpayers by organized sports in America.

His attack focused largely on owners, who he said shifted sports franchises to make bigger profits. But it also took in the weekly wire service ratings of college teams, the "lionization" of athletes and fan violence.

Bell, who struck up a friendship with Cosell after they met at the World Series last year, previously played host to the sportscaster at the attorney general's staff luncheons.

Bell described Cosell as "the most eminent sportscaster in the country" and said in his introduction to some 500 Justice Department employees that Cosell successfully practiced law for 12 years before getting into sports broadcasting full-time.

"He's added a new dimension to our lives if we love sports, and most of us do," said Bell.

Cosell, who broadcasts for ABC-TV, said it was "one of the greatest thrills of my life" to be a speaker in the Justice Department's Great Hall and to be introduced by the attorney general.

But he said he felt "a little bit troubled ... a little bit embarrassed" in speaking about a career in a field that some regard as "the toy department of life." Cosell said, however, that sports is intertwined with politics and economics, and his purpose was to make the public aware of the connections.

As an example, he cited the decision of Carroll Rosenbloom, who died Monday, to move the Los Angeles Rams to Anaheim, Calif., to play football next season.

Cosell said there is ample precedent for owners seeking a "land grab" and increased profits by moving sports franchises out of areas where they are doing well.

He said Los Angeles County officials couldn't go to court to seek an injunction against Rosenbloom's move because they didn't have "clean hands."

Anderson claims Reds kept him from another job

EX-MANAGER SPARKY ANDERSON
...says Reds cheated him

NEW YORK (AP) — Sparky Anderson charged Tuesday that the Cincinnati Reds deliberately delayed firing him after last season and thereby prevented him from getting another managing job for the 1979 season.

Anderson, on the baseball sidelines for the first time in 27 years, said Reds President Dick Wagner had two reason for wainting until late November to axe him.

"First of all, he didn't want to rock the Japan trip," said Anderson. "And second of all, he didn't want to give (free agent) Pete Rose a chance to use my firing as an excuse for leaving the ball club."

Anderson, showing bitterness for the first time, accused the Reds of having made their minds up to fire him when the 1978 season ended.

"But they stalled until Nov. 28," he said. "By then, every club except Oakland had its manager for the new season. If they had fired me Oct. 1, I would have had a job for this season."

Under terms of his contract, Anderson is being paid for this season but he said money isn't as important to him as managing.

Anderson and the Reds made a lengthy tour of Japan at the end of the 1978 season and the manager said that in retrospect there were clues that he was finished in Cincinnati.

"The first tipoff was the way I heard that the club had signed Tom Seaver to a five-year contract," Anderson said. "No club official told me. I got the word from a newspaperman."

Later, Anderson said, a group of club front office personnel took a veteran newsman who was celebrating 50 years with his paper, out to dinner. The writer is one of Anderson's closest friends, yet the manager was not invited.

"They're little things and at the time, they didn't mean anything to me," Sparky said. "But now, when I think back about it, they were significant."

Wagner traveled to Los Angeles to tell Anderson he was through but Sparky's account of the conversation differs from the club version.

"I thought he was coming out to sign (free agent) Lee Lacy," said Anderson. "He called me on Sunday and told me to meet him at the airport Monday morning."

The meeting came two days after Rose announced he would no longer negotiate with the Reds and that he would sign with another club instead. Rose eventually agreed to a four-year, $3.2 million contract with Philadelphia.

"That was no coincidence," said Sparky. "They didn't want Rose to have an excuse to leave. If Rose had said he was leaving two weeks later, I would have been fired two weeks later."

Anderson said he and Wagner had a routine breakfast spent in small talk. Then he went up to the club president's room and got the word.

"He said, 'Sparky, I'm not bringing you back. I'd rather not discuss the reason why because we might have words,'" Anderson recalled.

The next day, at a press conference in Cincinnati, the Reds announced the decision and said Wagner had met with Anderson for two hours and explained the club's reasons.

35/47 EPA ESTIMATED MPG / EPA ESTIMATED HIGHWAY MPG

Remember. Compare these estimates to the "estimated mpg" of other cars. You may get a different mileage, depending on how fast you drive, weather conditions and trip length. Also remember that your actual mileage will probably be less than the EPA estimated highway fuel economy. California EPA estimated mpg lower.

Convincing Triumph For Merit 100's.

—National Smoker Study

Actually taste as good as–or better than–higher tar brands, majority of smokers say.

Does the 'Enriched Flavor'™ tobacco of low tar MERIT provide taste satisfaction in a greater length cigarette as well? Recent nationwide research confirms it.

Confirmed: Majority of 100's smokers rate MERIT 100's taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar 100's tested! Cigarettes having up to 70% more tar.

Confirmed: Majority of 100's smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT 100's.

And in interviews conducted among current MERIT 100's smokers:

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT 100's smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT 100's smokers not considering other brands.

This ability to satisfy former high tar smokers over a long period of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is the first major alternative to high tar smoking.
