Report On Fliers Is Discredited

QUEBEC, June 16 (AP)—A rumor that Nungesser and Gail, missing French aviators, had been found on the St. Lawrence river, was generally discredited today.

The rumor originated in a telephone conversation to an employee of a large corporation in the district north of the Saguenay river had with his mother in Quebec City. He said to have told her the missing fliers were there alive and safe. Government officials and lumber companies, however, declared they could find no confirmation of the report.

They said the rumor probably was based on fables seen in the country northeast of Saguenay river which it was thought might have been set up by the missing aviators.

Accused Officers Offer To Pay Off

DALLAS, June 16 (AP)—Seeking to escape facing trial here on July 18 on charges of kidnaping, Fred C. Simmons and Milton T. Shafer, agents of a California bonding company, indicted for abducting C. C. Compton from Dallas, Thursday offered to plead guilty and pay a fine of $500 each.

Nothing has been heard here from the Los Angeles officers who were supposed to have left the coast city with extradition papers for Compton. Compton is accused of having jumped a bond in California.

NATIONS POSTPONE EDICT TO RUSSIA, FEARING THAT DANGER LURKS IN WARNING

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, June 16.—Fear of arousing Russia nationalistic feeling to a dangerous point has caused abandonment of the plan for a concerted warning by the European powers against further communist propaganda abroad and alleged terrorism by the soviets at home.

In reconsidering their original decision, the foreign ministers now in Geneva for the League of Nations council are said to have concluded that formal collective action of the nature contemplated might create the impression in Moscow that a united front was being formed against the soviet union.

Pleased At Having Served

In a letter to Mr. Kimbro, Mr. Newman, a retired capitalist of the Nolan county capital, expressed his pleasure at having served on the board, telling his co-workers that he regarded the position as one of great honor. The fact that Mr. Newman's personal business is making such a heavy demand upon his time was given as his only reason for resigning, which act he characterized as being a sorrow to him.

A successor to Mr. Newman has not yet been announced but it is expected to come from the Governor's office within the next few days. The new member will probably be a West Texan.

BUILDING FUND NOT AFFECTED OFFICIALS SAY

MINOR MATTERS CUT FROM FUND BY BLUE PENCIL OF MOODY

When the gubernatorial axe falls on appropriation bills for higher educational institutions in Texas for the next two years, Texas Tech's $1,648,500 total will lose but $45,000, all on minor plans, Henry T. Kimbro, member of the board of regents, said today following his return from Austin. Accompanied by President Paul W. Horn and Business Manager E. W. Provence, of the college, Mr. Kimbro conferred with Governor Dan Moody and other officials in the state capital, the conclusion of which assured the state's youngest college ample funds to expand the next biennium.

Building Program Intact

Tech's building program, which calls for an expenditure of $500,000 for new structures and equipment, remains intact, Mr. Kimbro reported. This assures the erection of a $240,000 engineering building containing $45,000 in equipment; a $20,000 practice house for home economics with $2,500 in equipment; first unit of green house, $7,500; temporary buildings for agriculture, $10,000; science building, $25,000 with $50,000 additional for equipment.

The $46,500 which will be subtracted from the total will be assessed by "cutting the corners" where they can be "cut," Mr. Kimbro pointed out. Every bit of deduction has come from minor spots in the administration's program and the Tech is very fortunate in securing such generous appropriations, Mr. Kimbro said.

"I have always felt," he went on, "that the college would never be 'over the hill' until this building program was assured. Now I am entirely optimistic over the school's future and feel that the people of Lubbock, West Texas and the entire state should fully realize and appreciate the fact that the newest institution of higher learning is today and will be from now on, not only one of the greatest in the Lone Star State but also in the entire southwest."

Mr. Kimbro and Mr. Provence left Lubbock for Austin last Friday and were later joined by President Horn. The latter remained in Dallas to transact some business while Messrs. Kimbro and Provence returned to Lubbock shortly before noon today.

Slaton is sixteen years old today.

A gala celebration, which includes music, speeches, potato races and a basket dinner, occupied the morning hours.

A feature of this afternoon's program was an offer made by the city of Slaton to any couple who would appear for a public wedding. The city has promised to make a gift of the cost of license, minister's fee, cost of ring, not to exceed $10, and a cash prize of $20 to the newlyweds. The entire program centered around the public square.

A baseball game between the "old-timers" and "new-comers" will close the day.

FLIER MAKES ROUND TRIP TO CAPITAL IN FIVE HOURS

(By Associated Press) MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., June 16.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, who flew to Washington for his Spirit of St. Louis in the eve small hours of the morning, returned with the other half of his famous "we" at 7:57, this morning (daylight time).

The round trip was made in less than five hours. He hopped off from here in a borrowed army purser suit plane and a bagged outfit at 3:02 o'clock and arriving at Bolling field, Washington, at 4:44 a. m. (daylight time), leaped from the plane to his beloved Spirit of St. Louis and took off again for New York at 5:02.

Demonstrates Ability The flight again demonstrated the amazing ability of the youthful flier to do without sleep. He had slept until noon yesterday but from then on the day was a continual whirl of luncheon receptions and theater parties for him. Today he planned to take a short nap before beginning another crowded program of activities that was to start at 10:30 a. m.

Lindbergh was attending a midnight show at the Roxy theater, given as a benefit for the dependents of the missing French fliers, Nungesser and Goll, when he apparently reached a sudden decision to get his plane which had been left behind in Washington due to engine trouble. Unknown to most of the 6,000 persons in the theater, Lindbergh, accompanied by Grover Whalen, chairman of the mayor's committee, and Captain R. R. Bythe, his personal representative, left the theater at 2 o'clock and entered their automobile.

Dodges Reporters Newspaper men who had been trailing Lindbergh since his descent upon the city, believed he was returning to his temporary apartment in Park avenue and were caught unaware when his machine unexpectedly turned an opposite direction. Lindbergh took the wheel of the car himself and soon outdistanced the reporters.

When they saw the machine heading towards the Queensborough bridge they knew he was bound for one of the flying fields on Long Island and arrived here just as he was about to take off.

Lindbergh greeted them with a broad grin. "Well," he said, "I leave you the slip that time."

He had been dressed in full evening clothes, but over this had put on a flying suit borrowed from the field commandant. He also had borrowed a helmet and goggles.

"I'll be back in time to keep all day engagement today," he called. The motor whirred, the plane started down the field and in a few minutes he was out of sight.

Plane Accompanies Him He was accompanied to Washington by Lieutenant Sinclair Street in another army plane. On his return here Lindbergh was accompanied by Lieutenant Commanders Wick and Miles of the navy.

Lindbergh has before him another extended schedule that will keep him rushing about New York city until late tonight. With a brief rest he plans to leave for St. Louis at midnight, or if that is not feasible, early tomorrow so that he may be in his home city at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

CUBS WIN ELEVENTH STRAIGHT AS BUCS RETAIN PINNACLE

(By The Associated Press) Despite John McTraw's desperate effort to check the descent by tradition, the New York Giants today were further than ever behind the three western teams which have obtained monopoly on the top shelves of the National League.

While the Giants, the only eastern club in the first division, were losing their sixth straight yesterday, the Pirates, Cubs and Cardinals, who lead the league in that order, were fattening their averages.

JOE HARRIS

With a mark eclipsing the 440 total Joe Harris, veteran Pirate outfielder, who has been shifted to first base by Manager Donie Bush, is leading the sluggers of both big leagues at the present time. Benchmarked in the early part of the season in favor of younger men and used only as a pinch-hitter Harris has clubbed his way into a regular job and is one of the big reasons for the success of the Bucs thus far.

Cubs Win Eleventh Straight

The Chicago Cubs eleven straight wins were scored at the expense of the Phillies, 12 to 5. While Cub bats pounded 18 hits off two Philly hurlers, Charley Root held the foe in hand for his eleventh personal victory of the year.

Robins Down Reds

On the stem of the dazzer, Vance, the Brooklyn Robins downed the Cincinnati Reds 2 to 1. In Rixey of the Reds Vance met a worthy foe who allowed but four hits in eight innings and held the Robins to a scoreless first inning. Vance, who is now in the lead in the league, pitched a gem, allowing only one run in eight innings and holding the Robins to a scoreless first inning.

BOBBY JONES IS FAR UNDER IN GOLF TOURNEY

COOPER TAKES LEAD AS CHAMP'S GAME GOES TO PIECES

(By The Associated Press) OAKMONT, Pa., June 16.—Bobby Jones saw his hopes of successfully defending the American open golf championship fade today on the third round when his game went to pieces temporarily, costing him a 73 and a 54 hole total of 232, eight strokes back of the leader, Harry Cooper of Los Angeles.

At 4:44 544-41-232. In his eight or ten professional stars were out-shooting Jones, while the other amateur contender, "Jimmy" Johnston of Minneapolis, also had faded from the picture, taking a wretched 87 for his third round after leading for two days with 147. Johnston's 54 hole score was 234.

With the collapse of the two day leader, Harris R. Johnston, Minneapolis amateur, in the third round, "Light Horse" Harry Cooper of Los Angeles, and formerly of Dallas, shot out into the lead with a 54 hole total of 224, two strokes ahead of Walter Hagen, for the temporary lead.

Tommy Armour, pulled into second place with a total of 225, as last players of the third round were coming in. To his first nine score of 39, he added a 27 coming home, for a 76. The card:

Armour out 545 543 445-39. In 415 254 44-37-225.

These Near Lead. Tommy Armour, with 225, Walter Hagen with 226 and Gene Sarazen with 228, a stroke better than the leading Briton, Archie Compston, completed Cooper's closest contenders as the final and deciding 18 hole round of the 72 hole title was being played in the afternoon. It was like a free for all among these "pro" aces.

Gene Sarazen slipped to an 89, giving him 228 and temporary third place while the Britisher, Archie Compston scored a 76 and was tenth, possibly fourth with 229 for the 54. Beginning his uphill battle, Bobby Jones, the defending champion, was out in 38, one over par, to pick up four strokes on Johnston, one on Hagen and two on Gene Sarazen at this stage. The Atlanta amateur star was finding little trouble and seemed to have his game well under control.

Cooper on the final round was out in 39, a stroke better than Hagen.

The card: Cooper out 446 444 335-39. Following the 54-hole scores, including 26 previously played and 18 played this morning:

TWO BATTLES IN RING SEEN BY LINDBERGH

BAKER BEATS HUDKINS AND GOLDSTEIN IS KNOCKED OUT

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, June 16.—Two fights of the kind every boxing fan dreams of but seldom see, go down in the annals of the ring as the fruit of a single evening.

In battles that were vicious in their fistie fierceness, Sergeant Sammy Baker stopped Ace Hudkins and Earl Terris knocked out Ruby Goldstein at the Polo Grounds last night. Forty thousand fans whose admission money went to help the cause of the Catholic boys' club looked on and howled and whooped. Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was at the ringside as a guest of Mayor Walker.

Technical Knockout. Whether for sweet charity's sake or whether to impress the world champion of the air, Colonel Lindbergh, every one of the four was fighting the battle of his life.

More than ever before in his ring career Ace Hudkins wanted to win that fight. He and Lindbergh had known each other in Lincoln, Neb., back when "Lindy" was learning to fly and Ace to fight. But the flying sergeant from Mitchell field, N. Y., was too much for the Ace despite his high hopes and ambitions. Lindbergh Late. The colonel, detained by the devotion of New York, his host, arrived late, flailing his foe manfully with the claw-like blows that have given him his name of "Wild Cat." Hudkins was fighting for all he was worth. Sharp shooting beat him, although it could not drop him. Blows like machine gun bullets, speeding inside of the westerner's wild swings, cut Hudkins' eye until it bled. Still he went raging, hammering in. Many felt he was leading in points when the referee stopped the fight. Hudkins pleaded to be allowed to go on, but the sight was a gory one and even the fans rebelled.

Mrs. Myriam Burns Horn, Kansas City, former western champion, was one down to Mrs. Dorothy K. Purdie of Hibbing, Minn., and Miss Virginia Pop, St. Louis, was trailing Miss Ann Webster, Leavenworth, Kansas, by one hole.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, defending champion, became Miss Turpie's opponent in the semi-finals when she easily defeated Mrs. I. S. Hynes of St. Louis 4 and 3.

George Young Is Credited With A Flock Of Titles

TORONTO, Can., June 16.—George Young has other claims to fame beside his feat of winning the $25,000 prize in the Catalina Channel swim.

He holds nine swimming records for Canadian amateurs. The Canadian Amateur Swimming Association credits the Toronto youngster with the records, which include the following events: 200 yards free style, indoor and outdoor; 500 yards, 850 yards and 1700 yards.

That is not enough, however, to suit George and he is going to enter the $50,000 marathon race on Lake Ontario in August. The distance will be 21 miles and George thinks he can beat all competitors across.

Bachelors constitute 26 per cent of the male population of England.

CROP REPORTS SHOW GENERAL RAIN LACKING

CROPS AND LIVESTOCK HOLDING UP WELL SCHULZ SAYS

(By Associated Press)
HOUSTON, Texas, June 16.—Supplementing his June 1 livestock and range report, showing considerable deterioration in the conditions of both, due to drought, H. B. Schultz, government statistician here, points to the coast section as the only portion of Texas where moisture is plentiful and grass is abundant, except in a few small areas.

The situation offset, however, by the fact that the range is understocked, owing to inability to get stockers at an acceptable price. Buyers are many but sellers are few. Mr. Schultz has found, and adds that cattle are fat but scarce in numbers. The calf crop, his reporters say, is the best in many years, not only in numbers saved, but in quality and condition as well. Here and there in this area screw worms have caused a few losses and a few cases of loin disease and tick fever have developed.

Conditions On Plains

Other sections, Mr. Schultz finds, have not been so fortunate. In the plains district moisture was badly needed until Sunday. A few localities have been without rain since October and consequently grass and row crops have not made much progress. Cattle, meanwhile, he learns, have been holding up fairly well but it has become necessary either to feed cake or old grass or ship to better pastures. Young calves are many. They have good start but are at a standstill now. Mother cows are shrinking fast. The unfavorable outlook has slowed up local trading and restocking. Late reports of good rains may, however, bring some improvement in the general situation.

Range Generally Good

The range is generally good in Central and East Texas, but more rain is needed to make good summer feed. Indeed, in some localities it is estimated that the range is already above normal. Cattle are fattening, although flies and screw worms have been bothersome. The calf crop is better than normal. In East Texas pasture is ample for more cattle but stockers prices have seemed too high for safe buying. Grass steers fed on cake are beginning to move to market with the shipments including more young stock than usual. The total movement, however, is expected to be smaller than last year.

Girls Surround Him But He's A Boy Yet

Youthful J. W. Bell is making his debut into the world amid feminine environment.

If the lad shows any aversion to the tender charms of femininity in later years he can attribute it to the fact that he understands women, should his present training continue.

Since Dr. M. C. Overton of the Lubbock sanitarium administered the experience of starting him out in the world 11 days ago, the youngster has known little of his sex having scarcely smiled into the face of man.

THE EVENT OF EVENTS: TO-MORROW OUR ANNUAL JUNE HOUR SALE

UN-HEARD-OF-PRICES ON ITEMS FROM ALL DEPARTMENTS FOR EVERY HOUR—AN ADVERTISING "STUNT" WHEN COST AND VALUE ARE ENTIRELY FORGOTTEN—PROFIT FROM THESE OFFERINGS.

Frankly this is an Advertising "stunt"—an event that we use entirely to create interest in our store. The plan calls for such ridiculously low prices on the items used that they will be the subject of comment for weeks to come. In reality this Annual Sale costs us hundreds of dollars in the loss we take between the cost price of offerings and the price at which they are sold. This loss, we charge to "advertising" just as we charge the amount we pay the newspaper for this page. It will pay you to read carefully this entire list. It will pay you to purchase every item you feel that you are likely to need even for months to come. At no other time in the year are prices so low. Note carefully the hour for each special. Positively no item will be sold before or after the hour named. We will not be prepared beyond the display in our windows, to even show you items listed for later hours until the hour arrives. Enter into the spirit of this Hour Sale. It is both profitable and interesting. Each year customers who have been served in former years are on hand and enthusiastic about the values.

THIS HAS HAPPENED LINCOLN MUNNALLY, elderly merican chemist, mysteriously imoned to the queer little ngle bordered town of PORTO ERDE, in west central Brazil, counters an old friend, VILAK, to tell him it was he who had nt for him.

Vilak's cousin, ELISE MAR- BERRY, an American girl, owns coffee plantation and other nd near Porto Verde and has oived mysterious warnings to t out of the country. Vilak is armed, because several deaths ready have occurred and the sperditions and'va think some spernatual force it at work.

The day Nunnally arrives an- ther man is killed, TONY BAR- BETTA, one of Elise Marberry's remen. He had been hit with a ub in the hands of LIMEY OTTS, another foreman. Before a disc a strange paralysis took nd of him, and Vilak confides to nunnally that he is certain Limey otts, though he may have struck the victim, was not the murderer.

That evening Vilak induces nunnally to come with him on a ait to the house of GAYLORD RENTISS, a reticent and fer- idding man, known to be an en- y of Elise.

Before going to Prentiss' place, ilak and Nunnally call on Elise arberry. Vilak refuses to let er go with them, and he and nunnally continue, at Prentiss' ce, which is fortified with r- ing sentries, they hear a rustling e bushes nearby.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER X

The old man poked Vilak put a nger warningly to his lips. His nd on his pistol, he stopped silessly into the shadow of some shes. The crackling became uder; something was coming down e path they had just descended. oment later a shadowy figure eared on the opposite bank of e creek. Nunnally, unused to eams, nervously fingered the ecker of his weapon. Vilak re- tained him silently. The figure earer. Cautiously it began e step over the slippery creek ones.

Suddenly Vilak thrust the old an's pistol into its holster. "It's lise," he said. He bounded from e hiding place. Elise recalled e arms shot out and seized her. ly Jove" he flashed with bitter stensity. "I could really be par- oned for doing something des- erate to you for this."

She tried to draw away. "Let go y hand. Your nails are digging nto it fearfully. You're hurting e."

"Why did you come? Why? Why?"

"I told you I was com— Please t go my hand."

"He released her; his voice re- ained its customary placidity. ou might have been killed. You n't know how close you were to e killed."

She touched his hand with her th fingers. "I'm sorry if I t you. You know that. I see ow that it was foolish and reck- less. But what I said at the house was true and I wasn't joking. En- ot a child. And I'm not going to permit you to risk your life for me with all those sinister things hang- ing over us while I do nothing."

His eyes turned from her face to er dress, the same gown of yellow ilk she had worn at her home. Now the edges were torn and mud- y. "You came all the way in that lousy thing?"

"If I had taken time to erange I couldn't have followed ou."

"My beautiful but foolish cousin, you may congratulate yourself that the stars are obviously in your favor."

He took off boots, gloves, rain coat and gave them to her. "Put these on. What'll I do with you now that you're here. Lord only knows, I'd send you back at once only that it would probably be as dangerous for you to go back alone as to come along with me. You'll probably be safer where I can keep my hand on you. If you know how nearly you came to being shot by Nanny you'd now be trembling a little instead of trying by your most winning smile to cajole me into forgiveness. Nanny almost took his first lesson in marksmanship with you as the target and his lessons are generally fatal."

"This bushy eyebrow contacted strangely. "Frankly, I don't forgive you. You've put me in a very bad situation. In the future, if you choose to disobey me in the slight- est particular, fond as I am of you, I'll have to leave. I say that not because of sex prejudice, custom or anything else. It's merely that your life and perhaps the lives of others are involved and I can't have everything impeded by an injudi- cious act like this. I'm speaking to you very pleasantly. But you know that my pleasant words have occasionally steel linings. Do you agree to do as I say?"

She nodded. "I agree. But with the reservation that I'm to be treat- ed as an individual and not as a decoration. Is that also part of the bargain?"

"Agreed." Vilak retraced his steps to the gate and again began pick- ing the lock. Soon it clicked open. He raised the great steel bars in his pockets. His eyes caught the silver chain about Elise's neck. "Since you're here, I might as well make you useful. Let me have that chain you're wearing. Good of you not to have beads or something of that sort that would not conduct electricity. Otherwise I would have to go to the trouble of search- ing about for a piece of wire. I want to make a connection between these two copper terminals, so that when we open the gate the current won't be broken and the alarm set off."

When she had taken the chain from her neck, he fastened one end to the gate knob and the other to the iron post supporting it, then swung open the gate until the chain was taut. "All right. You can both crawl through now. Careful. Lucky none of us are fat. Let me know in a second if either of you hear or see the dog."

When all three had entered, Vilak closed the gate once more and care- fully rechecked it. Then leading the way a short distance toward the house, he halted again in a clump of low trees. "We'll wait here," he whispered.

For ten minutes they stood motionless. Vilak silently chewing betel nut, the old man and the girl gazed at each other, a murmur, the Brazilian black snake rising in the jungle grass as it killed and began to devour what in the moon- light appeared to be a Jararaca, deadliest of Brazilian vipers.

Suddenly there arose from the bowels of the house a prolonged wail, a wail sinister, uncanny, which to the old man sounded as though it might have sprung from the throat of some unfortunate tor- tured on the medieval rack. Elise expressed an exclamation. The old man nervously removed his glove and put it on again. Vilak went on quietly chewing betel. The wail was repeated.

Then the wavering light of a candle appeared in one of the win- dows, the front door of the house opened, and Prentiss, clad in his grimy livery, appeared in the aper- ture. Stalking through the door- way, he hurried down a short path which led to a low water tower, some feet behind the house and disappeared through the small door which led into it.

Vilak signaled the others to wait, then crept silently toward the tower. He listened intently to the archeologist moving within, then took a position in the tangled un- dergrowth along the path the other must use to return to the house.

Shortly after, Prentiss reappear- ed in the doorway. In his hand he was carrying a bright glistening object, apparently some sort of glass container. Deftly Vilak toss- ed a loose vine across the path. Prentiss came striding down. Eith- er the darkness or his haste would have sufficed to prevent his seeing the vine snare. His foot caught in the twisted fiber; his body jerked violently; the glass object he was carrying shot from his hand and shattered upon the ground.

Muttering a curse, Prentiss dis- oriented his foot, looked at the broken glass, glanced about fur- tively, then returned to the tower. In a moment he came out once more carrying another similar glass container, and made his way into the house.

Vilak hurried to the scene of the other's misadventure. The liquid which had been in the container, a thick, whitish milky fluid, was rapidly sinking into the ground. He picked up a fragment of the glass and brought it to his nostrils. "Hum," he muttered, then focusing his attention on the house saw a sandle move past four windows. An instant after a prolonged, uncanny wail again echoed into the night. A choking, gurgling sound followed. Then silence.

For a few moments Vilak stood immobile, abstracted, only his hol- low jaws moving as he chewed the gummy betel. The Oriental cast of his face became more marked; his bushy eyebrows appeared those of a Tartar; a thin film like the inner eyelid possessed by birds seemed to half shroud the pupils of the brilliant eyes beneath. Then he strode to the house and knocked loudly upon the door. The sound echoed hollowly through the inter- chold windows burning before one of the windows was swiftly snuff- ed out.

A dog began to bay fiercely. The baying became a fury. Vilak wait- ed, then knocked a second time, shuffling foot steps sounded on the floor inside. The foot steps came nearer, halted.

"Who's there?" The voice was that of Prentiss, the snarling, cracked echo of a voice that once must have been deep and powerful.

"Mr. Davis, Miss Marberry's at- torney. I want to talk to you."

Vilak heard the other curse. "I don't want a thing to do with her, you hear?" or anybody that has anything to do with her. If she comes around here again, I'll fix her for good."

Vilak's face hardened. "Will you be so good as to open that door, and talk to me sensibly?" he stumped.

There was a brief silence while the man inside seemed to hesitate. Then a bolt was shot, a lock grated, the door was flung open. Prentiss stood in the aperture. He was still wearing around his neck the un- comfortable high collar the chemist had noticed in the afternoon. In his trembling withered hand he was clutching a pistol. "I'll open the door all right. I'll open it," he muttered. "So you're Miss Mar- berry's attorney, eh? Come to try to drive me off my place, maybe? Well, try it. Try it." His eyes glittered cruelly. "How the devil did you get in here without ringing my bell?"

"When you talk to me civilly I might answer you," Vilak's eyes were darting past him to the dimly lit interior.

"Then you'll wait forever, you hear me?" His voice began to shrill. "This is my property. It doesn't belong to anyone but me. You can tell Miss Marberry that. If she ever comes around here again I'll make her sorry she was born."

His body was trembling with pas- sion. "Get out now! Get out! Get out!"

Jack Lockwill's Police Dog

(Creator of Frank Merriwell)

By Gilbert Patten

A few moments later, the helpless lad saw the eyes of the animal once more gleaming from the edge of the woods, and heard it whining queerly. In another moment, still another dim form ap- peared—a human form! "Help!" appealed Jack. "I'm bogged, and I can't get out." "Just hang on a jiffy, and mebbe I kin help yer," replied a voice that Jack took to be that of a boy.

Watching, Jack saw the boy choose a tall, stout sapling, which he climbed like a monkey, bending it out over the bog-hole. "Grab hold!" cried the stranger.

When the strange boy had swung back to solid ground, Jack, clinging to the sapling, was able to drag himself free of the sucking mud, and flound- er out.

The dog came to Lockwill and sniffed at him as he lay, panting, on the ground. "Some dog!" said Jack, sitting up and caressing the animal. "I said you couldn't do anything for me, but I guess you brought help, after all." "Sure he did," confirmed the un- known boy. "I knew by his actions when he come to me that he'd found somethin', so I follered him." "Some dog!" repeated Jack.

A Good Example, My Boy!

WASHINGTON LETTER

ALASKA HAS AMBITION TO JOIN U. S. AS 49TH STATE IN UNION

By ROONEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The Territory of Alaska would like to become the forty-ninth state and she will apply for statehood when her population becomes large enough to warrant such action.

Alaska's problem is that her population is not increasing. Dan Sutherland, territorial delegate elected to represent Alaskans here in Washington, is responsible for the statement that this apparent stagnation of territorial growth is due primarily to the unfair, unjust and un-American administration of our fisheries by the Department of Commerce.

Sutherland is hostile to Hoover policies of Alaskan fisheries as "the blight on Alaska," in a bitter address to the last House of Representatives.

Everything Hoover does in Alaska, Sutherland charges, favors the great cunning interests at the expense of the small, independent fisherman.

Fishing Biggest Industry The result, he says, is that the commercial secretary has virtually wrecked the independent industry on which some 10,000 of the 57,000 Alaskans depend for livelihood.

Hoover originally tried to parcel out the fishing grounds to the cannery after the president had assumed the right to set aside exclusive fisheries. Sutherland says, "But Congress passed a law in 1924 which while it gave Hoover power to regulate the fisheries, forbade him to grant exclusive rights to any particular interest."

In spite of this, Hoover and his subordinates have upheld and maintained in part the monopoly which was their original objective.

"While the cannery proprietors and stockholders spent the winter in the states rejoicing in their prosperity, many of the Alaskan residents were in poverty and distress as a result of Hoover's policy in regulating the salmon fishery solely for the benefit of the Chicago, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle investors, and in discrimination against Alaska residents."

Sutherland says that Alaskan fishermen have been impoverished in the face of a $50,000,000 catch for 1926, the second greatest salmon year Alaska has ever known. Some Alaskans, he says, have even been driven into British Columbia waters to find fair conditions under Canadian regulations.

Want Elected Governor Such an attack as this upon Hoover is almost unheard of in Washington, but Sutherland will continue to fight for his fishermen back home. If the world's fisheries, such as the Scandinavians, can be persuaded to come to Alaska and settle with promise of a fair chance, Sutherland believes Alaska will grow until she reaches the proportions of a state.

Meanwhile, Alaska would like to elect her own governor instead of being governed by a presidential appointee. Sutherland introduced a bill in the last Congress providing such election and expects to reintroduce it in the next Congress.

With a further measure of autonomy, he feels, Alaska would be able to take care of her fisheries and protect them from the ruthless inroads of the big canneries.

Many Alaskans, including Sutherland, on this issue, were peeved because this government, kept by judges and a district attorney in office long after the senate had refused to confirm their nominations on grounds of unfitness. The district attorney and one judge have finally been pushed overboard, but the other judge remains on the bench. Given a little more self-government, Alaska would be able to elect her own public officials instead of having to depend on Washington to hire and fire them at its leisure.

Legionnaires of an Illinois city gave Vice President Dawes a fifty-five-cent tip. Maybe the Senate would pay some attention to that.

What this country needs is a radio announcer who hasn't a Mark Twain complex.

WURZBACH BILL DIES ON CARD

Measure Designed To Halt Creager-Nolte Faction In State Elections.

AUSTIN, June 16 (AP)—The Wurzbach faction's bill designed to amend the constitution of the Creager-Nolte faction of the Republican party in Texas by revising the method of primary elections, was one of the casualties of the special session of the legislature, recently adjourned.

Although the measure was reported favorably by both the Senate and House committee, it was caught in the jam of the last few days, and died on the calendar with more than 100 bills.

Wurzbach Backs Bill Congressman Harry M. Wurzbach, who disagreed with Eugene Nolte, Seguin, chairman of the state Republican executive committee, and R. B. Creager, Brownsville, Republican National committeeman, over distribution of federal patronage in Texas, appeared before the committee in advocacy of the bill.

One of the main changes it sought was to make the basis for county representation in state and district conventions one delegate for each 25 votes, or if less than 25 were cast, one-fifth of a vote for each five votes or major fraction.

Another proposed change would have provided that vacancies in the county executive committee of county chairmanship should be filled by county conventions called by five per cent of the voters of the party.

The two innovations were designed to prevent appointments by the Creager-Nolte controlled state executive committee.

Would Break Rule Leonard Withington, secretary of the committee, told the legislature committees here, however, that the delegate basis plan would deprive a least 75 out of 254 counties of a full delegate, and some of them all delegates, thus breaking the universal rule that all counties shall have at least one delegate.

Regarding the county chairman question, Withington declared that 127 counties elected chairman in the primaries last year and that 18 or 12 others were elected in precinct conventions in counties not holding primaries.

"We never appoint county chairman except where the local party-men persistently refuse to organize," he said.

The world's largest man in recent years was Miles Darden, who lived in South Carolina from 1789 to 1857. He was 7 feet 6 inches tall and weighed nearly 1000 pounds.

Germany leads the world in commercial aviation. The records of one German company shows more business than those of all the companies of France, which ranks second.

When the man brains work the great city seems like a shell of concrete and steel from which all life has suddenly vanished, as though some plague had driven out the dwellers. A light fog swings like a limp dancer's veil from the skyscrapers, planning all-night restaurants are lighted and tugs and lighters begin to glide through the glass-like river. A few gulls haunt the spectral wharves and Brooklyn seems like a stage drop of varied silhouettes.

THE old man comes at an hour when the fog still carries the tang of sea and kelp. Ten hours later even the water begins to smell of the city; now it has a salty fragrance.

He amides across the cobblestones, looks about him—above, below and all around—and slowly uncovers the shabby red news stand. Then he makes the city's first gesture; it is a simple ceremonial.

He takes from his pocket a crust of bread, saved from the evening meal, and breaking it into fine crumbs begins to sprinkle it in a circle about his news stand.

Gulls and pigeons, seeming to have had previous acquaintance with this signal, already are wheeling about and suddenly desert the city's air, a swoop and an outburst of chattering.

In a moment the man is surrounded. The bird parade circles about him. With a grand gesture he swings a last handful and, quite mechanically, begins to pile up his stacks of paper.

AT this moment—a strange thing happens. As though timed to the second, a ferry clangs into the slip and out come a couple of milk wagons, some vegetable hawkers and a dozen street-vending workers. The chimes sound five o'clock. Bums amble out of nowhere, cross the cobblestones and settle down on a battery bench. A stray taxi driver emerges from an all-night coffee house, stretches and begins to holt in his taxi seat.

Thereafter it is as the drive of a steamer engine—slowly gaining momentum until the great city is under way, its streets teeming with traffic, its buildings overrun with the streams of coming down and its crash and rattle and boom upon the silence of a few hours back.

Every morning, they tell me, it is so. The old man with his stand and his birds. His final gesture—the first ferry—and another day.

Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine, so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

CHURCH HEADS RAP PRESENT DAY METHODS

LIBERALISM AND SEX FREEDOM ARE MAIN TOPICS TALKED

(By Associated Press) SAN FRANCISCO, June 16.—Sex freedom and liberalism continued the leading topics for informal discussion among delegates to the national congress of the Protestant Episcopal church here today as they weighed the words of two church leaders who had sharply attacked the existing order of religion and morality.

While the delegates last night listened in polite silence as Rev. William Norman Guthrie, rector of St. Mark's in the Bouverie, New York, shouted, "The New Testament is a book written by a lot of chumps who were thick in the head," the younger generation was paying attention to Rev. Henry Lewis, Ann Arbor rector.

Unmarried unions Rev. Mr. Lewis who had created a stir by suggesting the church might profit by adopting a more tolerant attitude toward "unmarried unions" supplemented his address by declaring the "companionate marriage" idea of Judge Ben B. Lindsey offered a basis for a possible evolution of "promiscuity and other evils."

Proximity among college girls is increasing, said Rev. Mr. Lewis. "During my five years at Ann Arbor I have dealt with several thousand young college men and women. Their problems are moral ones, and while their aims are all right, they are badly confused."

"Is there any reason why the church should not recognize the problems of sex? Sex is a beautiful part of life. There is nothing nasty about it."

Missionaries Raped Denominationalism, foreign missionaries and other things orthodox were given some vigorous treatment by Rev. Mr. Guthrie.

"Protestantism," he said, "is as dead as the Dodo. It has to point itself red to look interesting. Christianity has lost precious things—things Greek, Egyptian and Roman. We must recover our connections with the primitive. Christianity must recover Jesus."

"You can't shoot Christianity into the people of the orient either with bullets or dogmas."

"I don't believe in foreign missions. I don't expect you to agree with me. I don't want people to agree with me."

Christians Said Unchristian "We Christians are about as un-Christian as any people on earth. If we realized how un-Christian we are, we would be profoundly humble. You may ask if I believe in Christianity. That depends upon what you mean by Christianity."

If you mean the reincarnation of the historical Christ, the man-God, my answer is yes. But if you mean the scholasticism of the year 250 A. D. or the formalism of the Nicene creed, my answer is no. God never intended anything like that.

Doomed Dog Saves Life Of Master

ROCKFORD, Ill. June 16 (AP)—A small dog, which he was to kill in a few minutes as an egg stealer, probably saved the life of William P. Pierce, sixty, a farmer residing near Oregon, Ill., when he was attacked by a bull yesterday.

The bull had Pierce on the ground when the dog came to the rescue worrying the animal until he turned his attention from the man to his tormentor. Pierce was dragged to safety by neighbors. Physicians believed he might live.

LABOR SUPPLY IS PLENTIFUL IN TEXAS, REPORT

UNUSUAL CONDITIONS SAID RESPONSIBLE FOR SITUATION

By Associated Press. FOR TWORTH, June 16.—As a result of a number of unusual conditions which have brought about abnormal employment situation, Texas will need no outside labor to assist in harvesting its wheat crop this year.

In conjunction with other bureaus of the Department of Labor, Woodman's office is sending out notices warning the transient laborers who usually pour into the state at this time that they have received notice of changed conditions and can be assigned to points needing laborers.

Wheat Crop Short. The drought through the wheat belt, which reports indicate has reached alarming proportions, is the principal cause of the slight demand for harvest hands according to Woodman, who cited a letter from A. F. Buckley, Stinson, which declared that "there are very short" in Hansford, Hutchinson, Ochiltree, counties and that "what wheat will be harvested can be taken care of by local men and trucks."

Earlier in the season, the Stinson chamber of commerce had requested that 1,000 men and 300 trucks be sent into the territory to work harvest fields. The Mississippi Valley, Texas likewise have had an adverse effect on normal labor conditions causing hundreds of refugees to come to Texas and also the regular employment channels. Woodman said, pointing out that probably 200 persons who said they were from the Stinson area had been secured through his office and that doubtless others likewise applied for employment in other Texas counties.

Many Combines Used. In a harvest bulletin sent out by the central office of the farm labor division, Department of Labor, Kansas City, growing use of the combine was stressed as causing smaller demand than usual for harvest hands. Finally building depressions in a number of cities have sent a large number of men to the farms to do jobs ordinarily reserved for new transients. Woodman believes. The situation will not be clarified until cotton week picks up, in Woodman's opinion.

Thirty Day War On Mosquitoes Opened Throughout State

AUSTIN, June 16 (AP)—A 30 day war on the mosquito has been declared by the state department of health.

During June, the department will disseminate information on the most approved methods of mosquito control and seek co-operation of smaller towns in eradication programs. Most of the larger cities are fighting mosquitoes through their local health departments.

"The mosquito is not only a peace disturbing pest," Dr. J. J. Anderson, state health officer, said, "but it is a costly insect requiring expenditure of several million dollars each year by citizens of the state."

75,000 Cases of Malaria. "Health department figures show that there were approximately 75,000 cases of malaria in Texas last year, and 142 deaths from the disease."

"The minimum financial loss of such cases is estimated at $25, which is a very low estimate. Sanitary science made possible the construction of the Panama Canal by elimination of the malarial menace, and malaria can be banished also from every section of the state. This is not accomplished by killing mosquitoes outright, but in the elimination of their breeding places."

"Every town should have a budget set aside for mosquito control work as money thus spent is a profitable investment. Any town desiring to start such work will be given assistance by the state health department."

WOMAN LAUDS LEGISLATURE

Pleased At Appropriation Of Committee For Pro Law Enforcement

(By The Associated Press). AUSTIN, June 16.—Gratitude for all-advance of liquor prescription permit fees for prohibition enforcement stock, by the legislature conference committee on the $11,000,000 departmental appropriation bill is expressed here by Mrs. Claude De Van Watts, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. The fees will amount to about $13,000 a year in the comptroller's department. Under provision of the bill or finally passed and ratified in conference by both Houses, the entire sum of fees will be used for investigations and testimony concerning liquor prescription permit violations in the state. Limited To $5,000. Although the senate allowed all the fees, the House, in its original bill limited to $5,000 a year the sum that might be used in enforcement work.

During an all day House argument Representative P. L. Anderson charged that the W. C. T. U. was trying to "organize a smelling bureau." Debate was on an amendment to the departmental appropriation bill, seeking to give all fees to an enforcement bureau. The House finally allowed $5,000 a year. The Senate, which had allowed the entire fees, won the free conference fight.

Said Forward Step. Mrs. De Van Watts said "we feel that this appropriation means a great forward step has been taken for enforcement of the prohibition law." "W. C. T. U. has constantly agitated the question of better provision for the investigation of whiskey permits issued for medical purposes. For the last seven years there has been a steady and rapid increase in the number of permits issued. In an investigation by the W. C. T. U. we have discovered that drug stores often canvassed the doctors to ask them to grant permits for medicinal liquor and sent their
